

Lain Reviews Early At Della Plain Reminiscent Account

Lain, whose 74 years residence Floyd County dates back when the prairies were still dotted with buffalo herds, had an urge to write recently. The result is a historical events, personal attitudes and opinions. It is no doubt, by the annual pioneers reunion in May, and the realization that the flight of time may destroy some of the things he vividly recalls. It is with little editing.

By J. T. McLain

McLain, a promoter of the town of Seymour in Baylor Co., visited us and his description of that part of the country, and my parents desire to go further west, put us in that same covered wagon for Seymour.

Then my father worked at anything that would bring in a dollar and tried to farm also. An other daughter was born to them. Our story of three years here included those noted dry years of 1886 and 1887.

Our uncle became interested in starting a town on the plains in Floyd County. T. J. Braidfoot, also of Seymour, came out here with a little bunch of cattle and while looking around, decided to file on what was supposed to be the center section for starting a town. He expected it to finally be the county seat.

Named Town Della Plain
He soon saw he was not financially able really to promote a town so he sold out to J. R. McLain and Dr. Wilson, also of Seymour, who had been our family doctor. Braidfoot reserved six blocks of the town-to-be. My father with desire to go further west, and disgusted with the Seymour country, came up here in the summer of 1887 and was so well pleased that he filed on a section almost joining the town section on the north. This town at that time did not even have a name.

Our uncle took the Della part of my oldest sister, then about 14 years old, so it came out Della Plain.

Near the last of October, 1887, we put those same white mules to the same covered wagon and on for the plains we were bound. Landed in the county November 1. This part of the country had not suffered from drought as had further east.

The settlers at Estacado had fared pretty well and some good hay had been mowed and raked from a lake near our claim. My brother bought this to have some feed for the team. The only improvements at or near Della Plain was a well and windmill and a store building probably 20 by 30 feet. Looked big to me.

It had about 10 foot walls of boxing planks. No strips. No floor. Not quite all covered as they ran out of shingles. Waiting for more material to come from Wichita Falls on ox wagons.

Delighted With the Country
My parents had hired a man by the name of House to haul a load up here. My mother was delighted with this plains country from the very first and never did change her mind about this. She never did like Seymour even before those dry years. You can see pretty well why I am here. My parents did not know what to do with me except to bring me a long, and no one has taken me away.

Please don't be too hard on me for staying here all these years. Really I did not know where to go to better myself even if I had been able to get away.

While in that shell of a house it came a bad November snow storm. R. E. L. (Lee) McLain son of J. R. McLain and his wife and a little boy were the only ones near, so both families camped together in the middle of where the floor was supposed to be in order to keep from freezing. Not

BUBBLE, SPARKLE, FIZZ

Need Many a Bottle To Quench Thirst Of Floyd County People

NEW YORK — The bubble, in different areas very greatly sparkle and fizz business is a big in the soda pop habit. Annual one in Floyd County.

Figures on soft drink consumption in the county reveal that the average person drinks such beverages at the rate of 235 bottles per year.

As for the local population as drinks constitute about 40 percent of the diet, with ginger ale, orange, lemon and other flavors dividing the remainder. In comparison with 2,619,000 in 1957, when similar data was released, the South, on the other hand, 60 percent are cola drinks.

An idea of the importance of the soft drink business in Floyd County is revealed by the dollar figures. They show that local residents spent $233,000 for bottled beverages last year, exceeding the West South Central States, 10.4 percent.

The data was derived from figures released by the Department of Commerce and from industry reports showing the relative use of soda pop in the nation, state by state.

It is of particular interest at this time because of the recent Government action ordering labeling of containers so as to indicate their ingredients.

The reports show that people under the new regulation, a two-day youth camp on the grounds, opening Wednesday morning. Rev. Maple Avery has conducted the worship services twice daily. He will preach this morning at 11 o'clock and again tonight at the rally.

Child, Caught In Shredder Fatally Hurt

A little five year old girl fell beneath the cutters of a stalk shredder pulled by a tractor Friday morning and died some five hours later in Methodist Hospital.

The youngster was Robin Hendrix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hendrix, who reside in the McCoy Community on the old H. L. Hartsell place.

Members of the family related that the shredder was attached to the tractor, and the mother was attempting to cut stalks near the family home. She was caring for the three children while her husband was in an adjoining field plowing. A four year old son, Joel, was playing nearby and Mrs. Hendrix let a son, Steve, age nine, and Robin, ride to the other end of the field where they were planning to play with some baby rabbits the mother had seen.

Both children were on the tractor with Robin sitting on the fender. She lost her balance and fell under the shredder. The mother placed the child in a nearby pickup and drove to where Mr. Hendrix was plowing. The family rushed their daughter 14 miles to Peoples Hospital. She was immediately transferred to Methodist Hospital by Harmon ambulance where she died at 3:38 p. m.

The rotary - type shredder caught both legs and a portion of the child's side before the tractor could be stopped.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix have been making their home in the McCoy Community for about a year. They were members of the First Baptist Church in Floydada where the victim was a member of the Beginners Sunday School Class. Robin was in the process of achieving a one-year pin, having not missed a single Sunday in class attendance.

Funeral rites for Robin were conducted Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist Church in Lubbock. Officiating were the pastor, Rev. J. Ralph Grant, Rev. Ed B. Bowles, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Floydada, and Rev. J. T. Boling, assistant Lubbock pastor.

Interment was in Resthaven Memorial Park at Lubbock under the direction of Franklin-Bartlett Funeral Home.

Survivors in addition to the parents are two brothers and grandsons, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hendrix and Mrs. Margaret McCarroll all of Lubbock, and a great grandmother, Mrs. E. J. Jones of Amherst.

Young Cotton Shows Growth During Week

Late cotton finally is off to a good growing start, report cotton growers this week.

Lashed by rain, hail and electric winds many crops still looked bedraggled 10 days ago, but cultivation and more warmth at night began to bring it out a week ago.

Early cotton, probably a fourth of the county's crop, has been booming and many fields had blooms on July Fourth.

Rain in the period beginning July 1 Friday has varied largely over the county. At Floydada two gentle showers were just right for cotton showers, and delayed other farm work little. The rainfall toward Cedar and under the hill was lighter, according to a hurried survey.

At Muncy and northward covering the Lockney area the rainfall varied from an inch and a half to two inches. No hail or heavy winds reported.

Onion Production Light

With enough exceptions to prove the rule, onion yields are light due to continued rains and hail during the growing season, but uniformity is good. There will be few jumbos marketed from the county. In addition to the reduced production acreage in the county and area is less than a year ago by several hundred acres.

Apparently the market was holding over the holiday.

The onion sheds were reasonably busy the first of the week and will be in full production this weekend, it is indicated.

FM 54 Paving Job Begins This Week

Work Includes 4 Miles From Allmon North

Preparations to begin a $385,000 road job that will include 4,000 miles of new pavement in southwest Floyd County and 11,576 miles of reconstruction in Hale County, were being made this week by Boswell & Crafton, Inc., of Lubbock, who were awarded the work by the State Highway Commission in Austin last month. The work will include:

A connecting link between FM 34 at Allmon and FM 784 at Harmony, new construction to fill a gap for north and south travel through the west side of the county.

Allmon-Harmony Connection

Two and a half miles of reconstruction from Petersburg to east of the Floyd County line, in which the road will be widened to a 36-foot crown.

And 9.576 miles from the intersection of FM 54, and FM 400 west of Petersburg, which also will be a reconstruction job, widening the road to 36 feet to a point north of Abernathy at Tucco.

Boswell & Crafton were present at a pre-construction meeting here Monday morning at which Resident Engineer Sam A. Fowler presided. Judge J. D. McBrien and District Construction Engineer F. C. Stanley also were among those present. The partners in the corporation indicated their intention of getting road blocks ready to install and also to begin paving dirt this week on the four miles in Floyd County.

While the total outlay on the job will be an estimated $385,000, Boswell & Crafton have a contract for $349,914.72 of this amount. The remainder of the cost is in work at railroad crossings, engineering, and other miscellany.

The meeting Monday was designed to promote closer cooperation between contractors, law enforcement agencies, highway department engineering personnel in traffic safety measures, secure better driver compliance with state laws, and safer driving practices through the limits of the construction area.

Sam A. Spence will be chief inspection engineer out of the resident engineer's office. Mr. Fowler indicated.

(The fact that the new roadway will have a 36-foot crown instead of a 40-foot crown is taken to indicate the concern over the growing financial demand on funds available to the State Highway Department. The difference of four feet in the width of the roadway is expected to be barely noticeable to travelers.)

(The widening program on FM 54 is taken to indicate the need to meet demands of increasing traffic on the route from West Texas to the play grounds of New Mexico. It presages probability of widening the road eastward from the Hale County line east of Petersburg to Highway 207 south of Floydada.)

Mr. Fowler said that caliche from the W. F. Daniel deposit on Blanco Canyon will be used on all of the construction work. It was indicated a crusher would begin soon to stock-pile caliche for the job.

Insurance Rate Increase of 15 Per Cent Posted on Automobiles

A boost in the automobile insurance rates in Texas, as ordered Monday by the State Insurance Board, will average out about 15 per cent. The increase is an eventuality for which the public had been conditioned by prior authoritative announcements. It is effective Aug. 1.

The three-man board held a hearing on June 22 before arriving at a decision on the level at which rates would be pegged.

The increase is the first since 1952. The new rates on private passenger automobiles amounted to an average increase of 8.7 per cent on comprehensive insurance, 10.6 per cent for collision and 23.6 per cent for public liability including bodily injury and property damage. To the individual driver, this will mean an increase of up to $37 a year for a class 1A automobile. This class includes cars, trucks, and vans.

The department followed recommendations from its staff and from representatives of the insurance industry. No change was made in the Texas safe driving insurance plan which allows 20 per cent discount for accident and violation free drivers.

GIANT SIZE PINT

In the past 10 days our government's busybodies have been making the head lines with pointed criticisms of the manner in which the food processors and advertising men package and promote their wares. The food people have learned to glamorize beans, peas and carrots, wheat and oats, soup and chili. The people love it. Housewives lap up the glamor. They take to the new packages, the new processes, the slogans and all.

Accordingly we doubt seriously that the critics are going to get very far with their attacks. We think, in fact, they are going to get laughed at. We think the food buyers will do a much better job of policing the food business than anybody.

LET A FEW THOUSANDS GO!

What we think, in fact, is that the federal payroll could be relieved of a few thousand $12,000 savants to the good of all concerned. One must admit that it is good for any profession or industry to be held up to the public scrutiny, and we would not set ourselves up as an all-out defender of the food distributors.

They must have some bad practices that have grown up in their business, the same as with the rest of us. But we got nothing but amusement out of the sizzling complaints that were vouchsafed in the public hearings. We had by far rather buy a king size quart or a giant number 303 can of spinach, than just a plain one. Novelists and scientists and economists play on words. They try hard to glamorize their works. Why not a food peddler do the same? One thing about him. He helps make the wheels go round. That's more than you can say for the critics.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT NOW

To pursue the matter further, we'd like for the record of these hearings to have indicated how many of the male experts were wearing shoes to make them look tall or toupees to cover their bald spots, or corsets to pull in the big paunch, or padding in their coat shoulders.

In the case of the female experts, how many, we wonder, got a glamorous new permanent before they went on the stand, plucked their frowzy eye brows, and wore the right kind of cups to give their bosom a buoyant uplift?

Because one tries to package his package to the best advantage doesn't mean there is anything wrong with him—or her. Nor with the groceryman.

BETTER EATING, LESS COST

Contrary to the opinion of the grocer's detractors, food prices are up less than the Consumer Price Index. Consumers spend less of their income for food than they did 12 years ago. They get more variety with much less work to do.

American people today can buy a huge variety of healthful foods at relatively low cost in terms of total income. They can use the difference to buy better housing, better education, and the many other things that add to their feeling of well-being.

And all of this while most of the people throughout the world today are still struggling merely to earn enough food to avoid hunger or even starvation.

HE CHIDES THE IMAGE WORSHIPPERS

We were delighted last week to read a brief interview by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas. The senator is a member of the senate's Foreign Relations Committee. He is in the know on most of the things that go on. The Senator is a smart booger. He is the type of a man the nation has needed for president since the end of the Roosevelt second term. The senator was discussing the money we have spent in all parts of the globe, trying to make people over.

Americans have worked on the theory, he pointed out, that the populations of the world need to be made over into the ways of an American. He rubbed it in ever so neatly that the peoples of the world might not exactly fancy being made over. They had as soon, even prefer, to be just themselves.

NONE OTHER SO BLIND

The senator pricked there the vanity of a wide segment of the people on the American scene—we'd say roughly 80 per cent of those who live in an area bounded on the northeast by approximately Massachusetts, on the West by Illinois and on the south by the Ohio River.

Well pleased with themselves they assume that all peoples should be like them, in fact should desire to be like them. They expend much time and money trying to make others be like them. They are bewildered at times by their failures.

The senator should not expect them to understand his gentle chiding. In love with the image they have of themselves they have a blind spot for any other.

FREEDOM RIDERS WERE PAID

We have thought it would be an interesting sidelight on the activities of the Freedom Riders and worth the time of an enterprising reporter to find out how they were recruited and coached and how much they were paid to ride into a strange state to buck the local laws and customs.

We still think it would be interesting to know. Perhaps after a time such a story will appear. It ought to make interesting reading.

THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN

Published by the Hesperian Publishing Co., Inc., at 212 South Main St., Floydada, Texas
HOMER STEEN, Editor
THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1961
Established 1896 by Claude V. Hall. Entered as second class mail at the post office at Floydada, Texas, April 10, 1907 under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

For years and years the natural gas people who have been funneling fuel out of Texas, escaping taxes which the people who operate in the state have to pay, have been able to flim flam enough of the state legislators to get gimmicks in the successive laws that are passed to make the laws unconstitutional and the tax uncollectible. They repeated in the 56th legislature. The 57th has been so convinced that a constitutional law cannot be passed they did not even attempt it. So, that 53 per cent of the natural gas produced in the state moves into interstate commerce without paying its part of the tax bill. It is a "steal" the magnitude of which is enormous. Meanwhile the legislature piously wrestles with the problem of a sales tax to raise money to meet the state's obligations. And either (1) curses the governor outright, or (2) dums him with faint praise.

Especially watch for the Internal Revenue Service to take in after those they suspect may be escaping a Social Security tax. A recent "release"—government people always "release", they don't give you a news story—says there is a growing practice among employers to say their employees are contractors or sub-contractors. When the "contractor" doesn't file a self-employment return the assumption is that the man who hired him is guilty of failure to report. Two things to remember: Social Security taxes are not optional. They must be paid; also, have an understanding with the man you hire whether he is self-employed or is going to report you as an employer in January. In case of the latter withhold the Social Security tax when he is through working for you or make your plans to pay both yours and his at tax-paying time.

Quantrill's Guerillas, or Quantrill's men, as they called themselves or Quantrill's Gang as they were termed by their enemies, had many places to hide out in Texas. Mostly hailed as heroes in these communities, one runs across any number of places which are credited with being their rendezvous at various times. They rested, bound their wounds, then set out again to pillage. In those days it was a matter of whose side you were on. Enemies were enemies to the hilt, and guerilla warfare was just another form of warfare.

Volumes and volumes have been written, in praise or denouncement of Quantrill and his men. All the volumes recount what are alleged to be historical fact. On top of these now comes an organization which wishes to reach descendants of the Guerillas and others interested. All the descendants we know of any of Quantrill's Men are content to nurse their memories in private, to let the dead past bury its own dead. To let the hate and heated memories gather dust in the dusty leaves of lore.

Tax Enforcement. A sign of the times is contained in the news that Internal Revenue Service is training scores of new men to help collect taxes. Two hundred new ones will have places in Texas Internal Revenue Service offices alone. It is estimated this added manpower will result in vastly increased collections. IRS thinks many are escaping taxes they justly owe.

Wake Up, Adults!

(Guest Editorial
By Nancy Watson)

Americans are often quick to criticize the actions of their youth. However, this July 4th the youth began to look about them. Only a few flags were being displayed, so few in number that it was astonishing.

Our flag has long been the symbol of freedom and the rights which we as Americans under these rights enjoy. To see a flag displayed shows that a person is proud of these freedoms. By displaying his flag he has demonstrated his patriotism and loyalty to his country.

In this day and age, patriotism and Americanism seem to have slipped through our grasp. While other countries fight to gain and keep their freedom, Americans are taking it for granted and letting their greatest gift slip by them.

Instead of flying "Old Glory" on the Fourth of July, people are content to sit by and let the high officials fly the flag in Washington.

I have often wondered if people are ashamed to admit that they are Americans. To them the idea of displaying the flag is old-fashioned. Those who do display the stars and stripes are called "those crazy flag wavers." Those crazy flag wavers are the backbone of our nation. They are the people who are willing to stand up against those who would deprive us of our precious liberty. They are not ashamed to admit to God, to others, and to themselves that they are willing to die to secure the gift of our God-given freedoms.

When a nation faces such a dire crisis, we should be proud to display this symbol of our freedoms. Yet, very few of Floydada's citizens took the time to show their loyalty to America. Are you ashamed to admit your loyalty and to say that you are an American? Are you content to let others stand up against Communism and hope that because you didn't display your flag the Reds will not harm you? I think there are many people in Floydada who are ashamed to fly their flag.

Many people did not even bother to buy a flag. As a matter of fact, in looking at the homes and business establishments of our civic leaders and office holders one must be greatly astonished and disappointed. In taking the oath of office, isn't the civic leader and office holder required to state that he will protect his country and his office? Doesn't this oath also state that he will be loyal to his country and to his obligations? Doesn't his obligation to his country and office also include displaying his flag?

Do We Deserve Them?

As Americans we were given civil rights and liberties, but our antipathy has grown so strong that perhaps we don't even deserve them. We live in the greatest country on this earth but yet on our country's birthday, we are ashamed to display the one symbol which we use to set America above all other countries.

It is hard to realize that the adults of our community have first of the week Mr. and Mrs. Horace Duke, of Lamesa, Mrs. Duke and Mrs. Morris are sisters. Mrs. Cecil Berry visited Friday with Mrs. Donnie Berry and children. The ladies went plum hunting. Margaret says they found more chiggers than plums.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Thornhill and Tommy were Monday night visitors last week in the L. R. Rainbolt home.

forgot so soon those men who fought for the birth of a new and free nation and of the two world wars in which we fought so hard to secure our freedoms for ourselves and others.

In this thriving community of over three thousand only twenty-six flags were displayed. Of these only three or four were displayed in the yards of American private citizens. Even our schools had forgotten until late in the morning that the flag should be flown from the top of the flag poles in honor of our great nation's birthday.

Many adults had the audacity to laugh at the Boy Scouts who were attempting to sell them flags. Many of our parents and adults were even rude to them for trying to do their duty for their nation. Is this the correct example to be set for the youth who will lead our nation of tomorrow?

Has our patriotism really sunk to this low ebb? I sincerely hope and pray not. Yet if what happened this past July 4th is an example of what we as Americans feel, then our nation is doomed. Adults, don't wait for your children to fly the flag; fly it with them.

Nothing but flags—but simply flags.

Tattered and torn and hanging in rags.

Some walk by them with careless tread.

Nor think of the hosts of patriot dead.

That have marched beneath their flags in days gone by.

With a burning cheek and a kindling eye.

And have bothered their folds with their life's young tide.

And, dying, blessed them, and, blessing died.

The other morning, when we turned on the garbage disposal it set up a terrific clatter. Although we've shared the same house for several months, we're still friendly enemies. It disdains our old-fashioned way of dropping things secretly into the garbage can, while we suspect its bark is more efficient than its bite. But this morning there was no doubt who had the upper hand.

Excited, we turned off the cold water. The noise increased. We remembered that was wrong, so we turned the water back on and flipped the electric switch. The noise ceased and we snatched from its jaws the mangled soup spoon it had set out to devour.

The night before, the weather had put on a similar show. We were driving to a neighboring town in the face of ghastly lightning and black clouds, that alternately showed green and brown undertones. We tried to ignore the approaching storm—until it hit. Luckily, our car kept running, and the windshield wiper kept moving; but for a few frightening minutes we were at the mercy of the wind, sand, rain and hail. Nor was there a switch to turn off and get things under control.

Strange, isn't it, that the farther we get from primitive living, the less able we are to cope with natural elements. While everything else seems gradually to have submitted to mechanical control, weather has defied the push-button age. It seems to grow more turbulent, less predictable. No matter how hard weather specialists and news analysts try to diagram it, it keeps right on wreaking havoc when it is of that mind.

An occasional bout with the elements may be good. It reminds us that as long as there are human beings in the world, automation can't hold the answer to all things.

Famed Minister to Preach For Floydada Audiences

Dr. R. G. Lee, three times of the Pulpit. Although the president of the Southern Baptist Convention, pastor emeritus of many churches, he is the largest of any church east of the Mississippi River, and a preacher of the sermon, "Pay Day — Some Day" — will spend six days in Floydada beginning Sunday and preach at the First Baptist Church.

Hailing Dr. Lee's coming to the church, Rev. Ed B. Bowles, pastor, said that calls are coming from a wide area asking for the minister. No seats will be reserved, the pastor said, first come, first served.

Dr. Lee held the pastorate at the Bellevue Baptist church in Memphis, Tenn., for 26 years. A native of South Carolina, he was ordained to preach in 1910. Now past 70 he is a vigorous and active minister. In his church he is referred to as "the Prince of Preaching."

Tom McLain Tells Early Day Events

(Continued from page one) to keep warm. Sure we took the smoke, Indian style. A Comfortable Dugout. My father kept busy all the time possible in preparation for a place for us to live. He dug a hole 14 by 20 feet some 2 feet deep and walled up the sides high enough for a man to stand straight. This, with sod plowed up with a sod plow which turned it bottomside up. It was about four inches thick and a foot wide. Cut in pieces two feet long and laid the walls, brick fashion. This gave a solid wall 2 feet thick. Put up 2 cottonwood logs to reach full length. One not strong enough to hold the weight, also in the middle put in a post upright to strengthen them. Then put smaller poles somewhat as rafters. This close enough to cover with some of that hay and two thicknesses of that sod on top of the hay. This made a comfortable home.

I fiddled around and thought I was helping. We used the bottom of a chicken coop for a door. This filled about half of the opening, and we hung a quilt for the upper half. We really did appreciate a home of our own, and comfortable in a way. This turned water fine even in a hard rain if it did not keep it up too long. Take a two or three day rain and it would soak through and great gobs of mud would fall, perhaps on the table or bed.

We lived through that and in houses of similar style for nine and a half years. Did this by choice. We had the choice of living or living in the open. We preferred the dugout. As all knew Della Plain was started with the hope of some day being the county seat. We had hopes of having a valuable home.

Homesteaders Named Lockney
In the meantime several families settled northwest of us on homestead land and named their town Lockney. An advantage they found water to be much more shallow.

The two towns were somewhat jealous of each other, but Lockney realized it would be hard for them to get the county seat that far from the center of the county.

In 1890 some men from Chil dress came out in these parts looking for a place to start a town. They threw in with J. K. Guinn of Missouri, a representative for Price who owned many sections in the region of where Floydada now stands. They saw the opposition that Lockney had to Della Plain and others. Opposition was not all unfounded as they started what has proved to be Floydada.

They laid out the town in blocks and lots. Mixed these up and gave to just any voter ten lots drawn promiscuously, this regard less of where your vote would be cast. Most people consider their financial interest. Other things of value were given to some.

Lockney threw in with Floydada, and when votes were counted, Floydada was the winner. This was very disappointing to our family and many others. An effort was made to survive, but to no avail. We finally left there and on April 29, 1892, settled on 160 acres over on the draw, later called Sand Hill.

1892 Was Very Dry Year
This year 1892 was very dry. Rain so light that very little was raised in the way of crops and good grass was scarce. The year 1893 was also dry but not quite as dry as 1892. But that was the year the army grasshoppers cleaned things up. We knew of no way to poison them. They just cleaned up everything green as they came to it and would eat things not green. If people had their bedding out or chuck box covered with oilcloth or duck, they would riddle such if let alone. They hatched out by the millions. So small at first they could barely be seen. As they grew those patches spread to give themselves room. All movements toward northeast. Some thought they would turn them by plowing furrows around their fields but they would not be fooled, soon climb over and eat up the crop and go on.

A bunch hatched southwest of us. I hearded our chickens and turkeys to them and they would eat to their fill and go back next day and get a fill. I watched our turkey gobbler. He ate until he could swallow no more then sat down and picked and killed grasshoppers until too tired to kill more.

It seemed that every hen laid every day but yellows were blood red so could not eat them or did not.

The grasshoppers would try to climb a wall when they came to one, instead of going around it. We shoveled them up by buckets full and fed them to hogs or any way to get rid of a few. These were not missed though, as there were so many of them. They ate everything green as they came to it. We had a little patch of corn full waist high. They would gnaw at it until it fell over, then pile on and finish it up.

Ate Up The Bundles
One man at least decided that his wheat was nearly ready for harvest so he started in to bind it. They went right on to eating the bundles. He said they could have it, but he was not going to bind it for them, so he stopped his binding.

The grasshoppers would not be diverted from their northeast course. Up to this time they had no wings. When a bunch reached a certain stage they sprouted wings. All did this at the same time. They would then rise and fly just like a cloud, they would hide the sun. We were told that somewhere they changed their course from northeast to south and flew out over the Gulf. Anyway, they left us.

This, in connection with the real dry year before and not much rain that year, was so discouraging to the settlers, that they, as a rule, pulled up and left.

By this time the county was pretty well populated, especially the west part. Two things prevented us from leaving with the others. One, my parents came here for a home. The other, by this time we were so relieved of what little we had on the financial line that we could not get away anything like respectfully.

My father worked at just anything to get a dollar. The county officers got a little pay. Judge Duncan had a cellar under his house here in town. It came a big rain and filled their cellar. My father took his team and a slip and hauled this muck out. He would drag this slip down there by hand and fill it then speak to the team and they pulled it out. He kept at this until it was respectable again. I think he got a dollar and a quarter per day for this. People those days got very few dollars but when they did get one it was theirs.

Hunted For Wild Onions
There were a few others who had a few cattle and managed to get a little grazing and some feed for them. The hoppers missed some small spots. Not only would my father do first any slavish work that he could get, but my mother could take most anything and make something good to eat out of it.

Also we had exercise enough to whet our appetites. I have hunted out many a wild onion to go with our bread and bacon. Along another line, those who came about the time we did or soon after were interested in their children having a chance at a school. By some means, T. J. Braidfoot, A. V. McCracken and my father were selected as trustees. This was 1888, our second year here.

There never had been a school in the county and no use for one. I doubt if even one child of school age was here before we came. These trustees went to Escadado and employed Miss Emma Lewis for a three month school. We had 15 scholars and drew $4.00 on each. Paid the teacher $30.00 by donation. Our uncle, J. R. McLain, built a house and furnished it to the school free. Miss Emma stayed with us part of the time. Was with different patrons. She was a fine lady with a fine education. She was about 22 years old at that time. She later married Sylvester Haworth and left these parts and I knew nothing of her whereabouts for many years. Finally got in touch with her living in Star, Idaho. Raised eight children to be grown and filling useful places.

Teacher Got $40 Per Month
She died there several years ago and I lost trace of her family. Was in 1889 that W. M. Massie taught our school. We then had twenty that were school age. This brought in $80.00 from the state. Paid him $40.00 per month and he boarded himself. Had to be $80.00 extra raised to pay him for the four months school. My father paid part of this in posts which he got out of the brakes. Mr. Massie had filed on a section northwest of the school. He had a small one room house in which he and Bob and Jim Merrell stayed at night. The Merrell family lived southwest of there at what later was called Blanco.

They walked to and from school and at least part of the time carried their water in buckets from the public well. These have all passed on to the great beyond. Jim just last April.

Had some other schools at the Della Plain town but soon died out.

My parents were not Christians at this time, but our home was always open to preachers of any faith. Many spent a night or more with us. Before the school house was built, we had preaching in our dug out. When a preacher came along, we would notify the few near neighbors and they came in for the service. Nearly everyone went to about any kind of gathering. Had dances as you have been informed. My folks did not dance and I was so bashful and perhaps too lazy so never tried such.

Family Discipline Different
Years later, when my parents gave themselves to God and followed in their footsteps, there was nothing to incline me toward the dance. I leave that to others to do. I notice the family discipline those days was so different from now. When my parents, especially my father, said for me to do a thing or not to do it I knew he meant it. I tried him at least once, and he gave me a pat on the back real low where such belongs and I didn't dare think of it again, but have thought so many times since how he loved me enough to see that I minded and in the school room I found it easy to do as my teacher said. My parents and the teachers did not require things unreasonable. But just to do the right thing.

Only one neighbor who had only one child, a boy, I thought about the meanest I ever saw. His mother would go to every dance that she could get to, and dance all night long then be in bed for a week for her husband to wait on and that boy to run wild. Needless to say, not very long until a divorce and what finally came to her.

This was an extreme case. Most of the dancers were respectable people. I just never did incline that way.

School at Sand Hill
As I have said in 1892, we moved to Sand Hill. No school had been there but this time several families had located there. It was decided that we must have a school there. J. S. Fox, George Mickey and my father were chosen as trustees. Again a Quaker girl of Escadado was employed. She was Miss Hulda Cox, daughter of their preacher, Ansen Cox. She was a fine lady also. These people finally landed in the northwest. Miss Hulda died in Oregon. Bro. Cox at Nampa, Idaho. I think at the age of nearly 100.

My choice of the early preachers here were Bro. Ansen Cox and a Bro. Stegall, a Methodist circuit rider. He would go right into the cow camps and preach to them. He was well thought of wherever he went. A nephew of his was our sheriff at one time. He was P. G. Stegall.

From 1892 on, we had school at Sand Hill. Three to four months each year. Had some good teachers and some not so good. This at the old school house one mile south of the modern location.

My eyes, as I mentioned at the beginning of this article, were bad all these years. Never could see to read by kerosene lamps and many days had to stay in a dark room. Some years I attended most of the time, others a very little, and some years, not at all. Like most boys did not apply myself as well as I could have even with bad eyes.

Lots of Ashes to Carry
My parents believed in each one working at whatever they could do regardless, so much of the time about all I could do was in the house. So I was taught to make beds — these big feather beds which required turning and fluffing up — sweep floors, wash dishes and even do some cooking. Not all work in the house though. Cut wood and carry it in and pick up cow chips and feed these to the stove and, as all who ever burned such know, there was a lot of ashes to carry out.

I picked these cow chips up in tubs or sacks when near enough and father and I hauled them in by the wagon load. Sometimes have several loads to have on hand for the rainy day. Only the part covered up could be used when the rain or snow hit.

I am glad that I learned to work both in the house and outside. No one has had a wife who did her part better than mine, but raising seven children there were times that she could not do all the house work and she did much work outside. By these means we managed to get by.

As I have said, my parents and we children lived for nine and one half years in dugouts and sod houses. The people of Floyd County gave my father the office of tax assessor for four years. This paid around $500.00 per year. This first year father hired two men to make out the tax rolls at Floydada. This took $120.00 of the $500.00. Had enough left to buy a two room house at Floydada and moved it to our place of existence. This had real plank floors, plank walls and a tin roof. Later improved this and added to it.

Gets Some Book Learning
By this time my eyes had been treated some and got to where I could do pretty well. I then was 19 years old and had very little book learning. They decided to spare a few dollars to pay my tuition at the Lockney Christian College and I mostly worked for my board. Rather hard to give my consent to undertake such. Partly because I had learned obedience and having a desire to learn I undertook it. So I stayed with a fine old couple who lived nearly a mile from the school. Walking this each day back and forth with the chores, gave me exercise enough to make me feel like trying to study when the chance came. A lot of the time

I went home on weekends. You might think it embarrassing to me for 10 and 12 year old boys and girls to know much more than I. It was hard to take, but I knew it was now or never to get a little education. What time I had been in school from time to time was easier on my eyes to study figures and suppose I naturally turned that way. They could see that I knew a little about figures so said take algebra as well as arithmetic. This was several days after I had started, and they had to order a book for me so I had very little chance the first month. Borrowed a book from others and began to see what it meant. At the end of each four weeks we had to take tests on each subject.

Made 26 In Algebra
My first grade on algebra was 26. I sure was blue, but found that another boy starting in similarly to me got 16 and we inquired some further and a girl who had taken it some the year before only got 12 on her paper, so Jim and I felt some better. By the end of my six months we were doing well as anyone. I was such a good speller that I only missed 24 out of 50 words. Other grades a little better, but bad. Finally showed the teachers that even if I was old enough to know something, age alone did not mean that I could make the grade at least until I found what things meant.

I went about six months each of four years. Had to be out either in fall or spring. After getting the one six month schooling my father got a man to come out to our home, and start me off on tax roll work. Paid him $25.00 for this and I took the job help others when they asked. Was over and it got by the inspection. No typewriters nor adding machines those times. Saving about $95.00 that year and all after that the folk could better afford to help me in school and me help with the farm work also.

Think this made it a little easier for them to help me to stay in school the six months of each of the four years. The teachers saw I was trying to learn and they seemed to give me a little extra boost. My classmates helped me also partly by laughing at J. A. Baker store. There I had the measles. Pretty tough time of it and not out of the house for full ten days. Those boys were good to bring in wood and my bed where I could keep a fire going. One of the school boys was with me at night. My sister took the measles at the same time but we did not know of any measles around. She was too sick to go to school but in those days I usually went regardless of my feelings. So I went to school until I began to break out. As soon as I was able to be up my father came for the doctor as my mother and three sisters all had the measles then and a d whooping cough. I wrapped up good and got in the two wheel cart and went home. Father did the outside work and most of the work inside.

Before this time two girls had been born to my parents at Sand Hill. This made them four daughters and only the one son. Perhaps they decided one such as I was all they needed, and run no further risk.

By the end of my four six-months terms my teachers and classmates seemed to think that, give me time, I would solve all arithmetic and algebra problems and had learned some on the other lines, probably near what was counted a high school education with very little foundation under it.

McLain Early Events

We gradually added a little to our possessions and raised a family of five girls and two boys for all of which we are proud. All finished in Sand Hill and all of them further schooling. Our second daughter died in 1935. This came suddenly only after a few days following her wedding.

The others have married and have children. Fourteen grandchildren in all. The wife and I are proud of each in-law. I have rambled for a long while off the main thing. That of rearing farm work. In 1903 in Sand Hill a man and his wife held a revival for a crowd of some of the time. The attendance was very small. One morning my father and I and other men were all that was there. The preaching went on and others converted before the close. When they got saved all knew of the change and with them it continued until death.

I was so stubborn I would not give up until the night after Christmas. My wife was a Christian when we married and all of our children are church members and we have reason to believe are Christians.

My father passed to his eternal home in 1933 at the age of 87 years. My mother followed on in 1942 at the age of 87. My sister Della Fullington followed in 1952 at the age of 84. The next sister, a widow, Mrs. Montez Wiggins is now living in Fort Worth. Next, Mrs. Myrtle Williams, with her husband, lives on their farm near Dimmitt. The youngest, Miss Winnie McLain, lives in Dallas.

Didn't Chew Nor Smoke
As I look back over my boyhood and young manhood days there are many things I do not wish to mention. A thing or two I am glad of. For a reason that I do not know tobacco was of fence to me and though most people I was with used it I never tried to chew nor a whiff of tobacco smoke. Something that might have had something to do with it was a girl about 16 who never had been to school before and went for the first time. One of the rules in school was no tobacco using.

This girl said, "I chaw it." They asked her what she did about spitting and she said, "I swallow it." Also her father with his long gray beard chewed. At a dance I especially remember him for his beard colored with tobacco juice and his worn old coat and a frazzled rope hobbled around him for a belt. He would always walk around and cuss. Such might have had some influence on me.

East Coast Trip Enjoyed By Lion Hale and Wife

Lion Club president Sammy Hale and Mrs. Hale returned Thursday from an extended trip to the east coast where they toured historical points and attended the Lions Club International Convention at Atlantic City.

The Floydada couple made the trip by car and traveled some 4500 miles. They visited in Jamestown and Williamsburg, Va., and other historic cities in that area. They were met at the capital by George Mahon and Mrs. Mahon, who along with his staff proved to be most gracious hosts. The Hales said. They were guests at the Fiesta Motel during their stay at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale witnessed the installation of the new Lion's International president from Sweden. Mr. Hale was delegate from the Floydada Lions Club to the convention.

They reported the weather pleasant but a little rainy at Atlantic City.

Eagles Win Over Tulsa
The Floydada Eagles won their 9th game Sunday, July 2, when they beat the Tulsa team 10 to 1. The Eagles' ace pitcher, Oliver Wells, pitched 6 complete innings, allowing only one run, when he was relieved by Clarence Pitcher.

Oliver pitched 3 innings, allowing only one hit, an infield fly that was allowed to fall between the first and second basemen untouched. Oliver has been credited with seven of the Eagles' wins, and "Hawk", the manager, says that he is still pitching good.

Few Mishaps Mar Week-End And Holidays

The long holiday weekend was relatively accident-free in Floyd County with only one minor wreck reported, one fire, and one injury from fireworks.

With the July 4th holiday starting Friday night for many, those who traveled arrived safe back here at home by Tuesday night.

The wreck reported involved a cow and a vehicle east on the Matador highway Tuesday night. The vacationers car sustained some damage but no one was injured. The wandering cow however was not so lucky as she was killed outright.

The fire was Sunday at Bohannon Gin in Floydada and was believed to have started from youngsters celebrating the 4th a little early. Surplus cotton in the building caught fire from what was believed to be a tossed firecracker. No damage was reported by the local fire department.

The injury reported from fireworks was sustained by Kendall Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Reed, of near McCoy. The father works for B. P. Sandefer.

Friends of the family said the 16 year old youth had fire works in his shirt pocket when in some way they were ignited. Some which were placed in his belt also caught fire causing second degree burns on his left arm to the waist. The accident occurred Saturday night about 9:30 in Petersburg where the family were visiting.

Did Not Drink, Either

Those men said they would not tell on us. I did not care what they did, but as soon as I got home I told my parents that the fellow who did such the second night was going to be. That one resolution I have kept down to the present time.

Looking back, I am glad for a few things. One is the schooling at Lockney. Not far along at all, but better than none. As our children came along far enough to read algebra, even though many years had passed, I could explain so long. Finally told them would no longer serve. Next time I was elected on the County School Board, I served on this board for 14 years, which was too long. Realizing my hearing was failing, I refused to be considered any longer. Enjoyed trying to help children get what I had missed. Don't see how the people put up with me so long as they did.

As a follower of Christ since late 1903, I like Peter on one occasion, followed afar off but did not go far enough to deny Christ. I know I have been a poor example but glad that God and people have put up with me.

Just Too Backward
At times in our annual reunion on Pioneer Day celebration I am called on to say something. When in school I was so backward that I would not take part at all in the literary society. The only part I ever did was to be called on often to be judge in their debates.

When in chapel, called on to quote from some standard author or to give a verse from the Bible. I would hold to something and tremble and perhaps forget what I meant to say. Old age and rheumatism may stiffen joints but at least in my case has not put worthwhile thoughts in my mind. So now you may understand why I make such a poor out at a talk now.

I am very thankful to God and the people for putting up with me these eighty-three years and do hope and pray that so long as I remain here I may be able to get around some and not be too much of a burden to others.

Hot Brings Cold

Hot water heaters are used to cool water in Smiley, Texas. Sounds outlandish to say the least, doesn't it?

This happy sounding town in Gonzales County, in the central part of South Texas, has a powerful artesian well that pours forth its own hot water.

The town of Smiley pipes this hot water right into the homes. These fortunate Texans have all the hot water they need. But the residents use hot water tanks, not connected for heating purposes, to store the water long enough for it to cool for drinking purposes.

So, when in Smiley, remember to turn on the hot water faucet for a cold shower.

NEW LAW AIDS C.D. BUILDUP

New muscle for understaffed State and local civil defense agencies is now resulting from a Federal program to match 50-50 with States or localities the expenses of additional civil defense staff workers.

This new program, authorized by Public Law 85-606, provides $6,000,000 in the current fiscal year for the hiring of additional State and local civil defense personnel and to meet added expenses such as office rental, furniture, necessary equipment and official travel. This is the first time Federal funds have supplemented State or local civil defense salary or administrative expenses. States and localities have requested funds for 3,633 employees under this program.

FRANK B. ELLIS, Director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, who administers the shared-cost program, stresses that the funds must be used to expand State and local civil defense capabilities and that hiring must be on a merit basis. Ellis declares: "We cannot maintain a status quo in civil emergency planning in the face of tensions that now beset the world. Civil defense at the local level must expand to keep pace with our national need to strengthen our resistance to aggression and measure up to the President's expressed demand for maximum effectiveness in civil emergency operations."

A typical example of how Public Law 806 is helping our States is that of North Carolina. Under its director, Major General Edward F. Griffin, the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency has hired 21 professional and clerical people to strengthen the State's readiness for emergency action. Hitherto its staff of 11 persons was hard-pressed to maintain a basic minimum of readiness for emergency preparedness.

THE STATE, which was allocated $113,000 by OCDM, passed on $53,040 of its allotment to local civil defense organizations for the hiring of an additional 39 persons. The bulk of these are clerical workers, whose shortage in the past often has hobbled the executive staff with routine but necessary tasks.

ENGINEERING ADVICE on how to add an entrance baffle to his new fallout shelter is obtained by Carl L. Underhill (left), of Raleigh, N. C., from Archie W. Green, Jr., engineer for the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency. Underhill discovered that a baffle was needed to block dangerous levels of radiation which, after nuclear attack, could penetrate a normal door of this $1,000 shelter. Green was hired early in 1961 under a Federal program to pay half the costs of new civil defense employees. (OCDM Photo)

Sullivan (on ladder), new city-county deputy CD director. TANGIBLE PROGRESS in civil defense in Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N. C., can be measured by the moving of its office from the trailer to the house, made possible by a new Federal cost-sharing program for State and local CD personnel and administrative expenses. Director Kenneth D. Williams and his secretary are in center. Hired under the cost-sharing program were Hugh A. Womack (on steps, at left), and Frank M. Culver. The expanded staff now can turn plans into operational readiness. (OCDM Photo)

COMMUNICATIONS CENTER at Wadesboro, N. C., combines a round-the-clock civil defense nerve center with a unified radio service for local police, fire and sheriff's departments. Used for this dual purpose, the equipment is kept in top notch condition at all times to meet emergencies. At the radio is Waldo J. Stroud, one of three operators hired by the local CD unit under a program in which Federal and local governments share the costs of new civil defense employees. Raymond H. Northcutt (right), Wadesboro-Anson County CD director, explains his radio setup to Herman J. Sisk, Area E director for the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency and one of five area directors hired under the same cost-sharing law to help build up CD at the local level. (OCDM Photo)

Do you count the candles on your birthday cake? Why bother? Once you're past sweet sixteen, it doesn't matter how many candles you're entitled to. What counts is what you're doing with those years.

The years that are past have burned themselves out. Perhaps they have been all you've wanted them to be—but, if you're like most of us, maybe you could have made them a little better.

One of God's greatest gifts is the marvelous fact that it's never too late to begin again.

Birthdays remind us of the passing of time, of a new life. Celebrate your birthday by giving. Give something of yourself, by going to your church and taking part in its activities, especially those that help others. Next year, the added candle on your cake will burn with a special brightness!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

day with her sister, Mrs. Fay Sledge and boys. Other guests with them were another of her sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Proctor, from Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Julian and Bruce had dinner in Post Sunday with their eldest son, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Julian and grand-daughter, Dee, of Roscoe. It was very cool there with showers falling all around the area.

The eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burks, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Williams, Michael, Debbie and Steve, from Dallas are here visiting this week with the Burks family. They were Baptist Church visitors Sunday morning, and arrived here Saturday.

Mrs. Garland Foster, Helen and Ray of Floydada visited here with Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Calahan Jr., and children Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Higginbotham spent the day Sunday at the Mackenzie Park picnic grounds where they attended a Higginbotham family reunion. A catering service was there to serve the dinner to the group at noon, and forty-six were registered. Bryant's mother, Mrs. Xula Higginbotham of St. Jo was present.

Those from here who went to the Women's Missionary Union Retreat at the Plains Baptist Assembly, June 29-30, to attend the two days session were Mmes. Roy Burks, Grigsby Milton and Darla Shelby Calahan, L. T. Wood, H. S. Calahan Jr., and Vicki and Mrs. Carl Smith. The theme "Fellowship Through Missions" was carried out in the assemblies.

The group stayed the night in the South Plains cabin, except Mrs. H. S. Calahan Jr. who went to Floydada to spend the night with Mrs. Carl Smith.

P. M. Smitherman, who is spending the summer in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada with his daughter, Mrs. J. Fred Cox and family, has written he is getting along well, and has been on a fishing trip to a nearby lake.

Fire Losses Low In June

For the month of June the Floydada Fire Department reported relatively few fires in the county and damages slight. Grass fires which usually occur rather often this time of the year have been at a minimum with only two reported this month.

Bill Baker, city fire marshal, said the first fire for June was on the first and it was a grass fire, with no damage.

The second was on the 9th when a car caught fire after it was involved in an accident with a van truck on the Y. The passengers were from Levelland and the van truck was also passing through Floydada.

On the 14th a pick-up truck outside the city limits caught fire from faulty wiring and was heavily damaged.

On the 17th an electrical short in the home of Miss Nell Swinson caused little damage.

Climaxing the month, it ended like it began with a grass fire. Dougherty residents had a little excitement, when burning grass got pretty close to their homes. However the fire was brought under control with no buildings receiving damage, according to fire department reports.

They spent the evening playing basketball. Copies present for the party were Messrs. and Mmes. Button Beedy, Keith Marble, Don Probasco, Maury and Monty, Bill Hopper, Johnny Wilson, on Marble, and the Shelby Calahans, Randy and Jerry.

Mr. and Mrs. Button Beedy went to Claude to spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beedy on the ranch.

the granite across the left front are these words:

"The People of Texas do now constitute a free, sovereign and independent republic and we fearlessly and confidently commit the issue to the decision of the Supreme Arbitrer of the destinies of nations." (Texas Declaration of Independence, 1836)

On the right front side is carved: "All political power is inherent in the people and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their benefit." (First Constitution of Texas, 1845.)

Although the building has four floors, there are seven "stack floors" where the building is divided for storage of books and documents.

One end of the main floor will be devoted to the library. Texas you will find a charge desk and a large reading room.

Another large room will house the archives. In it there will be a large work room where researchers may look at old papers.

Land Office, to be on the third and fourth floors, will have a separate entrance at the south end of the building. (Building faces west.)

First floor lobby, like the Capitol rotunda, will be a Texas showcase. In its terrazzo floor is the familiar wreath and star emblem of Texas. Main walls are polished granite and upper walls in sandstone. Above the center of the area is a large, spectacular oval light fixture of red, white and blue colored glass in a sunburst design with a border of 50 stars.

Museum cases, recessed and lighted, are built into the walls around the lobby. Opposite the lobby entrance is a large bronze screen with 15 blocks on which are wrought designs that present a panorama of Texas development. There's an Indian with tomahawk, branding irons, dueling pistols, and first Capitol (a small frame house), an early locomotive, and a windmill on the prairie. Last block shows a gushing oil well.

Building of the State Library and Archives Building was authorized by the Legislature in 1957 with an appropriation of $2,500,000. Project has been carried through by the State Building Commission for which E. E. McAdams is chairman and Gov. Price Daniel and Atty. Gen. Will Wilson are members.

Admiral H. R. Nieman is director of the Building Commission.

State Archives Building is the fourth of the new edifices erected since the building program began in 1957. It is neither the largest nor the most expensive, but because of the historical designs, it is attracting the most attention. Those who have had an advance peek believe that it will, as intended, be a fitting residence for the heritage of Texas' 125 years.

TOLEDO BEND DAM STUDIED

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo apparently favored a sales tax. He told the committee he thought the governor had been asleep, Rip Van Winkle fashion, since 1939 when Governor Daniel, then a House member, was one of the "Immortal 56" who blocked a sales tax. Hazlewood pointed out that the state has had a population explosion and an 800 per cent increase in cost of government since then.

BUS INQUIRY POSTPONED—An Austin court of inquiry into the prices being paid by the state for school buses has been postponed until July 10.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson called for the inquiry, noting that Texas paid from 10 to 25 per cent more for buses than some other states.

Judge granted the postponement on the defendants' statement that they had not had the required 10-day interval between the issuance of the subpoenas and convening of the inquiry.

GUARDS NEEDED — O. B. Ellis, general manager of the Texas Department of Corrections, reports that the prison system is in urgent need of officers.

Physically fit men 21 to 55 years of age are desired. They must have a 10th grade education at the minimum.

J. N. Crawford Jr., at the Huntsville prison, is in charge of hiring.
