Oil Firms Seek Tax Reduction

Members of County Commissioners Court this morning argued with a union representative about why the 1975 wage increase was not higher, and then with a representative of Continental Oil Co. about not reducing the tax rate.

Bob McKenzie, Fort Worth, of Conoco, wanted the court to eliminate seven cents of the $1.04 tax rate for this year and to restore it next year if necessary.

The seven cents he referred to is assigned to the airport bond payment fund.

Looking at this fund, McKenzie commented: "I don't think two years' balance is all that necessary."

"Instead of the county rat-holing it in one pocket," McKenzie suggested "that you allow the taxpayers to rat-hole whatever that seven cents is for one year."

GETS ARGUMENT

"If you get to talking about taxes, I don't think we're getting our just increases from oil values," Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas said, echoing the county judge.

Terrazas mentioned "Continental making a 94 per cent gain," a statistic he did not explain.

The $12 million increase in the oil tax roll "still wasn't enough," County Judge A. G. Mitchell argued.

With the addition in oil tax values, the county tax roll, which is based on one-fourth of true market values, hit $94 million up from $85, Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, said.

"We lost $3 million on over-age exemptions," Mrs. Black explained.

DECREASE NOTED

Many local governments, including the Forsan County Line Independent School District, did decrease tax rates with larger tax rolls, McKenzie contended. He said he works with half the counties in Texas.

McKenzie questioned the county auditor about several funds in the budget, fraying Mrs. Black's temper. County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eyssen Jr. accused the oil firm representative of "nit picking."

A large taxpayer here, Continental had a right to question the budget, McKenzie replied.

Appearing with McKenzie were Ray Ebling of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. Inc. and C. R. Bradford of Skelly.

Kenneth Howell, business manager of the union representing some road department employes, criticized the court for increasing all employes' wages only 5½ per cent effective Jan. 1 "when we're looking at 12 per cent inflation and more."

Mitchell replied that the court could not increase wages more without cutting the number of employes or raising taxes a large amount.

Howell noted funds available through revenue sharing. Mitchell emphasized the indefinite future of revenue sharing and said legal requirements prohibited its use for pay raisies.

"It's a matter of priorities," Howell countered. The union representative attacked use of county funds to pay a law firm to fight the withdrawal of Texas International.

Terrazas defended the use of county funds to keep Texas International as a try to protect the investment there.

Ron Mercer, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, told the court the Washinton law firm anticipated billing the community $5,000 more, half of which both the city and county would pay.

The $5,000 set aside previously by the court and a similar amount for the city had been surpassed slightly, Mercer said.

Bob Butler, assistant city manager, felt the matter could be put on the city council agenda for Tuesday, and Mitchell proposed putting the item on the court's next agenda.

"It's going to be at early winter before we get a Based on discussions with the Civil Aeronautics Board judge and CAB Bureau of Operating Rights, the Washington attorney said it was a "very close case and could go either way, Mercer said.

Bill Tune, Democratic nominee for county judge, attended the meeting, and Commission Bill Crooker was absent.

GOAL POSSIBLE

Pacemaker Help To Stutterer

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — Mark Bevins has simple goals: To talk without stuttering, to care for himself. Things most people take for granted.

And with the help of a pair of experimental brain pacemakers implanted in his skull two months ago, the Tulare teenager may be a little closer to those goals.

Bevins, 18, victim since age seven of a rare unnamed nervous disorder which gradually blinded and paralyzed him, returned to the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco last week to pick up two timers designed to regulate the pacemakers automatically.

Until then, the battery-powered machines, implanted in an experimental operation after Mark suffered a seizure which nearly took his life, had to be turned on and off several times an hour. At night, they were left off so his father, Jake Bevins, could sleep.

During the seizure last May, Mark's heart and respiration stopped. His parents thought the progressive ailment had finally claimed their son. But the youth revived, and on June 16 Dr. John Adams implanted the tiny pacemakers in an effort to reverse the effects of the illness.

The pacemakers supply to the brain a tiny electric current, designed to block muscular rigidity and control the shaking and tremors which make it impossible for Mark to feed himself or control his movements.

The father says Mark's condition has improved in the short time since the operation. "It was so gradual we didn't notice until recently how much he had really improved."

He said he could tell when "we disconnected the pacemakers ... once they were off, we could really notice the change."

Although the doctors have made no such promises, Mark's parents still hope for a dramatic recovery.

The disease has not impaired Mark's mentality, and his father says the youth is pleased with his progress.

"When we shut off the pacemakers it showed how much good they really did, and it gave him a lot of encouragement.

"Right now he just wants to be able to talk and use his hands to take care of himself," Bevins said. "But his real goal is to walk and be just like you and I again."

Picnickers Ignore Man Killed By Bolt

CLAYTON, N.M. (AP) — Picnickers, campers and fishermen at Clayton Lake State Park in northeast New Mexico walked around the body of a 22-year-old Texan all day Sunday, apparently thinking he was asleep.

At 7 p.m., a park ranger, who decided against approaching the youth nearly 12 hours earlier, discovered he was dead.

Union County Coroner Robert Gordon said Phillip Anthony Diller of Hereford, Tex., had died Saturday night after being hit by lightning.

Police theorized the youth, who apparently was traveling alone on a motorcycle, was struck after taking refuge under a park shelter.

Park ranger Martin Franz said he saw the youth early Sunday morning, but decided to "let him sleep."

"I collected from some other campers about 60 feet away, and we figured he was just sleeping," Franz said. "I came back about 7 p.m. and I realized he hadn't moved."

The rangers said about 50 persons had been in the area where the youth was found. Officers said Diller's motorcycle was found nearby.

Water Poisoned; System Shut Off

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — The municipal water system for this southwest Arizona city of 32,000 was shut down from midafternoon Sunday, when the temperature was 106 degrees, until early today.

The city water was cut off after residents reported finding dead fish floating in the Yuma Main Canal.

Chemists labored through Sunday to neutralize a deadly insecticide, parathion, that had been dumped into the canal.

None of the poisoned water reached the city treatment plant, water mains or homes, said James Clevenger, city administrator. Some was detected in city storage tanks next to the canal and had to be dumped and treated.

The identity of the person who dumped the chemical was unknown late Sunday, said Imperial County Deputy Richard Bell. Asked if the dumping was deliberate, Bell said, "Either that or someone wasn't thinking."

Special Complaint Gets Quick Action

Police rushed to an address at Runnels and NE 10th with unusual alacrity around noon Sunday to answer a call, but nobody was at the scene.

The call reported that women at that location were "improperly dressed."

Pentagon Must Pull In Belt Under Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although a strong defense advocate, President Ford will make the Pentagon pull in its belt to save money, close associates predict.

The first belt-tightening move may come within two months.

A source familiar with Ford's thinking says the Pentagon "probably will have to eat" a pay increase of about $1.5 billion due in October for more than 2,160,000 military men and women and about one million civilian employes.

By this, the source said he meant the Pentagon will have to absorb the increased cost, perhaps by cutting the number of personnel below levels planned by the Nixon administration.

Some of those advising Ford believe the biggest spending cuts should come in manpower costs, which now account for about 55 per cent of the defense budget. Besides pay, such costs cover housing, food, clothing, medical care and other support of military personnel and their families.

A new White House push to trim military manpower further could bring the first strain between the new President and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, who has said U.S. forces already are thin.

Associates of both men say Ford and Schlesinger agree on most major defense questions, including a cautious approach to a new strategic arms limitation agreement with Russia.

Like Schlesinger, Ford has called attention to the pace of Soviet weapons developments and said that "to prevent a serious imbalance, we must continue to modernize and improve the readiness of our combat forces."

While supporting detente as a goal, Ford has said, "we must insure that our good will is not misconstrued as lack of will."

Ford, who served for years on the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, supports many of the key weapons programs which have been urged by Schlesinger and for-on.

FRIENDS HELP BIBLE FUND

The annual appeal for support of the high school Bible Class Fund started today, with a good nest egg, thanks to contributions by two friends.

Mrs. Marzee Wright, who noted that "we need more things like this," and the Bykota Class of First Baptist Church each sent $25.

Those who would like to have a part in backing this worthy program are asked to send or bring their contributions to the Herald for acknowledgement. The program is a project of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship.

IN SPEECH TO CONGRESS

Ford Will Pledge Inflation Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford goes before Congress tonight to call for national unity after the splintering era of Watergate while pledging his administration to fresh efforts to combat inflation.

Pausing briefly in his broad search for a vice president, Ford conferred with his advisers and worked on the speech as he began his third full day in office.

His address before a joint session of the House and Senate, scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT, is to be telecast and broadcast nationally.

Aides said the new chief executive would promise "full, fresh efforts" to stabilize the economy. In the words of one spokesman, Ford sees inflation as "Public Enemy No. 1."

Arriving from his suburban home at 7:25 a.m., Ford beat many of his White House aides to work. He went directly to his Oval Office, where in the next three hours he held meetings with transition adviser Donald Rumsfeld, holdover White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Press Secretary Jerald F. TerHorst.

Aides indicated Ford would not set out a specific anti-inflation program in tonight's address, though detailed proposals will follow soon.

His address was expected to stress the need for national conciliation and would outline the "spirit and the tone of his administration," aides said.

They said Ford won't disclose the name of his choice for vice president in the address. The search for his successor won't be complete until late in the week, one aide said.

With a whirlwind series of 11 White House meetings on Sunday, Ford accelerated his consultations with congressional and political friends, who said women and Democrats are among those being considered for the No. 2 post.

After the meetings, Ford told a newsman "I'm not ruling out anything or anybody." Other sources said it was highly unlikely that he would stray from a list of about a dozen GOP leaders in making his selection.

Republican national chairman George Bush emerged from Sunday's meetings with the backing of an influential conservative, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

"He's Mr. Clean and that's what the country wants," Goldwater said of Bush, a former Texas congressman and U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Goldwater, one of the 11 friends and advisers Ford met within the separate meetings, also ranks high on the list of possibilities. He said he wasn't seeking the job but "sure, I'd accept it."

Bush's name also was mentioned by House GOP Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois after his meeting with Ford. And it was among three listed by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

But Scott said his first choice still is former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. He contended that the reported opposition to Rockefeller among party conservatives is "grossly exaggerated."

'HENS LAID BAKED EGGS' IN 1936

You Think It's Been Hot

SEYMOUR, Tex. (AP) — Spoiled nowadays by popsicles, waterbeds and ice-making refrigerators, air-conditioned Texans just don't realize what a really hot day can be.

Today marked the 38th anniversary of the hottest day ever recorded officially in Texas— 120 degrees. And there wasn't much in those days you could do about it except complain.

Tall tales about Aug. 12, 1936 are thicker than lost relatives at a will reading.

Some go like this: housewives put pies in the oven that day to cool; hens were laying baked eggs; corn fields started popping and cows froze to death because they thought the falling popcorn was snow; trains derailed when the tracks warped in the heat and so on.

But newspapers of the day were full of "hot" news: At a bottling company soft drinks were exploding. An ice company advertised its apology for not having any ice. A farmer started home with 50 pounds of ice in a wooden keg. Near Thornberry, the steam pressure blew up the keg.

Texas, particularly Seymour, was in the grips of a mean heat wave. Eleven Texans died that week from heat-related causes.

F. H. Buckley recalls returning to Seymour that day from Colorado. "At 8:30 in the morning in Amarillo it was steaming," he said. Cars in those days had no air-conditioning. Buckley said he had to keep wet towels on the foreheads of his two small daughters.

"It was just as hot with the windows down as up. There was a little breeze from the south but it was like sticking your head in a blast furnace," he said.

Lloyd Jones of Seymour remembered an old settlers' reunion went on that day without a hitch. "We had a big barrel of lemonade and had to keep pouring ice in it to keep it cool. Around 1 p.m. the official weather bureau thermometer touched 120. It stayed right there till 3 p.m. when it went down a little."

People really didn't notice the heat increase much, though. Since Aug. 1 the thermometer had been hitting 112, 114 and 116 and never crept below 100 degrees, he said.

Screened verandas and porches weren't just decorations in those days. "A lot of people would get out cots and sleep in the backyard. We had little buzz fans but all they did was stir up the heat. I even remember people sprinkling sheets with water before going to bed," Buckley said.

And if you've never sat in church, using a palmetto fan with a funeral parlor's advertisement printed on it, listening to a long-winded preacher drone on and on, you just don't know what heat can be.

Refreshing Rains Fall Over Howard County

Thundershowers, with brief but punishing winds in some sectors, returned to dampen the area Sunday night and add a modest amount of water to Lake E. V. Spence.

In various areas, the showers may be sufficient to cause cotton bolls to increase in weight and to help isolated patches of feed. Pastures were refreshed, but as with the farmers, ranchers will have to have a lot more moisture before the drought can be rated as being cracked, must less broken.

On the strength of Friday evening showers, plus additions Saturday and Sunday, Lake E. V. Spence was at elevation 1854.84 Monday morning, an increase of 1.10 ft, or about 5,000 acre-feet of water. It had picked up another 1,700 acre-feet last week. The Colorado River was still running but trailing.

One of the chief benefits was an improvement in quality of water at the lake. Chlorides had dropped to 100 ppm Monday, one-fourth what they had been.

Lake J. B. Thomas received no inflow and it had only .40 of an inch rain Sunday.

RAIN AT SNYDER

Snyder reported an inch and a half over the weekend, and the Colorado River was still flowing at the diversion works above Colorado City, although the flow was being pumped into side storage Monday morning for quality control. For two days the river coursed over the channel dam at the diversion works at nearly two feet deep.

The U.S. Experiment Farm reported .67 of an inch from the Sunday shower.

Most of the city reported from three-quarters to an inch, and for the "spell," the city had about 1.25-50 inches.

Ackerly estimated an inch of rain Sunday evening, and Knott settled for about .75. Luther, which has been the more favored spot in this dry year, had about two inches, which included .90 for Sunday.

The Wilson Ranch on the Howard-Borden Line reported an inch. Coahoma gauges an inch.

SPOT GOT INCH

The Colorado River Municipal Water District measured three-fourths of an inch between Big Spring and Lake Thomas with one spot 12 miles out getting an inch.

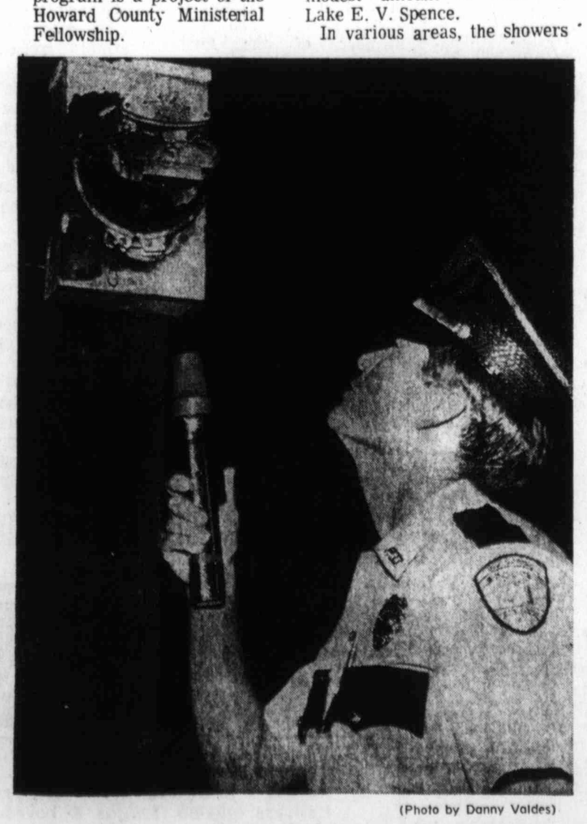

Saturday between Coahoma and Westbrook, particularly in the Iatan Flats area, rains ranged up to two inches. The Spade Ranch reported heavy downpours, but there were no gauges. Colorado City had about an inch and a half over the weekend, one place 2 inches.

Forsan had about an inch and a half altogether, of which .80 came Sunday evening, along with tremendously high winds which endured for a short period. Some tree limbs were snapped, but there was no hail as there had been briefly with the Saturday shower.

The amount of rainfall dropped off to the west with Odessa registering .45 of an inch Sunday.

The Cap Rock Electric Cooperative at Stanton reported amounts all the way from half to two inches, but possibly with an inch or more as an average.

Garden City, where rain had almost become a legend, reported 1½ inches, and St. Lawrence community to the southwest had 1.2 inches, but there were widely-scattered spots with nearly three inches.

Local Man Dies In Crash

Virgil B. Clemmons, 62, Big Spring was killed and Melvin Clay Atwell, 44 also of Big Spring, injured when a pickup driven by Atwell went out of control on a curve .3 mile south of the Reagan-Glasscock County line on FM 33 at 3:15 p.m. Sunday.

It was the third traffic fatality in three days in which a Big Spring resident lost his life.

Clemmons was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace George Peters of Big Lake. Services for Clemmons are pending at River-Welch Funeral Home.

Atwell was brought to Cowper's Clinic where he is reported to be in fair condition with a dislocated shoulder. Both occupants were thrown from the vehicle.

The pickup apparently went out of control on the curve according to the investigating state trooper, Wade Turner of Stanton. It went off the east of the road, slid back across the highway on its side and overturned three times, according to the report.

Two Big Spring citizens received minor injuries in an in town wreck at 1:08 a.m. Sunday at sixth and San Antonio when a vehicle driven by Rollo Casey Jr., 2915 Highway 80 W., and a car driven by Ethel Lorraine Davis, 610 San Antonio, collided. Miss Davis was taken to Webb Air Force Base hospital with minor injuries and Paula Aken, a passenger in tre Casey vehicle was taken to Hall Bennett, also with apparent minor injuries.

Continued Cloudy

Weather forecast is partly cloudy through Tuesday with 20 per cent chance of showers late this afternoon and 30 per cent tonight and on Tuesday. Winds from the S-SW at 10-20 m.p.h. High today and Tuesday, near 90, and low tonight in the mid 60s.

Candidates See Bright Side To Resignation

By JOHN EDWARDS

Possibly out from under the cloud of Watergate, a group of Republican nominees for state offices found themselves under rain clouds Sunday night where about 50 gathered for a party rally here. It started raining after the rally ended at the Comanche Trail Park amphitheater.

Gaylord Marshall, the GOP choice for lieutenant governor, noted a survey which indicated 55 per cent of the people felt Nixon had "suffered enough" without being prosecuted.

"I think so, too," Marshall added.

Marshall related Watergate to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's driving while intoxicated conviction. Of the incident involving Hobby and a young woman, Marshall said: "I think it will have a definite effect (on the campaign) at a time in our history when we want to restore some confidence in public office holders."

Looking at a brighter side o' the Nixon resignation, Marshall noted: "For two years, as Republicans in Texas, we may be able to communicate to a President of the United States who is very popular with both houses of Congress."

Tom Cole, the Republican nominee for state attorney general, served as a Presidential assistant for domestic affairs under Nixon for two and one-half years, resigning in May, 1971.

Cole said the way to avoid Watergate and Sharpstown scandals in Texas government was through the "best press and a good two-party system."

"One has to have a healthy respect for the press and what they did in Watergate," Cole said, noting some exceptions.

Should Nixon be prosecuted?

"I think they should leave that up to the (House Judiciary) Committee," Mrs. Mary Kirchhoff, nominee for the state senate, said.

Nick Rowe, the Republican for state comptroller, said the "high standard of conduct" Nixon failed to meet "should apply to every other elected official, particularly in this state."

In interviews and their speeches at the rally at Comanche Trail Park, the Republicans made these comments:

MARSHALL, nominee for lieutenant governor: Incumbent Democrat Bill Hobby is a "permissive liberal" "out of tune" with the people "on every issue."

Hobby chastised the people of Dallas and the district attorney there for assessing 1,000-year sentences when the death penalty was not permitted. Also Marshall quoted Hobby as saying: " 'We should not have laws against what people do anyway.' "

Turning to another issue, Marshall claimed: "Right to work does one key thing. It causes management of labor to be good to have union members."

BOB HOLT, for state treasurer: "It's costing us a million dollars a day to laugh and chuckle and say we have a state treasurer named Jesse James. It's not even his name."

John is the incumbent's real name, Holt said.

"We're the lowest state in the return on investment funds."

MARY LOU GRIER, for state land commissioner: This state "I think the people have suffered enough, and I think Nixon has suffered enough."

office is responsibile for revenue from public lands which help finance public schools and some universities.

A former school board member, Mrs. Grier said: "I know how desperately the schools today need the additional financing public lands could bring."

Commenting on the energy crisis, Mrs. Grier said: "I see no reason for these fuels to leave Texas until the needs of the state are met."

ROWE, for state comptroller. Bob Bullock, his Democratic opponent, has advocated a state income tax. "It is indefensible to talk about new taxes for the state until we collect the one's already on the book."

Under the retiring incumbent, Robert Calvert, one businessman was $73,000 in arrears in sales tax payments, but a Republican was given notice for $9.13 due, Rowe alleged.

The state comptroller has the power to audit business firms and state departments and agencies.

"No one rocks the boat," Rowe said. "Everyone's a Democrat. So there's a lot of bureaucratic back scratching."

COLE, for attorney general: The former presidential assistant criticized incumbent Attorney General John Hill for "decision waffling."

He mentioned Hill's opinion concerning the police reports and records. The state law needs to recognize a "balance" between the press' right to gain access and individual's right to fair trial.

How would he recommend the legislature balance these two opposing interests: The matter needs to be "evaluated more carefully than it has now."

DALE W. STEFFES, for the Railroad Commission: "If it (the oil industry) gets nationalized, I would charge them (Railroad Commission members) with the worse felony possible."

"I believe the Railroad Commission of Texas has defaulted in its duty to Texas."

Texas produces about one-third of the nation's oil. Washington columnist Jack Anderson said three days before that the oil companies were holding back reserves.

"I don't think that they'll (the commission) come forth and put that in order," Steffes predicted.

JOE P. CAIN, for Railroad Commission:

By electing him and Steffes, the people of Texas would be putting in office two men expert in fields the commission deals with — oil and gas and motor carriers.

Those serving now are not experts in the areas with which the Railroad Commission deals.

MRS. KIRCHHOFF, for state senator: "My opponent has had few news releases, and I can't tell at this point what guidelines he will establish" for the conduct of the campaign.

What are the issues? "He really has not come out with anything."

Water resources are a major concern for the district, Mrs. Kirchhoff said.

"I do think people are concerned about inflation," which she related to the need for financial responsibility in state government and "efficiency in government on all levels."

Among those present at the rally were two other Republican nominees Jerry Worthy for county judge, and Mrs. Mary Joy Cowper, nominee for the State Board of Education.

Ben Bancroft, chairman of the Howard County Republican Party, also recognized Winston Wrinkle, past Republican state deputy chairman, and W. J. (Bill) Shepherd, past state chairman.

The "candidate's caravan's" appearance here was sponsored by the Howard County Republican Party and West Texas Republican Women's Association.

Former POW Convinced Some MIA Still Alive

By JOHN EDWARDS

Nick Rowe, Republican nominee for state comptroller and a former Vietnam prisoner of war, does not doubt that Americans reported missing in action are still alive in Indochina.

"We know that there were men that were alive when the agreement was signed, and they were never accounted for," Rowe, a former Army Major from McAllen, said.

Navy Lt. Ron Dodge was pictured on the front of Paris Match magazine as a prisoner of war, Rowe said.

"The North Vietnamese said they never saw him. He was never accounted for."

"Foreign policy has moved on to other things, and I think it's a shame. I think it's a crime," Rowe said.

"We made an issue of it," Rowe said of the POW—MIA question. "We made a point, and then we let it drop."

Now, the Communists know the U.S. government will back down, Rowe concluded.

Captured in Oct., 1963, Rowe spent much of the following five years in "tiger" cages under intensive interrogation. He escaped Dec. 31, 1968.

BSHS Exes To Meet

The Exes Association and the Homecoming Committee of Big Spring High School have been convoked for a special meeting Tuesday 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

This meeting is for the purpose of talking over homecoming plans for Oct. 4-5.

There also will be discussion on membership and in promoting local exes attendance at homecoming affairs.

"Last year we had a fine response from out-of town exes, who were anxious to meet local exes." said Janice Rosson, member of the Exes board. "Perhaps we failed to get out the word, and thus many did not attend the activities which proved to be such a success.

This year we want to involve local exes, let them know what is planned, and to get their support."

Lee Porter, chairman of the Exes Association, will preside.

He urged a good turn out of all board members, class-year chairmen, and any others interested in developing a successful homecoming.

The price of these permits are $9 per year or $5 per semester. Daily parking is available at 10 cents per day. As a reminder to students, local traffic codes limit curb parking to one hour within a two block radius of the campus and alley parking is not permitted at all. Also, school officials have been notified that property belonging to the Trinity Baptist Church will not be available for student parking this year. Better security of vehicles and fewer traffic problems will arise if those driving vehicles to the high school will utilize on-campus parking lots.

Nixon Was Aloof, Says Ehrlichman

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — As President, Richard M. Nixon purposely remained aloof from dozens of middle and lower level White House staffers and only rarely socialized with his top aides, says John D. Ehrlichman.

Only two or three times in the four and one-third years that Ehrlichman was a top aide to Nixon did the Nixons and the Ehrlichmans get together socially, Ehrlichman says.

Ehrlichman added in an interview Sunday that Nixon's relationship with his then-chief of staff H.R. Haldeman was about the same: Numerous contacts during the working day but only rare private social get-togethers.

"That was not because of a character flaw necessarily, but because of his sense of what the relationship ought to be between the President and his staff," he said.

Ehrlichman also said Nixon, who Friday became the first president in U.S. history to resign, purposely had little contact with middle and lower level White House staffers.

"We talked about the desirability of his just going out and going in and out of offices and saying hello to secretaries and dropping in on staff members," but Nixon rejected the idea, Ehrlichman said.

"I thought the decision was a mistake."

Ehrlichman said if Nixon had spent time talking with those employes "I think it would have enhanced staff performance."

Ehrlichman resigned his White House post as chief domestic affairs adviser to Nixon on April 30, 1973, amidst the then burgeoning Watergate scandal.

He said on Sunday that Nixon "surely must be very unhappy" now. "He's had a very personal defeat in Washington in a political sense and he's an individual who doesn't like to lose.

SURPRISE! HE HAS NO FARE

Police answered a call Sunday night with the taxi company as the complaintant.

A local resident had been riding around town "most of the day" in the cabs, and when he finally was let out at his home he had a surprise. He announced: "I have no money."

The police took him to an address where he borrowed money to pay the fare, averting a free ride to the pokey.

'New Federalism Doesn't Go Nearly Far Enough'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The New Federalism, the foundation upon which former President Nixon built his domestic policy, has fallen well short of its billing, say many state legislative leaders.

"It's working, yes, but much less well than what the President said he intended. It's not working that well," said Colorado House Majority Leader Carl H. Gustafson, a Republican.

The Associated Press contacted leaders of more than a score of state legislatures around the nation during the past week. Most said they welcomed the proposed return of power and money to the states.

But many also complained, as they prepared to gather in Albuquerque to discuss state issues at the National Legislative Conference meeting this week, that New Federalism didn't go nearly far enough.

Some also argued that the reality of the program was less money and continued red tape.

'NOT AS WELL'

Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., a Democrat, summed up the common evaluation: "It's a worthy concept, but it is not working as well as we would like."

Oregon Senate Minority Leader Victor Atiydh, Republican, was more emphatic.

"If the New Federalism is supposed to mean a strengthening of states' rights, it's not working," he said. "The government may be returning some responsibilities to the states, but not the authority that should accompany those responsibilities."

Said Republican House Majority Leader Harry Derrickson of Delaware, "it's not working more in rhetoric than in fact. There's little practical evidence that it's working."

At the extreme was Connecticut Democratic Rep. Carl Ajello, who said "The New Federalism is an absolute mess."

Kentucky GOP Rep. Harold Demarcus, however, said he's happy with the program. Asked if it's working, he said, "Yes, very much so, especially revenue sharing."

The more common reply, however, was expressed by the Democratic pro tem of the North Carolina Senate, Godon Allen, who said, "The funds still come with too many strings attached."

And New Mexico's Senate minority leader, Republican John Conway, said, "My basic feeling has always been, why send it (the money) to Washington in the first place.'

Georgia's Democratic majority whip, Rep. Jack Connell, said, "There have been some indications that the federal government may wish to put more responsibility back in the states. But then they qualify that by saying that if you don't do certain things, they're not going to give us the money."

WELCOMED SHARING

Another complaint came from the president of the Oregon Senate, Democrat Jason Boe, who said he welcomed revenue sharing "but they're picking our pockets at the same time by cutting off categorical grants in aid."

And Pennsylvania Republican Rep. Sheldon Parker said he's concerned that the power being returned to his state tends to wind up in the governor's office.

"We would like to see the legislative branch treated more equally with the executive branch in terms of decision making, allocation of resources and so on," he said.

Most agreed that at least the New Federalism was a step toward local authority.

SUPERFAN — Here's "Superfan" Alan Minter, a Miami realtor, who argues a lot about sports in his spare time, but not in bars, bleachers or stadiums. He currently argues with his fellow fans each week night on radio in Miami, Fla., has argued with them the past two football seasons Sunday nights on public TV and may do it again this season. Both shows are called "Superfan" and the formats are phone-in.

Baiting Fans Gives Man Good Radio Audience

NEW YORK (AP) — There are sports fans and there are sports fans. And then there's "Superfan" — Alan Minter, a Miami realtor. He argues a lot about sports in his spare time on radio and television.

He argues with fans each week night on radio station WINZ in Miami, has argued with them the past two football seasons Sunday nights on WPBT-TV and may do it again this season. Both shows are called "Superfan" and the formats are phone-in.

Minter, 34, who says he majored in history and psychology at the University of Miami, tries to avoid controversy, of course.

But he will say, for example, he thinks Howard Cosell is "absolutely horrible" or that ice hockey "is an idiot game . . . just get a bunch of middleweights and put 'em on ice. It's just a fight, anyway."

"Alan is quite knowledgeable about sports and a very opinionated guy, although he often changes his opinion as the occasion merits," opines George Dooley, president of WPBT and a longtime friend of Minter.

It was Dooley who first put him on the air, despite Minter's lack of experience.

Minter was placed in a living room set and told to talk sports with callers, live, for 30 minutes each Sunday after the day's pro football jousts.

Dooley, who said he's considering a third "Superfan" season with Minter, says the idea was to have a controversial guy who talks like the average sports fan, not like a sports commentator.

And Minter, an avid sports fan who says he played a year of football and three of baseball in college, filled the bill, Dooley said.

In the early days, he added, Minter was wont to end abruptly a sports colloquy by telling the caller, "You're dumb, you swine, I don't ever want to hear from you again" and hang up.

Minter laughed. He conceded he was brash and occasionally rude in the beginning, but only to drum up viewer interest.

He says he doesn't deliberately try to insult a caller, but both shows "have kind of a bar-room atmosphere and they can insult me back. I'll take anything as long as they don't go too far and I don't go too far with them. I've had guys purposely bait me, but that's good, too."

Did he get many threats of bodily harm in the early days from outraged fans?

"No, as a matter of fact, I didn't," said Superfan. "I don't think I come off that way. I think most people go along with my act."

Demand Remains Strong But Sales Leveling Off

COLLEGE STATION — Farm equipment sales have generally leveled off due to a shortage of available equipment, says Dr. Wayne A. Hayenga, an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

After two years of continued growth, unit tractor sales in the first quarter of 1974 fell slightly under the first quarter 1973 rate, with more significant declines recorded for some lines of farm machinery.

"Large increases in crop acreage and record high levels of farm income over the last two years accounted for the upsurge in farm equipment sales. Unit sales of farm tractors increased 19 per cent in 1972 and 38 per cent in 1973.

Machinery size has increased proportionally.

"Demand for new equipment has been strong in 1974," continues Hayenga, "since estimated planted acreage is up 7 per cent, about 25 per cent larger than the previous 10-year average."

The lead time for delivery of tractors is currently eight to ten months and this lag should continue through the remainder of 1974.

"Last year, demand spilled over into the used farm equipment market. Reports of three-year-old tractors selling for more than their original price were not uncommon," says the Texas A&M University System economist.

"Projections suggest that net income in 1974 will total $22 billion, 15 per cent below the 1973 record, but still the second highest level ever achieved.

Dramatic Changes Noted In Netherlanders' Life

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Leaning on his broom, the flower vender surveyed a narrow shopping street in one of Amsterdam's, most colorful neighborhoods, the Jordaan.

"The way it used to be," he recalled, "the men would play cards in the street. The women sat around knitting or peeling potatoes, Some shops stayed open all evening, and the streets were full of light. The women had to drag their men home at midnight.

"Now," he remarked, it's dead at four in the afternoon. The people who used to fill the cafes now go home to drink. The shop owners no longer live here. They turn out the lights and leave, and everything is dark."

Almost everyone agrees the Jordaan is no longer what it once was. Auto traffic, television and other by-products of prosperity have changed the ways of a quarter once known for its open, neighborly, almost Mediterranean street life.

But, as some point out, the Jordaan probable never was as people say it used to be. "The Jordaners shared their collective poverty," explains Han Lammers, Amsterdam's city councilman for Urban planning.

"A romantic image has grown up of Jordaan life prior to World War II. In fact, people lived in the most frightfull working-class poverty, sometimes eight to ten in a two-room apartment."

Conquering The Wind

Ever since the Wright Brothers built the first one to test airfoil shapes, the wind tunnel has been an indispensible tool of the aircraft designer. Now architects and construction engineers are putting entire buildings in wind tunnels — in miniature, of course.

As buildings reach greater heights, they deflect downward the faster winds encountered aloft. In some cases — most notably one involving a skyscraper in Boston — the high winds have torn off portions of the structure's facade and broken windows. In high winds, ground-level doors may be difficult to open and wind paths are created around corners and along sidewalks that are uncomfortable or dangerous to pedestrians.

The wind effects on a 40-story office tower and pedestrian plaza planned for downtown Seattle were recently determined by Calspan Corp. engineers in a specialized wind tunnel simulating the earth's trubulent atmosphere.

An area of downtown Seattle about one-half mile in diameter was reproduced on an 88-inch-diameter turntable. Models of existing city structures surrounded the 16-inch-high tower in its center. By rotating the turntable, the model city was subjected to wind blow from 36 directions, from less than one mile an hour to more than 60 miles an hour.

By tracing the wind paths created and by making modifications on the model, the engineers were able to show architects how to improve their design. When they succeed there, they may be ready to tackle our mildest West Texas breezes.

Chance To Re-Root Democracy

The Greeks, who invented democracy hundreds of years ago, now have a chance to re-establish that form of government. Since the fall of the military dictatorship which had ruled Greece since 1967, a new civilian government has been installed.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis, in self-imposed exile before his return a few days ago, has taken substantial steps to ease political and economic tensions in that nation. He declared a general amnesty for those jailed for political dissent during the seven years of military dictatorship and restored citizenship to all who had been deprived of it.

In addition, Athens recognized the recently deposed Archbishop Makarios as president of Cyprus although his future is in doubt.

The new Greek government, however, has a tough job ahead in returning that nation to normalcy in a democratic fashion. rThe forme military regime had encouraged the recent Cyprus revolt and Athens' relationship with neighboring Turkey had reached a war stage.

Periods of political unrest have bred prior military takeovers in Greece. Another one would be disastrous to Greece's chances of regaining a democratic state.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

I can't find anything in the Bible that would make me think I might come back after death as a horse or a cow. What do you think about this whole subject of reincarnation? R. H.

I believe in reincarnation, if by that term, you mean the return of the believer's soul in a new spirtual body. That's a beautiful Biblical truth (1 Corinthians 15).

But the idea of coming back after death embodied in another form of life is just not Scriptural. It may be intriguing to imagine returning as a fly or an elephant, but God's plan has no such provision.

While I disagree heartily with the "reincarnation proponents, yet perhaps they serve a good purpose in this way. If they remind us of the transient nature of life, and the fact that we will bridge the grave, then sober consideration will have been profitably introduced.

Christ has assured us that our personhood will not be eclipsed in the world to come. We will "know as we are known" and in no way will the future state be any less one of awareness than this. I believe we'll be more aware, and that life will be characterized by bliss and productivity. The Christian has a tremendous hope — a new body in a new world.

Belling The Cat

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON—Super-secret talks between leading members of the Nixon cabinet and powerful political forces close to the administration resloved in the final stages to this critical question: who would bell the cat and how?

Even with the entire Congress virtually unanimous and on record that Richard Nixon must go, the President had not been moved. That left one remaining power center to exert pressure on the abandoned President — his own cabinet.

Yet the move to enlist the cabinet — and particularly its ranking member, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, with his immense prestige — collapsed before it got started. At Tuesday's meeting of the cabinet, Mr. Nixon held his top advisers to a rigidly prearranged agenda centering on inflation and the economy.

His failure to seek the slightest word of advice from the cabinet on his personal and political crisis meant he did not want to hear it.

Later, one senior figure in the administration privately indicated that Mr. Nixon's strange and "spooky" calm, his level voice and steady hand exhibited utter obliviousness to outside pressure. The President, he told us, seemed impervious to political ostracism that would long ago have broken down a normal man.

Yet the continuation of Mr. Nixon's leaderless presidency in the real world of politics and statesmanship had now become a national hazard. Recognizing this, White House chief of staff Alexander Haig decided—and so informed key members of the cabinet—that any resignations could prove ruinous. The word he passed was: stand at your post, at least for the present.

Haig did not himself even consider quitting when he learned on July 31 he had been deceived 14 months before about presidential involvement. He made two decisions: he would stay, keeping routine operations running as best he could; he would cooperate fully with forces both inside and outside the administration trying to bell the cat.

Although Kissinger said nothing these days, high State Department officials were deeply worried over the possible outbreak of foreign crisis, during a period of vacuum.

A secret meeting of House and Senate leaders on Tuesday "mandated" Sen. Barry Goldwater to confront the President head-on and tell him the truth. On Wednesday, it was decided to send the Senate and House Republican leaders, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, with Goldwater.

Their message was crystal clear: you've had it on the Hill, Mr. President. But instead of demanding Mr. Nixon's resignation, they merely hoped the message would be received and acted on soon.

The American system of government had never written the script for belling the cat when the cat is the President, short of the tortuously long process of impeachment and conviction. Public pressure and personal conscience appeared the only means of speeding the process.

Student Surgeons Learn To Staple

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 50 per cent of the medical teaching institutions in the United States are now teaching the use of stapling as a surgical technique. According to United States Surgical Corp., which markets surgical staplers, UCLA, the Mayo Clinic, the University of Pittsburgh, Mt. Sinai University and Einstein College are among the universities teaching the procedure.

In addition, the Navy is also teaching stapling in its surgical training program at Oakland Naval Hospital.

Unprecedented Problems

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the No.1 problem — the economy — so proclaimed by Gerald Ford himself before he assumed the presidency. And he seemed to confirm this by working with economic advisers hours after taking the oath.

If it weren't for Watergate, the true significance of the nation's economic confusion would be evident. The problems are unprecedented in their intensity: A 12 per cent prime rate and roughly the same rate of increase in consumer prices.

Undoubtedly inflation helped undermine the presidency of Richard M. Nixon, if only because people thought he and his administration were so preoccupied with his Watergate problems that he ignored theirs.

Their fears seemed to be confirmed when Nixon in his final economic message told Americans to cut back on their spending.

Ford seemingly recognizes the dangers of preaching rather than acting. "It serves no purpose to lecture the harassed public," he said in a recent speech.

Despite Nixon's repeated assurances that the worst of inflation was behind, the worst always was ahead.

On his final full day in office it was announced that wholesale prices for July rose 3.7 per cent, or at an annual rate in excess of 40 per cent.

Significantly, just as prominently as he called attention to his foreign policy successes, Nixon omitted any reference in his resignation speech to his domestic policy. His legacy in domestic economic policy is disarray.

Savings banks are rapidly losing deposits because they cannot offer customers the high interest rates available elsewhere. Home mortgages therefore are frequently unavailable.

More seriously, there is considerable feeling in financial circles that some savings banks are headed for more trouble, and that action to restore confidence is required by the Ford administration.

Public utilities, hard hit by higher energy and borrowing costs, are so severely pinched they must reduce or suspend dividends. This in turn lowers their capacity to raise capital to meet demands for their services.

The purchasing power of the ordinary factory worker is declining. The jobless rate, although still not exceedingly high at 5.3 per cent, is widely expected to reach 6 per cent before the end of the year.

Some people on fixed incomes have been reduced to desperation by the rapid erosion of their buying power. They cannot cut back; they cannot trim any fat from their budgets without cutting to the bone.

The stock market is depressed. Those high interest rates cause trouble there too, because they draw capital into debt issues that ordinarily should be supporting stocks. And besides, corporate profits aren't that good.

Charge For Filling Form?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently requested from a physician a statement so I could claim his charges on my medical insurance claim.

Yesterday I received the insurance form back, uncompleted, and a note from the doctor advising me that there would be a $35 charge to complete this form.

Is this legal? — J.K.

Probably legal — although remember, I'm not a lawyer.

But proper? That's another question.

I should like to know in more detail what the insurance company was demanding before venturing an opinion in this or any specific instance.

If it was a simple form that wanted to know when you were treated, and for what, and how long, then in my opinion there should be no added charge for filling it out. I cannot, as a matter of fact, recollect ever having felt that I should make a charge for doing this for a patient. In fact, an officer of a medical society with whom I discussed it went so far as to say that for a simple, routine form, a charge of that sort could be adjudged unethical.

But to give the other side of the coin, sometimes reports are demanded in such great detail that they require a good bit of time to complete, and it seems to me that in such an instance the doctor is entitled to be reimbursed for time that otherwise he could be devoting to other patients.

I would add that there has been resentment on the part of physicians against some insurance companies (I don't mean ALL) that demanded a degree of detail about a case that seemed all out of proportion — they wanted technical minutiae which appeared to have no real bearing on paying the claim.

Not knowing more than I do about the claim form in your case, I can suggest only this: discuss it with the insurance company, and possibly, depending on the circumstances, with the grievance committee of the county medical society.

It is my personal opinion that the medical profession makes enemies when a doctor demands an extra fee for filling out a reasonable claim form. A patient needs such a report because, obviously, so does the insurance company before it authorizes payment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband, 69, had surgery last year for a malignancy of the prostate gland. The doctor removed the testicles because he said male hormones fed the cancer. The recovery was very good and he looks well now but according to the doctor he will always have to take female hormones.

My question is whether he will be able to have intercourse again? He shows no interest. As long as he is healthy and felling well is this a normal reaction? — Mrs. B. T.

With the testes removed and medication with female hormones, he will be impotent and not be interested in further sex activity.

Greatest Thrill Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

One thing and another:

It's amazing how little it takes to entertain some people. All you must do is sit down and listen to them.

THE GOLFING greybeard, Gene Sarazon, was asked recently which was his greater thrill, his double-eagle in the Masters golf tournament or his televised hole-in-one in the British Open last summer.

"Neither," he replied. "Getting my first Social Security check."

A TRAGEDY of our times is the fact that the money you saved for a rainy day wouldn't last through an April shower.

It's actually more advantageous now to be penniless if you get sick. It's easier to qualify for Medicare (if you qualify agewise) if you have no property.

You came into the world naked and without anything of substance. The government intends to see that you go out the same way.

LIKE THE MAN said, however, even if you could take it with you, where would you spend it?

The best explanation of inflation I've heard recently: It's, after you finally get the money together to buy something, it's not enough.

The old Biblical saying, "the meek shall inherit the earth," wouldn't be so bad if they would stay meek after they get it.

NO WONDER you have to park in Fort Worth in order to shop in Dallas. There are 124 million cars, trucks and buses in the U.S. of A., and the number is still growing despite the energy shortage.

Football Deal Called Off

NEW YORK (AP) — We now have World Football League games on TV. Soon we'll have National Football League play. What about the Canadian Football League games scheduled to appear on the tube this summer?

That deal was called off, not primarily because of WFL competition, but because of the economy and a shortage of sports advertising dollars, says the firm that has televised CFL play for U.S. viewers since 1972.

Marty Rosenblatt, an executive of Ralmar Sports Productions, Inc. here, said his company planned to start its 12-game CFL schedule on June 26 and end it Nov. 25 with the CFL's Grey Cup championship game.

"WE HAD TO throw in the towel about a week or so before June 26 and convert the series into a CFL highlight package," he said.

He referred to a half-hour film series about this season's action. He said the series, which will run 13 weeks, will be syndicated and start appearing in the United States the first week in September.

He said the show is being sponsored by the Canadian Olympic Coin Committee, which he said hopes to sell proof coins from the Royal Canadian Mint and defray some Canadian costs for the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

Interest by American stations in CFL play was down from last year, when Rosenblatt said 93 U.S. television stations carried the games. This season, he said, only 65 were on the roster.

EVEN SO, he said, "we felt we had a reasonable station lineup. But some clients that had committed themselves found themselves in a dollar jam" and bowed out.

"We were in a unique situation, considering that once we were the only football game in town during the summer," he said. "In fact, I'm sure we probably planted the seed for World Football two years ago." This year the economy was tight and its effect "had just started reaching the (Ralmar) clients. They had just so many dollars to spend. And an American football package appeared more attractive than a Canadian football package. Suddenly, we appeared like soccer."

What Others Say

Inflation is problem No. 1 in the public's mind these days, and any discussion of what to do about inflation quickly turns to the federal budget.

Deficit spending — the government pumping millions upon millions into the economy — is one of the standard causes of inflationary pressures.

President Nixon has been metting with economic advisers and budget officials almost daily of late and he has vowed to trim federal spending.

Federal Reserve Chairmtn Arthur F. Burns wants a $10 billion cut in the $305 billion budget the President has proposed for fiscal 1975, which began July 1. The President's advisers say a cut of that size could not be achieved unless Congress cooperates; they add that the big danger is that Congress may go the other direction.

Fortunately, we see some signs of relief in the congressional spending picture. And just in time. A new congressional budget act sponsored by Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., has been signed by the President and is being implemented.

The bill creates a 15-member budget committee in the Senate, a similar 23-member committee in the House and establishes a detailed procedure and a timetable for development of a federal budget.

The Senate is so serious about budget reform that the Democrats set aside the seniority system in naming members to the committee so that Muskie will get the chairmanship and some younger senators will get seats. When the tradition of seniority appointments to committees is set aside, you know things are changing.

HOUSTON CHRONICLE

* * *

Despite reports to the contrary, newspapers have not really died. In 1945, at the end of World War II, there were 1,749 daily newspapers in the United States, with a total circulation of 48,384,188.

At the end of 1973, there were 1,774 daily newspapers with a circulation of 63,147,280. That's 25 more daily newspapers with an additional 15 million more circulation.

Last year, there was more money invested in newspaper advertising than in television and radio combined . . .

Furthermore, a nationwide Media Report, Sindlinger poll, disclosed that newspaper readership was up, with 32 per cent spending more time reading newspapers and only 8 per cent spending less; 26 per cent watching television less time and 22 per cent watching more.

More dramatic were statistics of women, who do most of the shopping. Of those polled, 39 per cent were reading newspapers more and 9 per cent less; and only 19 per cent were watching television more, while 22 per cent were watching less. — PITTSBURG (Calif.) POST DISPATCH.

Thieves Down On The Farm

DES MOINES (AP) — Thieves have hit one out of every five Iowa farmers within the past three years, according to a poll conducted by Wallaces Farmer, one of the nation's oldest rural publications.

The magazine's pollsters asked the following question of 477 Iowa farm men and women: "Have you been a victim of theft within the last three years?" Twenty per cent replied yes. Heading the list of things stolen were fuel, livestock, machinery and tools.

Also, the poll showed that thieves tended to pick their targets from the wealthier farmers. Of farmers with less than $10,000 yearly income, 17 per cent reported farm thefts. Of those who earned $40,000 or more, 25 per cent reported thefts.

Small Company Can Up Output

MOORESTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Small companies can often gain more from productivity improvement efforts than large, according to a management services firm here.

From its experience, Science Management Corp. says these actions are the key to achieving higher productivity:

Ask employes to identify obstacles to their productivity.

Identify duplication of efforts.

Establish output targets.

Analyze differences in departmental work output.

Investigate cross-training personnel.

Proceed carefully to assure that benefits will be real and lasting.

Have a top-level executive direct the improvement effort, so that employes will know it is important.

A Devotion For Today . .

"I thank my God in all my remembrance of you, . . . thankful for your partnership in the gospel from the first day until now. (Philippians 1:3-5)

PRAYER: Our Father, thank You for Your great gift to us in Jesus. Tech us to rejoice in Him no matter what situation we find ourselves in. May each victory be in Christ's name and for His sake. Amen.

NFL Players Return To Camps

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the sublime to the ridiculous.

That's been the mood throughout the 42-day-old National Football League strike—and that's the mood now that it might be closer to a settlement than ever before.

The strike reached a watershed phase Sunday when the NFL Players Association's seven-member executive committee agreed to a suggestion by federal mediator W.J. Usery Jr. that the veterans report to training camp for 14 days starting Wednesday, a sort of "cooling-off" period while stalemated negotiations continue, starting Thursday.

Thus, an even more critical stage may arise in two weeks, if a settlement isn't reached by then. It could go one of two ways.

Either the veterans could walk out en masse, once again threatening the season that is now barely a month away.

Or the strike could be, for all intent and purposes, broken—and the union's strength severely sapped—if a majority of the players, with two weeks of solid training under their belts, decide to stay in camp.

The decision to return to camp and play in the next two weeks of exhibition games was by no means unanimous. Although no tally was released, it appears the vote was a slim one, perhaps passing by only a 4-3 margin.

When the executive committee members left the Labor Department offices, scene of the prolonged talks, none of them was smiling. Some were obviously bitter, muttering that the new turn of events was a step toward ending not the strike but the union's strength.

Ed Garvey wasn't smiling either. But the executive director of the NFLPA was pragmatic about the situation, explaining that while the owners have the resources to withstand a prolonged strike, the players simply don't.

The idea of working—that is, reporting to training camp—during neogtiations, then striking if no settlement is achieved, happens in industry regularly. And it was considered months ago when the players association first met in Chicago. But the idea was voted down then.

And now that they're willing—somewhat reluctantly—to report, at least one coach and one owner don't want them. Some others seem to feel it's just a gambit. And some players believe the strike's death knell has been sounded.

"I'm not about to take a veteran under those conditions," Houston Coach Sid Gillman said. "All it would do is disrupt our camp. To come in and then maybe walk out two weeks later is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard of."

Bud Adams, owner of the Oilers, agreed. "We want players who will come to camp and stay," he said. "If they all come in, we may be forced to cut some of our rookies and then they (the veterans) might walk out again. We'd be back where we started, without any players."

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram said: "Very honestly, I don't like it ... Either you're going to play football or you're not going to play. The two-week grace period is not good. If they don't come back to play football, then they should stay out until they are ready to play football."

Lee Bouggess, a running back with the Philadelphia Eagles, thinks that if the players report to camp they won't leave it again.

"It sounds kind of shaky," Bouggess said. "If we go in, then at the end of the 14 days, how many players are going to want to come out? Once we get in there and do some hitting and get the soreness out, we won't be able to come back. It's not good for you to leave it once you've started to hit."

Ken Bowman, Green Bay's center and player representative, echoed Bouggess' fears. "Once football players get into camp," he said, "they have a natural tendency to get involved with the season and thoughts of Super Bowls and such. If things don't work out, they still might be reluctant to leave again."

Other players, though, expressed the view that they were returning in "good faith" and that they hoped the decision would speed up the settlement.

NIPS NICKLAUS BY ONE

Lee Trevino Wins PGA Open

CLEMMONS, N.C. (AP) — The clown prince of big time golf is back, and everybody is hailing him as a king.

"Do you feel like the old Trevino?" Lee Trevino was asked Sunday after he had beaten out Jack Nicklaus by a stroke in a cliff-hanging victory for the 56th PGA Golf Championship.

"I don't know how the old Trevino felt," the bouncy, ebullient Mexican-American retorted. "Maybe I will have to ask my wife."

It was hot and humid and there was no icy drink waiting for the new American professional champion.

"I will buy," Trevino said. "Can anybody cash a check."

He reached in his dark trousers and pulled out the first prize check for $45,000.

Everybody laughed.

Almost everybody laughs at Lee Trevino. He is loose and uninhibited. He is quick with the quip. He has a rich homespun philosophy. He is to golf what Yogi Berra and Dizzy Dean have been to baseball and Muhammad Ali—without Ali's occasional venom and militancy—to boxing.

He has enriched the game with both his skill and his Trevinoisms:

"If you keep your mouth shut too long, you get bad breath."

"I missed three fairways—the first and 15th."

"Now that I got all this money, maybe I'll buy the Alamo and give it back to the Mexicans."

"I come from such a poor family, my sister was made in Japan."

Since Trevino joined the tour in 1967, he has established himself as one of the giants of the game—twice U.S. Open and twice British Open victor, winner of 18 tour victories and banker of more than $1,270,000 in golf purses alone.

His first PGA triumph solidified his position as one of the three best players of the current era along with Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

He gave one of his most impressive and gutty performances in winning the 1974 PGA crown in a head-to-head duel with Nicklaus, who had to be content with the second purse of $25,700 after finishing one stroke back.

Trevino has become a personal nemesis of the great Nicklaus, beating him in a playoff for the U.S. Open crown in 1971 and also beating him out for the British Open titles in 1971 and 1972.

Nicklaus paid him the supreme tribute after Sunday's futile chase over the 7,050-yard, par-70 Tanglewood course.

"This man is fantastic," Nicklaus said. "He hardly made a mistake out there. He hit almost every fairway and every green. I hate to lose but when a guy plays as well as Lee did, there is nothing one can do."

Trevino fired a final 69 — a score matched by Nicklaus—for a 72-hole score of 276, four-under-par. Nicklaus finished at 277, with the closest other pursuers a quartet two shots farther back at 279. They were the fantastic, 62-year-old Sam Snead, 69; Dave Hill, 69; Hubert Green, 70, and Bobby Cole of South Africa, 71.

The final round Sunday evolved into a three-way battle among Trevino, Nicklaus and Cole, with Trevino never once losing the lead although young Cole, 26, pulled even five times.

NFL EXHIBITION

Some Fans Stay Away

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Gail Morris and several other wives of striking members of the New England Patriots joined their husbands on the picket line Sunday, urging fans to stay away from the game.

Gail, whose husband Jon is the Patriots' player representative, and the other women passed out leaflets. But they're assistance on the line hardly was needed.

In their 1974 home debut at 61,279-seat Schaefer Stadium, the Patriots drew only 17,992 fans, who saw them lose 21-6 to the New York Giants in Sunday night's only National Football League exhibition game.

By comparison, the two teams drew 60,243 for Schaefer's first game, also an exhibition, in 1971.

Of course, by comparison, the competition in the game hardly was the same, since the Giants and Patriots had few veterans on hand because of the players' strike.

The strike figures to slow up the turnstiles again tonight, when Chicago visits Pittsburgh, San Francisco plays at Cleveland and Buffalo invades Kansas City.

In games on Friday night it was Detroit 6, Baltimore 3 and Houston 48, Washington 3. In Saturday's games it was Oakland 28, Atlanta 16; Cincinnati 35, Philadelphia 21; Miami 45, New Orleans 20; Green Bay 13, St. Louis 0; Denver 27, Minnesota 21; Dallas 13, Los Angeles 6 and San Diego 20, New York Jets 14 in overtime.

As in the first weekend of preseason play, attendance drooped considerably. A scan 6,792 fans showed up in Baltimore and only 14,768 were in Washington. But the crowds weren't overly slim everywhere. In Los Angeles, 46,668 people were at Memorial Coliseum and Milwaukee drew about 43,000 for the Green Bay game. Both crowds were below normal—but not by much.

Shortly before the start of Sunday night's game, the NFL Players' Association agreed to a proposal that the veterans report to camp Wednesday for a two-week cooling off period while talks continued.

Nine-year quarterback Randy Johnson, one of New York's few non-striking veterans, directed a 73-yard touchdown march in the opening period, sending rookie Charlie Jessamy on a short plunge for the score.

Foursome Wins Muni Meet

Buck Buchanon, Jimmy Shoultz, R.M. Oliver, and Joe Shortnight combined for a one stroke victory in the Big Spring Municipal Louisiana Draw golf tourney held over the weekend.

The foursome shot a 63, just one stroke better than two teams which tied for second place.

Tying for second were the teams of Ken LeSage, Robert Caffey, Ronnie Jones, and P.J.Leuschner and Bernard Rains, Berl Dennis, Garland Hill and Danny Kirkpatrick.

The tourney was the last before the Grand Tournament slated at the Golf Course on September 22 and 29. The City Championship will be held in September 7 and 8 at the Municipal Course with entry fees set at $10.00 per person.

Local Youths On All-State MSA Team

ABILENE — Two Big Spring Miss Softball America players were named to the State All-State team Sunday after the State Tournament as Midland Red and Odessa West won on State Championships in the Senior and Major divisions.

Rose Majors, a center fielder, was named to the Major Division All-State team and Kathy Weber, a pitcher, was named to the Senior Division All-State team.

Earlier in the tournament, Cherry Byrd was named to the All-State team in the Minor Division.

The Big Spring Senior Division team, resumed a game with Odessa East which began Friday and was halted by rain with a 7-1 lead, but when the game was resumed Sunday, Odessa won 10-9 to advance in the tourney.

The National Miss Softball American Tournament will be held in Odessa.

Rangers Top Detroit 9-0

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Dave Nelson figures Sunday night was a good example of why Billy Martin is pulling down a hefty salary for managing the Texas Rangers.

Martin moved Nelson, who has been in the throes of a hitting slump the past month and a half, back to the lead-off spot in the batting order and the Ranger second baseman responded amazingly.

Nelson crashed a three-run homer off Dave Lemanczyk and later added a run-scoring single to support Jim Bibby's four-hit shutout as the Rangers took a 9-0 victory over Detroit.

The return to the lead-off spot came as a surprise to Nelson.

"I've been going so bad lately," he said. "I didn't have any idea he was planning it."

Martin said the move was no big deal.

"With Alex Johnson out of the lineup I needed a lead-off man who can run and I had noticed Dave had been swinging the bat a little better the last couple of days, so I stuck him in there."

Nelson has failed to regain his hitting eye since coming off the disabled list June 10 after suffering ankle and whiplash injuries in a collision with teammate Lenny Randle, May 11.

"I'm almost back to 100 per cent," said Nelson. "It's taken me quite a while to get over the injuries and my performance has really suffered. Nobody knows that more than me."

Nelson's homer broke up a scoreless battle between Bibby 16-14, and Lemanczyk in the fifth. The Rangers went on to add thre more in the sixth, two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

The shutout was the fifth of the year for Bibby, who leads the American League in that department. The big righthander struck out four and walked three and was in trouble only twice.

Former Steer Top Greenbelt Player

CHILDRESS — Big Spring's Doug Smith led the East All-Stars to a 33-24 come from behind victory in the annual Green belt Bowl here Saturday and for his troubles, he was named the Most Valuable Offensive Player of the game.

DOUG SMITH

Smith rushed for over 200 yards in the contest and scored touchdowns of 35 and 96 yards in the game to lead the East squad from a third quarter deficit to the 33-24 win. He also handled the team's punting, and place kicking duties, and also scored three extra points. He also played on defense occasionally.

The 165-pound back lettered at Big Spring High School two years in football and three years in track and has signed for a football scholarship to Howard Payne College in Brownwood.

The East team ran from the I formation under Howard Payne coaches Dean Slayton and Harold Mayo.

Quarterbacking the East Squad were Dean Lowe of Brownwood and Steve Reddell of Midland.

Red Hot Expos Top Slumping Astros

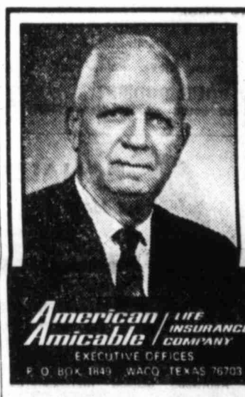

HOUSTON (AP) — Montreal pitcher Steve Renko says the National League East race will be close all the way and the Expos will be in it.

"The difference in this team and last year's team is we think we can win it this year," Renko said Sunday after the Expos had defeated the Houston Astros, 5-2, for their fifth consecutive victory.

Renko, now 9-11, blanked Houston on four hits until the eighth when Houston got both of its runs.

The Expos took a 2-0 lead enroute to their three-game sweep of the Astros in the fourth on Jim Northrup's two-run home run which followed a walk to Mike Jorgensen. It was the second home run of the series by Northrup who was traded to Montreal last week by the Detroit Tigers.

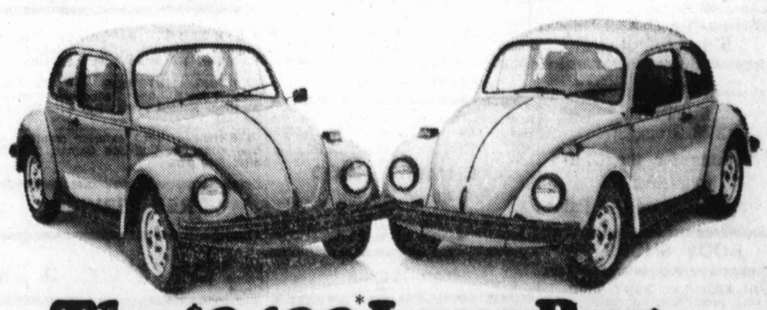

The Expos added three runs in the eighth. Pinchhitter Jose Morales doubled in two and Tim Foli singled in another.

Wedding Vows Said In Church At Dalhart

SETS DATE — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Halfmann Jr., 421 Westover, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Cynthia Ann, to Danny Hugh Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Webb, Lovington, N.M. The couple will be married Sept. 20 in College Baptist Church with Dr. Jimmy Law officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Virgil Bryant are on a trip to South Texas following their wedding Saturday afternoon in St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Dalhart.

The bride is the former Felice Michele Gaskill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlon E. Gaskill of Dalhart, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Neal Bryant, 705 W. Marcy.

Upon returning from their wedding trip, the couple will reside at 301 Worth, Sudan where he will be band director for the Sudan Independent School District.

A graduate of Big Spring High School, he received a bachelor of music education degree this month at Texas Tech University. The bride, a graduate of Dalhart High School, is a senior elementary education major at Texas Tech.

Nuptial music was by Mrs. Don Jackson, organist, and Mrs. Richard A. Grimes, Odessa, and Hubert Murphy, vocalists. Bouquets of white gladioli graced the altar, and arrangements of greenery were placed on the chancel railing.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of matte jersey; the bodice accented with bands of Venise lace bordering a V neckline and outlining the high-rise waistline. The lace was repeated on cuffs of the Juliet sleeves, and the full skirt swept into an attached chapel train. Her veil of illusion was held by a headdress of lace and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of orchids, gypsophila and ferns.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. C.E. Vilfordi, Austin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Frances Otto, Wichita Falls; and Miss Miranda Novak and Mrs. Hood T. Badger, both of Huston. Mrs. Vilfordi wore a floor-lenght, empire gown of pastel blue polka dot knit with lace marking the midriff and a ruffle at the hemline. The others wore matching dresses in individual colors of yellow, peach and lime. They carried nosegays of daisies, carnations and ferns.

MRS. ROBERT VIRGIL BRYANT

Roger Grisham, Big Spring, was best man, and groomsmen were Richard A. Grimes, Odessa; Rodney Newell, Big Spring; and Mark Gaskill, brother of the bride. Grimes also served as an usher with Randy Grimes of Big Spring. Mass was served by Matthew Gaskill, brother of the bride; and Dale Barber.

The bride's table at the reception in the Starlite Room of Western Skies Motel was covered with white satin caught at the corners with swags and white satin bows. The centerpiece was an epergne holding peach, green and yellow flowers. The bridegroom's table was centered with a candelabrum arranged with yellow daisies.

Miss Denise Gaskill, sister of the bride, presided at the register, and those serving were Mrs. Danny Ford, Hartley; Mrs. Johnny Stevens, Lubbock; Miss Carol Ogle, Miss Nan Barber and Miss Kay Wilcoxson.

GUESTS.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Surovack, Sealy, and Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Gaskill, Wolfe City; the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Barber, Big Spring, and Mrs. G.L. Bryant, Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Grimes, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Don Barber, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Decorte, DeSoto; Mr. and Mrs. E.G. Camp and Mrs. Leroy Hickey, all of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hlavinka, East Bernard; Mrs. Nancy Surovcak and Marianne, both of Houston; and Mrs. Bob Gray Holly, Greenville.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the same location as the reception, with the bridegroom's parents as host. There were 35 guests, and floral arrangements carried out the wedding colors of pastel blue, peach, yellow and green.

Forsan Resident Has Surgery

'All' Man?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the man who likes to wear ladies lingerie, and claims to be "all man."

My husband was one of those. He, too, served with the Marines, during which time he was sexually involved with an ex-Green Beret. I finally had a private detective get pictures of the two of them together, which was all the evidence I needed. His boyfriend was the father of four, and I was pregnant with my fifth at the time.

We are divorced now, and nobody can understand why I left a handsome, 6-foot, 210-pound, masculine-looking man who was "good" to me and the kids, and who had a pleasant, easy-going personality.

Abby, please warn other women that men who like to wear women's lingerie are not "all men" like they say. I don't care if they're ex-marines, ex-policemen or olympic champions. Don't use my name. My children don't know about their father. Sign me. . .

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: Men who get their kicks from dressing in women's attire are transvestites. Some are bi-sexual, some are homosexual, and some, strangely enough, are strictly heterosexual. And unless a woman can go along with it (which takes a very understanding woman), these men are not for marrying.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me in what state I can marry my former daughter-in-law? She was divorced from my son two years ago.

I have been looking after her ever since her divorce, and we are very fond of each other. It is not what you think. I only want to marry her so she will be the sole owner of my estate.

Answer soon as I have heart trouble.

BORROWED TIME

DEAR BORROWED: Since there is no blood relationship between you and your former daughter-in-law, you may get married in any state.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Tell the small-town bartender who doesn't like to lie over the phone to handle those calls as his big city cousins do. The tactful bartender will page the individual, and if no one answers the page, that is what he reports to the caller.

Some people meet in bars for business reasons, and don't want to be bothered by phone calls; others simply want a few relaxing moments away from their daily routines. A well-managed bar sells a lot more than drinks, which is one reason patrons will pay six times more for a drink at a bar than they would for the same thing at home.

PATRON

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading about the 80-year-old man who looks 60 and dances around like Fred Astaire whenever there is music.

I knew you would say, "Let him have his fun and be glad he has his health." You almost always let the older generation do what they want. If that letter had been from a mother complaining about her teen-age daughter, you would have said, "Tell her if she can't act like a lady, she should stay home."

My father is 60 and looks like he is 80, but he conducts himself in a manner fitting the occasion.

If that woman lets her father go to the wedding and act like a donkey that will make two of them there.

R.L.L.

DEAR R.L.L.: If you see two "donkeys" here, I see three!

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROBERTA: Don't envy anyone. Few things are as good on the inside as they appear to be on the outside.

..Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions."
