Steps taken to curb fights at SHS

Reacting to fears from parents and students, administrators on Thursday announced plans to help prevent what some perceive as an escalating violence problem at Snyder High School.

The action was prompted by a Jan. 7 altercation at the south parking lot, which sent a 15-year-old boy to the hospital with a broken leg.

SHS Principal Larry Scott announced the plans in the form of recommendations to the board, which will go into effect today. The plans include more teacher supervision, the use of two-way radios and police interaction. The recommendations followed meetings this week with Superintendent Dalton Moseley and Police Chief Lannie Lee, among others.

Scott said the school will change its teacher duty assignments so that some teachers will be more visible when students change classes and during tutorials.

The school also plans to purchase four two-way radios for quick communication. The radios will be on the same frequency as Snyder Police Department. In addition, an off-duty police officer will be on campus from 11 until noon and from 3 until 4 p.m.

In the future, said Scott, police will be called in the event of a fight on campus and disorderly conduct charges will be filed. Scott said a student's first fight will result in a one-day suspension and five days suspension from participating in or attending extracurricular activities. A second fight will result in a one-day suspension and 10 days out of extracurricular activities. A student involved in a fight for the third time will be assigned to the HOBBS School.

"These requests can be implemented. I think that by taking these steps they will bring things back to where they need to be," said Supt. Moseley.

Scott said he believes teachers do a good job in trying to prevent problems in the hallways, but "They can't see everything. They.

SISD approves Ira request, personnel recommendations

Snyder public schools board of trustees approved a request from Ira ISD and personnel recommendations during its January meeting Thursday evening.

The board also met in special session to discuss plans for hiring a superintendent, and set another special meeting for noon Monday.

Trustees approved a request from Ira ISD to purchase about 19 Weighted Average Daily Attendance (WADA) credits from Snyder ISD for a gross amount of $96,000. The proposal will net Snyder ISD approximately $31,000.

Board members lauded the move, saying it will help the local school district as well as Ira ISD.

Ira is considered a rich district by the state, and must reduce its wealth per student under Senate Bill 7. One way to do that is to purchase WADA from other districts. Ira could send money directly to the state, but instead elected to purchase WADA from Snyder ISD, and keep the funds on an area level.

Board members approved four personnel recommendations, including a one-year contract extension for Dr. Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent. Trustees also approved hiring Susan Stowe as a district-wide diagnostician, Rodell Davis as a special education instructor at West Elementary and Marla Rigsby as a kindergarten teacher at Central Elementary.

The board approved a bid of $41,500 from King Consultants Inc. to manage the junior high asbestos abatement project. Lawton Taylor, director of maintenance, said the actual fee should be less, since the bid is for a 70-day project and the actual project will take fewer days.

At the recommendation of Lee McNair, business manager, the board passed on a request to join a multi-regional purchasing cooperative. McNair said a new cooperative is being formed in this area, which may better serve the school. The item will be placed on next month's agenda.

The board also approved the transfer of $735 in technology funds to purchase a Macintosh computer for textbook inventory, and okayed bills and previous minutes.

Lee Presswood, principal of Northeast Elementary, gave the campus report report.

Earlier in the evening, the board met with Dr. E.C. Leslie, area representative for the Texas Association of School Boards, concerning a superintendent search. The meeting was the board's first in the process of finding a replacement for superintendent Dalton Moseley, who announced last month that he will retire at the end of the school year.

Leslie, a former superintendent of the Lubbock ISD, told trustees that selecting a superintendent

FFA show is Saturday

The Future Farmers of America Chapter Stock Show will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. in the coliseum annex building.

Weigh-in for 100 hogs, 30 lambs and several steers will be at 7 p.m. today.

David Fraizer, vocational-ag teacher at Snyder High School, said the FFA has 150 students feeding stock at the present time. The chapter show will help prepare the students for the Scurry County Jr. Livestock show scheduled next week. According to Fraizer, around 75 students have never shown animals before and this show will give them some practice.

A $5 entry fee will be paid by each participant. This jackpot will be divided among the top 50 percent of each class. In addition to winning money, plaques will be awarded for grand champion and reserve champion.

Lambs, hogs and steers will be judged in that order by Wesley Fraze of Lubbock.

Snyder native stars in 'Tombstone'

Powers Boothe says he enjoys playing in westerns

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

For Snyder native Powers Boothe, playing the part of Curly Bill in "Tombstone" was more than just a job — it was a lot of fun.

"Villains are always more fun to play," Boothe said Thursday during a telephone interview from his home in Los Angeles.

Boothe, a 1966 graduate of Snyder High School, patterned his character after one of his favorite actors, Lee Marvin, and his role in "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance." The character, Curly Bill, is the leader of the Cowboys, an outlaw gang which terrorized Tombstone, Ariz. during the 1880s.

"Tombstone" continues this week at the local Cinema I & II theater, it's third week in Snyder. The movie also stars Kurt Russell as the legendary Wyatt Earp, Val Kilmer as Doc Holliday, Bill Paxton as Morgan Earp and Sam Elliott as Virgil Earp.

"Everyone had a terrific time on the set," Boothe said.

"Kurt's a great guy and an all American boy. There were no particular traumas on the set. Everyone's ego was in check. Everyone really wanted to make the movie. Everyone was always showing each other different tricks."

The role of outlaw Curly Bill was a natural one for Boothe, who grew up in Snyder, has always been a western fan and who enjoys riding horses. He said he also read a great deal about that period in Arizona to prepare for his role.

Filming in Arizona started the middle of May and finished Aug. 28.

Boothe joined the cast after writer/director Kevin Jarre offered him the job. "He liked some of the other things I had done," he explained.

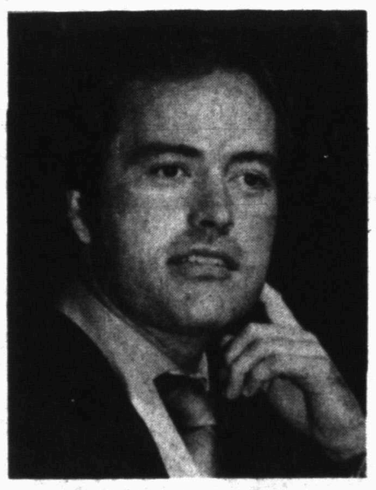

In the standard actor's response, Boothe said he wouldn't pick a favorite role because "I haven't done it yet," but he did say that if he were limited to one type of movie he would choose westerns.

Fortunately for his fans, Boothe's career hasn't stopped since he portrayed Jim Jones in a two-part television miniseries which originally aired in the 1980s. Prior to moving to California, he was active in theatre, living in New York for seven years.

Boothe's next projects include a thriller for NBC, which he will begin filming in February, and a movie about Vietnam which begins production in March in the Phillipines.

One of Boothe's recent roles was in "Rapid Fire" in which he co-starred with the late Brandon Lee who was fatally injured during a stunt for "The Crow." "He

Incumbents to top ballot list

Incumbents' names will be at the top of the list when it comes time to vote in the Democratic Primary in March.

Drawing for ballot order in the local races was held earlier this week. Incumbents came out first in all three contested races.

That means that Jerry Gannaway, seeking another term as Precinct 4 commissioner, will have his name above challenger Forrest Wemken on the ballot; Charlie Bell will be at the top of the list for county treasurer, with Beverly Glasscock to follow; and Wanda Rushing's name will appear before Charlie Reynolds' in the Democratic bid for Precinct 1 peace justice.

Drawing for ballot order in the Republican Primary is to take place at 5:30 today, according to Drew Bullard, party chairman. The only contested race in the Republican Primary is that of county judge, where incumbent Bob Doolittle is being challenged by Ricky Fritz.

There are other Republicans running, but none will be opposed until the November general election. They include Precinct 2 commissioner Roy Idom, who will face Democratic challenger Wayland Huddleston; Charles Henderson, who will oppose either Gannaway or Wemken for commissioner of Precinct 4; Janet Merritt, who will face Bell or Glasscock for county treasurer; and Polly Wadleigh Echols, who will face incumbent Elois Pruitt for district clerk.

Unopposed as a Democrat is Bobby Goodwin, who is running for county judge and will face either Doolittle or Fritz in November.

Candidates without an opponent in either primary are Frances Billingsley, incumbent for county clerk; John Williamson for Precinct 2 peace justice; and Jim Wilson for Precinct 1 constable. All three are Democrats.

Wilson may have a candidate in November. Sam Adams has announced he will seek the constable's post as an independent.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Snyder is looking for a director of economic development, and the Sweetwater Reporter has announced that our Nolan County neighbors have ended their search.

Starting in the job on Jan. 1 was Tim Fambrough, retired district manager of TU Electric. Fambrough, whose district included Snyder, is a longtime civic worker for Sweetwater and is well-known in Snyder and Scurry County.

Fambrough will office in the chamber of commerce building but will work for the Sweetwater Enterprise for Economic Development (Seed).

For the past several years, hospitals have competed vigorously for a larger share of the baby-birthing market.

Russell Skiles, in the Lamesa Press-Reporter, came up with an idea to possibly get a corner on the OB market.

Skiles noted that hospitals have built special facilities and amenities and offer all sorts of incentives to include candlelight dinners for the parents of newborns.

"But they may be overlooking what could be a major draw for any second or third-time parent who already has a child reaching two, three or four."

The idea came during Christmas when Russell was trying to get all the toys to operate properly. "Kids ought to come with a life-time supply of batteries.

"Think what it would do for a hospital's business to offer a life-time supply of batteries for any child born in its facility."

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, says a great meeting chairman is easy to describe.

A good chairman is one who has the ability to let each person speak his piece without letting everything go to pieces."

Expansion

A plan to add beds at existing prison units — including Snyder's Price Daniel unit — unanimously was approved by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice board meeting this morning in Austin.

Area expansions will include Snyder, Colorado City, Lamesa and Abilene. The TDCJ hopes to have the new dorm-style facilities, to be built inside existing perimeter fences, operational within six months.

Five AIDS deaths reported

MIDLAND (AP) — Five Permian Basin residents died of AIDS in an eight-day stretch this month after their weakened immune systems made them susceptible to pneumonia and other infections, an agency says.

Four of the patients were clients of the Permian Basin AIDS Coalition, said its director, Cathryn Jackson. The fifth died just two days after learning he had the disease, Ms. Jackson said Thursday.

"Two had been on life support. It was not that big of a shock," she said. "But for the third, it was a shock. His lung collapsed and he died very peacefully."

She said she believed three of the five AIDS patients, who died from Jan. 3 to Tuesday, had suffered from a form of pneumonia. A virulent form of flu has spread through the Midland-Odessa area the past few weeks.

The victims' death certificates, however, will list an AIDS-related illness as the cause, she said.

"In the winter months, these diseases — such as flu and strep — are hard on clients," Ms. Jackson said.

The Midland Area AIDS Support group predicted that high numbers of AIDS deaths won't be uncommon in the future.

"That is not going to be such a staggering number in the future," said Judy Warren, a member of the support group. "It is a high number, but we're going to see it again."

Ms. Jackson said her coalition takes on about two to four new AIDS cases each week. The coalition currently is handling 123 active cases in the 17-county Permian Basin, she said.

Seventy-one AIDS patients died in Midland and Ector counties in 1993.

The good news about impotence

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I always enjoy your column and hope you will do one on impotence.

DEAR READER: I receive a constant stream of letters inquiring about impotence, one of mankind's most ubiquitous ailments, which is marked by an inability to achieve erection. The causes are legion and range from circulatory deficiencies (common) to psychological factors (rare).

In my practice of general internal medicine, the most frequent cause of impotence is prescription medication. Almost any drug used for hypertension or heart ailments can affect sexual functioning, often with disastrous consequences to a partner's happiness. Consequently, my standard approach for any impotent patient on medication is to alter, stop or change the drugs. In many cases, potency returns in a matter of days.

Another surprisingly common cause of impotence in my practice is alcohol abuse. I'm not referring to the skid-row bum. In contrast, I see perfectly normal, successful men who are "social drinkers" — with sexual problems. Many of these men are retired, and it is in this group that the effects of moderate alcohol can be most damaging, because as we age, we become less tolerant of the substance. In a guy 70 years old, a couple of stiff ones before dinner and a night cap at bedtime can have a profoundly negative effect on potency.

Therefore, when I see such patients, I tell them to cut down on alcohol (or, better, eliminate it) for a few days. This can produce astonishing results.

Of course, many cases of impotence are due to severe circulatory problems, such as the premature arteriosclerosis seen in diabetic men. In such instances, referral to a urologist is mandatory because special therapy — such as vascular surgery or penile implants — may be necessary.

The good news: Most cases of impotence are treatable, or even curable.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Impotence." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Administration plans crop insurance overhaul in 1995

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department wants to overhaul crop insurance to bring more farmers in and encourage Congress to hand out disaster assistance less freely.

The plan will be a key part of the 1995 budget proposal for the Agriculture Department.

By making available a system of free "catastrophic coverage," the plan aims at reforming the two-track system through which farmers get help when floods, hail, drought and other perils wipe out their crops.

The government has a crop insurance program that is poorly used, in part because of high premiums. Less than 40 percent of eligible acres are covered, and the government has been paying out $1.40 for every $1 in premiums, the General Accounting Office has said.

But farmers also know that Congress readily approves disaster aid each year. Even farmers who don't buy insurance collect something.

Together, the government has averaged $1.5 billion to $1.6 billion in combined crop insurance and disaster payments each year, according to Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., a top congressional advocate of reform.

Although the catastrophic coverage would be low, it would be enough to protect farmers from total losses.

Also, farmers who get the free coverage would be brought into the system and given the option of buying more coverage at a cheaper rate than now. A larger pool should spread out the risk and lower costs to the government and private companies that write the government-subsidized policies.

Politically, the system is designed to give Congress the will if not the mandate to refuse disaster payments.

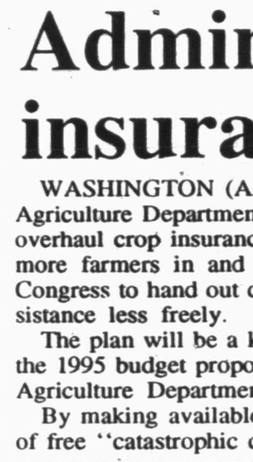

"It allows people in Congress to say with a straight face, 'This is free, don't expect any more of a handout. If you want better coverage, then you ought to think about assessing your own risk and buying insurance,'" Kerrey said.

Although there are crop disasters of varying sizes every year, disaster spending doesn't count against the deficit, again making it easy for Congress to spend freely. The rationale is that disasters cannot be foreseen and therefore not budgeted for.

But as a result of the proposed changes, costs will have to be added to the budget, forcing lawmakers to look for cuts elsewhere.

"From a budget viewpoint it's tricky, but from a policy viewpoint it's essential," said Rep. Richard J. Durbin, D-Ill., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture.

Downs and ups of bridge

By Phillip Alder

The average often passes unnoticed; it is the abnormal that is highly visible. For example, it is hard to overlook a basketball player. But short people can attract attention too. As Max Kauffmann said, "He's very superstitious — he thinks it's unlucky to walk under a black cat."

There are bridge deals in which staying low works well. Given that big hint, how would you plan the play on this deal in both six and seven hearts? In each case, West leads a trump.

Even though it is a great contract, it isn't easy to reach six hearts. In my auction, South overbid. He opened with a strong and artificial two clubs and then followed with a jump rebid to show a solid suit. That was enough to persuade North to shoot slamward.

There is no problem in seven hearts — except that you cannot make the contract with this layout. Needing to find the spades 3-3, you draw trumps, play a spade to dummy's king, cash the spade ace and ruff a spade. When West discards, you cannot do better than play a club to dummy's king and try the diamond finesse. Still no luck: two down.

In six, though, you need only a 4-2 spade break. After drawing trumps, you should duck the first round of spades.

Suppose East switches to a diamond (his best defense). Win with the ace, play a spade to dummy's king, cash the ace, discarding a club, and ruff a spade. Return to dummy with a club to the king and jettison your last loser, the diamond queen, on the established spade six.

King's 'Stand' will become TV miniseries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For a long time, Stephen King didn't want to bring "The Stand," his novel about an apocalypse, to television.

"You can't do the end of the world, then break in and say, 'And now a word from Charmin toilet tissue,'" the author told the Daily News of Los Angeles.

But he's given in — in a big way.

King will make a cameo appearance in an eight-hour miniseries featuring Jamey Sheridan, Ruby Dee, Molly Ringwald and Rob Lowe this year on ABC, the newspaper reported Thursday.

King said he changed his mind after seeing that a lot could be done in a miniseries.

The 1978 novel is about a plague that escapes from a military lab and kills off much of humanity. Some survivors find themselves on the side of good in an apocalyptic battle against a Satan-like leader.

King said he got involved in the project because "in some ways, it's the most important thing I've ever written."

Russian attends U.S. gun show

DALLAS (AP) — Mikhail T. Kalashnikov, Russian designer of history's most widely used military rifle, dropped in on America's biggest gun show Thursday "to see what people are doing."

The 74-year-old Kalashnikov, who flew in earlier this week from Russia, developed the AK-47 assault rifle just after World War II. A favorite of old East Bloc armies and guerrilla groups, up to 50 million Kalashnikov-style weapons are believed to have been produced over more than four decades.

The silver-haired gun designer has recently developed a semiautomatic hunting version of his automatic military weapon. A Dallas weapons dealer, Big Bear Arms, is seeking federal government approval to import the weapon into the United States.

"It's a well-made gun," said Big Bear's Berg Boghossian. "We expect to sell it for $600 to $700" — hundreds of dollars less than comparable U.S.-made weapons.

Kalashnikov came to Dallas for the SHOT show — Shooting, Hunting, Outdoors Trade Show — as Big Bear's guest.

"All my life I worked with guns, so this is an opportunity for me to come and see different kinds of guns and production, and what people are doing," he told a reporter through an interpreter.

It was his fourth visit to the United States since 1989.

"Everyone is so kind here," he said. "It's a pleasure to be here."

The annual SHOT show brings together thousands of retailers with 1,250 manufacturers and suppliers of firearms, ammunition, archery gear and outdoors equipment.

Despite nationwide moves toward stricter gun control, organizers said, interest and business remain strong.

Trainer Ben Jones started 11 horses in the Kentucky Derby and won six times.

Murder charges dropped against woman

ODESSA (AP) — Almost three years after 91-year-old William Bradley died, authorities have dropped a murder charge against his widow, Fay Irene Bradley, who is now also 91.

Mrs. Bradley had admitted to police that she fought with her husband during the week before his death. Some of the fights occurred because her husband of 67 years wanted to have sex with her against her will, she said.

Mrs. Bradley was indicted June 17, 1991, and charged with killing her husband "by striking him with a walking cane" on March 15, 1991.

The charges were dropped Wednesday.

Ector County District Attorney John Smith said Thursday that he decided to dismiss the charge for several reasons. It is possible that some of the injuries were accidental, Smith said.

Mrs. Bradley, whose husband is believed to have suffered from Alzheimer's disease, could have caused some of the injuries while trying to take care of her husband, he said.

In a statement to police on March 22, 1991, Mrs. Bradley said:

"I want to say that there were times that he would make me have sex with him and he would stay on me for about 30 minutes and then I would kick him off and he then would be so upset with me that he would hit and kick me."

Her husband often physically resisted her when she tried to help him, she said. Sometimes she used violence to get him to do what she wanted him to do, she added.

"When he sometimes ate breakfast I would have to slap him across the face to get him to eat and sometimes I would have to hit him pretty hard," she said.

"I also want to add that when Bill and I had our disputes or fights I never had any intention of hurting Bill. I was just trying to get him off of me."

Smith said that in deciding to dismiss the charge he considered the cost of a trial, autopsy results, potential "juror sympathy" for Mrs. Bradley, the results of a psychiatric evaluation and Mrs. Bradley's ability to stand trial.

Smith said the woman's age also was a factor in dismissing the charge.

"In a word, 'Yes,' but it was not the determining factor. But it certainly had a role," he said.

"My impression of her was that she wasn't really capable of withstanding a trial and the grueling nature that a murder trial would take," Smith said.

Mrs. Bradley has remained free on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond since she was arrested in March 1991.

According to reports from an autopsy conducted by pathologist Dr. Ralph Erdmann, Bradley was beaten to death with a blunt object. Odessa police recovered a metal walking cane believed to have been used during a quarrel between the couple.

In a statement the day of her husband's death, Mrs. Bradley described the difficulty of looking after him.

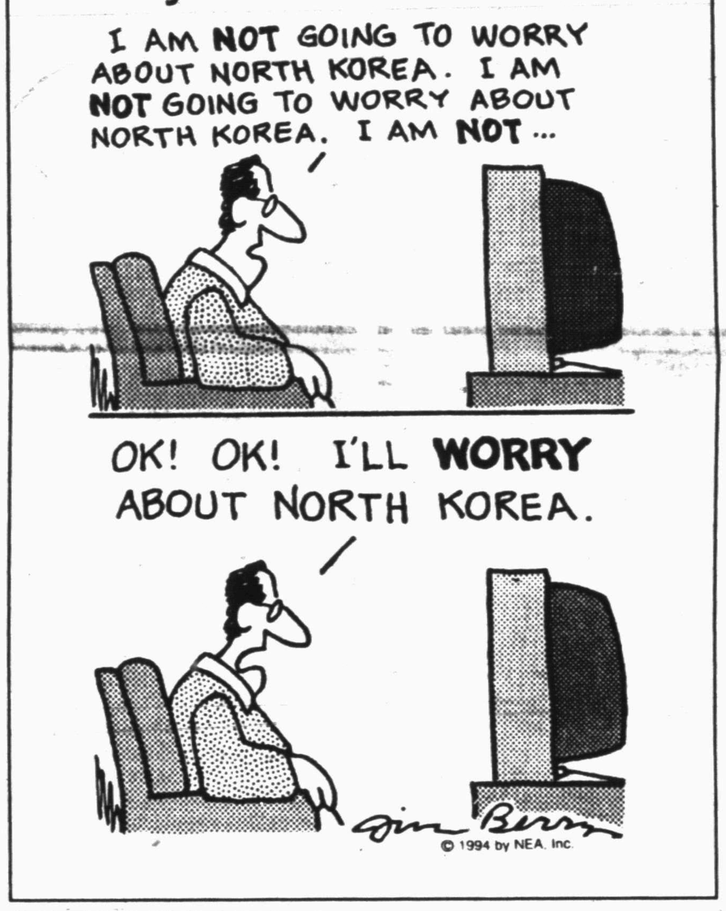

"I have taken care of my husband for two years when he was in and out of his mind," she said. "There were times when he would think he was a boxer and be boxing at me or shadows on the wall, and there were times when he hit me, but he did not know what he was doing.

"I have kept this a secret, not wanting anyone to know our problems, and not wanting anyone to know that he was not always right in his head."

Mrs. Bradley's attorney, Abner Burnett, praised the dismissal and said no jury would have convicted her.

"I don't think there's any way after the story was out that anyone would have ever sent her to prison," Burnett said.

Clinton to visit Houston next month, Slagle says

AUSTIN (AP) — State Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle says President Clinton's popularity in Texas is on the upswing.

"I have a poll sitting on my desk right now that was finished in the middle of December that shows Clinton's approval rating in Texas at 51 percent," Slagle said Thursday after a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee meeting.

Slagle announced that Clinton will visit Houston next month for a high-dollar political fund-raising event.

The event at the Wortham Center on Feb. 6 will cost $1,000 per person and $10,000 per table, he said.

He said 15 percent of the funds will go toward the state Democratic Party and the remainder will be used by the Democratic National Committee.

Slagle said he hoped to be able to arrange another fund-raising visit from Clinton this year for a less expensive event.

In other business, the State Democratic Executive Committee recommended San Antonio as the site of the 1996 Democratic National Convention.

Party officials also adopted a resolution welcoming state Rep. [illegible] who recently switched from the Republican Party.

In other political developments:

— Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Jim Mattox, campaigning Thursday in Houston at an inner-city black Baptist church, picked up the endorsement of the Baptist Ministers Association of Houston, one of the largest black ministers groups in the state.

Mattox swore in the officers of the association at a rousing service that featured energetic gospel singing and preaching.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Gentlemen, I want your reports on age reversal today or I will personally spank both of you."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"YES, JOEY, YOU'RE LUCKY TO HAVE A FRIEND LIKE ME WHO IS ALWAYS RIGHT."

Tigers, FHS battle in 2-4A cage debut

The Snyder Tigers have to be the surprise of a very tough District 2-4A.

Snyder, picked fifth in the district in loop basketball coaches' preseason voting, wound up the non-district portion of its schedule with a 14-5 mark and will open its league slate today at Frenship.

"Our non-district record has been way beyond what I anticipated," admitted Snyder coach Bud Birks. "We've played a pretty balanced schedule of 3A, 4A and 5A teams, and we've played well almost every time out.

"To be honest," Birks added, "I'd have been happy with a .500 record going into district."

The Tigers' last outing was a 44-32 win over Seminole a week ago.

"I thought we played really well for three quarters of the game," the SHS coach reported. "We were playing at the level we need to be at for all our district games. We played smart, we didn't turn the ball over and we played good defense."

The Tigers are led by senior Adrian Sneed, who canned 15 points against the Indians, and post Jimmy Henry and wing Jon Patrick, who each hit nine.

Frenship, 20-3 after Tuesday's 41-27 non-district win over Dumas, is led by second-team all-district senior Damon Harris, and returning starters Kendrick Hollie, a 6-3 senior, and 6-1 senior Dallas Grimes.

The FHS Tigers are picked to finish third in the loop and to improve on last season's 23-6 mark.

Frenship, voted No. 13 in the latest TABC poll, is tabbed to battle defending 2-4A champ Plainview, ranked No. 5 statewide, No. 10 Levelland and Estacado for the district's playoff slots.

The Snyder-Frenship JV game tips off at 5 p.m. The varsity matchup is scheduled for 8 p.m., immediately following the girls' game.

Frenship to entertain SHS in girls loop tilt

Snyder, still in search of its first District 2-4A win of the young season, has a tough draw today when the Lady Tigers visit Frenship.

The SHS girls carry a 7-12 overall record and an 0-2 mark in loop play, including Tuesday's 51-20 loss to perennial power Levelland on the road.

Senior Annie Ragland scored 14 points for the Lady Tigers, who gave up 20 transition points to the Loboettes' pressure defense.

"It wasn't so much what they did to us," said SHS coach Steve Qualls after the Levelland game, "it's what we did to ourselves."

"Frenship is pretty much the same as Levelland," Qualls continued. "You really can't concentrate on stopping one girl, because they are really balanced.

"I think they probably go inside a little more than Levelland did, so we'll try to pack the defense in down low.

"We'll probably see a lot of full-court pressure," Qualls said.

Frenship ranked in the top 15 among Texas Class 4A girls' teams, carries a 20-3 season record, 2-0 in league games, including a closer-than-expected 46-43 win at Lamesa Tuesday.

The FHS Lady Tigers are led by seniors Delawna Meloy and Summer Lawlis. The two six-footers combined for 28 points in Tuesday's victory.

Action begins at FHS with the 5 p.m. JV contest. The varsity tilt tips off at 6:30 p.m., followed by the SHS boys against Frenship in both teams' 2-4A debut.

Hermleigh, Ira meet in key 21-A matchup

The Ira Lady Bulldogs will have the home court advantage tonight when they battle cross-county rival Hermleigh in an early-season cage showdown for first place in the District 21-A standings.

Ira comes in with an 8-9 overall record and sports an unblemished 2-0 slate in league action, including a 56-23 hammering of Loraine on Tuesday.

Jody Rankin, who scored 18 against LHS, Jennifer Rankin, who wound up with 12, and Angie Robinson, who canned 10, are among the Lady Bulldogs' leaders.

Hermleigh, fresh from a 57-33 whipping of Westbrook Tuesday night, boasts a 10-6 season record and a 2-0 mark in loop games.

Top producers for the Lady Cardinals are Connie Payne, who finished with 14 points, 12 rebounds and eight steals, and Brandi Bates, who scored 12 points, snagged 12 boards, had six steals and four assists in the Westbrook game.

In tonight's late game, Ira (3-12) looks for its first 21-A win of the year when the Bulldogs and Cardinals collide.

IHS is coming off a 110-56 loss to league favorite Loraine on Tuesday, while the Cardinals (3-11 and 1-1) are trying to rebound from a 58-50 loss at Westbrook.

Ira is led by Coy Henderson and Ronal White, who scored 21 and 18 points respectively against Loraine, while Hermleigh counts on Ricky Sosa, who scored 18 and grabbed 10 rebounds in the Westbrook contest.

Hermleigh standout Chris Lambaren is listed as probable after suffering a twisted ankle and missing the second half of Tuesday's game.

Lambaren scored 10 and swept seven boards in just two quarters against the Wildcats.

The girls' game begins at 6:30 p.m., followed at 8 p.m. by the boys battle.

Dusters get past NMJC in OT

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Western Texas coach Ron Jones calls each Western Junior College Athletic Conference basketball win a gold mine.

He picked up another nugget on the season Thursday when his Lady Dusters rallied for a 69-64 overtime victory over New Mexico Junior College, after trailing by as many as 11 points early in the second half.

"It's so early in the conference," Jones said, "But every game will be just like this one. It's a battle and it's important to win. Every win in this conference is a gold mine. We're very happy to be 2-0 at this point."

A sterling defensive performance which held all-conference forward Marvina Burton to just six points, pushed Western Texas, which trailed at the half, 36-25.

"The defense was the difference in the game," Jones reported. "We played as good a defense as we've played all year, I think.

"The defense kept us in the game in the first half, even though we were struggling offensively."

A very physical New Mexico team held a 42-31 lead with 17:08 to play in the game. The advantage was trimmed to just three, 44-41, on a 10-2 WTC run that included hoops by Christy Cates and LaMeshia Roland, and was capped by a pair of free throws from Cates with under nine minutes to play.

The Dusters took the lead with six minutes to play on a basket by Roland, who had made it a one point game on the previous possession with two freebies.

New Mexico claimed a 59-57 lead with :23 seconds left before Cates coolly sank both ends of a 1-and-1 to send the contest into OT.

Western Texas took over the game in the extra period, beginning with an 8-0 run.

"We did the same things in overtime that we did in the last seven or eight minutes of the game to get the lead," coach Jones said.

Those things included keeping NMJC out of the paint and hitting six straight free throws, including two each by Moss, Cates and Murrell.

Shrae Johnson wound up the Dusters' run with a leaner with under three minutes left that gave WTC a 67-59 lead.

Murrell banked in a layup just before the final buzzer to ice the WTC victory.

"I think we're becoming a much better team," Jones said. "I think that our bad habits were exposed at the (preseason) conference tournament and we've corrected some of them.

"This was a lot different than the Odessa game," the coach said, comparing Thursday's win to WTC's 71-68 decision on Monday. "This one was a lot more physical, but we played much better defensively. At Odessa, it was our offense that won the game. But, we're maturing and we're gaining confidence."

The Lady Thunderbirds were paced by sophomore post Trinella Hinex, who scored a game-high 23 points. Robinson finished with 14 and Latriee Johnson had 12.

Western Texas' assault was led by sophomore center Paulita Murrell, who accounted for 21. Moss, who hit all four of the Dusters' threes, canned 15, and Cates hit 10.

New Mexico slips to 11-7 on the year and 0-1 in WJCAC action, while WTC moves to 14-6 overall.

Jones and the Dusters will host two-time defending champion Howard on Thursday.

"I'm going to watch them (the Lady Hawks) play Monday," Jones said. " But I'm not going to even think about them for about 24 hours. I just want to enjoy being 2-0 for that long."

NEW MEXICO JC (64) — Robinson 4 5-9 14; Johnson 3 5-8 12; Lee 2 0-0 4; Roberson 0 1-2 1; Burton 3 0-0 6; Edwards 2 0-0 4; Jennings 0 0-1 0; Hinex 11 1-3 23; TOTALS 25 12-23 64.

WESTERN TEXAS (69) — Veitenheimer 0 0-1 0; Moss 4 3-4 15; Johnson 3 3-4 9; Roland 2 4-5 8; Thompson 0 1-2 1; Wilson 1 3-5 5; Cates 2 6-8 10; Murrell 8 5-7 21; TOTALS 20 25-36 69.

Haltime score: NMJC 36, WTC 25; 3-point goals: WTC 4 (Moss 4); NMJC 2 (Robinson 1, Johnson 1); Total fouls: WTC 24, NMJC 28; Fouled out: Cates, Jennings, Burton; technicals: none; Records: WTC 14-6, 2-0; NMJC 11-7, 0-1.

Former New York teammates lead squads into postseason

by The Associated Press

There are plenty of nifty Super Bowl scenarios still possible, one of the best being Phil Simms vs. Jeff Hostetler in a matchup of quarterbacks who led the New York Giants to Super Bowl victories.

To get that far this time, Simms and Hostetler both need to win Saturday.

Simms, who emerged as the winner in the Giants quarterback controversy, will be in San Francisco to take on the 49ers in an NFC semifinal.

Hostetler, who left New York and signed with the Los Angeles Raiders as a free agent, will be in Buffalo to play the Bills in an AFC semifinal.

Another neat Super Bowl matchup would feature Joe Montana against his old team, the 49ers and quarterback Steve Young.

For that to happen, Montana and the Kansas City Chiefs need to win at Houston on Sunday in the AFC. In the other NFC game, Green Bay is at Dallas.

"What's great is it's worked out for everybody," Simms said. "Joe's in Kansas City playing in the playoffs. Jeff's in Los Angeles; it's worked out good for him. And it's worked out for me here."

"I've gotten to know Steve a little. I want to beat him just as much as I wanted to beat Joe. You don't have to say anything about him after these three years he's put up. Everybody's measuring against him now."

Montana was a three-time MVP in the Super Bowl and won four titles overall. Simms was MVP in the Giants' win over Denver in the 1987 Super Bowl and Hostetler starred in the Giants' victory over Buffalo for the 1991 championship.

Young, meanwhile, is hoping to play in his first title game. Last year, his first as a starter after succeeding Montana, he was the NFL's MVP, but committed six turnovers in two playoff games. He was intercepted twice in San Francisco's 30-20 loss to Dallas in the NFC championship.

The 49ers are the league's highest-scoring team, while the Giants allowed the fewest points.

"It's going to be a very close, guarded, efficient-type game," Young said. "Each possession we have to come away with some points. That's going to be a tough chore because their defense plays well. They make you earn it all the way down the field."

SWC coaches not sure of boycott participation

DALLAS (AP) — As the clock ticks down toward a possible weekend boycott of college basketball games, two of the three minority coaches in the Southwest Conference continue to straddle the fence.

Talk of a boycott has circulated since Monday, when the NCAA refused to restore a 14th basketball scholarship two years after it voted to cut scholarships from 15 to 13.

The Black Coaches Association says minorities are particularly hurt by the decision. The BCA has spearheaded the possible boycott and says a walkout is likely, but officials won't say when it might happen.

Of the three SWC teams with minority coaches, two play Saturday — John Shumate's Southern Methodist team plays at Texas and Alvin Brooks' Houston team is at Texas Tech. Rice, coached by Willis Wilson, plays Texas A&M in Houston Sunday.

Only Brooks, a first-year coach at Houston, was on the record about his position. He said Wednesday he would not participate in a boycott.

"I ... support the legislation to give potential student-athletes the opportunity to attend college, particularly those student athletes who could not attend college without this financial assistance," Brooks said in a statement.

"However, I also feel that it would not be fair to my team, our fans and the University of Houston to boycott our basketball game against Texas Tech this Saturday."

Shumate and Wilson reportedly had not decided Thursday whether to join in a protest.

Reagan era memos played down experiments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under orders from Congress to document 30 years of Cold War radiation experiments on humans, the Reagan administration in the mid-1980s decided instead to play down the issue, rejecting suggestions for follow-up reviews and compensation, Energy Department papers show.

The department's arguments ranged from there was "no scientific reason" to believe the subjects suffered long-term harm to assertions that follow-up studies would "violate privacy," according to documents obtained by The Associated Press.

Congressional concerns over possible long-term injury to the subjects "appear to have been based on misunderstandings of ... the principles of human experimentation," then-Energy Secretary John Herrington said in a letter to Congress in early 1987.

Herrington, now an attorney in Walnut Creek, Calif., defended the department's stand at the time, but acknowledged in a telephone interview Thursday that in 1986 the issue "was not up on the screen" at the department in terms of priorities.

"We're finding out that it's something that needs more scrutiny, and I think it does," Herrington said. But he suggested that Congress also dropped the ball. "If Congress had said no, we want you to do more, we would have done more," he insisted.

But the Reagan administration's response seven years ago differed markedly from that in recent weeks of Clinton administration Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary. She has expressed public outrage that humans may have been used unwittingly in some of the government experiments.

O'Leary has promised full disclosure of all relevant documents, has set up hot lines for victims to call and suggested compensation for those who may have been harmed. And the effort has expanded well beyond the Energy Department into the Veterans Affairs Department, the Pentagon, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the CIA — all of which have been told to check records for human radiation experiments.

Already new details have emerged about experiments involving retarded teen-agers being fed radioactive cereal and servicemen who were injected with isotopes at a Navy hospital.

What is most striking, though, is that much of the information that has sparked outrage over the past two months was available publicly years ago.

The 1986 congressional findings outlined in a 39-page reported, "American Nuclear Guinea Pigs: Three Decades of Radiation Experiments on U.S. Citizens," barely caused a ripple among the public or inside the Reagan administration.

"It fell on deaf ears," said Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., the chairman of the House energy and power subcommittee that produced the findings based on DOE documents and scientific literature.

Responding to the subcommittee in February 1987, the department took pains to debunk the panel conclusions and strongly rejected recommendations for follow-up studies and compensation.

"There is no scientific reason to expect that any of the subjects who are not already being monitored will incur any harmful affects," Herrington wrote to Markey. "Therefore, there is neither any reason for attempting any further follow-up studies on these subjects nor to propose new legislation to compensate them."

Today, Herrington says, "I was satisfied with our answer. There had not been enough work done to establish that there was a problem." He also cited the Cold War mentality of the time. "The department was much more concerned with security and secrecy than it is today, and rightly so," he said.

Dr. Kenneth L. Mossman, a professor at Arizona State University and an expert on the biological effects of radiation, said the DOE assessments in the mid-1980s on long-term health effects from some radiation experiments may well be accurate, given that low dosages were administered.

But Mossman said more follow-up studies, nevertheless, should have been made. "It's important that we identify these (experimentation) subjects, review the medical records. We owe that to the people who were experimental subjects," he said in an interview Thursday.

A Reagan DOE staff summary responding to 17 cases cited by Markey, however, argued repeatedly against the need for

Dear Abby

Wife's Disappearing Act Gets Bad Reviews From Husband

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, a woman complained that her husband always charges ahead of her in crowds without bothering to determine whether she is following him.

I have a somewhat different problem. My wife and I will be walking down an aisle in a department store when — poof — she disappears in thin air! My children tell me they used to be terrified when they were little and she did that to them.

On a recent trip to Europe, she disappeared in a mob scene at a New York airport. I nearly went crazy trying to find her. She finally showed up and casually explained that she had stopped to talk with someone for a minute or two!

Abby, your suggestion that a man and his wife walk arm in arm through crowds misses the mark. It's much easier to burrow through a crowd single file than two abreast, but if I insist that she walk ahead of me so I can keep an eye on her, she gets insulted. Any solution?

MILWAUKEE

DEAR MILWAUKEE: Insist that she walk ahead anyway. She'll survive the insult with far less trauma than losing each other in a crowded airport or department store.

DEAR ABBY: When are people going to wake up to the fact that if a person asks people about their background or heritage, he is not necessarily racist, prejudiced or insensitive?

Recently I was buying pork chops from a Chinese butcher who asked me in broken English, "Where you from?"

I replied, "I'm from Pasadena, Calif., but I am of Polish descent — third generation. Why did you ask?"

He said, "You sure talk funny."

I suppose to be politically correct, I should have been insulted. Sorry, I thought it was great. I've developed friendships and had some interesting conversations with people I would have never known anything about if I hadn't asked, "Where are you from?"

That's how I got to know my Chinese hairdresser was raised in Japan, and my garage mechanic came from Armenia and was interned in a concentration camp in Siberia. I've learned a lot about Jewish religious customs, polished my Spanish with a lady from El Salvador, found out about the Buddhist religion from a man on a bus, and got some great recipes from Mormons in Utah and Scandinavians in North Dakota.

How are we going to learn about people whose cultures are different from our own if we're afraid to talk to each other?

MARILYN HUDSON
IN PASADENA

DEAR MARILYN: You make an excellent point. However, not all people are open and willing to answer questions asked by strangers; they feel it's an invasion of their privacy.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning books that one loans out and are never returned: I personally never loan a book to anyone unless I don't care whether I get it back or not.

I own a bookstore that handles out-of-print hardback books. In looking through a secondhand book, I found the following statement on the flyleaf:

"— AND PLEASE RETURN IT.

"This may seem a strange request, bu.. I find that while most of my friends are poor mathematicians, they are all damn good bookkeepers. — Ralph J. Stubbs"

Heritage Singers due here

The Howard Payne University Heritage Singers, under the direction of Mrs. Sara Baker, will present a concert of contemporary Christian music at Colonial Hill Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Sunday. It will be the group's second appearance in Snyder.

There is no admission charge, but a "love" offering will be taken. A nursery will also be provided.

The concert will feature a variety of styles, from contemporary Christian, Southern Gospel, to traditional hymn arrangements. This concert is a part of the Heritage Singers' 1994 tour of West Texas and New Mexico. Past tours have included California, Mexico and Wyoming.

This vocal group was formed in 1968 to present the gospel of Christ through musical concerts. They also seek to challenge the local church body to a new level of spiritual involvement.

Out of the original group came Cynthia Clawson, a contemporary Christian artist, who has won the Dove and Grammy awards. Her career has spanned 25 years and she sings over 100 concerts a year. She has earned the name "hymn singer of the year" through her album and concerts.

Members of the 1993-1994 group include Andrea Miller, Jennifer Roecker, Kym Tucker, Elisa Wallace, Annette Davis, Todd Melton, Stephen Sullivan, Jason Parks, Jeff Wilson, Chad Gann, Blake Felts, Mike Holland and David Eckhardt.

Traveling with the group is a school representative, Toby Foreman, who will be able to assist anyone interested in attending Howard Payne University. He was at one time a member of the Heritage Singers and is a recent graduate from the School of Music.

Two guilty pleas entered in court

Two guilty pleas, one for possession of a controlled substance and one for felony driving while intoxicated, were entered this week in 132nd District Court.

A Los Angeles man, 33-year-old Jerry Lynn Piazza, pled guilty to the possession charge and assessed a 10-year probated sentence and fined $1,000. The offense occurred on Oct. 8.

Roy Garza Jr., 21, of Snyder was sentenced to one year in the Scurry County Jail and fined $750 for a Dec. 4 offense of driving while intoxicated.

District Judge Gene Dulaney also revoked Garza's three-year probated sentence for a 1991 DWI conviction and ordered a one-year jail term. The two terms will be served concurrently.

In one case in which 18 people were injected with plutonium in the 1940s "there is no evidence to suggest that the death of (these) subjects ... was related to plutonium exposure," the staff summary said.

Texas Ranger testifies in Davidian trial today

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An investigator who explored the burned out "bunker" of religious leader David Koresh described to jurors his eerie efforts of recovering artillery amidst 43 charred bodies.

"All I smelled was rotten bodies," Texas Ranger Ray Coffman testified Thursday. "It was a horrible smell."

Coffman is one of seven Texas Rangers investigators who have testified in the federal murder trial of 11 Branch Davidians about pulling hundreds of weapons from the ashy remains of Koresh's city-block-sized compound.

What they found, everything from guns to grenades, was littered across a 50-foot area of the courtroom Thursday as prosecutors tried to press into jurors' minds the magnitude of an arsenal collected by the doomsday sect.

Prosecutors today continued showing jurors items found in the compound rubble, including half of a double aluminum front doorway that was not burned. Defense attorneys raised questions about the missing other door, which they contend could help determine where shooting erupted the day federal agents were killed.

"It's pretty damn important. That door should be significant in who fired the first shot," defense attorney Dan Cogdell told reporters outside the courtroom.

Texas Ranger Fred Cummings today also testified under cross-examination that agents of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were on the compound crime scene before the investigating rangers arrived.

The eight-woman, four-man jury was introduced Thursday to dozens of pistols, shotguns and two Barrett .50-caliber rifles, powerful enough to pierce armor. And the panel stared intently as Coffman held up one of the rifle's 5-inch-long bullets.

will be "the most important thing you do as school board members."

He said "Snyder has an excellent reputation. You will get good applicants."

The board discussed the pros and cons of hiring a search consultant, such as the TASB group, which Leslie represents.

Leslie went through the process the firm he represents recommends. He said his group conducts community profile sessions, to get input from citizens. Several groups of citizens are targeted, and there is also a meeting for the general public.

"We ask them about what they think are the good things about Snyder...what the major issues they see facing the school district are...and ask them to describe the personal and professional characteristics they would like to see in a superintendent," Leslie said.

Candidates are selected from ones which share those same ideals.

The firm would send out a brochure and receive applications for a period of approximately 60 days. They would then screen the applications down to 10 or 12 people for the board to interview. There would be two more interview sessions and a paring down of candidates to three before the board made a final decision.

The board would lend its experience in conducting the interviews and helping work out a salary and benefits plan.

Cost for the TASB group would be $6,500 plus expenses for travel, telephone and the brochure. Leslie said he would estimate the total cost to be between $8,500 and $9,000. He also said the firm would be hired for one year.

Trustees set a special board meeting for noon Monday to consider hiring the TASB consulting group. Trustees hope to hire a superintendent before the May 7 board elections, to avoid a disruption in the process.

Supt. Moseley's retirement becomes effective May 31.

All board members were present for Thursday's special session. Mark McCormick was absent for the regular meeting which followed. Also present for the special meeting was Bill Parker, president of West Texas State Bank. Parker asked questions of Leslie and provided some input to the board.

Officers note accident, arrest

Snyder police made one arrest, worked a vehicle-pedestrian accident and investigated several other reports Thursday.

Brenda Humphrey, 31, of 100 East 37th St. No. 71, was treated for minor injuries at Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room Thursday evening, following an accident in the 2300 block of U.S. Highway 84. According to police, a 1989 Toyota driven by Tresha Renaye Phillips of Bridgeport was northbound in the right hand lane at 11:18 p.m. when it struck Humphrey, a pedestrian. Phillips said she swerved in an attempt to avoid Humphrey, who was struck by the vehicle's right outside mirror.

In other activity, police arrested a 44-year-old man for public intoxication at 5:23 p.m. in the 600 block of 17th Street.

At 11:07 a.m. Thursday, Robert McCleaf notified officers that someone had stolen a license plate from his 1987 Ford Escort. A report for Class B theft was filed.

Cheyenne Tubb contacted police at 1:02 p.m. in reference to someone damaging her door at 100 37th St. A report for Class B criminal mischief was filed.

James Wall contacted sheriff's deputies at 1:13 p.m. in reference to someone dumping trash on property he had leased along Camp Springs Road.

Boothe

was a nice young man and a hard working guy. His death was a real tragedy. I can still hardly believe it. He was a good person."

Boothe said that in addition to Marvin his favorite actors are Gene Hackman and Robert Duval.

Boothe said he really loves his work. He refers to himself as an "independent contractor" because, like most actors, he said that when he completes a project he "isn't sure if I will work again." Through the years he said he has worked with some great directors and accomplished actors whose work he has admired for years. "It does me a lot of good when they also respect my work," he said.

While Boothe admires someone like Clint Eastwood who directs himself in many of his own movies, he said he has no particular desire to direct. He prefers acting because "I really like what I do. For every new film I never know who will be there. I'm lucky if I get to work with someone I've admired for years."

While Boothe studied acting in high school and college he said he never seriously wanted to become an actor until graduate school at Southern Methodist University.

"We had a lot of good teachers and students so I decided to do it or bust," he explained. "I didn't decide to act while I was chopping cotton in Snyder."

Besides his work as an actor, Boothe's other loves are his family and quarterhorses which he raises and races.

His wife, Pamela Cole, is also a native of Snyder. They have two children, Parisse, 10, and Preston, 4.

Boothe said his children are interested in acting now because "they want to do what daddy is doing." But he neither encourages or discourages them. "It can be a tough business. And while I'm not whining, there is a down side also."

One is being away from his family during location shooting. They can't always be with him. For instance, they won't be able to go to the Philippines.

"I don't like being by myself," he said.

Quarterhorses provide Boothe with fun and relaxation which has nothing to do with his profession. "It makes a happy marriage," he said." His interest takes him to Oklahoma, Texas and Ruidoso, N.M.

Bobbitt trial continues

MANASSAS, Va. (AP) — Lorena Bobbitt testified today that she didn't remember cutting off her husband's penis. She told the jury her head swirled with images of past abuse when John Bobbitt returned home from a night of drinking.

"There were so many pictures in my head," she whispered.

Mrs. Bobbitt, who is charged with malicious wounding, tearfully said that she had been asleep when she was awakened by a door slamming the night of June 23. She went back to sleep.

Bobbitt denied attacking her and was acquitted of a sexual assault charge last November. But Mrs. Bobbitt said the next thing she knew, her husband was on top of her, grabbing her wrists and pushing off her underwear with his foot as he pressed his shoulder into her face.

"I said I don't want to have sex. He wouldn't listen to me," Mrs. Bobbitt said haltingly, in tears. She said he forced himself on her.

"I was just crying, crying loud, but I couldn't breathe. I just couldn't breathe.

"It was hurting me. He hurt me," she said, sobbing, wringing her hands and wiping her eyes with tissues.

"You don't understand because you're a man, he doesn't understand 'cause he's a man, but he hurt me," she told her lawyer, James Lowe.

There was a long pause and she slumped forward, clutching the little cross on her necklace. Lowe asked her what happened next.

She said she was looking for her underwear and then sat on the bed and told her husband, "Why do you do this to me again and again and again?"

She said Bobbitt pushed her away, telling her he didn't care about her feelings.

She said she was trying to calm herself. "I went to the kitchen to get a glass of water." She saw the knife in the dim light cast by the open refrigerator.

Lowe asked if she remembered cutting Bobbitt. "No I don't remember that," she said. But at her husband's trial last year, she did describe the moment, saying, "I lifted the sheets and I cut it."

Violence is a concern

can't be every place at every time. If students have a problem, we need them to tell us about it."

Trustees were receptive to the recommendations.

"Do whatever you need to do within the law to keep it safe," said trustee Charles Anderson.

"I think you'll find that we will support you," added trustee Geraldine Parker.

Board president Luann Burleson said the community will support such actions as well, "This community is not going to put up with violence in the schools. I'm sure they'll stand behind you."

Five parents had come to address the board, including Connie Wells, mother of the 15-year-old whose leg was broken.

"If teachers, parents and school board members don't pull together, this is going to get out of hand," she said. She suggested that the administration talk with students and get their ideas as to what would "make them feel safe."

Also voicing their concerns were Perry Westmoreland, Margaret Beaver, Penny Roberson, Shirley Pate and Molly Tatum.

Westmoreland asked about fights off campus and whether innocent parties to a fight would receive the same penalties. Scott said that school officials can enforce rules if the off-campus fight disrupts a students' school day, or if it is determined that whatever started the fight began on campus. He also said students are told to do everything they can to avoid a fight. If the fight is unavoidable, they should defend themselves, but shouldn't become the aggressor. Those who are only defending themselves will not be punished, he said.

Beaver asked if the district would consider implementing the same plans at the junior high as are being started at the high school. Supt. Moseley said he would meet with administrators on that campus.

Pate suggested some type of controls also be considered at the sixth grade level as well. But she said control is not the real answer. "We need to do everything we can to change these kids, not just control them, but to change them, because they are going to be with us a long time."

Roberson suggested that lights be placed along Tiger Drive near the ag building and fieldhouses. "Kids have told me it's so dark there, they are afraid to walk through there," she said.

Tatum said the problems have escalated since the elementary reorganization. She said too often, children are unsupervised at the end of the school day.

While disagreeing that reorganization has caused the problems Tatum voiced, Burleson agreed that "the number one priority is the safety of our students. If it takes every teacher out there watching the kids at the end of the school day then that's what we need," she said.

"Someday, somebody is going to pick up one of our babies and is going to be long gone," said Tatum. "If it's my child, I'm going to hold you (the board) responsible because this is the second time I've told you about it."

COLLECT MOST CANS — Ira's freshman class received a plaque from The Goodfellows for collecting the most cans at Ira — 213 — during the organization's annual holiday food drive. The freshman class also won this award as eight graders. Ira's collection project was sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) chapter. In all, the school collected 862 cans. Luann Slover, FHA sponsor, holds the plaque. She credits "cooperative and helpful parents" with helping the drive be a success. Astronomers to start research on Hubble repair next week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronomers start next week to put the repaired Hubble Space Telescope to work on the key questions about the universe that the orbiting telescope was designed to answer.

Jubilant officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Thursday repair efforts have corrected completely the blurred vision of Hubble. The $1.6 billion telescope was launched into Earth orbit in 1990 with a defective mirror and then was fixed last month by spacewalking astronauts from the space shuttle.

The instrument underwent weeks of testing before experts concluded, as NASA's Ed Weiler said Thursday, "It's fixed beyond our wildest expectations."

Weiler, the Hubble program scientist, said that the improved Hubble now "meets the promises that we made before launch" and will be able to see and analyze stars and galaxies with more clarity and focus than any other telescope in history.

If no more major problems crop up, the answers to fundamental questions about the universe may finally be within grasp because of the sharpness of Hubble's telescopic images.

Weiler said Hubble's research will address these key questions, among others:

—What is the size and age of the universe?

—How fast is it expanding?

—Is the universe open or closed; that is, will it expand forever or will it, at some point, stop expanding and then collapse in on itself?

—Do black holes actually exist?

—How does matter evolve?

Hubble will survey the universe by measuring the distances to galaxies containing guides called Cepheid variable stars. The light of this type of star radiates in pulses at a rate consistent with the star's brightness. The longer the pause between light bursts, the brighter it shines.

Using this scale, astronomers know how bright the star is no matter how much distance dims its apparent luminosity. By measuring how much brightness is lost over the distance, astronomers can determine the distance.

With its improved optics, Hubble will be able to see Cepheid stars far beyond what was possible before. This will enable astronomers to measure distances perhaps as great as 10 billion to 11 billion light years.

These measurements also will help to establish the speed at which the universe is expanding. It's known that all galaxies are moving outward, away from each other, but the precise rate is controversial. This rate is known as the Hubble constant, named for Edwin Hubble, an astronomer whose pioneering work established that the universe was expanding. The orbiting telescope is named in his honor.

By establishing the Hubble Constant, astronomers also may help determine the age of the universe since it is possible that the expansion is at a constant rate.

Your Birthday

Saturday, Jan. 15, 1994

Major changes in your personal desires and objectives are likely for the year ahead. Your new values will be more lasting and gratifying, even though they might be a trifle harder to attain.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Expectations can be realized today, provided you deal with the top people instead of going through intermediaries. The middle man could pose obstacles. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Measures can be taken today to do things that could enhance your earning potential. Reexamine your methods of operation to see where you're coming up short.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day to push some new plans you've been contemplating, so don't be intimidated by reasonable calculated risks.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Shared ventures could be the ones that'll offer you the greatest opportunities for gains today. Try to find a partner who has assets you lack.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today could be more enjoyable if you are discriminating regarding your companions. You don't need to be involved with a large group, just a few intimate pals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Lady Luck might intervene today and make things easier for you regarding a desired objective you've been unable to achieve. Give it another shot now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who has been lucky for you previously could be lucky for you again today. Perhaps the two of you might want to invest a few coins together on the lottery.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be unduly disturbed today if you have to deal with changes you didn't design or anticipate. If you hold tight, things should work out to your liking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's been said that two heads are better than one. Today this old adage could hold true for you and your mate in solving a difficult dilemma.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lady Luck might favor you again today where your material interests are concerned. You are still in a very fortunate cycle for attracting monies.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your warm, jovial disposition makes you a welcomed addition to any social gathering today. Even new people you'll meet will feel like long time friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Generally speaking you should do rather well in most areas of your life today. In fact, how well you do might take a few days for you to assess.

La Joya's enrollment plan beginning to draw criticism

LA JOYA (AP) — Civil rights attorneys are considering whether to challenge the La Joya school district's plan to tighten enrollment requirements for students who don't live with their parents.

"It's just too scary that this will bloom into immigration bashing along the border in other schools," Carmen Rumbaut, staff attorney for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, said Thursday.

The policy, adopted by the school board Wednesday night, targets students whose primary residence is outside the district.

It also is aimed at students who live in La Joya with someone other than their parent or legal guardian. It gives administrators new leeway to determine whether such students have legitimate reasons to be here other than merely to attend La Joya public schools.

"It's the stated objective to reduce the overall enrollment, so that makes me nervous about how this is going to be applied," added Polly Bone, attorney for Texas Rural Legal Aid Inc.

Civil rights attorneys have two basic options to challenge the policy in court, Rumbaut said.

Seeking a quick remedy, they could ask a federal judge to block the policy, contending it will cause "irreversible damage" to students. Rumbaut said that's a difficult standard to prove.

The other approach is to wait for the policy to be implemented. If a case arises in which a student feels harmed, then the attorneys could file a lawsuit challenging the policy on the student's behalf.

School administrators describe the policy as a cry for financial help from a district where enrollment has tripled in the last decade, to about 12,300 students now.

Meanwhile, the tax base had remained flat, and school officials say the need for new schools persists with no help from the state.

A state district judge recently ordered the Legislature to come up with financing to help local districts pay for capital improvements.

"That would answer our problem," Superintendent Jerry Doyle said. "If we had that, we wouldn't be talking about restricting enrollment."

There is no legal problem with the district keeping students who live outside its boundaries from enrolling, Rumbaut said.

However, a provision allowing administrators to investigate children who live away from their parents might single them out unconstitutionally, she said.

School board attorney Jesus Ramirez defended the policy, saying it included due process allowing affected students to show they should be admitted.

The student, while remaining in school, can appeal to the school admissions officer, the superintendent and ultimately the school board, who each will make their decisions on a case-by-case basis, Ramirez said.

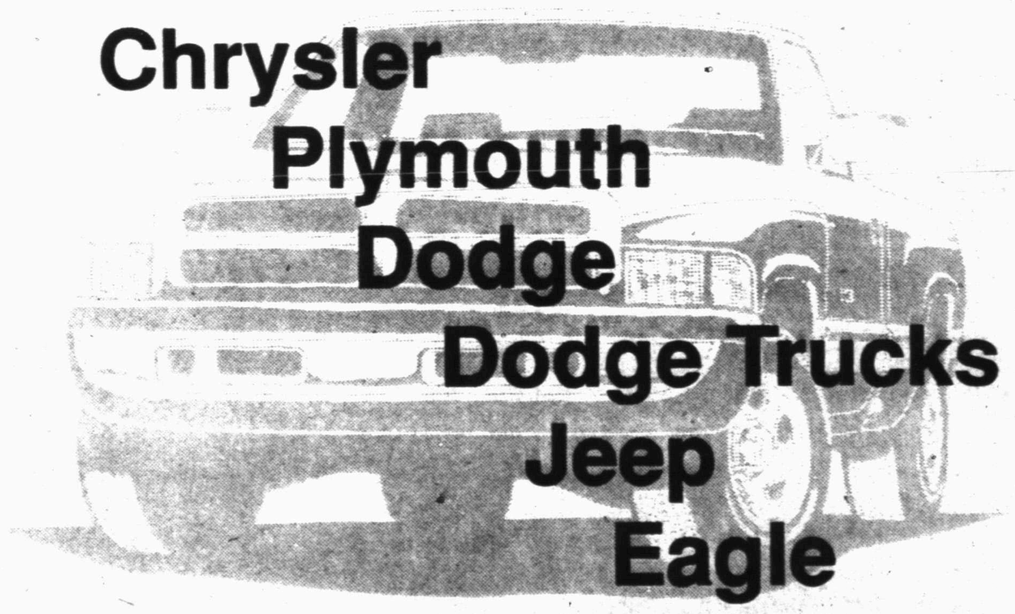

Students who exhaust their appeals will have to pay tuition if they want to stay in La Joya schools.

Raymond Gill, attorney for the South Texas Civil Rights Project, said no amount of appeals will save a policy if it unconstitutionally excludes a group of students or singles them out to meet a special burden.

DRINKING WATER OUT OF A ROCK?

WHEN MOSES LED ISRAEL OUT OF THE WILDERNESS, THEY RAN OUT OF WATER. THE PEOPLE SAID THEY WOULD RATHER HAVE DIED IN EGYPT THAN TO PERISH IN THIS ARID LAND. MOSES AND AARON TOOK THE PROBLEM TO GOD. HE ORDERED MOSES TO SPEAK TO THE ROCK BEFORE THE PEOPLE AND THERE WOULD BE SUFFICIENT WATER FOR BOTH MAN AND BEAST. WHAT WOULD YOU DO UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES? WOULD YOU ACTUALLY ASK FOR A ROCK TO GIVE YOU WATER? MOSES DID! (NUMBERS 20:11) MOSES LIFTED HIS EYES AND SMOTE THE ROCK AND THE WATER GUSHED FORTH.
