Rockport, Fulton receive grants

Fulton to build jogging path

FULTON — Mayor L.E. Casterline announced Wednesday morning, Aug. 31, that Fulton's request for a recreational grant from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department has been approved. The grant will be used to construct a jogging-bike path along Fulton Beach Road.

Application for the grant was a joint effort of the Town of Fulton, the Aransas County Navigation District and Aransas County. Both the ACND and the county each donated $1,200 to the effort. The Town of Fulton put $50,000 toward the path and H.E.B. Food Store in Rockport donated $20,000. In addition, Aransas County has also granted a 29-year easement to Fulton for construction of the path along Fulton Beach Road.

Aside from the jogging-bike path, improvements will be made in the park and beach areas near Fulton Harbor.

The $200,000 grant is part of $3.25 million in available funds from the TP&WD on a matching basis. Application for $272,550 was sought in June.

Fulton will receive a letter in a few days giving additional details including when construction will begin.

During a Tuesday evening, Aug. 30, special meeting at the town hall, bids were opened on a parade float for the Town of Fulton. B&L Decorating of Corpus Christi submitted the only bid, for $5,500. No discussion followed.

A motion by Alderwoman Pat Loflin and seconded by Alderwoman Katherine McLester to accept the bid was approved unanimously. Alderwoman Lynelle Hunt was absent from the meeting and did not vote.

The town council will hold a workshop meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6, at the town hall.

Rockport gets 100 percent of funds requested

A grant of $88,925 — the full amount requested by Rockport for improvements to Memorial Park — was approved by the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission in its meeting in Austin Wednesday.

The TP&W Commission authorized federal and state grants to 30 of the 56 projects for which application had been made statewide, with some of those projects receiving less than the amount requested.

Rockport City Manager Herman Johnson who attended the hearing in Austin said the city will now receive a grant agreement from the TP&W commission which it must sign and return.

He is hopeful the grant agreement will be in the city's possession in time for the city council's Sept. 13 meeting.

Olson & Associates of Corpus Christi will draw up the plans for the proposed park improvements which include additional parking and restroom facilities and connection to the city's sanitary sewer plant as well as improvements to the recreational facilities themselves.

Johnson added the city plans to go to the Wells Fargo company to seek a grant from that organization for construction of the proposed jogging-exercise trail.

Funding for the parks improvement project comes from the federal Land Water Conservation Program. A total $4 million in grant money was disbursed by the Parks & Wildlife commission in its action Wednesday.

SHOPPING CENTER NEARS COMPLETION. Construction crewmen work on the exterior at the south end of Rockport's new Harbor Oaks Shopping Village. Developers of the project are projecting completion of the Stanley's Supermarket by October and leasing of space in the building is "picking up," according to Leasing Agent Jay Taylor. Taylor said a number of locations are still available in the combination strip center/mini-mall and added he anticipates many of these spaces will be leased by Rockport retailers.

Fulton considers budget increase for '84

FULTON — The town council held a budget workshop Tuesday evening, Aug. 30, to go over Fulton's proposed 1983-84 budget of $84,600 item by item. Numerous changes were made but the total proposed budget remained the same.

Council members went over each item, comparing how much had been allocated per item in the 1982-83 budget and how much of each item had been spent as of July 31. Members then estimated how much would be spent on each item in the coming year.

The proposed 1983-84 budget of $84,600 is up from the 1982-83 figure of $72,100. However, council members said during Tuesday evening's meeting that last year's effective tax rate of 3½ cents per $100 valuation would remain the same.

Estimated revenues in the proposed budget include $9,000 in property taxes, $12,000 in occupation taxes, $20,000 from street rentals, $5,000 in interest, $100 in permit fees and $36,000 from sales tax. A minimum of $2,500 is expected in revenue sharing funds for total estimated revenues of $84,600.

Five hundred dollars has been allocated for dues and subscriptions in the proposed budget, compared with $300 in last year's budget. The increase, Secretary Lucille Hinson explained, is due to increases in Texas Municipal League and Coastal Bend Council of Governments dues.

Other increases in the 1983-84 proposed budget include $2,000 for insurance, compared with $1,500 in 1982-83. A major reason for the increase is the addition of an observation deck on L.E. Casterline Fishing Pier which must be insured.

Council members have allocated $10,000 for legal fees, up from $2,700 allocated in last year's budget. Fulton has retained attorney Gene Garcia to do all legal work and be present at all town meetings. Hinson said that Garcia's legal fees have averaged approximately $317 per month, but that his workload is expected to increase in the coming year. A legal fund of $5,000 had originally been proposed, but council members decided to increase it to $10,000.

Anticipated utilities increases are the reason the council has allocated $2,000 for utilities in the proposed budget, compared with $1,500 in 1982-83.

Accounting fees are expected to increase, prompting council members to increase budget allocations for this item from $5,800 in 1982-83 to $10,000 for 1983-84. During the first 10 months of the town's current fiscal year, the council has already spent $7,500 on accounting fees.

Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline announced his intention to spend much more on street repairs in the coming year than ever before. The budget for street repairs has been increased from $12,000 in 1982-83 to $20,000 for 1983-84. Casterline said he hoped to repair all of Fulton's north-south streets during the coming year.

Six hundred dollars has been allocated in the proposed budget for public notices, compared with $300 in last year's budget. The council has already spent $507.05 on public notices in the first 10 months of the current fiscal year.

County sets first priority for FM Road Program

By LESLIE ABRAMS

The Aransas County commissioners named the establishment of a U-shaped farm market road to run by Fulton Mansion as their first priority for the 1984 Farm Market Road Program during the Wednesday, Aug. 31 meeting of the commissioners court.

The court was asked by James Johnson, an engineer with the state Department of Highways and Public Transportation, to name its priority for the coming year. Among the roads considered for FM roads were Corpus Christi Street, Airport Road, and a U-shaped road which would extend from the intersection of Hwy. 35 and Traylor Street down to Fulton Beach Road, north to Henderson Street and west on Henderson back to Hwy. 35.

The Farm Market Road Program, which is administered by the state highway department, has the county furnish 100 percent of the right-of-way and pay all utility costs of building the road. Once it is built, the state takes responsibility for maintenance. The program will spend $1.5 million over a 10-county area.

Work begins on city's master plan

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

In their first workshop on the matter, members of Rockport's planning and zoning commission outlined topics for study and set Sept. 21 as the first report date in preparation of a two-year master plan for the city.

Work on the master plan began in a meeting of the P&Z board Wednesday night at City Hall under provisions of the new City Charter, approved by voters last year, that call for the planning and zoning commission to prepare a two-year master plan for the city that is to be updated annually.

P&Z member Barbara Armstrong, acting chairman in the absence of board Chairman Jack Guillett, outlined six topics for study in preparation of the master plan and this was later broadened to seven at the suggestion of Rockport Alderman Richard Beck who said he felt a drainage program for the next two years should be considered as a separate topic.

The topics that are to be studied with an eye toward development during the next two years include those areas into which Rockport might expand during that period; utilities, including the city's water and sanitary sewer service; streets and alleys and a thoroughfare plan; a look at areas of the city including Hwy. 35 south and north and the downtown area to determine possible rezoning patterns; city properties/parks; capital improvements; and drainage and the flood plan.

Under Rockport's city charter, the master plan — which is to guide the physical development of the city — "shall contain the (planning and zoning) commission's recommendations for the growth, development and beautification of the City and its extraterritorial jurisdiction."

Once the plan is prepared by the planning board, a copy is to be submitted to the city manager who must, within 60 days, submit it to the city council along with any recommendations he might have.

Once the council adopts the master plan, it

No telethon, but

MDA fund drive set

Even though there won't be a telethon, the Aransas County unit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association is still planning a special Labor Day drive to help "Jerry's Kids," the victims of muscular dystrophy.

Collection sites will be set up Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 3-5, at Super D, H.E.B. and Wal-Mart as well as some other area businesses, according to Jennifer Ledbetter, MDA chairman in Aransas County.

Then on Monday, Labor Day, MDA volunteers have secured permission to set up in the kitchen and on the parking lot of First Presbyterian Church here in Rockport to collect donations, both from individuals and from volunteer collectors.

"We want to try to collect as much as we can," Ledbetter said, "and we need everyone's help that we can get. I would like," she added, "to be able to collect $10,000 from this area."

For the first time in years, no television station in this area will be carrying the special Labor Day MDA Telethon.

Ledbetter said refreshments will be provided at the church Monday for volunteers and others helping in the campaign and an effort was being made to provide some type of entertainment.

A dance at Lillian's last weekend raised some $2,155 for MDA, and Ledbetter said she wanted to say "a general thank you to everyone" involved in the effort.

Labor Day

Homage paid, challenge issued to nation's workers

Each Labor Day provides us with an opportunity to pay homage to the workers who have helped make America great.

I join with all Americans in saluting the contributions of the nation's working men and women, the most productive workers in the world.

The endeavors of today's workers and their unions assure that our country will have an even brighter future. Yet the bounty we have reaped from these labors is not limited to more products and services. Our workers have been one of the cornerstones of our democratic system. The values they have passed down from generation to generation have strengthened America as the land of opportunity.

Even though the nature of our labor has changed over the years, Americans still believe that all work is noble. In celebrating the efforts of American workers, past and present, we honor this fundamental truth as well.

On this day we also reflect on our foremost domestic challenge: providing job opportunities for all Americans who want to work. Through my Administration's Economic Recovery Program, we are bringing new hope to Americans. Already this year more than 1.1 million more Americans are employed than last December. The resurgence of our economy is bringing real jobs — jobs with a future — in the private sector.

The improved economic climate we now enjoy promises all Americans a prosperous future. I know that the nation's workforce will play a vital role in helping America realize its full economic potential.

Veto ruling to be far reaching

By Congressman BILL PATMAN

The term "Legislative or Congressional Veto" has been around for half a century, but it's one that may be unfamiliar to a good many people.

The power of this device was one that Congress had used since 1932 to try to control excessive bureaucracy in the executive branch of government. That power abruptly ended when the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the legislative veto June 23.

Not much has been written about the decision since then, but the consequences will be far reaching — and no one knows for sure what they will be. They have nothing to do, in the long run, with whether we have a Republican or a Democratic-controlled Senate or House or a Republican or Democratic president.

What the legislative veto issue is all about is this: How much authority does Congress have to tell a bureaucratic agency or an autocratic president, "Stop what you are doing by executive order or agency rule. You have gone too far. You are exceeding your authority, and we, the Congress, cannot let this continue."

President Herbert Hoover worked out a deal for Congress to let him reorganize the federal government in 1932, subject to Congressional review. Congress didn't like his reorganization so it vetoed it. The battle has been raging ever since over who's going to run the show, Congress or the administration.

The most famous situation involving this provision is the one in which Congress enacted the War Powers Act, which restricted the president's authority to use American troops in combat in foreign countries. It arose out of the Vietnam War in 1973, and was followed by the Arms Export Control Act of 1976, allowing Congress to veto major arms sales by passing a concurrent resolution within 30 days of receiving a presidential report.

What prompted the Supreme Court to declare this right of legislative veto unconstitutional? It was a relatively innocuous case. Congress had overruled a deportation decision by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. The INS would have allowed a Kenya-born East Indian to remain in the U.S., but the House overruled the INS and ordered deportation.

INS appealed, and the Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision, declared the Congressional action invalid.

That decision has brought into question literally hundreds of questions about the power of congressional veto.

The thing that alarms me about the decision is that it appears to strip Congress of its long-established authority to oversee and reject bureaucratic actions — whether by a federal agency or by the president himself.

Associate Justice Byron White expressed this same concern in his minority dissent, saying, "To invalidate the device which allows Congress to maintain some control over the lawmaking process merely guarantees that the independent agencies, once created, for all practical purposes are a fourth branch of the government not subject to the direct control of either Congress or the executive branch. I cannot believe that the Constitution commands such a result."

This decision will make it more difficult for Congress to step in where it sees excessive bureaucratic rules and regulations that go far beyond what Congress intended.

It is ironic that President Reagan — who has been a strong advocate of deregulation, to get government off the people's backs by reducing federal bureaucracy — welcomed the court decision. He said it gave him more leeway to act independent of congressional disapproval. President Carter felt the same way.

The president, of course, has the right to veto congressional actions.

Only time will tell what the results of cancellation of the legislative veto will be. The issue is far from resolved.

Sales/leaseback unlocks equity for older homeowner

The consumer alert

By JIM MATTOX
Attorney General

AUSTIN — If you are one of the 12.5 million Americans over the age of 65 who owns a house, chances are that it is your largest asset. After putting time and money into a house over the years, you could be in a financial situation where it would be helpful to get some of that investment back.

There are financing methods currently available that allow older homeowners to unlock the value, or "equity," in their homes without having to move or repay loans right away. One method of financing allows you to sell your house but still stay in it. It is an arrangement called sale/leaseback. With this plan you sell your house and receive a lump sum payment or a monthly income. The important point is that as part of the contract, you are allowed to live in the house for the rest of your life by paying a monthly rent. The only difference is that now you have the extra cash to improve your standard of living or to pay for fixtures, such as ramps or handrails, that you may need to remain self-sufficient. And, after your death, the property is taken over by the owner.

If you don't want to sell because you want to keep your house in the family, sale/leaseback arrangements make it possible for a family member to be the buyer. That way, you are taken care of financially and your house is secure for your dependents.

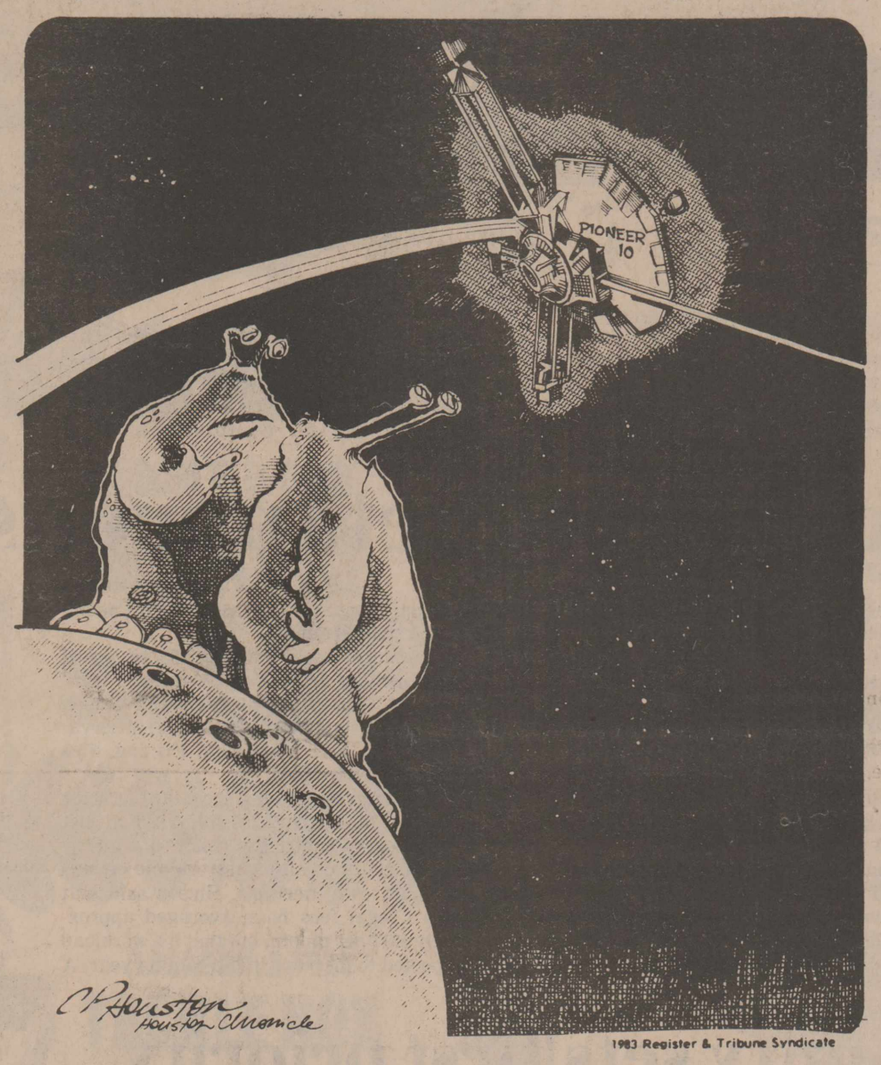

One advantage of a sales/leaseback is that all the terms and agreements are specified in the beginning. You are able to plan your future with more certainty by budgeting for major expenses and saving for those unexpected ones.

There are two types of loans for older homeowners who want to cash in on the equity of their home and still retain property ownership. One, called the deferred payment loan, allows the borrower to receive a lump sum of money, but to hold off on repayment of all interest and principal until a specified future date or until the house is sold.

The second type of loan is called a reverse annuity mortgage. It is like a conventional mortgage loan but in reverse. Homeowners receive monthly payments based on the value of the house. At a specific future date, the loan must be repaid. Usually the homeowners plan to repay reverse annuity mortgages when they sell their home.

The loans can be used in any way. For example, they can convert extra space into a rental room. Or, the added income can also be used to supplement monthly living expenses.

There are a variety of methods available to older homeowners for turning home equity into cash. These are not for everyone. There are both risks and costs involved. Before deciding to participate in any of these plans, it is important to seek legal and financial advice. The Attorney General's office is here to answer your questions. Contact the office nearest you in Austin, Dallas, Houston, El Paso, Lubbock, McAllen or San Antonio.

Another look at bilingual question

Bilingual classes exist in few countries other than the United States, including Latin America, according to a survey made by U.S. News & World Report. A French university professor warned that U.S. attempts at multilingual instruction could change the cultural base of the country. "France," he said, "on the other hand, insists on the French language as a means of assimilation."

Readers of this column already know of my long-standing opposition to what we refer to as bilingual education, meaning as it so happens, instruction in Spanish. History, as I have often enough pointed out, demonstrates that when a great country becomes bilingual it loses its greatness, simply if you will, because when an alien language gains equal acceptance with the native language it has accomplished a conquest, however bloodless.

Thus, as the French professor noted, the French language is insisted upon as a means of assimilation. Sadly, U.S. politicians are today on all sides leaning toward bilingual programs, never mind what their minds dictate. All eyes are on potential votes. I do not suggest, but I ponder; would those among you who agree with my opinion on the subject not be wise to exert your energies to opposing this threat to what the French professor, again, refers to as our cultural base?

For another side of the coin, and also from an earlier issue of the aforementioned magazine, Mario Obledo, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), is quoted in defense of bilingual education. He said that because of our relationships and proximity to our neighbors in Central and South America, "every American child ought to be taught both English and Spanish."

Sounds reasonable enough at first blush. But hasn't the French professor, and my own viewpoint, answered that well enought? Need it be added that the countries of Europe, with their several languages are also rather close.

Lest I in any way be mistaken, I am not opposed to instruction in foreign languages. Very much to the contrary. Only I must repeat, I am opposed to any two languages sharing equal status in the United States.

Here I have almost forgotten Obledo and I must answer him further, or at least to a degree because I am not conversant with Spanish and am so obliged to depend upon hearsay.

Authorities with whom I have discussed the subject inform me that Spanish as spoken in South and Central America is somewhat akin to the Chinese spoken in Peking, Canton and assorted other provinces. Each indistinguishable from the other. Just as, or so I am told, the Spanish heard in South Texas is barely intelligible to a resident of Mexico City, and so on through much of the rest of the region.

On the other hand, I do know for a fact that in Central and South America many people speak no Spanish at all, only Indian dialects which are many. And for a clincher, in Brazil, the largest country in South America, Portuguese is the spoken language. Bet you didn't know that, Mario!

Yet my intent is not to castigate Obledo, especially since his attitudes are akin to so many others who presume to Hispanic leadership. However, in reply to Hispanic progress in this country, he replies that it is not what it might be and lays the blame on discrimination and education separately.

To the credit of none of us, immigrants from throughout the world who have come to these shores have seldom been kindly dealt with, especially when they have come en masse. Perhaps you have parents or grandparents who arrived from Ireland, Italy, wherever, whose stories are not exactly pleasant. So with Hispanics past and present. Here I will contend that the immigrant Hispanic in this country today is the most, the only immigrant who has ever been pampered. If challenged, I'll enlarge at length.

As to language, I have known people who have come from abroad and within a few years earned success that may well be the envy of U.S. natives, and others who have taken as long as several generations. All have a common reply when asked the initial key to their advancement. "I realize that I must learn English before anything else."

There, or so it seems to me, is something that Obledo and others like him cannot or will not understand or recognize. As a consequence, I have often been guilty of suspecting that they seek to establish an Hispanic world within the United States. To be blunt, they appear to do nothing except further convince me with their every utterance. Is it not the State Senator Carlos Truan from Corpus Christi who advocates instruction in Spanish through all 12 years of secondary education? A bilingual nation, I submit, is a nation divided, and as such it cannot stand.

Life in Russia: some things don't change

The Live Oak philosopher

Editor's note: The Live Oak Philosopher on his grassburr farm discusses human nature in Russia this week, more or less.

Dear Editor:

Because unhappy citizens and unfavorable news both have a hard time getting out of Russia, some people in the rest of the world believe everything runs smoothly in the Soviet Union, that all their satellites are launched flawlessly and return on schedule, that nobody litters the highways, nobody disobeys the law, soldiers are delighted to leave home and fight in Afghanistan, nobody drives while drunk and, for all I know, women don't gossip in beauty parlors.

However, according to a news story picked up by the Associated Press from the back page of Pravda, the government-run Russian newspaper, authorities over there are cracking down on an assortment of crimes.

One concerns cashiers short-changing customers at restaurants. After a meal topped off with considerable vodka, some customers get a little foggy-minded and a crafty cashier knows what to do when making change.

What this proves is that you should always count your change, regardless of what form of government you're dining under.

Russian authorities are also cracking down on bribery. Citizens have found out that putting money in the hands of politicians frequently is a good investment.

What this proves is that politicians know how to take in more money then their basic salary, regardless of what form of government they're operating.

This leads me to believe, without any firsthand evidence, that Russian women do gossip in beauty parlors.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Taxes headed for record high in '80s

Slowly but surely, taxes are claiming a larger share of Americans' income.

A Census Bureau study shows income and property taxes, which take the biggest tax bite, devoured mounting portions of worker income in the 1970s.

From 1974 through 1980, the share of income absorbed by these taxes jumped from 20 to 23 percent. The Census Bureau study was the first dealing with how much money Americans have left after paying taxes.

However, the figures do not reflect income tax cuts put into effect by the Reagan administration, nor do they include hikes in Social Security taxes and state taxes levied during the past few years.

Those taxes are expected to be included in future reports, but enough information is not yet available for more up-to-date calculations.

The new study concluded the average individual in 1980 had $5,694 to spend after paying $1,756 in income and property taxes.

Both state and federal income taxes, Social Security and property taxes were calculated in the study, but not sales taxes. The latter may be added to future Census Bureau reports.

The study focused on income by household which usually, but not always, means by family. People living alone or non-relatives living together also are counted as households.

The average household income in 1980 was $16,272 after taxes, down from $17,527 in 1974 in constant dollars.

Single-person households and families headed by women, both of which tend to have lower average incomes, have increased. In general, households were smaller in 1980 than in 1974, meaning household income would decline because fewer individuals contribute.

Between 1974 and 1980 per capita after tax-income was nearly unchanged, $5,968 and $5,964 respectively. The year 1974 was selected for comparison because it was the earliest year for which comparable income information was available.

Almost 93 percent of American households pay at least one of the four kinds of taxes included in the study. Social Security had the highest rate at 75.3 percent, followed by federal income tax, 74.4 percent; state income tax, 63.8 percent and homeowners' property tax, 63.5 percent.

Blacks paid less of their income in taxes than whites, 18 percent to 23.1 percent. Elderly paid 13 percent in taxes compared to 24.1 percent for non-elderly.

Unless some way can be found to reduce the tax take in the 1980s, it is likely to reach 30 percent of the average worker's income by 1990.

Atlanta was occupied by the Union Army under General Sherman on Sept. 2, 1864.

Revolution over deregulation causes confusion

By SCOTT BURNS

Q. Desperately need your advice — husband retired early this year and I take care of all the money. Over the years I have done well, first buying six-month certificates, then Merrill Lynch Ready Assets trust shares (a money market fund). Then, when rates were falling, a tax-free unit trust.

Now I am mixed up and worried. I don't understand anything. I read and read and nothing makes sense. Now I realize that with my husband retired, the tax-free income doesn't make sense. Worse, we're not getting enough money from the unit trusts and I am afraid to call the broker because I sound so stupid. Should I sell? Where should we put the money? I don't want to lose any. — Mrs. D.D., Ashland, Mass.

A. The same mail that brought your letter brought another letter in which the reader had found three different people in the same bank providing different answers to his questions. So don't feel bad about your lack of knowledge. You have a lot of company. In fact, this is a good time for everyone to be forgiving — of themselves and those who try to serve them.

Why? Because we're in the midst of a financial revolution. The largest single "price" of deregulation in our financial institutions is confusion. Confusion for the people who manage or work in banks; confusion for people with savings to commit; and confusion for institutions outside banking that must explain alternative savings vehicles. As with any period of innovation, growth and change, whether it be personal computers or savings accounts, the number of new "products" is overpowering.

So calm down, learn some simple rules, and constantly remind yourself that there was little confusion or embarrassment for savers before deregulation, money market funds and "financial supermarkets," but there also was little opportunity. All you could get was 5.25 percent on a passbook account!

Confusion is a small price to pay if it will nearly double the interest income you and I can get on our savings.

Back to your problem. First, it sounds as though your broker didn't serve your needs very well when he sold you the tax-exempt units. He should know your taxable income and make recommendations accordingly. For instance, you could avoid the state income tax (a substantial item in Taxachusetts) and buy six-month U.S. Treasury bills.

Once you go beyond bank certificates of deposit, money market funds and other relatively short-term savings vehicles, you must begin to think about risk.

The market value of any bond goes up and down each day with interest rates. This is called interest rate risk. You can avoid this only by keeping your money in short-term investments or in "guaranteed dollar" bank certificates.

It can also go up or down with "credit risk" — the ability of the borrower to repay the borrowed money.

When you moved from a money market fund to a municipal obligations unit trust you assumed both an interest rate risk and a credit risk. Pick right, and you'll have capital gains as well as interest income. Pick wrong, and you'll have capital losses.

Here's what you should do: Call your broker and sell the unit trusts. Take the loss. It will be short-term, small and directly deductible from your income tax. Then, using an interest rate of 9 percent, estimate your taxable income and tax bracket. You'll find it will be low. This means you need taxable income investments.

What you (and everyone else) must face is that there is no way you can have high interest income and stable interest income and avoid all interest rate or credit risks. The best you can do is compromise and put together a "package" of investments that will suit your needs.

Most people will get close to the income they need, and still sleep nights, if they divide their investments between:

— Some electric and communications utilities to provide high yields that may grow in the future.

— A high-yield bond fund that allows monthly or quarterly withdrawals. It means some risk, but it raises the average return substantially.

— Medium-term certificates in guaranteed dollars that give you better than money market fund rates in exchange for a time commitment of one to five years.

— A money market fund or high-yield checking account.

Together, these investments will produce a relatively stable income between 9 and 11 percent. There is risk, to be sure, but it's a lot better than riding the Federal Reserve Yo-Yo.

Questions about personal finance and investments may be sent to Scott Burns, 1 Herald Square, Boston, Mass. 02106. Those of general interest will be answered.

Building totals at $6million

Boosted by more than $1.17 million in construction started in August, building totals in Rockport through Aug. 31 totaled more than $6 million for 1983.

The totals included $231,160 estimated value on Phase II of the Condominiums of Rockport Country Club Estates. A permit was issued Aug. 26 for construction of this project. Also issued was a permit for a $100,000 condominium project by the Casa Allegro Condominiums Association. This permit was issued Aug. 25.

Six new residences were started during the month for a total estimated construction value of $588,464. Individual values ranged from $28,000 to $156,240.

Commercial permits issued during the month included one for construction of the new $83,000 Discount Auto Store Building at the intersection of Hwy. 35 and Pearl.

A permit was issued to the Spice O' Life for proposed $50,000 in remodeling to the former Escondido Gallery building to convert the structure into a restaurant and lounge.

Bracht Lumber Co. received a permit to construct a warehouse valued at $2,000.

A storage building and a boat storage permit added another $1,000 to the totals.

Permits were issued for construction of two swimming pools totalling $41,900, including the $32,500 swimming pool in Rockport Country Club Estates.

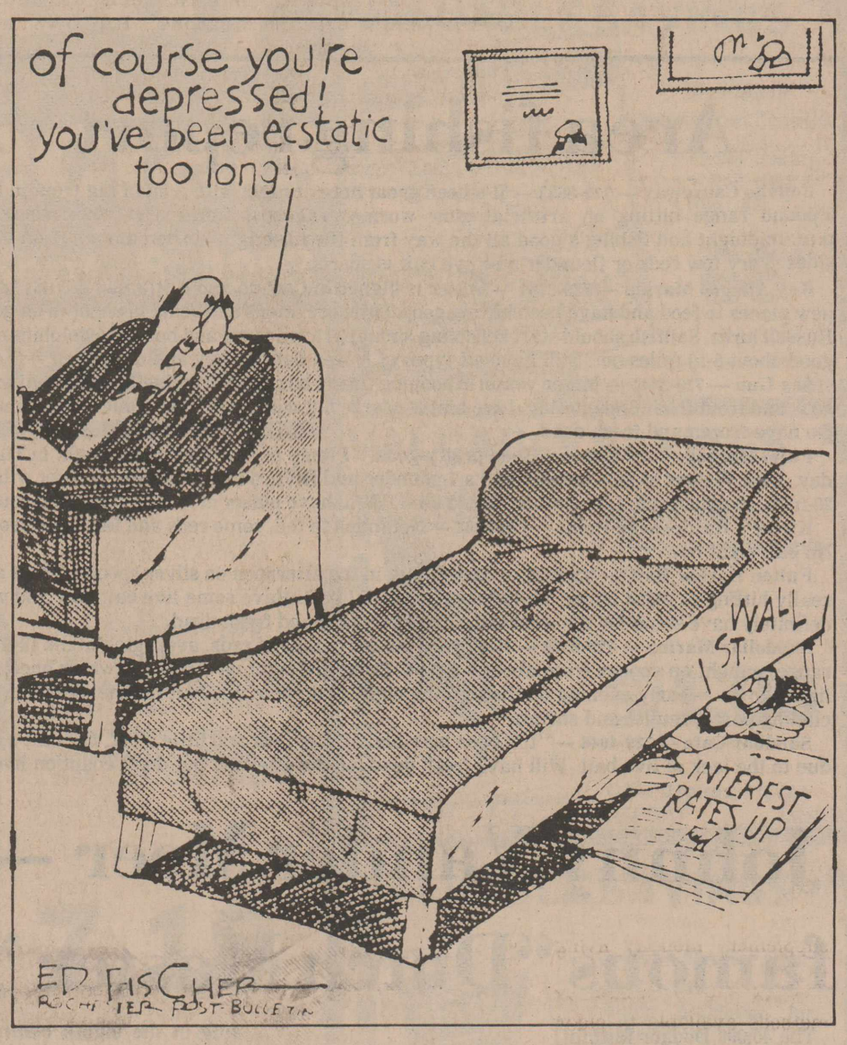

Residential remodeling added another $17,500 to the August building totals, construction of fences amounted to $7,150 and two signs valued at $1,100 were authorized by permit.

Agricultural sales are possible

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower returned from a four-day trip to Mexico City last week "greatly encouraged" about the possibility of arranging agricultural sales direct from Texas farmers to Mexico.

"I believe we laid the groundwork for a long-term relationship that will benefit both Texas farmers and Mexico," Hightower said. "I fully expect that we will be able to arrange some sales in which, by cutting out the big middlemen, our farmers will get a higher price and Mexico will pay a lower price. It may take some time, but their response was very positive.

"The single best thing that could happen to the farmers of Texas is for Mexico to have a healthier economy," Hightower said, pointing out that, in the last year, purchases of Texas agricultural products by Mexico has declined by half.

Permit requests

The following applications for permits have been filed with the Army Corps of Engineers. Any comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P. O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553, on or before the date shown.

Hamill Energy Co. of Houston has filed application to erect and maintain oil and gas wells in Copano Bay in State Tracts 10, 11, 12, 14 and 15 in Aransas and Refugio counties. Deadline for comments is Sept. 9.

Aransas Warehouse Co. Inc. of Fulton has filed for an extension on the time of an existing permit for maintenance dredging in a commercial harbor adjacent to the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway two miles northeast of Aransas Pass in Aransas County. The facility will be maintained at a depth of -10 feet MSL by dragline. All dredged material will be placed on the applicant's upland property. Deadline for comments is Sept. 9.

McGowan Exploration Co. of Houston has filed for permit to erect and maintain oil and gas wells in Corpus Christi Bay in State Tracts 447 and 448 near Ingleside on the Bay. Deadline for comments is Sept. 9.

Brown & Root signs Saudi contracts

HOUSTON — The Brown & Root Inc. joint venture, Zamel & Turbag/Brown & Root Al Khobar, Saudi Arabia, signed contracts with ARAMCO recently to provide construction management for various projects in the eastern province at Dhahran. Zamel & Turbag Engineering of Dammam, Saudi Arabia, and Brown & Root (UK) Ltd. formed a consulting engineering and management venture under Saudi Arabian engineering license number one in 1982.

Brown & Root, a Halliburton company, is one of the world's largest and most diversified engineering and construction companies.

The projects for which Brown & Root will manage construction include modification and rerouting of crude and gas pipelines, cathodic protection for well casings, and additions to existing oil and gas gathering facilities. Other work includes construction management for community facilities, including schools in the eastern province.

PUBLIC NOTICE

"On August 8, 1983, the Federal Communications Commission designated for hearing the applications of R-F Broadcasting Company and Laurie Ann Brotman for Channel 272A, 102.3 mHz for Rockport, Texas. Both applicants propose a power of 3 kw at 300 feet. The hearing is scheduled to take place Nov. 14, 1983 at 10:00 A.M. in the offices of the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. The issues in the hearing are as follows:

(1) To determine with respect to R-F Broadcasting Company: (a) the source and availability of necessary funds; and (b) Whether, in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to (a) above, the applicant is financially qualified.

(2) To determine whether there is a reasonable possibility that a tower height and location proposed by Brotman would constitute a hazard to air navigation.

(3) To determine which of the proposals would on a comparative basis, better serve the public interest.

(4) To determine in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, which of the applications should be granted, if either.

A copy of the application, amendments and related material are on file for public inspection at the offices of Rockport Realty, 1121 Broadway, Rockport, Texas, during normal operating hours between 9:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M."

Flotilla 79 presents course

Aids essential to boaters for their own safety

Along the coasts and navigable waters of the United States and its possessions, there are thousands of devices to give a mariner his exact position at all times, in any weather, in relation to the land and to hidden dangers.

These devices range from steel and concrete structures, such as buoys and lighthouses, to invisible beacons of an electronic nature such as radiobeacons, RACONS and LORAN. They are all designed for one purpose — aiding seamen.

Aids to navigation assist mariners in making landfalls when approaching from overseas, mark isolated dangers, make it possible for vessels to follow the natural and improved channels and provide a continuous chain of charted marks for coastal piloting. As all aids to navigation serve the same general purpose, such structural differences as those between an unlighted buoy and a lightship, or a lighthouse and a radiobeacon, are solely for the purpose of meeting the conditions and requirements for the particular location at which the aid is to be established.

For more information on navigation aids, plan to attend the boating skills and seamanship course presented by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 79 Oct. 4-Nov. 17.

Area fishing report

Copano Causeway — 729-8633 — It's been great here at night with a lot of big trout in the 5-pound range hitting on artificial glow worms. The best times are from around 9 p.m.-midnight and fishing's good all the way from the first light out to number 12 on both sides. Very few reds or flounder and live bait is scarce.

Key Allegro Marina — 729-2761 — Water is higher in Copano and Little Bay — fish have new places to feed and have been hitting good. Offshore, kings are being brought in on gold Russell lures. Sailfish should start schooling about 10-15 miles out and bull nose dolphins are good about 6-10 miles out. Still have all types of frozen bait for bay and offshore.

Sea Gun — 729-2341 — Motor vessel Whooping Crane has been bringing in some real nice reds and trout from Copano Bay. Live bait is scarce but will try to have some for weekend. Do have frozen and fresh dead.

Palm Harbor — 729-8540 — "Been pretty good." Plenty of real big reds brought in Tuesday. Dick Walker of San Antonio had a 7-pounder and Dillard LaRue hit the jackpot with a 28-inch, 10-pound red. Live bait is "kinda slim." Will have plenty of frozen, including squid.

Kleine's Rattlesnake Point — 729-2892 — Not much to tell, some reds and fair-sized trout. No bait right now.

Fulton Harbor Bait — 729-8532 — Reds biting in the afternoon on silver spoons. Trout are really hitting at night under the lights on artificial bait. Have some live bait now and will definitely have some for the weekend. Also live crabs and fresh dead.

Sandollar Marina — 729-8562 — Real good out here. Lots of reds, averaging in the 18-inch range, caught on spoons from about 3-8 p.m. Trout are right on top of the water once the lights go on — early evening on through the night. Will have live bait for the weekend, including perch, mullet and shrimp.

Sandbar Cafe — 729-4046 — "It's been horrible." Little reds and little trout, but that's all, due to the lack of live bait. Will have fresh dead for the weekend but don't count on live.

Johnny Vander Meer — famous "Dutch Master"

Sports echoes

The 40,000 Dodger faithful who flooded Ebbets Field in the early evening hours of June 15, 1938 for a Wednesday game were in a festive mood. They had been drawn through the turnstiles by the prospect of seeing the first night game to be played in Brooklyn's ancient park with the Cincinnati Reds providing the opposition.

The Dodger general manager, Larry MacPhail, was in his first year of attempting to resurrect a failing and debt-ridden Brooklyn franchise. He had been remarkably successful in meeting a similar challenge during a recently completed three-year stint in Cincinnati. While in the Queen City, MacPhail had staged the major league's first night game on May 24, 1935 with the Reds defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-1.

MacPhail had scheduled an outstanding slate of events for the Brooklyn fans for their first outing under the arc lights. Babe Ruth in his third year of retirement was one of a host of celebrities invited and received a tumultuous welcome on his introduction.

Two fife and drum corps and a band provided musical entertainment and their presentations were highlighted by a spectacular fireworks display. Jesse Owens, firmly entrenched in the national limelight after his superlative performances in the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin, took part in a series of sprint exhibitions with some of the Dodger players. For the bleacher fan with his 55-cent ticket, it was to be an evening packed with memorable events including one he had not bargained for.

Dodger manager Burleigh Grimes selected the right-hand-throwing Max Butcher as his starting pitcher. Visiting manager Bill McKechnie gave a similar nod to Johnny Vander Meer, a 23-year-old southpaw. The baseball world was still buzzing over Vander Meer's 3-0, no-hit win over the sting-less Boston Bees four days earlier in a daylight game at Cincinnati. The Bees had discarded their former nickname of the Braves in 1936 but re-adopted it in 1941.

Butcher failed to survive the third inning with Frank McCormick's three-run homer the big blow in a four run outburst that hastened his departure. Through the sixth inning, the Dodgers were fruitless in the hit and run columns on their side of the scoreboard without mounting a serious threat.

In the seventh, Vander Meer walked Cookie Lavagetto and Dolf Camilli, two of the eight free passes he issued. He escaped the inning without harm with Dodger fans cheering his every effort as they sensed history in the making. The fastballing lefty retired the side in the eighth claiming Kiki Cuyler, a .321 lifetime hitter, as one of his victims.

With one down in the ninth, Vander Meer walked Babe Phelps, Lavagetto and Camilli in succession to heighten the ever-building tension and drama. Ernie Koy grounded to Lew Riggs at short who, while insuring an unerring throw to Ernie Lombardi at the plate for the forced second out, delayed his release to offset a possible double play.

Leo Durocher, a pesky if not prolific hitter, dug in for his cuts. To the accompaniment of groans from the home crowd, Durocher lined a scorching foul down the right field line. Durocher followed with a lazy fly to center that an energetic Harry Craft gathered in for a 6-0 Cincinnati win and Vander Meer's second consecutive no-hit, no-run game.

Forevermore, Johnny Vander Meet would appropriately be known as The Dutch Master. Forty-five years have passed since his masterful performance in fashioning his unique record but records are made to be broken — or are they?

Failure to yield cited in two of three accidents

Tickets for failure to yield right-of-way were issued in two of the three accidents investigated by Rockport police in the city this past Tuesday, Aug. 30.

Police said a failure to yield ticket was issued to Dolores H. Hernandez of Rockport following an accident at the intersection of Bronte (Hwy. 35 South) and Corpus Christi Street between Hernandez' car and a car driven by William Ellison Fishwick of Rockport.

The accident occurred about 10:21 a.m. when Hernandez, southbound on Bronte, attempted a left turn across the path of Fishwick's car, northbound on Bronte.

Also cited for failure to yield right-of-way in an accident on Magnolia Street shortly after noon was Clinton Rex Faught of Rockport.

In that incident, Faught, eastbound on Orleans St., allegedly drove across the intersection into the path of a car driven by Patricia M. McArdle of Rockport as McArdle was turning from Magnolia onto Orleans.

In the third accident Tuesday, a pickup driven by Thomas Christopher Zuniga and a car driven by James Russell, both of Rockport, were in collision as Zuniga was pulling from a driveway onto St. Mary's Street.

Zuniga was ticketed for violation of a driver's license restriction and for failure to show proof of liability coverage.

Returning from a week's tour trip, Mrs. Lloyd Smith joined others from various towns who toured Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Iris Pendley has returned from a six-week visit to Augsburg, West Germany, where she visited with her family. While there the weather was "so beautiful" she took several short trips around Germany and Austria.

The Lighthouse Christian School opened its doors this week and were very excited about the 26 students that enrolled. This is their third year in operation and students are kindergarten through sixth grade.

Margie Lake spent the past week in Anson visiting her mother, Bernice Bradshaw.

Blanche Metcalf returned from a stay in Perry, Kan., with her son and his family, Dewaine and Ruth Metcalf and their daughter, Sarah.

CONGRATULATIONS! Martha and Jim Alexander are the proud parents of a son, William Franklin Barrington Alexander, born Aug. 15 in Huntsville. He weighed 8 pounds 9½ ounces. Maternal grandmother is Faye Hutchinson from San Angelo and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Alexander of Burnet.

WELCOME! To Peninsula Oaks, new homeowners Mr. and Mrs. Larry Walker from Odem, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Styles from Tinker Air Force Base, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frick from Houston.

Betty Abt has returned to her home after a five-week trip to Conneticut and the East Coast.

Jeannie and Steirly Rozzell have returned from a week-long trip to Tampa and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mundine spent several days in McDade last week visiting relatives.

Nan Irwin has returned from a 16-day trip to Canada, stopping at Vancouver and Victoria. She went via Sekium, Wash., to visit Dr. and Mrs. Lou Kost, former residents of Palm Harbor. While in Seattle, Wash., she went fishing and caught a salmon.

David Blankinship spent this week in Albuquerque, N.M., attending a whooping crane advisory meeting.

Maceal Casterline, Bettye Thomas and Martha Lewis spent last week in San Antonio attending the Texas Realtors Institute.

WELCOME! New homeowners to Holiday Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Kerry McCormick from Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hernandez have returned from their five-day honeymoon in Cozumel. They were married Aug. 13 at the Pentecostal Holiness Church in Aransas Pass.

Grace and Steve Stanick had grandchildren Rusty Swann from Killeen and Jamie Davis from Grand Isle visiting them for two weeks. The Stanick's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Swann from Killeen were also here for a weekend.

Last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Mulle entertained eight of their Palm Harbor friends at a patio party at their home.

Wilda Jean Fiene is now at home after a stay in Physician's and Surgeon's Hospital in Corpus Christi.

A group of mothers whose children starting school this past week have gotten together and formed a TGSS (Thank God School Started) Club. Last Monday Veronika Camehl hosted the first luncheon in her home.

As promised last week, we have some unusual and interesting cake recipes for you this week and even a recipe for the elusive bakery icing which graces all those beautiful cakes for special occasions.

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE
2½ cups sugar
2 tablespoon butter
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup pecans
2 tablespoons baking powder
3 tablespoons cocoa
½ cup cocoa
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup milk

Cream 1½ cups sugar with butter. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and 3 tablespoons cocoa together and add to creamed sugar alternately with milk.

Put in a pan heavily greased with butter. Sprinkle pecans on batter.

Mix brown sugar with 1 cup white sugar, ½ cup cocoa and sprinkle over top of batter. Pour 2½ cups boiling water over all.

Bake at 350° F. for 45 minutes. Cool in pan. Serve upside down with chipped cream. Makes 12 servings.

COCONUT LAYER CAKE
1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup milk
4 eggs
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons boiling water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter, add sugar, about 4 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Add boiling water and beat well. Add 1 egg at a time and beat well after each addition.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together three times and add to creamed mixture, alternating with milk. Add vanilla.

Have three 9-inch cake pans greased and lined with waxed paper ready and divide batter into the three pans.

Bake at 350° F. for 20 minutes. Cool on cake rack for 5 minutes. Fill and top with the following icing:

4 cups sugar
1 tablespoon corn starch
2 cups milk
2 fresh coconuts, grated

Mix sugar and corn starch. Add milk and stir well. Place on heat and cook, bringing filling to near boiling point. Add the coconut and cook.

Overcooking may cause the filling to go to sugar, but correct this with a little boiling water. Ice the cake while it is still hot.

CHESS CAKE
2 sticks oleo
1 box brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
4 egg yolks
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts, optional
1½ teaspoons vanilla
4 egg whites
Powdered sugar

Melt oleo and add both sugars and blend well. Add egg yolks and beat well.

Sift flour baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture. Fold in nuts and vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into creamed mixture.

Spread batter in a greased and floured 9-inch by 13-inch pan and bake at 350° F. for 30-45 minutes.

When done, sprinkle top with the powdered sugar.

MAYONNAISE CAKE
2 cups plus 2 teaspoons flour
1 cup mayonnaise
1½ cups sugar
½ cup cocoa
2 eggs
1 cup hot water
2 teaspoons soda

Put all ingredients into a bowl and mix well.

Pour into an 11-inch by 13-inch greased and floured pan and bake at 350° F. for 25-30 minutes.

Frost as desired.

WHITE CHOCOLATE CAKE
⅓ cup white chocolate
1 cup butter or oleo
1½ cups white sugar
4 eggs
½ cup hot water
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk

Cream butter and sugar until light.

Melt chocolate in hot water.

Separate eggs and set whites aside. Add yolks, one at a time, to the creamed mixture and beat well. Add melted chocolate and vanilla.

Mix soda with buttermilk and add alternately with flour.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in cake batter.

Bake in two 9-inch well-greased and floured pans in a 350°F. oven for 30 minutes.

BAKERY ICING
3½ cups powdered sugar, sifted
½ cup white shortening
2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon lemon extract
½ teaspoon vanilla

Divide sugar and cream shortening with half of the sugar. Beat the egg whites, salt and flavoring; add the remaining sugar.

This will frost a large cake. To make decorations, add more sugar.

I hope you enjoy these recipes and have a good week. Bon appetit!

Bishop Dixon to speak Sunday

Bishop Ernest Dixon will be at Rockport's First United Methodist Church Sunday, Sept. 4, to preach and to baptize Daniel Paul Renfro, infant son of the Rev. Barrett and Marty Renfro.

The baptism will be during the 10:50 a.m. worship service at the church.

A covered dish dinner will follow in fellowship hall. The Renfros will provide the meat and have asked those planning to attend the baptism and dinner to bring a salad, vegetable or dessert.

On Saturday, Sept. 3, the bloodmobile will be at the church for Blood Assurance Program donations. Donors must be between 18 and 65 years of age.

The church office will be closed Monday, Sept. 5, for the Labor Day holiday. On Tuesday, Sept. 6, the Gleaners Bible Cluster will resume its meetings at 9:30 a.m. in the Friendship classroom at the church.

The United Methodist Men will have their breakfast at 7 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 7, at Corky's Restaurant. The church finance committee will also meet that Wednesday, at 7 p.m.

First Baptist provides supper

Beginning Wednesday, Sept. 7, the fellowship supper at Rockport's First Baptist Church will be prepared.

Reservations for the meal must be made by noon Tuesday by filling out the slip from the Sunday bulletin or calling the church office.

Jackie Hutson, who will be in charge of the project, is asking for volunteers willing to prepare, cook or clean up. Anyone interested is asked to call her at 729-7662.

Costs for the meals will be $1.75 per adult and $1.25 per child, with a maximum cost per family of $6.

Fellowship supper will begin at 5:15 p.m. each Wednesday at the church. Prayer service will follow at 6 p.m.

Also on Wednesday nights, the Cherubs' Choir, for youngsters age 3 to 5 years, meets at 6 p.m. Teacher Training and Mission Friends begin at 6:30 p.m. as does the Harmony Choir for grades 1-3 and orchestra rehearsal.

Adult choir rehearsal, Youth Share Time and Bible study begin at 7:30 p.m.

'Psychic Confessions' to be shown

FULTON — A movie, "Psychic Confessions," will be shown during evening services Sunday, Sept. 4, at Fulton Comunity Church.

The Rev. Richard Giller, pastor of the church, said the film has been previewed and "is very interesting and informative. We guarantee you will not be bored and no false doctrine will be presented."

The film will begin at 6:30 p.m. A follow-up film, "The Fakers," is scheduled to be presented in a few weeks, Rev. Giller added.

Facing life's challenge

The following is taken from "Pastorgraphs," the column by the Rev. Richard Giller, pastor of Fulton Community Church, in the church's newsletter.

I read a story recently that is a good illustration of how some people handle their problems and opportunities in life. The story tells of two experiences on the highway back when driving 70 miles an hour was legal.

"It was a hot afternoon, no other cars were in sight. Up ahead I saw the form of a large bird bending over and tearing flesh from a runover rabbit. As I got closer, a huge hawk straightened up defiantly and looked directly into the headlights. Instead of taking flight as these birds normally do, the hawk spread his wings, almost blocking my side of the road, and challenged the speeding car. I could see his hooked beak open, and glaring eye as the car hit him. The proud bird was instantly dead. Neither the rabbit nor his pride were any good to him then."

The writer's second experience is one we almost all have shared, that of seeing a turtle make his slow journey across the highway. Unlike the hawk, the turtle will not challenge the car. He only stops, pulls all four legs into his shell and hopes for the best.

The proud hawk and the deluded turtle are like two kinds of people ignoring the speeding advance of death and judgment, or perhaps the challenge of life's problems. One is proud and defies the claims of Christ on his life; the other pulls into his own shell. The claims of Christ cannot be defied or ignored, neither can the problems we face in life.

"It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." Heb. 9:27. "As it is written, there is none righteous, no not one." Rom. 3:10. "He that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." John 3:18.

We must decide what to do about Jesus Christ, accept Him or reject Him. We must decide what to do about our problems, face them with faith and overcome or rebel and ignore and be defeated.

This is my church . . .

Ninth annual SeaFair is shaping up

Highlighted by the presence of Cajun humorist and author Justin Wilson and plans for the first annual Miss SeaFair pageant, Rockport's ninth annual SeaFair is taking shape.

The 1983 version of SeaFair, set this year for Oct. 8-9, will even be in a new location — the far end of mile-long Rockport Beach where five acres should provide plenty of parking and a more relaxed atmosphere, according to SeaFair President Jack Guillett.

"Bigger and better" are the key words of this year's festivities: starting with the bigger site and including a bigger parade — 20 bands and 50 floats lined up so far — and anticipation of a larger crowd. Last year, an estimated 45,000 attended SeaFair; this year, 60,000 are expected.

Wilson, humorist, author of several books on Creole cooking, with a number of popular comedy albums to his credit, will be the chief judge of this year's World Championship Seafood Gumbo Cookoff.

Entries are already lining up for the cookoff, with third through first trophies awarded Saturday and Sunday and the grand prize awarded on Sunday after the cookoff narrows down to the two top teams from both days. A showmanship trophy is also awarded to one team each day.

Wilson will be the grand marshal of Saturday's, Oct. 8, opening day parade and will be the featured entertainer at the Miss SeaFair finals Saturday night.

The beauty pageant is a first for the annual SeaFair. Young women between the ages of 16 and 20 are being invited to enter now in the competition. Preliminary judging will be later this month and 10 finalists will be selected to compete Oct. 8.

The finalists will ride the Rockport Area Chamber of Commerce float in the Saturday morning parade. Judging will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday at Rockport-Fulton High School Auditorium.

Back for the second year will be the Rockport SeaFair Regatta, a Corpus Christi-to-Rockport race for sailboats at least 23 feet long, held under sanction of the U. S. Yacht Racing Union under P.H.R.F. rules.

A longtime feature of SeaFair has been the crab races and crab beauty contest. Other special events of the annual festivity will include a jet ski rally, U. S. Coast Guard search-and-rescue demonstrations and parachute teams.

The focus of SeaFair, as it has been in years past, will be the arts and crafts booths. More than 100 booths will offer a variety of arts and crafts produced not only by Aransas County's local art colony but exhibitors from throughout Texas.

More than a dozen more booths will offer a varied menu, with the accent, as usual, on seafood for SeaFair-goers who want to enjoy a meal on the grounds.

The parade will kick off activities at 10:30 a.m. Oct. 8 and booths will open at noon both days. Exhibitions are from noon until dark Saturday, noon until 6 p.m. Sunday.

Other officials in this year's SeaFair include Pat Brown, vice president; Judy Guillett, event president; Carolyn Behee, secretary; Roy Hicks, treasurer.

Bob Kay is general chairman of SeaFair, Bill Janecek general events chairman, Linda Bechtol special events and entertainment chairman and Raulie Irwin grounds chairman. Bill Mayhood is co-general chairman and advertising chairman, Allen Ray Moers is in charge of the food booths; Bechtol and Ruth Gordon are co-chairmen for display booth rentals and Bechtol is in charge of trophies.

Other chairpeople include Mick Ladner, protocol; Debra Kullman, historian; Dennis Jenkins, beer sales; Jennifer and Bob Ledbetter, soft drink sales; Pat Daly, hats and T-shirts; and Behee, the information booth.

Jeanie Rutledge is assistant chairman of the special events and entertainment committee. Don Hill is chairman of announcers and auctioneer and Phil Hewett is land parade chairman, with Tim Gilles and Ken Mosley assistant chairmen.

Also chairing special events are Jane and Bill Kemmerer, gumbo cookoff; Pete Lazidis and Paul Braden, crab races; John Behee, air sea rescue; Bob Christian, regatta; Gar Morgan, parachute team; ABC Learning Center, the children's tent; Jimmy L. Wilken, music and special performances; Bill Agee, flags; Marguerite Luce, maritime museum; Tami Wise, jet ski race.

Others participating in the arrangements for this year's SeaFair include Willi Hiller, construction chairman; Bill Aston, medical services; Larry Barre, electrical; Bruce McMahan, security; J. C. Gurley, grounds and food tent clean-up; Jerry and Audrey Beattie, decorations; Joel Zapata, public address system; Harriet McCarty, tents; Young Life, parking; Carolyn Behee, transportation; Rip Harrison, signs; Rich Dias, chairs and tables.

Coast Guard offers nautical charts course

Maps are what make serious navigation possible, and a map has been defined as "a symbolic picture of a portion of the earth drawn to scale." A nautical chart is only a map that emphasizes features useful to the mariner — the shape of the coastline, landmarks visible from the sea, manmade aids to navigation, and depths.

Today's chart is a technological marvel, containing as much information as several large books. This compression is possible in part because of the use of symbols that stand for various objects that can't be represented on a chart in a scaled-down versin of their true shapes.

Nautical charts are just one of the subjects covered in the comprehensive Boating Skills and Seamanship course presented by local Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 79 Oct. 4-Nov. 17. The course, presented on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, is free and open to public.

Included in the session on nautical charts will be information about the preparation and publishing of charts by the National Ocean Survey (NOS) and more about how that organization makes available to the public free catalogs containing a selection of charts.

These catalogs are also provided by authorized chart sales outlets, which include map stores, major boatyards and marine dealers. Charts are only as good as the information on them, and because that information changes, boaters should be sure to buy and use up-to-date charts. It pays to get new charts every couple of years, and when an area is subject to frequent change because of soft bottom, strong tides and the like, to check at the local chart outlet every year to see if a new edition of your local chart has been issued. The "Notice to Mariners" will give information on changes which apply to charts as they occur. This information can be used to keep charts current at all times. Even when buying a new chart, some chart correction work will probably be required.

Motorists urged to drive defensively this weekend

AUSTIN — Driving defensively and using safety belts, as well as child safety seats, will be critical during the upcoming Labor Day Weekend, according to George R. Gustafson, executive vice president of the Texas Safety Association.

Fifty-seven persons lost their lives as a result of traffic accidents occurring on Texas highways and roadways during the long Labor Day weekend in 1982, according to Department of Public Safety statistics.

"Being alert to hazardous driving conditions and the potential problems of the other motorists is especially important during peak holiday driving days," said Gustafson.

"Safety belts worn during accidents reduce the chances of death by 60 percent, yet the majority of Texans still do not use them."

In June, Governor Mark White proclaimed the summer of 1983 as "Make It Click — Drive Defensively Months" in recognition of the nonprofit associations, societies and councils; tax-supported governmental agencies; and private sector corporations which are supporting occupant protection.

This year McDonald's Corporation has joined with the National Safety Council in a nationwide safety belt campaign, according to Gustafson. The Texas Safety Association and the Governor's Task Force on Traffic Safety are engaged in a public service campaign to increase voluntary usage of safety belts, he said.

"The efforts of many private and public sector organizations can make citizens aware of the need to use their safety belts and child safety seats. In final analysis, however, the individual motorist or caretaker of a young child must choose to buckle up," Gustafson said.

Woman assaulted on Rockport Beach

A woman was assaulted on Rockport Beach about 4 p.m. Wednesday while she was sunbathing.

Her assailant, an "unknown white male," according to Rockport police, fled the scene in camper-type vehicle.

Police were still looking for the man Thursday morning and said at that time they could not release any additional information on the case.

Mitch Ammons: he's a dabbler by nature

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

"Once upon a time," Mitch Ammons says, "with an industrial education background, you dabbled in a lot of things."

Mitch has done quite a bit of "dabbling": he built the house he and his wife, Elizabeth, own in Peninsula Oaks. He constructed a total solar water heating system and he's investigating what seems to be a promising method of using the system to someday operate an air conditioning unit.

He has "a garage full of woodworking tools" and is thinking about getting into dollhouse construction now that he has a granddaughter . . .

He and his wife have a travel trailer although they haven't had time yet to use it. They have a garden and a few chickens . . .

Mitch was no stranger to Rockport when he and Elizabeth moved here three years ago. Although he was born in Kenedy County — in the Karnes City area — he grew up in Rockport.

"My grandparents moved here in the late '30s, around '39," he said during an interview recently at his residence. "My folks lived in Refugio a while then Corpus Christi for a while."

But they were living in Rockport when Mitch was ready to enter school. "I went to school start to finish here," he said, graduating in 1957 from Rockport High School.

From there he went to junior college in Victoria for a year, then transferred to Del Mar. It was around then that he and Elizabeth were married.

"Then I went to San Marcos." He received a bachelor's degree in industrial education in 1961 and went to San Antonio to try for a job with the public school system there.

As it happened, the man in charge of recruiting faculty for the San Antonio school system, a man by the name of Wheeler, had been superintendent for the Aransas County Independent School District back when Mitch was in the second or third grade.

"My grandfather was a mechanic; he worked on a lot of the school buses," Mitch recalled. "He knew Wheeler" — and Wheeler remembered Mitch's family . . .

"I always felt," Mitch added, "that was my entry into the San Antonio school system."

At the same time Mitch was working in the public schools, he was working evenings in the junior college system, teaching automotive classes at St. Philips College.

During this period, he continued his own education, acquiring a masters degree in industrial education. "It was," he says, "the best thing I could've done," because around 1964-65, under a federal act that allowed funding of colleges teaching vocational education, Ammons was hired by the San Antonio Junior College System as the first administrator for vocational education at St. Philips.

"I was the first white administrator ever hired at an all-black school," he recalls. He remembers that time as "a good experience. I worked with some real good people, made some very good friends." One of them, he remembers, was "Leonidas Watson who was a very good friend and an ally on campus."

He remained with St. Philips for a year or two, then went to Wharton Junior College where he was hired as dean of occupational education. "The title changed almost yearly there as it does everywhere," he said, "but that was the final title I held when I retired."

While at Wharton, Mitch worked "off and on" on a doctorate degree, putting in 20 semester hours at Texas A&M, 50 at Houston.

"Then in '77 or '78, I decided that I'd had enough, I didn't want a doctorate." He had enough education for the position he held, he said, "and I had no aspirations or desire to be a junior college president" — the next step up. So he stopped his doctoral work.

"I have," he says, "an ABD — All But the Dissertation — on a doctorate . . ."

In 1980, he decided he'd had enough of the academic world. "Elizabeth and I hung it up and moved here." They had owned their lot in Peninsula Oaks for 20 years. "I started piddling on the garage and the (garage) apartment and had it just about livable when we sold our house in Wharton."

The house in Wharton was considerably larger than the apartment into which they moved: "We were wall-to-wall furniture in the garage for a while." It was about 18 months before their present house was ready for occupancy.

Involved in construction, among other duties, while he was at Wharton JC, Mitch is proud of the fact that he and Elizabeth built their home themselves.

"We laid the foundation, the whole bit," he said. He added a cement crew was called in, as were crews for the sheetrock and the carpeting, but "everything else, we did." It still isn't finished, he said, "but I'm not sure you ever finish a house."

In Wharton, he and Elizabeth "dabbled" in real estate, including — "for a while" — an old two-story turn-of-the-century house they converted into a boys' dorm. They've started looking at some real estate here, he said.

Here, though, Mitch has been pretty busy with other activities, such as the Aransas County Taxpayers Association (ACTA) which he helped found and which he served first as acting chairman until he was elected president when the organization officially got under way.

"I've been trying to stay very involved in various political activities, particularly the county, school and navigation district," he said. "I have the time now to participate, and I enjoy it."

In recent weeks, he's been busy with another duty, that of Emergency Management coordinator for Rockport, Fulton and Aransas County. In that capacity, Mitch's job involves working with city and county officials in event of a disaster or potential disaster — such as the two hurricanes that threatened the area this month.

Recently too, Mitch has been cast in another role, that of "proud grandpappy," with the birth of a girl to the youngest of his two daughters.

He has a list of activities he used to dabble in but doesn't find time for anymore: leathercraft, photography, plastics — "all kinds of things I can't squeeze into my schedule . . ."

He still retains charter membership in the Texas Association of Vocational Deans and Directors (he was the organization's seventh president), but he doesn't miss the campus life.

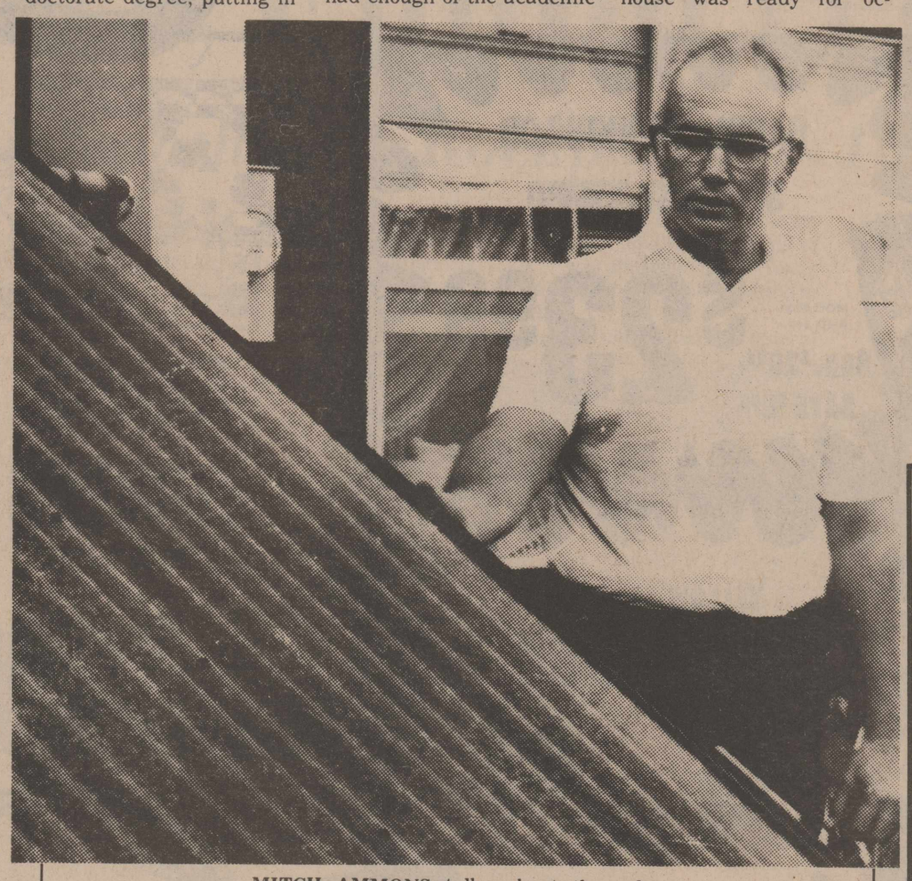

He recalls about eight or nine months after his retirement being called back to Wharton JC to serve as a consultant on the college's building program.

"I spent five days putting together specifications on the new building, getting ready to advertise for bids. When I was ready to leave, the president said, 'Why don't you come back to full time work?'

"I told him, 'Coming back proved to me I don't miss being a college dean'.

"I enjoy retirement," Mitch added. "I thoroughly enjoy the day-to-day pace of it.

"I haven't regretted my decision."

Funds for survey maps have been increased from $100 last year to $600 for the coming year, and lease fees from $76 to $80. Allocations for the town hall coffee bar went from $100 to $200.

Items added to the proposed budget which have not been included in the past are $200 for emergency management, $500 for work on a subdivision ordinance for the town and $500 for education.

Items decreasing in the 1983-84 proposed budget from last year's totals include maintenance of the town hall, down to $1,000 from $5,000 last year; street signs, down to $500 from $1,500 last year; telephone costs, down to $600 from $700 allocated in 1982-83; office equipment, down to $1,000 from $1,400; general expenses, down from $1,500 in 1982-83 to $400 for 1983-84; utilities for the pier, down to $2,000 from $3,000 last year; maintenance and repair of public buildings, down from $15,000 last year to $10,000 in the proposed budget; and reserves for capital expenditures, down to $10,820 in the coming year from $18,124 in 1982-83.

Allocations for election costs remain the same at $500, office supplies remain the same at $1,000, medical and fire subsidies remain steady at $4,000, and tax appraisal at $1,300. Zoning allocations remain the same at $400 and postage at $500. Annexation funds also remain steady at $500, and revenue sharing at $2,500.

County

were each determined to be too expensive to establish a FM road, Corpus Christi Street because acquiring the needed right-of-way would be difficult, and Airport Road because too many utility lines would have to be moved.

Aransas County Judge John D. Wendell said that a FM road which goes past the Fulton Mansion will be more scenic and be of more use to the county than the other alternatives. "It would be worth something to have a study made," he told Johnson.

A motion by Commissioner Mike Womack to make the loop the county's first priority for the 1984 Farm Market Road Program was unanimously approved by the court.

Johnson also reported to the court the status of several highway department projects. He said that the $4.5 million project to widen Hwy. 35 to four lanes between FM 202 and FM 1069 is right on schedule.

He also said that the highway department is looking at the years 1988-1998 for construction and completion of the Hwy. 35 bypass around Rockport. In addition, he revealed plans to widen Hwy. 35 between FM 1069 and Avenue A to a five-lane road during fall 1984. Also in 1984, the road between Gregory and Portland will become a full expressway.

Johnson revealed the highway department has received a request to widen Hwy. 35 through Rockport and Fulton to a five-lane road, but he said that drainage ditches will prevent the request from being approved. He said that the road must have curbs and gutters as well as storm sewers before any work can be done. This work must be paid for by local governing entities, he added.

In other court news, commissioners denied a request by Aransas County Navigation District Commissioner Hal McKnight to raise the district's car allowance from $75 to to $175 per month per commissioner. Instead, the court approved a motion to raise the car allowance to $125 per month per commissioner plus 20 cents per mile reimbursement for out-of-town travel.

The court hired architect John S. Hicklin to draw up plans to make repairs on the Aransas County Jail in order to bring the facility up to Texas Jail Commission standards. Plumbing, electrical work and installation of one or more doors will be included in the work.

The commissioners accepted Navigation and Canal Commissioner District No. 1 bonds, underwritten by Merchants Bonding Company through Glass, Sorenson & McDavid, gave final approval to the county's new subdivision requirements and to an agreement giving the state and the Town of Fulton a 29-year easement to the county right-of-way on Fulton Beach Road for construction of a jogging-bike path.

Carolyn J. Carpenter, an employee of the county tax office was deputized. In other news, the county agreed to reimburse the American GI Forum $50 for damage done to a water line when it was run over with a county lawn mower. Permission was also given to Commissioner Mike Womack to go onto the O'Connor property to pick up riprap for the shoreline along Fulton Beach Road.

The court approved a motion to accept a bid from Bartholomew Machine Company for a line striper for the county. The commissioners agreed to the bid price of $9,295 for the machine plus $218 for a handgun with 25-foot air hose and $1,025 for a timer, allowing the machine to spray intermittent lines, bringing the total to $10,538.

Judge Wendell announced that premiums on insurance for county employees is expected to increase 20 to 30 percent as of Jan. 1. The county currently pays $960 per employee per year for insurance. Wendell added that the insurance may be put out for bids.

Plan

"shall serve as a guide to all future Council action concerning land use and development regulations and expenditures for capital improvements."

Once the master plan is in effect, no proposal which deviates from it can be authorized unless such a proposal is submitted for approval by the planning commission.

Once the master plan is adopted, it must be updated annually by the planning and zoning commission.

Nave Museum opens Sam Francis painting exhibit

VICTORIA — An exhibition of bold and colorful abstractions by Sam Francis, an internationally acclaimed contemporary artist, will be on view at the Nave Museum from Friday, Sept. 2, through Oct. 9.

Organized by the Art Museum Association of America, the exhibition features 30 large paintings on paper and monotypes dating from 1974 to the present. Although some of these works have been shown in Europe, many are being shown for the first time in the United States.

Francis' works are noted for their exuberant, powerful and unadulterated color — brilliant reds, flowing oranges and yellows, vibrant blues and greens. According to the artist, it was an intense interest in "the substance of which light is made" that caused him to become a painter, and for more than three decades he has pursued an exploration of light through color.

"Seldom in recent history," writes art critic Jan Butterfield, "has a painter dealt with the blinding light of color and with the psychic implications of its symbolic meaning with such sureness and strength."

Widely recognized for his mural-sized paintings on canvas, Francis has also produced a considerable body of works on paper in various media — gouache, ink, acrylic, tempera, watercolor, oil and collage. Paper holds a special fascination for him: its absorbent properties allow him to create colors and effects that are difficult, if not impossible, to achieve on canvas. His brush strokes, swirls, drips and splashes of color are spontaneous and alive.

"I don't edit, and I don't paint over," Francis says.

Francis' forms allude to the universe itself, both internal and external, microcosm and macrocosm. In some works, rich masses of color melt and flow in a kaleidoscope fashion, while drips and splashes swirl and disappear — some delicate and airy, others dark and heavy.

In his recent monotypes, jagged and hard-edged shapes combine with flamboyant color and exotic textures to create curious organic worlds.

Born in San Mateo, Calif., in 1923, Francis attended the University of California, Berkeley, where he received his M.S. degree in 1950. Even as a student he was producing remarkably mature paintings. Influenced by the older generation of abstract expressionists such as Mark Rothko and Clyfford Still, in 1950 he left California for France where he received international acclaim: Time Magazine in 1956 called him "the hottest young painter in Paris."

Although he has lived primarily in Santa Monica, Calif., since 1962, Francis today maintains studios in Paris, Bern and Tokyo. He has been included in many important exhibitions including "New American Paintings," at the Museum of Modern Art, New York in 1958; "American Abstract Expressionists and Imagists" at the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, New York in 1961; and "Two Decades of American Painting" at the National Museum of Modern Art, Tokyo in 1956.

Major retrospective exhibitions of his work were held in 1967 at the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, and in 1972 at the Albright-Knox Gallery in Buffalo.

"Sam Francis' Paintings on Paper and Monotypes" is on a two-year tour to selected museums throughout the United States. It is being circulated by the Art Museum Association of America in cooperation with Experimental Workshop, San Francisco; 3EP Limited, and by Smith Anderson Gallery, Palo Alto. Calif. The exhibition is supported in Victoria by a grant from the Victoria Arts Council.

Visitors may view the exhibition during regular museum hours 1-5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. The Nave Museum is located at the corner of Moody and Commercial Streets.

Bike safety lesson is needed

Accent on Health

Parents with children starting school for the first time this year should teach their youngsters a lesson in bicycle safety. before the first school bell rings.

Last year in accidents involving cyclists, 67 persons were killed and 2,898 were injured in incidents reported to the Department of Public Safety.

To get your child off on the right foot this year, parents should make a practice run to school before it starts, according to Dan Sowards, chief of the Hazardous Products Control Program with the Texas Department of Health. They can do the same thing with students who walk.

"Many first-time students will be riding bicycles and meeting heavy traffic," says Sowards. "Parents should instruct the children on where to ride and how to meet dangerous situations at busy intersections, for example, bike riders should dismount and push their bicycles across the street."

Sowards said many parents purchase bicycles that are too large for their children, hoping they will "grow into them."

This is a dangerous practice, because the child may not be able to handle the bike. Sowards said a person should be able to straddle the bike with both feet flat on the ground, leaving no less than 1 inch between the crotch and the frame's top tube. Also, there should be at lease 3½ inches of clearance between the bike's pedal and the front fender or tire to prevent a toe from getting caught between the frame and the front wheel. In addition, pedal clearance with the ground should be checked. Tilt the bicycle at about a 25-degree angle, recommends Sowards, and if a pedal touches the ground, the bicycle is unsafe.

Bicycle visibility is a must. It should be visible from every angle at night. It's a good idea to have a headlight and taillight on the bike, but in addition reflector strips should be placed on the spokes and pedals and the front and rear of the bicycle. Wearing reflectorized tape on clothing also will increase visibility.

It's also a good idea to road test a bike before buying it. That way the rider can get the feel of the bike and determine if the brakes work smoothly in providing quick, easy stops.

For further information contact Dan Sowards, Product Safety Program, Texas Department of Health, 1100 W. 49th St., Austin 78756, 458-7519.

Richard Griffith

S&R can do anything electric

S&R Electric was established in Rockport approximately seven years ago. Owner Richard Griffith comes from a family of electricians, beginning with his grandfather.

Griffith says he became familiar with electrical work while he was growing up. After high school, he began training to become an electronics technician, but later decided on a career as an electrician.

S&R Electric employs eight persons at the present time. "We do anything electric," Griffith says, from new construction, both commercial and residential, to industrial and oilfield electrical work. In addition, the firm does instrumentation, the installation of metering devices. With radio-dispatched trucks, Griffith promises prompt service.

Griffith holds a master electrician's license in the City of Rockport and in Aransas Pass. He is chairman of the electric board for the City of Rockport and a member of the VFW.

A "can do" attitude is evident in Griffith and his employees. With 24-hour service, "we work anytime the phone rings," he says.

S&R Electric has a 24-hour answering service. The phone number is 729-6660.

WANT... TO BUY? TO SELL? RESULTS?

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE

Lamar Water Supply Corporation has filed a Sewer Utility Application for a Certificate of Convenience and Necessity to furnish sewer service to the Sea Gun Complex, a 13.0 acre subdivision located at the southeast corner of Highway 35 and Park Road 13, Aransas County, Texas, effective September 30, 1983.

The proposed rate schedule is as follows:
Residential:
$15.00 monthly
Commercial:
$50.00 monthly

ANYONE OPPOSED TO THE APPLICATION:

a. May file a written complaint with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 450N, Austin, Tx 78757, (512) 458-0100, stating the reasons for opposition.

b.May file with the Commission and with applicant Utility a notice of intent to participate in a Public Hearing, either filing should be made prior to the intended effective date of the proposed rate or tariff change.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice of Hearing

The mutually-exclusive applications of R-F Broadcasting Company and Lori Ann Brotman for construction permit for a new FM broadcast station to operate on channel 272A at Rockport, Texas, have been designated for hearing before the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C. on November 14, 1983 at 10 a.m. upon the following issues:

1. To determine with respect of R-F Broadcasting Company:
(a) the source and availability of necessary funds; and
(b) whether, in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to (a) above, the applicant is financially qualified.

2. To determine whether there is a reasonable possibility that the tower height and location proposed by Brotman would constitute a hazard to air navigation.

3. To determine which of the proposals would on a comparative basis, better serve the public interest.

A copy of the application, amendments, and related materials of R-F Broadcasting Company, is on file for public inspection at:

724 Rowan Street
Rockport, Texas

BREAST CANCER

Dear Dr. Esse: My mother had breast cancer. So did an aunt. I'm 35, married and apprehensive. I suppose that it's natural to be scared with my poor family history. Will you offer some guidelines on how to meet this problem? Thanks. Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Here they are, straight from the horse's mouth, if the American Cancer Society will forgive me! Here are ways to detect breast cancer in women with no symptoms:

* Women 20 years of age and older should perform breast self-examination every month.

* Women 20 to 40 should have a physical examination of the breast every three years and women over 40 should have a physical examination of the breast every year.

* Women between the ages of 35 and 40 should have a baseline mammogram. (Something to compare with later mammograms.

* Women under 50 should consult their personal physicians about the need for mammography.

* Women over 50 should have a mammogram every year when feasible.

* Women with personal or family histories of breast cancer (you're in that category, Mrs. L.) should consult their physicians about the need for more frequent examinations or about beginning period mammography before age 50.

Here are some additional observations. The earlier the diagnosis, the greater likelihood of cure. Advancing age is the most important risk factor. Most breast cancers occur in women over age 50.

CAMPING ALL YEAR ROUND

By FRED GREYSON

TRAVEL TIPS

This is the time of year when novice and veteran campers make up the big bulge of the summer camping population. While it's true that tyro campers have a lot to learn, it's also true that we veterans of the trails also need a refresher in the facts of camping life from time to time. Inasmuch as the most important goal of any camper — newcomer or vet — is not to get lost no matter where he or she is going, let's review a couple of insurance pointers on that score:

1) GET TO THE ROUTE OF YOUR TRAVELS — If possible, have a clear map of the route you're taking. If you're driving, be sure you know where possible alternate routes may be easily located. Although you may be told in advance which roads are currently closed, other roads may become suddenly impassable for any reason: a heavy rain can cause a rock or mudslide for example. Be prepared to move in another direction quickly. It not only saves time; it saves tempers!

If you're backpacking, it's especially important to make a route map of the trail you're following. Indicate in a notebook where the trail bends. Note down, also, all significant landmarks (stream crossing, rock outcroppings, timber stands, etc.) on your route map. Consulting these notes can help you avoid traveling in circles should you become disoriented.

2) SEENG STARS — Before you leave for your trip consult a good manual — a Boy Scouts' manual is one — that will show you a simple diagram of how to find Polaris, the North Star. In the northern hemisphere, Polaris is within one degree of true north. (NOTE: Once you learn how to find the Big Dipper, you can find Polaris easily.)

3) TIME ON YOUR HANDS? — If your watch is accurate, you can use it in the daytime to find true south. (REMEMBER: Correct for standard time if you're on daylight saving time.) Turn the watch in the direction in which the hour hand points to the sun. True south lies halfway between that hour and the number 12.

If your watch has stopped or is otherwise inaccurate, estimate what time it is. Even if you're as much as two hours off you can still find an approximate direction in the western part of America in the summertime. The sun then stands at due south at noon (standard time) and rises slightly north of east and sets slightly north of west. (Winter sun times take more southerly directions.)

Of course, carry, use, and trust your compass. It's usually more accurate than you might think. When in doubt, check its accuracy using any of the foregoing methods.

MAIL CALL: Several of you have contacted me regarding the possibility of sending diabetic children or visually impaired children to summer camp this year. Although it is rather late in the season — (like all camps for children, these places also prefer that you make arrangements no later than May of any given year). I'm told that occasionally there are places available. For diabetic youngsters, contact your local Juvenile Diabetes Foundation or American Diabetes Association chapter. (Or ask your local health center for an address closest to you.) For the visually impaired, contact your local Association for the Blind or Lions Club group for information.

The reason preachers and choir memebers wear robes today is because Jesus wore a robe 2,000 years ago. But, the reason Jesus wore a robe 2,000 years ago was because everybody else wore robes 2,000 years ago. When people saw Him walking down the street, they didn't say, "Hey, there's a preacher going down the street in his robe!" He didn't stand out like a sore thumb. He blended into the crowd pretty well.

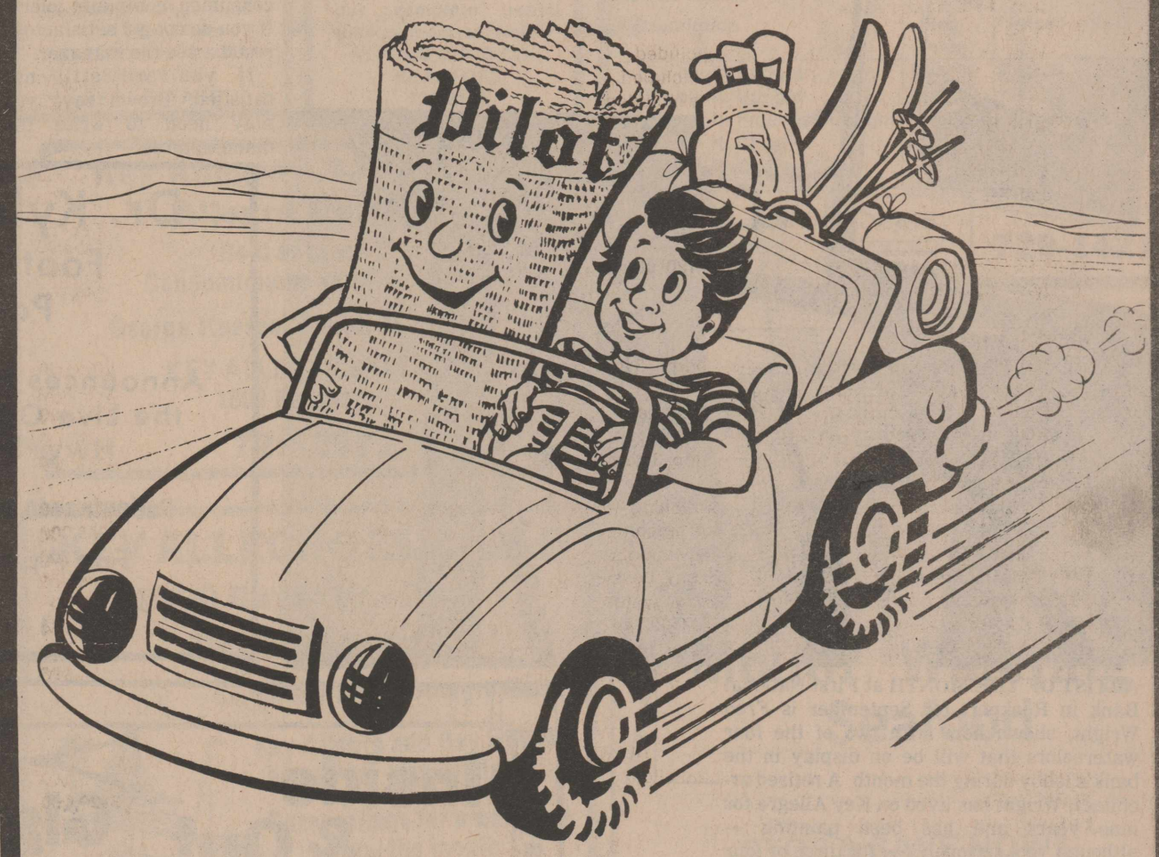

If Jesus came back today, He would be wearing a shirt and pants, like most fellas. And, I imagine when He spoke in Churches on Sunday, Jesus would be wearing a decent suit. The Lord never did have much money — so He might be wearing something from the Goodwill store! I doubt that Jesus would be wearing a cross around His neck on account of the painful memories He had about another cross. So, Jesus would look like most average folks.

If Jesus came riding into town today, it wouldn't be on a donkey, although some preachers still pull that off on Palm Sundays. Jesus rode a donkey in the old days because they didn't have cars. Had He come in the 20th century, Jesus might have entered the city in a borrowed pickup truck! And the cry of the crowd would most certainly be, "Blessed is He who comes in a pickup truck."

If Jesus came today, the Wisemen wouldn't arrive on camels, but by jet. The angels might have come to chicken farmers instead of shepherds. (Or maybe to some golfers playing a late game on the golf course.)

When it comes to robes, I feel sort of like the little boy with braces on his teeth who was told by his mother that he couldn't wear cowboy boots to Church because Jesus didn't. He replied, "Jesus didn't wear braces to Church either."

Time to look for summer workers is now

By Congressman BILL PATMAN

Williamson-Burnet counties Opportunities Inc. reports that even though this year's summer job programs are just ending, the time for employers to start looking toward next summer is right now.

Claudia Romero, representing the job opportunities agency, said the agency worked with 100 kids in western Williamson County and tried to get as many as possible into private industry. "But we need more involvement in the private sector," she said.

One incentive that many employers may not be aware of, Romero told Hill Country News reporter, Roni Morales, is that Opportunities Inc. pays 50 percent of the youth's wages.

With so many youngsters looking for jobs, it would be well for business firms throughout the 14th Congressional District to check into the program for 1984. We have a lot of hard working young people eager to get summer jobs.

The independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas has come up with an innovative idea, suggesting a return to the old-fashioned custom of barter in agriculture on an international scale.

The ICAT board of directors unanimously endorsed the barter idea, proposing the swapping of such things as Texas beef, corn, beans, rice and other agricultural products for Mexican petroleum. "The idea of bartering food for oil has interested us for a long time," said Roy G. Wheeler, ICAT president, who will pursue the idea — with emphasis on private enterprise.

Visitors from the 14th District who came by Congressman Patman's office the week ending Aug. 19 were Mr. and Mrs. John Hougland and their two sons, of Port Lavaca, Clarence Hafernick of Lolita, Naomi Herrmann of El Campo and Maxine Kresta and Mary Ann Kubecka, both of Edna.

Try 'All-Texas' varieties in your fall garden

One of the keys to getting good results from your fall garden is to make sure you plant a variety suited to your climate, and to plant it at the right time.

The following varieties have been awarded the honor of being "All-Texas Selections" because they are among the best types available for gardening in Texas. But remember — a fall garden must be started during the summer, so buy your seed early and get your transplants started.

Broccoli: Green Comet hybrid produces extremely high quality heads about 6 to 8 inches across on vigorous growing plants. It later produces an abundance of tasty side shoots. It is ready to harvest 65 to 70 days after transplanting, and is adapted to all areas of Texas.

Cabbage: Sanibel is a hybrid widely adapted to Texas which does exceptionally well in South, Central and far West Texas. It produces round, firm heads weighing about 3 to 4 pounds each 85 days after transplanting and has excellent disease resistance. Both Sanibel and the older, great-tasting variety Early Jersey Wakefield hold well in the fall garden and have good cold tolerance.

Carrots: Imperator 58 may be an old variety, but it is hard to beat when it comes to producing huge yields of attractive, tasty carrots under a wide range of weather conditions. Roots are 8 to 10 inches long, deep orange, and take about 80 days to mature.

Turnips: Royal Globe produces heavy yields of high quality, uniform roots in about 55 days. It does well all over Texas and produces relatively small, though very tasty, tops as well.

Greens: Tendergreen II is an extra vigorous hybrid mustard that produces large, shiny dark green leaves with narrow stems that are ready to eat about 45 days after planting.

Bunching Onions: South Port White is an excellent choice for fine quality green onions in fall and winter Texas gardens. It produces bright green, tall-standing tops and uniform white stems which bulb slightly at the base.

Spinach: Melody is a great variety for your fall garden wherever you live in Texas. It produces good yields of highly nutritious leaves on large upright-growing plants about 45 days after seeding. This hybrid spinach exhibits good disease resistance and tolerance to cold weather.

How to get more for your clothing dollar

If you think you're paying more but getting less when shopping for clothes lately, you fit the current profile of the American shopper, says Nancy Brown, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Recent surveys give interesting results about opinions of shoppers, some of which are:

- More than half of the men and women surveyed believed the quality of apparel in stores today is inferior to that of five years ago.
- Only 10 percent thought that prices for clothes were increasing less than prices of non-apparel items, and 44 percent thought they were increasing more.
- Sixty percent preferred to shop in self-service stores rather than in stores where a salesperson assists them.
- Almost 75 percent believed American-made apparel is a better value than imported apparel.

Opinions don't always agree with facts and figures, however, Brown points out. The actual dollars may have gone up, but since 1960 the percentage of our incomes spent on clothes has actually gone down.

"This means prices for clothes have increased at a lower rate than for other items, and comparatively speaking, clothes cost less," she explains.

But even at "lower" prices, it's hard in these times to get enough dollars to cover all the expenses, she says.

"Perhaps it is an attempt to increase the buying power of the clothing dollar which has brought about the move to self-service shopping. But this requires a better-informed consumer, because when there is no saleperson to help, you have to make the decisions alone," Brown says.

She suggests that if you want to get the most for your clothing dollar, you should always read the labels on the clothes you are considering.

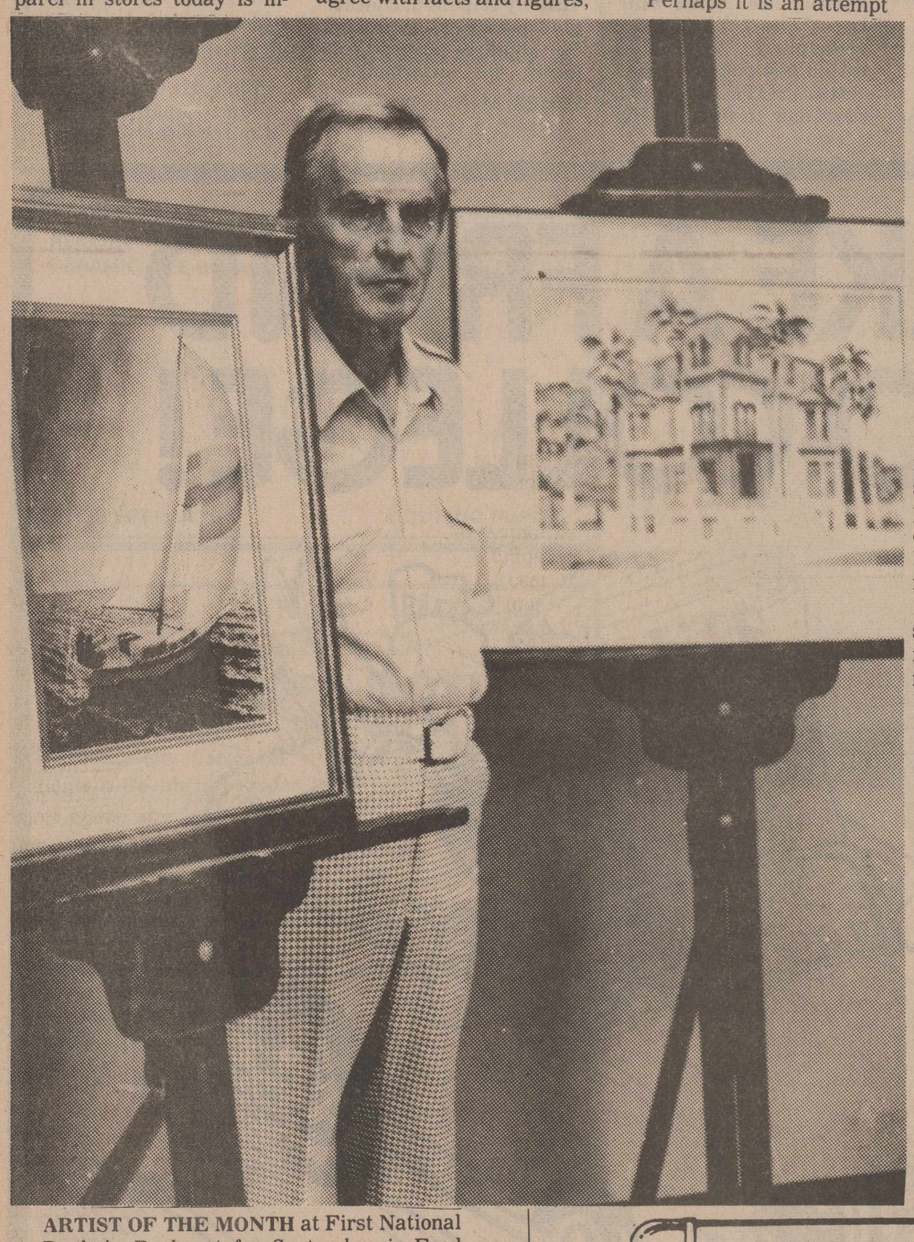

"The Care Labeling Law provides for a permanently-affixed label on all apparel which gives appropriate care instructions. In addition, other valuable information is available on labels, such as fiber content, fabric finishes, and the country in which the garment was made.

"These will give you some facts to consider before making your purchase," says the specialist.

But even the careful and well-informed shopper occasionally makes a disappointing buy, she explains.

"So, if a fabric or garment does not perform acceptably, take it back to the retail store immediately," she advises. "Explain the problem to the salesclerk or consumer complaint clerk. If you do not get satisfactory results, see the manager."

If you are still not satisfied, Brown says you may need to write the manufacturer.

ARTIST OF THE MONTH at First National Bank in Rockport for September is Fred Wright, shown here with two of the four watercolors that will be on display in the bank's lobby during the month. A retired architect, Wright has lived on Key Allegro for nine years and has been painting — although "not seriously" — for three or four years.

Rifle and shotgun taken in burglary

A shotgun valued at $300 and rifle valued at $100 were reported taken when the residence of Gregory Couk was burglarized between Aug. 22 and 24.

A pump was taken between Aug. 29 and 30 from a construction site on Hwy. 35 North. Value of the pump was estimated at $289.95.

A battery valued at $70 was taken from a U-Haul truck at Jim Clayton's service station between Aug. 23 and 27.

A spare tire was reported taken Aug. 30 from a truck belonging to an Aransas County business. Value of the tire was estimated at $150.

An ice chest and gas tank were taken from a boat while it was docked at an area bait stand Aug. 26 or 27. Owner of the boat is Larry Davis.

An incident of criminal mischief was reported by Tammy Turner of Star Rt. 1. Turner said someone ransacked her car while it was parked at an area restaurant Sunday, Aug. 28, and damaged the gearshift mechanism on her car.

The nearest to perfection most people ever come is when filling out an employment application.

Pet talks

By Dr. HAP LUTZ
Rockport Veterinarian

Dear Dr. Lutz,

Several members of our household are heavy smokers. Our two cats are kept indoors. Is there any danger to the cat's health from the smoke? If so, would an air purifier help?

A Chronic Smoker

Dear Smoker,

Respiratory problems are very common in animals living in a house full of smoke. The smoke is most likely to affect the eyes, causing excessive tearing. Sneezing and nasal discharge is another problem. A cat's lungs undergo the same changes from "passive smoking" as do humans. Many animals become allergic to the chemicals and materials in cigarette smoke. An air purifier would help, but would not be as effective as refraining from smoking in the house at all.

Dr. Hap Lutz

Auditions are set for "Godspell"

Open auditions for Corpus Christi State University Theatre's production of the rock musical "Godspell' will be Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 12 and 13.

Auditions will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening in the University's Center for the Arts Warren Theatre.

The production features roles for seven men and six women. Specifically, the cast requires two sopranos, five altos, four tenors and three baritones. Both acting and dancing ability is desired.

Those auditioning should come to the tryout with a song from "Godspell" prepared, if possible. An accompanist will be provided. Individuals auditioning will also be asked to dance, read and create mime scenes.

"Godspell" will be directed by Dr. John Wilson, professor of communications at CCSU. The musical will be presented in mid-November.

For more information, call Wilson at 991-6810, ext. 362.

JOHN WAYNE
THE GREATEST ACTOR

After achieving stardom in 1949 and remaining there until 1974, Wayne went on to make more than $400 million from his long film career. He starred in more Hollywood 'classics' than anyone else and is undoubtedly the number one Western Star.

Although Wayne started out in B-movies and seemed set to stay in second billing, it was not until John Ford had a hand in Wayne's destiny by casting him in "Stagecoach" that he started his fantastic acting career.

So much has been said about "The Duke" as a man that some perspective has been lost about his career. His acting techniques are 'natural' to the extreme. Audiences did not go to see John Wayne lose himself in a part, they went to see a John Wayne character in the movie setting of his choice.

Perhaps the secret to Wayne's success was his ability to perform as a 'natural' by drawing on the different facets of his own personality. This kind of performing often resulted in a 'wooden' character but left audiences with the feeling that they had met John Wayne the man and had a little part of him to hold on to.

Born in Winterset, Iowa, on May 26, 1907, Wayne was given the name Marion Michael Morrison. Leaving that behind in Iowa, John Wayne became a football star at the University of Southern California and worked as a prop boy in the summer for John Ford.

Thus began Wayne's B (or "Z" as some critics feel) movie career, where he made a western in four or five days, designed for the children in the audience. Wayne said that he made so many movies in the early days that he couldn't begin to say how many he was in, but feels that the constant exposure helped his career.

In time, Ford rescued Wayne by giving him the lead in "Stagecoach" in 1939 and from then he was a major star.

Wayne always worked best in action situations (probably because of his own physical strength) and easily switched from action-packed westerns to action-packed battle films during the Second World War, making "The Long Voyage Home" and "They Were Expendable."

If Wayne became a star in the forties, he achieved superstar status in the fifties, making magnificent epics with Ford and Howard Hawks - including the critic-voted best western of all time, "Rio Bravo."

Always an individualist, always rugged, and always the all-American male, Wayne put life into people's dreams of self-sufficiency and acted out their pioneer fantasies.

After a brief period as a director working on "The Alamo" (which was disliked by the critics even while it was enjoyed by audiences) Wayne went back to working with Ford and made "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," a film more along the lines of the individualistic "Hondo" of 1954.

With his popularity still growing, Wayne was finally awarded an Academy Award in 1969 for his portrayal of the fat, old, one-eyed boozer called Rooster Cogburn, in "True Grit."

"True Grit" truly describes Wayne's career at that point.

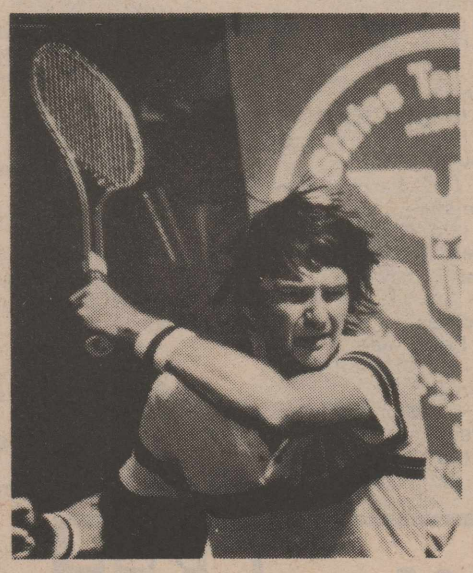

After thirty years at the top, conquering cancer and beating a path for freedom of speech, Hollywood decided that Wayne deserved official recognition.

A second appearance as "Rooster Cogburn" in the film of the same name, opposite Katherine Hepburn, seemed to echo Wayne's life and in 1970 he gave one of the best performances of his career as an old gunfighter dying of cancer in "The Shootist."

On June 11, 1979, John Wayne died - of cancer.

At Six Flags Stars Hall of Fame in Orlando, Florida, John Wayne stands tall on the set of "Hondo" - the greatest ever pioneer.

Komack returns with '9 to 5' roles

By Joan Crosby

James Komack, the man who created "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Chico and the Man" and "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," will be back on TV this fall — producing and acting on ABC's "9 to 5."

Komack hasn't appeared before the cameras since his role in "Eddie's Father." He'll have a recurring role in "9 to 5," playing Dag, the top boss of the company.

"Harris Kattleman of 20th Century-Fox suggested I play the role. He's not in every episode. I don't know how many he will be in. But it is hard to get an actor of stature and ability to accept a guarantee of maybe two episodes out of 13. It would also cost a lot of money and his agent would demand seven of the 13. A good actor won't come in and say four lines in an episode and go home."

But Komack, a good actor and executive producer, will.

James Komack

The series has also been revamped. Gone are Jean Marsh, Valerie Curtin and Herb Edelman. Joining returning Rita Moreno, Rachel Dennison and Peter Bonerz are Leah Ayres as a secretary, George DeLoy as a salesman and Tony La Torre as Miss Moreno's previously unseen son.

"More episodes will deal with the home life of the characters," explains Komack.

ARIES

(March 21-April 20) Family obligations could prevent you from taking advantage of a social event. Make the most of the situation and try not to let on you are disappointed.

TAURUS

(April 21-May 21) Career decisions might have to be postponed because of family issues. A seemingly harmless meeting with someone in your neighborhood could lead to gossip running rampant.

GEMINI

(May 22-June 21) Provide moral support to one being besieged with problems. Set aside time for yourself and indulge in leisure activities.

CANCER

(June 22-July 23) Make mental notes to remind yourself of commitments you have made. Otherwise, you could stand someone up.

LEO

(July 24-Aug. 23) Your frustrations concerning finances should be put to rest with comforting news from a friend. Be specific when giving directions to others for they may lose track of whatever they are supposed to be doing.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24-Sept. 23) Local gossip might annoy you and lead to hard feelings between others in the neighborhood. Try to get to the bottom of the situation. Using gentle persuasion is the best way to deal with an older person.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24-Oct. 23) Request a meeting between yourself and all parties involved in business transactions. Otherwise, there could be a misunderstanding.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pursuing a course of action leads to boredom. Find something more challenging even if it means taking a risk.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Participate in social affairs that will allow you to hobknob with society people and others who are in a position to help your career.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Indulge in a purchase of something expensive you have long desired. You'll feel like a million dollars. An acquaintance could introduce you to new activities which you'll enjoy.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Career decisions may have to be arrived at quickly without a great deal of thought put behind them. Listen closely to helpful hints of a relative who is in a position to be of service to you.

PISCES

(Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your mind off romance and concentrate on business affairs or you'll miss important details. A surprise visitor may accept your hospitality and wine and dine you all over town.

BEFORE & AFTER

IN THE SOAPS by SELI GROVES

All My Children: Opal decided to get married and advertised for a professional man with money. Tad shampooed for Marian at the Glamorama and started falling for her. Hal told Brooke the only way they can be together is through death. Coming: Hal makes a move on Brooke. Liza gets upset about her mother, Marian and Tad.

Another Life: Dave's actions regarding Amber's pregnancy widened the gap between himself and his family. Realizing her feelings for Dave, Terry turned down his request for advice. Lester warned Ben not to set foot on hospital grounds again. Coming: Sebastian takes action against Lee.

Another World: Larry told Jamie to stop Nicole from falling in love with him. Quinn told Abel they can't see each other anymore because she wants marriage and he doesn't. Mack asked Nicole to model for Felicia's new diet book. Coming: Sandy finds a surprise clue in Washington. Cecile has another surprise for Sandy.

As The World Turns: Craig assumed he would have problems with Kirk and wasn't surprised when things began to go against him. Betsy was concerned about Craig's reaction to her most recent suggestion. Coming: James' suggestions regarding Paul's well-being force Gunnar to take action.

Capitol: Fran insisted she could do nothing to help Amy who was still upset by the news of who her true father might be. Myrna decided to find a way to use Fran and Amy's problems. Coming: Trey continues to believe he did things he shouldn't have even though he doesn't remember them.

Days Of Our Lives: Renee married Alex. She planned a big party to expose her new husband and all others she considered her enemies. Maggie was depressed over the phony pictures of Don and Gwen. Coming: Mickey faces Maggie with the truth. Sandy faces an unpleasant duty.

Edge Of Night: Preacher was officially deputized after Chris gave him the okay. Raven continued to run the agency while Sky was away. Alf Maynew made a call claiming he'd been ruined. Coming: Mayhew's suicide leads everyone — Chris, Derek, Preacher and Raven — on separate chases for clues.

General Hospital: Brock saved Bobbie from being raped by two dockworkers. Celia fell more deeply in love with Grant in spite of her suspicions. Connie warned Robert that Luke was telling Holly about the disc. Coming: Gregory gives Natalie the go-ahead for another "assignment."

Guiding Light: Bert was determined to make a new start for herself once she accepted the facts about Bill's death. Nola and Quint ignored advice and continued to question the circumstances surrounding the "accident." Mystery deepened around Annabelle. Coming: Josh finds things going a little too smoothly to suit his somewhat suspicious instincts.

Loving: Noreen tried to hide her feelings from Rose after hearing the unexpected news. Rita Mae concocted another alibi. Merrill refused to listen to an important explanation. Coming: Merrill's instincts were on the button.

One Life To Live: Delila's bitterness grew as she imagined Bo was neglecting her. Vicki learned that Gizelle drowned when she fell off the bridge and that Echo is a strong swimmer. Asa stole Becky's letter in which she named Bo as the father of her baby. Coming: Vicki learns more about Echo's plot against Clint.

Ryan's Hope: Delia thought of a way to pay back Siobhan for tricking her about Bill's injury. Jill introduced Frank to her half-sister Maggie. Bill obtained Joe Novak's police file. Coming: As Bill tries to get closer to Siobhan, she begins to think more about Joe.

Search For Tomorrow: Stephanie insisted that Suzi move into her house. Wendy was surprised, but secretly happy, because it meant Suzi split with Warren. When Wendy asked Warren if there was a chance for them now, he told her to have an abortion. Coming: Stew consults an "expert" about Joanne. Ringo gives Warren unpleasant news.

Young & The Restless: A mystery appeared to be developing around Patty's headaches and their cause. Julia came up with an idea that didn't exactly suit Victor at this time. Danny felt left out by Gina's suggestion. Coming: Traci gets good news and bad news and isn't sure which is which — yet.

The Wine Rack

By BIANCA St. JOHN

Vintage Chart Available

* Most vintage charts are prepared by wine associations or importers, and while they almost always provide useful guidelines for the wine-buyer, they also tend to be uniformly positive about all wines listed. Independent wine critics, who are more critical and less biased about specific regions and years, are apt to produce a vintage chart that's somewhat tougher in tasting ratings. Such a chart has just come out. Called "The 1983 Drinkability Odds Chart," it lists 33 categories for the last 22 vintages, including California, Italy, the Pacific Northwest, New York, Spain, Portugal, Germany and France, in a handy pocket size. You can get one of your own by sending $1 to: 1983 Chart, P.O. Box 285, Ithaca, N.Y. 14851.

The chart rates current drinkability as well as indicating those vintages that are most likely to improve with age and how long to age them — indicating that the average American wine cellar or storing place is at a temperature of 65 degrees F, and that for every two degrees below that in your cellar, you should add a year of storing time.

Best all-time vintages are listed for each growing area, and for many wines, current drinkability is distinguished from potential drinkability with separate ratings worked into a system that suggests whether the wine is likely to reach its peak flavor within five years or from five to ten years.

Numerical ratings correspond to descriptions in gamblers' parlance which can give one the feeling that wine-buying is as risky as spinning a roulette wheel, and as unpredictable. It needn't be, especially with useful vintage charts like this one available.

SOAP BUBBLES

By Seli Groves

Changes continue on the soaps. Following Dorothy Lyman's decision to leave her role as Opal on ABC's "All My Children" and take up residence in the Peacock's Nest (NBC) via an exclusive contract, comes word that lovely Elaine Princi will exit her role as Miranda on "As The World Turns." Elaine, whose background includes Shakespeare, modern theater, movies and many TV shows, including a stint on the daytimer, "Days Of Our Lives," will soon give us some interesting insights into her upcoming projects.

Welcome back to Elizabeth Swackhamer who assumes the role of Suzi Wyatt on "Search For Tomorrow."

Welcome back, too, to Jeremy Slate. Although we'll only have six months to kid around with him this time, we'll have to settle with that. (Jeremy brings his humor and dignity back to the role of Chuck Wilson on "One Life To Live" via a limited storyline.)

Petronia Paley (Quinn, "Another World") turned up at the Suffolk County Cystic Fibrosis fair a week ago along with other actors including Jennifer Cooke (ex Morgan, "Guiding Light"). Fans wanted to know when Petronia's new PBS film, "Solomon Northrope's Odyssey" will appear. "Soon," said the lovely lady, who was delighted that so many people knew about it. (Well, Petronia, so many people read this column.)

Rose Alaio (Helena, "GL") was the center of attention at a recent meeting of the N.Y. Center for Community Affairs held in P.S. 182 in the Bronx. She talked about show business and was delighted with the sophisticated questions the youngsters asked her.

Nicholas Walker (and his twin brother, too, of course) celebrated a birthday on July 26. But we have to tell one of his many devoted fans that he really was born in Bogota, Colombia — not Bogota, New Jersey as she hoped we'd confirm.

NICHOLAS WALKER

Anyway, do inquire about a fan club for Nicholas (who plays Trey Clegg on "Capitol"). He'd love to hear from you. Write him c/o "Capitol," CBS, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90036.

DON'T BE SHOCKED — but, at least two men will be leaving the cast of "General Hospital" in the next few months. One has a very important role, but thinks it's time he rolled over to something new ... DON'T BE SHOCKED — by the turn of events on "Loving." The series will be tackling a subject other soaps have usually backed away from ... DON'T say it's all Greek to you when you hear Gregg Marx (David, "Days Of Our Lives") talking. It's Chinese. He learned some while on vacation in China.

MEDICINE CHEST

Your Professional:
Troy True, Reg. Pharmacist

Is cocaine effective in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis? — P.J.

One doctor in the resort community of Kelseyville, Calif., went on record that it is effective. Dr. Lowell M. Somers gave about 38 patients half a gram of cocaine a day for their arthritis. Now leading rheumatologists are taking a hard look at the physician's claim that this illegal drug has dramatically improved the condition of many of these people. Time and more studies will tell.

Is it true that infertility could be the result of a zinc deficiency? — L.C.

Doctors at a V.A. hospital in Michigan demonstrated that even a mild zinc deficiency can significantly lower the sperm count in males, thus causing sterility. A low blood zinc level may be treated with oral zinc. Incidentally, strict vegetarians who want to father children may require zinc supplementation, because animal protein is the only reliable source of this mineral. The National Academy of Sciences' Research Council recommends 15 mg of zinc daily for the average adult.

What is Jewish penicillin? — F.R.

It's chicken soup and a company in Boston once went to market with it. It was available in a gift package with dehydrated chicken soup in a test tube. The tube made an 8 oz. serving and came with a booklet of comforting "Advice from a Jewish Mother." Therapeutically, it was worthless, but psychologically, it was priceless.

Ask Kate

Was Burt a 'Rascal'?

By Kate Woods

Was Burt Reynolds one of the Little Rascals? — G.H.

A Big Rascal maybe, but never a member of the Our Gang comedies.

WHO'S BOWIE — Who played Jim Bowie in the TV series of the late '50s or early '60s? I've been wondering about this for a long time. — D.C.

Scott Forbes played the Louisiana adventurer in ABC's 1956-'58 series. It was his only series role.

WHERE'S MARY — Where can I write Mary Tyler Moore? — D.V.D.

Send your letter in care of Bruce Savan, APA, 888 Seventh Ave., New York, NY 10106.

WE ARE FAMILY — Are Klaus Kinski and Nastassia Kinski related? — A.I.

Klaus is Nasty's father.

OH, MOTHER — Who was the other mother-in-law opposite Eve Arden in the series "The Mothers-in-Law"? Didn't Deborah Walley play one of their daughters? — E.D.

Kaye Ballard played the other mom. Herbert Rudley was Miss Arden's husband and Roger Carmel (who quit) and Richard Deacon played Kaye's. The one-time "Gidget" was in the cast for the full two-year run (1967-'69).

Burt Reynolds

KATE IS BACK — I've heard that Kate Jackson is going to do a new series. If so, what's the name of it and what is it about? — F.F.M.

The former Angel will co-star this fall opposite Bruce Boxleitner in CBS' "The Scarecrow and Mrs. King." She plays a suburban housewife who gets involved, in more ways than one, with an intelligence agent.

TV Nostalgia

By Marie Iandiorio

At the opening of each episode of "Mission: Impossible," which premiered in 1966, the leader of the Impossible Missions Force would receive a tape-recorded message outlining instructions for an assignment.

The voice on the tape would provide some background information and conclude with "Your mission, Dan, should you decide to accept it, is... As always, should you, or any member of your I.M. Force be caught or killed, the secretary will disavow any knowledge of your actions. This tape will self-destruct in five seconds."

On cue, the tape, and often the small tape recorder that contained it, would go up in a puff of smoke and flame. The leader would then leaf through the dossiers of the super-agents at his disposal. Except for an occasional guest star, he always chose the same team to work with, which made the entire selection process seem superfluous.

This dramatically stylized opening was parodied on practically every comedy show of the period. Over the years, it was modified, and toward the end of the series' run, the process of leafing through dossiers was dropped completely.

Q. Can you name the husband-and-wife acting team who starred as Rollin Hand and Cinnamon Carter?

Answer: Barbara Bain and Martin Landau

NBC sets changes

By Andy Noble

NBC gets a head start on its competitors when it debuts the first new show of the fall season, "We Got It Made" on Thursday, Sept. 8 at 9 p.m. (ET).

That's the show from Fred Silverman's production company that's kind of a cross between "The Odd Couple" and "Three's Company." Instead of middle-aged Oscar and Felix, we have two young bachelors, played by Matt McCoy and Tom Villard, living together in a slovenly Manhattan apartment.

They hire a beautiful live-in maid (Teri Copley) to tidy up the joint. This doesn't please their girlfriends, played by Stepfanie Kramer and Bonnie Urseth.

An initial viewing of the pilot wasn't overly impressive. In fact, it was a feast for airheads, making "Three's Company" seem almost witty by comparison. However, NBC says the show has since undergone some changes: "The visual humor will continue, but the emphasis will be on the relationships — with all its complications — of the five principals." Right.

NBC's plot doctor has also made house calls to improve the conditions of some of its other new shows.

For instance, a new twist has been added to "Jennifer Slept Here," in which Ann Jillian plays the ghost of a deceased starlet who shares her former Hollywood home with a family of transplanted New Yorkers. The show's writers have arranged it so that the attic, which is Jennifer's room, will look like a dusty garret to everyone else, but to Jennifer, it will look like a beautiful boudoir. That doesn't sound like the kind of plot twist that's going to lift this turkey into the upper reaches of Nielsenland.

Meanwhile, a new character has been added to the cast of "The Yellow Rose," the drama about a modern Texas ranch family trying to uphold old values. She's Juliette Hollister, described as a "polished, educated young woman, raised in the East," who is now managing editor of her father's newspaper. She will clash with Roy Champion (David Soul) and there's a chance a romance may develop between the two.

NBC's hoping that this added bloom to "Yellow Rose" will be a thorn in the side of its time-slot rival, ABC's "Fantasy Island."

Of course, no matter what kind of tinkering NBC does, it's still going to be up to the viewers to determine how successful the shows will be.

DEAR DEBBIE:

I would like to respond to the letter signed "An Admirer" in the July 24 issue.

Yes, young man. There are those of us who would just love to have a nice man to share her life with — as well as there are many men looking for a nice woman.

I'm 37 years old. I work for a large company and can say with little pride in the men at work that I have never heard any of them ever say good things about women. All they talk about is "scoring." If the woman says no, she's a "dog."

Whatever happened to sex which is sacred between two people who love each other? The sad part is that there are some women willing to settle for less than this, also.

You are young and I do hope you find your special someone. I hope your life does not end up as lonely as mine because your morals do not allow you to do certain things.

God bless you and good luck in your search. You seem to be one who deserves such happiness. (Where were you when I was 23?)

TOO LATE FOR ME

DEAR LATE:

I would like to take this opportunity to answer your letter, although technically, it was not addressed to me. I agree with you in that the so-called "Sexual Revolution" did have a damaging affect on loving, beautiful relationships. The beautiful act of love was turned into something cheap by lowering it to the level of instant animal gratification.

However, I find it difficult to believe that all the men you work with are only out for sex. Did it over occur to you they're just indulging in such "locker-room" talk just to impress their buddies? Unfortunately, men are prone to do just that, even if they don't necessarily believe in everything they're saying. Try not to take it so seriously.

At 37, you obviously feel that romance has passed you by. Contrary to that belief, love can happen at any age. Read the papers. They're full of stories of people meeting and marrying into their eighties! Don't give up, because if you do, you will project that attitude. Men will avoid you if they pick up on that. Believe me, you're still young and have many years left ahead of you to meet that certain person.

DEAR DEBBIE:

I am a 15-year-old girl with a bad problem. I have 2 tattoos. I had them done about two years ago. My mother told me I would regret it and she was right, because now I'm starting a modeling career and I can't get rid of them. I would like some advice. Make-up doesn't work. Is there any substance that would make them unnoticeable? I would appreciate an answer soon.

MARKED FOR LIFE

DEAR MARKED:

Unfortunately, tattoos are indeed permanent. I know of no way to get rid of them or even to cover them. I'm sorry about that.

Let me just warn any other readers thinking of tattoos. It's a dangerous practice which is outlawed in some states. The reason? Hepatitis has been known to be transmitted through the use of dirty tattoo needles. Therefore, since tattoos are not eraseable and can also be dangerous, why get one? (I'll probably open up a can of worms with all my readers who are tattoo-fans!)

Charlsie Cantey is new face on 'The NFL Today'

BRIGHT SPOTS — To Phyllis George, it means friendly company. The kind that doesn't chomp on cigars, or constantly growl about point spreads.

Charlsie Cantey is joining "The NFL Today," CBS-TV's pre-game, halftime and post-game pro football program on Sundays, as a feature reporter.

She joins Brent Musburger, Miss George, Irv Cross and Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, beginning with the season's premiere, Sept. 4.

This season CBS will conclude its NFL coverage with a live telecast of Super Bowl XVIII on Sunday, Jan. 29, from Tampa Stadium in Tampa, Fla.

Miss Cantey, an expert on horses, was initially hired by CBS to report on thoroughbred racing. She also did CBS feature segments for broadcasts of the National Basketball Association playoffs last spring.

"Charlsie's quick grasp of television reporting techniques and her abilities as an interviewer have enabled us to further her duties at CBS Sports," says Neal Pilson, president of CBS Sports.

He says, "She has great on-air presence and an inquisitive mind which will enhance 'The NFL Today's' consistently top-rated broadcasts."

Ted Shaker, executive producer of "The NFL Today," says: "Charlsie will help us get to more stories more quickly. She gives us depth and flexibility and is a welcome addition to our staff."

Phyllis George

Miss Cantey joined CBS Sports in 1978 to report on the Belmont Stakes.

She has participated in every subsequent CBS thoroughbred racing broadcast, including such races as the Travers Stakes, the Marlboro Cup and the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Miss Cantey has reported features on horseback from trackside, using the expertise she acquired in her career as an exercise and show ring rider.

She has also been a broadcaster for New York's Off-Track-Betting Corporation (OTB), and ESPN.

Born in Raleigh, N.C., she is a graduate of George Washington University.

MARQUEE

ZELIG, from Warner Bros. Written and directed by Woody Allen. Starring Woody Allen, Mia Farrow, Garrett Brown. Rated 'PG' ★ ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Everyone should see Woody Allen's "Zelig" at least twice. It's that good.

Leonard Zelig is a man who just wanted to be liked. He only desired to "fit in" with the crowd, but he wanted this so much he managed to become a human chameleon. Literally. If he was surrounded by doctors he began to speak and act like a doctor. When in the midst of fat people he would expand before the eye to large proportions.

The tale is set in the 1920s and '30s, and told documentary-style. Actual footage from the time is interspersed with newly shot footage made to appear as if it were shot many decades ago.

Thus Woody Allen finds himself pictured with prominent people of the time, such as in the photo above, where he is flanked by Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover.

The care and precision that went into these cinematic trips into the past is enjoyable and remarkable. Allen keeps the viewer off-guard. You're never sure when you're looking at actual footage or recreated scenes, expanding the idea of "Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid."

But to Allen this advice is not just a gimmick, it's a working strategy. Just as Zelig, the man, is not always what he appears to be, so also "Zelig," the movie, is not what it appears to be. There's deception and false facades present here.

The film's documentary style also helps present a story that could easily be called a children's primer. The little man who wanted to be liked by everyone so much he became like everyone else.

Topping the whole thing off is Allen's special humor, on display here with clever visual gags as well as some funny one-liners. Come to think of it, you might want to see "Zelig" a third time.

INSIDE TV

BY CHRIS COLBY

CLOSEUPS: Marshall Colt, star of ABC's new "Lottery" series finally fulfilled a lifelong fantasy. When he was a youngster, he watched the Blue Angels fly over Pensacola and always dreamed of flying with the Navy's famed precision squad. During a recent show in San Francisco, the show's producer, Rick Rosner, pulled a few strings and his star was taken for a ride with the "Angels."

JACLYN SMITH

Jackie Smith, Craig Stevens, Lee Majors, Lou Ferrigno, Walter Mondale's daughter Eleanor, Joanne Pflug, author-playwright Terence Kingsley-Smith, Dorothy Kingsley, Joe Capone, William Durney and a pack of other pretty people joined Pegasus Productions' head honchos, Dennis Durney and Verne Nobles, for food and fun at Chasen's famed restaurant of the stars. Pegasus was announcing the launching of three feature films and several TV projects ... "Just Our Luck" to air Tuesday nights on ABC is about a TV weatherman whose life is interrupted by a hip high-living genie who takes up residence in his apartment. There's a lot of hocus-pocus as they try to adjust to each other's lifestyles. Richard Gilliland stars as weatherman Keith Barrow and T.K. Carter is Shabu the genie. Shades of "I Dream of Jeannie," male version, wouldn't you say?

FOCUS: Bea Arthur and Hermione Baddely reunioned over a cnadlelit dinner poolside at Hermione's Hollywood Hills home. Both are hoping to find another series as good as "Maude." "Amanda's Place" is still a vereee sore subject with Bea ... A lotta huggin' and kissin' when Cyd Charisse guested in a segment of "Fantasy Island" Cyd and Ricardo Montalban go back to the golden days of MGM ... Forget what you read about "Dallas' " Linda Gray steady dating. She isn't seeing anyone special since her separation ... Mary Fran, happily married to Bob in "Newhart," is going through the pangs of divorce in real life ... "Dallas' " Patrick Duffy surprised his wife, Carlyn, with a beautiful riding horse for her birthday ... Charlie Siebert, Dr. Stanley Riverside of "Trapper John" lost his own wife two years ago to cancer. He's doing a bangup job of raising three teenagers and recently gifted his 18-year-old Andy with a trip to Europe as a high school graduation present ... Gil (Buck Rogers) Gerard has signed an exclusive contract with Columbia Pictures as an actor and producer. In case you didn't know, Gil is married to beauteous Connie Selleca who is co-starring with Jim Brolin in the new "Hotel" series.

COMING EVENTS: Twentieth Century Fox has changed the name of its new series "Trauma Center" to "MEDSTAR" to air Thursday evenings on ABC. It's about the doctors, nurses and paramedics who work out of a metropolitan hospital exclusively on trauma-induced accidents. James Naughton, Lou Ferrigno, Eileen Heckart, Dorian Harewood and Wendie Malick star ... "Emerald Point U.S.A.," another new series to air Monday evenings via CBS, could well be a "Dynasty" over water. Written by Esther and Richard Shapiro who created "Dynasty," it's billed as a "romantic adventure story of life at the top at a U.S. Naval Air Base."
