Gas Storage Plant Blasts Rip Newark

NEWARK, N. J. —(P)—A rocket-like series of explosions ripped through a propane gas storage plant Saturday, setting off a general alarm fire which raged out of control for hours.

The 70-foot long cylindrical tanks, 10 feet in diameter, were flung hundreds of yards like giant toys by the terrific blasts which rocked the Port Newark area.

At least nine persons were injured in the explosions and fire at the Warren Petroleum Sales Corporation.

About 100 tanks were blown skyward, each punctuating a large spiraling grey-black cloud of smoke with flashes of orange flame.

One of the tanks struck a gasoline service station about three-quarters of a mile away. Another hit a printing company building.

Trapped Men Rescued
Fifteen men trapped on the burning waterfront were rescued by a tugboat and landed unhurt. The men were working at a nearby candle factory when the explosions began.

Officials said they believed only about 10 workers were on duty at the Warren Company when the detonations began shortly after noon.

Fifty workers from a nearby chemical plant fled through a shrapnel-like hail of flying inch-thick metal from the ruptured tanks.

Several railroad tank cars blew up with the storage tanks, scattering wheels and parts. The concrete paving on Doremus Avenue, which (Continued On Page Two)

Thorn Smith, 45, Of Kermit Dies In Seven-Story Plunge

DALLAS —(P)—E. Thorn Smith, 45, Kermit printer, died Saturday when he plunged from the seventh floor window of the Jefferson Hotel in downtown Dallas.

Capt. Will Fritz of the Dallas police said Smith either jumped or fell. He said he had talked to two men who were in the room with Smith, and was convinced there was no foul play.

The two men were questioned and released.

Fritz said Smith was a printer and formerly was connected with the newspaper business in Snyder. Smith's body was found on the sidewalk by passers-by shortly after 1 a. m. He was fully dressed, but was wearing pajamas under his clothing.

Funeral Rites Pending
His body was taken to the Marrs-Mundy-Quill Funeral Home here, where attendants said Saturday they were awaiting word from his widow concerning funeral arrangements.

Smith's widow and three children reside in Kermit. He was mechanical superintendent of The Winkler County News. He came to Kermit two years ago from Odessa, where he was a printer. Before World War II he published newspapers at Spur and at Snyder.

In World War II, Smith served in North Africa and in Italy with a tank battalion.

He had gone to Dallas Friday on a business trip. Funeral services and interment probably will be conducted at Ralls.

Officers Recover Stolen Automobile Within 45 Minutes
Midland police and Martin County officers worked hand-in-hand Saturday to recover a stolen automobile in 45 minutes and arrested two soldiers who said they were absent without leave.

At 3:45 p. m., F. A. Swick, 1401 South Dallas, reported to Midland police he had parked his Tidewater Oil Company car outside the Basin Supply Company Store at 101 South Main.

When he returned a few minutes later, it was gone. Dispatcher Gene Butler immediately sounded an all-station call on the police radio.

In Station, Deputy Sheriff Bill Pinkston heard the broadcast and headed his automobile toward Midland on U. S. Highway 80.

He saw the automobile in a few minutes, flagged it down and took the two men in custody.

Returned to Midland by Deputy Sheriff F. S. Buckalew and Police Lt. Dick Hemmings, the two men said they were from Evansville, Ind., and were absent without leave from the Army.

Police Told Missing Woman Carried Large Sum In Cash
A 56-year-old missing Indianapolis woman was reported Saturday to have been carrying $1,180 in cash shortly before her disappearance here one week ago on the eve of her planned marriage to a Midland construction worker.

This information was given police Saturday by the worker, who said he had quarreled with his fiancée eight days ago and had not seen her since.

The woman, Alice Horner, who came here from Indianapolis, disappeared from her hotel room Saturday.

Rita To Go Ahead With Divorce Suit

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. —(P)—Rita Hayworth, tanned and beautiful after two months in Nevada, faced the Hollywood press Saturday and said nothing Prince Aly Khan can do will make her change her mind about divorcing him.

"I have made my decision," she told newsmen gathered in her bungalow at a lavish hotel.

Rita, who arrived from Nevada Friday to discuss "business matters" with her studio, said nothing she had not said before. Asked why the press conference was called, she replied:

"Because I couldn't get out the door until I had."

Poses Obligingly
Clad in a simple blue linen dress and a pair of yellow house slippers, she posed obligingly for photographers but gave vague answers to newsmen's questions. She said:

"There are so many rumors about Prince Aly coming to this country that 'you probably know more about the situation than I do.'"

Miss Hayworth said she probably will return to Nevada late this week to file suit for divorce. She now is a resident of that state, having completed the six weeks residence requirement.

She said she will charge "mental cruelty."

Take Yasmin's Picture
Photographers were permitted one at a time to take pictures of little Yasmin, 18-month-old daughter of Miss Hayworth and Prince Khan.

Asked if she would see Prince Aly if he comes to this country to attempt a reconciliation, Rita replied: "Naturally." But she said repeatedly she is determined to get a divorce.

Guy Vanderpool, 49, Dies Of Heart Ailment

Guy G. Vanderpool, 49, natural gas supervisor in the West Texas-New Mexico Division of the Atlantic Refining Company, died Friday afternoon of a heart ailment.

The heart seizure occurred at Plains, Texas, and Vanderpool was pronounced dead on arrival at a Denver City hospital. He resided in Midland at 1409 West Louisiana Street, having moved to Midland from Dallas two years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday in the Church of Christ, with interment in Resthaven Memorial Park. Dean Walter P. Adams of Abilene Christian College will officiate.

Native Of Terrell
Vanderpool, born in Terrell and a graduate of Terrell High School and Louisiana State University, is survived by the widow, four sons, Guy R., Harold Young, John Paul and Roy E., all of Midland; two sisters, Lottie Vanderpool of Dallas and Mrs. Lillie Mae Smith of Lubbock; five brothers, Roy of El Paso, Milton of Tyler, Bruce of Abilene, W. P. of Dallas and Homer, who resides in Oregon.

He was a member of the Athletic Association and the Bowling Team sponsored by the company and was active in boys' baseball. He managed the Travelers, a Shorthorn League team that won the city championship last year.

A member of the Church of Christ, Vanderpool taught a Sunday School class of young married couples.

Fallbearers will be W. F. Hejl, John Barnett, C. E. Nelson, Paul Jackson, Ollie Jones, Alden Golladay, Shirley McGlaugh and Vancil Mitchell. The Newline W. Ellis Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Battered Dan Cupid Wins Decision In Battle With Divorce
Little Dan Cupid, slightly battered but still victorious, won an impressive round during the month of June.

County Clerk Roselle Cherry Saturday said 49 marriage licenses were issued by her office to maintain the June bride tradition. Mrs. Cherry said the figure was exceptionally high.

But the pint-sized dart slinger had a formidable opponent in the form of divorce suits filed in 70th District Court. District Clerk Lucille Johnson said her office handled 25 divorce petitions during June.

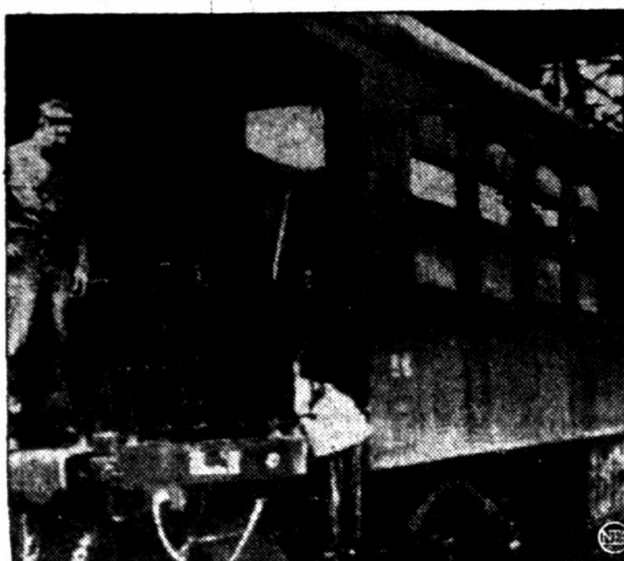

Dan, nevertheless, was in good enough form to manage a two-to-one decision.

"I am getting worried about her," Runyon said the man told him he and Mrs. Horner had quarreled on Friday night before her disappearance and they had postponed their wedding.

She last was seen the following day.

Three days later—on July 3—a woman friend of Mrs. Horner's reported to police that she had been missing since Saturday and asked their help in locating her.

Virginia Hill Says She'll Write Book About Her Troubles

SPOKANE, WASH. —(P)—Virginia Hill, back home Saturday but barred from her expensive house by a Treasury agent, stormed "Nobody tells me nothing" and said she is going to write a book about people she's known.

But grinning and talkative, Miss Hill chatted freely with reporters and rode around with a press photographer for more than an hour looking for a place to stay.

The government Friday slapped a seizure order on her fashionable $35,000 house here, claiming she owes $161,000 for back income taxes from 1942 through 1947.

The feminine star of the Kefauver Crime Committee who once palled around with gangsters, said she doesn't owe it all and will fight that through an attorney. Anyway, she added, "I don't know where they're going to get the $161,000. I ain't got no money."

If the government thinks she owes $161,000, it must be counting in gifts of jewelry and parties she attended back in the '40s, she said.

"I went to those parties with men who paid for them—I didn't pay for them. I didn't pay for the jewelry," she added.

Bugsy's Girl Friend
They may not have been reported on her tax returns, she said, but she claimed she told the Internal Revenue Department about them. Bugsy Siegel, the Los Angeles gangster slain in 1947, gave her some money and jewelry before he was killed, she said. Miss Hill was Bugsy's girl friend for awhile.

She won't be getting any money from such sources anymore, though, she said, explaining she has "stayed away from all those people" in the last four years.

She said she plans to get a little cash soon by writing a book about her experiences that will "straighten things out."

"I'll write it when I get time." (Continued On Page Two)

Train Kills Man In Yards At Dumas

DUMAS —(P)—One man was killed and another injured in railroad yards at Dumas Saturday.

Chief of Police Ace Bowen said the dead man was Carl Quillin, 55, of Big Spring, and the injured one was R. S. Brannon, 47, brother of a Mrs. H. M. Smith of Lancaster, Texas.

The officer said Brannon told him this happened: Brannon was asleep alongside the tracks. He woke and went to get a drink of water. When he returned he saw a train coming and Quillin on the track. He tried to reach Quillin, but couldn't.

Bowen said Brannon suffered a broken back and two broken ribs. Quillin's body was dismembered.

Air Tanker Crash Kills 11 Airmen

PRESTWICK, SCOTLAND —(P)—A U. S. Air Force flying tanker, unable to land at Prestwick Airfield because of low clouds, crashed and burned about 40 miles from here Saturday, killing all 11 crewmen aboard.

The plane was a reconverted four-engine B-29—fitted with fuel storage tanks and air-to-air refueling equipment and known as a KB-29.

On Training Flight
The giant plane was on a routine navigational training flight from Lakenheath Air Base in the south of England to Prestwick. When the low ceiling prevented a landing at Prestwick, it turned homeward.

Minutes later, near the Hamlet of Carphairn, Kirkcubrightshire, it spun out of the clouds, trailing smoke, and crashed in a wooded area.

The plane and its crew had come to England for 90 days of training under the Strategic Air Command's rotation training plan. The Second Bomb Wing, to which it was assigned, came from Hunter Air Force Base in Georgia.

Third Air Force headquarters at Russell, outside London, said names of the crew members would not be made public until next of kin had been notified.

Four Members Of Family Killed In Auto-Truck Crash
EL PASO —(P)—A mother and her two young daughters died in the flaming wreckage of an automobile which collided with a truck east of El Paso, near Salt Flat, Saturday.

Burned to death were Mrs. Eva Armstrong, 26; Phyllis, seven, and Melba, 14 months, of Clarksville, Texas.

Floyd T. Armstrong, 38, died several hours later in an El Paso hospital.

The truck driver, Robert R. Pryor of El Paso, was unhurt.

The family was returning home from a visit at Phoenix with Armstrong's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Armstrong.

The truck driver told Highway Patrolmen T. L. Allen and B. L. Warren he jumped from the truck's cab just before a gasoline tank under the seat exploded.

He pulled Armstrong from the auto as the vehicles burst into flames.

Hearing On Paving Project Postponed
A hearing on a 122-block paving project will be postponed from July 12 to July 26, City Manager W. H. Oswalt said.

The hearing for next Thursday had been ordered by the City Council but, because of a technicality cited by attorneys for the Collins Construction Company, the hearing will have to be reordered.

Oswalt said the postponement, however, would not mean delay in the paving program since representatives of the construction company will begin signing up affected residents on July 27.

Work on the paving project is expected to begin in August.

WASHINGTON —(AP)—High officials late Saturday said the shooting in Korea may go on for two, three or even four weeks after the preliminary, scene-setting meeting of colonels in Kaesong this weekend. They discounted any idea that peace would settle immediately on the bloody Asiatic battlefield.

Initial Talks Already May Be Underway

SEOUL, KOREA —(P)—Allied envoys went to Kaesong Sunday for a dramatic meeting with the Reds to arrange armistice talks in the bloody, year-long Korean war.

Two U. S. colonels and a South Korean lieutenant colonel took off in two helicopters from an advanced "peace camp." They were reported unofficially to have completed the short flight some 30 minutes later.

The officers took with them two interpreters, Th and a like number of Communist envoys will arrange for higher-level armistice talks this week, possibly beginning Tuesday.

The site of the historic meeting three miles south of Parallel 38 Western Korea, Kaesong, norms with a population of 45,000, a ancient Korea's capital for 400 years until 1300 A.D. Kaesong is 35 miles northwest of Seoul.

It lies amid rolling hills in so of the prettiest country on the rugged Asiatic peninsula.

Reds Arrive Early
Helping radio announced Communist negotiators arrived Kaesong Saturday afternoon during a temporary Allied ban on bombing and strafing the 130-mile route from Pyongyang to Kaesong.

Two large green "copters" carried the Allied mission.

The Allied officers are Col. A. J. Drew, J. Kinney of the U. S. Air Force, Col. James C. Murray of the U. S. Marine Corps, and Lt. Col. Soo Young Lee of the South Korean Army.

Their identities were kept secret until a few minutes before the departure.

Sunday's meeting was intended to arrange for higher-level armistice talks at Kaesong. These may begin next Tuesday, as requested by the Reds and agreed to tentatively by the United Nations.

However, a definite date for the high command sessions may depend on the outcome of Sunday's meeting.

The pre-arranged schedule called for both parties to be on hand for the meeting some time after 9 a. m. (5 p. m. Saturday).

Marshall Delegated To Call Up Reserve, Retired Personnel

WASHINGTON —(P)—President Truman Saturday delegated to Secretary of Defense Marshall authority to call up units and members of the Armed Forces Reserve and retired personnel of the regular forces.

The executive order also gave similar authority over Coast Guard Reserve components to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder.

They could be called to active duty for a period of not more than two years.

The order extends for one year authority which now exists, but which would have expired Sunday. The extension was authorized by Congress when it passed the UMT-Selective Service Act.

Under the same authority, the President Friday extended for an additional 12 months armed forces enlistments expiring between Sunday and July 1, 1952.

Staff experts of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the extension would apply to all enlistments, including National Guardsmen, students who volunteered so they could pick their branch of service, and reserves who volunteered.

It would not apply to draftees, whose active duty term is fixed by law at 24 months, unless they were recalled to duty as reserves.

Only one such 12-month extension is allowed by law. The Defense Department estimated between 300,000 and 400,000 men would be affected.

Teeth, Stuffed Owl?

NEA Staff Correspondent

LYWOOD — The man from studio consulted his list and led off two human skeletons, a World War I trench helmet, an owl, a stuffed owl, and a clear ouzel.

Ellis Zemanek, who has been in the business for 30 years, said he had the most fantastic "junk" in America.

"I've got the stuff. The studios have the trucks. If they need my stuff, they come and get it and return it."

Looking at Ellis' conglomeration of dusty, junk, some of it piled in boxes and some of it stored in display cases, people wonder how he ever finds anything. But he does.

He knows the location of every item and can prove it without ever leaving the chair he always occupies in the center of his 20,000 square foot building.

"I can tell the boys where they can find things. Things I haven't seen for 10 years. You name it, we've got it and I know where it is."

Boom Room
Only semblance of order at the Ellis Zemanek Company are "special rooms."

There's a gun room—a priceless collection of 1500 revolvers, rifles, pistols and machine guns. There's an arsenal full of blank cartridges, handcrafts, police badges and western gun holsters.

Skeletons, mummies, shrunken heads and skulls are in the "horror" room. Twenty-five hundred surgical instruments of every variety are in "Surgery." The "music" room has the 100 bass fiddles, 50 bass drums, 500 violins and 1,000 wind instruments.

Incidental items include ship models, auto horns, watches, clocks, shaving mugs, Indian bows and arrows, a rowboat, dummies, a collection of badges, athletic equipment, fishing rods and cases of costume jewelry.

Oddly enough, there is no wardrobe department.

Three Area Counties Are Designated As Bollworm Infested

AUSTIN —(AP)— The State Department of Agriculture Saturday designated the area designated as heavily infested with pink bollworms to include 37 counties from New Mexico to the Gulf.

Previously, the area so designated included only Lower Rio Grande Valley counties.

Agriculture Commissioner John White also announced a regulation change to ease movement of cottonseed originating in the heavily infested area.

Previously, two heat treatments were required before seed could be moved across a county line, and the producer had to pay for both.

Now seed may move freely among counties in the heavily infested area after the first heat treatment, White said. Or, seed may move from the heavily infested area to other parts of Texas after the first heat treatment if it is going to mills where approved equipment is available for the second heat treatment.

The 37 counties now designated as heavily infested are:

Araucarias, Bee, Brewster, Brooks, Calhoun, Cameron, Culberson, Duval, El Paso, Hidalgo, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Kinney, Kinsey, Kiewit, La Salle, Live Oak, Maverick, McMullen, Nueces, Pecos, Presidio, Reeves, Refugio, San Antonio, Starr, Terrell, Uvalde, Val Verde, Ward, Webb, Willacy, Zapata and Zavalla.

Rifle Bullet Fired

Youths Questioned

A group of teen-agers were being questioned by authorities Saturday after a bullet from a high-powered rifle entered a Midland home and missed an occupant by less than one foot.

The shot was fired Friday afternoon into the home of Joe Grube, 305 West Hicks Street.

Lt. Dick Hemingway, who investigated the shooting, said the 30-30 bullet passed through two rooms before lodging in the wall.

He said the rifle was found a short time later in the neighborhood and traced to a 12-year-old youth.

Questioned by officers, the youth said two companions had done the shooting.

They were turned over to Juvenile Officer Harold Bourland.

Newark Fire Chief Charles Burnett said the blaze looked exactly like an atomic bomb blast.

City Of Tents In Apple Orchard Houses
Top United Nations Brass For Truce Talks

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA —(AP)— A city of tents has been erected in an apple orchard behind United Nations lines to house top Allied officers during the Kaesong cease-fire negotiations.

"The 'peace-camp' is equipped with electric lights, communications facilities, conference rooms, refrigerators and individual tents for the high ranking officers."

Military policemen stand guard at the entrance to the camp. Inside, soldiers were putting the finishing touches to the tent city Saturday.

Pvt. Melvin Alley of Birmingham, Ala., and Pfc. Felix Rukes of Newport, N. Y., were making beds in the little sleeping tents where top ranking officers will live.

A passing GI pointed to the snow white sheets they were putting on a bed.

Most soldiers have not seen sheets since they arrived in Korea. "Gee, what are those things?" he asked.

"Darned if I know," Rukes answered with a smile.

An officer said 19 officers and civilians would be entitled to an individual tent with mattresses, springs and clean sheets. Each tent also has a bed, a desk, a chair and a stand.

Sgt. Samuel M. Culpepper of Fort Payne, Ala., a combat engineer, was helping with preparation around the camp. Cpl. James L. Clark of Newport, Ky., was at the top of a telephone pole, stringing wires which will connect the tent city with Eighth Army headquarters and with Tokyo.

Korean laborers carried sand on their back from a large sand pile and spread it on the ground to serve as walks between the tents.

Members of the Eighth Army Band policed the area, picking up rocks and bits of papers from beneath the trees.

Sgt. Jose Cortez of Willow, Okla., mess steward, supervised GIs who were peeling potatoes behind the mess camp.

One large tent had been made into a dining room for top ranking officers. Vases of flowers had been placed on the clean, white tablecloth.

Cortez said enough food had been brought to supply the camp for two weeks.

"I don't know how long the conference will last," he said. "But that's how much food we've got."

Cortez has planned a banquet for what he calls "peace night"—the night the Allies and Communists sign an armistice.

The menu includes hot and cold appetizers, broiled Kansas City steak, French lamb chops, beef, cardinal, Philadelphia capon, French sardines, cold pickled beef, cold baked ham, Welsh rarebit, golden pie, guillotine veal loaf, lemon pie, cake, nuts, candy and fruits.

The evangelist, who has been here the last several days, left late Saturday for Del Rio.

Negro In Hospital,
Another Jailed As Result Of Stabbing

One negro was hospitalized and another jailed as a result of a pocket knife stabbing fray at a barbecue stand just off East Highway 80 Friday night.

Eddie Joiner, Jr., 20, was taken to Western Clinic Hospital with a punctured left lung. Hospital officials said Saturday he was in fair condition.

A 22-year-old negro was arrested at the scene of the stabbing by Constable Jack Merritt. Merritt said he was on routine patrol when he noticed the argument taking place in front of Uncle Bud's Barbecue Pit about 8 p.m.

No charges had been filed against the arrested man Saturday.

Midland Baha'is Will Observe Anniversary

Midland members of the Baha'i World Faith Sunday will observe the one hundred and first anniversary of the martyrdom of the Bab, the forerunner prophet of the Baha'i Faith.

Herb Buder of Midland said Saturday Baha'is throughout the world recall the death of the Bab by fanatical persecutors on July 9, 1860.

The Midland man said that like Jesus, the Bab paid with his life for the proclamation of a reign of concord, equity and brotherly love.

Buder will speak over Station KJBC at 3:45 p.m. Sunday, relating the story as it happened 101 years ago at Tabriz, Persia (now Iran).

In his 15-minute talk, Buder will review the Baha'i Faith's purposes, one of the foremost being the call to world unity. The faith now is established in more than 100 countries throughout the world, Buder said.

Truce Talks—

a ban Saturday midnight on Allied planes, freeing them to attack the Pyongyang-Kaesong road to within five miles of the meeting site. The Red delegation thus had been given 19 hours of immunity from air attack in which to cover 130 miles of bomb-cratered highway.

The Communists, by their own terms, had been scheduled to leave Pyongyang at 5 a.m. Saturday (1 p.m. Friday), in five jeeps and five trucks, each displaying a truce flag.

Shortly before 9 p.m. Saturday, a spokesman for the Allied supreme commander warned that the road, a lifeline supply artery for the Red Army, would lose its immunity from Allied planes at midnight.

A spokesman said the immunity had been "granted only for the purpose of insuring safe conduct of the Communists liaison group."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters assured, however, that an area within a five-mile radius of Kaesong's center would be regarded as a neutral zone by Allied air and ground forces "from the time of arrival of your delegates in Kaesong."

Newsmen Banned
Seventy-one war correspondents gathered at the Seoul press camp to cover the developments. The Army would allow none to go beyond an advanced base camp.

No newsmen was allowed to approach the Kaesong area.

Allied and Communist soldiers sparred lightly across the 100-mile Korean front while they waited to hear what would happen at Kaesong.

The Peiping Radio, however, said a campaign to buy planes for the Communists was being pushed vigorously because "war still exists until an armistice and peace have been realized."

AP Correspondent George McArthur said frontline Allied troops were spending a lot of time talking about possibilities—but were spending more time digging their fox-holes deeper.

Escapade Turned Texas Rancher Now In Illinois Prison

CHESTER, ILL. —(AP)—Illinois prison officials say Clarence Cahall—the prison escapee who turned Texas rancher—has not asked for a parole.

Cahall escaped from the Menard Penitentiary here in 1937 while serving out a sentence received as an accomplice in a holdup. On June 24 Allan Baker, a respected rancher at Kerrville, Texas, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness. As a matter of routine his fingerprints were sent to the Texas Department of Public Safety. There records showed Baker's fingerprints were the same as those of Cahall.

Cahall was returned here July 3 to serve out the one to 20-year term he began in 1932.

Prison authorities Friday night said Cahall, his family or his friends had made no appeal to Illinois authorities as yet to take cognizance of his life in Texas and grant him a pardon or parole.

Dr. Lynn Off Sunday On Long 'Road Trip'

Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and moderator of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., Synod of Texas, Sunday afternoon begins a "road trip" which will keep him on the go the next three weeks.

He will be in Clovis, N.M., Sunday night to preach the sermon installing the Rev. William James as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church there.

Tuesday, he will attend a meeting of the Committee on Educational Institutions of the Synod of Texas at Houston, before going to Austin that night.

Next Sunday, Dr. Lynn will go to the Cedar Canyon Youth Conference of the Amarillo Presbytery, near Amarillo, where he will be the daily inspirational speaker at a week-long training.

From Amarillo, Dr. Lynn will go to Montreal, N. C., to attend the annual meeting of trustees of the Montreat Presbyterian Encampment and to serve as the adult adviser to the Youth Council of the Presbyterian General Assembly. He will return to Midland late this month.

His picture, with crutches, appeared on some 500,000 letters of appeal sent out in February by the Texas Society. Since then, he has learned to walk alone for a few steps. He is demonstrating his skill here for Martin Ricker, executive director of the society; his mother, Mrs. W. E. Boles, Jr., who is kneeling, and Mrs. Betty Massey, therapist. The letters which used his signature brought in approximately $182,000, which will be used throughout the state for the benefit of handicapped youngsters.

Negro Mail-Order Divorce Attorney Enjoys Guilty Plea

LOS ANGELES —(AP)—A 38-year-old negro law student returns to municipal court here later this month for sentencing in connection with a series of mail order divorces obtained in Texas for California clients.

Willie Hawkins pleaded guilty Friday to charges of petty theft and practicing law without a license. He will be sentenced July 24.

The district attorney's office said Jimmie MacNicol, assistant district attorney at Dallas, Texas, was expected here to confer about the possible extradition of Hawkins to Texas for prosecution.

Until Hawkins pleaded guilty the prosecutor here was prepared to present testimony of two couples who married after obtaining through Hawkins what they supposed were genuine divorces by mail from Texas.

Driver Responsibility Statute Is Effective On January 1, 1952

Come New Year's Day, insurance will be the best policy for drivers and car owners.

That's when the new, far-reaching state law requiring them to pay damages they cause in traffic accidents will take effect.

They will pay for . . .

1. Lose their driver's licenses.

2. Lose their registration plates.

The law will be administered by the Texas Department of Public Safety. This department, which includes the highway patrol, driver's license division and Texas Rangers, will be charged with fixing the amount of damages in accidents and require those involved to show proof of ability to pay these costs.

The maximum proof of financial responsibility will be $5,000 for any one person injured or killed, $10,000 for two or more persons and $5,000 to cover property damage.

Must Make Report

The operator of every motor vehicle must, within 10 days following an accident in which he is involved, make a report of the accident in writing to the safety department, provided the damage amounts to as much as $100. This does not apply to vehicles that are parked or used without permission of the owner.

Unless damages are settled, or the involved operators show financial responsibility with a public liability insurance policy, bond or cash, their driving permits and registration tags are lifted by the state officers. They will not be replaced until claims are settled, or until a year has elapsed without claims for damages arising.

If judgments are not paid, neither the driver's license nor the registration plates may be re-issued.

Into Insurance Channels

This new law will turn most drivers and owners of motor vehicles into insurance channels, although fleet owners may become self-insurers.

In West Texas the minimum cost of a public liability policy to protect car owners under the new law is $26.50 and state experts estimated that within a few years as many as 65 per cent of Texas drivers will be insured. The figure now is approximately 15 per cent and these are the cream-of-the-crop risks.

Under the new law—to become effective next January 1—insurance companies will pool their resources to issue "assigned risk" policies to drivers who normally would be denied insurance.

The law exempts vehicles operated by governmental agencies but does apply to taxicabs and other vehicles for hire which operate under franchises or permits of any incorporated city.

Familiar Drama Re-Enacted

In Prague, Czechoslovakia, a familiar drama recently re-enacted. The Communists "tried" an outsider in the Western world on grounds of "espionage." The difference this time is that the victim is an American newspaper reporter. He was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment.

Bespectacled William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent in Prague, gave the groveling confession which standard operating procedure in these Communist court-martins. He said he was a spy and that three other Western reporters who formerly worked in Prague also engaged in espionage.

Somehow, he managed to deny that he took over a spy network when he became AP bureau chief in Prague. He testified he carried on his spying on orders from superiors in London and New York and "under the influence of some Western diplomats."

It is, of course, easy for the Communists in Czechoslovakia or any other Iron Curtain nation to allege espionage. The gathering of any information, however harmless, can be fitted, for example, into the broad Czech definition of espionage. Reporters thus would be especially choice prey.

These spy trials having gone on so long with such obviously false foundation, you may wonder why the Reds continue to stage them. They would have to be ridiculously naive at measuring world opinion to believe these trials make any impression upon the West.

If they don't think the West takes the trials seriously, what purpose motivates them? Why single out a lad like Oatis and put a lot of gibberish in his mouth?

There always is the chance, naturally, that the Communists wish to irritate the Western countries to the point where they will withdraw diplomatic and other observers who can tell the outside world about life behind the curtain. This move often was suspected in the Vogeler case in Hungary.

Yet the likelihood is that the fundamental objective does not concern us directly at all. The trials probably mean largely for home consumption.

It is an axiom of dictatorship that the best way to maintain stiff control over people at home is to arouse their fears of external aggression. Russia and her compulsory friends always have played it that way. Being caught in the Communist vice, lacking virtually all the ordinary comforts of 1951 industrial civilization, the hapless citizens of the Communist world have little to look forward to. But powerless as they are, they still are a source of worry to their leaders. No people will suffer indefinitely without reason.

There the Kremlin finds it essential to fabricate the notion of a deep-eyed Western "plot" against the defenseless Reds, who are so earnestly searching for "peace." Stalin's hope is that by convincing them they are ringed by active enemies, he can get his "subjects" to endure placidly their grinding poverty and lack of freedom.

The trials are an integral part of this strategy. They are the dramatic proof that the "plot" is real, that the danger from the West is immediate. What the West thinks about these little fantasies probably does not cause the Kremlin one moment's concern. They are a regular feature of the dictator's repertoire.

Welcome Boner

The federal government wound up the fiscal year June 30 with a $3,500,000,000 surplus, second largest in the country's history.

This pleasant condition contrasts sharply with the $3,100,000,000 deficit rung up in the previous year, and with a forecasted $7,000,000,000 deficiency in the year just closed.

Rough calculation indicates that our financial prognosticators were somewhere around $10,500,000,000 off in their predictions, offhand, this sounds like pretty glaring misjudgment.

But in this high-flying age, mistakes in the mere millions are outmoded. Whether we're right or we're wrong, we do things today on the grand scale! To those who pulled this particular boner, we should perhaps say: "Thanks a billion."

Who Do They Fool?

Surely you've all heard of the great benefactor of humanity, the Russian Communist government. From this fount in Moscow, all blessings flow.

Soviet scientists claimed recently they had developed a new drug effective as a cure for the dreaded leprosy. India, long troubled by this disease, asked for information. It has been told nothing.

The claim probably is a fake. Even if it weren't, a denial of help would be no surprise. The Kremlin is about as humanitarian as a sawed-off shotgun.

There might be an added advantage in being an air raid warden. You could stay out late and it could be a military secret.

'Shall We Ask For Detroit?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.
Drew Pearson says: Eisenhower has informed friends in Paris he definitely will be a candidate; Truman might nominate Ike on Democratic ticket; Dutch scrutinize Peron's atom experiment in Argentina.

WASHINGTON — Close friends who have talked with General Eisenhower on a strictly personal and confidential basis report the following developments in Ike's political thinking:

1. The general now has conceded he must run on one party, not on both. This is a change. Some months ago Ike nursed the hope he could carry both conventions.

2. He would prefer to run as a Republican, because he does not want to be saddled with Democratic holdovers, previous errors and democratic policies. However, he will not make any decision on which party until he knows: (A) The degree of opposition to him in the GOP, and (B) The receptiveness of the Democrats. He would like to hold off this decision as long as possible.

3. Ike has no political organization, and no one is authorized to say he is Eisenhower's political agent.

4. As of today, Ike has enough GOP delegate votes to make an impressive response on the first roll call—upwards of 150 votes.

As is well known, the President and Eisenhower are warm friends, and Truman feels grateful to Ike for many reasons. Mutual friends who have talked to Truman, therefore, believe he has made no decision about running. He has told close friends he will do whatever he thinks will contribute most to world peace. Personally the President does not want to run, and Mrs. Truman adamantly is opposed. If the GOP would nominate Taft and write an isolationist platform, Truman might well nominate Eisenhower.

The President definitely would oppose Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, who, for some strange quirk, America's number one need is for the uncommon man . . . (who has) the capacity to think, and the capacity for imagination and the capacity for faith.

—Grove Patterson, editor Toledo Blade.

Communism will not go to jail with . . . Communists. No (court) decision can forestall revolution whenever the existing government fails to command the respect and loyalty of the people and sufficient distress and discontent is allowed to grow up among the masses.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand would not be particularly interesting at rubber bridge. South would lose a heart and a diamond very cheerfully, scoring the game and rubber.

In tournament bridge there is a different story to tell. There is no reason for South to be very cheerful about making eleven tricks. Everybody who holds the South cards will do the same, but the swindler who manages to steal a twelfth trick will be richly rewarded.

One South player found a way to put the ace of diamonds to sleep. It must be admitted that he got a little co-operation from East, but the plot was neat all the same.

West opened the deuce of hearts, dummy played low, and East won with the king. This play naturally located the jack of hearts in the West hand.

East returned a trump, and dummy won with the ten of spades. Now the ten of diamonds was led innocently from dummy.

East should have taken the ace of diamonds and folded his tent, but he made the mistake of playing low. South won with the queen of diamonds and led the nine of spades to dummy's queen. The queen of charts was returned. East put up the ace, and South ruffed with the jack. South next tried out the clubs, discovering that he could discard a low diamond on dummy's fourth club.

Dummy then led a low heart, and South ruffed with the king. The jack of hearts fell on this trick—which was exactly what South had been working for. Now South could lead the carefully preserved five of spades to dummy's six, and the established nine of hearts could be cashed to discard declarer's last diamond.

Kansas City errand boy—John Costello, a former Kansas City detective who had an interest in the Last Chance Tavern, a once notorious gambling joint straddling the state line between Missouri and Kansas, now is running errands for the Democratic National Committee. Costello once had no money invested in the Last Chance but looked after the interests of George R. Clark, former Jackson County Mo. assessor, who now is serving a term in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., for income tax evasion . . . The T-Men attempted to pin Costello to the mat on tax-fixing irregularities in Clark's office but couldn't produce sufficient proof. Costello and Clark are brothers-in-law. Revolution in Iran?—Ambassador Grady has cabled the State Department predicting financial disaster for all of Iran within 45 days unless the British oil argument is settled. Grady says there is only $16,000,000 in the Iranian treasury and this will be gone by the first week in August. Iran then will be bankrupt and anything can happen—including revolution.

Argentine Atom—Dr. Cornelius J. Bakker, the Dutch physicist who recently visited Argentina for a quick look at Juan Peron's much-publicized "thermonuclear" atomic energy developments, has reported privately to his government there is indeed something behind all the hullabaloo—something, but not very much, as yet.

Bakker, who inspected the Argentine experimental laboratories on their lake-island hideout and conferred with Dr. Ronald Richter, Austrian-born scientist in charge of the project, made the following observations in his top-secret report to the Dutch authorities who sent him:

1. It is true that Richter has worked out a new and relatively simple method of releasing nuclear energy, based on the thermodynamic principle of solar radiation.

2. Application of the method, in what are known as "controlled-stage experiments" has been accomplished only on a very tiny laboratory scale—and each experiment to date has entirely destroyed, through vaporization, all the equipment used to carry it out.

3. Neither Richter's talents as a physicist nor Argentine technical know-how is of sufficiently high order to suggest that the new system could be developed to a practical level in the near future, or perhaps ever, without extensive outside assistance.

The report further stated that Dictator Peron had told Bakker that so long as the glib gauchito government got full credit for the method, and all work on it was confined to Argentina, he did not care how many foreigners were brought into the act.

Q—Who was the Old Man of the Mountain?

A—In the 12th and 13th centuries in Syria and Persia, a powerful secret society of murderers flourished, known as Hashishin (hashish eaters). At their head was the supreme ruler who had the title Shaykh al Jabal, usually translated "Old Man of the Mountains," for their stronghold was the mountain fortress of Alamut in Persia.

Q—What African city is named for a president of the United States?

A—Monrovia, the capital of Liberia.

Q—Who were the first sculptors in the United States?

A—Horatio Greenough, Hiram Powers, and Thomas Crawford, all of whom studied in Rome.

Q—What is the correct way to fly the flag on Memorial Day?

A—The flag should be at half-staff until noon, and at full-staff from noon to sunset.

Q—Which form of currency, paper or coin, is the more expensive for the government to maintain?

A—Paper currency. The life of a dollar bill is said to be less than one year.

Uncle Sam Has Made Plans To Avoid Materials Shortage

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — CMP—the Controlled Materials Plan for this present World War Two-and-a-Half—took effect Saturday.

While the name sounds ominous—government meddling with business and all that—it doesn't immediately mean fewer automobiles, television sets or toasters. For CMP this time is being imposed gradually.

The plan originally was announced in April. In May, forms were sent to some 50,000 U. S. manufacturers to apply for their allotments of steel, copper and aluminum. This covered about 90 per cent of the U. S. metal working industry. Smaller business plants, using less than five tons of steel or 500 pounds of aluminum and copper per quarter are so far exempt.

Manufacturers of civilian consumer durable goods also are exempted for the next three months. But some time in this period, they, too, will be asked to file applications for CMP allocations. And in the last quarter of the year it is possible that these industries will be put on curtailed production schedules.

The automobile industry already has been ordered to reduce metal consumption to the level of 1,200,000 cars in the third quarter. This is a drop from the more than 2,000,000 cars a quarter in the first half of 1950. Whether further cuts will be made for the fourth quarter has not been announced.

Appliance-Makers Due

Other consumer durable goods industries now exempt but possibly subject to CMP allocations in the fourth quarter of 1951 would include the manufacture of household refrigerators, air conditioners, radio and TV sets, furniture, women's handbags, jewelry, washing machines, toys and dolls, athletic goods and vacuum cleaners.

Manufacturers of consumer soft goods—textiles and foods—so far have not been put on notice they will be subject to CMP. The construction industry, however, has been notified that authorized builders may apply for CMP allocations if they choose to do so. But it isn't made compulsory.

For all industry, users of steel have been notified they may have on hand only 45-day supply of steel and 60-day supply of copper and aluminum. This is to prevent inventory hoarding.

Total requirements for metals now are running about 35 per cent of available supplies, according to Defense and National Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann. And that's what makes CMP necessary.

NPA (National Production Authority) now is processing some 42,000 applications for CMP allocations of the three basic metals. This does not mean that 42,000 separate manufacturers have applied for allocations, as many producers of defense materials have to make two or more applications. But the number roughly is comparable to World War II experience, when more than 45,000 applications were received.

CMP allocations now being mailed out to these applicants will control

SARAH JONATHAN. Bart's mother, turned out the light by the bed. "Go to sleep now, dear. I'll wake you when Bart comes in."

She went quietly from the room. I heard her going downstairs and, shortly, came up again. Apparently she was going to her own room. I lay wide-eyed. The house was big and old and filled with night-noises for one listening for them as I was. The stairs creaked a thousand times, downstairs windows squeaked as they were stealthily pried open—in my imagination.

The yawn crept up on me, prompted by the warm milk Mrs. Jonathan had insisted I drink. I sat up in bed, hugging my knees. I mustn't sleep! I slipped out of bed, fumbled in the dark for my clothes. In a strange room it wasn't easy. I stubbed into a chair and it seemed that the house crouched to listen.

I listened, too, as I crept downstairs a few minutes later. But there was only the Maltese cat, who opened one questioning eye and went to sleep again on the shag rug in front of the fireplace. I sat on my bare feet in the big wing chair that must be Bart's.

Not much goes on in a town the size of Hollister in the wee hours of the morning. Two cars cruised by in the long half-hour that I sat there, or maybe it was the same car circling the block. It could have been: both cars were dark sedans. I waited, and watched, but they did not pass again.

I heard Bart come in the back way, and smiled to myself. Wouldn't he be surprised to find me here!

He was taking his time. I could hear him in one of his office rooms, then he crossed the hall into the other one, next to the living room where I was. I slid out of the chair, moved toward the window. . . .

By BOYCE HOUSE

This is about two Irishmen but their names were Mike and Pat. Instead of Pat and Mike, for a change, Mike fell in a gulch and Pat yelled, "Are ye killed? If ye are, spake to me." Mike replied, "I ain't killed but I'm speechless!"

An Irishman saw a hunter shoot a duck high overhead and the bird spun and plunged to the ground whereupon the Irishman said, "Ye wasted yer powder; the fall would have killed it."

It was a grotesque mask hiding the Carl Metzker I had known. It was bitter, bitter hate. Carl Metzker, in defeat, wanted more than ever to kill me. I'm going to be a long time forgetting that, and the venomous threat he flung at me as Timothy O'Brien and the other FBI men took him away with Frank and Van, who had led Carl out and then kept circling the block in that black car of Carl's, waiting for him to kill me and come out. "Don't think you've escaped us, Mary," Carl warned. "Don't sleep nights, thinking we won't come back."

O'Brien shut him up in a hurry, but sometimes, even now, I wake up in a cold sweat, hearing Carl, or seeing the bitterness that was in Caroline's face at the trial, when she saw freedom slipping forever away from her. But I don't think of the terror for long. It's like it was that night—or, rather, early morning, for dawn was shaking her finger at Hollister when Sarah Jonathan brewed coffee and made pancakes for the three of us.

"It's over, Mary Tobias," Bart said as we sat down at the table by the window. "Except for the trial, it's ended. For you."

I was still feeling Carl's cold hatred. I shook my head.

"Forget Carl Metzker," Bart's voice was sharp. "Forget O'Brien and the way I let him use you for bait." His hand covered mine, asking my forgiveness.

"Mrs. Jonathan—" she kept heaping pancakes on my plate—"can you imagine—your son says 'I'm not cut out for country living. Yet he let me be tossed to the wolves like—like—'"

Bart Jonathan roared. When he could, he said, "Honey, that was before I saw you wrap Metzker up for special FBI delivery! You can live in my country forever."

"In case you don't recognize it, Mary, that's a proposal," Sarah Jonathan laughed. She plopped a platter of pancakes in front of Bart. "Now say yes so you can both eat your breakfasts."

I did, and we did it. It was the first time I ever ate pancakes with stardust.

Sauer Takes Oil, Gas Leases On 65,000 Val Verde Acres

Joe G. Sauer of Midland is credited with having recently acquired oil and gas leases on more than 65,000 acres in Central and Western Val Verde County.

It is understood that the leases were taken by Sauer on order from a major oil company. There is no information available as to the identity of that concern.

The acreage is reported to be divided into eight blocks. Description of the properties has not been secured.

Informal sources reveal that Sauer paid cash bonuses of from $1.00 to $2.00 per acre for the lease. The contracts call for the payment of 50 cents per acre annual rental. All the leases are for 10 years. None of them carry any drilling obligations.

Gulf Pennsylvanian Discovery In Upton Tests For 512 BOPD

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1-H McElroy, Pennsylvanian discovery in Northwest Upton County flowed a total of 512 barrels of 41.1-gravity new oil and no water in 24 hours. The flow was through a one-half-inch tubing choke on two and three-eighths-inch tubing. The production came from open hole in the Pennsylvanian at 9,109-9,250 feet. That zone had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and treated with 2,000 gallons of regular acid. During the 24-hour test the wildcat showed a gas-oil ratio of 1,481-1. The flow during the last 13 hours of the 24-hour test was by heads.

May Test Further Operators may test the well further and then run another 24-hour gauge before reporting an official potential. Some observers think the pay section is still carrying some drilling mud and they are of the opinion that another acid treatment probably would clean the producing zone to where it would flow steadily and regularly. Location is 1,980 feet from east and north lines of section 169, block E, CCSD&RGNG survey. The new discovery is six miles northwest of the Wilshire-Pennsylvanian-Ellenburger field and two miles east of the northeast side of the shallow McElroy field. The project drilled to a bottom of 12,385 feet in the Ellenburger. That zone made salt water and had no shows of oil or gas. It was then plugged back to 9,250 feet for the Pennsylvanian completion.

Ellenburger Wildcat Is Set Near Block 31 In SE Crane Region

Five and one-half miles south of the Block 31-multipay field of Southeast Crane County: Humble Oil & Refining Company spotted location for a 10,000-foot Ellenburger wildcat.

It will be drilled as No. 1-D G. H. Cowden, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 39, block X, CCSD&RGNG survey. That puts it five miles southeast of the town of Crane.

Cabot Carbon Will Drill San Andres Project In Gaines

Cabot Carbon Company No. 1 W. F. McFarlin and others will be dug as a 5,500-foot San Andres wildcat in Northwest-Central Gaines County. It will be dug 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 302, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey and seven miles northwest of Seminole. That puts it two and one-half miles northwest of the Seminole-San Andres field which gets its production above average total depth of 5,300 feet.

Second Producer Is Completed In Hi-Lonesome Pool

The Texas Company No. 1-D Scharbauer has been completed as the second producer in the Hi-Lonesome Wolfcamp field of Northwest-Central Midland County.

It was finished for a daily flowing potential of 85 barrels of high-gravity oil from perforations in casing opposite the Wolfcamp at 9,747-9,750 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 9090-1. The completion test was made on a 12 1/4-inch choke. An undisclosed amount of acid was used. This new oiler is one location northwest of Ralph Lowe No. 1 Hill, discovery well of the field. Exact location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 19, block 39, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Pan American Is To Complete Breedlove As Devonian Opener

Pan American Production Company, Forest Oil Corporation and Houston Oil Company of Texas No. 1 F. D. Breedlove is to make production tests and complete as a discovery from the Devonian. This prospect, in Northwest Martin County, had flowed an estimated 45 barrels of oil per hour natural in drillstem tests in the Devonian between 12,070-148 feet. It cored to a total depth of 13,053 feet in barren Ellenburger. That formation was topped at 12,717 feet, on an elevation of 2,895 feet. It did not log any signs of fluid of any sort. All the formations between the Devonian and the Ellenburger were void of petroleum.

Will Run Liner Operators have plugged back to 12,100 feet. A 5 1/2-inch liner will be run from up in the 7-inch casing which is cemented at 11,095 feet, in the lower Pennsylvanian. The liner will be set at 12,100 feet. Operators are expected to test the Devonian pay through perforations above 12,100 feet, and they may test the lower part of the Devonian zone in open hole.

The wildcat is due to be completed as a good producer and the opener of a new deep oil field. Location is 13 miles northwest of Tarzan and 660 feet from south and 4,620 feet from east lines of league 258, Briscoe County School Land Survey.

The project is now bottomed at 8,785 feet in the lower Spraberry. Extensive testing in the upper and lower sections of that formation failed to develop commercial production.

Five and one-half-inch casing is cemented at 8,597 feet. No. 1 Stinson & Burley is four miles south of Gulf Oil Corporation No. 2-B-P-St G. W. Glass which was completed as a discovery from the Pennsylvanian and which is now testing for completion as a discovery from the Silurian.

The Blackwood & Nichols project is 660 feet from west and south lines of section 36, block 39, T-1-N, T&P survey and seven miles north of the city of Midland.

Blackwood & Nichols Re-Schedules Depth For Martin Explorer

The Blackwood & Nichols Company is cleaning out junk at 8,519 feet inside five and one-half-inch casing at its No. 1 Stinson & Burley, Southwest Martin County wildcat, preparatory to deepening hole to 10,500 feet for a test of the Pennsylvanian.

The project is now bottomed at 8,785 feet in the lower Spraberry. Extensive testing in the upper and lower sections of that formation failed to develop commercial production.

Five and one-half-inch casing is cemented at 8,597 feet. No. 1 Stinson & Burley is four miles south of Gulf Oil Corporation No. 2-B-P-St G. W. Glass which was completed as a discovery from the Pennsylvanian and which is now testing for completion as a discovery from the Silurian.

The Blackwood & Nichols project is 660 feet from west and south lines of section 36, block 39, T-1-N, T&P survey and seven miles north of the city of Midland.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company has filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting a permit to continue drilling at its No. 1 Landreth Company, in Central-Northeast Pecos County, to a possible bottom of 4,600 feet. This exploration is 10 miles northeast of Fort Stockton and 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 112, block 11, H&GN survey.

It is an outpost to production in the McCandless field. The No. 1 Landreth was originally started to drill to 3,400 feet to explore the Clear Fork and Wichita-Albany zones of the Permian. Both those pays make oil in the McCandless field. No. 1 Landreth has apparently drilled to 3,400 feet and failed to develop any commercial production. Operator now plans to deepen the development. The slated destination of 4,600 feet might take the project into the Ellenburger.

Stepout Is Staked To Cobb-6700 Pool In NE Yoakum Area

One location west of the closest production at the extreme north edge of the Cobb-6700 field of Northeast Yoakum County, Honohulu Oil Corporation spotted drillsite for its No. 2 S. B. McLane and others. It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 324, block D, John Gibson survey and 13 miles east of Plains. Combination tools will be used in drilling to a possible bottom of 6,900 feet.

Three Oilers Finaled In Spraberry Trend

Atlantic Refining Company, Sun Oil Company and B. L. McFarlin, Inc., have each completed a new producer in the Spraberry trend. Atlantic No. 1 W. M. Schrock was finished in the Drifter field of Southeast Midland County for a daily flowing potential of 198 barrels of 36.6-gravity oil and no water. Open hole from 7,001 to 7,081 feet was treated with 1,500 gallons of Hydracra.

Potential is based on a 20-hour flow through a 24 1/4-inch choke. Tubing pressure was 150 pounds. Gas-oil ratio was 835-1. Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 26, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Another Oiler On Hutchison Sun No. 3-A W. A. Hutchison, 660 from south and east lines of section 42, block 36, T&P survey. T-3-S, was completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 253 barrels of 36.9-gravity oil and no water.

This oiler is in the Central-West Glascocock County side of the Tex-Harvey field. It was completed from open hole at 6,854-7,130 feet, and on a 24 1/4-inch tubing choke. Gas-oil ratio was 655-1 and tubing pressure was 120 pounds.

In the Germania field of Northeast Midland County, B. L. McFarlin, Inc., No. 1-7 Andrew Fasken was completed for a daily flowing potential of 347 barrels of 37.9-gravity oil and no water. It was finished from open hole at 7,085-7,112 feet on a one-half-inch choke. Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the lease in section 7, block 36, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Midland Tex-Harvey Gets Three Testers

Glendale Oil Corporation of Fort Worth staked location for one test and Den-Tex of Dallas spotted locations for two more in the Tex-Harvey field of Central-East Midland County.

Glendale will drill No. 2-21 Floyd Estate 666.8 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of the southeast quarter of section 21, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey. Den-Tex No. 2-11 Den-Tex and Floyd will be dug 1,320 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 11, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey.

The same operator's No. 2-23 Den-Tex and Floyd will be drilled 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 23, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey. Operations are to start at once on all three projects.

Norsworthy Quits Schleicher Wildcat

C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., No. 1 Ethel Williams has been quit as a wildcat failure in Central-North Schleicher County.

It was drilled to a total depth of 6,809 feet in the Ellenburger. No markers have been released. Drillate was two miles north and slightly east of the Huldale, North-Lower Canyon field and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 77, block M, GH&SA survey. (Continued On Page Six)

Cease-Fire In Korea May Bring Cut-Back In Production Of Oil

The U. S. oil industry has been gambling that the Korean War will continue, civilian consumption will remain high, and Iranian oil will be lost to the West.

It may have lost one or more of these gambles, with the result that oil stocks could shortly become so excessive as to threaten the well-being of the industry.

This red flag of warning against over production was hung out in the July 1 issue of World Oil by Publisher Ray L. Dudley and Editor Warren L. Baker, who see the need for lower producing rates the remainder of the year.

Cut-Back May Come A cease-fire agreement in Korea and subsequent loss of military demand, now estimated at almost 400,000 barrels per day, would require a sharp cutback aggravated by a companion drop in oil needed for defense preparations. If peace comes, California heavy type oil would become "a drug on the market, in contrast to its present strong position," say the writers. As for civilian consumption, the writers note that "General reductions ranging from one cent to two cents per gallon have taken place in gasoline tank wagon prices all along the east coast from Maine to Florida. . . . The occurrence of a weak gasoline market during the heavy consuming season for this product is a dangerous sign."

The writers concede that if Iran's nationalization of oil results in the temporary removal of this oil from world markets, the loss would more than offset the repercussions caused by peace in Korea.

"However, there is no assurance that Iran's 700,000 barrels per day will not continue to enter world markets. Loss of revenue from oil would be disastrous financially and politically to the country, so Iran can be expected to make every effort to keep its industry operating." This precarious position of the U. S. oil industry is partly the dubious reward of efficiency in getting oil out of the ground. During the four weeks ended June 16, U. S. crude oil stocks grew by 4,000,000 barrels, attaining a whopping level of 248,500,000 barrels, or 9,000,000 greater than a year ago. Likewise, gasoline stocks were 128,500,000 barrels in mid-June were 12,000,000 barrels more than a year ago.

Sauer Opens Office At 713 McClintic

SSC Has Published Bibliograph On Petroleum Traps

As a service to the oil industry, Seismograph Service Corporation, of Tulsa, has published the "Bibliography of Stratigraphic Traps", with annotations, according to an announcement by the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

Edited by W. E. Fugle and B. G. Preston, the volume lists in 200 pages geological articles on stratigraphic traps by author, geographical location and geologic age, respectively.

Twenty-five employees of the company, assisted by the staffs of The University of Tulsa Library and the Tulsa Public Library, organized and arranged 1,340 references by 910 different authors. All articles indexed concern the accumulation, or possible accumulation, of oil or gas in stratigraphic traps.

This bibliography, according to its editors, is important because more than half the production of oil in the United States is being obtained from so-called "strat-traps."

More than 7,000 copies of the "Bibliography of Organic Refs, Bioherms, and Biostromes," published by SSC in 1950, have been placed in the hands of scientists and students throughout the world. Copies of both publications can be obtained without charge by writing to Seismograph Service Corporation, Box 1590, Tulsa 1, Oklahoma.

Upton Grabs PB Spotlight In Number Of Active Operations

The Reed Rollar Bit Company, survey of active rotary drilling rigs for July 1 in the Permian Basin reflected a continuing fast pace in the search for petroleum in the area.

The 15 day period from June 15 showed an increase in drilling units from 606 to 613.

Although Midland County continued to set the pace with 81 rotary rigs, Upton County grabbed the spotlight with an increase of 12 rigs during the 15-day period. Upton is now tied with Ector County for second spot with 63 operations. On June 15 there were 76 rigs going in Ector County.

Midland County's 81 rigs showed an increase of one over the June 15 tally.

The last two surveys showed 42 rigs in Scurry County. Reagan County's drilling rigs also remained stationary at 11.

Others showing an increase since June 15 are Howard, Kent, Terry and Glasscock Counties. Howard on July 1 had 30 operations as compared with 18 on the previous count. Glasscock County also showed an increase of one from 22. Six more rigs were running in Kent.

New Fields Named By Railroad Board

Two more recently opened oil fields in the Railroad Commission of Texas' District 8 have been named.

The pool opened by Francis K. Campbell and others No. 1 J. M. Hickey Sons in West Reeves County has been designated Campbell-Castile lime.

The other new field is the Clarence Scharbauer-Strawn pool of West-Central Midland County which was discovered by The Texas Company No. 1-B Scharbauer.

Gardner will assume his new position on July 15, the effective date of his resignation as vice president and general manager of the Idaho division of Dresser Equipment Company.

Delta Gulf Drilling operates 20 rigs in the Gulf Coast area and in West Texas, and also engages in the development and operation of oil properties, with interests in more than 120 producing wells.

Gardner will remain a resident of Dallas, and maintain an office in the Mercantile Bank Building there, in addition to an office at Delta headquarters in Tyler, Texas.

Had Varied Experience

A native of Colorado, Gardner graduated in petroleum engineering from the Colorado School of Mines. He joined the field staff of Phillips Petroleum Company in 1928. Entering the Army in 1943, as an officer in the Corps of Engineers, Gardner served overseas for 24 months. Discharged in 1946 he rejoined Phillips as assistant general superintendent of production.

He resigned this position in 1946 to accept the position of vice president of Lofland Brothers and its foreign subsidiaries.

He joined Ideco (then the International Derrick & Equipment Company) as its president in 1948, assuming his present position when Dresser Equipment Company was recently organized by its parent company, Dresser Industries, Inc. of Dallas.

Washington Oil— Two West Texas Pipe Lines Scheduled In PAD's Fourth Quartered Request For Steel

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The start of construction of two oil pipe lines out of West Texas is scheduled in the fourth quarter steel request from the Petroleum Administration for Defense, it was learned here.

The PAD request to the Defense Production Administration gives no details of the two lines, but they are understood to be these:

1. A 24-inch crude line from near Odessa to Long Beach, Calif., which would give an outlet to 300,000 barrels daily of crude when completed. An application for a certificate of necessity for the line has been filed by Progress Pacific Pipe Line Company, Los Angeles, of which Maro D. Loh and D. R. Brown are officials.

2. A 26-inch line of 440 miles from West Texas to Longview and on to the Gulf of Mexico, which has been proposed jointly by Gulf Cities Service, Pure Oil, Sun and Standard Oil Company (Ohio).

A proposed products line from West Texas to the Pacific Coast refinery for Odessa have not yet been acted upon by the PAD, it is explained.

It's now up to DPA to say whether the steel will be forthcoming, and the DPA has been tough in the past.

Here are other pipe lines which would obtain steel under the fourth quarter estimate:

The Platte Pipe Line Company's already-started line from Wyoming to Wood River, Ill.

An enlarged pipe line system in Louisiana.

A 117-mile extension of the Ohio Oil Company's line, carrying it from Sheridan, Ind., to Lima, Ohio.

A replacement of much of the Sinclair Pipe Line Company's extensive pipe line system between Drumright, Okla., and East Chicago, Ind.

Overall, the PAD is asking 2,336,000 tons of steel for the fourth quarter, which compares with 1,538,000 actually made available in the third. The request seems high, but that is because the third quarter request was pared so much by DPA, the petroleum agency explains. Further, the mills have not been able to provide the steel called for in the third quarter.

A total of 457,000 tons of oil country tubular goods is sought, which is sufficient to support a drilling program of 43,000 domestic wells this year, about the same amount as in the third quarter.

The threat of end use controls over oil and gas grows greater with steel shortages, now chiefly felt in the oil and gas transportation field. The PAD has been forced to draft a tentative order forbidding natural gas companies from taking on new customers, and additional space-heating clients because steel shortages have held up gas pipe line construction.

A meeting between PAD and 28 gas industry officials concerning the order is set for Monday, and another July 23, with the Gas Industry Advisory Council. The natural gas industry considers the order essential, although makers of consuming equipment are up in arms. More significant, perhaps, is a staff report to Senator Joseph McCarthy from one of his committees.

Amerada Is To Drill Deep Pennsylvanian Test In NE Lea Area

HOBBES, N. M.—Amerada Petroleum Corporation will drill its No. 1-ECB State as a 10,000-foot Pennsylvanian wildcat in Northeast Lea County.

Drill site is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 6-12-32e and one mile north and four miles west of Amerada No. 1-ECB State, a drilling wildcat.

No. 1-ECB is drilling below 8,042 feet in line and shale.

Another Lea County test, The Vickers Petroleum Company No. 1-C State, will be drilled in the southeast portion of the county.

Exact location is 2,310 feet from north and west lines of section 7-21-34e. It will be drilled to around 3,900 feet for a test of the Delaware sand.

Another prolific flowing producer from the Devonian has been added to the Denton-Mulberry field of Northeast Lea County.

The field's newest oiler is The Ohio Oil Company No. 4 Denton, 1,980 feet from south and 2,030 feet from west lines of section 11-15-37e.

Superior Attorney Is To Report On Status Of Middle East Oil

AUSTIN—Elmer Patman of Austin, attorney for The Superior Oil Company, has returned from the Third World Petroleum Congress in Europe where he served as special representative of the Select Committee on Small Business, U. S. Senate and House of Representatives.

Accompanied on the two-month tour by his wife and son, Philip, he traveled and studied in England, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Germany, Switzerland, and France.

In a brief statement upon arrival in Austin, Patman gave some indication of the nature of the report he will make later to Senator John Sparkman and Congressman Wright Patman, chairman of the Senate and House Small Business Committees.

The hearing is expected to go into Iran, synthetic petroleum, end use controls, steel supplies for the various industries and the like.

"The impending agreement by which American oil companies will undertake to fulfill some of the Anglo-Iranian oil commitments in Western Europe will help the shortage growing out of the Iranian trouble, but it will put pressure upon the domestic industry," said Arthur Sandusky, staff counsel of the committee.

Rowan Offices Are In New Location

Midland offices of Rowan Drilling Company and its affiliate, Rowan Oil Company, are now at 204 McClellin Building.

Former quarters of these concerns were at 221 South Lorraine.

The Rowan offices in Midland are the division headquarters for these companies for West Texas and New Mexico.

MRS. TILLIE MULLER NOW WITH VICKERS

Mrs. Tillie Muller is the new office secretary in the Midland organization of The Vickers Petroleum Company, Inc. She formerly worked for Republic Natural Gas Company.

It was drilled for a daily flowing potential of 1,334 barrels of oil per day through a three-quarter-inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 236-1. Gravity of the oil is 46.4 degrees.

Completion was from perforations, opposite the Devonian, at 12,119-12,973 feet and at 12,982-12,115 feet. The Devonian was topped at 11,215 feet, elevation 3,206 feet. Pay was found at 11,230 feet and hole was drilled to total depth of 12,135 feet.

The oiler was completed after the perforations were washed with 3,500 gallons of acid.

It was completed as a twin to a Wolfcamp producer.

Gulf Oil Corporation has staked a one-mile north outpost to the discovery well of the South Saunders field of Central-West Lea County.

It will be dug as the firm's No. 1-H Lea-State at the center of the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 19-15-33e.

The discovery is Lawton & Goldston No. 1-A State located in section 30-15-33e.

Sharples Oil Corporation of Midland and Denver has plugged back to 11,831 feet in the Pennsylvanian at its No. 1 Seth Alston, North-Central Lea County wildcat.

Operator is now preparing to acidize perforations from 11,579 to 11,585 feet and from 11,599 to 11,645 feet and swab and test.

The wildcat was drilled to 14,440 feet in the Devonian. The Pennsylvanian had good shows of possible production when it was drilled through.

Location is at the center of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 17-15-33e.

Mid-Century Petroleum Corporation No. 1 W. M. Strickland-Dora Unit, wildcat in East-Central Roosevelt County, has been plugged and abandoned as a failure on total depth of 7,608 feet in igneous rock topped at 7,350 feet, elevation 4,230 feet.

Two and one-quarter miles northwest of Ralph Lowe No. 1 Dickinson, recently completed two-mile extension to the Denton-Devonian pool of Northeast Lea County, E. D. Brann No. 1 Lowe is drilling below 9,738 feet in shale of the Wolfcamp. No tops have been released. Location is 600 feet from north and west lines of section 33-14-37e.

Buffalo Oil Company No. 12-B Balsh, 10,000-foot wildcat in the shallow Maljamar field of Central-West Lea County, is being drilled below 8,115 feet in an unidentified formation.

This wildcat is being drilled "light." Location is 1,980 feet from south and 860 feet from west lines of section 22-17-32e.

McMillan & Peterson No. 1-A State, wildcat in Southeast Chaves County, is at total depth of 2,068 feet in an unidentified dolomite cleaning out after a 142-quart nitro-glycerin shot.

This project has indicated that it might produce oil in commercial quantities.

Lubbock Machine Company No. 1 Cockerham, wildcat in Central-South Eddy County, is drilling below 1,330 feet in lime of the San Andres which was topped at 1,134 feet.

Well Is New Chief Of A-POC Division Land Department

J. Don Weit is the new division landman for Anderson Prichard Oil Corporation for the Permian Basin. He is to assume his new duties immediately. Headquarters of the division are in Midland.

Weit takes the place left vacant a short time ago when R. H. (Bud) Friswell resigned from Anderson-Prichard to go in business as an independent oil operator and trader.

Friswell and W. H. (Bill) Thams, former division manager for Anderson-Prichard, and who recently resigned that position, are to be associated in the independent ranks.

Keith C. Anderson, formerly a member of the concern's division geological staff, has taken over as the division manager succeeding Thams.

Weit has had wide experience in the oil business. He resigned as crude oil representative of Phillips Petroleum Company in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico to take the A-POC executive position.

He had been on the crude oil assignment in the territory for Phillips about one year. Prior to coming to Midland he had spent two years in crude oil work for that concern in other regions.

Served in U. S. Army

He had worked in the Phillips land and scouting department for about six years before being transferred to the crude oil department.

Weit is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma. He served in the U. S. Army for several years during World War II.

His last year of military service was after the close of the war. He was attached to the U. S. Military Government organization in Germany and was in charge of the petroleum section of one of the three areas of the American zone of occupation.

He was released from service as a captain.

Cameron District Office In Midland Adds Two To Staff

Two new members have recently been added to the staff of the Permian Basin district office of Cameron Oil Company in Midland.

Bill Carver is production superintendent and Bill Aldridge is landman. Jack Elam is district geologist for the organization in this territory.

Elam opened the concern's Midland office several months ago. It is temporarily located at 507 North Colorado.

Permanent Quarters Contracted

Permanent quarters have been contracted for and they will be occupied as soon as the new office facilities now under construction are completed.

Cameron Oil recently completed its first producer in the Spraberry Trend area in Northeast Upton County. It has several other explorations underway in the region adjacent to its first producer.

Main offices of Cameron Oil Company are in Oklahoma City.

Nolley, Roberts Are New CSOC Crude Oil Men In Midland

George Nolley is the new representative in Midland of the crude oil supply and transportation division of Cities Service Oil Company. He was transferred here from the concern's Fort Worth office.

Nolley takes the place formerly held by Warren L. Ambrose who has been shifted to the CSOC office in Fort Worth.

Alan C. Roberts, formerly with the crude oil department of Humble Oil & Refining Company at Houston, has joined Cities Service and has come to Midland to assist Nolley and to replace M. A. Wilson, Jr., who has been recalled to military service.

Gulf To Build New Oil Pipe Line In Area

HOUSTON—J. H. Russell, vice president of Gulf Refining Company and Gulf Oil Corporation, Friday announced that Gulf plans the immediate construction of a crude pipe line originating in the north-east portion of Upton County and connecting with Gulf's main West Texas pipe line system at Midland.

The new Gulf line will be approximately 43 miles long and six inches in diameter.

It will serve the Spraberry oil producing areas of Upton, Glasscock, Reagan and Midland Counties.

Wildcating In Rocky Mountain Region Has More Than Doubled

Wildcat wells were drilled to a combined total depth of 729,913 feet during the first six months of 1951 in the Rocky Mountain Oil Region, according to the mid-year report of Petroleum Information, Rocky Mountain oil statistical and information firm of Denver and Casper.

This compares with 354,840 feet drilled during the same period a year ago. The number of wildcat wells, 146, represents 66 per cent more wells than were drilled during the first six months of 1950.

At All Time High

Geophysical prospecting, leasing, wildcat and development drilling have reached an all time high in the Rocky Mountain Region, according to Maury Goodin of Petroleum Information, the firm which has charted and reported the growth of the region since 1928. "However, oil production is not expected to increase pending completion of the Platte Pipe Line from Worland, Wyo., to Wood River (St. Louis), which is presently held up for lack of the necessary steel," he said.

Refining facilities of the region are operating at top capacity and fulfill completely the regional requirements for refined products. With new pipe line facilities, production will step up almost immediately to an additional 60,000 barrels daily above the 305,000 daily barrels presently produced in six of the Rocky Mountain states.

Colorado Leads

Although Colorado led the Rocky Mountain states with 49 wildcat completions, Wyoming brought in seven new oil wells out of the 45 drilled to better the national average of successful wildcat completions.

The Denver-Julesburg Basin led all other provinces of the region in exploratory drilling, accounting for all of the Colorado wildcats and adding 23 drilled on the eastern side of the basin in Western Nebraska. Ten new pools have been discovered in this basin out of the 77 wildcats drilled to July 1.

Perhaps the most outstanding development this year in the region has been the discovery of oil for the first time in the Williston Basin, which covers more than 70,000,000 acres through the Dakotas, Eastern Montana and Southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The discovery gave impetus to the lease program which began in the area two years ago and at last report approximately two-thirds of the state of North Dakota had been leased.

Footage Almost Doubled

Footage drilled in development wells, where oil structures are known to exist, almost doubled during the first six months of the year—2,160,588 feet compared to 1,447,482 feet over 1950. The most dramatic example of development activity took place in the San Juan Basin of Northwest New Mexico where 68 of the 72 development wells drilled brought in gas for the new west coast gas line.

Ninety-four seismic crews and at least 11 gravity parties are known to be working through the Rocky Mountain states to lead to the development of oil reserves in the nation's greatest unexplored section.

Things Which Snyder Let Unsaid Catch Interest Of Southwest's Oil Circles

BY KEITH K. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

What Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder did not say to the Senate Finance Committee recently caught more than passing interest from Southwest oil circles.

In testifying on the tax bill passed by the House, Snyder made no recommendation for changing the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance long granted oil and gas producers.

This allowance, unaltered in the House measure, permits the producers for tax-paying purposes to write off 27 1/2 per cent of the gross income on individual oil or gas properties, providing it does not exceed 50 per cent of the net income.

First fixed by Congress in 1920, it has been reviewed often but never changed, although at tax-writing times in late years it has come in for Treasury criticism as too high.

Stirs Speculation

Snyder's silence on the allowance before the Senate committee caused some oil men to speculate that perhaps the Treasury is beginning to see the light—to realize what they call the deduction's importance as an incentive in the never-ending search for more and more petroleum reserve.

One industry leader who had that reaction is H. B. Fell, president of the Simpson-Fell Oil Company, Ardmore, Okla., and executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"The fact that the Secretary of the Treasury did not criticize the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance nor the option to expense intangible drilling costs," said Fell in a statement, "would indicate he is beginning to realize that these provisions are sound and essential."

It showed further, Fell added, that the secretary is coming to see that the allowance is not too high but a proper one "to provide equity to the oil and gas producers and as a needed incentive for the investment of risk capital."

Snyder did refer to drilling "loopholes," a term bound to ruffle oil men if applied to the allowance.

By Misinformation

In the past, Fell said, the word has been used by "some misinformed people."

"These deductions are in no way loopholes," he declared, "but are special provisions, granted by Congress, to meet special conditions in the hazardous business of searching for and developing crude oil and gas reserves so as to make it possible for the oil and gas producing industry, like other industries, to have returned to its capital value."

"The oil and gas producers are accordingly using deductions specifically granted them by Congress."

The IPAA has prepared for a forthcoming issue of its periodical, The Independent Monthly, more figures on the heavy export of steel tubular goods it implies could be used to good advantage by this country's oil industry.

The most important single deterring factor to building up additional U.S. petroleum producing capacity, the IPAA contends, is the shortage of these materials for drilling wells.

"In spite of the critical shortage of steel tubular goods for the domestic industry, exports of these products from the United States are being permitted to reach unprepared heights," The Independent Monthly will say.

"During the first four months of this year, based on official figures from the U. S. Department of Commerce, exports of oil country goods and pipe line amounted to 187,000 tons. This is at an annual rate of $61,000 tons per year which, if continued throughout the remainder of this year, would be more than eight times the average for the 1949-1950 period."

Exports during those years, according to the IPAA, were only 24 percent of production; the current rate is about 12 percent.

"In the United States about 100,000 tons of oil country tubular goods are required to drill a well of average depth," the article concludes. "This represents enough steel to drill many additional wells in the United States."

Sun Re-Organizes Midland, Abilene Geological Offices

Sun Oil Company's geological organization in West and West-Central Texas has been re-organized and expanded.

Lee C. Smith, who has served Midland district geologist for the company for the past seven months has been named area geologist.

The Abilene geological office of the concern, which heretofore has been a sub-district office, has been given full district status.

Smith will continue to make his headquarters in Midland. He will supervise the work of both the Midland district and of the Abilene district.

Key Comes To Midland

Ross H. Ley has been named Midland district geologist for Sun and J. W. Harp has been made assistant district geologist.

Ley comes to Midland from Roswell, N. M., where he has been as assistant district geologist. He held that post about two years.

For three and one-half years prior to his assignment at Roswell, Ley was in the concern's Dallas division headquarters.

Harp has been a member of the geological staff of Sun's office in Midland about three years.

J. C. Monk is the company's district geologist at Abilene and Daniel T. Whitten is the assistant district geologist in that city.

Tribe Wins 12-9 Game

ODESSA—Eddie Jacome rode behind the 16-hit attack of his mates here Saturday night as the Midland Indians blasted the Odessa Oilers 12-9, breaking a six-game losing streak.

Zeke Bonura smacked the only home run of the exhibition baseball game, bopping a solid smash over the center field wall with Hayden White on base in the sixth inning.

Jacome allowed 16 hits in taking his seventeenth win of the year. The game was part of a late-afternoon ball game beginning at 10 p.m. here Sunday.

Plastics Win Title; City Playoff Set

Western Plastic wrapped up the regular-season City Major softball title in the JayCee League Friday night, turning back the challenge of Standard of Texas, 10-6. A Standard win would have thrown the race into a tie. A Shaughnessy playoff between the top four teams now will start.

But eight hits by the Plastics—including three doubles—and a pair of Standard errors were more than enough to give the game to the Plastics nine.

Jack Dunlap was the winning hurler, taking over after Phil Brock started and was shelled from the mound in three innings. Dunlap pitched a superb game, blanking the Standard team the rest of the way.

Standard took a 4-2 lead, before Western Plastic came back to win on the hitting of Sherrod and Evans, who bagged important doubles. Chester Campbell was the loser, giving away to Milt Montgomery late in the game.

Monday night the Shaughnessy playoffs will get underway, with Western Plastic playing fourth-place Shell Oil at 7:45 p.m. in the first game. Dunlap and Simpson will be the Plastic battery, with Rogers and Ladner set to go for

Three Indians On West All-Star Team

Giants Nudge Braves

NEW YORK —(P)—The New York Giants scored a thrilling 7-6 victory over the Boston Braves in 11 innings Saturday before 11,307 fans, winning out when Ed Stanky tripled and romped home on Alvin Dark's fly ball.

Third-string Catcher Sal Yvars opened the eleventh with a home run over left field stands, his first of the season and the fourth of the game for the Giants. One out later Stanky tripled off the left field wall and Dark followed with a fly to left to score Stanky with the winning run.

Uphill Battle
The Giants waged an uphill battle, coming from behind four times. Max Surkont enjoyed a 4-2 lead going into the eighth, when Bob Thomson tied the score with a two-out, two-run homer. The blow was Thomson's fifteenth and his sixth in eight games.

Boston took a 5-4 lead with a run in the tenth with the help of errors by Yvars and Stanky. Rookie Willie Mays rocketed his tenth home run with one out in the Giants' half off George Stock to square the count at 3-5.

The Braves bounced back with a run in the eleventh on two singles, a fielder's choice and a fly ball but the Giants came right back to pull it out of the fire.

Larry Jansen, making his third relief appearance of the season, gained credit for the victory, his eleventh. Jansen took over in the eighth.

Sheldon Jones started for the Giants and was clipped for four runs in five innings.

Three choices on the team we can't see. First, we disagree with the selection of the Driller's Abe Fleitas over Odessa's Barney Batson, and Stubby Greer over Scooter Hughes. Hughes is having a fine year at the plate, and perhaps he makes more errors afield than Greer—but it's because he gets chances on balls Greer couldn't touch.

As for the Driller voted in the outfield—no Bill McDaniel—we're kinda like the perplexed little boy: "Who dat?" We didn't even know he was in the league.

Still, the West has a pretty fair team. Al Monchak, Bob (Pepper) Martin, Ken Cluley, Leo Eastham and Greer all are capable of hitting the long ball.

Of course, Wayne Wallace, Bob Crues, Art Herring, Pat Stacey and Warren Sliter also can smack the ole apple.

The West pitching staff is stronger, although again Artesia has slipped in Ray Riley when more capable hurlers didn't get enough support from their "home" towns to make the squad.

Until we're shown different, we'll take the West again—the not very much.

King's Row

by Larry King

Maybe you think the East is all set to clobber the West in the Longhorn League all-star tilt set for July 19.

That would be the logical conclusion, since the first three teams in the loop—San Angelo, Big Spring and Vernon—are in the eastern part of the circuit.

But somehow, we feel the West and its second-division players have a better-than-average chance of coming through, despite a flurry of Artesia votes that rather upset the team's balance.

Red Sox Clobber Yankees

BOSTON —(P)—The Boston Red Sox, sparked by a first-inning grand slam home run by Clyde Vollmer, Saturday lambasted the New York Yankees 10-4 to hand the world's champions their seventh straight defeat of the season in Boston.

The Red Sox victory gave the Chicago White Sox temporary possession of first place in the American League.

Right-hander Ellis Kinder made his first Boston start of 1951 and kept 11 hits, including three homers, fairly well scattered while totaling 10 strikeouts.

The white-hot Red Sox batters insured Kinder's success in the first inning when they blasted Allie Reynolds for six runs, four on Vollmer's grand-slam homer.

Ted Williams clouted Shea for his sixteenth homer in the sixth with Johnny Pesky aboard to boost top-place RBI total to 76. Dom DiMaggio hit his eighth homer in the fourth.

The well-spaced four-base blows of Jackie Jensen, Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle accounted for all of the New York runs as Kinder, who had made 27 previous appearances in relief, extended his unbeaten pitching record to 4-0.

Indians Buy Hurler With 16-5 Record

Low Balland, a right-handed limited service pitcher who has posted a 16-5 record in the young 1951 baseball season, has been purchased by the Midland Indians from Tallahassee, Fla., of the Class D Alabama-Florida League, Manager Zeke Bonura said Saturday.

Balland was sold because the club was on the rocks financially and needed money, Bonura said. He first went to Lamesa from Tallahassee, pitched one game and won it, but Lamesa wouldn't pay the price asked for him. Bonura did not disclose the price. He will be with the club on a 20-day trial period before the deal is closed officially.

George Ash, limited service pitcher, joined the Indians Friday from the Evangeline loop.

Colts Nip Indians 2-1

SAN ANGELO—The San Angelo Colts got the best of a pitchers' battle here Friday night, taking a 2-1 ball game from the Midland Indians. Lou Lozano got credit for the win. Bruce (Gabby) Blumenthal took the loss, in spite of a good performance.

Midland rallied in the ninth inning for its lone run, with two out. The tally came when Hayden White—on a home-run-hitting streak—blasted home run No. 13 of the season with the bases unoccupied. Kenny Jones then singled, with Manager Zeke Bonura coming to the plate. Bonura lined a drive between second and first base. San Angelo's John Tayoan ran to the left of second base, leaped into the air, made a twisting catch and ended the ball game, with Jones rounding second and heading for third. The Colts scored in the sixth when Blumenthal walked in a run with the bases loaded, and added another in the eighth on a pair of doubles by Follett and Serrano.

Longhorn League—

Pitchers Have Night

As Seven Of Eight

Hurl Entire Route

By The Associated Press

Fans who like their baseball close and hotly contested should have enjoyed the Longhorn League action Friday night. It was strictly a pitchers' night.

Seven of the eight starting pitchers went all of the way. The eighth was relieved in the ninth inning when hit by a batted ball. He had just completed six scoreless innings and was in no trouble.

San Angelo and Midland tangled in the best game of the night, a 2-1 affair that went to the league leading San Angelo Colts. Roswell nipped Sweetwater 6-5 in another close one. Artesia shut out Vernon, 5-0 and Odessa clipped Big Spring 7-4.

Lou Lozano bested Bruce Blumenthal in the mound duel at San Angelo. Blumenthal gave up only six hits but walked a man with the bases loaded to force in one run and gave up a single and double in another inning for the other.

Lozano had a shutout until the ninth inning when Hayden White hit one out of the park.

Another Good Job

Ray Riley, Artesia ace, turned in another outstanding mound job. He stopped the Vernon Dusters with six hits and kept them away from the plate. The game was one of the fastest of the season, being played in one hour and 32 minutes.

Alex Monchak, Roswell manager, was the hero of the Rocket win. He homered in the seventh inning with two men on to give Roswell the victory. Sweetwater rallied for a run in the ninth and had the bases loaded when a great play by George Delles nipped the threat.

Eddie Johnson of Odessa was the only starter not to go the route. He was hit on the leg by a batted ball in the ninth and left the game but got credit for the win over Big Spring.

"Why can't we stay in one place, like other people?"

No wonder Johnny is bewildered and unhappy... his young life has been filled with moving from house to house... by the time he makes friends and gets to like his neighborhood, he again enters a strange environment and has to try to get acquainted with new playmates. And he will be in school in a couple of years, when moving will be still worse for him. Why don't his parents buy a home and stop this endless moving?

Johnny's father says: "Sure, I'm going to buy a home some day." Wisdom says: "Buy it NOW!" Now, when Johnny needs it most... when Johnny's mother and father are young enough to enjoy the home with their children... and when Johnny's father is at the beginning of his peak earning capacity. This is a good time to buy a home... present conditions indicate that there will never be a better time. Home payments are usually lower than rent for the same type of property!

MIDLAND, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 8, 1951

SECTION 1

Simplicity Is Keynote Of Summer Wedding

By MARILYN PARKER

The familiar refrain of Lohengrin's Wedding March is being played repeatedly as the traditional June weddings extend into the month of July.

The wedding marches are expected to be played at more speedily planned, informal-in-theme weddings this Summer and Fall than at any other seasons since the days of World War II.

With many young men being called to active duty and many others already in service, weddings assume a more casual mood.

Manufacturers, well aware of this trend, are cooperating with the informal bride with wedding gowns, suits and dresses designed to live up to her dreams as well as offering her a practical double-purpose use.

If the couple wants to retain all the traditional aspects of a formal wedding with a floor length gown, manufacturers suggest an antique ivory satin gown with a color matching lace overskirt and jacket. The jacket may be removed, revealing a shirred satin strapless bodice. The gown later can be worn to dinner parties and dances.

Bride Wears Suit

The informal bride may wear her wedding ensemble as a traveling costume — for instance, a beige dressmaker suit of falke or gabardine with a slim skirt and a waist nipped jacket glittering with rhinestone buttons.

For a memory-making bride, manufacturers have suggested a frothy ankle-length gown of eyelet organdy in a soft pink shade, styled with a tiered bouffant skirt effect, a delicate illusion of an off-shoulder neckline and a matching wisp of a bonnet.

However, the bridal dress is only the beginning. Accessories must be chosen and clothes for traveling planned. How to blend these with a new wardrobe is a minor detail but if chosen wisely can prove very effective.

This season, hosiery colors are more carefully chosen than ever to newest fashion shades.

For instance, blend a natural leg tone with toasty orange daytime costumes. A soft beige taupe will combine with informal lighter blues and navies. Neutral powder tones will go best with glamorous pastel tinted organzas and dressy sheers. Navy shades offer striking accent to ankle-revealing evening frocks.

With the accent these days on travel, particularly for the young bride whose bridegroom is being whisked off for training by Uncle Sam, a wardrobe must be a good traveler.

Today's bride can travel easily and adequately with nylon garments that can be easily washed and dried quickly. With this advantage fewer clothes are necessary.

Luggage Available

If new luggage is required for traveling the bride has a wide variety to select from this year. New colors include blues, from pale sky to deep sea blues, mossy greens, shades of sunset pink and earthy browns.

New patterns also are available. They range from heathery tweeds, diagonal tweeds, basket weaves, herringbones and stripes to sporty pin checks and tartan plaids. This new type of luggage is made of sturdy leathers such as cowhide, rawhide, alligator and pigskin.

Many of the new design ideas in luggage which have cropped up this season are a result of the cry for lighter-than-ever luggage for air travel.

There's the pliable soft-sided case which carries clothes flat and may or may not fold. It comes in nylon or canvas in matched sets or individual zipper roll bags in conventional shades or sprightly plaids.

Little vanity cases are more elegant than ever in rich leather with or without a tray or with fittings on a shelf back.

The bride of 1951 is luckier than ever. If her wedding must be a speedily planned one she will have no trouble in finding appropriate clothes and accessories for her wedding that will be useful to her for many years.

'Mrs. Indian'

Mrs. White Learns To Enjoy Baseball

By JUDY RANDOLPH

Baseball season is in full swing and with Midlanders now owning their own ball club, all eyes are focused on the Midland Indians. But the most interested followers of the team are the women who sit in the box seats above the dugout—the wives of the players. Midlanders know the players but, in order for them to become better acquainted with the players' wives, a series of articles introducing "Mrs. Indian" will be published in The Reporter-Telegram. Here is the first one.

"Baseball, baseball, baseball, that's all I ever hear ever since I first met him," exclaimed Mrs. Hayden White as she spoke of the main topic in her life with Hayden. But she loves it.

Not from the beginning, however. Mrs. White, who met her husband in Arlington High School in Fort Worth, said it was either go to the ball game with Hayden, or not go with him at all—she went to the ball games.

Even after she and her husband moved out to Midland where he joined the Indians, Mrs. White said she would sit through the whole game and not know what was happening. But it didn't take long for her to become a real fan and now she loves it.

NEW YORK—During the Summer, the problem of dressing on a junior budget goes on just as it does during the school year. In the case of a junior who's finished school and is on her first job, there's still the same old problem. Salaries on a first job are not notably high. And the junior on a job feels keenly the need to keep up with fashion.

This Summer, the girl who invests in at least one bemberg sheer will find the strain on her budget eased. For dresses in this fabric are cool, often can be purchased for pin money. A great many designers work in bemberg, which means a wide range of styles.

A sheath dress in bemberg (left) retails for under $11. It's washable. It has a small, detachable cape edged in self-pleating. In pastel prints, it has a medium U-neck and a straight skirt that falls into soft, unpressed pleats. Altogether, it's a good bet for any youthful wardrobe.

Another bemberg sheer (right), this one costing about $9, is in white, pin-dotted with color. A tiny stand-up collar is ruffled and tied in ribbon matched to the color of the dots. More ribbon encircles the waist, making a narrow sash. Sleeves are brief and ruffled. The skirt inclines to fullness but creates a slender look.

Pick Versatile Spring Into Summer Clothes

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Picking in Spring, a dress that will be a winner in Summer, too, is largely a matter of calculation. When you're organizing your Spring wardrobe, it's a good idea financially to buy at least two dresses that can slip from Spring into warmer days with no difficulty.

The jacket dress is a likely candidate for such a role. So is the redingote and the sheath dress topped by a duster. A print dress, either with or without a stole, is a wise buy. All can be worn several ways and therefore lead multiple lives.

And if the fabric that makes these dresses is washable, so much the better.

A jacket-dress in linen-textured rayon (left) that's washable can get an early start. Under the neatly tailored jacket there's a sunback dress ready for warmer days. Both are in soft pastels. The jacket has a nipped-in waist and bracelet-length sleeves.

Another Spring - into - Summer dress, this one with neck line interest (right) is a print in soft rayon crepe. The neckline is filled in softly with pleated rayon fall-pep-top skirt makes an easy-to-hipline and slims down to trim line. The fallie is repeated on the cuffs, carrying out the contrast trim.

MIDLAND

ading, Like Thermometer, ows Hot Weather Changes

mer is not only a time for and outdoor recreation — so a time for reading good

According to Mrs. William Wright of the Midland County, that's exactly what Midland is doing. The library is not so much that book lends increase in the summertime, explained, but there are noticeable differences in what people like to read. For instance, the popular mysteries and light fiction soars in the hot months. Maybe Midland readers like to save the weight-lifters for a winter evening by fire. Or maybe they just get in the summer. Anyway, mystery and light fiction show a circulation in June, July and August.

Classics, on the other hand, are left to gather dust on the shelves when the thermometer rises for 100 degrees. Such statistics are generative, of course, actually prefer their "long-reading" during the vacation, but they are bucking the trend.

Summer also brings a marked increase in the number of library users. In the winter, Mrs. Cartwright reported, people go in and out in a hurry. They usually know what they want and when they've checked out their books, they leave. But in summer the tempo slows down. Maybe it's because the reading room is cool, she laughed. Anyway, the patrons take their time. Sometimes they spend a whole morning reading or looking through magazines.

Travel Is Timely Topic

Another popular subject for vacation readers is travel. Books on Mexico and the U. S. National Parks go especially fast, Mrs. Cartwright said. The geology library is well-used all year round, too, she added.

Among the regular patrons, she numbered the students who frequently come in seeking help with research themes. And of course, the prospective brides who keep the etiquette books in use. On the whole, fiction leads non-fiction, and readers seem to prefer the more recent books.

A rundown of some of the library's most popular books right now illustrates these trends:

Claiming the distinction of the longest waiting list is the novel, "From Here to Eternity" by James Jones. Running it a close second is Yearby's "A Woman Called Fancy."

Popular Books Listed

Other best-read books are "The Caine Mutiny," Wouk; "Adventure in the East," Lancaster; "Festival," Priestley; "The Devil in Velvet," Carr; "Barbary Shore," Mailer; "The Pinkerton Story," Horan and Swift; "The Scandalous Mrs. Blackford," Kane; "The Treasure of the August Moon," Snyder; "Widow, Nun and Courtesan," Yutang; "The High Calling," Street, and the biography of Caruso by his wife.

The latter, Mrs. Cartwright explained, gained most of its popularity following the recent showing of the movie on the famous singer's life.

Mrs. Cartwright is in charge of the library this summer, while librarian, Lucille Carroll, is doing graduate work in library science at Louisiana State University.

Princeton Theological Seminary Choir To Present Worship Service

The Princeton Theological Seminary Choir of Princeton, N. J., will present a musical worship service at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

The choir, composed of men who plan to enter the Christian ministry, has been under the direction of David Hugh Jones since 1934. Jones is a charter member of the faculty of Westminster college choir and director of music at Princeton Seminary. He also is a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and has composed sacred music which has been sung by several leading choral organizations.

The choir will sing all of its music from memory and for the most part without accompaniment. Its repertoire ranges from early plain song through the Sixteenth Century Latin classics to contemporary works, many of which were written or arranged expressly for the group. Besides singing, the men will participate in the various speaking parts of the service.

Extensive Tours Made
Since 1937 the choir has sung in at least three different churches every Sunday during the academic year. In recent years it has made extensive transcontinental tours through Cuba, Mexico, Canada and Alaska, as well as many states of the Union.

George L. DeHart, minister of music of the Midland First Methodist Church, traveled with the choir during the last two Summers, making trips to Nova Scotia and Alaska. He served as the group's accompanist, as well as a singing member of the choir.

Altogether the group has appeared more than 1,800 times, singing in more than 1,000 churches and singing schools. It has sung at the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. at Atlantic City, N. J., Grand Rapids, Mich., and Buffalo, N. Y.

All choir members are college graduates now enrolled as students at Princeton Seminary. The public is invited to attend the service.

Hair Stylist Suggests Collon Rolls For Setting

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

If your schedule for Summer fun leaves little time for an elaborate hair-care program, you may find helpful a simple system of setting suggested by Vitorio Vito, noted New York hair stylist.

In this easy arrangement, you take advantage of the natural downward fall of your hair rather than trying to coax your tresses into the artificial up-and-back positions that are demanded by curls and swirls.

Begin your setting by obtaining a quantity of cotton from the box in your medicine chest. The next step is to make two rolls of the cotton — one that measures one inch thick by seven inches long; the other one an inch in diameter and fourteen inches long. These measurements may be varied slightly for individual rolls more suited to the size of your head and the length of your hair.

Next, wet your hair well and you're ready to begin. Part your hair carefully and brush looks downward from the crown until they fit like a smooth cloche all around your head—bangs smooth upon your forehead, side hair hanging straight around your ears, back hair hugging the nape of your neck.

Now, lift your bangs and slip the shorter roll of cotton beneath them, anchoring it firmly at each end with bobby pins. Then comb your bangs over the roll.

Officer Changes Made In Air Force Squadron

Major Wilbur H. Greenstreet is the new commanding officer of the 9816th Volunteer Air Reserve Squadron, succeeding Lt. Col. C. E. (Bud) Bissell.

Lt. Col. Bert W. David has succeeded Major Greenstreet as commanding officer of the Midland Flight, Other Flights of the squadron are located at Odessa, Big Spring and Alpine.

It also was announced that the representative here of the 14th Air Force, Sergeant Banister, has moved his office from the county courthouse to the Capital Building.

At a meeting Thursday of the squadron at 7:30 p.m. in the district courtroom of the Midland County Courthouse, a discussion of Air Force policies on recall to active duty will be led by Colonel Bissell, Major Greenstreet and Capt. Clifford E. Hogue.

Drive Captains Named
The Lions began using gum ball machines to support the club's charity fund in 1946. Since that time the club has received $1,760 as its share of revenue from the project, Pine said.

Among other projects, the fund has been used to purchase eye glasses, pay for eye examinations, and provide transportation for school children who had no other way to get to school.

Two wrist watches, donated by Horn, will be presented to the two men who place the most machines. A pen and pencil set will be awarded the captain of the team locating the most machines.

Appointed to captain the four teams that will conduct the drive are Bill Hutcherson, John Reid, Maurice Cox and Morris M. Howard.

A display of the gum ball machines has been arranged in a front window of the C. G. Morrison Variety Store.

VISITS AUNT
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Huffman of Fort Worth have been visiting in the home of their aunt, Mrs. J. H. Williamson, 305 East Kentucky Street.

FOR SURGERY
Mrs. Billie Surrey of 1600 North Garfield Street was admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital Friday for surgery.

Two rolls of cotton and a few minutes at her dressing table (left) are all this young woman needs to achieve sleek page boy style.

Follow a similar procedure for a page-boy set to swirl the ends of your hair under. Place the center of the longer roll low on the nape of your neck and fasten the ends high at your temples. Then comb your hair over and around the cotton roll. Place a net over your head to hold your hair firmly in place over the rolls. The another net, Indian-fashion, around the crown of your head just above the rolls. When this is removed, a shallow dent will be left to add contour to your coiffure.

Because the cotton is absorbent, your hair will dry quickly. This is a boon for those wishing to make quick come-backs to glamor after wetting their hair at pool or beach. It's an aid, too, to those who make a practice of quick predate shampoos.

When your hair is dry, comb it first back to fluff it, and then forward to smooth it into a gleaming cap.

New Sun-Specs Fashionable, Easy On Eyes

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

It's as important to look well as to see well when you're wearing sun glasses, according to one well-known optical company. And a new design of theirs helps you do just that.

These glasses are a definite fashion accessory, since they are not only shaped to offer becoming frames for your eyes but they also feature slotted temples through which you may slip a colorful scarf to protect your hair or enhance your costume.

These polaroid sun glasses become a handsome fashion accent when combined with a gay scarf run through their special, slotted frames.

If you like things to match, you may select a scarf the same shade as your frames. You have a choice of red, lime, sand or mahogany. Or, if you prefer mixing to matching, you may go your way with curls tied in a gay bit of fabric that contrasts with your frames.

The lens guard as well as the ear-pieces are of interest to the appearance-conscious woman. Made of plastic, they are curved to fit the brow and they boast a perky visor for added style.

These glasses are dedicated to a more serious purpose than the complementing of costumes, however. The lenses, of polaroid sun glass, are shatter-proof for safety and curved to provide scientific eye protection. They admit ample "seeing" light, according to the makers, while absorbing dazzling reflected glare.

If you happen to have small amounts of different vegetables leftover mix them together in a cream sauce and serve as an accompaniment to fish or meat. Or put the creamed vegetables in a baking dish, top with buttered crumbs, heat in the oven, and serve with crisp bacon strips as the main course for lunch.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN
AF Newfeatures

You can have a very successful summer by learning to be a good sport. You'll surely have more dates than the girl who isn't congenial. To fit this role you'll have to learn to accept some responsibilities. You can't climb up a tree every time you see an ant or a rabbit or a squirrel, and expect the boys to gather round and protect you. You will have to learn that you are on your own whether you are at the beach, in the country or doing the town.

First of all, if you don't know how to swim, you'd better take lessons. It not only will assure you more invitations, such as sailing and picnicking, but you won't worry your date to death when you are in bathing and he is swimming. A life-saving course is always handy knowledge to have tucked away so that you can come to the rescue in case of emergency.

Some girls avoid swimming lessons and look pretty silly sitting on the beach while other girls are in the pool enjoying themselves with their dates. A languid Susie might appeal to some men, if she otherwise has loads of charm. But don't expect him to date you again and again, if you just relax on the beach while he swims.

You should be able to accept responsibilities when picnicking, also. Knowing how to start a fire is one way, and if you aren't a Girl Scout, get a boy friend to teach you how to start a blaze. Also learn how to put the fire out to prevent brush fires.

A first-aid course or book will prove invaluable in emergencies, as well as giving information on what to do about everything from snake bite to poison ivy. You should learn how to identify poisonous berries and leaves.

You can't expect the boy to do all the chores when he takes you out on a picnic. If the outing involves cooking outdoors, and you haven't been asked to bring anything but yourself, at least be a good sport about gathering rocks, bricks and sticks for the fire, if he plans to build it. Offer to do the cooking, unless you suspect he is getting particular delight out of preparing the vittles.

It is a good idea to study the habits of a new group when you are invited out with them for the first time. If they like to ride horseback, surf ride, fish, play tennis or badminton, try to catch on to these sports. Don't be an "aw, let's not do that" date. The first thing you know you'll be sitting home waiting for the telephone to ring.

Sometimes it is possible to dislike a particular sport. In that case, suggest a good alternative and the crowd will probably take you up on your suggestion. Any boy who dates you will understand whether you are trying your best to be a good sport or going out of your way to dampen the spirits of the others.

The spirit of team-work always enters into outdoor fun with a crowd. So be prepared to do your share. After a picnic, gather up papers, bottles, cans and other rubbish, and dispose of it in a place where it will not be an eyesore or a danger to others who might cross the path.

A good safe bet, always, when joining a new crowd, is to be agreeable to their suggestions and to go out of your way to help with the chores. Doesn't it sound logical that you will be invited back again under the circumstances rather than if you just sat around complaining and expecting to be waited on? Popularity is easy to achieve if you have a good disposition and are agreeable. It makes no difference whether you are pretty or homely—to make a hit with the boys you've got to be a good sport and not a whiner.

Try it this Summer and see how your stock goes up.

Designer Of Lavish Jewelry Is Modest In Her Personal Tastes

Suzanne Belperron, Parisian designer of precious jewelry, uses diamonds as liberally as the homemaker uses eggs for angel food cake. But she never wears more than one piece of simple jewelry.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—The woman who has her pick of a fabulous jewel collection and who never wears more than one piece of modest jewelry is as rare as the Hope diamond. But she does exist, in the person of Suzanne Belperron, designer of precious pieces for the carriage trade.

Back about the end of World War I, Suzanne began her designing career. She went to the Middle and Far East to study the ancient jewel crafts. She made trips to India to buy sapphires and rubies. Then she returned to Paris and knocked out some pieces that in turn knocked out the eyes of well-dressed Parisiennes with well-stuffed pocketbooks.

On display in her atelier here are, among other pieces, a dramatic necklace combining black and lacquer with turquoise and solid gold in an Egyptian motif and a dazzling bracelet formed of diamond-paved scrolls in an Assyrian theme.

Suzanne is unorthodox in her designing methods. She has been known, for instance, to sink a 15-carat marquise diamond into a scooped-out ring of rock crystal. Or to use hundreds of round and baguette diamonds to create glittering veins in crystal and thus produce clips and matching bracelet.

One of her most recent creations was for an Indian maharajah who presumably walked into the salon with expensive ideas and an equally expensive wallet. He wanted some unusual perfume bottles and he got them. Suzanne created three large bottles of rough-hewn rock crystal with stoppers made of clusters of moon-stones sparkled with tiny diamonds.

Her day's work finished, she toted up the maharajah's bill in neat figures, put on her hat, put out the lights and went home to ponder what else might be done with diamonds that never had been done before.

Fine, Jail Term Given For Drunken Driving

A Midland motorist received a $100 fine and a 10-day jail sentence in County Court Friday after withdrawing his not guilty plea on a charge of drunken driving.

Judge Clifford C. Keith said the man had pleaded not guilty to the charge Thursday, but reentered a guilty plea Friday.

The man was arrested late Tuesday night following a chase by city police. Officers said he was involved in a hit and run accident with a pickup truck.

Fortunately potatoes are economical and in season all year around, they offer such good nutrition—supplying energy, iron and part of the vitamin C we need—that they should be served in family meals often.

NEW YORK—Once the general scheme had been decided upon, Wacker was quite willing to let the matter of the drapes and studio couch cover for their treatment to Ronnie. While he was painting a paint brush, she was with the fabric for both rooms. For the living room, she decided drapes in coral angora satin, a blend of cotton, rayon and mohair. She did not want to line the drapes so she picked a fabric heavy enough to hang in line of its own weight. She wanted the material in a multiple width, to cover both the living room windows and wall space between. Open or closed, the effect would be dramatic.

The studio couch got the same shade of coral but in a coordinated slipcover fabric with a woven design. The cover, she decided, should be tailored rather than frilly.

Because she had once vacationed in Peru and had brought back ornamental Peruvian silver, Ronnie picked a design of Peruvian origin for the study drapes. Colors are brick red, brown and white in a hand screen print that's blended cotton and mohair woven with a linen-like texture. All of the fabrics she chose are guaranteed the lifetime of the fabric against moth damage, a real convenience for any homemaker.

Like many girls, Ronnie had no previous sewing experience. But she also had no intention of spoiling beautiful fabric by experimenting. So she went for help to her local sewing center. There she got guidance from the first step to the very last finishing details. The result is a job with a professional look.

When the drapes were completed and in place, Ronnie took a long look at the venetian blinds then in the apartment. They were a dingy tan that robbed the rooms of some of their vibrant color.

Because she had made the drapes herself, Ronnie felt that she could afford to splurge a bit on new blinds. For the living room she picked venetian blinds in exactly the same shade of yellow as the walls and had them done to her order with brown tapes. The study got pale blue blinds, matched exactly to the walls, with brown tapes. Thus, with the drapes open in either room, the feeling of color established by the walls carries on.

Here Are Some Situations Women Naturally Understand

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Only another woman can understand.

That it is equally upsetting for a woman to have a drop-in guest find her house in disorder or an expected guest fail to show up after she has the whole house shining.

How frustrating it is to a woman to houseclean all day and have her husband walk in, look around and ask innocently: "What have you been doing all day?"

How a woman can get so much enjoyment out of "just looking" at things she has no intention of buying.

Why it is easier for a woman to face almost any kind of crisis if she has had her hair done. Why a woman always wonders when she meets a man, if he is married and if he is, what his wife is like.

That the duller the evening, the more the women guests gush over what a wonderful time they had.

Why a woman looks so pleased when her husband mentions some flaw in another woman, even one as remote as a movie star.

Always Burning Question
Why a woman is so interested in other women's ages.

Why the tone of feminine talk always changes abruptly and if by mutual consent the moment a man joins the group.

Why no woman can ever figure out to her entire satisfaction how a homely woman holds a man.

How a couple of wives can have such an enjoyable time tearing their husbands to pieces.

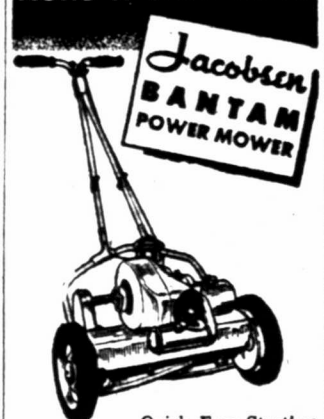

That when a married couple are being excessively polite to each other, chances are they have had a quarrel that hasn't been fought out to the finish.

That when a woman asks, "What do you think of so-and-so?" she doesn't want or expect approval. She is giving a go-ahead sign—go ahead and tell me what you think is wrong with her and then I'll tell you.

Katies Help To Can Air Force Engines

SAN ANTONIO —(AP)— Kelly Katies are helping can Air Force engines here.

And they're canning engines. After final inspection the engines, ranging from little ones for trainers to the huge power plants for the B-36, are canned for shipment or storage.

performing new tricks this year. It makes fashion news both in fabrics and in design.

Cotton chiffon, for instance, is not a successor to cotton satin. It's just one more example of the versatility of cotton and the ingenuity of the fabrics people. Designer Adele Simpson uses it in a shadow check suit (left), one in muted gray somber tones. This is paperweight cotton, deftly handled, beautifully detailed. A dress with halter neckline has cover-up provided by a form-fitting jacket, thus achieves a suit look. The bow that trims the dress provides trim for the jacket, too. Sleeves are worn pushed up to just below

A cotton raincoat, in water-repellent striped cotton ticking, is a handy thing for any girl to own. Summer showers are just as devastating as Autumn rains. This coat, by Lawrence of London, has its own beret. It's in a blue-and-white stripe with red velvet collar and cuffs. It's pyramided, can be worn full or belted and has deeply-cut armholes that slip easily over Summer suits and dresses.

Some Slaughterers Defy OPS For Quick Profits

By DON WHITEHEAD

ANSAS CITY—(AP)—Big-scale slaughterers have not yet had the nation's beef shortage a thrill for under-the-counter operations. But some slaughterers are defying government controls for "quickie" profits. That's the consensus of opinion among cattlemen, farmers, packers and government men with whom I talked in the cattle country.

In Washington, Edward P. Morris, assistant director for the Office of Price Stabilization's enforcement agency, says there are "quite a few violations" by slaughterers who are the OPS quota limit on slaughter.

Some of the meat is floating around, he said, "but we know of organized under-the-counter market in beef."

Indications are these illegal sales have not reached a volume to create any alarm.

In Texas, a cattleman said he had been approached by a stranger recently who sounded him out about possible future purchases.

Possible Operation

"I have no doubt he was feeling the situation for a possible black market operation," the cattleman said. "But I wasn't interested and never got around to quoting him."

In Des Moines, OPS Special Agent Gerald Harrington said there was a black market operating in Iowa. Harrington and his men keep a check on unregistered slaughterers throughout the state and have checked tips of black market operations being set up.

He said his office has found only eight or nine deliberate violators of OPS regulations in a state which sends more than 1,000,000 head of cattle to the market each year.

"I can't call these violations a black market," Harrington said in an interview.

In Kansas City, a packer said he was not greatly concerned over possible black market operations which could divert cattle from the supply reaching the legitimate slaughterer.

In Significant Sale

"I just don't believe enough people will pay black market prices for beef to make it worthwhile on any significant scale," he said.

"The black market would have a set perhaps 10 or 20 cents a pound above the market price and that price is high already."

"Also, there's a heavier movement of cattle to the market underway. That's going to ease the beef supply in normal channels and I don't see where the black market would be very profitable on any scale."

People in the cattle business indicated they had more fear of unqualified or dishonest government graders than they do black market operators.

After cattle are slaughtered and the carcass is chilled, government graders put their stamp on the meat which determines its selling price according to grade.

Here's an example of what could happen, according to the packing people:

A buyer for a packing house might purchase a carload of cattle at the ceiling price for choice or second-grade animals.

But after the cattle are slaughtered and their carcasses hung, the government grader might—honestly or dishonestly—raise the grade to prime.

For Top Price

This would mean the packer could sell the beef for the top price rather than the second highest price. Thus he would make more money than his competitor and he would be in a better bidding position on other cattle sales.

This is a theoretical case, of course, but it is one of the worries which go with the government's price controls on beef.

"This grading business scares us to death," one veteran in the packing business said. "I've been in the business 50 years and still don't know it all. Yet the government sends out graders who don't have the experience for the job. It's not something that can be handled by the slide-rule boys."

There is a shortage of experienced government graders. The larger packing houses have government inspectors and graders working in their plants at all times. But not all the little slaughterers have this close regulation by experienced men.

Five Grades Tested

There are five grades of cattle under U. S. standards—prime, choice, U. S. good, commercial and utility. Sometimes the shading between any two is a thin line of judgment which means the difference of several dollars a head on cattle.

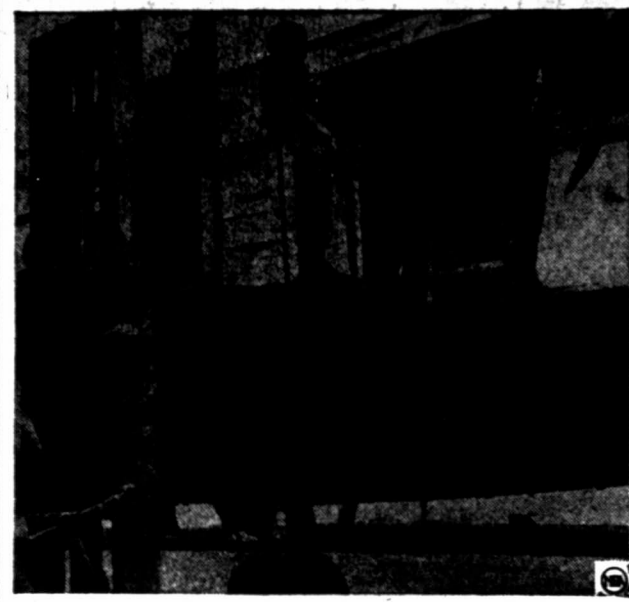

Thus the grading of the beef carcass is an operation in which a tremendous amount of money is involved.

One harassed buyer said: "We've got to buy our merchandise with a cover over it. We don't know what we've got until the cover comes off. That's why I'm grumpy headed."

The packers don't fear the honest, experienced grader. But they shudder when they think what the unqualified or dishonest grader might do to the business.

Always cook vegetables in the shortest time possible in order to conserve nutritive values. Get your family used to the taste and texture of them when they are still tender-crisp rather than over-cooked and limp.

Korean Airlift Sets Some New Records

Junction stop for Korea: In Tokyo, Japanese workers unload a civilian air-freighter, in from California after a Korean airlift flight with ammunition and supplies for the front.

By CAPT. FRANCIS R. WARNER

Written for NEA Service

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif.

This is my third airlift operation, and I like flying freight. It never talks back.

But the cargoes of bazooka rockets, ammunition and bombs I've carried would have made an awful noise if we'd ever missed the runway at Shemya in the Aleutians, which was hidden by fog in the early days of the Korean lift.

When we were alerted for the first flight on the Korean airlift a year ago, I didn't take much stock in the statement that it was a 30-day temporary duty deal. None of the other lifts I'd flown in had been that short. Fact is, I'm still on this one.

Twelve hours after we brought our big DC-4 west to Travis, we were on our way to Kodiak, Alaska. Our plane, the "Singapore Trader," carried 56 Air Force pilots and technicians as its payload. The "Singapore Trader," first into the air in the Korea airlift, had helped support the Berlin airlift two years before. It's still shuttling back and forth between the West Coast and Japan.

Top Operations

In any type of air operation, weather is a prime consideration. When you operate over the Pacific by the Great Circle route via Alaska and the Aleutians, weather is the top priority, triple-A gilled consideration. The weather is never good up there, and is at its worst in July and August.

Before departing Travis, we made a careful study of maps and approach charts on the route that was entirely new to all of us. However, no map or chart will ever show a pilot what we saw in Kodiak at daylight. We had landed after a perfect radar ground control approach on a runway that led right to the base of a 2700-foot mountain, with high hills all around.

The next leg was to Shemya, outermost island of the Aleutians, not too far from the Russian Kamchatka Peninsula. The weather was considered good because we could see the runway. It was two months before I saw the whole of Shemya from the air, although it is not much more than a barren rock sticking up out of the Bering Sea.

You never got down on Shemya without GCA (Ground Controlled Approach), and the operators there deserve little short of canonization. Perfection is a rare thing in any operation, but you'll find it up there in the boys who talk you down while you fly through mist and set the nosewheel right smack on the center line when weather is at absolute minimums.

For Three Months

We flew that Northern route for three months with DC-4 freighters which were equipped to take seats when we had to fly troops or evacuees from Japan stateside. But mostly the loads were B-29 and jet engines, bazooka rockets, small arms ammunition, medical aircraft parts, and whole blood to replace what the boys were giving around Pusan.

Flight crew people are reluctant flag-wavers, but during those urgent three months we waved ours by setting a record of 12,260 pounds per outbound trip on 56 trips, and a record of 113.34 tons per aircraft in use.

Military Air Transport Service shifted us over to the mid-Pacific route at the start of October. Here, for the first time in my experience with any airlift the weather ceased to be a major problem. Instead, the long leg from the coast to the islands and thence to Wake and Tokyo presented the challenge of perfection in navigation so that we might carry the maximum payload possible within the limits of safe and sound gas loads.

In the midst of all this, through exhaustive engineering and flight tests, we have upped the gross take-off weight of our DC-4 airplanes by 1100 pounds, making possible an approximate eight per cent increase in payload. We have achieved fleet utilization as high as 14 hours per day, and established a record of 15,078 pounds on a Pacific flight with a DC-4 airplane.

Once again, airlift has proved itself in emergency MATS.

Senators To Probe Texas Cancer Clinic

DALLAS—(AP)—U. S. Senator Langer (R-ND) Saturday said a Senate committee will investigate the widely-publicized Harry M. Hoxsey cancer treatment.

"If Hoxsey can cure 80 per cent of his cases, then the American public is entitled to that knowledge," Senator Langer said. "If, on the other hand, his clinic can't cure cancer, then the public is entitled to know that, too."

IT'S A STEEL—There's just no reason to have the shapely gal up there except to make you look at the picture. When you do that, you're supposed to notice that she is standing on a sheet of solid steel, supported by a wooden block resting on a sheet of stretched steel. That's supposed, according to the Wheeling, W. Va., manufacturers, to prove that the stretched metal is stronger than the solid. The expanded steel is made by slitting and stretching sheet steel.

OPS Announces Control Exemptions

LUBBOCK—The Office of Price Stabilization has announced the exemption from price control of producers and resellers of certain dimension and building stones, monuments and memorials, and architectural terra cotta.

The exemptions, set forth in Amendment 3 to GOR 9, effective immediately, include the installation of monuments, memorials and architectural terra cotta by producers and resellers, heretofore covered by the services regulation, CPR 34.

Removal of control over these commodities, OPS said, will not affect sales or prices of other commodities through diversion of materials, labor or facilities.

Dimension and building stones include building, ornamental and monumental stones of basalt and related stones, granite, greenstone, limestone, marble, sandstone and slate.

Monuments and memorials include markers, epitaphs, cenotaphs, statues, pillars, tombs, sarcophagi and burial vaults.

Architectural terra cotta includes ceramic facing materials custom made to architects' designs, but not glazed or unglazed structural materials which are not custom made and are usually sold on a unit basis.

Express Agency Asks Surcharge Increase

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Railway Express Agency has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for a quick permit to increase its new surcharge on each package handled from 20 cents to 21 cents.

The company said the one-cent hike, proposed Friday, is needed to help offset a one-cent-an-hour wage increase its employees got July 1, under an escalator clause in their contract.

Senate Panel Okays Boost In Assistance To Aged, Blind, Lame

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee has approved a compromise plan to increase the federal share of old age assistance payments by $3 a month instead of the $5 voted earlier by the Senate.

The plan, approved Friday, would increase federal payments to the states for old age assistance, aid to dependent children, the blind and the totally disabled by about $140,000,000 annually.

Regan Cites Reasons For Voting Against Money-Raising Bill

WASHINGTON—Rep. Ken Regan, 18th District, Midland, has cited his reasons for voting against the largest money-raising bill in this nation's history. The bill, which calls for raising $7.3 billions for national defense and to meet governmental expenses, has passed the House. The Senate will have hearings throughout the summer and it is expected the bill will be on the law books by Fall.

Regan was one of the few Democrats voting against the bill.

Regan worked with the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee to some extent during the time the bill was being developed. He was in favor of keeping the oil depletion allowance of 27 1/2 per cent. Regan particularly was interested in getting the committee to refrain from increasing the tax on automobiles as had been contemplated, and he opposed the tax withholding provisions on Christmas saving funds, bank saving accounts, and dividends of credit unions.

Since the committee met these demands of Regan's, he did not vote for a recommitment of the bill. But he did vote against it on final passage.

"In doing so, I followed closely the statement made by the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Bob Doughton of North Carolina, who, in his opening argument on the tax bill, said frankly it was the worst tax bill ever to be brought forth in peacetime. He said we had three choices—to pass the bill; affect more economy in government; or go into deficit financing. I chose the second alternative and voted against the tax bill. I have supported every effort toward economy in government since I have been here and am in favor of trying to bring about far more economies than have thus far been offered," Regan said.

Carrier Pigeon Falls Asleep After Making 175-Mile Trip Afoot

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—A tired carrier-pigeon came walking into a dove-cote in Copenhagen and fell asleep after having traveled 175 miles on his two feet.

Svend Christensen of Hammel, the pigeon's owner, said the bird had walked the distance in eight weeks. Christensen bought the pigeon in Copenhagen a couple of months ago. He tied its wings with rubber bands to prevent it from returning to its old cote.

But the pigeon disappeared more than eight weeks ago. The owner assumed the cat had taken it until a telephone call from Copenhagen notified him the pigeon was back in the old pigeon-house, its wings still tied with the rubber band.

On Sleek, Lasting Manicure

This young woman (right), out for a gala theater evening, exhibits with pride her jewel-like nails, which she achieved by borrowing professional manicurist's technique. Realizing extra manicure minutes add hours of polish wear, she begins by cleaning nail plates (lower center), takes time for several light coats rather than one heavy one (upper center), and carefully removes finger smears (left).

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Many women, admiring a manicurist's smooth techniques and envying her sleek, long-lasting results, attribute this perfection to a complicated routine beyond the skill of non-professionals.

Actually, her secret's a simple one. She doesn't cut corners. Realizing a hit-or-miss approach can only yield a slap-dash effect, she tackles her task as one worthy of both time and effort.

If you're in the habit of offering excuses for your unlovely fingertips, now's the time to realize such alibis are too thin to hide them. Try, instead, these suggestions for achieving nail beauty.

The first step in your manicure, after cuticles are smoothed and tips carefully shaped, should be the cleaning of your nail plates with lubricant polish remover.

Even if there's no polish to be removed, this is still a necessary precaution in order to clear away oily or soapy residue that may be lingering, unseen, upon your nails. Your polish will adhere better if you take the extra few seconds required for this task.

The application of polish base is another important step. It fills the tiny crevices and dents, leaving you a smooth surface for spreading on polish.

For best results, put your polish on in two thin coats rather than one thick one. Never overload your brush to the point of dripping.

Next apply a clear overcoat, which will help preserve the glossy finish of your nails by protecting the polish from nicks.

This is the final application, but your job is not yet finished. Many women make the mistake of going about their duties once their nails feel dry to the touch. This is often only a surface sealing; underneath, they may be still sticky and unset.

It's a better idea, once the four coats are completed, to busy your mind for a time with conversation or your favorite radio program, allowing your hands to lie completely idle.

These extra minutes for drying—which may occupy more time than you feel is really necessary—will pay dividends in the long-lasting beauty of your nails.

Deer Breed Young and Overpopulate Feeding Grounds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (NEA)—One reason why deer increase their population all out of proportion to the ability of their surroundings to support them has been advanced by the Missouri Conservation Commission.

Following an autopsy on a nine-month-old fawn killed by an automobile, the commission reported she was carrying a 100-day-old embryo, indicating she had bred successfully at an age of about five months.

At two, she likely would have been a grandmother.

Possible Sites For Drive-In Are Studied

CRANE—Two possible sites for a new drive-in movie were being studied here Saturday.

The proposed structure would have facilities for 275 automobiles and cover approximately 10 acres.

Crites said an announcement of building plans would be made later.

Mrs. White Learns To Enjoy Baseball

"I think the biggest thrill of the game," commented Mrs. White smiling, "is watching Hayden hit those home runs." She was greatly impressed when she first saw the fans pushing the money through the fence. "The fans have just been wonderful to us," continued the rightfielder's wife.

Mrs. White really likes Midland and wants to stay here after the baseball season closes.

White. One day Hayden took off from work and went out to a baseball school in Fort Worth where Webb saw him and offered him a job with the Indians.

His brunette wife said both she and all of their friends thought it was taking too great a chance to pull up stakes and join professional baseball. But now Mrs. White says she is glad they did.

The hours in the home of a baseball player differ greatly from those in the average home. "We get up at noon and go to bed about 1 or 2 a.m.," explained Mrs. White. The Whites, who have been married about a year and a half in a small home at 407 North Rio Street. Eddie Melillo, Kenny Jones and their families in the house in front of Melillo and Jones also play the Indians.

When the team leaves for out-of-town games, the "widows" keep each other company. "After 10 p.m. the main topic of conversation is the outcome of game," related Mrs. White.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

market was strong and active at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thursday. Most of cattle sold 50-cents to $1.00 higher than the week before. Consignments were light, but 285 head sold included several groups of good stocker cattle. Ward, Winkler, Ector and Rio Counties.

Calves and yearlings drew $32.15, mediums $26 to $32. Fat brought $23 to $26.50. Fat steers $19 to $23, canners and cut-115 to $19. Bulls auctioned for $28.50 and one choice 1,000 d Hereford owned by George Ley of Grandfalls went to $30.75. Steer calves cleared at $37.50 and heifers drew the same price. One package of 420-pound white faced heifer consigned by Mrs. E. Dryden of Monahans sold for $10. Cows and calves cashed for $2.60 with the higher price to Kenneth Smith of Marfa. Package of good quality young with baby calves at side.

Sometimes one can get a loud "bleat" out of ranchers even when the weather is the driest and the "new waitress" in a downtown shop was responsible for an outburst of laughter the afternoon. It happened this way.

Proctor and Leonard Proctor, who operate extensive ranch properties in the Midland territory, and who were drinking coffee and being the dry weather, when conversation somehow got around the newspaper shortage, advertising by mail and the tremendous amount of "box holder" advertising which is discarded daily, a waitress, who previously had no interest in the conversation, whirled suddenly and asked: "Are all three of you mail carriers?"

The question caught the two ranchers and this livestock columnist by surprise, and there was a silence for a few seconds. Then a laughing started, and Proctor finally admitted he is a mail carrier—trying Reporter-Telegrams and all to his ranch two or three times a week.

Questions concerning straps and all routes still may bring grins something from the two ranchers.

Let's get that mail delivered, boys. Proctor, now that he has expanded his ranch holdings by purchasing the Hitt ranch in South Midland County, still might say that bull from George W. Glass if he could find Glass.

San Angelo's annual Rambouillet Ram Show and Sale will get underway for three days, Monday, with one of the largest consignments in its eleven-year history.

More than 500 Rambouillet rams consigned by 39 breeders from Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming and New York will contest for $340 in prize money and 13 ribbons. All sheep consigned in the show will be sold through the auction ring July 11 at the San Angelo Fairgrounds.

John Williams, Rambouillet breeder from Eldorado, is general chairman for the breeders' show. Leo Richardson, Iraan Rambouillet breeder, will be the judge, and Walter Britton, College Station, will auction the consignment through the ring.

Ringside auctioneering will offer four classes of Rambouillets: two-tooth single stud rams, four-tooth single stud rams, two-tooth pens of five, and two-tooth pens of ten.

What West Texas chambers of commerce are doing or can do to create more dollars for their towns and the cotton growers of their trade territories by assisting with a sound cotton insect control program, was outlined by George Logan, manager of the Agriculture and Livestock Department of the WTCC, in a project and activity report to chamber managers of the area.

In cooperation with the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers Association, the Statewide Cotton Committee, Logan stressed the insect control phase of the seven-step cotton program, pointing out that cotton farmers and agricultural agency representatives of each community have the know-how; that local chambers can help by arranging meetings, handling publicity and necessary correspondence. In this connection, special cotton insect control editions for newspapers have been used successfully.

Of prime importance to cotton growers, it was pointed out, were insect recognition instruction, latest information on new insecticides, application methods including preventive control, as well as late application and credit needs of the grower who carries on a complete insect control program.

W. L. Jones, manager of the Farm & Ranch Department of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed manager of the 1962 San Antonio Livestock Exposition and Rodeo.

The appointment, announced by stock show president, E. W. Bickert, will fill the vacancy caused when last year's manager, James F. Grote, was recalled to active military duty.

According to Bickert, Jones will continue in his present position and also serve as stock show manager until Grote returns from service.

Vernon Frost, Houston oilman and cattleman, has been elected president of the Houston Farm and Ranch Club, succeeding Ralph Johnston.

The election was held at the club's annual meeting on the campus of the University of Houston.

Weldon Mason of Meadow, state president of the Texas Association of Future Farmers of America, has announced final details for the 1961 state convention, July 11-13, have been completed.

Scheduled to be held in Houston's Shamrock Hotel the convention will be highlighted by a state and tri-state public speaking contest. Winners of the state contest will enter competition with winners from Louisiana and Oklahoma. Each of the 12 areas in the state will be represented in the area-elimination contest.

R. C. Kuldell, general convention chairman, and Ralph Johnston, chairman of the awards committee, EVIL FOR WEEVILS—Astride his converted tractor, E. E. Perry, of Henderson, Tex., demonstrates his "dream" invention that he says will exterminate boll weevils. Perry, a 30-acre tenant farmer, says the idea for the complicated machine (circled in photo) came to him in a dream. The tank is filled with an insecticide made to his own formula. This flows down through twin tunnels past the tractor's hot exhaust pipes. The heat vaporizes the liquid which is then sprayed through nozzles onto the rows of cotton.

announced that cash awards also will be presented to the star Lone Star Farmer, Texas Star American Farmer, state champion dairy products judging team, dairy cattle judging team, state poultry judging team, meat judging team, livestock judging team, the best state officer, and boys have done outstanding jobs of farm electrification, dairy farming, farm mechanics, soil and water management, and farm safety.

To back up the president's call for the adoption of safe practices during National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28, the National Safety Council lists 10 farm safety practices that will help reduce the farm accident toll if they are adopted and followed:

1. Keep Machines in Good Repair: Keep all guards and safety devices in place. Stop machines before unclogging, oiling or adjusting them. Don't wear floppy clothes around machines.
2. Operate Tractors Safely: Start tractors smoothly; turn corners slowly. Avoid ditch banks and soft ground. Always hitch to the drawbar.
3. Use The Right Tools For The Job: Make sure your tools are in a good safe condition. Keep them in a safe place.
4. Watch Your Step To Prevent Falls: Keep ladders and steps in good repair, with no loose rungs. Make sure they are easily accessible in case of emergency.
5. Speak To Animals When Approaching Them: Keep them calm by acting with calm self assurance. Keep bulls in a safe bull pen.
6. Know And Obey All Traffic Laws: Follow safe driving practices. Read and heed all traffic signs.

Sand Photos Made By Camera Club

MONAHANS — "Photographic Studies of Sand" was the topic discussed at a meeting of the Monahans Camera Club last week.

Pictures made by members at a recent club picnic were analyzed and compared with other sand-scene photographs by members.

Students Jean Young and Pauline posed for photographs made at the picnic.

Membership in the club is open to anyone interested in photography, and meetings are held bi-monthly on the first and third Thursdays at 8 p.m. in the club room at the Pinkerton Studio.

For generations the Russians have been known to Manchurians as "the big noses."

Eight Rugged Weeks At Pendleton Provide Replacements An Advance Taste Of Korea

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. — (NEA)—"We'd rather have a man cave in here under the training than cave in after he gets into combat in Korea where a lot of other lives might be lost because of it."

That's the statement of policy by Brig. Gen. Merrill B. Twining who is running the toughest routine training program ever given to any U. S. Marines. As boss of the Marine Corps Training and Replacement Command it is his job to do everything humanly possible beforehand to prepare men for the terror of Korea.

"A lot of mothers don't like what we do to their sons here, and a lot of congressmen don't like what happens to their constituents here, either," he says. "But we don't run this for them or care what they say. All we want is the men we send to Korea to be satisfied with what we did to them here. And from every report we get, they are," he claims.

When a reservist, or boy just out of eight weeks of boot camp, gets orders to Pendleton he's sure of one thing: Eight weeks after reporting here he'll be on his way to Korea. For eight weeks of the toughest, roughest and probably the most thorough pre-combat training any man has ever received he's not permitted to forget Korea for one waking moment.

World's Largest Pendleton's 125,000 acres, largest Marine base in the world, is ideal for the training because it's probably the closest terrain in America to the type you find in

Even the veterans have to learn: At Camp Pendleton, three Marine Corps veterans of World War II put on a dress-rehearsal of concealment tactics learned in Korea. Left to right: Cpl. E. S. Anyon, Jr., St. Louis; Sgt. A. E. Williams, Pine Bluff, Ark., and Cpl. J. H. Edwards, Monett, Mo.

Korea. Located on the coast below Los Angeles, the huge reservation provides mountains, beaches, plains, hills, swamps and just about any other land feature needed for rugged training purposes.

"The first day they arrive we start 'em running up the hills and mountains," an instructor explains. "When they've had just about all they can take we let 'em rest or sleep for a few hours. Then we get 'em up and run 'em some more, just like they'll have to do in Korea. It isn't easy at first. But they soon get tough enough to take it," he explains.

The first six weeks the program is concentrated on putting into the man that unique quality of individual fitness, morale and esprit de corps of Marines.

There are grueling hours on the firing ranges which simulate every combat condition of Korea except enemy fire. Tortuous hours are devoted to racing over the most fiendish obstacle courses ever created. Every judo trick ever devised is taught to the men, and practiced with bone-crushing enthusiasm.

Simulate Enemy There are ingenious winding mountain courses, rigged with dummies simulating enemy soldiers at intervals and partially hidden. The trainee is put through it, shooting with live ammunition every time he spots a dummy. An instructor follows him. Every time he misses a dummy, doesn't see it soon enough or doesn't keep low enough the instructor coldly reminds him, "Do that in Korea, Buddy, and you're a dead duck."

The night problems and marches are the roughest, according to the men. It's hours of running, climbing, crawling through tangled underbrush, through rivers, up rocky cliffs and across snake-infested fields.

When the weather was a little colder, the men spent three days in the snow in high mountains on the reservation, marching, maneuvering, firing and just surviving. Instead, now, it's an extra tough couple of night problems in the high mountains.

At the end of six weeks, a man is about as tough, fit, and qualified in the use of his weapons as he can be. It's such an arduous, concentrated program, if a man happens to miss four days of it he's dropped out and must repeat. The last two weeks the men are assigned to a "replacement draft." Their sailing date is set and there's no escaping it.

Then they begin a new phase of training, even more rigid and demanding than the first six weeks. This teaches them how to fight with bigger units, platoons, companies and battalions. Each man at this stage is already qualified as a leader of the basic Marine Corps unit, the four-man fire team.

The last four days they get the equivalent of a final exam. It's a night and day field problem which is just about as tough a grind as the instructors can conceive. Everything they've learned in seven rough weeks is tested in these four days. They're constantly harassed by simulated enemy troops who by now become as wily as Indians in devising nerve-racking tricks. It's the closest thing to an actual combat problem in Korea that can be dreamed up.

And in those final days of training, as the sailing date gets closer, what do these Marines think about their future? Take George H. Boudousque, 22, married with one son, from New Orleans, La., a strapping man called in from the reserves. "I'd be kidding to say I wasn't dreading it. But I feel I'm as well trained as I can be. They tell you there's only so much you can learn outside of actual combat."

Then take tall, slim, scholarly-looking Donald L. Grimes, 24, from Little Falls, Minn. He left his second year of law school to enlist. "I'm ready. That's what I enlisted for. Believe it or not I don't think they were really too tough on us here. But I think I'm as fit as they can get me. And the thought of combat really doesn't scare me."

IN KOREA—Cpl. L. N. (Jimmy) Coker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Coker, 106 Ridglea Drive, who enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps in October, 1949, has been in Korea since September 15. He landed during the Inchon invasion and is an assistant ammunition technician.

USMC Mail Clerk Always Gets Man

Cpl. Jimmie Weldon Parks, who is now in Korea and whose wife, Mrs. Mary Parks, lives at 304 South Pecos Street, is amazed at the performance of Marine mail clerks around the world.

Mrs. Parks, who took it for granted that her husband was known to all the Marines, sent six letters to her husband last December. She addressed them simply to "Jimmy Weldon," along with his service address.

Recently, on the east-central front in Korea, the letters showed up in the hands of Sgt. Clayton Ward, battalion mail orderly. Postmarks on the letters indicated they had been to many Marine posts, and stations around the world.

Sergeant Ward asked Corporal Parks if he knew a "Jimmy Weldon." Puzzled, Corporal Parks looked at the letters and recognized his wife's handwriting.

"What a postal service," he exclaimed. "They're like the Mounties. They always get their man."

In civilian life, Corporal Parks is a Texas highway patrolman.

Cadet Walter R. Lumpkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lumpkin, 1401 West Holloway Street, a junior at Texas A&M, is one of 781 cadets now attending the 1961 Ordnance Reserve Officers Training Corps Summer camp at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, for the field training course ending July 27.

He will graduate from Texas A&M College in June, 1962, at which time he will be eligible for a reserve commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Ordnance Corps Reserve.

Cadet J. Camden Chancellor, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chancellor, 1710 West Missouri Street, a student at the University of Texas, is one of more than 1,500 cadets from 37 colleges and universities attending the 1961 Reserve Officers Training Corps Summer camp at Fort Eustis, Va., during the period June 18 to July 27.

Cecil J. Montgomery, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Montgomery of Midland, has been advanced to electrician's mate, third class, while serving aboard the submarine USS Sea Leopard with the Atlantic Fleet.

In this rating, Montgomery will operate, maintain and repair electrical equipment aboard the submarine.

Edward A. Gross, 210 South Big Spring, has advanced to chief radio-man at the Fleet Training Group and Underway Training Element at San Diego, Calif.

Gross has been assigned to the Group Communication Division of the group. He first enlisted in the Navy in June, 1941.

Charles O. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Williams, 1211 Camp Street, has been promoted to the grade of sergeant in Japan. He is squad leader in Company B, 224th Infantry Regiment, which

Continental Marks Seventeen Years Of Air Transportation

DENVER, COLO.—July 15 marks the seventeenth anniversary of service to the public in the Southwest and Rocky Mountain areas by Continental Air Lines and its predecessor company, Varney Speed Lines. It has been announced by Robert F. Six, president.

Throughout the years since its beginning, Continental Air Lines has experienced a perfect safety record and as of July 15, 1961, approximately 1,375,000 passengers will have been flown half a billion passenger miles. Continental is proud of its dependability as well as its safety record. At the end of 1960, Continental again led the nation's domestic scheduled airlines when it completed 99.57 per cent of its scheduled miles.

Robert F. Six

Continental Air Lines - at the threshold of its eighteenth year of air service - stands out in bold relief in comparison with Varney Speed Lines (Southwest) division, which obtained a U. S. mail contract and began operations between Pueblo and El Paso, a 541-mile route July 15, 1934.

This was the beginning of the Continental Air Lines "Blue Skyway" system of today, which serves a 3,000-mile route through 34 cities in six states.

On July 1, 1937, the name Continental Air Lines was adopted and Robert F. Six became executive vice president. Early in 1938, Six became president and under the Continental banner the company immediately launched an aggressive expansion program.

The Regimental Review, a Pine Camp publication, made the following report of the situation:

"The 25-year-old Texan spent last Friday night in the field.

"He was told when he returned to the company area that he would report for the judging in 20 minutes—minus the mud, dirt and beard he was wearing at the time.

A soldier in the real sense of the word, Sergeant Parrott seemed amazed when asked what he had to do to get ready. Apparently, the idea that anyone could have his boots or brass short of perfection at any time had never occurred to him and he answered "I have to shave."

"Appearing first before the regimental commander and then before the post commander, Sergeant Parrott literally outshone all competition."

Much needed hospital equipment has been donated to Midland Memorial Hospital through a memorial fund set up by the Midland Service League 20 months ago.

Two incubators of latest design and model and a bronchroscope have been purchased for the hospital through the league's memorial fund.

Mrs. Tom Sealy, publicity chairman for the league, said the incubators cost $400 each and the bronchroscope approximately $135.

Next project for the league is to provide additional attachments for the bronchroscope. Mrs. Sealy said the two incubators have been in constant use at the hospital since their donation.

The first incubator was donated in January, 1960, as the initial project made possible through the memorial fund. The second incubator was purchased in May, 1960, and a year later the bronchroscope was added to the gifts.

Established in 1949

The memorial fund was established Oct. 19, 1949, so persons desiring to make contributions as lasting tributes to friends or loved ones may do so through a central agency.

Names of donors as well as those of persons memorialized will be kept as a permanent record. Personal cards of recognition and appreciation will be handled by the league.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund through the league may do so by contacting Mrs. Lynn Durham at 4-6243.

Mrs. Sealy said the league wants to continue presenting equipment to the hospital as funds are made available. Selection of equipment will be based on needs of the hospital, she said.

Contributions to the memorial fund have been received regularly since the project was established.

WICHITA FALLS — It's getting so a gal can't ventilate around here any more.

No more shorts in public, decrees Sheriff Hammett Vance.

And he's got a city ordinance that forbids the public exhibition of too much anatomy backing him up.

Plus endorsement from a lot of the citizenry. The sheriff's office has been swamped with approving comment.

Except one woman, who asked what should she wear? Leggings and a veil?

"We" are serious about this," Sheriff Vance declared. "This is a clean, moral city and we are going to keep it that way."

It all started last week when the sheriff got riled about a couple of slick car hops diverting soldiers with their short shorts. These particular chicks had been in the coop before, the sheriff explained.

VFW Units Entertain Patients In Hospital

Patients of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Big Spring were entertained recently for the tenth month by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, VFW Auxiliary and the Military Order of the Cootie.

Jimmie Furman and his band held a band session and Jimmie Thomas gave a magic show to round out the program. Cigarettes were presented to the patients.

Ewe Puts Owner In Breeding Business

EL PASO — A four-year-old Hampshire ewe, named Chubby, has put her young owner into the sheep-breeding business.

Donald Leslie, El Paso County club boy, reports Chubby has brought him eight lambs in three years. Her first offspring were twin lambs and the last two years she has come up with triplets.

Donald is using this high production stock as a foundation for a sheep flock. He plans to work on multiple birth with the flock.

The young club boy also has three Southdown ewes received in a project program and has purchased two Rambouillet ewes and one Rambouillet ram.

Rearmament Has European Leaders In Crucial Dilemma

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Staff Writer
(First of a series)

WASHINGTON — Every responsible Western leader believes the only hope of preventing war with Russia is to make the West so strong Stalin will fear to move.

These leaders are agreed that reararmament is the vital ingredient in that strength. No military divisions on paper, no mere potential of industrial capacity are deemed likely to exert a critical impact upon Stalin.

That the United States and the nations of Western Europe must share the burdens of reararmament is accepted by all sober statesmen of the free world. But beyond this basic accord there lies a crucial dilemma which threatens the whole structure of common Western action. Expressed simply it is this:

How can European nations reararm without so damaging their civilian economies that they are laid open to the kind of Communist attack from within that we are trying to prevent from without?

One need not apologize for any foot-dragging on Europe's part to recognize the reality of this danger. In public and private statement, the ablest Americans and Europeans associated with Western defense declared this to be the very core of the matter.

No Minor Affair

In America, reararmament certainly is no minor affair. It cannot be absorbed without the pain of economic dislocation—inflation, curtailment of civilian goods, shortages of men and materials.

But the prospect for Europe is far grimmer. The countries of Europe do not have America's abundance of resources. They suffered vastly greater ravages in World War II. Only recently, thanks largely to the Marshall Plan, have they begun to enjoy again some genuine sense of economic well-being.

What this means is that the margin of safety is much narrower in Europe than America. Reararmament anywhere means squeezing the civilian economy. But in the nations of Europe there is little room for squeezing.

The British still live under rationing. Other Western Europeans remember too vividly the pallid existence they so recently endured. Even today, their life is no economic paradise. For all these people, it is but a short step down to a condition that stirs within them feelings of despair.

Europe's leaders well understand this. And so it is that they fear too abrupt and too heavy reararmament. They foresee popular uprisings that might undermine Europe's shaky governments and clear the way for communism.

Rearmament Pressures

Premier De Gasperi of Italy blames the pressures of reararmament for the recent Red gains there at the polls. W. R. Herod, American boss of North Atlantic Treaty production, told newsmen at Lisbon not long ago that European statesmen are sincerely concerned over the possibility of popular "disaffection" following upon reararmament. A high American official in Paris acknowledged that this threat is uppermost in the minds of key Western men from General Eisenhower on down.

None of these leaders concludes that reararmament is therefore impossible or unlikely in Europe. But virtually all do believe that extraordinary and highly imaginative effort is necessary to the attainment of reararmament goals.

Have the men of the free world the sanity, the intelligence, and courage and emotional stability to keep Europe on delicate balance and avoid these pitfalls? Very soon will begin to learn the answer.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Most Texas Legislators In U. S. Capital Believe War Not In Vain

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Most Texas members of Congress feel that the loss of American lives in Korea has not been in vain.

Without exception, those voicing views look on the Korean conflict as a symbol of the determination of free nations to resist aggression.

Among those expressing this view were the two Texans most qualified to talk on the subject—Chairman Tom Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Rep. Omar Burleson, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The veteran Texas senator, a key figure in foreign policy formation for more than a decade, had this to say about the intervention of the United Nations after the North Koreans launched their attack across the 38th parallel:

"If it had not been resisted by the free nations of the world, aggression would have been practised in many other countries unable to resist."

"The action of the United States was not one of selfishness. We acted not alone for ourselves, but for all nations that might become victims of aggression."

Deep Impression
"Our resistance in Korea has made a deep impression on the entire world. It served notice on aggressors that they can not plunder and conquer free nations without suffering penalties for their total disregard for freedom and humanity."

"Our enterprise in Korea has been a success. It was a stroke of freedom against tyranny and misuse. The God of Nations gave us success."

Texas House members, asked their views when the Korean truce rumors first reached the Capitol, replied similarly.

"To think of Korea in terms of losses and expenditures," commented Burleson, "it's hard to find a silver lining."

"But, looking at it from a global standpoint, and trying to see what may be the ultimate good, several things are apparent."

"There is no question but what it has weakened the Chinese Communists. The peace-loving people there may be able to overthrow their aggressors. There is no question as to the unrest in China."

Fall To Advance
"The Chinese Communists have failed to advance or even hold their own ground in South China. According to our military authorities, they will have to build their army again from the ground up before they can attack Burma or Indo-China. At the time of the Korean outbreak they were definitely a threat to those nations and others in that part of the world where we get strategic materials."

Burleson emphasized there were other aspects than the purely military setbacks suffered by the Communists.

of balancing our output with our income. I am in favor of trimming down on domestic items, even if it hurts, and if there is any left, apply it to reducing the national debt."

Rep. Olin Teague of College Station said the Korean war has provided a lesson to Communists that will serve as a deterrent to their aggressive tendencies.

"We had to have a Korea somewhere in the world," Teague said. "I think we've taught the international gangsters that we will fight for world peace."

"If we're going to have world peace, we've got to remain strong and let such mobsters know that any time they want to destroy peace, they've got a fight on their hands."

Wage Increases In South Fewer

ATLANTA, GA. —(AP)—Wage increases are fewer these days for workers in the South.

Announcing this, the Labor Department blames the administration's wage stabilization program.

Brunswick A. Bagdon, Southern regional director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said only 165 wage increase actions affecting about 230,000 workers were recorded in May.

This is the lowest number of wage increases reported in any month since the summer of 1950. Most of the wage boosts came in the textile, construction, transportation, communication and local and state government fields.

More than half the people of Ecuador are of Indian descent.

PECOS RODEO PARADE ENTRY—Horace Fry of Winters drove this old-fashioned landau, equipped with rubber tires and glass windows, in the parade which opened the recent "West of the Pecos" Rodeo at Pecos. The vehicle, owned by the Lazy-N Stables of Winters, is 60 years old. Perched beside the driver is Carol Jayroye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Jayroye of Pecos.

The National Geographic Society says large-scale diamond mining was not known until discovery of diamonds in South Africa.

Millions of barrels of oil are being conserved every day in the oil industry by stopping waste from evaporation and fire.

More cooked dry beans are canned than any of the so-called seasonal vegetables, such as peas, corn and tomatoes.

GRAND CENTRAL STATION

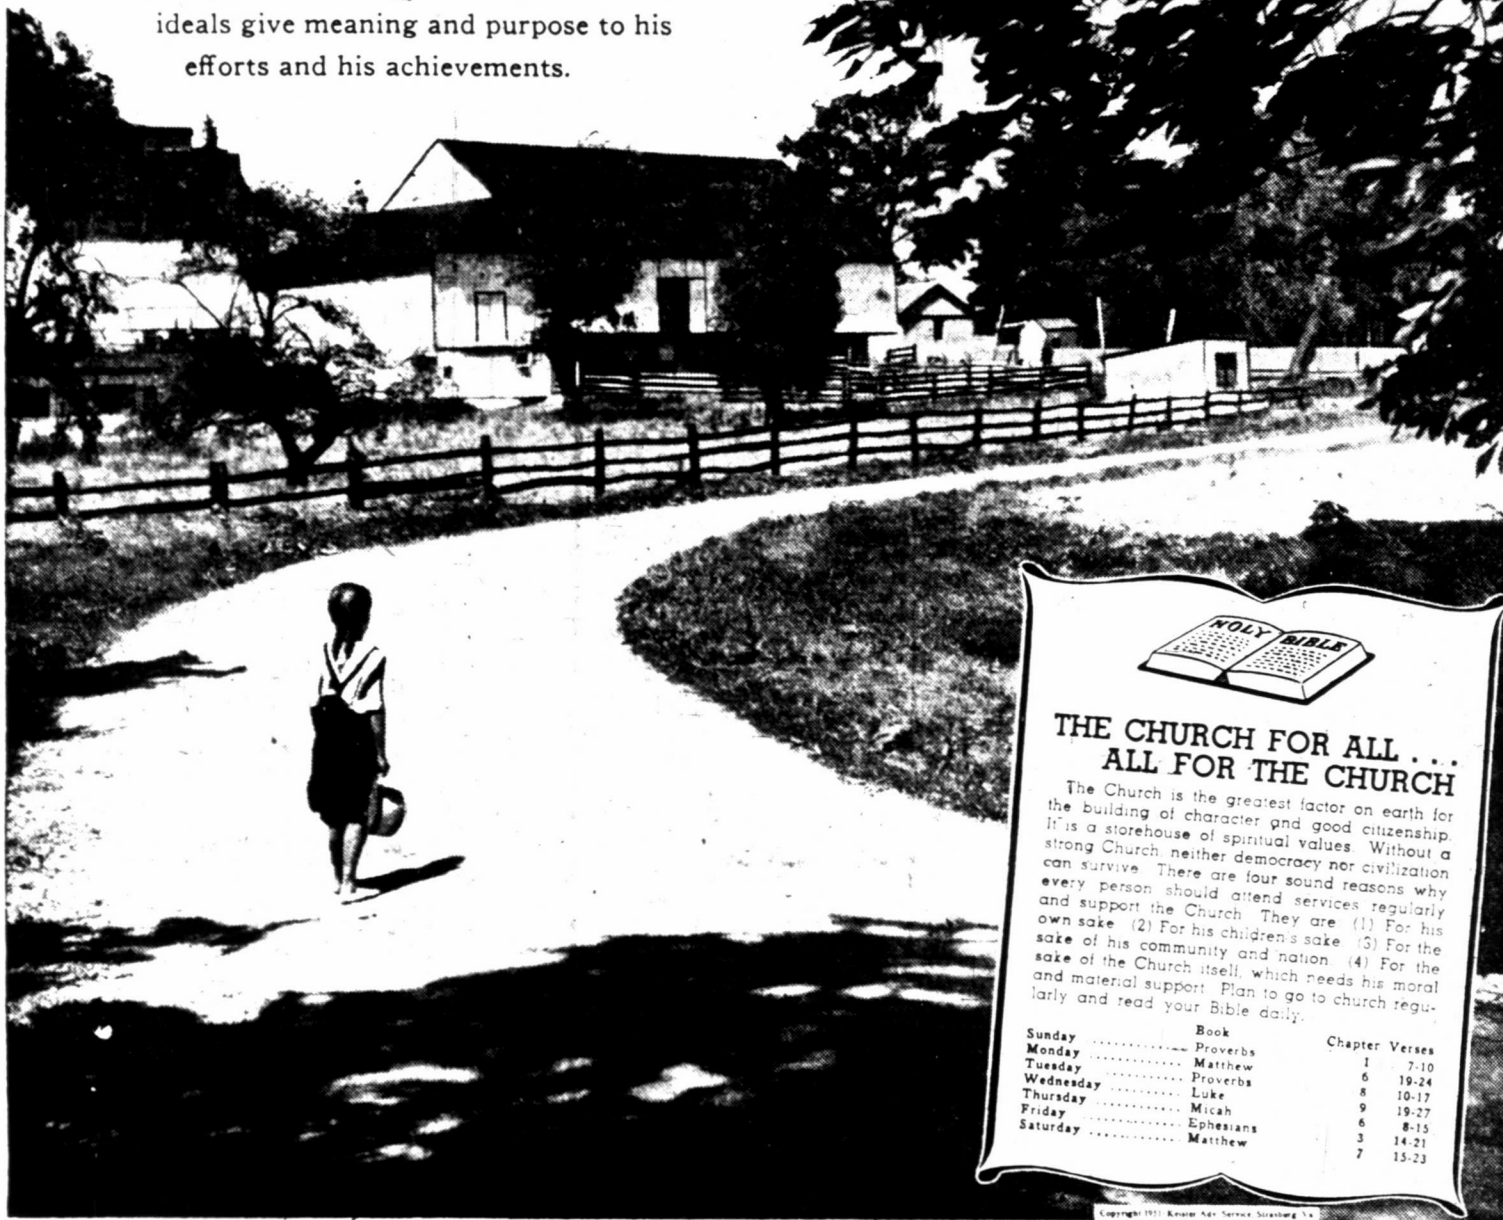

...at the turn of the lane

Lars Olsen has often said, "Those New York folks could get along without Grand Central Station before Lars Olsen could get along without his barn!"

And Lars really has a point. For his barn is the throbbing pulse of the Olsen farm. Day by day, out of it and into it move his livestock, his equipment, and the fruits of his labor. It is the hub of his own world of industry and commerce.

But Lars has also remarked, "We Olsens could get along without our barn before we could get along without our church!"

And Lars is serious! He has learned that a man's religion is the power in his life, that Christian habits and ideals give meaning and purpose to his efforts and his achievements.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

House Is Easy To Keep Cool By Following Simple Rules

The secret of maintaining a cool home is to keep hot air outside and to generate as little heat as possible inside the house. This will mean cool, comfortable nights and greater daytime comfort.

- Here are some of the rules:
1. Keep windows closed when hot winds are blowing.
 2. Draw the shades on the sunny side of the house.
 3. Replace heavy draperies with materials having a large open-mesh weave.
 4. Use light-colored linen or cretonne slip-covers on upholstered furniture.
 5. Use light colors for walls and floors, including smooth, cool Kente flooring.
 6. Ventilate the attic throughout the day and night, either with an exhaust fan or by opening windows in opposite gables.
 7. Open all doors and windows as soon as the sun sets and place two or three electric fans in windows in various rooms, blowing inward, to draw in cool night air quickly.

8. Replace high wattage electric bulbs with lamps of less intensity and use electric lights sparingly.
9. Avoid top-of-stove cooking as much as possible and use the insulated oven for preparing hot meals.
10. Keep the kitchen-diningroom door closed while cooking, and open kitchen windows wide, to expel heat rapidly.

Orderly Plan Will Simplify Modernization

American home-owners have become acutely aware of the need for remodeling, says the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information. Indication of the trend is seen in latest figures available from the U. S. Bureau of Labor-Statistics which show that during January, 1951, a total of $96,227,000 was spent for additions, alterations and repairs to non-farm dwellings. This was a 46 per cent increase over the $65,917,000 spent in January, 1950.

It is rare that a home-owner can carry out all of the renovation he desires at one time. Therefore, the best method of turning an old house into virtually a new one is to map out a systematic plan to do the work in easy, inexpensive stages over a period of three or four years.

Kitchen Improvement

The kitchen usually is the place to start. Rearrangement of equipment to save steps, addition of modern wall and floor cabinets with colorful plastic work surfaces, and perhaps replacement of the old-fashioned sink, range or refrigerator, plus liberal application of color to walls and floor is financed easily and makes a tremendous improvement.

Another individual project is complete insulation of the house. If the walls are blown full of mineral wool and a four-inch layer of this material is placed between roof and living quarters, approximately one-third of the fuel will be saved, according to the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

New colored fixtures and a colored floor of plastic material in the bathroom will cost well under $1,000 and yet add much more than that amount to the resale value of the house, to say nothing of the satisfaction of living with modern equipment that accrues to the homeowner's family.

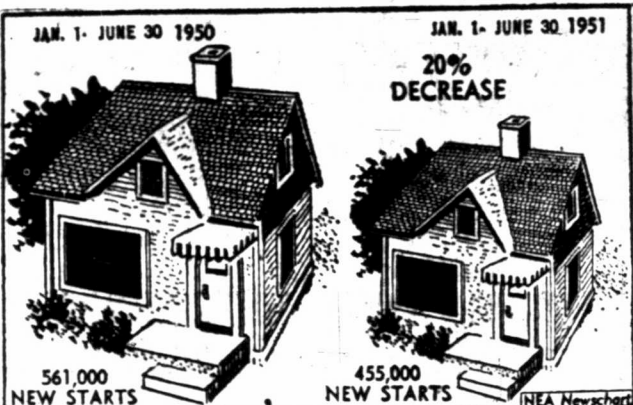

Yet another project that will work a wondrous change on the interior of any house more than 15 years old is elimination of ornate wood trim and moldings, replacement of old-fashioned paneled doors with the modern flush-type, installation of narrow baseboards and window and door casings, and perhaps the installation of floor-to-ceiling built-in bookshelves.

They Cross Stream For Soft Drinks Now

WILLIAMSON, W. VA. —P— For years the people of Pike County, Ky., which is dry, have been crossing the Tug River to buy their whiskey.

Nowadays, they're meeting their West Virginia neighbors on the way to buy soda pop.

The folks in Williamson started their river crossings recently to dodge West Virginia's new penny-a-bottle soft drink tax.

HOUSING BOOM SLUMPS—Anti-inflation credit curbs and a shortage of mortgage money have teamed up to slow down the long-developing boom in new homes, as shown on Newschart above. There is less mortgage money available because lenders made huge commitments to finance the record home-buying of 1950 and early 1951. So the building pace is expected to fall off at an even more rapid rate during the remainder of 1951.

'Sky Platforms' Developed From Rockets May Provide Future Defense In 15 Years

BALTIMORE —(NEA)— Fifteen years from now, if an enemy makes a sneak attack against this country, retaliation could land in his front yard in less than an hour.

This quick answering blow would be possible through earth satellites with warheads, speeding around the world at 17,000 miles-plus-per-hour and controlled from the ground by radio.

The realism of earth satellites within the 15-year period is possible only if a concerted program of development is carried out.

These predictions are based on the findings of scientists who have been experimenting with rockets and rocket propulsion for a number of years, and experiences with the U. S. Navy's Martin Viking rocket, the most successful high-altitude rocket yet built in this country.

Counteracts Gravity
The Viking has already attained a speed of 4,000 miles per hour. Slightly more than four times this speed will be sufficient to establish the rocket in an orbit around the earth with enough velocity to counteract the gravitational pull of the earth—and the rocket becomes a satellite. This is exactly the same principle that keeps the moon in its much larger orbit, preventing it from falling to the earth under the pull of gravity.

Peacetime as well as war potentials are envisioned for these man-made "platforms" speeding around the earth almost 400 miles up. Rocket men would naturally get a great deal of satisfaction just for the mere accomplishment of making a satellite.

But such a feat would, for instance, serve as a television relay station, entirely eliminating the need for coaxial cables or microwave relay stations. A single platform could relay a TV program to one-half of the world at a time. Similarly, a satellite could be on

Ship Takes Off On Adventurous Voyage

VANCOUVER —(AP)— The incurable romantics who gaze on Vancouver's waterfront have just seen one family's dream coming true. Quietly and without fanfare, a little sailing ship put out to sea on an adventurous voyage recently.

On board the Wind Song were a man and wife and their wide-eyed child. The trip they had planned for six years finally was a reality. Skipper of the vessel was Allen Farrell, 39-year-old artist, and his crew consisted of his wife and eight-year-old son Kerry. For Farrell, the voyage was the start of a vagabond adventure he had planned years ago. The Wind Song is schooner-rigged, built by the Farrells out of the best and stoutest materials.

On the first leg of their voyage the Farrells are heading for the Hawaiian Islands and the port of Hilo, 2,400 miles distant. They plan to earn their way from island to island by selling the skipper's paintings and stories, or doing odd jobs.

Commies Really Stick To The Law

HONG KONG —(AP)— In Communist China all people are equal—only women are more equal than others.

That seems to be the explanation of a recent Peking directive ordering "all institutions throughout China" to strike off their books "any regulation" preventing pregnant women from entering into service or training.

The new directive, says an official Red news agency dispatch, "is in complete union with Article 6 of the Common Program 'Women shall enjoy equal rights with men in political, economic, cultural, educational, and social life.'"

One species of brittle star, an inhabitant of the ocean bottoms, can discard all of its body except stomach, mouth and five arm roots when disturbed.

Garage Solves Space Trouble

No house ever has enough space after a family lives in it a few years. This especially applies to hundreds of thousands of small dwellings erected since World War II.

To ease the space problem, the garage can serve double-duty purposes. It can be used as a teenage recreation area, family hobby-room or workshop, by finishing the interior attractively. The family car can be parked outside while the garage is used for these activities.

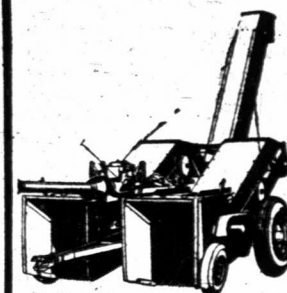

To provide a dry, clean, comfortable floor, the concrete should be covered with Kente asphalt tile. Alkali and moisture in concrete have no effect on this material and the car cannot hurt it. Its wide range of colors will help create a gay, attractive interior. A shuffleboard or other game court can be inset right into the Kente as a permanent part of the floor design.

The garage walls and ceiling should be finished with building board, painted to harmonize with the floor color. A four-tube fluorescent ceiling light will provide good illumination.

Through the ages, the diamond has been the symbol of constancy and purity says the National Geographic Society.

Venture Costs Seven Sheep Their Hides

SKOPLJE, YUGOSLAVIA —(AP)—It's worth your hide to venture across the border from Yugoslavia into Bulgaria these days. Thirteen sheep found that out recently. They decided the grass grew greener on the other side of the border, and crossed over.

The invasion didn't catch the Bulgarian guards napping. In precise military fashion, they began an encircling movement and then opened fire. Seven sheep became lamb chop luxuries for the guardsmen's mess. Six scared but unscathed survivors hotfooted it for home.

The early Greeks believed cabbage could keep a person sober.

Crop Is Switched After 99 Years

IOWA CITY, IOWA —(AP)—Many Iowa communities and even farmsteads are celebrating centennials this year but there'll be none at the Joseph F. Buschmayer Farm near here.

For 99 successive years, the farm has harvested good crops of corn for the Buschmayer family. This year the place was seeded to clover, timothy and alfalfa—no corn.

The reason is that Karl Joseph Buschmayer, 22, son of the owner, was called to Army service. Without his son's aid, the elder Buschmayer passed up planting his customary crop.

The ancients believed cabbage had medicinal properties.

Ingenuity Can Overcome High Cost Of Materials

By MR. FIX

Distributed by NEA Service
A lot of people who like to putter around the house, adding new shelves, gadgets and other comforts of living are finding the cost of material is getting out of hand.

There are two ways to meet this problem. You sit back and let things go until prices come down again, or you can do a pretty good job of building some of the things you want for practically nothing.

Installment Plan Of Landscaping Is Aid To Limited Budgets

You can "grow" a picture in your window on the installment plan. As a matter of fact, says one of the nation's foremost landscape architects, that's the average homeowner's solution to the problem of landscaping on a limited budget.

"The important factor in doing it little by little is that you have a final plan before any work at all is started," said Mary Deputy Lamson, landscape consultant in Liberty-Owens-Ford Glass Company's new program to help homeowners enhance their property through proper landscaping.

The problem of landscaping to create an attractive picture becomes additionally important, she said, in view of the modern trend toward homes with larger window areas and floor-to-ceiling window walls which blend the outdoors with indoor living and provide a pleasant year round picture of nature's ever changing scene.

Typical Plot Plans
Mrs. Lamson, who prepared a series of typical plot plans on "How to Put a Picture in Your Picture Window," explained that such a landscaping plan should represent what the place is to look like 10 years from the time it is started, or five years, or however long the owner thinks he must take to execute it.

"Most people do their grounds on a five-year plan nowadays," she explained. "But do one part of the work at a time as the budget allows, so that each year is exciting and none is overwhelming in cost."

"With such a plan in hand, each piece of the work can be done correctly with no wasted time or money or mistakes that have to be corrected or plants that are in the wrong place. Moving plants is an expensive business and is also very hard on the plants."

but your own time and muscle. If you collect seemingly useless items that most of us born string-savers and paper-box-putter-aways do, now is the time to sneer at the people who laugh at you. You can do lots with sturdy cardboard boxes, packing cases, and odds and ends of furniture.

That old trunk gathering dust in the attic, for instance, will make a wonderful toy chest for your youngster if you can bring yourself to throw away the old high school themes and love letters stashed away in it. Paint it in bright colors; even add special decorations for the cowboy and doll set. If you want to get real fancy, make a wooden base, add casters to each corner, and nail the trunk-turned-toy-chest to the base.

Sturdy cardboard cartons — the kind with reinforced sides — can be cut down to size with a sharp strong knife and made into a tier of shelves to hold your youngster's file of magazines and comic books. Paint adds strength, and you can cover it with odds and ends of wallpaper, too. Wooden boxes—the kind that bottled goods come in—can be transformed into portable shelves for grownup books when stacked in tiers. Paint them to match their surroundings.

A coffee table can be made out of an old camp stool or luggage rack. Scrape it down and paint sturdy material across the top of sturdy material across the top of the frame, then use your wife's favorite pretty tray on top. Ottomans are coming back into their own. A cheese or butter bucket, or a sturdy packing box of the right height can be converted to living room use by padding the top, then getting your handy wife to cover the whole thing with her choice of material, fitted and sewn like a slip cover.

None of these ideas may be just what you're hankering to accomplish around the house, but they ought to stir up a few thoughts of your own. After all, the handyman about the house ought to have a little ingenuity.

Republican Winner In Ballot Recount

CENTRALIA, ILL. —(AP)— An election candidate finally won his office—two months after he apparently tied then lost by a coin toss.
Democrat Paul Drott won the toss for Brushy Township highway commissioner in Saline County, Ill. But Republican Oral Hankins' demand for a court recount gave Hankins a one-vote victory.
