War Causing Dislocations In Australia

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 12. (By Wireless) — Once Australia was our last toehold in the western Pacific, and there was a real question whether the Japs might not get in. The streets here are still filled with temporary brick air-raid shelters, and shop windows are covered with wood and wire protectors.

But the war has been pushed far away from Australia. This is now a rear area, and not very exciting to the men out here. They want to get up close to the front. It's like Algiers with relation to the war in Italy.

CLAPPER

Here, as in the United States, where I was only a few days ago, it's a home-front war. Australia is just coming around to meat rationing. Starting Jan. 17 each person is to be allowed only 2½ pounds of meat a week, and children half of that. This may seem high in those parts of America where we seldom see steaks any more, but Australians have always been heavy meat eaters, averaging five pounds a week.

Inflation Threatening

Australia is experiencing severe inflationary pressure, and there is much discussion of the strain on price control. There is some agitation for compulsory savings to ease the inflationary pressure. Unspent purchasing power is large. Consumption of meat is up one-third, and sales of ice cream have doubled, so both must be rationed.

Housewives already find almost everything else rationed, including clothing—even the cheapest house slippers. You can walk through a big red-front dime store and find ration coupons demanded for many articles.

The servant problem is severe. For instance, an American consul had some friends in the night I arrived. His wife and daughter worked all day preparing the food themselves.

AUSTRALIA is not ordinarily considered a crossroads, but rather the end of the line, as General MacArthur's friends complain, yet I have already seen many old friends here.

One of the first I saw was Phil LaFollette, former governor of Wisconsin and now a lieutenant colonel on General MacArthur's staff, working on press relations. Also Col. Robert Ginsburgh, who for years wrote speeches for high officials in the War department. And many others who can't be mentioned. Also here I have met some famous people I should have known in the states long before this, such as Dr. Karl Compton, Nobel prize winner and head of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

One of the best-known figures in Australia is Miss Mary Browne, the former tennis star, who is here with the Red Cross Field service and will soon return to the states for the War bond drive. She has been at the front much of the time, and she is going home with a feeling that the war in the Southwest Pacific has been much neglected.

Would Change Law

Miss Browne is especially interested in obtaining legislation which would permit American soldiers to bring Australian wives back home without encountering citizenship difficulties. This would involve amendment of the Cable act. There is a strong feeling among the military here that should be done. Otherwise there will be a large number of difficult family adjustments when American soldiers return to the states. Army and Navy people are agreed on the importance of prompt action. This is something they feel Congress could do as a real help to many servicemen's families.

As one officer said, when an American man comes out here so far from home to fight for his country, and while here marries an Australian girl, the least our country can do for him is to permit him to bring his wife back as an American citizen without going through the tedious process of naturalization.

Officer's Death Laid To Escaped Convict

WAXAHACHIE, Jan. 12. (AP) — Sheriff Jess Cariker today filed in justice of the peace court here a charge of murder against Joe Basil Stephens, 37, escaped convict, in connection with the fatal shooting of Jess White, 34, Ellis county deputy sheriff.

Stephens was moved today from Waxahachie sanitarium, where he had been treated for a leg fracture, to the Ellis county jail.

Sheriff Cariker said White was shot about 11 p. m. Jan. 8, while entering Waxahachie in an automobile with Stephens, whom he had apprehended on the highway outside the county seat. Stephens escaped from the Retrieve state prison farm on Dec. 23.

Nazis Report Village Near Cassino Lost

Balkans Bombers Lash Greek Port

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 12. — The German high command announced today that Nazi troops had lost the fortress village of Cervaro "after hard fighting," and it was considered possible here that American forces already were pushing on beyond the town toward the key city of Cassino, only four miles away.

There was no official confirmation that the village had been taken.

Seventy airline miles from Rome, Cassino is on the main island railroad and highway that thread a series of valleys northwestward to the Eternal City.

Thaw Brings Mud

Progress in the Cassino plain was slow as a sudden thaw again brought deep, sticky mud.

The Allies' new round-the-clock Balkans bombing team—Flying Fortresses by day, RAF Wellingby night—shifted its assault to the big Greek port of Piraeus after its shattering blow the previous day at Sofia, capital of Bulgaria.

The American bombers went in unerringly with their Lightning fighter escort and rained tons of bombs on moles, petties, warehouses and railway facilities of the port which serves Athens and through which supplies pass to German forces in the Aegean.

Many Fires Started

Fortress crewmen said many fires were started in the harbor and that one warehouse blew up. Thirty-eight Nazi fighters challenged the mission over southern Greece. Fortress gunners shot down five enemy planes and their escorts destroyed another three. Seven American planes were lost.

As in the raid on Sofia, the two-engined British Wellingtons then swept in after dark and, guided by fires set by the Americans, dumped another huge load of explosives and incentiaries.

A broadcast by the Cairo radio today reported that Bulgarian government ministries were hastily evacuating Sofia and that the civilian population was taking to the country on a large scale since Monday's smash at the Bulgarian capital.

The Eighth Army front near the Adriatic remained quiet except for patrol skirmishes, with Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's forces awaiting the right moment to resume their drive on the port of Pescara.

American Mitchell bombers hit railyards at Faconara, northeast of Rome, and at Fabriano in north central Italy. Warhawk fighters bombed and strafed freight trains supplying Nazi troops on the Adriatic coastal front.

Texas Primary Plan Defended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — An assertion that Texans have a constitutional right to "organize a white man's Democratic party" to the exclusion of negroes was made today before the Supreme court by George W. Barcus, assistant attorney general of the Lone Star state.

Urging the tribunal to affirm its 1935 decision sustaining the exclusion of negroes from a Texas Democratic primary, Barcus said the negroes could organize their own party and exclude whites.

Opponents' Allegation

Thurgood Marshall, New York attorney, contended that such exclusion is unconstitutional. Marshall and William H. Hastie, Washington attorney, asked the court to set aside the 1935 decision because it was based on factual mistakes. They represented Lonnie E. Smith, Houston negro, who was barred from voting in a 1940 primary to nominate candidates for Congress.

"We think," Barcus asserted, "that any group of folks can form a political organization of their own and limit the membership."

"You say, in effect," Justice Frankfurter asked, "that this would be a club?"

"That's all it is," Barcus replied.

Reds Launch New Assault

Equipment Shows Japs Don't Rate 'Big League' War

DETROIT, Jan. 12 (AP)— Captured Japanese Army equipment shows that "Japan does not belong in the 'Big League'" Major General G. M. Barnes, chief of the development branch of the United States Army Ordnance department, told the Society of Automotive Engineers tonight.

"Her weapons lack fire power, and this disadvantage will prove fatal," he said, "as we solve the logistic problems, and push forward step by step, pressing home our power drives."

In his address at the society's annual dinner, the ordnance expert said that in the recent fighting at Tarawa it was found the Japanese were using a new rifle of larger calibre.

"Thus, the Japanese have had to admit," he said, "that they have made a major error in the caliber of the basic weapon of the Army, the infantry rifle.

A study of captured German equipment made it clear, General Barnes said, "that this war was planned for many years—even before Hitler."

Six Jap Cargo Ships Smashed

Bombers Deal Big Blow In Marshalls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — American bombers, flying at low altitude in a daylight raid, battered six enemy cargo vessels and set raging fires in installations on Kwajalein island in the Marshalls.

The Navy, announcing the raid, reported today that two of the six small cargo ships were sunk and the others damaged. Several buildings and other positions ashore were set afire by bombs from the big Navy planes and two enemy airplanes were damaged on the ground, the announcement said.

No enemy planes attempted to intercept the attacking flight, the Navy reported.

Taroa Also Pounded

At the same time the Navy announced another raid by Army heavy bombers on Taroa island, also in the Marshall group, in which several fires were started and two Japanese planes destroyed on the ground.

In a third raid, Army bombers struck at Mili Atoll, but results of this attack were not reported.

All American planes returned undamaged.

The Navy told also of nuisance raids by Japanese bombers on American positions at Tarawa, Makin and Abemama in the Gilbert islands, southeast of the Marshalls. No damage was done, the Navy reported.

Texas Airfields Go On Standby Basis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — Texas members of Congress were informed today that four Army Air Forces training fields and one school in Texas will be placed on a standby basis. They are Cox field, Paris; Gainesville Army Air field; Pounds field, Tyler; Stinson field, San Antonio, and the school at the Van Horn municipal airport.

The five Texas installations are among 69 air bases to be placed on a standby basis throughout the nation as the AAF reaches the peak of unit strength and is gradually shifting to a replacement training basis.

These stations will be manned with custodial and maintenance personnel.

WORK HOURS INCREASED

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 12. (AP) — The newspaper Aftontidningen said today the German minister of labor has ordered the working day for women increased to 10 hours, in order to release 3 to 5 per cent more workers for duty at the front.

Fate Of Germans In Ukraine May Be Decided Soon

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 12 — The Red Army opened another offensive, this time in southern White Russia near Mozyr, and in two days of fighting tore a 19-mile gap through strong German defense lines, Moscow announced tonight, while 130 miles to the southwest the First Ukrainian Army, continuing its attack, captured the important railway town of Sarny.

Shock troops in the new offensive, about 75 miles from the old Polish-Russian frontier in a sector inactive for weeks, captured over 30 towns and hamlets in two days' fighting, including Davidovichi, 37 miles north of Mozyr on the railway to Zhlobin. Germans fighting behind elaborate defense works gave the Russians a stubborn battle, but had no more success in stopping them than did the Nazis to the south, said the Moscow communique recorded by the Soviet monitor from a broadcast.

Poland Drive Extended

In addition to capturing Sarny, an important German strongpoint, the Russians also extended their spearhead into old Poland by taking Dombrovitsa, a district center 20 miles north of Sarny. This gave the Russians a 26-mile front 35 miles into old Poland, a front astride the Vilna-Rovno railway and forcing the Germans back 135 miles to Brest-Litovsk for their next north-south line in the area.

South of the Sarny area, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army also captured 50 towns and hamlets in the Novograd Volynski area. Muzhilovichi, only three miles from Korets, a highway junction, was taken in this advance—an 18-mile push west from Novograd Volynski.

The left wing of Vatutin's forces heading south toward the Bug river and the Rumanian frontier met one of the few German counter-attacks in many days of continuous Soviet advance. The Germans struck back with large infantry and tank forces, but were repelled, the communique said.

Counterattack Fails

South of Belaya Tserkov in the Dnieper bend where Vatutin's forces were nearest a junction with Gen. Ivan S. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army offensive, the Russians captured several populated places.

In one of their strongest counter-attacks since the Russians began their current series of suc-

Senate Rebuffs FDR On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — The Senate today approved most of the important features of the $2,275,600,000 tax increase bill, completely disregarding President Roosevelt's charge that it is not a "realistic" revenue measure.

The members raced through hundreds of amendments recommended by the finance committee.

Majority Leader Barkley and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), ranking Republican on the committee, said all the principal revenue sections might be considered approved.

To Meet Again Friday

The remaining amendments probably will be disposed of at the Senate's next session Friday. The controversial amendments applying to the war contracts renegotiation law are to be taken up Monday.

In an opening statement, George indirectly took issue with President Roosevelt's contention that the bill "does not begin to meet" the test of a wartime tax bill which should "tax all unreasonable profits, both individual and corporate, and reduce the ultimate cost of the war to our sons and daughters."

Said George bluntly:

"It is indeed a realistic tax law and will aid materially in reducing the cost of the war upon future generations."

Grand Jury Indicts Chase National Bank

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — A federal grand jury in New York returned two indictments today charging the Chase National bank and Leonard J. A. Smit, an industrial dealer in industrial diamonds, with "conspiring and engaging in" the illegal sale and export of industrial diamonds in violation of the trading with the enemy act, Attorney General Biddle announced.

FDR's Plan Off To Slow Start

Hostile Committee Takes Up Proposal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — National service legislation urged by President Roosevelt got off to a halting start in a hostile committee of the Senate today.

Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the Senate Military Affairs committee which opened hearings on a labor draft bill proposed by Senator Austin (R-Vt) said several more weekly meetings—"at least three or four"—will be held before the committee acts.

The House Military Affairs committee, holding a similar bill, hadn't even decided whether to take it up.

Patterson Lauds Plan

The distinctly chilly committee reception coincided with warm praise of the national service plan from Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and strongly-worded opposition from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Patterson in an interview said such a law would assure servicemen overseas that the country is "going all out behind them" and provide a direct morale boost while stabilizing labor in war-critical industries. He said a national service law would bring "little compulsion" of labor beyond requiring workers to stay on jobs for which they had been trained.

"It would be the enactment of a moral principle that everyone has always admitted—the duty of every citizen to contribute according to his ability," the undersecretary said.

Undermines Basic Concepts

Green asserted that national service would "undermine our basic concepts of democracy," declaring that "there is no real comparison between drafting men for service in the armed forces of the country

Poles Framing Reply To Boundary Offer

LONDON, Jan. 12. (AP) — The Polish cabinet, after a second all-day discussion of Moscow's offer of a modified Curzon line as the Polish-Russian boundary, was drafting a reply tonight which was expected to spar for more favorable terms but leave the way open for a settlement.

There was a widespread belief in London that the Poles eventually would submit to the Russian declaration under guidance of Britain and America.

The Russians early yesterday said they intended to keep most of the Ukrainian and White Russian territories incorporated into the Soviet union in 1939 but suggested the slightly less drastic Curzon-line proposal of 1919 as a working basis and said Poland could recompensce herself by gaining an outlet to the Baltic sea at Germany's expense in the west.

Approval Of Grade 3 Milk Withdrawn

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (AP)—The state department of health today withdrew its recommendation to local health officers that they approve production and sale of sub-standard milk classified as Army type III.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said in a letter to all local health officers that while he had recommended recognition of the milk for pasteurization in an attempt to relieve milk shortages due to the war emergency, he was now withdrawing the approval because "this program has been stretched, abused, and gotten out of hand."

Jap Landing Effort Fails

Total Enemy Dead More Than 2,400; Two Barges Sunk

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Thursday, Jan. 13. — American Marine artillery smashed a Japanese night attempt to land reinforcements at Borgen bay, near the Marines' invasion beachhead at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, and the enemy's efforts to halt the Leathernecks' advance have cost him more than 2,400 dead so far.

The sinking of two troop-filled barges was reported in Gen. Douglas Macrthur's communique today. It also said that the Marines were maintaining steady pressure in the Borgen bay sector, where fighting has been heavy around Hill 660.

Advancing Slowly

A headquarter's spokesman said the Marines were advancing slowly, aided by attack planes which bombed and strafed the enemy. He said that 300 more Japanese bodies had been found, bringing the total enemy dead to more than 2,400 compared with around 400 Marine dead and wounded.

Australian jungle-fighters have made another advance, this time three miles, along the coast of the Huon peninsula in New Guinea, and the Japanese apparently are attempting to evacuate troops threatened with entrapment between the fast-moving Aussies and American invasion troops at Saidor, less than 60 miles to the northwest.

Increased enemy barge traffic along the coast from Saidor to Sio, to the south, has been reported, and these craft have been hard hit by day air strafing and night PT patrol boat attacks. Forty-three of the barges, many of them loaded with troops, were sunk or destroyed Monday and Tuesday.

Almost Cleared Of Japs

The Australians have reached the banks of the Dapugara river. They soon will have the Huon peninsula cleared of Japanese, at their present rate of progress, and juncture with the American force will give the Allies complete control of the western side of Vitiaz strait.

Madang and Alexishafen, enemy supply and airdrome centers on the New Guinea coast northwest of Saidor, were again hit by Allied bombers, this time with 126 tons of explosives.

Nearly 1,100 tons have been dropped on these bases so far this month; a blasting comparable to concentrating bombings in the past which have presaged invasion.

Many Barges Sunk

Bombers ranging north of Madang damaged shore installations, fired supply dumps and destroyed shipping in the Uligan harbor area. Destruction of 14 barges, four luggers and other small craft was reported, with many others damaged.

Naval PT patrol boats sank nine barges and damaged 11 others in night attacks off the coast near Saidor. Many of the barges carried enemy troops, and their presence bolstered belief that the Japanese were finding their position between Australian and American forces untenable.

Air patrols smashed again at Didmop village north of the American line on Arawe peninsula, on the southwest coast of New Britain and 65 miles from Cape Gloucester.

POW Suicide Feared Nazis Would Get Him

CONCORDIA, Kas., Jan. 12. (AP) Pvt. Franz Kettner, 39, German war prisoner who killed himself Tuesday at the Concordia prison internment camp left a letter in which he said "I am afraid the Nazis are going to kill me," camp authorities revealed today.

The letter addressed to his wife, Mrs. Freida Kettner, at Bolzano, Italy, was found among the belongings of the soldier who committed suicide by slashing his wrists in an American guardhouse where he was being kept in protective custody.

Written in another place was Kettner's expression of fear of the Nazis and the phrase "long live Austria!" Kettner was a native of Austria.

Funeral services for the soldier were conducted in the prison area today but no Germans attended—only United States soldiers.

Yanks Still There Despite Jap Claim Of Retaking Arawe

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Thursday, Jan. 13. (AP) Arawe, New Britain, invaded by the U. S. Sixth Army last Dec. 15 still is in American hands and Tokyo broadcasts of its "recapture" constitute "a complete exaggeration," a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today.

"We are still right there and on the job," he said.

(At New York, NBC said Wednesday night Tokyo radio reported that Japanese ground forces had "recaptured the enemy base at Arawe, New Britain.")

Arawe was invaded to divert Japanese attention from the larger operation shaping up against Cape Gloucester, New Britain, successfully invaded Dec. 26.

Snow Blankets Much Of Area

Highways Open And Buses On Schedule

A thick blanket of snow was reported on the ground Wednesday night south, southwest and southeast of Lubbock as the second severe wintry blast within a week hit the South Plains.

Three to six inches of snow was reported on the ground in the Tahoka, Meadow, Lamesa, Seminole and Seagraves areas, and it continued to fall last night. Motorists from the southeast said snow was in evidence up to a short distance of Slaton. The ground also was covered along U. S. highway 82 in the eastern part of Crosby county and in Dickens and King counties.

No Snow At Lubbock

While there was no snow in the Lubbock vicinity, the mercury hovered slightly below freezing during the forepart of the night and clouds which had been solid throughout the day were broken at midnight.

The weather forecast called for less cold and cloudiness today.

Towns south and southwest of Lubbock reported snow had fallen since early in the day, much of it melting as it fell. A report from Seminole estimated snow in that sector at six inches.

No Highways Blocked

S. C. McCarty, district highway engineer, said early last night that he had not received any reports of blocked roads in this section.

Fort Worth and Denver railway office reported no snow and an average temperature of 24 degrees along its line from Lubbock to Childress.

Bus service was being maintained in every direction from Lubbock. Word to the local bus

WPB Ban Lifted On Purchases Of Steel

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — In an attempt to move into useful channels a considerable quantity of excess steel which is piling up in the hands of war contractors, the War Production board today removed all curbs on its purchase by dealers and warehouses.

This amendment is expected to be followed, within a fortnight or so, by the repeal of the prohibition against the use of iron and steel in the manufacture of several hundred common household and commercial items.

Lancasters Set New Ocean Flight Mark

MONTREAL, Jan. 12. (AP)—Two Lancasters carrying mail for Canadian troops overseas set a record today for the flight from Montreal to Great Britain, one in 11 hours and 14 minutes and the other two minutes longer.

The previous mark of 11 hours and 35 minutes was set in November in a Liberator.

Arnold Says Losses Light For Results

Terrific Blow Is Said Dealt Nazis

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 12.—Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air forces, said tonight that the huge air battle over Germany yesterday inflicted "one of the hardest blows yet struck against the German Air force," at a cost of approximately 5 per cent of the American planes making the attack.

Arnold said three important fighter plane factories were smashed, meaning that hundreds of projected German fighter planes will never be manufactured.

"Production at these three plants which the Germans were struggling to increase has been wiped out altogether, and months must elapse before the damage can be repaired and fighter plane construction resumed there," he said.

Points Up Air Strength

Arnold said the multiple attack —factories at Oschersleben, Halberstadt and Brunswick were hit —illustrated the extent to which the American air effort has been built up, and the constantly changing tactics of the air forces.

Arnold said announcement of details of the "outstandingly successful air battle" was delayed in London because bad weather developed, obscuring the bases to which the planes were scheduled to return and making it difficult for intelligence officers to locate the scattered crews to complete their reports.

The delay in the air forces communique, he added, "brought into more than usually clear relief the errors in the report made by the Nazi air command for propoganda purposes." The Germans had claimed destruction of 136 of the attacking planes, including 124 bombers. The report of the air forces placed the loss at 64 planes —59 bombers and five escorting fighters.

More Than 1,200 Planes

On that basis, a 5 per cent loss would mean there were more than 1,200 planes in the attack force.

The factories attacked by the American planes included both final assembly plants and subassembly plants for Focke-Wulf, Junkers and Messerschmitt fighters.

Arnold's report of approximately 5 per cent loss among planes engaged was an over-all figure. There was no official breakdown to show how many of the attackers were bombers and how many were fighters.

However, with more than 11 times as many bombers as fight-

Four Convicted For Conspiracy

(AP)—The Pawtucket plant of the Anaconda Wire and Cable company and four plant officials were found guilty by a federal jury tonight of charges that they conspired to manufacture and deliver defective wire to the Army signal corps.

Besides the corporation, those found guilty were:

William H. Morley, former manager of the Pawtucket plant and now assistant general manager for the parent company in Providence; Jacob Eagleson, manager and former superintendent at the Pawtucket plant; Lowell K. Morrow, chief inspector and chemist at the plant, and William Eagleson, brother of Jacob and senior employe in the water test room at Pawtucket.

Judge John P. Hartigan continued the cases for sentences until 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning and refused the defendants bail.

The maximum penalty for the charge of which the men were found guilty is a $10,000 fine or two years in jail or both.

Judge Hartigan ordered a sixth defendant, Robert L. Wright, former electrical engineer at the Pawtucket plant who earlier changed an innocent plea to guilty, also be brought before him for sentencing next Tuesday. He has been free in $2,000 bail.

It was two days less than a year since a federal grand jury returned the indictments against the company and the men.

The conspiracy was alleged to have taken place between Nov. 1, 1940, and Sept. 1, 1942.

Allies Cashing In On Mass Output Of Anti-Sub Craft

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)— The United Nations have begun to receive dividends from the mass production of anti-submarine naval craft.

The hundreds of destroyers, auxiliary aircraft carriers and lesser escort ships, built since Pearl Harbor, may well have figured in the reduction of cargo ship tonnage losses attributed to U-boat attacks in 1943. A joint Anglo-American statement has placed the decline from 1942 totals at 60 per cent.

The present favorable trend in the battle of the Atlantic was reflected as early as last October when the Navy announced cancellation of orders for 427 destroyer escorts, patrol craft and submarine chasers.

The improved position of shipping has paralleled United States Navy steps in combining British experience with American ingenuity in new types of escort ships, comparatively quick and cheap to build as compared to destroyers.

A fleet of 50 emergency escort carriers, each nesting 30 or more planes, now provides air cover for the bridge of ships between the "arsenal of Democracy" and the fighting fronts. In 1941 auxiliary carrier strength consisted of a made-over merchantman on which a flight deck had been installed experimentally.

Approximately 300 destroyer escorts, comparable to the British "Hunt" class destroyers were ready by the end of 1943, less than a year after the first had been

Road Builders Close Behind Troops Clearing Out Japs

WITH GEN. STILLWELL IN BURMA, Jan. 6 (Delayed) — (AP)—American construction genius has pushed the new Ledo road through the primeval jungle of northern Burma almost on the heels of Chinese troops clearing the zone of Japanese.

The results as well as the hazards of this Allied effort now are being viewed first hand by wiry, wise-cracking Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell, American commander in the Far East; who is making his first tour of Burma since he marched out of the country in May, 1942, after it had been overrun by the invaders.

The results already are good. The new highway which will substitute for the old Burma road already extends deep into northern Burma and is being used by trucks. Ahead of the completed road are trails which a jeep may travel and they end only a short distance behind the front lines.

But the retaking of northern Burma to permit construction of the Ledo road through to the Burma road is bound to be difficult. The Japanese are unlikely to give up this important area without a terrific struggle.

It is apparent the Japanese lack planes for an aerial supply line for they are using elephants, horses and human porters and living off the land as much as possible.

Opinions Divided On Special Session For Service Voting

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)— Mixed opinions concerning a special session to facilitate soldier voting in 1944 was evident today among Texas legislators.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson's declaration that he saw no special benefit to be derived from a session was based on an opinion from Attorney General Grover Sellers that the constitution prohibits forgiveness of the poll tax which all persons must pay in order to vote.

Governor's Views

The governor conceded that the law on absentee balloting, which would govern voting by most soldiers, might be relaxed somewhat but added the present statute would give a fairly reasonable time in which to send out and gather ballots from Texans in the armed forces.

Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith led the dissenters on the poll tax remission issue, declaring that the legislature could forgive the tax on soldiers by invoking the public calamity clause in the constitution. This clause permits remission of taxes on persons and property in the event of a "great public calamity."

War is a calamity, declared Smith and he legislature could do what it did in called session in 1919—forgive the poll tax due by soldiers, sailors and Marines.

To Demand Session

Tom Martin of Austin, former member of the House and author of the 1919 act, declared in a statement he would ask veterans organizations and relatives of soldiers to demand a special session to waive the poll tax for members of the armed forces.

Senator Weaver Moore of Houston declared failure to use every effort to facilitate soldier voting would be grossly unfair and Senator Houghton Brownlee of Austin said soldiers should be given a free vote if it is legally possible.

At Gainesville, Rep. Clifford C. Gardner said he favored a special session to release soldier poll taxes.

At Pampa, Rep. Ennis Favors saw no point in a session because he said the poll tax could be waived only by amending the constitution and constitutional amendments can be submitted only at regular sessions.

STATES' RIGHTS CHAMPIONS CLAIM VICTORY MARGIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Despite a presidential request for a federal ballot to simplify soldier voting, champions of states' rights clung to their belief today that they will triumph when the issue comes to a ballot.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) of the House Elections committee, one of those supporting state control, said he felt assured the House would approve a bill leaving the election machinery where it now lies.

President Roosevelt has suggested that Congress adopt a measure that will simplify putting ballots in the hands of service men and women.

And Rep. Flannagan (D-Va) expressed the belief that if Congress can protect the civil rights of persons in the armed forces through the civil relief act it has equal power to adopt a federal ballot system, irrespective of any claims that it would be unconstitutional.

Twenty-two organizations meanwhile went on record as favoring a simple, federal ballot for soldiers' voting, on the ground it would be the only way the armed forces could cast effective votes "in the crucial 1944 elections."

"It is our conviction," the organizations said in a joint statement, "that the issues of constitutionality and states' rights which have been raised against the federal ballot for soldiers are misleading issues."

Moral Obligation

"The American people," they added, "have a strongly-felt moral obligation to those who are fighting for them. Of prime importance is the moral obligation to guarantee our soldiers and sailors the right of the ballot."

Meanwhile, in a report to Chairman Worley, Secretary of War Stimson emphasized the difficulties which he said would ensue in attempting to handle absentee ballots from the 48 states, instead of one single federal ballot.

Compromise settlement in the debt action of Plains Funeral home against Plains Burial association had been announced Wednesday, on basis of payment of five burial claims serviced by the funeral home before Oct. 12, 1942, amounting to $750, and dismissal of all litigation both in Lubbock and Dallas counties.

Three War Prisoners Escape At El Paso

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 12. (AP) Kenneth Logan, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said today that three prisoners of war escaped last night from the camp at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas.

He listed them as Pvt. Luciano Cupello, 21; Pvt. Antonio De Lucia, 24; and Corporal Major Giovanni Alias Guingato, 24.

Two were employed in the laundry under supervision of the quartermaster corps and had access to both army uniforms and civilian clothes, Logan said.

They might have discarded the regulation blue denim or faded khaki of war prisoners and used other garb, Logan stated.

All were believed to have attempted to make their way to Juarez, Mexico, across the international bridge from El Paso. They are not believed to have any outside aid. Their absence was discovered at the time of the midnight check up.

Akron Mayor Queried On "Hopkins" Letter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)— A federal grand jury questioned C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., for an hour today about a letter bearing the name of Harry Hopkins and purporting to predict that Wendell Willkie would be the Republican presidential nominee.

Hopkins, close adviser to President Roosevelt, denounced the letter as a forgery and asked an investigation. The letter was addressed, Sparks said, to Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university at Dallas, Texas. Dr. Lee said he knew nothing about it. He added that he had been a Methodist minister for 20 years and had never taken part in political matters.

Sparks declined to reveal what he told the grand jury. Before he went in, however, he told reporters he "didn't find the Hopkins letter in an ashcan."

After Sparks was questioned, the jury called Dr. Lee in and announced Sparks would be recalled Friday.

After the grand jury recessed, Justice department officials explained they were trying to find out if there had been a violation of a law concerning impersonation of federal officials. This carries a penalty of one to three years imprisonment and a $1,000 fine. They said they also were concerned with a possible violation of a District of Columbia law pertaining to publicity of a forgery with intent to injure, which can be punished by one to 10 years in jail.

Texas Chiropractic Law Is Challenged

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (AP)—Texas' new chiropractic law, enacted by the legislature in 1943, was attacked in a case before the court of criminal appeals today.

The law is broad enough in its import "to require a mother who massages the back of her injured child to require a license," argued Attorney Otis Rogers of Fort Worth, in a 28-page brief filed on behalf of W. B. Halsted of Johnson county.

Halsted was charged in justice and county courts of Johnson county with violating the new law, and he sued out a writ of habeas corpus in district court there on the grounds the act was unconstitutional. Upon hearing, the court remanded Halsted to custody of the sheriff, from which order Halsted appealed to the higher court.

Texas Flier Says He Doesn't Care About Inspiring New Song

DALLAS, Jan. 12 (AP)— Capt. Lowell May says he doesn't care to inspire another song.

The Reese, Tex., captain believes it was his feat of bringing a damaged bomber falteringly back to its Tunisian base that inspired the popular ditty of a few months ago, "Coming In On A Wing And A Prayer."

Home to take part of his mission on which he prayed for the last 350 miles with one wing about to fold up was the spark behind the song.

He related the story to War Correspondent Ernie Pyle, who was on hand when he belly-landed the bomber, and the writer included it in one of his syndicated columns. The song appeared shortly afterward.

TALKED TOO MUCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)— Leo Patyst remarked to a friendly stranger on the street car that he was on his way to court. "I held up three street cars by driving my horse and wagon down the Clark St. tracks." Batyst said and confided, "I had a little hangover and just didn't care." In court, Batyst met his new acquaintance. He was the motorman of the first street car and complaining witness. The fine was $20.

Toughest Tax-Reporting Job In U.S. History Approaching

By JACK STINNETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Some 37 million Americans are now receiving two little notices. These notices are unpleasant reminders, no doubt, of an upcoming headache, but my advice is not to part with them, either in disgust or carelessness. They'll be a tidy bit of help in alleviating said headache.

Early in the new year employers will start distributing statements to employes listing their wages and the amount of income tax and Victory tax withheld from those wages in 1943. About the same time the collector of internal revenue will mail to income taxpayers statemens specifying their tax on 1942 income and the portion of the tax they paid in 1943.

Has New Complications

Federal income taxpayers—and they now include the vast majority of wage earners—will need those notices for filling out 1943 income reports, due on or before March 15. This looks like the toughest tax-reporting job in U. S. history, what with new complications such as figuring whether you owe Uncle Sam more money or he owes you some after 1943 withholdings and other payments, and computing that unforgiven part of the 1942 or 1943 tax (whichever is larger).

The collector's statement of your 1942 tax, and your payments on it, will be in the same envelop as the income tax form. Hold on to both of 'em. After using the 1942 statement in making out your report for 1943, you will be expected to return it with the report to the collector. He needs it in checking your return.

The statement from your employer on withholdings will help you get full credit for taxes already paid.

Another Due March 15

Another new angle which will complicate the return will be the computation of your Victory tax due for 1943, together with figuring the Victory tax credit. That credit varies with your marital status and the number of dependents you had during 1943.

And that isn't all. Besides the complete 1943 return, there is also due on March 15 another one of those pesky declarations introduced last September much to the discomfiture of affected taxpayers and the internal revenue workers, who handled their "guesses" on income.

The dither over the declaration business is going so strong that there is talk in congressional tax circles of abolishing the March 15 declaration (not the return) to lessen the confusion. Taxpayers, some congressmen feel, will be befuddled enough by the job of making out the 1943 return without requiring them to tackle an estimate of 1944 income at the same time.

Two more likely alternatives to abolishment of the March 15 declaration are: (1) postponing it to a later date; (2) simplifying it so that tax estimating will be an easier job. One proposal is that tax declarants arbitrarily put down the same estimate as they did for 1943. This could be amended later if necessary.

U. S. ATTORNEY RESIGNS

HOUSTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Douglas W. McGregor, United States attorney for the Southern district of Texas for the last 10 years, submitted his resignation today to enter the private practice of law.

Importance Of Soil Conservation Cited

DALLAS, Jan. 12. (AP)—In some cases spinach is not always spinach, State Soil Conservationist Paul H. Walser of the soil Conservation Service, Temple, told Texas hardware dealers here today.

"You may feel complacent about your health because you are eating your share of spinach, or tomatoes, or other protective foods, but if those vegetables were grown on eroded, mineral-depleted land you are very likely short of the minerals and vitamins you think you are getting," he explained.

Walser cited statements by Dr. William A. Albrecht of the soils department, University of Missouri, and Dr. Jonathan Forman, editors of the Ohio State Medical Journal.

"Dr. Forman has said that the quality of our nutrition depends on the quality of our food, and the quality of our food depends primarily upon the quality of the soil upon which it is grown," the state soil conservationist said.

Soil conservation farming methods not only improve the quality of food products but they also greatly increase acre yields, Walser asserted.

"Many Texas farmers have doubled acre yields of crops after the establishment of a complete soil and water conservation system, and on the average yields have risen at least 30 per cent an acre on treated land."

Practice Blackouts, Alerts To Be Fewer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — Practice blackouts and air raid alerts were ordered eliminated today except in coastal areas.

Along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts blackouts and alerts will be authorized not oftener than once in three months, and then only on a Sunday, the War department and the Office of Civilian defense announced.

The action was taken to cut down interference with war production and was made possible, the announcement said, by the fact that "most communities are sufficiently well organized to cope with such emergencies as can now reasonably be anticipated."

"This action is not an indication that the war is over as far as the continental United States is concerned," the War department statement said. "Rather, an even greater burden is placed on the civilian population to be alert, to utilize manpower efficiently and to assure our fighting forces of being adequately supplied."

TALKED INTO JAIL

ALAMEDA, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP) Four 17-year-old gunmen were talked into jail today by Frank W. Stark, Saginaw, Mich., sailor. When they tried to hold him up, he laughed at them for trying to get money from a sailor and suggested that they join him in robbing a nearby tavern. At the tavern, the bartender helped him hold the four until police arrived.

Soldiers In Pacific Show Home Front Disappointment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (U.P.) — Somewhere out in the Pacific today there is a young naval lieutenant who believes the American people are "selling out" servicemen by such actions as the threatened railroad and steel strikes and the order banning Esquire magazine from the mails.

American soldiers and sailors are working and dying for what must be called an "ungrateful America," Lt. W. F. James charged in a letter made public today by Rep. Ranulf Compton, R., Conn. The letter will be inserted in the Congressional Record.

Feeling Of Futility

Compton urged his colleagues to note the letter's "feeling of futility" and described its message as "an indictment that can be quashed only by a complete change of attitude and policy on the home front."

James and Compton are not acquainted with each other. The officer read the congressman's name in a dispatch in his ship's newspaper—an issue that also told of strikes, strike threats and the Esquire case—so he wrote the letter aware that he might be "sticking my neck out."

James related how battle-hardened soldiers cried at news of the threatened railroad and steel strikes and told of a 20-year-old youth dying in his foxhole with a picture of Esquire's Varga girl in his hand.

Don't Want New Order

"We are out here not fighting for a new idealistic world, we are fighting for the world we knew, the life we lived in the past," James wrote.

He told of tears filling the eyes of "men who have fought and killed" when they read of the strike threats and of their asking "what's the use—where are we getting?"

As for the Esquire mailing restriction, James said:

"What right has anyone to change these things that we are fighting for without our consent? Esquire is not only a magazine, it is an institution."

He wrote of the killing of several Americans during a Japanese bombing. When they removed one slain American from his foxhole, they found he had a picture of a Varga girl clutched in his dead fingers.

Memories Foremost

"He had not wanted to risk leaving this picture in his tent at the mercy of the Japs," James said. "These boys have so little. They have and hold foremost their memories. They eat and sleep as catch can. They work and die gladly for a people, a nation, an ungrateful America."

The news dispatches in question reached James' fellow fighters as they breakfasted following a night made wakeful by four raids. He described their "damnable discouraging look" as they read of the strike threats and recounted how the young father of two children cursed the persons responsible.

"There was no reply to his words—just a silent echo throughout the mess hall," James added. "One by one the boys quietly left."

Five And A Half Hours Taken To Destroy U-Boat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — Destruction of two German submarines in the South Atlantic, one after five and one-half hours of battling in which six Navy and Army planes participated, was reported by the Navy tonight.

Both submarines were sighted, attacked and sunk by planes flying search missions from Ascension island, midway across the Atlantic from the South American bulge at Natal, Brazil.

Seven times Navy Liberator bombers roared down on one submarines dropping 33 depth charges and strafing the U-boat's decks. Two Army planes also joined in the fight dropping 10 demolition bombs.

The second submarine, the Navy said, was destroyed "a few weeks later" by a Liberator, blowing up shortly after it was blasted with depth bombs.

Battle Scrap Being Brought To U. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (AP)—Huge quantities of scrap steel from the battlefields of Italy and Africa are being shipped to East coast ports to be remade into munitions and thrown right back in the Axis war machine.

Between July 1 and Dec. 1, last year, a total of 40,000 tons of scrap steel was shipped here from across the seas, according to the War department, and monthly shipments are increasing, scrap dealers said today.

New Banking Firm For Mexico Formed

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Formation of a new company by United States and Mexican banking interests to aid in the development of Mexican economy was announced today.

Lehman brothers and a group of Mexican bankers and industrialists chose Compania de Fomento Panamericana, S. A., as the name of the new undertaking, which means Pan American Development Co., with headquarters at Mexico City.

Assistance in the establishment of new Mexican enterprises and preparation of economic and industrial surveys for the benefit of United States concerns contemplating entering the Mexican field, will be among the services performed by the new company.

Former Boy Senator In Race For Governorship

WESTON, W. Va., Jan. 12 (AP)—Rush Dew Holt, 38, West Virginia's former boy Senator and consistent New Deal critic, announced today for the Democratic nomination for governor to succeed his one-time political friend and later political enemy, Matthew M. Neely, also a former Senator.

State May Air Salary Scales

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (AP)—A study of the salaries of state employes with relation to the increased cost of living may be undertaken by the Senate's general investigating committee.

Chairman Houghton Brownlee said at the conclusion of a brief session today he would poll other members on the salary study. Senator Fred Mauritz of Ganado, only other committeeman present, said he favored it.

Brownlee said it might include the study of municipal and county employes salaries as well.

Soldier Voting Case

Also slated for possible future inquiry, he added, was the matter of soldier voting "to see if we can be of any assistance."

He previously announced indefinite postponement of a resumption of an investigation of livestock feed shortages after Senator Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo informed the chairman some relief had been obtained in the Plains country where the need for feed had been represented as acute.

Brownlee declared further that pending on the committee's agenda "if we ever get to it," was an inquiry into a dispute between two steamfitters' union groups. This inquiry was scheduled today but no witnesses appeared.

State Railway Operation

The committee questioned at length Alva Sanders of Dallas, an independent railway accountant, concerning letters he had written members of the Senate concerning operations of the Texas state railway, a 35-mile line between Rusk and Palestine which has been leased to the Southern Pacific lines since 1921.

In 1929 a new lease was executed under which the state was to receive half of the net profits.

Sanders was critical of some of the operating cost and other expense items charged against the line under the operating agreement which has yielded the state no income since 1929.

Halifax Says History Will Repeat Itself

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12. (AP) — Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States declared today that "unless I mistake not, the history of Napoleon, that is, rebellion against slavery, (will) repeat itself in the near future."

In accepting an honorary doctorate in law from the University of Cincinnati he said:

"Among all the climbs of the totalitarians, I know of none greater than the passions to which they have harnessed the highest qualities of their youth, to serve their own evil ends. We must see to it that our love for the good things burns with a flame as white and as bright as to their ideas of evil."

Ciano Allowed To Face Firing Squad

AT THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 12 (AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, executed at Verona yesterday for "treason" to his father-in-law, Benito Mussolini, was given the final "courtesy" of being allowed to face a blackshirt firing squad with open eyes.

Persons convicted of treason usually are blindfolded and shot in the back. Presumably this was the fate of old Marshal Emilio De Bono and three other former members of the Fascist grand council who were executed with Ciano, according to reports from Italy.

All denied they were guilty of treason in having voted to oust Mussolini as Italian dictator last July 25, but the tribunal of Mussolini's German-sponsored regime in northern Italy convicted them in four hours.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12 (AP) — Vagabond Prince 103rd brought top price in the annual spring auction of Silver Crest Herefords when he was sold for $5,800 to Bridwell Hereford ranch of Wichita Falls yesterday.

George Coon of Garland, the contending bidder, bought the second top animal when he paid $2,500 for the bull, Vagabond Prince 72nd.

The 60 cattle sold in the auction brought an average price of $767. The 20 bulls sold averaged $907.50.

Roy Parks, jr., of Midland, bought Vagabond Prince 110th for $725.

SIROIL has accomplished much for many others and is certainly worth trying. SIROIL tends to remove the crusts and scales of psoriasis which are external in character and located on the outer layer of the skin. If or when your psoriasis lesions recur, light applications of SIROIL will help keep them under control. Applied externally, SIROIL does not stain clothing or bed linen, nor does it interfere in any way with your daily routine. Try it. Certainly it's worth a trial, particularly since it's offered to you on a two-weeks'-satisfaction-or-money-refunded basis.

"Man, you're on our team!"

"Your station deserves credit for a raft of our men clocking in on time. The way you keep their cars shipshape here is saving us man-hours—plenty—or we couldn't keep beating schedules. Our plant driver brings the office car here—to keep it readier than a fire engine. Even our laboratory scoffers rave about your giving their engines internal OIL-PLATING to hamstring damage from engine acids! You're helping cars live. Great stuff!"

Such praise from the war plant's Big Boss caused the Conoco Mileage Merchant to throw out his chest. His Conoco Nth oil...oil that OIL-PLATES...is even more essential for less essential cars, used only now and then. The unavoidable acids of combustion—mostly heated away, before rationing, by prompt re-use of the car—now loiter inside and threaten to cause corrosion. But you know of anti-corrosive plating ...like chromium plating. Just as closely, protective OIL-PLATING is surfaced to precious engine parts by the "magnet-like" attraction that Conoco Nth oil creates synthetically. Resist acid's appetite for your engine. ONE WAVE'S VIEW

SEVERAL Texas women have felt that women from other sections of the country, whether civilians or in the service, have spoken disparagingly of our state before they became acquainted with our customs and manners. We could cite cases but will refrain since these paragraphs aren't concerned with adverse criticism but with a wholesome appraisal written by Ensign Helen R. Upson of Waterbury, Conn., a Wave stationed at the USNR office in Dallas.

The young ensign was struck with the friendliness that characterized the Texans she met soon after her arrival and suggests "It is the sort of thing that could set an example for the whole world in this time when such values in life have been overshadowed by the burdens of war."

When she came to Texas it was with the purpose of becoming acquainted with Texans, to find out what they thought about the WAVEs and to explain the WAVEs program. She said she found out that Texas women in addition to being pretty, healthy and attractive, were like their sisters in the north, east and west in being interested in home and family first and others matters second.

"It was interesting to learn how strong an influence Texas women have had in the development of the spirit of real American liberty. It was good to read about the courage Texas women have shown bringing the finer aspect of American culture to a frontier country of less than a hundred years ago. I heard about some of the physical hardships your grandmothers endured. And out of their efforts have come your generation of Texans who are renowned for their courage on every battle front of the world."

ENSIGN UPSON looks on the present campaign to interest women in serving in the Navy as similar to the needs women met when they were frontier settlers and that the things that affect her home today are related to her responsibility for the war and the postwar world.

As she points out, the most important thing for everyone is winning the war and there is a way to help do this and at the same time to learn how to be better prepared to understand and cope with postwar adjustments. Naturally she points to the program of the WAVEs.

Because of their training, Ensign Upson believes that WAVEs will be better wives and mothers because they will have a keen knowledge of the problems of other parts of the United States and other countries through association with women from various localities. When husbands, sweethearts and brothers return from overseas service their sense of values will be keener and deeper because of their experiences and women who have followed them in service will be prepared to understand their problems, she says.

A Navy WAVE, Ensign Upson says, is expected to maintain a high standard as a woman; be well groomed, a good housekeeper and at the same time gracious and competent. These traits she will carry back to civilian life.

THEME SONGS

A WRITER in a recent music magazine says nearly everyone has a favorite musical selection that expresses his innermost hopes, ambitions and opinions.

With this thought in mind a columnist in the Manhattan (Kas.) Mercury has named a few theme songs for prominent figures such as:

Wendell Willkie (to the GOP)—"Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

GOP (to Wendell Willkie)—"We Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby."

Eleanor Roosevelt — "There's a Long, Long Trail."

Secretary Morgenthau — "Deep in the Hearts of Taxes."

Henry Wallace—"A-Milking We Will Go."

Benito Mussolini — "What's Gonna Happen to Me?"

Winston Churchill — "Just Franklin and Me, and Stalin Makes Three."

Adolf Hitler—"Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Had." Second choice: "By the Bend of the River."

Joseph Stalin — "O Promise Me."

John L. Lewis—"The Old Refrain."

Secretary Ickes—"Call for Me and I'll Be There."

Harry Hopkins (on moving out of the White House)—"When I'm Gone You'll Soon Forget."

Elmer Davis of the OWI — "Stormy Weather."

FDR—"Forever."

New Juvenile Delinquency Law Before Supreme Court

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (AP) — The Supreme court took under consideration today a case testing the validity of the new juvenile delinquency law under which such proceedings were made civil rather than criminal matters.

The court also heard oral arguments in the state's suit for title to Padre island; set aside a condemnation proceeding in which the state acquired approximately 200 acres for use in the Big Bend park; and disclaimed jurisdiction in a case in which 74 members of a plasterers and cement finishers union of Port Arthur claimed they were being discriminated against by the international union.

In the juvenile delinquency case, the Amarillo court of civil appeals had upheld constitutionality of the act, ruling that two youths convicted of stealing an automobile might be tried in a closed court session as provided by the law re-written by the last legislature. The case was reversed and remanded to Lubbock county juvenile court on other grounds.

Remove Crime Stigma

One chief purpose of the revision of the juvenile law was to remove the stigma of a criminal record from a youth judged to be delinquent.

In the Big Bend case, the road was left open for the state or perhaps the federal government to again seek condemnation of the tracts involved by furnishing a more complete description of the land. The Supreme court took issue with a repeated use of the term "more or less" in the original description, holding that the land was insufficiently defined.

Approximately 200 acres was involved. The park area which was acquired by the state has subsequently been deeded to the federal government for post-war development of a national park.

CASES OF TWO LUBBOCK BOYS INVOLVED IN HEARING

The Supreme court's action in granting applications for writs of error on both sides in the cases of Billy Denby and L. J. King, jr., against the State of Texas and others, and John W. Wilson and others against Billy Denby and others, both from Lubbock, agreed to pass on validity of the new civil proceedings for handling juvenile cases as enacted by the last session of the Texas legisalture.

Young Denby and King, each 15, were adjudged delinquent children by virtue of having converted a car to their use, and a term in the boys reformatory at Gatesville was assessed by Judge G. V. Pardue.

Act Upheld On Appeal

The case was appealed by the boys to the Seventh court of civil appeals in Amarillo, and Chief Justice E. L. Pitts reversed the Lubbock juvenile court, holding that the boys should have been allowed a jury hearing and that they should not have been called to testify against themselves. He held at the same time that the new civil procedure for juvenile cases was constitutional.

In application for writs of error, filed with the Supreme court, counsel for the boys contended the new juvenile law was unconstitutional, maintaining it attempts to handle criminal offenses by civil procedure, further qualifying its stand by pointing out that the boys' offenses, if any, would be criminal rather than civil, inasmuch as commitment to a penal institution is provided upon such conviction.

Two Rules Cited

Syrian E. Marbut, Lubbock county attorney, in an application filed for the state, cited two rules of Texas civil procedure:

"No jury trial shall be had in any civil suit unless application be made therefor in open court and unless a fee ($3 in the county court) be deposited by the applicant with the clerk to the use of the county."

"In the trial of any civil suit or proceeding in any justice, county or district court, any party plaintiff or defendant shall have the right to call as a witness in his behalf any other individual who is a party to such suit or proceeding either as plaintiff or defendant."

Donors In Every State Volunteer Blood For Billy

DALLAS, Jan. 12. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Meers, mother of handsome, four-year-old Billy Meers whose life depends on blood plasma, said today she had received letters from every state in the union offering blood or blood plasma for her child.

Baylor hospital blood bank officials said they would accept for Billy, in addition to plasma, blood collected by hospitals or other responsible institutions provided it was packed in ice and was received in Dallas within 24 hours after it was given.

Previously, the hospital had advised against the shipment of blood over long distances. Only plasma is given the child who is a victim of chronic nephritis, a kidney ailment considered incurable. Doctors say he probably will live indefinitely with plasma and is doomed without it.

A steady stream of donors marched into the hospital today, helping to pay off a 100-pint-of-blood debt which the youngster had incurred since September. Until the debt is paid off the blood bank will not allow Billy further allowances of plasma.

Until Sunday he had been getting the plasma equivalent of approximately 2 pints of blood per day. At that time the flow of plasma to him was cut off.

Mrs. Meers said Billy showed some effects today of being deprived of plasma but that he was "still romping around the hospital room."

At Camp Swift, Tex., 49 members of a reconnaissance company today volunteered blood for the child. Pvt. James Jobe, jr. said he had written the boy's parents advising them of the prospective donors.

Pnemonia And Flu On Increase

AUSTIN, Jan. 12. (U.P.) — The state health department today reported 24,450 new cases of influenza in Texas during the week which ended Jan. 8, and announced the number of pneumonia patients soared to 1,135.

For the preceding week 13,330 flu and 513 pneumonia cases were reported to the department. Figures for the Jan. 8 period compare with five-year media totals of 1,157 flu cases and 247 pneumonia.

Health officials would not predict whether the disease had reached its peak. They pointed out that inclement weather conditions this week may force the totals even higher.

Coal Is Found In Former CCC Camp

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 12. (AP) — While many New Jersites shivered for lack of fuel, 450 tons of coal were found yesterday lying idle in former CCC camps. The Newark Evening News reported it had found a 150-ton cache at abandoned camp 71 in Sussex county, while a 300-ton discovery was made by Mayor Thomas N. D. Mace of Butler at a camp near that town.

When the federal solid fuel administration was queried about the situation, regional Director Samuel F. Gallagher said the coal would be made available immediately to the communities near which it had been found.

Letters To The Editor From Readers

MORE ABOUT JUVENILES

Editor, The Avalanche: Having just read J. L. Lane's article, "Blames Parents," I, too, believe parents are largely to blame for the conduct of 'teen age boys and girls. There are others who are to blame to some extent, namely, peace officers, lawyers, doctors, preachers, laymen, and I suspect, you and I, Mr. Lane.

The parents are to blame because they do not have any discipline in the home. There is discord between father and mother. There is so much selfishness on part of father and mother that Bill and Susie are neglected and left to look out for themselves. Every child craves companionship. If they don't find what they want in their home they will go elsewhere to find it. In plain English, everyone in such homes is for himself or herself and the devil for all.

I sincerely believe if parents were in unity and had strict discipline in the home with love and kindness, father and mother real pals to Bill and Susie and make their home (although be it ever so humble) a lovely place to live—the children could bring their friends and feel they would be welcomed and have a good time. If such is practiced in every home every day, 90 per cent of child delinquency would be eliminated.

If peace officers, lawyers, doctors, preachers, laymen, you and I and Mr. Lane would have a smile and a word for the children we come in contact with, showing them we are interested in them, they would soon begin to see that we had something and would respect what we might have instead of having disrespect and contempt. This would eliminate another five per cent. Let us not kid ourselves that children from five years old to adults do not notice our indifference and neglect towards them when we meet them.

I have known J. L. Lane 30 years. He and his good wife have raised a large family of boys and girls to be honorbale men and women that any father and mother should be proud to own. My wife and I have also raised a large family of boys and girls (11—all married with families of their own) of whom we are very proud. We reared them along the lines as outlined above.

The youngsters of this generation are no different from youngsters of past generations for the last 60 years. But I am sorry to say parents and the general public are quite different. I would that parents wake up to the fact, that what they sow in selfishness, carelessness and neglect to their children, they surely will reap in tears, heartaches and shame.

W. L. Stangel Named Farm Body President

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12. (AP) — The Texas Agricultural Workers association closed a two-day session today after electing as president for two years W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal industries of Texas Technological college.

Earlier in the day the association heard H. H. Marshall, chief statistician for the state AAA office, read for B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA War board, a paper which said that the state's livestock producers probably would have less Texas-grown grain and protein concentrates for feeding this year than in 1943.

Norman Volz Leads Fliers To League Win, 45 To 44

For just a few minutes in the fading minutes of the ball game Wednesday night at the Texas Tech gym, Norman Volz returned to his old Red Raider form and carried the Lubbock Army Air Field Fliers to a torrid 45 to 44 win over the Texas Tech Engineers in the opening game of the four team cage league embracing Texas Tech and the three service teams of the area.

Volz was not the high point man of the ball game, but it was when the chips were down that the former Red Raider turned loose to pull his team into the lead twice in the fast exchange of the lead in the late moments of the game.

Scoring honors for the night went to Booth, rangy Engineer center, who dropped 12 points through the meshes to nose out his team mate Bill Reinecke by one point for the honors. Close on their heels came Chuck Bailey of the Engineers and Volz with ten.

Engineers Get Lead

The Engineers got away to an early 8 to 3 lead, but at this point, the fliers began to click, and poured ten points through the basket to zoom into a 13 to 8 lead over the Techsans.

After that it looked like the Fliers were going to coast in for an easy win, and were never headed until late in the ball game when Reinecke and Bailey regained their early season form and launched a drive that put the Engineers very much in the ball game.

After regaining the lead, the Fliers romped away to a 28 to 22 lead at the halftime, and built this up to 30 to 22 early in the final period. This was the last long lead they held.

Reinecke and Bailey started whittling the lead and late in the final half had pulled up to cut the LAAF margin to 37-36.

A few minutes later, Bailey slipped in for a short one that tied the score at 38 to 38, then Reinecke hit for two in a row and the Engineers built their lead to 42-38.

Volz Opens Up

It was then that Volz broke into the open for his first two pointer, with the game fast nearing the finish, and a crip shot sent the Fliers back into a 43-42 lead.

But the Engineers were not beaten and it was Booth that slapped one in from under the basket to send the Tech five back into a 44-43 lead as the clock turned into the final minute.

Playing for time with a passing game, it was again Volz that arose to the star role of the night as he broke through, intercepted a pass and dribbled unmolested down the court for the winning field goal that beat the final gun by only a matter of seconds.

The game became fast and rough in the closing minutes and gave the fans plenty of thrills as the two teams fought for the advantage in the fast changing game down the home stretch.

The Engineers will get the chance next Tuesday to even their standing in the new league, meeting South Plains Army Air field in the second game on the league schedule. It will also be played at the Texas Tech gym.

Navy Sports Program Builds "Will To Win"

By AL DOPKING
Associated Press Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Jan 12—The Navy's "battle of morale" in the Pacific is going along all right—thanks to congenial, gray-haired Commander S. R. Hickey.

As Pacific Fleet recreation and morale officer, he runs an athletic and recreational plant big enough to accommodate 40,000 men daily at almost any sport they choose to pick.

In addition, there are a couple of beaches where Navy enlisted personnel can forget for a time the war, the noise of Pearl Harbor and the cramped quarters of a ship.

Commander Hickey has established a clubhouse for service men on Waikiki Beach in Honolulu's fashionable hotel district. At the clubhouse, "The Breakers," service men can dance and listen to the music of such band leaders as Artie Shaw, now a chief petty officer in the Navy. Chief musician Max Carrick, 24, of Boone, Ia., now is directing a 17-piece Navy band there.

Commander Hickey, who began his Navy career 35 years ago as an enlisted man, has been running the recreational program for more than two years. He was an executive officer on a fleet oiler when orders caught up with him at Palmyra Island to report to Pearl Harbor for his present assignment.

Since the program was opened, more than 2,000,000 men have taken advantage of its facilities. By next March 1, "The Breakers" alone expects to have entertained 1,000,000 men.

Sports in the Navy have been changed by the war, Commander Hickey said. Instead of ship athletics being dominated by a few so-called professionals, they are attracting more and more of the crew.

Commander Hickey, in running his job, said he doesn't get the meaning of morale and moral confused. He sticks to morale and leaves the moral problems to the Chaplain Corps.

His definition of morale is:

"The will to win in spite of hell and high water."

Warmups For Victory Open Are Sub Pars

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12 (AP) Byron Nelson of Toledo, one of the favorites to capture the $10,000 San Francisco Victory Open golf tournament, starting Friday, fired another sensational practice round at the Harding Park course today. He carded a 35-34 — 69 against par 36-36—72.

Nelson's partner, Harold "Jug" McSpadden of Philadelphia, winner of the $12,500 Los Angeles Open last Monday, turned in a sub-par 35-35—70.

The 72-hole tournament will be played over a four-day period ending next Monday.

Ponies Romp To Win Over Frogs

DALLAS, Jan. 12 (AP)—Southern Methodist university's basket shooting Mustangs opened the home end of their Southwest Conference schedule tonight by handing the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs a 40-to-30 beating before a crowd of about 1,000.

The result put the Ponies on the right side of the conference ledger with two victories in three starts. It was the third loss for the Frogs.

The Methodists drew into a safe lead midway in the second half.

Only in the first three minutes of play were the Christians in front.

Bruce Johnson, a guard, scored the first basket of the game and then repeated after a goal by Scott Ernest had tied the score for the Methodists. From then on, with Don Brown, Dennis Haden and Capt. Acie Cannaday setting a swift pace, the Mustangs went out in front.

Ernest was high point scorer with 12 to his credit.

Grid Pros Start Big Scramble For Stars

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)— The most extensive scramble for player material in the history of pro football was under way today as prospects developed at the annual mid-winter meeting of the National Football League that at least 11 teams and perhaps 12 will operate in the circuit in 1944.

The pattern included Boston in the Eastern division along with New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Pittsburgh Steelers, Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins.

Club owners and other officials convened tonight to act upon recommendations made by the executive committee regarding franchise applications from Los Angeles, San Francisco and Buffalo, N. Y.

It is doubtful if the college draft will provide much player material out of 300 campus gridders raffled off last June, only 20 saw action in the fall. Most clubs will depend on discharged service men to fill out their rosters.

Charles Parker May Enter AAU Tourney

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 12 (U.P.)—Director Rodney J. Kidd of the Texas Interscholastic League today said he knew of but one prospect from Texas who might attend the AAU League high and prep school track meet in New York Feb. 26.

Kidd said Charles Parker of Thomas Jefferson High School, San Antonio, might contemplate entering. Parker holds the Texas League record in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, Kidd said. Parker planned last spring to attend the national meet but illness prevented.

North Carolina, twelfth state to join the Union, now is twelfth in population ranking.

SEGUIN, Tex., Jan. 12. (AP)—The Texas Lutheran college board of regents have decided to name the college gymnasium for Lieut. Henry Dick Morisse, football star at the college in 1939-40. He was the first TLC athlete killed in World War II.

IDALOU, Jan. 12 (Special) — Two days of basketball for boys and girls will get underway Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Idalou high school as boys and girls teams from Lorenzo, Roosevelt, Petersburg, New Deal, Frenship, Cotton Center, Cooper and Idalou start battling for titles that will be decided Saturday night.

The two day tournament is sponsored by the Idalou Athletic Department.

The New Deal boys and the Frenship girls were established as the early favorites for the titles in the respective divisions.

Early pairings were not announced.

Pukka Gin Given An Early Derby Rating

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—For what the information's worth when you start dipping into the bankroll for your annual winter-book contribution, Lt. Col. Sonny Whitney's Pukka Gin today was tabbed the good thing in the first call-over of potential Kentucky Derby candidates.

Early each year, New York Racing Secretary John B. Campbell assigns weights to rate the brand new three-year-olds for the Experimental Handicap, a six-furlong dash at Jamaica's spring meeting, and this time he put the long-legged son of Firethorn on top with 126 pounds to 124 for George D. Widener's late-developing Platter.

The Experimental Handicap has little connection with the Derby but is a prep for the Wood Memorial and the Wood is the Eastern test for the Derby. And as a result, Campbell's experimental weights, in which he rates last year's two-year-olds by the way he figures they add up since they've come of age, is regarded annually as the first expert opinion on the Derby.

GARDEN MEET SET

SPAAF Wallops All-Star Five

Leason "Pete" McCloud, the Colorado Cyclone, was in his old time form Wednesday night as he led a last half scoring rampage that gave the South Plains Army Air Field Winged Commandos a 52 to 35 win over the Lubbock Independents, a team made up of former Lubbock High and Texas Tech stars.

It was a close ball game in the first half with the soldiers clinging to a scant 17-15 lead at the halftime intermission. Frosty Cox and Earl Ince had kept the Independents in the thick of the scrap in the first half, and wound up in a deadlock for scoring honors of the losers, each with five field goals for 10 points.

But the pair couldn't match the pace set by the rangy Colorado ace who hit the meshes a dozen times during the game for 24 points and was the outstanding star of the night.

John Kline, former Ohio university cage star, was runnerup in the scoring parade and played a prominent part in the outcome of the game with six field goals for 12 points for the winners. The 36 points scored by these two soldier stars were enough to win the ball game.

A new official that made his debut in this game provided the fans with some colorful work in calling the game. He is Moe Goldberg, and proved to be quite popular with the spectators.

Longhorns Rally To Beat Bergstrom Five

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP) — The Texas Longhorns scored ten points in the last five minutes — four in the last 13 seconds — to overtake the Bergstrom Field All-Star quintet in a tumultous game here tonight, 50-49.

Little Roy Cox sank the deciding goal with five seconds left, giving him 21 points for the night.

Bergstrom Field substituted for the Corpus Christi Naval Air Center team when the Comets were grounded because of weather conditions.

In a curtain-raiser, Austin High School defeated Waco High, 38-31.

We're crackin' crystal records (not the crystal):
We have more patterns in crystal goblets and ice tea and sherbets and such than any other crystal department in Lubbock. Moral: It's smart to pick out your pattern at DeWitt's. You won't find our crystals shimmering, glittering beauties lined up in front of muted indirect lights against a hush-hush expensive background of some strange, odd color. You may even find dust on our beauties. We don't even blush to admit it. A Miracle Before Our Eyes

THE completion of long and hazardous airplane flights is accepted as a matter of routine now. The take-off of a plane for Europe, Australia, South America, or any other distant part of the world excites little more comment than for a passenger train to pull out of a railroad depot.

Yet the achievement represented by the aggregate of these successful flights is as astounding, perhaps, as any advance mankind ever has made in so short a period of time. The astounding has become so commonplace in aviation that it ceases to astonish.

Therefore, it is unlikely that more than casual attention will be paid to a recent report for 1943 as made for American Airlines. Lubbock has a special interest in American. This company's application to establish transcontinental service through Lubbock is set for hearing Feb. 1.

Almost in routine fashion, the report shows that, during 1943, American made approximately 1,200 overseas flights and, at the end of the year when weather conditions were most unfavorable, was averaging 150 trans-Atlantic hops per month. The flights have spanned every ocean to every continent and to a great many distant islands. They do not include such flights as the several hundred that were made over the Himalayas, the world's highest mountains, between India and China. These flights usually are more difficult and dangerous than an ocean crossing.

The magnitude of these achievements by and for aviation is emphasized by the fact that American is just one company, though the second largest, in just one nation, though the leading one. American Airlines supplies only one section of the vastly larger picture which is modern aviation.

These advances have been made in a field that is less than half a century old. The first airplane flight was made only a little more than 40 years ago, on Dec. 17, 1903, and the first Atlantic crossing less than 25 years ago in June, 1919.

The whole thing adds up to something that might, without too much exaggeration be termed a miracle. But it is not particularly surprising that people of this generation should take the marvel more or less for granted the advances that occur from day to day and from week to week are not difficult to grasp. It is when we look back over the years that we can begin to appreciate the miracle that has been performed, and is being performed, before our very eyes.

One Job At A Time

THE President's instructions to the Secretaries of War and Navy that members of Congress may not serve actively in the Armed Forces was so obviously common sense that it admits of little debate.

This does not mean, of course, that men and women in Congress are barred from the Armed Forces. It merely means that if they cannot control the urge to join up, they must resign from Congress. They have to be either a congressman, or a fighting man. They can't pretend to be both.

As it happens, most of the members who have gone into the Armed Forces—and they have been numerous—have resigned their congressional seats. They have, temporarily at least, burned their political bridges behind them. Nor can the sincerity of most of them be doubted.

But occasional instances have occurred of congressmen attempting to retain their political seat while serving in the Armed Forces. To say the least, this is not fair to the district or state they serve. It means that such district or state is not represented in Congress while the representative or senator is in active service.

Any man or woman who serves either in Congress or in the Armed Forces is faced with a full-time job—one that demands all the energy and ability that can be applied to it. Anyone who does either of those jobs as it should be done is serving his country well. No one who gives either job the attention it demands can have time or energy for the other.

The proprietor of the Crossroads Store indulged in a little sacrasm the other day. He replaced the sign, "Don't Spit on the Floor," with one reading, "Don't Spit on the Ceiling."

We are glad that coinage of the anemic penny is being discontinued. We have never been successful in our attempts to pass one of the darned things for a dime, anyway.

"What kind of kittens do catfish have?" asks a paragrapher. We hadn't supposed that catfish had kittens, but if they do, they probably have young ones.

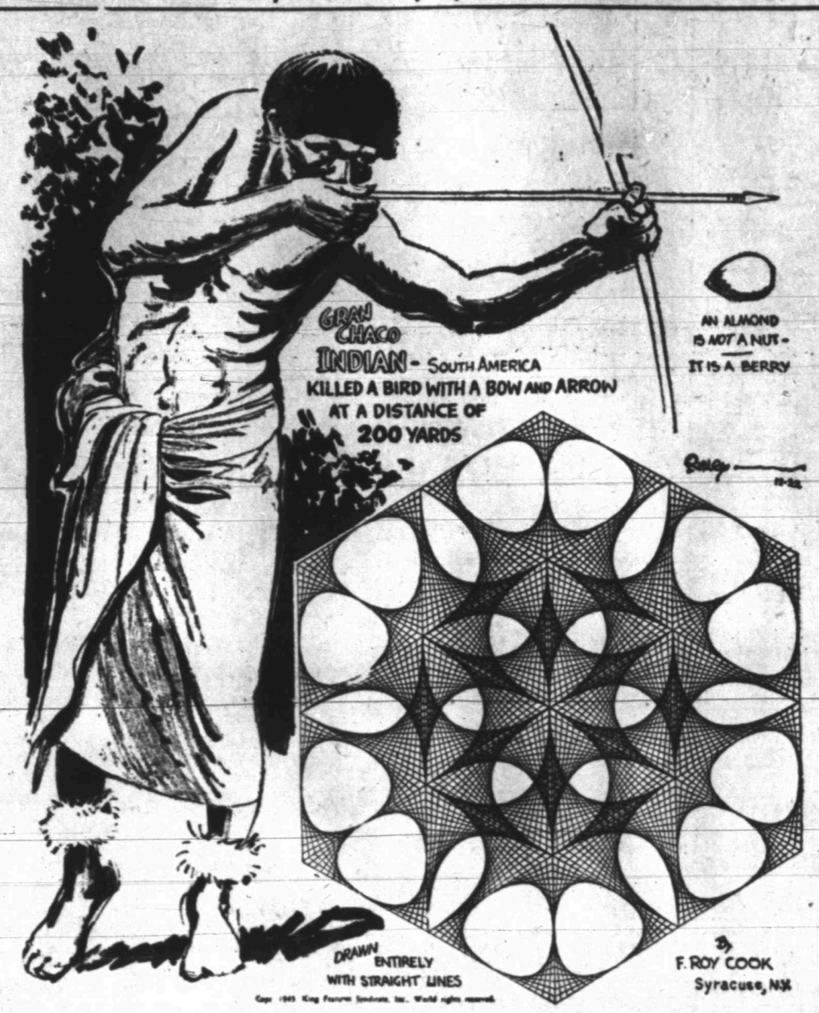

The One Minute Sermon

Behold, God will not cast away a perfect man, neither will he help the evil doers:

Till he fill thy mouth with laughing, and thy lips with rejoicing.

They that hate thee shall be clothed with the shame; and the dwellingplace of the wicked shall come to nought.—Job, VIII, 20 through 23.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

Gideon Planish

By SINCLAIR LEWIS
Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.
Copyright, 1943, Sinclair Lewis—

THE STORY: Gideon Planish, freshman at Adelbert College in 1910, is refused membership on the upperclassman debating team. In revenge, he and Hatch Hewitt start a Socialist Society.

III

THE dean of Adelbert College said feebly, "You again?"

Gid's expression declared that they were old and helpful friends; that he was fond of this aged pal, and glad to give him new vigor and ideas.

"Yes, sir. I thought you ought to know that I have founded a secret Socialist club."

"Well?"

"I just thought, if it was forbidden to have revolutionary clubs, I'd better report it, so it would be okay. Gosh, I guess it must be awful unusual to have secret juntas in Adelbert!"

"No, not unusual; a little annoying, perhaps, but not unusual. But it is somewhat rare for the instigator to come in and inform us."

"Would you like me to wind up the club, Dean? I'd be glad to, if you'd let me in on the course in Forensics. And in the circumstances, I guess I'd have to be taken into the debating socitay, too."

"Please—go—away!"

"Well, sir, you'll remember I warned you."

Upon Gid's suggestion, the Socialist League challenged the college debating society to a discussion of the government ownership of railroads, and that official body accepted, with the notion of having a practice match before the classic annual contest with the great University of Winnemac.

As he was often to do in his later career as a professional promoter of ideas, Gid nearly convinced himself of the truth of his own crusade. He was deciding to go out and nationalize all rails, he was beginning to believe he had invented collectivism, when the catastrophe struck them.

On October 2nd, they had the news that the plant of the Los Angeles Times, which had been warring with union labor, had been blown up, with nineteen deaths. And the Adelbert Socialist League blew up with it.

The League now had nine members. Most of them would have preferred to meet dramatically at Hatch's stable, in conspiratorial darkness, but they were up against reality. They weren't merely defying God and the House of Morgan now; they were in danger of getting demerits from the dean. The executive committee gathered in a corner of the Y.M.C.A. lounge at three o'clock on a bright afternoon.

Gid panted, "Meancometorder. Lissen, Comrades, I think we better get the hell out of this Socialist club, or turn it into a literary society."

"You're going to lay down and take it? You mean you don't dare to face the ruling class and defy 'em when there's something to defy 'em about?" demanded Hatch.

"Not at all! We'll call our literary society the Walt Whitman League. That's defiant enough for anybody! Whitman never went to college!" explained Gid. "There's nobody wants to hammer tyranny more than I do, but this isn't the time for it."

That was the death of the Adelbert Socialist League, and for the funeral there were no hymns, no flowers, and only such exhibits of Christian resignation as were provided by Francis Tyne.

On the day after the decease of the Socialist League, Gid sought out the secretary of the college debating society, reminded him that it had been announced on all bulletin boards that the society would debate with the Socialists, who had blown up the Times, personally, and suggested that the only way out of such a perilous connection would be for the debating society to elect Gid a member. Then, he might possibly think about killing off and generally disowning the League.

The debating society met, in haste, changed its constitution so that freshmen might be admitted, elected Gid, and thanked him for something — they weren't quite sure what—that he had done to save Adelbertan oratory from shame. Late in the spring he was actually on the debating team which invaded and conquered Erasmus College; and the fame of Gideon Planish promised to be as firmly established in the glorious annals of the college as that of Old Plug, for eleven years the baseball mascot.

Erasmus College was in Eastern Ohio, and Gid had never been so far East—almost into New York State!

With his associate debaters, including a very large junior who sang grand opera in Dakota, he traveled on a day coach to Erasmus. They had large stickers, "Adelbert Champion Debaters," on their suitcases, and they talked in enormous voices about taxation, to improve the minds of their fellow passengers.

At the debate, in the college chapel, there wasn't as large a crowd as he had hoped; in fact, there were less than a hundred—in fact, there were less than seventy-five. The hosts explained that it just happened that there was also a basketball game tonight. But as Gid spoke, the crowd seemed to stretch out endless, and they were all his, all looking at him, all listening to him, and his power was on them.

For a moment he found it amusing that what he had to say was the opposite of what he would have said for the Socialist league. Then it was the truth, and the only truth, and he had invented it. He maintained that the government ownership of railroads was not only inefficient but naughty. He played on figures as on cello strings, and wound up his Message like a Beethoven finale:

"I think we have shown by the statistics of railroad operation in New Kamchatka how wasteful is the political control of transportation. But there is another aspect that is even more important: the spiritual side of this economic crime against suffering mankind.

"How would you like it if you were one of our fine, honest toilers, say, like a conductor on your own K line here, a man who has supported his family and paid his debts and his charities and his lodge dues, and been loyal to his State, his country, his God, and his company, and he finds that some apparently innocent passenger is nothing but a snooper, a Government spy, put there on the train by inimical politicians and bosses to see how many cash fares the conductor knocks down? Do you think any man could carry on, like the fine, honest workmen ought to in our land of liberty, in that atmosphere of political intrigue and distrust? Oh, to ask that question is to answer it! And so, finally, do you know what that kind of stuff is? It is nothing less than menacing, that subversive, that most European doctrine—SOCIALISM!"

And Gid and God and the Adelbert team won the debate.

TRAINS COLLIDE

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP) — A DNB German news agency broadcast said today that 96 persons were killed and more than 100 injured early yesterday when the Madrid-San Sebastian express and another passenger train collided near Arevalo, 75 miles northwest of Madrid.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

YESTERDAY a lot of important things happened. Another United Nations victory in the Pacific, the Russian offensive was going along well, the future for the world and me looked bright.

Today nothing is important.

I don't know how the war is going and I dont' care. I don't know whether I still have my job or got fired this morning. And don't care.

I'm sick.

In bed with a 99.2 temperature. My wife says that's nothing — only four tenths more than normal.

But it's a temperature and I have a right to be treated like a patient.

I am writing this in bed, propped up with pillows, my wife's bed jacket draped around me (I can't see myself in the mirror.)

I didn't want the bed jacket, but she insisted. "Mustn't catch another cold on top of this one," she said.

Gosh, what a miserable thing a cold can be!

Nose stuffed up, sniffling all the time, a splitting headache and that achy feeling all over as if there isn't a bit of marrow left in any of your bones.

All you want is to be left alone, or to be waited on and to be cranky and cantanerous with everybody who comes near you.

But in spite of all the misery, it was kind of nice to be able to thumb your nose at the alarm clock when it dutifully went off at 7:15 a. m.

Then breakfast in bed, a nice glass of orange juice, two softboiled eggs, toast and coffee. Everything brought right up to your bed, and the way the wife waits on you — why the Waldorf or the Ritz couldn't do it any better.

NOW the wife is down-town marketing.

"What would you like to have for dinner, dear?" she asked in anxious tones.

And in my most sympathy-arousing baritone I weakly replied:

"Would a little steak hurt me? Rare, you know, with fried onions. And I think a cauliflower with drawn butter wouldn't go badly with the steak."

"And for dessert, dear, perhaps some fruit?"

"Yes, fruit would be lovely," I replied, "but perhaps a piece of apple pie won't be too bad for me, would it?"

Now she is down-town getting the stuff. I can hardly wait for that steak and that piece of pie.

No, nothing is important when you're sick.

Except YOU.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE smarter Republicans in the Senate are trying to stave off a fight over leadership which might reopen personal and factional scars on the eve of a presidential campaign.

Although it is doubtful whether the ailing Sen. Charles L. McNary will ever resume the post, veteran members believe it woud be fatal to sidetrack him now and pick a successor at the present session, as the "Young Turks" demand. McNary recently underwent a serious operation and is recuperating in Florida.

The Oregonian was Wendell Willkie's unwilling running mate in 1940 but he does not share the New Yorker's wild and victorious enthusiasm for the administration's foreign policy. He believes that the GOP should keep its international shirt on until postwar issues have been developed more clearly and intelligently.

So, at the last party conference, he lined up silently against the election of Sen. Warren R. Austin of Vermont, the most prominent Willkieite on the minority side of the aisle, as assistant leader. He had no individual prejudice against the man from Yankeeland but he thought it best to take him down a peg.

The result was that the Republicans did not fill this position at all. His colleagues agreed with "Charley" that it would have been harmful, politically, to stage a row involving these questions at a partisan council, and abided by his decision.

LEADERLESS: Austin refused to be snubbed, however, and stepped into the minority leader's shoes during the latter's absences from the chamber. To McNary's chagrin, he threw himself wholeheartedly into the movement for enactment of a National Service bill and other old schemes which seemed to threaten American participation in the war before Pearl Harbor.

When the Oregonian was subsequently forced to leave Washington, he tapped Sen. Wallace White, jr., of Maine as his understudy. Somewhat diffidently but conscientiously, the "Down Easter" has performed his duties. He suffers from the handicap that he enjoys no official authority—the lack of which gives rise to the clamor for election of a McNary substitute.

Besides White, prospective claimants are Senators Austin, Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and John A. Danaher of Connecticut. Although all GOP-ers are supporting prosecution of the war, they disagree regarding the extent to which this country should take part in any organization that may be formed for restoring the future world.

A contest would undoubtedly degenerate into another battle between the Willkie crowd and the group which wants to read him out of the party. The Democrats would miss no chance to emphasize Republican disunity on this extremely important issue. That is why the wiser heads prefer to remain withuot a chief until after next November.

DENOUNCED: The two in Washington who resent most violently the recent epidemic of "anonymous" revelations are Stephen Early, White House secretary in charge of the press, and Elmer H. Davis, head of the Office of War Information. Whether they can persuade FDR to seal the lips of troublemongers is another matter.

Steve, who has a made-in-Virginia temper, broke loose when he learned of the civilian aide's warning about the American casualties that must be expected in a European invasion.

"That guy," he said in effect, "may have an office in the Executive Wing, but that doesn't give him the right to shoot off his mouth."

He was more kindly toward the military officer who denounced strikes as prolongers of the war, costing the lives of our soldiers, but he thought the indictment unwise and unnecessary.

BLOWS: Early, it is understood, spoke his mind to the man he affectionately calls "the boss"—President Roosevelt. But he himself does not know whether or not his advice will be taken.

Gradually, and largely because of the Chief Executive's absorption in international problems, the close bond between these two old friends is breaking. For Mr. Roosevelt it is an unfortunate happening because the former newspaperman has one of the soundest minds in the official family.

Davis would quit his job if he could muster up the courage. He has been snubbed ever since he came to Washington. The failure to take him to the Cairo and Teheran conferences showed what little weight FDR gives to his views and how feebly Elmer can fight the battle for the "freedom of the press."

But the worst blows of all were that he was not notified in advance of the two announcements of unknown authorship and that the statements were not cleared through him.

FAMILY: Probably the most unusual living arrangement in the capital is that of Admiral Ernest J. King. Although he has a lovely red-brick Victorian home at the U. S. Naval Observatory ,one of the woodsiest and most beautiful sections of Washington, he prefers being on board the Dauntless. The converted yacht, which has a displacement of only 1225 tons, is anchored at the Navy Yard, in a shabby part of the city.

The Commander in Chief, United States Fleet, and Chief of Naval Operations dines with his family a few times a week. But home cares might too greatly distract him from managing the naval side of the war, so he stays with his staff aboard ship. As is already known, this routine permits him to draw sea pay, which amounts to 10 per cent of his basic $8,000 salary.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Loman

A NEW type of bottleneck has developed in shipping. Unless the hitch is removed immediately and permanently, it will upset our arrangements to supply Eisenhower's invasion Army with food, clothing and weapons.

The success of Admiral Land's contractors in launching vessels and the failure of Admiral Doenitz's submarine skippers to sink them have created a situation in which managements of port railroads are hard pressed to find enough workers to unload box car freight.

Tugboat owners are also encountering trouble in locating crews. The small steamers are vital in pulling ocean-going craft and warping them into their slips. The train help shortage is most acute in New York; the tug predicament prevails from the North Atlantic to the Gulf and units are tied up in many harbors.

The railroad crisis is expected to reach its peak this week. Already there are signs that conveyances may soon be backing up on the factories and that merchantmen will be compelled to waste time awaiting cargoes.

EMERGENCY: Another factor in the scarcity of freight handlers is that ablebodied young men have been drained off by Selective service. Towboats are also losing youths to the draft and to better paying Victory plants. Diesel engineers, oilers and firemen find more attractive berths aboard big liners and tankers.

An unpublicized reason for the current railroad jam is that employes took more time off to celebrate the Christmas holidays this year. A similar slackening occurred in the August vacation season. Frantic calls brought 5,000 volunteers but most of the newcomers quitted after the summer emergency.

RUSHED: Equipment cannot be left in cars on sidings. It must move in an uninterrupted stream from the factory to the front. A single break in the flow disrupts the entire logistics program.

The bride who is suing for divorce because her husband threw at her the first batch of biscuits she cooked, is justified in taking this action. No woman should have to live with a man who attacks her with deadly weapons.

On Being A REAL PERSON

BY DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK

Don't Let Vindictiveness and Hatred Become Chronic

ONE WAY or another we must do something with all our native emotional drives. Fearfulness, curiosity, self-regard, sexual desire, pugnacity—such emotional urges are an essential part of us. We can either be ignobly ensalved by them or master them for the enrichment of our personality.

Curiosity is a normal emotional urge. The Peeping Toms, prying gossips, inquisitive bores, open-minded truth-seekers, daring explorers, research scientists are all illustrations of curiosity. Some uses of it produce the most despicable, while others produce the most admirable persons, but one way or another there is no escaping it. Able neither to expel, neglect, nor with impunity suppress it, we must do something with it, good, bad, or indifferent. From this fact, which holds true of all our native drives, a double lesson comes: first, no basic emotional factor in human nature is to be despised; and second, each of them can be ennobled by its use.

Pugnacity is one of the most deeply rooted emotional drives in human nature. Its fll effects are so obvious, it so ravages the world—"When we plant war, we raise hell"—that in any system of ethics pugnacity gets a bad name, and its elimination sometimes seems the only cure.

PUGNACITY, in the general sense of conduct aggressively maintained in the face of opposition, cannot be eliminated, and if it could be we should be ruined by its loss. There are evils in this world that must be fought, and when war has been outlawed and its mass murder has become a horrid memory, combativeness will still be necessary to the continuance and advance of human life. The fighting spirit expresses itself not only in unreasoning anger and violence, but in competitive sports, in hard work, in the brave facing of personal hazards and handicaps, and in the whole range of attack on entrenched social evils. When Martin Luther, having nailed his thesis to the church door at Wittenberg, walked into the imperial council hall of Charles V to face the charge of heresy, an old knight touched him on the shoulder with his gauntlet saying, "Little monk, you are taking a step the like of which neither I nor many a commander in our fiercest battles, would take."

Let a person become overfatigued until he is nervously ragged, and almost inevitably he becomes the prey of contentious thoughts and feelings. He imagines controversies with other people; he magnifies disputes that may be real, or creates out of whole cloth quarrels that have no basis in fact; he makes up angry conversation with those whom he does not like, and writes imaginary letters full of indictment and indignation.

The reason for this is that a fatigued body craves stimulant, that a fight, real or imagined, calls out the stimulant from the adrenal glands, and that when the tired organism has no actual fight on hand it can always make one up.

If, however, we give this indispensable emotional drive gangway, the results are shattering. A chronic hatred or even a cherished grudge tears to pieces the one who harbors it. "A strong feeling of resentment is just as likely to cause disease as is a germ." Jesus' admonition, "Love your enemies," commonly taken as almost impossibly ideal, is, upon the contrary, indispensable practical psychology. If one is so unfortunate as to have an enemy, the worst thing one can do, not to the enemy but to oneself, is to let resentment dig in, vindictiveness get control, and hatred become chronic.

THE ONLY thing that healthily can be done in dealing with an enemy is to rise above such ire and anger into positive good will. This does not involve softness; it does not mean that a man should ever become a supine door-mat for others to wipe their feet upon; it does not deny the necessity of coercion in dealing with certain types of social enemies; but it does at least say, as Lincoln said to a man possessed by vengefulness, "You have more of that feeling of personal resentment than I have. Perhaps I have too little of it; but I never thought it paid."

A woman sought the minister's help on a comparatively trivial matter; but he discovered a serious nervous disorder, based on a hatred of her sister. The woman had suppressed her animosity, ministering daily to her sister, but for all that a bitter, chronic hatred, accumulating across many years, had increasingly obsessed her. The harm it did her sister, who was largely unaware of it, was negligible compared with the harm it did herself. She explained and justified her animosity so as to make it seem ethical. The most important medicine she could have prescribed to her was the Sermon on the Mount.

TOMORROW: The right use of the fighting spirit.

The sea is our richest source of animal proteins, vitamins and minerals which livestock must have to be healthy, productive and fast-growing.

STANTON'S 13% LAYING MASH
brings these vital elements straight from the sea and puts them to work in your poultry yard This fine feed, milled right here in Lubbock, contains ManAmar and B-G Plus, blended with our local-grown grains into a feed especially adapted to the needs of West Texas feeders.

B-G PLUS
is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of ceaseless research and experiment, supplies extra trace minerals and vitamins in Stanton's 18% Laying Mash.

MANAMAR
In Stanton's 18% Laying Mash supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials — fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "Complex."

ManAmar and B-G Plus have been developed and are produced in the laboratories of Philip R. Park, famed livestock nutrition authority. These laboratories have approved the formula for Stanton's 18% Laying Mash. Let the records of users tell the rest of the story. Get all the facts today.

cessful offensives, the Germans lashed out east of Vinnitsa with heavy forces, seeking to stem Vatutin's left wing pushing south toward the Bug river and Rumania.

A heavy barrage of massed Russian artillery met the German assaults and the operations ended after more than 2,000 Germans were killed and 86 of their tanks destroyed, with the Germans back in their original positions. The Russians said more than 5,000 Germans were killed and 144 Nazi tanks wrecked in the last 24 hours.

Severe Nazi Defeat

West and northwest of Kirovograd, where the Germans suffered one of their severest defeats of the current campaign, Gen. Konev's Second Ukrainian Army dislodged the Germans from several heavily fortified populated places. A Soviet motorized detachment broke into the German rear, attacked an airfield and set fire to 40 grounded planes, and routed a German headquarters unit before wheeling back to its own lines.

Commenting on the furious German attack near Vinnitsa the London Daily Express said a crisis in the battle was expected in the next 48 hours, when the fate of the whole German armies in the Ukraine probably would be decided.

The Germans were reported bringing up troops from Rumania to support a do-or-die stand.

Hearing Date Set On Swift Ouster Suit

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Judge J. D. Moore today set Feb. 7 as the date for hearing the state's suit in 98th district court against Swift and Company and others seeking to enjoin them from "doing any further business of any nature in this state."

The state's amended petition charged that while Swift and Co. has a permit to do business in Texas, the permit is limited to the packinghouse business and does not authorize Swift to engage in the cottonseed oil mill business. The state charges that in August 1938, Swift and Co. caused the Consumers Cotton Oil Co. to be created to acquire title to gins and oil mills at Brady, Brownwood, Coleman, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Harlingen, Waco and West.

The state is seeking to have the charter of Consumers Cotton Oil company and the permit of Swift and Co. cancelled, with penalties.

completed. The monthly production rate for the 300-foot sub killers was 40 in November.

No less spectacular has been the output of frigates, a new type escort ship. The Navy announced in May, 1943, that one of the 1,000 ton ships, built in a Canadian yard, was on North Atlantic convoy duty.

By December American merchant shipyards were turning them out at a rate of 15 a month and a program of 101 such vessels was scheduled for completion by spring.

Jane's lists among the U. S. vessels built or building: 600 submarine chasers, ranging from 110 to 180 feet in length; 200 motor torpedo boats, capable of 40-50 knot speeds; 200 YMS class motor mine-sweepers; and 50 corvettes.

verned, and added that the committee was agreed "we have about reached the bottom of the barrel" unless new sources of revenue acceptable to the Treasury are found. The Treasury demanded $10,500,000,000 in new taxes.

The Senate adopted amendments wiping out a House plan for integrating the Victory tax with the income tax, and adopted its own scheme which establishes the Victory tax as a straight 3 per cent levy on income above $624 a year.

There was no disagreement between the House and the Senate finance committee on the repeal of the earned income credit and disallowance of deductions for federal excise taxes paid.

HOUSTON MAN DROWNS

HOUSTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—B. F. Hill, a dock worker for the Shell refinery, drowned today when he stumbled on an oil barge and fell into the ship channel.

Ladies Rule At Kiwanis Frolic

Smug complacency of the men took a satirical ribbing Wednesday night in a Kiwanis club Ladies night program—and before it, when "dates" were so scrambled that few men were allowed in verbal sparring distance of their wives.

The men were given a neat brushoff by their women escorts, and were sidetracked with dinner partners many never had seen before.

That was only the beginning; Kiwanis officers, introduced by Mrs. Marion Sanford, toastmaster, sank with confusion into their seats after being arrested half out of their chairs by acknowledgement of their introductions, not by themselves, but by their wives.

Promises And Avowals

The wives, simulating the best histrionic efforts of their mates, then proceeded to make clusters of extravagant promises and avowals, to the noisy merriment of a crowd of almost 175 persons —twice the number that had been predicted by President T. E. Buckner for the Lubbock hotel party.

The shenanigans were only one of the two barrels the Kiwanis Queens had loaded for a program, for there was to follow an artistic presentation of such dinner program "musts" as Mrs. Carl Scoggin, soprano; Sgt. Heleen Toussaint, reader; Sgt. William Harrod, violinist, and Lt. Richard H. Chamberlain, baritone — not to mention Sgt. Alice Ward, special pianist who conceded nothing to those "farther out front."

Praised By President

So smoothly was the most-fortunately-varied program directed by Mrs. Sansom from behind the red, white and blue centerpiece of roses, carnations and iris, Buckner announced at its close that, "it undoubtedly was the finest contribution to Kiwanis entertainment here since the club was organized 22 years ago," and Dr. Fred W. Standefer was impelled impishly to move formally that the Kiwanis club's male program committee be "fired" and the Kiwanis Queens' substituted.

As suggested by Mrs. O. W. Stevens, whose late husband was charter member No. 7 of Kiwanis here, "it was a program where everybody must have had misgivings about following the person ahead of him—but was able to do so most creditably."

Speak For Officers

Mrs. Buckner, Mrs. William C. Wood, Mrs. Robert J. Allen and Mrs. O. L. Byrd (representing W. C. Rylander, club fixture as secretary-treasurer), spoke for the frustrated club officers; Harry Delaney, official Kiwanis songleader, directed group singing; the Rev. H. G. Gantz offered an invocation, and dinner music was played by a string ensemble of Marion Chandler, Lu Ann Hardy and George Zournas.

A surprise was one of Mrs. Scoggin's songs, the catchy "Silver Wings Against the Sky," a composition written by Mrs. Scoggin for lyrics done by Mrs. Buckner. Miss Mary Evelyn Pickle was her accompanist.

Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. Buckner, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Byrd, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. W. L. Stangel were those who "produced" the show.

Allied Invasion Plans Shaken By Lone Arab

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (AP) — Andre Maurois, author now a captain in the French army, said today that a lone Arab, hidden on a beach near Algiers, almost upset the Allied invasion of north Africa.

In a talk prepared for a town hall meeting the writer told this story:

The Arab detected the landing of Lt. Gen. Mark Clark and his party when they arrived by submarine Oct. 20, 1942, for a secret conference with French leaders.

Believing the rendezvous to be a black market operation, the Arab went to police bent on receiving a reward. Meanwhile, Allied strategy for the Nov. 8 landing was being planned in a nearby farmhouse.

A French coast guard officer, however, learned of the Arab's actions and put out of order all the police cars and motorcycles.

This delayed the inspectors long enough for the conferences to be completed ,the French officers to leave and the Americans to conceal themselves in the farmhouse cellar.

Primary Defended

Hastie that there are 571,000 negroes of voting age in Texas, Barcus said that if they organized a party of their own they "could whip us anytime."

"We've never had anyone who received that many votes in a primary," he explained.

Reason For Republicans

Barcus enlivened the hearing by saying "the only reason we have a Republican party in Texas is so the members can get the plums when the party is in control at Washington."

"It's just like Democrats in Vermont and New Hampshire," he added.

"They don't have many there," commented Chief Justice Stone, a native of New Hampshire.

Marshall said that since 1859 all Democratic nominees, with two exceptions, had been victorious in Texas. He said one exception was Alfred E. Smith, nominated for president by the Democrats in 1928, and the other was "way back."

In Texas, Hastie interposed, "no white person who will take the pledge to support the Democratic nominee can be prevented from voting in a primary, but the Democratic party is free to prevent any negro from voting.

News Briefs

None was injured when two cars collided about 11 o'clock Wednesday night at Eighth street and Avenue K, police said. Drivers reported involved were Gaye Duncan, 29, of 203 Avenue U, and Pvt. John Hobbs, 21, of 2017 Fourteenth street. Slight damage resulted to both vehicles. Earlier in the night a report to police of a wreck at Nineteenth street and Avenue Y turned out to be false.

Two Levelland men paid fines and a third man was held in city jail after a brawl at 9:15 o'clock Wednesday night in a cafe in 1800-block Avenue H. Two more participants eluded police. The Levelland men told police that they were attacked by three men as they sat eating. Officers said there had been cross words between the parties preceding the fight. Lubbock police received a pick-up order from Hobbs, N. M., on a soldier who it was believed had stolen gasoline coupons in his possession. The soldier, it was said, planned to visit girl friends here on Ninth street.

Dr. H. L. Kent, administrative assistant at Texas Tech, was reported Wednesday night as "improving" in his home where he is suffering from influenza.

terminal said schedules of buses out of Wichita Falls to Dallas had been cancelled because of the weather.

WINTER TAKES FLING AT MOST OF STATE

(By The Associated Press)

Crippling weather that rushed in on Texas within a week after a previous record devastating blow is taking another fling throughout the state.

Snow and sleet were reported over a wide area last night, while cold rain that froze on windshields of automobiles fell far to the south in east and central Texas.

Ten degree temperature early today was forecast for the Panhandle, still crippled from the blizzard of last week. A report from Amarillo said freezing fog glazed wires and trees yesterday, but disappeared when clouds lifted in the afternoon. However, a cake of ice and snow, formed Dec. 9, was still on the ground and some highways were still treacherous.

Sheep Country Blanketed

Snow from two to five inches deep covered the sheep country as skies cleared and the temperature continued to drop. A low of 18 degrees was expected last night.

The San Angelo area was expecting further damage to livestock. District Agricultural Agent W. I. Marshall declared that the cold will cause cattle to suffer heavy shrinkage. A few small farm flocks of sheep are lambing, but, he said, the majority are well protected.

Bus schedules from San Angelo to Fort Worth were cancelled and truck lines cancelled runs because of hazardous travel conditions.

Feed Is Big Worry

Livestock feed continued to be a chief worry among stockmen. Cattlemen reported at Amarillo it was still impossible to check the range for losses and that an increasing amount of feed was being shipped into the critical area. The feed situation at San Angelo continued to be critical and many old ewes died last week. More were expected to succumb to the fresh wintry blasts, Marshall reported the area has no more feed than it had two weeks ago.

State Senato Grady Hazlewood said at Amarillo that he wants the Senate general investigating committee to continue the feed shortage probe as the crisis has not passed. He charged that a black market is the one big cause for the shortage. Hazlewood is recruiting witnesses for the committee, he stated.

Party Of 30 Rescued

A Rock Island railroad crew was given credit today for rescuing 20 stranded persons between Lark and Conway during the big storm last week. A flashlight signal attracted the attention of the train's engineer. He stopped to rescue the group. A two-year-old child, too numb to cry, was in the rescued party, reached when the train crew waded snow up to their necks.

At Marshall the mercury tumbled 20 degrees yesterday and was expected to fall into the low twenties during the night. A drizzling rain was falling.

Snow fell also at Midland, Big Spring, Odessa and Wink and covering an area as far north as Sterling City, east to Eden and west to Marfa. Rains fell at Llano, Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Victoria, Galveston, Houston, Sulphur Springs, Brownsville, Palestine, Lufkin and Dallas. Some sleet was mixed with the Fort Worth precipitation. The Dallas temperature was expected to fall to between 20 and 25 degrees, the weather bureau said.

Bible Credited With Saving Soldier's Life

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—A Bible was credited by Pvt. Franklin Rarnell of Schuylkill Haven, Pa., with preventing his serious injury from shrapnel on the Italian front.

Shrapnel was whistling in all directions while Rarnell fought on the 36th (Texas) division front in Italy. He was among those hit but the shrapnel spent itself in the leaves of the Bible in his shirt pocket and only a fragment made its way through the last page, scratching his chest.

BEES HAVE JOB TO DO

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (UP)—Henry J. Rahmlow, secretary of the Wisconsin Beekeepers association, believes bees will have a heavy load to carry on the rehabilitation of war-torn Europe. He told a convention of the association here that more bees would be needed to pollinate clover fields this summer so that the seed could be sent to Europe to provide fodder for livestock.

Raid On Germany

ers downed, the bomber loss percentage may have been higher than the over-all 5 per cent.

The only indication of the makeup of the force came in a London report that more than 700 bombers took part.

"The Germans are back on their heels but we dare not let up. They're going to fight with everything at their disposal and we've got to have more and more planes so we can deal them the death blow," he said.

Strategy Of Confusion

Arnold explained that the strategy in sending out raiding parties against three objectives was to confuse the enemy.

"There are only a certain number of fighters the Germans can send up," he said. "They are confounded as to their defense and this enables us to have the initiative.

"As we increase the number of bombers we send out, our losses will normally decrease."

Commenting on the losses suffered by our forces, Arnold asserted "you can't measure losses by any yardstick. War is most uneconomical, but with our production, the loss of ten planes might not be as serious to us as the loss of one plane to the enemy."

64 U. S. PLANES LOST, OVER 100 NAZIS DOWNED
By HENRY B. JAMESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 13 — Sustaining a record loss of 64 planes, an American aerial task force of perhaps 1,200 heavy bombers and long range fighters shot down more than 100 German aircraft Tuesday to carry through a crushing attack at Germany's desperately guarded fighter aircraft industry with results officially described as excellent.

The operation, which struck three assembly plants in the heart of the Reich, was heralded here today as the opening of the "invasion front" air war.

Brings Out Full Force

It brought virtually all of the German air force into the sky—something Reichs Marshal Hermann Goering never was able to do during the battle of Britain.

Of the total number of U. S. planes lost, 59 were four-engined Flying Fortresses and Liberators and five were fighters. Returning American airmen said the Germans sent up every type of plane to ward off the bombing attack on Oschersleben, Halberstadt and Brunswick (Braunsweig), hidden away in a strongly defended part of Germany within a radius of 120 miles of Berlin.

A U. S. communique announced the attacks were made with "excellent results" against the fighter assembly plants and said "other targets also were hit with good results."

Greatest Air Battle

The air battle developing out of the operation was one of the greatest of the entire war. A German admission that the Americans held the upper hand in the attack came from Fritz Backmann, a German air force commentator. In a DNB broadcast dispatch, he said:

"This time the advantage was with our enemies. The appearance of close bomber formations over Germany had the same terrifying effect as the appearance of the first tanks in France in 1917. Technical superiority may shift, but this time the advantage is with the enemy. . . . The enemy had more favorable conditions for aiming at their targets."

Heretofore, these German fighter plane factories, which are turning out the Nazis' strongest weapon to ward off an invasion, had been out of range of heavy daylight raids. German plane production facilities now are known to be virtually entirely concentrated on the manufacture of fighters.

While the 64 American planes shot down constituted the greatest loss of aircraft ever sustained by the U. S. Eighth Air force, the loss in American personnel was slightly lower than in the Oct. 14 operation against Schweinfurt. A total of 595 men were lost Tuesday, as compared with 602 on the earlier operation.

American losses were less than half the record 124 bombers and 12 fighters claimed by the Germans in a day-long series of propaganda broadcasts.

They compared with the 60 heavy bombers and two fighters which failed to return from the raid on Schweinfurt Oct. 14 and the twin Schweinfurt-Regensburg raids on Aug. 17 which cost 59 bombers. In the Oct. 14 Schweinfurt raid 104 Nazi interceptors were shot down, but the total of 307 destroyed in the Aug. 17 battles remains the highest Nazi loss in a single day.

Direct Hits Observed

The U. S. communique, delayed longer than any similar announcement has been, said: "At Oschersleben direct strikes were observed on machine shops and other factory installations manufacturing Focke-Wulf-190s.

"At Halberstadt a Junkers-88 and Junkers-188 component plant was heavily hit.

"At Brunswick two of three main assembly buildings producing Messerschmitt-110s were destroyed and the third was badly damaged.

"Other targets were also hit with good results."

These other targets were not specified, but Swedish reports said one wing of the thundering battle fleet of the skies swung over the Berlin suburbs for the first time in daylight in a diversionary maneuver.

The Swedish reports also listed as a target the city of Magdeburg, 26 miles from Halberstadt, and site of Krupp armaments factories.

Many of the returning bombers were diverted to bases other than those from which they took off, thus complicating the task of intelligence officers in assembling the communique data.

The Germans admitted losing nine fighters.

and drafting them for service in private industry, operating for private profit."

He said Great Britain, operating under a national service law, experienced in 1942 a number of strikes "greater proportionately than in the United States."

The president put national service legislation atop a five-point stabilization program yesterday in his message on the state of the union. Within two hours Austin came into the Senate with a revision of a year-old bill.

The Vermont senator stepped into opposition at the opening hearing when he said his bill would not abrogate labor's right to strike.

Claim It Will Work

"The thing that's causing all this talk now is these strikes," Reynolds said after the meeting. "If this bill won't prevent strikes then I don't understand it."

Other senators contended the Austin proposal would do the same thing as stopping strikes. Under its terms, the government could direct workers to return to a strike-stilled industry if it is regarded essential to the war.

If the workers still refused, replacements could be recruited from among other civilians, by conscription if necessary.

Senator Downey (D-Calif) said workers might "happily acquiese" if they were sure the war's burden had been distributed equally. He referred to Mr. Roosevelt's insistence that legislation to recapture excessive war profits, stabilize wages and prices be coupled with labor conscription.

Soviets Say Spain Is Serving Germany

LONDON, Jan. 12. (AP)—Asserting that Spanish troops still are fighting in Russia, with more being sent to the front, the Soviet information bureau in Moscow declared today that "the Spanish gangsters . . . covering themselves with the mask of neutrality, continue to serve Hitler faithfully."

Its statement said the "Spanish accomplices of Hitler had affirmed that all Spanish troops fighting in Russia on the side of the Germans have been recalled to Spain," but added that "the Spanish legion (in Russia) cannot be concealed in a bag."

Nazi Exaggerations Seek To Offset Growing Alarm

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Heavy as American air losses were in the blasting by 700 bombers on Nazi fighter assembly plants which led to what Berlin terms the greatest air battle of the war, there are several conclusions of major significance to be drawn from the results.

American losses of 59 bombers and five fighters, reveal that the chortling Nazi official broadcasts were exaggerated by more than 100 per cent. Berlin said 136 American planes, 124 of them four-engine bombers, had been knocked down.

SIMPSON

That exaggeration, officially trumpeted for German home front consideration, can be traced to rising German public apprehension over the night-and-day Anglo-American attack as the hour for west front invasion draws close. Berlin is deliberately seeking to mislead the Nazi home front as to the effectiveness of the protective air screen set up to meet the Allied air attacks.

That is urgently necessary for two discernable reasons. It is not only designed to quiet growing public alarm in Germany under the sustained air attack from the west; but to justify the transfer of air power from the Russian front to the home front—a move that has exposed the whole right flank of the German Army in Russia to the possibility of a military disaster.

No Air Action Cited

It is a striking aspect of the battle in Russia that there has been almost no recent mention in German or Russian accounts on the eastern front fighting of any extensive Nazi air action. The greatest land battle of the war is being fought in Russia by German forces reeling under massive Russian blows without any substantial benefit of the once boasted luftwaffe.

Nazi air power is obviously concentrated for protection of the German home front or in the west in anticipation of Anglo-American invasion. To what extent that Allied aerial second-front in the west has been and is contributing to astonishing Russian land victories in the east can only be conjectured but it is a major factor in the European war equation right now.

Plentiful Rooms Fail To Relieve Cromwell Valet

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 12. (AP)—There are 30 rooms in Doris Duke Cromwell's mansion near Somerville, but James H. R. Cromwell's counsel told chancery court today the husband's valet was delayed getting into his bedroom because it was "occupied by his successor in his wife's affection."

State Senator John E. Toolan identified the occupant as "a truant member of the British parliament who found Duke Farms (the estate near Somerville) as well as Mrs. Cromwell's home in Honolulu more relaxing than London, than undergoing the fury of Teutonic bombing."

This was in 1940, Toolan told advisory Master Dougal Herr. That is the year Cromwell, seeking a limited divorce which would not permit either principal to remarry, alleges the tobacco heiress, often called "the richest girl in the world," deserted him.

Toolan appeared with Meyer E. Ruback, another lawyer, to ask that chancery court declare null and void a Reno divorce obtained by Mrs. Cromwell, enjoin her from claiming such a decree or seeking any advantage under it, and urge the Reno court to annul its decree on the ground that Mrs. Cromwell was a resident of New Jersey, not Nevada.

Chancery earlier had enjoined Mrs. Cromwell from proceeding with her case, but she obtained a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty and noncohabitation.

Shift In Demo Chief Possible

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. (AP)—Frank C. Walker, mild-mannered postmaster general and close personal friend of President Roosevelt, was said authoritatively today to be ready to resign the Democratic national chairmanship in favor of Robert E. Hannegan, of St. Louis, the U. S. commissioner of internal revenue.

Hannegan is said to have the inside track and probably will be named chairman when the Democratic national committee meets in Washington Jan. 22 to select a time and place for the national convention.

The Democrats probably will meet in Chicago in July to renominate President Roosevelt or pick some other presidential standard bearer. The Republican candidate will be chosen here in a convention starting June 26.

GOP Poll Interesting

Republican national committee members preparing to leave here after a two-day meeting at which arrangements were made for the GOP convention, read with interest the results of a poll conducted among them by the Associated Press.

The poll showed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who insists he is not a candidate, and Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 GOP nominee who is expected by his supporters to announce his candidacy formally in New York within a few weeks, running neck and neck, with 21 votes each, among the 82 committeemen and women who voted.

There was a big unknown quantity, however, in 23 committee members who said they were open-minded on a nominee. The others voted this way:

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio 5, Lieut. Commander Harold E. Stassen 4, Senator Dobert Taft of Ohio 2, Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois 2, Gov. Earl Warren of California 2, General Douglas MacArthur 1, Dewey or Willkie 1.

Army May Give Up Rails Control Soon

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12. (U.P.)—Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross, chief of transportation, Army service forces, and army chief of railroads, said today the Army expected to be withdrawn soon from control of the United States railroads.

Gross presided at a conference of 60 high ranking chiefs of all U. S. Army ports of embarkation.

He said "wage settlements have not been arrived at yet, but when settlements are arranged, and there is seen to be no danger of strikes, it is contemplated that the railroads will be turned back to the carriers.

Gross explained that the Army wants to give up its control of the railroads and get back to its "knitting."

"The railroads have done a good job," he said, "and while they are carrying a heavy load and are at the end of their man power strength because of illness, they are in better condition than a year ago."

Do you feel depressed—nervous?	☐	☐

Everybody knows that poorly digested food often causes a headachy, sluggish condition.

But you may not know that Nature must produce each day about two pints of the vital digestive juice—liver bile—to help digest your food.

If Nature fails—food doesn't digest properly—you may get irregular. And the amount of this vital digestive juice may be still further reduced. Thus, digestive upset and sluggishness can follow each other in a vicious circle that keeps you feeling rotten. Therefore, take Carter's Little Liver Pills because they start bile flowing quickly—often within thirty minutes. When bile flow increases—you may help your digestion. You're on your way to feeling grand all over again. Remember—you can't get these same results from laxatives that fail to stimulate the flow of bile.

LAAF Man Discusses Qualities Of Flier

Lt. Fred Brown of Minneapolis, instructor at Lubbock Army Air field, told members of the Lubbock Rotary club Wednesday noon in Hilton hotel that a man who "breaks down" or "takes mental leave" under combat is useless so far as the Army is concerned and should have been eliminated long before he ever got to the front.

Lt. Brown, an instructor in navigation and orientation at LAAF, pointed out that certain individuals were unable to withstand the strain of Army existence even, and an effort was being made to weed them out by Army psychologists and psychiatrists before they got into service so that they would not be a liability.

"The majority of them led sheltered lives before the war and when called into the Army they could no longer lean on the crutches of their civilian life," Lt. Brown said. He declared that it required $25,000 a year to take care of emotional misfits and three mistakes a day by a psychiatrist could cost the government as much as $100,000.

He decried the lack of knowledge of the mental makeup of individuals of the various communities prior to the war, pointing out that the entrance into the service of the individuals could have been eliminated had this knowledge been available.

"We will need a stable, emotionally intelligent citizenship after this war to deal with the problems of peace," he declared.

Lt. Brown was introduced by Clarence Bestwick, program chairman. Out-of-town visitors at the luncheon were: Bill Blakeley, Abilene; Neal McCullough, Albuquerque, and Marvin Paul, Borger.

Retha Martin and Rev. William Blakeslee were inducted into the club as new members by Rabbi Isadore Garsek. Sam Henry was introduced as the Junior Rotarian for January.

Development In Farm Machinery Predicted

DALLAS, Jan. 12. (AP) — Dean E. J. Kyle of the Texas A&M school of agriculture said today there was an imperative need for more and better farm machinery, and predicted such machinery would come with intensive mechanical development in many lines as an outgrowth of the war.

He spoke to a war clinic conference of the Texas Hardware and Implement association, placing the need for such machinery alongside the necessity for maintaining and increasing soil fertility.

Other speakers included V. C. Marshall of Temple, administrator of the Texas state soil conservation board, and Paul H. Walser of Temple, state conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation service.

– AND YOUR TIRES

Driving with unsafe tires places not only your life in danger — but others also. Even worse is the fact that you are ruining America's precious stock of crude rubber and jeopardizing any future driving. Better to show good judgement, earn the respect of your neighbors by taking care of your tires

The Best of Recapping

All recapping is not alike. The best is performed by Certified Master Treaders whose workmanship, integrity and reliability have been approved by the National Institute of Treading Standards. To retain that distinction we must adhere constantly to the highest standards.

Expert Tire Inspection

You can't tell the condition of a tire merely by looking at it. To be sure the tire must be placed on a spreader, examined inside and out for holes, breaks or cracks. Then it can be properly repaired or recapped to add new miles of safe service. Every day that you delay means adding to the possibility of destroying that tire beyond service-ability. Today is the time to do it.
