Hospital Board Withholds Reinstatement

By DAVE THOMPSON

Convening in a room packed with spectators and supporters of both local doctors, the Knox County Hospital Board failed to lift the suspension of Dr. W.F. Thompson at last Thursday night's regularly scheduled meeting.

Suspended July 25 for failure to complete medical charts, Doctor Thompson appeared before the Hospital Board to present his case and request re-instatement to the medical staff of the Knox County Hospital. Dr. Thompson started his comments to the board by pointing out several alleged irregularities in the suspension procedure used by the board in its action to suspend him. Referring to a copy of the Hospital By-Laws, Dr. Thompson read paragraphs that stated the Board had the right to suspend medical privileges EXCEPT for several different reasons, and one of the stated exceptions in the By-Laws was for failure to complete medical records. Also, he read another paragraph that stated the Board could not suspend staff privileges until after a review had been made by the medical staff. Dr. Thompson stated that while he was on staff, no review had been that he was aware of. Dr. Thompson further stated that according to the Hospital By-Laws, the board could only meet in executive session to discuss three different areas, and one of the three was to deal with employee matters. He contended that the executive session used by the board when they made their suspension to suspend him was illegal since he is not a hospital employee, even when he is on staff.

Dan Powers, owner of YDP, the firm that contracts to the Hospital Board for the management of the hospital, informed Dr. Thompson that the preamble of the By-Laws states that the board has the "ultimate authority." Dr. Thompson's reply was, "Only if medical staff by-laws have been rescinded."

Without further comment on the legal points brought up by Dr. Thompson, board members indicated that they wanted to discuss several points with him, and those items for discussion included both emergency room on call duties and medical records. Dr. Thompson replied by informing the board that he had been suspended only for not completing his records and discussion on any other issues could not take place until after the main issue of reinstatement was taken care of.

When asked about the current state of Dr. Thompson's records, Hospital Administrator Brenda Muncrief informed the board that all of the records had not been completed because some of the records were only dictated and not typed out yet. Dr. Thompson replied that it was the duty of the hospital to type the records, his responsibility was to have them dictated.

Several of the spectators present had comments for the board. Everyone present was given the opportunity to present his or her point of view. After listening to all comments offered, the board then closed the meeting by going into executive session to discuss re-instating Doctor Thompson to the hospital medical staff. Dr. Thompson remained in the room and met with the board for at least half of the executive session.

The board re-opened the room after executive session about two hours later and those spectators still present resumed their places in the room to hear the outcome of issue of re-instating Doctor Thompson. Board President Vernal Zeissel informed the gathering as official record that an Ad Hoc Committee of Hospital Administrator Brenda Muncrief, Doctor Newton Neufeld, David Neil Perdue, and Bernard Brown had been appointed to meet with Doctor Thompson and try to work out the differences that remained between the doctor and the board and report back to the board at its next regularly scheduled meeting.

When asked if Doctor Thompson would remain on suspension until the next regular scheduled meeting in September, Board President Vernal Zeissel replied, "Yes, that is correct."

When asked if Doctor James W. Morton, who is new at Doctor Thompson's clinic, would be granted temporary staff privileges until a formal application could be approved, Dan Powers replied that Dr. Morton had withdrawn his application for staff privileges prior to the board meeting. When asked if Morton would be granted temporary staff privileges by the administrator as per Texas Law if he did choose to re-apply before the next meeting, Dan Powers replied, "In view of the facts surrounding the circumstances, I would recommend a specially called meeting of the board to act on the granting of temporary privileges instead of leaving that decision up to the administrator and medical staff."

In other related matters, when asked if there would be a public statement forthcoming that could be published in the newspaper to try and stop the many harmful rumors that are circulating about the doctors and the hospital, Board President Vernal Zeissel responded, "Not at this time."

Other hospital business reviewed at the meeting included the Physician Recruitment Contract, insurance renewal, the finance report, and the annual audit. It was agreed that insurance renewals should be on a bid basis and that bids would be let for the contracts.

The finance report indicated that in the net gain or loss category, the hospital showed a loss of $40,612.00 for July. Dan Powers explained that this figure reflected three pay periods during the month instead of the normal two pay periods. Including revenue from operating deposits, tax receipts and interest, the total bank balance for July was $173,212.01. Checks totaling $151,368.03 were written for the month of July, leaving a bank balance of $21,843.98. The hospital shows payables outstanding for May, 1984, at $17,382.42 and June, 1984, at $26,462.77 to reflect an amount of total outstanding payables at $43,845.19.

Information was presented that the Knox County Hospital Auxiliary would like to purchase ceiling fans for installation in the hospital hallways and kitchen area. Dan Powers advised against the fans in the kitchen area and all board members seemed in agreement that the hallway fans were a very good idea as long as there was sufficient clearance under the fans.

With no further business to discuss, the board adjourned about 12:20 a.m.

Weekend Assault Ends In Arrest

An 18 year old Knox City female was the victim of an aggravated assault that occurred when a 31 year old man threatened her with a gun this past weekend.

The female was contacted at her residence by the man at approximately 10:30 p.m. on Friday, August 24, and was told that her husband needed her to come to the oil rig where he was working. Since the man at her door usually worked with her husband on the oilfield drilling rig, the woman reportedly had no reason to doubt his information or refuse the ride she was offered by the man in order to go to her husband.

After leaving Knox City with the man and being driven to King County, the woman was confronted with a gun that the man held on her as he demanded that she remove her clothing. While forcing the woman to comply with the clothing removal, there was no physical attack made on the woman by her assailant. After starting to cry, she was driven back to Knox City and let out.

After the incident was reported to the Knox City Police Department, a determination was made by officers to contact the District Attorney and have warrants issued out of King County since that was the location of the actual use of force with a gun. After obtaining the warrants, Knox City police officers began a search for the man.

Later locating the man at his residence in Knox City, Patrolman Luther Clemmons and Munday Police Chief Gerald Saffel arrested 31 year old James Jeffrey Waldburger on a charge of Aggravated Assault, a felony charge. He listed his occupation as a roughneck when he was booked into the Knox County Jail in Benjamin.

Arraignment on the charge was held Monday morning and the bond was set at $5000.00. After a check of National Crime Information Center (NCIC) police computer files through the Knox County Sheriff's office in Benjamin, information was obtained that Waldburger has an outstanding warrant for his arrest for felony Grand Theft in Medford, Oregon. Police officials in Medford were contacted and they have placed a hold on Waldburger in order to extradite him back to Oregon to stand trial there.

In other related police activity, Knox City Police Chief Gil Gilliland received a warrant and took into custody the juvenile who was charged with the stabbing of another juvenile a week earlier at the Knox City park. The juvenile female was charged with Aggravated Assault, a felony, and was released to her mother pending a juvenile court hearing that has been set for September 13.

July was a busy month for the Knox City Police Department as recently released July activity figures show a total of 95 calls answered by officers. The calls and the categories include civil disturbances-14; fireworks-7; possession of marijuana-1; possession of cocaine-1; arrests made-2; criminal mischief-2; motor vehicle accidents-3; assist other police departments-5; assist fire department-2; miscellaneous -20; dog calls -6; prowler calls-2; complaints-5; burglaries-1; delivered message-4; funeral escort-2; security checks-4; public intoxication-1; unauthorized use of motor vehicle-1; loitering-2; unattended vehicles-3; disorderly conduct-2; simple assault-1; and suspicious vehicle-1.

Police Chief Gilliland also urged motorists to be very cautious and observant now that school is back in session. The caution should extend to both school zones areas and when driving in the vicinity of school busses. State law requires traffic in BOTH directions to come to a full stop when a school bus is pulled to the side and has its red lights flashing for the loading and unloading of children.

Wheat Seminar Slated

Al Alexander, Extension Agronomist, will be the featured speaker for the seminar. He will cover many important topics, which will include hybrid wheats, wheat varieties, herbicides for wheat and fungicides. Alexander will also be available for any questions producers may have.

The Knox County Crops Committee members, David Albus, Ray Escobar, Louis Baty, Bernard Brown, Sonny Moore, Clarence Brown, Wayland Hardin, Larry Smith and Randy Jones, encourages all area wheat producers to attend.

STREAMS IN DESERT PLACES By OZELLE STEPHENS

"And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, and we beheld his glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth." (John 1:14).

Through the Prophets, God gave to the world the Word of Life. His commands to all human being; they are a blessing to all who read, believe and do, but a curse to all who neglect to read and obey, because they are the Words of life. They tell all about the Saviour who came to the world that man may have forgiveness for his sins and have eternal life. So we owe to the scriptures the same reverence which we owe to God.

When Jesus began his ministry he used scriptures to announce His commission. He said, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He has anointed me to preach the good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim freedom for the prisoners and recovery of sight for the blind, to release the oppressed, and proclaim the Lord's favor to all who soever would believe and obey The Word." And whoever believeth that Jesus arose from the dead and is the Son of God shall not perish but have everlasting life.

YOUR FLOWERS AND PLANTS Helpful Hints

By Merlin Olsen

Flowers are wonderful things to give, receive and buy for ourselves, but lots of us have trouble making them last as long as we'd like. FTD florists suggest helpful ideas.

The most popular flower gift is an arrangement of mixed cut flowers in a vase, so let's talk about that type of bouquet first.

Arrangements should be watered daily with tepid water, not too hot and not too cold. They should be displayed in a cool place, out of sunlight but not in drafts, either. The top of the TV set is a bad place to put flowers because it gives off heat even when it's not on.

Ledges and sills near heating and air conditioning units also should be avoided.

Some flowers in arrangements may droop before others and should be removed immediately so they don't affect the rest of the blooms.

Still another way to extend the life of cut flowers is to add a preservative to the water.

Medicare Pays For Home Health Service

Medicare paid more than $1 billion nationwide for home health services in 1983, according to an article in Texas Medicine.

Of that total, $59 million went to Texas home health agencies, wrote Jeanette Emmons and Austin Brightman of the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) regional office in Dallas.

Home health agencies are private businesses authorized to receive Medicare reimbursement for providing such services as home nursing care. HCFA is the arm of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services that administers Medicare, the federal health aid program for the elderly and the disabled.

The idea behind home health agencies is to provide "home-bound" people with good care that is more economical than institutional care.

From 1980 to 1983 the number of home health visits in Texas nearly tripled, Emmons and Brightman noted in the August issue of Texas Medicine, the journal of the Texas Medical Association.

They said that home health services must be "medically necessary" to be covered by Medicare and that the doctor is responsible for deciding this according to guidelines.

A typical example of a home health service that Medicare will pay for is a nurse checking the vital signs of a patient just released from the hospital after treatment for hypertension. However, checking a healthy Medicare recipient's vital signs at home would not be covered because it is not considered medically necessary.

For Medicare to cover home health services, the article said the patient must be "home-bound," meaning the person has an illness or injury that restricts the ability to leave home. The difficulty involved in leaving home makes it impractical for the patient to meet all of his health care needs outside of the home, they explained.

"For Medicare purposes, the important point is that the patient's limited mobility must be related to an illness or an injury, not simply the result of the feebleness and insecurity that may accompany advanced age," Emmons and Brightman wrote.

They said another requirement for Medicare coverage of home health services is that the patient have a medical condition that requires skilled nursing care at least once every 60 days, physical therapy, or speech therapy.

Physicians do not always prescribe home health care in the same sense they prescribe drugs or order services in a hospital, the article noted. Frequently, a home health agency contacts the patient and then proposes a treatment plan to the physician, who accepts or rejects it. The physician's signature is required for Medicare to cover the plan.

Emmons and Brightman stressed that providing one month's home health care for one patient may cost taxpayers "as much as $1,000 or even more."

According to TMA, the number of home health agencies in Texas increased from 80 in 1979 to 301 in 1983.

Mother Seton, American... and saint.

By any measure, Elizabeth Bayley Seton, canonized at Rome in 1975 as the first native-born American saint, was a most remarkable American woman.

Born in 1774 to a prominent New York City family, she was one of the most beautiful debutantes of her day. Reared a Protestant, she became a convert to the Catholic Faith following the death of her husband in 1803 and entered the service of the Church. Today hundreds of schools, hospitals and charitable institutions trace their origin to her, testifying to the magnitude of her achievements.

Few women have compressed so many careers into a lifetime, or so excelled in them. Devoted wife. Mother of five children. Volunteer charity worker. Educator. Foundress of the first native American order of nuns, the Sisters of Charity. Pioneer in the establishment of U. S. Catholic schools. All this and more in the short span of 46 years.

For some timely reflections on the life of this first native-born American saint, so esteemed by Catholics and non-Catholics alike, we invite you to write for our free pamphlet entitled "Mother Seton." No one will call.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

By GIL GILLILAN
Knox City Chief Of Police

To the right is a sign that I hope all will be paying attention to once again. Another school year is starting and we should all take just a moment to think of what that means to the motorists of Knox City.

With the opening of school for this year, there will once again be a number of school age children walking the streets in the early morning and during the late afternoon. Drivers are urged to be alert and watch for these children. Each year there are many near misses reported to police, they scare the drivers just as much as they do the children actually involved. There are many new kids walking to school, with this being their first school year...their first experience at dodging traffic on the way to and from school. Even though teachers and parents both constantly caution children on being careful, there will always be those youngsters that will start to play around on the way and end up chasing each other, sometimes out into the streets. We all need to be extra careful when approaching groups of youngsters on the side of the roadway, the one that might suddenly run out into the street might just be the one you happen to be passing at the time.

Another point to remember and remind ourselves about is the State Law that prohibits the passing of a school bus while it is loading or unloading passengers. This is a rather serious violation and officers will be issuing citations on observation of violations. From time to time, officers will be patrolling the area around the school before and after school hours to watch for violations and traffic offenses around school property. We have the full sanction and approval of school authorities to issue citations to those students who abuse the privilege of driving a motor vehicle to school.

No police agency can operate effectively without cooperation from the public, let's all try to pull together to make it an accident free school year for the children of Knox City.

HEALTH BEAT

Hayfever, Summer Colds and Allergies

Well, it happened in March, the weeds, grasses and trees released their pollens. During that season, your eyes may have been red, itchy, and swollen if you were sensitive. Your nose may have been congested and you weren't able to breathe. Your ears may have felt like you were in a wind-tunnel and your throat may have been sore. But the worst isn't over yet, we're coming into hayfever season. What should you do?

Here are a few tips which might help, from the American Academy of Otolaryngic Allergy (AAOA) and the American Academy of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery. These are national associations of ear, nose and throat physicians who have special interest and training concerning allergies of the head and neck area. Avoid outdoor activities as much as possible. Get someone else to cut your grass or wear a dust mask if you must cut your own grass. Pass up hiking and camping trips. If you hang up pillows or bed linens outside to "freshen-up," they will trap the pollen and bring it inside to trouble you at night; it is better to use an inside dryer. If possible, stay inside and keep doors and windows closed on very windy or smog-filled days.

Air conditioners can help but it is better to have them recycle inside air than to bring air in from the outside. Also, change your air filters monthly, at the very least. •Chemical irritants such as tobacco or perfumes may cause more nasal congestion; they should be avoided.

•Move the indoor plants and animals outside and rid your home of mildew.

•Tilt the head of your bed upwards a few inches with a brick or two under the head of the bed. You will sleep more comfortably with less of a stuffy nose.

•If the usual "over-the-counter" hayfever medications do not seem to be working any longer, ask your physician if you should be referred to an otolaryngologist for more specific therapy.

Jane's News Notes

By Jane Lockname

Texans enjoy backyard barbecuing and eating as much as anybody in the United States and chicken barbecue is an alltime favorite.

A few simple steps will enable you to enjoy mouth-watering chicken barbecue to your heart's content.

Chicken barbecuing involves four basic steps: First, split the birds in half and sprinkle each half generously with salt and black pepper before placing on the pit. To shorten barbecue time cut halves into parts.

Second, make sure coals are white hot before putting the chicken on the grill. Any type of cooker can be used, but keep the coals 8 to 12 inches from the cooking rack for best results.

Another basic step for top-notch chicken barbecue is to use a basting sauce during the cooking process which contains no tomato product or sugar because such sauces burn easily. A basting sauce will keep meat moist and juicy and add a desired flavor. Apply basting sauce and turn chicken halves frequently.

These ingredients are good for a basting sauce: 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 stick butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of hot sauce or red pepper. Heat the mix over a low flame until the butter or oleo melts; then add the juice of one lemon (vinegar may be substituted). Next fill the pan with water and heat but do not boil. Spices such as garlic salt or lemon pepper can be added to suit personal preference.

To top off the barbecue process, apply a finishing sauce to the chicken about the last 20 to 30 minutes before cooking is complete. This is the most critical time during the entire cooking process. Check the meat carefully and turn it frequently to avoid burning the finishing sauce.

Several types of finishing sauce are available and vary from mild to hot. You may use prepared sauce if you wish or why not try your own! To prepare your own sauce (for 10 chicken halves), use the following: 1 cup cooking oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, ¼ cup sugar, and ½ cup water. Add salt, Worcestershire sauce, hot sauce, garlic and other seasonings to taste.

Chicken barbecue should be complete in about 1½ to 2 hours. Cooking longer with less heat usually results in the most flavorful, juicy and tender barbecue. Placing the cooking rack closer than 8 inches to the coals will reduce barbecuing time, but the meat will be drier and less tender.

A test for doneness is to twist the drumstick which is connected to the thigh. If the joint between the thigh and drumstick is loose, the chicken is ready to eat. Another test is to cut the meat at this joint. The moisture in the joint will run clear if the meat is done.

The fun part of chicken barbecuing is to develop your own secret recipe and cooking style. The four basic steps outlined can be varied to suit your style and taste.

One variation is to debone the breast and thigh meat and marinate it overnight in the refrigerator in a mixture of 16 oz. herb seasoned Italian dressing and 8 oz. picante sauce. Cook in the same manner as before while basting with marinating sauce.

For another type of marinate chicken barbecue use a soy-teriyaki (or Worcestershire) sauce marination for two to four hours before cooking.

Most of all, let your imagination be your guide and have fun. Who knows? The world's greatest barbecue chef may be in your own backyard.

An emotion like joy or fear or sadness, anger is neither good nor bad. At its worst it can lead to marital breakup, child abuse, even murder, but such extremes can be avoided. Anger can bring couples together as well as tear them apart; it can cause a surge of constructive energy as well as the lethargy of depression; it can encourage independence as well as reinforce old doubts.

The spectrum of anger ranges from mild annoyance to vengeful fury. As it escalates, physical symptoms intensify. Anger tells us that something is wrong and needs changing.

Different things trigger anger in different people, and the situation that provokes anger one day may not do so the next. Just what makes a person angry and to what degree usually depends on a combination of three variables:

1. Context-your reaction to any stimulus depends on what else is going on at the time.

2. Background-we all have things that we do the same way our family did as we were growing up. Often when someone does these things differently it brings on anger.

3. Personality-some of us are quick to anger, others are not. If your self-esteem is high, you're less likely to take offense.

If anger is a warning that something is wrong, then its purpose is not to win debating points but to right the wrong. Here are some tips to help your skills at processing anger effectively.

1. Choose your battle-When your anger is over some trivial cause try to ignore it.

2. Cool off before acting on anger-We have all heard, "Stop and count to ten". This is good advice. Deep breathing, meditation, jogging and even counting can help release muscles and resolve the physical component of anger.

3. Stick to the point-Explain why you are really angry.

4. Recognize that the other person may have a point.

5. Write it out-This often works better for some than a face-to-face discussion.

6. Talk to a friend.

Anger has different styles. Understanding another person's style may make it easier to live with. What are you?

★"The Terrible-Tempered Mr. Bangs" regards anger as a way of life, trusting no one, finding insult where none was intended.

★"The Quiet One" withdraws when angry, leaving others wondering what went wrong. He or she may act sullen or not speak for days.

★"The Martyr" feels no anger, yet seethes underneath. He or she defers to everyone and meekly accepts harsh criticism. But this master of sabotage will hide a hook in a compliment, arrive late, sprain his ankle on your birthday.

★"The Hipshooter" is quick to express anger and quick to forget it. He or she is impulsive, volatile, often surprised at the negative reaction he evokes.

★"The Counterattacker" hides his hurt over angry criticism by criticizing in return.

Demanding that a person change his style will rarely ever work. We have to learn to recognize different styles of anger and learn to deal with each.

So, if your mad about something good, anger can help you get what you want if you use it constructively.

Hope to see you next week.
