Veteran Teacher Ends Career After 24 Years

A young woman, whose youngest child was entering the first grade, was asked to teach in the year 1943, as the war had caused an unprecedented shortage of teachers.

Mrs. Ruth Franks, answered the call to "help out during the war years", and now, 24 years later, she retired from the teaching profession.

Mrs. Franks taught second and sixth grades one year each and the third grade the remaining 22 years.

The former Ruth Kiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kiser, Mrs. Franks attended school her first year at what was known as "Struve" school, located approximately five miles north of Olton near the present home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Light. She and Bertha Jones, sister of Owen Jones, were the only two students in the first grade.

Next year, the Kisers moved to Plainview so that the oldest daughter might attend Wayland College. Ruth was entered in the second grade at the college and continued to attend school there until completion of the freshmen year of high school.

She was then permitted by her father, to walk across town to public school, which she attended during her sophomore year. The family then moved back to the country home, which is located at the intersection of Running Water Draw and the Hart Highway. Mrs. Franks and her husband, Eldon, now own this property.

Mrs. Franks entered Olton High School, which at that time was in the old red brick building. The building has been torn down. Among members of the faculty were Superintendent H. P. Webb, who also taught Math and science; Mrs. George Bohner, English teacher; R. R. Tippett, Vocational Agriculture instructor; Miss Rosalie Bragg, Homemaking teacher and T. C. Covington, History teacher.

During the first half of her junior year, Mrs. Franks rode horseback to school but the last semester, she and the neighbor children drove to school in a Model T Ford, which her father furnished. It was driven by the son of one of the nearby families.

At the beginning of her senior year, Olton public schools had its first school buses.

"They were similar to covered wagons with canvas side curtains which could be raised or lowered," Mrs. Franks recalls.

In May 1923, Miss Ruth Kiser was graduated from Olton High School as a member of the first graduating class. Other members were Zula Hair, Mabel Ragle, Doris Ogden, Flava Erb, Hap Miller and Paul Bohner.

In September of 1923, Mrs. Franks again entered Wayland College. At that time it was a junior college and she was graduated in 1925. She was married the following year to Eldon Franks.

As was stated earlier, Mrs. Franks began teaching in 1943, only for a little while, helping out because of the shortage of teachers caused by World War II. After teaching a few years, other members of the faculty urged her to take extension courses and start working toward her Bachelor's Degree.

Planning to teach only for a few years, Mrs. Franks declined to take these courses for some few years, but eventually began taking correspondence courses each semester, one night class each week, and from four to six weeks in residence at West Texas State during the summer, receiving her Bachelor of Science Degree in 1951.

The three children of Mrs. Franks were graduated from Olton High School, with James Eldon and Linda both named as valedictorians of their classes and Don with a very high average. They each have college degrees also.

Mr. and Mrs. Franks have seven grandchildren, six boys and one girl.

A teaching profession may be in the future for one or more of these grandchildren of this dedicated woman, who has set an excellent example not only for her grandchildren, but for many, many children and grandchildren of the residents of the community who will join together to say "Thanks - for a job well done."

Former Resident Wins Two Firsts At State Track

James Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Rogers, former residents of Olton now living on the Hudson Ranch, Fallon, Nev. won first in the 180 yd. low hurdles, first in 120 yd. high hurdles, and fourth in 440 yd. relay at state track meet recently.

He qualified for State by winning first in 180 yd. low hurdles, first in 120 yd. high hurdles, third in 440 yd. relay, and fourth in 880 yd. relay in Regional. Only the top three men in each event were eligible to go to state.

James, junior at Fallon High School, now holds the school record in 180 yd. low hurdles and tied the school record in 120 yd. high hurdles, and is a member of the 440-880 yd. relay teams which set new school records.

This win was the first time in six years that Fallon High School has brought home a first place from State, and the second time since 1907.

The study, which will be from June 5-June 23, "Ornamental Horticulture," will be presented by John Holcomb, a member of the Agriculture Education Department at the University.

Malone finished Olton High School in 1950 and received his Bachelor of Science Degree from Texas Tech. He has served as Ag. teacher nine years in Olton High School.

He was one of the few chosen to attend this short course because of his outstanding ability as a teacher. Malone said Ray Schultz and the Texas education agency at Houston used their influence in securing him this privilege.

Plans are in the making to add a Green house to the equipment of Olton High School's Ag. Department in the near future.

"Long Dry Spell" Comes To An End

Up To Two Inches Is Measured

That long awaited moisture finally fell in the Olton area this past weekend, ending a "long dry spell."

Rainfall amounts varied over the country, ranging from three-quarters to almost two inches. Official rainfall recorded by James Gallagher was 1.01 total.

The heavier amounts were reported south and southeast of town, with Sam Kendall reporting one and half inches and tiny hail Monday night, which didn't damage crops.

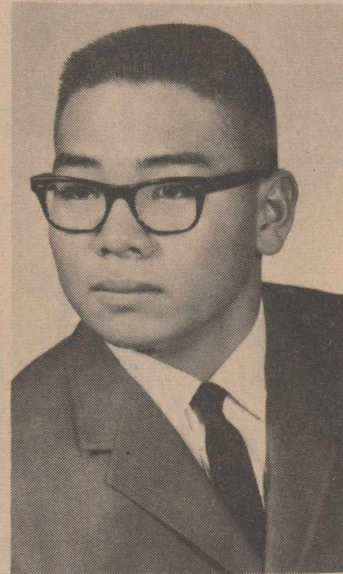

Merrill Brigance said he measured 1.9 inches at his place, and on the Duane Eby farm two inches were reported. Tiny mushy hail also fell here on their farms.

Close to Circle, Albert Gabehart said the total amount they had received measured 1.4 inches and no hail.

Northwest of town on the Jack Gullett farm only three-fourths of an inch was reported and very little hail.

North of town about eight miles, Norris Sampler reported close to an inch at his home, but felt the rainfall was lighter in the northern part of his farm. He reported no hail.

Sandfighters pulled into most area fields Tuesday afternoon when the wind began to blow rather hard. However, before nightfall, the wind had died down and the farmers crops were out of danger - at least for the time being.

SAYS VISITING CONSERVATIONIST

Turkish, Area Farms Similar

Half a continent and an ocean from Olton, Turkish farmers are running into the same problems that South Plains farmers encounter.

For that reason, Ferhan Erkan, a regional director of the Turkish soil conservation and farm irrigation service, talked with Olton area farmers this week.

Erkan is visiting the United States under a 10-month study program sponsored by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations.

Erkan said rainfall in central Turkey where he works averages about 17 inches a year, comparable to the South Plains. He said his main interest in this country was a study of irrigation systems.

He arrived in Washington, D. C., April 1, and from there went to Stillwater, Okla., to take a three week-long short course on soil conservation at Oklahoma State University.

From there he went to Temple in East Texas, then moved to West Texas with stops at Lubbock, Crosbyton, Floydada, Plainview and Littlefield.

From here he will travel to Logan, Utah, to study at Utah State University. Other sites on his agenda include study courses at Berkeley, Calif., and Tucson, Ariz.

Major crops in Turkey include wheat, cotton and tobacco, along with sugar beets and tea.

Erkan said he had tried to get grain sorghum introduced into the country, but as yet had had little success.

Erkan said the major animal products included cattle, sheep and goats, with the first two the most popular.

In the warmer regions, Turkish farmers also raise olives and grapes.

Erkan, who has been in the Turkish soil conservation service seven years, attended school in Ankara, the capital of Turkey.

He said approximately 70 per cent of the Turkish population lives in rural areas. But that percentage could change as agriculture becomes more and more mechanized.

He said currently about half of the Turkish farmers are mechanized, with about the same number making use of chemicals and fertilizers to up this area, with most of Turkish having a slightly longer winter and shorter summer.

Erkan said Turkey is about the size of Texas, with a population in the neighborhood of 30 million. The majority of the population practice the Moslem religion, with approximately 10 per cent split among other religions.

Erkan and his wife have one child, a boy, and are expecting another scheduled to arrive while he is studying in the United States.

Born and raised in Ankara, Erkan has two brothers and one sister.

Open Meetings Mandatory

Gov. John Connally, on May 22, signed into law an "Open Meetings" bill which he proclaimed as "a great step forward for the people of Texas."

He was referring to Senate Bill 94 sponsored by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena. Similar legislation was introduced in the House by Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville.

Passage of the "Open Meetings" legislation at the 1967 session culminated a drive that began some 20 years ago. It was engineered by legislators and the press to insure a better flow of information to the public.

At the bill signing ceremony, Governor Connally made this statement regarding the importance of the legislation:

"Senate Bill 94, commonly known as the open meetings bill, provides basically that all meetings of boards, agencies and commissions shall be open meetings, open to the press. This is something that the working press in the capitol and the press throughout the state have been interested in for a long, long time. I think it's an historic and significant bill and a significant day."

"Certainly there's never been any desire, as far as I know, on the part of anyone who serves on a board or an agency or commission to transact its business under the cloak of secrecy. But, nevertheless, the meetings have, from time to time, been closed."

Connally added: "This bill will now end that and provide that all the meetings shall be open to the press. It's a great step forward in trying to provide a means where the public can be more informed with respect to governmental affairs and public affairs.

"Beyond any question, one of the weaknesses of a democratic society is that it's always difficult to try to articulate and to inform the public of the problems that surround the administration of government. I personally feel that if the public is informed, if it has the knowledge, people themselves will always make the right decisions. And this is going to be a step in providing the means where people can be better informed on the workings of their government."

Governor Connally further stated: "This is particularly important because the affairs of this state are run by the various agencies, boards and commissions. People generally do not quite understand the significance of these various boards, agencies and commissions and the work that they do and the decisions they make. It is really the heart and the essence of government in Texas."

"So I want to applaud the efforts of the press itself to bring into the light and to the awareness of the Legislature the need for this type of legislation. I want to commend the members of the Legislature who supported it and congratulate the people of Texas that they now can be better informed on their own affairs."

FIVE AND TEN YEARS AGO IN OLTON

FIVE YEARS AGO IN OLTON

Three flight winners were named last weekend as the annual Lions Club golf tournament at the Olton Recreation Center drew to a close. Dr. C. B. Johns, Wayne Hair and Walter Bryan were named champions.

Farmers in the Olton area nursed along young crops this week looking forward to what they hope will be another banner crop year on the South Plains.

Olton merchants have teamed up this week to bring area residents a pair of real bargain days. They've set aside Saturday and Monday as Dollar Days in Olton.

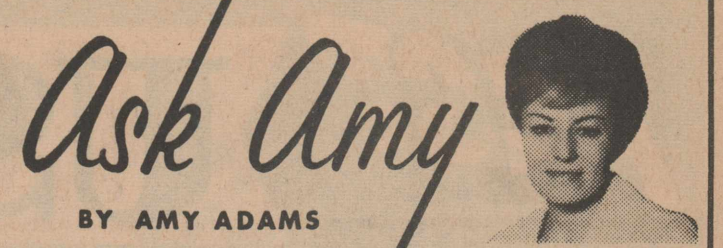

Olton Lions will file into Levelland this weekend for the annual District 21-22 Lions Club Convention which is expected to draw more than 1,000 members from its 52 clubs.

TEN YEARS AGO IN OLTON

As the aftermath of the disastrous tornado which terrorized the Olton Area last Friday during the noon hour--leaving in its wake damage in excess of $600,000 and 300 homeless persons--cleanup and rehabilitation operations have dominated community activity this week.

At a called meeting Monday evening, trustees of the Olton Independent School District voted to interview applicants for the post of school superintendent on the night of June 5 at the Olton High School. This vacancy was created by the death of Supt. Carl Macon on May 20.

In an all-out effort to combat the onslaught of mosquitoes resulting from the heavy rains in the area, Mayor D. Y. Ray announced that an intensive spraying campaign was launched this week.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

DON'T THROW IN THE TOWEL!

Dear Amy: I am 36, married and I have two wonderful boys. Everything should be great but it isn't and it's my fault.

I'm bored with my wife! Call it indifference or whatever you like. I just don't care anymore. I have thought of leaving or asking for a divorce but I'm crazy about my boys.

Each day that goes by, I'm putting her through more pain than any woman should have to take from a man, and yet, I can't help the way I feel.

Could you possibly offer me any help? Mr. P.R.

Dear Mr. P.R.: I feel there is something you have neglected to tell me in your letter about yourself or your wife.

What did you expect to get out of marriage? Being married and raising a family doesn't offer excitement every day of the week, but for a mature adult it holds many pleasures and personal satisfactions.

Your sense of responsibility for your children indicates that you are not ready to throw in the towel.

Before you do something you might be sorry for later, talk it over with your clergyman or a marriage counselor.

Dear Amy: To the husband who goes out and will not tell his wife where he is going or what time he will return: Mister, you have been replaced.

Sorry about that, Chief! Just sign me . . . Bill

Dear Amy: Like they say "Even your best friend won't tell you." I've been to a private doctor without satisfaction. Where could I obtain a thorough checkup on bad (Hallucinations) breath? This would relieve my mind immensely if I have this problem. Hoping you could supply me with a name of a doctor who specializes in this field.

A Man In Need Of Help Dear Help: I'm inclined to think that if you are suffering from bad breath that surely the doctor whom you consulted would have detected the problem if it exists.

Address all letters to: AMY ADAMS c/o THIS NEWSPAPER For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Recently my son's-in-law grandmother died, and she lived in another city. We had only seen her 2 or 3 times and didn't know her very well.

However, three families of ours wired a nice bouquet of flowers to the funeral and sent a sympathy card to the bereaved. Not knowing how to address the card, I sent it to her son, Mr. John Brown and Family instead of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown.

If I was in error on the name, weren't they, too, in error in not acknowledging our floral offering? Mrs. E.V.

Dear Mrs. E.V.: You were not in error. It was proper to address the card this way. I don't know how long you have been waiting for an acknowledgment, but perhaps it will still arrive. It takes some people longer than others to get around to saying "Thanks." If they don't get around to it, THEY are very much in error!

State Legislators wound up their 60th session here on schedule, despite a hectic flurry of last-minute assignments, and left behind a far-reaching record of achievement in many areas.

No one can deny that there were some notable failures. But the accomplishments were impressive.

Here is a random look at some of the session's highlights:

- *BUDGET-- Lawmakers agreed on $2,400,000,000 in spending ($446,800,000 from general revenue) for 1968, without passing a tax bill. They will come back next year to budget for 1969. Funds provide for substantial increases in all areas of state government, including education, health, general administration and welfare.
- *SCHOOL TEACHERS-- After requesting a $68,000,000 salary increase program and being offered $55,500,000 by the Senate, teachers finally got $51,000,000.
- *STATE EMPLOYEES-- These workers came up with their most substantial salary benefits in history. Raises averaged about 14 per cent and ranged up to 30 per cent and more in some salaries.
- *MEDICAID-- Title 19 hospitalization and medical aid to the needy -- most dramatic step in public welfare since launching of social security -- was implemented for Texas by passage of a special act and appropriation of nearly $25,000,000.
- *EDUCATION -- Money was made available for 2,300,000 public school pupils and a 26 per cent increase in higher education spending. Junior college appropriations were increased from $13,600,000 to $24,000,000.
- *CITY SALES TAX-- Cities got the authority they sought to supplement their property tax income by levying one per cent sales taxes on vote of their citizens after next August.
- *LABOR-- Although defeated on minimum wage legislation and workmen's compensation law revision, labor came to terms with management on a compromise industrial safety act and an increase in unemployment compensation benefits from a maximum of $37 to $45 a week.

- *CONSUMER CREDIT-- State's first consumer credit code regulates lending at all levels. Rates of up to 240 per cent on very small loans stirred controversy, but the bill passed by big margins.
- *TRAFFIC SAFETY -- Major part of Gov. John Connally's recommended highway safety program was approved. It included a new drivers' license act, an auto inspection bill and establishment of a traffic program to be administered by the Governor.
- *OPEN MEETINGS -- Another Texas legislative first, an act to require open meetings of governmental agencies at all levels was signed into law by the Governor who termed it "a great step forward to provide a means whereby the public can be more informed on governmental and public affairs."
- *REAPPORTIONMENT -- Legislators agreed on both congressional and state House of Representatives redistricting. However, they could not get together on judicial reapportionment.
- *WATER-- Texas Water Development Board received $1,200,000 more for its operations and completion of a state-wide master plan. Texas Water Rights Commission got a boost of $484,422 to aid in administering the new water rights adjudication act which also is a product of the 60th session.
- *POLLUTION -- Strengthened Water Pollution Control Board got $13,100,000 for its 1968 operations. An air pollution control measure also became law.
- *SUNDAY CLOSING--Lawmakers tightened Sunday closing laws by repealing the "emergency purchase" provisions of the old law.

Key recommendations of Governor Connally which failed to clear the Legislature were proposals for sweeping revision of the state constitution by a 450-member convention and legalized sale of liquor by the drink.

A bill to legalize parimutuel wagering on horse races never came to a showdown vote, but a referendum on the issue was approved for inclusion on next May's Democratic and Republican primary election ballots.

LEGISLATORS' PAY-- Both Houses approved -- and the people will get a chance to vote on -- the proposed constitutional amendment which would raise the salaries of legislators from the current $4,800 to a maximum of $8,400.

The measure, authored by Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton, will be placed on the ballot in the next general election to let the voters decide whether they want to raise the salaries of their representatives and senators.

EDUCATION FUNDS DISTRIBUTED-- Governor Connally has approved an expenditure of more than $1,080,000 requested by the Texas Education Agency under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for educational planning in a variety of fields.

Some $67,590 will go to schools in Edinburg, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Orange, Kilgore, Mount Pleasant, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Waco, Abilene, San Angelo, Lubbock, Midland, El Paso and San Antonio. Bryan and A&M school districts each will receive $22,508.

New Breed Of Fabric To Be On Market

Make your next dress out of Malimo. Malimo is a fabric that is genuinely new in the eyes of the consumer, says Lady Clare Phillips, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Malimo is the trade name of the fabric construction which produces a new breed of fabric, neither woven nor knit, nor what is commonly considered non-woven.

As in woven fabrics, two layers of yarn are normally used to make Malimo cloth. A sheet of warp, or lengthwise yarns, and a sheet of filling, or crosswise yarns are used. But rather than being woven together, the two layers are placed one on top of the other and passed beneath a needle bar.

The needle bar contains hundreds of needles which simply stitch or sew the two layers together. Malimo fabrics can be sewn with either a lock stitch or tricot knit stitch. In this way, Malimo can be made to look like a knit or woven fabric. Variations of the Malimo machine can also make pile or terry-like cloth.

The speed of the malimo machine is so great that it has been estimated that three of these machines can replace ninety conventional looms with respect to the number of yards of fabric produced. Malimo fabrics may provide a real cost savings to consumers.

In general, Malimo fabrics have good launderability, strength, and wrinkle resistance. There are no limitations on the fiber content of Malimo fabrics.

The Malimo machine, developed in East Germany and now widely used in Europe, is still in its infancy in the United States. A great deal of developmental work and testing is presently being done before Malimo fabrics are placed on the market in huge quantities.

Because of the possible cost savings and the desirable characteristics of these fabrics, they are likely to be readily available in the near future. Watch your local fabric shops for this material.

HOUSEWIVES ARISE

Bits And Pieces

I hope that everybody knows how to pinch mums now! My "dear" spouse didn't even tell me that he had found the answer to my dilemma. He just got real smug and wrote his own column on how to pinch them.

For those of you that may not have noticed the bit of information look in last week's paper on the editorial page. It's all there, most explicitly.

I must say it's really a joy, having such a clever, intelligent, and down right smart-alecky character for a husband, I just don't know what I would do without him.

A couple of weeks ago there was a hint in Housewives about a diet desert of gelatin and whipped topping. Last week I made this desert for you-know-who and added some fresh strawberries to it. The results were good enough to evoke a kind comment from the ogre so it must have been even better than I thought.

Another tip all my own that may be of some use to those of you that have to diaper tiny bottoms. Diaper pins are notorious for always being dull at the wrong time, and I can never remember to put them in a bar of soap. Or if I do remember to put the pins in the soap then I forget where I put the soap. So I have found that running the point of the pin through my hair sharpens the point very nicely and the pins go through the diaper without a snag.

Why this works I don't know unless my hair is so coarse that it acts as a file on the pin. One word of caution, don't run the pin through too close to your head. I found that it tends to leave a rather nasty wound on one's scalp.

My friend Kay Featheringill in Midland wrote me a while back and included a handy hint that has probably saved my kitchen from another disaster.

She writes . . .

I thought of another hint taken from personal experience - don't pour hot grease into a liquid shortening bottle and cap it - it explodes! Anyone that has any logic or smart about him would figure that out but I've always been rather faulty in that area . . .

Just as I sat down to write today, Mrs. Golden called to tell me of a quick and finger saving tip on removing the skins on potatoes that you plan to freeze or just want skinless for your own reasons.

She said instead of rubbing the potatoes with your hands and thus acquiring all sorts of unwanted blisters to rub the skin off with a plastic chore boy. As it is getting to be potato season this hint should come in handy to lots of you. After scrubbing off the skin all that is left is to pluck out the eyes with a knife.

I got another life saving letter today from an anonymous friend who writes:

"Dear Karen;

Thanks for your column. Here are some of my household short cuts.

Rescue a burned on greasy pan by adding a small amount of water and a tablespoon or more of soda. Heat water for a few minutes.

For a short cut in cleaning silver, lay a piece of aluminum foil in the bottom of the dishpan, add two tablespoons each of salt and baking soda, two quarts of warm water. Place silverware in dishpan touching each piece to the foil. The tarnish will disappear.

Lick your postage problem by cutting a potato in two. The surface is just moist enough to use for stamps.

Egg peeling is easier if you add a little vinegar to the cooking water.

To separate egg whites and yolks, puncture a small hole at one end of the shell. This releases the white into a bowl and yolk stays inside. Break the shell, and remove the yolk.

A Reader

I have used up my last letter so I'm begging again for more correspondence from you. Otherwise I will be forced to pick my own bemuddled brain for material and the results are usually disastrous. Please write.

GOOD MULCH FROM WATER-FILLED PLASTIC BAGS--The USDA reports plastic bags filled with water and used as soil mulch have increased vegetable yields on an experimental plot in Idaho by 20 percent. The water mulch reduced variations in soil temperature, absorbing some of the midday sun heat and reducing heat loss from the soil at night.

To Get Good Tan, Build Up Slowly

Had your first sunburn of the season yet?

If so, read on and find out how it happened. If not, read on, and possibly pick up some pointers on how to avoid or minimize sunburn.

Actually, a suntan has no real health value. But there may be a psychological therapeutic result in the sense of relaxation and well being gained from basking in the warm sunshine, if it isn't overdone.

Over-exposure to the hot sun can cause burns, as almost everyone has found out. Less known is the fact that continued over-exposure over a period of years can cause the skin to look weatherbeaten, wrinkled, leathery and coarse in texture.

The time of day of exposure is important. The burning ultraviolet rays are most intense from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. No sunburn is likely before 8 a. m. and after 4 p. m. High noon is the hottest time of day for sunburn. Rays reflected from sand or water can burn, even though you may not be directly exposed.

Individual sensitivities differ. You must to some extent learn for yourself how much sun you can tolerate. A general guide for most persons, assuming that previously untanned white skin is exposed about noon, is:

First day, expose skin to sun for 15 to 20 minutes. This means 15 to 20 minutes each on face and back.

Second day, increase exposure by one-third, to a little less than half an hour on each side.

Third day, again increase exposure by one-third to 30 or 40 minutes. And so on.

By the fourth day, a new pigment should begin to darken your skin. In a week you should have enough skin thickening and pigmentation to give considerable protection against burning sunshine.

Most of the suntan lotions contain chemicals called sunscreens, which absorb various wave lengths of burning ultraviolet rays to various degrees. The better lotions allow you to stay in the sun longer with less risk of burning. They do not shut out all radiation, or else you would never tan at all. There's no really good way to tell which of the suntan lotions is most effective for you until you try them.

The suntan pills, used under medical supervision and obtained by prescription, can help "easy burners" be better protected against painful burn while acquiring a tan. They are not for self-doing.

If you do get sunburned, treat it as you would any other burn. Use soothing lotions to ease the pain. If the burn is unusually intense, see a doctor.

FOR FORMER PASTOR Services Held In Dallas

Funeral services for Jesse Glen Watson, 57, were conducted at 4 p. m. Saturday, May 20, in the Memorial Chapel Dallas, with the Rev. John T. Williams, former pastor of Springlake Baptist Church, officiating.

Watson suffered a heart attack Thursday night, May 18, and died in a Dallas hospital shortly afterward.

He was the first manager and one of the original co-owners of the Olton Bowling Alley. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Grady Pointer, Dallas, and Mrs. Kenneth Hinson of Springlake; and two grandsons, Kevin and Kent Hinson of Springlake. He is also survived by two uncles, W. O. Watson, Springlake and Joe Watson, Dallas and two aunts, Mrs. Bertha Taylor, Indio, Calif. and Mrs. O. L. Barnes, Cotton Center.

Watson started working with the Dallas Fire Department when he was seventeen years of age and retired when he was 37. Then he moved to Springlake where he remained until 1961 at which time he moved back to Dallas.

He was maintenance engineer at the Oak Cliff Court House and Sunshine Children's Home at the time of his death.

Relatives who attended the funeral from this area were W. O. Watson, Leslie Watson and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Watson of Springlake, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Barnes and Mrs. Sherman Willis of Cotton Center and Mrs. Bill Watson of Plainview.

Last Rites Held For John Gordon

Funeral services for John W. Gordon, father of Leslie Gordon, were held in the Clay Funeral Chapel in Shamrock, May 24 with the Rev. R. H. Campbell officiating.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas and Francis Gordon, he was born May 25, 1885 at George's Creek, Somervell County Texas.

He came to West Texas in young manhood and was married to Miss Jewel Hanes, in Shamrock, Feb. 5, 1922 and remained there during the early years of family life, both sons, Harlie and Leslie being born there.

They moved to the Canyon area in 1934. He was converted as a young man and remained a faithful member of the Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon moved to Abilene and were living there at the time of his death May 23.

Survivors other than the wife and two sons include four granddaughters, one grandson, nieces, nephews and many friends. He was an uncle to Fred Gordon.

Olton Group Attends Service In Waxahachie

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Owen and daughters, Mrs. Paul Burrus and Mrs. D. M. Granbury Sunday attended a memorial service in the Smith Cemetery at Waxahachie.

The first person who was buried there was Mrs. Owens' great grandfather, Hans Smith, who gave the land to be used for that purpose. He came from North Carolina and settled in that area when it was inhabited by Indians and wild animals.

He was buried there in the year 1852, one hundred fifteen years ago. At first only relatives lay their loved ones to rest there but for many years anyone can use it without charge as not one lot has ever been sold.

The memorial service was held under the shade of four large cedar trees which are over one hundred years old. An organized association gives perpetual care to the cemetery.

Don't Overlook The Costs Of Landscaping New Home

The cost of landscape development--grading, drives, patios, retaining walls, screen fences, plantings and professional service--are often overlooked in planning for a new home.

These are items, points out Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist at Texas A&M University, which can have a great deal to do with making the new home more beautiful and living more enjoyable. Too often, he adds, they are overlooked in planning the budget for the new home.

The average cost of land development is between 10 and 20 percent of the cost of the house and lot. These figures, the horticulturist adds, do not include the cost of a large installation such as a swimming pool or tennis court.

The ideal situation, says Janne, is to plan the house and grounds together before construction starts. This allows for the house to be designed to fit the site in the best manner with a minimum of grading or cutting and filling of soil. The full development of indoor-outdoor relationships can result in better site use.

Janne points out other factors in site development as the lay-out-of-the-land, seasonal wind directions, sun angles, view, types of uses to be made of space both inside and outside the house and building set-back lines.

Ideally, the site should be changed as little as possible when locating a house and related outdoor developments. In this way the owner can save many existing trees and preserve the natural beauty of the location, concludes the horticulturist.
