Republicans Ready For Miller's Gavel To Bang

By ARTHUR EDSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Everything is ready, or pretty nearly, for the big Republican National Convention starting Monday.

Workmen feverishly put the last touches on the Cow Palace.

Delegates pour in to make—as every speaker reminds them—their fateful, historic decisions.

The two leading candidates for the presidential nomination bounce in their corners: Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, now picked to score a knockout on the first ballot, and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who has said he'll scrap to the end whatever the odds.

For all the preconvention babble about who's ahead, this remains true: No one has the nomination until the delegates actually vote.

So on Monday, shortly after 10 a.m. San Francisco time, Rep. William E. Miller, the GOP national chairman, will bang the gavel, officially opening the greatest political show on earth.

If Miller smiles and smiles while doing his chores, there may be a reason. He has been prominently mentioned as Goldwater's vice-presidential choice, although Goldwater himself has said he has still to make that decision.

Appropriately, this one item which seems definitely in doubt will be saved till the last. If the schedule is adhered to — and there's no reason why it should not be—the presidential nomination will come Wednesday night.

Thursday it's the vice president's turn, and both candidates make their acceptance speeches.

As matters now stand, possibly five Republicans will be nominated for president: Goldwater, Scranton, Gov. George W. Romney of Michigan, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Since there will presumably be the usual nominating and seconding speeches, plus the usual demonstrations, look for a long evening.

But between now and then will come a display uniquely American.

Conventions are noisy, absurd, vulgar, exciting, corny, dismaying, boring, embarrassing, funny, dramatic, puzzling, sentimental, tribalistic, uplifting and thoroughly unbelievable.

It can't happen here, you say. And yet it does. Nothing that has occurred during the week indicates the Republicans are out to change the pattern.

Right now thousands of highly unmemorable words are grinding through the old cliche machines. And experts are busy planning the simulated frenzy that always busts out when a president is nominated.

If during the coming week you decide this is inane at best and insane at worst, remember: 1: Somehow it works, and 2, nobody has been able to devise anything better.

Scranton's strategy the past week has been simple.

He and his backers have struggled to stir up diversions—any sort of argument—that might shake the confidence and the loyalty of Goldwater delegates.

So they have demanded a platform on which they didn't think Goldwater would want to stand.

They have held news confer-

GETTING READY TO GO—Communications Sergeant Tommy McMahan and Lt. Tommy Ivison, executive officer, were busy Saturday morning installing and checking the radio equipment which will be used during the two-week National Guard camp at Fort Hood. The 40 local men, members of Battery B, 1st Battalion, 131st Artilery, 36th Division, were to leave at 2 a.m. Sunday morning for the camp. The local unit, which is at full strength, also has 25 members who are taking six-months training at Ft. Sill. They will train next year with the local group.

Local Guard Unit Is Off To Camp

NORTH FORT HOOD — Local elements of the 36th (Texas) Infantry Division pull onto the world's largest armor training site Sunday and immediately start the task of setting up for two weeks' field maneuvers.

Clear but hot Central Texas sunshine is expected to greet the 6500 T-Patchers who are here conducting their 17th annual summer training. The National Guardsmen return to their 65 different Texas cities July 26.

Personnel of the 98 federally-recognized units are expected to have "one of our most challenging post war encampments," as emphasized by Colonel Tom Blackwell, division chief of staff from Austin.

He added that advance parties arrived Thursday and have made the tent city come alive for the Sunday reception of the citizen - soldiers. Early preparations went smoothly, Col. Blackwell asserted with no major problems arising.

CRMWD Board Due Engineer's Report

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District are due to meet Friday in Big Spring for a critically important meeting.

Charles Perry, Odessa, president, has indicated that the report of Freese, Nichols & Endress, consulting engineers, will be made regarding a second lake the district hopes to impound on the Colorado River. Meeting time is 10 a.m. at the district's headquarters.

Water Use Hits Peak In District

After setting a new single day record, water demands upon the Colorado River Municipal Water District eased off Thursday. However, consumption was still well above the 50,600,000-gallon mark.

On Tuesday, CRMWD delivered 54,906,000 gallons of water to its customers, 44,851,000 to the member cities of Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder. Both established new records for one day. Oil companies required 10,055,000 gallons to run the Tuesday total to near the 55 million - gallon mark.

Wednesday, municipal demands subsided somewhat and amounted to 41,272,000 gallons. Oil company requirements also were down slightly to 9,611,000 gallons, making a total of 50,883,000 gallons.

On the peak day, Odessa took 26,585,000 gallons, Big Spring 13,535,000 and Snyder 4,731,000. Wednesday the draw by the cities was Odessa 23,620,000 Big Spring 12,668,000 and Snyder 4,984,000 gallons.

Demands have helped lower Lake J. B. Thomas by about one - fourth of a foot per week, but half of this is lost by evaporation.

SNYDER STREETS WERE BUSY Thursday night as members of the Sheriff's Posse and members of the Junior Riding Club placed bunting and "Welcome" signs on numerous Snyder business houses in preparation for Rodeo Week next week. Pictured hanging the flags at the Joe Graham Cleaners are Buck Byson, a member of the posse, and Jackie Byson, Brad Maule and H. B. Walker, all members of the Riding Club. The Rodeo will start Wednesday night and run through Saturday.

McLaughlin Sells 149 Oil Wells

An oil transaction involving 149 producing wells in four counties was announced here Saturday by C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder.

McLaughlin said that he and Petroleum Producers Inc., a company owned by him and members of the McLaughlin family, were selling the 149 wells to the AMC Corporation. The wells are located in Scurry, Garza, Nolan and Fisher Counties.

It is understood that AMC Corporation has a contract to sell the operating interest in the properties involved in the transaction here to Newmont Oil Co., which has its headquarters in Houston.

Newmont has extensive holdings in offshore Louisiana operations and maintains an office in Artesia, N.M. Newmont operates four waterflood projects consisting of some 245 wells in New Mexico.

James L. Kincaid, who has been chief engineer and production superintendent for McLaughlin, will continue with the purchasers as local production superintendent.

According to Herman Ledbetter, who is Newmont's production superintendent in Artesia, offices for the purchasers will be opened in Snyder, and it is expected that the field and operating personnel will be retained in their present positions.

The exact consideration in the transaction was not disclosed, but it is understood that the payment consists of cash and a retained production payment valued well in excess of one million dollars.

Dulaney Goes To National Convention

Gene Dulaney was scheduled to leave Dallas at 9 a.m. Sunday by plane for San Francisco where he will be an alternate delegate to the Republican National convention, which will officially begin Monday.

Dulaney is due to arrive in San Francisco at noon, and will attend a caucus of the Texas Delegation at 5 p.m. The caucus was called by John Tower, Republican senator from Texas.

Before leaving Snyder Dulaney said "I intend to fight for Sen. (Barry) Goldwter all the way, but expect him to win on the first ballot. I also expect him to win in November."

8 Killed In Crash Near Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (AP)—Eight farm laborers headed for work in the fields died early Saturday in a head-on crash of a station wagon and a car one mile west of this South Plains town.

The Highway Patrol said a car driven by Primo Luna Ramon, 34, tried to pass another vehicle and crashed head-on into the station wagon, driven by Pablo Galvan Castro, 23.

Both drivers and five passengers in the station wagon were killed.

One passenger of the station wagon, Charlie Langora, 16, died at a Brownfield hospital.

The others killed were Jesus Estrada Jr., 11; Ellen Estrada, 19; Dela Estrada, 13; Lalo Guitterez, 15, and Luis Castro Jr., 13.

All the persons in the station wagon had addresses listed as general delivery, Brownfield. Officers said there were a number of hoes in the vehicle and they presumed the group was en route to work in cotton fields west of Brownfield.

Ramon, whose address was listed as Rt. 4, Brownfield, carried a number of sprinkler heads for irrigation lines in his car.

Rescue workers worked with cutting torches and two wreckers 90 minutes to extract the bodies from the wreckage.

Traffic was blocked for two hours after the 5:30 a.m. crash.

Federal Budget Deficit Lower Than Anticipated

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is expected to announce in a few days that the budget deficit for the recently completed bookkeeping year will be significantly lower than anticipated, it was learned today.

Although the figures for the year which ended June 30 won't be available for about another week, evidence is mounting that the deficit will be less than the $8.8 billion forecast a few weeks ago.

The administration announced in May that it had shaved its estimated expenditures by $100 million and it placed the figure at $98.3 billion.

Now, there seems little doubt that expenditures will be less than $98 billion—perhaps considerably below that figure.

On the other side of the ledger, the government has been collecting more revenue than expected because of the consistantly high level of performance by the economy.

Johnson said at a news conference Friday there would be "some good news" soon in regard to the government's financial position.

Johnson obviously believes there are political dividends in trimming the budget deficit and he has emphasized economy repeatedly to his lieutenants. They apparently have been working hard to cut below the goal set by the President.

One measure of these efforts is the number of government employes. At one time the number was expected to reach 2,571,000 at the end of the fiscal year. The administration announced that its goal is to cut this figure to 2,497,000, and it now seems certain that the actual count will be still lower.

Negro Educator Slain By Blast

COLBERT, Ga. (AP) — A Negro educator of Washington, D.C., was killed by a shotgun blast early today as he was returning to his home with two other Negro Army reserve officers from Fort Benning, Ga.

Lamuel A. Penn, 49, director of Washington's five vocational high schools, was shot in the head as he was driving on a lonely north Georgia highway.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy immediately ordered the FBI to join the hunt for the killer. A Justice Department spokesman said the FBI was directed to determine whether a violation of federal law had occurred.

Sheriff Dewey Seagraves of Madison County said two blasts from a shotgun were fired into the Penn automobile as the other vehicle approached from the rear and passed the car in which the Negroes were riding.

Seagraves identified the two others with Penn as Maj. Charles E. Brown, 44, and Lt. Col. John D. Howard, 42, both of Washington, D.C. Neither was hurt.

Seagraves said the shotgun apparently was loaded with buckshot.

When Penn was shot, he slumped over the steering wheel and Brown said he grabbed the wheel to control the automobile which was crossing a bridge over the winding broad river.

The car scraped the side of the bridge, but Brown brought it to a halt.

It was foggy, they said, and they did not recall seeing the other vehicle approach them from behind.

They said they were unable to determine whether the occupants of the other automobile were white or Negro, but Howard said there was more than one person in the car.

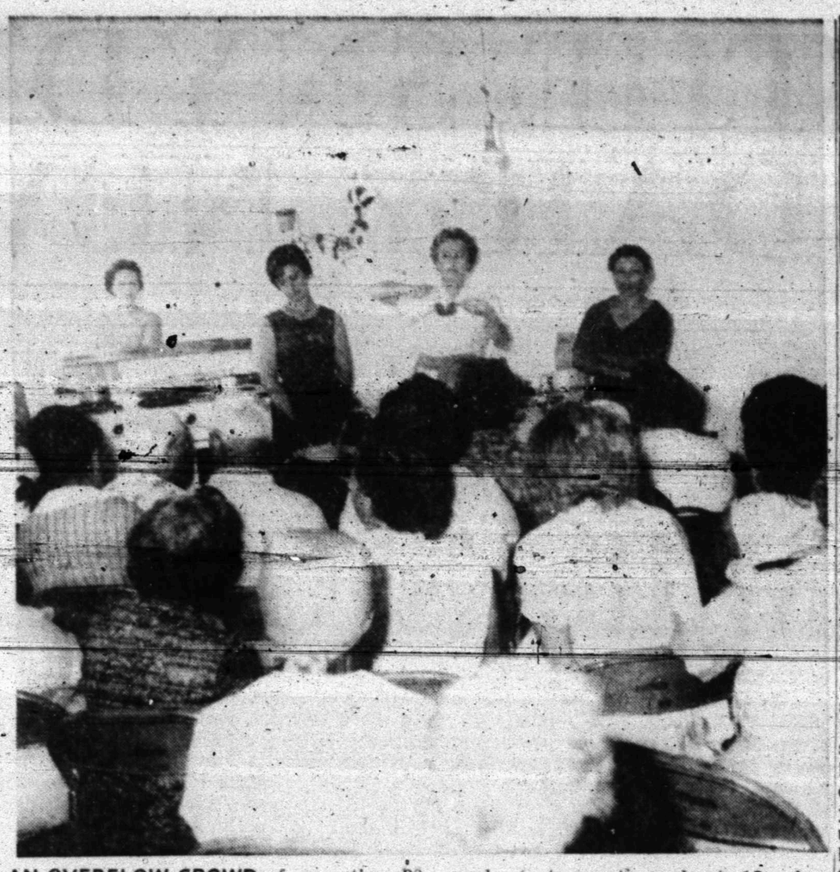

Howard said the automobile appeared to be a late model Chevrolet, and Seagraves said this was the only clue to the slaying except a few buckshot which he picked up from Penn's automobile.

The Georgia Bureau of Investigation joined Seagraves in the investigation.

Penn was an assistant to an assistant superintendent of schools. As such, he was in charge of the district's five vocational high schools, supervised evening and summer school classes and was in charge of most personnel matters in the vocational, evening and summer schools.

Penn had nearly completed his work for a doctor's degree and had studied at Howard, New York and Columbia universities.

He is survived by his widow, Georgia, and three children, Lemuel Jr., 5, Sharon, 10, and Linda, 13.

AN OVERFLOW CROWD of more than 80 people (not counting about 15 who couldn't even get in) attended a cooking school at the County Welfare Office Friday afternoon. Members of the Tri-Community Home Demonstration Club prepared dishes consisting mainly of the surplus commodities which are distributed through the welfare office. Pictured facing the camera are Mrs. Guy Stoker, president of the club, center. At left are two club members who assisted, Mrs. Martha Huddleston and Mrs. Barbara Newman. At right is Mrs. Anita Luna, who translated the instructions into Spanish for the Latin-speaking students. Lone Star Gas, Rainbow and Cash Food Markets, Bolger and Bell-Seale Funeral Homes provided equipment to help with the demonstration.

Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc. No. 1 Post - Montgomery, Garza County wildcat six miles northeast of Post, swabbed 22 barrels of 34.4 - gravity oil and 66 barrels of salt water in 24 hours with a show of gas and continues testing to complete as a Glorieta - Clear Fork discovery.

The production is from perforations between 3,362 and 3,395 feet in formation which had been fractured with 2,500 gallons. The location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 6, block 4, K. Aycock survey and 2⅝ miles southwest of the Duffy Peak (Glorieta) pool.

Reading & Bates Offshore Drilling Co. of Tulsa, Okla., staked No. 1 Lenora Winn, a west outpost to the Herbst (conglomerate) pool of Stonewall County, three miles northeast of Aspermont.

The project will drill to 6,230 feet and spots 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 85, block D, H&TC survey.

The Railroad Commission of Texas has, effective June 1, 1964, consolidated the Clairemont, East (Strawn) and the Jayton, West (Strawn) pools of Kent County.

The name of Clairemont, East (Strawn) will be used and field rules for the original pool will be in effect. Rules for the Jayton, West region are rescinded.

ences until they conflicted with each other.

They have jumped on anything that might produce a headline. The Der Spiegel interview is a good example. The Scrantons said they were shocked that Goldwater would say he doesn't think any Republican could beat President Johnson right now, even though Goldwater had added it would be another horse race in November.

(When Goldwater came to town Thursday a group of Scranton youngsters hovered around the edges with a huge hand-lettered sheet that read: "Barry quoted Republicans Can't Win. Scranton Can."

Goldwater's strategy has been equally simple: Don't rock the boat.

So everything has been sweetness and light and let's reason with one another.

Again, the Der Spiegel interview is a good example. Goldwater said this is what he has been saying all along, and that you don't win the White House in July. "There's nothing new in it." When newsmen said they'd like to see the article, Goldwater said he would, too. "I'd just like to have it for my scrapbook," he said, smiling benignly.

Surprisingly few changes have been made in the convention program as originally announced.

Thomas E. Dewey, a two-time loser in the presidential sweepstakes, had been down for a speech Monday night. But he begged off, saying his law business in New York prevented his coming here.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother became ill, so I called the doctor. He examined her and said coldly, "She's sick." (I knew that or I wouldn't have called him.) He prescribed some medicine and told me to keep her in bed. After two weeks in bed she just grew weaker and she wasn't eating enough to keep a bird alive. I called the doctor again and told him my mother seemed to be slipping. He said, "There is nothing I can do. What do you expect from a 73-year-old woman?" Two days later she was just lying there like a wax statue and I honestly didn't know if she had gone into a coma or if the life had gone out of her, so I called the doctor and asked him to come right over. He calmly said, "If she is gone, you don't need ME. Call the undertaker of your choice and have him contact me to sign the death certificate." After all, Abby, I am NOT a registered nurse so how am I supposed to know if my mother is dead or in a coma? She died the next morning. I thought doctors were supposed to be dedicated? If I want to report this to the American Medical Association, how do I go about it? We live in a very small town.

DISAPPOINTED IN DRS.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Write to the State Board of Medical Examiners, care of your State capital. They will investigate the case and the doctor will have to answer for his unprofessional and inhumane conduct.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Will you join a campaign to legalize polygamy? Particularly for men who have career wives? I speak from experience. In spite of her beautiful home, a car of her own, no money worries and three wonderful children, my wife decided that being a homemaker was not "creative" enough for her, so she took a job. And now when this "creative" being comes home she is tired, irritable, and has no creative energy for her home, children or husband. What do you say?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: A mother with school-age children who seeks a career outside her home for any reason other than because she just plain NEEDS THE MONEY, deserves a good boot in the bustle. And a husband who would let her get away with it deserves two.

DEAR ABBY: My father was a taxidermist and as a boy I learned the trade from him. I use it only as a hobby, however, as I am in the insurance business. The young woman I am presently going with is a devout lover of animals and she can't stand to be around stuffed animals or birds. My apartment is filled with beautiful stuffed owls, pheasants and the heads of deer and elk. She says it gives her the creeps. I like this girl a lot, Abby, and don't want to give her up. But I find taxidermy a most relaxing hobby. Any suggestions?

AVOCATION: TAXIDERMY

DEAR AV: Yes, forget the girl. If she really cared for you she'd abide the glass - eyed creatures. And if you really cared for her, you wouldn't be asking me for suggestions. You'd store your zoo in the attic and marry the girl.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: What would you think if, after you received an invitation to the wedding of your friend's 18-year-old daughter, her mother called and said, "If you are going to send our daughter a wedding gift, please don't give her anything with a monogram or an initial because you know how young folks are nowadays — you never know how long the marriage will last."

ABSOLUTELY SPEECHLESS

DEAR ABSOLUTELY: I would think the same thoughts you undoubtedly thought. And I would heed the advice. P.S. Let's hope the daughter has better sense than her mother.

Automobile Hits House

TEMPLE (AP) — A car careened clear through a house at the west edge of Temple early Saurday, killing a woman and her infant grandson inside.

Mrs. Nellie Schnider, 47, and Joe Perry, 3 months, were the victims. The car struck the bed in which they were sleeping and drove it into the yard.

Officers said Mrs. Charlotte Bishop, 21, of Temple drove the car and suffered a broken arm, cuts and bruises. A baby with her was injured, but apparently not seriously.

Investigators said the car rounded a slight curve on Farm 817, got into loose gravel and went into the yard and through the house. The road is an access highway to busy Interstate 35 between Temple and Belton.

Hubert Snider, the husband, was in the house but escaped serious injury. He was in shock, however, and could not at once be questioned. The accident occurred at about 12:15 a.m.

After Shock Frock, Topless Suit, What?

By HUGH MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)— Does the advent of the topless bathing suit and the bodiceless cocktail dress signify the impending decay of American civilization, as the Soviet newspapers so triumphantly insist?

Or does it doom those attributes on which Ann Sheridan, Lana Turner, Jane Russell, Marilyn Monroe, Jayne Mansfield and other folk heroines based their appeal, to becoming what the psychologists euphemistically term a vanishing erogenous zone?

In other words, chaps, are we welcoming too much of a good thing in the latest fashions?

Designers of the new fashions probably never considered the implications of their act while they wielded their drawing pens and scissors. Yet what they did is intrinsically interwoven with the whole fabric of our national heritage, with the complex tapestry of our diverse democratic background, with the very warp and woof—if you cherish such textilian metaphors — of our cultural well-being.

They probably never gave a second thought to what became of the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome when their maidens, in a fit of fashion, divested themselves of their vests and pranced about the Acropolis and the Forum in their fundamenta.

The designers' defiant cry of, "Damn the decolletage, full scissors ahead" probably never even contained an echo of what happened to the ancient Minoan civilization on the isle of Crete when the girls dropped their necklines out of sight.

If, as Thomas Carlyle assumed and most modern anthropologists accept, costume is a criteria of assessing past civilizations, then the time has come to halt this vulgar pawing at the ready-to-wear racks long enough to consider what befell bygone societies that bravely undraped before a startled if not downright hostile world.

And what precisely did befall them?

"Nothing much,really," conceded Dr. Robert Murphy, professor of anthropology at Columbia University and an expert on Brazilian Indian tribes that nip about the jungle in the nude.

"Ever since Gibbon wrote 'The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire' we have come to associate the vigor and virility of a society with the extent of its puritanism. Women, you know, bared their bosoms in Queen Elizabeth's court and this was a time of great intellectual vigor for England: the age of Shakespeare and the great explorations and the growth of industrial capitalism. It was also a damn bawdy period."

Dr. Murphy is amused that the Russians should look upon the topless bathing suit as a sign of national decadence, "considering that in the early days of the Revolution women swam in the nude at Black Sea resorts. I don't know to what extent this was a conscious protest against bourgeois morality, but it is obvious that Russia's political radicalism has devolved in recent times into a cloying cultural conservatism that inhibits its literature and art."

Similarly, archeologist Jane Powell Rosenthal, curator of primitive arts at the Brooklyn Museum, points to the peek-a-boo Empire gowns of Napoleon's first empire as an example of a civilization flourishing without visible means of support above the waist.

As a student of man's, and less often woman's, constant striving for ornamentation and adornment, Mrs. Rosenthal doubts that the new shock frocks and demi-bikinis will eventually wind up in a total lack of costume.

"These topless things undoubtedly are a further kind of ornamentation. They may result in a counteraction that would bring us back to Victorian prudery but they won't end up in nudity," she said.

Both the archeologist and the anthropologist, however, feel that if the new fashion trend catches on, the bosom could be on the way out.

"Familiarity," insists archeologist Rosenthal, "breeds boredom."

"If you admit the possibility, and I don't concede the probability, that this could catch on," says anthropologist Murphy, "it could actually be very healthy for America. No other society is so obsessed with the bosom."

Their views are enthusiastically endorsed by assistant curator Dorothy Tricarico of the Brooklyn Museum's design laboratory, where fashion designers from all over the world come to study the costumes of past civilizations.

"This is the end of the road for the bosom," she said, as much in sorrow as in support of science. "The minute you start undressing and costume becomes less of a mystery, the excitement diminishes from that part of the anatomy. It's like having too much candy. Just a little glimpse of the ankle proved quite exciting to the male in Victorian times. When skirts became shorter, legs no longer held his fascination and he had to look elsewhere for a satisfactory visual erogenous zone."

As the world's leading practitioners of the bared bosom for esthetic purposes, the ladies of the ensemble of the Folies Bergere find themselves seriously and professionally at odds with the professors and the curators.

Featured dancer Marion Conrad whose public costume each night is straight out of Gunga Din—"nothing much before and rather less than 'arf of that behind"—is convinced that the topless bathing suit will be a boon to all female figures.

"People will become more health conscious. They'll begin getting themselves in trim," she said.

Her views are shared by Marcella Hude of Paris and Marion Barker of New York, who are billed in the show simply as "nudes."

"Personally I like this new fashion," volunteered Miss Hude from behind the vantage point of a plumed helmet and little else. "I'm a vegetarian and I like all things in their natural state."

"It's simply marvelous," added Miss Barker, adjusting a sequin to windward. "Women have been waiting for a long time to be emancipated from masculine ideas of what beauty should be."

Oddly enough, both the professors and the demimoiselles of the Folies were in agreement that the bared bosom is not per se an object of shame. In the history of clothing, many areas of the body have been associated with a sense of shame.

There is nothing really new under the fashion sun, not even the bikini, which the Romans introduced in the fourth century. Bare-busted maidens were common among the early Etruscans and Phoenicians. Greek athletes always performed in the nude, a practice that gave us our world gymnast, from the Greek word gymnes meaning naked.

Many of the Grecian goddesses appeared naked on the urns that Keats celebrated, but the brainier ones, it must be noted, always covered up. The Egyptians wore such diaphanous gowns as would today bring a blush to the dimpled cheeks of most of our extroverted screen sex goddesses.

While the Danes and the Swedes and other Northern Europeans are resorting more and more to nude mixed bathing, the emerging African nations are making their women cover up as a sign of progress.

Costume customs seem to come and go in the wierd cycles that only the world of fashion can fathom.

Perhaps the only attitude for the hapless American male to adopt is the one that the little old lady in Boston struck when finally told that membership in a nudist colony had been taking up all her son's spare time.

"Oh," she said, "I never thought of that."

Labor Pact Is Reached

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The United Rubber Workers and General Tire & Rubber Co. reached a contract agreement early today. It is expected to provide a basis for ending a strike of 17,000 production workers.

Details of the agreement with General Tire will not be disclosed until early next week whn the contract is signed. It then must go to 3,300 workers in Akron, Ohio, and Waco, Tex., for ratification

The settlement was arrived at in a 14-hour marathon bargaining session here that ended three hours after the URW struck the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., another giant in the industry, was not hit by a strike, although it was participating in negotiations.

Contracts on pension and insurance for all three firms ran out at midnight Friday. The pension and insurance benefits have been in effect since 1959.

Lacik Speaks To Jaycees

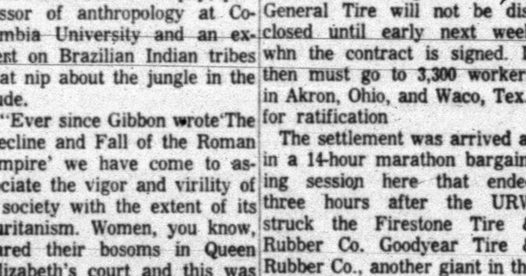

Harold Lacik, unit manager for R. E. Smith, presented the program at Friday's luncheon meeting of the Snyder Jaycees at the Town House.

Another guest at the session was Bob Harlin.

Lacik spoke to the group on economic aspects of the oil industry as they affect various phases of community life. A highlight of the program was the showing of a film explaining the 27½ per cent depletion allowance.

Dean Floyd, Jaycee president, presided at the luncheon.

Tourists Upset By Earthquakes

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Tourists get more upset than anyone when an earthquake hits Mexico. This was emphasized again last Monday when a fairly hard one rocked much of the country.

The rock and roll movement isn't exactly soothing to foreigners in a strange country. But natives who have been through quite a few quakes will assure you they're not as bad as tourists think.

First, they don't last long. Second, they don't happen often.

When the grade six temblor hit Monday, tourists poured out of hotels. Most were in pajamas or nightgowns but they didn't care.

No one was killed in Mexico City, but the govenment was even more upset than the tourists. Quakes and their publicity sometimes cut down on the important tourist trade—and dollars.

A local man who isn't even allowed in the seismographic observatory predicted the quake weeks in advance.

He is Arnaldo Mejia, a short, chubby, talkative man who works for the government's Hydraulic Resources Ministry and in his spare time edits a newspaper called "El Mundo."

He says he predicted the 1957 earthquake, and has definite proof he called the turn on the one recently. It was predicted May 31, 1964, in a prominently played page one story in El Mundo.

On election day Sunday, July 5, he told everyone who would listen that there would be a severe temblor that night. There was.

He says he consults the ancient Aztec calendar, which he claims gives valuable information about quakes, eclipses, droughts and rains.

Next major forecast: In 9,000 days—about 24½ years—he says all of Mexico's dormant volcanoes will erupt.

First reports last Monday were from Mexico City itself. No deaths. Little damage. But then came belated reports from isolated areas which said about 36 persons were killed and damage terrific.

But the government—and hotel owners and tourist agencies—hastened to point out that almost everyone killed was in an adobe hut that collapsed.

Tip for tourists:

You can almost choose the type of earthquake you want to be in.

Mexico City, for example, is atop spongy subsoil and earthquakes are weirdly silent.

Bond Ruling Is Suspended

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Railroad Commission has suspended a controversial oil well plugging bond requirement and set the matter down for an Aug. 20 hearing.

The commission said Friday "it appears that the issuance of the order with the limited time set for compliance was ill advised and should be reviewed."

The order, adopted recently to take effect Aug. 1, required posting of $5,000 bond upon application to drill or rework a well.

The action was taken to implement a 1955 law, requiring no hearing because of the statutory provision. The commission said the order was an anti-water pollution measure brought by complaints of pollution caused by unplugged wells.

Producers immediately protested the order, contending the cost of bonding is prohibitive and that some bonding companies have refused producers' applications. Some bonding companies also have criticized the wording of the order, the commission said.

Topsy Turvy Situation

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—When Miss Edna Lawrence of Belvidere, Ill., received a letter from the Pontiac, Ill., police threatening arrest for failure to pay a parking ticket, she thought something was wrong. She had never been there.

And when a Bloomington, Ill., insurance company called her about a recent traffic accident, she was sure something was wrong. She had been in no mishaps.

The trouble, as she finally learned from state police, was caused by a pair of 1964 Illinois automobile license plates.

John E. Harrison of Wildwood, Ill., who recently received a parking ticket in Pontiac and also was in an accident, has been displaying his plates upside down since last winter.

His number is 660-898; hers 868-099.

Chuck McKinley Choice To Win National Clay

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Top-seeded Chuck McKinley is favored to score the first three-in-a-row National Clay Courts title sweep in 26 years this week.

The week-long championships opening Monday for 128 men and 64 women has particular significance this year because the Davis Cup challenge round also will be played on composition courts at Cleveland Sept. 24-26.

Last year when McKinley and Dennis Ralston, seeded No. 2 here, returned the Da .s Cup to America the challenge round was played on grass in Australia.

Thus, the scramble at River Forest, expected to produce a replay of last year's final between McKinlez and Ralston, will serve as a clay court priming for the Davis Cup competition.

McKinley, pegged to become the first man since Bobby Riggs to win three successive singles crowns, h eads a high-voltage field of most of the top U. S. men players. Riggs did it in 1936, 1937 and 1938.

On the distaff side the only missing name performers are Darlene Hard, now a pro, and Billie Jean Moffitt.

The top-seeded woman entry is Nancy Richey of Dallas, defending champion. Her chief rival appears to be second-seeded Carole Caldwell, who was to be married Saturday to Northwestern University's Davis Cupper, Marty Riessen.

Riessen is No. 4 in the men's seeding, behind McKinley, Ralston and Frank Froehling.

Arthur Ashe, another 1963 Davis Cupper, is seeded No. 5; Huck Pasarell of Puerto Rico, No. 6; Jim McManus, No. 7, and Cliff Buchholtz, No. 8. The No. 1 foreign seed is Abe Segal of South Africa.

An upset or two could ruffle the women's division, which has only four seeded performers. The seeded group includes Gwyn Thomas, No. 3, and Judy Alvarez, No. 4.

Listed as unranked nationally, but rated a strong challenger is former Wimbledon champion Karen Hantze Susman. Formerly No. 1 in the nation, Karen is unranked because of insufficient data last year when she gave birth to a daughter.

Prodigy in the feminine draw is 15-year-old Jane (Peaches) Barkowicz from Hamtramck, Mich. Top foreign threat is a hard-hitting, shapely lass from Denmark, Ulla Pontoppidian.

One Less College To Play Football

DALLAS (AP)—There will be one less team in Texas college football this season although one has been added.

Jarvis Christian College of Hawkins announced it was discontinuing football to cut one school from the senior college list.

Hardin-Simmons gave it up several months ago but San Angelo entered senior college football and mapped a schedule for 1964.

There will be 32 senior colleges and nine junior colleges playing the game this fall. Last year there were 33 senior colleges and nine junior colleges.

There will be only one conference for junior colleges this year, the Texas Eastern and Pioneer Conferences having merged.

With Jarvis withdrawing, only four Negro colleges continue in Texas football—Bishop, Prairie View, Texas Southern and Wiley.

First games will be played Sept. 12.

Here is the lineup for Texas college football this year:

Southwest Conference—Texas, Texas A&M, Bylor, Rice, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech.

Missouri Valley—North Texas State.

Lone Star Conference—Southwest Texas, Sam Houston State, Texas A&I, East Texas State, Stephen F. Austin, Howard Payne, Sul Ross.

Southland Conference — Abilene Christian, Arlington State, Lamar Tech, Trinity.

Independents—Austin College, San Angelo, Corpus Christi, Texas Lutheran, Houston, West Texas State, Tarleton State, McMurry, Texas Western.

Negro colleges—Bishop, Prairie View, Texas Southern, Wiley.

Texas Junior College Conference Texarkana, Kilgore, Tyler, Henderson County, Navarro, Wharton, Ranger, Cisco, Blinn.

Guardsmen Pull Out Of Cambridge

CAMBRIDE, Md. (AP) — National Guard troops left Cambridge today, exactly one year from the night of racial violence that brought them.

The 50 men were up before dawn for breakfast. About two hours later, as the sun was breaking through a hazy sky, five jeeps and two 2½-ton trucks rumbled across the Choptank River which flows past the town.

With the Guardsmen went the modified militia law they established to keep a tense racial peace.

One or two officers will remain for several days "to make sure we do not owe anybody," as Col. William Ogletree, troop commander put it.

Also staying was Capt. William Harris, Baltimore, a Negro deputy U.S. marshal in civilian life. He has been working on a recreation program for Negro children in the community of 12,600.

No townspeople turned out for the departure.

LEO'S SWEETHEART — Aspiring actress Carolyn Morin, 26, of Middlebury, Vt., is all smiles with Los Angeles Dodgers baseball coach Leo Durocher, 57, who says he loves her. Durocher is on trial in Middlebury, charged with alienating affections of Carolyn's mother. Suit was brought by Carolyn's father, a bricklayer, who seeks $150,000 from Durocher. (AP Wirephoto)

Braves, Sox Beat Cards, Yankees

The White Sox edged the Yankees 3-2 and the Braves slipped by the Cardinals 6-5 in extra innings in Little League play Friday night. The night's activity wound up the regular season games, except for a makeup contest Monday night between the Yankees and the Indians.

The Monday night affair will determine second place in the American Little League, as the Yankees and Indians are tied with 6-8 records. The Athletics won the title and ended regular season play with 13 wins and only 2 losses.

The Braves won the second place spot with their victory over the Cards. The National Little League race ended as close as it possibly could with no ties for places. The Cubs won it, one game ahead of the Braves, who are one game ahead of the Cardinals, who are one game ahead of the Giants.

The Yankees jumped out ahead in the first inning with one run on a homer by Delbert Hirst. However, the White Sox came up with 3 runs in the 2nd frame. The big blow was a triple by Mike Welch. Ronald Ward was the winning pitcher. Stewart Sims was charged with the loss, although he gave up only 2 hits.

The Brave - Cardinal affair went right down to the wire. It was tied 5-all at the end of the regulation 6 innings. Tommy Anger won it for the Braves with a home run in the 7th, his second homer of the game.

Anger was the winning pitcher for the Braves, having come to the mound in the 6th, relieved Lee McNair, who in turn had relieved Juan Quiros in the 3rd. The only extra - base blow for the Cards was a double by David Thompson.

Texas League Roundup

By The Associated Press

The San Antonio Bullets have many ways of winning ball games, as their record might indicate, but they took a different route Friday night—they just let the opposition beat itself.

San Antonio downed El Paso 14-8 by scoring nine runs in the eighth inning. El Paso pitchers surrendered seven walks, the team made an error and San Antonio got three hits in that nightmarish inning and no one could quite meet such a situation.

The Bullets increased their lead to four games over second place Albuquerque.

Third place Tulsa continued to slump and fell back six games from the leader. Austin beat Tulsa 2-1 as Hal Breeden homered in the 12th inning.

Pat Jarvis and Bob Moorhead teamed up to work a four-hitter against the Oilers. Moorhead pitched four innings of one-hit ball to get the decision.

Fort Worth beat Albuquerque 8-2 with Bob Baillargeon pitching shutout ball for eight innings.

He had his shutout spoiled in the ninth inning on doubles by Mel Corbo and Don Allison, Hector Valle's single and Pete Jernigan's sacrifice fly.

Fort Worth again is at Albuquerque, San Antonio at El Paso and Tulsa at Austin.

Truck Hits Crowd At Bicycle Race

BERGERAC, France (AP) — A gasoline tank truck crashed into a crowd of spectators waiting on a bridge today for the passage of the Tour de France bicycle race. Official reports said 9 persons were killed and 11 injured as the truck plunged through the bridge guard rail into a canal, sweeping several dozen persons into the water with it.

The driver of the 15-ton truck leaped from the cab just before the truck hit the rail. Some reports said enraged persons in the crowd mauled the gendarme who was driving the vehicle.

Reports from the scene said eight bodies had been recovered from the canal and four wounded had died in a hospital in Bergerac. But officials said that some of the dead had been brought to Bergerac with the wounded and that the count of bodies had overlapped. Two of those killed were children.

The truck was following the bicycle race—a three-week marathon that rates as one of France's biggest sporting events—to supply gas to the police helicopter which keeps a constant survey over the race route.

Several dozen persons who had been sitting on the bridge railing or leaning against it were swept off the bridge into a canal. Frogmen were called out to help the rescue efforts.

Witnesses said the driver of the truck leaped from the cab just before the truck plunged into the canal.

Six bodies were recovered and three persons who had been injured died in the hospital at Bergerac.

The 81 riders in the tour stopped for about five minutes at the scene to watch the activity. Then they pedaled off on the rest of their day's ride—a 135-mile trek from Bordeaux to Brives.

The race is one of the big features of the European sports scene each year. It takes the racers throughout France in day after day of competition. Today's leg was the 19th.

Teen-Age Groups At Abilene In Brawl

ABILENE (AP)— A teen-ager was arrested, 10 others were held for investigation and another was in a hospital with a bullet wound in his scalp after two groups of boys began fighting Friday.

Police said the boys had challenged each other at a large city park. One youth pulled a pistol and fired into the ground.

Lunn Will Defend Title

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Defending champion Bob Lunn of San Francisco and 149 challengers tee off Monday in qualifying rounds for the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The event, held here for the first time since 1947, goes on at Gross, a city park course, shortened by one stroke for the tournament to play 35-35—70. The layout measures 6,303 yards.

Also in the field is Bob Oppermann, Lunn's fellow San Franciscan who was runner-up last year.

Qualifying rounds of medal play Monday and Tuesday will trim the field to 64 golfers for match play eliminations on Wednesday through Saturday. The title round Saturday will be 36 holes.

The rolling, tree-lined course had been burned badly by hot, dry weather in recent weeks but is expected to rebound with heavy rains late last week. However, the short rough likely will pose no problems for the field of public course players.

An interested spectator at the tournament will be Les Bolstad, University of Minnesota golf coach who won the tournament at 18 at Buffalo, N.Y., in 1926.

"With all the dry weather we've been having, they'll tear the course apart," Bolstad predicted. "They'll drive the ball a mile."

Healthiest Indian Takes Pills Daily

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland franchise is supposed to be sick, and even the healthiest guy on the club is taking pills.

That would be rookie sensation Bob Chance, who keeps popping diet pills into his mouth and homers into the stands.

Chance, a 6-foot-4 behemoth who weighs in at 215 pounds after missing his meals, continued his slugging Friday night slamming two homers and driving in five runs as the Indians ended a five-game losing streak by walloping American League leading Baltimore 8-0.

Originally signed by the an Francisco Giants—"I signed a contract for nothing" — Chance was drafted by the Indians in 1961 and eventually made it to the majors at the tail end of the 1963 season. Then, in spring training, he let his weight balloon. The Indians prescribed a diet.

"I still take my diet pills every day," says the 24-year-old left-handed swinger. "I don't feel weak at all."

Steve Barber can vouch for that. The Oriole starter was tagged for a two-run shot by Chance in the first inning and a three-run job in the third. The homers were the 10th and 11th for Chance, lifted his average to .345 and gave him an amazing 40 runs batted in for only 142 trips to the plate.

While Chance, the only Cleveland regular hitting over .300, took care of the hitting, Jack Kralick took care of the pitching, posting the Indians' first shutout since June 17 by bringing his record to 9-4 with a six-hitter.

The loss trimmed the Orioles lead to 2½ games over the second-place New York Yankees, who whipped Washington 4-1 for Whitey Ford's 11th victory.

Elsewhere, Harmon Killebrew hit his 31st homer as Minnesota clobbered Kansas City 9-3, the Chicago White Sox swept the Los Angeles Angels 7-4 and 6-1 while Boston defeated Detroit 7-6 before the Tigers took the nightcap 8-3.

In the National League, Cincinnati defeated first-place Philadelphia 5-1, San Francisco walloped the Chicago Cubs 10-3, Pittsburgh whipped Milwaukee 5-1, St. Louis defeated the New York Mets 3-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Houston 4-3.

Ford, 11-2, pitched four scoreless innings, gave up a homer to Don Leppert in the fifth and left in the sixth. Reliever Bill Stafford came on and pitched hitless ball over the final 3 1-3 innings.

The Yankees got the only runs they needed when Clete Boyer hit a two-run homer off Senators' starter Buster Narum in the second inning.

Killebrew's homer was one of four hit by the Twins in a 19-hit attack. Rookie Tony Oliva collected No. 9 while Don Mincher and Earl Battey hit consecutive shots in the ninth inning.

Rocky Colavito homered for the A's off Jim (Mudcat) Grant who brought his record to 6-5 with his third victory in four decisions since he was acquired from Cleveland.

Juan Pizarro joined Detroit's Dave Wickersham as the AL's only 12-game winners but needed Hoyt Wilhelm's relief help before the White Sox subdued the Angels in the opener. Floyd Robinson and Grry McNertney each stroked three hits in a 13-hit attack.

Joel Horlen held the Angels to two hits in the nightcap. The White Sox broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth with four runs. An error by Felix Torres opened the door for Robinson's tie - breaking, two-run single.

Dick McAuliffe hit three homers for the Tigers in the doubleheader, triggering the nightcap triumph with a three-run shot in the third inning.

McAuliffe hit two homers in the opener and Gates Brown added one, but the Red Sox had four — by Dick Stuart, Lee Thomas, pitcher Earl Wilson Jones, who won it with a two-run pinch-hit shot in the ninth.

Braves, Sox Are Winners In FL Tilts

The Farm League Braves became undisputed champions of their division Friday night by defeating the Cardinals 18 - 11 in extra innings. In the American Farm League the White Sox shut out the Yankees 11-0, winning the second place spot with the victory.

The Cardinals would have shared the title with the Braves had they beaten them Friday. As it is, they ended the season in second place. The Braves led 10-0 going into the bottom of the 4th, and the Cards were in danger of losing via the 10-run lead rule. They rallied however, and made a game of it. At the end of the regulation 6 innings, the score was knotted 11-all. The Braves then scored 7 in the 7th to take the victory.

Bill Evans was the big hitter for the Braves, getting 2 home runs and a double. Jim Waters homered and Ricky Freeman doubled, also for the Braves. Joe Hale and Laddie McMillan hit doubles for the Cardinals. Gary Hicks was the winning pitcher.

N. C. Smith did a fine job on the mound for the White Sox, giving up just one hit, a double to Steve Chambers. Jerrell Patrick and David Word each tripled for the White Sox.

John Glenn May Return

HOUSTON (AP)—Former astronaut John Glenn is considering going back to work for the space agency.

He met Friday with James Webb, National Aeronautics and Space Administration administrator, and the two discussed Glenn's future.

After a dinner meeting Friday at the home of Dr. Robert Gilruth, Manned Spacecraft Center director, Webb said:

"We would like to have him do any work he would like to. He is a man who did a great service to his country. He has a lot to offer to the space program."

Webb said Glenn's first job is to recuperate completely from an inner ear injury he suffered in a fall in his Ohio apartment. The injury prevented him from completing his campaign for the Senate in Ohio.

Five Persons Die In Oklahoma Crash

POTEAU, Okla. (AP)—Five persons were killed in a head-on car-truck collision two miles southwest of this east Oklahoma town early Saturday.

The victims were Harvey Davis, 24, of Wichita, Kan.; his wife Carol, 21, their daughter, about 18 months; Henry Davis Jr., 18, of Mena, Ark.; and Cecil Weber, 15, of Oklahoma City.

The victims were in the car. The truck driver, Curt Bean, 24, of Amity, Ark., and Glen Davidson, also of Amity, a passenger, were injured.

Toney Penna, a native of Naples, Italy, is regarded as one of the nation's foremost designers of golf clubs.

Tony Lema Gives Credit To Caddy

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Tony Lema carted the British Open Golf Championship home with him today but he says he only won 49 per cent of it.

"Tip Anderson was at least 50 per cent of this team and I reckon to say 51 per cent would not be too far wrong," the 30-year-old San Leandro, Calipro said.

Anderson whose right name is James Junior, may be the best caddy in the world. He's 28, the son of James Anderson who still is caddying at famed old St. Andrews, and he steered Arnold Palmer to two British Open titles and a second place that was only one shot short.

Lema's first go at British courses was here in the past three days and he whipped "the Old Lady" with 73-68-68-70 for 279 and a five-shot triumph over runnerup Jack Nicklaus.

"Tip did it," he said. "He taught me the first lesson, to run seven irons onto those tough greens. I put my wedge away at his advice and that's the best thing I ever did."

The great Bobby Jones required something like five years to learn you cannot attack the greens on the Old Course but must approach them with shots that might not look spectacular or even good.

Lema learned that lesson in one short morning—his opening-round 73 after only 25 holes of practice. Anderson steered him.

Said Tip, after the winning performance:

"He's a great player. His swing is about as sweet as Sam Snead's. There's very little difference in his game when you compare it to Mr. Palmer's. He is more relaxed. When something goes wrong, like a six he took at the fifth hole Friday, he forgets it immediately."

Lema's triumph qualified him for the $100,000 World Series of Golf along with Palmer, the Master's champion, and Ken Venturi, U. S. Open King. The fourth competitor will be the PGA champion to be selected at Columbus, Ohio, starting next Thursday.

Terrell Wins Over Bob Foster

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight contender Ernie Terrell of Chicago knocked out light heavyweight contender Bob Foster of Washington, D.C., in a controversial finish at 58 seconds of the seventh round of the television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

It was the 6-foot-6 giant's 11th straight victory.

The finsh came when Terrell, the favorite, maneuvered his 6-3½ rival to the ropes and pounded him with both hands.

As referee Art Mercante sought to move between them, Foster dipped and his right glove touched the canvas. Then, in a delayed reaction, he reeled to his left and fell sprawling to the canvas.

Foster rested on his seat while Mercante counted. He seemed to get up a fraction after the referee said "ten." That was it although Foster protested he had beaten the count.

Until the knockout, Terrell appeared to have the upper hand.

Terrell is the No. 3 heavyweight contender. Foster is rated ninth among the light heavies.

Terrell weighed 202½ pounds to Foster's 183¼.

THAT'S FAIR SHOOTIN', DEADEYE—The Canyon Gun Club has scheduled a pistol shoot at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the club's range southwest of Snyder near the old Lemons Camp. The pistol shoot will be any caliber with 10 shoots at 25 yards on IRA regulation targets. All members and the public are urged to attend. Trophies will be awarded to the top three shooters.

NL ROUNDUP

Jesus Alou Gives A Sign To Giants

By The Associated Press

Has Jesus Alou given the San Francisco Giants a sign?

Alou, youngest of the three baseball brothers, became the first National Leaguer to get six hits in a game in more than four seasons Friday as the Giants trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-3.

The victory, coupled with first-place Philadelphia's 5-1 loss to Cincinnati, moved the Giants to within one-half game of the league lead.

Alou, 21-year-old rookie, belted a home run and five singles in six times at bat. The last player to get six hits was Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He did it May 13, 1960.

That, in case you've forgotten, is the year the Pirates won the pennant.

The Giants will need more than signs to win this year, but a few more similar performances from Alou certainly will help the cause.

The right fielder from the Dominican Republic was wallowing in the .250s and low .260s before he hit safely against six different Cub pichers. The splurge rocketed his average 18 points to .280.

Elsewhere in the NL, Los Angeles edged Houston 4-3, Pittsburgh dumped Milwaukee 5-1 and St. Louis beat New York 3-1.

In the American League, Cleveland drubbed Baltimore 8-0, New York downed Washington 4-1, Detroit whipped Boston 8-3 after losing 7-6, Minnesota knocked off Kansas City 9-3 and Chicago swept Los Angeles 7-4 and 6-1.

Besides Alou's rampage, Willie Mays slammed two homers, giving him a total of 27. He connected with one on in the first and hit a solo blast in the fourth. Orlando Cepeda contributed a homer, a triple and two singles to Juan Marichal's 12th victory against four defeats.

Sandy Koufax won his ninth straight game and became the first pitcher in the majors to gain 13 triumphs in the Dodgers' victory. The ace southpaw, though, needed relief help, leaving in the sixth inning when the Colts rallied.

Dick Farrell, making his sixth try for his 11th triumph, suffered his fourth setback. He hasn't won since June 15.

The Reds stopped the Phillies' five-game winning streak on the hitting of Frank Robinson and Deron Johnson. Robinson clouted a two-run homer in the fifth while Johnson doubled across a run in the second and homered in the fourth. Dennis Bennett lost his sixth game in 15 decisions.

Bob Friend scattered six hits, gaining hs seventh triumph against eight defeats. The Pirates jumped on Braves' starter Tony Cloninger for three runs in the second on singles by Bill Mazeroski, Jim Pagliaroni and Friend, Bob Bailey's double and a sacrifice fly.

The Mets threatened the Cardinals in the ninth inning, loading the bases with two out, but starter Bob Gibson got pinch hiter Jim Hickman on a game-ending grounder. Mike Shannon singled home two St. Louis runs in the fourth.

3 Snyderites Play On Pro Ball Teams

Word has been received here concerning three Snyderites who are participating in professional baseball in the Florida Rookie League. They are Ronnie Jones, Abe Gonzales and Steve Free.

Jones and Gonzales play with the Cocoa Colts, a rookie team owned by the Houston Colts. Steve is on the Melbourne Twins, a team owned by the Minnesota Twins. All three boys only recently signed professional contracts.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Jones, Ronnie said that the Colts had played two games and won them both. He mentioned that he was batting .333 after the two games.

He enclosed a clipping taken from the local paper giving an account of one of the contests. The article stated that Abe Gonzales went all the way on the mound for the Colts, winning 3-2 on a six - hitter by the Snyderite. A single by Jones aided in the scoring of the winning run.

Ronnie reported that he had seen Steve Free two or three times, and that Steve hoped to make the starting lineup as soon as he had a little more time to catch up with the others. Steve has only been with the team about two weeks.

Gov. Connally To Speak To Coaches

FORT WORTH (AP) — The principal speaker at the annual luncheon of the Texas coaching school when coaches are inducted into the Hall of Honor will be Gov. John Connally.

Gov. Connally will be heard Aug. 6 when Eck Curtis, Roy Needham, Claude Kellan and Tom Dennis are taken into the hall.

Bill Whitmore, Rice University sports publicity director, will be master of ceremonies.

The Hall of Honor program will highlight the four-day coaching school that is expected to attract 4,000 coaches.

Odessa Boy In Tennis Finals

ABILENE (AP)—Mike Beene of Odessa, top seeded in boys 18 singles, moved into the finals of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament with two victories Friday.

Beene first downed James Rainey of Corpus Christi 6-2, 6-4, then stopped John Phelps of Harlingen 6-0, 6-2 in the semifinals.

Beene and partner Tom Hill also survived two rounds in boys 18 doubles as they knocked down Bryan and Davis Atkins of Georgetown 6-0, 6-1 in the quarter-finals and John Phelps and Rodney Mathews of Harlingen 6-3, 6-4 in the semifinals.

There were some upsets as finals were reached in all divisions except boys 16 singles and girls 14 doubles.

Tim Smith of Houston, favored in boys 16 singles, lost to Johnny Williams of Fort Worth.

Lee Busby and Danny Haddox of Abilene were both upset in the semifinals of boys 14 singles. Haddox fell to Enrique Soto of El Paso 2-6, 8-6, 7-5 and Busby was stopped by Phil Azar of El Paso 6-1, 6-2.

Emilie Burrer of San Antonio, favored in the girls 18 singles, reached the finals after taking her quarter-final match. Eva Lopez of El Paso became ill and was unable to play her in the semifinals.

Sallie Horan of Fort Worth and Nancy Clarke of Harlingen reached the girls 16 singles finals.

Barbara Wroten of Abilene, top-seeded in girls 14 singles, beat Rosemary Telles of El Paso 6-0, 6-0 in the quarter-finals, then downed Linda Dickinson of San Antonio 6-1, 6-1 in the semifinals.

Miss Wroten and Beecie Phillips took quarter-final victories over Elizabeth Scott and Phyllis Pinon of Amarillo 6-1, 6-0 in the girls 14 doubles. They are favored to take the title.

Texan Wins Golf Open

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dudley Wysong, a 25-year-old pro golfer from McKinney, Texas, who had earned only $4,050 this year, banked another $2,000 today after his biggest payday of a 12-month career on the tour.

Wysong birdied three of the last four holes at nearby Chartiers Country Club Friday to finish with a 68 and win the Tristate Open golf tournament with a 36-hole total of 134.

Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale, Calif., who had shared the first day lead with Wysong, had a73 to finish in a four-way tie for second at 139.

Tied with Steelsmith were Bert Yancey, Philadelphia, 70-69; Bob Bruno, Countryside, Ill., 68-71; and John Berry, Philadelphia, 68-71.

Masters champion Arnold Palmer, changing to a putter he had never used before in tournament play, had a 67 which tied him at 140 with Tom Shaw of Portland, Ore., and Frank Boynton of Rochester, N.Y.

Palmer, used his new putter to get four birdies. He three-putted only once. Thursday he had a 73 with four three-putt greens.

Classy Drivers In Grand Prix

BRANDS HATCH, England (AP)—All roads led here today for the British and European Grand Prix, with a record 135,000 racing fans expected for the world championship event.

The premier event in the European auto racing calendar attracted 24 world class drivers.

The race was over 80 laps of the 2.65 miles Brands Hatch circuit, a total distance of 212 miles

Champion Repeats In State Amateur

FORT WORTH (AP) — Malcolm Kirven of San Antonio repeated as champion of the Texas State Amateur Golf tournament Friday.

He shot a closing 78 for 297 for 72 holes and beat out Bennie Williams of Dallas, who had a 75 for 300 and second place. Willie Cherry of Fort Worth was third with 301.

An hour of farm work now produces twice as much yield as in 1950, and three times as much as in 1940, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Unbeaten Yacht Faces Major Test

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—American Eagle, unbeaten thus far in the America's Cup defense trials, faces a major test today on Rhode Island Sound when she sails against Constellation in a meeting of the two 1964-built yachts representing the New York Yacht Club Committee.

Constellation, with Eric Ridder at the helm, defeated Columbia, the West Coast entry in the summer-long trials, Friday for her third straight success in the current trials. Nefertiti trimmed Easterner in Friday's other heat while Eagle took the day off.

The winner of the trials will defend the Cup against a British challenger this fall.

Constellation finished the 22-mile windward-leeward race with a margin of 7 minutes, 56 seconds over Columbia.

Sets Swim Record

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Donna deVarona of Santa Clara, Calif., set a U.S. record of 2:29 in the 200-meter backstroke Friday at the Los Angeles Invitational swimming meet.

She held the former mark of 2:30.4 set last year.

Other U.S. records were claimed by Sharon Stouder of Arcadia who swam the 100-meter freestyle in 1:00.8, and Claudia Kolb of Santa Clara who did the 200-meter breaststroke in 2:50.

Mickey Wright Leads Women's Open

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Mickey Wright, aiming for an unprecedented fourth crown, led the United States Women's Open Golf Championships Saturday.

The blonde 29 - year - old Mickey, a native San Diegan who now lives in Dallas, went into the first of two rounds holding a commanding lead of three or more strokes over her nearest challenger.

Play is over the 6,376-yard, womens par 36-37-73 San Diego Country Club course.

Closest threat to Miss Wright among the 44 gals who made the final pair of 18-hole rounds were Marilyn Smith, her partner in the final pairings, and Ruth Jessen, another San Diego product.

Miss Wright shot successive 71's for a 36-hole total of 112. Miss Smith had a first round 75 and then shot a 70 Friday, lowest score of the tournament, for 14.

Blonde Miss Jessen had a 73 Friday to remain in contention, also at 145.

If It Is A Difficult Hole, Then Just Don't Play It

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) —Suppose you are playing in a golf tournament and come up to a hole with the pin placed on a sharp slope of the green, so that the flag is sticking out almost horizontal to the ground.

You have an uphill putt of three feet. You give the ball a gentle stroke. It rolls toward the hole, stops short and then starts skidding backward, finally winding up 15 feet, instead of three, away.

A quartet of experienced pro tourists—Jimmy Demaret, Tommy Bolt, George Bayer and Tommy Jacobs—faced this sort of situation Friday in the third round of the Wykagyl Round Robin Tournament and hit up on a simple answer. To heck with it, they said.

"Let's declare the hole unplayable," said the gargantuan Bayer, the game's Babe Ruth.

So the four of them—each from 20 to 30 feet from the cup on the 147-yard par 3 hole—picked up their golf balls and walked to the next tee.

They marked their cards "2" and halved the hole.

The simple act kicked up a storm in the revived Round Robin.

"It's not fair," said Ken Venturi, the reigning National Open champion, who shot into the lead after 54 holes with a score of 28 plus points—nine more than Tommy Bolt and Miller Barber, tied at plus 17.

In this mathematical monstrosity, medal scores don't count.

Each player competes with others in his foursome in match play and points are awarded on the basis of holes won. Points are subtracted when they are lost. The final two rounds are scheduled today and Sunday.

Tournament chairman Walter Peek was embarrassed by the incident.

"That's not where we marked the hole to be placed," he said. "Some pranksters must have moved it.

"But three groups had already played through, and there was nothing we could do about it."

The U.S. Golf Association said it had no specific rules to cover such a situation, although conceded putts are permitted in match play golf.

Nobody from the PGA was around because this is not a sanctioned tournament.

Close Race Seen In 2-State Tourney

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) —The five top men were within a three-stroke range today as the Texas-Oklahoma golf tournament entered its second round with Rives McBee of Garland on top with a four-under-par 67.

McBee battled extreme heat for a stroke lead over Dwight Nevil of Denton, who had a 68. Tied at 70 were George Pattison of Vernon, Jim LeBus of Wichita Falls and Steve Wheelis of Jacksboro.

It was 110 degrees on the sunbaked fairways of the 6,100-yard Weeks Park municipal course.

The field of 33 will be trimmed to half with today's 18 holes. The survivors go into the 36-hole final Sunday.

Dick Martin of Dallas, the defending champion, had a 77 in the first round and appeared virtually eliminated.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Let's all settle back and let the ladies come up to the front row because today we are going to probe a little deeper into the subject of mental hygene.

An extremely famous Nut House up home, which has been dedicating studies to why some people like strawberry instead of pistachio, has just came up with the results of its investigations.

One of the doctors was quoted as saying, "How many people suffer from emotional disturbances? One out of one."

That more or less sums it up.

The question with Mexicans right now is, should they take this seriously? By the doctor's own findings, he's one too.

Of course I had more or less calculated this ratio from knowing the Lady from Puebla's family. She's a good kid but you should see her relatives.

Uncle Seymour, for example, insists on sitting on the book shelves and brushing his hair with his feet when he visits us.

And one of her aunts is a dear old lady with a wonderful sense of humor and a marvelous person in every respect. She is so aristocratic in her appearance that the judge let her off with a suspended sentence the last time she went up for a second story job.

However, as Dr. Speedy Gonzalez pointed out in an article he wrote for a small publication put out by a Ladies Canasta Club here, we should not be upset by this doctor's "one-out-of-one" theory.

Dr. Speedy says that if this is correct, then authorities have been locking up normal persons and giving them pills and frying their brains with electricity while the rest of us run loose.

You go to rural areas here and there is a different atmosphere. People think they are happy, they don't complain and they have the false impression it's a pretty good world.

Obviously, steps will have to be taken to remedy this. Somebody must keep them isolated from us normal, malcontents or put them away in a pasture so they can't disturb the balance of nature by making others feel that problems are really nothing.

A number of visiting doctors who have conducted studies of this situation have pointed out it could wreck our whole social structure and their business.

There is a fellow who lives in our neighborhood and he has a spider monkey named Reginald. The fellow is perfectly normal. He has a psychiatrist, can't sleep at night and eats tranquilizers like pop corn. And he lives in a tree and bays at the moon when it is full and keeps a musket loaded in case the Spaniards try to come back.

Reginald stays in the house. He sweeps out every day, does his own cooking and is chairman of the board of a bank. In fact, Reginald has been seen by reliable witnesses acting like he was happy so several doctors are now investigating him.

Diplomatic sources (an old newspaper term used when you can't hang it on anybody) say that unless Reginald starts showing signs of discontent, he may be given shock treatment and sent back to the jungle.

AMUSEMENT

A CARTOON version of the thrilling climax of "Flipper's New Adventure," in which a leaping Flipper knocks a villainous escaped convict from a boat on which he has terrorized Luke Halpin and his girl friend, Pamela Franklin, is coming to the Canyon Drive In Theater here Wednesday, July 15.

Texan Has Controversial Film Role

NEW YORK (AP)— Barbara Barrie, a Texan who won the best actress award at the Cannes Film Festival in a picture with a racial theme, says "Texans are liberal—they come from all over."

The film is "One Potato, Two Potato."

Miss Barrie portrays a woman, deserted by her husband and left with a baby girl. She later marries a Negro and loses custody of her child when a judge rules that the mixed marriage is harmful to the child's future.

Miss Barrie expressed some apprehension as to how the racially conscious Deep South would react to the picture. She said she thought it would be accepted in her native Texas.

The actress will be married soon to Jay Harnick, producer and director.

Miss Barrie, a pert freckle-faced chain smoker, says she gave up smoking but returned to the habit after she gained 8½ pounds in 8 days.

"I'd rather die of illness than obesity," she said.

Miss Barrie, of Corpus Christi, graduated cum laude with a B.A. in drama from the University of Texas.

MARLIN BRANDO, Shirley Jones and David Niven star in "Bedtime Story," which starts Sunday, July 19, at the Palace Theater here.

'Peyton Place' Is Problem For TV

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "We'll either have the first 104-act play or a long, long novel." That is producer Richard Goldstone's conception of a bold experiment in television programming, "Peyton Place."

At least it is bold for America. The device has worked successfully in England, with "Coronation Street."

ABC has designed "Peyton Place" to follow the "Coronation Street" pattern. Two half-hour dramas with continuing characters, appearing on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

"It's an exciting concept, but one that presents all kinds of logistical problems," said Goldstone, a veteran of films and television.

"The writing is difficult, because we have to keep several different plots going to involve a number of people in the town. Each show is like a chapter of a book; it must be self-contained and yet relate to the rest of the series.

"We require a large cast; at least 12 people so far, and they must remain available at all times. We have two directors leap-frogging their units, each working every other week. So far we have been able to shoot two half-hours per week."

Network programming will be a problem. If one show is pre-empted, the string will be broken; and obviously "Peyton Place" will be pre-empted Nov. 3, election day.

The cast includes Dorothy Malone in the role played by Lana Turner in the film version, Warner Anderson in the Lloyd Nolan part, and Mia Farrow in the role Diane Varsi originated.

Most Farmers Are Finding Door Closed On Sugar Beets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many farmers trying to get into sugar beet production are finding the door closed.

Inquiries about the prospects come into the Agriculture Department and in several areas efforts are being made to promote the establishment of sugar-beet processing plants. Interest is widespread. The latest organized effort was reported in Virginia.

Those hopes were nurtured by a world sugar shortage that sent prices skyward last year. The supply situation has since changed and production again is on the upswing with another period of world surpluses possibly in the offing.

As a consequence of this, and because the government controls U. S. domestic production as well as imports the sugar beet industry is running into a problem of being unable to market all of its current production.

The United States mainland supplies only about 37 per cent of its sugar needs. The rest is imported, under a quota system, from Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the Philippines, and other countries entitled under a sugar control law to share in the American market.

The control program is supposed to stablize prices and supplies in the interest of consumers and domestic producers.

The government policy has been to guarantee offshore and foreign producing areas shares in this country's market.

When relations with Cuba, long a major supplier, were broken and that country's sugar no longer was admitted, the government began taking controls off domestic production. Congress directed that the Agriculture Department take steps to enlarge the domestic industry by guaranteeing future production shares in areas where new sugar beet processing plants were established under this agency's approval.

More than two dozen areas from Maine to Texas to California sought to get under the production tent. Out of these, the department approved sugar beet acreage allotments for new or expanded plants in nine areas including Hereford, Tex.

No more will be approved unless Congress so directs in new legislation. The likelihood of Congress doing this is remote. In fact, it appears likely that the government may have to impose acreage cutbacks on both sugar cane and sugar grown in this country to avoid a big surplus.

This prospect of a cutback has the domestic industry in an uproar. The import provisions of current sugar control act expire at the end of this year. But because of sharp differences between domestic producers and their congressional backers on the one hand and U. S. refiners of imported raw sugar, foreign supplying countries and their supporters in Congress, there is great uncertainty as to what legislative action will be taken.

Differences also exist among the Agriculture and State Departments. It is quite possible that an Congress will do is to extend the present import provisions one more year.

In 1965, the lawmakers must enact new sugar legislation or let it expire. It is hardly likely that the industry will let that happen even though they differ. American refiners want big imports of raw sugar. Imports are their lifeblood. Most refineries are in the Eastern Seaboard states. Congressmen from these states support, for the most part, legislation providing for large foreign supplies.

The domestic beet sugar industry is demanding a large assured share of the market on the ground that it came to the rescue of American consumers recent years when supplies were short and prices advancing by expanding production. It would be poor grace on the part of the government, it says, to force growers to cut back acreages.

But the organized refiners of cane sugar contend the beet industry has ample quotas and that the extra sugar it may be carrying at the present time should be held as an inventory designed to help assure consumers of ample supplies as demands grow.

100th Water System Loan Is Made

L. J. Cappleman, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration, Temple, Tex., as announced to the Press, "The 100th Water Distribution Association Loan has been made to the rural people of Texas."

The Scurry County communities of Ira and Dunn are in the process of making application for one of these loans.

Following approval of the loan, a meeting will be called to elect members to the water board, and a secretary - treasurer will be elected. Deposits are still being received at the original rate.

The Green Valley Water Supply Corporation received their loan for $696,000. The water system will service 518 families; over 2,000 individuals.

Mr. Cappleman states, "These 100 loans total $9,905,770. Over 9,047 families are now enjoying good water for home use and for livestock, gardens, etc. The number of families include over 36,000 individuals.

These loans have had a great impact on the economy of the community and the country. The installation of bathrooms, kitchen facilities, landscaping of lawns and the building of new homes has increased business for merchants, added to school tax payments, increased tax payments, and contributions to churches.

One community, since turning on the water, has 20 new homes financed by private enterprise; 7 homes moved into the community. It has completed construction of the first new church building in 60 years at a cost of $30,000.

The origin of the name Chevy Chase goes back to the 14th Century, In 1388, the English Lord Percy forayed into the Cheviot Hill chase, or private hunting ground, of Scottish Earl Douglas, who died in the battle. A popular ballad described the battle of Chevy Chase and the name entered folklore.

Kissless Romance Must Keep Going

EDITOR'S NOTE — For what, in television is an eternity—nine seasons—Kitty Russell has been the proprietor of "Gunsmoke's" Long Branch saloon, dispensing beer and occasional advice to CBS Marshal Dillon and her rafish and often truculent customers. Amanda Blake, who played Kissless Kitty through the years, explains here why Matt's romantic reserve can never be broken down.

By AMANDA BLAKE
For Vacationing Cynthia Lowry

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To someone who has a black eye, the obvious question can get pretty tiresome after it's been asked forty or a hundred times but to an actress, questions — however obvious — are a pretty good indication of how well she's doing.

So I am more encouraged than annoyed by the one question I have to answer more than any other: "Aren't you ever going to be kissed by Marshal Dillon?"

I suppose it is a little puzzling, after nine yars, to see this kissless romance perpetuated between Kitty Russell — that's me—and Marshal Dillon —that's Jim Arness—on "Gunsmoke."

There's an answer to the question: No.

But that answer always brings on the second question: "Why not?"

That question has an answer too, but it's a little longer.

The answer is concerned with the nature of the characters involved, and with the nature of the show and its subject matter.

"Gunsmoke" tells the story of a frontier town, Dodge City, and a man who tries, by strength and skill and courage, to fight back the lawlessness that could engulf it. The show offers fictional tales of a time and a place and a situation that really existed.

And romantic love, while not unknown to that time and place, was—had to be—secondary to the protagonist's struggle to stay alive and do his job. For the marshal to become overly involved in a romance would dilute the drama of his story.

So in order to avoid getting in the way of the story, we've eliminated the outward show of romance between the marshal and his girl, leaving the precise nature of the relationship between Matt Dillon and Kitty Russell to the individual interpretation of viewers — it has worked out pretty well.

"Gunsmoke" has always been based on the idea that the drama of the West could appeal to adults as well as to youngsters, and that there's enough drama in history that there's no need to use hokum.

As Jim Arness puts it, Matt and Kitty are limited to "eyeballing" each other, on camera, at least. What they do while the cameras are out on the prairie, or in doc's office, or at Quint's forge — well, that's something else.

If viewers want visible romance between Kitty and the marshal, they'll have to supply it themselves in their imaginations.

As I've had to do.

Austin Schools Set Integration In Fall

AUSTIN (AP)—Austin public school faculties will be integrated in September, Supt. Irby Carruth said Friday.

Carruth said the matter had been approved earlier and would be carried out as vacancies occur this summer. Negro teachers would be assigned to integrated schools.

The plans were revealed after Carruth received a letter from the local NAACP branch demanding integration of faculties and the administration.

Band Class Slate Set For Summer

Summer band classes for members of the Snyder High School Band will begin Monday in the high school band room.

All members of next year's band have been urged to attend the classes, for which there is no charge. The classes will meet every day and continue for two weeks. A second session of two weeks duration will begin on Aug. 3.

The schedule of classes includes oboes, bassoons and percussion at 8 a.m.; flutes and French horns, 9 a.m.; saxophones and cornets, 10 a.m.; clairnets, alto clarifnets, bass clairnets, trombones, baritones and tubas, 11 a.m.; stage band, 1:30 p.m.

Classes will be 50 minutes in length. The brass and percussion classes will be taught by Melvin Montgomery, while the woodwind classes will be taught by Charles Shaw.

Makes Bond In Shooting

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A young woman is free on $100 bond following a shooting spree that ended with a tumble downstairs with a police officer.

Alice Phillips, 21, fired several shots from a high powered rifle from a second story apartment Thursday. Miss Phillips was charged with discharging a firearm in the city.

In the apartment when the woman began shooting were two babies and another woman. Police managed to take the babies and other woman out while officers held Miss Phillips in conversation.

Deputy Inspector Donald A. Nelson, wearing a bullet-proof vest, then entered the apartment and disarmed the woman. As Nelson hurried her down outside stairs, Miss Phillips fell and struck her head on concrete. She was treated at a hospital and then taken to jail.

Nelson said Miss Phillips gave no explanation for her actions, and that she apparently did not try to hit anyone.

Total Integration Will Be Sought

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. Earl Allen, a Negro leader of recent racial demonstrations at a now-integrated cafeteria here, says suits will be filed seeking total integration of Dallas schools.

Small Pill Is Top Weapon In Birth Control Arsenal

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

SHREWSBURY, Mass. (AP)—The Pill is small—sometimes pink, sometimes orange, sometimes red, white and blue.

In a world facing a gain of 128,000 a day, 48 million a year, a population of 6½ billion by the year 2000 it is man's most ingenious means of birth control —the most effective and the most talked about.

It worries a lot of people, angers some, brings hope to others and has caused some reconsideration of social attitudes.

From the day the first woman took the oral contraceptive pill in December of 1954, it has been a subject of controversy.

Will it destroy social morals and create a promiscuous world?

Will it cause cancer in women? Is it against nature?

Despite the questions and arguments the pill has become a daily habit for six million women over the world—half of them Americans.

And in just over six years on the U.S. prescription market, it has become a major weapon in the arsenal of birth control devices. Its true usage is hard to measure.

The highest per capita use is in Australia. The Egyptian government and others pass out pills to mothers who want to limit the size of their families.

Even now, the pill and other methods of birth control are under study at the highest levels of the Vatican.

However a change in the traditional Roman Catholic view toward birth control is considered unlikely—Pope Pius XII called the use of the pill "illicit sterilization." Pope Paul VI in recent weeks indicated there was little reason to change the Catholic position.

Yet some Catholic women do take the pill—as Church leaders admit. They insist, however, that any attempt to offer statistics on the number is foolhardy.

Today, the U.S. birth rate is falling The pill has been named as the major cause. But Dr. Gregory Pincus of the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology, Shrewsbury, Mass., thinks this unlikely. He is a co-developer of the pill, which was developed at the foundation.

Population experts agree with Dr. Pincus. The cause for the falling U.S. birth rate, they say, is simply that today's women want smaller, more manageable families in keeping with their financial status. The whole list of birth control devices and methods is used.

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher of New York's Mt Sinai Hospital cites 1960 statistics showing that at least 80 out of every 100 American married couples practice some means of birth control —from mechanical devices to the pill, to the Catholic-approved rhythm method.

Essentially it mimics the state of pregnancy—when there can be no further conception. The pill prevents ovulation—the release of eggs from the ovaries. The woman takes a pill each day for 20 days.

In pregnancy, the hormone progesterone—and perhaps to some extent the sex hormone estrogen—inhibit ovulation. With the pill, synthetics of the natural hormones do the same thing.

Today, a woman can receive a month's supply of pills for about $2.00. Dr Pincus estimates. Newer pills on the market use diminishing amounts of the hormones, but get the same effects.

There was a recent report that laboratory animals which were fed a common U.S. birth control pill showed accelrated growth of existing tumors. But Dr Pincus said that it has long been known that many animal cancers are dependent on hormones—can be slowed by hormone preparations in one strength and sped up by hormones in another strength

Studies on volunteer groups of women show, however, that use of the pills may actually inhibit the normal rate of cancers of the female reproductive tract, Dr. Pincus said. He added that in Haiti and other test areas, doctors have found fewer signs of suspicious cells in regular medical checkups of pill users.

As more experience has been gained since the first licnsd pill, in 1957, th pills have become smaller and cheaper. Manufacturers have cut the dosage at least three-fourths since that first pill.

There are 30 trade names available on the world market —representing about 10 separate drugs, Dr. Pincus says.

In the United States, the Food and Drug Administration's index lists four firms licensed to sell six kinds of pills, most of them similar.

There is a scarcity of information on the effects of oral contraceptives on social or sexual morals of those taking them. Dr. Pincus says this is one area where research is badly needed.

Bill Moyers Thrust Into Prominent Role

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—In late 1959, Lyndon B. Johnson, then Senate majority leader, hired a 25-year-old Baptist minister to work on his staff.

Within three months Johnson, a hard man to please, boosted the young man's salary from $6,000 a year to $15,000.

By the time the campaign was hottest for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination, the young man—Bill D. Moyers—was in the thick of it.

"You must have heard the stories about the temper Lyndon—I mean the President—used to have," says one member of the [illegible] Johnson's President organization, adding:

"John Connally (now governor of Texas) is a really tough man and he couldn't organize Lyndon. But that Moyers, who was just a kid, could organize him. He could get him to do the things he should do when none of the rest of us could. I suppose it was Moyers' gentle patience that did it."

Others along on the 1960 campaign, when Johnson settled for vice president, say Moyers remained unruffled throughout the hurly burly of stump trips and last-minute changes. He is expected to play a major role in arranging Johnson's campaign trips again this year.

At times, Moyers probably has wondered what happened to the quiet career in teaching and religious work he had planned for himself after graduating from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

When Johnson talked him out of it, Moyers was headed for a teaching job at Baylor University in Waco, Texas.

This is typical of Bill Moyers. Fate heads him one way when he wants to go the other.

At present, for example, he has settled into the niche on the White House staff formerly occupied by Theodore Sorensen under President John F. Kennedy—speech writer and trouble shooter.

Yet Moyers would prefer to go back to the Peace Corps, of which he was one of the founders. He hangs onto the title of deputy director of the corps even though hopes are fading that he ever will return.

It is also typical that Bill Moyers is serving someone else, away from the spotlight.

A Texas friend explains: "Bill is a selfless person. He doesn't try getting anything for himself. He just wants to make the world a better place to live."

Now a relatively mature 30, Moyers is a slender, dark-haired man of medium height. He is soft-spoken, gentle. People feel comfortable around him, like him almost instantly.

One of his greatest knacks is dealing with people.

Although he left the ministry—first for a teaching career, then for politics—Moyers still has a pastor's traditional gentleness and concern for people and a tolerance for their shortcomings.

Yet there is a drive within for perfection. Friends say he is a bulldog determined to drag out the best work possible from those around him.

Although he never reprimands anyone in public, Peace Corps associates say Moyers becomes a different man when he sits down at a typewriter. They say his memos carry a real sting.

In the months since he joined the White House staff, Moyers has tried to shove himself further and further into the background.

This is obvious when a reporter asks for an interview. He won't talk about himself, has even balked at having pictures made.

Insiders say Moyers doesn't hesitate to disagree with the President, that evidence of the famed Johnson temper leaves him unruffled and still cheerful.

"Bill's basic quality is judgement," a Texas friend says. "He just has good common sense."

When Johnson was elected vice president, Moyers was one of his top aides—until he heard about the Peace Corps.

When he began to dicker with Sargent Shriver, Kennedy's brother-in-law who was assigned to organize the Peace Corps, Johnson objected, some say rather strenuously.

The White House staff, even President Kennedy, had objections, too.

Kennedy's staff had found Moyers the easiest man among the Johnson group to talk to. They liked to sound him out before trying an idea out on Johnson.

"Here we have both the President and vice president telling a 26-year-old he can't work for the Peace Corps," says a friend. "But he went."

Moyers became congressional liaison man for the Peace Corps, soon was named associate director of public affairs.

When fellow Baptist Paul Geren returned to the Foreign Service, Moyers replaced him as deputy director of the Peace Corps.

It was Moyers' knack of getting along with all kinds of people that took him to Texas last November.

A feud between Gov. Connally and Sen. Ralph Yarborough threatened to embarrass President Kennedy on his visit to Texas.

The White House staff asked Moyers to try to head off any politically bitter incident during Kennedy's tour.

So it was that on Nov. 22, Moyers was close by when an assassin struck down Kennedy in Dallas and his old boss, Lyndon Johnson, was propelled into the presidency.

Within minutes, Moyers was by the new President's side. He flew back to Washington with Johnson and remained by his side almost constantly in the troubled and eventful weeks ahead. He still has a room where he can stay when his duties keep him late at the White House, which is often.

His close relations with the Kennedy staff paid off during the transition period.

Moyers has come under some criticism for leaving religious work for politics, and for a time was troubled himself.

But now he feels he can make a greater contribution as a Christian at the top level of government than as a minister.

The late Speaker Sam Rayburn once said, "Democracy is nothing but applied Christianity." Moyers subscribes to this view.

Success came quickly to Bill Moyers.

Even as a 14-year-old high school student he was contributing articles to his home town newspaper, the Marshall (Tex.) News Messenger. When he was 16 he was a full-time reporter.

In two years at North Texas State College, Moyers was elected outstanding student both years.

It was at this point that Johnson entered his life.

Moyers spent the summer of 1954 as an intern in Sen. Johnson's office.

The following fall Moyers transferred to the University of Texas and went to work for the Johnson family radio-television stations.

Some friends say there was another reason for the transfer. Judith Davidson, whom he married just before Christmas in 1954.

While working 48 hours a week for the Johnsons, Moyers compiled the best scholastic record ever achieved up to that time in the University of Texas' Journalism School.

After college, he studied at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, on a scholarship, then toured Europe before entering the Baptist seminary at Ft. Worth.

He served as public relations director while at the seminary and, like other students, was pastor for small churches near Fort Worth on weekends.

After Johnson lured him to Washington, Moyers still preached occasionally in local churches and made frequent addresses to church groups.

Now there is little time for speaking engagements. In fact, there's not much time for Judy and the three children.

One friend says, "I wonder what he'll have left at 40, the way he's going now."

ALL THAT'S LEFT—This is all that's left of a United Air Lines Viscount plane which crashed killing 39 persons. The aircraft plunged into the top of a mountain near Newport, Tenn. There were no survivors. (AP Wirephoto).

Ike Sees Chance To Win If Republicans Can Unite

By JOHN CHADWICK

ABOARD GOP TRAIN (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhwer, recalling Harry S. Truman's 1948 upset victory, says "maybe it can be done again" if the Republican party unites in a vigorous campaign.

Eisenhower talked with newsmen Friday night while on his way to the party convention in San Francisco.

He said the outlook for Truman's election "was so poor that the odds, I believe, were 16 to 1 against him. But he upset the applecart."

The former president, a two-time winner, was in a reminiscent mood as he held an impromptu press conference in one of the three private cars he, Mrs. Eisenhower and their party are traveling in.

He said he believed President Johnson could be turned out of office, although, "as of the moment, all polls show the President far ahead of any possible nominee of ours."

It can be done, Eisenhower said.

"If we have a well-united party carrying the message effectively and decisively, there could be a different picture reflected before the election."

The general was careful to maintain his avowed neutrality in the contest for the GOP Presidential nomination.

"An ex-president has no business taking a position with this or that faction," he said. "His business is to be accessible and available to all of them."

Eisenhower said he had seen and talked with all the possible GOP presidential nominees this year.

"For the life of me, I can't understand why some editors and columnists think I was weasling or changing my position" because he had not publicly supported one of the candidates.

"I decry this belief that any one man, by putting his finger on this or that individual, decides millions of voters against their will," Eisenhower said.

The former president scoffed at what he called talk that he had pulled the rug from under Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton when the governor reportedly was ready to get into the GOP presidential race at the Governors' Conference in Cleveland.

"I never put a rug under him," he said.

Another question that came up was the conference Sen. Barry Goldwater had with Eisenhower before announcing he would vote against the civil rights bill because he regarded two sections unconstitutional.

Eisenhower said he told Goldwater that if he were in the Senate, he would vote for the bill.

Eisenhower said he and the Arizona senator had agreed nothing would be said about their meeting. But, he said, somehow word of it got out and reports gave the impression that he supported Goldwater's position.

Says Stations Are Orbited

MOSCOW (AP)—A powerful single booster rocket launched two scientific space stations into widely differing orbit today, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

The vehicles, Electron 3 and Electron 4, followed a similar launch Jan. 30. The Electron series is apparently unmanned.

Tass said the stations carried instrumentation for research. No mention was made of the size, weight or power of the satellites or the rocket.

Tass said Electron 3 separated from the last stage of the booster rocket during powered flight. The last stage continued to reach the necessary speed and then orbited Electron 4.

The news agency said all systems were functioning normally.

Tass said preliminary data indicated Electron 3 was in a lopsided orbit which comes as close as 251 miles to the earth and as far away as 4,365 miles. Electron 4's orbit was even more extended, 285 miles at its nearest point and 41,076 at its farthest.

Many Suggestions On Redistricting

DALLAS (AP) — Many conflicting approaches to the state's congressional redistricting problem were brought out here Friday before a seven-man committee of the Texas Legislative Council.

Nineteen witnesses testified at the all-day hearing, presided over by state Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe. The committee meets next in Houston July 17.

The state is under a federal court order to redistrict to give big city voters more voice in Congress. The Supreme Court upheld the order that congressional districts must be formed according to population and community interest, with approximately 416,000 constituents for each member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Riley Cross, Denton publisher, noted Denton County was in the 13th Congressional District, which runs westward almost to the Panhandle.

Cross said Denton County has little in common with West Texas counties in the district.

The publisher suggested that the legislature slice Denton and Cooke counties from the 13th and add them to the 4th Congressional District along with the Richardson section of Dallas County and possibly the Irving area.

This Northeast Texas district had 216,371 residents under the 1960 census—little more than half the 416,508 needed under the Supreme Court ruling.

Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall proposed a similar plan. He suggested that the legislature add the Garland and Mesquite sections of Dallas County, instead of the Richardson and Irving areas.

Sen. J. P. Word of Meridian came up with a plan which would dilute the influence of Dallas County. He proposed splitting the county into five parts. One would have its own congressman, while the four others would be used to "beef up" existing districts.

Word added, however, that he "isn't sold" on the plan and might abandon it.

Rep. John Allen of Longview wanted to build up the population of the 3rd Congressional District.

Rep. George Hinson of Mineola said he was in basic agreement with Allen.

Gas Well Total Is Above Year Ago

AUSTIN (AP)—Gas well completions in Texas this year outnumber similar 1963 completions, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

A total of 43 gas wells were completed during the week, bringing the year total to 1,516, compared to 1,311.

A total of 136 oil wells were completed during the week, bringing the year total to 4,589, compared to 4,700.

A total of 188 wells were plugged, including 110 dry holes.

Gas wildcats drilled include 9 in Dist. 4, two each in Dists. 3 and 6 and one each in Dists. 1, 2, 8 and 10. One oil wildcat was drilled in Dist. 7-B and one in Dist. 10.

The total average calendar day allowable is 2,822,914 barrels, an increase of 6,621 over the previous week.

Acreage Of Sorghum Up

WASHINGTON (AP)— Texas farmers planted 6,489,000 acres of grain sorghum this year, the Agriculture Department has reported.

Despite the acreage planted, a big increase from last year's 5772,000 harvested acres, there was no prediction of sorghum production in the department's forecast.

Estimated wheat production this year was 58,832,000 bushels a big jump from the department's estimate for Texas a month ago when it was given at 50,544,000 bushels. Nearly all the wheat in Texas is harvested by mid-July.

Texas' corn production forecast dropped from 24,164,000 bushels produced last year to 21,480,000 as of July 1.

Oats, with production of 24 million bushels, compared to last year's harvest of 13,674,000 bushels. The increase was attributed to increased acreage and increased per-acre production, 10 buchels above last year.

Prospects for rice, the department said, improved over last year with a prediction of 19,194,000 hundredweight against last year's 18,394,000 hundredweight.

The department said 281,000 acres were planted to peanuts in Texas, forecast barley production at 3,960,000 bushels, flaxseed at 1,276,000, oranges at 230,000 boxes and grapefruit at 480,000 boxes.

Willis Can't Get Back On Council

FORT WORTH (AP) — A former state senator Doyle Willis cannot return to his Fort Worth City Council seat, the Second Court of Civil Appeals ruled Friday.

Willis was removed from the council under a city charter provision when he announced as a candidate for the state Senate. The Texas Supreme Court said Willis couldn't run for the Senate so he tried to get his council seat back.

The former senator is expected to appeal Friday's decision to the State Supreme Court.

Lucky 13 Pledges Busy Completing Hours In Community Service Projects

STARTING WORK — Members of the Lucky 13 Club were busy starting their float for the Scurry County Rodeo parade the 15th of this month. The club is an active group and participates in community projects whenever possible, making our city a better place in which to live. Judy Mixon, the other pledge of the club worked in Vacation Bible School, but was out-of-town when pictures were taken.

Pledges of the Lucky 13 Club must complete 25 hours of community service by August 1. On August 2, "peasant week" will start, ending on August 8, followed by a formal initiation ceremony.

MAKING COOKIES—Betty Barrow was caught in the act of making oatmeal cookies to take to patients at the Snyder Nursing Home to finish up her hours of community service after working in Vacation Bible School earlier this summer.

OFF TO THE HOSPITAL—Susan Boren, a member of the "Candy Stripers", junior auxiliary of Cogdell Memorial Hospital was leaving home for her hours of duty. Susan also worked in Vacation Bible School this summer.

AUGUST WEDDING PLANNED—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Staton, Rte. 2, Snyder, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Carol, to James Clinton Sellars, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Sellars, Rte. 2, Hermleigh. They are planning an August wedding. (Craft Photo)

Library Notes

Those interested in the heritage of the West, its past history from the taming of the wild and rugged country and the subduing of hostile Indians to its present day development, can find informative as well as entertaining reading at the Scurry County Library.

One section in the library is devoted entirely to Southwest material. On other shelves, readers may select from many books encompassing the West from the banks of the Mississippi to the coast line of the Pacific. Several new books, both fiction and non - fiction, have been received only recently.

Some of the books recently put into circulation are "Ozona Country," by Allan R. Bosworth; "Matador Land and Cattle Company," by W.M. Pearce; "Southwestern Book Trails: a Reader's Guide to the Heartland of New Mexico and Arizona," by Lawrence Clark Powell; and W. D. Grisso's new book, "From Where the Sun Now Stands."

"Ozona Country" tells how one Western town was created by the valiant endeavors of cattlemen and sheepmen. It also gives an account of the quiet determination of women for schools, churches and culture in a new and unrelenting land.

Pearce graphically outlines the complete history of the Matador Land and Cattle Company. This large ranch was owned for almost all of its existence, from 1879 to 1951, by a group of Scottish investors. Though not the largest of the corporately owned ranches, the Matador did graze as many as 70,000 cattle on more than a million acres of range from the Texas home ranch to Canada. Mr. Pearce, professor of history at Texas Technological College, drew heavily on the original company records for his factual information.

Dean Powell's book is a collection of essays about books and authors and general commentary about the Southwest. Powel has made a good selection of standard works and has written about them in his usual interesting style.

"From Where the Sun Now Stands" is a collection of addresses by a posse of famous Western speakers. These flamboyant speeches with a true frontier twang span the years from 1775 to 1935, with most emphasis on the period from 1860 to 1908. In this book are to be found famous but hard-to-find dramatic eulogies, death sentences, court pleas, tributes and satires in the adjectival oratory of the West. Grisso, a native of Oklahoma, engages in his writing activity for the love of it. By profession, he is an attorney.

'Ancient' Now Modern

An ancient building material — ceramic tile — is helping to put the work 'modern" in today's kitchen. While real ceramic tile has long been recognized as stainproof and impervious to heat, a recent scientific advancement has come to the aid of the homemaker. The discovery is a new epoxy grout (the material between the tiles) that is resistant to virtually all common household stains. The epoxy, wedded to ceramic tile, offers a stainproof and sanitary surface.

MEET THE NEWBORN BABY

C. Robert Gruver
Editor
All About Babies

Infancy is such a fascinating stage of life. It is that brief period of adjustment when the newborn baby adapts itself to independent living in a strange and confusing environment outside mother's body.

In its earliest phase it seems to be a continuation of the prenatal state. At birth, baby seems to be hardly awake. And baby will continue to seem half awake and half asleep for a time, except for brief moments of wakefulness when he's hungry or is being bathed and diapered. He dozes but he doesn't sleep deeply.

Though the newborn baby appears to be complete in every detail — he has all his little toes and fingers — there's much that nature has yet to do.

For example, while baby's brain is completely formed, the nerve fibers that connect the brain to the eyes and to the muscles are not. This is why a new born's eyes have difficulty focusing and often appear crossed and why his little limbs jerk so suddenly.

Until baby's nerve fibers are fully developed, his little body is a bundle of reflexes, those involuntary automatic responses to stimuli. When his tiny hands clutches your finger placed in its palm, that's a reflex. When baby turns his face toward a touch on his cheek, that's a reflex. Baby's cry is a reflex and he cries without tears because the tear glands have not yet developed. The jerky movements of his little arms and legs and often his body also are reflex actions. They should cause no concern. They're nature's way of keeping baby's heart pumping evenly and his blood circulating properly.

The queer sounds the newborn makes also have good reason. The infant sneezes and coughs not because he's catching cold but because this is nature's way of keeping his nose and throat clear of mucous. The snorts and grunts he makes when he sleeps are caused when the tongue occasionally slips back against the roof of baby's mouth. Remember, breathing is something quite new to baby.

During the first few weeks, breathing is quite shallow and baby appears to breathe with his stomach. This is because his chest and its muscles are, as yet, too small to do the job alone. Crying, incidentally, during these early weeks is nature's way of stimulating the breathing mechanism.

To watch the newborn baby as it skillfully moves from its cozy, peaceful prenatal existence into a world of harsh reality is a wonder and a joy to behold.

Jeffress-Boothe Rites At Union

The Union Methodist Church was the scene of doublering rites June 12 which united in marriage Miss Norma Jean Jeffress and Tommy Dale Boothe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jeffress, 3105 Hill Avenue, Snyder., and Mr. Boothe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vestal Boothe, Rte. 1, Amarillo.

The Rev. Marvin Roark, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of Chantilly lace over ivory satin with a sweetheart neckline. The sleeves came to a point over the hands. The shoulder - length veil hung from a tiara of ivory satin and pearls. She carried a bouquet of gladioli.

Patricia Jeffress, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a dress of cotton-satin, in aqua and carried gladioli.

Bridesmaids were Laquita Read and Ann Chapman. They wore aqua cotton satin costumes with fitted bodices and carried bouquets of gladioli.

Riley Boothe, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Paul Daniel and Dean Jeffress, and ushers were Powers Boothe and Harley Bynum.

Church decorations featured tapered candelabra with baskets of gladioli.

Brenda Boyd sang several selections. She was accompanied by Allana Cartwright, organist.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The centerpiece on the serving table was formed from the bride's bouquet, and the traditional three - tiered wedding cake was served by the bridesmaids.

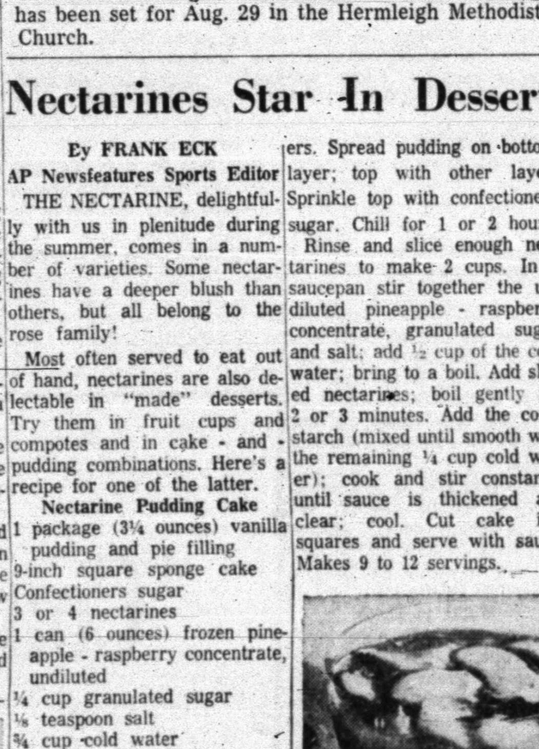

Camil Jeffress presided at the bride's book.

For the wedding trip to Colorado Springs, the bride wore a dress of blue lace cotton.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Snyder High School where she was a member of the Distributive Education Club.

The bridegroom graduated from Snyder High School in 1962. He was a member of the Industrial Arts Club. He is now engaged in ranching.

Out - of - town guests at the wedding were from Odessa and from Albuquerque, N.M.

TO WED IN AUGUST—Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Richburg of Hermleigh have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, La Von, to Charles Lee Bridges of Wichita Falls. The wedding has been set for Aug. 29 in the Hermleigh Methodist Church.

Nectarines Star In Dessert

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

THE NECTARINE, delightfully with us in plenitude during the summer, comes in a number of varieties. Some nectarines have a deeper blush than others, but all belong to the rose family!

Most often served to eat out of hand, nectarines are also delectable in "made" desserts. Try them in fruit cups and compotes and in cake - and - pudding combinations. Here's a recipe for one of the latter.

Nectarine Pudding Cake

1 package (3¼ ounces) vanilla pudding and pie filling
9-inch square sponge cake
Confectioners sugar
3 or 4 nectarines
1 can (6 ounces) frozen pineapple - raspberry concentrate, undiluted
¼ cup granulated sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
¾ cup cold water
2 tablespoons cornstarch.

Make up the vanilla pudding according to package directions but use only 1¾ cups milk. Cool to room temperature, stirring occasionally. Split cake horizontally to make two layers. Spread pudding on bottom layer; top with other layer. Sprinkle top with confectioners sugar. Chill for 1 or 2 hours.

Rinse and slice enough nectarines to make 2 cups. In a saucepan stir together the undiluted pineapple - raspberry concentrate, granulated sugar and salt; add ½ cup of the cold water; bring to a boil. Add sliced nectarines; boil gently for 2 or 3 minutes. Add the cornstarch (mixed until smooth with the remaining ¼ cup cold water); cook and stir constantly until sauce is thickened and clear; cool. Cut cake into squares and serve with sauce. Makes 9 to 12 servings.

NECTARINE SPECIAL—Squares of cake filled with vanilla pudding and topped with a nectarine sauce.

Early TOPS In Session

The Snyder Early TOPS met Tuesday afternoon at the Scurry County Boys Club.

Fourteen members weighed in and answered roll call by giving the number of pounds lost or gained. A business session was held after the theme song was sung and the TOPS pledge was recited. Pigs of the week entertained with their "pig song."

Nine TOPS lost 18½ pounds and five pigs gained 7¼ pounds. Pat Dennis was high loser this week, losing five pounds and winning the weekly prize.

It was noted by weightkeeper Jo Cotton that since the Early TOPS Club was formed in November, 1963, there had been 737¼ pounds lost. However, there was a gain of 387 pounds since that time.

Two visitors, Mrs. Vivian Fikes and Mrs. Oneta Haywood, attended the meeting. Visitors are welcome at all TOPS meetings.

Can She Bake Oatmeal Bread?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

NOTHING, BUT nothing succeeds around our house like home - baked loaves of bread.

Just let the old fashioned fragrance of yeast baking come from our kitchen and our family is overjoyed. Home - baked bread, served fresh and hot from the oven, even takes the place of dessert. For the last time it's passed around, we offer the crusty slices with honey or preserves and everyone is happy.

One of the good loaves you can make is American Oatmeal Bread, and here's the recipe. We call this bread "American" because it is richer and softer than the Canadian oatmeal bread we grew up on. The richness happens because there's more sugar, shortening and and milk in this bread than Mother used to use. These ingredients give the bread a soft texture and help to retard staling.

American Oatmeal Bread

1 cake compressed or 1 package dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk, scalded
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup firmly - packed light brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups old fashioned rolled oats
3½ to 4 cups all - purpose flour

Soften yeast in lukewarm water or dry yeast in warm water. Pour scalded milk and boiling water over shortening, brown sugar, salt and oats; cool to lukewarm. Stir in 1 cup flour. Add softened yeast. Stir in enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn dough out on floured board or canvas; knead until smooth and satiny, about 10 minutes. Round dough into ball, place in greased bowl; brush lightly with melted shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place until nearly double in bulk, about 1½ hours. Punch down dough; cover; let rest 10 minutes. Divide in half and form into loaves. Place in two greased 8½ in by 4½ in by 2½ in loaf pans. Brush tops with melted shortening. Cover; let rise until nearly double in bulk, about 45 minutes. Remove from pans; brush lightly with melted butter or margarine.

Living Guest Book For Your Home

Want a living "guest book" in your home — a self expandable one that will grow with the years to accommodate additional signatures?

Then, get yourself a clusia rosea — the so-called "signature" plant— and have your guests write their names on its green oval - shaped leaves. Leathery in texture, they are from four to six inches long.

Normal writing pressure with an inkless ball-point pen, or similar instrument, will produce a sharply defined whiteness in the leaf. A signature will remain white during the life of the leaf.

The 'signed" evergreen leaves of some very large clusia rosea are known to have remained alive for five years and more, as evidenced by the dates written on the leaves when thy were signed.

This tropical plant, grown in Puerto Rico and Hawaii and also in some parts of Florida, does well as an indoor plant (house plant or house tree, depending upon its size) in temperate zones. In tropical and sub-tropical areas, it is considered an outdoor plant and, in its more mature sizes, as an ornamental tree.

There is a signature tree in a Miami, Florida, park that is approximately 20 feet tall. Hundreds of people have written on its leaves — as high up as they could reach. The dates which accompanied some of the signatures are five or more years old.

A "baby" signature plant — four or six inch pot size — with eight or ten leaves is obtainable at moderate cost. Larger plants or indoor trees, containing many more leaves, also are available.

Signature plants should have as much light as possible, but direct sunlight is not necessary. They should be fed once every three months and watered about once a week.

Dancer Brings Revolution To Traditional Art

By PHILLIPE NEURAY

BRUSSELS, (AP) — He claims he wants to shock, hates good taste and comforting shows. Yet he is winning international fame with ballets and operas which bring a revolution in a traditional art.

He works mostly in Brussels but he is French. And France, which long ignored him, now wonders whether he is a genius.

This revolutionary of 37 was broke only five years ago.

He is Maurice Bejart, choreographer and stage setter of the Belgian National Opera.

He was first a dancer and his main activity remains choreography. But he also is trying opera, has written a play and is making a film of it. Many of his ballets were created for television.

Still not satisfied, Bejart dreams of huge shows, with hundreds of dancers, singers and musicians, played in antique open - air theaters, or railway terminals, factory yards, sports arenas or circus tents. He loves a young and new public, laborers, farmers, students, or a foreign audience which has never heard of him.

MAURICE BEJART

"Feels" the Public—

"I feel the public," he says. "I can't live without the public. I like a new public. It judges with its instinct, not its experience. Its judgment is newer, experience less sure."

Born in Marseilles, the son of a philosophy professor, Bejart learned to dance at the age of 15. His first dancing experience was in post-war Paris, and Stockholm saw his first attempt at choreography — a new version of Stravinsky's "Firebird" — in 1953. Twice he tried forming his own ballet companies in France, using funds he earned by creating ballets for Belgian television. But financial reverses struck him down by 1958.

That was when he joined the staff of the Belgian impresario Maurice Huysmans, who became director of the Brussels Opera at the Theatre Royal de la Monda, which later was designated the Belgian National Opera.

Bejart formed a new ballet company of 50 dancers, the "XXth Century Ballet," and his first fame resulted from a daring new version of Stravinsky's "Sacre du Printemps."

Wants to Shock

More recently he made headlines with a controversial adaptation of Franz Lehar's "La Veuve Joyeuse" ("Merry Widow") The premiere audience hissed and booed the show and the heirs of the original authors sued the opera. The publicity led to sell - out performances. But Bejart was pleased for another reason.

"If they had not whistled, I would have paid them to do so," he said. "I want to rouse people from their sleep. It is not easy to move. A creator who does not shock is useless."

The shocked audience at the "Merry Widow" premiere claimed he made a social protest of a gay picture of the carelessness at the turn of the century. Bejart answers that he simply placed a frivolous story in its true context of time — the social inequalities just before World War I.

In 10 years he has created 30 ballets and has set the stage for half a dozen other works, from operas to pageants. In opera, traditionally dominated by conductors and singers, he is anxious to direct the whole performance, so as to make it appealing to larger audiences.

His biggest effort this year will come in the fall, when Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" will be performed by full orchestra and hundreds of singers and dancers. For this production, the Opera House is too small, and the Brussels Brick Circus will be used.

Now that he is in the spotlight, the French critics are enthusiastic about him. But he remains unmoved.

"I think I came at the right time," he says. "That's success. Some arrive too early, some too late. You have to be there at just the right time."

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Darden of Roscoe announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Kay, to Milton Eugene Kiddy, son of E. K. Kiddy of Dallas. The wedding will be at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 8, in the Hermleigh Methodist Church. The bride-elect is a graduate of Hermleigh High School and attended McMurry College. She is presently employed by the city of Abilene. Mr. Kiddy is stationed at Dyess Air Force Base. The couple will live in Abilene.

You can bake stuffed pork chops, after browning. Use a moderate oven and allow the chops to get very tender — they'll be thick (for stuffing) so they'll probably need about 1½ hours.

Springtime delight: add a small amount of crushed strawberries to that butter frosting for white or yellow cake; garnish with some of the whole berries.

Miss Bounds, Mr. Batchler Wed Here

Dolly Colleen Bounds and Jimmy Leon Batchler of Lamesa exchanged marriage vows in the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Wilson, parents of the bride, at 209 North Avenue W, Monday evening, July 6th.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Batchler of Lamesa.

The bride's wedding gown was floor length with a lace jacket designed with a beautiful round neckline.

Janet Pierce served her sister as Matron-of-honor, wearing a white street length dress with white accessories.

Kenneth Dale Pierce, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Lamesa.

Double Ring Vows Unite Miss Arnn, Mr. Etheredge

The First Methodist Church of Lubbock was the scene of the marriage of Miss Nancy Gail Arnn of Muleshoe, and Mr. Bobby Leon Etheredge of Fort Worth Saturday evening, July 11, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. J. Chess Lovern, pastor, officiated at the double ring service. Baskets of white gladiolus and white daisies, white tapers with garlands of greenery on candelabra graced the church.

Mrs. Dorotha Barrett presented traditional wedding music on the organ. Mrs. Charles E. Prater, soloist, sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee", and "The Lord's Prayer".

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Arnn of Muleshoe are parents of the bride, and Miss Laura Shipman of Fort Worth is the aunt of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. Re-embroidered appliques of French lace and seed pearls adorned the lower bodice and the front of the gently controlled skirt which ended in a wide sweeping train. The bridal veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a pill box of organza and lace with seed pearl trim.

She carried a bouquet of white roses encircling one red rose and flowing English ivy on a white Bible.

Mrs. Reuel Kirby of Baileyboro, attended her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edwin Wilkes of Lubbock, Mrs. Clint Gregory of Petersburg, and Miss Freda Reed of Santa Fe, New Mexico. They wore identical white formal - length dresses featuring bell skirts, bolero type jackets adorned with lace, scoop necklines and elbow length sleeves. Each carried one long stemmed red rose.

Craig Kirby of Baileyboro, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore a striped Eton jacket with short black pants.

D. P. Ammons, Jr. of Abilene was best man. Ushers and groomsmen included Ruel Kirby of Baileyboro, Blakely Fargason of Canyon, cousin of the groom; Wiley Etheredge of Houston and Troy Etheredge of Midland, both brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Ben R. Lowe registered guests at the reception held in the church parlor. The bride's table was centered with greenery and candles, while a bud vase with three white roses centered the groom's table. The white wedding cake was of a tiered rectangular shape.

For her wedding trip to Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo. the bride chose a navy and white pin striped cotton suit, white accessories, and the white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

They will make their home at 4909 E. Lancaster, Apt. 33-A, Fort Worth.

Mrs. Etheredge is a graduate of Texas Tech and employed by Nelson, McCleskey & Harringer, Lawyers in Lubbock, for the past five and one - half years. Mr. Etheredge is also a graduate of Texas Tech, and is farm director for WBAP radio and TV in Fort Worth.

Kitchen economy: the bones from a roast leg of lamb will make a good soup when it is combined with extra broth, onion, carrot, barley and seasonings.

Different Salad Bowl

4 cups torn salad greens
1 cup thinly sliced Chinese cabbage
2 oranges, pared and diced
1 small cucumber, pared and sliced
2 shallots or scallions, sliced
Olive oil and wine vinegar
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Turn salad greens, Chinese cabbage, oranges, cucumber and shallots into a salad bowl. Toss with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper in the proportions that suit your taste. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

EVEN SHORTER THAN LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG ADDRESS

Israel's Water Plan Kept Secret

By HAL MCCLURE

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's controversial water scheme to deliver Jordan River water from the Sea of Galilee to the thirsty Negev Desert is expected to go fully operational in near secrecy.

First tests have proven successful.

For weeks now, Israeli engineers have pumped water through the $100 million system: 220 miles of canal, 48 miles of pipeline and 5 miles of tunnel.

The project is under heavy guard.

The exultant engineers can't or won't say when the tests will end. There will be no announcement when they do, officials say privately.

Israel would never have announced the tests if a cabinet minister hadn't let it slip in a speech in June.

"We need water, not propaganda," was the way one Israeli put it.

The Arab world's hostility toward the Jordan project—in the works for more than a decade—is behind the Israeli hush-hush attitude.

The Arab states in a counter-offensive have announced plans to divert headwaters of the Jordan before it reaches Israel. Gamal Abdel Nasser said last week nothing has been done about this, however. Such action, warns Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir, would be considered an act of aggression.

Arab leaders say they fear an influx of millions of new settlers in the Negev, which is expected to bloom under irrigation. They say it's a violation of United Nations resolutions and the armistice agreements. They contend agriculture in the lower Jordan valley faces ruin from increased salt in the Jordan.

Double Contracts Used To Evade Transaction Misery

By The Associated Press

As any person trying to sell a home knows, finding a buyer with any money is the hard part of selling.

Prospects parade through the house, like it, but then balk when the real estate agent begins talking about down payment.

The prospective buyer doesn't get the house he wants, the real estate man doesn't get a commission, the loan company doesn't get to lend any money.

But sometimes a purchaser is offered or requests a deal.

It is called "double contract," and he moves into the house without the outlay of any cash. One instance of a bonus television set being given for moving in is told in the industry as an example of the state of affairs.

The basic plan is to obtain loans on a high appraisal figure by signing contracts stating this figure as the sale price. The builder or real estate broker actually sells the house much cheaper, often at the exact amount received from the loan company.

Then the loan company makes the down payment for the purchaser. Down payment requirements generally are 10 to 20 per cent, often as high as 30 per cent.

Each segment of the industry calls the practice immoral. However, John Terrell, executive president of the Texas Association of Home Builders, said recently that there is no law against dual contracting in Texas as provided no government-insured loan is involved.

At the recent Texas Real Estate Association convention at El Paso, George McCanse of Houston said the practice is widespread.

McCanse said at least seven persons must know about the deal — the buyer and seller and their wives, the man representing the lender, the title company representative and either a real estate agent or an appraiser.

Some others in the industry say the practice is not widespread.

Alton Miller of Dallas, who will head the Real Estate Association in November, says "such a fraud can be put across with only two people — the buyer and seller — knowing about it."

The various segments are inclined to blame the other, but some authorities say the only person likely to be hurt are the lenders, who may find their borrowers abandoning the houses if there is a major drop in the market.

Wayne Bennett, president of the Dallas County Home Builders Association, said, "I do believe that if the mortgage people really want it stamped out, they have the tools to do it with. For a dual contract deal to work out, somebody's got to over-appraise a piece of property. No two appraisers are going to see a property exactly alike, but a 20 to 30 per cent difference in valuation is unlikely."

Other authorities claim that home loans are not made simply on the sales price but rather on the basis of value. Another said, "In today's market, I don't think anyone can tell the exact value of a piece of property."

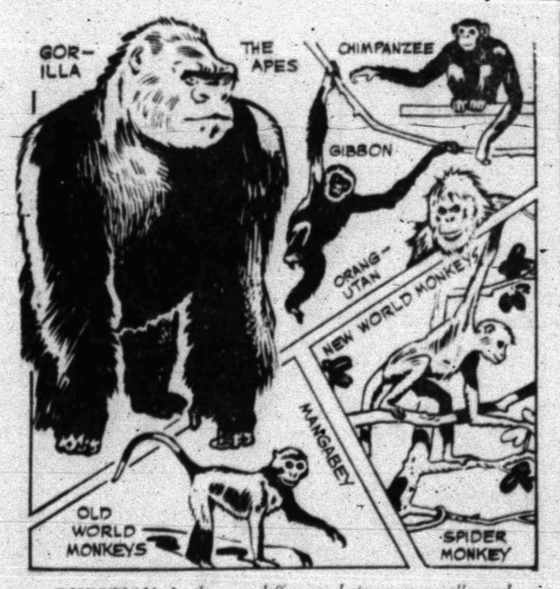

Buddy Porter, president of the Dallas Real Estate Board said that frequently buyers suggest such an arrangement.

"They've learned this from someone down the line," he said.

The consensus is that the practice has declined in the past two or three years.

However, the board of the Texas Real Estate Association has voted unanimously to press for state legislation with teeth in it to stop the practice.

Junior Editors Quiz on MONKEYS

QUESTION: Is there a difference between a gorilla and a monkey?

• • •

ANSWER: The gorillas belong to a group of animals called "anthropoid" or man-like apes, the other 3 members of which we show in the illustration. Apes are the brainest of all animals, and the chimpanzee is the smartest of the apes. The chimpanzee can even use tools in a primitive way, such as breaking off sticks to pull out juicy termites from their nests. There is a very large mental gap, however, between the apes and mankind.

Although apes are often called monkeys, the real monkeys belong to different families, although both apes and monkeys are of the same order of "primates." True monkeys are smaller than the apes, with thinner, more graceful bodies, shorter, narrower faces and generally long tails. (There are exceptions to this last, as, for example, the baboons.) True monkeys are classified by scientists into two families, the "cebidae" or New World monkeys and the "ceropithecidae" or Old World monkeys. The New World kind have wide noses and possess two more teeth than the Old World monkeys. Both apes and monkeys resemble each other in that they like to live in warm climates and are active, curious and playful.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Imagine you are a gorilla, and try walking on all fours, using the knuckles of your hands, as he does. It will make you realize how differently you're built. Your long legs will be in the way.

Poignant Messages Left By Tourists

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Tourists are leaving poignant messages near the scene of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

They scrawl the messages on sheets of notebook paper, and pin them to wreaths which rest against an ornamental wall in a grassy park at Main and Houston.

An Ohio housewife wrote: "We came to see because we loved you as our President."

And an Oklahoma City family expressed its admiration for President Kennedy with these words: "Thank you for your life of service and unselfish love for all of us."

Electronic phones will permit two persons talking to punch a special number, then the number of a third person, and bring the third person into the conversation.

BUNANZA SPAGHETTI is quick and easy and will satisfy the heartiest appetite.

Food Cups Make Meals Versatile

Look, everyone — no knives, forks or spoons needed to eat a Bunanza bread cup. A Bunanza is a golden baked bread cup that can be filled with hot or cold food and eaten like an ice cream cone. It's a meal in one, and a fun-to-eat food in a cup that's really a bun!

Bunanza cups have a good fresh bread taste. They keep food hot because tightly knit air cells baked into the bread provide good insulation. This special structure also prevents Bunanza cups from absorbing juice and becoming soggy. The cups come wrapped in plastic to preserve their good fresh quality; they keep well on the shelf and indefinitely in the freezer.

A great variety of food can be served in a Bunanza cup. Hot foods such as chili, creamed chicken or tuna, stew, spaghetti, beans, hash, or even scrambled eggs are truly easy to eat in this golden bread cup. Salads made of chicken, tuna, shrimp or ham are also delicious in a Bunanza. To eat — just take bites all the way around the cup, as if eating a cone.

Bunanzas, made of cake, are also available in deep chocolate and popular vanilla flavors. These can be filled with ice cream, puddings, fruit or pie fillings.

These versatile new bread and cake cups can be found at your local bakery and are being sold at snack bars at the World's Fair. Look for Bunanza, a totally new concept in eating!

BUNANZA SPAGHETTI

¼ cup vegetable oil
1 lb. ground beef
2 tbsp. minced parsley
2 medium onions chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato puree
2 cans (6 oz. each) tomato paste
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
salt to taste
4 oz. spaghetti
8 bread Bunanzas

Brown ground beef in hot oil. Add parsley, onions, garlic and cook until yellow. Stir in the tomato puree, tomato paste, Worcestershire sauce, and salt. Cook spaghetti according to pkg. directions. Add to spaghetti sauce. Spoon into Bunanzas. 8 servings.

If you want to freshen crisp cookies that have been stored for a while, place them on an ungreased cookie sheet and heat for several minutes in a slow oven; allow to cool before serving to regain crispness.

IRA NEWS

By ED MURPHY

The Home Maker Sunday School Class of the Ira Baptist Church met in the home of Pearl Millhollon July 7th. Business was discussed, cake and lemonade were served to ten members and one visitor. The yearbook for 1965 was planned. Members present were: Mabel Owen, Sis Falls, Maud Taylor, Ozie Samruld, Lela Newton, Babe Minor, Ida Davis, Pauline Haynes and Pearl Millhollon. The visitor was Connie Clay.

The J. L. Byars family are on vacation.

Mrs. Lee Holladay has moved to her new home next door to Evelyn's Beauty Shop.

Concerning fresh water for Ira and Dunn: The FHA loan has been applied for. The meeting to elect water board members and a secretary - treasurer will be called soon after the loan is approved. You may still put up your deposit at the original rate until the work is started, after that the deposit will be higher, depending on the amount that the board decides to charge for late signers.

The new building on the Kruse Service Station lot is all painted now and ready for occupancy. It would be a good location for most any type of business.

Mr. Dale Bukley with the Postal Department was in Ira Thursday morning. He and Mrs. Murphy, Postmaster at Ira, made a trip to the Lake Thomas area to survey the need for re-opening the rural station of the Post Office Department which was destroyed by fire on May 20th. Quite a number of the permanent residents of that area seem to be in favor of the station being located at Boyd's Lodge.

SFC Joe A. Welch, U.S. Army Recruiting service in Snyder, was in Ira on business Thursday afternoon.

Mr. D. E. Snow, who was Star Route carrier to Ira and vicinity for twenty - two years was visiting here Thursday afternoon. Accompanying him was his great - grandson who is in the Air Force in Florida.

If by some chance you've stored evaporated or condensed milk for as long as six months, invert the cans on your shelves and plan to use them soon. If the cans aren't turned, the milk solids may clump together and will need water added (when you use the milk) to dissolve them.

SLEEK CHIC AT THE HELM . . . The girl who puts out to . . . and be seen wears Roman designer Antonelli's wet-looking black cire jacket, the same kind of slick shiny black trousers, and bandana hat. The cosy lining of hat and jacket match the turquoise jersey orlon acrylic sweater.

Italians Conquer By Using Secret Weapon

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

While the European couture houses vied for headlines with bared bodices, dangling bangles and bias cuts, Roman sportswear designers quietly and as usual stole all the glory.

Their weapons were deadly. They knocked their audiences cold with a daring sense of humor. Then they resuscitated them with jarring, screaming color combinations.

Being Italian, these designers naturally used sex appeal in generous doses but without the self-consciousness of American designers or the studied eroticism of some European couturiers. The Italian designers used sex appeal, as we said before, naturally.

It has been barely a dozen fairly bare years since the Romans entered and conquered the sportswear market and they haven't given up an inch of their beachhead since.

SHRUNKEN PANTS

Going for them was Emilio Pucci who put slim - hipped women in long tight pants, and ever after maintained his stronghold by shrinking the pants and tightening them tighter than you would believe possible.

Also a part of this earlier entrenchment were the husband and wife team of Simonetti and Fabiani. They bombarded the sportswear industry with bombastic stripes, dots, braid, plaids, and tassels with a sunny witticism and indisputaly Italian.

Other Romans and Florentines followes suit or suits — gay uninhibited swim suits that were more swim than suit, as well as covered up garments for going to ski or to the set on ships or for traveling by horse motorcycle racing car or go-cart.

IT ISN'T SO.

Within the dozen years that have passed some of the generals and admirals of this successful manouver have defected to Paris to expand their fashion empires. At one time there was talk that this abandonment might weaken the lines, but this year's collection of Italin sportswear vitiated that.

The Italians entered laughing in silly willy-nillies like harem pants, diaper suits, blinding hats, and zany tote bags. They smiled all the way through. And they then exited laughing at themselves, at fashion, at the fun of life under the sun.

That's how the Romans have made their inroads and how they held onto their territory, and that's how it may be for some time to come.

PEEK AND PEAK — Italian designer Antonelli knitted up yellow shorts and a V-cut tanker top out of orlon acrylic yarns for this vision-obstructed bather. That hat is a two-tiered mandarin straw with occidental eye-slits.
