Panel says Walsh probe going slowly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaders of the Senate committee investigating the Iran-Contra controversy expressed impatience Friday about the pace of independent counsel Lawrence Walsh's probe into the case.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, the committee chairman, said it took Walsh several weeks to complete his interrogation of Fawn Hall, former secretary to Lt. Col. Oliver North, and then make her available to congressional investigators for questioning.

"Now I'm certain he has his own way of doing his business but at times we find it a bit difficult to appreciate his need for five, six, seven weeks to question a witness," said Inouye.

"Most respectfully, I believe that it could be done with a bit more expedition," said Inouye, whose own committee has been subjected to criticism that it was moving too quickly toward granting key witnesses limited immunity from prosecution in order to compel their testimony.

Speaking in the same interview, the panel's top Republican, Sen. Warren Rudman of New Hampshire, noted that the Senate committee doesn't "need anyone's approval to do what we're doing and we don't intend to seek it. We intend to cooperate to the extent that we can and fulfill our responsibilities."

"If we do not think we can fulfill our responsibilities and still cooperate, then we will fulfill our responsibilities."

One Senate official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Senate investigators agreed either in late January or early February to permit Walsh to question Ms. Hall before they did.

This official said Walsh notified congressional investigators within the past several days that he had completed his interrogation and they were free to proceed.

In apparent anticipation of this timetable, Walsh wrote the committee in late February that he had no objection to their granting the woman limited immunity. The committee then voted that immunity in late February, allowing the mandatory 10-day waiting period to end at about the same time Walsh finished his questioning.

Inouye and Rudman made their comments at the end of an occasionally contentious week in which Walsh appealed to both the House and Senate committees to delay for 90 days any decision to grant immunity to North and Rear Adm. John Poindexter, President Reagan's former national security adviser.

Lawyers for both committees and aides to Walsh are attempting to work out a compromise on the issue, but no decision is expected for several more days.

One congressional source said Senate investigators were discussing, among possible compromise proposals, a plan for the committees to conduct interviews in closed sessions with those two witnesses and withhold their public interrogation for the 90 days sought by Walsh.

MCHD board delays reorganization

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

Those who guide the destiny of the Midland County Hospital District decided to wait until March 26 before cementing any decisions on when and how to reorganize voting districts.

For 90 minutes Friday, MCHD directors and members of the public — largely composed of minority community representatives — tossed ideas and opinions around Midland Memorial Hospital's auditorium before coming to the mutual understanding that a decision could wait until a later date.

At the crux of the discussion was which method of redistricting MCHD should go with.

MCHD officials said a "four-three" split in which four members are elected to a single-member district position and three are elected to at-large positions would work best.

Representatives of the minority community contend the taxpayers will not be equally represented unless there are seven single-member districts, and that a "four-three" split is at best a token gesture.

"We've heard so many points in opposition to what we thought was a good idea," said board chairman W.S. Parks Jr., M.D., of the meeting.

In light of that, he moved to hold off on a reorganization decision to allow more time for public discussion of the matter.

The matter will be discussed and probably decided on at the next MCHD meeting to be 2 p.m. on March 26 at MMH and open to the public, Parks said.

"Evidently, this has been a good system because no one has complained about it," Parks said.

He said the reorganization plans stemmed from a desire by the directors to increase the membership from five to seven and to better see all facets of the community represented.

But representatives from Midland's minority community said Parks' gesture is a token one.

Representatives from Midland organizations including Taxpayers Awareness Group, League of United Latin American Citizens, National Association for Advancement of Colored People, FOCUS, Midland Chamber of Commerce, Midland Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, Midland County Commissioners, the Black Advisory Council and the MMH board of governors were at the meeting as were concerned individuals with no affiliation.

Kremlin says U.S. violated arms agreements

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin on Friday rejected American claims that the Soviet Union cheated on superpower arms pacts and accused the United States of violating nuclear test agreements since the 1960s. The Communist Party daily Pravda also said that the United States has blocked a total ban on nuclear tests by clinging to its testing program.

The article appeared to be a response to charges made by the Reagan administration accusing the Soviets of violating agreements on testing and arms control, including "regularly permitting the release of nuclear debris into the atmosphere."

Pravda said the United States violated a test ban agreement signed in the 1960s and a 1974 ceiling on the size of nuclear tests.

It criticized the Reagan administration for refusing to join the 19-month unilateral Soviet moratorium on nuclear testing that ended two weeks ago.

The U.S. State Department on Wednesday said that fallout from a Feb. 26 Soviet test was detected outside the Soviet Union.

Pravda did not respond to a new American proposal for verifying any agreement to eliminate the two countries' medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

The Laotian Communist Party newspaper Pasason quoted Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze as saying the Soviet Union would demand "strict and reliable" inspection measures in an agreement on medium-range weapons.

Shevardnadze returned Friday from a Far East trip that included Laos, a Soviet ally.

"The United States, by going ahead with its nuclear tests, not only frustrates the possibility of reaching an agreement on cessation of all nuclear explosions, but also directly resorts to covert and overt violations of the accords that limit the parameters of such tests," Pravda said.

IRS hopes free car wash incentive to drop off returns

AUSTIN (AP) — Hoping to encourage people to be more prompt with their income tax returns, workers at the Internal Revenue Service regional office in Austin have volunteered to wash taxpayers' cars.

Bob Branson, spokesman for the IRS service center, said Friday that volunteers planned to provide free car washes to taxpayers who drop off their returns at the center today.

"If getting your refund quickly is not enough incentive, there's also a free car wash," Branson said.

Officials said taxpayers are filing their returns at a slower pace this year, but the IRS is processing returns and mailing out refunds faster.

According to Branson, return receipts at the Austin center total 4.3 million, down 8.4 percent from a year ago.

The regional center, which processes returns from Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, has received 201,000 fewer returns than last year while processing 302,000 more.

"Right now, refunds are going out in only four weeks," said Larry Westfall, IRS service center director. "So far, we've sent out 400,000 more refunds than at this time last year. This includes 600,000 mailed just today (Friday)."

Composite released of shooting suspect

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The Ector County sheriff's office late Friday afternoon released a composite picture of the man being sought on charges of attempted capital murder in connection with the shooting early Thursday of an El Paso woman and her 9-year-old daughter.

Sheriff Bob Brookshire posted a $500 reward from his own personal funds early Friday for the identification, indictment and conviction of the man responsible for the kidnapping and shooting of Gail Lynn Amos, 35, and her 9-year-old daughter.

Late Friday, Criminal Division Lt. Jeff Schwende said the girl was in "extremely critical condition" following two cranial operations. The condition of her mother continued to be described as stable.

Schwende said investigating deputies talked briefly with Ms. Amos Friday morning and she told them she would definitely recognize the man who abducted and shot her and her daughter after their car broke down east of Big Spring after midnight Thursday. About mid-afternoon Friday, Schwende obtained permission from the woman's doctor for her to help a sheriff's deputy and Odessa Police Department artist put together a composite picture of the man who attempted to kill her and her daughter.

The truck driver sought is described as around 6-foot tall, with a pot belly, weighing about 250 pounds, with dark hair, a full beard and a mustache.

Smith: Research may help improve farmers' efficiency

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Agriculture is under siege from a two-fold front — waning credit and a negative trade, U.S. Congressman Lamar Smith said Friday at a Midland Jaycees luncheon in Midland Center.

"This simply cannot continue," Smith said. Credit must be stabilized, and the negative trade must be turned around.

The congressman was featured speaker at a meeting in which Midland's Outstanding Farmer of the Year, Andy Schumann, was honored by the Jaycees, a service and leadership training organization.

Smith suggested that increased research and development in agriculture would help reduce costs of producing food and fiber and would allow American farmers to be more competitive in the world market.

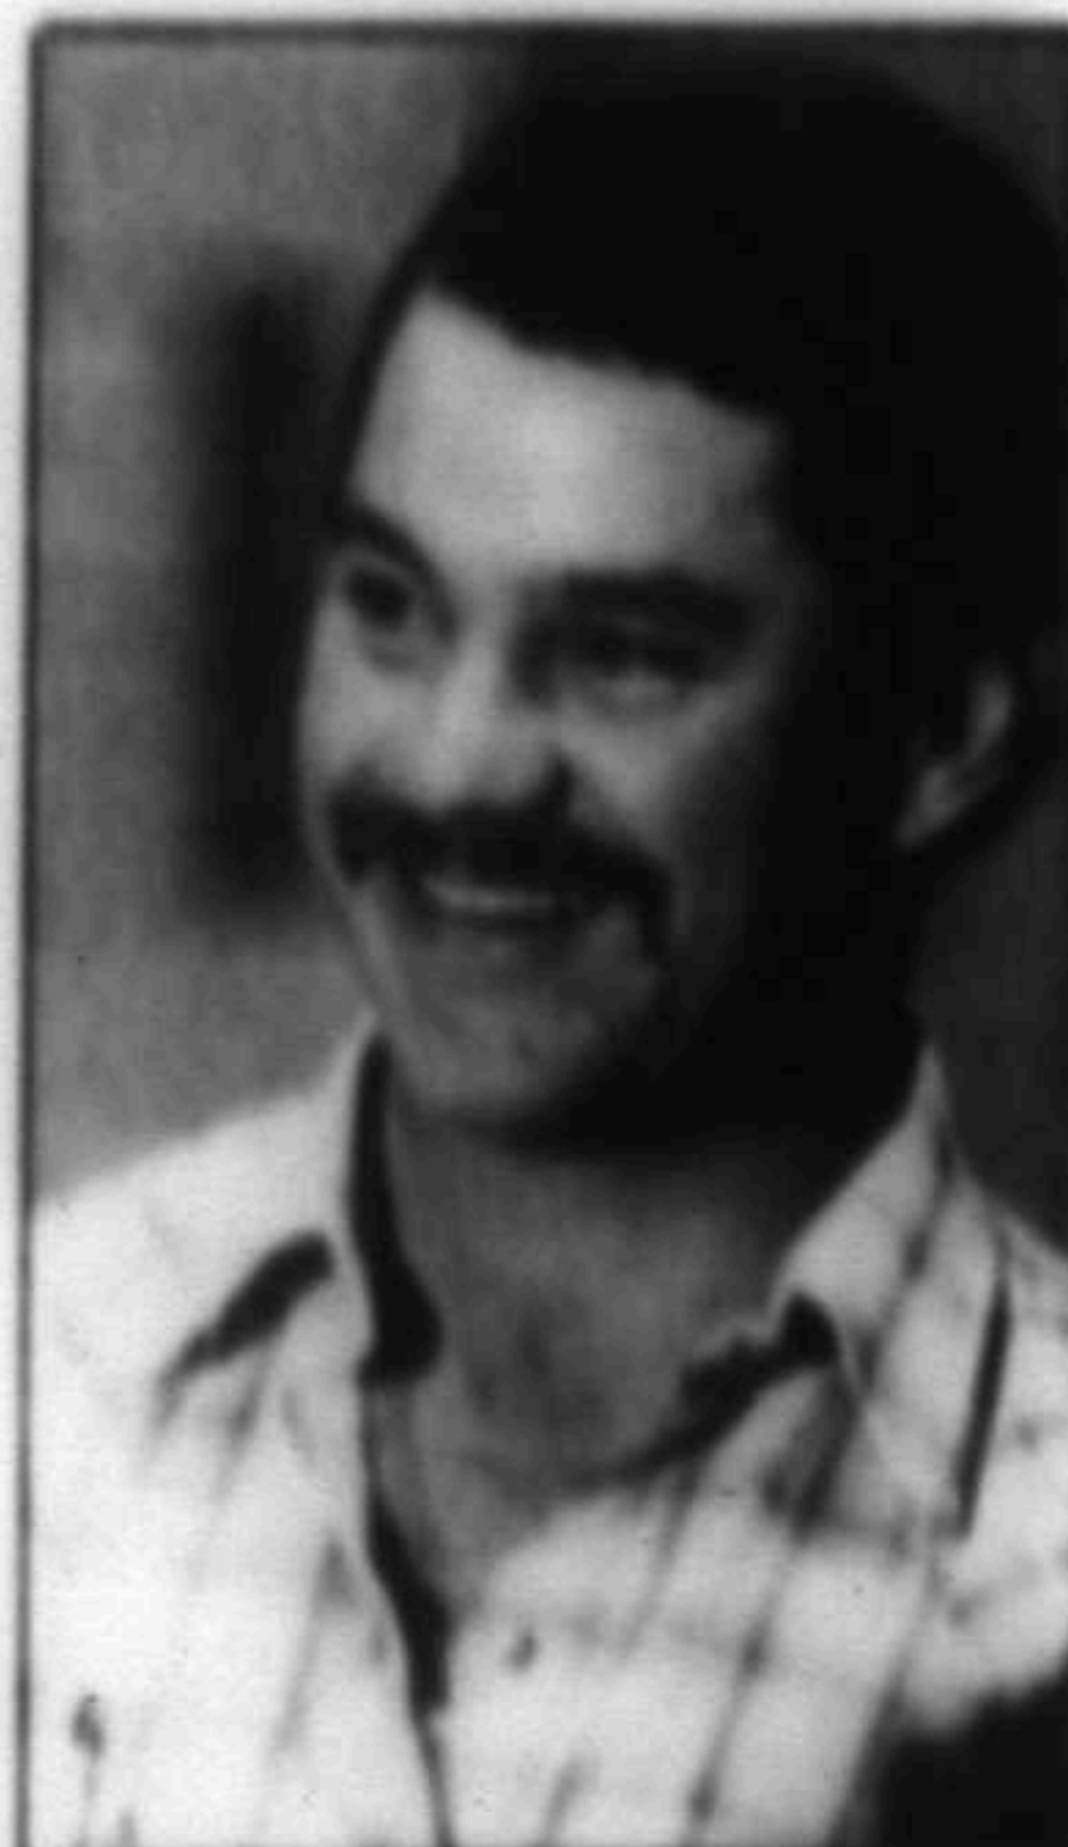

"We (American farmers) are efficient," said Smith, who owns a ranch in South Texas. But, the congressman noted, Americans could be more efficient. The agricultural industry accounts for about 20 percent of the gross national product.

For a moment, he reflected on basics.

"There's nothing that smells better than a freshly plowed field," he said, "and nothing can duplicate watching something — plant or calf — grow."

Smith also recommended that anti-dumping laws be enforced to discourage the mass importation of agricultural and other products, including microchips, into the United States.

On a more technical slant, Smith said that the building of the proposed superconducting superconductor physics laboratory — atom smasher — in Texas "is a great hope for Texas."

Andy Schumann

"The SSC must be awarded on the basis of cost effectiveness," he said. The cost, depending on the location, would be between $3-billion and $6-billion. And a West Texas site, such as the Garden City area, would be far more cost-effective than other sites, Smith said.

"I happen to think West Texas will be on the low end of that cost estimate," he said.

Smith also proposed enhanced recovery of oil through modern technology. Currently, he said, about one-third of oil is being recovered, while the balance remains "in the ground."

Reputed mob boss acquitted of racketeering, conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP) — John Gotti, reputed boss of the largest Mafia family in the United States, and six co-defendants were acquitted Friday of all counts of racketeering and conspiracy.

Gotti

The jury, whose members were not identified by name for security reasons, deliberated for seven days before returning a verdict.

"I think they're tired of paid government informants who lie," said Gotti's lawyer, Bruce Cutler, who praised the jurors "for their courage."

"I think that's the American system," Cutler said. "I think everybody should be proud that John Gotti walked out today."

In the pandemonium that erupted after the verdict was read, Gotti pointed at the prosecution table and said: "Shame on them! I'd like to see the verdict on them too."

Gotti pointed to the jury box and said he was glad about "what these people did to them." Following the reading of the first innocent verdict, Gotti had told his attorney, "Good job."

U.S. Attorney Andrew J. Maloney, whose office handled the case, said in a statement: "We are obviously disappointed by the verdict rendered by the jury today in the Gotti case. We live in a country of rules and procedures in our criminal justice system, and the jury has spoken."

Gotti, 46, his brother Gene, 40, of Valley Stream; John Carneglia, 42, of Queens, and four others were indicted two years ago on charges that they ran two crews in the Gambino crime family, the largest Mafia family in the country.

The racketeering enterprise charged in the indictment was pictured as lasting over 18 years and was allegedly supervised by the late family underboss, Aniello Dellacroce.

All the defendants would have faced up to 40 years if convicted of racketeering and conspiracy.

"A jury verdict is the end of the case, whether it's guilty or not guilty," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Diane Giacalone, who prosecuted the case.

Cutler, in closing remarks to the jury, had referred to Giacalone as "a new breed of prosecutor" who had a personal dislike of Gotti but no evidence to convict him. He said that Gotti was being prosecuted because of a lifestyle of gambling, swearing and fancy dressing.

Maloney said the jury's decision "in no way affects our determination to vigorously pursue those who terrorize our community." Cutler said he expected the government to go after Gotti "wherever it can."

The others who stood trial were Wilfred Johnson, 52, of Brooklyn; Anthony Rampino, 47, of Yonkers; Leonard DiMaria, 45, of Brooklyn; and Nicholas Corozzo, 46, of Brooklyn.

The original indictment, handed up in March 1985, named 10 men, with Dellacroce, who was arraigned from his sickbed, as the lead defendant. At the time Gotti was so obscure that U.S. District Judge Eugene Nickerson, who presided during the trial, had to ask how to spell his name.

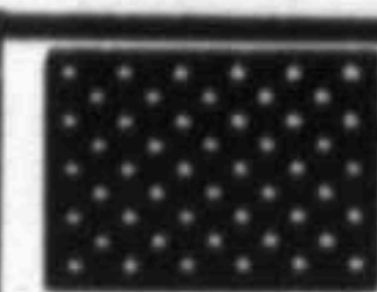

But in the past year Gotti, who lives in the Howard Beach section of Queens with his wife, Victoria, has been dubbed "The Dapper Don" for his expensive tailored suits.

Turncoats painted a sordid picture of mob operations. Many witnesses were given immunity, new identities and promises of relocation in return for their testimony.

Defense lawyers portrayed those witnesses as liars who were desperate to avoid prison. One prospective witness, an FBI informant named William Battista, fled a year ago when told he would have to testify. Two of the original defendants, Dellacroce's son Armond and Carneglia's brother Charles, are fugitives. The senior Dellacroce died of cancer in 1985.

Nickerson tried to pick a jury in April 1986 but that was stalled because of publicity.

Inmate with razor-blade weapon takes hostages, soon releases them

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An inmate apparently armed with a weapon fashioned from razor blades took five people hostage Friday at a maximum-security prison and held four of them for more than two hours before surrendering, officials said.

The inmate seized five people, social workers and prisoners, at about 1:30 p.m., released one about an hour later, then set the others free unharmed about 3:55 p.m., officials said.

He was identified by Department of Corrections spokeswoman Kim White as Bengro Galvan, 29, a Cuban who came to this country in the Mariel boatlift. Galvan was serving a seven-year sentence in the Trenton State Prison on two drug charges, Ms. White said.

Galvan, who had a parole hearing scheduled in a few weeks, primarily was concerned about the accuracy of his parole date, Assistant Corrections Commissioner Gary Hilton said.

The prisoner also demanded he not be hurt and that he be transferred to another prison, Hilton said, adding that officials had agreed to the demands.

"He was extremely threatening verbally," Hilton said.

The incident began when Galvan was meeting with a social worker about his parole and pulled the weapon.

Hilton said.

Negotiators from the Department of Corrections worked to free the hostages while officers armed with rifles and wearing combat boots and fireproof jumpsuits moved into the maximum-security prison, which houses 1,973 inmates.

The hostages were identified as prison social workers Marie Sledge, Yolanda Hill and Houston Johnson, and inmates Douglas Garner of Cumberland County, who was imprisoned on robbery and weapons charges; and Jose Cedeno of Cumberland County, who was imprisoned on robbery, assault and weapons charges.

Garner was released midway through the incident, officials said.

Galvan will be transferred to a state prison in Yardsville, Hilton said.

Friday's incident was only the second hostage situation at Trenton State Prison in at least 20 years.

In September 1985, an inmate angry over a job change at the prison grabbed a librarian and a secretary and pushed them into an office where five other employees were working, corrections officials said at the time.

The prisoner released all the hostages unharmed after about three hours when two corrections officers talked him into giving up a 10-inch knife fashioned from a ladle handle taken from the prison kitchen, authorities said then.

NATION IN BRIEF

Mother found guilty in son's choking death

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — A woman has been found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the death of her 5-month-old son, who choked on pepper.

Elizabeth R. Jewell, 26, of Webster Groves, showed no reaction Thursday when St. Louis County Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Romines read the verdict. The jury recommended five years in prison. She faces up to seven years at sentencing April 14.

Prosecutor Steven Goldman argued that Mrs. Jewell had poured a "tremendous amount" of pepper down the child's mouth to punish him for crying.

But Mrs. Jewell testified that she had put pepper on his fingers and tongue to keep him from sucking his thumb.

Air Force tanker crashes

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — An Air Force tanker plane with six people on board crashed and burst into flames Friday afternoon at Fairchild Air Force Base, officials said.

There were six on board, and their condition is not known at this time," said Airman 1st Class Teresa Tracy, a spokeswoman at the base.

Capt. Brad Peck, public information officer at the base, later said that the tanker was practicing maneuvers with a B-52 and that the pair were flying low over the runway when the tanker crashed.

Fairchild, part of the Strategic Air Command, has been preparing a bomber tanker air act. The act, by its 92nd Bomb Wing, was tentatively titled the Thunderhawks and was intended to be SAC's answer to the acrobatic Air Force Thunderbirds and the Navy's Blue Angels.

Runaway cars kill one

OVERLAND, Mo. (AP) — Two Rock Island Cotton Belt freight cars broke loose Friday during yard switching operations, killing one worker about a mile away and injuring three others, police said.

Eddie Williams, Overland police chief, said the cars that broke loose were among those being switched in a yard.

They rolled about a mile before striking the car carrying the four workers, Williams said. He said the four men were tamping gravel along the tracks.

1787 Constitution Daybook

Associated Press

Wednesday, March 14, 1787
PHILADELPHIA TODAY

With considerable disgust at the continuing delay, today's Pennsylvania Gazette reported the Pennsylvania Assembly was still postponing the renewal of the charter of the Bank of North America.

The editor also discussed the depressed state of farmers in Pennsylvania. High interest rates made it impossible for farmers to sell their land, or to find buyers. Furthermore, prices for the farm production were so trifling that there were virtually no incentives for expansion. The editor reported that 40 farms in New Jersey and 12 farms in Pennsylvania would be sold at sheriff's sales. More than 100 farms were offered for sale in today's newspaper, which carried a two-page supplement to accommodate these increased offerings.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

William Samuel Johnson was having an unbelievably difficult time sailing to New York. For the third day the ship was unable to make progress. At first a strong headwind made the going slow, today the problem was no wind at all. The trip from New Haven, Conn., to New York City, today only a couple of hours by automobile, was going to take Johnson at least four days by ship.

But Johnson was not missed today, as Congress did not have enough members present and did not meet.

DELEGATES TODAY

At Mount Vernon, George Washington reported that the first oats were beginning to come up at the Neck plantation and the fields were prepared for planting corn.

The general sent 45 barrels of her ring to Clement Biddle in Philadelphia to sell for the best price he could get. In the same letter, he ordered a dozen each corn and grass scythes, two bramble scythes, and two flax spinning wheels.

It was well known that Washington was interested in experimental farming. He kept several test plots on his plantations to find the best methods for raising crops. He also welcomed any useful suggestions for improving crop yields and always was anxious to receive new or better quality seeds.

Thus, Benjamin Grymes was calculating to get into Washington's good graces with the plants he sent today. He shipped five bushels of Jerusalem artichokes with planting instructions calculated to make the best yields. He claimed that the artichokes would produce 300 bushels per acre and provide some of the best and cheapest fodder available for horses. Also, in case the general was interested, Grymes offered to send Irish potato seeds and cotton seed.

LOOKING BACK

The Bank of North America banks are taken for granted in the 20th century, nearly everyone has a checking account, savings account, credit card, or safe deposit box with a bank. But, in the 1780s, banks were virtually nonexistent. The Bank of North America in Philadelphia was the oldest. It had been created in 1781 and was due for rechartering during 1787.

The bank had served a useful purpose in the latter stages of the Revolution by consolidating and stabilizing many of the nation's debts. But it also was a source of criticism, be-

Suspects held in abandoned warehouse fire

DETROIT (AP) — Two suspects were questioned Friday in the investigation of a fire that swept through an abandoned warehouse, killing three firefighters. No charges were filed immediately, an investigator said.

Fire officials have ruled out earlier speculation that the fire was caused by homeless people who have set small fires during winter months to keep warm, said Conrad Rist, chief of the fire department arson division.

Rist declined to reveal what had led authorities to believe the fire was the result of arson.

Police held two suspects, Sgt. Christopher Buck said Friday. "They have been detained for questioning and are still in custody but there have been no charges yet," he said.

The fire began Thursday afternoon in the abandoned warehouse and spread to a paper products company next door, forcing the evacuation of about 30 workers.

Deputy Fire Commissioner Philip Gerak said the fire had been brought under control in seven hours. But the blaze was still classified as active Friday and might not be extinguished until today, said Linda Woods, secretary to the chief and deputy fire commissioner.

Two firefighters died of smoke inhalation after a roof in the paper supply building collapsed on them.

They were identified as Lt. David Lau and Trial Firefighter Larry McDonald, who was in receipt of his badge March 25. Official Friday made McDonald a full firefighter posthumously as an honor, said Lou Simmons, spokeswoman at the Detroit Firemen's Fund Association.

The third firefighter died when he fell to the ground from a window after an explosion rocked the three-story warehouse. Lt. Paul Kozmick, 41, a 30-year department veteran, died of head and neck injuries, said Detroit Southwestern Hospital spokeswoman Rose David.

cause in the first year, investors received a dividend of 14.5 percent. Besides the argument that the rich were getting richer from the bank, opponents also pointed out that the institution was a virtual monopoly and had stifled economic development by fighting the issuance of paper money. Farmers, small artisans, and mechanics needed money for investment and paper money seemed to be the best solution.

The question of whether or not the bank would survive came down to a vote for rechartering by the Pennsylvania Assembly. One year earlier, the opposition held a clear majority and almost certainly could have denied rechartering. But in the elections held late in 1786, the opponents lost their leadership in the Assembly so while they still held enough power to delay action, ultimately the bank supporters gained the necessary votes to prevail. In three days, the bank would be rechartered for another 14 years and allowed a maximum capital of $2,000,000.

DA says doctor impersonator didn't deliver babies

NEW YORK (AP) — A man arrested on charges of impersonating a gynecologist may have treated dozens of women though officials say there is no evidence he delivered any babies.

Victor M. Collado, 32, "forged a medical school diploma and a stolen professional practice certificate in his own name and put stolen MD plates on his car," said the Queens district attorney, John J. Santucci.

Collado was arraigned Thursday before Judge Sheri Roman, who set bail at $7,500 and ordered Collado to appear in court March 17, said Tom McCarthy, a spokesman for Santucci.

He did not immediately make bail.

The investigation began a few weeks ago after a 28-year-old pregnant woman reported she was suspicious of the manner in which Collado allegedly touched her and asked questions about her sex life during "an examination," Santucci said.

Santucci said Collado was "practicing as a doctor without training or license to do so" and "performed body examinations, particularly sonogram pelvic probes and wrote prescriptions for medicine," Santucci said.

McCarthy said he had no information that Collado performed surgery or delivered babies.

He said it was not immediately clear how many women Collado had treated. "It appears to be in the scores, appears to be 40, 50 or 60," said McCarthy. "It appears to us that he was making a living doing this."

Collado attended high school in Queens, but did not graduate, McCarthy said.

Carthy said. He had worked as a nurses' aide and may have taken courses in the technique of using a sonogram, which is used to check the condition of a fetus, officials said.

Gramm, Pickle: Army committed to funding of UT research center

AUSTIN (AP) — A University of Texas research facility will have a much better chance at receiving federal funding now that the U.S. Army has taken it on as a partner, two Texas congressmen said Friday.

Gramm

The Center for Electromechanics at Balcones Research Center was designated a Center for Excellence by the U.S. Army, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and U.S. Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle announced Friday.

The designation is a commitment to long-term funding and a partnership between the United States Army and the University of Texas, Gramm said during a news conference at the research facility.

"It will be the vehicle for a continued growth in our research. It's an indication of how important that research is to the defense of our nation."

The designation stems from the center's work in developing an electromagnetic railgun which would electrically fire a projectile, said John Gully, deputy director of the center. A projectile fired by the gun would travel 25 times faster than a projectile fired from a conventional gun, which fires through a chemical explosion, Gully said.

The center is developing the gun for use by the Army as a tactical weapon, he said.

Some of the railgun technology also may be used in development of the Strategic Defense Initiative or "Star Wars" weapon, Gully said.

"Some day when this weapon's developed and when the technology is deployed into space, deployed in Europe, those who plan strategically in the Soviet Union... will report back that today is not the day to attack the United States of America because of that Texas gun," Gramm, R-Texas, said.

Although the designation means a commitment to funding by the U.S. Army, the final spending decision is made by Congress, Pickle said.

The U.S. House Appropriations Committee tries to take the recommendation of the Army when making funding decisions, Pickle said. "Whether we can get that money is something else."

The center was originally funded in 1982 with $750,000. This year it had a $7.5 million budget and next year expects to receive $16 million, Gramm said.

The UT center joins a list of 24 similar centers selected by the Army including ones affiliated with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cornell University and the University of Illinois, said Jay R. Sculley, a U.S. Army research official.

Funding of the research means more jobs and a more modern industry several years from now, said William Weldon, director of the center.

"Unlike other programs in the military which are improvements of existing things, our task here is to develop not only an entirely new technology but a new industry to support that technology," Weldon said.

"We've already spawned one new technology here in Austin, and I think you'll see other companies spring up in the area because of our technology developed here," he said.

Jury sentences man to five years in prison for 1964 murder of wife

PAMPA (AP) — Jurors sentenced an Oklahoma man Friday to five years in prison for the 1964 shooting death of his wife in a murder case that took 22 years to come to trial.

Albert Eugene Branscum, 56, had faced up to life in prison for the conviction on a charge of murder with malice aforethought in the October 1964 shooting death of 29-year-old Glenna Branscum.

Branscum, who testified that his wife had just left him and was about to file for divorce before the shooting in their Pampa home, showed no emotion as the sentence was handed down, but his children wept openly.

Defense attorney John Mann of Amarillo called 11 witnesses to the stand in the punishment phase, most residents of Konawa, Okla., where Branscum lives. All testified that Branscum had been a law-abiding citizen of the community for 20 years.

Jerry Hollon of Amarillo, Mrs. Branscum's brother, said he was not happy with the short prison term.

But Gray County Assistant District Attorney Harold Comer said he was "not dissatisfied" with the jury's verdict, adding that it was gratifying to see the case resolved after the long delay.

Randy Branscum, 33, of Holdenville, Okla., testified in the punishment phase that his father has been a "good daddy" and he is proud to be his son.

"Dad and I have always been real close," he said. "He has never given up. He's pursued his own life. It's really been tough being disabled..."

Branscum, who shot himself twice in the head minutes after shooting his wife to death, was never prosecuted on the original murder charge because Gray County law officials believed he was mentally unfit for trial.

The case was reopened last year after a relative of Mrs. Branscum's questioned its status and authorities discovered Branscum had left the hospital 20 years ago and had been quietly operating a salvage yard in Konawa, Okla.

In closing arguments Thursday, Branscum's attorney, John Mann of Amarillo, said Branscum had acted "under the immediate influence of passion" because he had just learned his wife was leaving him.

"He sentenced himself to the one thing he didn't want — a life without her," Mann said. "This happened as the devil of torment of his soul built and built."

Earlier, Branscum wept while on the witness stand when Mann showed him a photo of his wife and said their marriage was "like heaven."

"I loved her so much, I worshiped the ground she walked on," he said. "It just came to a point where there was no way to go, no where to turn. I just couldn't accept it (Glenna leaving)."

He said he doesn't remember the shooting or his attempt on his own life.

Gib Lewis files higher education package

By JIM WARREN

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — House Speaker Gib Lewis, who has sponsored only "two or three" bills since becoming leader of the House five years ago, Friday said he will carry the centerpiece of the higher education reform package.

Lewis, a Fort Worth Democrat, filed the so-called Charter for Higher Education, a package that defines the roles and scopes of all the state's public colleges and universities. The select committee on Higher Education developed the charter to better define each school's mission and partly to avoid duplication among universities.

"I made the commitment to them (the select committee) when they started, and I thought it proper to carry through with it," Lewis said from his office in Fort Worth. "I think when people go through that much time and trouble, I should do my part too."

Although he hasn't polled members yet, Lewis said the package seems to have support and he offered to testify — something speakers rarely do — before the House Higher Education Committee if necessary.

Besides giving universities a clearer role in the overall system, he said the select committee's charter recommendation could save the state money.

Generally the speaker does not sponsor bills, although Lewis' predecessor, Billy Clayton, carried a statewide water plan that voters later rejected. Larry Temple, chairman of the select committee, said he personally asked Lewis to carry the package.

"It's a tremendous plus to have the speaker sponsoring the charter," Temple said. "The speaker was impressed with our work and agreed to be the sponsor, and this really emphasizes his commitment to higher education."

Universities have responded "fairly well" to the committee's recommendations, Temple said, although several schools want to play a broader role and others want slight changes. "But generally I haven't heard much protest."

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, chairwoman of the House Higher Education Committee, is expected to work with the speaker in carrying the bill through the House. Delco, a member of the select committee, was out of town Friday and could not be reached for comment.

Rep. Charlie Evans, the speaker's best friend in the House, said Lewis' name on the bill "definitely won't hurt."

Wayne Peveto, legislative liaison for Lamar University, said the bill will gain some support because Lewis is sponsoring it but doubted the speaker would try to "strong-arm" members. "But I don't think anybody's going to be intimidated by him because this is a very important issue of statewide importance," said Peveto, a former House member.

Pair's adventures 'brought home' to West Texas museum

By LARRY ZELISKO

RULE (AP) — Their experiences as teachers, hunters and gold miners have given Leon and June Biffle a wealth of materials for a museum. And, their museum, the L&J Rule Memorial Library, is as unique as the retired Rule couple.

"Going back and forth to Alaska each year, we saw that every small town had a museum," Biffle says. "We had this large collection so we got the idea Rule should have a museum too."

The Biffles have been working on their museum since September. When it is finished, the Biffles plan to keep it open one or two days a week and by appointment.

The museum features a number of antiques, some of which were donated by local residents. In addition, the museum features artifacts and mounted animals from Alaska.

Animals shot by the Biffles on African safaris are displayed, as are some local wildlife.

Since both were teachers, the Biffles are ready to lecture to visiting school classes, scout troops and other groups.

Biffle has compiled 25 years of films he made into a program featuring all the animals of Alaska. Another film shows the animals of Africa in their native habitats. And, he has shot films of most longtime Rule residents.

Exhibits range from a cape buffalo from Africa to a barber's chair from Rule, and from Walrus ivory to a wildebeest.

Biffle shows visiting groups gold that he mined in Alaska.

He has mined for gold the last three years in Resurrection and Bear creeks near Hope, Alaska, between guiding trips.

He finds quite a bit of gold, he says, although there is very little chance of striking it rich.

In Alaska, Biffle is a guide for fishing and hunting trips. He once guided a floating trip down the Kariuk River for Sears Roebuck officials to test their products. Among the group was famous explorer Sir Edmund Hillary.

The Biffles first went to Alaska in 1954. Biffle says he didn't know a person there. However, the territory's executive secretary for education happened to be staying in the next hotel room, and a day after going to Alaska, Biffle had a teaching job.

The Biffles homesteaded 40 acres by an Alaskan lake, building a cabin there and clearing the land. They sold the property three years ago.

Biffle retired in 1974, and Mrs. Biffle retired in 1979.

Since returning to their hometown of Rule in 1974, the Biffles have traveled back to Alaska for several months each year.

Miners dig out of homecourt hole in overtime

Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz. — Senior guard Harnell Jackson, who scored nine of his 23 points in overtime to help Texas-El Paso beat Arizona 90-91 in the Wildcat's home court in a West Regional game Friday, said some negative publicity helped motivate the Miners.

"They had a couple of comments in the paper the other day that we were just an ordinary team and didn't deserve to be here," Jackson said. "That in itself was a motivator for us. We played like we belong and we're moving on now."

The Miners, 25-6, now advance to Sunday's second round to face sixth-ranked Iowa, 28-4, which beat Santa Clara 99-76 in another first-round game earlier Friday at McKale Center.

UTEP, the Western Athletic Conference regular-season champion, trailed 78-73 with 50 seconds left in regulation but forced the overtime at 79-79 on Jackson's 3-point goal with 28 seconds left and junior guard Chris Blocker's jumper with one second remaining.

Arizona led 85-83 with 3:05 remaining in overtime on a jumper by sophomore forward Sean Elliott.

The Miners, with three starters having fouled out in regulation, used a 9-2 run for a 92-87 lead.

Jackson accounted for seven of the points on a 3-point goal with 2:15 left, a midcourt steal and stuff with 2:05 to go and two free throws with 45 seconds showing.

A layin by sophomore forward Anthony Cook brought the Wildcats to within 92-89 with 40 seconds left, but UTEP made six foul shots down the stretch to eliminate their former WAC rivals from the tournament.

"It was a really courageous performance by UTEP," Wildcats Coach Lute Olson said. "In the overtime, with some key players fouled out, I think it's all that more credit to the guys that were left that they could do the job that they did."

Senior forward Quintan Gates led the Miners with 26 points — 20 coming in the first half to give them a 41-39 lead. Senior center Mike Richmond added 18 points for UTEP with Blocker scoring 12.

Iowa 99, Santa Clara 76
TUCSON, Ariz. — Kevin Gamble and Roy Marble keyed a 38-4 first-half run to lead No. 6 Iowa to a rout of Santa Clara in a first-round West Regional game.

Iowa, trailing 4-0 early, scored the next 22 points and followed that with another 16-4 run. The Hawkeyes led by as many as 31 points in the first half, dominating the game with full-court pressure that held Santa Clara to only two field goals in the first 14 minutes.

Marble, a sophomore forward, scored 14 of his 18 points in the first half and Gamble added 12 first-half points in a game Iowa controlled almost from the opening tip at the University of Arizona campus arena. Gamble finished with 16 points.

Quality track field set for West Texas finals

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

ODESSA — The necessary madness of sifting through 4,700 athletes to find the very best ended at Ratliff Stadium Friday and now the 43rd edition of the West Texas Relays can begin in earnest with today's finals.

The mass of entrants, the largest ever assembled for the West Texas event, insures a quality field for today, beginning at 12:30 p.m. with the 3200. Just getting to the finals is an accomplishment in itself and to win points will be even tougher.

Midland Lee's Roz Eaden brought home the only Tall City victory, winning the long jump with a 17-10 1/4. "Roz was well over 18 feet, but she fell back on her seat and still had the winning jump. She was really out there," said Lee coach Janice Bauich.

Lee also got a third place from Susie Dunn with a 16-9 1/4, giving Lee the first day lead with 16 1/4 points while Midland High had 16 for second place.

Midland High's Amy Cummings had a 5-1 to finish second in the high jump. That was the same height at Abilene High's Sherron Webster, but Webster had fewer misses. Cummings was also second behind Eaden in the long jump with a 16-10 1/4, scoring all of the MHS points.

Lee's Susie Dunn was in a four-way tie for sixth, scoring a quarter point.

In boys finals, Lee's Derrick Roberts surprised in the long jump with a second place 22-0 1/4, losing to Roger Giles of El Paso Parkland, who had an outstanding 24-4.

Lee's John Bradley produced a season best 51-1 in the shot put for fourth, but San Angelo's Anthony Pape controlled the event with a 54-6.

Midland High's David Lujan had a season best 6-3 in the high jump for fourth and Billy Richardson was sixth with a 6-0.

Both Midland schools fared rather well in the running qualifying, but one major disaster did hit Midland High early in the day when its boys sprint relay dropped the baton on the last leg.

"I just didn't get the baton," said MHS anchor Tyrone Oliver. "I hate to see Coach (Johnny) Williams. He isn't going to like this, but he's going to find out."

Coach Williams didn't see the race since he was taking athletes to Odessa High for the distance qualifying.

But Odessa Permian and Lee put on a real show with Permian's Patrick Wilson running down Lee junior Joe Woodard at the tape.

"That's the best we've run this year (42:21) and that should be a great race today," said Lee coach Eddie Woiski. "These kids came to compete and that's got me real excited."

Please see WT RELAYS, Page 8B

Midland High's David Lujan flaps over the high jump bar for a 6-3 mark Friday in the first day of competition at the West Texas Relay at Odessa's Ratliff Stadium.

Manning manhandled, but frosh eliminates Cougs

Associated Press

ATLANTA — Freshman Kevin Pritchard nullified Houston's excellent first-half defense on All-American Danny Manning and sparked No. 20 Kansas to a 66-55 triumph over the Cougars in the first round of the NCAA Southeast Regional tournament.

"Pritchard was the story," Houston Coach Pat Foster said. "We did not do a good job of matching up with him."

With Houston's huge front line holding Manning to only four points in the first 20 minutes, Pritchard took control, scoring 15 points in a 26-9 burst over the final 11 minutes that gave the Jayhawks a 34-21 half-time lead.

Pritchard didn't begin his deadly shooting until the 10:37 mark after Coach Larry Brown had pulled him from the game briefly with instructions to "calm down and keep taking your shot."

"Today was the best I've shot," Pritchard said. "They were denying Danny the ball, so I had a lot to do with it in the first half."

The victory sends the Jayhawks into Sunday's second-round action against Southwest Missouri State, a 65-60 winner over No. 13 Clemson. Foster said his Cougars "got rattled. We came apart at the seams in two stretches. Going in, we felt we would have to play zone and slow the game down."

Pritchard, averaging only 9.7 points per game, scored straight 11 points over the final five minutes of the half and finished the game with 17 points.

Kansas, 24-10, led 34-21 at halftime and Houston, 18-12, was never able to get closer than seven in the second half, the last time with 13:05 left at 42-35 on a basket by Greg Anderson.

Georgetown 75, Bucknell 53
ATLANTA — Senior Reggie Williams scored 21 points and ignited Georgetown with a pair of three-point baskets during a 13-0 run late in the first half to power the fourth-ranked Hoyas over Bucknell in the first round of the Southeast Regional.

Georgetown, 27-4, seeded first among the 16 schools in the region won for the 12th straight time. Georgetown, the Big East champions who have made it to the NCAA title game in three of the last five seasons, including a national title in 1984, led 37-29 at halftime and was never in trouble in the second half. But the Hoyas trailed the No. 16 seed 23-19 when they made their move with 4:37 left before the half, running off 13 consecutive points within a 2:27 span.

SW Missouri 65, Clemson 60
ATLANTA — Winston Garland scored 24 points and Basil Robinson added 13 points — including some key baskets down the stretch — as Southwest Missouri State stunned

No. 13 Clemson in the first round of the NCAA Southeast Regional tournament.

Southwest Missouri, 28-5, was seeded 13th in the 16-team region, and appearing in its first NCAA Tournament.

Clemson, 25-4, lost its third straight and fourth in five games. The Tigers were seeded fourth in the Southeast. The Tigers led 46-45 on two free throws by Larry Middleton with 7:50 remaining before the Bears made their decisive run.

Horned Frogs stand in Rivers' course

By DAVID GINSBURG

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Having exorcised themselves of the ghost of upsets past, Notre Dame and guard David Rivers have only one obstacle standing between them and a trip to the coveted Final 16.

The No. 18 Irish will take a 10-game winning streak into Saturday's 12:30 p.m. contest against No. 19 Texas Christian in the second round of the NCAA East Regional. The winner will advance to the Regional semifinals next weekend.

Notre Dame, 23-7, moved into the next round of the tournament by virtue of an 84-71 victory over Middle Tennessee State Thursday. The triumph helped the Irish — and their fans — erase memories of Arkansas-Little Rock.

That's the team that eliminated Notre Dame from last year's NCAA tournament with a 90-63 first-round triumph. Wednesday, to make sure his current squad wouldn't be overconfident against little-known Middle Tennessee St., Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps showed the team films of the final seven minutes of the Arkansas-Little Rock game.

Phelps promised Notre Dame wouldn't be overconfident against TCU, which advanced to the second round with a 76-60 rout of Marshall.

"They're seeded ahead of us and have been ranked over the last half of the year," Phelps said Friday. "If we're not ready to play this game, we can get ready to go home."

As usual, the Irish will depend on Rivers to help them get past the 24-6 Horned Frogs. The 6-foot junior scored a career-high 27 points, grabbed 7 rebounds and dealt out 6 assists against Middle Tennessee St.

"David makes the rest of us better," claimed forward Donald Royal, who scored 24 Thursday. "He consistently gets us the ball in scoring position."

Rivers has made an amazing recovery from a severe abdominal injury he suffered in an auto accident last August. Friday, he said he was "feeling 100 percent" and is ready to forget about his brush with death.

"It's time to move on now," he said. "I don't look at it as something negative. When I think about how close I was to dying and what I'm doing now, it's something positive."

He said he is lacking only in strength because, due to his basketball obligations, he has not been following the weight-lifting program his doctors prescribed.

"The strength isn't there, but I still have a lot to be thankful for," he said. "I'll hit the weights later."

TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth said his team will be hard-pressed to contain Rivers, who leads the Irish in minutes played.

He's their quarterback. He handles everything and makes everything go for them. Killingsworth said. "He can hit the three-point shot consistently and can also drive down the lane on you."

Pretty amazing stuff for a guy who on Aug. 24 underwent extensive surgery to repair a 15-inch hip-to-hip gash.

He was practicing at full speed just 10 weeks later.

Purdue's Melvin McCants snags a rebound in the Boilermaker's 104-93 first round victory Friday morning.

Andrews rules girls golf

From Staff Reports

The defending girls 4A golf champion Andrews Lady Mustangs showed a glimmer of their 1987 potential Friday by running away with the Midland Invitational golf tournament at Hogan Park.

Genny Kovacs, with an 85, and Melissa Northcutt, 88, led the Mustangs to a team total 305, 41 strokes better than second place Midland Lee with a 406. Midland High finished third at 428.

"We finished behind a real good golf team and they were just out of our league right now," said Midland Lee head coach Shirley Stephenson. Kovacs and Northcutt took the top two medalist honors while Lee's Jane Pepperson was third at 89.

"I think she's pleased (with her score)," said Stephenson. "She's working at it and is getting her game back. And, Carrie Sutton is improving, getting her score down. She was our No. 5 golfer today and shot a 104. But, with the weather the way it was, that's not a bad score." Donna Giffin, with 100, fired the low round of the day for Midland High.

"Our weather really had a lot to do with the way play went today," said MHS coach Greg Manship. "It was cold, windy, damp. It was affecting everybody. We're capable of playing better and I think once we start district it will show. I've been pleased with the way they've improved over last year."

Next up for Midland High and Midland Lee is the Odessa stop of the District 45A four-round season. The tournament will be held March 26 at Mission Country Club.

Depth carries Lee to golf title

From Staff Reports

SAN ANGELO — Midland Lee used a lot of depth Friday to clinch the two-day San Angelo Classic boys golf tournament title here at San Angelo Country Club and Bentwood Country Club.

Three Rebels broke into the Top 8 in the 36-hole tournament led by seniors Bobby Gee and Larry Bryan. Gee, with a little help from Bryan and Andrew's Mark Burgen, claimed top honors with a score of 76-74-150.

"Larry bogied the last two holes or he wins medalist outright," said Lee head coach Ronnie Stephens. "The Burgen kid doubles the last hole or he ties Larry. That's how close the tournament was."

Instead, San Angelo Central's Memo Valdez tied Bryan for second at 151 and won the sudden death tie-breaker on the first hole. Burgen finished in fourth at 152 followed by teammate Gym Bice in fifth at 155. Midland Lee's Mike Abbott also had a strong showing, claiming a tie for eighth place at 161.

As a result, Lee fired rounds of 313 and 314 for a 627 to beat Andrews out of the team total by eight strokes. Host San Angelo Central finished in third at 344.

For Midland High, things didn't go nearly as smooth. The Bulldogs finished in a tie for 11th place with San Angelo Central II at 681.

Individually, Bulldog Mike Johnson led the way with an 82-85-187 followed by Ted Newman, 86-84-170, David Wilson, 84-87-171, Donny Doan, 87-86-173 and Charlie Boyd, 93-86-191.

The Rebels and Bulldogs will co-host a big two-division tournament Thursday and Friday at three Midland courses.

Florida's Dwayne Schintzius rises above the pack for an easy two against N.C. State in Friday's opening round NCAA play.

Monroe's bombs save Orangemen

Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Senior Greg Monroe scored 14 of his 16 points in the second half — 12 coming on 3-pointers — as No. 10 Syracuse fought off an upstart Georgia Southern to take a 79-73 triumph in an opening-round East Regional game.

Center Rony Seikaly had 22 points to lead the Orangemen, who moved into Sunday's second round against Western Kentucky. The Hilltoppers claimed a last-second 64-62 victory over West Virginia. Syracuse, 27-6, also got 17 points from Sherman Douglas and 16 from Derrick Coleman.

The Eagles, who held a surprising 40-39 lead at the half, ended their season 20-11.

Anthony Forrest scored the opening basket of the second half to put the Eagles ahead 42-39. But Seikaly scored from in close and Monroe hit the first of his 3-pointers at the 18:53 to give the Orangemen a lead they never relinquished.

East Region

However, Georgia Southern continued to battle and a jumper by center Jeff Sanders cut host Syracuse's lead to 52-51 with 13:21 to play.

Seikaly stretched the lead to three points with a pair of foul shots and Monroe, a guard, buried a pair of 3-point baskets to give Syracuse a 60-51 advantage with 10:19 remaining.

Florida 82, N. C. St. 70

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Vernon Maxwell's 3-point basket ignited a 17-0 streak midway through the second half that helped Florida erase a nine-point deficit and lift the Gators to a victory over North Carolina State.

Maxwell finished with 28 points, including 15 free throws, and backcourt partner Andrew Moten added 19 for Florida, which will meet No. 7 Purdue Sunday in a second-round game. The Boilermakers were 104-95 winners over Northeastern in an earlier game.

The game marked Florida's inaugural appearance in the tournament and gave Gator Coach Norm Sloan a triumph against his former team.

The Gators reeled off 11 points in a 67-second span then continued their run until the Wolfpack's Quentin Jackson hit two free throws with 7:07 to play and Florida leading 57-51.

W. Kentucky 64, W. Virginia 62

With three seconds left, Johnson, a 6-foot-9 junior, had his shot blocked by forward Darryl Prue. On the next play, Johnson took the pass from Telis Frank and made a quick baseline move for the basket.

Purdue 104, Northeastern 95

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — After being bounced out of the NCAA tournament in the first round the past three years, the Purdue Boilermakers finally can look forward to a second-round game.

Friday, the Big Ten co-champions, ran their record to 25-4 in recovering from a 104-86 loss to Michigan in their conference finale.

Purdue got a career-high 29 points, 17 in the second half, and 13 rebounds from 6-foot-5 senior forward Doug Lee, who had been averaging 10 points. He made 10 of 14 shots from the field, including six of eight 3-point goal attempts.

"I don't want to stop playing basketball for Purdue," said Lee, whose previous best was 23 points.

Blue Demons shake flu, Louisiana Tech

Associated Press

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Dallas Comegys scored 29 points and Rod Strickland, shaking off flu symptoms, added 25 as fifth-ranked DePaul rolled over Louisiana Tech 76-62 Friday in the NCAA Midwest Regional.

The Blue Demons, seeded No. 3, advanced to Sunday's game against St. John's on their home court here at the Rosemont Horizon.

DePaul, 27-2, opened the second half with a nine-point lead and increased it to 13 after Strickland was fouled while hitting a twisting layup. He completed the three-point play and the Bulldogs trailed 50-37.

LSU 85, Ga. Tech 79

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Darryl Joe scored 28 points, including seven 3-point baskets, and Anthony Wilson added 20 as 10th-seeded Louisiana State defeated seventh-seeded Georgia Tech.

Midwest Region

The Tigers, making their fourth consecutive NCAA appearance, led 61-52 with 14:05 left. But Georgia Tech rallied within 81-76 on Brian Oliver's 3-pointer with 56 seconds left.

Temple 75, Southern U. 56

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Senior guard Nate Blackwell, recovering from the flu, scored 24 points and center Tim Perry added 21 to pace eighth-ranked Temple to a victory over Southern University.

Temple, 32-3 and the No. 2 seed in the Midwest, led most of the first half. Perry's follow-in dunk gave the Owls a 22-20 advantage, which they stretched to 35-29 at halftime.

15-foot jumper to give Southwest Missouri the lead for good at 47-46 and key a 6-0 run by the smaller Bears for a 51-46 lead with 0:27 left.

Clemson could never get closer than two points after that when Grant scored his only points of the half — two free throws — with 4:19 left to get within 54-52.

Ohio St. 91, Kentucky 77

ATLANTA — Dennis Hopson took charge of the game late in the first half, scoring 36 of his 32 points in the final 25 minutes as Ohio State beat Kentucky in the opening round of the NCAA Southeast Regional.

The Buckeyes, who trailed 33-28 when Hopson went on his tear, advanced to Sunday's second round action against fourth-ranked Georgetown, which crushed Bucknell 75-53 earlier in the evening.

Ohio State, which finished sixth in the Big Ten Conference this season, never trailed after Hopson converted a three-point play to break a 42-42 deadlock 25 seconds into the second half.

The Buckeyes took a 53-44 lead after four minutes had elapsed and held a 67-55 advantage midway through the second half before Kentucky staged a brief rally.

Derrick Miller drilled two 3-point baskets and Ed Davender added two free throws as the Wildcats got within 67-63 with 7:44 to play.

Beavers take NIT win from Lobos

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Sophomore guard Eric Knox hit a 3-point prayer with one second left Friday to give Oregon State an 85-82 victory over New Mexico in an opening round game of the National Invitation Tournament.

The victory snapped a six-game losing streak by the PAC 10 member beavers and improves OSU's record to 19-10.

New Mexico, losing in the first round of the NIT for the third time in the last four years, finished the season at 25-10.

Knox's game-winning basket came after New Mexico senior guard Kevin Scarborough hit a driving layup with 12 seconds left.

Frost heats up chilly Bayhill with 68

Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — South African David Frost, heavily bundled against the morning chill, compiled an early 68 and established the second-round lead Friday in the $600,000 Bay Hill Classic.

Frost, 27, a frequent contender but not yet a winner on the American tour, reached the tournament half-way point in 135, seven under par.

Kiwi newcomer fires 64 to lead

SUN CITY WEST, Ariz. (AP) — New Zealander Bob Charles, who had to skip the Del E. Webb Arizona Classic last year because he didn't reach age 50 until March 14, shot an 8-under-par 64 Friday to take the first-round lead in the 1987 PGA Senior Tour event.

His eight-birdie, 10-par round over the 6,872-yard, par-72 Hillcrest Golf Course tied a record set in 1965 by Don January and matched last year by Charlie Owens.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, Miller Barber and John Brue all shot 65 in the opening round of the 54-hole event to share second place.

Gay Brewer, Paul Harney and George Lanning were three shots back after 5-under-par rounds of 67 while Billy Casper, Bobby Nichols and Ben Smith all had 68s.

Unlike the rain and cold of opening day last March, the 72-player field began play under sunny skies with temperatures near 80.

Charles said he felt strong and confident throughout the round. "Golf is a psychological, mental exercise more than anything. You've got to have the right attitude," he said.

Charles, who started on the back nine, birdied the 10th, 12th, 13th and 14th holes, then made the turn and birdied the Nos. 1, 3, 4 and 7 coming in.

Barber also began play on the back nine and eagled the par-5 first hole to take early command of the tournament. However, he dropped a shot to Charles with a bogey-5 on the 428-yard 18th hole.

Barber drove into the rough on the hole, reached the green in three strokes and missed an 8-foot putt for par.

The 1986 South African Open champion saved sole control of the top spot in this event with 10-foot putt for par after missing the green on the 18th hole.

That left him one in front of Tim Simpson and Payne Stewart, who has had nine second-place finishes since recording his last victory in the 1963 Walt Disney World Classic.

"I go into every tournament thinking I can win, and I keep getting myself in position. And it looks like I've given myself another chance to win," said Stewart, who had a bogey-free round of 67. Simpson shot 68.

U.S. Open champion Ray Floyd pitched in for an eagle-3 in a round of 68 that put him two off the pace at 137. He was tied with Curtis Strange, who birdied two of the last three holes for a 66.

Chip Beck, with a 66, and Larry Mize, with a 68, were another shot back at 138.

Bernhard Langer of West Germany led an international group at 139. Also at that figure were Japanese veteran Isao Aoki, former Bay Hill winner Andy Bean and Dave Rummells. Rummells closed up with a 69, Bean and Langer had 70s and Aoki matched par 71.

Palmer, the 57-year-old tournament host, struggled to a 79

Pittsburgh 93, Marist 66
TUCSON, Ariz. — Charles Smith and Demetreus Gore scored 22 points each as No. 12 Pittsburgh romped to a 93-66 victory over Marist in the first round of the NCAA West Regional.

Pitt, the region's No. 3 seed, opened up leads of as much as 21 points in the first half, then survived a mild Marist rally midway through the second half before pulling away for the final margin.

Pitt, 25-7, led 17-12 in a slowly-paced first half before 7-foot-3 Marist center Rik Smits picked up his third foul with 8:22 left in the half. With Smits on the bench, Pitt ran off a 22-6 spurt.

WT RELAYS

We qualified most everyone we thought we would."

Lee sophomore Anthony Keys won his heat in the 400 to gain a finals berth and Jimmy Pennell recorded a 14.25, the best of the day in the 110 high hurdles. Senior Mike Garza qualified in the 3200 run, but had only the seventh best time, despite winning his heat. Rodney Clark also qualified in the 3200. The results in the 1600 qualifying was not known.

Troy Oliver qualified in the 300 hurdles in a surprise as Midland High's John St. Germain and Lee's Marcus Strambler, a winner last week, failed to qualify as did San Angelo hurdle ace Doug Bonds. Lee's Joe Woodard was the last qualifier in the 200. Lee also qualified its 1600 relay, but finished second to Permian in its qualifying heat. Lee's David Parkerson also won an 800 finals berth.

MHS' Anthony Adkison recorded a 10.56 behind Wilson's 10.41 in the 100. St. Germain's 14.45 in the high's gave MHS another finals berth. The Bulldogs did qualify its 1600 relay, but finished third in its heat.

The Lee girls qualified three relays and a lot of individuals to give the Rebelettes an excellent title chance today.

Pietie Mayfield and Tami Woodberry both qualified in the hurdles as Woodberry's 15.22 was the best of the day. Carrie Roach and Melody Miller qualified for the 100 semifinals while Jennifer Lynch qualified for the 400 semifinals, which will be run this morning. Lee's 1600 relay also won its heat.

San Angelo scored 25 points in the field events Friday to take a shaky first day lead. Parkland scored 20 points and Lee is third with 12.

Midland High's girls also fared well after being led by Ethel Edwards' 12.1 in the 100 to make the semis. Edwards broke the 400 record last year, but switched to the 100 this year since she is running on the 800 relay. Edwards held off Lee's Carrie Roach to the wire during the 800 relay heat as both teams qualified. MHS also won its 1600 relay heat by the length of a curve, also giving the Lady Bulldogs a title shot today.

Andrews' Joe Don Finley won the 4A discus with a fine 163-10 and Big Spring's Brian Mayfield won the long jump as expected with a 22-4, but Lubbock Estacado and Monahans are expected to make a strong run at the title. Monahans scored 32 points to take the first day lead in the 4A division while Big Spring had 29 and Andrews 27.

It could be anyone's guess in the 3A division as several teams show point potential. Sanderson scored 27 points Friday while Kermit has 21.

LIFESCOPE

What's All This Talk About Being Saved?
Your Lifescope Says, "Better Act Now!"

If we claim we have not sinned, we are lying and calling God a liar, for He says we have sinned!

For God loved the world so much that He gave His only Son so that anyone who believes in Him shall not perish but have eternal life.

God has shown us a different way to heaven - not by "being good enough" and trying to keep His laws, but by a new way (though not new, really, for the Scriptures told about it long ago). Now God says He will accept and acquit us, declare us "not guilty" - if we trust Jesus Christ to take away our sins.

And Peter replied, "Each one of you must turn from sin, return to God, and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins; then you also shall receive this gift, the Holy Spirit. For Christ promised Him to each one of you who has been called by the Lord our God, and to your children and even to those who are afar off."

Then Jesus said to the disciples, "If anyone wants to be a follower of Mine, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me; for anyone who keeps his life for himself shall lose it, and anyone who loses his life for Me shall find it again."

Jesus said, "I am the one who raises the dead and gives them life again. Anyone who believes in Me, even though he dies like anyone else, shall live again. He is given eternal life for believing in Me and he shall never perish."

For God says, "Your cry comes to Me at a favorable time, when the doors of welcome are wide open." Right now God is ready to welcome you. Today He is ready to save you!

'Feminine' imagery sought for hymn

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Songs making references to God's "womanly qualities" are being sought for a revised United Methodist hymnal, officials said.

Carlton R. Young, hymnal editor for the denomination, said that until recently church poets and scholars ignored feminine-based images for God.

"God is not addressed as 'mother' in biblical tradition, but descriptions of God as 'mother-like' can be found," Young said in a recent statement. "Those are what we lack in our hymnic tradition."

Young's office has commissioned 13 hymn writers, including four United Methodists, to write new songs for the revised hymnal that include feminine imagery.

United Methodist Publishing House is in Nashville.

Roberts' plea hurting other fund-raisers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Christian fund-raisers say the widely publicized plea of Oral Roberts has hurt efforts to raise money for their own causes, perhaps setting them back as much as 20 years.

Roberts, the television evangelist from Oklahoma, has drawn heavy criticism after saying God would take him unless his followers came up with $4.5 million in contributions by the end of this month.

The matter was much discussed this week at a conference of more than 600 evangelical pastors, ministry executives and fund-raisers from 40 states. The session on "Funding the Christian Challenge," which wound up Wednesday, was sponsored by the Christian Stewardship Conference and the Billy Graham Center, both of Wheaton, Ill.

Wesley Willmer, conference chairman, said Roberts' statements were damaging.

"First, it gives people the impression that God is a strong-handed God who directs his people in a strong-handed way," he said. "This was evident from the cartoons and columns poking fun at Roberts. This kind of tactic also cast a shadow on the whole industry."

Polster George Gallup Jr., whose organization conducted a survey for the conference, said it showed 40 percent of Americans think Christian fund-raising approaches are unethical.

Nearly half of the respondents said they thought there had been too many fund-raising appeals in the past year, and those who felt the fund-raising was not ethical believed money was misused or that people running the organizations were dishonest.

Another conference speaker, David McKenna, president of Asbury Theological Seminary in Kentucky, said that when he recently approached a prospective donor, the response caught him off guard.

The man, McKenna said, chided him for an appeal that lacked "the life or death drama" of Oral Roberts.

Many conference participants criticized Roberts, while others said he needed prayer.

"When Oral Roberts shot himself in the foot, the bullet ricocheted around the world and hit us in the underside," said Gordon Moyes, superintendent of the Wesley Central Mission in Sydney, Australia. "He has set back fund-raising 20 years."

Others said they were saddened that difficulties in Roberts' ministry might have led to the appeal, noting that he has accomplished much over the years.

"His appeal discredits a ministry whose overall message has been that sufficient faith can work miracles," said Carl F.H. Henry, a theologian and lecturer. "It was hardly a gain for the evangelical Gospel, moreover, to put the prospect of going to heaven in the category of a calamity."

Henry, of World Vision International, cited fund-raising tactics which he considered questionable, including use of premiums in exchange for contributions, computer-generated correspondence designed to appear personal, and "bait and switch" techniques.

The latter, he said, involves an evangelist focusing attention on famine or other human misery, then shifting it to his own ministry for which contributions would really be used.

Pentecostal Church to spring from ruins

By JEANNE WILLIAMS

MILANO (AP) — A weathered two-story house in Milano, one of the few remaining relics of the town's prosperous era, slowly is being demolished.

The aged cedar boards, bonded with square nails, carefully are being dislodged, stacked and set aside for a special project — the building of a United Pentecostal Church in Rockdale, which has been conducting worship services in the back of a Rockdale store.

Property owner Charles "Chuck" Swindall, a former country and western musician who recently moved to Milano County from Houston, said the lot on which the old house now stands will be used by a new business, Chuck's Backyard Barbecue and Trade Center. The business will include a nursery.

Swindall said the house probably was one of the finest homes in Milano in its day, but some parts of it now are unsafe.

"I didn't want to tear it down, but I have to," Swindall said, surveying progress recently of members of a volunteer demolition team from the church.

"It's hazardous and that thing is full of spooks," he said.

The old house is haunted by nothing more than its stark, ghostly ap-

Workers dismantle an old house in Milano and will use the aged cedar boards to build a United Pentecostal Church that now conducts worship services in the back of a Rockdale store.

pearance, local superstitions and common creaks and groans that manifest themselves in abandoned buildings, he said.

"We haven't found anything living in it," he said. "It looks like an old spook house, but I kind of doubt that clean it up and he said, 'I wouldn't go in there, it has a curse on it.' Swindall said, 'A fellow wanted to restore it, but it cost too much.'

The age of the house has not been determined, although details of its architecture point to the late 19th century.

It was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stevenson and their three children, Leona, Ruby Mae and Robert Louis.

"I talked to an 86-year-old woman and she said it's been here as long as she can remember," he said. "It's built out of square nails. All the inside lumber is in good shape."

The house, vacant since the late 1930s when the Stevensons moved out, had no indoor plumbing and was never wired for electricity.

A tangled group of telephone wires in the front indicates it was used as a telephone switchboard.

A paneled door led into the entry hall, containing a solidly-built staircase that wound up to the second floor. Bias-laid boards covered the inside walls. Fireplaces on the west side provided heat for both stories.

The house was built on a modified folk-Victorian scheme. Its front was flanked by a two-tiered porch and a wing, believed to be the kitchen, extended north from the back of the house.

Blueprints to be unveiled

The Building Committee of Greenwood United Methodist Church will unveil plans for the congregation's first facility during services Sunday. The church currently meets at Greenwood Elementary School auditorium.

Worship services begin at 9 a.m., followed by Sunday school at 10:15 a.m. A covered dish dinner will be held in the school cafeteria at 11:30 a.m. The plans will be presented at noon during a church conference.

Pair to lead worship service

Evangelists John and Phyllis Mason will lead worship services at Bellview Baptist Church on Sunday. During the evening service, they will present a concert of sacred music.

The Masons are graduates of Midland High School. Mason has served on the staffs of Southern Baptist churches as minister of youth, interim minister of music and has led revivals in the Permian Basin area. They are currently members of First Baptist Church of Stanton.

According to the Rev. G.A. Magee, pastor, the public is invited to attend the 10:30 a.m. and 6:40 p.m. services. Bellview Baptist Church is located at 1710 N. Big Spring. A nursery is provided.

Parish celebrates founding

On March 21, Bishop Michael D. Pfeiffer, O.M.I., former pastor and associate of St. Ann's Catholic Church, and former teaching sisters and principals of St. Ann's School will join the parishioners of St. Ann's in the celebration of the 90th anniversary of the founding of their parish.

A sandstone building on East Texas Avenue was dedicated Nov. 5, 1896, in honor of St. Ann. This was the first Catholic church in Midland. Until that time, Catholic families met for liturgical celebrations in private homes and were served by priests from the nearby town of Maricopa (now known as Stanton). When the cornerstone was laid in 1896, Midland had only 1500 residents.

By July of 1933, St. Ann's had 55 parishioners and the Rev. Edward Harrison, O.M.I., was appointed as the church's first pastor. At that time the church name was changed to St. George's Church and it remained so until 1940.

A new church building was required because of the growth of the congregation. It was built in the 900 block of West Texas Avenue in 1940. The Rev. Thomas J. Kennedy became the church's pastor in 1951.

St. Ann's present church building was dedicated in 1958 under Kennedy's pastorate. The Oblates of Mary Immaculate served at St. Ann's until 1964. The Rev. Fred Nawarskas came to the church as pastor on Aug. 26, 1964. At present, according to a church spokesman, there are more than 1,600 active families in the church, and more than 30 spiritual and school organizations.

White Metal to be on stage

Quarles to be honored

Services honoring the 10th anniversary of the Rev. Harold Quarles as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene will be held Sunday at 10:45 a.m. District superintendent James Blankenship will deliver the morning message.

A potluck dinner will be held in the fellowship hall following the service. The church is located at 1230 W. Wall. The public is invited to attend the service, according to a spokesman of the church.

Traveling preacher in Hawaii keeps rural visits tradition

By CHRIS COOK

LIHUE, Hawaii (AP) — The Rev. Charles Yamamoto is continuing the centuries-old tradition of the traveling preacher in a way when the TV and radio preachers of the "electronic church" seem to have a monopoly on reaching people in rural areas.

Following in the footsteps of Congregational missionaries who toured Kauai in the whaling days of the 1800s, Yamamoto visits from Maui once a month to minister to older Japanese-speaking Issei and Nisei who are members of the United Church of Christ.

He began his ministry here about two years ago, replacing the Rev. Shige Matsui.

During the monthly morning service Yamamoto plays lively gospel tunes on the piano, enchants his elderly audience with a sermon in Japanese, recalls their Japanese cultural heritage and oversees a luncheon of fellowship and food that brings together old friends.

"It's hard for them to communicate without the monthly meeting," Yamamoto said. "Most come from east side churches, with some traveling from the west side."

Yamamoto's lively style drew laughs and rapt attention from about a dozen Issei recently, as he joked with the elderly men and women and a younger group of church-going speakers of Japanese. He drew in even English-speaking only listeners with his florid gestures and happy patter.

The theatrical style of the Maui preacher is no accident. He also does a weekly Japanese-language news-cast and religion broadcast on a Maui radio station.

Yamamoto also travels to United Church of Christ churches on Maui, ministering to aging Issei and Nisei at the Lahaina Methodist Church, the Haiku Congregational Church and at the Maui Issei Congregational Church.

He said the average age of his congregations was about 73, with some members in their 90s.

The Japan-born middle-aged minister may also bring to mind the Congregational and Methodist churches the Issei attended as children. Like Japanese-speaking ministers in the turn-of-the-century plantation camp churches, Yamamoto was trained in Japan.

Flores among bishops to meet with pope

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Archbishop Patrick Flores said Friday he will tell Pope John Paul II about Hispanics in the United States when he meets with the pontiff next week in Rome.

Flores and 17 other U.S. bishops will meet with the pope, who will tour 10 U.S. cities, including San Antonio, next September.

The bishops will leave for Vatican City on Sunday and will meet with the pope and his staff between Tuesday and Sunday, March 22, Flores said.

The bishops will give the staff written background on the different cities and talk about the people who will greet the pope.

Flores, the first Hispanic to be named a bishop in the United States, will talk about Hispanics, about the social work of the church and about the development of seminarians.

"I will give him a historical perspective of the first Hispanics in this area...and what has happened along the years," he said. "We're trying to bring out the fact that Hispanics no longer are limited to a geographical area."

"We are pointing to the problems of drug abuse, problems of alcohol, the problems of violence that are affecting the Hispanic community, as well as affecting members of other communities of the United States," he said.

The bishops also will have a dinner meeting with the pontiff and will celebrate three Masses with him.

Flores said meeting the pope before he tours the United States will be historic.

Bishops usually provide only written background on the areas the pope was scheduled to visit.

"This is the first time they have attempted to do it this way," Flores said.

"We don't know to what extent this would be better, but we thought we could do the two things: prepare the material and go there personally for this dialogue. I think it will be much better," Flores said.

The pope is scheduled to visit San Antonio on Sunday, Sept. 13.

DPS says deaths at 10-year low

By JIM WARREN

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Traffic deaths continued to decline last year, with the Department of Public Safety reporting that fatalities on Texas roads and highways in 1986 were the lowest in 10 years.

Last year the number of people killed on the road declined 3.1 percent — 3,568 deaths in 1986 compared to 3,682 in 1985. Motorcycle deaths, however, increased 11 percent, from 364 deaths in 1985 to 403 last year. The DPS said 77 percent of motorcycle deaths were not wearing helmets.

"We are very pleased with this decline, though the number of people who died in traffic accidents in Texas last year is certainly still of tragic proportions," said Col. Jim Adams, the DPS director. "The good news is that it is getting safer to drive in Texas."

Adams credited the mandatory seat belt law, speed limit and drunk driving enforcement for the decrease, although a DPS survey showed slightly fewer people are wearing their seatbelts.

Also, the death rate of Texas roads reached its lowest point ever — 2.4 deaths per million miles driven. More than a third — 1,304 — of the people killed were listed as alcohol-related fatalities, compared to 989 alcohol-related deaths in 1985.

But the sharp increase in drinking while intoxicated deaths, Adams said, probably stems from better reporting of alcohol involvement in accidents.

He faces a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison and a $750,000 fine. His company could be fined up to $500,000. Sentencing is set for May 1.

General Dynamics engineer Harry Brand, 55, was suspended after he was indicted in September, but plans to return to work soon.

Iran says U.S. warned of Soviet buildup

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran said Friday that U.S. envoys who visited Tehran last year claimed that 36 Soviet divisions were massed near the Caspian Sea, ready to sweep south across the border into Iran.

Parliament speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani declared in his weekly prayer sermon at Tehran University that the Americans' purpose was to get Iran into a war with the Soviet Union and divert its forces from the war with Iraq.

Reports of his speech were carried by the official Islamic Republic News Agency and Tehran radio and monitored in Nicosia. Iranian television showed him holding an automatic rifle, which has become his custom in Friday prayers.

Rafsanjani said the American officials, whom he did not name, showed the Iranians "a satellite photograph" marked with lines near the Caspian showing areas where the Americans said Soviet forces planned to enter Iran.

Former national security adviser Robert McFarlane and other U.S. officials made secret trips to Iran last year to arrange arms sales, negotiate for the release of Americans held hostage in Lebanon and explore the possibility of renewed relations.

According to Rafsanjani, the Americans "exactly meant to say that the Soviets intended to wage a war against us."

He said the warning was intended to undermine Soviet-Iranian relations, "involve us in a war with our northern neighbor" and divert Iranian troops from the war with Iraq.

He declared the satellite photograph will be shown "to the world."

Iran has promised in the past to help free American hostages held by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem groups in Lebanon if the United States released Iranian assets it froze in 1979. Eight of the 26 foreigners missing in Lebanon are Americans.

According to White House memos printed in the Tower Commission report on the Iran-Contra arms deal, one purpose of an American visit to the Iranian capital of Tehran last May was to deliver an intelligence briefing on Soviet military deployments near Iran.

According to one National Security Council memo printed in the Tower report, about a May 26 meeting at the Independence Hotel in Tehran, NSC staff member Howard Teicher summarized the Soviet military posture and threat around Iran.

It quoted him as saying: "There are 26 divisions. The military districts in the Trans Caucasus have been reorganized and improved. Exercise activity has intensified with respect to military action against Iran. The Soviets are increasing the frequency of their cross-border strikes into Pakistan and occasionally Iran, while initiating a terror campaign in Pakistan."

Rafsanjani spoke Friday of 36 Soviet divisions.

In memos about preparations for the meeting, the CIA noted that Robert Gates, deputy CIA director, "asked that briefing materials on the Soviet threat be prepared for McFarlane's use" and "Bob Gates has assembled a nice amount of intelligence on the Soviet threat."

In a later memo listing sources of material being taken to Tehran for the meetings, among the CIA responsibilities was "providing an intelligence briefing package, with photographs."

Rafsanjani did not mention the hostages in his address, but appeared to tone down recent Iranian anger at Syria, whose soldiers killed 23 gunmen of the extremist Shiite group Hezbollah (Party of God).

Iran supports Hezbollah, which is widely believed to hold some of the foreigners, including Americans.

your horoscope

SUNDAY, MARCH 15, 1987

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Give a relationship more time to become firmly established. A patient attitude and time will work in your favor. Do not try to rush things. You are easily influenced by others. Be especially careful during the next three months. Your social life accelerates. Others think you are the perfect host or hostess!

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: "Days of Our Lives" patriarch Macdonald Carey, actor Judd Hirsch, FDR cabinet member Harold Ickes, President Andrew Jackson, trumpeter Harry James, philanthropist Marjorie Merriweather Post, Broadway producer Lee Shubert, music's Sly Stone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Dismiss any thoughts about business or finance and concentrate on family and friends. Many hands make light work of household chores. Close emotional ties are in the spotlight tonight. Show affection.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Communication is at an all-time high. Do not hesitate to discuss even sensitive subjects with loved ones; they are receptive to your ideas and suggestions. A beautiful person makes today very special.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not be shy about using social occasions to further your career, especially if seeking a job change. Be conservative in your dress. Make moderation your watchword in all things.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Pay more attention to what other people are doing. They could play a major role in your emotional, financial and occupational well-being. Spend your time wisely and pace yourself. Dine out tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Influential person stands ready to help you achieve your personal goals. Show your appreciation in a tangible way. Trust those who mean the most to you. You do not have to go it alone!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Reading the Sunday papers gives you a terrific idea. Be willing to compromise on practical matters, but refuse to sell yourself short or lower your standards. Escapist unrealistic thinking accomplishes nothing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A great day to mix business with pleasure. Be more sensitive to others' needs. Be sure to look your best before leaving home. Appearances count big! Romance looks especially promising for singles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Recent work pressures have faded a bit. Get some rest today so you will be ready for the busy week ahead. Greater tact will help you salvage a personal relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Domestic issues receive new attention. Socializing and entertaining are on your agenda. Make the most of your day. Welcome a chance to mingle with people from different backgrounds. Your pose wins admiration.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You and that special someone enjoy good rapport now. Count your blessings! Share your ideas with someone who may feel pressured or uncertain. Romantic partner may need more encouragement and support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may want to join a group going on an outing today. Getting together with others will prove rewarding, in more ways than one. Be more spontaneous. Accept a last minute invitation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You will feel nostalgic today, especially if you see old school friends. Church or community affairs take up more of your time. New emphasis is placed on harmonious partnerships. Forget past grievances.

Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

Bonner says dissident priest freed

MOSCOW (AP)—Dissident Yelena Bonner said Friday a government decree freed Father Gleb Yakunin from Siberian exile, but that other prominent human rights activists the government said it pardoned are still in custody.

Bonner said she learned in a telephone call from Yakunin's family in Moscow that he was released under a decree issued Tuesday by the Supreme Soviet.

Yakunin, 53, is a dissident Russian Orthodox priest and founding member of the Christian Committee for the Defense of the Rights of Believers in the U.S.S.R. He was sentenced to five years in prison and five years in internal exile in 1980 on charges of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov announced in February that 150 prisoners were being pardoned. Bonner said other activists whose names were on the list remain in custody, including Nizamuddin Akhmetov and Rafael Papayan.

Bonner said she received a letter from Akhmetov that was smuggled from the psychiatric hospital in Chelyabinsk, where he was being held. He wrote in the March 1 letter that he was being given mind-altering drugs and had been forced to sign a document stating he did not want to emigrate to the West. "I'm given cruel treatment," Akhmetov wrote. "I am losing the ability to think."

Akhmetov has been imprisoned since 1969 on charges of anti-Soviet activity.

Bonner said she had learned that Papayan, an Armenian human rights activist arrested in 1982 on charges of anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda, was planning a hunger strike if he was not freed soon.

She also said she had no word about Sergei Khodorovich, whose family was told in late January that he would be released if they applied to emigrate.

U.S. trainer, Mexican pilot killed when drug-spraying plane crashes

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The American trainer and Mexican pilot aboard a Turbo-Thrush plane spraying marijuana fields were killed when it crashed in the Pacific coast state of Nayarit, U.S. and Mexican officials said Friday.

The Federal Attorney General's Office identified the victims as Lee Walker, 48, of Texarkana, Texas, who was affiliated with the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City, and Abel Salcedo Villaseñor, 30.

U.S. Embassy spokesman, Bill Graves, said the plane was "involved in spraying, while on a test flight" when it crashed Wednesday. He said the U.S.-Mexican pilot team was one of four participating in the joint campaign against illegal drugs.

The plane was being tested by the Federal Attorney General's Office for its possible incorporation to the work of the permanent campaign against narcotics trafficking," the Mexican government statement said. Graves and the Mexican office denied a report carried by the newspaper El Universal, citing unidentified sources in Nayarit, that drug traffickers had shot down the plane as it sprayed their crops.

Last December, The Associated Press interviewed a top official in the Federal Attorney General's Office who said the Mexican government planned to return the three Turbo-Thrushes provided by the United States because they do more damage than good.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the short takeoff and landing model is too fast to be used effectively in the mountainous terrain where most fields of marijuana and opium poppies that are the base for heroin are located.
