Cold Readings Are Reported Early Today

Thermometer Skids To 10 Here But Rises; Icy Wave Heads For Coast; Storm Brewing

(By The Associated Press)

Wintry weather marched through Texas to the sea today, kicking up a storm in the Gulf of Mexico and leaving behind the year's severest temperatures.

Freezing weather extended deep into South Texas, touching Houston with 28 degrees but missing the Rio Grande valley, as usual, by several degrees.

Readings Low In Area

In the Panhandle temperatures dropped as low as 10 degrees. Some North Texas readings were: Wichita Falls 14, lowest since Jan. 23, 1937; Borger 12; Amarillo 11, three points above yesterday's record season low of 8 degrees; Lubbock 10 degrees and rising; San Angelo 19, coldest of the year.

The New Orleans weather bureau announced storm warnings from Pensacola, Fla., to Brownsville, advising coast points that freezing weather was advancing behind a low pressure area out of the Rocky mountains.

Drops To 18 At Dallas

Dallas shivered in the coldest weather of the season, 18.8. Other readings: Denton 16, season's low; Paris 17; Palestine 23; Tyler 20, which meant a 45-degree drop since Sunday noon; Corsicana 20, season's low; Austin 24, seasonal low; McAllen, 40 and no damage to valley citrus and vegetables; Corpus Christi 36 and warming up.

Corpus Christi sources reported freezing temperatures went no farther south than Beeville, just below San Antonio.

The Dallas weather bureau said no snow fell in Texas during the night and that skies generally were fair. Its forecast for tonight and tomorrow was for slightly higher temperatures but still cold enough for extra blankets.

Rain, Sleet And Snow Missing As Cold Wave Strikes Here

A cold wave which struck the South Plains Sunday, failed to bring the promised rain, sleet and snow although minimum this morning was the lowest of the season.

Municipal airport reported minimum of 10.25 degrees at 6:30 o'clock this morning, with a maximum Sun-

Deadline Near To Pay Taxes

County Assessor-Collector H. B. Bryan said that his offices in the courthouse and the branch at Slaton city hall will remain open until midnight.

Others Remain Open

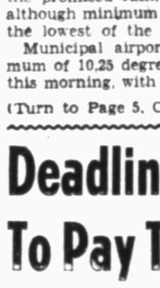

A. C. Jackson, school district assessor, said the office there will remain open "as long as they continue to come in; probably about midnight."

City Assessor Collector E. C. Young made a similar statement, but added that the rush probably will be over by 6 or 7 o'clock.

Bryan estimated at noon that approximately 600 poll tax receipts

Texas Officers Declare War On Speeders

Reckless Drivers Also Will Be Nabbed; 7,000-Pound Law On Loads To Be Enforced

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 31. — Although enforcement of the 7,000-pound load law for trucks will continue this year, officers will direct their efforts mainly against speeders and reckless drivers.

This is the announcement of Chief L. G. Phares of the highway patrol in revealing violations of the maximum load law — 10,899 — led all others in 1937.

Reduce Death Toll

"I have told the men to get out on the roads and reduce speeding and recklessness which brings loss of human life," he said.

Forecasting the policy would draw criticism from carriers competing with truck lines, the chief said the patrol was "caught between two fires" regardless of its policies toward trucks.

"The truck interests claim we make too many arrests and the railroads assert we do not make enough," the chief said.

In support of his instructions for emphasis on offenses other than load limit violations, he pointed to 1,196 arrests for load violations in November last year and 989 in December. "There might be a corresponding reduction during this and other months this year," he said.

New Men To Be Added

Col. H. H. Carmichael, director, said the public safety department would have between 230 and 240 highway patrolmen on the roads and 20 truck weighers after a new complement of officers are trained and assigned. The department is selecting 100 trainees from more than 3,000 applicants.

He said the patrolmen would do "100 per cent patrol duty" leaving truck weighing to 20 men to be assigned exclusively to that work. Currently the patrol has 189 men of which 40 to 50 are devoting most of their time to driver's license examinations but after the new men are assigned the license bureau will have 35 without detracting from a patrol strength of 230 to 240, Carmichael said.

Taking of a second oath was reserved for the beginning of the court session at noon.

Banks Over South Plains Are Reported In Good Condition

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Journal Staff Writer

Thirty-one banks in 26 towns in 15 counties on the South Plains had total resources of in excess of $33,200,000 and deposits of over $28,500,000, when they began the current year's business, a summary of statements issued by the banks showed.

As far as local bankers are aware, the resources and deposits are by far the largest at any one bank call. Cash items also have set a record and other items are also at a peak, except perhaps the loans.

More Than Million In Banks

Eleven banks showed total resources of more than a million dollars each; ten banks had deposits of in excess of that amount and all of the banks had a surplus and undivided profit account at the close of the year that had passed the $800,000 mark.

Besides Lubbock, Plainview, Brownfield and Lamesa have more than one bank each. Twelve of the banks are state, the rest national.

Statements were not available from four banks, at Spur, Ropesville, Farwell and Petersburg. These would add a million and a half probably, in deposits and resources, with comparable amounts to other items.

Composite Report Given

Following are some of the high points in the composite report: total resources, $38,206,961.97; loans, $9,200,662.16; deposits, $28,556,439.36; cash items, $16,418,186.47; capital stock, $1,430,400; bank buildings, (25) $427,556.16; furniture and fixtures, $111,548.60; other real estate owned, $34,580.41; surplus and undivided profits, $834,464.27.

Banks outside Lubbock with more than a million dollars on deposits included: Lamesa National and First National of Lamesa; First National of Littlefield; Plainview City National, First National of Post, Snyder National and First National of Tahoka.

Combined deposits of the Brownfield State and First National of Brownfield exceeded $1,500,000.

Five other banks showed deposits

Enrollment At Tech Started

Enrollment rush for the spring semester at Texas Technological college was in full swing this morning but what the total of students for the new term will be is entirely speculative, according to information given at the office of Dr. Bradford Knapp, president.

While the total probably cannot be determined before the end of the week, he added, there is no question but that it will exceed by a very substantial number the 2,591 for the spring semester last year.

Fall Below Last Semester

Probabilities are, however, he continued, the figure will not equal that for the last fall semester, which was 3,154, comparing with 2,703 for the fall term of the 1936-37 college session. The total enrollment for the 1936-37 term was 3,010.

The system of determining total enrollment, he explained, is generally misunderstood. It almost invariably occurs, he said, that the spring enrollment for any college is less than for the fall term of that same year. But the total enrollment for the entire year usually is higher,

Mae Has Answer For Gossip Of Critics; Says She's Not Sexy But Just Stimulating

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31. — Mae West, who can say two things with one word, answered the wagging tongues of criticism today.

"People don't understand me," she said. "I'm not sexy. I'm only stimulating."

She has discovered, she said, what went wrong with a radio skit she played recently.

"I didn't write that radio script, though it was in my style. It had been passed and censored before I saw it. Anyway there were only 700 protests.

"You see, the broadcast was on Sunday—church time in many towns. In one religious college town there were 1,400 students. Only 200 went to church, 1,200 listened to Mae West. And it was unlucky that the sketch was called 'Adam and Eve.' I wouldn't dream of burlesquing religion, really. Lots of my religious friends didn't see anything irreverent in it."

Senate Battle On Lynch Bill Ends

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The senate dropped the four-week filibuster against the anti-lynching bill temporarily today to consider the administration's housing legislation.

Despite general approval of objectives of the housing bill, senators disagreed over its wage provisions.

Requires Prevailing Wages

The bill, as originally passed by the senate, requires payment of "prevailing wages" fixed by the labor department on government-insured construction projects. This section was removed by a committee appointed to reconcile house and senate measures.

Senator Lodge, author of the prevailing wage amendment, led an attempt to reinstate it.

The house has approved the compromise bill, designed to hasten the flow of private capital into home construction. It would cut the down-payment on low-cost houses to ten percent and would reduce interest and service charges on government-insured projects.

Southerners Get Rest

Consideration of the housing bill gave southern senators a rest from lynching measure, which nevertheless remained the unfinished business of the senate.

Naval and other appropriations bills are awaiting senate action, as is the administration's government reorganization measure.

Ralls Pioneer Death Victim

Mrs. Lela Elizabeth Wheeler, 59, of Ralls, resident of Crosby county for 58 years and member of the first family to permanently settle on the South Plains, died at 9 o'clock Sunday morning at a sanitarium here where she had been a patient since suffering a fracture of the left hip about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Wheeler was daughter of the late "Uncle Hank" Smith. The rock house built by her father in Blanco canyon near Crosbyton is the scene of annual West Texas Old Settlers reunions.

Funeral Held Today

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Ralls Methodist church, with Rev. J. Edmund Kirby, pastor, officiating. Burial in Ralls cemetery will be directed by Will Marr Funeral home.

Mrs. Wheeler suffered the fracture when she fell at her home, it was said at the sanitarium.

She was born Sept. 12, 1878, in Shackelford county. She was the wife of the late John Wheeler.

Survivors included two sons, Roy and J. A., and one daughter, Miss Josie Wheeler, all of Ralls; two brothers, George and Bob Smith of near Crosbyton; and one sister, Mrs. Mary Kirk of north of Crosbyton.

New Twist To Theft Of Hogs Is Exercised By Lynn Youths

A new and ingenious twist is being exercised in theft of hogs and delivery of them on foot to market, said the sheriff's department, who held three Lynn county youths today as suspects.

They said one hog weighing 375 pounds had been shoved into the rear of an ordinary two-seat automobile and sold here.

Four other hogs had been stolen and sold in Lubbock, said Grady Harrist, who was preparing late this morning to file charges.

Two of the five porkers had been recovered. One hog, that weighing 375 pounds, brought a check for $25.31 from Lubbock Hog company, two others for $23.40, said Harrist, deputy sheriff.

Cap Moore, another deputy, arrested two of the boys while assertedly attempting to dispose of a hog said stolen from G. J. Vivial of north of Posey.

One of the boys is 15 years old, another 17. The third would be about 17 or 18, the sheriff's department said. He was brought here after being arrested at Ta-

Reward Being Offered Here In Burglary

Pryor Lumber Company Damaged By Flames Believed Set By Prowlers; $250 Is Offered

Fire, officially explained as presumably having been set to cover a burglary, early Sunday damaged Pryor Lumber company, at Nineteenth street and Avenue Q.

Reward of $250 for apprehension and conviction was offered by company officials.

Firemen found flames licking the inside of the office, evidently fed by turpentine from a barrel just on the outside of the building in the yard.

Small Amount Of Loot

Police, informed approximately $8 or $10, part of the amount in stamps, had been taken, theorized the intruder had drained a bucket of turpentine from the barrel and had scattered it about in the office.

The spigot had not been turned off, and the barrel had not emptied itself—lending credence to the theory the fluid had been dashed on walls and flooring, a match struck and escape made directly after the burglary.

Door Glass Smashed

Entrance was made through a front door, a pane of which had been smashed. Proximate to the pane is the door's night latch. Police said the burglar evidently had smashed the pane, reached through and unlatched the door.

He left by a side door, from indications.

Firemen said work had been started to repair damage.

The alarm was sounded at 3:10 o'clock said W. E. Twitty, fire chief. Damage, while not great, had not been estimated. Losses were confined to the interior of the building, in the main.

Complaint Is Filed

A drunk driving complaint was filed this morning in the court of Walter Davies, justice of peace, against J. A. Bell, about 27, whom authorities said lives in Crowell. Bond had not been posted late this morning. Max Westerman, jr., state highway patrolman, signed the complaint.

Two negroes, charged with simple assault in Justice Davies court, fought after a "razzing match," said Davies, and one was treated for knife wounds.

Safe Is Burglarized

Police were informed a safe had been burglarized at Hobbs, N. M., and $150 cash and 17 gasoline coupon books, issued by Continental and Shell companies, taken. A tall, fair man weighing about 175 pounds and wearing a blue-gray suit fled in a 1935 (Buick) sedan, cashed some of the coupons at Big Spring and headed for Brownwood, said reports. The car was described as blue and as having no license on the front. The rear license digits began with 53——, said authorities, who did not know the rest.

Three Brownfield men were in jail, two of them, D. B. Loveless, 22, and Ormal Pippin, 23, in lieu of $15 fine each was assessed after a plea of guilty of theft under $5. The other was charged with drunkenness.

Five Fliers Are Grateful To Tiny Boat For Saving Lives

SEATTLE, Jan. 31. (AP)—Five navy fliers were grateful to a little rubber boat today. It saved their lives.

The men were flying a giant seaplane, one of a squadron of six from Seattle to Sitka when engine trouble forced it down yesterday on shoals off Goose island, 300 miles north of Vancouver, B. C. Giant waves lashed at the plane and pounded it to pieces. The men took to the water in their emergency rubber boat and fought the waves until an unnamed fishing smack picked them up uninjured.

Levelland Man Dead; Young Woman Tells Story Of Tragedy

(Special To The Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, Jan. 31.—A trip to a Lubbock dance ended in tragedy in a Littlefield tourist camp Sunday for Alvin Elliott, 25, of Levelland, who was found dead in a bed on the floor beside which lay a well known Levelland young woman.

Verdict of M. W. Brewer, Littlefield justice of peace, awaited report from the state toxicologist, to whom Elliott's viscera was sent Sunday night.

In the automobile in which the couple, former students of Texas Technological college, had journeyed to Littlefield were found a six ounce bottle labelled "solution of arsenic" and from which approximately two ounces were missing, a bottle of antiseptic, and a three-fourths full pint bottle labeled whiskey, said Brewer. No bottles were found in the cabin, he said.

Young Woman Tells Story

The young woman found in the room with Elliott's body related to officials that she had left Levelland with Elliott with the intention of going to a dance in Lubbock. Elliott went toward Littlefield instead of going to Lubbock, saying that he had become suddenly ill and needed a place to rest a few minutes, Brewer quoted the girl as saying.

Both Brewer and Sam Hutson, chief deputy sheriff, said it was unlikely any charges would be entered against the young woman. She remained in a Littlefield hotel room this morning, while investigation into the case was being continued.

Further Inquiry Planned

Hutson said the case would be investigated further in Levelland today.

R. Stevens, Littlefield tourist camp operator, said the couple had arrived at the cabin Saturday night. He had not seen the couple come out and at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon entered the cabin.

On the bed was the still form of the young man. Beside the bed, the young woman lay on the floor, writhing, according to his account as repeated by Deputy Sheriff Hutson.

Stevens called the city marshal, A. A. Anderson, Hutson, Anderson, Brewer, and Dr. Thomas B. Duke went to the cabin.

The girl had sufficiently recovered to be questioned "about 7 or 8 o'clock", said Hutson.

She related that there had been one other pint bottle of whiskey, but that the empty bottle had been thrown away, said Brewer. She said she did not know the arsenic was in the car.

She said she had gone to sleep about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning and had not awakened until the tourist camp operator came into the cabin. She did not know any of the circumstances of Elliott's death, she told officials.

Elliott was the son of Mr. and

Columnist Believes Bridegrooms-Elect Should Be Given Warning Of Divorce

BY RUTH MILLETT

Brides are forever being given advice. Now you've got him you have to hold him is the general theme song.

But new husbands, for the most part, escape the pointed finger and the hard truth. For the most part, we say, because this is going to be an exception.

If you're a man getting married this month you might as well know that one marriage out of every five ends in a divorce. And that one of New York's practicing psychologists says that it is more often than not the woman who gets "fed up" with marriage first.

Why aren't today's men keeping their wives in love with them?

Well, some of them aren't giving anything but financial support to their marriage. They are sure that their wives—being women—can't understand their work or the headlines of the day, so they never discuss such things with them. Their only idea of a pleasant evening is one spent among men, and they become grouchy martyrs when they have to take their wives to a party.

Another type of husband is a deadly bore. He used to be an amusing enough companion back in the days of courtship. But that took effort. Now that he has the girl he just sits through an evening, not even bothering to look up from his magazine when he says "What's that?" to her attempts at conversation. He treats her like a habit instead of a human, and is surprised and hurt when she falls in love with a man who pays some attention to her.

Then there is the husband who isn't thoughtful of his wife. Who treats other women with a great show of gallantry, but who will add to his wife's work without a thought and who "belittles" her and all that she does in front of their friends.

There is also—worse luck for women—the man who doles out money to his wife and wants to know exactly how she spends it. He is often the very same man who splurges when there is anyone around that he considers worth impressing.

And there is always, of course, the husband who drinks so much that there comes a day when a wife is through putting up with him. He never has any conception of how impossible his wife found him before she decided that enough is a divorce.

Marriage can't be exactly a fifty-fifty business. But the divorce rate might hit a new low if husbands tried as hard as most wives to make themselves a "for better" proposition.

WHAT CATHARTICS DO TO YOU!

Harsh pills and purgatives often over-stimulate your intestines . . . and leave them weak and listless.

If your constipation is of the common type that is due to insufficient bulk, there's a better way to treat it. Kellogg's All-Bran supplies the bulk you need. It absorbs moisture and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. But All-Bran does still more. It contains vitamin B₁ . . . the vitamin that helps tone the intestinal tract.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Finger Painting Of Children Said To Be Index To His Mental Development

WELLESLEY, Mass.—One of the most effective methods of character reading is found in the finger painting of children in the nursery school on the Wellesley college campus.

Finger painting means just that—painting with the fingers—though occasionally wooden ladles are used for large smears.

It looks very messy but it's done with a purpose, namely:

1. To reveal the child's nature, what is troubling him, what he thinks about.

2. To aid development of the large arm muscles through work on great spreads of paper.

3. To encourage freedom of expression.

Children who are heavy thinkers, say educators, do intricate work, full of detail.

Poetical children run to nicety of detail and involved constructions. Unimaginative children try to draw definite objects rather than express moods.

Finger painting also reveals how children learn. Their sense of color comes first. Feeling for form comes next and finally the idea.

The intricate designs of Tommy Tolman's finger painting indicate that he probably is a heavy thinker.

City Is Fifth For Building

(By The Associated Press)

Houston stepped over the million-dollar line in building permits granted last week, thus continuing to lead the field by a wide margin. The week's total was $319,055 for the South Texas city, while the amount for the first four weeks of 1938 was $1,092,230.

Other cities reported as follows:

CITY	WEEK	YEAR
Dallas	$90,307	$746,636
Fort Worth	65,679	713,346
Austin	58,689	442,789
LUBBOCK	39,342	116,606
Galveston	25,815	103,255
Corpus Christi	24,175	161,485
San Antonio	23,970	163,205
Tyler	20,505	123,447
Amarillo	16,100	41,384

Month Is Busiest January In Past Eight Years Here

Six building permits were issued by City Building Inspector Jim Reid Saturday to add $12,025 in new construction to the total of the second busiest week of the busiest January from the building standpoint in at least eight years.

Building permit totals for the month were increased to $116,606.35 and for the week to $30,342.85. Any permits issued Monday will add further to the total for the first month of 1938.

For Over Other Years

Total for January, 1937, was $73,412.50 and for January, 1935, was $14,833.

The largest permit Saturday was to J. B. Edwards, owner, and W. G. McMillan, contractor, to build basement under store building at 1009 Broadway. That building houses Levine's department store.

Other permits were to: Piggly Wiggly No. 1, owner, and West Texas Neon distributors, contractor, to erect neon sign at 1402 Broadway, $225; Mrs. B. L. Taylor, owner, and D. A. Forbess, contractor, to construct a one-story frame residence at 2409 Twenty-sixth street, $1,950; A. B. Olenbush, owner, and R. E. McCurdy, contractor, to repair and alter residence at 1309 Twenty-fifth street, $1,050; and N. F. Fox, owner and contractor, to build foundation and repair building at 308 Paris avenue, $25.

Morris Sheppard Passes 25th Anniversary As U. S. Senator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) — Morris Sheppard, dean of congress, became a senator from Texas 25 years ago Saturday.

This quarter century, added to the 10 years he already had served in the house, gives the short, greying Texan a longer period of continuous service in congress than any other living member.

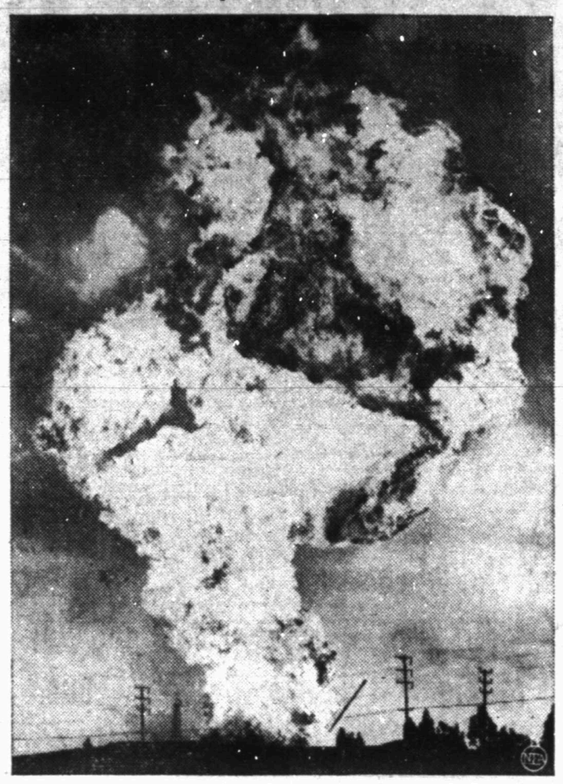

Several others now in the senate and house preceded Sheppard in congress, but their service has not been continuous. The senator is but three months senior to Vice President Garner, who became a congressman from Texas in 1903.

"LIBERAL" CARRYOVER SEEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Prospects are the United States will have a "very liberal carryover of about 190 million bushels of wheat" July 1, the Stanford university food research institute said today. The surplus from the big 1937 crop will not be "uncomfortable" however, the institute experts said.

Gas Well Roars Up In Flames

Chilly householders who arise on winter mornings to find the gas flickering in a feeble flame under low pressure, might well contemplate the beauty of the gas well fire pictured above, shooting flames high into the air near Los Angeles. The well "blew in" when drillers hit a swamp gas pocket. Friction later ignited the gas, ruining the well, with damage estimated at $100,000.

League Baseball Returns To Lubbock Under White Sox Guidance

Six Clubs Ready For Season's Opening Of Loop In This Area

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Journal Sports Editor

Return of professional baseball to Lubbock, West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, on a modest but business-like scale, was virtually assured yesterday when baseball minded men of the area set forth their aims and hopes for the 1938 season at a meeting here.

Tentative organization of a six-club, Class D league was effected at the regular winter meeting of the West Texas-New Mexico League, held at Hilton Hotel and attended by 36 men representing eight towns. Possibility of an eight-club circuit was seen.

Only obstacle in the way of a permanent six-club organization yesterday was lack of absolute assurance that Clovis, N. M., would enter the league. Official delegates of five towns—Roswell, N. M., Wink, Midland, Monahans and Lubbock—announced definitely they were "ready to go" and representatives from Clovis offered strong indication that that city would enter the league.

As a result of Clovis' indication, strengthened in private conversations, the league voted unanimously to award a franchise to that city.

Lubbock, officially represented by Bob Tarleton of Dallas, general manager of the White Sox farm system, also was accepted as a league member and awarded a franchise.

Others Will Carry On

Wink and Roswell club owners announced their intentions of carrying on where they left off last year.

Permission was granted for the transfer of the Hobbs, N. M., franchise to Midland, and the Monahans franchise to Big Spring.

The Hobbs-to-Midland transfer has been accomplished, and F. E. Withers, general manager of the club at Hobbs last year, announced that he was ready to start operations at Midland. He was backed up by a delegation of business men from Midland.

Deals Are Reported

Although Big Spring delegates were present, none of them appeared to know the true status of the Monahans transfer. Jack Hutcheson, director of Monahans baseball last year, said, however, in asking for permission to transfer to Big Spring that certain "deals" had been made whereby the transfer would be made.

Clovis representatives announced that progress toward professional baseball there included leasing the Clovis city baseball park and a start toward raising finances necessary to open the season. The down desires a connection, or working agreement, with a major or larger minor league club, but hopes to play more or less independently.

No public announcement came from a private session between Clovis delegates and Josh Billings of Dallas, veteran Texas League baseball man, but it was believed that Billings entered into a tentative agreement with Clovis men, possibly as general manager, and that he will attempt to gain player and financial help from a club of higher classification.

Prospects Are Considered

Although not officially represented, San Angelo and Odessa were considered as "prospects" in an eight-club organization.

With Clovis accepting the franchise and its delegates otherwise participating in the meeting, the league went ahead to adopt a player rule, a maximum salary limit and an official ball, and voted to play a 130-game schedule beginning April 27 or May 4.

Milton E. Price of Dallas, secretary of the Texas League and president of the West Texas-New Mexico league, presided at the meeting and was re-elected for another year. The league voted him a salary to be paid from a yearly assessment of $100 from each club. Price served last year without pay. His duties as president also include those of secretary and treasurer. Bill Collyns, Midland Chamber of Commerce official, was re-elected vice-president, and President Price will appoint three other vice-presidents to serve in honorary positions.

Another Meeting Planned

Price said he would announce soon the time and place of a final league meeting, at which time forfeit bonds will be posted and definite organization completed, a schedule adopted and other arrangements made.

Two important changes were made in the rules regarding roster limits and player rules, but the league voted to retain the $1000 salary limit.

Fourteen players will be allowed each team in the West Texas-New Mexico league, including the manager if he is a playing manager. If a club is managed from the bench, it still may carry fourteen players, exclusively of the manager. Heretofore, club membership was limited to fourteen men, including the manager, regardless of whether he played or not.

The "rookie" rule was altered to allow clubs to employ a larger number of experienced players than heretofore. Whereas the former rule obligated each team to carry a minimum of ten inexperienced players, the 1938 rule will require each team to carry a minimum of six non-class players, i. e.: six players who have had no previous professional experience beyond participation in 50 games or having pitched 30 innings.

Only Three Class Men

The same rule holds that a club may employ five or more "one-year men," players who have had no more than one season of professional baseball. A club may not, however, carry more than three "class" men, players with unlimited professional experience, including the manager.

The way was left open, therefore, for a club to employ a team consisting entirely of rookies, or with six rookies and eight "reserves," or with six rookies, five one-year men and three veterans. The rule was made for the benefit of players who competed last year and who were not sold or traded to clubs of higher classification.

The league, after considering bids by four sporting goods companies, adopted the Worth baseball, with rubber center, as the official league weapon. Anderson Brothers of Big Spring were the successful bidders.

Attending yesterday's meeting, which extended over a four-hour period, were the following delegates and representatives:

Midland: F. E. Withers, Bud Taylor, Bill Collyns, Fletcher Curry and Newspaperman Jess Rodgers.

Wink: O. O. Whitten, O. M. Hodges, L. M. McAdoo, Phil Harvey and Joe Tate.

Monahans: Jack Hutcheson.

Roswell: J. E. Payne, Neal Rabe and Speck Yates.

Clovis: K. C. Lea, John Rollis, Hugh May, George McCullough and J. E. Speigle.

Big Spring: Charlie Bryan, Taylor Anderson, "Pepper" Martin, Logan Baker, Newspaperman Hank Hart, and Anderson Brothers, sporting goods dealers.

Odessa: Tony Slaughter.

Dallas: Milton E. Price, Josh Billings and Joe Dobbs.

Lubbock: Bob Tarleton and Harry Faulkner, both of Dallas but officially representing Lubbock; Sam Rosenthal, Sled Allen and Pete Cawthon.

Redskins Beat All-Star Club

HOUSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two first period touchdowns through antics of Cliff Battles and Sammy Baugh gave the barnstorming Washington professional Redskins a 17 to 10 victory over all-star footballers here yesterday.

Battles took a punt and went 74 yards for the first counter, and Baugh's 30 yard pass to Riley Smith set up Don Irwin's plunge from the one-yard line for the second. Battles converted the first extra point and Smith the second.

Three Points Added

Smith's 45-yard field goal in the last quarter added three points for the Redskins.

The all-stars scored when Tillie Manton, former Texas Christian back, kicked a 38-yard field goal early in the game, and in the third period when Dutch Kline, also a former Texas Christian star, grabbed a pass off Eddie Britt's fingertips and went 64 yards for the score.

Manton converted for the all-stars.

Notre Dame Jinx Is Said To Be Working

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 31 (AP)—The Notre Dame football captaincy jinx is at work again.

Announcement Saturday that Alex Shellogg, captain-elect for 1938, had withdrawn from school under circumstances which aroused a lot of campus comment, made him the fourth successive grid leader at the Irish school to be dogged by hard luck.

As a result the superstition that election as captain means misfortune is becoming almost as much of a tradition at Notre Dame as is the strength of the Irish gridiron teams.

In 1935 Joe Sullivan was elected captain of the team but he died two months before the season opened. In 1936 the captain was Bill Smith but a series of operations made it impossible for him to compete in a single game.

Last year the captain was Joe Zwers but an injury suffered prior to the 1936 game with Southern California never healed sufficiently for him to see regular duty.

There was no official announcement as to the reason for Shellogg's withdrawal from school but the campus gossip had it that it was a disciplinary measure.

Contracts For 1938 Drawing Protests

HOUSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Catcher Gus Mancuso and Outfielder Joe Moore, two of "Terrible" Bill Terry's ball players, today were protesting 1938 contracts tendered them by the New York Giants, but a third, Pitcher Harry Gumbert, said he expected to come to terms soon.

The swarthy Mancuso, whose 1937 salary has been estimated at $12,500, said he would hold out before he'd take a cut. Moore said he'd been offered the same as last season, but he wanted a raise.

Mancuso said he had read stories linking him with trade gossip and he thought that might be the reason for the reduced contract.

"I'd be easier to trade if I'd sign at a reduced figure, but I won't," he said. "If I'm to play for another club it will be at the figure I received for 1937."

Outside the matter of their salary contracts both Moore and Mancuso had good words for Terry.

Oregon Attorney Is Chosen To Take Sen. Steiwer's Place

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 31 (AP)—Alfred Evans Reames, Medford attorney has been appointed by Governor Charles Martin to serve out the unexpired term of Frederick Steiwer as U. S. senator from Oregon. Reames is a Democrat.

Reames will be 68 years old, February 5. He is expected to go to Washington immediately to take the seat of Senator Steiwer who has resigned and retires today. Steiwer's term has 11 months to run.

Senator Steiwer resigned Thursday, after 11 years in the upper house, to become a member of a Washington law firm. He was one of the staunchest Republican critics of the Roosevelt administration.

Braddock Announces His Retirement From Fighting Game

SPORTS

LUBBOCK, TEXAS, MONDAY, JANUARY 31, 1938

Longhorns To Launch Drive For A Title

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Three lanky sophomores and a senior with a knee brace can make a new race out of the Southwest conference cage scramble.

New additions to an already respected University of Texas team are the aforementioned quartet, and, where it was only Arkansas a week ago, it is now Arkansas, Baylor, Southern Methodist and Texas on the "take-your-choice" system.

Are Threats Overnight

Winners of half their four league games to date, Coach Jack Gray's Texas Longhorns, plagued by various troubles, became threats overnight with the eligibility at midterm of sophomores Oran Spears, Elmer Finley and Jimmy Britt, and the return to action of Capt. Don White, injured guard out since the season's start with a hurt knee.

All of them will be in the Longhorns' starting lineup the next time out. Spears, Britt and Finley, illustrious members of the famed John Tarleton Agricultural college team that started its current winning streak of 83 straight games while they were enrolled, have been poison to the regular Texas five in practice drills. White last season ranked as one of the league's standouts.

Favored Over Frogs

Stimulation of the Texas team by additions; Southern Methodist's startling return to its championship form and Baylor's continuation of a bustling start are factors which minimized Arkansas' early-season threat of a runaway.

Still, this week Arkansas has a chance to stretch its string to six straight, for only magic could help the Texas Christians, meek tailenders, in their two-game series with the Razorbacks on the Fayetteville court.

Before taking off for Arkansas' playground, the Christians, seemed destined for a fourth straight year in the conference cellar, must first face the firing of a Baylor crew at Fort Worth Tuesday night. Unless Baylor's Hub Kirkpatrick, Bubba Gernand and Wilson White, veteran roper due to start his first game of the year after favoring injuries for weeks, are sadly off their shooting form, the week should be a complete blank for a Christian crew that has failed to impress in three losses.

Best Game Of Week

Best game of the week should be the Texas-Baylor battle at Waco Friday night. Two weeks ago Baylor moved into Austin and bombarded the lame Texans, 51-45, with Gernand leading the attack. At that time Texas had only eight available players. Now, with its strength almost doubled, the Texans plan to use that Baylor game as the shove-off on a belated drive for the crown.

Stymied by mid-term exams, Southern Methodist and Rice institute, remain idle this week. The Texas Aggies, with six games played, rest while the remainder of the field catches up.

Currently tops in the individual scoring race is Clark, Texas Aggie forward, with 59 points. One breath behind him at 57 points is Arkansas' Don Lockard while Jack Robbins, the Arkansas guard, is third with 51.

Was Gus All Burned Up?

Gus Suhr, Pittsburgh Pirate first baseman and captain, received his contract for 1938, calling for less money and better playing. Gus got so hot under the collar he grabbed up the nearest charged water bottle and cooled off in this fashion. He said the contract went back unsigned from San Francisco.

Schmeling Is Eager To Regain Title; Wins Victory Sunday Over South Africa Fighter

HAMBURG, Jan. 31. (AP)—Max Schmeling, eager to become the first ex-heavyweight champion to regain the world title, congratulated himself today on his 12-round victory over Ben Foord of South Africa, former British Empire champion.

It wasn't that Foord had proved such a tough opponent. In fact some fans were a bit disappointed that Max hadn't knocked him out or at least knocked him down. But according to Schmeling the fight just suited his plans.

Aims At Title Bout

Max is aiming at his title bout with Champion Joe Louis next summer and other things don't count so much, not even his share of yesterday's estimated $150,000 gate. The fight with Foord, he said, was valuable in developing his defense plans for the Louis fight because of the similarity between the South African's left hand tactics and those employed by Louis.

That may explain in part why Max didn't turn the knockout trick as expected. He was off to his usual slow start but after the sixth round was in complete command, hammering Ben around with his deadly right and doing everything but floor him.

Schmeling's plans before his bout with Louis in June are indefinite and further uncertainty was caused by an injury to his right hand.

His trainer, Max Machon, said, however, that the injury was not serious.

Harry Cooper Top In Oakland Open

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—Harry Cooper, one of the greatest "stretch" runners; in golf, pocketed $1,200 and the title of Oakland Open champion today and headed for new fields.

The slender English-born professional put on a thrill-filled finish yesterday to post a 72-hole total of 275 to set a par-shattering pace for a formidable field.

Cooper put together rounds of 70-66-71 and 68. He needed an eagle three to win as he came to the final hole—453 yards long. A bee line drive and second wood shot put his ball nine feet from the pin. He sized up the putt, remarked "here goes for the money" and tapped the pellet into the cup while four thousand fans gave him a winner's ovation.

Par for the Sequoyah course is 35-35-70. Cooper's second round 66 was the lowest of the tournament. He finished the final eighteen in 36-32.

Tied for second place, a stroke behind Cooper, were Jimmy Hines, of Garden City, N. Y., and Charley Sheppard of Pleasanton, Calif. Hines, leader for three rounds, saw his game break on the last eighteen. He posted a final 73, after previous cards of 67-67 and 69. Hines three-putted the 333-yard par four fifteenth for a disastrous six that cost him top money.

They're Still Keeping That Coaching Job At Michigan A Secret; Baseball Men Again Climb On Cardinal Bandwagon

BY SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Latest dope is the Michigan coaching job will go to either Jack Blott of Wesleyan or Fritz Crisler of Princeton . . . Wonder why they're passing up Benney Friedman, an old Michigan blue who worked wonders at C. C. N. Y. with the sorriest material? . . . Japan will invite Gene Sarazen and a couple more crack American pros for an exhibition golf series about the time of the 1940 Olympics. . . . Lawson Little may be another. . .

* * *

Baseball men are climbing on the Cardinal bandwagon again for the National league pennant race. . . . Say Frankie Frisch is really primed for this one. . . . Whatever happened to Bob Nestell and those heavyweight title prospects they were predicting for him? . . .

At the baseball writers' roundup: Frankie Frisch and Larry MacPhail hobnobbing in a corner. . . Mungo? . . . Lefty Grove, getting grayer and grayer. . . . Everyone asking when MacPhail will get around to giving Buddy Hassett his contract. . . . And Buddy himself not knowing just where he stands. . . . Jimmy Foxx, several pounds lighter, walks in. . . Altogether, quite a large evening. . .

This is the height of something or other: Clyde Castleman asked the Giants for a contract calling for a $1 salary, until he can prove his back operation was successful.

COACH IS CHOSEN

ODESSA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Named over 35 applicants, Buster Brannon, former T. C. U. and Athens high school star, was the selection for athletic coach here to succeed Froggie Lovvern, resigned. Kenneth Starnes, assistant, will remain at that position.

Ex-Champion Declares He Is All Quits

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Jimmy Braddock, the man who came back from "nowhere" to win the world heavyweight championship and a lot of cash money he needed very badly, has reached the place most fight fans thought he was in 1933. He is all through with fighting.

Jimmy, confirming the belief that he's a pretty smart fellow as fighters go, announced his retirement yesterday. He has been fighting since 1926, he admits to 32 years and he proved he still is a pretty good man with his dukes when he outpointed Tommy Farr ten days ago.

Is Time To Quit

All that being settled, Jimmy announced: "I have spent 15 years in the game, and in fairness to everyone, but especially my wife and children, I believe it is time for me to withdraw."

Braddock's announcement was not entirely unexpected, as there has been talk of his retirement ever since he lost the title to Joe Louis last summer and took a terrific beating before he was knocked out.

After handing out thanks to his "manager and friend," Joe Gould, the fans, newspapermen and boxing officials, Braddock went on to explain that he would continue his association with Gould in a new business venture.

Farewell To Boxing

"This is my farewell to boxing, a sport which owes me nothing and to which I owe everything, the many friends I have made and the means with which I have been able to provide for my family."

Jimmy, perhaps, was a bit too modest in summing up the debts. Boxing did get him off the relief

eden Stars As Tight-Rope Artist Upon World's Political Stage

restige Must e Preserved

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Staff Correspondent

ONDON, Jan. 31.—Anthony n, British Secretary of State for eign Affairs, in recent troubled nths has earned for himself the kname of the Blondin of the itical world.

Remember Charles Blondin? He
s the Frenchman who made fame fortune for himself in 1859 by ht-rope over the whirling waters false step, might plunge his ntry into war. Life has been has had to tight-rope his way,

ays remembering three points:

1. That he must seek to mainain the prestige of the British ion.

2. That the British people are ot willing to back up prestige with a war.

3. That even if they were willing to do so, the British lion is still unprepared for a mighty tussle, as some of his teeth are still in the making.

ust Be Wary At Home, Also

In olden days, when Foreign Miners made the British lion roar, it as an easy job, because Britain led the waves and Britain had the rse. But those palmy days are
ne. Ruling the waves is import-
, but even more so from some ects is ruling the air, and every-y in the British government ows that Britain is far from even alling certain other European air wers. Hence Eden's need for cirnspection.

In the theater of international litics, Eden must play a variety character roles. At times he ust thrust out a warning hand.
ain, he must beckon for friend-ip. Always he must think in ms of peace—but keep wary eyes eled for threats of war. Occa-nally he is permitted a smile.

Germany wants back colonies ngland holds. Italy threatens ritain's free passage through the editerranean. Both countries prend to support non-intervention the civil war in Spain, while at e same time both permit thou-nds of "volunteers" to fight for e rebel Franco. France, more than xious for British support, looks on every English move with jeals eyes. Soviet Russia, an ally of rance, a potential ally of Britain, eeps them all guessing.

Eden not only has to consider ese factors, but in his own coun-y he has to be wary. The Labor rty is very critical. It attacks his oves on the chess-board. It finds h too weak in dealing with the alitarian powers of Italy and ermany. It finds that his eneavors to prevent open intervenon in the Spanish civil war merely lp the rebels.

Words Have Sting

In answering, Eden has to keep good grip on himself. But occa-nally the real Anthony Eden, the an who, as a youth, took part in e World war, shows that he is mething other than a mere goodoking, well-dressed, pleasant-man-red cabineteer fall guy. He lashes t.

Mussolini in a public speech,
cks German colonial claims,
omptly comes Eden's reply:

"We do not admit the right of y government to call upon us for contribution when there is no idence to show that that govern-ent is prepared to make any con-ibution on its own account."

On another occasion, he uttered slogan which may become history:
"We will join no anti-Communbloc and no anti-Fascist bloc.
offer cooperation to all, but we accept dictation from none.

is only rarely that he can inge in such frankness. Most of e time he must be politic. He ust avoid a break with Italy or ermany. Time is of the essence r his country. If Eden can stave
f war until Britain is fully arm-
, he knows his country can once re have a dominating voice. If succeeds, he will not only rank one of his country's greatest For-gn Ministers, but the way will be ar for the highest honors poical life can bestow.

Tech Enrollment

because the total is determined by adding the number of new students for the spring term to the registration for the preceding fall term.

Capacity Not Reached

"One unfortunate statement has been made concerning the college enrollment," Dr. Knapp said. "The impression seems to have been conveyed that the college now has reached its capacity and that we can accept no additional students.

"That is not correct. It is true the college has reached the capacity of its existing dormitory space. But it has not reached its capacity so far as provision of instruction is concerned. Homes are being built all the time in Lubbock, steadily increasing the housing facilities of the city so far as students are concerned."

Next fall, he added, the college capacity to care for students will be increased by 400 to 600 with completion of the new library building. In that building, he explained, will be 13 additional classrooms, with the result that the 1938 fall semester enrollment should be substantially in excess of 3,500.

High School Orchestras Will Present Annual Concert

Senior and junior high school orchestras, under direction of Miss Beulah Dunn, will present their annual concert tonight at 8 o'clock in the senior high school auditorium. No admission charge is to be made.

The program will be in two sections, the junior students giving the first and the senior students the second.

NEGRO IS HUNTED

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—Norfolk county police searched today for a negro who, they were told, shot to death Cecil C. Sivills, 30, of Portsmouth, and criminally attacked a woman companion, late last night on the outskirts of Portsmouth.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 31 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 2 to 4 points net higher here today due to moderate local and foreign trade calling.

Higher cables, improved Bombay futures and a general belief that final action on the farm bill would be taken during the current week bolstered sentiment in early dealings.

March contracts opened at 8.49, May 8.58, July 8.63, Oct. at 8.74 and Dec. 8.76.

Selling pressure was light after the start and towards the end of the first half hour the market was steady 3 to 4 points net higher.

Offerings continued light during the morning and trading followed narrow channels. Trade demand and covering was sufficient to lift prices 5 to 6 points net higher near mid-session.

March contracts traded up to 8.92, May to 8.62, July 8.65, Oct. to 8.78 and Dec. 8.80.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 3 to 6 points up on higher cables, commission house and foreign buying. March 8.34, May 8.42, July 8.51, Oct. 8.61, Dec. 8.67, Jan. unquoted.

Although the initial advance was not a full response to the action of Liverpool, owing to March liquidation and some hedge selling, the undertone was steady.

May sold up from 8.42 to 8.47 and shortly after the first half hour the list was 4 to 7 points net higher.

Although trading remained quiet prices advanced a few points further later in the morning, largely in sympathy with firmness of stocks and wheat and on scattered buying.

May, which had rallied to 8.49, was selling at 8.47 at midday, when prices generally were 5 to 8 points net higher.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Wall street's gloom clouds showed indications of lifting today as selected stock market issues recovered fractions to around 2 points.

Dealings were listless from the start, however, and extreme gains were reduced near the fourth hour.

Steels led the quiet come-back on the announcement of new navy orders. Rails, coppers, motors, aircrafts and utilities were in the forefront.

Some stimulus was derived from the ability of secondary carrier bonds to edge forward. Commodities also were favored after a hesitant start.

Prominent on the advance were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Crucible, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Anaconda, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, Continental Baking "B", Allis Chalmers, Eastman Kodak, Crown Cork, Philip Morris and Standard Oil of N. J.

Inclined to hang back were American Telephone, Western Union, Deere and National Steel.

had been issued, increasing the total for the year to approximately 6,500. There is a possibility, though an unlikely one, that the all-time record of 8,517 poll tax receipts set two years ago will be equaled. He added that his office can handle approximately 3,000 applicants for receipts if that many appear, but estimates were that the total for the day will not exceed 2,000.

No poll tax receipts or exemption cerificates can be issued after midnight tonight. The same deadline will apply to all other current taxes, to which penalty and interest will be added tomorrow.

the meeting which John Wesley attended on May 24, 1738 when his "heart was warmed."

Face Same Conditions

"Already there is a movement in the mulberry trees—we see indications of it all about us," he said. The world today, he pointed out, "faces practically the same conditions that Wesley faced; we face practically the same questions that he faced."

Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, who attended a recent conference in Savannah, Ga., where plans for the church-wide observance were made, told of attending meetings at places where Wesley more than 200 years ago attended.

Speaking of the "plan" he outlined it briefly as: 1, the preachers must get ready; 2, the members must get ready; 3, the church must come to a realization that it must seek the lost, raise the fallen and comfort the dying.

Other Speakers Heard

Rev. W. E. Hamilton, conference Christian education secretary, spoke on "Making the Congregation Aldersgate Conscious." Rev. T. W. Brabham, president of McMurry college, Abilene, had not arrived from El Paso just before he was to have spoken. Rev. C. L. Smith, a missionary to Brazil, made the closing talk of the morning.

Rigid prosecution, contributed to by the hog company, was indicated.

Incredible Biography Could Be Written By 36 Candles

BY DALE HARRISON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—What memories Charles A. Lindbergh might find next Friday were he sentimentalist enough to sit with a birthday cake before him and read the incredible biography the 36 sputtering candles could write!

See the first candle! In Detroit a baby is born. It's just an ordinary baby.

Then come the candles of the Minnesota years — Congressman Lindbergh's kid; a long-boned boy trudging through adolescence, bringing home report cards that would never set any schoolhouse on fire.

Drama And History

Brightest of all burns that which, with fire for ink, writes of that year 1927. Lindbergh could hardly relive that memory without knowing it for what it was: world drama and world history.

He didn't have much money. He wasn't particularly outstanding as an airman. He was just "Slim," an uncommunicative aviator, gambling his life for a $25,000 pot of gold.

All he had to do was to fly from New York to Paris.

All he had to gain was $25,000—and fame.

All he had to lose was his life.

He flew into the dawn.

Humphries Calls For Prayer

That night down at Madison Square Garden there was a prize-fight. Just before the main event Joe Humphries, most famous sports announcer New York ever knew—far better known than this stranger Lindbergh—held out his arms commandingly and hushed the crowd.

He bellowed a brief story that young "Slim" was flying toward Paris; that his plane, unreported for hours, was probably at that moment somewhere over the black Atlantic.

The audience was hushed. Humphries' voice, soft now, said:

"Let us pray."

Lindbergh lives today, his 36th birthday just ahead.

Old Joe Humphries, who led the prayer for him, is no more.

Candle Tells It All

The bright candle tells it all—of the plane swooping gently to earth at Le Bourget field while Frenchmen cheered; and of the bare-headed, twentieth century Viking who sailed the skies instead of the seas, climbing from his cockpit, and saying:

"I am Charles Lindbergh."

"Slim" Lindbergh disappeared that day. A barnstorming airman became overnight a hero.

Other candles tell that flying from New York to Paris was no accident. They tell of the ticker tape reception by New York; of honors from Washington; of trans-continental flights.

One candle burns for love and marriage. One tells of an aerial voyage of Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh to the far east, and of near disaster in a Chinese stream.

The Black Candles

Then come the black candles: 1932, with the unprecedented horror of kidnaping, suspense, soul torture, and—at last—the broken, wasted body of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr.

The candles burn on and tell of Lindbergh slipping away in the night aboard a freighter to seek abroad surcease from the notoriety his daring flight had brought.

Lindbergh, like Atlas and his world, has not been able to rid himself of his burden.

He could not escape. He would not answer phones. He avoided public places, he shunned attention. Stubbornly and doggedly he clung to this premise: "I have a right to live my own life."

But that, as the candles will tell him if he reads them aright next Friday, isn't so easy. The world says:

"Flying to Paris was your own idea. Because you did this most spectacular thing, we shall always be interested in what you do."

And if the colonel views his birthday cake philosophically next Friday, perhaps he will take thought that though there are black candles, the white ones burn brightest; and that there is room on the cake for many, many more to burn as bravely and brilliantly as any that blaze there now.

Six Shots And Thud Of Body Signal Slaying In Gangland

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (AP)—Six shots and the thud of a body tossed from a speeding car signaled the gangland "ride" execution early today of Thomas Kilcullen, 36, a Sing Sing prison parolee, on the outskirts of "Hell's Kitchen," in the west side.

Several Hundred Persons Are Buffalo Springs Visitors

Several hundred Lubbock and Slaton residents and several others from more distant points took advantage of the "free gate" at Buffalo Springs park Sunday for an inspection of the upper lake dam which is now approximately 90 per cent complete, according to information given this morning by E. C. Wallace, resident manager.

The free gate will continue until March 1, by which time the dam will be completed, he added. The dam is a structure slightly more than 700 feet in length, approximately 50 feet high, and ranging in thickness from 150 feet at the bottom to 30 feet at the top. The only work remaining to be done is the top center fill.

It already has begun to impound water which now is approximately 300 feet wide and 10 feet deep at the base of the dam. When completed the lake will be approximately 40 feet and storing approximum width of approximately half a mile, maximum depth of approximately4 0 feet and storing approximately 500,000,000 gallons of water. It feeds through a 40-inch flood gate and over spillways to lower lake, which impounds approximately 250,000,000 gallons.

A serious case of erosion has come to the attention of the CCC. It appears that a bookkeeper has worn away $84,000 of the government's dough!

O. B. Conley, who is chairman of the American legion's committee to work for safety and who bears a similar position upon appointment by the City commission, tells The Plainsman that a boulevard plan is to be investigated here. Mr. Conley, Traffic Sergeant Lewis Kittrell and Police Chief Don Reeder already have been doing some preliminary checking and Wednesday will do some more, when Chief Phares, of the highway patrol, is in Lubbock.

According to Mr. Conley a system very much like the one outlined in this column ten days ago will result from the investigation.

* * *

DOWN in El Paso there are all sorts of writing people. Some are writing novels, some short stories—and a horde of them are writing for the pulp magazines. But the most interesting one to The Plainsman is one old fellow who goes by the pen name of Nat Campbell. He is a poet—and probably the best rhyming philosopher since Walt Mason.

A former midwestern newspaperman, Nat Campbell is spending his last years in El Paso where the sun shines all the time and where a fellow can really loaf. And to keep life from becoming too monotonous, he writes a few verses as time rolls along.

For instance, here's one of his jingles:

They say that fish is for the brain—
Will make you strong and hale
If this is so, some folks I know
Should start in on a whale!

And here's another of more than average worth:

Always preserve your dignity,
Whether you're short or tall.
One thing, though, you cannot do
Is preserve it in alcohol!

Mr. Campbell has written a whole book of poetry and philosophical wisecracks and it is going like housefire.

IT seems that our eagle-eyed reporters in New York failed to keep in sufficient touch with Miss Greta Garbo, the movie actress, when she sailed away on her Swedish vacation.

On the same boat was the maestro of music, Leopold Stokowski, though he boarded the ship stealthily and Miss Garbo had announced that she was sailing from Boston, instead of New York.

Well, it appears that not only did Garbo see New York unmolested, but the night before her boat went, she rode by train to Philadelphia, taxied to the symphony hall and from a concealed box above, listened to the concert that Stokowski conducted. Only the musicians could spy her from the pit.

That night, Garbo and Stokowski are said to have made their tryst aboard the departing vessel. Anyway, this is the first time anyone has heard of it.

Haw!

ANNOUNCEMENTS on the screen of a local theater to the effect that one Charles Boyer (pronounced "Boy-yay") is soon to mumble through a fillum here recall to The Plainsman a couple of thoughts he has harbored for some time.

In the first place, the government in its never ceasing search for extra taxes might well apply an extra squeeze to foreigners who haunt our shores for the huge sums they can glean, and then run back to their homeland with their "take."

And in the second place, it is about time for the government to set up additional tax structures aimed at our rich nationals who marry foreigners, adopt the homelands of their husbands and thus prepare to avoid inheritance and other taxes which fall to other Americans.

* * *

In case you've never stopped to consider it, this fellow "Boy-yay" is only one of a horde of foreign actors who, in the past few years, have come over here to make their killings.

It is a rare picture now-adays which does not star one or more importations whose lines in the show cannot be understood by the audience. It's a fad among the Hollywood picture "smarts" to adopt the theory that common, ordinary, run-of-the-mine American men and women can't act, but that every English-murdering yahoo whoever took part in an amateur show across the waters is a second Bernhardt or a second John Drew.

* * *

AS to this other group we've mentioned, it's high time we, in this country, make it impossible for such people as the "Countess" Reventlow, nee Barbara Hutton, the ten-cent queen, to get around their natural responsibility to the nation and its people who are responsible for their fortunes.

Just the other day one of the heirs to the Manville fortune, who married a Dutchman, renounced her American citizenship and chased off to Europe where she can get by better with her $8,000,000 fortune.

And there will be others, too, if the bars are not put in place.

* * *

The Plainsman would like to see a little personal attention given the foreign entertainers—and the prize fighters, like Nazi Schmeling who runs home to Hitler with his money after every American fight—as well as to some of our weak-kneed nationals who think more of dollars and European froth and foam than of their blood ties to this nation.

If the people who belong here, and who stay here and daily do their bit to keep things going, have anything coming to them, it is a better deal than that given those who simply sponge on the country.

Those with suburbs to make a total of a million are Cleveland, Boston, St. Louis, San Francisco and probably Baltimore . . . CAST OF CHARACTERS

CONSTANCE CORBY — heroine; richest girl in the world.

BRET HARDESTY—hero; bridge builder.

RODNEY BRANDON — Connie's fiance.

KATIE BLYN — Connie's "double."

• • •

Yesterday: Interested in the engaging young man at her side, Connie consents to dine with him at the next town. Her adventure is under way; Bret tells her he would like to have her see his country.

CHAPTER VII

He looked at her, coming back to the present again. "I believe you would," he spoke slowly. "Look here," deep color stained his dark face, "don't get me wrong — I can see you prefer people to mind their own business, not ask questions — I won't do that. But if you aren't going anywhere special, what I mean is, if you're up against it, I'd like to help you out."

Connie said, "That's kind of you—but I don't need help, really." It was the first time in her experience that anyone had ever offered to help her. It made a warm glow spread all through her; it made her feel as though she had found a friend.

"Well, I didn't know . . . besides you never can tell." He dug in the pocket of his tweed coat, pulled out a card. Before he handed it to her he wrote something across the back. "Keep this. Just in case," he urged.

She thanked him; put the card in her purse.

"Reckon we'd better be getting back," he suggested. "And thank you ever so much, Miss Blyn — I beg your pardon!" He gave her a low, elegant bow. "Miss Corby. I should have said. Thank you for dining with me. I enjoyed it."

"I enjoyed it, too," she told him. "But don't let's pretend anymore."

She did not want him to call her by her real name.

"I don't believe you want to be that rich girl, after all," he chided.

No, Connie thought, after the people had piled into their places and once more the wheels were turning round and round, humming their rhythmic song, she did not want to be herself, not until she was forced to again. Gone was that empty feeling; she no longer was sick of everything tired of life. Why, it was gorgeous, just to be alive! It was heavenly to feel so peaceful, so content, to watch the blue sky darkening into black, the tiny lights flickering on in the houses and villages as they sped by, the first star come out to blink solemnly down at her. This was the most beautiful time of all the day; an hour with an ache in it, a loveliness almost unbearable. Yet she did not feel lonely, or sad. It was true, what the young man had said, she was happy, really happy for the first time that she could recall.

After a time she closed her eyes once more, having adjusted the deep comfortable chair to its reclining position, for this was the only bed the coach provided for its passengers during the long night.

Connie had thought she would be too excited to sleep, perhaps too uncomfortable, remembering the luxury of the wide Marie Antoinette bed. But before there could have been time to count many sheep, or to fuss about comfort, she had been lulled to a sleep so sound it was untroubled by any dreams. She must have slept thus for several hours. Then she was awakened to a sense of confusion, a new stiffness in arms and limbs.

The bus had stopped. Two men, one a rough looking, coarse individual, the other scarcely more than a boy, whom she remembered as having been sitting in the back near the mother with the baby, had whipped revolvers from their pockets. The boy had pressed his against the driver's back, the man's was leveled at the occupants in the coach.

A woman screamed; a man swore. Bret Hardesty started to his feet, his dark face flushing, his fists clenched.

"Sit down, you!" The muzzle of the one revolver was trained threateningly at his chest. "Another sound out of anyone, one move — and I'll fill the bunch of you with lead." The gunman looked capable of doing just that.

"Please sit down!" Connie tugged at Bret Hardesty's coat. Her blue eyes entreated him. He sank back in his seat, but his face was still flushed, his dark eyes narrowed.

"Everybody stand up," the man ordered, now. "As you file out, hand over your money—or take what we give you and like it!"

Connie obeyed with the rest. "Don't do anything, please!" she managed to whisper with a pleading desperation to her newly-found friend. Shee had a feeling that Bret Hardesty was not going to empty his pockets without protest even though he faced a dozen revolvers.

She was right about that. She had no sooner parted with her roll of bills than she heard a thud behind her. Bret had knocked the revolver out of the fellow's hand, reaching across the driver's shoulder to switch off the lights at the same time. Now they rolled and fought in the aisle.

There were screams from the frightened women, three shots rang out. Then the slim figure of the boy could be seen taking to his heels.

• • •

"Bret, Bret . . . are you hurt?" Without realizing she called him by name. Scarcely knowing what she was doing, Connie tried to feel ahead into that inky blackness from which still came the sound of those two bodies pummeling and struggling.

Then there was silence.

"I'm all . . . okay." Bret's slow drawl came as though nothing had happened, except some loss of breath. "T-turn on . . . switch. I've got . . . this one."

Connie managed to find the switch, wondering how she did, her fingers were trembling so. The passengers, relieved and smiling, began to file back in, bursting into voluble chatter as people will after a tense unusual strain.

The driver came forward with a piece of stout rope with which to bind the bandit's hands. He was a sorry-looking bandit now, all the bravado knocked completely out of him.

"Better empty his pockets and give back what he took before we turn him over to the police at the next town," Bret said.

"I'm not sure about regulations as to that," the driver objected. He started to investigate the man's pockets. Then uttered a shout. "Humph! The money's gone. Nothing to hand back!"

"My partner . . . he musta swiped it," the fellow muttered sullenly, when Bret gave him a sharp shake, demanding to know what had become of it.

"A swell partner!" Bret commented. He suggested they had better get started. "Maybe they can pick up the other fellow, too; he acted like an inexperienced kid."

"You're not hurt, are you?" Connie asked anxiously, after the excitement had died down and they were on their way again.

His thick dark hair was rumpled, his shirt torn open at the neck; there was a faint purple shadow spreading around one eye, but aside from that Bret Hardesty still looked intact.

"Not a scratch," he said, smilingly. Then with his serious look again. "But it's you I'm worrying about. Now you will have to let me help you!"

He thought she had lost everything she had. But there was the ring and the brooch and the pearls safely hidden in the imitation leather bag. Still, she need not tell him about them.

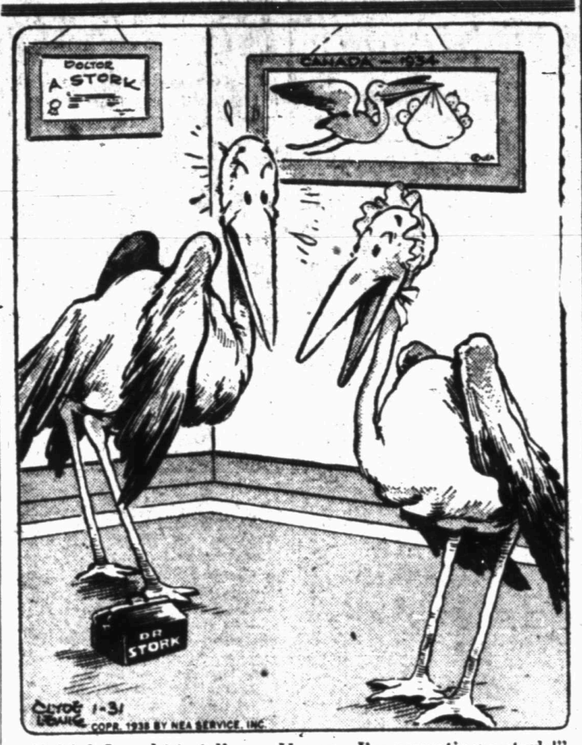

"I guess I will," she said.

That purple shadow was most becoming she decided. It lent him a rakish look that rendered him decidedly handsome. She had never met such a man.

It seemed quite ridiculous—and unnecessary—now that she had met him to think of losing him again.

TEXAS GETS BUSY ON A BIG JOB

An Associated Press survey, first results of which were released Sunday, brings the cheering news that Texas is entering into the spirit of highway safety campaigns on a scale the state never has seen before.

Other cities of the state have been sufficiently horrified by the annual blood tribute to traffic carelessness that at last they seem to be determined to do something about it. In that determination, The Journal is pleased to observe that Lubbock has started 1938 in stride with the remainder of the state.

The mass meeting at which Chief L. G. Phares of the state highway patrol is to speak Wednesday night is merely one—although very important—of the several activities already set in motion here for the new year. Another, of vastly more importance if the effort is sustained, is the attempt to make school children, themselves, an active part of the drive.

Numerous other Texas cities are doing as much or more than Lubbock to promote the cause of highway safety. That in an indication that they have been aroused to the tragedy of the problem. And if they are aroused and if they continue their efforts, it means that scores of men, women and children in Texas will be alive and whole at the end of the year instead of filling graves, as will be the case if conditions continue as they have in the past.

A Thought . .

And they spake unto him saying, If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants forever. — II Chronicles 10:7.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31. — About the only thing that Bob Hope hasn't done is win a prize in a male beauty contest. He possesses, by his own admission, "a nose like an old bicycle seat."

This spatulate beezer is so similar in contour to the nose of Beatrice Lillie that the two distinguished comedians have been mistaken for brother and sister. Also, each has a jutting jaw.

The main reason Hope remained on the stage so long was that in early movie tests his chin came on the screen ten seconds before he got there.

Once Hope appeared in a so-called comedy short. It was so bad, he confided to a newspaperman, that if John Dillinger ever were caught he should be made to sit through it twice.

The reporter printed the crack and the movie company notified Hope that it would not be needing his services for any more pictures.

He still considers his remark the most fortunate one of his career. A few more shorts like that one and he would have been back in Cleveland jerking sodas.

• • •

Films Well Despite Beezer

Cinematographers are so skillful now, in the use of lighting and angles, that the camera no longer magnifies the Hope chin or emphasizes the swoop of the Hope nose.

"On the screen," he admitted, "I look pretty good. The best I dared hope for, when I came to Paramount, was that the make-over department might give me something of the Vic McLaglen charm."

All of the foregoing tends toward an unflattering impression of Mr. Hope's appearance. Actually, however, the ensemble effect of his features—especially with a grin—is so pleasing that Hollywood rates him the most important addition in years to the field of light, romantic comedy.

He already has worked in "The Big Broadcast of 1938" and "College Swing," neither of which has been released. And he has been scheduled and mentioned for so many feature pictures that he couldn't possibly make half of them.

Has Tried Everything

Whether you recall him or not, you've probably seen Bob Hope at one time or another. He has played almost everywhere in vaudeville—in blackface, singles, teams, dance acts, in carnivals as a barker, in night clubs as master of ceremonies, and with the Siamese Twins and the late Fatty Arbucle.

He got his start as a funnyman by trying to deliver a serious speech at a church social in Cleveland.

His lines were appropriately dignified but his method of delivery sent his audience into howls.

Between jobs of jerking sodas, selling shoes, working in a butcher shop and climbing telephone poles, Hope sang and danced in small Ohio theaters. Then he tried dentistry at Western Reserve University, but after burrowing among the bicuspids he decided to be a pugilist.

As an amateur jaw-breaker he was doing all right until he ran into a solid young native named Johnny Risko. Before the third round had ended Hope realized that acting would be a more enjoyable career.

• • •

Ad-Libbing Ballyhooer

His vaudeville experience included a three-year contract on the Orpheum time and a brief Broadway appearance in a flop musical, "Sidewalks of New York."

All this time, Hope had considered himself a dancer as well as a monologist, until he hit Newcastle, Pa., and as a favor to the manager went out between acts to talk up the following week's bill.

His ad-libbed ballyhoo drew laughter and applause, and later the orchestra leader told him he was a fool for wasting his talents on a dance-and-patter act.

• • •

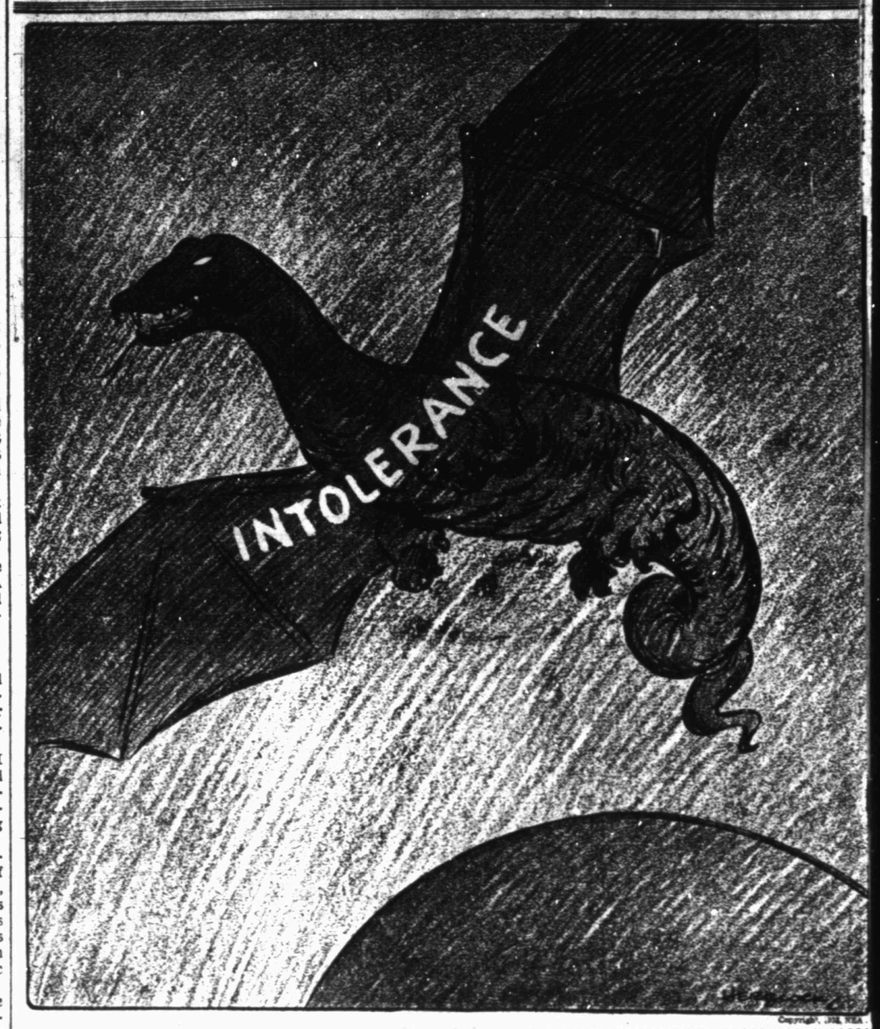

Sauve Humor

That was the turning point. His extemperaneous and clean comedy soon won important attention.

He went into "Ballyhoo" on Broadway, then "Roberta." In the latter musical one of his jobs was leading an orchestra, and one of his saxophone tooters, at $60 a week, was Fred MacMurray.

Then came "Red, Hot and Blue," radio, and Hollywood. Hope does an adagio with Shirley Ross in "The Broadcast," but essentially he is a specialist in smooth comedy—suavity and assurance. Lots of movie-makers are kicking themselves for not luring him out here long ago.

Round-The-World Flight

Price Of Steel And Bob Jackson's Political Ambitions Rolled Into One Big Package

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The question whether the price of steel can be made to go down without an accompanying reduction in wages of steel workers has become a crucial issue inside the New Deal.

Rodney Dutcher

The anti-monopoly crusaders have that as their aim, and believe that the answer will determine whether their recent campaign has meant anything or not. The situation is no end involved in a maze of pressures and counterpressures, both in Washington and in the higher councils of industry and labor. But no matter how involved it may be, it's something to watch.

The issue has been tossed to the New Dealers by President Benjamin F. Fairless of the U. S. Steel corporation, who has said:

"It is clear that prices cannot be reduced without a corresponding reduction in costs, of which wages are the most important part."

This followed appearance of Tom Lamont, member of the Morgan firm, and John L. Lewis, generalissimo of organized steel workers, at the White House. Lewis is supposed to have joined in a warning that agitation against high steel prices drove off buyers, who believed prices might drop. Lamont is supposed to have said that prices might be cut cautiously if enough demand could be stimulated.

New Dealers shooting at steel prices insist those prices are way out of line; that the industry "priced itself out of the market"; that steel labor represents only 22.9 per cent of the finished product.

Lewis, meanwhile, is seeking to negotiate a renewal of his union contract with U. S. Steel which will involves no wage cut.

There will be more to report on this steel situation when some of the numerous big shots involved in it begin to get themselves disentangled from current confusion and uncertainty.

• • •

Team Of Steel And Jackson

The price of steel, you may be sure, is definitely involved in the political future of Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson. It is he who has led the administration's furious charge on monopoly and monopoly prices and it is he who would get the credit for the first big break in the "enemy" lines.

Jackson, ablest figure in the New Deal ranks—according to Roosevelt, other New Dealers and many sideline observers—has been built up by his friends and supporters—including F. D. R.—as the 1938 candidate for governor of New York, a key-post in the forthcoming elections. Not to mention his appointment as solicitor general.

Naturally he became an out-in-front target for the united fire and undercover work of numerous other unannounced candidates and the politicians who support their aspirations.

As the report spread about that he also was Roosevelt's choice to succeed himself in the White House, the lineup against him became even stronger, since there are many conservatives sworn to fight any effort by Roosevelt to influence nomination of his successor. (The presidential report is based only on Roosevelt's friendship for Jackson and his desire to see him become New York's governor.)

• • •

Needs The Victory

The New York political situation is so scrambled by numerous complications that it is difficult to tell just where Jackson stands in the scrambling. He has suddenly become an outstanding figure in state politics, and Roosevelt's endorsement is the strongest single factor of strength any New Yorker can have.

But the anti-Jacksonite strategy is to insist that acceptance of him as a gubernatorial candidate has been apathetic. That's why a "Jackson victory" in the form of a steel price cut (but without any accompanying wage cut, mind you) would be a clarifying boost for Bob Jackson.

If you want to know whether Roosevelt still "means" his monopoly crusade, just watch his appointment of a successor to take charge of anti-trust cases.

Strange Malady At Malone Diagnosed As Malignant Flu

MALONE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dr. Richard N. Besko , Hill county health officer, today said the malady which has stricken three persons fatally and sickened nine others here has been diagnosed as malignant influenza.

The "mysterious" ailment which struck here three weeks ago, he said, seemed to be similar to influenza which ravaged great sections of the country during the World war. The situation here, however, was not alarming.

Patients stricken here were reported "doing satisfactorily" in a Waco hospital.

Rumania suffered the greatest average loss in the World War, 44.76 per cent of her men under arms.

While a newspaper is a marvel of mechanical efficiency, there are limits to what can be done by a given force of printers, stereotypers and pressmen in a short crowded period of stress.

There is plenty of time to give every advertiser good service when copy is in a day ahead of publication. Copy for large advertisements must be in the hands of printers two or three days in advance of publication, depending on size.

Visitors to the mechanical department are invited so that the process of handling advertisements may be thoroughly understood and the mechanical problems be realized fully.

Your cooperation will be appreciated greatly by the entire staff of The Avalanche-Journal.

Cannery Is To Be Discussed

Preliminary discussion which likely will lead to the establishment of a cannery in or near Lubbock to provide another marketing outlet for vegetables grown on the South Plains is scheduled at a meeting of Lubbock County Irrigation association in the 72nd district courtroom at the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to R. L. Burdette, instructor in vocational agriculture at Senior and Junior High schools. Robert H. Bean is president of the association.

Speaker of the occasion will be W. E. Nelson of Dallas, official of the C. and J. Manufacturing company, described by Burdette as being operator of the largest canneries in the south.

To Discuss Methods

He will discuss the producing, canning, packing and shipping of vegetables and will explain how the government assists in financing if the farmers decide to build on a cooperative basis, officials of the association here were advised.

Information to Burdette, he said, is that the government will supply 60 per cent of the financing of such projects, with the farmers paying the additional 40 per cent.

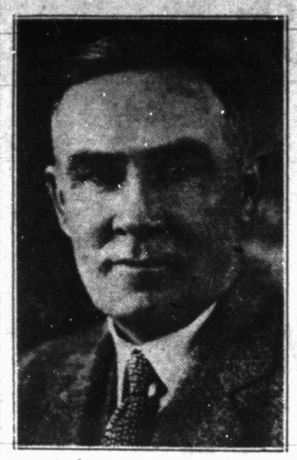

The cannery project, Burdette continued, is sought for several reasons, all of which will tend to benefit the South Plains. The establishment of a cannery, he explained, will tend to increase the acreage planted in such things as tomatoes, carrots and other vegetables because the surplus of production which cannot be sold immediately can be canned. Thus the farmer will provide himself another escape from the uncertainties of all-cotton and all-grain sorghum crops and will supplement even in good years the incomes from those sources.

"The South Plains," said Burdette, "is one of the finest vegetable growing areas in the United States. Carrots grown here are the equal of those anywhere. The same is true of tomatoes which have the further advantage of coming on the market when the east has only one other source of supply—from Ohio. Other crops likewise can be grown to advantage."

He extended an invitation to any farmers interested in the undertaking to attend the meeting.

America produces approximately 316,000,000 pounds of toilet soaps annually.

Business Increases

Business during 1937 for the Lubbock district office of the Southland Life Insurance Co., showed a substantial increase, said Neil H. Wright, district agent for 13 counties on the South Plains. Increase in business for 1937 over the previous year exceeded $100,000, he added.

The company has in force insurance between $4,000,000 and $4,500,000, with about $3,000,000 in Lubbock county. The company maintains a $20,000,000 legal reserve on policies, the Dec. 31 statement shows, with insurance in force exceeding $118,000,000.

Wright has been a resident of Lubbock since 1917. He was given the second agency contract of the company in 1909. The agency here is one of the largest in the state.

Monthly Court Of Honor To Be Staged At Hale Center

Approximately 50 Boy Scouts are scheduled for advancement at the monthly court of honor for north-central district to be held at Hale Center tonight, according to report here this morning by Lyndon T. Grant, assistant executive for South Plains council.

H. B. Earthman of Plainview will preside. Troops participating are from Hale Center, Plainview, Olton and Abernathy.

In Lubbock, district committeemen are to meet at the home of Earl M. McClure, 2115 Twenty-sixth street, at 6:20 o'clock tonight to discuss plans for 1938 activities.

The sole industry of the Anarctic region is whaling.

rolls and provide a comfortable bankroll, but only because Jimmy had the will and the ability to make an unparalleled comeback.

Hauled out of oblivion as "fodder" for Corn Griffin, a 1934 heavyweight contender, he won the fight on a three-round knockout and went on to make himself a heavyweight title contender. He was given a title shot against Max Baer, a 10 to 1 favorite, and lifted the crown right off Maxie's head. That put him into the big money again and he collected a lot more when he lost to Louis after Gould had "shopped around" in a dizzy succession of maneuvers to get the most lucrative bout.

The fans aren't likely to forget that comeback nor his latest to whip Farr after he had again been tabbed as "all through." They may remember, too, that he was wise enough to retire while Promoter Joe Jacobs was trying his hardest to sign him up for a return bout with Farr which might have brought him a lot more money and perhaps another fling at the title.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

Stay-At-Home

CRESSON, Pa. — It's a small world for John Hayden McGuire, 92.

His entire life has been spent in an area five miles from this community, and he's steadfastly refused to enter an automobile.

"I've had no use for motors since the time when a boy, I almost lost a leg in a saw mill," he says. "Maybe that's why I've lived this long.

Compliment

DUNN, N. C. — A farmer was charged with driving a wagon while intoxicated, but that wasn't exactly Patrolman J. F. Bradshaw's version of it.

"The mule was leading him along the road," said Bradshaw. "In fact, the mule was the brains of the outfit."

The farmer was convicted.

Service Always

PORTLAND, Ore. — Con Celsa, grocery clerk, usually closes at 11 p. m. but stayed overtime for these two customers.

One pulled a heavy automatic. Celsa made the sale—and the customer paid $3.

Animal Hazard

ROOSEVELT, Utah. — Arelane Murray's pet kitchen shot him. Arelane, 4, was climbing a ladder. The kitten followed and stepped on the trigger of an air rifle leaning against the ladder. A BB shot penetrated Arelane's cheek and broke a tooth.

Family Sport

OHIOWA, Neb. — Coach Raymond Jenkins thinks he really has something in the way of a basketball team.

His first high school team includes Hurley, Barnscmlegl, Rasmussen, Bahe and Schelbetzki. And the second team lists exactly the same names.

In other words he has four sets of brothers and a set of cousins.

SPUR H. S. CONCERT

SPUR, (Special)—The Spur school band, with Director Fielder in charge, will give a concert in the East Ward school auditorium, Tuesday night. William Gruben will play a trombone solo.

NEW SUDAN DOCTOR

SUDAN, (Special)—Dr. T. A. Moore, formerly of Muleshoe, has opened an office in the Sudan Drug store. He was for three years on the staff of the state hospital at Wichita Falls.

An electric power shovel with a dipper that gouges out nearly 24 tons of earth in one bite is used in the open-pit mining of coal in the state of Illinois.
