Wichita To Provide Own Relief For Drouth-Stricken Farmers Of County

QUESTION MARK COMPLETES WESTWARD FLIGHT

J. T. HARRELL SELECTED TO LEAD PROGRAM

Business Men to Provide Stock Feed and Seed For New Crops

FEDERAL AID SLOW

Irrigated Valley's Big Feed Crop May Find Use At Home

Wichita county will go ahead immediately with plans to provide its own relief for drouth-stricken farmers while awaiting a decision on the petition to the federal government for aid over this section, according to a decision reached Tuesday afternoon at a joint meeting of farmers and business men from all sections of the county held in the county courtroom at the courthouse here.

The possibility that federal aid would come too late to alleviate conditions created by the drouth and in time to allow farmers to plant fall feed crops was given as the reason that Wichita county itself should handle the problem of its farmers and offer them immediate assistance by providing the financial aid necessary and furnishing them seed for fall planting in order that they might carry their livestock through the winter months with sufficient feed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—Gov. W. J. Holloway in a telegram from Washington today advised the Associated Press the government "has today allocated and made available $150,000 to Oklahoma for immediate use for loans for seed for fall crops and winter pastures." The governor and members of his drouth relief committee were in Washington seeking federal aid for Oklahoma drouth sufferers.

The immediate assistance necessary would be provided through an organization to which business men and all persons interested and able would contribute, for the purpose of extending credit to farmers who have insufficient or no collateral to offer for loans and to provide seed for fall planting. The organization, which would take the form of a corporation, would be composed entirely of local citizens and business men over the county. The proposal met with instantaneous approval from all at the meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Harrell Named Chairman

J. T. Harrell, who first suggested the idea of asking federal aid was of little value to the farmers of this section who are in need of immediate assistance, and who presented the proposal for formation of a local corporation to offer drouth relief through local capital, was named chairman of a committee of five which he is to select

Three Injured As Dallas Block Burns

DALLAS, Sept. 2. (AP)—Two firemen and a traffic officer were injured and damage estimated at more than $250,000 was caused tonight by a fire which originated in the plant of the Lingo Lumber company in Oak Cliff, a Dallas suburb, and swept an entire block before it was brought under control.

Buildings consumed by the fire in addition to the lumber yard were an A. & P. grocery store, the Western States Grocery company, the Beckley bakery and Oak Cliff Pharmacy No. 4.

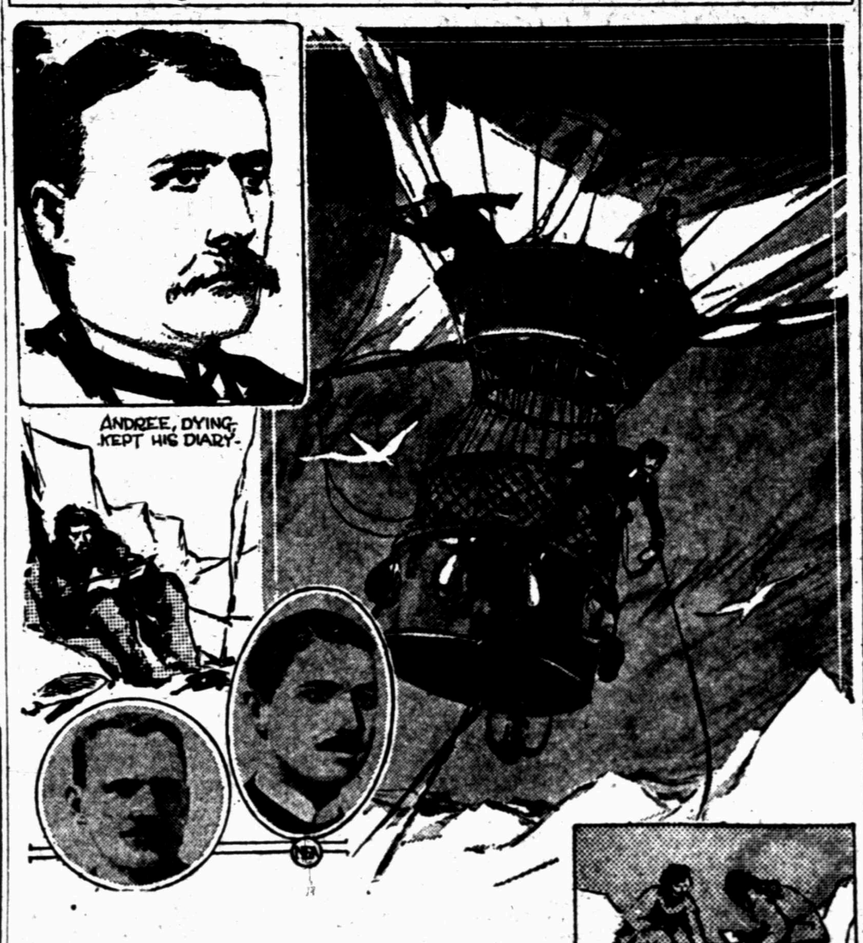

A general alarm was given and fire fighting crews quickly laid lines of hose to every available water main in the vicinity.

The burning lumber yard gave a spectacular aspect to the conflagration and thousands of Dallas citizens gathered to the scene, congesting traffic and adding to the difficulties of firemen.

ANOTHER ONE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 2. (UP)—Dale "Red" Jackson, world's champion endurance flier, announced today that he would make a non-stop flight between the 48 state capitals of the nation next summer.

Fragile Craft Which Bore Explorers to Icy Death

This striking sketch, drawn by Staff Artist Joe King from an old photograph, shows the start of the ill-fated balloon expedition of Major Andree and his two daring companions in 1897. Observe the peculiar construction of the double basket and the sail, with which it was planned to direct the balloon's course. Above is sketch of Andree; below, his two companions, Knut Frankel, left, and Nils Strindberg.

FALL KILLS DEVOL YOUTH

Boy Pitches From Truck On Highway Here

J. V. Alford, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Alford of Devol, Okla., died at a Wichita Falls hospital Tuesday afternoon of injuries suffered earlier in the day at Burkburnett when he fell from a truck belonging to the R. E. Stewart Trucking company. A large sack of 2-inch connections fell upon him, according to reports of the accident.

Alford and a companion, Gay Watkins, had started for Wichita Falls in search of work when the end gate of the truck opened. Alford fell to the pavement, suffering a fractured skull and other injuries.

The boy's body was removed from the hospital here, where he was brought after treatment in Burkburnett, and taken to the Owens Undertaking parlors in Burkburnett Tuesday afternoon. Later the body was taken overland to the home in Devol, where funeral services were tentatively set for Wednesday afternoon, with burial to follow in the Devol cemetery. Definite arrangements were not made Tuesday night.

Surviving, additional to his parents, are three sisters, Anna Mae, Geneva and Willie Mae Alford, and a brother, W. F. Alford, all of Devol; and two half brothers, J. G. McElhaney of Devol and A. C. McElhaney of Chickasha, Okla.

Bodies of Air Vikings Reclaimed By Proud Norwegian Villagers

Remains of Ill-Fated Arctic Expedition Laid in State in Tiny Tromsoe Hospital

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2. (AP)—The remains of Salomon August Andree, famous Swedish explorer, and his colleague, Nils Strindberg, tonight were resting in the little Tromsoe hospital—back in civilization again after their 33-year sleep in the arctic ice of White island.

They were back again in the surroundings which they fought so bravely to reach after disaster overtook the balloon in which they and a third man, Knute Frankel, were trying to fly across the hitherto undiscovered north pole and left them to battle for life amidst the drifting ice and the cold of the farthest north.

These vikings of the air failed in their effort to get back home, and they are continuing the sleep which began before the memory of today's younger generation, but their spirits are alive in this tiny capital of the arctic which knew them in the flesh.

Villagers Proud

There is no mourning in Tromsoe. There is a longing for the handclasp of old friends, but Tromsoe's hardy folk, who wage constant warfare against the dangers of the frozen north, are proud of that indomitable courage which is symbolized by the relics resting in the hospital.

The sealer Bratvaag came steaming slowly into the harbor this forenoon, her flag at half mast, and bearing on her oaken deck the freight which Dr. Gunnar Horn had dug from the ice of White island early in August.

While it had been hoped the heroic remains in Tromsoe hospital represented all three of the Andree expedition, scientists said the bones found in the bottom of Andree's boat were those of a polar bear and not of Frankel.

Tromsoe is proud that the explorers have returned. Whispered tributes were paid tonight to Andree by youngsters, long for the time when they will be old enough to follow in the footsteps of their seafaring fathers and challenge the polar ice.

Throng View Bier

Aged men, their faces stamped with the indelible bronze of the arctic, paced the cobbled streets today with heads held high and the gleam of adventure showing in dimming eyes. Many of them knew Andree personally.

Some, indeed, accompanied him to Spitzbergen, whence he set out

Robber's Nitro Threat Proves to Be Hoax

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Grasping a cigaret case which he said was filled with nitroglycerin, Walter J. French, 31, threatened to hurl it to the floor of the First National bank today unless an employe turned over $10,000 to him. The employe darted from his desk, called a bank guard, and French was overpowered. The cigaret case was empty.

GOLFERS FACE TESTS TODAY

Four Real Matches Promised at Country Club

Four real golf matches are promised the gallery at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club Wednesday as the quarter finals get under way in the third annual invitation tournament.

I. R. Sheldon, medalist, meets P. B. Metcalfe, San Angelo, challenger in the first match of the championship flight. L. T. (Bobby) Burns will play J. H. S. Bonner. Both of these local golfers are well known for their ability to deliver under tournament conditions.

Morris Norton, Wichita Falls youthful flash, clashes with another youngster, Keanon Haley, former caddy, in a match that should be featured by brilliant and daring playing. Haley was going strong Tuesday, eliminating James Norris of Fort Worth 9 and 8 and E. W. Marriott of Electra 2 and 1.

The fourth match sees L. S. (City) Walker, veteran star from the Quanah links who twice captured the Green Belt title encounter Bob Alexander, another old timer from Munday.

Few Close Matches

The first day of match play produced few close battles. There were several exceptions, however. John Thomas showed his ability as a money player in losing one and winning another by a margin of

Murder Charges Follow Gun Battle

ALTUS, Okla., Sept. 2. (AP)—Complaints charging Ernest Jackson, Vernon L. Robsion and George H. Robsion with the murder of Elmer Carter, Jackson county deputy sheriff, who was killed in a gun fight near Altus Friday night, were filed today by Ross Rutherford, county attorney.

Because the condition of George Robsion, in a Frederick hospital suffering from gun shot wounds in the fight, the preliminary hearing in county court probably will not be held for about 10 days.

HEARST FINDS SANCTUARY ON BRITISH ISLES

Noted American Publisher Expelled by French Government

PRINTED 'SECRETS'

Expose of Treaty Blamed For Ouster Of American

LONDON, Sept. 2. (UP)—William Randolph Hearst, American newspaper publisher expelled from France yesterday, sat in a hotel here today and said that the French had politely requested him to leave because of his part in the publication in his papers of an alleged "secret" Anglo-French treaty in 1928.

Hearst arrived in London last night. He left Paris within an hour after an expulsion order was served on him at a fashionable hotel in Paris.

Published Treaty

It was recalled that in 1928, Hearst accepted full responsibility for obtaining copies of what were purported to be drafts of an alleged Franco-British reciprocal naval and military accord.

Harold Horan, a Hearst correspondent in Paris, got the copies, and was ejected from France for his part in the incident. Hearst at the time, however, declared he was responsible, and that he had ordered Horan to get the documents and cable them to his papers in the United States.

"French officials said I was an enemy of France and a danger in their midst. They made me feel quite important. They said I could stay a little longer if I desired—that they would take a chance nothing disastrous would happen to the republic.

Hearst not Disturbed

"But I told them I did not want to take the responsibility of endangering the great French nation; that the United States saved it once during the war, and I would save it again by leaving."

Hearst explained the reason for the "strained relations" between himself and France, "to use," he said, "the diplomatic expression."

"It is all due to the publication of the secret Anglo-French, treaty two years ago by Hearst newspapers," he said, "which upset some international 'apple carts,' but informed the American people, and of course that being the reason, the French government is entirely right in levelling its attack against me—and quite wrong in its action towards Horan, who was only my agent."

FRENCH TELL REASON FOR EXPULSION

PARIS, Sept. 2. (AP)—French officials announced today that William Randolph Hearst, American publisher, had been expelled from France because one of his agents obtained and published a secret document relative to Franco-British naval negotiations in 1928.

Brakeman Killed Under Locomotive

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Sept. 2.—Albert Hopkins, 35, brakeman on the Katy for 15 years, was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon when he fell beneath a freight engine at Burk spur, between Tipton and Frederick. His leg and left arm were severed from the body. The train crew was engaged in making a flying switch at the time of the accident, according to Roy Rhodes, Wichita Falls, who witnessed the tragedy.

Funeral services will be held at Woodward Wednesday afternoon. Survivors include a widow and two children, his parents at Forgan, Okla.; two sisters, Mrs. Mable Lane of Perryton, Texas, and Mrs. Harry Richardson, Kansas City; and a brother, Joe Hopkins of Wynoka.

Musicians Protest Anti-Noise Ordinance

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 2. (UP) An anti-noise ordinance that opponents charged would restrict even church music, was killed in its third reading today when representatives of local music dealers protested. A committee was appointed to draft a more lenient bill.

Gallant Plane Lands At New York Field To Set New Transatlantic Air Record

CURTISS AIRPORT, Valley Stream, N. Y., Sept. 2. (UP)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte set down their biplane, Question Mark, at this field today after achieving a feat that hitherto had defied every challenger—a non-stop flight from Paris to New York.

The record-breaking craft with its record-breaking French crew rolled to a stop at 6:13 p. m. eastern standard time, 37 hours and 18 minutes after it had soared aloft from Le Bourget to dare the perils of a North Atlantic crossing.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who first blazed the aerial trail between the two cities, made the distance in 33 hours, 29 minutes. But his was a "downhill" flight—because of the favorable winds on a voyage eastward.

Coste landed his plane into a southwest wind as skillfully as he had piloted it through the barometiric and magnetic danger spots which had brought other airmen to disaster or a forced stop short of their goal.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (UP)—Dieudonne Coste announced tonight that he and Maurice Bellonte would take off Thursday morning for Dallas, Texas, in their transatlantic plane, Question Mark, to seek the $25,000 offered for Paris-Dallas flight.

Coste said it would be a non-stop flight, in compliance with the conditions set by Col. William E. Easterwood, Dallas millionaire donor of the prize.

A crowd of 5,000 was on hand to witness the end of the daring adventure.

The scarlet plane, with its short under-wing and giant spreading upper-wing, was in the lead of a large squadron of escorting navy craft. It appeared so suddenly from a dark cloud that an involuntary cheer arose.

Thousands Cheer as Ship Circles

Lazily, the plane circled the field thrice as automobile horns and sirens shrieked their welcome above the din of human voices.

The escorting squadron dropped even further behind as the Question Mark maneuvered for a landing. It dropped down on its three points, then taxied slowly about a motor car containing field officials and rolled toward the naval hangars.

Meanwhile the crowd tried its best to break through the lines and was restrained with difficulty by 100 policemen.

At last the machine came to a rest. Compatriots of the two fliers, here from New York and Washington, were among the first to reach the plane.

Coste and Bellonte, all smiles, looked from the little window at the advancing welcomers. Then they climbed over the side of the fuselage a little stiff, more than a little tired, but at the end of a glorious journey.

It was a Gallic holiday. The widely excited French hoisted their own to shoulders and marched triumphantly to a hangar in which waited many other admirers eager for a chance to cry their congratulations.

Lindbergh Defers His Greeting

Colonel Lindbergh, who knew better than any other man what this was like, sat on the hangar top, smiling broadly, but waiting for the first outburst to subside before he went forward to greet his fellow fliers.

Meanwhile the third member of the heroic triumvirate—the plane—was taken to guest quarters by mechanics and at last was beneath a roof. The white question mark standing out boldly and proudly from the dark red body had been answered—affirmatively.

Rene Recovert, Coste's American manager, was first to address him.

"Felicitation," he said in French, "comment ca va?" (How's everything?)

Coste pointed to his ears still encased in a flying helmet and shook his head to indicate that he could not hear a word. The incessant drone of a motor frequently has a slightly deafening effect.

Then, with a series of line plunges that would have carried over a touchdown on any gridiron, Lindbergh and the policemen made a passage to the hangar where the colonel rejoined his wife.

After the brief broadcast Coste and Bellonte went to the roof and stood bowing and smiling appreciation of the bi-lingual chorus of cheers. "Attaboys" mingled with the "vivas."

Coste's flying costume was augmented by a peach-colored sweater and a blue silk neckerchief. Bellonte's sweater had a zig-zag design of the most modernistic pattern.

This phase of the reception completed, the fliers were escorted to a sound-movie room for further photography a la American. The crowd resented the disappearance of the pair and set up such a cry of discontent that authorities herded Coste and Bellonte into a darkened room with Lindbergh and dispatched two decoys in pilots' attire to automobiles. The cars drove off with a police escort and the shrieking sirens caused many of the throng to scurry after.

When with the aid of this ruse the excitement had somewhat abated, Coste was interviewed.

Tells of Battling High Winds

"The worst weather we had after leaving was just beyond Ireland," he said.

"After leaving the Irish coast, we ran into dirty weather and had to fly higher than we had wished. Later we came down to a low pressure area where we found a tail wind. It took us about 37 hours to get here and I estimate roughly that we flew 6,500 kilometers (approximately 4,030 miles)."

Then on a piece of stationery, he drew a little map of his route. On it he pointed out the area off the coast of Ireland where they first encountered dirty weather.

"In the center here"—he pointed to a spot in mid-Atlantic—"we had the worst weather right here. It was also smudgy over Halifax. But the flight was uneventful. The motor behaved perfectly."

The interview was given entirely in French and translated as he spoke. Bellonte was content to stand by and chat in whispers with some of his compatriots who were fortunate enough to get into the room.

After the decoy had been sent out, and before the crowd was aware it had been fooled, the police smuggled the real fliers and Lindbergh into other machines, and they were quietly whirled out of the grounds towards New York.

The urge for sleep overcame Coste and Bellonte tonight before they could receive reporters and describe in detail their non-stop flight from Paris to New York.

The two French airmen, deservedly weary from their 37 hours and

TWO KILLED AS ITALIANS AND SLAVS CLASH

Rugged Istrian Peninsula In Arms Following Border Battle

FRONTIER GUARDED

Military Leaders Charge Agitators Leading Attack on Italy

TRIESTE, Italy, Sept. 2. (UP)—The whole Istrian peninsula as far as Fiume was aroused tonight as a result of a clash near the Jugoslav frontier between the Italian frontier guards and members of a Slovene secret society.

Two men were killed—One on each side—reports of the fighting said, and another wounded. News of the clash spread through the rugged countryside and hereditary prejudices were fanned to fury.

Bloodhounds on Trail

The Slavs were said here to be secret agents of a Jugoslav society. The patrol reported they found binoculars, maps and other documents on the body of the slain man.

Bloodhounds were set on the trail of the man who fled into the hills. The San Canziano is famous for its rugged terrain. One of the largest caves in existence is located in that area, where a man could hide indefinitely.

Hatred, always intense along the frontier zone, rose to a high pitch as details of the clash spread through the provinces.

The whole frontier Italian police force was called out to maintain the strictest vigilance. The territory is among the wildest regions in Italy.

Italian authorities were proceeding on the theory that the two Slavs belonged to a party which slipped over the line in order to establish connection with agitators during the trial of a group of Jugoslav Nationalists, proceeding at Trieste.

The trial of the socalled Slovene terrorists was resumed at Trieste today, before a special military tribunal. Seven high officers of the National militia acted as judges.

Nationalists on Trial

Assaults and attempted murders were among the 90 crimes charged against the prisoners. They were charged with agitating along the Italian frontier in an effort to maintain hatred among these border peoples against Italy.

The crimes were alleged to have been committed during the last four years. The local press in Trieste describes the trial as "historic," and declares that during the hearing evidence will appear of an anti-Italian campaign "with its origin abroad."

Certain elements long have agitated against Italian control of this territory along the Jugoslav frontier, and hatreds run high as a result of a feeling among the Slovenes that they have been cheated out of the triple kingdom of the Serbs, the Croats and the Slovenes, as a result of world war settlements.

Former Ambassador And Wife Seriously Ill

PARIS, Sept. 2. (UP)—Former United States Ambassador Hugh C. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace both are seriously ill at the Hotel de Paris, in Monte Carlo, it was learned today.

They are under the constant care of physicians.

Wallace, who is 67 was born at Lexington, Mo. His residence is Washington, D. C., but he maintains a winter home at Tacoma, Wash.

America Takes Balloon Trophy As Van Orman Outlasts Competitors

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 2. (UP)—Ward T. van Orman, veteran American balloonist, appeared to be the winner of another James Gordon Bennett international balloon race tonight when it was reported that his bag, the Goodyear VIII, had descended near Canton, Mass., a distance estimated unofficially at about 550 miles from Cleveland, where the races started late Monday.

Van Orman's five competitors all had landed before he did, and the runner-up for honors was the Belgica, entered by Belgium, which landed late today near Adams, Mass., a distance of about 450 miles from Cleveland.

The Gordon Bennett trophy and a cash prize of $1,000 go to the entry which travels farthest from Cleveland.

Standing next to the Belgica in distance covered is the German bag, Barmsa, reported to have been forced down at Pittsfield, Mass., late today.

The City of Detroit, after crossing 375 miles, landed on the west bank of the Hudson river 15 miles south of Albany late this afternoon.

America's third entry in the race, the City of Cleveland, came down at Copenhagen, N. Y., 320 miles from the starting point, late today. The French balloon, Pierre Fishbach, landed shortly after noon at Beamsville, Ont., having covered approximately 200 miles.

FAMOUS FLIER REACHES GOAL

18 minutes aloft, were driven from Curtiss airport at Valley Stream to the Ritz Towers hotel.

They found awaiting them a miniature edition of the crowd that had thronged the field on their arrival. Five hundred persons swarmed the hotel entrance and cheered lustily when the fliers' car, with motorcycle police escort, drew up.

Police cleared the way for Coste and Bellonte and the two went at once to their suite on the seventh floor. Word was sent that interviewers would be admitted within a half hour.

Soon after, however, one of the hotel managers appeared and announced rather sheepishly that there would be no interview tonight.

"They went to bed at once and are already sound asleep," he said.

It was recalled Coste had had only four hours' sleep in the 24 hours preceding the take-off from Le Bourget and Bellonte but two. That meant an average of three hours' sleep apiece over the last 61 hours.

DALLAS OFFERS $25,000 PURSE

DALLAS, Sept. 2. (UP)—Dieudonne Coste and his fellow aviator, Maurice Bellonte, can win a $25,000 reward offered by Col. William E. Easterwood, Dallas millionaire, if they complete a non-stop flight from New York to Dallas.

Coste and Bellonte must leave New York and start the flight within 24 hours, however.

George J. Smith, Snyder, Texas, publisher said tonight the $25,000 had been deposited in a Dallas bank by Colonel Easterwood as a prize for such a flight.

Colonel Easterwood, now in Europe, was reported to have negotiated with Coste and Bellonte and to have completed a contract whereby the two French fliers agreed to fly on to Dallas.

PARIS GOES WILD WITH JOY

PARIS, Sept. 2 (UP)—Paris went wild tonight as word was flashed that Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte had landed their red Question Mark plane at Curtiss airport on Long Island.

A throng of 150,000 persons gathered at the Place de la Concorde since early in the evening when meager reports of the progress of the daring fliers were broadcast by loud speakers, began a tremendous celebration.

Six loud-speakers shrieked the hoarse message. A great roar went up from thousands of throats, wild with joy. The success of the brave aviators was a success to each Frenchman.

Proud Wife Weeps

Mrs. Bellonte burst into tears of joy on learning of the safe arrival of the Question Mark in New York. She clutched her baby daughter and smiling through her tears, cried:

"Do you know what got them across? It was really Maurice's old army kit-bag. It's his mascot.

"On every flight he has made he has carried it, and he always has succeeded. It is his only superstition, and now it is finally justified."

The wife of the flier added that there was some discussion about a return flight over the Atlantic, but nothing was definite.

Mrs. Coste Serene

Mrs. Coste smiled when she learned they had landed. She had had a sleepless vigil in their apartment facing Eiffel tower, but she smiled happily, the same confident smile as before the start at Le Bourget, yesterday morning.

"I never had the slightest doubt," she said calmly, to the United Press. "If you knew my husband, you would know why. He has nerves of steel. When he makes a decision, he always fulfils it.

"Before the start, he told me: 'Tomorrow night, I shall be in New York.'

"He estimated he could make it in 35 to 36 hours, and you know how near he was. That's the Lindbergh touch," she added with a happy laugh.

Over the mantelpiece in the Coste apartment a photograph of Mrs. Coste's father, a Russian, was placed. He was executed by the Bolsheviks during the Russian revolution.

COSTE GREW UP WITH AVIATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (UP)—Dieudonne Coste, the adventurous Gascon, has spent as he nears the age of 37 so many hours in the air that he long ago ceased counting them.

He has piloted a combat plane and sent German antagonists tumbling earthward toward certain death; he has flown the five continents; he has spanned the South Atlantic from Senegal to Brazil; he has set records for continuous flight.

Yet today's was his crowning achievement. A non-stop flight from Paris to New York—frequently attempted but never successful—has been for years his most absorbing ambition. Even before Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew the same route eastward Coste had considered a challenge to the fogs and the uncertain winds of the North Atlantic.

Bided His Time

Coste's pioneer spirit—perhaps an inheritance from the Vascones who forged a path across the Pyranees to settle in the province from which he sprang—is blended with an ability to plan an undertaking in elaborate detail. Not for him a foolhardy encounter with the unknown—rather, painstaking preparation to eliminate all useless hazards.

Thus it was that he kept the Question Mark in its hangar for months until such time as the weather would be favorable—or at least more favorable than usual—for the westward flight. He knew that the delay brought some criticism even from his staunchest admirers but he was adamant.

And just as he prevailed against those who would have sent him away too soon so did he conquer those who did not want him to go at all. Among the latter were influential men in the French government. Once indeed a ban on ocean flying was promulgated but Coste's determination to try—and his quiet confidence that he would succeed—caused its removal.

Left School Early

Coste was born on Nov. 4, 1893, in the Gascony village of Caussade. When he was 5 years old his family moved to Touloss and there he received his primary schooling. At the age of 14 he entered an engineering school but left, in 1909, for practical experience in metal foundries.

Aviation then was young, as was Coste, and the new science attracted him. He attended the Blerlot school for pilots, received his license after two and a half months and made his first flight in the year when Lindbergh was only 10 years old.

At the end of the war Coste had a record of 817 hours aloft, boasted 11 citations and had received credit for nine official victories. He clung to aviation and became first a commercial pilot and then a test pilot.

Among Coste's subsequent flights were the following:

On Oct. 28, 1926, he flew with Captain Rognot from Paris to Djack, Siberia, a new record for distance.

Brilliant Air Record

On Oct. 10, 1927, he flew with Joseph le Brix from St. Louis, Senegal, to Natal, Brazil. The two then toured South America and the United States in their plane, the Nungesser-Coli, named after two countrymen who lost their lives in an attempt to cross the Atlantic. After travelling to Japan by boat Coste and Lebrix flew from Tokio to Paris in six days.

On July 12, 1929 Coste and Bellonte left Paris for New York by way of the Azores. Encountering storms through which they could make little headway they turned about and landed safely.

Sets New Record

On Sept. 23, 1929, Coste and Bellonte regained the distance record, flying 4,949 miles from Paris to Tsitsikar, Manchuria.

On Dec. 27, 1929, Coste and Paul Codos set a non-refueling record for sustained flight over a closed course. The plane was in the air for 58 hours and 38 minutes.

Coste is married to a Georgian princess who has but recently become a motion picture actress.

Bellonte is 34 years old and, as has been seen above, has been Coste's companion on a number of long distance flights. [illegible] as a navigator he is also a skillful pilot. His one accident, [illegible] he escaped without serious injury, came when with the pilot, Henri Delisle, he crashed while flying over the English channel.

Bellonte is married to an English girl he met at Croydon airport near London. They have one child.

HOOVER LEADS CONGRATULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—The highest officials of the nation, led by President Hoover, tonight joined in the acclaim of the French fliers, Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, after they completed their ocean-spanning flight in New York.

"I join with the people of the nation in rejoicing over the brilliant exploit of your distinguished aviators in successfully completing for the first time in history a non-stop flight from France to the United States," President Hoover said in a telegram to President Doumergue of France.

"France has established a glorious record," the chief executive added. "I hope that in the [illegible] many others of your citizens will come to us in this manner.

"I extend to your excellency and to the people of France my heartiest congratulations."

Two cabinet members, Secretaries Adams and Lamont, and ranking officers of the army and navy sent their congratulations to the French airmen, while the acting secretary of state, Green H. Hackworth, not only dispatched a personal cablegram to Coste, but also instructed Ambassador Edge in Paris to extend to the minister for foreign affairs the congratulations of the United States government on the "magnificent flight."

Secretary Lamont said the successful achievement of the flight was not founded upon good fortune but was due to the exhaustive preparations the fliers made. Informed that Coste and Bellonte had landed, F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aeronautics, extended compliments on behalf of the army air corps.

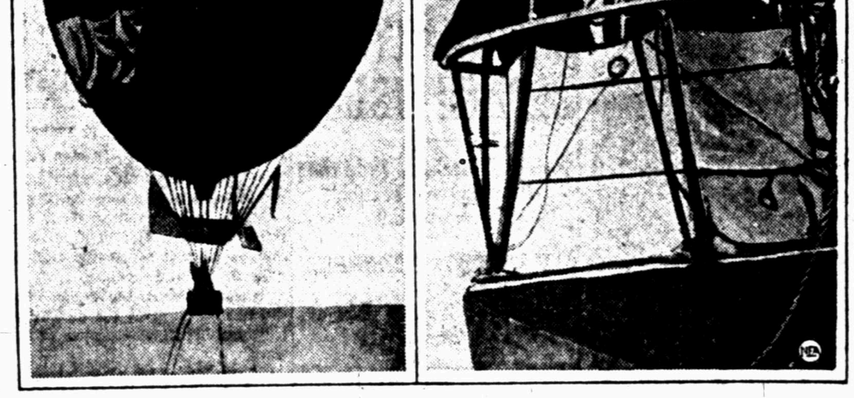

Air Chief Enthusiastic

Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, U. S. N., chief of the bureau of aeronautics, termed the first East to West flight across the Atlantic "a milestone in aviation." It proves he said, that the work is progressing in the comparatively new art of the air.

Major General James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, expressed a hope that the flight "may prove to be the forerunner of commercial lines between these two countries, whose relations have always been so amiable."

Ice Bound Relics Tell Of Andree's Tragic Fate

Hopeless Struggle Revealed By Explorer's Findings

in his balloon in an attempt to fly over that mysterious spot which long has lured the aventurous and until a few years ago eluded them.

As soon as science has done what it can with the bodies, these God-fearing people of Tromsoe will gather in their church for a memorial service to honor the intrepid trio. Then the remains will be carried back to Sweden, there to find a final resting place.

LEADER DESCRIBES DISCOVERIES

ABOARD MOTOR SHIP BRATVAGG, Skjaer Island, Norway, Sept. 2.—It was quite still and there was a burning sun as we came to land on White Island, the most unapproachable in the whole Spitzbergen region. Fortunately some of the stranded icebergs showed us where most of the dangerous projections were located.

The skipper dropped anchor and members of the expedition went ashore. These were the botanist, Olaf Hanssen, the zoologist, Adolf Sorenson, and myself as leader of the expedition.

On our way into the beach we saw a school of walrus playing about in the sea, and the outlook for a good catch helped to put us in a good humor.

We landed and were soon on our way inland across the naked island. On it were mountains of granite and Gneis. Between them were stretches of gravel and sand. Only a shallow little lake broke the tediousness of the landscape. Brown moss made a little spot of color here and there, otherwise vegetation was very sparse. There were the usual polar flowers about.

Weather Brilliant

We worked through the evening in the northwest part of the flat land, and went on board again in the early morning.

On Aug. 6 we had the same marvelous weather, with brilliant sunshine and a cloudless sky. The ocean was like a mirror, and on many jutting peninsulas round about were stranded icebergs.

White island's great ice peak rose majestically from the low coast land, everywhere reigned an intense silence. Just once in a while we could hear the noise of ice breaking away from parent icebergs and splashing into the sea.

In truth there was a great white silence everywhere, and it was deathlike stillness. The noise of the falling ice emphasized the depth of the silence.

In the morning the Bratvaag's two hunting boats, under the leadership of the shooters old Mykelbust and Severin Skjelten, went out to harpoon walruses, ultimately Skjelten and the harpooners Karl Tusvik, Olaf Salen, John Almstad, and Sigutd Mykelbust, went ashore to skin their catch.

Salen and Tusvik went to search for drinking water and discovered a little stream.

Mound Gives Clue

Beside the stream, they found a mound of snow that was rather dark and did not resemble the ordinary snow hill. They went over to it at once and saw a boat sticking up from the snow.

In the boat they caught sight of the point of a boatswain's hook, with a name engraved on it. The two men at once ron back to Skjelten and told him about their find, showing him the hook.

On it was engraved "Andree's Polar Expedition, 1896." Skjelten, Almstad and Mykelbust then went to the mound, and in the boat they further found a book, which they took with them to the beach.

At this moment the Bratvaag's motor boat with Skipper Eliassen and Assistant Mechanic Ekornassvaag aboard, arrived to help the hunters with their walrus catch.

Eliassen was immediately informed about the discovery and he went on alone to investigate it further.

Against the wall of a neighboring mountain, he found a body leaning against the mountain slope with its feet half buried in snow.

Records Found

Eliassen realized at once that this must be the remains of the Andree expedition. He immediately returned to the Bratvaag, where I was. He showed me the book and I saw immediately that it was the Andree expedition's observation book, containing records of their sledge journey after they left the balloon.

We took different implements on board the motor boat, and then all the expedition's members went ashore to try as best we could to dig everything out and then transport it on board.

It was with strange feelings that we stood on the beach where the brave Andree and his men 33 years ago ended their last polar wandering. In deep silence we went up toward the camp, which only too plainly showed us what had happened.

There lay the boat, half buried in snow, with its nose pointing inland. Alongside it lay a sledge. The top of the sledge was level with the ice. On the snow a few yards away was a piece of black and red cloth, with crude squares cut in for windows—perhaps a part of a tent.

Leader's Body Discovered

And under the wall of the mountain was Andree himself.

We recognized him only by the monogram on his jacket. He was leaning against the mountain slope a few yards northeast of the boat. He had worn-out arctic shoes on his feet, but otherwise was well clothed.

Beside him lay a gun and an oil stove. There was oil in the stove, and when we pumped it, the oil came out in a fine spray and gas came out of a vent on the side. The apparatus was quite in good order.

In Andree's inner pocket was his diary, but only a few pages appeared to have been written on. We also found in his pocket his pencil and pedometer.

Between two mounds of earth a short distance away from Andree's body we found a little later another member of the expedition, who had apparently been laid there by one of the others.

The body was half covered with small stones. It was "frozen down" and very hard to get up.

We also found in the boat some remains of bones, but we have not been able to decide whether they are human bones. Some other articles were found at different places in the camp and carefully gathered up.

Boat Freed

After we got the dead loose and transported down to the beach, we began the difficult job of getting the boat free. It lay slightly on its side, so that the right side was quite buried. The other side protruded and was half destroyed.

We put Andree's boat on one of the boat decks, and thus after 24 hours of labor our work was finally finished.

As soon as the find was made, our walrus hunt was stopped and digging hastily begun. It is, therefore, possible that the work was not done so scrupulously and neatly as might have been desired. But taking conditions into consideration, I can say that everything was done that could possibly be to get the work performed thoroughly and conscientiously.

On a visit later in the year possibly so much of the ice would be melted that the work would be easier.

The camp was not very far from the beach and was visible from there. Ordinarily one wouldn't pay much attention to a dark mound in the distance.

It was only after our attention had been called to a tin can on the beach that we began to look around and caught sight of the camp.

Tragedy Recounted

It looked as though the boat had been drawn up from the beach, and as the camp lay in the eastern part of this naked island there is reason to believe that members of the expedition came to White island on its north side and from there went down along the east coast until they got to Bare Clear land.

After a heavy march over the ice from 83 degrees north, they certainly could not have had very much strength left. They probably died of exhaustion, especially since at the time of the year they came to the island, sometime in September, it can be pretty cold there.

The reason why they did not go to Northeast land (the northernmost part of the Spitzenbergen group from which Andree set out), which would perhaps have been just as short as the trip to White island might have been because they were continually forced eastward by open water and many openings in the ice.

When the ice began to form at the beginning of August they would not have been able to go out in their miserable canvas boat for fear of ripping its covering.

When they first caught sight of White island's tall white peak, they must have been filled with new courage, and by summoning all their strength sought land.

For us whose fate it is to find and bring home one of the great pioneers of polar exploration, it has been an occasion of pomp and impressiveness that will never be erased from our memory.

LEGION HEARS BODENHAMER

New State Commander To Be Named Today

AUSTIN, Sept. 2. (AP)—Climaxed by an address by O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, and the annual parade of ex-service men, delegates to the annual convention of the Texas department of the American Legion tonight prepared to wind up their business tomorrow with the election of officers, selection of the 1931 convention city and selection of delegates to the national convention in Boston.

Commander Bodenhamer directed most of his address to the problems of rehabilitation and Americanization as related to the program of the American Legion. He also reviewed the fight made by the Legion for the passage of a universal draft act which would empower the government to levy on the wealth of land as well as on manpower. Bodenhamer laid particular stress on the progress made by the Legion in its campaign for better hospitalization for disabled veterans.

2,000 Parade

Approximately 2,000 Legionnaires and members of the women's auxiliary participated in the parade. Numerous drum and bugle corps and bands and floats added to the spectacle. A detachment of infantry and a troop of cavalry of the Texas National guard participated.

Legionnaires this morning heard addresses by Josh Lee, head of the public speaking department of the University of Oklahoma, and United States Senator Morris Sheppard of Texarkana and brief talks by past department commanders.

Lee warned the Legionnaires that unless the "profit is taken from wars" the country always will be engaged in conflicts. He stated the underlying cause of all wars was economics and the lust for money and power, as exemplified by great industrial captains. "If industry wants war, let it pay for it," Lee said and drew a hearty round of cheers from the Legionnaires.

Senator Sheppard confined most of his address to a discussion of the unemployment situation and the ills of industry and farming. He declared one of the means of promoting American prosperity was to increase individual ownership of homes and industry and urged that workmen be made part owners in the business in which they were employed.

Urges World Peace

Sheppard also exhorted the Legion to rededicate itself to world peace and stated that unless the United States joined in the movement, it would be a menace to itself and the world.

As the convention drew to a close, the race for the department commandership grew hotter. Hal Brennan of Laredo and Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth were leading aspirants for the office.

Five cities were battling for selection as the 1931 convention city, El Paso, Corpus Christi, Mineral Wells, Abilene and Waco seeking the meeting.

Chest Board Asks Economy

J. F. O'Donohoe Selected As President

With visions of the unprecedented distress among the needy and unemployed of Wichita Falls, the fact that conditions will be worse during the winter and the announcement that next year's chest fund will have to be used as security in borrowing money to pay for groceries already used this year as principal factors in the matters brought up for discussion, the first regular fall session of the Community chest directors was held Tuesday morning in the directors room of the City National bank building.

John F. O'Donohoe was elected president of the chest in an election held at the meeting. Other officers named, all of whom will take office with the specific instruction to cut down on expenses, include: Lester Jones, vice president; C. E. Basham, treasurer; W. S. Abbott, vice treasurer.

The executive committee will be composed of Mr. O'Donohoe, Mr. Basham, Mr. Jones, A. E. Kelly, H. A. Gray Jr., Walter D. Cline, W. E. McBroom, J. S. Bridwell, J. T. Harrell, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, the mayor, the city manager, the county judge, the president of the chamber of commerce, the chairman of the budget, endorsement and campaign committee, the finance committee and the nominating committee of the chest, the chairmen of the boards of directors of each participating agency, and one representative each from the Federated Missionary society, the Woman's Forum, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, Optimist club, Lions club, Ministerial alliance, American Legion, Trades council, Wichita County Medical society, Wichita County Bar association, Spanish-American veterans and the Advertising club.

The nominating committee was named as follows: H. A. Gray Jr., chairman; J. T. Harrell and Mrs. C. R. Hartsook. The finance committee is headed by A. E. Kelly as chairman, with Jacob B. Price, J. M. Williams, A. M. Miller and W. E. McBroom.

The budget, endorsement and campaign committee, whose authority exceeds even that of the chest directors, will be headed by Walter D. Cline and A. E. Kelly with the following rotating members: Three years, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, Mrs. C. R. Hartsook, J. B. Marlow, N. M. Clifford, H. A. Gray Jr.; two years, Miss Maude Thomas, P. B. Roberts, W. M. McGregor and Orville Bullington; one year, Joe Art, Mrs. William L. Maloney, Lester Jones, W. E. McBroom, and Will Daniel. All except the three-year members were elected by previous boards.

A recommendation that the Children's Aid society and the Family Relief society be consolidated will go to the budget, endorsement and campaign committee for final action. The finance committee was authorized at the meeting to borrow money to pay August bills not to exceed $3,500, with the future 1931 chest fund as security. It was pointed out that quarterly statements for $9,312 were mailed out Aug. 15 and that only $2,800 was paid in, just enough to pay back the money borrowed to pay the chest's July bills.

NOTED FLIER HERE TODAY

Byrd's Companion to Give Luncheon Address

Wichita Falls will hear a first-hand account of the dramatic story of the Byrd expedition to the South Polar regions Wednesday when Capt. Alton N. Parker, who accompanied Commander Richard Byrd on his trip to the north pole and was a member of the south pole expedition which returned recently to the United States, appears as principal speaker at the luncheon of the Optimist club at the Kemp hotel, it was announced Tuesday.

Captain Parker will arrive here Wednesday morning in a Western Air Express plane from Los Angeles, having left the Pacific coast Tuesday morning en route to Jackson, Miss. The flier is chief pilot of the Western Air lines. He will leave here for Jackson where, on Friday, Sept. 5, the entire state of Mississippi will celebrate "Mississippi-Parker day." The captain is the only native of that state who accompanied Byrd on his polar expeditions. His address at the Optimist club here Wednesday will be broadcast by remote control over KGKO, beginning at 12:45 o'clock.

At the celebration in Jackson Friday, Captain Parker will be presented with a special medal and will be given the rank of colonel in the aviation section of the Mississippi national guard.

Fire Destroys Home Of Wichita Falls Man

Flames of undetermined origin destroyed the home of J. C. Scott at 2514 Kemp boulevard shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with resultant loss estimated by officials of the fire department at $2,500. The fire spread rapidly from the home to the garage and before fire apparatus arrived after a belated alarm, both buildings were enveloped in flames. Firemen said no one was at home at the time of the blaze and that the fire had gained considerable headway before neighbors discovered it and turned in the alarm. Nothing was saved from the home.

DeMolay Members to Assume Posts in City Government Today

A change in plans originally announced for the administration of the oath of office on the 36 members of Hope chapter, Order of DeMolay, who will take over the various offices of the city government Wednesday for a 24-hour period was made Tuesday night and the ceremony in which the young men will take office will be held at the Memorial auditorium at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, a half hour before they assume their duties for the day.

The ceremony was originally announced for Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple. Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., City Manager George D. Feltrace and other dignitaries of the municipal government will be present Wednesday morning at the ceremony, which will consist of brief administration of the oath of office and the well wishes of the various city officials as the boys embark on their first experience at running a city.

The following officers and members of Hope chapter will fill the city's offices: Phillip Kouri, mayor; Odell Ballew, city manager; Henry Anderson, city treasurer; Lillard Jackson, corporation court judge; John Cole, captain of the traffic police department; Daryl Daniel, police desk sergeant; George Napier, chief of police; Edward Napier, city attorney; Dick Long, city tax collector; Clarence Witherspoon, city clerk; Eddie Abussie, city park superintendent; Harry Pappas, head of the city health department; Edgar Cullin, city street superintendent; Edward Tschabold, traffic superintendent; Lionel Ewing, manager of the city water department; Bill Box, fire chief; Joe Hancock, motorcycle squad captain; Abe Marantz and Joe Hancock, motorcycle officers; Ray Miller Thompson, Joe Sheppard, Frank Thomas, Sidney Perryman, Hamlin Rugeley, Elmer Parris, Bill McKinley, Pat Borouff, Stafford Helms, and William Morton, plainclothes officers; and Guy Ashby, James Earle Gray, Bob Crocker, Presley Lomax, Ira Lee Richardson, Clarence Ashton and Kenneth Wagoner, traffic officers.

Dallas Gets Into Action For Welcoming French Air Heroes

DALLAS, Sept. 2. (AP)—This North Texas city was astir tonight with preparations for receiving Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, first conquerors of the Paris-New York air trail, as the news flashed from New York that they planned to take off Thursday for Dallas.

Col. W. E. Easterwood, Dallas millionaire, has posted a $25,000 prize in France for the Paris-New York-Dallas flight and it is this prize which the French transatlantic pilots seek here. The colonel is now in Europe.

Mike R. Fewell, aviation secretary of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, talked by long-distance telephone tonight with George Smith of Snyder, Texas, who is representing Colonel Easterwood in the matter. He said the French fliers would have to take off from New York within 24 hours of their arrival, to comply with conditions of the award, and since the Frenchmen reached New York today they would, under that condition, have to leave there tomorrow.

An escort party of planes was being recruited tonight to meet the French fliers and accompany them to the Dallas airport. Reception committees were being arranged and a large police detail was planned to be stationed at Love field, the municipal field, to hold back the crowd.

Police Seek Robbers Of Two Shops Here

Police here are conducting an investigation into the robbery of safes in two Wichita Falls stores from which about $50 was taken Saturday or Sunday, it was revealed Tuesday at police headquarters.

Between $40 and 50 was taken from the safe at the Liberty cleaners, 805 Brook avenue, and about $4 from the Wichita Falls Radio Supply company, next door to the cleaning establishment. Officers said the outer doors of each safe were open. The robbers forced a window to gain entrance into the cleaning plant but apparently used a pass key to get into the radio store.

Pilot Drowned as Plane Crashes in Exhibition

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 2. (AP)—Caught by the wind as they swept around a marker on the Canadian national exhibition course, Capt. Charles Sutton, Toronto, was drowned tonight and his mechanic, Claude Mills, also of Toronto, was injured when their Royal Canadian air force plane crashed into Lake Ontario.

AD CLUB PROGRAM

Numbers by the Pitts Fiddle band featured the luncheon of the Advertising club Tuesday at noon. The program was broadcast over KGKO by remote control. Lester Jones had charge of the program.

Realtors Told Value Of Junior College

Loss of the Junior college here would be one of the greatest calamities that could befall the city, R. B. Staton, president of the Real Estate board, told members of the organization at the luncheon Tuesday. Aside from the school's service to residents of the city "there are dozens of families that have moved here to send their children to Junior college and they would probably move away if we lost the school," Mr. Staton declared.

Mr. Staton's talk was made following one by W. W. Brown, secretary of the board of education, who told of some of the problems facing the college here. Tuition at the school cannot be reasonably increased above the $135 now charged Mr. Brown said, and funds are insufficient for the operation of the school. Prospects for a bond issue for the support of the institution are very poor at present, Mr. Brown declared.

J. N. Prothro, J. B. Marlow and J. C. Mytinger have been appointed to represent the Real Estate board in work with the board of education.

Bowie Residents Predict Reorganization of Bank

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, Sept. 2.—Efforts to reorganize the City National bank of Bowie, which failed to open its doors for business today, will probably be made within the next few weeks, leading residents of Bowie said today. The bank did not open its doors this morning, a sign on the door stating that it had been closed by order of its board of directors and placed in the hands of the national bank examiners.

While officials of the institution refused to make any further comment on its affairs tonight, it was understood that the difficulties of the bank were of a temporary nature brought about by drouth conditions in the territory.

CHANGES URGED FOR TREASURY

Methods and Personnel Under Fire

AUSTIN, Sept. 2. (AP)—Reorganization of the personnel and methods of the state treasury was recommended today by Moore Lynn, state auditor, in a report of 115 pages filed with Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer.

The report found that several provisions of the law had not been complied with; that the methods of bookkeeping were not modern and that the treasurer's staff was larger than necessary. The audit did not deal with state funds but was limited to personnel and methods.

Many of the facts brought out in Lynn's survey of all state departments made to the last legislature which led to a legislative investigation into the conduct of the offices of comptroller and treasurer, were re-covered in greater detail. The report was written by W. F. Carter Jr., first assistant state auditor.

Violations Found

A number of provisions of the law which had not been complied with were enumerated. Carter pointed out the three he believed the most important.

First, the warrants paid register of general, special and pension funds was not being kept and had not been kept. This ledger should, under the law, show a record of warrants paid each day.

Second, a monthly list should be made to the state comptroller of all outstanding warrants. This law was passed in 1909, but it has not been adhered to, the reports said.

Finally, the pay warrants issued have never been posted since there is no ledger in which to post them.

Attention was called to the fact that two University of Texas students were employed as night watchmen and furnished cots in the treasurer's office upon which to sleep. Carter's report recommended that one night watchman be employed and instructed to stay awake all night.

Reduction Urged

Hatcher, when he was before the investigating committee, pointed out that the infractions found by the auditor were initiated before his administration and that he had merely followed the methods of his predecessors.

The report recommended that the working force be reduced to 14. There were, when the survey was made, 23 employes, of whom 17 had been provided by the budget.

It was found that bookkeeping was done largely by hand, and the report recommended that machine methods be installed.

The report was the first of the reports on departmental organization which will be filed on all state departments as fast as surveys are completed. Carter is working on the comptroller's department, but said it probably could not be completed before two months.

Hardeman 4-H Club Leader Resigns Post

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 2.—Miss Zetha D. McInnis, county home demonstration agent for Hardeman county has resigned to accept a position with the state Agricultural and Mechanical college. Her resignation was accepted by the county commissioners who decided no successor would be employed at the present time.

Miss McInnis is the first home demonstration agent ever to work in Hardeman county and during her term of service of something over one year she has enrolled hundreds of farm women and girls in club work, and these clubs have prepared thousands of cans of fruits and vegetables and meats for home consumption and for sale.

Officers Charged In Young Mother's Death

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 2. (INS)—Charges of murder today were preferred against Sheriff's Deputies T. H. Sullivan and C. C. Lane following the death of Mrs. Thelma Wooten, 24-year-old mother, who was fatally wounded by the officers four days ago.

Mrs. Wooten was shot when the officers fired into the automobile in which she was riding near here in the belief that the car was conveying liquor. No liquor was found in the automobile, the officers said.

The deputies were arrested soon after the shooting and were held in jail pending the outcome of the woman's condition. When she died this morning, murder charges were lodged against the men at once.

Explorer Loses Plea For Naturalization

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 2. (AP)—Bernt Balchen, pilot of Byrd antarctic expedition, was refused second papers in federal naturalization court today. The court held his absence a year in Antarctica canceled the five-year continuous residence period required.

Soldier Gives and Takes Own Orders

Private A. E. Daily is commandant and enlisted man at once at the coast defense post near Aberdeen where he is the only soldier.

ABERDEEN, Wash. (AP)—Private A. E. Daily is a one-man fort.

Besides being commandant of the army post on the sand dunes facing Grays Harbor, south of here, Daily is the staff and entire complement of the post.

Each morning for five months, Private Daily has blown his own reveille, issued his own orders and then carried them out.

Every day he polishes the two disappearing guns built too late for the last war, and never fired since. Then he sweeps up the quarters in which he lives.

The six-inch guns and Daily's quarters are all that are left of the post, built to form a link in the chain of coast defenses and abandoned with the signing of the armistice.

The rest of the fort has crumpled rapidly. Buildings are disintegrating, machinery rusting.

But Daily polishes the guns every day.

BOARD SEEKS DROUTH SURVEY

Freight Cuts Await Outline Of Stricken Areas

AUSTIN, Sept. 2. (AP)—Official definition of what constitutes the drouth stricken areas of Texas was awaited by the state railroad commission today before taking steps toward making effective reduced freight rates on livestock and livestock feed.

Representatives of Texas rail lines telegraphed the commission asking approval of a 33 1-3 per cent reduction in the tariff as an emergency measure for drouth relief, after a meeting in Dallas Saturday, but the commission, while willing to reduce tariffs for the duration of the drouth or as long as needed, cannot issue the tariffs until it learns where the rates should be effective.

The railroad men were advised to inform the commission where the reductions were wished, but no answer had been received today.

The railroads asked reductions on feed and on livestock moving from barren to fertile ranges. It was specified that the rates would not apply on livestock moving to market or feed lots at markets.

How the rates will be made effective has not been worked out. On a previous emergency reduction, one man in each locality in the drouth area, a banker or other substantial citizen, was designated to approve all reduced rates. Cars were billed through at regular rates and after this representative's approval had been obtained by the shipper or receiver, the railroad made the adjustment necessary. This procedure was followed in order that those not in need of relief might not benefit from rates made especially for the drouth sufferers.

Wood Alcohol Blamed For Workers' Death

BROOKFIELD, Ohio, Sept. 2. (INS)—One man was found dead late today and doctors were working frantically over five others, believed to be itinerant workers, all of whom were found unconscious in a New York Central railroad box car near the Sharon Steel Hoop yards.

John Gerlasky, 40, of Masury, was dead when Steve Ylanch, a laborer found the recumbent forms in the box car this afternoon.

Physicians who were attempting to resuscitate the five men expressed the belief that the men had imbibed a quantity of liquor containing wood alcohol.

Quanah Schools To Open Sept. 8

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 2.—All Quanah schools for white children with the exception of the Travis building will begin the 1930-31 term Sept. 8. The Travis building is not quite completed, but will be by the middle or possibly the 20th of the month.

High school students will enroll Saturday, Sept. 6, and the courses have been limited by the department of education to four, except in extreme cases. No affiliated high school will be permitted to enroll more than 10 per cent of its pupils in more than four courses. All students will be required to take physical training unless excused by the city health officer.

Quanah voted $120,000 bond issue to construct new buildings on the site of the Reagan and Travis buildings, and these buildings are about complete.

The negro school building has not yet been completed. No definite date has been set for opening of this school.

C. E. Davis was re-elected superintendent for the tenth term.

School opens soon. Why not rent your bedroom or apartment to teachers or students? A small want ad in The Times and Record News may bring results.—Adv.

BLAST INJURES FOUR CHILDREN

Oklahoma Home Destroyed By Explosion

BRISTOW, Okla., Sept. 2. (AP)—Two children were probably fatally injured and two others seriously hurt early today in an explosion that destroyed the home of Ed Stevens, living on the Thompson lease between Slick and Bristow.

The injured are:

Edgar Stevens, 7, both legs broken and body crushed; Wanda Mae Stevens, 1, skull fractured; Mrs. Jannie Stevens, the mother, bruised and lacerated about the body and head; Mrs. Sall Mare Cumby, Dallas, Texas, sister of Mrs. Stevens, leg broken and lacerated.

Floyd Stevens, another of the children, was blown out of the house but was uninjured.

The explosion is believed to have resulted from accumulated gas under the house. The house and furnishings were demolished.

Stevens and his family had just returned from a vacation when the blast occurred. He was not in the building at the time of the explosion.

U. S. Court to Fix Legal Status Of Back-Seat Driver

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (AP)—The supreme court will have an opportunity this fall to decide whether the automobile "back-seat driver" is legally bound to warn the man at the wheel of impending dangers.

Among the great number of cases piled up during the summer recess of the court is one brought by insurance companies seeking to escape liability for damage in accidents which they believe might have been averted by automobile passengers.

Other peculiar cases are before the court. Among other questions, it will be asked to determine whether death from sunstroke renders an insurance company liable under an accident policy.

Chinese Tong Leaders Agree to Armistice

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (INS)—Under threat of wholesale deportation, representatives of the Chinese tongs agreed to end their warfare after a conference with federal, county and city authorities today.

The treaty includes a provision for a board of arbitration to hear all further controversies between tongs.

This marked the first arbitration clause in peace treaties drawn by tongs.

LABOR LEADER RAPS DRY LAW

Prohibition Is Branded As Failure

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 2. (AP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment was advocated today by President Charles J. Moore in his report made to the 45th annual convention of the Connecticut Federation of Labor.

"Prohibition," he said, "has failed in every Christian civilized community in which it has been tried. It certainly has failed in the United States. Each year we find one million people or more convicted of drunkenness. Temperance among the young has disappeared and the government loses annually in revenue hundreds of millions of dollars. Graft and corruption are rampant among enforcement officers. Crime seems to flourish, and disrespect for all law appears to be growing."

Revival of the brewing industry, he said, would furnish employment for thousands of idle men.

Jesters, Old and New They Praise the King Lon Chaney's Death He Served His Purpose

By EMILE GAUVREAU

In the old days, kings used to have jesters and heralds in their pay. Today, presidents have understanding senators.

The jesters used to amuse the king. The heralds used to cry forth his glory, ranting of victory even when there was nothing but defeat to report. So today when President Hoover looks on a very gloomy year indeed, with business nervous and hesitant and millions out of work, his herald crows of "achievement unequaled by any other administration."

Senator Fess is the jester or trumpet-herald for Mr. Hoover. He will work hard for him. The senator and a few others might point out that a little more concentration about this country and its problems and less about the troubles of the universe in general might make the man on the street feel that the president isn't to blame for anything.

Lon Chaney, motion picture actor, is dead, and millions will talk about him and read every line of his obituary. More important people happened to die all over the world on the day Lon Chaney passed on, but his death was "news" and received greater space and larger headlines. Dr. Eliot, famous educator, who died on the day Valentino gave up the ghost, in the summer of 1926, was lucky to receive a bare mention in some papers. The public is given what it wants in the newspapers.

Do not underestimate the really good motion picture actor. Lon Chaney was one of the top-notchers. The son of deaf and dumb parents, he quit school before he reached the fifth grade. He had courage. He commanded a large salary and the public, satisfied, will say he earned it. Millions who had never heard of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," and who probably thought it was a football picture until they saw it, got a little culture from Lon Chaney. He served his purpose in life.

Mr. Jacob Cash, a former city marshal of New York, who paid a Tammany district leader $2,000 for his job two days after the leader had sold a judgeship for $10,000, was a patriot, it seems. He saw a good racket in patriotism. He organized the United States Patriotic society, founded with the support and approval of racketeering politicians all over the country.

Proud of his child, Mr. Cash was most assiduous in persuading everybody to join and be really "patriotic." Those who become "Cash patriots" and 100 per cent flag wavers enjoyed certain immunities which Mr. Cash, as a city marshal, was able to grant. Those who did not join were looked down upon as reds, slackers, heretics and worse. Their foreclosures by the city marshal had to be legitimate.

The graft taker is no worse than the graft donor, especially where the latter is such a trump patriot. While Mr. Cash was collecting for his "patriotic society," Communists were having their brains bashed out in Union square by the New York police. More "patriotism" of this brand will certainly be welcomed by the Communists.

A reader asks this column if newspapers make heroes. In a sense, yes. The encouragement, backing and, in many cases, origination of a unique flight or discovery by newspapers has made possible many great feats. But once in a while an exploited and unheralded hero comes along, like the determined German, Captain Von Gronau, who flew from Germany to New York purely as an "experiment." As Emerson remarked, to such men the world makes a beaten path.

It's too bad a feller can't be a financial wizard without lookin' like a lizard. King Carol couldn' ever git in a luncheon club if he lived in our town.

Of course those Nebraska City Rotarians were just plain mean when they elected H. L. Mencken an honorary member and then notified him of the good news by telegraph.

"Thank you," said the chiropractor, "I'm feeling spine."

It is only when they are behind a putter that some men feel free to mutter.

"Virtue has always been conceived of as victorious resistance to one's vital desire to do this, that or the other."—James Branch Cabell.

Caution and Rashness

IN SPITE of all of our "safety first" slogans, most of us still retain the warmest glow of our admiration for the chap who can throw caution to the winds and be reckless, unjustifiably brave.

A short time ago three gunmen invaded a rich man's home in an Ohio suburb and tried to rob a party that was in progress there. One of the guests at the party was a young Princeton university senior, Miller Wilkison. He refused to be cowed by the invaders' guns.

Instead he taunted them. "You guys are afraid to shoot—why don't you start something?" he jeered. Then he boldly sprang on one of the robbers and grappled with him. Shots were fired, and young Wilkison was killed.

Oddly enough, most of the writers who have commented on this tragedy have confined themselves chiefly to sage shakings of the head.

"It was a very foolish thing to do. Never resist an armed holdup man. The best thing to do is to submit quietly and thank heaven that you escape with your life"—

That is the way most of the comments run.

It's quite true, of course. Fighting with a gunman when you yourself have no weapon is dangerous business. As a general rule it is much better to let the gunman have what he wants and say nothing. It is considerably better to lose your pocketbook than your life.

All very true. And yet—who can read of this young university student's defiant attack without feeling a quick thrill of admiration for the gallant young man? He was foolish and reckless, no doubt—but aren't that foolishness and that recklessness priceless qualities?

In other words, we still list simple courage as one of the finest qualities a man can have; and it may be that we are right in doing so. The present age does not demand that quality as often as former ages did. Battle, murder and sudden death are not as commonly met with now as they used to be. Most of us can live our lives through without ever once being compelled to choose between ignoble safety and heroic self-sacrifice. It is not as necessary for us to be brave as it was for our ancestors.

Yet the emergency does come, now and then; and when it comes the old standards still hold good. There are occasions when a man has the chance to demonstrate his own nobility by forgetting his own life. This young Miller Wilkison had such a chance and he accepted it—and we honor him for it.

The Motorist's Responsibility

IN A CERTAIN middle western city the police lately have been stopping motorists at random and testing their brakes. The results they have obtained so far have been illuminating. Three out of four cars stopped were found to have defective or improperly adjusted brakes.

It seems fairly obvious that no automobile can operate on a crowded highway with a due regard for public safety unless its driver is able to stop it quickly on a second's notice. Yet here we have the discovery that 75 per cent of all autos lack that essential qualification. It is a disturbing revelation.

Every motorist owes it to himself as well as to his fellow citizens to keep his brakes in good condition. A rapidly moving automobile is a dangerous instrument unless it is under perfect control—and no car is under perfect control when its brakes are faulty.

Yale College Building Program

YALE COLLEGE building program, that is, building actually begun or definitely announced, has a total value of nearly $28,000,000. This is one of the largest ever undertaken by any university. Sons of Yale contributed the building fund. Sons of Texas U. are reminded that there are many millionaires who amassed great fortunes in Texas while bona fide citizens of other commonwealths. Many mighty fortunes have been amassed by the developers of the natural resource wealth of Texas who kept their holdings and their voting certificates in far away states.

Van Lear Black's Fortune

VAN LEAR BLACK was known as the wealthiest man in the state of Maryland. He was a Baltimore publisher and capitalist and a renowned world flyer. He disappeared from his yacht, while cruising and then his story ended. He carried life insurance for $750,000. His will disposed of an estate of many millions. Was it suicide or did the spectacular air globe trotter lose his balance and meet death by drowning? Dead men tell no tales and the secret of his passing will remain a secret until Gabriel blows his horn.

Canada Hits American Tariff Legislation

AND NOW the Canadian minister of national revenue has declared against "dumping of certain American fruits and vegetables in Canada." He announced a set of values for duty of certain produce imported from the United States. And the values, or tariffs, named are to remain in force "until otherwise ordered." A tariff is a two-edged sword. It cuts both ways. If you refuse to buy from a people it is impossible to sell to them.

Plea to Pauline

Perennial proposals I deliver as a swain
(Those speeches which at times you lend an ear to)
Afford you some uneasiness, occasionally pain—
You'd like to tell the reason, but you fear to;
You yearn for tinselled pleasures for the balance of your life,
And for a change seek something else beside books;
You long to face the future as a capitalists wife,
And see the places mentioned in the guide-books.
My claims for your attention are embarrassingly few,
And mention of financial things would hurt you;
I have no mess of what it takes but just the will to do—
A quality that borders on a virtue.
But there is merit in your views, and I am just and fair,
You may be wise to choose with whom you mingle,
So when you finaly select your multimillionaire,
Be sure he has a sister who is single.

—Robert Newcomb.

Bouquet

Among others who should be cheered is Art Landry, whose enjoyable crew of musicians and clowns are delighting Palace audiences, has a mind—and instead of making you ill with the familiar speech, "Gawd bless yez," etc., he has a refreshing talk when his act is done.

We salute him for it, not so much because it is sincerely said, but because it is a relief from the usual. Mr. Landry bows and then remarks: "We all thank you for your applause—which, let me assure you, goes to our hearts—and not to our heads."

A Form of Criticism

One of the better pokes at the Fifth Avenue Bus company and traffic congestion is this which is being swapped by the wags. A man put his wife on a bus which stopped at Forty-second street.

"You get on here, dear," he said, "I'll get on at Forty-third street. I'm just going around the corner to get a haircut."

Heheheh

George Jessel tells about the drunk whose friends tried to make him quit hitting the bottle too much. "Here, now," coaxed Jessel, "drink this milk, it's good for you."

The drunk sipped some of it and spat it out. "Ugh!" he ugh'd, as he made an ugly face, "what are you tryin' to do—poison me? No wonder the cows give it away!"

Of All Answers

Take it from an eyewitness to the scene. Mickey McGuire was dining in a "Greasy Vest" beanery one night recently and a N. Y. World printer came in and asked for a bowl of soup. After diving into the stuff he summoned a waiter and yelled his head off.

"Hey!" shouted the printer, "there's a cockroach in this soup!"

"Okay," replied the indifferent waited as he turned to the kitchen and called out: "One order of Flit in a hurry!"

The Clown

Speaking of Bugs Baer, as we were speaking a paragraph or so ago, he was introduced to a pretty little thing in a hot-spot recently who cooed: "Oh, Mr. Bugzy, won't you tell me how a big mans like you got all those gray hairs?"

"Sure," swiftied Bugs. "From pulling silk underwear over my head."

Oh, Mr. Wistach!

The similes in the following night letter from Bugs Baer to his dentist are recommended to Frank Wilstach's Simile Dictionary. Dr. Jaffin is also ex-Gov. Al E. Smith's molar-inspector. The wire follows: "Dr. John Jaffiin, 1457 Broadway, N. Y. Dear Doc stop Have more things the matter with my mouth than Hoover has with the administration stop Everytime I walk fast one of my teeth falls out and by next week I will be able to supply all the Elks in the world with vest ornaments stop I will drop in tomorrow and if you do me any good you will be more welcome than a rainmaker in Hell stop I am a very busy man but I also need teeth because I cannot go through life biting on cream puffs and soft boiled eggs stop The last time I was to a dentist was before I joined the army in 1918 so you can guess by now that my teeth look like a hobo's pocket comb stop Will see you tomorrow and hope that you will be able to save enough of my molars to enable me to bite one of Winchell's ears off as I intend going wrong soon.—Bugs Baer."

Did His Face Get Red?

The Broadway vaudeville theaters have pepped up the Big Time by engaging adroit masters of ceremonies. Some of them have great influence with stage, screen and other favorites they invite to the theater. Then the celebs are introduced to the audience and, they usually get up and entertain.

Last week Phil Baker called on a columnist whose name is unimportant. Baker introduced the columnist as "one of New York's best newspaper men." This made the columnist terribly sick, and little wonder.

For seated in the same audience was a great newspaper man who was unintentionally overlooked—Floyd Gibbons.

Incidentally

Floyd (217-word-a-minute) Gibbons, who made his debut as a vaude headliner at the Palace this week with a grand act packing a breathlessly, paced routine, class and dignity, told us his favorite gag on himself.

It is the one about the Scot who had to make a long distance phone call to his wife so he asked Gibbons to talk to her for him!

Sotto Voce

Gertrude Maddon: No likee.
Philip Wolter: No can use.

Laugh and the World, Etc.

Gilbert W. Gabriel, the N. Y. American's drama defender, comments on critics who laugh. "Some of the most insistent laughs," he says, "are emitted from the critics, but I'm afraid it's true—we are a glum lot, we of the present batch. Occasionally, like a trumpeter of the Old Guard, Robert C. Benchley sends out a mighty jangle of mirth. Or, when he isn't stopped in time, Walter Winchell will emit horrible brays of false notes in moments of otherwise universal silence."

He who laughs—lasts!

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith, discovering that she is really Karen Mayhew, finds that she is married to Larry Nettleton from whom she fled on her wedding night. Kay is desperately in love with Dane Talbot, whose fiancee releases him from his engagement upon learning that Kay is already married. The hopelessness of the situation utterly discourages Kay.

CHAPTER XLVII

"I've come for you, Karen," Larry said quickly. "I think it's foolish wasting any more time here in New York. And I've been waiting for you," he consulted his watch on his wrist, "just one hour," chidingly.

Kay glanced fro mEdith to Larry. Edith nodded. Then she knew. Larry had told her. The nurse put her arms around the girl and kissed her on the forehead.

"You might as well start packing your things. Mine are all ready at the hotel," Larry explained further. "Regardless of what this Dr. Raleigh says, I think you're fit to travel. You look better than I've ever seen you look. You're not ill—you're well. As soon as we get to New Orleans I'll have Doctor Wells look you over. He's been my doctor for years, and he knows his business."

Edith flared up. "Dr. Raleigh is a specialist, Mr. Nettleton—and there's no doubt at all but that he knows his business."

Larry grumbled some reply. He looked annoyed. Decidedly annoyed. He was not in the best humor in the world. Sitting in his hotel room for hours waiting for word from Dr. Raleigh. Coming up here where Karen lived, finding her gone, and this Miss Nason whom he didn't like at all. Why had she been so quiet, so terribly silent when he had told her he was Karen's husband?

"Come along, Karen—the sooner you get started the better—"

Kay pulled off her hat and sat down. Hadn't he heard her in Dr. Raleigh's office when she said she wasn't going with him? Did he think she didn't mean it?

"I told you before, I wasn't going—"

Larry's eyes blazed. "You're my wife, aren't you?"

Kay couldn't meet Edith's eyes, Larry's eyes. It was all too pitiably true. She was his wife. But did that mean she had to go with him? When she didn't love him? Never had, and never would . . .

"I don't know where you got all these peculiar ideas, Karen. I don't like them at all. Will you please get ready and leave with me?"

This husband who meant nothing to her. This man she felt she never would really know. Ordering her to come with him.

Larry turned to Edith and half apologized. "She doesn't know what she wants. But then, a woman never does. If she likes New York so well, why, we'll come and live here. But we can't yet. I've my business down South, and I can't leave it for several months."

"I think she does know what she wants, Mr. Nettleton. I think she wants to stay here." Edith's voice was very quiet.

"Well, she can't stay here now. She has to go with me. Later, we may come back, but I can't say I'd be very crazy about living here. Never did like New York. Too much of a southerner for that, I guess." Larry was trying to make himself fairly agreeable. He smiled and Kay was strangely reminded of Jim Whalen. Not because Larry looked like Whalen, but because when he smiled, his eyes didn't smile. They stayed hard and firm. She had told him as decently, as well as she could that she didn't want to go with him, and here he was ordering, commanding her to go. Only that afternoon she had told him she didn't love him. That didn't matter, he had answered. She would learn to love him. As if she could! After knowing Dane, loving him.

"Please sit down and wait for Dr. Raleigh, Mr. Nettleton," Edith said. "He'll be here presently—he said he was leaving right away when I called him."

So Edith had called Dr. Raleigh. Kay was happy over that. Dr. Raleigh would smooth everything over. She did not know how much she relied on him until now. If he could only get Larry to realize, to know she wasn't going with him. This husband, who wasn't a husband at all. This man she had never lived with . . .

Larry feeling there was nothing else to do sat down again.

"Karen's lived with you here?" he asked Edith.

"Yes."

Larry glanced around the room in disapproval.

"Queer little places, these small apartments."

Kay was furious. After all, this was the only home she knew. The only place where she had any atmosphere of "home" at all. Her father's house in New Orleans had never seemed hers. But this little apartment of Edith's where she had fussed in the kitchen, cleaned every day—made those sofa pillows Edith was resting on, bought a few little pictures—This was home to her. And always would be.

It was then that she caught sight of the orchids on the table, where she had put them in a vase. Dane's offering.

This room where Dane had been. Where he had told her he loved her. . . . She would always love it, because of Dane. Because of Edith.

"Have you had dinner, Kay?" Edith inquired.

"No, but—"

"We'll go together," Larry interrupted. "Miss Nason, too."

"Perhaps we'd better wait for Doctor Raleigh." Edith put in quickly. She saw from Kay's eyes that she had made a mistake asking her the question. Larry had to be satisfied with that.

There was little conversation after that between the three. Now and then Larry looked at his watch muttering something about Doctor Raleigh being so late everytime he looked at it. Edith racked her brain for something to say to relieve the tension for Kay. For she knew the girl was worried, almost crazy with anxiety. Finally she decided that the best thing for Kay was to be quiet. She was still dressed in her uniform, but had taken off her cap. She longed to change it, but dared not yet. She didn't want to leave Kay alone with Nettleton. She had sensed the fact when Kay had come in, that she didn't want the nurse to leave.

Eight o'clock, and Doctor Raleigh had not come. Edith was beginning to worry. She had called him soon after Nettleton had come in, and he said he was coming right out. That was over an hour ago.

Kay was nervous. Her hands were cold as ice, and she rubbed them together to get them warm. It did no good.

Eight-fifteen. She knew what time it was because Larry had just looked at his watch and announced it.

"I'm not used to waiting for people," he said shortly. "And all day long I've been waiting . . ."

"He ought to be here now." It was Edith, trying to smooth matters out.

"Well, he isn't." Angrily.

Kay was worried, too, about Larry. And what he would say if they had to wait too long for Doctor Raleigh. She knew his temper. That time in New Orleans when he had announced they were to be married, and she had said she . . . well, she was trying to put him off. He had been very nasty. He could say cruel things when he wanted to. He had been cruel to her that day. She hated to remember how hurt her feelings had been.

A ring at her door bell. Edith jumped to her feet, and let Doctor Raleigh in.

"I was delayed," he said shortly. "Sorry to have kept you waiting." He took off his overcoat, and sat down.

"I came to get Karen, Doctor, and was persuaded to wait until you got here, although I don't know why. Nor just what you have to do with the problems of a husband and wife," Larry said bitterly.

"From what I understand, Kay has never been your wife, Mr. Nettleton," Doctor Raleigh spoke very slowly.

"That's true—but—"

"Kay, would you and Miss Nason leave the room for a few moments? I want to talk to Mr. Nettleton—alone."

"We'll go to dinner," Edith announced. "Kay hasn't eaten yet, and neither have I."

"That'll be fine."

Larry was about to protest, when a gesture from the physician stopped him.

"Come back as soon as you finish."

The girls were only a moment getting their wraps.

"Edith, what will Doctor Raleigh say? What will he do?" Kay asked the nurse, clinging to her arm.

"Don't worry. He's trying to help you."

"I won't go back with Larry! I won't!"

"Hush, and don't think about it. Doctor Raleigh's taking care of everything—"

Aged Watchman Slain by Bandits

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2. (INS)—Charles Widierer, 64-year-old night watchman employed by the Tunnel Blue company, was brutally murdered early today when he surprised a group of prowlers in the act of looting the plant.

The aged man's body was found by Joseph Day, private operative for a burglar alarm system, when Day went out to investigate Widierer's failure to turn in his regular calls.

Widierer's head had been crushed by heavy blows inflicted when he struggled with the burglars. Only a small amount of cash had been obtained from the company's safe by the watchman's slayers.

Bus Heads Plan Regional Hook-Up

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 2. (AP)—Executives of bus lines serving Louisiana, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma, Georgia, Ohio and other states met here today to discuss the possibility of establishing regional joint tariffs and mutual ticket arrangements on a nation-wide basis. Some 30 executives attended as the guests of Frederick Smith, Memphis bus line head.

The officials here included H. R. Moore Jr., Texarkana, Texas; A. T. Barrett, Dallas, Texas; Tom Desmils, New Orleans; P. F. Neff, St. Louis; H. H. Butler, St. Louis, and M. W. Walker, Alexandria, La.

Carnegie Steel Head Presents Resignation

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2. (AP)—John S. Oursler resigned today as vice president of the Carnegie Steel company, effective Oct. 1, because of ill health. William G. Clyde resigned as president of the company last week for a similar reason. Oursler was named vice president in April 1928.

Los Angeles, on the Pacific coast, is east of Reno, Nev., which is east of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

A.—The date of her birth is given as August 15, 1860. Warre G. Harding was born November 2, 1865. Mrs. Harding was more than five years older than her husband.

Q.—When was Aquinaldo captured? What has become of him?—A. E. O.

A.—Aquinaldo was captured on March 23, 1901. He took the oath of allegiance on April 2. He was retired from public life, and was recently married.

Q.—Can blind people be taught to swim?—D. C. M.

A.—It can and is being done. It is necessary to explain what is to be done, then let them feel the strokes as they are demonstrated. Otherwise instruction is the same as with pupils who can see.

Q.—Please publish a description of the Japanese beetle, which is causing such havoc.—A. W. E.

A.—The adult Japanese beetle is about ⅜ of an inch in length and about the same in width. It is bright metallic green in color, with coppery brown wings.

Q.—Why is the United States public health service in the department of the treasury?—T. C.

A.—It really dates back to 1798 when congress passed an act for the relief of sick and disabled seamen. This small beginning accounts for the present location of the bureau in the treasury department, the customs service having always been closely connected with the treasury.

Q.—How can raw foods such as fruits, lettuce, celery, etc., be disinfected before being put into a refrigerator?—D. H.

A.—The Home Refrigeration Service says that raw foods should be washed thoroughly, then immersed for five minutes in a stone jar filled with a fresh chloride of lime solution, half an ounce of lime to two gallons of water. Food flavor or quality will not be harmed, and the germs will be destroyed.

Q.—What kind of oil is used in watches?—R. P.

A.—The oil used in watches—or that which should be used—comes from a cavity in the jaw bone of the porpoise or the blackfish. The best quality is rare. Cape Cod fishermen bring in most of it. To be tested, it is taken up into Vermont, where the mercury often goes far below zero. The best grade is that which remains practically unchanged at these low temperatures. A single drop of this oil is enough to lubricate a watch.

Q.—When was Buckingham palace built?—E. W.

A.—The present site of Buckingham palace was occupied during the reign of Charles I and II by Mulberry Gardens, a fashionable resort. It was then bought by the Earl of Arlington and Arlington House erected. This was demolished in 1703 and the ground bought and the original Buckingham palace built of red brick by John Sheffield, the first duke of Buckingham. He bequeathed it to his widow who was a natural daughter of James I. It was bought for the British royal family by George III and settled by him upon his queen, Charlotte.

Q.—Please describe the English system of living upon manors.—N. S.

A.—The manors were a degree less in importance than the castles, and frequently one earl or baron would also be a holder of several manors. According to English records feudalism reached its height in the 13th century. There was included in the manor proper the lord's demesne, the land of free tenants, and the land of the villeins. A virgate, which was the average amount of land cultivated by a land holder was about 30 acres, and in addition to this the villeins, the free tenants, and the lord himself (or his work people) gathered what might be available in crops or pasture from the waste lands which were unallotted.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on the School Child's Health

The American School Hygiene association, which prepared this booklet in cooperation with the American Red Cross, has been studying and analyzing for years the problems of school health. As a result the number and kind of health dangers to which school children are subject are now fairly well defined and understood. The ways of detecting them and the steps necessary for their correction, as well as the surroudings and habits calculated to prevent their development, are also well defined. The thing that has been lacking is the machinery with which to do this work, and the mainspring in this machinery is the parent—particularly the mothers.

Every mother with children of school age will find The School Child's Health valuable and helpful. In ordering a copy, use this coupon.

First Baptist W.M.S. Has First Meeting Of Season

Women of the First Baptist church gathered with enthusiasm after the summer's vacation to inaugurate work for the autumn and winter season. Including several visitors, approximately 75 were served a delicious lunch in the basement at noon.

The meeting of the executive board was held at 10 o'clock and Mrs. J. F. Detiefs, the new president, gave an inspirational devotional at this time. At 11 o'clock the missionary program was given by members of circle 12, Mrs. M. C. Hays, chairman. With "In Union There Is Strength," as the subject of the lesson Mesdames M. W. McGinnis, J. C. Mytinger, W. E. Wheeler and G. P. Rayborn each gave interesting discussions of different topics. Special music included a lovely duet by Mesdames Ward and George Smoot with Mrs. O. G. Stephens accompanying.

Luncheon Served

The tables in the basement were lovely with garden flowers when members of circle 11, Mrs. H. P. Ledford, chairman, served a delicious luncheon to approximately 75 people. Masses of golden glow brightened the rooms.

In the afternoon meeting "Faithfulness" was the subject of the lovely devotional given by Mrs. I. A. Farris, serving as an inspiration to all members and particularly stressing the duties of the new officers.

All committees gave annual reports showing an encouraging progress in the work of the society.

A touching and uplifting close to the meeting was the sentiment expressed when resolutions were read dealing with the loss to the church in the death of Mrs. E. W. Carter. Various members paid lovely tributes to her memory.

Among those present were Mesdames R. C. Smith, C. E. Borland, Wiley Robertson, Ben King, J. H. Martin, W. H. Davis, I. A. Farris, Ray Noland, R. W. Morgan, H. E. Brosley, J. H. Stanfill, J. D. McMahan, T. C. Raney, S. W. Trout, Fred Barron, J. F. Detiefs, Charles Harr, Ralph Hines, Cooper Cox, W. A. Freear, J. L. Maxwell, Roy L. Carter, W. A. Field, Ted R. Williams, Ada Moore, Homer McGregor, O. L. Powers, O. B. Albritton, R. Lee Joiner, W. E. George, Clifford, J. M. Kelly, Alva Conner, D. O. Johnson, O. M. Smith, W. L. Ponder, G. O. Howery, W. G. Collier, C. Featherston, H. E. Man, R. M. Hester, Walter Prechel, A. F. Kimmel, Solon Featherston, H. P. Ledford, Ivan Murchison, C. E. Pimlott, Ella Davis, W. E. Young, F. L. Randel, Fred Morris, Glen Kincaid, E. L. Smith, W. B. Beach, O. G. Stephens, M. Hobbs, Ray Arnhold, C. R. Daniels, J. C. Mytinger, Jimmie Nelson, M. C. Hayes, Geo. A. Smoot, W. E. Wheeler, R. K. Hall, G. P. Raborn, Ward and the following guests, Mesdames A. C. Hollensby, of Canton, Miss., W. H. Gray and Russel Land of Childress, Texas and Mrs. Rupert Nanney of Oklahoma City.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

The evening sky Tuesday was the bluest we have seen in many an eve. Trees, buildings and lights stood out against it as if it were blue velvet. We wondered once more if there were a loveller building in the city than the First Methodist church with its spires pointing high.

Far up in the air were names of firms and of buildings. It may be sentiment but we refuse to call it sentimentality, that the thought came to us that if our name twinkled in white lights, we would wish to keep it as sparklingly clean as the lights.

Once upon a time, in America, men built homes and founded families and the families of the same name lived on for generations in ancestral homes. It is one of the beauties and tragedies now in England and France that all who find it possible cling to their homes but so many must sell unentailed property that they may live.

Thomas Jefferson built Monticello after his own heart. Though it has been many years since one of his connections had anything to do with the estate, its name is inalienably connected with the birth of Democracy.

Mt. Vernon, standing in sweet old fashioned beauty above the Potomac, was built as a planter's home. But it lives in the ownership of the nation as the home of the nation's first president.

Few homes are founded now for future generations. Posterity of this time wishes to choose its own style and in one generation, a family that is piling up wealth, changes the style of house with the income.

There is an old stone farmhouse back in Maryland that is built on acres given in a king's grant. The family is about to sell it because there is no one left to run it. We would have no greater happiness than to go with our own little branch of that family and spend the remainder of our life within sound of Chesapeake bay. Conditions of 1930 forbid it.

We see mansions built in our country and question whether the descendents of the family who built them, will keep the places as family estates. People should be so rooted in the earth of the land where they were born, that if there is any possibility for comfort, years would add to the home that which only years can give.

But how many see their own babies brought into the world under the same roof where they first saw the light? Or in this more enlightened day, how many bring those babies to that roof after they enter the world in a hospital?

We have no itch for collecting antiques. But in our own family, the things that have been used by generations are dearer to us than anything a manufacturer could produce. Sometimes we wonder if we are alone.

No shining new piece of furniture has blessings hovering round it as, say a chair, in which generations of mothers rocked their babies to sleep. Mothers once did that.

"It Controls the Nerves"

"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I could not stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I know that it controls the nerves because I have no desire to bite my nails now, and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your medicine to many girls with the same good results."—Ethel Fleetwood, 3023 Bandin Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Ability to Keep Secret Essential In Married Life

Why the Ability to Keep a Secret Is Essential to a Happy Marriage —Pathetic Wife of Fault-Finding Husband—Mystery Without a Solution.

Dear Miss Dix—Should a wife have any secrets from her husband? Should she tell him everything or keep things that are strictly her own private affairs to herself?
—EDITH C.

Answer—Of course, a wife has a right to her own secrets, just as a husband has a right to his. The old charge that women talk too much goes double for the home. Half of the trouble they get themselves into with their husbands is because they blab things they should have kept to themselves and it brings on an argument that ends in recrimination and tears.

There are plenty of things that a woman shouldn't tell her husband. Why, for instance, should a man who is over-burdened with business cares and anxieties have superimposed upon him all of his wife's domestic worries? No reason at all. He can't prevent the cook from giving notice or the chambermaid from breaking a pet vase or the baby from bumping its nose or Johnny from tearing his trousers. Yet there are thousands of women who feel that it is a sacred obligation upon them to tell their husbands everything that has gone wrong in the household during the day. And there are thousands of men who dread to come home of an evening because they will have to listen to the Iliad of their wives' troubles.

Every woman who has been married long enough to cut her wisdom teeth has found out that there are certain subjects that have the effect upon her husband that a red rag does upon a bull. It may be religion or politics or the length of skirts or the bobbing of hair or the use of lipstick. Often it is her family. Nearly always it is when she quotes mother.

Here's another place where women talk too much when they do not mtaintain a masterly silence on these topics. Because you do not insist upon making your opinions a casus belli does not mean that you give them up. Far from it.

The only women in the world who do what they want to do are those who never discuss their plans beforehand.

Most husbands don't really care what their wives do, within reason, but when they are consulted beforehand they feel that they have to object in order to show their authority. But if wife just goes along and does it without debating the subject they think it is all right. And, anyhow, after a thing is done, it's done and there isn't any use in raising a row about it.

Women talk too much when they tell their husbands about the mistakes they make. Virtually every man takes his wife at her own valuation, and if she is always telling him what a poor manager she is and how she doesn't seem able to get as much out of her allowance as Mrs. Smith does, and of how she let the butcher short-change her, and of how she wishes she could cook like Mrs. Simpkins, pretty soon he begins to think that he has a pretty poor makeshift of a wife who isn't any account and who wastes his money.

But if she is always telling him what a grand bargain she made at a marked-down sale and how she traded off the ragbag for a new tin saucepan and brags to him about how competent she is, she "sells" herself to him as a blue-ribbon prize winner and he boasts of her among his friends.

Also, it is the woman who talks too much who puts her friend wise to the fact that she is getting old or fat and first suggests to him that she could lose him. The chances are that he hadn't noticed it and was still seeing her as she looked the day he married her.

Wise is the woman who chucks her biscuits that turn out heavy into the garbage can and puts the lid down on them, who sticks her bad bargains into the back of the closet and says nothing about them and who lets her husband discover her first gray hair for himself.

The old proverb which says that silence is gold and speech is silver is never so vividly illustrated as in matrimony, where silence buys peace and speech is only too often the price of a fight, so if you want to be happy though married, learn how to hold your tongue.

Miss Nell Warman Weds L. A. Cramer

Miss Nell Warman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Warman, Tuesday morning became the bride of Llewelyn Archibald Cramer of Delaware, Ohio, in a beautiful ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The father of the bridegroom, Rev. R. B. Cramer of University Park, Iowa, read the ring ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers and southern smilax carrying out the color scheme of yellow and white. Baskets of flowers in the same colors were used profusely throughout the house.

Miss Cleo Stripling played for pre-nuptial music, Ossenbach's "Barcarolle" and "Melody in F," by Rubenstein. And during the ceremony, she played softly, "Spring Song."

The bride wore a lovely gown of white chiffon, with white satin slippers, and carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Juanita Bachman was her maid or honor, and wore a gown of yellow chiffon with bouquet of yellow roses. Mr. Cramer had for his best man, Charles Warman, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the guests were entertained at an informal reception when the bride's cake, trimmed in yellow and white, was cut and served with punch. The punch bowl was a huge cake of ice, imbedded in which were yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Frances Collins presided at the bride's book.

Mr. Cramer is professor of sociology in the University of Ohio, where the couple will make their home.

Mrs. Cramer is a graduate of the local high school, the Junior college and has her B. S. and M. A. degrees from the University of Ohio. She was also a teacher in the local public schools here.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Chamer and son, Ward; Mrs. Hans Auest of Clumbus, Ohio, and Miss Edith Denton and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Miller of Lubbock.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Cramer left in their car for a wedding tour through Colorado, Nebraska, Yellowstone park and other points. Mrs. Cramer wore for her going away gown, a brown crepe ensemble with accessories to harmonize.

Miss Conant Honored At Pretty Shower

Complimenting her daughter, Miss Effie Mae Conant, whose marriage to Sergeant T. C. Tedford, of Fort Sill, Okla., will be an event of Wednesday, Mrs. J. B. Conant entertained with a shower at her home Tuesday afternoon.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of pink and green were used in the house decorations. Baskets of ferns were placed artistically about the rooms.

Dainty refreshment plates bearing favors in pink and green were served to about 25 guests.

Smart Rig for School

Pattern 1825

By ANNE ADAMS

Cleverly combining a warm top coat with a practical wash dress, today's model is ideal for the little school girl not yet in her teens. There are several pleats giving fullness and grace to the frock; the coat is simple, yet extremely smart with its rolled collar of the dress fabric.

Pattern 1825 is delightful fashioned of linen, pique, percale or wash silk for the dress, and lining if one is desired, and lightweight tweed, serge, jersey or kasha for the coat. Serviceable color schemes are brown and tan, navy blue and beige, black and rose, maroon and pink, etc.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 1¼ yards 54-inch coat, and 1⅞ yards 39-inch dress material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coin carefully wrapped, or stamps for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Our book of patterns for adults and children including transfer patterns is fifteen cents. Book with pattern, 25c. Address all mail and orders to The Record News Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Thrift Exchange Scene of Action Tuesday Morning

Between 275 and 300 mothers and children gathered early Tuesday morning on the lawn at the rear of the Memorial auditorium waiting an opportunity to see the women heading the Thrift Exchange and be given clothes for the opening of school. According to the statement of officers there, they began arriving at 7:30 o'clock.

Mothers who were in rags themselves brought children in the same condition; mothers in clean, patched garments brought children dressed in that sort of raiment. There were babies galore for there was no one at home with whom they might be left. More than one "big sister" carried the baby while the mother managed the smaller children. And clean, neatly dressed mothers, said sadly they had always been able to get work before.

Mrs. R. P. Willis, general chairman, Mesdames A. J. Newby, L. H. Estes, W. C. Krauss and John Martin were on duty in the exchange room waiting to take a few members of the crowd at a time. Many came without the necessary recommendation from the school teacher or principal but 150 tickets were issued to those who were identified as worthy of help. Many groups left after waiting until 10 or 11 o'clock determined to come back another day.

The Thrift Exchange was open until 12 o'clock and 50 children were completely outfitted. Each was given one or two dresses or suits as necessary, a change of underwear, slips, shoes when shoes could be fitted, hats and hose.

One mother, who came with five children and who was particularly well recommended, noticed how close and hot the Thrift Exchange was and said that she owned an electric fan and had no electricity in her house, so intended going home and sending it back to the group who had helped her so. In less than a half hour, her oldest boy returned with the fan.

The exchange will be open again Wednesday morning from 9 to 12 o'clock and also Thursday and Friday if clothing holds out. Donations are being received each day but new shoes are needed more than any other article.

Splendid Work Reported At First Christian Council

Mrs. Ted Krohn, the new president of the First Christian Woman's Council presided in an enthusiastic meeting when the first session of the 1930-31 season was held in an all-day meeting at the church Tuesday. Mrs. J. Lem Keevil gave the opening prayer.

A letter of thanks and appreciation from the Julia Fowler Home in Dallas, was read. The council has sent a donation each month to this church orphanage and old peoples' home. A letter was read from the council's "living link," Miss Etta Nunn. The council has paid her year's salary and expenses to keep Miss Nunn in Mexico the past year as a missionary. She is now in San Luis Potosi, Mexico, and writes she will be in the states in September and part of October. Splendid progress was reported in her work.

Mrs. Harry Hines reported the September program ready and Mrs. Jack Dale announced several new books added to the council library. Mrs. J. Lem Keevil's social service report showed 119 calls, 64 garments, eight hats and seven pair of shoes presented. One family that had been burned out had their home completely refurnished. Milk and ice had been given several families and 27 children had been outfitted for school.

In the business session, plans were also discussed to increase the attendance of the Federated Missionary society. Division leaders all made reports showing splendid progress in work.

Mrs. F. E. McConnell's division, number one, was hostess division for the day. A delightful luncheon was served to approximately 50 members.

Division one presented a delightful program in the afternoon when, after the opening prayer by Mrs. J. L. Downing, Mrs. Ira Cain led in a wonderful devotional.

Miss Jeannette Moore gave two readings, "Back Seat Flying," and "Mother Earth," and Miss Margaret Bone, accompanied by Mrs. Grady England, sang two pretty vocal numbers.

The meeting was regarded as one of the most successful of the first autumn meetings of the council and members look forward to the season's work with much interest.

Baptist Group Has Business Meeting

Members of the Woman's Missionary society of the Southside Baptist church met in a monthly business session at the church Monday morning at which time a business session was held.

Mrs. W. F. Gold had charge of the lesson on "In Union There Is Strength" which was sponsored by members of circle three.

Those present included Mesdames H. F. Haley, F. C. Caviness, J. W. Nicholson, A. C. Turner, Ethel Kieth, J. P. Smith, J. A. Paul, Z. W. Harvey, J. W. Brubaker, W. F. Gold, E. B. Crawford and J. L. Kennedy.

"FOR some time I suffered with a terrible soreness in my back," writes Mrs. Roy E. Dudney, of San Antonio, Texas, whose picture appears above. "It hurt me to stand on my feet, and I was so nervous I couldn't rest. I was easily upset, and did not feel like doing anything. A friend of my family, who is a great believer in Cardui, told me to try it. She had taken it and found it such a help that she thought it would help me. I took two bottles of Cardui and found my health was much better. I was less nervous and my back no longer hurt. I think Cardui is fine for young women. Before I started taking it, I had periodic headache. This stopped, too, after I had begun taking Cardui."

That Body Of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

Splinting the Spine

One of the early lessons I learned about suspected tuberculosis was that where the symptoms were conflicting it was better to consider the case as tuberculosis than to make the mistake of telling a true tuberculosis case that he did not have the disease.

The idea was the care the case would get for the ensuing months would be only of benefit even if he did not have the trouble, whereas, the delay in treating a true case of tuberculosis might lose him his chance of recovery.

Fortunately the X-ray, the blood sedimentation test, and other aids now help in making the correct diagnosis.

However, tuberculosis anywhere in the body is always uncertain as to how quickly or how slowly it will increase or decrease in severity.

And so in cases of tuberculosis of the spine. Should the cases be operated on or should one wait to see how it will develop, Dr. Fred H. Albee, New York, says, "I have always felt the profoundest regret in operating on these unfortunate protracted cases that operation had not been undertaken long before and the patient spared years of invalidism. Since we cannot foretell, every case should be considered as likely to be unfavorable and so operate in every case."

As you know, Dr. Albee's operation for tuberculosis of the spine is to take a piece from the shin bone and by sawing a grove in the sharp prominence you can feel along the spinal column (back bone) he lays in this splint of bone from the shin, and it grows in place and so keeps the tuberculous bones of the spinal column apart, thus giving them a chance to heal.

Dr. Albee reports 865 cases on which he has performed this operation; in 63 per cent the operation had been done from one to five years previously, and in 31 per cent it was from five to 19 years.

That is, only six per cent had been done within the previous year.

In 90 per cent of the cases the results were classified as excellent, and eight per cent fair.

I believe with results such as above, parents should be willing to have their youngsters undergo this operation, which saves months, perhaps years, of rest in bed.

And for adults it is likewise good sense whether the trouble is due to tuberculosis, war or other injury.

Electra Church Closes Successful Revival

Special to The Record News.

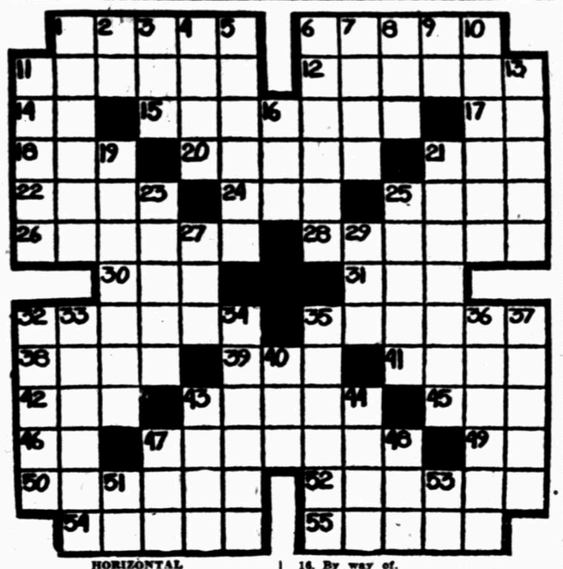

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 2.—The First Church of Christ closed one of its most successful revivals Sunday night. Services were held each morning at 9:30 and each evening at 8 o'clock with Rev. Willis Creager of Burkburnett in charge of them. He was assisted by Burn Shofner, local pastor, and Milton Woolard who led the song services. A number of additions were made to the church.

MURRAY FINDS SPUDDER HITTERS EASY; STEERS WIN FIRST, 9-4

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Gather around, mates and listen. Here are the winners in the Spudder runner contest:

Of the 50 some odd entrants in the contest, which started along about July 20, Mrs. Lora Harvey, of 1605 Cole street, was the first to pick Spider Levey to win in the chase from the plate to first; and Boots Morris, of 1600 Eleventh street, was the first to pick Irving Burns to win.

Both Levey and Burns having won, and Mrs. Harvey and Miss Morris having been the first to pick Slick Ansley went a-hunting Tuesday, and the result of his efforts will make possible a prairie chicken dinner for the two first place winners in the runner contest. Ansley bagged several of the chicks, and they will be ready for Mrs. Harvey and Miss Morris this evening.

the winners, the said contestants, according to the terms of the contest, are entitled to a free meal at Slick Ansley's cafe, and same will be placed before them with much elegance and pomp at 6:30 o'clock this evening. In case neither of the winners shows up at that hour, the meals automatically revert to the sports editor of The Record News. The two also will receive autographed baseballs.

And the other contestants who picked Levey and Burns to win, and who are entitled to a baseball autographed by both, are grouped below.

And get this: the baseballs have already been autographed, etc., and will be presented to the winners as listed this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the old Rambler's corner in The Record News office. So be here on the dot at one. Spider Levey and Jack Burns will be here to present the baseballs, and there will be no speechmaking. Come to The Record News office, ask the doorkeeper for the editorial department, and then after you've found that ask for the Rambler's corner, and eventually, after much red tape, you'll find Levey and Burns and myself waiting to greet you with this unique gift.

Now here are the contestants, in addition to Mrs. Harvey, who picked Levey to win:

Glen Larkin, 1915 Polk street.
Bill Stuckler, Wichita Falls.
L. T. Hammond Jr., Wichita Falls.
R. M. Gaines, Box 1640, Vernon, Texas.
Dorothy Westfall, 1319 Sibley street.
C. A. Goff, 2014 Tilden street.
Ambers Goff, 2014 Tilden street.
G. B. Toock, 1902 Pearl street.
Jim Vinson, 404 Avenue D. N. W., Childress, Texas.
Lawrence Livingston, route 2, Grandfield, Okla.
Kenneth Bailey, Graham, Texas.
Robert Addison, 1911 Polk street.
Mrs. R. H. Presley, 1811 Polk street.
J. T. Strealy, 2010 Tilden street.

And here are the ones who, in addition to Miss Morris, picked Burns to win:

Jack Harper, Frederick, Okla.
H. R. Hanks, 1101 Tenth street.
W. J. Westfall, 1101 Tenth street.
Doc Larkin, 1915 Polk street.
B. Williams, care Childress Y. M. C. A.

We forgot to add that winners residing out of the city who cannot be here to receive the prize will have it mailed them at the earliest opportunity.

In all there are 21 fans in Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas who will receive a baseball autographed by these two young ball players. Each and every fan should be proud of the gift. Levey and Burns won't be with us next year, and you can count on it that some of these days they'll be heard of plenty in the majors. Those autographed baseballs in the future will serve as living reminders of the days when the Wichita Falls Baseball club had the greatest aggregation of ball players the league has ever seen.

And now for a final word. The Rambler started this contest on his own hook and without counsel from anybody. He didn't know what he was getting into. At first things were tame enough. Darned few people seemed interested enough to join in. But suddenly answers were pouring in. We announced autographed baseballs would be awarded the winners, and we had to stick to it. We prepared to shell out and buy a coupla dozen baseballs, when Prexy Huff and Guy Airey, Spudder secretary, came to the rescue and offered to donate the baseballs. So when you receive yours, dear winner, have a kind word or two for the Wichita Falls Baseball club. Prexy Huff and Secretary Airey are two of the best fellows living. They always come to the rescue of a sports editor. The contest served to stimulate a good deal of interest in the club, and they appreciated it.

And so, in the years to come, when we read of the St. Louis Browns winning the world's series with Jim Levey at short and Jack Burns on first, we can lean back and say:

"Do I know 'em! Sure I do. Why I've got their signatures on a baseball. I always told you they were two of the greatest infielders that ever lived, didn't I?"

Del Rio Golfer Medalist In Junior Tournament

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Billy Humes, Del Rio turned in a 76 to take medalist honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual Southwest junior golf tournament here today. Not far behind came Joe Clark of San Antonio with a 79. Humes was medalist last year.

Humes' fellow townsman, Carl Boles, carded an 80 for third honors with Dale Hilton following with 81 to tie Bob Baker of Luling. The scores as a whole were disappointing.

Lorraine Young, defending champion ran into trouble early, but negotiated the course in 89. Scores upward to 101 were eligible for the first flight. Five entrants failed to qualify, among them Jack Taurmond, 13-year-old San Antonio lad, who carded 105.

CHAMPS GET ONLY 5 HITS

Geygan Stars in Role Of Pinch Hitter

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Four men can't win a ball game, and exactly that many on the Spudder side were bearing down on it Tuesday afternoon when the first half champions met the Dallas Steers to open the final home stand of the season.

Four men, exactly—Spider Levey, who was his old self at stopping hot grounders anywhere and making perfect throws to first, and who got the first of the five hits the Spudders managed off George Murray; Jack Crouch, in there all the time, who doubled in the fifth to score a runner; Walter Euller, the only Spudder to get two hits; and Chappie Geygan, the boy who can hit anything, who went in as a pinch hitter in the eighth and drove in the last two Spudder runs.

Caldwell Touched Often

Meanwhile the Steers were bouncing 10 safe knocks off Caldwell; and two more hits off Florrid in the ninth, one of them a home run by Gene Moore with two on, gave Dallas the opener by a mile-wide margin, the score being 9 to 4.

With two Dallas batters out in the sixth, the game was interrupted for a few minutes by a hard shower, and the ninth was played in a drizzle as the rain tried to return. The moisture, however, could not be blamed with dampening the pep of the home town team, for the Steers got to work early and scored two runs in the early innings when the sun was shining brightly.

Today is picture day at Athletic park. A picture of the 1930 Spudders will be given with every paid admission, Spudder Secretary Guy Airey announced. It is an old Spudder custom. Each year, late in the season, patrons at Athletic park are given the team's picture. There'll be a picture for every paid admission today.

Murray probably turned in his best game of the season, at least against the Spudders. Often he has pitched against the Spudders in a relief role, but Tuesday he made his first start against his North Texas foes. He held the Spudders to one hit for the first four innings, and was in danger only twice.

The heavy end of the Spudder batting order Murray found easy. Neither Storti, Fitzgerald, Kloza, Burns or Bettencourt got a hit, and Bettencourt fanned once.

In the fifth Kloza reached first by a pass. Burns flied out to right and Bettencourt fanned. Then Crouch came through with his double to center that scored Kloza. Euller poked a single to center scoring Crouch, and went to second when the center fielder bobbled it. Caldwell fanned for the third out.

The Other Two Runs

The only other threat Murray encountered was in the eighth. Crouch was hit by a pitched ball. Euller singled to center, Crouch taking third. Chappie then came in for Caldwell. The slugging utility artist slammed the first ball pitched down the third base line for a double scoring Crouch and Euller. Then Levey, Storti and Fitzgerald went out in order to quash the rally.

Home runs featured the Steers' attack. Willingham sailed one over the left field fence in the second. Tesmer singled in the second, went to second on Urban's pass and scored on Michaels' single. In the sixth, Urban singled past third. Michaels flied out to Kloza and Cotter singled to second, Urban taking second. G. Moore singled to center, scoring Urban and advancing Cotter to second. Willingham popped out to Storti, but by that time the rain was coming down and the game was interrupted. The rain over, Grimm came to bat and lifted one to center for a single, scoring Cotter. Woodall struck out.

After Michaels had grounded out to open the eighth, Cotter sent a home run over the right field fence. G. Moore fouled out to Bettencourt. Two walks and Woodall's single scored another run.

Moore Hits Homer

A pass to Murray, a single by Michaels, and a home run by G. Moore in the ninth off Florrid sewed the game up for the Steers.

The teams meet in the last game of the short series today.

60-POUNDER

Wichitans Land Husky Catfish Tuesday Night

One of the largest catches of the year was brought in from Lake Wichita Tuesday night by a happy quartet of fishermen. It was a 60-pound yellow catfish, measuring all of four and one-half feet.

The fishermen who landed it were O. B. Dixon, 1815 Buchanan; L. R. Belcher, 3001 Avenue Q; L. L. Cossey, 1519 Fifteenth street, and Jack Taylor.

It was caught about 200 yards from the city water ditch. They used hickory shad for bait and caught the monster on a trot line.

Borotra to Meet Tough Opposition at Start

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—If Jean Borotra wins the United States tennis championship next week he will deserve it. By the luck of the draw, made today, the "Bounding Basque" will face tougher opposition than any of the other leading contenders for the title.

Instead of meeting a pushover or two at first, the gasoline pump salesman from France will run into Berkeley Bell, dangerous fighter from Austin, Texas, in the first round, and, if successful, is expected to meet Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., in the second.

Bell and Mercur, on their play last year, ranked ninth and sixth, respectively, in the United States, but were omitted from the list of 12 seeded players for the forthcoming tournament because the committee felt their records in recent play were not good enough.

Bell, however, forced Henri Cochet to five sets at Wimbledon and yesterday was one of the two outstanding players in the East-West series at Forest Hills. Mercur has beaten Tilden and is one of the best players in the country when on his game.

BOUT POSTPONED

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 2. (AP)—Sammy Mandell's bout with Mickey O'Neill of Milwaukee at Janesville, Wis., Sept. 9 today was postponed until Sept. 15. Mandell injured a stomach muscle yesterday and was unable to continue roadwork.

CUBS WHIP CINCINNATI REDS, 8 TO 2

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today accomplished something they had been unable to do since last April—win a baseball game in Cincinnati. Charles Root pitched a three-hit performance which subjected the Reds to an 8 to 2 defeat. The game closed the National league season here, and the Reds won 8 of the 11 games on their home grounds against the champions. Score:

Boston Netter Furnishes First Upset of Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2. (AP)—Mary Cutter, Boston, furnished the first upset of the girls' national tennis championships at the Philadelphia Cricket club today by defeating Helen Fulton, Chicago, in a three-set match, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6. The victory placed Miss Cutter in the quarter-final round. Miss Fulton was seeded sixth.

The other seeded stars reached the quarter-finals without being greatly extended. They are Dorothy Workman, Helen Marlowe and Caroline Babcock, all of California; Sarah Palfrey, the defending titleholder; Helen Bidwell and Hilda Boehm, all of Boston, and Carolyn Roberts, New York.

Wichitan Scores 79 In Second Round

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—Gus Moreland, Fort Worth, defending champion, shared the lead in the Southwest amateur golf tournament with a fellow townsman, Byron Nelson, as the second qualifying round got under way today.

The Texans bowed to par, however, scoring 73's over the par 70 Nichols hills course. Only 16 players broke 80 in the first round yesterday, indicating a score of 163 to 165 probably would be good enough to qualify for match play which begins tomorrow.

Two other Lone Star shotmakers tied for second with E. S. Hansberger, Oklahoma City, who led the Sooner linksmen with a 74.

Earl Berryhill, Sapulpa, was third with a 75.

Other scores included:
Bud McKinney, Del Rio, Texas, 74.
M. L. Massengill, Fort Worth, 74.
Glen Grissman, Orange, Texas 76.
T. B. Cochran, Wichita Falls, 79.
Ben Johnson, Dallas, 79.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—An opening decline in response to weakness in Liverpool over the holidays was followed by rallies in cotton on trade buying and covering today, but prices eased off again under increased hedging and liquidation. New October after selling up from 11.02 to 11.23, broke to 10.97 in late trading and closed at 10.98. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 9 to 17 points.

Three private crop reports were issued. Condition figures ranged from 52.4 up to 54 per cent and figures on the indicated yield from 13,740,000 up to 14,664,000 bales.

Liverpool cables reported some hedging and liquidation in that market over the holidays with rather a better feeling in the cloth market at Manchester. Exports today 25,024, making 412,427 so far this season. Port receipts 39,521. U. S. port stocks 1,853,228.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 2. (AP)—Cotton was only moderately active today, and prices fluctuated in an erratic fashion and without definite trend. After an initial drop of 10 to 12 points on poor cables the market rallied 13 points on warning of a hurricane in the West Indies and later advanced to levels 20 points above the previous close on a bullish private crop estimate, coupled with fears the hurricane might reach the belt. Around the middle of the session prices eased off 15 to 18 points on realizing and liquidation.

The market continued to ease off in late trading, mainly on hedge selling, and made new lows 25 points on active months below the highs and closed a shade above lowest at net declines for the day of 9 to 13 points.

Port receipts 35,649, for week 118,500, for season 796,795, last season 492,060. Exports 21,152, for week 137,177, for season 394,025, last season 254,216. Port stock 1,858,192, last year 696,150. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 47,956, last year 42,955. Spot sales at southern markets 49,223, last year 60,250.

Market Holds Gains Despite Renewal of Professional Selling

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept 2 (US)—September started off meekly stockmarketwise today, but the ability of prices on the average to hold their gain of last week was encouraging. The market had to withstand considerable profit-taking which developed when early strength failed to continue into the later dealings. There was also a renewal of professional selling inspired by the belief the market was due for at least a technical reaction. Nevertheless, the closing while irregular was slightly inclined to the upside compared with last week's final prices. Statistical disclosures regarding business were of the same disheartening nature as during recent months, but again the market displayed a disregard for the news. Volume was about equal to recent sessions, 1,770,000 shares, and at no time was there any undue activity. Various leaders showed signs of heaviness but offerings were relatively light. Commodities generally were inclined to weakness, particularly the grains, wheat dropping to a new low.

Steel common was closely observed for a reflection of important industrial and banking sentiment. The stock acted heavy. Considerable of the selling today and late last week was for the account of well-informed people. But it represented only profit-taking on purchases made under 160. It is known however, that the most powerful factors in the Steel corporation maintain a fair degree of optimism that their prophecy, issued under the signature of the finance committee, will be fulfilled to the extent that further betterment in operations will take place before the end of the year. Bethlehem Steel was a strong feature running up over two points on revival of the report that a settlement is pending of the fight over Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Technically, the market performance was encouraging to those who watch day-to-day fluctuations. If the market succeeds in exceeding its previous "top" on the last rally, it will be considered highly significant by the chartists and others who base their speculations entirely on the market's own performance regardless of outside factors. Such performances by individual stocks as that by Montgomery Ward were also cheering. In the face of announcement that its August sales were down almost 20 per cent from a year ago, the stock advanced almost a point net. It is recognized that direct comparisons between these periods do not tell the true story, in view of the enormous volume a year ago and the changes in prices. The merchandising group was a strong feature throughout the day. Sears-Roebuck reached a new high on its recovery, and Macy likewise entered new high ground. National-Bellas-Hess lost a fraction on disclosure its August sales were down over 40 per cent. Atlas Stores was steadily bought and advanced 2⅜ points in anticipation of an exceptionally good sales report for August. Estimates were made that sales increased about 20 per cent.

General Motors attracted considerable attention by its strength even during the afternoon softness in the main body of stocks. Whether Motors' strength reflected more than speculative activities was a much-discussed question. Public participation in the market continued light, but professional activities are being maintained on an active scale. A strong crowd has become interested in L. S. Young Spring and Wire corporation stock. Its yield is quite substantial and safety of the dividend is indicated by the first half-year earnings, which equalled $2.62 a share on the 412,500 shares outstanding, the only stock issued. Thus, the dividend of $3 annually was almost entirely earned in the first half of the year. The company is one of the leading manufacturers of springs for beds and mattresses, for automobile seats and cushions and similar products.

The motion picture group maintained its strength, particularly Fox and Warner Bros. Buying of the former has been persistent ever since the bear raid recently which proved such a fizzle. Warner reflected probably more than anything else short covering. The advance in this stock has been rather substantial since the receivership action was dismissed. Professionals have renewed selling of Warner in the belief that a reaction is due. General Theaters equipment responded to the continued strength in Fox, in which it has an enormous stock interest. General Electric and Westinghouse failed to respond to widespread rumors of a huge railway electrification program being inaugurated in the near future to stimulate the business world. Oil stocks continued heavy. Utilities were slightly lower on the average. Auburn enjoyed a sharp run-up principally on speculative manipulation.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 2. (AP)—Trading on the cash grain market here today after the three-day holiday was dull with trading small and demand light even for the small offerings.

Export demand for wheat was very slow with bids around 88½c drawing little grain. Mills were bidding 93c to 94c for ordinary No. 1 hard wheat but no sales were posted at the close of the market.

Estimated receipts for the three days: Wheat, 103 cars; corn, 25; oats, 110; and sorghums, 4.

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.01 to $1.02; No. 2 white $1.03 to $1.04; No. 2 yellow $1.11 to $1.12.

Oats—No. 2 red 52c to 54c, with latter prices paid only for seed quality. Also quoting No. 3 white oats delivered Texas group one points at 49½c to 50½c to which add 1 cent for delivery group three.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo in good demand at per 100 pounds, $1.90 to $1.93; No. 2 kaffir slow at $1.70 to $1.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Heavy selling of wheat future deliveries, induced by extreme weakness at Liverpool, sent Chicago wheat reeling today, and all deliveries struck new bottom prices for the year. Declines were 2c or more a bushel, with little support for the market noted.

Liverpool prices collapsed before the Chicago market opened, weakened by anticipated bearish news from this side of the Atlantic. This was borne out by private unofficial crop estimates which placed the 1930 spring wheat yield at 237,000,000 bushels or 14,000,000 bushels greater than the official government forecast in August, and compared with 228,000,000 bushels actually harvested last year. The visible supply of wheat also showed an increase of 5,230,000 bushels for the week and is now 187,505,000 bushels against 182,400,000 bushels last year.

Wheat closed weak, 2@2⅝c a bushel lower than Friday's finish. Corn closed ¾@1⅜c off, oats 1@1⅜c down, and provisions from 5@18c advanced.

Corn prices were higher at the start or trading in anticipation of bullish unofficial estimates as to the size of the 1930 crop. The market eased with wheat weakness, however, despite the fact that the advance opinions on the size of the estimates were largely correct.

Oats and rye were lower with other grains. Commission houses were reported to be buying oats steadily on the price breaks.

Provisions were firmer, because of commission house buying, despite breaks in grains.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September 81¼c, 84⅝c; December 87¼@87⅝c, 90⅝c; March 91⅝c, 94⅜c; May 94⅝c, 97½c. Corn—September 95½c, 99c; December 91⅜@91½c, 94⅝@94½c⅜; March 93c, 96⅛c; May 95½c, 99c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (US)—There is a constantly growing number of traders bullish on wheat for the long pull who are standing on the sidelines being unwilling in the absence of outside interest to buy in the face of the Northwest pressure.

Many of the long term bulls feel that the present range of wheat and corn assures a greater substitution of wheat for feeding purposes.

Murray estimated 220,000,000 bushels of old corn on farms compared with 258,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Broomhall says Japan has been a moderate purchaser of wheat lately, practically all of the purchases sailing from the Atlantic seaboard.

French estimates are somewhat higher than the lowest figures which were received on wheat, but are still much smaller than a year ago at 240,000,000 bushels, compared with 320,000,000 last season.

Chicago Curb Market Opens New Quarters

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—Clarence G. Troup, president of the Chicago curb exchange today formally opened the new quarters of the market at 332 South La Salle street.

Troup reviewed its beginning a little more than a year ago, with a trading volume of only 596,000 shares in its first six months, its sales of 6,643,201 shares in the first half of 1929 and a volume running 250 per cent larger thus far this year.

"The volume of business," he said, "is increasing at a rate which will make us the fourth largest exchange in the country before the end of another year."

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. (AP)—Cotton goods opened very steady today with higher prices asked for print cloths. Fine goods were in better demand. Finished goods buyers were more numerous in the markets. Cables stated that the Indian government's final forecast of the jute field for 1930-31 was 11,231,000 bales, compared with 9,767,000 bales a year ago. Silk was unchanged at the opening. Wool goods and silk merchandise were in steadier demand among cutters.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was slow with fed steers and yearlings of strictly, good and choice quality holding steady, but other killing classes were on a weak to 25c lower basis. Chicago scored $12.35 on weighty fed steers and yearlings. Better kinds of western steers, showing the effect of having been wintered, or fed on the grass, cleared from $8.25@9.75, while most of the common to medium straight grassers cashed from $5.75@8.00.

Opening trade on hogs at several markets ruled about steady to shippers, but later all interests operated slowly at steady to 25c lower rates. The day's extreme top of $11.35 was paid early at Chicago. Sheep approximated 98,400, an increase of 15,000 over a week ago and 13,500 more than a year ago. Fat lambs were unevenly steady to 25c lower, with most points reporting losses of 15@25c. Aged stock was unchanged. Westerns sold up to $9.15.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Sept. 2. (AP)—Mixed common butcher cattle made up the bulk of the supply here today. Trading was slow, but values were steady. Figures called for 3,500 cattle, 1,500 calves, 500 hogs and 4,300 sheep.

Steers consisted of plain and common grassers and a few short fed steers at $6.25 and $6.50 with plain and common steers due to clear $3.50 to $5.00.

With rail hogs up to $10.75, values were considered 10 to 20c higher. Truck hogs sold up to $10.25.

Sheep were steady with aged fat wethers at $4.00 and some feeder yearlings at $3.50.

Hogs—Receipts 500; 10@20c higher; rail top $10.75; truck top $10.25; bulk better grates 175-230 pounds truck hogs $10.00@10.15; packing sows mostly $7.50@7.75; steady; light lights 140-160 pounds, good and choice, $9.95@10.60; 180-200 pounds, good and choice, $10.00@10.75; packing sows 275-500 pounds, medium and good, $7.00@8.00.

Cattle—Receipts 4,500, including 1,500 calves; all classes about steady; slaughter steers mostly $5.50@6.50; bulk butcher cows $3.85@4.35; stocker trade quiet, some desirable stock steer calves $7.25; good to choice heavy fat calves $7.00@7.60; some lightweight vealers $7.25@7.35.

Sheep—Receipts 4,300; few sales steady; good aged fat wethers $4.00; common wethers $2.00; feeder yearlings $3.50.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 2. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 1,200. Calves—Receipts 1,200. Monday's slow and weaker undertone in butcher and calf departments continued as supplies held up; steers fully steady; top $10.00; medium to good lightweights $8@9.50; plain grass steers $3.50@4.50; butcher stock 25c off with spots a little more; medium to good butcher cows $4.25@5.00; and cutters $2.50@3.00; heavy bulls up to weighty beef cows $5.25 up; bulk canners $5.50; heavy and in-between veals slow and weak to 50c lower; bulk choice veals $8@8.50.

Hogs—Receipts 1,500; large supplies found major packers paying 10c lower on butcher hogs; top dropped to last week's close of $10.40; bulk medium to good kinds $10.25 up; packing sows and stags unchanged at $8.00.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs—Receipts 36,000; slow uneven early market; later trading around steady; early top $11.35; light lights, good and choice, 160-350 pounds $10.00@11.35; packing sows, medium and good, 275-500 pounds $8.00@9.10; slaughter pigs, good and choice 100-130 pounds $8.25@9.75.

Cattle—Receipts 20,000; calves 3,000; well finished steers and yearlings steady; supplies such kinds scarce; plain weighty 25c or more lower; top $12.35; she stock 25c lower; slaughter cattle and vealers, steers good and choice 900-1,500 pounds $10.00@12.50; heifers, good and choice, 550-850 pounds $10.25@12.00; cows, good and choice, $5.35@8.00; bulls, yearlings excluded, good choice beef $6.00@7.00; vealers, milk fed, good and choice $10.50@12.25; stocker and feeder steers, good and choice 500-1,050 pounds $7.75@9.00.

Sheep—Receipts 20,000; about steady; bulk mostly $7.50@8.00; a few fat ewes $3.00@3.75; rangers unsold; lambs 90 pounds down, good and choice $8.25@9.85; ewes 90-150 pounds, medium to choice, $2.50@4.25; feeding lambs 60-75 pounds, good and choice, $6.75@7.75.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Sept. 2.—Enrollment in the Childress High school was near the 400 mark here tonight following the opening of the school Monday. Exercises were held in the auditorium of the school, and approximately 500 are expected to register during the first week of school. The school system here employs 52 teachers, headed by Supt. A. W. Adams.

COUNTY PLANS DROUTH AID

Wichita Leaders to Solve Own Problems

and which will work with the central county committee of five and the county commissioners court in formulating a definite plan of procedure in organizing the relief project.

R. P. Hall, secretary of the Electra Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the meeting here Tuesday, announced that Mr. Harrell's committee and the other two bodies would meet at once for consideration of the work before them. A date for a meeting was tentatively set for Thursday, following the meeting of the state drouth committee at Quanah Wednesday. The committees and commissioners, he said, will probably meet at a luncheon here.

It was pointed out by several farmers at Tuesday's meeting that seed will have to be planted before the end of September in order for farmers to realize a feed crop for their stock during the winter. Members of the committees present promised immediate steps toward providing assistance and gave assurances that something will have been done before it becomes too late for planting, the aid to be of local nature instead of waiting for federal government relief.

Hall Tells Aims

At the opening of the meeting Tuesday afternoon, Chairman Hall pointed out that the conference had been called primarily to learn at first hand the actual drouth conditions in Wichita county and to hear from the farmers their status concerning cotton crops, feed crops, their financial condition and their ideas about relief. From these facts, he said, the business men present could gain some knowledge of conditions with a view to offering assistance and proposing plans for providing that aid.

F. R. Knauth of Burkburnett, the first to volunteer to speak concerning drouth conditions, said: "The farmers near Burkburnett, especially south and west, have practically no feed to carry them through the winter. What feed they now have, they are using and it will all be gone in a short while. In that vicinity it will take 15 acres of land to make a bale of cotton. The farmers have no money to make a crop on. They must have financial aid."

H. C. Obenhaus, a farmer from the northwest portion of the county, said: "I do not believe half the farmers up there have enough feed to carry them through the winter. It will take from 10 to 25 acres of cotton land to make a bale. There is very little feed and no grass."

J. H. Shoals of the Cashion community said: "There is very little feed and practically no grass in our section. Cotton is in terrible condition and it will require from 25 to 50 acres to make a single bale. We have no seed with which to plant. Most of the farmers there are renters and are in bad need of assistance."

Conditions in the section north of Iowa Park were described by Mr. Walker, a farmer from that vicinity, who said: "Our stock will eat up what feed we have within 30 days. I have 340 acres in cotton and I'll probably, with luck, get 15 bales from the whole thing. If I could get some seed I could now sow it and carry my stock through the winter, but we have no seed and no way to get it. I have a field of feed which ranges from waist-high down and every bit of it is dead, killed by the drouth. My stock wouldn't bring $15 a head the condition they're in, and I couldn't ship them out. All my cows are poor for lack of feed."

Conditions Described

Mike Emmert, dairyman here, who is familiar with the conditions concerning stock, said: "I have been a representative of the dairy association here for the past few years and I could see this condition coming on three months before it got here. We have absolutely no feed now. We must have feed to support this vast stock territory. We have had milk cows here for many years and we've been a long time building up our territory. But conditions have got down to where it looks like they'll just have to turn the cows out and let them die. We can't do that—we must not. I am not trying to paint a dark picture. That's the way things actually are. We have been trying to buy feed for the cows. We appointed committees to buy feed, sent them through a wide territory in both Texas and Oklahoma and they came back and said, 'We can find no feed.'"

B. F. Greer, who lives northeast of the lower valley road, said: "Our conditions are not so bad in the irrigated district, but when you get away from the watered sections conditions are extremely bad. I know for a fact that hundreds of farmers are going to have to get help from somewhere."

Will George of Iowa Park, a member of the county central committee, said: "Near Iowa Park cotton is practically a failure. The feed crop is dead and no seed are available. North of Iowa Park the farmers are in dire financial straits."

Sam Kelly of Electra said: "The only solution for the livestock is wheat pasturage. Outside the irrigated districts there is no feed. I have heard some farmers saying they didn't have enough to eat. I feel that Governor Moody should call a special session of the legislature and make our taxes payable twice a year instead of once, to help us through this bad financial period."

Federal Aid

As a conclusion to the discussion from the angle of the farmers, S. D. Johnson of the Kemp & Kempner farms presented a wholly different picture of conditions in the irrigated lands. "In the irrigated districts," he said, "there is an abundance of feed and we have it for sale, but the dry land farmers have no money with which to buy the feed. We can have green feed through the winter to run the stock by irrigation. So far as the federal government is concerned, about the only aid we can expect from them is a lowering of the freight rates. We should urge this rate reduction as an aid to the farmers at this time."

William Austin, Electra merchant; Earl Knox, in the feed business at Iowa Park, and R. E. Scheurer of Electra were the first speakers to take the floor in behalf of the business men present. They signified their willingness to take part in any movement to secure needed relief for farmers, pointing out that their well-being depended to a large extent upon the prosperity of the farmers. These men later gave their approval to the plan suggested by Mr. Harrell and other business men present.

"I do not have a lot of faith in federal aid," Mr. Harrell said. "About the only thing the state or federal governments can do is extend time for payment of taxes. They cannot remit your taxes. That would be a direct gift and an unsound principle. The people must support the government and cannot expect the government to support them.

Harrell Makes Talk

"I believe there is enough wealth in Wichita county to take care of our situation. Some scheme can be worked out to finance the farmer through this crisis. The federal government cannot and never has loaned money without collateral, and most of our farmers have no collateral. The banks have already carried their loans to the extent of available collateral and we are in a position to know what they can offer for security. The first thing as I see it is for the business man of Wichita county to acquaint themselves with the present condition and take a hand in the problem of financial relief for the farmer. The problem is a local one and should be handled—and can be—right here in our own county.

"A local organization should be formed and incorporated to extend credit to farmers who have no collateral and who cannot get any. Those who are able must contribute to that corporation and have faith in the integrity of the honest and trustworthy farmers that they will pay the money back next year when their crops have become normal again. We must have some way such as this to loan money to tenant farmers who have no collateral to offer."

At this point, A. Lohoenfner, a farmer from near Burkburnett, gave his approval of the plan suggested by Mr. Harrell and recalled a similar condition in Kansas 50 years ago when the county borrowed money to establish a fund for loaning money to farmers who had no collateral. More than 75 per cent of the farmers paid their notes the next fall, he said, adding that "back in Kansas, all we got from the state and federal governments was good words."

S. Y. Ferguson, business man here, related that about 30 years ago in this section, a similar condition prevailed.

"I bought and brought here a carload of seed," he said, "and sold it at cost to the farmers, taking their notes for payment. More than 95 per cent of those notes were fully paid by the next fall. I believe in the honesty of the farmer. I advocate the formation of this local corporation to give aid and sell seed to you farmers without collateral, where none is available. And I feel sure that the majority of these notes given the corporation will be paid before the next year ends."

Resolution Adopted

At the close of the meeting a resolution addressed to the state committee was proposed by H. C. Hudson of Iowa Park and seconded by S. D. Johnson, who had previously spoken in behalf of the irrigated district farmers.

The resolution follows: "We, the undersigned county committee of the county of Wichita, Wichita Falls, Texas, respectfully petition your honorable body to place the name of Wichita county on the list of those counties in Texas desiring drouth relief through whatever channels this committee may see fit.

"We recognize the fact that the irrigated valley in Wichita county is perhaps in an unique position, not needing or desiring financial aid. We do know and feel that there are large sections, in fact the greater portions of the remainder of Wichita county, that do need help and relief at this time.

"In conclusion, we again desire to request help and aid through the drouth relief committee for Wichita county, Texas, the same to be dispensed by and through the duly authorized committee.

"Signed, J. F. Friberg, Wichita Falls; Robert P. Hall, Electra; E. H. Lilly, Burkburnett; G. C. McGown, Wichita Falls; Will George, Iowa Park."

American Authorities Wash Hands Of Whole Jack 'Legs' Diamond Case

AIX LA CHAPELLE, Germany, Sept. 2. (AP)—The American authorities in Germany today informed the local police that they were no longer interested in the conduct or whereabouts of Jack (Legs) Diamond, arrested here on board the Ostend Vienna express.

The embassy issued a statement saying: "We are through with the case. All we did was to tell the Russian police that a man with a black record in the United States was about to enter Germany. We made no request for his arrest but considered it our duty to advise Germany of the arrival of a notorious criminal. Now that he has been nabbed the Cologne consul has advised Washington accordingly."

When examined by the police the prisoner denied that he was the New York gangster. The authorities, basing their action upon identification data submitted from Berlin, felt convinced they had arrested the right man. Having solved to their satisfaction the puzzle of his identity and having listed him officially as the man wanted, the Prussian ministry of the interior, which has jurisdiction over him, determined that he should be evicted as an undesirable alien but postponed its action in deference to further American wishes.

Diamond carried 15,000 marks cash (about $3,750) and considerable baggage when he was arrested.

Yesterday he was expelled from Belgium as an undesirable alien.

Diamond, traveling under the name Jack Dolan, took his arrest calmly, but was not disposed to talk. He came to Germany, after being denied even temporary residence in Belgium.

Woodcock Exhorts Agents to Watch 'Moral' Honesty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. (INS)—Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, opened his school for prohibition agents here today with an exhortation for them to be intellectually as well as morally honest.

"If we cannot win this campaign by improving the type of agents, then it cannot be won at all," he said.

"Get the commercial violator," was given by Woodcock as the principal objective of enforcement.

"If we reach that objective without too many casualties," he told the 34 specially picked agents comprising the class, "we may have further objectives."

STOREY NAMED KIWANIS HEAD

Dallas Man Named Governor of District

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, Sept. 2.—Robert Gerald Storey, Dallas attorney and former assistant attorney general of Texas was chosen by acclamation as governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis International and Oklahoma City as the meeting place for the 1931 convention, in the closing session here Tuesday afternoon. At the same time the 10 division lieutenant governors were named in the same manner as the governor and meeting place, by acclamation.

New officers will take their new work up with the first of January, 1931. "I expect to appoint my district secretary-treasurer in a few days," the governor-elect said. "He will be named as soon as I can find some one in Dallas willing enough and with time enough to handle the office."

Following the selection of the convention city, three informal bids for the 1932 convention were given. Galveston, the lower Rio Grande valley and Amarillo presented their claims in brief form. Tyler did not make bid for the convention in a formal manner.

Lieutenant Governors Named

Division lieutenant governors named were, Claude A. Pollard, Austin, former attorney general of Texas, first district; Williams Rasco, Brownsville, second district; Gus Amundsen Jr., Galveston, third district; Williams Gober, Jacksonville, fourth district; Walter L. Morris, Fort Worth, fifth district; E. B. Miller, Plainview, sixth district; E. M. Homberger, Woodward, Okla., seventh district; Forest E. Dudley, Clinton, Okla., eighth district. Albert E. Hunt, Oklahoma City, member Oklahoma supreme court, ninth district; Myles C. Grigsby, Ada, 10th district.

Committee Reports

A report of the laws and regulations committee, which recommended that the present arrangement of naming a governor from one state to preside over the session in the other state, be continued, was adopted unanimously. The suggestion of Kiwanis International that a change be made was voted down. The same report also approved the granting of authority to the Tulsa club to keep its present method of electing officers.

Schools Fix Age Limit

Wichita Board Announces New Teachers

Members of the Wichita Falls board of education voted to permit the enrollment of children who are under 6 years of age, but who will become of that age during September or October, at their regular meeting Tuesday night. A tuition fee of $2.50 per month will be assessed for each child during the entire year, it was decided, and no children who are under the age limit will be admitted at the beginning of the spring term.

Several new teachers were selected to fill vacancies both in the high school and the elementary schools. The list of those chosen for the positions follow: Browneyes Hawkins, primary; Arlis D. Beck, athletics; Lois Crouch, Latin; Rubye Fay Myrick, music; Laura Sliner, penmanship; Sadie Fisher, third grade; Roma McCarty, fourth grade; Bertie Lea Porter, third grade; and Edna Prechel, art.

U. S. FASCISTI MOVE BLOCKED

Order Restrains Leaders Of Organization

ATLANTA, Sept. 2. (INS)—Efforts to organize officially the "American Fascisti association and Order of Black Shirts," apparently were blocked on all sides today following an injunction temporarily restraining leaders of the anti-negro movement from obtaining a charter.

The injunction was signed last night by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, and restrained R. A. Gordon, R. S. Gulledge, H. Gewinner and Walter A. Sims, former mayor, from paying out money or doing anything else under the name of the American Fascisti.

The order was attached to a petition which was to be filed today in superior court by J. T. Lee, seeking receivership for the organization on grounds that Gewinner has usurped powers not delegated to him, and that Gewinner and Gulledge have caused conditions that are "a menace to society, safety of the people and to law and good order."

Judge Thomas ordered a hearing for Sept. 12, at which the defendants will be asked to answer the petitioner.

Further hindrance of the progress of the "organization," was seen today following an order issued by Mayor A. G. Dudley, of Athens, prohibiting sale on the streets in that city of the "Black Shirt" publication.

Bank Messengers Robbed Aboard Speeding Train

CHICAGO, Sept. 2. (INS)—Two bandits today held up a pair of bank messengers aboard a Chicago and Nodthwestern train near Bellwood station and took $27,000 in checks, $1,021 in bond coupons and $500 in cash.

The messengers were Leonard Luetger of the First National bank of Elmhurst and Julius Graue of the First National bank of Chicago.

QUANAH LAYS WATER LINES

City Supply to Reach 1,200,000 Gallons

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 3.—Announcement has been made that work is soon to start on laying a 12-inch pipe line from the new wells on the Allen farm, northeast of Quanah to augment the present supply of water for the city. A fourth well has been drilled, and with these wells connected to the new pipe line it is expected Quanah will be assured of from 1,000,000 to 1,200,000 gallons of good water daily.

The line will be approximately 10 miles long. Local labor will be employed entirely and the supply is ample.

School opens soon. Why not rent your bedroom or apartment to teachers or students? A small want ad in the Times and Record News may bring results.—Adv.

Mowing 'Em Down on the Western Front

Movie Operator for 'All Quiet' Was Once Prisoner in Germany

The chatter of machine guns and the shriek of shells, as depicted in "All Quiet on the Western Front," brings more than the ordinary thrill or chill to at least one Wichitan, who has witnessed every showing of the picture since it opened at the Strand theater.

That Wichitan is John T. Ficklin, operator for the Strand theater veteran of the world war and one-time prisoner in a German camp. While the Strand screen boomed and shook with the horrors of the war picture Tuesday, Mr. Ficklin gave to a Record News reporter a yellowed clipping that told of his release from the prison camp. Parts of that newspaper story of 12 years ago follow:

"John T. Ficklin has been in the service of his country for something like two years, and saw nine months active service during the hottest period of the war. He enlisted in the national guard late in January, 1917, and . . . . was assigned to the historic 36th division and remained with that body during the remainder of his service.

He was sent to France in February after having spent several months at Camp Bowie, where he had won the rank of corporal. While in foreign service Mr. Ficklin was in the thick of practically all the fights into which the 36th entered, and he participated in the engagement in which the American boys defeated the Prussian guards, the flower of the German army for three generations. It was while fighting on the active front that he was captured during the early part of September."

And if you think Erich Maria Remarque's great story is not a true picture of war, or that the thing has been exaggerated in the moving picture, step up to the projection room of the Strand theater and ask Operator John T. Ficklin.

Oil Company Named In Suit for $17,725

Damages aggregating $17,725 are asked in a suit filed Tuesday in district court here against the Plum Jeff Oil company in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray on claims growing out of a highway accident on the Henrietta road near Staley field last July 1.

The petition filed here states a large truck and trailer belonging to the oil company was traveling on the highway at that point and that the driver failed to heed Gray's signal as he approached in a small truck. To avoid a head-on collision, according to the petition, Gray swerved sharply to miss the truck, which he claims was on the wrong side of the road, and ran his small truck into the ditch, overturning it and injuring both himself and his wife. Actual damages of $2,500 are asked for injuries to Gray, $125 for medical fees, $100 for damage to the truck and $15,000 for injuries to Mrs. Gray, who was most seriously hurt.

NICE FOR GIRLS

Birth Rate for Boys Here Far in Lead, Says City Report

Girls in 1950 should have plenty of young men accessible for husbands if those born in 1929 and 1950 remain well and active, and stay around. The male birth rate is exceeding the female.

According to statistics gathered from the city health department, there were 287 girls born in the first eight months of 1928 and 274 born in the same length of time, 1930. Boys born in January to September, 1929 were 350 and up to the first of September, 1930, there were 306 young men registered here. That is a total of 656 boys against 561 girls.

The report shows a small decrease in birth rates for 1930. There were 13 less girls born in the first eight months of 1930 than in the first eight months of 1929, and in the corresponding months, the boys of 1929 exceeded those of 1930 by 44.

Radio Artists to Give Last Vaudeville Bill

The KGKO entertainers will have charge of the final free vaudeville program to be given under the auspices of the city park department on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent.

The station presented the opening program which was such a big success that plans were immediately begun for a big final program which will consist of music, dancing, and black face comedy. Thursday evening will be the first public personal appearance of the entertainers as a group, according to Mr. Bunnenberg.

Charles Doran, who has recently returned from California where he has been dancing and studying, will entertain with several novelty tap dances and George Taylor will offer several vocal selections, accompanying himself with his guitar. The Holland Fiddlers band will offer musical numbers and L. R. Thurman, tenor will give a group of vocal selections.

Other numbers are being arranged.

Water Area Workers Hold Annual Picnic

Approximately 80 persons, consisting of employes of the Wichita County Water Improvement district and their families, were entertained at the fourth annual picnic at the Diversion dam Monday evening. Outdoor games featured the entertainment which was arranged by a committee composed of Mesdames M. L. Hines of Iowa Park; Paul Powell of Iowa Park and G. A. Remington of Wichita Falls.

Following the outdoor activities, a basket dinner was served at 6 o'clock.

OFFICERS HOLD STOLEN TIRES

Theft Ring Believed Broken By Arrests

Members of the sheriff's department Tuesday evening had seized 20 automobile casings, most of them new, an assortment of wheels and several tubes and rims which are alleged to have been stolen from automobile owners in all parts of the city within the past few weeks, according to information given by Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

With the arrest of two negro men and the filing of additional charges against them Tuesday in connection with the tire thefts, it is believed that the numerous cases of tire theft reported here of late have been solved and that the ring of thieves and buyers of the stolen tires has been broken, Sheriff Bralley said. Several more tires believed to have been stolen had not been brought in Tuesday but deputies will continue their seizures Wednesday.

A complaint charging theft over $50 was filed Monday against Walter Scott, one of the two negroes arrested Sunday night by George Garrett, special deputy in the Country Club Estates area, when one casing was found in a car occupied by Charlie Harris, the other negro accused. A charge of burglary was filed Tuesday against Scott in connection with the taking of two complete casings, tubes and wheels from the garage of Virgil Appleton, 1209 Seventeenth street. The theft over $50 charge was filed in connection with the stealing of a new tire, tube and wire wheel from Harry Katz. Several misdemeanor complaints were also lodged against Scott, charging theft of various of the remainder of the 20 tires already seized.

Harris, the other negro, was named in misdemeanor complaints for complicity in the thefts and disposal of the tires. Several of the recovered tires had not been claimed Tuesday and the sheriff's department was holding them awaiting owners to claim them. Scott will be held to await the action of the October grand jury, it was said.

Land Owner Sues For $10,400 Water Damage

Alleging her land has been waterlogged by seepage from an irrigation canal running near her property, Mrs. Mary Putnam Bishop Tuesday filed suit in district court here against the Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 2 on a claim to damages amounting to $10,400 for total value of her land, or an alternative of $8,580 damages and a court order requiring the water district to repair the canal to prevent further seepage and damage to her farm.

Mrs. Bishop's property is situated about five miles southwest of Iowa Park. Her petition states 52 acres out of the total of 200 have already been waterlogged and destroyed and another 52 acres have been partially waterlogged and are becoming more damaged as the water continues to seep through the canal walls. Her land, the petition states, is not a part of the irrigation district and she does not use irrigation water.

Two Men Held Here On Shoplifting Charges

Two men were being held in the county jail Tuesday following their arrest by police in connection with the theft of various articles from stores here, according to information given by L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, who filed complaints against them.

One of the men signed a statement in which he told of taking three shirts from the Outlet store here. The other man refused to sign a statement but was named in a complaint charging theft of a pair of pants from the P. B. M. company and complicity in the shoplifting activities of the other man.

MAJESTIC: Ramon Novarro in "In Gay Madrid." Comedy and sound news.

STRAND: All Quiet on the Western Front." Comedy and sound news.

STATE: Jack Mulhall and Sue Carol in "The Golden Calf." Comedy and sound news.

Ramon Novarro, who seems to have nosed out both John Boles and Lawrence Tibbetts for the title of the screen's most popular songster, will be presented at the Majestic today in what seems to be another Student Prince thing—"In Gay Madrid."

Novarro surprised the movie world in his first singie. First enthralling his audience with a rich baritone, he would slide up to take a high note that would make any tenor jealous. He had always been a favorite on account of his handsomeness and acting ability, and his voice put him up another notch.

Following "In Gay Madrid," the Majestic has booked John McCormack's famous "Song O' My Heart" beginning Saturday. The lovable Irish tenor's picture was made around his own old home in Ireland and features little Maureen Sullivan, who made her debut here in "So This Is London." If McCormack is as good a drawing card on the screen as he was in a personal appearance two or three years ago, the house should be packed.

The McCormack picture will offer a good contrast to the ludicrous "Animal Crackers" which opens Friday at the Strand. "Animal Crackers" is like Cocoanuts," except that Harpo is a little better at pickpocketing, Groucho has some newer and funnier gags to spring, Chico has practiced some more on the piano, and Zeppo is zeppier.

Several have compared "All Quiet on the Western Front" to "Journey's End." While the latter dealt specifically with the psychological effect on those who were in the war, the picture now showing is merciless in showing physical results as well. The horrible warfare shown may mean a little restless sleep, but every American should be willing to lose a little sleep over it.

City Tax Collections For August Show Gain

Collections for city taxes during the month of August exceeded those for the same month in 1929 by $380.34 while collections for school taxes during the past month were $613.24 less than for the same month of the preceding year, it was revealed in a monthly report given out by W. Ralph Hyer, city tax collector.

City taxes for 1930 totaled $6,063.41 while those for 1929 were $5,683.07; School tax collections for August in 1930 were $4,964.71, and for 1929 were $4,351.47.

Furnishings Show Here Sept. 26 To Urge Home Beauty

A keener appreciation of the use of accessories in making the home beautiful will result from the National Home Furnishings style show to be held here Sept. 26-Oct. 4, and at the same time in all other cities and towns in the United States, according to C. A. Bolton who will act as one of the hosts for the show.

"Few people realize how important it is to have the correct accessories to furnishings in the home," Mr. Bolton said in discussing the coming community event. "Some people think that when the furniture and the rugs and the curtains and draperies are selected, the home is furnished. That is rarely true. These are essential, but the charm of the home is created through the use of small objects.

"I know that for years we cluttered up every table, desk and mantle with anything that happened to please our fancy, from wooden shoes to china dogs. This sort of decoration has fortunately gone out of fashion. Every piece of pottery, every picture and every mirror or other bit of decoration that goes into the modern home now goes there because it fits in with the decoration schemes.

"Pictures are one of the chief items of decoration. They can be used to emphasize the color scheme of a room; they are lovely and inspiring to look at and they help to carry the decoration up above the normal eye level.

"Mirrors may be used to reflect light into a dark corner as well as form one of the important centers of interest in the room. Wall hangings of all sorts help to give life and interest to the walls and make the home more livable."
