Pilot flies to freedom from guerrilla captors

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A missionary pilot has escaped from leftist guerrillas who kidnapped him and three other Americans weeks ago. He flew out of the jungle on a foggy, moonless night, his lights out, not knowing if he had enough fuel to make it, a spokesman for the missionary group said Friday.

The guerrillas have demanded a $130,000 ransom for the three missionaries they still hold, said Mel Wyma of the New Tribes Mission of Sanford, Fla.

Paul Dye, of Saginaw, Mich., was flying a missionary couple and a copilot out of a remote southeastern village on Oct. 5 when they stopped over at Morichal Viejo, 250 miles from the mission headquarters in the central Colombian town of Villavicencio, his wife told the Associated Press. Rebels seized the single-engine plane and flew off with the four Americans, she said.

Dye escaped on Oct. 10, Wyma said in a telephone interview, but did not explain why it wasn't announced earlier.

Wyma said the others still held are copilot Stephen Estelle, of Douglas, Ariz., Timothy Paul Cain, 35, and his wife Bonnie, 33 of Alexandria, Va.

In Washington, State Department deputy spokesman Charles Redman said the U.S. Embassy in Bogota has been in contact with the Colombian government in an attempt to secure the release of the captives since they were kidapped three weeks ago.

Wyma said: "We got a letter from the guerrillas, saying they wanted 20 million pesos ransom," an amount equivalent to $130,000. He said the guerrillas claimed they were members of the Ricardo Franco Brigade.

"They said they wanted to negotiate the ransom and release right away for Bonnie Cain because of her delicate helath," Wyma said. "She has had hypoglycemia for some time."

Hypoglycemia is a form of diabetes often requiring insulin therapy, which can be fatal if not treated.

The Cains had been working with an Indian tribe in a remote area of southeastern Colombia for nine years, assisting in their economic development and trying to get a Bible printed in their native language, Wyma said.

When Cain became ill with malaria, Wyma said, the mission sent Dye and Estelle to fly him out. But they were captured during a stop.

Wyma said he believes the rebels' chief objective was obtaining the Cessna 185.

He gave this account of Dye's escape:

"He was being held in a hut with a floor raised several feet off the ground. It was night and his watch was broken so he didn't know what time it was. There were seven guerrillas holding him.

"He slipped out of the camp and managed to get the airplane out of the jungle where it was being hidden. It was foggy and there were trees on both sides of this little narrow strip where the plane had landed.

"It was pitch black. There was no moon. It all makes your hair stand on end to think about him taking off in fog in the dark and not even

Shultz to meet with Gorbachev

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz announced Friday he will meet next month with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev in an attempt to resolve "major differences" between the superpowers two weeks before the Geneva summit.

Shultz, in a curbside news conference outside the U.S. mission to the United Nations, virtually ruled out the possibility that President Reagan and Gorbachev would conclude an arms control agreement at their summit meeting Nov. 19-20.

The secretary called the pre-summit talks with the Soviets "intensive and searching" and said preparations were progressing.

"At the same time," he said, "I would have to say there are major differences that need to be resolved and we hope that some of them may get resolved before the meeting in Geneva."

"President Reagan felt that it was appropriate for me to go and I've accepted the (Soviet) invitation," Shultz said after meeting for more than two hours with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze at the U.S. mission.

George Shultz

He and other U.S. officials denied that Reagan had decided to respond to Gorbachev's recent proposal for a 50 percent reduction in nuclear missiles and warheads with a new proposal of his own.

But the officials left open the possibility such a decision would be taken before Shultz' Nov. 4-5 mission.

National security adviser Robert C. McFarlane told reporters upon Reagan's arrival from New York at Andrews Air Force Base that the president wants to make "a timely response" to the Soviet arms reduction proposal.

But McFarlane said that he could not predict when Reagan might decide on the U.S. response.

Asked if it could be completed in time for Shultz to carry it to Moscow, McFarlane said, "Anything's possible, theoretically."

Reagan and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher agreed during their talks here earlier in the week that Gorbachev was on a publicity offensive and that the United States would have to do more to explain its own views on slowing the nuclear arms race.

Whatever the two leaders might accomplish at the summit, Shultz said, there still would be "a great deal of work to do in Geneva by the arms negotiators in the future," he said.

At the same time, he welcomed the Soviet proposal that Shevardnadze presented in a speech to the U.N. General Assembly on Thursday for "an agreement in principle" on weapons reductions.

Shultz said one of the objectives for the summit was to "set out a sense of direction for the future" of U.S.-Soviet and East-West relations.

A senior U.S. official, briefing reporters under rules that barred identifiying her by name, said "we have not looked to Geneva to produce full-fledged agreements."

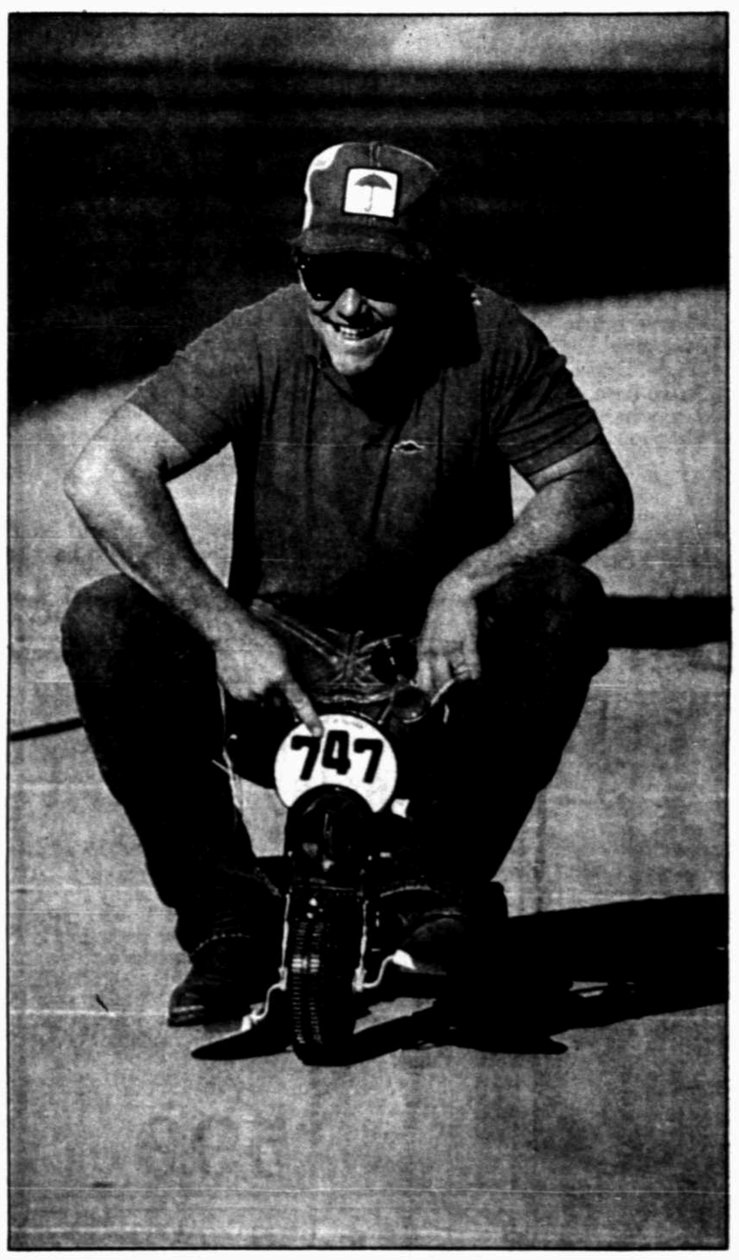

She said the two sides had exchanged "ideas" and "possible language" for an agreement in principle.

Shultz and Shevardnadze, in their breakfast meeting, also discussed the speech Reagan gave Thursday to the General Assembly. In it, the president urged the Soviets to help resolve conflicts in five countries that, he said, were the result "of an ideology imposed from without," meaning Moscow and Havana.

The official said Shevardnadze did not register an opinion, telling Shultz only that the speech "will be studied."

Man convicted of voluntary manslaughter

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

After deliberating more than eight hours Friday, a seven-man, five-woman jury found Frankie Madrid Lujan guilty of voluntary manslaughter in the July 6 stabbing death of Daniel Ozuna Padilla.

The 21-year-old Midland man was charged with murder, but the jury convicted him of the lesser included offense after rejecting his claim of self-defense.

After the jury returned the verdict about 8:45 p.m., 142nd District Judge Pat Baskin recessed the trial until 9 a.m. Monday, when the jury will hear character witnesses before considering Lujan's punishment. The defendant faces a penalty range of two to 20 years in prison, but is also eligible for probation because he has no previous convictions.

Lujan had been indicted for murder after the July incident, in which the 20-year-old Padilla was stabbed five times. Lujan admitted using a knife on Padilla, but defense attorneys Richard Alvarado and Richard Davis argued their client acted in self-defense after Padilla attacked him.

"The only way that he (Lujan) could get him off of him was to use that knife," Davis told the jury during closing arguments Friday. "He was in a situation where he had no other alternative."

Testimony from both sides indicated Padilla approached Lujan in a parking lot sometime after 1 a.m. July 6 after the defendant and two friends left a party in the Lakewood apartment complex. A fight broke out, and Padillo wound up on the ground with a fatal wound to the heart.

Prosecution witnesses were unsure who started the fight, but two defense witnesses identified Padillo as the aggressor. He and Lujan had fought about a year before the incident, and Alvarado suggested to the jury that Padilla was looking to repeat his triumph over the smaller man.

"Padilla said, 'Let's go whip these little wimps,'" Alvarado said. "This big guy comes at a little guy and starts knocking the crap out of him. Does that create fear? I submit it does."

A pathologist testified Padilla was about five feet 10 inches tall and 160 pounds; Lujan stands five feet two inches tall and weighs about 105 pounds.

"But inside, he's six feet tall," Rosado told the jury. "He's small, but he's no weakling."

Even if Lujan hadn't started the fight and was getting the worst of it, he should have run away instead of pulling out a knife, Rosado said.

"You can use deadly force against someone only if that person uses deadly force against you," he said, but Lujan had claimed he started slashing at Padilla because he couldn't get away from the larger man.

"I just wanted to get him away from me," he testified Thursday, adding he didn't remember making a deep thrust into Padilla's chest.

Insurance board divided on how much to cut auto rates

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texas auto insurance premiums will drop next year, but a divided State Board of Insurance Friday postponed until next week a decision on exactly how much motorists will save.

Saying they wanted more time, two of the three board members outvoted the third — Carole Keeton Rylander — when she proposed an average 8.4-percent rate reduction for policies sold after Feb. 1, 1986. The board will meet again Thursday, and apparently agree to a rate cut ranging from Ms. Rylander's 8.4 percent to the 1.3 percent its research staff had recommended.

The 5½-hour meeting featured often-heated exchanges between board Chairman Lyndon Olson, attorneys for the insurance industry and Attorney General Jim Mattox over two issues the board had never before faced. One — the new mandatory seat belt law — would reduce premiums, and the other — a Texas Supreme Court decision requiring insurance companies to pay interest on money courts award plaintiffs in damage suits — could increase premiums.

Mattox's accusations that insurance companies have been "gouging" Texans with high premiums lately brought loud cries of "foul" from Olson and industry representatives. Mattox called on the board to cut rates "by at least 5.6 percent."

The Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, representing more than 400 insurance companies, had requested a 10.6-percent rate hike. A decrease, said TAISO attorney David Irons, "will be an adequate rate for some of them and completely inadequate for others."

The seat belt controversy centered around differing estimates of how many Texans would buckle up and obey the new law. Increased seat belt usage reduces injuries and medical insurance payments, thus reducing the insurance industry's costs. The board sets premiums based on those costs.

Col. Jim Adams, director of the Department of Public Safety, told the board he expects "well in excess of 60 percent" of Texans will comply with the mandatory buckle-up law. "It's such a winner that you have to be dumb not to realize that wearing a seat belt is beneficial to you both from a health standpoint and an economic standpoint," he said.

Adams told the board his troopers have observed that about two-thirds of motorists on Texas highways already are wearing their seat belts. The new law took effect Sept. 1, but courts will not begin handing out $25-to-$50 fines until Dec. 1.

The insurance industry had based its rate-increase request on a 40-percent compliance rate with the seat belt law. But Friday, Allen Williams, vice president for research at the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, said he sees "no alternative to waiting and measuring the actual experience" before reaching an accurate estimate.

"It is impossible to reliably predict the levels of belt use or the injury reductions that can be expected from a seat belt law," Williams said.

Ms. Rylander based her proposed 8.4-percent reduction on a predicted 70-percent buckle-up rate.

Fireworks erupted between Mattox, board Chairman Olson and TAISO attorney Richard Geiger over the effect the Supreme Court decision would have on the insurance industry's costs. Mattox accused Geiger of "blowing a lot of smoke" at the board by misinterpreting the decision.

Geiger responded by saying Mattox was "doing a grave injustice" to his office by alleging that industry witnesses lied to the board.

Mattox and Ms. Rylander said the court decision would have no impact on the industry's costs and should not offset any of the proposed premium reduction. Olson and board member David Thornberry asked for additional time to study that matter and the seat-belt usage estimates.

Under the board staff's proposal, Jefferson County motorists would pay 5.6-percent less for the average auto insurance policy next year, while the industry's plan called for a 4.7-percent increase. County-by-county breakdowns of Ms. Rylander's proposal are not yet available.

Helicopter to patrol Midland County skies

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

Burglars, oilfield-equipment thiefs and other miscreants who infest the far reaches of Midland County will soon feel the long arm of the Sheriff's Office descending upon them from a new direction — the sky.

"I love it," said Midland Sheriff Gary Painter Friday night after being taken for a ride in the county's new helicopter. "It's worth probably four or five patrol cars at one time."

The shiny blue-and-white Hughes 500C — a rebuilt 1976 model with a brand-new engine — is worth about $80,000, but cost the county nothing to acquire, according to Sheriff's Lt. Clayton McKinney of the Criminal Investigation Division.

"We just heard about it accidentally," McKinney said.

At a law-enforcement conference last month, local officials learned that the Pasadena Police Department had some extra helicopters which it couldn't sell because they had been acquired through a grant program. They had all been given away, but then Brazos County decided not to accept its copter, and McKinney received a call Monday from the Pasadena police chief.

"He told me if I wanted it to come get it," he said.

Painter checked with the Midland County Commissioners, who gave their OK, and McKinney went to claim the department's newest patrol vehicle.

"It's designed for police work" and comes fully equipped with searchlights and radio, according to Painter, who expects the helicopter to help cut down on burglaries and oilfield theft out in the county.

Ector County Commissioners recently grounded their sheriff's helicopter for reasons of economy, but Painter said his budget will not be increased to accommodate the new acquisition. The helicopter itself was free, and hangar space at Air Park has been donated by Basin Aviation and Williams Aviation.

"There's plenty of room," said Aubrey Price, Clayton Williams' pilot, who was on hand Friday to greet the helicopter when it arrived from Pasadena.

San Antonioan: Deficit important as anything

From Staff Reports

Archer

Van Archer says he's an issues-oriented person and when it comes to issues in the 21st Congressional District the San Antonio city councilman sees them as the national deficit, defense, Central America and the trade policy.

Archer, serving his fourth term as a councilman, is planning to seek the Republican nomination for the congressional seat being vacated by Tom Loeffler. Also announced for that position on the Republican ticket are Jeff Wentworth and Lamar Smith, both of San Antonio. Midland Mayor G. Thane Akins has indicated he is considering the race.

But Archer won't be announcing until the end of the year because of his work on the City Council, he said Friday during a visit in Midland for the state convention of Texas Federation of Republican Women.

"The deficit is as important as anything," he said. "The president said we have a deficit because Congress is spending too much money and not because there are too little taxes. We need a constitutional amendment to balance the budget. The easiest thing in the world is for a politician to spend your dollars."

The deficit, said Archer, has brought on a circle of problems that goes into higher interest rates, a strong dollar and a trade deficit.

Of the number of candidates attracted to this congressional race, Archer said he welcomes anyone to the contest. "It's a healthy situation," he said.

Archer described himself as the "conservative spokesman in my area. I have a high profile." The San Antonio City Council often has discussions about "what's right for the country. I probably come up with more issues for local government in San Antonio. I'm the only Republican of 11 people on the council. But I'm successful in selling my issues to the public."

If elected to Congress, Archer said he could work with the Democrats and other Republicans. "If you believe in what you're doing, you have a fair chance of succeeding. You have to build a coalition. I get along with everybody on the council, for the most part. But I don't let anyone run over my point of view."

Archer, a native of San Antonio, is a stockbroker with the Dullnig Comany. He graduated from Alamo Heights High School and received a bachelor's degree from Trinity University.

He has been involved with the Republican Party since the early 1970s and was elected in 1974 to the State Republican Executive Committee. He has served as a delegate to the Republican National Convention three times and worked as regional chairman of the Reagan campaign in 1976 and 1980.

He was appointed by President Reagan to serve on the Presidential Commission on Drunk Driving, and it was this group which recommended that all states raise their drinking age to 21. Contending that he had reservations about telling the states what to do, Archer said he also agreed with the stipulation that federal highway funds would be withdrawn if the drinking age was not raised.

As a congressman, he said, "the decision has to be what is best for America. You can't promise everybody everything."

Ex-member of State House: RRC antiquated

From Staff Reports

If Ed Emmett could have only one complaint about the Railroad Commission it would be that its methods of operation are antiquated.

In Midland for the state convention of Texas Federation of Republican Women, 36-year-old Emmett said if elected to the Railroad Commission he would modernize and streamline its operations.

Emmett is seeking the Republican nomination to the one seat being vacated by Commissioner Buddy Temple. Also announced on the GOP ticket are Milton Fox and John Thomas Henderson. This race is drawing more attention from Republicans now because the incumbent won't be seeking re-election, according to Emmett.

"The Railroad Commission is still operated the way it was 20 and 30 years ago," he said. "This is 1985. It would make sense for the RRC to upgrade the way it handles statistics. Nearly every production company has a computer. I would like to streamline the permit process. It's so long and drawn out. There are 7,000 permit applications stacked up waiting for approval." Meanwhile, the rig count has dropped and the RRC has kept the same number of employees, Emmett noted.

While his opponent Fox is focusing his campaign on getting oil and gas deregulated and researching technology for recovering what resources are left in the ground, Emmett said he is concentrating on regulating the trucking industry and finding markets for natural gas.

"The Railroad Commission has never passed safety regulations for trucks in the state. Trucks are rolling time bombs. I want to open up competition for the trucking business," he said.

Competition for truckers is limited in Texas, he said, citing the example of United Parcel Service. Emmett contended Texas is the only state which doesn't allow UPS to ship from point to point; goods must be shipped out of Texas first before they can be shipped to another point inside the state.

Emmett doesn't see oil and gas deregulation as a "burning issue," but would like to repeal the Fuel Use Act, which dictates that gas can't be used to fire up new boiler units. Since that act was passed, Texas has become the number one coal-burning state, he said.

Elected four terms to the State House of Representatives, Emmett pointed out he also has chaired the committee on energy and served on the transportation committee.

"There's a fine line in this race. I have to work with the two others (on the RRC) who have been running it. By and large, the Railroad Commission has done some good, but it has ignored some areas such as trucking and natural gas," he said.

Candidate attacks Mattox death penalty stand

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

Attorney General candidate Ed Walsh was in Midland Friday attacking incumbent Jim Mattox's recent questioning of whether the death penalty prevents murders.

"Jim Mattox recently shocked the people of Texas by questioning whether the death penalty is a deterrent to criminals," Walsh said.

"There is no doubt it deters criminals," he said.

Walsh is one of four Republican candidates for the state attorney general's office. Other candidates include District 199 Judge John Roach, state Sen. Buster Brown and District 144 Judge Roy Barrera Jr.

About 80 percent of all Texans support the death penalty, he said.

"I think people are sick and tired of violent criminals not being punished."

Walsh also said the attorney general's office needs to make sure death row inmates spend less time in prison.

"We need a individual in that position, who will speed up the death penalty. Ten years on death row is too long to wait," the 38-year-old candidate said.

"I don't think it should take more than two years. The man last executed was in prison for 11 years and that's too long."

More than 200 people are on death row in Texas, Walsh said.

More prisons need to be built, Walsh said, to relieve overcrowding.

"Prisons and keeping violent criminals away from society are on top of the list. If we can't protect our families, we're in a bad way."

If he becomes attorney general, Walsh said he would fire many lawyers in that office, who represent the American Civil Liberties Union against state cases.

Walsh, who has received support from many local law enforcement agencies, said he also wants to improve the relations between the attorney general's office and local police.

"The relationship between the Attorney General's office and law enforcement agencies is the lowest it's ever been," Walsh said.

Walsh served as district attorney general for 8½ years in Williamson County. He resigned to run for state attorney general. Walsh is the only prosecutor in the United States to get a death sentence for serial killer Henry Lee Lucas. He lives in Round Rock with his wife, Lori, and three children.

Walsh will speak this morning at the Texas Federation of Republican Women's convention being held here through Sunday.

RRC candidate basing campaign on experience

From Staff Reports

State Rep. Milton Fox of the Houston area will be basing his campaign for the Railroad Commission on his 26 years experience in the oil and gas industry.

During a news conference Friday, Fox indicated his understanding of the industry which is regulated by the RRC should give him an edge in the Republican primary against announced opponents John Thomas Henderson and Ed Emmett. The primary election will be in May 1986.

If he makes it past the primary and wins the November 1986 general election, Fox said he will urge price decontrol on all oil and gas and encourage development of new technology for extracting oil.

"I am basing my candidacy on the fact I bring unique qualifications to the position. I worked for 26 years in the oil and gas industry," said the petroleum engineer. He has since served seven consecutive terms in the State House. "I understand the industry unlike few other candidates," he said.

By being a Republican on the commission, Fox said he would try to persuade his contacts in the federal government of the need for complete price deregulation. "We have already seen how the market place is regulating the price of crude oil. The same would occur with gas without the current price distortions and economic penalty to Texas."

Fox also noted that 25 percent of the state's natural gas production is shipped out of state at below production prices.

When the fields in West Texas are depleted of their natural resources, Fox said there will be still another 100 billion barrels of oil in the ground, or two-thirds of what was there originally. "Experts are convinced that if we do the research and spend some money we can come up with new techniques" for getting the rest of that oil. The RRC should give companies the encouragement and incentives to conduct that research, he said.

As an example, Fox said that while each barrel of oil brings in $3 in severance tax to the state coffers, companies might be charged only $2 as an incentive to research new recovery methods.

The State Legislature is putting 1.100 of state dollars into research for those new recovery methods in comparison to other activities, such as the Cultural Affairs Commission, and Fox said he would prefer to see more money going for research, such as to the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

"Paul went until his fuel ran out, and he managed to just clear some tree tops and set down in a field. The next morning he radioed some friends who flew in some more gas, and he was able to take off and get back."

Wyma said Dye had a spare ignition key in his shoe.

The Ricardo Franco Brigade is an offshoot of the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces.

The parent group, known by its Spanish initials as FARC, is a Soviet-aligned guerrilla organization.

FARC signed a truce last year with government security forces. The cease-fire was declared to give President Belisario Betancur time to get Congress to enact laws to help Colombia's poor.

The Ricardo Franco Brigade said it would fight on, and has teamed up with the Cuban-allied April 19 Movement, in trying to topple the Colombian government.

TRIAL

A slight man such as Lujan could reasonably have feared suffering serious bodily injury from Padilla's fists, thus justifying self-defense, Davis told the jury.

"Any man in the courtroom, if he wanted to, could beat him into a bloody pulp," Davis said, as his client sat quietly beside him in a gray suit.

The jurors rejected Lujan's claim of self-defense, but in convicting him of voluntary manslaughter rather than murder, they found he acted under the immediate influence of sudden passion, which mitigates his possible punishment.

The penalty range for murder is five to 99 years or life in state prison.

Assistant District Attorney Chuck Roades assisted Rosado in the trial.

Painter's pilot is not yet hired, but he or she will fill an already open slot for a deputy, the sheriff said: "We're trying to find one that knows how to fly helicopters."

Fuel and upkeep will cost the department between $20 and $25 per flight hour to operate the craft, so "We're going to have to cut back somewhere," Painter said. But the department will use the helicopter "in a million ways," according to McKinney, and Painter agreed the cost to the county will be well worth it.

"I'm thrilled to death," he said.

Head Start celebrates 'giving kids a chance'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty years ago, President Lyndon B. Johnson launched Project Head Start as a summer program to help poor children just starting school who had "never looked at a picture book or scribbled with a crayon."

"When these children enter school they are already a year behind their classmates," Johnson lamented. "The purpose of Head Start is to make up that year, to help them get the most out of school."

Since then, numerous studies have documented the wisdom of early intervention through Head Start and similar programs.

When President Reagan took office in 1981, he aimed his budgetary ax at scores of education and health programs, but not Head Start.

Firmly enmeshed in the Reagan safety net, Head Start's budget has grown by a robust 31 percent in the past four years to $1.075 billion. Now a year-round program, it serves a record 452,000 children ages 3 to 5, giving them a leg up on school, as well as health screening, nutritious meals, parental education and other social services.

Two-thirds of the children are black, Hispanic or other minorities; one in eight is handicapped.

More than 9 million youngsters have passed through Head Start since Johnson launched it as part of his War on Poverty.

The project began on Feb. 19, 1965, but October has been Head Start Awareness Month in recent years. Head Start supporters were celebrating the birthday this week by launching balloons from the steps of the U.S. Capitol and from many of the 1,300 Head Start centers across the nation.

"It's a wonderful program," said Karen Lucas, a Head Start teacher at the Bruce-Monroe School in an impoverished corridor of the nation's capital.

Most of the 60 children in three Head Start classes at Bruce-Monroe are from welfare families. Some mothers are still in high school. For these youngsters, Head Start means not only an introduction to skills that will help them learn to read and write, but field trips to the National Zoo, the Air and Space Museum and model farms.

Without Head Start, Miss Lucas said, "most of them would never get outside of the inner city."

Two months ago, the Department of Health and Human Services sent Congress a report synthesizing years of research that concluded children in the program "enjoy significant immediate gains in cognitive test scores, socioemotional test scores and health status."

The report by CSR Inc., a social science research firm hired by the department, also concluded that "over time it appears that test score differences between Head Start and non-Head Start children fade."

But it noted that some research indicates Head Start youngsters, whatever their test scores, adapt better to school.

Dorcas R. Hardy, assistant HHS secretary for human development services, said the report "clearly indicates that we have room for improvement." She said "one of the most interesting findings" was that children who spent one year in Head Start did as well or better than those in Head Start for longer periods.

Childhood sweethearts take vows at 80

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — After 65 years, child sweethearts Charles A. Chastain and Mary Blaine Elliott, both 80, reached the altar.

But the couple, reunited after 62 years apart, married Thursday.

"It really is a fairy tale for me," Chastain said his wedding eve.

"I was lonely out there, especially on Saturdays, so I decided to come here," Miss Elliott said.

Athletic liability insurance cripples school districts

Associated Press

School districts across the country are staggering under the weight of insurance bills that have doubled, tripled and even shot up eightfold in the past 12 months.

Schools, like municipal governments, the medical profession and others that routinely carry large amounts of liability insurance, are being squeezed by a crisis in the U.S. insurance industry, which last year lost $3.8 billion before taxes — its worst showing since 1906, the year of the San Francisco earthquake.

Insurance industry officials say some companies are shunning the schools' business because of a rash of million-dollar jury judgments for students paralyzed in football or gym accidents.

But some educators suspect the insurance companies have panicked and may be pricing themselves out of what has been a profitable business.

Increasingly, districts are banding together to provide self-insurance pools that could wind up offering serious long-term competition to the commercial industry.

However, even the pools buy some insurance to guard themselves against catastrophes, and it is the catastrophic coverage that is the hardest to come buy.

In Pontiac, Mich., where the school insurance bill soared from $189,000 to $810,000, Deputy Superintendent Byron K. Love laments, "It's costing four times as much for half the coverage. It's as though General Motors announced (that) not only are Chevrolets going to be scarce, but anyone who buys one is going to pay eight times as much."

The industry's reaction, Love said, "has just dumbfounded those of us out here in the field. I could understand an increase in premiums of 20 percent or even 50 percent. But to do this is simply beyond reason."

In Illinois, District No. 205 paid $100,000 in 1984-85 to insure its three high schools in Thornton Township south of Chicago. This summer, it had to scramble to get any insurance at all and finally paid $300,000 for a policy that leaves the schools liable for the first $125,000 in major claims.

"It comes as a shock when one year your premiums go down and then the next year you're told you may not even be able to get insurance to cover your operations," Assistant Superintendent Dave Ely said.

In Vermon a group of districts in the Rutland Northeast Supervisory Union saw premiums climb from $30,000 to $87,000 for less coverage. "It's comparable to the energy crisis of 1974, with both soaring prices and short supply," said David Gibson Jr., administrator of the Vermont School Boards Insurance Trust.

In Lincoln Park, Mich., the schools paid $61,638 for insurance policies last year that included $5 million umbrella protection against catastrophes. This year, when the bills came in, they totaled $501,882 — for only $1 million in coverage.

Business manager Thomas M. Perry is still trying "to whittle it down through higher deductibles, eight-month policies instead of 12 months, all types of manipulations. Hopefully, I'll be able to bring it in at no higher than $239,000."

Michigan recently boosted state school aid, but "we'll have to take a good share of that money and plow it into insurance," Perry said.

The $600,000-plus tacked onto Pontiac's insurance bill "is the equivalent of eliminating programs and services for over 200 students," Love said. "We're making all sorts of reductions across the board."

For day care centers, concerns about child abuse by staff have driven insurance premiums through the roof. But for schools, it is accidents that make them a risky business in insurers' eyes.

"We have six swimming pools and three stadiums. In a public high school district in an urban environment, we have a lot of exposure," said Ely, the Thornton Township schools' manager. "What we have to be most concerned about is a real crisis: a school bus wreck, or some terrible accident on the football field or in the stadium."

Insurance industry officials concur.

"Look at their activities: physical contact sports, machine tool shops, driver education programs, operation of school buses, not to mention the general difficulty of insuring minors. They're all creating risks," said Marc H. Rosenberg, vice president for federal affairs of the Insurance Information Institute in Washington.

"We don't see ourselves as the cause of the problem. We see ourselves as being as much a victim as are the schools, as are the cities and towns, as are the doctors," said Thomas P. Bonaros, vice president and general counsel of Utica Mutual of New Hartford, N.Y.

Air tours shatter peace of Grand Canyon

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The average visitor seeking a close-up view of the majesty of the chasm carved over millions of years by the Colorado River is 40 times as likely to fly through the Grand Canyon as hike through it.

But the 48,000 flights that swoop through the canyon each year, a $70 million windfall for the tourism industry, have raised the ire of backpacking environmentalists who yearn for the canyon's promised sanctity.

Flight operators charge that the environmentalists would deny the canyon to 400,000 tourists who take the scenic flights annually in favor of the 11,900 who applied for back country hiking permits last year.

The long-running battle between the two sides will be played out again in coming days in a series of National Park Service public hearings on aircraft use over the canyon. The hearings are planned in San Francisco tonight, Las Vegas on Friday, Phoenix next Wednesday and Williams, Ariz., on Nov. 6.

Some of the more adamant environmentalists are eyeing more than just the sightseeing planes that fly the canyon daily. They also want to reroute commercial jets that criss-cross the canyon three to six miles high, headed to or from major cities such as Los Angeles, San Diego, Las Vegas and Phoenix. Some even say the canyon airspace should be off limits to space shuttles.

The number of operators conducting airplane and helicopter tours of the canyon has tripled in the past decade, with more than 30 companies now involved in the lucrative business. Two-thirds of the flights originate from Las Vegas.

The Federal Aviation Administration says there were 48,000 flights into or out of the canyon in 1984. That number is expected to grow to nearly 209,000 by the year 2003, with some 1.6 million airborne visitors expected by then.

A Scenic Airways plan cruises over the Grand Canyon — one of the many flights environmentalists are unhappy about.

AP Laserphoto

Jim Norton of Phoenix, southwest regional director for The Wilderness Society, says the Park Service was given an order by Congress with the Grand Canyon Enlargement Act in 1975.

"The Park Service was told that if there was a problem with aircraft noise, it must submit recommendations on how to solve that problem," Norton said. "The Park Service is avoiding that requirement like the plague."

Ron Warren, general manager of Grand Canyon Airlines, disagrees.

"The aircraft make no impact on the canyon except for a temporary sound of one to three minutes. There is no residual damage. But you can point out significant damage to the canyon by the back country hikers. These trails that the hikers create are there for good. They don't go away. In terms of damage, the ground user creates much more damage than the air user. The ground user can destroy things that have been there for millions of years."

Warren's canyon-based company began flying Grand Canyon tours in 1926, landing in Boulder City and giving passengers a close-up look at the Hoover Dam construction.

"The Grand Canyon belongs to the world," said Russ Moen, manager of the Las Vegas-based Action Jet Helicopter. "It doesn't just belong to the rafters, those on burros or in cars. If that's the only way we can see it, that's not right."

Students expect nuclear war, study finds

STATE

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sixty percent of American schoolchildren believe nuclear war will break out within their lifetime, researchers said at a national meeting of child psychiatrists here.

Participants in the symposium, sponsored by the American Academy of Child Psychiatry, linked the youngsters' fear of nuclear war to a sense of "futurelessness" and to a rise in teen-age alcoholism, drug abuse, early pregnancy and a general distrust of adults.

Half of American children who believe global nuclear war will break out expect the holocaust to annihilate all mankind, studies show.

The academy is holding its 32nd annual meeting in San Antonio this week. The three-hour symposium on the escalation of youngsters' concerns about nuclear war was Thursday.

The fear of nuclear war has increased by 50 percent in children since the first surveys on youngsters' concerns about the issue following the Cuban missile crisis in 1961, said Dr. Jeffrey B. Gould, a pediatrician at the University of California at Berkeley.

"Some kids say they would rather die than survive a nuclear war," he said. "If a child holds the view that the future of the world is so tenuous, how can they develop properly?" Dr. Edmund C. Levin asked.

Levin, a Berkeley psychiatrist, is the chairman of the academy's newly formed committee on the psychiatric aspects of the nuclear threat. He said nuclear war shrouds answers given to a routine question of his about what children expect to be doing in the next 10 years.

"An increasing number of adolescents say to me, 'Don't worry about it doc. We are all going to be dead in 10 years,'" Levin said.

Childhood concerns about an expected nuclear war are being bottled up inside the youngsters, warned Dr. Carlos Salguero of Yale University. "A 16-year-old high school student told me, 'I'm scared, and I'm mad and there is just nothing I can do about it.'"

The researchers strongly urged parents not to be afraid to broach the subject of nuclear war with their children, especially, for example, after viewing a war-related movie or after watching a news broadcast on international tensions.

Dr. Herbert Bauer, a psychiatrist at the University of California at Davis, interviewed grade-school children the day after the television show, "The Day After," a story of the aftermath of a nuclear war. He said the children expressed "fear, helplessness and rage."

Afterward, he received a letter from an 11-year-old boy. "If we all go down, at least you have lived," the boy wrote to Bauer. "Give us a chance."

Among key findings presented in an analysis of studies of American, Swedish, Finnish and Soviet children by Dr. John M. Goldenring of Loyola Marymount University were that American children ranked concern over nuclear war third among their worries.

Moscow's first mall transforms Arbat street

MOSCOW (AP) — Poet Alexander Pushkin lived on it and horse-drawn trams once clattered over its cobblestones. Now Arbat Street, once the city's cultural center, is becoming Moscow's first pedestrian mall.

The project, costing the equivalent of about $5 million, is breathing new life into the old street.

The shop next to Pushkin's house has been turned into a video store.

The mall, with modern lamps, neat planters and wooden benches, is a surprising sight in contrast to the mammoth buildings, eight-lane avenues and institutional drabness of central Moscow.

At first glance, it could be any European shopping street restored to preserve Old World flavor, with some quintessential Soviet touches, such as the shop that exists only to receive empty milk bottles.

At the head of the street is the Prague Restaurant, where the Soviet upper crust has replaced the czarist elite who wined and dined in mirrored halls and on the summer terrace.

The 600-year-old Arbat Street is memorialized in song and verse, and symbolizes charm and glamour in works by Anton Chekhov, Mikhail Bulgakov and Alexei Tolstoy.

Along the street, the sumptuous homes that once belonged to artists and aristocrats are now communal apartments and state-run shops, but the surrounding byways are still respected addresses.

In 1978, Moscow officials decided to create a mall on the half-mile stretch from a tree-lined boulevard to a bustling garden ring.

Sergei Kovalchuk, aide to Moscow's chief architect, said construction began in 1984.

There are such projects in a few other Soviet cities, but Arbat Street is Moscow's first pedestrian mall and a new venue for the evening strolls that are a pleasure for so many Muscovites.

Some restoration work was still under way on a recent visit and workers were tapping in the last few white, red and brown paving bricks.

On a misty afternoon with just a hint of winter in the air, the view from the top of the crowded, curving street is a startling contrast to the glass and steel buildings on adjacent Kalinin Prospekt.

Buildings repainted in pastels relieve eyes innured to Moscow's usual brown and gray.

The shops are drab and understocked by Western standards: The mall's planners clearly weren't concerned about attracting business.

Most of the stores were here long ago, and their new signs still proclaim in good, simple, Soviet style: "Fruit," "Milk," "Produce."

A poster shop two doors down from the Prague Restaurant's popular delicatessen sells placards saying "My factory is my pride" beside posters denouncing U.S. foreign policy.

In a children-only cafe called Buratino (the Russian version of Pinocchio), a girl in a red Young Pioneer scarf keeps adults out.

Pakistan's newspapers use TV reviews to critique government

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistanis turn to the television reviews in newspapers for criticism of their 8-year-old military government.

It is unwise to directly criticize the government of President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq, an army general, but TV reviewers are getting around the dangers by assailing the country's state-run television service.

Newspaper readers take it for granted that Pakistan Television (PTV) is rarely the target and the government is being criticized.

Justice reacts to Reagan's attack on 'judicial activism'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens has become the second member of the high court to respond to Reagan administration attacks on "judicial activism."

Stevens, in remarks made public Friday, said Attorney General Edwin Meese's recent criticism of the high court is based on a "somewhat incomplete" appreciation of legal history.

Meese has decried so-called judicial activism in rulings he said ignore the Constitution's original intent.

Stevens said that in a speech last summer, Meese suggested that the court, beginning in 1925, wrongly has applied constitutional restrictions on the power of Congress to state governments as well.

Meese's view "overlooks the profound importance of the Civil War and the post-war (constitutional) amendments on the structure of our government, and particularly upon the relationship between the federal government and the separate states," Stevens said.

Stevens spoke to a Federal Bar Association meeting Wednesday, but a copy of his speech was not released here until Friday.

In a speech to the American Bar Association last July, Meese sounded one of the Reagan administration's conservative themes by noting that nothing in the Bill of Rights, the Constitution's first 10 amendments, was originally intended to restrict state powers.

One decision criticized by Meese was the court's invalidation of an Alabama law that provided for daily moments of silence at public schools "for meditation or prayer."

Stevens, who authored the court's opinion in that case, emphasized in his speech "the importance of evaluating subsequent developments in the law, as well as the original intent of the framers."

He quoted from an 1819 letter written by President James Madison that "it was foreseen at the birth of the Constitution that difficulties and differences of opinion might occasionally arise in expounding terms and phrases necessarily used in such a charter that it might require a regular course of practice to liquidate and settle the meaning of some of them."

Stevens said it is possible he misinterpreted Meese's comments, but added, "Is it not possible that some uncertainty may attend an effort to identify the precise messages that equally articulate lawyers were attempting to convey almost 200 years ago."

Earlier this month, Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan denounced as "arrogance cloaked as humility" calls for adherence to the Constitution's original intent. Brennan, in a seminar speech, never mentioned Meese or the Reagan administration.

On other subjects, Stevens reiterated both his belief that the high court "is deciding too many cases" and his opposition to shortening the court's three-month summer recess.

"(Meese's view) overlooks the profound importance of the Civil War and the post-war (constitutional) amendments on the structure of our government, and particularly upon the relationship between the federal government and the separate states."

Rally marks U.S. invasion of Grenada

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Herbert Blaize of Grenada on Friday commemorated the U.S.-led invasion of that tiny island nation two years ago by declaring, "Thank God for President Reagan, thank God for the United States of America."

Blaize, addressing a sparsely attended rally across from the White House, said anyone who believes "that there was no right for a big nation to come into a litte one should come to Grenada and see for themselves."

"Day after day," he said, "our people were imprisoned in their own homes, warned that they would be shot on sight if they went outside. When people can't even get out of their houses, who is sovereign?"

Blaize, in the capital for treatment of a prostate disorder, addressed a rally at Lafayette Park sponsored by the American Opportunity Foundation, an anti-communist group headed by Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga. The event drew about 125 onlookers, many of them routine vistors to the park.

Blaize was elected last December in the first voting in Grenada since a 1979 coup put the island on a leftist path culiminating in a radical army junta's bloody takeover of Marxist Maurice Bishop's government in October of 1983. Bishop was assassinated, and the U.S. invasion followed six days later.

In a mission Reagan said was designed primarily to rescue 800 American medical students, 19 U.S. soldiers, 42 Cubans and 24 Grenadian civilians were killed. Many of the civilians died in the accidental bombing of a mental hospital. According to the U.S. tally, no Grenadian soldiers were killed.

Blaize said the experience of his country — "a dot on the map, shows that no matter how big or small, no country is free from the communist threat." A principal lesson, he added, is that "we must borrow from the communists themselves the slogan of international solidarity. We must make democratic fighters throughout the world join together."

Book urges better relations between faiths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholics who disagree with Jews' views on Israel and related issues should bear in mind the centuries of Jewish hopes for a homeland, suggests a revised church booklet urging better relations between the two faiths.

Greater understanding should be the goal at all levels, say the revised Guidelines for Catholic-Jewish Relations, published by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and described in a news release on Friday.

"Christians may experience difficulties in sharing Jewish views...regarding specific, contemporary controversies," the guidelines say.

On other matters, the guidelines say:

- Catholic effort to convert Jews "is carefully to be avoided" because it "does not respect human freedom."
- The U.S. church has a "historic opportunity" to advance the cause of Catholic-Jewish harmony because the largest Jewish community in the world lives in the United States.
- To improve understanding, meetings and dialogue are needed "on all levels: clergy and lay, academic and popular, religious and social."

The booklet acknowledges that marriages between Catholics and Jews could face difficulties. But instead of simply condemning such unions, it calls for husbands and wives involved in them "to know well both religious traditions so as to be cooperative with the religious duties of the spouse."

On another sensitive subject, the document also notes the statement of the church's Second Vatican Council two decades ago that "the presentation of the crucifixion story should be made in such a way as not to implicate all Jews of Jesus' time or of today in a collective guilt for the crime."

That caution is particularly important for Catholic teachers and preachers "as well as for any dramatization of the events, such as passion plays," the guidelines say.

The first edition, issued in 1967, pointed to "the great progress in the dialogue between the Catholic Church in the U.S. and the Jewish community," said the Rev. John Hotchkin, director of the secretariat of the bishops' committee on ecumenical and interreligious affairs.

Fossil finder receives National Geographic Society medal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kamoya Kimeu has an uncanny ability to reach back into time and find pieces of mankind's history on this planet.

The 46-year-old Kenyan, possessing acute powers of observation and dogged persistence, sifted through the dust and rocks of East Africa for 25 years in search of the taproot of humanity — and he touched it often.

For his efforts and many successes, the man who has made a career of finding important fossils of early man was honored earlier this week by the National Geographic Society with a solid gold medal presented by President Reagan.

The fossil finder, a close collaborator with the famed Leakey family of anthropologists, received the society's distinguished La Gorce Medal from Reagan at a brief White House ceremony.

"This represents the biggest day in my life," Kimeu said afterwards.

In ceremonies at the society's headquarters, president Gilbert M. Grosvenor called Kimeu "perhaps the world's greatest fossil finder" and praised his knack for finding tiny pieces of ancient bone in unlikely places.

The award, formerly known as the society's Special Gold Medal, in the past has gone to such explorers and scientists as Richard E. Byrd, Robert E. Peary, Amelia Earhart and the crew of the Double Eagle II, the first manned transatlantic balloon flight.

The society announced the honor in the November issue of National Geographic Magazine, which contains a special cover story summarizing what is known about early man. Printed on the cover is a life-size, three-dimensional holographic image of a million-year-old fossil skull.

In the announcement, Grosvenor writes that "Kamoya has played an outstanding role in the search for man's origins."

Richard Leakey, the director of the National Museums of Kenya who has worked with Kimeu for 25 years, credited the Kenyan with many of the important findings of his expeditions.

"Without Kamoya's assistance, none of my projects could have been so successful," Leakey said.

Kimeu started as a field worker for Richard Leakey's parents, Drs. Louis and Mary Leakey, in 1960 when he was 21 years old. Later, the son of a goat herder and the son of the renowned anthropologists became friends and partners in digs around west Africa, and made numerous important discoveries.

The latest of Kimeu's important findings was the first nearly complete skeleton of Homo erectus, discovered last year near Kenya's Lake Turkana.

The 1.6 million-year-old skeleton of an adolescent boy is the best example ever found of this human ancestor — an intermediate stage between the first upright-walking man and present-day Homo sapiens.

Leakey recalled how Kimeu, who is curator of prehistoric sites for the Kenyan museums, took a walk on a day off. While sifting through some rocks in an "unpromising" area near camp, he spotted a tiny piece of skull. This led to discovering the rest of the skeleton.

"Kamoya has a gift," Leakey said. "He knows how to look and he is persistent. He deserved some recognition."

Kimeu, speaking in Swahili translated by Leakey, credited patience, persistence and a little luck with his success in picking out tiny pieces of bone among rocks, sand and other debris.

"Basically, you've got to look everywhere," he said, "And since you can't look everywhere, you have to look everywhere you can."

Fort Lauderdale city commissioner proposes beach for dogs, owners

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A city commissioner who admits sneaking his pet dog onto the beach for an occasional swim says he plans to propose creation of a special stretch of sand for dogs and their owners.

Dogs have been outlawed on the beach by ordinance since 1956 and the law carries a maximum fine of $500 and up to 90 days in jail.

But Commissioner Jim Naugle said he wanted to designate a 50-yard stretch as a pooch playground where he could take Snorkle and Scuba. Dogs would have to be leashed, and owners would have to clean up after their pets, he said.

"I have to admit that on occasion I have sneaked Snorkle out to the beach for a swim in the surf," Naugle said. "My vet said it's very good for his skin, and it's very bad on the fleas."

He said he would bring the proposal to the commission Nov. 19.

But Commissioner Robert Cox, a professed dog lover, said beaches just were not the place for dogs."You keep stepping in things that dogs do," he said.

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa. (AP) — Doughterty Township residents could pay their taxes on trips to the filling station if Joe Gidaro is elected tax collector.

Gidaro, 52, owner and chief mechanic of Oak Hill Service Station, also is lone registered member and sole candidate of the Oak Hill Service political party. He is running for tax collector in November.

His opponents belong to better known political parties: Mary Jane Powers is a Democrat and incumbent Jack Kirkpatrick is a Republican.

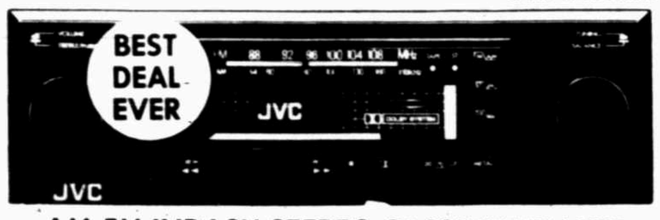

The Oak Hill Service candidate was a Republican until earlier this year, when he decided he could not successfully challenge Kirkpatrick's candidacy. So he gathered the 25 voters' signatures required to start his own party.

He promises voters an unusual new convenience if elected: Drive-in tax business. And the tax office would keep the same hours as the service station, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Rome police arrest another alleged hijacker

ROME (AP) - Rome police have arrested another Palestinian who may have been involved in the hijacking of the Achille Lauro cruise ship, Italian news agencies reported Friday.

The news agency ANSA said the unidentified man was picked up several days ago and was being held in a northern jail awaiting interrogation by magistrates in Genoa where the Achille Lauro cruise began. An American passenger was killed aboard the ship before the four hijackers surrendered.

ANSA said the latest man arrested was believed to be "implicated in the organization of the hijacking."

However, the Italian news agency AGI said the man was arrested Friday because he was believed to have been "in close contact" with the four hijackers.

It said he was captured at a camping site outside of Rome based on information provided by two hijackers who have reportedly begun cooperating with investigators.

Investigators have issued arrest warrants in the hijacking against three men besides the hijackers — one Arab who is in police custody and two unidentified fugitives.

It was unclear if the man the news agencies said had been arrested recently was one of the fugitives or an eighth suspect.

Earlier, an investigator said that the hijackers of the Achille Lauro killed Leon Klinghoffer in cold blood, and not in the heat of passion during a struggle as some have reported.

Luigi Carli of Genoa, who is investigating the hijacking and murder, said in a telephone interview that the four Palestinians had planned to murder a passenger on the cruise liner they hijacked Oct. 7.

Some news reports have said Klinghoffer, a 69-year-old American confined to a wheelchair, was killed only after striking a hijacker who was insulting him or trying to steal his watch. The man then opened fire with his automatic rifle, according to the reports.

Tourism official trying to boost Mexico visitors

Hodgins

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Last month's earthquakes dealt a severe blow to the tourism industry in Mexico, prompting cancellations of as much as 40 percent of the booked business, a Mexican tourism official said Friday.

But Vincent Hodgins, Eastern region tourism director for Mexico, said "we're still very much in business."

The quake Sept. 19 and a subsequent aftershock Sept. 20 left "serious damage but sporadic damage," he said.

Still, 99 percent of Mexico's vacation destinations were undamaged, he said.

In Mexico City, only 13 of the more than 500 hotels have been closed and only 20 of the city's thousands of restaurants have been shut down.

"While Mexico has suffered grievously and seriously, 99 percent of Mexico City was unaffected," he said at a news conference in San Antonio.

Hodgins is visiting several cities in Texas to reassure tourists from the United States that Mexico is still a safe and attractive vacation destination.

"Some people got the impression that Mexico City was wiped out and Puerto Vallarta and Acapulco were no longer," he said. "This is not true."

Hodgins said more than 50 major cities and 53 airports throughout the country were untouched by the quakes.

There is no threat of disease, no innoculations are necessary and telephone service is almost back to normal, Hodgins said.

October and November are usually good months for conventions in Mexico.

"Since the Sept. 19 earthquake, we've had a very substantial number of cancellations — as high as 40 percent," he said, adding the figure also refers to individual tourist cancellations.

Mexico drew 4.75 million tourists in 1984 and Hodgins said he expects the total to drop one or two percentage points for 1985.

Tourism is second only to oil as a source of revenue for Mexico. Mexico earned $2.2 billion from the tourism industry last year. Hodgins said he thinks the total will drop to $2.1 billion this year.

Hodgins attributed the only slight dollar decline to an advertising blitz his office has undertaken in the United States, Canada and Europe.

"We are spending $10 million more than we were going to spend through the end of the year," he said.

Two people die in shootout in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A shootout outside the offices of President Jose Napoleon Duarte left two persons dead and at least 10 wounded Friday, a presidential press spokesman said.

The spokesman said Duarte was uninjured in the attack and had remained in his office during the shooting.

The shooting started just before the president was to leave by motorcade to appear before the National Assembly on the other side of the city. The firing lasted about 10 minutes.

The spokesman said an attack was made on the two main entrances of the office building, but witnesses said the shooting came from confusion as detectives fired at suspected thieves.

Witnesses said presidential guards, suspecting an attack, opened fire on a bus from which the shooting was thought to have come, wounding seven passengers. The bus was carrying children from a deaf and dumb school and passengers said they had to be pushed to the floor because they did not hear the shots.

Witnesses said one of the presumed thieves was killed and one badly wounded. In addition, they said, two detectives were wounded and a woman in her house was killed, apparently by a stray bullet.

The wounded were taken to hospitals by the Salvadoran Red Cross.

"Nobody shot from the bus," said a woman passenger who escaped injury. Uninjured passengers were held for questioning and soldiers scoured the lower-middle class San Jacinto neighborhood where the offices are located looking for the gunmen.

Student has heard all the death jokes

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Don't tell Roger Gustafson you're dead tired. Don't offer him a stiff drink. And don't ask him if he brings his work home.

No death jokes, please. Gustafson, the University of Iowa's only pre-mortuary science student, has heard them all.

"I think pre-mort is a lot of learning how to deal with people," he said. "The common misconception about the mortuary business is it's all embalming and working with bodies. Ninety-five percent is working with the families and helping them through what may be the most difficult time in their life."

Gustafson says he also likes to smash the stereotype of the mortician as "wearing dark clothes and being grim. Actually, all the guys I've worked with are cut-ups and fun people to be with."

HALF MOON BAY, Calif. (AP) — Lynn and Gary Verhagen live in a house with 54 doors. They don't carry a lot of keys because only two of the doors open.

The one-bedroom home is made of doors from the 1915 Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco.

The house was assembled on its present location, right off busy Highway 92 leading to Half Moon Bay, by a saloon-keeper named Fred Nordholz in 1927. He used it occasionally as a hunting cabin but it mainly stayed vacant until Ann Howe, Mrs. Verhagen's grandmother, bought it in 1947 for $900.

The house may be haunted, says June Morall, author of the book "Half Moon Bay Memories."

ARGENTA, Ill. (AP) — A racy red Berlinetta Camaro with T-tops might look like a shoo-in for a traffic citation unless it belongs to the police chief.

Chief Richard Click has been using sporty cars for four or five years as unmarked police cars in this central Illinois community of about 1,000 people.

"You can do a lot more with an unmarked car than a marked car," said Village President Stephen Carlton. "After about two weeks the locals know the car, but the people out of town don't know it."

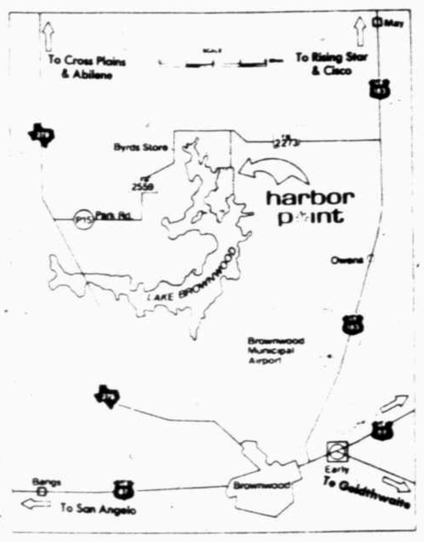

In one case, Carlton recalled, Click was helping another law-enforcement agency search for missing prisoners. Officers in standard-issue vehicles came up empty, but the prisoners asked Click for a ride.

"If you pull up with red lights, you're a dead giveaway," Click said.

"You should see it in operation," he added of his flashy cruiser. "There are 10 flashing lights on the front when you hit one button."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Today will be foggy, then sunny

From Staff and Wire Reports

A foggy morning with considerable cloudiness is predicted for today with the weather turning sunny by the afternoon, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The high temperature today should be in the low 80s with southwesterly winds at five to 15 mph.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with low temperatures in the mid-50s.

Sunday morning will be foggy and cloudy again becoming partly cloudy by the afternoon. Temperatures should be in the mid-70s.

The highest temperature ever recorded for Friday's date was 90 degrees in 1950. A low of 33 degrees was recorded in 1932 for today's date.

STATE

Storms spread over North and Central Texas and a flash flood watch was placed over the Concho Valley in West Texas as moist, unstable tropical air pushed up over a weak stationary front Friday.

The humid airmass gave cloudy skies to most of the state, although fair skies prevailed over the Panhandle and the Trans Pecos, the National Weather Service said.

At mid afternoon, the front was along a line from near Wichita Falls to San Angelo and Sanderson. To its north, temperatures were in the upper 60s and lower 70s while to the south and east they pushed to the middle 80s. It was 67 at Midland; 85 at Laredo.

A tropical wave over the western Gulf of Mexico brought an east to northeast wind around 10 to 15 mph.

Heaviest thunderstorms were located southwest of Abilene, west of Jacksboro and in southeast Texas between South Houston and Warren.

Taylor County Sheriff's Lt. Carol McKee said a tornado was sighted about 5 miles south of Bradshaw about 1:30 p.m., did not touch ground

NATION

Nearly 2 inches of rain fell in six hours over parts of southwest Texas on Friday, as rain also was scattered from the northern Pacific Coast to western Montana, and over the southern Plains, the Gulf Coast and Florida.

Skies were mostly sunny from the mid-Atlantic Coast across the Great Lakes, as well as in the Ohio Valley, middle Mississippi Valley, over much of the Plains, and from the central and southern Rockies to the Great Basin

MHS' Jekyll better than Cooper's Jekyll, 22-14

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland High and Abilene Cooper each took turns of playing the roles of Jekyll and Hyde at Memorial Stadium Friday night, but the Bulldogs' first half performance of Jekyll turned out to better than that of Cooper in a 22-14 District 4-5A victory.

The Bulldogs ended a three-game losing skid with the victory, but they acted like a 22-point first half Jekyll performance was enough to be satisfied with. If it hadn't been for some stingy defense by MHS, the Cougars might have erased that 22-point margin and more.

But Cooper's turn at Jekyll produced only 14 points and three missed opportunities in golden scoring position.

"I was proud of the way our kids played in the first half," noted MHS coach Doug McCutchen. "You could tell they were ready to play. But we got the ball away and then just sat down. Still, I was pleased to see our defense come up with some big plays in the second half. The one TD run by McDonald was just a super effort on his part."

Cooper wide receiver D.C. McDonald caught two second half touchdown passes from quarterback Bill Deshlinger for 39 and 74 yards. The 47-yarder was a thing of beauty on the part of McDonald who raced past just about every Bulldog on the field on the way to the long distance score on a fourth and two play from Cooper's own 26-yard line.

Still, Cooper coach Mike Garrison, who saw his team slip to 1-7 on the year and 1-4 in 4-5A play, felt a little snakebit after the game.

"We just went to sleep in the first half and boom it's 28-0," said Garrison. "We played excellent in the second half, but that's why they play this game in four quarters. We dropped three passes that would have been big for us. We lead the nation in dropped passes."

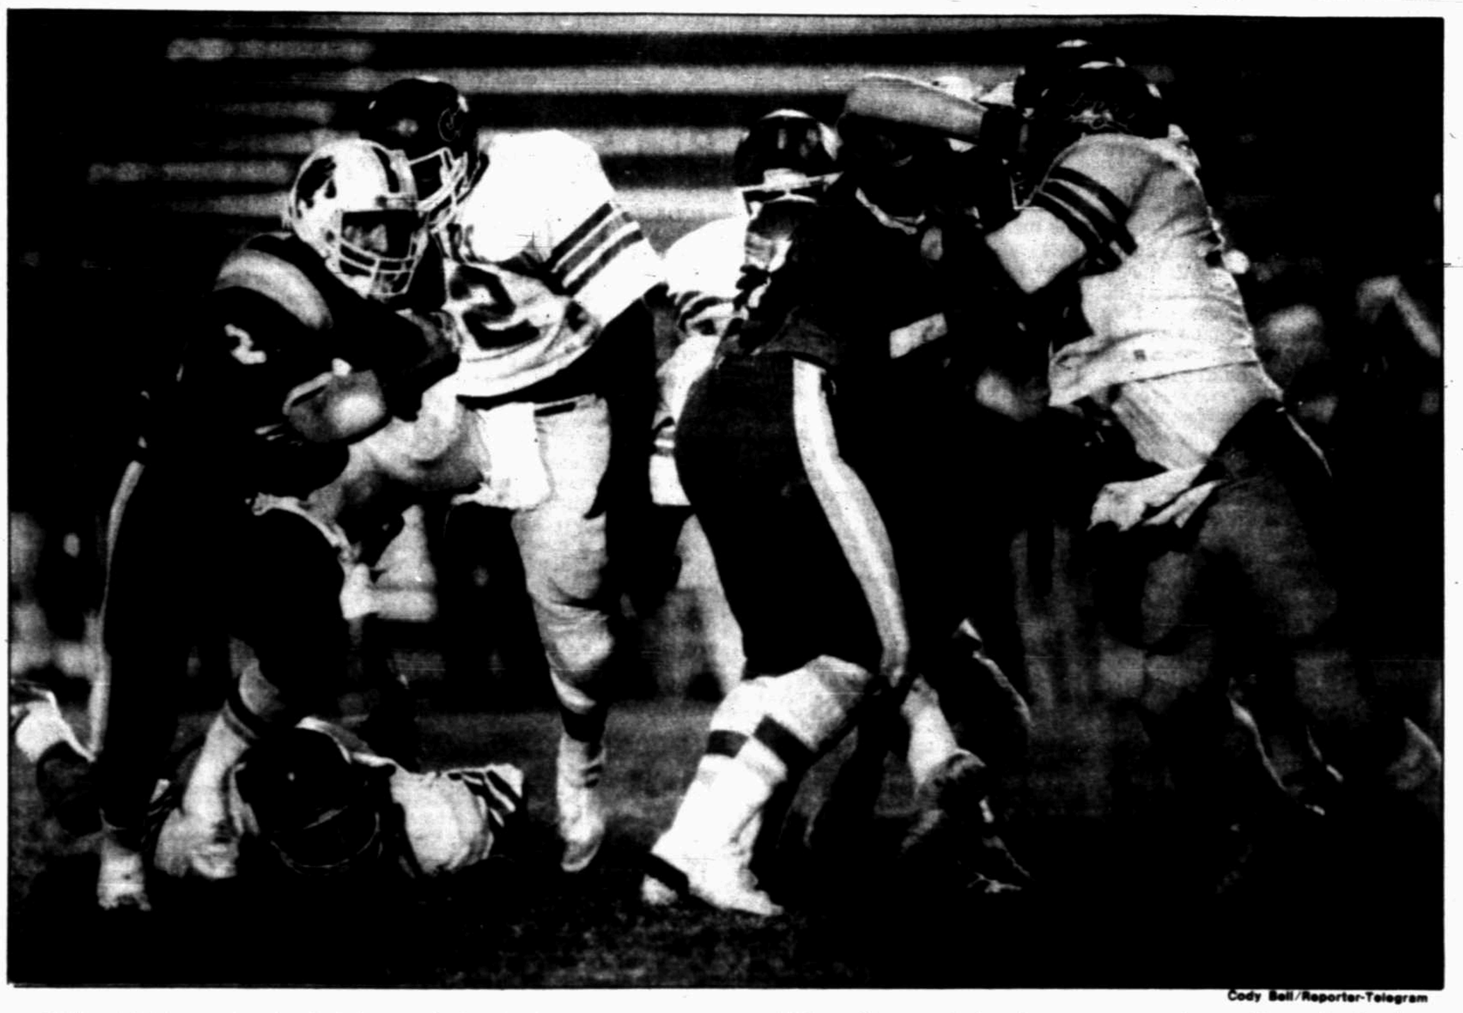

The Bulldogs broke on top 8-0 in the first quarter, driving 43 yards in six plays on the second possession of the game. Quarterback Matt Marcum set up the TD with a 21-yard strike to Kenny DeLaGarza to the Cooper one and Marcum got the final yard on a sneak behind the blocking of center Robert Fortune.

The Bulldogs coverted a two-point play when holder Tim Madonna raised up and threw to Jake Madrid for the conversion and an 8-0 lead.

The Bulldogs roared back with a six-play, 40-yard drive in an all rushing attack by Mark Johnson and Madrid. Madrid got the final five and Bobby Williams toed the extra point for a 15-0 lead.

Lee beats AHS as defense goes out window

ABILENE - If Midland Lee coach Jack Tayrien had been told before Friday's game that his Rebels would outscore Abilene High 35-28, he probably would have busted a gut laughing. In fact he'd probably have laughed so hard tears would have poured down his cheeks.

And, why would that be so funny? Simple, Lee and Abilene High are two of the stingiest teams in District 4-5A. In fact, the Eagles had only allowed 37 total points in their previous four district encounters, Lee only 54.

"I would have thought they were crazy," said Tayrien about the hypothetical prediction. "I didn't think their defense would give up that many points and I didn't feel ours would either. I'm just glad to win the game." The victory over Abilene High was increased in importance by results from two other 4-5A games. Going into the battle, Lee, San Angelo and Odessa High were knotted at 3-1 in the league standings. Now, because of a San Angelo 28-7 loss to Odessa Permian and an Odessa High major upset loss to Big Spring 31-16, the Rebels own sole possession of second place at 4-1, one-half game behind the 4-0-1 leading Panthers.

"We've still got to go out and win the next two games, there's no question about that," said Tayrien. "But, we control our own destiny and that's what we wanted."

THE BIG play was the key to both team's scoring success throughout the game, with the first coming from Rebel Rodney Sims on the opening kickoff.

Fielding the kick at the Lee nine-yard line, Sims returned the ball 35 yards to the Rebel 44. On the first play from scrimmage, Kirk Thurman busted loose on a 51-yard run to the Abilene five and, two plays later Sims scored on a five-yard run. Terry Baxter, who was perfect on five point-after kicks in the game, made it 7-0 with a mere 52 seconds run off the clock.

Abilene High came storming back on its first possession, overcoming a five-yard penalty and and Rebel Brad Cooper's nine-yard sack of quarterback Michael Keith. Tailback Junior Bell countered the sack with a 42-yard touchdown run and Melvin Davis kicked the PAT for a 7-7 score.

First quarter action was far from over. Sims took the ensuing kickoff at his own three, broke a couple of tackles, juked free of several more at the 30 and scampered his way into the end zone for a 97-yard TD return.

"I got pretty tired there at the end," said Sims.

AFTER AN exchange of punts, the Eagles came up with their second big play of the night when Keith hit wingback Gerald Bailey for a 52-yard TD pass. The Rebels blocked the extra point for a 14-13 lead.

Two plays after the kickoff, Rebel quarterback Tuey Rankin faked a handoff to Sims, broke around right end and had free sailing for a 71-yard TD run.

"The play was designed for Tuey," said Sims. "I got the ball on the play before that and they were looking for me to get the ball again so I had to fake a 50 nose dive."

Rankin's TD ended the scoring of the first quarter, 34 points against tough defenses with eight more to come before the half.

The Eagles managed to tie the game late in the second quarter after recovering Thurman's fumble at the AHS 17. Fourteen plays and 83 yards later, capped by Bell's one-yard run and a two-point pass from Keith to Nic Ybarra, the game was deadlocked at 21.

The Rebel defense came up with two big plays at the start of the third quarter, each setting up a score.

On the first play following the kickoff, Rebel Chris Kenney picked off a Keith pass and returned it to the Eagle 18. Quarterback Rodney Johnson, in for an injured Rankin, finished the five-play drive with a two-yard scoring run.

TWO PLAYS later, Carlos Pena stole a pass from Keith at the 16 and Lee was in scoring position once more. This time, Johnson tossed a three-yard pass to tight end Anthony Dickens to give Lee a 35-21 lead with 8:30 left in the third quarter.

Both defenses settled down for the rest of the period and it wasn't until the clock was down to 2:40 in the fourth that AHS scored its final TD. After recovering Johnson's fumble at the 34, the Eagles completed the drive with a four-yard Keith-to-Ybarra TD pass. Davis kicked the PAT to cut the lead to 35-28.

The Eagles came up with one last opportunity after forcing Lee to punt, only to have it ended when Rodney Roderick intercepted Keith, the fourth theft of the game.

"I thought Abilene High did a fantastic job. They used a good offensive scheme," said Tayrien. "I was afraid for awhile it would be a 100-99 score. I didn't know if we could stop them."

Rankin, who led all rushers with 100 yards on five carries, went down early in the third quarter on his final carry of the game. The seriousness of the knee injury isn't known yet.

"He dislocated a knee cap and it went back in," said Tayrien. "First will have to wait and see. We have it iced down and we'll see what the doctor says."

In all, the Rebels managed to come up with 289 offensive yards, 286 on the ground, while giving up 300. The Eagles passed for 164 and rushed for another 136. However, only 12 yards were picked up rushing in the second half.

Badgers blast Rangers early, 24-6

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

McCAMEY - It was supposed to be anything but a rout so the Greenwood Rangers buckled down and kept the McCamey Badgers off the scoreboard in the second half.

But the damage had been done in the first half and the match-up of District 8-2A co-leaders Greenwood and McCamey turned into a 24-6 easy victory for McCamey Friday night.

The Badgers, 3-0, 7-1, fired off three first-half touchdowns and a field goal before the Rangers could figure out how to keep McCamey off the board. By then it was too late as McCamey took sole possession of first place in the district. The Rangers fell to 2-1, 6-2.

"If we can win one more we know we'll be at least tied for the district title. This puts us in real good shape," an elated Badger coach Buster Leaf said.

MCCAMEY WON the war of field position in the first half, scoring four times after getting the ball deep in Rangers' territory. Two of the Badger scores were set up by punt returns of 22 and 32 yards by Adam Arana, and two by Greenwood turnovers.

"Turnovers, field position and McCamey playing inspired football was what made the difference," Greenwood coach Joe Longley said. "Our punt coverage hurt us one time, and on another we got a short kick and they got a good return."

It was a 36-yard field goal and a pair of six-pointers by quarterback Nandy Zarate and another by fullback Oscar Rodriguez that amounted for all the Badgers' scoring. McCamey had four rushers over 50 yards, Zarate leading the way with 64, Rodriguez with 59, Arana with 58 and Juan Carillo with 51 on just five carries for a team total of 232.

THE BADGER defense did the job all night, especially in the first half, allowing Greenwood just one first down and 26 yards. A pair of big defensive plays also set up a pair of McCamey scores. Carillo intercepted a Chad Longley pass at the Greenwood 30 to set up Rodriguez' score, and a fumble recovery by Mike Sample set up Zarate's field goal.

But the Rangers came out of the locker room at halftime and marched the ball 74 yards on 11 plays to trim the lead to 24-6. Steve Popham punched the ball in from the four for the touchdown, but the two-point conversion failed.

The key series in the game came when McCamey got the ball back on the ensuing kickoff. Although the Badgers could not score, they used 20 plays and five first downs eating up nearly nine minutes off the clock before Zarate missed a 32-yard field goal.

"WE'D MADE up our minds at halftime to come out and do some blocking. We didn't even touch too many people in the first half," Longley said. "But McCamey won it because they played so well, we just couldn't get the ball back."

"As quick as they put up that one score, we knew they could get back in the ballgame in a hurry," Leaf said.

The Badgers were able to control the ball the rest of the quarter as well, but simply couldn't find the end zone again. But the first half barrage was more than enough.

The Badgers' first score came late in the first quarter after the two teams had exchanged punts. But with the McCamey defense backing up the Greenwood offense and Zarate winning the battle of the punters, Arana busted out for a 22-yard punt return to give the ball to McCamey on the Rangers 31-yard line.

ZARATE MADE sure the Badgers cashed in on their first real opportunity, using 10 plays before sneaking in from the two with 1:52 left in the first quarter.

The Badgers' opportunistic offense enjoyed good field position three of the next four times they touched the ball, starting three drives inside the Greenwood 30-yard line. McCamey scored each time adding two touchdowns and a field goal to begin the rout and take a 24-0 lead at intermission.

"We moved the ball real well in the second half, we just couldn't get it in. But we were able to control the ball and eat up the clock," Leaf said. "It's hard to tell kids 'hey have to play the second half like they did the first when you're ahead like that."

KC's Leibrandt tries again

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Charlie Leibrandt says he won't be looking into the dugout if he gets to the ninth inning against the St. Louis Cardinals in tonight's Game 6 of the World Series.

"I'm going to try to get the leadoff guy first," the Kansas City Royals left-hander said. "Then, I'll leave it up to (Manager) Dick Howser. See what the circumstances are."

Leibrandt lost Game 2 of the World Series against St. Louis 4-2 after taking a two-hit shutout into the ninth inning. With the Cards leading the best-of-7 series 3-2, Leibrandt and Cardinals right-hander Danny Cox will be paired in a Game 6 rematch.

The 29-year-old Royals pitcher gave up the four ninth-inning runs on a walk and four hits, including Terry Pendleton's three-run double.

"I felt good when I came out in the ninth inning last time," said Leibrandt, 17-9 during the season and the winner, in relief, of the seventh game of the American League playoffs against the Toronto Blue Jays.

"Even after I gave up the leadoff hit to Willie McGee, I thought I could get out of it," he said. "I just never did. I can be a little more objective about it now, but not then. I was just trying to figure out how to get that last out, and it really bothered me for a while."

Now, Leibrandt says, he won't think about the ninth inning until it comes.

"If I get into the ninth inning tomorrow (Saturday) night, which I hope I do, it'll mean we're in pretty good shape," Leibrandt said at a news conference during an off-day Friday. "I hope it works out a little bit different this time."

Leibrandt lost under similar cirumstances in Game 4 of the AL playoffs against the Blue Jays, taking a 1-0 lead into the ninth inning before Toronto scored three times and won 3-1. After the World Series loss, Howser was severely second-guessed for not going to his bullpen, particularly to Dan Quisenberry.

"Quisenberry has been our stopper all year," Leibrandt said. "We're probably leaning that way a little more now."

The Royals lost the first two games of the Series here, then took two of three at St. Louis, including a 6-1 victory in Game 5 Thursday night behind Danny Jackson's five-hitter. In this Series, the Royals' pitching staff has held the Cardinals to a team batting average of .196.

"We're on a pretty good roll right now, the pitchers I mean," Leibrandt said. "We've been able to keep St. Louis out of big innings. We've kept their speedsters off base to a great extent and made Jack Clark hit with the bases empty a lot of the time."

The Royals' team ERA in the Series is a sparkling 2.45, with the Cardinals having scored only 12 runs in the five games.

Part of the Cardinals' lack of offensive punch probably can be traced to the playoff injury of leadoff hitter Vince Coleman, the mainspring of St. Louis' running offense. Coleman's replacement in left field, Tito Landrum, has performed admirably, hitting .368, but he has driven in only one run while batting fifth in the lineup against the Royals' left-handers.

"I've never seen Coleman play, so I can't say how much they miss him," Leibrandt said. "But they certainly must miss 110 stolen bases."

The Cardinals, with either four or five switch-hitters in the starting lineup, were only four games over .500 this season against left-handers, and so far the Royals have started three against them — Leibrandt, Jackson and Bud Black.

"Anytime you have a team full of switch-hitters, the batter is going to be at a disadvantage when he's hitting right-handed," Leibrandt said. "They see more right-handers during the season. When they hit left-handed, they're a step closer to first, and left-handed pitchers probably have better pickoff moves."

The 28-year-old Cox, an offspeed pitcher despite his 6-foot-4, 230-pound size, worked seven innings in Game 2 against Leibrandt, giving up two runs on seven hits but not figuring in the decision.

While the two 20-game winners on St. Louis' staff, John Tudor and Joaquin Andujar, were in the spotlight, Cox won many of the biggest games of the season for the Cards. He won the third game of a three-game October series against New York after the Cardinals had lost the first two to drop only a game ahead of the Mets in the National League East. Then, he won pivotal Game 3 of the playoffs after the Cards had lost the first two to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bears off to best start since 1980

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

The Baylor Bears, off to their best football start since their 8-0 season in 1980, try to remain atop the Southwest Conference with a 2 p.m. Homecoming battle in Waco against Texas Christian.

Baylor, ranked No. 13 nationally and all alone atop the SWC standings with a perfect 4-0 mark, is a 27-point favorite over TCU (3-3, 0-3). A sell-out crowd of 48,500 is expected to be on hand.

Texas (4-1, 2-0) is ranked 19th nationally, but is a six-point underdog to unranked Southern Methodist (3-2, 2-1) is a game at Texas Stadium, also at 2 p.m., as the league race hits the half-way point.

Other SWC games Saturday send Houston (1-5, 0-3) to 14th-ranked Arkansas (5-1, 2-1) in a 12:04 p.m. game televised on the Raycom network and Texas A&M (4-2, 2-1) to Rice (3-3, 2-1) at 2 p.m. Texas Tech (3-4, 0-4) has the week off.

Oddsmakers listed Arkansas as a 17-point favorite over Houston. No line was quoted on the A&M-Rice game.

swc

Baylor is 6-1 for the season, with an early loss to Georgia the Bears' only blemish. Baylor's victims include SMU and Southern Cal.

Despite being unable to score a touchdown, Texas defeated Arkansas 15-13 last week to hurdle a major obstacle in the race to the Cotton Bowl. Jeff Ward accounted for all the Texas points with five field goals.

The Longhorns will have to try to stop Reggie Dupard, the nation's sixth-leading rusher with 741 yards, an average of 135.4 yards per game. Dupard is also the nation's third-highest scorer with nine touchdowns. SMU's Jeff Atkins is averaging 88 yards a game to give the Mustangs the league's top two rushers.

Other than Ward, whose nine field goals in 13 tries this season ranks him 14th nationally, the Longhorns' only national leaders are kick returners.

Eric Metcalf, Texas' exciting freshman, ranks sixth in punt returns, having brought back 16 for 216 yards. Norman Nunn is 10th in the nation in kickoff returns with an average of 25.2 yards on six returns.

"The one most significant thing about us this year is spelled T-E-A-M," Baylor coach Grant Teaff said. "This is the most unselfish group I've been around."

Teaff credits quarterbacks Tom Muecke and Cody Carlson, who alternate in leading the Baylor offensive attack, for cultivating the squad's "playing as a team and winning as a team."

"They've never been unselfish toward one another, and it's had an impact on the other players," Teaff said.

TCU coach Jim Wacker, whose team won its first two games before he booted several players off the team, was glad to finally get a victory, 14-10 over North Texas State, after three straight losses.

Wacker noted that the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department recently placed the horned frog on the endangered species list "and I thought for a while that our offense was on the endangered species list, too."

Permian stays No. 1

ODESSA— Odessa Permian remained undefeated and in first place in District 4-5A with a 28-7 win over San Angelo before a capacity crowd here Friday night. It was supposed to be a showdown contest, but the Panthers, now 7-0-1 for the season, never was challenged. San Angelo scored on a five-yard pass from Mario Martinez to Mike Epley in the third period to cut Permian's lead to 14-7, but the Panthers got the score back before the third period was out.

Nolan Watson, who scored the Panthers' first TD on a pass, took a nine-yard from Jason Harrington.

In the fourth period, Mark Seider went in from the five.

The loss, San Angelo's second in district play, puts Midland Lee in sole possession of second place in the run at the other playoff berth. Odessa High was knocked out of a tie for second when Big Spring stunned the Bronchos, 34-16.

Permian drove 62 yards in eight plays on its first possession of the game to score on an 18-yard screen pass from quarterback Greg Anderson to Nolan Watson on a third and 11. A five-yard penalty for motion had threatened to take the Panthers out of range. The score came with 5:25 left in the period.

San Angelo recovered a fumble on the Permian 45, but after a 15-yard run by C.L. Bowman to the Permian 27, the Bobcats were forced to surrender the ball on downs at the 22.

Permian cranked up another TD drive in the second quarter, going 65 yards in eight plays with Marcus Lott going in from the 15 and Bryant toed his second PAT with 5:52 in the half. The big gainer was a 26-yard run by Bryant to the San Angelo 26.

The Bobcats had another opportunity before intermission when Craig Nolan returned a punt 30 yards to the Permian 38 and a personal foul penalty put the ball on the 23, but Permian's Allman intercepted Bobcats quarterback Mario Martinez in the end zone to kill the threat and leave SA behind 14-0 at intermission.

STANTON — The Buffaloes of Stanton hosted the Reagan County Owls here with both teams attempting to stay alive in the tough District 8-2A race. The Owls scored 22 points in the first half and outlasted Stanton 29-13.

Reagan County started their first drive at the Buffaloes 21 after a 30-yard punt return by Gil Castillo and needed only six plays to hit paydirt as QB Scott Lipsey threw to Robert Saldibar for the final seven yards. The PAT by Saldibar was good.

After Stanton had to punt early in the second quarter, both teams managed to drive across midfield only to fumble it away. The Owls were the recipient of the last fumble and took the ball 68 yards in 10 plays with Lipsey again throwing for the score, this time a 15-yard completion to fullback Tim Tatum. The PAT by Saldibar was good and the Owls led 14-0.

Midway through the quarter the two teams again traded turnovers, this time interceptions, and again the Owls got the last one with Lipsey picking off Stanton QB Kevin Glaspie at the 40 and returning it 32 yards to the eight. Two plays later Tatum, the games leading rusher with 75 yards, crashed in from the two. The PAT was no good. On the next to last play of the half, Reagan County caught Greg Barnhill in the end zone for a safety and the halftime score was 22-0.

STANTON started the second half with an impressive opening drive of 67 yards in nine plays with Derek Sorley making a beautiful diving catch of a nine-yard pass from Glaspie for the score. The PAT by Mike Holt was good. Stanton had new life but time was now their enemy.

The Owls used that time most effectively eating up the rest of the quarter and over half the fourth. With 4:30 left in the game,they scored from five yards out after a 60-yard drive with Castillo going around end. Saldibar added the PAT. Though the Owls had not been penalized the whole game, they helped Stanton drive 80 yards late in the game on two personal fouls and a pass inteference and the Buffaloes took advantage scoring from the one. Reagan County ran out the clock and the final was 29-13.

"Offensively, we were pleased," said Reagan County head coach Ronnie Reeger. "We were able to move the ball. Defensively, we had a few problems. We had trouble containing Glaspie (Stanton QB). He's a super athlete and can do so many things. Our plan was to harass their receivers as much as we could."

The Owls defensive plan seemed to work as they intercepted Glaspie three times, two of them resulting in touchdowns.

"It is going to be tough for us next week," Reeger said. "We have to play Greenwood on the road and that is a tough assignment." The Owls 2-1 in district and 5-3 overall travel to Greenwood 2-1 and 6-2 in what will probably be for the runner-up spot in the playoffs behind McCamey.

"They have one of the better defenses in the distric," Stanton head coach Dale Ruth said. "As for the rest of the season, we will have to go out and do the best we can."

STANTON FELL to 1-2 in district and 3-5 overall and with almost no hopes of seeing the playoffs this year,travel next week to Wall.

Big Spring 34, OHS 16

ODESSA — Big Spring dealt Odessa High a stunning, 34-16, defeat here Friday night that knocked the Bronchos out of second place in the District 4-5A race and may have ended the coaching career of OHS head football coach Jerry Millsapps.

Millsapps reportedly said after the defeat that he will retire from his position as head coach at Odessa High, effective at the end of the season.

The victory ended a 14-game District 4-5A losing streak for the Steers, a drought that goes back to a 1983 victory over Abilene Cooper.

Big Spring is now 1-4 in loop play and 2-6 on the season while OHS fell to 3-2 in district play and 6-2 overall

The Steers erupted for 23 unanswered points in the second quarter to produce the stunning upset. A four-yard TD by quarterback Carl Speck, a 35-yard field goal by Colin Carroll, a 63-yard punt return by Phillip Mathews and a 15-yard TD pass from Speck to Mathews set the upset in motion.

OHS scored 16 third quarter points to narrow the gap, but the Steers came back with 11 more in the final period.

OHS faces Midland Lee in a critical game next Friday in Odessa.

Irish, Trojans missing hype

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame and Southern Cal, two football giants who were off to poor starts but seem to be awakening, clash Saturday under some unusual circumstances.

It's unusual in that neither team is ranked. The usual media hype is missing, and the game will not be on live television because of Southern Cal's probationary status.

Notre Dame is 2-3 after breaking a two-game losing streak with a victory over Army. Southern Cal is 3-2 after defeating Oregon State and Stanford by a combined score of 93-6.

SERIES

"He's not overpowering, but he spots the ball real well," Cards catcher Darrell Porter said of Cox. "He mixes his pitches so well that he gives me the most trouble in calling a game, so you can understand why the hitters have trouble with him.

"Danny's a good pitcher to have in this kind of situation because he's been so consistent all year," Porter said.

Cox' main problem is that he has suffered with a chronically sore elbow that bothered him again in his last start in the Series, preventing Cards Manger Whitey Herzog from using him on three days' rest in Game 5.

No team ever has won the Series after losing the first two games at home. And, after the Royals were down 3-1, they also were told that of 34 previous teams in similar situations, only four had won.

But the Royals have been no strangers to adversity this postseason. They lost the first two games to the Blue Jays, at Toronto, then fell behind 3-1 in the new best-of-7 playoff format before rallying to victory.

"I could say that maybe we don't start trying until it's too late, but that's not really true," Leibrandt said. "But it seems we do concentrate better when we're behind.

"It's great now to bring this series home," he said. "Everybody in Kansas City is really excited. Nobody expected us to win. Sure, there's pressure, but I think it's on the Cards now."

BULLDOGS

MHS was then rolling and proved the point with a 93-yard march, covering 15 plays. Marcum hit three big pass plays in the drive, including a six-yard TD strike to a wide open Williams, who also kicked the PAT for a 22-0 halftime lead.

To that point, MHS, now 4-4 and 2-3 on the year, had allowed only 57 yards of total offense to Cooper and a mere two first downs while rushing for 155 and passing for 87 more.

However, it ended there for MHS as the Bulldogs ended the night with only 18 net yards rushing and 15 passing in the second half.

Cooper was a frustrated team in the third quarter, despite dominating play. The Cougars got to the MHS 19, 17 and 22-yard lines without getting a point to show for it. The Bulldogs held on two fourth down plays and Anthony Adkinson recovered a Jay Tollison fumble to stop the other.

Still, Cooper kept coming back and finally the Dehlinger to McDonald show got underway in the fourth period for TD strikes of 36 and 74 yards.

Adkinson intercepted a Dehlinger pass late in the game to stall Cooper's final effort of the night and the Bulldogs' victory drought was over.

"After losing three games in a row, it's nice to win one no matter how you do it," noted McCutchen. "Still, I don't see how a game can turnaround like this one did. All we needed was to get one in the second half and it would have been over. But we struggle along.

"We still got the win and that was good for our kids. We have Permian next week and I think the kids will be ready to give a great effort. We needed this win tonight to help us go into that game with Permian."

The victory boosted Midland High into fifth place in the 4-5A race, moving ahead of both Cooper and Abilene High, a loser to Midland Lee Friday. AHS is 1-3-1 in loop play, winning only against Midland High.

The Bulldogs would like nothing better than to give the home crowd a big upset over league leading Permian next Friday night in Memorial Stadium, but it will be a big task as the Panthers seem to be getting better and better with each passing week.

It will be a game the MHS defense will need another sterling performance.

ABC ratings increase to 28.3

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's ratings for the first four games of the World Series averaged a 23.8 thanks to increased viewership for the third and fourth games of the St. Louis-Kansas City series.

After a relatively slow start with 22.1 and 22.9 marks last weekend — television audiences traditionally are smaller on the weekend — the ratings improved to 25.4 for Tuesday's third contest and 24.8 for Wednesday's fourth game. ABC has led its time slots for each game.

The overall average for the first four games — national figures for Game 5 were not available — was 23.8, as opposed to NBC's 23.0 in 1984. ABC has only prime-time games this year, while NBC televised the fourth and fifth games of the 1984 Series on weekend afternoons.

CRANE — Crane's Golden Cranes set up a District 7-3A showdown with Ballinger next weekend with a 56-6 thumping of winless Ozona here Friday night as Gerald Mitchell ran for four touchdowns.

Crane is 7-1 on the season and a perfect 3-0 in 7-3A play, the same as Ballinger. Crane will travel to Ballinger next Friday night for that shootout.

Mitchell scored on runs of three, one, 70 and 36 yards against the Wildcats. Crane built a 42-0 lead in the second quarter before Ozona got its only six points of the night before the half.

Ozona had a minus 28 yards rushing against Crane, but quarterback Steve Sanchez threw 68 times in the game, completing 35 for 367 yards. Crane had seven interceptions to halt all but one Ozona drive.

Crane also got a touchdown from Ricky DeGraffenreid on a 10-yard pass from Abel Fina while Dewayne Tarpley blocked an Ozona punt in the end zone and recovered it for a TD. Edwin Galindo also had a 40-yard interception return for another Crane score.

Arguello scores knockout in 5th

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Fighting for the first time in more than two years, Alexis Arguello knocked Pat Jefferson down three times in the fifth round Friday to renew his bid to become the first man every to win world boxing titles in four weight classes.

The scheduled 10-round junior welterweight bout was stopped with 13 seconds left in the round because of the three-knockdown rule.

Using the experience of 84 professional fights, including 23 title bouts, the 33-year-old Arguello relentlessly stalked his younger opponent.

After feeling out Jefferson for the first two rounds, Arguello staggered him with a right hand in the opening seconds of the third round. Jefferson weathered the round but was hurt again in the fourth by a left hook.

Reeling from a vicious right early in the fifth, Jefferson went down on the seat of his trunks, but referee Bill McConkey ruled it a slip.

Jefferson, 28, rallied briefly, but a right cross followed by a right to the ribs dropped Jefferson for an eight-count. Moments later, Arguello sporting an American flag on the left thigh of his trunks, dropped Jefferson again with another crushing right to the abdomen. The final blow was a left hook which earned Arguello the 64th knockout of his career.

The victory improved Arguello's record to 79-6. Jefferson, from Eugene, Ore., fell to 25-6.

Sam Glass of Tiffany Promotions said Thursday that a contract has been signed for former junior welterweight champion Billy Costello to fight Friday's winner in February.

Costello, 26-1, lost his World Boxing Council title Aug. 21 to Lonnie Smith.

Arguello's last fight was Sept. 9, 1983, when he was knocked out in the 10th round by Aaron Pryor.

Arguello received more than $100,000 for Friday's fight, according to his manager, Bill Miller.

Although billed as a junior welterweight fight, Jefferson acceeded to Arguello's request that the weight limit be 144 pounds instead of 140. At Thursday's weigh-in, Arguello tipped the scale at 141½, while Jefferson stood at 143¾.

Johnson's nine-yard run late in the third period made it 51-6 and the 45-point rule was invoked, ending the game.

Defensively, Todd Mims, Ron McPeters and Kevin Wallum were standouts for MC.

Watson escapes Seiko upsets

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Defending champion Tom Watson survived two matches and the upset syndrome that continued to sweep some of golf's prominent figures from the $750,000 Seiko Tucson Match Play Championship Friday.

"Three down and three to go," Watson said after he'd scored a 4 and 2 victory over Mike Reid in the morning round and edged Wayne Levi 1-up in the afternoon.

But while Watson reached the quarterfinals in his attempt to end a season-long slump, a remarkable series of upsets also continued to send some of the game's familiar names to the sidelines.

The prominent victims included Tom Kite, U.S. Open champion Andy North, Larry Nelson and Calvin Peete, winner of two titles and leader in the Player of the Year standings most of this season.

Peete, 2-up with three holes to go, was tied by Phil Blackmar on the 18th hole of second-round play. Peete and Blackmar both birdied the first extra hole. On the next one, Peete hit his second shot into the water and conceded the match.

That action confirmed Lanny Wadkins as the PGA Player of the Year, despite his upset loss in first-round action Thursday. Peete was the only man with a mathematical chance of overtaking Wadkins in this, the last official event on the 10-month tour schedule, and Peete had to win this tournament to do it.

Team forfeits two when coaches quit

BOULDER CITY, Nev. (AP) — The only high school football team in this small town will forfeit its last two games because its coaching staff resigned rather than follow a court order to reinstate two players suspended for drinking, officials said Thursday.

Boulder City High School Principal Brian Fox decided to forfeit games Friday night against Needles and next week against Mohave because of the resignation of the coaching staff, said Clark County School District spokesman Ray Willis.

Head coach Chuck Stuart and assistants Thad Simmons and Bruce Momsen resigned Wednesday rather than obey a temporary restraining order issued by District Judge Miriam Shearing ordering the players reinstated.

Shearing issued the order last week after parents of one of the two players filed suit to get their son reinstated. She ordered a hearing on the restraining order for Nov. 1 — the date of the final game.

The players were suspended after they admitted to Fox that they had been drinking prior to the homecoming dance on Oct. 12.

School District Trustee Bob Forbuss said the court should not have interfered in the matter since disciplinary actions are covered by guidelines set up by the Nevada Interscholastic Athletic Association.

"The whole season is now shot for the team," said Forbuss. "The whole town turns out for those games and now they're gone. I just feel real bad for them."

Willis called the court ruling "unfortunate" and said there was little hope the games could still be played.

Boulder City is 2-1 in league play and 2-5 overall for the season.

Northwestern challenges Iowa

College Football

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Once upon a time, everyone looked forward to playing Northwestern, one of college football's traditional losers. But times are changing and Northwestern, according to Coach Dennis Green, is "looking forward to the challenge of playing the nation's No. 1 team."

The Iowa Hawkeyes, a unanimous No. 1 choice in this week's Associated Press poll, visit 3-3 Northwestern on Saturday and you have to go back to 1975 to find the last time the Wildcats were a .500 team this late in the season.

Says Iowa grad Green, "Iowa is not unbeatable."

Iowa is the only one of the top six teams that will be on the road. Elsewhere, second-ranked Florida entertains Virginia Tech, No. 3 Penn State plays host to West Virginia, fourth-ranked Michigan meets Indiana, No. 5 Nebraska faces Colorado and sixth-ranked Auburn plays Mississippi State.

Rounding out the Top Ten, seventh-ranked Brigham Young visits Texas-El Paso for a night game, Utah is at No. 8 Air Force, ninth-ranked Ohio State at No. 20 Minnesota and Iowa State at No. 10 Oklahoma.

IN THE Second Ten, No. 11 Florida State visits North Carolina, No. 12 Oklahoma State is at Kansas, Texas Christian at No. 13 Baylor, Houston vs. No. 14 Arkansas at Little Rock, Louisville at No. 15 Miami, Fla., for a night game as Howard Schnellenberger returns to the town where he won a national championship in 1983, Georgia Tech at No. 16 Tennessee under the lights, California at No. 17 UCLA and No. 19 Texas at Southern Methodist. LSU, the No. 18 team, is not scheduled.

While Iowa was edging Michigan 12-10 last week, Northwestern was upsetting Wisconsin 17-14, a victory which Iowa's Hayden Fry says "was eye-catching to our players and coaches. We played Wisconsin the week before (23-13) and know how tough a team they were.

"Northwestern is no longer a sure win. I'm Dennis' greatest fan. I can understand the problems he's experienced. I've spent my life turning around sick programs."

But Fry doesn't think the Hawkeyes will be looking past Northwestern to Ohio State.

"We're like an old mule with blinders. We don't talk about next week. A victory or loss against Northwestern counts as much as a victory or loss against Michigan or Ohio State."

FLORIDA is enjoying its highest ranking ever and Coach Galen Hall hopes the Gators, whose 16-game unbeaten streak is the nation's longest, aren't looking past 3-4 Virginia Tech to Auburn.

"We are pleased and excited (about the No. 2 ranking)," Hall says. "We are where we would like to be, but we are where we want to be in December. Your rating goes on the line each Saturday.

"Virginia Tech was a dominating football team against Virginia (28-10) last week. They lined up and ran the football for nearly 250 yards and held Virginia's rushing game to 122 yards. They are big up front on defense and it will be a difficult task to run the football against them."

WEST VIRGINIA'S 17-14 victory last year snapped Penn State's 25-game winning streak in the series, which the Nittany Lions lead 41-8-2, including 15 straight at home. Penn State has clinched its 47th consecutive non-losing season to extend its own NCAA record and needs one more triumph for win No. 600, a number achieved by only Michigan, Notre Dame, Texas and Alabama among Division I-A schools.

"As is the case every year, Penn State has the best athletes in college football," says Coach Don Nehlen of 4-1-1 West Virginia. "We've beat them once in five years."

Michigan's Bo Schembechler is confident the Wolverines will bounce back from its last-second loss to Iowa against 4-2 Indiana.

"They'll be all right," he said. "They'll come back. It's that kind of team. They're not like their coach; I take all losses hard."

Ironically, two of Indiana Coach Bill Mallory's sons play for Michigan.

As a sign of creeping parity in college football, Colorado is 5-1 — its best start in seven years — just like Nebraska.

"Right now, they are a very good football team," Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne says of the Buffs. "I think all of us, myself included, were a little skeptical when they announced they would go to the Wishbone, but they came up with more running backs than we thought they had."

However, Colorado has lost the last 17 meetings with the Cornhuskers and Coach Bill McCartney says that if the Buffs beat Nebraska, "I would probably fly back from Lincoln by myself. I won't need a plane."

Auburn's Bo Jackson has rushed 170 times for 1,233 yards and leads the nation with 205.5 yards a game — he has hit the 200-yard plateau four times in six outings and Mississippi State (5-2) Coach Emory Bellard says Jackson "has to be the best running back in America" — while Bulldog quarterback Don Smith tops the Southeastern Conference in total offense with a 274.7-yard average.

BYU'S visit to 0-6 UTEP marks the first time a defending national champion has played in El Paso. BYU has won the last 14 games in the series, which is exactly how many games UTEP has won over the past 11 years. Guess who's favored?

However, Brigham Young is not No. 1 in the Western Athletic Conference — yet. The Cougars have played only three league games and are 3-0 while Air Force and 6-1 Utah are both 4-0. Obviously, something's gotta give.

The only meeting of Top Twenty teams takes place in the Minnesota Metrodome where Keith Byars, in his second game since recovering from a broken bone in his foot, leads Ohio State against the 5-1 Golden Gophers, who are tied with Iowa for the Big Ten lead.

"We all know that Minnesota is undefeated in the Big Ten," says Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce. "This is a very sound football team and Rickey Foggie is as good a quarterback as you'll ever see running the option."

But Minnesota's Lou Holtz says his club hasn't played a team with Ohio State's size and power. "They can win without throwing a pass and they can win throwing every down," he says.

Four tempted Murray

DALLAS (AP) — Four colleges offered sports cars and other improper inducements to Texas A&M quarterback Kevin Murray before he signed a professional baseball contract in 1982, according to a story in the Dallas Times Herald.

The newspaper said Dan Duquette, an administrative assistant for develop and scouting for the Milwaukee Brewers, wrote a one-page memorandum about a luncheon conversation with Murray before Murray signed to play with the Brewers in 1982.

Duquette said he wrote the memo after the lunch while the conversation was still fresh in his mind.

No one from the Brewers' organization would name the schools, the Times Herald reported, but the newspaper quoted an unnamed source as saying the memo listed Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Texas A&M and Texas Christian as the schools offering improper inducements.

National Collegiate Athletic Association officials said they were not aware of the memo.

Murray is the subject of a separate NCAA investigation involving an accusation that a Dallas businessman provided him a car. Rodney L. Dockery, an A&M booster, has acknowledged that Murray had use of an automobile owned by a leasing company, but has denied any impropriety in the arrangement.

Duquette testified during a May 1983 hearing in Houston over Murray's professional contract with the Brewers. Duquette said Murray had told him during a luncheon about the improper inducements offered while Murray was a senior at North Dallas High School.

"Kevin Murray told me that through the alumni and the assistant coaches of Texas A&M University he had received a 1982 Buick Regal, gas credit cards, a VISA card for use at his own discretion and $200 a week spending money," Duquette testified then.

TED BATTLES

Who's afraid...Ags over Rice

Distraught readers who blew the week's grocery money called to protest the absence of last week's point spread forecast, complaining they just can't continue to exist this way. Sorry, but unhappily it was just one of those times when there just wasn't room.

Still, all losses can be recouped with today's picks, depending upon whether the reader picks with or against the pundit.

The Sure Things...

Texas A&M minus 15 over Rice - If Owls win this one, the NCAA will be on campus Monday, depend on it.

Penn State minus 6½ over West Virginia - This is living dangerously since State's biggest margin is seven points. Still it's in the Nittany hills and photographer Ron Jaap isn't nearly as outspoken as he was a year ago, so Mountaineers must be down.

Cornell minus three over Dartmouth - Both 0-5 but it's at Ithaca. The only trouble with picking games between these teams is that it's sometimes Monday before you find out who won.

Tennessee even over Georgia Tech - Even without quarterback Tony Robinson, unless Vols are looking ahead to Rutgers.

Baylor minus 26 over TCU - Long year continues for Frogs.

The big ones...

USC minus one over Notre Dame - More rain must fall in life of Gerry Faust.

Arkansas minus 16 over Houston - Hogs make amends for last week.

Texas plus six over SMU - Unless, for some reason, Mustangs hold a grudge against the Longhorns.

Oklahoma minus 29 over Iowa State- 'tis rumored the last time the Cyclones beat Sooners was 1491. I'm sure that must be wrong, probably only since 1941.

The not-so-sure things....

Virginia Tech plus 17 1/2 over Florida— Only because Gators have a toughie next week.

Oklahoma State minus 5 over Kansas— Does Jayhawks' 5-1 record mean they are tough or have been playing only Big Eight opponents?

UCLA minus 15 over California— Bruins in Rose Bowl running.

Nebraska minus 21 over Colorado— Buffs learn facts of life this week.

Michigan minus 24 over Indiana— Wolverines either let down or take revenge after loss to Iowa.

The upsets....

Northwestern plus 22 over Iowa - Hawkeyes have Ohio State coming up, but Northwestern and points, pure lunacy.

Minnesota plus 6½ over Ohio State - Gophers prove they are for real, but only with the points.

The pros...

Dallas minus 13 over Falcons - Atlanta posted first win last week. May be dangerous.

49ers plus one over Rams - Anaheim has to lose sometime.

Bears minus 7½ over Vikings - Memories of 1941.

Giants minus four over Saints - Must game for the Giants.

Browns minus 2½ over Redskins - Cleveland has more at stake.

Cager testifies in rape

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — A West Virginia basketball player testified Friday before a special Monongalia County grand jury investigating the alleged sexual assault of a 17-year-old freshman.

Sophomore forward Wayne Yearwood of Montreal was questioned for more than an hour behind closed doors as the panel wrapped up its second day.

While Yearwood was testifying, a lawyer for one of the students confirmed that five subjects in the alleged assault are West Virginia athletes.

WVU Athletic Director Fred Schaus and basketball coach Gale Catlett were both out of town Friday night and could not be reached for comment.

Yearwood was one of five people called Friday by the 16-member grand jury. Shortly after Yearwood emerged from the jury room, the panel adjourned for the weekend. The next meeting is scheduled Monday.

Crane 56, Ozona 6

From Staff Reports

CRANE — Crane's Golden Cranes set up a District 7-3A showdown with Ballinger next weekend with a 56-6 thumping of winless Ozona here Friday night as Gerald Mitchell ran for four touchdowns.

Crane is 7-1 on the season and a perfect 3-0 in 7-3A play, the same as Ballinger. Crane will travel to Ballinger next Friday night for that shootout.

Mitchell scored on runs of three, one, 70 and 36 yards against the Wildcats. Crane built a 42-0 lead in the second quarter before Ozona got its only six points of the night before the half.

Ozona had a minus 28 yards rushing against Crane, but quarterback Steve Sanchez threw 68 times in the game, completing 35 for 367 yards. Crane had seven interceptions to halt all but one Ozona drive.

Crane also got a touchdown from Ricky DeGraffenreid on a 10-yard pass from Abel Fina while Dewayne Tarpley blocked an Ozona punt in the end zone and recovered it for a TD. Edwin Galindo also had a 40-yard interception return for another Crane score.

Arguello scores knockout in 5th

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Fighting for the first time in more than two years, Alexis Arguello knocked Pat Jefferson down three times in the fifth round Friday to renew his bid to become the first man every to win world boxing titles in four weight classes.

The scheduled 10-round junior welterweight bout was stopped with 13 seconds left in the round because of the three-knockdown rule.

Using the experience of 84 professional fights, including 23 title bouts, the 33-year-old Arguello relentlessly stalked his younger opponent.

After feeling out Jefferson for the first two rounds, Arguello staggered him with a right hand in the opening seconds of the third round. Jefferson weathered the round but was hurt again in the fourth by a left hook.

Reeling from a vicious right early in the fifth, Jefferson went down on the seat of his trunks, but referee Bill McConkey ruled it a slip.

Jefferson, 28, rallied briefly, but a right cross followed by a right to the ribs dropped Jefferson for an eight-count. Moments later, Arguello sporting an American flag on the left thigh of his trunks, dropped Jefferson again with another crushing right to the abdomen. The final blow was a left hook which earned Arguello the 64th knockout of his career.

The victory improved Arguello's record to 79-6. Jefferson, from Eugene, Ore., fell to 25-6.

Sam Glass of Tiffany Promotions said Thursday that a contract has been signed for former junior welterweight champion Billy Costello to fight Friday's winner in February.

Costello, 26-1, lost his World Boxing Council title Aug. 21 to Lonnie Smith.

Arguello's last fight was Sept. 9, 1983, when he was knocked out in the 10th round by Aaron Pryor.

Arguello received more than $100,000 for Friday's fight, according to his manager, Bill Miller.

Although billed as a junior welterweight fight, Jefferson acceeded to Arguello's request that the weight limit be 144 pounds instead of 140. At Thursday's weigh-in, Arguello tipped the scale at 141½, while Jefferson stood at 143¾.

MC Mustangs defeat Temple

Midland Christian defeated Midland Baptist Temple, 51-6, in the Six-Man City championship Friday.

The win leveled the Mustangs' record at 4-4 with a tough game coming up next Saturday at 2 p.m. against New Home.

Robert Willoughby got MC homecoming festivities off to a banner start with a 12-yard run and David Johnson tallied twice, first on a six-yard run and then on a 49-yard pass from Danny Sartain as MC took a 31-0 first period lead.

Johnson's nine-yard run late in the third period made it 51-6 and the 45-point rule was invoked, ending the game.

Defensively, Todd Mims, Ron McPeters and Kevin Wallum were standouts for MC.

MC— Robert Willoughby, 12-run (Kevin Wallace kick).

Watson escapes Seiko upsets

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Defending champion Tom Watson survived two matches and the upset syndrome that continued to sweep some of golf's prominent figures from the $750,000 Seiko Tucson Match Play Championship Friday.

"Three down and three to go," Watson said after he'd scored a 4 and 2 victory over Mike Reid in the morning round and edged Wayne Levi 1-up in the afternoon.

But while Watson reached the quarterfinals in his attempt to end a season-long slump, a remarkable series of upsets also continued to send some of the game's familiar names to the sidelines.

The prominent victims included Tom Kite, U.S. Open champion Andy North, Larry Nelson and Calvin Peete, winner of two titles and leader in the Player of the Year standings most of this season.

Peete, 2-up with three holes to go, was tied by Phil Blackmar on the 18th hole of second-round play. Peete and Blackmar both birdied the first extra hole. On the next one, Peete hit his second shot into the water and conceded the match.

That action confirmed Lanny Wadkins as the PGA Player of the Year, despite his upset loss in first-round action Thursday. Peete was the only man with a mathematical chance of overtaking Wadkins in this, the last official event on the 10-month tour schedule, and Peete had to win this tournament to do it.

Team forfeits two when coaches quit

BOULDER CITY, Nev. (AP) — The only high school football team in this small town will forfeit its last two games because its coaching staff resigned rather than follow a court order to reinstate two players suspended for drinking, officials said Thursday.

Boulder City High School Principal Brian Fox decided to forfeit games Friday night against Needles and next week against Mohave because of the resignation of the coaching staff, said Clark County School District spokesman Ray Willis.

Head coach Chuck Stuart and assistants Thad Simmons and Bruce Momsen resigned Wednesday rather than obey a temporary restraining order issued by District Judge Miriam Shearing ordering the players reinstated.

Shearing issued the order last week after parents of one of the two players filed suit to get their son reinstated. She ordered a hearing on the restraining order for Nov. 1 — the date of the final game.

The players were suspended after they admitted to Fox that they had been drinking prior to the homecoming dance on Oct. 12.

School District Trustee Bob Forbuss said the court should not have interfered in the matter since disciplinary actions are covered by guidelines set up by the Nevada Interscholastic Athletic Association.

"The whole season is now shot for the team," said Forbuss. "The whole town turns out for those games and now they're gone. I just feel real bad for them."

Willis called the court ruling "unfortunate" and said there was little hope the games could still be played.

Boulder City is 2-1 in league play and 2-5 overall for the season.

Northwestern challenges Iowa

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

College Football

Once upon a time, everyone looked forward to playing Northwestern, one of college football's traditional losers. But times are changing and Northwestern, according to Coach Dennis Green, is "looking forward to the challenge of playing the nation's No. 1 team."

The Iowa Hawkeyes, a unanimous No. 1 choice in this week's Associated Press poll, visit 3-3 Northwestern on Saturday and you have to go back to 1975 to find the last time the Wildcats were a .500 team this late in the season.

Says Iowa grad Green, "Iowa is not unbeatable."

Iowa is the only one of the top six teams that will be on the road. Elsewhere, second-ranked Florida entertains Virginia Tech, No. 3 Penn State plays host to West Virginia, fourth-ranked Michigan meets Indiana, No. 5 Nebraska faces Colorado and sixth-ranked Auburn plays Mississippi State.

Rounding out the Top Ten, seventh-ranked Brigham Young visits Texas-El Paso for a night game, Utah is at No. 8 Air Force, ninth-ranked Ohio State at No. 20 Minnesota and Iowa State at No. 10 Oklahoma.

IN THE Second Ten, No. 11 Florida State visits North Carolina, No. 12 Oklahoma State is at Kansas, Texas Christian at No. 13 Baylor, Houston vs. No. 14 Arkansas at Little Rock, Louisville at No. 15 Miami, Fla., for a night game as Howard Schnellenberger returns to the town where he won a national championship in 1983, Georgia Tech at No. 16 Tennessee under the lights, California at No. 17 UCLA and No. 19 Texas at Southern Methodist. LSU, the No. 18 team, is not scheduled.

While Iowa was edging Michigan 12-10 last week, Northwestern was upsetting Wisconsin 17-14, a victory which Iowa's Hayden Fry says "was eye-catching to our players and coaches. We played Wisconsin the week before (23-13) and know how tough a team they were.

"Northwestern is no longer a sure win. I'm Dennis' greatest fan. I can understand the problems he's experienced. I've spent my life turning around sick programs."

But Fry doesn't think the Hawkeyes will be looking past Northwestern to Ohio State.

"We're like an old mule with blinders. We don't talk about next week. A victory or loss against Northwestern counts as much as a victory or loss against Michigan or Ohio State."

FLORIDA is enjoying its highest ranking ever and Coach Galen Hall hopes the Gators, whose 16-game unbeaten streak is the nation's longest, aren't looking past 3-4 Virginia Tech to Auburn.

"We are pleased and excited (about the No. 2 ranking)," Hall says. "We are where we would like to be, but we are where we want to be in December. Your rating goes on the line each Saturday.

"Virginia Tech was a dominating football team against Virginia (28-10) last week. They lined up and ran the football for nearly 250 yards and held Virginia's rushing game to 122 yards. They are big up front on defense and it will be a difficult task to run the football against them."

WEST VIRGINIA'S 17-14 victory last year snapped Penn State's 25-game winning streak in the series, which the Nittany Lions lead 41-8-2, including 15 straight at home. Penn State has clinched its 47th consecutive non-losing season to extend its own NCAA record and needs one more triumph for win No. 600, a number achieved by only Michigan, Notre Dame, Texas and Alabama among Division I-A schools.

"As is the case every year, Penn State has the best athletes in college football," says Coach Don Nehlen of 4-1-1 West Virginia. "We've beat them once in five years."

Michigan's Bo Schembechler is confident the Wolverines will bounce back from its last-second loss to Iowa against 4-2 Indiana.

"They'll be all right," he said. "They'll come back. It's that kind of team. They're not like their coach; I take all losses hard."

Ironically, two of Indiana Coach Bill Mallory's sons play for Michigan.

As a sign of creeping parity in college football, Colorado is 5-1 — its best start in seven years — just like Nebraska.

"Right now, they are a very good football team," Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne says of the Buffs. "I think all of us, myself included, were a little skeptical when they announced they would go to the Wishbone, but they came up with more running backs than we thought they had."

However, Colorado has lost the last 17 meetings with the Cornhuskers and Coach Bill McCartney says that if the Buffs beat Nebraska, "I would probably fly back from Lincoln by myself. I won't need a plane."

Auburn's Bo Jackson has rushed 170 times for 1,233 yards and leads the nation with 205.5 yards a game — he has hit the 200-yard plateau four times in six outings and Mississippi State (5-2) Coach Emory Bellard says Jackson "has to be the best running back in America" — while Bulldog quarterback Don Smith tops the Southeastern Conference in total offense with a 274.7-yard average.

BYU'S visit to 0-6 UTEP marks the first time a defending national champion has played in El Paso. BYU has won the last 14 games in the series, which is exactly how many games UTEP has won over the past 11 years. Guess who's favored?

However, Brigham Young is not No. 1 in the Western Athletic Conference — yet. The Cougars have played only three league games and are 3-0 while Air Force and 6-1 Utah are both 4-0. Obviously, something's gotta give.

The only meeting of Top Twenty teams takes place in the Minnesota Metrodome where Keith Byars, in his second game since recovering from a broken bone in his foot, leads Ohio State against the 5-1 Golden Gophers, who are tied with Iowa for the Big Ten lead.

"We all know that Minnesota is undefeated in the Big Ten," says Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce. "This is a very sound football team and Rickey Foggie is as good a quarterback as you'll ever see running the option."

But Minnesota's Lou Holtz says his club hasn't played a team with Ohio State's size and power. "They can win without throwing a pass and they can win throwing every down," he says.

Four tempted Murray

DALLAS (AP) — Four colleges offered sports cars and other improper inducements to Texas A&M quarterback Kevin Murray before he signed a professional baseball contract in 1982, according to a story in the Dallas Times Herald.

The newspaper said Dan Duquette, an administrative assistant for develop and scouting for the Milwaukee Brewers, wrote a one-page memorandum about a luncheon conversation with Murray before Murray signed to play with the Brewers in 1982.

Duquette said he wrote the memo after the lunch while the conversation was still fresh in his mind.

No one from the Brewers' organization would name the schools, the Times Herald reported, but the newspaper quoted an unnamed source as saying the memo listed Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Texas A&M and Texas Christian as the schools offering improper inducements.

National Collegiate Athletic Association officials said they were not aware of the memo.

Murray is the subject of a separate NCAA investigation involving an accusation that a Dallas businessman provided him a car. Rodney L. Dockery, an A&M booster, has acknowledged that Murray had use of an automobile owned by a leasing company, but has denied any impropriety in the arrangement.

Duquette testified during a May 1983 hearing in Houston over Murray's professional contract with the Brewers. Duquette said Murray had told him during a luncheon about the improper inducements offered while Murray was a senior at North Dallas High School.

"Kevin Murray told me that through the alumni and the assistant coaches of Texas A&M University he had received a 1982 Buick Regal, gas credit cards, a VISA card for use at his own discretion and $200 a week spending money," Duquette testified then.

TED BATTLES

Who's afraid...Ags over Rice

Distraught readers who blew the week's grocery money called to protest the absence of last week's point spread forecast, complaining they just can't continue to exist this way. Sorry, but unhappily it was just one of those times when there just wasn't room.

Still, all losses can be recouped with today's picks, depending upon whether the reader picks with or against the pundit.

The Sure Things...

Texas A&M minus 15 over Rice - If Owls win this one, the NCAA will be on campus Monday, depend on it.

Penn State minus 6½ over West Virginia - This is living dangerously since State's biggest margin is seven points. Still it's in the Nittany hills and photographer Ron Jaap isn't nearly as outspoken as he was a year ago, so Mountaineers must be down.

Cornell minus three over Dartmouth - Both 0-5 but it's at Ithaca. The only trouble with picking games between these teams is that it's sometimes Monday before you find out who won.

Tennessee even over Georgia Tech - Even without quarterback Tony Robinson, unless Vols are looking ahead to Rutgers.

Baylor minus 26 over TCU - Long year continues for Frogs.

The big ones...

USC minus one over Notre Dame - More rain must fall in life of Gerry Faust.

Arkansas minus 16 over Houston - Hogs make amends for last week.

Texas plus six over SMU - Unless, for some reason, Mustangs hold a grudge against the Longhorns.

Oklahoma minus 29 over Iowa State- 'tis rumored the last time the Cyclones beat Sooners was 1491. I'm sure that must be wrong, probably only since 1941.

The not-so-sure things....

Virginia Tech plus 17 1/2 over Florida— Only because Gators have a toughie next week.

Oklahoma State minus 5 over Kansas— Does Jayhawks' 5-1 record mean they are tough or have been playing only Big Eight opponents?

UCLA minus 15 over California— Bruins in Rose Bowl running.

Nebraska minus 21 over Colorado— Buffs learn facts of life this week.

Michigan minus 24 over Indiana— Wolverines either let down or take revenge after loss to Iowa.

The upsets....

Northwestern plus 22 over Iowa - Hawkeyes have Ohio State coming up, but Northwestern and points, pure lunacy.

Minnesota plus 6½ over Ohio State - Gophers prove they are for real, but only with the points.

The pros...

Dallas minus 13 over Falcons - Atlanta posted first win last week. May be dangerous.

49ers plus one over Rams - Anaheim has to lose sometime.

Bears minus 7½ over Vikings - Memories of 1941.

Giants minus four over Saints - Must game for the Giants.

Browns minus 2½ over Redskins - Cleveland has more at stake.

Cager testifies in rape

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — A West Virginia basketball player testified Friday before a special Monongalia County grand jury investigating the alleged sexual assault of a 17-year-old freshman.

Sophomore forward Wayne Yearwood of Montreal was questioned for more than an hour behind closed doors as the panel wrapped up its second day.

While Yearwood was testifying, a lawyer for one of the students confirmed that five subjects in the alleged assault are West Virginia athletes.

WVU Athletic Director Fred Schaus and basketball coach Gale Catlett were both out of town Friday night and could not be reached for comment.

Yearwood was one of five people called Friday by the 16-member grand jury. Shortly after Yearwood emerged from the jury room, the panel adjourned for the weekend. The next meeting is scheduled Monday.

Mexican peso slips further against dollar

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican peso ended a week of heavy losses by slipping further against the U.S. dollar Friday. Private exchange houses in the capital were selling dollars for up to 455 pesos apiece.

North of the border, dollars were trading at up to 470 pesos apiece at commercial outlets in Laredo, Texas, the daily newspaper Excelsior reported late in the afternoon.

Exchange houses run by banks at Mexico City International Airport opened Friday morning buying dollars at 417 pesos apiece and selling them at 424 pesos each. Lines became longer and demand grew stronger through the day even though the banks' price per dollar rose to 440 pesos, bankers said.

Private exchange houses in the city also cut the pesos' value during the day. The private downtown Genova Currency Exchange closed Thursday afternoon buying dollars for 420 pesos apiece and selling them at 445 pesos each. On Friday afternoon the Genova was buying dollars for 435 pesos each, and selling them for 455 apiece.

A week earlier, on Oct. 18, airport exchange houses were buying dollars at 99 pesos each and selling them at 406 apiece. Some analysts attributed the week's losses to new government reports that predicted the economy would fall short of the government's targets for inflation, the public deficit and the balance of trade.

Who's who?

In December, the CBS television network will present a miniseries based on Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland." Numerous well-known stars will appear, but their normally recognizable faces will be hidden behind make-up to transform them into Carroll's fantasy characters. Test your skill at matching the "animals" at left with their "bare" faces at right. The key, left, serves as the score and answer card.

Guiness' autobiography reveals 'nightmares of inadequacy'

ENTERTAINMENT

LONDON (AP) — Academy Award-winning actor Sir Alec Guinness wrote in his new autobiography that he suffers "nightmares of inadequacy." But the British press is warmly applauding both the actor and his memoirs.

Novelist Anthony Burgess hailed the 225-page autobiography, "Blessings In Disguise," as "a marvelous Guinness record...of a great period in the British theater."

He and other reviewers made special note of Guinness' modesty and readiness to praise fellow actors.

In the foreword to his book, the 71-year-old Guinness wrote of himself, "He is well aware he is not in the same class as (Sir Laurence) Olivier, (Sir Ralph) Richardson, (Sir John) Gielgud, or the other greats.

"Deep in his heart he hankers to be an artist of some sort, but he is only an actor," Guinness wrote.

Burgess, most famous for his novel "A Clockwork Orange," said such modesty means boasting about the book will have to be done by "the millions of us who cherish it."

George Lucas' "Star Wars," in which Guinness portrayed Obi-Wan Kenobi, was mentioned in passing as a move that enabled the actor to "have no debts and...afford to refuse work that doesn't appeal to me."

John Mortimer, a playwright and author whose television credits include the script for "Brideshead Revisted," wrote in the Sunday Times that the "supporting cast" of the autobiography "is rich and strange enough to allow the central character to slide out of the limelight."

"Blessings in Disguise" was published recently in Britain by Hamish Hamilton and is to be published in the United States by Alfred A. Knopf Inc. next June.

In his book, Guinness described Gielgud, 81, as a "superb actor" who refuses "to show off his ability against third-rate talent."

"His enthusiasm for work leaves those of us who are 10 years or more his junior flabbergasted and envious," Guinness wrote.

The two first met in 1934, when Gielgud was on a panel of judges that awarded a volume of Shakespeare's works to Guinness, then a student at London's Fay Compton School of Dramatic Art.

Gielgud cast Guinness later that year to play Osric and the Third Player in his New Theater production of "Hamlet."

Guinness went on to appear with Gielgud, often under his direction, in Chekhov's "The Seagull," Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" and Andre Obey's "Noah." Guinness met his future wife, Merula Salaman, in the latter production.

Richardson, who died in 1983, is remembered as a compelling actor who once received Guinness in his hotel suite by punching him in the jaw during the filming of David Lean's "Dr. Zhivago."

"It wasn't typical of him (Richardson) to welcome guests in that way, but it is a fair example of how unpredictable such a steady, kindly, and courteous man could be if the mood seized him," Guinness recalled.

Lean, who has directed Guinness in six films from "Great Expectations" in 1946 to "A Passage To India" in 1984, was described as "a man of genius cocooned with outrageous charm."

Lean directed Guinness in his Academy Award-winning role as the strong-willed Col. Nicolson in the 1957 film "The Bridge on the River Kwai."

Rather's rather amused at CBS bid

NEW YORK (AP) — First, Jesse Helms and his conservative backers said they wanted to gain ownership of CBS and become "Dan Rather's boss." Now, Rather and some colleagues at CBS News have contemplated the same possibility.

The scenario was far-fetched and quickly abandoned as impossible and unrealistic by the principals, but Rather said this week that the idea of buying CBS News was considered and discussed with management.

What happened, Rather said, was that he and Don Hewitt, longtime executive producer of "60 Minutes," broached the subject following the memorial service for CBS correspondent Charles Collingwood earlier this month. They discussed reports that CBS Inc. was considering selling some of its properties in the wake of the costly measures it took to ward off Ted Turner's takeover bid.

They also noted the hostile takeover talk from Helms, the Republican senator from North Carolina who considers CBS News too liberal.

"During our conversation, Don said, 'What if somebody said you could break off CBS News and try to sell it?'...We agreed that if that were remotely possible, that those of us who care about the independence and integrity of CBS News should be ready to put together as many people who care about this place as possible," Rather said.

The "CBS Evening News" anchor said he and Hewitt agreed that buying CBS News, which is a part of the CBS Broadcast Group, was a virtual impossibility, "but we said at least we ought to find out about it."

Mouseketeers honor show's 30th birthday

By BOB THOMAS

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The eight people wearing funny ears on the Disneyland stage include a surgical nurse, a makeup artist, a dance studio operator and a housewife.

But for 35 minutes four times nightly on these autumn evenings, all become the original after-school companions for a generation of baby-boomers.

"M-I-C, K-E-Y, M-O-U-S-E...."

It's been 30 years since that anthem was first heard on the ABC network, closing another edition of the Mickey Mouse Club. Millions of kids raced home from school to watch in wonder as the bouncy Mouseketeers announced themselves at the top of the show. Everyone had a favorite.

To commemorate the 30th anniversary of television's fraternity of ears, Disneyland is presenting a Mouseketeer reunion for its fall visitors, featuring eight club veterans, ranging in ages from 38 to 44. The fast-paced musical revue reprises all the old songs and routines.

"It's amazing to hear the entire audience singing along," said Mouseketeer Sherry Alberoni, 38, now a housewife and mother of two. "We're getting not just our age group, but three generations: our own; our parents, for whom the Mickey Mouse Club was their baby-sitter; the grandkids who now see the club on the Disney Channel."

The Mickey Mouse Club was the brainchild of Walt Disney during the flowering of his company's fortunes in the mid-1950s.

Otto Graham was the star quarterback of the Cleveland Browns for many years. After the death of his baby boy, he asked, "If there is a God, why did He permit this to happen?" Later he said: "I have never received an answer to that question. But I have received a faith that can go without the answer. That faith is the steady confidence that God will always have a reason for whatever happens." Discover that faith with us.

"Thank you for picking up your toys." "Thank you for remembering to get bread." "Thank you for putting gas in the car."

Small routine matters? No! Because when a "thank you" is said, it provides a link of love for the persons involved.

We must work on these "small links of love" in order to make life happier for those around us.

The personal "thank you" also reminds us that a thank you to God is also in order. We do not have to stop and close our eyes and bow our heads each time. Our prayers can be flashes of thoughts as we acknowledge God's love and presence.

Each "thank you" can be a "link of love" to God and others as we pray at home, or at our house of worship.

Despite moral decline, religious belief still strong

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK — Whatever the twists and turns of behavior in American society, sometimes described as sliding into moral chaos, one thing seems to stay steady — the high extent of religious belief.

That is the conclusion of pollster George Gallup Jr. in a review of findings about religion in this country over the last 50 years.

Probably the most appropriate word for it, he says, is "stability." Despite turbulent changes in social mores, the overview report says religious beliefs and practices have remained remarkably consistent over that period.

That goes for belief in God, the divinity of Jesus, prayer and Bible reading, church attendance, membership and confidence in religious institutions — all on about the same substantial plane for the past half century.

"Basic religious beliefs, and even religious practice, today differ relatively little from the levels recorded 50 years ago," says the 57-page golden-anniversary summary of data since the Gallup organization first began gathering it in the 1930s.

Entitled "Religion in America: 50 Years," the report says that another factor that has remained consistent throughout the period is the "glaring lack" of knowledge about religion and "superficiality" about its concepts.

Most Americans indicate a "self-centered kind of faith," the report says, being more likely to say they worship and pray because "it makes me feel good" than because it brings out their "need for repentence or the need to do God's will regardless of the cost."

RELIGION

At present, about 95 percent of Americans believe in God, according to the latest data, and that's about the same as it has been over the years, much higher than in most West European countries.

But only about two-thirds of Americans believe in a personal God who watches over, helps and judges people — the God of biblical revelation.

Currently, about 40 percent of the people are found to attend worship services each week, roughly the same proportion of attendance found in 20 surveys since 1939.

The main exception to that level occurred in 1955, when nearly 50 percent of the public attended weekly services. Occasionally, in recent years, the figure has varied slightly from the 40 percent mark, but insignificantly.

In one category, however, the summary cites a decline in the country's religious caliber, and that is in the proportion who say religion is important in their lives. Now, about 56 percent say so, compared to 75 percent in 1956.

However the report says recent trends indicate "renewed interest in religion," with growing participation in Bible study groups, "new religious ferment" on college campuses and increased desire to see religion play a greater part in public life.

Nine out of 10 Americans say they pray — 90 percent of them — the same proportion recorded in surveys over the last half century. The proportion far exceeds that found in Western Eruopean countries.

Even among "unchurched" Americans, three-fourths say they pray.

Concerning religious prospects ahead, the report predicts increased attention by individuals to their spiritual lives, accompanied in part by "rejection of the authority of the churches."

Gallup, an Episcopalian, also heads the Princeton Religion Research Center which publishes monthly reports on findings, with recent data showing a climb in the porportion of Americans believing religion is increasing its influence.

Forty-eight percent discern such a trend, up 6 percent over the year before, and the highest mark ever, except in 1957, a lush period of religiosity when 69 percent felt religion's influence was growing.

On another point, 43 percent of Americans say they have had unusual and inexplicable spiritual or religious experiences, ranging from nature-inspired feelings of awe to answered prayers to out-of-body experiences.

The highest proportions of such experiences were reported by women, 47 percent, and college graduates, 50 percent.

POSITIVE THINKING

Resentment natural but not justified

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I have done a bit of personal counseling in the past and once had a curious experience dealing with a case of deep-seated resentment.

Resentment is a natural reaction. But as to being really justified, that is very questionable. It doesn't get you anywhere; it makes you miserable. It causes tension, saps your energy, is bad for your health; and it can jeopardize happiness by blinding one to the best course of action in a crisis.

I recall the case of a woman who came to consult me when she discovered that her husband had been having a clandestine affair with another woman. Seldom have I seen anyone so angry. She and her husband, she kept repeating, had been married 20 years. She had trusted him. She had thought all was well between them. She could not find words strong enough for what she thought of him. He was a double-dealer. He was the lowest kind of heel.

I certainly could not condone the husband's conduct, but so self-righteous was this woman's attitude and so vindictive that, actually, I could not help feeling some sympathy for the man. I could find no way effectively to shut off the ceaseless flow of her vituperation.

We still were not making much progress in helping her. Finally, I decided upon a kind of dramatic method. I said to her, "Now look. We aren't getting anywhere with this matter. So I suggest that you just let go of the problem for a while. Drop it in my hands." I stood up, cupped my hands and held them out to her as though taking her problem into them. I opened the door, made a gesture of tossing something into the next room, closed the door again and said, "Now your problem is out there in the other room. Let's leave it there. Let's sit quietly and simply think about God for a few minutes.

At length she spoke very differently this time — quietly and with intelligence. She said, "Well, Harry has his good points. I still love him. Maybe I haven't been all I should be, either. I'm going to pray for him." And then she said amazingly, "I'm going to pray for her, too. She's misguided and she must need help."

It was a most remarkable statement and it led to an improved situation between this couple. Somethings do turn our right in the end, like the old-fashioned novels that conclude with the hero and heroine living happily ever after. This woman and her husband managed to close the breach between them and their marriage became a happy one again.

Massachusetts town mails Texas tourism officials box of leaves

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — This western Massachusetts city mailed Friday three boxes of vivid New England leaves — waxed ones at that — to Texas tourism officials who boasted "New England ain't got nothing on Texas" for fall foliage.

"There's gold in these hills," Paul J. Walker, executive director of the Greater Northampton Chamber of Commerce, exclaimed in response to a Texas Tourist Development Agency boast this week.

"Fall foliage started in New England. After all, New England was here before the West was discovered."

Walker said he waxed leaves from trees in this Connecticut River Valley city of about 30,000 and packed them Friday. One box will go to the tourist agency in Austin, another to the Texas Chamber of Commerce and one to Walker's son in Dallas.

"I hope I don't make him homesick," he said.

O.C. Garza, spokesman for the Texas tourist agency, said the claim came after an announcement of a hotline to advise foliage viewers to good spots in Texas in November, when the leaves begin turning.

"One thing I've been trying to emphasize," Garza explained, "is that Texas has 11.5 million acres of timberland, bigger than the states of Vermont and Massachusetts combined."

Garza, who conceded he has never been to New England, said he hadn't expected much response from New England.

Doctors say liver transplant patient Jamie Fiske 'A-OK'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jamie Fiske, who received a new liver after her father made a nationally televised appeal for a donor organ in 1982, on Friday was pronounced by doctors to be "A-OK all the way down the line."

Dr. John Najarian, chief of surgery at University of Minnesota Hospitals, issued results of tests conducted on 3-year-old Jamie during her annual checkup at the hospital.

"Jamie is doing very well," he told reporters at a news conference. "It would be hard to find anybody who is doing better."

Jamie's parents, Charles and Marilyn Fiske of Bridgewater, Mass., beamed as the announcement was made. "We're absolutely thrilled with Jamie's development," said Mrs. Fiske. Jamie's brother, Daren, 5, also was with the family in Minnesota.

But Jamie stole the show, answering reporters' questions as she paged through her coloring book. She said she felt "good." When asked how her hospital stay was, she said, "I took all my stuff out of my backpack and my bed was a mess."

Jamie got her liver after her father, a hospital administrator, made an emotional appeal for a donor during a convention at the American Academy of Pediatricians. The nationally televised plea resulted in the offer a few days later of the liver of a Utah boy killed in an accident.

Stassen

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Harold Stassen, a signer of the original United Nations charter, says he has drafted a new version of the document to help solve problems facing the 40-year-old organization.

Stassen, 78, a former governor of Minnesota and repeated presidential candidate, said he plans to submit the proposal to all 159 member nations of the United Nations.

"Our No. 1 objective 40 years ago was to prevent a third world war," Stassen said Thursday in an interview with the St. Paul Pioneer Press and Dispatch. "The United Nations has been successful in that regard."

But Stassen said the U.N. charter must be brought up to date, modifying the "unrealistic" system in the General Assembly under which each nation has a single vote regardless of its size.

His proposal would give most of the body's authority to a 25-member Cabinet in which the number of votes would be based on population.

In addition, Stassen is calling for creation of an U.N. police force of 250,000 volunteers to combat terrorism and stabilize trouble spots, such as the Middle East.

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association is a strong opponent of cigarette smoking, so some eyebrows were raised when it was disclosed in June that the group's new president owned land on which tobacco is grown.

Five months later, Dr. Harrison L. Rogers Jr. of Atlanta has sold his one-third interest in the tenant-farmed land in southern Georgia, AMA officials announced this week.

"The issue being raised, I will certainly have to look at it and decide what to do about it. I feel uncomfortable about it," Rogers had said in June.

Fewer than seven acres of the tract's 293 acres are used to grow tobacco.

Toba Cohen, spokeswoman for the 260,000-member AMA, announced the sale. Rogers was in Belgium at a World Medical Association meeting and could not be reached for comment.

Webb

MENOMONEE FALLS, Wis. (AP) — Cathleen Crowell Webb has given some of the royalties of a book she wrote to Gary Dotson, the man she says she falsely accused of rape six years ago, her lawyer said.

The undisclosed sum represents 75 percent of advance royalties for the book, titled, "Forgive Me," said attorney John J. McLario.

Dotson, 28, of Country Club Hills, Ill., and his fiancee, Camille Dardanes, received the check here on Thursday, the lawyer said.

After Mrs. Webb, 23, recanted her testimony this year, Dotson's rape conviction was upheld, but Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson commuted his prison sentence to the six years he had already served.

Dotson's attorney, Warren Lupel of Evanston, Ill., said he was surprised that some expenses had been deducted from the royalties and that Dotson was required to sign a release promising not to sue Mrs. Webb.

NEW YORK (AP) — Actors Michael J. Fox, James Cagney, F. Murray Abraham and Swoosie Kurtz, singer Eartha Kitt, former boxer Floyd Patterson and other celebrities paid tribute to the Statue of Liberty by recording a famous poem.

"Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free," the stars said Thursday.

Hanoi to let U.S. search crash site

Vietnam responds to reports of live sightings

Brown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hanoi government has tentatively agreed for the first time to allow a U.S. team to participate in a search for American remains at a B-52 crash site in Vietnam, a senior Defense Department official reported Friday.

Moreover, during technical meetings held in Hanoi last month, the Vietnamese sought to respond for the first time to U.S. inquiries about live sightings of Americans in Vietnam, said Commodore James D. Cossey, acting deputy assistant defense secretary for East Asia and Pacific affairs.

Cossey said the Vietnamese informed a U.S. delegation they had checked out three such reports and determined that none of the individuals was American.

One of the three was described as "a black Khmer," a description the United States considers "somewhat unusual" and worthy of further investigation, Cossey said. It is possible, however, to find mixed-blood Khmers with dark skin in the highlands of Cambodia and Vietnam.

Cossey disclosed what he called "encouraging" developments in the search for missing Americans in the course of identifying 10 sets of remains among the 26 remains which the Vietnamese turned over to U.S. authorities on Aug. 14.

Nine of the 26 were identified earlier this month. The status of the remaining seven probably will be resolved within the next two weeks, Cossey said.

The only time an American team of experts has been allowed to participate in the excavation of a wartime crash site occurred last February in Laos. That excavation resulted in the recovery of the remains of 13 Americans.

"We are hopeful that details can be worked out and we can see that crash site excavation (in Vietnam) proceed in the near future," Cossey said. "It will be the first crash site excavation in Vietnam and in fact, it will be the first time that we've had a U.S. team in Vietnam since 1975. Hopefully, it will be the first of many."

Cossey said only that the site is in the Hanoi-Haiphong area. He refused to say when the B-52 crashed or how many Americans were aboard.

The Pentagon official said the United States was encouraged by the discussion of live sightings because it indicated the Vietnamese may be taking the reports seriously.

"We find that a very hopeful sign. And we believe the Vietnamese are in fact involved in investigating the live-sighting reports."

The Defense Department's official position on numerous unconfirmed reports of sightings of Americans in Vietnam is that "although we have thus far been unable to prove that Americans are still detained against their will, the information available to us precludes ruling out that possibility."

The Pentagon says it bases its investigations on the assumption, yet unproved, "that at least some Americans are still held captive."

Cossey disclosed that one of the 10 victims identified Friday was a civilian with dual French and American citizenship who had not been included previously on the official missing in action list.

"We are hopeful that details can be worked out and we can see that crash site excavation (in Vietnam) proceed in the near future." It will be the first crash site excavation in Vietnam and in fact, it will be the first time that we've had a U.S. team in Vietnam since 1975. Hopefully, it will be the first of many."
— Commodore James Cossey

He was identified as Jean Claud Lecornec, whose parents reside in Clear Lake Oaks, Calif. Lecornec had worked in Vietnam during the war as a civilian aircraft technician, and returned there voluntarily in May or June of 1975 in an attempt to find his family, Cossey said.

On his return to Vietnam, Lecornec wastaken prisoner and apparently died in captivity of dysentery about a year later.

Cossey said the U.S. Army's Central Identification Laboratory in Honolulu also had identified the remains of nine U.S. military officers. The list released by the Pentagon includes a "home of record," which may not be the same as the place of birth.

They are:

- Air Force Col. Arthur T. Finney of Miami, born June 26, 1928, and reported lost in North Vietnam on Aug. 1, 1966.
- Air Force Col. John C. Kwortnik of Downingtown, Pa., born May 26, 1935, and reported lost in North Vietnam on Aug. 1, 1966.
- Navy Capt. James M. Vescelius Jr. of Milford, Mich., born Nov. 16, 1934, and reported lost in North Vietnam on Dec. 21, 1967.
- Air Force Lt. Col. Edwin R. Goodrich Jr. of Olean, N.Y., born Nov. 6, 1936, and reported lost in North Vietnam on March 12, 1967.
- Air Force Lt. Col. William M. Meyer of Taylor, Mich., born Nov. 22, 1934, and reported lost in North Vietnam on April 26, 1967.
- Navy Lt. Cmdr. James S. Graham of Ardmore, Pa., born Oct. 25, 1941, and reported lost in North Vietnam on May 4, 1967.
- Navy Lt. Cmdr. James E. Sullivan of Hull, Mass., born Nov. 11, 1942, and reported lost in North Vietnam on Oct. 29, 1972.
- Army Capt. Melvin W. Finch of Fort Belvoir, Va., born Nov. 10, 1944, and reported lost in South Vietnam on March 30, 1972.
- Navy Lt.(jg) Donald H. Brown Jr. of Berkeley, Calif., born Aug. 22, 1938, and reported lost in North Vietnam on Aug. 12, 1965.

Cossey said the 10 remains would be flown to California next Tuesday.

The Pentagon now lists 2,446 military and civilian personnel as missing in Southeast Asia, of whom 1,802 are listed as missing in Vietnam.

John A. Walker Jr. expected to plead guilty to espionage

BALTIMORE (AP) — John A. Walker Jr., accused of being the mastermind of a family espionage ring, is expected to plead guilty Monday when he appears in court with his son, a government source said Friday.

An official announcement by the court said merely that Walker's trial, which was to have begun Monday, had been delayed for some unspecified "proceedings" involving father and son.

But the government source in Washington, who refused to be identified by name, said that the elder Walker is expected to offer his full cooperation with the government. That could include testifying against his long-time friend from the Navy, Jerry A. Whitworth, who is charged on the West Coast with supplying the senior Walker with sensitive communications and code secrets for sale to the Soviet Union.

The source added that the government would insist that the elder Walker serve significant prison time. "The father is really going to take a hit," this source said.

Jury selection was to have begun Monday for Walker's trial. Michael, allegedly recruited by his father into a family spy ring that sold Navy secrets to the Soviets, was scheduled to be tried after completion of his father's case.

The law clerk for U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey II said both the elder Walker, a retired Navy officer, and his seaman son, will be in court Monday for what he termed "proceedings." He said the nature of those proceedings "has not been finalized."

Whitworth's attorney, Tony Tamburello, denied reports that he had said he understood John Walker was going to testify against his client.

"I have heard nothing from what I consider a reliable source," Tamburello said in San Francisco. "There are rumors, Nothing is confirmed."

However, he said that if John Walker pleaded guilty and testified against Whitworth, then "the government has created a typical prosecution absurdity.

"They're taking the person most responsible for the crimes, making a deal with him and asking him to go after the person they have the least amount of evidence against," Tamburello said.

Whitworth, a 48-year-old retired Navy petty officer from Davis, Calif., is to appear next in court on Nov. 1. He pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of passing military documents.

A Justice Department spokesman, Patrick Korten, said the elder Walker "is going to be judged guilty of the most serious offenses charged against him and will serve the most serious time in prison possible whether he chooses to go with trial or to plead guilty."

The elder Walker's defense attorney, Fred Warren Bennett, did not return phone calls seeking comment.

John Walker, 48, of Norfolk, Va., retired from the Navy in 1976. He had top secret clearance during his 20 years' service, with special access to codes and communications.

Walker's older brother, Arthur J. Walker, 50, a retired Navy lieutenant commander from Virginia Beach, Va., was found guilty Aug. 9 of providing his brother with copies of confidential Navy documents from a defense contractor. He is to be sentenced Nov. 12.

Arthur Walker had offered to be a government witness at his brother's trial, although his attorney has said "they don't really need him." He had admitted giving his brother two classified documents obtained from the defense contractor for which he had worked since 1980.

Reagans offer condolences to Klinghoffer family

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan on Friday met and offered condolences to Marilyn Klinghoffer, widow of the New Yorker killed during the terrorist hijacking of an Italian cruise ship.

Mrs. Klinghoffer, her daughters Ilsa and Lisa, Lisa's husband Jerry Arbittier, Ilsa's fiance Paul Dworin, and Mrs. Klinghoffer's mother, Rose Windwehr, met with the president and his Mrs. Reagan, at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel for about 20 minutes.

Reagan, who was in New York for ceremonies marking the 40th anniversary of the United Nations, then left by motorcade to return to Washington.

Reagan hugged Mrs. Klinghoffer, Mrs. Reagan kissed her, and then the Reagans and the Klinghoffer family moved into a room the president had been using to greet foreign leaders during his visit.

The Klinghoffer family later left the hotel by motorcade without talking to reporters.

Mrs. Klinghoffer's 69-year-old husband Leon was killed earlier this month when Palestinian terrorists took over the cruise liner Achille Lauro. His family has been observing shiva, the traditional Jewish mourning period, at home. The period ended Thursday, said family spokeswoman Letty Simon.

Ms. Simon, speaking to reporters outside the hotel, described the meeting as "generally a social call, and it was an opportunity for President and Mrs. Reagan to extend condolences."

Mrs. Klinghoffer told the president she hoped her husband's killers would be brought to justice and "he said he was of like mind," Ms. Simon said.

Shortly before noon, U.N. Ambassador Vernon Walters spoke briefly to reporters outside the hotel. He said he had just seen Mrs. Klinghoffer and "She's in much better shape than she was when the body arrived."

Klinghoffer's body was returned to the United States on Sunday.

Referring to the United States' interception of a jet carrying the hijackers, Walters said: "I would say simply that the United States has fired a shot across the bows of the terrorists. They know there'll be trouble the next time."

Mrs. Klinghoffer, who has announced plans to start an organization dedicated to combating terrorism, will schedule a news conference next week, Ms. Simon said.

Meanwhile, the American Arab Relations Committee issued a statement Friday calling on Reagan to meet with the widow of Alex Odeh, an Arab-American who was killed Oct. 11 in a bombing in Santa Ana, Calif. Police have not announced that they have any suspects, but the committee described the bombing as "Zionist terrorism."

In a telegram to the White House, Dr. M.T. Mehdi, president of the committee, said Reagan was "the president of all Americans, and to receive Mrs. Klinghoffer, a citizen victim of alleged Palestinian terrorism, without receiving Mrs. Odeh, a citizen victim of alleged Zionist terrorism, will be a case of anti-Arab discrimination by the American president."

Group '9 to 5' in debt $15,000, closing office

BOSTON (AP) — A group of women office workers whose campaign to improve working conditions sparked a national movement and inspired the film "9 to 5" is now $15,000 in debt and is closing its office.

"We're down but not out," said Lisa Grant, director and sole staff member of the Boston chapter of 9 to 5, whose organization plans to continue functioning using a suburban post-office box as a mailing address.

She said Reagan administration cutbacks and changing attitudes were to blame.

Boston 9 to 5 began in 1973 with 10 secretaries in a room at a YWCA discussing low pay and bleak prospects.

Their efforts inspired a song sung by Dolly Parton and the movie, named for the organization, with Ms. Parton and Jane Fonda.

In its heyday, Boston 9 to 5 said it won concessions at the Bank of Boston, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. and Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., although targeted companies never acknowledged yielding to 9 to 5 pressure.

Women sentencd to life

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two women convicted of murdering a Turkish student and wounding a second while on a double-date were sentenced to life in prison Friday.

Charmaine Pfender, 19, of Pittsburgh, and Sara Mae Richardson, 21, of nearby Imperial, were sentenced for their first-degree murder convictions in the death of Engin Aydin, 24, of Bozagac, Turkey.

Allegheny County Common Pleas Judge George H. Ross also sentenced the women to consecutive prison terms for convictions on other charges so that they would not be eligible for parole within the usual 15 to 20 years, a court official said.

Miss Pfender's attorney, William Brennan, admitted to the jury that his client was "the shooter." But he claimed she acted in self-defense after Aydin made unwelcome sexual advances.

NATO meeting slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger will attend a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's nuclear planning group next week in Brussels, Belgium, the Pentagon said Friday.

Weinberger will leave Washington on Sunday for the meeting, and plans to return Wednesday, the Pentagon said.

Investigators look into drug use by nuclear project employees

AUSTIN (AP) — Investigators are looking into the possible use of illegal drugs by employees of the South Texas Nuclear Project, according to Houston Lighting & Power Co. officials.

The company's investigation began several weeks ago and has resulted in the firing of some security guards, officials told the Austin Amereican-Statesman Thursday.

"We are not going to have drug use on this job," said Graham Painter, a public relations official for Houston Lighting & Power. "We want the workers to know it, and we want the public to know it."

Painter said the investigation focuses on drug use away from the construction site during non-working hours. The problem has not affected construction progress, Painter said. The project is under construction in Matagorda County near Bay City.

"HL&P has maintained an aggressive program to prohibit use of drugs on this project, and we are directing additional attention at discouraging employee use of drugs away from the project as well," said Jerome Goldberg, group vice president for Houston Lighting & Power, the managing partner of the project.

One measure being considered is requiring workers to undergo urine tests to detect the presence of drugs, Painter said.

'Roughness' by police probed

AUSTIN (AP) — Mayor Frank Cooksey has ordered an investigation of a complaint of roughness by police assigned to Brackenridge Hospital.

Marvin Wilford, one of four members of the Black Citizens Task Force who appeared before the city council Thursday, said he was arrested outside the city hospital Sept. 22 after he had a disagreement with a hospital clerk over an unpaid bill. He said several police officers stopped him, made him lie on the ground, put their knees on him to keep him down and handcuffed him while his wife and young daughter watched.

Wilford was arrested on suspicion of public intoxication, assault by threat, using abusive language and making terroristic threats.

Wilford told the council he was released on $44 bail after a police captain at headquarters determined he was not drunk.

Guidelines to help farmers, ranchers

AUSTIN (AP) — State agriculture officials and community service groups will meet Monday to begin developing guidelines for helping Texas farmers and ranchers who are forced off their land.

Assistance for unemployed farmers now is available in seven other states.

In June, the Texas Department of Agriculture requested that available federal funds be extended to provide career counseling, job training and job placement services for unemployed farmers and ranchers.

The request has been approved by the state Job Coordinating Council and the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Agriculture department officials said Friday they hope the assistance can be available by Jan. 1.

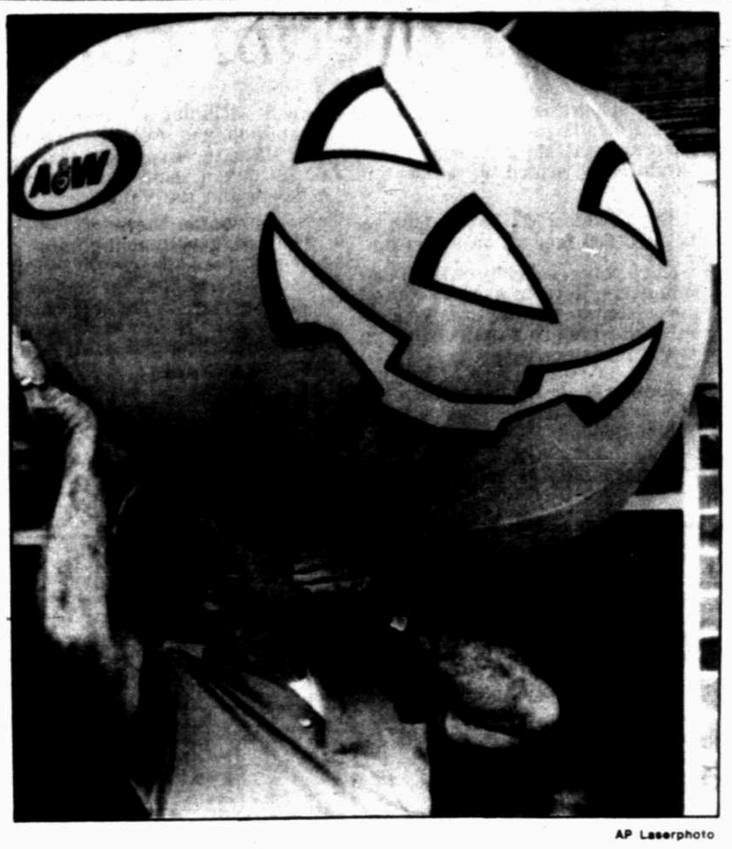

Lady Bird Johnson released from hospital

AUSTIN (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson was released from an Austin hospital Friday after having spent more than a day under observation for stomach pains, a hospital spokeswoman said.

"There really was no diagnosis. She came in with stomach pains and was kept for observation," said Vicki Hahn, a spokeswoman for Seton Medical Center.

Mrs. Johnson, 72, had become ill Wednesday, an aide said.

"One the advice of her doctor, she entered Seton Wednesday night as a precautionary measure," said Betty Tilson, an assistant to Mrs. Johnson. She said doctors thought the former first lady might be suffering from diverticulitis, an inflammation of the lower intestine.

Police search for bank robber who said 'smile'

HOWE (AP) — Authorities Friday were searching for a man who wore a fake beard and told the bank president to "smile" as he robbed the Howe State Bank in North Central Texas.

The man, described as in his 50s, was wearing blue striped overalls and carried a .25-caliber pistol, officials said.

No one was injured in the 9:30 a.m. Friday robbery, officials said, and the man fled in a car owned by the bank.

Bank president Jim Shannon declined to say how much money was taken.

"He (suspect) said he had one (a gun). He handed me a note, which said, 'Give me all your money and be calm,'" Shannon told the Sherman Democrat.

"The last thing on the note was interesting. It said, 'Smile and call me John.'

"I told him I was too nervous to smile," Shannon said.

"He said, 'I am, too.' We made the rounds of the tellers and I told the girls to remain calm and give him all the money."

The suspect reportedly drove south on Highway 5 followed by bank employee Ray Jenkins in another vehicle. Jenkins lost the suspect, and Shannon's car was later found abandoned in an apartment parking lot, officials said.

In a nearby dumpster, officials found the overalls, beard and revolver used in the robbery, they said.

Opening of Knock airport dream come true for monsignor

KNOCK, Ireland (AP) — About 10,000 well-wishers came to a misty and remote hilltop Friday for the opening of an airport that is a dream come true for a priest hoping to attract legions of pilgrims to a local shrine.

But critics say the airport, which is in an isolated area plagued by a poor economy and continual bad weather, is doomed to failure.

Monsignor James Horan, who was inspired to build an international airport by Pope John Paul II's visit to Knock six years ago, said: "It's a great day for Knock...and for Ireland."

"I find it very hard to believe that it has happened," said the priest who single-handedly raised more than $2 million to help finance construction of the airport, 115 miles west of Dublin.

One group of his supporters carried a banner reading: "God bless our airport: Monsignor Horan gets his wings at last."

The current Irish government has refused to give financial support to the $13.9-million project.

Communications Minister Jim Mitchell had dismissed Connaught Regional Airport as "an ill-advised project, far distant from any sizeable town, high on a foggy and boggy hill."

The airport is situated 10 miles from Ireland's most celebrated religious site, the Marian shrine to the Virgin Mary, visited by the pope in 1979.

The 7,700-foot runway is built on bogland 600 feet up on a plateau.

Extra police, aided by civil defense volunteers, were on hand to control the cheering crowds. Local schoolchildren were given time off to join in the festivities.

Horan was close to tears when the first jet, carrying journalists from Dublin, landed after heavy early-morning mist cleared.

The airport's first 404 paying passengers, including a Roman Catholic archbishop and two bishops, then took off on three specially chartered aircraft taking them on a pilgrimage to Rome and the Vatican.

Horan was on the second flight.

The Irish government granted the airport a special license for Friday's flights to Rome and for the return flights on Nov. 1. The government could stop the airport by not issuing a permanent license if safety regulations are not met.

The airport's critics say the facility could become Ireland's biggest white elephant when it starts operating full time at the start of the pilgrimage season next spring.

Horan, 72, hopes the airport will bring hundreds of thousands more pilgrims to the shrine, encouraging trade in the depressed area. About 500,000 people now visit the shrine each year.

He expects 267,000 passengers to use the airport in its first year of operation, even though Ireland, with a population of 3.5 million, already has three other international airports.

The priest got the idea for an airport six years ago when the pope visited Knock, scene of a saintly apparition 100 years ago.

He was further encouraged by a newly established Irish airline, Ryan Air, which said it would seek a license to operate a regular service from Knock to London's Gatwick Airport.

Horan won backing for his plans in 1980 from the government, which was then led by the Fianna Fail Party.

But a series of changes of government made the airport's future uncertain. The current administration cut off further financial assistance two years ago, after $11.6 million of public money had been spent.

Horan raised public donations of more than $2.3 million to complete the project.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Pilot's landing to use toilet ends with fine

METZ, France (LAT) — Swiss pilot Heinz Peier landed his light aircraft so he could pay an urgent visit to the bathroom, and ended up being fined some $38,000.

A French appeals court ordered the fine Friday after hearing Peier's story of how he was flying over the Voges Mountains three years ago, with two women friends, when he needed to answer the call of nature.

His radio was not working, which meant his landing in Strasbourg was unannounced. Customs officials searched the plane and found diamonds, worth around $25,000, for which there were no European Community Transit papers.

French customs lost its original case against Peiers, but appealed and gained a fresh trial.

Iran says it shot Iraqi jet

TEHRAN, Iran (LAT) — Iran said Friday its forces shot down an Iraqi jet fighter and beat back several Iraqi counterattacks in the southern Huwaiza marshlands area.

The report came in a communique on Iran's 3-day-old Ashura offensive in the strategic swamp region, where the Iranians say they have killed or wounded 310 Iraqis and taken 58 others prisoner.

Iranian parliamentary Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said after a meeting of the Supreme Defense Council that there was no obstacle to launching wide-scale operations against Iraq.

Supertankers scrapped

PARIS (AP) — Two of the world's largest ships, the French supertankers Batillus and Bellamya, have been sold for scrap, the owners Shell France announced Friday.

The sales were concluded Thursday, one to Taiwan and the other to South Korea, the company said. It would not give details of the prices.

The tankers, eachweighing 553,000 tons, were built in 1976 by a French shipyard but have been laid up for the past three years because the poor market for oil transport by supertankers.

Two 278,000-ton Shell tankers, the Lucina and Leda, were sold a few days ago for scrap to a Taiwan yard, the company noted.

As a result of the sales, the French company no longer owns any tankers but charters them as needed and mans them with crews from the scrapped vessels.

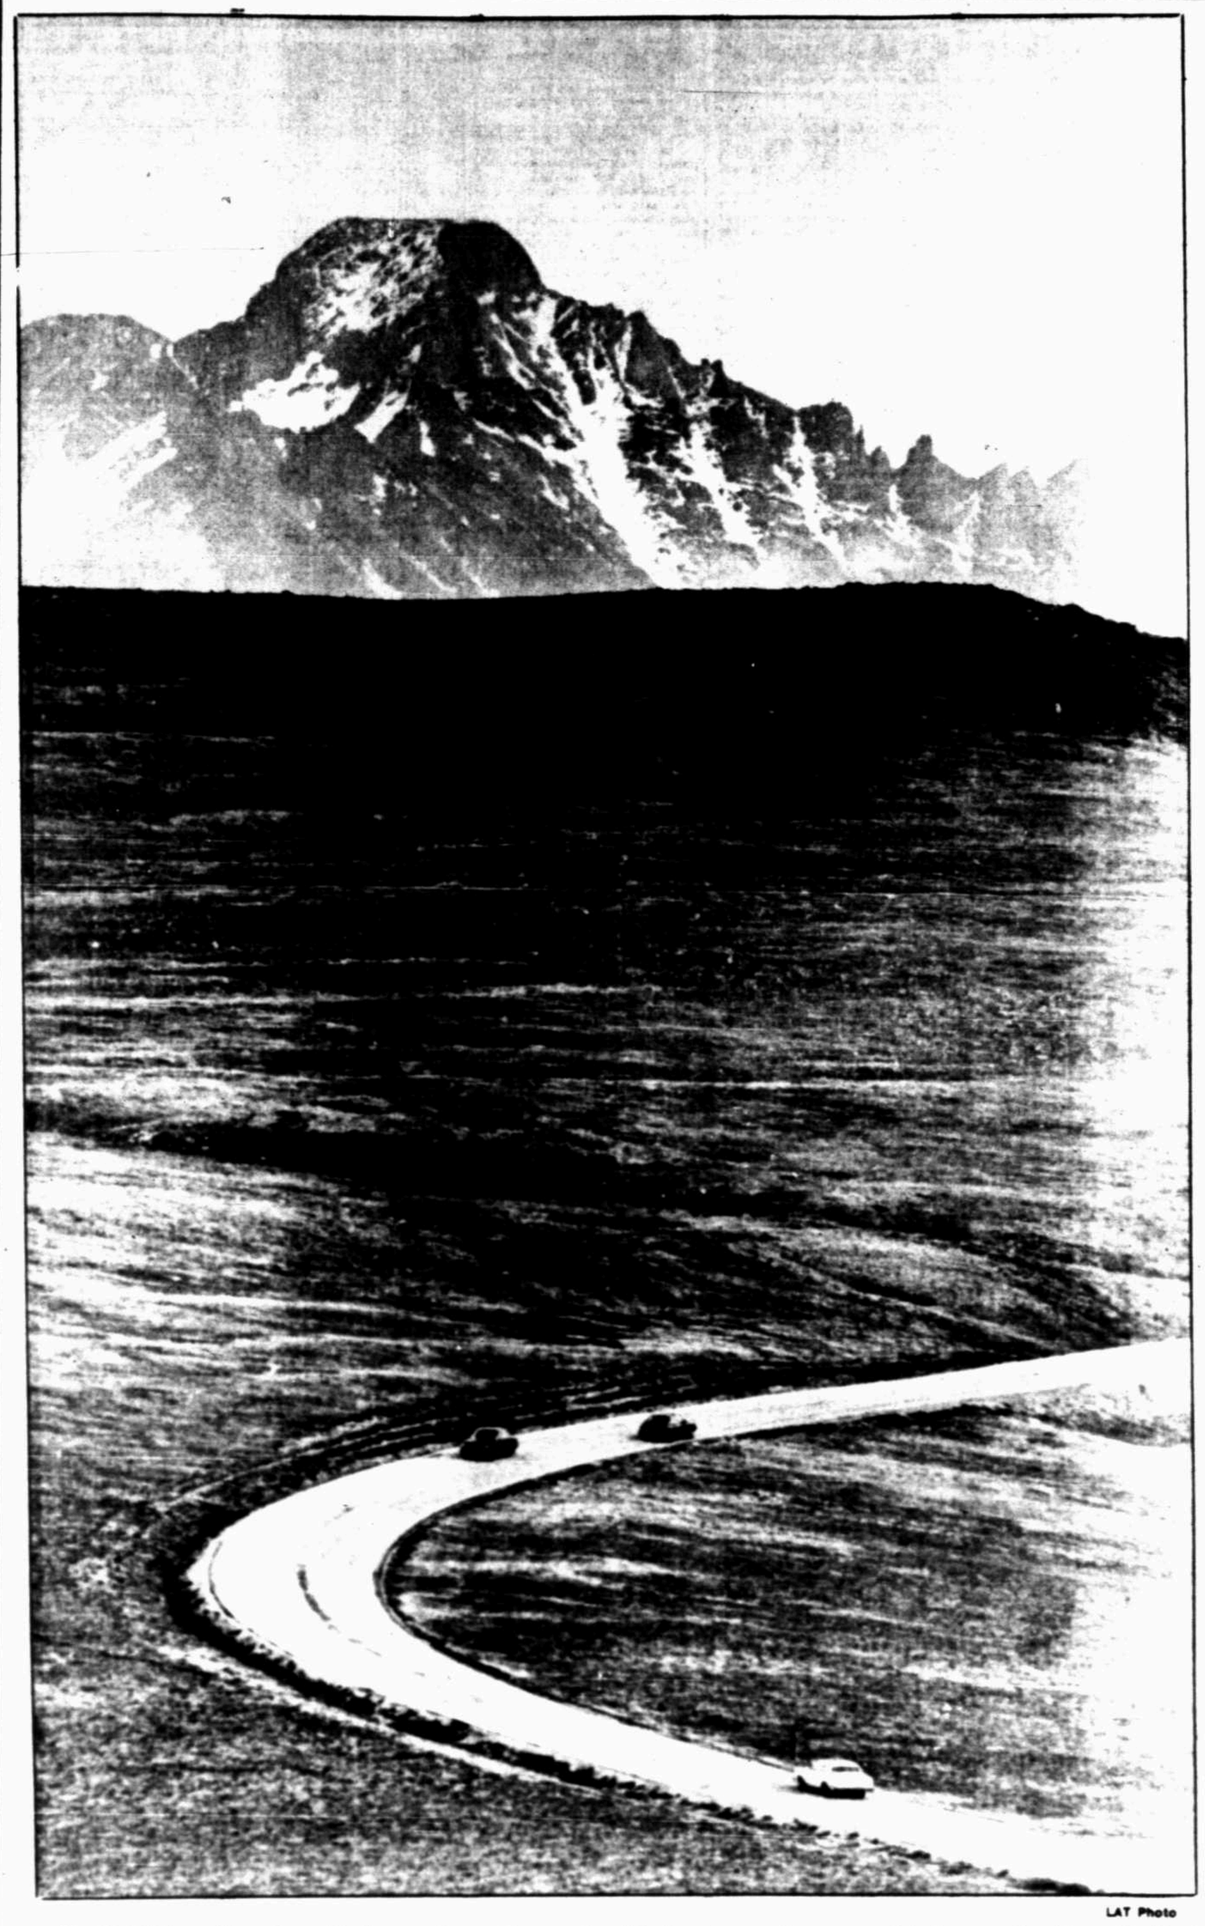

The largest ship afloat is the 564,739 ton-Seawise Giant built for C.Y. Tung in 1981.

Trail Ridge Road, which snakes through the Rocky Mountains National Park, is the highest continuous highway in the United States.

'Pikes Peak or Bust'

Colorado: Land of towering mountains

By CHARLES HILLINGER
Los Angeles Times
Washington Post
News Service

Waitresses at the nation's highest restaurant atop 14,110-foot Pikes Peak in Colorado are ever alert for pale faces, as they call those about to faint.

"Almost every day we get one or more customers who pass out as we take their order to deliver their food," Jill Knudson, 18, said. "They can't take the high altitude."

What do they do when that happens? "You remain calm," she replied. "Only thing you can do. We have oxygen and smelling salts ready. Hopefully, you catch them before they hit the floor."

Such is one slice of life in Colorado, which has America's greatest concentration of towering mountains. It is a state with more than 1,000 peaks over 10,000 feet, one of only four states with mountains soaring above the 14,000-foot mark.

Colorado has 54 peaks higher than 14,000 feet; Alaska has 19, including Mount McKinley, at 20,320 feet, the higest in North America; California, 12, including Mount Whitney at 14,494 feet, highest in the contiguous 48 states. Washington has three.

Pikes Peak, Colorado's 31st highest mountain, is also the highest place in the United States where people live and work on a continuous basis several months of the year.

This summer, 30 men and women, two dozen of them college students like Ms. Knudson, who came here from her home in Titonka, Iowa, worked at the Summit House, a Pikes Peak restaurant and gift shop.

"Everybody who works here gets sick the first night they spend on top of the mountain," said Bill Carle, 58, owner of the Summit House. "Dizziness, headaches, nausea. They toss and turn, unable to sleep. It's like being on a ship on a rough sea the first night out. It takes three or four days to get adjusted to this altitude."

Carle ought to know. He has been spending six to seven months on top of Pikes Peak for the past 36 years. Before Carle took over, his wife's parents owned and operated the restaruant and gift shop, beginning in 1916.

People who meet the "Pikes Peak or Bust" challenge and drive the 20 miles on the narrow, winding road — half paved, half dirt — or ride the 8.9-mile Pikes Peak Cog Railway to the top generally spend, at most, an hour or two in the thin air.

They enjoy the view, maybe have a bite to eat or at least a cup of coffee, perhaps buy a "We Made It! Pikes Peak" bumber sticker or other souvenir, experience shortness of breath, the weird, woozy lightheaded feeling — and then leave.

LAT Photo

Living the high-life is easy in Colorado with its towering mountains, but the atmosphere often goes to people's heads. At the nation's highest restaurant atop 14,110-foot Pikes Peak, waitress Jill Knudson is ever-alert for customers who pass out from the thin air.

Even Carle has problems with thin air. He admitted: "I'm beginning to puff a little now that I'm getting older." So, instead of sleeping up here, he drives down to the Glen Cove Inn, run by his wife at 11,425 feet, and is more comfortable.

Yet, his mother-in-law, Grace Wilson, was active running the place and living on top of Pikes Peak until she was 87.

Valerie Voyles, 36, manager of the mountaintop establishment, has for the last 18 years come up in the middle of April through deep snow drifts. She stays until mid-November, leaving only three times during her long stay, then for only a few hours each day.

"I feel better up here. I think living at this altitude improves your health and life expectancy. You've heard about people living to be 120, 130 and 140 in the Himalayas and high mountains in South America," she said.

Scientists have discovered that flowers and animals living at higher elevations in Colorado live longer than those living in lower areas. At the town of 9,896-foot-high Fairplay there is a monument to Prunes, a burro who packed supplies to miners for more than 60 years.

"It's the pure air up here," Ms. Voyles said. "You have to breathe slow and deep. I walk a lot. I love it. It's like being on top of the world. In the mornings when it's socked in it looks like you could walk to Kansas on the clouds below. Kansas is 150 miles from here."

She tells of the magnificent night sky "with a moon you could almost reach out and touch," the dazzling lights of Denver below, looking down the backbone of the Continental Divide from Wyoming to New Mexico.

When she vacations from November to April, Ms. Voyles travels to high mountain country in Scandinavias and Europe. She avoids lower elevations.

No carbonated soft drinks are sold here because carbonated beverage cans explode at this elevation. Nor does Carle sell alcoholic beverages on the mountaintop. "Flatlanders can't handle alcohol at this elevation," he said.

Temperatures are generally in the 40s and 50s on summer days. It freezes nearly every night. A snowstorm may happen any day of the year on Pikes Peak.

Wellesley College English professor Katharine Lee Bates was so inspired by what she saw from Pikes Peak during her visit here in 1893, she sat down and wrote the words to the U.S. national hymn, "America the Beautiful."

The highest road in America isn't the one up Pikes Peak; it is the 27-mile, narrow paved road from Idaho Springs to the top of Mount Evans, 14,264 feet. The road winds its way around the shoulders of Colorado's 14th highest peak without a protective rail, hanging precariously over steep cliffs that drop off several hundred feet.

Coloradans like Greg Miller, 25, a law student, and his friend Lori MacDonald, 24, drive up to Mount Evans for the exhilarating view. A small University of Denver high altitude research lab on the peak is used by scientists from time to time but not continuously during summer.

Every weekend, from June through August, Dave Moore, 30, a Lakewood, Colo., chemist, runs to the top of the mountain and back. Why run here? "I'm a masochist," he said, laughing. "No, really, it's a sense of accomplishment. I look at the top of Mount Evans from my office in Denver during the week and think to myself, 'I ran that.'

"It will either kill you or do wonders for you."
