These crashes resulted in no persons killed and five person injured.

Abernathy is the first community to go "over the top" in the $83,325. Boy Scout Sustaining Membership Drive according to Jack Schneider, Lubbock chairman. Rudolph Struve, Abernathy Drive Chairman brought in a check for $1,925.00 to the first progress meeting held at the Council Service Center, 30 Briercroft Office Park in Lubbock.

The Sustaining Membership Drive is for Scout funds in the 20 county South Plains Council for the current operating budget of $187,217.00. Of this amount ten United Funds have already allocated $103,890.00 toward the total needs.

Sustaining Membership drives are now underway in 45 South Plains communities according to Schneider. The Boy Scout Council serves over 10,000 boys in the 20 county council through 3500 adult leaders. The council owns 3 camps, Tres Ritos high in the Sangre De Cristo mountains of New Mexico, Camp Post, located 41 miles southeast of Lubbock and Camp Haynes located near Silverton.

The council maintains an office in Lubbock with four full time secretaries. The staff includes nine Scout executives with five men living in Lubbock and one district executive being in Levelland, Ralls, Brownfield and Plainview.

Plans are for all drives to be completed in April, Schneider concluded.

SPRING IS BUSTIN' OUT ALL OVER town as fruit trees, such as this pear; shrubs and flowers bedeck themselves with pretty blossoms and green buds. Fruit crops promise to be bountiful if "Mother Nature" and "Old Man Winter" will just cooperate.

Irene Keating Writes

Castro Co. H.D. Agent

Our thoughts really turn to clothes at this time of year. It's no wonder when we consider all the pretty colors in nature this time of year. Nature re-dresses for a warm season now and we do the same thing.

Those of you who wisely kept some of your good standby classic garments will be ready for the new fashions. The nice little jacket dress is back - the jacket can be the length that suits your figure and personality best. Belts are very in - those of you in Weight Watchers and TOPS will have your waistlines ready - the rest of us need to get busy too.

Fashion is very American this season combining the best of many countries and periods. This creates an atmosphere for free, easy going, individual style. Good old American red-white-blue is VERY good as is the nautical look. Fabrics also are much more traditional such as denim, gingham, seersucker, chintz, pique, linen, cotton canvas, brushed denim, velvet, matte jersey, chiffon, silk and organdy. Colors are bright and clear - mostly greens, blues, yellow, pink and red-white-blue. Dots, geometrics, pinstripes, shadow plaids, figuratives and busy borders are big news.

I believe each of you will really enjoy sewing and selecting fashions this Spring.

Future Homemakers Attend Convention In Amarillo

Seven members of the HHS Future Homemakers of America attended the Area I Future Homemakers of America last weekend in Amarillo. Theme of the meeting was "Decision For You In '72."

Dr. Gerald Mann, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Hereford, was guest speaker. Dr. Mann urged the 300 girls who attended the meeting to "be sure to follow the right dream."

Today's youth, he said, may choose from three dreams. They may choose "the fantasy world of believing that this nation has done no wrong," a view shared by members of the extreme right or they may select that followed by the extreme left which leads to "a national nervous breakdown."

Citing the Prodigal Son as an example, Dr. Mann explained that he followed a dream but not the right dream. Choose the third dream, the "middle of the road dream," Dr. Mann advised.

"We must recognize our limitations", he said. "The middle of the road will require more courage and commitment than either the right or the left. Know the national and personal limitations and accept them," he advised. "Commit yourself to know yourself."

Nelda Henderson was voting delegate to the convention. Helen Murray and Gayle Reed participated in the Area I choir selections.

The group was accompanied by Mrs. Jan Hagler, advisor, and Mrs. R. J. Murray.

Fourteen-Year-Old Youth Killed In Train Accident

A 14-year-old Granada High School boy was killed Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a switch engine.

Deputy Coroner Richard Vierra identified the victim as James R. Stolcis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stolcis, 342 Coleen St. He is the grandson of Mrs. John Rice.

The accident occurred on the Southern Pacific tracks near Wall Street about 4:50 p. m.

The speed of the eastbound engine was estimated by witnesses to be between 30 and 40 miles per hour.

Alameda County Sheriff's Deputies said that the engineer never sounded the horn.

The brakeman, Virgil Freeman of Dublin and the conductor, Richard Hodges of Livermore, said they saw the boy running at a 45 degree angle across Stanley Boulevard.

When he failed to slow down, they told engineer Kenneth Elston of San Leandro to put on the brakes. Elston told officers he did not see the boy and never sounded his horn.

The boy was looking at something across the tracks, and only turned his head after he stepped on the tracks, when it was too late to avoid the tragedy, sheriff's deputies said.

The body was dragged about 70 feet from the point of impact, the coroner's office said.

The switch engine continued 524 feet before coming to a stop.

The victim was identified about two hours after the accident when his parents called police to report that he had not come home from school.

The engine crew said that accident area was considered dangerous because Granada High School students often crossed without looking, and sometimes played "Chickens" by jumping off the tracks at the last minute or threw rocks at the engine.

However, the deputies said they were satisfied that his was a purely accidental death.

HOT ENOUGH

The National Safety Council says hot water at 140 degrees is sufficiently hot to combine with soap action and kill most bacteria while laundering or washing dishes. Yet it isn't hot enough to produce painful burns.

TOSS WITH CHEESE

After tossing fresh bread crumbs with melted butter, toss with some grated Parmesan or Cheddar cheese. Use as a topping for vegetable or main dish casseroles or sprinkle over hot vegetables just before serving.

Moments of Meditation

Thomas H. Taylor

Did you ever see a straight river?

No -- not a canal -- a river?

You will notice that all rivers are crooked and we call it "meandering." When traveling through the mountains the roads often follow the riverbeds and, as a result, they twist and turn and double back so that you have to travel 20 miles of winding road to go five miles "as the crow flies."

To shorten the way, man has to leave the river and tunnel through the mountain (the river runs around it), or build a road over the mountain at great labor and expense.

But what I want to know is -- why are rivers crooked anyway? What made them crooked in the first place? The answer is -- rivers are plumb lazy. They are too lazy to go over obstacles and so take the easiest way AROUND. A river comes to a rock ledge and instead of pushing it away it just goes around it; when it sees a mountain it backtracks and finds another way. Rivers are lazy; they just follow the path of least resistance; they just submit to gravity. It is natural to respond to the DOWN-PULL.

The natural man is that way. He is crooked because he responds to the down-pull of temptation and sin. It is much easier for the natural man to yield to temptation than to conquer it.

The reason many Christians make such slow progress is because they are too lazy to climb mountains and remove boulders, so they just avoid the difficult tasks and become soft and useless. It's so much easier to watch television than to go to prayer meetings. It's so much easier to let others do the hard work while we excuse ourselves, always looking for a way to avoid the difficult but rewarding responsibility.

Today, instead of going around that rock, get in your bulldozer and push it out of the way. It will make it easier for the next one who comes that way.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Poisoning Child's Mind

"Your father is a mean, nasty man. Stay away from him or he will whip you with a great big strap."

Laura, recently divorced, kept drumming this warning into her five-year-old son. She had been given custody of the child at the time of the divorce, and she meant to tighten her grip on him by any and all means.

Actually, her ex-husband was devoted to the boy. When he found out about Laura's tactics, he haled her into court. The judge took the matter so seriously that he changed the custody order, transferring the boy from his mother to his father.

As a general rule, the law condemns efforts by one divorced parent to poison the mind of the child against the other. It condemns "implanting in his tender mind the seeds of hate and the cankerous beginnings of malice toward those whom he should cherish."

Likewise, the law frowns on the use of the child as a pawn in financial bargaining. For example:

A divorcee constantly belittled her ex-husband to their small daughter. But she also let him know that she would stop as soon as he agreed to a large cash settlement.

Again, a court denounced her tactics and switched custody from mother to father. The court said she had no right to use the child as a kind of blackmail weapon for her own benefit.

Of course, in these highly emotional situations, it may be difficult for a court to separate fact from fiction. As a result, judges sometimes fall back on solutions that are admittedly less than perfect.

In another case, at the time of the divorce, custody of a child had been divided between husband and wife. Later, in a court hearing, each accused the other of "poisoning the child's mind against me."

After due deliberation, the court decided to leave custody just as it was—divided. Even though this meant exposing the child to parental crossfire, the court said at least it gave each parent "equal time" to defend his character.

YOU DON'T NEED TO USE NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING! IF YOU THINK SO, THEN

HIGHWAY POLICE – Stop driving up and down the highways. No need to caution drivers by patrolling highways. Drivers know the law and should obey.

MAIL ORDER FIRMS – That send catalogs are wasting their money. Everyone knows what is sold at area stores and of course they'll shop there.

IF YOU ARE ONE OF THE foolish kind, like the Notre Dame Cathedral that has stood for six centuries but still rings the bell every day to let people know it is there; and if you believe in consistent profitable advertising, then you will . . .

The night was dark and calm. All creatures were silent and leaves stood still as a lone man knelt in a garden called Gethsemane and prayed, "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Around Him Jesus' disciples lay sleeping. Soon He knew would come betrayal, public condemnation and derision . . . and the long last march. And yet He prayed, "Thy will be done."

In the shadow of the Cross Jesus demonstrated perfect love and trust for God, His Father. In the hours ahead He would establish His Sonship for the atonement of all mankind.

And so today, in a world that needs this message of hope, let us commemorate that first Good Friday by acknowledging God as our Father, helping our churches to illustrate His way to the hungry, the sick, and the needy.
