Up To 800 Cultists Still Missing...

Bodylift From Guyana In Operation

By Jim Adams
Associated Press Writer

DOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Del. (AP) — The first Air Force cargo plane in the bodylift from Guyana of more than 400 cult suicide victims touched down early today, and workers immediately began the grim task of tending to the remains.

Six military pallbearers placed cases bearing the bodies of the Peoples Temple followers into vans for transfer to the morgue here after a brief prayer by the Rev. Paul Wraggs, base chaplain.

He offered a prayer for "the crew who flew this aircraft, those who worked on the handling of these remains," and asked God for "blessing and comfort for the families of those who have died."

They died at Jonestown, an agrarian commune 150 miles northwest of Georgetown. It was founded by charismatic Peoples Temple cult leader the Rev. Jim Jones, who apparently led his followers in Saturday's mass suicide.

The Guyana government has made only minor efforts to search for the missing cultists in the tropical jungles. Estimates of the number of missing have ranged from 375 to 800.

Clean-up operations were given priority over the search for the cultists who fled the mass suicide.

"Our mission is to support and assist the government of Guyana and the American Embassy here in the recovery of the remains of the U.S. citizens who died at Jonestown," said Air Force spokesman Capt. John Moscatelli. "That's our primary mission."

"We can perform some limited reconnaissance with the aircraft we have available," he said. "If we spot individuals on the ground, we will make an attempt to identify them and see if they need assistance."

The San Francisco Chronicle reported today that Georgetown police were taking fingerprints of Jones' body to allay fear the dead man may be a Jones' lookalike.

The newspaper said former members of the cult have told police Jones surrounded himself with doubles and used them to take his place in dangerous situations. The Chronicle also said Jones planned to order a mass suicide and then escape with a chosen few followers to plot revenge.

According to the report, the former temple members said a fishing boat that Jones referred to as a getaway vehicle was missing and that no weapon was found near the body identified as Jones. The body tentatively identified as that of Jones was killed by a bullet wound in the head.

In Jonestown, an American task force worked through the night to prepare the remaining 368 bodies, which have been lying in the tropical heat since Saturday.

"There is little we can do to preserve the bodies," said Moscatelli. "We will be placing the bodies in body bags, but will not be a pleasant operation, no matter how you look at it."

Offficials estimated it might take two more days to transport the bodies to the Dover mortuary where experts will attempt to confirm identities and the bodies will be prepared for shipping to hometowns, primarily in California.

Claire Janaro of Redwood, Calif., who flew here seeking information about her two teenage children who are members of the cult, said not enough was being done to find the missing.

"What's taking them so long to get them out of the jungle," she asked. "Every day in there is a mortal danger.

Carters Gather

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP)—President Carter is spending a four-day Thanksgiving holiday weekend at Camp David, with upwards of two dozen family members expected for dinner tonight.

The president and Mrs. Carter traveled by helicopter and limousine to the presidential retreat Wednesday night after hosting a buffet at the White House in honor of "National Bible Week."

With them on the trip were the president's mother, Lillian Carter, and Rosalynn Carter's mother, Allie Smith.

A traditional Thanksgiving dinner with turkey and trimmings was planned for 7 p.m.

Confusion In 1939

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's Thanksgiving Day, agreed. But 39 years ago today, calendar makers were almost up a wall, traditionalists grumped and governors refused to go along with the nation's No. 1 public official. That was in 1939, when President Franklin Roosevelt moved Thanksgiving from the last Thursday in November to the fourth Thursday—at the urging of retailers who wanted a lengthened Christmas shopping season. Congress, though, had the final say and by joint resolution, decided that after 1941 the official holiday would be the fourth Thursday.

Dollar In Decline

LONDON (AP)—The dollar declined on European currency exchanges today in trading slowed by the American Thanksgiving holiday.

Gold prices climbed to over $201 an ounce after falling below the $200 mark earlier in the week.

The British pound gained ground in London and stood at $1.9547 at midmorning against a late figure of $1.9460 the day before.

Morning dollar rates at other European centers, with the previous late rate:

Frankfurt—1.9185 marks, down from 1.9320 Tuesday (Wednesday holiday).

Zurich—1.7172 Swiss francs, down from 1.7240 Wednesday.

Paris—4.4000 French francs, down from 4.4130 Wednesday.

Amsterdam—2.0785 guilders, down from 2.0840 Wednesday.

Milan—849.05 lire, down from 851.05 Wednesday.

Tokyo currency markets were closed for a holiday today.

City Prepares For Christmas

Most of the Snyder business community was observing the traditional Thanksgiving holiday today and the entire city was poised to usher in the Christmas shopping season with a big weekend event.

Offices of government agencies, along with banks, savings and loan firms, public schools and Western Texas College were shut down for the Thanksgiving holiday as employes, students and faculty members were prepared to partake of the traditional turkey dinner.

Schools have the remainder of the week off. Also, the Texas Department of Public Safety driver license office at 1912 37th St., is closed until Monday morning.

But business activity is due to be resumed with a flourish tomorrow in Snyder retail firms.

Friday will mark the beginning of a big "Two-Day Sale" with more than 30 local merchants actively participating. They have their specials listed in this issue of The Snyder Daily News, with the emphasis turning 100 percent to Christmas.

Santa Claus is scheduled to make an appearance Friday afternoon. The old gentleman in the red suit will arrive by plane at Winston Field at 1 p.m. Following a brief visit with youngsters at the airport, he will ride a fire truck into town. He will be here on Thursday evenings until Christmas as Snyder merchants plan to keep their stores open during the evening hours during the remainder of the Christmas shopping season.

The downtown Christmas lights will be turned on for the first time this season Friday night and they will burn each night until Christmas.

Most people, especially Yankees, who are observing Thanksgiving today think they are carrying on a tradition that was begun by the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock in 1621.

But the Institute of Texan Cultures has put the observance in proper perspective by calling attention to the fact that the 1621 event in New England trailed a similar observance in Texas by 80 years.

It was in May of 1541, in Palo Duro Canyon, that Francisco Vasquez de Coronado and his conquistadores gave up a search for a mythical golden city because of hardships and starvation. They were found by Indians who showed them friendship and water sources. They were so grateful that they held a feast of thanksgiving.

Even so, the observance of thanksgiving was left up to states, or regions, for many years, and its wasn't until 1849 that there was an official Thanksgiving proclamation issued in Texas. And then it was celebrated on March 7, instead of November.

But we are pleased to have documentary evidence from the Institute of Texan Cultures that the first Thanksgiving was held in Texas.

Q--What happened to the street at 30th and College to cause those big cracks in the pavement?

A--You probably are referring to the cuts made in the pavement to lay conduit in preparation for installation of new traffic signals. These cuts were open for several days, but have been refilled now. For a time it did look as if an earthquake had been at work.

Clements Setting Sights On More Tax Reductions

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)- Gov.-elect Bill Clements says he wants the 1979 Legislature to add another $1 billion in tax cuts to those already provided by this year's special session and the "Tax Relief Amendment" adopted by voters Nov. 7.

The cuts would leave $1 billion of the state's growth revenue and surplus for new programs and to keep Texas government abreast of inflation.

Clements, laughing and seeming to enjoy himself, held an hour-long news conference Tuesday before leaving for his ski resort home at Vail, Colo., for Thanksgiving.

He said he has not decided what kind of tax cuts to recommend to the Legislature but listed two possibilities:

-Requiring local school districts to reduce property taxes, with the state using a fourth of its sales tax revenue to reimburse them for the lost income.

-Trimming a penny off the state sales tax of four cents on the dollar.

Both methods would, he said, let Texans keep $500 million per year over the 1980-81 biennium.

The governor-elect said he doesn't expect to make the details public until his address to the Legislature following his inauguration Jan. 16.

"I want to get back to the taxpayers that extra $1 billion - that's the point," he said.

The special session produced inheritance and sales tax cuts totaling nearly $500 million, and property tax breaks included in the constitutional amendment are estimated to equal that amount.

The 1979 Legislature must implement the "Tax Relief Amendment," and Clements said he would veto any enabling bill that "doesn't in good faith return $500 million a year" and call a special session to try again.

Gross Sales Up In 2nd Quarter

Gross sales were up for the second quarter of the year and Scurry County led counties of this region in its population bracket, according to figures released by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Gross sales for the quarter ending June 30 amounted to $45,661,670 in Scurry County (Snyder), with $14,975,708 of that subject to the sales tax.

Figures for other area counties, with the gross sales and amount subject to sales tax, in order: Hockley County (Levelland - Sundown - Smyer-Whitharral), $43,056,774 and $11,335,661; Terry County (Brownfield-Meadow, Wellman), $42,459,991; Nolan County (Sweetwater-Roscoe-Blackwell), $38,717,616 and $11,469,541; Ward County (Monahans-Grandfalls-Wickett), $31,077,634 and $10,353,932; Reeves County (Pecos, Toyah, Balmorhea), $29,973,916 and $8,695,763; Fisher County (Rotan-Roby), $13,607,984 and $2,851,583; Mitchell County, $10,635,055 and $3,673,716.

Harris County (Houston) led the state in quarterly sales, Bullock reported, with $11.9 Dallas had $7.4 billion.

Inflation Fighter Sees Small Victories Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's chief inflation fighter has his sights set on "small victories" in the next several weeks, but isn't looking for a slowdown in the wage-price spiral until well into 1979.

"Rome wasn't destroyed in a day," Alfred Kahn told members of a House banking subcommittee when asked Wednesday how fast he could tame inflation.

Kahn's two hours of testimony provided little by way of fresh information about the administration's plan to hold down inflation, but he showed he has a sense of humor about his work.

"I think I may have to measure my success in this job by the number of enemies I make," he observed at one point.

Conceding that he isn't overly fond of the voluntary wage and price guidelines in place, he said, "You can make me enforce them but you can't make me like them - a little bit like spinach."

He also revealed that for three weeks he has been making a personal, if involuntary, contribution to holding down federal spending.

He hasn't been getting paid.

Kahn told the panel that through an administrative slipup he was not on the payroll for some time after Carter tapped him to head the anti-inflation program.

"I discovered yesterday that my bank account is overdrawn. I assume that will be corrected," he said.

In a serious vein, Kahn told the panel he hopes to be able to show small results in the inflation fight by February.

If not, he said, "I'll be more than disappointed. I may take up my tenure at Cornell." Kahn formerly was an economics professor at that university.

Overall, he said, "We hope within nine months to be able to see a tapering off in the aggregate inflation rate." Inflation has been running in recent months at an annual rate of about 10 percent.

special to americans

Contrary to popular American belief, Thanksgiving is neither strictly nor originally American.

Festivals of gratitude for the harvest are the eustom in much of the world today, and as far as man has been able to delve into his own past there are evidences of similar observances. An occasion for Thanksgiving is, in fact, something of a common denominator of successive and varied human cultures, a universal recognition of man as a part of and dependent upon nature.

For our Western civilization, as with so much else, the tradition goes back to the Greeks, who annually celebrated a nine-day festival in honor of Demeter, goddess of agriculture. Then as now, eating well was the order of the day. From Greece, the practice took the usual route to Rome and thence down through the medieval centuries in various forms to our own day.

Even in this country, there is more to the story than the familiar Pilgrims-and-Indians version. It was not only in New England that colonists gave thanks. In Virginia, for example, a harvest celebration occurred a year before the celebrated Massachusetts feast of 1621.

But if the history of this occasion is considerably more ancient and complicated than our usual version of it, the observance has come to have a very special American meaning.

This goes back to the very beginnings on these shores. Much more than public expressions of gratitude for harvest bounty, the first Thanksgiving American-style were victory celebrations, respites in life-and-death struggles with a new and harsh environment. They were testimonials to the ability of men of purpose to survive in the face of immense odds.

Thanksgiving was rather casually observed, a hit-or-miss holiday through the early years of the Republic, until Abraham Lincoln "nationalized" it during the dark days of the Civil War to reinforce a sense of national community and purpose.

In the more than a century since, this uniquely American significance has broadened and deepened until today Thanksgiving stands as the most American of holidays, a testimonial to all that is best in the American past and a reaffirmation of the American purpose.

my turn

by john long

I remember last Thanksgiving, and the terrible thing that happened to my goose.

I am a bachelor by trade, so it is not often I become inspired to cook. Last Thanksgiving, however, I was seized with a cooking fervor. I went out and bought an expensive goose in preparaton for the one-man feast I was planning.

I concocted a cinnamon flavored fruit stuffing and let it steep the night before Thanksgiving. When the big day finally came, I was ready with goose, stuffing, beans, sweet potatoes, and cranberries.

I popped my large, expensive goose in a cheap plastic bag to let it slowly bask in its own juices. However, something went wrong.

The only thing that basked that day was my plastic bag. It melted. But what is more, it melted over my goose, and gave everything it touched an unusually bad taste.

In a very short time, my big, beautiful goose was reduced to a smoldering wreck of its former self. I tried peeling my then goose-molded plastic off, but I was not entirely successful.

What was left was a goose that was burned on the outside, but stuffed with still raw fruit. The burns were so bad that the goose bones had become very brittle. That was true everywhere except deep within the interior of my goose. Not a single degree of heat penetrated there.

Knowing then that my goose was not only cooked but overcooked, I endeavored to remove him from the pot that had become his fiery coffin. It slipped, and fell back in the brackish slime that was supposed to have been savory juices. The slime went all over my shirt.

I remember it as a day in which nothing went right.

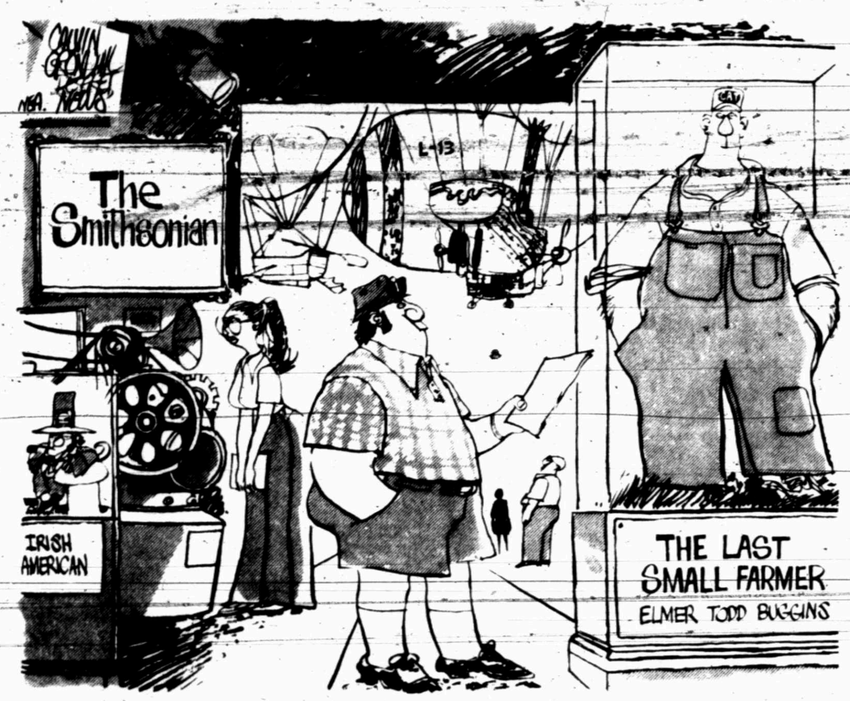

My kitchen looked like a battlefield. The braskish slime oozed from the very pores of my goose. It was an embarrassing thing to see. Although my goose was unquestionably dead, I couldn't help but feel sorry for the creature. It must have been a big comedown for a beast that was meant to comfortably grace a dinner table.

My goose did not die in vain, though. This Thanksgiving I am going to try my hand at warming up a roll of compressed turkey meat. Events could not possibly take a worse turn this year than they did last.

fiction's glory

They used to say with confidence that "truth will out." That's not necessarily so any more. There is an insatiable public appetite for excitement, and fiction can provide an inexhaustible supply of excitement.

It may be a book about a will involving Howard Hughes. Or one about a millionaire having himself "cloned"--an exact likeness of himself reproduced in a jungle laboratory.

It may be a scurrilous whisper that Ronald McDonald is stretching his hamburger meat with ground worms.

Grotesque as this latter sillliness seems, enough people believe it so that the corporation had to issue a public denial.

Most Americans insist they would like to hear and read more "good news," but would they?

A colleague of mine, Alex Drier, tried broadcasting program of ony "good news." It was canceled after about 13 weeks because almost nobody wanted to listen to just "good" news.

In Sacramento, Calif., a tabloid called itself The Good News Paper. As I recall it lasted aobut 36 months before it went bankrupt.

Far as I know, the only newspaper in our nation printing only "good news" is published in a small town in Indiana; it comes out only once a week and they have to give it away.

So the "good news" folks insist they want what they won't buy. That is why Page One almost always echoes mostly "noisy" news.

The public appetite for the sensational is reflected in a fan magazine type focus on bald-faced fiction.

But this willingness by many to believe the worst is nowhere more apparent than in the scurrilous whispers which become a confident shout: "McDonald's hamburgers include ground worms."

In the same category was last year's rumor of spider eggs in a certain bubble gum.

Similarly damaging was the recently rife rumor that a Colorado brewery had supported gun-control legislation, though it had not.

Almost in the same category is the recurrent story that "I found a mouse in my bottle of Coke!"

I say "almost" the same because in the latter case some of the complaints became bases for damage lawsuits.

For the maligned victim of the libel to sue is self-defeating. He would have to prove damages in a specific amount, almost impossible.

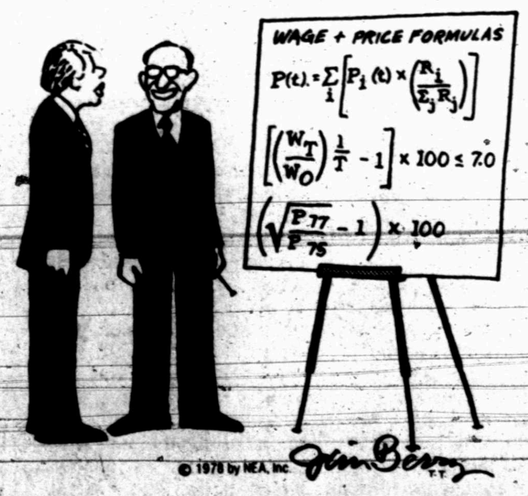

Former San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, accused by a national magazine of consorting with the underworld, sued and won--but lost. He got a $1 judgement but ended up paying the court costs.

And even public denial may be damaging if the public remembers only two words from the headlines: "McDonald's Denies Worms."

Eventually, of course, what will happen is that consumers will become cynical and believe nothing they hear or read. Then the media will have to start all over again to re-establish a degree of credibility.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - President Carter's chances of remaining relatively unscathed in his expected bid for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination have been enhanced by the unexpected success of a brash young Republican politician.

For the past two years, California Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown Jr. has been widely presumed to be the most likely challenger to Carter, assuming the president seeks his party's nomination for a second term.

Although other Democrats (notably Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts) also are viewed as potential candidates, most observers believe that an iconoclastic politician such as Brown would have to make the first move to shatter the image of a party unified behind an incumbent president.

Carter's political agents have viewed Brown with suspicion and trepidation ever since they entered the White House - and there is good reason for fear.

Although Brown entered the 1976 Democratic presidential primaries late in the race - well after Carter had established himself as the leader - the Californian repeatedly trounced the front-runner, in Maryland, Rhode Island and Nevada.

In his home state, Brown rolled up a victory margin of almost 3-1 over Carter. Brown's vote total in all the primaries was greater than any of the dozen other contenders who challenged Carter.

Brown preserved his credentials by handily winning re-election as governor this year. But the contest for lieutenant governor, which received scant attention outside California, could soon prove to be an equally crucial election.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, Brown's running mate in both 1974 and 1978, lost this year to GOP candidate Mike Curb, a 33-year-old music industry executive supported by the conservative wing of the state's Republican Party.

When Brown and Curb are sworn in early next year, the state will have its two top elective offices filled by members of different parties for the first time since 1894.

California's constitution is very explicit in specifying what happens the minute Brown leaves the state to advance his 1980 presidential aspirations:

"The lieutenant governor shall act as governor during the impeachment, absence from the state or other temporary disability of the governor..."

Curb probably couldn't use that authority to meddle much with ongoing programs because Brown, after returning to the state, could nullify the lieutenant governor's directives before they had any substantial effect.

But if Brown went to Iowa, New Hampshire, Florida or any other state to campaign against Carter, Curb could immediately designate his own nominee to fill any state government post vacant at the time - and those nominations could not be rescinded.

Every governor seeking the presidency lives with the fear that a prison riot, earthquake or some other unforeseen calamity will strike while he's away from the job to which he was elected. California's unusual situation will only increase the potential for humiliation to Brown.

During the campaign, Curb seemed to signal Brown that he wouldn't engage in any mischief, explaining at one press conference that he is not "the kind of person that wants to play an obstructionist role in government."

"I want to be a meaningful part of an administration," added Curb. "You might be surprised at the conditions. I might be able to work under, regardless of who is governor."

But Curb's "All-American Boy" image was badly tarnished in an unusually acrimonious and vicious campaign for the lieutenant governorship. If he's given an opportunity to embarrass Brown, Curb could well take advantage of the situation.

At the very least, California will spend the next four years under the leadership of what one highly respected newsletter, The Political Animal, describes as "the ultimate example of odd-couple politics."

DEAR ABBY: Americans are concerned over the rising cost of health care. Much of this cost has been attributed to unnecessary surgery.

Between 1970 and 1975 the amount of surgery performed in the United States increased 23 percent—four times greater than the population growth. In 1974, according to the Moss subcommittee, 2.38 million surgeries were unnecessarily performed, costing the American public $3.92 billion!

As a result, HEW has launched a public information program to encourage all Americans, especially Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries, to seek a second medical opinion when non-emergency or elective surgery is recommended. By so doing, people may find that an alternative to surgery may be available, therefore avoiding the risks and discomfort of surgery.

For more information about second opinions when surgery is recommended, write to HEW, Washington, D.C. 20201 for a free booklet. Or phone the toll-free number: 800-325-6400.

DEAR ABBY: I guess what I'm about to ask you has been asked before, but I'm a guy who needs the answer awful bad because for once in my 24 years of life I know what it's like to be lonely. It's a bad feeling. Sometimes it's so bad I could cry. But I don't know how.

I don't drink. I don't smoke. I use very few cuss words, if any. I am very considerate toward women (maybe overly so). I'm a college student of average intelligence. I'm a good dresser, not bad-looking and I'm not cheap. But for some reason, I can't get a woman interested in me.

Is there such a thing as being too nice? Here's an example of my courtship pattern: I see a girl I like and I'll ask her name and give her mine. Then we exchange phone numbers. Then I arrange for a date. I take her home and kiss her goodnight only if she's willing. I never push myself on a woman.

For some reason, most women don't seem interested in seeing me again. I wonder why? Am I too old-fashioned? Should I jump all over them on the first or second date? Please help me.

LONESOME IN PHILA

DEAR LONESOME: No one can be "too nice." There's nothing wrong with your pattern of courtship as you describe it, but in order for a girl to become interested in you, the chemistry between you must be mutually attractive. Don't change your nice-guy style. Get involved in wholesome activities and meet more people. Decent people attract decent people.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who always brings something she has cooked or baked whenever I invite her to dinner. Abby, she is a darling person, but she's possibly the world's worst cook!

When she brings something I have to serve it, don't I? The last time she brought a cake. It was underdone and lumpy with a blue (!) frosting which looked terrible and tasted worse.

I was embarrassed watching the faces of my other guests as they tried to eat it.

She's coming again on Saturday, and I told her NOT to bring anything. I've told her that before, but she always "surprises" me with something. My husband says I am an idiot for serving her failures, but I'd like your opinion.

IRKED HOSTESS

DEAR IRKED: Your husband is right. Call her and tell her that one of the joys of entertaining is in preparing everything yourself, so please don't bring anything!

And if she "surprises" you with something, surprise HER, and don't serve it.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

November 24, 1978

Many changes are in store for you this coming year. Some will happen slowly and others in the twinkling of an eye. This should appeal to you, variety being the style of life to which you aspire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Dominating the conversation, no matter how interesting your topics are, won't be good for your image today. Take a back seat and let others have the floor. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in 1979 by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you're not prone to gossip, you might have a hard time keeping quiet about some juicy tidbits you've heard. Seal your lips. It's beneath you to spread rumors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might be bored to tears today when you run into a pal who does a lot of talking, but never has anything to say. Try to be kind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The chances of an associate seeing your point of view is slim, so if a controversial subject comes up today, drop it quickly.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Productivity will be impossible if it is based solely upon wishful thinking. Be logical in your appraisals and you'll stand a chance of getting things done.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Consult those with whom you wish to spend your day before making plans. To assume they'll want to go along with your ideas might cause embarrassing problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Family topics that get everyone upset should be avoided today. The solution to the disagreements isn't likely to be found yet, so why spoil a nice day?

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't take it for granted that one who has helped you knows you appreciate his service. A "thank you" is definitely needed or this person will feel imposed upon.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You still won't be able to figure out how to get the cash for your pleasurable pursuits. Better face up to the bare facts and plan your day accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Making excuses is not the solution to getting along with others today. Be honest with them and they might understand your position.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) "Inside" information should be taken with a grain of salt today. Believing all you hear could steer you off a wrong direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's nice to be generous, but don't waste your hard-earned money on ingrates. Seek recipients who are as open-handed and appreciative as yourself.

When you play JTB, you should accompany it with the artificial Stayman two-club response to ask about a four-card major. They go together like bread and butter. In fact they are bread, butter and cake for those who use them properly.

The Stayman must be nonforcing, which means that responder can bid two clubs with the North hand and know that if South bids two diamonds to deny any four-card major, South will pass after North goes to his five-card heart suit.

Actually, South rebids two spades. North passes and South plays at a nice comfortable contract.

We aren't going too far into the play. Suffice to say that if South leaves trumps alone and ruffs his long clubs and dummy's long hearts, South will have no trouble collecting nine tricks and might well come up with 10 if the defense misplays.

Two hearts would probably be down one as would one notrump. But even if an expert, lucky declarer managed to make one of those contracts he would not do as well as the man who played two spades.

Your partner responds one heart to your club opening. What do you rebid?

We use the old-fashioned jump to four hearts to show 18 or 19 high-card points and no singleton. This jump is not a stop bid since partner's hand can range from 6 or 7 points to 16 or 17.

Ultimate In Car-Pooling

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)- It was neither a nostalgic effort to revive those glorious '50s, nor a shot at the record books.

The 32 Murray high school students who stuffed themselves into a tiny Volkswagen bug Tuesday simply were conservation-minded.

So energy-conscious, in fact, they won a contest staged by the Utah Energy Office involving six high schools.

Jenkins-'Winning Is An Attitude'

Editor's Note: With the Snyder football team garnering a good deal of the spotlight in recent weeks, we asked Coach Mike Jenkins to be our guest columnist today. In his third year as Snyder High School head coach, Jenkins has led the Tigers to a district championship. The team will host Burkburnett in bi-district play Friday.

MIKE JENKINS

By MIKE JENKINS

FRIDAY, November 24th, the Snyder Tigers will be one of 16 teams entering the AAA state playoffs. There are several reasons for the Tiger's success this season. We must start with the student body of Snyder High. Their enthusiasm and spirit made them a vital part of our team.

THERE have been many people responsible for this spirit. School administrators, the faculty, the Student Council, and the many interested students. Leading the student body are the cheerleaders. These girls have worked many hours in preparation for each Friday's pep rally and football game.

THE "Pride of the West", SHS Band, has been and always will be a vital factor in our football program. Their enthusiasm and support is a necessary ingredient for a championship. Also, we must include the parents and loyal supporters who offered their encouragement to our team. The enthusiasm and vocal support our fans have shown has been very encouraging and inspirational to the Tigers.

AS we enter the playoffs, we know that winning is an attitude. This winning attitude has for some time been in evidence in many of our school activities and community projects. The 1978 members of the Tiger football team possesses that attitude. They have played with determination, pride, and a closeness which is characteristic of champions. They have continually met the challenges they faced each week. They now look forward with a great deal of enthusiasm to the challenge they face this week.

WE, the 1978 Tigers, say thanks to all of you who have been a vital part of our championship drive this year. A team will never be any better than the support and encouragement it receives from the student body, parents, and interested fans. In a sense, it is school and community Pride which builds Champions.

SEE you Friday at Tiger Stadium--Beat Burk!!

Cagers To Stage 'Mixed' Tri-Series

Local fans are in for another triple-header involving varsity boys and girls basketball teams here Monday.

A girls junior varsity game will open the series with Abilene Christian at 5 p.m., followed by a girls varsity and boys varsity game. All matches will be held at Scurry County Coliseum.

The "mixed" series, one of three this season, is designed to promote interest in future such match-ups next year, particularly in the case of district games. In 1979-80, all members of District 3-AAA will have boys and girls varsity basketball teams. Currently, only Lake View and Sweetwater outfit girls varsity squads.

Also on tap Monday will be a girls freshman game. The girls will host Sweetwater at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

Tuesday, Snyder junior varsity and varsity girls will play in Colorado City beginning at 6 p.m. The Tigers boys freshman, junior varsity and varsity teams will host Midland in the coliseum beginning at 4:15.

Yankees Snare John To 3 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees have signed veteran pitcher Tommy John to a three-year contract, making him the second free-agent hurler they have picked up within the last 10 days.

New York signed 38-year-old Luis Tiant Nov. 13.

"I feel the New York Yankees today have taken a giant step in their quest for a third straight world championship in signing one of the truly fine left-handed pitchers in the game," said Yankee President Al Rosen.

John was 17-10 with a 3.30 earned run average for Los Angeles last season and beat the Yankees in the opening game of the 1978 World Series.

The 35-year-old southpaw said he had accepted less money from the Yankees than he was offered by three other clubs—Cincinnati, Atlanta and Kansas City.

"I took less from the Yankees because I wanted to come play with this club," he said. "It's not often you have a chance to play with a club like the Yankees. They're a class organization, the best team in baseball for the last two years. This was an opportunity to come and play in the best city in baseball."

Hosted Rival Washington Today...

Slow-Starting 'Pokes Need Fast Finish

DALLAS (AP)-Will the defending world champion Dallas Cowboys' alarm clock go off today in their most crucial game of the year?

If you've been wondering, so has Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. But he says the first period won't tell the tale against the Washington Redskins in their National Conference Eastern Division shootout at Texas Statium.

Dallas has been outscored 69-21 in the first period en route to an 8-4 record. And Landry is starting to get used to it.

"This is just not a fast-starting team," says Landry. "It's just the character of this team. They are pretty awake at the start."

What Landry likes lately is the finish.

Dallas has come from behind the last two weeks to whip Green Bay and New Orleans to pull into a tie with Washington in the NFC East.

About the emotional aspect of this meeting between arch-rivals, Landry says "People have been saying for 19 years that we don't have any emotion. Well, we play a certain style not bent on emotion. It's a much more disciplined type of game. That our style.

"Emotion can work against you if you let it get out of hand."

Dallas was an 11-point favorite over the crippled Redskins, who beat the Cowboys 9-5 in an earlier meeting at Washington.

A sellout crowd of 65,000 and a national television audience was set for the 2:30 p.m. CST kickoff.

Two shining performers were missing when the starting lineup was announced because of injury.

Cowboys fullback Robert Newhouse, the steadiest Dallas offensive performer of the year, was sidelined with a broken bone in his leg, and raging Redskin defensive lineman Diron Talbert was out with torn knee ligaments.

Starting at quarterback for Coach Jack Pardee's Redskins was Joe Theismann, who dazzled the Dallas defense in their October meeting. John Riggins was healthy again after the running back sat out Washington's game last week with an injured ankle.

Of course, quarterback Roger Staubach leads the Cowboys and the National Football League's top-rated offense.

Scott Laidlaw replaced Newhouse.

Washington has lost four of its last six games after a blazing 6-0 start.

WTC Begins Loop Soon

The Westerners and Dusters of Western Texas College begin conference play as early as Thursday of this week when they take on Howard County in Big Spring beginning at 6 p.m.

Monday, the Dusters prepare for the opener by traveling to Ranger Jr. College for a 6 p.m. game. Tuesday, the Westerners will play at San Angelo junior varsity, 6 p.m.

Cats Gearing For Tall City Tourney

MIDLAND—Snyder High School joins 11 other teams in basketball head-to-head action as the Tall City Tournament begins here Friday.

The Tigers, 3-0, will play Midland High at 10 a.m. Friday. Winner of the game will play the Dallas-Carter-El Paso Austin victory at 10 p.m. Friday. Losers of the respective games will play at 7 p.m.

Finals for the two-day tournament will be held 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Other squads entered in the tournament include San Antonio Jefferson, Amarillo Tascosa, Parkland, Midland Lee, El Paso Burgess, Big Spring, Eastwood and Richland.

All games, except those Saturday for 10th and 12th place, will be held in Chaparral Center.

PaternoWants State To Concentrate On Pitt

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)-Penn State Coach Joe Paterno wants his players to close their minds to the college poll, the national title, an unbeaten season, and just think of Pittsburgh.

Keith Dorney, a 6-foot-5, 260-pound offensive tackle for the No. 1 ranked Nittany Lions, believes it's an almost impossible task because of all that's at stake.

"This Friday we're playing for the national championship," said Dorney, who is being touted by many pro scouts as a first-round National Football League draft pick. "If we don't beat Pitt there will be no national championship."

Penn State, 10-0, has accepted an invitation to the Sugar Bowl, where it hopes to meet No. 2 Alabama, which has to beat Auburn, Dec. 2, to set up the confrontation.

Many weeks ago, Santa started making his list and checking it twice! And then he had me help him drop off bundles of toys and games at all Safeways to help you get ready for the eager young uns who can hardly wait for the big day. These toys are sturdy, well-made, ready for happy recipients on the holiday. He paid special attention to the red Special Tags that marked many good buys in your stores. He said he's sure you'll have these signs on a lot of the Christmas items he left. Of course, you will. Santa is always right!

Cholesterol confusion

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you said that alcohol contains no cholesterol and then again you stated that it was a large molecule of cholesterol.

In another column you said alcohol increased the blood flow to the heart. I thought it decreased the flow.

Now I read in the paper where alcohol in small amounts increases the small fat particles and is better than any diet in reducing the harmful cholesterol found in the large fat particles. Is this correct?

DEAR READER — No, beverage alcohol does not contain any cholesterol. But it is true that cholesterol is an alcohol.

Alcohol is also a chemical term for a class of organic compounds, meaning those than contain carbon. Drinking alcohol is ethyl alcohol which contains two carbon atoms.

Cholesterol is an entirely different compound, although it belongs to the alcohol group. It is a very large molecule which causes it to be a heavy, waxy substance, not exactly the kind of thing you would drink.

I don't believe I ever said that alcohol increases the blood flow to the heart. It doesn't. It may increase the blood flow to the skin but the evidence of what happens to blood flow to the heart muscle from alcohol is a bit controversial. There is plenty of evidence to support the idea that alcohol is harmful to the heart particularly if you have heart disease.

As for all those newspaper reports about small amounts of alcohol improving the blood fat picture (I'm sure you read them because there were plenty of stories about them), I'm not convinced by the stories at all and the research was done in a relatively limited specified population.

Moreover, the amount of alcohol consumed was limited to one and never more than two beers a day. There are numerous other research studies that show that larger amounts of alcohol consumption can be harmful to the heart.

To give you a better idea of where cholesterol fits in the scheme of things, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true that we need absolutely no sugar in our diet other than the natural sugar from fresh fruit we eat?

DEAR READER — Of course it's so. It wasn't too long back that most people didn't have sugar available to them. Many people averaged only about two pounds of sugar a year compared to over a hundred pounds of sugar a year Americans use today.

Ordinary table sugar is just composed of glucose and fructose. These are the same basic sugars found in all other carbohydrates including your cereals, vegetables and fruits.

Your body does need carbohydrate. Many of the important carbohydrate foods are excellent sources for essential vitamins. The cereals, for example, are an important source for the B vitamins. Also, you need a minimal amount of carbohydrate to maintain proper chemical balance by the body. Without it you develop a condition called acidosis.

County Court

Sentences Two

Two persons were sentenced Wednesday in county court. Both had pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated.

Sentenced were Gale Don Evans of Kansas and Thomas Edward Claiborne of Lubbock. They both received $200 fines and 30-day jail terms probated for six months.

A Few Words About Turkeys

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)— Consider the plight of the turkey: it is maligned as ugly, its name is synonymous with stupidity, and it seems we are lucky to have as many as we do.

Professor A.B. Stephenson of the University of Missouri-Columbia, says breeders have done so well at developing a large, broad-breasted bird that natural breeding no longer works. Artificial insemination has taken care of that problem —expensively—but there is a natural problem with reproduction, too.

The turkey hen stands when laying eggs—a habit that creates something of a breakage problem.

And, says Stephenson, the birds' behavior doesn't allow egg laying to be mechanized.

"Egg-producing chickens are usually housed in cages with sloping floors, so the egg rolls to the front of the nest where it may be picked up by a conveyor belt," said Stephenson.

"When we try to raise turkeys this way, more of the eggs are soft-shelled, flat-sided and not very suitable for incubation. In fact, hatchability runs about 10 percent less than it does among turkey eggs laid in nests."

10-Year Term Is Assessed

Jerry Claude Ferguson pleaded guilty Wednesday in 132nd District Court to a charge of aggravated sexual abuse. The 25-year-old Ferguson was assessed a 10-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections.

The sexual abuse is reported to have occurred Sept. 8 and is alleged to have involved a 17-year-old girl.

Final sentencing in the case has been set for Dec. 4.

Also in district court, Alvin Wayne Devers pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He had been arrested on charge Oct. 4.

He was handed a two-year prison term, probated for two years.

In 1934, Lyndon Baines Johnson, later to become president, married Claudia "Ladybird" Taylor.

Ira Graduate To New Assignment

During formal change-of-command ceremonies on the tropical island of Bermuda, Commander Fred Wayne Gullett, USN, a graduate of Ira High School, passed the job of commanding officer of Navy Patrol Squadron 10 to his predecessor, Commander Kenneth D. Sullivan.

Commander Gullett, the squadron's commanding officer since December of 1977, has received orders to Jacksonville Naval Air Station, where he will assume the position of Chief Staff Officer, Patrol Wing 11.

For the past year, Commander Gullett had led the anti-submarine warfare force of Patrol Squadron10 to the close of another successful, accident-free year. The squadron is currently deployed for six months to the Mid-Atlantic island of Bermuda from where some of the routine anti-submarine warfare patrols are flown. Using the islands' geographic position to cut fuel costs and transit times, the squadron continues to provide the versatile mission capabilities necessary to maintain a watchful vigil over the Atlantic Ocean.

Commander Gullett

Patrol Squadron 10 is one of six squadrons homeported out of Brunswick, Me., who perform such missions as anti-submarine warfare, routine oceanic surveillance and search and rescue over the open ocean areas of the Western Hemisphere.

Commander Gullett, as the skipper of the 400 men and women and nine aircraft of the squadron, was the man ultimately responsible for the complex inner workings of the squadron.

Commander Gullett is married to the former Susan Curd of Dallas. They have two sons, Rick 14 and David 11. He attended North Texas State University.

Christmas brings joy to every heart

Season of beauty for young and old

By HELEN KLEIN
Metro Newspaper Services

The Christmas season raises expectations in people of all ages, faiths and nationalities. There are very few, indeed, who do not look forward eagerly in one way or another to the holidays, do not anticipate the wealth of sensations, the multitudes of joys that make up that great, big, brilliantly wrapped package we know as "Christmas."

For older people, Christmas is a time for nostalgia, a chance to look back on the pleasures of the past, to revel in memories that are more and more special as the years go by.

For children, Christmas is a time of anticipation, an opportunity to look forward to a myriad of experiences, both large and small, that will eventually become their past to look back on, gladly and fondly.

Any Christmas is successful if it matches the precious recollections of the old and fulfills the sugarplum dreams of the young and innocent.

Memories of Christmas are like family heirlooms, glittering ornaments on a stately tree that are passed down lovingly from generation to generation. They are somewhat faded pictures in the album of the past, perpetuated, almost as bright as ever, through retelling to the young.

So many elements make up the holiday season, elements that are integral parts of the abundant, joyous memories to be treasured for years to come.

There are sights and smells and tastes, hundreds and hundreds of things which, all together, form the unique entity that is Christmas.

When the Christmas season opens, the gay garlands of green and red lights go up on Main Street, becoming incandescent in the misty twilight of a frosty winter evening. Shop windows take on a festive air, those that are simply decorated as well as those that are elaborately arranged with intricate fantasy filled dioramas.

The aroma of pine is everywhere. Fir branches festoon the lofty ceilings of large department stores where happily frenetic crowds throng the aisles in search of the special gift for that special person.

Outside, the streets are scented with roasting chestnuts; peanuts, other taste treats particular to the time of year. Santas, of every shape and size, stand guard over chimneys and kettles and remind the endless stream of passers-by that Christmas is a time for generosity to those who are in need.

Suddenly, the home front is a cheerful flurry of activity. Fireplaces, soon to be hung with brightly-colored stockings which Santa will stealthily fill, blaze cheerily on cold evenings in anticipation of the Yule log.

The smells of baking and cooking waft through the air as Grandma and Mom prepare their own special recipes: frosted gingerbread cookies in fanciful shapes; luscious buttery cookies decorated with colored sugar; sweet, sticky fruit cake; brandied mincemeat pies.

Everyone begins dreaming of turkey with stuffing and cranberry sauce; plump, glazed ham studded with cloves; creamy eggnog; and old-fashioned plum pudding; all the traditional Christmas dinner treats that are food for smiles.

Christmas tree ornaments, collected over the years, are taken out of storage lovingly in preparation for the tree itself, which will majestically dominate the scene.

The rich, joyous sounds of carols are ever present. Everyone, from the Santa at the corner to the neighborhood merchant, seems to have a tune on his or her lips. Everywhere, bells are ringing.

Sprigs of holly and mistletoe find their way to the oddest places as December passes.

Everything reminds one that it is, in truth, "the season to be jolly." As the great day comes closer and closer, the excitement builds.

Everyone glows with the dual joys of giving and receiving. Junior dreams, perhaps, of the new train set he hopes to find under the tree; Mom, of his face as he opens the large, somewhat unwieldy box that means so much.

All dream of the family reunion they have been eagerly awaiting for months. And then, at long last, Christmas arrives, fulfilling the fondest wishes, making the dearest dreams come true and becoming the material of which memories are made.

With some preparation and a lot of love, this Christmas will be the Christmas to remember always.

Keep spirit of love and warmth alive around you

Christmas . . . the season of love. A time of warmth and joy, cherished moments shared with the one we love.

Make it last. Keep the holiday spirit alive in your memory — and in his — all year long. Create a Wind Song Christmas. Plan a magical evening for just the two of you to quietly celebrate this special season together.

First, get yourself ready. Turn back the clock. Think of yourself as a pampered and lovely lady out of that romantic age, the gaslight era.

Bathe by candlelight. Lie back and luxuriate in skin-softening bubbles. He'll appreciate it tonight under the romantic influences of eggnog and mistletoe.

Step out of the bath into a Wind Song finish . . . dusting powder on shoulder, and arms, moisturizing body lotion all over. Follow up with Perfume at the hollow of the neck, behind ear lobes and knees, and at the wrist.

Wear your hair up — not sleek and chic — but soft and loose with just a few golden combs and lots of tendrils at the temples, cheeks and the nape of your neck.

Your makeup and clothes should be soft and dreamy. Pastel colors for eyes and cheeks, a touch of shine for lips. Wear a beautifully billowing tunic over leg-hugging pants or a flowing floral caftan.

Find an authentic old-fashioned recipe for Christmas goose with all the trimmings. Set a glittering holiday table with lots of candles. And plan to serve dessert in front of the fireplace. Buy chestnuts and marshmallows to roast while you sip warmed brandy.

Decorate the tree together — string popcorn, hazelnuts and bright Christmas candies. Fill the room with lilting carols and soft romantic songs of days gone by.

Carry this magical feeling over into the next day and the next . . . by rekindling the memory of this truly delicious evening. Stay on his mind. It's the best gift Santa will give him.

Collectibles: presents that increase in value

Many years ago, it was a Scandinavian Christmas custom to give cookies, cakes and candies as holiday gifts. These sweets were placed on handpainted wooden plates and presented to family, friends, and neighbors. People saved these beautiful plates, remembering that special Christmas throughout the year.

This old tradition of giving Christmas plates continues to be a unique way of expressing holiday feelings. Currently, there are more than three million people throughout the world who collect limited edition plates.

According to Paul A. Schmid, president of Schmid, creators and distributors of collectibles and fine giftware, located in Randolph, Mass., "Today's collectibles use century-old craftsmanship techniques and innovative modern methods to achieve finely detailed designs. Because collector's items are produced in limited quantities, they increase in value over the years."

The perfect way to start a collection for a child is with Schmid's cartoon character series, featuring the ever-popular Walt Disney and Peanuts characters. Adults will appreciate the artwork of limited edition Christmas plates handcraved by Anri, finely glazed porcelain or expertly cast pewter. The famous original art of Sister Berta Hummel which remains in the Hummel family home in Massing, Bavaria, is reproduced in an exclusive limited edition Christmas plate series by Schmid.

Another old-fashioned Christmas gift that has gained modern popularity is the music box. Since the Swiss invented music boxes in the late 1700's, boxes of all shapes and sizes have delighted families with their enchanting tunes, becoming keepsakes that are passed on from generation to generation.

Music boxes feature a wide range of Christmas tunes, popular melodies and classical music. Schmid, one of the oldest importers of music boxes in this country, offers a unique collection of more than 300 different musical boxes and jewelry cases.

A wonderful Christmas surprise for both children and adults, music boxes range in price and style from colorful ceramic figures perched atop revolving bases to individually handcarved and handpainted works of art.

A very personal way to express holiday sentiments, collectibles are lasting mementos that increase in value over the years.

Instant photos keep Christmas Day alive

From kisses to giggles, presents to holiday meals—there are many joyous moments you'll want to capture and share from this Yuletide season.

And the instant prints you take will make great "extra" gifts for those friends and family you've pictured.

Whenever you go visiting or have visitors at your house during this holiday season, be sure to have an instant camera on hand to record the renewing of old acquaintances, the decorating of the tree or buffet table, and the hugs under the mistletoe.

Within minutes of snapping, everyone will be able to see and enjoy the holiday instant you've captured.

When the family exchanges presents on Christmas morning, you'll be able to capture all the expressions of expectation and delight. It's easy to take instant pictures with the new Kodak Colorburst 300 instant camera that has automatic exposure controls and a built-in electronic flash that takes up to 100 pictures on four AA-size batteries.

To be sure instant Christmas pictures are the best possible, the Kodak experts offer these tips:

1. Hold the camera steady as you squeeze the shutter release so the picture will be clear and sharp.

2. Move in close to capture a person's expression or an object's detail, filling the viewfinder with the subject for a good close-up.

3. Avoid background clutter by shooting from a different angle or moving the subject. Check to be sure a Christmas tree doesn't appear to be growing out of someone's head. Stand at an angle when shooting near mirrors, windows or bright surfaces that reflect the flash back toward the camera.

Deck tables with boughs

'Tis the season to be jolly, so why not reflect some of these festive feelings in the most appropriate spot of all—the joyous Christmas banquet table?

Whether it's formal Christmas dinner or an evening of entertaining family and friends, your Christmas dishes will all have an extra-festive air when served on a table covered with white, red and green linens and decorated with boughs of pine, holly, even mistletoe.

Add red bows to your bunches of greenery and arrange Christmas tree trimmings among them.

Candles are a Christmas must, and beautifully-scented pine and bayberry candle arrangements will light up a banquet table.

For a final touch of Yule, turn a dessert table into an angel's delight with clouds of angel hair, carolers, cherubs and tiny lights.

Houseplants as presents

Houseplants are always welcome gifts during the Christmas season, especially for apartment dwellers and students in dormitories.

According to The American Association of Nurserymen, the trick in buying a plant as a gift is to match the light condition of the home or dormitory room to those needed by the plant.

Bright or medium light homes are easy. There are many possibilities such as philodendron, dieffenbachia, spider plants (airplanes) in hanging pots, plus many flowering plants such as gardenias, camellias and poinsettias.

Low light homes are more of a problem, but there are many attractive plants to choose from, such as corn plants, prayer plants (maranta), snake plants, plus pothos and some species of ivy which make attractive hanging planters.

ideas designed to delight

Kids and grown-ups alike . . .

A Christmas shopping guide for everyone in the family

Shopping for just the right gift for each member of the family proves to be an increasingly difficult task come Christmastime each year.

To help make finding the right gift for each member of your family simple, here's a roundup of some unusual, particularly appropriate gifts for each member of the family.

For Kids

If there's one theme a child is likely to request in a toy this Christmas, it's probably science fiction. Thanks to the "Star Wars" movie craze, sci-fi has captured the toy market, resulting in the introduction of a variety of space age-related toys.

"Tobor," the futuristic, black robot from Schaper, offers kids ages five and up the best of two worlds: the excitement of remote control and the popularity of science fiction.

The battery-operated robot turns in circles or moves forward when commanded by its hand-held "Telesonic Commander," or by any loud sound, such as hand clapping or shouting. Its spring-activated hands are claw-like so children can maneuver it to pick up the accompanying "Support Module."

For exciting, sea-faring action that lets youngsters pretend they're anywhere in the world, the new "GRT Explorer" is a Christmas must for kids ages 3 to 7. The Kusan toy is a 13-inch tall, multi-accessory research ship, complete with flight deck, removable rafts, navigator's bridge, radar antenna and all the equipment needed to explore by land and sea.

Children ages four and up who already have any of the original Playmobil Toy Systems can now add an eighth family to their expanding sets. New this year, the "Vacationers" series play the roles of family members in a fun vacation setting designed to stimulate imaginative play situations.

These 3-inch tall figures come with a variety of accessories, including a camper van, tent, motorcycles, chairs, table, patio umbrella and barbecue grill.

For youngsters too young to attend school, a new Zoodleland toy will help them become "wise" right at home. The "Owl Play Desk" is a 15-inch tall owl professor with lots of school accessories.

For Dad

Designed for practice indoors and out, a bagful of "PeeGeeBee" golf balls can help improve Dad's game and boost his golfing ego, as well.

A favorite among golfers for over 20 years, the Cosom PeeGeeBee is the original plastic golf ball, and is ideal for gauging distances, correcting slice, hook, topping, and perfecting that all-important golf swing.

It's hard to say why Americans are so willing to pay more—often twice as much—for imported beer, but whatever the reason, the true beer connoisseur appreciates that imported beers, particularly German brews, are superior.

That's why a gift of a case of St. Pauli Girl German beer is sure to please Dad's tastebuds this Christmas. Clean, light-tasting and brewed with absolutely no chemicals or preservatives, St. Pauli Girl ranks among the top five imported beers in the U.S.

If the man of the house is a scotch whisky lover, he'll love a gift of Ballantine's Scotch. The long-time-leading scotch whisky brand in the U.S., Ballantine's offers a smooth, affordable taste for less than $10.

For Mom

Now that women are entering the workforce in greater numbers than ever before, they're also playing a greater part in the purchase of all sorts of products—including alcoholic beverages. In fact, women comprise the single largest category of wine drinkers in the country today.

A gift of Folonari Italian wines will meet all of Mom's requirements for a wine: quality taste combined with an excellent price. The five Folonari wines—Soave, Valpolicella, Bardolino, Rose and Lambrusco, stand well on their own when compared to many vintages twice the price or more.

Almost as important as the holiday season itself are the many tantalizing foods associated with this most popular of all national celebrations. To make a variety of dishes even more appealing, a gift of Liquore Galliano complements any Christmas menu, and inspires new ones, as well.

Whether Mom uses the original Liquore Galliano, or the new Amaretto di Galliano and Sambuca di Galliano liqueurs, these versatile, "mixable" cordials give the cook endless recipe possibilities. All three liqueurs are available in the convenient 23-oz bottle.

For the Whole Family

A family game that's perfect for use on the patio, porch or even indoors, "Home Shuffleboard" is a Christmas gift with year-round appeal. Complete with a 15-foot long "memory" plastic court, Cosom's Home Shuffleboard has four cues, eight discs and playing rules. There's also an optional all-weather scoreboard for accurate score-keeping.

An "all purpose" game designed for two or more players of virtually any ages, "Hi-Li Scoop" provides on-the-spot fun indoors, outdoors and in the water. The game includes two brightly-colored scoops, one softball-sized "Fun Ball," plus complete game instructions. "Hi-Li Scoop" is one game that won't end up on a closet shelf the day after Christmas.

Avoid embarrassment . . .

Buy extra gifts for unexpected exchange

Receiving a gift from someone you'd left off your list is one of the most irksome and embarrassing things that can occur at Christmastime.

Be prepared

To avoid such eventualities, why not be prepared in advance, by stocking both your house and desk drawer with a few brightly wrapped packages to distribute to those you may have forgotten until the last moment?

Make your presents general enough to be enjoyed by both men and women or, if you prefer, make up separate packages for both, wrapped in distinctive paper to avoid confusion.

Tasty treats

Exotic foodstuffs are always good unisex gifts: preserves in a pretty, elaborate jar or candy imported from Europe. Honey and Dijon mustard in earthenware jars make excellent presents that can be enjoyed long after the contents of the jars have been used up.

Little desk ornaments make excellent presents for office-mates of both sexes. So do popular books.

If you prefer to have two piles, one for each sex, both perfume and perfumed soap are good stand-bys for the women you know; cologne and/or after shave are always welcome presents for men.

Tops for tots

For your children's friends, or for the children of friends, neighbors and relatives, keep a few presents under the tree that can be distributed, for instance, when you've had an unexpected visit on Christmas Eve or morning.

Plushy animals are good for the youngest; small games that challenge the mind will be appreciated by those nearing adolescence.

Nice leftovers!

And, whatever little treats you stock up on, don't feel ashamed for calculating whether or not you can use or enjoy them, for there's no telling what may be left over after New Year's has passed.

Old-style music fest

Christmas caroling is a fairly common practice, but how many of you have really ever had an old-fashioned Christmas music fest right at home?

It's a great way of gathering family and friends together to display their varied talents and join in for an evening of good music and good cheer.

If you have a piano in your home, you're ready to make plans for this tuneful celebration.

Have the family pianist gather all of his or her Christmas sheet music together—some for special solos and as many songs as possible for a rousing sing-along finale.

Have one and all come with flutes, drums, tamborines, strings, horns, guitars and voices tuned for performance. (For the shy, why not suggest musicians double up for some delightful duet work?)

Hot spiced cider or savory eggnog will quench performers' thirst, cookies and cakes will reward the brave, and everyone can expect to have a wonderful time.

Star-studded guide to shopping for your man

Since the beginning of time astrology has affected personal destinies, affairs of state and matters of commerce. Entertaining yet practical, the Zodiac has played an important role in shaping the course of human events from the Babylonian Empire through the Middle Ages, and is no less important in today's ultra-sophisticated world.

Here's one practical way to make the powers of astrology work for you. This holiday season, let the science of astrodiagnosis help you select the perfect gifts for the men in your life. The twelve signs of the Zodiac are divided into four elements: Earth, Air, Fire and Water. The signs falling under each element are thought to share common personality traits.

WHEN THE MAN IN YOUR LIFE is a traditionalist of the highest order (Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces), why not surprise him with an elegant dress shirt from Van Heusen's collection of classically-tailored Qiana blend shirts, designed in a range of subtle patterns and colors. Add your own special touch with a coordinated tie by Wembley, also in elegant yet practical Qiana.

EARTH

For example, if your man is a Taurus, Virgo or a Capricorn—all Earth signs—chances are he is energetic, intense, loves the great outdoors, sports and is always on the go. In great physical condition, he's as likely to go off on a windjammer cruise around Tahiti as he is to snowsled through Lapland.

Come holiday time this man will be ice skating, bob sledding, and tobogganing. Appeal to his sense of adventure with a bicycle built for two and flatter his well-built physique with the slightly provocative, European look of a well-tailored shirt in a bold geometric pattern from Van Heusen. Be sure the shirt you select is in soft and sensuous Qiana, the fabric that is as easy care as it is luxurious, because this kind of active man has little time to worry about his good looks.

AIR

If your beau is a Gemini, Libra or Aquarius, he is an Air sign. His is a gentle, artistic and sensuous nature. He has great intellectual force and a tremendous interest in the arts, especially music. He'll spend hours during this festive period, listening to everything from Handel's Messiah to Bing Crosby's White Christmas.

Satisfy his cultural and aesthetic yearnings with a pair of tickets to his favorite opera—box seats, of course. Then take him on a romantic horsedrawn carriage ride through the park.

FIRE

The Fire signs—Aries, Leo and Sagittarius, are ambitious, courageous and enthusiastic about everything. The man who falls under one of these signs is generally hedonistic, an epicurean who craves the luxuries of life. He loves people and adores holiday parties—the bigger the better.

This kind of man enjoys working, playing, loving and relaxing with the same zest. Help him achieve the ultimate relaxation, with a jacuzzi attachment for the bath, followed by a hot towel and a Japanese shiatsu massage administered by his favorite geisha, you.

Then double his pleasure quotient by wrapping him up in the softest pajamas in town, created in a silky expanse of Qiana, the fabric that is as sensuous to touch as it is elegant to look at.

WATER

Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces, the Water signs, are considered sympathetic, emotional, sensual and passionate. This is a man who is protective of his family, secure of his position in the business world and a traditionalist of the highest order. He enjoys an old-fashioned Christmas with all the trimmings.

Give him an elegant dress shirt with a look as classic as he is. Choose from Van Heusen's collection of traditionally-tailored Qiana blend shirts, designed in a range of subtle patterns and colors. Add your own selection of coordinated ties by Wembley, also in elegant yet practical Qiana, and you'll be giving him the winning combination he deserves.

Shopping for the man, or men in your life, should be a pleasurable experience. If you follow the Zodiac to successful gift giving, it will be.

For the man-about-town

HELP YOUR FAVORITE "EARTH SIGN" man (Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn) get ready for that special ride around town with Van Heusen's bold geometric patterned shirt in soft and sensuous Qiana. He'll love the slightly provocative, European look of this well-tailored shirt.

Beautiful basics to help weather the harsh winter

When Jack Frost comes knocking at your door, it's time to take a different approach to staying beautiful. Every inch of your body deserves extra attention during the wild winter weather. Add to this special beauty routine a winter makeup scheme that will keep you looking terrific come winds or high drifts.

Caution: winter can be hazardous to your skin. Cold air outside and dry, overheated air inside both work to hush the natural moisture out of your skin. You must replace that moisture or fall victim to the winter skin monsters, dryness, itchiness and flaking. So moisturize from head to toe, giving special attention to hands, neck and face.

Snap, crackle and pop can be the sound of your electrified hair during cold weather. Those chilly winds can rob it of moisture just like your skin, leaving it dry, brittle and flyaway. Use a rich conditioner each time you shampoo to tame your hair and keep it looking healthy and shiny.

Kiss off chapped lips this winter. Use a lip protector or lip balm each night. Avoid licking or biting your lips, especially when you're outside—this is the number one cause of chapping.

If you have some little pieces of dry skin on your lips, snip them off with a small pair of manicure scissors. Always wear gloss in cold weather to keep lips soft, smooth and moist. Aziza's Natural Lustre Lip Gloss is a good one to try.

Save your skin from the cold winter sun. If you're a skier, you'll need a sunscreen during those hours on the slopes—in high altitudes burning ultra-violet rays are around even in the wintertime. You might want to wear a special lip and nose protector too.

Winter can be a real eyeful. Chilly winds that irritate eyes, rain and snow can all make your eye makeup run and smear. To weather it all, you need waterproof, smudgeproof eye makeup. Aziza Shadow with Sealer and Mascara with Sealer will see your eyes beautifully through all the storms of winter.

Hands need a helping hand during the cold weather too. Treat them to lotion as often as you can. Cold winter air makes nails brittle and more prone to splits and breaks. So keep them at a shorter length and wear polish for extra protection. Always wear gloves outside to guard hands from the freezing weather.

Feet are winter's stepchildren and they deserve extra pampering. Buy well-fitting, low-heeled, comfortable boots and dust the insides with talcum powder to absorb perspiration. Give your self regular pedicures, even if no one will see your feet again until the spring thaw. A rough skin remover before your bathe and a body lotion after your bath will keep feet soft and smooth.

Keep the shape all winter long. Just because the winter weather keeps you indoors more, don't stop exercising. Join the local health club, invest in an exercise bicycle, jump rope in the basement, do your sit-ups and toe-touches faithfully.

Book treasured by all avid collectors

A JOYOUS TREASURE for avid collectors to find under the Christmas tree, Royal Doulton Figures book presents a fascinating visual and written history of figure-making.

One of the lovely Christmas traditions among many families is to give a family member or close friend a much sought after new object for his or her special collection—be it a shell, stamp, snuff box or china figurine.

And it goes without saying, enthusiastic collectors have a bit of the detective in them.

They want to know what they have, what to look for to round out a collection, and how to spot a "find" in a dusty corner of an antique shop or at a flea market.

For its thousands of collectors the world over, Royal Doulton has published a definitive reference book that satisfies just such queries.

"Royal Doulton Figures" traces the art of figure-making in England from the late 17th century, and documents all figures made at their potteries between 1913 and 1978.

The handsome, 432-page volume reproduces all known figures in color, in over 850 color plates. Each is documented with data on its size, color, dates of introduction and withdrawal, and its designer.

Collectors who may own such popular figures as Old Balloon Seller, The Jester, or Tiny Tim from the Dickens series, will find pictures on every variation of these subjects ever modeled.

To give this book to figure collectors on your Christmas list is to give a fascinating written and visual history that will heighten their knowledge and appreciation of their chosen hobby.

From these pages they can develop an "eye" for the decade in which a figure was modeled, and an acquaintance with the many characters from legend, history, literature and drama that are subjects.

Should you be the figure collector in the family, why not note the book at the top of your list—and leave it out in plain view.

"Royal Doulton Figures" retails for $40.00, and is available through authorized Royal Doulton figure dealers throughout the country.

For the name of your local dealer write to: Customer Service, Doulton and Co., Inc., 400 Paterson Plank Road, Carlstadt, New Jersey 07072.

Super ideas . . .

Stocking stuffers for the entire family

Filling everyone's Christmas stocking with the "perfect" gift can exhaust anyone's imagination, especially if the members of your family seem to have "everything."

This year, in addition to the usual special treasures, stuff your family's stockings with some entertaining and useful booklets. Texize Chemicals Company offers three different booklets free on a write-in basis; at least one is sure to be right for someone in your household.

"Do-it-yourself" youngsters and adults alike will enjoy "Crafty Critters," a booklet full of clever ideas and directions for making a variety of toys, crafts and planters from the empty plastic bottles in which different household cleaners are packaged. These projects make great after-school or rainy day diversions for youngsters, and the crafts are suitable for gift-giving as well as for year-round use.

Homemakers will enjoy the "Creative Homemaking" booklet, which offers a variety of helpful household hints ranging from time- and money-saving tips to suitcase-packing advice to decorating ideas. Specific subjects include pots and pans, gardening equipment, laundry, children's clothing, and closets.

An invaluable guide to both moms and dads is the "K2r" Stain-Dial." It's an easy-to-use guide which provides the right information for removing 56 different types of spots and stains from dry-cleanable fabrics. By following the stain dial tips, it's even possible to cut down on expensive dry-cleaning bills.

To receive your free copies of any or all of these stocking stuffer booklets, write to: Consumer Relations Dept., Box N; Texize Chemicals Company; P.O. Box 368; Greenville, SC 29602.

The pretty poinsettia

There are some medical and plant experts who think old Ebenezer Scrooge must have started the story sometime before that memorable Christmas Dickens wrote about. It's the fable that still pops up once in awhile this time of year about some mysterious danger that lurks in the most popular of all Christmas flowering plants, the poinsettia.

Here is what spokesmen for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare have written: "Although there are a number of reports including the ingestion of parts of the leaves and berries of the poinsettia, we have yet to find mention that a child became ill, except for a few cases where vomiting was reported."

Translated by the people at the American Association of Nurserymen, that means that a little person might possibly get an upset stomach from eating poinsettias, just as he or she might from eating all sorts of other inedibles. But poisonous? Bah, humbug!

This holiday season more than 25 million poinsettia plants will decorate homes across the country. Be sure yours has the right amount of light and water. Avoid direct sunlight.

Merry musical gifts for happier holiday memories

Among the most sought-after holiday gifts are the merry music makers that make you smile. Many will be treasured at Christmas and for years to come. Some, no doubt, will become prized collectibles of the future.

The colorful music boxes by Gorham are certain to be popular gift choices. Each novel box features a familiar tune. "Santa With Reindeer," for example, features "Rudolph The Red-Nosed Reindeer," a tune that is a favorite around the world. Santa is on his sleigh atop the music box. Nearby a reindeer magically dances!

"Frosty The Snowman" naturally is accompanied by the popular tune of the same name, and a "Mr. and Mrs. Santa" music box features "White Christmas."

Equally delightful is an "Organette" music box by Gorham. Elegant and beautifully crafted in select hardwood with precision movements, it will run by battery or can be hand cranked as you insert your favorite tune in the manner of the nostalgic "player piano" of the turn of the century.

Outstanding are Gorham doll music boxes. Like their antique counterparts, some turn their heads and move their arms to the melody being played. There are young ladies dressed in elegant finery of the Gibson era. Dressed in velvet gowns and fine lace, they remind you of old San Francisco or New York.

A collection of replicas of antique dolls is reminiscent of ladies of the French classics. In authentic era costumes, they would warm the heart of even Scrooge. Incidentally, these dolls have hidden music boxes which play magically by the turn of a key.

Other charming choices include a collection of Fairy Tale music boxes, a series of animal music boxes, and some which feature tiny dancers who "perform" to tunes identified with landmarks of Europe. One Gorham music box is a miniature grand piano, the top of which conceals a place for jewels.

"SANTA" MUSIC BOXES by Gorham are ideal gifts for the young and young at heart. Each plays a favorite holiday tune as a tiny tot Santa, reindeer or snowman magically dances. Selections include "Rudolph The Red Nosed Reindeer," "White Christmas," and "Frosty The Snowman."

These welcome gift ideas will be available in leading jewelry, department store and gift outlets this holiday season.

Decorate in miniature!

Every female enjoys owning a doll's house. To have a miniature house that she can decorate all on her own, in exactly the way she chooses, is a joy and a pleasure for little girls from six to 60.

Wide variety

And, today, there's a wider variety than ever of miniature furniture and bric-a-brac to choose from. Furnishings are available in styles to suit every taste and pocketbook, just like their life-size counterparts.

Choose from modern or antique designs.

If a roll-top desk is what you're after, you're likely to find one, neatly topped by inkwell and quill pens, with a top that really rolls!

An antique style swivel mirror really swivels, and there are bibelots to go along: ormolu clocks, brass candelabrae, china tea sets, everything and anything you could possibly imagine or desire, and then some!

Modern miniatures

For the modern home, there's the latest in kitchen equipment, plus ashtrays, lamps and vases to suit the decor.

And, for the well-stocked pantry of any century, there's a selection of miniature food available that would make the mouth of Henry VIII himself begin to water.

The object of a New Year is not that we should have a new year. It is that we should have a new soul and a new nose, new feet, a new backbone, new ears, and new eyes. Unless a man starts on the strange assumption that he has never existed before, it is quite certain that he will never exist afterward

—G.K. Chesterton

Give your home a Yule gift of photographic personality

Elephants stampeding around the coffee table in your living room? Your children playing baseball in the kitchen?

With photographic art these or any scenes can enliven your home. Professional photographs of people, places or things offer you a versatile way to satisfy any decorating taste and create a unique personality for your home.

Your local professional photographer can help you decide how to decorate each room in your house, and the Christmas season is the perfect time to do it.

This year give your home a Christmas gift that everyone in the family can enjoy. You can order a custom enlargement of an old or new portrait, have an old photo restored or select one of the photographer's non-people photographs for display.

Choosing the frame and mounting can be just as important as choosing the print. They should complement the photograph much the same way the photograph complements the room.

Family portraits, long-time favorites, can add a touch of warmth to any room. Informal prints, abstracts, or sweeping panoramas can awaken your walls with vibrant scenery.

Displays of all kinds can lend a dramatic effect to your decorating. Custom finishes, indirect lighting, or bold groupings can help you achieve the desired look. Photographic art can supplement the existing decor of a room or inject new life into old spaces.

After you describe each room, your photographer can suggest various frame styles and sizes. By consulting him, you can create an economical and personalized decor that can make your house much more of a home.

Your home should reflect your tastes, and photographic art offers anything from favorite hobby shots and family activities to the simplicity of a still life.

You may want a striking sunrise in the kitchen or historic landmark in the den. The choices are as varied as your imagination, and for more ideas ask your local photographer for a copy of "Decorating with Photographic Art—An Idea Book," the new Kodak publication.

So giving your home a gift this holiday is not such a strange idea, because you give something the whole family can cherish for years to come.

Set a holiday table that's as festive as rest of home

Set a pretty Christmas table this year, by adding little ornaments judiciously to your spread, and by making your food so pretty and ornamental in itself that it will look almost too good to eat.

A sprinkling of little gold balls, red ribbons and red plaster "holly" berries adds a festive touch to bowls of potato chips and pretzels, no less to the large platters that are to hold a sumptuous roast or succulent skewers of meat and vegetables.

A red or green tablecloth helps set the mood, as do red and green candles placed at different points.

Icing a loaf cake and neatly striping it with red and green sugar is a sure-fire success, as are a bowl full of brightly wrapped chocolate candies and a pretty glass filled with candy canes.

holiday fun!

Christmas trees are flocking the nurseries, charity parks, empty lots. Anywhere that a pile of Christmas trees can fit, they will be. The big question — what kind of tree should you pick?

There is a variety of Christmas trees offered every year.

After you decide upon which Christmas tree to buy, the fun begins.

Make your tree the family event of Christmas this year, with this enjoyable project.

The special touch of. . . .

A Christmas present from your own kitchen

Homemade gifts from the kitchen are always special treats at Christmas, and throughout the year, for that matter. Reusable canisters filled with cookies, apothecary jars loaded with candies, and brightly wrapped breads in their baking tins are all sure to be appreciated.

Individual tea cakes can be made before the rush of holiday preparations, and frozen. They make thoughtful small gifts for babysitters, postmen, neighbors and people you "almost forgot."

The home economists at General Electric have prepared these cakes with cherries and pecans, flavored some with orange juice and others with bourbon. The secret to their quick preparation is the food processor, which makes short work of chopping and mixing the ingredients.

This incredible kitchen appliance can even slice orange peel into thin strips for delicious candied orange peel. It can be used to make an unusual ginger-grapefruit marmalade, or your own favorite.

You'll find detailed step-by-step instructions for these Christmas gifts in the Cooking with a Food Processor cookbook which comes packed with every General Electric food processor plus blender (model FP-2). This newest model food processor also has a five-speed blender which fits into the same base, giving you two products in one.

Copies of the cookbook are available for $7.95 each, plus 75¢ to cover postage and handling. Add applicable state and local tax, specify catalog number XM24X35, and allow four weeks for delivery.

Write for your copy directly to: General Electric Company—Housewares Product Service—P.O. Box 861—Bridgeport, CT 06602.

The full-color cookbook has more than 350 color photographs illustrating everything from ingredient preparation to finished results. The more than 200 recipes from appetizers to desserts were tested in the General Electric kitchens.

Collectibles make perfect gifts

At a loss as to what to give your child for Christmas?

Why not start him or her on the road to a collection that he or she will be able to enjoy for years to come, well into adulthood?

Many a child, receiving a set of trains, is started on a life-long hobby that is not only a good deal of fun, but just as enjoyable today, and your child's special favorites, culled from a more modern book selection, are likely future favorites.

If you can, why not give your child a few of each?

Select books from the shelves of your neighborhood store and select books from your own bookshelf.

Your child is likely to treasure those books you have read and treasured, as much if not more than ones that are which can be financially worthwhile as well.

Many train sets accrue in value and, in any case, are the perfect gift to be handed down from generation to generation.

Books, too, are perfect hand-me-downs. What you enjoyed as a child is probably brand new.

Once you begin to think of presents as potential collectibles, the possibilities are endless.

Dolls, decorative mugs, anything in miniature from finely crafted furniture to model cars, even bags of marbles and toy soldiers can be the basis for a lifetime of fun.

And, many a child has been set on the road to years of collecting stamps and coins with that first packet, neatly wrapped and left under the tree on Christmas morning.

Get your child a batch of bright foreign stamps and an album to put them in, or a selection of coins from foreign countries, even a diverse group of good old American pennies, and watch eyes and face light up.

Bake a sweet holiday treat

Christmas is the perfect time to try your hand at baking. Even if you're lazy all year round and would rather eat cookies out of a bag or a box than fresh from the oven, there are few pleasures greater than sweetening your Christmas with a host of confections fit for a Gingerbread House.

Gingerbread men and women are old standbys; use your bell-shaped, tree-shaped and other cookie cutters for new variations on an old theme.

Spritz cookies, glittering with red and green sugar, are a real treat. With a cookie press, you can form the dough into innumerable shapes: ribbons, wreaths, twists and "S" curves, to name just a few.

Pfeffernusse, spicy balls coated with powdered sugar, are another favorite at Christmas time. They should be made in advance and allowed to age, like Mincemeat or Fruitcake.

And, if you get really energetic, why not try your hand at making a Gingerbread House to rival the one in "Hansel and Gretel"?

It's a terrific way to keep restive children occupied on a snowy winter afternoon. Appoint one child architect, another, decorator, and let them get to work.

BUFFET DO'S

When you're planning your spread, don't forget a large salad, accompanied by a variety of dressings.

For a small gathering, you might consider a cheese fondue as a main course or, if you have a particular fancy for rich desserts, a chocolate fondue to finish off a perfectly delightful dinner.

Baking your favorite cookies is always a good idea, as is distributing bowls of finger food on your buffet table and throughout your entertaining area.

Post-holiday relief for the housekeeper

Every good thing must come to an end, and so must the holiday festivities. Planning and preparing for company are some of the highlights of the season, but afterwards you must, of course, clean up after your guests.

Easy clean-up

With some know-how and a bit of pre-planning, after-party clean-ups can be easier to accomplish. These tips may help:

Plan to do just one room at a time, starting with the most-used areas—the kitchen and dining room—and leaving the other rooms for last.

Whether your menu revolved around the traditional turkey or a beef dish, you can speed through messy kitchen cleanups with Grease relief® all-purpose degreaser. Just spray it directly on countertops, washable areas of the stove—range top and hood—and other soiled greasy surfaces and wipe with a damp sponge or clean cloth.

You can also use all-purpose degreaser to clean pots and pans, dishes and flatware, and to remove greasy food stains from washable tablecloths, napkins and even your favorite apron. In the laundry, simply spray the degreaser directly onto the greasy spots before washing items.

"Wet garbage" never seems to end this time of year, so be sure to have plenty of those giant plastic trash bags handy. To make your job easier, try to assign this chore to another family member to keep the situation under control.

Your own holiday!

Once the major cleanup is completed, treat yourself to a vacation from housework and relax. After you've worked so hard to make this occasion a special one, you deserve a "holiday" of your own!

Be prepared for unexpected guests with these handy tips

The festive spirit of holiday entertaining is especially enjoyable when shared with people you really care for. This holiday season, when guests arrive—whether invited or unexpected—be prepared.

To help you be the perfect host or hostess, the American Bottled Water Association offers the following entertaining tips:

Shop in advance for party foods, choosing easy and quick-to-prepare dishes. Some good choices include tasty fondues, cheese and crackers, fruit cakes and cookies, and crisp crudites. You might also want to keep a good supply of cold-cuts or a casserole or two on hand in case unexpected guests arrive around mealtime.

An important rule for every successful party is to have plenty of beverages available, including some bottled domestic water to help wash down all those tasty hors d'oeuvres. Bottled domestic water has a clean, light and consistently good taste, so whether you drink it "straight" or use it as a mixer, it will complement rather than conflict with the natural flavors of foods you serve. And, since it contains no sugar or calories, it's the perfect beverage for calorie-counting guests.

One dilemma every host and hostess should try to avoid is a shortage of seating space. If you generally entertain in one particular room and are expecting many guests, you may find it worthwhile to temporarily rearrange some household furnishings—move an extra sofa and some chairs into the room—for a few weeks. If this isn't possible, some plush pillows spread around on the floor will also help to make guests comfortable.

'Ring' in the New Year with a fashionable telephone gift

Spending hours shopping for the perfect Christmas gift to please every family member can sometimes end up being a giant-size Yuletide headache. Going from store to store is exhausting, and often forces us to settle for "any old thing."

But there is a simple, practical, and fun solution to this year's gift dilemmas: give a personal telephone to help everyone in the family "ring" in the New Year.

Today's telephones, which you can now own, not only save money but offers a unique and functional gift idea for even the most hard-to-please person on your list. General Telephone & Electronics Corporation offer a complete line of fashion phones available through various retail outlets.

These phones are designed and manufactured by GTE Automatic Electric in a broad range of shapes, sizes, and colors to fit every Christmas stocking—and budget.

For example, the Fashion Plate™ telephone makes a perfect gift for the man who has an eye for decorating. Available with 13 interchangeable facemats in a rainbow of colors to complement any decor, the Fashion Plate telephone turns what was formerly a necessity into a decorating item.

Hard-to-please dads who say they "have everything they need" will delight in receiving a Compact Speakerphone that frees both hands to read and write while talking.

Any daughter will love finding a Cutie telephone in her stocking on Christmas morning. A diminutive version of the French-style telephones, the ivory-colored Cutie recalls the grace and charm of bygone days and makes a perfect "bedside companion" for private conversations.

And the sleek, functional design of the Starlite® telephone is sure to be a favorite "conversation piece" for the number one son. The Starlite telephone offers all the advantages of a conventional telephone handset with added style suited for the desk-top or nightstand.

All GTE Automatic Electric phones are FCC registered and come with standard modular plugs, making installation easy. Fashion Plate, Compact Speakerphone, Cutie, and Starlite telephones are available through leading retail outlets at prices ranging from $35 to $200.

Avoid shopping hassles this holiday season and choose family gifts that are sure to please—fashion phones that "ring" in the New Year in style.

PARTY PLAN

If you're planning on holding a party, make sure it doesn't conflict with some other event you and your guests might want to attend.

If someone else has already planned for Christmas Eve or New Year's Eve, pick an off-day or evening to hold your bash.

Organize for hectic holiday entertaining

Preparing for hectic holidays with their steady flow of guests can leave you exhausted long before the doorbell rings. To have enough time and energy to enjoy the festivities, be sure you plan ahead and organize your holiday chores. These suggestions may help:

- Buy your gifts and send your greeting cards early. Stores get crowded as the holidays draw near; early shopping can save you hours of waiting on long check-out lines. By preparing your cards early, they will receive prompt delivery.
- Give the house a major cleaning several weeks prior to the holidays, so all that's left is some light and easy housekeeping. For quick and effective touch-up cleaning, keep a bottle of Glass Plus, glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner handy. Just spray this versatile cleaner on washable surfaces all around the house—windows, mirrors, chrome, countertops, and appliances—and wipe with a paper towel or lint free cloth.
- Making this year's holidays memorable should not be your responsibility alone. Arrange for help from all members of the family: assign tasks—large or small—and make each person responsible for his or her specific chore.
- Prepare cook-ahead meals. Cakes, pies, cookies and many main courses such as casseroles can be prepared weeks ahead of time and put into the freezer. The days when guests are expected, just defrost and reheat for a delicious holiday meal.

HAPPY CATS

Cats will appreciate anything filled with catnip, and will trot around happily for months on end, picking up and depositing various ragged pieces of cloth that were once stuffed mice or tiger tails, and even falling asleep, happily, with something clenched in their paws.

Select balls of various sorts. Cats are particularly attracted to those with bells in them. Bits of rawhide for chewing are doggie treats, as are squeakie toys, rubber bones and yummy biscuits.

Buffet makes party easier

Having family and friends over for a tree-trimming party? Or for a caroling supper? Why not plan a meal that can be prepared in advance and served as a buffet, so you can enjoy yourself as much as your guests?

Even if a dish is somewhat elaborate, consider making it, if it can be largely or entirely prepared beforehand.

One good choice would be quiche (cheese, Lorraine, spinach or any of the many other varieties so popular nowadays). If you opt to make your crust from scratch, you can do it up to one month in advance and freeze it for later use; otherwise, a store-bought crust provides a viable and time-saving alternative.

One novel dish which is perfectly suited to a buffet is "Pissaladiere," a French variation on pizza: pie crust filled with a scrumptious mixture of tomatoes, olives and herbs.

Lasagna is always a good choice, as is moussaka, a Greek casserole of cheese, meat, eggplant and potatoes. Both are appetizing, filling and perfectly suited to advance preparation and help-yourself style serving.

Cherished moments are mirrored in silver

Many fond memories of home and loved ones center around the family dining room table, when cheery faces circled what was once referred to as the "groaning board"—a table laden with good-smelling holiday treats.

Of course, the table was lavishly set, with Momma's best linen napery, her finest pieces of holloware and the lovingly polished "Sunday best" silver.

If you are looking for a gift that keeps on giving pleasure for all the years ahead, consider silver for your favorite hostess, aunt, sister, or those young newlywed friends of yours. A piece of silver holloware is an ideal gift for your own home, or to add to Mom's collection, the Jewelery Industry Council reports.

For the most part, you won't have to worry about matching old heirlooms—classic new silver designs blend well with designs of the past.

If you are at a loss for gift ideas, give the woman who has almost everything a silver chocolate service with its own tray. Handsome silver sugar and creamers or fruit compote dishes are welcome gifts to the hostess who loves to entertain.

One of the most thoughtful gifts is that of extra serving pieces for a friend's flatware set. Once you learn her pattern, chances are your favorite jeweler will be able to help you select a set of dessert spoons, a cake server, serving forks or some other piece of flatware that will please her.

One of the safest gifts to give (no need to find out size or color preference!) is a serving bowl or casserole in silver. Large serving bowls are ideal for holiday punch, tossed salads, or to make a fruit centerpiece display for the holiday table.

How about a casserole? Many of the casseroles have oven-to-table inserts that fit handsomely inside silver bases that protect the dining room table from heat.

Baby's first Christmas? His or her very own first silver spoon is an ideal gift.

That gift of silver you give this Christmas will be around in Christmas Future to bring just as much joy then as it does now. Silver is part of family "roots", and is proudly passed from one generation to next. Make your gift this Christmas a gift to build memories on!

For now I am in a holiday humour.

Visions of sugar and frosting . . .

Decorate for a white Christmas

The whole family can stir up lots of holiday cheer this season, by decorating for Christmas in a new, exciting way that is easy on the family budget.

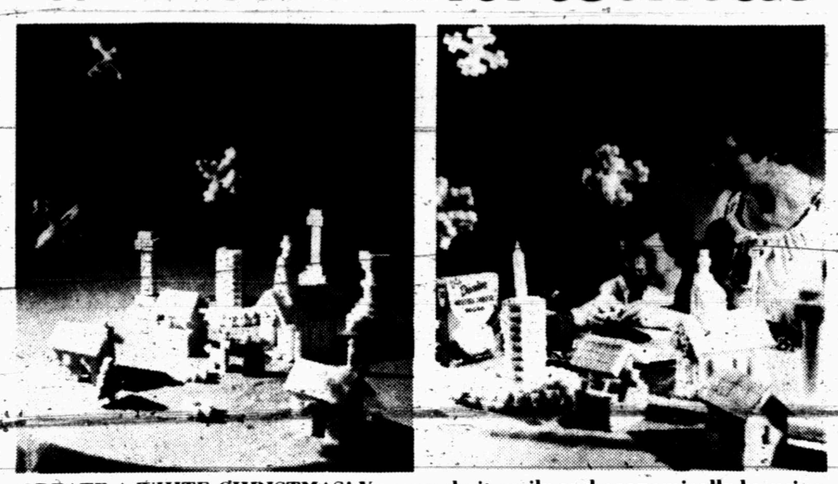

Among the decorations your family can create are: candle-ring wreath, candlesticks, snowflakes, tree ornaments, miniature house, church, wishing well and, in fact, even an entire Christmas white-capped village. All add a festive charm to your table or tree, and sparkle like snow because you make them with sugar!

All you need to make these inexpensive but dazzling decorations are some Domino® Sugar Dots and/or Tablets, a special frosting, and your imagination. The Dots and Tablets are readily available at your local supermarket. The frosting is simply a mixture of egg whites and Domino® Confectioners 10-X Powdered Sugar that holds the Dots and Tablets together like an edible "mortar."

Every member of your family can get involved in this project. While Mom and Dad mix up the "mortar" frosting, the kids can arrange the Dots and Tablets in the desired pattern.

To make frosting, just whip the egg whites until firm, and add powdered sugar, cream of tartar, and vanilla or almond extract. The frosting is easy to handle when applied with a squeezable plastic container, and dries solidly between layers of Dots and Tablets.

Color may be added with diluted food coloring sprayed through a window cleanser bottle, and granulated sugar dyed with food coloring may be sprinkled on the decorations as an attractive trim.

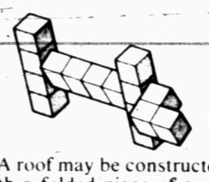

CREATE A WHITE CHRISTMAS! You can do it easily and economically by using Dots and Tablets—along with a touch of imagination. Elegant candlesticks, hanging snowflakes and a charming Christmas village are among the decorations you can design for your home and gift-giving. These holiday ornaments are bright and festive for a table or tree, and make an exciting project for the entire family to enjoy.

Here are some step-by-step instructions on how you can make sugar decorations for Christmas:

HOUSE/CHURCH/WELL

To construct a house, church or well, arrange the Dots and Tablets in a square or rectangular pattern on a flat surface. Stack the Dots and Tablets directly on top of each other and spread with frosting. Leave spaces for doors and windows in the buildings, topping these off with small pieces of index cards. Construct two pillars on the well base to support the roof.

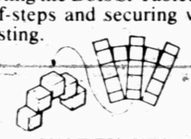

A roof may be constructed with a folded piece of cardboard covered with frosting and granulated sugar. Tablets may be added as shingles, and Dots and Tablets trim the windows and doors. Use your creativity to add steeples, chimneys and decorative trim.

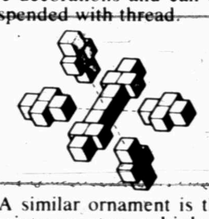

CANDLE-RING WREATH

Build the wreath in a circular pattern as shown, connecting the Dots or Tablets in half-steps and securing with frosting.

SNOWFLAKES

Since no two snowflakes are alike, your sugar snowflakes may also vary in design. Basically, each snowflake has a center Dot, with an "arm" extending from each side. To make the arms, stack about four Dots vertically from the center, and add Dots horizontally on the sides as you wish. These snowflakes make charming tree decorations and can be suspended with thread.

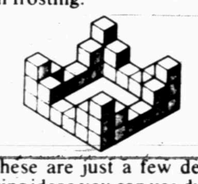

A similar ornament is the Christmas star, which is made from two Tablets joined end to end. Continue by plastering two additional Tablets at right angles, forming a "cross" design. Finish by breaking two Tablets in

CANDLESTICKS

Sugar candlesticks add an elegant touch to your Christmas table, and are especially attractive when surrounded by a ring of holly or other greens. Squares of Dots and Tablets stacked in alternating sizes form the candlesticks, and triangular "legs" may be added onto the base. A taper candle fits easily into the center opening and is secured with frosting.

Other tree ornaments in the shapes of miniature reindeer, candles, trees and wreaths are simple to make and a real favorite for children.

These are just a few decorating ideas you can use during the holiday season. Gather up some Dots and Tablets and let your imagination take over. Ideas are limited only by your own creativity.

When you come up with an original idea using Dots and Tablets, send a photo of your creation to Box 387, Amstar Corporation, 1251 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10020. Amstar will send you a free coupon toward your next purchase of Dots and Tablets.

Next year's gift, too . . .

Give 'add-on' toys

The saying, "when you find something good, stick with it," can take on new meaning at Christmas. Rather than going out each year and buying new and different toys, find a type of toy the child likes, and develop it further each year.

"Single-purpose" toys tend to limit the child in several ways. A child quickly becomes bored with toys that have only one function, and may put the toy aside permanently. Single-purpose toys such as dolls and stuffed animals also limit the amount of children's interaction. Finally, it can become quite costly to buy several single-purpose toys, instead of one multi-purpose toy, of course.

One inflation-fighting toy which more and more parents and children are discovering is the three-inch tall Playmobil people available with a variety of related accessories and props. This toy system may be used alone or in conjunction with other toy and building systems to create a "community" of interaction.

Each play system "family" can be purchased in individual sets, such as firefighters, policemen, doctors and nurses, or cowboys and Indians. Also, new this year is the "vacationers," a family and accessories in a fun, rural vacation setting.

Children can act out a variety of situations—both real and make believe—by combining different Playmobil sets. For instance, the firemen and police rush to the scene of a fire while the hospital staff waits to handle any emergencies. Through play situations such as these, children learn the many varied interactions and contributions of each profession.

Another way to get the most out of this and other toy systems is to combine it with toys or playsets the child may already have, such as blocks or other small toys, often renewing his or her interest in old toys.

Because of its unlimited uses, Playmobil is a toy that keeps on giving all year long, with no strain on the family's finances. So make next year's Christmas shopping easier—by giving the "add-on" gift this year!

Lost art of tale-telling

To lift your family's spirits on a cold, dreary winter evening, why not pick up and read aloud one or more of the many marvelous stories or poems that evoke the Christmas season? Old standbys include "The Night Before Christmas," by Clement Moore, and "A Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens. But did you know that Dickens also wrote other Christmas stories, including "The Cricket on the Hearth" and "The Chimes"?

There is no pleasure like the recitation of poems and stories, and no poems or stories like those written by Literature's greats. So, pick up a book, begin to read, and enjoy!

Collectible gift selection grows in value throughout the years

A DELIGHTFUL GIFT IDEA for those who enjoy the holidays and collectibles is the 1978 Christmas Plate by Gorham which features the colorful "Planning Christmas Visits" illustration by America's beloved artist Norman Rockwell—a reproduction of the December 4, 1926 Saturday Evening Post cover.

THE 1978 "MOPPETS" Christmas plate, an annual collector's edition, features two children looking at wrapped presents, under a charming Christmas tree. Nearby a dog tugs at a Christmas stocking. The 24 Karat gold-rimmed plate says "Happy Merry Christmas Tree 1978" in Christmas red lettering.

It is a pleasure to give and to receive gifts that please. The great joy of gift-giving during the holidays often comes from choosing personal gifts that we feel will be prized. Collectibles in particular are among the most popular gifts this year, and they will be treasured for years to come.

Annual editions

High on the list, of course, are annual editions of Christmas plates. Two annual limited edition plates by Gorham, a leading producer of prestigious collectibles, are perfect choices. The gold-rim Gorham 1978 Christmas plate features a reproduction of Norman Rockwell's December 4, 1926 Saturday Evening Post cover. His illustration, "Planning Christmas Visits," depicts Santa with a magnifying glass studying a large globe for locations of "good boys" listed in his book held in one hand.

Child's delight

The colorful "Moppets" 1978 Christmas plate, annual collector's edition, features two Moppet children looking at wrapped presents under a delightful Christmas tree. Nearby a dog tugs at a Christmas stocking. The 24 Karat gold-rimmed plate says "Happy Merry Christmas Tree 1978" in Christmas red lettering.

Ornament pendants

Other wonderful gift ideas are Gorham tree ornaments, some of which can also be worn as holiday pendants. One of these is Gorham's famous annual limited edition, sterling "Snowflake." The 1978 design is eagerly sought after. This is the sixth annual limited edition of the delightful ornament cum pendant.

Glittering snowflake

Equally charming is Gorham's full-lead crystal mini-snowflake which comes with an 18-inch sterling rhodium plated chain. Matching earrings are also available.

Sculptured medallion

This is the third year Gorham has created a limited edition "Joys of Christmas Medallion." Crafted in fine Parian, a substance used extensively for fine sculpturing and detailed artistry, the 1978 medallion is called "Christmas Kiss." It comes with a gold string loop and is handsomely gift-boxed.

Convenient to purchase

All of these prized gifts are available at leading jewelry, gift, and department stores this holiday season.

At Christmas play and make a good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.
—Thomas Tusser

Don't let a spill spoil the festive holiday fun

Warm reveries and family togetherness make the Yuletide a very special time of year. If it's your turn to entertain relatives and friends this holiday season, don't let accidental spots and stains spoil the fun and festivity of the occasion. With a little spot removal know-how, clean-ups of both washable and dry-cleanable items can be quick and easy.

The important rule to remember is that a spot is easiest to remove if it's treated immediately. Before laundering items, be sure to read the manufacturer's washing instructions. Most common spots will respond to a treatment of Spray 'n Wash® laundry soil and stain remover. Just spray the pretreat directly on the spot, wait 60 seconds, and launder normally. For extra-tough spots, try another spray and washing.

Many spots and stains on dry-cleanable items—including upholstery, drapery, and rugs—can be removed with K2r® Spot-lifter. Just apply it to the spotted areas, let dry to a fine white powder, and then brush the powder and the soil away. (Check the effect of any spot remover in an inconspicuous place before attempting to remove a spot from a colorfast fabric.)

Here are some common holiday spots and stains you're likely to encounter and their appropriate emergency remedy:

• Gravies and fondues—scrape off as much of the grease as possible. Use spray pretreat or spot-lifter—depending on the fabric—to get the residue.

• Eggnog and heavy cream—lukewarm water or soap and water will remove any solid portion; then pretreat or spot-lift accordingly.

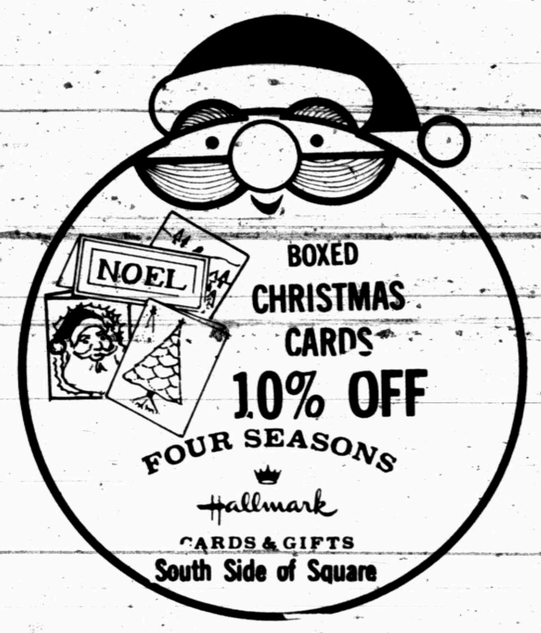

• Cranberry sauce and berry juices—sponge with cold water first and pretreat or spot-lift.

• Wines—lukewarm water will remove white wine spots on non-washables; K2r will take care of red or rose spots. For washable items, just use spray pretreat before laundering.

• Candle wax—place the stained item between layers of absorbent paper and press with a warm iron. This will draw up most of the solid wax. Then pretreat or spot-lift accordingly to remove residue.

• Chafing dish smudges—sponge off sooty residue with cool water. Spray 'n Wash or spot-lifter will do the rest.

• Evergreen sap—sponge up as much of the sticky solid or residue as possible, then spot-lift or pretreat and launder.
