Shiites demonstrate support for hijacking

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Hundreds of Shiite Moslem radicals shouted praise to the "heroes of Islam" who seized a TWA jet, some stamping on American and Israeli flags and setting them afire near the plane at Beirut airport.

Officials in Beirut said Friday that two of the 40 American hostages taken by the hijackers might be freed because of illness. But the family of one hostage said later that he had been found to be in good health and would not be released.

The demonstrators chanted "Death to America! Death to Reagan! Death to Israel!" in a scene reminiscent of the Iranian hostage crisis that ended in 1981. Many carried huge posters of Iran's fundamentalist Shiite leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

People in the crowd stamped on American and Israeli flags and set them afire to a chorus of triumphant chants.

Friday marked one week since two young Shiite gunmen seized the Boeing 727 on an Athens-Rome flight, demanding the release of hundreds of Shiite prisoners Israeli forces took prisoner during their withdrawal from south Lebanon.

■ Related stories, Pages 10A, 8C

Israel has said it plans to release the prisoners when the situation is calmer in south Lebanon, from which it completed its withdrawal earlier this month. Both the United States and Israel have refused to negotiate with those holding the hostages.

All the 40 remaining hostages held are Americans. Three crewmen are aboard the plane and 37 passengers are held at various points in and around Beirut by members of the Shiite militia Amal.

Amal leader Nabih Berri, who also is justice minister in the nominal government of this war-ravaged land, has taken responsibility for their welfare.

An airport official and an official of Amal, both of whom spoke on condition of anonymity, said Shiite leaders were "examining the condition" of Jimmy Dell Palmer, 48, of Little Rock, Ark., who has high blood pressure and a heart condition.

But Palmer's son, Jim Palmer Jr., said later in Little Rock, Ark., that the State Department had informed the family that the elder Palmer was examined by doctors at American University Hospital, found to be in good health and returned to his captors.

The officials said Claude Whitmoyer, who is from Severn, Md., and in his late 30s, also might be freed for medical treatment, but they had no information on his illness.

Suicide now ruled homicide

HOUSTON (AP) — Two police detectives worked more than five years to convince authorities that a Louisiana woman didn't kill herself, but was unknowingly fed an overdose of barbituates by three people who wanted to sell her baby.

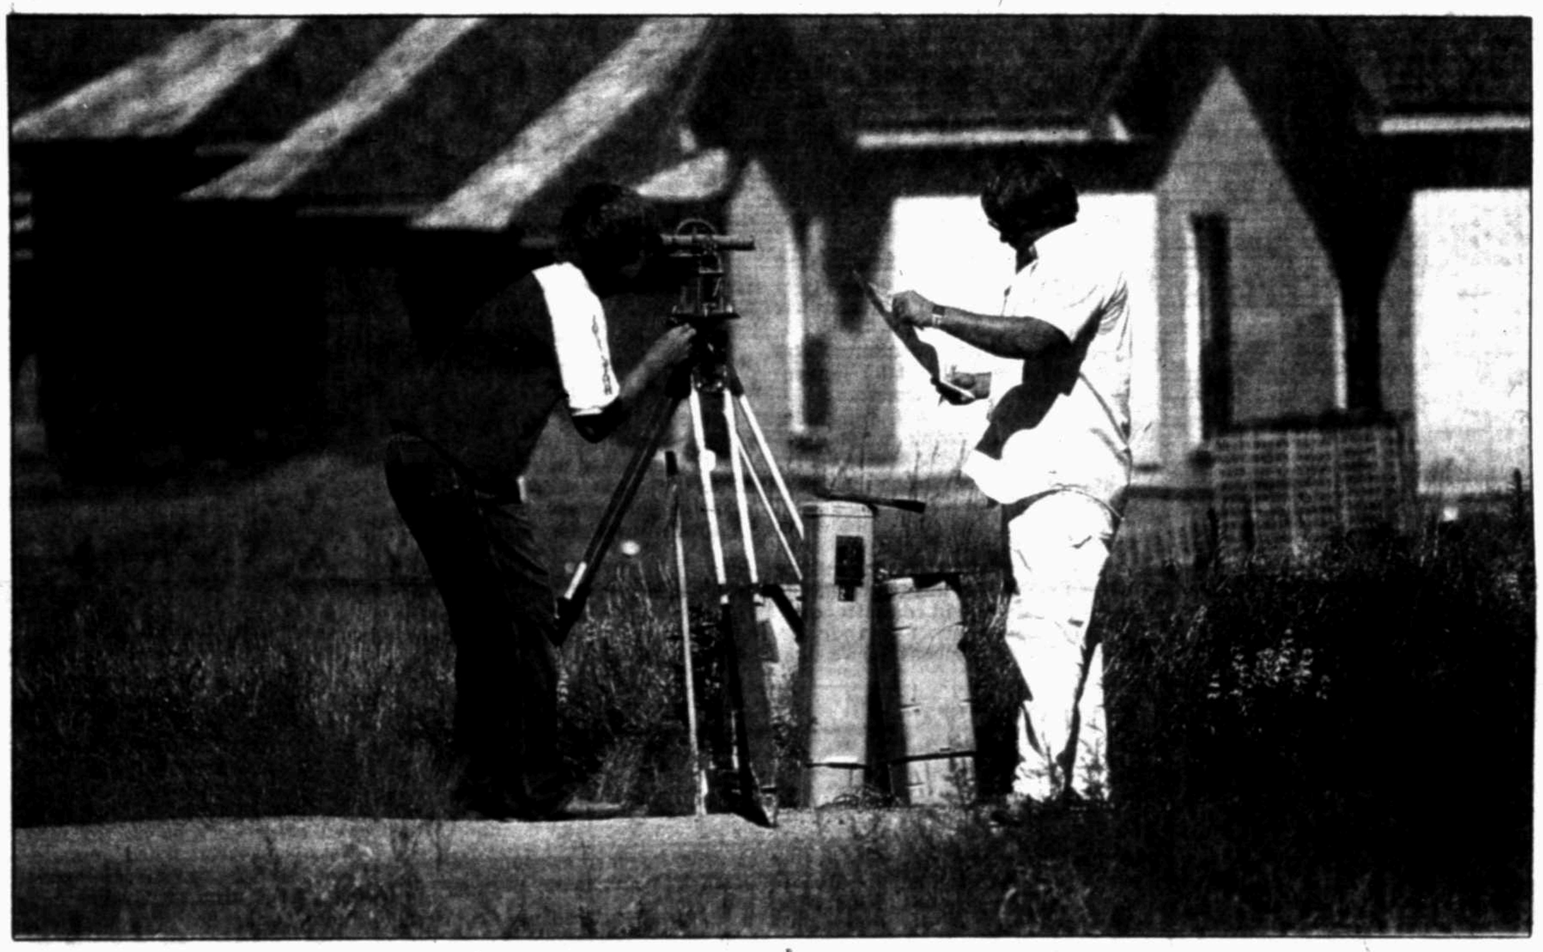

After reviewing the new evidence, Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk on Friday changed the cause of death of Cheryl Ann Jones from suicide to homicide.

"This case had all the earmarks of a textbook suicide," Jachimczyk said. "But after reviewing the new evidence it is apparent that it was a homicide."

Mrs. Jones, 23, of New Orleans, came to Houston with three people on March 7, 1980, believing that she had won a two-hour shopping spree, said Detective Paul Motard.

She was found dead the following day in an expensive southwest Houston hotel. One of her wrists had been slashed and a three-page unsigned suicide note found in the room.

Reagan meets privately with relatives of hostages

DALLAS (AP) — President Reagan, shadowed by the American hostage crisis while trying to plug his tax plan, met privately Friday with relatives of three captives of TWA flight 847 a day after the hostages pleaded against a U.S. rescue mission.

"We will continue to act with appropriate restraint, but let no one doubt our resolve," the president later told a cheering crowd of thousands at the annual convention of the Lions Club International.

Condemning the hijacking in the Middle East, the bombing at the airport in Frankfurt, West Germany and the killing of six Americans in El Salvador, Reagan declared: "Those who commit such crimes should be aware of the truth of President Theodore Roosevelt's observation: The American people...are slow to wrath, but once their wrath is kindled, it burns like a consuming flame."

With the hostage drama in its eighth day, Reagan arranged the meeting with relatives "to reassure them that the United States is doing all it can to bring their family members back safe and sound," said Albert R. Brashear, a White House deputy press secretary.

To make time for the session, Reagan canceled a planned 15-minute meeting with supporters of his tax-overhaul program.

Included in the meeting were relatives of Allyn Conwell, the chief spokesman for the hostages, Vicente Garza of Laredo, and his son-in-law, Robert Trautmann.

Conwell, an oil field equipment executive working in Oman, was selected by fellow hostages to serve as a spokesman at a Beirut news conference, where five of the captives were brought out of detention Thursday to meet with reporters.

Reading from a handwritten statement, Conwell urged Reagan not to attempt a military rescue mission.

"We, as a group, most importantly, beseech President Reagan and our fellow Americans to refrain from any form of military or violent means as an attempt, no matter how noble or heroic, to secure our freedom," Conwell said.

Garza, 54, a real estate developer from Laredo, also attended the news conference and said he and Trautmann were in good health. "I miss my family," he said.

When Reagan began his 20-minute meeting with 14 family members, he was greeted with hugs by the tearful wives of Garza and Trautmann, who had been held hostage in the early stages of the hijacking, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said.

"The president gave them assurances that we were doing everything we could he told them that our paramount interest was the safety of those that were being held and that we were making diplomatic efforts to try to gain their release," Speakes reported. "The families were very supportive of the way the president was approaching the matter."

Under questioning, Speakes declined to say whether any of the relatives had expressed concern about Israel's failure or refusal to release more than 700 Lebanese Shiite prisoners whose freedom has been demanded by the hijackers.

Ron Conwell, Allyn Conwell's brother, said after the meeting that "everything is being done that can be done to get them out." Asked if Reagan had a plan, he replied, "They don't have any miracles in the hat."

Conwell's mother, Lois, said Reagan spoke reassuringly but seemed frustrated. "Naturally, he's been working very, very hard on this problem, and he seemed a little tired," she said.

The hostage families spent another 10 to 15 minutes with national security adviser Robert McFarlane.

Aboard Air Force One en route to Dallas, Speakes said officials were "of two minds" on the hostages' news conference. "To parade hijack victims before television cameras is rather cynical and it's difficult for those who are victims to undergo that," he said.

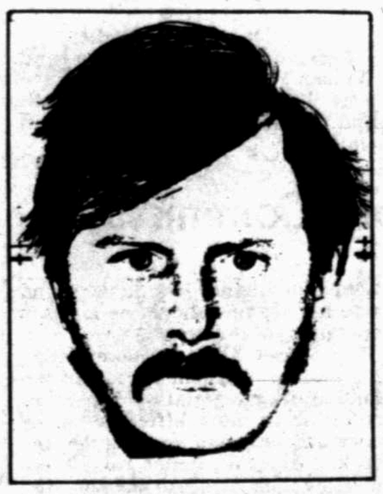

"On the other hand, it does give us a first-hand look at these people — at the victims. We get a feel as to how well they're holding up. It does provide some reassurance to their families."

Officers seek man wanted in alleged kidnapping, rape

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Law enforcement officers in three counties are seeking a man described as being in his mid-30s who allegedly kidnapped a 13-year-old girl June 13 at approximately 7 p.m. in front of Water Wonderland and raped her twice before letting her out of his pickup truck in Gardendale.

According to Ector County Sheriff's investigator Roy Gladden, the man picked up the girl on the north service road of U.S. Highway 80 in front of the amusement park, transported her to Andrews County, where he raped her, then moved into Ector County, where the young girl reportedly was again sexually assaulted. Gladden said the man — described as being five feet six to five feet eight inches tall, weighing approximately 160 pounds, of medium build and dark complexion, with reddish-brown, collar-length straight hair and a reddish brown moustache and green eyes — went into Gardendale after the second assault and let her out of the pickup truck at the intersection of State Highway 158 and Dogwood Street.

The man pictured in this composite drawing is being sought by law enforcement officers in Ector, Andrews and Midland counties on charges of kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault involving a 13-year-old girl. The abduction took place about 7 p.m. June 13 in front of Water Wonderland on U.S. Highway 80 in Midland County.

City ready to 'pave the way' for project

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

The road to hell may be paved with good intentions, but the streets of Midland are paved with assessments on homeowners, according to City Engineer Harvey Hansen.

"We've just finished a $2 million street assessment-paving project," Hansen said, and the city is ready to accept petitions for its next project, which should begin construction in early 1986.

Hansen hopes to attract as many petitions as possible to create economies of scale. The city pays 25 percent of the cost of paving in front of a homeowner's lot, and 50 percent of the cost of paving the side street for houses located on corners. At $18 per linear foot, that's a cost of about $1,080 for a typical 60-foot lot with no side-street frontage, Hansen said.

Paving a side street is $14 per foot, "And it can be paid at the completion of the project or it can be spread out over five years at 8 percent interest, which is a good deal."

"We've paved a little over nine miles in the last two years, scattered all over town," he said. About 20 to 25 percent of Midland's streets are unpaved, mostly in the south and east sides, where many people can't afford to pay for paving programs, Hansen said. These areas are eligible for federal Community Development grants for paving, and new subdivisions are usually paved by the developer, but many older, unpaved areas in southwest Midland and elsewhere are ineligble for federal paving money.

"We're talking about older areas that were never paved for some reason," said Hansen. "We just want to let them know we're considering a new assessment-paving project."

Interested homeowners must circulate a petition among their neighbors, and petitions must cover at least one block to be considered. If most, but not all people on a street or block are willing to pay for paving, the City Council may accept the petition and put a lien on the homes

Midlander in critical condition after shooting

From Staff Reports

A rural Midland man remained in critical condition in Midland Memorial Hospital Friday night with a shotgun wound to his abdomen, and his wife was in county jail on a $25,000 bond, charged with attempted murder.

Rose Anna Glosson, 41, is accused of shooting 49-year-old Milton Charles Glosson with a .410 shotgun about 5:30 p.m. Thursday at their mobile home near East Highway 80 and North County Road 1130, reportedly after a domestic argument, according to police reports. Glosson was listed in "very critical" condition, according to an MMH spokeswoman.

The 13-year-old Midland boy who fell off the back of a moving pickup truck Tuesday remained in critical condition Friday night, the spokeswoman said.

Michael Corbin, 3208 Thomas, was holding a piece of plywood-like paneling when a gust of wind blew him out of the truck in the 3900 block of Holiday Hill Road, reports said.

The 33-year-old Midland man charged Wednesday with the Sunday-night murder of a racetrack security guard remained hospitalized in serious condition with an armed guard outside his room, the MMH spokeswoman said.

Ruben Bujanda, 1105 W. Kentucky, was shot five times in the 8:30 p.m. incident at the racetrack southeast of Midland, according to Sheriff's Office reports. Security guard James Belis of Odessa was shot once in the head and killed, and security guard Charlie Coleman Jr. was stabbed five times.

"He (Bujanda) tried to get out of bed twice last night," Justice of the Peace Charlie Sprayberry said Thursday, explaining why it was necessary to arrest a man hospitalized in serious condition. "He seemed fully aware and cognizant of what was going on."

Sprayberry set bond at $100,000 for Bujanda, and Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter had guards posted at his room. Other suspects are being sought in the case, but they may have fled to Mexico, according to Sprayberry.

Coleman was listed in fair condition Friday night, the MMH spokeswoman said.

Kent Porter/Reporter-Telegram

At an East Highway 80 mobile-home park, Sheriff's Lt. Roy Harrison holds the door while an unidentified deputy prepares to take Rose Anna Glosson to county jail Thursday. Mrs. Glosson is accused of attempting to murder her husband, who was listed in critical condition Friday night with a shotgun wound in his abdomen.

RULING

Medical examiners ruled Mrs. Jones killed herself with a drug overdose. But Motard and fellow Detective Gil Schultz were skeptical.

"It didn't make sense. A young woman leaves her home with three strangers to go on what she believes is a shopping spree. She winds up dead in a hotel and her baby is mysteriously taken back to the father in a cab the same day," Motard said Friday.

In January, Harold Lee Schut, a 40-year-old suspect arrested in Reno, Nev., on an unrelated charge, told authorities that he, wife Jackie, 30, and a woman identified only as Cindy tricked Mrs. Jones into coming to Houston because they planned to sell her infant daughter, Amanda, for $2,000.

"They spotted her one day in a Navy PX. They approached Mrs. Jones and said they wanted her baby's picture for a contest. If she won she would get a two-hour shopping spree and buy all the baby things she needed," Motard said.

HIJACK

In the United States, the relatives of another hostage with a similar name — Simon Grossmayer, 57, of Algonquin, Ill. — said he has only one lung and his health could be at risk.

Five of the hostages were brought to an airport news conference Thursday. They said all 37 were being well treated, they did not believe their captors intended to kill them, and beseeched the United States not to attempt a rescue mission.

The three Americans on the plane, which has been taken over by Amal militiamen, said much the same a day earlier in brief interviews conducted from the cockpit.

TWA Flight 847 had 153 people aboard when it was seized and the others were let go, nearly all of them during stops in Beirut and Algiers before the hijackers brought it here for the last time Sunday. They killed a U.S. Navy petty officer, Robert Dean Stethem, 23, of Waldorf, Md.

The rally, which was the first major demonstration supporting the hijackers, involved about 700 men and women who marched out of the Shiite slums adjacent to the airport in a long, noisy column, shouting their slogans.

The outsize likenesses of Khomeini glowered from above the marchers, as they did at similar scenes during the 444 days American hostages were held in Tehran.

Half the crowd marched to within 600 yards of the parked jetliner, led by three carloads of gunmen from the Hezbollah (Party of God), the radical Shiite group that organized the demonstration.

There were brief scuffles with Amal militiamen, who control the battle-scarred airport south of Beirut.

Scores of Amal fighters ringed the plane, brandishing automatic rifles and pistols, apparently fearing the demonstrators might surge toward it.

Three gunmen with the Hezbollah group, their heads covered by blue hoods, told the crowd to stay back. A mobile staircase was moved close to the crowd and a Shiite clergyman in a white turban mounted it with a bullhorn to thunder imprecations against the United States and Israel.

Jehovah's Witnesses gather

From Staff Reports

"In a world that has vastly changed in recent years, integrity to Biblically-based moral standards has been difficult to maintain," said J.E. Barr, the keynote speaker at the "Integrity Keepers" District Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses.

It is not easy to live by rigid standards that many people in the world now consider passe, he said.

Speaking to over 4,855 persons assembled at the Chaparral Center Friday, Barr repeatedly emphasized the need for integrity, the need to be different as an example to others.

"In God's Word, integrity denotes moral soundness and completeness," he said. Commenting further, he added: "Integrity means unswerving devotion to righteousness and unbreakable devotion to God."

Pinpointing human frailty, Barr stressed that no one can live by God's principles perfectly.

Barr said integrity keeping was possible because of love of God, not fear of Him.

After the closing of Friday's sessions, the Witnesses took to the streets of Midland to invite local residents to the convention.

The public address on Sunday will highlight the four-day meeting.

Barr will speak on the subject "God's Times and Seasons — To What Do They Point?" The time of the lecture is 2 p.m. and the public is invited.

WANTED

The man is sought on charges of kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault by Ector, Andrews and Midland counties. Gladden said the man was wearing a faded red T-shirt with faded writing on the front of it, faded blue jeans and black work boots. The man was also wearing a red, summer-type baseball cap with a company logo, consisting of a white outlined circle with the company name of Jones and some other printing within the circle. According to the young victim, Gladden said, the man had a tattoo on his upper left shoulder but she couldn't describe it.

Gladden described the suspect's vehicle as a red Chevrolet Silverado pickup, with a wide — perhaps 12 inches wide — custom painted gray stripe running the entire length of both sides of the vehicle. The pickup has a red interior with a tinted, sliding, rear window.

The Ector County Sheriff's office Friday afternoon released a composite picture constructed from the young girl's description of the man.

Deputy Gladden asked that anyone with information concerning the possible whereabouts of the man shown in the composite picture contact the sheriffs' offices in Ector, Andrews or Midland counties as soon a possible. Callers providing information can remain anonymous, he said.

of those who don't want to pay, so when the home is sold the added value from the paving is included in the price, and the city "eventually will be paid" for the paving, Hansen said. "It's a council decision."

Before the council makes that decision, there is public notice and a public hearing on the petition.

Unlike CD-funded paving, the assessment-paving project includes curbs and gutters, Hansen said. These are not included in CD paving in order to pave as many miles as possible for the money provided.

To stretch out the city's contribution to the assessment-paving program and also save homeowners a few bucks, Hansen would like to have as many petitions as possible to get the project started.

"We can add projects once we initiate it, but the bigger project we start with, the better prices we get," he said.

Man treated, released

From Staff Reports

CRANE — A 31-year-old Midland man was treated and released from Crane Memorial Hospital Friday after his truck, which carried hazardous chemicals, overturned on FM 1053, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The truck carried 75 gallons of flammable liquids and 110 gallons of a material described as "hazardous" by DPS reports, but only two gallons spilled and there was no explosion.

Rafelo Albidrez Franco, 702 Spraberry, was three miles south of State Highway 329 on FM 1053 when a wheel broke and a tire blew out on his 1981 International Tank truck about 7 a.m. The truck veered to the right, overcorrected to the left and overturned, according to DPS reports.

Snelson appointed to Sunset Advisory Commission

From Staff and Wire Reports

AUSTIN — Former state Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland has been appointed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to serve on the Sunset Advisory Commission for a two-year term.

The advisory commission makes recommendations to the Sunset Commission regarding the continuation of state agencies.

Hobby also appointed Sens. John Montford, D-Lubbock, and Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, to the advisory commission.

"Sen. Montford, Sen. McFarland and Pete Snelson each bring unique qualities to the commission," Hobby said in a statement released Friday. "Their ability to make sound decisions and exercise good judgment will benefit the commission and the general public."

Both Montford and McFarland will serve four-year terms on the commission.

Hobby also named Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, as chairman of the commission for the next two years.

The commission reviews a group of state agencies each two years and recommends to the Legislature whether the agencies should be continued for another 10 to 12 years and whether changes should be made in operations of the agencies.

"The Sunset Advisory Commission has assumed a prominent role in recommending legislative direction resulting in more efficient use of our state funds and assuring that the various agencies under review are meeting their mandate and carrying out their mission," Hobby said.

Lawmakers this year voted to abolish the Texas Health Facilities Commission, the state agency in charge of licensing hospitals, on the recommendation of the Sunset Commission.

Unique community creates dome homes

RAINBOW VALLEY, Texas (AP) — They've been called "the intellectual simple folk" by Kiplinger Magazine. Some local people term them "sort of strange" because of the houses they build and the philosophy they espouse.

But members of the Rainbow Valley Association think of themselves as pioneers, they say.

They've signed a compact to "create homes, neighborhoods and environments which are beautiful, nurturing, peaceful and enduring."

"We're all trying to live in peace and harmony, and live and let live, to be like the pioneers," said Ruth Foote, developer of the community about three miles east of Sanger. "I'm jealous of the pioneers. We're trying to have a community that can get back to nature."

The community encompasses 220 acres, half of which will be be retained as communal property.

The land is hilly and wooded, and a lake is planned soon. When the homes are completed, wild flowers will grow on the roofs, Mrs. Foote said, and from the air the valley will appear almost undisturbed.

Mrs. Foote also was a developer of Whitehawk Valley, near Denton, where the residents also live in earth sheltered or other non-traditional homes. Whitehawk Valley now has about 20 homes, she said. Rainbow Valley has about 10, but most are in stages of completion.

Buyers usually deposit a down payment on the land, then start building their house themselves, said Robin Foote, Mrs. Foote's son who built his home in Whitehawk over a six-year period and who now contracts to help others build their homes.

"We teach them how to build with the ferrocement (a steel and cement composite in a thin shell). They can build one room and move in, then build the rest as they go along. Most people don't take out loans; they use cash as they go along, and when it's finished, it's paid for," Foote said.

There are no electrical lines to the valley and no telephone lines. Jim Hemsell, who lives in a ferrocement dome that will eventually encompass 5,200 square feet, said the lifestyle isn't nearly as uncomfortble as it sounds.

"We have a color TV, lights, everything everyone else has," he said during a recent seminar at the community. "We have a system that uses solar electricty and batteries. We have a well for water, and the community eventually will have more wells."

The community doesn't have telephones now, he said. The cost of running lines for so few people would be prohibitive. Eventually, he said, telephones would be available.

Homeowners, join the association and attend meetings once a month. Every new home must be approved by the association as to design. Any future alteration must also be approved by the association. Use of pecticides, herbicides or other posions is prohibited, hunting or killing of wildlife is against the rules, and no one may split his property to sell part of it, according to the purchase agreement.

Loren Impson is building his home in the shape of a dragon's head.

"The rest of the dragon ends up being landscaping," he told people who attended the seminar. "These skylights are the dragon's nostrils, and in winter when smoke comes out, it'll look like the dragon's blowing smoke."

Impson is an expert in the ferrocement method, and he instructed students in the seminar in a hands-on demonstration.

"You don't know how to mix cement until you've mixed cement," he said.

The two-day seminar also included lessons in organic gardening, solar heating technology, landscaping and low-voltage technology. Tours of the homes took place throughout the day.

An earth sheltered home may cost as little or as much as one cares to put into it, Hemsell said. Cost of the lots range from $3,900 for a half-acre lot to $7,600 for an acre.

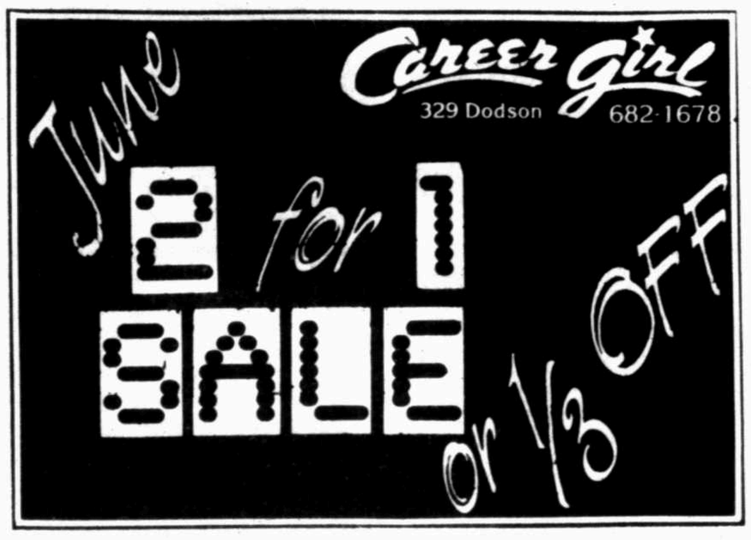

The houses range from about $500 for a 10-foot dome one man constructed by himself in about a week to the $100,000 Hemsell will have in his home when it's finished, he said.

Ricky Brito's house is not made of ferrocement but of wood. Though the slanted roof with skylights make it appear to be some winged creature that has landed on the hillside, inside it is much more conventional looking than the domed ferrocement houses. It will be earth sheltered, however, the back yard will be accessible only from the back door and will contain large redwood planters.

Defender takes bell-ringer title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's cable car bell-ringing contest ended on a familiar note with defending champion Carl Payne taking the crown for the seventh time.

"I don't try to do anything fancy," said Payne, 44, who overcame a stiff rope and balky new bell to win the contest recently.

"I don't switch hands in the middle, like some of the other fellows. I play it straight and I play it clean."

Each ringer had one minute to perform for the seven judges in the contest at Union Square.

Payne, playing with his finger in his ear to blot out distractions, hummed and counted the notes out loud.

White strongly backed McCotter for TDC position, paper reports

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas prison board had considered choosing another man as state prison director before Gov. Mark White intervened to ensure Lane McCotter got the job, the Houston Post reported Friday.

White said he expressed his opinion to members of the Texas Board of Corrections but did not know if he changed anyone's mind. "I didn't take any polls or anything," White said.

But sources told the Post that the governor had a much stronger role.

After learning last week that Raymond Procunier was resigning as Texas Department of Corrections director, most board members wanted to promote Steve Martin, TDC general counsel, according to sources quoted by the Post.

Martin received a firm offer and "had his speech ready" when the board voted 8-0 Monday afternoon for McCotter, the sources told the newspaper.

Over the weekend, McCotter had only two votes, Deralyn Davis and Tom McDade, the sources said.

White met Monday morning in Austin with four board members he appointed in February — Al Hughes, James Parsons, Dennis Hendrix and Robert Lane. A few hours later in a closed session in Huntsville, Martin had only two strong supporters, Hughes and board Chairman Bob Gunn.

Then in open session, the board voted unanimously for McCotter, TDC deputy director for operations.

Martin, Gunn and Procunier refused to comment on the matter.

Hughes said he asked for the meeting with White to get his views and that the governor's opinion. "He's a McCotter man," said Hughes, adding that the governor did not tell board members how to vote.

Police, Army at odds over source of weapons

DALLAS (AP) — Police are at odds with the U.S. Army over the source of a Dallas man's huge private weapons cache.

The Army said "very little" of a $1 million weapons cache can be traced to the Army. But Dallas police say they think the Army was the source of much of the weapons and munitions.

"These weapons can't be purchased commercially. They are marked U.S. Army," said police intelligence Capt. Greg Holliday.

When the cache was discovered in April 1984, officials said it was the largest private supply of weapons uncovered in U.S. history. The cache ranged from rockets and rifles to tents and Army uniforms.

Army spokeswoman Elaine Henrion said a 10-month Army investigation concluded that "what was found in Dallas was not all Army.

"Much of it was over 10 years old and came from other branches of the service and civilian sources like supply stores," she said. "Very little was traceable back to the Army."

She said many munitions boxes marked "U.S. Army" do not actually contain Army property.

"There could have been some commercial ammunition in the boxes marked Army," said intelligence Lt. Bill Patterson. "But there were also some boxes of military munitions, because military people at the scene told me that."

The Army investigation was completed in January, but the findings were not reported to Dallas authorities.

Holliday said he was disturbed at the Army's failure to inform police of the results of its inquiry.

Jury sentences ex-football star to nine years

DENTON (AP) — A jury has sentenced former professional football star Carl Garrett to nine years in prison for sexually assaulting a 12-year-old girl — despite testimony in his support from the girls' family.

Garrett, who appeared stunned by the verdict, maintained his innocence.

"I didn't touch that child," Garrett said Thursday. "I know I didn't do it. God knows I didn't do it. (The victim) knows I didn't do it. What else can I say?"

Alluding to racial overtones, Garrett, who is black, said black people are "put in jail all the time for things they didn't do." The 10-woman, two-man jury was white.

After capping nine years in professional football by playing on the Oakland Raiders' winning Super Bowl team in 1977, Garrett returned to his hometown of Denton.

About 12 percent of Houston elementary students flunking

HOUSTON (AP) — Some 12 percent of the elementary school students in Houston public schools flunked this year and will not be allowed to advance to the next grade as school officials implement a new tough promotion policy.

The 10,400 students who are being held back in their current grade level represents the highest percentage of failing students in more than a decade, according to Houston Independent School District records.

"I think it is very clear the new promotion policies are coming to bear very heavily," Superintendent Billy Reagan said after the statistics were released Thursday. "I would expect we will see at least this many or more in the future because people are going to be much more concerned about youngsters reaching a certain level of capability before they move on."

Most of the children who will repeat their classes are in the first or second grade. Nearly one-fourth of all the children are in the first grade, the statistics showed.

School officials say the tougher Houston policy is in line with a more stringent state promotion policy set to take effect in the upcoming school year.

Elementary student failures bottomed out at 4 percent in the 1974-75 school year and have been increasing since. Recently, Reagan said the district has been abandoning the practice of social promotion, where poor students are advanced so they can remain in classes with children their same age.

Teachers now, he said, were more concerned that language development is achieved in the early grades.

TDC board rejects inmate's request

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles on Friday rejected requests by Death Row inmate Charles Milton for a 90-day reprieve and commutation of his sentence to life in prison.

Milton is scheduled for execution early Tuesday in Huntsville.

Milton, 34, of Fort Worth, was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death for the 1977 slaying of a Fort Worth liquor store clerk.

Menaree Denton was shot and killed and her husband, Leonard, was wounded in the robbery attempt at their store. Leonard Denton identified Milton as the man who killed his wife of 38 years.

Parents of kidnapped girl think sentence too light

CLEBURNE (AP) — The parents of a 13-year-old Alvardo girl say the 35-year prison sentence given to one of her kidnappers was too light.

Daniel Walter Necker Jr., 22, was convicted of aggravated kidnapping Thursday in the Jan. 11-13 abduction of Amy McNiel, a seventh grader.

"What it boils down to is some people think kidnapping is not as serious a crime as other crimes," said her father, Don McNiel. "My view is that it is one of the most heinous crimes there is."

But Necker's parents said they thought the sentence was too severe.

"I don't think it was right," said Daniel Necker Sr., the defendant's father. "I don't think he got a fair trial. I think everything would have been different if the trial had been in Dallas or someplace else."

The father also said he was disappointed that a professor's testimony on the effects of drugs on someone was not admitted into evidence.

Necker had claimed he was so high on amphetamines that he wasn't aware the girl had been kidnapped until he saw her in a car with his uncle and two other men.

State District Judge John MacLean refused to allow the testimony because he said voluntary drug use cannot be used as a part of a defense of mental illness, and because the professor had not examined Necker to determine how the drug might have affected him.

The jury took 45 minutes to reach its guilty verdict, then deliberated two hours before deciding on the sentence.

Necker's uncle, James Wesley Foote, 34, of Arlington and Michael Lynn Mills, 28, of Dallas were sentenced in March to life in prison in the case and two others await trial.

The other two suspects in the kidnapping are Lisa Ann Bouvier, 19, of Balch Springs and George Thomas Barnes, 21, of Dallas.

Anti-abortion group ready to fight doctors' lawsuit

DALLAS (AP) — The head of the Abortion Abolition Society says his group is ready to fight back against a suit by two doctors accusing the society of defamation and slander.

Doctors Robert L. Prince and Myron H. Watkins have filed suit in state district court, asking for an order prohibiting members of the society from defaming them and trespassing while picketing their homes and the women's clinic they operate.

In their suit, the physicians ask for $1 million in damages from the society and from the man identified as the "captain" in charge of picketing.

Prince and Watkins said members of the society have harassed patients and accused the doctors of murder on picket signs diplayed at the clinic and their north Dallas homes.

Winston Wilder, president of the Abortion Abolition Society, denied that any wrongdoing by members of his organization.

He said picketers "haven't been getting on their (the doctors') property." He also denied that the doctors have not been defamed by members of the society.

"We only spoke the truth," he said.

Wilder also said the society will vigorously contest the suit.

"We're going to fight back," he said. "We have lots of legal counsel."

State District Judge John Whittington set a 9:30 a.m. Tuesday hearing on the doctors' request for an injunction.

Man pleads guilty to card fraud

HOUSTON (AP) — A California man accused of engineering what prosecutors called "one of the biggest credit card rings in the country" has pleaded guilty to charges of defrauding banks of more than $750,000.

Clifton W. Johnson, 30, of Los Angeles, faces up to 15 years in prison and fines of $60,000.

Chiropractor returns home after record-breaking flight

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A flying chiropractor is back home after making an end run around a wall of thundershowers that could give him 45 national and international aviation records instead of the 44 he set out to break.

Dan Bookout landed back home in his single-engine "Texarkana Baby" Thursday, three weeks to the day from his departure on what he hopes will be a record-setting odyssey.

He said it will take about 90 days to verify his records.

"My log is intact and complete with times and verifying initials so we should really be able to bring home the gold for Texarkana, USA," Bookout said.

On the final leg of his journey, he tried to fly non-stop from Honolulu to Miami, Fla., collecting the aviation records for time and distance along the way.

But thunderstorms forced Bookout — known as "Dr. Dan" — and the Piper Lance to land at El Paso, breaking the long-distance string.

"Unfortunately, we are not going to have 44 records," Bookout said. "It looks like we will have 45. The one long record that we were going for we couldn't get because of those thunderstorms, now has to be broken up into two separate records."

When the chiropractor, who said he hoped to draw attention to Texarkana by setting the records, left El Paso on Sunday night, the same line of storms which forced him down stood between him and Miami.

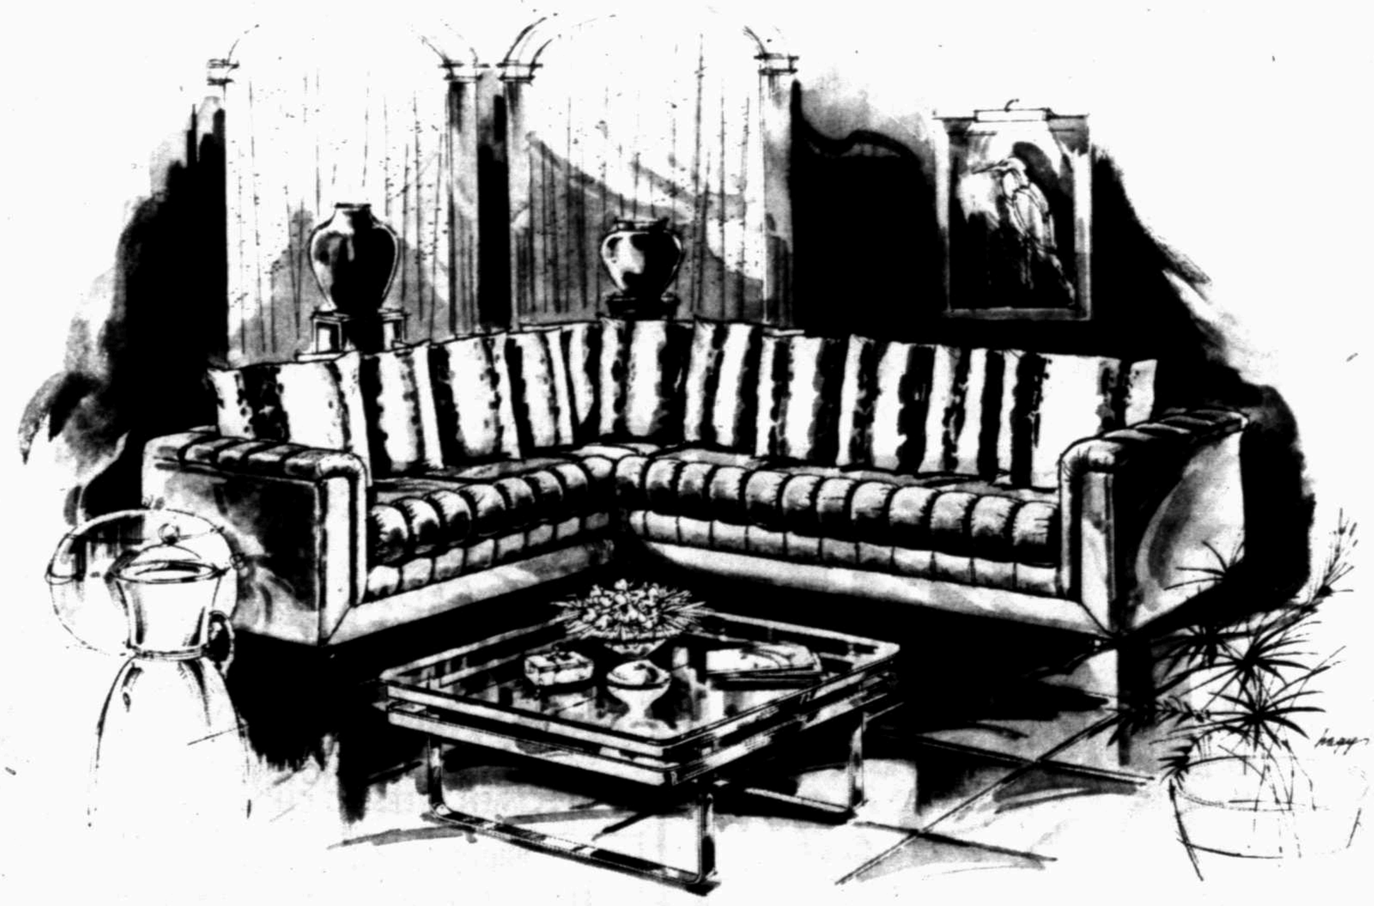

"I was able to get up north of them and make an end run.

Taxpayers should get refunds by end of July

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nearly 600,000 individual taxpayers who filed their returns by the April 15 deadline but have not yet received a refund should be getting a check by the end of July, the Internal Revenue Service said Friday.

IRS Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger told a House Ways and Means subcommittee that in the first two weeks of June, his agency had paid $5,985,000 in interest penalties to taxpayers for late payment of refunds.

The penalty is 13 percent, compounded daily. By law, the IRS must make refunds by June 1 for tax returns filed by the April 15 deadline.

Late penalties paid by the IRS for the same two-week period last year totaled $6,855,000, or nearly $900,000 more than this year. Egger could not estimate the total of interest penalties the IRS will pay this year.

IRS spokesman Scott Waffle said that from April 15 to Sept. 30, 1984, the IRS paid $209 million in all types of interest to individual taxpayers.

Egger said that because of delays stemming from the updating of the IRS computer network, the agency still has not processed 500,000 to 600,000 tax returns filed by April 15.

In some cases, he said, taxpayers were asked to send in a duplicate tax return because the original forms got lost in the new computer network.

Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, the subcommittee chairman, asked why.

Egger responded that the original returns are "in the system someplace. We will find them eventually...Some of the data did not come out of the system."

He said the IRS is asking taxpayers to help the IRS speed the process by filing a copy of the first return, clearly marked "duplicate" to avoid confusion with original in the IRS system.

Egger said taxpayers eventually would get a refund if they chose not to file a duplicate return, but it could take longer.

"We estimate that processing of timely filed 1984 returns will be virtually completed by the end of July," Egger said.

House, Senate far apart on budget compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — House negotiators on Friday proposed their own budget compromise that would protect 1986 Social Security benefit increases, and Senate bargainers immediately rejected it.

It was exactly the reverse situation from the day before, when the House bargainers shot down with little discussion a Senate-offered plan that would have retained the Senate's controversial one-year-freeze on Social Security benefits.

"We're still on square one," Sen. Lawton Chiles of Florida, senior Senate Democrat on the House-Senate conference committee on the budget, declared after Friday's session.

Both houses remain deeply divided over Social Security and defense spending. In two weeks of negotiations, the House-Senate conference committee has not agreed on a single major item.

As the impasse headed into a third week, House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, raised the possibility that the budget talks might collapse entirely.

He said the Democratic-led House would begin to work next month on spending bills with or without a budget agreement. "Failure of the conferees to agree is not going to delay us any further," Wright told reporters.

But some members of the conference panel were more optimistic of making progress toward agreement next week, now that negotiators have rejected each other's opening bid.

Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa., chairman of the House negotiators, said it was now time to "get down to brass tacks."

"We're prepared to give some more on domestic spending. But we want to see some movement on defense and on Social Security," Gray said.

Then, in a dramatic gesture, Gray offered to settle the dispute on the spot by agreeing to accept the higher Senate levels on defense spending for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 in exchange for Senate agreement to preserve Social Security cost-of-living increases.

"We'll give you defense if you give us COLAs (cost-of-living adjustments). What do you think of that?" Gray said.

However, before Senate bargainers had a chance to respond, other House negotiators interrupted to stress that Gray's bid was a personal offer. He withdrew it.

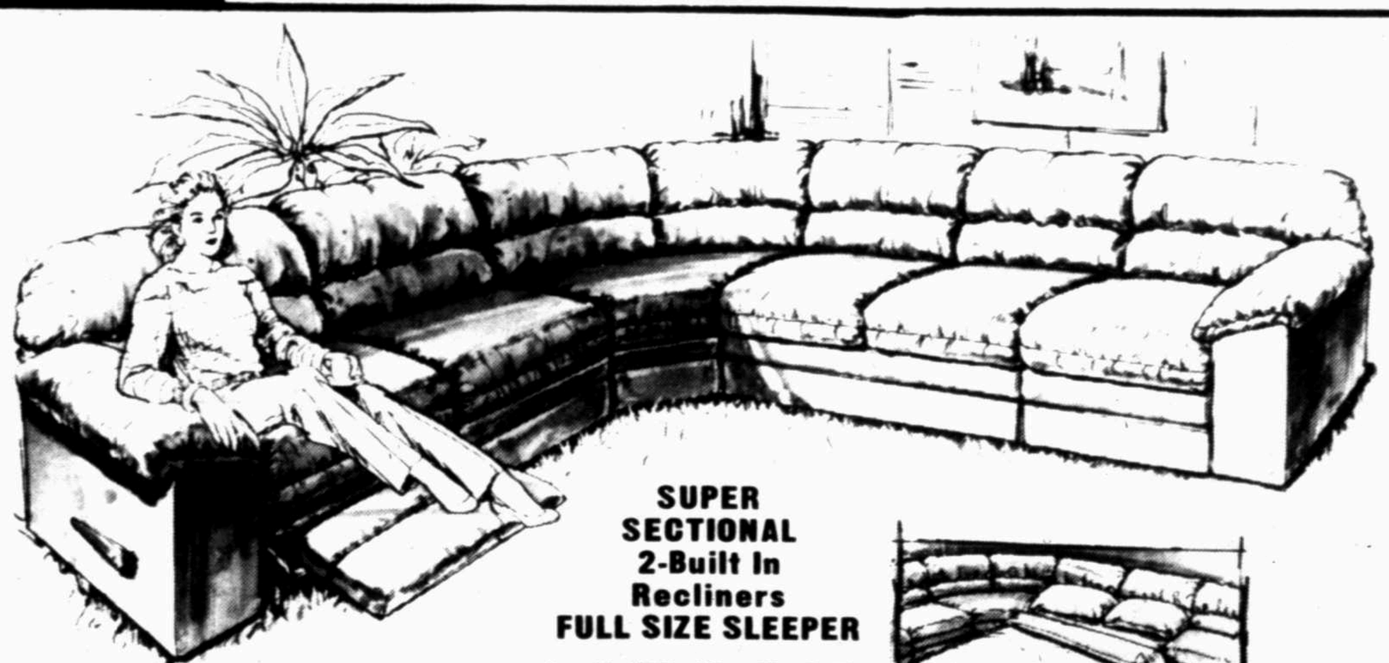

Gray said he still considered a compromise to be within reach. And, he reiterated earlier statements that all items — including protection of the Social Security increases — remained on the bargaining table.

Other House leaders, however, including Wright, said they had not intention of giving in to Senate pressure on Social Security.

Gene Barnett, retired, spends part of his time as a toll taker on the San Luis Pass Toll Bridge between Galveston Island and Brazoria County.

Toll taker enjoys seeing 'all kinds of sights'

SAN LUIS PASS (AP) — Taking tolls at the San Luis Pass Toll Bridge is not the average retirement activity.

And it is not the average part-time job.

But to retiree Gene Barnett being a toll collector at the bridge which adjoins Brazoria County to Galveston Island is not only a part-time retirement job, it is also a good way to meet people, to "break the monotony" and still have time to enjoy retirement leisure.

"I wouldn't want to get full time," Barnett said. "I worked for 40 years. Now I want to take time off and enjoy the rest of my life."

Toll collecting allows him to accomplish this goal.

"It's interesting," Barnett said. "You meet a lot of different people. You see all kinds of sights, especially on the weekends and holidays."

Although some people might think the job of a toll collector boring, Barnett said he has "just enough to do" to keep busy.

"It's not as bad as it sounds," he said. "We have a coffee maker, a color TV and an air conditioner. I can sit here and catch up on my reading."

Most of the time, though, Barnett talks to his customers and watches the activity on the beach. He has a number of stories to tell about "all kinds of oddball characters" and unusual events.

In the summer, he said, "it sometimes gets pretty hectic. We have a two-way radio and we're in touch with the sheriff and the beach patrol."

Not all his unusual experiences involve emergencies. One in particular that he enjoyed was meeting a cross-country cyclist on her way to the East Coast from California.

Barnett said a man once offered to leave his girlfriend as collateral until he could come back and pay his toll.

"He said he'd leave his girlfriend so I'd know he'd come back," he said.

One of the most interesting incidents, he adds, involved a woman who couldn't pay her toll because she forgot her purse.

Barnett let her through, he said, and didn't think of it again until the woman came by and reminded him of the incident.

"She said, 'Remember me? You were so nice I baked you a cake.' And she reached into the back seat and pulled out a chocolate cake,"

Daughter honors father's work on Mount Rushmore

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

MOUNT RUSHMORE NATIONAL MEMORIAL, S.D. — Jack "Palooka" Payne — prize fighter, merchant seaman, gambler, stonecutter and father — always wanted to be here the day his daughter climbed the mountain.

But the mountain that Payne loved would frustrate his dream. Years of breathing the fine rock dust he hammered from it ignited chronic diseases — silicosis and emphysema — that would choke his lungs and snuff out his life.

As the 74-year-old Payne lay dying in a Modesto, Calif., hospital in 1984, Jackie Maggio told her father she would follow the path he had walked hundreds of times a half century before, when he helped carve out the giant stone faces of Presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. Payne claimed credit for carving out Washington's nostrils and Lincoln's left eye.

"I told him, 'Daddy, if you don't get to go, I'll go.' And he squeezed my hand real tight. He knew he wasn't going to make it, but he knew I was," she said.

Early this week, Maggio, 41, of Los Angeles, clambered up Mount Rushmore to make good on her promise. As she leaned on an outcropping at the midway point, winded from the rugged climb through a rock-laden pine forest, her gaze fixed on the very top of Washington's head hundreds of feet above. Maggio said she was going to make it up there, "one way or another."

She carried a dozen pink roses in memory of her father and two white roses in honor of her uncle, Jimmy "Call Boy" Payne, who also worked on the monument.

Climbing the steep path with her were the memorial's chief ranger, Leo Zwetzig, and a close friend, Steve Hill.

"My legs don't want to climb any more," Maggio said as Hill pulled her over a small crevice about halfway to the top.

But the ascent continued on a steep metal ladder, past rusting equipment of the crews that from 1927 to 1941 chiseled out a mountain destined to awe millions as a shrine of democracy.

Maggio scrambled up the final ledge just as the wind blustered dangerously. Zwetzig, his hat grabbed by the wind and deposited on the rocks 400 feet below, yelled at the woman to keep low.

But the stonecutter's daughter was looking elsewhere, her eyes moving over the majestic Black Hills of western South Dakota.

"I remember him talking about standing on top of the mountain and feeling like he could see the rest of his life before him, like it was all there for the taking," Maggio said.

She placed the roses on the summit and put a rock over the stems to prevent the flowers from blowing away.

"It's everything my dad said it would be," declared a grinning Maggio, clutching a single pink rose she would keep for herself. "It feels like I've done what I was supposed to do.

"I was saying things to myself like, 'We made it Dad,'" she said with a sigh.

Last week's tribute was the first time Mount Rushmore National Memorial officials have allowed any ceremony on the summit to honor a former worker. The taxing route to the top is closed to the public. Maggio was given special permission because her father worked so long on the project, from 1929 to 1938.

Approximately 360 people worked on Mount Rushmore during the 14 years it took to complete the memorial after President Calvin Coolidge dedicated the project. But few labored on the mountain longer than Payne.

The monument was conceived by sculptor Gutzon Borglum who, until his death in 1941, directed the crews as they blasted away rock with dynamite and cut the stone to precise dimensions transferred from a scale model at the base of the mountain.

"He was a wonderful, eccentric guy — all full of ideas," Jack Payne said of Borglum in a 1982 interview. "He'd fire you in a minute if you talked back to him, but he'd always take you back. He took me back many times."

When private donations dwindled, federal funds financed more than 80 percent of the $1 million cost. But money kept running out, and work proceeded less than half of the time.

A typical crew consisted of 30 men — skilled drillers, powdermen, hoist operators and blacksmiths. Most, like Payne, were hard-drinking, poker-playing miners, who before the Mount Rushmore job had scoured tunnels under the Black Hills for gold.

Payne started as a laborer at 55 cents an hour, then worked as a winchman and a driller, and finally, a carver, making $1.25 an hour before he quit over a wage dispute.

Cigarette advertising budgets smoking, but less satisfying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's cigarette manufacturers are spending more and enjoying it less.

Cigarette advertising expenditures have topped the $2 billion mark for the first time ever, while sales declined for the first time since 1969, the Federal Trade Commission reported recently.

The study, one of a series of periodic reports to Congress, covers the years 1982 and 1983.

Cigarette sales totaled 632.5 billion in 1982, down 4 billion from the year before and the first decline since 1969, the report said. And the trend continued in 1983, with a 46-billion-cigarette drop to total sales of 584.4 billion cigarettes.

Per capita consumption of cigarettes has been declining since 1973, when it was 4,112 cigarettes per capita. In 1982, per capita cigarette consumption fell to 3,731 cigarettes, and in 1983 it was 3,447.

Meanwhile, the report said, "in 1982, for the first time, U.S. cigarette manufacturers spent almost $2 billion in promoting sales...an almost 25 percent increase over 1981 expenditures. By the end of 1983, advertising expenditures had increased to over $2.5 billion, an increase of 36 percent over the 1982 figure."

Cigarette manufacturers led all other national advertisers in newspaper advertising and ranked second in magazine advertising, the commission noted.

Magazines were the largest expense to cigarette sellers, however, accounting for $542.9 million in advertising, or 20.5 percent of all ad spending.

Second were newspapers at $441.4 million, followed by outdoor ads, $421.4 million; promotional allowances, $375 million; samples, $275 million, and point of sale advertising, $220 million.

While cigarette sales were not broken down by brand name name, the study said Marlboro, made by Philip Morris, was the largest advertiser, spending $75.8 million in 1982.

The commission began monitoring cigarette sales and advertising in 1965, when federal law began requiring all cigarette packages and ads to contain health warnings.

Bacon cheeseburgers top list of 'new worst' foods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bacon cheeseburgers, ham biscuits, fried chicken and stuffed potatoes — products sold by some of America's most popular restaurant chains — are cited by a consumer group as the "new worst" fast foods on the market because of high fat and salt content.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest, a private, nonprofit, consumer-oriented health research group, listed its choices as the nutritionally best and worst of the latest fast foods in the June edition of its newsletter, "Nutrition Action."

The center said seafood and salads are adding healthy choices to the American diet, but that while many new items on fast-food menus may appear nutritious, many are not.

When it compiled its original best and worst list two years ago, the center hailed baked potatoes as a welcome addition to fast foods. Today, one brand of stuffed potato is on the list of the five worst fast foods, thanks to toppings that add more salt and fat than many popular cheeseburgers.

"For every new truly 'light' entree introduced, two other fatty, fried or salt-laden companions seemed to appear," said the new report by Bonnie Liebman, a center nutritionist.

Nonetheless, her top choices for "best new" fast foods were Long John Silver's baked fish, Jack in the Box's shrimp salad and Wendy's low-calorie salad dressings.

Teacher denies inventing rape to cover pregnancy

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — An unmarried public school teacher who once spent three years in a convent denied in court Friday that she invented a story of being raped to justify a pregnancy and save her job.

"Does anyone have any evidence I ever messed around (sexually) before that date (of the alleged rape)?" Jeanne Eckmann asked, beginning to cry.

"No," said Miss Eckmann, 38, testifying in U.S. District Court in her $25 million civil rights and defamation suit against the Hawthorne School Board.

The board fired her in 1982 on grounds of immorality — citing her out-of-wedlock pregnancy — and incompetence.

John Wienold, the board attorney, asked Miss Eckmann on Friday to explain her differing accounts of the rape under oath.

"That was such a horrible time for me I could've said anything," she said.

"All I know is what happened. I'm not lying about it," Miss Eckmann said, her voice cracking. "It was Nov. 10, 1980. That is the date I was raped. I'll never forget that date."

School board trustees had testified earlier in the trial that they doubted the rape had occurred.

Wienold read from a 1982 deposition in which Miss Eckmann said a knife-wielding hitchhiker forced his way into her motel room and raped her.

NATION IN BRIEF

UC regents reject proposal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California regents Friday rejected a proposal to sell off nearly all of the system's $2.4 billion in South African investments within two years, and decided instead to review annually its investments in companies doing business there.

When the regents voted 14-9 to reject the stronger measure, demonstrators burst into angry jeers and at least one man attempted to reach the tables where the regents were sitting. Several of those inside were arrested, and dozens were arrested at the end of a march by the hundreds of demonstrators gathered outside.

The proposal approved on a 16-10 vote called for a committee to study, at least once annually, each company in which the university has investments and which does business in South Africa.

No new trial for 'HBO kid'

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A judge refused to grant a new trial to the television repairman known as the "HBO Kid," who was convicted of masterminding what prosecutors called one of the nation's biggest cable-theft operations.

Lackawanna County Judge James M. Munley on Thursday ruled arguments for a new trial were without merit. Defense attorney Robert Borthwick had alleged insufficient evidence and errors by Munley.

Frank Cardamone, 26, of Taylor, who admitted installing about 1,100 cable converters for $60,000 over five years, faces up to 14 years in prison.

Judge authorizes abortion

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A judge on Friday authorized an abortion for a brain-diseased 35-year-old woman who became pregnant after being raped while strapped to a bed in a convalescent hospital.

"If the condition is left untreated, it could probably result in death," said Orange County Superior Court Judge Henry T. Moore in granting a request by the woman's parents for emergency conservatorship, which gives them the authority to seek the abortion.

Media face 'extremely tough situation in Beirut'

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly two hours elapsed between the chaotic news conference for five American hostages from TWA Flight 847 and broadcast of the film to this country, and the delay Thursday underscored the obstacles faced by television in covering the unfolding crisis.

"It's an extremely tough situation in Beirut to begin with," said Jerry Lamprecht, general manager for foreign news for NBC News. "Just getting from our office downtown to the airport can be a problem. Sometimes they let you through without any trouble, and sometimes they don't."

All of the networks have reported videotape confiscated and correspondents harassed while covering the hostage story.

Nonetheless, coverage of the takeover and aftermath has been intense, with the three networks, ABC, CBS and NBC, frequently breaking into scheduled programming to report developments.

Through midday Friday, for instance, ABC "World News Tonight" anchorman Peter Jennings had delivered 44 such special reports.

Network presence in Beirut was minimal when the Athens-to-Rome flight was hijacked a week ago. Most correspondents and camera crews, along with print journalists had left Lebanon in recent months, in part because they were seen as easy targets for terrorist kidnappers. By last weekend, many had returned to report on the hostage situation.

"I still worry about their security," said Jennings, who was ABC's chief Middle East correspondent for six years, "but I don't believe it is as much a problem right now as it might become."

Jennings speculated that American correspondents probably are seen by the hostages' captors as "fairly useful" at the present time, and as a result less likely to be harmed.

Coverage of Thursday's airport news conference was difficult for another reason: The networks cannot transmit videotape by satellite from Lebanon, and must ship the broadcast material to Cyprus in the Mediterranean Sea or Damascus in neighboring Syria, for relay.

ABC, CBS, NBC and Cable News Network agreed in advance that the first film of the news conference to reach any transmission point would be pooled, or made available to all four at the same time, NBC's Lamprecht said.

The initial package reached Cyprus by air, and was relayed to this country shortly before 4 p.m. EDT, Lamprecht said. Less than an hour later, he said, a second batch delivered to Damascus by automobile was broadcast.

Though the networks cooperated on coverage of the news conference, the scramble to be first with developments has resulted in a number of journalistic coups. ABC News' interview with John Testrake, the pilot of the hijacked jetliner, broadcast Wednesday morning, may have been the most notable.

Thursday's airport news conference offered reporters the first glimpse of any of the 37 hostages still in the hands of Shiite Moslem militiamen, though network officials recognized the event as an effort by the captors to use television for political objective.

That attempt may have backfired, one network correspondent theorized.

"It seemed to me that they were trying to accomplish two things with the news conference," said John Chancellor, the NBC News commentator. "I think they wanted to exert pressure on President Reagan to make a deal (for release of the hostages), and they were attempting to say to the world, 'We in Amal are decent human beings involved in a political movement.'

"I don't think it worked in either case," said Chancellor, who suggested the vivid picture of five Americans surrounded by their armed captors may instead have stirred anger among viewers in this country.

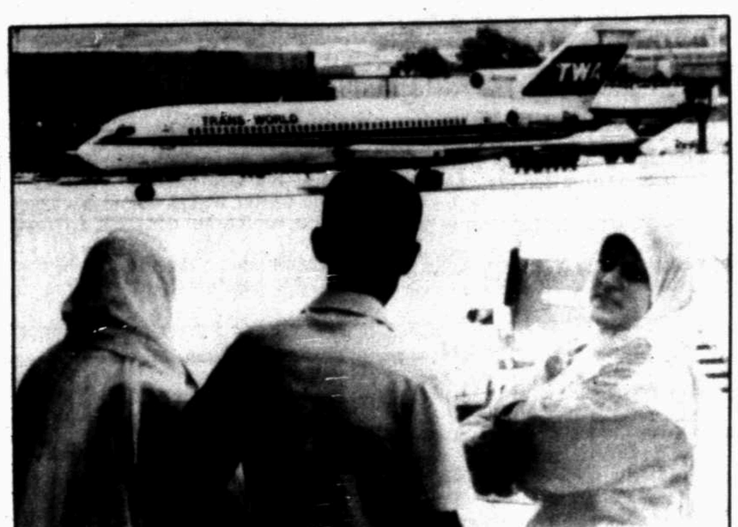

The five captives sat at a long table surrounded by militiamen, many of them armed. Several times, the voice of the American spokesman, Allyn Conwell of Houston, was drowned out by shouting in the crowded room, and there was some scuffling between the captors and journalists.

Chancellor drew a contrast between the effect of TV coverage of the hostage crisis in Iran in 1979 and the current situation.

"The first thing we all saw in the U.S. as the Iranian thing developed was pictures of the hostages being shoved around, people burning the American flag, and the exotic characters parading in front of the embassy.

"This was different," Chancellor said, "because before the news conference we hadn't seen the hostages, and the whole thing did not produce the hard, hysterical edge to the story we had in Iran.

"Now," he said, "I sense the pictures are stirring up anger in the U.S."

FBI, AJC: Stewardess did not pick Jews from list

NEW YORK (AP) — The senior flight attendant aboard the hijacked TWA flight was wrongly pictured as helping the hijackers pick out hostages with Jewish-sounding names, the FBI and a leading Jewish spokesman said Friday.

"We are persuaded that Uli Derickson has gotten a bum rap," said Rabbi Marc Tannenbaum of the American Jewish Committee, who reviewed the issue with representatives of other major Jewish groups.

"Uli Derickson was found to have absolutely no complicity with the hijackers of TWA Flight 847," the FBI said in a statement issued by William Baker, an assistant director. The statement said she acted heroicly.

Tannenbaum described as a "non-issue" reports that "this German-born flight attendant singled out 'Jewish-sounding' names of the American hostages and handed them over to the fanatic Shiite hijackers."

The reports were based on one answer she gave Sunday, after her release, at a news conference where questions flew rapidly and sometimes overlapped other questions and answers.

Miss Derickson was the crew member through whom the terrorists, one of whom spoke German, communicated in the early stages of the hijacking. She said the hijackers asked her for the passports of people with Jewish-sounding names.

At one point a questioner said, "How many were there that you picked out with Jewish-sounding names?" and Miss Derickson responded, "Six. Or seven, I believe."

Asked after that whether she had picked out the names, she said she had not. She said she collected every passport, but it was the terrorists who picked out people they assumed to be Jewish.

Nonetheless, Miss Derickson and TWA then came under attack in the press and parliament in Israel over the impression that she cooperated in the winnowing of names.

TWA asserted that Miss Derickson challenged the hijackers about their assumptions of who might be Jewish and repeatedly told them that a name was not a tip-off to religion.

Tannenbaum and six other Jewish leaders reviewed what Miss Derickson told TWA officials and what she said at a news conference following her release by the hijackers.

Carter says Americans should fully support Reagan

ATLANTA (AP) — Jimmy Carter, criticized during his presidency by Ronald Reagan for "doing nothing" as 52 Americans were held hostage in Iran, said Friday the nation should give his successor "full support" over the current Beirut hostage crisis.

Breaking his silence on the crisis in Lebanon, Carter said, in a statement issued from his Atlanta office: "Rosalynn and I pray that all those being held hostage will soon be free and reunited with their families.

"I know from personal experience how difficult it is to deal with the kidnapping and prolonged holding of innocent Americans."

Carter issued his statement one week after the hijacking of TWA Flight 847. Forty Americans are being held in Lebanon by Shiite Moslems who took command of the plane after it left Athens, Greece.

In his remarks, Carter referred to his struggles to free the American hostages held in Iran for more than a year. That siege ended in 1981, on the day he left office and Reagan was inaugurated.

"As president, my greatest need during the Iranian hostage crisis was the sustained support of the American people," he said. "Now, although we may have many different opinions concerning what action should be taken, it is important that all of us give President Reagan our full support and encouragement."

Reagan, while campaigning for president in Illinois in 1980, said that he did not know how he would get the hostages out of Iran, "but I certainly wouldn't stand by and do nothing."

That same year, he blasted Carter's administration for having "helped create the entire situation that made their (the hostages') kidnap possible."

But Carter now refuses to criticize Reagan publicly.

Under the circumstances of a hostage standoff, "Our leaders have a dual responsibility," he said, "to guard the honor and the interests of our nation and to protect the lives and safety of the hostages while doing our utmost to secure their early release.

Scores of arrests made after Nepal bombings

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Scores of arrests were reported Friday, the day after five homemade terrorist bombs exploded in this peaceful Himalayan city of temples, killing at least seven people and wounded 24.

The kingdom's official news agency said police had found nearly 100 unexploded bombs.

One of the explosions Thursday blew down the lobby roof of the luxury Annapurna Hotel and another tore the door off the National Assembly chamber, killing a legislator.

Four people were killed at the Annapurna, and rescue workers spent the night digging through the debris for more victims. The bomb was planted behind the reception desk.

It was not clear who the arrested people were and no one claimed responsibility, but police suspected the political opponents of King Birendra, who have mounted increasing protests against the monarchy. The main opposition party said all its leaders were jailed, and Home Ministry sources and other officials said about 125 arrests had been made.

Neither the Home Ministry nor official sources within it would say whether authorities had determined who was behind the attacks.

Some frightened foreign tourists were leaving this temple-filled city of 195,000 people, which nestles in the lush Katmandu Valley near Mt. Everest. Police patrolled the streets and soldiers guarded government buildings, monuments and key power, communications and transportation centers.

Two bombs exploded at gates of the royal palace in the closely timed string of explosions Thursday, the first major terrorist attack in Nepal. The others went off at the National Assembly, the government office complex and the hotel, which is partly owned by the royal family.

Police said the bombs were dynamite sticks with timing devices, surrounded with nuts and bolts to cause shrapnel injuries.

A policeman said an unexploded bomb found in the National Assembly gallery was disguised "like a wicker basket of fruit." He said it contained 20 dynamite sticks, a wristwatch timer and a simple electronic detonator, surrounded by nuts and bolts.

Bombs also exploded Thursday in two Nepalese towns, Bhairahawa and Dhangarhi, wounding at least three people.

The government figure on the total casualties is seven dead and 24 wounded. Other reports put the dead at nine and wounded at 27.

The bomb blitz came the day after the 39-year-old king told his opponents he would thwart any "attempt to undermine peace and order" in the kingdom.

On Friday, the Home Ministry said, "His Majesty's government will take stern action against the terrorists."

Many of the recent protests have been organized by the outlawed Nepali Congress Party, which demands a return to multiparty rule abolished in 1960 by Barendra's father, King Mahendra, in favor of a partyless system.

Sagar Rana, a party member, told reporters Friday it had suspended its month-old campaign because of the violence.

"We have nothing to do with these explosions," he said. "Our movement is peaceful."

He said those party leaders not already in jail were arrested after the bombings, and "until they are free and can decide the future course of action the agitation is off."

Norwegian hijacker surrenders

OSLO, Norway (AP) — An armed man who wanted to see the prime minister hijacked a jetliner with 120 people aboard Friday, but surrendered in exchange for beer, police reported.

Authorities identified the hijacker only as a 24-year-old former convict who had been drinking when he boarded the Boeing 737. They said he commandeered it on a flight from Trondheim to Oslo, threatening a hostess with a gun.

The Braathen airline plane landed almost on time at Oslo's Fornebu airport, where all 115 passengers were permitted to leave in three groups in the ensuing three hours.

Police said the hijacker took up his station in a toilet, kept the two pilots and three hostesses covered, and demanded a steady supply of beer. He gave up an hour after the passengers were gone, however, to a single policeman who refused to give him any more beer unless he traded his pistol for it.

Police spokesman Torodd Veiding said the man had spoken bitterly of his treatment by authorities and demanded that Prime Minister Kaare Willoch and Justice Minister Mona Roekke hear his complaints personally.

Will Quebec party push separatism again?

QUEBEC (AP) — The campaign to succeed Quebec Premier Rene Levesque opened Friday, sparking a contest that could determine whether the Parti Quebecois returns to the hard-line separatism Levesque had rejected.

The premier, whose vision of taking Quebec out of Canada to become an independent French-speaking nation fell short in a decisive May 1980 referendum, submitted his resignation as party chief just before midnight Thursday.

All party members will be eligible to vote for the new leader at a date still to be set in August or September. The Parti Quebecois executive committee met Friday to discuss the organization, timing, spending limits and other details of the leadership campaign, the first in the party's history.

Levesque has been party president since its founding in 1968 and premier of Quebec since 1976.

Marcel Leger, an executive committee member and tourism minister, said Levesque would be remembered as "the best and most-loved prime minister Quebec has ever had."

Justice Minister Pierre-Marc Johnson, a moderate, is the early favorite to succeed Levesque as party leader and premier.

He was the clear winner in an internal dispute last fall and winter, which ended with Levesque proposing to drop independence as an immediate party goal.

The Johnson-Levesque position was approved by a 2-1 margin at a party convention in January, but many hard-liners have remained active, hoping their group could win back control of the party once Levesque was gone.

Former Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau, who resigned in protest of the decision to drop independence, has been mentioned often as a likely candidate. Of those who stayed with Levesque, External Trade Minister Bernard Landry is considered pro-independence and likely to challenge Johnson.

Whoever wins the party leadership may be premier only briefly. A provincial election is expeed this fall and must be called by April 1986 at the latest and the opposition Liberals are more than 30 points ahead in recent public opinion polls.

Robert Bourassa, who was Liberal premier from 1970-76, is campaigning hard to regain the job, promising to improve Quebec's economic climate and launch a giant hydroelectric program to export 12,000 megawatts of electricity to the United States.

Parti Quebecois officials hope choosing a new leader to replace Levesque will help win back popular support.

Levesque, 62, has been a major figure in Quebec for 30 years, first as a star television journalist, then as a Cabinet minister in a Liberal government who directed the nationalization of Quebec's electric power companies.

Weekend to be hot, sunny one

From Staff and Wire Reports

The first weekend of summer promises to be a hot and sunny one, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Today will be clear with a high in the low 90s and winds from the southeast at 5-15 mph. After a partly cloudy night with a low near 70, Sunday should again be hot and sunny, with a high in the mid-90s.

Friday's high of 98 was 9 degrees below the record high for the date of 107, set in 1933, while the overnight low of 66 was 6 degrees above the 1973 record of 60.

STATE

Rain and a few heavy thunderstorms Friday covered east and southeast portions of Texas, while skies were partly cloudy elsewhere in the Lone Star State.

A weak cold front edging into the northern High Plains coupled with the heat prompted the National Weather Service to issue a severe thunderstorm watch Friday effective until midnight for the northeastern Panhandle.

Temperatures mostly were in the upper 80s and middle 90s, except in Southeast Texas where readings were in the 70s.

Thunderstorms also were reported in the Davis Mountains and the High Plains. The tropical disturbance spread across the South Texas coastal plains near Kingsville, the weather service said.

Galveston had 1.40 inches of rain by 4 p.m. Friday, and it also was the coolest spot with 73 degrees, the weather service said. It was 99 degrees in Wink.

West Texas should be partly cloudy through Sunday with isolated thunderstorms in the Panhandle on Saturday. The lows Saturday night should range from the middle 60s to the lower 70s. Highs Saturday and Sunday should range from the 90s to 104 degrees.

NATION

Thunderstorms and hail pounded Minnesota and North Dakota on Friday, while at least five southeastern states reported record-cold temperatures for the first day of summer.

Less severe thunderstorms and showers moved over New Hampshire, Maine, the Gulf coast and portions of Kansas and Missouri. Fair skies prevailed over the western third of nation, while clouds covered much of the Atlantic coast.

Marble-sized hail pelted Grand Marais, Minn., and Kathryn, N.D. The storms brought sudden heavy rains to both states, with 2.15 inches of rain falling in Dickey, N.D., in 20 minutes.

Midland's Whiteside captures WT lead

Ron Jeap/Reporter Telegram

Midland's Steve Whiteside shows the form that helped him gain the second round lead in the Men's West Texas golf tournament.

Burttschell balloons to 75, Estes stays in hunt with 67

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

It looks like the 57th Men's West Texas Amateur golf tournament is headed for a playoff.

Midland's Steve Whiteside leads by two strokes over Abilene's Bob Estes, but both figure a four-under total of 275 Sunday night will win it.

First-day leader Daryl Burttschell of Southwest Texas State ballooned to a 75-142 while Whiteside, finishing in the first championship flight foursome of the day, posted a 67 for a two-day total of 135 and appeared to have a headlock on first place and, perhaps, the championship.

Even the former Midland Lee and Texas A&M golfer was feeling pretty good about things. "With a par on the last two rounds, I'd come in at five-under 275. I'd settle for that right now. That is unless Bob Estes gets hot."

As it happened, Estes, the University of Texas freshman who helped make Abilene Cooper a state championship perennial, got hot. After an opening 70, he came back in the sometimes blustery weather to fire a 67-137.

That left Estes in position to make a run at the "275 I think will win it."

Play in the championship flight's third round begins at 8 a.m.with the other flights teeing off after the title flight golfers.

WHITESIDE, who won three Green Tree club titles in a row before Alan Williams beat him last year, had just one bogey, "That was on No. 12 when I went over the green. I had a lot of birdie putts and made birds on four, seven, 14 and 17. I had an eight-foot eagle putt on the par five 14th that I didn't make after a driver and wedge to reach the green.

"I hit the ball better than I did the first day. No, the wind wasn't that much of a factor, but it was worse in the morning than later," he added.

For Estes, his 67 was much like Thursday's 70, "I didn't make too many putts and on the last hole I had a chance for a birdie, but was long. It's a good course," Estes commented, "It's not tough, except for where they place the pins on the greens. It seemed like I was always putting off mounds and slopes."

After 36 holes, in which 150 made the cut, it was anything but a two-man race. Burttschell was tied with David Pritchett, Midland High and Midland College, and defending champion Arnold Salinas, Fort Worth, at 142.

Burttschell hit his second shot on No. 10 out of bounds, over the green and through the fence, and took a seven, the difference between a 75 and 72.

SALINAS CAME back from a 72 to shoot a 70,"I played better than yesterday, although I was hitting the ball about the same. I didn't make too many putts. That's my problem right now. I missed a three-foot eagle on 18 and four other putts under three and four feet."

The Fort Worth veteran is another who would settle for five-under, and while most of the golfers were complaining about the variable winds, Salinas said, "I wish it would blow harder. I need a strong wind."

Estes explained it was because Salinas "hits a low ball and he isn't bothered by the wind. Frankly, I like the wind, too. The harder it blows, the better chance I have. In the wind, I play birdie golf and when there is no wind, I play par golf."

Pritchett is also sitting in good shape at 142, shot a 72 to go with his opening 70. Pritchett missed a three foot putt on 18 for the bird and spike marks got him on three other putts.

Stephen Long, a former Texas Tech golfer from Australia who now calls Lubbock home, shot a 75 after an opening round 69 to slip to 144. "I hit some errant drives and wound up with some 25 to 35 foot putts. The greens are fast and I hit a few spots. And the greens are firm, which means you've got to hit a good shot to hold the green."

Whiteside agreed, "You've got keep your drives in the fairway to score."

TIED WITH Long at 144 were Don Morris and Jobe Moss, both who took 74s after opening round 70s.

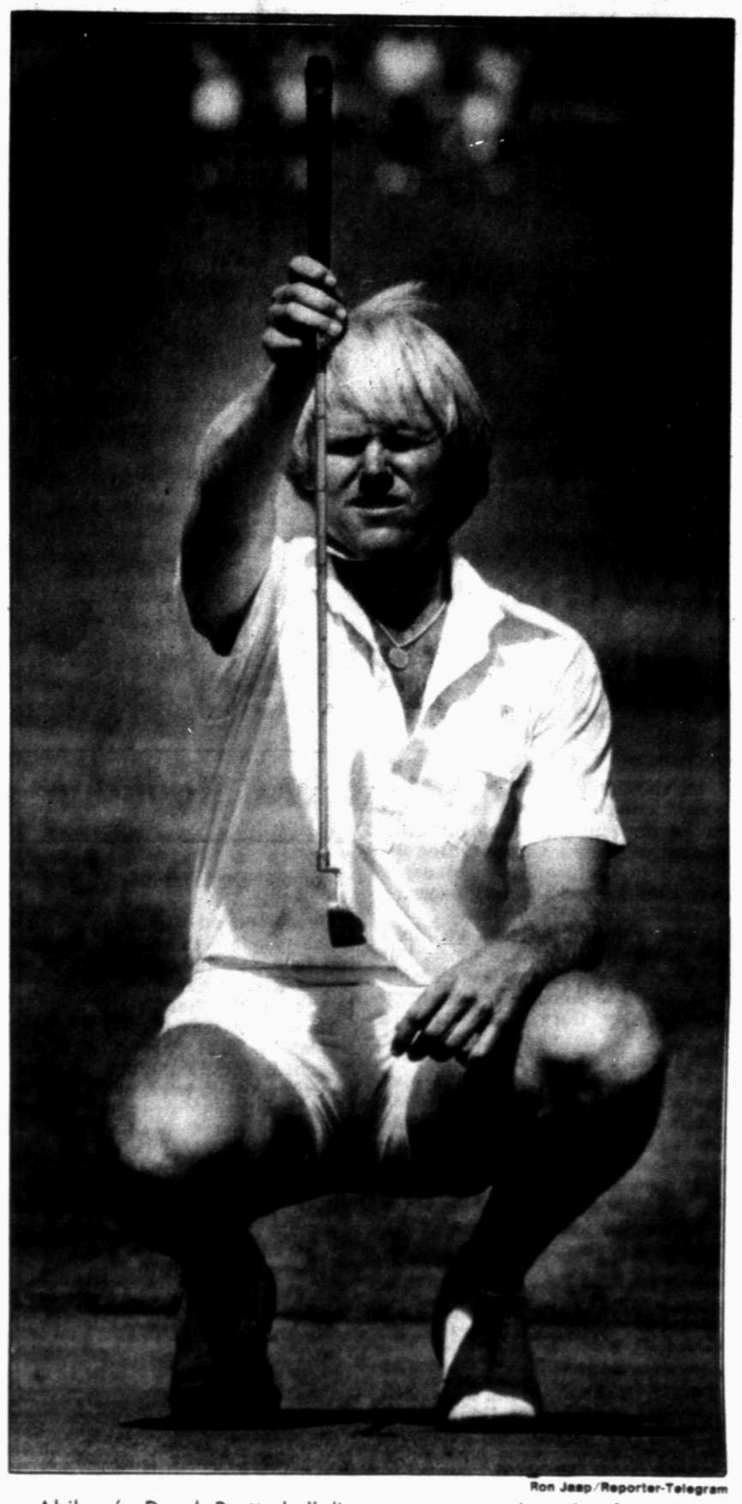

Cole Thompson, a teammate of Estes' at Cooper and Texas, shot a 76 to lag back in the pack at 148, but took it philosophically, "It's a tough game. Sometimes things just don't go the way you want them to."

Also bunched at 148 Steve Lindgren, Alan Williams and Jeff Cranford. Williams did the most to improve his position by shooting a 73. Lindgren and Thompson both took 76s after 72s the first day.

The scores were a bit of a surprise to host pro Bob Pritchett. "The course is playing tougher than I expected. The 67s are good, but I expected we'd have five or six of them."

The golfers who failed to make the 25-man championship flight will start over from scratch with 36 holes of play in the championship flight.

Play in the first and second flights move into the second round of match play today while Bill Lupardus of Ranchland Hills holds a two-stroke edge over Fort Worth's Bill Reed in the Seniors flight. Lupardus shot a gross 70. Fred Lawson, Bob Riek, Bill St. Clair and Buddy Redden are deadlocked for third at 76.

Gators' Vosberg blanks Angels

From Staff Reports

BEAUMONT — The Midland Angels fell from the ranks of second half unbeaten teams Friday night, dropping a 4-0 Texas League decision here to the Beaumont Golden Gators.

Thursday, the Angels opened second half play with a 6-5 victory. Midland and Beaumont are both 1-1 in the second half of the season.

Beaumont's Ed Vosberg pitched a nifty five-hit shutout, allowing nothing but singles, while walking one batter and striking out three. The victory improves Vosberg's record to 5-4 on the year.

Of the five hits the Angels managed, Devon White came up with two. Mark McLemore, James Randall and Reggie Montgomery accounted for the other three.

Angel starter Bob Kipper went six innings to suffer the defeat and fell to 1-1.

Beaumont opened the scoring in the third inning with a double by Shane Mack down the left field line followed by a sacrifice fly by Rigo Rodriguez and a game-winning sacrifice fly by Mark Wasinger, who went 2-for-3 for the game with two RBI.

In the fourth inning, John Tutt hit a solo home run to extend the lead to 2-0, his third round-tripper of the year. The Gators picked up their third run in the seventh inning when Wasinger walked and Gary Green Singled. Wasinger ended up scoring when Angel shortstop Kevin Davis booted Greg Smith's grounder.

In the eighth, the Gators came up with their final run of the game. Mack led off with a walk and scored on singles by Rodriguez and Wasinger.

Kipper, who went six innings for the Angels, gave up eight hits and two of the Gator runs while walking none and striking out one. Spiro Psaltis saw two-thirds of an inning of duty, gave up one hit and an unearned run while walking one in his return to action as a reliever.

Tonight, the Angels and Gators will snap their 1-1 series and second half deadlock when they meet at 7:30 p.m. The Gators have scheduled Mike Mills, 5-2, while the Angels are countering with Doug Manning, 0-0, who was called up from the Angels' A farm team.

Twins fire Gardner, hire Ray Miller

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Billy Gardner, manager of the Minnesota Twins since 1981, was fired Friday and Ray Miller, pitching coach for the Baltimore Orioles, was named to succeed him, team officials announced.

"The situation has become such . . . that we felt it was in the best interests of the team to make a change," Twins' President Howard Fox said in a prepared statement.

THE TWINS, who have lost 19 of their last 25 games, ended a disastrous series Thursday night in Kansas City, losing three of four games, most by large margins.

Miller faced his first test Friday night, as the Twins met the Texas Rangers in the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome.

Before the game, Twins players Mickey Hatcher and Ron Davis commented about the change in managers.

"I was close to Billy," said Davis, the Twins' top relief pitcher. "He ripped me a lot, but he also used me a lot. I have nothing bad to say about Billy."

Hatcher, an outfielder, said he thought Miller would do a better job of motivating the Twins.

Billy Gardner
...handed the ax

"We're going to play for this guy," he said. "If you screw up, he's going to take you aside and you won't read it in the paper."

Fox said Miller's contract extends through 1986. He is the Twins' 10th manager.

"I know what it takes (to win) and hopefully I'll be able to apply that here," Miller, 40, told a news conference. "This is a team that has a chance to win now . . . and win in the future."

Since Miller became the Orioles' pitching coach in January 1978, the team has produced five 20-game winners — Jim Palmer in 1978, Mike Flanagan in 1979, Steve Stone and Scott McGregor in 1980 and Mike Boddicker in 1984.

Unlike Gardner, who lived in a motel during the baseball season, Miller said he plans to settle in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

"I would not want to be a suitcase manager — to live in another city and fly in and out," Miller said.

The Twins' new leader, who said he has wanted to be a major league manager since 1980, spent 10 years pitching in the minor leagues after signing with San Francisco in 1964.

The decision to fire Gardner was made Friday morning, and came after "a very difficult and trying time," Fox said.

"Maybe you and the rest of us have been disappointed at the way our ball club has performed," Fox told a reporter. "We made a decision (that) we need to change."

Gardner has been offered another job within the Twins' organization, but Fox declined to say what it was.

"I think Billy feels he needs a rest," Fox said. "I think he wants to go home and enjoy himself."

Gardner was en route Friday to his Waterford, Conn., home and was not expected to arrive until late Friday night, his wife Barbara said in a telephone interview.

MILLER BECAME Baltimore's minor league pitching instructor in 1974. After four years in that position, he was appointed major league pitching coach at Texas following the 1977 season, but rejoined the Orioles in that capacity in January 1978.

He and his wife, Judith Ann, live in New Athens, Ohio. They have a son, Scott, 19.

During an interview three weeks ago with the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, Gardner, 57, said he believed the team was as good as any other in the league.

Gardner said he based that assessment on "the players, the past years they've had."

Aggie Land finds 357-pound beef

By RANDY RIGGS
Austin American-Statesman

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Bearing a startling resemblance to a real estate development with legs is a good news-bad news mixed bag for Marshall Land, Texas A&M's 6-foot-7, 357-pound (and falling) offensive tackle.

The bad: "I can't ride the roller coaster at Astroworld."

The good: "People give me lots of room on the dance floor."

Marshall Land can, indeed, cut a mean rug. When he boogies, the building woogies. When he shakes, things tend to rattle and roll.

"And when he gets you down," said Aggie defensive end Rod Saddler, "brother, you stay down."

WHEN LAND throws his weight around, seismographic needles tremble. When he first arrived at Texas A&M, he could have lost 100 pounds and still been the second heaviest player on the team. As it is, he's wasted away to a mere 357 pounds, on his way, he hopes, to a wimpy 330 or thereabouts.

And if he reaches 330, precious little of it will be fat. Tests have shown that even if he had an impossible-to-attain zero percent body fat content, Land would weigh about 310 pounds. An ideal body-fat content percentage for athletes is 15 percent. If Land manages that, he'll still weigh 340 pounds.

"Well," he said, not the least defensively, "I've always been pretty big."

It began, presumably, when Land came into this world 21 years ago weighing 13 pounds, 8 ounces.

The biggest Aggie was one of the biggest surprises of spring practice. The product of Baytown Lee High School, who arrived at A&M via Texas Tech (briefly) and Sacramento, Calif., City College, showed enough agility to go with his size to challenge Louis Cheek for the starting berth at left tackle.

CHEEK STANDS 6-6 and weighs 280. At right tackle is Doug Williams (6-6, 290). Compared to Land, they're a couple of shrimps. Of course, compared to Land, who isn't?

The lad, after all, wears a size 60 suit. He has a 50-inch waistline, but must wear size 58 pants to get over his thighs, which are 32 inches in circumference — each.

"Gotta get my suits made special. Everything else, I can buy off the rack...not much of a selection, though," mused Land, who wore adult clothes when he was 13.

Land inherited his size from his great-great grandfather, who, legend has it, stood over 7 feet tall, weighed more than 400 pounds and tromped around in size 23 shoes.

Lands' parents are not exceptionally big — his dad is 6-4 and weighs 225 and his mother is about 5-3, 130. He passed his father on the scale in junior high. When he reported to Forest Brook High School as a freshman, Land was 6-5, 265.

Transferring to Baytown Lee as a sophomore, Land was a four-sport star — football, basketball, track and dinner. The summer before his senior year, his weight rocketed from 280 pounds to 330. So much for basketball. His appetite, he admits, was exceedingly healthy. Land never was mistaken for being anorexic.

"I used to eat a lot," he confessed. "It used to be nothing for me to eat a pound of bacon, eight eggs and at least a half a loaf of bread, just for breakfast. I mean, I was putting away 5,000 calories each morning."

One look at Land convinced A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill that a diet would be in order. Sherrill brought in an old friend from Pennsylvania, Dr. Anthony Conte, a weight specialist, to test Land and bring some sanity to his menu.

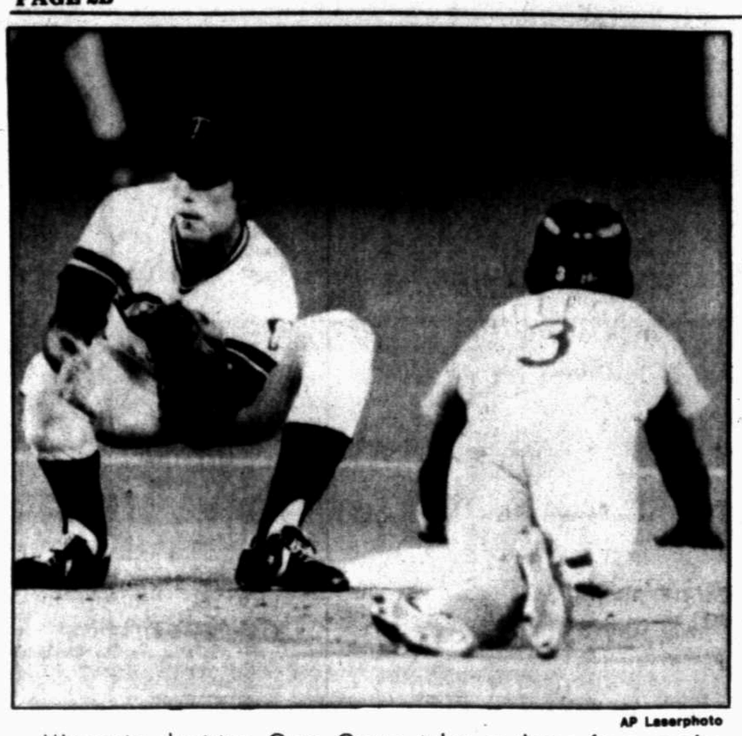

NOW, LAND eats less than 1,000 calories a day on a diet that allows fruits and vegetables as well as high-protein liquid supplements.

"I thought it would be miserable, but it hasn't been too bad," he said. "I used to be a gulper, but I've learned to chew my food. I don't get too hungry."

"His body is on a seek-and-destroy mission for fat," said Conte, who treated Sherrill and several of his players when Sherrill coached at Pitt. "Marshall's just naturally big, though. He has extremely large muscles and bones."

There was a time when Land considered that more a curse than a blessing. As a youngster, he was the butt of jokes and the victim of weight discrimination.

"I had to take a lot," he said. "Kids would laugh at me behind my back, but I knew what they were laughing at. They'd call me fatty, fatso, things like that, because they knew I wouldn't do anything to them. I wasn't a cruel kid. I didn't bully anybody."

Twins nip Texas under Miller

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Mark Salas lined a two-run single with two outs in the ninth inning, capping a three-run rally Friday night that lifted the Minnesota Twins and new Manager Ray Miller to a 3-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Charlie Hough, 5-8, took a 2-0 lead and a six-hitter into the ninth. But Tom Brunansky drew a leadoff walk and moved to second on a single by Roy Smalley. Gary Gaetti tried to sacrifice, but Brunansky was forced out at third on the bunt.

Tim Teufel then walked to load the bases. Pinch-hitter Randy Bush grounded out to first, scoring Smalley, and Salas followe with his two-run single.

The victory came in Miller's debut with the Twins. Miller, who was the Baltimore Orioles' pitching coach, took over Friday after Billy Gardner was fired earlier in the day.

Ken Schrom, 6-5, pitched a six-hitter for the victory. Schrom had beaten Hough and the Rangers 4-1 on Sunday.

The Rangers broke a scoreless game in the sixth inning on an RBI double by Tom Dunbar. Don Slaught led off the inning with a walk, moved to second on Wayne Tolleson's sacrifice and took third on a groundout. After Toby Harrah walked, Dunbar blooped a ground-rule double down the left-field line.

Larry Parrish hit his 13th home run of the season in the seventh inning to make it 2-0.

Angels 5, White Sox 2

CHICAGO — Mike Brown tripled home two runs in the sixth inning and scored on Juan Beniquez's fourth single of the game to lead the California Angels to a victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Reggie Jackson started the sixth with a double off Floyd Bannister, 5-5. Bobby Grich walked and Brown followed with his two-run triple before Beniquez singled.

California's Doug DeCinces hit his seventh homer in the ninth.

The victory went to rookie starter Kirk McCaskill, 2-5, who gave up six hits over 7 2-3 innings. Pat Clements got the final out in the eighth, and Donnie Moore pitched the ninth for his 15th save.

The triumph lifted the Angels into first place in the American League West, one-half game ahead of the White Sox.

The Angels scored in the third inning when they loaded the bases on singles by Beniquez and Dick Schofield and a walk to Brian Downing. DeCinces also walked to force Beniquez home.

The White Sox came right back with a pair in the bottom of the third. Ozzie Guillen singled and Luis Salazar drew a walk. The runners advanced as Rudy Law grounded to first and both scored on a single by Harold Baines.

Tigers 6, Yankees 4

DETROIT — Lou Whitaker's two-run homer triggered a four-run sixth inning and Detroit went on to a victory over the New York Yankees.

Kirk Gibson homered in the seventh inning and Darrell Evans homered in the eighth as the Tigers extended their winning streak to four with their 10th victory in the last 12 games.

Rickey Henderson, leading the American League with a .357 average, led off the game with a home run for the Yankees and hit another bases-empty homer in the eighth. Henderson also hit a drive off the top of the fence in right-center field in the third that only went for an RBI single when the runners on base had to wait to see if the ball would be caught.

Randy O'Neal, 2-1, went 7⅓ innings for the victory. Willie Hernandez finished up to notch his 14th save. Loser Phil Niekro, 7-6, allowed seven hits but was hurt by four walks — three in the crucial sixth.

Trailing 3-0, Tom Brookens led off the Detroit sixth with a double and scored on Whitaker's 12th home run of the season, a shot into the second deck in right field. Alan Trammell followed with a single, and two outs later, Niekro walked Evans and Barbaro Garbey to load the bases. Larry Herndon then singled up the middle to drive in two runs for a 4-3 lead.

Gibson hit his 14th homer in the seventh, a solo shot off the facing of the third deck in right on a one-ball count, and Evans hit his 13th to start the eighth.

Henderson led off the game with a home run into the second deck in left field on a full-count pitch. Henderson's ninth homer, with one out in the eighth, chased O'Neal.

In the Yankees third, successive singles by Mike Pagliarulo, Bobby Meacham and Henderson drove in one run. A wild pitch by O'Neal allowed another run to score.

Brewers 13, Orioles 10

MILWAUKEE — Cecil Cooper drove in four runs with three hits, including a two-run single during a nine-run explosion in the sixth inning that rallied the Milwaukee Brewers past the Baltimore Orioles.

Baltimore was sitting atop a 7-1 lead before the Brewers scored three runs in the fifth and then tied a team record by scoring nine times in the sixth.

Jim Gantner opened with the sixth with a walk and Bobby Clark and Ed Romero followed with a singles to load the bases against Mike Boddicker, 7-7. Gantner then scored when reliever Sammy Stewart tried to pick off Romero and the throw went off first baseman Eddie Murray's glove for an error.

Paul Molitor walked to reload the bases, and reliever Tippy Martinez got Earnest Riles hit into a forceout at the plate. But Cooper then lined a two-run single to tie the game 7-7, Robin Yount followed with an RBI single and Ben Oglivie hit a sacrifice fly. Bill Schroeder was intentionally walked and Gantner lined a run-scoring single, chasing Martinez.

Clark greeted Nate Snell with an RBI single, and after a walk to Romero, Molitor completed the scoring with a two-run single to center to make it 13-7.

The Orioles pulled within 13-10 in the ninth on Cal Ripken's three-run homer, his 11th of the season. The home run came off Bob Gibson, who pitched the final three innings for his fourth save.

Reliever Jaime Cocanower, 1-0, got the victory.

The Brewers scored in the first on doubles by Molitor and Cooper, and added three in the fifth on run-scoring singles by Cooper, Yount and Oglivie.

John Shelby got the Orioles going in the first inning with a leadoff bunt single off Teddy Higuera. Two outs later, he scored on Murray's double. After Gary Roenicke walked, Fritz Connally hit a two-run double and Mike Young followed with another double. Rick Dempsey then hit his fifth homer to chase Higuera and give the Orioles a 6-0 lead.

Young hit his fifth homer in the third off Cocanower to make it 7-1.

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 2

TORONTO — Lloyd Moseby singled three times and drove in two runs and Willie Upshaw hit a solo home run to lead the Toronto Blue Jays over the Boston Red Sox.

Jimmy Key, 5-2, pitched a five-hitter in winning his fifth straight game. Boston lost its fourth consecutive game.

Upshaw, who had not homered since June 4, gave the Blue Jays a 5-1 lead when he hit his seventh homer of the season on Bruce Hurst's first pitch of the sixth inning. Hurst's record fell to 2-7. A passed ball by catcher Marc Sullivan and Moseby's RBI single added two runs in the eighth, and Jim Rice hit a sacrifice fly in the ninth for the Red Sox.

Damaso Garcia drew a leadoff walk in the Toronto first, moved to third on Moseby's single and scored on George Bell's groundout.

The Blue Jays made it 2-0 in the third when Tony Fernandez doubled down the left-field line, was sacrificed to third by Garcia and scored on Moseby's single.

With two outs in the fourth, Buck Martinez drew a walk and Garth Iorg followed with a run-scoring double.

Moseby drew a one-out walk in the fifth, went to third on Bell's single and came home on Jesse Barfield's sacrifice fly that gave Toronto a 4-1 lead.

The Red Sox touched Key for a run in the fourth. Wade Boggs hit a ground-rule double, moved to third on Bill Buckner's single and scored on a balk by Key.

Reds' owner mad at Rose

TORONTO (AP) — Cincinnati Reds owner Marge Schott ignored a gag rule banning owners of major league baseball teams from discussing negotiations for a collective agreement by telling The Toronto Globe and Mail she's "bothered and disappointed" that Reds player-manager Pete Rose would side with the players' union.

Rose, a hometown favorite in Cincinnati as a player whom Schott reacquired last year from the Montreal Expos to manage her stumbling National League team, has said he'll honor whatever strike action the Major League Players Association decides after polling the teams.

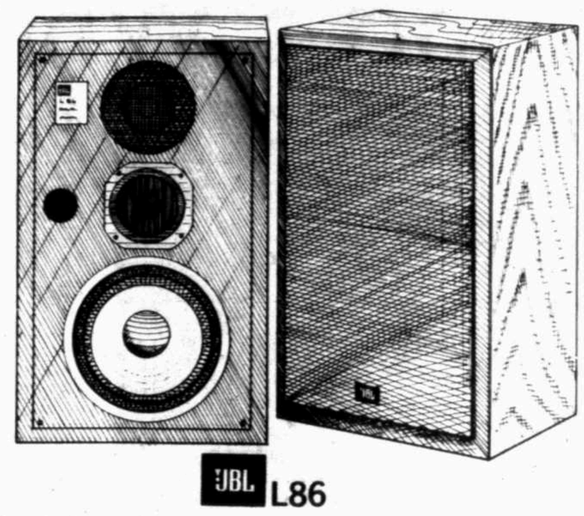

Reports indicate the players will vote almost to a man for a strike unless a new agreement is reached. The association has been without a contract since last December.

Schott told the Globe and Mail she's shocked by Rose's attitude and promised that, while she's still one of his biggest boosters, she intends to see he's the only major league skipper that doesn't get paid during a strike.

"I still love Pete," Schott said in the telephone interview. "But it bothers me he would be so quick to vote yes (for strike authorization).

"He's a player-manager, but his first priority should be to management. And as an older player, he should set an example for younger players....I wish Pete would think of the young players. I was hoping he'd influence them not to strike because it would be tragic if they do.

Ayrton Senna sits in the pits Friday after fastest time in first qualifying session at the Detroit Grand Prix race course.

Niki Lauda felt fear with return to track

DETROIT (AP) — Niki Lauda would seem to be a fearless man having overcome the terror of a fiery crash in 1976 to come back and win two of his three Formula One world championships.

But the veteran racer from Austria, who is the defending world champion, admits he felt an almost paralyzing fear when he came back to racing following the crash in the German Grand Prix at Nurburgring.

Lauda, who will compete Sunday in the Detroit Grand Prix for the Marlboro-McLaren team, was driving for Ferrari when the near-fatal incident occured.

He talked about the accident and the difficult aftermath.

"In 1976, I had an enormous accident, and the main damage I think to myself was lung damage from inhaling all the flames and fumes while I was sitting in the car for about 50 seconds. It was something like 800 degrees, which would get you somewhere to medium," he said, now able to joke about it a bit. "Thank God there were some other drivers out on the circuit who stopped and pulled me out about just in time.

"The lung damage was the main thing and for three or four days it was touch and go. Then my lungs recovered and I got my skin grafts done, then basically there was nothing left. I was really lucky in a way that I didn't do any (other) damage to myself. So the real question was then will I be able to drive again, because certainly it was not easy to come back after a race like that.

"To give you an example, after going through about six weeks training because I was completely weak after being in the hospital . . . I got my physical condition back; not as good as before but somewhere near.

"Then I decided to go to Monza, which I think was three races after the accident, then I was going to start again to drive quick."

It turned out not to be that easy for Lauda, who had won his first world championship in 1975.

"Basically you sit there and ask yourself can you do it or not, and you say 'no problem,' and you go out there and do it, you think.

"I remember the first day of practice I went out of the pits and I changed into second gear and I was shaking with fear because basically the whole accident just came back before me and you just can't do it.

Renegades ride Express

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two touchdown passes by Reggie Collier and three interceptions by the Orlando defense sparked the Renegades to a 17-10 season-ending victory over the Los Angeles Express Friday night in a battle of last-place United States Football League teams.

Orlando finished with a 5-13 record in the USFL's Eastern Division. Los Angeles, which lost its final eight games, was last in the Pacific Division at 3-15.

The Renegades still finished with the best record in the franchise's history. Before this year, the team was based in Washington.

Los Angeles quarterback Steve Young didn't play in the second half because the Express wanted to give backup quarterback Frank Seurer a chance to play.

The Renegades scored the game-winning touchdown late in the third period following an interception by Jeff George, his second of the night. George picked the ball off at the Orlando 27 and returned it 17 yards before lateraling to Victor Jackson, who scampered another 11 yards before being brought down at the Express 35.

Ueberroth wants Bucs to stay in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said Friday he would veto any attempt to move the financially troubled Pittsburgh Pirates to another city and warned cities in search of major league frnchises not to "raid other communities."

"I would not approve the sale (of the Pirates) if outside groups want to move it to another city," Ueberroth told a news conference at Three Rivers Stadium.

"I've been telling other cities who want ballclubs, 'Don't be walking around trying to raid other communities,' " he said. "We're not going to move moving vans to baseball teams."

When asked about the possibility that he could prevent a strike this season, Ueberroth replied: "I think I can stop a franchise from moving, but I don't have the power to stop a strike. And if I had it, I wouldn't use it.

"The books have been opened, they're beyond opened. If there's something else I can do, I will."

Ueberroth said he is "still not discouraged, because there seems to be quality ... and integrity on both sides of the negotiating table." And he added: "A strike is a failure."

The commissioner said he met with Pittsburgh Mayor Richard Caliguiri and a group of "12 to 15" corporate leaders led by Westinghouse Electric Corp. Chairman Douglas D. Danforth to discuss ways to keep one of baseball's oldest franchises in Pittsburgh.

Chicago loses 10th straight

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Pitcher Kurt Kepshire doubled and scored two runs and Jack Clark slugged a three-run triple, leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-5 victory Friday night that extended the slump-ridden Chicago Cubs' losing streak to 10 games.

The Chicago string of setbacks is three short of a club record. The Cubs lost 13 straight games in 1982, tying a previous mark.

Kepshire, 4-5, was backed by a fine defense that turned in three double plays in each of the first three innings, but was forced to leave in the ninth when the Cubs scored twice.

Davey Lopes, Steve Lake and Ryne Sandberg hit into the rally-killing double plays before Chris Speier hit a two-run homer for the Cubs in the seventh.

But before that, St. Louis had capitalized on a leadoff walk to Vince Coleman from Dennis Eckersley, 7-5, in the first to jump in front.

Coleman followed the walk with steals of both second and third, padding his major league-leading total to 46, and scored on a single by Tommy Herr. The Cardinals made it 2-0 in the third when Kepshire doubled and scored on Willie McGee's single. In the fourth, Andy Van Slyke tripled and came home on Ozzie Smith's single to make it 3-0.

After Speier's homer cut the Cardinal lead to one run, St. Louis took a 7-2 lead with a four-run seventh as Kepshire walked and scored on a bases-loaded walk and Clark cleared the bases with his triple. The Cubs came back with a homer by Thad Bosley in the eighth and two more runs in the ninth before falling short.

It was Kepshire's second pitching success in six days against Eckersley, who gave up seven hits in six innings.

A Busch Stadium crowd of 46,005 watched the victory in the opener of a three-game series that gave St. Louis a 4-0 edge over the Cubs in their series. A year ago, when Chicago won the National League East, the Cubs dominated the divisional rivalry series 13-5.

Mets 6, Expos 3

NEW YORK — Mookie Wilson drove in four runs with a homer and two singles as the New York Mets defeated the Montreal Expos for their fifth straight victory.

Doug Sisk, 2-5, was the winner after pitching hitless ball over the final three innings, striking out three and walking none.

Mickey Mahler, 1-1, in his third start since being recalled from the minors last month, was the loser. Mahler allowed four runs on four hits over 5⅔ innings, struck out six, walked six and threw two wild pitches.

Trailing 3-2, the Mets scored twice in the sixth inning on the second of Mahler's wild pitches and an RBI single by Rafael Santana.

Wilson lead off the seventh inning with his homer into the left field bullpen on a 3-2 pitch, and later capped the scoring with an RBI single in the eighth.

The Mets' center fielder had given New York a 2-0 lead with a two-run, two-out, bases-loaded single in the fifth inning.

The Expos moved in front 3-2 in the sixth inning, scoring all the runs off relieved Tom Gorman. Tim Wallach poked a two-run double to left-center and scored on Miguel Dilone's triple off the left-center field wall.

Reds 4-4, Braves 2-5

CINCINNATI — Dale Murphy hit his 17th homer and Rafael Ramirez broke a tie with a sacrifice fly Friday night to give the Atlanta Braves a 5-4 victory and a doubleheader split with the Cincinnati Reds.

Dave Parker's three-run homer sent the Reds to a 4-2 victory in the first game.

The Reds took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap highlighted by Parker's RBI single off Rick Camp, 2-3, making his second start of the season.

The Braves came back in the second when Reds starter Jay Tibbs, 4-9, walked Camp with the bases loaded to force in a run. Murphy, who was 5-for-9 in the doubleheader, then hit a homer in the fifth to tie the nightcap.

Claudell Washington tripled with two out in the sixth and scored the go-ahead run on Ramirez' flyout.

NL Roundup

Washington put the game away with a two-run homer in the eighth, his seventh of the season, off Tom Hume.

The 5-2 lead was enough of a cushion to withstand a sacrifice fly by Dave Concepcion in the Cincinnati eighth and an RBI single by Pete Rose in the ninth. The base hit gave Rose 4,147 for his career, putting him 44 behind Ty Cobb's record.

Camp scattered five hits over five innings for his first victory as a starter since last Sept. 20. Terry Forster pitched two hitless innings, and Bruce Sutter pitched the last two for his 10th save.

In the first game, Parker hit his 11th homer of the season to put the Reds up 3-0 in the fourth inning, after Eddie Milner reached on a bunt single and Rose drew a walk from rookie Steve Shields, 1-2.

Shields gave up another run in the sixth as Concepcion singled, moved up on a groundout, stole third and scored on Wayne Krenchicki's single.

Tom Browning, 6-5, scattered six hits over seven innings. He left after the Braves loaded the bases in the eighth on a single by Brad Komminsk and a pair of walks. Reliever Ted Power walked Terry Harper to force in one run and gave up an infield RBI single to Glenn Hubbard before stopping the Braves for his ninth save.

Padres 6, Giants 1

Jerry Royster belted a grand slam homer and Kevin McReynolds hit a pair of run-scoring singles to help rookie right-hander Ed Wojna record his first major league victory as the San Diego Padres defeated the San Francisco Giants 6-1 Friday night.

Wojna, 1-0, making his second major league start since being called up from Las Vegas of the Pacific Coast League last week, held the Giants to three hits in six innings, one of them a homer by Bob Brenly in the second inning.

San Diego tied it in the third off loser Vida Blue, 3-2, on singles by Royster and Tony Gwynn and McReynolds' two-out RBI single.

Royster gave the Padres four insurance runs with his slam in the eighth, his first homer of the season.

McReynolds picked up his ninth game-winning RBI in the fifth when he singled in Steve Garvey from third. Garvey led off the inning with a single and wound up at second on an error by center fielder Joel Youngblood. He went to third on a groundout.

Tim Stoddard and Craig Lefferts worked the final three innings for the Padres.

Blue, who entered the game with a 9-0 record against the Padres, lost to them for the first time in his career.

Phillies 4, Pirates 3

Juan Samuel's double down the right-field line with one out in the 16th inning scored Derrel Thomas with the winning run.

John Wockenfuss led off the 16th by drawing a walk off Jim Winn, 2-2, the sixth Pirate pitcher. Thomas' single moved Wockenfuss to second and a forceout by Larry Andersen moved Thomas to second and Samuel's double scored him with the winning run.

Andersen, 2-2, the sixth Phillies' pitcher, worked one inning for the victory.

The Phillies tied the game with two runs in the ninth inning but failed to score again after having the bases loaded with one out. Von Hayes led off the ninth with a walk against reliever Al Holland and advanced to second when Mike Schmidt singled. Glenn Wilson lined a double to score Hayes and send Schmidt to third and Gary Maddox was walked intentionally to load the bases.

Cecilio Guante relieved Holland and after an infield out by pinch-hitter John Wockenfuss tied the score, he walked Thomas intentionally to load the bases again. But Guante fanned pinch-hitter John Russell and Juan Samuel to end the rally.

Mazzilli took third on the groundout and scored one out later when Madlock beat out a high hopper to short. After Jason Thompson walked, Steve Kemp singled home Madlock.

Pate's 66 leads surge by rookies

ATLANTA (AP) — Steve Pate led a strong surge by tour rookies Friday and bolted into the second-round lead in the $500,000 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Golf Classic with a 6-under-par 66.

Pate, who has made only six cuts in 13 previous events this year, had a 36-hole score of 133, 11 under par on the 7,008-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

'I've had trouble putting everything together," the 24-year-old Californian said of his professional experience. "I'll have one or two things going, but everything else stinks."

Pate, no relation to tour veteran Jerry Pate, held a one-shot advantage over Danny Edwards, who fired a 65-134, and was two strokes ahead of another rookie, Andrew Magee, who had a 65-135.

VETERAN RAY Floyd, who won at Houston earlier this year, had his second consecutive 68 and was tied at 136 with three others, including another rookie, Brad Fabel, who fired a 65.

Also at 136 were Loran Roberts after a 67 and Bob Eastwood after a 66.

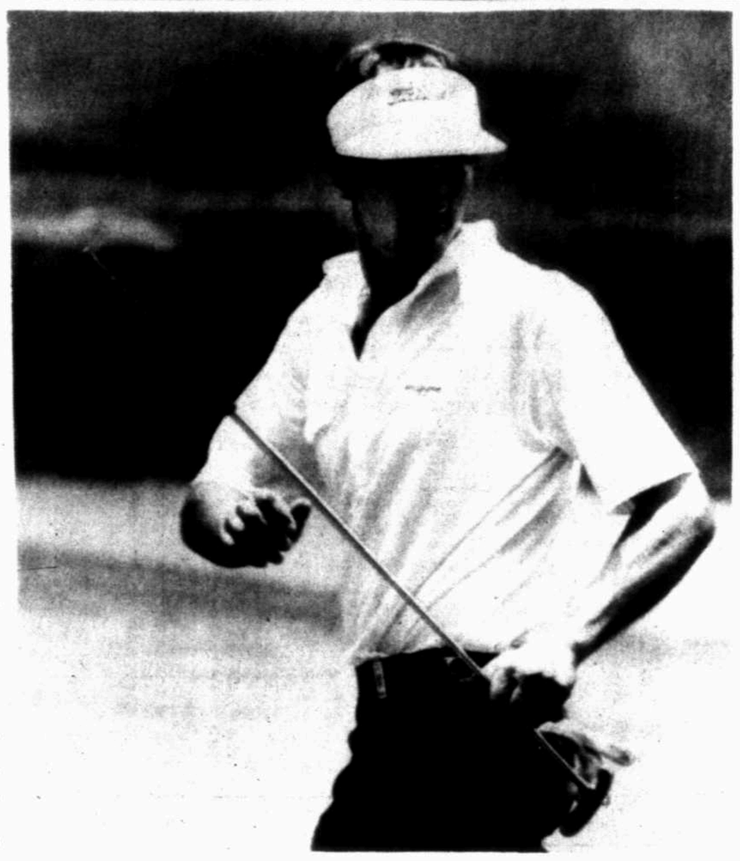

First round leader Tony Sills struggled to an even par 72 and fell four shots off the pace at 137.

Former U.S. Open and Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller, second after Thursday's play, took a double bogey 7 on the 18th and fell back to 73-139.

Charles Coody, winless since capturing the 1971 Masters, moved within range with a sizzling 64 that left him five behind Pate.

"I only hit four fairways, but I hit the ball closer to the hole," Pate said. "There isn't that much rough out there. I've hit the ball closer the last two days than I have all year."

Pate, who played at UCLA, chipped in from 40 feet for a birdie 2 on the third hole, but scored the remainder of his five birdies from the 5-10-foot range. He saved par after driving into a fairway bunker on the 10th and again when his tee shot at 17 carried about 30 yards into some woods to the left.

Steve Pate reacts after sinking his putt on the 18th green Friday to take the lead in the Atlanta Classic with an 11-under par.

Pate said he was playing aggressively because "I've got nothing to lose. You've just got to keep doing it. It's tough to shoot more than one under playing defensive golf.

"It's nice to be playing well but nothing to get excited about," he said. "There's two rounds to play yet. If I'm in this position Sunday, I'll probably be a little nervous."

Edwards, a four-time winner in his career, scored five of his seven birdies from inside 10 feet in what he called "just a very solid round."

"Just another day at the course," quipped Magee, who then called it his best round as a pro, despite going one shot better at 64 in the opening round of the Byron Nelson Classic.

"I didn't have to work that hard and it was an enjoyable day," said Magee, who was born in Paris, France, where his father was based with an oil company.

Magee, 23, started his round at No. 10. He also scored most of his birdies from inside 10 feet, although he did sink a 20-footer at No. 2 and lipped out an 18-foot eagle putt on the 18th green.

Tze-Chung Chen of Taiwan, who led the U.S. Open for three rounds before falling into a second place tie last week, was one of the victims of the 2-under-par cut of 142. Chen skied to a 75 and had a 143 total.

Eagle lifts Drew to lead

More Sports on Page 8B

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Heather Drew, helped by an eagle, shot a 5-under 67 Friday to take a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the $250,000 Mayflower Classic.

Drew, who is winless with only $23,254 in official earnings since joining the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour in 1983, was at 139 after her lowest professional round.

Mary Beth Zimmerman, also winless since turning pro in 1983, moved into second at 141 with a 71 at the 6,203-yard, par 72 Country Club of Indianapolis.

The top five scorers in the opening round all ran into trouble.

"Today's round was very consistent," said Zimmerman, who had two birdies and one bogey to go with 15 pars. "Towards the end I was getting a little tired and I had to get up and down quite a bit for my pars."

Sally Quinlan, a three-time Massachusetts high school champion, also had a 67 to gain a tie for third at 142. She was tied with Canadian Barb Bunkowsky, who recorded a 70.

Alice Miller, who led the opening round at 5-under, shot a 76. The tour's leading money-winner and its only three-time champ this year had six bogies.

"It's one of the worst rounds I've had all year. I just couldn't do anything right," said Miller, who was deadlocked for fifth at 143 with ten other women. "I'm pretty frustrated."

Miller, who is closing in on the LPGA record for earnings in a year, went to the driving range after her round.

"I have no excuse," she said. "The wind was kind of strong at times, but not gusty."

She remained optimistic.

"The main thing for me is to get back to playing my game. This (the big score) is not typical of me," Miller said.

Arnold Palmer retains stroke lead

BEACHWOOD, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Arnold Palmer dropped in a two-foot birdie putt on the final hole Friday to retain his one-stroke lead with a 6-under-par 138 after two rounds in the $240,000 Senior Tournament Players Championship.

Palmer survived an early double-bogey to shoot a 1-under-par 71 in the second round at the 6,615-yard Canterbury Golf Club near Cleveland.

Howie Johnson recorded the best round of the day, a 4-under-par 68, to pull within a stroke of the lead at 139 after 36 holes.

Miller Barber, with a 69, moved into third place at 140, two strokes from the lead. Lee Elder, with a 70, and Ken Still, with a 69, were tied for fourth at 3-under-par 141.

Billy Maxwell shot a 71, Charles Owens a 73 and Don January a 74, tying them at 2-under-par 142. Four golfers were at 1 under par.

Palmer said he was still struggling with the erratic putting that had been plaguing him several weeks ago.

He needed four putts from about 30 feet away on the par-4 fourth hole, settling for a double-bogey, but he then birdied the next two holes to pull back to even par on the day.

He played par golf the rest of the way until hitting a 9-iron within two feet of the hole on No. 18 for an easy birdie putt that gave him the lead.

"I felt very, very comfortable with everything in my hand but the putter," Palmer said. "I tried every stroke and every posture and every piece of mental work I could find, from not even looking at the hole to talking myself in. None of them went in."

Johnson played bogey-free golf and scored birdies on the par-3 seventh and on three par-4 holes — the eighth, 10th and 12th. He took only 28 putts all day, including a 15-footer for a birdie on the 372-yard 12th hole.

First prize in the 72-hole event is worth $36,000. Fifty-five golfers, each at least 50 years old, are competing.

'Old Cola Drinker' flunks taste test

SEATTLE (AP) — The man who launched an international campaign to force the Coca-Cola Co. to revert to its original soft drink formula failed to pick his favorite "old Coke" in a multi-cola taste test.

Gay Mullins says such variables as ice, and the number of beverages involved in the test, affected his performance. He promises to do better in a planned nationwide tasting tour.

Mullins, 57, heads the Old Cola Drinkers of America and has sunk $45,000 into his campaign to bring back the original Coke.

Mullins was given six, then three, then two colas to drink in a test conducted by The Seattle Times. Each time he failed to select the old Coke from the new Coke and colas produced by Pepsi, Royal Crown, Cragmont and Shasta.

"I have to admire Gay Mullins for accepting without hesitation to take the tests. His reputation was on the line," Times columnist Erik Lacitis wrote in a copyright column in Friday's editions.

As Gay himself explained in the latest issue People magazine, he believes in apple pie, baseball and the Statue of Liberty, and that's why he founded the Old Cola Drinkers of America, an impromptu group that has drawn international interest.

As recently as Thursday, Mullins was in federal court seeking an injunction against Coca-Cola so that it wouldn't put new Coke into old Coke cans. The judge threw the lawsuit out, saying the Old Cola Drinkers of America had no jurisdiction.

Lacitis wrote that it was one thing when Mullins thought Royal Crown was the "real" Coke in the six-cola test Wednesday, but it was something else when it came down to a duel between the "old" and "new" Cokes, and Mullins still flunked.

"First of all," Mullins explained in a Friday telephone interview, "I had eight or nine (colas) and tasting just doesn't work out. The second thing is that I brought the old Coke up myself and it was in a 70-degree or 80-degree brief case and when they put ice with it it became the most diluted.

"I picked RC because it was the most potent," he added. "I've been buying RC instead of the new Coke. My taste is getting accustomed to RC. The closest old Coke taste I can find right now is Royal Crown cola."

Mullins said he learned something. From now on, he said, any taste test will include just three colas, they will be served at the same temperature, and he will eat salted crackers between each tasting.

He said he's planning a national tasting tour to promote his group's efforts and predicted, "I'll bet I'll be right 90 percent of the time."

Mullins said his group's ultimate goal is to get the original Coke back on the market, and said members are "going back to ground one to do research for a class action suit that will not be tossed."

NCAA sets 'Death Penalty'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The most extraordinary measures ever taken to fight recruiting and academic scandals in college athletics were given near unanimous approval today by delegates to the NCAA Special "Integrity Convention," including measures that could force a school to suspend its football or basketball program as long as two years.

The so-called "Death Penalty" provisions were the most controversial for an estimated 1,000 delegates representing about 500 NCAA schools. The get-tough measures were written by the 44-member Presidents Commission, which surveyed university presidents.

The vote by division on the main proposal, calling for suspension of programs and sanctions against cheating coaches, was 284-3 in Division I, 85-0 in Division II and 60-0 in Division III.

EARLIER TODAY, the convention adopted measures that mandate periodic self-studies of a school's athletic department and set up an academic reporting program that would list a school's graduation rate for student athletes.

Under the most severe penalty, a school could be forced to give up its football or basketball program for as long as two years if it is convicted of major violations twice within a five-year period. After two days of debate and argument, the convention settled upon an interpretation of the rule which says that the five-year double penalty period begins Sept. 1, 1980.

Any school since that date which has received a one-year probation with sanctions against either television or postseason appearances would be vulnerable to the "double major penalty" if it is convicted of a similar offense in any sport within five years after the imposition of the first penalty.

The key element of the new penalty structure draws distinctions between major and secondary violations.

Major violations, those that indicate willful disregard for rules or result in a competitive advantage, include the following minimum penalties:

—A two-year probation period;

—Cutting off of all expense-paid recruiting visits for one year;

—Prohibiting all coaching staff members from recruiting for one year;

—One year of sanctions against postseason competition and television appearances.

Secondary violations, generally, would include those that do not indicate a pattern or give a school a clear competitive advantage. Previously, such cases usually netted private reprimands. Now, they could result in the ineligibility of players; forfeiture of games; prohibition of the head coach or members of his staff from recruiting for one year; a reduction of 20 percent of the maximum number of scholarships, and a fine ranging from $500 to $5,000.

A REPEAT violator of a major violation would be subject to the so-called "Death Penalty," which the sponsors of the legislation agree could affect or terminate a program for many years.

The second sport penalized would be the sport that receives the suspension. An NCAA staff member said there are about 25 schools that are in jepardy in the double major violation. A spokesman said the names of those schools may be released later.

At the discretion of the Infractions Committee, which will review all major cases, a major repeat violator would be subject to suspension of some or all competition in the affected sport for one or two seasons. In addition, a school would not be allowed to give scholarships for two years, and a school would lose all voting privileges in all NCAA matters.

The chairman of the Presidents Commission, John Ryan of Indiana University, made an impassioned plea to the delegates to adopt the extraordinary measures.

"Colleagues," Ryan said, "this is only the first step by presidents. We must apply ourselves to a continuing effort to eliminate corruption in intercollegiate athletics."

Ryan urged the delegates not to "nitpick to death" the proposals and promised that additional measures, including some dealing with drugs and gambling, would be on the agenda at next January's NCAA Convention in New Orleans.

"This package will be followed by additional ones," Ryan said. "There can be no doubt this is one of the most important NCAA conventions in history."

UTEP gives up baseball to save money

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The University of Texas-El Paso baseball team had its best season ever this year. It also was the Miners' last season.

UTEP Athletic Director Bill Cords said Thursday the school is dropping the baseball program to save money following legislative action raising college tuition.

Men's tennis will be added to the athletic program as a replacement to maintain UTEP's position in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I, he said. The association requires a school to have at least eight men's sports to be part of the division.

Cords said a bill passed by the recent Legislature that triples tuition this fall, especially for out-of-state students, prompted the decision to cut baseball.

"I place the responsibility for this on the steps of the state legislature. I'm bitter about it," he said.

Tuition for out-of-state students will go up to $120 a semester hour this fall and resident tuition will rise to $12.

He said the three-fold increase in tuition means UTEP can't afford to offer baseball scholarships any longer.

Cords said dropping baseball and adding tennis will save UTEP $90,000 a year. The men's tennis team will have five full-time scholarships, he said, while baseball had 13.

Last season, UTEP had its best baseball season ever, winning 33 games. It also won more Western Athletic Conference games (13) than ever before.

UTEP has had a baseball program since 1963.

The announcement left baseball coach Bill Kinneberg without a job and his Miner players without a team.

However Cords said the players' scholarships would be honored and the school will help them transfer to other schools with baseball programs if they wish.

Kinneberg just completed his first season as UTEP's head baseball coach after three years as an assistant and one year as a graduate assistant.

Old Glory High graduates last class

OLD GLORY, Texas (AP) — In 1935, a spunky high school valedictorian spoke to an audience attending Old Glory High School's commencement about the dreams of her class for the future.

Bernice White's dreams included hopes that the school would continue to be healthy and sound.

This year, she returned to her alma mater on the 50th anniversary of her graduation and watched somewhat sorrowfully as the future of the school came to an end.

After 57 years, Old Glory School High recently conducted its last graduation ceremony in its school cafeteria. A mixture of declining student population and shrinking state dollars dealt a death blow to the tiny one-building school system in Stonewall County, about 60 miles north of Abilene.

Next year, its students will travel 10 miles to Aspermont.

"It's just all really sad," Miss White said.

Three graduates — a class larger than many recently in Old Glory — received diplomas in the ceremony that combined youthful excitement for the future with a sadness over the loss of a part of the community's past.

"I wish it wouldn't end," valedictorian Maribel Castro said as she donned the royal blue graduation gown that she would wear during commencement. "It makes me very happy to be valedictorian. But it makes me sad to be the last one. I'm really going to miss this school."

Nearby, the other two graduates, Darin Epley and Bobby Lowack, shook hands with friends and others who had come early to wish the last graduates well. Almost 150 people, twice the number of people who live in the small town, came.

"Everybody knows everybody in a town like this," Epley commented.

Epley and Lowack viewed the closing of the school with mixed emotions and even a little apathy. Aspermont, they said, would offer graduates more opportunities. But it would also deprive them of many pleasures.

"It's sad losing the school and everything. It hasn't sunk in completely yet," said Epley, who next year will attend Western Texas College in Snyder.

The consolidation is "kind of good for them. They will get to participate in more activities. There's not much of a social life in Old Glory. There are only two girls in the whole high school.

"At times, I would have liked to have gone to a bigger school. At the same time, though, there are a lot of good things about smaller schools. You get to go on a great senior trip," he said, referring to a planned trip to Orlando, Fla.

Lowack said the closing of the school didn't make much difference to him. "It doesn't seem like much now, but I suppose it probably will later. If I was going to Aspermont next year it would be different.

Father and son . . . exploring the wonders of nature . . . sharing secrets . . . discovering some of the many mysteries of life.

Dads come in mighty handy when a youngster faces a problem he can't solve or cope with.

Everyone recalls the pleasant days of childhood — how that warm, comfortable feeling enveloped you whenever Dad slipped his hand around your shoulder.

Why don't you on this Father's Day, express your love to your dad by attending a church or synagogue with him. It will surely be a memorable day for both of you.

MIDLAND SANITARY PLUMBING

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Philip Dozier

Roger Beebe

Two students serving as Baptist missionaries

Several Midland residents are serving as Texas Baptist Student Union summer missionaries doing general mission work.

Phillip Dozier and Roger Beebe, students at Midland College, are serving at the Houston Mission Center.

They are among 119 summer missionaries serving in 18 states and three foreign countries and supported by fellow students at 100 colleges and universities throughout Texas. Last year, students raised more than $140,000 to support their summer missionaries.

Texas Baptist Student Unions are supported through Cooperative Program gifts from 4,900 churches and missions of the 2.3-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Celebrants to sing

The Celebrant Singers will perform at 7 p.m. Monday at Word of Life, 3838 W. Wall Ave.

Founded in 1977 by Jon Stemkoski, the Celebrants and Stemkoski have performed in all 50 states and 22 foreign countries. Each team is composed of 15 singers and a 12-piece orchestra and features sign language for the deaf.

The public is invited to attend this free concert.

Choir gives tour concert

Sunday evening at 7:15 p.m., The Celebration Singers, youth choir from First United Methodist Church, will present its tour concert in the church sanctuary, Main Street at Illinois Ave.

This concert will be the final concert of the church's Centennial Vesper Series which has been held monthly since September of 1984, in celebration of the church's one hundredth birthday. First Methodist was the first church in Midland.

The Sunday concert, which will feature music based on the Psalms, will be presented this week in El Paso, Tucson, Ariz., San Diego, Los Angeles and Long Beach, Calif., as a part of the choir's annual tour. The 40-voice choir will leave Monday on its tour and will visit southern California attractions such as Disneyland and the San Diego Zoo.

Also featured on the concert will be members of the Wesley Ringers Handbell Choir. Several members of this group as well as adults from the Golden Bells Handbell Choir from First UMC will be participating in the Western National Handbell Festival in San Diego, California. This festival, sponsored by the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, will feature over 1,000 handbell ringers from the western part of the U.S. The Midland choir has been invited to design and lead one of the morning worship services at the festival.

The concert, open to the public, is under the direction of Brad Kisner, director of Music Ministries at First UMC. Accompanist is Jill Roberson. Other instrumentalists include Jane Kisner, Kathy Wilson and Suzie Peregrine.

The public is invited to attend. Child care will be provided.

Saints set flag-raising

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will have a flag raising ceremony in honor of our country's independence at 7 a.m., July 4.

After the Boy Scouts raise the flag, several songs will be presented by the children from the three wards, and a light breakfast will be served.

The combined wards will also join the community in its Centennial celebration with a booth in the Centennialfest and a float in the Centennial Parade. The theme of the float will be faith. The theme of the booth will be geneology and information will be given to anyone who is interested in geneological research.

Combs presents show

James Combs will present a multimedia study of the Book of Daniel beginning Sunday at Kelview Heights Baptist Church, N. Big Spring Street at Scharbauer Drive.

Combs, editor of the Baptist Bible Tribune, Springfield, Mo., the national paper of the Baptist Bible Fellowship, is also president of Revelation Ministries, a California-based organization which presents prophetic conferences across the United States.

Combs will highlight Nebuchadnezzar's image and the role of individual nations in future events as prophesied in Daniel, using seven projectors, three screens, and more than 1,600 slides.

The conference starts at 10 a.m. Sunday morning, continuing at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, and 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Kelview Heights pastor, the Rev. Frank Johnson, invites the public to attend.

Witnesses meet here

Over 4,500 Jehovah's Witnesses from Texas and New Mexico are meeting through Sunday at Chaparral Center.

A total of 112 "Intergrity Keepers" district conventions of the group will be held in the 59 cities selected. Stanley Weigel, spokesman for the world headquarters in New York City, said the events are expected to attract over one 1,100,000 delegates in all.

Frank R. Garig, convention manager for Midland, said this about the convention theme of "Integrity Keepers," "There has been a gradual diluting of strict Bible laws and principles for many years so that now many people do not know what to believe."

Garig cited the following as examples. "The Bible says God hates divorcing, but the divorce rate has never been higher. It says flee from fornication, but the world is fleeing toward fornication. God's law stated that those causing an abortion must forfeit their life for the life of the aborted child. Crimes such as robbery, murder and rape are all in violation of God's commandments."

He added, "So those claiming to be Christians must rightly ask themselves if they are keeping integrity to God's stated will and commandments."

MARK ROYER

Mark and Kandy Royer have been active in Utah evangelism for ten years. At the age of fourteen, Mark moved with his family, to Roosevelt, a small Mormon community in Eastern Utah. Mark's father had come to establish a church in a community 97% Mormon, where the gospel of Christ had seldom been preached.

Mormon seminary was taught in the high school, and it was while enrolled in such a class that Mark felt the need to reach his friends with the message of God's grace. Mormonism teaches salvation through progressive works and ceremonies. Mark gently shared the message of salvation by God's grace and our faith in Him. Kandy, a fifth generation Mormon, and vice-president of the Mormon seminary, became a Christian, stirring up the once closed community. Through the ministry of Mark and Kandy several other high school students were saved.

Upon Mark's return from Christ for the Nations Bible School, in Dallas, Texas, he and Kandy were married. At age 19, they accepted the pastorate of Roosevelt Christian Assembly.

While pastoring the Roosevelt Christian Assembly the past seven years, they have also been instrumental in helping establish new Christian outreaches and churches in Vernal, Orem, Provo, Uintah and Ouray Indian Reservation, Coalville, and Heber City. The most recent is a new work in Bountiful, Utah. Only five months old the church has over 100 in attendance each week. Mark's brother, Gary Royer, is the pastor.

Mark explains his concept of ministry in Utah, is to present in love the message of the gospel to the lost. Whether they be Mormons, members of one of the many Indian tribes, or anyone who has not heard about Jesus.

The Royers have three children, Matthew, Amber, and Daniel.

Michael Reagan wants to follow father's footsteps onto movie set

Reagan

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Michael Reagan says he wants to be a movie star like his parents.

Reagan, 40, the adopted son of President Reagan and his former wife, "Falcon Crest" star Jane Wyman, launched what he hopes will be a Canadian acting career with a news conference Thursday.

He revealed that he has started taking acting lessons, announced he had signed up a Canadian agent and said he wants to do movies, television, talk shows, game shows and even commercials.

But, he said, "Live plays don't excite me. They just don't. I wouldn't enjoy the three, four performances a day and matinees and weekends. Weekends are very important to me. My family is more important to me than anything."

Besides, stage security arrangements might be difficult. Reagan was protected by eight Secret Service officers and at least two Royal Canadian Mounted Police while in Canada.

Last year, Reagan set a speedboat record on a trip between Ketchikan, Alaska, and Seattle, raising $500,000 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

LONDON (AP) — Lady Gabriella Windsor, age 4, was on the guest list. So were her 6-year-old brother Lord Frederick and other members of Britain's upcoming aristocratic set, who gathered Friday for Prince William's third birthday.

It was a day of royal birthday bashes, as William's uncle, Prince Edward, marked his 21st with dancing until dawn at Windsor Castle.

Buckingham Palace said Prince Charles and Princess Diana hired a clown to entertain at their country home in Gloucestershire for William's party. The young prince is second in line to the throne after his father.

Lady Gabriella and Lord Frederick are children of Prince and Princess Michael of Kent. Also invited were Peter Phillips, 7, and Zara Phillips, 4, the children of William's aunt, Princess Anne.

As for Edward, youngest son of Queen Elizabeth II, his birthday was March 10, but the Cambridge undergraduate chose the week of the Royal Ascot races to celebrate.

Bradley

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Artist Louise Nevelson, appearing at the dedication of a 30-foot tall, 33-ton sculpture called "Night Sail," spoke of the enormous project that took two years to complete.

"I'm a woman of great action. I don't sit down and dream. I'd rather move a mountain," said Ms. Nevelson, 85.

The huge sculpture, using sharp, rectangular shapes and soft, round plate, was described by Mayor Tom Bradley in a dedication to Miss Nevelson as "a sculpture inspired by the sweeping vistas of Los Angeles and the sea that borders the city."

The sculpture will be placed at the downtown Crocker Center, in a plaza between IBM Tower and Crocker Court.

Ms. Nevelson said Thursday she was impressed by "the luxury of space, something we New Yorkers don't have." She said the shapes vaguely allude to sails and rigging of a ship.

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. Customs agents here briefly detained country singer Donna Fargo after she allegedly scratched the face of a Customs inspector at the U.S.-Canada border, according to a spokeswoman for the agency.

Miss Fargo's two tour buses were stopped and inspected Thursday after they crossed the Ambassador Bridge linking Detroit with Windsor, Ontario, the spokeswoman said.

"At approximately 12:30 p.m., an inspection of Donna Fargo and her party took place at the Detroit Ambassador Bridge," said a statement from Cherise Mayberry of the Customs regional office in Chicago. "During the inspection, a Customs inspector allegedly received facial scratches during an incident with Miss Fargo. The Fargo party was searched and released."

She said neither the singer nor tour members were fined or charged and that the matter was under investigation.

"I haven't heard anything about it, but she's not that type I guarantee you," said Miss Fargo's agent, Bill Goodwin. "She's a real lady and very religious."

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Music promoter Bill Graham's plan to build a 15,000-seat amphitheater near San Francisco Bay for concerts by such performers as Frank Sinatra has won approval from the City Council.

The council agreed Thursday night to grant Graham a 50-year-lease on 60 acres of city-owned land.

Graham plans to start construction on the $18 million theater by late summer and stage the first shows in the spring of 1987.

A sample schedule of shows includes Sinatra, Linda Ronstadt and Ella Fitzgerald.

DALLAS (AP) — "Dallas" star Victoria Principal plans to marry a Beverly Hills, Calif., surgeon Saturday in a small, private ceremony at a Dallas hotel, the actress' agent said Friday.

Ms. Principal, who plays Pamela Ewing on the popular television show, will marry Dr. Harry Glassman, 42, whom she has known for three years, said Allen Nerob in Los Angeles.

"It will be very private, just family and close friends," Nerob said.

The wedding will take place in the evening at The Mansion hotel. It will be the second marriage for both, Nerob said.

The couple chose to wed in Dallas because Ms. Principal, 35, is working here, shooting upcoming scenes of "Dallas."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nassau and Suffolk counties on Long Island, N.Y., are the best places in America to live, according to new rankings published by a population magazine.

The Nassau-Suffolk area, part of the suburbs of New York City, was ranked No. 1 in a series of ratings compiled by geography professor Robert Pierce and published in the July issue of American Demographics magazine.

Pierce, who teaches at the State University of New York at Cortland, based his ratings on a reassessment of the listings in the "Places Rated Almanac," published by Rand McNally.

That volume listed Pittsburgh, Pa., as No. 1 based on a variety of measurements. Pittsburgh dropped to sixth on Pierce's list.

At the other end of the scale Pierce listed Pine Bluff, Ark., last among places to live. The Rand McNally book had placed Yuba City, Calif., last, but that community climbed three spots in Pierce's calculations.

Thomas communes with wild friends

ENTERTAINMENT

NEW YORK (AP) — As tough cop Lucy Bates on NBC's "Hill Street Blues," Betty Thomas has looked death in the eye and won. As just Betty Thomas, she has swum with dolphins and will spend part of her summer with orangutans.

The other part of the warm months will be spent shooting new episodes of the Emmy Award-winning police series that has won five years of praise for textured stories, well-defined characters and production techniques.

Miss Thomas has received four Emmy nominations as outstanding supporting actress in a drama series for her portrayal of Lucy Bates. "I would like to have a romantic relationship with my character," she said. She'd also like to direct an episode or two, "but so do 14 other people on the show."

She was born Betty Thomas Nienhauser in St. Louis but grew up in Willoughby, Ohio, New Jersey and Chicago. Her attraction to animals began in childhood. "We hatched chickens at school and I bought them home," she said. "We had huge chickens, roosters, a goat and a lamb." Now she has a dog and two cats.

"I love animals. In fact, I hoped an animal would do this interview," the actress said with a laugh.

Last year, Miss Thomas worked at a research facility in Florida helping to teach dolphins how to speak in response to sign language from humans. "I'd clean fish in the morning, work with the computers, clean out the pools and help feed them," she said. "I got in the water with them because I begged. I have no fears with animals."

She also bought plastic musical instruments from a five and dime store and played them for the animals at night. "Their speech to each other is so wonderful. You can give them a five-word sentence and they respond," she said.

This summer, she's off to Borneo to track male orangutans. "They live a solitary life," said Miss Thomas. "Their sexual relationships are short and violent."

Meanwhile, she's serving as chairwoman of Purina Dog Chow's "Search for the Great American Dog" contest. The winner, she said, "gets to be in a parade with me, plus they get a picture on a bag of dog food."

At 6-foot-1, she is a big woman, but snug in that size 10 frame is a gentle and humorous 37-year-old who knows how to laugh at herself and how to share her glee with those around her. Second to her love for animals is her desire to do comedy.

"'Hill Street' is OK, but it's not a lot of comedy," she said. "I'd love to do some topnotch, snazzy lady comedy."

Miss Thomas, who graduated from Ohio University in 1969 with a degree in fine arts, broke into show business in Chicago with The Second City Theater. She stayed with the company for almost four years and then left to become a regular on a TV game show, "The Fun Factory."

When the show folded, she appeared in the movies "Tunnelvision" and "Jackson County Jail," and the TV productions "Outside Chance" and "Nashville Grab."

"They're not my best work or most clothed work. Nothing I'm ashamed of, but nothing I want to shout about," Miss Thomas said.

Earlier this year, the "Hill Street" production team announced that the new season's episodes would have simpler plots and fewer characters in an effort to cut costs.

"The cast will be changed slightly," the actress confirmed in an interview. "They're hiring a new character — all I know is it's a male....Also, if a character doesn't have a lot to do in the plot, they won't have you just walk around in the background. We'll just show up for roll call."

Last week, David Milch, the new executive producer of "Hill Street," said that the new character, played by actor Dennis Franz, would be an "amoral phenomenon" and replace Lt. Ray Calletano, who gets his captain's promotion and moves on.

Milch said there had been "no ruthless cutting off from the past...by and large, the cast has been very supportive."

Satellite industry totters in technology whirlwind

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Satellite-to-home television, which once promised movie-quality images in millions of American living rooms by the end of this year, has been dealt a series of blows that may have killed the Space Age delivery system in its infancy.

Starry-eyed entrepreneurs who waxed poetic about DBS — for direct broadcast satellite — in the early 1980s have since had their hopes dashed by backbreaking start-up costs, a marketplace saturated with new home entertainment systems and the tremendous growth of the true show-stopper of the 1980s: the video cassette recorder.

Four telecommunications heavyweights — CBS Inc., Communications Satellite Corp. (Comsat), Western Union and RCA Americom — have either abandoned DBS plans outright or have significantly scaled back their proposals.

Only one system, the New York-based United Satellite Communications Inc., has begun operation and only in tiny corners of the Midwest and Northeast.

"It's obviously not going to be the huge new frontier an awful lot of people had presumed, nor is it going to be the near-term threat to existing technologies that a lot of people hoped," said Alan Cole-Ford, an analyst with Paul Kagan & Associates.

When the Federal Communications Commission began accepting DBS building permit applications three years ago, the new technology brimmed with promise: high-powered satellite signals filling the seemingly insatiable appetites of TV viewers with crisp, movie-quality pictures, stereophonic sound and an abundance of programs.

But with the recent cooling of pay television and cable television sales, the major DBS players have decided to take a second look before committing to a very expensive, and untried, technology that its detractors say would not differ substantially from existing delivery systems.

Last summer, CBS, which previously had talked of introducing "high-definition" television via DBS delivery, decided not to join forces with Comsat in Comsat's Satellite Television Corp.

Comsat said it still might launch two DBS satellites in 1986, but it definitely was out of the home delivery business.

DBS advocates covet the estimated 30 million U.S. homes that because of geography or economics may never be reached by cable TV.

Peres praises U.S. for tough stance

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Shimon Peres on Friday praised U.S. leaders for their tough stand against terrorism, an apparent attempt to ease a strain in relations with the United States over the Beirut hostage crisis.

"I want to praise the determined stand of President Ronald Reagan and Secretary of State George Shultz in their explicit rejection of terrorism, its perpetrators and its supporters," he said in a speech to the general council of the World Zionist Organization.

Peres later told Shultz by telephone that Israel shared the Reagan administration's attitude on terrorism and hoped about 40 American hijack hostages held in Beirut would be released soon, said an Israeli official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said that in the telephone conversation Shultz assured Peres that the United States "will make no deals or concessions to terrorists and will not ask others to do so."

In recent days, tensions between the two allies increased with Israeli officials complaining that there is behind-the-scenes pressure from Washington for Israel to expedite the release of Lebanese Shiites and other Arab prisoners whose freedom is demanded by the hijackers and Shiite militiamen holding the hostages in Beirut.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin had been the most outspoken, telling soldiers on Thursday that Israel would not respond to "unofficial pressure designed to make us volunteer (a release) so that someone else looks nicer and we don't look so nice."

A day earlier, Reagan had criticized Israel for transferring the Lebanese Shiites from the Ansar prison camp in south Lebanon to the Atlit prison in northern Israel. He said the move was in violation of Geneva conventions on the treatment of war prisoners.

AP Laserphoto

In Beirut, Shiite Moslem radicals, one carrying a portrait of Iran's revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, chant anti-American slogans during a demonstration in support of the hijacking of the TWA jet at Beirut International Airport.

An Israeli government official who spoke on condition of anonymity said there were about 760 prisoners in Israel's Atlit prison. He said two-thirds, about 500, were Shiite and the rest were Palestinians, Sunni Moslems, Christians and Druse. They were arrested in south Lebanon on charges they planned or participated in attacks on Israeli troops that occupied the area.

Rejecting a contention by Lebanese Shiite leader Nabih Berri that the Shiite prisoners in Israel were as innocent as the TWA hostages in Beirut, the official said, "Many were involved in carrying out terrorist actions against the Israeli army and the (Israeli-backed) South Lebanon Army. So there are no innocents there" in Atlit.

Peres said the June 14 hijacking of the TWA jetliner had made it difficult for Israel to go ahead with plans for release of the Shiite prisoners, which had been in preparation as part of Israel's disengagement from Lebanon.

"Up to now the matter of freeing the hostages was only a subject that was covered by security considerations in south Lebanon," he said in an interview with Israel radio. "Now there is an additional problem: not to give the impression of a general surrender to hijackers."

Israeli leaders said an exception would be considered only if the United States specifically asked Israel to expedite their release.

"The United States has not turned to Israel asking it to take any action whatsoever," Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said in the text of a West German television interview that was released Friday. He said he doubted such a request would be made.

In his speech, Peres called for an "international structure" to fight terrorism and deal with countries like Libya and Iran which give funds and weapons to terrorists. He did not offer any specific proposals to combat terrorism, however.

Without international cooperation, Peres said, "terrorism will continue to run rampant...On the other hand, if the world organizes as it should against terrorism, there is every chance that terror will be suppressed."

Peres argued against making a hard-and-fast rule not to negotiate in a hostage situation. "I don't see why every terrorist should know how we will behave. It is permitted for us to leave them in a fog."

For example, he said, Israel had considered meeting the demands of terrorists before launching the 1976 rescue raid at Entebbe airport in Uganda.

"In war sometimes there is retreat. There are tactics and there is strategy. As far as strategy is concerned, there is no country that fought terrorism, fought terrorists, and will continue to combat terror like Israel," he said.

Peres rejected the allegation of one questioner that the hijacking was spurred by Israel's lopsided prisoner exchange last month, in which it released 1,150 convicted guerrillas for three Israeli soldiers.

"As far as I know, the planning of this plane's hijack was done before the the prisoners were released," he said, referring to the exchange May 20.

Shultz assures Israel U.S. won't cave in to hijackers' demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz assured Israel on Friday that the Reagan administration will make no concessions to the hijackers in Beirut or ask others to yield to their demands.

In a telphone conversation at noontime, Shultz told Prime Minister Shimon Peres that "our position remains firm," spokesman Bernard Kalb said afterward.

He said Shultz offered assurances that "we will make no deals or concessions to terrorists and will not ask others to do so."

The main demand of the hijackers is that Israel release some 760 Shiites detained in southern Lebanon during the Israeli military occupation and now held near Haifa. More than 1,100 others were set free before the hijacking of TWA flight 847 last Friday.

Nabih Berri, the Lebanese justice minister who has taken charge of dealing with the hijackers, said this week that if the Shiites were released the crisis would be resolved within 24 hours.

A U.S. official, who demanded anonymity, said the Reagan administration expects Israel to honor the commitment it made before the hijacking to release all the Shiites.

"They are well aware of our position they are holding them illegally," he said.

However, the official said, the release should not be "linked" to the seizure of the Americans. U.S. policy in terrorist incidents is to neither negotiate nor yield to demands.

Peres called Shultz "to express his and Israel's full support and admiration for the position the United States has taken with regard to the hijacking of the TWA plane," spokesman Kalb said.

The Israeli leader expressed his sympathy for the American hostages and for their families, saying Israel "feels about them as we would about our own people," Kalb said.

Asked if there were any disputes between the two governments, the spokesman said, "I know of no disagreements."

The 40 hostages are being held at undisclosed locations. Five to seven of them were separated from the main group last Saturday and, according to some reports, are being held in Baalbec, some 35 miles from Beirut.

U.S. officials said they did not know whether their captives, apparently radical Shiites, could be influenced by Berri, who is also leader of the Amal militia.

But the administration continued to hold the Lebanese minister responsible for the safety the 37 passengers and three crew members. "Mr. Berri has publicly assumed responsibilty for dealing with the hijackers," Kalb said. "He has assured us the passengers are safe and well. We have told him we consider him responsible for the safe return of our people and the prompt resolution of this affair."

Rifle-carrying man kills mother at agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rifle-carrying man eluded State Department security Friday, shot and killed his mother in a hallway 100 feet from Secretary of State George Shultz's office, then took his own life.

Shultz was working in his office when the shootings occurred about noon. It was the violent climax of what District of Columbia police said was a domestic quarrel involving a mother and son.

Neither local police nor State Department officials could explain how the gunman could breach the department's strict security measures, including metal detectors at every public entrance to the building, and go apparently unchallenged to the same floor where Shultz's suite is situated.

City police identified the victims as State Department employee Carole Doster, 44, of suburban Alexandria, Va., and her son, Edward Steven Doster, 20, also of Alexandria.

Several department officials suggested that the young Doster, who also carried a knife, most likely entered the building with a pass that identified him as a dependent of a department employee.

People using dependent passes, along with employees, certain contractors and members of the press, had not been required to pass through metal detectors or have their packages searched when they entered the building.

The department issued a notice late Friday declaring that visitors without State Department or Agency for International Development identification would be required henceforth to pass through metal detectors.

It said cars entering the garage would be similarly checked. It said drivers and passengers without ID cards would be required to get out and pass through the metal detector at the main entrance.

Reporters holding State Department passes were required to pass through metal detectors Friday for the first time.

Before the new rules were announced, a senior department official told reporters security at the agency already was in good shape.

"I think tragic incidents such as this can take place...It's possible for an employee to walk in with a weapon and shoot somebody," he said.

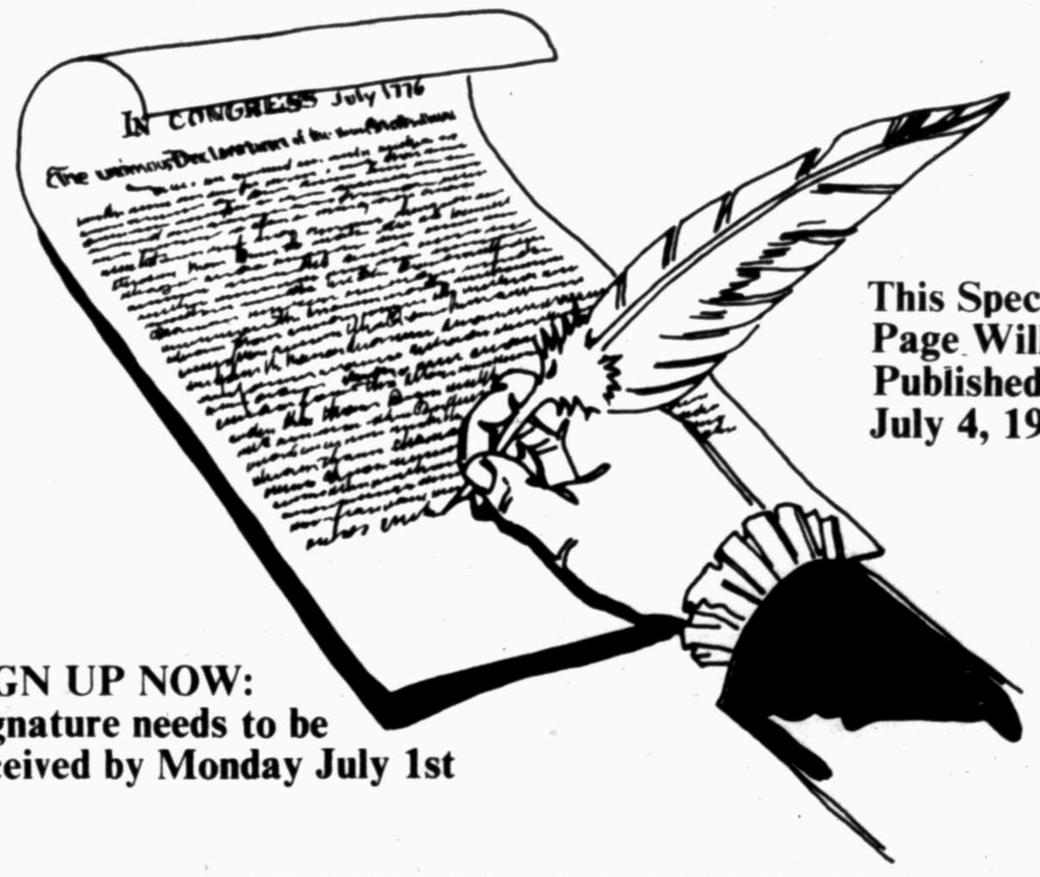

He added: "We have to function here. Seven thousand employees. Are we going to search 7,000 people every day? I don't think so."

The official sought to draw a distinction between what happened Friday and the possibility of a terrorist incident. He said there was no guarantee that a similar shooting might not happen again, but that if a gunman had been looking for Shultz, he would have to get past extra security surrounding Shultz's office.

"The incident in no way relates to any official business of the State Department or any of its officials," State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said earlier.

"At no time was there a threat to the security of the State Department or any other senior officials of the department," Kalb said. "This was not a terrorist incident."

Medical experts: Body definitely Mengele

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — An international group of medical experts unanimously concluded Friday that a body unearthed two weeks ago belonged to the infamous Nazi death camp doctor Josef Mengele.

"We have a reasonable scientific certainty that the body is that of Josef Mengele," Dr. Lowell Levine of the New York State Police told reporters packed into a federal police room.

Levine, a member of the investigating team, delivered the report to the Brazilian federal police in the name of the U.S. Justice Department and the Simon Wiesenthal Center for Holocaust Studies in Los Angeles.

"It's him. There's no way it's not him," he told reporters. He said the report would be submitted to a U.S. court.

Mengele, the so-called "Angel of Death," was responsible for sending some 400,000 Jews and others to their deaths and conducting sadistic experiments at the Auschwitz extermination camp in Poland during World War II.

Romeu Tuma, the chief Brazilian investigator, said the official findings would be released later but did not say when.

Five Brazilians performed initial tests, and further studies were done by a team of four Americans from the Wiesenthal center, three Americans sent by the U.S. Marshal's Service of the Justice Department and three West Germans. Israel sent at least one official to aid them.

After the announcement, the Israeli Embassy in Brasilia said its government would make its own examination and issue a separate report. The West German Embassy said it would wait to see the report before commenting.

The search for the most-hunted Nazi fugitive reached Brazil in early June, when tips from the West Germans led federal police to Austrian immigrants Wolfram and Liselotte Bossert. The couple said they sheltered Mengele during his 18-year stay in this South American country, and led police to a weed-covered grave in the town of Embu, 17 miles from Sao Paulo.

They told authorities the Nazi doctor died Feb. 7, 1979, while swimming at a nearby resort.

In Los Angeles, Wiesenthal Center officials said they were "99 percent" satisfied the body is Mengele's.

In an earlier interview with a San Francisco radio station, Nazi hunter Simon Weisenthal in Vienna, Austria, said, "We have no choice but to accept the findings of the experts."

West German experts turned to another Mengele examination — this one into four notebooks the camp doctor purportedly filled with personal reflections between 1960-77, said Norbert Sakowski, deputy editor of Bunte magazine, which is publishing some of the documents.

In Sao Paulo, the investigators expressed confidence in the results of their investigation.

"I believe that with the experts of the caliber we have here, you have to accept the conclusion," said Israeli police officer Menachem Russek, a leading authority on Mengele's life and one of the foreign specialists aiding the investigation.

He added, "Maybe I'm a little disappointed that he was not brought to trial."

Leftists claim responsibility for death of U.S. Marines

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A little-known leftist guerrilla group claimed responsibility Friday for the massacre of four American Marines at a San Salvador cafe. U.S. officials eulogized the Marines as fighting "a war we cannot lose."

The Mardoqueo Cruz Urban Guerrilla Commandos, one of several guerrilla groups fighting the U.S.-supported government of President Jose Napoleon Duarte, issued a statement saying it carried out the attack.

The Marines were among 13 people, including two American businessmen, killed Wednesday night when six to 10 men wearing Salvadoran army uniforms opened fire with automatic weapons on patrons at two outdoor cafes in San Salvador's "Pink Zone," a strip of restaurants and clubs.

Earlier Friday, the flag-draped caskets of the slain Marines were put on a U.S. Air Force plane for the trip back to the United States.

"You have served your country well. We are proud of you. We have come to take you home," Robert E. Lamb, an assistant secretary of state, said at a brief airport ceremony.

"It is a different kind of war but nonetheless a war," he said.

The guerrilla battle, he said, "has no front. It is not easy to win but it is a war we cannot lose."

American shot by patrol identified

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — An American shot by a Honduran military patrol near the troubled border with El Salvador was identified Friday as a 41-year-old welder from New York City.

The U.S. Embassy said it still did not know why the man, Robert Joseph Reed, and an unidentified companion were in the isolated area frequented by guerrillas and smugglers. Reed did not work for the U.S. government, the embassy said.

An embassy spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Reed, who was from the borough of Queens, entered Honduras on June 12 from neighboring Guatemala. He was killed by the border patrol Wednesday morning in a pocket of land long disputed by Honduras and El Salvador.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said the United States has requested a Honduran investigation into the death. Kalb said Reed's passport showed he entered Honduras from Guatemala on June 12.

"Mr. Reed reportedly was in the mountains near Cayablanca which is described as a disputed zone between El Salvador and Honduras when a Honduran military patrol approached and asked him to halt," Kalb said during a news briefing.

WORLD IN BRIEF

U.S. ambassador extends condolences to families

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U.S. Ambassador John Gavin extended condolences Friday to relatives of two Americans slain by drug kingpins and suggested four other missing Americans may have been killed by drug traffickers.

"The nightmare of waiting is finally over, but unfortunately what we had feared has come true. The bodies found in Guadalajara on June 18 have been positively identified as those of John Walker and Alberto Radelat," Gavin said in a statement released by the U.S. Embassy.

Referring to four missing members of Jehovah's Witnesses, all U.S. citizens, Gavin said, "There is a possibility that — as has been suggested — they may have inadvertently stumbled onto a house used by the drug traffickers and fallen into the same type of situation that occurred with Alberto Radelat and John Walker."

The statement was released after a forensic expert, at the request of the families of Radelat and Walker, confirmed in Guadalajara that bodies unearthed from a grave were the two men. Embassy officials refused to identify the expert for security reasons.

'Pagans' see Stonehenge

STONEHENGE, England (AP) — Barbed wire, police and guard dogs kept hundreds of people away from Stonehenge on Friday, but police allowed 40 people to march in the rain around the ancient monument in celebration of the first day of summer.

"We are at one with the infinite sun," the celebrants chanted as they marched around the double ring of stones in observance of the summer solstice. They call themselves Pagans for Peace.

Peter Mills of the English Heritage Commission that controls the 4,000-year-old monument, said the group had pledged not to cause trouble and was allowed to walk only outside the barbed wire that protects the stones.

About 1,500 people camping 17 miles west of the rain-swept monument had threatened to try to break through the police lines in defiance of a court ban, but they stayed away.

Hundreds of police and security guards with dogs patrolled the two-square-mile site. A court injunction banned Rawle's group from holding a rock festival that has been held annually for the past 12 years as part of summer solstice celebrations.

Moslems battle in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite and Sunni Moslem gunmen battled in the streets of west Beirut on Friday as the Shiites tried to force proprietors at gunpoint to ignore a strike called by rival Sunnis.

The strike, observed by many store owners in the Hamra commercial district of west Beirut, was called by Kamal Chatilla, leader of the Sunni Nasserite faction, a small leftist group that wanted to protest the lawlessness in the Lebanese capital.

Sunni militants have attacked a series of Shiite targets, heightening tensions between west Beirut's two main Moslem communities.

There were no reports of casualties as the gunfire echoed through the district Friday.

Roman mosaic unearthed

VALLON, Switzerland (AP) - An ancient mosaic of more than 150 square feet has been unearthed in the ruins of a Roman country villa near this western Swiss town.

The richly colored mosaic, estimated to contain half a million stones, depicts an animal tamer and a jumping beast. It is located in what archaeologists said was assumed to have been the reception room.

The villa, built in the first-century, is near Avenches, which flourished under the Romans in the second century as the city of Aventicum with a population of 50,000.
