Fraser Re-Elected

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)-Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser's Liberal-National Country Party coalition was returned to power today in Australia's national elections.

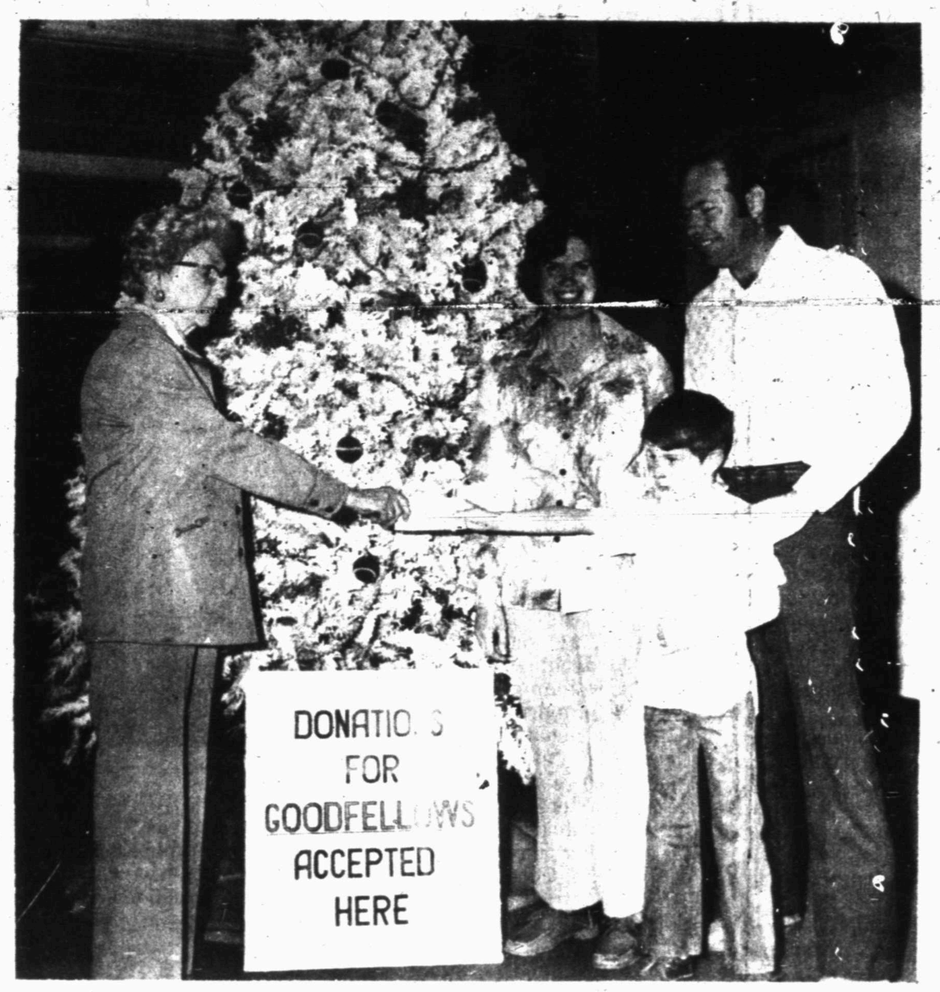

Gough Whitlam leader of the largest opposition faction, the Labor Party, conceded the election in a brief televised speech.

"I congratulate the Liberal-National Country Party on winning and winning convincingly," Whitlam said.

Cosmonauts In Space

MOSCOW (AP)-The Soviet Union fired two cosmonauts into space early today in an apparent effort to overcome technical problems that blocked an earlier crew of cosmonauts from linking up with the orbiting Salyut-6 space station.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the new "Soyuz;26" cosmonauts, Air Force Lt. Col. Yuri Romanenko, 33, and Georgy Grechko, a 46-year-old civilian backup pilot from the 1975 joint Apollo-Soyuz mission with the United States, would carry out "joint experiments" with the Salyut lab.

GOODFELLOWS IN ACTION--Julia Pollard, left, representing Snyder Goodfellows, hands a $500 check to 5-year-old Kirk Bowlin who accepts on behalf of his family who lost all of their possessions when their home was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. Standing with Kirk are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Bowlin. His sister, Terri, 9, was at school when the presentation was made. Goodfellow officials quickly made arrangements to assist the Bowlins who were suddenly left without home, clothing or furniture. Friends have established a special fund at West Texas State Bank for the Bowlins who are residing temporarily with Mrs. Bowlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Moreland.

Rep. Jordan Won't Seek Fourth Term

HOUSTON (AP)-Barbara Jordan, the Houston congresswoman who gained national prominence during the Richard Nixon impeachment hearings, said today she will not seek a fourth term from the inner city, predominantly black district.

In a prepared statement released just before the start of a news conference, Miss Jordan said she does not know what future course she will pursue.

"Whether in the public or private sector, I do not know," she said. "I do know that my decision will not be made in haste."

"For reasons predicated totally on my internal compass directing me to divert my energy to something different and to move away from demands which are all-consuming, I shall not seek elective office in 1978," she said.

"This decision is made now rather than two or four years hence because I think it would become increasingly difficult for me to change course. There is, I believe, an inverse relationship between duration of tenure in the Congress and the ability to shift gears."

Miss Jordan, 41, had said last week she was weighing the "pros and cons" of running for another term.

The Texas Democrat has been a member of Congress since 1972 and her oratory highlighted the House impeachment hearings in 1974 and the Democratic convention of 1976.

US To Support Cairo Meeting

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)-Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met with President Anwar Sadat today and said afterward the United States will do all it can to support Sadat's Cairo peace conference as a stop toward an over-all Middle East settlement at Geneva.

Vance and Sadat spent two hours at the Egyptian leader's villa on the Nile, discussing the Cairo talks that are to begin Wednesday with representatives from Israel, Egypt, the United States and the United Nations.

The Soviet Union, other Arab states and the Palestine Liberation Organization have refused to attend the conference.

At a news conference after meeting with Sadat, Vance praised the Egyptian's peace overtures to Israel and said: "We in the United States shall do everything in our power to maintain the momentum. Our objective remains a comprehensive settlement."

The secretary of state travels to Israel later today and then goes on to Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia hoping to nudge Arab leaders into Sadat's corner.

Vance cautioned after the Sadat meeting that "there is a great deal of work to be done to pave the way" to reconvening the Geneva conference with all the parties to the Mideast conflict. Sadat has billed his conference as a prelude to the Geneva talks.

Our nomination for quote of the week:

"I discovered that the system makes it much easier for the government to promulgate new regulations than to get rid of outmoded or ineffective ones."--U.S. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall.

Sec. Marshall made that statement when he and Assistant Secretary Dr. Eula Bingham announced that they planned to scrap 1,100 job safety rules of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

The fact that an agency had as many as 1,100 rules is significant within itself, but to be able to scrap that many and still have hundreds left should be a clue to the size of this segment of the federal bureaucracy. And we certainly are aware that this and other agencies always seem to have people who can think up rules and regulations faster than the public can analyze them and much faster than arrangements can be made to write others off.

So, one of the bright spots of the past week must certainly be the action by the U.S. Department of Labor Leading to 1,100 deletions of such regulations as the height of fire extinguishers above the floor and the shape of toilet seats. We need more of this, and also we need people who know something about the various fields with which they deal to write the rules in the first place.

Latest estimates on the Scurry County cotton crop which came out of the meeting of the Scurry County Producers Association, have gone up to 90,000 bales.

This would be a tremendous record. The county's previous high was 54,600 bales in 1972, which also produced the highest yield per acre, 552 pounds.

Both marks are expected to fall this year as farmers harvest around 73,000 acres.

The cotton harvest is somewhat different all the way around from the days prior to mechanization. Big machines pull the bolls now and pour them into the trailers. And now we even see compacted modules of cotton riding to the gin on flat bed vehicles. There was a time when man used his hands to do most of the harvest work.

For example, J.P. Ellis ran across this old clipping from the Scurry County Times of some years ago which noted: "J.P. Ellis is a small boy ten years of age and lives on a farm fifteen miles south of Snyder. His parents have never allowed him to pick cotton for a full day, fearing he would overtax his strength, but during the time they allow him to pick, he averages four hundred and eighteen pounds. That boy is very anxious for his parents to let him see just how much he can pick as he seems to be fond of the work."

Then, there was another clipping, obviously five years later:

"On Tuesday of last week, J.P. Ellis, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Ellis, pulled 928 pounds of bolls and when picking picked 508 pounds of cotton in one day."

If there had been a few more around as fond of the work as that, mechanization might not have come so early as it did.

Costly To Everyone

Christmas Season Has Appeal To Shoplifters

By JOHN LONG

Visions of gaily wrapped Christmas presents danced before the young man's eyes as he surveyed the neat rows of merchandise lined up along the variety store's shelves.

Casting furtive glances about him, he quickly and silently lifted a small article from the shelf and placed it in his coat pocket. That was his own Christmas present, he thought to himself. But he did not forget his parents and brother. Before leaving the store, he also stole presents for them.

The scene is one that is all too common. The crime is shoplifting.

"Shoplifting is stealing. It is just out-and-out stealing," said police Juvenile Officer Jim Saunders. "Shoplifting is a characteristic of a basically dishonest person," he added, and the aura of being a thief will surround the person for years to come.

Nationally, shoplifting accounts for a one to two percent gross profit loss for stores, said Saunders, and the national average is expected to hold true on a local level as well.

Shoplifting is a costly crime. It is costly to the store that loses the merchandise, costly to the customer who has to pay higher prices to offset the store's loss, and costly to the shoplifter who is caught.

The shoplifter is charged with the aggregrate value of the goods he has stolen. If the value of the goods is $5 or less, the offense is a Class C misdemeanor which carries with it a possible $200 fine.

A theft of $5 to $20 worth of goods is a Class B misdemeanor in which the person may be fined up to $1,000 and possibly even jailed up to 180 days. In the

Costs May Jeopardize Tennis Court Project

A city-county-school tennis court project here may be in jeopardy due to its cost.

That was the situation at the end of the week following the opening of bids by a committee representing the three agencies.

A bid of $279,000 by C.B. Thompson of Lubbock, the contractor on the county jail project, was the lower of two bids received. This is some $60,000 above the preliminary estimates.

Members of the committee expressed disappointment over the bids. Their next move will be to take the figures to the governing bodies of the three agencies. Some felt that their groups would be reluctanct to accept the $279,000 bid.

The tennis court project has been in the mill for nearly two years, but only reached a planning stage last spring. The project got consideration by the City Council, County Commissioners Court and Snyder School Board following requests by groups of local citizens who urged that more public facilities be provided here for tennis enthusiasts.

Ultimately, the three agencies formed a joint committee composed of County Commissioner Eldon Perry, School Superintendent Bill J. Hood, City Manager George Patterson and Mayor John Fagin. The committee was empowered to take the project through the planning stage and obtain bids. The final decision will rest with the County Commissioners Court, the City Council and the School Board.

The bid is expected to be discussed by all three bodies early in the week. County Commissioners meet on Monday and the City Council has a special session set for Monday evening. The School Board's regular December meeting is set for Tuesday night.

The agreement reached earlier would have all three agencies sharing equally in construction of eight tennis courts with lighting, fencing and some bleachers. Also, cost of offices in a building would be shared equally, but the school would, on its own, add some dressing room facilities to the building for use by students in the school tennis program.

Harvest Sets Daily Record

The equivalent of a bale per acre already had gone through Scurry County cotton gins by the end of the week as 1977 harvest figures continued to set records daily.

By Friday, the nine gins in the county had processed 65,974 bales of cotton and had 7,535 bales on their yards. This makes an over-all total of 73,509 bales to reach the gins and there is more to come.

Although the pace has slowed somewhat, reports were that some cotton remained on the stalk in the fields. But most of the cotton that has not yet reached the gin appeared to be on trailers or stored in ricks and modules on the farm waiting for trailers or for the ginners to catch up.

Latest estimates were that the total ginning figures would go well beyond the 80,000-bale mark and some went as high as 90,000 bales.

The reports by gins at the end of the week:

Some Bitter On Welcome Of Prisoners

By PETTER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP)-Sixty-one Americans have returned to the United States from Mexican jails in time for Christmas. But the war hero-like greeting they got raised the ire of some observers.

Cheering, flag-waving crowds of loved ones greeted the convicts Friday in the first phase of a prisoner exchange program under a treaty between the United States and Mexico.

Sixty-five more Americans were to return Saturday.

But Friday, some were bitter about all the hoopla surrounding the first group's homecoming at Lindbergh Field.

"You'd think they just came back from war," said a worker at a nearby airplane factory. "Well, they haven't...they're just a bunch of criminals."

Earlier Friday, the jet that brought the Americans back had taken 36 Mexican prisoners to their homeland. Eventually, 235 Americans will be turned over to U.S. officials by Mexican authorities.

Crowds of relatives, not allowed to visit the prisoners until today, pressed against an airfield fence Friday night to watch as the jumpsuit-clad Americans walked down a ramp. They shouted and waved as they filed into a bus that took them downtown for processing.

Included in the first group was Brenda Richards, 33, and her 2-year-old daughter, Jennifer. The woman was serving time for a drug conviction. Also aboard was an Oceanside, Calif., grandmother, 60-year-old Elizabeth Lankton, who had been in a Mexican prison for four years on a charge of smuggling cocaine.

Rep. Fortney "Pete" Stark, D-Calif., who pushed for the prison treaty signed two months ago, welcomed the returning prisoners with praise. He introduced to reporters two of the prisoners, one of whom immediately attacked the U.S. government for not aiding them in their plight.

SS Bill Is Stalled On Tuition Tax Credit

WASHINGTON (AP)-A dispute over a small tax break for parents of college students threatens to prevent final congressional action this year on Social Security.

Negotiators, under pressure from the White House and congressional leaders, agreed Friday on a payroll tax increase of $227 billion over the next decade, with the biggest share of the burden falling on middle- and upper-income workers and their employers.

But they threw up their hands and quit-at least temporarily-when neither side would give in on the tuition credit costing about $1.25 billion a year.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the conference committee, said he would call the members back into session as soon as he hears the House delegates are ready to compromise on the credit.

But Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said six of the 10 House conferees are adamant that they will never vote for the final bill if it includes any form of tuition credit.

Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., chief sponsor of the provision to allow a $250 per year per student tax credit for parents, said White House opposition caused House conferees to abandon an earlier agreement to accept a one-year test of the credit.

President Carter and Democratic leaders of Congress would like to dispose of the Social Security bill this year so lawmakers would not be tempted in 1978-an election year-to duck a vote on a major tax increases that are necessary to keep the pension fund afloat.

Although every part of the bill is still subject to amendment, the conferees reached agreement on all portions but the tuition credit.

The compromise bill would call for no tax increase in 1978 beyond the one already written into law. But starting in 1979, the amount of wages subject to the Social Security tax and the tax rate would face several increases over the following decade.

next step, the punishment range goes up to a $2,000 fine and-or a one year jail sentence if $20 to $200 worth of property is stolen.

"Even if the person gets probation," said Saunders, "He still has the record of the arrest. A criminal record shows that he can't be trusted."

Statistically, over 50 percent of shoplifting is done by juveniles. Small mercantile stores are the favorite target.

"Smaller stores are more popular targets because they don't have the security measures of larger stores. Small stores are also the least able to afford the loss because they usually operate on a narrow profit margin and they can be wiped out," said Saunders.

Shoplifters can be apprehended while still inside the store. "The store owner has the legal right to seize personal property if he has reason to believe that a theft has taken place," commented Saunders.

"If you catch a person after passing the checkout stand, you have a better case, however," he said.

"Most shoplifters would never steal money," Saunders said. They have to rationalize, he said, about their theft of property.

Ironically, most shoplifters have enough money in their pocket to pay for the merchandise they steal. Another point of irony, which Saunders pointed out, is that they usually also have enough money on them to post bond after the arrest.

"A record of theft," said Saunders, "is among the worst a person can have. Shoplifting just isn't worth it."

Escapees Sought In Four States

TURPIN, Okla. (AP)-Two Wagoner County jail escapees were being sought in four states Sat. after a deputy sheriff and another man were gunned down on a road near this Oklahoma Panhandle community.

The bodies of the victims were found at 1:23 a.m. by Kansas law officers who checked on them after they failed to radio officials during an investigation of a report that a man was standing on a highway, trying to stop traffic.

Beaver County Undersheriff Kenny Miller, 50, and a second man who authorities would not immediately identify were fatally wounded and left beside U.S. 83-270 near the Kansas-Oklahoma line, authorities said.

The shootings sparked a massive manhunt involving road-blocks in four states and an aerial search including four to five aircraft. Local, county and state authorities in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Colorado were called on to help track down the suspects.

The two men believed involved in the shooting later drove the deputy's car to a farm house east of Tyrone, in Texas County, where they abducted a resident, identified as Larry Bryan, and fled in his pickup truck, the state patrol reported.

Authorities said Bryan was able to escape without injury and gave law officers a description of the men.

The patrol reported that the two men believed involved in the shootings and attempted abduction had been identified as James Earl Lewis, 29, and David W. Richardson, 21.

Lewis and Richardson had escaped from the Wagoner County jail in northeastern Oklahoma Nov. 26 when they filed a lock off a jail door and climbed through a window, officials there said today.

Lewis, of Tahlequah, had been transferred to Wagoner from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary-lin McAlester, where he was serving time for burglary, to stand trial on another burglary charge.

Richardson, of Wagoner, was awaiting trial on a separate burglary charge.

State patrol officials said the incident began just after midnight when a man came to Miller's home in Turpin, about eight miles south of the Kansas state line. The man told Miller that a man was standing in the road two or three miles north of Turpin, trying to stop traffic.

Miller and the man went to the scene and, after they had been out of radio contact with Beaver County authorities for about 30 minutes, a member of the Seward County, Kan. sheriff's office at Liberal, seven miles from the scene, was sent to investigate. The Kansas officers found two bodies beside the road. Miller had been shot in the back of the head and the other man was also fatally wounded.

Also found at the scene was a station wagon that had been stolen Thursday in Tahlequah, Okla.

An hour later, highway patrol trooper Gary Daffern found Miller's vehicle at the farm residence east of Tyrone.

Residents at the farm said two men came to the house and took their pickup truck, holding Bryan as a hostage. Bryan escaped a short time later, officers said, but officials asked him not to comment on the incident.

Tractors Roll Into Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)-Two lines of tractors, each nearly five miles long, rolled into Washington Saturday with their drivers steaming despite gusty winds and cold.

The temperature was 23 degrees and winds gusted at more than 20 mph as the first vehicles crossed into the District of Columbia from Maryland and Virginia before noon.

Some of the signs proclaimed "100 percent parity or no food."

The number of tractors fell far short of the 5,000 to 10,000 that had been predicted earlier, or even the 1,000 estimate made earlier in the day. Maryland state police said the convoy was more than 400 vehicles long. In Virginia, police counted 152 trucks and tractors.

The demonstration, in Washington and around the country, is to let President Carter, the Congress and the nation know how serious farmers are about higher farm prices.

Thefts, Vandalism, Mishaps Probed

In addition to losing their playoff game here Friday night, several players on the Wall football team lost much more.

Snyder coach Winford Shipp told police the Snyder High School field house had been burglarized and that two senior rings and approximately $136 in cash were taken.

In other reports, local people were also the victims of involuntary sacrifices Friday.

R.C. Read, of 1905 Coleman St., told police that he was missing two lawnmowers. Value of the lawnmowers was set at $150.

Ronnie Morris told officers that he had a tape deck and several other items, collectively valued at $28, taken from his 1306 20th St. home. The theft is reported to have occurred between Dec. 2 and Dec. 8.

Early Saturday morning, A.H. Joiner informed police that someone had knocked out a window on a company-owned car parked outside his 4118 Jacksboro residence. Damage in the incident is set at $100.

Three minor traffic accidents were also investigated by police.

Friday's first mishap occurred at 4:29 p.m. at the intersection of 25th St. and Ave. Q and involved a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Virginia Huddleston and a 1970 Ford driven by Londa Pittman Bradley.

The 1700 block of 25th St. was the scene of a two-vehicle collision shortly before 5 p.m. The mishap involved a 1974 Ford driven by Bobby Guy Womack and a 1967 Chevrolet driven by Anatolio Z. Gonzalez of Walsh, Colo.

A 1977 Chevrolet pickup driven by Corby Dean Barrett was in collision with a 1975 Ford driven by Sammy Ray Ward Friday at 8:55 p.m. in the 3900 block of College Ave.

Man Escapes Injury In Major Accident

A 19-year-old Snyderite escaped with no injuries from a major one vehicle accident early Saturday morning.

Investigating highway patrolmen said the mishap occurred at 3 a.m., approximately 2.3 miles north of Snyder in the business district of U.S. Highway 84.

Patrolmen reported that a 1976 Buick driven by Roger Lyon left the road and skidded broadside into a fence gate.

Extensive damages were reported to the car.

We would like to express in some special way to each and every person how much your prayers, thoughts, and deeds have meant to us in our hours of sorrow and desperation.

The greatest gift of prayer was an instrument Bill and I could not have survived without. Each prayer made each hour more bearable, and we will continue to draw from this strength for the even longer hours ahead.

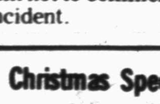

The food, flowers, cards and prayers will never be forgotten or their meaning lessend in time.

We hope to send each you a special Thank You, but in case we should miss someone, we want to say again, to anyone who in anyway thought of us and Angela how deeply grateful we are.

Our feeling of loss has been filled with a bond of friendship toward each of you that shall never pass from our hearts or minds.

ROLES IN "OLIVER"--Sherilyn Campbell, left, will be seen in the title role of "Oliver" in the Snyder High Musical which opens Thursday night. Donna Browning, right, plays one of the many young boys' roles assigned to girls in the production. Girls were chosen for these roles because they have the sound of "unchanged" voices typical of young boys. "Oliver" is the 14th musical in the series at SHS. Curtain time will be 8 p.m., Thursday through Saturday. Reserved tickets priced at $4 each and general admission tickets at $2 may be reserved by calling Janet Wesson at 573-6301.

Stage Set For Annual Snyder High Musical

The annual Snyder High School Fine Arts Department Musical will open this week in the school's auditorium. A joint presentation of the Drama, Choral and Instrumental Music Departments, this years show, "Oliver" will open Thursday and run through Saturday evening. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Both reserved and general admission tickets are on sale at the high school.

Utilizing a cast and crew of nearly 100, the production will feature beautiful scenery, authentic costumes, a live orchestra, colorful lighting, choreography, and memorable music and story.

Last year's musical only ran two nights, but a third night has been added to this year's show. Due to the closeness to Christmas and the crowded schedules which most families are experiencing, Directors Jerry Worsham and Bill Lyon expressed hope that the extra evening will give more people a chance to see the production. In the past, hold-over performances have been held to accommodate those who were unable to see the show in its' normal run. However, the directors point out that there definitely will not be a hold over performance this year.

As has been traditional in the past, a good bit of the scenery will be from the professional scene studios in Dallas of Peter Wolf. However, a massive replica of London Bridge has been built across the 40 foot expanse of the stage and two thrust stages on either side of the main stage have added to the local auditorium's ability to stage this show.

"Oliver" is an appealing show taking its inspiration from the writings of Oliver Twist. As a motion picture and Broadway show it was a tremendous success, winning six Academy Awards.

Four Sentenced In County Court

Four men, all charged with driving while intoxicated, were sentenced last week in county court after entering guilty pleas.

Receiving identical $100 fines and 30-day jail terms, probated for six months, were Edwin Lee Youngblood, John R. Benitez, and Walter Williams.

Keith William Jordan fined $100 and given a three-day jail term.

Clifford M. Holland, the first chief engineer of the Holland Tunnel, died on Oct. 27, 1924, just two days before sandhogs working from the New Jersey side met those working from the Manhattan side midway under the Hudson River to complete the first of the vehicular tunnel's two shafts.

Soviets Buy More Wheat And Corn

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Soviet Union has bought an additional 851,600 metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn, pushing its purchases above the minimum required under a long-term agreement.

Agriculture Department officials said Friday that the new sales included 250,000 tons of wheat and 601,600 tons of corn for delivery to the Soviet Union in 1977-78.

Under terms of a five-year agreement, the Soviet Union is committed to buy a minimum of six million tons of the two grains combined annually. In the first year of the pact which ended Sept. 30, about the minimum amount was purchased.

The United States has given the Soviets permission to buy up to 15 million tons in the current year of the agreement, and officials expect that they will buy about 10 million tons of corn and five million of wheat.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat of 39.4 bushels of corn.

Counting earlier purchases, the Soviet Union now has bought about 6.4 million tons of grain for delivery in the current year, including 2.3 million tons of wheat and 4.1 million tons of corn.

Converted to bushels this amounts to 85 million bushels of wheat and about 161 bushels of corn.

Meanwhile, in another report Friday, the department announced a revised estimate of 1977 wheat production. As of Dec. 1, officials said this year's wheat crop was almost 2.026 billion bushels less than the department had estimated in October, its previous wheat forecast.

Although this year's wheat harvest was slightly smaller than had been expected, it still was the third largest on record, exceeded only by the record of 2.14 billion bushels last year and the harvest of 2.13 billion in 1975.

COTTON HARVEST

Most of the cotton left in the fields at this time is in ricks and modules as well as trailers. Some still remains to be stripped, but for the most part is winding down. This backlog will keep the gins busy for some time yet.

The local gins report 65,974 ginned and 7535 on the yard. This year may never be equaled in production figures on per acre basis or total production either.

SUPPLEMENTAL VITAMIN A

Many beef cattle may not be getting enough vitamin A in their diets this fall due to drought conditions and lack of green forages. So producers may want to supply a supplemental source of vitamin A for cows grazing dry, bleached pastures with little or no green hay or silage.

Vitamin A promotes growth, stimulates appetite, aids in reproduction and lactation, keeps the mucous membranes of respiratory and other tracts in healthy condition, and make for normal vision.

Deficiencies of vitamin A during pregnancy may cause cows to abort or give birth to dead or weak calves. Exteme deficiencies may also impair the ability of cows to conceive. Bulls receiving insufficient vitamin A show a decline in sexual activity and semen quality.

Carotene, which supplies vitamin A, is contained in all green parts of growing plants. Good pastures always provide liberal and rich supplies of carotene and thus have a high vitamin A value. However, vitamin value decrease after the plant's bloom stage and much of the carotene is destroyed in hay by oxidation during field curing. The degree of greenness in a roughage is usually a good index of its carotene content, but hay over one year old (regardless of color) is usually not an adequate source of carotene or vitamin A.

The vitamin A requirement of breeding, growing and finishing beef cattle can be met by carotene in feedstuffs such as green pastures, grass or legume silages, hay not over a year old, or by supplementary vitamin A either by intramuscular injection or orally.

The intramuscular injection of emulsified vitamin A at the rate of one million units apparently provides sufficient vitamin A to prevent deficiency signs for two to four months in growing or breeding beef cattle.

Early Christmas Package Late

PERTH AMBOY, N.J. (AP)-A Christmas present from Edward Borkowski, one-time Army sergeant stationed in Vietnam, has arrived in plenty of time for the holidays.

It was sent in 1972.

A city mailman here delivered the 11-by-14 inch brown papered package Thursday to Mrs. Mildred Borkowski, the sergeant's mother.

In the package was a framed picture of her son and his wife, who now lives with their three children in Ohio.

The gift, which arrived via California and Kentucky was stamped "U.S. Priority Mail

Texas Wrapping Up Harvest Operations

COLLEGE STATION (AP)-Wrapping up harvest operations, getting cropland in shape for next spring, and taking care of livestock - that's the current agricultural scene over Texas.

Some cotton harvesting continues in the High and Rolling Plains and Far West Texas while limited soybean and peanut harvesting continues in central and eastern areas, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The pecan harvest also remains active over much of the state, and citrus and vegetables are moving to market in southern locations. In addition, the sugar cane harvest is in full swing in the Rio Grande Valley.

Many livestock are going into the winter season in less than optimum condition. Feeding has been active and some culling and marketing continues, noted Pfannstiel.

Small grains are providing some grazing for livestock in the plains and in northern and eastern sections that received recent rains. However, most fields are making little growth due to dry conditions.

Reports from district extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: The cotton harvest is about 75 percent complete, with good yields and quality. Sugar beet harvesting has been completed. Dryland wheat is suffering from lack of rain while that under irrigation is providing grazing for stocker cattle. The number of stocker cattle grazing wheat is down.

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton harvesting continues north of Lubbock. Ginning will be active for some time due to the amount of cotton stored in the field. Irrigated wheat is making good progress and is providing grazing for cattle. Range conditions are below average.

ROLLING PLAINS: Cotton harvesting is rapidly moving toward completion. The crop has been excellent. Grazing is short on both wheat fields and native pastures. Stock water is also low in many areas. Supplemental feeding is widespread; calving is under way.

NORTH CENTRAL: Some soybean, peanut and pecan harvesting continues, with generally fair yields. A few fields of small grains are still being planted while early fields are providing limited grazing. Cattle feeding is active. Farmers are preparing land for next spring's crops.

NORTHEAST: Recent rains have caused wheat and oats to make excellent growth. All crops are in except for pecans which are producing good yields over most of the area. Livestock are in fair to good shape, and improving grazing conditions from small grains, clover and ryegrass should help the situation.

FAR WEST: Cotton harvesting, the major activity, is rapidly moving toward completion. Pecan harvesting continues in full swing, with a good to excellent crop. The entire area remains dry so grazing is short. Livestock feeding is active. Culling of old and dry cows continues.

WEST CENTRAL: Harvesting of cotton and peanuts is about complete, with fair to good yields. Pecan yields are average. Most small grains are up but are not making much growth. Livestock are receiving supplemental feed. Stock water is low in some locations.

CENTRAL: All harvest operations are complete except for pecans. Small grains are making limited growth due to the lack of moisture. Stockmen are concerned about the lack of grazing and stock water for their herds. Supplemental feeding is active.

EAST: Recent rains helped wheat and oats make good growth so as to allow some grazing. Clover and ryegrass are also providing grazing. Fall vegetable gardens also got a boost from the rains. The pecan harvest is moving toward completion; the crop is light. Livestock are in fair to good shape, with feeding active.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Some pecan harvesting continues; yields are down and quality off. Wheat and oats are making good growth due to recent rains. Wet fields are hampering the planting of flax. Most cattle are in good shape going into the winter; some feeding is under way.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Recent rains should boost wheat and oats and provide needed grazing for livestock. Farmers are busy with land preparation and applying fertilizer. Ranchers continue to cull their herds as winter approaches. Livestock feeding is active in many counties.

SOUTHWEST: Vegetable harvesting is the major activity, with spinach and kale moving to market. Onion sets are ready for harvesting; prices look promising. Cattle feeding and land preparation are active. Most cattle are in fair to good shape; some marketing continues.

COASTAL BEND: Flax planting continues, with about half the crop in. Wheat and oats are responding to recent rains and are providing some grazing. Farmers are busy with land preparation and applying fertilizer for next spring's crops. Livestock are in good shape, with some supplemental feeding.

SOUTH: Harvesting of fall vegetables, citrus and sugar cane continues. A good supply of bell peppers and some cabbage is moving to market. Citrus harvesting is gaining momentum with the holiday season approaching and gift orders increasing. Carrots and onions are making good progress. Farmers are plowing cropland and applying fertilizer and herbicides.

Language Was Cleaned Up

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)-The writer of the comic stri- "Popeye" says his musele-bound, spinach-eating character started out as a foul-mouthed sailor - strictly adult entertainment.

However, Bud Sagendorf told an audience here recently that he cleaned up Popeye's language in 1931 after receiving a telegram from newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst.

Sagendorf said Hearst told him the new strip was gaining unexpected favor with youngsters, and requested that Popeye's harsh language be toned down.

Eagles Roll Past Wall Hawks Here, 20-6...

Seagraves Punches Ticket To State

Seagraves' hopes of a state football title loom just a little bit nearer to reality now after a 20-6 slashing of Wall here last night.

The Eagles, who rolled for 351 yards in the semi-final victory, receive a ticket to the Class A championship contest next weekend against East Bernard.

Seagraves, a team which many thought would have trouble moving against Wall's powerful defense, took its first possession and marched 72 yards in nine plays to score.

Mike Hoover, 195-lb. fullback, gave evidence the Wall wall was penetratable on the first Seagraves play as he scampered for 38 yards to the opponent 34.

Highlighted by a 15-yard pass from Dennis Middleton to Clarence Davis seconds later, the Eagle drive rang up 6 points as halfback Steve McCormick swept left end from six yards out. Davis Morgan's kick-after was good and with 3:30 left in the opening period, Seagraves went ahead, 7-0.

Two possessions later, Seagraves took advantage of a bad punt and set up maneuvers on the Wall 43. McCormick swept left again for 7 yards and Davis took it to the right twice for 3 and 8 yards as the Eagles began their second scoring march.

After netting only one yard on a previous play, Hoover took the trap up the middle - the same play which earlier gained him 38 yards - and broke for a 24-yard TD gallop. Morgan's kick was good once more and Seagraves noted a 14-0 advantage with 10:03 left to go in the half.

Minutes later Wall got a much-needed break when a bad snap gave Michael Mikulik time to sack punter Wesley Smith on the Seagraves 23.

Hawk running back Clayton Weishuhn garnered 7 yards on the next two plays but on third down Clarence Davis intercepted a deflected George Sharkey pass.

Luck didn't leave the Hawks too quickly though. Hoover took the middle trap for 11 yards and Middleton passed to Smith for 18 more as Seagraves appeared to be goal line headed once more, but on first and 10 from the 38, Middleton fumbled the snap and Miron Braden recovered for Wall.

Not to be left without fortune beset the Hawks again two snaps later as a pass interference call moved possession to the Seagraves 8 yard line.

On first down, Weishuhn scored from six yards out to put Wall on the boards. Sharkey's PAT try was far left.

Seagraves sewed up the contest - and fans began making their way out of the winter infested stadium - as early as 11 plays deep into the third period.

Again on their first possession, the Eagles began a scoring march; this one for 60 yards and 6 points.

Like a methodical machine, Seagraves began to tap out the yardage as David picked up 2 and 7; Middleton got 3; McCormick grabbed 5 and 3; Davis came back with 6 and McCormick got a half-dozen more to the 31-yard marker of Wall.

Davis, a 6', 190-lb. all-South Plains running back, broke the 11th play for the final 93 feet, sliding out of several tackles at the line and skirting in for the TD. The senior college prospect, who had 1,678 yards going into the game, added 187 more on 27 carries to cop the game's leading rusher honors.

Morgan's kick was blocked, but Seagraves had taken the life out of a hopeful Wall team with the quick third-quarter score.

The Eagles, who close out the season with a 13-1 record now, gave one more solid effort before succumbing to the power of Seagraves and the freezing temperature.

Led by Sharkey and Weishuhn, Wall shoved and pushed to the Seagraves 48 before punting a shank ball back over to the opposition. On the next play however, Hoover fumbled and Mike Cannon came up with it to give the Hawks new life.

Weishuhn picked up 8 yards on a dive to the right to start the 'Bird drive. Danny Herrera got four on the next play and Sharkey added another four, but a sweep left on second down lost two yards for the Hawks at the Seagraves 7. On third and goal, Weishuhn picked up two yards.

A determined Eagle defense held Weishuhn short on the fourth down situation however, and Wall had to give up the ball on the opponent 5 early in the fourth quarter.

Commissioner May Halt Trade....

Kuhn And Finley At It Again

HONOLULU (AP)-Baseball's winter meetings drew to a close today following a week of frantic trading activity that greatly altered several teams in both leagues.

The highlight of the convention had to be a complex, four-team, 11-player transaction that included some top players, such as pitchers Bert Blyleven and Jon Matlack, first baseman Willie Montanez and outfielder Al Oliver. After Atlanta, Texas, Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had startled the meetings with that whopper, Cincinnati landed a haymaker of its own by obtaining pitcher Vida Blue from Oakland.

But Commission Bowie Kuhn, who blocked the sale of Blue to the New York Yankees 18 months ago, might also side-track the Reds' deal, too. He notified both teams that he would hold a hearing on the transaction within the next two weeks.

The Yankees, anxious to patch what they suspect might be a leaky set of starting pitchers, paid $100,000 for Andy Messersmith, the hurler who started the free agent revolution two years ago, and added reliever Rawly Eastwick from this winter's free agent class.

Earlier in the week, Montreal picked up half of Baltimore's starting rotation, signing free agent Ross Grimsley and obtained left-hander Rudy May in a six-player swap with Baltimore that left Orioles Manager Earl Weaver so angry that he almost quit.

The week's first trade sent slugger Bobby Bonds from California to the Chicago White Sox, but it was lost in the snowball of activity that climaxed the meetings.

On the administrative front, Kuhn lifted the suspension of Atlanta owner Ted Turner three months before it was due to expire and National League President Chub Feeney was granted a new four-year contract. In addition, new capital was pledged to the financially struggling Cleveland club and the sale of the Boston Red Sox, to a group headed by General Manager Haywood Sullivan and former trainer Buddy LeRoux, was rejected by the American League.

In all, 20 trades involving 51 players were completed. The biggest deal was the multi-faceted swap which Texas orchestrated with the Mets, Atlanta and Pittsburgh.

The Rangers came away from it with Matlack, a stylish left-hander, Oliver, a consistent .300 hitter, and minor league infielder Nelson Norman. The Mets received Montanez, outfielder Tom Grieve and a player to be named later. Pittsburgh got Blyleven and Milner, and Atlanta received pitchers Adrian Devine and Tommy Boggs and minor league outfielder Eddie Miller.

Not to be outdone by the four-club blockbuster, Cincinnati went out and got Blue, adding him to a pitching staff headed by three-time Cy Young Award winner Tom Seaver. But Kuhn quickly stepped into that one, delaying approval of the transaction which would remove from Oakland one of the last links to the A's three-time world championship teams of 1972-1974.

McCaulley Well Set In Hermleigh Meet

HERMLEIGH--McCaulley was the only school to have both a boys' and a girls' team alive in the winners' bracket going into Saturday's finals of the Hermleigh Basketball Tournament.

The Eagles were to play Hermleigh in a semi-final boys' contest Sat. while the girls were to be pitted against Trent in the other playoff game.

Hobbs' girls, which slashed through the fem bracket with a 64-44 win over Paint Creek and a 72-54 victory over Southland, were to meet the McCaulley-Trent winner in championship play at 6 p.m. Saturday. Highland was to play the winner of the Hermleigh-Divide contest at 3 o'clock for the consolation honor.

Hobbs' Gober was the main force behind the Panther success Friday. The young miss blasted both Hobbs opponents for 48 points in outstanding individual efforts.

In boys' action Saturday, Southland was standing by to await the Hermleigh-McCaulley outcome. Winner of the contest was to play Southland in the championship game at 7:30.

Highland was to play the Divide-Trent victor for consolation at 4:30 p.m.

Southland had a tough time in edging Highland in round-one play Friday, 59-52, to advance in the playoff picture. The even-tual winners had to hold off a fourth-period hot streak which saw the Hornets garner 22 points. Thompson led his Southland teammates with 15 points, while Krejci had 12 for Highland.

In second-round action Southland had an easier time drubbing Hobbs, 80-57. Southland, led by Valdez with 28 points, put up 20 or more points in each of the first trio of quarters to earn the win.

Patriots Hope To Knock Off Miami

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

On one side, Steve Grogan, the most untouchable quarterback in the National Football League. On the other side, Bob Griese, the wily veteran and the top passer in the American Conference.

And up for grabs; the inside track toward a division title.

"We realize the importance of this game and I'm sure New England does too," Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula says of Sunday's game against the Patriots in Foxboro, Mass.

Miami, on the strength of its 17-6 victory over Baltimore last Monday night, is tied for first with the Colts in the AFC East at 9-3. And New England, a 16-10 winner over Atlanta a week ago, is just one game behind the divisional co-leaders.

New England can win the title with victories over the Dolphins and Colts - but a loss to Miami will eliminate the Pats from contention. The Dolphins smothered them 17-5 in their first meeting this season.

Similarly, the Dolphins can take the title by beating New England and, next Saturday, Buffalo. The Colts are in a bind. In order to win the division crown they not only must win their games against Detroit this Sunday and New England a week from now but must hope that the Pats and Dolphins each lose a game.

In Sunday's other games it's Minnesota at Oakland, Tampa Bay at New Orleans, Green Bay at Chicago, Houston at Cleveland, Atlanta at Los Angeles, San Diego at Denver, Buffalo at the New York Jets, the New York Giants at Philadelphia and Seattle at Kansas City. Monday night's game is Dallas at San Francisco.

Pittsburgh visited Cincinnati and Washington played at St. Louis Saturday.

Grogan has gotten better protection than any other quarterback in the league, being sacked only nine times in 12 games. And he has thrown 16 touchdown passes, third highest in the conference - but also has been intercepted 19 times, second highest in the AFC.

Griese, who ripped apart St. Louis with six TD passes on Thanksgiving Day, then picked apart the Colts last Monday night, has completed 58 percent of his passes and has thrown 19 TDs, both conference highs, and has been intercepted only 11 times.

COURTNEY ON TARGET--Snyder's Randy Courtney (30) hits on this jumpshot in round-two play of the Canyon Reef Tournament held here over the past weekend. Courtney, the Tiger's leading scorer, accounted for 23 points as Snyder defeated Wichita Falls Hirschi Friday night, 55-44. The Tigers were to play El Paso High in semi-final action Saturday at 1 p.m. Finals in the tournament were scheduled for 8:30. Up Canyon Reef Tournament Ladder...

Tigers Advance Another Rung

Snyder Tigers moved up another notch in the Canyon Reef Tournament playoff ladder here Friday night, blasting Wichita Falls Hirschi 55-44.

The Tigers, led by Randy Courtney's 23-point performance, put the game away early as they jumped out to a half time lead of 35-14.

Working hard to catch the local crew, Hirschi made up some ground during the second two quarters, but not enough to keep from heading into consolation play.

Snyder was scheduled to play El Paso, 36-25 victors over Perryton, at 1 p.m. Saturday in a semi-final contest. Hirschi was to be slated against Perryton at 2:30.

The championship game - pitting the Snyder-El Paso winner against either Monterey or Estacado was to be held at 8:30.

The Tigers bounded out to a 23-10 lead in first-quarter play of Friday's second-round battle, then went on to blow the contest open in the second period as they out-pointed Hirschi 12-4.

"We played about as well as we can play the first half," noted Tiger Coach Jack Stephenson. "If we can play any better, I don't know how."

The local varsity did almost everything right in the initial 16 minutes; taking over on the boards and shooting 60 percent from the floor. Richard Willis, who had a fine effort individually, went 5 for 6 from the charity line in the first period and put up 7 of his 11 game points. For the night, the big man was 9 of 10 from the free throw stripe. Lucious Jeffery, striking well from outside, netted 12 points.

"Our rebounding was good, and we really put the game away for all practical purposes," continued the coach in his recollection of the first half. "Courtney shot well, Lucious Jeffery shot well, Willis did a great job. Richard Crayton brought the ball down court for us and Earl Clayton just did a great job. I think those five all played extremely well."

Snyder gave up 30 points in the second half as Hirschi's Kelly Edwards began to click from outside. The 6-2 forward paced the losing squad with 16 points.

"I think our biggest factor was that we held our poise. Hirschi lost its poise and we were able to control ours. That speaks well of these kids," noted Stephenson, referring to an incident in which a questionable call from the referee was outwardly rejected by a weary Wichita Falls player late in the contest.

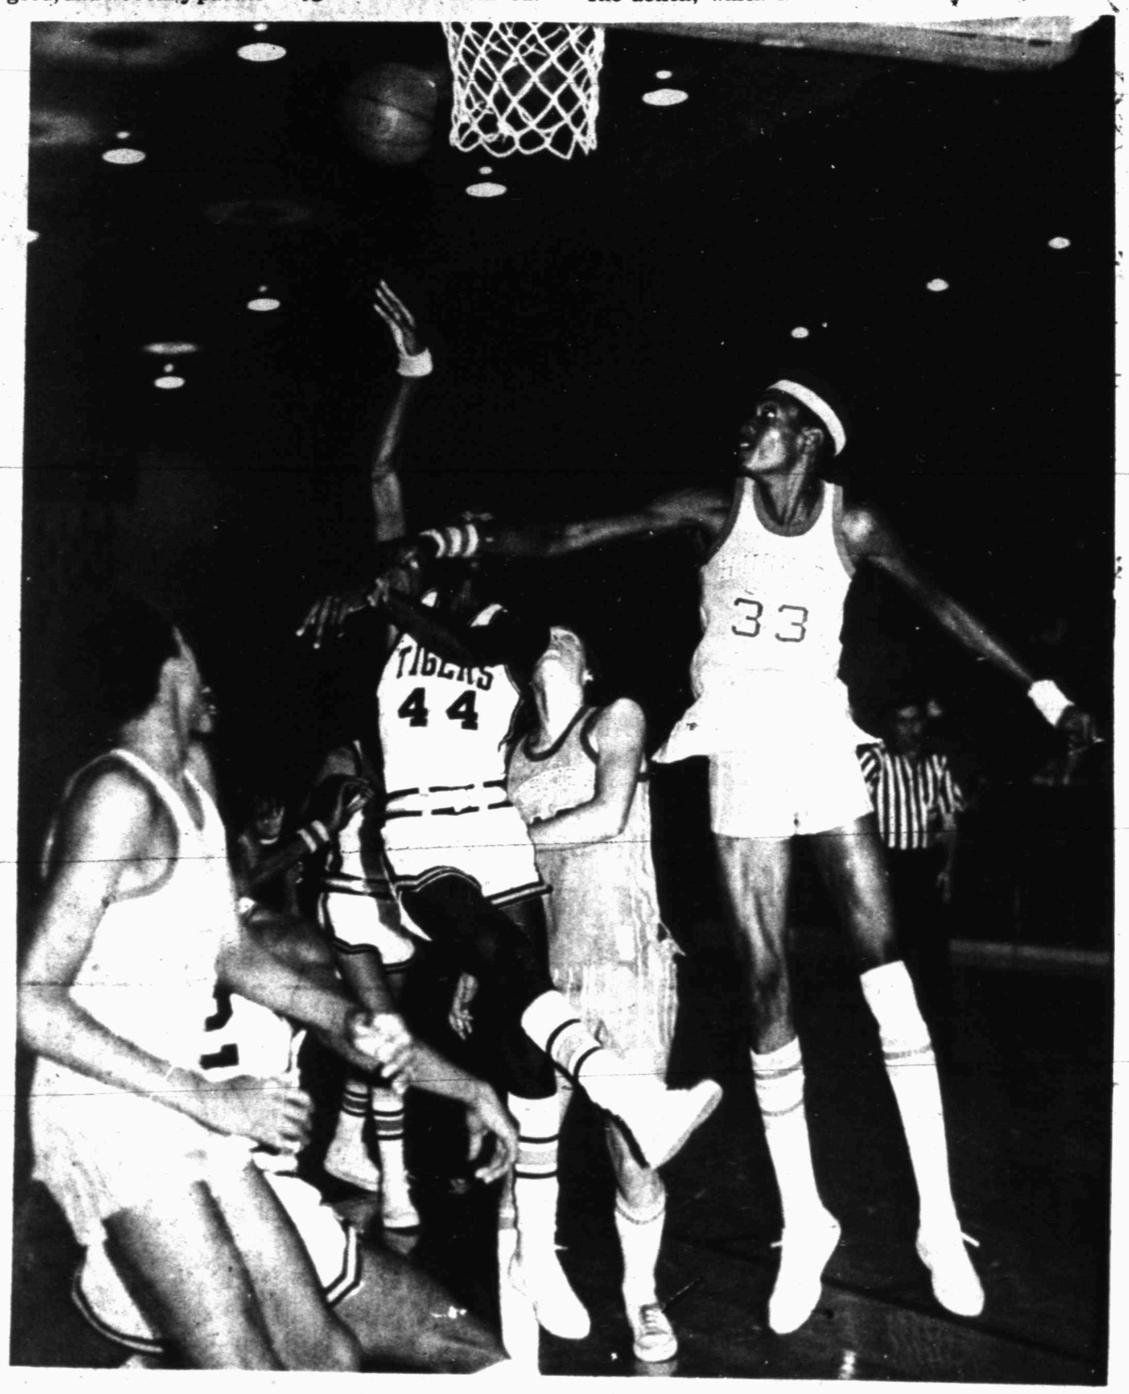

The action, which involved hurling a plastic water bottle across the court in a moment of emotion, was worsened by cat-calls and snide remarks from fans. The player, Connie Palmer, showed solid talent during the game and aided his team with 6 points. Later, the 6-3 junior apologized to the scorekeepers table and received the applause of Canyon Reef Tournament enthusiasts.

The Tigers stood at 9-4 before meeting El Paso Saturday at the coliseum.

Four Unbeaten Clubs Spark Tourney Here

By BILL McCLELLAN

Monterey, Estacado, Snyder and El Paso remained as the only unbeaten teams going into Saturday's playoffs of the 23rd annual Canyon Reef Tournament here.

Among those floored in second-round action were Midland, San Angelo, Wichita Falls, Hirschi and Perryton as the competition weeded out the physically inferior and the emotionally unprepared.

Playoffs Saturday were to pit Snyder and El Paso at 1 p.m. and Lubbock foes Monterey and Estacado at 2:30. Winners of the two semi-final games were to clash at 8:30 for the championship. Losers were scheduled to go at 6:30.

A host of consolation play was also slated early in the day with Abernathy, Pecos, Odessa High and Canyon all shooting for that crown, while Sweetwater, Fort Stockton, Lake View and Fort Worth Haltom were to vie for the bottom spots.

Snyder and El Paso High were to tip-off the winners' action at 1 p.m. El Paso, favoring a disciplined type of basketball instead of the usual gun-and-run type, netted a semi-final berth Friday by whipping Perryton, 36-26. Snyder gained the ticket with a 55-44 victory over Wichita Falls Hirschi.

Javier Marquez held high-point honors for the El Paso squad. The 6-1 junior post man garnered all of his points - 9 of 10 free throws and a floor shot - in the final period. Teammate Oscar Alvarado, 6-5, was next in line with 10 points.

Perryton failed to control the tempo, falling behind quickly with quarter-by-quarter scores of 10-6, 6-2, 7-4 and 13-13. David Reynolds, 6-6, led the losers with 12 points.

Perryton was to play Hirschi at 2:30 Saturday in the high school gym.

Snyder utilized the outside shooting ability of 6-5 Randy Courtney in whipping the Wichita Falls team to gain a playoff slot. The Tigers broke out to a 23-10 first-period lead and marched ahead to a 35-14 advantage at the half to put the game on ice early. Courtney's 23 points were aided by 12 from Lucious Jeffery and 11 by Richard Willis.

Hirschi, which fell to Snyder once before in the Abilene Tournament two weeks ago, was fired by Kelly Edwards' 12 points. The Wichita Falls squad out-pointed Snyder in the second periods, 30-32, but was unable to overcome the first-half lead. (See related story.)

In earlier action Saturday, Lubbock Estacado bought a semi-final berth by ripping San Angelo Central, 67-49. The Matadors dropped in 18 points in the first and third quarters while holding the Bobcats to only 8 and 10 to garner the victory.

Willie Powell, 6-3 forward, chunked in 17 points for the Mats while teammates Alvin Harris and Mike Chatham added 10 apiece. Randy Drew paced the 'Cats with 21 points.

In what proved to be the thriller of the day, Lubbock Monterey lassoed the final playoff berth with a 41-40 overtime victory over Midland High School.

Midland opened up a 18-2 lead by the first quarter buzzer and appeared to have the game wrapped up early, but an emotionally high Monterey squad returned the favor in the second period.

Monterey, thankful for the skills of 6-4 Tony Hamby who tossed in 18 points, slapped up 10 in the second stanza while holding the Bulldogs to only 2 points. The third quarter ranged back and forth, with Monterey taking a slight 13-10 edge that left them down only 30-25 at the start of the final quarter.

Nine points, including two 2-point baskets and a free throw by David Davidson, pushed Monterey into a last-second tie with the Bulldogs and forced the game into extra time.

When the overtime tally came in, Monterey counted three buckets and a point from the charity line while Midland came up with only a trio of two-pointers. Davidson was the man who sunk the winning free throw.

Milton Sanders, 6-4 post man, netted 12 of Midland's points.

Monterey was to face Estacado at 2:30 while losers Midland and San Angelo were pitted at 1 p.m. at the high school gym.

Other games Saturday in the consolation brackets saw Abernathy nip Sweetwater 39-37 with the help of Lee McCure's 15 points. Abernathy shot out to a 24-16 halftime lead, and hung on despite a hard-fought effort by the Mustangs.

Pecos also advanced in the bracket with 56-54 last-second win over Fort Stockton. Pecos' Bobby Mosby tied the contest at 52-52 as the clock showed one minute to play, then Devin Doan put up the go-ahead points seconds later. Doan added two more points before the final buzzer to freeze the victory. Doan led the scoring with 20 points. Teammate Willie Terry had 11. High-point men for the Fort Stockton team were Clint Kent, Mundy Salmon, Ricky Tavarez and Wade Fisher with 13, 12, 10 and 10 points respectively.

Lake View fell to Odessa in the third consolation bracket clash, 55-43.

Odessa, which boasted a 25-20 lead at the half, came out after intermission to put the game away in the third period; zapping the Chiefs, 14-4.

Danny Wright led the Odessa effort with 14. Doug Martin paced Lake View with 8.

In Friday's other contest, Canyon plunked down 21 fourth-period points to slice Fort Worth Haltom, 65-56.

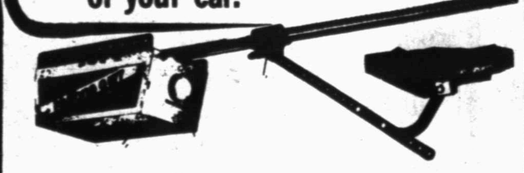

Canyon, motivated by 21 points each from Randy Sluder and Larry Whitson, fell behind early in the game, 22-20, but regained the lead in the final period to win. Monty Crawford also hit 19 points for the Canyon squad.

Heading up Haltom's effort were Tom Roe and Tome Regan with 21 and 13 points.

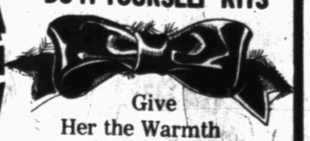

Saturday, Odessa High and Canyon were to do battle at 10 a.m. while Abernathy and Pecos were to follow at 11:30. Both games were to be held in the coliseum.

Finals in consolation play were scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Ties Help People To LiveLonger

LOS ANGELES (AP)-The ties that bind people together also help them live longer, according to a nine-year study of nearly 7,000 Californians.

Dr. Lisa Berkman, a California Department of Health epidemiologist, found that people with few strong social relationships were 2 to 4½ times more likely to die during the nine-year period.

The findings were based on a survey of 6,928 Alameda County residents that began in 1965.

It indicated that socially isolated men of all ages were about 2½ times more likely to die during the study than their gregarious counterparts.

The most striking difference was in women between the ages of 30 and 49, who were about 4½ times higher risks if they lacked strong social links, the study showed.

Those who died succumbed to the same diseases that kill people in general, she said.

For those who stayed comparatively healthy, she found that it made little difference whether their "social network" was composed mainly of a spouse, friends or an organization of some kind.

"You don't have to be married, you don't have to have three friends, you don't have to go to church as long as you get enough social contacts from multiple sources," Ms. Berkman said in a telephone interview.

How can good friendships and marriages fight disease?

"The exact mechanisms are currently unknown," she said. "However, these social factors seem to influence something about general host resistance or general vulnerability to disease. It doesn't look as if there is any particular psychological factor."

Ms. Berkman, who undertook the study while a doctoral candidate at the University of California at Berkeley School of Public Health, said it was suggested, in part, by the fact that married people generally live longer than single people, and that when one spouse dies, death of the other one often is not far behind.

She said she took pains to ensure that the amount of social contact was the only apparent difference between those who lived and died.

Search For Mother Ends In Cemetery

BERKELEY (AP)-An ailing Texan who came West from his home determined to find his mother whom he hadn't seen in 45 years, reaches the end of his quest today - in the cemetery.

Kenneth Sylvester, 55, dying of heart disease, learned of his mother's death from an elderly woman who had been her neighbor in Oakland. Sylvester was told his mother died of injuries she received during a vicious mugging about three years ago.

"Well, I wanted to know one way or the other," he said in his motel room. "I was hoping it wouldn't be this way, of course, but the search is over. My mind is at ease now. She's at peace."

Sylvester had clung to the hope that when his motel room telephone rang, it would be his mother. The ring came, but it was a death knoll.

Sometime today, he said in a breaking voice that bespoke the news he received from Mrs. Lucille Hynes, he will visit the Mountain View Cemetery and bid a final farewell to his mom.

Private detective Bill Linhart, who was helping Sylvester in his search, said it was publicity in news media Friday that drew a telephone call from Mrs. Hynes. She said she had some photos that could be of Sylvester's mother. Sylvester went to see Mrs. Hynes.

The Texan said there wasn't any doubt in his mind that the full-length photograph he saw was of his mother. The back of it bore the name "Thoren," the name of his mother's third husband.

Linhart said that after death, Mrs. Hynes rescued pictures which had been thrown out by the public administrator who was making estate arrangements following the death.

Sylvester had wanted "to resume a mother-son relationship before I go," he said. "It is something I always wanted ..."

Sylvester said he last saw his mother when he was 10 years old. He wanted his mother to know he forgave her for abandoning him.

In 1971, he learned he would have to undergo surgery to by-pass a defective heart valve. But, even after several operations, Sylvester said, his condition worsened.

Then he began searching for her.

He hired a Texas detective who eventually traced his mother to Oakland, where friends said she had been seen at late as 1973.

Sylvester came West last week, and on Wednesday, he learned that his mother had been divorced in Contra Costa County in 1953, and changed her name back to Muriel Minton - the name she used during her second marriage.

That lent new energy to Sylvester's search since he had been looking for a woman named Thoren.

Sylvester, now working as a supervisor in an Orange, Texas, paper mill, came here during his vacation. He brought with him the oldest of his three children - 29-year-old Myralyn Eason and her husband.

Poland Has Shortage Of Meat, Other Foods

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
AP Diplomatic Correspondent

WARSAW (AP)-A severe shortage of meat and other foods is plaguing Poland. Long lines of silent, sullen citizens outside stores in the country's main towns and cities are everyday sights.

The scarcities have heightened tensions in this Communist-ruled state which already has seen riots over food three times since 1956.

In that year and again in 1970 governments fell and in mid-July the regime led by Edward Gierek barely survived public protests over a hike in food prices. The Communist Party leader had to cancel the increases.

Members of the party's central committee frankly acknowledge Gierek may not survive a second uprising. They anticipate, therefore, the government will do everything possible to fill the country's food and meat shops before Christmas festivities descend on this predominantly Roman Catholic nation of 34 million.

Ordinary, as well as highly-placed Poles, blame the shortages on several things.

About 80 percent of Poland's land is privately owned by farmers unsure of their future in a Communist state and who are believed to be holding back production.

Four bad harvests in a row also hurt. The slaughter of a million pigs two years ago reduced the livestock population. To earn scarce foreign currency Poland still exports a lot of farm goods. Distribution services have been assailed publicly as inefficient.

Food is not the only thing that's scarce in Poland. Workers whose wages have risen nearly 70 percent since Gierek took office seven years ago must wait four years for an automobile, 10 years for an apartment. That's because labor is short too along with raw materials.

Basic rate for Polish pay is 2,000 zlotys a month or about $100 at the normal rate of exchange. This pay rate is supplemented by free social benefits provided by the state and includes medical and hospital services, subsidized food prices, transportation charges, vacations, books, concerts, films.

Then there's an almost insatiable demand for consumer goods of all kinds. Hungry for foreign currency, too, the state has been exporting so much coal that Poles themselves this winter may be shivering for lack of enough of their staple fuel product.

Against the background of previous food protests Gierek appears to have reached something of a partnership with Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland who heads the Catholic church. Both seem to appreciate that new countrywide protests, if sustained, could bring a Soviet military intervention that would imperil indefinitely Poland's relative independence.

Wyszynski's backing for Gierek's efforts to spur the nation's farmers to produce and deliver more undoubtedly would be a big help. A church call for calm and patience over the next two or three years would reinforce Gierek's government, too.

Gierek has turned not only to his Communist neighbors in East Europe but also to the United States and other Western Powers for help. Poland last year borrowed $1.3 billion from the Soviet Union on top of past help - and expects to get still more. It owes the West an estimated $12 billion too and each year has to pay $4 billion back in interest and redemption charges.

The succession of four bad harvests has compelled the Poles once again this year to seek vastly increased grain supplies from the U.S. in all about six million tons - mainly animal feed - are wanted. The Americans have been asked to ease credit terms on about half that amount, roughly $300 millions worth, through the Commodity Credit Corporation, a U.S. Department of Agriculture agency.

For the balance the Carter administration has been asked to find ways of providing long-term loans.

Poland's troubles have been compounded by shortages of raw materials as well as primary products. The government is investing one-third of its income in industrial development. This offers the prospect, ultimately, of a sunnier future.

But the waiting period has brought distortions in the light and heavy industry programs, impatience on the part of people weary of promises, promises and perils of popular protest against essential reforms.

Production Of Coca Beans Increasing

WASHINGTON (AP)-World production of cocoa beans is expected to climb during the 1977-78 year which began Oct. 1, according to the Agriculture Department.

Production is forecast at 1.48 million metric tons, up 9 percent from last season's harvest of 1.36 million tons, says the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Much of the increase is expected in West Africa, but also in Latin America and Asia, the agency said in a recent report. World cocoa prices climbed sharply this year, but officials said "prices in the coming months should continue to turn downward" from the peaks of a few months ago.

Cocoa, along with coffee, has been among some imported items which have helped boost consumer food prices and average of 6.5 percent this year, compared with a gain of 3.1 percent in 1976, according to the department.

Radio Antenna Looks Like Car

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)-The judge told Roland Barlow to get that car off the roof of his garage even though Barlow says it wasn't a car up there, at all, but a radio antenna.

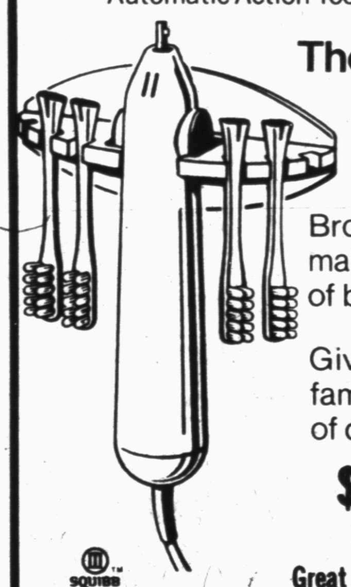

The city argued in General District Court that the Chevrolet sitting on top of Barlow's B&R Garage on Midlothian Turnpike was, in effect, a business sign.

And as such, the city said, it violated a section of the building code prohibiting the erection of business signs above roof level in that particular area.

Barlow's retort was that the car, which he admitted was up there, was absolutely not a sign but a citizens band radio antenna. And everyone agreed there's a 108-inch antenna attached to the car.

He can't help it, the garage owner told the court, if his "radio antenna" looks suspiciously like a 1962 Chevrolet Nova and just happens to attract business to his garage.

Steel Makers, Importers Appear Leery Of Plan

NEW YORK (AP)-The plan endorsed by President Carter this past week to aid the nation's troubled steel industry may involve some tricky tight-rope walking in the world of international trade.

The path chosen by Carter involved an attempt to reduce steel imports to the United States market without the use of such traditional measures as quotas, tariffs or negotiated trade agreements.

Instead the plan would use a system of reference prices that would automatically trigger a government investigation of unfair trade practices if imported products were priced below the set levels.

Both U.S. steel manufacturers and importers of steel so far appear leery of such a system. But they are in effect, waiting for the other shoe to drop.

The theory of so-called reference or trigger pricing has been announced. But the specific list of prices for a variety of steel products won't be released until late this month.

Under the plan the government will tie its reference prices to the cost of production and attendant transportation and ship expenses for the world's most efficient steel producers, currently the Japanese.

U.S. Steel President David Roderick said this past week that if the government did its calculations "fairly" that would mean the price for a ton of Japanese steel should be about $300 a ton, or about equal to the current average domestic price. But he also added that domestic steel prices will soon be raised above that level because of rising costs.

Beyond what specific prices are set are broader questions of whether the reference system can effectively deal with complaints of "dumping" that have been at the heart of the domestic steel industry's complaints. And how much the U.S. should try to throttle steel imports which provide American business which a less expensive product.

Imported sales have risen to as much as 15 percent to 20 percent of the U.S. market this year and in the process led to increasing numbers of "dumping" complaints in which domestic manufacturers charge foreign competitors with illegally selling below their costs to gain a bigger foothold in the U.S. market. If the government makes such a finding, the Treasury can impose "dumping" duties.

Administration officials concede that if reference prices are to be effective, then domestic producers cannot continue to file patchwork dumping complaints. But there is no indication yet whether that would be the case. Some critics, in fact, have suggested that reference prices based on the cost of steel production in Japan would still allow European producers to "dump" because reference prices would be less than their costs.

The steel assistance plan also includes a variety of proposed tax breaks and loan guarantees for U.S. steelmakers with the broad aim of helping them modernize some operations and improve efficiency to compete with more efficient operations abroad.

In other business developments this past week:

A massive strike by 160,000 United Mine Workers union members cut the nation's coal production by more than half. The strike began on Tuesday after the coal workers contract expired and some union officials were saying it could last for months.

Utilities and other industries dependent on coal had stock-piled supplies in advance of the strike so immediate shortage problems were minimal.

Wholesale prices rose rapidly for the second consecutive month, bringing with it the prospect of rising consumer prices in the months ahead. The Commerce Department reported a .7 percent rise in wholesale prices in November, which translates into a 8.4 percent annual rate of increase. The wholesale price hike was .8 percent in the previous month.

Economists said the trend of rising wholesale prices foreshadows some increase in consumer prices but the effect will be delayed and partially absorbed in the marketing process.

A tax on automobiles that waste fuel won tentative approval of a House and Senate conference committee representing progress in at least one significant area of President Carter's energy program. The agreement calls for a tax starting on 1979 models of between $200 and $550 for cars that get 14 miles or less per gallon. The so-called "gas guzzler" tax was one of the major elements of Carter's original energy plan.

J. Ray McDermott & Co., which came out the victor in a bitter corporate fight for control of Babcock & Wilcox, decided its 49 percent stock ownership wasn't enough. McDermott announced that it arranged to acquire the remaining 51 percent in a complex securities swap valued at $387.5 million.

Babcock & Wilcox, a producer of steam generating and nuclear power equipment, was the subject of competing takeover bids earlier this year of both McDermott, a New Orleans-based oil rig builder, and United Technologies, a Hartford, Conn., producer of gas turbines.

16 Cities Named In Project

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Agriculture Department has selected 16 cities to participate in a $3 million federally subsidized urban gardening project next year to help low-income families grow their own vegetables.

Officials said Friday the cities were chosen "on the basis of their total population and the number of people below the poverty line" in each.

The cities are Atlanta, Baltimore; Boston; Cleveland; Jacksonville, Fla.; Memphis, Tenn.; Milwaukee; Newark; New Orleans; St. Louis; New York; Chicago; Los Angeles; Philadelphia; Detroit, and Houston.

A $1.5 million pilot program was operated this year in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Detroit and Houston.

The program is handled by the department's extension service through the Cooperative Extension Services at land-grant universities in the states where the cities are located.

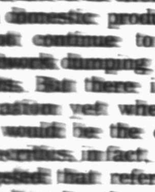

Officials said the money can be used only for "adding educational staffs" to state extension services and for developing educational materials.

"These staff persons work directly with low-income families and neighborhoods in teaching them how to grow vegetables," the department said. "They also teach the families about vegetable nutrition and offer suggestions on preparing and preserving home-grown produce."

For 1978, New York will get $500,000; Chicago, $300,00; Los Angeles, $250,000, and each of the remaining cities $150,000 each.

More than 330 tributary streams flow into Lake Baikal in southern Siberia, U.S.S.R., but only the Angara River flows out. The river provides the force of a hydroelectric plant that generates 28 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity, says National Geographic.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

The usual cause of swollen ankles is excess body fluid which seeps out into the loose spaces beneath the skin. It can also occur in the hands and face. Your body can hold onto water only by retaining salt. Reduce the use of salt in cooking or flavoring, and you will likely reduce water retention and the swelling it causes. Obesity can be caused by water retention due to excessive salt consumption.

Controversy Develops Over Tomb Discovery

By Paul Anastassiades
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS, Greece (AP)- An archeological controversy is developing over the validity of the claimed discovery of the tomb of King Philip II of Macedonia, father of Alexander the Great.

The claim was announced last month by Salonica University archeology Prof. Manolis Andronikos and was hailed by many as the "discovery of the century."

Culture Minister George Plytas said Friday: "I am personnally more con vinced of the evidence that it is Philip's tomb. We are, however, always interested in other views or contrary evidence, and we are keeping an open mind on the issue."

But former Salonica University history Prof. Dimitrios Kanatsoulis, and former Ioannina University classical archeology Prof. Fotis Petsas, who was superintendent of antiquities in the excavation area between 1955-65, both doubt the claim.

Kanatsoulis says there is no evidence that Vergina in northern Greece, where the tomb was found, was the capital of Macedonia. He said it is an "undoubted fact" that the capital was known as "Aigai," and that there is greater evidence that it was situated alongside the present town of Eddessa, 40 miles from the tomb site.

"I cannot with absolute certainty deny that the tomb is Philip's," Kanatsoulis said in a written statement. "All I want to stress at this point is that the unknown little ancient town of of Vergina can hardly be claimed to be the Macedonian capital. In that case, what on earth would Philip's tomb be doing there, since it is known that he was buried in the capital?"

Philip was assassinated in 336 B.C. prior to a planned military campaign against the Persians and while attending the wedding of his daughter Cleopatra. He was then succeeded by Alexander the Great, who was only 20.

Petsas said although he was "highly respectful" of Andronikos' abilities, he could "hardly be convinced" that the tomb is Philip's. He said:

"The French had begun excavating in Vergina since 1857, and I was personally involved in renewed efforts dating since 1937. And yet there is not a single piece of evidence that this was the Macedonian capital."

He said that over this period tombs of 30 Macedonian nobles have been discovered in the broader area, all of them looted, yet much more impressive than the alleged tomb of Philip.

Petsas said that by comparison to many of them "Philip's tomb" is "tiny and humble," and the only one found unlooted. He asked:

"Is it possible that the Galatian mercenaries of Pyros, who looted the Macedonian tombs some 60 years after Philip's death, took everything except the most prized treasure of all? Even the small children there would have known the whereabouts of such a tomb."

Petsas said Macedonian warrior tombs discovered in the area have been four times as large as Philip's alleged one, and that they were more elaborate and far richer. He said one of them even had a marble throne in it.

Feds Halt Work Of 350 Missionaries In Brazil

By Richard W. Foster
Associated Press Writer

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) - The government is putting an end to the work of 350 U.S. and other foreign missionaries in Brazil, suggesting they are a danger to national security because they operate in remote areas.

The Bible translation work of the Protestant missionaries has taken them into the most remote regions of Brazil, where they live with isolated Indians tribes in order to learn their language and culture.

The missionaries, most of them Americans, are members of the Summer Institute of Linguistics, the name under which the interdenominational group operates in Brazil.

In other parts of the world they are known as the Wycliffe Bible Translators, founded more than 40 years ago by William Cameron Townsend, who was awarded Brazil's highest honor - the Cruzeiro do Sul medal - by then President Humberto de Alencar Castello Branco in 1964, for his work with Brazil's tribes.

The Brazilian government, through its Ministry of the Interior and the National Indian Foundation, refused to renew an annual contract with the institute last month, which means the missionaries will have to leave Indian villages early in 1978.

Institute officials are making all efforts to stay in the country despite the recent government decision to rescind the contract.

According to the institute's administrator, Paul Mullen, "Even if we have to leave the Indian area, there is linguistic work and publications which can keep us busy for another year here."

The missionaries' activity in Brazil, the translation of the New Testament into Indian languages, required an extensive system of communications and transportation, college campus-type training centers, and substantial financing.

The institute's annual budget is roughly $1.5 million, about 90 percent of which comes from church fundraising. The rest comes from government foreign aid agencies in the United States, the Netherlands, Canada and West Germany.

The group presently works with 44 Brazilian Indian tribes in outlying areas reachable only by airplane. The institute maintains a fleet of six Cessna 200 aircraft and has built dozens of airstrips near Indian villages.

On Nov. 22, the Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Globo published information, attributed to Minister of the Interior Mauricio Rangel Reis, accusing the missionaries of doing secret geological surveys in the Amazon area.

Missionary officials vehemently deny the charge.

Jack Popjes, a Dutch-born Canadian who is president of the institute's executive committee, said, "I had a secretary go through the biographies of all our people and found one person who had a college minor in geology. But we don't have any geologists. We are all tightly screened with the idea that Christian motives are the only motives permitted in our work."

Missionaries have taken soil samples in Indian areas for the purpose of helping Indians increase crop production. This may have led to the charge concerning secret geological surveys, according to institute officials.

The man who sent the brief letter to the missionaries is Gen. Araujo Oliveira Ismarth, head of the National Indian Foundation, the agency charged with maintaining Indian reservations and protecting the interests of the Indian tribes.

Ismarth referred inquires about the reasons for the government action to Interior Minister Rangel Reis.

In the O Globo article, Rangel Reis was quoted as saying: "The government really prefers from now on to have only Brazilians present in the Amazon, which has always been overrun by foreigners, even before we have conclusive proof of mineral resources in the area."

Brazil considers its mineral resources impportant to national security.

Other sources in Brasilia noted that the Ministry of the Interior, charged with helping develop the Amazon and projecting its resources, is in the grips of land conflicts between Indians and whites moving in for farming.

"It could be that the institute is just not wanted because it defends the interests of the Indians," said one official who declined to be identified.

Missionary officials say they do not understand why their work is being halted.

Part of the reason may simply be undercurrents of anti-Americanism in Brazil.

Said one missionary official, "We are only 70 per cent American. We have Dutch, Swiss, German and other nationalities here too."

The Wycliffe Bible Translators have been ordered to leave other countries in the past and an institute executive said, "Maybe it's for the best. If the Brazilians want to do this work, it may be better for Brazil. We have only wanted to go where we are needed."

The Roman Catholic Church in Brazil recently intensified its activity in defense of Indian tribes.

But Bishop Ivo Lorscheider, president of the National Conference of Brazilian Bishops, said he doubted it would be easy to substitute for the foreign missionaries who make up about 90 percent of those working with Amazon Indians.

One of the major concerns of Indian affairs experts in Brazil is that Indian languages and culture are dying as modern man moves into remote areas.

Many of the institute's missionaries are trained linguists and antropologists. The group has published hundreds of works on Indian languages and cultures - works that may stand as the only written record of Brazil's vanishing tribes.

Texas Holiday Traffic Toll Set At 71

AUSTIN (AP)-Seventy-one persons will die in Texas traffic accidents over the Christmas-New Year's holiday period, the director of the Department of Public Safety predicts.

But the figure could be lower if motorists would drive carefully and participate in the state's "Light the Way for a Safe Holiday" program, said Col. Wilson E. Speir.

The program calls for car low beams to be turned on even during daylight hours to remind drivers of the added danger during the busy holiday period.

Current traffic deaths are running 11 percent above last year, and Speir blamed the increase on the violation of the 55 mile an hour speed limit by three out of four drivers-nine out of 10 on the interstate highways.

The interstate highway fatalities are up approximately 47 percent from last year.

Wants a Child, Not a Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y.News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old, unmarried, God-fearing Christian woman who wants more than anything in the world to have a child. I am a virgin and want to stay that way.

Why can't I have an artificial insemination? Or do you have to be married for that?

I may never get married. I had a boyfriend once, who was five years younger than I, also a virgin. But we broke up when I told him about this overwhelming desire I had for motherhood.

I don't want to sin, Abby, but if I don't have a baby I don't want to go on living. I can hardly see a baby without wanting to kidnap it.

I told my gynecologist this, and she said it was natural for a woman to yearn for motherhood, but she didn't recommend artificial insemination unless I was married. Well, if I were married I probably wouldn't need it. I don't especially want a husband. I just want to be a mother. Can you help me?

WANTS A BABY

DEAR WANTS: Laws on artificial insemination vary among the states. I suggest you seek the counsel of a lawyer, and a talk with your clergyman wouldn't hurt either.

DEAR ABBY: How should a 21-year-old girl who is separated but not divorced conduct herself? I have a small son, and I want to keep my reputation flawless for his sake as well as my own.

I come from a small town and I'm not sure I know what is considered acceptable conduct for a girl in my position.

Should I go on overnight trips with a man I'm dating even if everything is on the up-and-up and we each have our own motel room?

Please help me get my head straight on this. I know how to keep my conscience clear, it's my reputation I'm worried about.

NEEDS ANSWERS

DEAR NEEDS: If you want a flawless reputation, even though your conscience is clear, avoid the appearance of evil. And "overnight trips" with a man you're dating are a no-no.

DEAR ABBY: I come from a family that is not in the habit of kissing all the time. We kiss goodbye for long trips, or for important occasions—weddings, graduations, etc. But that is all.

I married into a family that kisses each other every time one of them comes into a room.

I once remarked that I wasn't accustomed to so much kissing, and I hoped they didn't think me unfriendly or cold if I didn't kiss as much as they did, but apparently no one took me seriously.

When I enter a room and don't go around kissing the clan, they kiss ME! A light kiss on the cheek wouldn't kill me, but some of these people grab me and kiss me on the lips.

I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings, Abby, but I have had it up to here with all those wet kisses.

How can I put a stop to it? (I've fibbed and said I had a cold, but that didn't stop them.)

NO KISSER

DEAR NO: Since this kissing issue is important to you, why not gather your courage and TELL them that you like them, but you're not the kissing kind. You're apt to be kissed off by a few, but would you really care?

DEAR ABBY: Please tell DOG TIRED, whose neighbor's dog barked at night, that we solved that problem by doing the following: Turning our garden hose on the barking dog. The water won't hurt him, but it certainly does shut him up.

SILENT NIGHT

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Awards Are Presented At Scouters' Banquet

Awards were presented and leadership was challenged to continue providing an exciting program for youth at the annual leaders' recognition banquet of the Lone Buffalo District, Boy Scouts of America.

The banquet was held Thursday night at the Spanish Inn.

Jimmie Joe Key, the 1976-77 district chairman, presided over the banquet, and Charles Henderson was installed as the new district chairman to serve for the next two years.

Key note speaker for the evening was Charles Varner of Troop 708 in Lamesa. He has been scoutmaster of that troop for many years.

"Being a scoutmaster is fun," Varner declared. "There's nothing else like it. The 11-year-old is the cream of the crop."

"Time is happiness in the life of a boy. It is a time to do stuff with them. If you don't have the time to be with them, somebody else will and they could be the bad influence. He's lucky if someone in scouting gets hold of him and shows him the outdoors.

"The time canoeing, hiking and camping is well spent. I ride with a deputy sheriff in Lamesa some nights and it is interesting what you see. You can see quite a bit at the local police station if you look. Is someone hasn't spent the time with a boy, then a trooper knocks on the door and the boy spends time."

Doc Griffin, chairman of the awards committee, presented the awards, which were topped by the Award of Merit to Thelma Deere and a plaque to Don Tucker, district commissioner. The Award of Merit is the highest award a scout district can confer on a leader. Mrs. Deere also received special recognition for her work in the Cub Scout program.

Ed Newton, director of news and sports for KVMC Radio in Colorado City, served as master of ceremonies.

In accepting the district chairmanship, Henderson said, "You unit leaders are the backbone of the scouting program. We at the district level are here to support you and help you when you need it. I pledge myself and the district staff to work toward that end -- to be of service to you. Keep up the good work. Your time is well spent.

3 Students Go To Seminar

By CURTIS W. TATE

HERMLEIGH -- Three Hermleigh students attended the Talented Youth Seminar at the campus of the Texas State Technical Institute last Tuesday.

The students participating in the monthly meeting were Britt Fuqua, a senior, and two juniors, Sylvia Sanchez and Curtis W. Tate.

Each school in the district sends three participants. Other schools involved in the program are Highland, Roscoe, Ira, Westbrook, Hobbs, and Divide.

A slide program about African art was presented. After the slide show, participants were given a chance to test their own artistic abilities by shaping clay into whatever creatures they chose and then explaining their creations.

The next session is set for Jan. 10 and the students are looking forward to returning.

Seminar coordinators are scheduling more programs, interesting speakers, and field trips for future meetings.

Others in the cast are Bob and Suzanne Doolittle, Bobby Wells, Rita Black, Britt Inman, Becky Pierce and Kenny Kornegay.

Jerry Neill directs "The Dowry" and the technical crew includes Natosha Bills and Connie Pollard. In the technical crew are Robert Schooler, Ross Bawcum, Pam Gray and Chip May.

Tickets are priced at $1.50 each, including dinner and both plays. Advance reservations are required and may be obtained by calling 573-2631 or going by the church office.

Shrimping Off Brazil Coast Limited

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)- Beginning Jan. 1, shrimp fishing off Brazil's northern coast will be limited to Brazilian boats or foreign boats operating in association with Brazilians.

A 1975 shrimping accord allowing ships from the United States, Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Surinam to fish in Brazilian waters expires at the end of the year.

Fishing Development Supt. Josias Luiz Guimaraes said Tuesday that firms from those countries earn an estimated $40 million annually, more than half of Brazil's fishing export earnings.

Currently, 160 foreign boats and 110 Brazilian boats operate in the area. Guimaraes said the fleet will be limited to 300 ships under the pending arrangement.

The Brazilian foreign ministry would prefer associating with firms from countries that signed the original accord, Guimaraes said, but he added that Japanese firms also are interested in shrimp fishing off the Brazilian coast.

Hearing Set On Sanctuary Plans

AUSTIN (AP) - Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, has announced a Dec. 16 hearing in Houston concerning designation of the Flower Garden Coral Banks as a national marine sanctuary.

The Office of Oceans Management of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has recommended the reef as a sanctuary. Schwartz chairs the Texas Coastal and Marine Council.

Flower Garden Banks are located 150 miles southeast of Galveston.

The hearing's purpose is to gather information for use in preparing an environmental impact statement and developing rules that would govern use of the reef.

Schwartz said the reef has more than 350 species of living organism. He said there had been reports it was being damaged by ship anchoring, ship cleaning and bilge washing.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED--Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Owens, 3400 Jacksboro, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Brenda Dawn Owens, to Terry Allen Alexander son of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Alexander of San Angelo. Miss Owens is a 1977 graduate of Snyder High School and Alexander a graduate of Lakeview High School, San Angelo. Both are students at Western Texas College.

Whether or not you contemplate drawing up a list of resolutions for 1978, you should compile one relating only to your do-it-yourself activities.

It doesn't matter too much whether you stick to all of them for very long. Very few persons do. But putting them down on paper may help you to keep at least two or three of them, which will put you considerably ahead for the year, since they all involve either saving money or avoiding injury or both. Don't clip this out and toss it into a drawer, never to be seen again until the bureau is cleaned for some reason. It's the act of writing down the resolutions that gives you a fighting chance of remembering some of them. Here goes:

1.- When someone talks to me while I am operating a power machine, I will not say a word until I have turned off the power.

2. - I will remember that dull tools cause more accidents than sharp ones.

3.-I will clean a paint brush, roller or pad immediately after using it, realizing that more than 50 percent of such implements are discarded long before their time because they weren't cleaned.

4. - When replacing a fuse, I will never use one of higher amperage than the one being replaced.

5. - I not only will read the label of a product before I use it, I will be sure to reread it EVERY time I use. it.

6. - I will be especially careful about following a warning that specifies the product is not to be used except in a well-ventilated area, since I know how many thousands of accidents occur each year because a warning of this kind is ignored.

7. - I will wear a glove of some kind when using steel wool or a similar material to avoid getting metal splinters in my hand.

8. - When I am on a ladder, I will not reach too far even if it will save me getting down and repositioning the ladder.

9. - I will never make a down payment on any piece of land, no matter how inviting the brochure is, until I have inspected the property personally.

10. - I will try to keep at least three of these resolutions.

Art Guild Has Yule Dinner

The Art Guild Study Club met Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John DeShazo for the annual Christmas dinner and exchange of gifts.

Mrs. DeShazo was assisted in hostess duties by Mrs. R.H. Melton, Mrs. Wirt Holsinger and Mrs. Sam Chorn. The meal was the traditional turkey, dressing and the trimmings.

Invocation was given by Mrs. Silas Devenport and the Christmas scripture from Luke 2 of the Bible was read by Mrs. Maurice Pilcher.

The decorations displayed the Christmas season. Gifts were brought that will be given to residents of the nursing homes.

First Printed Christmas Card

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The first commercially printed Christmas card was the result of procrastination. In 1843, London businessman Henry Cole realized he had neglected to send his personal best wishes to friends - the holiday custom of the time.

To make amends, he asked an artist friend, John Calcott Horsley, to design a special card, according to Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. The card angered temperance groups because it showed a family with wine glasses lofted in a toast.

Birthday Party Held For Coupe

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) - They had a birthday party for "Prince," but all he did was sit there quietly and gleam.

Prince is a 1947 Ford coupe owned by Myrtle Moore. "He" is shiny black, still runs like a clock and has nary a scratch. To the whimsical Ms. Moore, the car's full name is "Prince Charming."

She gave a party for its 20th and 25th anniversaries, as well. About 75 friends and relatives turned out for the 30th recently, and it was the last for Ms. Moore. She's decided to sell Prince, after getting offers up to $2,500 from classic car collectors.

The Ford has 10,000 miles on it when Ms. Moore bought it in October 1947. It had gone 165,000 miles when she let it go.

"I always changed the oil at a thousand miles and I washed and waxed it myself," said Ms. Moore, a nursing instructor.

"Some people don't understand the attachment you can get for a car."

Poinsettia Given Clean Bill Of Health

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Just in time for Christmas comes assurance that the holiday favorite plant, the poinsettia, has been exonerated of charges that it is poisonous.

The poinsettia, reports the Society of American Florists, has been given a clean bill of health. It has been falsely accused of stories unsubstantiated by medical and scientific fact, since 1919.

The society said that an unfortunate, unfounded tale about the death of a child of an army officer stationed in Hawaii from eating a poinsettia leaf "helped scare people into thinking that the poinsettia is poisonous."

Research at Ohio State University in collaboration with the society representing 50,000 industry members, "has effectively debunked 'old wives tales' that the poinsettia is harmful to human and animal health if parts of the plant are ingested."

While on the subject of this colorful plant: About 25 million of them are used by Americans each year.

The plant was named for Joel R. Poinsett, American ambassador to Mexico in 1851, who introduced it to the United States. It also is called the Eastern flower, lobster flower, Mexican flame leaf and Christmas flower.

The poinsettia plants sold to the U.S. public are cultivated and grown in green-houses and are quite hardy. Through breeding, they are now available in the traditional red, white, pink and variegated. The leaves are green with long-lived bracts vividly colored leaves and golden flowers.

Poinsettia Care

Here are tips for the care of the poinsettia from the Society of American florists:

—Keep them in a room with sufficient light.

—Avoid any drafts or excess heat from appliances, radiators and ventilating ducts.

—Keep the plant in a place out of heavy traffic and out of the way of careless younsters and animals.

—Put plant in a waterproof container to protect furnishings.

—Water plant thoroughly when soil is dry to touch; always discard excess water.

—Ideal temperatures should not exceed 72 degrees Fahrenheit daytime and 60 degrees at night to prolong bright color of bracts.

When bracts fade, cut back plant to eight inches to grow as a foliage plant. It may be placed out of doors when outside temperature is warm. Avoid night temperatures below 50 degrees F. through summer.

Return to room for direct light six to eight hours daily and 60-70 degrees night temperatures. For reflowering in winter, starting Oct. 1 avoid artificial light at night. This is described as the closet treatment.

In buying a poinsettia, select a plant with green foliage down to the stems. Check for a number of small green buttons on the center of the bracts. These indicate flower development.

If you are carrying the plants home, don't expose them to below 50-degree temperatures. Wrap them well if you are taking them out. We suggest that when you get plants home, water them thoroughly and give them a bit of food.

South thought that if he had his life to live over again he would have dropped the bidding at two diamonds.

Still, there was no reason to give up. He was looking at eight sure tricks. He would be up to nine if he could get in one heart.

South's first problem was at trick one. Should he duck that queen of spades produced by East?

That might well be the winning play if spades were going to break 7-2, but that seemed almost impossible with East and West not bidding.

So South won that first spade and promptly placed the jack of hearts on the table.

Now put yourself in West's place. He could rise with the ace of hearts, play his king-jack and eight of spades whereupon East could overtake and cash the last spade.

Would you rise with that ace? In any event, this West didn't and South quickly ran off the nine tricks he needed.

Yes, it is true. When the Life Master category was established Ely had not played enough to qualify as one of the original 10. Since he never played in tournaments after that he never made the list.

He is one of the six members of the Hall of Fame and has our vote for a posthumous award of life mastership.

For Estée, the super-star of fragrance, Estée Lauder chose a galaxy of "e" signature stars. And for Aliage, the fragrance for all the good times, green became the background for the floral print package.

better way needed

Tuesday when dawn arrived in the coal fields of West Virginia, Kentucky and adjacent states 150,000 miners had left their jobs, marking the commencement of what most observers expect to be a long and costly strike.

If it continues until Spring, as predicted, incomes of at least a million families will be affected. That is no small matter. Coming, as it does, with Christmas only a little more than two weeks away it couldn't have been more ill-timed.

Economists and business executives will be studying the impact on the demand for goods and services in the closing weeks of the year. Plans for parties, trips to see relatives, gifts that would have been purchased and presented and all the little extras that make Christmas a special time of year will have to be revised by many thousands.

And all because representatives of mine owners and workers couldn't agree on issues which, from a distance, don't appear to be all that important. According to press reports the hangup is not wages or working conditions but whether local unions shall have a right to call strikes without consultation with national leaders.

Owners want one contract with the national organization. Union leaders want to give each local union the right to settle local issues and call strikes if no agreement can be reached.

And because they cannot reach an agreement on this one question a great many people are going to pay a big price in lost pay, cancelled pension benefits, lost jobs and all the hardships that accompany work stoppages.

There is reason to wonder whether all this is necessary. Suppose the strikers get all they are demanding, months and years will pass before they can realize enough gain to offset losses sustained in weeks of idleness. The country as a whole will be the big loser. Closing half the nation's coal mines means reduced demand for Texas wheat and cotton, California vegetables and fruits, cars from Michigan, textiles from the South.

We need to have every person working who can find a job. The Government needs the tax income. Hospitals and schools need the contributions that usually come around Christmas.

There ought to be a better way to handle employer-employee relations. Many of our economic ills could be solved in a single year if leaders in business and labor organizations could work together to produce a strikeless year.

"Here's the one for F.B.I. director again."

one-way guarantee

New minimum wage laws enacted by the government are designed to guarantee a decent level of wage to all employees. It sounds good, and has undeniable merit.

What the government doesn't realize is that business firms must now make sure a minimum wage employee is worth even the minimum.

There are serious consequences in government telling business what it must pay. They do not tell the employee how to perform to meet such wage - only that he or she is entitled to it.

As the minimum wage increases, unemployment will grow. Some folks are not worth the minimum and have no intention of ever being worth the minimum. They merely want it guaranteed to them - there is no desire to earn it.

We think you will see a strong trend in many firms to work fewer people and pay them more.

The borderline employee who thinks the government has guaranteed them $2.65 an hour may find the government has merely transferred them to the unemployment rolls.

The best guarantee of a livable wage is performance, not government edict.

strange farmers

There is a fledgling, loose-knit Colorado-based group of people calling themselves "American Agriculture."

They proclaim their purpose to be "parity, not charity." That is a laudable purpose.

They are seeking to mobilize tractor and farm truck parades in several cities and they are threatening a nationwide strike.

Demonstrating and striking are proper prerogatives–but a shadow has fallen over this effort which I doubt many, if any, farmers will approve when they know about it.

Telephone calls are being made to agribusiness leaders demanding "money or else"!

The caller says something like this: "I am representing American Agriculture. We are calling a farm strike for higher farm prices. We need your support."

So far so good.

The business executive–perhaps in feed, seed, fertilizer or farm equipment–says, "I agree with your objective but I'm not sure my company wants to support the idea of a strike."

Now the caller gets tougher: "You will send us $50,000 or else your company will be blacklisted–identified on public media with 'the bad guys' and your tractors in our parades will be decorated with lemons!"

This telephone call will be followed by others, daily, increasingly threatening.

With emphasis bordering on extortion the callers–usually a different person from a different place each time–reiterates the same implied or overt threat: "Pay up or be blacklisted."

Now it begins to sound like the kind of protection racket that made Al Capone rich.

The caller assures the business executive that any surplus money will be "put in trust for the Future Farmers of America." But a check with the respected FFA reveals that this organization wants no part of that one.

Further, I have heard from some individual dealers in farm supplies who have been coerced into "buying 10,000 tickets to our rally" at $1 each.

Or they have been coerced into supplying farm equipment for the parades and demonstrations.

Most major manufacturers of farm machinery have refused to pay tribute.

Nonetheless – and strike or not – it sounds as though substantial sums of money may be collected through the unbecoming tactics of these tough-talking hit men who are presuming to make farm-related industries an offer they can't refuse.

It is a shame and a danger when a proper weapon falls into the wrong hands–and these callers don't sound like any legitimate farmers I know.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A lot of folks believe the ideal occupation is one that doesn't keep them too occupied."

In view of President Carter's first-year performance in office, perhaps the only one to benefit by Gerald Ford's loss to Carter is Mr. Ford himself.

According to published reports, Gerald Ford is now well on his way to becoming a millionaire after having lived modestly for almost 30 years.

Some of the ex-president's lucrative deals since leaving office include:

—A $1 million joint contract with Harper and Row and Reader's Digest for his and his wife's separate memoirs.

—A $1 million deal with NBC for two TV documentaries or special news events each year for the next five years. NBC also purchased options to air portions of his White House memoirs when they're completed.

—An additional $500,000 to Mrs. Ford for being in two NBC documentaries about modern dance, cancer research and mental health.

—A salary of $50,000 a year plus expenses as president of the Eisenhower Fellowship, a scholarship program set up in 1953 to aid top students.

—A salary of $40,000 a year plus expenses from the American Enterprise Institute, a conservative "Think Thank" in Washington. The job includes 10 campus appearances at seminar and conference for which Mr. Ford will be paid about $100,000.

—A pension of $30,500 a year for life for his 27 years in Congress.

—A pension of $60,000 a year for life for serving a little over two years at president.

The former president also is entitled to more than $600,000 a year in fringe benefits. His jobs with the Eisenhower Fellowship and Enterprise Institute provided him with office space and secretarial help.

The federal government supplies him with $9,600 a year for life for staff expenses, plus a fully-furnished office maintained by the General Services Administration. He is allowed to send non-political mail anywhere in the U.S. at no cost and he is afforded around-the-clock Secret Service protection.

He also is provided with a limousine and driver for trips of a non-political nature, and he can order up for use one of the Air Force's executive jets.

If you've got to be a has-been – be a has-been president.

in washington

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON-(NEA)- In the years since World War II, it has become a ritual element of American life: The teenager comes home from high school one day and requests his or her parents' permission to enroll in the school's driver education program.

The parents readily agree, assuming that the course is far superior to either the commercial instruction offered by driving schools or the blind-leading-the-blind alternative of learning from a friend or relative.

The teenager, however, often has a hidden agenda: In many states, 16-and 17-year-olds can be licensed to drive only after successfully completing a driver education course. All others must wait until 18, and for an adolescent that additional year or two can be an eternity.

But now a Washington-based safety organization with impeccable credentials has produced a meticulously researched study conclusively demonstrating that the driver education-early license approach leads to thousands of unnecessary highway fatalities each year.

Even more startling, the authors of the study conclude that even if early licensing is eliminated, high school driver education "would not be of any demonstrated benefit in reducing crash involvement."

The study of the effect of driver education in 27 states during the late 1960s and early 1970s was conducted by Drs. Leon S. Robertson and Paul L. Zador.

Both are affiliated with the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, a highly respected independent organization that has been in the forefront of efforts to improve the nation's roads, cars and drivers.

The care with which the study was done is demonstrated by the state-by-state adjustment of the computations to take into account two relatively obscure factors that contribute heavily to fatal crashes-rural roads and wet pavements.

Robertson and Zador even considered the possibility that accident rates might be higher among 16-and 17-year-olds because they are new and inexperienced drivers.

But the research demonstrated that the rate of fatal crashes among those who didn't take driver education courses and waited until 18 or 19 to be licensed differed little from their early-licensed peers who had the benefit of two years' experience. (Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Washington are among the states that issue early licenses to graduates of driver education courses.)

In 1975, approximately 4,000 drivers who had not reached their 18th birthday were involved in fatal crashes. In about half of those accidents, only one car was involved-thus eliminating the possibility of blaming the "other driver" or some other external factor.

"Parents have been misled to believe that driver education decreased the risk of their children's involvement in crashes," the authors concluded. "The estimate of 2,000 fatal crashes that would be prevented (annually) if persons under 18 were not licensed in a very conservative, minimum estimate."

Robertson and Zador properly refuse to go beyond their data, stating that "physical and emotional maturity as factors in crash involvement are not well understood." But that may indeed be the key to the disproportionate number of auto accidents involving young drivers.

Caution, a sense of their own limitations, an understanding of the unpredictability of others' behavior and an awareness of their mortality simply are not among most teenagers' assets.

At the risk of alienating those for whom securing a drivers's license is an important part of the rites of passage to adulthood, we would suggest the conclusion is obvious: Licenses should be restricted to those 18 and older-with or without a driver education course.

robert schuller

it's possible

Everyone is faced, from time to time, with problems that appear to be impossible to solve. I found that the key to living successfully in the face of the apparent problems is to begin every day with two questions:

1. What is the biggest problem I'm faced with today?
2. What will I do about it TODAY?

Most of the difficulties we face are compounded by our putting off doing anything about them. We think that if we ignore the problems, they will somehow either disappear, or they will diminish in their intensity. The reverse is usually true.

The key is to do something TODAY about the problem. If you will faithfully practice asking and answering these two questions, you'll be amazed at where you will be a year from today. Your problems will have become opportunities. And you will have developed the habit of practicing possibility thinking.

I spent some time in Australia this summer along with my wife, Arvella. Before we left home, I decided to brush up on my history and made this interesting discovery. Sydney, Australia was started as a penal colony for England. The English would send their prisoners to Australia and when the people served their term they were free to go. The problem was that the freed prisoners had no source of income so they couldn't arrange passage back to England. So they stayed.

Sydney was half a world away from London yet was dependent on England for supplies. They were a colony besieged by an ocean on one side and great mountains 40 miles to the west. The governor knew the colony could not survive unless there was fertile land west of the mountains and they could somehow get across them. He decided to form an expedition. Several volunteers gathered together and planned how they would cross the great mountain range and then they set out on foot. They failed to cross the range. Many tried over and over again but nobody could cross the mountains.

Finally in 1797, Governor King declared that the mountains were unconquerable. He even issued a proclamation discouraging any future futile and wasteful attempts to climb the mountains. The colonists faced a bleak future, besieged by the mountains, deserts and salty water. The townspeople decided to give the great range a name — The Barrier Mountains. Can you imagine what that negative name did to people?

Every time you give a situation a negative label you reinforce the power of the negative forces in that situation. The people became convinced that the barrier mountains were indeed uncrossable. Some still had dreams that if they could climb through those hills they might find a secret overland route to China, Asia, India and finally on to Europe and freedom. Only God knows how many convicts died trying to cross the Barrier Mountains. In 1813, three young adventurous men decided they were going to try to climb over the mountains even though all the other expeditions had failed. They studied every trip that had been made and they determined that every single one failed because they all crossed through the valley approach. They followed a hollow path in the hills. But these natural paths led to a steep cliff.

After meeting together for some time, they wondered, "Is it possible that they all failed because they took the easy route instead of the tough route? Is it possible that the way to conquer the mountains is to take the ridge route?" So confident were they that the tough way would be the winning way, they left on their expedition with more horses and supplies than they needed. Many people laughed and said, "Why the extra horses?" And they replied, "We need provisions so we can stay alive on the other side."

These three men took the risky route and they reached the crest of what we now know as Mt. York. And from Mt. York they had the first colonial view of the great fertile plains of Australia. They saved the colony.

It's the tough choices that produce the great returns and the great rewards. Do you want courage to make good choices? Do you need the strength to choose to see the positive in every situation? Then you need a relationship with God. There's no other way to face the uncertainties of the future than with the God of the great unknown.

Federal Land Withdrawal Program Almost Scandal

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)-Edd R. Turner says it is almost a bureaucratic scandal that so little is known about the federal government land withdrawal program.

Turner, president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, says much of the country's most highly prospective areas for oil, gas and other mineral production exists on federal lands.

But, he adds, 546 million acres, or 62 per cent of the federal domain of 877 million acres, are closed to or so burdened by restrictions as to preclude exploration and development of energy minerals.

The executive committee of the 19,000-member association departed from custom by approving a policy statement noting the high minerals production prospects for federal lands.

The statement recommended that governmental processes should be expedited to make all federally controlled areas, offshore and onshore, available for judicious energy mineral resource exploration and development.

Turner, a Getty Oil co. official in Houston, said the growing problem of restrictive federal land management is not one solely for the petroleum and coal industries.

"Other industries adversely impacted by land restrictions include mining, forestry, farming, grazing, real estate, and recreation," he said.

"Although I am told an inventory of withdrawn federal lands is in current preparation, at this time there is no central record of withdrawn lands nor of the reason for their withdrawal."

Turner said it would appear that in some instances withdrawn areas "have become essentially bureaucratic fiefdoms jealously guarded by agencies from whom permission to enter such domains on camping or hiking expeditions can require as long as six weeks to obtain."

"Moreover, permits to drill wells on leased lands are rarely issued in less than 90 days, and leasing of federal lands in some western states has been delayed for years pending environmental impact statements," he said.

"Record keeping in various local agency offices has been at best haphazard, and revocation or restoration of withdrawn lands to general use is tied up in a processing morass with a considerable backlog of applications, many over five years old."

The situation is not surprising, Turner added, "if we take into consideration that the federal bureaucracy has expanded in recent years to the extent that today there are 23 departments and agencies that administer 112 land-oriented programs."

Agreeing with Turner was Dr. Wilson Laird, a geologist who is director of exploration for the American Petroleum Institute.

Laird said some public lands have been closed to leasing "merely because local land officials have exercised their discretionary authority and object to mineral leasing."

Turner said restrictions on land usage and withdrawing million of acres from production or possible future production can only lead inevitably to an eventual deterioration in life style.

He said each citizen must be maintained by the product of so many acres, currently estimated at more than 20 tons of mineral production per person per year.

"And no matter what any of us thinks we can do to control population growth, the fact remains the number of people in the United States and the world will continue to increase," Turner said.

"The lives of these people will depend upon intelligent environment management and use."

Turner said geologists, as experienced professionals, are qualified to advise and inform, and, as citizens, are entitled to speak out on matters relating to energy and environment.

"We now speak out, advise and inform that federal land management programs as they exist today are archaic, inefficient, and detrimental to private sector efforts to resolve the energy crisis," he said.

Completion In Howard

Harper & Lawless of Midland No. 1 W.S. Cole, south offset to the discovery well of the Vincent (lower Clear Fork) field in Howard County, has been completed.

The operator reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 155 barrels of 26-gravity oil, no water, through a 10-64 - inch choke and perforations from 4,358-4,418 feet.

Gas-oil ratio was 250-1 and flowing pressure was 425 pounds.

Total depth is 4,418 feet and 4½-inch casing is cemented at total depth.

Location is 467 feet from north and 2,335 feet from west lines of section 14, block 26, H&TC survey. It is 22 miles northwest of Big Spring.

Resources Investment Corp. of Midland is preparing to set casing in No. 1-98 Young, ⅝-mile step-out to the Chaparral (lower Pennsylvanian) field in Kent County.

The project developed shows of oil and gas on a drillstem test from 7,145 to 7,164 feet. Tool was open 105 minutes. Gas surfaced at a rate too small to measure. Recovery was 540 feet oil oil and gas-cut mud, 25 per cent oil. Corrected total depth is 7,580 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 98, block G, W&NW survey and nine miles west of Clairemont.

Chevron USA, Inc. has completed No. 123 Dora Roberts, in the H-G (Glorieta) field in Howard County. The total depth is 3,190, plugged back depth 3,120 feet. Perforations are 3,060 to 3,080 feet, acidized with 1,000 gallons, fractured with 10,000 gallons and 18,000 pounds of sand. On initial potential test, the well pumped 54 barrels of oil per day, 1,105 barrels water, gravity 30, gas-oil ratio 254-1.

Location is 1,070 feet from north and 1,150 feet from east lines of section 137, block 29, W&NW survey, two miles east of Forsan.

Also in Howard County, Chevron USA, Inc. has completed No. 34 G.M. Dodge, 330 feet from south and 980 feet from west lines of section 1, block 30, T&P survey, 8 miles east of Coahoma. Total depth is 2,920, plugged back depth 2,874, 5½-inch casing is set at 2,919 feet, perforations are 2,454 to 2,836 feet, acidized with 4,000 gallons and 60,000 pounds of sand. On potential test the well pumped 48 barrels of oil per day plus 187 barrels of water, gravity 30, gas-oil ratio 1,152-1.

James P. Dunigan, Inc. has plugged and abandoned No. 1 Bill Wyatt, wildcat in Kent County. Location is 467 feet from south and west lines of E.F. Fuqua survey, Abstract No. A-1052, 18 miles northwest of Clairemont, total depth 7,232 feet.

System Is Heat Saver

WASHINGTON (AP)-Saving up heat from summer months to use as fuel to warm the house in the winter is the concept behind the Annual Cycle Energy System (ACES) house, the National Geographic Society reports.

The ACES system, which has been successfully tested in two Southern homes, is based on a basement-size tank of water that fits under the house and freezes during mid-winter. The frozen water is then used to cool the house during the summer with a process that allows the ice to melt by fall, providing a reservoir of warm water to give heat in winter.

An electrically-run heat pump is an integral part of the system.

Lady Bird To Be Honored

AUSTIN (AP)-About 1,000 friends of Lady Bird Johnson will gather Sunday night to honor her and complete efforts to establish a $1 million permanent endowment for the LBJ Library.

Primary effort of the endowment is to keep the library, which contains the papers of President Lyndon B. Johnson and many of his associates, free to the public. It also will finance special programs at the library.

The festivities of "A National Tribute to Lady Bird Johnson" begin with a stage program featuring Helen Hayes, Kirk Douglas, Roberta Peters and playwright Preston Jones.

Miss Hayes and Douglas will make a dramatic reading from Johnson letters and diaries.

Henry Ford II will welcome the distinguished guests. At a reception following the program, guests will greet Mrs. Johnson and preview a colorful holiday exhibit of Mexican folk art.

Scheduled guests include Mexico's former president, Miguel Aleman.

Other guests will be House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas; Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas; Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., and Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Texas.

While in the White House, Mrs. Johnson served as honorary chairman of the National Head Start program and exerted her leadership to put beautification on the nation's political agenda. She also headed the Society for a More Beautiful National Capital.

Currently Mrs. Johnson is a member of the President's Commission on White House Fellows and the board of trustees of the National Geographic Society.

Since returning to her home state, Mrs. Johnson remained active in the beautification effort, particularly by serving as honorary chairman of the LBJ Memorial Grove on the Potomac.

The LBJ Library, on which Mrs. Johnson began work in 1965, has had about 700,000 visitors each year from across the nation and abroad.

Mayor May Get A Raise

EAST GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)-The mayor and commissioners of East Grand Rapids are drawing the same salaries as their predecessors of 50 years back. But things may change.

A charter adopted in 1927, when East Grand Rapids became a city, set the top salary for mayor and commissioners at $360 a year. The pay for the part-time positions never changed.

Now a commission has proposed boosting the mayor's pay to as high as $750 a year, and commissioners could draw a maximum of $500.

The raises would take effect next month unless commissioners disagree and one comissioner does. He wants the commission to vote on the question Dec. 19.

Eye problem woes

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Last summer, I noticed that my vision was getting worse, so I saw an opthalmologist. On his advice, I had a glucose tolerance test which showed no evidence of diabetes, although there was a sugar increase in both the urine and blood.

The opthalmologist's diagnosis was retinal and choroidal arteriolorsclerosis. What is this? Is there a cure for this or a way to prevent it from getting worse? I saw the diagnosis on some insurance forms the doctor filled out.

On the advice of my opthalmologist, I saw my internist again, and he did another glucose tolerance test which also showed no evidence of diabetes.

Meanwhile, my contact lenses have been corrected. I try to watch my diet so that I will not get heavier. I should lose about 10 pounds. I am 52.

I realize that diabetes can cause blindness. My father had diabetes, too, after the age of 50 I believe.

DEAR READER — You should relax since your tests show you do not have diabetes. Diabetes has nothing to do with your present eye problems. With a family history of diabetes, it is wise to have a check up at intervals. You can help prevent diabetes by getting rid of all your excess pounds of body fat, and doing your best to stay on the slim side.

You do have fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries at the back of your eyes. That is what the doctor's diagnosis means. You can see the arteries and veins directly through the pupil of the eye. It is the one place you can look directly at the blood vessels without having to open the body.

Doctors are particularly interested in the arteries at the back of the eyes because they may reveal the state of other arteries in the body, but the correlation is not an absolute one. The presence of changes in the arteries at the back of your eyes made your eye doctor think you needed to be evaluated for possible changes elsewhere in your body. And such changes are more common in the presence of diabetes, but they can be caused by other problems, including high blood pressure.

I think your best approach will be to follow a diet that keeps you slender, one that is low in fat, particularly saturated fats, and low in cholesterol. That will help prevent artery changes in the eyes or in the heart or brain.

If you have another glucose tolerance test or a blood sugar test after eating or drinking sugar water, be sure and prepare yourself properly for the test. That means you should consume quite a bit of sweets and starches for three days before testing. Then you can come in fasting if you need to for your particular test (for a fasting and after glucose test). If you stay on a diet and do not have any sweets or starches before the test, your body will not respond properly to sugar loading, and you will have a false positive test that looks like diabetes. We call it a starvation diabetes response.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention, and Management. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Ten years ago in the fall, I developed a bleeding ulcer in the duodenum, and after several blood transfusions and a bland diet, the ulcer healed. Last spring, I was hospitalized with another bleeding ulcer and, after six weeks, it also healed.

Is it true that ulcers flare up in the spring and the fall? Do doctors really know what causes them? And, having been cured, is it necessary to avoid certain foods and drinks and continue antacids?

Any suggestions you have would be greatly appreciated, as I certainly don't want to develop another bleeding ulcer if I can prevent it.

DEAR READER — As far as I am concerned, 'once an ulcer patient, always an ulcer patient.' That means you should adapt your life style to prevent recurrences as they tend to recur — and yes, they are apt to recur in the spring and fall. This is not an old wives' tale — or, at least, if it is, it is a valid one.

You should avoid caffeine-containing drinks because caffeine stimulates the production of acid digestive juice. These include coffee, tea, colas and chocolate beverages. Chocolate in any form contains caffeine. You should avoid alcohol. Alcohol is a powerful stimulant to the production of acid digestive juice.

Otherwise, sensible eating habits are usually all that is required. I would avoid strong spices, but moderate spices or moderate amounts are all right. A heavily spiced Mexican meal might not be. The current thinking is that what an ulcer patient eats is not so important, but whenever complications arise, bland feedings are still used.

You may not need to take any antacids, but your doctor may want to test your production of stomach acid to see if it is high and would warrant some regular use of such a medicine.

I should add to the list of don'ts for your life style, DON'T SMOKE.

Stress is important as a factor in causing ulcers. If your life style includes too much stress, try to minimize it if you can. If a person has a stressful life style and doesn't change it, any form of treatment is not likely to be successful.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers: Duodenal, Stomach, to give you more information on your problem and what you can do about it. Others who want information on ulcers can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. If you follow the suggestions about your life style included there, you can minimize your chances of having another bleeding ulcer.

I should add that you should avoid aspirin and all of the easily obtainable popular medicines that contain aspirin. With a history of two bleeding ulcers, you don't need to take anything that decreases the blood's natural ability to clot.

No, doctors do not know exactly what causes ulcers, but we do know the company ulcers keep — stress, coffee, cigarettes and alcohol. We know that once an ulcer occurs that unless the excess stomach acid that is usually part of the picture is adequately neutralized, the ulcer will not heal promptly. Change your life style, and hopefully you can watch spring and fall come without fear of a bleeding ulcer.

Retirement crisis

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

It is a wrenching adjustment for many of the 1.5 million Americans who retire every year. It is also a difficult time for their families. This hot line caller found her newly retired husband intruding on her "freedom"...

HOT LINE

Mrs. J: How much do you think I should put up with to save a marriage that has lasted 40 years? I mean, after all we've been through together ... maybe I should be patient.

Counselor: Be patient about what?

Mrs. J: Oh, I don't know .... I shouldn't take all this abuse. I should just tell him to move out. I'm so confused. Please help me make up my mind.

Counselor: Let's talk it out together. That may help you decide whether or not you want to stay with your husband.

Mrs. J: Everyone says we have such a great marriage. And we did — until my husband retired six months ago. It should have been an ideal situation. We have always wanted to spend more time together but this is ridiculous. I can't move around the house without tripping over him. As the saying goes ... "I married him for better or for worse, but not for lunch."

Counselor: You feel crowded now. Is that it?

Mrs. J: Yes, that's part of it but there's more to the problem. He sits around all day making big plans. For years he has been talking about buying a camper and traveling across the country. I never thought he was serious, in fact I don't remember ever really talking with him about retirement. Now it seems he's ready to go and he expects me to go with him!

Counselor: You say he has been talking about these plans for years and you never treated it seriously. How did you handle it?

Mrs. J: I guess I just went along ... a lot of the time I wasn't even listening. It didn't seem to matter then because he'd be at work all the time. I would talk as though I'd do anything he wanted, but I was actually free every day — all day.

Counselor: Then he has a good reason to believe you will go along with his plans now?

Mrs. J: Yes, I can see that now. You know, in a way he called my bluff by retiring and he doesn't even realize it. It's funny — when I began this conversation I felt tricked because the new life style was threatening the way I want to live. Now I feel that maybe I have been tricking him for a long time.

In this hot-line conversation excerpt the counselor helped the caller become aware of her role in a marital crisis. Later in the call, the caller promised to talk with her husband about her own hopes and plans for their retirement years. Even though she was optimistic at the end of the call, she regretted having avoided the issue for so long.

Dr. Blaker cannot take telephone calls from her readers. However, there are hundreds of crisis intervention phone lines in the United States. For the phone number of one near you, contact your local mental health association or mental health information service.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

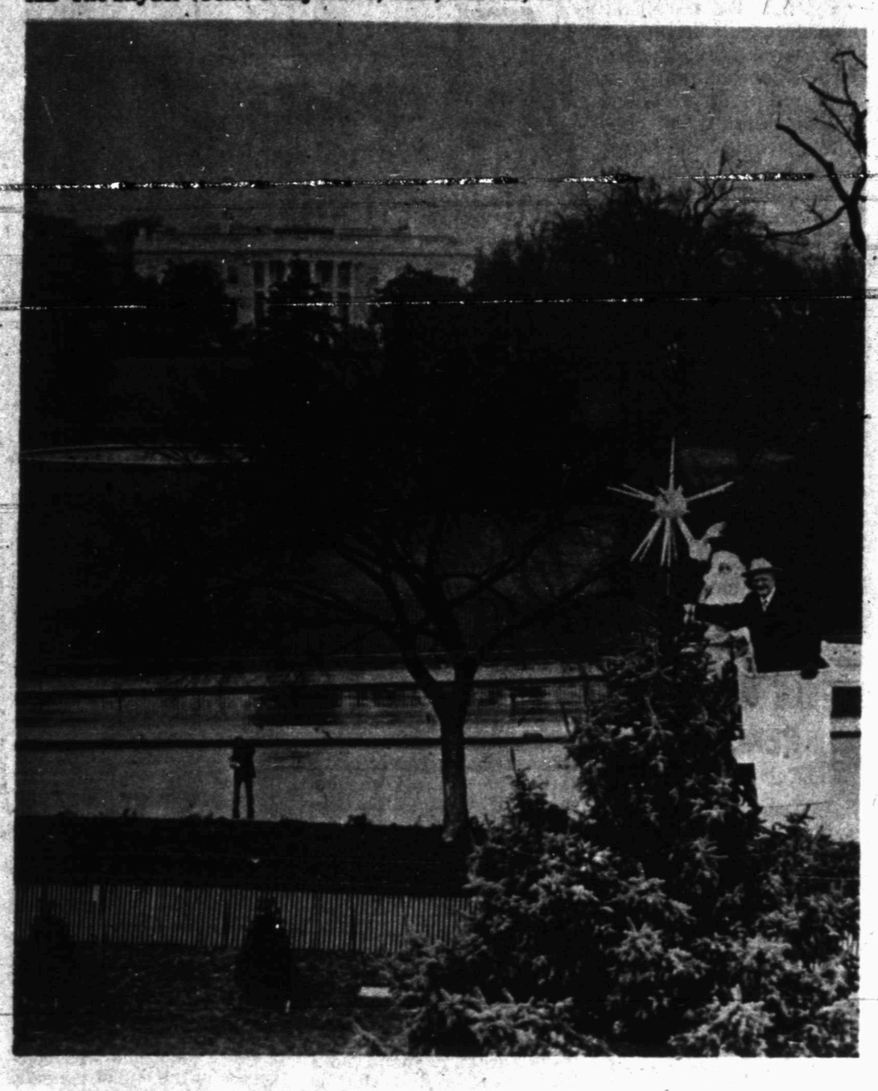

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday
Dec. 11, 1977
A steady, but slow, financial growth pattern is in store for you this coming year. You should refrain from trying to speed up progress lest you stall it.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 2-Dec. 21) Try to leave well enough alone today. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread and you just might sound off enough to get yourself in trouble. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each sign desired and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Should you be tempted to change a considered opinion because of a biased companion, count to 10 first. Your way will probably be the wisest.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you put your foot in your mouth today, let it be. Trying to clarify things will make it worse.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's not cricket to change partners in the middle of the dance. Adhere to original intentions if you want to sidestep sticky situations today.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Discipline breaks down rather early for you today. You must be cautious not to overindulge later should you feel your restraint slipping.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful today not to put yourself in an embarrassing position where you pretend to comprehend something that you don't. You may be asked to explain.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be the underwriter of hopeless causes today. You could make a loan to a very poor credit risk.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Both you and your mate hold some equally strong positions today. As luck would have it, you're on one side of the fence and she's on the other.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You do a little and expect a lot today. Your rewards are going to be commensurate with the services you render.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid the crowds today if you can. Somehow you sense you come off better in a small group — and you're perfectly right.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be very meticulous about the guest list if entertaining at home today. You wouldn't want to invite one who doesn't fit.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're not too well attuned to your audience today. Unless you're careful, you could offend someone by being too self-serving.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Your Birthday
Dec. 12, 1977
An interesting year lies ahead for you romantically. In addition, someone fond of you could arrange something that turns out very profitably.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If possible steer clear of people who measure your worth by what you have in the bank. Associate with those who like you for yourself. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Members of the opposite sex are likely to fawn over you today. This may not be true of persons of your own gender, particularly in business.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you keep things in proportion, but today you're liable to accept much more than you intend to return. It happens inadvertently.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A pessimistic pal could sour you with his attitude today. Don't heed him. Chart your own course.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) An old relationship will be put in jeopardy today if you give the impression you care more for someone new. Don't wear your feelings on your sleeve.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're asked to do a favor for a person you aren't attracted to, you'll be reluctant. However, you'll go all-out for one who turns you on.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Romance is a much-better bet for you than business today. It looks as though Dan Cupid likes you, but the commercial world may not.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Should your mate come up with a long list of chores today, you'll be perturbed. The lure of bigger and better things beckons.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't seek solace in front of the TV if you've had a long and frustrating day. Revitalize your energies by going out and mingling.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Things that you do because of selfish and ulterior motives will fail today. Success comes from acting with a kind heart and no thought of reward.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's not likely you'll be in a domestic frame of mind today. You might seek an excuse to be with other than members of the family.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a tendency to misread the intentions of others today. Be careful you don't block off someone who seeks only to do good for you.

A LITTLE HELP FROM SANTA--Texas industrialist John W. Dixon gets timely assistance from Santa Claus in placing the star atop the National Community Christmas Tree. The 32-foot Colorado blue spruce -- located off the Ellipse near the White House -- will be lighted by President Carter Thursday evening, Dec. 15 in ceremonies sponsored by the Pageant of Peace, Inc. Dixon, chairman of E-Systems, Inc. of Dallas, is president of the non-profit organization, which sponsors two weeks of Christmas-related activities in the Washington area.

Report Is Issued On Medical Scholarships

Billie Mills, President of Women's Hospital Auxiliary and Chairman of Medical Students Scholarship Fund has issued a report on progress and expenditures on the medical students sponsored by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The Medical Students Scholarship Fund was set up in March 1975 for the purpose of sponsoring students in medical school and upon completion of their education they would return to Snyder to practice medicine.

Two students were signed in 1975, Stanley Allen and Paul Thompson who were attending medical school in Galveston. In 1977 two other students were signed, Bid Allen Cooper, attending Southwestern Medical School in Dallas and Don Rinker attending Osteopathic school in Ft. Worth.

Each contract called for a monthly living allowance, tuition, books, life insurance and supplies for the duration of the contract -- with notes supporting each disbursement. The notes are payable to the Women's Hospital Auxiliary with interest from the date of the disbursement should they not return to Snyder to practice medicine.

At the present time the total disbursements to these students have amounted to $49,945.63. Dr. Paul Thompson is now in residency at Robert B. Green Hospital in San Antonio, Stanley Allen, Don Rinker and Bid Allen Cooper are in advanced medical school. Each student has worked inside Cogdell Memorial Hospital during summer vacation months while on contract and at least two of them will be in Snyder to practice medicine before or upon completion of the new addition.

The Medical Students Scholarship Fund has and is an expensive project for the Auxiliary. However, through the efforts of every Auxilians and citizen of Scurry County, through donations to the Medical Students Scholarship Fund, the project has been successful. With many months left on some of the contracts and anticipating more doctors for the new addition and facilities for the hospital, the Auxilians are as enthusiastic as they have been since the fund was established.

All donations to this fund are tax-free and benefical to the citizens of the county and surrounding counties. Donations are acknowledged and appreciated. They may be mailed to Mrs. Billie Mills, President, Box 306, Snyder, are to Cy Miller, Adm., Cogdell Memorial Hospital, Snyder or any Auxilian.

WTC To Sponsor Fine Arts Tour

Western Texas College is announcing plans to sponsor a Fine Arts Tour of Europe through its Fine Arts Department from May 17-June 7, 1978.

Dr. Robert L. Clinton, president of WTC, will serve as tour director and instructor. Persons making the tour may earn three hours of college credit in Music Appreciation and three hours credit in Art Appreciation, or may choose to audit the courses rather than receiving college credit.

The group will fly from Dallas to London on a charter flight on May 17 and remain in London until May 21 when they will go by ferry to Harwich and Amsterdam. Other highlights of the tour on the Continent will include a cruise on the Rhine, a performance by the Boys' Choir of Vienna, sightseeing in Venice, Rome and Florence, and tours in Paris and Versailles.

Cost of the trip will be $1,795 per person. This includes first class accommodations in hotels (double occupancy), a Continental breakfast each morning, train fares, and the ferry from England to Holland. It also includes all tours, tickets to the concerts, plays and other activities, and tuition and fees.

A brochure with additional details of the tour is to be ready about mid-January. Persons wishing further information may contact the Fine Arts Department office or Dr. Clinton's office at Western Texas College.

Carol Written On Christmas Eve

CHICAGO (AP) - Although Christmas carols date back to the 400s A.D., one of the most famous was actually written on Christmas Eve. "Silent Night" was written in 1818 by a parish priest in Austria, according to The World Book Encyclopedia. The words and music were composed in time for midnight mass.
