LEAF WORM DAMAGE IN COUNTY SPREADS

MENACE OF WORM NOT REALIZED BY MAJORITY, CLAIM

CARLOAD OF POISON IS EXPECTED TO ARRIVE HERE FRIDAY

Heavy damage to crops in Lubbock county by the leaf worm is not being realized, according to R. E. Overstreet, acting County Agent during the absence of D. P. Eaton; but is being done now.

During the past week, he leaf-worm which was noticed in small numbers south of Lubbock county, has progressed in a regular army, as its name army worm implies, until at the present time it is destroying a heavy percentage of the cotton crop over the county, with the exception of a few of the extremely and other sections of the northern part of the county.

Mr. Overstreet stated that relief from the pest can be had Friday, when a 50,000 pound carload of arsenic arsenate poison to be used in combating the worm is due, and another carload will follow immediately.

To date, farmers of the county and adjacent points have ordered more than 32,000 pounds of the poison, to be put out immediately after its arrival here, and a number of others have indicated their intention of buying poison when it is obtained by the County Agent.

The real menace of the worm to this county has not been over-estimated, Mr. Overstreet said, and there has not been yet a full realization of the danger from the pest. One farmer, whose place is some few miles south of Lubbock stated this morning that 220 acres of his cotton crop is infested; and on a fifty acre portion of the crop, the worm had damaged the crop to the extent of fully 50 percent. Not content with eating the leaf of the stalk, the bloom and the square, the boll is being destroyed now. Mr. Overstreet stated further:

Contrary to the idea prevalent over some parts of the county, especially in town, that this is only a regular invasion of the army worm, and that no damage is being done, it must be remembered that the worm usually begins infesting the fields in October when the crop is made, and does no damage in eating more than the leaves from the stalk, giving the matured cotton a chance to develop. This year, the invasion is in the middle of the making of the crop, when the bolls are only being formed; and the month between the present time and the normal time for the depredations of the worm practically means the cotton crop.

Activity of the worm is not confined to any area, but is wide spread over the Plains. South of Lubbock county has suffered heaviest damage, and infestation of this vicinity is only recent. Its scope, however, is indicated by the fact that Littlefield phoned in Tuesday for 10,000 pounds of the poison, and Lorenzo called this morning for 2,000 pounds of it.

If the farmers of the Plains intend saving their crop, immediate action is necessary; if this state of affairs is not taken seriously, hundreds of acres of cotton will be devastated before the people realize what is taking place, or what has taken place. Mr. Overstreet said.

Proclamations of Clemency Given By "Ma" Stands 2,308

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, Aug. 25.—Since she has been chief executive of Texas, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has issued 2,308 clemency proclamations, records in the office of the secretary of state show. Since April 6, exactly 593 clemency proclamations have been issued.

ARCH HARRIS IS GIVEN CONTRACT BY A. J. McMAHAN

LUBBOCK SURVEYOR WILL DO WORK IN AT LEAST FOUR COUNTIES

The first actual move to make possible the piping of natural gas into Lubbock by December 15 will be made Thursday morning when Arch L. Harris, county surveyor and a civil engineer, places crews into the field to begin the surveying of the pipe line. It was announced from Mr. Harris' office this afternoon.

According to his statement Mr. Harris has received the engineering contracts for Lubbock, Hale, Floyd and Swisher counties and his surveying work must be completed by September 15, in accordance with the contract signed. It is probable that he will sign other engineering contracts with the same corporation and superintend the work in other counties which the pipeline, when completed, will traverse.

Work To Be Rushed
Mr. Harris will place three or four crews into the field Thursday morning and the work which they will do will be to lay the route of the line, complete plans, locate and lay out the line, and complete the work in the middle of the coming month. It was his intention to start operations Wednesday but that was impossible so Thursday was chosen as the opening day for the surveying work.

Mr. Harris believes that gas will be piped into Lubbock by December 15, as A. J. McMahon, Oklahoma City capitalist and head of the Texas Gas company, the corporation to whom the Lubbock franchise was given, has promised. Mr. McMahon reports that contract for the laying of the line will be let on September 15 and crews and machinery will immediately be placed in the field and actual ditching will be begun.

The fact that natural gas will mean a great fuel saving to Lubbock becomes more and more apparent daily. The manager of a large industrial concern here, whose organization burns a great deal of fuel in its operation, told the Journal that he would save a total of $912 per month through the bringing of the gas promised here.

CORRECTION OR RESIGNATION IS DEMANDED OF HIM

IMMEDIATE ACTION MUST BE HAD, COMMISSIONER SAYS WHILE HERE

An immediate correction of his misstatements concerning climatic conditions in the Panhandle-Plains region of Texas, or else his resignation from the department has been demanded of Doak Rainey, assistant state highway engineer and editor of the Texas Highway Bulletin, John M. Cage, of Stephenville, member of the state highway commission, announced in Lubbock today.

Mr. Cage arrived in the city last night and spent most of the day in conference with district highway officials here. He also met with a number of citizens and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce concerning the route of the new hard surface highway to Idalou.

Controversy Opened Monday
The controversy over West Texas climatic conditions was opened Monday from Plainview, when the Associated Press carried an article telling of the offensive launched against Rainey by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and many business men of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce as a result of an article written by Rainey which is said to have included a number of erratic figures concerning Panhandle-Plains weather conditions.

Mr. Cage told the Journal this morning that he had encountered bitter protests over Rainey's article ever since arriving in this section of the state and sent the following telegram to the state highway engineer in an effort to clear up the matter:

Telegram is Given

THREE YOUTHS ROB BANK AT IRVING

IRVING, TEXAS, AUG. 25. (AP)—Three unskilled youths robbed the Irving bank here Wednesday of between $5,000 and $7,000 after backing the officials and one customer into a vault.

The three men, entering the bank, walked up to the cage and drew pistols. They ordered, A. P. Mauk, vice president and cashier; Fred Hoosier, assistant cashier, and a customer, into the vault at the rear.

Keeping them covered with pistols, the robbers gathered up all the money in the vault and closed the door on the captives. They then collected the money in the drawers and three counts and threw all the loot into a sack. Mauk ran into the street with a shotgun and attempted to fire into the automobile, but his gun jammed and he could not fire a shot.

A posse was formed and started on the trail. Two car loads of deputy sheriffs started for the scene from Dallas, taking different roads.

About half way between Dallas and Irving, on the Irving road, Deputies Bob Alcorn and Will Hood passed a five passenger car traveling rapidly. It was occupied by three men and a woman and had no number. They gave chase, but though they drove 70 miles an hour, they were unable to catch up with automobile before it reached the Dallas city limits and disappeared.

FORE WARNED

AN EDITORIAL

But two more days remain until the voters of this county, district express their preference at the state and will be called upon to polls.

Great pots of seething political hotrum are being brewed all over Texas, to be spilled before the unsuspecting voters in first elections, hour effort to turn the tide of ballots, and Lubbock county is no exception.

Do not be misled—there is but one campaign issue and that issue is 'good government'. Last minute allegations of 'secret frame-ups' must not be taken seriously. Candidates must be chosen upon a basis of good record—and should be defeated because of a lack of it.

The overwhelming majority of Lubbock county voters stand staunchly in favor of good government and will not be fooled through weak-kneed arguments which have no bearing on the question. The Ferguson smoke screen—the cry of 'Ku Klux Klan'—raised in a futile attempt to direct attention from the fallacies of a disgusting administration, finds a parallel in a number of county and district races throughout the state on the Ferguson short-tail. If the majority of the voters will go to the polls and perform their duty, plots of this nature will be scattered to the four winds.

Look at the matter sensibly—take the facts from the figures—and do not permit a hysterical cry of 'Wolf' to dissuade a single vote which ordinarily would be cast for good government—that essential characteristic which must dominate the next administration, from the smallest justice precinct to the capitol at Austin.

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

WORRY IS DISEASE OF CONSCIENCE

"You worry too much," said the doctor.
"I can't help it," said the patient.
"No, that's right, you can't," said the doctor. "I don't know what it is that is troubling you, but whatever it is, if it were in my power to remove it, in a matter of hours something else would pop into its place in your mind and you would be worrying as hard as ever. That kind of worrying isn't a thing to be proud of. It denotes, more or less, my good friend, a sickly conscience."
His patient need not have been offended. The doctor was not being personal; he was stating a fact. And sickly consciences are probably doing more harm to the health and lives of the civilized human being than all the diseases known to man.
No—not conscience. We need good healthy consciences to be on the job every second of our waking hours. But sickly consciences are a different thing. Sickly consciences are consciences that brood over the past, poison the present, and wreck the future.
If you have read Ibsen's "The Master Builder," you will remember that Hilda, fresh from her mountain town, tells the Master Builder that he has a sickly conscience.
It happened that at one time there was a fire—a fire he had wished for, but that eventually occurred without his knowledge or contrivance. The results of the fire were tragic—two thousand times removed from what he had planned or expected. As a result he had secretly brooded and deplored. He allowed it to ruin his life, and he retaliated by ruining the lives of others. Over it all hung frantic fear of retribution. A clear case of sickly conscience.
Every one makes mistakes—mistakes of judgment, mistakes of omission, mistakes of commission, mistakes of weakness. "To err is human." Usually the things we fret about the most are the things over which we have no control. Regret is not worry! Sadness is not worry.
Worry, nine times out of ten, is melancholy brooding. Most of us do the best we can. If we are not doing our best, we might try a little harder, and give our mistakes as foundation stones to build on.

Little "men" in the four colors were not cups filled with salt almonds. The ice cream carried out the color.

INCREASE IN IRON RATE GRANTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today approved an increase of from 41.5 to 50 cents a hundred pounds in freight rates on imported iron and steel articles from New Orleans and other Gulf ports, excluding Texas ports, to St. Louis. The rates will be restricted to routes on and east of the Mississippi river.
Proposed increase on the same commodities to 47 and 48.5 cents on merchant iron and 52.5 and 53.5 cents on structural iron from New Orleans to Pine Bluff and Little Rock, Arkansas were found justified.
The commission disapproved increases in the rates from Texas Gulf ports to St. Louis, points in Oklahoma and Kansas, and Little Rock and Pine Bluff, and found not justified the restriction of import class rates would not apply on these articles from the Texas ports to the destinations named.
As to the latter rates, the commission held that reasonable maximum rates would be those prescribed in the Memphis-Southwestern investigation case.

CONDITION—Blackheads.
DIAGNOSIS—These troublesome unbecoming objects often accompany an oily skin and enlarged pores.
TREATMENT—Cleanse the face carefully, steaming it if the blackheads obstinate. Then place a blackhead remover, or a watch key over the spot and the blackhead will be forced out. Cleanse your instrument after each removal, and wipe the spot with peroxide of hydrogen or alcohol. This is infinitely preferable to removing the blackheads by squeezing with the fingers, which is often the cause of infection. By washing carefully with a complexion brush and pure soap, you can keep them away once you have removed them.

Tentative plans have been made for a reunion of the 26th and 39th Divisions, and it is certain that the "Arrowhead" and "T-O" will be well represented.

NEW YORK—Sailors love to roam. Dimitrios Sigelakis, a Greek seaman, has just left alone in a 25 foot sloop for a tour of the world. He built it from savings accumulated while serving "ham and" ashore. Charles A. White, shot, six feet four, who used to be one of Uncle Sam's boys, has sailed from Chicago to New York in 24 days. He says the cost was four cents for a ferry trip across the Hudson, which he did not care to swim.

Widow of Murdered Editor Files Suit

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25. (AP)—Mrs. Don R. Mellett, of Indianapolis, Ind., today filed suit in federal court here asking damages of $100,000 for the death of her husband killed at Canton July 16. The suit named as defendants Ben Rudner, Massillon, Louis Mazer, and Patrick Eugene McDermott, Nanty-Glo, Pa.
The petition named Mazer and Rudner as conspirators against the life of Mellett, and claims damages because the slaying has deprived her and her children of support.
The suit is frankly interpreted as an effort to take the Don R. Mellett murder investigation out of "politics" and into federal court here.

Two Speeders Kept Of Few Seconds Saved

A dollar saved may be a dollar made; but a minute or so may mean several dollars spent, according to the experience of a couple of individuals who paid off Tuesday five dollars each for speeding fines. Motorists who, lured by losing a few seconds at a stop sign, try to make up for lost time by speeding, may find the pavement in excess of the speed limit, may find that time is quite valuable when a few miles an hour over the limit are indulged in, according to the police department.

BODY OF SCREEN STAR VIEWED BY MANY THOUSANDS

OVER 100 INJURED WHEN 50,000 BLOCK STREET; FASCISTS ON GUARD

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The body of Rudolph Valentino, great lover of the screen, today was guarded by police and black-shirted fascists because of the pressing throngs that have tried to view it, resulting in scores of injuries.

Police estimated that 50,000 persons, mostly women and girls, blocked Broadway, in front of the undertaking establishment where the star lies in state, and that more than 100 were injured in the crush yesterday. Two plate glass windows were shattered and several times mounted policemen were driven back by the crowd. Reserves were called out and 135 patrolmen and 10 mounted policemen were required to keep order.

Crowd Stands in Rain
More than 5,000 were waiting to be admitted to see the body when a heavy rain fell. The crowd pressed against doorways and windows and mounted police backed their horses into the crowd to break it up. Women ran screaming and clawing at each other. The first window was smashed. Ambulances were called, and several women were treated for injuries.

The casket containing the body was placed on the second floor to prevent spectators to pass single file by climbing a stairway. All portable objects were removed from the reach of souvenir hunters. The line passed the coffin at the rate of 75 a minute.

Crowds remained even after the establishment closed at midnight. Police continued on guard. It was announced that the body would be on view again today and tomorrow from 9 a. m. until mid-night.

Fascist Guard Arrives
After mid-night 10 men wearing black shirts of the Italian fascisti arrived and two of them went on guard, the other arranging to relieve them at intervals. A huge scowth also arrived, labeled "Iron Bando Mussolini."

Funeral services will be held Monday, but the date of burial is yet to be decided. Valentino's brother, Alberto Guglielmi, is on the way from France. Poli Negri, who announced some time ago that she expected to marry Valentino, and S. George Ullman, his manager, desire that he be buried in Hollywood.

Miss Negri hopes to reach New York in time for the funeral service. Among the honorary pall bearers Monday will be Mayor Walker, Will Hays, Adolph Zuker, Marcus Lowe and Hiram Abrams.

MEXICAN BOYCOTT STILL FEARED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25. (AP)—Since there are no immediate prospects of settlement of the religious controversy, the economic boycott called by the League for the defense of religious freedom is increasing the gloom in business circles.

Business from some sections of the country indicate that the slump in business is acute. Even Mexico City decreases in the sales of commodities, except those considered absolute necessities, are being noticed more and more.

The Catholic episcopate, with the assistance of attorneys, is working upon a memorial to be presented to the congress asking an amendment of the religious clauses of the constitution or for modification of the regulations recently formulated for carrying out the provisions of the constitution.

The episcopate in a formal statement says the deputies already conceded as having been elected and those who may win seats through contests in the electoral college are pledged in advance to support the religious policy of President Calles but that it prays they may change their minds for the good of the country.

Widow of Murdered Editor Files Suit

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25. (AP)—Mrs. Don R. Mellett, of Indianapolis, Ind., today filed suit in federal court here asking damages of $100,000 for the death of her husband killed at Canton July 16. The suit named as defendants Ben Rudner, Massillon, Louis Mazer, and Patrick Eugene McDermott, Nanty-Glo, Pa.
The petition named Mazer and Rudner as conspirators against the life of Mellett, and claims damages because the slaying has deprived her and her children of support.
The suit is frankly interpreted as an effort to take the Don R. Mellett murder investigation out of "politics" and into federal court here.

ROTARIANS EAT AT NEW HOTEL

Pleasant Program Feature of First Club Use of New Hostelry Here

Royally entertained by musical numbers and addresses, members of the Lubbock Rotary club Wednesday initiated the new Lubbock hotel as a headquarters for local civic clubs with their regular weekly luncheon meeting. A very palatable luncheon was served under the direction of Manager W. E. LaFon, in the new coffee shop of the hostelry. About eighty persons were present.

Following a very pleasing musical number, featuring Mrs. Carl Stoggin, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Dunn, Rev. D. H. Heard, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Big Spring, made a highly interesting talk on the subject "How Much are You Worth?" Both the music and the address were greatly appreciated.

John Cage Talks
John M. Cage, Stephenville, member of the state highway commission, then made a few interesting remarks concerning highways and praised Lubbock and the Plains section. Mr. Cage also touched upon the recent statement of Donk Rainey, assistant state highway engineer and editor of the Texas Highway Bulletin, which contained several erratic figures in regard to temperatures in this section of the state. Mr. Cage told the Rotarians that he had arranged for a correction of Mr. Rainey's remarks.

Wallace W. Rix was in charge of the program and President Hubert L. Allen, back from a district meeting of Rotary officials, was in the chair. All the rest of the club's meetings will be held in the hotel, it was announced.

The drive for members for the South Plains Auto Club, launched here this morning by local citizens with the assistance of representatives of the American Automobile Association had netted more than 100 names by noon, and it was anticipated that the movement that began here Wednesday would be more than 150 by Wednesday night.

Plans for the organization of a club here to be affiliated with the state and national associations were made at a meeting Tuesday morning. The territory from which the membership will be drawn includes eight or ten counties surrounding Lubbock, and work of solicitation will be extended to these counties as soon as the organization is put under way here.

HUBBERS AWAIT GONG TO START DENVER SERIES

CHAMPIONS READY FOR A REPETITION OF THEIR 1925 VICTORY

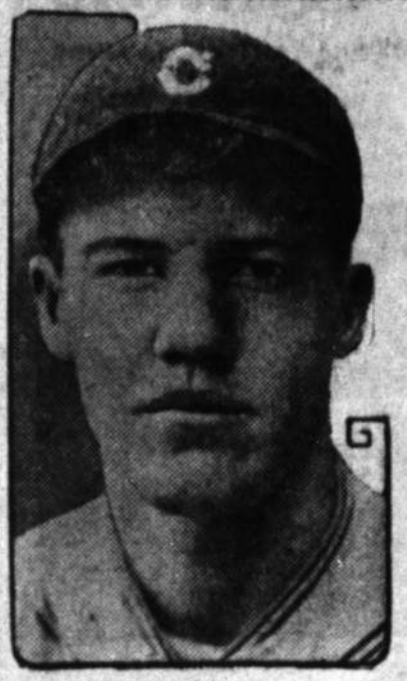

Awaiting the opening song of the 1926 Denver Post tournament, the Lubbock Hubbers, champions of West Texas and winners of the Mile High Diamond frolic last year, arrived in Denver today, preparatory to the opening of the play-off which will start tomorrow. Led by the veteran Sled Allen who in spite of his 28 years, 21 of which have been on various ball lots, was chosen as the most valuable catcher of the Amarillo tournament last week, the hustling athletes from the South Plains capital will enter the series as favorites for final victory.

Managers of the various clubs entered will meet in Denver tonight for drawings and all plans will be laid for the opening round of play. Following the drawing the managers of the contesting clubs will be the guests of the management of the Denver Post at a banquet.

No word has yet been received in Lubbock concerning contesting clubs in the Denver fracas but special information will arrive for the Journal tonight, following the managers banquet.

The Hubbers entrained yesterday from Amarillo, scene of their latest triumph, and were to arrive in Denver this afternoon in time to get settled, acclimated and ready for play. They will be quartered at the First Avenue hotel, their stopping place last year, the management of which is made up of strong Hubber fans.

Billy Evans Says

BASEBALL HAS A FLOCK OF EMERGENCIES SURROUNDING EVERY GAME PLAYED; READ ABOUT THESE TWO HIGHLY QUEER CASES

When a situation in baseball presents itself that isn't definitely covered by the rules, the umpire must call upon fair play and common sense in reaching a decision.

Such a happening came up the other day in a game between Brooklyn and St. Louis of the National League. It has been the subject of so much comment and so many people have written me about it, that I deem it worthy of discussion.

It seems Outfielder Zach Wheat of the Brooklyn club, knocked the ball over the fence in fair territory. Such a hit entitled him to a home run. All that was necessary for the circuit drive to be officially recorded was that Wheat touch each base, according to the rules.

As Wheat neared second base he suddenly collapsed. At first, the news was flashed that he had suffered a "charley-horse." This is a painful muscular ailment that practically paralyzes the entire leg and makes locomotion impossible.

Later it was given out that in running out the hit, Wheat in some way had dislocated his ankle.

They Both Cross Plate
As Wheat lay on the ground, suffering excruciating pain, the question arose as to how the situation could be handled to conform to the rules and have the home run officially scored.

At a conference between officials and managers, it was decided that Maranville should be substituted for Wheat and take up the running out of the hit where Wheat was forced to stop. This he did, according to report, crossing the plate.

Apparently in the minds of several of the players there was some question as to the legality of the proceedings, so after the substitution of Maranville as pinch runner, Wheat himself hobbled around the bases.

What about it? I have been asked that question hundreds of times since the unusual happening came up.
Batter Must Touch Bases
When Wheat hit the ball over the fence, the ball being in fair territory, he legally made a home run. The touching of the bases in such cases is more or less a formality.

Rule 48, however, states that when a batsman so hits the ball out of playing territory, HE must touch the bases in their regular order.

The unexpected injury suffered by Wheat in making the circuit, at first made it appear as if it would be physically impossible for him to live up to the rule.

Fair Play Enters Discussion
At this stage fair play must enter into the proceedings and the umpire should permit a pinch runner to complete the circuit. Or, he might suggest the players carry the injured athlete on their shoulders the rest of the way and have him touch each base with the good foot.

However, the permission of a pinch runner is more logical and perfectly fair. Such pinch runner would, of course, immediately take the place of the injured athlete in the regular lineup.

Then just as I had cleared up that phrase of the freak play, a scribe said to me, "Well, if Maranville is the player who, as pinch runner, actually completes the circuit and legally scores the run, should he or Wheat be credited with the home run?"

Hitler Gets the Credit
It seems that according to the scoring rules when a pinch runner takes the place of a man on the bases and he eventually scores, the run is credited to him in the averages.

It is on batted balls that remain in playing territory on which trouble can be made.

When Stange Crawled In
Well do I recall a freak happening of years ago. In which Oscar Stange, then star catcher of the Detroit Tigers, figured.

Stange, never fleet of foot, hit a ball to the remote corner of center field at the Detroit park. For him it was a triple.

When he got within about 20 feet of second base he suddenly collapsed, having sprung a "charley-horse." He was in great pain.

"Call time, Bill," he yelled to me. "I can't move." In the meantime the visiting outfielders were in hot pursuit of the ball. The Detroit coacher at first rushed onto the field and said: "What can we do? Is it possible to substitute a pinch runner? Why don't you call time?"

"Get out of here and don't you lay a hand on Stange," I shouted. "I can't run, Bill, I can't stand on my feet," said Stange as he again appealed to me to call "time."

"Did you ever try crawling?" I asked. Stange got my cue and crawled to second base. In the meantime the ball had been returned to the infield and I then called time.

It requires care to handle such situations when the ball is in play and there is a chance to get the runner.

All city boys don't think we get milk from bottles. Some think we get times from them.

At the beginning of the year there were less than 7,000 cars in the county but there are many more now, judging from the licenses taken out.

KREMER HURLS BUCS BACK TO TOP; REDS TIE FOR SECOND

After a day at the peak of the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals were again in the wake of the world champion Pirates today. Cincinnati was tied with St. Louis for second place.

Larry Benton of the Braves flipped a paralyzing brand of baseball yesterday in the first game of the double-header with St. Louis. Only four singles, placed from the Cardinals' bats, kept the Braves' hit string going enough to breeze out 3-2 to 1 victory. St. Louis took the second game, 4 to 2.

In meantime, the Pirates knocked out Raleigh Grimes and beat Brooklyn, 10 to 1. Ray Carey, former Buccaneers captain, could do nothing in his second appearance in Brooklyn's togsery.

The Reds beat the Giants, 6 to 1. The Chicago Cubs showed no mercy to the up-and-coming Phillies, taking a pair of games, 9 to 4, and 9 to 0. Wilson got behind one for his nineteenth home run of the season, while Harinet carried two into the far reaches.

Editorials A MUNICIPAL LESSON

In refusing a cash settlement of $25,000 from the City of Lubbock for damages done his property by city water wells and pumping machinery, Mayor F. R. Friend has not only strengthened his reputation for being one of the city's leading citizens but he has turned down an offer which would have been immediately accepted by many men with less stout hearts.

Following the former Mayor's gift of two separate plots of land on which fine producing water wells were located and drilled, at a time when they were most sorely needed, a malicious story was circulated by malcontents in regard to the entire proposition. The victim of misunderstanding Mr. Friend went on his way, unperturbed, knowing, as his friends knew, that his had been an unselfish act through which the city had received benefits.

No complaint did the rumors become, however, that Mr. Friend asked the city commission for an official investigation and a final disposition of the entire matter. His request was granted and an investigating committee, made up of out-of-town men, appointed.

These men, Jeff D. Bartlett, city manager of Amarillo; Mayor W. E. Risser, of Plainview, and Mr. John J. Ford, of Sweetwater, came to Lubbock and made their investigation. Their report to the city commission, in brief, was to the effect that Mr. Friend's holdings, which join the city on the northwest, had been damaged to a great extent and that a payment of $25,000 in cash would be necessary to repay Mr. Friend for the damages.

Then, finally and officially freed from these false rumors, Mr. Friend again played the man's part. He told the commission that it was his intention to give the land to the city in the first place—which had done so certainly did not intend to take any payment for it now. The land and wells, Mr. Friend reiterated, were the property of the city—had been for over a year, and as far as he was concerned the matter was closed.

The matter, however, was not closed until the commission, by unanimous vote, adopted a resolution of thanks and praise to Mr. Friend for his generosity to the city—maintained even in the face of great odds.

This resolution given Mr. Friend is not enough. He should receive another from the Board of City Development and the individual and collective thanks of every citizen of Lubbock. His action throughout the case, in the opinion of the Journal, is the biggest, broadest piece of civic service ever seen in Lubbock and should be credited as such. He played the man's part and played it well.

Holding of public office in a municipality the size of Lubbock is a patriotic service—one which should be repayed in respect and confidence of the public. Due to the fact that the monetary consideration is of such a calibre as to make the spending of the necessary time in the office a losing proposition, men like F. R. Friend, Walter Posey, Pink L. Parrish, R. W. Blair, J. O. Jones and J. H. Hankins, in giving their time to the city when they could spend that time on their own businesses far more profitably, should be honored and praised for their civic service rather than subjected to criticisms based on groundless rumor and it is hoped that this most recent case will serve as a future lesson to the city as a whole.

DON'T FORGET! Next Saturday the Democratic party in Texas will nominate its officials for another two years. Don't forget to mark off time enough next Saturday to do a patriotic duty and cast a ballot. Lubbock voters started a job on July 26th that must be finished on Saturday; a task, the completion of which will assure good government for another two years. It is essential that every voter cast his ballot so that the majority may rule as in accordance with the constitution. Don't forget to vote on Saturday.

Speaking of the great powers, there are in the United States, England, France, Japan and Mussolini—Weston (Ore.) Leader.

Hal Cochran's Daily Poem

DETERMINATION

If you really decide you can clean up a task, you can go right ahead, then, and do it. 'Cause where is the fellow who falls down, I ask, when he makes up his mind to go to it?

There are too many people, the world around, who spend most of their time at fretting. Instead of at labor, they're generally found just thinkin' 'bout where they are gettin'.

The man who comes walkin' ahead of the crowd, is naturally known as the worker. Of course he has reason to feel much more proud than the fellow who's really a shirker.

The worry and wonder that most people do are things quite distant 'round, you'll find. One key to success, that helps carry you through, is the strength to just make up your mind.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. — Scattered notes from an afternoon's ramble about Manhattan:

Sandwichmen gathered in a shady corner upon a hot afternoon. One of them carries a board advertising a sale of men's merchandise. Yet he has no handkerchief. He wipes his sweaty face with a tattered sleeve.

A second carries a sign reading, "Clashes pressed while you wait!" Yet his own pants seem never to have seen a press. They have a distinctive bagginess that defies pressing. They have the look of clothes with which farmers drape scarecrows.

A third advertises a shop that fixes shoes while you wait, yet his shoes seem ready to drop from his feet. A piece of string plays the role of shoelace and a slice of torn sole flutters on the sidewalk as he goes by.

A fourth admonishes you to save your money while you are young by getting a dime bank at a certain place. Four of them standing in the meager shade of a cigar store awning—just standing—brothers in ill fortune—saying nothing—just staring at the sidewalk—dirty, ragged, inured to poverty, they advertise clean raiment, pressed pants, trim shoes and thrift.

Have you had your daily irony? Three blocks beyond another sandwichman plods along in the guise of a "rube." I've often wondered why it is that the most popular disguise of the advertising masquerade is that of the mythical comedy farmer. New York thinks "rubes" are funny, apparently—and "rubes" think New Yorkers equally funny.

If they isn't something significant in all these speeches, all political Washington is mistaken. They're too numerous not to mean more than that Borah simply has something to say. Besides, the Idaho senator has a whole lot of them laid out in advance. Why such unprecedented activity at a time when he isn't running for anything? His senatorial term doesn't expire until 1931.

A confided speech making generally is confined mainly to the Senate chamber and his home state. Occasionally he may get an invitation, as a big man, to address some dinner or public gathering, but ordinarily he doesn't make a political event of it. Neither does he keep hammering away at it, day in and day out, as Borah is doing.

During a campaign in which no candidacy of his own keeps him at home, looking after his own fences, he may also be drafted for a little party oratory, but he seldom wanders far outside the general section of the country where he lives, for there's where it's assumed he knows issues and local likings and dislikes best.

Borah's speeches are not party speeches. They're strictly Borah speeches, and many of the views he expresses are not his party's views at all. Moreover, his tour is taking him all over the United States. It's hard to imagine that an Idaho senator would devote a strenuous summer, in this year of grace, to the upbuilding of a national reputation for himself if he had no object in mind but to make himself solid with the Idaho voters in anticipation of the campaign of 1930.

Now can the whole thing be a mere accident. The Borah program bears all the earmarks of having been painstakingly thought out in advance. Of course the senator makes no definite announcement that he's a presidential aspirant. This would be altogether too soon. But every indication is that he's engaged in preparing the soil with a view to getting the speediest possible results, if and when he does decide that the moment has arrived for him to plant his candidacy there.

The question arises: Does Borah really think he stands much chance of getting the regular republican presidential nomination in 1928? He can hardly think he does—except by some extraordinary fluke. True, President Coolidge's popularity, in some sections, isn't what it was in 1924. If it continues to wane, perhaps he can't be renominated, but it doesn't follow that a new radical, like Borah, can supplant him. That would mean an almost revolutionary shift in public sentiment.

In the middle west it's possible—perhaps it's come—but hardly in the conservative east. The point is: How about an independent republican ticket, something like La Follette's, in 1924? Borah has strength in the west. As in the south especially against a candidate like Al Smith. A dry, he might prove to have strength

Stewart's Washington Letter

BORAH MAKES MYSTERIOUS STEW IN HIS POLITICAL POT

By CHARLES P. STEWART, NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. — Senator William E. Borah behaves exactly like a man conducting a presidential campaign.

Borah didn't adjourn when Congress ended. His offices on Capitol Hill are busier, if anything, than ever. The senator isn't always in them, but his official staff remains on the job. When Borah himself is away it's because he is making a speech somewhere.

If they isn't something significant in all these speeches, all political Washington is mistaken. They're too numerous not to mean more than that Borah simply has something to say. Besides, the Idaho senator has a whole lot of them laid out in advance. Why such unprecedented activity at a time when he isn't running for anything? His senatorial term doesn't expire until 1931.

Occasionally he may get an invitation, as a big man, to address some dinner or public gathering, but ordinarily he doesn't make a political event of it. Neither does he keep hammering away at it, day in and day out, as Borah is doing.

During a campaign in which no candidacy of his own keeps him at home, looking after his own fences, he may also be drafted for a little party oratory, but he seldom wanders far outside the general section of the country where he lives, for there's where it's assumed he knows issues and local likings and dislikes best.

Borah's speeches are not party speeches. They're strictly Borah speeches, and many of the views he expresses are not his party's views at all. Moreover, his tour is taking him all over the United States. It's hard to imagine that an Idaho senator would devote a strenuous summer, in this year of grace, to the upbuilding of a national reputation for himself if he had no object in mind but to make himself solid with the Idaho voters in anticipation of the campaign of 1930.

Now can the whole thing be a mere accident. The Borah program bears all the earmarks of having been painstakingly thought out in advance. Of course the senator makes no definite announcement that he's a presidential aspirant. This would be altogether too soon. But every indication is that he's engaged in preparing the soil with a view to getting the speediest possible results, if and when he does decide that the moment has arrived for him to plant his candidacy there.

The question arises: Does Borah really think he stands much chance of getting the regular republican presidential nomination in 1928? He can hardly think he does—except by some extraordinary fluke. True, President Coolidge's popularity, in some sections, isn't what it was in 1924. If it continues to wane, perhaps he can't be renominated, but it doesn't follow that a new radical, like Borah, can supplant him. That would mean an almost revolutionary shift in public sentiment.

In the middle west it's possible—perhaps it's come—but hardly in the conservative east. The point is: How about an independent republican ticket, something like La Follette's, in 1924? Borah has strength in the west. As in the south especially against a candidate like Al Smith. A dry, he might prove to have strength and most characteristic mammals is the muskrat, found from the Gulf coast to the Arctic ocean. The muskrat is an inhabitant of marshes, and as these are frozen over for several months every year over a large part of its range, the animal has developed some rather remarkable habits to help him to live in comfort.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

INHABITANT OF MARSHES By ARTHUR N. PACK, President American Nature Association. One of North America's commonest

Let us consider his house. This is a large mound built by piling up quantities of sedges and rushes, dug from the bottom of the marsh. In this mound which may be built in water from one to three feet in depth, is a hollow just above the water line securely locked over, and with an under water entrance.

In some places where water of suitable depth is not available, a hole is made in the bank of the stream or pond, and this suffices. In northern regions where ice freezes to a great thickness, the muskrat sometimes waits until this forms, and then builds its house on the ice, bringing the materials from the bottom of the pond. Other smaller houses are built in similar fashion which serve as eating shelters, being used at certain periods while the ice is forming.

In the nest whether it be a house or a hole, the young are born in May or June. They usually number about five or six, but often more. At first they are small and hairless, but they develop fast, and when about a month old they can leave the den and eat green food.

Muskrats are important fur-bearers. Because of their abundance and fecundity several millions are annually taken in America, and their furs masquerade under many high-sounding names.

Helpful Health Hints

NOSE OR THROAT INFECTION MAY BRING EAR TROUBLE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBAIN, Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

When there is an infection of the nose or throat the bacteria sometimes get into the ear behind the ear drum through the eustachian tubes, the passages leading from the mouth and nose cavities into the ear. Therefore many infections of the ear may be prevented by properly cleaning infected noses and throats with mildly antiseptic and alkaline sprays and washes.

Emphasis must be placed on the word "properly" because such washes as generally applied force fluid pus and bacteria into the ear. These nasal douches should never be taken with any but the most gentle pressure, perhaps slightly snuffing the warm, alkaline fluid into the nose.

Diagnosed Early. The early diagnosis of infection of the ear is important if inflammation of the mastoid bone, behind the ear and contiguous to the brain is to be prevented. The ears should always be examined if a child is ill and has fever. The baby may not complain of pain in the ear but in the abdomen or elsewhere, yet when the physician examines the ear drum it is found to be bulging and tender.

The presence of fever, a bulging drum and the symptoms mentioned is sufficient reason for the physician to incise the ear drum to save the hearing.

The British authorities insist that the need for education to an appreciation of the danger signal in chronic infection of the middle ear is equal to the amount of education now being given to the importance of early diagnosis in inflammation of the appendix or in incise the ear drum to save the hearing.

With Our Contemporaries

THE PROMENADE

A contemporary writer bewails the passing of the old custom of "promenading" on pleasant evenings and wishes that it might be restored. There is a reason in his plea. Not so long ago, the summer twilight in almost every community found groups of people—nice people—strolling quietly along the street, stopping to chat with other groups and combining social intercourse, mild afternoon exercise and enjoyment of the best part of the day in a fashion as inexpensive as it was charming and conducive to health and neighborliness. As the champion of the promenade points out, it is a pity that the fashion of tearing out in motor cars with little result but the exhaustion of purse and nervous energy has so completely superseded the calmer method of enjoyment. "Use your legs," he urges. "It is cheaper, it is riding and more restful of mind and body."

Those in Corsicans who have the courage to adopt this suggestion and leave the car standing in the garage for a few nights while they promenade, unhooked and unhooking, in the peaceful twilight, will find that he is right.—Corsicana Sun.

THE VANITY CASE

BY CAROLYN WELLS COPYRIGHT 1926 N.E.A.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear in the HEATH household next door one is spook with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the night, and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to Myra's fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, vivacious, pretty, to whom suspicion points because of her peculiar actions.

Myra Heath never used rouge, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old bottle from her collection that the murdered used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet; nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily rouged!

The strange thing about Heath's disappearance is that all the windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Anderson disagrees. TODD HUNTER BUCK, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, believes Heath also may have been murdered.

Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Heath. He calls her again, saying Inman is guilty. Bunny faints under a grilling by DETECTIVE MOTT. Inman confides to Buck that he saw Bunny ascending the stairs after the murder, and Mott questions all the servants and tells them to keep silent.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

"Now, Carter," Mott went on, "tell me anything you may know about the relations of your employers. Be frank, for as I forbid you people to repeat this talk, so I can promise you that I shall not repeat it, except to the officers of the law."

"Well, sir, as ladies maid to both Mrs. Heath and Miss Moore, of course, I couldn't help seeing how things went. Mrs. Heath, she was terribly in love with Mr. Inman. Mr. Heath, he knew it, and they had hot words about it, now and then."

"Did you hear them?" "In part, sir. Sometimes Mr. Heath would come in while Mrs. Heath was dressing, and he'd bid me go in the next room and shut the door. Then I'd do so, but if they raised their voices as they sometimes did, I couldn't help hearing that they were quarrelling about Mr. Inman, even though I couldn't hear all they said. But I never mentioned it, not even to the others down here. I know my place, and I've been maid to grand ladies that had bigger secrets than Mrs. Heath had."

"She had no big secrets, then?" "Not what I'd call such. She liked Mr. Inman and he adored her, but they were coming a little apart once and she had a right to be friendly."

"Did Mr. Heath urge her to use rouge and that sort of thing?" "They all did that. Yes, he would come to her dressing room and laughingly try to put some on her face. But she just said, 'No,' in that way she had, and he'd stop. Then, Miss Bunny, she was always at her to use color, and Mr. Inman, he was too. It was sort of a household joke, you see."

"I see. Then Carter, any one of those three might have applied that paint to her face after the poor lady was dead."

"They might, sir." "Or you might have done it yourself?" "Why, of course I could do it sir—but I didn't. I was up in my bed, asleep."

"She was," broke in the cook. "I heard her snoring when I went down to look after Katie."

"Well, we're not suspecting you, Carter," Mott said, "we've no reason to. You surely had no motive and no opportunity to kill your mistress."

"The saints forbid!" said Carter, reverently. "I can tell you something else, sir," Emma said, not unwilling to take the limelight again.

"All right, go ahead, Emma."

Mott began to think he was getting some sidights, if not very crucial statements.

"Well, long about twelve o'clock, I thought I heard Katie coming in. When I have to wait on her comin' in, I'm terrible wakenful. Most every week she makes me let her in when it's her night out."

"What do you do it?" "Oh, we all like Katie," Emma gave an affectionate glance at the pretty parlor-maid. "And she's got her young man, you know, and it's a pity she should have to come in at eleven o'clock, and him such a fine fellow!"

It was clear to be seen that the state of "keeping company" had raised Katie to an eminence where she commanded the favors of the other servants.

"And so," Emma went on, "I stay awake like, to let her in, for Mrs. Heath gave her an awful dressin' down once when she caught her comin' in late. Then, as I was listenin' for Katie, I heard voices downstairs. I thought the family had all gone to bed, and I was thinkin' of burglars—"

"Yes, you was!" sneered Mrs. Pierce. "You was at it with curiosity, and you was bound to see what you could."

"All right, then," said Emma, assentingly, "anyway I pushed open softly the upstairs door to the front hall, and I peered over the banisters. I couldn't see anybody, but I heard the voices in the studio, and I reckoned Mr. and Mrs. Heath and Mr. Inman. I don't know whether Miss Bunny was there or not. So, knowing it wasn't burglars, she gave a look at Mrs. Pierce. 'I went back to bed, and waited for Katie.'"

"And that was between twelve and one?" "Oh, nearer twelve. Not more'n quarter past. I know, 'cause I thought it might like as not be a long while before Katie came."

"Well, then, if you are sure of your facts, Emma, we have proof that Mrs. Heath was alive and well at twelve-fifteen. You heard her voice, you say?"

"Yes, sir, I don't know what she was saying. I only heard her speak, but she was mad as a hatter. I could tell it seemed like Mr. Heath was quarrelling with Mr. Inman and Mrs. Heath was upset over it. But I didn't get the words, only their voices."

"I see. Well, all that doesn't help much, for the doctors say Mrs. Heath was killed at about two o'clock. Though they can't tell exactly. Now Katie, that young man of yours—he was with you in the arbor till half past one."

"Yes, sir."

"Don't be frightened. I'm not discussing your affairs at all. Then he saw a man leave this house?" "Not the house, the grounds."

"You've talked to Jimmy about this since?" "Yes, sir."

"Can you tell me just what he saw?" "He says he wasn't noticing special, not thinkin' about anything but—"

"But your sweet self?" "Well, yes, sir. And as I was just sorta noticed a man goin' sneakin' like through the shrubbery and out the side gate. He says if he'd been sneakin' toward the house, he'd 'a' thought more about it, but as he was goin' away, he gave it no considerin' and he woulda forgotten about it, if this awful thing hadn't 'a' happened."

"I see, very natural, I'm sure. Now, does Jimmy think the man was Mr. Heath?"

"He says he don't know. It mighta been and it mightn't. It was like his size, maybe, but Jimmy, he just didn't take notice, and it was sorta dark, anyhow."

"And then you came right in the house?" "Yes, sir, I was just comin' in, when Jimmy saw him."

"He didn't follow him, then?" "Oh, no, sir, Jim, he went out the back gate. The man, he went through the little side gate, the one that leads to the woods."

"Then, of course, that's all you can tell about the man. Now, it seems if must have been Mr. Heath, because Mr. Heath is inexplicably missing. But just as you came in, you saw Miss Moore going upstairs?"

"No, sir, it was Emma as saw her."

"So it was. Well, that looks as if Miss Moore might 'a' let Mr. Heath out, and locked the door behind him, and gone upstairs just as Emma went up the other stairs."

"It might be, sir."

CIRCUS WILL BE HERE WEDNESDAY

Robbins Brothers Show To Be In Lubbock; Is One of Nation's Leaders

Lubbock is to have a real big circus on Wednesday, September 1 in the first appearance of the Robbins Brothers' big 4-ring show—the largest in the world giving a street parade. There arrived in the city last night W. T. Buchanan the general press representative whose business is to look after many of the details pertaining to the event. In speaking of the circus Mr. Buchanan said: "The Robbins Brothers' circus has been traveling in ten states already this season. We have made large jumps due to the fact that the large places are all requesting that we visit them. The season has so far been uniformly successful. The attendance has been the largest in the history of the business. In many places the show was compelled to give three performances two in the afternoon and one in the evening. "The circus is especially strong on this year and is twice the size of last year due to the fact that the circus purchased all of the properties of the U. S. circus corporation, and added the Ponca Bill Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders to its list of entertainments without even making an additional charge on the price of admission. "Among the attractions which have been added are: "Bingo, the largest elephant in the world—weighs a ton more than Jumbo of Barnum fame. "Three herds of elephants many of them trained to a high degree. "Miss Iowa the famous hippopotamus which was imported from Africa last April. "Many foreign acts which make their first appearance this year, such as the Cimmarotti dancing horses from Italy; the Matsumoto family of acrobats from Japan; the Ben Ahib troupe of Arabs from Persia, acrobats from Mexico, novelty performers from China and so on."

JOBS NEEDED FOR TECH STUDENTS

Unless employment is found for many Tech boys for the coming winter a large majority of them will be going to other school towns or will be prevented from attending school at all this winter, according to Orville Burroughs who is soliciting jobs under R. M. Chittwood, business manager of the Technological college. Many of these boys are coming to Lubbock daily seeking a job for this fall in order that they may pay a part of their entire expenses, he said. There will be a great many openings in the fall for these boys, who are experienced in almost every kind of work, he said, but unless the boys know of these places how they can not afford to wait until September and come here and seek employment after school opens. Mr. Burroughs with the assistance of other students of the college is canvassing the business district this week looking for openings for students. He has asked that other places be reported to him in order that students may visit employers when they come to the city.

Stop Bad Breath And Be Relieved

Disgustion Affliction Is Caused by Disturbed Stomach. Bad breath is a most disgusting affliction and steps should be taken at once to correct the conditions that causes it. If for no other reason than the effect it has on people with whom you come in contact in a business or social way. Many a man is retarded in the attainment of his ambition by reason of this affliction. Bad breath is, in most instances, due to a disordered stomach; therefore, to obtain permanent relief, it is necessary to correct the condition causing the trouble. Breath tablets give one but temporary relief at best—the breath is sweetened while the tablets are in the mouth, but after it has dissolved the condition is the same as before. Warning Issued To Residents Of Coast Cities As Tropical Storm Nears Southern Coast Of America

(By The Associated Press.) NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 25.—The storm raging up through the Gulf of Mexico toward the Eastern Louisiana coast is of hurricane force, said messages received today from the steamship Cranford, reporting from a point about 120 miles south of Morgan City in latitude 21, longitude 27. The parasites of Plaquemines, Jefferson, Terrebonne, La Fourche and St. Bernard along the coast south of New Orleans were expected to bear the brunt of the storm and warnings were rushed to fishermen along the coast to enable them to leave fishing camps and villages. Residents of camps and outlying districts along the shore of Lake Pontchartrain also were warned and many of them left their homes to seek safety in New Orleans for the duration of the storm.

Moving Northward. NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25. (AP)—The tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico still was 150 miles off the Louisiana coast and moving northward, weather bureau officials said here today. Forecaster R. D. Dyke said indications were the storm would strike the Louisiana coast between Burwood and Morgan City. Hurricane warnings have been displayed between Morgan City and Mobile. Morgan City at 8:50 a. m. reported a thirty mile wind and a rising tide.

U. S. Bureau Statement. The United States weather bureau issued the following bulletin at 9 o'clock. A tropical storm of considerable energy is central south of Louisiana and is moving slowly northward attended by strong easterly winds and gales on the east coast of Louisiana this morning. Moderately high pressure is created over the Texas Panhandle and fair weather prevails over most northern and western states, but showers have fallen along the Atlantic coast and in the southeastern states as far west as the lower Mississippi valley. "The further advance of the tropical storm will be attended by rain in the southeastern portion of this forecast district within the next 26 hours and fair in other portions, with warmer in the north portion Thursday. "Hurricane warnings are displayed from Morgan City, La., to Mobile, Ala., and precautions should be continued, especially in low, outlying sections in the area warned against dangerous winds and high tides today and tonight."

New Orleans Warned. Residents of outlying districts south of New Orleans were warned in various ways early today. Five patrol wings arrived in the city bearing more than a hundred persons who were taking refuge in New Orleans, until after the passage of the storm. Most shipping was held in port, although Morgan line steamers left New Orleans, expecting to pass the storm in the river before reaching the Gulf of Mexico. At Burwood, near the mouth of the river, a 25-mile wind was reported at 8 o'clock accompanied by high tides and much rain. Coast points between Burwood and Mobile also reported considerable rain. The barometer at Burwood had dropped to 22.72. Gush of rain swept New Orleans at intervals during the morning.

Hurricane Accompanies Storm. GALVESTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—That winds of hurricane velocity accompanied the tropical storm which is this morning approaching the Louisiana coast was indicated in ship reports received this morning. The steamship Cody reported early today to Lykes Brothers, operators, from a position 220 miles east-southeast of Galveston, that the wind was blowing with force twelve, which is more than 75 miles an hour. The Cody was to begin promptly at 8:15 p. m. according to Garland Woodward, president of the Brotherhood. An invitation is being extended to all the men of the church, and letters sent to all members of the men's Bible classes and other organizations of the church. The program of the evening will include a banquet, and the president of the Brotherhood will be in charge of the program proper. Good eats, good talks and a fine meeting are promised; and one of the most important features will be the election of officers for the next six months. Another of the big things with which the Brotherhood will assist this year is the building of the Educational Annex to the church. All members of the organization are urged to be present and take part in the meeting. E. A. Norman, secretary, stated this morning.

It is expected that the most spirited contest ever staged for a convention will be made by the contesting towns asking for the 1927 convention. At present it is a three cornered fight between Hereford, Panhandle and Wellington.

Wellington "The City of Unlimited Possibilities" is contesting for the convention wholly with the idea that the interests of West Texas and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce would be best served by the convention coming to that city, and that a convention held in Wellington would create a closer relation with Oklahoma and that several hundred new members could be secured from that state. That New Mexico had been included, now, why not Oklahoma. The Wellington delegation will travel western style and make stops advertising the Collinsworth County Fair at Quail, Hedley and Letia Lake. These days, very few of us are surprised at the unexpected.

HOTEL WORKMEN HERE, FETED

All workmen who have been engaged in constructing the Hotel Lubbock, and who were still in the city, were entertained Tuesday evening in the Coffee Shop of the hotel with an informal reception from 7:30 to 8:30, with W. E. LaFon, manager of the hotel, as host, representing the Hotel Operating Company. Some forty men and their wives were present for the luncheon, at which W. E. McMillan, superintendent for the Johnson Construction Company, which built the hotel, was master of ceremonies. Mr. McMillan expressed for the members of the construction force their appreciation of this courtesy, so seldom extended in such manner, to which Mr. LaFon responded, stating appreciation for the manner in which the work has been done. Practically every department of the construction work was represented with the exception of the bricklayers, all of whom had gone to other jobs when their work on the hotel was finished.

July Cooler Than Ordinary, Is Shown

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 25. (AP)--Notwithstanding a belief held in some quarters that July was hotter than the usual seventh month, the United States weather bureau in its monthly summary of weather conditions in Texas gives official status to an assertion that the month was cooler by 1.4 degrees than the average.

However, the bureau states that in some sections it did get rather warm during the month, citing Enchinal with a temperature of 110 degrees on July 21 as an instance. On the other hand, Throckmorton residents had nothing to complain of in the way of summer temperatures July 16 when Uncle Sam's observers noted a snappy 87.

Rochelle, McCulloch county, residents, alternatively shivered and sweated on the 15th when a temperature variation of 46 degrees was noted.

to encourage speculative demand for wheat here. Opening unchanged to 3-8 off, the Chicago market sagged a trifle more, and then rose all around to above yesterday's finish.

WALL STREET TRADING

NEW ORK, Aug. 25. (AP)--Selling pressure was renewed at the opening of today's stock market, which displayed a distinctly reactionary tone. Popular industrials were again thrown on the market in large blocks, initial declines of a point or so being recorded by Allied Chemical, General Asphalt and Montgomery Ward. U. S. Steel common and General Motors each opened 3/4 lower, the former touching the lowest price since establishment of the new record high of 159 1/2 last week.

Strong buying support came into the market after the first batch of selling orders had been absorbed, bringing about recoveries of a point or more in some of the early weak spots. The overnight selling originated largely with professional traders, who attempted to capitalize the publicity given to Professor Ripley's attack on the failure of many large corporations to give stockholders full information concerning their assets and earnings.

Rails resisted pressure, strong buying support for this group being influenced by the fact that freight car loadings had exceeded the million mark for twelve weeks and by the publication of favorable July earnings statements. Merchandising issues were heavy in reflection by speculative disappointment over the small margin of profit made by some companies on an unusually large gross business. Foreign exchanges opened irregular.

Water No Worry To City, Posey Asserts

The fact that pure water in an apparently inexhaustible supply was found at a depth of about 200 feet in the Elwood-Myrick oil test well that is being sunk about 16 miles north-east of here is proof sufficient that the city of Lubbock need not worry about a future water supply, in the opinion of Walter S. Posey, member of the City Commission.

When the water was put on it for a time, but the supply was not affected, in the least, Mr. Posey said, and although it is too far from the city to be used economically at the present, it is indication sufficient of the supply is known to be available about four miles north, and could be piped here by gravity flow, and pressure put on it at the regular booster stations, he continued.

The report is out that the Prince of Wales popularized jazz in London; but he thought the Prince's popularity was falling off.--Wilmington Every Evening.

IN SPITE OF DEADLOCK HOPE IS STILL HELD FOR SETTLEMENT IN MEXICAN RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY

CONFERENCE BETWEEN CHURCHMEN AND PRESIDENT CALLES STRIKES TEMPORARY SNAG BUT MAY COME OUT ALL RIGHT, IS THOUGHT

(By The Associated Press) MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25.—Although a deadlock again has been reached in the controversy between the Roman Catholic church and the Mexican government over the new religious regulations, hope still exists in some quarters that all doors to a settlement have not been closed. This hope is more or less based on a statement issued by the Catholic episcopate as a supplement to its declaration yesterday that the situation has reverted to the same status as before the conference Saturday night between President Calles, Arch-Bishop Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores and Bishop Diaz of Tabasco. The supplemental statement referred to the "cordiality and frankness" prevailing at Saturday night's conference and declared that the interview gave "hope to all the world that when future serious difficulties are presented they can be resolved with much benefit to the nation through easy understanding between the government and the prelates." In its earlier statement yesterday, the episcopate reiterated its stand for the abrogation of the religious laws which it regards as destructive to religious liberty. Bishop Diaz said that this statement, which also stated that religious services would not be resumed for the present, was considerably influenced by one attributed to President Calles to the effect that if priests returned to their churches they must do so subject to the law. This the episcopate interprets as contrary to President Calles' assurance, which the church said was given Saturday night, that the registration of priests under the law was merely for administrative purposes. Developments Are Stressed The interpretation placed upon the developments of the last few days by those in close touch with both Catholic and government leaders, is that statements issued by the episcopate after Saturday night's conference had aroused fear in some Catholic circles that the church might be placed in an attitude of yielding or resuming services without adequate or sufficiently definite promises by the government. It is felt that this fear resulted in the issuance of yesterday's statement which threw cold water on the idea of a speedy peace. Nevertheless the supplemental statement referring to the possibility of a future settlement is construed as intended to leave the way open for conference with President Calles if developments should justify them. Meanwhile the episcopate is considering plans for a campaign to bring about amendment of the religious laws by the constitution by congressional action. The league for the defense of religious liberty has taken the position that it will not lift the economic boycott until these amendments have been perfected or until the religious regulations have been modified or abrogated.

SUITOR IS HELD IN TRAGIC DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

MANIA FOR ADMINISTERING MEDICINE GIVEN AS CAUSE OF DEATH

(By The Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 25.—The mania of her youthful sweetheart for administering medicines is seen by authorities as the only plausible reason for the death Sunday of pretty Dorothy Kirk, 21 year old stenographer, who, it is believed, died as a result of over doses of poisons given her by Emil Balanescu, 21, her suitor. This theory has gained weight as the question of the youth has developed further into the strange relations of the pair, and as examination of the girl's stomach by coroner A. P. Hammond and City Chemist Harold J. Knapp has proceeded. Balanescu, according to police, has admitted prescribing medicines for the girl, but is adamant in his refusal to disclose what they were. So numerous were the pills and other medicines taken by the girl that chemists working under Dr. Knapp have pronounced the girl's stomach a "veritable store house of drugs." It might prove impossible to isolate the medicines found in the girl's stomach, Dr. Knapp said, or to attribute her death to any one drug. So far as has been learned, no poisons were given Miss Kirk, and it might be necessary to attribute her death to an indiscriminate consumption of medicines, it was said. Examination of the girl's stomach failing, authorities have been forced to search for further information concerning her strange illness by questioning the youth. Between noon, he has told of his desire to help the girl, whom he says he loved. He had no intention, he said, according to police, of taking Miss Kirk ill, much less of causing her death. Some of the medicines, he said, were prescribed to cheer her up when she seemed depressed, others to revive her when she appeared pale and wan. But he has given no actual account of the medicines administered. The medical knowledge of the youth was gained in Paris, where he lived with his parents until a few years ago, in drug stores in America in which he has been employed, and in medical schools here.

The item over the signature of Donk Rainey, assistant state highway engineer, was an attempt to indicate adverse conditions under which roads are built. Officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations in the Panhandle declare the paragraph saying it is 114 degrees in the shade at times and as low as 35 degrees below zero is untrue. Mary Hopkins, secretary of the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce in a letter of protest to Mr. Rainey and the board of highway commissioners included a United States weather bureau bulletin showing that for a period of 10 years the maximum temperature was 102.6 degrees and the mean summer temperature 72.9 degrees. The highest temperature known in the Panhandle was 104 degrees that occurred only once, Mr. Hopkins wrote. The lowest since the United States has kept the weather statistics for the Panhandle was eight below zero, and that just once 20 years ago. Praises Work Of Field Mr. Cagle, who for years has been identified with civic and business circles of Stephenville and that section of Texas, was in Lubbock in connection with a state-wide tour of inspection. He praised highly the work of Division Engineer George A. Field, headquartered here, whose activities here during the past eighteen months have placed the highways of this sec-

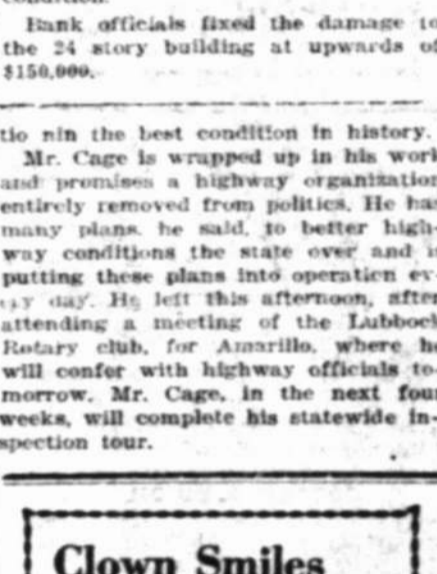

FANATIC TAKES SECRET OF BANK BLAST TO GRAVE

TWO KILLED, MANY HURT WHEN EXPLOSION ROCKS PITTSBURGH BANK

(By The Associated Press) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.—The fanatic who brought death to himself and a policeman and injury to a score of persons when he exploded a bomb in the Farmers' Deposits and Savings Bank, carried the secret of his identity into the grave so far as police could learn today. One identification, regarded as almost certain—that the man was a maniac escaped from a local hospital for the insane—was discarded when relatives declared the bomber was not of their family. They viewed the headless mangled body at the morgue where hundreds had visited in a vain attempt to identify the man. A belt buckle, on which was engraved the number "17," was the single bit of evidence police had upon which to work. The bomber, a man of foreign appearance, dressed in working clothes, entered the bank yesterday and presented a demand for $2,000 "or I'll blow up the bank." When George C. Orman, special bank policeman, approached to arrest him he placed a black satchel upon the floor and gave it a kick. A violent explosion followed. The bomber was instantly killed and Orman so badly injured he died soon after he was taken to a hospital. Several wild comparisons followed the blast. Heavy pieces of marble, torn from the ceiling of the banking rooms, crashed down while windows were shattered, shattering alike pedestrians and those inside the building with flying glass. Inside the structure, tellers and clerks, bleeding from cuts, worked frantically to gather up piles of money which had been blown about. Turmoil Outside Outside, all was in a turmoil. Thousands, pouring out from nearby office buildings and theatres, quickly gathered at the scene and ambulances and fire apparatuses found difficulty in approaching the building. The injured, some of them lying in the streets, were taken to hospitals. Six of them were reported in a serious condition. Bank officials fixed the damage to the 24 story building at upwards of $150,000. The bank is in the best condition in history. Mr. Cagle is wrapped up in his work and promises a highway organization entirely removed from politics. He has many plans, he said, to better highway conditions the state over and is putting these plans into operation every day. He left this afternoon, after attending a meeting of the Lubbock Rotary club, for Amarillo, where he will confer with highway officials tomorrow. Mr. Cagle, in the next four weeks, will complete his statewide inspection tour.

POLITICAL TALKS SET FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

backers of the present administration seeing a hope of victory in the charge made by the Fergusons that Moody is controlled by the Ku Klux Klan. "The people of Texas, who arose almost in a body two years ago to wipe from Texas politics the hooded order, are not going to see their ideals shattered, and rather than take a chance on an 'unknown quantity' like Moody will return 'Ma' to the governor's chair for another term," was the opinion of one of the leading Ferguson supporters. A large crowd from all over the District is expected here on Friday night to help write 'finis' on the 1926 campaign. Sensational disclosures are promised. W. I. C. Speaks Thursday While the Moody forces are relying on a Friday night program, Walter C. Witcher, serving by appointment as District Attorney and a candidate for election to the office, will again address voters here tomorrow night, his advertisements say. Mr. Witcher, heralded as one of the leading stump speakers of Texas, has chosen as his subject "Jeffersonian Democracy versus Ku Kluxism." His address will also be delivered at the corner of Avenue I and 13th street. An advertisement says perfect teeth are necessary to perfect health, and perfect health is necessary to perfect happiness, and that may be true, but the average American feels that he could do with false teeth, fair health and a perfect automobile.—Louisville Times.

MISSING AVIATOR IS FOUND ALIVE

BELLE FONTE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Lieutenant Cyrus Dittus, army flying ace, missing since Monday, was found alive in the Seven Sister Mountains today and is now in the C. M. H. hospital here in a serious, but not critical condition. The flyer's leg is broken below knee and his skull is fractured in two places and he has severe lacerations on the face and head. The army officer owes his life to his buffed deep in the thick forest where no one could find him or his wrecked plane. Lieutenant Dittus crawled for five and a half hours through the tangled underbrush until he came to a roadway where he was later found by two state highway employees. Joko Dodo, one of the principal clowns of the Robbins Bros. Big 4 Circus, which comes to this town in the next few days, is pictured above. He is only one of forty that the show possesses. He is an adept in the line of pantomime, and when his mother died last year while the show was out on the road he appeared in the ring with as sad a heart as man usually falls heir to. Just the same he went through all of his prances and performed his part with all the ability he is recognized the world over for. There was nothing else to do. The train did not leave until midnight and he felt it his duty to play for the amusement of the people regardless of the blow that he had received. So it happens that even the clown may be suffering from a loss of one kind or another and he must—if he earns his daily bread—go on making the laughs for the crowds. The big circus which comes to the city in a few days is the largest in the world giving a street parade. It takes one thousand men to man the departments, there are two hundred wild animals, three hundred horses and a complete wild west show consisting of fifty Indians and fifty cowboys. The world's greatest hippopotamus is one of the new additions this year. He is called Big Jim.
