How's that?
Seat belt

Q. Can you remove your car shoulder belt if the lap seat belt is buckled?

A. Yes, says a Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman. The law only requires people in the front seat to wear a lap belt. It doesn't apply to the shoulder belt.

No-pass rule sidelines players

AUSTIN (AP) — Used for the first time during football season, the no-pass, no-play rule has sidelined about 15 percent of high school varsity football players, with losses running heavier in junior varsity and freshman ranks, coaches say.

Some junior varsity schedules face cancellation and schools reported losing marching band members, prompting one official to say Wednesday, "There's not going to be much to rally around at those places."

However, Gov. Mark White told a Capitol news conference he was pleased that 85 percent of the varsity football players did pass.

"I hope no one will use this as an opportunity to abandon or water down these standards," White said.

The no-pass, no-play rule — a critical element of public school reforms enacted by the Legislature last year — prohibits students from participating in extracurricular activities if failing any course.

Grades for the first six-week period came out this week, and the rule takes effect Friday. Those who failed can't play again for at least six weeks.

"It doesn't look very good," said Eddie Joseph of the Texas High School Coaches Association.

"Statewide, somewhere in the neighborhood of 15 percent of varsity athletes are going to become

Chamber backs plan for prison

Chamber of Commerce board members voted Tuesday to support construction and operation of a medium-security prison in Big Spring.

Board member Troy Fraser said the prison would generate 200 to 250 more jobs here. It would have a $10 million annual payroll and a $25 million annual budget, he said.

An official is scheduled to be in town Oct. 23 to discuss the prospect with prison officials.

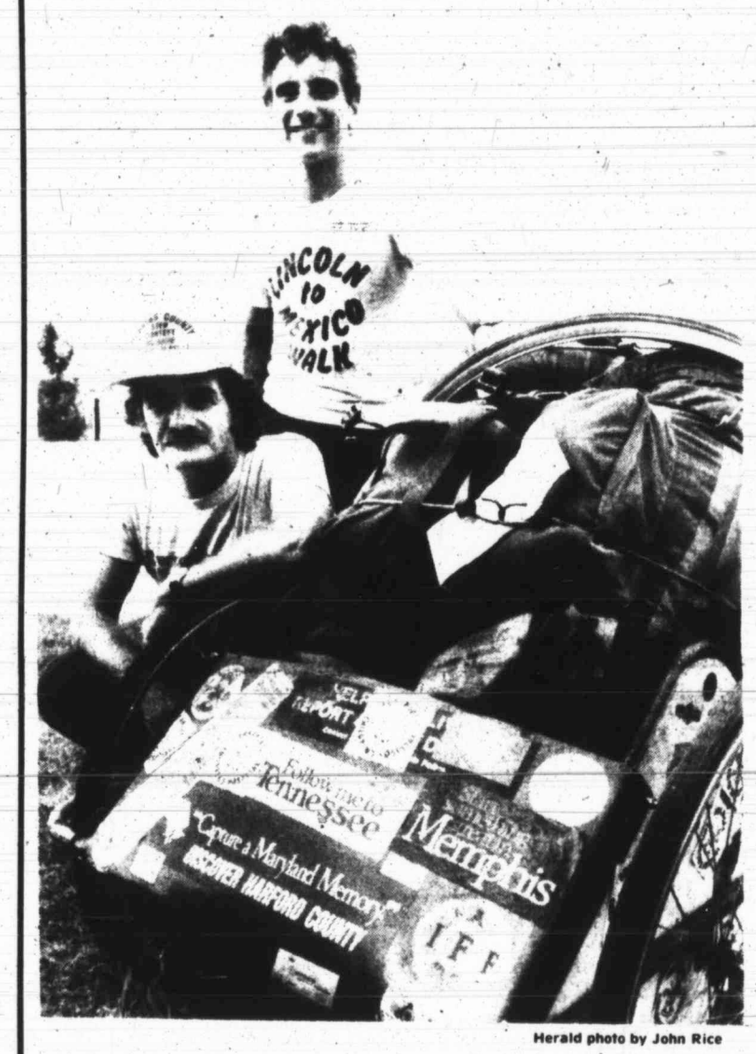

Fraser said a town meeting would be scheduled a week or two after that to inform the public of the pros and cons of the matter.

"We've been told we have a real good shot" at getting the prison if we want it, he said.

The board also elected officers for the 1985-86 fiscal year. They are John Arrick, president; Chris Christopher, vice president; Glen Fulingim, treasurer; and executive vice president LeRoy Tillery.

New board members are Albert Deanda, Clyde McMahon Jr., Bob Moore, Shirley Shroyer and John Taylor.

Also, Bob Smith reported that Crimestoppers awarded $750 to two confidential informants. One provided information leading to the recovery of $3,500 in stolen merchandise, and the other provided information leading to the arrest and indictment of a criminal on three counts of drug possession.

English on Texas: 'big hats, boots'

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

The picture was perfect: four cowboys on the catwalk looking over the cattle at the Big Spring Auction feedlot, with the towers of Cosden Chemical and Oil refinery in the background.

"We could send it back to England, but they'd never understand. They think this is what Texas is," said John Freeman of Liverpool, England. "Big hats and big boots."

Freeman and David Ward, both "scousers" or residents of Liverpool, set out in May on a walk from New York City to Mexico City to raise funds for a bone marrow unit at the Liverpool Royal Infirmary and the St. Barnabas Hospice for terminally ill patients in Lincoln, England.

Their colleagues and others were a bit skeptical about the trip at first, they said. "We were running about town, talking about walking 5,000 miles, and I was smoking 20 cigarettes a day," Ward said.

But that wasn't the reason for the skepticism. The English see America as a crime-ridden country. "It's what they get from the media.

"It wasn't that they thought we couldn't walk this far, although we're not athletes," said Ward. "They (people in England) thought what we were doing was courageous. Walking 5,000 miles on the roads of America and Mexico. They thought something would happen to us; this was sort of a brave attempt."

"But now we're in Texas, and people are beginning to believe it can be done," Freeman said. "Everyone knows about Texas."

The English have a fascination for Texas, they said. "Deserts and cowboys," said Freeman. "I guess that's what I thought of it."

"We grew up on westerns. You know, the 'Cisco Kid,' cowboys and Indians, John Wayne," Ward said.

The two took a day off from their walk in Big Spring to stop and do some interviews for BBC Radio, they said. So far, they have walked 2,100 miles from New York, down through Washington, D.C., Virginia, Tennessee, Arkansas, East Texas, Dallas and out west on Interstate 20.

They are trying to raise $190,000 for the bone marrow unit at the infirmary, the only one outside London in England, and $60,000 to expand the

Amendment would limit agency spending

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texas legislators want to squeeze a tight fist around state money through a constitutional amendment that would let them rein in spending even when they are between their regular biennial sessions.

As proposed by the Texas Legislature, constitutional amendment No. 9 on the Nov. 5 ballot reads: "The constitutional amendment to protect public funds by authorizing prior approval of expenditure or emergency transfer of state appropriations."

But opponents claim the proposed amendment will dissolve the separation of powers between the Legislature and the state executive branch, allowing lawmakers to dabble in day-to-day government operations.

Currently, the Texas Legislature meets for about five months every two years and pens a two-year state budget. But once the funds are appropriated, little oversight takes place, said Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, sponsor of constitutional amendment No. 9 on the November ballot.

Zero-based budgeting used by the Legislature is problem, he said, because agencies receive money for general programs rather than through a line-by-line system, for stamps, etc.

"A lot of times at the end of the year, agencies will have a surplus. They will run out and buy new furniture, new office equipment and computers and stuff. We could stop that waste by cutting their authority to go out and buy," Hollowell said.

Initially, his amendment was narrowly aimed at curbing consultant contracts, which have become a multimillion-dollar state expense, he said. But his proposal was broadened in the Senate after special interest opposition, he said.

If approved, Legislators could attach the requirement in a rider to the appropriations bill or enact a law spelling out its watchdog wishes.

The specifics of who would be charged with oversight and other details of carrying out the amendment would be decided by the 1987 Texas Legislature, Hollowell said.

The Legislative Budget Board, which already prepares preliminary budget plans, would be a good body to control the spending, he said. The board is composed of the House speaker, lieutenant governor and the more financially experienced members of the Legislature.

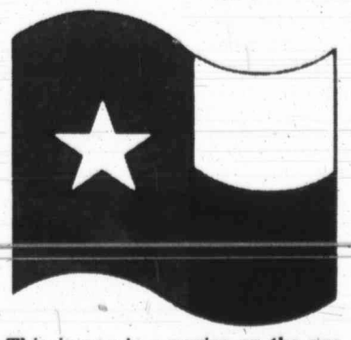

Hollowell envisions that, upon learning of an agency surplus, the board could call a hearing to discuss how the money should be spent rather than leaving it to the agency.

For years, lawmakers have tried to come up with ways to control state spending when they are not in session. But voters have turned down two other proposed amendments, and attempts at commanding control through riders on the appropriations bill also failed.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the amendment is a good idea in light of the state's money shortage and the fact that lawmakers only meet every two years. "Sen. Grant Jones conceived of this approach," Hobby said. "Certainly nobody is more experienced than he in such matters."

But, according to a House Study Group report, opponents claim the Legislature has no place jumping into the daily operations of government.

On the ballot

This is one in a series on the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution that will be on the ballot in the Nov. 5 statewide election.

Protest about hijacking forces Craxi's resignation

ROME (AP) — With an angry blast at the United States, Prime Minister Bettino Craxi resigned today after his government collapsed under criticism of his handling of the Italian cruise ship hijacking.

The 26-month-old five-party coalition government came unglued Wednesday when Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini and two other Republican Party ministers quit to protest the release of Mohammed Abbas, accused by the Reagan administration of masterminding the Oct. 7 hijacking of the Achille Lauro.

During the hijacking, an American passenger, 69-year-old Leon Klinghoffer of New York City, was killed.

Craxi's resignation was made after a speech to Parliament in which he expressed bitterness toward the United States for criticizing Italy's release of Abbas, leader of the Palestine Liberation Front, a PLO faction.

He said the criticism "could not but provoke the strongest and displeased surprise as well as a feeling of bitterness."

In Washington, White House spokesman Edward Djeredjian declined to comment on the resignation, saying, "We are not going to comment on internal Italian political affairs."

President Francesco Cossiga, who was handed the resignation, asked Craxi to stay on as caretaker prime minister, presidential aides said. Craxi is Italy's first Socialist prime minister since World War II.

Cossiga on Friday will begin consultations with leaders of all political parties represented in Parliament before naming a premier-designate, who will then try to form Italy's 45th government since World War II, the Quirinal presidential palace said.

Craxi told Parliament in his 40 minute speech that Italy released Abbas and an aide because they carried diplomatic passports.

He also claimed the United States violated Italian air space by having two U.S. military planes follow an Egyptian jet carrying the PLO officials from Sicily to Rome.

"The Italian government has decided to open an investigation and a protest was immediately filed with the Washington government," Craxi said.

Craxi said the U.S. reaction to Italy's handling of the hijacking derived "from an incomplete evaulation of the facts and circumstances in which the Italian government acted," he said.

He called the outcome of the Achille Lauro affair "a great success" marred by the murder of an American citizen aboard the Italian cruise ship.

During his speech before a packed Chamber of Deputies, Craxi said Italy had devised a plan to end the hijacking with military action "in case of extreme necessity" with specially trained units from an unspecified location in the area.

Spadolini, a former prime minister, had said he expected his party's withdrawal would cause the collapse of the government.

Craxi, who strongly defended the government's decision to let Abbas leave, originally said he wanted a vote of confidence in Parliament on the issue.

But he reportedly agreed not to call for a vote of confidence at the request of the Christian Democrats, a member of the governing coalition and Italy's largest party.

The West Virginia School for the Blind marching band moves down the street at the recent Mountain State Forest Festival. Two sighted guides march with the band to keep members in step.

Blindness doesn't trip up band

ELKINS, W.Va. (AP) — There were bigger bands in the parade, and students who had traveled greater distances. But no group of musicians had come quite as far as the 14 members of the West Virginia School for the Blind marching band.

For the 10 players, two "sighted" guides and two banner carriers, participating in the recent Mountain State Forest Festival parade was nothing special. Applause from thousands of spectators indicated otherwise.

The band, marching to a cadence pounded out by its three drummers and to songs like "This Is My Country," stays in step and in line as it moves down the street.

"I know where to go," snare drummer Jason Jobe said. "I just keep time and stay in line."

Several of the members have some vision, although none can see normally. Those who can see a little help those who can't.

Band director Betty Sue Kitchen says parade organizers often do not believe her when she schedules an appearance.

"They ask how we keep them in line," she said at the festival earlier this month. "The standard joke is, 'I tie them together.' Then I quickly explain."

The band marches three abreast, with one guide in the front row between the two flute players and the other in the second row between the saxophonist and the sousaphone player. The three drummers make up the third row, with the back row consisting of three clarinetists.

The marchers stay so close that their arms touch, helping them stay in line.

Kitchen joined the School for the Blind faculty as a choral director seven years ago at the suggestion of a friend, who was band director. Two years later she took over the band, a job she said pays more than just money.

"It gives me a good feeling," she said. "I can help them find a talent or a capability they weren't aware of and help them develop it.

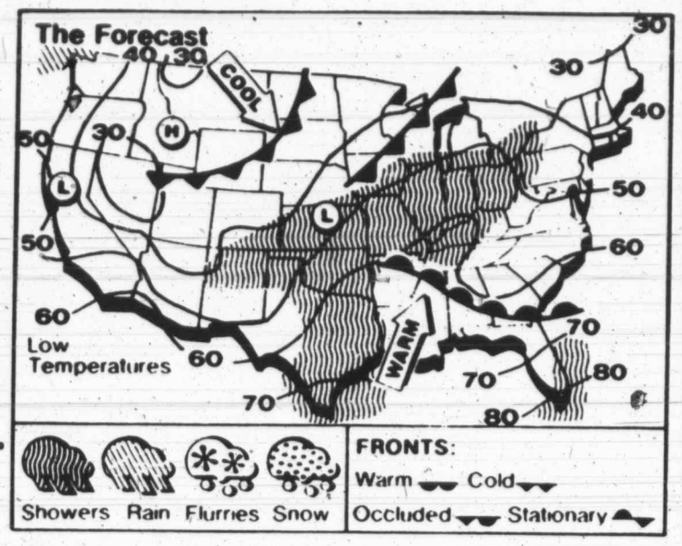

"... They can be in the swimming program or the wrestling program. If they aren't athletically inclined, there still is something for them to be involved in extracurricularly."

Teaching blind students music is the toughest job, Kitchen said. Some read Braille music and must use one hand to feel the notes, and it takes two hands to play flute, saxophone or clarinet.

Others, who who can see large printed notes, must hold their faces within inches of the sheet, leaving no room for the instrument. Either way, they can't read music and play at the same time.

"I'm always playing their part with them on piano, so they know what it's supposed to sound like," Kitchen said. "They learn a few measures at a time. That way when they get to the end of the song, they have it memorized."

Weather

State

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for most of Texas through Friday, forecasters say.

The rainfall was being triggered by an upper level low pressure system approaching the state from the west.

Forecasts called for showers and thunderstorms to become more numerous over North Texas and South Texas and to diminish somewhat over West Texas tonight and Friday.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 50s and 60s. Highs Friday will be mostly in the 70s, ranging from the 60s in Northwest Texas to the 80s in South Texas.

Heavy rain was reported in portions of West Texas early today.

El paso got almost an inch of rain in a two-hour period during the night.

Early morning temperatures were in the 50s and 60s over the western half of the state and in the 60s and 70s over northern and southern sections of the state. Extremes ranged from 51 at El Paso to 73 at both Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

Early morning temperatures around the state included 58 at Amarillo, 60 at Wichita Falls, 67 at Fort Worth, 68 at Waco, 69 at Lufkin and Austin, 68 at San Antonio, 72 at Houston, 66 at San Angelo, 60 at Lubbock and 61 at Midland.

Jury selection to start in prison guard trial

Jury selection begins at 10 a.m. Friday in Abilene for a former Big Spring Federal Prison Camp guard charged with accepting gratuities and delivering controlled substances while employed at the camp.

Prosecutor Jimmy Tallant of the U.S. Attorney's office in Fort Worth said Eddie Joe Roybal faces four counts in federal court that could lead to a maximum 5½-year sentence and $601,000 fine.

Roybal has been charged with two counts of accepting gratuities, one count of delivering a controlled substance and one count of delivering "some 'lude white pills," Tallant said.

Roybal is being defended by attorney Frank Gaston of Plainview.

The case initially was docketed in U.S. District Judge David O. Belew's court, but was transferred when Belew became ill this week, said a federal law clerk from Fort Worth. The case was transferred to Judge Eldon B. Mahon's court for jury selection.

Trial hearings are scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday in Judge Hal Woodward's court in Abilene. All proceedings will be conducted in the Abilene federal court, the law clerk said.

Roybal who pleaded not guilty to the charges last August is accused of accepting $11,500 in gratuities last May from Rex C. Cauble, a Denton area millionaire rancher and convicted drug dealer who was sentenced to 5½ years at the Big Spring Prison Camp in June 1984.

Cauble, an inmate at the federal camp when the gratuity violations were alleged to have occurred, has since been transferred to La Tuna federal camp near El Paso.

Roybal also is accused of delivering controlled substances to camp inmate Gary Gunter who has since been transferred to a federal correctional institute in Fort Worth.

Tallant said he could not reveal witnesses subpoened or information gathered about the case by the prosecution "until it's a matter of public record."

Gaston declined to discuss case details because of uncertainty of which judge would try the case.

"Frankly, I hesitate to say something because I don't know the judge's attitude towards lawyers having pre-trial contact," he said.

Gaston said Roybal had been released since his arraignment on a personal recognizance bond, meaning he is responsible for his own court appearance.

3 enter guilty pleas in district, county

A man who was indicted by the Howard County grand jury last November for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, pleaded guilty to the charge Wednesday afternoon in 118th District Court.

District Judge James Gregg placed Larry Ray Bounds, 20, of Interstate 20 Trailer Park No. 9 on four years probation. He also is required to pay a $750 fine and $102 court costs.

Bounds was arrested in September 1984 at I-20 Trailer Park No. 9 in connection with the assault.

Gregg also placed James Canada, 38, of Hobbs, N.M., on five years probation after Canada pleaded guilty Wednesday to felony driving while intoxicated.

He was stopped for his third offense of DWI in the 200 block of S. Gregg on Sept. 28.

Howard County Judge Milton Kirby fined Leo Lester Freeman, 55, of General Delivery $100 for an assault charge that Freeman pleaded guilty to in county court Wednesday morning.

Big Spring police arrested Freeman on Oct. 8 in connection with the incident that occurred Oct. 4.

Police Beat

Lubbock woman attacked

A Lubbock woman was the victim of an attempted robbery in the post office parking lot Wednesday night, according to police reports.

The woman told police a man tried to rip her purse out of her hands at 8:18 p.m. in the parking lot. However, the would-be robber failed when the purse strap broke and she pulled it away. The robber then fled the scene, the police report stated.

- Police early today arrested Marvin Roscoe Winton, 47, of 1904 Nolan in the 200 block of E. 19th on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, according to reports.
- Louise Calaway, an employee at Big Spring Savings at 610 Main, told police someone tried to cash a possible stolen check at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the drive-through window. However, the person drove off without the $200 check or the cash when the teller went to the phone to verify the check.
- A burglar stole a Winchester 30-30 lever-action rifle between Sept. 30 and Wednesday from the Sanchez residence at 1011 W. Eighth. The rifle is valued at $150.

The burglar entered through a window on the northwest corner of the building, according to police reports.

Woman arrested on warrant

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Della Renee Dixon, 24, of 709 Willa on a warrant charging her with violating the terms of her probation on a theft by check judgment.

She is confined in county jail in lieu of bond.

- Police transferred Darrin Jay Crooks, 26, of 4200 Bilger to county jail after he was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and driving while license suspended. He was released on bonds totaling $1,500.

Rain hits county

Thunderstorms hit Howard County Wednesday night and this morning. The amount of rain varied little and most reports were for under an inch.

The Big Spring field station reported 0.27 of an inch of rain this morning, bringing the yearly total to 21.23 inches, ahead of the normal-to-date 16.09.

Other area reports were: Red Thomas of 107 E. 13th, 0.2 inch; Tommy Hart of eastern Big Spring, 0.3; Wendell Shive of Coahoma; 0.5; Cindy Hopper of Knott, 0.3; and Neil Fryar, 0.4.

ineligible after this Thursday. For the subvarsity, the percentage is close to 35-to-50 percent in places," Joseph said.

He said the association has no reports yet of schools being forced to quit football, although some of the smallest teams will be cut to just 14 players.

"A lot of junior varsity schedules are going to have cancellations. And I've heard of some bands that are not going to be able to participate," he said.

Joseph said officials anticipated the higher failure rate among younger players.

"The thing that bothers us is that if you lose these younger kids right now, you've got a great chance to lose them for good," he said.

number of beds at the hospice. Both the bone marrow unit, where leukemia patients are treated, and the hospice are funded entirely from public donations.

Fundraising is being conducted from Liverpool. The two also are seeking corporate sponsorship; British Airways provided their flight over, and Puma is supplying them with shoes.

Before the trip, Freeman was a fundraiser for the hospice. Ward was a training coordinator in a program similar to the U.S. Job Corps for developmentally handicapped children.

Ward said he became involved in fundraising for the bone marrow unit after he visited a friend who had been placed in the leukemia ward because there were no other intensive care beds available.

Seeing the effects of leukemia, especially on children, "shocked and disturbed me a lot. I wanted to do something to make a major contribution," he said.

A few months later, he found out the World Cup Soccer Finals were to be in Mexico City this year. "I got the great, stupid idea of walking to Mexico to see it," he said.

They worked on setting up the trip for a year. They live on $10 a day, often stay the night at fire stations, though the Holiday Inn in Big Spring let them stay two nights free, and carry their belongings on a light-frame metal rickshaw.

Walking has allowed them to meet more people and enjoy the differences in America, they said. And, in contrast to their concerns about crime, Americans have been very friendly and open. One person even drove them to a New York Mets game from Washington, D.C., when he found out Ward and Freeman had never seen an American baseball game.

"I'm a dyed-in-the-wool cynic," said Freeman. "But I've seen some things cynicism couldn't explain."

"We've met governors and millionaires. But the nicest thing were meeting the small people. We stayed with an ordinary working family. It's a heart-warming thing to be taken in with a family and meet their kids," Ward said.

What has surprised them most about America is the geographical differences, Freeman said. "I thought it all would be areas of scenic beauty, but I expected them to be isolated, not continuing. I thought it would be mostly skyscrapers, but a lot of America is rural."

When they first started walking, in the east and the south, they saw areas that reminded them of places in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. "We were in one place in Virginia that reminded us of Scotland. The people we met there looked like Scots, and then we found out that the area was settled originally by a Scotsman.

"The further west we go, the less it looks like anything back home," Freeman said.

On their tour, they have collected "Sounds of America" for BBC Radio. In Big Spring, they interviewed a bullrider and recorded part of the cattle auction. In Nashville, they interviewed one of the original Jordanaires and went to the concert celebration of Elvis' 50th birthday at Graceland.

They've also recorded the sounds of trains — "they're different from the sounds back home," Ward said — the voice of the man who broadcasts the trotting races, and reported a story on baseball.

They will continue through to El Paso and enter Mexico south of Tucson, Ariz., heading to Mexico City for the soccer games. The two will be BBC's correspondents for the soccer finals, they said.

"People tell us they'd love to do this as if someone comes along one day and says do it. It's hard. There's a lot of giving things up," said Freeman. "Girlfriends weren't happy, our business colleagues were far from happy, our families didn't want us to go."

Would they do it again? "I'd walk back to New York if I thought it would do an equal bit of good," Ward said.

Deaths

Oral Zant

TAHOKA — Services for Oral Cates Zant, 54, formerly of Ackerly, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the New Home Church of Christ with minister Jerry Roberts and Roy Lanier of Denver officiating. Burial will be at Tahoka Cemetery, directed by Whitee Funeral Home.

Zant, a New Home resident, died Tuesday night at the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock as a result of injuries suffered in a car accident Monday night.

He was born in Vealmoor Dec. 1, 1930, and went to school in Ackerly. He served in the Marine Corps during the Korean War. He married Juanita Reed on Feb. 18, 1949, in Ackerly. He moved to Lynn County in 1961. He was a farmer and a member of the Lynn County Appraisal Board. He also was active in the American Agriculture Movement. He was a member of the New Home Church of Christ and served as a deacon there.

He is survived by his wife, Juanita; a daughter, Vicki Lynn Zant of Dallas; a son, Gaylan Keith Zant of Dallas; and five brothers, Dale of Wilson, Dudley of Paris, Joe Don of Vealmoor, Rex of Ackerly and Warren of Westbrook. A son, Randy Zant, died in 1976.

Pallbearers will be Leonard Nettles, Charles Smith, Wendell Morrow, Thurl Swinson, Jim Bob Smith, John Edwards and Ronald Wyatt.

Mary Atkins

NOCONA — Services for Mary Dell Atkins, 52, of Big Spring will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Jerry Woods Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Weldon Griffith and the Rev. Clarence Russell officiating. Burial will follow at Nocona cemetery.

She died Tuesday afternoon in Big Spring.

She was born June 13, 1933, in Nocona and married Glynn S. Atkins on July 21, 1950, in St. Jo. She was a housewife.

She is survived by her husband, Glen Atkins of Big Spring; a daughter, Marsha Elaine Atkins of Midland; her mother, Ella Russell of Nocona; and a brother, Carl Joe Russell of Nocona.

Alene Ramirez

Complaints under study

WASHINGTON — President Reagan is considering up to a dozen additional unfair trading complaints against foreign nations as he seeks to put teeth into his new, more aggressive international trade policy, according to spokesman Larry Speakes.

The president on Wednesday announced two new major trade actions. One accused the European Economic Community, also called the Common Market, of depressing world grain prices. The other accused South Korea of ignoring U.S. patents and copyrights.

Proposal squared off

WASHINGTON — House and Senate negotiators, with just two weeks left before a new threatened financial crunch at the Treasury, have squared off on a proposal to stop deficits by 1991.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., has endorsed the plan's main feature — mandatory limits on red ink, as passed by the Senate. But House Democrats are ready to fight details of a package they see as designed to help the Republicans retain control of the Senate in next year's elections.

De Lorean on defense

SOMERVILLE, N.J. (AP) — John Z. De Lorean denies he forced his ex-wife to sign away rights to his wealth as a condition of marriage and says she pressured him into tying the knot by arriving at his doorstep with nearly a dozen suitcases and an ultimatum.

Cristina Ferrare Thomopoulos told the former automaker two months before their May 1973 wedding that "either we're going to get married or I'm going home to find another guy," De Lorean told Superior Court Judge Michael Imbriani Wednesday in the couple's divorce trial.

Workers undecided

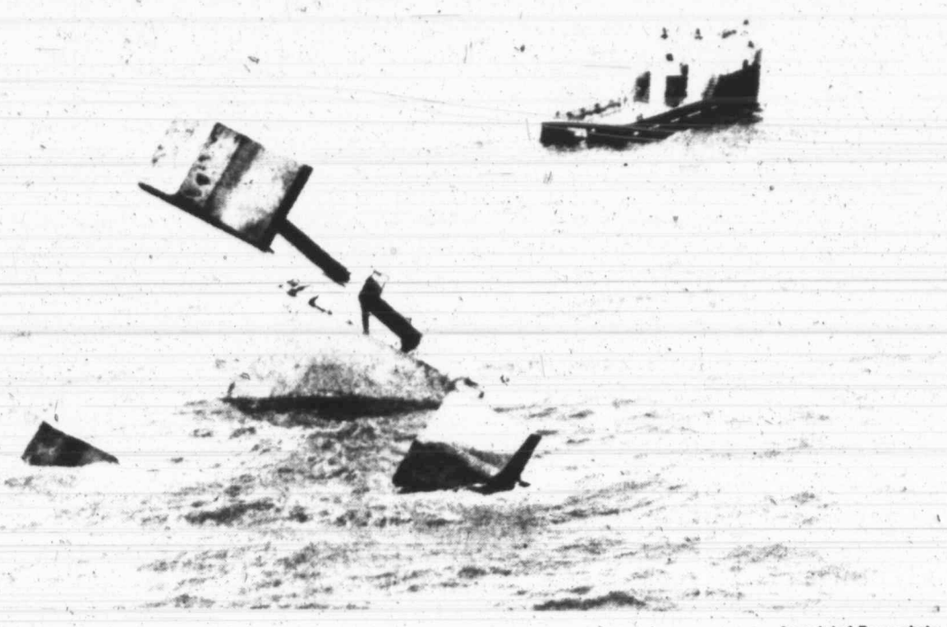

PITTSBURGH — United Steelworkers locals are split on a wage-cutting tentative contract with Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. that would bring plants idled for 88 days rumbling back to life.

Members begin voting today in a mail ballot on ratification of the tentative contract, which calls for overall cost-cutting and changes in pension plans.

AIDS not transmitted

BOSTON — A surgeon wth AIDS who operated on hundreds of patients apparently did not pass on the lethal disease, a health official reports today.

The unidentified Florida surgeon first showed signs of AIDS in 1981 and died two years later, Dr. Jeffrey J. Sacks of the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control, writes in a letter published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

Offshore mishap

Two die as barge capsizes near Galveston

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Officials of an offshore construction company say an investigation is needed to determine if mechanical or human error was to blame in a barge accident in which two workers were killed and nine were injured.

A barge known as the DMC-1 rolled over in about 45 feet of water in the Gulf of Mexico on Wednesday, some 12 miles southeast of Galveston, as it neared a worksite, said officials of Houston-based Drynorth USA Inc. said.

Divers found the two bodies in the water-filled galley of the barge. The exact cause of the deaths was unknown. The company hoped to begin its investigation today.

Names of the victims were not immediately released because family members could not be reached, Drynorth spokeswoman Pat Plant said.

Of the survivors, two were held overnight for treatment at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

Both Albert Taylor, 41, of Arnaudville, La., and Michael Champs, 32, of Houston, were listed in satisfactory condition. Seven were released following treatment for cuts, burns, minor fractures or strains.

None of the survivors would speak with reporters.

"All I want to do is go home," hospital spokeswoman Linda Macdonald quoted one crewman as saying.

One of the men walked into the emergency room carrying an oar. Another clutched a life ring.

"They said they wanted to keep their souvenirs," said Dr. Joseph Stothert, director of the emergency room.

Because the overturned vessel posed no hazard to shipping, the Coast Guard planned to leave any salvage efforts to Drynorth, Coast Guard spokesman Mark Kennedy said.

David Brandon, port captain for Drynorth, described the self-propelled vessel as 80 feet long and 60 feet wide with three 118-foot legs. It could accommodate up to 15 workers.

The vessel was one of two such construction barges owned by the company, Brandon said.

"We don't know what happened," he said.

Drynorth officials would not say how long their investigation was likely to take.

Redistricting plan called illegal

HOUSTON (AP) — A fedral judge says she may cancel the Nov. 5 mayoral election if the U.S. Justice Department fails to approve a redistricting plan soon.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald said in an order that the proposed realignment of city council districts could be illegal, forcing absentee voting to be put on hold Wednesday.

Ms. McDonald's order, issued Tuesday, was prompted by a lawsuit from the National Assocation for the Advancement of Colored People, which claimed the redistricting plan approved Sept. 24 by the Houston City Council is an "illogical crazy quilt" that threatens minority voting rights.

According to the lawsuit, the redistricting plan creates racial imbalances in voting in some districts and weakens the voting strength of blacks and Hispanics.

The plan was mailed to the Justice Department on Sept. 26. Under the federal Voting Rights Act of 1965, the department has 60 days to approve or reject the proposal.

Starting absentee balloting Wednesday for city races would violate the federal act because only 39 days had passed since the city approved the plan, Ms. McDonald said.

Novelist wins award

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Novelist Claude Simon, a pioneer of the French "nouveau roman" in the 1950s, won the 1985 Nobel Prize for literature today.

Simon, a 72-year-old wine grower in the Pyrenees who has produced few major works in the last decade, became France's 12th literature laureate since the prize began in 1901.

The awarding Swedish Academy described Simon as combining "the poet's and the painter's creativeness with a deepened awareness of time in the depiction of the human condition."

Leftists claim bombing

PARIS — A bomb exploded early today in front of the French television authority hours after a controversial right-wing politician appeared on a broadcast. The leftist group Direct Action claimed responsibility.

Authorities reported no injuries but serious damage in the blast outside the offices of the Audiovisual High Authority, which oversees French television. The bombing followed a TV appearance by Jean-Marie Le Pen, head of the rightist National Front.

Fire damages embassy

MADRID, Spain — Fire severely damaged the Iranian Embassy in the Spanish capital today, but no one was injured, police said.

The fire began before dawn in a records room and destroyed the archives of the embassy, which is located in the northern part of Madrid, police said. A short circuit was suspected of being the cause of the fire.

Marcos ends talks

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos ended two days of talks with U.S. Sen. Paul Laxalt today and said he and the senator, an envoy from President Reagan, agreed the Philippines must solve its problems without U.S. intervention.

Laxalt, a Nevada Republican and a close friend of Reagan's, declined to answer reporters' questions as he left the Philippines.

"I'll be going back to the president. It would be inappropriate for me to comment further," said Laxalt as he boarded a special U.S. government plane for the flight back to the United States.

Nicaragua blames U.S.

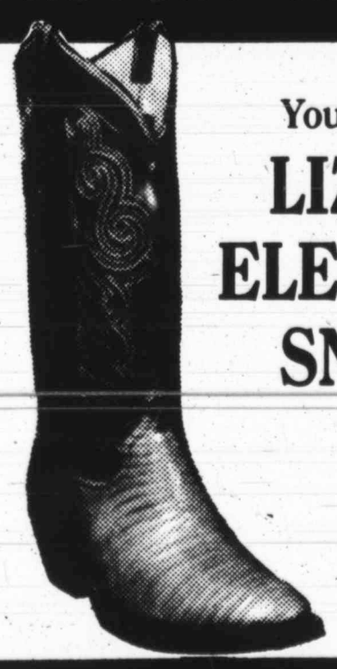

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — The lefist government accused the United States of dragging its feet in issuing a visa to allow President Daniel Ortega to go to the United Nations, and called the purported delay "another trampling of the dignity of our country."

Ortega planned to leave today to take part in the 40th anniversary celebrations at the U.N. next Monday. A Foreign Ministry source said he also has invitations to visit 10 states.

Opinion

Urban poverty triggers riots

The British people long ago became accustomed to rioting and violence against police in Northern Ireland. But the British are shocked by the violence that broke out in the north London district of Tottenham. This riot, in a mainly poor, West Indian black public housing project, was clearly the most serious civil disorder to strike mainland Britain in recent memory.

One policeman was knifed to death and dozens of others were injured by brickbats and gasoline firebombs. Cars and buildings were burned and stores looted.

The response of the conservative Fleet Street papers and Prime Minister Thatcher's Tory government was to blame the rioting on "human wickedness" and a failure on the part of black parents "to discipline their young." The British police were also criticized for not being tough enough in earlier outbreaks in other British cities. And some of the British papers even hinted at South African-style police action. As the conservative Daily Mail editorialized, "Either they (the blacks) obey the laws of this land ... or they must expect the fascist street agitators to call ever more boldly an with ever louder approval for them to 'go back from whence they came.'"

Such law-and-order chest thumping, however, will not solve Britain's growing race problem. Law and order is breaking down because Britian's social and economic order is breaking down. The poor in the inner cities live with 60 percent unemployment and decaying housing. Waves of anarchistic violence and hopelessness that permeate urban poverty will not be solved by more heavy-handed police tactics. Unfortunately, Mrs. Thatcher believes that this is a problem of character and not one of economics and racism.

Sea lions to the rescue

By SPENCER SANDOW

Everyone is familiar with Saint Bernards locating people trapped in an avalanche. But soon the public could begin seeing another kind of friendly, whiskered face helping people in trouble.

Sea lions can rescue drowning swimmers much faster than human lifeguards, and scientists in Laguna Beach, Calif., are training them to do just that.

Sea lions make natural lifeguards because they are powerful swimmers, in addition to being highly intelligent, Bill Ford told Omni magazine. Ford is director of the Friends of the Sea Lion Marine Mammal Center, an organization that rescues sea mammals found ill or injured along the Orange County coast. Sea lions can advance one hundred yards at speeds up to 25 miles per hour, so they can reach someone in trouble faster than any human can, he said.

Scientists have long trained animals to help people. The U.S. Navy has trained sea lions in the past to find and retrieve lost bodies and equipment, Ford said. Dogs see for the blind and hear for the deaf. They sniff out hidden illegal drugs and help find people who are lost.

Such practices work partly because people have a natural affinity with animals. Studies show that sick people get well faster when they have a dog or cat to cuddle and pet. Some nursing homes keep pets because it helps the residents to pet and care for them.

But this is the first time sea lions have been trained to rescue people in danger of drowning. The animals, already accustomed to human touch, are being fitted with harnesses and tethers and taught to carry buoys to a person simulating a drowning victim.

If the sea lions prove to be sucessful rescuers, extensive use of the animals will have to be postponed for at least a year, Ford said, to give an intense public education program so people won't be afraid of them.

In addition to saving human lives, the program may also aid the animals, Ford told Omni. "The program will help people understand that these are unique, intelligent animals that are legitimate residents of the sea. They need to be appreciated rather than beaten and tortured by humans, which is unfortunately what happens to many of them now," he said.

Dublin spot a step ahead for Heckler

People in Washington were skeptical last week when the White House announced Secretary of Health and Human Services Margaret Heckler was being "promoted" from a cabinet post to American Ambassador to Ireland.

The story circulating for the past month was that the President's chief of staff, Donald Regan, led the "dump Heckler" movement because he was dissatisfied with her performance.

The rumors of the secretary's imminent departure were leaked privately and then denied publicly by almost everyone who worked for the President.

Just as I was about to be swept up in the hysteria, I was calmed down by a White House aide who vigorously denied that there was any effort by the administration to force Mrs. Heckler out of her job.

"This is what really happened," he told me in confidence. "The President has been trying for the better part of a year to find a new ambassador to Ireland. He wanted a person whom he could trust, who had the ability to circulate amongst the ruling classes, but most of all someone who could speak the language. That person would be the President's eyes and ears in the most sensitive diplomatic post in the world."

"I didn't realize Ireland was that important," I said.

The White House aide looked around the room before he whispered. "Everything that floats down from the North Sea eventually winds up on the beaches of Ireland. It's the perfect place to keep track of Irish exports to the United States. But the most strategic value the Dublin spot has for the United States is that it's the ideal location to monitor the BBC."

"I know that being ambassador to the Irish Republic is vital to our foreign policy, but isn't secretary of Health and Human Services a more important position in the administration?"

He laughed, "The two don't compare. The secretary of HHS is just a figurehead. She's only responsible for spending $300 billion. Her role is to see that the health, welfare and Social Security systems don't get fouled up. A child could do it. On the other hand, an ambassador to Dublin has to be in daily contact with the President, and is personally consulted on every decision the White House makes concerning Irish linen."

"If it's such a good job why does it pay $16,000 less than Secretary of HHS?"

"Because it's so much cheaper to live abroad..."

"How did the President persuade Mrs. Heckler that he was not getting rid of her?"

"He told her the last thing Pat O'Brien said to him before he died was, 'It's always been my dream to have a woman ambassador to Ireland.'"

"And Heckler bought it?"

"The President reads the line much better than I do. Reagan can be very persuasive when he sets his mind to it. It's my understanding Mrs. Heckler broke into tears when the Chief started talking to her about his relatives who were caught up in the potato famine."

"What else did he tell her?"

"He said, 'Margaret, never forget this. A President has 19 cabinet officers to serve him, but only one ambassador to Ireland.'"

I looked at the White House aide, "Then you are telling me no one in the White House had anything to do with bouncing Mrs. Heckler out of her post."

"We didn't knock her out of a job. All we did is give her a better one. This administration has never stopped anyone from getting ahead."

Belize minister claims DEA agents trapped him

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR

WASHINGTON — First there was Abscam. Then John DeLorean. Now Elijio Briceno.

Who?

"Joe" Briceno is the former minister of communications and energy in the tiny Central American country of Belize who was recently sentenced to seven years in a federal penitentiary for drug smuggling. Like DeLorean and the Abscam defendants, Briceno claims he was a victim of entrapment by federal undercover agents.

Briceno's "DeLorean defense" didn't save him at his trial in North Carolina in August, but his attorney, Reber Boult, is planning to appeal.

Why would Drug Enforcement Administration agents set up a central American cabinet minister for a fall?

"Mr. Briceno was in particular disfavor with the DEA because he had been instrumental in his government's decision not to carry on a DEA program, the aerial spraying of the poisonous herbicide paraquat," his lawyer told our associate Donald Goldberg. The aerial spraying of paraquat to kill marijuana plants has long been controversial, both for environmental reasons and because the plants are often harvested, processed and sold with the poisonous residue.

Briceno admittedly didn't enter into his dealings with undercover agents in innocence. His attorney said Briceno intended to "rip off" the Americans who said they wanted to buy marijuana and cocaine from him — a ploy Boult conceded was "not particularly honorable." But Briceno insists he never intended to supply them with drugs, and in fact he didn't. He was arrested when he flew to Miami to pick up an advance payment from the supposed dope dealers.

Here are the main points Briceno makes to support his claim that he was entrapped by DEA agents:

xxNeither Briceno nor his associates ever provided drugs to the agents. The closest they came was when a relative of Briceno's in Belize showed the agents a sack that was said to contain marijuana.

xxBriceno never demonstrated the ability to traffic successfully in drugs. In fact, he was singularly inept: At least four airstrips he showed the undercover agents at their request were far too small to accommodate the supposed smugglers' planes. He promised to have an adequate runway built, but then claimed that a bulldozer had broken down — a stalling tactic that showed he never intended to go through with the deal, according to his attorney.

xxOnly two of the 18 telephone calls between Belize and the DEA in the United States were initiated by Briceno. In one taped conversation, a DEA agent, calling from North Carolina, said: "When can you meet me in Miami? Or anywhere? I don't care as long as we can get this thing over with. Can you do it Monday night? Monday afternoon? Tuesday? Wednesday? Thursday?"

Briceno refused the agent's importunings.

xxLending substance to Briceno's charge of setup, the government admitted that undercover agents always encountered difficulty with Belize dope dealers, who insisted on partial payment in advance. The federal agents always refused to pay up front, but they bent the rules for Briceno, agreeing to pay him $32,400 in advance — if he came to Miami to collect it. That's when they nabbed him.

Briceno, like DeLorean, had massive financial problems stemming from the family busienss: in his case, sugarcane. So when the undercover agents dangled easy cash in front of his hose, he bit.

Footnote: Federal prosecutors dismiss Briceno's claim that he was simply trying to "rip off" the DEA agents.

EXECUTIVE MEMO: The administration has made some peculiar assumptions to justify its decision to eviscerate the strategic stockpile of critical raw materials. The point of the congressionally mandated program is to make sure the country can get along without importing certain rare materials in the event of war. For example, arguing that Americans won't need automobiles in wartime, the administration has decided to stop stockpiling chrominum and other automobile ingredients. The administration wants to cut the stockpile from a three-year supply to one year's.

Who hires those who hire coaches?

To the editor:

Re: Spring Board, Oct. 11, 1985 "Who hires Coaches"

My question is who hires Logback and McQueary? I think our boys get short-changed on coaching and have for the last eight years. I could never understand why we would promote a coach who in 1977, 1978 & 1979 did not win but about four or five games. We promoted him to athletic director. This is where I believe we should start.

Too many coaches too. All you need is a coach. And an offensive coach and a defensive coach.

As for the position of athletic director, if we need one, Susan Sharpe gets my vote. After all, she knows how to win.

We need to reevaluate these areas and also these assistant superintendent positions and possibly downgrade these to business managers and personnel manager. We need more mileage out of our money.

Our school board needs to answer our questions and that is, why do people who are looking to buy county property want that property in Coahoma. I did think that it may be to get into a smaller school. I have changed my mind.

Could it be they want their sons on a winning team?

Community made chicken fried fun

To the editor:

Thank you Big Spring for a wonderful event! The CHICKEN FRIED STEAK WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP was a great success and you made it happen because you were there and you had a good time!

The Herald deserves special praise.

To Pat Porter, who even with an injured back was an energetic and cheerful emcee, words cannot express our appreciation.

To Nabors & Phinney who wrote and ang the Chicken Fried Steak song and entertained inside the mall... you sparkled...

To radio stations, KWKI/KKIK, KIOF/KBYG and KBST ... WOW... what coverage and promotion ... you were fantastic.

The Student Council of Big Spring High School, the Police Department and Sanitation Department of Big Spring, Shelane Roberts & Linda Davis, Southwest Tool, McMahon Concrete, McCutcheon Oil, Drinkard Electric, Dick Helms and Warren Wise ... All this help from behind the scenes smoothed the way for everyone involved and it was all above and beyond the call of duty.

Without the Highland Mall Merchants, mall manager Rebecca Powell and the mall owners who funded the activities and promotion there would have been no event.

To Sherrie Bordofske ... Big Spring, this lady works for you.

Just thanking the Outlaw Band is not enough. They gave and gave and gave of themselves in the hot sun all day. It was marvelous.

The contestants, great sports. You were the focus of the day. All the costuming and set designs were super. Big Spring is chicken fried headquarters! How about those Howard College theatrical cuties, the G.O.S.H./Yes chicken and the squirrels from Big Spring Savings! They were all part of the impromptu entertainment.

It was a pleasure for me to work with everyone. I'm so very grateful for your help.

He's not gonna' take it either

To the editor:

I agree all the way with John Rice, the managing editor, concerning the use of the seat belt.

Everytime I "fasten up," I have a horror I could have a fiery wreck and be jammed in such a position, I could not get a hand down to unfasten the seat belt, when seconds count.

I would be doomed to a fiery death, by my own hands.

The managing editor starts his article by saying: "We're not gonna' take it." I sure hope there are enough of "we're" to stop having to use the seat belt.

Suit against Permian Oil Corporation settled

STANTON — Martin County Commissioners agreed Monday to participate in an out-of-court settlement in a class-action lawsuit against Permian Oil Corp., said County Judge Bob Deavenport.

The class-action suit was filed in behalf of mineral rights owners against Permian Oil for underpayment of royalties, Deavenport said.

Permian Oil does not admit guilt in the estimated $4.5 million settlement, Deavenport said. Although the settlement seems large, it isn't, the judge said.

Attorney's fees and court costs must be taken out of the $4.5 million settlement before it is split with all the participants, he said.

"Everybody who has a house in town and their mineral rights — that's almost everybody — is being asked whether they want to participate in the settlement," Deavenport said.

The county will receive checks for the land on which the courthouse and the community center are located, he said.

Commissioners also agreed to make the extension of FM 3033 to an intersection with the Knott Highway their first priority on farm-market road improvements.

In addition, commissioners awarded a bid for a courthouse telephone system to AT&T for $12,629. The phone system would allow calls to be transferred from office to office; however, different outside lines would be retained, Deavenport said.

Wrong figures delay airport application

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Some confusion over figures caused an airport grant application by Big Spring to be delayed on Tuesday.

The Texas Aeronautics Commission was considering a Big Spring request for state help in reconstructing a crosswind runway as a taxiway at the local airport.

A staff member told the commission the city would like the state to sponsor 85 percent of the project, or $204,000, while the staff was recommending only a 75 percent participation, totaling $180,000.

In a discussion between the staff member, commissioners and Big Spring City Manager Don Davis, it became clear that there were some problems with some of the numbers being used to figure the project costs.

That led the commission to postpone the request until its next meeting, probably in January.

"We'll come back and work with the staff and get this resolved," Davis told the commissioners.

Petition to keep WFAA on cable in circulation

A petition to keep WFAA-TV on the microwave tower feed to West Texas cable companies is now available for signing in Big Spring.

Mrs. W.B. Shaw organized the petition in Snyder, and Bill Nehls of J.C. Penny is circulating it in locally.

The petition calls the WFAA news team "the best on our cable" and also expresses support of maintaining KERA public television station.

Both stations currently are transmitted by Times Mirror Microwave through a chain of microwave towers. WFAA is scheduled to go off the air Nov. 15, but Times Mirror has said it will continue broadcasting KERA, said Big Spring Cable manager Paul Thoman. Thoman said earlier the cable company is making plans in case KERA is discontinued as well.

Petitions are available at the following locations: P&P Stereos and Robelin Studio at Big Spring Mall; Helen's and the Kopper Kettle on FM 700; Big Spring Athletics at Highland Mall; and Highland Pontiac, Classic Auto Sales, Bob Brock Ford, Pollard Chevrolet and Shroyer Motors.

Dear Abby

Dad's hearing is dissonant chord in family harmony

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my dad, who is 65. He's not ashamed to wear bifocals, but he refuses to admit he can't hear.

Yesterday, the telephone rang and it was only 10 feet away, and he didn't even hear it! Worse yet, he drives a car and can't hear the siren of an ambulance or fire engine until it's practically on top of him.

When my brothers and I try to talk to him about this, he gets belligerent and insists there is nothing wrong with his hearing and we should mind our own business!

If older people aren't ashamed to wear glasses, why are they ashamed to wear a hearing aid?

A LOVING DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: That's a good question, especially since some of the newer-model hearing aids are practically invisible.

Nagging will only make your father more defensive and irritable, but don't give up trying to help him. Ask his physician to insist on a hearing test as part of his next physical. My mail tells me that a surprising number of people who suffer a hearing loss turn a deaf ear to those who try to help them. Vanity? Insanity!

DEAR ABBY: Help! When can a person mow his lawn — timewise? I waited until 8 a.m. on Saturday to mow my lawn. First I called the police to find out if it was OK because I didn't want to do anything illegal. I was told that anytime after 8 a.m. on any day was OK. I asked, "How about weekends and holidays?" His reply was, "Today is Saturday and I'm working!" I suppose he meant that unless your neighbors tell you which days they work and which days they want to sleep, 8 a.m. is OK.

Well, my neighbor saw me in the grocery store that afternoon and she said she could have killed me, as she had Saturday off and wanted to sleep, but my lawn mower woke her up.

So what is a person supposed to do? I'm retired and like to get my lawn mowed early in the morning before it gets too hot.

B.B. IN DULUTH

DEAR B.B.: If you plan to mow your lawn at 8 a.m., check with your neighbors the night before. Thanks for asking. That's more than most people do.

DEAR ABBY: About readers who hate your puns and those who love them: So far the score is 10,000,0001-10-4 in your favor.

I don't believe a pun is the lowest form of humor. It could be verse.

Dr. Donohue

Skin problems

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please, do you have any information on reflex sympathetic dystrophy? I was told it was incurable. — J.N.

This will often occur following a trauma, like a broken bone. For reasons beyond our understanding the sympathetic nervous system (the nerve network responsible for on-going body processes out of our conscious control) gets slightly out of kilter.

In reflex sympathetic dystrophy it has started sending out messages to the traumatized area, telling blood vessels there to constrict and expand. They begin doing this without any real purpose. The skin in the area begins to pain. There may be swelling and thinning of the skin.

Often, the situation can be handled with mild analgesics and patient forbearance, and that's all that's necessary. Sometimes such suggestions are interpreted as meaning "nothing can be done" or "there's no cure."

Well, if need be, something beyond that can be done. Sometimes, the nerves can be blocked with drugs in an attempt to break the cycle of garbled nerve signals. And physical therapy can be instituted. That's to prevent a compounding problem later on — frozen joint.

I am sorry to have to tell you that sometimes this condition just lasts and lasts. I wish your letter had told me more. I might have been able to be a bit more helpful.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had a stroke. I am in my 50s and go to therapy, where I walk and do exercises. I do things around the house — dishes, etc. I do have a brace on my left leg. I never say never. My question, though, is do you think I should continue with therapy? For how long? — Mrs. F.H.

As long as you have potential for further gain, therapy should be continued. I have heard of it being continued as long as two years.

I don't mean you necessarily must continue that long with the physical or occupational therapist who is helping you now. There comes a time when you can take home the lessons you've learned and continue applying them by yourself or with family help. There are always opportunities to learn new ways to do things occupationally, for example. In this sense you might say that therapy for the stroke patient never really ends.

Did you know that 80 percent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? The bcoklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" describes the causes and treatment of stroke. For a copy write Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing $1.00 and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

AN OPEN LETTER TO:
All members of VFW and prospective members.

The Fall Roundup Convention of the 25th District for VFW will be October 19th through October 20th, hosted by Big Spring Post 2013 at the Post Home located on Driver Road. All members of VFW are urged to attend. Registration will begin Saturday, October 19th at 9:00 a.m. Social hours will be Saturday p.m. A dance will be featured Saturday night from 8:30 p.m. till 1:00 a.m.

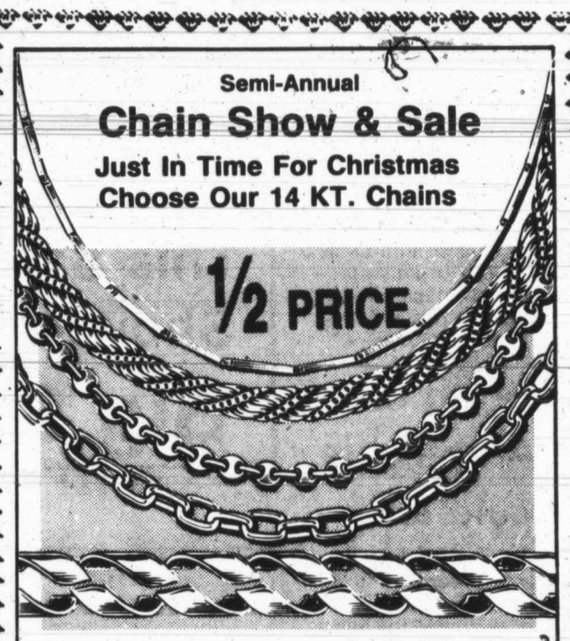

It is hoped that as a result of this convention better co-operation between all members of VFW in Howard County will be noticed. Please, the few that are trying to keep this Post alive needs the support of all members.

In Howard County there are a minimum of 300 men and women eligible to become members of the VFW. The few that are active now needs more support to assure the veterans benefits are kept alive. There are those in Washington that are trying to erode and cancel veterans benefits. The active few are fighting the battle for many, many more. Come on, men and women veterans of WW1 ... WW2 ... Korea and Vietnam wars join your comrades that are trying to do so much. We need your help...

For information all members of VFW stand ready ... feel free to call me at anytime if I can help you gain membership in VFW. We need you .... you need us.

Conservation program presented

A program entitled "Conserve Water Now!" was presented to the City Extension Homemakers Club at a meeting Oct. 11 at the home of Jowili Etchison.

Too little emphasis is put on conserving water, said Laverne Green and Rozelle Dohoney, who presented the program.

Each person uses approximately 80 gallons of water a day. Dripping faucets and leaks should be repaired immediately, they said. One leak can waste was much as 2,000 gallons of water a year.

The next meeting will be Oct. 25 at the home of Alta Lee Underwood.

Ward presents program on aging parents

Emily Ward, public relations director at Malone-Hogan Hospital, was guest speaker at the Oct. 11 meeting of the 1970 Hyperion Club at the home of Shirley Johnson.

Ward spoke on aging parents.

Final plans were made for the nacho booth at the Arts and Crafts Fair Saturday and Sunday.

The next meeeting will be Nov. 8.

Ruth Roach wins rolls

The Big Spring Food Service Association met Oct. 10 at the Goliad Middle School cafeteria.

A prize of a dozen cinnamon rolls went to Ruth Roach.

The women of Goliad cafeteria furnished refreshments. The table was decorated for Halloween.

The next meeting will be Nov. 14 at the Runnels cafeteria.

Several Big Spring Steers are listed amoung the District 4-5A offensive leaders.

Quarterback Carl Speck is the second rated passer with 57 of 134 attempts for 872 yards. Running back Phillip Matthews is the fifth leading rusher with 432 yards in 63 tries.

Tight end David Shortes is the third top receiver with 16 catches for 245 yards. He is followed by Randy Hayworth who has 13 catches for 178 yards. Punter Brian Mayfield is third with a 37.1 average.

Clark sends Cards to Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, whose reputation was born on the basepaths this season, unloaded a new arsenal of weapons on the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League playoffs.

The Cardinals advanced into the World Series on a dramatic three-run home run by slugger Jack Clark with two outs in the ninth inning Wednesday. The blast gave the NL Eastern Division champions a 7-5 victory over the Dodgers in the sixth game of a series that St. Louis won 4-2.

"We wouldn't have been here if we were just stealing bases," said Cardinals center fielder Willie McGee. "It seems that when people put a tag on you, they forget about everything else."

The late-inning rally has become a trait of these Cardinals, who came from behind a number of times during September's heated pennant race with the New York Mets.

The Cardinals also won the fifth game of the Series on Monday night on a ninth-inning home run by Ozzie Smith, voted the Most Valuable Player of the series.

Those last-second heroics kept the Cardinals from losing confidence in Wednesday's late innings.

"It prepares you," McGee said. "It lets you know that you're capable of coming back. We battled all year, both teams did."

The Dodgers built a 4-1 margin and, after St. Louis came back to tie it, took a 5-4 lead on an eighth-inning home run by Mike Marshall. Yet Wednesday's game still got away.

"It just seemed like a game that was not meant to be," said Dodger starter Orel Hershiser, who was lifted in the seventh inning.

"We had a big lead, and they came back. Then we had the lead again with one at-bat left, and they got the big hit."

"We came within one out and we didn't get that out," said Dodger third baseman Bill Madlock, who had a home run and a single and drove in two runs in a losing cause. "You have to give them a lot of credit."

The Cardinals, who led the National League in hitting with a .265 average, were led during the regular season by McGee, whose .353 average was the league's best. But during the first five games of the playoffs, his bat was silent.

He had only four hits in 21 at-bats, a .190 clip, in the first five games. His slump, however, did not cause the Cardinals many problems.

"This is not a one-man team," McGee said. "I'm human, I have downs, too. It came at a bad time, but the other guys started contributing."

McGee finally got going Wednesday and rattled off three singles in five at-bats, knocked in two runs and scored twice.

Looking back over the series, the Cardinals won it much the same way they won the NL Eastern Division crown.

Starters John Tudor, 21-8 during the regular season, and Danny Cox, 18-9, each had one fine outing.

The bullpen, which combined for 44 saves during the regular season, allowed just four earned runs in 19 2-3 innings, and the NL's best defense, with only 108 errors during the regular season, committed only four in the playoffs.

The only thing lacking, in fact, was the constant base-stealing for which the Cardinals were most noted. After 314 regular-season thefts, St. Louis swiped only six against the Dodgers.

Kansas City completes comeback

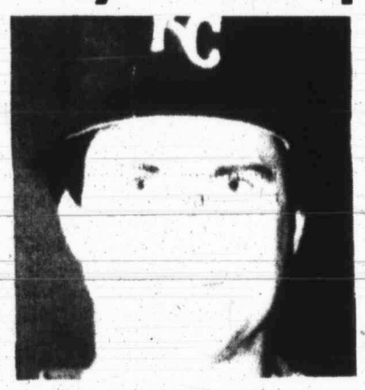

TORONTO (AP) — The Kansas City Royals, the team that would not quit, completed a stunning turnaround Wednesday night by beating the Toronto Blue Jays 6-2 behind Jim Sundberg's four RBI's to win the decisive seventh game of the American League playoffs and advance to the World Series.

The victory set up an all-Missouri, Show-Me Showdown in the World Series starting Saturday night in Kansas City between the Royals and the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Royals iced their comeback from a three games-to-one deficit when Sundberg drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple off the top of the right field wall in the sixth inning.

Thus ended Canada's hopes for the first World Series outside the United States.

In any other year since divisional playoffs began in 1969, Toronto would have won, three games to one. But this year, for the first time, it was a best-of-seven format, not best-of-five, and the Royals took full advantage of the extra two games.

JIM SUNDBERG
... 4 RBI night

GEORGE BRETT
... league series MVP

Sundberg finished the series with a team-high six RBI, one more than teammate George Brett, the playoff Most Valuable Player who had eight hits including three home runs in 23 at-bats.

Kansas City's victory reversed AL East dominance in recent league playoffs. The 1980 Royals were the last AL West team to win a playoff and the Oakland teams of 1972-73-74 were the only other Western representatives to win since divisional play began.

Only four times in World Series history have teams rallied from 3-1 deficits. Of the 33 clubs that trailed by that margin, only Pittsburgh in 1925 and 1979, the New York Yankees in 1958 and the Detroit Tigers in 1968 came back to win.

The Royals won the game by ripping Dave Stieb, who led the league in earned run average this season. Stieb, who won the opener and pitched powerfully despite getting no decision in Game 4, left the game after Sundberg's triple.

Stieb was charged with six earned runs, his second-highest total of the season.

Kansas City starter Bret Saberhagen, winner Charlie Leibrandt and Dan Quisenberry, who got the final two outs, gave the Royals the clutch pitching they needed for the third straight game.

Forsan out to protect ranking

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

For the Sands Mustangs it's a fight to stay alive in tough District 7-A South Zone. For the Forsan Buffaloes it's another obstacle in their path towards their showdown with Roscoe.

Sands and Forsan will square off in the second district matchup for each team Friday night at Mustang Stadium. For the second consecutive week, Sands coach Danny Wilhelm's Mustangs will go to battle against a squad ranked in the Top 10.

Last week in their district opener, the Mustangs were defeated by always-tough Roscoe 39-0. This week, Wilhelm knows things won't get any easier against coach Jan East's Buffaloes, who are ranked No. 8 in the Harris Poll.

"Call it the luck of the draw or whatever," chuckled Wilhelm, when asked about playing the district's top two teams right off the bat. "That's just the way the schedule was drawn up. Really this will be our fourth straight game to play a very good team. O' Donnell and Wilson were both top-notch teams."

The Mustangs (3-3) have a very formidable foe in trying to snap their three-game losing skid. The Buffaloes have looked nothing short of awesome in rolling up a spotless 6-0 record. In fact, East and the Buffs have been on a roll the past two years, compliling a 17-2 mark.

Like all successful coaches, East guards aginst his team having a letdown, but admits he doesn't have many such problems with his squad. "There's no way I think we're looking ahead to Roscoe. The kids got back in the top 10 and they want to stay there," said East. "Plus Sands has a pretty good ballclub so we can't afford to take them lightly."

Last week the Buffaloes gave the district a little preview as they trounced Garden City 60-0. It was their new Split 4 defense's fourth shutout.

East and his coaching staff switched from the 26 defense last season. And judging from their 26 points allowed this season, things have been going well. "The big difference is our linebackers. We now have two inside linebackers and one rover. We move the rover around and it creates blocking problems."

Not surprisingly, the Buffs "backers" have been the leaders on this stingy defensive unit. Inside LB'ers Wayne Wright and Ira transfer Bruce

Steers to battle powerful Lee

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

The Big Spring Steers have had a bad habit of playing the best teams at the worst time during the 4-5A district season. First it was Permian, foaming at the mouth following 7-7 tie with Abilene. Now it's Midland Lee, fresh from a prime time spanking by Permian.

The Steers are still looking for their first 4-5A win of the season and Midland's Memorial Stadium will not likely be the most hospitable place to find that elusive victory when the two meet Friday night at 8 p.m.

"I don't expect they'll be pumped up, ready to kick the world," head coach Quinn Eudy predicted. "But I know they'll be ready to play."

The Lee—Big Spring matchup will feature a pair of offensive game plans diametricly opposed, and very successful.

Lee runs out of the classic Wishbone formation, grinding out yardage and touchdowns with machine-like consistentcy. "They run a good offense, behind the best line in the district. Their backs are not as fast as in the past but all three run theball well," commented Eudy. "They're game plan is simple and very successful."

The Steer offense has had success on the ground and especially in the air. Lee Head coach Jack Tayrien has a great deal of respect for the Steers. "They've moved the ball against everybody they've played. They pose some real problems, mainly because (Carl) Speck throws the ball so well. All we can hope is to keep them out of the end zone."

Lee's secret weapon on offense has been split end Dextor Traylor, who has averaged a phenomenal 30.2 yards on nine catches during the year.

"He's a big target (6-4, 175) and he runs well when he gets the ball," noted Eudy. "They like to throw quick passes and outs to him. We're not assigning anybody special to him, but he won't get away clean if he comes across the middle."

Both teams had problems with turnovers in their last game. Lee literally fumbled the game away against Permian, losing five and setting up both Panther touchdowns. Against Cooper, the Steers lost four fumbles, including two third quarter miscues that resulted in two touchdowns in 25 seconds for the Cougars.

Crossroads gridders suffer few losses on academic front

and
CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writers

Most Crossroads area high school football team were only marginally affected by House Bill 72. The biggest loss of players reported by th nine area head coaches was three on the varsity level. Junior varsity programs suffered heavier losses.

The Bill stipulates that any player who has a grade below 70 in any course is ineligible to participate or practice any extracurricular activity for the following six weeks.

- Sands High School coach Bruce Wilhelm reported only one player lost off the varsity squad. The player was a freshmen reserve.

"It could have been worse," said Wilhelm. But we needed the player. He won't practice with the team at all. With two out with injuries, this cuts our squad down to 18."

- The Forsan varsity will lose two players, a freshmen and junior. Both were non-starters. "We've always had pretty strict academic rules in the athletic department," said East. "I think this new rule is good, but they should change the penalty period to a week-to-week basis."

Five Forsan junior varsity layers also failed to make the grade.

- Klondike coach Tom Ham will lose a sophomore and junior from his varsity squad. "We have three injured players and this cut makes our squad very thin," said Ham.

Ham's feeling about House Bill 72 penalty period? "I think it's ridiculous, you can go steal hub caps and get 30 days. You don't punish a kid six weeks for one mistake."

- The Stanton Buffaloes lost two sophomore players, one a part-time starter, according to coach Dale Ruth.

The Buffs lost another four from the junior varsity.

"I really wasn't worried about the varsity because I've been checking on their grades all along. The junior and senior players are all good students," said Ruth."

- Coahoma High School coach Bruce Mitchell reported that all of the Bulldog varsity players made their grades. Only one junior varsity player failed a course. "We were real lucky, we had a few borderline but they pulled it out," said Mitchell. "I think the older kids accept the fact that they have to do to study better than the younger kids."

- Borden County's Six-Man squad was the hardest hit team in the Crossroads, losing three varsity players, two freshmen and sophomore who was starting at defensive end.

"This affects us quite a bit," head coach Duke Frisbee explained."

Frisbee was particularly bitter about how HB 72 will affect his lost starter. "He is just a tough, country kid and football was the only thing that kept him school. I'm sure he'll probably quit now and get a job in the oilfield."

- Colorado City head coach Tom Ramsey reported the loss of three senior non-starters on his varsity squad. One of the players affected made three A's, two B's and a failing 68.

"I don't argue the need to pass, but the rule gives the student-athlete no leeway," argued Ramsey. "The premise of the rule is good but the six-week penalty is unbearable."

- Garden City did not lose a varsity player but the junior varsity team was virtually eliminated.

"We lost seven kids off the J.V. and the two remaining quit because they knew they wouldn't have a team. It brings the program down to 27 kids," reported head coach Tony Stricklin.

- Head coach Currie McWilliams' Grady squad was unaffected on the varsity level but lost two players on the junior varsity.

series, Toronto stranded 26 runners, 17 in scoring position. The Blue Jays, who hit just a shade under .300 with runners in scoring position during the regular season, stranded nine runners in their final game of the year, including six in scoring position.

Saberhagen, the Royals ace and one of only two 20-game winners in the American League, was forced to leave after three innings. He bruised his pitching hand in the first inning while trying to grab an infield hit by Willie Upshaw. There was no immediate indication whether Saberhagen would be available for the World Series.

Leibrandt, who started and lost Games 1 and 4, inherited a 2-0 lead. He went 5 1-3 innings, allowing a fifth-inning, run-scoring double to Upshaw among his five hits. After Jesse Barfield singled with one out and went to third on a double by Tony Fernandez, Quisenberry entered the game.

Quisenberry gave up a run-scoring grounder to Damaso Garcia and then got Lloyd Moseby on a grounder to second to end the game.

Sundberg, just 2-for-20 in the postseason entering the game, singled home a run in the second inning. Pat Sheridan, with only one hit in 16 playoff at-bats, homered in the fourth for a 2-0 lead.

The Blue Jays halved the lead in the fifth on a single by Garcia and a two-out double by Upshaw, but Kansas City broke the game open in the sixth against a struggling Stieb.

With one out, Stieb walked Brett on four pitches and then hit Hal McRae with a pitch. Sheridan grounded into a forceout at third base, but a walk to Steve Balboni on a 3-2 pitch loaded the bases.

Stieb was clearly in trouble, having difficulty with his curve, and Jim Acker was warming in the bullpen, but Toronto Manager Bobby Cox stuck with his ace. It turned out to be the wrong move.

Sundberg hit a drive off the very top of the right-field fence, just above the glove of a leaping Barfield. The ball bounced back onto the field and Barfield lost track of it, with Sundberg winding up on third with a triple.

Cox then brought in Acker, and Frank White greeted the reliever with a soft single to center that made it 6-1.

The Royals' big inning silenced the crowd of 32,084 — more than 10,000 under capacity — who had watched in 45-degree weather in hopes that their Blue Jays could bring home a winner.

Instead, Kansas City won the game and set up just the second all-artificial turf World Series. The first one came in 1980 when the Royals played Philadelphia.

This year's World Series will also be the first intrastate one since 1974 when Oakland played Los Angeles.

Steers

"There's not much you can say about turnovers," stated Tayrien. "We're going to try and hang on to the ball this week."

Eudy agreed when approached with the turnover question. "We've thrown three interceptions and have 25 fumbles. I am at a loss to explain the difference. We've been working every week on protecting the ball, but those things just happen."

The Midland Lee—Big Spring game should produce a bundle of points, and perhaps, a bundle of turnovers.

As the wise coach said, "He who hangs on to the football, wins the the game."

Forsan

Strickland average about 30 tackles between them each game. Rover Jason Donaghe averages 10 stops per game.

The defense has certianly impressed Wilhelm. They have a good, solid agressive defense. They will strike you," he said. Right now the Mustangs are having offensive problems with injuries. Halfback Jay Fryar is out indefinately with a injured knee and split end Sammy Rodriguez is still out with a shoulder injury.

Still the Mustangs Wishbone offense moved the ball against a defensive-minded Roscoe squad. The Plowboys outgained the Mustangs 188-173 in the game. The blaring fact that killed Sands was eight turnovers.

"We proved we could move the ball against a good team last week, we just need to cut down on the turnovers. If we get the dive going to the fullback, it will help us run on the outside and open up our passing game," said the Sands coach.

Last week fullback Lee Young and quarterback Jerry Long were the offensive leaders. Young churned out 65 tough yards and Long passed for 151.

Meanwhile Forsan is not just a defensive team. It has potent offense, indicated by their 37 points average per game. Unlike last season when the Buffs had speedy Mitch Hays and quarterback Todd East, their game plans features more of a power attack. Now the Buffs counter with 205-pound fullback Strickland and 190-pounder Wright at halfback.

"We don't have as much speed in the backfield as last year and don't rely on one back as much," said East.

Wright is the leading ground gainer with 659 yards. Strickland has gained over 400 yards. "Wayne's (Wright) speed is deceptive, he's got fair speed. Bruce's (Strickland) biggest assest is his blocking. He's done a super job for us. We lead him in the hole and let Wayne follow."

The Buffs offensive aresonel also has two good quarterbacks in sophomore starter Brant Nichols and backup Duain Box. It has also speedy split end Lee Morris, a 50-second 400 meter runner.

Last week Forsan showed it offensive versatility as eight different players scored.

So this week Forsan will be out to protect their ranking and Sands will be out to protect the ball. Who knows? If that happens, it might be good game.

Which said property is delinquent to Plaintiff(s) for taxes in the following amount: $7,233.72, exclusive of interest, penalties and costs, and there is included in this suit in addition to the taxes, all said interest, penalties and costs therein allowed by law up to and including the day of judgment herein.

You are hereby notified that suit has been brought by Howard County, Plaintiff(s), against the above named persons, as Defendants, by petition filed on the 18th day of April, 1983, in a certain suit styled Howard County, et al vs. Arvelle Lee, et al, for collection of the taxes on said property and that said suit is now pending in the District Court of Howard County, Texas, 118th Judicial District, and the file number of said suit is t-3264, that the names of all taxing units which assess and collect taxes on the property hereinabove described, not made parties to this suit are NONE.

Plaintiff(s) and all other taxing units who may set up their tax claims herein seek recovery of delinquent ad valorem taxes on the property hereinabove described, and in addition to the taxes all interest, penalties, and costs allowed by law thereon up to and including the day of judgment herein, and the establishment and foreclosure of liens, if any, securing the payment of same, as provided by law.

All parties to this suit, including Plaintiff(s), defendants, and intervenors, shall take notice that claims not only for any taxes which were delinquent on said property at the time this suit was filed but all taxes becoming delinquent thereon at any time thereafter up to the day of judgment, including all interest, penalties and costs allowed by law thereon, may, upon request therefor, be recovered herein without further citation or notice to any parties herein, and all said parties shall take notice of and plead and answer to all claims and pleadings now on file and which may hereafter be filed in said cause by all other parties herein, and all of those taxing units above named who may intervene herein and set up their respective tax claims against said property.

You are hereby commanded to appear and defend such suit on the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two (42) days from and after the date of issuance hereof, the 4th day of October, 1985, same being the 14th day of November, A.D., 1985, (which is the return day of such citation), before the honorable District Court of Howard County, Texas, to be held at the courthouse thereof, then to show cause why judgement shall not be rendered for such taxes, penalties, interest and costs, and condemning said property and ordering foreclosure of the constitutional and statutory tax liens thereon for taxes due the Plaintiff(s) and the taxing units parties hereto,and those who may intervene herein, together with all interest, penalties, and costs allowed by law up to and including the day of judgment herein, and all costs of this suit.

Issued and given under my hand and seal of said Court in the City of Big Spring, Howard County, Texas, this the 4th day of October, A.D., 1985.

Peggy Crittenden, District Clerk
Clerk of the District Court,
Howard County, Texas, 118th Judicial District

DENNIS THE MENACE

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 18, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After resisting an early morning pressure to be combative, you find you can easily tune in on the changes that you can wisely make, as long as they are not romantic or personal.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try not to get upset over silly little things in the morning, and then you can get into interesting and profitable tasks.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Forget amusements in the morning, and concentrate on improving monetary status with the aid of experts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid an argument with kin in the morning, and later you can be with honest associates and profit greatly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't scatter your forces today, but keep rooted to your work and do it efficiently and carefully.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Don't let money matters disturb you in the morning, and then you can be with congenials at amusements you like.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your hunches are not helpful in the morning, but later you can accomplish a good deal by the use of your best judgment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Stop fussing around with unimportant trivia and make headway with allies where the practical is concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A friend could deter you from handling a specific business affair, but carry on with other practical matters and all is well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more concerned with personal matters and don't try to upset conditions in the outside world.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get that private affair straightened out before you look into new interests and outlets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get your business affairs well handled before you concentrate on personal affairs. Become more proficient at this.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Follow the directives of a bigwig who is very successful and not those of a partner who pays little attention to details.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can comprehend and follow ideas and plans quite differently from those into which he, or she was born, so be sure to give the finest education you can so that your progeny can make the most of these capabilities. Teach not to be so independent, otherwise the fine promise here could be lost.

To my Patients,

I am happy to announce the relocation of my office from Malone and Hogan Clinic to 1700 West Farm Road 700 — the same building in which I first began practicing in Big Spring, in 1981. My new office faces FM 700, and is directly behind Malone-Hogan Hospital. You may reach me at my new number 267-1607, effective October 15. Until then, you can reach me at 263-1211, Malone-Hogan Hospital.

I appreciate your confidence in choosing me as your orthopedic surgeon. As I commit myself to the area with the purchase of my own building, I also commit myself, and my staff, to continue to provide the best care possible for you in the most effective, and therefore least costly manner.

If you need me in any way, please call me at the hospital, my home, or at my new office on and after October 15.

Sincerely,
R. K. Reddy, M.D.
