NY Police Arrest 'Son of Sam' Suspect

August Monsoon Soaks Hereford

By JIM STEIRT
Brand Farm Editor

Summer thunderstorms returned to the Deaf Smith County area for the second straight day early this morning, and while rainfall from a Tuesday evening storm left many local farmers feeling left out, all areas of the county were getting in on the waterworks early today.

The general rainfall was set off by a broad trough of low pressure at the surface across northwestern Texas, combined with southeasterly and easterly low level wind which is channeling moisture into the area.

Even in a period of depressed prices for agriculture commodities, a timely rain brings out the optimism in a farmer, and this morning's showers were no exception.

Among the most enthusiastic about the "August Monsoon" are the dryland farmers in the far west and northwest portions of the county.

Moisture accumulations already totaled a minimum of one inch at all of the dryland farms checked this morning, and rainfall was continuing, providing good soil moisture for sowing the wheat crop this fall.

The rainfall is also providing much needed relief for the county's vast irrigated corn acreage and doing away with the threat of grass mites in corn at the same time.

In addition, the local sugar beet and grain sorghum crops should thrive on the best kind of irrigation available—natural irrigation.

This morning's rainfall began in the wee hours, shortly after 2 o'clock, and continued intermittently well into the day.

The heaviest rainfall apparently fell right where it was needed, in the dryland country to the west and northwest of the city.

KPAN radio logged a moisture total of 1.70 inches as of 8 a.m. and rain continued to up the total at that time.

The Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant measured 1.03 inches this morning.

Calvin Jones, assistant agricultural manager at the local Holly plant reported that the moisture "should get us a good way down the road on meeting the late season moisture requirements of the beet crop, although another irrigation may be necessary if we have a hot September."

In the dryland country where a large portion of the sorghum acreage has already been claimed by hot, dry weather, farmers were enjoying the spectacle of summer rainfall this morning.

A spokesman at the Walcott school reported that two inches of rain had fallen at that community by 9 a.m. and commented, "We could get another inch easily at the rate the rain is coming down."

The Bruce Coleman farm at Walcott recorded one inch of moisture this morning.

The rain started later and was lighter here than it was in Walcott, but it began.

Swimming Anyone?

And the rains came. And they came. The terrain surrounding Hereford resembled a marshland swamp earlier today with scenes like the one on US 60 near Dawn [above]. Dameron Park doubled as a city lake this morning. The persistent rain is expected to last through the day and diminish by Friday. [Brand photo by Keith Ribnick]

Dahlia, 17, Yields To Lake Disease

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) - A 17-year-old girl is to be buried today after fighting a losing battle with a rare and deadly disease caught while swimming in a lake.

Dahlia Reyna slipped into unconsciousness last week when her brain fell prey to a disease doctors diagnosed as amebic meningoencephalitis. She was taken off the respirator that had kept her heart pumping for eight days while members of her migrant farm worker family agonized over the decision to take the teenager off the life-sustaining machine.

Late Tuesday night, as relatives and friends prayed for the miracle that never occurred, Dahlia's family ordered the respirator unplugged according to one of her brothers, Joel.

Hospital officials said the attractive brunette was pronounced officially dead at 10:24 p.m.

"This is not a life-and-death decision," Father Luis Brum, the Catholic priest who had counseled the family, had stressed during the past week.

"As long as there is a chance of life, there is hope. But the doctors have said there is no hope for Dahlia. She has no brain waves. The respirator is keeping her heart pumping."

"The family will decide whether to keep her on the respirator or take her off and let God and nature take its course."

Doctors say the disease that claimed her is as rare as it is deadly.

"This young lady was at the wrong place at the wrong time," said Dr. Ben Garza, Hidalgo County health officer, at a news conference Tuesday afternoon.

He declared the lake where Dahlia reportedly contracted the disease as dangerous to swimmers.

"Delta Lake is off limits to swimmers until further notice," said Garza. "We can't patrol the lake and keep people but we have posted signs that let them know they are entering the water at their own risk."

Ironically, the county said it has spent a lot of money on beautification projects around Delta Lake, one of the few public lakes with free swimming in this area, listed by the last U.S. Census report as the poorest in the country.

Dahlia swam in the lake two weeks ago during a family outing. Doctors theorized the microscopic amoeba in the water probably entered the girl's body through her nose but cannot explain why other family members were not affected.

"These amoebas exist everywhere, so to speak," said Garza. "But circumstances have to be very exact before anyone can contract the disease."

A spokesman for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said only 80 cases have been reported worldwide since 1966 and there are only three known survivors.

"She's never been sick a day in her life," said Mrs. Sara Reyna, the girl's mother, after a family meeting Monday. "I keep wondering why... Why my Dahlia?"

Wholesale Prices Fall Again In Year's First 2-Month Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wholesale prices declined for the second month in a row in July as farm and processed food prices kept dropping, the Labor Department said today.

The decline of one-tenth of a percent in the wholesale price index was not so big as the seven-tenths decrease the month before. But it marked the first two-month drop since winter, 1976.

Wholesale price changes usually show up at the consumer level eventually, but so far grocery store food prices have continued going up. They rose eight-tenths of a percent in the latest consumer report in June.

The price of raw farm products declined in July 1.8 per cent after a 6.8 per cent decline the month before. In the last three months, farm prices have dropped 10.6 per cent, on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Contributing more to the July decline, however, were processed foods and foods, such as vegetable oils, animal fats and sugar. They dropped 2.4 per cent after a 1.7 per cent decline the month before.

Prices of industrial commodities went up one-half of a per cent after seasonal adjustment, after a rise of three-tenths of a per cent in June.

The two-month decline in the overall index followed nine consecutive months of price increases. The last back-to-back decline in prices was a two-tenths of a per cent drop in January 1976 and a four-tenths drop the following month.

The July report was good news for administration economists, who are counting on inflation to slow a bit in the second half of the year. However, farm prices are volatile, and most other categories showed slight increases.

The price indexes for lumber and wood products and for machinery and equipment rose more than in June. Prices also turned up for metals, hides, skins and textiles after declines the previous month. Wholesale prices declined for chemicals, furniture and household goods after increasing in June.

The biggest contributor to a 1 per cent rise in metals prices was steel and aluminum purchases. Many industries bought steel before July anticipating the price increases announced by the steel industry.

Among farm products, hay, hay seeds and oilseeds dropped the most in July, falling in price by 25.8 per cent. Other big drops were shown by grains, 3.6 per cent; live poultry, 5.5 per cent, and fibers, 2 per cent.

Ticket Leads To Arrest

NEW YORK (AP) - A $35 ticket for parking too near a fire hydrant led police to a reclusive postal worker they said was "Son of Sam," the night stalker who killed six young persons and wounded seven with his .44-caliber revolver.

"I'm Son of Sam," police said David Berkowitz, 24, told them as he left his apartment building Wednesday night in suburban Yonkers.

"Okay, you've got me," officers said he added. He did not resist arrest.

"We have him," a police spokesman for First Deputy Police Commissioner James Taylor said today as police prepared to charge Berkowitz with the murder of Stacy Moskowitz, the killer's latest victim.

Authorities had waited for Berkowitz outside his apartment house on a back street in Yonkers, a city of 150,000 on the northern border of New York City. There, neighbors described Berkowitz as "a nice guy" who kept to himself.

Police said they seized two shotguns in his seventh-floor apartment and a .44-caliber Charter Arms Bulldog revolver Berkowitz was allegedly carrying on his person. Ballistics tests early today confirmed the revolver was the same one which was used in the killing of Miss Moskowitz, 20, police said.

Police said they also found several notes, one of which warned that Son of Sam would kill again.

Berkowitz told them he planned to

Tax Proposal May Result In Larger Cut

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The forthcoming reduction in the school tax rate probably will be greater than the original proposal of a 12 per cent cut, Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent of the Hereford Independent School District, announced today.

Holder said he plans to recommend the tax rate be set somewhere between $1.24 and $1.26 per $100 of assessed property value when the HISD board of trustees has its budget meeting Tuesday, Aug. 16.

A tax rate of $1.24 would mean a 15.06 per cent reduction from the current $1.46 rate. A 13.69 per cent reduction would result from a $1.26 tax rate.

"We're not down to the point of picking a new tax rate but it will be no more than $1.26 and no less than $1.24," Holder said.

The reduction will be the result of a $719,000 reduction in local fund school finance bill has caused the state to assume a greater proportional share of the minimum foundation program.

"The school district—the board of trustees and the administration—is concerned about the total economic condition of our area," Holder said. "All efforts are being made to grant as big a tax reduction as we possibly can."

Property is assessed at 60 per cent of market value. The owner of a $30,000 home currently pays about $263 in Hereford school taxes. With a tax rate of $1.24, the same home owner would pay about $223, if the market value of his home has not changed.

Chamber Schedules Meeting Tonight On Facility Issue

Representatives from civic clubs and organizations will meet with officials of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce to determine what Hereford needs in the way of a civic center at 7:30 p.m. today in the Community Center.

More than 120 letters recently were mailed to various civic organizations by the Chamber, inviting each group to have its president and one other representative at the meeting.

The civic organizations previously had been asked to send to the Chamber of Commerce their opinions on what type of facility would most benefit Hereford.

"A spokesman for the Chamber said tonight's meeting is strictly 'an informational meeting—we will try to explain to them what we have received from them as a whole about what they feel like is needed.'"

Mays, Green May Battle on Television

By BOB NIGH
Brand Sports Editor

On July 23 Hereford's James Mays, who is headed to Texas Tech University on a track scholarship, tasted defeat for the first time in a year in his specialty the 880. Mays clocked 1:56.6 in finishing second to Houston's James Green (1:56.4) in the finals of the Region IX AAU Track and Field Meet held at Gregory Portland near Corpus Christi.

The talented HHS graduate will get a chance for a reversal Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 13-14 when he and Green compete at the National AAU Junior Olympic Multipoint Championships at Lincoln, Nebraska.

"Losing to Green didn't bother me that much," Mays said of the runner whom he defeated in the State 4A finals last spring in Austin. "I just wanted to qualify and meet him at the showdown in Lincoln."

Added importance has been added to the national meet in the form of a television contract with NBC to televise some of the events over the two-day period. "I think the TV exposure will help me since I don't want my brothers to see me get beat," Mays said.

Besides the track and field events the Junior Olympics features national finals in sports such as synchronized swimming, diving, judo, gymnastics, trampoline, tumbling and wrestling. The TV exposure has been billed by the network as a "prelude to our exclusive 150-hour coverage of the 1980 Olympics from Moscow."

The future Tech star admitted that neither he nor Green was in "that good of shape" when they last met in Gregory Portland. "We were both really tired after that race," Mays said. "I had planned to work out more, but sometimes I would be tired after work and blow it off."

Conditioning will be a must for the competitors at Lincoln, but the Hereford product says that working out since school has ended is tough.

"I haven't been working out regularly. I just run when I want to and how I want to. Still, my first lap times since the state finals have been terrible, and I need to improve on that."

As far as a specific time he is shooting at in the finals Mays explained that a lack of knowledge of the field excluding Green pretty much makes it all even, and hard to set a goal.

"Age will be a big difference since a lot of the guys who did real well in high school will be too old for this meet. There may be a few surprises, though."

His strategy is not quite settled upon either. "I'm not sure how I'll run it. I may take the lead at the start or just hang back for awhile."

To most competitors a national meet would be cause for a lot of butterflies, but Mays seems almost unconcerned at the prospect.

"I'm not quite sure whether the state meet at Austin or this meet is the biggest I've ever been to," he said. "And, too, the meet at Mexico City (where he was part of a Texas team which competed against the Mexican National Junior Team) was big in that it was the first time

I was able to run against foreigners."

Still, he concedes the importance of the National AAU Meet. "This race gets a lot more attention than say the Mexico City thing," he said. "Especially with the television coverage."

And he has a personal reason for wanting to do well at Lincoln. "The day we come back (Monday August 15) will be my birthday, and I want to win because it'll be my last race before I turn 18."

"I have been wondering how the competition will be there, but it doesn't worry me any more than usual," he concluded. "You know you have to run and run well to win no matter where it's at."

Police Report

The Bell service station at 300 W. 1st reported Wednesday that somebody stole 11 used car tires either Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

Hereford police also investigated the theft of a portable television set and stereo from Manuela Montelongo, 811 S. Schley, between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 2 a.m. today.

Police investigated four traffic accidents, all minor, Wednesday. The accidents occurred at 1 p.m. at 610 Lawton, 4 p.m. at Lee and Third, 8:58 p.m. at 300 Ave. A and at 9:07 p.m. at the underpass at 365 and 60.

Carter Considers

Panama Canal Report

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter is getting a personal report from his negotiators on their historic agreement to relinquish control of the Panama Canal by the year 2000. The past crowns efforts for a new treaty that began with bloodshed 13 years ago.

U.S. Ambassadors Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker said they were returning from Panama today to meet with Carter.

The President, at the White House for his first full day of work after a five-day vacation in his hometown of Plains, Ga., will receive a copy of the treaty once the principles of the agreement are drafted into treaty language.

Queen Elizabeth Visits Ulster Today

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) Queen Elizabeth II landed by helicopter at the University of Ulster today less than an hour after Irish Republican Army guerrillas warned they had "breached security" at the campus and would make it a "day to remember."

Informed sources said the British monarch was told of the IRA threat aboard the royal yacht Britannia, anchored off the rocky County Antrim coast, but refused to cancel her eight-hour visit to the university, which was ringed by several thousand British troops.

Accompanied by her husband, Prince Philip, the queen boarded a helicopter on the guided missile destroyer Fife, the Britannia's naval escort, for her controversial two-day visit to troubled Northern Ireland, and flew to the campus at Coleraine, 45 miles north of here.

Energy Proposals May Cost Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) Power company representatives are telling Congress that the Carter administration's energy proposals could cost consumers an extra $60 billion.

The Senate Finance Committee, continuing hearings on the President's plan despite a congressional recess, is hearing today from the utility officials.

The $60-billion estimate comes from the Edison Electric Institute, an organization representing private, investor-owned utilities. The institute based its estimate on what it says companies would have to spend on coal-burning equipment, the taxes they would have to pay for continuing to use oil and natural gas and the cost of installing new types of meters.

Vance in Syria On Trip's Last Leg

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, concluding his latest Middle East peace mission, arrived here from Jordan today on the second leg of a fast-paced, one-day swing through Arab capitals to brief officials on his talks with Israeli leaders.

Vance set out his morning from Israel and flew 60 miles east to Amman, Jordan, to confer with King Hussein.

Bob Bullock Files on Hill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) State Comptroller Bob Bullock filed suit in the Texas Supreme Court Wednesday against Atty. Gen. John Hill seeking access to delinquent tax suits and accounts in Hill's files.

The petition for mandamus went immediately to members of the Supreme Court, who actually are in summer recess although several were in their offices Wednesday working on cases.

However, a court spokesman said he did not expect the court to act on the petitions until after Hill files his answer, which is expected Monday.

Bullock claimed he had filed two tabulated lists of delinquent sales and use tax accounts with Hill for action against delinquent taxpayers.

The comptroller claimed Hill refused to show him on Aug. 5 files that would indicate the progress being made in collecting the delinquent taxes.

"The files have no confidentiality status which would shield them from examination," Bullock said, adding that he "has no remedy other than a writ of mandamus to permit access to the files in question."

The petition filed Wednesday followed recent reports of a bitter personal argument recently in Hill's office between the two top state officials. Bullock reportedly flung an armload of computer lists on Hill's office couch in anger over Hill's alleged failure to file tax collection suits.

When Bullock left, according to some published accounts, he was so upset that instead of walking out the entrance door he mistakenly walked into Hill's office bathroom.

Bullock's petition said that his office was in the process of setting up a reorganized computerized and automated data base system to eliminate inefficient manual record keeping.

"Proper superintendence of the collection of money due the state requires that the status of the thousands of taxpayer accounts and changes in status as they occur be entered into the system so that current data with respect to each file can be retrieved from the data system promptly," the petition said.

Spanish Classes Set At WTSU

CANYON--Evening classes in elementary Spanish and advanced conversation and a graduate course in Southwestern United States Spanish dialects will be available at West Texas State University this fall.

This is the first time elementary Spanish has been offered at night, according to Dr. Maria Tarrab, head of the WTSU Modern Languages Department. The class also features a more flexible laboratory period, where students check out cassette tapes and players for practice at home.

"The approach of this class is conversation," Dr. Tarrab said. "We will talk and read about the Spanish culture and how it relates to language."

Dr. Tarrab will teach Elementary Spanish, Spanish 106, Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9:40 p.m. on the WTSU campus.

Latin American Culture, Spanish (S)306, is offered Thursday evenings for both undergraduate and graduate credit.

Students in this advanced conversation class will discuss geography, culture and customs of the Spanish people under the direction of Dr. Tarrab.

Dr. Mary Gill, also of the WTSU Modern Languages Department, will teach a new graduate class in Southwest Spanish on Mondays beginning at 5 p.m. She will look at the dialects of seven main groups of Hispanics in the Southwest.

Registration for these and other WTSU fall semester classes will be Aug. 26-27 in the WTSU Activities Center.

strike next in Suffolk County, on the far end of Long Island, police said. They said he told them he planned to use the submachine gun in a discotheque or night club.

Police said previously that the same .44-caliber gun had been used in all eight attacks by the Son of Sam. Five women and one man died, three men and four women were wounded.

Police said Berkowitz would be booked and arraigned today on charges of second-degree murder, attempted murder, assault and possession of a deadly weapon.

There was no immediate explanation on why the charge was second degree murder.

Those charges relate only to the latest shooting, in which Miss Moskowitz' date, Robert Violante, 20, was wounded. He remains hospitalized and may never see again.

The latest shooting was the only one in Brooklyn. The seven previous shootings were in Queens and the Bronx. Any charges related to those crimes would have to come from authorities in those two New York boroughs.

One of the detectives who arrested Berkowitz, John Longo, said, "We were just lucky we were there. We got the right assignment."

Police were led to Berkowitz by a ticket written for parking too near a fire hydrant. The ticket was issued the night Miss Moskowitz and Violante were shot, in the neighborhood of the shooting.

Police said they found a note addressed to them in Berkowitz' car. The contents of the note, printed in the same style used in earlier notes to the police and newspaper columnist Jimmy Breslin, were chilling.

"Because Craig is Craig
So must the streets
Be filled with Craig death
And huge drops of lead
Poured down upon her head
Until she was dead
Yet, the cats still come out at night to mate
And the sparrows still sing in the morning"

Police said Craig was a deputy sheriff in Westchester County, where Yonkers is located. They said he lived in the apartment below Berkowitz.

There were conflicting reports as to the origin of the name "Son of Sam."

Police said Berkowitz, whose mother is dead and whose father, Nat, reportedly lives in Miami, told them Son of Sam was a 6,000-year-old voice which had spoken to him over the years. They said he told them he communicated with Sam through a dog.

The ticket was issued to Berkowitz' car near Shore Road along the Brooklyn waterfront, where it was illegally parked, police said.

The connection between the ticket and the shootings of Miss Moskowitz and Violante came from a middle-aged woman walking her dog, police said. She apparently came face to face with the killer.

Police, who refuse to identify the witness, said the woman told them she saw officers ticket the car.

Moments later, a young man, came right up to her, five feet away, and looked right in her face, said that she was middle-aged, and turned and walked away. He carried a dark object in his right hand, said one detective.

The frightened woman ran home. "She was standing on her stoop unleashing her dog when she heard the shots and the squeal of a horn," said the detective.

The woman, afraid Son of Sam might stalk her, waited four days before contacting police. She told them about the traffic ticket, and police searched through all tickets issued in the early hours of July 31. It led them to Berkowitz. "The car is the key," a police spokesman said.

Rainfall

falling heavily shortly after 9, and we'll probably have a larger accumulation. We're really tickled to get this moisture," said Coleman.

Mrs. Eldred Brown reported that 1.50 inches of rain fell at her husband's farm at Westway this morning and an additional 1.50 inches fell in some scattered areas in that vicinity Wednesday.

Around the stateline area west of Hereford, correspondent Mrs. C.L. Hutchins reported from 1.7 to 1.9 inches of rainfall in "a five mile circle." She also said that 2.5 inches of moisture was recorded around Grady, N.M. "It's just great for the dryland wheat farmers," she exclaimed.

Rain continued to fall at a steady pace in that area this morning.

Mrs. Clint Homfeld reported a whopping 2.30 inches of rainfall at her husband's dryland farm, 47 miles northwest of Hereford this morning, with light rain continuing to fall.

A spokesman for Summerfield Fertilizer reported one inch of rainfall in that community.

To the south of Hereford, rain in excess of one inch was reported in the vicinity of the Charles Schlabs farm one mile south of Hereford, but the moisture tapered off to only .60 inches at the Easter Community.

Rainfall was also heavy north of the city, with 1.70 inches of moisture measured at this reporter's residence on the city's northern edge at 8 a.m.

The Raymond Schlabs farm five miles north of Hereford recorded 2.75 inches with more rain falling.

"We're doing some catching up for some of those rains we missed out on earlier this summer," said Mrs. Schlabs.

A spokesman for Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center reported 1.40 inches of rain. The H.L. Hershey farm 13 miles northeast of the city recorded 1.60 inches of moisture this morning.

"We've had a total of 2.50 inches over the past three days," Hershey related.

At the Dawn community to the east of Hereford, heavy rainfall was recorded. A spokesman for Dawn Co-Op reported that 2.50 inches of moisture was measured early this morning and added that heavy rain since that time should bring the total up to three inches.

Mrs. J.E. McCabe said that no measurement had been made at her husband's farm east of Dawn early this morning, but added, "The water is really standing around here and it has been raining heavily. It looks like we'll get a pretty good accumulation out of this storm."

Clouds conditions will continue into the evening, and the forecast lists the possibility of additional rainfall tonight.

'Big Three' Oppose Gas-Guzzler Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) The Big Three auto makers Wednesday opposed tougher taxes on gasoline-guzzling cars, contending any standards would be too rigid for them to follow and too much of a burden on families who need larger cars.

Representatives of General Motors, Chrysler and Ford told the Senate's tax-writing Finance Committee that current federal fuel efficiency standards are adequate incentives for them to adapt their cars to the goal of gas conservation.

The tax "will fall most heavily on middle or lower income families who rely on a single five-or-six-passenger car to fulfill their transportation needs," said Roger B. Smith, a vice president of General Motors.

The House has approved a series of escalating taxes on fuel-inefficient autos. The tax would begin with a minimum levy of $339 on 1979 model cars that get less than 15 miles to a gallon.

The auto makers said the tax could lead to reduced sales and the loss of 23,000 jobs by 1985.

Spokesmen for the Big Three said they preferred to stick with present federal laws which mandate an average of 21 miles per gallon for each manufacturer's fleet of models by 1981.

These standards are more flexible and realistic, they said.

The proposed gas guzzler tax would be imposed on individual models.

Ford Vice President Fred G. Secrest said the gas guzzler tax "attempts to ensure attainment of the fuel economy standards through a single set of numbers, developed years in advance and for the entire industry."

"Obviously such a program is too rigid to be well suited to the particular technical or consumer response problems that individual producers may face," Secrest said.

Meanwhile, the Federal Energy Administration said Tuesday consumers shouldn't be hurt if it lifts federal price controls on gasoline this fall. The FEA said the nation will have an ample supply of gasoline through 1979. It plans a series of public hearings before submitting a de-control program to Congress.

Congress, considering a Carter administration energy plan designed to cut consumption, would have 15 days to disapprove the decontrol plan.

Work on the President's energy plan continued before the Finance Committee despite a month-long congressional recess.

The sun's energy is equivalent to a million million megaton atom bombs each second.

Scribbles AND Scratches

By KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor

WE WERE PLEASANTLY surprised recently when we witnessed a new hit motion picture and were able to sit through the entire movie without being eaten by a merciless predator, having our ears singed by raw language or our eyes dilated by nudity on the screen.

The movie is "Star Wars" and it, in this viewer's eye, was one of the few movies in recent years that was worth the admission price of $3 per head. Although it has been labeled as comic book material, "SW" deserves an accolade for its marvelous special effects and sheer entertainment value.

The film, which is turning the arch villain Darth Vader into a T-shirt bonanza, is a welcome return to the genre of white knights, pure heroines and the force of good conquering evil.

Set in "a faraway place a long, long time ago," Star Wars provides an imaginative twist by populating its modern fantasy land with a memorable cast of creatures, including charming robots (who steal the show), admirably attractive humans and a motley assortment of exquisite varmint.

The black-shrouded Darth Vader leads a delightfully-evil band of tyrants who are determined to overthrow the rebel forces, whose fate depends on a noble group of young crusaders. At the helm for our heroes is O-B-1 Kenobi, who wields The Force (of good) with such wizardry, that he is a solid anchor amidst the whirling excitement of "Star Wars."

NOT SO IMPRESSIVE was "Roller Coaster," a dreary tale of extortion, murder and one man pitted against the money mongers of this world. Featuring sensurround, the movie has a very simple, but noisy plot: an ingenious maniac (with the face of Beaver Cleaver's older brother) threatens to sabotage the world's largest roller coasters if he is not handed a cool million dollars.

The movie succeeds in making cops look dumb, and could plant an ominous seed in some twist mind. All in all, the crux of the movie is "he that lives by the roller coaster, dies by the roller coaster."

A garage sale will be held this weekend at Hereford Satellite Center on Labor Camp Road (Archer St.) for the purpose of raising money for the Center's clients, who plan a trip to Oklahoma City.

The sale will be open from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Sunday.

The public is encouraged to attend by Satellite Center officials.

Convenience Important for Aged

COLLEGE STATION--In bedroom arrangements for the elderly, convenience and comfort are the rule, says Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

It is essential that large, easy-to-open windows offer pleasant views from chair and bed and that good, no-glare lighting is available.

Light switches within reach of the bedside, and outlets at least two feet off the floor, save exertion and stooping.

For privacy, separate the bed from the living and cooking quarters--and a partitioned-off bed could go unmade at the convenience of the resident.

In addition to bed and chair, a nightstand is essential. The stand, or table, on lockable casters, would provide additional space for personal belongings such as medicines.

In some places along the coasts of the United States, the ground water table has been so depleted that sea water has seeped in and left wells useless for drinking or irrigation.

Placed in Office

The women who will serve as officers of Hereford Newcomers Club this year are, from left, Margaret McClelland, president; Sharon Maxwell, first vice

Teen Dance Scheduled Saturday

A teen dance, featuring the live music of "taxi" will be held Saturday night at the Community Center for all junior and senior high and college students.

Admission for the dance, which will begin at 9 p.m., will cost $3 per person and $5 per couple.

Newcomers Install Officers

Hereford Newcomers Club installed a new slate of officers Tuesday at Cason's Steak House.

Margaret McClelland will serve as president. She will be assisted by Sharon Maxwell, first vice president; Kay Lucas, second vice; Linda Kirkpatrick, secretary; Vicki Blake, treasurer; and Shirley Hazlett, advisor.

Jane White conducted the installation. Guests present at the luncheon were Pat Stephens, Joyd Josephson, Brenda Campbell, Susan Lindsey, Carolyn Canan, Leona Carruth, Gracie Canner, Dee Pratt, Tina McKingern and Linda Longenecker. A special visitor was a former member, Kay Arnett of Clovis, N.M.

Other than those mentioned,

It's okay for girls to take the initiative in dating now, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. A girl may approach a boy for a date although, says the specialist, she will probably choose one she feels will not reject her.

In Japan, the average household subscribes to two daily newspapers.

other members present were Susie Short, Bertha Dettman, Tommie Savage, Olivia Denning, Star Christie, Sue Barrett, Kendra Plummer, Patti Brock and Priscilla Power.

Ann Landers

Embarrassed Daughter

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a healthy, normal, 16-year-old high school girl with a problem I have never seen mentioned in your column before. It's my mother-but not the usual mother-daughter stuff. Hear this:

Mom never finished high school. She has decided to go back-in September. With ME. She thinks it's neat to be going to school during the day instead of at night like most older people who want to get a diploma.

I'm dreading the next year something awful. If Mom is in any of my classes I will just die. Can you imagine what it would be like to have your own mother sitting there with all your friends, trying to be one of the gang?

I've tried to talk her out of it but she says, "You ought to be proud of me." Well, I'm not proud, I am dying inside. Tell me how to handle this. I need to get my head ready...Off The Wall In Washington

DEAR OFF: Some daughters would not mind if their mothers decided to go to school with them, but since you do I think it's too bad she didn't respect your feelings. Stuck is stuck, honey, so be a good sport. This, too, shall pass. In fact, you might look back at the whole thing in a few years as a hilarious episode.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Here's a work of encouragement for that minister who was feeling guilty because he went ahead and performed the marriage ceremony for a couple he didn't think would make it.

It seems the groom got cold feet at the last minute--he wanted to back out but the bride and her family raised such a fuss he reluctantly agreed to go ahead and marry her. It was the minister's wife who wrote about his "guilty conscience" and asked other clergymen to express themselves. This letter is for her.

DEAR WOMAN: Please tell your husband's conscience to shut up. No minister is so wise he can predict which marriages will succeed and which will fail. Only God knows that.

The couple's final decision was to get married and your husband carried out their request. In no way is he responsible if they later regret the decision and the marriage breaks up. Sign me--Forty-Two Years A Presbyterian Pastor, A. Taylor Dunlap-Tukwila, Wash.

DEAR REV.: Thanks for the day brightener. I agree with you completely--and so did about 400 other clergymen of all faiths.

DEAR ANN: I've got to write this before I cool down and chicken out. Twice in the past two weeks our 17-year-old son's friends have come to our door looking for a place to sleep because their own parents locked them out.

Two of the boys are brothers. Their parents are well-to-do. The kids have had all the things money can buy and no guidance. The other boy doesn't get along with his dad. His mother told him to stay away "for your own good" because "if your father finds you here he might do something terrible." (I don't believe it. She just doesn't want to be bothered with him.)

Am I doing the right thing by giving these boys shelter? Some people say no...Everybody's Mom

DEAR MOM: I say yes. To turn them away would be cruel. I hope you suggest counseling for the boys. It's a cinch their parents won't get it--and these kids need some understanding of what goes on in their lives.

The cornerstone of the Treasury Building in Washington supposedly contains a lock of hair from President Jackson's granddaughter, Mary Donelson, who was born in the White House.

Skills, Social Life Improved by HD Work

New residents in Deaf Smith County are finding that home demonstration clubs offer one solution for meeting other community residents with similar interests—and learning at the same time.

A total of 226 women in Deaf Smith County are members of home demonstration clubs—which meet each month to learn the latest home economics information, develop leadership skills and expand social ties. Throughout the county, community clubs design and carry out a number of projects each year and serve as county service clubs, sponsoring projects to benefit other residents, including 4-H and other youth.

For members, home demonstration clubs mean money-saving information—with various members reporting individual savings from $600-$1,000 last year.

Much of the savings stemmed from information and "know how" they gained in home repairs, furniture refinishing, food preservation, homeseewing or improving their family-financial plan.

Better family relationships were also reported as items that do not have a price tag.

Home demonstration club membership is open to everyone, regardless of sex, race, color, or creed and the time it takes amounts to about two or four hours a month.

For more information about membership in current club or

Country Squire Theatre Relocates at Villa Inn

Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo will open its fall season Oct. 4 in a new permanent home at 1-40 and Grand.

The dinner-theater has leased the 21,000 foot space previously occupied by Convention Center in the Western wing of Villa Inn and is converting the area into a Manor Hall theater and dining facility especially planned for providing evenings of stage entertainment and gourmet dining.

The new Country Squire home will feature a Country English Manor motif. The tiered seating will provide space for 430 diners. This is an increase from the 256 seating arrangement at Country Squire's present location at Hilton Inn.

In addition to the large theater-dining area of Manor Hall, Country Squire will have the Library and Hunt Room—two areas that will make available spaces for special group entertainments, committee meetings and conventions.

Dining and luncheon services will be offered if desired.

Opening the Country Squire's fall season—and new home—on Oct. 4 will be the hit comedy "No Sex Please, We're British."

"Country Squire Dinner Theatre celebrated its first anniversary this past July," said Peter Fox Jr., president and executive director of the dinner-theater, "and all of us connected with the theater are pleased and proud that residents of all of this wide Southwestern area have given such great support and encouragement that this expansion and a new permanent home seems justified."

Last of the 'fat cats'

By Martha Angell and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sworn testimony in a recently resolved court case provides new evidence of organized labor's audacity in circumventing the law designed to eliminate the influence of large contributions in campaigns for federal office.

The civil suit, filed by the Republican National Committee in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., alleged that the Communications Workers of America (CWA) abused its privilege to mail political literature at the Postal Service's low-cost "bulk rate."

An out-of-court agreement settled the dispute before a trial had been scheduled, but pre-trial depositions produced some unusually candid testimony from Mikel K. Miller, chief political operative for the CWA, whose members include more than 500,000 telephone company employees.

Questioned under oath, Miller acknowledged that during last autumn's presidential campaign he had "in the neighborhood of maybe a dozen" telephone conversations with Landon Butler, political director of Jimmy Carter's campaign organization.

"The bulk of the conversations," said Miller, "dealt with the kinds of activities that we were doing and communicating with our members on behalf of the presidential campaign in terms of, you know, the materials we were sending out, the kinds of material we were planning to send out."

He also described what occurred "when we decided in late September, early October, to produce a brochure and produce a letter from CWA President Glenn E. Watts to all active and retired union members, urging them to vote for Carter."

To get an accurate reflection of Carter's position, explained Miller, the union relied on a letter the candidate had sent to Watts and on "transcriptions of two conversations of two speeches, if you want to put it that way, from Jimmy Carter to the CWA at our conventions in '75 and '76. We excerpted heavily from those two speeches or conversations."

The Federal Election Commission, in implementing campaign finance reform legislation of recent years, has allowed labor unions to spend unlimited funds "to make partisan communications in connection with federal elections to members and their families."

But the commission's rigid rules require that "the material constitutes a communication of the view of... the labor organization" and cannot be "simply the republication or reproduction of any broadcast transcript or tape, or any written, graphic or other form of campaign materials prepared by the candidate or campaign committee."

Despite that restriction, the Republican lawsuit turned up one case where CWA local 2223 in the Washington suburbs mailed out 1,500 copies of a Carter leaflet specifically identified as having been paid for by the local Democratic organization.

In other cases, Miller's testimony makes clear that although the CWA did not technically violate the federal regulations, its extensive promotion of Carter's candidacy was the product of close coordination with the official campaign organization, not a truly independent expression of support.

That assistance was crucial because, with the exception of unions communicating with their members and stockholders, no individuals or organizations were allowed to contribute anything to assist the two major party presidential candidates. (All of their funds came from the federal treasury.)

The CWA found a loophole in that law and spent more than $100,000 — including $67,527 for letters from Watts to all members and $25,439 worth of free advertising in the union's monthly newspaper — in a questionable political operation which made the union little more than an extension of the Carter campaign organization.

Scores of other unions operated with similar impunity, making them the last of the "fat cats" in an era when large political contributions have been widely recognized as a corrupting, unhealthy influence on the electoral process.

B.J. Cutler

Blackmail insurance

By B.J. Cutler

Almost four years after the start of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo, the federal government finally has begun to fill its strategic oil reserve, designed to insure the nation against any future embargo.

While the move should have been made long ago, it is still good news. Every barrel of oil that this country places in its storage program makes it that much better prepared to resist economic or political blackmail by the oil exporters.

The program got under way with 412,000 barrels of crude pumped into a salt mine near Lake Charles, La. More salt domes, which do not allow oil to seep out, will be filled along the Gulf Coast and elsewhere in the country.

Current plans call for 250 million barrels in storage by the end of 1978, 500 million in 1980 and one billion by 1985. The latter figure equals about one-half a year's supply of oil imports and would permit the U.S. economy to withstand a quite lengthy embargo.

And because the country soon will be in position to cope with an embargo or supply interruption, this makes such an occurrence less likely. In short, Washington is on the way to regaining control over its own diplomacy and will not have to be so deferential to the oil cartels in the Mideast and elsewhere.

Because the country is in the process of defusing the embargo threat doesn't mean, however, that it is solving its energy crisis. It still is sending abroad more than $40 billion a year to pay for cartel-priced imported crude.

This hemorrhage, which weakens the economy, will be slowed only when domestic oil production is increased. Unfortunately, the Carter administration insists on keeping crude oil under a complicated system of price controls and refuses to offer adequate incentives to expand supplies.

Counterattack on crime

By Don Oakley

It's getting harder and harder to make a dishonest living in some cities, thanks to the growing use of police decoy teams.

As the name suggests, one member of such a team poses as an easy crime target — a tottering derelict, for example, or a harmless old lady.

The rest of the team follows behind, ready to pounce on any mugger, purse-snatcher or rapist lured by the apparently helpless victim.

And pounce they have. In New York City, which pioneered the concept in 1971, the police department's 250-member "street crime unit" has made 20,000 arrests, most of them on felony charges, and 90 per cent of the arrests have resulted in convictions.

Other cities have begun taking up the idea. And while it is too early to say there is any connection, it is interesting to note that the FBI reports violent crimes decreased by five per cent last year, after having tripled over the previous 15 years.

Somewhat surprising is that judges are not throwing out decoy team arrests on the grounds that they constitute illegal entrapment.

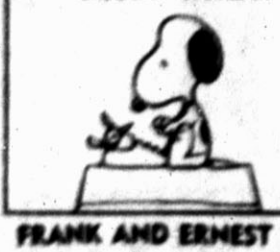

Maybe the courts are on the people's side after all, and exercise more common sense than we have given them credit for.

Wheat Association Calls For Realistic Set-Aside

Winston Wilson, President of the Texas Wheat Producers Association told over 40 county directors and members of the organization at a mid-summer meeting at the Hilton Inn, Amarillo, August 2, that "hard earned gains made for producers in legislation as the new farm bill has been developed over the past several months could be lost unless close liaison is maintained with administration officials as provisions of the bill are implemented."

Wilson said that few of the provisions in the bill are what the organization wanted but that they represent the best that could be obtained at this time and are far better than those originally recommended by the Carter Administration in February. He attributes the improvements to the strong continuous organized effort by wheat producers through their state and national organizations and a unity of efforts by the several commodity groups and farm organizations.

Wilson said the directors reviewed statistics which point to a three billion bushel U.S. wheat supply on hand and projections of domestic and export use during the marketing year of only one billion eight hundred million bushels leaving a carryover next June 1 of one billion, two hundred million bushels or a hundred million bushels more than that carried into this marketing year on June 1, 1977.

"For this season the association will be working with Administration in an effort to get an announcement of realistic set-aside acreage program which will be effective in reducing supplies to a level of expected need plus some reduction which will be effective in reducing supplies to a level of expected need plus some reduction in surplus stocks," Wilson said.

"The biggest gain for Texas producers over what was earlier touted by the administration is the agreement to raise in Target Prices from $2.47 now in effect to $2.90 for the 1977 crop. Wilson said, "We regret that this payment isn't on total wheat produced, but since the 1973 farm law prevents such payments except on allotted acres, we got Congress to do the next best thing and that is raise the payment on those acres which will mean about $37 million in the 34-county commercial wheat area between Wichita Falls and the upper Panhandle to be paid in November. Farmers who grazed out their wheat, had it blown out by high winds and erosion will also be eligible for their share of such target price payments as will individuals who may have already placed their wheat in the government loan or sold for cash at time of delivery."

Wilson said the increase in target price to $3.00 for 1978 would be of little value to many Texas producers if the level of payment limitations had not been raised to $40,000 with escalator clauses for increases in future years up to $55,000.

"The new levels of target prices and loan rates are not adequate to assure producers a return of their cost of production," Wilson said, "but if the program is properly administered under provision provided by the Congress but left to the market place higher than these protective level which will negate them and all cost to the taxpayer while enhancing producer income."

The Association will be striving for these goals," he said. The association officers named a nominating committee for selection of future officers and a resolution committee to prepare policies for consideration by the membership at the annual meeting of the Association and set that session for November 10, at the Hilton Inn in Amarillo.

The Texas Wheat Producers Association is voluntarily funded by producers and associate membership of related agribusiness firms for the specific purpose of legislative and administrative liaison which may "get the best deals possible" for wheat producers.

Veigel Appointed As New Seed Dealer Here

LUBBOCK: Bobby Veigel of Veigel Grain in Hereford has been appointed as seed dealer for Hunt Seed Company, and will now have a complete line of McNair and Hunt sorghum, cotton, corn, and forage seed available for growers in the Deaf Smith County area.

In announcing the selection of Veigel Grain as a dealer, Eddie Timmons district sales manager in the Deaf Smith County area, stated, "We are very fortunate to have Veigel representing us in Deaf Smith County. His addition of McNair and Hunt seed to his present line of farm chemicals fertilizers, and other farm supplies will provide local farmers an opportunity to get top quality supplies all at one stop. Once growers plant part of their crop in McNair varieties they will appreciate having this new dealership available.

McNair and Hunt Seed Company have one of the largest seed research programs

Witkowski Elected To Wheat Post

Long-time wheat leader, C.L. Edwards of Panhandle, was elected Chairman of the nine-man Texas Wheat Producers Board at its regular quarterly meeting August 3 at the Hilton Inn in Amarillo. Edwards replaces Dwight Hamilton of Olney who had completed a maximum two year stint in the post. Other officers elected were Delbert Timmons of Perryton as Vice Chairman and Leo Witkowski of Hereford as Secretary-Treasurer. The Board elects officers annually and terms are limited to two years in any one office.

Even though wheat board and commission supported export development programs continue to cause export markets to trend upward, they are down from the high levels of immediate past years. In an effort to overcome this the board took several actions, which if endorsed by boards and commissions in a joint wheat-state leadership meeting August 15-16 in Wichita, Kansas, may strengthen export U.S. wheat sales efforts and lead toward stronger market prices, according to Edwards.

The board voted favorably for the establishment of a wheat information center for all types and classes of U.S. wheat at Manhattan, Kansas which would be joint-funded by all wheat producing states for use in trade team training programs for foreign users, buyers, government officials and others involved in foreign trade decisions affecting Texas and U.S. wheat.

Also in order to effect efficiencies in world-wide export expansion efforts the board voted to work toward the merger of the two regional producer-supported organizations—Western Wheat Association—now responsible for programs in Asia and Great Plains Wheat, Inc.—currently conducting such work in Europe, Latin America, Africa, and the Middle East. Over 90 per cent of Texas wheat is produced for export and prices paid to farmers are directly related to the level of export sales of the lack of them, the Board pointed out.

The Texas Wheat Producers Board is funded by individual wheat producers through 1/2 cent per bushel self assessment on deliveries of wheat to county elevators. Export development programs such as hosting trade teams, conducting international trade seminars for groups from grain-deficient nations, etc., have pushed U.S. wheat exports up from 600 million bushels annually when the Board was established in 1971 to over 900 million bushels this past year—a 50 per cent increase in six years.

"If we can be successful in getting export trade policies and domestic farm programs administered in such a way as to bring the U.S. wheat production in line with world income for our Texas producers," Edwards said.

The next regular meeting of the board will be November 9, prior to the annual meeting of the Texas Wheat Producers Association November 10, at the Hilton Inn in Amarillo.

Target Prices Upped For Grain Sorghum

LUBBOCK—Grain sorghum producers can expect an increase in grain sorghum target prices (guarantee of the average price received by producers) for their 1977 crop if the President approves the new farm bill, according to GSPA President, A.W. Anthony, Jr., of Friona, Tex.

The target price will be raised from $2.85 cwt to $4.02 cwt, an increase of $1.13 cwt; in 1978 the increase will be $1.31 cwt, bringing the target price up to $4.20 cwt.

Although corn producers will not see as big a boost as sorghum producers, there will be an increase of 53 cents cwt. for 1977 and 71 cents cwt. for 1978, raising target levels from $3.04 cwt. to $3.57 for 1977 and $3.75 for 1978.

The new farm bill will base target prices on the cost of production instead of the previous 95 per cent of the nutritional value of corn, raising the target levels for grain sorghum by an additional 63 cwt.

Sorghum loan levels will remain at 95 per cent of corn of $3.39 cwt. for 1977 and for 1978. In 1978 and thereafter, support prices and payments will be made on the planted acre for that year instead of the obsolete allotment system based on historical plantings.

Anthony said, "The increase in grain sorghum target prices and new allotment system is a giant step for grain sorghum farmers. The progress that has been made is a direct result of GSPA's initiating the USDA cost of production studies in 1973 and in 1975 starting work to update allotments. There is still a lot of work to do and we do not claim the levels to be totally satisfactory, but we think farmers will receive some relief with these increases."

Watson, Five Others Have Clubs Rejected

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Tom Watson was using a different set of clubs today in his quest for a third major tournament title this year - the 59th PGA Championship.

Watson has won five 1977 tournaments, including the Masters and British Open, with a set of clubs declared illegal Wednesday because the grooves in the irons exceeded legal limits in width and spacing. He had voluntarily asked that they be inspected.

Watson and Ray Floyd and Gary Player, who also had several clubs disqualified, were among a handful of players in the field of 141 who had requested a ruling on their clubs by Clyde Mangum, deputy commissioner of the PGA tour, on the eve of the PGA Championship at the drought-stricken Pebble Beach Golf Links.

After the initial publicity, other players brought their bags to Mangum for an inspection and he found that at last five others were carrying clubs that did not meet the specifications. Those players included Tom Weiskopf and Kermit Zarley, with illegal pitching wedges, and nine-irons and John Lister and Floyd Thompson, each with several illegal clubs.

Mangum said the interest of the players was generated as a result of George Burns being disqualified after the second round a week ago at Hartford, Conn., after he had requested an official inspection of new clubs he was using. They were found to exceed the legal limits.

Mangum said the rules permit grooves to be no wider than 35-1,000ths of an inch across the entire groove and to be no closer together than three times the width.

"It's the nature of the sport that the players police themselves," said Mangum, who also noted that Watson had a similar set of clubs ruled illegal a year ago in Houston after requesting an inspection.

Officials said Watson's previous victories would not be affected by the ruling.

Watson is using the same clubs with which he won the 1975 British Open, ones which have lighter shafts than the irons declared illegal.

His main regret is that the sand wedge in the set he has been using for the last 14 months also was considered to have grooves too deep.

"I can always get a set of irons," he said. "But the sand wedge I'm using is not mine to keep. I borrowed one from Leonard Thompson."

Watson said he didn't think the lighter shafts would affect his play.

"It will be a little different feel," he said. "I hope that I can adjust to it. I'm swinging well. When you're playing well, you can play with a broomstick."

Watson, who earlier this year won the Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach is a co-favorite along with Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner on this course over the years, in the tournament which is being played over the 6,806-yard, par-72 course.

The tournament will be nationally televised on ABC from 5:30 p.m.-7 p.m. EDT Saturday and from 4:30 p.m.-7 p.m. Sunday with highlights shown at 11:30 p.m. Friday.

Nevada-Las Vegas led in three major departments in team play in the 1976-77 college basketball season. It was tops in scoring with an average of 107.1, winning margin at 19.4, and free throw percentage at .782.

Local Drivers Make Moves

AMARILLO - A pair of Hereford drivers, Jim Culpepper and Wayne McCullar, moved up the late-model standings for the second half of the season in Saturday's Southwest Speedway action.

Culpepper, finishing second in the main event and semi, moved past defending champion Don Burt of Amarillo into second place with 795 points, 80 behind pace-setting Ron Glover of Amarillo. Burt, who broke a hand during a mishap in Saturday's main event, is third with 770 points.

McCullar, placing third in the main event and fifth in the semi, jumped from 10th to sixth place with 275 points. James Davis, also of Hereford, is eighth with 260 points.

Borger's Jerry Elrod owns the modified-stock lead with a 410-345 points edge over second-place Barry Weaver of Amarillo while Sunray's Mike Thomas remains atop the street-stock standings by an 18-point margin (101-83) over Borger's Ely Young.

Auto-racing action will resume at 8 p.m. Saturday at the asphalt track at NE 24th and Folsom Road. The feature attraction will be the 35-lap Texas Short Track Street Stock Championship while regular programs are scheduled in the late-model and modified-stock categories.

Women Bowlers To Meet

The Hereford Women's Bowling Association will conduct an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 17 in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room it has been announced.

The association will encompass the local area much as the men's association does, and will be the sanctioning body for all leagues.

"We need at least 100 women in the association to form it," David Pope, manager of Bowling's Bowl said. "The WIBC (Women's International Bowling Congress) is much stricter than the men's."

Tornado Gets New General Manager

DALLAS (AP) - Fred Hoster, instrumental in developing the Southern Methodist University soccer program, will replace flamboyant Dick Berg as general manager of the Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League, Tornado officials have announced.

Hoster, 38, was named to the post Wednesday. Berg, who lured fans to the Tornado games with zany promotions has announced that he will be going to another, unidentified NASL team in August.

Hoster has been the executive vice president of the Mustang Club for five years and heads the organization's fund raising activities. Last year, his efforts helped produce a record $300,000 in contributions to the school's athletic program.

"Fred is the man who can take us through out next phase of development," said Tornado Director Lamar Hunt.

"I've got a marketing and business background," said Hoster. "I'm sure I'll do some things differently than Dick. I'm more business oriented but I believe I have the respect of the business community and this is the group we are trying to get on board."

White, Dorsett Boost Poke Hopes

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Where the Dallas Cowboys brass is concerned, the difference between having Tony Dorsett and Danny White in camp is the difference between a toothy grin and a gentle sigh.

Both men are expected to play an integral part in the Pokes' drive toward another Super Bowl berth and the coaches couldn't be happier with the prospect.

Dorsett, the million dollar baby of Heisman Trophy fame, is expected to challenge Preston Pearson for a co-starting slot in the backfield sometime this year.

The affable White - a sterling performance last Saturday notwithstanding - appears to know his playing time will probably be determined by the durability of first string quarterback Roger Staubach.

But White knows he's loved. And he's apparently content with his fate for the time being.

"He's a great guy to work with on or off the field," White says of Staubach. "I told him playing ping pong the other day he reminded me of my father. I hope he wasn't offended by that."

White's words, while they might be taken tongue in cheek, mean just what he said.

Staubach reminds him of his father and the friendly competition they apparently enjoy.

The teasing comes when White points out the difference between his age and Staubach's - 10 years.

"I tease him everyday," White said. "Hey Roger, you're 35 years, three months and two days. And counting. That's an assignment I've taken over to remind Roger every day that he's getting old."

White admits he's "still learning" his job and has few illusions about benching Staubach anytime soon. Still, his 1977 debut against the Chargers last Saturday that included two touchdowns passes must be regarded as a promise of good things to come.

And one day, maybe when Staubach has joined the retired Lee Roy Jordan behind a desk somewhere, White will stroll into the locker and hear reserve signal callers like Glenn Carano or Steve DeBerg remind him, "Hey Danny, you're 35, three months and..."

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - Gary Schmidt, 18, of Cincinnati won the teenage roller skating championship Wednesday night in the 40th U.S. Amateur Roller Skating Championships.

Schmidt outskated 24 other skaters from 20 states in the junior men's singles for skaters over 15.

The tournament, with 2,000 skaters competing for 75 titles, will continue through Saturday. Rusty Wyrick of Mansfield, Ohio, finished second and John Commeau of Redwood City, Calif., took third.

The Big Eight Conference was the number one league in the NFL 1977 draft of college players. It contributed 41 players.

If The Shoe Fits

Now Greg, this shoe goes on your left foot since the other one's already occupied! Assistant football coach Aaron Bourland helped Herd co-captain Greg Brockman fit his shoes at the fieldhouse Wednesday afternoon. The senior standout was one of many varsity hopefuls who reported in to receive the footwear as the football season draws near. The gridgers were welcomed by a new look in the dressing room as remodeling by the coaching staff was near completion. [Brand Staff photo by Bob Nigh].

'Big Cat' King of Fairway Drivers

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - The "Golden Bear" may be the undisputed king of tournament golf, but the envy of every duffer who tees the ball up with his weekend foursome is a man called "Big Cat."

Jack Nicklaus wins championships. Evan "Big Cat" Williams simply knocks the ball out of sight. He is recognized Babe Ruth of the fairway set, winner for the second straight year of the PGA long-driving contest.

"I just relax, delay my hand release, give it some strong leg action and wham! - let 'er rip," says the towering, 29-year-old slugger from Leonia, N.J.

Even such famed hitters as Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Jim Dent look with awe - and a certain amount of concealed jealousy - when Big Cat throws his 6-foot-6, 205-pound frame into a tee shot and watches the ball fly more than 300 yards.

Ordinary mortals recognize that stringing up 63 tour victories and 16 major titles, as Nicklaus has done, defied their imagination. But anyone can walk up to a tee, and with one free swing and some luck, knock the cover off the ball. It warms the soul.

"I've been hitting the ball a long way since I was 18, but it wasn't until three years ago that I discovered that I might make a career out of long driving," Williams said.

"There was this exhibition driving contest at Grossinger's up in the Catskills in New York. I heard that Jim Dent was in it.

He's recognized as the longest driver on the pro tour. And also Jack DePaolo of Valhalla, N.Y., who some swear is the longest hitter in the world.

"I beat them both. I drove the ball 368 yards on the carry. The fairway was wet. The ball spun

Lambert Moving

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Pittsburgh Steelers middle linebacker Jack Lambert says he is moving from Pittsburgh because he has been unable to reach a contract settlement with the National Football League team.

"Frankly, I'm very disappointed and thoroughly discouraged. I am in the process of packing my belongings and will be leaving Pittsburgh," Lambert said Wednesday.

In a telephone interview from Texas, Lambert's agent Bucky Woy said he has negotiated several times with the team owners since Lambert first asked to be traded about 10 days ago, "but nothing is any better."

He said the 25-year-old All-Pro is determined not to play his option year for his $33,000 salary.

Woy said that although Lambert asked to be traded, no other teams have proposed a deal to the Steelers.

Matty Alou set a club record for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1969 by going to bat 698 times.

back five yards, so I got credit for 363 yards.

"Since then I've entered contests and been in demand for exhibitions. Winning the driving championship in the last two PGA tournaments hasn't hurt my reputation any."

Big Cat's winning shot Tuesday scored 353 yards, 24 inches, counting the roll over the baked fairway - 46 yards farther than his first prize effort at Congressional in Washington, D.C., last year.

Golf Digest Magazine, which promotes the contest and keeps a record of such things, says the longest drive on record was made by an Englishman - E.C. Bliss - in 1913. Hitting from a 57-foot elevated tee in Kent, England, Bliss propelled the ball 445 yards.

The Guinness Book of Records lists as a competitive record the measured 431-yard shot by Craig Wood in the 1933 British Open at St. Andrews. Those distances were recorded before modern watering systems were used on the fairways.

Mix together two of baseball's best pitchers in Boston's Fenway Park and most the time Fenway Park will emerge as the winner.

"When the wind is blowing out like tonight, you see some crazy things happen here," Boston Manger Don Zimmer said Wednesday night.

The only thing which didn't seem out of the ordinary in the Red Sox' 11-10 victory over the California Angels was Boston's victory. It was the Red Sox' 11th straight win, the longest in the American League this season, and extended Boston's longest winning streak since 1950.

The game, which had been billed as a pitching duel between California southpaw Frank Tanana and Boston ace Louis Tiant, was anything but that.

Both pitchers had entered the game without surrendering a run in their last 16 innings of work, but both were hit hard. Tanana gave up five runs in as many innings, while Tiant was battered for six runs on 10 hits in five innings plus.

In other American League action, Cleveland defeated Chicago 6-1, Detroit beat Milwaukee 5-3, Kansas City nipped Texas 4-3, Baltimore edged Seattle 5-4, New York whipped Oakland 6-3.

Indians 6, Sox 1
Wayne Garland fired a five hitter for his fifth consecutive complete game as Cleveland defeated Chicago to snap a six-game losing streak.

Garland, who struck out two and walked three, continually forced the White Sox to hit the ball on the ground. First baseman Andre Thornton recorded 16 putouts, while the Indians' outfield handed only four fly balls.

Cleveland scored its runs in the first five innings, as Thornton, Bill Melton, Paul Dade, and Fred Kendall delivered run-scoring hits.

Tigers 5, Brewers 3
Jack Morris recorded his first major league victory and RonLeFlore and rookie Steve Kemp combined to drive in five runs as Detroit defeated Milwaukee for the third time in four days.

Morris, making his fourth appearance and third start, gave up 10 hits and three runs in 72-3 innings before being relieved by Steve Foucault, who gained his eighth save.

Von Joshua went 5-for-5 with two singles, a pair of doubles, and his sixth homer of the season, while scoring twice for the Brewers.

Royals 4, Rangers 3
Frank White's two-out two-run single off shortstop Bert Campaneris' glove in the fourth inning produced the go-ahead runs as Kansas City won for the sixth time in its last eight games.

Dennis Leonard, 12-9, picked up his third consecutive victory with relief help from Larry Gura, who earned his eighth save.

Texas starter Gaylord Perry struck out 13 as the Rangers had a three-game winning streak snapped.

Orioles 5, Mariners 3
Ken Singleton smacked a three-run homer and Elliot Maddox blasted his first home run of the season with one man runner aboard as Baltimore won its third straight game to remain in second-place 2 1/2 games behind Boston in the American League East.

Lee Stanton and Carlos Lopez homered for Seattle in a game which was delayed one hour and 40 minutes at the start and for another 19 minutes in the eighth inning.

Yankees 6, A's 3

Cliff Johnson's two-run double keyed a five-run first inning as the New York handed Oakland pitching ace Vida Blue the earliest knockout of his career and sent the A's to their 12th consecutive loss.

Craig Nettles walloped his 26th homer of the season in the second inning in support of Ron Guidry's ninth victory in 15 decisions.

Blue lasted just one-third of an inning.

In 1944, when the major league baseball schedule was 154 games, Babe Dahlgren of the Pittsburgh Pirates got into 158 games.

In 1956, Roberto Clemente, then a young star with the Pittsburgh Pirates, went through an entire season drawing only 13 walks.

In 1935, Floyd Young of the Pittsburgh Pirates struck out five times in one game.

In 1962, Tony Bartolome of the Pittsburgh Pirates played in 142 games without once grounding into a double play.

In 1959, Elroy Face, the crack Pittsburgh Pirate reliever, had a record of 18-1 for a percentage of .947.

ABA to Determine Advertising Extent

CHICAGO (AP) - The American Bar Association is wrestling with an issue some praise as consumers' bonanza and others see as a Pandora's box of deception and fraud - advertising by lawyers.

The ABA's 360-member House of Delegates was scheduled to debate and vote today on proposals aimed at guiding the nation's 400,000 attorneys on what forms of advertising it deems appropriate.

The ABA's final recommendation is not binding on any state bar association or court, but the association's Code of Professional Responsibility in the past has often carried the weight of law.

It was a 70-year-old ABA prescribed ban on virtually all advertising by lawyers that the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional last June.

Deciding a test case from Arizona, a majority of the justices ruled that the ban violated lawyers' freedom of speech. But the court left up to the states and legal profession how to guard against abuses.

ABA leaders have studied two proposals for ad guidelines.
Earlier this week the official message was sent out from the Board of Governors - vote for the more specific, more restrictive proposal.

The endorsed proposals authorizes some types of ads while banning others. The proposal which did not win the board's endorsement, and which will not be introduced today unless a delegate challenges the board's decision, would have allowed most ads not "false, fraudulent, misleading or deceptive and self-laudatory."

An ad telling prospective clients, "We've got the best service in town at the cheapest rates," clearly would not please the organization that fought to severely limit all advertising.
The proposal applies only to the print media and radio. Spokesmen for union and consumer groups earlier this week criticized both ABA proposals as
"mean-spirited and chilling."

Much of the criticism centered on the ban of television commercials.

"The problem of advertising on television requires special consideration, due to the style, cost and transitory nature of such media," the board-backed

Nationals Work Overtime

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

"Marathon Man" was playing in the National League. The baseball game, not the movie. There was plenty of extracurricular activity in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and San Diego Wednesday night, resulting in the following overtime for ballplayers and fans:

--In Philadelphia, the Phillies and Montreal Expos played for nearly 10 hours before completing a rain-drenched, two-night doubleheader that ended with 6-1, 6-1 sweep for the home team.

--In Pittsburgh, the Pirates struggled for nearly five hours before subduing the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 18 innings.

--And in San Diego, the Padres swept the Atlanta Braves, but not before playing an 11-inning game in the night-cap. The scores were 8-6 and 2-1 and the time was nearly six hours.

"It was the longest rain delay I ever sat through," said Larry Christenson of the Phillies, who pitched a two-hitter in the opener. "I didn't think we'd ever start again."

There were two rain delays in the opener - at the start, when the game was held up by an hour and three minutes, and in the third inning, when the contest was halted for two hours and 27 minutes.

Christenson didn't know it, but umpire John Kibler was three minutes away from calling the game. Kibler had told the Phillies' vice president, Bill Giles, "I'll give it five minutes more and if it doesn't stop, I'll call the game." Two minutes later, the rain stopped.

The doubleheader took nine hours and 48 minutes to play, winding up at 3:30 a.m., EDT.

In Pittsburgh, only one game was scheduled, but the teams eventually managed to play a doubleheader, anyway.

Ed Ott, who spent 4½ hours watching from the bullpen, finally ended it with a pinch-hit sacrifice fly in the 18th inning.

"We had to finish it sometime, didn't we?" Ott said. "I was out there in the bullpen for 17 innings, and we had a lot of fun. A lot of fans were hollering, 'I've got to get up at 5 o'clock. Please finish it.'"

In other National League action, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Cincinnati Reds 1-0; the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the New York Mets 3-1 and the Houston Astros tripped the San Francisco Giants 8-6.

The Phillies bunched five singles in a four-run, fourth-inning rally that wiped out a 1-0 Expos lead in the opener. With one out, Garry Maddox, Tim McCarver and Ted Sizemore singled for one run. Christenson faked a bunt and punched a single for a second, another came across on an infield out, and Larry Bowa singled in the fourth.

Bake McBride's two-run homer in the sixth provided the Phillies with their final runs of the opener.

Greg Luzinski socked a pair of two-run homers to help the Phillies take the nightcap. The doubleheader sweep made it seven straight victories for the red-hot Phillies, who now lead the National League East by 2½ games over the Chicago Cubs, and are 3½ ahead of third-place Pittsburgh.

Pirates 2, Cubs 1

Ott's winning fly ball for Pittsburgh came off relief pitcher Pete Broberg, 1-1, and scored Phil Garner.

Garner walked with one out and took third on a single by Dave Parker before Bill Robinson was walked intentionally to load the bases. The winning was scored well ahead of the throw to the plate by Jerry Morales, who caught Ott's fly in medium center.

The victory went to Larry Demery, 4-3, who came on to open the 18th inning.

Broberg entered the game in the 17th inning after Willie Hernandez and Paul Reuschel had combined for 11 innings of scoreless relief. Prior to Demery, Pirate relievers Grant Jackson, Kent Tekulve and Rich Gossage had checked the Cubs for nine innings.

The game's last four hours and 56 minutes and 36 players were used.

Ott also beat the Cubs Monday night 7-6 with a ninth-inning triple.

Padres 8-2, Braves 6-1

Rookie Mike Champion and Dave Winfield combined to drive in five runs and help Randy Jones win his first game since May 19 as San Diego beat Atlanta in the first game of their doubleheader.

Jones, last year's National League Cy Young Award winner, continued his comeback bid from arm problems by working 52-3 innings and allowing three runs on six hits before departing with a 4-3 lead.

Gene Tenace's bases-loaded walk in the bottom of the 11th gave the Padres their victory in the second game.

Dodgers 1, Reds 0

Rick Rhoden allowed only two hits - both by Dave Concepcion - and Los Angeles scored an unearned run in the third inning to defeat Cincinnati. The victory raised the Dodgers' lead in the National League West to 12½ games over the Reds.

"There were some brilliant plays behind me," said Rhoden, crediting the Dodger defense as much as his pitching for the shutout. "I've gone into the eighth inning four or five times with shutouts this year and let them get away. This one was very satisfying."

Cardinals 3, Mets 1

Roger Freed's two-run homer in the second inning and the combined five-hit pitching of Tom Underwood and Butch Metzger carried St. Louis over New York. The seldom-used Freed hit his homer off Craig Swan, 7-7, after Ted Simmons had opened the inning with an infield hit.

Astros 8, Giants 6

Cesar Cedeño singled, doubled and blasted a two-run homer to power Houston over San Francisco. Cedeño's first-inning double led to a run in the first inning, he lashed a two-run homer in the fifth and his single in the ninth helped the Astros score their final run.

Willie McCovey had his 20th homer of the season for the Giants, a two-run blast in the fifth off winner J.R. Richard.

SWC Clubs Open Practice

DALLAS—Southwest Conference football teams opened fall practice this week, facing one of the toughest non-conference schedules in the SWC's 63 years of operation.

Included on the nine school schedules are five of last season's top ten teams and 12 bowl selections, headed by second-ranked Southern Cal and third-ranked Michigan.

Defending co-champion Houston and Baylor began fall training Tuesday, with the other seven reported today.

The 24 non-conference opponents on the 1977 schedule posted a combined record of 174-129-7 last season for a winning percentage of .573 and, with the exception of the SWC-sponsored Cotton Bowl and the Sugar Bowl, participated in every other NCAA post-season bowl contest.

Other top ten finishers from '76 to challenge SWC teams this fall are Oklahoma, rated fifth last year, Ohio State, the sixth-ranked team, and Nebraska, which ended its season ranked seventh. Other bowl participants include Oklahoma State, Tulsa, Kentucky, UCLA, Penn State and Florida.

Baylor coach Grant Teaff

welcomed back a league-low ten starters Tuesday as Baylor began preparations for a schedule which includes a home game with Peach Bowl winner Kentucky and a road test against Astro-Bluebonnet victor Nebraska. Biggest shoes to fill will include those of quarterback Mark Jackson and versatile All-America defensive back Gary Green.

Defending SWC co-champion and Cotton Bowl winner Houston lost only four starters on both offense and defense, but two of those were All-SWC offensive tackle Val Belcher and All-America defensive tackle Wilson Whitley. However, the starting backfield of QB Danny Davis and running backs Alois Blackwell and Dyrall Thomas returns intact as the Cougars set their sights on non-loop tilts against a pair of '76 bowl teams, UCLA and Penn State. The UH-UCLA game will be nationally televised the night of Monday, Sept. 12.

Arkansas, under new coach Lou Holtz, also gets its share of last year's top finishers as the Razorbacks host Tangerine Bowl winner Oklahoma State and Independence Bowl loser Tulsa on successive Saturdays in September. A league-high 43 lettermen return to help open the Holtz era.

Two other head coaches are nearing their first fall in the SWC—Texas' Fred Akers and TCU's F.A. Dry.

A total of 12 returning starters, including a healthy Earl Campbell, will help usher in the I-formation to the Texas offensive attack in time for non-conference games against Oklahoma, Virginia and Boston College. Oklahoma won the '76 Fiesta Bowl after settling for a tie against Texas early in the season, while the Virginia game will mark that team's initial appearance against a SWC representative.

TCU's version of the "Dry Look" will feature one thing that hasn't changed—a tough non-conference schedule. Among the Frogs' opponents in '77 will be Rose Bowl champion Southern California and Miami, which holds an all-time winning edge over the SWC. But Dry will see the return of 42 lettermen and 16 starters as a plus for the new campaign.

Besides Houston, the Southwest Conference sent both co-champion Texas Tech and Texas A&M on to post-season bowl games in '76 and both squads return veteran units. The Raiders, defending SWC co-champs, return 16 starters and 42 lettermen. Peach Bowl participant North Carolina highlights Tech's non-conference schedule.

The Aggies, sporting a seven-game win streak, lost 12 starters off last season's Sun Bowl champions and eight of those were from the nationally-ranked defensive unit so coach

Emory Ballard faces a big task there filling in for the likes of All-America Robert Jackson, Tank Marshall and Jimmy Dean. And he'll have to do it quickly as the Aggies travel to Ann Arbor on October 1 for a nationally-televised tilt with powerful Michigan.

SMU continues a rebuilding program under second-year coach Ron Meyer, who finds 16 starters and 37 lettermen back from last season, including all but two defensive players. Meyers' first order of business will be to find a quarterback to replace Ricky Wesson in time for the Mustangs' initial encounter, an SWC clash with TCU Sept. 10. Then three weeks later (Oct. 1), SMU has a date in Dallas with Ohio State.

First-time opponents are on the regular-season schedules of five conference teams this fall as Arkansas hosts New Mexico State, Idaho is at Rice, Houston battles UCLA, Texas goes against Virginia and Tech plays at North Carolina. The Raiders and Tar Heels have met once before in post-season competition. Against all 24 of the non-league foes, the SWC stands 345-279-35, for an all-time winning percentage of .550.

Baylor and Arkansas each have seven home games this season, the Razorbacks playing four of theirs in Little Rock and three in Fayetteville. Texas A&M has six road games, including five in a row following the season opener Sept. 10 at College Station against Kansas. The Aggies travel to Virginia Tech, Texas Tech, Michigan, take a week off, then go to Baylor and Rice before playing at home against SMU on October 9.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) - Shortly after a State Board of Accounts audit cleared A.J. "Ted" Stoffeth of any wrongdoing, he resigned as manager of Roberts Municipal Stadium here.

His resignation takes effect Sept. 1. Stoffeth, 72, said Wednesday he had postponed his retirement until after the audit.

The controversy began last April when a rodeo promoter said he was required to make double payments totalling more than $1,900 to rent the 12,000 seat-city-owned facility.

STROMSTAD, Sweden (AP) - Olympic champion John Albrechtson of Sweden took the first of six races in the world Tempest sailing championships off this Swedish west coast town Wednesday.

West Germany had six entries in the top ten with Falk Greveunnerup and Peter Ringmaier sixth followed by, in order, Heiko Krick, Sepp Aigner, Sepp Hoess and Peter Twelmeyer.

We still have a need for listings in the $25,000 - $35,000 range. Let us come out and give you a professional market analysis on your home. No obligation.
