"The enemy operating October 29 in the direction of Gatchevo bombarded our positions at Nemina and Danja, then attacked, but were repulsed. Our counter-attack with the bayonet forced the enemy to fall back, leaving three officers and about 300 men on the field. The enemy delivered another attack on our positions in the evening, but were again forced to retire with heavy loss. Nothing of importance has occurred on the remainder of the front."

RUSSIAN LEFT FLANK CHECKED

Said To Have Been Driven Back
From Strong Fortifications By Austrian Forces

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Nov. 2.—Official reports from the western front show little change in the situation in Northern France and in Belgium, but events in Poland would appear to be shaping themselves for a renewal of the fighting between the main forces of Russia and the Austro-German allies. The Austrians and Germans have completed their retirement to the new positions previously selected by them. When the vanguards of the Russians who were following came into touch with this new line there were several encounters in which the Russians were driven off.

The Austrians in Southern Galicia have succeeded in crushing back the Russian left flank which for several days had been making a desperate stand in carefully prepared positions between Turka and Sambor. The Russians employed the pause in the fighting after the Austrian retirement from this region to entrench themselves; they built strong field fortifications which were made more difficult of access by the broken nature of the country. Consequently it was a hard task to eject them. The Austrians claim a complete victory and report that the enemy was driven from all its positions.

The Austrians also report further successes in Bukovina. They have retained their hold on Czernowitz against a Russian attack and they have defeated Russian forces to the north of Kuty.

German's Attack Said To Have Fail-

Rheims

By Associated Press.
Paris, Nov. 2.—The French official announcement today says:

"On our left wing the German offensive continued yesterday with the same violence in Belgium and in the north of France, particularly between Dixmude and Lys. In this region, in spite of attacks and counter-attacks on the part of the Germans, we made slight progress on almost the entire front excepting at the village of Messines, a part of which was again lost by the allied troops. The enemy undertook an important movement against the suburbs of Arras; this resulted in failure as did other movements against Libons and Leques in Oy-Et-Santerre."

"On the center in the region of the Aisne, we made slight progress in the direction of Tracy-le-val to the north of the forest Aigue as well as at certain points on the right bank of the Aisne between this forest and Soissons. At Amont-de-Vailly an attack directed against those of our troops who are in possession of the heights of the right bank of the Aisne resulted in failure. The same outcome attended several night attacks delivered in the heights of the heights between the Argonne and the Meuse and on the heights of the Meuse. There was noticed yesterday a resumption of activity on the part of the enemy's heavy artillery. The bombardment of these pieces, however, did not show any appreciable result."

"On our right wing an offensive movement of reconnaissance by the enemy at Noyon was repulsed. In the Vosges, in addition to the fact that we had dominated Mount St. Marie we have made progress in the region of Haudesart, where we occupy the positions from the artillery of the enemy has been bombarding the town of St. Die."

CHICAGO PACKERIES UNDER QUARANTINE

SHIPMENTS OF LIVE STOCK ARE ORDERED STOPPED BY GOVERNMENT

RECENT SPREAD OF DISEASE

Order Comes at Time When Plants
Are Flooded With Orders
From Abroad

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The government quarantine at the stockyards was modified late today to permit the receipt and slaughter of hogs, cattle and sheep in this market. The effect of this is to place the situation where it was Saturday.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The Union stock yards, largest in the world, and the State of Illinois as well, were quarantined against the shipment of cattle, hogs and sheep on orders from Washington today on account of the hoof and mouth disease according to a statement made by Dr. S. E. Bennett, chief of the local branch of the United States bureau of animal industry.

"This means the practical cessation of the meat packing business at the yards for the time being," said Dr. Bennett. "It is thought the quarantine will last at least a month. The extent of the catastrophe to the trade, it is believed, may be estimated by the business done at the stockyards, with its ramifications in other industries, in the neighborhood of $15,000,000 per day."

"Although the big packers will be able to shift some of their work orders for times to plants in other cities, the supply is bound to fall far below requirements. It was stated Saturday that all plants were overwhelmed with European orders and some of the contracts might be subject to so-called independent firms. The live stock market took the tightening of the quarantine in nervous fashion. The bulk of the trades had been made before rumors of the order were confirmed, but with confirmation prices for cattle and sheep dropped sharply for the moment, but as sharply recovered. Hogs which had sold five to ten cents under Saturday prices advanced to a level fifteen to twenty cents higher than the previous close. F. W. White, director of Armour & Company, said there might be a flurry in the price of dressed meats, but he said other packing centers would be able to care for the situation and no material shortage was feared."

So far present indications go, the yards at Kansas City, Omaha, St. Paul, St. Joseph and other places will be able to care for much of the business shut out from Chicago.

TURKISH AMBASSADOR TO ENGLAND GIVEN PASSPORTS

War Not Yet Declared, However—
Allies Seem To Be Gaining
In West Flanders

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 2.—The Turkish Ambassador to Great Britain Tewfik Pasha today was handed his passports.

Although four days have passed since Turkish warships used their guns in the North Sea, neither Russia nor Great Britain up to noon today as far as was learned in London, have taken the offensive or declared war. The British press greets the situation as having reached a stage permitting no about-face by the government of the Sultan. Thus Germany and Austria at least have acquired their first ally, barring the rebellion of the Boers in South Africa and the area of the fighting after ninety days of hostilities has spread over the borders of Asia into Egypt.

Along the battle line from the Swiss frontier to the Belgian coast there has been no important change in territory for the last fortnight although there have been slow advances of the allies' extreme left in West Flanders. Reports seem to agree that tide of this section is flowing against the Germans, but is felt in London that it will take some time to decide whether they must abandon their attempt to reach Calais. The retreat had not set in today although the allies were reported as within a short walk of Ostend, the taking of which was hailed in Berlin only a few days ago as a stroke of first importance.

The fighting south of Ostend apparently waged throughout Sunday. Sluis was disturbed all day by the thunder of guns while from the battle front German wounded moved back in the direction of Bruges. The allies' gains near the coast line indicate how valuable have been the services of the warships. The Germans also have been hampered by the inundation of their trenches through the cutting of the dykes in the low country. This inundation is expected to make it exceedingly difficult for the Germans to move their heavy guns should a general retirement become necessary.

The British press admits that the cruisers Goeben and Breslau are a serious menace as Russia has nothing to compare with them in speed and equipment. As to the huge Turkish army the opinion is expressed there that it will not be an efficient fighting machine under modern conditions which require the latest type of arms.

Concerning the threatened campaign in Egypt England feels that Lord Kitchener is just the man to meet the situation for no European perhaps has a better knowledge of the country than he. Turkey, it is argued, will endeavor to accomplish three things. First, the invasion of Egypt; second, the blockading of the Suez canal, and third the stirring up of a fa holy war among 70,000,000 Mohammedans in India as well as among those religionists in Egypt.

The week is likely to see the crystallization of the sentiment in Italy and the Balkan states as regards Turkey's entrance into the conflict. Italy, England thinss, is at the cross roads, and is hesitating. German papers announce officially that all the coast of Asiatic Turkey has been mined, thus spreading to the east the danger which is confronting shipping in the west.

EVIL EFFECTS OF BORROWED TROUBLE

REV. C. C. SMITH DELIVERS SERMON ON THIS THEME SUNDAY

DAVID'S EXPERIENCE CITED

Pastor Shows That Christianity Teaches To Look More on Bright Side of Things

A sermon somewhat out of the ordinary was delivered Sunday morning at the First M. E. Church by Rev. C. C. Smith, the subject being "Crossing Bridges." In it the pastor showed the wrongfulness of borrowing trouble and indulging in gloomy forebodings. His text was from I. Samuel 27:1, "I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul."

"We have often heard the old adage which advises us not to cross a bridge before we come to it. Much of the worry of today is borrowed from tomorrow and no wise lens tomorrow's troubles when tomorrow becomes today. Trouble borrowed from the future is superfluous and there is need of emphasizing this old adage that we may conserve our energies for the needful demands upon us and still more that we may know the religious significance which is of no mean importance and which demands consideration if we as Christian people are to come to the well balanced life. Some one may say, 'why such a subject for a sermon?' The answer is that God calls us to the well rounded life and not to a one-sided development, and it is our duty and privilege to discipline ourselves along all lines which will tend to make us more nearly what we should be. There are some outstanding principles in religion which are very naturally commanding our attention but we must not overlook other important even if lesser considerations. Hence the need for a sermon subject like the above.

The text which is a spontaneous expression of borrowed trouble which was agitating the soul of David will afford us a starting point. David the shepherd lad from the hill country of Bethlehem, had been called to God and directed to the court of King Saul. Saul recognized in him a young man of unusual worth and except when a fit of passion was upon Saul, David was treated with great consideration. Finally it came to be obvious to the King that David rather than his own son, Jonathan would be his successor and this aroused all the devils in Saul and he set about to kill David. David fled from the court and for several years lived as an outlaw chieftain pursued almost constantly by Saul either in person or through his soldiers but always escaping. Jehovah was with David and therefore success attended his efforts. But in the face of all his experience and the many times that Jehovah had delivered him David sometimes grew despondent. During such a spell of depression he repeated the words of the text, 'I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul.'

David's Despondency. David was borrowing trouble. Just at this time he was in comparative security with a trained band of warriors six hundred strong who would fight to the death for him. He was not without friends throughout the kingdom. He had acquired great skill by experience and had hitherto been quite uniformly successful. But nevertheless he grew despondent and borrowed trouble. True enough, he had much to contend with but he did not help matters by losing faith in the Jehovah who had delivered him in all dire straits before and by turning his eyes upon the dark side of matters only. It would seem rather strange that he should thus forget the experiences of former years so easily and that one whose faith had held so firmly through many difficult times should now waver before this ordeal which was no greater than many which he had faced calmly but David was after all quite human and like all men he was given to falling sometimes when we least expect it. He let go of himself and of God in this hour of despondency and indulged in some very pessimistic conjectures which doubtless had a depressing effect upon all who heard. It is quite natural to borrow trouble. We may say that it is human nature. But because it is natural is no reason that it is a good thing for us to borrow trouble.

Human nature yields to culture and it is our chief business here on the earth to culture our human nature. The tendency in man to do this thing shows a weakness which he is morally obligated to correct. It is contrary to our best interests and is contrary to our best religious development. The stronger and more practical our faith becomes the less will we be inclined to borrow trouble. We should learn to think of faith as a very practical and usable means of securing power and should apply it in the common place things of life.

Forethought Is Different. "It is important that we should make a distinction between forethought and borrowing trouble. What ever else Christianity may lead to it no where suggests that one should leave good common sense by the way side. The Creator has endowed us with certain instincts and senses and has prompted us to exercise them by the way of forethought. It is very unfortunate that for so many years a mistranslation of Scripture has had firm hold upon popular thought and has induced many people to conclude that Christ taught literally that we should take no thought for tomorrow.

Christ never said that we should take no thought for tomorrow and the spirit of all his teaching is directly to the contrary. He taught us to take much thought concerning tomorrow by the way of judicious forethought and his teaching is in line with our better instincts. What he did say was that we should be not over anxious for tomorrow. That is to say that Christ taught us not to borrow trouble from tomorrow. Christianity does not teach a blind, unthinking trust in the name of faith. It teaches a trust founded on revelation and experience. Christianity fosters investigation and wise planning for future contingencies and delivers reason from bondage. Forethought is essential to well balanced living and is in no sense contradictory to faith and in no sense a detriment to religious development. "As a matter of every day fact we will find that ill health has much to do with this phase of life. The chances are that David was troubled with indigestion or had a bad liver or something of the sort at this particular time. At any rate he talked a great deal like we do when we are under the influence of such bodily conditions. We allow ourselves to become creatures of physical conditions sometimes and often the shortest way out of our dependency is to call the doctor and if possible get our physical condition straightened up. Some people have remedious ups and downs in their religious life and very often these variations in spiritual temperatures will run coincident with health conditions. It may sound somewhat strange but there is fact in it when we say that our dependencies have little foundation other than disordered physical condition.

The Best Remedy. There is a direct relation therefore between some people's liver and their faith. Of course our religious conviction should be superior to all this but I am speaking of things as they are and not as they should be. What is the best way out of this sort of dependency which induces us to borrow trouble? It becomes a sort of disease with some, running an equally prescribed course and increasing in severity until it is a serious condition. One may easily become a chronic crouch and if there is any one unfit to live in society here on the earth and presumably too unfit for the hereafter it is the one who is afflicted with this thing. It is always headed toward destruction and is surely coming to a bad end. What is the way out? The best remedy is to get into the light. When David got out of the cave and got into action his courage revived. When we quit moping and get into action we always feel better. Exercise not only quickens the body but it enlivens the soul as well. We may avert the anticipated contingency of trouble or we may round it off so that God can do more for the person who is in the battle than for the one who is despondent and moping. David found the way out of his difficulty. He took to the field in aggressive campaigns and the dilemma which he anticipated never occurred. So with us sometimes. We sit idly by and say, the enemy will surely conquer. We do not wish that the enemy conquer, why not show ourselves into the fight and see to it that the victory goes our way. The fighter is likely to be an optimist. We should single out the difficulties as they come and meet them one at a time. If we try to deal with our problems in lump sums we are likely to despair but if we meet them one at a time we can put in end to them after a while. We must not forget that in the past we have won. God led us to victory. We have all the same God who delights in seeing us win. Why may we not also expect victory in the conflict at hand? It will strengthen our faith; sometimes we look back over the past and see how God has helped his children to win victories in days gone by. Strong rational faith in God helps us to meet the difficulties that arise more than any thing else. David might well have said, Jehovah has given me victory often and has delivered me this far and I believe in this case he will still lead to victory. We may say truthfully that so long as we have trusted in him he has not failed us. He has not offered us to be moved and there are in this case we shall not be moved. With this sort of faith a

Impaired Efficiency. "This question has therefore distinct moral qualities. The trouble-borrower loses the joy of living in God's good world. He wears colored glasses and sees all beauty, discolored. If we have under a conviction of impending gloom we can not be joyous as God intends us to be. And furthermore our efficiency is impaired. If we persistently borrow trouble, we can not work with zeal; if we feel that everything is coming out wrong, we have no incentive, no enthusiasm. We carry an atmosphere of defeat about with us, and consequently, people hold aloof from us. We exercise a distrust in God which continues to grow upon us until faith is destroyed. It is evident therefore that we should know in whom we have believed and into whose hands we have committed our leadership. If God be for us we are more than all that can be against us."

Mr. Haley who had not been feeling well, became seriously ill Thursday. Late Saturday it was decided to operate upon him as a last expedient and he was brought to Wichita Falls arriving here early Sunday morning. He died before the operation was performed.

Mr. Haley had been at Electra three years and was one of the best known men in that field. He was whole souled and big hearted and no "cold timer" in hard luck ever went away without his help. He was fifty-three years of age, being born at East Liverpool, Ohio. He began work in the oil field at an early age, working in the Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Texas, Louisiana and California fields. He came here from Shreveport about three years ago. He leaves a widow, mother, five sisters and three brothers. A brother, James Haley, is now en route from East Liverpool, Ohio. The funeral will take place at nine o'clock Tuesday morning at the Catholic church. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery here. Mr. Haley had requested that he be buried here.

MISS MARTIN ENTERTAINS WITH MASQUE SATURDAY

Miss Laura Martin was hostess to a number of friends Saturday evening with a very delightful celebration, of the night when ghosts are popularly supposed to stalk abroad. The guests on arriving at the Martin home were met at the door by Judge and Mrs.
Martin and ushered into the large reception room in the meantime being admonished to remain silent on pain of severe penalty. When all had assembled the identity of each masker was guessed and a prize awarded for the best guesses and also the best disguise. This prize, a box of home made donuts, went to Mrs. Jack Shelton, who was disguised as Martha Washington. Other disguises were the over-popular ghost and witches, clowns, negro maids, children and college students and a whole tribe of Indians who gave war dances and whoops for the company. A popular phase of the entertainment provided by the enterprising hostess was the masquerade, presided over by Miss Boone, where fortunes, made to order, were to be had on request. Instrumental music was furnished by Miss Manning of Bellevue, house guest of the hostess, and vocal music by Philete Martin was also much enjoyed. The rooms were decorated in a color scheme of yellow and black, pumpkins and black cats grinning from all points of vantage and the Halloween idea was predominant. The color scheme was carried out in the refreshment course of pimento sandwiches, tied with yellow and black ribbons, hot chocolate and pumpkin pie.
The guests on this occasion were Misses Carver, Rich, Wilkes, Jones, Peery, Bullard, Smith, Rosedale, Barwise,
Manning and Walker of Bellevue;
Messrs. Kuehne, Eddleman, Hein,
Gant, Maricle, Crowell, Heyser, Philete

Saturday evening the girls of the Entre Nous Club entertained with a phantom party at the home of Miss Mary Leith Tevis. As each phantom entered a number was planned on and a guessing contest as to the identity of spook was engaged in before the unmasking. Misses Ramie, Pardo and Gussie Ritchie tied in this contest, the prize a jack o' lantern, going to Miss Pardo in the draw. A fortune telling cave with a witch presiding was the center of attraction for some time and other games and contests were enjoyed. The usual Halloween decorations were to be observed throughout the house,
the lights being shaded with pumpkin faces and fantastic cats and witches. On the newel post of the stairs in the rear, don hall a large pumpkin was placed, while over it stood a ghost with a sur, keeping guard. Misses Dolly Gage and Sadie Tevis garded as ghosts, served delicious hot chocolate with sandwiches, pickles and cake. The girls and their guests present were:

L. Fontaine entertained the younger crowd for her sons and daughter, Miss Phoebe Campbell, Cherry Campbell

in the nature of a sheet and pillow case masquerade, the guessing of the identity of each ghostly guest affording amusement for some time. Guessing contests were instituted, one to guess the title of various songs, the prizes being won by Miss Sammons and Mr. Arnold. Another contest was

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years'

Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

"I tried every kind of medicine,
but none did me any good.
I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together."

"My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

"Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble,
such as headache, backache, sideache,
sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?"

"If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century."

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

MISS RITCHIE AND JENKS ENTERTAIN SATURDAY EVENING

Saturday evening Miss Jenks and Miss Ritchie entertained a few friends informally with a Halloween "stunt party" at the College of Music and Art. The usual decorations of black cats, witches and jack o' lanterns were very much in evidence, a color scheme of black and yellow being carried out. The refreshments were in the prevailing colors and in keeping with the Halloween motif. Prof. Solomon Wisniewski was the guest of honor at the affair, his presence lending much "dignity" to the occasion. The guests were compelled to kiss the Blarney Stone blindfolded and to do many other stunts, including the formation of an observation party. The hostesses proved themselves to be very novel and agreeable entertainers.

MISS KEMP PLEASANT HALLOWEEN HOSTESS

Numbered among the many delightful festivities which marked the celebration of Halloween was the ghost party given Saturday evening
by Miss Jewell Kemp. The guests appeared masked and on their arrival were given broomsticks for steaks and proceeded on their charge to the back of the house, where they were led to the attic by a pair of witches. Here ghost stories and witch tales were told for some time and the party, at the command of the witches, started on a journey down stairs. On their way down they were met by several hobgoblins who attempted to frighten the guests by the "ghosts" danced around in weird capers. An old fashioned Victorian costume was next in order, the guests choosing their partners for the reel and for the entire evening. After the figures of the dance were somewhat worn, the dancers unmasked and proceeded to the basement and bobbed apples and snatched raisins
from their fire and observed other Halloween customs. After some time at these sports dancing was enjoyed.

the drawing room and other rooms

harmony with the Halloween season with pumpkins, witches, black cats,
and such fables. The dining table was decked with jack o' lanterns and ghostly favors and punch was served from a large pumpkin. A salad plate with ginger bread and punch was served at a late hour. A potato race and other games were played on the front porch, the entire evening being spent in an informal fellowship. About fifty guests enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Kemp on this occasion.

MISS GENEVIEVE CARVER HOSTESS SATURDAY EVENING

Miss Genevieve Carver was among the charming hostesses of Halloween entertaining Saturday evening and choosing as the expression of her hospitality a cafeteria "souper et dancer." The handsome Carver residence was beautifully decorated in a manner characteristic of the season, with witches, black cats and pumpkins every where, with streamers of black and yellow ribbon and crepe paper festooned from lights, the whole being designed to give an exceedingly unique effect. The height of decorative beauty was reached in the din-

Go to the polls tomorrow and vote the Democratic ticket straight. That's our advice to the Democrats who participated in the July Democratic primary. One proof of a Democrat is voting the ticket straight, and while we know that at times it almost takes the hide off to do this, yet there is hardly anything else that is honorable and upright to do. Either vote the ticket straight, or save your honor by refraining from voting at all.

Just watch the election returns. If a majority of the people of these United States are dissatisfied with Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic administration, they will have an opportunity to express their sentiments in this matter in tomorrow's election when a new congress is to be elected. The Democrats are expecting that their present large majority in the House of Representatives will be greatly reduced—perhaps to less than one-half what it is now. The reason for the present large Democratic majority in the lower is that in the election in 1912 the Republican party was divided the larger half of it voting the Bull Moose or Progressive ticket headed by Ex-President Roosevelt. But now the political situation is different. The Republican party is getting back on its feet and perhaps three-fourths of those who voted the Bull Moose ticket in 1912 will go back to their first love and vote the Republican ticket in 1914. This ought to give them the opportunity of electing many of their candidates for congress to seats that have been filled for the past two years by Democrats, but the Republicans can hardly hope, even with this advantage to wipe out entirely the Democratic majority in congress.

The first shipment of 10,000 head of Texas horses for French cavalry mounts went forward from Fort Worth the other day, at an increase of $15 a head over the prices paid by the British government earlier in the war, and a big market is being afforded for about the only class of horses whose values were injuriously affected by the automobile—the light carriage and buggy type. American mules, thousands of which were sold during the Boer war, do not seem in demand by the belligerents, possibly because of the auto trucks having taken their place in the army make-up. But millions of dollars worth of American horses will find a ready market if the war continues for long, and another branch of the livestock industry will receive a rejuvenating impetus that was being so badly needed—Denton Record and Chronicle.

From this and many other incidents, it would seem that so long as there is war in Europe the demand for horses will grow, and what is more, the greater the demand is, the better the price will be. A year from today, horses that are now bringing only about $100 per head on an average will find ready sale at $150 per head. And that means that the greater portion of our best horses will be shipped to Europe. Therefore, stock raisers can prepare to breed more horses. There is hardly one chance in a thousand that the horse market will ever be glutted again, at least for five or six years.

DEMOCRATS LIKELY TO RETAIN CONTROL

ARE EXPECTED TO LOSE SOME SEATS IN CONGRESS, HOWEVER

MAY MAKE GAINS IN SENATE

In Doubtful States Much Depends Upon Attitude of Bull Mooseers Tomorrow

(New York Sun)
A Democratic congress by a safe margin in both houses—about 43 majority in the house and at least 12 majority in the senate.

These are the results of the house and senate elections, indicated by reports from the Sun's correspondents and from other reliable sources.

The Democratic plurality of the present house is 167. The Democrats therefore seem to stand to lose about 16 seats.

The Bull Moose strength in the present house is likely to be reduced from 18 to seven.

The present Democratic majority in the senate is 10. The Sun's reports indicate that this will be increased to 12 and it may go considerably higher.

The indications are that the Democrats will control the next house of representatives, but by a decidedly reduced majority. Reports from the Sun's correspondents the country over and other information from reliable quarters point to the conclusion that the Democrats will have a margin of about 43 over the Republicans in the next house.

The Democratic plurality in the present house is 163 or 167 if four vacancies caused by the retirement of Democrats are included. These returns indicate a loss of 36 seats by the Democrats and a further gain by the Republicans of 11 seats from the Bull Mooseers.

These figures are not far from those that are given by Democratic leaders in Washington when they discuss the situation privately. They are estimating the Democratic plurality at from 50 to 60, although some are hopeful that the extraordinary popularity of President Wilson will carry the total to a higher level.

The Republican leaders, while giving no definite estimates, find comfort in figuring the possible results on the basis of percentages obtained from recent elections. They point out, for instance, that the Bull Moose loss in the recent election in Maine amounted to 65 per cent of the vote cast in 1912. Taking that percentage as the basis of their computations, they contend that the Republicans stand to win back 34 districts which, according to the returns, will return Republicans to the places of Democrats on losses in 1912. The Bull Moose vote ranging from 1 to 65 per cent.

Depends on Moose Defection.
There is one big "if" about this way of figuring it, and that is that the Republicans assume that the Bull Moose, who have grown tired of supporting a lost cause will land in the Republican camp. As a matter of fact, though, experience has shown that a great many, some say as many as four in one, of the Progressives who desert, return, not to the Republican fold, but to the Democratic party.

But Republican leaders contend that this estimate is conservative. They believe the defection in the Bull Moose vote may exceed 65 per cent. They say that in the election that have been held since 1912 the average loss of the Bull Moose vote has been 80 instead of 65 per cent, so that the Maine figures are conservative. On the basis of an 80 per cent slump, these Republicans figure they would land sixty-seven seats from the Democrats.

Even on this 65 per cent basis, however, the Democrats would still have a majority of fifty-nine, but the Republicans pretend to believe that with seats gained from the Bull Moose and from Democrats in districts where the latter had a clear majority in 1912 over the combined Republicans and Bull Moose vote, they will have a fighting chance to win.

As a matter of fact, the Republicans are basing their hopes in this election chiefly on the complete collapse of the Progressive vote. The Roosevelt followers are running candidates in most of the congressional districts, but there has been a notable dropping off even in the number of nominees.

President the Big Asset.
The Democrats, on the other hand, are basing their plea for the re-election of a Democratic house almost entirely upon the personality and record of President Wilson. Of the popularity of that leader there can be no doubt. Reports from the Sun's correspondent and from other sources indicate the president's personal popularity. The Democratic campaign managers and the president himself have sought to make the issue an endorsement of the Wilson administration through the re-election of a Democratic congress, and although they apparently will be successful, it will be by a much less impressive majority than marked the advent of the Democratic party in 1912.

Hard Times is G. O. P. Pledge.
Republicans are pinning their faith also to the effect of the hard times on the voter. They are certain that the man who was out of a job on August 1 will not accept any explanation that the war is to blame for the depression. They believe, too, that the man who has been laid off since the European conflict began will be inclined to hit a Democratic ticket merely on the principle that it is the only one that has not failed.

AMERICA'S OPPORTUNITY.

There are altogether too many pessimists in this country who are kicking about the effect of the European war on business. Coming as it did immediately after a period of depression it kindled anew in the minds of some people the feeling that prosperity would not return for a long time. As a matter of fact the war's big cost will fall on Europe and not on this country. The commercial and financial ascendancy of the United States is bound to begin—then we will have to get busy to fill orders and means to fill orders helping to rebuild Europe and we will have no time to lament.

There is a great opportunity in this war for the man who is willing to take the trouble to get into the war. It is not a matter of business and finance, but it is now well in hand and will be in the hands of the man who is willing to take the trouble to get into the war.

This was a great opportunity for the United States to increase its foreign commerce. It is a great opportunity for the man who is willing to take the trouble to get into the war. It is not a matter of business and finance, but it is now well in hand and will be in the hands of the man who is willing to take the trouble to get into the war.

Chicago Futures
By Associated Press.
Chicago, Nov. 2.—Wheat quickly rallied today from a brief setback due to a reported increase of from ten to twenty per cent in the planted acreage of Oklahoma. After opening 1-2 to 3-8 off to a like upturn the market receded sharply but then recovered to Saturday night's level. Increased rural offers eased corn at the outset but prices later hardened with wheat. The opening was unchanged to 1-4 lower and was followed by a slight decline, and then a small net gain. F. M. MCKINLEY IS INJURED BY FALL FROM WAGON

Well Known Farmer Badly Hurt In Accident—Is Taken To Sanitarium

F. M. McKinley, one of the oldest and most respected residents of Wichita county, was seriously injured this morning when he fell from a wagon load of feed which he was hauling to his farm north of town, and all the wheels of the wagon ran over his body. Two wheels ran across his chest and two wheels across his legs. He is believed to be injured internally and one of his legs is broken just below the knee. The other is severely bruised. In loading the wagon sacks had been piled high above the bed. These were held in front by a board extending horizontally from the wagon bed. Mr. McKinley sat on the top of the load to drive his team. When near the wagon bridge the board at the front broke allowing the sacks to roll down behind the horses carrying Mr. McKinley with them. The horses began to run and the wheels on both sides of the wagon ran across Mr. McKinley's body. Unable to walk or to stand Mr. McKinley shouted as loud as he could, but it was several minutes before his cries finally brought help from a nearby blacksmith shop. Just about this time Dr. W. W. Swartz returned from the home of Charles Andree where he had been to treat Mr. Andree's small son who suffered a bad fracture of his leg last week, happened along in his automobile and carried Mr. McKinley to the Wichita Falls Sanitarium.

Early this afternoon he appeared, resting easier after suffering intensely. The extent of his injuries resulting from the wheels passing across his chest, however, had not been determined.

When help first reached him as he lay in the road Mr. McKinley's first thoughts were of his team and not himself and he tried to get those who came to his assistance to look after his horses before they did anything for him. The horses were later found unhurt. The wagon was damaged.

Total of 544 Bales Up To October 18, Compared With Only 291 Last Year

Cotton ginnings in Wichita county up to October 18 were 544 bales, according to the report sent in by the department of agriculture. On the same date a year ago only 291 bales had been ginned.

After Mr. Maricle sends in his reports they are mailed back to him and he is permitted to give out the figures for publication. Last year these figures were sent back to him by telegraph but this year the government is evidently trying to cut down expenses.

Archer county ginnings on the same date were 341 bales compared with 2403 bales on the same date a year ago.

EFFECT OF EUROPE'S WAR ON POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS

Expected Decrease in Deposits Is Not Materialized By Facts of Recent Week

The war in Europe is proving a big boon to postal savings in this country. From the very day hostilities opened across the seas the postal savings receipts began to increase by leaps and bounds and withdrawals fell off, a result quite contrary to the predictions of many well-informed persons who, in their imagination, saw lines of feverish depositors at postoffice windows anxious to again return their savings when they came before the casters failed to reckon on the absolute confidence of the American citizen, regardless of the flag that first met his eyes in the battle and the purpose of the government to carry out its obligations. But among the nations of the world, and with the humblest citizen of our land.

ed; thousands of people, largely of foreign birth, accustomed to send their savings abroad, are now patrons of our postal-savings system; and enormous sums of actual cash have been released for commercial uses among our people at a time when the need for every available dollar is pressing.

The growth of postal savings in the United States has been steady and the system has filled an important gap between the tin-can depository and the factory paymaster. On July 1, when affairs were running smoothly here and abroad and the transmission of money across the Atlantic was safe and expeditious, there was approximately $42,000,000 of postal savings standing to the credit of about 388,000 depositors. Since then over $10,000,000 of deposits have been added and the number of depositors has increased enormously. This unprecedented gain is the more striking when it is considered that the net gain in the last three months is larger than the gain for the entire fiscal year of 1914. Scores of offices have done more postal-savings business since the war has been going on than was done by them during the previous existence of the service.

The increases are confined to no special localities, but have been felt in every nook and corner of the country. New York City made a gain in September of more than a million, while Brooklyn showed a relatively big increase. Chicago reported a larger gain in the past three months than for the previous twelve months. More than 7,000 new accounts were opened during the period, bringing the number of depositors in that city up to over 21,000.

The unexpected increase in postal savings business has not only added greatly to the general administrative duties of the system, but has brought up many new and interesting problems which have called for the careful personal consideration of Postmaster General Burleson and Governor Dockery. Third Assistant Postmaster General. But their task has been lightened some what by the promptness of depository banks in finishing additional security to meet the abnormal deposits. A number of the very largest banks in the country, which have heretofore declined to qualify as depositories for postal-savings funds, are now among the eager applicants for them.

There is a Great Difference in Tobaccos

Tuxedo is the Mildest, Sweetest, Most Pleasant Spoke in the World, Because—

First—No one but the makers of Tuxedo is willing to spend the money necessary to buy the mildest, choicest, most thoroughly aged, selected Burley tobacco.

Second—No one but the makers of Tuxedo knows how to treat this Burley tobacco so that every bit of pleasantness and goodness remains in the tobacco and every bit of unpleasantness and harshness is taken out.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo was born in 1904. Its first imitator appeared two years later. Since then a host of imitations have been born, and are clamoring for your patronage.

No imitation is ever as good as the original. No amount of advertising, no amount of bluster and bluff, can ever make an imitation tobacco as good as Tuxedo.

If you are not a pipe smoker, you are denying yourself the greatest smoking pleasure known to man. One week of Tuxedo will give you more enjoyment than you have ever had—and at the end of the week your nerves will be better and your general health will have improved. Tuxedo this week!

Washington, Nov. 2.—Ghent is isolated from communication, according to a dispatch to the American government, sent by messenger to Sluis, Holland by American Consul-General Henry Albert Johnson. The dispatch added that the American consul-general had ordered the consulate at Ostend closed and gone to Ghent where he was safe, but without communication. Officials here infer that the fighting was so fierce on the coast that all Americans have withdrawn to the interior.

SPECIAL NOTICE

It again becomes necessary to warn our customers who hold contracts, good at our studio, against a cheap proposition which is being put out in our city by unscrupulous agents whom we know positively are making every effort to buy up our contracts in exchange for theirs. We need not tell you that you cannot get good photographs for a song. If you want a good picture of mother, father, baby or yourself you must get them made by photographers who know how to turn out first-class work. Our samples were made by ourselves in our own studio, and we endeavor to make every photograph just as good or better than the samples.

With pardonable pride, we can refer you to satisfied patrons who are amongst the best people in the city. If anyone has been taken in at a moment of thoughtlessness by this cheap scheme, we wish to assure them that if they will call and tell us we will still give them the benefit of our advertising offer.

ing room where the same general effect was to be noticed. Witches and cats, cut out, were artistically applied and the center of the table was marked a large pumpkin filled with fruit. Around on the table were scattered various Halloween—miniature favors, cats and pumpkins, and the shaded lights threw a golden glow over all. The arrangement of the evening was exceedingly clever, the guests being given dance programs of eight dances, made out with a different partner for each dance, and as the supper progressed each course was eaten with a different partner. The first course of fruit cocktail was served in orange cups, with a pumpkin face overlaid, cut from black paper. After the first course the couples proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wagner, where each dance was held. The Wagner home was also decorated in the Halloween conceits and to one side a cleverly contrived fireplace threw a yellow glow over the rooms. On the completion of the first dance, the changes were made and the party returned to the Carver home for the second course of oyster patties, served on paper plates on which pumpkin faces were pasted. For the remainder of the supper the same plan was carried out, each dance being followed by another course at the home of the hostess. The most course consisted of turkey with cranberry sauce and an entree of peas and potatoes, the salad course was served in orange cups to stimulate jack-o'-lanterns. Pumpkin pie was served in paper plates with over laid Halloween motifs and with the after dinner coffee, cheese straws, tied in bundles with yellow and black ribbon were served. Two favor dances were held in addition to the dance after each of the six courses, one for the girls and one for the men. The girls' favors were pumpkin Kewpies and the men's favors, cigarettes with applied Halloween stickers.

The evening was most enjoyable and progressed as planned, thanks to the ingenuity of the hostess. The guests were Misses Lillian Avis, Lillian McGregor, Eddie Carver, Ann Carrigan, Ann Frear, Katharine Hindman, Messrs. Boyd, Griffin, Stovon, Jovette Bonner, Merrill Blair, Carter McGregor, Avis and Mr. and Mrs. Wagner.

GUILD ENTERTAINS ITS FRIENDS SATURDAY EVENING

The Young Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal church entertained Saturday evening with a Halloween party, given at the home of Miss Ethel Chamberlain. The various rooms of the house were decorated elaborately in the Halloween colors of yellow and black with witches, bats and cats and pumpkins. In the living room a huge witches' cauldron was hung from the ceiling, and from this cauldron the guests drew favors for the grand march. Partners for the march were found by matching these bats, cats and witches found in the pot. Some time was spent in dancing, after which story telling was in order. The favors for this feature were rosaries, made from popcorn and gum drops strung alternately. On the end of each chain was a heart in which a fortune was concealed. Various stunts were performed, all taking part and banishing for the evening all restraint or formality. A ghost walk then was in order, which led the masked guests through all the rooms of the house, where by peeping through a curtain various uncanny sights were observed, one being Bluebeard's wives hanging by their hair. The walk led them out on the lawn, where another ghost was encountered. After some time in this amusing pursuit the unmasking came and the remainder of the evening was spent with story telling and conversation. Tempting refreshments, carrying out the predominating idea were served to the following: Misses Jennie Roberson, Emma Childs, Zola Roberson, Florence Sammons, Rainey, Louise Kennedy, Helen Benton, Eugenia Staber, Ethel Chamberlain, Messrs. Arnold, Alphonse Boger, Bradbury, Fletcher, Childers, Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Japhet, Rev. and Mrs. Datson, Mrs. Carries, William Carries and Florence and Frederick Datson.

At The Theaters

The Victoria

The Million Dollar Mystery alone would make the program of much interest, but in addition Keystone Mabel is shown in "Mabel's New Prank" and a two part American drama, "The Cocoon and the Butterfly," completes the program.

Two sisters, Clare and Anne Meredith, left destitute by the death of their father, go to the city to seek their livelihood. Clare secures a position in a department store and insists that her sister go to school. Here she meets a quiet young man, John Walton, working as a bookkeeper and they form a strong friendship. Walton is the real owner of the store, although no one knows it.

The manager at the store plays such unpleasant attention to Clare that after a time she is forced to resign. The need of money, however, compels her to reapply for another position, this time disguised as an old maid. In the meantime, the little sister wishing to pay her share of the household expenses, secures a position in the store as a model. The manager, St. Clair, at once pays her assiduous attentions, which the young girl in her innocence accepts. In order to prove to her younger sister the falseness of her alleged admirer's character, Clare discards her disguise and pretends to accept his attentions. She succeeds admirably, and soon St. Clair forgets the younger sister in pursuit of the older but more attractive one.

John Walton, the young millionaire, has meanwhile been watching Clare's cleverness and has fallen in love with her. At his suggestion, he thoroughly convinced her sister Anna as to St. Clair's perfidy, Clare accepts an invitation to dinner with the manager. By pre-arrangement Walton is on hand and when St. Clair becomes particularly obnoxious, Walton appears on the scene and discloses his real identity. He discharges St. Clair, assumes management of the store himself, proposes to Clare and sends the little sister back to school.

The Lydia Margaret

Miss Francis and Mr. Keough open the vaudeville bill today with a comedy sketch, "The Ward Heeler" and Kinto, premier Japanese juggler, has an act that is novel enough to satisfy the most exacting. Today's feature picture is a two-part comedy drama, "The Battle" featuring little Billy Jacobs.

As has been said, "Isn't there a double-distilled scream, a triple-distilled mirth-convulsion, the quintessence of serene laughter in the sublime spectacle of a child, who is naturally, unwittingly funny?" Surely. But a child has to be born to it—and there are but few of them. Little Billy Jacobs, of the Sterling-Universal company, is one of them; in fact, Billy, who is only thirty months old, is in a class by himself when it comes to doing those things, and doing them naturally, which convinces his elders with laughter.

This comedy played by children, is in two reels. And you roar. You can't help it. The whole affair is such a clever conception of humorous situations and brilliant acting by the children. The dexterity—the adroitness of it all gets you going from the outset.

The piece was produced at the Universal Pacific Coast studios, by the able director, Robert Thornbury. These supporting little Billy are all trained in the practical school of screen experience and specially engaged for their ability and natural charm. The pictures are to the young and for the old alike.

The Majestic

James Morrison and Dorothy Kelly are featured in "The Unwritten Play," a Vitagraph drama of interest, and Richard Travers and Gerda Holmes are seen in a touching Essanay drama, "Billy's Boy," the program is completed by "As We Forgive Those," two-part Lubin, featuring Justina Huff and Joseph Smiley. Mary, wife of John Graham, is not contented with her home life, and forsaking her worthy husband, elopes with Hugh Dallas, the foreman of the shops where John works, taking her little daughter, Laura. Joe Blake, a mutual friend, hears of the affair and follows to intercept the elopement and brings John's wife and child back. He catches up with the fugitive and snatches the child from the wagon, but Dallas cuts the horse with the whip. The animal bolts and both Dallas, and John's wife are killed. John returning home finds his wife gone, he also finds Joe's pipe which he had left in the house when he had too late to stop Mary's flight. John in his wrong mind accuses Blake, and, madly rushing to follow, takes the wrong road. Joe returns to the house and finding John leaves the child with a neighbor. Ten years pass and John had become a wanderer, ever seeking revenge upon Joe Blake. Joe had accepted an appointment as foreman at the Forest works and adopted the little girl Laura, who was now sixteen years of age. The foreman has had much trouble with the men on account of drunkenness and Joe at the suggestion of Laura has installed a mission where nightly he talks to the men and ends the meeting with the Lord's prayer. John has lost track of both Joe and Laura, but wandering into the town, takes a room in a lodging house next door to the mission house. One night looking across the alley he recognizes Joe as he is repeating the prayer. This is his opportunity for revenge. As he levels a pistol he hears the words, "As we forgive those who trespass against us." The pistol from his hand and as it strikes the floor explodes. Joe and Laura rush to the house and arrive just in time to see John Graham close his eyes in death.

The Gem

Marian Sais, Cleo Ridgeley, Paul Hurst and other famous Kalem players are seen in a two part production, "The Primitive Instinct." "The Belle of Braveryville," a Lubin comedy, and "Dick Potter's Wife," an Edison drama, two other pictures that will please, complete today's bill.

CLOSING OUT SALE

Men's Wear Store Quits Business

War Declared in the Clothing and Furnishing Goods Line

Like the old negro who was thrown into jail when his attorney told him that he could not be, and the fact remained that he was, the present retail business depression is a stubborn reminder that although there is no logical reason for the quietness of business, it is slow and quiet just the same.

For this reason, coupled with the fact that we've exceeded the speed limit in the buying end of the business, we have determined to unload, at any cost, the stock we have on hand and quit the retail game.

We have offered to sell our stock in a lump to several merchants, but have failed to get a satisfactory offer or decide upon terms to suit both ourselves and the buyers and after so many failures with our merchant friends we have decided that the shortest distance to a given point is a straight line, and that's our reason for going direct to the consumer to unload.

When you can buy high-grade Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishings and Shoes at factory prices and less, you cheat yourself out of money that you had just as well have, if you don't lay in your supply when

Dependable Merchandise Is Sacrificed

There is no argument necessary as to the dependability of the goods we carry. Most people know that we carry Packard and Rice Hutchins Shoes, Cluett and Peabody Monarch Shirts and Collars, White-Branch-Shelton's Beaver Special Hats, Great Western, Stetson Gloves, Everwear Hosiery, Interlock, Wooltexur and Wright's Underwear, Ellsworth Thayer Co., Mackanaws, Columbia Sweaters, and Schloss Bros., and Frankel Clothing.

SEVEN STATES WILL VOTE UPON SUFFRAGE TOMORROW

Women Expect To Be Successful in Nevada, Nebraska and Montana Elections

(Chicago Tribune)
Seven states will vote next Tuesday on the direct proposition of complete enfranchisement of women. In three of them the women active in the pro-franchise campaign believe that the chances are better than even for success. Certain Victory in West
The seven states in which the direct issue is to be raised on Tuesday are classified by the active suffrage battalions as follows:
Believed to be certain for suffrage: Nevada, Nebraska, Montana.
Doubtful: South Dakota.
Probably anti-suffrage: North Dakota, Ohio, Missouri.
Full Franchise or None
In each of the seven states the question of extension of the suffrage to women comes up flatly and without equivocation. A victory in any state or all of them means that the women will have the full privilege of voting for presidential electors, state and local officers, members of congress and of state legislatures.
The vote to be taken Tuesday is initiative and referendum route. In Ohio the possibilities of submission Ohio and Missouri comes along by the state constitution which added the initiative and referendum to the organic law. In the five other states woman suffrage has been submitted in the form of constitutional amendment by the general assembly.

Amalgamated Copper in Fight
Montana and Nebraska belong to the latter classification. Montana is claimed by the pro-suffrage women in spite of the bitter fight, claimed to be the last, of Amalgamated Copper. The same influence is claimed to be exerting the limit of its strength in battling the woman fighters in Nevada, but the conditions on the day of election are said to be such that the women will win.

In Nebraska the last stages of the fighting are centering about Omaha. If Omaha can be kept anywhere near "half and half" the pro-suffragists believe that Nebraska will be won by them. The rural districts are largely pro-suffrage, it is claimed by those in touch with the situation, although strong efforts have been made by the liquor forces in Nebraska, as in every other state where suffrage is an issue, to defeat the proposition.

Handicap in North Dakota.
The pro-suffrage women would classify North Dakota as a "sure" state were it not for the provision of the submission act which requires that a majority of all those voting on the proposition shall be required to extend the vote to women. This technical difficulty may be difficult to surmount. In South Dakota the issue is plain and without any strings. Activities of the "wet" interests are said to have prejudiced the chance that the women may win.

TWO LEGISLATORS ARE IN RACE FOR SPEAKER

Austin, Texas, Nov. 2.—A dispatch from here dated Oct. 26 stated that Judge W. L. Hill of Walker county and Newton B. Williams of McLennan county are the leading candidates at present for the speakership of the Thirty-fourth legislature. The reference to Messrs. Williams and Hill as the leaders was an inadvertence and no predictions as to the winner were intended in the article.

Circumstances may indicate that possibly you need glasses in order to give you better and more comfortable vision, and to relieve a strain which you notice in reading or doing close work of any kind. The approach of eye-strain is hardly noticed, however, in its earlier stages. Some persons frown, wrinkle the eyebrows, squint or have other nervous habits, which are among the first indications of eye-strain. In such instances the person's eyes are likely to tire easily.

This is the best time to call for an examination in order to ascertain whether or not glasses should be worn.

TSING TAU FIGHT STILL GOING ON WITHOUT RESULT

By Associated Press.

Pekin, Nov. 2.—A wireless from Tsing Tan says the general attack by the Japanese continues. No details as to how the fighting was progressing were transmitted.

When You Have Forgotten:

The virtues of your deceased friends or loved one, go out to the cemetery and read thereon, engraved with skilled hands, the name and dates of the one you knew so well.

You forget their failures and their human frailties, while you remember their good deeds, their kindly acts of love and tender sympathy. Their virtues stand out before you in visions of gold to remind you of higher and better things.

Should there be no such SACRED TABLET to bring you these tender memories, let us place one for you. You will be better and happier for duty well done.

Furne—One of the prettiest towns of West Flanders, Belgium.

also known as Furnes, with a population of about 6,000, but hardly more than a village in its activities. It is old fashioned and uninteresting, except for a spectacular bazaar, depicting the twelve principal events in the life of Christ, held there annually since 1650. The country around is noted for its fertility and supports large herds of cattle and horses. The inhabitants trade in corn, stock, hogs and dairy products. The town is six miles west of south of Nieuport and is three miles from the coast.

Gerardmer—One of the most beautifully situated of French towns, in the extreme northeast section of the Republic, seven miles from the Alsatian border and 29 miles south of east of Koblenz. Its situation in the forest and vineyard, near the much visited Hahnsee, the summer resort in this part of France. It is the principal seat of the famous wood carvers of the Vosges, and the hand loom may be found in nearly every home in the town. In addition, the inhabitants are engaged in cloth weaving, bleaching, the sawing of wood and the manufacture of cheese. Gerardmer is located on a lake of the same name, at an altitude of 2,200 feet. It has a population of about 5,000.

DOING IT RIGHT

In our prescription department the motto is "Do It Right." Chemicals cannot be mixed like a cook scrambles eggs. There is a right way, a correct procedure for filling a prescription. It may have to be pounded to a mortar. It may have to be heated in a flame or frozen in brine. But just the same the mode of operation must be right or the finished product is worthless. The prescriptionist who is too ignorant or too lazy to take every possible precaution in dispensing a prescription is a dangerous experiment for the patient. Our prescriptionists are experienced and we have a reputation to sustain. Bring us your prescriptions and let us show you that our prescription department is worthy of your patronage.

STYLE

Is one of the things you pay for when you buy a suit of clothes, and if you don't get your money's worth. Style in a suit must be the style of the man or it looks like an accident.

A sweat-shop, hand-me-down, may be made of excellent material, well sewed, but it was made for nobody in particular, and fits the same way. There must be individuality to clothes or there is no style to them. They must be cut to conform to the individual build of the person who is to wear them. Our business is making clothes for YOU.

The suit you get from us is made for YOU. In our cleaning and pressing department is where your dollar does its duty and brings you a hundred cents' worth of service. We do it right and save you time and money.
