Fresh Vegetables—

Early Oat Crop—

MEMBERS of the Texas house of representatives, on economy bent, eliminate the fund for fresh vegetables from the appropriations of the Wichita Falls state hospital and a San Antonio institution. Whether or not other funds will be sufficient to provide fresh vegetables for the inmates of the institutions is a question, but there seems little doubt but that Texas legislators considered fresh vegetables among the less important items in providing for the care of the unfortunates in state institutions. If there is to be any considerable reduction in the amount of vegetables allowed inmates of the institutions, or if fresh vegetables are to be denied these patients altogether, The Record News believes the legislature might have eliminated with much greater wisdom money for shoes, hats or some other necessity. Fresh vegetables are now known to be essential to good health. The meat-bread-potato diet is being relegated to the past by scientists and physicians who are showing the need of increased quantities of fruits and vegetables in the average meal. Texas legislators should know this, and if they do, they should no more consider refusing fresh vegetables to state wards than they would consider keeping these wards barefoot in winter or hatless in summer.

IN the increased consumption of fresh vegetables that has come about in the last few years Wichita Falls residents are fortunate that they can grow a wide variety of plants in their own gardens if they so desire. With only the space provided by the ordinary building lot there is room for a garden large enough for the average family. The investment of a few dollars in implements, a few cents in cheap water and seeds will bring a return not only of a wide variety of vegetables the greater part of the year, but much more valuable dividends in better health. The average office worker needs the recreation and exercise provided in the "back yard garden," and to the amateur gardener there is a thrill in growing, gathering and eating your own turnip greens, radishes or beans that is not even excelled by a bounding golf ball over the finest course in the state.

SCHOOL bonds for $250,000 in new buildings, land and equipment to be voted on June 7 are expected to meet little, if any, opposition, according to W. W. Brown, secretary of the Wichita Falls board of education and business manager of the schools. "We feel that the outcome of the election is practically assured," said Mr. Brown. This is gratifying though not surprising news to Wichita Falls residents. Parents are awake to the necessity of providing adequate school facilities, and business men and property owners are found ever willing to support schools conducted along the efficient lines of the Wichita Falls institutions. In its surprisingly rapid growth this city has not and must not allow its educational system to lag behind its industrial and commercial expansion.

PRACTICAL farmers of the Wichita area continue to new achievements in agriculture, and now A. F. Laukhuf, substantial citizen and good farmer, brings in the season's first load of oats at a date believed by grain men to be the earliest in history. The Record News congratulates Mr. Laukhuf on his achievement of being first to market, and on an accomplishment that will prove of wide interest to farmers in this section.

KELLY TELLS TALE OF FIGHT

Actor Who Fought Over Woman On Stand

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 18. (AP)—Paul Kelly, taking the witness stand in his own defense in his trial for the murder of Ray Raymond late today, related his version of his fist attack upon the actor in detail, testifying that he struck only after the actor had accused him of living with his wife, calling him vile names and threatening to beat him.

The defendant, who is asserted by the state to have pummelled Raymond because of the former's admitted love for the latter's wife, Dorothy Mackaye, gave his version of the tragic fight substantially as told on the stand last week by Charlotte Lee, Raymond's negro housekeeper and eye-witness of the attack.

Kelly Is Pale.

With a face pale at first and later flushed, Kelly said he telephoned Raymond that he had heard he was making remarks about him and wanted his, Kelly's phone number.

"Raymond said he wished I was over there and I said 'Don't worry, I'll be there right away'," Kelly testified.

"The remarks,' Kelly explained, "were that Raymond had said he didn't think so much of me, that he was a wild cat and was going to get me."

"Raymond was in the living room when I arrived and told me to come in, sit down and talk it over. He was very angry and irritable and demanded 'where's my wife? You ought to know, she's been living with you!'

"I slapped his mouth with the back of my hand and told him he should be ashamed of himself talking about his wife like that.

"He then called me abusive names and I slapped his mouth again. Ray said he was tired, had been in the train 24 hours, was drunk and couldn't fight me. I said that was only his alibi, I had had some drin'.s myself.

Claims Threat.

"Raymond was coming towards me threatening to knock me down. I hit him and he staggered back. He got up and I hit him two or three times. He fell off his balance with his head against the couch. Then he got up and said he couldn't but would fight. We clinch d and I hit him two or three times in the eye and he hit me in the face. He went down and I started to leave. He got up and I offered to shake hands and he refused."

Kelly testified he had black and blue marks on his chin for nearly a week, and that he was at Raymond's home only about ten minutes in all.

The Record News:
During past near two weeks of conventions, I have heard a number of expressions of approval of your co-operation in always having in the morning paper an accurate report of the program for the day. While it may nominally have been good circulation boosting, it is a distinct factor in minimizing lost time of visitors and also home folks, in finding out what "is doing" for the day. I join in appreciation for your co-operation for conventions in which interested and congratulations on your service.
Sincerely,
F. G. SWANSON.

BANK BANDITS KILL FATHER OF WICHITAN

Kimes Gang Robs Beggs Oklahoma, Banks; Marshal Slain

POSSES IN CHASE

$18,000 Loot Taken In Robbery of Two Of Beggs Banks

BEGGS, Okla., May 18. (AP)—Playing a return engagement in his home town, Matthew Kimes and his gang of bandits invaded Beggs again today, robbed two banks of nearly $18,000 and shot their way out, leaving the town marshal dead and a woman who apparently frustrated the robbery of a third bank probably fatally wounded.

Officials of both looted banks said the leader of the band undoubtedly was Kimes, will-o'-the wisp young desperado whose sensational exploits have been a modern parallel of the careers of Jesse James and Al Jennings.

Dashing into the little town this morning in three motor cars, the nine members of the gang divided into groups and drove up to the three banks. Two of the banks, the Farmers National and the First National, were invaded immediately.

Raid Two Banks

"Throw up your hands." came the command almost simultaneously in the two banks, and employes and others in both institutions complied. Both groups then began a systematic search for money. Mrs. Charles Campbell, a shopper, left her children in an automobile and ran into a pool hall crying an alarm. M. C. McAnally, marshal, went immediately to the Farmers National bank, arriving just as the robbers were emerging. Pulling his pistol, McAnnally opened fire on the racing figures, and a hail of bullets answered him, one piercing his breast and killing him instantly. Mrs. Campbell was struck in the head by a bullet and was believed to have been mortally injured.

Attracted by the shots, townspeople poured into the streets. The men hastily gathered up all available firearms loaded into motor cars and took up pursuit. Within an hour one of the bandit cars had been found abandoned eight miles west of Beggs, near the ranch on which Kimes spent his boyhood.

The country into which the outlaws fled is rugged and heavily timbered, affording many ideal hiding places.

Slaying of Marshal McAnnally is the eighth taken in the toll from the ranks of Northeastern Oklahoma peace officers by outlawry since the first of the year.

Many Are Slain

Others who died in the line of duty were: Mark Switzer, Pawhuska, patrolman, January 2, shot down when he attempted to halt a bootlegger suspect on a downtown street.

Earl O'Neal, Douthet deputy sheriff, February 13, shot to death by Wilbur Underhill, fugitive, desperado, now in jail at Okmulgee.

T. H. Ratha, Westville marshal, February 25, slain by Marion Jewell, now awaiting execution at the state penitentiary.

Claud Ryan, Okemah, marshal, February 26, shot to death by bandits, whom he caught robbing a warehouse.

R. H. Pratt, Gore marshal, March 17, shot to death by unknown assailants on the main streets of the village.

William Roland, Shidler marshal, March 28, kidnaped, slugged and then thrown from an automobile by a party of supposed bandits.

John Cross, Seminole deputy sheriff, March 30, shot to death by unidentified assailants.

GALVESTON, May 18. (AP)—Galveston police with $3,000 in fake $50 gold certificates in their possession are investigating one of the boldest counterfieting schemes ever attempted here, it became known today. Suspects say they "found" the phony bills.

Mrs. F. V. Wakefield, 901 Austin street, is a daughter of M. C. McNally, town marshal of Beggs, Okla., who was slain Wednesday when Mathew Kimes and his gang of bandits robbed two Beggs banks.
Mrs. Wakefield left Wichita Falls Tuesday for Beggs after being advised of her father's death.
Mr. Wakefield, former Wichita Falls automobile man, left for Beggs from Amarillo, where he recently opened an automobile establishment.

Added Peril Develops As Flood Breaks More Levees

NEW ORLEANS, May 18. (AP)—Inhabitants of 27 towns in the path of the wall of water sweeping down the Atchafalaya basin tonight were being warned to flee their homes under instructions issued early tonight by flood relief dictator John M. Parker.

Mr. Parker, basing his warning upon a bulletin of the New Orleans weather bureau today charting the path of the flood through the section, had a corps of telephone operators speeding the message to the inhabitants urging them speed the evacuation if they would save their belongings.

There will be no forcible evacuation, but the message of the flood relief dictator strove to impress upon the inhabitants the seriousness of the flood danger and the imminence of the threat.

By Universal Service.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 18. Added disaster for bleeding Dixie loomed today, with a threatened break on the east bank of the Atchafalya river at McCrea, about 30 miles west of here.

New Orleans is prepared to receive the blow, for the flood crest is approaching the crescent city. Plans have been made to give warnings if the levees give way and the inhabitants told where to flee for safety.

But the threatened break in the levee on the Atchafalaya at McCrea is the most immediate menace to be met.

Fifteen hundred workmen have been fighting like tigers day and night for three days to prevent the leves there from crumbling.

Racing waters of the Atchafalya already have eaten away about 30 feet of the earth at the base of the levee on the waterside, engineers reported.

The battle is to check this scouring before it reaches through the base of the embankment.

100,000 Lose Homes

One hundred thousand persons would automatically be made subjects of Red Cross relief, should the force of man lose in the struggle at McCrea.

Six parishes in the Atchafalya basin between the Atchafalya and Mississippi rivers would immediately be engulfed. The rich sugar cane fields of Pointe Coupee, west Baton Rouge, Igerville and Assumption parishes would be doomed for a blanket of water. Property loss would run into the millions, probably $15,000,000, it was estimated.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover and James L. Fieher, acting national chairman of the Red Cross, today went in their special train to Torrae, which is situated on the old river.

After reviewing the rescue fleet in old river their plan was to go to New Orleans and then Alexandria. There are 826 vessels in the rescue fleet not counting several hundred surf boats, wisch are used in shallow water to taxi the victims to the larger vessels and safety. Thirty-two airplanes and 30 radio sets, sending and receiving, held to make up the forces of man in this struggle against nature run wild.

Hoover gave orders for movement of many rescue boats to southern Louisiana to be used in rescuing persons in the path of the southward rolling flood waters from Bayou Des Glaises crumbled levees and the new crevasse at Melville.

SOLONS RUSH VOTE ON BILLS

Half of Special Session Already Over

AUSTIN, May 18.—With more than half of the 30 days allotted to a special session already gone, house leaders today put their shoulders to bills carrying appropriations. Even with the house machinery speeded up it is not likely that all of the appropriation bills will be passed at this session.

In addition to the appropriation bills the house has yet to consider highway legislation, a civil service commission measure, penitentiary legislation, and several other bills the governor plans to submit in a message to both branches tomorrow. A second special session is practically assured.

Stay in Limit

That all appropriations made by the special session will come within the $40,000,000 expected revenue of the state for the next two years is now reasonably certain legislators point out, provided the ad valorem tax rate is increased from 23 cents to the constitutional limit of 35 cents.

The house today began consideration of the departmental appropriation bill which carries a total of $11,741,875 for the next two years. Fifty-four amendments to the bill, reducing the total $407,500 were submitted by the house appropriation committee and will be voted on tomorrow, the house having adjourned at noon for the legislative baseball game.

Four days after the departmental appropriations bill was introduced in the senate it was passed finally, carrying a total of $11,500,000.

Today's grievances in the senate arose over attempts to get an amendment inserted in the departmental bill which would prohibit any state official from using a travelling expense fund or stationery fund to send out literature or to make trips in an effort to influence pending legislation. The amendment was defeated.

Wirtz Is Sponsor

The amendment, an aftermath of Senator Joe Moore's attack on S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, for alleged use of money from travelling and stationery funds to influence legislation was sent up by Senator Wirtz.

A compromise amendment, which was adopted, prohibits employes of the state from using any such funds in aiding the candidacy of any political candidate. Before drawing on the fund, the official will be required to make out an affidavit saying that none of the money was spent for prohibited purposes.

SCHOOL HOUSE DESTROYED BY CRUEL MANIAC

Bodies of Children In School Mangled By Explosion

SLAYER IS KILLED

Murderous Blast Takes Terrible Toll In Michigan

BATH, Mich., May 18. (AP)—Touched off by an apparently demented farmer, who fell victim to his own devices, two dynamite explosions at the Consolidated school here today, brought death to at least 41 persons—37 of them pupils in the school. Most of them were children, few of them more than 12 years old. Forty others injured were in Lansing hospitals.

The dead in addition to the 38 pupils whose bodies had been recovered tonight were the farmer, Andrew Kehoe, who served as treasurer of the school district; E. E. Huyck, the principal; Miss Hazel Weatherbee, third grade teacher; Glen Smith, Bath postmaster, and Nelson McFarran, a Bath resident. The latter two were passing the building at the time of the explosion.

Ruins Are Searched.

Search of the ruins was continued until darkness overtook the workers after state police had estimated that from a dozen to 15 bodies remained to be located.

The explosions at the school followed by only a short time a blast at the nearby farm home of Kehoe. The blast and subsequent fire demolished the Kehoe home and barn.

The entire north wing of the school, a three-story brick structure was levelled by the blasts which caught all of the pupils indoors over their books or engaged in recreation period in their rooms.

Survivors of the disaster described the explosion as an "awful crash" followed an instant later by the crashing of the walls and the falling of the celings. Many of the pupils were crushed at their desks as the tons of bricks and beams crashed down.

State Police Probe.

State police probing in the tangled wreckage of the school found that elaborate preparations had been made for wrecking the building. The basement was crisscrossed with a network of wires which were connected to more than 500 pounds of dynamite scattered in various places. Search of the ruins was interrupted for a time while unexploded dynamite was removed. State police said Kehoe apparently had carried the dynamite into the school building during the night and arranged his wiring.

He was seen to drive up in his automobile in front of the building soon after classes convened. Completing his plans he is believed to have run a wire from his automobile, in which other explosives were stored, to the charges in the basement. Rifle shells, several of which were found near the battered automobile, served as fuses.

At this point, witnesses said, Huyck ran from the building and grappled with the farmer, who set off the explosive by firing a rifle into the rear of his automobile. The detonation which killed both Kehoe and Huyck, set off the dynamite placed in the basement, burying the teachers and pupils under tons of debris.

Children Terrified.

Panic ensued among the school children with the first rumble of the blast outside. Terrified, both teachers and pupils rushed to the exits only to be caught beneath the falling walls and ceilings loosened by the second blast. Some leaped to the ground from lower floor windows, while others stumbled over the bodies of their playmates in a mad rush for the doorways.

Clare Gates, 12, sobbed out a story of how he had been hurled through a rear window in one of the school rooms. The youth at the time was urging rescuers to remove the body of his younger sister still buried under the ruins.

Miss Bernice Sterling and Miss Evelyn Paul, two of the teachers who escaped with only minor injuries, described their recollections of the blasts:

"Without warning," Miss Sterling said, "this terrible explosion came. I saw the bodies of my children hurled against the walls or through the windows. Then I don't remember much what happened. The explosion stunned me and I could not do much until help came."

"An awful crash," followed by crashing in of the walls and the ceilings was Miss Paul's description of the blast.

News Spreads Fast

News of the disaster spread rapidly for the reverberations were heard in all parts of the village which has a population of slightly more than 300. Hardly a family in the village did not have at least one child enrolled among the school's normal attendance of approximately 200. Five children of one family were among the identified dead tonight. Approximately 90 of the students were in the wing that felt the brunt of the blast.

Frantic mothers rushed screaming to the school grounds and struggled wildly with volunteer workers in an attempt to enter the ruins

FLIER BRINGS COURT ORDER

Trans-Atlantic Contest Hits New Snag

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Lloyd Bertaud secured a temporary injunction late today against the Columbia Aircraft corporation and Charles A. Levine restraining them from attempting the New York to Paris flight without Bertaud as pilot.

The injunction was signed by Supreme Court Justice Michael May and is returnable before him on Friday.

Clarence Chamberlain has apparently deserted his co-flyer and gone over to the side of Levine. He announced today that if the regular ship lane is followed as Bertaud wishes, he would prefer to travel with a more experienced navigator. He added that he would want another flying mate anyway if Bertaud and Levine do not patch up their row.

In the meantime Commander Richard Byrd is going along with his preparations and intimated today that he will be ready to take off within 18 hours if the weather permits by that time.

Captain Charles Lindbergh, the third entrant in the aerial derby, is only waiting for the weather to clear on the ocean. He flew over to Oyster Bay today and had lunch with Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

Bertaud made another offer today to buy the Bellanca plane from Levine but was quickly informed that the plane was not for sale.

Military men said today that such a row as that going on in the Bellanca camp could not happen in army and navy circles. They pointed to the fact that Byrd belongs to the navy and Lindbergh is a product of the army and took pride in the fact that there is no squabbling about their plans.

It was revealed today just how thoroughly Byrd has made his plans. He was taken precaution for every emergency even to a forced landing at sea, which he says he does not fear and does not think probable.

Blast Kills 41 Children

The workers soon began carrying out the little forms of the pupils and placed them under blankets in a temporary morgue in the school yard. Finally convinced that search in the ruins was being cared for by workers, the parents turned to a survey of the silent forms in the school yard morgue. A moan from a mother or a stifled cry here and there from a father as a blanket was lifted, testified that another search was ended. Many of the mothers and fathers clasped in their arms the bodies of their children and carried them to their homes, refusing the services of ambulances and hearses that came from surrounding towns.

Pitiful Scenes

Other pitiful scenes though without the spectre of death, were enacted in other parts of the school yard. Other fathers and mothers found their children injured, and still others were overjoyed in finding theirs unscathed. The search of some of the parents was not ended until a trip to Lansing found their little ones undergoing treatment in hospitals there.

News of the tragedy also spread rapidly through the surrounding farming community and provided anxious moments for scores of farm homes for many of the school pupils came here in busses which made regular stops along the highways. Farmers came in from the fields and soon the roads were dotted with automobiles scurrying to the village.

A corps of nurses and several doctors came from neighboring towns while two Lansing automobile companies and a Lansing construction company sent crews of in trucks to aid in searching through the ruins.

With the arrival of additional men the work of removing the tumbled mass of brick and timbers became more systematic. The roof which was shattered and the piles of masonry were torn down and removed.

Governor On Scene

Governor Fred W. Green and his wife came from Lansing this afternoon to visit the scene. The governor threw aside his coat and assisted in pulling on long cables which were attached to the crumbling walls. Mrs. Green joined in first aid work and comforting grief-stricken parents.

State police checking over the ruins of Kehoe's farm building late today found a charred home-made battery manufactured from a spark plug, a small can of gasoline and a coil. Several hundred feet of wire were attached to the device and it is believed this was the mechanism used to wreck his home. A sign on a fence in the rear of the farm bore the words, "Criminals are made, not born."

Kehoe, a mortgage on whose farm recently was foreclosed, is believed to have dynamited the school as revenge for a controversy some time ago with the school board over taxes. Neighbors today said he had complained that taxes were so high he could not meet the mortgage and that the board had had refused his request for a reduction. A bitter quarrel with the members of the board followed.

A possibility that Kehoe's wife perished in the destruction of the farm home was seen tonight. An aunt of Mrs. Kehoe at Lansing declared today that Kehoe called her last night telling her that his wife had returned from a hospital at Lansing but that he was taking her to the home of relatives in Jackson. She had not been located tonight at the home of the Jackson relatives.

Judges of Prize Displays In Bird House Contest

The above picture, made at the open house held by the Hub at the conclusion of the recent bird house contest which closed May 15, shows three favorites with the contestants for the prize. On the right is Frank Creighton, local Boy Scout executive, who spoke at the various schools of the city in regard to the work. In the center is James H. Patton, past park commissioner, and Tom Jenkins, left fielder for the Wichita Falls Spudders is shown at the left. The trio were official judges in the contest.

700 Bird Houses Entered In Contest Here Distributed In City's Parks

Approximately 5000 persons were present Tuesday night at the open house which was held by the Hub as a climax to the bird house contest which was inaugurated April 1 and which closed May 15.

Music was furnished by the Lions club boys band while the crowds inspected about 700 bird house on display within the store.

First prize of a $25 suit of clothes was awarded to Elton Fanchier for having constructed the best bird house during the contest. Second prize, a $15 suit to Milton Furr; third prize, $10 in merchandise to Bruce Wallace; fourth prize, $7.50 in merchandise to James Baxter; fifth prize, $5 in merchandise to Howard Caveness; sixth prize, $2.50 in merchandise to Elmer Hanvey; seventh prize, $2.50 in merchandise to J. E. Parks. Judges of the bird houses were Tommie Jenkins, left fielder for the Spudders, Frank Creighton, local scout executive and J. W. Patton, former park commissioner.

There's no longer any excuse for any homeless birds in Wichita Falls. For the 700 houses which were entered in the contest have already been delivered to local authorities for distribution among the local parks.

The bird house contest created a great amount of interest among the younger generation in Wichita Falls and this immediate territory. During the contest Frank Isbell, manager of the boys' department of the Hub and Frank Creighton, local Boy Scout executive visited all local schools and also most of the schools in Wichita Falls territory and talked to the students regarding handicraft work and the value of the preservation of bird life.

"We're highly pleased with the results of the contest," said Mr. Isbell Wednesday. "We've always been strong believers in doing everything possible to preserve bird life in Wichita Falls and we believe that the placing of these well built houses in our parks will mean a step forward in the permanent attractiveness of our city."

Cold Bottle and Friendly Game Attraction at This Road House

Where men might go for a bottle of cold beer and drink it amid the sound of clicking poker chips, the shuffle of cards and the chatter of rolling dice was the way deputy sheriffs described Wednesday a beer garden raided about midnight Tuesday.

The raid apparently was made just at the end of a prosperous run of business lasting several days, officers said. A huge ice box of the type usually found in meat markets for storing meat contained only about 75 bottles of beer while the house was literally cluttered with empty bottles numbering around 700 when finally gathered up.

Forty gallons of beer still in the process of "working," and contained in three large jars were destroyed by the raiders, it was stated. Large stores of malt syrup, yeast and several bottle cappers were seized in the raid. One pint of whisky was also captured.

Six men surrounded tables in one room of the house, located on Sherman avenue, engaged in poker and dice games while they sipped from the frosty, brown bottles. These men were fined in justice court for gaming.

Charges of possessing intoxicating beer for the purpose of sale were filed against two alleged operators of the place, by Assistant District Attorney Sam Spence.

In spite of the high winds and dry weather, some of the fields of oats north of the city will make approximately 30 to 40 bushels to the acre.

There is no shortage of labor, due to the fact that so many oil rigs have shut down and practically all the farmers are well up on their work.

However, quite a bit of more modern machinery is being shipped to this section of the country with a number of combines being purchased.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Pack of Hungry Wolves Trees Girl For 18 Hours Until Rescued

By HARGIS EARLYWINE.
Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927.

HOWEST VILLE, Wis., May 18. (EFS)—A pack of hungry wolves where she had expected to find spring blossoms greeted Miss Helen Thomas, pretty daughter of a cross roads store keeper, when she lost her way in the woods near here.

For 18 hours, while the pack, numbering five desperately hungry wolves, howled and snarled at the foot of a tree into which she had climbed, Miss Thomas clung precariously to a limb just beyond their reach while hungry jaws snapped at her heels. She was rescued at last by a searching party.

Wolves are not uncommon, even now, in this section of the state, but it is rarely that they gather sufficient courage to attack humans and then only in lone cases where the odds are many against one.

Miss Thomas had gone into the woods to gather flowers, not far back of her home. Late in the afternoon she awoke to the realization that she was lost with a prospect of spending the night in the woods. In the rich glow of the afternoon, with the setting of the sun too near at hand to be pleasing, she set about the task of determining her location.

Adding to her dismay, came the long drawn, dismal howl of hungry wolves, always a disconcerting sound to a lone traveler in the woods, and especially unwelcome in such an instance. As the sound of the yelping pack came nearer she looked about for a refuge and finally took to the branches of a tree just as the menacing growls turned to howls of satisfaction as the fierce hunters caught sight of their hoped for prey.

Treed All Night Long.

Through the long, cold hours of the spring night she shivered in a precarious position, fearing to allow her eyes to close, even momentarily, lest she fall into the open jaws that gaped so eagerly below. All night long a fiery circle of glowing eyes hemmed her tree about, their owners keeping a vigil more watchful than any sentry in a beleaguered camp.

She was lost in a lonely wood patch where only a chance hunter might be expected to come to her rescue and the wolves, she knew, would never leave their post until she fell from sheer exhaustion.

Eighteen full hours had ticked slowly from the pages of time before she noticed any cessation in the vigilance of her besiegers. About 9 o'clock of the morning after she had taken to the tree a wolf lifted its nose, sniffed the air and growled menacingly. The others followed suit and first one, then the other four, silently rose to their feet and glided out of sight like gray wraiths.

Miss Thomas, relieved and astonished at their departure, scarcely dared believe her eyes and, even though they had disappeared, feared to descend from her place of safety, despite her cramped position and the fatigue which 18 hours of difficult vigil had entailed.

Not until her rescuers had discovered her, and aided her descent, was Miss Thomas able to leave her hiding place.

MAN WHO SHOT BONDS FIRED ON

Monroe Fisher Wounded In Attack

TEMPLE, May 18. (AP)—Monroe Fisher, under a charge of murder in connection with the death of Albert W. Bonds, was wounded here early this morning. A charge from a shotgun was fired into his automobile as it passed an alley. Birdshot sprayed his face and arms, but his wounds are said not to be dangerous. Police arrested one man. Officers said the shooting had no connection with the Bonds-Fisher feud, in which Bonds, former Bell county sheriff, and Wiley Fisher, formerly Temple chief of police, have lost their lives and Monroe and Johnny Fisher, sons of the former police chief, are under charge of murder.

Roy Willoughby, 40, Santa Fe brakeman, was charged with assault to murder in connection with Fisher's shooting shortly before noon today and was immediately released on bond.

Fisher, employed as caller at the Santa Fe station, said a man fired on him as he passed an alley in the north part of town about 1:30 a. m. After treatment for several birdshot wounds in his face at a hospital he drove to his home in an automobile.

Hero of Mississippi Flood Rescues 168 From Death In River's Maw

ALEXANDERIA, La., May 18. (AP) The Mississippi valley flood has brought a new conception of the amount of suffering humanity can bear.

W. T. Clark of Alexanderia, veteran of the World war, accredited with saving 168 lives in the Bayou Des Glaises sector, declared today he had never witnessed so much distress within a space of two days as he saw last Sunday and Monday.

A child was born in his small boat as he was carrying the mother to safety. A man and his two children were drowned before Clark's eyes when the house they were on toppled over into the water after he had rescued the man's wife.

Directed in his work of rescue by aviators, Clark has piloted his little boat about the region, removing persons from their houses after they had been trapped by the flood, taking them from tree tops to which they had fled in advance of the water and going to their assistance as they stood shivering and weeping on levee tops surrounded by the racing torrents.

He has given his entire time to the business of saving lives and was back today in the area aiding in the evacuation of persons who delayed too long their departure.

Graham, Spell and Camp Named Delegates to National Lions Meet

Dr. R. H. Graham, K. C. Spell and J. Tol Camp were elected to represent the Wichita Falls Lions club at the International convention of the organization to be held in Miami, Fla., in June, at the weekly luncheon on Wednesday. E. F. Bohmfalk, Lion song-leader, was also nominated on the recommendation of former District Governor Fred Newman, in appreciation of work done on the recent McAllen trip.

The Wednesday meeting was featured by reports and comments on the convention at McAllen which the local delegation secured for this city in 1928. A decorative plaster cast of a lion was presented the president, Dr. Graham, with an expression of gratitude from the organization delivered by Rev. Gus Barnes.

A small silver cup was presented Sam Gose for his "generosity" on the excursion at the opening of the meeting.

A committee consistsing of Joe Dickey, J. W. Lyle, E. F. Bohmfalk and Gus Barnes was appointed by the president to formulate resolutions of regret at the passing of P. A. (Pete) Rogers, characterized by Dr. Graham as "one of the best citizens Wichita Falls has ever had or will ever have."

Following two solos by Alva Willgus and L. F. Aldrich, an "impromptu chorus" was formed from the membership present and several songs of the "old favorite" variety sung. Those in the chorus were Alva Willgus, E. F. Bohmfalk, Sam Gose, H. W. Gray, R. B. Underwood of Ranger, L. E. Aldrich and Captain G. W. Thomas.

That's Mexico City's Ban Announced Against Hay-Burners

MEXICO CITY, May 18. (AP) Mexico's ubiquitous beast of burden, the burrow, has been barred from the streets of the capital.

The patient, picturesque little animals which for centuries have packed cargoes of country produce to the metropolis now interfere with automobile traffic and according to official orders issued today, give an "undignified aspect to a civilized city." Therefore the authorities forbid burros upon any paved street during daylight hours.

POLICE GLEAN DEATH CLEWS

Dictagraph Evidence May Solve Murders

LOS ANGELES, May 18. (AP)—A maze of evidence declared to link the slaying of George E. Powell Jr., wealthy broker, and his secretary, Miss Margie Pike, with an asserted dictagraph scheme to pry into the secrets of the financial muddle of the Julian Petroleum corporation today engrossed a corps of investigators from the district attorney's office.

The dictagraph plot theory was injected into the case last night by Chief Deputy District Attorney Harold Davis after police had announced their conclusion that the deaths of the couple, whose bullet-pierced bodies were found in Powell's parked automobile yesterday, was a case of murder and suicide growing out of the unrequitted infatuation of a neurotic girl stenographer for her employer.

Disclosing that the broker and his secretary had been under surveillance for several days Davis ordered an inquest, stopped arrangements being made to send the girl's body to relatives in the east and seized her trunk and all personal belongings.

Davis said his investigation was to determine where the deaths might have possibly have been a double murder by outside influences.

Davis' theory was that Powell and a dictagraph connection with the private office of Loeb, Walker & Loeb, attorneys for S. C. Lewis, who recently resigned as president of the Julian Petroleum coporation after asking that trading in the corporation's stock be suspended because of an over-issue. Several investigations into the affairs of the Julian company are in progress here.

Powell was suspected of having set up his receiving apparatus in a vacant room of the building in which the attorneys' offices and the offices of the Discount Corporation of California, of which he was manager, were located.

Miss Pike was believed to have taken down in shorthand the conversations which came in over the instrument.

Thomason of El Paso

THOMASON of El Paso, Robert Ewing Thomason, is in the spotlight again. Thomason of El Paso served in the house three terms. He was elected speaker. His popularity became widespread. He aspired to the office of governor. He announced as a candidate. This in 1920. Pat Morris Neff was in the running. Former Attorney General J. F. Looney was in the running.

Thomason was strong with the women voters. He was backed by the labor organizations. He appeared to have friends everywhere. Pat Morris Neff won the prize. Thomason of El Paso retired from the political field and began the practice of law. He built up a large practice. His political friends said that he had enough.

Not so. Time rolled on. Democrats of El Paso needed a new broom in the office of mayor. They had grown weary of the old broom and its sweeping. Thomason was nominated. He was elected. There was a tremendous vote cast. Thomason won by a large majority.

El Paso is a fast growing city. It is a modern city. It has a population of 110,000. It is the gateway to Mexico. When peace comes to Mexico and the Mexicans, El Paso hopes to be a city of 200,000 and to be the recipient of a vast Mexicon trade. Thomason of El Paso was inaugurated a short time ago. Just the other day at San Angelo he was elected president of the Texas League of Municipalities. This by unanimous vote.

He accepted the honor. He made a speech. He didn't say a word about office holding in the future. He did let the people know that he was alive to the needs of Texas and legislation which will make Texas first as well as economic administration of state affairs. Baileyism was uppermost in 1920. Robert Ewing Thomason carried Cook county, the former home of Bailey in the primary contest. This was a great victory for the then speaker of the lower house. Had it not been for Baileyism, Thomason of El Paso might have won the prize.

Now Democrats are asking if Thomason of El Paso has had a new birth and hopes to be governor of Texas some day. He was reared in Cook county and Cook county is on the fringe of Red river, and not where the West begins. He moved to El Paso after he had been prosecuting attorney of Cook county and in El Paso he became a pillar of society and a leader of the Democrats of the gateway to Mexico.

Thomason of El Paso is not an elderly statesman. He is in his 40's. Politicians in other sections are going to watch the movements of a defeated candidate for governor who recently became mayor of a fast growing city on the upper border of the Rio Grande and then preident of the Texas League of Municipalities.

The Bear and the Lion

NOW it is said that the Russian bear and the British lion are nearing the breaking point. It goes without saying that the Russian bear poked its nose into the rich preserves of the lion in China.

Of course, the lion did not like it. Of course, the bear enjoyed it. There is no love lost between the lion and the bear.

John Bull backed down in China. He is not going to punish the Russian bear or the Chinese, not at this time at least. He retaliated by sending his detectives to Soviet-Russian headquarters in the city of London and ransacking the place for treasonable papers.

Then the bear let a howl. Then the lion grinned. There is a League of Nations. It may have plenty of work put out for it in the near future.

A Judge and His Views

SUPREME Court Justice Townsend Scudder of New York sat in the trial of the Snyder-Gray case. A jury returned a verdict of guilty and at the proper time the judge pronounced the penalty, fixed by law. He sent the murderer and the murderess to the electric chair. And yet, Justice Scudder is opposed to capital punishment. He does not believe in the taking of human life. These are his words?

"I believe that the good Lord gave life and I do not believe that we have the right to take it away. These are my own personal views and in no sense reflect upon the verdict of the jury who convicted these two persons."

Now all New Yorkers who are opposed to capital punishment are going to get busy. They are going to ask that the sentences be commuted to life imprisonment. They are going to say that it would be a shame to send a woman to the electric chair.

If the man goes to the chair, why not his guilty partner? She was a wife. She had all the comforts and many of the luxuries. Her husband worked to furnish these. She slew him. This is the evidence, this is the verdict. The verdict of the jury.

Mike Spills the Beans

MIKE O'SHEA of the Old Bay state has spilled the beans for Calvin Coolidge. Mike for many years has been active in Republican politics in Massachusetts. He let it be known that he has in his possession a petition opposing Theodore Roosevelt for a third term signed by one Calvin Coolidge. Mike in 1912 was for Taft. He was opposed to a third term for Teddy. He circulated the petition. Calvin signed it. Mike kept the petition, or at least he says he kept the petition. Calvin has refused to be interviewed. If he signed it, "he's up against it."

New Jersey Sets the Pace

NEW JERSEY has a state board of education. This board has approved a four-year course of training for high school teachers and the course will be put into effect this year. There are eight state schools in Texas maintained for the training of teachers, and all this without a regular state board of education.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, May 18. (EFS)—A Broadway optician said the other day:

"I am glad the Snyder-Gray murder trial is over. Morning and night, for two months the newspapers have carried pictures of Judd Gray staring out at us through his big, horn-rim spectacles. It's had a bad effect on our business. Men come in, try on horn-rims, squint at themselves in the glass and say: 'No, I don't think I'll bother with the horn-rims. They remind me too much of Judd Gray!'"

Major Mills, who "rassles" hooch hereabouts for Uncle Sam, declares that last year he diverted 90,000,000 quarts of liquid damnation from illegal channels of consumption.

"By doing so," says the Maje, "my belief is I saved New York at least $60,000,000 headaches."

Yet, last month, the town's leading bootleggers kicked in $5,000,000 in income taxes. Fifteen million dollars' worth of Canada's $17,000,000 annual liquor export came to the United States with most of it headed toward the 25,000 speakeasies of Tammany Town.

All of which may explain why the proprietor of a Poison Parlor, operating under the guise of a saloon in the Blind Tiger Jungles west of the Theater Belt, keeps a framed picture of Wayne B. Wheeler hung on the wall, back o' the bar.

"If it wasn't fer him, gents," he says with feeling, indicating the picture, "I'd be out workin'."

Adolph Zukor had the incandescent clock on top of his new Paramount building at 43rd street and Broadway, lighted for the first time the other night and the excitement that ensued along Bulb Boulevard recalled the fuss they made years ago, back home, the day the new siren was installed in the quarters of Excelsior Hook and Ladder company No. 1.

Every once in a while in New York you run across some manifestation of the fact that while the flapper may dominate the life and thought of the town, she is not paramount.

For example one of the biggest ladies' footwear, gents clothing, underwear, tar-paper and caramel bazaars on Fifth avenue advertised recently that "Old-Fashioned Undies" were for sale at their shop, "for old-fashioned ladies who, like as not, have been making their own, under considerable difficulty and expense."

A young Greek bootblack on upper Broadway who arrived in this country a few years ago and who cannot read nor write has accumulated $25,000 which is safely placed in banks or investments.

He has earned the money with his own hands, a rag and a couple of brushes, we are told. He could retire to his native country and live at ease for the remainder of his life but he is going to stay here because he thinks this is the land of opportunity.

"Many a smart-alec native with a fancy education," observes an editorial commentator, "will never acquire $25,000 in his whole life and will whine himself into complete failure because he will not see opportunity, work at it and forego vain expenses."

The owner of the newspaper in which that editorial appeared has reaped a fortune from Boob Bazaars that advertise in his columns with the sole idea of cadging every available, stray nickel from the pockets of the "smart-aleck" subscribers.

In his editorial columns Ye Editor preaches thrift, while his advertising pages are thrown open daily to those who urge wanton waste in the purchase of fripperies.

My Son's Sweethearts

ILLUSTRATED AND COPYRIGHTED BY JOHNSON FEATURES INC.

by IDA McGLONE GIBSON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Phillip Wynne Tracy IV brings Natlee Jones back to his house in the car that his mother has just given him.

Although his mother had expected to go out for the first ride with him she gives him $10 to take Natlee to Arrowhead Inn.

She becomes very nervous when he does not come home until late and her annoyance in greater when she finds that her son has proposed to Natlee and hopes to marry her before he leaves for school.

Mr. Jones, who is the Tracy's milkman, objects quite as much to Phillip as Mrs. Tracy objects to Natlee.

Mrs. Tracy begins to send out invitations tea party and leaves out Natlee, but thinks she will invite a friend of her own—a very gay married woman in whom she unconsciously interests her son before he meets her. She also tells him that her prayer has always been that her son will never make any woman as unhappy as his father has made her.

He goes to sleep, thinking of his mother's friend, and wakes with the determination to buy a safety razor.

Without the knowledge of his mother Phil plans to have Natlee come to the party with Rodney Maxwell, his friend, and then goes to meet Mrs. Hilliard at the train. She flirts with him as though he were a grown up man.

Natlee Jones Gave Rodney a Comprehending Glance—She, Too, had Grown Up.

CHAPTER VII.

NATLEE JONES ALSO GROWS UP

Rodney Maxwell lounged against the big elm tree that had stood sentinel in front of the house across the street from the home of Natlee Jones ever since he could remember.

Rodney was not very happy, for he had loved Natlee quite as long as Wynne Tracy had but was coming now to understand that Natlee loved only Phil.

As children the three had grown up together forming a youthful triangle from the time that he and Wynne were 6 and Natlee was 5 years old.

Rodney, being a rather stolid boy of a one-track mind, had never swerved from his allegiance to her even when he recognized that Wynne has her first choice.

He seemed satisfied to take what Natlee gave him from time to time when Wynne had one of his periods of neglect.

The truth of the matter was that although Rodney Maxwell was yet too young to know it, he had a genius for friendship instead of love.

Such men go through life just "finning in"—they try to heal the wounded hearts and the pride of the girls their friends throw away—they even try to heal the breach between the girls they love and the friends to whom they give loyalty even while they disapprove of their thoughtlessness.

They do this because the love of such men is always unselfish, having more of friendliness than passion in it. They are always giving more than that for which they ask. They want the girl they love to be happy even at their expense.

Rodney suspected nothing queer about taking Natlee's invitation to her in the peculiarly informal way that Phillip had given it to him.

It did not enter his mind that formal Mrs. Tracy would not invite any one to her house to a party through another person who was asked to say nothing about it even to her.

He had accepted Wynne's explanation without a shadow of a doubt that Mrs. Tracy had sent him to Natlee with the message.

From his vantage place at the old tree he saw her come out of the house and he called to her softly: "Oh, Nat."

He was surprised to find she had been crying. Her eyes were red and swollen. She did not answer him but silently pointed down the street and Rod, obeying the command as he had often done before, walked quickly ahead and turned the first corner.

As soon as he was out of sight of house he slowed up and before he had gone half a block he was joined by the girl.

"Did Wynne send you to me, Rod?" was her first question.

"Yes—how did you know?"

"I thought it would be just like him to send you and just like you to come.

"He has not been near me since we went to Arrowhead Inn in his new car."

"He told me, Natlee, that your father had promised him a horse-whipping if he came to your house or your father saw you together."

"I never knew before that Wynne was a coward," the girl remarked, bitterly.

"He isn't Nat—he isn't," Rodney earnestly came to the rescue of his friend's reputation.

"He told me that threat of our father's meant nothing to him, but after your fussy old daddy had gone to his mother and spilled the beans he could hardly get into a row with your father over you again."

"In other words, Wynne does not think I am worth the risking of a fight!"

"What's the matter with you this morning Nat? You've got it all wrong. Wynne is thinking of you every minute and is willing to risk everything for you and so is his mother. That is the reason they sent me to you."

"I'm sure that's very nice of them," said she dryly.

"Don't be silly Nat," broke in Rodney with as much impatience as he ever used to any one.

"You know as well as I that Philly Wynne Tracy IV thinks the world and all of you. Why, you and I are the only ones on earth he allows to call him 'Wynne.' You remember the day you said you were going to call him by his middle name and he answered that he wished both of us would, as that would make everyone understand that our three-cornered friendship was eternal and that we considered him our best friend—a little nearer than any of the rest of the boys and girls."

"Yes, I remember," confirmed Natlee, but she did not add that even at that time she had not relished the idea of Wynne letting someone else—even if it were dear old Rodney—use the name that she had hoped would be exclusively hers.

"Now look here Nat, be yourself for a minute. Wynne sent me to you with a wonderful plan. His mother is going to give a party to all the sons and daughters of her friends and she wants you to come."

"Does she—are the invitations out? I have not received mine yet. I don't think I'm really in line for that party anyway, Rod. You see, my dad is not Mrs. Anne Huntington Tracy's friend. He has only been her milkman for years."

"He is not that any more Nat," remarked, Rodney with a grin. Then he told her that her father had refused to deliver any more milk to the Tracy residence.

Natlee Jones grew almost hysterical as she alternately laughed over her father's silly action and cried over his tyrannical ideas of his dignity as a father.

"You wait till I see him tonight, Rod, and I'll tell him that he can't act this way with me. I'll run away from home and earn my own living.

"No you won't Natlie—promise me you won't do that," pleaded Rodney, clasping both her hands as if he would himself keep her from that extreme.

"Well," he contigued more calmly, "you can certainly see that after all this Mrs. Tarcy could not risk another visit from your father after she had been spoken to in the insulting way he had talked to her the other day.

"Yes—yes—yes—"

"Wait a minute Nat—don't be so darn quick to interrupt—you are altogether too suspicious. Mrs. Tracy likes you very much—I am sure of it—even if she may think you have been unfortunate in picking a father—"

"But Rod—"

"Shut up girl until I tell you what she has done.

"I'm to come over for you the night of the party—or better still you are to tell your folks that you are going to stay all night with one of the girls and I'll go after you there."

"I never lie to my father and mother, Rodney," Natlee again interrupted him.

"Well, you needn't lie now, need you? I'll arrange for you to stay all night with some one of the other girls who are going."

"But I don't know any of those society girls well enough for that."

"I'm sure some one is going that you know. Claire O'Donnell told me the other day that she thought you were the prettiest girl in town and that she was going to have you at her next party."

Natlee Jones' scarlet mouth grew mutinous and her dark blue eyes showed the fire of hurt pride in their luminous depths.

"I hope you thanked her for her kindness and consideration of me, Rod."

"Look here, Nat, I ought to go away and just let you make yourself miserable."

"Why don't you, Rod?"

"Because I guess I'm not built that way—I can't bear to see any one I love suffer."

That answer drew a quick, furtive glance from the tear-suffused eyes partly hidden under Natlee's curling lashes.

With a quick change of mood she said: "Tell me all about Mrs.—what Wynne wants me to do, Rod. I'll listen without interrupting again."

"Glad you have come to your senses at last. It's this way. I'm to bring you to the party and your father need not know hat you have been a Wynne's house at all."

"Are you sure, Rod, that this is Mrs. Tracy's plan?"

"There you go again—you said you were not going to interrupt," said Rod impatiently. "Of course I'm sure it's her plan. You see she does it in the way so you will be sure to get there. She's afraid if she sent you a formal invitation your father would never let you go.

"If I fix up with Claire you'll go won't you, Natlee?"

"I won't bother Miss O'Donnell, Rod. If I go I'll get aunt Julia to let me go to her home and stay the rest of the night after the party and you can come for me there."

"Are you sure it will be all right, Natlee?"

"Perfectly. Aunt Julia is not so old that she has forgotten that she once was young. I'll tell her the whole story and I know that she will think that dad is unreasonable. You know she's his only sister and he kept her from marrying the man of her choice. Poor thing, I don't think she has ever forgiven him for compelling her to be an old maid."

"You're a brick, Natlee, and I know you are going to have a great time at the party. It's going to be a wonderful dinner dance and I am sure that Mrs. Tracy and Wynne would not have it if they thought you could not be there. I must be off now to find Wynne and tell him the good news."

"Where are you going to meet him?"

"I expect that he will be at his own home by this time. His mother has sent him to the station to meet some one of her friends who is going to visit at her house for a while. I don't envy Wynne—he's slated to cart around some too-fat or too-thin middle-aged dame who will probably tell him that he reminds her of her little boy who died six years ago."

"What makes you think that, Rod?"

"I didn't think it, Natlee—I only wanted to see the color of your eyes when you opened them before your mouth smiled."

Natlee Jones gave Rodney Maxwell a comprehending glance—she, too, had grown up.

A Case of Erysipelas.

I receive many letters from physicians who read these daily health articles, and I am able to say that most of these letters are pleasing to me, as they contain many compliments about the work I am doing in educating the general public in the ways and means of preventing and curing disease.

But, occasionally, some doctor writes me and criticizes my viewpoint about the cause of disease. The other day I received a letter from a doctor who objected to a statement I made in a recent article in which I claimed that erysipelas was caused by a faulty diet and could be cured by fasting and diet treatment. He asked me, in the letter, if I did not know that this trouble was caused by the hemolytic bacteria streptococcus erysipelatis, and that diet ing had nothing to do with it. Yes, Doctor, I am perfectly familiar with the statements made in the medical textbooks about this bacteria being the cause of erysipelas, as I have probably studied the same medical textbooks as you have. I do know I have gone a step further than this in my studies, for I have found, as you must have found by now, that the destruction of this bacteria will not cure erysipelas, or prevent its recurrence. There must be a systemic acidosis present in the body before the bacteria or erysipelas can find a suitable hunting ground. Such acidosis is built up through the use of improper foods and faulty food combinations. When the patient is in such a condition of chronic poisoning, it only takes an extra day or two of the wrong food to bring on an "attack" of erysipelas.

The day I received the doctor's critical letter, a mother brought her little boy to my office for diagnosis. He was suffering from some ugly looking, purplish, red spots which appeared on both legs below the knee; also, a few spots were showing on his thighs. His trouble was easy to diagnose as erysipelas. The boy, apparently well the day before, had eaten a dish of ice cream during the afternoon after already having eaten a large meal. He became nauseated shortly afterwards and disgorged the whole contents of his stomach by violent vomiting. The rest of the day he felt fairly well, but in the morning the discolored spots appeared.

What do you suppose the connection could be between the boy setting sick from over-eating and the streptococcus erysipelatis? Had the bacteria of erysipelas just been waiting around the corner to grab this boy whenever he over-ate? Why no, of course not! He had all the possibilities of erysipelas lurking in his system and only needed the additional bad meal to bring the trouble to the surface of the skin.

What was the treatment given? Simply keeping the affected parts clean and having the boy fast on orange juice and water until the temperature, which he had, reduced to the normal. The curing of an acute case of erysipelas is very simply accomplished by this same treatment.

Whether any streptococcus erysipelatis were present or not is not important, but if they were—they apparently left after a few days fast to look for some more suitable feeding grounds.

(In the next article, I will explain more about the cause and cure of chronic erysipelas.)

QUESTION: An interested woman writes: "Will you please give me advice on thin cloth for children? I do not believe in overdressing, but with no skirts and bare legs the poor little souls are chilled most of the time. Some tell me it will toughen them, but you seldom see a child that hasn't large tonsils or shows signs of cold. Don't you think it will pave the way for many diseases?"

ANSWER: Children should be warmly dressed but no more clothing should be used than absolutely necessary. If they are active in their play when out-of-doors, they can wear scanty clothing in the winter time and still keep up a good circulation. Enlarged tonsils and colds are not caused by scanty clothing, but rather by wrong foods.

QUESTION: Mrs. E. T. Writes: "Is the use of soda in the cooking of vegetables injurious?"

ANSWER: Soda is put into vegtables to later destroy any possible acid which may exist in the body. Although it is not injurious, much of the natural taste of the food is lost.

QUESTION: Constant Reader writes: "What are the causes and symptoms of absess of the bladder? And what can be done for this trouble? Is it the same as cystitis?"

ANSWER: The symptoms of cystitis and abscess of the bladder are practically the same, except that with abscess there is liable to be a danger of large quantities of pus. The cure is usually in eliminating the irritating toxins which are in the urine. It is advisable to drink large quantities of water with these troubles, so as to flush the bladder more completely.

Woe unto them that join house to house, lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth.

In mine ears said the Lord of hosts. Of a truth, many houses shall be desolate, even great and fair, without inhabitant.

Yea, ten acres of vineyard shall yield one bath, and the seed of an homer shall yield an epah.

Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that continue until night, till wine inflame them.—Isaiah 5:8-12.

—and many have found the new Star Six to be the perfect companion. This fine car has two definite appeals to the woman of taste and good judgment: first, its inward and outward distinction; second, its unusual freedom from mechanical troubles. And of course there is a sensible economy that no woman overlooks. But most of all is its style and smartness—it is intentionally a proud car for proud buyers.

All we ask is that you DRIVE A STAR before you decide that any other low-priced car is "just as good." Then buy the car that suits you best.

MODISH MITZI — Is Polly Lost At Sea? — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi doesn't know whether she should ask the Captain to stop the boat or not. She can't find Polly. She's not in the Lounge though there are a number of hats like hers with upturned brims, notes Mitzi who recognizes most people by the clothes they wear. Her own hat has a small irregular brim and helmet crown.

When last seen Polly was wearing a sports dress not unlike the two piece knitted zephyr one worn by the lady leaning against the life preserver. Mitzi nerves herself to try out a recently acquired French phrase on the Deck Steward. He tells her in offhand American that Miss Polly's at the Puppet Show.

Mitzi's walked miles. This is her third time around the Rotunda following the misleading hats that might be Polly's. The one with the turban and the upturned brim effect is very smart. Most hats this season, whether they are of felt or of straw, have high crowns, —many of them made higher by diminishing the brim. Who would have expected to find Polly's boucle crowned hat here. Polly at the Puppett Show! "This is expressly for children, Polly," informs Mitzi in a you-should-know-better tone. "Yes," replies Polly absently, "do sit down."

It Always Pays To Help Others Even If They're Ungrateful, Says Dix

Why It Pays to Help Others Even When They Are Ungrateful—

Dear Miss Dix—I have always tried to help those less fortunate than myself, but have always been stung. This has happened so often that I have the reputation of being easy, and recently I overheard a young man I had lent money to say to another: "Just tell him a hard-luck story and put a sob in your voice and he will shell out." This makes me feel as if I never wanted to help any one again. What must I do? Turn a deaf ear to pleas for help and be all for self, or continue to be "worked" by the ungrateful?

C. E. E.

Answer—To try to help people is the most discouraging and disillusioning thing on earth, and every philanthropist has to struggle against becoming a pessimist.

Instead of those on whom you bestow assistance being grateful and rising up and blessing you for your generosity, it nearly always makes them hate you instead of love you. They unconsciously resent your benefactiohs because they feel that it puts them in an inferior position to you, and it fills them with bitter envy instead of warm appreciation. They take what you have to give, but they are like snarling dogs that bite the hand that feeds them.

And it is discouraging to try to help people because it is so difficult to do it without pauperizing them. Nine out of ten will simply lie down and let anybody else support them who will do it. Even when you lend money to tide some one over a bad place you do it at your peril, because nothing is truer than the old saying, that when you lend to a friend you lose both your money and your friend.

The generous are so often the prey of grafters and ingrates that it is no wonder they feel at times like putting a secure lock on their pocketbooks and shutting their hearts to every cry of distress.

But when we give, we help ourselves as much as we do the objects of our charity, and whether they are appreciative or not, we are sure of our own blessing. We cast our bread upon the waters and it comes back to us angels' food for our soul's sustaining.

We can only keep the beautiful things of life alive by watering them with our tears of pity for others and nourishing them with our sacrifices.

You never see a selfish person who is contented. You never see a miser who is happy. You never see a suspicious person who is an optimist. But you see many happy people who are unworldly and kindly and generous. It is the soft marks with soft hearts who get the most out of life.

IT is reliably estimated that it costs on the average $20 per year for removing carbon from a six-cylinder motor. This does not include the cost of necessary repairs due to the wear and tear which carbon causes.

That's why you save money when you use Conoco Ethyl Gasoline even though it costs 3c more per gallon than ordinary gasoline. It costs you about 25c more a week—$13 a year—but it saves you double this amount by reducing carbon removal and wear and tear bills. Isn't that wise economy?

HARLEM JOE

Mr. Kiefer probably will be called on to silence 'em, those Bears in San Antonio, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Kiefer has developed much of a reputation as a silencer.

And your kid friend Petey Turgeon continues to clout. The urchin pinked a pair in twice official "ups" yesterday, making her his 26th base hit game.

Habits of great men: Jabez A. Gardner, he stays down town and parades the streets when the Spudders win. Just inquire of Mrs. Jabez, but when they lose he's home in a hurry.

YUS

Very warm weather these days, yet some people come up with cold feet. For instance, J. Reynolds.

RAZZ FOR WHOM?

On after meditation, perhaps that remark was too hasty. Tuesday evening's little episode at the arena might be entitled Bilking the Boob. Now try to figure out who the Boob is. Is it the cash customer who got his money back or is it the cash customer who stayed? Or is it J. Reynolds or A. Ross?

* * *

Just why the run-around Reynolds gave Gorman when the latter was subbed for Yaqui Joe? That's Reynolds' privilege if his explanation of the situation be correct to-wit: "They're trying to put one over on me. I came to wrestle the Indian and knew nothing about Gorman until I hit town Tuesday morning."

* * *

Just why Reynolds wouldn't just as soon grapple Gorman is beside the issue. The fact, if any, remains Reynolds had no idea that he was billed with the San Angelo flash until he blew in Tuesday morn. That, if true, is bad business. You don't hear of a Tunney or a Dempsey walking in and fulfilling an engagement he knew nothing of.

* * *

The mess all the way around stacks mightily like a heavy shot of mismanagement from a promotorial angle. The fact the customers who remained on deck were satisfied with the substitute card doesn't matter. Many more misplays like that one and the grapple game in Wichita Falls will be deader than the biff sport has been locally the past year or so, and that's right down in lower nine of cemetery row, judging by the meager turn-out at the bang-up Hull-Irvine scrap the other night.

Matchmaker Ross, all defense pleas to the contrary, went off half-cocked on that intended Reyolds-Gorman scramble. Of course, Reynolds could have come to the rescue and said, "Oh, well, you're in the lurch; I'll help even if I don't like the lay of things." But Reynolds didn't do that and the fans who came to see Reynolds perform cannot necessarily blame the wrestler.

* * *

Zero in sports: Both J. Reynolds and M. Matsuda, championship claimants who, when tough challenger shows, defend their claims only oratorically.

SPUDS LOSE IN SERIES OPENER

Herb Cobb Has One Poor Inning, That's All

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 18. (AP)—The Bears came from behind after they had lost a two-run lead when Leslie Phipps, batting for Good in the seventh singled to left, bringing in Klein to tie the score, after which Flaskemper, Philbin and Leslie followed with singles to give the Bears three more runs for a comfortable lead.

Wichita Falls threatened in the eighth and ninth but fell a run shy, losing the series opener, 6 to 5.

Cobb, Spudder righthander, was knocked pretty hard in the seventh but was not taken from the mound until the eighth when he gave way to a pinch hitter who struck out but made first safely when Long dropped the third strike.

San Antonio took a two-run lead in the first inning but Wichita Falls tied the score in the second when after there was one out Turgeon walked and scored on Swenson's double and Swenson scored on LaFayette's single.

The Spudders scored another run in the sixth on a single by Jenkins, sacrifice bunt by Turgeon and single by Swenson.

The Bears pummeled Cobb in the seventh for four runs and then the league-leaders made a game effort to come back in the eighth and ninth, scoring a run in each inning.

Newman went to the box for the Bears at the start of the eighth and was greeted with a single by Turgeon. Swenson grounded out to the box and Tobin ripped a triple to center, scoring Turgeon. Lapan batted for Cobb and fanned but got to first base because Long dropped the third strike. LaFayette flied to center with no advance and Mann grounded out to second.

Fitzgerald opened the ninth with a single. Lamb bobbled out, Long to Leslie, Fitzgerald going to second. Jenkins flied out to left. Benton, batting for Swenson, drew a base on balls. Tobin walked, filling the bases by Manager Williams, hitting for White, was called out on strikes.

COLLINS HONORED

CHICAGO, May 18. (AP)—Rain ended the Chicago-Philadelphia game today in the second inning after the White Sox got off to a two-run lead. It was Eddie Collins' first appearance here this season and his former teammates presented their one-time manager with a wrist watch, a diamond stick pin and a base on balls before the deluge started.

LONDOS PINS JONES

ST. LOUIS, May 18. (AP)—After outwrestling his adversary throughout the whole match Paul Jones, youthful Californian, fell victim to Jimmy Londos' reverse head lock leverages and was floored for the only fall of the match here Tuesday night. The fall came after an hour and 13 minutes of wrestling. Jones injured his neck and was unable to return to the mat for the second fall.

He Looks Fit For a Fight

Jack Dempsey looks to be in better condition today than when he dropped his world's heavyweight title. He recently broke the privacy which has surrounded his training activities when he appeared for the benefit of the flood sufferers at an exhibition staged on the beach of the fashionable Gables club at Santa Monica. Jack proved his shape by taking on two sparring partners for fast bouts, and then engaged in a wrestling match.

He's to fight the winner of the Sharkey-Maloney biff affair, according to the latest dope advanced by T. Rickard.

Williams' American Eagles played a poor brand of baseball Wednesday afternoon at Katy park, but it was enough to beat the Texas Electrics 8 to 4. The Americans made nine errors in the field back of Roper.

Specks Roper made his first start of the year against the Electrics and looked like a very good pitching prospect. He allowed only six hits and he gave up only one pass.

Slim Kellogg, of the Eagles, playing his first game this year in the league, slapped out two base hits; Estep, also of the Eagles, hit two out of three. Downey was the only man with the Electrics that could get the second hit.

Bill Andree struck a wild spell in the second inning and the game was lost in this one round for him. After he had pulled out of the second inning he hurled great ball the rest of the way. Andree was given sensational backing, and several times it was sparkling fielding that pulled him out of the hole.

Doc Allen turned in the best catch of the day in right field when he took Rounsaville's drive to right with one hand while going at a dead run. Score:

The Municipal Gas company and Postoffice teams of the City league square off Thursday afternoon on the Jalonick street diamond at 5:30 o'clock.

Both clubs will be endeavoring to break into the victory column. A fast and snappy game is expected, for each is ambitious to overtake the league-leading Jackson Tire company outfit. The Scotland Plumbers are tied with the Tiremen at 1,000 per cent but have played only one game against Jackson's two.

TIGERS BUNCH ON SENS, 5 TO 3

Whitehill Fans 10; McManus Bats 3 Runs In

DETROIT, May 18. (AP)—Detroit made their hits count today and defeated Washington in the opening game of the series, 5 to 3. Marty McManus, with two doubles, drove in three of the Tiger runs. Bassler, a Detroit catcher, was put out of the game in the seventh inning for disputing a decision of Umpire Nallin on a called ball. An inning later Umpire Dineen chased Jack Onslow, coach of the Washington pitchers from the dugout after Goslin had been called out at first on a close play.

Whitehill struck out 10 Washington batters. He fanned six in the first four innings, striking out the side in the first inning.

SPORT a la CARTE

by ROY GROVE

Baseball is not getting the sensational breaks it did years ago.

Where are those unassisted double and triple plays, pitchers striking out half the opposing team, home runs with the bases filled and all that sort of stuff?

We may go through the season without hearing of a no-hit game.

Every department has tightened to such an extent that a double play is a thriller these days.

* * *

The American league has a new manager, Daniel Philip Howley of the St. Louis Browns, who holds a minor league record. Few probably ever thought that of Dan, and his was a most sensational one at that.

While managing and catching for the Montreal Internationals, Dan slapped out two home runs in one game while the bases were filled. He won his game, 15 to 6.

If you care to read of more heart-failing sensational home run hitting, we refer you to a scheduled game when Nig Clarke, playing with the Corsicana, Texas, league back in 1902, made eight home runs in one game. They have the records to prove it, but it is with you and I alike, they'll have to show us.

On that basis Babe Ruth still has something to shoot at.

Before the days of scientific baseball there seemed to be no limit to the riding of the apple. The game was a case of hit and run and it took an athlete to throw the runner out.

In these days of controlable baseball every hit counts. There was a day back in 1885 when George Strief distinguished himself with wholesale triples. He slapped out four three baggers in five times at bat. Joyce, playing third base for the New York Giants, did likewise when he sent out four triples in 1897 in a game with Pittsburgh.

We'd like the days of that lively ball.

Boston Drives Sherdel To Club House

BOSTON, May 18. (AP)—The Boston Braves humbled the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 1, in the first game of the series here today. His wild throw allowed the only St. Louis run, but his double with the bases loaded in the sixth produced the first three Boston tallies. The score:

Rule Makers Lift Cage Dribble Ban

Protests Force Change Of Committee Opinion

NEW YORK, May 18. (AP)—The recent action of the joint basketball rules committee limiting the use of the dribble, has been rescinded and the dribble will remain in status quo for the 1927-28 season.

This announcement was made Wednesday by John Brown Jr., a member of the committee, after a mail vote conducted by its chairman, L. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State university, among the 20 members of the committee.

The committee adopted the dribble rule, generally recognized as one of the most drastic bits of basketball legislation in the game's history, on April 9. Announcement of the rule was followed by a nation-wide controversy among coaches, players, officials and others. The rule would have limited the dribble to a single bound whereas the number of bounds previously was unlimited.

Recognizing the difficulty involved in putting the rule into force immediately the committee decided to defer the change until its meeting in April, 1928, and urged players, coaches, officials and others associated with the game to make a thorough study in the meantime in order that suggestions might be brought before the meeting next year.

Wade Praises Wichita Falls C-C For Success of Convention Here

It's all over now—

Formerly was a title to a song but it was a form of expression Wednesday by men actively connected with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, which came to an end Tuesday night.

Homer D. Wade, general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said that words could not express his opinion of the successful convention.

"I cannot say it forcibly enough and I don't think anybody else can—but the Wichita Falls convention was the most successful in the history of the organization and set a mark for other convention cities to shoot at.

"The greater part of the success of the convention belongs to the splendid organization of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. The efforts expended by the memberos of that organization made the convention a success—my hat goes off to Hubert Harrison and his 'gang' of the best convention promoters in history."

Mayor Shepherd asserted that he was pleased with the orderly manner in which the convention was conducted.

"The attendants at the convention," said Mayor Shepherd, "conducted themselves in an excellent manner. Very few arrests were made and the police department had little trouble.

"I want to congratulate the West Texas and Wichita Falls Chambers of Commerce on bringing to Wichita Falls the 'greatest convention in the history of Texas.' It was a success from start t ofinish and a credit to our city."

Carter Thanks Council And City For C-C Aid

In a statement issued Wednesday, Police and Fire Commissioner Roy E. Carter stated that he was very grateful to the local citizenship of Wichita Falls who co-operated so well in the handling of the traffic during the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and made special mention of the fine work contributed by various members of the safety council, some of whom took their "beats" at various busy intersections and helped the traffic officers to expedite the movement of traffic.

"I feel that our men worked hard and faithfully," said Mr. Carter, "but they never could have achieved the result they did save for the wonderful co-operation on the part of the majority of our citizenship."

Mr. Carter said that now that the convention was over, local traffic ordinances would be enforced as before. He asked Wichita Falls residents to watch and not be guilty of wrong turns, overtime parking, alley parking and such other common violations.

A bootblack had stained his new shoe the boy reported. After some little consultation Chief Burns advised the "wronged" youth to take the matter up with the bootblack.

MAER-STANIFORTH TEST MAY OPEN NEW WEST TEXAS FIELD

ANDREWS TEST INDICATES OIL

Showing of Gas Found At Top of Lime

With a strong gas showing at 3010 feet, the wildcat test of Maer and Staniforth of Wichita Falls on the Meador ranch of Andrews county was probably the most interesting well to major companies operating in the San Angelo and Midland districts of West Texas Wednesday.

At the top of the big lime the bit was lost and as soon as the bit is recovered the hole will be carried deeper with the expectations of hitting an oil pay in the next 200 feet, according to the owners.

This is the wildest kind of a wildcat, being approximately 30 miles northeast of the Winkler county producers and equally as far from the Ector county field. It is 15 miles southwest of the town of Andrews, only town in the county, and about 20 miles from the New Mexico line.

The location is on the southeast quarter of section 15, block A-42 and surrounded by an original drilling block of 25 sections. Maer and Staniforth now own 8500 acres of this block having sold most of the remainder to major concerns.

That the showing was creating considerable excitement among major companies was evidenced in a number of queries directed here by telegraph and telephone asking for information on available acreage.

"We are not selling," W. Newton Maer declared.

Oil scouts and operators are expected to flock to the test when drilling is resumed as most production in West Texas is found in the first 300 feet of the lime.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

CHICAGO, May 18. (AP)—Butter, lower; receipts 8174 tubs; creamery extras 41c; standards 40½c; extra firsts 40@40½c; firsts 37@38½c; seconds 34@36c.

Eggs, unchanged; receipts 26,862 cases.

Oil Men Join Field Program

Even Barnsdall Promises Co-Operation

TULSA, Okla., May. 18.(AP)—Virtually all operators in the greater Seminole are co-operating in efforts to shut off further increased production in the area, Ray H. Collins, president of the Echo Oil company and shutdown umpire for the area, declared today. Even the Barnsdall corporation, the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and the Empire Gas and Fuel company, which did not vote for adoption of the curtailment resolution agreed upon at a recent meeting of the operators, have promised Mr. Collins, he said, to cooperate.

Mr. Collins for the past three days has been personally visiting the heads of the various companies in his efforts to put into effect a fruitful curtailment program. This survey is not yet complete, he said.

"Producers as a whole are cooperating in the curtailment program," Mr. Collins saidl, "including some of the companies that did not vote for the curtailment resolution at the meeting of the operation.

Decline To Be Shown

"We can not expect, however, a noticeable decrease in production or in drilling for the next two weeks due to the necessity of completing wells already started at the time of the curtailment agreement and which must be completed as offset wells or because of other requirements."

No new wells had been closed today, Mr. Collins said, beyond the 13 reported closed yesterday, six of which were by order of Mr. Collins and seven of which were closed voluntarily by the owners.

The production for the area Tuesday was 347,368 barrels, a decrease of 982 barrels from the production of the previous day.

Incidentally a new gusher was added to the pool when the Carter Oil company brought in a well after a shot, which flowed at the rate of 300 barrels per hour.

Gulf Makes Two-Mile Extension To Pampa Field in Gray County

AMARILLO, May 18.—Gray county seems to have at last hit its stride among Panhandle district counties.

More red hot news is emanating from the different pools, proven and potential, in Gray county, than in any other Panhandle county today and oil men playing that district declare that it augers well for Gray county's future.

Newest development there was the two mile extension to the Pampa field by the Gulf Production company in its No. 1 Saunders, in the southeast of the southwest of section 40, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, with a semi-gusher well. The area between the main Pampa pool and the Gulf Saunders well will now be drilled and it may be the pivotal well that will cause the Pampa pool to be widened out.

The Gulf drilled the No. 1 Saunders to a total depth of 3193 feet, being 108 feet below sea level. The lower horizon was dry, so it was plugged back to test oil showing from 2950 to 3080 feet. A shot of 410 quarts was set off and the well made 2010 barrels of 42 gravity oil the first 13 hours thereafter. The well then held up for a time at 140 barrels an hour, and settled to 55 barrels an hour.

Roxana Buys Control in Llano Acreage of North Winkler County

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 18. (AP)—Roxana Petroleum company has closed tentatively a deal for the purchase of a 51 per cent interest in the remaining acreage of the Llano Oil company in northern Winkler county, including the tract on which number one Scarbrough is located, it was learned here late Tuesday. The leases, according to the report, are on approximately 5000 acres.

General Manager McLeod of Roxana at Dallas, confirmed that the purchase is under way, but declined to announce the amount of the acreage, its location or the price, explaining that details remain to be worked out and probably will not be ready to be made public until late in the week.

The Llano No. 1 Scarbrough, 12 miles north of present Winkler county production and only 1 1-2 miles from the New Mexico line, today was standing 830 feet in oil of 39 gravity after being deepened to 3065 feet in brown sand, according to field reports. It offers the possibility of opening an entirely new pool, although there is disagreement in oil circles as to whether the well has topped the "big lime." It is in the center of section one, block C 21, public school land.

7000-Barrel Gusher For Carter in Seminole

TULSA, Okla., May 18.—Carter Oil company has the gusher well of the Seminole field, in its No. 2 Wise, 23-8-6, Bowlegs pool, which was a well drilled deeper to a total depth of 4258 feet, and a 20-quart shot was given the last 10 feet of pay, from 4248 to 4258 feet, and this morning the well started flowing 300 barrels per hour, or 7200 barrels per day. The 20 hours before the shot, it made a total of 3985 barrels. No. 4 Wise made 2210 barrels yesterday, from a total depth of 4240 feet in the Wilcox sand.

The production of the Seminole field for the 24 hours ended yesterday morning, totalled 347,369 barrels, which is but 982 barrels less than it produced the previous 24 hours. Yesterday's production was from 428 wells.

Harry Hines Drilling Two Oklahoma Tests

Harry Hines is making an effort to increase the already alarming daily production of the Sooner state in drilling two wildcats in the southern part of the state.

A mile south of Elgin and in the northwest corner of Comanche county Mr. Hines and associates are drilling at 2000 in a rejuvenated test. The other operation is No. 1 Nobles, located eight miles northwest of Ardmore in Carter county and is now drilling at 2090 feet.

Mr. Hines has recently completed his No. 6 State River bed, south Wichita county, and it is pumping 50 barrels daily from the regular pay.

CISCO OPERATOR IN CITY ON BUSINESS WEDNESDAY

C. A. Lester of Cisco, an active operator in the oil fields of West Texas, was in Wichita Falls on business Wednesday.

T-P Brings In Flowing Well

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company has a well flowing 40 barrels per hour at its No. 1 Donnell, located four miles west of Eliasville in the extreme southern portion of Young county and a half mile north of the Stephens county line.

The well topped the pay lime at 3357 feet, drilling to 3362 feet. The well is inside of production, being northeast of the old Eliasville field.

P. F. Gwynn Well Hits Oil Pay On Ward Ranch

Success has finally crowned the efforts of Wichita Falls operators to locate oil in paying quantities on that portion of the Ward Bros. estate which lies in the R. R. Rainey survey, 10 miles southeast of Anarene in Archer county.

The P. F. Gwynn et al No. 1 Ward Wednesday was standing with 600 feet of oil in the hole from the sand topped at 933 feet and penetrated three feet.

This well is near two tracts put down by Harry Hines, both of which had favorable showing but failed to pay off. It is approximately one mile northeast of the Consolidated-Marland pool on the Ward ranch.

Muenster Pool Scores Another Good Oil Well

The amazing regularity with which producers are being completed in the Cooke county pool at the present time is making some of the older oil producing counties look to their laurels.

Lynch and Stahl, for several months very active in Cooke county exploitation, Wednesday brought in their No. 1 Koelzer swabbing at the rate of 200 barrels daily from broken sand at 1670-95 feet. It is in the Muenster pool.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 18. (AP)—The cotton market was fairly active today and the trend of prices was upward. July opened at 15.75, traded up to 15.84, and closed at 15.77, 11 points net up. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 11 to 15 points.

Liverpool cables were better than due and this, coupled with the large spot sales there of 10,000 bales influenced the opening here and prices showed gains of 6 to 10 points. By the end of the first hour July traded up to 15.82, October 16.10, and December 16.25, or 16 points net up. Covering caused some slight reactions, but the market rallied on the bullish weekly weather and crop reports and around mid-session July traded to 15.84, October 16.13 and December 16.30, 18 to 21 points above the previous close.

Continued reports of drouth in some sections of the belt, particularly in Southeast Texas where the absence of rain is becoming serious, and the continued cool weather helped the advance.

After mid-session prices fluctuated narrowly within the earlier range, easing off a little further near the end and closing six to seven points under the highs.

Exports totaled 33,409 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 18. (AP)—Unfavorable features in the weekly report of the weather bureau with reference to crop progress and relatively firm Liverpool cables seemed responsible for the higher ruling of the cotton market today. After selling up to 15.83, or within 15 points of the recent best level for July, prices eased off several points under realizing, with July closing at 15.76. There was enough buying, however to give the market a steady undertone and the close showed net advances of 11 to 13 points.

Katy Parade Float Draws Much Praise

Pictures and descriptions of the float entered in the parade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention by the M-K-T railway division here are to be included in the next issue of the company magazine, the M-K-T Employes' magazine, it was learned Wednesday.

The float, one of the most unique in the entire line, was done in red and white, "Katy" colors, with a uniformed youngster standing before a large cannon at the front, on which was written "Katy Shoots Straight." On center of the float was a raised dias on which stood Mrs. T. Y. Blair of the master mechanics' department, costumed in a long, flowing white robe trimmed in red. At the rear of the float was a liberty bell.

The official emblem of the railway was shown on banners at the four corners of the float. The display has brought much praise.

Wichita Man Injured When Truck Overturns

Sam Beard, 33, of 803 North Broadway, suffered a broken collar bone and minor fractures to his ribs when the truck he was driving turned over on the Wichita Falls-Holliday road just north of Holliday Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Beard was carried to the Clinic hospital in a Hines ambulance. His injuries are not serious, hospital attendants reported Wednesday night. Besides the fractures he received a gash on his head and a minor injury to his leg. Mr. Beard is employed as a truck driver by the Panhandle Refining company.

High Priced Stocks in Good Demand to Score Fat Gains On New York Exchange

—By BROADAN WALL—

NEW YORK, May 18.—High priced stocks were in good demand today and scored appreciable gains. The federal reserve board survey of conditions during April indicated a large production and wide distribution of goods during the spring. The only places where distribution of goods has been restricted is in the rural districts where the purchasing power has been restricted.

Steels were unsettled by the pessimistic view taken of the industry by the Iron Age. Backlogs of unfilled orders, it pointed out, are getting thin.

Cotton, wheat and corn all worked higher. There has been steady buying of cotton on the flood crop. Money loaned at 4 per cent. with the exception of Italian lire which developed weakness, foreign currencies held steady.

Reynolds Tobacco and Liggett & Myers were strong. Both companies are coming into their own. Since dissolution in 1911 Liggett & Myers has only given a small amount of stock dividends and rights while business has been showing a steady increase. Liggett & Myres has three fast selling brands of cigarettes.

Quiet absorption is going on in Gulf Mobile & Northern. This road operates in a fast growing section and it is understood that the Louisville & Nashville has been picking up the stock for several months. Gulf, Mobile & Northern, it is thought, will either go to the L. & N. or the Burlington on a guarantee basis. With traffic rights and a new 50 mile connecting link to be completed in July, business over Gulf Mobile should take a big jump.

Western Maryland was strong. This road, Pittsburgh & West Virginia and Wheeling & Lake Erie, it is said, will be linked into a through line to avoid congestion at Pittsburgh. The Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, it is added, will be jointly interested in the deal. This will bring a new system into Cleveland and larger revenues for the Cleveland Terminal association. It will give Baltimore & Ohio a through system to the lakes. Western Maryland is said to be worth 100 on the books and through this connection is expected to earn considerable more on the common stock. Back dividends, it is said, will be taken care of. Western Maryland common stock is understood to be going into the treasuries of the New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio.

Reading was active and higher. Plans are said to be progressing for the sale of New York Central's holdings in Reading to the Baltimore & Ohio. Plans are also making headway whereby the B. & O. Will come into New York at a small cost.

Baldwin held its recent gain. The company, reports continue, has sold its Philadelphia property at a price equivalent to 150 a share. Baldwin has some valuable hidden assets which must be passed on to stockholders and the stock in getting nearer its asset value.

Buying developed in General Motors and the issue is expected to cross 200 by absorption of a large block of stock near that figure. Hudson Motors moved higher in the face of a denial that the stock would go on a $5 dividend basis. Dodge Bros. was in demand at higher prices. Sales of the new Dodge car are showing an increase. A large short interest is understood to be lodged in the stock.

Case led the specialties by rising a dozen points. This stock is expected to be split-up. The same is true of Royal Baking Powder which has been showing a steady advance on the curb exchange. Glidden broke sharply on suspension of the dividend. American Brown Boveri was strong on reports that the company is negotiating with the Japanese government for contracts which will assure capacity operations. This follows the recent orders from the American government which aggregate $22,000,000. Part of this latter work came from the retirement of Cramps from shipbuilding, leaving only a few yards capable of handling government work on a large scale.

Oils were quiet. Recent buying of Sinclair is attributed to the showing that so far this year the company has done as well as last year, when approximately $3.50 a share was earned. With present high earnings the stock should respond to these conditions when the unsettlement in the industry disappears.

OPTIMISTS AID WICHITA BOYS

Club Urged to Give Willingly to Fund

"The civic clubs that are advancing the most and are getting ahead are the clubs that have some definite aim or purpose to accomplish," the Rev. Leslie Miller told members of the Optimist club at the weekly luncheon Wednesday at the Kemp hotel.

The Rev. Miller asked the co-operation of the club in raising funds each month necessary to keep four boys in the Optimist home, and asked that members give willingly.

"Every dollar a man gives grudgingly is an injustice to the man and the club, and we don't want any of your money if you don't give it without a grudge or feel that you don't want to contribute."

The Rev. Leslie Miller, Claude Miller, J. Will Gray, J. T. Stevens, and Dell Bright were named on the boy's committee, and other committee chairmen were chosen as follows: Publicity, Claude Miller; civic welfare, Bert King; extension, Billy Burke; finance, C. L. Murph; good fellowship, Tom Glass; program, O. R. Hart; membership, Solon Featherson, and "On to Denver," Joel MacGregor.

A goal of 50 new members was set by the president, B. D. Sartin, who also presented the silver loving cup won by the club in the water regatta held at Lake Wichita recently.

J. D. Bright also said a few words in regard to the boy's home, and said that $52 per month each was necessary in order to keep the boys.

A sing-song was led by Joel MacGregor, accompanied by Miss Karma Yeager, and the Floyd Ard concert for May 19 was announced by the president. J. D. Lawson was introduced as a new member.

City Tightens Milk Rules

Cows Must Have Health Certificates

Health certificates for cows from which milk supplied to citizens of Wichita Falls is obtained will be required in the future, Dr. L. I. Lucey, of the city health department, said Wednesday.

A city ordinance prescribes that certificates showing good health for cows must be obtained by dairy proprietors, however, the enforcement of the ordinance has been lax during the past year, Dr. Lucey said.

Since his appointment to the health department a few weeks ago Dr. Lucey has made a survey of the dairies supplying milk to Wichita Falls and during the survey discovered that few certificates have been obtained by dairy owners.

Dairy owners must obtain the certificates from a qualified veterinarian.

Notices Posted For Valley View Election

Notices for the holding of an election in the Valley View school district, June 9, for the purpose of allowing citizens of the district to vote on a proposed $20,000 bond issue for the erection of an addition to the Valley View school, were posted Wednesday by deputy sheriffs.

If the bonds are issued the addition will be constructed in time for the opening of the 1927-28 scholastic year, Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools, said.

Mr. Bryant asserted that the present school building was not large enough to accomodate the students in the district.

Drainage Suit Here Settled For $75

Agreed judgment for $75 was entered Wednesday in a damgae suit filed by William Butler against the Producers Creamery company in the 89th district court.

The plaintiff filed suit for $600 claiming that he sustained a fractured leg when thrown from a truck owned by the defendant on which he was a passenger.

When the brakes of the truck were suddenly applied, the plaintiff set out in the petition, he was thrown off of the truck seat.

When the case came up for hearing Wednesday before Judge P. A. Martin, attorneys for the plaintiff and defendant requested the court to enter an agreed judgment for $75.

Majestic: Five acts Interstate Vaudeville, also Madge Bellamy in "The Telephone Girl," Topics of the Day and Pathe News.

Olympic: "Wedding Bells," with Raymond Griffith; Bobby Vernon comedy and Fox news.

Strand: "Blonde Saint," with Lewis Stone, also comedy.

Mission: "He Man's Country," with Raymond Hatton; also comedy.

Garden: Milton Sills in "Men of Steel," and comedy.

Gem: Helen Holmes in "Crossed Signals," and comedy.

When the wedding bells are through ringing, there are the bills to pay, but sometimes there's a great deal more to it than that, as the action of "Wedding Bills," Raymond Griffith's latest Paramount comedy showing at the Olympic theater, proves.

If you've been an harassed best man, you can appreciate how Ray feels when life is just one wedding after another with no prospect of immediate relief from the arduous duties of chief nuptial assistant. He swears off all weddings, but to no avail, for his best friend decides to get married, and Ray has to be there to lend moral support. A blonde vamp, and a supersensitive bride contribute to the sum of uncertainties, and the trouble commences. Ray is elected to pacify the vamp who is much perturbed over the coming wedding since she was once sweetheart of Tom Milbank, the bridegroom. Moreover she holds certain letters of his that if shown to the jealous bride would break up the romance. The price of her consent to the marriage seems to be a $20,000 necklace.

Ray contracts to get this on approval at a jewelers, and steal it back from the vamp later, but alas for all well laid plans. He gets the jewels all right, but in doing so falls in love with a beautiful unknown, and when he finds that she is secretary to Tom's father, her proximity adds to his confusion. The necklace develops a way of disappearing, and the panic is on. The clever Ray, however hits upon the solution, but only after a series of episodes in which the well-known high hat comedian exhibits every trick in his well-stocked repertoire. The laughs are plentiful.

A new leading woman in the person of Ann Sheridar is seen in Wedding Bills. She is said to be a blonde beauty of remarkable ability as an actress. She first came to the attention of the Paramount officials because of her work in Wallace Beery's "Casey at the Bat." Hallam Cooley, popular young actor of the screen plays the part of Griffith's friend. Iris Stuart, 1927 Wampas Baby Star, has an important role.

Erle Kenton directed from the story by Lloyd Corrigan, Grover Jones and Keene Thompson.

Thrills of the sort you see once in a lifetime are in store for motion picture patrons in "Men of Steel," First National's big steel photoplay, which comes to the Garden theater today, with Milton Sills in the starring role and Doris Kenyon as the featured feminine player.

Sills has always been known as a "he-man." In past pictures he has ever done on the screen, some difficult feats, but in "Men of Steel" he surpasses anything he has ever done on the screen both in scenes calling for strength and Sills would not allow a double to take his place. It was his picture and he took the chances.

One is the stabilizing phase, the forms of usefulness that gives you anchorage, resisting power, reserve strength, when it is needed.

For City Streets also,

HOW pleasant it is while motoring to see the broad, smooth surface of a concrete road stretching ahead. We know it means safety, comfortable travel and arrival on schedule, rain or shine.

But did you know that concrete is also the ideal material for the streets of your town or city?

Rugged and strong for heavy downtown traffic, clean, gray, distinguished concrete has been found most appropriate also for exclusive residential districts, on boulevards and quiet parkways. And the concrete street is safest—wet or dry.
