MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

BY H. N. F.

Railroad Commissioner Earle B. Mayfield is a state rights Democrat. He boldly declares that the right of Texas to regulate purely intra-state commerce without interference by the Interstate Commerce Commission is of the most vital concern to the welfare and prosperity of every city and town and hamlet in our state. He asks the people to declare by their ballots to determine whether they are willing to surrender the rights to regulate the railroads wholly within their state or permit eleven men in Washington to exercise full control over the entire commerce of the United States. He would repeal the Cummings-Esch law and nullify all its provisions. In his Waxahachie speech he warned the people that the Interstate Commerce Commission has destroyed the Hogg stock and bond law, the 3-cent passenger statute, the rate making power of the state and has the power to destroy the separate coach law and permit negroes in Texas to ride in the same coach with the whites. Earle B. is opposed to amending the State Constitution which will permit Texas to accept millions of dollars to aid in the construction of highways. He is convinced that the Dyer Anti-Lynching bill is the most vicious measure introduced in congress in fifty years. He demands for the farmers adequate credits suited to their necessities. Above all the farm bloc in the senate, he says, should be preserved. He has no time for the Federal Reserve Board of Governors who he charged with "diverting hundreds of millions of dollars from the agricultural district of the Southland and the West to New York to be loaned to stock-brokers and speculators and imposed on the banks of the South and the West interest rates which in some instances amounted to confiscation." Earle B. is for a tariff for revenue only; he just fairly loathes Democrats who voted for the Emergency tariff measure; he is "opposed to any movement the purpose of which is to hamstring or destroy organized labor," and this slogan is catchy: "No man in America is too big to be above the law nor too small to be below the law. This government will endure on the rock of law enforcement or it will perish in the quick sands of lawnessness." He would break up bootlegging and the illicit manufacture of liquor by making it a felony, punishable (only) by imprisonment in the Federal penitentiary. There are many statesmen and near-statesmen who have tossed their hats into the senatorial ring. Next!

Now comes the United States geological survey with reports on oil production. This bureau of the government estimated the production of crude oil in the United States in 1921 at 469,639,000 barrels and the total production of gasoline 5,153,549,318 gallons. Crude oil stocks on hand in December, 1921, were: Oklahoma and Kansas 84,933,069 barrels; Texas field 3,033,331 barrels. Gasoline on hand was: Oklahoma and Kansas 84,933,069 gallons; Texas 63,435,665 gallons. Output of refineries in December, 1921, was: Oklahoma and Kansas 81,793,511 gallons and Texas 77,969,136 gallons. The estimated total consumption of all petroleum for 1921 was 525,407,000 barrels. MORE PHONES BY SUMMER COUNCIL TOLD

Telephone Company Official Says Extensions Costing $60,000 Will Be Started Immediately.

City Election Called; Final Extension Granted for Payment of City Taxes Without Penalty.

Definite assurance of adequate telephone service "by summer time," was given to the city council last night by M. P. Caldwell, of Fort Worth, division commercial superintendent of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, who declared that the company's engineers in St. Louis last week approved a budget of $60,000 to be spent on improvements in Wichita Falls.

This explanation comes in reply to a query by the city council some time ago as to the plans of the telephone compan , following complaints of inadequate service presented by N. O. Monroe at the request of a number of local citizens. The explanation comes after a delay of two or three weeks at the request of the telephone company officials to permit the completion of their plans.

Orders will be placed this week, Caldwell said, for poles, cables and other materials; workmen will be on the job within sixty days and 1200 pairs of cables will be laid underground through the south and west sections of the city.

"The work will be completed by summer time," he added, "and we can promise considerable relief even before then."

Caldwell told the members of the council that the company since 1916 had put $450,981 in plant additions into Wichita Falls, and today has an investment here on which officials do not expect to realize any earnings for two years. He also called attention to the company's efforts to develop the two-party, selective service system in the residence districts, saying this was one means toward greater efficiency.

April 4 next was the date fixed by the council for the holding of the city elections. The matter was discussed only briefly, and the date determined by vote on a motion offered by Commissioner Shepherd and seconded by Commissioner Curlee.

It was announced that the city had obtained from S. W. Sibley and the T. J. Taylor estate a quit claim deed on a section of Chester street needed by the city as an asset toward opening the Broad street crossing. It is planned to sell this section and to use the money to purchase two lots in the Sibley-Taylor addition that now block Broad street's continuation south across the railroad tracks. The owner of these lots, however, has placed a price of $3,000 on them, which is considered prohibitive by city officials, and after some discussion last night the council voted to authorize Street Commissioner Curlee to offer $2,000 for the two lots, and if the offer is refused the city attorney, Edgar Mann, will be instructed to take legal steps toward condemnation of the property.

A letter was received by the council from Water Improvement District No. 1 asking permission to build an electric power transmission line within the city limits. The line is necessary to furnish power to operate the hydraulic dredge that will be used in constructing the main embankment of the storage dam 40 miles west of the city. The city engineer was instructed to confer with officials of the irrigation project, and a contract will then be

HEARINGS NEAR END ON MUSCLE SHOALS OFFERS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb 27.—The Ford offer for purchase and lease of the government war projected properties at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was temporarily sidetracked today by the house military committee, and the way was cleared to consideration tomorrow of the proposal submitted by the Alabama Power company.

At the same time, Chairman Kahn said the committee hoped to dispose by the end of the week of all hearings on offers before it and begin work next week on preparing a report for the house.

The decision to begin examination tomorrow of the power company's offer was reached today when Hubert Dent, of Alabama, for the Alabama concern, and Thomas W. Martin, its president concluded arguments in which they strongly defended the option claimed by the company for exclusive right to purchase the Warrior steam plant, contained in the war department's contract by which power was supplied by the plant during the war for operation of the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals.

W. B. Mayo, chief engineer for Mr. Ford, had been expected to appear tomorrow to explain the alteration in the Ford offer which he, Mr. Mayo, recently announced Mr. Ford had agreed to. It was learned, however, Mr. Mayo had returned to Detroit for further conferences with Mr. Ford and would not return here until Wednesday. Then it was decided to suspend hearings of the Ford proposal and consider the Alabama company's offer.

LISTENING IN

ANOTHER MAN IS INDICTED IN NORMAN CASE

Jordan's Companion On the Night Negro Was Shot Charged With Murder For Second Time In Year.

By Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Tex., Feb. 27.—Joe Johnson, who accompanied former Deputy Sheriff W. T. Jordan on the trip to Ashdown, Arkansas, to bring back the negro P. Norman, who was killed here on the night of February 11, today surrendered to the Bowie county authorities at Boston. Johnson is charged by indictment with murder in connection with the killing of Norman, the indictment being practically identical with that under which Jordan was arrested here Saturday. As in the case of Jordan, Johnson sued out a writ of habeas corpus and was released under a bond of $3,000 pending trial.

This is the second time Johnson has been arrested in connection with a murder within a year. On June 6 last, he was taken into custody by the then Deputy Jordan, now under arrest with him in connection with the Norman murder, charged with murder in connection with the killing of Harvey Walker, negro, who was shot to death on the New Boston road near Texarkana on the night of June 4. After a preliminary hearing he was held for the grand jury action under bond in the sum of $2,500. No indictment ever was returned in that case and his bondsmen were released from their pledges.

NEW MINISTRY ITALIAN GOVT. NOW IN OFFICE

By Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 27.—The ministers of the new cabinet headed by Luigi Facta took possession of their various offices this afternoon.

Interest in the opening of parliament is now most keen, for then the announcement of the new government's policy will be made known. It is expected that the chamber will convene about March 6. There is little enthusiasm being manifested over the new government. It is accepted as a "good government of transition."

The government's biggest task is that dealing with the Genoa economic conference. The arrival here of Foreign Minister Schanzer, is being awaited, so that discussions on Genoa may begin.

DEATH SENTENCE OF SANCHEZ COMMUTED BY GOVERNOR NEFF

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 27.—Governor Neff late today commuted the death sentence of Pedro Sanchez to life imprisonment. Sanchez was convicted of murder in connection with the killing of O. B. Sharp, deputy sheriff of Falls county, in November 4, 1920. He was sentenced to hang tomorrow.

HARDING, MONDELL AND FORDNEY TALK TARIFF BILL OVER

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The tariff bill was discussed, today at a White House conference between President Harding and Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the republican house leader, and Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee. It was indicated afterwards that the executive desired a speeding up on the measure, which is now in process of re-writing by republican members of the senate finance committee.

SHIP SUBSIDY MEASURE WILL BE INTRODUCED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—A ship subsidy of about $32,000,000 annually for an American merchant marine to be paid by the diversion of ten per cent of the Nation's customs receipts to that purpose, is provided in a bill to be introduced with approval of the shipping board in both houses of congress after a message urging a ship subsidy plan has been delivered by President Harding. The president, it was said, at the white house today, will personally address a joint session of congress tomorrow, and it was understood, will endorse the plan proposed by the shipping board.

The $32,000,000 subsidy, it was explained, is to encourage foreign trade in American bottoms, as was first attempted in recent tariff bills by means of a rebate to vessels flying the American flag. At the time such a course was found impossible because of existing trade treaties with other nations and the provisions were not retained.

The subsidy, it is understood, will under the bill, range upward from a basic rate of one-half cent per gross ship ton per 100 miles, regardless of speed for American vessels of 1500 gross tons register or more.

STATE TROOPS MAY BE SENT TO OKMULGEE

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 27.—State troops may be employed to protect Judge H. R. Christopher if he returns to Okmulgee, where he resigned from the superior court bench following his dismissal of the county grand jury investigating the affairs of the defunct Bank of Commerce of Okmulgee, Governor J. B. A. Robertson intimated tonight.

The governor announced that every power of the state would be used if necessary to assure the safety of Judge Christopher. He refused to be quoted, however, as to just what course he would pursue.

Meanwhile, word was awaited from Judge Christopher, who is reported to be in Chicago, in response to a letter from Governor Robertson in declining to accept the judge's resignation, that

FEDERAL JURY INDICTS MORSE AND 11 OTHERS

Indictments Charge Conspiracy to Defraud and to Commit Offense Against the Government.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, his three sons, Ervin, Benjamin and Harry Morse, and eight others alleged to have been associated with him in connection with war time shipping contracts, were today indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of "conspiracy to defraud" the United States and the emergency fleet corporation.

Those indicted in addition to Morse and his sons were: Colin H. Livingstone, former president Virginia shipbuilding corporation and president of the Boy Scouts of America.

George M. Burditt, attorney for the Morse interests, especially the United States Transportation Company, Inc.

Nehemiah H. Campbell of New York, assistant treasurer United States Transportation Company, Inc.

Rupert M. Much, Augusta, Maine, assistant treasurer Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation.

W. W. Scott, Washington, D. C., attorney for Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation.

Phillip R. Reinhart, auditor for United States Fleet Corporation, at Alexandria, Va.

Leonard D. Christie, treasurer Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation.

Robert O. White, assistant treasurer Groton Iron Works, President United States Transport Company, Inc.

Two indictments were returned covering identical transactions and accusing the same persons. One charges conspiracy to defraud the

PHYSICIAN SHOT BY PROMINENT LOUISIANA MAN

By Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 27.—Dr. C. H. Irion, aged 63, prominent physician, was shot and dangerously wounded at 4:15 o'clock Monday afternoon by T. W. W. Stinson, 66, planter, when the two, driving in buggies in opposite directions, met in the main street of Benton, La., where both live. Stinson and Dr. Irion exchanged a few words, it is said, when the former left his buggy and throwing his shot gun to his shoulder, fired one charge. The load took effect in the left shoulder of the doctor, who fell into the street. Examination showed that his shoulder was badly lacerated and that some of the shot had passed through the throat. The wound was declared by examining physicians to be dangerous, but not necessarily fatal.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO HAVING ENTERED ROOM AND MURDERED TWO GIRLS IN FLOYD COUNTY

SAULTER GETS FIVE YEARS IN FORGERY CASE

Defendant in Bank Case Tried and Sentenced Monday and S. M. Gee Case Gets Under Way.

Large Percentage of Jurors Report; Witness Says Had to Buy Off Attorneys and Officers at Okmulgee.

A verdict of guilty and a sentence of five years in the penitentiary was returned in the 30th district court Monday afternoon in the case of M. S. Saulter, alias G. J. Holt, who was tried Monday in connection with the passage of an alleged forged sight draft on the First National Bank at Iowa Park, with later developments leading to the City National Bank of Commerce in this city and a bank at Okmulgee, Oklahoma, where he was captured.

With the completion of this case and the getting the jury and getting well into the taking of testimony in another on Monday, indications are that the disposition of criminal cases in court this week, which is being temporarily presided over by Judge Ed Napier of the 78th district court, will attain a speed which has seldom been reached in the handling of contested cases. County Attorney Fulton and Sam Holliday, acting district attorney, are representing the state in the trials.

Following the sending of the Saulter case to the jury trial of S. M. Gee, charged with the robbery of Joe Colonna, a local merchant, with firearms, together with Mary Dobson and C. S. Adams, also under indictment, began. At the adjournment of the court Monday afternoon the jury had been secured in this case and the taking of testimony was well under way. The feature of this case was the testimony of Colonna for the prosecution, who told of his taking an automobile ride with the accused girl and of the party being held up by two boys. He testified to his preventing his being robbed of an expensive diamond by throwing it on the ground, where it was later recovered.

Testimony of Frank Boyd that the high cost of capturing Saulter, which he gave as something more than $1200, was due to the "necessity of buying off a few attorneys and officers at Okmulgee in order that the defendant might be brought back to Texas," featured the trial of the Saulter case. Mr. Boyd, an official of the Iowa Park bank, accompanied former Detective Chief Boyd and J. T. Harrell, representing the local bank, on the trip to Okmulgee to bring Saulter back after he was arrested.

Tom Corriden of the Iowa Park bank testified to the defendant's presenting a draft for $22,500, drawn on the First National Bank of Wortham, Texas, and bearing the signature of A. J. McKinney, cashier, and the endorsement of W. F. George.

Mr. McKinney testified that his signature was a forgery. Mr. George testified that the defendant had approached him with a proposition in connection with the development of some oil holdings, and before leaving, had asked him to write his name in a loose leaf note book. He testified that the signature on the back of the sight draft was undoubtedly his own signature which he had given the defendant at this time.

It was brought out in connection with the trial that the defendant escaped from officers and was recaptured by a night watchman at Pilot Point, and, when Detective Chief Boyd arrived and had only $60 of the $100 reward offered for Saulter's capture, the prisoner made up the balance.

The connection of the local bank with the case came from the cashing of a cashier's check for $8,000 secured from the Iowa Park bank where the sight draft was deposited, and the securing of travelers checks for the same, and the depositing of a check for $14,500, the balance left on deposit at Iowa Park. The travelers checks were afterward cashed at Okmulgee, and a check for part of the balance deposited here deposited there. The money was recovered.

Decision on a motion introduced by the defendant to quash the indictment on the grounds of illegal selection of the grand jury, and declaring that in the absence of a legal grand jury there could be no legal indictment nor legal trial, goes over for the court's decision later in the week when the jury trials pending have been disposed of.

COMMISSIONERS AND COUNTY JUDGE OF UPSHUR CO. RESIGN

GILMER, Texas, Feb. 27.—Following motions for new trials for the Upshur county commissioners, found guilty yesterday by a jury of alleged incompetency and neglect of duty, the entire body of commissioners including County Judge J. R. Melvin, resigned today. No action had been taken in the ouster proceedings against Judge Melvin and his resignation came as a complete surprise. District Judge J. R. Warren will appoint successors to the commissioners

FINANCIAL STORM STRIKES FIVE MORE BROKERAGE HOUSES

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Financial troubles overtook five more brokerage houses in Wall street today.

Involuntary bankruptcy petitions were filed against four, while a fifth, C. W. Starbuck & Company, made a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors.

Today's failures brought the total since last November up to 35.

OPPONENTS OF ARMS TREATIES UNITE FORCES

First Concerted Assault Is Made on Pacts in Senate Following Favorable Report of Committee.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The first concerted attack on the arms conference treaties, characterized by tactics which administration leaders openly charged suggested a filibuster, was launched into the senate today after they had been favorably reported.

After several hours of wrangling a unanimous agreement was reached to vote not later than two p. m. Thursday on ratification of the treaty with Japan relating to Yap and other mandated islands in the Pacific. Immediately afterward debate is to begin on the other treaties resulting from the conference negotiations.

Using the Yap treaty as the immediate vehicle of their discussion, but interspersing remarks on many other subjects and frequent quorum calls, the opponents of the conference program carried on such a determined all-day assault that the senate managers prolonged the session into the evening in the hope of wearing down their assailants.

One incident in the series of pointed exchanges running through the debate was a complete disclaimer from the democratic side, that "Political opposition" had been organized against the treaties, or had been counseled by former President Wilson, Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, denied as a "purest invention" a published story that Mr. Wilson had sugested a course of action to his friends in the senate.

The attack on the Yap treaty, during which many stray shots were taken at others of the arms conference agreements, was led by Senators Johnson, republican, California, and Reed, democrat, Missouri.

MONDELL ASKS SOLDIER BONUS BE POSTPONED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Postponement of house action on the soldier bonus bill for a while longer was suggested today by Representative Mondell, Wyoming, the Republican leader after he and Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee had conferred with President Harding.

Emphasizing that the suggestion was his own, Mr. Mondell said it was well known that the house intended to pass a bonus measure at this session. He explained that within a short time there probably would be more definite information as to expected savings in expenditures for the next fiscal year and returns from the foreign debt and whether business conditions could be expected to improve to the extent of insuring additional federal revenues.

Mr. Mondell and Mr. Fordney were understood to have appraised the president formally of the action of the special house sub-committee in rejecting the executives' proposal that the bonus be financed by a sales tax and approving instead a bill without any definite means of raising the revenue. He would not indicate what views the executive had expressed but Representative Longworth of Ohio, a member of the committee dealing with bonus question said tonight after a visit to the White House that Mr. Harding was still of the opinion that legislation either should be financed by a sales tax or postponed.

NEGROES INDICTED FOR MURDER OF STOREKEEPER

By Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Texas, Feb. 27.—Sol Johnson and Robert Johnson, both negroes, have been indicted for the murder of G. W. Landers, Eylau storekeeper, who was murdered on the night of February 9 while resisting bandits who attempted to hold him up in his store, seven miles from Texarkana. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the two negroes whose whereabouts are not now known.

GUILTY YOUTH ATTEMPTED TO KILL HIMSELF

Killings Said to Have Occurred While Girls Were Sleeping, Following a Quarrel of Lovers.

Little Hope Held for Recovery of Boy Whose Body Is Later Found With Bullet Near Heart.

By Associated Press.

LOCKNEY, Texas, Feb. 27.—Two girls are dead and their confessed slayer is near death from a self-inflicted wound following a lover's quarrel enroute home yesterday afternoon after church services, in the Sunset community near here.

Gladys Solomon, 15, and Nell Umberson, 13 were the girls shot to death and Houston Upton, 18, is the confessed slayer.

Vera Wilson, 14, who slept with the two girls who were shot told in substance the following story:

Upton walked to the Umberson girl's home from church with his sweetheart, the Solomon girl yesterday. When the Umberson and Wil[illegible] who were slightly in the r[illegible] they found the Solomon g[illegible]. She would not tell them what the trouble was.

The three girls went to bed together. Late in the night the Wilson girl heard Gladys saying:

"Don't Houston, don't," at the same time she felt a weight on her body as if some one were leaning over her.

She aroused the other girls and asked them if they heard anyone talking. Gladys and the Umberson girl replied they did. All of them got up, and one lighted a lamp while the others called to the grand parents of the Umberson girl sleeping in an adjoining room.

Before the old people were aroused the lamp chimney either blew off or the intruder knocked it off. The girls fled back to bed, covered up their heads and after a while fell asleep.

About 4 o'clock this morning four shots were heard by other occupants of the house. They rushed to the girls' room, where they found Gladys and Nell Umberson both shot through the head and dead. The slayer raised the cover from the Wilson girl but did not molest her.

Upton was found by his father in a nearby school house this morning. According to his confession after being arrested by Sheriff Grigsby of Floyd county, he killed the two girls, went to the school house, built up a fire and then shot himself through the breast. He is not expected to live.

All of the families concerned in the tragedy are prominent in Floyd county. The Upton family is among the first settlers in this part of the Panhandle.

Upton and Gladys Solomon had been sweethearts about a year.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED IN RIOT IN MEXICO CITY

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27.—Four persons were killed and several wounded this afternoon when the police fired on a crowd of striking chauffeurs who were holding a demonstration in front of the city hall.

Two of those killed were chauffeurs and two policemen.

The chauffeurs called a strike this morning owing to a disagreement over the issuance of licenses. They assembled in front of the national palace shortly after noon, at the moment when Miguel Alessio Robles was being sworn in as secretary of commerce and industries.

The police at first fired over the heads of the chauffeurs but when the chauffeurs charged they fired point blank at the advancing men, two of whom were killed outright, while a score of others were wounded. The chauffers then retreated behind statues in the plaza, maintaining their fire which resulted in the death of the two policemen.

Desultory firing continued for more than an hour. It eventually was silenced when President Obregon from the national palace, sent out officers ordering a cessation of the sniping.

TROOPS AND RANGERS TO LEAVE MEXIA TODAY

By Associated Press.

MEXIA, Texas, Feb. 27.—The fifty-sixth headquarters troop, Texas cavalry, General Jacob F. Wolters and his staff, Texas rangers and others here enforcing martial law that has been in force in the Mexia district since January 11, will leave tomorrow at noon.

Martial law will be officially raised Wednesday morning at six o'clock.

TRAIN FARES IN STATE SUBJECT TO U. S. CONTROL

Supreme Court Upholds Interstate Commerce Commission's Authority to Regulate Rates.

Control Is Unified Only to Extent of Maintaining Efficient Regulation, Maintains Court.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Declaring that commerce is a unit and does not regard state lines, the supreme court today through Chief Justice Taft and without dissent, handed down a decision upholding the authority of the interstate commerce commission under the transportation act 1920 to fix state railroad passenger fares when necessary to remove undue, unreasonable and unjust discrimination against interstate commerce.

Two cases were presented. One was brought by the railroad commission of Wisconsin and another against the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, seeking an injunction to prevent the roads of the state from putting into effect on state passenger traffic the rate of 3.6 cents per mile allowed by the government on interstate travel.

The other was brought by the state of New York against the federal government, the interstate commerce commission and certain railroads of that state on the ground that three cent fare fixed by the public utility commission produced unreasonable returns to the railroads on their state traffic.

"Congress in its control of the interstate commerce system is seeking in the transportation act to make the system adequate to the needs of the country by securing for it a reasonable compensatory return for all the work it does," the chief justice stated in the opinion.

"The states are seeking to use that same system for state traffic that entails large duties and expenditures on the interstate commerce system, which may burden it unless compensation is received for the intrastate business reasonably proportionate to that for the interstate business. Congress, as the dominant controller of interstate commerce, may therefore restrain undue limitation of the earning power of the interstate commerce system in doing state work. * * * * It can impose any reasonable condition in a state's use of interstate carriers for intrastate commerce it deems necessary or desirable. This is because of the supremacy of the national power in this field."

Referring to the suggestion that the conclusion of the court would give the interstate commerce commission "unified control of interstate and intrastate commerce," the court declared that such control was unified only to the "extent of maintaining efficient regulation of interstate commerce under the paramount power of congress." The decision of the court, "does not involve general regulation of intrastate commerce," it added.

United States by defrauding the United States Shipping Board.

United States Attorney Peyton Gordon, it was said, will require the defendants to appear in the District of Columbia supreme court for arraignment when they can be released under $10,000 bond in each case.

In a statement issued after the indictments were returned Mr. Morse charged that "the indictment, which is terribly unjust, as will be proven later, I believe was secured because of personal feeling against me on the part of Attorney General Daugherty and certain present officials of the United States shipping board."

The contracts between the emergency fleet corporation and the Groton Iron Works and the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, on which the charges resulting in the indictments were based, involved an amount said to approximate $40,000,000. No estimate was made, however, in the indictments of the full amount which the defendants are charged with having misappropriated.

The indictments charged the defendants specifically with falsely pretending to the shipping board and the fleet corporation that the shipbuilding corporations they represented would be able to erect and equip from their own funds shipbuilding plants of sufficient size to enable them to carry out contracts given them by the fleet corporation and to proceed without delay to the construction of vessels. The intention of the defendants, it was alleged, was to obtain large sums of money from the fleet corporation by falsely representing that said sums would be used for such construction and divert large sums from the ship construction for the erection and equipment of plants and housing facilities and thus convert the funds to the use of the shipbuilding corporations and themselves and to delay ship construction.

URGES SOUP LINE NEAR RIVER BANK

The establishment of a "soup line" near the Wichita river for the needy and unemployed was urged upon the municipal welfare board yesterday by E. Van Deventer. No action was taken, however, many board members expressing the opinion that a charitable action of such a general nature is unnecessary at this time.

The board named Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Jr., permanent secretary. Mrs. Gorsline has been acting as temporary secretary for several weeks.

Irrigation Storage Reservoir Will Be a Lake About Ten Times Size of "Bill Davis'" Lake Worth

By H. N. F.

Publicity is the thing. Petroleum placed Wichita Falls on the map long ago. Now irrigation is placing Wichita Falls on the map. Ted Dealey of the Dallas-Galveston News was present when work was started on the irrigation dam and witnessed J. A. Kemp manipulating the shovel. Ted wrote an interesting column for the two Newes and he did not neglect to tell his readers that the "giant storage dam" that will be built across the Wichita River, fifty miles west of Wichita Falls "will dam 165 billion gallons of water, forming the largest artificial body of water in Texas and perhaps in the entire Southwest."

There is no "perhaps" about it. It will be the largest artificial body of water in Texas or the entire Southwest and some engineers say the largest artificial body of water in America. Ted gave the figures:

"The dam for the storage reservoir will impound 500,000 acre feet of water or about 165 billion gallons. THIS MEANS THAT IT WILL BE A LAKE ABOUT TEN TIMES THE SIZE OF LAKE WORTH AND ONE CONSIDERABLE LARGER THAN THE PROPOSED GRAPEVINE LAKE ON DENTON CREEK NEAR DALLAS. The Dallas lake, it is estimated, would impound about 105 billion gallons of water. The Wichita River storage will draw water from a run off or drainage area of about 3000 square miles. The lake which it will form will have a total shore line of about 125 miles. The dam itself will be 2100 feet in length and will contain approximately 1,400,000 cubic yards of earth. It will be built by the hydraulic fill method and will be completed, the engineers say, before the end of 1922."

And the irrepressible Ted wielded his facile pen to tell the readers of the Belo papers that the lake to be formed by the big storage dam will not only supply water for the irrigation of 150,000 acres of now very cheap land but it will also provide an inexhaustible supply of water for the city of Wichita Falls; that it is expected that this fact alone will bring many new manufacturing industries to Wichita Falls and perform wonders in the upbuilding of the city in the future; that the river bed at the site of the storage dam is 1065 feet above sea level and the top of the dam 1165 feet above the sea level; that the river bed at the diversion dam is 1015 feet above sea level and the top of the dam will be 1051 feet above sea level; that from the sites of the two dams there is a gradual slop toward Wichita Falls so that all the land to be irrigated in Wichita and Clay and Archer counties will be irrigated by gravity flow; that the city of Wichita Falls is 958 feet above sea level; timt irrigation has already been practiced in Wichita county on a small scale and has proven successful; that the truck growers in this section have made large profits from small tracts; that cotton, sugar, alfalfa and similar crops can be profitably grown under irrigation and these lands when irrigated will produce two bales of cotton on the average to the acre and that in Ellis county, the banner cotton county of Texas, the average acre yield is one-third of a bale.

Publicity is the thing. If you have a good thing tell it to the world. Ted Dealey told it to the readers of the Dallas and Galveston News. Major Leonard Withington told it to the readers of the Fort Worth Record. And The Record News has been telling it ever since there was a Record News.

Now the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Fat Stock Show at Wichita Falls would make the city that faith built as widely known as the State Fair of Texas has made Dallas and every year there would come to the city that faith built vast crowds of exhibitors, land seekers, home seekers, capitalists with money to invest, recreation seekers, agents for the great implement and farm machinery companies of America and all these would make, with the transportation facilities now here, Wichita Falls one of the most important distributing centers in the South or the West.

TEXAS SHOWN TO HAVE LED ALL STATES IN PRODUCTION OF GASOLINE IN YEAR 1921

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Texas led all states in the production of gasoline in 1921, the bureau of mines announced in a summary today.

A total of 976,229,091 gallons of gasoline were produced. Other products of Texas refineries included kerosene, 476,008,625 gallons; gas and fuel, 2,150,224,403 gallons; lubricating oil, 199,461,929 gallons; wax, 52,743,956 pounds, asphalt, 176,152 tons. There were other miscellaneous products amounting to 105,291,586 gallons.

Oklahoma and Kansas, which are joined in the report, rank second in the production of gasoline with 720,293,534 gallons. They also rank second in the production of kerosene with 308,565,342 gallons.

On January 1, 1922, there were 303 refineries with a total daily indicated capacity of 1,736,723 barrels, operating in the United States as compared with 328 operating plants having a daily indicated capacity of 1,714,305 barrels on January 1, 1921. These plants were operating on a basis of 80 per cent of their indicated capacity on January 1, 1922, and 84 per cent on January 1, 1921.

The United States geological survey reports the estimated production of crude oil in the United States for the year 1921 as 469,639,000 barrels, indicating a daily average production of 1,286,682 barrels. The survey also estimated the total consumption of domestic and imported petroleum for the year 1921 as 525,407,000 barrels or an average of 1,439,471 barrels per day. It will be observed that the indicated daily average capacity of the refineries in operation in the United States as of January 1, 1922, exceeds the daily average of domestic and imported crude consumed by approximately 300,000 barrels. No account is here taken of the many inoperative refineries in the country at the present time.

During the year 1921 the petroleum refineries of the United States ran 75,325,670 barrels of Mexican crude oil; 2,745,015 barrels of Mexican tops and 160,557 barrels of Mexican naptha through their stills. The Mexican crude ran during the past year exceeded that of 1920 by 19 per cent.

The total production of gasoline in 1921 was 5,153,549,318 gallons a daily average of 14,119,313 gallons. The total production for 1920, compared with that of 1921, was 4,882,546,649 gallons, a daily average of 13,340,291 gallons. The total production for the year 1919 as compared with that of 1920 was 3,957,857,097 gallons, a daily average of 10,843,444 gallons.

MARTIAL LAW END TO AFFECT TWO COUNTIES

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 27.—The proclamation lifting martial law in Limestone and Freestone counties was issued by Governor Neff late today. It lifted the martial law in both counties, this question being decided only today by the governor. The proclamation becomes effective at six o'clock on the morning of March 1.

When the governor announced Saturday that martial law would be lifted in the Mexia district, he was undecided whether he would at the same time lift it in Freestone county. His proclamation affects both counties. The governor in the prologue of his proclamation repeats practically the same causes as in his proclamation declaring martial law, adding that these conditions made it necessary to enforce law by military rule.

He also said in part that "it appears that the only professional criminals now residing in the affected territory are now in confinement or else out on bond," and that "the local citizens have in mass meeting assembled pledged themselves to cause the laws to be faithfully enforced, and have made provision for doing so by reorganizing and strengthening the local law enforcement machinery."

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—The Kansas City Star has recently installed a radio studio in its newspaper plant and from it sends out wireless telephone concerts by a powerful sending apparatus. The first concert was picked up by points as far as Maple Falls, Washington, 2,161 miles northwest of this city, and Conception, Mexico, 1,120 miles south.

OFFICERS FIND LINDSAY AFTER LONG SEARCH

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Alfred D. Lindsay, former stock broker, wanted here for muleting society women of more than a million dollars, was arrested tonight at Overbrook, Pa., according to an announcement from police headquarters.

An indictment charging the fugitive with grand larceny was voted by the grand jury today following a dramatic hearing in the course of which Mrs. Dorothy Atwood, New York society woman, became hysterical and temporarily halted the proceedings.

Mrs. Lillian Duke, divorced wife of the "tobacco king," testified that Lindsay had obtained her entire fortune, more than $375,000 through his promises to make a vast fortune for her in stock market transactions.

Witnesses declared that Lindsay won their confidence by convincing them of his close business connection with leaders of finance with whom he claimed to have nightly meetings at which stock exchange operations were "fixed up between the games of dominoes."

Description of the missing broker had been broadcasted throughout the country.

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN OF DENISON DIES AT 71

FAIR WORKERS MAKE PROGRESS ON FIRST DAY

Teams Work Monday in Spite of the Unfavorable Weather; Expect Formal Report Late in Week.

Think Will Be Able to Report Entire Amount Capital Stock Secured by End of Present Week.

Encouraging progress in securing subscriptions toward the capital stock of the Texas-Oklahoma fair association was reported at the end of the working day Monday from teams working in the campaign, starting Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock in spite of the particularly disagreeable weather.

With $50,000 of the necessary $200,000 obtained at the meeting where the organization committee was formed, it is believed that the remainder can be obtained before the end of the week—possibly by Thursday night when it is planned that working committees will formally report.

MORE PHONES BY SUMMER COUNCIL TOLD

drawn and submitted later to the council.

Acting on a petition by property owners represented by C. M. McFarland and Judge J. W. Akin, the council passed a motion ordering the paving of Burnett street from Tenth street south to the Wichita Valley tracks.

A final extension of time to April 1st for the payment of city taxes without penalty was voted.

Dr. A. H. Douglas, of the city health department, and Fire Marshal McClure brought up the matter of observing the week of March 5-11 as clean-up and health week, in keeping with Governor Neff's recent proclamation—and the matter received immediate approval from the "city fathers."

No action was taken on a petition asking that the traction company be ordered to remove the tracks and discontinue street car service on Collins street, between Bridwell and Clark, in the Southland addition. The section mentioned is a "dead end," where the traffic is light, and the residents are anxious to improve the appearance of the street.

Weather Proves Confounding to Local Prophets

Bah, on these weather prophets, bah on 'em! Yeah, verily, and a couple o' more bahs for luck! Even one large Poobah for good measure! On Sunday they declared that the glorious warmth of the balmy spring had descended upon old Texas, and would yield place to naught but scorching summer. Were they right, these weather prophets Bah! Is a police blotter private property? No, No, No!

What happened Monday? The north wind howled down upon our fair city, the rain rained and the drizzle drizzled. Slush and mud and corruption were visited upon the Sunday shoe shine of the doleful pedestrian. The wind whistled beneath his overcoat and chilled his frame; the drizzle dripped from his moustache and wrecked his barber shop complexion; skidding automobiles hurled muddy streams against the rapidly bagging legs of his trousers—and anon in his misery as he thought of the weather prophets of Sunday there issued from his lips coarse, raucous laughter.

In Wichita Falls 'twas bad enough; in the Panhandle it was wrose. At Texline the thermometer weakened under the impact of a norther that blew it down to two degrees above zero; Forgan reported only 15 above—and a blanket of snow covered the northern district.

Weather prophets, weather prophets. And so these Sunday optimists are weather prophets! Enough, enough; let us homeward hie, crawl into the blanket bathrobe and the wool slippers and brew a pot of strong, hot tea.

Irrigation Will Be King

(Fort Worth Record Editorial.)

For a thoroughly and even militantly democratic commonwealth there are lots of coronations and lots of kings in Texas. But not one need be alarmed for the safety of our liberties or our republican form of government, for the kings crowned here have been the sort which put dollars into the pockets of the people instead of taking them out. They are the kings of production who reign over an empire of content and of progress.

Cotton has been crowned king in Texas. Cattle has been crowned king and so has Grain, and in recent years King Oil has had his sway. But at the one propitious spot in the valley of the Wichita river, the first step in crowning Irrigation king was taken Saturday when work was started formally on the storage dam of the Wichita county water project.

Far-reaching in its significance as the occasion for those who have vision and who have watched the development of an idea into a great reality. To 'em it was not merely the inauguration of work on a single irrigation and domestic water supply project but the start of what may well prove a great object lesson to the entire state and which may revolutionize agriculture and many other activities in Texas.

There has been too much taking a chance with weather in Texas. There has been an idea that irrigation was not economically profitable when the average rainfall of the country is above 20 inches per annum. That would be all right if the rainfall were approximately uniform. But there are years of drouth in some sections of the state, followed by years of heavy rains. The only safe proposition is the storage of flood waters to aid in the dry years.

Experts in attendance at the opening ceremonies near Mabelle Saturday declared that the project Wichita Falls and vicinity is starting is worth its cost merely as insurance against drouth. As a matter of fact it will put about 200,000 acres of fertile soil under irrigation and make possible the raising of fruits, not now extensively grown in this part of the state, as well as greatly increased yields of the present staples.

The Record sent one of its executives to the Mabelle dam dedication Saturday and printed a more extensive account of it than any state paper because it believed that the significance of the occasion could hardly be overestimated. It is the beginning of irrigation in the great western and northwestern area of Texas, and what that will mean can be guessed faintly from the experience of California and other western states.

To J. A. Kemp is due the chief credit for the dream and the realization of that dream. To those associated with him and the forward-looking Wichita Falls region goes credit for aid in carrying the work to the point where the contractors are actually making dirt fly. But, as Mr. Kemp said Saturday, the significance of the occasion goes far beyond the present project into a future policy that may revolutionize agriculture in Texas.

Famous Vaudeville Star Takes Ironized Yeast With Amazing Results

The Remarkable Experience of Lillian Steele

"I NEVER dreamed that Ironized Yeast could bring such an extraordinary improvement in me. Why, it just seems to have made an entirely new person of me!"

Such is the amazing statement of Lillian Steele, star of the well known "Lillian Steele Trio," vaudeville headliners, made when interviewed regarding her experience with Ironized Yeast.

"My work played havoc with my system in general and before I knew it I was in a badly run-down condition. I seemed to lose all my energy. My appetite deserted me. I kept losing weight, and my color was fast disappearing. The worst of it all was that nothing seemed to bring any noticeable relief. I sutely thought that I would have to give up the stage for a while, and rest up. It was then that I heard of Ironized Yeast.

"Ironized Yeast seemed to have a magical effect on me. It just seemed to fill me with new life—new energy! My weight and appetite both showed splendid increases, and the improvement in my complexion is just wonderful. I cannot describe the delight I feel because of my improvement, and will always be one of Ironized Yeast's most enthusiastic boosters."

Splendid Results Everywhere

Miss Steele's statement, remarkable as it may seem is not at all unusual, for from everywhere come equally surprising reports of the results brought by Ironized Yeast.

The reason for these results is simply this—Ironized Yeast is not only rich in all three essential vitamines, but in addition contains a type of yeast which is unequalled as a reconstructive agent—a yeast which is cultured expressly for medicinal purposes, and which is entirely different from the yeast found in ordinary yeast tablets.

But more important than this, is the fact that this yeast is ironized—or treated through a scientific process with a special type of easily assimilated organic iron. When yeast is ironized in this manner, results are secured in just half the usual time.

Make This Amazing Test

To learn of the splendid benefits Ironized Yeast holds for you, you need not risk a single penny. Simply mail coupon below for the amazing Three Day FREE Trial Treatment. Or go to your druggist and get Ironized Yeast on the positive guarantee of satisfactory results from the first package—or your money refunded.

Note the quick results Ironized Yeast brings in you. See how quickly it increases your appetite. Watch how quickly pimples and other skin blemishes disappear—and how your newly acquired "pep" makes hard work or play a pleasure instead of a task. You simply will not believe what a wonderful improvement Ironized Yeast can bring in you until you try it. Get it today!

Warning!

Due to the marked superiority of Ironized Yeast it is being widely imitated. Ironized Yeast is entirely different from ordinary combinations of yeast and iron—or yeast and iron taken separately. There is only one genuine Ironized Yeast. Insist upon it always—for nothing else can be like it!

BAPTIST AUXILIARY MEETS IN CIRCLES

Meeting in circles for a social afternoon and study lesson on the mission book, "The Call of the South," members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist church held sessions Monday afternoon as follows: Mrs. J. T. Brooks was hostess to Circle No. 1, with Mrs. W. M. Barringer leader of the lesson, and Mesdames Ray Wilhite, Eli Morgan, John Nossett and Robert Goodfellow taking part on the program.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Reeves. At the close of the lesson, a dainty refreshment course was served to 11 present.

Circle Two.

Met with Mrs. J. L. Maxwell with Mrs. Compere leader of the lesson, which proved very interesting and instructive. The house was decorated in motives and colors suggestive of Washington's birthday, and at the close of the afternoon, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Fred Carter, served refreshments during the social hour.

Circle Three.

Mrs. L. P. Hammond, 1624 Tenth street, was hostess to Circle No. 3 with Mrs. Findley leader of the devotionals.

Mrs. Leslie Humphreys was leader of the mission study, and the afternoon was pleasantly spent following the lesson in social meeting.

At a late hour dainty refreshments were served.

Circle Five.

Mrs. W. W. Anderson was hostess to Circle No. 5 when the afternoon was delightfully spent in the study of the Bible, period by period, with Mrs. H. L. Ray leader. An informal program added to the entertainment of the afternoon, in which Mrs. W. W. Anderson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Teresa Veale, gave a vocal number and readings were given by Misses Herma Pounds and Marjorie Hines, all of which was very much enjoyed by those present.

Following the study hour and program, the hostess served dainty refreshments to Mesdames A. R. Bleakley, E. B. Bailey, Ira G. Craig, A. W. Everett, C. H. Foley, W. A. Freear, J. T. Gant, T. A. Garnett, Ralph Hines, Homer McGregor, McKay, W. H. Morrison, O. L. Powers, H. L. Ray, Jim Robertson, G. Clint Wood, J. C. Wharton and Misses Teresa Veale, Herma Pounds and Marjorie Hines.

Circle Six.

Circle No. 6 met with Mrs. George M. Snowden, with Mrs. O. W. Smith leader of an interesting mission study lesson. Mrs. M. A. Colquitt gave an instructive talk on the Women's Mission Unions of former days, followed by suggestions of new ideas for woman's work of today. At the close of the lesson, the hostess served a refreshment plate to Mesdames George Parks, G. W. Watson, M. A. Colquitt, W. B. Beach, F. D. Stout, O. W. Smith, J. W. Thomas, Bert King, J. C. Walker and J. G. Dickson.

Circle Seven.

Met at the home of Mrs. E. P. Pass on Ninth street, with Mrs. C. D. Whitley leader of the mission study, in which all the members took part and proving very interesting. Little Miss Dorothy Shamburger and Master Perry Richardson Bass, son of the hostess, gave readings, both of which were enjoyed by the circle members.

In the absence of the leader, Mrs. Maples, Mrs. Hubert Harrison, her assistant, was in charge of the meeting.

At the close of the program a dainty refreshment course was served to about 10 members present.

Circle Eight.

Mrs. Howe Willis on Tilden street, was hostess to a delightful and enthusiastic meeting of Circle No. 8, with Mrs. E. J. Bartella leader of the lesson, which she made very interesting and instructive. Devotionals were lead by Mrs. Willis and during a short business session $2.78 was collected on the free will offering.

Following the study program Miss Alleen Willis gave a piano number, Master Ernest Willis, a reading, and Miss Larue Simmons a reading. Three new members, Mesdames Press Duncan, McCordie and Charles Grantham were enrolled, and at the close of the afternoon dainty refreshments consisting of salad, cake, coffee and whipped cream were served.

Fashions for Americans

Egyptian colorings and a pyramid design are featured in the embroidery used to trim the smart frock shown in the sketch. More than a dozen different shades of blue, red, purple, yellow, etc., are blended in the embroidered motifs, the finished effect being very beautiful and artistic.

Heavy white crepe de chine is the material used for the dress. A grap, tan or navy crepe de chine may be employed, with no change in the color scheme of the embroidery, and an equally charming frock be the result.

The dress is a two-piece affair, and, if desired, the blouse may very well be worn with a tailored suit. The sash may be draped lower about the figure if preferred, giving the low waist line so much in vogue, but looped simply in front and with ends hanging below the skirt hem a very pleasing silhouette is effected. The skirt is a conventional pleated model and many serve very nicely as a separate skirt to be worn with other blouses. The motif and coloring of the embroidery that trims the blouse are really the notable feature of the dress, but these are unusual and distinctive.

The neck and sleeves are finished with heavy silk embroidery done in a simple blanket stitch.

This dress is of the sports type, destined to be very popular as the season advances, and the woman who has a knack at embroidering and a sense of color blendings and combinations may utilize a few weeks now very advantageously in developing some dresses that will be the envy of her friends. Such a frock as the one shown in the sketch would be an expensive investment if bought in the shops. But it is simple. The fabric alone would cost comparatively little, and a few weeks' accumulation of idle hours expended in embroidering the dress would result in a very charming addition to the wardrobe at a reasonable financial outlay.

A Wife or a Profession?

BY CAROLYN BEECHER

(Copyright, 1922, by Carolyn Beecher)

Chapter XI.

Their talk on finances got them nowhere at all. It ended by Annette promising to be very careful the next month, and by Howard drawing the checks for part of the bills and declaring the other would have to wait until later in the month. Then, his mind on a baffling case of paralysis, he forgot all about them.

Annette was jealous.

Not yet had she ever imagined cause to be jealous of another woman, but she was jealous of her husband's profession, the time he devoted to it, the way his mind dwelt upon it, often to the exclusion of herself and her desires. This jealousy had bred in her a curiosity. She often questioned him as to what ailed his patients, what they told him, etc. He invariably answered:

"Patients' secrets are also their doctor's secrets. I cannot talk of them, even to you." So unless it were some child who was ill, Annette knew nothing of Howard's cases except that Mr. or Mrs., or Miss or Master, So and So was sick. This rankled and gradually bread a jealousy that was constantly on the alert for something to feed upon. And what one looks for they are almost sure to find sooner or later.

Often before they married Howard had told Annette she was an inspiration to him. He had thought she was with her bright, clever mind and manner. Now occasionally she twitted him about it.

"A lot of inspiration a woman can be when she knows nothing at all of her husband's affairs. I might as well be in Timbuctoo for all I know about what you are doing."

"Not quite as bad as that," Howard laughed. He was determined not to take this new development seriously. Then quietly: "You can be an inspiration, if you will, Annette. All wives can. Just have faith that I am doing the best I can, believe that I love you, even when I have to be with the Mulligans. Have the sympathy for me, with me, and my profession the woman who marries a physician must have, and it will inspire me beyond all else."

The light played upon her face, upon her slim hands folded in her lap. There was just the slightest hint of petulance in the faint lines that showed ever so slightly at the corners of her mouth. Yet she was adorably pretty, and she was his.

"You are a dear," he said impulsively, then leaned forward and kissed the red pouting lips.

"And you are a dearer." She returned his embrace and all was forgotten for the once have the love they bore each other, the feeling of ownership, of possession of the loved one.

"Do you know, Howard," Annette said a few moments later as, still perched upon his knee, they stopped love-making for a bit, "that I felt like giving up this morning. Elsie was impudent, and everything went wrong. Now everything seems all right again." She snuggled into his arms more closely. "And by the way, dear, a Miss Gower, Luella Gower, called upon me this afternoon."

"They live in the big house on the hill," Howard said.

"Yes, she came in the niftiest little car, and was very pleasant. She is about my age, a little older, perhaps. She said she was going to be real neighborly and not stand on ceremony, but was coming after me to go motoring with her."

"Why didn't she call before? Seems to me she was very effusive considering." Howard felt a little natural dislike to the Gowers, one of the wealthiest families in town. For years they had been patients of his uncle. "Pretty nearly kept my head above water at times," he had told his nephew. That was before Dr. Agnew came. They had taken him up socially then as a family physician. They had two marriageable daughters. Perhaps—but why speculate upon the obvious.

But Howard said nothing of his feeling, nothing of what his uncle had told him, to Annette.

"Oh, she has been away! Just came back this week. She said she noticed me because I looked so different from the Clarkstown girls. She has a sister, too. She is still in Europe. How I wish we might travel."

"We will some day."

"You optimist! I don't see any chance."

"Go on and tell me of your caller. You liked her?"

"Very much. She seemed more my kind than any one I have seen."

"Then I am glad she came. Poor kid! You have been lonely, I know. But, Annette, don't accept too many favors. We aren't in any condition to return them just now."

"Just as if I were not granting her a favor when I go out with her. You aren't very complimentary." And she tweaked his ear.

It was the little rifts like these in the cloud of her discontent that had made their happiness together in spite of much that was discouraging, that kept in abeyance the thought that he had perhaps made a mistake in marrying before he was settled in life.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."—EVA ALDRICH, 218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

It is prepared carefully from medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.

KIWANIS CLUB MUSICAL PLANS TAKING SHAPE

Texas Women's College musicians, under the direction of Carl Venth, the dean of the musical department of the college, will appear in concert at the Wichita Theater on Monday, March 13, under the auspices of the local Kiwanians. Arrangements for this program were concluded at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club Monday, at the Kemp hotel, when Mrs. H. N. Fitzgerald, who represented the club in a conference with Director Venth in Fort Worth last week, made her report. Committees were appointed to care for the necessary details of the affair, which the club hopes to make of general civic interest.

The program, as outlined by Mrs. Fitzgerald, will include vocal and instrumental numbers, with a one act opera, arranged by Mr. Venth. The best of T. W. C.'s musical talent will make up the program, it is announced, and the event is expected to prove one of unusual interest to all lovers of music in the city, Mr. Venth being recognized as one of the leading musical directors of the southwest.

Monday's session, outside the routine business, and the announcement of the Venth concert, was featured by a musical program that was a real departure from the usual jazz selections. A quintette of misses, four with stringed instruments, and the fifth a vocalist, gave a concert of old southern melodies that won round after round of applause, was so appealing that the entire club was soon singing with the entertainers. Misses Beulah and Julia Ross, Josephine Fish and Beryl Knickerbocker were the instrument artists, and Miss Glenore Fish was the singer.

The attendance prize, a thermos bottle, given by Tom Noble, went to Miss Julia Ross. Dr. O. W. Wilson contributed the "silent boosts," orders on a local drug store.

was 586,087,132 gallons. Colonel A. E. Humphreys promises to give Deacon John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford a run for at least third place. A year ago he didn't have money enough to develop his first well. Now his friends say if his oil properties continue to produce as they have started his income this year will be 35 million dollars. Again the colonel has promised Dallas a greater oil boom ever experienced by any city in the nation in the light of showings made from tests already under way in Kaufman and other counties. As a result of his New York conference the colonel says the Standard and Prairie and Sinclair interests would begin taking much larger runs of oil from the Mexia field at once. Thirty thousand barrels a day will be delivered to the Standard interests and fifteen thousand barrels daily to the Pure Oil interests. Speaking of the Mexican field one of the greatest authorities on oil of the country has advised the colonel that within the next six months the supply of Mexican oil will dwindle heavily. Some one must have put salt on the tail of the Mexican oil bird. This reminds H. N. F. there were operating in the United States on the first day of this year 303 petroleum refineries with a total daily indicated capacity of 1,736,725 barrels as compared with 328 operating plants having a daily indicated capacity of 1,714,395 barrels on January 1, 1921. These figures are from the reports compiled by the Bureau of Mine Experts and show that the plants were operating on a basis of 80 per cent of their indicated capacity last January 1 as compared to 84 per cent for the same date last year. Petroleum is the greatest of the gigantic games of Chance as well as of Commerce and unless all the surface signs are misleading there will continue to be big money in oil.

J. W. Newton, assistant superintendent of the Magnolia refinery at Beaumont, lectured to the engineering students of the Agricultural and Mechanical college at Bryan on the subject, "Refining Petroleum." His was the fourth lecture of the lectureship course being given at the Agricultural and Mechanical college by the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, the plan of which is to have technical and practical men in the oil industry lecture on and illustrate to the classes in engineering, the scientific and practical phases of the business of producing and refining oil. Mr. Newton commented on the extent of the petroleum industry saying that it had contributed in a mighty way to the advancement of many other industrial enterprises as well as made possible a goodly number of inventions for the benefaction of humanity. He said the process of refining was complicated, and the business needed the best of human material—engineers, chemists and practical process men. While many improvements had been made in the methods of refining in the past several years, every opportunity having been siezed for the advancement of the industry, yet he said, there were many unknown mysteries to be solved. He strongly refuted the accusation which he said was often made to the effect that refineries insist on using school boy methods in obtaining their products and will do nothing to improve so long as they can get by. That statement was not applicable to the refineries, he said, for improvements in methods are being made constantly. 'We are maintaining expensive laboratories,' he said, 'and we are willing to accept any improvement that is demonstrated to be in the realms of commercial success and our willingness is proven by the investigations of new ideas that are conceived every year. 'Yet,' he said, 'our problems are many, both for the engineer and chemist the wonderful field for organic research work that petroleum, one of nature's greatest gifts, has opened up, contains within itself a new basis for organic chemistry. He mentioned a number of points where further research work was needed as an illustration of his statement. The preparation of isoprene from the lower boiling fractions of petroleum, which he said had already been accomplished, may, in an equal length of time prove to be as epoch-making as the accidental production of mauveine, the forerunner of the multitude of coal tar dyes. Artificial rubber can be made from the same product, he said, and ventured the additional statement that a few more years may see automobile wheels shod with a derivative of the same natural product which furnishes the power that makes them go round."

Governor Robertson of Oklahoma declined to accept the resignation of Judge Christopher for the reason that he does not sanction lynch law. Judge Christopher was lynched into resignation by a mob of indignant citizens. Now it is up to him to return to his home and face his accusers. If he adjourned a grand jury to prevent the indictment of men guilty of banking frauds then he should be made to suffer for it. If he did not he is entitled to a vindication. Whenever the written law is set aside the law of the jungle is substituted and the law of the jungle is the law of might. There should be law enforcement all along the line and if the people of a community would place fearless and efficient men in office and then get in behind them and demand an impartial administration of justice there would be no demand or necessity for the written law to be set aside and the law of the jungle administered here or elsewhere. Who was it said "where law ends oppression begins"—or words to that effect?

Lieutenant Governor Lynch Davidson of Houston will not be a candidate for re-election to that office. He made an ideal lieutenant governor, he is an able and hard-headed business man and his plan to junk the penitentiary plants, sell the prison farms and utilize the labor of convicts as road builders would have saved millions of dollars annually to the tax-payers of the state and in a very few years would have given Texas a system of highways that would have been the admiration of all the people. Editor W. A. Johnson of the Hall County Herald has announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor. Editor Johnson is a pioneer of the West, of and for the West and served the people ten years first as state senator and then a term of lieutenant governor. Editor Johnson would junk the penitentiary plants, sell the prison farms, make road builders of the convicts and establish large state owned cement plants in order to furnish road-making materials at cost to the people. There is another Richmond in the field, State Senator T. M. Davidson, of Harrison county. Davidson is a prominent lawyer and progressive builder. He, too, would junk the plants, sell the prison, make road builders of convicts and do his best to place Texas first for magnificent highways from the gulf to the mountains and from the Red river to the Rio Grande.

Harvey Church, the Chicago murderer, is said to be "in a condition of mental death." Why the uproar? There are millions of people in a condition of mental death from the cradle to the grave.

Those Breakdowns

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

He was less than thirty, but pretty much of a nervous wreck. He slept badly, he could not concentrate his attention, for some weeks he had been troubled every morning with unaccountable attacks of nausea.

They were, at any rate, unaccountable to him and the doctor whom he consulted could not find in the condition of his stomach anything to account for them. But nothing could he find in his patient's general organic condition anything to account for the symptoms that troubled him.

"Are you worried about something?" the doctor then demanded.

"Not at all."

"Do you like the work at which you are employed?"

"Yes," somewhat hesitatingly.

"What is the matter with it?"

"Why, nothing. Only"—in a burst of confidence—"I don't feel that I am doing it as well as I should. And, besides, I don't feel that it offers me any real chance for advancement."

"So that, after all, you are worried? My advice to you is to go to some superior official in your place of business and tell him frankly what is on your mind. If you find that there is reason for your worry, come back to me."

The patient did come back, but only to report that he had been worrying needlessly. He had learned that he had real opportunity for promotion. No fault was being found with his work. And already he had begun to feel infinitely better.

"Exactly," quoth the doctor. "The trouble was that, being dissatisfied, and lacking courage to verify or disprove your feeling of personal inefficiency, you involuntarily took refuge in a nervous breakdown that would enable you to evade blame for the expected failure."

Which, in fact, is the way not a few nervous breakdowns in young men develop. The breakdowns are, so to speak, means of escape from a business situation that has become intolerable, either because the worker is engaged in uncongenial work, or because, rightly or wrongly, he believes himself to be unfitted for the work he has chosen.

As remarked not long ago by a New York physician, Dr. Louis Casamajor, who has had much experience with the nervously collapsed, there are three principal types of victims of what may be called "business neurosis." These types are the inadequate, the dissatisfied, the generally maladjusted.

When business workers belonging in any one of these types go to pieces nervously they usually do so because they lack one thing—ability to face reality manfully. Failing to progress in business as they had hoped to progress, they do not calmly sit down and ask themselves, "Why?" They seek, rather, to hide from themselves, or excuse to themselves, the fact of failure.

This, though they know it not, is the provoking cause of their breakdown. Nor can they hope to recover from it until they find work that is more congenial to them, adopt a new attitude to the work they are already doing, or are trained, or train themselves, to meet with greater firmness the perplexities and stresses of business life.

Then, no longer feeling any need for a "fight from reality," they regain nerve control and remain nervously well balanced.

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

I sometimes think that if I had just a little more power I could make this world over into a better sort of a place. I can see so plainly what is wrong with other people and how their defects can be cured. But I lack the power to act. When I try to be diplomatic about it—just mildly hint that I see their nitwittedness—they get peevish.

There is my very dear friend Mrs. Archie Maud, for example. Mrs. Archie is a writer by profession and a good one. When she gets down to business she can write circles around most every one of the profession, Shakespeare, Dante, Galsworthy, and a few more being held out of competition. She has taken a bunch of money in advance payments from various publishers and contracts are staring her in the face that would make her mildly rich—sort of one-half of one per cent well to do, you know. But she will not work.

"I cannot work," she says. "My eyes hurt me so."

Her eyes do hurt her. I can see that. Any one can see that. She screws them up until just a slit appears between her lids and her forehead is corrugated and her face shows her suffering. What she needs, of course, is a thorough going over by a specialist or two. I went through the same experience, until finally I had my blood tested and my pressure taken and my reflexes reflected and the good old optic nerve taken out and cleaned and bound myself to go on a diet and wear a set of spectacles that give me a wierd outward resemblance to a badly foreshortened lobster. Now my eyes do not hurt and my appetite is good and I never have a headache and can work from daylight to dark. I do not always do it, understand, but I can.

"But I hate spectacles," says Mrs. Archie Maud, angrily.

I know why, too. Mrs. Archie Maud is a very pretty woman. She has had men dangling after her ever since she first put her hair up on wire doohads at night. She thinks spectacles would spoil her looks. Also she wears shoes that are a size and a half too short and too narrow, so that she makes one think of an early Christian just after the Roman Home Guards caught him. Every one notices these facts. They are as easily seen as a bed of lettuce.

But Mrs. Archie will not give up her little vanities—although they make people grin instead of admire—and she goes around suffering and is totally unable to work and is losing ground in her profession. If I had the power to do so I would put her feet in moccasins and her eyes behind large lenses well hooked over the ear and she would be well in a week.

But I haven't the power. Anyhow, she wouldn't be happy.

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

1922-23 STYLES IN DOGS

Bulldogs will bite harder and deeper.

Airedales will go over to the Republican party in a body.

Police dogs and bloodhounds will (at the request of the district attorneys replace Russian wolfhounds as quite the proper thing in moving picture colonies.

Hamlet or Great Dane dogs will continue to be built too large for comfort in modern apartments.

Coach dogs will show the same color scheme as in past years, nothing having been found that will remove the black spots.

They will not run under coaches, however, there being no coaches left to run under, but experiments are now under way in crossing the coach dog with the dachshound to produce a type of the proper proportions to run under Ford roadsters.

ooo

These are the outstanding features of the trend in dog styles for 1922-23 as shown at the National Dog Show.

ooo

All breeds, judging from their conduct on exhibition, will bark louder the coming season. If there is any truth in the old saying that a barking dog never bites it will be a great year for tramps.

ooo

Anybody who has ever spent ten minutes inside a dog show will declare it would be much more satisfactory if a biting dog never barked.

ooo

Pug dogs, once as essential a part of the Great American Home as crayon portraits and eight-day clocks, will be bred only as antiques. The "pug" has become so extinct that only one was shown at the National Bowwow Exposition. He naturally won first, second, third and fourth prizes in his class, and the ribbon for the "best team," this last trick having been accomplished by the aid of a mirror.

ooo

Bloodhounds also will be considered poor form the coming season, and any society lady who walks down the avenue with one of them in her arms will invite the scorn of the Smart Set.

ooo

As anybody knows, the only dog for the Smart Set is, so to speak, the Smart Setter.

ooo

Only one bloodhound appeared at the show and he looked so forlorn and lifeless it was generally suspected he was one of the bloodhounds that chased Eliza across the ice, and, in all probability, the one Eliza chased back.

ooo

It will not be stylish to be seen with a Newfoundland during 1922-23, either. Dame Fashion has frowned upon this once popular dog to such an extent that he, too, was represented by one entry at the show.

ooo

Newfoundland dogs once were used extensively for jumping into lakes, after children and pulling them out by the skirts. Of late years these dogs have shown an utter inability to tell a child from a middle-aged woman, and have pulled out any number of elderly persons scarcely worth saving. The result has been to make the dog very unpopular and a little ashamed of himself.

ooo

As a matter of fact the trend is toward small models. The Vanity Case Hound, otherwise known as the Pekingese, will continue to be the delight of women with distorted ideas as to what constitutes beauty in the animal kingdom. The Pekingese dog is quite a cutie. To be a real blue-ribboner he has to have a forehead like Senator Lodge, a nose like Rocky Kansas, and a chin like that of the Crown Prince. Very pretty little thing!

ooo

Pomeranians will go well this season too. They look lovely on sofa pillows. A real aristocratic Pom must have the facial expression of the brightest girl at Smith College and the general bearing of the president of the Women's League for Better Babies.

ooo

One of the best laughs at a dog show is the sight of the Pekingese dogs and Pomeranians housed in little glassed-in cases very much resembling Victrola cabinets. Looking at one of these flea-teasers in such a cabinet one gets the impression that if one fed it a new needle it would play "Hearts and Flowers."

THE NEWS REACHES PETER RABBIT

It isn't often that Peter Rabbit doesn't know what is going on in the Green Meadows, but once in a great while it happens. That was the case the time that everybody was looking for the storehouse of Busy Bee so as to make a friend of Buster Bear, who is very fond of honey. It happens that Peter had been staying very close to the dear Old Briar Patch in the daytime, visiting the Green Forest only at night. Now, of course, no one looked for the storehouse of Busy Bee at night, and so Peter didn't know anything about it for some time. When he did hear about it, he was very much put out because he had not known about it before. Peter is one of those people who want to be the first to know what is going on.

Now, Peter was quite as much afraid of Buster Bear as were any of his friends. In fact, it was because of Buster that he had given up going to the Green Forest as much as he used to or would have liked to. So when he heard that every one was looking for honey for Buster Bear, he was filled with a great wish that he, too, might hunt for the honey. He might, he just might, find it. And if he did, why he and Buster Bear would be friends as long as they lived, and that would be perfectly splendid. The more he thought about it as he sat in the dear Old Briar Patch the more splendid it seemed, and he began to wish and wish that he could climb trees like Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, or else that he could fly. He thought flying would be even better.

But he couldn't do either, and so couldn't quite see how he had the least chance in the world to find the honey which would make Buster Bear his friend. He sat in the dear Old Briar Patch and thought and thought. Jimmy Skunk came along and noticed that Peter was studying over something.

"Hello!" he exclaimed. "Got something on your mind, Peter Rabbit?"

Now, Peter didn't like to admit that he wished he could find the honey of Busy Bee, so he pretended not to hear Jimmy's question. "Hello, Jimmy Skunk!" he exclaimed, as if he had just discovered Jimmy's presence. "How are you?"

"Fine," replied Jimmy. "I'm glad to see that you haven't gone crazy like everybody else."

"What do you mean?" asked Peter.

"Why, everybody in the Green Forest is running around with their heads tipped back until they look as if they certainly would break their necks. They're all looking for honey, and to see them you would think that they expected it was going to drop right down on their noses. I never did see such foolishness, and all just to try to please Buster Bear. Some day one of them will walk right into his clutches, for you can't look up and watch where you are going at the same time. If I wanted to find that honey I wouldn't go about breaking my neck to do it. No, sir, not much!"

He Was Filled With a Great Wish That He, Too, Might Hunt For the Honey.

"What would you do?" asked Peter so eagerly that Jimmy looked at him sharply.

"I'd ask some one who knows, or else I'd watch Busy Bee and find out where she goes to," replied Jimmy.

Peter didn't say anything more, but he did a great deal of thinking, and he did wish that Jimmy Skunk would hurry away. You see, he had thought of a plan. He had thought of some one, a friend of his, who ought to know all about Busy Bee and her honey, and he was anxious to go hunt him up. So for once Peter didn't want to talk, and after a little Jimmy Skunk went on his way to hunt for fat beetles.

ANCIENT ACHES.

There are so many ways of curing the aches that torture bone and thew, it does seem strange we are enduring the same old pains our fathers knew. On our main street the signs are swinging, the signs of healers by the score, who'll start our dismal hearts a-singing, if we'll dig up five bones or four. By every mail get a letter from one practicioner or two, who'd free me from the gout or tetter, the rheumatism or the flue. And all these healers I have trusted, I've paid them money by the yard; I've had my ancient spine adjusted, and I've been boiled in rancid lard; I've taken pellets green and yellow, I've taken tablets flat and square, and, guided by some healing fellow, consumed a horse's bill of fare. I've taken brown and brindled bitters, and pills that taste like toilet soap; for he must rank with tinhorn quitters who doesn't sample every dope. And yet with all my ceaseless taking I'm where I was long years ago! and as my grandsire's bones were aching, so my old bones must anguish know. I read how Science knocks diseases, and wipes out human aches and stings; I also read some other wheezes concerning pigs that fly with wings. The Science tales are most alluring, but, while I read them in my lair, wonder why we're still enduring rheumatics, mumps and falling hair.—(Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams).

MRS. BROUGHTON'S BONNET

Amy Broughton was peeling small potatoes for dinner when Elias Broughton, the man she had married two years before, entered the kitchen.

"Amy," he began, "we're going visiting."

Amy looked at him through her spectacles and over them without making out anything. After two years of living in his house, making his shirts, cooking for him, darning his socks, she was not yet well acquainted with him. The fact was forced upon her anew by this announcement. "Where to?" she inquired.

Elias bulged with inspiration. He was a little, iron-gray old man, with keen gray eyes. "Close-fisted," the neighbors called him. Amy had known him to be so before she consented to marry him. But she was a widow with nothing to live on, she was getting to be an old woman, and Elias had impressed upon her his need of a useful helpmate now that Angie, his companion for forty years, had gone to her reward. He had no children any Amy had none to make trouble. There was no reason why they should not marry. And so they were married. And after two years it had proved to be a sufficiently successful arrangement.

"Where to" said Elias. "Why, we're going to visit my brother's folks over to Marwood. We'll drive. If we start at 3 o'clock we'll get there by 6, in plenty of time for supper."

It was the first time Elias had ever asked Amy to go anywhere with him. She was ordinarily a calm woman, but she couldn't now help feeling a stir of excitement.

"Ain't you going to say something?" demanded Elias as she did not speak.

"Well," Amy spoke slowly, "I don't care much about going, Elias."

"You don't? What's your objection to my taking you to see my brother?" demanded Elias.

Color rose in Amy's withered but gentle face. Moisture came to the kindly eyes behind the spectacles. "I hate to tell you, Elias. You wouldn't like it if I did."

"Speak up!"

"Well—I haven't anything fit to wear on my head. My bonnet won't do."

"I'd like to know why not. It was good enough for you to marry me in."

"That was two years ago, Elias, and it was not a very new bonnet then. Men don't understand about such things, but they're important, just the same. I don't mind wearing my bonnet here, where I'm known, but out there among your folks that never saw me—" A quiver passed over her face.

Elias's small eyes sparkled. "Amy," he said, "bonnet or no bonnet, you're going with me this afternoon. Set your mind on that." He turned and went out of the house to give the horse an extra currying.

Amy began to prepare the meal. Then she went into her bedroom to lay out the things she was going to take and those she was going to wear. When she came to her bonnet she sighed deeply. It was four years old, it had been trimmed over twice and it was as shabby as a respectable bonnet may well be.

Holding it on her hand, she stood looking out of the window. It was late March and beautifully mild weather. Within the radius of her vision she could see at least two beflowered and fresh spring hats flitting down the street. The milliner's windows were full of them.

"If I had a bit of money I'd go straight and get me a new bonnet," Amy thought, "one with little purple flowers on it and maybe a sign of jet. I do love jet, but of course it's awful expensive. Elias never has bought me a stitch since we were married and I've never hinted for anything before, knowing his peculiarities. He could buy me a new bonnet just as well as not, but he won't. And I'd rather lie down and die than appear before his brother's folks in this old thing."

She had the bonnet upon the bed with her other things and went back to her dinner-getting. Then a new thought came to her. She brushed it aside as wicked, but it fascinated her. There was something exhilarating about that thought. After all the bonnet was hers to do what she liked with.

Amy got the dinner ready before she succumbed to the temptation gnawing at her. She went deliberately into her bedroom. As deliberately she came forth with the bonnet in her hand. She took off the stove lid and crowded the bonnet upon the coals and put the lid in its place. It was all over.

Elias ate a full meal in silence. Amy ate almost nothing in silence. As he arose from the table Elias asked: "Will you be ready at 3 o'clock?"

"Yes," Amy answered.

She washed the dishes and set the house in order. Elias had not said when he would return, but she supposed it would not be until late the next day. When she had seen to everything she went to her room and dressed in her neat, frayed best. Elias came in to change to his best clothes. He had had a new outfit when he was married. He looked as neat as a new pin.

When Amy appeared before him she was wearing her coat and gloves. Over her gray hair she had drawn a little white knit scarf and tied it under her chin. Aside from the bonnet it was the only bit of headgear she had.

Elias looked at her curiously. "What's that thing you've got on your head? You ain't going that way I hope!" he exclaimed.

"I shall have to," replied Amy.

"What have you done with your bonnet?"

A gleam of mischief came into Amy's eyes. "That, Elias," she said calmly, "is my own affair."

He was visibly balked. "You burned it up! I thought I smelt something when I came into dinner. Smart, aren't you?" he asked.

"No," answered Amy. "But sometimes I am quite determined."

They stood eye to eye. It meant another bonnet or staying at home. And the horse was hitched and waiting at the door.

Elias patted the floor with his foot, clinched and unclinched his hand. "Well," he said at last, "how long do you suppose it would take you to get a new bonnet if I gave you the money?"

"About ten minutes," as if she had not had it picked out in fancy for days.

"All right. We'll go get it, then," conceded Elias.

The Charge of the Light Brigade

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

"All in the valley of death
Rode the six hundred.
Theirs not to make reply,
Theirs not to reason why,
Theirs but to do and die;
Into the valley of Death
Rode the six hundred."

Forever this poem of Tennyson will be a type of them who fling away their lives for something they esteem more worth while.

In the battle of the ages the goal of the greatest souls has been the realization of humanity and the breaking down of all walls that separate men from men.

Greatest of all is the tragic figure of Jesus of Nazareth, who 2,000 years ago in a world which is even to this triotism knew no patriotism but humanity, no brotherhood but the human race. He was put to death between two thieves.

Since his time there have appeared here and there in the world's history men who in one way or another envisaged the same dream. Some were obscure, some conspicuous. All failed.

We think of Robert Owen, who, when the statesmen of Europe assembled in 1818 at Aix-la-Chapelle to attempt one of the periodic adjustments of the continent, proposed to the assembly: "If you will now agree among yourselves to call a congress of the leading governments of the world I will unfold to you the natural means by which you may now with ease and pleasure gradually create those surroundings in peace and harmony which shall have a perpetual, good and superior influence upon all our race," and reminded them that they "could without war easily induce all governments and people to unite in practical measures for the general good of all throughout futurity."

And a Frenchman, Daniel Legrand, a manufacturer in Alsace, who addressed various memorials to the governments of Europe from 1840 to 1847 to the same effect.

And of Louis Wolowski of Lausanne, who declared that, so many treaties having been concluded with the aim of killing men, he wished to be able to witness the adoption of similar means to enable mankind to live. This was in 1873.

And of Colonel Frey, a Swiss statesman, a volunteer in the American Civil War, afterwards Swiss Minister at Washington, and finally president of the Swiss Republic, who conceived that "the suppression of industrial competition by international regulation constituted the best means of alleviating the hard lot of labor."

And of Elihu Burritt, the learned blacksmith of Massachusetts, who coined the phrase "Above all things is humanity."

And at last of Woodrow Wilson, who set all Europe aflame with the vision of a world organized to prevent war instead of making war, and who fell as Caesar fell—covered with wounds.

But all these, and many others who have had this intoxicating dream, have not fallen in vain.

Little by little the inert minds of men awaken and the children of them who stoned the prophets build the temples.

Said Gerald Massey:

"Oh the prophets, bards and seers
In the horoscope of nations
Like ascending constellations:
They control the coming years."

CH. BECKY BROOMHILL FIRST IN OPEN ALL-AGE RACE AT BOWIE TRIALS

Commanche Rap Is Second and Don Proctor Third; Eugene M., Jr., Wichita Falls Dog Owned by Claud Woods, Makes Fine Race But Fails to Get in the Money.

BOWIE, Texas, Feb. 27.—Champion Becky Broomhill, greatest bird dog in the world today, lived up to her reputation here this morning by winning the Open All-Age stakes, the last event on the program of the Oil Belt field trials. By so doing, Becky placed $300 more in the pocket of her owner, Louis Lee Hagin, of Louisville, Ky., and brought her season's prize winnings close to $5,000.

Eugene M., Jr., the great setter owned by Claud Woods, of Wichita Falls, failed to get in the money at the close of the second series running of the big stake. 'Gene ran a fine race here this morning, an unusually fine race for a hunting dog that has never been trained for field trial work, but he was outclassed by dogs admitted to be kings in the bird dog world of America. This splendid setter, however, earned the admiration and respect of experienced bird dog men throughout the week of the field trials here, and took ranking easily as the greatest setter for all-around work that was entered.

Commanche Rap, one of the William Zeigler Jr., dogs trained by Joe Crane, placed second to Champion Becky Broomhill, while third place went to Don Proctor, the fine pointer owned by E. L. Richardson, of Lawton, Okla.

A big gallery witnessed the final races of the second series, and saw some of the greatest exhibitions of bird hunting ever put up by bird dogs in this country. Always under perfect control and ready to come in at any time, Champion Becky Broomhill throughout her race was mostly a dot on the skyline, covering a tremendous range of territory. She found birds half a mile away, and held on the point until her handler, Chesley Harris, the judges and the spectators reached the scene and the birds were flushed.

The same brilliant kind of race was run by Commanche Rap, and also by Don Proctor. In fact, had Becky been braced with Rap it would have been difficult, perhaps, to determine a winner—while even though they failed to get in the money, Great Island Bramble, Eugene M., Jr., and Great Island Ringing Bells, brace-mates respectively of the three winners, showed speed, range and bird sense that stamped them also as truly great bird dogs.

GREB-GIBBONS FRAY CLOAKED WITH SILENCE

But All the Same Gent In the Box Office Needs More Arms Than Octopus to Handle Orders.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—For an affair of such magnitude the light-heavyweight bout involving Harry Greb and Tom Gibbons on March 13 moves on toward its denouement under a silence as deep and abiding as the midnight hour in the Mojave Desert. Somehow, the publicity demon has managed to sustain a painful dislocation of the typewriter as far as this particular attraction is concerned.

When the match was arranged he broke out in a typographical rash, hailing it as a stroke of consummate genius. It not only would be an absolute boon to the boxing fan, he intimated, but also provide the logical opponent for Jack Dempsey. This and much more of it for a matter of a few days. Then—silence.

Such a programme is not compatible with the usual procedure. A fight must be "built up,' as the saying goes, by judicious use of innuendo, conjecture of one kind or another, rumors, reports, denials of this and that and just plain bunk.

No Ballyhoo Needed.

It doesn't seem to apply in the case of Gibbons and Greb, and probably for the very good reason that the match is just good enough to need no ballyhoo. If the house is a "sell out," as they claim, why waste perfectly good publicity on a lot of people who haven't a white man's chance to get past the door? The idea would have much in common with "building up" the Woolworth tower.

The writer was talking the matter over with a well-known boxing man recently and, although the gentleman in question has his index finger on the local fistic pulse, he could not, offhand, say just when either of the fighters was coming on to New York to finish his training. This item is an unusually important one in the ordinary "build up," yet apparently it hasn't been given a thought.

"Train in Madegascar."

"As far as that goes," quoth our informant, "one of them could train in Madegascar and the other in South Norwalk and it would be all the same to the gent in the box office. Right now he needs more arms than an octopus to handle the rush and by the time one manager gets to blatting about what his man will do and the other shrieks in agony over the implied slight, it will be a case of selling your tickets and going home about your business."

The sure-fire character of the bout is, of course, quite comprehensible. Greb, an overgrown middleweight, is about the fastest big man in the ring today and Gibbon's knockout record is impressive, no matter whether the knockees are a lot of tramps, as some of the boys allege. No man can put away twenty-one out of twenty-two opponents in a single year's campaign without having something in his fist. The single exception was Bartley Madden, and here a knockout was improbable on the face of it. Bartley is no man's sap.

BUSINESS IS COMING BACK— W. B. HAMILTON

President of Texhoma Co. Finds a Better Feeling Among Business Men of North and East.

Business is on the upgrade and will continue to show a gradual improvement is the general expression of leading business men of the north and east according to W. B. Hamilton, president of the Texhoma Oil & Refining company who returned here Monday night after an absence of two months.

During the last few weeks Mr. Hamilton said he had talked to several representative bankers, manufacturers and economists for the purpose of securing their opinion regarding the business outlook. He said none predicted any speedy return to normal conditions but all were confident that the crisis had passed and that the future would give further indications of general business improvement.

He said that a large number of the manufacturers had resumed operations, with a few on full capacity basis.

While away Mr. Hamilton spent a considerable part of the time in a sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich. His health is greatly improved.

BIG LEAGUE MOGULS
W. G. RICHARDSON OF WASHINGTON

It's a far cry from the grain business to the ivory business. But William G. Richardson made the jump over night and is making a go of the ivory business—meaning baseball.

Richardson is the lifelong friend of Clark Griffith, who joined the "Old Fox" in purchasing on an equal basis the controlling interest in the Washington American league club a couple of years ago.

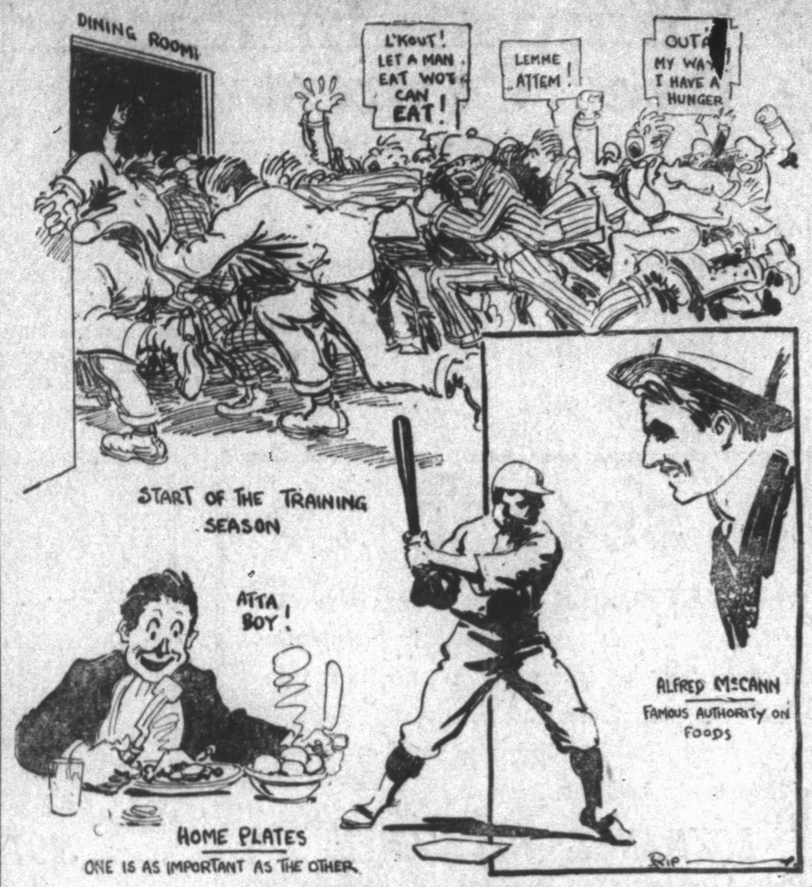

Richardson had been known as an ardent fan for years and had had hopes of breaking into the game as at least a part owner for about the same number of years. His chance came with Griffith when Benjamin L. Minor, then president of the club, and his associates decided to sell. Antagonism of the fans toward the Minor regime caused the sale.

Richardson is the silent member of the pair that bought all but a few shares of the stock. Griffith is president, and general manager, votes the stock and controls the club's policy. Richardson, because of his confidence in Griff, is willing to let the wise old head handle the reins.

APPETITES AND ATHLETICS —By Ripley

Rookies Often Eat Themselves Out of League

By ROBERT L. RIPLEY

The appetite of the rookie ball player is notorious, and the famous dining room rush from the home plate on the ball field to the home plate on the dinner table has furnished fun and amusement for years.

Many young ball players have eaten themselves right out of the big league.

That is not a joke but a fact. If you could but witness some of the meals packed away by the stalwart young men down in the training camps you would wonder how they were able to move, let alone play ball. The huge appetites and variegated menus of the players may provide comedy for the baseball scribes to write about, but it is no joke. An athlete's appetite is a serious thing.

McCann's Food Comments.

We asked Alfred McCann, the foremost authority on food in this country, for a few words. Here are a few of his comments:

"If the athlete of two generations gone lived no longer than the rest of his folk, he died young. I don't know how long he lived, but the average length of life a few years ago was but thirty-three years, whereas today it is nearly forty-four.

"The athlete used to train on steaks, roasts, chops, toast, and ale or tea. Then Freddie Welsh got the idea that vegetables were needed at the training table. Other athletes of intelligence arrived instinctively at the same conclusion about the same time. Any number of ball players, wrestlers, and boxers have taken advantage of the acid-correcting vegetable and green.

"Of course, the very sweetening of their own tissues that was bound to follow such a diet has not only kept many a professional from going stale, but has added to his years.

Vegetarians Lasted Longer.

"No athlete ought to forget the results of the experiment in which rats were kept going in a revolving cage until they exhausted themselves. The rats fed exclusively on meat should have been the winners in the endurance test, but functional excitement produced by a meat diet is not true invigoration, and the meat-eating rats lasted less than half as long as the rats fed on whole grains and vegetables without meat.

"It's very curious that although the average length of life has increased in recent years, certain diseases more or less intimately associated with an excessive meat diet are on the rapid increase. Heart disease, Bright's disease, and cancer are gaining at an alarming rate, and a vast army of school children is passing through the hands of the physical examiner with a record of flabby tissues, soft bones, and defective teeth.

"To say that the food supply of the entire country has vastly improved since 1890 is not only untrue, but silly. Some foods have vastly improved, but others have been correspondingly degrated. There are not so many chemically preserved foods now as there were ten years ago. But—our breadstuffs and cereal foods, including patented breakfast foods, are now at their lowest ebb of refinement and impoverishment.

Longevity and Food.

"Any number of fortunate individuals leading active lives succeed in maintaining health and vigor through sheer accident. They just happen to like the very foods that are good for them and they get the benefits of their lucky selection, just as those whose tastes differ are unconsciously cursed by their own prejudices for victimized virtuals.

"Each animal has got to have the food prescribed for it by Mother Nature. For the human animal food is very clearly described in Genesis, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy. The trouble is that although all such foods are available for the initiated, who know how to get them, the plain people are compelled to do without because so many queer things happen to what they eat, without their knowledge, behind the scenes.

"A healthy life and a long life is up to the individual and the intelligent use he makes of his faculties. I don't think the athlete has any better chance when normally nourished than the ordinary person has to sit in a swivel chair, provided the latter doesn't eat too much bad food or too little good food."

Can Ward Fill Peck's Shoes as Sacrifice Man for the Yanks?

Aaron Ward in the shoes he may be called on to fill—Peckinpaugh's

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The task of filling the shoes of Babe Ruth, world's greatest slugger, and Bob Muesel, a fitting running mate for the swat king, ought to be enough for one big league manager.

The job of building up a pitching staff capable of carrying the load added by the loss of those two lads ought to be a hard enough task for said pilot.

Then pity Miller Huggins, diminutive Yankee manager. For he not only is tackling the problems, but he has still a third.

That is the replacing of Roger Peckinpaugh with another A1 sacrifice hitter who can shift about and strike terror to the heart of the opposition hurlers by driving the ball out of the lot when necessary.

Remember the Yankee lineup last year? Elmer Miller usually led off. With Elmer out of the way the pitcher faced Peckinpaugh, Ruth, Muesel, Pipp and Baker.

And not least of these was Peck. He ranked with Wambsganns, McInnis and Donie Bush among the leading sacrificers in the league. And he hit .288. This batting average doesn't do him justice. The timeliness of his hits made him a more formidable batter than many .300 hitters. Twenty-five of his hits were doubles, seven triples and eight homers.

Miller probably will lead off. But who Huggins will write down for the second place in the lineup is unknown.

He has two possibilities as things look now—Aaron Ward and Everett Scott. Ward is the more likely choice. Scott is not a sacrifice hitter. The only factor that may cause Hug to choose him is the fact that he is small and fleet of foot. Once on the bases he is a dangerous man with a group of sluggers to help him. Ward, however, is a much better hitter and can sacrifice about as well. He would be the better man if the play called for a smashing single or double, rather than a bunt.

But Ward is far from Peck's class as a sacrifice hitter and not his equal at straightaway hitting.

So there you are.

Maybe Peck had to go because of the fondness of some of the fans had for him made him a thorn in Hug's side. The Yanks needed Bush and Jones. But there's that aching void in the lineup to fill.

Will Ward fill the shoes left vacant by Peck?

ARGUMENT ON ACUFF MOTION IN POSTPONED

Announcements of "ready" Monday in several criminal cases, caused a postponement of the hearing of arguments on the motion to quash the indictment against B. W. Acuff, scheduled to be heard jointly by Judges E. W. Napier and P. A. Martin on Monday. The motion will probably be heard the latter part of the week, according to indications Monday.

Briefs have been filed by both the defendant and the state. The Acuff motion to quash is the one which alleges the grand jury which returned the indictment against Acuff was dominated by the Ku Klux Klan, of which organization the majority of the body were members, and that the grand jury commission selected the grand jurors with Klan membership as a qualification.

NOT DONE YET

Is Rube Marquard.

The wondering Rube is figured on by the Boston Brave stockholders and suns to add the touch that will put that team in the National league race. And this after Rube had been given a real nice burial by some of his non-admirers. He was obtained from the Cinci Reds a short time ago by the Braves.

Rube has passed his prime but still ranks as a formidable southpaw when he is going good. He sprang into fame in 1908 when the New York Giants paid $11,000 to the Indianapolis A. A. team for him. Rube failed to shine right off the bat, however, and came to be known as the "$11,000 lemon." Despite this slur the Rube kept plugging and has proved one of the great pitchers of the game.

He was born in Cleveland, Ohio, May 22, 1889. He broke into the minor leagues with the Waterloo club of the Iowa league in 1906. He joined the Indianapolis club the next season but was farmed to Canton in the Central league until recalled and sold to the Giants.

He played for McGraw until 1915 when he went to the Dodgers at the waiver price. He helped the Dodgers win the pennant in 1920, pitching among other important games, two against the Giants that hurt their chances. The Dodgers then traded Marquard to the Reds for Dutch Reuther.

One thing that must be said for the southpaw is that he always has been willing to work out of his turn and often to help teammates in distress on the mound.

"Quiet Probe" Of Attack on Mrs. C. Veros

"A quiet investigation" was the term applied by Police Commissioner Fitts last evening in describing police activities in connection with a report that Mrs. Charles Veros, of 1604 Tilden street, had been attacked and slashed across the arms and breast Sunday morning by a masked robber. The case was not reported at police headquarters, and it is understood a private detective agency is employed.

According to the story said to have been told by Mrs. Veros, a white man, masked and wearing gloves entered the Veros home and attempted to snatch a diamond ring from Mrs. Veros' finger. In the struggle that followed, the robber slashed Mrs. Veros across the arms and chest with a knife. Her assailant then fled, and later Mrs. Veros was found in a semi-conscious condition on the floor of her bedroom.

Mrs. Veros' husband, Charles E. Veros, is proprietor of a lunch room on Eighth street.

Sleet Brings Worst Spell Of Weather

With a piercing wind from the plains, and a rapidly lowering temperature, misting rain which was falling in Wichita Falls and generally over West Texas turned to sleet and the section was treated to the most uncomfortable, although not the coldest, weather of the winter.

The temperature, according to the recording thermometer at Arts, dropped about 12 degrees in little more than a couple of hours, starting soon after 5 o'clock, and was resting pretty steadily around the freezing point up to midnight.

It is estimated that the misting rain which began falling late Saturday and again Sunday night has amounted to something more than a quarter, and in some places in this section, to as much as a half an inch.

SETS NEW WORLD RECORD IN SWIM

Miss Sybil Bauer.

Miss Sybil Bauer of the Illinois A. C. wasn't content with the record of 1:17 3-5 seconds for the 100-yard back stroke swim which she set last year. So the other day she clipped three-fifths of a second from that mark, establishing a new world's record for the distance.

LEGION WILL HEAR MORGAN AND GOLDBERG

Judge S. A. L. Morgan, candidate for U. S. representative from this district, and Dr. David Goldberg will be the speakers at tonight's regular meeting of the American Legion, according to the program announcement. All members of the Legion, and all other ex-soldiers are urged to be present. The meeting will open promptly at 8 o'clock.

Home Town Stuff

Saul Lebenson, proprietor of Saul's store, left Sunday for St. Louis, New York and other eastern markets where he will buy spring merchandise.

Mrs. J. D. Robertson of 1210 Fillmore is reported ill at her home.

Mrs. V. S. Frazier accompanied by her small son, V. S. Jr., left Monday afternoon to consult a specialist at Denver, Colorado. Mrs. Frazier's little daughter, Laverne, will remain at the home of Judge and Mrs. W. T. Carlton during her mother's absence.

Mrs. James P. Gough and children, Elizabeth and James of Kansas City, are geusts of Mrs. Gough's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Frieze en route to Dallas where they will make their home.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles William Wallace have returned from Houston where they were business visitors for a few days.

Mrs. Charles E. Dent of Cisco, Texas, who was the guest of Mrs. H. O. Cravens, for a few days en route to Oklahoma City, has returned and will visit Mrs. Cravens again for a few days on her way home.

J. R. Scarbrough, night watchman at the Goodner wholesale grocery warehouse, was reported resting comfortably and recovering rapidly yesterday from the bullet wound suffered last Saturday night when his revolver was accidentally discharged. The accident occurred when Scarbrough stumbled in the dark near the warehouse and fell, the revolver being discharged and the bullet wounding him in the hip.

Mrs. Mary Smith left Saturday for Wichita Falls, Texas, to visit.—Frederick (Okla.) Leader.

Sterling P. Strong, candidate for the senate, says he is a member of the Ku Klux. He is the first candidate to acknowledge such membership. Candidate Johnson, for lieutenant governor, hastened to deny a report that he is a Ku Klux. There are no doubt many members of the Ku Klux running for office, and if they all declare their membership, the Klan will have became very badly mixed up in politics. The outcome of such a situation is problematical, but we are certain that politics would liven up equal to the old time prohibition campaigns. Our judgment is that Mr. Strong had better left his Ku Klux membership out of his speech, because it is loaded with dynamite and is liable to blow up any minute.—Henrietta Independent.

Several Clues In Robbery of Store Reported

Several leads were being followed by police in connection with the robbery of the Colonna Toggery, which took place some time Saturday night.

Belief was expressed that the robbery was carefully planned and executed because of the orderly manner in which the stock was gone through, and the most expensive garments selected. Silk lingerie formed the principal part of the loot, according to the reports made to the police. An estimate of $2000 was placed on the goods missing.

Little Clara brought a drawing to her daddy—a drawing comprising a circular scrawl of pencil lines and a dot.

"That's 'ittle Mit' Muffet," she explained.

"But where is she?"

"Ooh! The spider frightened her away!"

And yet they write books on the cubists!

"Now, gentlemen," began the professor in the dental school that had been opened in the vocational training course, "what class of persons habitually suffer from acid mouth?"

And the class answered as one man:

"First sergeants, sir!"

Two men were engaged in repairing the roof of a building. One of them, having occasion to go down, carried the ladder away with him.

"Hi!" shouted his mate, "bring that back. How do you suppose I am to get down?"

"Oh, just shut your eyes and walk about a bit," answered the other.

A company of tourists were taken over the castle at Blois.

"This," said the guide, "is the room in which the Duke de Guise was murdered!"

"What's that?" interrupted a tourist. "When I came here three years ago I was told it was the room opposite."

"Ah!" said the guide, quite calmly. "This room was undergoing repairs at that time."

A bachelor who is forever "putting his foot in it" recently visited the proud parents of a new baby boy.

The mother held up the bundle for inspection and asked gayly:

"Tell us now, frankly, which of us do you think he is like?"

After a careful examination of the babe the bachelor replied:

"Well, of course, it is not very intelligent looking yet, but he's wonderfully like both of you!"

Market Report

Livestock

FORT WORTH, Feb. 27.—Hogs, pigs, steers and lambs sold today at the highest prices of the year. Good, but not strictly toppy hogs brought 10.05, pigs sold to packers at 3.75, a can of choice steers went at 7.50 and a deck of fat lambs notched $14.00. Active trading developed in all divisions and the tendency of the market was upward on everything. Around 3,500 cattle, 1,500 calves, 2,500 hogs and 5,000 sheep were yarded. The sheep count included 4,500 head of feeder lambs en route to northern pastures.

Sales of fat cattle were on a fully steady basis. Choice light weight steers ranged from 7.25 to 7.50 and good heifers and yearlings went at 7.00 to 7.25.

An advance of 25 to 35 cents in the hog division was productive of a top of 10.05 for fairly good loads, but strictly choice hogs, which were not available, would doubtless have brought more money. Most of the run sold at 9.00 to 9.75. Pigs were steady to 25c higher. Most good feeders brought 8.50 and some choice butcher pigs notched 8.75.

The few sheep and lambs here sold on a brisk market at an advance of 5 cents. Lambs brought 14.00. Quote:

Cattle, beeves 3.50@7.50; stockers 3.50@6.00; cows 3.00@5.50; canners 2.25@2.75; heifers 3.50@6.00; yearlings 3.50@7.50; bulls 2.25@4.25; calves 2.50@7.00.

Hogs, light 9.75@10.05; medium rough 7.00@8.75; pigs 7.00@8.75. 9.50@9.75; mixed 9.00@9.50; common 8.00@8.75; heavy 9.25@9.75; rough 7.00@8.75; pigs 7.00@8.75.

Sheep, lambs 8.50@14.00; yearlings 9.00@11.00; wethers 6.00@8.00; ewes 5.75@7.50; culls 1.00@2.00; stocker sheep 4.50@6.00; feeder lambs 7.50@11.50.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—Cattle, receipts 14,000; she stock and beef steers 10@20c higher; 8.50 paid for medium weight steers, other sales 6.50 @8.40; good heifers 6.50@7.00; better grades 5.50@6.00; plain and medium kinds 4.50@5.00; calves steady; best vealers 10.00@10.50; stockers and feeders steady to 15c higher; feeders 7.50@7.75; best stockers 7.50; other classes strong; canners 3.00@3.25; cutters generally 4.00@4.25; most bulls 3.75@4.50.

Hogs, receipts 10,000; early sales 10@25c higher; few lights up to 10.85; bulk of sales 10.30@10.75; packing sows and pigs 25@40c higher; packer top 10.80; choice stock pigs up to 10.40.

Sheep, receipts 11,000; steady; best light ewes 8.25; lambs generally 10@25c lower; top 15.50; bulk better grades 15.00@15.40.

Grain

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Wheat ran up in price to within ⅛c of $1.50 a bushel today, barely missing the height which for months has been the ambition of bulls. Fresh signs of European need of breadstuffs gave the impetus but the rise tempted heavy profit taking sales, and the market reacted, closing unsettled at 1c net decline to ⅛c advance, with May 1.47 to 1.47⅛ and July 1.25 to 1.25⅛. Corn finished ½ to 1c off, oats at a shade decline to ⅛c@¼c gain, and provisions up to 15c to 40c.

At first, the wheat market showed a scarcity of offerings, and there was a decided jump in values, mainly because of sharply higher quotations at Liverpool. It was figured that taken in connection with an advance in sterling exchange the actual market price of wheat at Liverpool today was 6½c a bushel higher in American money than was the case on Saturday. As the price here, however, approached $1.50 the volume or selling broadened out to an unusual extetnt and the demand became less urgent, causing prices to recede. Reports of snow storms in the southwest, where moisture would be helpful to the winter crop, tended further to ease the market in the late dealings. A decrease of 814,000 bushels in the visible supply attracted but little attention and appeared to have been fully discounted beforehand.

Corn and oats rose with wheat to new high price records for the season. On the other hand, export call for corn was laggard, and when turned, weak corn too gave way. There was talk of export business in oats, but no quantities were stated.

Provisions reflected the strength of the hog market. Highest prices yet this season were touched by lard.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Cottonseed oil advanced 13 to 35 points for active months through urgent demand from shorts due to the inability to secure crude and in sympathy with the firmness in lard. Realizing sales and the late break in grains brought about a reaction later. Closing bids were 17 points higher to 1 net lower, sales 39,500 barrels. Tenders 14,00 barrels. Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Foreign developments over the week-end were accelerating factors in the greater strength and activity shown by the stock market during the first half of today's session, leaders making extreme gains of 1 to 4 points.

Practically all of the advance was lost in the final hour, however, when selling of the steels, equipments, oils, tobaccos and chemicals caused a heavy close at extreme reversals of 1 to 5 points from maximum quotations.

Transactions again were broad, aggregating 1,000,000 shares.

The outcome of the meeting between the British and French premiers which in turn imparted bouyancy to leading European currencies, resulted in the further retirement of the shorts during the forenoon.

Domestic advices also offered ground for encouragement, importance being attached by bankers to the senate committee's favorable report on the treaties adopted by the arms conference.

Railroad tonnage at principal terminals continued to gain on the more expansive movements of food stuffs to distributing centers, but western inestors showed disposition to await the result of bonus legislation at Washington before assuming new commitments.

Rails were the mainstay of the market, yielding only moderately when such issues as Baldwin and American locomotives and independent steels, Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum, California petroleum, tobacco products, retail stores and Davison chemical were under fire a net loss of one to four points.

The money market was not especially responsive to last week's better clearing house statement, opening at 5 per cent for call loans and yielding very gradually to 4 1-2 per cent. Short time loans were unchanged at 4 3-4 per cent and few longer maturities were reported.

On the better Anglo-French situation, sterling remittances rose 2 cents and other allied currencies were from 10 to almost 20 points better. The German rate was not benefited by the Boulogne conference, showing marked heaviness, but Dutch and Scandinavian rates again strengthened and the discount on Canadian exchange fell below 2 cents.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Near months made new higher ground for the present upward movement in the cotton market during today's early trading, but the advance ran into a good deal or realizing and after selling at 18.46, May broke to 18.04. That delivery closed at 18.14 with the general market closing firm at a net decline of 6 to 19 points.

The market showed more or less uncertainty at the start as a result of realizing and scattered selling, but after opening unchanged to 5 points higher soon developed increasing strength and activity. The firmness of foreign exchange rates and reports of a good open tone in the stock market encouraged an optimistic view of conditions abroad, based partly on reports that the proposed ten-year European truce was expected to react very favorably on general business. This led to considerable scattered buying, particularly as the news from the market for cotton goods continued favorable and Manchester reports were generally encouraging. March sold up to 18.76 and July to 17.71, making net advances of 15 to 26 points, but the south was a scattered seller and realizing increased during the middle of the morning. Offerings were well enough taken to cause frequent bulges, but each of the latter met long cotton and there were spurts of liquidation or realizing which sent March off to 18.35 and July to 17.31 during the afternoon, or about 40 to 42 points from the best and 15 to 25 points net lower.

The selling then slackened and last prices were several points up from the lowest on covering. Manchester advices were somewhat conflicting, but the official cable to the exchange said that yarns were in good demand and that there was a fair inquiry for cloths. Reiterated rumors were that more March notices might be issued tomorrow accompanied the early afternoon decline, but brokers reported difficulty in buying March at a premium of less than 28 to 30 points over May.

Exports today were 9,112, making 3,712,823 so far this season. Port receipts today 19,142. U. S. port stocks, 1,120,508.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Higher prices the early trading in cotton today were not maintained, the market falling under more favorable weather and crop news, standing at its lowest, in the late trading, at losses under the close of last week 17 to 26 points and finally closing 6 to 19 points net lower on the day. March traded off to 16.95 and closed at 17.06.

Early gains were mainly the result of a better feeling concerning foreign politics and were helped appreciably by the strength of sterling exchange, but after advances of 22 to 29 points, which carried March up to 17.34, there was considerable realizing on the long side and a little later fresh selling for short accounts set in. For a while no great attention was paid to new crop news and it looked as if reports from South Texas that much cotton had been planted and some of it was already up were being offset by accounts of delayed preparations in north Texas and in sections of the eastern belt. After reports had been received that rain was falling in West Texas, where drought has been complained of bitterly and following the forecast of porbably more moisture to come in both West Texas and in Oklahoma, a more favorable opinion was entertained regarding the situation in the western belt. The rains in Texas caused selling almost to the close.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 27.—Cotton spot in good demand but business moderate; prices steady. Good middling 10.97; fully middling 10.67; middling 10.32; low middling 9.37; good ordinary 8.12; ordinary 7.37. Sales 8,000 bales, including 7,000 American.

CHICAGO PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Butter higher; creamery extras 36½. Eggs lower; receipts 21,647 cases; firsts 24. Poultry alive unchanged; fowls 27, springs 28, roosters 18.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The market or coffee futures was very quiet again today. Owing to the holiday there were no official quotations from Rio and there seemed nothing in the general news to create fresh speculative interest. The opening was unchanged to 4 points lower under scattering liquidation but after selling at 8.57 May rallied to 8.60 on covering on reports of a steady spot situation. The close was net unchanged to 3 points higher; sales were estimated at 13,500 bags. March 8.50; May 8.60; July 8.67; September 8.70; October 8.71; December 8.74.

Spot coffee quiet but steady; Rio 7s 8⅞@9; Santos 12⅞ to 13.

RENEWS MOVE FOR ABATTOIR

Dr. A. H. Douglas, of the city health department, is preparing plans and collecting data toward the establishment of a municipal abbattoir in Wichita Falls. While the plans are only in tentative shape, Mr. Douglas expects to take the matter up at an early date with the county agricultural agent and to get all the necessary data in proper form for presentation later. The municipal abattoir at Paris, Texas, which was visited last week by Dr. Douglas, is paying small profits and furnishing needed public protection, and a similar plant in Wichita Falls also could be operated successfully, he believes.

The question of establishing a municipal abattoir here is an old one, but until now no one has attempted to gather all the facts and figures necessary. The need of such a plant has long been admitted.

Move Office Of Collector Water Taxes

Payment of taxes to the water improvement district will be made at room 230, Waggoner building, effective immediately, it was announced Monday, and all other business concerned with the assessing and collecting of water district taxes, will be transacted there.

The water district assessor and collector had been in the county assessor's office.

J. W. Chatham, Jr., is assessor and collector for the Wichita Falls district, and W. W. Cain is deputy assessor and collector.

A reminding warning was issued Monday that today is the last day for payment of the water improvement tax, without incurring a penalty. The month of February was an extension granted to taxpayers by the directors of the district.

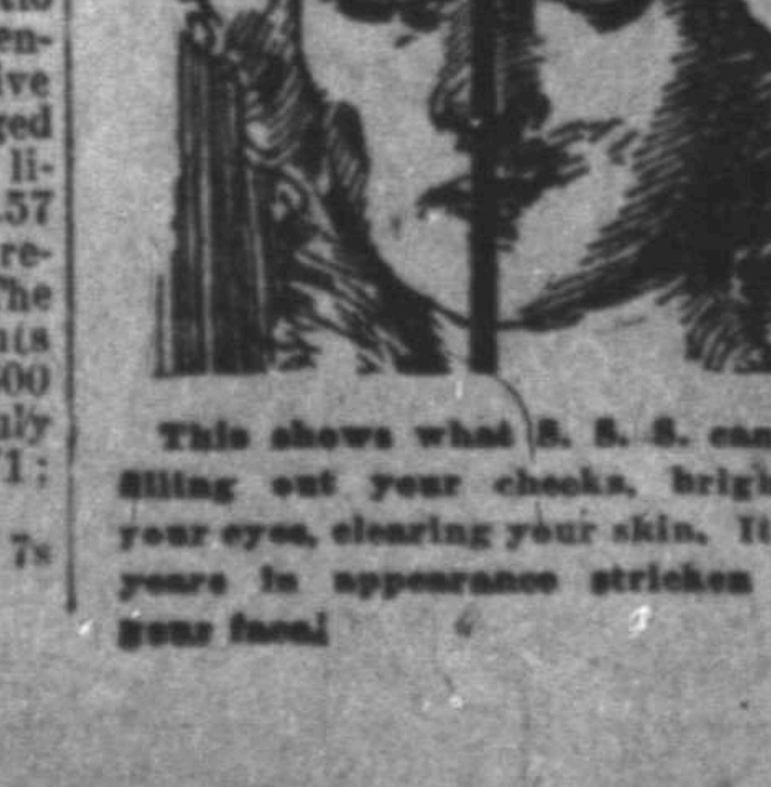

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The raw sugar market was easier for Porto Rican on sales of 20,000 bags in Porto to a local refiner at 3.54; Outport refiners paid 3.70 for 32,000 bags for March clearance. There was no sales of Cuban, but 23 1-8 cost and freight, equal to 3.73 for centrifugal was bid with holders asking more.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer early on covering and buying for outside account. Prices at the best showed advances of 1 to 6 points but reacted after midday under scattered liquidation and at the close were unchanged ot 3 points net higher. March 2.22; May 2.42; July 2.61; September 2.75.

There was no change in refined sugar with fine granulated listed at 5.10 and with only a moderat inquiry reported.

"S. S. S." Makes Skin Clear and Beautiful---Your Body Plump!

This shows what S. S. S. can do in filling out your cheeks, brightening your eyes, clearing your skin. It means years in appearance stricken off of your face!

Amazing Results from Increase of Blood Cells! S. S. S. a Remarkable Blood-Cell Builder.

Do you know that your loss of flesh is due almost entirely to the small number of blood-cells in your blood? Do you know that you can build up your whole body, from your face to your feet, to the normal, natural, beautiful plumpness which it should have, by using the great blood-cell builder, S. S. S.? You don't have to change your diet, or figure out the guess-work theories about fats in foods, or use new fad treatments, or anything of the kind. Take S. S. S. Your skin will clear up remarkably, your complexion will be like a rose-petal, your lips ruddy, your eyes clear, your neck and cheeks will fill out. Also S. S. S. being one of the most powerful blood-cleansers, your skin eruptions, pimples, blotches, blackheads, acne, disappear. Just try it, you'll see. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

CHANGES SHOWN IN U. S. VISIBLE GRAIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes

Wheat decreased 814,00 bushels.
Corn increased 3,558,000 bushels.
Oats increased 2,614,000 bushels.
Rye increased 72,000 bushels.
Barley, decreased 180,000 bushels.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Cotton goods are steadier with a slightly firmer tendency, on print cloths and sheetings. A moderate inquiry is reported for sheetings for export. Yarns are little changed. Wool dress goods are quiet. Silks are barely steady and in light demand. Burlaps are quiet and steady. Jobbers report a steady filling in business.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon Elberta McCormick Simonton and her husband — Simonton, and the unknown heirs of M. F. McCormick, including Harrold McCormick and Agnes Chapman, nee Agnes Stewart and her husband, A. B. or B. A. Chapman, by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county to appear at the next regular term of the 78th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Court House thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in March, A. D. 1922, the same being the 6th day of March, A. D. 1922. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 26th day of January, A. D., 1922 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 12235-B wherein, Floyd Brissette is Plaintiff and Lillian Brissette is Defendant, and said petition alleging. That on or about the 7th of March, 1921, plaintiff was lawfully married to defendant; that they continued to live together as husband and wife until on or about the 28th of May, 1921, when by reason of the cruel and harsh treatment and improper conduct of defendant toward plaintiff, and further fact that defendant on or about said date permanently abandoned plaintiff, since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife.
Plaintiff alleges that defendant's actions and conduct toward him generally are of such a nature as to render their further living together as husband and wife insupportable. Wherefore, plaintiff prays the court that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein, and on final trial hereof, that he have judgment dissolving said marriage relations, for costs of suit, and for such other and further relief, general and special in law and in equity to which he may show himself entitled to, etc.
Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of February, A. D. 1922.
A. F. KERR, Clerk District Court, Wichita County, Texas.
By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.
SEAL.
This is to certify that the above is a true copy of original Citation by Publication.
FRED K. SMITH, Sheriff.
By F. E. JOHNSON, Deputy.

44—LEGAL NOTICES

McCormick, including Harrold McCormick and Agnes Chapman, be ascertained and determined, if any, in said property, and that upon a final judgment herein, that plaintiff be required to clear the title to said property of the claim or possible claims of Elberta McCormick Simonton, said unknown heirs of M. F. McCormick, including Harrold McCormick in said property, and that the plaintiff have judgment for his debt and damage as prayed for the foreclosure herein prayed for and if defendant is mistaken in the relief sought, then he seeks such other further general relief or special relief, or both in law and equity that he may be justly entitled to, and as in duty bound, he will ever pray.
Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 23rd day of February, A. D. 1922.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE IS HELD TO BE CONSTITUTIONAL IN U. S. SUPREME COURT DECISION

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The constitutionality of the women's suffrage or nineteenth amendment, was sustained today by the supreme court in a unanimous decision rendered by Justice Brandeis.

The challenge came from the state of Maryland, where Oscar Leser and others sought to prevent the registration of two women as qualified voters in Baltimore. Leser and his associates contended the constitution of Maryland limited suffrage to men; that the legislature of Maryland had refused to ratify the women's suffrage amendment and that the amendment had not become a part of the federal constitution. The Maryland state courts sustained the amendment.

Mexico's Yaqui Indian Tribe Presents Great Problems By The "Reclaiming" of Ranches

Yaquis Are Given Recognition by Unusual Permission to Carry Arms at All Times; Troops of Tribe Guarded Obregon When He Entered City of Mexico in 1920.

BY HERBERT COREY
(Article No. 7)

GUAYMAS, Sonora, Feb. 26.—This city is on the edge of the Yaqui country. Every one talks Yaqui—or rather talks about the Yaqui—all the time. The Indians are a staple a subject of conversation as prohibition and taxes north of the line. Some insist that the Yaqui are good Indians. That their outrages of the past have been mere ebullitions of good spirits, and that those who say that the Yaquis are on the edge of another outbreak are enemies of humanity. Nothing, apparently, stirs up the angry passions of the American in Sonora as quickly as a talk about Yaquis. The others say:

"The Yaquis are dangerous. They have always been dangerous. They have never been subdued. They are pressing in on the 'occupied' territory. They may start to murdering at any time."

The Other Side of the Yaquis

There are certain perfectly apparent facts which go to make up the most unusual set of relations which have ever existed between a savage Indian tribe and a civilized government. In order to comprehend this a preliminary statement as to the Yaqui himself is needful. He is of Apache blood and therefore savage. He loves blood and torture. He kills at times for the sheer love of killing and burns just to see the flames. But there is another side to his character.

The Yaqui is a far higher type of Indian than is the Apache. Most of the Yaqui bucks are either at work or have worked in the past. The idle Yaquis are the "bronco" Yaquis. The others work with more or less steadiness on the ranches or railroads of Arizona and California, and the testimony is invariable that they work steadily and seem to take pride in doing their jobs well. The unpleasant thing about the working Yaquis is that they have always been the provisioners for the "broncos." They have kept them supplied with food, arms, and ammunition.

An Unusual Combination

The consequence is that the Yaqui is a unique combination of unsubdued savage and partially civilized man. The Yaquis as a tribe have become shrewd politicians. Up to the Madero revolution they were kept more or less in subjection by Diaz, who sent a shipload of their braves to Yucatan as a punishment for one outbreak, though there has always been some question as to how many of them actually got there—and who hunted them down as mercilessly as wild beasts. At one time a Yaqui army had a rush over the country line. That brought them to time.

Up to this time they had always been fighting the Mexican government. But Francisco Madero, who doubtless was an idealist, but who was also practical, saw that without the help of this stout fighting tribe the revolution might fall. He persuaded them to join him, furnished them arms, and gave them their first glimpse into the political possibilities of their situation. From that time on the Yaquis have conducted themselves, according to the best information available here, precisely as any independent political party might, except that bullets were their assets instead of ballots.

Yaqui Troops Big Element

They have played with the various political elements ever since. It was Yaqui troops which surrounded Obregon when he made his entry into the City of Mexico in 1920, and which enabled him to [illegible] to General Pablo Gonz[illegible] [illegible]or has always insisted [illegible] and Elias Calles have [illegible]times been on the [illegible] Both Calles and [illegible]hova men, and it is [illegible] doubt as to which man [illegible]ould follow in that event [illegible] or perhaps averted any [illegible]n of their political partner-

Meanwhile President Obregon has had his hands full in other directions. Little by little he has restored order in Mexico. There is mighty little banditism in the country now. I believe it to be quite as safe to travel in as is the United States. Here on the west coast General Flores, the military commander, has been unostentiously hunting down and hanging the "bad men." No one knows how many he has hung, but that he has done a good job is certain. One hears of 17 in one batch and 24 in another. Now and then little 10-men insurrections break out. They never get very far. Obregon is not a merciless man. On the contrary, he seems to be a very kindly, generous, much enduring foe. But it isn't safe to trifle with him too far.

Has Conciliated the Yaquis

Because of these conditions—political, revolutionary, and of the policing order—it has undoubtedly seemed the part of wisdom to conciliate the Yaquis. With their hard bitten fighting men as a nucleus a revolutionary attempt might prove more formidable than it otherwise could. Likewise, there can be no doubt that the government has been moved by finer and more humanitarian sentiments. Obregon has lived all his life in or on the limits of the Yaqui country. He realizes—as must any one—that they suffered a great wrong when their country was taken away from them. He undoubtedly sympathizes with them. So does Elias Calles, the strongest man in Sonora with the exception of Obregon, and his right-hand man Adolfo de la Huerta, who was once provisional president, and who lays claim to a share of Yaqui blood himself.

For these are collateral reasons, then, the Mexican government has done its best to satisfy the Yaquis. Their chiefs have been given the rank and pay of officers in the army, the two principals being commissioned as generals. The Yaqui bucks are given the pay and rations of privates in the army, which amounts to one peso a day for each man; beans, corn, meat, and the right to bear arms. In all Sonora only the Yaquis have the legal right to carry arms. Every buck of them has a rifle under his elbow and is belted about with from one to four straps of cartridges.

Indians "Reclaim" Ranches

If that were all the Yaqui situation might be considered an unusual one, perhaps, but not a threatening one. Unfortunately the Yaqui keeps pressing on. Now and then they "reclaim" a ranch on which some Mexican family has lived for generations. They give the legal owner of the ranch an order on the Mexican government for the full value of his property. The government recognizes these orders, but has not been able to pay many of them, because of a temporary shortage of funds, due to the many demands and the business depression.

Recently the Yaquis have driven the people out of three small towns in the Yaqui valley—Potam, Vicam, and Torin—which have been postoffices for years. Now not a person not of Yaqui blood lives in what were once these towns. A fourth town, Bacum, is being slowly absorbed. An official statement was recently published in the papers here to the effect that no government officials of any sort remain in the three towns first named. No one has been killed or injured, but the fact remains that the Mexican ranchers have all gone. From time to time Yaqui parties visit other nearby towns on scouting trips. Not long ago some rode into Cajeme, which is the center of the rice growing industry in which many Americans are interested.

Anything May Happen

No one knows what may happen. The government, very evidently, does not feel itself in a position at present to resist this more or less peaceful penetration by the Yaquis. The hope of the Yaquis, just as evidently, is to reclaim all, or at least the greater portion, of the Yaqui River valley, which is one of the most fertile and delightful spots in Mexico. It may be that a compromise acceptable to both sides can be reached. It may also be that the government, feeling that compromise is impossible, will enter upon a campaign. Or the Yaquis may break out in order to force the government to further concessions.

Anything may happen. But for the moment all is peace. The one thing any one can be sure of is that every Yaqui is armed to his back teeth, and that every family has provisions hidden in the brush.

DELAY LETTING CONTRACT FOR CLAY CO. ROAD

Commissioners Pass Matter Over at Monday Meeting; Ask Banks to Advance Road Money.

Decide to Institute Suits on Lease Taxes and Appoint Election Judges for City Boxes.

Refusal to let the contract on the much discussed portion of the county concrete highway between this city and the Clay county line at this time, by the majority of the county commissioners court was one of the features of their weekly meeting Monday.

Other actions included decision to institute suits against lease owners whose leases are carried on delinquent tax rolls, a request for local banks to advance all the remaining road funds in order that they may be expended during the current year, instead of payments running over until May 1923 as specified in the purchase contract, and the naming of election judges in the 12 voting boxes in Wichita Falls. In addition to this the installation of concrete culverts on the road west of Burkburnett to Clara, which is one of those which will receive an expenditure from the remaining road funds, was authorized.

Refusal to proceed with the letting of a contract for the Clay county highway is not to be intended as a reversal of the decision last week that the road will be paved, members of the court declare—the question being one of when the work will be done.

Request for the advancement of all monies due on the purchase of the bonds by local banks at par, is due to a desire to finish the program and keep the work going as fast as possible throughout the remainder of the year. Under the contract the banks are to deliver $50,000 per month on this price. More than $260,000 is said by a county official to have already been advanced by the banks over and above the amount due under the contract to this time.

The question as to whether the oil leases which are being carried on the books as delinquent are in fact taxable property is expected to figure in the delinquent tax suits to be instituted. The election judges appointed for the city voting boxes are:

1. J. C. Ward, L. A. Farris, J. H. Young and I. D. Brown.
2. T. W. Caskey, C. W. Kidd, Henry Splawn and R. L. Randolph.
3. John Dodge, D. E. Thomas, Roy Priebe, J. A. Prang.
4. I. H. Roberts, Jessie S. Smith, B. B. Mask, and W. S. W. Brown.
5. W. W. Brown, J. M. Baber, George Simmons, J. M. Childers.
6. J. A. Anderson, Ed Wilson and R. B. Havener.
7. W. H. Downing, G. J. Rohatch and J. B. Jeter.
8. W. M. Frank, B. E. Parmenter, E. P. Haney and W. Y. Hammock.
9. J. W. Ferguson, E. E. Fuller, J. C. Winfrey and J. R. Newland.
10. Oral Jones, E. V. Friberg, B. M. Bullard, E. L. Fritz.

DAUGHTER OF GR. BRITAIN'S SOVEREIGN WILL PROMISE TODAY TO OBEY HUSBAND

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Although a daughter of Great Britain's sovereign, Princess Mary will promise to "obey" her husband when she is married to Viscount Lascelles in Westminster Abbey today. The wedding service will follow the Church of England prayer book order but the "revised exhortation" will be used. This has received the sanction of church authorities. Its wording, in some particulars is regarded as in better style than the old version.

Abbey authorities are finding themselves in the curious position of having no precedent for the forthcoming ceremonial. The last marriage of a child of a reigning monarch in this Abbey, that of Edmund Crouchback, second son of Henry the Third, to Aveline of Lancaster, took place 653 years ago. The customs of that time are deemed inappropriate for today.

Order of Ceremony.

It is expected the arrangements for the ceremony will closely follow this order: the 2,500 guests will begin to arrive at 10 o'clock so that all may be seated before 11. The King's gentlemen ushers will receive them, the foreign ambassadors and ministers being received by the Master of Ceremonies. Members of the royal family will arrive at about 11:10 o'clock, officers of the King's household conducting them to their seats.

At 11:15 Viscount Lascelles and his groomsmen will arrive. At the same time Princess Mary will leave Buckingham Palace in an open carriage, weather permitting and accompanied by the King, will drive by way of the Mall, Admiralty Arch, Whitehall and Parliament Square to the west door of the Abbey.

Five minutes before the arrival of the bride, which is timed for 11:30, the Queen, accompanied probably by the Duke of York, will have reached the Abbey.

The order of the royal procession inside the Abbey affords some idea of the spectacular side of the ceremony. The first will be that of the members of the royal family, led by the Queen Mother Alexandra, who, it is expected, will have the Duke of Connaught for her escort. Then will come the procession of Queen Mary escorted by the Duke of York and Prince Henry. The third procession will be that of the bridegroom and his attendants and lastly will come Princess Mary on the arm of King George, followed by her bridesmaids.

The Procession.

The procession of the bride to the altar will be headed by the choir and will include the gentlemen ushers, the State Chamberlain, Master of the Household, Princess Mary, King George and the bridesmaids.

After the ceremony, for which Princess Mary will use a beautiful prayer book, specially printed and illuminated for the purpose, the register will be signed in the historic ancient chapel of Edward the Confessor.

The bride and bridegroom will leave the Abbey by the west door, the King and Queen following.

From the Abbey, the Viscount and "Her Royal Highness Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles," as she will thenceforth be known, will drive by way of Parliament Square, Whitehall, Admiralty Arch and the Mall to Marlborough Gate, whence they will detour through St. James' street Piccadilly, Hyde Park, Corner and Constitution Hill to Buckingham Palace. There a private reception will be held.

No invitations for the wedding were sent to royalty abroad. Should members of foreign house be visiting England at the time of the wedding, which is considered improbable, it is likely they will be bidden to the ceremony.

In addition to the King and Queen, members of the royal family expected to be present at the Abbey include Queen Dowager Alexandra, Princess Victoria, the Princess Royal and her daughter, Princess Maud; the Duke of Connaught and Lady Patricia Ramrey, the Duke of York and Prince Henry, Princess Alice and the Earl of Athlone, the Marquis and Marchioness of Cambridge, Princess Christian and her daughters, Princess Louise Duchess of Argyll and the Duchess of Albany.

Mackenzie "Best Man."

Major Sir Victor Audley Mackenzie, D. S. O., of the Scots Guards, will be "best man." He entertained King George when Prince of Wales at his Scottish home and was also an intimate friend of the late King Edward. He commanded a battalion in France and was wounded in 1916.

Viscount Lascelles' brother, Edward Cecil Lascelles, was to have been groomsman but he has not sufficiently recovered from an accident while in the hunting field some months ago to permit his attendance.

Eight bridesmaids will attend the Princess. They are: Princess Maud the King's niece; Lady Victoria Cambridge and Lady May Cambridge, two of the Queen's nieces; Lady Rachel Cavendish, daughter of the Duke of Devonshire; Lady Doris Gordon-Lennox, daughter of the Earl of March; Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Etrathmore; Lady Mary Thynne, daughter of the Marquis of Bath; and Lady Diana Bridgeman, daughter of the Earl of Bradford.

Their ages range from 14 to 28 and all of them are blondes, except the latter two, who are brunettes.

The Earl and Lady Harewood, parents of Viscount Lascelles arrived in London ten days before the date of the wedding.

Authorities have been besieged by all sorts of people eager to attend the ceremony but it is stated that after the guests have been accommodated, very little space will be available for the public.

The grave of the Unknown Warrior, is near the west door through which Princess Mary will enter the Abbey. The aisle carpet will deviate so that it will not cross the grave.

Decorations Simple.

The scheme of floral decorations at the Abbey is to be quite simple in character. The decoration of the altar will consist of choice white blooms from the royal hot-houses at Frogmore, with shrubs and flowering plants on either side.

The state apartments at Buckingham Palace are, however, to be lavishly decorated with flowers and plants for the subsequent family reception there.

The nave of the Abbey has been closed to the general public for some days in order to permit of the erection of seats for more than 2,000 guests. Two great stands have arisen, one on each side of the nave. Along the broad path that lies between, the bridal procession will pass.

The joint choir of the Chapel Royal and the Abbey, one hundred strong, will be assembled for the ceremony.

Workmen have replaced the 14th century stained glass windows at the Abbey which were removed for safety during the air raids.

The Westminster Council does not intend to decorate Parliament street for the wedding, as the government offices on either side of this thoroughfare will do all that is necessary by flying their own flags.

The intention is to concentrate on Parliament Square. A floral arch bearing a greeting to the bride may be placed at the entrance to Broad Sanctuary, supported by columns twined with national flags, flowers and greenery.

News Notes For Masons

On account of the anticipated attendance of masons from Wichita Falls as well as the surrounding towns the institution and installation ceremonies of Hope chapter, Order of De Molay for boys will be held at the Wichita theatre.

The officers of the new order held their final rehearsal Sunday afternoon at the Masonic temple and those in attendance were very much impressed at the wonderful progress the boys had made during the past few weeks in the ritualistic work.

The meeting will start Wednesday evening promptly at 7 o'clock.

Several distinguished visitors have been invited to attend and it is very likely that all the local masons will be on hand to help the boys get started in the work of the new order.

The regular meetings will be held in the Masonic temple on the second and fourth Thursday evenings.

At least fifty boys will be initiated into the De Molay after the order has been formally instituted. Many of the boys will be from Burkburnett and Electra.

NERVOUS WRECK FOR SIX WEEKS

Kentucky Lady Tells How She Became Strong and Healthy; Recommends Cardui to Weak Women.

MOUNT VERNON, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Vanhook, formeryl of Stanford, but now residing here, says that after her third child was born, she undertook to resume her housework too soon, "and this caused me a great deal of trouble."

"I began to feel weak and all played out—not myself at all," as Mrs. Vanhook describes her condition. "For about six weeks I was just a nervous wreck. I had to have some one do all my housework.

"My doctor told me my imprudence had caused shock to the nervous system, and the thing to do was to use a tonic to build up my strength.

"He recommended Cardui....Very soon I saw an improvement in my condition. I used three bottles of Cardui and.....my health was restored.

"I am a strong, healthy woman."

This Kentucky lady adds that she "never fails to recommend Cardui to weak and run-down lady friends."

Thousands of women praise Cardui to their friends.

This mild, harmless, vegetable tonic medicine has been in successful use for over 40 years, in the treatment of many common ailments suffered by women.
