CONE JOHNSON, R. S. STERLING, NAMED FOR HIGHWAY BOARD

WEST TEXAN IS WANTED AS THIRD COMMISSIONER

DELEGATION TO WAIT ON YOUNG GOVERNOR TODAY WITH REQUEST

CONFIRMATION SURE

SENATE CERTAIN TO APPROVE CHOICE FOR ROAD MEN

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Jan. 25.—R. S. Sterling, Houston capitalist and newspaper publisher, and Cone Johnson, Tyler lawyer, will be confirmed unanimously by the senate as the state highway commissioners, all indications were here Tuesday. Governor Dan Moody announced their appointment shortly before 3 o'clock. Because Moody's fight on alleged irregularities of the first Ferguson highway commission played a majority role in his elevation from attorney general to Texas' youngest governor, more interest has been manifested in his highway commission appointments than any others. Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock a delegation of legislators from West Texas will call on Moody and ask that the third highway commission be from West Texas. Moody asked postponement until that time. Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was in the delegation, which included the following representatives: Adrian Paul, J. J. Papp, E. S. Cummings, Abilene; A. H. King, Throckmorton; J. C. Hall, Colorado; J. H. Boggs, San Angelo; Victor Gilbert, Baird.

No Smallpox Danger in City Schools Now

Although the situation is not serious enough to cause alarm, city health officials are keeping on the watch to prevent a small pox epidemic here. Every precaution is being taken and warnings are being sent out regarding the observance of the quarantine. Four new cases were reported yesterday, older people being the ones thrown under the quarantine. As the school children have all been vaccinated, the officials are not looking for any new cases in the schools. Among the older people in whom the disease is likely to spread, vaccination is recommended as the only prevention and physicians are urging that this be done. Other Texas cities are suffering from the spread of the disease, and both health and police officers are working to prevent Lubbock from coming under the spell of the disease.

BRITISH SOLDIERY EMBARK FOR CHINA

1,000 SAIL AS SAFEGUARD OF "PROTECTIVE" FORCE AT SHANGHAI (By Associated Press) LONDON, Jan. 25.—The most formidable array of British fighting ships brought together outside of home waters since the great war is assembling at the China station to back up the policy of the British government in protecting life and property. The combined army and naval forces which will soon be on hand for armed service in China in the event of an emergency approximate 15,000 to 21,000. These include 1,000 marines, who sailed on the Minnesota this afternoon from Portsmouth for Shanghai, as well as about 31,000 infantrymen, who it is expected will be embarked by the end of the week.

China Suspicious of British Purpose

SHANGHAI, Jan. 25 (AP)—Civil war which raged China for a year virtually has been suspended while the country focuses its attention on the struggle of the nationalist or Cantonese government, against foreigners, particularly the British. Numerous detachments from London report that these infantry brigades had been ordered to China to protect British lives and property in Shanghai. However, Chinese everywhere are asking whether a force of such size will be held for such limited objective; whether part of it may not be used to attempt to restore the old position of the British at Hankow.

Senate Votes Solidly Favoring Arbitration of Row With Mexico

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25.—Taking its first direct stand on the Mexican question, the Senate today unanimously advised President Coolidge to arbitrate the pending controversies with Mexico over that republic's oil and land laws. Every one of the seventy-nine senators present—forty-two republicans, thirty-six democrats and the one farmer-labor—voted for the resolution of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader as revised last week by the foreign relations committee.

ACTION AGAINST CHAPLIN ENJOINED

COMEDIAN GETS WRIT WHICH HALTS COLLECTION OF ALI-MONY, STOPS HEARINGS (By The Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 25 (AP)—Receivers named as a result of Lita Grey Chaplin's suit for divorce, were restrained, temporarily at least, from further interfering with the California properties of Charlie Chaplin today when the second district court of appeals, division one, issued an alternative writ of prohibition sought by the comedian's attorneys. Hearing Tuesday. The writ also restrains the superior courts from further action in the divorce suit. A hearing on whether the writ of prohibition should be made permanent will be held by the appellate court next Tuesday after an order to show cause was also issued today. Chaplin's request for the action by the appellate court was based on the claim that the superior courts had been without jurisdiction in appointment of receivers and other proceedings in the divorce suit since Chaplin had not been served and was not under the jurisdiction of the court.

REED ACQUITTED OF PRO CHARGE IN LUBBOCK COURT

JURY FINDS "NOT GUILTY" OF TRANSPORTING LIQUOR HIS SECOND TRIAL A HUNG JURY RESULTED WHEN CASE CAME UP IN AUGUST, 1925. Clarence C. Reed was yesterday acquitted in 75th district court of a charge of transporting liquor. A previous trial, in August, 1925, had resulted in a hung jury. Reed and S. E. Melton were arrested together in March, 1925, by two deputy sheriffs while they were alleged to be loading some whiskey from a cache on the Shallowater road into Reed's car. Melton, who admitted going after the whiskey, but said it was for himself, as he suffered from pleurisy. On cross examination he said he had not been examined by doctors for pleurisy. The whiskey, about 25 gallons, in various containers was hidden off the Shallowater road, and both the officers and Reed and Melton, according to the testimony heard about it, the officers going out to lie in wait for whoever came after the whiskey, and Reed and Melton to get some of it for the purposes they detailed on the stand. Testimony in Melton's case was that the officers refused to let several other men take any of the whiskey, but waited till 10 p. m. to arrest Reed and Melton. Reed maintained that he never got out of the car at the whiskey cache. The jury in Reed's case went out about 5 p. m. and returned their verdict within an hour. Pierce, Triplett and Siewert defended Reed.

FUNDAMENTALIST WINS HIS THIRD BATTLE IN COURT

McLEAN'S PLEA TO CONVICT "PISTOL-TOTING PARSON" IN VAIN YOUNG CHIPPS WEEPS (By The Associated Press) COURT ROOM, Austin, Jan. 25.—Dr. J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist Baptist pastor of Fort Worth, tonight stepped forth for the third time from a court room a free man. He was acquitted by a jury in Travis county district court of murdering Dexter E. Chipps, wholesale lumberman of Fort Worth, whom he slew in his church office on the afternoon of last July 17.

"SORRY FOR MOTHER; IT WILL HURT HER" SAYS LAD

A jury of his peers, composed of farmers, laboring men, a former sheriff, clerks and merchants, said that Norris shot Chipps to save his own life when the latter came to the pastor's private study to protest against attacks Norris had made on Mayor H. C. Meacham of Fort Worth and other friends of Chipps. There were tears of joy and also tears of another kind from other eyes when the brief, simple verdict of "not guilty" was read in loud tones by S. A. Philquist, court clerk. The tears of joy were those of Norris and his wife. As soon as the verdict rang out in the court room, Norris stood at his seat, where he was surrounded by his wife, their two sons, and a circle of friends. There was a wail on his lips, but he showed no emotion until his attorney, Harry Simpson, shook his hand. He embraced Simpson and wept. Young Chipps Weeps. The other tears were in the eyes of a small, brown-eyed boy who has throughout the trial on the side of the state. He is Dexter E. Chipps, whose father Norris killed. They boy, small for his age, is 14.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Farmer Beauty Shops. If the poor, abused, drudging farmer's wife could get to a beauty shop more readily and there, amidst rose and gold cretones and the fragrance of spicy unguents, yield herself to the beautifier's ministrations, there would not be a problem of how you gonna keep the women down on the farm. This, according to the theory of a lady farm bureau director. She says that more beauty parlors, more roadhouses and more tea room in the rural regions would keep wives in those great open spaces of rurality. Tell this to farm wives of this nation and see their expressions of disdain. Most of them will tell you what they prefer—plumbing and electric lights.

Women Want Hard Work. Lady Cynthia Mosley of England, canvassing the country for her husband, Oswald Mosley, Socialist candidate, told the harassed wives of miners, farm tenants and the like, that the Socialist system would give them nurses for their children and permit them to send the children to the seaside.

To her surprise, this promise did not receive an over-gracious reception. The reason is simple. Carg and business their hand lot as women will, they resent any attempt to wrest any of their many jobs from them. They glory in their own necessity, and seem to have no other interests with which to fill up the gaps as one set of jobs is taken from them.

Shake A Saucepan! Mrs. Michael Angelo's art dinner created out of vegetables was as great a masterpiece as her famed husband's colossal "Moses" in marble, the only difference being that hers was transient and his permanent. This is the point of view set forth by a lady writer who extols the glories of "cooking" as she declares that women must show themselves back into the kitchen. The lady says that women can no longer look to servants for salvation. She says that restricted immigration laws have smothered the influx of Irish collegians and others eager to be "killing workers" in "a lady's kitchen" and that wives themselves must be the cooks of the future, if we do not starve.

She is clever in making her approach to "the new woman" via philosophy, as she insists that cookery is a high and worthy art, with a perfect meal "fixing an imperishable record in the soul."

Someone has said that you can get today's woman to do anything if you smother the "whything" in enough "high-sounding talk."

...and women want and need nothing in their lives but love and the knowledge of being indispensable to some institution, namely the home, as they could never be indispensable in an office, in securing articles in our nation's magazines as never before. Here is a juicy bone for the feminists to gnaw. It is by Kathleen Norris.

"Here wealth and the independence that self-support gives cannot bring happiness to any woman. A woman's life must always be calculated by the love and service it renders; nothing else counts to her."

"She doesn't want a raise in salary, she doesn't want her name on a directory or an office door. She wants—and she has always wanted, no less and no more—freedom to serve and smooth and manage the lives about her, to be loved—and perhaps envied a little—for her goodness, her beauty, her children, her home, her flowers, music, apple pie, frocks. Her income may be as big as the president's, her success sensational in the business world, but she isn't happy without a man and a child."

All very true—for some women. But no more true for all women than it would be true to say that all men want to be presidents of Rotary clubs or eat caviar sandwiches for lunch. There are men and women, and there are individuals and individuals. Probably this picture of what women want is what most women want, but not all and why continually try to foist it upon them? There seems a concerted move afoot to force women into states of happiness and discontent because their meanness for contentment does not fit the rubber stamp of other women's approval.

Program of Study in Century Club to Be Selected

A calendar committee, composed of Mesdames J. T. Krueger, J. C. Street and Paul W. Horn, was appointed at a meeting of the Twentieth Century club Tuesday afternoon at the First Methodist church. The committee is to select a course of study for the coming year.

Mrs. W. W. Rix led the lesson on "The Life and Times of Cleopatra." Mrs. T. R. Pridoux was in charge of the current events with topics on higher education. Mrs. E. L. Shoney talked on the city of Alexandria Egypt and Mrs. M. C. Overton gave a review of a Greek play. Mrs. W. H. Meador told of the early life of Cleopatra and Mrs. W. O. Stevens discussed the social life of the times.

Chas. F. O'Neal returned to his office yesterday after spending several days in Midland on business.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Mrs. Jessie E. Knapp of Oregon, Illinois, who has been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Scott, left yesterday for Los Angeles.

Connie Hale has returned to her home in Plainview after visiting her aunt, Mrs. Ida Gassaway, 1616 Avenue N.

Elmo Scott, of Smyer, was in Lubbock yesterday receiving medical treatment.

Mrs. Myrtle Mathis of Wellington, and formerly of Lubbock, is visiting friends here and attending to business.

Bufus Byrd, a real estate man of Los Angeles, Calif., is attending to business interests here. Mr. Byrd was formerly a resident of Central Texas and has found many of his former friends here.

Gordon Case has returned to Lubbock from Corpus Christi where he has been appearing as a witness in the Bonner case being tried there. He was a former classmate of the defendant in this case at the State university.

Little Ernest Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Conley, who was seriously scalded, is slowly improving, his grandmother, Mrs. Clara Abney, said yesterday. The lad was burned on the limbs and on one hand when he fell into a tub of hot water. His wounds are not deep but are very painful, Mrs. Abney said.

R. M. Goodpasture, of Brownfield, will again require blood transfusion in a local hospital today, Jim Clout, Tech student of Spur, to give the blood. Goodpasture received blood from Etharidge Eagan, Tech student, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Devel will leave Thursday morning for Chicago where they are to attend the automobile show there.

This Woman Made a Grand Slam in Philippine Embroidery, Winning Three Homes and a Fortune; Industry Now Fifth Largest in Islands.

By VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Bridges has ruled many women—and brought success to one.

Mrs. Louise Brown, one of New York's most successful business women, owes her bank account, her three homes and international shops and her $150,000 rating in Bradstreet's to bridge—as played by other women.

Thousands of American women wear hand-made lingerie because, 16 years ago, Louise Brown was marooned in the Philippines in a set of bridge-playing women, and could not get excited over a grand slam.

During a trip to the islands occasioned by her husband's business, she found herself bored by the tropics, the heat, the idle tourists, the eternal bridge games in hotel lobbies. Wanders out in search of amusement she stumbled on the craft that proved a gold mine for her and revolutionized the lingerie trade in America.

Found Her Big Chance. In the little huts, under the palm trees, the native women were doing the most exquisite handwork, on bespoken delicate traceries upon coarse native cloth.

With that instinctive eye which means success in business, she saw those embroideries transferred to other materials, more desirable, wrapped in tissue paper and displayed on the tables of Fifth avenue shops.

She set out to realize the vision. She studied the embroideries, had samples made on materials she selected and dropped in a secret work shop in Manila, if America accepted her idea.

One nagging aspect of the native handwork was that the women were using the exact stitches and patterns which had made French embroideries famous.

This curious fact was explained when Mrs. Brown learned that the Philippine women had first learned their handwork from a little band of French nuns who had come to the islands as missionaries many generations ago.

The tried stitches and designs had been handed down as heirlooms from mother to daughter, without the slightest variation, so that the Philippine women were scarcely distinguishable from the best French craft work.

"I found out," says Mrs. Brown, "that all the work needed was supervision. I personally bought all materials and inspected the designs, bringing the garments up to European standards before I approached the American market."

The first trip back to New York was a line of tremendous hopes and fears for Mrs. Brown. But the fears were needless. America instantly approved her wares, and she found buyers waiting on her doorstep for shipments.

She returned to Manila and began quantity manufacture, continually increasing her trade until embroidery became the fifth ranking industry of the Philippines.

Cut-throat competition during the war threatened the entire industry, but it weathered the storm. Today ten thousand natives look to Mrs. Brown for a livelihood. Her initiative has brought clothes and food to Philippine families and schools for the children.

Wins With Work. Today her models are designed in France, embroidered in Manila, on material from the United States. Her business has grown so rapidly that she now spends most of her time traveling between New York and Manila and in each of which cities she maintains a home. Her son and daughter are in school near New York.

"You can't go into business for amusement and succeed," she says. "It requires constant work and thought. I watch every detail of my business, designing new models, observing the American market, trying to keep ahead of the fashion."

"In the meantime I have found opportunities to chum with my son and daughter, to dabble with sculpture and to follow several sports. But during business hours you'll find me in my office working as hard as the least sub-1721st in my corps."

"And bridge? Now that I have a more substantial occupation for the daytime, I have learned to love it, and to hold my own, even in frequent games with such an expert as Elizabeth Hanna."

Seldom, indeed, are you given the opportunity of buying from such a large, nice stock at prices similar to those we are making!

And we realize that you appreciate the situation, for never before did people respond to a sale announcement with so much enthusiastic buying.

ing them, are called for emphatically. These concerns warrant the large space devoted to them.
 The new Executive fairly and sensibly would amend the libel law, to make the truth of a published report of statements and occurrences at a public meeting a legal defense in a libel action. As he points out, the people have the right to know what is said and done at such meetings. Were newspapers prevented from publishing a fair and impartial account obviously it is the people which would suffer most.
 With two other outstanding matters—revision of the primary law and disposition of the Texas Educational Survey Commission's recommendations—the Governor promises to deal in later messages. Like the taxation program, these questions must be accorded thorough deliberation.

PROGRESS
 While social and economic conditions vary with individuals the fundamental laws which govern the proper administration of one's personal affairs are the same everywhere. A man with an income of $1,000 a year must live on a different scale from one earning $10,000 a year. A man whose income is $100,000 a year may adhere to still other standards of living and yet be within the meaning of true thrift. But this does not mean that any of these men, with their different standards of living, are ever justified in wasteful practices. Real thrift is the elimination, as much as possible, of every form of waste. The spending of money in ways that are upbuilding to the community, helpful to others and beneficial to general business is within the meaning of true thrift. There is just as much thrift involved in prudent spending and the wise administration of one's funds as there is in the mere saving of money. I should like most of all to impress upon the readers of these lines that no matter where you live or what may be your condition in life, to be thrifty in the true sense of the word means to thrive, to get ahead, to make progress. It means saving money, but not as the miser saves. It means conserving time, energy and health. It means personal efficiency. The man who overworks is not thrifty. The man who saves and hoards to the neglect of his personal development and advancement is not thrifty. Hard work and sacrifice are a necessary part of thrift. No man ever succeeded without them. But only in the development of methods and habits which in the truest sense contribute to one's personal progress and to the welfare of others, do we find the meaning of real thrift. These principles are the same with all of us the world over.

THE CIVILIZING FORCES
 According to one conception, love of money is the root of all evil; according to another, it is one of the great principles that move the world. It is not deniable that love of money leads to the commission of many crimes. On the other hand, what would be the material and moral state of the world were there no passion for wealth? We should have few of the comforts and conveniences that are now available to most of us if most of the people were indifferent to money; did not care greatly for it or for the things that are to be had in exchange for it.
 All the great discoveries in science and every one of the great inventions that have been made might have been brought forth if nobody cared for money. But they would not have been turned to account. Knowledge is useful only when employed to the general advantage. If there were no love of money there would be no capital to exploit the products of science and invention, nor would there be incentive to engage in the manufacture and distribution of the great mass of devices that have become necessities to us.
 People would be born, struggle along through a space of time to secure a bare living and die. They might or they might not be concerned about a future state. Whether or not they were, they would be kept busy as we are finding things they required. And they would be as ruthless about it as Twentieth Century man is often alleged to be in the quest of money. Primitive civilization was more brutal than ours is. In the process of refinement through which he has passed during the successive centuries man has denounced as criminal behavior that which could not be condoned in earlier times because it seemed to be necessary for individual preservation.
 In the pursuit of money today there is a minimum of injustice. At any rate everybody gets a chance to secure a share of the general store of wealth, usually enough for his needs, and at the same time enjoy the fruits of intelligence and industry. More, everybody who works for money nowadays makes a contribution to the common welfare.

MAJOR CRIMES DECREASE
 New York City is rejoicing in a decrease of major crimes in 1926 over 1925 amounting to approximately sixty per cent. This is a remarkable showing, attributed in part to the passage of the Baume law, which provides that every fourth offender shall be sentenced to imprisonment for life.
 The 1926 crime record of the city of New York, in so far as major crimes are figures, is better than any year since 1922. The major crimes include homicide, assault, robbery and burglary. The fall and winter months, usually high in crime totals, show a great decrease and police officials and citizens generally in the metropolis are well pleased.
 We believe the Baume law has had much to do with this record. It is, or should be self-evident that when a criminal repeats his activity four times he exhibits a depravity that will remain pronounced through life if the opportunity presents itself. Under the circumstances the safest place for him is the penitentiary.

SO THINK WE
 We think winter is possibly the most disagreeable time of the year.
 We think the easiest way to reach the average college student a foreign language is to make it a college yell or get it in the fist of slang.
 We think the present wet weather may not be so pleasant, but there is no question that it will mean much for the people of this country next spring and summer when the moisture is needed for the crops.
 We think Governor Dan is possibly going to the extreme on some things, but at the same time there is logic in his argument. He had just refused a $1,000 automobile as a gift, but Dan contends that at the present salary of a Texas governor he would not be able to stand the expense.
 We think that most people encounter hard times by buying the things that they really do not need.
 We think where dollars and cents is the only trouble, that the United States can stand to lose a great amount of this rather than to dash into a war with Mexico or any other country—But where principal is involved, that's different.
 We think the old time whipping post possibly would have more effect on some men than the penitentiary, especially if prison sentences continue to be as uncertain as they have been for the past two years.
 We think if the reports are true that the grand jury has turned in some forty bills of indictment, and then went back to work, there must be quite a bit of house-cleaning going on around Lubbock these days.
 We think Ferguson is possibly right in saying there are five hundred others in the penitentiary that should be out, but he did not say anything about the five hundred murderers and bootleggers and assassins that were turned out that should not have been.

 Guinness Are Asset to Farm
 A neighbor asked me one day why I always keep a flock of guineas when there is absolutely no profit to be derived from them.
 There are numerous ways in which a fowl or anything else as to that matter, may be profitable. As a matter of fact, there is no great amount of money to be had through the production of guineas; however, I have sold some few dollars' worth in the early laying season. But, as the production increases guinea eggs decrease in value, sometimes to the extent that they will not sell at all.
 I find guineas to be profitable as guardians to my baby chicks and turkeys. When a hawk comes down upon a bunch of little chicks, if there is a flock of guineas near, they make such a hoarse racket with their beak clattering voices that the intruder seems to think he has alighted among a bunch of howling monsters. And it is glad to retreat to the hills. I have actually seen little chickens run to a flock of guineas for protection.
 Another way in which guineas are profitable is when hen eggs are commanding a handsome price. If one has a small flock of guineas they will produce a sufficient amount of eggs for human consumption, thereby getting the most out of the flock.
 The egg market and the fact that there are plenty of nice farm ones for home use. As an article I think a nice half-grown guinea is hard to beat. The meat is highly flavored and tastes very much like quail meat which is a favorite dish. It is easily cooked.
 Guineas are resistant of all poultry to rabies, resulting but little food and attention. Their wild nature and instinct seem to make them self-supporting from the time they are hatched. Like the cat, they seem to take up with the place and at no time require supervision. When one comes near they immediately take the war phoop. Several times I have been awakened at night by the clear ringing voice of my guineas to find a wolf or some other prowling animal stalking about the chicken roost, and doubtless had it not been for those "silent watchers," I would have lost a number of chickens.

A Civic Revival Week
 How Parsons' Kansas, Awakened Pride and Loyalty Over All of Southeast Kansas

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the tenth of a series of 26 articles on what modern American cities are doing to meet problems of growth and progress. Tomorrow: Two Kinds of Population.
By DON E. MOWRY
 Secretary American Community Advertising Association
 A "civic revival week" is the latest stunt to be adopted by forward-looking cities. Parsons, Kan., did it in a way that many other cities might well notice.
 Parsons was 55 years old recently, and to celebrate it, staged one of the greatest civic weeks ever held anywhere. They built up a birthday program that took in all of the southeast Kansas.
 Neighbors Co-operate
 On Wednesday was held a Southeast Kansas Farm Congress; on Thursday, a Southeast Kansas Business Congress. Cities and towns in the neighborhood co-sponsored wholeheartedly. Fort Scott, Pittsburg, Galena, Coffeyville, Independence, Chanute, Iola and other localities were represented and took an active part in organizing Southeast Kansas, Inc.
 A "Queen of the Southeast Kansas" was selected by a committee of newspapersmen, and was given her crown by the governor.
Feasts Loyalty
 All of southeast Kansas, as a result of this civic week, has had a new wave of loyalty and determination to progress. A campaign to advertise southeast Kansas to the best of the country has been started.
 "Without such 'revival' weeks, cities often fall into habits which fall to impress either their own citizens or outsiders with the advantages at hand.
 The chamber of commerce of the United States, at Washington, can supply communities with past experiences of other cities along this line.

DREAMS
 One broken dream is not the end of dreaming.
 One shattered hope is not the end of all.
 Beyond the storm and tempest stars are glimmering.
 Still build your castles, though your castles fall.
 Though many dreams come tumbling in disaster
 And pain and heartache meet us down the years.

Still keep your faith, your dreams and hopes in masser
 And seek to find the lesson of your years.
 Not all as it should be: See how jittered
 With sorry wreckage is this restless stream.
 Some dreams are vain, but be you not embittered
 And never cry that you have ceased to dream!

MATADORS LOSE TO LOBO QUINTET, 35 TO 26

CAPTAIN FORD LEADS WOLF PACK TO EVEN BREAK IN TWO-PLY SERIES AS RECORD CROWD WATCHES FAST GAME

It was a snarling pack of Loboes that took the court against Texas Tech's Matadors in the assembly hall here last night, a fighting slugging crew of basketballers with one thought in mind and that to erase the 25 to 14 defeat sustained the night before. After forty minutes of red hot play during which time the score saw sawing back and forth, their hopes were recalled to Coach Grady Higginbotham's unseasoned quintet, stiff, and were only strenuous tilt of the season on Monday night, gave way before the scientific attack of the Sul Ross five by a score of 35 to 26.

The heralded Big Bend team struck its stride last night, led by Captain Ford and spurred on by Clifford Kell, but it was not until the scarlet clad lads from the state's newest educational institution, had thrown scores after scores into their opponents and kept the final verdict in question all the way. The first half, a hectic session of close guarding and ineffective shooting on the part of both teams, ended in a 15-15 tie and it was not until the second half was well under way that the tide of battle turned in favor of the invaders.

Tech Takes First Lead
Leslie "Al" Jennings, husky Tech forward, put his team out in front in the first quarter minute of play, when he negotiated a difficult shot from the right side of the court but a moment later Ford, hefty yet speedy Lobo center, evened the court with a well placed short shot. From that time until Timekeeper "Pop" Noles pistol fired to end the half the score wavered back and forth, with first one five in the lead and then the other.

The first part of the second half was a repetition of the preceding chapter until the Matadors amassed a lead of five markers and it began to look like Higginbotham's hustlers were once more off to the races. Captain Ford, however, stepped into the breach and with his teammates launched a scorching offense which not only tied the court but which turned the tide to put the Loboes on the road to victory. During the evening's play Ford shot seven field goals and added two free throws for almost half of his team's points and he led the field in scoring by a wide margin. Forward Clifford Kell, his Tulsa teammate, accounted for five goals from the court, which, augmented by a free throw, gave him second honors. Geo. "Buck" Weaver, Tech center, manly-placed four goals from the court, secured honors but his counters all came in the first canto, while his floor player, "Handsome Ramona" Walker pressed him closely with three field goals and a free throw for a total of seven points.

Many Fouls Made
A total of 27 personal fouls, with Tech leading in this department by 14 to 13, marred the evening's performance. The fouls were made by over-zeal on the part of the athletes, however, and not intentionally. Hunter and Vincent, stellar Tech guards, fell by the wayside with four personal fouls per each while Townsend, Lobo forward, was also ejected by Referee Jack Woodward.

While one flashing attack of the Loboes, coupled with Ford's tantalizing total of markers, figured prominently in the Matadors' first defeat of the current season, it was Tech's inability to keep risky shots which was responsible for the 46-26 loss. Points missed a number of shots but especially the Matadors' tossers time after time shot from the open on a half the ball far side of the hoop.

Big Crowd on Hand
About 600 fans skidded through the mud to get the contest, marking the largest crowd of the season. Between the halves 14 members of the Girls' Pep Squad, led by Miss Arabelle Collins, of Channing, and clad in their official regalia, entertained with stunts while Professor Harry LeMaire and his band furnished music for the occasion.

The floor work and goal shooting of Ford and Kell, of the visitors was easily the feature of the evening's play but so Matador stood out far enough above his brothers to attract attention. The defense which stood the home-ings in such good stead on Monday night was broken up by the floor work of the opposing players in the second half although the whole team worked well in this department in the opening session of combat.

The Matadors will turn their attention to polishing off the rough spots from now until Friday when they journey to Abilene for a two game set with Simmons university on Friday and Saturday nights. The Sul Ross team leaves Lubbock today for Plainview and after a two-ply series with Wayland will meet the fast Canyon Bulldogs Friday and Saturday in the Randall county capital.

Strolling Down Sport Lane

With James R. Dow

The Wolves of the Big Bend section came back last evening and evened matters up with the Matadors by taking the last of a two game contest before a crowded house in a hectic affair with a score of 25 to 26.

Jennings, the husky forward, for the Matadors, drew things up the first center for the evening with a fairly long shot. Ford came back for the visitors with a sinker shot under the hoop. All through the initial half the score of the two clubs varied but few points.

When "Pop Noles" pistol shot for the intermission the score board indicated a tie of 15-15.

Ford, former Tulsa high school product, distinguished himself of the name given him a few years ago as the best all-around center in the basket ball circles of the Panhandle last season with a bombardment of field goals that rapidly placed his pack of Wolves in the lead during the last half.

Inability in finding the basket resulted in a defeat for the Scarlet clad basketballers here last evening with Shovel's Loboes. Time and again the Matadors took open shot only to go wild or low. Both Walker and "Buck" Weaver had one of those renowned off night, neither of them made an average of ten percent on the chances for counters.

Fast passing was beyond the Matadors last evening. The Big Bend crew worked the ball fast and with apparent ease to scoring position. Ford, the husky pack leader of the Loboes, was the pivot about which the machine worked.

The Sul Ross crew leaves tonight for Plainview where they are engaged in a two game show with the Wayland Baptist college; then on the week end the Loboes wind up with a two game series with the West Texas State Teachers college buffs.

Coach Grady Higginbotham will leave this week end for Abilene where the Matadors will meet with the Simmons University Cowboy gang on the Simmons floor. Simmons has just recently gathered in victory from the two Brownwood institutions, both the Jackets of Howard-Payne and the Billies of the Daniel Baker college.

Referee Jack Woodward, who had charge of the two Tech-Sul Ross encounters, struck it to the club members of both teams last night. On Monday night Referee Woodward dealt rather leniently with the lads; but matters picked up during the last half of the game last night.

Sideline Chatter

The unseasoned Matador quintet deserves favorable comment for displaying even with the highly touted and admittedly fast basketball veterans of Sul Ross college. Although they dropped the second contest by a 25-26 margin last night they gave the Wolf pack from the Big Bend country plenty of stiff competition throughout the tilt.

The Lobo team is made up entirely of Panhandle athletes. Two of its number, Forward Clifford Kell and Captain Ford, center, both from Tulsa, enrolled in Tech in 1925 but didn't stay long. They are the most versatile performers of the Sul Ross aggregation, which, by the way, is coached by 23-graduate of West Texas State Teachers College.

The Honorable Mr. Ford, Lobo leader, is a type of chet rarely found. He is a big fellow, yet fast and shifty, and he uses his abnormal bulk and strength to good advantage in plugging backboard and looping short shots.

Coach "Pats" Anderson, of Wayland college, was on the sidelines last night, watching the Sul Ross athletes in action. His charges will play hosts to the Big Bend boys at Plainview tonight and tomorrow night.

Both teams missed a flock of setups in the opening round but Sul Ross missed fewer than the home-ings. The Matadors are a better defensive team than they are on the offense but some more practice and a few additional games should iron out this difficulty.

All but two of the nine men on Coach Shotwell's team are veteran court performers which means a lot in basketball. Caging crews rarely hit top form until they have operated together through one, or more, hectic campaigns.

Time out was called but three times during last night's game. Both Tech and Sul Ross called time once in the first half and the invaders once again in the second spasm.

With the score standing 15 to 15 at the end of the first half 15 Tech girls, members of the Pep squad, took the floor. Looks like three of a kind—all those fifteen.

The offense of both teams accounted for more points last night than the night before but it was because defense had been dropped for more effective offense rather than an improvement in the latter department.

As a result of the Sul Ross series it will be a different Tech team that takes the floor against the Simmons Cowboys at Abilene this week-end. Coach Grady Higginbotham, to use the

Hale County Cager Title at Stake Friday

Special to The Avalanche
PLAINVIEW, Jan. 25.—The high school championship of Hale county in basketball will be decided January 28 and 29 at the Floydada basketball tournament given for high schools of this section. Since all Hale county teams competing for the county title are also entered in the tournament, it was decided by officials to play off the county tournament as well. The teams that will battle for both the title of the tournament and that of Hale county are: Plainview, Aberrath, Hale Center and Petersburg.

The contest among these teams is expected to be a feature of the Floydada tournament in which teams from all over the Panhandle and South Plains will be competing.

SIXTY C. I. A. STUDENTS OUT FOR SOCCER

Special to The Avalanche
DENTON, Jan. 25.—More than sixty students at the College of Industrial Arts have begun practice in soccer, being played for the first time on the C. I. A. campus. Practice is conducted every afternoon in which all those interested in the sport participate. This is in addition to practice offered for class teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lowe of Kansas City, have been visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Jackson, 1615 Avenue F, enroute to Oregon. Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

Special to The Avalanche
LAMARCA, Jan. 25.—The hog cholera which prevailed in Dawson county during the latter part of last year and the first of this year has been practically dissipated, according to R. M. Harkey, veterinarian employed in the eradication campaign.

With the exceptions of a sporadic outbreak in Lynn county which he investigated last week, the situation is rapidly clarifying.

Since the campaign started Harkey has vaccinated about 3,500 hogs in Dawson county. About 65 head died during the height of the scourge.

The cholera outbreak originated in this county through the bringing in by truck of hogs from Big Spring, according to Harkey. For a time it appeared serious, but Harkey soon located the infected animals and applied the serum.

Harkey is watching the situation acutely in both Dawson and Lynn counties, making his headquarters with County Agent Chas. B. Martin in the courthouse.

The last report of cholera came to him Sunday when he was called to a place in Lynn county.

Now that most of the hogs in the county have been vaccinated it is improbable that any alarming spread of the disease will occur.

Slaton Tiger Five Defeat Whirlwinds

Special to The Avalanche
SLATON, Jan. 25.—The Floydada Whirlwinds winners of basketball games in this section through eleven straight games until they met the Tigers of the Slaton school on the latter's court here, were defeated by the Slaton quintet, score 15 to 8. The Slaton cagers, according to Coach Gus Miller, outclassed the visitors in defense play and in alertness throughout the contest.

The Slaton team recently defeated teams from Lubbock and Post also. Coach Miller believes his players will present a formidable front against opposing teams through the remainder of the season.

PEACHES BROWNING TELLS OF CRUELTY

SIXTEEN YEAR OLD BRIDE WEEPS AS SHE RELATES UNPRINTABLE DETAILS

(By Associated Press) COURT HOUSE, WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Browning, who wept yesterday when her husband was applauded in the court room at Carmel, today had her inquest before Supreme Court Justice Seeger, when she consumed the entire details of her life with Edward W. A. Browning, wealthy New York realtor.

The young woman, whose age is recorded in the court records as 16, broke down once in the morning session when compelled by questioning to tell of certain details of her life which contributed, she said, to the reason why on October 2, she left her husband's home with her mother, vowing never to go back to his Kew Gardens, Long Island home. A five minute adjournment was taken.

Once she turned to Justice Seeger and asked: "Must I tell all this before all these people?"

"Yes," he said.

She then related unprintable accusations, which were interrupted by John W. Mack, attorney for Browning, on the ground the acts mentioned were not cited in her complaint charging cruelty. Mack was overruled and the witness continued.

Some of her testimony, relating to the alleged relations between Mr. Browning and his adopted daughter, Dorothy Sunshine, 16 years old caused a dead silence in the court room.

The court room was jammed with spectators and newspaper reporters, whose presence this morning was formally sanctioned by Justice Seeger when he denied a motion to exclude the public.

Whereas yesterday's matinee of the case, in the proud little town of Carmel was short lived though featured by humorous colloquies between the court and the attorney for Browning, today's hearing was punctuated with testimony and exhibits, which, in fact, were of Mr. Mack, tried to turn the court room "into a menagerie. There was the silver Ex-ton-1 teddy bear with the lavender ribbons, a gift to Mrs. Browning by her husband, and for they watch obtain the supplies as testified by her when she was a girl for a dog.

The proceedings closed with the account of her first meeting with the state man at a party in a New York hotel where he was pointed out to her standing in the middle of the floor, the center of attention, she said, of most of the young girls present.

She said there were about 200 persons there and that she did not ask to be presented, but was introduced to Mr. Browning before the evening was over.

The dance was one given by a sorority which she understood Mr. Browning sponsored and whose Greek letters, Mrs. Browning testified stood for "Pretty Little Things."

When introduced, she said, Mr. Browning became interested in her, said he was sorry she was not a member of the sorority, and asked if she would not care to join, have a pin, and go to the theatre with him.

This, she said, was March 5, 1926, and before a few days had passed in the narrow telephone calls and visits, she consented to go to a night club with him, and from then on he was a daily visitor. The week before she was burned mysteriously by acid in her home in her mother's apartment, March 27, she said, Mr. Browning proposed, but she said she thought herself too young, and he said they could consider themselves engaged, then, until after her sixteenth birthday.

When she told of the happenings the night of the wedding, when the couple returned to a hotel in Bronxville, from their marriage in Cold Springs, Mrs. Browning's embarrassment and tears adjourned the court five minutes.

Mrs. Browning continued for the remainder of the morning session and for the entire afternoon session. Her testimony covered her activities with her husband when she said were "nearly all photographed." Life for six months, was a round of parties, dinners and tableaux, in which she was shown in one pose or another with her husband.

This, she said, caused her nervousness and worry.

Once, she said, Mr. Browning entered her room with a bottle and said: "The drink." He then, she said, reached for his hip pocket and said he would shoot both his wife and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Heenan.

"My mother ran to the telephone," she continued, "and my husband fell down on his knees and cried not to telephone the police. He then went to the bed and became pop-eyed and red in the face. I thought he had a stroke and we put water on his face."

One, she said, he brought home an "African looking gander," which made the apartment a wreck, and Mr. Browning forced his chauffeur to serve the goose as attendant. Admitting Mr. Browning had bought her an eight karat diamond, a diamond wedding ring and a $2,500 bracelet, Mrs. Browning, on cross examination declared many of the other gifts of jewelry were "fakes."

On cross examination Mack tried to get the witness to say she did not mind appearing in the hundreds of photographs she said her husband forced her to have taken for the newspapers. "You are of a shrinking disposition?" he asked.

"No not exactly," she said, "but enough in enough of anything."

"Isn't it true that you think you've got a pretty good figure?"

"No I don't think I'm so terribly beautiful," she said.

"I wasn't so proud of my figure. In fact I haven't got a good figure."

"How much did you weigh when you were married, Mrs. Browning?"

"I weighed 140 pounds."

"How much did you weigh when you left your husband six months later?"

"I weighed 160 pounds," she said.

Norris murder trial had a religious and a political background, but virtually all of this was excluded from the trial by a ruling of the judge that lawyers could not delve back too far into the life of the fighting pastor and could not bring out unrelated incidents in which it was alleged by the defense they could show the signs of a conspiracy between Mayor Meacham, Chipps and others to injure Dr. Norris.

Charge Conspiracy

Dr. Norris repeatedly charged that there was a conspiracy to kill him, and that Chipps was the instrument to carry out the will of the conspirators. He brought in Roman Catholicism, and linked-in the conspiracy what he called the "forces of evil," in Fort Worth, and to both of these he harnessed Mayor Meacham and his city administration.

Attorney Dayton Moses for the defense detailed the chain of events which he said constituted this alleged conspiracy. He made his statement to the judge, however, with the jury absent, and the judge ruled that such evidence was inadmissible. The state protested vigorously against introduction of this evidence.

No Church Phases

Virtually none of the religious phases of the Norris-Meacham troubles entered the court room in the trial. There were a number of references to the Ku Klux Klan in the examination of witnesses and no known members of the Klan were permitted on the jury, though two former members were jurors. One ventriloquist who said he was a Catholic was eliminated this was virtually the only reference to Catholicism.

Norris' plea in chief was self-defense, which was based on the legal phase of "apparent danger," which declares that when a man is in a position in which he believes he is in danger of losing his life, he may fire in self-defense.

The defense contended that Chipps came to Norris' office after threatening to kill him, that he told the pastor he would kill him if he didn't cease his attacks on his friends, and that he wheeled on Norris, and made a move to his hip pocket, saying "I'll kill you" when Norris shot.

The only eye witness for the state was Mrs. Roxie Parker of Tarrant county, 76-year-old widow who said she arrived at Norris' door just as Chipps was shot. She testified Chipps had one hand in the air in the examination of witnesses and no known members of the Klan were permitted on the jury, though two former members were jurors. Norris' plea in chief was self-defense, which was based on the legal phase of "apparent danger," which declares that when a man is in a position in which he believes he is in danger of losing his life, he may fire in self-defense.

The defense contended that Chipps came to Norris' office after threatening to kill him, that he told the pastor he would kill him if he didn't cease his attacks on his friends, and that he wheeled on Norris, and made a move to his hip pocket, saying "I'll kill you" when Norris shot.

The only eye witness for the state was Mrs. Roxie Parker of Tarrant county, 76-year-old widow who said she arrived at Norris' door just as Chipps was shot. She testified Chipps had one hand in the air in the examination of witnesses and no known members of the Klan were permitted on the jury, though two former members were jurors. Discards Lover to Keep Son

The love of her son, Max, 5, means more to Mrs. Clara Klegson, 24-year-old Muskegon (Mich.) divorcee, than the love of the Rev. George N. Harness, Episcopal minister, she has decided. A court recently ordered her to give up the minister or lose her son; she has decided to keep the boy. The three figures in this unusual triangle are shown here.

B. C. D. Boosts for Texas Tech College

The board of city development yesterday in regular session voted to place the services of the B. C. D. at the disposal of Senator W. H. Bledsoe in the matter of advancing the interests of Texas Technological college with the state legislature, and also to set aside $500 for any necessary expenses in the matter.

They further voted to pay the expenses of D. F. Eaton, county farm agent, not to exceed $100 to the banquet to be given in Dallas by the Progressive Farmer to the fifteen master farmers of Texas who were selected by that publication.

Purchase was authorized of three cups at an expenditure of $100 to be presented to district winners of agricultural and livestock judging contests.

water consumers. As drawn and later passed by committee, the bill specified cities of 40,000 population or less, the assumption being that large cities already have what ever meter reading supervision they want.

Representative Harman of Waco, however, was successful with his amendment to make the bill include all cities.

A bill by Representative Holland of Houston to allow bond for defendants with judgment on appeal was engrossed. Such bond would be allowed only in cases involving maximum penalty of 10 years prison sentence.

The Moore-Owley district judge election contest in the 15th judicial district was recalled by a bill championed to engrossment by Representative D. J. Enderby of Gainesville. It provides that election contests involving nomination for district benches be heard in some adjacent county, instead of by the judge involved in the contest.

CHILDREN'S ILLS

Arkansas Lady Says She Has Never Found a Better Laxative Than Theford's Black-Draught.

Mineral Springs, Ark.—"We use Black-Draught in our family of six children," says Mrs. C. E. Suit, of this place, "and we find it a good bowel regulator. I give it to my children for colds and constipation, or any other stomach disorders, and it certainly is very helpful. I have never known it to fail. When there are so many children, it is a good idea to keep a laxative on hand, and Black-Draught is what we use."

"I have taken it myself for indigestion. I would feel dizzy, have gas and sour stomach. I would also feel a tightness in my chest. I took a good dose of Theford's Black-Draught when I felt that way and it would relieve me. I would feel better for days."

"My husband takes Black-Draught for biliousness. He says he has never found its equal. When he has the tired, heavy feeling, he takes Black-Draught at night and morning for a few days and he doesn't complain any more. I sure do recommend Black-Draught."

Sold everywhere. Get a package of Black-Draught today. Costs only one cent a dose. NC-175

BLAMES MEXICO IN NICARAGUAN ROW

NEW STATE WAS OBJECT OF COUP BY LIBERALS, SAYS CHAMORRO

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the most interesting characters connected with the Nicaraguan situation is Emiliano Chamorro, long a political leader in his country. Chamorro seized the Nicaraguan government a few months ago, but withdrew at the demand of the United States. Below is an exclusive interview with Chamorro, in which further sensational charges against Mexico are made.

By J. B. MEDARIS
Special NEA Service-Writer
PANAMA, Jan. 25 — Nicaraguan troubles and Mexico's alleged connection with them as seen through the eyes of General Emiliano Chamorro, one-time president of Nicaragua and for long years one of the country's individual storm centers, have been described to me by General Chamorro in an exclusive interview for the Avantage and NEA Service. Chamorro charged:

Documents captured by the Nicaraguan army from the "rebel" or Liberal troops "proved conclusively the connivance of Mexico" in the Saca-saca movement.

Intrigue was discovered looking to a Central American state composed of Nicaragua, Guatemala, Honduras, Costa Rica and San Salvador "under the dominance and protection of Mexico."

Chamorro related in full Nicaraguan political events leading to his coup d'etat of Oct. 25, 1925, following which President Solares of Nicaragua resigned and Chamorro succeeded him. Vice President Sacasa fled as a result of this coup.

Failed of Recognition
"The Department of State at Washington refused to recognize my government," Chamorro recalled. "This gave the opposition their opportunity, and they immediately began to take up with the plans of Mexico."

"Immediately after the downfall of the Liberals in October, 1925, the Mexican minister to Costa Rica had come to Nicaragua and offered to President Solares any assistance he should need to eject the Conservative government and restore the Liberals to power. He saw fit to refuse the offer. Apparently Sacasa and his party accepted it."

Arms and ammunition were landed in Nicaragua from a Mexican steamer loaded at Tampico, Aug. 12, 1925, Chamorro declared.

In a battle between Nicaraguan government troops and Liberals immediately afterward at Cosamaloa, he said, "documents of importance were captured which proved conclusively the connivance of Mexico in the movement."

Planned a New State
"General Solares, military chief of the revolutionaries, was killed. He had in his possession documents which gave the general plan of the revolutionaries and the arrangements with Mexico."

"The principal document was practically a treaty, or agreement, between the revolutionaries and the Calles government in Mexico."

"The agreement was that the Liberals, with the assistance of Mexico, were to gain control of the Nicaraguan government. They were then to assist the corresponding party in Honduras in overthrowing their government and assuming power."

"The government of Guatemala was already in accord with the plans of the Mexican government. The governments of these three countries having been shifted about until friends of Mexico were in power, a Central American state was to be formed comprising Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua, completely under the dominance and protection of Mexico."

Counted on Two More
"It was expected that the resulting pressure, both economical and political, would be sufficient to persuade Costa Rica and San Salvador to come in of their own accord, thus completing the composing of the entire area from the Rio Grande practically to the Panama Canal into one federation under Mexican guidance."

Failure of the Mexican supply ship to complete delivery of munitions caused "temporary collapse" of the project, Chamorro said.

Seeking accord with all parties in his country and with Washington, Chamorro agreed to conference with Liberals of Nicaragua, he told me, "During one of the conferences," he declared, "Dr. Espinosa, minister of foreign relations on Sacasa's staff, made the definite statement that they could not accept any compromise, because they had at their shoulders the sword of Mexico."

Gave Up His Job
Chamorro resigned as president because of the objections to him of the U. S. State Department, he said. Adolfo Diaz, the present executive, was appointed to a diplomatic post.

Should the Diaz government be overthrown, he declared, "United States prestige throughout Central America will be very seriously and adversely affected."

Mexico has assisted the Sacasa movement, he asserted, "to the extent of several million dollars, as well as with supplies and material."

Of his own downfall because of Washington's objection that his government was established by force, Chamorro said:

"This objection was partially, though not wholly, valid, as I was elected after the voluntary retirement of Solares, which did not take place until almost three months after the Liberals were ejected from power."

ABILENE CITY BONDS SOLD AT PREMIUM

$4,500 BONUS GIVEN FOR MILLION DOLLAR ISSUE FOR MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

Special to The Avantage
ABILENE, Jan. 25.—City of Abilene bonds aggregating $1,055,000 have been sold for par, accrued interest and a premium of $4,500. The bonds were sold on a joint bid to seven bonding houses, namely: Taylor, Ewert & company, Chicago; Detroit Trust company, Detroit; Braun, Bosworth & company, Toledo; Otis & company, Cincinnati; Bosworth, Chaunte & company, Denver; Fred Ewert & company, St. Louis; Telle Guaranty company, Cincinnati.

The proceeds from the sale of this bond issue will be used for municipal improvements, $200,000 of the amount will be used for improvements and additions to the city water supply system. The city public school system will have $200,000 for additional buildings, $150,000 will go to street improvements, $25,000 for two new sub-fire stations and $20,000 will be expended for the completion of a municipal auditorium, now under course of construction, and to cost $125,000, when completed.

WHITEWAY AT FLOYDADA NOW UNDER WAY; THIRTY-SIX ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS AND SIXTY STREET LIGHTS, TO GO IN

Special to The Avantage
FLOYDADA, Jan. 25.—Work has begun on the $10,000 lighting system to be constructed in Floydada by the Texas Utilities company. A crew of men are at work placing poles in the residential district for the sixty block intersection lights. Thirty-six ornamental white way lights will be installed and sixty street lights. The old lighting system was purchased by the company and will be taken down and lights of 200 candle power installed. This will make the city the best lighted city in West Texas.

The city council, along with its splendid progressive program, this week ordered a modern four ton fire truck to be delivered at once. The new truck will reduce the insurance rate four cents and will be equipped with a first class fire-fighting equipment. The old truck will be used for emergency use only.

Floydada has hopes of having its city officials housed in a new city hall within the near future. The present city council are figuring on the cost of the building and in all probability will order the work done in the near future.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY WAS ESTABLISHED 46 YEARS AGO
AUSTIN, Jan. 24 (P)—It was 46 years ago that the Seventeenth Legislature passed the act establishing the University of Texas. The actual establishment was due to Governor O. M. Roberts who decided in 1879 that unless he did something actively, the University which had languished unborn for forty years would languish another forty.

It is now compulsory for one in every 15 life boats carried by British passenger ships to be equipped with wireless.

DAILY MARKET

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25 (AP)—The cotton market was moderately active today and prices fluctuated within a very narrow range. Liverpool came in lower than 4 1/2 but the course of that market was very ignored owing to the fact that it was last notice day for the January option and notices for 4,000 to 5,000 bales were issued. January here opened 3 points down but later months opened 2 to 4 points up, January at the lowest was seven points down but later rallied and went out at noon at 14.43, or only 2 points under the previous close. The other months declined 1/2 to 1 1/2 points from the opening high. Afternoon the market though quiet, was disposed to do a little better. In the late trading, however, prices edged off again making new lows on liquidation by longs showing losses of 1/2 to 1 1/2 points from the high. The close was steady, showing net losses for the day of ten to eleven points.

Although Liverpool came in lower than the market here showed first trades of two to four points, although January was three points down. Prices soon edged off moderately mainly owing to the circulation of January notices and before noon, March traded down to 12.41, May to 13.58 and July to 13.75. The market rallied a few points from the lows in the early afternoon but later edged off again on liquidation by longs, making new lows which March at 12.35, May 13.53 and July at 13.70, the close was at the lowest. Exports for the day totaled 24,964 bales.

CRUDE OIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the U. S. decreased 2,350 barrels for the week ended January 22, totaling 288,679 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute today. The daily average production out of California was 170,069 barrels, a decrease of 7,450 barrels.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The general cotton market closed barely steady, at a net decline of 5 to 10 points.

CANADA WHEAT

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (AP)—Canada's total yield of wheat for the year 1926 is estimated at 406,269,000 bushels from 22,763,449 acres, as compared with 411,375,706 bushels from 21,372,732 acres in 1925, and with 298,964,525 bushels from 22,054,320 acres, the annual average for the four years 1922-25.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (AP)—Wheat advanced sharply today and closed at the highest level in some time. Active buying in which big commission houses were permanent, accompanied the ascent. Upward revision of estimated European import requirements had a decided strengthening effect, and further notice was taken of possible market influence of the crisis in the far east.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1 3/4 cent to 1 3/4 cent higher, corn 3/8 a 1/2 to 5/8 cent up, soybeans 1/4 cent, to 5/8 cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 1/2-cent.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Country offerings of corn to Chicago, were smaller.

Despite lower hog value, the provision market was responsive to the upward swing of cereals.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 25 (AP)—Generally steady conditions prevailed today in trading on the livestock market here. Receipts were posted at 750 sheep, cattle, 350 calves, 500 hogs and 400 steers.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Coffee futures opened today at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 1 point and advanced from 12.75 to 13.86 for May on covering and trade buying, which was supposed to be in anticipation of an early improvement in spot demand.

Section of Palo Duro Opened to Scouts

Special to The Avalanche CANYON, Jan. 25.—Dr. Earl W. Astell, who is in charge of the ranch which comprises the Light House section of the Palo Duro canyon, has tendered the boy scouts of Canyon the use of this section of the canyon as a place for a camp and will furnish logs with which the scouts will erect a cabin there some time during the summer of 1927. The scouts have pledged themselves to assist in the preservation of the wild life which is found in the canyon. This section of the Palo Duro canyon preserves which was created last fall. It contains about 4500 acres and is stocked with deer, wild turkey, quail and pheasants. Many varieties of birds make their homes in the canyon and the scouts expect to add much to their knowledge of nature through their study of the plant and wild life of the canyon.

For Wales

These grapefruit from the trees at Corpus Christi, Texas, are now on route to England, where they will go to the breakfast table of the Prince of Wales. Miss Mary Green, who is holding them, says she knows they are extra fine grapefruit in that they have a short wave length. Wales' vest, therefore, will not suffer when he eats them.
