RAIN BRINGS ATTITUDE CHANGE—Smiles blossomed as Easter Sunday brought a welcome downpour with continuous rain on Monday resulting in flooded streets and overflowing bar ditches. One farmer gleefully stated "You could hear the wheat going slurp, slurp, slurp!" Spring weather also brought the sighting of a

"beautiful pure white tornado" in the Muncy area on Monday afternoon. Rainfall measurements across the county for Sunday and Monday totaled: Floydada, 1.54"-2"; Lockney, 1"; South Plains, .7"; Dougherty 2-2 1/2"; McCoy, .7"; Lakeview .7"; Cedar Hill, .55". — Staff Photo

Tornado spotted

The rain was a welcome sight for Floyd County residents starting Easter Sunday, but along with rain came the not so wanted hail and a tornado sighting east of Muncy. Cloud watchers from the cities of Floydada and Lockney had only to step outside and get a clear view in the direction of Muncy to see a tornado dipping in and out of the clouds.

According to Deputy David Hart the tornado was spotted by him at approximately 2:30 p.m. Monday afternoon. "It was between Muncy and Highway 207 moving northeast," said Hart. "The city was not in danger from this cloud and the alarm was not sounded." It kept going up and down, in and out of the cloud for about five minutes before it disappeared. I did not see it touch the ground, but I did hear reports from people that did see it touch."

Even though the city was not alerted, the National Weather Service was notified of the cloud and did keep an eye on its movement.

City employees of Floydada had only to stand on North Main and Jackson to see the tornado. "It was beautiful," said City Manager Gary Brown. "It was pure white."

Lockney residents also reportedly saw the tornado from their Main Street.

etc. When the danger is over a continuous blast will signify the all-clear.

"If we have the personnel available," said Fire Chief Larry Guthrie, "firemen will drive around the streets sounding their sirens."

Also available to cable subscribers is the warning system on their TV. Should a tornado be spotted moving toward town, a verbal warning would be heard on cable TV (overriding all channels) stating: "A tornado has been spotted approaching Floydada and you should seek shelter immediately."

Depending on the weather the city's siren will be tested next week. "The siren will not be tested during bad weather," said City Manager Gary Brown.

SEVERE WEATHER SEMINAR

The Floydada Fire Department will also be hosting a seminar for cloud watchers which will be presented by the National Weather Service on April 19th at 7:00 p.m. "The National Weather Service will present a lecture to fire department personnel, police and all cloud watchers," said City Manager Gary Brown. "It will be open to the public and there is no charge for attendance."

TORNADO SAFETY TIPS

When a tornado threatens, your immediate action can save your life. Stay away from windows, doors, and outside walls and protect your head.

In homes and small buildings, go to the basement or to an interior part of the lowest level such as closets, bathrooms, or interior halls. It is very important to get under something sturdy.

In schools, nursing homes, hospitals, factories and shopping centers, go to predesignated shelter areas. Interior hallways on the lowest floors are usually best inside large buildings.

In high-rise buildings, go to interior small rooms or hallways and if you are in a mobile home or vehicle, leave and go to a substantial structure. If there is no shelter nearby, lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine, or culvert with your hands shielding your head.

Lightning is also a major killer during thunderstorms. Stay indoors and away from electrical appliances when storms are nearby. If you are caught outside, stay away from and lower than high or conductive objects.

Tornado Sirens Being Tested Monday

The City of Floydada will be testing the tornado sirens Monday, April 3, at 2 p.m., weather permitting.

Man pleads guilty to assault on pregnant woman

Roel Guerrero, 27, of Lockney, pled guilty March 27 to aggravated assault with serious bodily injury. Guerrero will receive six years in Texas Department of Corrections for his June 11, 1988 assault on a pregnant woman which resulted in her unborn baby's death.

According to District Attorney Becky McPherson, "On June 11, Guerrero kicked a Lockney woman in the stomach. She was eight months pregnant at the time and an autopsy proved that the baby was stillborn as a result of the kick."

"This is a 3rd degree felony," said McPherson. "It can carry a sentence of 2-10 years. Guerrero pled guilty to a six year sentence."

Drug Awareness Workshop slated in Floydada April 12

Floydada Police Department and Lockney Police Department have joined forces to host a Drug Awareness Workshop in Floydada on April 12 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Floydada Fire Department meeting room. There will be no charge for this workshop.

The workshop, directed toward law enforcement personnel, is also open to school administrators, teachers and anyone interested in drug awareness.

The course will be presented by Dan Gomez and Jessie Auza of the Citizens Drug Awareness Council, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, and Floyd Price of the Lubbock Police Department, Crime Prevention Unit.

Anyone wishing to attend the workshop should contact either the Floydada Police Department at 983-2834 or the Lockney Police Department at 652-3548 by April 10.

Parking will be available on the east and west sides of the fire department building so that the trucks will not be blocked. For any out of town participants, the fire department is located at 102 West Virginia, downtown under the two water towers.

This course will provide officers with an 8 hour TCLEOSE credit.

Time Changes Sunday, April 2, at 2 a.m. Move your clocks one hour forward.

Trapping begins for strays

Due to the numerous complaints of stray dogs and the problems that are being caused, the city of Floydada is beginning a serious effort to enforce the city ordinances concerning stray dogs, by trapping any dogs which are not kept on the owners property.

"Live traps will be used and any dogs caught will be taken to Paul Glasson, DVM, at Lockney. The dogs will be kept for three days, if not claimed they will be humanely disposed of," said City Manager Gary Brown.

According to city officials, fines of up to $200.00 per day, per animal can be levied against owners of animals who fail to comply with city regulations concerning nuisance animals (Sec. 4-2, Floydada Code).

According to the ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person to own or maintain an animal in such a manner as to constitute a public nuisance. The following acts shall constitute a public nuisance: (a) failure to restrain an animal, (b) property damage caused by an animal, (c) maintaining an animal in an unsanitary environment.

It is also against the city ordinances to keep a dog or cat without having him vaccinated. According to Sec. 4-6: No person shall own, keep or harbor a dog or cat over the age of four months within the city limits unless the dog or cat shall have been vaccinated with an antirabies vaccine by a licensed veterinarian. All such animals shall be vaccinated at one year intervals from the initial date on which such animal was vaccinated or required to be vaccinated.

Fundraiser will benefit volunteer fire department

In order to better equip and train your fire department to protect your property, the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department is holding a fund raising meal on Sunday, April 16.

The meal will consist of barbeque beef with all the trimmings with a price tag of $5.00 per plate. You may eat the meal in the cafeteria of Duncan Elementary School or carry-out plates, or home delivery, within the city limits of Floydada, will be provided.

Tickets may be purchased from any fireman or at Floydada City Hall, First National Bank, or Sunbelt Savings. The profit from this meal will be used to buy needed equipment, and send firemen to schools. The cost of your fire insurance is based partly on the ability and effectiveness of the fire department. Tickets will be sold through Tuesday, April 11. Your support will be appreciated.

Hospital district must keep balloting open until April 10

After a check by hospital administrator, Leroy Schaffner, with the Secretary of State of the State Board of Elections, it was discovered that the hospital district must keep balloting open until April 10. It will not close March 23 as previously stated.

At this time there is no contested race for hospital board. Three at-large two-year terms are open on the hospital board. The board members' terms expiring and up for re-election are those held by Joy Assiter, William Bertrand, and Don Bean. Bean is the only one not seeking re-election. Kenneth Pitts has filed for Bean's position.

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION

There is now a contested race for school board. Filing on the last day, Wednesday, March 22, Richard Hale announced his intentions to run for the at-large position opposing Mrs. Gary (Charlene) Brown. Running unopposed are John E. Campbell in Precinct 4 and Don Hardy in Precinct 5.

Absentee voting for school board begins Monday, April 17, and ends Tuesday, May 2. Go to the school administration office, located at 226 W. California, to vote absentee. The absentee election judge is Darlynn Hainbright.

Bill Gray honored by Texas Lodge of Research

Bill Gray, past Master of Floydada Masonic Lodge No. 712 and currently the District Deputy Grand Master of the 96th Masonic District, was recently honored by the Texas Lodge of Research. On March 18, Gray received the "Annual Award for Literary Excellence for the Outstanding Research Paper for the Year 1986-87," while attending the annual installation of the Research Lodge in Waco.

The paper which qualified for the honor was "A Masonic View of the Texas—Santa Fe Expedition of 1841," which Gray presented before the lodge in June, 1986. The subject dealt with the Freemasons who were members of the ill-fated expedition, dispatched by Texas President Maribeu Lamar. Lamar's intent had been to establish a trade route to Santa Fe, then considered part of the Republic of Texas.

On August 30, 1987, two markers were dedicated to the memory of the expedition at a site five miles south of Quitaque in northeast Floyd County. The Texas Historical Commission's marker denoted the location of "Camp Revolution" of the campaign, while the other marker was placed by the Grand Lodge of Texas—in recognition of the Masons involved on the journey.

The background information for both markers was taken from Gray's work and the extensive study by Marisue Potts, as presented in her earlier paper on the same subject for the Daughters of the Republic of Texas. Gray credits Mrs. Potts with "giving him the detailed account of the story, thus enabling him to pursue the Masonic connection." Potts' and Gray's stories of the expedition were featured in six segments of articles which appeared in the Hesperian in July and August of 1987.

The Texas Lodge of Research is a statewide body organized for the purpose of promoting, encouraging, conducting and fostering Masonic research and study. The organization totals about 1200 Masons throughout Texas. Gray and J. M. (Jimmy) Willson, Jr. of Floydada are two of the approximately 100 active members of the lodge.

Memories Go Up In Flames

By Asale Noland

After receiving our Floyd County Hesperian and seeing the picture of the "one hundred year" old house burning on the Silverton Highway, it saddened my heart.

I just couldn't get it out of my mind, and it brought back many memories to me, as my parents and my three sisters lived there years ago.

In the year of January 1925, my parents Jim and Nell McGuffey, and sisters, Maxine, (Asale) Winona and Jaquita moved there. It was owned by Claud Tatum Lubbock at that time.

It was a beautiful house, with an upstairs which we were really proud of, and to have a home so big and nice, meant much to us.

The big tall elevator was still in operation. I don't remember when they tore it down. I do remember, there was lots of 'rats' in it.

I remember well on a Thanksgiving Day we had a terrific high wind and sandstorm from the west, and it flattened our, 'crook-neck,' maize crop to the ground.

We had to head the maize off the ground and throw it into a wagon, pulled by two mules. It really hurt our backs.

Sometime later, we had been working in the field, and finished about 3 p.m. My mother decided we must put out the 'washing.' So, using the washpot to heat water, and the rub-board we all got busy. We hung the clothes on the clothesline out back near the hen-house to dry. The clothes didn't get dry enough to bring in, they were left to stay out overnight.

There were always chicken thieves going through the communities, and we always locked our hen house, so they couldn't get the chickens, but they took all our clothes off the line, never the less.

We were short of bed clothes, underwear, and various garments.

We lived in the house two years, and moved down the road to the Harve Bolin place.

The family moved into this house. The family included, Old Mr. Lester, Sam and Eula Lester, Bennie Mavat

Floydada chamber joins Texas Chamber Network

The Floydada Chamber of Commerce has joined "The Texas Chamber Network," a direct electronic information link with the Texas Chamber of Commerce in Austin.

The local chamber will begin receiving current legislative information from the Austin office of the Texas Chamber immediately.

(Rose) and Martha Malone, and J.W. Lester. We had good times with them.

I remember, we had so many good neighbors including, Bill and Winnie, Charles and Brad Beedy, H.L. Bartons, Sims family, P.M. Smithers, Ray Myers, Irvin Bennetts, McCormicks and many others.

"We will also be able to send our chamber's resolutions on legislative positions for inclusion in presentations on behalf of the entire state business community," said Wayne Tipton, President of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce.

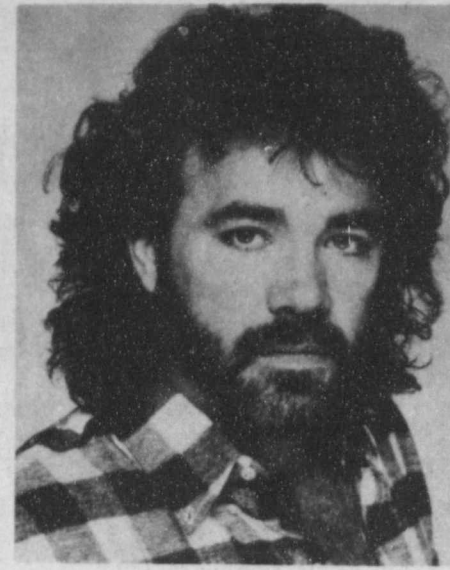

Larry S. Milner, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Texas Chamber welcomed Floydada to the network. "Your organization is one of the pioneers in this new system of instant communications," Milner said.

Milner said that the network concept was announced at the 1989 Annual Meeting of the Texas Chamber. A half-day workshop at the conference reviewed issues and established priorities for the state and local chambers.

The local chamber will be distributing legislative information to its members and participating in lobbying efforts with the Texas Chamber in Austin.

"We are looking at issues that affect job development in Texas," Milner said. He noted that workers' compensation reform, merit election of judges and education are high on the list of joint chamber priorities.

The Chamber will also be working on several financing initiatives for both rural and urban job development, special tax provisions for factory machinery and goods in transit and job training programs.

Gary Morris: All Round Talent

By Alex Torrez

Singer/actor Gary Morris' broad and varied talents have resulted in an extensive track record that spans the performing arts. As a recording artist, Morris has recorded five top ten albums and a string of number one singles and sold-out concert tours across the country. But the story doesn't end there.

From capturing one of the most prestigious and sought-after roles in musical theatre (La Boheme) to prominent recurring roles on one of television's most popular dramas (The Colby's), to his return to the stage in the award-winning Broadway musical "Les Miserables," Gary Morris is secure in his niche as one of the most creative, successful, and diverse talents in entertainment.

Gary's musical roots reach to his paternal grandfather, a man who could "play anything with strings on it," and his mother's father, a traveling minister of music who wrote several songs in the Baptist hymnal.

But it was Gary's mother who instilled in him a desire to sing. "Whenever we went on family vacations, singing was part of the entertainment. My sister, brother and I would harmonize with mother. We'd cruise along singing gospel and popular tunes."

Morris' singing career has taken several very different turns. It began in his hometown of Fort Worth, Texas, where he sang as a child in the Southern Baptist Church. At Cisco Junior College in Cisco, Texas, he formed his own trio and starred on the school's football team.

"Athletics altered the way I do things and what I've chosen to do with my life. I was always inspired to do well in sports. Winning is not everything, but losing is nothing. That translates to my career in show business as well."

Despite a football scholarship to Texas Tech, it was music that won him over. He and his band played small clubs all over the South, Midwest and Rocky Mountain states. He signed with Warner Brothers Records, and his recordings began getting attention, particularly such songs as "Headed For A Heartache," "The Wind Beneath My Wings," and "Baby Bye Bye."

An accomplished songwriter who has written many of his own hits, Gary has had his songs recorded by numerous other prominent artists as well, including Reba McEntire and John Schneider.

A performer whose work has always reflected deep and abiding emotion, Gary Morris' honesty, integrity, and creativity have placed him in the forefront of his well-chosen profession.

Pandora's box of Pumpkin Capital claims now open

By Kathleen Green
Reporter, Tazewell News

This time I've really done it, and it's not even my fault.

My brother, Casey, and one of his co-workers, David Carr, thought it would be fun to stir up a little controversy between their two hometowns, both of which take pride in their pumpkins. So they asked me to do a story on the topic of their dispute.

All I set out to write was an innocent little feature about the "other" Pumpkin Capital — Floydada, Texas — and to issue a mock challenge requiring the perpetrators of the proclamation to stand by their claim.

Unfortunately, I didn't know what my brother knew: Texans take their pumpkins very seriously.

The initial correspondence was friendly enough. Nick Scibona of the Morton Chamber of Commerce donated some pumpkin festival paraphernalia, as well as brochures and maps of our beloved hamlet. Floydada responded in kind, sending county facts, maps and regalia.

But that's where to comradeship ended and the combat began.

My pumpkin story was reprinted in the Floyd County Hesperian, along with a response by owner Ken Towery. Towery made it clear that Morton as a pumpkin power is, at best, a has-been, and that Floydada has already assumed the pumpkin capital title.

Nick Scibona, obligated to defend Morton's honor, noted to Towery that we're the Pumpkin Capital of the World — not just the U.S. He's a man of few words, but he got his point across and challenged Floydada to take the next shot.

So, now it's up to me to try to maintain peace between these two towns.

Thanks a lot, Dave and Casey. Fortunately, everyone involved knows this whole "war" is just for fun. Floydadans Alice Gilroy, Nettie Ruth Whittle and Richie Crow have been more than helpful to me and are enjoying the notoriety.

Annual Stock Show membership meeting set April 6

The meeting is open to everyone who purchased an individual or business membership from the 4-H or FFA sweethearts during the 1989 Floyd County Junior Livestock Show.

The purpose of the meeting will be to elect new directors and suggest changes to be made for the 1990 Stock Show. After the membership meeting, all directors will meet to discuss and finalize all changes to be implemented. This is your chance to voice your opinion and participate in directing the growth of our youth. The Floyd County Livestock Show Association appreciates your support and help of the young people of Floyd County.

Day Care board searching for quilt donation

The Floyd County Day Care board is seeking donation of a quilt to raffle off for Old Settlers Day. Do you know of anyone who has a nice quilt to donate to the Day Care for this purpose? This would be a tax exempt donation to a non-profit organization for the donor.

The Day Care needs some large kitchen appliances. The chance to sell donation tickets to the public would help the staff out there at Della Plains as well as provide the winner with an heirloom quality quilt.

If you know of anyone who has a quilt to donate to help the Floyd County Day Care, please call 983-3565.

Many women have discovered they can save money with State Farm Homeowners and Renters insurance.

Call me for details.

Residential burglary under investigation by local police

One residential burglary was reported by police this week. According to Police Chief James Hale, "Around 4:30 p.m., Sunday, March 26, a home in the 600 block of S. Main was burglarized.

"It is unknown at this time how much was lost, but stolen items include: color TV's, jewelry, a coin collection and assorted rifles and shotguns.

The burglars broke a window to gain entry into the house. The break-in was discovered by a member of the family.

Police also arrested two men last week for DWI. On March 19 at 6:00 p.m. Juan Esquivel Jr., 23, of Floydada, was stopped after failing to stop at a stop sign, driving down the center of the street and driving on both sides of the street.

Arturo Martinez, 34, of Floydada, was also arrested for DWI on March 26, after becoming involved in an accident at the 700 block of N. 2nd.

Accidents investigated by police last week were as follows:

On March 26 at 8:25 p.m. in the 700 block of N. 2nd, a Fairmont Station

Wagon (vehicle #1) and an Olds Cutlass Cierra (vehicle #2) were both traveling north on 2nd Street, with vehicle #1 behind #2. Vehicle #2 attempted to turn left into a private drive when vehicle #1 crossed the double yellow line to pass #2 on the left. Vehicle #1 hit vehicle #2 on the left side. There were no injuries and both cars were driven away.

On March 23 police received a report from a woman who had found the right side of her car caved in and did not know where the car had been parked when it was hit. The vehicle, a Chevrolet Monza, was parked in the 700 block of Thornton at the time the owner discovered the damage, but there was no debris at that scene.

On March 25, at 7:05 p.m. in the 800 block of West Mississippi, a Chevrolet Impala was westbound on Mississippi when it struck a Chevrolet Silverado pickup that was legally parked. Police stated that the sun probably blinded the driver's vision and she did not see the truck parked.

Carl Lemons' News and Views from Cedar Hill

WEATHER

Written for publication on March 23: We are caught in no-mans-land between the forces of winter and summer. We have endured the crossfire as the invader from the south mounted attack after attack on the stubbornly resisting forces of winter. The 96 degrees of a few days back struck winter a telling blow, but winter will still get in a few good licks.

Nature's early-bloomers, cliff-hangers like the elms, the maples, the almonds, the apricots, and peaches, have watched the battle with eager interest. On Thursday, March 16, unable to restrain longer, many apricot trees burst into bloom. The following day peach blossoms were seen.

When has winter failed to strike back and claim a percentage of the apricot crop? Freezes will come again, you can depend on it. Already, on Saturday night, the temperature dropped to 33 degrees and hung there for hours.

On Monday, March 20, the calendar called it the Vernal Equinox, the sun began to rise and set on the north side of our east-west boundaries thereby entering the battle on the side of the south. So now, the winter of '89, with less hours of darkness in which to recuperate, will make further desperation forays, will do us further damage, but it is mortally wounded, dying but dangerous.

If our stratosphere watchers are right, and the fluorocarbons have actually gnawed holes in the ozone blanket that filters our sunlight, winter may be closer to death than we think. It might be a smart thing to hurry some corn, taters, and english peas into the ground comes Good Friday. If there is truth in the fluorocarbon theory, this coming summer could turn out to be hotter'n hot.

Update for March 30: I can make no apology for last week's News and Views colliding head on with the Easter season. At that particular time of year purchases of add-space, aided and abetted by the ladies responsible for the arrangement and content of local newspapers, join in quite a scramble for a spotlight position in the media. Under such circumstances, even when the timing is perfect, ordinary freight like the News and Views often gets side-tracked into a "hold for a later date" area. N&V was late last week due to a genetical misalignment. Countermeasures are being developed. The future will be brighter.

Equinox and Spring brought a brief, bitter blizzard with two 18 degree mornings and snow. Very few apricot buds survived the cold, but only a small percentage of the peach potential was killed. Apples are still undamaged, but keep those fingers crossed. Winter is dying but still dangerous.

CROP COMMENTS

Cotton News: Many cotton fields have already been listed, their ditches are cut and ready for pumps to start. Herbicide incorporation is continuing on dry land, but is nearly complete. Some herbicide is being withheld, the plan being to apply caparol or some other planting-time chemical.

Update: The cold snap sold a lot of anti-freeze. Many a nervous irrigator was out adding more full-strength protection to his radiators.

CRP News Update: Many people, worried if burned-over CRP acres would come back or would cover have to be re-established and the seeding be done all over again. Much new growth has been observed on those plots that were seeded to our old native grasses, and it appears, except for a mild setback, those stands are none the worse. The well established stands of taller growing clump grasses which appeared doubtful have now sprouted and permanent damage to all varieties appears minimal.

Many rural residents are concerned over the hazard to their homes that has been presented by the acres that have been seeded to CRP grasses. Once these stands have been fully established, there will be vast areas of solid grass-land the likes of which Floyd County has not been seen since the turn of the century. In those days grass fires swept across the plains for miles and they were the greatest dread of the early settlers. To worry today is a valid concern, and groups, as well as individuals, should begin to formulate plans to protect themselves and their property from the conflagrations which are sure to occur. There is danger today, but danger will be compounded by 1991-92 when present stands have thickened and new stands have been established. At that time, when fires do break out, there will be major fire breaks as the fires encounter fields which are still being cropped, but some of the introduced grasses are taller than the native grasses of 90 years ago.

The new grasses will burn more violently and their flames will jump greater distances than those of the old time grasses.

Many of the older residents, faced with retirement, and higher insurance rates, will give thought to moving their rural homes to the protection and other accommodations afforded by urban locations.

Saga of the barley seeding: Continued from last week! Before noon, Tuesday, Edna Gilly scrounged enough home-owned seed to start the barley drills rolling. That same morning the inbound seed truck was repaired in Tulsa and by noon there was ample seed at Cedar. When tractor lights were turned off Wednesday night the designated acres had been finished. Update: The next Tuesday snow covered the ground and by Saturday many sprouted seed were found. Rain on both Sunday and Monday added another inch of moisture! Barley's present problem? Bugs and weeds.

When Toby moved to fight fire last week he "fished" not "finished" his shovel out of the pickup.

Wheat Update: A deadly combination of the nearly invisible spider mites, weeds, and dry weather has taken a terrible toll on some fields of precinct three wheat. More and more of the operators have sprayed while others have decided the prospects too poor to justify more expense.

It has been years since beneficial insects have been present in such numbers, in fact it appears there are too few harmful insects to feed them. It is regrettable that spraying also destroys our friends.

Some fields checked a week ago were hard-tromped, were grazed-into-the-ground patches whose owners had decided that the return from cattle pasture would outweigh the value of harvest.

Other fields still look good enough to be bragged about even on a wet year. These better fields were sprayed with an insecticide/herbicide mix before the end of 1988, and small dead spots can be seen where coverage was missed. That spraying saved those patches!

All fields checked had this in common: 1. A scarcity of harmful insects, 2. A high population of predators, 3. Rapidly expanding root systems, and 4. Approximately one inch rain just fallen, and the sound of thunder in the distance.

Vegetable News: Floyd County onions began going into the ground Tuesday, 3-14. About one third of the county's expected crop was set the last five days of that week. Monday's temperature drop and the ensuing snow will create a significant difference in the age of the fields already set and those that follow. Update: Another 70 acres were set the week before Easter making 50% of the expected crop in the ground. That will string out the harvest increasing chances that either the early or the late crop will hit a better market. According to county figures this year's crop will only be 60% of the 1988 acreage. The United States crop will be 40% below 1988 production if the nation follows the Floyd County trend. That could translate into very satisfactory prices at harvest time.

CATTLE AND HAY COMMENTS: Public Beware! Cattle hazard! "They'd walk a mile for a bite of greens! applies to Floyd County cattle at this time. Cattle tracks on dirt roads and short grazed vegetation in the barrow-pits testify that our cattle still think "it is greener on the other side of the fence". Sunday afternoon Toby had to slow down and thread his way through two separate bunches, 18 head total, of "eminent domain" cattle. Toby has a soft spot for both cattle and ranchers, he looked at the sparse grazing across the fence and said, "I would'a broke out'a there too!" He ended his dissertation with, "Ain't nothin' wrong here but what a good soakin' rain would really fix it!" Cattle hazard! Public Beware!

Being a hay broker would be rough just now. One of those big March/April blowing snows could make hay worth $50 per round bale, but that "good soakin' rain" Toby was hoping for, would drop prices so much a broker would have trouble giving hay away.

Hay that was definitely for sale a week ago is now being offered with much less enthusiasm. The home herd may run short.

More cattle were brought to the Floydada Livestock Auction than was expected a week ago, a whopping 1500. Numbers for the next few sales are expected to revert to the average, somewhere below 1000 head.

PEOPLE

Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry visited with Clara Mize in the Floydada hospital Saturday 3/18. Clara had been hospitalized following a fall but nothing was broken. She still had some bruises, but was expecting to be released that day. George will be at home until the company he works for completes a remodeling project.

Monday 3/20, Lindsey and Billie Ruth Lackey returned home from a trip to Wichita, Kansas, with their daughter Kim Mixon. Kim and Kelly are prospecting for a location near the aircraft factory where Kelly works.

Junior and Martha Taylor returned Monday, 3/20, from their annual trek to Irving, Texas, where they helped grandson Nick Joiner celebrate his ninth birthday. Their sister-in-law, Mae Taylor, came back with them. She will visit relatives in this area until time for her next medical check-up sometime in April.

The congregation at Cedar Hill's Assembly of God Church have great plans for Easter Sunday. A dinner will be served and somewhere in the itinerary time has been set for an Easter egg hunt. The pastor's sermon will be scaled to fit the needs of some 100 listeners and he suggests that food arrangements be planned accordingly. The public is invited! Bring a dish and be there.

Update: There were 47 people present at the time of the regular Sunday morning count and more kept arriving as services progressed. An estimated 67 persons enjoyed the fellowship, and much food was returned to community coolers. The egg hunt was thoroughly enjoyed by the children and before long the group settled in for an afternoon of singing. Around three o'clock the people were sung down, it was announced night services would be dismissed, and the crowd dispersed. Shortly after the people reached their homes, nature crowned the day with the greatest blessing of all, a summer shower in March.

A potential singer or two were lured away from the songfest by the siren-song of their irrigation motors. Now Monday's heavy showers have sent an equal amount of water cascading out of the low end of their fields. O wist ye not that poetic justice lives on forever?

And what happens to the leftovers from a size 100 sermon when less than 70 listeners show up? Layman's logic surmises that some of the less consecrated may have absorbed a double portion, however an answer from one with better access to the great storehouse of celestial wisdom would be much preferred.

Edna Gilly joined her mother, Ruthie Clark, her daughter, Deliece and granddaughters, Cassandra and Christi, Harrison for lunch in Plainview, Saturday. Update: Deliece, Cassandra, and Christi attended church at Cedar with Edna Easter Sunday.

From the grapevine comes news that Leah Lackey and Lori Gilly have joined the nine to five work force. Leah at the Floydada Tax Assessor's office and Lori at Floydada Co-op Gins, respectively.

A telephone conversation with Gene Hammit in Holly, Colorado, tells of dry conditions, blowing dust, rough times in wheat country.

Royce Bethel and daughters, Shelly and Jaymie of Farwell, Texas visited with Lindsey and Billie Ruth Lackey on Saturday 3/25.

Monday 3/27. Many Cedar Hill residents attended the last rites for Laquita Wesley, at 2 p.m. at the First Assembly of God in Plainview. Burial was in Plainview Memorial Park under the direction of Lemons Funeral Home. Mrs. Wesley, 49, was a Baptist, and a niece by marriage of Junior and George Taylor.

She is survived by her husband Waldo Wesley, a daughter Mrs. Don (Tammy) Williams of Plainview, two sons Bruce Wesley, pastor of the White Oak Baptist Church in Houston, and Hal Wesley of Plainview. Mrs. Wesley was an area representative with the Federal Crop Insurance Program for many years and was known by many agricultural producers in the Texas Panhandle.

Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry were in Lubbock, Monday 3/27, to be with his sister, Mary Ann Tucker, who underwent extensive heart-related tests at St. Mary's Hospital. Doctors were surprised at finding very little wrong with Mary Ann's circulatory system. She remains at St. Mary's while further studies of her tests are being made.

Life at the Max Yeary's is returning to normal. There was a doctor's restriction on Vikki's driving for a time, and she abided by it religiously. Mrs. Hinkle was chauffeur until she had to return to Stamford, then mother-in-law Wilma filled in for a time. Now the breaking of rules is not Vikki's forte, but eventually some emergency arose and she felt compelled to take the wheel; she became an outXXX violator. Luckily the Dr. removed her restrictions in a day or so thereby restoring her status to that of an honest woman. Max says Vikki got terribly behind on making her circuits while in the hospital. So, if you get passed by a station wagon with smoking axles it is probably Vikki gaining back-hose lost miles. She will be caught up soon and life at the Max Yeary's will be back to normal.

Thrilling things often lie all around us, if we'll only stop and look.

South Plains News

By Ruby Lee Higginbotham

Old Man Winter handed us a nasty slap on the first day of Spring 1989, high freezing winds and bone-chilling temperatures seemed more like mid-winter than spring. Some of the fruit trees were beginning to bloom, the freeze did quite a bit of damage to the peaches, apricots, plums and some grapes. Springtime and beautiful weather were just a couple of days behind schedule. The trees are greening and some flowers are blooming, giving us the incentive to be outside working in gardens and yards. The farmers are very busy watering and making preparation for the planting season. We have been hoping for a good rain. Today, March 27, we are getting rain. Everyone will feel good and we are grateful for it.

Some of our neighbor children have been confined to their homes the past couple of week with the chicken pox. Kids! Isn't that a lousy excuse for missing school? I hope everyone is back in school and feeling great.

Brit and Shea Higginbotham visited last weekend in South Plains, with their grandmother, Ruby Lee Higginbotham.

This Easter Sunday was a beautiful day. Attendance in South Plains Church was up. As most of the home folks had their families and friends at home for the special day, Easter is such a special time. Everyone seems happy with a sense of renewed hope and excitement, especially the little children. Easter time is a great season.

Jerry, Darla and B. J. Chappell of Duncan, Oklahoma were weekend guests of their parents, the Ozell Chappells of Floydada, and the Grigsby Miltons of South Plains. The Chappells were visitors in South Plains Church, with Darla's parents Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby Milton.

Harold and Mildred Hamm enjoyed having two of their daughters and children in their home last week: Arlene Burk and Aaron from Dallas and Jeneva Huff and children, Duane and Marlaina, of Amarillo. Kevin Staples returned to Amarillo with the Huffs for a few days' visit. Anelda went to Amarillo Saturday and returned home with Kevin Sunday afternoon.

The Fine Arts Center in Plainview was the scene of Arts in March Activities, where Miss Victoria Cummings was featured in a piano recital. Victoria played two selections. She is the daughter of Kelvin and Jalene Cummings.

Troy Johnson, along with the Smith family, Eddie, Jenni Sue, and their son Eric, took advantage of spring break for a ski trip to Purgatory, Colorado. The group drove up Wednesday and back home Saturday. Troy had the time of his life. All reported a wonderful trip and experience.

Travis and Gladys Jones hosted Easter dinner and an afternoon of visiting with their family and friends. Those present were: Joe, Ann, Jurahee and Tate, Jay, Laurel and Travis, Jon and Karen, Nathan, Connie, Tracy and Troy Johnson, Everett and Maggie Perry. Also Dr. Charles Vraig, Alice Baker, Jerry, Sherry, and Paige Cannon, Marty and Sherese Covington.

Carlton, Diane, Tanner, Carson and Velvet Johnson enjoyed Easter Sunday with Diane's parents Mr. and Mrs. Byron Ford. The Johnson kids and their cousins enjoyed an Easter egg hunt in the afternoon.

Sterling and Gleyne Earle Cummings were in San Antonio last week on business. They visited in Lampasas with her sister and husband, James, and Lynon Preston. From there on to Pflugerville and a visit with their son, John, and family. After their time in San Antonio and on their way home, they stopped off in Pflugerville to find John with a broken elbow and not feeling very well. Guess that is part of the price of a good basketball player and athlete.

South Plains Baptist Church will dismiss both morning and evening services on April 16. The Flomot Church will be in revival and our pastor, Tom Fisher, will be leading the music and South Plains congregation has been invited to attend Flomot services. Nathan Mulder is the pastor and will be doing the preaching.

Ruby Higginbotham accompanied Nina Upton to Slaton Sunday for dinner and a visit with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Karl (and Bonnie) Craig. After the bountiful meal, everyone went outside to watch the children scamper about looking for Easter eggs. Those who enjoyed the occasion were: Rance Craig and Dana Fannin from Waco; Karla Lovelady and children, Jenay and Jason, of Lubbock; Sellie Camp and children, Mandy, Marshal, and Melody, of Slaton; and Cindy, Sarah, Kelly, and Gent Grush from Colorado Springs. Cindy is the sister-in-law of Karla. Karl and Bonnie are great host and hostess. They really enjoy their family, especially the five grandchildren. Thank you, Bonnie and Karl, for a lovely day.

Kendis, Janis, and Tim Julian have been enjoying a visit this week with relatives from Davies, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Bob (and Billie) Jackson and Boys, Bobbie and Chad. Billie is a cousin of Kendis. She is the daughter of the late Clifford Julian and Mrs. Carla Julian. The Jacksons went to Lubbock Thursday evening. Saturday, the Julians and Jacksons went to Lubbock for the air show. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, Grace, Stephen, Clay, and Wade Julian from Perryton joined the group for an afternoon at the show and shopping for the ladies. John and Kristi Robinson of Lubbock also joined the family for the evening dinner at the County Line.

The Julians, Jacksons, and Robinsons were visitors with Kendis and Janis for church in South Plains Easter Sunday.

The Jacksons drove up to Perryton by way of Canyon to go through the museum. Then by way of Palo Duro on to Perryton to the Bruce Julians. They will be leaving South Plains Thursday for their home in Davies, Florida.

Mamie Wood, along with her sons, Glen and Pat, have thoroughly enjoyed a wonderful visit with nieces, nephews, and cousins. They are children of Mamie's sisters. The late Jo Harley and the late Buster and Ruth Dunham. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Dick (and Janet) Bremmer and Gary Hailey from Littleton and Aurora Colorado flew into Amarillo and were met by the Dunhams. Then on to South Plains and Mamie's. Others present were Bell, Shari, Lexie and Leslie Dunham, Darrell Dunham, and Bob Dunham, all of Amarillo, and Micky Dunham and son, Todd, from Monohans. Pat and Glen entertained the family Saturday evening with dinner and a time of visiting. Guests with Mamie for Easter dinner were the Bremmers, Gary Hailey, and Bill, Sharee, Lexie, and Leslie Dunham.

Dean and Pat Stewart were hosts for an Easter get-together of family and friends. A vountiful lunch was served to the 24 guests. After lunch everyone went over to a field of wheat and enjoyed the children's Easter egg hunt. Pat and Dean had their daughters, Teresa and Robie Lutrick, and granddaughters, Tessa, Tobi, and Eran. Ann Hartman enjoyed visiting with five grandchildren. Dean cooked steaks and hamburgers for the evening meal. A great time was enjoyed by all.

South Plains invites all visitors to visit with us anytime, enjoy church services, fellowship, and a fun time with family and friends.

What a great week this has been. Have a happy new week.

Parents should monitor child's TV habit

Recent research on young adult males who watch graphically violent videos indicates that continued exposure resulted in more acceptance of violence in the real world. Although there is little conclusive data on how violent films or programming impact younger children, a Texas Christian University psychologist says there's little doubt in his mind that they can be adversely affected.

"It's very difficult to conduct this type of research on minors, so the evidence concerning the effect of violent programming on young children is not conclusive," stated Dr. David Cross. "However, the Society for Research and Child Development has taken an official position against allowing children to watch violent television."

The highly impressionable nature of young children is one reason many experts have adopted this stand on violent programming for children, noted Cross.

It's important for parents to get involved and to monitor what their children are watching, added Cross. Getting involved often makes it possible to turn even negative viewing material into a positive learning experience for the child.

Farm Bureau votes to support change

Texas Farm Bureau voting delegates overwhelmingly voted to support a change in the leadership of the Texas Department of Agriculture, and said they prefer that the elected Commissioner of Agriculture be replaced by an agricultural commission.

This reflects a change from former TFB policy which called for an elected Commissioner of Agriculture.

The policy change, adopted by 790 voting delegates representing 142 Texas counties at a special called meeting here March 20, reads as follows: "We support a change in the leadership of the Texas Department of Agriculture to be replaced by an agricultural commission."

According to Warren Newberry, executive director of the TFB, the issue was the role and future of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"How is it to be administered?" he asked. "Is it to be fair? Is it to waste taxpayers' money, creating and running a political movement? Or is it to serve as a regulatory agency to carry out laws fairly for all citizens of the state and to serve as an advocate within state government for farmers and ranchers?"

The delegates took a little over an hour to resolve the issue. Although there was discussion on whether a commission should be appointed or elected, there was no movement made to hold onto the policy of an elected commissioner.

"I feel like this has been a significant day not only in the history of Texas Farm Bureau but for Texas agriculture and possibly for the state of Texas," TFB president S. M. True said. "I think we have a problem and we're working towards solving that problem."

True said TFB will work with other agricultural organizations, Texas Governor Bill Clements' staff and the Texas Legislature to effect this change of policy.

Letter to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

The cynical effort of the Farm Bureau and the Chemical lobby to drastically alter the method and manner of governance of the Texas Department of Agriculture is a crime against the people of Texas.

Jim Hightower is a man willing to make powerful enemies. He has taken on Agri-business, the chemical industry and the federal government and won battle after battle on behalf of Texas family farmers, farm workers and the consumer. For this courage these powerful forces have attacked not Jim Hightower, but the right of the people to elect their governmental representatives. Using the Sunset Law, a device designed to take politics out of the bureaucracy and to encourage efficiency in government, these forces are trying to strip the Agriculture Department of pesticide regulatory control, and to replace the right of the people to elect the Agriculture Commissioner with an appointive board.

As the current crisis in the insurance, Savings and Loan, and public utility industries will attest, the merit of regulation by appointive board is of dubious value. True responsibility comes only with accountability directly to the people through elective referendum. We should have more elective offices, not less, if we want truly responsible, accountable public servants.

I would call on citizens to voice their concern over this blatant attempt to strip our rights to elect our state officials away from us. Write the Governor, your State Representative and State Senator, and to the local newspaper voicing your desire to see the Commissioner of the Texas Department of Agriculture remain an elective position. As Jim Hightower often says, it is time to "raise less corn and more hell."

Sincerely,
Bob Bass

$500 reward is being offered

A $500.00 reward is being offered by Jim Simpson for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for stealing his 413 Chrysler irrigation engine from his farm, located four miles south and 1-3/4 miles west of Floydada on Highway 37, early Monday, March 20.

According to Sheriff's Deputy Ellis Butler, either late Sunday night (March 19) or early Monday morning (March 20) the irrigation engine was stolen from the Simpson farm and also a 413 Chrysler irrigation engine was stolen from the Kim Hinsley farm. The farms are adjacent to each other.

"We would appreciate any calls from people who may have seen something suspicious in that area around that time." People with information on the thefts need to call Crime Line at 983-5200.

"We also want people to be aware that several thefts of irrigation pipes and hydrants have occurred in Floyd, Hale, Briscoe and surrounding counties."

To discourage theft, authorities ask owners to mark their pipes with paint or stencil their names on them. Also, it is very important to be aware it is going on and to report anything you see that may be suspicious.

Friday meeting set for task force

The Barky Cotton Task Force will hold its annual task force/producer meeting on Friday, April 7, 1989, at 9:00 a.m., in room 108 of the Lubbock, Texas, Civic Center.

In Texas alone, the number of barky bales has averaged over one million annually since 1981. The loss to Texas growers has exceeded $20 million in some years.

Seeking to help organize a sharply focused program that would reduce the losses suffered by growers due to barky grades, the leadership of Plains Cotton Growers approached Cotton Incorporated for assistance. Organized at the Beltwide Cotton Conferences in 1986, the goal of the task force is the elimination of bark as a cotton problem.

In an effort to respond to priorities of those growers most affected by bark, the task force recently conducted a survey to identify priorities to which the task force resources should be devoted.

These priorities as well as ongoing research projects concentrating on the problem of barky cotton will be discussed at the April meeting which is open to all growers.

For further information, contact Dr. Bill Lalor, Cotton Incorporated at 1-919-782-6330.

Pesticide threat on apples is misleading

Amid continuing controversy about the health threat of pesticide residue in apples, the Texas Commissioner of Health has said that much of the information being offered the public has been, "at worst, misleading, and at best, incomplete."

Dr. Robert Bernstein has said that the strictly regulated use of Alar (chemical name, daminozide), until its federally scheduled discontinuance on July 31, 1990, should pose only "negligible risk" to consumers.

"I want to make it clear that the Texas Department of Health (TDH), as always, is deeply concerned about Texans' consumption of possibly hazardous food products. However, in view of all the evidence TDH has amassed, it appears that the public threat of Alar has been greatly exaggerated," Dr. Bernstein said.

Dr. Bernstein explained that much of the debate which led to the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) 1990 ban on Alar use on apples was spurred by public response to a report by the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC). In the report, the council stated that 90 percent of the pesticide-attributable cancer risk to children could be traced to Alar and one of its chemical constituents, UDMH. The report calculated risk levels 100 times higher than did a similar, but more thorough, EPA study.

"First of all, the NRDC calculations were based upon very rough estimates drawn from tests on animals," Dr. Bernstein said. "And second, the report's estimates of Alar's potency as a cancer cause were rejected by an independent scientific advisory panel as long ago as 1985.

"To be fair to the NRDC, I want to say that even though we feel its report was scientifically flawed, we agree with the council's general recommendations on how to improve food safety," Dr. Bernstein said.

The commissioner added, however, that he also agrees with the EPA's definition of "negligible risk." The term means that, while it may be impossible for anyone to avoid all risk of cancer from a given dietary source, any additive to a food source is unacceptable if it

Management needed to boost yields

Cotton lint yield declines which averaged about 10 pounds per acre per year have been reversed due to improved fertilization and better water management by High Plains producers.

Cotton yields nosedived from the 10-year average of 460 pounds per harvested acre in 1960-1969 to an average of 357 pounds in the 1970s. Cotton yields averaged 335 pounds per acre during the first half of the 1980s.

In 1985, Texas Tech University Agricultural Economist Don E. Ethridge conducted a study of fertilizer sales through time on the Texas High Plains. His research showed that fertilizer sales had declined significantly during the 20-year period from 1965 to 1985 and that the cotton lint yield decline probably was directly related to the decreased fertilizer use in the region.

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 and the USDA-Soil Conservation Service (USDA-SCS) conducted a regional soil fertility study in 1987 to determine if in fact fertility was limiting the crop yields.

"The results of this study revealed that the available nutrients in the soil, principally nitrogen and phosphorus, were adequate only in amounts to support the average yields being produced. Producers were notified by every means possible that they would have to improve their soil fertility to increase their crop yields," says Mike Risinger, Soil Scientist with the USDA-SCS.

Area cotton producers responded by improving their soil fertility programs. In 1987, a near-record yield of 493 pounds per harvested acre was produced. The regional soil fertility survey was conducted again in 1988, and it revealed that most of the applied nutrients were consumed by the 1987 bumper crop. Producers again worked to improve their soil fertility, and another near-record yield of about 480 pounds per harvested acre was produced in 1988.

The 1989 regional soil fertility study has just been completed with the collection of 186 soil samples from the plow layer of the soil at selected sites within the 15-county High Plains Water District service area. Again, nitrogen and phosphorus were found to be in such a short supply that yields will be limited to 300 to 350 pounds of lint if supplemental fertilizer is not added to the soil.

Soil fertility testing indicated that 80 percent, or 149 samples, showed low or very low nitrate nitrogen readings. The average available nitrate-nitrogen content for these samples was 23 pounds per acre. Risinger adds that this nitrogen level is far below the amount needed to support minimum acceptable yields for any major crop grown on the Texas High Plains.

Area soils require about 90 pounds of available nitrogen per acre to produce 80 bushels of corn, about 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre to produce 300 pounds of cotton lint, about 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre to produce 1,500 pounds of grain sorghum and about 50 pounds per acre to produce 20 bushels of wheat. Higher yield goals require even more nutrients.

Unless leaching occurs, most nitrogen applications are available to plants during that application year. Nitrogen is very soluble and moves with soil moisture. Large pre-plant nitrogen applications can be leached below the active plant root zone profile when heavy precipitation or a large irrigation follows the application.

"The most efficient nitrogen application can be achieved when producers begin with a pre-plant application based upon soil testing and then sidedress an additional five pounds of nitrogen per acre for each inch of water the plant receives through irrigation or rainfall. This will ensure the proper water-nutrient balance and will greatly improve the plant's water-use efficiency," says Risinger.

Approximately 62 percent, or 115 of the samples, indicated low or very low soil phosphorus levels. Soil fertility test results show the average P2O5 content in these samples to be 25 pounds per acre. This is considerably lower than the nutrient amounts required for minimum acceptable yields for the major crops grown in this region.

An 80 bushel corn crop yield requires about 60 pounds of available phosphorus, P2O5. About 30 pounds are required to produce 300 pounds of cotton lint and 28 pounds are needed to produce 1,500 pounds of grain sorghum. A 30 bushel wheat crop yield would require about 28 pounds of P2O5.

Workshop planned for cotton futures and options market

An intensive workshop to help cotton producers master a method for managing risks they face in marketing their crop will be held in Crosbyton April 11-12 at the Crosby County Library.

Twelve hours of detailed instruction on the cotton futures and options market will be presented by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. It will provide market updates as well as basic training in pricing alternatives available to farmers. The training will be from 9:00 a.m.

until 4:00 p.m. each day.

It will be taught by Dr. Carl Anderson, Extension Service cotton marketing specialist from College Station, and Dr. Jackie Smith, Extension Service marketing specialist from Lubbock.

Persons interested in the course may obtain registration information by telephoning Crosby County Extension Agent Darrell Dromgoole, (806) 675-2003. Deadline for registering is April 3. The $20.00 fee includes an extensive notebook of course materials.

The Crosbyton workshop will begin with an introduction to the futures market and the mechanics of hedging. This will be followed by a cotton market outlook report, an introduction of cotton options, and a comparison of available pricing alternatives, including hedging with options.

Hospital Happenings

By Molly Stringer

Things have been fairly quiet around the hospital the past few days. No one wants to be sick during spring break.

Nell McClung enjoyed a trip to San Angelo this past weekend to visit her family.

The Board of Directors met for their regular monthly meeting last Thursday evening. Those attending were: Don Bean, Joy Assiter, Fred Thayer and Melba Vickers. Others attending were Leroy Schaffner, Nell McClung, Molly Stringer, Steve Grappe and Carl Hittle, who is training at Methodist Hospital.

We have three Board members whose terms are up this year. It is our hope that all will run for re-election. Members whose terms are up this year are Don Bean, Joy Assiter and William Bertrand. These folks have done a good job this past year. We encourage you to ask our directors about the hospital. They will be glad that you are interested and want you in the community to have knowledge of what is happening at the hospital. This board needs your support and encouragement.

We have not been able to come up with a solution at the present time to offer mammograms at our hospital. We have contacted Dr. Garvish in Plainview and he will extend a special rate to Floydada ladies. The cost is $45.00. This must be paid when the mammogram is done and no insurance claims will be filed by his office, but you may file your own. Date for this rate is April 17-28. For appointment call 293-4231. Dr. Garvish's office is located at 2404 Yonkers in Plainview. We hope soon to have a contract with Methodist Hospital to come over to our hospital and do mammograms at least one day a month.

CANCER TIP

Include cruciferous vegetables in your diet. Certain vegetables in this family - cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi and cauliflower - may help prevent certain cancers from developing. Research is in progress to determine what is in these foods that may protect against cancer.
