

210 OF THEM Swallows New Record Of Goldfish

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 19-year-old college student from Texas has managed to make his mark without picketing, protesting, sitting in or shouting slogans. He simply swallowed a lot of goldfish — 210 of them to be exact.

While many of his colleagues at colleges and universities from coast to coast were demonstrating for a variety of causes, Charles Winfield put on his own exhibition Thursday.

During an hour and 40-minute period, Winfield, a sophomore at St. Mary's University, in San Antonio, swallowed one after another of the live fish while about 200 cheering students and faculty members looked on.

University officials — probably relieved at not being asked to relinquish control of the school — claimed his feat was a world's record. They said the previous record was 199, set in 1966 by a student at St. Francis College in Philadelphia.

The 145-pound youth managed to down the first 100 fish with ease. Observers noted, however, that he appeared slightly ill when he reached the 180-fish point.

Lion Mauls Tot

LA MARQUE, Tex. (AP) — A lion mauled Chris Cotter, 2, painfully while he was playing in the garage at his home Thursday, police reported.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cotter, suffered multiple lacerations on the head, face and neck and a puncture wound in the chest.

Attendants said he underwent surgery for a partly collapsed lung at Galveston County Memorial Hospital. His condition was described as satisfactory today.

Officers said the lion escaped while being kept in the yard of Prescott Dejean.

Police Sgt. Dossie Green said he received a report of a lion loose in the neighborhood but Mrs. Dejean had chained the animal and locked it up before he arrived.

No one else in the neighborhood knew the Cotter child had been injured because his mother quickly took him to the hospital in the family car, the sergeant said.

Green said the lion is being transferred to the Lufkin zoo and will be observed for 10 days to determine if it is rabid.

OVER 200 DEAD Market Strafed

UMUOHIAQU, Biafra (AP) — A crowded open market in this Biafran village was bombed and strafed Thursday, causing what may be one of the worst civilian casualty tolls of the Nigerian civil war.

Local officials estimated that between 200 and 300 persons were killed outright and hundreds more wounded.

Five hours after the noon raid, sturdy youths followed by wailing relatives were still carrying the dead along dusty trails in the bush to their homes.

Kills Pregnant Wife

TYLER (AP) — Police said a disassembled rifle in the hands of Wade Robinson, 21, discharged and the bullet killed his pregnant wife, Teresa Ann, 20, at their home Thursday night.

Robinson had taken the .22-caliber rifle apart and was carrying his wife's name on the stock, he told officers. They quoted him as saying the weapon fired as he was turning to warn Mrs. Robinson it was loaded.

Leaves 109 Dead

TOKYO (AP) — Storms which swept parts of Japan and vast expanses of Asian seas this week left at least 109 persons dead or missing in shipwrecks, a plane crash and tragedy on land.

Deserters Accepted

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish Aliens Commission granted another 10 deserters from the U.S. armed forces asylum in Sweden today for "humanitarian reasons."

A commission spokesman said that since the flow of deserters to Sweden started, 217 have been granted Swedish citizenship, 175 have been granted asylum, 19 have been turned down for various reasons and some 10 cases are being investigated.

ANTIBIOTIC PILL COST 1.6 CENTS, SOLD FOR 51 CENTS

Drug Firms Agree To Pay Recovery

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas will receive its largest anti-trust recovery, $4.5 million, if it accepts an offer by five drug firms that allegedly conspired to mark up an antibiotic pill 3,000 per cent.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin told a news conference Thursday that this was Texas' share of a $120 million offer by the firms.

In addition, private hospitals and individuals may enter claims showing purchases of tetracycline, an antibiotic drug, between 1953 and the end of 1966, Martin said.

A New York federal court convicted three of the drug companies on anti-trust charges 14 months ago. The convictions have been appealed.

Texas filed a civil action against all five companies in August, 1967, three months before the convictions. New York City filed the first civil suit about two weeks before Texas. After that, numerous suits were filed, including ones by some 30 states.

Martin said the offer contained six pages of fine print and he had not had time to evaluate it, but on the basis of what he had seen, "I think we will accept it."

The state Board of Control purchased $703,000 worth of the drug during the 14 years when it cost as much as 51 cents a pill. Production cost was 1.6 cents a pill.

Martin said the breakdown on who gets how much was not yet known. Public hospitals will get their share through his office, Martin said.

The state's share, whatever it turns out to be, will go into the general revenue fund, he said.

Texas asked for $3 million in damages when it filed the suit, Martin said, but at that time they did not have complete information in the case.

Martin said about 60 per cent of the public hospitals in the state cooperated. These represented about 80 per cent of the money spent by public hospitals on the drug.

The three convicted firms are American Cyanamid, Bristol Myers and Charles Pfizer and Co. The other two are Upjohn Co. and Squibb Beech-Nut Inc.

The five companies said in their statement that they remain convinced that they have not violated the antitrust laws. They believe that in the field of broad spectrum antibiotics they have contributed greatly to the public health.

They said they had concluded it was in "the best interests" of their stockholders to settle the suits now because further litigation might burden the companies for years.

Under the settlement proposal, the five firms would pay $100 million to pay all current and future claims from states, counties, cities, wholesalers, retailers and individual consumers.

They would put up another $20 million to settle claims from private hospitals and claimants, such as hospital plans, that have made reimbursements on tetracycline purchases.

Derailed Train Burns

Rescuers attempting to help passengers on lead cars of derailed Southern Aurora passenger train are held back by still burning wreckage today. The cars are strewn alongside tracks at Violet Town, Victoria, Australia. Portion of the freight train involved in the head-on collision in which at least 10 died, may be seen still on track at right.

Aussie Train Wreck Kills 10

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Railway officials tonight said 10 passengers were killed today when the Sydney-Melbourne streamliner express roared into a freight train and burst into flames 104 miles northeast of Melbourne.

Railway officials told police earlier they feared as many as 20 passengers might have been trapped in one sleeping car that was telescoped and burned, and a total of 28 might be dead. But a 12-hour search of the wreckage produced no more bodies, and people earlier reported missing were calling in to police throughout the day. Officials said they believed the final toll was 10 dead.

More than 100 of the 190 passengers were injured, about 20 of them seriously. It was Australia's worst rail accident in 60 years.

Witness Testifies He Saw Oswald With Shaw, Ferrie

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A one-time civil rights worker told the jury at Clay L. Shaw's conspiracy trial he saw Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie together.

The testimony by Corrie C. Collins of Baton Rouge was the highlight of opening testimony Thursday as the prosecution hammered at a major defense position.

Shaw is accused of conspiring with Oswald, Ferrie and others to murder President John F. Kennedy.

SURPRISE

Over defense objections, Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock made no attempt to first lay the foundation for the charge. Instead, he opened the case by summoning five surprise witnesses.

Collins, the fifth to testify, insisted he saw Shaw, Oswald and Ferrie in Clinton, La., in "late August, or early September" of 1963.

Shortly before, in his opening statement, chief defense lawyer F. Irvin Dymond had told the criminal district court jury that:

"It is our intention to prove to you that not only did Clay Shaw not engage in conspiracy, but that he never knew nor laid eyes on either Oswald or Ferrie."

In opening, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison told the jury the state would show the President "was struck by a number of bullets coming from different guns at different locations—thus showing that more than one person was shooting at the President."

POSTAL WORKER

Collins is a plump, postal worker with a mustache. In 1963, he was head of the Clinton chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, which was pushing a voter registration drive.

One day, he said, a big black car pulled up and parked near him as he was standing outside the door to the voter registrar's office.

Collins said a man he later recognized as Oswald stepped from the back seat.

He next pointed out Shaw, sitting at the defense table flanked by four lawyers, as the man he saw behind the steering wheel. He identified a photograph of Ferrie as the man who was sitting next to Shaw.

Asked when he concluded that the man he had seen was Oswald, he replied that he recognized him from a picture after the assassination.

"Were you aware the Warren Commission was conducting an extensive investigation of the assassination?" Dymond asked.

"I was aware."

"At the time you knew you had seen Lee Harvey Oswald in Clinton. Did you report it?"

"No."

"Why?"

"No one asked me."

"How could anyone ask you if they didn't know about it?"

SHRUGGED

Collins shrugged. "If they wanted to know they could just ask me," he replied.

Jet, Small Plane Brush In Mishap

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) —

The pilot of a private plane suffered multiple lacerations but all 55 persons aboard a Trans-Texas jet airliner escaped injury as the two aircraft brushed together in flight Thursday night.

Officials said William Sandlin, 28, of Harlingen, was practicing landings and the commercial craft was setting down at 10:30 p.m. for its next to last stop on a flight to McAllen.

DESTROYED

Sandlin's single-engine Piper Cherokee 140 was destroyed. The accident happened about 400 feet off the ground, and the Trans-Texas DC-9 apparently escaped with minor damage near the tail section.

Attendants reported Sandlin was in fair to good condition today at Valley Baptist Hospital. The airliner was Trans-Texas' flight 919. Passengers bound for McAllen finished their journey by taxicab.

Capt. Leon J. Hassler, Trans-Texas senior pilot with 21 years experience, headed the crew. With him were first officer John Murray and two hostesses, Mrs. Douglas Fletcher and Barbara Harmon. All are from Houston.

"We knew we hit something because there was such an awful racket," said Dallas Lee, associate editor of the Baptist Home Missions magazine.

Lee, of Atlanta, said he was seated in the tail section of the DC-9 jet airliner when it was involved in the collision in the air.

"We were just lucky," he added.

Lee, a native of San Antonio, said officials from Trans-Texas Airways took the passengers out of the terminal area and would not tell anyone what had happened. He said he was not sure what the plane had struck until he talked with a newsman the next morning. "But, I knew we hit something," he said.

Fresh Storms Rake Parts Of Southern California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mudslides and tornado-like winds, packing snow and rain struck California again in some areas still trying to recover from January's destructive storms.

Winds that reached hurricane force ripped roofs from houses, shattered windows and disrupted power and telephone service Thursday in such areas as Redwood City in the north and Inglewood near Los Angeles.

Los Angeles got its 14th day of rain in a 25-day period and giant mudslides again cascaded down on the suburb of Glendora and other foothill areas. Fifteen homes had to be evacuated and one of those who fled, Patricia Murphy, lamented:

"I just finished cleaning up from the previous storm or five inches of mud in my house."

Winds hitting 72 miles an hour hit Oceanside—ripping roofs of a nursery and an unoccupied house. Many roads were reported washed out.

Heavy snowfall was reported in Southern California's San Bernardino and San Gabriel Mountains and some roads were closed.

A snowslide stalled and partially buried a 99-car Southern Pacific freight train 13 miles west of Donner Summit in the Sierras of Northern California. Snowplows freed the train, which had 21 cars buried.

Young Robbers Pretty Good Guys

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two young robbers provided bar and room service for their victim in a Houston suburb. F. N. Hendrick told West University police he was robbed by two "dirty and long-haired" youths at his home.

The robbers tied up Hendrick, then collected two diamond rings and two watches, the victim said. As they started to leave, Hendrick told them:

"Young men, I am 75 years old. All of this makes me nervous. I could sure stand a drink." The youths went into the kitchen, found a bottle containing Hendrick's favorite brand, and poured him a stiff drink before they disappeared.

Baghdad, the executions were condemned or deplored by the U.S. and British governments, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, Pope Paul VI and a number of newspapers in Europe and the United States.

The executions also apparently did not meet with favor among Iraq's nominal allies in the other Arab governments. The Iraqi government complained that the propaganda machines of the other Arab governments did not defend it as they should against the blasts of condemnation from abroad.

Iraq had announced Jan. 31 that 13 more Jews would be put on trial soon in the government's continuing campaign against espionage.

At least 120 Jews have been reported in jail in the widening Iraqi espionage probe, and the increasing friction between Israel and Iraq has made life more difficult for Iraqi Jews.

PRESSURES

AP correspondent Dennis Neeld reported from Baghdad this week that business firms are being pressured to fire Jewish employees, and most Jews are convinced they are under constant surveillance.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's president says no more Jews are awaiting trial on spy charges in Baghdad, the Egyptian Middle East News Agency reported today.

The agency said President Ahmad Hassan el Bakr told a news conference Thursday that all those facing spy charges are Iraqi Moslems.

NOT PREVENTED

El Bakr also claimed there are no laws preventing Iraq's 3,000 Jews leaving the country. Iraq's regime has been under intense criticism from abroad since it hanged nine Jews and five other Iraqis last week as spies for Israel. At that time, the Iraqis said they would soon put 65 more persons on trial on charges of spying, for Israel and plotting against the regime.

El Bakr said his regime will not hesitate to execute any spy since "spying is high treason punishable by death."

The president said Iraq's relations with the United States depended on whether Washington "changes its stand of complete support of Israel and whether it ceases interfering in the internal affairs of Arab countries."

It appeared that Al Bakr's an-

Ship's Crew Never Briefed On Mission

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The senior oceanographer aboard the USS Pueblo, a civilian, says one of his assignments was to serve as a cover for the intelligence ship.

In fact, said Dunnie R. Tuck, when the first North Korean gunboat appeared on the day of capture he began lowering water-testing bottles over the side "to show the North Koreans why we were there."

'I'M LEAVING'
But when the Koreans began firing, the ship's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, shouted: "Friar Tuck, get that damned gear up here. I'm leaving."

Tuck, 31, of Richmond, Va., told a Navy court of inquiry Thursday that making hydrographic tests—obtaining samples of ocean water for analysis—was one of the main parts of his assignment. But, said Tuck, his orders were to handle his work "on a not-to-interfere basis" with the main surveillance mission of the ship, which Bucher has described as watching Soviet vessels and North Korean radar.

"It was one of my missions to serve as cover for the ship, to show that it was an oceanographic ship," he added.

His black and white checked sports coat, dark green tie and black pants were a sharp change from other witnesses. They all wore Navy uniform dress blues.

Tuck and the other oceanographer, Harry Iredale III, spent 11 months in a North Korean prison, along with the Navy men. Both are civil service employees of the Defense Department. Tuck said his government rating was GS12, which would give him a $12,174 a year base pay rate.

CALL SIX MORE
The court summoned six more members of the Pueblo crew to testify today, along with a Pentagon expert in ways of how to destroy classified equipment and publications in the event of capture.

Tuck said he suggested to Bucher where he wanted the water tests made and that all were more than 13 miles from land. That would be at least one mile from the 12 miles of territorial water claimed by North Korea.

Tuck said for the samples to be accurate he needed a precise location determination from the Pueblo's navigator. He agreed with Bucher that this helped establish the Pueblo never intruded into North Korean water.

NOT ILLEGAL
He said his first impression of the Pueblo's contact with the North Koreans was that it was similar to Communist harassment of the sister ship, Banner, on which he had served previously. He said Communist vessels had in the past come close enough to intelligence ships to make contact and "bang on their bow."

Two enlisted men, Charles D. Law Jr., the ship's senior quartermaster, and Wendell Leach, the only signal man on board, said the Pueblo's crew never was briefed on the mission.

"The crew was told it was not illegal... that we were just carrying out our duties," said Law, 27, of Chehalis, Wash.

In New York, U.S. Supreme Court justice and ambassador to the United Nations, urged that a disinterested tribunal be named to investigate the Pueblo's seizure.

Sirhan's Lawyers Say They Are Defending Him For Free

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan and his mother testified during some preliminary legal maneuvering about how little income the family had—a few thousand dollars a year.

Yet three prominent criminal trial lawyers are defending him. Where is the money coming from?

ACTION, CHALLENGE

Grant Cooper, 65, the chief defense attorney, says he and Russell E. Parsons, 60, and Emile Zola Berman, 66, are working for free. What would such a legal trio cost a rich man?

"A half million dollars probably would not be out of line," says Cooper.

How can Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian charged with murder in the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, command such legal defenders?

"I've been making speeches around the country to bar associations and service clubs on the duty of lawyers to represent persons accused, especially in unpopular cases. I decided I'd better practice what I was preaching," explains Cooper.

"And I like to be where the action is. It's an interesting case and a challenge."

Until now, perhaps Cooper's best known case was the defense of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Finch's paramour, Carole Tregoff, who were convicted of murdering Finch's pregnant wife.

Parsons says he took the assignment because "I'm a lawyer-nearing the end of my career, it's probably the most important case in the world today, and I want to see this man has a fair trial."

Both Cooper and Parsons are from Los Angeles.

Berman, head of a Manhattan law firm, said: "I've felt all my life a man is entitled to a defense and I was asked to assist."

WRITER TO PAY

Berman said Cooper asked him last August at a bar association meeting in Philadelphia to join the defense "because, I like to think, I'm not a novice."

Cooper said defense expenses include the fees and living and transportation costs for psychiatrists, psychologists and other defense expert witnesses; Berman's hotel bills, meals and transportation; photo copying services, etc.

Cooper said these will be paid by things such as writer Robert Kaiser's contract with Sirhan

START ARRIVING BEFORE DAWN EACH DAY 2,000 Breakfast Guests

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — Sister Mary Thomas' breakfast guests begin arriving before dawn.

More than 2,000 of them make lines up and down the field. Most are children, squatting on their haunches, tapping out subdued rhythms on chipped bowls and empty sardine cans. Their colorfully robed mothers and silent fathers stand behind, many of the women balancing a baby on the hip.

DIP AND LICK

Sister Mary's helpers come out with three-foot-deep kettles, and the tapping quickens.

The aging nun from Ireland's County Cork walks briskly up, a broad-lipped metal spoon in her right hand, a wooden spatula in her left. She dips deep into the mixture and begins filling the bowls and the cans.

Little fingers plunge into the bowls, dip and lick, dip and lick. "Ah, a great food this is," the smiling nun remarks.

It contains cornmeal, soybean and milk powder and comes from the United States.

"We add powdered egg, oil and stockfish," said Sister Mary. "They like it better than their own garri and what a world of good for them it does."

The base, known as Formula Two, has been donated to relief agencies in huge quantities recently by the U.S. government. Sister Mary's feeding center is one of the largest of more than 1,500 set up in Biafra by relief organizations to aid many thousands of those displaced by the 18-month Nigerian civil war.

MALNUTRITION
It provides one meal a day, breakfast and the meal possibly is the most wholesome in Biafra.

The Red Cross and Roman Catholic and Protestant relief organizations are now giving out three million high protein meals a week. Relief officials agree that the dreaded protein deficiency disease—kwashiorkor—has nearly been beaten, at least among the children.

Six months ago, children with bloated stomachs, gray skin and reddish hair—the signs of kwashiorkor—could be seen in great numbers anywhere in Biafra. Many centers like Sister Mary's did not exist then.

Only 10 kwashiorkor cases were reported this week at Itu Olokoro refugee camp here, where 715 refugees live in neat palm frond huts and get two meals a day from the Red Cross.

At Queen Elizabeth's Hospital here, an average of three children a day used to die of malnutrition. Now three or four die in a week from all causes.

Six months ago the hospital was getting two or three bags of milk powder each week from relief organizations. Egg powder and cereal came from time to time.

STILL STARVING
During the last week in January, the hospital received 20 bags of milk, 40 tins of meat, two bales of stockfish, and salt and egg powder.

Relief workers warned, however, that should the airlift cease the situation would be reversed in a matter of weeks.

And they say that while the present level of supplies is keeping Biafra's children on a safe nutrition level, there is not enough for adults who need food desperately.

"Most feeding centers still can only provide three meals a week to refugees," said Earl Roe, a Chicago schoolteacher who runs a distribution center for the World Council of Churches.

"Our people are still starving. We can use three or four times what we are receiving."

He Sure Trusts Texas Servicemen

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mike Jones, 18, and Rosa Lee Stinnett, 19, were in love and wanted to get married. But they decided to wait until he fulfilled his military services.

Then Rosa figured if Mike was going to wear a uniform she might as well too. So they were both sworn into the Air Force Jan. 9 and traveled together to Texas.

Three days after Mike got to Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio he aggravated an old hip injury. Now he's back home with a medical discharge.

Rosa? She's still in basic training in Texas, with nearly four more years to serve on her enlistment.

Mike said they now plan a two-year wait before getting married.

Timing was of the essence

in today's hand—where South was the declarer at five call by East provided his partner with a vital clue at the opening gun.

The South hand presented something of a problem on the opening call. It was, perhaps an eyelash short of the requirements for a demand bid. There is a further objection that, if North makes the negative response of two no trump and subsequently becomes the declarer, a lead

thru one of South's doubleton kings might prove disadvantageous.

As a compromise choice,

South decided to open the stoppers in all suits. The only flaw is his slightly unbalanced distribution; however, the alternative calls appears to be much less appealing.

West was reluctant to be shut out of the auction holding the spade suit and attractive distribution, and he decided to compete by overcalling with three spades. North was temporarily relieved of any obligation to bid, so he passed the next decision back to his partner.

East realized that the prospects for buying the hand from an opening two no trump bidder were somewhat remote and, if his side wound up on defense, it was his desire to secure a diamond lead from his partner since his entire strength was concentrated in that suit. His bid of four diamonds was, therefore, dictated solely by strategic considerations.

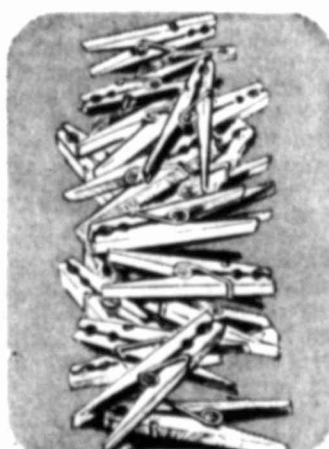

South competed with four hearts and West persisted to four spades. North finally entered the proceedings by raising his partner to five hearts, and the auction—some what unexpectedly—drew to a quiet conclusion.

West had no problem in leading a diamond, thanks to his partner's resourceful bid, and East put up the ace. The shift was to a spade and West promptly cashed the setting tricks in that suit. If West had opened either a club or a spade originally, the defense would have been unable to recover, and declarer could not be prevented from winning 11 tricks.

A Devotional For The Day

"If any one forces you to go one mile, go with him two miles." (Matthew 5:41, RSV)

Good Riddance

President Nixon has announced that henceforth political persuasion will have no bearing upon the selection of postmasters.

This differs from the present arrangement only in that congressmen will not have the influencing say in the appointment. Now, the choice is between the three highest scorers on competitive examinations. Mr. Nixon proposes that the selection still be made from the top three, but without any decision on the part of the congressmen who represent the district in which the post office is located.

From the foundation of the nation, certain postal appointments have been considered political patronage. Many have seen this one of the paramount ills of the postal service. Part of it has been overcome by the merit civil service, and presumably what the President is recommending is an extension of this. Certainly it is, in theory at least, in the right direction. With this, however, there needs to be a reassessment of the civil service machinery to make it easier to deal with incompetents and poor performers on a job, whether it be a clerkship or a postmastership.

If Mr. Nixon's action is expected to cause cries of anguish from congressmen, don't hold your breath for a great chorus of protest. The truth of the matter is that most congressmen have regarded postmaster and rural carrier appointments as one of the hottest potatoes they have to handle. For every person they made happy, they alienated many more. Most of them will be glad to be rid of this chore.

Overly Generous

Members of Congress have backed into a hefty pay raise. Under a new law, it was not necessary (for the first time in the country's history) to have a direct vote on the matter. A commission had recommended the raise (actually more than the 41 percent which will go into effect), and in the absence of action to require a vote or to veto the raise, the increase goes into effect next week.

On a direct vote, the Senate decided to accept the raise, and mercifully the House rules committee, by a 12-3 margin, spared congressmen the agony of having to have a recorded vote on whether to veto the raise.

Members of both houses were probably entitled to some increase because of rising costs, etc. Moreover, the obligations of a senator or representative just about consumes all he makes (if not exceeds it) because constituents assume that these servants should be happy to fill all sorts of engagements and entertain visiting delegations, etc.

But a 41 percent increase is wholly out of line with the general picture, and, even conceding that taxes will eat up a big chunk of it, is unwarranted. Like doubling the President's salary, this was simply too much.

David Lawrence Where Federal Action Is Needed

WASHINGTON — Two kinds of hijacking would appear to require not merely state action but the enactment of laws by Congress — the coercion of airline pilots as they are directed to divert planes from their regular destinations, and the seizure of administration buildings and other facilities on college campuses by students and other persons.

THE POWER of the federal government to punish anyone who interferes with interstate commerce is well defined. Under a 1961 law, hijackers can be punished for impeding the lives of passengers and crews on airplanes, and be imprisoned 20 years or more or be given the death sentence.

Although big rewards are being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of hijackers of planes, this might not prove an adequate deterrent. Last year, 18 United States planes were compelled to go to Havana, and so far this year there have been 12 more — more than two a week.

THE AIRLINES themselves could request that armed guards, not in uniform, be supplied by federal security agencies to travel on the airlines destined for points along the South Atlantic coast — the routes of which most of the hijackings have occurred. These guards need not be identified to the other passengers. Also, before anyone boards the plane, the local police could be required to search the group of travelers for weapons, and particularly examine any package carried by hand.

THE PROBLEM of obtaining the

Billy Graham

Will you please explain what is meant by "God's wrath"? I just can't understand this.

T.E.

The "wrath" of God is not to be compared to the wrath of men, "for as the heavens are high above this earth, so are his ways higher than our ways." God, being a Holy God, is not capable of sinful anger, such as we know among men. However, His absolute holiness cannot countenance sin. Sin, the venom of the universe, is repugnant to Him, and He looks upon it with absolute disfavor, particularly in His creation, man.

Because His love is limitless, He loathes any force or any object, or any habit that would hinder or destroy the objects of His affection. He hates sin but loves the sinner. Just as a parent is "wrathful" toward the threats to his child's welfare, so God looks with disfavor on the forces that hinder us from being all that He would have us to be.

There is a sense, however, when the holiness of God and the love of God, must yield to the justice of God. He is not only holy, and compassionate, but He is just. There comes a time, according to the Bible, when men who persist in rejecting God's offers of mercy, must be judged. That is what makes God's grace so great; because the alternative to it is so awful. The Bible says: "He that believeth on the Son hath life, but he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth upon him."

Explore Your Hidden Fears

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you bored with the Hong Kong flu, the 24-hour virus, the common cold and the people who brag about having been felled by these tiresome winter ailments?

Why not startle your friends and create envy in your enemies by coming down with an interesting new affliction they probably never even heard of — a disease for all seasons?

ALL YOU HAVE to do is to explore your hidden fears, and the chances are you'll find you've been suffering all your life from something you never even knew you had. For one of the laws of medicine guarantees that for every illness there is a fear and for every fear there is an illness.

Ever feel a bit edgy when strolling alone through a dark heavily wooded area? Why, you poor thing, you're a walking case of hypochondria, the fear of forests.

Ever race for a bus and then, when your heart begins to palpitate, pause and wonder if you're going to keel over? You've probably been reading too many articles about heart attacks. Your problem is only angina pectoris, the fear of angina pectoris.

NOW AND THEN do you get mad at your boss because he loads so many duties on you that you think he's trying to throw you to death? Calm down. All you've got is a touch of kopophobia, the fear of exhaustion.

Ever more common among office and factory employees is the feeling that they are stuck in a rut, doing over and over again a job that will lead them nowhere. Only one diagnosis is possible here: Taphophobia, the fear of being buried alive. Many married people today, both husbands and wives, complain of the same symptoms. They have either taphophobia or a variant of it — merinthophobia, the fear of being bound.

Many teenagers nowadays subsist almost entirely on soft drinks, peanuts, cheese snacks and potato chips. Their mothers, even if they plead on bended knees, can't get them to eat anything else. What these kids don't know is that they are cowards. They are quaking inwardly in the throes of cibophobia, which means they are terrified by food.

DO YOU SHUDDER at the sight of a young unwashed hippie strolling along with a rose or daisy stuck behind his ear? There is an excuse for your trepidation. You're probably a double victim of anthophobia, the fear of flowers, and rhyphobia, the fear of filth.

Oh, there are plenty of more panic-produced maladies in civilization's garden of weeds.

THE MAIN thing to remember is that for every fear there is a disease. Perhaps the best of them is autophobia, the fear of one's self, a healthy fear for anyone at all times.

Savings Bonds Outflow

NEW YORK (AP) — Have U.S. savings bonds become victims of a poorly controlled U.S. fiscal policy? One month's figures don't make a trend, but they do suggest that this could be so.

More U.S. savings bonds and Freedom Shares were redeemed than purchased last month, which isn't uncommon. In December the loss was $11 million. But the January outflow of $61 million was the biggest in at least six years.

THE OUTFLOW, which may be the greatest since Series E bonds were introduced 28 years ago, is not likely to turn into a flood, because there are many reasons for buying bonds: tax savings, the convenience of payroll deduction, patriotism. But the loss is of more than casual interest.

One of the most logical explanations is that investors found more lucrative interest rates elsewhere. And interest rates, we are reminded almost daily, are rising because of inflation.

But is government the cause of inflation? To a very large extent. Heavy government spending, sometimes greater than revenues, has been the strongest inflationary factor during the past two or three years.

Another inflation-related reason is offered in explanation. Big bills were run up by consumers during Christmas, bills that, because of inflation, were higher than a year earlier. Very likely bonds were cashed to pay these bills.

IT CAN BE argued that the decline was to be expected, because savings bonds outstanding in December was a record $51.9 billion. But records are common in an economy growing larger every year.

Over the longer term, the growth in savings bonds outstanding looks like this: January 1969, $51.85 billion; January 1968, $51.37; January 1967, $50.99.

The increase of $1.5 billion is large, but as a percentage it is perhaps less than outstanding. The accumulation of interest helped add to the total. So did a drive, begun in 1967 as "the biggest payroll savings campaign in history."

Adding to the January redemptions, ironically, were some Freedom shares, introduced in 1967 at a higher interest rate in hopes of spurring sales. Now, despite the higher rate, some are showing up in the opposite column.

FREEDOM SHARES can be bought only in conjunction with a similar size or larger purchase of a Series E Bond. The Freedom Shares, if held to maturity in 4½ years, provide 5 percent interest. The Series E bonds, if held to maturity in 7 years, yield 4.25 percent.

There is another popular savings bond, the Series H. Unlike the Series E, in which interest accumulates and is paid on redemption, the interest on the Series H bond is paid every six months. It, too, yields 4.25 percent.

These are the highest rates ever paid on savings bonds. But, a lot of people ask, what is the return to me from a 4.25 percent bond when inflation can erode consumer buying power by 4.7 percent in one year?

Moreover, the full interest on savings bonds and Freedom Shares is paid only if they are held to maturity. For the first few years of its life, for example, the Freedom Shares pays much less than the advertised 5 percent.

To Your Good Health Yes, Tonsillitis Can Be Contagious

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a mother-in-law and father-in-law who claim up and down that tonsillitis is not contagious. I have been told by my doctor and others that it is highly infectious. Is it or not? — Mrs. G.V.

I don't know where your in-laws could have acquired such a belief. Tonsillitis — inflammation of the general area of the tonsils — is usually caused by a streptococcus germ.

As with any disease involving the strep germ, transfer of the germ from one person to another carries the risk of passing along the illness.

In a word, tonsillitis can be highly contagious and is a serious condition. The germs can be spread by sneezes, a cough, or even carried on the breath, in invisible droplets of moisture.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My eight-year-old daughter has a cavity in a tooth but her father will not take her to a dentist. He insists that if it is kept untreated the toothache will be gone. And he says absolutely no sugar for her, not even on her oatmeal. Is he right or wrong? — Mrs. N.T.

How wrong can anyone get? Tooth cavities don't cure themselves. If he won't take her to a dentist, why don't you?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send me your booklet on "How to Deal with Varicose Veins" — 25 cents and long, self-addressed, stamped envelope enclosed. I read recently in a book that if you take elder vinegar and rub your legs twice a day the veins will not appear so prominently. Is this so? — Mrs. K.B.

I've had letters from readers who tried rubbing vinegar on their legs. Score so far: nobody has seen any improvement.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My friend who is only 17 thinks she is about two months pregnant. She will not tell her parents and I can't do anything except stand by and watch. She hasn't eaten now for two weeks and plans to keep starving herself until the embryo dies. Will this harm her? Will the embryo die or, if it lives, will this harm it? — N.M.P.

That poor youngster is desperate and confused, but she has not found a solution which will answer her problem. Both she and the embryo will be harmed, of course, by this starvation, but it is extremely doubtful that the embryo will die. Instead, your friend will collapse, and need medical care, and then her secret will come out anyway — after the additional harm has been done.

She isn't the first girl to get herself in such a fix. There are agencies in most cities to help just such girls, and the sooner she gets help, the better. After all, the baby-to-be has some rights, too!

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim Sanctimonious Ex-Smoker

This is a big season for smoke-filled rooms. The political conventions had their share, I am sure, despite the best air-conditioning had to offer.

AND I'VE run into a few recently. Saturday I attended two different meetings (if one is careless, this can happen.) Each had quite a number of smokers.

As a reformed nicotine addict, I am quite conscious of the foul things smoking does to the air in a room. I might even add I'm quite sanctimonious about it.

It would even worry me that I might get lung cancer by remote control except for one fact: The smoke has been run through the best filter of all:

Someone else's lungs.

THE MIDDLE Aged Curmudgeon told his wife the other day: "I don't necessarily disagree with you because you're wrong. I disagree with you because you're you."

My calculating cousin, Jimmy Ladd, New York City, writes: "If you hear an owl hoot 'to whom' instead of 'to who,' you are listening to a Boston owl."

I wonder if any congressman in our country has ever had the courage to tell his constituents he lives in the Washington suburb called Beltsville.

SOMETIMES THE generation gab consists of two mouths open at the same time.

Henry Lanik, a barber in Tulsa, Okla., sent me a bumper sticker which reads:

Keep Arkansas Beautiful
Get A Haircut

I don't know whether he's trying to tell me something, but I figure I'm doing about as much as I can for Oklahoma just by living in Texas.

THE SULKER at the office asks: "Is an aggressive reporter called a paper tiger?"

Yes, among other things.

A. J. Vaughn, Big Spring, thinks it's time once more for one of his favorite jokes.

This one features two men standing in front of a store displaying huge "Going Out of Business" signs, and the older says to the younger: "Son, some day this will all be yours."

Pat Nixon is allergic to fur.

"WHEN ARE the Jews and Arabs going to sit down and settle their problems like Christians?" a man who stopped at my desk asked.

It's an interesting question. The answer may be that they already are — by fighting.

Good old Bill Factor reports: "A close relative is one you see between funerals."

Holmes Alexander Changes For The U.N.

WASHINGTON — American prejudice against the chatterbox, do-nothing United Nations is not any reason why President Nixon's administration should imitate those traits in UN matters.

There is some evidence that talk-without-action won't satisfy the Senate Foreign Relations committee either. During the committee's hearing of Charles Yost, the new UN ambassador, several ideas of reform came to the surface.

THERE IS NEED for a permanent peace-keeping force. Thus far, in Korea and the Congo (but less so in Palestine and Cyprus), the United States has supplied far more than its share of men and money. In other crises, like Vietnam, it's been impossible to get UN action when action was needed.

Sen. Pell (D., R.I.) proposed a professional para-military force in the form of a Sea Guard. This outfit would roam the oceans both as a rescue squadron and a patrol against international piracy, presumably to take action in matters like those of the USS Pueblo and the USS Liberty.

SEN. MUNDT (R., S.D.), who will often be speaking the President's mind on this policy-making committee, said that the switch to a Republican White House made an excellent opportunity for establishing a UN "mobile force" of some kind. But Mundt wants it made clear very early in the Nixon days that the U.S. will not play the open-handed cashier while other UN members remain free-loaders.

SEN. CHURCH (D., Idaho) came up with an idea of how the UN could raise its own revenue for the support of peace-keeping military missions. Church proposed that the UN (again the seagoing concept) take some initiative in developing the natural resources of the ocean floor in international waters. If the UN had an income of its own, aside from donations by member-nations, it could more forcibly act on its own.

BUT EVEN if the UN had some armed forces, and had a budget to support them, there would still be a political impasse under the present Charter. One veto-vote can paralyze the Security Council. Skulduggery in the 126-member General Assembly often permits the tail to wag the dog. Several Foreign Relations committee members have ideas for revising the UN Charter so that the governing body will be bicameral and have the equivalent of a senate and a house of delegates. The major powers, who contribute more money and have greater populations, would either have their own chamber or would have extra votes, and would not be subject to the single veto.

IF WE PUT these three ideas together — an armed service, an independent income, a workable legislature — the UN might become more of a world government than we would tolerate. Mr. Nixon, unlike other Presidents of this century, would never encourage any movement that might compromise our American sovereignty or self-rule. But somewhere in between the UN as a cumbersome debating society and the UN as a super-power, there may be some options that would take our country out of the business of bank-rolling and policing large groups of non-American mankind.

Marquis Childs Robert Kennedy And The Cuban Crisis

WASHINGTON — When good men die their goodness does not perish but lives though they are gone.

That line from Euripides says something about one of the tragedies marking the ill-starred year of 1968. The assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles was a senseless act that left the nation and the world so much the poorer. It threw a lurid light on the undercurrent of violence threatening to destroy the very structure of order and stability.

KENNEDY AT 43 had acquired his share of critics and enemies. Abrasive, often pugnacious, sometimes withdrawn as to seem sullen or indifferent, as attorney general for three years he had been a sort of hatchet man for his brother, President John F. Kennedy. His ambition seemed to outrun both his experience and his capacity.

But, whatever his faults may have been, the legacy he has left of courage and wisdom is of incalculable value. An important part of that legacy is the book, "Thirteen Days," which Kennedy completed before his death. More than a memoir, more than simply another piece of history, it is a short, concise primer of how to steer a safe course through a terrible storm that promised from hour to hour to end with nuclear annihilation.

"THIRTEEN DAYS" is the story of the Cuban missile crisis of October, 1962, told by the members of the Ex Comm group who more than anyone else helped the President charted the course. Ex Comm was the committee within the National Security Council the members of which worked almost without ceasing through the 13 days and nights to force the Soviet Union to remove the missiles secretly placed in Cuba without precipitating a nuclear holocaust.

IN THE DEBATE he argued throughout for a peaceful means, short of an attack on Cuba costing thousands of lives, to compel Premier Nikita Khrushchev to take out the missiles. He contended with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as an ally for flexibility; for giving Khrushchev a chance to back down without losing face.

The lesson, above all, in "Thirteen Days" is that the military invariably urges military action as a quick and simple remedy. And, if their view is not countered by a firm and thorough exchange with all the elements involved in a crisis, then this quick and simple remedy is likely to be resorted to.

KENNEDY WAS arguing for a blockade of Cuba that would stop Soviet ships carrying missile equipment and probably additional nuclear warheads. A blockade was ordered at the same time that troops, planes and guns were moved into place to act if the Soviets defied the blockade and tried to force their ships through. Exchanges with Khrushchev continued as the tension rose to an almost-intolerable level.

After five days when the blockade seemed to have only limited effectiveness, the Joint Chiefs of Staff returned to the attack. They recommended an air strike on the next day to be followed up with an invasion, pointing out that they had always argued that a blockade would be far too weak a measure and that direct military action was the only move the Soviets would understand.

"WE WON'T ATTACK tomorrow," the President said. "We shall try again." This was the critical decision at a point when nerves were frayed to the breaking point and when the simple remedy of the military seemed the only way out even though it was certain to bring a reprisal and very probably nuclear war. When a Russian submarine was reported about to challenge the American blockaders with force Kennedy wrote:

"I THINK these few minutes were the time of greatest concern for the President. Was the world on the brink of a holocaust? . . . His hand went up to his face and covered his mouth. He opened and closed his fist. His face seemed drawn, his eyes pained, almost gray. We stared at each other across the table. For a few fleeting seconds it was almost as though no one else was there and he was no longer the President."

It might have been. That is so frighteningly clear. It might have been if Robert Kennedy had not argued for patience and delay. That is the legacy putting us all immeasurably in his debt.

Gen. Keller Visits Webb

Marine Brig. Gen. Robert Keller (left) discusses his flight to Webb AFB with officials on the flightline after his arrival here Thursday. His son, Marine Lt. R. P. Keller, crashed on takeoff at the base last Saturday, and received a leg fracture when he ejected from the A-4 Skyhawk. He was evacuated to a Naval hospital Thursday afternoon. Gen. Keller, commander of the 4th Marine Aircraft Wing and Marine Air Reserve Training Command, Glenview Naval Air Station, Ill., spoke to the 17 Marine officers currently in training at Webb. Greeting him are, from left, Col. Chandler B. Estes, base commander; Col. Robert W. Casey, deputy commander for Materiel; Dr. (Capt.) John Woods, base hospital; and Capt. Dennis R. Fitz (back to camera), ranking Marine on base.

Largest Webb Class Graduates Saturday

Undergraduate pilot training class 69-E will culminate 53 weeks of aeronautical training at Webb AFB Saturday, when its 59 members receive wings and certificates of aeronautical rating in ceremonies at Withycombe Hall, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The class, the first to graduate at the base in the new calendar year, is the largest on record at Webb. It has one man more than the 58 officers who were graduated with UPT class 68-E last year.

Fifty-five United States Air Force officers form the nucleus of 69-E. Two other members are Marine Corps officers. There is also one Saudi Arabian and Jordanian officer graduating with the class.

Wilson (Connie) Edwards, elected earlier this week as the 1969 president of the local chapter of the Air Force Association, will serve as the guest speaker at this evening's class Dining-In. Edwards is a colonel in the Confederate Air Force who recently returned from Europe where he did stunt flying in the film "Battle of Britain." He is a local resident who has logged more than 10,000 flying hours in private aircraft and in the Air National Guard.

Two of the special guests who will attend both the Dining-In and graduation exercise are Lt. Col. Abo Atig, Saudi Arabian Air Attache, and Capt. Wasfi Ammari, Jordanian military liaison officer. They are coming to the base from their countries' embassies in Washington, D.C. to witness the graduation of their native students — Saudi Arabian officer Mansour Bander and Jordanian cadet Mathhar Jamil Alawneh.

The class commenced pilot training at Webb with 67 officers Feb. 6, 1968. The men started initial training in the T-41 Mescalero at Howard County Airport Feb. 13, 1968. They moved into the T-37 Tweet phase of training in K and N flights March 29, 1968. T-38 Talon training followed Aug. 6, 1968 with class members divided initially in A and B flights. Later B flight switched to E flight.

Nicknamed the Golden Talons, 69-E has been remarkable in intramural athletics. The class captured both the football and softball championships in the UPT league and earned the wing commander's athletic trophy, the top athletic award in UPT.

Capt. Edwin Newcomer has been the class training officer since September. He replaced Maj. Paul Adams and Capt. Neil Schultz when the two moved to other positions. Capt. Newcomer has carried 69-E through the T-38 phase of its training.

Business Tax Warning Voiced By Texas Group

AUSTIN (AP)—Business and industry account for about a third of Texas' sales tax revenue, the Texas Research League says.

The league's study said 24 of the 44 sales tax states make special provisions for production machinery and equipment, including 15 states that completely exempt such purchases. Only three of the 10 top industrial states, including Texas, do not exempt such equipment purchases from the tax.

Industrial growth ultimately could be slowed by taxing new plants and their equipment, the league said, but "to date there is no evidence that the sales tax on capital investment has had an adverse effect on industrial location in Texas." The league continued, "It is not certain that this will continue to be true in the face of the 30 per cent increase in the state tax which became effective in October, 1968, and especially when that increase is combined with the widespread adoption of city sales taxes."

The league estimated business and industry sales tax payments now total about $110 million a year. Jim McGrew, the league's research director, later said it can be assumed the burden of most of this tax was passed on to consumers or stockholders.

Skeleton Case Tips Increase

More clues as to the identity of human remains found near Big Spring on Jan. 15 have been uncovered, according to Howard County Sheriff A. N. Standard. The sheriff said today that chemists with the Department of Public Safety say the skeleton was that of an elderly Negro male crippled by arthritis in the joints.

Standard and a chemist from the Midland DPS laboratory returned to where the remains were found, 1 1/4 miles north of and 40 feet east of the west IS 20 overpass of the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. right-of-way, and searched the scene for more clues.

After sifting through soil over about one-tenth of an acre, a belt, hat and other items were found, Standard said. These items were sent to Austin where the remains and clothing were sent shortly after they were discovered.

Sheriff's deputies are still investigating leads in California which were brought into the case. About 10 years ago a prisoner in a California jail confessed to killing a man on a train near Big Spring.

"This possibility may be discounted as we learn more details from the chemists," Standard said. "But we are having some reservation." No coins, billfold or signs of gunplay were found on the scene this week, he said.

Britain Step Closer To Goal

LUXEMBOURG (AP)—Britain stood a step closer today to its goal of joining Western Europe despite the opposition of President Charles de Gaulle.

It had a promise from five of the six countries of the Common Market to consult on world problems before decisions are made.

Jean den Lipkowski, representing the French Foreign Ministry, said he would give his country's answer in three months.

"What else could I do?" he asked a reporter, who thought he looked unhappy. De Gaulle twice has vetoed British efforts to join the Common Market.

Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg agreed Thursday not to act on a world issue without talking it over in attempt to reach a common view.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain said he would begin by inviting ambassadors from all six countries—including France—to talk over the position Britain should take with the United States, the Soviet Union and France on the Middle East.

The invitations are to go out next week. It remains to be seen whether Geoffrey de Courcel, French ambassador in London, accepts.

The promise of consultations took on special importance in view of President Nixon's coming trip to Europe. President Johnson's administration made it plain that it was eager to have Western Europe speak with one voice, even if it meant that American influence might some times suffer. President Nixon, too, has said that he wants to see Western Europe united, including Britain.

Car Presented To Missionary

An automobile has been given to the Rev. Charles M. Kennedy, a missionary in Gomez Palacio, Durango, Mexico. The car was donated for Kennedy's use by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Underwood, 3002 Cactus.

The Underwoods presented the keys of the car to the Rev. Roy E. Honea during Feb. 2 services at Grace Baptist Church. Rev. Honea in turn presented the keys to Rev. Kennedy, who will use the car in his work.

The car Kennedy had been using was totally wrecked in a recent accident.

The Kennedy family, which includes Kennedy's wife, Betty; and three sons, Charles Lee, 13, David, 11, and Roger, 9, have been in Mexico for two years. The family attended language school in Linnaires before going to Mexico.

Patio Snack Bar Bids Invitation

An invitation to bidders for the construction of a patio snack bar in the Webb AFB Officers Open Mess was announced last week by the base procurement office. The job consists of both additions and alterations. A 10x9 foot addition to the existing Stag Room is the primary feature. Bid sets must be received by the procurement office by Feb. 28. Bids will be received by the office until 3 p.m. March 11.

Texas' Winter Heat Tussle

By The Associated Press

A new Pacific cold front was moving in today to tussle with Texas' winter heat wave.

With south winds pushing moist air ashore from the Gulf of Mexico, brief showers were expected to mark passage of the new front all the way to the coast, where it was due by Saturday morning.

All sections of the state were promised lower temperatures overnight. Readings as low as 24 degrees in the upper Panhandle and 32 in Southwest Texas were predicted.

High clouds covered most of the state this morning and there was fog near the Middle Texas Coast.

Temperatures mounted into the 70s and 80s Thursday afternoon, hitting highs of 86 degrees at Brownsville and 87 at McAllen. Alice, Beaumont, College Station, Corpus Christi, Laredo and Victoria all recorded 80s. El Paso was the coolest point with a high of 62.

Readings early today ranged from 35 at Amarillo and Dalhart up to 65 at Laredo and 67 at Brownsville.

Escapes Electric Chair, Goes Free

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—After spending weeks in a jail cell facing the possibility of going to the electric chair, 13-year-old Robert Curtis went home Thursday night with his father and mother.

He was free.

An Orange County circuit court jury of seven women and five men deliberated for an hour and 45 minutes before finding Robert innocent in the rifle killing of a 15-year-old playmate.

When Foreman Edward Parker read the verdict, Robert smiled for the first time during the two-day trial. Parker also was smiling as they shook hands.

Robert was charged with the death of James Thompson, 15, who was killed last Sept. 9 when he was shot in the eye at Robert's family apartment.

The state maintained the shooting was intentional. Robert's defense was that he was putting the rifle away when it discharged accidentally. In his final summation, Prosecutor Robert Eagan asked the verdict in favor of second degree or manslaughter.

When the verdict came in, Robert's mother screamed for joy. She and her husband hugged the boy. All three wept. "Are we going home, Mama?" the boy asked his mother as the three stood bunched in the courtroom. "Yes, we're going home," she said.

Nixon Takes Dim View Of 'Instant Summitry'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has indicated he would be willing to hold a summit meeting with Soviet leaders if lower-level talks show progress, preferably on both political and military matters.

Nixon aides say whether these conditions are met could be determined in the weeks ahead by the success of preliminary talks already started with the Soviet Union on a possible push for a Middle East settlement.

SOMETIME

At his Thursday news conference, Nixon said he takes a dim view of "instant summitry" but expressed the view he should meet with Soviet leaders "at a future time."

After returning March 3 from his projected five-nation European tour, Nixon said, he intends "to conduct exploratory talks at various levels to see if such a meeting could take place."

But he cautioned that any summit meeting should be well prepared and that the agenda should cover "various differences that we have, on which we can perhaps make progress."

Families In Houston Flee 'Nauseating Fog'

HOUSTON (AP) — Police ordered the evacuation of about 100 homes on the southside of the Houston ship channel Thursday night because of what was described as a nauseating fog.

Police estimated about 50 families left the area before the heavy fog cleared. That took about 45 minutes.

When it was over residents wondered where it came from and what it was.

R. L. Braswell, acting district fire chief, said, "It set in like a fog, hung low to the ground and it lifted like a fog. It was very irritating to the eyes and nose and burned your face just like acid."

Some residents said they thought they heard an explosion just before the fog came in.

"We never did find a thing and finally after about 45 minutes the wind just lifted it away," Braswell said.

Police cars cruised through the area during the fog telling residents over their loudspeakers to evacuate.

'Nude' Play Appeal Made

AUSTIN (AP) — Students said they are appealing an official order to close a stage production in which spectators told of seeing three nude actors.

Dr. Bryce Jordan, acting vice president of student affairs at the University of Texas, directed Thursday that Curtian Club performances of the play "Now the Revolution" be halted.

It nevertheless was presented Thursday night for the second time. Student body president Rostan Kavoussi said afterward, however, that the show was being suspended until an appeal could be made to the university's president, Dr. Norman Hackerman.

Jordan had told the Student Union Board, made up of students and faculty members, that he ordered the shutdown because of nudity on the stage.

Described as psychedelic, the show enacts a marijuana party. Persons in the audience said the cast included a nude man lying on his stomach and two nude women in a far corner of the stage.

The Austin American reported the play was abruptly halted in the middle of the performance.

A woman of the company was quoted as saying that nudity occurred in the play's first performance Wednesday night when two girls in the cast stripped off their blouses and one exposed her breasts during a climactic revolution scene near the end of the show.

She also said the play includes a scene depicting a girl giving birth to a naked man who is dragged across the stage face down. The naked man, the girl was quoted as saying, represents "the beginning of youth leading toward revolution."

At a meeting late Thursday, the Curtian Club voted unanimously to give Hackerman until noon to decide on their appeal.

Doug Dyer, the play's director, said if Hackerman does not meet this deadline, the group will assume he has ruled in their favor, and a performance will be presented tonight.

Familiar Women Family Affair

CHATHAM, England (AP) — Mrs. Shirley Stevens, in a hospital to have a baby, thought the woman in the next bed looked familiar.

After a 10-minute chat, they discovered they were sisters who had not seen each other since their family broke up 30 years ago.

Mrs. Stevens, 32, gave birth to a girl. Her sister, Mrs. Mabel King, had a boy.

Both women spent their childhoods in foster homes. They discovered that since marriage they had been living within five miles of each other.

Fugitive Loses Chase In Texas

Johnny Ray Price, 42, San Angelo, is in Howard County jail after he was apprehended in Brownwood Wednesday evening to end a four-month manhunt.

Worthless check charges have been filed against him in Howard County court. He was wanted in connection with a series of bogus checks here and other areas.

Price was apprehended Wednesday by Brown County authorities who received a tip from a Goldwater car dealer who said Price tried to purchase a new car and pass a check which was not accepted.

Authorities met Price while en route to Goldwater and a chase followed.

Plan To Appoint Panel On Aging

Several names are under consideration to head a steering committee which will eventually appoint a Howard County Committee on Aging.

County Judge Lee Porter said he met with three persons this week to form the steering group after a meeting Tuesday by several persons interested in forming a county committee on aging.

Judge Porter, Mary Cochran, volunteer coordinator at Big Spring State Hospital, Katherine Crawford, county Home Demonstration agent, and Jack Powell, Veterans Administration Hospital director, mentioned several names to head the committee.

These persons will be contacted next week and the four some will meet again Friday to select the steering committee.

Term Is Probated After Guilty Plea

Leo Poitras pleaded guilty Thursday in 118th District Court to forgery and passing worthless checks and was handed a three-year probated sentence.

Judge Ralph Cato also gave Poitras two days to pay the checks and six months to pay attorney's fees.

Jack H. Fitzgerald pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and was fined $100 plus costs in Howard County court.

Man Is Slashed

Pat McMahon, 21, 410 E. 18th, was listed in good condition in a local hospital today with a knife wound received Thursday night in a disturbance at a bar on North Birdwell Lane.

Sheriff's deputies said the disturbance occurred about 11:22 p.m. Thursday at Green Acres, just outside the city limits.

A pocket knife was recovered, following the affray, and charges have not been filed. Deputies are still investigating.

Texas Senator Tells 'Kids' At Gatesville To 'Cool It'

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Criss Cole, Houston, has this advice for reform school kids who think they're getting a raw deal from their guards: Cool it.

Cole, a blind Marine veteran, is chairman of the new Senate Youth Affairs Committee which Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes instructed to investigate the Texas Youth Council and alleged brutality at the reform schools the council supervises.

The committee met Thursday afternoon, after most legislators had quit for a three-day weekend. The only scheduled legislative business Friday and Saturday are hearings on the House Appropriations Committee on the general spending bill.

BE CAREFUL

"Much has been said about brutality at the Gatesville schools," Cole told the youth committee. "I don't have a fixed opinion on what's going on at Gatesville, but the committee will find out before we adjourn."

Around 200 inmates have tried to escape from reform school since Jan. 1, Cole said, and "there is no advice. They are at these homes (sic) for a purpose, for a reason. We cannot tolerate a situation without discipline."

"Be very careful and don't overstep the bounds. I don't believe there will be any more brutality at the schools while this committee is meeting."

NO EVIDENCE

The public controversy over the reform schools started last month when the now-disbanded House Juvenile Delinquency Committee heard second-hand reports of brutality at the Gatesville Schools for Boys.

The house committee report is still pending, but the Department of Public Safety told the results of its investigation Thursday.

"Our investigation revealed that there is no evidence to support the contention that mistreatment of inmates at any of the facilities concerned is widespread; that many of the allegations were based on falsehoods."

Proposal To Bus Children Trails

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (AP) — A controversial proposal to bus children from slum schools in New York City into the schools of this affluent nearby Long Island town faces possible defeat at the polls on the basis of partial results.

A Board of Education official estimated a record 13,000 voters voted Thursday. Ballots cast at one place ran against the busing proposal 3,743 to 1,883.

Results at the only other polling place were not known because two voting machines broke down.

When partial results were known, Oliver Garfield, a member of a pro-busing committee, said he would appeal the results of the vote to State Education Commissioner James Allen Jr.

The Board of Education originally planned no vote but the proposal caused such controversy in this predominantly white, heavily Jewish town that the board agreed to a referendum.

Under the plan 40 to 60 primary grade children would be bused from the nearby borough of Queens in New York City. Most would be Negroes. They would be placed, in pairs, in classes here.

Opponents said they feared that busing would hurt the school system by shifting attention from its own under-achievers, would become a tool for Negro militants and would cost money.

Opponents said they feared that busing would hurt the school system by shifting attention from its own under-achievers, would become a tool for Negro militants and would cost money.

The Board of Education originally planned no vote but the proposal caused such controversy in this predominantly white, heavily Jewish town that the board agreed to a referendum.

Under the plan 40 to 60 primary grade children would be bused from the nearby borough of Queens in New York City. Most would be Negroes. They would be placed, in pairs, in classes here.

Opponents said they feared that busing would hurt the school system by shifting attention from its own under-achievers, would become a tool for Negro militants and would cost money.

Stray Dogs, Cats Warning

Chief of Police Jay Banks issued an order this morning calling for stronger enforcement of the city's stray animal ordinance.

"Animal owners would be well advised to have their dogs vaccinated and licensed," Banks said. "Both tags must be displayed on the animal, or it is subject to being picked up."

The city license fee is $1 for each animal. However, vaccination certificates must be shown at the city tax office in City Hall before the city permit will be issued, Banks said.

A veterinarian must administer the medication, he said.

Banks' order this morning went out to uniformed patrolmen to report all stray and dead animals within the city.

"Animal Warden Bob Baker will pick up as many of the animals as possible," Banks said.

Last month Baker removed 84 stray dogs from the city, Banks said. Last year 2,943 animals were taken off the streets.

Sale Of Motor Plates Steady

Sale of 1969 motor vehicle plates continued steady Thursday as $5,400.49 in receipts were reported by the Howard County Tax Collector-Assessor's office.

Mrs. Zirah LaFeve, tax collector, said that sales were running above the 1968 level at the same period, which may prevent a last minute rush for tags before the April 1 deadline.

She urged all owners of trucks to obtain plates as soon as possible because more time is spent registering those vehicles than any others.

Dear Abby

Women And Self-Defense

DEAR ABBY: I am 24 and Danny is 29. We have been married for a year, and this is our first big disagreement:

A local school is offering a course in self-defense, and I want to take it. Danny says that it will detract from my femininity to take such a course.

We live in a big city, and some awful things have been happening to women here. I just want to be able to protect myself should the need arise. Danny is big and strong and can protect me when he's with me... but how about when he's not with me? He says that such a course is for males, not females. What do you think?

A FEMALE
DEAR FEMALE: I think everyone should get all the training available in self-defense — ESPECIALLY women. (I don't know how much muscle Danny has — but a good deal of it is between his ears.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old man, married 30 years to a 50-year-old woman to whom I have been absolutely true until I met this woman. I'll call "Myrtle." She is also married. We met when HER daughter and MY son became engaged. (They're now married.)

Myrtle is no beauty (in fact, my wife is prettier), and I am nothing special, but there was a strong physical attraction from the moment we met. We were thrown together constantly because of our children, and then we agreed to meet alone one afternoon, and BOOM!

We meet twice a week now, and I'd see her every day if I could. Believe me, Abby, this is no passing fancy. I am out of my mind over this woman and she feels the same about me. Her husband is a nice fellow and my wife is a good woman, but Myrtle and I have found something that we never knew existed before.

So far, no one suspects a thing, but our love has grown so strong that I have her on my mind all day. I feel like a 22-year-old kid.

I don't need a Dear Abby to tell me this is wrong, but I can't stop seeing her. We don't want to hurt anyone, but why should we live like this? Would it be a crime to tell the world how we feel, divorce our mates, marry and spend whatever time we have left together?

CONSIDERING IT
DEAR CONSIDERING IT: Each man (and woman) must answer to his own conscience. I say, "Let no man put asunder what God hath joined together." (God will take care of that, too.)

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kosygin Shows After Absence

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, appearing in public after a long absence, joined other Soviet leaders Thursday to welcome Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar to Moscow, Tass news agency said.

Kosygin had not been seen by Western correspondents since Dec. 20. His absence from public functions prompted speculation abroad that he was suffering from a liver ailment or might even be on his way out of the Kremlin hierarchy.

Well, Why Not?

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was winding up a town meeting, held to discuss his $6.4 billion state budget, when he decided to recognize one more questioner.

He pointed to the rear of the auditorium where a group had sat throughout the 3-hour meeting holding aloft a sign that read: "Why not the pike?"

Most assumed it was some sort of protest but when the governor inquired, 11-year-old Christopher Noble and 8-year-old Bill Eaton had a simpler explanation: "We want the pike to be the state fish."

Nixon Seeks Preventive Detention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering legislation that could provide President Nixon with a tool he has indicated is essential in the fight against crime—the right to hold some accused criminals without bail until trial.

Eleven bills have been introduced this session that would, in effect, allow a crime while free on bond and awaiting trial for an earlier offense.

At the time the package was unveiled, Nixon aides conceded preventive detention had not been tested in the courts and said the fewer people a proposal would authorize jailing, the better the chances of its approval.

Nixon also called for a full-fledged public defender program to protect the rights of poor people charged with crimes.

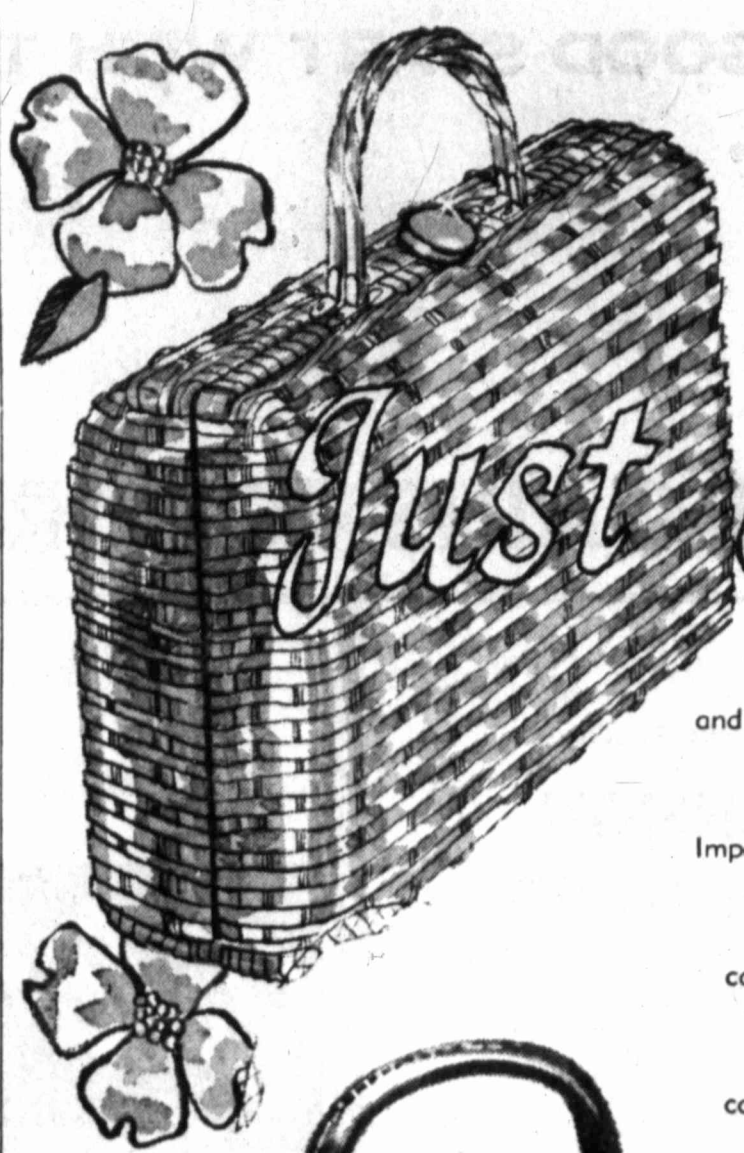

There are two schools of thought on the problem of preventive detentions:

One is that detention violates a person's rights to due process of the law guaranteed by the Constitution. The other is that preventive detention of persons thought to be a menace to society if released on bail is within the legal discretion of judges, and doesn't need further clarification by statute.

The 1966 act provides that any person accused of a noncapital federal crime can be released on bail or his own personal bond, if he is a bona fide resident thought not likely to flee before trial.

The Bail Bond Reform Act of 1966 provides that any person accused of a noncapital federal crime can be released on bail or his own personal bond, if he is a bona fide resident thought not likely to flee before trial.

Preventive detention as a tool to battle the rising crime rate got some added attention Jan. 31 when President Nixon recommended it as part of a package of proposals for the District of Columbia.

Smart-Alecky Variety Show Rubs Wrong Way

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Webster's New World Dictionary defines the word "satire" as "the use of ridicule, sarcasm, irony, etc., to expose, attack, or deride vices, follies etc. . . ."

The viewer who sat through ABC's new "What's It All About, World?" during its premiere Thursday night might conclude the producers and writers who called their comedy-variety hour "satire" either never read the definition or don't know the difference between the smart-alecky and ironic.

FOR SHOCK

The show opened with a silhouette with a Texas accent complaining to "Ladybird" that he missed the White House, at which point another silhouette called "Hubert," chimed in that he did too. Dean Jones, the show's host, then appeared to ask who would have thought six months ago that Havana would become the world's busiest airport.

One sketch had a tough-talking Mafia boss preparing to "integrate" the Black Hand, and picking on a Negro handyman as the first initiate. It wasn't funny—just sort of embarrassing.

In another sketch, a little girl imitated Shirley Temple dancing and singing "It's Only a Paper Moon," dedicated to the astronauts. There was a tedious spoof of a TV interview show.

For shock, there was a sketch about a tap-dancing nun purportedly starring in a movie called "The Swinging Sister." She talked in a combination of pious language and show biz jargon.

Guest star Barbara Bain earnestly recited Pete Seeger's anti-war poem, "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" illustrated by newsreel shots of Hitler, the Japanese surrender and men in Vietnam.

What was probably meant as a put-on—but which came off as a put-down—spoofed the President of the United States by name in song and in a manner that seemed sneering and derogatory. It was part of a sketch that wound up with the cast romping around waving U.S. flags.

Jones, who has a clean, American-boy image, wound up the show by stating that if "we've offended anybody—well, I remember my grandmother said that if you want to clean a cat, you have to start by rubbing its fur the wrong way."

It was not clear just whom he was calling a cat, but a lot of the show rubbed the wrong way.

92nd Birthday For Mrs. E. H. Happel

By RHODA LEMONS

"All I know to do now is just laugh and talk," said Mrs. E. H. Happel, who is observing her 92nd birthday today at Bennett House. Although no special party is being planned in her honor, she has received gifts and messages from her family.

Mrs. Happel, the former Addie Massey, was born in San Augustine, one of twins, in a family of five children. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Massey. The year was 1877, and Massey later moved the family to Haskell, where he was in the dry goods business.

Following her father's death in Haskell, the young Miss Massey and her twin sister moved to Pecos to live with their grandmother.

"I enrolled in a business course," said Mrs. Happel, "and then I went to work as secretary to the Reeves County treasurer. Those were wild and woolly days in Pecos."

While working at the courthouse, a local banker asked her to take a dictation test, which she did ("luckily without error") and was offered a position in the bank. She was about to accept when she was offered a job on the Pecos Weekly. She was complimented on her work there by the Dallas Morning News, who said that the paper "had the least mistakes and typographical errors of any small newspaper in the state."

During this phase in her career, she met the first dentist in the county, a "Southern gentleman" from Alabama. They fell in love and after securing her promise to wait for him, he attended Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. He made a grade average of "98 plus," which, according to Mrs. Happel, has not been equalled to this day. The faculty at the college urged him to stay as an instructor, but he came back to Pecos to marry his betrothed.

The young couple married on Nov. 6, 1902, and on that day, they moved to Big Spring to begin their life together.

"I have never had but one tooth pulled in my life," said Mrs. Happel, "and I constantly teased by husband by asking him how he was going to make a living in dentistry if everyone else had as little need for the service as I did. He made a good living, and he was a good dentist."

She began teaching art classes and continued this for

He is now married and living in a suburb of Fort Worth. Mrs. Happel has three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Witnesses Plan Odessa Meet

Local residents associated with the Big Spring congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are making preliminary plans to attend a three-day Christian conference at Blackshear Junior High School in Odessa the weekend of March 7.

According to Jack O'Shields, presiding minister, the program will include lectures and demonstrations showing how the message of the Bible can help both young and old to cope with the problems of life in these critical times. Area ministers from 16 West Texas and eastern New Mexico congregations will attend the conclave, which will have as its theme, "Make Wise Use of the Remaining Time."

The assembly highlight will come on Sunday, March 9, at 3 p.m., when E. R. Brandt, district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, gives the Bible's answer to the question, "Law and Order — When and How?" Attention will be focused on important Bible prophecies in daily fulfillment and their meaning for genuine Christians and the world in general.

CHRIST'S MIGHTY POWER TAUGHT IN SUNDAY SCRIPTURE

The mighty power of Jesus is the subject of Sunday's lesson. The Scripture reading comes from Mark 4:35-41; 5:25-29, 34.

In the Scripture reading we learn about some of the many miracles Christ performed. People may be able to get over some of their problems and find a happier experience with the Lord, if they can come to understand and want to use His power in a better way. Most people do not experience all the good they can out of their Christianity, and many need a greater trust in the Lord.

Christ's power over nature and the storm should serve as a reminder of His sovereignty and His ability to help even when the obstacles seem unmovable. His clear teachings to His faithful disciples and to us was that we should have faith instead of fear.

This lesson reminds us of the reasons to have the faith required for our salvation. The faith of the woman who had been sick so long is a good reminder of our need for faith, and that our faithless efforts to help ourselves will fail. The lesson teaches that His power is supreme above all that comes in its way.

Trap No Trouble To Golden Bear

Jack Nicklaus files the ball out of the sand toward the pin on the 11th green at Tamarisk Country Club Thursday during the second round of the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic. The ball stopped four feet short and Nicklaus rapped in the putt for a par 3. He finished the round in 71, giving him a two-day total of 145.

Miserable Weather Hurts Links Play

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Scrawled in chalk on a big board in the press tent was the message: "Weather perfect. Temperature 80."

Both board and message were gone today as the 90-hole Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic ventured—perhaps perilously—into the third round.

Leading the way was Rod Funseth, with a 36-hole score of 69-66-135, nine shots under par for the distance.

One stroke back was Trevino, Open champion Lee Trevino, 67-69-136. Billy Casper was down with 71-68-139.

And further back were such esteemed golfers as Jack Nicklaus, 72-71-143, and the three-time defending champion, Arnold Palmer, 72-73-145.

The marathon tournament ends Sunday. To some, it would be a blessing if the end came sooner.

What happened to the missing sign?

It disappeared sometime Thursday from the press tent at Indian Wells Country Club, host club for the 1969 Hope.

It was probably when cold winds were almost whipping the flaps off the tent, the lights

Seguin Draws Heavy Penalty For Fighting

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (AP) — Seguin High School was disqualified for all district basketball honors for two seasons Thursday. Misconduct of students and fans was cited as the reason.

The action arose over a complaint from San Marcos High School and came after a 3½ hour closed door session of the University Interscholastic League's Dist. 28AAAA executive committee.

The six-man group issued only a written statement and made no additional remarks.

"As far as we are concerned, it's closed," San Marcos Athletic Director David Howard said after the meeting.

"I have no comment. I think it would be fruitless for me to say anything else," said Earl Lankford, Seguin basketball coach.

San Marcos officials had complained that an assistant coach and two players were beaten up by several persons after a basketball game at Seguin Jan. 31. The executive committee stated it determined there was "misconduct of students and fans both during and after the basketball game."

Under interscholastic league rules, Seguin can play a normal schedule but cannot receive any district honors and cannot, for example, represent the district in championship play.

Lankford said he felt there was some basis to reports that many of the persons involved in the fight were not high school students.

"I think the majority of them were not students," he said. His team's players, he said, "were totally uninvolved."

The executive committee, composed of principals from the six high schools in Dist. 28AAAA, said in its statement that Seguin is disqualified from all district basketball honors for the seasons of 1968-69 and 1969-70.

The punishment applies only to basketball and no other sport, by the decision. It is a normal procedure for committees such as this to consider the possibility that both sides in the dispute are at fault. However, the San Marcos school was not found at fault and no action was taken against it, officials said.

Temperature 80, the sign said? Maybe so, because electric heaters were working overtime in the press tent.

Forces Tighten Security Grip

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces tightened security around Saigon and Da Nang today as part of the campaign to prevent a repetition of last year's Communist Tet offensive.

Security forces stopped hundreds of vehicles at checkpoints along key highways leading into Saigon, searching for hidden arms and munitions that could support an attack on the capital.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces also cordoned off the Marble Mountain area south of Da Nang and were conducting an extensive search operation.

TET TRUCE

The Viet Cong has proclaimed a cease-fire from Feb. 15 to Feb. 22 for Tet, the lunar new year feast during which last year the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacked Saigon, Da Nang and 100 other population centers. South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu said Thursday night his government was ready "in principle" to declare a Tet truce, but he was not ready to announce the dates. It is expected to be much shorter than the Viet Cong truce, and Thieu has canceled the holiday leaves that usually are given.

NOT SHOT DOWN

The U.S. Command also revised its total of helicopter losses in the war, raising it to 2,352. This included 10 helicopters not previously listed which the command said were not shot down but were lost due to mechanical failures or enemy rocket and mortar attacks on helicopter bases.

Despite President Nguyen Van Thieu's news conference statement Thursday that his army "is ready... to alleviate the burden for U.S. troops," a U.S. source today said that withdrawal of American combat troops probably won't begin before summer.

"We won't know until early summer what we can prudently return to the United States," the source said.

He added that withdrawal plans have not progressed very far.

"It's complicated," the source said. "It's going to take time."

CR '69 Continues Tonight And Saturday

Lynda Lloyd, Mike Hubbard, Helen Johnson, Corky Harris, Pat Stinson, Brent Brooks, Carol Perry, Coy Reagan and Patty Bennett.

Boy's Murder Story Similar

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy may have witnessed the fatal shooting of Mrs. Majorie Osinski Saturday night in a Fort Worth shopping center parking lot, police said Thursday.

Detective Lt. Oliver Ball said the boy's story may be second-hand or exaggerated.

"He may have heard it from someone or he may have seen something," Ball said. He added that the boy's story is similar to the one Mrs. Osinski gave at St. Joseph's hospital where she died Monday.

Mrs. Osinski told Sister Philomena Madden, assistant administrator at St. Joseph's, that a man stopped her in the parking lot Saturday night to ask directions.

"He doubled up like he was having chest pains," Sister Philomena quoted Mrs. Osinski. "and I went to help him. He hit me and took my purse and I started running. Then he shot me."

CR '69 Is Off To A Good Start

It was "up, up and away" Thursday night when 650 guests and 250 paid admissions saw the first performance of Campus Revue '69 at the Big Spring High School Auditorium.

Producers said this morning that additional chairs are being set up for the Friday and Saturday night performances in order to meet the demand for tickets. These will be sold at $1.50, only at the door. In addition, some 45 seats are still available. The box office opens at 7 p.m. and curtain time is 8 p.m.

The show offers considerable latitude in its presentation, and ranges from classical music to songs of Broadway musicals, from fantasy to social comment. The band students appear to be having fun, and the audience Thursday joined in. Some students performed in a professional manner. Kent Fish trapped the attention and admiration of the audience with his smooth trumpet solo.

Twinkle Johnson offers songs from "Mame" and "Hello, Dolly" with a voice of volume and quality.

The show leans heavily on a "Laugh-In" format with the audience never knowing what is going to happen next or from where it is going to come. "The Green Door" is a constant source of surprise appearances. Action comes from all over the stage (even from above) and down the aisles.

The costumes are excellent. The Walt Disney salute reproduces the well-known film characters in great fidelity with the artistic help of Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, who made the head pieces.

The humor in the show is in good taste and well planned. Tighter cueing and timing Thursday would have added much to the show, between some of the skits. With some exceptions, the humor was understandable to the whole audience. The local jokes were in broad enough material that they were funny to all the audience, but had a special kick for the "in crowd."

Much of the credit for the success of the show must go to the stage crew, composed of David Knous, Mike Hubbard, Don Thompson, Allen Maxwell, Coy Reagan, Gary Stuteville, Mike Chenault, Don Click, Roger Grisham, David Harvell, Larry Abbott, Bill Jackson, Terry Brumley, David Simpson and Skipper Eggleston. They lived up to their role of keeping the show going.

The special guests in the audience included city officials, news media representatives, patients from the Big Spring State Hospital, VA Hospital, Rehabilitation Center, and special education students. — K.L.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Widening public protests against the Sentinel antimissile system apparently were significant in the Nixon administration's decision to hold up work and take another look at the project.

The protests, centering in a half dozen metropolitan areas chosen for antimissile installations, have resulted in a surge of letters to congressmen and senators.

Critical mail reaching the Pentagon, some referred by the White House, also reflects concern of people living elsewhere in the country. The letters express worry about the growth of nuclear weapons and any possible negative effect the U.S. antimissile system would have on arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

The rising public objections are credited with winning some recruits to a Senate group which last year failed in a series of legislative efforts to block funds for the Sentinel. They hope to succeed this year.

Talks Facing Sterile Lock

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace talks face the prospect of a sterile deadlock that some delegates believe could continue for months.

Chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge warned against "false optimism" after Thursday's fruitless third session which lasted six hours.

"Although we do our best to achieve progress," Lodge told newsmen, "the going is hard. Therefore there must be no false optimism, but we must not be discouraged."

In the meeting, Lodge again asked North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front to drop polemics and propaganda statements and get down to specific de-escalation measures beginning with restoration of the demilitarized zone.

The Hanoi and NLF delegates repeated their rejection of any de-escalation measure not linked with a political settlement.

It's Boom Day For Giant Still

EAGLETOWN, Okla. (AP) — Federal Alcohol Tax Unit agents and Sheriff Charlie Ray Hudgins dynamited a moonshine liquor still north of Eagletown in the mountains of McCurtain County Thursday.

Sheriff Hudgins said he and the federal agents arrested Bub Winslow of Broken Bow and Irish Cawley of Fort Towson. They were arraigned at Hugo before a U.S. commissioner on charges of operating an illicit still. Both were jailed in lieu of bond.

The sheriff said the still was valued at an estimated $10,000. He said 110 gallons of moonshine liquor were destroyed in the blast.
