Attorney Art Williams receives probated sentence in DWI case

Local attorney Art Williams was convicted of a DWI second offense misdemeanor in 39th District Court on Thursday afternoon, Apr. 6, in Haskell before Judge Royal Hart of San Angelo. The offense occurred on Oct. 21, 1994 and was transferred out of County Court to District Court. L.W. Jones III represented the state in the case and Sam Moore was the defense attorney representing Williams.

Williams entered a plea of guilty, and a plea bargain that had been worked out between Jones and Moore was presented to the court. The terms of the plea bargain sentenced Williams to one year's confinement in the Haskell County Jail and a fine of $2,500 plus $209.50 in court costs. The jail term was probated for two years with Williams required to spend 30 consecutive days in confinement, to begin June 1, and to give 200 hours of community service at the rate of 20 hours per month under the Community Supervision and Corrections Officer in Knox County.

Williams waived a jury trial and accepted the plea bargain. Judge Hart found Williams guilty as charged and accepted the terms of the plea bargain.

Commissioner's Court approves request of extension of credit to Lone Star Peanut Co.

In Monday's regular meeting, the Commissioner's Court approved a request to loan Lone Star Peanut Company, Inc. a $65,000 extension of credit out of the Economic Development Fund for Haskell County on a 7-year note at four percent interest. The money in the fund was an $83,000 grant received from the Texas Department of Commerce in 1988 for the purpose of loaning out money to employ persons in Haskell County. Lone Star had borrowed money in 1988 from the fund to help get the new business into operation. The original loan plus interest had all been repaid, with the exception of the final note which is due in Dec., 1995.

Cole Turner, general manager of Lone Star Peanut Company, Inc. was instrumental in acquiring the grant for Haskell County in 1988.

Turner appeared before the court on Tuesday with the request for assistance and also updated the court on how well the peanut business is going in Haskell County. Turner said that the Peanut Quota Program will probably be done away with in the next few years and will throw the market open for more peanut farmers in Haskell County. He said also, that there is a possibility of a peanut processing plant in the Haskell–Knox County area somewhere in the not so distant future.

Both Commissioner Bill Hester and Ray Perry spoke out on behalf of Lone Star. Commissioner Hester told the court, "I feel that Lone Star Peanut Company has been a real good benefit to our area and county." Commissioner Perry said, "There is no doubt in my mind that it has been a big asset to the county." (See separate story on Lone Star Peanut Company, Inc.).

In other business, the Court tabled a request from the 13-County Drug Task Force for $3,022 in funds for Haskell County's pro rata share for the Drug Task Force to help combat drug trafficking in the county.

Sheriff Johnny Mills told the court that Haskell County has not used the Task Force at all this past year. Judge Robinson said, "If we're getting our money's worth, it would be alright to spend the money, otherwise I don't think it's worth it." The matter was tabled to check it out further, before a decision is made on it.

Company's growth good for county economy

Lone Star Peanut Co., Inc. was chartered as a corporation in 1988 by eleven growers. These growers, representing approximately 3,500 acres, felt that it was in best interest of the peanut producers in this area to be able to market their crop in the local area instead of sending their crop to Oklahoma or into Central Texas to be marketed.

Lone Star has proven over the years to have been a benefit not only to the local producers but to the city of Rochester and Haskell County.

Lone Star Peanut Co., Inc. was capitalized in the beginning by investments from the stockholders along with the Small Business Administration assistance, help from the Texas Department of Agricultural through their Ag Link Program, Home State Bank of Rochester, and the Texas Department of Commerce working with Haskell County. The initial facility required approximately $250,000 in capital and equipment.

The new facility was built around an old cotton gin that was acquired from Paymaster Cotton Oil. The cotton gin had ceased operations three years earlier and it appeared it probably would never operate again.

Lone Star's first year of operation processed 5,000 tons of peanuts for producers in the Rochester area. This amount of tonnage was over the capacity of the facility to handle in a timely manner and plans were to add enough equipment over the next five years to increase the capacity to a minimum of 14,000 tons. Each year since the first year of operation, Lone Star has added more equipment to try to reach the goal of 14,000 tons capacity. The expansion has been slow but the growth in peanut acreage has justified the expansion.

Over the last six years, the tonnage has ranged from a low of 5,000 tons the first year to 18,000 tons in the fourth year of operation. This past year, 1994, Lone Star processed 11,800 tons for the local growers.

Since the first year of operation with a facility costing $250,000 and handling 5,000 tons of peanuts, the operation has grown to a facility valued at $750,000 and handling 12,000 tons of peanuts. The peanut acreage in Haskell County has increased proportionately causing Lone Star to constantly try to process the peanut crop in a manner consistent with approved peanut handling procedures and at the same time trying to provide a service to the local and area growers.

Over the past six years, along with an increase in peanut acreage, and numerous expansion projects, the level of service provided by Lone Star has also increased. These increases have necessitated an increase in employment for the local area. Lone Star operated the first year with only 21 employees. The following years each showed an increase in employees up to a high of 53 this past year. Although the employment is seasonal, it usually lasts from the middle of September until the middle of January. The payroll figures for this past year indicate $187,000 to people in the local area.

Texas Aggie Muster set for April 21

Former students of Texas A&M from Haskell, Jones, Stonewall, Knox and Kent Counties will assemble at the Slim Sorrell's Park in Rule on Friday, Apr. 21, for the annual Texas Aggie Muster. The Muster activities will begin with the Muster at 6:30 p.m., followed by a catered Bar-B-Q meal and guest speaker. The Muster is open to all former Texas A&M students and their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M.

This year's Muster chairman, Erick Richards–'93, has invited J.T. Smith–'74, Farm Editor of the Abilene Reporter News, to be the guest speaker and invites everyone interested in attending the 1995 Muster to contact Wallar Overton at 864-2958 or Glenn Brzozowski at 864-3158 for reservations.

Richards reports that Texas A&M has grown from a small Land Grant College to one of the leading research and educational institutions of the nation. The tradition of the Aggie Muster dates back to 1883 and has been held annually since. More than 400 Musters will be held around the world this year "wherever Texas A&M former students live or work."

During wars, Aggies have mustered in foxholes, on the battlefields, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held on Corregidor Island shortly before the Japanese captured it in 1942.

Every Muster ceremony is the same Richards reported. Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent because of death since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers "Here."

Dudensing, Latham wed in candlelight ceremony

Sandra Denise Dudensing became the bride of Kent Marcus Latham in a double ring candlelight ceremony on Thursday, Mar. 9 at the Four Square Church in Knox City with Danny Burt, great-uncle of the bride, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Debbie Dudensing of Knox City and Dewie Dudensing of McCamey. She is the granddaughter of Kenneth and Louise Burt and R.J. and Imagene Duncan of Munday and the late Melton Dudensing.

The groom is the son of Ruddy and Linda Latham of Munday. He is the grandson of Al and Lodean Latham and Edith Hobert and the late Donald Hobert, all of Munday.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She chose a formal length designer gown fashioned of candlelight satin. The princess style gown designed with Rennaissance sleeves and a skirt that swept into a cathedral length train was lavishly accented with Alencon lace medallions and seed pearls. Medallions and lace scallops completed the edging on the train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a matching halo of pearls.

The bride's bouquet was a flowing cascade of bridal white and peach roses, miniature white mums, baby's breath and solid green English ivy.

For the traditional, something borrowed, something blue, the bride wore a blue garter that the groom's mother wore at her wedding. For something new, the bride wore a white and peach lace garter given to her by her mother. She wore a six pence in her shoe for something old.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with a black cummerbund and black bow tie with a fresh bridal white rose boutonniere, accented with miniature mums and baby's breath.

Jessica Williams of Knox City was maid of honor. She wore a straight tea length dress, fashioned with an embroidered bodice with a rounded-scooped neckline and small buttons down the front of the skirt.

Sarah Burt, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was attired in a white lace dress and carried a white wicker basket, with peach ribbons, filled with fresh peach and white rose petals. She completed her outfit with a white straw hat edged in lace.

Trent Tidwell was ring bearer. He carried a white lace-trimmed heart shaped pillow bearing the rings. He was attired in a black suit that matched the groomsmen.

Candlelighters were Melinda Latham, sister of the groom and David Dudensing, brother of the bride. Melinda wore a tea length peach colored lace dress, accented with a corsage of peach roses and baby's breath. David wore a black tuxedo with a black cummerbund and black bow tie.

Bryan Latham, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Kevin Oustad and Steven Reeves. They wore black tuxedos with black cummerbunds and black bow ties.

Trisha Roberts of Knox City, accompanied by Dottie Lowrey of Knox City, provided music selected by the bride and groom. She sang "Ice Castles" after the processional and following the declaration of intention, she sang "The Rose."

The sanctuary was decorated with candelabras forming a candlelit backdrop of peach candles decorated with fresh green ivy and fern with peach ribbon. Peach bows with green English ivy marked the pews on the aisle. Hurricane lamps with peach candles and English ivy accented the sides of the sanctuary.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother hosted the reception at the fellowship hall, which was decorated to continue the bride's colors of peach and forest green.

The bride is a graduate of Knox City High School. She is currently a freshman attending Cisco Junior College in Abilene.

The groom is a graduate of Munday High School and is currently attending Abilene Christian University where he is a junior.

The couple enjoyed a honeymoon cruise in the Western Caribbean to Mexico, Grand Caymon and Jamaica as a wedding present from the groom's maternal grandmother. The couple will reside in Abilene.

Students, parents enjoy supper

The Annual Spring Supper for students and parents of Chapter 1 Regular, Migrant and Language Enrichment classes at Haskell Elementary was held Tuesday night, Apr. 11, at the school cafeteria. These students are more informally referred to as the Browning's kids and Mrs. Dunnam's students.

These classes give additional help for children who require a different style of learning or who work best in small classes with individual attention. In some cases, the student may come for several years, or for a short time for the the extra help. Achievement Test scores, classroom referrals, Slingerland Test, and TASS reading scores are all used to identify the students who might benefit from these two programs. The Migrant identification comes from the movement from one school district to another for the family to engage jobs related to agriculture.

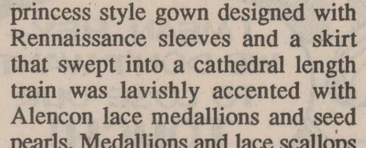

The dinner was well attended. A brief report was given on all programs. The parents were delighted to visit the "Rain Forest" that was designed and installed by their children. This was a joint project with Mrs. Griffith's second grade class. The show case, "Swimming through Spring," was another example of their children's art ability. It also carried out the ecology theme for the month of April. The students' art work of fish and underwater creatures swam over the tables during dinner.

Door prizes were awarded, thanks to the following businesses: Hassen's, Modern Way, Smitty's, Sweet Shop, True Value Hardware and Video Mania. The school appreciates the support they receive when calling on merchants. The parents enjoy knowing the business community is a proud supporter of education in Haskell.

OPINION

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — An $80.2 billion state budget proposal for 1996-97 was unanimously approved by the Texas Senate last week.

Without raising taxes, the Senate version would increase funding for schools, prisons and health and human services, while giving the state's lowest-paid teachers a modest pay hike and reducing the number of state employees.

The proposal is $2.6 billion more than a state budget bill approved a week earlier by the Texas House.

The Senate budget outspends the House version in three major areas: $1 billion more for health and human services, $757 million more for education and $474 million more for prisons.

$92 Million Teacher Raise

The Senate's proposed pay raise for teachers would cost $92 million, an amount far below the across-the-board hike in pay and benefits teachers sought, which would have required the passage of an $800 million tax bill to fund.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said the budget, if combined with the state's 1994-95 budget, puts $3.4 billion in new money into Texas public schools.

"Now," he told the Houston Chronicle, "I hope, from the bottom of my heart, that some of that money is filtering down to teachers."

Of the $80.2 billion, $45.5 billion comes from state sales and business taxes and lottery proceeds. Of the $45.5 billion, 59 percent is going to public and higher education, Montford said.

Regarding anticipated funding cuts in federal welfare programs, Montford suggested that the state set aside $250 million. If as expected, the U.S. Congress changes welfare funding to a block-grant method, the Legislature likely would go into special session to consider ways to gain adequate funding, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said.

Bullock, who presides over the Senate, told the Dallas Morning News, that the approval of the budget opens the way for consideration of other bills that have been on hold at the committee level, such as parental notification of abortion.

Telecom Bill Moves Ahead

The House State Affairs Committee voted 15-0 last week to approve a telecommunications bill that would open the door for competition in local telephone service.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Curtis Seidlits, D-Sherman, is expected to go before the House later this month.

A provision in the bill seeks to expand the number of local calling service areas in which consumers could make unlimited local telephone calls rather than pay long-distance charges.

Rep. Steve Wolens, D-Dallas, took issue with a provision in the bill that would let local telephone companies keep "phantom tax" money collected from ratepayers and apply it to their infrastructure commitment. The committee voted 13-2 to table his amendment.

Prior to the committee hearing, AT&T chairman Bob Allen visited with Gov. George W. Bush about the bill. According to the Austin American-Statesman, Allen told Bush, "... this is a lop-sided bill, and if it's passed without any changes, it's going to keep AT&T out of the local market. That's not good for us and not good for Texas."

Senate OKs Health Bills

The Senate last week passed and sent to the House two bills aimed at increasing the number of doctors practicing in rural areas.

Twenty-five Texas counties have no primary care physicians, and 229 counties have been designated by the federal government as underserved.

The bills would create a program through which the state would match up to $25,000 a year a medically underserved area's grant to recruit a doctor. Up to $250,000 in matching grants could be awarded annually.

Bush Names 2 Appointees

Gov. George W. Bush has nominated Austin lawyer Roderick Bordelon his choice for Texas' public insurance counsel.

If confirmed by the Senate, Bordelon, 36, will become the state advocate for insurance consumers, replacing Mark Kincaid, an appointee of former Gov. Ann Richards.

Also, Bush nominated Dallas lawyer David M. Laney to the three-member Texas Transportation Commission, which oversees maintenance and construction of state roads and highways.

If confirmed by the Senate, he will replace Ruben Cardenas of McAllen.

Other Highlights

- Under a bill tentatively approved by the Senate, youths (under 18) riding bicycles on public roadways would be required to wear protective helmets. Since the bill does not include penalties, several senators questioned why the measure was needed.
- Gov. Bush has nominated State District Judge Jim R. Wright of Eastland as a justice on the 11th Court of Appeals.

April is 'Child Abuse Prevention' month

The month of April is Child Abuse Prevention Month. Following is a list of facts concerning child abuse:

•In 1961, child abuse was formerly recognized by the medical community as "battered child syndrome."

•In 1992, state child protective services agencies received and referred for investigation, approximately 1.9 million reports of alleged child abuse and neglect which involved an estimated 2.9 million children.

•Abuse and neglect was found to be substantiated or indicated in 993,000 victims in 1992. Based on reports from 44 states, 1,100 children died from abuse or neglect.

•Based on 1992 reports of substantiated or indicated maltreatment, 49 percent suffered neglect, 23 percent physical abuse, 14 percent sexual abuse and 17 percent other forms of maltreatment.

•Over the years, the link between substance abuse and child abuse has strengthened. Use of alcohol and other drugs by parents has been identified as a major factor contributing to child maltreatment and death.

•Oftentimes child maltreatment has negative short and long term effects on children's development and mental health.

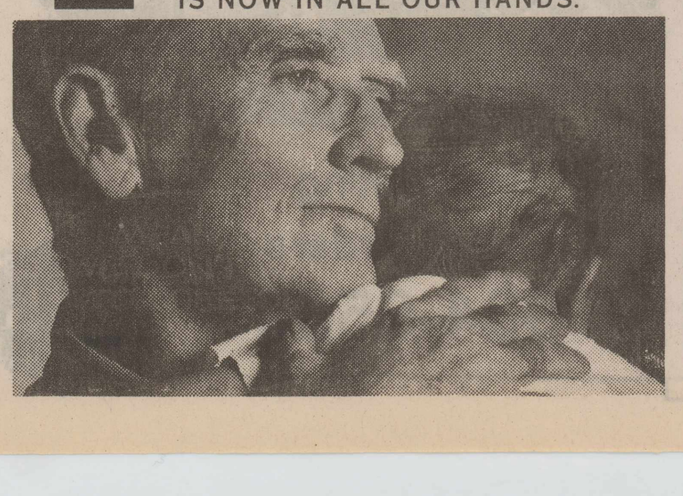

•Child abuse effects may often be obvious years later. Violence, suicide, delinquency, drug and alcohol abuse and forms of criminality are frequently related to child abuse.

•15 to 38 percent of women report experiences at various types of sexual victimization during childhood and adolescence and approximately 10 percent of men report sexual abuse during childhood and adolescence according to studies of adults.

•Child abuse occurs in all racial, ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic groups. However, physical abuse and neglect is more likely to occur among people in poverty.

For information on how you and others can help prevent child abuse, you can contact Lou Gilly, County Extension Agent-Family and Consumer Sciences at 101 S. Ave. D in Haskell or call 817-864-2546.

THE ABILITY TO STOP CHILD ABUSE IS NOW IN ALL OUR HANDS.

Senate news

by Senator Tom Haywood

With less than 50 days left in this legislative session, the Texas Senate has already addressed many of the major issues facing our state. Tort reform is continuing to progress through the legislative process in both the House and the Senate, and a rewrite of the Education Code has passed the Senate and is currently being considered by the House. A "lean and mean," no tax increase appropriations bill has been passed by both the House and Senate, while a tough juvenile justice reform bill passed the House and is currently being studied by the Senate Criminal Justice Committee. A strengthening of the state's new penal code has passed both houses of the legislature, and is being negotiated in a conference committee to work out differences in the two bills. I look forward to the successful passage of all of this legislation, along with welfare and medicaid reform, the concealed handgun law, and many other important legislative reforms.

This week, I want to discuss a package of criminal justice legislation passed by the Senate over the last few days which deals with the worst kind of criminals in our society - child molesters and other sex offenders. These are criminals who rob their victims of self esteem. Citizens of Quanah, in Hardeman County, recently faced the horror of finding 3 paroled child molesters in their community, with no warning and no recourse. The air of suspicion and fear has created a "siege" type attitude in the town, which holds the entire community hostage to the possibility that these criminals will strike again.

I am happy to tell you that tough new legislation passed the Texas Senate over the last few weeks which deals with these criminals in a tough and certain fashion, and which ensures that situations such as the one in Quanah won't happen again without plenty of community input. While this may come too late for folks such as the citizens of Quanah, it is my hope that these changes will prevent future problems in dealing with such criminals. These laws, if passed by the House and signed by the Governor, will represent some of the toughest in the nation regarding child molesters and sex offenders.

Fourteen bills are included in Ashley's Laws, eleven of which have already passed the Senate. One more is schedule to be considered by the Senate next week, while the other two will be considered later this legislative session. All Ashley's Laws will probably pass both the Senate and the House this session, and will become law with Governor Bush's signature later this year.

A victim of a sexual offense must be notified when an offender is released on community supervision, or when an offender escapes. Additionally, the victim is allowed to testify in person to the parole board before a parole decision is made.

When a sexual offender is released on parole, a judge may restrict the activities of a parolee to prevent the offender from going near a place where children are likely to be, such as a school or playground. Upon being released, the sex offender will be registered with the Department of Public Safety, and the names of child molesters will be printed in a newspaper in the community to which they are being returned. Volunteer agencies will have access to criminal records to prevent such offenders from gaining access to victims through volunteer type activities.

Finally, a system of legal education and information sharing will be established which will allow law enforcement agencies and prosecutors to have access to any and all information regarding sex offenders. Such legal education will be mandatory for all judges and lawyers as part of their continuing legal education requirements.

That is a brief description of the legislation in Ashley's Laws. I hope these laws will begin to address the problem of sex offenders in our society. If you have any questions, or want to talk about these or any other legislative issued, I encourage you to contact me in Austin at (512) 463-0130 or in my District Office at (800) 866-7330. If you prefer, you can write me at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Red Cross blood drive to be conducted April 18

No other chemical or substance provides the same benefits as lifesaving blood. The Red Cross, however, can supply blood for hospital patients in this area only if enough health donors give. The community has the opportunity to help again at the Haskell County blood drive on Tuesday, Apr. 18, from 3 to 6 p.m. It will be held at the Family Activity Center at First Baptist Church in Haskell.

The message, "UB12" appears on the new blood donor t-shirts that each donor will receive next Tuesday. The t-shirts have already been delivered, so donors will be able to take their shirts home with them, rather than having to pick it up later.

Thanks to the generous volunteer donors in our community who have given in the past, patients in 114 hospitals throughout Oklahoma and Texas have been helped.

Someone needs blood every 12 seconds. When the people of Haskell take the time to give one unit of blood, that unit goes on to help save three lives. The donated blood is separated into three components: platelets, plasma and red blood cells. These differing products are administered to patients according to their individual and varying needs. And the need is never fully met in a one-day or one-week blood drive because tomorrow, the need is there again.

For those Haskell residents who have never donated or who haven't given recently, I encourage you to take time to give. Prospective donors must be 17 or older, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in general good health. Donating blood is safe. Blood donors are in no danger of contracting HIV/AIDS or hepatitis. A new and sterile needle is used for each donor and the needle site is made aseptic before the blood is drawn.

What better way to celebrate Easter than to give your blood, as Jesus did at Calvary, to save others. Remember, blood comes from the heart, please give.

Each member is to bring a container and dry or fresh flowers, grass, weeds, or anything for an arrangement. Mrs. Rhea has requested each person to bring tools to work with, e.g. scissors, clippers, holders or frogs, as they are sometimes called; also styrofoam is sometimes nice to have.

Everyone is asked to bring a sack lunch and a drink. The lunch break will be at 11 a.m.

If you are interested in learning flower design and arranging, please come; guests are always welcome. You will have a fun day that you will long remember.

Correction

In the Haskell County FCE Council story that was printed in the Apr. 6 edition of the Haskell Free Press, it was reported that all 4-H clubs in the county prefer to each donate $10 each in lieu of a fund raiser, so there will be money to send three delegates to the State meeting.

It should have read, each member of all four clubs in the county prefer to each donate $10 per person in lieu of a fund raiser.

We apologize for any inconvenience that this may have caused anyone.

Friendship Is A Precious Gift

God sends us special grace
And very special friends
When we confront road blocks
Too big to comprehend.

And God sends special strength
And special help to us
And very special friends
When we forget to trust.

Each day our Father sends
Things special from above,
And very special friends
To cherish and to love.

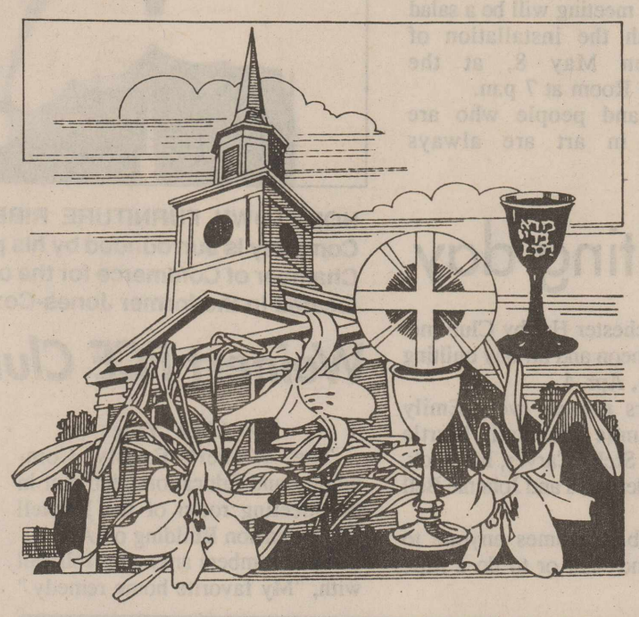

Thank you God for those friends . . . and each act of kindness shown to the family of Maude Williams.

WORSHIP TOGETHER

We are free ...to observe our different religions.
— Wendell L. Willkie

"Ye shall keep it a feast to the Lord throughout your generations."
— Exodus 12:14

WE CELEBRATE OUR MOST SACRED HOLIDAYS IN SPRING

In every year, when spring is underway,
Each faith observes a sacred holiday,
At different times, or they may coincide;
For this, the calendar must be our guide.
Now, as our Bible lessons will relate,
We all have something to commemorate:
For some of us, that Jesus died to save
Us all from sin, and rose up from the grave;
For others, who began Good Friday's feast,
That Pharaoh's slaves were finally released.
Whatever the event you celebrate,
Your House of Worship's services await,
With sermons of incalculable worth,
Of freedom, hope and joy for all the earth.

Renowned watercorlor artist presents program at Brazos West Art Club meeting

By Gladys O'Neal

The Brazos West Art Club met Monday at 7 p.m. in the Haskell National Bank Community Room.

The program was presented by Judy Hayes, a renowned watercolor artist from Graham, who is well known throughout Texas. She painted a beautiful landscape with watercolors. Graham brought samples of watercolor paper that she makes using different plants. She uses irises and cattail leaves for texture. It was a very interesting technique.

Iva Lee Gipson, the president, presided over a short business meeting. The minutes were read by Secretary Dena Cunningham and Ruth Ann Klose gave the Treasurer's report. Doris Jordan presented the new slate of officers for 1995–96 to be voted upon. The slate read as follows:

President–Iva Lee Gipson; First Vice-President–Fern Livingood; Second Vice-President–Doris Jordon; Secretary–Dena Cunningham; Treasurer–Ruth Ann Klose; and Historian and Reporter–Gladys O'Neal.

Delicious refreshments with the Easter motif were served to twelve people and one guest, Gladys Mowrey from Graham.

The next meeting will be a salad supper with the installation of officers on May 8, at the Community Room at 7 p.m.

Guests and people who are interested in art are always welcome.

Getting in Touch With Our Feelings and Emotions, topic at Parents meet

The final session in a four-week series of Parents Reaching Out was held Tuesday, Apr. 4. The topic was "Getting in Touch with Our Feelings and Emotions." A group of parents examined and shared ways that can help their children express their emotions in acceptable ways.

When a child lashes out, the adult can recognize the emotion and give it a name. If a child says about a new baby in the family, "I wish he weren't ours so he would go away." The parent's normal reaction is to try to explain that she doesn't really mean that because it's her new brother. Instead the adult might recognize and name the emotion. "It seems that you think she is getting all the attention. That is scary to think someone else is taking your place. Can we talk about it? Maybe we can spend a few minutes before bedtime reading together, just the two of us."

A teenager might say, "Everyone else gets to stay out later, why can't I?" The parent's reaction is "Because I'm not responsible for everyone else." This answer although used often, only makes the teenager lash back with another negative remark and tempers usually flare.

A parent might respond with, "It's disappointing to come home earlier than your friends." (You are letting him have ownership of his feelings, rather than denying him.) "I worry when you are out late. Can we work out something that we both can live with?" (This helps the child learn to use problem solving to figure out solutions instead of arguing and anger.)

Listing options and deciding on solutions can be a better option than having a child deny or suppress emotions. The anger may subside to only flare out again at another time and in another way. School problems, not doing homework, breaking curfew, crying, hitting, screaming, turning to drugs or alcohol, eating disorders are only a few behaviors that grow out of denied or suppressed emotions.

Another way might include these steps in dealing with anger. Take time out in the early stage of anger. (Send the child to a time out spot or the parent leave the room). Cool down. End time out and try to deal with the problem. Return to time out (if needed). This prevents negative words or actions from occurring in the heat of the moment.

All of these suggestions require some thought before the occasion is a reality and sometimes they require some practice. The parenting sessions are a good time to try on some of these ideas. All kinds of options are available if what you are doing isn't working. If I want change, then I must be willing to change me first.

Parents Reaching Out will continue to hold sessions periodically. If a parent is satisfied with behaviors and attitudes of their children, then our workshops may not be for you, but if (even when the good days are there) you think it should be easier, you may want to invest some time in one of our sessions.

We have fun and also touch on some real life parenting issues. We learn through sharing, role playing and fun activities. No one is asked to do more than he/she is willing to do. No one is put on the spot and the facilitators do not have all the answers and they admit it up front. A curriculum has been provided by Practical Parenting Education and additional books and some tapes are being purchased to give added dimension to the program.

If you have questions or wish to suggest a topic or issue to addressed, please call 864-2654 and leave a message and one of the educator/facilitators will return you call as soon as possible. This will be an ongoing community service so watch for further sessions.

Parents Reaching Out would like to thank the following businesses for contributing door prizes. Conners Nursery, Double A, Haskell National Bank, Hatahoe, Personality-Slipper Shoppe and Sonic have shown positive support for the youth and their parents by willingly supporting this program.

Speck presents program at Beta Chi Chapter meeting

The Beta Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met Sunday, Apr. 2 at the First Baptist Church in Munday.

President Vida White called the meeting to order. Kathyleen Bowen, chairperson of the ceremonies committee, assisted by Cheryl Urbanczyk and Linda Edrington, initiated Kewpie Duncan into honorary membership of Beta Chi.

Judy Burnett introduced the guest speaker, Sherry Speck. Speck, who teaches math for grades six through eight at O'Brien, spoke to members about the Saxon Math Program. According to Speck, this program, which is in its second year at O'Brien, is one of the best ways to get student back to the basics of math. It was described as an entirely different way of teaching math.

Cathy Bartley presented the Red Rose Salute for March to First Vice-President, Judy Burnett. The Red Rose Salute for April was presented to Betsy McManamon, recording secretary.

The meeting was adjourned by Vida White who then led the benedicitions. Members sang the "Delta Kappa Gamma" song accompanied by Mary Martin.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses from Munday and Goree.

Haskell County FCE Club members attend District III FCE meeting at Childress

By Myrtie Phemister

Wednesday, Apr. 5 was a gala day for Dist. III FCE Club members, as 165 women gathered in Childress for their annual meeting. The theme of the meeting was "FCE and Communities, Committed to Changing Lives." Childress, Hall and Hardeman County Clubs hosted the event at the First United Methodist Church in Childress.

The General Assembly was called to order at 10 a.m., after a hospitality hour of delightful refreshments. Childress County 4-H Club members presented colors and led the group in the pledge to the American flag and the Texas flag.

Rhonda Welch, Dist. FCE Director, chaired the event and gave the TAFCE "Vision for the Future." Childress County welcomed the members and guests, and Clay County gave the response, after which Hall County, at the piano, led the group in songs.

Roll call of counties was called by Kent County. Haskell County responded with 16 members and one guest present, with three fifty-year members being recognized at a special Recognition and Awards service.

Haskell County' honorees for fitly years of service included Mabel Overton, Agnes Winchester and Henrietta Rueffer, all of Haskell.

Three workshops were presented for the day, with Martha Crawford, TAFCE President, bringing a "Message from the State Board." A question and answer period was allowed.

"May All Your Weeds Be Wildflowers" was the title of a program and demonstration, using the pepper weed, the broom weed and many other wild weeds and flowers that were gathered, treated and dyed, and made into beautiful arrangements. Owners of the Caprock Floral Ranch of Silverton were the demonstration leaders.

Kristie Morgan of Hall County gave an enthusiastic talk on the subject, "Wellness for Women." She stated that the three areas of wellness includes physical, emotional/social and spiritual.

The physical includes diet, exercise and medical checkups. The emotional/social area includes a self-image and esteem, play, creativity and management skills. The spiritual is a relationship with a higher power – God. Wellness is achieved from a balance of these three areas.

Jane Johnson, of Turkey, was speaker for the afternoon. She and her husband purchased an abandoned hotel in Turkey and have restored it. It is now internationally known with guests from many nations having visited the hotel. Johnson was a soft-spoken, dynamic speaker and inspired her audience.

Elaine Houston, Dist. Extension Director, reported on the calendar of upcoming events and presented extension remarks. The next district meeting will be Cultural Arts Day, to be held Aug. 9–10 at the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood.

Two sixty-year members, Lois Turner of Kent County and Myra Phillips of Wilbarger County, were introduced and presented awards.

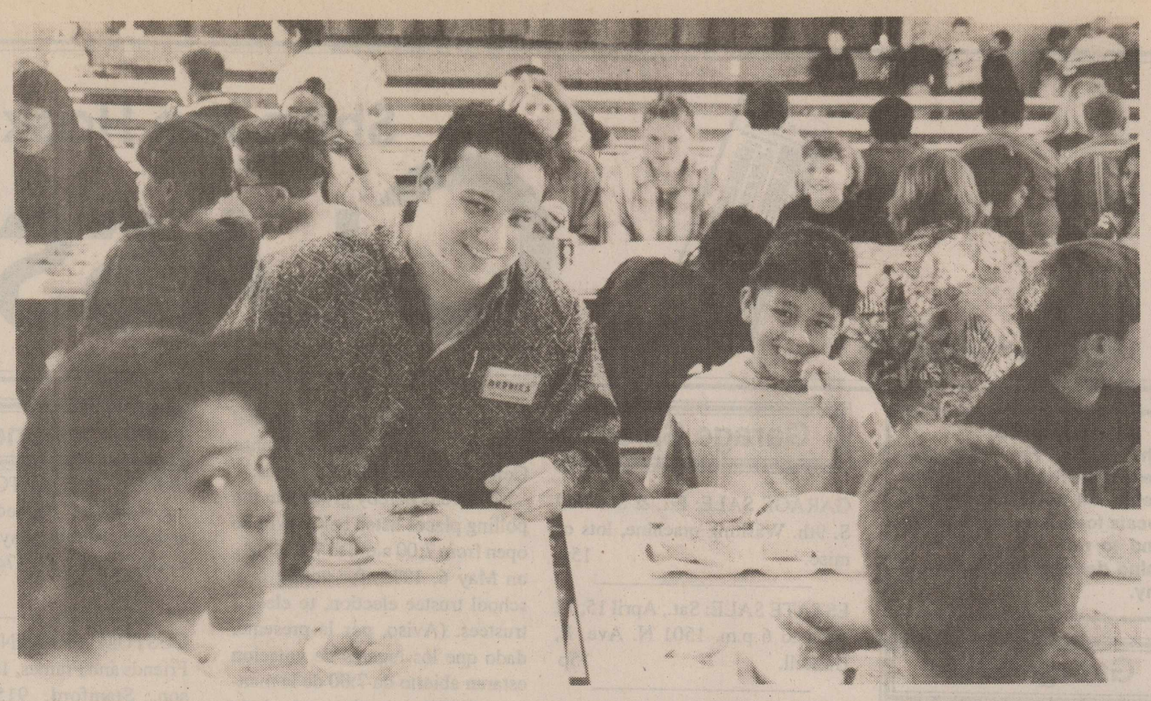

The District TAFCE 4-H Scholarship nominee was introduced at which time she thanked the district clubs for their support.

The meeting was adjourned after the picture taking, door prizes presented and good-byes said. The ladies departed to their various counties.

There are 25 counties in the Rolling Plains Dist. 3.

Those in attendance from Haskell County included Phylecia Bailey, Mildred Robertson, Dorothy Trussell of the Josselet Club; Delores Medford of the Paint Creek Club; Joetta Burnett, Jane Smith and Lena Tidwell from the Eager Housewives Club; and Faye Jetton, Estalynn Liles, Myrtle Phemister, Alice Yates, Betty Sanders, Erma Liles, Kathryn Schonerstedt and her mother Henrietta Rueffer from the Weinert Club.

Lou Gilly, County TAFCE Agent, was pleased to accompany such a large group from her county.

BUDDIES – (Building Up Dreams and Desires In Elementary Students) Is a new program at Haskell Schools this year. In this cooperative effort, members from local service clubs volunteer to eat lunch at least once a month with elementary students. Based on the belief, it takes a whole village to raise a child, the program provides positive role models for the students. It is designed to build feelings of self-worth and self-esteem and to encourage community involvement. The thirty-six adults who are volunteering in this program are finding that one hour a month can make a difference.
