'Food For Freedom' Show Proves Success

School Loses Another Teacher

Mr. Harold McWilliams, who has been employed as science teacher in the local high school for more than a year, resigned his position Friday to accept a civil service position as Junior Assistant Ordnance Aid.

Mr. McWilliams was notified of his appointment Friday, and was notified to report in Washington, D. C., at once.

Miss Dorothy Jo Clark of Shamrock, Texas, graduate of West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, has been selected to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. McWilliams' resignation, and began her work Monday morning.

School officials state that it is becoming increasingly difficult to secure teachers, particularly in the science and industrial arts departments. Men teachers in those fields have been given draft deferments, but other types of employment with higher salaries are drawing teachers away from the public schools.

The "Food for Freedom" show held here last Wednesday was attended by a fair-sized crowd of men and women from this city and the Clara community.

The show was sponsored by the Hardin and Clara Demonstration clubs. Buster Morgan presided during the meeting and presented the following program:

"Food Production Goals," by County Agent G. R. McNeill.

"A.A.A. Information," by L. A. Gilliland, secretary of the A.C.A.

"Gardens, Poultry and Scrap Iron," by J. L. Rice, Asst. County Agent.

"Victory Gardens and Poultry Products," Louise Mason, Co. Demonstration Agent.

Following the address a sound picture "Food for Freedom," was enjoyed by the audience, during which Miss Mason served chicken salad sandwiches.

The following committees were appointed by Mr. Morgan: "Food Production," Mrs. A. A. Evert, J. C. Martin and Miss Clara Kiesling.

"Scrap Iron"—O. W. Prechel, Ed Heiserman, Ben Winkle, and E. J. Simon.

"Farm Machinery and Repairs," A. J. Holtzen, Walter Kasker and Henry Vaughn.

Shows Increase

With a gain of $24,077.074 for 1941 Southwestern Life Insurance Company enters the new year with $405,210,008 insurance in force, C. F. O'Donnell, president, reports in the 39th annual financial statement to policyowners.

Copy of the report was received here today by the company's local representative, B. H. Alexander.

Burkburnett History

As revealed by the files of The Star, 10 Years Ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hardin of Burkburnett, have donated $100,000 to the permanent endowment fund of Baylor College for Women at Belton. The gift was announced Thursday by Rev. Walter H. McKenzie at Baylor College chapel hour. The gift, in the form of securities, is the third made to Baptist institutions in two years by the Wichita county pioneers. Mr. Hardin has lived in and near Burkburnett for 50 years.

R. C. Propes was fatally injured Tuesday night when he was struck by an automobile driven by James A. Collier Jr., of Burkburnett. The accident occurred on the pike west of town. Propes, age 68, was a filling station operator and was crossing the pavement in front of the station when he was struck. It is believed that he did not see the approaching car.

C. D. Shamburger Lumber Co. was open for business in its new location on Main Street Monday morning. It was formerly located on West Main with R. C. Tevis as general manager, an estimated 15 men in addition to the regular staff have been employed over a period of two months in the move.

The local Chamber of Commerce purchased one of the prize calves entered in the first annual fat stock and meat show at Wichita Falls by 4-H boys and girls, according to H. Brown, Chamber of Commerce secretary. The organization purchased the E. G. Muller calf from the Burkburnett district.

Burkburnett sent 13 players to the invitation golf tournament in Electra Sunday afternoon. Although Electra won the meet, the local participants reported a good time. Only one remained unimpaired from the locals. The following attended: Jack Brumley, H. R. Hayes, F. T. Felty, A. R. Hill, Jack Chatham, J. N. Hall, Lee Clifton, R. E. Browning, Rex Kent, R. P. Reagan, John Bostic, M. E. Thompson and Martin.

A sales contest which was held between Burn Alexander and H. S. Grace on one side, and Tex Willis and Dave Barrow on the other, terminated Tuesday with Willis and Barrow as winners. The losing team entertained the winning team and their families with a chicken dinner at the Unique Cafe Tuesday evening.

At the end of the first six weeks the English grades were averaged and ten pupils received grades showing that their work had been excellent during this period. These ten pupils were Vesta Lee Meggs, Pauline Brown, Mary Lafon Alexander, Willie Etta Alexander, Cornelia Evert, Helen Grady, Billy Ashlock, Tommy Harms, Angeline Baumhardt, and Mary Louise Kelley.

Southwestern Life Shows Gain

The continued progress of this Texas institution records numerous items indicative of the financial strength of Southwestern Life.

Assets are $80,618,343.61 reflecting an increase of $7,203,213.84 for 1941—a gain of $977,304.50 over the increase reported for 1940, which was the largest in the company's history.

The company continued its enviable record of never having had a default of either interest or principal on any bond owned by it. The report also shows that the company carries no real estate in excess of current market value and that it continued to earn a rate of interest during 1941 in excess of 4 per cent.

During the past year, the company continued to pioneer innovations in the field of legal reserve life insurance business. At its annual agency convention held in Galveston during last June, Mr. O'Donnell announced a retirement program for agents which has been nationally acclaimed as one of the leading pension plans to be adopted in the industry. The company began a sales training program for new agents in 1940 which has attained enviable results, and the institution was one of the first to inaugurate a salary plan for new salesmen, as an income floor to guarantee revenue beneath which they would not fall during their first year in the business.

The company confines its business to the state of Texas and aside from its investments in United States government securities, practically all of its investments are in Texas.

Since 1903, the 39th annual report shows that Southwestern Life has paid out to policyowners and beneficiaries $76,597,298.15.

Try The "Postoffice"

A sign on the office door of one of Sheppard Field's post exchanges is intended to advertise bus tickets on sale inside the office, but the sign writer was confused in his spelling of the word bus. Instead of one "s," he used two of them. Add an "s" to bus and you have an old word for kiss.

Seeing the sign, "Local Buss Tickets on Sale Here," a private walked into the office recently and told the salesgirl that he would like some of those "kiss tickets." She refused to cooperate and he settled for a bus ride instead. A poor trade in any language.

Don't Tell "Her!"

In the Post Headquarters building at Sheppard Field, the Army's newest and largest Air Corps Technical Training School, is a cartoon poster warning the military personnel to prevent leakage of military information. The poster pictures a middle-aged lady and her husband, a young man.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Java Calls for Increased Aid From Australia as Japs Intensify Attack; First War Deaths on American Soil Caused by 'Dud' Torpedo at Aruba

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

JAVA:

Goal of Japs

The fall of Singapore represented the winning of a major victory for the Japanese, but tactically it was considered the moving of the western end of a Jap pincer movement directed not so much at India as at Java.

For the entire capture of the East Indies, and with it the enormous oil production vitally needed by Japan had, therefore, to be regarded as the major objective, with Java at its center.

This had been proved by the events that had followed the triumphal entry of the Malay army into Singapore.

Intensified Japanese attacks had started on Bali and islands to the east of Java, as well as stronger movements to increase the Japanese hold on Sumatra, the invaders fanning out from Palembang, Sumatra's largest city.

Java's population of 40,000,000 had been told "the enemy is at our gates," and to prepare its defense "to the last ditch." At the same time Java called for increased aid from Australia, but it was not immediately apparent what Australia could or would do, embattled as it was in a belated effort to straighten out its own defenses.

Some commentators figured the Japanese occupation of Java, and with it control of all the Dutch East Indies as "a matter of days," while others thought it might be a long battle, and that substantial defense of the remainder of the East Indies was quite possible.

However that might be, Allied ranks would give a good deal to know which way the Nipponese cat was planning to jump if, as and when the East Indies had fallen to the enemy.

Was it going to be an all-out offensive against India or were the Japs, conscious that an eventually winning Allied naval, air and land attack could be launched against them from Australia, to turn their forces toward Cape York?

Movements of U. S. ships and troops seemed to indicate that this country viewed the latter possibility as a probability, and that as a base for our future operations, Australia and New Zealand seemed to offer the best chance for a supply life-line.

VIERECK:

Contemptuous Spy

As the Viereck trial had opened in Washington, the Nazi agent being tried for withholding information of his activities from the state department, he was painted as a "contemptuous spy" by William Power Maloney, prosecutor.

Maloney said Viereck had used the Congressional Record to propagandize the United States "according to orders from his Teutonic overlords" and stated that many long excerpts in the Record from the speeches of the late Senator Lunden.

Testimony brought out that typical titles of books published by Flanders Hall in New Jersey (financed SYLVESTER VIERECK "Ordered by Teutonic Overlords," by Viereck) were "Lord Lothian Against Lord Lothian," "Seven Periods in Irish History" and "It Happened Again," all allegedly German propaganda. "The 100 Families Who Rule the Empire," sensational book much used in propaganda, was published with funds from Munich, Maloney said the government would prove.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

London: Britain's revised war cabinet, reduced from nine to seven members, is a partial concession to popular demand. Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, was given a high place. He is lord privy seal and Churchill's deputy as leader of the house of commons.

Washington: Secretary Ickes said he was going to try a voluntary curtailment of the use of gasoline.

ARUBA:

History Made

The first war deaths on American soil occurred at the Dutch island of Aruba shortly after American troops had arrived there to take over its defenses.

Two days after the arrival of these troops had been announced, German submarines attacked the harbor, sank or damaged seven tankers with a loss of 59 seamen, and then shelled the big Standard Oil refinery on shore.

American planes took the air, spotted the subs and reported afterward that they had reason to believe at least one of them was sent to the bottom.

Two days later, after the damage had been checked up and gone over, a dud torpedo, 18 feet long, was found on the harbor sands.

Immediately identified as a German torpedo, four Dutch officers were assigned to the delicate task of taking it apart.

In the midst of their work it exploded, killing them all. They were the first casualties on land in the American hemisphere.

In the meantime the torpedoings in the Atlantic were continuing heavy, including the first sinking of a Brazilian ship in the present war.

This was the liner Buarque, a combination freight and passenger ship, sent to the bottom off the coast of Virginia. The sinking was not immediately announced in Brazil, as it was the annual carnival time, and the government was afraid that serious rioting against Axis nationals might occur. The ship carried 74 in the crew and 11 passengers. Two were lost, 83 saved.

RESULTS:

In Marshall Islands

When an assault force of U. S. cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers, commanded by Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, attacked

Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the U. S. naval force that carried out the brilliant raid on Japanese bases, as he looks over the charts on which he plotted the action against the Japs.

Japanese bases in the Gilbert and Marshall islands they caused substantial losses to the enemy: 38 airplanes, one converted aircraft carrier, one light cruiser, one destroyer, two submarines, two naval auxiliaries and three fleet oil tankers. Damaged "and perhaps destroyed" by U. S. attackers were three submarines, four auxiliary vessels and an old cruiser.

OIL:

Both Sides Lose

The destruction of oil installations in the East Indies, which had been carried out well by the Dutch as each more or less important spot fell to the Japs, had been terrific at Palembang, where the entire countryside was covered with a pall of smoke when the refineries were blown up and wells blasted.

Yet it was a two-edged sword, the Dutch admitting that in about six months, with good fortune, the Japs could manage to repair much of the damage and begin to resupply themselves with oil.

And in the meantime the oil was lost to the Allied fleets, which had been fueling from the Dutch supplies.

And as oil was the principal vital necessity for which the Japs originally had started the war, and as a supply of it would conceivably permit them to continue fighting indefinitely, or at least until a major defeat by the Allied forces, the extent of the disaster in the Indies might be seen.

And as oil was the principal vital necessity for which the Japs originally had started the war, and as a supply of it would conceivably permit them to continue fighting indefinitely, or at least until a major defeat by the Allied forces, the extent of the disaster in the Indies might be seen.

Resigns From OCD

Mayris Chaney, professional dancer, whose appointment to the physical fitness program of the Office of Civilian Defense provoked congressional wrath, as she dictated her resignation to OCD Director James M. Landis. "Because I wish no further altercation which might cause disunity and delay," she wrote, "I wish to step aside if it is your will."

MAC ARTHUR:

Increased Bombardment

Despite a number of strong appeals that General MacArthur be taken out of Luzon for a more important command, Washington had let it be known that no such move was afoot.

While new heroes were being made daily, the Congressional Medal of Honor having been voted to a Filipino mess sergeant, Washington asserted that it was the general's own wish to remain with his faithful troops as long as it was possible to carry on the good fight.

The mess sergeant was Jose Calugas, who received the highest award within the giving power of the government. The citation told how, when an American gun was put out of action, Calugas, not even in that outfit, ran 1,000 yards without orders, entirely beyond his duty, and under heavy enemy fire, to the gun.

Arrived there he called for volunteers, and himself organized a gun crew, put the gun back into action again, and continued at his new post as long as the battle continued.

The fall of Singapore had evidently released many Japanese planes for the battle of Luzon.

Washington, quizzed as to why air reinforcements were not being sent to Bataan, stated that "plenty of bombers" would have been sent "if we had any way of getting them there."

SUGAR:

Big Printing Job

The government printing office had presented its biggest job in history, the making of 700,000,000 sugar rationing cards, which should be in the public's hands on March 7.

Word was that the printing department was "well abreast of the task" and Price Administrator Henderson had been photographed looking over the first sheet actually to come from the presses.

While the GPO (another bit of the Washington alphabet) was in charge of the printing, it was farming out a lot of the presswork.

The job takes into consideration the fact that there are 131,000,000 people in the nation, and a book and application form is being printed for each.

The first big job was to get paper that would not make the job easy for counterfeiters.

It took six paper mills to do this part of the job. Three hundred and fifty printing firms bid on the presswork for the sugar cards. Twenty-three firms were finally selected.

RUMORS:

Condemned by FDR

Praising to the skies a front-page cartoon in the Washington Star which excoriated the peddling of rumors which tended toward disunity, President Roosevelt had told his press conference that this was a dastardly practice and one in which the city of Washington itself was the worst offender.

Type of thing he meant, he said, included "wisecracks" like "Britain will fight to the last American" and arm-chair generalship like "We ought to get out of the South Pacific, we can't get in there," and "Why help the Russians, they'll turn on us later."

The fall of Singapore and the escape of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prince Eugen from Brest to Heligoland Bight, two major disasters that had befallen the British, had caused a storm of this.

It had been Churchill, very much on the spot, and facing the most severe press criticism of his career, who had coined the phrase "better a millstone around his neck and that he be cast into the sea" than to create disunity.

BILLIONS:

The biggest appropriation bill in history, 32 billions of dollars for the war, equivalent to all the money the United States put out during the First World War, lumped into a single bill for immediate use in this one, went through congress without a dissenting vote.

It was interesting that the plans of Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, to resign, and the fact that congress was willing to repeal its own pension legislation were sort of "by-products" of the vote.

TWO CAN SING

CHAPTER VIII

SYNOPSIS
Leonard Borland's protests account is ample, though his business in New York is mostly opera-struck wife Doris "career," interrupted by the birth of a child at 19 and the birth of a son. Borland knows her mother's family income, but she is a subterfuge. Hugo Lorland, always around, irritable, always gives a Town Hall concert, opera singer, and at her hotel, Cecil says good voice but lacks style. Hugo is hopelessly in love with Doris. Doris tortures Leonard in her clutches. Leonard wakes her up by giving a "Go get yourself a trier where it hurts." Cecil is a payment for lessons—kisses. He declares he loves his wife. Much time with Cecil, making Doris tells him Jack getting her an engagement ring. Cecil, on tour, wires her in upstate recitals, makes her get him an engagement ring. Again he makes her marry Cecil, telling him she says he's making a man of her bring Doris to his feet. He establishes himself as a singer in a role in Faust during. At the end of the run in New York. He is at home.

She was in an awful state. She had on some kind of theatrical-looking dress, and her face was all twisted.

lackey to Doris is a little bit of heaven, you try it—or maybe you have tried it. . . . This finished me with her, if that interests you. Not because I started it. Not because I egged her on. No—but I saw it. I was there, and saw them nail her to the cross, and rip her clothes off, and throw rotten eggs at her, and ask her how the vinegar tasted—and all the rest of it. That's unforgivable.

He walked off and left me. I found a pay phone, put in a call for a private ambulance. When it came I went in the dressing-room again. Doris was up and Christine was helping her into her coat. She was over the hysteria, but she looked like something broken and shrunken. I carried her to the ambulance, put her in it, made her lie down. Christine got in. We started off.

At home, I carried her upstairs, undressed her, and put her to bed, and called a doctor. Undressing Doris is like pulling the petals off a flower, and a catch kept coming in my throat over how soft she was and how beautiful she was, and how she wilted into the bed. When the doctor came he said she had to be absolutely quiet, and gave her some sleeping pills. He left, and I closed the door and sat down beside the bed. She put her hand in mine. "Leonard."

"Yes?"
"I'm no good."
"How do you know? They didn't even give you a chance to find out."
"I'm no good."
"A morning show in a picture house—"
"A picture house, a vaudeville house, an opera house—it's all the same. They're out there, and it's up to you. I'm just a punk who's been a headache to everybody she knows and who's got wise to herself at last. I've got voice, figure, looks—everything but what it takes. Isn't that funny?"
"No, but you didn't get everything it takes."
"You knew, didn't you?"
"How would I know?"
"You knew. You knew all the time I've been just rotten to you, Leonard. All because you opposed my so-called career."

"I didn't oppose it."
"No, but you didn't believe in it. That was what made me so furious. You were willing to let me do whatever I wanted to do, but you wouldn't believe I could sing. I hated you for it."
"Only for that?"
"Only for that. . . . Oh, you mean Hugo and Leighton and all my other 'official hand-kissers'? Don't be silly. I had to tease you a little, didn't I? But that only showed I cared whether you cared."
"Then you do care?"
"What do you think?"
Doris took my hand in her hands, and kissed my eyes and my brow and cheeks, as though I were something too holy for her to be worthy to touch, and I was so happy I couldn't even talk. I sat there a long time, my head against hers, while she held my hand against her cheek, and now and then kissed it. . . . The pills are working.

"You want to sleep?"
"No, I don't want to. I could stay this way forever. But I can't help it."
"Kiss me."
I kissed her, and she put her arms around me, and sighed a sleepy little sigh. Then she smiled, and I tiptoed out.

I had a bite to eat, went down to the office, and had a look at what mail there was. Then I sat down at the desk, hooked my heels on the top, and tried to keep my head from swimming till it would be time to go back to Doris. I was so excited I wanted to laugh all the time, but a cold feeling began to creep up my back, and pretty soon I couldn't fight it off any more. It was about Cecil. I had to see her. I knew that. I had to put it on the line how I felt about Doris and how she felt about me, and there could be but one answer to that. Cecil and I, we would have to break. I tried to tell myself she wouldn't expect to see me for a day or so, that if I just let things go along she would

'CONTRIBUTIONS'
I went one night to speak at a patriotic rally held in one of the large churches in Washington. Those present reiterated again their willingness to fight and die for the United States, and recounted the part that the colored people had played in the history of our country during every war.

I never like to have us remember only our contributions as military contributions, because there are so many things which people have given in times of peace which are just as important to the development of the country, even when these horrible days of war are upon us.

All of our racial groups have made a vast contribution to the development of the United States. Many of them have worked in our fields and have developed our agriculture. Without them the cotton fields of the South would never have been tilled and the wheat fields of the West would not have produced their abundance.

Our mines would not have been developed. Our factories would not have operated without the labor of the countless people who, once upon a time, came to these shores from Africa, Europe, the Near East and the Far East.

It is not only in these material ways that people have contributed to the development of this country. Think of what has been given by writers, painters, actors, dancers and musicians to the general culture of the nation. No country is fully civilized which can not appreciate its artists. They make a contribution not just to the entertainment side of life, but to the educational, economic and spiritual sides.

Everyone I met seemed depressed over the news from Singapore. We have been told that we must expect reverses at the start, and yet we want victory at once. The Axis nations prepared their people for many years, physically and mentally, for this struggle. They built up huge reserves of war materials.

They laid their plans well in advance. The people who did not want war, tried to plan for a peaceful world. They conditioned their people to peace. Those who foresaw that, whether we wanted it or not, we might be attacked, had a hard time getting a hearing. No one wanted to spend money on things which might never be needed, and for that reason our preparation had, of necessity, to be slower.

We should remember now, however, that day by day the opposition in the Pacific and in the Atlantic, in Europe, Africa and Asia, is wearing itself out far more rapidly than we are. Some day, when we have reached the full power of our production, the day of victory for those who love peace, will come. Then we shall have to remember St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans: "Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord."

NAVAL HOSPITAL
You might be interested to hear a little about the boys in the Brooklyn Naval hospital. Nearly a whole ward was filled with boys from the Normandie, who had been overcome by smoke or burned. They all seemed to be recovering, but the experience must have been a very unpleasant one.

I also had an opportunity to talk for a little while with a boy who was very seriously injured on the destroyer Kearney. He is getting well and will be able to be about again, but his remark was that he wanted to "get back at them."

That is a wonderful spirit when your disabilities would free you from active service, but it is the kind of spirit which we may expect to find in all these young men.

As I walked through the hospital, I told the doctors that I had a particular interest in the destroyers because my boy is on one. I noticed a smile on the faces of the boys nearest me, so evidently they have a feeling, too, for destroyer duty. I imagine there is greater opportunity for contact between men and officers on a destroyer and, therefore, a greater feeling of belonging to one big family.

YOUNG VISITOR

We have a perfectly lovely baby spending a few days with us in the White House. She is 3½ months old, the daughter of my cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. Forbes Morgan Jr., and seemed completely engrossed in the President so long as he held her in his arms.

WOODEN PAILS

The governor of New Hampshire, the Honorable Robert O. Blood, has sent me two wonderful wooden pails. They are called "Granite State Bombs," and he says: "We of New Hampshire are pleased to contribute in a small way to the national defense program by furnishing a substitute which will conserve scarce material, such as metal, using our hurricane lumber and using labor of an average of 60 years of age as is found in our pail factories."

Zeke Says

By Nugent Ezekiel Brown Your Washington Correspondent Washington (Special)— Give any thing plenty of publicity and action will result. This is very aptly illustrated here this week.

Because of the great volume of criticism through the public press and in Congress, Mrs. Roosevelt and her proteges have resigned from the federal payroll. During the same week, the Senate voted almost unanimously for a resolution that will take the so-called "pensions" away from members of Congress. Only five senators voted this time to keep their pension rights, whereas five weeks ago some 42 of them voted for the retirement plan that has brought down a storm on the heads of the lawmakers. It was really amusing to hear the various senators who had voted for the plan before tell why they now desired to vote against keeping the plan for themselves. While neither of the Texas senators had voted for the plan both are on record as voting against keeping the plan in effect. The House will have an opportunity to vote on the controversial issue next week. Before the House approved the plan without a record vote and with no opposition. Mrs. Roosevelt's dancer-protegee, Mayris Chaney, has been offered all kinds of lucrative jobs on radio and stage because of the publicity she has gotten. She can now cash in on the publicity in a big way.

This And That In Washington

One of the most interesting men we have met in his own is a 75-year old executive who has worked for the government more than 50 years and all of that in the employ of the senate and the house. For the last 40 years, this man, Jack Deards by name, has been manager of 10 to 15 employees who look after the job of filing and wrapping all books and manuscripts that are sent out by the 96 members of the Senate. Jack knows the knack of getting on with the boys who work for him. They are all on the patronage payroll, which means each is named to the job by a senator. Really, only the senator can fire one of the boys. But Jack jokes with them, curses with them on occasion and thus gets lots of hard work out of them. Jack is from Wisconsin and has a leaning toward the days of Republican rule. He gets along however with the Democrats because of his big-hearted manner of giving his shirt off his back, if need be. His hobby is cats. He buys about a dollar's worth of liver and other meat daily which he slices and feeds to a dozen cats that make his big warehouse their home. The cats keep the rats away. But, if there were no rats, Jack would still pick up stray cats and take

No 'Priorities on Pep' Wanted
As America Girls for War

While factories throughout the land hum with production of armament, heads of the defense program in Washington are hard at work on a physical fitness campaign to build a sturdier nation. Schools, industrial plants and community groups alike are joining in the movement to bring back mass calisthenics and body-building exercises which were in vogue at the turn of the century.

John B. Kelly, U. S. director of physical training, and Alice Marble (center), head of the women's program, present awards at a Camden, N. J., plant.

"Here's how," as demonstrated by a co-ed at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., long noted for its functional curriculum. "Knees up, chin in, eyes bright."

Three bends to the right and three to the left each day for beginners on this one. Gradually, ten bends left and ten right can be taken.

Lax muscles are toned with exercises such as these suggested in the Office of Civilian Defense's program.

Watch Your Kidneys

Help Them Cleanse the Body of Harmful Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. Kidneys sometimes lag in their work and act as Nature intended—fail to move impurities that, if retained, poison the system and upset the body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, pain under the eyes—a feeling of heaviness, and loss of pep and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder trouble are sometimes burning, itching, or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that proper treatment is wiser than neglect. BURKBURNETT, TEXAS

HARDIN GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

We are happy that Mrs. Vann was able to return home from the hospital this week. We sincerely hope that her condition will continue to improve. Gene Allen Burkhardt is a new pupil in our room. He comes to us from San Antonio. We the sorry to lost Odie Foster who is moving to Randlett. We will also miss Annie Coen who withdrew from school the first of this week. (Pommerening L2-1).

The following boys and girls in our room made perfect score in spelling this week: Cleo Askins, Darlene Bratton, Wylie Browning, John Cecil Peckham, Pauline Turner, Billie Turnbow, Beulah Wallace, Louise Buchanan, La-Jaun White, and Billy Mack Thompson. We are sorry to lose a pupil this week, Ruth Ann Harrison has moved to Paris, Texas. (Majors H3-1).

Mary Ann Moore, Don Thomas, David McNeill, Betty Jo Hutchens, Kenneth Armstrong, Joe Dale Sampson, Charles Gist, and James Rogers made this week's spelling honor roll. We are sorry the following pupils are absent this week due to illness: Billy Jo Bruner, Ronnie Morris, Jackie McDonald, Peggy Jean Bruce, Peggy Sue Dunn, and Della Duncan. Row V is leading in our Good Health Cleanliness contest. (Solomon H5-2).

Last week we studied the life of a very great man, Abraham Lincoln. It was enjoyed by all. We are going to study the life of Washington this week and list the qualities that made him a great man. Our attendance was low last week because of illness, but most of our pupils are back. The Health Honor roll had only four names on it last week: Joyce Wood, Wenedlene Ryals, Barbara Jo Perry and Naomi England. We are going to learn to do simple bandaging and a few other first aid things soon in our Health class. We think most of our class is capable of getting some beneficial knowledge from such practice. (Smith H4-2).

We lost two members of our class last week. Yvonne Parker and Frank Harrison, with their respective families, moved to Paris, Texas. We are very sorry to lose Yvonne and Frank Beverly Spivey, Helen Tracy and Barry Howard are back in school after an absence of several days. Our section has charge of the assembly program this week. Assembly program this week. (Ash-ton H5-3).

There are twenty-two pupils enrolled in the 8-3 class. John Coen, Claudine Driskell, Pat Harrison, and Billy Jack Wickham moved last week. Dale Chapman is back in school after a two weeks absence. This week the 8th graders are going to study about bibliographies and outlines. Each pupil is making a report on one phase of either transportation, communication, or invention. After the report is made, they will start on fire prevention outlines and themes. (Goodwin L8-3).

The boys and girls of L1-1 are still doing their bit for Uncle Sam by buying defense stamps. Donald Willis heads the class in purchasing stamps, but several others buy stamps each day they are sold. Our attendance was only about one-half of the pupils present last week. Most of the absences were caused by chicken-pox. Kay Harris, who has been ill for several days, was reported as being a little better Saturday. (Billingslea L1-1).

According to reports given by our librarian, the two most popular books for the week were "Ben of Old Monhegan" and "Emmy Lou." We have been studying formulas in arithmetic for the past week. We have taken up areas and volumes. In History we have been studying the Civil War and have made some very good booklets on the subject. (Beck H8-2).

We have talked about our National Defense Program and the buying of our stamps. We expect to stress this more this week and try to have every one in the class buying at least twenty cents worth of Defense Stamps per week. We have a Defense Honor roll on our board of all who have bought stamps. So far our room has bought $28.50 according to our chart. Of course some have bought outside of school and have not told us about it, but we expect to do even better than this next week. (Abbott H8-1).

Tickets are now on sale to see "Sheppard Field Jive Bombers Revue" which will be presented Friday, Feb. 27, 1942, at 8:00 at the High School auditorium. The High School Choral Club is bringing this show to Burkburnett. Reserve seats are 50c and Gen. Admission 35c. Melvin Gregg was the first person to buy a ticket for the revue. The Grade School Choral Club is being organized. Try-outs will be held this Thursday afternoon. Thirty-five students out of the seventy-seven students will represent Burk in the County Meet. (Allen H7-1).

The pupils in H4-1 have been writing stories. The following is one written by one of the pupils, Mary Joy Gresham:

MOTHER NATURE

"Mother Nature is one of our friends. She sends us the warm sunshine, the wind, and the rain. The sun helps us in many ways. It gives us light and warms the earth so that plants, trees, and flowers can grow. Many people are thankful for the sun.

"The wind also helps Mother Nature by cooling the earth when it is hot. When the wind blows it makes the grass and trees look pretty.

"The rain helps Mother Nature in helping to keep the trees and plants growing. If it did not rain on our gardens and fields, we would not have any food to eat. (Jackson H4-1).

For the past week we have had an average of ten pupils absent each day. We are sorry that these pupils are ill. This leaves only two in our room with perfect attendance. They are Benny Turner and Bobby Shoefstall. Opal Walker and Frances Crane had perfect attendance up to this week. (Gibson H6-2).

Carolyn Lloyd, Norma Maynard, Wanda Stevenson and Verona Maxwell were absent due to illness, last week. Verona Maxwell has had a perfect attendance record up until this time. Dorothy Gibson moved to Arkansas. Last week Eva Joe Dickson bought more Defense Stamps than anyone else in her room. (Robertson H1-3).

About half of the students of this section have been absent this week due to chicken-pox, mumps, and colds. We are hoping that all will be able to return to school next week. Those buying defense stamps this week were: Betty Jane Ainsworth, Wynona Reed, Paul Jennings, George Powell, Peggy Hothan, and Billy Ray Snirley. (Walling H1-2).

James Bollinger, who came to our school from Electra, withdrew last week, as his family is moving to El Paso. We have bought $29.35 in defense stamps in our room. Mary Joyce Butts and Betty Jean Mathews were absent from our room all last week. (Isbell H5-1).

About eighteen girls have stated they wished to play on our playground ball team which will represent our school in the interscholastic league meet on March due to the weather we have not been able to practice but very little and hence have not been able to choose our team. (Doty H6-1).

H7-1-2-3 civics classes are studying communication. We have models illustrating the prairie schooner, the first locomotive, the streamline, the sailboat, to the battleships, the automobile truck to the sedan. We found these models very interesting. The 7-3 section is still doing their bit in buying defense stamps. (McGinnis 7-3).

H7-2 section has raised their defense stamps total to $18.15. The other sections are about the same. (McSween H7-2).

The softball round robin between home rooms got under full swing. It was announced Friday that awards will be given to the individuals on the winning team and that team will be declared the Hardin Grade School Champions. (Short L7-1).

We are glad to have Leuty Louise DeVine in school again after an absence of three weeks. We hope that all those who have been ill will be back this week. Our class is to give the assembly program on Friday, Feb. 27. It will be an all-American program, consisting of a play "Our First Flag," several flag songs, some quiz questions by Uncle Sam, and three American folk dances. We have had to practice with substitutes most of the time, due to so many children's being absent, but we hope that all will be in their places on Friday. (Lassetter H2-2).

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

SPEED... at a telephone job that is vital

Telephone construction crews everywhere have been breaking records month after month.

Within the space of a year, Southwestern Bell crews completed extensive telephone systems at scores of military or military supply locations in Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, finishing each job on time... or ahead of time.

In some exchanges where the inrush of workers in armament plants created an extraordinary demand, these crews have helped to double the number of telephones in service.

All told, 30,000 Bell Telephone folks in the Southwest march ahead these days, doing their best with such materials as are available to give you... and the nation... all the telephone service possible in time of war.

Who Wouldn't Come to a Dinner Like This?
(See Recipes Below)

Accent on Dinner

Dinner is the master meal of the day and as such requires the most masterful stroke the homemaker can apply. With time unlimited, this master stroke is not so hard to bring into play, but with days like these which are filled to the utmost with activity of all kinds, time-saving hints and ideas for dinner are important.

Planning a meal which can be both time and money saving. If you're pinched for silver and aluminum for cooking and serving, you can use glasswares for both the cooking and serving.

Today I'm discussing a dinner that is equally adaptable for either a family or company dinner. It's one of those meals that you won't forget because it's always bound to be successful from the point of view of appetite appeal, ease in serving and ease in cooking. Tuck these ideas where they won't gather dust, for they'll gather fame more easily.

Lamb Roast.

(Serves 8 to 10)
5 to 6 pound leg of lamb
Garlic clove or slice of onion
Salt and pepper

Have a leg of lamb boned and tied. Wipe with a damp cloth but do not remove fell, the parchment-like covering over the meat. Rub garlic or onion (or onion salt, if you have neither of those) over the meat, then rub salt and pepper. Bake in a slow (300-degree) oven, allowing 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. If a heat resistant glass platter is used, the lamb may be served from that.

Franconia Potatoes.

(Serves 8 to 10)
8 to 10 medium-sized potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Cook potatoes in boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and place in the oven around the meat to finish roasting, about 40 minutes. Pour melted butter and chopped parsley over potatoes when done. Arrange with whole, cooked carrots on platter and serve.

A hot bread on a cool evening adds plenty of staccato to the menu, and I would advise serving it often. This one is especially appropriate for the menu today because your oven will be hot and you can bake it before you put in the meat.

Lynn Says:

Trying to tackle the winter vegetable problem? Here's a parade of suggestions that will prop up your meals:

Baked squash with small white onions baked in the hollow. A bit of cream sauce added just before serving to the onions will also perk up this dish. Sprinkle with paprika for color.

Carrots: glaze these with brown sugar and butter when baking. For cooked carrots add a bit of tartness with lemon juice.

Serve canned or cooked lima beans with this smart mustard sauce: 4 tablespoons butter mixed with 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon ground mustard and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Beets like to be teamed up with a Harvard sauce. Thicken the beet liquid with cornstarch and add a bit of grated orange rind and juice for delightful variation.

Sprinkle cooked asparagus with grated Swiss cheese and brown under the broiler.

Parsnips: parboil these, then dip in egg and bread crumbs. Fry until a golden brown.

Turnips: cook and mash. Season with butter, salt and pepper and a dash of nutmeg.

This Week's Menu

- Mixed Fruit Juices
- *Lamb Roast
- *Franconia Potatoes
- Carrots
- Fruit Salad
- Butter
- *Spice Bread
- *Caramel Crumb Custard
- *Recipe Given.

Spice Bread.

- (Makes 1 quart loaf pan)
- 2 1/2 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1 cup currants
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup shortening

Sift flour before measuring. Then sift together flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and ginger. Wash and drain currants; mix into dry ingredients. Add well beaten eggs, milk and shortening to dry ingredients. Stir only until just well combined. Pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about one hour.

Caramel flavoring flirts with custard in this dessert idea. But what's especially nice about this one is that you can bake it along with the bread since both require the same oven temperature. Custard's best baked in individual cups and the custard unmolded onto the dessert plates when ready to serve.

Caramel Crumb Custard.

- (Serves 8)
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup boiling water
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 cup coarse dry bread crumbs (crusts removed)
- 1/4 cup caramel syrup

Make a caramel syrup by melting 1/2 cup sugar in a skillet, very slowly, and allowing to cook until a golden brown. Remove from heat and add boiling water slowly. Return to heat for 10 minutes or until completely dissolved. Separate eggs and beat yolks until lemon colored. Gradually beat in 1 cup sugar, salt, syrup, milk and butter. Add bread crumbs and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into eight glass custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350-degree) about 40 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Speaking of planning menus that seem to fit both company and family dinner occasions I thought you might like a few suggestions. Here are foods that fit each other because of their flavors blending together so smoothly, because of their balance and contrast in texture and flavor. They're easy to keep in mind and fix at a few hours' notice:

Menu I.

- Consomme With Lemon Slice
- Lamb Steaks With Gravy
- Spinach Ring With Browned Potato Balls
- Apricot and Cream Cheese Salad
- Orange Rolls
- Baked Alaska

Menu II.

- Cranberry Juice
- Pork Shoulder Roast
- Baked Squash
- Green Peas
- Perfection Salad
- Whole Wheat or Graham Bread
- Dutch Apple Cake With Hard Sauce

Menu III.

- Tomato Soup
- Baked Fish With Lemon Slice
- Scalloped Potatoes
- Grapefruit and Orange Salad
- Hot Biscuits
- Spiced Watermelon Rind
- Chilled Fruit
- Ice-Box Cookies

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for March 1

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE PARABLES BY THE SEA

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:26-32; Matthew 13:44-50.
GOLDEN TEXT—Never man spake like this man.—John 7:46.

Parables as a means of conveying truth reached perfection in the hands of the Master Teacher, Jesus. Taking short stories of well-known events or facts from daily life, He presented profound truth in the most simple and attractive form.

Except for the parable of the four kinds of seed which He interpreted (Matt. 13:18-23), He left it to His listeners to make their own application. This has led to some difference of opinion, but in general the parables are received as excellent and helpful portions of God's Word.

In the two passages of Scripture assigned for our lesson, we have five parables, each with a distinctive message, yet together pointing out that there is a time of growth leading to harvest and judgment, and that our gracious God has at great cost provided a way of redemption.

I. Normal Growth Is Blessed

(Mark 4:26-29).
God is patient. He awaits the normal, healthy, steady growth of the seed. Man is so impatient he must have forced growth, artificial stimulation, and even artificial ripening of the fruit.

The same attitude enters into his care of his children. They must get ahead in school beyond their years. They must get out and make a living long years before they have learned to make a life. Why not let them mature in the orderly, God-given way?

The same is true in the work of the church. There must be immediate "tangible" results or he will not give his support. Anyone with judgment knows that spiritual life takes time to develop, and that spiritual results cannot be judged by physical or tangible standards. Seedtime, growing time, normal ripening, then harvest—that is God's order and it is a good one.

II. Abnormal Growth Is Dangerous

(Mark 4:30-32).
Normally the mustard tree is a small plant, and when it grew into a great tree something abnormal had taken place. Birds (which always denote something unclean in Scripture) came to lodge in its branches.

Just so, Christianity was never intended to be made up of a nominally Christian world empire in which ungodly men (the dark birds of the evil one, Matt. 13:19) should find comfortable lodgment. Unfortunately, that is just what happened to Christianity in the so-called conquest of the Roman empire at the time of Constantine. The results were disastrous. The same principle is evident today in the control of much of the church by worldly men.

III. Redemption Is Costly

(Matt. 13:44-46).
While it is true that our redemption is worth more than anything else in all the world and that the Christian would gladly set aside (or would he?) everything for Christ's sake, yet that does not fulfill the thought of this parable. After all, what has a sinner (whose own righteousness is described in Scripture as "filthy rags") to sell in order to obtain redemption? And is it for sale? (See Eph. 2:8.)

Obviously we here have the Saviour with His all-seeing eye and loving heart noting in fallen humanity the pearl of great price. His own Church. He then gives up all the glory He had with the Father, comes to the earth, and even becomes sin for us that He may bring us to God.

Salvation in Christ is no little thing, not something which was purchased with gold or silver, but with the precious blood of Christ. We ought to value it highly, and because we are bought with a price we ought always to glorify God (1 Cor. 6:28).

IV. Judgment Is Certain

(Matt. 13:47-50).
All kinds of fish were in the net, and until the cord was drawn and the net emptied they looked much alike and enjoyed much the same standing as "citizens" of the sea. But when they faced the fisherman there was a quick division, and a final judgment upon the bad ones.

It is true that in God's kingdom (as it is now manifested in "mystery" in the Church) there are many who have come in by false profession, through carelessness of pastors or church officials, etc. They go through the motions, they look and act much like Christians (although even here they create questions in the minds of true followers of Christ). The day is coming, however, when they shall stand in judgment before the Christ whom they profess to love and follow. How terrible shall be their doom!

They need not wait in fear for that day. They may now, today, make right their relationship with God.

Schools Selling Stamps
Miss Louise Lipscomb, from the Senior High School at Wichita Falls, and five of her students were guest speakers at a high school assembly program Friday afternoon, at which time they explained the system now in use in their school for selling defense stamps and bonds.

Stamps had already been on sale at the local high school since January 7, but sales had not been entirely satisfactory. Previous to the visit of Miss Lipscomb and her students, an assembly program had already been held here in the interest of these stamps, and quite satisfactory results had been achieved. Whereas, the sales had been running from $5.00 to $10.00 per day, they increased to $33.10 for last Friday, only.

Despite this increase, the high school faculty decided to use some suggestions from the Wichita Falls plan, and these have been put into use.

From now on stamps will not be on continuous sale, but will be sold once each week, only. Students are to turn in preliminary orders each Thursday afternoon. Each Tuesday afternoon at the homeroom periods they will pay for and receive the stamps they have ordered.

School officials believe that this plan will increase the amount of stamps and bonds sold at the school. However, they point out that the school's record to date does not mean that students have not been buying stamps. A recent survey by The Derrick, school newspaper, showed that high school students bought over $1,000 in stamps and bonds before they were ever put on sale at school.

In Appreciation

Christian Science Services

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 1, 1942.

The Golden Text is: "God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:19).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "When Jesus came into the coats of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am? . . . And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God" (Matthew 16:13,16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ expresses God's spiritual, eternal nature. The name is synonymous with Messiah, and alludes to the spirituality which is taught, illustrated, and demonstrated in the life of which Christ Jesus was the embodiment. The proper name of our Master in the Greek was Jesus the Christ, but Christ Jesus better signifies the Godlike" page 333).

CHUCKLES

Two men in Longview were hotly discussing the merits of a book. One of them, a writer, said: "No, Joe, you can't appreciate it. You never wrote a book yourself." To which Joe retorted, "I never laid an egg either but I'm a better judge of an omelet than any hen in Texas!"

Speaking of authors, here are a few colorful bits from their lives: Vachel Lindsay tramped across America, reciting poems in exchange for bread. Francois Villon was a Paris pickpocket and murderer but he wrote lines that will never die—such as, "Where are the snows of yesteryear?" John Masfield, poet laureate of England, tended bar in New York. Ernest Dowson died in squalor in the most wretched district in London. Does that mean nothing? He wrote the line, "Gone with the wind."

Incidentally, your columnist is the only person in the United States who has neither read the book nor seen the movie, "Gone With The Wind." I'm waiting to see whether the story is a success.

B-a-a-ad Doings

It might be called kidnapping . . . a kidnapping at the instigation of an army officer. Between acts of the soldier-produced musical-comedy, "Whaki-Khaki," a real live baby was raffled off. The winner, Miss Pat Lopez of Wichita Falls, when presented the baby wrapped in a blanket and baby cap, blushed . . . but her blushes turned to laughter when the blanket and hood were removed to reveal that the baby was actually a "kid," a baby goat. When the young lady went to claim her prize at the end of the show, it was found that the goat was missing. With a sigh of relief, she went away without her new "baby."

Two days later the kid was found. It had been smuggled into the 408th Technical School Squadron at the instigation of the squadron commander, Capt. Morton Hack, to be kept as the squadron mascot.

Anything But That
Raw recruits have been called everything from "rookies" to "dumbjohns" and then some, but one soldier in the Replacement Training Center at Sheppard Field is still wondering what the folks at home think of him. Included in a box of candy sent to the soldier for Valentine's Day was the S.P.C.A. magazine, "Our Dumb Animals."

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House
There was trickery in David Crockett's day, too. In his autobiography, he thus explains his failure to be re-elected to Congress: "I should have been elected if it hadn't been that, but a few weeks before the election, the little four-pence-ha-penny limbs of the law fell on a plan to defeat me. They agreed to spread out over the district and make appointments for me to speak almost everywhere to clear up the Jackson question. They would give me no notice of these appointments and the people would meet in great crowds to hear what excuse Crockett had for quitting Jackson.

"But instead of Crockett's being there, this small-fry of lawyers would be there with their saddle-bags full of newspapers and their journals of Congress and would get up and speak and read their scurrilous attacks on me and would then tell the people I was afraid to appear."

After losing the race, Crockett made a speech of farewell to Tennessee, concluding: "I am done with politics for the present and you can all go to h— and I will go to Texas."

Not the Mother Goose version: Jack and Jill ran up the hill To fetch a pail of water; Jack fell down and broke his crown And Jill said, "Can't take it, eh?"

Says the Wood County Democrat, editorially: "Ralph Yarbrough was born at Chandler, Henderson County, and was reared an East Texan. After he graduated from the University of Texas School of Law, he began the practice of his profession in El Paso and for years lived the life of a West Texan. More recently, he served as Assistant Attorney General at Austin and later District Judge in the territory centering around Austin in Central Texas, East Texas, West Texas, Central Texas, Judge Yarbrough is one of those rare men who can truly be called a citizen of all the State."

After mentioning that Yarbrough was being urged to run for Attorney General, the Democrat added that he had made the race in 1938 and that "he has made many friends; and the more people he meets, the more friends he makes."

Two men in Longview were hotly discussing the merits of a book. One of them, a writer, said: "No, Joe, you can't appreciate it. You never wrote a book yourself." To which Joe retorted, "I never laid an egg either but I'm a better judge of an omelet than any hen in Texas!"
