VENUE CHANGE ASKED BY RATLIFF

G. O. P. TO HOLD TWO MEETINGS IN TEXAS AREA

NATIONAL DELEGATE IS TO BE INSTRUCTED TO SUPPORT HOOVER

DALLAS, Jan. 16.—The executive committee of the Republican party in Texas today voted to hold two state conventions, the first here on May 22, and the second at Fort Worth on August 14.

At the May 22 meeting, delegates to the national convention at Kansas City on June 12 will be selected. The state Republican ticket will be nominated at the Fort Worth meeting on Aug. 14, the committee decided.

In a resolution adopted by a 27 to 1 vote, the state organization was urged by the executive committee to send a delegation to the national convention instructed to vote for Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, for the Republican presidential nomination.

Debate Is Heated
The resolution, introduced early in the morning, was brought to a vote only after heated debate, in which R. B. Creager, national committee chairman, and Eugene Nolte, state chairman, were charged with "dominating" Texas Republicans. C. C. Littlejohn, Fort Worth, led opponents to the endorsement of Hoover, which move had been sponsored by Creager and Nolte.

Strong Tariff Plank
Another resolution, introduced by Bullington, urging the national convention to incorporate a strong tariff plank, working especially to the advantage of Texas agriculture, also was adopted.

Kellar To Enforce State Auto Laws

John C. Kellar, state highway license and weight inspector for this district, will carry out the instructions of the State Highway Department calling for arrests on all car owners not having 1928 license plates after January 20, he said here today. The department issued orders Saturday for arrests on all cars not having new plates after January 20.

Mr. Kellar stated that he had no authority to extend the time and that he must enforce the highway law as instructed.

Water Turned Into Reservoir Today

Water will be turned into the city's new storage tank at 10th and U. for the first time late this afternoon, Roy Houk, city water superintendent said today. As the water is pumped into the new reservoir, tests and repairs will be made for leaks.

The pipe will be filled sometime tomorrow, provided there are not too many leaks, workmen said today. It has a capacity of 1,200,000 gallons.

A. T. Lemon Dies At Home Sunday Night

A. T. Lemon, 67, Lubbock county farmer, died shortly after ten o'clock last night at his residence, four miles northeast of Lubbock. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the residence. Burial will follow in the Lubbock cemetery with Rix undertakers in charge of the arrangements.

He is survived by his widow and three children, a daughter in Oklahoma and two sons, J. W. Lemon and W. I. Lemon, of Lubbock county.

State Man Inspects Fire Hazards Here

Lee O. Olive of the state fire marshal's office at Austin, is in Lubbock and will spend three days here with City Fire Marshal J. A. Presley in inspecting the various business houses for fire hazards. His report to the department will have a large part in the decision to lower the city's key rate, officials said today.

HELPING HAND EXTENDED NEW WORLD

HOUSTON MAN IS SHOT IN YARD OF HIS HOME TODAY

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Jan. 16.—Jim Shelton, 52, member of one of the most widely known insurance firms here, was at a hospital Monday with a bullet wound in his left temple. His condition was described as critical.

The shooting occurred at the rear of Shelton's home early Monday. Mrs. Shelton said her husband was as jovial as usual at the breakfast table. She said she did not hear a shot.

Will Sharp, a neighbor, said he found Mr. Shelton lying on the steps with a pistol in his right hand.

REVISED FARM BILL TAKEN UP BY COMMITTEE

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The revised McNary-Haugen bill will be the basis of farm relief discussions by the House agricultural committee, it was decided today at the first meeting of that committee to consider the flood of farm proposals made in both house and senate.

A move to prevent a recurrence of previous extended hearings was made by representative Adkins, Republican, Illinois, who expressed the opinion that the committee could agree on a bill within a week. This sentiment was approved by other members of the committee with the suggestion that the present hearings be sharply curtailed by allowing to testify only those who had new ideas or suggestions for relief.

Want Changes Explained
It was also suggested that priority be given to those who could explain to the committee why two important changes were made in the McNary-Haugen bill, especially relating to provisions giving the president blanket power in appointing members of the proposed federal farm board.

The former bill authorized the president to select board members from lists of eligibles submitted by farmers' nominating committees.

The other significant change in the current bill applies its relief features to all agricultural products instead of only a limited few.

Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, noted the committee that he intended later in the day to introduce a farm relief bill of his own featuring the debenture plan.

INTERNATIONAL CONFIDENCE KEYNOTE OF COOLIDGE ADDRESS IN OPENING PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE IN CUBA

(By Associated Press)
HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 16.—In a speech keyed to the note of international confidence, helpfulness and goodwill President Coolidge opened the sixth Pan-American Congress here today by urging the nations of the western hemisphere to join in the task of assuring to all its people the freedom that Columbus bequeathed to them in equal measure.

Journeyping outside of his homeland for the first time since he became president, Mr. Coolidge spoke to the distinguished gathering not as the head of a pre-eminent powerful country but as the spokesman of a nation on an equal plane with her sister Republics, trying to find the way to a peaceful solution of whatever problems beset their quest for complete understanding and friendship.

U. S. PRESIDENT OPENS SESSION OF GOOD WILL

PLEDGES GOVERNMENT TO WORLD PEACE AND GOOD RELATIONS

(By Associated Press)
HAVANA, Jan. 16.—The helping hand of the United States in the solution of the problems that beset the nations of the new world was extended by President Calvin Coolidge today, as he opened the Sixth Pan-American congress. In his address he dedicated his government to work for international confidence, helpfulness and good will. He spoke in the national theater before the representatives of 21 nations of the western hemisphere.

As the spokesman of a country on an equal plane with her sister republics, the President of the United States gave assurance that his government was prepared to encourage all peaceful pursuits that would bring the American family of states into closer and more permanent harmony. Although he spoke in English to a predominantly Spanish understanding audience, Mr. Coolidge was frequently interrupted by prolonged applause, which seemed an echo of the tremendous ovation with which he was acclaimed on his way to the theater.

Greeted by Cheers
The great throng assembled cheered and clapped their hands at several points in his address, laying stress on hope for peace in the new world, and rose from their seats several times to add weight to their enthusiasm.

Mr. Coolidge was introduced by President Machado of Cuba in a speech also keyed to the note of international friendship and good will, and was obliged to wait several minutes before beginning his discourse, until the applause subsided.

At the right, in a box, sat Mrs. Coolidge with Senora Machado. At the long table, behind which the two presidents sat in high leather-backed chairs, were Secretary of State Kellogg and the Cuban secretary of state.

SCOUT HEROIC ACT IS CITED

CERTIFICATE IS GIVEN PARENTS OF YOUTH KILLED IN RESCUE

W. P. Knox, South Plains area scout executive, was in Jayton yesterday where he presented a Certificate of Heroism to Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lawrence, parents of William Earl Lawrence, 16 year old Lone Scout of Kent county who lost his life in May, 1926, in saving a friend, Harold Wade, of the same city, from drowning. The certificate was signed by Daniel Carter "Uncle Dan" Beard, national scout commissioner of the National Council of Honor.

Youth's Fishing
Young Lawrence and Wade were fishing at the time of the heroic incident, according to information gained by Mr. Knox. Wade had gone out to get a trout line when he called for help, young Lawrence answering and bringing him nearly to the shore, giving him a push that enabled him to reach the bank while he, Lawrence, drowned.

The lad had been a Lone Scout since 1923 and had always had a high scholastic record in Jayton, being a member of the athletic teams and school band.

Mr. Knox made the presentation of the letter yesterday to the parents. It is the first to be presented in this area.

Postmaster Dies In Auto Collision

WHITEWRIGHT, Tex., Jan. 16.—N. B. Warner, 70, postmaster at Bells, seven miles north of here, was instantly killed Sunday when his automobile ran into the rear of another, driven by Mrs. A. L. Groves, who was stopping to pick up a neighbor going to Sunday school.

Warner's automobile, which he was unable to stop in time, overturned after the collision.

Japan Continues Howl Against U. S.

TOKYO, Jan. 16.—(P)—Japanese vernacular newspapers today continue to decry the recently announced American naval program saying that it was inconsistent with America's professed desire for peace as shown by the proposal of a pact to outlaw war and the promotion of the recent three-power disarmament conference at Geneva.

Instructed Vote For Moody Is Urged

AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—(P)—A delegation instructed for President but instructed for Governor Dan Moody as vice-president should be sent by Texas to the national Democratic convention at Houston next June, former Postmaster General Albert S. Burleson, an Al Smith supporter, declared here Monday.

HARRY ROGERS WILL ADDRESS TECH SENIORS

WORLD FIGURE COMING MAY 28 TO DELIVER GRADUATORY TALK

Harry H. Rogers, of San Antonio, former president of Rotary International, educator, prominent attorney and oil operator, will deliver the commencement address to the 1928 graduating class of Texas Technological college, it was announced today by Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the school. Mr. Rogers' address, which will be the principal feature of Tech's commencement ceremonies, will be delivered on May 28, Doctor Horn stated.

In addition to being one of South Texas' leading attorneys and business men, Mr. Rogers has always been an active and sincere worker for education. Doctor Horn reports. As president of Rotary International, which includes Rotary clubs in nearly half a score of countries over the world, Mr. Rogers became a world figure. His tenure of office in Rotary ended last summer when the Rotary convention was held in Oostend, Belgium.

INJUNCTION HALTING ENFORCEMENT OF EQUAL COTTON RATE DISSOLVED LEAVING INTERIOR ON PORT BASIS

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—A temporary injunction restraining the state railroad commission from enforcing its order equalizing cotton rates to the Texas gulf ports was dissolved in district court Monday on application of the attorney general's department, leaving the 31 cent rate, ordered last summer, effective alike for portside, back-from-the-water front and interior shippers.

The injunction was granted last July on application of Houston portside interests through the chamber of commerce, attacking the

NEGRO IS SOUGHT AFTER SHOOTING OF TWO WHITES

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Jan. 16.—N. J. Hardman, 21, of Houston, and Ernest Craven, 21, of Missouri City were at a hospital here Monday suffering from pistol wounds, while police were looking for a negro said to have fired the shot.

The shooting took place in the hallway of a small hotel here Sunday. Hardman was wounded in the abdomen and left hand and Craven was shot in the right leg below the knee.

Investigator Geo. Andrew said he was told that the men quarreled with the negro in the hotel and were shot as they were leaving it.

TEXAN SCORES DELAY IN TAX BILL PASSAGE
The motion was taken under consideration and will be argued at an afternoon session of the district court here. Ratliff entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned.

GARNER SAYS HALT IS DUE TO INCREASE IN MELLON PAYMENTS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Charges that the administration was blocking Senate action on the $200,000,000 tax reduction bill because it had been discovered that one of its provisions would increase by $50,000,000 the taxes paid by larger corporations, were made in the house today by Representative Garner, Democrat of Texas.

The Texan, who is ranking minority member of the house ways and means committee, made his assertion coincident with the announcement that Senator Simmons of North Carolina, senior democrat on the senate finance committee, would align democrats against the republican move to postpone tax legislation until after the March 15 returns were in.

Increase For Mellon
Garner asserted that under a provision of the bill corporations in which Secretary Mellon was interested would pay a total increase of $1,000,000, adding:

"It means more taxes for Mr. Mellon, and that isn't tax reduction to Uncle Andy."

The increase would be brought about under section 141 of the new law which would require parent and subsidiary corporations to file separate tax returns instead of "affiliated returns," as permitted at present, he explained.

After a conference of the minority members, Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, which has charge of revenue legislation, announced that the democrats would present a United front for immediate consideration of the bill.

Republicans have a majority of two members on the committee and Chairman Smoot has declared his belief that the majority would stick together for the delay.

May Go To Floor

Whether the democrats will carry the fight to the floor if defeated in committee was not revealed today but republican independents who are against any tax cut at this time are expected to stand by the republican regulars for a postponement.

Only Few Dogs Are Immune From Death

Only twenty-four dogs in the city are under protection of the 1928 city dog license and immune from possible death at the hands of the city dog killer, it was learned in the city offices this morning. All others are subject to death, according to a city ordinance.

The city dog catcher is instructed to kill all dogs without tax tags and is expected to follow instructions, officials said this morning.

FIRST OF TRIO ARRAIGNED IN CISCO MURDER

FAIR TRIAL IS CLAIMED IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE ACCUSED SLAYER

(By Associated Press)
EASTLAND, Texas, Jan. 16.—Declaring that a fair trial in Eastland county is not possible, counsel for Marshall Ratliff, bank bandit indicted for robbery by firearms and murder in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank of Cisco, this morning entered a motion for a change of venue.

The motion was taken under consideration and will be argued at an afternoon session of the district court here. Ratliff entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned.

Motion Contested
District Attorney Frank Sparks, told the court that he would contest the motion for venue change and was granted a recess to prepare his contesting motion.

The court room was packed almost to suffocation, 450 veniremen and 75 witnesses having been summoned in the case of Ratliff and his two companions in the bank raid, Henry Helms and Robert Hill.

Prospects that the hearing for change of venue would continue for two days was seen by attorneys as court recessed just before noon.

Helms, Ratliff and Hill were in court at 10:15 a. m. when the session convened by Judge G. L. Davenport. Helms entered leaning upon the shoulder of an officer but the others walked in unassisted. All had been wounded in the gun fight at the bank which cost the lives of G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief and G. W. Carmichael, police officer and L. E. Davis, bandit.

Each Has Lawyer
All have lawyers. J. H. Baker, of Coleman, represents Ratliff. His mother's home is in Cisco and has been identified as the bandit who appeared in the Cisco bank clad as Santa Claus. J. Lee Curley of Cisco is associated with Baker in Ratliff's defense. Curley alone represents Helms. L. H. Fiewelson of Ranger, appointed by the court, is counsel for Hill. Hill already has been arraigned and has pleaded guilty to the robbery by fire arms charge.

W. W. Hair, of Abilene, appointed by the Governor, is aiding Frank Sparks, district attorney, in prosecution of the trio.

Warning Is Given On Tax Payments

A penalty of ten per cent will be charged against all property owners in the city who have not paid their city taxes by February 1, it was announced today from the office of R. A. Holland, city tax collector. A number of the citizens are under the impression that the time limit of tax payments will be extended as was the case last year, Mr. Holland said, but this will not be done.

Property owners have been very slow in making their tax payments to the city this month, he reported.

Norman Re-Elected To Bank Position

Through error in the Sunday Avalanche-Journal the name of P. A. Norman of the Citizens National bank of this city was omitted from the list of officers and directors of the institution.

Mr. Norman, who has held a place as a vice president of the bank since he came here about three years ago, was re-elected at the regular annual meeting of the board of directors last week, and will continue active in dispatch of the business of the institution, it was announced Monday.

BAKER FURNITURE MAN, BACK AFTER TRIP, IS PLEASED

P. H. Roberts of Baker Furniture company returned yesterday from the semi-annual furniture market held at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago. Mr. Roberts reports that he has purchased an extensive line of the latest types of furniture and draperies which will soon be shown at the Baker store. He is optimistic over the prospects of the furniture industry in general, and his local prospects in particular.

"1928 looks like a great year for the furniture business," said Mr. Roberts soon after his return. "In fact, I cannot remember a furniture market ever held which equalled the present one from the point of view of general optimism throughout the industry."

"Every furniture man to whom I talked while in the American Furniture Mart expressed himself as a thorough going optimist when it came to sizing up the next year."

Norton E. Baker, owner and manager of the store, will return the latter part of the week. Mr. Roberts reports.

Mrs. Al Byers of Spur is ill in a local sanitarium.

H. C. Newberry of Brownfield was in Lubbock today.

Mrs. Mary W. Doak, dean of women at the Tech, is visiting in Abilene.

Mrs. C. E. Kemp of Littlefield is a patient in a local sanitarium.

Mrs. M. V. Terry of Sudan visited in Lubbock today.

Dean James M. Gordon of the Tech is in Memphis where he is to address a meeting at the First Presbyterian church there tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stanton, 2504 Avenue H, are parents of an 8-pound son born this morning. The child has been named, J. G. Stanton, Jr.

Mrs. Roger Pierce and son, Roger, have returned from Fort Worth. Roger has been ill with scarlet fever at the home of his grandmother.

Announcement was made this morning of the marriage of Miss Lois Wheeler and Leon Barton last Wednesday. The bride is a Tech student living near Ideal and the groom is a salesman at the Maytag shop.

DODGERS HOPE TO SHOW MORE THAN PITCHING IN COMING SEASON

ROBBIE TURNS ATTENTION TO BATTING ACES

LAST YEAR'S RECORD SHOWS GREAT NEED OF SCORING PUNCH

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Wilbert Robinson, 61-year-old manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, hopes to have something besides a pitching staff to keep him in the race for the 1928 National League pennant. Consistently brilliant hurling exhibitions by the Dodgers well-balanced staff went for naught last season because the team could not hit and the infield left something to be desired from a fielding viewpoint. Time and again the aces of the mound corps held the opposition to a run or two only to lose the verdict because the scoring punch necessary to cash in on these performances was lacking. The Dodgers finished last in the league in both fielding and batting. Harvey Hendrick was the lone Brooklyn representative in the more or less select 300 circle.

Reaches Into Minors
Rendered desperate by the important bats of his charges, Robbie reached into the minor leagues and grabbed Del Bissonette, International league slugger, Harry Rignoda of Milwaukee and Al Tyson of Buffalo, in addition to getting Dave Bancroft, former manager of the Boston Braves, to give his wobbly infield some much needed steam.

Few if any pennant dreams accompany the party Mr. Robinson's nightly sleep but he hopes that these new additions will enable the Dodgers to finish higher in 1928 than the sixth that was their last season.

With Vance, Petty, Doak, Elliott, McWeeny, Ehrhardt and Clark to call upon, Robinson is assured of as good pitching as any manager in the league will get. The first string catchers, "Butch" Henline, Charlie Hargreaves and Hank Krsch, Vance's sidekick, generally are rated as the best receiving corps in the circuit.

Outfield in Good Hands
The outfield, too, seems to be pretty well taken care of by Hendrick, Max Carey, Arnold Stans, and Max Carey, Arnold Stans, and Tyson, who has seen service with the New York Giants. The starting infield probably will see either Bissonette or Babe Herman at first base; Jay Partridge at second; Bancroft at short, and Rignoda, once with the Athletics and the Braves, at third. The reserve infield strength includes Ty Freiga, who has worn the uniforms of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Braves; Jake Flowers, Chuck Corgan and Billy Rhell, a highly-regarded Rookie from Atlanta.

MATADORS OFF FOR BATTLE IN BUFFALO CAMP

FIRST OF TWO GAME SERIES SLATED FOR CANYON TONIGHT

Coach Victor Payne and his Texan Tech cagers left this morning for Canyon where they will fill a two game schedule with San Antonio's crack Buffalo quintet. This evening and Tuesday. Without any preparations after the two defeats at the hands of the Hill Billies of Daniel Baker College, Coach Payne left with the following players: Hunter, Jennings, Pace, Peterson, Weaver, Hemphill, White, Kerr, Walker, McWilliams, Watson and Watkins.

The Buffaloes, one of the fastest basketball combinations in the state, recently returned from a down state trip on which they split with the Bruins of Baylor and Longhorns of Texas University. The Southwest Teachers College, of Oklahoma, took two stinging defeats from the Buffs last week-end, after losing two hard

TEXAN SCRAPS JACK DELANEY IN GOTHAM MIX

TWO FIGHTS TONIGHT SEEK CHALLENGERS FOR TUNNEY BELT

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Two contenders for Gene Tunney's heavyweight championship go into action tonight in the Metropolitan district. Heading a boxing card at the S. Nicholas arena, Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., one of Tex Rickard's eligibles, will battle in a ten-rounder against Sully Montgomery, giant Texan.

At the new Broadway arena in Brooklyn, Paulino Uacudum of Spain, a little aspirant, will tackle Ed Keeley, of Boston.

Showing Cautious Much
Just where Delaney and Paulino will fit in Rickard's heavyweight elimination plans will depend largely on their showing tonight. Delaney's return to the fight scene is a great contrast to the time when he held sway as a headliner when he was the world's light weight and closely contested games with the Hill Billies. Coach Sam Burton scouted the Matadors in their first game with the Billies here last Friday, but since the game turned out to be a rough house affair, the Teacher mentor did not see much in the way of basketball.

The Matadors are making their initial road trip for this season with the two games in Canyon. After taking the Buffaloes for two contests, they return to Lubbock and then on to Abilene where they have one week scheduled with the three colleges of that city, Simmons, A. C. C., and McMurry.

The next home game the Matadors will play will be with the McMurry Indian five on February 6 and 9.

CAGE TOURNEY AT SLATON TO BE A FEATURE

SOUTH PLAINS QUINTS TO CONTEST THERE JANUARY 27-28

(Special To The Journal)
SLATON, Jan. 16.—Twenty-five high schools of the South Plains will meet here Friday and Saturday, Jan. 27 and 28, in a basketball tournament, invitations having gone out from Supt. C. L. Sone, Coach Odus Mitchell and Principal H. M. Pevehouse. The tourney will be held in the local high gymnasium.

The various school teams will be grouped as follows: Group 1 (playing Friday), Wilson, Southland, Sudan, Lehman, Anton, Canyon (Lubbock county), Acuff, Ropesville, Moore, Abernathy, Liberty and Escadado; group 2 (playing Saturday), Post, Idaho, Lubbock, Littlefield, Ralls, Lorenzo, Crosbyton, Slaton, Amherst, Brownfield, Floydada, Tahoka and Lamesa.

Five series of games will be played, two Friday and three Saturday. Winners of group one will receive eight gold basketballs as a trophy from the Slaton schools, while group two will get a loving cup. All coaches and players will be given complimentary season tickets to the tourney. Hundreds of South Plains people are expected to be here for the two-day meet, backing their teams for the titles, according to school officials here.

FROG NET SQUAD BEGIN WORK AS OLD SOL SHINES

(Special To The Journal)
PORT WORTH, Jan. 16.—Sunny skies and excellent weather have brought out the entire squad of Frog net men, both freshmen and varsity. Under the coaching of Johnny Baker, old conference tennis star, the Horned Frogs have set out to surprise the conference and to offer some strong competition in all their matches.

The T. C. U. courts can be seen crowded at all times with both boys and girls tennis teams having started their work with William Ewell, last year's varsity captain, as coach. Although there are not many men out for the varsity, the ones who have made the grade seem to have the makings of a well balanced team. T. C. U.'s hopes lie in six men, namely: Wier McFarland, Port Worth; Charles Proctor, Palestine; Willie Atkinson, Carthage; William Ewell, Colorado City; Walter Lennox, Cisco, and Fred Brasted, Port Worth.

HALE CENTER IS DEVELOPING ITS CAGING QUINTET

(Special To The Journal)
HALE CENTER, Jan. 16.—With its Friday night defeat of the Petersburg five the Hale Center high school basketball team ran its string of consecutive victories for the present season to nine and is yet undefeated.

Floydada, Olton, and Petersburg have dropped two games each to the locals while Kress has been defeated three times and the backers of the Hale Center entry feel that their team has a good chance for the district title. Floydada has lost only three games; Olton, with the exception of the two games dropped to the locals, is undefeated.

On next Friday night the fast Plainview high team will meet Hale Center in the latter's team's gymnasium and a hotly contested tilt is expected.

WOULD HAVE FUMBLE ON BACKWARD PASS MADE FREE BALL

(Special To The Journal)
COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 16.—The proposed rule relating to the backward pass that prescribes the ball as dead when the pass is incomplete, promises to be the only rule of any importance likely to draw serious fire at the meeting of the national football rules committee in New York the first week in February, in the opinion of Head Coach D. X. Bible of the A. and M. college of Texas, who is the representative from the southwest on the rules committee. Bible expects to leave the latter week in January for the committee meeting.

Two Rules Opposed
The American Football Coaches' association at its December session in New York, recommended that the present set of rules remain unchanged with the exception of the backward pass and the muffed punt rules. Bible has pointed out concerning these two rules, the association recommended to the rules committee that a return to the 1926 rule on the backward pass made the ball a free ball in case of incomplete pass. The present muffed punt rule prohibits the kicking side from making a run with the ball in case of recovery. The 1926 rule permitted the kicking side to run with the ball in case of recovery.

Due consideration of these recommended changes will be given by the rules committee at the com-

HUGGINS WILL STAND PAT ON HIS PITCHERS

MITE MANAGER THINKS HURLERS WILL LAND ANOTHER PENNANT

(By NEA Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Even if the New York Yankees fail to put through a deal during the winter for a pitcher good enough to take a regular turn, the pitching staff will not be in desperate straits, according to Miller Huggins, manager of the champions.

Although Bob Shawkey, Dutch Reuther and Joe Gard have gone and Urban Shocker may get his passage paper, Huggins believes he has somewhat of a staff in Hoyt, Pennock, Phipps and Moore.

There are also Henry Johnson, who it recently developed, is wanted in several places, Myler Thomas and old Stan Coveleskie, who are to be given a trial in St. Petersburg. There also may be a find among a lot of rookies.

Huggins never will lose his faith in star pitching, but the impression is general around here that it does not take a wonderful pitcher to get by with that gang of clouters behind him.

Reaction is Asked
Bible has asked a number of the coaches and officials of the Southwest conference concerning their reaction to the 1927 set of rules and the replies so far received indicate most of them are pleased with the rules as they stand except in the case of the backward pass rule.

A strong sentiment for return to the 1926 rule in this respect is shown by the replies on hand, he added. Since many teams are using spin plays which make it especially difficult for officials to determine in case the ball is dropped, which is a fumble and which is an incomplete backward pass, this confusion developing from the present rule has been advanced by some as argument for the return to the 1926 rules.

In the opinion of Bible no change is likely in the rule regarding the location of the goal posts. The general football code in the rules will probably be rewritten in order to clarify the phraseology and remove obsolete phrases, he said.

Hooks and Slides

Another year, succeeding one that was celebrated for the number and violence of its squawks, is getting a good start with Bill Tilden and the United States Lawn Tennis association training for another battle and with the Army and Navy debating on the use of real cartridges in 1928's sham battles.

The bout between Tilden and the executives of tennis has not proved much of a thriller because they have been in the opposite corners of several previous encounters which resulted in a draw with claims of victory on each side.

Tilden says that some concessions were made to him when he was valiantly defending his right to use his literary talent in supplying an eager public with his ideas on tennis. The concessions have not been made known but it is a matter of history that Tilden went on playing tennis and the executives went on running tennis.

His Case Not Vital
The loss of Tilden for the American Davis cup challengers is not the momentous public question that it would have been several years ago. Tilden at that time occupied the role of a patriotic soldier willing to give his all in defense of the cup from foreign invasions.

But now the position of the United States in international tennis is reversed. The United States no longer has it. France has it and the opinion is not isolated that France is going to have the cup for some time to come.

That part of Tilden's public which rallied to him before may be silent or slightly casual this year because of the opinion that the United States is out of it for some time and that the cup couldn't be brought back from France this summer if Mr. Tilden and Frank Hunter, his pal in rebellion, were able to do or die for the dear old U. S. L. T. A.

Tilden always has pointed out that he wasn't known to the office boy in the executive offices of the association. His connection with the ruling bodies of the game was one of indifference and his social relations only one of cool courtesy.

Tilden Loses a Point
Tilden in our opinion, knocked one out of the executive when he didn't communicate his objections to the plans made by the association for the recovery of the cup.

Instead he popped up before the members of a district association and opened fire on the plan to enter the American team in the American zone preliminaries instead of the European zone.

He said, probably from experience, that the American challengers would need more time in Europe to prepare for the challenge round and he could have stopped there. But he added that if the association didn't reverse its decision, he and Hunter would take their requests and go to Europe regardless. The association could do nothing, under these circumstances, but refuse to accept an ultimatum that had been made so publicly. It isn't every one that likes to lose in public when a private fight might have

LUBBOCK BECOMING A C.A.T. OF FINE HOMES

Is further evidenced by the selection by four different families of four 100-foot home sites in University Place, last week, for their permanent residence. A plain sign of good portent for the future value of this highly restricted tract is that people who have selected home sites in what has heretofore been the most exclusive location, are in many cases requesting us to accept their lots as all or part payment for one of our University Place 100-foot sites.

They realize fully that nowhere else in Lubbock, has anyone who builds a fine home on two lots, any protection against his value being depreciated by another's building a mediocre home on the adjoining 50-foot lot.

Here in University Place, overlooking the Tech campus, you have such protection, and many governing features which always have and always will send land and location values up continuously. The price and terms will interest you. Investigate!

Thought For Today

There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear—1 John 4:18.

They'll Stay

The United States marines have as you may have heard, quite a reputation.

The old dispatch, "the marines have landed and have the situation well in hand," has become a bromide. Everybody knows about what happened in France. The country has been pretty well acquainted with the fact that the marines are a swell gang of two-handed scrappers.

But once in a while the daily news reports emphasize the fact again.

Probably you read all about the recent fight in Nicaragua, where half a dozen marines died and a score or more were wounded in a brush with Sandino's irregulars.
The part we want to bring to your attention again, is the message which Gunnery Sergeant Brown of the Sapotilla patrol sent to marine headquarters after his detachment had been ambushed.

"I've been reinforced," was the first sentence he said. This was a reasonable remark, since the marines apparently were outnumbered about 5 to 1. But his second sentence said:

"Am in position and will stay there until help comes."

Somewhat we admire that. It expresses, we think, better than long columns of praise could, the spirit that has made the marines considered the most dependable of enemies. The marine sergeant has been, leathery, capable and un-worriedly ambushed in a wild, mountainous country low on supplies and low on men thrust into a tactical situation where a marine could find nothing but "help" in position and will stay there until help comes.

No "hope to" no "will try to hold out." Just "will stay there until help comes."

We like that. We think it deserves to live with that "other marine classic"—"have landed and have the situation well in hand."

Our Cars

To the harassed motorist to say nothing of the harassed pedestrian, the official announcement—that there are now more than 25,000,000 motor cars in operation in the United States will come as a means for added worry.

The presence on our streets and roads of this swarm of machines has already made our traffic problem one of our most pressing concerns. And when one stops to consider that Ford, General Motors and the other great quantity producers are preparing for banner years in 1928, one is compelled to admit that the situation probably will be a lot worse a year hence than it is now.

What is called for, apparently, is an entirely new method of handling the problem. Expert study expert advice, prompt and far-sighted action are urgently needed. No halfway measures, such as widening a street here, making this highway a one-way street, prohibiting parking here and so on, are going to solve the difficulty. Application of the best brains obtainable is needed.

It is time we awakened to the seriousness of the thing and began looking for these "best brains" and putting them to work on the problem. Otherwise, we are apt to find ourselves tangled up in traffic beyond all endurance in the near future.

A lot of people do not have to be weighed in the balance to be found wanting. They are always wanting if they don't want this they want that.

Politicians seldom if ever write their memoirs. They have an instinctive fear that they will mis-quote themselves.

Crocodiles can go three months

The students of Texas Technological college are facing a decision which will be far more important to the future of the school than a legislative appropriation of any given year.
Their problem is, briefly, "Are we going to permit an unthinking minority of our student body to practice unsportsmanlike tactics at athletic contests, thus giving our school an unsavory reputation among other schools and in the end hurt its enrollment?" Whether Tech's student body wishes to consider and solve this problem or to overlook it is a mighty big thing. The majority of the students must put their collective foot down, upon such practices if the great state institution which has broken all enrollment records for American schools is ever to continue to grow unhampered.

On Friday and Saturday of the week just past, the Matador basketball team contested the eagles from Daniel Baker college in the Tech gymnasium. During the first game a portion of the college spectators took several occasions to hiss the referee. During the second game when members of the Daniel Baker team were taking free throws, a part of the crowd whistled, shouted and otherwise attempted to disquiet the nerves of the visiting shooter. In The Plainsman's opinion the action of this part of the crowd upon both occasions was a disgrace to the Tech college.

Director of Athletics Edwin Y.
Freeland came to The Plainsman after the first game with the Daniel Baker team. "What can be done to stop our rooters from following unsportsmanlike tactics?" he asked. Everybody's best consideration was to stop the plainsmen but was not to use The Plainsmen can answer Mr. Freeland's question in the only way that it can be answered. That is "Get the student body aroused. Make the majority of students who follow the sportsmanlike on the sidelines as well as the seat of battle, see the fault of the minority of their fellows and then urge them to use their own influence in stopping such practices."

Loyalty to the team is a necessary thing in any school or college.
But loyalty to the team should not be a blind loyalty. It should be loyalty to the team, but not to the team's unsportsmanlike actions of visiting athletes.

And Coach Freeland is not the only athletic luminary in Texas who is objecting to the roystering of the part of the plainsmen. The coaches of the State and Black Gold of the Plainsman that he favored action on the part of the plainsmen.
Men's club to stop unsportsmanlike tactics on the part of the students, and while he hasn't failed to any of the rest of the boys who have made sports history for Texas Tech. The Plainsman is sure that athletes like Hurley Carpenter, Bruce Reed, Ransom Walker, and all the rest disapprove of it just as much as a Preacher Calloway.

Unsportsmanlike tactics on a part of the majority of students in any college will hamper that college's growth and will give it an unsavory reputation in spite of anything the balance of its student body and its friends can do to over-balance the situation. None of us want Texas Tech to be injured in any way but the only method which will stop that very thing is for the larger portion of the student body to take a definite stand against roystering of all kinds now, and thus put a dangerous situation in the bud.

Nobody thinks, even for a minute, that the majority of the students of Texas Tech appreciate unsportsmanlike tactics of the part of any of their fellows. If The Plainsman didn't know, by observing that student body, that individually they are just as fine young men and women as there are in any college in the United States, he wouldn't mention this present situation for he'd know that to mention it would be useless. Knowing however, that our students are of a uniformly high type and knowing that those who have acted wrongly did so unthinkingly, The Plainsman joins with Coach Freeland and the others who have seen the danger signal in putting forth this early effort to nip the situation in the bud.

Mexico And United States Dance Around Maypole Now, But We Had To Build It, Rodney Dutcher Points Out

IN NEW YORK
SEE-SAWING
AND BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Broadway still has a few scrappers.
While the run of comedies and actors and stars cling like leeches to the big street there are a few old timers who would rather hear the applause of Minnesota, Missouri and way points than all the plaudits Broadway can shower upon them. There are a few, with an old sentimental attachment to their "great public," who look almost with scorn upon the Broadway players and brand them as "nouveau."

A past generation thrilled to the call of the road and the thrills of the old time managers still sit about their offices and call up tales of the days when a star sacrificed comfort, sleep and food to rush from town to town.
It was a colorful, exciting and stimulating life. It made tradition and stage history.

WHENEVER they speak in hushanded voices of troopers, they mention Frederick Ward. Ward was carrying Shakespeare into the tank towers when the war was leaving to spin tops and roll hoops.
Ward is 76 now. An he is still carrying Shakespeare to the out-lands of Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas. Frederick Ward is a household word in places that never heard of any one of Broadway's most famous personages. Ward can still lean back in a Lamb's Club seat—and tell you in all truth: "Yes—just a few weeks ago, I was sleeping on a corn husk mattress. There was a single window in the room and it was broken. All night it rattled in the wind. The next morning I went for 40 miles over muddy roads, through woods and up a lecture."

That was the spirit of the old trouper—the sort of thing the old timers sit down and talk about when they are building the glamorous pictures of the theater.
There are a few others—not quite so old as Fred Ward.
There's William Hodge, who can pack any house from Maine to Seattle and who has told me more than once that Broadway's all right for a sort of restful long-run—"But give me the road."

And there's the charming Mitzi, who of all the musical comedy queens has been most loyal to her audiences "in the sticks."

SPEAKING of stage personalities—it has long seemed to me that the most picturesque figure of the New York theater is "Roxie," a boyish, ill-used, sentimental showman if ever there was one.
Where showmen are concerned he has seemed to me to be worthy mentioning in the same breath as P. T. Barnum, Morris Gest and one or two others.

Roxie is the sort of person who will eat hot dogs while driving in his empty-thousand dollar Hispano. Roxie is the sort of person who will dream a theater so vast that, once it is erected, he has practically to live in it to keep it functioning. Roxie is the sort of person who sits in a little box at the top of the balcony at each theater performance and directs the going on a stage through a house.

NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A year ago the United States and Mexico were heaving bricks at each other and it looks as if Mexico might get a heavy boulder in the neck at almost any minute. Today the two republics seem to be cavorting around a maypole of brotherly love.
A year ago we were issuing unofficial stories from official sources about Mexico's weird attempt to establish a bolshevik hegemony, ending the anti-smuggling treaty which was an unfriendly act threatening to lift the arms embargo with the secret expectation of causing a successful revolt, refusing to allow good will or other planes to fly to Mexico City and almost openly threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

Good Will Now
How different the picture tonight! Ambassadors Morrow, Lindbergh and Will Rogers, with hearty governmental approval, have worked their heads off to create a sweeter feeling than that engendered by the Kellogg-Olds-field combination. We now sell and send planes to Mexico.
All's lovely on the surface.

Has Mexico backed down? Partly
yes. She hasn't been anywhere near so stubborn since we made the first friendly advances, but she responded rather than initiated.

Has Morrow, by sheer personality and fairness, caused this startling change?
Considerable credit goes to Morrow, but President Coolidge gets plenty, too, for deciding that Secretary of State Kellogg and Undersecretary Olds, the "brains" behind Kellogg, were gunning the game for everyone but the oil interests. Then Coolidge realized that Morrow was an ideal man to go to Mexico and re-shuffle the deck for a new deal. Probably Morrow did much to make Coolidge see the light, but he couldn't have done everything alone.

Gaining Grief
Whether the Coolidge-New England conscience functioned is an interesting item for speculation, but certain hard, fundamental facts were more influential than consciences and personalities.

First, any bright person had to realize that the last-year Mexican policy wasn't garnering anything but grief. Its logical conclusion would have been intervention or support of an anti-Calles revolt, either of which would have brought still more grief and perhaps ulu-mate benefit.

The State Department played the game admirably for the oil interest, which hated the thought of prosperity and a stable government for Mexico, and the oil men probably could have started another of their revolts if other American business and money interests could have benefited.

Position Of Business
But the bankers, especially the Morgan firm in which Morrow was a partner, were interested in a billion-dollar investment in Mexico, the health of which required financial and governmental stability in Mexico. Industries which export goods to Mexico had to feel the same way, for another revolt would have wrecked their market there.

Already our trade was being handicapped throughout the low hemisphere. Loud howls of protest assailed the State Department both from Latin America and the home grounds. The American people weren't at all ready for hostile action against Mexico.

Most of the underlying issues between the two nations still remain, but it is always nicer when two governments remove chips from their shoulders and flourish olive branches.

The especially vigorous waving of our branch these last few weeks has also been importantly influenced by the approach of the Pan-American Congress at Havana, Jan. 16. Some of the republics concerned had threatened to disrupt the peaceful and platitudinous proceedings of that international Rotary Club by certain squawks against imperialism and demands for assurances of sovereignty for Mexico and such small republics as Nicaragua, Haiti and Santo Domingo. That would have made this government, for all its protestations of good will, look silly. Our policy is to keep the Pan-American movement confined to economic, commercial and humanitarian concerns and away from consideration of all political matters—such as intervention in Caribbean nations.

So Coolidge, Hughes, Morrow and Lindbergh will all be at Havana and there seems little doubt that we can keep the ABC powers—Argentina, Brazil and Chile—and Mexico in line, at least so long as smaller republics don't get busy to

ORGANIZATION NECESSARY

Organization is necessary for the success of any community movement.

When people get their heads together on any question that affects their general welfare it is pretty certain that ideas will be developed that otherwise would not spring forth, but what is more important is the fact that such co-operation encourages the carrying out of the general program in mind.

A county-wide rat eradication campaign how is it possible? There is a splendid campaign, but there apparently is need of more effective organization for effective work, specially in Temple. A more centralized working program in every community, a volunteer supervisor—somebody to prod everybody else up—would logically tend to bring about the destruction of more rats, and that is what is wanted.

The county will have the services of Donald Spencer, expert of the biological survey of the federal department of agriculture, for three weeks and we should be quick to appreciate the importance of taking advantage at once of this cooperation.

Several communities already are lined up for the drive against the rats, thanks to the activity of the Business and Professional Women's club of Belton, but those women cannot do all the work.
They need the help of every community and that assistance should be extended quickly and voluntarily.

The rat is a loathsome object, and for that reason should be the object of destruction. If we sit back and loathe and detest the rodent menace it merely becomes worse, and the safest thing to do is for everybody to get together now—not next week or the following week—and wage a relentless war against the pest.

It will be too late after the campaign is over.

United action counts more effectively in a war on rats than in the ordinary field of co-operation.

Let's go—Temple Telegram.
There is nothing like organization, and then working the plan to keep things going as they should.
This is true not only in business, but in the community life of the rural districts or of the city. There is no group of people who can accomplish what they start out to do unless they are familiar with the movements of the other fellows, who are working with them. It would be folly for an army to start out without they knew what they were supposed to do in a general way. Of course there are leaders who have to look after the detail work, but the general plan can be in the minds of the entire group and in that way they can accomplish more nearly the thing that have started out to do.

There should be organization in the various communities of every county, so that every fellow can know more about what is expected of him, in the development program of that particular locality.
There should be organization in the marketing of products, and we believe this would be a great help in getting better process for the products of the farm. Uniform grades of produce has in recent years been a very valuable item. Eggs of a uniform size and color sell better on the market, the same is true of cattle and other livestock. It is best to work harmoniously and intelligently together.

MOODY PLEASED AT HOUSTON WIN WITH DEMOCRATS

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Jan. 16.—Winning the Democratic national convention for Texas was "profoundly gratifying" Governor Dan Moody said when he returned to Austin Sunday night from the Jackson Day dinner and national committee meeting in Washington.

The Governor declined to discuss the wet-dry issue as touched on in his Jackson Day address, but promised a statement to newspapers later covering his views on the effect of bringing the nominating convention to Texas.

No "Log Rolling"
Houston got the convention without any "log rolling," he declared, and had the solid support of southern states after Miami, Florida, dropped out in Houston's favor. Few eastern committeemen voted for Texas, Mr. Moody said.

"Jesse Jones deserves a lot of credit," the Governor said. "He told them Houston could take care of the convention, and that Texas had adequate transportation facilities and he met the San Francisco effort by submitting a check to cover the convention expenses." Governor Moody had "nothing to say" on any possible effect national politics may have on his indicated decision to seek reelection as Governor.

The Blazing Horizon

THE STORY THUS FAR

The story is laid in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '80's, when a fight was being waged for the opening of the territory to settlement.

Chief characters are:

TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 13 when his father was shot in a poker game.

PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, teacher, Indian interpreter, showman.

JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live.

TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K brand.

RITA, his little tomboy daughter.

Some years later, when Rita and her mother depart for the east and a finishing school, the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for Titus Moore's red-haired, arrogant daughter.

Moore is one of the chief opponents of the movement to open Oklahoma. Word is received that DAVID PAYNE, leader of the movement, is dead, and Tony, in his loyalty to Moore, is troubled because of his sympathy for Payne's cause.

CHAPTER XXXII

Early that fall a letter from Pawnee Bill brought Tony Harrison to Caldwell.

"I'm organizing a wild west show to take out next spring and I want you as fancy rider and roper. Another thing: I've been saving my money and I think I can manage, but I might as well go and let you know how much I can borrow from you in case I need it."

"I've got about two thousand dollars in the bank," Tony told him. "I've been right free and easy with it or it would be a lot more. You can borrow up to the limit on that."

"You'll cut in on the profits—if any. I'm obliged to you."

"Not at all. I like to see money work. Mine's been lying around inactive for so long it must be covered with moss."

To seal the bargain they adjourned to a saloon, of which Caldwell had just as much as ever. Although Kansas had frowned on liquor and gambling had been declared illegal in Caldwell, throwing back to the days of Abilene and Hays, the saloons and gambling halls flourished and continued to beckon to the thirty spenders who pushed the herds along the Chisholm trail.

The coming winter, Tony Harrison had determined would be his last on the Bar K. He was able to grasp what Joe Craig, Lyle Whitney, Heck Sherman and the others refused to grasp: that the day of the cow puncher in the Indian territory was passing. He had made up his mind to talk to Joe Craig about it and tell him he was thinking of leaving. And because he was grateful to Craig, he would wait until his 21st birthday. Craig had adopted him—really, it was true, but effectively—and he would stick to his own end of the bargain as Craig's ward and take orders from him until his coming of age should release him from the moral obligation.

He had it all worked out; he would go out with Pawnee Bill the following spring and when the show closed he would return to the Bar K and say goodbye. Then—well, he didn't know. He didn't like the show business well enough to remain in it very long; it was exciting and it gave one a chance to look around at places but it didn't satisfy him. His mind drifted back to San Francisco; that was the place. If he could find something there—the hay, the ships coming and going—he could get into the shipping business.

But it did not work out as he had planned. His leave-taking, Rita, whom he had almost succeeded in banishing from his thoughts and who no longer counted in his man's world, returned to the Bar K, fresh from a tour of Europe.

At sight of her his little artificial world went to smash, like a toy balloon that has been touched with a lighted cigar. The touch of her cool hand as she greeted him sent the blood racing through his veins, just as it had done on a day in the past when he tried to make her accept Cherokee for her own. He tried to speak calmly: "Hello, Rita," and then bit his tongue savagely as he heard the other Bar K hands address her as "Miss Rita."

For she had acquired dignity—the poise of her auburn-crowned head, the gentle modulation of her voice, the musical, low pitched laugh, the drape of stylish Paris made clothing, all bespoke a new Rita and seemed to say to him: "You see now what a wonderful fool you were to think you could forget her?"

Almost her first word to him was for Cherokee. "Do let me see him, Tony."

"I'll get him," and he marched dutifully to fetch him.

He had never seen anything so intensely beautiful, he told himself when he had returned, leading Cherokee for her inspection. There were soft curves about her—now, where before there had been slim straightness. She was slender, true, but rounded, finished; he was beholding a woman and he had said goodbye two years before to a girl.

Her big gray eyes beneath their long lashes were tremulous with eagerness as she put out her arms to Cherokee and hugged his face to her cheek. The big horse whinnied.

But Mrs. Moore was beckoning to her. "Come in the house, Rita, and change your clothes. Do hurry." And Rita turned away.

Tony thought that Mrs. Moore looked strangely pale and drawn. And she was nervous of manner—terribly so. Titus Moore's arm was about her as they walked to the ranch house together and Tony saw him pat his wife's shoulder with gentle affection.

"Mrs. Moore's been sick," Craig informed him when Rita had departed for the house. "I'm figuring this will be her last visit to the Bar K for a long time."

"You mean it's that serious?"

"I don't know," Craig answered. "I never been touched. For information call 978-J."

Stocks And Money

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—The reaction in stock prices which set in Saturday was resumed when the market opened today. Execution of a large batch of week-end selling orders brought about recessions of a point or so in Greene Cananea Copper, General Electric and Thompson Submarine. Allied Chemical advanced a point.

"There was nothing in the news to influence the selling movement, which appeared to represent the correction of a top-heavy speculative position. Uneasiness over the rising volume of brokers' loans and the recent stiffening of time money and acceptance rates had made it difficult for pools to attract a public following and temporarily slowed up the investment demand.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke five points within the first half hour and Greene Cananea extended its loss to four points. Motor and accessory issues continued to yield to selling pressure with General Motors and Hudson bearing the brunt of the initial attacks. Such recent pool favorites as radio, International nickel, and Collins and Alkermes sold off readily. But it yielded with the industrials but the early losses were held to a point or so.

Foreign exchanges opened steady with sterling cables quoted around $4.87 3-4.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO
PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified cresote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu.
Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

COOLIDGE, CUBA

In building up a great military establishment to over-awe or subjugate its neighbors, and enunciated the doctrine that all nations of this hemisphere are determined to adjust their differences "not by a resort to force but by the application of the principles of justice and equity."

"All nations here represented," Mr. Coolidge said "stand on an exact footing of equality. The smallest and the weakest speak here with the same authority as the largest and the most powerful. You come together under the present condition, and future expectation of profound peace. You are continuing to strike a new note in international pathfinding by maintaining a forum in which not the selfish interests of a few, but the general welfare of all will be considered."

Confiding that the nations have been charged with the sacred trust of establishing and expanding the spirit of democracy the President said that although false starts and disappointing reactions will develop the American republics have placed their confidence in the ultimate wisdom of the people.

Govern Selves
We are thoroughly committed to the principle that they are better fitted to govern themselves than any one else is to govern them. He said "We do not claim immediate perfection but we do expect continual progress. Our history reveals that in such expectation we have not been disappointed. It is better for the people to make their own mistakes than to have some one else make their mistakes for them."

Attachment to the policy of peace Mr. Coolidge declared, was second among the nations of this hemisphere only to the attachment to the principle of self-government. "Their chief efforts have been devoted to the arts of peace," he continued. "The have never come under the deusion of military grandeur. Nowhere among these republics have great military establishments ever been maintained for the purpose of overawing or subjugating other nations."

Moderate Preparation
"We have all nourished a commendable sentiment of moderate preparation for national defense, believing that for a nation to be unreasonably neglectful of the military art, even if it did not involve cause such aggression as to result either in war or in abject humiliation, it must finally lead to a disastrous disintegration of the moral fiber of the nation. But it is one thing to be prepared to defend our rights as a last extremity and quite another to rely on force where reason ought to prevail."

"The form of our government is against the Old World dominion wars. It is scarcely too much to say that the conflicts which have been waged by our republics for the 150 years have been almost entirely for the purpose of securing independence and extending the domain of human freedom. When these have been accomplished, we have not failed to heed the admonition to beat our swords into plowshares."

"The material vehicles for the promotion of a closer union of American states, enumerated by the American President were highways, railroad lines, ocean lines, transportation of mail by air and the press of all countries. He noted that "great progress has been made in the publication of fuller information and unbiased views," but he expressed the hope for a still better exchange of news service between the various countries, contending that "what happens in this hemisphere is of more vital interest to all of us than what happens across any of the oceans." Interest in Shipping

Mr. Coolidge portrayed his interest in the development of shipping between North and South America and the construction of railroads and highways to serve as feeders. He disclosed that he is asking the United States Congress for authority to send American engineering advisors to whatever Central and South American nations request their services.

He predicted that air mail routes will be established soon and told the conference that the American Congress was considering supporting such routes and that private citizens of the United States were considering their establishment.

"In the domain of commercial relations," the President added, "the last few years have witnessed an extraordinary strengthening of the economic ties binding together our Republics. In both agricultural and industrial production the countries of America are now complementing one another to an unusual degree, resulting in an increasing exchange of commodities."

Boundary Problems
Although he did not name the Tama-Arica boundary dispute, Mr. Coolidge did point to the "delicate and difficult nature" of boundary problems and declared that the past record of achievement in this respect places heavy responsibility upon the present generation to advance the great work that has been so auspiciously begun."

Finally, President Coolidge commended to the Congress a discussion of means to bring "all of our people more definitely and more completely" under the reign of law. "After all," he said, "it is in that direction that we must look with the greatest assurance for human progress. We can make no advance in the realm of economics, we can do nothing for education, we can accomplish but little even in the sphere of religion, until human affairs are brought within the orderly rule of law."

and the oppressed is in the law. It is preeminently the shield of small nations.

Spirit of Law
"While the law is necessary for the proper guidance of human action, and will always remain the source of freedom and liberty and the ultimate guaranty of all our rights, there is another element in our experience which must always be taken into consideration. We read that 'The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life.' Often times in our international relationship we shall have to look to the spirit rather than to the letter of the law. We shall have to realize that the highest law is consideration, co-operation, friendship, and charity. The light which Columbus followed has not failed. The courage that carried him on still lives. They are the heritage of the people of Bolivar and of Washington. We must lay our voyage of exploration toward complete understanding and friendship. Having taken that course, we must not be turned aside by the fears of the timid, the counsels of the ignorant, or the designs of the malevolent."

"With law and charity as our guide, with that ancient faith which is only strengthened when it requires sacrifices, we shall anchor at last in the harbor of justice and truth. The same Pilot which stood by the side of the Great Discoverer, and the same Wisdom which instructed the founding fathers of our republics, will continue to abide with us."

party at the theater came after another triumphal procession through the streets of Cuba from the national palace, where President and Mrs. Coolidge are staying. Crowds lined the avenues on both sides, throwing their hats in the air, cheering and calling "viva el presidente" as the automobile carrying Mr. Coolidge and Senor Machado passed. Seemingly not exhausted by their wild cheering for the American executive when he entered the Cuban capital yesterday in a riotous pagant of enthusiasm, the Cubans acclaimed him again with equal vigor.

Mrs. Coolidge followed the President into the theater and, separated from him by a group of Cuban officials, was almost lost in the crush. Her body guard, John G. Fitzgerald, remonstrated with the Cuban policeman who sought to hold her back and who bowed deeply in apology because he had failed to place her promptly.

Mrs. Coolidge seemed deeply amused at the momentary delay and laughed heartily as Senor Machado hurried up to her and walked with her to their seats in the box.

The diplomatic corps, high government officials and all Cuban society crowded the huge theater which was packed to its capacity of more than 5,000.

Machado Welcomes Delegates To Cuba

HAVANA, Jan. 16 (AP)—Streaming idealism, fraternity and co-operation as the aims of American countries, General Gerardo Machado Y Fajardo, president of Cuba, today welcomed President Coolidge and delegates from Latin American countries to Cuba for the sixth Pan-American conference.

President Machado said: "Intense is our joy and complete our faith in the future destinies of our hemisphere when, gazing over this hall, adding brilliancy to this transcendental occasion, we behold the illustrious person of his excellency, Calvin Coolidge, chief executive of the greatest of all democracies, head of the great people whom Cuba had the honor of seeing at her side in her bloody struggle for independence which she enjoys without limitation, as stated in the joint resolution of April 20, 1898, honorably applied and inspired by the same ideals set forth in the ever famous declaration of independence of North America, liberty's greatest monument and the gospel of the rights of men and countries; and the select group of distinguished persons who constitute the delegations of the nations of America, which, throughout a century, have contributed with intense activity to the welfare of the world and to the great progress of its latest historical period."

"I offer to all of you the effusive greetings of the people of Cuba whom I have the honor of representing on this solemn occasion. To your peoples I express fervent wishes for their prosperity and greatness and, to the chiefs of state, the prophecy that, as a product of this new gathering of all Americans, we may complete during their incumbencies, that which constitutes our common aspiration, the rule of peace and justice."

The representatives of the American republics gather once more with the practical purpose of the consolidation of a mutual, beneficial and positive brotherhood, both in spirit and in interests.

"Pan-Americanism is a constructive work that does not imply antagonisms but, on the contrary, co-operates for universal peace, for a better understanding amongst all peoples, towards the spiritual and moral unity of the world. It is something that, if in any manner it wishes to signify itself, it is in the desire of being placed at the front, bearing in mind that in international life, greatness should not be judged by standards inspired by admiration for brute force, but by the efforts of each nation within the scope of its civilization."

"Pan-Americanism is not merely the result of civilization, treaties, or noble institutions; it is also, and primarily, public spirit, the will of the people and collective ideals."

"It is not my purpose to suggest rules of conduct to such an illustrious assembly, but, if I am permitted to express the sentiments of my people, I will say to you that Cuba, one of the last republics to join this family of nations, aspires, with the faith of a novice. To see this hemisphere as the exponent of the most sincere cordiality of the firmest unity, to see the nations here represented, although politically separated, united in the common name of America."

"No person nor anything can now oppose the tide that impels the destinies of the western hemisphere towards its definite brotherhood under the shelter of the juridical standards that are indispensable for the maintenance of peace. If we reach that end in the sixth international American conference, and a similar aim prevails in the minds and souls of all here present, this alone will be sufficient to mark the meeting of your assembly at Havana as a brilliant milestone in the annals of modern international life."

After Colds or Grip
One's Kidneys Must Function Properly to Eliminate the Waste Impurities.

DOES winter find you lame and achy—worried with backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? These are often signs of improper kidney action, and sluggish kidneys permit waste poisons to upset the system. Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed by users everywhere.
