'Tie a yellow ribbon...'

Throngs of Midlanders did not show up for the "let our people go!" rally, held Friday on the courthouse square to drum up support in seeking release of the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran since last Nov. 4.

But yellow ribbons were tied around oak and pecan trees and bushes, petitions exhorting the Iranian government to free the hostages were signed on yellow paper and yellow bows were pinned on the score of sympathizers who showed up or stumbled onto the rally.

And the mayor read a "Yellow-Ribbon-Day" proclamation and said he was saddened by the whole affair.

"This event to me, in many ways, is very sad," said Mayor G. Thane Akins. "We have come to the point in this country where a third-rate dictator (Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini) can do this sort of thing without reprisals."

The mayor said America direly needs a change in attitude to effect the respect of the world and to regain its stature.

"We need to continue to be concerned and to express our concern to the leadership of other countries," he said of the hostage situation.

The mini-rally, Freedom Week and Yellow Ribbon Day, are sponsored by the Midland Jaycee-Ettes, who will hold another rally and pass out yellow bows and petitions to be signed today at Midland Park Mall. The Midland Jaycee-Ettes have about 5,000 yellow bows on hand to pass out to sympathizers of the hostages.

"We're hoping to send it (the petition) to Iran to demand the release of the hostages," said Jaycee-Ette Connie Campbell. "Hopefully, it will get there."

The yellow ribbon tied to a Freedom Tree has "always been a symbol for concern for people held in foreign lands against their will," she explained.

Though the symbols were conspicuous, en masse support of Yellow Ribbon Day was obviously lacking.

"We need somebody to rah-rah for us," pleaded Jaycee-Ette Karran Martin. She was one of about 10 wives

Economists dispute outlook on recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy grew at a modest 1 percent annual rate from July through September, the government announced Friday, possibly signalling an end to the 1980 recession.

The Commerce Department's chief economist said third-quarter evidence shows the recession is over — news that should give President Carter some campaign ammunition as Election Day nears. Carter has said the apparent end of the recession shows his economic policies are working.

But many private economists aren't so sure the recession has ended. They expect little, if any, further improvement in coming months because of double-digit inflation and rising interest rates. Chase Manhattan and other banks boosted their prime lending rate to 14 percent minutes after the government issued its report.

"Clearly, we are in for much the weakest recovery since World War II," said Otto Eckstein, president of Data Resources Inc., a Massachusetts forecasting firm.

George Perry, a Brookings Institution economist, said there's only a 50-50 chance the recession has ended.

Nevertheless, third-quarter growth was far healthier than the economy's record plunge from April through June, when the real gross national product — the inflation-adjusted value of all goods and services — dropped at a 9.6 percent annual rate, the worst three-month decline ever. Annual rates are those that would result if the quarterly rate continued for a year.

The Commerce Department's preliminary report said the real GNP rose by $3.6 billion in the third quarter, to an annual rate of $1.412 trillion.

"The preliminary GNP estimates offer strong evidence of the resumption of economic growth," said Courtenay Slater, the department's chief economist. She said the unemployment rate — currently at 7.5 percent — will rise, but not nearly as high as the 8.5 percent level originally predicted.

"Three months ago, I and most other forecasters would have scoffed at a prediction that growth would resume so soon. It now seems apparent that we underestimated the resilience of the economy and its capacity for rapid adjustment," she said at a news conference.

Related stories, Page 3A

The overall improvement was due largely to an upsurge in personal spending caused by the lifting of credit controls.

That development was one of several one-time events that could overstate the third-quarter improvement, warned Chase Econometrics Associates, of Bala Cynwyd, Pa., which still holds out the possibility of an 8.5 percent unemployment level.

Beside the lifting of credit controls, the economy was buoyed by a sharp increase in Social Security payments, a rebound in auto and home sales from very depressed levels, and heavy sales of fans and air-conditioners during the summer's severe heat wave.

"The absence of these factors... will exert downward pressure on the economy during the months ahead," Chase economists said.

The Commerce Department also released its September report on housing starts, which showed a 9 percent increase — the fourth consecutive monthly rise.

The jump was heavily influenced by government subsidies, however, and housing economists say the rally is threatened by high mortgage rates.

Starts of multi-family housing of five or more apartments, primarily financed by the government, were up 32 percent in September, from an annual rate of 277,000 units in August to 365,000 units. Single-family housing starts — the stronghold of private builders — were up slightly in September from an annual rate of 1 million units in August to 1.05 million.

"What it really shows is a lot of government activity, but the private sector has declined very sharply," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders.

For the first nine months of 1980, the government's share of the housing market was about 48 percent, compared with 35.5 percent during that period in 1979, Sumichrast said.

Starts for 1980 so far are 32 percent below levels achieved during the same period in 1979, department officials said.

Iranian claims U.S. aiding Iraq

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, addressing the Security Council Friday, accused the United States of aiding Iraq in its war with Iran and of seeing in the conflict "an opportunity" for the American hostages to be freed.

He made no mention of a possible cease-fire, and said instead his country was prepared for a prolonged war to drive Iraqi troops from Iranian soil and "deal a lethal blow to American imperialism."

His single, brief reference to the 52 American hostages, who on Friday spent their 349th day as captives of Iranian militants, gave no hope for their imminent release.

"Is it true that the United States sees in this (Iraqi) attack an opportunity for their hostages to be freed," he said.

At a news conference later he was asked if he would meet with U.S. officials while in New York and he replied, "No, never!"

President Carter and Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie have said they were willing to meet with Rajai, but a spokeswoman for the U.S. Mission to the United Nations said the American willingness "has not been reciprocated."

When a reporter at the news conference suggested remarks by Carter in the past few days showed some sympathy for Iran in its battle with Iraq, Rajai said, "I consider any change in the American position as an attempt to cover the real situation."

Rajai was questioned about an appeal by Pakistani President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq that Iraq and Iran observe a temporary cease-fire from sundown Saturday to sundown Tuesday for the beginning of the Islamic pilgrimage season of the Haaj. "We'll accept a cease-fire only if the aggressor is conquered and punished," he replied.

Rajai said he would be in New York until Saturday night, meeting friends, and then would go to Algiers to express sympathy to the Algerians for their losses in last week's earthquake.

In his charge to the Security Council that the United States was helping Iraq, he said Washington sent radar-equipped AWACS planes to bases in Saudi Arabia to observe "the movement of Iranian troops and pass all information to Iraq. They also mislead Iranian pilots." Washington has announced it sent Air Force airborne warning and command systems planes to Saudi Arabia to monitor the 26-day-old war between the two Moslem countries.

Carter, Reagan to debate — sans Anderson

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

President Carter and Ronald Reagan agreed Friday to a one-on-one debate in the final days of their campaign. That left a fading John B. Anderson odd-man out.

Reagan, apparently concerned that his once-big lead may be slipping away, said in New York, "I have instructed my debate negotiators to be in touch with Mr. Carter's staff tomorrow to begin discussing details of format and sponsorship."

Just before leaving the White House for a weekend at Camp David, Md., Carter was asked which candidate would win the debate and said, "The American people will win."

"It's not a contest to see who is the best debater or orator or television performer," he said.

Carter's campaign chairman, Robert S. Strauss, said he had told the League of Women Voters the president would accept a debate with his GOP opponent "at any reasonable time, on any reasonable date, at any reasonable place, under any reasonable format...."

The league formally invited Carter and Reagan by telegram to debate in Cleveland on Oct. 28, one week before the election.

Carter accepted immediately; Reagan agreed as well, and Reagan's formal acceptance was a mere formality. Representatives of the two sides planned to meet in Washington Monday to work out details of the debate.

"This is a debate that the American voters need and want," said Ruth Hinerfeld, who heads the league's Voter Education Fund.

"There is a vital need today for the public to see and hear the major party candidates address the issues directly in a forum that allows a comparison of their respective views," she said.

Outside the White House, Strauss said he didn't think either Reagan or Carter would win or lose the debate.

"In a debate position like this," he told reporters, "each of these men is competent to give relevant and cogent answer to their stands on issues."

He said, "I don't think Governor Reagan will win or lose the debate. I don't think President Carter will win or lose. I think the American people will gain a lot if it structures the issues properly."

The league sponsored a debate last month in Baltimore, which Reagan and Anderson attended, but Carter did not.

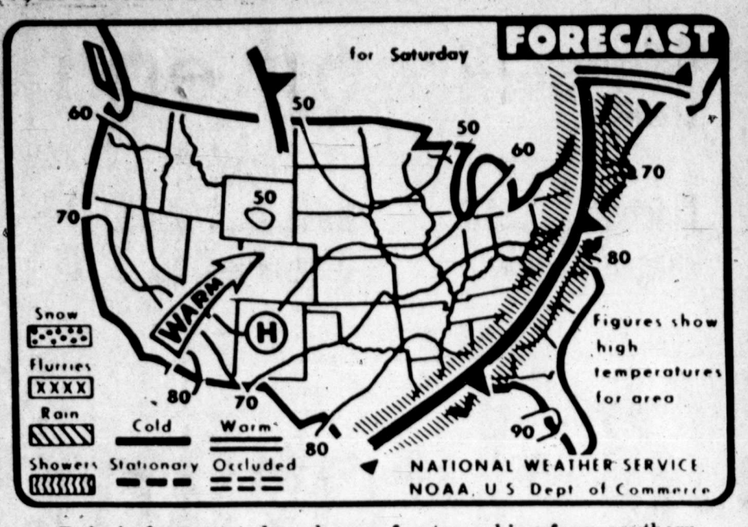

Reagan, campaigning in New York and Illinois, suggested a format like the one used in the 1976 Carter-Gerald R. Ford debate. That would include a moderator and a panel of four questioners, with the candidates permitted to make opening and closing statements as well as required to respond to questions.

Anderson, campaigning in California, said the league would be unfair to exlude him. "It is a simple matter of equity, a simple matter of fairness."

"I will continue to campaign. I don't think that this is going to bounce me out of the race by any means," said the Illinois congressman, who once counted on a three-way debate to give added stature to his independent candidacy.

Anderson said he will try to purchase television time immediately before or after the debate.

Winds should be light and variable today.

The record high for Friday's date remains at 95 degrees, as it was established in 1964, even though the high was 72 degrees. Last night's low of 48 degrees did send some fall chills through the Permian Basin, but in 1968 the area experienced a record low of 37 degrees and that record still holds.

Again, the precipitation total for the month remains at zero while the yearly amount is unchanged at 15.71 inches.

NEWS BRIEFS

Wooden bleachers collapse

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A section of wooden bleachers collapsed Friday as more than 100 students jumped and swayed during a homecoming pep rally at East Lansing High School, causing minor injuries to 33 students and three teachers, school officials said.

Within six hours after the morning rally, only one student remained hospitalized with a back injury, school principal Bill Lee said.

Striking DTS driver arrested

DALLAS (AP) — A striking Dallas Transit System bus driver was arrested Friday afternoon in connection with the sniping incident that critically injured a 9-year-old girl and injured two other bus passengers, police officials said.

The 23-year-old driver's name was being withheld pending charges in the Tuesday morning shooting, police spokesman Bob Shaw said.

Offshore drilling platform adrift

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — An offshore drilling platform with 18 men aboard was adrift in heavy seas about 740 miles southwest of Kodiak but in no immediate danger of sinking, the U.S. Coast Guard said Friday.

The rig Dan Prince was being towed from Alaska's Norton Sound, where it had been leased to Atlantic Richfield Co., to a location off Ivory Coast in Africa, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The cable connected to the tugboat Smith New York broke Thursday when the rig's helicopter landing pad broke loose in rough seas and struck the line, said Ken Freeze. The pad also damaged the platform, causing some flooding, he added.

Cause of mass illness sought

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Baffled health officials and physicians searched Friday for the cause of an illness that struck nearly two dozen members of a high school band simultaneously during a football game.

The entire 140-member Carver High School band was rushed to hospitals Thursday night after several fainted following a halftime performance. Twenty-two were admitted and treated with a universal antidote. An undetermined number of others, who showed symptoms, were treated and released.

All of those admitted were listed in stable condition Friday and hospital officials said some might be released Friday.

Heavy fighting reported in Iran

BASRA, Iraq (AP) — Iraq reported heavy fighting at the besieged Iranian cities of Abadan and Khorramshahr Friday and Iran claimed diehard defenders in streets and trenches forced Iraqi soldiers to retreat from both cities.

Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, addressing the U.N. Security Council in New York, made no mention of a possible cease-fire in the 26-day-old war and instead said Iran was prepared for a long fight to drive Iraqi troops from Iran and "deal a lethal blow to U.S. imperialism."

He accused the United States of using special radar planes based in Saudi Arabia to help the Iraqi forces and "mislead Iranian pilots."

In his only reference to the 52 American hostages held in Iran since Nov. 4, Rajai said, "Is it true that the United States sees in this (Iraqi) attack an opportunity for their hostages to be freed?"

Both President Carter and Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie have said they would be willing to meet with Rajai on the hostage issue.

An Iranian official in Tehran denied that any deal was in the works for release of toe hostages in exchange for spare parts to keep Iran's American-made military equipment battle worthy.

A public relations official in Rajai's office was reached by telephone from the Beirut office of The Associated Press and denied reports that Iran had gathered the 52 Americans at the occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran in preparation for an exchange. He said his office "officially denies these reports on behalf of the Islamic Republic of Iran."

Iraq's military command said 272 Iranian soldiers were qilled along the 300-mile invasion front in 12 hours of fighting that centered on the oil port of Khorramshar and the refinery city of Abadan at the northern end of the Persian Gulf.

Iraq appeared to be trying to throttle the two cities with a ring of troops and tanks and pound the area with artillery. Iraq has claimed it cut all roads and pipelines linking Abadan with the rest of Iran.

Reporters taken to the front by Iraqi officers Thursday saw Iraqi forces within a mile of Abadan.

But the Iranian news agency said Iraqi soldiers had been forced to withdraw up to 19 miles from Abadan and were abandoning their positions in Khorramshahr "one after the other in a state of defeat and disgrace." Iran claimed the Abadan-Khorramshahr road was open and that defenders of Khorramshahr "are fighting the enemy street by street and trench by trench and have today thrown out the enemy."

As with most of the conflicting reports issued by the warring countries, there was no independent confirmation of the gains or losses reported.

On Friday night, the Iranian agency reported: "In order to avenge the defeat they suffered in Khorramshahr the Iraqi Baath mercenaries attacked the Abadan relief hospital, belonging to the Red Crescent, with missiles ... today, killing eight people and wounding 11." The Red Crescent is the Moslem equivalent of the Red Cross.

Tehran Radio said Iraqi MiGs damaged the oil refinery at Tabriz and two of the enemy planes were shot down. For the third day, Iran reported heavy fighting at the northern sector of the front, near Ilam, and said 90 Iraqi soldiers were killed by Iranian airborne troops.

Iraq's high command said six Iranian jets were shot down, two of them in a raid on the Iraqi capital of Baghdad. Iraq said its warplanes hit Tabriz and destroyed ships, docks and fuel depots in raids on Bandar Shahpur and and Bandar Mashur, 50 miles northeast of Abadan.

Iran also said its planes shot down two Iraqi MiGs in a dogfight over Iraq, but did not say where the action occurred.

Baghdad Radio reported that Iranian jets attacked the towns of Suleimanieh and Penjaw in northern Iraq, killing four civilians and wounding four. It claimed one Iranian jet was shot down in the southern sector of the front in the Abadan-Khorramshahr area.

Iran said hand-to-hand fighting raged in Khorramshahr, 10 miles north of Abadan. The two cities are a vital part of Iran's oil industry and are on the Shatt al-Arab waterway.

Man convicted of 1976 murder

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — John Harvey Adamson was convicted by a Superior Court jury Friday of first-degree murder in the 1976 car bombing death of Arizona Republic investigative reporter Don Bolles. It was the second time he had stood trial on the charge.

Sentencing was scheduled Nov. 14 before Pima County Superior Court Judge Ben C. Birdsall. The judge could recommend the death penalty.

The jury of eight women and four men deliberated 11 hours before announcing the verdict. The panel had been sequestered since the trial began Oct. 6.

Police have speculated that criminal figures wanted Bolles killed because of stories he had written about political corruption and organized crime, including land fraud. Adamson was specifically accused of planning the killing, luring Bolles to a hotel and then planting a bomb under his car in the parking lot.

Under a plea agreement during his first trial in January 1977, Adamson, 36, pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree murder and was sentenced to 20 years in prison in exchange for testimony against plumbing contractor James Robison and Phoenix businessman Max Dunlap. They were convicted of murder, but the state Supreme Court overturned the convictions. The state moved to retry them, but Adamson balked at testifying again. State officials claimed Adamson had breached his plea agreement, and they refiled the first-degree murder charge against him.

Adamson, wearing a dark-blue suit, sat in his chair as the verdict was read. He maintained alslight smile and rocked the chair back and forth. He stopped rocking for a few moments as the verdict was read, then resumed.

Jury members were polled, and each said "yes" when asked about the verdict.

Birdsall then told reporters: "The jury unanimously told the bailiff that it doesn't want to talk to any of you, and I'm going to respect that."

Assistant Attorney General William Schafer III, the prosecutor, said he was "pleased" but added, "I feel tired."

"It stops here unless there is new evidence," Schafer said when asked about possible prosecution of others.

He said the offer of a life term still stands if Adamson decides to testify against others involved in the crime. Schafer has said the state will seek the death penalty if Adamson does not cooperate.

Defense lawyers said Adamson would cooperate if the prosecutor offers a 20-year sentence.

"Obviously Mr. Adamson is disappointed," defense attorney Gregory Martin said.

Another defense attorney, William Feldhacker, said Arizona "is being short-changed because John Adamson is not the only man responsible for killing Don Bolles."

The prosecution's case against Adamson was based on evidence left by Bolles himself and information from former friends and acquaintances of Adamson.

A former Adamson friend testified that before the killing Adamson discussed bombing a car and mentioned that he had a job for which he was going to get a great deal of money.

Bolles mentioned Adamson's name as the reporter lay in the parking lot following the explosion, according to three witnesses at the trial.

A note containing Adamson's name and the name of the hotel was found in Bolles' desk and was admitted as evidence.

The defense built its case on alibis for Adamson's whereabouts at the time of the bombing and on a claim that others were responsible for the killing, while Adamson was the "fall guy."

During deliberations Thursday the jury asked the judge for clarification of an instruction and asked for a street map of Phoenix. The instruction was clarified, but the map request was turned down.

The map request apparently was to give the jurors perspective on locations of places mentioned in the evidence, lawyers said.

of the Jaycees who showed up to promote the rally and to collect signatures on the petition. But only about 10 or 15 additional people gathered around for the noon rally near a live oak tree at the Midland County Courthouse.

A downtown working woman who showed up for the event was disappointed by the turnout.

"You need to say something about the apathy in Midland...if it (an event) is not oil related," she said.

The dearth of hostage sympathizers evoked a comment from the mayor, as he was approaching the public-address system.

"I feel a bit like I'm preaching to the choir with the (few) ones of us out here," he said just before he read the proclamation.

The proclamation noted that the Jaycee-Ettes is a group of "young women who believe in the brotherhood of mankind and that this brotherhood transcends the sovereignty of nations" and that the holding of the American hostages by the Iranian government is a "violation of international law and conduct...."

The mayor urged Midlanders to demonstrate their concern for the hostages by "tying yellow ribbons around the Freedom Trees" in the community, displaying them at businesses and wearing them.

"...American communities, in their fight for independence, have a history of designating community Freedom Trees as a rally point for freedom," he said in quoting the proclamation.

"...The yellow ribbon has been a symbol of concern, loyalty and support of those held against their will on foreign soil...."

Moments after the brief noon-hour ceremony, Sheriff Dallas Smith sauntered up to the dispersing score or so of people. Jaycee-Ettes Kathy Credicott and Vicki Rymal approached him, got him to sign the petition, and Ms. Rymal pinned a yellow bow on the sheriff's shirt.

"You can't take this yellow ribbon off," Ms. Credicott cautioned. "You have to wear it until the hostages are freed."

Prolonged labor dispute may reach peaceful end

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most bitter and prolonged labor disputes in American history is heading toward a peaceful ending this weekend as J.P. Stevens & Co. and textile workers move to complete agreement on their first union contract and conclude a 17-year battle.

Sources close to the negotiations said Friday the nation's second largest textile maker and the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union were hopeful of reaching a formal national settlement by Sunday.

Spokesmen for the two sides, both headquartered in New York, said an agreement had not been reached and that negotiations were continuing.

However, the sources, who asked to remain unnamed, said negotiators were down to resolving "final details."

"The thing could be wound up this weekend," said one source.

Under terms agreed upon so far, the company would sign a union contract covering 2,500 workers at seven plants in Roanoke Rapids, N.C., where the union has been bargaining since 1974, when it won its first union election.

In return, the union would call off its 4-year-old national consumer boycott of Stevens products.

Assuming no sudden snags, the union hoped to have a tentative agreement by Sunday so that workers at Roanoke Rapids could ratify it that day — the only day that all of them have off. A formal announcement tentatively would be made Monday in Washington.

The union's battle to organize 34,000 production workers at 80 Stevens mills, mostly across the Southeast, and the company's stubborn resistance has become the most celebrated labor dispute in modern times. The recent movie, "Norma Rae," which won actress Sally Field an Academy Award, was based on a true account of the organizing drive.

The union campaign begun in 1963, has become a symbol of organized labor's determination to bring unionization to the South.

Stevens, which gained a reputation as the nation's leading labor law violator as a result of 22 National Labor Relations Board rulings against it, has become a hero among employers fighting to remain non-union.

Sources say other principal terms of the agreement include using the Roanoke Rapids contract as a model for plants in High Point, N.C., Allendale, S.C., and Montgomery, Ala., where the union won the right within the past year to represent another 550 workers. The contract also would set the pattern at any other plant the union might organize.

Nine percent jump in housing starts largely due to subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing starts rose 9 percent in September, the fourth consecutive monthly increase, the government reported Friday. The jump was heavily influenced by government subsidies, however.

And housing economists warn that the rally is threatened by mortgage rates that once again have risen to near-historic heights, making homes unaffordable to many.

The Commerce Department reported that starts for multi-family housing of five or more apartments, primarily financed by the government, were up 32 percent in September, from an annual rate of 277,000 units in August to 365,000 units. The annual rate is that which would result if the monthly rate continued for a year.

Single-family housing starts — the bastion of private builders — were up slightly in September, from an annual rate of 1 million units in August to 1.05 million, the department reported.

"What it really shows is a lot of government activity, but the private sector has declined very sharply," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders.

For the first nine months of 1980, the government's share of the housing market was about 48 percent, compared with 35.5 percent during the same period in 1979, Sumichrast said.

"We still think this is a fluke. After the government programs are worked down, and after the election, housing production will decline," said Sumichrast.

Despite four month of improvement, all starts for the year are 32 percent below levels achieved during the same period in 1979, department officials said.

The Commerce Department also reported that housing permits in September were up 15 percent over August's revised level. For the year, however, permits are 30 percent below 1979 figures.

The U.S. League of Savings Associations predicts that housing starts will remain essentially flat in coming months as mortgage rates peak in the 15 percent range this fall.

"Surging short-term interest rates, weak savings flows, saturated bond markets and renewed inflationary expectations all are major factors" forcing mortgage rates to near their historic highs, said Kenneth Thygerson, the league's chief economist.

Major banks raise prime rates despite Miller's suggestion

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's major banks raised their prime lending rates to 14 percent Friday, one day after Treasury Secretary G. William Miller suggested banks lower their rates.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest commercial bank, led the jump from the 13.5 percent rate that had prevailed since Oct. 1. Most other banks, including many smaller, regional banks, quickly followed suit.

The prime is the interest rate banks charge on loans to blue-chip corporate customers. Most smaller businesses pay at least one percentage point above the prime.

The prime does not affect consumer loans. But it is closely watched as an indicator of trends in all kinds of interest rates. Some economists say further increases in interest rates could abort the recovery now underway in the economy.

Chase took the unusual step of issuing a brief statement after announcing its action, attributing the increase to greater loan demand and advances in its cost of funds.

"Our change in the prime reflects Chase's continuing policy to adjust the rate to reflect changing market conditions," the bank said. "After considerable thought, we have concluded that this move to 14 percent...is clearly warranted and appropriate."

Fifteen days earlier, when Citibank raised its prime to 14 percent while others stayed at 13.5 percent, President Carter and some other government officials questioned whether the higher rate was justified.

And in New York on Thursday, Miller said banks' costs of acquiring funds had stabilized in the last several days. That led him to believe "banks...will look to the earliest opportunity to move their rates back down."

Earlier in the week in Chicago, Miller told a bankers convention that a 14 percent prime rate was unjustifiably high.

Americans still conserving oil, industry report reveals

NEW YORK (AP) — American consumers and industries continued to conserve oil in the third quarter of 1980 as U.S. petroleum use in the period was 6.5 percent behind last year's level at 16.9 million barrels a day, an industry report said Friday.

The American Petroleum Institute also said oil use in the first nine months was 8 percent below levels of a year ago, and reported the lengthy decline in oil production in the lower 48 states apparently slowed as higher prices spurred new exploration and production efforts.

The API said Thursday that U.S. crude oil inventories rose to a record 394.3 million barrels last week, up 20.1 percent from the 328.2 million barrels on hand a year earlier. A barrel contains 42 gallons.

Deliveries of oil products from refiners' storage tanks totaled 16.8 million barrels a day in September, 5.8 percent below the September 1979 level and under the average for the first nine months of 17.5 million barrels a day, the API said.

Refiners' gasoline deliveries in the first nine months were 6.4 percent behind year-earlier levels, the API said. September's gasoline deliveries of 6.7 million barrels a day — the lowest level in five years — lagged behind the September 1979 figure by 2 percent, it said.

The drop in oil demand was attributed by the API to consumer response to the nearly 150 percent jump in world petroleum prices since the end of 1978 and to the sale of autos whose fuel efficiency is greater than those of past years.

Gasoline prices in the United States have risen 13 percent from the third quarter of 1979 and 46 percent from the corresponding 1978 quarter, the organization said.

The API said deliveries of distillates, products used for home heating and diesel fuels, fell 15 percent from comparable 1979 levels in the first nine months.

According to the API, September's crude oil production in the United States was 1.5 percent ahead of a year ago at 8.6 million barrels a day as a drop of about 63,000 barrels a day in the lower 48 states was offset by a rise of about 190,000 barrels a day from Alaska's North Slope.

The API said U.S. oil imports totaled 6.3 million barrels a day in September, down 21.2 percent from last year's September figure. In the first nine months, oil imports were off 16.8 percent at 6.9 million barrels a day, the API said.

An 18-wheel tractor trailer rig and a car pulling a boat were blown from a truck stop parking lot to a nearby highway as a tornado touched down Friday morning at Ogden, Ark., near Texarkana. Only minor injuries were reported. (AP Laserphoto)

Tornado touches down

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A tornado swept across southwestern Arkansas on Friday, overturning large trucks, uprooting trees and damaging buildings and cars.

Officials said three residents of Texarkana were treated for minor injuries at a hospital, and an undetermined number of people suffered minor cuts and bruises in Ogden, about 10 miles to the north.

The tornado apparently touched down at Ogden and followed a direct path across the Red River to a spot about two miles east of Texarkana, said George Wilkin, a spokesman for the National Weather Service in Little Rock.

Winds of up to 56 mph were reported at the Texarkana Municipal Airport shortly before the tornado reached Interstate 30 at Loop 245, about two miles east of the Texas-Arkansas line.

State police said the tornado was on the ground for about one-quarter mile in Ogden before it lifted. It also reportedly touched down near a pecan orchard near the Red River and lifted again before touching down near Texarkana.

The tornado caused heavy damage to several buildings and cars and tractor-trailer rigs were overturned when the storm reached Texarkana, said Miller County Sheriff Ken Sinyard.

Sinyard said the storm caused some damage to a truckstop and nearby restaurant on Interstate 30.

Little River County authorities said some houses and a house trailer were damaged. One house was lifted from its foundation and dropped on a car.

Trees were uprooted in the path of the storm, forcing rescue units to drive more than 15 miles out of the way to reach Ogden.

In the Texarkana area, trees blocked some roads and guard rails and road signs along I-30 were blown down.

The tornado touched down in a sparsely populated area on the outskirts of Texarkana. Ogden is a small town of about 300.

Volcano erupts again Friday

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Mount St. Helens blasted two huge clouds of steam and ash nearly 10 miles into the sky during the night and Friday morning, and winds blew the grit up to 200 miles to the southwest as the mountain erupted for the first time since Aug. 7.

No injuries or damage were reported from either blast, the sixth and seventh major eruptions since the volcano exploded May 18 after 123 years of quiet.

Scientists said Friday they wouldn't be surprised if the mountain erupted again in the near future.

The second and more extensive display began at 9:28 a.m. and lasted just over an hour, sending a mushroom-shaped cloud as high as 50,000 feet.

Flashes of lightning flickered inside the black cloud and a superheated flow of volcanic gas and rock debris — known as a pyroclastic flow — swept down the mountain's north flank toward Spirit Lake. That now-uninhabited area was scorched by the volcano's catastrophic May 18 eruption that killed 34 and left 28 presumed dead.

Low-level tremors — which indicate the movement of molten rock — shivered under the mountain just before the latest eruption, said Don Peterson, a U.S. Geological Survey geologist. The eruption ceased at about 10:30 a.m., said Frank Menard, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman.

On Thursday night, the restless mountain gave just three hours warning, then sent "a very black cloud" of steam and ash more than 40,000 feet into the air at 9:58 p.m., said Jim Unterwegner, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman.

China ready to buy French nuclear reactors

PEKING (AP) — China has agreed in principle to buy two French reactors for its first nuclear electric generating stations, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France said Friday.

After three days of talks with Chinese leaders, Giscard d'Estaing told a news conference no contract had been signed yet for the two 900-megawatt reactors, costing about $1 billion each.

The two countries did sign an agreement permitting France to establish a consulate-general in Shanghai, China's major industrial city and trade port, and for China to set up one in Marseille, France.

Expansion of trade had been given as one of the main topics for the French president's talks in Peking. France ranks seventh in trade with China, behind Japan, Hong Kong, the United States, West Germany, Australia and Britain.

French sources said Communist Party Vice Chairman Deng Xiaoping, China's strongman, told Giscard d'Estaing that China agreed to France's description of the world as multipolar — as long as one pole was the Soviet Union and all the other poles were united against it.

The French sources said Deng also said he doubted that the Soviet Union would ever attack Europe frontally, but encircle it from the south. The French president said the Chinese leader was talking less about the inevitability of a world conflict than about ways to postpone it.

Giscard d'Estaing said the Chinese had recognized "the importance of an independent, strong and united Europe, dealing on an equal basis with its partners and other people, and among others with the United States."

The Chinese have shown concern that Giscard d'Estaing's call for a strong and independent Europe could mean an eventual rupture with the United States and reliance on detente with the Soviet Union for European security.

Giscard d'Estaing gave a banquet Friday night at the French embassy for Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang and told him: "France is in a position to take part in China's buildup and progress. I'm thinking particularly about the spheres of electronics, telecommunications, aviation and motor vehicles."

It was not known where the two power plants will be built, but Shanghai and Canton are considered possible sites because coal and hydroelectric power resources in that region are poor.

Giscard d'Estaing said the project would be independent and not in cooperation with another country. French officials did not specify the financial terms.

Before leaving Saturday for visits to the ancient capital of Xian, to Tibet and then Shanghai, Giscard d'Estaing was to meet with former Cambodian head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, now living in Peking.

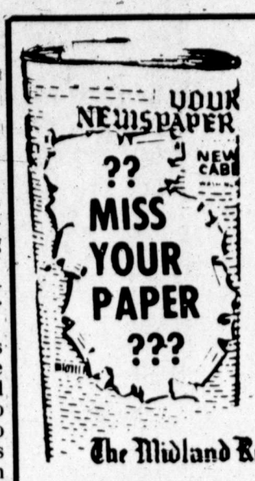

Giscard d'Estaing said Sihanouk might have a role to play in unifying the people in Cambodia and in bringing about acceptance of a political solution there.

Trial may begin

PEKING (AP) — The "Gang of Four" radicals, the widow of Mao Tse-Tung and three others blamed for 10 disastrous years in China, may go on trial late this month or early in November, a high-ranking official said Friday.

This was the closest indication yet of a date for the long-awaited trial.

A special prosecutor's office set up to handle the case of these four and also the "Lin Biao Clique" is expected to start proceedings against the two groups in a special court.

U.S., Soviet Union begin talks on European missiles

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union opened talks Friday on limiting the number of nuclear missiles in Europe, with the chief of the American delegation insisting on the secrecy of the discussions.

"These are confidential talks and we propose to keep them that way," Spurgeon M. Keeny Jr. told The Associated Press in his first public statement since arriving here Tuesday.

"I'm not negotiating through the press," said Keeny, deputy director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. "I'm negotiating with the Soviet Union."

In Moscow, the official news agency reported the Soviet delegation, led by veteran arms control negotiator Viktor P. Karpov, was entering the missile talks "with honest and good intentions." The Tass commentary called for turning the Geneva talks into "a real step forward toward improving the stiuation in Europe and beyond its bounds, and reducing the level of nuclear confrontation."

Keeny, reached by telephone, said, "We're beginning a round of preliminary negotiations and there's nothing to report. When the respective capitals want to make some report, they will."

Keeny and Karpov met for about 1½ hours Friday at the U.S. Arms control offices here, one of the sites for the lengthy Stategic Arms Limitation Talks.

Keeny declined to describe the atmosphere at the first session.

Asked whether the secrecy the Americans have imposed on the talks was related to the U.S. presidential campaign, Keeny said, "I see no connection." Veteran diplomatic observers in Geneva have speculated that the news blackout was intended to keep the talks from becoming a campaign issue.

President Carter withdrew the second Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty with Moscow, signed in June 1979, from Senate consideration because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan. Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan has maintained that SALT II favors the Soviets, and that, if elected, he would renegotiate it.

Some diplomatic observers here have suggested that there was little hope of substantial discussions before the presidential election Nov. 4. Should Reagan win, observers here say, he might decide to review whether the Euromissile talks should proceed.

Korea University closed after riot

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Korea University was closed indefinitely Friday after riot police put down an anti-government student demonstration held despite a martial law ban on such activity, the Education Ministry announced.

The ministry did not say how many students at the major private college here took part in the demonstration but said there were four chief plotters. Witnesses said about 500 students clashed with an equal number of club-swinging police on the campus.

A government spokesman estimated the number of demonstrators at 200 and said the protest was broken up because the students tried to go off the campus.

About 40 students were detained for questioning, the ministry said, adding that the disturbance "was intolerable" in view of the current difficult Korean and international situations.

The protest came one day after President Chun Doo-hwan told a news conference that South Korean college campuses were quiet except for some, where, he said, a few students scattered "seditious" leaflets recently.

This was the first major anti-government protest since a bloody nine-day rebellion was quelled in Kwangju, south of here, in May in which 189 people, mostly civilians, died, according to official figures.

Some students scattered seditious leaflets in a classroom and agitated fellow students to demonstrate even though professors tried to dissuade them, the Education Ministry statement said.

A leaflet signed by the Korea University's Emergency Student Council called on students to rise up against what it termed Chun's fascist government to "realize a democratic era."

The leaflet said Chun was responsible for the Kwangju "massacre," that the U.S. and Japanese governments supported Chun's regime in a "conspiracy to crush national independence and rule by the masses," and added that a showdown between the regime and the masses was "imminent."

Under South Korea's martial law, declared after President Park Chung-hee was assassinated a year ago, political and anti-government activity is illegal.

In the past, South Korean students have led dissident action. Students instigated the 1960 riots that toppled the Syngman Rhee government, leading to the military coup that put Park in office. Later they protested the repressive Park regime and then the military tookover after Park was killed.

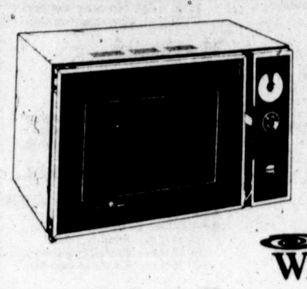

The protests began as demonstrations in favor of democracy and opposing Chun's takeover of the government. The president, then an army general, had led a military coup against older officers after Park was murdered, extended martial law in May and held complete control of the country until his pro forma election as president two months ago.

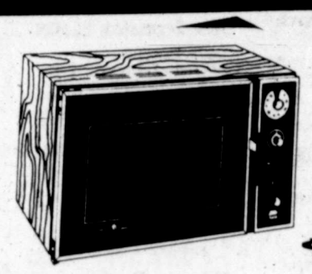

The Chun government has been sensitive to these protests since the student-led demonstrations in Seoul, Kwangju and other cities in May. Chun has issued a number of warnings that campus unrest will not be tolerated.

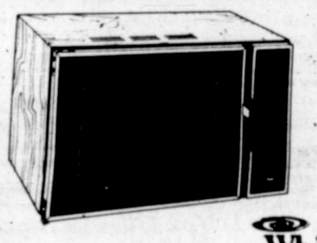

All universities and colleges, ordered closed after the May riots, were allowed to reopen last month. Campuses have been relatively quiet since then, partly due to extensive purges of suspected dissident professors and students.

On affluent avenues like this one . . . and on the more modest streets and lanes as well . . . people leave and people come. For all of them, moving is a traumatic experience that touches deep chords of family life.

Psalm 121 was originally written as a "pilgrim song" for those journeying to Jerusalem to celebrate religious festivals. Perhaps its message is just as appropriate in our moving experiences . . .

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and even for evermore.

Part of getting one's bearings in a new neighborhood is finding a place of worship where the family will continue or renew its spiritual life. There will be new friends there eager to welcome you . . . and to share with you their faith.

Minister writes joke books in his spare moments

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — You won't hear any hellfire and brimstone when the Rev. Bob Phillips preaches, but you could get a few laughs. The local minister writes joke books on the side — clean joke books, of course — and he says his faith is all the stronger for it.

"I think it's a real contribution to bring light and laughter into people's lives," says the 39-year-old minister. "Proverbs says, 'A merry heart worketh like medicine,' and recent studies have shown that laughing is good for your health."

Phillips was pastor of Northwest Church for 4½ years before becoming director of the Fresno Counseling Center. He has written 11 books in the last seven years, selling more than one million copies. Seven of the 11 are collections of jokes. For example:

The sharp young attorney was cross-examining an elderly witness to an accident.

"You say you were about 40 feet away from the scene of the accident? Let me remind you that you're 86 years old. Just how far can you see clearly?"

The elderly man responded, "Well, when I wake up I see the sun and they tell me that's about 93 million miles away."

"In my books," Phillips explains, "I've tried to stay away from swear words, from sexual innuendo, from alcohol and drug innuendo, and jokes about body excretions."

He managed to include non-offensive ethnic jokes in his seven books of about 1,000 jokes each by inventing a country which he calls Smogaria.

"It's neutral. Why offend someone when I can tell a good joke and use a neutral country?" Phillips said.

Question: Why are there so few Smogarian fashion models?

Answer: Because Smogarian girls don't smile when the photographer says "cheese." They drool. (Could Smogaria possibly be Los Angeles?)

Phillips says he has the world's largest collection of clean jokes. "I collect them. Jokes are public domain, so anyone can use them. I personally have read over 28,000 pages of jokes — that's a stack of books about six feet high."

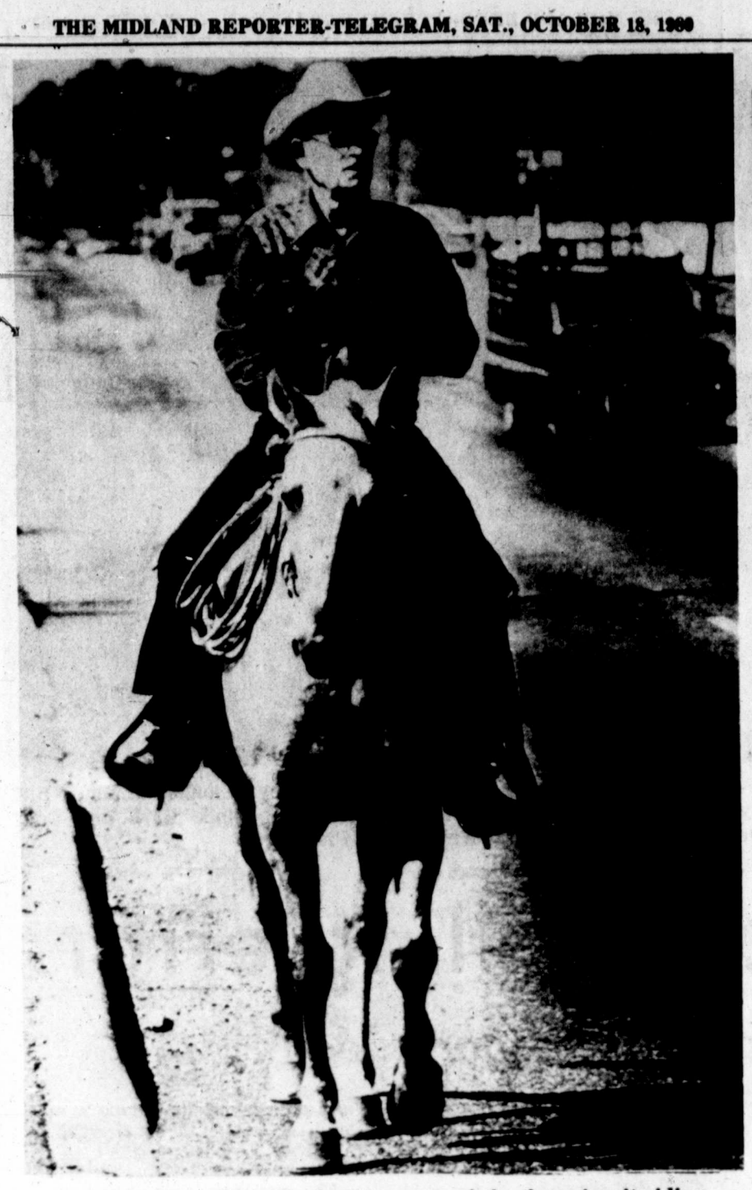

The whole thing started because Phillips enjoyed telling and listening to jokes. As assistant director at Hume Lake Christian Camp in the Sierra for 11 years he handled several conferences for couples.

He recalls the best times were usually had at the Saturday night skits filled with one-liners. (Sermons are like babies — easy to conceive — hard to deliver.)

"It is important to take a look at yourself and realize life's not so serious," Phillips says. "Humor takes a real life situation and blows it out of proportion."

Phillips books, including "The All American Joke Book" and "Lot's o' Laughs," usually bring in about $4,000 a year in royalties. One year, jokes were fairly big business for Phillips and about $16,000 rolled in. But "a large portion" of that goes to the government and charities, he says.

Humor compliments his faith, the minster believes. "Jesus used humorous expressions as a way of communicating truth. I think God has a sense of humor — just look at all the people He made."

THE NEWSPAPER BIBLE

Love lasts forever

IF I had the gift of being able to speak in other languages without learning them, and could speak in every language there is in all of heaven and earth, but didn't love others, I would only be making noise.

If I had the gift of prophecy and knew all about what is going to happen in the future, knew everything about everything, but didn't love others, what good would it do? Even if I had the gift of faith so that I could speak to a mountain and make it move, I would still be worth nothing at all without love.

If I gave everything I have to poor people, and if I were burned alive for preaching the Gospel but didn't love others, it would be of no value whatever.

Love is very patient and kind, never jealous or envious, never boastful or proud,

Never haughty or selfish or rude. Love does not demand its own way. It is not irritable or touchy. It does not hold grudges and will hardly even notice when others do it wrong.

It is never glad about injustice, but rejoices whenever truth wins out.

If you love someone you will be loyal to him no matter what the cost. You will always believe in him, always expect the best of him, and always stand your ground in defending him.

All the special gifts and powers from God will some day come to an end, but love goes on forever. Some day prophecy, and speaking in unknown languages, and special knowledge—these gifts will disappear.

Pope, Queen meeting may bring closer ties

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The meeting between Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and Pope John Paul II here today may help bring closer ties between the Church of England and the Roman Catholic Church.

"This new meeting is a confirmation of the good relations and the cordial feelings between the Holy See and the British nation," the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said in a front-page article today.

"We are encouraged by the hope that there may be progress in the ecumenical dialogue of the Catholic Church with the Anglican Communion, as well as other Christian faiths in England," the paper said.

The queen, who visited the Vatican and Pope John XXIII in 1961, arranged an hour-long visit with the pope. The queen has been in Italy on a state visit since Tuesday and plans to go to Naples, Pompeii and Palermo before leaving for Tunisia and Algeria next week.

"They may talk about ways to bring the churches together, but any discussion will be very general," James Callan, first secretary of Britain's delegation to the Holy See, said in a telephone interview.

King Henry VIII of England broke with the Roman Catholic Church in 1534 when Pope Clement VII refused to grant the king a divorce from his first wife, Katharine of Aragon.

Henry proclaimed himself head of the Church of England and refused to accept the Roman Catholic doctrine that the pope, as bishop of Rome, has ruling authority over other bishops.

Hostile relations between the two churches lasted for many years and no reigning pope has visited England since the split between the two churches.

In August, the pope accepted an invitation from British Cardinal Basil Hume to visit England in the summer of 1982.

The pope and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, met in Accra, Ghana, in May in a step toward closer relations between their churches. The pope was on a tour of African nations and the archbishop was in Africa to inaugurate a new diocese in Zaire.

The Anglican Communion is made up of 22 separate national Anglican churches, including the Church of England and the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

Elizabeth has visited the Vatican twice before, in 1951, when she was still a princess, and as queen in 1961.

Churches observe energy-saving day

NEW YORK (AP) — In an unusual display of religious cooperation, most of the nation's Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish congregations have been urged to observe this weekend as "Responsible Energy Sabbath."

Participating congregations are to commit themselves to some kind of energy-saving project for the coming year.

"Energy is a religious issue," a joint statement on the observance said. "The call for conservation is a call to conserve what God has given us, the call to turn away from wasteful consumption and create new ways to meet our human need."

Sponsors, one of the broadest coalitions of American religious groups to join in such a common effort, are:

The U.S. Catholic Conference, the Synagogue Council of America, the Southern Baptist Convention and the National Council of Churches, made up of 32 Protestant and Orthodox denominations. Altogether, they involve about 200,000 local congregations.

Pastor expresses regret about Smith's remarks

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the largest congregation in the Southern Baptist Convention, has sent a letter to a Dallas rabbi expressing regret for a remark two months ago by Dr. Bailey Smith, president of the convention.

Smith told a meeting in Dallas in August that God does not hear the prayers of Jews.

"I have illimitable love and affection for the Jew," Criswell wrote. "We wouldn't have a Bible, we wouldn't have the Lord, if it were not for the Jews."

Smith made his statement about Jews at the National Affairs Briefing in Dallas and reinforced his comments in September.

Criswell, whose church in Dallas has 21,000 members, was president of the 13.5 million-member Southern Baptist Convention in 1968 and 1969. He said he did not speak out sooner against Smith's view because he did not want to appear to be causing divisiveness within the organization.

Smith said God wouldn't hear the prayers of Jews because they were not uttered in Jesus' name.

The Dallas Morning News acquired Criswell's letter, but did not identify the rabbi. The newspaper said Criswell enclosed with his letter one that had been written to a New York rabbi by Dr. J. William Angell, professor o. religion at Wake Forest University, a Baptist institution in Winston-Salem, N.C.

Criswell wrote than Angell's letter "will speak the heart and persuasion of our Southern Baptist people."

In his letter, Angell called Smith's statement "untrue, unscriptural and unkind" and said he was "shocked, grieved and angered by his words."

Angell added: "I hope you know he cannot speak with any authority for his fellow Baptists ... and does not represent the ideas and attitudes of thoughtful Christians."

IRS backs off from tax-exempt ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing a lawsuit by the United Church of Christ, the Internal Revenue Service has backed off from a two-year-old ruling that church groups would lose their tax-exempt status if they publish congressional voting records and comment on them.

The denomination's Office for Church and Society had filed suit in federal court charging interference with the church's First Amendment right to inform members about legislative actions of concern to churches.

Before the suit came to trial, the church this week received a letter from J.E. Griffith, an IRS rulings chief, saying that the church's periodic publication of congressional voting records along with church viewpoints does not constitute political campaigning and thus would not eliminate tax exemption.

The Rev. S. Garry Oniki of New York, head of the church agency, says the IRS letter "vindicates our judgment that our freedom of speech and that of others had been curtailed" by the 1978 IRS order to tax-exempt groups not to comment on congressional voting records.

"We trust this (new) ruling is a precedent that the IRS will honor in behalf of all churches and public interest organizations."

Dialogue service is scheduled

Hope Lutheran Church, 2003 North A St., will hold a special dialogue service Sunday at 7:30 p.m. for Lutherans and Catholics.

This week's dialogue is a prelude to an Oct. 26 special 7:30 p.m. joint Lutheran-Catholic service at St. Ann's Catholic Church, 2000 W. Texas Ave. Clergy from Midland Lutheran, Hope Lutheran and St. Ann's Catholic Church will present a program designed to foster understanding of the two churches common heritage. A question and answer session will follow the service.

This is a special event and all three churches are hoping for a good turn-out Sunday.

WE BELIEVE
We believe that God expects Christians to live faithful Christian lives. Christ teaches that faithfulness is necessary for salvation. (Matthew 24:13; Revelation 2:10). Jesus gave many commandments, but is not difficult to know the type of life Christ expects a Christian to live.

More curiosity-seekers than witches anticipated

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Journalists and curiousity-seekers probably will outnumber the 75 to 100 witches gathering in this Texas Panhandle town — but the witches' director says those expecting chanting and broomsticks will go away disappointed.

A group of evangelists are planning a "pray-in" to cancel demonic forces they insist will be conjured up at the weekend witches' seminar in Amarillo.

But an organizer for the Church of Wicca gathering says the Baptists' prayers are welcome.

"We don't want any demonic spirits either," said Skip Tarrant, director of the International School of Wicca in New Bern, N.C.

The seminar, scheduled to start at 9 a.m. Saturday, will be nothing more than a series of discussions and lectures that non-witches might find boring, Tarrant said.

"We are here for a seminar, not to cast circles, put on robes and dance around fires," he said. "Most of us do that at one time or another, but we do it at home."

Tarrant says the witches intend to ignore the praying evangelists.

But regardless of whether the witches pay any attention to the Christians, Judy and Jimmy Mamou say they have organized several hundred people for a "pray-in" outside the hotel where the witches are staying.

"We're not there to interfere with the seminar at all," Mrs. Mamou said. "We feel like the spirits they will be calling on will be demonic... if we stand together, our prayers of faith to the God Almighty will cancel those demonic forces."

The gathering, coinciding with the witches' New Year celebrated on the full moon closest to Nov. 1, has attracted attention because of the involvement of Loy and Louise Stone. Stone was acquitted last February of the 1977 Halloween shooting death of a 15-year-old girl.

At the trial, Stone testified that he and his wife were holding a witchcraft seminar when teenagers harassed them at their Dimmitt, Texas, home. Stone said he fired a shot into the air to frighten the youths away.

Since that time, Stone and his wife have lived in seclusion.

In a released statement, Stone said the upcoming seminar was intended to give people a better idea of what witches are.

Mrs. Stone said witches do not believe in Satan, but in a creator who recognizes people for their talents. Tarrant said the group teaches witchcraft as part of its religious ceremonies.

"We are very heavily into philosophy," Tarrant said. "It's a fairly intellectual type of individual religion for thinking people."

Clements 'corrects' polling error

He vouches for accuracy of Reagan's lead

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday correction of a polling error dropped Ronald Reagan's lead in Texas from the 17 percent the governor announced last week to between 12 and 14 percent.

Other polls have shown Reagan and President Carter in a dead heat for Texas' 26 electoral votes, but the governor said he was satisfied with the accuracy of the poll used by Reagan's campaign.

Clements challenged Carter's campaign manager in Texas, Bob Beckel, "to release his poll."

At a Friday news conference called by the Carter-Mondale camp, officials said their polls show Carter ahead by about 4 percent in Texas.

"We've just pulled ahead in the last three or four days," said Bob Beckel, director of the Carter effort in Texas.

Clements said pollsters hired by the Reagan campaign re-surveyed South Texas and El Paso County after finding they had used too few Mexican-Americans in their sample.

The new sample, based only on registered voters, includes 24 percent Mexican-Americans, he said.

The result was to drop Reagan's statewide count, Clements said.

The Carter-Mondale camp responded quickly to Clements' challenge. Beckel said a mid-October poll of 1,000 Texans showed 43 percent for Carter, 40 percent for Reagan and 17 percent undecided.

"Gov. Clements continues to attempt to mislead the people of this state. I think it indicates that Gov. Clements and the Reagan-Bush campaign are in trouble in Texas when they must resort to this kind of dishonest attempt to sway voters," said Beckel, calling the GOP poll "misleading and phony."

The governor said at his weekly news conference the poll for Reagan by Decision Making Information (DMI) shows 21 percent of Texas voters still undecided three weeks before the election.

Undecided voters are "a terribly important factor at this election," said the governor, who is Reagan's statewide campaign chairman.

Clements criticized the Department of Transportation for freezing federal highway aid to Texas because of insufficient minority participation in road contracts.

He said the freeze was a ploy by the Carter administration to "get sympathy for their program from the minorities.... They are overlooking the fact that they are the ones that are going to be hurt by the policy."

The governor predicted the freeze would end "a week after the election," regardless of who wins.

He said the Highway Department has a goal of 10 percent minority participation in highway contracts and had reached 5 to 6 percent already.

Clements predicted Reagan would get 12 to 15 percent of the black vote and between 25 and 35 percent of the Mexican-American vote in Texas.

The governor also said former Gov. Dolph Briscoe has left for a two-week vacation in Europe rather than stay to campaign for Carter as some had expected him to do.

Clements said he dropped the idea of a gasoline tax increase because of lack of support from legislative leaders.

He said he was insisting that if gasoline taxes were raised, other taxes would have to be lowered to compensate for it, and "the mechanics of all that seemed to be too much for the Legislature."

The governor said he stands firm in his belief the 1981 Legislature can cut taxes by a total of $1 billion.

He also said the final decision on a new state prison site will not be made until residents of the locale have had a chance to speak their minds at a public hearing.

The governor is chairman of the Approval Board that must ratify any choice of a site made by the Texas Board of Corrections, which discussed sites in a closed-door session last Sunday.

Clements urges better relations with Mexico

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Improved relations with Mexico is a must if Southwest border states want to solve their energy problems, Texas Gov. Bill Clements said Friday.

"We need to make an open declaration now that we need Mexico's resources and we need them now," Clements told the Southwest Regional Energy Advisory Committee.

"The Southwest Border Regional Commission has the opportunity to serve as a conduit to improve our relations with Mexico or we can stall like a stuck circuit breaker," said James Lauderback, a member of the advisory committee and deputy director of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

Lauderback said Texas' energy problems are probably greater than the other border states of California, Arizona, and New Mexico.

He said Texas consumes 4.4 million barrels of oil a day now, but it is estimated the crude oil need in the year 2,000 will be 8.2 million barrels a day.

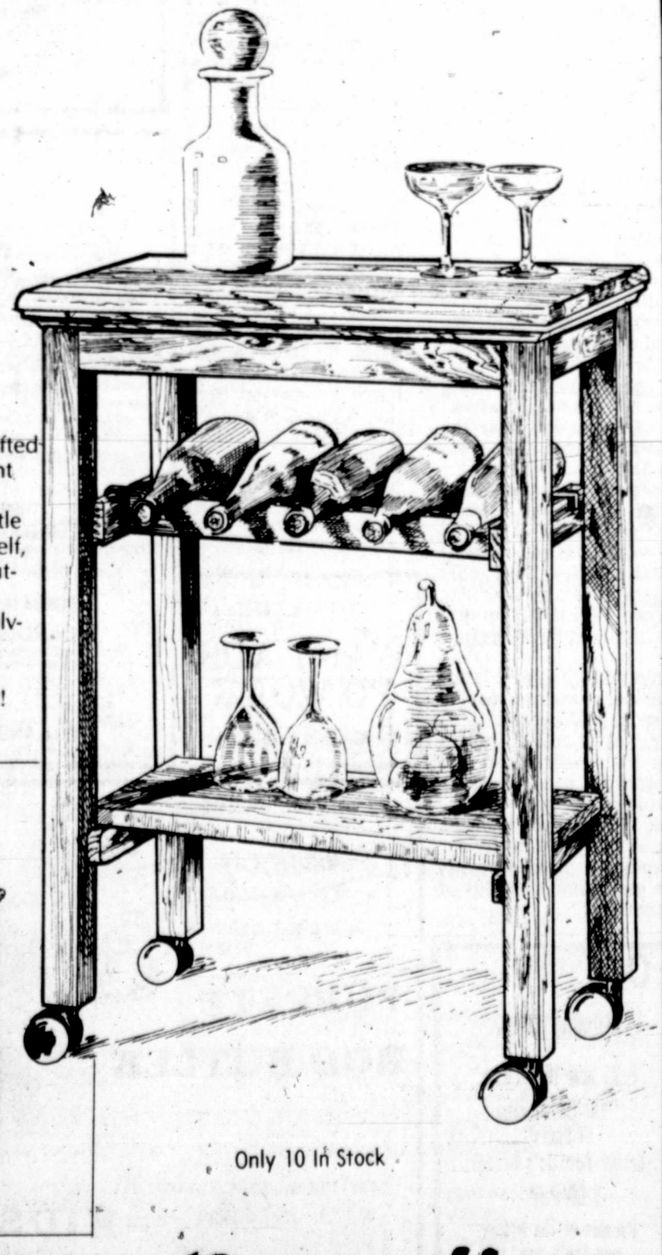

"We expect Texas' population to grow from the estimated 13.7 million now to 20 million in 2000."

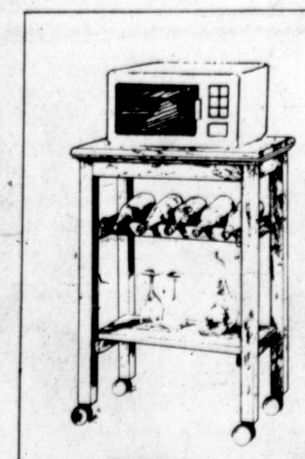

He said the national need for crude oil was expected to grow by a million barrels a day for every year the next 20 years.

Clayton testifies in Brilab trial

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton ended his testimony in the Brilab trial Friday by telling a federal court jury, "I can't be bribed. I will never be bribed."

Clayton, along with Austin attorneys Randall Wood and Donald Ray, are on trial before U.S. District Judge Robert O'Conor on charges of extortion, bribery, conspiracy and racketeering.

The government claims Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe from L.G. Moore, a Houston area labor leader, and FBI informant Joseph Hauser to use his influence in reopening bids on the rich state employees health insurance contract.

Throughout his two days on the stand, Clayton said he believed the stack of $100 bills was a campaign contribution from Moore and that he planned to return the money at a later date.

Moore also was indicted by a federal grand jury and will stand trial later.

Under cross-examination, the speaker insisted over and over that he never intended to keep the money but "the way things worked out I guess I should have made a full disclosure. I didn't want to embarass L.G. Moore because I don't have many friends in labor."

Moore is the regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union.

The money in question passed hands during a Nov. 8, 1979, meeting among Clayton, Moore and Hauser, who now is serving a 30-month sentence for insurance fraud. Hauser was a key to the 10-month long Brilab trial that reached into several states and involved numerous political and labor officials.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Woods pressed the speaker on why he had not revealed to FBI agents during a Feb. 8, 1980, interview that he had taken a campaign contribution from Moore.

Clayton answered, "I think I answered the FBI truthfully. I had not accepted the money because I knew I was going to return it. I thought it was a personal thing between Moore and myself and I didn't consider the money from L.G. as a contribution."

The veteran of 20 years in the legislature and with thoughts of running for governor in 1982 said he was cautious with Moore because "I wanted to neutralize the opposition of organized labor. I knew I could never get their support."

Woods asked, "Well, if you ran against Republican Gov. Bill Clements, do you really think labor could support him?"

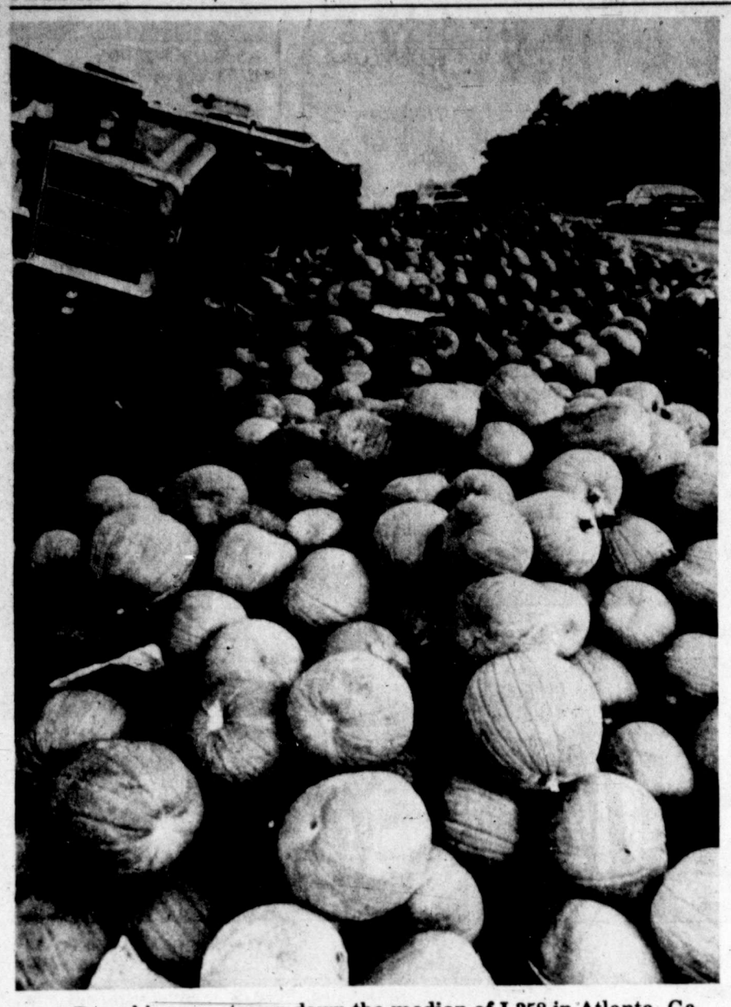

At this point, Judge O'Conor made one of his few comments from the bench and said, "You have to win the primary (Democratic) first."

Woods dropped that line of questioning.

Clayton then was asked if he planned to return the money why he didn't mention it to Moore during a Jan. 15, 1980, telephone conversation.

The speaker answered, "I don't do business of that sort over the telephone. I wanted to return the money to Moore when I could sit down and talk to him face-to-face."

Clayton, in this second day on the witness stand, also testified, "I never cut a deal with anybody during my years in the legislature. I never made a commitment to any legislator during my three terms as speaker."

Reaction surprises bus driver

DALLAS (AP) — Ignacio Beltran had a wife and two kids to provide for, three extra mouths to feed and car payments piling up — so he left the picket line of striking Dallas Transit System bus drivers and asked for his old job.

But Beltran wasn't aware of how much it would cost him to go back to work for the DTS.

He says he could live with a drop in salary, since he had only been driving a bus for five months. He could even put up with a loss of two weeks pay and any seniority he might have chalked up.

What 23-year-old Beltran couldn't handle was the way fellow strikers reacted to his decision.

He said someone slashed all four tires on his car after he returned to his job Monday, and he says he can't afford to replace them.

"Some of the workers who are still out just can't understand," Beltran said. "They're mad."

Beltran is one of 470 DTS workers fired for abandoning their jobs when they walked out Oct. 1 over a pay dispute.

But Beltran says he doesn't think his colleagues should have bitter feelings against him for going back to work.

"We walked out as individuals and we're going to come back as individuals," he said. "The way I look at it, we tried."

"I don't have any regrets about walking out. I don't have any hard feelings toward the union. I stayed out for two weeks and that's all I could do."

Beltran says he believes other drivers will return to work, as they begin to feel the pinch of little or no income.

And there's nothing DTS officials would like better.

"Of course, what we want is for all of them to come back," said Jerry Johnson, DTS public information director.

The fired workers Friday rejected a DTS offer of partial amnesty, said DTS general manager Cliff Franklin.

Franklin said the offer included a pledge to soften an attendance policy which workers claim is unfair, but it did not include a pay increase or restoration of payroll deductions of union dues from workers' paychecks.

Workers say most of the drivers that returned to their old jobs were those with the least seniority, who had little to lose because of the strike.

ORIENTAL RUG SHOW & SALE
OCTOBER 17, 18 and 19
A large selection of handmade Oriental and Persian Rugs (new and old). Kerman-Kashan-Tabriz-Ardebil-Suk-Saruk.
Good handmade Persian Rugs are recognized as one of the finest investments on today's market. You will appreciate these values!
Aladdin House is proud to present this fabulous showing and sale just in time for the holidays!
Oriental rugs and carpets have been produced for centuries and the rugs and carpets produced today are the same in almost every respect as those produced 500 years ago. The best known and most beautiful rugs come from Persia but there are also excellent pieces that come from China, Afghanistan, Turkey, Pakistan, India and Romania. There are other countries in Asia and Africa who produce hand made rugs, but we do not have enough space here to enumerate all of them. All these rugs are made of wool. There are exceptions such as some of the Persian Qum that are made of pure silk.
One may ask why is a hand made oriental rug or carpet the most prized and sought after of all floor coverings? The main reasons are:
1) An oriental rug, being entirely hand made, has a guaranteed durability. Even accidental damage can be repaired without decreasing the rug's value. This cannot be said of a machine made rug which, once damaged, loses its value.
2) The decorative value of an oriental rug in undeniable. It greatly enhances a room and creates an immediate impression of friendly warmth on entering it.
3) Provided it is used with care, the value of an oriental rug increases year by year. It is a safe investment and can be turned into ready cash at any time.
It is sometimes believed that oriental rugs and carpets are very expensive items. This is not so. We have many fine pieces that sell at under $500.00
A brief summary of our rugs and carpets, and their characteristics, is as follows:

Aikens' single in 10th gives Royals first Series victory

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Heroic George Brett smashed a first-inning home run and Willie Aikens delivered a 10th-inning single as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in Friday night's third game of the World Series.

The victory, in the first Series game ever played in Kansas City, left the Royals still trailing the best-of-seven set 2-1. Games 4 and 5 will be played here Saturday and Sunday.

Brett, who underwent hemorrhoid surgery Thursday and stayed overnight at St. Luke's Hospital, electrified the crowd of 42,380 with a home run in his first at bat. Then he played a significant role in the Royals' winning rally in the 10th.

U.L. Washington opened the 10th by driving a base hit into left field against Philadelphia relief ace Tug McGraw. Willie Wilson, battling a horrendous Series slump with only one hit in the first three games, was sent up to bunt but drew a walk instead, moving Washington to second.

Now, Frank White came to the plate with the bunt sign still on. But Washington was cut down trying to steal third, seeming to short-circuit the rally. White then struck out and that brought up Brett.

Wilson, perhaps the fastest man in the majors, stole second, a controversial move because it left first base open and the Phillies took advantage of that by walking Brett.

That brought up Aikens, who had slugged his first major league triple in the fourth inning. The first baseman, who had struck out in his next two times at bat, smashed a drive to the left-center field wall beyond the reach of Garry Maddox, scoring Wilson with the decisive run as the Royals won their first World Series game ever.

BRETT set the tone in the first inning for this pulsating, see-saw contest when he tagged a 1-1 pitch from Dick Ruthven and sent it into the right field bleachers about 20 feet from the Kansas City bullpen.

As he circled the bases, the fans gave him a standing ovation and refused to let the game continue until Brett came out of the dugout for a curtain call. It was the seventh homer he has hit in 20 postseason games and the Royals' scoreboard led the cheers, flashing a sign which read: "Nobody Does It Bretter."

Brett had gone directly to the hospital after Wednesday night's second game and underwent the surgery on Thursday's off-day.

"The pain is all behind me, thanks to two great doctors in Kansas City," he said. The surgery had been performed by Royals team physician Dr. Paul Meyer and proctologist Dr. John Heryer.

The Phillies, who came from behind each of the first three times Kansas City scored in the game, mounted a major victory threat in the ninth.

Bake McBride opened with a single and moved to second on a long fly to left by designated hitter Keith Moreland. Maddox was intentionally walked but Royals relief ace Dan Quisenberry escaped. He retired Manny Trillo, who had two hits earlier, on a grounder to first and then got Larry Bowa, who had three hits before that, on a bouncer to the mound.

Brett's homer gave the Royals a quick lead, but it didn't last long.

THE PHILLIES, who had left two men on in the first inning, loaded the bases with one out in the second. Trillo ripped a single off pitcher Rich Gale's leg and moved up on a single by Bowa. Bob Boone walked on a 3-1 pitch and with the top of the batting order coming up, Gale was in deep trouble. He almost escaped, but not quite.

Lonnie Smith hit back to the pitcher, who knocked the ball down and quickly retrieved it. He still had time for a force play at the plate and a possible double play, but he chose instead to go to first, allowing Trillo to score the tying run.

Pete Rose then walked, loading the bases again, and bringing up dangerous Mike Schmidt, who led the major leagues with 48 regular season home runs. But Gale retired the Phillies' slugger on an easy fly to center field, ending the inning.

Gale left two more Phillies stranded at second and third in the third inning, retiring Bowa on a grounder. That gave Philadelphia seven men left on base through the first three innings. The Phillies tied a series record by stranding 15 for the game.

In the fourth, the Royals seized the lead again. With one out, Aikens lined to left. Smith tried to make a diving catch but the ball eluded him and rolled to the wall as Aikens chugged into third with the triple.

One pitch later Kansas City was in front. Hal McRae drilled a single to right, scoring Aikens.

Lee hangs on to tie Cooper

BY TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

ABILENE—The stubborn Midland Lee Rebels jumped on the Abilene Cooper Cougars here at P.E. Shotwell Stadium Friday night, but they just couldn't bury them when District 5-5A Hall-of-Fame arm of Lanny Dycus went to work to pull out a heart-throbbing 21-21 tie.

Dycus put on an aerial display that makes Fourth of July fireworks a tame family outing. He hit 21 of 31 passes for 245 yards, throwing for two TDs and running for another.

But even that effort was not good enough for an outright victory as the Rebs hung on for the tie. And if a tie is like kissing your sister, then it was one of the hardest puckers in 5-5A history.

COOPER, WHO once trailed 21-6, had a chance to win it all in the fourth period when they rambled behind Dycus to the Lee one. But on fourth down, Lee's Wade Colburn and Terry Thompson stopped Cougar fullback Oscar Riggins for no gain.

Then Lee tried to win it themselves with a 99-yard drive, but that ended in heartbreak. Lee moved from the one to the Cougar 37, but later on a third and 13 at the 40 forced Lee to go to the air for the first time and Barry Corley's effort ended in the arms of Cooper's Arnold Blankenship. The tie was inevitable after that.

Cooper tied it in the third period when Mike Stills toed a 22-yard field goal after a 15-play drive to open the period. Cooper had the ball for 9:59 of the period and still came away with only three points.

THE TIE gives Cooper a 5-0-1 mark while Lee is 3-2-1. It didn't help either team's chances of winning the title, but for Lee it might have been the final blow. Cooper plays Permian next week, so they can still control their own destiny.

Lee stunned the homecoming crowd by jumping to a 14-0 lead before the Rebel offense had ever put a foot on the field with two wild plays which left the defending champions scratching their heads.

Darrin Williams returned the opening kickoff 85 yards for a TD after Bark Ryan had set up the sideline jaunt with a two fake handoffs at the 15. When Williams finally ended up with the ball, he broke into the clear and outraced Cooper's Steven Brown at the 20 for the score.

On Cooper's first possession, Dycus tried to toss a screen pass, but Lee's Jesse Fennell, starting on defense for the first time this year, read the play perfectly, intercepting the ill-fated toss and raced easily 46 yards for the score and a 14-0 lead.

But Cooper wouldn't die. In Dycus, who completed 12 of 18 for 171 yards in the first half alone, brought the Cougs back. He engineered a 71-yard drive with five completions, the last going six yards to Mike Flores for the TD. That left the margin at 14-6 with 2:01 still left in the first period.

THE REBELS, however, answered quickly with a 77-yard drive when Lee finally got the offense on the field. Calvin Riggs got 61 of the yards, including a gallop of 47 and another of one for the score. Dan Gravitt was true with his third extra point for a 21-6 lead.

But Dycus made it tough on the Rebels with drives of 68 and 58 yards to narrow the gap to 21-18 at half. Dycus completed four passes in the 68-yard march and scored himself from the nine and then used 28 seconds to go 58 yards, ending it with a 31-yarder to Flores for the score.

So when the first half smoke had cleared, Gravitt's toe proved to be the difference. Dycus had missed and extra point try and failed to connect on two tries for two points, leaving Gravitt's three the difference.

Riggs rushed for 93 yards in the first half and ended with 116 to lead all rushers.

Lee also marched to the Cooper 32 twice in the first half and gambled both times to pick up the yardage on fourth down tries, but Cooper held and answered with scores both times as Dycus had a field day with porous Lee secondary.

Herzog may manage Redbirds

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Whitey Herzog will return to manage the St. Louis Cardinals in 1981 while remaining as general manager of the team, according to reports circulating at the World Series Friday night.

Herzog, according to the reports, would sign Joe McDonald, vice president in charge of baseball operations for the New York Mets, for a similar post with the Cardinals.

Herzog, former manager of the Kansas City Royals, replaced Ken Boyer as the Cardinals' pilot last summer and then moved into the front office as GM when John Claiborne was fired by the club.

At that time, coach Red Schoendienst was named interim manager of the Cardinals for the remainder of the 1980 season and Herzog said he planned to hire successor.

Bulldogs hold on to nip Abilene

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

Midland High's defense came of age Friday night.

The Bulldogs celebrated 1980 Homecoming with a hard-fought 7-3 victory over the Abilene Eagles in Memorial Stadium to get back into the District 5-5A football race.

A much-maligned Bulldog secondary played a tremendous game in shutting down quarterback Loyal Proffitt and also kept the usually high-scoring Eagle offense from crossing the goal line, thanks to some final second heroics by the entire Midland defensive unit.

Profitt only managed to connect of six of 17 passes for 69 yards and no touchdowns after tossing two TD strikes last weekend against Odessa Permian.

It was a bruising contest with hard-hitting on both sides as Midland was whistled for 103 yards in penalties and two 15-yard calls almost cost the Pack the well-deserved victory as Abilene drove to the Bulldog eight where they held off a furious attempt to pull the game out.

It was a slugfest in the first three periods as neither team was able to score, but Abilene did have a 49-yard touchdown run by Proffitt called back in the first period on a clipping penalty.

MIDLAND'S HANK McClung missed on a 35-yard field goal attempt in the first period while Ken Hall misfired on 30 and 40-yard attempts with the latter coming on the final play of the first half.

Abilene took the opening kickoff and moved from it's own 28 to the 50, but an offensive pass interference call on the Eagles killed the drive which had carried over to the MHS 42 before the penalty on Kenny Joyner for pushing off before catching an 18-yard pass from Proffitt for an apparent first down.

Following a punt, Coach Pat Culpepper's Purple Pack drove from it's own 16 to the Abilene 28 where McClung missed on his field goal attempt.

The Eagles marched from their own 20 all the way down to the Bulldog 14 where the Pack stiffened and Hall missed his first field goal attempt.

This fired up Midland and it drove from it's own 20 out to the 30 where tailback Johnny Garza fumbled with Gene Lackey recovering for the Eagles. On the very next play, however, Scott Louderback picked off a Proffitt pass and Abilene returned the favor some six plays later when safety Karl Kearney intercepted a Michael Feldt pass at the Midland 28.

ABILENE MOVED from it's own 49 to the Pack 23 where once again, Hall misfired on a 40-yard field goal as time ran out. A pass interference call on the Bulldogs kept the drive alive.

After Jana Jones was crowned Homecoming Queen at halftime, Midland, in it's second posession, looked like it might finally draw first blood. The Pack moved from it's 10 to the Abilene 34 where the Eagles held when Feldt came up one yard short on a keeper play at the Warbird 31. Pass completions of 15 and nine yards to Kyle Ford and Devin Alsup, keyed the drive.

After Abilene held, the Key City team drove down field for it's only points of the game. A fake punt by Proffitt on fourth and three, gave the Eagles a first when he picked up 16 yards. Hall nailed a 25-yard field goal with 10:51 left in th fourth period to give Abilene a 3-0 lead.

Midland put the ball into play on it's own 18 and on a fourth down, gambled too, with Feldt firing downfield on a fake punt attempt to Louderback who dropped the ball. This gave Abilene great field position at the Bulldog 20, bit on the next play, Jacob Flores fumbled with Bruce Fisher alertly pouncing on the ball to give it back to MHS.

After an exchange of punts, Midland drove 77 yards in 12 plays to score what proved to be the winning TD. Feldt hit fullback Scott Yocham with a 26-yard pass to the Bulldog 49 and then Yocham gained 17 more on a trap play down the middle. Runs of six and five yards and another 10-yarder by Yocham, moved the Pack down field. On a second and 10 at the Eagle 14, Feldt spotted tight end Wade Johnson in the end zone and fired a perfect strike for the score. McClung's extra point made it 7-3 with 3:31 left as the crowd went wild.

Abilene cranked up, thanks to a pair of 15-yard penalties on the agressive Pack and moved all the way down to the MHS nine, but on a fourth at goal at the eight, Johnson gave chase to Proffitt and an host of MHS defenders came up and met the 175-pound senior at the five where the Bulldogs took over and ran out the clock.

AFTER THE GAME, Feldt, who hit six of 13 passes for 87 yards, shook hands with Abilene Coach Louie Spinks and looked for the disappointed Proffitt where the two senior athletes shook hands at the 50-yard line.

Standouts for Midland on defense were Louderback, Gary Willis, Matt Carr, Brandt Moffatt, Doug McLean, Feldt, Johnson, Jerry Dedrick, Fisher, Elston Montgomery and Jim Sutherland. Kearney, Scott Hamilton, Derrick Fields and Kevin Kinder stood out for Abilene on defense.

Leo Parrish led the Eagle rushing attack with 56 yards on 19 carries while Garza led Midland with 62 yards on 20 cracks into the Eagle line.

McCamey hands Crane 32-12 loss

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

MCCAMEY-McCamey and Crane, despite being only 20 miles apart, have not played each other in football for several years. For the first half of the contest Friday evening the Badgers must have thought they didn't play the Golden Cranes until next year.

Only a second half burst of 25 points allowed McCamey to topple an unpset minded bunch of Cranes 32-12.

The first half of play, except for the last two minutes, belonged all to Crane. Using a stout defense and the hard running of Brian Cunningham the Cranes kept McCamey holed up in its end of the field.

After missing an earlier field goal, Crane got the break it needed. Quarterback Ernest Valasquez and halfback Ben Ferguson missed connect ion on the Badger 3-yard line. The loose pigskin rolled into the end zone when Darryl Burton was Johnny-on-the-spot to fall on the ball for a Crane touchdown. The PAT was blocked giving Crane a 6-0 lead with 4:15 left in the first quarter.

Fumbles, dropped passes and the Crane defense kept the Badgers bottled up. With two minutes left in the half, and the natives growing restless, McCamey found itself on its own 17 down by six.

The Badgers woke up. In seven plays McCamey swept 83 yards with Valasqluez going the final nine yards up the middle to knot the score. Joe Rodriguez added the PAT and McCamey was on top 7-6 with eight seconds left in the first half.

B.J. Terry had the big play in the Badgers' by sweeping right end for 40 yards from the Badger 40 to the Crane 20.

Following the halftime meeting with the coaches, McCamey came out and took the opening 74 yards in eight plays for its second score of the night. Terry tallied the TD by sweeping right end and romping 25 yards. The extra point try went awry leaving McCamey holding a 13-6 lead with 9:05.

A 47-yard punt by Julio Carrasco pinned the Badgers on their 10-yard line late in the third quarter. Hitting hard the Cranes tried to force a turnover. It was not to be.

McCamey responded with a 90-yard drive that took seven plays and consumed four minutes. Robert Arana toted the ball in from five yards out giving the Badgers a 20-6 lead. The extra point was muffed again. With 3:15 left in the third quarter the Badgers had things their way, 20-6.

The fourth TD for McCamey came following a short Crane punt. From the Badger 47-yard line McCamey moved in to score the knockout punch. Ferguson did the honors with a 27-yard dash to paydirt. Rodriguez missed another PAT attempt, leaving McCamey with a 26-6 lead with 10:51 to play.

Forced to play catch up, Crane put the ball into the air. Jerry Stacy picked of an errant toss and the Badgers were in business on the Crane 28. It took the Badgers just six plays to move in for their final score of the evening. Velasquez teamed up with Bill Garcia for a 9-yard TD pass. The PAT try was blocked. With 6:14 left in the games thing were going McCamey's way to the tune of 32-6.

Crane wasn't about to go home without getting another score on the board. Following a Badger fumble, recovered by Carrasco, Crane moved 17 yards into score. Juan Saldiana picked up the TD on a 3-yard gallop with 1:31 remaining in the contest. The PAT attempt failed and McCamey escaped with the victory.

The win, McCamey's fifth in a row, gives the Badgers a 5-2 mark. With the loss Crane has now dropped six straight games as it record plunges to 0-6.

ODESSA — The Odessa Permian Panthers held the Big Spring Steers to 126 yards total offense here Friday night in storming to an easy 42-0 victory in W.T. Barrett Stadium.

The victory keeps the Panthers unbeaten in six games and moves them into sole posession of first place in the District 5-5A race with a 3-0 record.

Tailback Kent Sager and fullback Dale Carr scored two touchdowns each to pace the potent Mojo attack which racked up 493 yards total offense with 358 of it coming on the ground.

Sager scored in runs of 12 and 10 yards while Carr had an eight-yard run for a score and was on the scoring end of a six-yard pass from quarterback Jerry Hix.

Permian has now shut out five of the six opponents it has faced this year.

Stanton survives scare by Morton

STANTON—Seagraves was supposed to be the first and last hurdle the Stanton Buffaloes had to clear on their way to the District 5-2A football title and the thundering herd did that in the league opener.

Morton was supposed to be a mild annoyance and that's the way it started out as Stanton took a 14-0 lead in the first half and then had to come up with a blocked extra point by Richard Parker and two last period interceptions by defensive halfback Curtis Williams to preserve a 14-13 victory here Friday night.

The win preserved Stanton's unbeaten season at 7-0 and gave the Buffsa 3-0 record going into next week's game with Plains. Morton is a frustrated 1-2 and 2-5.

Kevin Newman punched in from the two and Craig Eiland converted with 53 seconds left in the first period and then Lewis Henry scampered 13 yards and Eiland again kicked true to make it 14-0 with 7:53 left in the half. It looked like an easy night, but wait...

James Dent scored on a five-yard run and Billy Cadenhead converted with 1:27 left in the half and it was 14-7. Quarterback Cadenhead ran eight yards with 11:52 left in the game and the Indians war on the warpath. Parker blocked the extra point attempt to keep it 14-13.

But Morton wasn't finished yet. Williams intercepted one pass and then when Morton, on its own five, passed long, Williams again plucked it out of the air with 47 seconds left and returned to six as the Buffs ran out the clock.

Tailback Kevin Newman led the Buffs with 102 yards rushing on 29 carries.

Junction holds off Owls

BIG LAKE—Ward Broyles kicked a 26-yard field goal with 5:59 left in the half and Junction's Eagles made it stand up for a 10-7 victory over the Reagan County Owls here Friday night.

The three-pointer gave the Eagles a 10-0 lead at the time, but Reagan drove 41 yards in 10 plays to send tailback James Phillips over left guard from three yards out for the touchdown with 6:01 left in the third period to make it close. Torin Burleson kicked the point to cut the Junction lead to three, but the Eagles held on.

Junction, notching its first win of the season as against five losses and a tie, scored after a 53-yard hike in the opening period when fullback Scott Adams nudged over guard from the one and Broyles converted with 14 seconds left in the half.

The win gives Junction 1-2 conference record while Reagan is now 1-1 and 1-5 on the year.

SWC teams reach '80 crossroads

It should be an interesting day in the Southwest Conference, although no earth-quaking games are scheduled. But the games that are scheduled carry considerable import.

For example, Texas Tech, with a week off to regroup for the rugged stretch run, invades Houston Saturday needing a confidence boosting victory over Rice. Ordinarily, that might not seem too much to ask, but the Owls are proving contrary this season (Ask LSU and TCU) and are spoiling for more. Tech is hurting and has Texas looming a week hence...

Then, at College Station, Baylor is poised to win its sixth straight, something not even the 1974 SWC champions could do, while A&M is suffering through the miseries of a losing season. Still, the Aggies, when they put it together, have the material to beat anybody.

At Dallas, the big question is whether SMU can bounce back from disappoint against disappointment itself, the Houston Cougars, who beat A&M last week in the midnight ball at the Astrodome, but haven't lived up to the reputation that has won SWC titles in three of the last four years.

Like Rex Dockery at Tech and Tom Wilson at A&M, F.A.Dry probably has been aware of alumni grumblings in the background and perhaps a victory over Tulsa would silence the impatient. Yet, Dry, if the Frogs had scheduled Wichita State and West Texas instead of Auburn and Georgia, a couple of confidence destroyers, might be a lot better off than 0-5.

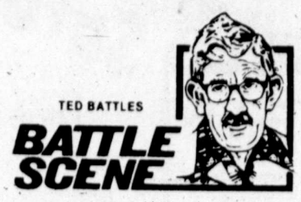

Going into this week's pickings, the record is 53-14...

The SWC...

Rice 17, Texas Tech 14—If Raiders win, it's up to defense.

SMU 22, Houston 20—Cougars may be ready to roll, but with Terry Elston and Brent Chinn out, we have to go with Mustangs. Besides, Mike Ford is due for a really big day...

TCU 17, Tulsa 7—Comparative scores indicate Tulsa, but Frogs are due...

Baylor 24, Texas A&M 21—Bears have been consistent, Aggies erratic.

The others...

Notre Dame 33, Army 0—Sometimes we just get these hunches...

Alabama 24, Tennessee 7—This isn't a frolic to the Big Apple, this is serious business.

Ohio State 21, Indiana 7—Hoosiers were bowl-bound last year and got beat 47-6, so...

Nebraska 28, Oklahoma State 0—Huskers too powerful.

Oklahoma 29, Kansas State 6—Even with all the fumbles.

North Carolina 23, NC State 21—Tarheels unbeaten, but this is a neighborhood scrap and anything can happen.

USC 42, Oregon 14—After UNC-NCS, we need a breather.

Stanford 36, Washington 34—Since a possible Rose Bowl bid is at stake, naturally, they'll play this one close-to-the-vest.

The pros...

Dallas 28, Philadelphia 23—The Eagles have been tremendous, but in this case we're from Missouri.

Houston 21, Tampa Bay 7—Forget the Snake and stay with Earl.

Rams 35, 49ers 7—You can't play in the NFL using non-scholarship players.

Chargers 28, NY Giants 10—I'd rather pick this one than Washington-St.Louis.

Dry retains sense of humor

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Despite a miserable start and a dismal 5-0 record, Texas Christian University coach F.A. Dry and one football player have proved they still have a sense of humor.

After losing all five games, three of those in the last few minutes, Dry told of an incident that happened after last Saturday's 28-24 defeat at the hands of Rice University.

"As I was walking off the field, I heard a guy run by me and yell, 'go to hell, Dry.'"

"I thought to myself, oh what a relief that would be."

During a recent appearance before a TCU booster club, sophomore wide receiver Stanley Washington told the crowd he considered victory similar to an apple pie.

"It smells good, and it tastes good. But if you don't hurry up and eat it, somebody is going to take it," he said. "The next time we smell it, we're going to swallow it whole."

Green to give Carlton extra day of rest

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies Manager Dallas Green says he would prefer not to pitch Steve Carlton if the World Series goes to a fifth game Sunday.

Someone asked Green before Friday night's third game if he would prefer not to pitch anyone.

"You got it," responded Green. The question and answer, of course, indicated the hope there would be no game Sunday and that the Phillies would sweep the best-of-seven set in four games.

Green hinted he would like to use rookie Marty Bystrom somewhere in the Series.

"It could be Sunday." observed the Phillies manager.

Green explained that he would rather give Carlton extra rest since the 24-game winner had pitched over 320 innings and was likely to be at least a bit tired at this stage.

"But I just want to win tonight," Green added quickly. "I don't want to look too far ahead. And I don't want to be cocky."

Green surveyed the expansive outfield in Royals Stadium and said he planned to bunch his outfielders, taking a chance on giving the Royals the lines.

"Anything down those lines will be very tough to play," Green added. Green also commented on the Phillies' great road record in the last months of the season, in which they won 21 of 28.

Cougars backed up to wall

Defending SWC champs face SMU

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The pressure is on the defending champion Houston Cougars Saturday if they want their fourth Cotton Bowl trip in five years.

It's a cold, hard fact that has held true through the history of Southwest Conference football — you don't win a title with two losses.

Houston, a loser to Baylor, will take on the Southern Methodist Mustangs Saturday in a regionally televised (2:50 p.m.) with a freshman quarterback at the starting controls for the first time in the school's 35-year history.

Audrey McMillian of Carthage received the starting nod from Coach Bill Yeoman because of a deep thigh bruise suffered against Texas A&M by sophomore Brent Chinn.

SMU, which also lost to Baylor, desperately needs a victory to stay in contention.

"It's a big game for us," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer. "We need to bounce back in a strong fashion this week. They may have a couple of losses this year but they are still the defending conference champions and you just know you will have your hands full with that football team."

HOUSTON played solid defense against the Aggies thanks to one move in which Yeoman switched Hosea Taylor from tackle to noseguard.

SMU was a five-point favorite over the Cougars in the meeting at Texas Stadium.

In other games, unbeaten Baylor was a field-goal favorite over the Texas Aggies before the largest sellout crowd in Kyle Field history, some 70,000 plus; Texas Tech was a field-goal pick over Rice in Houston, and Texas Christian was a four-point favorite over Tulsa in Fort Worth.

Arkansas and Texas were idle.

RICE Coach Ray Alborn said the game against Tech was going to be rough both from a physical and personal standpoint.

"One reason the game is tough is because (Tech Coach) Rex Dockery and I are such good friends, and our wives are good friends," he said. "Last year before the game in Lubbock, Rex and I just rode around the car and talked about football and other things. But we'll end our friendship around 7:30 Saturday night and start it up again around a quarter of 11."

Tech was idle last week and the Red Raiders will face the Owls with six new starters.

If Baylor can beat the Aggies, it will be the first time since 1949 the Bears have started the season with a 6-0 record.

Saturday's schedule in order of CDT starting times (full-season and SWC won-lost-tied records in parentheses):

TULSA (3-2) at TCU (0-5), 2 p.m. — TCU leads the series 10-3. Injured Frog linebackers Joe Vail and Mike Dry are questionable. TCU Quarterback Steve Stamp is hitting better than half his pass attempts (31-58 for 375 yards). The Frogs are averaging 234.8 yards per game total offense and allowing 420.4. The Hurricane is averaging 314.4 and yielding 295.2.

BAYLOR (5-0, 3-0 in SWC) at TEXAS A&M (2-3, 1-1 in SWC), 2 p.m. — Bears seek 6-0 record for first time since 1953 and third straight victory over A&M. Baylor leads all SWC team offense categories and total defense with 460-yard total offense (3rd nationally), 268-yard rushing average (11th), 250-yard total defense average (13th). Aggie offense has averaged 343 yards a game but now hit by injuries to quarterbacks David Beal and Mike Mosley. Baylor quarterback Jay Jeffrey is second in SWC total offense,(24th nationally) at 179 yards per game and is averaging six yards a play. A&M holds 44-25-7 series edge.

HOUSTON (2-3, 1-1 in SWC) at SMU (4-1, 1-1 in SWC), 2:50 p.m. (ABC-TV) — Cougars will start freshman quarterback Audrey McMillian for injured Brent Chinn. Mustang quarterback Mike Ford is recovering slowly from a knee operation last year. Mustangs are among the SWC offensive leaders with sophomore tailbacks Craig James and Eric Dickerson combining for more than 154 rushing yards per game and ranking among the top five in SWC tandem offense. Terald Clark, Houston's top offensive gun, is recovering from early injury to rank ninth among SWC rushers at 65 yards a game. The Cougars hold a 3-1 SWC series edge, 3-2 overall.

TEXAS TECH (2-3, 0-2 in SWC) at RICE (2-3, 1-1 in SWC), 7:30 p.m. — Owls trying to win three out of four for the first time since 1973. Tech is trying to keep from losing four of five for the first time since 1971. Tech is third in SWC defense at 290 yards yielded per game to Rice's 394, while Owls are gaining 337 yards a game to Raiders 311. In passing, Rice is hitting 55 percent for 154 yards a game and the Raiders 51 percent for 157. Owls are splitting quarterback chores between Randy Hertel (53 percent) and Robert Hoffman (64 percent), while Ron Reeves (52 per cent) directs Tech's attack.

Haywood new HP greens chief

BY REX WORRELL
Hogan Park Golf Pro

Hogan Park has the fortune of acquiring the services and talents of Rick Haywood as golf course superintendent and golf course department head for the City of Midland.

Rick began work at Hogan Oct. 15. He and his wife, Anne, moved here from Canyon. Anne is an R.N. in surgery at Midland Memorial Hospital. We would like to extend a West Texas welcome to Rick and Anne...

Before moving to Canyon, the Haywoods lived in Fort Wayne, Ind., where Rick was greens superintendent at McMillen Park. Louisville, Ky., has always been home to Rick and Anee and we hope soon they will feel Midland is home.

Rick attended Indiana University, Ball State and Eastern Kentucky U. where he majored in Turf Grass Management. He graduated with his bachelor's degree in 1975. The Haywoods recently purchased one of Midland's older homes and plan to remodel and redecorate it in their spare time. They have four dogs and a cat in a large backyard.

Former golf course superintendent Robert Campbell recently became greens superintendent at Odessa CC. We are happy for Robert in his new position and wish him the best of luck...

Final arrangements have been made for the 17th annual Midland Women's City championships at Hogan Tuesday through Thursday. The ladies had their qualifying last week. We are pleased to be their host once again. The tournament will tee off 9 a.m. each day.

Phanatic is banned

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Phillie Phanatic was banned Friday night from Game 3 of the World Series.

The Phanatic, a Sesame Street type character, is the official mascot of the National League Champion Philadelphia Phillies.

He usually roams the field at various times during the game, knocking over groundskeepers, taunting umpires, wagging an elongated tongue at the opposing teams, and dancing to his own brand of rock music.

In reality, the Phanatic is David Raymond, a former University of Delaware punter, who works parttime in the Phillies front office. Raymond said Kansas City officials told him that Royals' fans wanted a mascot, too, and that they had not yet found the right one.

"They didn't want me throwing oil on the fire," said the disappointed Phillies mascot.

Raymond said that maybe the Phillies were at fault because they didn't talk to any Kansas City officials.

Sul Ross hosts 6-0 Kangaroos

ALPINE—Sul Ross University hopes to shake the "one-point" blues at 7 p.m. tonight when the Lobos host Austin College, the nation's No. 2 NAIA II power, in a Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association football game.

AC is 6-0 while SRC could be 5-1 instead of 2-4 if it weren't for one point losses. It will be the second meeting of the teams in the home-and-home TIAA schedule and the Kangaroos from Sherman are the only team to beat Sul Ross by more than a point, winning by 10.

Most of the Lobos troubles stem from the final period. Although SRC has outscored its opponents 40-17, 52-20 and 36-8 in each of the first three quarters, the Lobos are 0-32 in the final quarter.

AC has the second longest NAIA regular season winning streak with 13. Bethany of Kansas has won 34 straight.

Edwards duo leads by 2

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Brothers Danny and Dave Edwards birdied their first five holes Friday, compiled a better-ball score of 9-under-par 63 and retained a 2-stroke lead in the second round of the $350,000 Walt Disney World National Team Golf Championship.

Danny, 29, and Dave, 24, from Edmond, Okla., recorded a 36-hole total of 123, a dazzling 21 shots under par and a tournament record in this unique event that closes the 10-month PGA Tour schedule.

Under the unique format for this event, the two-man pro teams play one round on each of the three courses, each day with a different team of three amateurs. Scoring is on the better ball of the pros.

After Saturday's third round the amateurs drop out and the field is cut to the low 35 pro teams for the final round at the Magnolia course.

A pair of Tour rookies from Seattle, Mike Gove and Doug Campbell, had a 61 at the Palm course, and moved into second place at 125, 19 shots under par but two behind the spectacular Edwards brothers.

It was another two shots to the two teams tied at 127. Canadian Dan Halldorson, a winner last week in Pensacola, and Dana Quigley, shot 61 at Magnolia and Barry Harwell and Mike Harmon had 64 at Magnolia.

Chaparrals hit road for tennis, golf action

Midland College tennis and women's golf teams take to the road with the tennis squads competing in the West Texas Invitational at San Angelo today and Sunday while the women play in Sam Houston State's Fall Waterwood Collegiate tournament at Huntsville.

MC has traditionally done well at San Angelo, "Our players have begun to get into the swing finally after losing about two weeks to recent rains," tennis Coach Brian Gilley said. "We had some good wins in Abilene against Texas Tech and West Texas State, so we feel wer're about back to where we should be at this stage.

Gilley has three sophomores and four freshemn on his team, including returnees Russ Houck, Chris Mosso and Rudolfo Rico along with newcomers Barry King, Ronnie Morris, Danny Olsen and Randy Purifoy.

Coach Susan Holland will enter sophomores Sheryl Bunton and Debra Kargetta plus freshmen Michelle Wilks, Doborah Latham and Wendy Swift in the Huntsville tournament.

Kings rope Mavericks

DALLAS (AP) — Scott Wedman scored 25 points and Otis Birdsong 21 as the Kansas City Kings took advantage of Dallas mistakes for a 103-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Mavericks Friday night.

The win raised Kansas City's record to 2-3 for the year and dropped the expansion Dallas team to 1-3.

Dallas' Geoff Huston hit a career high 28 points to lead all scorers, with Jim Spanarkel coming off the bench to add 21 points. Tom LaGarde hit 19 for the Mavericks.

Birdsong and Wedman hit two goals each as the Kings jumped off to an 8-0 lead in the game, but Huston countered with four field goals and a free throw and fed LaGarde and Abdul Jeelani for a basket as the Mavericks pulled into a 16-16 tie midway through the first quarter.

A three-point play by Huston left the Mavericks trailing Kansas City by 20-19 with 3:12 left in the first period, but the Kings forced seven Dallas turnovers and outscored the Mavericks 13-12 to open up a 33-21 advantage.

Two outside jumpers by Hawkeye Whitney got Kansas City rolling in the second quarter as they scored eight of the first 10 points to open up a 41-23 edge.

Kansas City had its biggest edge of 27 points at 64-37 with 1:09 remaining in the first half.

But Spanarkel came in to bring the Mavericks back in the fourth quarter.

Reactor workers evacuated

BRIDGMAN, Mich. (AP) — Several workers were evacuated and one worker was slightly contaminated Friday when radioactive gas leaked from a nuclear reactor at the Donald C. Cook power plant in Bridgman, utility officials said.

The 30-minute release posed no danger to the public and the contaminated worker was able to rid himself of radioactive particles by washing, said John Hills, a spokesman for the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.

Hills said the clothing of two other workers also showed slight contamination, but their bodies did not.

The release occurred at Unit 1 of the twin reactor plant near Lake Michigan, 20 miles from the Indiana border.

Both reactors were running "at capacity" at the time of the release, Hills said, and neither one was shut down. The plant supplies electricity to customers in both Indiana and Michigan and has a peak output of 2.2-million killowats.

'Flinstones' back in prime time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Flintstones," the first animated prime-time series, is back in prime time after a long absence.

Twenty years after its creation, the cartoon caveman series is running for six weeks, on Friday nights, on NBC.

The series made its debut in 1960 on ABC, and remained on the air for the next six seasons. Since then, it's been on nighttime television only as an occasional special. The original 154 episodes still are being broadcast in 80 countries in 22 languages.

"The Flintstones" is produced by Hanna-Barbera Productions, the animation studio founded in 1957 by Bill Hanna and Joe Barbera after MGM closed its cartoon-making operation. While at MGM, the two created "Tom and Jerry" and won seven Academy Awards.

"We got the first order a year ago," said Hanna, "because Fred Silverman (president of NBC) was well aware of the initial success. It was a high-rated show, and when they took it off it was still a high-rated show."

The present series isn't having such luck. The premiere show Sept. 26 placed 49th in the ratings. In the second week it was still No. 49.

Hanna said he felt one of the secrets of the continuing popularity of "The Flintstones" was that its humor was completely contemporary despite the Neanderthal setting. Fred and Wilma Flintstone live like any other suburban couple — except that their garbage disposer is a hog under the sink and their newspaper is printed on stone tablets.

The success of "The Flintstones" in the 1960s led to other prime-time cartoons, such as "The Jetsons," "Top Cat" and "Johnny Quest."

Hanna responded to criticism that "The Flintstones" is a "badly drawn ripoff of 'The Honeymooners'" by saying, "There were many married couples on television. More than just 'The Honeymooners.' All we did was pick two couples and a make a comedy. I think anything created today can be said to be a ripoff. It's hard to find anything original any more."

Barbera is a more vocal in his defense of the series.

"We went from making cartoons that cost $45,000 to doing cartoons for $2,500," he said. "That's what we had to do to get back into business. Television didn't have big money to pay for animation.

"We brought the animation business back to life after it had been dumped by the big studios. We created hundreds of new jobs and we saved a lot of old jobs.

"And from that," Barbera said, "we could build toward quality animation, like the $9 million production of 'Heidi' we're doing now.

"We devised a way of making animation for television. People don't say, 'Thank God, Hanna-Barbera devised a way to keep animation going and now they're going into quality production.' Instead, all we get are the slings and arrows."

Both Hanna and Barbera said the company was using its profits from its limited-animation series — as well as backing from its parent company, Taft Broadcating — to help finance such quality productions as "Heidi"; "Nessie, Come Home," based on the Loch Ness monster stories, and "Fenwick," a Christmas feature. Also in the works are a 90-minute "rock fantasy" and a 5½-hour Christmas special with Yogi Bear for Operation Prime Time.

Hanna-Barbera also is developing various live-action shows. Actor Richard Crenna is in charge of those productions.

Barbera said "Heidi" was launched about five years ago. "I could see the animation industry vanishing," he said. "Our best people were gone or going. Our television season kept people busy only six months of the year, then we had to let every one go, usually just before Christmas. If you see this pattern repeated for 20 years you really get worried.

"So I launched a crusade to get our company to do fine animation — a full-scale motion picture. And that takes somebody like Taft who'll get behind you and wait five years for their money."

Rod McKuen, poet now writes religious material

By LINDA DUDLEY
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD -- "Tuck in your shirt," Rod McKuen's manager ordered, as the poet moved toward the interviewer.

McKuen mumbled something about being a poet, and always wearing his shirt out whereupon the manager retorted: "If Billy Graham and Oral Roberts can tuck in their shirts, so can you."

Here was the man who was probably the first to make tennis shoes respectable, if not chic, struggling with his image.

In case you don't catch the connection, Rod McKuen has moved from everyman poet to -- as the press release puts it -- "Rod McKuen, the man, the poet, the believer."

He has written a religious book, "An Outstretched Hand," (Harper and Row, $7.95) filled with poems, prayers, meditations and even a wedding ceremony custom-tailored for the religious modern.

THE MARRIAGE ceremony is sort of like vows you'd recite in a park if you were religious.

So, what qualified McKuen to write about religion?

Is he cynically keeping in step with the latest in public fads? Or does he have his finger so unerringly on the pulse of the book-buying public that he unconsciously mines publishing gold without mercenary premeditation?

His publishing company says it this way:

"Who is this man of faith? He is the same Rod McKuen whose father abandoned the family before Rod was born and whose stepfather beat him over and over again for being a 'dreamer.' He has known hunger, loneliness, physical pain and he has survived. No easy task for someone who has been on his own since he was 11 and who has never had more than five years of formal education.

"'An Outstretched Hand' is a kind of summing up of his journey to date."

McKuen puts it this way:

"IT IS A WAY of giving back so much that has been given to me by people everywhere and by that hidden, unseen hand of God."

Remember, it was McKuen who said: "Curl up with a good book or a friend who's read one."

It is the switch from Bohemian poet of the populace to religious writer for the masses.

With his new book on religious thought McKuen has not penned an esoteric volume but, like his string of earlier financial successes, it appears headed for the sales charts. With 38,000 books, it is now in its third printing, a good sign for a book published three months ago.

HE SAID HE HAS been baptised in five religions and studied three more "but never stayed with any of them."

But, still, at 47, he said he "worries that he won't get all the things accomplished I would like."

But at the pace he has planned for future activities, he should knock off quite a few of these as 1980 draws to a close.

For example:

-- He's doing the score for an upcoming Burt Reynolds movie.

-- He'll appear on Johnny Cash's Christmas TV special.

-- This fall Simon and Schuster will bring out yet another book, "The Power Bright and Shining," a story about what people think of America today which McKuen has been researching for a decade.

-- His record label, Stanyan Street, is releasing an LP called Turntable, 16 tracks of poetry with some rock and a duet with Petula Clark on "Baby It's Cold Outside," as well as a double album, Roads, culled from material recorded at 5,000 concerts.

AND, IN JANUARY, McKuen will travel to the Republic of Botswana to work with Elizabeth Taylor to raise money for an African hospital.

Work with Elizabeth Taylor? What? Isn't this the same Rod McKuen who earlier this summer allegedly slapped Taylor when they were on the same bill at another East Coast fund raiser?

Pure fabrication, scoffed McKuen about the story that he traded slaps with Taylor backstage during a gala Wolf Trap Theater benefit June 3 in an incident triggered by a snide remark by Burt Reynolds.

"I have never raised my hand to a woman in my life," said McKuen, who was formerly married to a French woman and is the father of a teenaged son and daughter.

To support their outrage, McKuen said he and Taylor have filed a joint multimillion suit against the British papers which printed the story.

"We haven't started with the American press, yet," McKuen added.

Matthau: quality touch

By BILL HAGEN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — It was an impromptu poll, but very scientific.

A rumpled, bearded man with a face as pliable as Joe Namath's knee was asked whether he would go out of his way to see a Walter Matthau movie.

Of course, he said. Who wouldn't?

And what, he was asked, does he find so attractive about Walter Matthau?

"His intelligence, wit, charm, sophistication, poise and talent. Things like that."

And there you have it, what the man in the street thinks of Walter Matthau. Well, actually, the man in the Champagne Room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, which in this village is practically the same thing.

Matthau couldn't have put it better himself, or he would have.

Still, for spontaneous answers to what might have been embarrassing questions, he did rather well. But, then, he always does rather well. The opinions offered in this exchange were, of course, Matthau on Matthau, and while perhaps not totally objective, they weren't totally unjustified, either.

He sometimes looks as though he had just returned from a camping trip at Mt. St. Helens, somewhat disheveled and askew. Perhaps it's because his body seems as collapsible as his face, like all of his ligaments had dissolved. He is an unlikely looking movie star.

One reason he's so successful, aside from the attributes he mentioned earlier, is that he does for any movie what he had praised Glenda Jackson for doing:

"Glenda gives every picture she's in a touch of quality, whether it has it or not."

Matthau is reunited with Jackson in "Hopscotch," a very pleasant adventure comedy in which he plays a disillusioned — and recently demoted — CIA agent who concocts a delicious plan for revenge. Matthau and Jackson had earlier exhibited a special chemistry in "House Calls," and the formula works again in "Hopscoth." They make an exceptional romantic comedy team. It's that touch of quality.

Director Ronald Neame, a delightful Briton whose credits range from "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" to "The Poseidon Adventure," allowed Matthau great artistic freedom during the making of "Hopscotch." The two had a prearranged signal to let Matthau know that Neame had a take of the scene he was after and that Matthau was now free to improvise. Much of the improvisation was used, but not all. Matthau's antics sometimes require restraining.

But most of what the actor contributed was quite valuable, Neame said. Perhaps even invaluable. His praise of Matthau was becoming fulsome. Matthau, however reluctantly, tried to put it in perspective.

"When I was a boy on the Lower East Side, selling soft drinks in the Yiddish theater, I remember seeing a poster," Matthau said. "The poster said, 'Hamlet, by William Shakespeare.' And beneath that it said, 'Improved by Irving Goldman.' I like to think that's what I did. If Irving Goldman can improve Shakespeare, I can improve this movie, I think."

Matthau has been known to talk about his childhood in New York, but not always to tell the same story about it. Not until recent years, anyhow.

He was once described in major magazines as the son of a defrocked Russian Orthodox priest who had fled Czarist Russia in 1906 after delivering several sermons supporting the Pope. It was a story with some elegance to it, Matthau thought, which was why he promulgated it. That and the fact that he revels in such put-ons.

Matthau's father was actually an impoverished immigrant who abandoned his family when Matthau was 3 years old. The actor now recalls those carefree years of childhood as "a horrible, stinking nightmare." Or is that a put-on?

What is probably accurate is that Matthau was less than enthralled with the prospect of making "Hopscotch" when it was originally presented to him.

"Then Ely Landau, the producer, called me and said, 'Look, you gotta do it or I'll commit suicide,'" Matthau said. "So I said, 'What the hell, Ely ... I've got to have a better reason than that.'"

Landau obviously advanced more compelling reasons -- Neame can also be very persuasive -- and Matthau signed on. And he has no regrets.

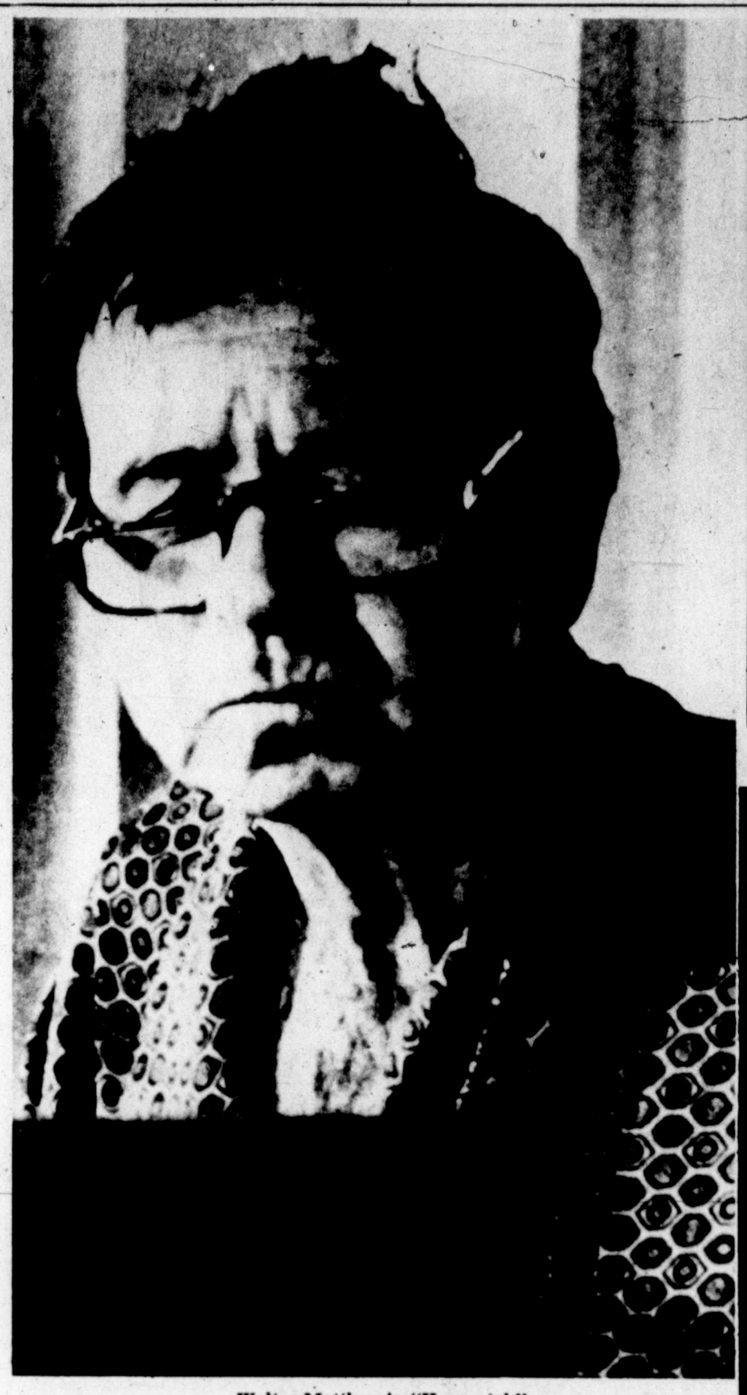

"We meant to make an entertaining movie, and I think that's what we did," he said. "There's nothing pretentious about it.

"Sure it's political, in the sense that we say there are some rotten people in the CIA and we have to get them out. But we do it with humor, with a certain style, a certain panache. You know what panache is, right? The flavor of the month at Baskin Robbins.

"Besides, any movie with that much in it has to be good."

Mozart's music is used through much of the film, befitting the Austrian locations featured in the dogged pursuit of Matthau by various spies, some of whom would like to silence him, some, to enlist him. The chase also winds through Germany, England and the Southeastern United States.

"Hopscotch" is fun for the most part, especially when Matthau and Jackson are rekindling a middle-age romance.

Darlene Gillespie, now a nurse, is often called the Mickey Mouse Nurse. But it's a term of affection, honoring her career as one of the original Mouseketeers and her current work, where she cheers patients with her outgoing personality and joyous sense of humor.

Darlene's proud Mouseketeer

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — She's been called the Mouse Nurse or the Mickey Mouse Nurse, appellations which initially disturbed her, but now Darlene Gillespie, ex-Mouseketeer, knows they were compliments.

From 1955 through 1958, when the show was being produced, Darlene, Annette, Bobbie Burgess and the rest aroused young fans to enthusiasm as the Mouseketeers marched briskly across a Disney stage singing, "Who's the leader of the club that's made for you and me? M-I-C-K-E-Y M-O-U-S-E!"

The show ran in hour-long form for two years and then as a half-hour show, after which it was reissued twice through syndication, from 1962 to '65 and in 1975-'76.

So more than one generation of children has applauded the doings of the original Mouseketeers who were recruited through auditions in department stores, supermarkets, schools and theaters.

One of the chosen was Darlene, now married, mother of two and a nurse in Nashville, Tenn.

Her husband is Phillip Gammon, in the music publishing business, who began to court her after he saw her picture and thought she looked like Julie Andrews.

"Wasn't that flattering?" Darlene laughs. "He later found out he was wrong."

She turned to nursing, she explains, "because my family is basically in medicine. My older sister is a nurse, and I have another who's a doctor."

So Darlene became a nurse caring for open heart surgery patients.

When she was first identified as the Mouse Nurse or the Mickey Mouse Nurse, she wondered why.

Was her professionalism in question?

But she discovered that the titles were lovingly bestowed in recognition of her outgoing personality and the joyous sense of humor she brings to her work.

She's proud to have been a Mouseketeer, so she doesn't mind continuing references to her past, not even her husband's joke that, when she dies, her grave will be marked by two big, black ears.

"I'm not in the least homesick," Darlene says, when she's asked whether she misses Los Angeles and the excitement of show biz.

"I'd enjoy doing theater, but I wouldn't want to do it now because I wouldn't want to be away from my children (Lisa, 9, and David, 7) for any length of time.

"However, I do a lot of promotional things for The Mickey Mouse Club. I've done a college tour, and I recently did a 'PM Magazine' feature about Mickey Mouse.

"We Mouseketeers get together about once a year," Gillespie says, "and bring each other up to date about what we've been doing and show each other pictures of our children."

Darlene's own children are as pleased with her Mouseketeer past as she.

"After my daughter saw me on 'The Mickey Mouse Club'", Darlene reports, "she wouldn't call me, 'Mother'. She introduced me to people as 'Mouseketeer Darlene.'"

"I'm continually amazed by the ongoing interest in the club," she continues. "I was surprised and very honored when a group of teachers asked me to lecture about the Mickey Mouse Club.

"Here they were, teachers who teach our children, wanting me to talk to them.

"But that Mickey has always been a grabber!"

A more modern group of Mouseketeers was assembled for a television series which made its debut in 1977, but the show wasn't particularly successful for reasons Gillespie can't pinpoint.

"But," she says, "maybe the children were too professional, too sophisticated. When we were Mouseketeers, none of us were trying to be show-busy kids.

"Other kids went to camp. We went over to the Disney Studio and did what we did. We really had a good time.

George stars in 'Rachel'

ODESSA — The Globe of the Great Southwest will present Jeanette Clift George, star of World Wide Pictures' "The Hiding Place," in "Rachel, Woman of Masada" by Jewel Gibson Oct. 24, 25, 26, 31 and Nov. 1.

"Rachael, Woman of Masada" is a one woman show. Set in 73 A.D. on the eastern edge of the Judean Desert, the drama concerns a Jewish woman and her will to survive a suicide order. The focal theme of the play is the sanctity of life.

Mrs. George has performed off Broadway, toured with the New York Shakespeare Company, performed at the Playhouse in the Park in Philadelphia, the Arena Stage in Washington, the Grammerey Arts Theatre in New York and Theatre III in Dallas.

In 1975, Mrs. George made her film debut in "The Hiding Place." She played the part of Corrie ten Boom, the Dutch woman who saved the lives of many Jews in Holland during the Nazi occupation.

She currently resides in Houston where she is producing manager for the After Dinner Players, a Christian drama company which offers Bible-based plays for churches, schools and theaters.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens. Group rates are available for school, civic organizations and churches. For additional information contact the Globe at 1-332-1586.
