(By Associated Press.) TOKIO, July 30.—The toll of dead and missing in the terrific floods which have ravaged Niigata prefecture, on the west coast of the main island of Japan, was placed at 400 today, as numerous corps of relief workers entered the stricken district. Already disease is reported to have followed in the wake of the waters of the Shinano river, adding to the misery of the population. Seventy bodies have been recovered in the village of Toshi alone, this place having borne the brunt of the destruction. One thousand and five hundred houses were washed away here. In the whole flooded area about 8,000 houses were submerged while thousands of acres of rice were flooded and the crops destroyed.

Keyes Says He'll Answer Demand Of Aimee For Action

(By The Associated Press.) LOS ANGELES, July 30.—Aimee Semple McPherson's demand for a "show down" in the investigation of her disappearance case has been met. District Attorney J. A. Keyes said today the demand would be met in the form of the presentation of "new and startling" evidence before the grand jury convenes next Tuesday. Also the grand jury will be asked to consider whether any of the witnesses at the previous session, including the Los Angeles pastor, were guilty of perjury.

SAYS SHE WANTS VINDICATION OF FORMER HUSBAND

(By The Associated Press.) FT. WORTH, July 30.—Indictment of Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris for the slaying of D. E. Chipps, lumberman, is "the first act of vindication toward my dead husband," Mrs. D. E. Chipps, divorced wife of the lumberman, declared in a statement today. Mrs. Chipps has retained special prosecutors to aid the state in the trial of Dr. Norris. "This indictment establishes the fact that Mr. Chipps was unarmed and was killed without opportunity to defend himself," Mrs. Chipps declared. "I am hoping and praying for justice and earnestly desire that the facts may be presented to an honest jury. I will accept its verdict, knowing that any wrong that has been done will be righted so far as lies within its power."

Ravaged By Wind And Waves And Cut Off From The Outside World, Bahama Islands Mourn 150 Victims Of Storm

(By The Associated Press.) NASSAU, New Province Island Bahamas, July 30.—Ravaged by wind and waves and with more than 150 persons missing, the Bahama Islands remained virtually isolated from communication with the outside world today while anxious residents took further count of the toll of destruction from the worst hurricane in the recorded history of the islands. The majority of those missing are believed to have been drowned with the sponge fishing fleet which has not been seen since it set sail three days before the West Indian hurricane struck the islands Monday night. Several weeks must elapse before the official toll of death and shipping and property damage is known. While conservative estimates place the damage at $3,000,000, reports have not been received from several islands of the group and communication with them may not be established for days.

DRUG FIRM WILL RELINQUISH ITS FRONT LOCATION

800 SQUARE FEET TO BE ADDED TO FLOOR SPACE BY NEW ARRANGEMENT. The Lubbock Postoffice, long-suffering through lack of space to efficiently care for its volume of business, will move to the front shortly through the acquisition of approximately 800 square feet of space in the building it now occupies, according to Postmaster Jno. L. Vaughn. The space now occupied by the Postoffice Drug Co. will be the addition to the Postoffice floor space; and with the new equipment which may be placed with this addition, the office will be in first class shape for the rush of fall business; as the work will be completed by October 1st. An inspector has been assigned to the job of re-arranging the fixtures and of making the necessary changes in the building. While the exact plans are not yet decided upon, Mr. Vaughn states that what is now the entrance to the lobby will be turned into the Postoffice lobby; and that the offices of Postmaster and Assistant Postmaster, with the finance department, will be moved into the front of the building, where the Drug Store is located now. The General delivery windows will be placed where the Postmaster's office is now; and the said lobby will be brought forward on the line of the row of boxes nearest the door, thus shifting the whole northwestern corner of the office to the front of the building, and giving it more space.

Architect Called In

According to the owners of the building, an architect will be given the job of inspecting the building, and if changes are necessary, they will be made in order that the building will be absolutely safe, and the danger of further accidents eliminated. With the force of the small-room being put on a more efficient basis under W. T. Jones, superintendent of mails, and this additional space, the Lubbock Postoffice will be able to handle even the Christmas rush without undue congestion, Mr. Vaughn stated.

"Big Bill" Will Get His Bride Back Now

AUSTIN, July 30. (AP)—"Big Bill" Kuykendall, wealthy young ranchman and last year's star on the San Marcos Bob Cats football eleven, is going to get his bride back, even though he was told that she flew away to New Orleans in an airplane and was headed for the Panama Canal zone. Kuykendall filed charges here late Thursday against Will Hamlett, his bride's brother, and Mrs. John Ferguson, her sister, wife of an army captain, charging them with kidnaping his 15 year old bride, whom he had married a week ago. When Hamlett and Mrs. Ferguson were arrested Allice sent the following message to Big Bill: "We are found here in New Orleans. We'll be back to you to stay if you will withdraw the charges you filed, Allice."

The Woman's Daily Editorial

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Why did I take a sudden notion for society?" repeated one of two women who had met and were lunching at the "Piedmont." Both had migrated into New York for a day's shopping and the cool dining room, after the torrid streets and shops, was relaxing and conducive to confidences.

"Yes, I should love to know," said her sister-in-law. "If you do not consider my question impertinent or impudic, a year ago you would not have pulled you into town on a day like this to make arrangements for a week-end party at your summer home. You always prided yourself on 'hibernating' in the summer, as you called it, and retired to 'The Cloister' for rest and peace."

"The first woman smiled wistfully. 'Yes, it was heavenly to be alone with the children and do as I liked. But I'll tell you, my dear, why I changed, why I went in for society, as you say, and why it is that I come to New York on a day like this to arrange for week-end guests and a party. I'm pulling myself up by the garters."

"'You—what?' exclaimed the other. "'You—what?' That's what I said. I found this. I was hibernating both winter and summer. My husband had become a big man, not only successful in business, but he had kept himself up in every way as well. People, politics, everything interested him. And I had remained behind. He was a good place and I wasn't. I was more than satisfied. I wanted to stay at home, and be comfortable."

"But I wake up before it was too late. I started to read and joined some club, and I also invited up-and-coming-to-date people to the house. I am going to be a companion for my husband from now on and not a hand-icap. He's a different person to me already. He seems to be saying with his eyes these days, 'is it really you?'"

"The other woman reached over and patted her hand. "You have my respect and sympathy," she said. "It's just one more thing expected of a woman."

Miss Kathryn Allen Complimented With Bridge Party

Commenting her sister, Miss Kathryn Allen, of Honey Grove, Mrs. Homer Grant entertained at bridge Thursday afternoon at her home, 2313 Main Street. A profusion of summer flowers made the rooms of the home very attractive for the games. Mrs. Roscoe Wilson received high score favor, a French novelty pin, Mrs. Kenneth Kimbro received low score favor, a box of old English lavender dusting powder. The guests favor was a piece of Gonda pottery. An ice course was served.

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST: Red raspberries with uncooked cereal and thin cream, plain omelet, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: New peas and potatoes, sliced tomatoes, whole wheat bread, strawberry preserves, milk, tea.

DINNER: Stuffed mutton chops, creamed cauliflower, string bean salad, mashed sweet green apple sauce, ginger bread, milk, coffee.

If you find it necessary to "stretch" the peas, try the following recipe and you'll decide it's very much worth while and you'll use the dish even if the peas don't need eking out.

Children under six years of age may have the juice of red raspberries but should not be allowed to eat the whole berry on account of the seeds.

New Peas and Potatoes: Two cups shelled peas, 1 cup diced new potatoes, 1-3 cup minced onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon brown sugar, 1 tablespoon minced mint leaves (optional), 1/2 teaspoon flour.

Melt butter, add onion and cook over a low fire until a pale straw color. Mix sugar and flour thoroughly and sprinkle over onion. Stir with a fork until perfectly blended and add potatoes and peas and mint leaves if convenient. Add boiling water to cover and bring to the boiling point. Cover sauce pan and cook over a low fire for thirty minutes. Keep the water "moving" but not boiling hard. Turn into a hot vegetable dish and serve. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

A WOMAN'S DAY ABROAD

By ALLENE SUMNER

PARIS, France, July 30.—Five post cards cost me as much today as my hotel room, which is right in the shadow of the Eiffel tower, with the bright green of the Champs de Mars spreading before us.

An American magazine costing ten cents at home cost me more today than my entire day's expenses, including room, three meals, one five-course dinner, trips through several galleries, and buses and trams and subways and taxis galore.

We rode from one end of Paris to the other in a taxi for about 18 cents, including tips.

This is the state of contradiction in which Parisian prices exist. Food and lodging, if procured in a real French section, and not in the tourist center, are but a few cents a day.

But post cards, street maps, and all the usual tourist purchases are enough higher in proportion to amount to more than the very necessities of life.

I shall stress, perhaps too materialistically, expenses throughout Europe believing that more people would come than do, if they realized that in France at least, one can pay steamboat passage and live so much better and so much more cheaply than at home that the trip costs nothing at all.

The franc has continued at the rate of about 35 to the dollar during our stay here. That means that each franc is less than three cents each.

Our room costs us 10 francs a day, or less than 35 cents. It is a garden room looking upon rows of snapdragons and rose trees, with the sweetest-scented birds in the world humming in quaint little bird roosts.

It is an old, old house, dating back to revolutionary days, a house of winding stairways, huge gilt mirrors of the Empire era, crumpled beds, sidered feather beds for comfort, but modernized with running water, electric lights, and telephone.

Our extravagant expenditure of 50 cents a day includes the polishing of shoes and the teaching of the language by a pretty little man who sings chansons of Provence like a Melba.

In pity for our ignorance of the language she writes our laundry lists and pays the taxi drivers who, she assures us, would charge us nine cents when it should be but seven. If she did not protect us.

Every morning she brings us a breakfast tray gay with some dew-dropped flowers, plucked from the garden, two steaming cups of chocolate, such as ambrosia must have been, two croissants which, being interpreted, are two crispy rolls of doughnut build, and, in deference to the queerness of Americans, two decorated pats of sweet butter.

Mam'selle was a bit worried at our plan for breakfast fruit and tried to tell us tactfully that such goings-on were not done in Paris. But she soon came to realize a number of changes or two unexpected bananas, or oranges or perhaps a saucer of strawberries as big as plums, to the tray.

Regrettably, she told us that such a breakfast must cost us three francs each, or about nine cents.

We pay extra, too, for a bath, four francs, or 32 cents, but what a rite it is!

The hour of said ablution is carefully established. Mam'selle rings at the appointed hour. We retire across a courtyard white in the moonlight and fragrant with all the buds of June, and so into the salle de bain, a remnant of Empire days when tubs of inlaid porcelain were placed in such rooms and filled with perfumed waters.

Mam'selle has filled the tub to the top and warmed our towels. She leans us with a deep obeisance and wishes us that the bath adventure will be well. Four francs should not be spent for an unsatisfactory ablution.

The sacred rite is aided by full length mirrors elaborately framed in gold. There is no slightest excuse for any trace of lather left, any streak of grime upon the epidermis.

Mam'selle advises us to journey to the public baths where rooms are larger and whole families can bathe together in domestic concord, their eternal cackling not stopped by solitude in the bath.

MISS MINNIE LEE WILLIAMS was able to return to her home in Hermligh today after spending several days here in a local sanitarium.

ANGELO POLICE CHIEF REMOVED

Willis M. Barbee, Formerly a Ranger, Quits After Stormy Regime As Officer

(By Associated Press.)

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 30.—Willis M. Barbee, San Angelo police chief since May, 1924, was out of office today, following acceptance of his resignation effective September 1, by E. Y. Spence, city manager, who granted a leave of absence and relieved Barbee from duty. Barbee, former Texas ranger and an officer almost for eight years, had a stormy administration. He was sued in two cases for damages totaling $27,500, false arrest and imprisonment and assault being charged. M. A. Sweetman, seeking $15,000, obtained a judgment for $290, and the case of W. M. F. Young, is pending. C. C. Hawley, member of the force, was acquitted on two charges and was convicted of false arrest on the third, offering no defense in order to test the search and seizure law. Recently William Stevenson, another police man, was convicted of aggravated assault and was fined $100. An appeal is pending.

Barbee said he resigned because he could not "get along" with City Manager Spence, adding that it appeared "the people don't want the law enforced." City officials made no comment, the city commission approving Spence's action.

Mexican Arms Case Put Before Coolidge

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—Removal of the embargo which forbids shipments of arms into Mexico is under consideration here, and President Coolidge will be asked to decide whether such a step shall be taken.

There are indications that some time may elapse before a decision is made. Meantime the state department refuses to disclose its views on the subject. Extreme caution has resulted from the fact that removal of the restrictions has come up for decision at a time when the situation in Mexico is perhaps as tense as when the embargo was proclaimed in 1924, and now is complicated by religious issues between government and churches of the country.

Who Was Swedenborg?

Emanuel Swedenborg, the son of a bishop, was the great Swedish scientist, philosopher and theologian, whose vast range caused Emerson to term him the madman of scholars. Dr. Farley Colman recently named him the Universal Genius. Officially connected, by appointment of the King, with the great mining industry of Sweden, he mastered all the sciences of his time, and wrote the most useful books on metallurgy, minerals, geology, astronomy, and the human brain. His life's search was for the human soul. How his spiritual senses were opened, after he was 50 years of age, that he might read the human soul, the life after death, and the Bible itself, may be read in the above named, uplifting, useful books.

NO DECISION ON DEMPSEY-TUNNEY GO SAYS PHELAN

HE'LL FINISH TRAINING HIS FIGHTERS FIRST, COLONEL SAYS

NEW YORK, July 29. (P)—Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, insisting that they want to do battle for the heavyweight boxing championship, must await the pleasure of one who is training a regiment of men for any big fight that may come along.

Colonel John L. Phelan, upon whom hinges the heavyweight situation at the present time, as chairman of the license committee of the New York State Athletic commission, is too busy preparing men for war to take any action in regard to a mere boxing match.

Tunney Visits Colonel
Tunney, a veteran of France himself, visited the colonel at his campment of the National Guard at Peekskill, N. Y., yesterday and made known his plans to obtain if possible a license to fight Dempsey.

PECKINPAUGH IS ON BLOCK AGAIN; YANKS MAKE BID

"THE GREAT RAJAH" WILL BE TRADED BY BUCKY HARRIS' CLUB

(By the Associated Press)
Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran shortstop of the Washington Senators, who has also played with Cleveland, Boston and New York in the American League, again is sought by the Yankees.

Why the Yankees now seek Peck is a mystery, for the team, with Mark Koenig at shortstop, yesterday won its eighth straight contest by beating St. Louis for the third successive time, 10 to 7. Koenig fielded faultlessly.

Yanks Win Again
Thirteen singles and a home run by Gehrig gave the New Yorkers yesterday's game. Rice of the Browns also hit a homer.

Cleveland took its third straight from the Athletics, 3 to 2. Buckeye and Miller pitching stoutly after the first inning. Barbee, a Philadelphia recruit from the Piedmont League, tripled in the first, his bow to major league ball.

Senators Win
Washington required 11 innings to stop the White Sox, 7 to 3. Blankenship of Chicago suffering a broken thumb on his right hand in an attempt to cut down a smash from Myers' bat. The Senators made a four-run rally in the eleventh for the verdict.

Boston out hit Detroit but lost the decision, 6 to 5, the Tigers bunting their blows in two innings. Harry Heilmann hit a homer and a double.

Matsuda, King Of Welter Grapplers, Visits In Lubbock

"Matty" Matsuda, of El Paso, welterweight champion of the wrestlers of the world, was in Lubbock yesterday for a short visit with his friend Harry Meyers. The grappling king, who has held his title since 1915, was enroute to Amarillo where he will watch Dutch McGill, his most recent rival for welterweight honors, go through a performance with an opponent tonight.

Last season Lazzari hit 355 for Salt Lake, dove in the amazing total of 222 runs and set a home-run record with 69.

New York gave $50,000 and five players for Lazzari, practically $75,000, and he is worth every cent of it and then some.

And Lazzari, by the way, assisted by Oscar Mellillo of St. Louis, has aroused new interest in baseball among the fans of Italian blood.

Mellillo is the recruit whose fine work, once he struck his stride, has done much to round out the St. Louis Browns, now playing pennant-winning baseball.

It is true Harry Vardon smokes all the time—he is playing golf?
Well he has had some mighty hot rounds.

Glenna Collett Is Winner of Trophy

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 29. (P)—Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., National women's golf champion, today won the Griswold trophy from Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., by one up, after a terrific uphill battle.

Billy Evans Says

"Push 'em up Tony!"
That is the favorite expression of New York fandom at present.

It closely rivals what has been the college yell of the Yankee supporters for years.

TONY LAZZERI

"Bust one Babe!"
For Tony Lazzari, playing his first year under the big tent, is already an established favorite in New York.

Lazzari in colorful. He has an easy, graceful style in the field, is fast, and at the bat takes a healthy cut at the ball that gets great distance when he connects.

Tony, however, is not strong on strategy. He is a tough guy to interview.

"You play baseball with your head, hands and feet, not your mouth," is Tony's favorite expression when some scribe tries to get him to talk about himself.

While Tony is very appreciative of all the kind words that have been said about him, he much prefers the newspaper men to draw on their own imagination for copy rather than talk about himself.

Lazzari came to the Yankees as a shortstop. He looked rather awkward, a trifle out of place in the spring when shifted to second base. There was much skepticism as to whether he would deliver.

Since being assigned to second he has improved his play with each game, already looks the part of the finished ball player and is certain to be one of the best men that has ever played that position in the majors.

Recently he was shifted to shortstop when Mark Koenig slumped in his work. He has performed brilliantly at his old position.

That it pays to gamble in baseball is proved by the case of Lazzari. When the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast League put a price of $75,000 on Lazzari, New York was the only club interested.

The reason: Serious doubt as to Tony's ability to hit major league pitching. The case of Paul Strand, who cost Mack $100,000, only to "flivver," was fresh in the minds of the magnates.

The consensus of opinion was that the rarified air of Salt Lake was responsible for Strand's average. Since Lazzari had won fame under the same conditions he was placed in Strand's class.

Last season Lazzari hit 355 for Salt Lake, dove in the amazing total of 222 runs and set a home-run record with 69.

New York gave $50,000 and five players for Lazzari, practically $75,000, and he is worth every cent of it and then some.

And Lazzari, by the way, assisted by Oscar Mellillo of St. Louis, has aroused new interest in baseball among the fans of Italian blood.

DIAMOND DISPUTES DECIDED

By BILLY EVANS
Can any substitute player be removed at the discretion of the manager of his team?

Yes, with the exception of a pitcher who has been substituted.

Batters and fielders other than a pitcher, can be shifted at will.

When a substitute pitcher is sent to the box, he cannot be removed until he has pitched to a batsman, who has either been retired or reached first.

In all other cases of substitution, the player entering the game takes the place of the player for whom he is substituting.

PAIR OF TEXAS PREPPERS SIGN WITH MAJORS

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, July 30.—Seldom do players in their high school days show sufficient promise to be signed by big league scouts for tryouts with major league clubs, but two members of the Waxahachie high school team will report to major league clubs this summer.

Paul Richards, star third baseman, and Audrey Adair, brilliant shortstop, are the lads. Richards has accepted terms with the Brooklyn Robins and Adair will play with the Chicago Cubs.

ADVICE TO THE GOLF-LORN

Do you think there is a good future in amateur golf?
Yes, but be careful not to accept any checks.

Is concentration essential to success in golf?
Not nearly so much as conversation.

Do you lose a stroke if you fail to replace divots?
No, but you are liable to lose an ear if the chairman of the greens committee sees you.

Is it true that constant practice will make any golf player a champion?
This is debatable. It is known, however, that constant practice has made an angel out of many a burn corsetist.

What is the easiest stroke in golf?
The one you forgot to count.

Is it good judgment to use a putter in a sand trap?
Yes, but it's always bad judgment to get in a sand trap to begin with.

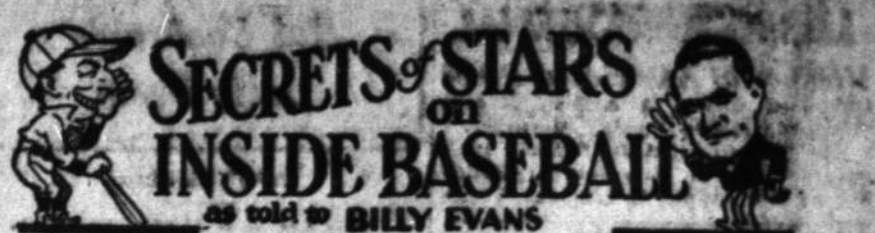

What is good for a hook?
A worm.

Is the Vardon grip better than the overlapping grip and why?
This is debatable. It is known, no matter what kind of a grip you use, the bottles will create a bulging, suspicious appearance anyway.

In a mixed twosome is it customary for the man to swing first or the lady?
Must you rowdies ALWAYS fight?

What is the best thing to do after slicing seven balls out of bounds off the first tee?
Give the caddy your automatic and tell him to blaze away.

How did the dead stymie originate?
This is a long story. It seems that there were two Irishmen and they were attending a scientific debate on the home life of the stuffed mango when suddenly a cannon roared down the river front. There was consternation everywhere. That is to say there was consternation. PRACTICALLY everywhere. No one is foolish enough to believe that the roar of one cannon down by the river front is going to cause consternation EVERYWHERE. It simply is not being done my dear, and the sooner you concede the point the quicker we can get around to this stymie matter, which may be any year now.

BY WALTER JOHNSON
World's Greatest Pitcher
Few pitchers achieve great success once that fast ball delivered with a strong arm.

A good arm is nature's greatest gift and the smart pitcher nurses it along. Use intelligence in your work.

I am often asked which ball I find easiest on the arm. It is my experience that a fast ball delivered with a natural motion, minus any hitch, exacts the least toll on the arm.

The curve ball is the hardest. A certain snap of the wrist is necessary to get the best results and that style of pitching places a severe tension on the arm and takes much out of it.

A change of pace is most necessary to the modern pitcher. He must be able to mix up his stuff.

Like control, a change of pace can be acquired. Throwing a slow ball is far more difficult for some pitchers than others. And, after all, control is most essential to the success of the slow ball. It is worthless, otherwise.

The low ball to be effective must be delivered with exactly the same motion as the fast one. Any change in the style of the delivery immediately tips the batsman off to what he may expect.

Don't ease up on any batter in a pinch no matter how poor his reputation. Usually the weak hitters come through in such a situation.

Left-handed batters bother me more than right handers. I find that most left handers mix their style better. The extra step in the direction of first gives them a decided advantage when bunting or trying to drag the ball.

On the whole, the left handers seem to play more baseball than the right handers, which worries the pitcher all the more.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—With nearly everybody else, of consequence at the seasons, in the mountains or taking life easily in some other cool spot, I find Washington a desirable place in which to work during the mid-summer months.

Green looks the part of a president of the A. F. of L. He looks it even more than Samuel Gompers did. Gompers looked like a great man—a statesman. He lacked stature, but there was power in his face, and genius.

Gompers obviously was conscious of his greatness. It wasn't conceit. He was intellectually a way above that. He appraised himself, however, at what he was worth. You knew, in conversation with him, that you were talking to a potentate.

WHEN A BALL PLAYER MAKES A BUM SLIDE, HE'S DOWN AND OUT.

THE VANITY CASE

BY CAROLYN WELLS COPYRIGHT 1926 N.E.A.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In Harbor Gardens, Long Island, in an elaborate bungalow, lived PERRY HEATH and his wife, MYRA.

LAWRENCE INMAN, a distant relative of Myra's and, aside from Perry, the only heir to her considerable fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, young, vivacious, golden-haired, old friend of Myra's.

Myra Heath was a peculiar woman. She was cold, sarcastic. She did not love her husband, but seemed enamored of Inman. She never used cosmetics or dressed in colors.

There is a growing intimacy between Perry Heath and Bunny. Myra becoming provoked, declares that she has made her will in favor of Inman, cutting Perry off.

That night, after Bunny and Inman retire, Myra Heath alludes mysteriously to Perry's "secret."

The next morning, Mrs. Prentiss, who lives next door, was telling her nephew, Todhunter Buck, of some mysterious lights she had seen the night before in the Heath bungalow.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

"Let's rush over!" Toddy cried, putting one leg over the porch railing.

"No, no," his aunt restrained him. "We can't do that. Harbor Gardens people are conventional and reserved. Wait until we hear more."

The shriek had come from Katie, the Heaths' parlor maid.

This capable and efficient young woman was in the habit of coming downstairs at eight o'clock every morning. It was Katie's duty to open windows and straighten things generally in the rooms and on the porches.

She had overstepped a trifle this morning, for she had been out late,—indeed, she had come home from her evening out far later than the prescribed hour.

That she came downstairs, trim and neat in her smart morning uniform, and set diligently to work with her brush and duster.

The house in order, she proceeded to the studio, and it was the sight that met her eyes there, that brought forth the wild screams of terror that the neighbors heard.

For there, in the middle of the floor, lay Myra Heath with a candle burning at her head and another at her feet.

Katie looked twice to be sure that it was her mistress, so strange and so changed was the face that she saw.

Then, her hands over her eyes, she stumbled her way back to the kitchen and fell into a chair there.

"What's the matter, Katie?" Cook said, curiously, and the butler came from the dining room to listen.

"Oh, Mrs. Pierce, oh, Herrick,—it's the misses,—she's—oh, I do believe she's dead!"

"Dead! Watcha talking about?" and Mrs. Pierce, the cook, stared at the excited girl.

"She is—she is! Just you go and look—in the stujo,—on the floor—"

But Mrs. Pierce, and Herrick, the butler, had already rushed through to the studio.

"For the love of the saints!" exclaimed Mrs. Pierce, "and the candles burning and all!"

"It ain't Mrs. Heath—" Herrick said, greatly puzzled.

"Sure it's Mrs. Heath! But just look at her! What- ever has she been a doin' to herself?"

For it was a strange Myra Heath they saw.

Instead of her usually pale face and colorless lips, they saw a scarlet mouth, of exquisite shape; cheeks delicately rosy, with beautiful effect; eyebrows finely pencilled and showing their true arch; and a hint of color at the roots of the hair.

"Don't stand there like a ninny, Pierce!" the butler cried out. "We must tell somebody—we must call Mr. Heath—"

"Of course,—of course,—" responded the flustered woman. "You go and tell him, Herrick. You're the one to go."

So, slowly, Herrick turned away from the terrible fascinating sight and slowly climbed the stairs.

He knocked at Perry Heath's door but heard no response. Repeated knocks brought no word from within, and so Herrick gently pushed open the door.

There was no one there, and the bed had obviously not been slept in.

This was amazing, and Herrick's legs trembled under him.

Nonplussed, and uncertain what to do next, the butler hesitated, and then went along the hall to Lawrence Inman's room, and knocked there.

"Who is it? What's the matter?" Inman called, and Herrick heard him jump out of bed and open the door.

Inman faced the man with a look of surprise, for guests were not called of a morning in this house.

"If you please, sir," Herrick began, "there's—there's trouble below."

"Trouble below?" Larry rubbed his eyes. "What do you mean? Speak out, man."

"Well, sir, Mr. Heath, sir, he ain't in his room."

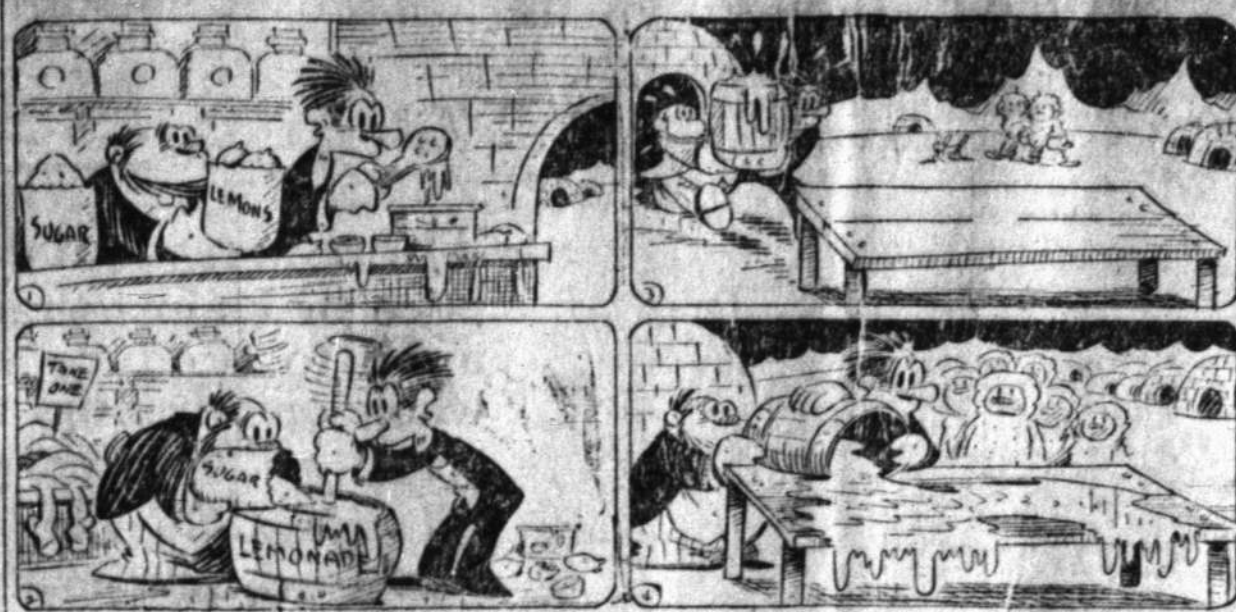

"Where is he?"

"I don't know sir. And Mrs. Heath, she's—she's dead, I think."

"What! Herrick, what are you talking about? You been drinking?"

BURIED GOLD IS STIRRING GHOST OF PIRATE BOSS

AND SEARCH GOES ON TO LOCATE TREASURE OF CAPTAIN KIDD

By NEA Service.
HALIFAX, N. S., July 29.—The ghost of Mahone Bay—bay of doubtless, it might be called—are prowling every night now with a frightful rattling of cutlasses.

Their phantom galley—so say the folk roundabout—circles Oak Island, while the mistletoe crew swear green, some oaths and mutter old tales of rapine and bloodshed.

For the gold hunters have come once more to Oak Island. The peaceful sanctuary, four miles off the Nova Scotia coast of Chester and only 40 miles from here, is to be the scene of mighty engineering operations. The reason is buried treasure, apparently of surpassing richness.

$200,000 Already Spent

The mysterious cache of what Ralph D. Paine called "the true treasure story, par excellence of the whole Atlantic coast" is to be uncovered. At least the attempt is to be renewed this summer. But so many attempts have been made for the last 131 years! More than $200,000 has been spent already and the only result is tantalizing clues—and bafflement.

The present venture is under the leadership of Col. Weston of Chester, a retired capitalist whose business acumen is colored by a taste for adventure.

Captain Kidd, of course, is credited with hiding it. Yet if that maligned pirate ever had foot enough to justify such a strong box, it is certain that he never had the men nor the time to construct it.

The presence of the treasure was first discovered in 1719. Three young men were canoeing in Mahone Bay one midsummer day and, landing on Oak Island, stumbled on the clearing with the single great oak in the middle. Its bark was marked with curious figures, and there was a circular sink hole in the turf underneath, 13 feet across. They saw from the mighty branch overhead that once upon a time something heavy had been swung from it as from a derrick.

Found Oak Lids

They began to dig and at 10 feet below the surface came to a heavy oak platform. They pried it up and went down another 10 feet when they came to another layer of oak. They reached still a third platform when they were 30 feet down. Then they found the labor too much for them and looked about for help.

Few persons were then living in the neighborhood and these few couldn't be paid even to approach the spot. It had been "haunted," they said, with the memory of man. Belief in the spectral ship and its alibi around the ghostly camp fires at night protected the gold with terrible efficiency. The three lads had finally to give it up.

Some years later a physician from Truro heard the story, raised capital and set a body of workmen to digging. They went down to 95 feet. A layer of oak plank was encountered every 10 feet.

At 90 feet a long flat stone was unearthed bearing an inscription which was deciphered to read: "The treasure worth two million pounds lie buried." Digging was suspended over Sunday and in Monday morning the crew returned to find the pit filled with water nearly to the top.

The builders of the hiding place, it was discovered too late, had led in an elaborate system of drain pipes from the high tide level of the bay. It was an ingenious scheme which worked perfectly—blockading the treasure seekers five feet short of the promised goal.

It was then that drilling was resorted to. A hundred feet below the surface, the auger chewed through layers of oak which were assumed to be chests. Then regularly the point would drop "through 22 inches of metal in pieces" then more oak, then more "metal in pieces" as before. The supposed chests were found to be piled six feet deep and over a circular area a dozen feet across.

Since those explorations other costly failures have been made. It has been proposed even to dam off the bay and so defeat the drain pipes. But the pirate secret remains safe in the guardianship of the tides and the tenacious earth.

LUBBOCK - IDALOU HIGHWAY BACKED BY LOCAL B. C. & D.

ROUTE BETWEEN CITY AND IDALOU CHOSEN WHEN DIRECTORS MEET

The Board of City Development, at its meeting yesterday, stated that it would back to the limit the Highway committee on its project of the Lubbock-Idalou Highway, representatives of the Board told the Journal today.

A vote of thanks was given the committee, of which W. K. Dickinson is chairman, for their work thus far.

The project under consideration is the building of a new highway into Idalou, shortening the distance and avoiding some of the bakes and bogholes which the present highway passes through, and at the same time attaining the double purpose of using a part of the old highway and of bringing the route into Lubbock by way of East Broadway.

The latter issue is the one most important, in that it moves has been on foot to have the highway follow the railroad from Idalou all the way into Lubbock, which would bring it into Lubbock from the north, intersecting the Plainview highway some distance out from the city. This move would be most disastrous for Lubbock, since it would practically exclude Lubbock from the highway route, from east Texas into points north of here.

The highway committee proposes a route which would follow the railroad some eight or nine miles west from Idalou and diverge there running southwest to the Experiment farm, and into Broadway by the present route. This would bring tourists, as well as others, into Lubbock, by the County Park, the Fair grounds, and onto the pavement directly by the Court House. This route would be as short as the other, and would naturally be of more benefit to Lubbock than the northern route would. The Board of City Development is for the southern route "tooth and nail," and has pledged itself to work with the committee to achieve this result.

WILDCATTERS PROTECTED

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—The board of tax appeals today held that money invested in oil lease "wild cat" territory, which became worthless during the taxable year as the result of the sinking of dry wells, is deductible as losses from gross income.

RAIL APPLICATION

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—The Weatherford, Mineral Wells, and Northwestern railway of Texas applied to the interstate commerce commission today for authority to issue $75,000 of equipment trust certificates. The proceeds would be used to partially pay for 200 furniture freight cars.

DONORS TO GOP CHICAGO FUNDS ARE GIVEN OUT

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 29.—Allen F. Moore, campaign manager for Frank L. Smith, successful candidate in the Illinois senatorial primary, decided today to furnish the senate campaign funds committee names of all contributors to the Smith political fund.

Moore disclosed that Clement Studebaker, of South Bend, Ind., had contributed $20,000 and former Representative Ira C. Copley of Aurora, Ill., had given $25,000 in two installments.

Other contributors included Daniel Schuyler, Chicago attorney, $2,500; Eugene plies $1,000. Judge Stransky of Chicago $500, and Nick Kaschovis, on behalf of Greek merchants of Chicago, $1,000.

The Smith manager said that Studebaker met him in the Congress Hotel here on the occasion of the Indiana dinner last winter, and had stated that he was very much interested in his friend Frank L. Smith.

"He asked me to call at his office which I did and he gave $10,000. Later he gave another $10,000," Moore said.

In making known his decision to give the names of the contributors, Moore said that some of the men for "social, political and business reasons," had requested him not to reveal the contributions.

HORN RETURNS FROM JOURNEY

Tech Proxy and Family Back After Auto Tour of Much Of Lone Star State

Dr. Paul W. Horn, with Mrs. Horn and Miss Ruth Horn and Orval Burroughs, returned this morning from an automobile trip to Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and Houston. While in that part of the state, Dr. Horn was in consultation with Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth and with other regents of the college in regard to affairs of the Tech.

Dr. Horn stated that he found a great deal of interest being taken in the college in every part of the state where he visited, and that student representation will be had this year from every section of Texas. Quite a number of people in Dallas, especially, announced their intention of patronizing the school. Although the Tech is only a year old, Dr. Horn met former students in each of the cities where he stopped.

Cotton Looks Good. The cotton south of here is noticeably heavier and taller than it is on the Plains, he stated, but there are not so many blooms, and does not appear to be doing so well as the cotton in our own vicinity; but in general the country is optimistic as regards prospects for the crop of this year.

The party left Dallas yesterday morning, spending the night in Spur. A heavy rain fell in that city last night which was between two and three inches, but no trouble was experienced with his Sunday school class Sunday morning.

Dr. Horn stated that he would be in driving in.

KLANSMEN TO MEET WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP)—The third biennial convention of the Ku Klux Klan will be held in Washington September 13, 14 and 15, the Washington convention bureau announced today.

BOYCOTT TO CAUSE SLUMP. The boycott contemplates that all Catholics and persons opposed to the government's present religious policy as well, shall cease spending money for anything except absolute necessities. The league hopes by the boycott to effect an economic slump which will be sufficiently embarrassing to the government to cause it to modify its policy.

Three successive sets of directors of the league have been arrested, charged with inciting the people to acts of disorder.

The regional confederation of labor declares it will fight on the government side, against the proposed economic boycott, which it thinks it can render inoperative.

Parades Are Planned. The confederation of labor and socialist members of congress and other political groups and government employees have planned big parades for Sunday in Mexico City and other cities as a demonstration of their support of the government. All vehicular traffic will be suspended in the capital during the parades.

Catholics have been instructed by the church authorities not to stage counter-demonstrations, but instead, to assemble in church for prayer.

Attorney General Ortega has issued a private warning to the directors of the foremost newspapers of the capital to be cautious in their treatment of news regarding the religious situation.

MISS HATTIE MOUNTS AND Adelaide Slaton have returned to their homes in Hale Center. They accompanied Miss Edna Sims to Lubbock after she had visited there the first part of the week.

Hats Off!

Today our hat is off to Henry Ford, because...

He has accomplished the lion's share in the motorization of America. His product has brought pleasure to millions of people, incalculable benefit to business, great and small, and employment to many thousands of workers.

He is an American, imbued with only the sturdiest of American ideals. He is the richest man in the nation. He is 62 years old today.

Catholics Throughout Mexico Are Offering Prayers For Last Time In Effort To Stave Off Final Decree

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—Catholics throughout Mexico today offered up devotions for the last time under the leadership of their priests before the government's new religious regulations go into effect tomorrow.

Under instructions from Arch Bishop Mera Y Deo Rio, priests will withdraw from the churches tomorrow in protest against the government's religious measures. The withdrawal was originally planned for Sunday.

President Calles in a speech last night declared that the hour was approaching for a final fight to determine the triumph of revolution or reaction. The struggle was between light and darkness, and the government would win, he said.

Catholics Disarmed. All Catholics in the country are to be disarmed in accordance with an order issued by Attorney General Ortega. Senior Ortega said this move was a consequence of reports that Catholic groups were meeting secretly at night and that the authorities were fearful the gatherings were for the purpose of offering opposition to the religious laws.

After more than a fortnight of attendance upon masses, the faithful in today crowded churches, cathedrals and shrines throughout the republic. It was feared that when the services and at 10 o'clock tonight there were thousands who had gathered.

able to enter the churches and shrines to worship for the last time in the presence of priests.

Laymen To Take Charge. When the priests withdraw they will turn over the churches to lay committees. The government has announced that it will not permit lay committees to take over the churches and has ordered the mayor of each town to name his own committee for that purpose. The priests' committee, however, will endeavor to negotiate with the municipal authorities in an effort to reach a compromise on the personnel of each committee. A report from Vera Cruz says the mayors have been instructed to use federal troops if necessary to preserve order when the mayors' committees take over the churches.

Church authorities have instructed all Catholics to continue attending church, and to pray for a satisfactory settlement of the situation.

New Regulations Explained. The new regulations provide that only clergy of Mexican citizenship may officiate at religious services; that all church property be confiscated on the ground that it has been held by churches unlawfully for 50 years. Religious instruction in schools is prohibited. Sectarian publications are forbidden to comment on or carry news on national political affairs.

The league for defense of religious freedom has announced that it will offer a private warning to the directors of the foremost newspapers of the capital to be cautious in their treatment of news regarding the religious situation.

MISS HATTIE MOUNTS AND Adelaide Slaton have returned to their homes in Hale Center. They accompanied Miss Edna Sims to Lubbock after she had visited there the first part of the week.
