Raiders' Late Attack Fails To Turn Tide

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

KIDD FIELD, El Paso, Jan. 1 — By the slim margin of one extra point kick by Robert Speelman early in the fourth period, the Red Raiders of Texas Tech went down to another bowl defeat on this sunny afternoon in the Sun Bowl, this time at the hands of a confident, alert Miami University football squad from Oxford, Ohio, by a score of 13 to 12.

Tech fought grimly, roaring back from a first quarter deficit of six points to tie the count shortly before the half and coming back to bring the score down to 13 to 12 early in the final stanza. But the Raiders lacked the offensive punch to take the play away from Miami, a team that dominated play throughout the game.

Bitter Setback For Tech

It was a bitter defeat for the Raiders, who were as unable to shake the bowl defeat stigma as Lil' Abner can escape the atomic rubbish hanging over Dogpatch. The line was outcharged. Freddie Brown was out-passed, and the Raiders didn't rise to the heights as they did in the Hardin-Simmons game.

Miami opened the scoring in the first quarter on a march that covered 70 yards, in nine plays. Tech kicked off and after Miami and Tech each had failed to make yardage, Brown punted to Paul Shoults on the Miami 20, the Miami halfback returning to the 30. Ara Parseghian threw an incomplete running pass, but Mel Olix connected with right end Weber on the Miami 46 for a first down. One pass and five line plays later, Parseghian dove over the line for the score.

Pursel Blocks Kick

Speelman's kick was blocked by Guard Dan Pursel, who broke through to smother the ball.

Miami continued to carry the scoring threat in the quarter, driving down to Tech's three-yard line. Then, on two consecutive touchdown plays, penalties annulled the scores and a long end run failed to gain the yardage.

Miami got another break early in the second quarter, when John North's punt missed going out of bounds on the Tech 35, the ball taking a queer roll and stopping dead on the Tech 3. The Raiders then began a march that stalled on the Miami 33 and Zac Henderson booted out on the Miami 14.

Tech Defensive Clicks

The Techsans held Miami at this point and North got off a beautiful kick that Cal Steveson gathered in on the Tech 40 and, behind almost perfect interference, returned to the Miami 27. Tech drew a five-yard too-much-time penalty, but Brown passed to End Bill Kelley on the Miami 25 and Bud Conley went around his own left end for eight yards for a first down on the Miami 8.

Steveson took a hand-off from Brown and drove forward to the Ohioans' three-yard marker, and on the next play Conley drove over center for the score. Ralph Earhart's attempted kick was just wide of the uprights.

Miami kept Tech in a hole al-

Marshall Plan Faces Delay

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 — Congressional action on the Marshall Plan may be delayed two months beyond the administration's April 1 deadline, Rep. Eaton (R-NJ), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, predicted today.

"I wouldn't set any date," Eaton told reporters. "But if we get it through by June 1 we'll be fortunate."

And he made it clear that he was not speaking of passing the plan in exactly the pattern cut by the administration, but as it finally evolves after careful hearings and any necessary revisions.

HST To Make Talk

Eaton said he did not even intend to follow the practice of introducing the administration's Marshall Plan bill to get it formally before his committee.

"This is the most important legislation that has come before the House, in my judgment, in my time," he said. "It cannot be treated in a perfunctory, routine manner."

President Truman is expected to appeal to Congress in his forthcoming State of the Union message to speed the Marshall Plan scheduled to avert a possible spring crisis in Europe. The stopgap relief program authorized at the special session will expire March 31.

Taft Warns Of Delay

However, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, told reporters last weekend he thinks Congress will not be able to complete work on its legislative program in time to adjourn for the presidential nomination conventions. These open in Philadelphia on June 21.

Chief Justice Alexander Dies

AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—James Patterson Alexander, 64, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, died here today on the seventh anniversary of his elevation to the state's highest civil judicial office.

Justice Alexander died of heart disease, after having apparently been on the road to recovery from an attack of pneumonia, at Seton hospital. He had been ill of the heart condition since last summer, but had returned to the bench during the fall term of the state's highest court in civil matters. He became ill again the day after Christmas.

Author Of Opinions

Alexander was elected chief justice in 1940 and took the oath of office on Jan. 1, 1941.

Author of hundreds of opinions having important bearing on interpretation of Texas law, Alexander had been on the appellate bench, serving both the Court of Civil Appeals and the Supreme court, for the past 17 years.

Justice Alexander is survived by his widow, the former Miss Elizabeth Akin of Waco, whom he married in 1916, and two daughters, Miss Betty Jane Alexander of Austin and Mrs. William H. Blaney, jr., of Freeport.

Former Students Pallbearers

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m., with burial in the State cemetery. Dr. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist church, will conduct the services.

Former students of Alexander, who for 20 years was a professor of law at Baylor university, will be the pallbearers. They are: Clarence Guittard of Dallas, Leon Jawarski of Houston, Harry R. Jones

Jews Make Attempt To Escape Blockade

JERUSALEM, Jan. 1 (AP) — A mass attempt to break the Palestine blockade partially succeeded today when between 500 and 700 Jewish immigrants waded ashore from a beached ship while the British were herding more than 11,000 passengers from two other vessels into Cyprus detention camps.

Inside the Holy Land, Jews and Arabs continued sporadic gunplay. In this first day of the New Year four Jews, 11 Arabs, a German and a Pole lost their lives, bringing to 507 the unofficial death toll since the United Nations voted five weeks ago to partition Palestine.

There was one report, without official confirmation, that at least 40 Arabs were killed during the day. Jewish and Arab communities reinforced themselves for expected bloody struggles.

The ship which beat the British naval patrol ran aground at Nahariya at the extreme northern end of the Palestine coast. Hagana, the Jewish defense organization, said all 700 Jews aboard this ship now were inside the "pomised land."

British Nationalize Railroads To Complete Plan On Transport

LONDON, Jan. 1. (AP)—The British treasury tonight completed nationalization of the British transport system with an offer of new stock to the 1,000,000 shareholders in four main line and 54 smaller railways, the canal system and other inland transport.

Since 1939 the British government has controlled the transportation system and nationalization became effective today with no effect on operations. The newly created British Transport commission supplanted railroad boards of directors.

Cigarets Used Like Money By Germans

Germany Said Living On 'Cigaret Economy'

(NOTE TO READERS: This is the fifth of a series of articles being written by the Editor of The Avalanche-Journal from observations and material gathered during a recent trip he made in Europe at the request and invitation of the Department of the Army. Mr. Guy and 13 other U. S. editors inspected general conditions and military government in the U. S. and British Occupied zones of Germany; also studied conditions in Trieste, Austria and concluded their European stay with a visit to Paris).

BY CHAS. A. GUY, EDITOR
The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

THEY say in Berlin that you can buy what's left of the once proud Reichschancellery for a package of American cigarets with, maybe, a chocolate bar thrown in. Of course, that may be an exaggeration, although I doubt that the Reichschancellery, in its present wrecked state, is worth that much.

But the fact remains that under Germany's cockeyed "cigaret economy" of today, you can do wonders in trading—even if you have no more to offer than a half-gone bar of soap, a slightly used cooking apple and an old gum boot.

They told me in Germany that the value of the cigaret as a medium of exchange in Germany is not nearly so much as it used to be. I wouldn't know about that—but I do know that you can do more under certain conditions with a cigaret in Germany than you can do with a two-bit piece, sometimes even a four-bit piece, here in West Texas.

Three Reasons For "Cigaret Economy"

The reason for this topsy-turvy state of affairs is three-fold.

In the first place, inflated value of the Reichsmark—and the threat of even further inflation at any moment—has made it most unsatisfactory as a medium of exchange for the German people;

In the second place, good, American cigarets are much to be desired by the few Germans who can afford, through canny trading, to smoke them;

And in the third place, their intrinsic worth is established; by the package and/or the carton, the number of cigarets contained there-in is standard; they are very easy to carry and thus are always readily available for trading.

AS MORE American civilians go into Germany to take jobs in connection with military government, or to perform other governmental duties, the value of the cigaret slowly declines. The newcomers are prone to put less value on the fags than the old hands, who know their real value to the Germans.

"I wish you guys wouldn't be so generous with your cigarets," a Texas major grinned to me as I left two cigarets, instead of one, as a tip for a German waiter in an Army Guest house. "First thing you know, we'll have to do the same thing and with cigarets on ration that's not good."

Never-the-less, when you can get a shave and a massage, as I did, at a cost of two cigarets (although I gave four to the cashier and two to the barber and still thought I had a bargain!) they seem to me to still be pretty potent as to value!

Laundry Costs A Bar of Soap

Cigarets, of course, are not the only medium of barter exchange. They simply are more frequently used because they are more convenient.

Chocolate bars, coffee, soap, cooking fats or lard-like preparations, are among the other items customarily used for barter.

Americans going to Germany these days, if they're wise, always take a bagful of such trading items with them. All the members of our party had cigarets, soap and chocolate bars. Several also had coffee and cooking greases.

A German chambermaid in an Army Guest house, or a hotel taken over by the Army and run for the convenience of Americans only, will do a laundry job of almost any size if you furnish a bar of soap and she can keep what's left. They do good laundry, too, but they aren't so hot at ironing collars.

AMERICAN authorities, operate two "barter marts," one in Berlin and the other in Frankfurt, which permit Americans to "swap" with the Germans on what is nothing more or less than a legalized black market. It is a good thing, though, because although the barter marts are black market operations, they give the German a better return for his offering while making available to American shoppers a quality type of merchandise.

In these barter marts there is set up a "point system" which

Wage Increases Give Workers Near $4 Billion Income Boost

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—Wage increases granted workers last year boosted their incomes three and a half to four billion dollars, a Labor department official reported today, but pointed out that despite the increase there was little gain in "real wages or living standards" during the year.

At the same time Senator Ball (R-Minn) declared labor-management relations were the best in ten years and forecast no major changes in federal labor laws during the next session of Congress.

On the wage-price issue, this is what Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics for the Labor department, reported in an analysis of 1947 developments:

The "second round" of wage increases, plus other pay adjustments in 1947, added three and a half to four billion dollars to the wage earners' income during the year.

Yet in terms of buying power real weekly earnings of factory workers rose 1 per cent during the first 11 months, and were 4.7 per cent below June, 1946, when most controls were abandoned.

At the year's end, Clague noted, many unions were formulating wage demands to "recoup losses."

Death Total Mounts In Tornado Area

(By The Associated Press)

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 1—Twenty persons were dead, scores injured and hundreds homeless tonight, the toll exacted by tornadoes which skipped furiously over five southern states as the old year expired.

For the homeless, the night was a bitter one. A cold wave brought temperatures of 24 to 28 degrees to add to misery wrought earlier by rain, snow, sleet and strong winds.

Workers Probe Rubble

A Red Cross recapitulation tonight listed 250 injured, 245 homes destroyed and 290 damaged in Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Alabama.

Cotton Valley, La., worst hit of the towns and communities, counted 12 dead with rescue workers still probing the rubble.

A Cotton Valley contractor, G. E. Speed, estimated property damage in that town of 1,500 at $1,000,000.

Aid Fund Allotted

The confirmed death toll in Louisiana was 15; two in Tennessee, two in Arkansas and one in Mississippi. None was reported killed in Alabama.

To assist survivors in rebuilding and for immediate relief, Red Cross President Basil O'Connor announced in Washington an initial fund of $100,000 had been set aside and that more money would be available as needed.

Two new tornadoes struck at Kosciusko and Mantee, Miss., today. Houses were demolished and 35-year-old Will Grimsley was killed in Mantee. Dwellings also were tumbled in Montgomery, Ala.

Rep. Brooks (D-La) urged President Truman to lend federal assistance to stricken communities in the northwestern Louisiana and southwestern Arkansas cotton belt.

Special Trains Bring Help

G. E. Speed, a Cotton Valley contractor, estimated today unofficially that the property damage in Cotton Valley would reach one million dollars at the replacement value of real estate, spoiled stocks and smashed automobiles.

Special trains brought boxcars to house the homeless, estimated

Winter Storms Hit Wide Area

Clear weather and gradually rising temperatures are in store for Lubbock and the South Plains today, the weatherman said early this morning, predicting an early morning minimum of 12 degrees and a maximum of 45 degrees this afternoon.

Relative humidity this morning was 94 per cent, but precipitation was expected to be confined to an early morning fog. The wind was reported to be shifting gradually from west-northwest to southwest, which will have a further warming effect on the South Plains.

Rainfall In Area Drops

Year-end weather data was being compiled early this morning by V. H. Halliburton, observer at the weather station five miles north of the city.

The figures showed that 1947 rainfall was considerably under normal—with total precipitation of 13.93 inches recorded, as compared with a normal of 19.15 inches—a difference of 5.22 inches.

December temperatures were 1.2 degrees above normal—the mean being 42 degrees.

December precipitation totaled .52 inches as compared with a normal of .79 inch.

Cold, clear weather covered the entire state last night, the Associated Press reported, and a violent Mother Nature hurling destructive tornadoes and damaging ice and snow storms marred the New Year's debut in wide sections of the country.

Freezing temperatures were

Italians Celebrate Official Recognition Of New Republic

ROME, Jan. 1. (AP)—Drums of military units throughout Italy rattled today in brief ceremonies heralding the Italian republic which came into legal being at midnight.

Throughout the peninsula the Italian flag—minus the cross of the royal house of Savoy—was raised and military commanders announced to their men that the constitution of the new republic was now in force.

Newspapers gave much space to the burial in Egypt yesterday of Vittorio Emanuele III who for 43 years was king of Italy. The event emphasized for Italians the passing of an era.

Strife Marks Start Of Year Of 'Peace'

By TOM WILLIAMS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 1—The world began a new year of "peace" today with civil war in Greece and China, bloodshed in Palestine and unsettled conflicts in India and Indonesia.

The "little man" everywhere was dogged by shortages and inflation.

Europe was split between Communists and non-Communists, and for everyone on the continent the year 1948 promised to be one of suspense.

In most of Europe there was a "cold war" of propaganda and economic and political pressure, but in Greece the shooting was real. A battle-weary garrison at Konitsa was relieved by government troops after fighting off violent attacks by Communist-led guerrillas for a week. Markos Vafiades, the guerrilla "general," in a New Year's proclamation declared 1948 would be a "year of victory" for his rebel government.

More than 11,000 Jews, intercepted by the British navy while trying to run the immigration blockade into Palestine from Black Sea ports, were landed at Famagusta, Cyrpus, and were marched off to detention camps. Another blockade runner was beached north of Haifa with 700 Jews.

Sporadic shooting again punctuated the day in Palestine where embattled Jews and Arabs have taken more than 500 lives in a month-long struggle for the arid acres that the United Nations has decided should be divided among them.

Threatened with the danger of open warfare in Kashmir, northerly princely state, the Indian government prepared to refer the dispute with the new dominion of

NOT MAKING ANY PROMISES

Stevenson To Seek Senate Post Occupied By O'Daniel

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Jan. 1—Former Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today told Texas voters something many of them have known for a long time—that he would run for the United States Senate next summer—and promised them he wouldn't be a "promising candidate."

A dozen close friends and long-time political associates were by Mayor Sam Coyle at 500 in among the studio audience as Stevenson broadcast his formal announcement over a statewide chain of radio stations.

Intensive Campaign Set

Before he went on the air, he told this correspondent he intends to make a strenuous campaign.

"I hope to visit every county in Texas before the campaign is over," Stevenson said.

Less than a minute after the broadcast started, Stevenson said he expected to be a candidate for the Senate in the July 24 Democratic primary, then added:

"I have no platform or political promises to place before you. I have never run for office on a formal platform because I do not believe the average political platform is worth much of anything. My candidacy is based on certain fundamental principles of sound government. It is based on my record as your public servant in the past."

Record Is Reviewed

The speech reviewed his record as wartime governor and emphasized his views on international affairs, declaring a firm belief that the nation does not stand "on the brink of war." He cited Communism as one threat to world peace and pledged himself to battle it and other "enemies of the

Get Ready To Run, Men, Leap Year Has Dawned Once More

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 — Lace up those running shoes, men, and make for the escape hatches.

Leap Year dawned this morning while you were in no condition to defend yourself.

And the unwillingly unmarried women of this country seemed ready to declare an open season on all eligible bachelors.

Should a girl take advantage of the custom that permits her to pop the question every time the year is divisible by four?

The Washington Times-Herald asked a bunch of slick young spinsters—and got a chorus of enthusiastic "yeses."

Short of taking to the tall timber, an eligible male had two ways out. He could say "no, thanks" or he could beat the deadline as cowboy star Roy Rogers did—by getting wed on Dec. 31.

But there was a time, in Scotland several centuries ago, when it cost a man hard cash to turn down a Leap Year offer.

He was fined, under the law, for spurning "Ilk mayden layde of highe and lowe estait" unless he could "make it appeare that he is betrothit ane ither woman."

Note that he only had to "make it appeare" he was already hooked. There were loopholes in those days, too.

SHOOTING SAID ADMITTED

Suspect Is Held After Denver Man Is Slain, Wife Wounded

(By The Associated Press)

HOT SULPHUR SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 1—A 25-year-old man taken from a San Francisco-bound train signed a statement tonight admitting the fatal shooting of a Denver motorist and wounding of his wife early today, Sheriff Chester McQueary announced.

McQueary said the man identified himself as Don Tucker of Peru, Ind., and carried identification papers with that name.

A posse of four men under McQueary's direction boarded the train at Granby, 10 miles east of here, after being notified by Denver police that a man sought for questioning in the slaying of Robert Hutchins, 20, and wounding of his 20-year-old wife, had boarded the train.

McQueary said the man in custody had nearly $2,000 in his possession and he was "satisfied" that Tucker was not James Sherbondy, last of 12 incorrigible Colorado prisoners still at large.

The sheriff and his deputies had boarded the train on the assumption the sought man was Sherbondy.

Mrs. Robert Hutchins of Denver, who was wounded, earlier had

14 Killed As Trains Crash In Missouri

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

OTTERVILLE, Mo., Jan. 1—The second section of a Missouri Pacific train plowed into the rear end of another passenger train in a driving snowstorm near here today, killing at least 14 holiday travelers, one of whom was tentatively identified as the wife of the former ambassador to Spain, Alexander W. Weddell.

The former ambassador also was reported aboard the train but he had not been accounted for by officers. At Richmond, Va., relatives said the Weddells were enroute to Tucson, Ariz., together with a maid, Violet Andrews.

Torches Used On Wreckage

The two sections of "The Missourian" were running far behind schedule at about 8 o'clock this morning on their night run from St. Louis to Kansas City when the locomotive of the second section crashed into the rear pullman of the first train, killing all occupants of the car.

The engine rammed itself through the sleeping car, crushing everything inside into a space of only about 10 feet. Torches were employed to cut the wreckage apart and remove the bodies.

Dead Identified

Thirteen bodies were removed from the wreckage by rescuers, working in bitter, subfreezing weather, and another victim died in a hospital at nearby Sedalia. Lieut. K. K. Johnson of the Missouri State highway patrol said the wreckage was cleared up late tonight and no more bodies had been found.

Johnson said he was "fairly certain" of the identification of eight bodies. They were:

Frank M. Ryan, 40, of Los Angeles; James M. Ryan, (son of Frank), 20, student at Loyola U. of La.; Judith Ryan, (a daughter), 18; Frankie Ryan, (son), 9; Pullman Conductor E. K. Violence Claims 229 Over State

(By The Associated Press)

Fire returned as Texas' number one New Year's day killer, wiping out six members of a Mexican family of eight, after killing eleven persons Christmas night in blazes at Orange and Fredericksburg.

The total of violent deaths in Texas in the long holiday season starting December 20 reached 229. Highway accidents remained the predominant cause of death.

Professor Is Victim

The wife and five children of Pedro Ochoa, farm worker from Rincon, near San Luis Potosi, Mexico, died in a pre-dawn fire that engulfed their one-room living quarters on a Willacy county farm near Lyford.

Highway accidents kept close pace. Eugene Oberle, about 60, professor of languages at Rice university, Houston, was killed near Bracketsville, Kinney county, when the car in which he was riding overturned early New Year's morning.

Other Violent Deaths Reported

Three negroes were drowned in 25 feet of icy water early Thursday when their car plunged through a bridge railing near Houston. The victims were Ima Mae Prophet, 15; Walter Pritchett, 25, and Oscar White, 27, all of McNair.

Ethbert Rosemon Spencer, Houston contractor, was shot to death there by a woman who told police she fired six bullets through her front screen door after her life had been threatened.

Greek Army Claims Victory Over Reds

ATHENS, Jan. 1 (AP) — The Greek general staff said tonight the army had inflicted a "crushing defeat" on "Communist forces" in the battle of Konitsa, where a seven-day guerrilla siege of the local government garrison was lifted today.

"This is the first fruit which has been reaped by the bogus government of Slavo-Communists," said a communique reviewing the week-long battle.

On Christmas Eve, the day before the battle began, Communist Leader Markos Vafiades broadcast the proclamation of a Greek Communist government. The offensive against Konitsa, some five miles below the Albanian border, was believed aimed at capture of a capital for this government.

The general staff communique said one column of troops, bent on relieving the Konitsa garrison, entered the town yesterday but a second relief column still was held up tonight by fire aimed at the Bourozani bridge across the rain-swollen Aoos river, 11 miles west of Konitsa.

Louisiana Residents, Hard-Hit Victims Of Tornado, Have Unhappy New Year's

By JAMES FLINCHIM
United Press Staff Writer

COTTON VALLEY, La., Jan. 1—This is the day to say "happy New Year" but it is hard for the people of this section of Louisiana to say it and mean it today.

Most of their homes are in shambles or are badly damaged from a tornado that struck without warning on New Year's eve, just a few hours before many had planned to welcome in 1948 at parties or family gatherings.

Many Injured, Homeless

At least 3 of their relatives or friends are dead and hundreds are injured and homeless.

Instead of watch parties, the townspeople received the New Year walking among the cots of an emergency clinic searching for loved ones or poking in the splintered ruins of fallen houses for missing persons.

The best estimates timed the tornado's stay in this section at seven minutes. But the wind unlid a lifetime of work for many a family.

Wind at high speed pulls peculiar tricks, and almost everyone has an odd or miraculous story to tell here today.

Church Unharmed

R. E. Fisher, member of the crew of a freight train which arrived in Cotton Valley just before the tornado struck, said he was talking to a man and a little girl outside his car. Then the wind came and before his eyes the couple simply disappeared.

The storm caught one unidentified automobile driver on the highway. His car was picked up and smashed back to earth like a toy. The driver stepped from the wreckage unscathed and walked away.

The business district of Cotton Valley with its two main streets and its rows of buildings stretched alongside the railroad tracks is a shamble of grotesque lumber piles. But near the center of destruction is a half-completed church. It's steeple didn't lose a shingle to the wind.

A farmer was driving toward town when the storm lashed his car. On one side the paint was peeled off like it had been scraped with a razor blade and all the windows on that side were smashed. The other side escaped damage.

Police Search For Two Cars

Police Thursday night continued their search for two automobiles which Thursday had been reported stolen, and a third was recovered in the negro section.

Another automobile was reported stolen here Wednesday, by bailee, and still another, taken recently from a Lubbock resident in New Mexico, was recovered.

Owners Of Cars

The most recently stolen cars are owned by A. H. Faulkner of 1303 Nineteenth, Bill Stewart of 1811 Texas Ave., and Jim Black of 2431 Ellwood.

The car belonging to Black was stolen in connection with burglarly of the H. T. Wilkins, jr., service station at 1101 Sixteenth, investigators said. It was found abandoned near Queen City late Thursday night.

Someone entered the station through a south window, took $1 in pennies, and left in the automobile, a green 1938 Buick sedan, license AL 6692.

Keys Were Stolen

Faulkner's car is a brown 1939 Buick sedan, license AK 5031. Police said keys to the car had been stolen several days ago by two young men who were partially described, and said keys also had been stolen last week to Stewart's car, a maroon 1946 Dodge coach, license AB 7723. Keys to Black's car were in the service station, police were informed.

Theft by bailee of a car owned by Dan Daniels of 2408 Fifteenth was announced Wednesday. It, a 1941 Mercury coach, bore two license numbers — New Mexico 4-5355 and Texas AP 4908.

Auto Is Recovered

Assistance in recovering a 1941 car stolen Dec. 17 in Carlsbad, N. M., from Leslie M. Baker of Lubbock was rendered by KGZW, the police shortwave radio transmitter. The car, stolen from Baker while he slept at a Carlsbad tourist court on a business trip, was recovered at San Angelo.

An earlier report that an airplane had been stolen at Abilene was cancelled after airport officials learned a flying student had used it instead of another.

Air Safety Board Believes Airline 'Chutes Unfeasible

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP) — Parachutes for airline passengers are not feasible, in the opinion of President Truman's air safety inquiry board.

The board, set up by President Truman last summer after a series of airplane accidents which cost nearly 150 lives, has sent a report to the White House but it has not yet been made public.

The board recommended a number of studies concerning flying safety and proposed some new airline organization steps, it was learned.

Man Surrenders To Lubbock Officials

Donald Jowatt, 24, English-born resident of Eaton Rapids, Mich., voluntarily surrendered himself Thursday afternoon at county jail, officials of which had been asked to detain him for the Michigan division of pardons, paroles and probation.

A letter to Sheriff Grady Harrist, signed by Gus Harrison, Michigan state superintendent of paroles, recited that Jowatt was sentenced Feb. 1, 1946, to six months to 14 years for forgery; that he was paroled June 23, 1947, and absconded from supervision Oct. 31, and that a parole violation warrant was issued Dec. 4.

The letter, dated three days ago, said copy of a warrant would be mailed there.

D. W. Casteel reported a breakin of Interstate Securities office at 1909 Texas Ave., and theft of office files, including car titles.

A one-horsepower electric motor, belt and pulley were reported stolen from a power saw in the yard of J. A. Mullins of 502 Ave R.

Marshall Plan

cized the administration's proposals for the Marshall plan—both in extent and amount—said the GOP policy committee would meet probably January 5 to draft a schedule of action on about 30 pieces of legislation in addition to the Marshall plan.

Huge Outlay Sought

The bill President Truman submitted to Congress would authorize the spending of $17,000,000,000 in the four and a quarter years beginning April 1 to help bring about economic recovery in western Europe. The program would be handled by a single administrator with broad powers.

A special House committee headed by Rep. Herter (R-Mass), which went to Europe last fall, has recommended unanimously a bill which would turn the program over to an independent government corporation with a bi-partisan eight-man board of directors.

"I wouldn't care to sponsor the State department or any other bill at this moment," Eaton said, "because of the vast implications of the program. I wouldn't care to commit myself until we've given the whole question the proper study."

Eaton said his committee will meet Jan. 8 or 9 and decide on a "timetable."

Petrillo Says Recording Ban On Union Musicians To Be Enforced

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—James J. Petrillo called on members of his American Federation of Musicians out of the nation's recording studios today, carrying out his declaration that they "never again" would cut a phonograph disc.

The ban on recordings and transcriptions was intended to force radio stations, dance halls and taverns to hire "live musicians."

"After the first of the year, if they want musicians they'll have to buy them in the flesh," Petrillo said last Oct. 18 when he announced the ban.

Members Back Move

He appeared adamant today. Asked if he would ever let his members go back to making the recordings he replied emphatically:

"Never, ever, never. There's no more to say. That's all there is."

Petrillo claimed that the musicians were cutting their own throats by making the recordings since each transcription cut eliminated the need for a live musician.

He was supported by his members, including the nation's best-known band leaders.

Recording company officials charged, however, that he was "trying to eliminate an entire industry."

Solon Plans Legislation

The executives said that in addition to cutting the record-making business, it would also hurt the juke box trade which grosses about $460,000,000 annually from 500,000 machines, cut deeply into the royalties of "name" bands, and reduce the selections available to disc jockeys.

Rep. Fred Hartley (R., N.J.), one of the authors of the Taft-Hartley law, said he intended to introduce a bill into Congress to break Petrillo's ban.

He said the bill would restore a stricken amendment of the Taft-Hartley act which would apply anti-trust laws to a labor monopoly in restraint of trade."

Hartley said he thought the law would have a "pretty fair chance" of passing due to resentment against Petrillo.

The midnight deadline ended abruptly a mad rush by recording companies to cut as many discs as possible before the ban went into effect. Many worked right up to the stroke of 12 when company officials, musicians and studio technicians sank back exhausted.

George Tasker, vice-president of the Universal Recording corporation, said he spent a solid 24 hours in the control room supervising the production of new records by Orrin Tucker with Bonnie Baker and Doris Briggs singing.

Even firms with no actual connection with musical programs rushed to build up a backlog of singing commercials for their radio presentations.

Fredericks W. Ziv, president of the Ziv Radio Productions Co., said the Guy Lombardo show had been recorded 18 months in advance, the Wayne King show a year, and the Ronald Colman show's musical background for two years.

Lamesa Council Appoints New City Judge, Extends Limits

LAMESA, Jan. 1 (Special)—The city council, meeting in regular session, has appointed a new city judge and admitted Beckham Estates, a 62-acre tract north of Lamesa, to the city limits.

New judge of the city's corporation court is M. Q. Martin, real estate and insurance agent and long-time chairman of the Democratic party in Dawson county. He will be on the bench at the city hall daily from 9 to 10:30 a. m. to hear traffic cases and other violations coming under the city court's jurisdiction.

Beckham Estates, an addition already dotted with several home sites, was added to the town's confines by a council ordinance after all alleyways in the area had been dedicated and made available for public utilities.

Hero And Heroine Of Western Movies Play Roles For Keeps

DAVIS, Okla., Jan. 1 (AP)—After more than 20 movies of playing hero and heroine to each other, Roy Rogers, cowboy actor, and Dale Evans, his leading lady, made it official yesterday in a wedding ceremony at the Flying L ranch owned by W. L. Likens, Oklahoma cattleman, near here.

To keep in style the minister wore the garb of a pioneer parson, black cutaway, flowing tie and black cowboy boots. Rogers yielded to the western motif only by wearing cowboy boots while Miss Evans stayed strictly with etiquette and left her cowgirl costumes in California.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

LOOK FOR '48—When designers gave the Modern Miss the new look they didn't expect that she would go back 1,000 years for beauty tricks to complete her ensemble. But it looks as if Miss 1948 will be a voluptuous lass, who isn't averse to stealing a bit of old world charm and a leaf or two from Grandma's photo album—such is the opinion of some of America's outstanding beauty authorities, as gleaned by Vivian Brown, newsfeatures writer for the Associated Press.

She'll be natural, says John Robert Powers . . . "Conservatism will be the keynote. She'll garner Grandma's charm but find her own pattern of beauty by studying herself, dropping some of the excess baggage designers have whipped up for her."

That's good news to the Woman's Angle, who couldn't see to save her life why girls who were blessed with slender figures were interested in creating a "hippy" New Year through their new styles.

. . . With a Mona Lisa smile, says makeup artist Eddie Senz, who adds: "There won't be many mouths made up in watermelon shapes. The mouth will be created from a natural lipline with a bit of added fullness.

And, if that be true, we will see "natural" mouths on some girls for the first time and that alone will be an interesting innovation.

. . . The Madonna type of beauty, says model agent Clyde Matthews, is "what my models will strive for in order to please advertisers. Many of them prefer the simple Madonna hairdo (parted in center, drawn back and fastened at the nape of the neck.)"

This "new" type of hairdo will present no problem to Mrs. Clarence Whiteside, Mrs. James G. Allen, Mrs. Olan Key, Mrs. Tom Murphey, Mrs. Raymond Shook and Mrs. Roy Bass. For those who strive for the 1948 "must" it will mean months of letting the hair grow and becoming accustomed to the style.

Subtle sleekness is the thing, says hairdresser Victor Vito, who foresees straight hair, fewer permanents and hair-sets, in favor of a line that is achieved by excellent hair shaping. No more frizzy curls.

She'll use feminine wiles to get her man this Leap Year says model agent Harry Conover, but she'll also be a career girl in marriage or business. She'll wear a simple shoulder length hairdo men like in a variety of lady-like styles—and she'll cover the back of her neck, a line the boys definitely dislike.

. . . And a full-bloom bosom, says beauty consultant Ann Delafield, who predicts, "the bust measurement will be two inches greater. I have shelved all bust reducing exercises in favor of bust development and a ballerina waist. With the "New Look," how can the average girl's bustline be too large?"

SPEAKING GUIDE

TEXAS' governor, according to one of our newsmen, says one should measure a statement before he makes it with this rule:

Is it necessary?
Is it true?
Is it kind?

That's not a bad admonition for the New Year, is it?

Holley-Turner Vows Are Read In Church

Miss Margie Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Turner, sr., of Wilson, and Otis Holley, son of Mrs. Ida Cummings of Lubbock, were married Friday, Dec. 26, at First Methodist church with Dr. H. I. Robinson officiating.

The bride wore a gray suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Miss Leta Turner, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a cocoa brown suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Floyd Boles served as best man.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Oklahoma.

Lamesa Marriage Is Announced Here

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Fisher of Sparenberg are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Glee Fisher, to Jimmy Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Little of Lamesa, which took place in the Lamesa Roberts' Wedding chapel Dec. 10. Rev. J. H. Corbin read a double ring ceremony.

Bill Minnix attended the couple.

At a reception which followed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Anderson, Mrs. Kent Morgan and Mrs. Morris Pruitt served guests.

The couple is at home in Lamesa following a wedding trip.

Rust stains in woolen material are not easy to remove because wool has a pronounced affinity for several metals, including iron. It often helps to remove difficult stains if a little sodium sulphite is added to the cleaning solution, for it makes the iron particles more soluble.

Dawson County Couple Observes Anniversary

LAMESA, Jan. 1 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Petteway, residents of Dawson county for over three decades, recently celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary with a quiet dinner in their home here at 905 North First street.

Present for the occasion were two of the couple's five children, a daughter, Marie, and a son, Herman, both of Lamesa.

Married in Petteway community in Robertson county on Dec. 22, 1892, Mr. and Mrs. Petteway moved to Dawson county in 1915. Petteway, a former school teacher, is now serving his second term as district clerk of the 106th judicial district.

New Rainbreaker

A new method of impregnating rayon has resulted in waterproofing raincoats.

The rayon fabric used to line the rainbreaker is an entirely new material which does not become sticky when wet, or harden and crack in spots when dried out. The outer material is a rayon crevenette.

Jean Nicolet, a lieutenant of Samuel de Champlain, is credited with the discovery of Lake Michigan in the summer of 1634.

Personals

Miss Jewell Alice Pharr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Pharr, 2608 Twenty-second, returned Thursday from Tahoka where she was the guest of Miss Mary Alice Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gegg spent the holidays in Des Plaines, Ill. after taking their grandson, Terry Gegg, home to Chicago. Terry, age 10, spent the summer and fall here in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Snodgrass and children, Norma Kaye and Tommy, of 2120-R Thirteenth, will return Saturday from Dallas where they attended the Cotton Bowl game. Howard Preston, who accompanied them, returned Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence F. Green of 2806 Twenty-eight returned to their home early this week after spending the holidays with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Culver, and other relatives in Dallas. Mr. Culver's mother, Mrs. Jewel Culver of Lubbock, was a week-end guest in Dallas.

Capt. and Mrs. Kenneth Allen and two children of Fort Worth will be guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Huffstedler, until Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Holmquest and son, Charles, have returned from Pharr, where they spent Christmas as guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Collette, former Lubbock residents.

Private Grants Self Furlough On Day Of Army Retirement

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—If and when Pvt. Robert C. Rettberg returns from his self-granted "furlough," he'll probably get his honorable retirement papers just like Lt. Gen. John C. H. "Courthouse") Lee, Army officials indicated today.

Rettberg, 50-year-old veteran of 28 years in the army, was scheduled to participate in colorful retirement ceremonies at the Presidio here yesterday with Gen. Lee and 15 other old soldiers.

Army public relations officials had pointed out that the contrast between simultaneous retirement of the three-star general and the GI with plenty of hash marks, but no non-commissioned stripes, might make a "good color story" for reporters.

Private Takes "Furlough"

For awhile the newsmen were disappointed. At the ceremonies it was announced that Rettberg, who gives dual home addresses at Bangor, Mt., and general delivery San Francisco, was "unavoidably absent."

First reports that Rettberg was "on furlough" later gave way to an admission he had gone AWOL apparently during a pre-Christmas celebration. When he returns, officials said, "and he always does," the chances are Rettberg, "who has been up and down the rank scale a lot," will get his honorable discharge rather than the guard house.

"But his chance for a last-minute promotion is out," a public relations officer said. "He will leave the army as a private."

Lee, 60-year-old supply commander in Europe during the war, left the army at the age of 60 after a controversial military career of 38 years.

"I don't think I'm out of the service, even now," Lee said. "I'll always be a soldier. That is what you taxpayers paid for."

Gen. Mark W. Clark, sixth army commander, paid tribute to the retiring veterans in a brief address.

Lee was Mediterranean theater commander after the war ended. Charges of maladministration brought by newspaper columnist Robert C. Ruark were investigated by the army and later declared groundless.

General and Mrs. Lee will leave Saturday morning for York, Pa., where he will become general secretary of the Protestant Episcopal brotherhood of St. Andress. Lee was retired at $550 a month, with a disability pension because of arthritis.

Chilling Skin Eases Pain From Hypodermic Needle Injections

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 1. (U.P.)—Hypodermic injections may be made painless by chilling the patient's skin, the New England Journal of Medicine reports.

Three Harvard Medical School surgeons reported that bringing the skin temperature down to about freezing prevents the pain felt when a needle is pushed through the skin.

The temperature is reduced by a special cylinder filled with cracked ice and chemicals. It also removes pain in blood transfusions, but not in local anesthetics.

Doctors reporting the discovery were Franc D. Ingraham, Donald D. Matson and Robert P. Woods.

Romanian Chief Hails Republic

BUCHAREST, Jan. 1. (AP)—Premier Petru Groza declared today that the resignation of King Mihai and the proclamation of a Romanian republic had made this country "an active factor in the anti-imperialist and democratic camp in the battle for lasting peace and popular democracy."

("Democracy" is the word which the nations in the Soviet zone of influence commonly use to describe the Communist form of government.)

Groza made his statement in a New Year's broadcast to the nation less than 36 hours after Mihai's resignation. He acclaimed the "heroic working peoples" of France, Italy, Indonesia and Spain, and the Communist guerrillas of Greece, beside whose forces of "progress, democracy and peace," he said, Romania was proud to take her place.

"We enter the new year of 1948 at a moment when the battle between the forces of progress, democracy and peace, on one side, and that of the imperialistic forces that want to throw the people into new disaster, quickens," Groza declared.

Mihai's immediate departure for Switzerland meanwhile was delayed until after New Year's by unexpected developments.

Informed sources said that the young ex-king had intended to leave yesterday, but that the trip was postponed by the necessity of discussing financial questions with members of the government. These sources said the government also wished to demonstrate the kings freedom of movement by showing that it was not necessary for him to hasten out of the country on New Year's.

Sixteen Escape Serious Injury When Plane Makes Rough Landing

ATLANTA, Jan. 1. (AP)—Thirteen passengers and three crew members were shaken up today but none was injured seriously when the landing gear of an Eastern Air lines plane collapsed in blustery weather.

The plane had landed after a flight from Jacksonville and was approaching the end of a runway when the wheels gave way.

Veteran MKT Railroad Agent At El Paso Retired From Post

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 1. (U.P.)—R. B. Davis, a native of Dover, Ark., who joined the Missouri-Arkansas-Texas railroad in 1930, has been retired as general agent at El Paso, at his own request, Vice-president J. F. Hennessey, Jr., announced here today.

Lastro Warren, a native of Dallas, formerly traveling freight and passenger agent at Fort Worth, succeeds Davis, who was educated at Brock, Tex., and Texas university, Hennessey said.

Warren, who attended school at Dallas and Kansas City and joined the Katy in 1917, is succeeded by William M. Blossom, native of Muskogee, Okla., Fort Worth city freight agent. His successor is Davis Lambright, formerly Fort Worth chief clerk and a native of Marshall, Tex.

UNRRA Closes Doors On Gigantic Relief Job After Huge Outlay

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

What is often referred to as the "world's greatest relief effort" has closed its doors officially.

UNRRA, 48-nation program to heal the world's war wounds, ceased taking on new business as 1947 ended. From here on it's a matter of closing outstanding accounts. These run into millions of dollars and likely will require most of 1948 to bring to an end.

Born Nov. 9, 1943, by an international agreement signed in the White House, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration accomplished these great works:

Huge Sum Said Spent

1. Spent $3,700,000,000 for relief among 16 nations.

2. Spent $2,900,000,000 of this amount for 25,000,000 long tons of supplies, from ships to needles.

3. Received regular contributions from all 48 nations comprising the United Nations, except those which suffered enemy invasion. Even the latter contributed funds when they could. The U. S. supplied about 70 percent of the almost $4,000,000,000. Contributions from other nations ranged from $625,000,000 from the United Kingdom down to a few thousand dollars from lesser countries.

4. Spent about $600,000,000 for distributing the 25,000,000 tons of supplies.

5. Spent about $200,000,000 for operating expenses and contributions to other relief agencies.

Numerous Nations Given Aid

Major General Lowell W. Rooks, director general, expects to continue on the job for another three months. He will have a handful of assistants, compared with the thousands of employes the agency had during its busiest days.

At the peak of its operations, about June 30, 1946, UNRRA had about 27,000 employes. Fewer than 2,000 were here in headquarters. The rest were overseas.

Receiving UNRRA aid were: Albania, Austria, White Russia, China, Czechoslovakia, Dodecanese Islands, Ethiopia, Finland, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Korea, Philippine Islands, Poland, Soviet Ukraine and Yugoslavia.

Buying for UNRRA ceased in the United States last June 30. Contracts continue to be filled in the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia. Most of 1948 may be required to complete them.

UNRRA's greatest single program was undertaken for China. It called for $517,500,000, plus 20 per cent for transportation and administrative charges.

UNRRA's good works in China are expected to continue for at least another five years. The Chinese rehabilitation commission, consisting of five Chinese government officials, five Chinese businessmen and five Americans has been formed to carry on.

'Save The Soil' Campaign To Give Awards For Editorials, Essays

AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (UP)—Texas State library has begun preparation of a book list on soil conversation as an aid to a state "save the soil" campaign.

In the campaign awards are to be made for the best editorial in country weekly papers in five conservation districts, and there will also be awards in a high school essay contest. The essay topic will be "What Soil Conservation Means to My Town."

The book list being prepared by the state library will give the material that is available in the library.

"Save the Soil and Save Texas" awards will be made on basis of reports to the state Soil Conservation board. Deadline on the reports is March 1.

Regional awards will be made as follows: May 1, Region 5 in Fort Worth; May 2, Region 4 at Houston; May 9, Region 2 at San Angelo; May 16, Region 3 at San Antonio; and May 23, Region One at Lubbock.

Dentist Gives Rules To Have Natural Teeth At Age Of 60

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 1. (U.P.)—Want to have a full set of teeth (natural) when you're 60?

Just follow the four rules laid down by Dr. Henry F. Westoff of St. Louis before the Mid-Continent Dental Congress.

They are:

1. Early and frequent dental examination.

2. Immediate treatment of small cavities, long before they start paining.

3. A nutritious diet with a minimum of refined sugar.

4. Brush your teeth after each meal.

Most dental failures, the congress was told, are due to disregard of one or all of those basic rules.

Chicken-Stealing Champion Is Finally Out Of Business

CINCINNATI, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—Curley Fairbanks, 45, who boasted he was the champion chicken thief in Hamilton county, is out of business.

He is serving a 70-day sentence in jail after conviction on charges of possessing a stolen shotgun and "entering enclosed lands for the purpose of stealing things of value."

The "things of value," county police said, were 27 chickens from coops of a suburban resident.

Fairbanks had led county police on a "coop-to-coop" chase for several months before he was captured.

Police charged the "champ" had stolen 150 chickens over several years.

European Hangover As Year Begins Caused Mainly By War Which Ended Two Years Ago

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 1—Europe had a hangover today, too, but with Scotch at $16 a fifth in Glasgow and champagne at $22 a bottle in Paris, the welcome to the New Year was not as cordial as it might have been.

There were many in the ill-clothed, poorly fed, chilly nations of Europe whose New Year headaches were hangovers from a war which ended more than two years ago. Facing an uncertain future amid a widening chasm dividing the East and the West, they looked hopefully toward economic aid under the Marshall plan.

Germans In Despair

Germans received 1948 in a mood of dull despair. Their trampled country, wrecked by the war, was split in two and there was no prospect for peace or prosperity.

Fighting continued in the mountains of Greece and on the bloody plains of Palestine.

The Communists of Italy greeted the New Year with threats of violence in the event their demands were not met. Britons were asked to work harder and Russians were asked to fulfill their latest five-year plan in four years.

South African Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts said in a New Year's broadcast:

"We are living in times of great change — almost of world order moving from one stage to another."

Comrades Get Greetings

An editorial in Pravda, the organ of the Communist party in Moscow, declared that "the age of capitalism is approaching its end" and in extending New Year's greetings to Communist comrades all over the world it added: "We are living in an age in which all roads lead to Communism."

British newspapers greeted the New Year with varying degrees of enthusiasm.

The conservative Daily Telegraph said it would be "a year of suspense in every field, domestic and foreign." The liberal News Chronicle found "more confidence and more cheerfulness and more zest for battle than at any time since 1940." The laborite Daily Herald exhorted the world in "win the peace in 1948."

Except for accidents, rheumatic fever is the most common cause of death among children.

WRONG DOOR

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Edward Sweeney, 48, awakened in his rooming house to find his bed on fire. He ran to the door, opened it, went through and slammed it behind him—only to find he was in a clothes closet and could not get out. Other tenants smelled the smoke and summoned firemen, who liberated Sweeney.

Fire Losses Hit New Record For Nation

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Fire losses in the United States reached an appalling all time high of $700,000,000 this year—more money by $100,000,000 than Congress provided in emergency relief funds for Europe's needy.

It is the highest annual loss ever recorded by any nation in peacetime and tops Great Britain property loss from the two-year German blitz by $300,000,000.

Flames ate up millions of bushels of grain which might have gone to Europe's needy in scattered conflagrations.

The domestic housing supply was setback when fire destroyed a $1,000,000 factory in Austin, Texas, that was turning out 400 prefabricated dwellings a month.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters estimates that in 1947 there were 33 blazes that involved $1,000,000 damage or more.

Greatest of the year's fire disasters was the amonium nitrate explosions at Texas City in April. More than 500 died; 3,000 were injured, and property losses hit $32,000,000.

The damage to forest lands, watershed, wildlife and timber lands was inestimable.

ANDERSON CLAIMED AT FAULT

Solon Says Committee Seeking Only Names Of Federal Traders

By FRED MULLEN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—A Senate investigator said today that Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson has only himself to blame if he feels conscience-stricken because of publicity given private citizens speculating in foodstuffs.

Anderson told news reporters yesterday his conscience was bothering him and said he was ready to recommend to President Truman that his practice of releasing long lists of "John Q. Public's" cease.

Limit On Names Sought

He cited the letter of a Texas doctor who said he feared his reputation would be ruined when it became known he had once speculated in commodities. Anderson said he would seek to limit lists to government employes.

Sen. William F. Knowland, R., Cal., member of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee investigating speculation by federal employes, said:

"Anybody who hasn't had inside information shouldn't feel hurt. They've got nothing to worry about."

Solon Blames Anderson

He said that the committee has been seeking only the names of federal employes who have used inside information on government plans to purchase foodstuffs for foreign relief and export, and those who had passed on such information to their friends for a quick gamble. For all but a few federal officials, he said, there is nothing illegal about speculation.

Knowland recalled that when Anderson appeared before the full appropriations committee Dec. 19 he refused to give the committee any information unless he was permitted to produce all names for the committee and simultaneously turn the whole thing over to the public.

Employes Names Released

"It was Anderson himself who said that if any names were given out, the names of all speculators would be given out simultaneously with those of persons in the government," Knowland said. "He got started publishing the names."

Anderson, yesterday released a list of 26 government employes who held positions on the cotton and egg markets July 31, but no big names were involved. He now is preparing to release for publication in Sunday morning newspapers two new lists covering these topics:

Other Lists Planned

1. The names of about 750 individuals representing all persons who were big traders in all commodity markets, except cotton, cottonseed oil and wool tops, on any day between Jan. 1, 1946, and Nov. 30, 1947. This will not show anything other than names and addresses.

2. Month end positions of all big wheat traders, showing whether they were speculators, spreaders, or hedgers. There will be about 1,025 accounts involved and duplications in many cases of those named in the other list.

Still another list, covering about 5,300 accounts in wheat active Sept. 17-20, inclusive, will be made available probably Monday. From this list, the department already has made public the names of 99 federal, state and local employes who had positions in that period, including President Truman's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham.

Atomic Commission To Expand Research At Chicago Site

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Jan. 1 (AP)—Reversing plans announced last September, the Atomic Energy commission has decided to concentrate the bulk of its research activities at Argonne National laboratory near Chicago.

The commission announced last night the University of Chicago would direct at Argonne the "expanded program" on uranium chain reactors which heretofore had been planned at both the Clinton National laboratory at Oak Ridge and Argonne.

A "new high-flux reactor" several times more powerful than the existing Oak Ridge pile will be built by the commission at Argonne, where Dr. Walter H. Zinn will be director.

Centralization of reactor research and development, the AEC explained, "is essential in order to secure the maximum results from the work of the limited number of scientists and technicians qualified in this field.

Deportation Steps Against Two U. N. Newsmen Is Reconsidered

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (AP)—Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, says deportation proceedings against two U. N. foreign press correspondents will not be pressed further by the government without prior consultation with U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

Austin gave this assurance to Lie yesterday in a letter replying to the U. N. official's protests against the arrest, and subsequent release, of the two correspondents, Nicholas Kyriazidis of Greece and Syed S. Hasan, Indian newspaper representative.

The government sought to deport the two on the ground they are members of an organization advocating forceful overthrow of the U. S. government.

Lie intervened on the contention that the actions might violate an agreement with the U. S. regardnig U. N. headquarters and its attaches.

Rites Are Conducted Thursday For Overman Youth In Tahoka

TAHOKA, Jan. 1 (Special) — Last rites were conducted this afternoon in Tahoka Baptist church for Virgil Wayne Overman, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest O. Overman, who died unexpectedly Wednesday morning at the home.

Rev. Levi Price, pastor, and Rev. R. L. Shannon of Meadow were to officiate. Stanley Funeral home directed burial in Tahoka cemetery.

The boy's father had talked to him about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning before going to work and had said he would return for him about 10:30 o'clock. Upon returning, he found the boy dead, probably as result of a heart attack. The boy's mother also was working.

Pallbearers at services were to be Phill Barrington, Kenneth Pendergrass, Joe Burleson, Guy Blew, Henry Zarnes and Leroy Shannon.

Survivors, in addition to the parents, include O'Neal and Clarence Overman of Fort Worth; a grandmother, Mrs. Josie Doggett of Fort Worth, seven uncles and eight aunts.

The boy was born Oct. 8, 1930 in Fort Worth.

Service Station Burned, Two Hotels Damaged At Electra

ELECTRA, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP)—Fire here today destroyed the Waggoner service station and garage and caused extensive damage to two hotels and two other business houses. No one was injured.

Owners of the properties said that "no actual estimates of losses could be made until later." They credited the work of the Electra volunteer fire department with saving an "entire city block."

The fire was said to have started when gasoline was drained from a car in the garage. The blaze spread quickly to other cars and stocks of tires.

The flames destroyed four rooms of the Armilda hotel above the garage and caused extensive smoke damage. Nearby stores suffered smoke and water damage to large portions of their stocks.

It is estimated that the loss to industry because of the common cold in the United States is more than 60 million man-days each year.

Fascism Reported Again Issue In Italian Political Affairs

By J. EDWARD MURRAY
United Press Staff Writer

ROME, Jan. 1 — Fascism, three parts nostalgia for the old days of Mussolini & Co., and one part hate against Communism, is back in the news in Italy.

Nobody knows whether fascism is really on the increase, as charged by the Communists. Nobody knows whether the fascists have an overall organization from which the various known branches take orders.

And nobody knows whether they have a candidate for their new "man on a horse" to lead them. The name of Gen. Giovanni Messe, who commanded the Italian fascist army in Russia, is frequently mentioned, however.

But neither does anyone doubt that the fascists are back for the first time since Mussolini was an important factor in Italian politics. The surprising, all-absorbing question in connection with Italian fascism—not so long ago Public Enemy No. 2 of world at war—is whether it is now more sinned against than sinning.

Court Test Coming

The question will be tested in the courts in the next few days or weeks, because a new extraordinary degree against fascist organizations has been pushed through the constituent assembly. The prime movers behind the special law were the Communists, thus giving impetus to the chronic argument in Italy as to whether the means used by the Communists to fight fascism are not themselves fascists, pure and simple.

The law has been severely criticized as undemocratic by magistrates because it seeks to punish fascists for acts which the Communists are committing freely almost every day.

Passage of the law came in the midst of the big Communist-inspired and Communist-led campaign of political violence throughout the nation. The communists said their campaign was directed against "the revival of fascism."

Everyone else, from the government to even the moderate leftist parties, saw the alleged fascist revival as "a scarecrow," a "straw man," and "a thinly disguished excuse" to cover Communist political agitation, ordered by the Kremlin via the Cominform, and designed to overthrow the pro-United States rightist government and wreck the Marshall plan.

Fascists Attacked

Most of the hundreds of attacks by the Communist crowds were directed against the headquarters of the allegedly neo-fascist Uomo Qualungue (Common Man) party and of the now avowedly fascist Italian Social movement.

In dependent newspapers in both Milan and Rome said the sacking and burning and beating of police by the Communist mobs wes fascism at its worst.

But the Communist attacks revealed a surprising number of nests of the M.S.I. (Italian Social Movement). By the time the Communist campaign was three weeks old, even leftist republicans and anti-Communists Socialists were frightened sufficiently by the fascist revival to vote for the law which made it illegal for people who called themselves fascists or monarchists to do the things the Communists were doing to suppress them.

Not a few Italian observers have pointed out that a little persecution is just what the new fascists need to get going in earnest.

Indians' Use Of Drug From Cactus Plant Revealed At Meet

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 1 (AP)—The use of peyote, a drug-bearing cactus, by increasing numbers of Navajo Indians, constitutes a menace which may spread to other impoverished or unhappy people in this country, Mrs. Ruth F. Kirk, of Gallup, N. M., told the American Anthropological association today.

Mrs. Kirk, who is chairman of the New Mexico State Welfare board, said the U. S. Indians Affairs bureau has hesitated to interfere with the use of peyote among the Navajos because it is connected with religious ceremonies of the native American church, a reservation institution.

A state law prohibits the importation of peyote but in spite of this, Mrs. Kirk reported, the drug is brought in from Rosa, Tex., where it grows wild, and also is brought from Mexicans who gather and dry it.

Whether peyote is a habit-forming drug is a matter of controversy. Some medical reports say it has effects similar to those of morphine.

Curative Powers Claimed

Proponents of peyote contend, Mrs. Kirk said, that it has wide curative powers. "They contend that Navajos often pay large sums of money to white doctors for shots and medicine without being improved, and also undergo expensive and profitless "sings" at the hands of native medicine men, whereas peyote is a sure and cheap cure."

A button-like part of the peyote plant is used. It is sold only to members of the church and is administered in accordance with ceremony, Mrs. Kirk reported.

It is supposed to give the user a sense of well-being. It is difficult to get proof of stories that its use leads to sex orgies and other irregular behavior, Mrs. Kirk reported.

She expressed the belief that the peyote served as a means of "escape" for Indians whose recent history has involved economic and social troubles.

"I cannot help questioning," she added, "whether peyotism may always continue to be exclusively Indian. Why should not others seek the same escape and solace? What would be the attitude of apologists if peyote were about to spread throughout the ranks of all unhappy, insecure non-Indians in America?"

ZION LEADER—Dr. Chiam Weizmann, venerable Zionist leader, and Mrs. Weizmann are shown as they sailed from New York for Europe. Dr. Weizmann has been mentioned as possible head of the new Jewish state in Palestine.

ONE FOX, ONE CASE OF BEER

DUNKIRK, N. Y. (U.P.)—A case of beer for each fox caught will be the reward to hunters in this area in a three-month drive which started Jan. 1 and will last until April 1. Sponsoring the campaign to preserve pheasants and other game which foxes attack are two local sportsmen's clubs.

Metallurgical science has found a way to inject oxygen into steel furnaces and speed purification by about half, thus making possible an increase of 40 to 60 per cent in output.

Governor Jester's New Year's Message To State Broadcast

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 1—Gov. Beauford H. Jester today urged the nation's potential leadership not to be "muddled by fear."

In a transcribed New Year's Day radio message requested by a Dallas station, Jester discounted the possibility of early catastrophe in international affairs. He said "if any note needs to be sounded, it seems to me that a call—clear, cut and unafraid—should be issued by our leadership in this country for poise and sound, resolute thinking."

Destructive Forces Traced

"If we have not indulged in actual defeatism, there has been in too great a degree a lack of purposeful planning to overcome our confused chaotic thinking . . . scientists are talking about the complete destruction of men in an atomic and nuclear attraction warfare. I call the fact to your attention that in the world war there were poisonous gases. There were deadly bacteria which could have been released from an armada of thousands of planes and which would have been as destructive to all life as the atomic bomb. Why were they not used? Not because of the rules of land warfare or the Geneva conference, we may be sure. But because national leaders were afraid of the judgment of the Supreme Being's intervention or man's righteous indignation. Electronics and nuclear attractions as weapons are possible threats. So was electricity. So were flood waters. But when they are harnessed and directed by man for peaceful pursuits, they have become the forerunner of development of enriched living—not of destruction . . . I am confident that the end of time is not just around the corner. I am hopeful that these and other scientific developments will contribute greatly to man's comfort, to his pleasure and his fullness of living, not to his annihiliation . . .

Work, Thrift Urged

"I say that God's world is all right. It is marvelously put together, works superbly. Let us not in our generation let mankind fail in its mission. That means everybody must work productively. There is no place in God's world for an idler. We must live under the principles of the Golden Rule; we are in fact our brother's keeper. Then we must seek by precept and by example to raise the levels of man's dignity and righteousness through hard work, thrift, decency, dedication of self to the service of mankind, through avid leadership and a burning determination to make this state a better state, the nation a better nation, the world a better world in which to live. If we do, we will elevate 1948 into one of the great years in the history of our country, a history which has been studded with great years. Above all, let us work to keep our poise. We can indulge divine restlessness, but we must achieve serenity in our contemplation of life and the future because we know we can and will make it a good future. Let us sing and laugh and see to it that never shall laughter pass from the lips of our children, even those yet unborn."

"Is Peace of Mind Possible?" will be the subject of a book discussion by Rabbi Julius Kerman at the service at 8 o'clock tonight at Congregation Shaareth Israel, Twenty-third and Ave. Q. Rabbi Kerman will discuss the book, "Peace of Mind," by Rabbi Joshua Liebman, continuing a series of discussions of book at first Friday services.

Last rites for Mrs. Delia Nichols, 71, of 1609 Twenty-seventh, who died Wednesday night after suffering a fractured hip in a fall about two weeks ago, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Littlefield Methodist church. Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of Calvary Baptist church in Lubbock, will officiate, assisted by the Littlefield Methodist pastor. Sanders Funeral home will direct burial in Littlefield cemetery. Mrs. Nichols lived with a daughter, Mrs. Dora Kight.

Green Says Disputes Threatening Industry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (AP)—AFL President William Green said in a New Year prediction today that the nation faces a "blowoff" in labor-management relations due to the Taft-Hartley act.

Green maintained that the labor law "contributed to a breakdown in long standing peaceful labor-management relations in important industries" during 1947 and said:

"I fear even worse consequences in 1948.

"I know that many casual observers are beginning to think that maybe the Taft-Hartley act has been a success because there are fewer strikes in progress at this time than at similar periods in past years.

"However, they do not realize that a large number of unions signed new contracts just before the Taft-Hartley law went into effect and these contracts are exempt from the law's provisions.

"The blow off will come at the expiration of these contracts in 1948."

Green, along with CIO President Philip Murray, also said that a decision on controlling inflation must come early in the New Year. Reversing his previous opposition to peacetime restrictions, the AFL chief declared that "some form" of government price control now "seems inevitable."

Rites For Jack Palmour, 16, To Be Conducted Here Today

Funeral services for Jack Palmour, 16, who died Wednesday night in Hendrick Memorial hospital in Abilene where he had undergone treatment for leukemia for the past five weeks, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Rix chapel with Rev. Mont M. Walker, pastor of Assembly of God church, officiating. Burial will follow in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Funeral services for young Palmour were also held at 1 p. m. Thursday in Elliott Funeral Home chapel in Abilene.

Pallbearers for the Lubbock services will be Harold Hamlin, Billy Griggs, Jimmy Ray McDaniel, Tucker Taylor, Murray Joiner and Kenneth Wright.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Palmour of 503 Ave. S; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Palmour, Odessa; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Findley of Loraine; and a sister, Maurine Palmour, a student nurse at Hendrick Memorial hospital in Abilene.

Jack Palmour was born in Abilene on March 18, 1931, and moved to Lubbock with his parents a few months ago.

Majority Of Bank Holdups Over State Past Year Are Thwarted

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bank robberies and burglaries were a dime a dozen, ranging from the 32 cent bank job in Harlingen to a $50,000 holdup at Houston, and in almost every instance the culprits were promptly brought to justice.

At Harlingen for example, a holdup man attempted to rob the bank, accepted 32 cents from a woman teller when she said all the rest of the money was locked up for the day, and walked out of the door right into a police car. That was Nov. 29.

At Houston, an armed bandit entered the National City Bank of commerce at Houston April 22, collected $50,000 which he placed in a paper bag—and was overpowered before he got out of the building.

At Kerens, a bank robber attempted a job there April 19 but fled when shots were fired. On June 4, at Weatherford, the Citizens National Bank was robbed of between $2,000 and $3,000, by a man wearing dark glasses. But his dark glasses didn't help—he was arrested the very next day in Fort Worth.

Two men robbed the Hale Center First National bank May 25. They enjoyed their loot just two hours. Then they were captured near Hereford.

Bremond Bandit Slain

The bank at Rosebud was robbed Nov. 14. A Greenville church was burglarized Sept. 8. Three youths escaped from the Gatesville training school in mid-June, indulged in some robberies in Waco, and were caught June 27.

Two bank robbers ran into Sheriff Bob Reeves of Robertson county as they fled from a bank at Bremond with some $12,000 December 23. Reeves shot one of the men through the head, instantly killing him. The dead man was identified as J. B. Hooper, 22. The second man, named in charges as Francis Marion Hooper, 26, a brother, escaped.

Crime of other types didn't pay off, either. There was that spine-tingling four-day manhunt for the Phantom Bandit of Northeast Texas early in the year—Feb. 11 to Feb. 14. He, too, was caught near Bonham after a chase that cost taxpayers an estimated $32,000.

Two Dallas men charged with rape near Bonham were arrested a day or so after the crime. Forty-one negroes broke out of the Ramsey prison farm near Houston April 25, and it wasn't long before all had been rounded up. There was a prison break at Texarkana Nov. 8, and by Nov. 9 the fugitives were behind bars again.

It was like that all year in Texas—the unusual number of bank roberies and crime of that type, but in almost every instance the culprits were caught promptly.

And officers of the law say they're ready to dish out the same sort of treatment in 1948.

HST's Doctor Denies Knowledge Of Stock

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham held fast today to his contention that he was unaware of any grain holdings in his name until weeks after they had been bought for him by his broker.

President Truman's personal physician thus took direct issue with a statement issued in New York by the brokerage house of Bache & Co.

Taking note of Graham's assertions after his name appeared on an Agriculture department list of grain traders Monday, the New York and Chicago firm said yesterday "it is essential for the record" to show that:

"All transactions made for the general's account in both securities and commodities were at all times made on his instructions and the customary written confirmations were sent to him."

Graham had said he simply had turned money over to his broker with instructions to use his own judgment in investing it. He said he didn't know he owned any grain until he made inquiries last October and as soon as he learned of his holdings he ordered the grain sold.

"I lost my socks," the general told reporters in reiterating the point after he had been told of the Bache & Co. statement.

Mr. Truman told his news conference earlier yesterday he did not think Graham had done anything wrong.

Lubbock Man Has German Names Seeking U. S. Correspondents

Dan E. Braucht, 1913-B Twentieth, has announced that he has a long list of English-speaking German boys, girls and adults who wish to correspond with Americans.

Persons interested in sending letters, food packages and used clothing to these Germans may write to Braucht at the above address, he said, and all inquiries will be answered.

Included on Braucht's present list of names is one of a German woman with two sons, 3 and 4 years old, and who is expecting a new baby at the present time.

WATER NO HELP

ALLEGANY, N. Y. (U.P.)—While workmen were coating the village water tank with a tar preservative, the tank burst into flames. Although the tank had been used to douse many a blaze, it was of little use to save itself. Firemen had to use chemicals.

Fifteen hundred cubic miles of water fall upon the earth every year.

Miami Shades Raiders, 13 To 12, In Bitter Sun Bowl Battle

Conversion Failure Robs Tech Of Tie Verdict With Redskins

most all of the third period, two unnecessary roughness penalties against the Raiders hurting them. Miami kept pounding at the touchdown door, once getting to the five-yard line and later to the 20, where Center Bobby Williams intercepted an Olix pass to end the threat.

Redskins Score In Fourth

But the continual pounding brought results within the first 20 seconds of the fourth quarter. The drive began when End Bill Hoover, captain of the Redskins, broke through to block Hendersons attempted punt from his own 23, the ball going out of bounds on the Tech 17.

Shoults took a lateral from Olix and went around his left end for a first down on the Tech 5½-yard marker. Halfback Robert Raymond lost a yard as the quarter ended. Olix opened the final stanza with an incomplete pass in the left flat to Hoover, but the Ohioans got another break on the next play.

Umpire Fred Heinold of Cincinnati, who already had called two pass interference plays in favor of Miami, now called interference by Tech on the one-yard chalk, although press box reporters could not see it. Shoults drove over center on the next play for a touchdown and Speelman went in to try for the kick.

Miami was offside and drew a five-yard setback, but Spellman, with Raiders rushing in, calmly booted the point that won the game.

Red Raiders Storm Back

Tech took the kickoff and returned to the Miami 43 on a good punt return and then a nice run by Steveson, but Henderson was forced to kick, the ball going out on the Miami 27.

The Redskins began a march down the field, despite a holding penalty that moved them back to the 12. With Jack Bickel making consistent gains through the line and Olix tossing in some damaging short passes, the Miami team went to midfield. Then George Zoller and Floyd Lawhorn stopped Bickel for a nine-yard loss and then Shoults picked up five.

On third down, the Raiders rushed Olix on an attempted pass, Olix getting off a weak effort that Captain Bernie Winkler grabbed on the Miami 35 and raced back across the goal for the Raiders' second touchdown. With the crowd hushed and expectant, Brown went back to attempt the game-tying punt. As the ball was snapped, Tackle Bill McCormick broke through the Tech line, placed his body in front of the ball and spoiled Tech's last bid.

Late Rally Fails

There were nine minutes left in the game at this point.

Tech couldn't throttle the Miami attack until the Ohio eleven had reached the Tech 45. Then North boomed a punt to Halfback Tim Hatch on the Tech 15, Hatch being thrown to the 13 as he ran across the field.

With three minutes remaining, Tech still had a chance and Brown oiled his arm to pass. His first attempt, a long pass over Bill Kelley's head, was intercepted by Jack Robinson, who returned to the Tech 29. Miami successfully stalled until, with 50 seconds remaining, North was forced to kick to Hatch on the Tech 21. Quarterback Ernest Hawkins tried four desperate passes, but Miami used a four man line, rushed the passer, and bottled up every Tech receiver.

The statistics tell the story of the game more graphically than words. Miami's powerful backs and hard charging line rolled up 16 more first downs than Tech, gained 100 yards more by rushing and outgained Tech 37 yards in the air. The Ohio team was superior in every phase of the game today and the Red Raiders never really showed the power that made them Border conference champions.

Cowboys Humble San Diego, 53-0

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—Hardin-Simmons university's football team trounced San Diego state college 53 to 0 in the second annual Harbor Bowl game today with Wilton "Hook" Davis and Charles Bailey providing most of the scoring punch.

An 81-yard dash by Davis, 18-year-old freshman halfback, was the longest scoring run. He made another sensational 44-yard dash from scrimmage, in which he crossed up the field twice. He punched out numerous shorter gains.

San Diego made only one serious threat to score—just before the end of the half when three successive first downs carried the ball to the Hardin-Simmons 12.

Approximately 11,000 fans saw the game.

H-SU Scores Quickly

The Cowboys struck quick and hard, scoring two touchdowns in the first five minutes of the game. Davis, on his first ball-carrying chore, raced around end for 31 yards.

Quarterback Al Johnson passed to Halfback Joe Cook over the line for a touchdown.

Hardin-Simmons started the second drive from its own 36 with Bailey doing most of the ball carrying, his dashes through the line including one for 19 and the scoring plunge of 22 yards.

The Cowboys made two more touchdowns in each of the next three quarters as they romped to their easy win.

Nevada Shades North Texas Team, 13 To 6

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 1 (AP)—University of Nevada defeated North Texas State Teachers college 13 to 6 today in the first annual Salad Bowl football game.

The Texans jumped into the lead in the first period when Right End Joe Abbey took a 40-yard pass and ran to the Nevada 10. Two plays later Fullback Bill Cromer plunged over.

In the second Tommy Kalmanir received a pass from Quarterback Stan Heath on his own 40 and ran for a Nevada touchdown. The play covered 95 yards from the scrimmage line. Heath was in the end zone when he threw. The conversion was good and Nevada led 7-6.

Nevada scored again in the 4th period, Ernie Zeno going over to culminate a sustained drive.

Maryland Outfights Georgia, But Game Ends In 20-20 Tie

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 1 (AP)—A great Maryland football team outfought Georgia for three periods in the Gator Bowl today—but settled for a 20 to 20 tie against a Georgia comeback which all but won the game.

A crowd of 20,000 was held spellbound until the last play, despite a driving shower in the closing minutes, as Georgia tried superbly but vainly to beat the clock. When time ran out, Georgia had the ball four yards from Maryland's goal, and three downs to go.

WILBERFORCE IS VICTOR

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 1 (AP)—Putting on a last minute surge, the Wilberforce Green Wave defeated the Grambling Tigers 27 to 21 in the seventh annual Vulcan Bowl game here today.

Wolverines Rout Trojans, 49 To 0

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—Michigan's modern magicians of the gridiron, turning back the calendar to 1902 when a "point-a-minute" Ann Arbor team launched the first Tournament of Roses football spectacle, shattered a game but completely outclassed University of Southern California team today, 49 to 0. It was the same score registered in that first historic engagement.

Break Scoring Record

Pulling touchdown rabbits out of the air and off the ground with the ease and brilliance of true artists in a record breaking performance that left a capacity crowd of 93,000 awe-struck, the Merlins of Michigan not only continued the Big Nine mastery over the Pacific Coast conference in this 24th edition of the Rose Bowl series, but—

Broke the modern Rose Bowl record for scoring;

Handed the once vaunted Trojans the worst defeat in sixty years of football at the school;

Eclipsed the 38-7 trouncing Notre Dame's great Irish inflicted on USC last Dec. 6, thus lodging a bid for the mythical collegiate football championship of the nation.

Striking with coolness and the confidence of champions, the maize and blue from Ann Arbor scored once in the first five minutes of the game, twice in the second and once in the third.

Ties 1902 Mark

Then the Wolverines went on to burst across the Trojan goal line three times in the final quarter to tie the 49-0 record score hung up by the late Fielding H. Yost's great eleven over Stanford in the first New Year's day classic of the tournament of roses.

The Trojs fought all the way, but the Michigans' defensive forces matching the strength and precision of the offensive eleven, bottled up USC throughout the game except for one drive.

The Trojans generated a 75-yard ground march in the second quarter that swept on to the Michigan 13, then a pass was intercepted and USC's only trip of the entire game across the 50-yard stripe ended in disappointment.

Bulldogs Post 35-27 Win Over Seminole

POST, Jan. 1 (Special)—Tahoka's sharp-shooting cagers, paced by speedy center Finus Botkin, defeated the Seminole five 35-27 here tonight in the feature tussle of first round play in the Second Annual All-Boys basketball tourney. Botkin, spark of the Bulldog quint, tallied 15 points to cop individual honors in the clash of two of the top cage powers of Class A play.

O'Donnell drubbed Southland, 31-10, in the other battle for meet honors as Center J. Brock chalked up 14 points. In a "B" five encounter Post trounced O'Donnell, 26-7. Two tourney entries, Snyder and Ralls, dropped from competition.

Four fast tilts are slated Friday night as teams enter second round elimination, with two special games carded to provide fans with a full schedule. Crosbyton meets Seagraves at 6:30, then Post battles Sundown in a crucial test at 7:30. The Post-Sundown game will count in conference play as well as in the tourney bracket. The Sundown and Post girls clash in the third game, with Post and Southland All-Star quints matched in the final tussle.

Samuel Huston Beats Philander Smith, 7 To 0, In Cattle Bowl

FORT WORTH, Jan. 1 (AP)—Samuel Huston college of Austin, Tex., defeated Philander Smith college of Little Rock, Ark., 7-0 in the second annual Cattle Bowl game here today before 800 fans.

The winning touchdown came in the second quarter when James Hillyer, 195-pound Panther back, whipped around end from the five yard line. Fullback Walter Tolliver kicked goal.

ROPESVILLE FIVE WINS

The Ropesville Independents trounced the Furr Super Marketers, 43-33, at Ropesville Thursday night as Hewlett looped six baskets and canned a gratis throw for 13 points.

Conerly Passes Trip Horned Frogs, 13-9

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 1 (AP)—The University of Mississippi came from behind with two great touchdown passes today to defeat Texas Christian, 13 to 9, and write a story book finish to the first Delta Bowl game before some 28,800 persons.

Playing his last collegiate game, Mississippi's Charlie Conerly hit two pass receivers for touchdowns within the first four minutes of the last quarter and thereby averted what had appeared to be almost certain defeat.

The TCU Horned Frogs had held the lead for two quarters after Fleet Lindy Berry intercepted a pass early in the second period and ran 30 yards to pay dirt. Wayne Pitcock's kick was good. A few minutes later, a Conerly punt was blocked and it fell into his end zone and out of bounds to give the Texans a nine point lead.

Conerly completed 12 of 28 pass attempts for 187 yards despite an icy wind and damp ball. The big TCU line bottled the Mississippi running attack to 111 yards. TCU gained 135 yards on the ground, 54 by passing. Both teams had 16 first downs.

The first Ole Miss score was made by Big Joe Johnson, who fell across the goal with a 30-yard pass held snugly. Bobby Oswalt's place-kick was no good. Earl Howell was the receiver on the second score. Oswalt kicked the extra point.

The game was sponsored by the Memphis Chapter of AMVETS.

CONVERSIONS PROVIDE MARGIN

Hogs Edge William And Mary's 21-19 In Dixie Bowl Thriller

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 1 (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks came from behind twice to win a 21-19 victory from William and Mary's Southern conference champions in the inaugural Dixie Bowl football game before a crowd of 21,000 today.

The Southwest conference victors scored twice in the closing minutes of the first half, then drove 97 yards in the last five minutes for the clinching touchdown.

Aubrey Fowler's three placements, all against a stiff wind, provided the final victory margin. William and Mary's Stan Magdziak was able to convert but once.

Jack Cloud, star William and Mary fullback, got his club in front by scoring in two plays after a fumble by Fowler had been recovered on the Arkansas 6. He made another in the second period to climax a 78-yard march.

Arkansas got ahead quickly, however, Ross Pritchard taking a 24-yard pass from Ken Holland and running the remaining 35 yards for a touchdown, and Mel McGaha getting another on a 70 yard jaunt with an intercepted pass.

William and Mary came back in the third quarter to score on a 42-yard drive, Buddy Lex passing the final six to Harry Blanc.

The winning Razorback score started from the three, with Fowler passing to Leon Campbell for 22 to start it. Campbell blasted the last 15 in two drives, the final one being good for 8.

Georgia Tech Trips Jayhawkers, 20-14

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 1 (AP)—Georgia Tech's Engineers beat the Kansas Jayhawkers 20-14 in the Orange Bowl here today as the Jayhawkers tossed their golden opportunity out of the window in the final two minutes of play.

A fumble on the Tech one yard stripe by Quarterback Lynne McNutt was recovered by Tech's Rollo Phillips. A touchdown would have given them a tie with the chance of victory hinging on the extra point.

Quarterback Jim Still of Panama City, Fla., threw three passes for all of Tech's scores.

A crowd of more than 60,000 persons, largest ever to witness a sports event in Florida, saw both Tech and Kansas count touchdowns in the second quarter, and the Engineers soar into the lead in the third period with two touchdowns.

Kansas' Dick Monroe, a tackle, set up the Jayhawker march in the dying minutes of the game only to see a fumble black out their chances.

BULLDOGS BEAT STARS

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 1 (AP)—The Bethlehem Bulldogs rolled down a snow patched field in Albuquerque's "Youth Bowl" today for eight touchdowns, a safety and six conversions to trounce the Sacramento All-Stars 56-0.

Lujack Leads East To Win Over West

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 (AP)—All America Johnny Lujack closed out his college football career in brilliant fashion today when he pitched and engineered the East to a 40 to 9 victory over the West in the 23rd charity game between gridiron stars gathered from all parts of the country.

A crowd of 60,000 fans, who sat through a steady drizzle, saw the great Notre Dame quarterback drive his teammates to four touchdowns and score one himself as the East defeated the bulky westerners in the biggest rout in the history of the classic.

The West scored first, a touchdown within the first six minutes after the kickoff, but the show was an all-eastern affair thereafter. It was Lujack, the black-haired six-footer, hitting his receivers with accurate passes, outtricking the opposition on the ground and doing the punting.

CATAWBA WINS, 7 TO 0

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 1 (AP)—The Catawba Indians from Salisbury, N. C., pushed over a fourth quarter touchdown to win a 7-0 victory over the Marshall College Thundering Herd from Huntington, W. Va., in the second annual Tangerine Bowl game here tonight.

Steers Throttle 'Bama Tide, 27-7

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 1 (AP)—An alert Texas team, led by versatile Bobby Layne, completely outclassed Alabama here today in the 14th annual Sugar Bowl classic to rack up a decisive 27-7 victory.

The Texans, thwarted in a drive which reached the Alabama goal just before the half, scored the untying touchdown in the next period by blocking a fourth-down punt.

They collected two other scores in the final period on an intercepted pass and after recovering a fumble on the Alabama five. Layne marshalled his forces up and down the field and after passing for the first touchdown, scored the final one himself.

'Bama Punt Blocked

With the score tied at the half, 7-7, the Texans went ahead midway of the third period when George Petrovich blocked Norman Mosley's punt and it bounded back into the Alabama end zone. Vic Vasicek, Texas guard recovered the ball after a mad scramble.

Harry Gilmer, who was expected to vie with Layne for the day's honors, turned out to be the goat of the contest. Lewis Holder, Longhorn end, intercepted a Gilmer pass at the Tide 19 to run to another touchdown in the waning minutes and the capacity crowd of 72,000 knew it was all over for the Tide.

A minute or so later, Gilmer fumbled at his own five and Holder recovered. Layne punched over for the final score from the one.

The line play of both teams was vicious, particularly that of the Alabamans on two occasions when the Texans threatened to score. The Tide blunted one drive at its 11 in the first half, and another in the second half at the one-foot line after it had moved 65 yards, mostly on power plays.

The Longhorns scored in the first ten minutes on a four-yard pass from Layne to Ralph Blount who made a juggling catch in the end zone. That ended an 86-yard drive which had featured a 45-yard pass from Layne to Billy Pyle to the Alabama 18. Frank Guess converted and later made good on three other attempts.

Tide Drives Over

Norman Mosley took a punt at the Tide 20 and rambled back to the Texas 41 from where Alabama drove to a score with seven minutes of the half remaining.

Gilmer passed to Paul White at the 31 and Red Noonan lunged to the Texas 7 in two tries. Gilmer lost a yard and then passed into the end zone where White and Jim Canady, Texas halfback, apparently snared the ball but White wrenched loose with it.

Hugh Morrow's placement made it 7-7.

Layne completed 11 of 26 passes for 195 yards, and netted 34 more yards in eight rushes. Gilmer, completed only three of 11 passes and netted only five yards in nine carries.

The victory kept intact the perfect record of teams from the State of Texas in this classic, making it four in a row.

College Of Pacific Turns Back Wichita, 26-14, In Raisin Bowl

FRESNO, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—The College of the Pacific Tigers, with speed and deception behind a massive line, scored a 26-14 football victory over the University of Wichita Shockers today in the third annual Raisin Bowl.

The speed and passing of the Tigers' "wonder boy," 17-year-old Eddie Le Baron enabled Pacific to outplay the Kansans before about 13,000 fans.

Doak Walker Sparks Pony Attack Against Nittany Lions

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 1—Penn State's Nittany Lions spotted Southern Methodist two touchdowns, then fought doggedly for a 13-13 tie here today in the 12th annual Cotton Bowl classic.

All America Doak Walker sparked the Mustangs to a 13-0 lead, connecting on a long, high pass to Paul Page for 53 yards and a first quarter touchdown and then bullying through the line three yards for another late in the second period.

The Mustang star, celebrating his 21st birthday today, converted the extra point after the first touchdown.

SPORTS Spotlight
By Bob Cone

It comes reliably to this corner that Coach Truett S. Rattan, the Levelland High school coach, got a lucrative offer to join the Hardin Simmons coaching staff . . . And, while that was not the whole reason, it must certainly have spurred the Levelland school board in giving him a three year contract at what is believed to be $4,500 per year . . .

That per annum figure, ladies and gentlemen, is a luscious sum for a Class A coach to draw . . . That makes the Levelland coaching job probably the highest paying job in South Plains Class A circles . . . Of course Rattan is head basketball coach, too . . . We all like to see coaches get over . . . And Rattan certainly did . . . He was given a new automobile by his admiring Levelland public, and "Doc" Wilkins, in making the presentation, paid tribute to the man as well as the coach . . . The Quarterback club chief emphasized the moral as well as the morale building in the new coach's program . . .

Everyone has the highest regard for Coach Rattan . . . He fashioned a regional football championship team in his first year at Levelland, and, even though he had considerable good material on hand, that is no simple task for a brand new coach . . . His team certainly reflected much work, not only by the individual players, but by the squad as a whole, and the coaching staff, too . . . Those Lobos played hard and clean, and they put a lot of that "a winner never quits and a quitter never wins" spirit into their grid performances . . . No team beat the Rattanmen by scoring on them first . . . Littlefield and Merkel can verify that . . .

It seems in order to hand the Levelland school board a boquet or two for good judgment . . . When a school has a coach who commands such wholehearted respect as Rattan does, then pay him enough money to live on . . .

And all this didn't come up because Rattan has a sure fire winner for next year in football . . . He has but two lettermen returning from the regional championship team . . . And we hear one of those players is not now in school . . .

Of course Levelland's school system is more in the money than many other South Plains systems . . . Over in the Levelland district "black gold" is flowing from many oil wells, and that means more, much more, cash in the coffers . .

Other than to point out that this corner almost hit the Texas-Alabama fracas on the nose with a 20-7 pick for the Steers, and that a 13-13 deadlock put the skids under a 13-7 nod for SMU, we'd best say not too much about our guesses on New Year's day bowl scores.

Hold On Inch Line

The Lions—one of the few undefeated, untied teams in the country—came charging back after the kick off and with only 18 seconds to play in the second period, Elwood Petchel tossed a 37-yard scoring pass to Larry Cooney, Ed Cjekaj kicked the extra point.

A crowd of 47,000 watched Penn State use its devastating ground game to set up both its touchdowns, then switch to the air to score.

The second tally came just before the third period ended, Petchel connecting this time with Wally Triplett deep in the Southern Methodist end zone on a play covering four yards. Cjekaj missed the extra point.

Penn State had been denied a touchdown three plays before it scored its final tally. The Lions drove to the one-inch line before Southern Methodist stiffened.

Southern Methodist, Southwest conference champion, failed to come through with its aerial circus until late in the game, with Penn State, one of the leading exponents of ground attack, taking to the air.

Walker To Page

The Mustangs scored the second time they gained the ball. Walker picked up 15 yards on the ground in this drive, then shot a high, long pass that Page caught on the dead run on the Penn State 13, scoring standing.

Penn State had driven to the Mustangs 19 yard line a few seconds before, using nine ground plays to move from the Southern Methodist 47 yard line.

Southern Methodist's line could not hold the hard charging Penn State forwards very often in the fourth period—the quarter Gilbert Johnson and Walker started to pass in earnest.

Walker intercepted a Petchel pass with less than two minutes to go and Johnson passed the Mustangs from their own 49 yard line to the Penn State 35 yard line before his luck ran out.

The only two undefeated teams to meet in a major bowl game lived up to advance notices, each displaying a rugged, smart brand of football.

Blocks Walker Punt

Southern Methodist gained 114 of its 206 yards in the air, the touchdown pass accounting for nearly half the total.

Big Steve Suhey, Joe Drazenovich and Sam Tamburo were large factors in stopping Southern Methodist.

Tamburo blocked one of Walker's kicks, while Suhey and Drazenovich knifed through to stop Pony backs at crucial minutes.

Tree Expert Proposes Feeding Plan For Community's Birds

STAMFORD, Conn., Jan. 1 (U.P.)—A tree expert proposes a "Marshall plan" for birds.

"Just tie some suet to the branch of your tree, or set up a little feeding station with sunflower seeds," said George M. Codding, of the Bartlett Tree Co.

"A few fatty foods, seeds and fruits will tide the birds over the winter. The cost is small and the friends you attract will stay and richly repay you."

U. S., Mexican Oil Officials Plan Meeting In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 1. (AP)—Mexican and U.S. oil well drilling experts and geologists will meet here Jan. 5-9 to study means of speeding up the nation's search for new oil deposits.

The government, apparently dissatisfied with efforts to increase production and find new fields, has opened the door to foreign drilling companies. Foreigners will be permitted to come in with rigs and drill on a cost plus 10 per cent basis.

Mexico's current production of about 55,000,000 barrels of crude petroleum a year is far below the peak reached in 1921 when the nation produced 193,398,000 barrels, about 25 per cent of the world oil for that year.

The meeting next week will discuss the possibility of finding oil deposits in the northeast Tampico valley, Isthumus of Tehuantepec and other regions not explored in Lower California, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Yucatan and Vera Cruz states.

Sen. Capper Warns Nation's First Duty Is To U. S. Needs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. (U.P.)—Sen. Arthur Capper, R., Kan., declared today that despite the appeals for economic aid to the rest of the world, "our first duty is to America."

The 82-year-old Kansan said his thinking and voting on European aid would be based on a biblical quotation from Paul's first letter to Timothy, fifth chapter, eighth verse:

"But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel."

Capper said, "as soon as we take care of Europe, there will be China, and after China the rest of the world—waiting." The Kansas Republican said he thought "our first duty is to America and Americans, today and tomorrow."

State Of Emergency Is Ended In Siam By Defense Officials

BANGKOK, Jan. 1 (AP)—The Siamese defense ministry ended today the state of emergency which has existed since Field Marshal Pibul Songgram, wartime dictator during the Japanese occupation, overthrew the existing government last Nov. 9. The ministry's action sent Siam into the New Year with civil authorities in full control.

Government spokesmen said that military phases of the coup had "definitely ended" and that normal conditions could return to this country, which supplies the world with tin, tungsten, antimony and other important raw materials.

TAHOKA, Jan. 1 (Special)—S. A. Pendleton, 61, of Tahoka route 3, died today at 1:15 p. m. in Tahoka hospital after an illness of about a year, Stanley Funeral home reported.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday in Tahoka Baptist church with Rev. Ted Byron officiating. Burial will follow in Tahoka cemetery.

Mr. Pendleton, a retired farmer and resident of Lynn county since 1922, formerly lived in Knox county where he was married in 1916.

Survivors include his wife; four sons, Fred and Walter Lee Pendleton of Wells, and V. G. and Lloyd Pendleton of Tahoka; two daughters, Mrs. Jessie Hill of West Point and Miss Roberta Pendleton of Tahoka; three brothers, Elmer of Portales, N. M., Kruger of Oklahoma and Russell of Los Angeles, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Estella Bogard and Mrs. Marie Weezy, both of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Birdie Barrington of Oklahoma.

Fire Equipment Said Sent In All Directions At Alarm Sound

FAIRHAVEN, Mass., Jan. 1 (U.P.)—When an alarm is telephoned to fire headquarters here, it isn't unusual to see apparatus speed off in different directions.

Fairhaven has 16 pairs of streets bearing identical or nearly identical names. So Fire Chief Edward G. Spooner plays it safe by sending apparatus to both streets of the name in question. The crew that gets to the wrong street turns around and goes to the right street to help out there.

'Cigaret Economy' In Germany Said Major Blow At Nation

may or may not change daily, in accordance with the shift of supplies.

Points are posted on a board in the entry-way of the barter mart—so many for coffee, so many for lard, so many for candy bars, shoes, overcoats, etc., etc.

The American leaves his bartering material with a clerk, receives in exchange tickets good for so many points each, up to the total of his leavings. He then goes into the "store" section of the barter mart, where Germans have left the things they wish to exchange for needed commodities. Price tags are in points, not in dollars or Reichsmarks.

Clerks are on hand in the cold, half-dark "store" to complete transactions which may encompass anything from a dainty figurine to a tapestry, or a silver service, any of which may have been in some hungry German's family for two, three or four generations. Needlepoint and laces also are popular barter mart offerings, along with beautiful bedspreads.

The day I was in the barter mart at Berlin I could have secured a beautiful coffee service, complete with tray, for $6 or $8 worth of the right commodities, including lard and coffee. I suppose I could have purchased the essential commodities at the nearest Post Exchange, but I didn't have room in my baggage to carry it. Even if I had, I probably would have been socked a couple of hundred bucks duty at the Washington customs!

Military Currency Largely Used

Americans in the U. S. Occupied zone of Germany use very few Reichsmarks. Since the only currency accepted at Post Exchanges is U. S. Army Occupation script, they trade their U. S. currency, or travelers checks, for Occupation script—dollar for dollar—and use it. Most of their shopping is done at Post Exchanges and they trade only enough Occupation script, at Army Finance offices, for Reichsmarks to pay their German servants and for the little other use they may have in dealing with Germans.

To use Occupation script — or, for that matter, American money—in dealing with Germans is "verboten" by military decree. However, Americans are Americans, abroad as well as at home, and there is more than a slight suspicion that almost every American, at sometime or another, violates the edict.

Germans, of course, are eager to get hold of Occupation script, or, upon the few occasions when they can, good, hard American currency. They can get a lot more for that sort of money than they could for the corresponding number of marks at the official exchange, which is less than one-third of the amount of the black market rate.

I HOPE nobody asks me what happens to all the cigarets in the final analysis, because I don't know the answer. Not the complete answer, anyway.

I must have asked 100 people—American military, civilians and Germans— about the final windup of the fags and I never did get a satisfactory answer.

Some of them—many of them, perhaps—wind up with the farmers who, with an average of hidden food to trade for cigarets can afford to smoke them. Others, perhaps also many, finally fall into the hands of the few rich people who are left among the Germans.

But because of their value on the black market, I can't believe all of them are eventually smoked—and, of course, cigarets being fragile, many must wear out while being passed from hand to hand.

The "cigaret economy" is good clean fun, of course, for the Americans in Germany. Even us Southerners have enough "damyankee" in us to get a big boot out of beating somebody in a trade.

But unless and until the "cigaret economy" gives way to a sound currency, Germany will continue to be the beggar at the American gate; the leper whose foul touch may upset the world's trade and throw even the prosperous U. S. A. into the worst of all depressions.

(TOMORROW: A West Texan skips a swank luncheon to eat in an ordinary German restaurant with a German he never saw before. "What we had to eat," says The Avalanche-Journal's Editor, "wasn't hay. In fact, I wish it had been!")

Storm In South

Cotton Valley alone. Mayor Coyle said 200 were injured. Army Air forces flew in tents, cots and bedding, and medical supplies.

Three children in a single family were killed near Memphis, Tenn., when a twister demolished a farm home.

Freak Tricks Related

Single fatalities from New Year's eve tornadoes were recorded in Leon, Dykesville and Haynesville, La., and Altheimer and Village, Ark.

Quiet tales of heroism arose from the ruins of Cotton Valley, where fewer than 100 buildings remained standing. A nurse, Valars Yeates, toiled longer and harder than most rescue workers. Her husband, Clifton Yeates, was one of the first known dead.

Freakish stories developed as residents attempted to describe nature's vicious tricks. Davis Cox' tan Persian cat, Fuzzy, was missing 15 hours but finally found inside the stuffing and springs of a sofa.

Damage "Tremendous"

One man ran from his home and threw himself into a ditch when his roof seemed to be tottering. The wind plucked off the roof and dumped it on top of him in the ditch. He was not injured seriously.

One house was turned bottomside upward — with even the flooring still in place.

There was no estimate of overall property damage. A Red Cross capitulation showed 150 homes destroyed in Cotton Valley and 50 damaged, with "tremendous" but uncounted damage to the business section.

Conditions Improving

The relief agency listed 15 houses destroyed and 150 damaged in the Haynesville, La., area, 50 damaged in Mumford, Tenn., and 25 destroyed and 40 damaged in a rural community north of Memphis, Tenn.

Mayor Tom Henderson estimated damages in and around Haynesville at $500,000.

Officials reported conditions were improving at Cotton Valley, with stricken residents housed in box cars on tents and food being supplied by the Red Cross from an oil company cafeteria.

Known Dead Listed

A list of known dead throughout the south follows:

Cotton Valley, La.—Charles Bruce Collins, six months; Mrs. C. B. Collins, his mother; Doris Perkins, 4; Linda Gail Vowell, three months; Mrs. Vince Vowell, 34; Clifton Yeates, 45; Mrs. H. B. Robinson; Danty Clayton, 50; Alvin Shaw; Charles Cox, 19; Howard Fromby, 10; and an unidentified negro woman.

Farm near Memphis, Tenn.—Hazel Becton, 15; Marie Becton, seven months, and Wilnus Becton, 10.

Mantee, Miss.—William Grimsley, 35.

Dykesville, La. — Mrs. Emma McCuen, 84.

Village, Ark.—Toby Haynes, 35, superintendent of schools, killed in collapse of gymnasium during basketball practice.

Altheimer, Ark. — Larry Don Jefferson, three months.

Leton, La.—unidentified negro.

Haynesville, La. — unidentified negro.

Winter Storms

forecast for all of Texas, with the possible exception of the extreme south and the Gulf coast, where the expected range was from 29 to 34 degrees.

Wednesday's storms, which crippled communications and hampered travel in places, left behind continued traffic hazards.

Large ranch and oil areas in the Midland vicinity were glazed with ice Thursday, and numerous minor traffic mishaps were reported in Midland.

Transportation by air, train, bus and automobile was near normal.

Storms Hit Midwest

Snow averaging two inches fell on most of the Panhandle Wednesday night, with Amarillo recording Thursday morning low of 10 degrees and Lubbock 9.

Excessive rains accompanied by freezing temperatures brought severe ice storms and later heavy snows New Year's day to sections of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Michigan, disrupting communication and power lines, toppling radio transmitter towers and causing damage estimated in the millions, the Associated Press reported.

In the East, rain helped clear New York streets of its record 25.8 inch snowfall of last Friday, but freezing temperatures followed and the Weather bureau warned that by midnight highways from Pennsylvania to Massachusetts probably would be covered with ice.

Chicago and Northern Illinois suffered heavily in the midwestern area as high winds and freezing rain toppled at least nine transmitter towers, knocked down telephone lines, shattered windows throughout Chicago and coated the city's streets with an icy sheet that crippled transportation facilities.

The Illinois Bell telephone company estimated it had suffered at least $1,000,000 damage to its lines and equipment. At least a score of Illinois cities were isolated by shattered telephone lines.

Rochester, Ind., was without power for three hours due to ice on lines and sections of Wabash, Huntington, and South Bend, Ind., also were without electricity for periods.

Alaska Weather Slows Search For Missing B-29, Crewmen

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 1 (AP)—The Alaska winter kept a tight veil today over the fate of a B-29 weather plane, which vanished early yesterday morning, and blocked efforts to locate five men who vanished after an earlier superfortress crash.

A ground party probed the snow-choked point McKenzie area west of here in a search for the weather observation plane and its nine crewmen.

Meadow Residents Have Narrow Escape

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 1 (Special)—Three members of a Meadow family were in Tredway-Daniel hospital in Brownfield tonight recovering from gas fumes which overcame them about 8 p. m.

In the hospital were Mr. Leslie Brooks, 65, his wife, 44, and a son, Robert, 20.

An attendant at Brownfield Funeral home who brought the Brooks to Brownfield in two ambulances told the following story:

About 8 o'clock tonight, Mrs. Brooks became ill and Walter, twin brother of Robert, and a friend went to Brownfield to obtain medicine for her. Upon their return to the residence in Meadow about 9 o'clock they found the father, mother and brother all unconscious. Neighbors were called as were ambulances from Brownfield Funeral home.

Investigation revealed that the flames in a kitchen gas stove had gone out and fumes were escaping into the room.

Recovery of the three was expected, hospital attendants said.

Jester Praises Alexander

Informed of Alexander's death at New Orleans, Gov. Beauford H. Jester issued this statement:

"The State of Texas has lost one of its most distinguished citizens, jurists, and public servants in the untimely passing of Chief Justice James P. Alexander.

"His service as presiding judge of the highest court of his state was characterized by dignity, fairness, and wisdom consistent with that exalted place.

"His opinions were carefully drawn, reflecting deep study, profound knowledge of the law, and sympathy for the inherent rights of man.

Noted For Logic

"Never failing in diligent attention to the demands of public service, he took time which properly might have been his own to give large service also to many civic affairs and to every movement for the promotion of the well-being of his fellowmen.

"He was the type of citizen upon whose stewardship the effectiveness of this country and its way of life rests and depends. His passing is a great loss to our state and to our society."

Alexander was noted among lawyers for the clarity and accuracy of reasoning in the opinions he wrote both as an intermediate court and Supreme court judge.

When he became chief justice, he instituted methods of handling appeals credited with speeding up the handling of cases and keeping the court abreast of its docket.

Backed Other Reforms

As a member of the civil judicial council, he was vitally interested in court reforms, and was active in streamlining and rewriting the Supreme court's rules of procedure.

Alexander succeeded W. F. Moore—who had not been a candidate for re-election—as chief justice in 1940.

The late chief justice was a member of the First Baptist church of Austin and was a Mason and a Shriner. He also was active in the Philosophical society of Texas and was president of the committee on improving the administration of justice, of the American Bar association.

Income Boosts

He said industries involved included woolen textiles, leather, telegraph, shipping and local transportation.

Clague also pointed out that some of the major wage agreements—such as those in steel, automobiles, and electrical manufacturing—will expire or can be reopened in the late winter and spring. Other agreements, as in coal mining, may be reopened upon 30 days notice.

AFL Maps Fight

Clague's report revealed 1947 work stoppages totaled less than 4,000, compared with 5,000 in 1946, and cost 35,000,000 man-days of labor—less than a third of the strike time the previous year.

Ball told a reporter:

"We are enjoying one of the best periods of labor-management relations of the past ten years. I see no need for any amendments to the Taft-Hartley law during the next session."

His remarks followed a statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that there would be a "blowoff" between labor and management because of the Taft-Hartley act and that the "AFL's chief task in 1948 will be to oust the present stand-pat Congress."

Dog Bites Infant Fatally After Removing Child From Her Crib

SEATTLE, Jan. 1 (AP)—Detective Claude Dodd of the sheriff's office said today a German shepherd dog dragged its master's month-old daughter from her crib today while the family slept and bit the child fatally.

The father was Master Sgt. Robert May, 28, of Saltillo, Tex., currently stationed at Fort Lawton.

After undergoing an appendectomy recently, Miss Billie Cathey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Cathey of 2408 Twenty-second, returned home Thursday from Lubbock Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Olin Poer of Tahoka, who had been a patient in Lubbock Memorial hospital several days, returned home Thursday.

Damage was negligible in two Thursday fires, firemen said. A small fire resulted at Rip's repair shop on East Broadway after an attempt to thaw water pipes, and a fire of similar origin was extinguished at a residence three miles south of Lubbock on Tahoka highway.

Strike Of Radio, Cable Workers Expected After Agreement Fails

NEW YORK, Friday, Jan. 2 (AP)—The time for beginning of a strike of overseas communications workers passed at 12:01 a. m. (EST) today without immediate word as to the progress of last-ditch efforts to prevent a walkout.

There had been no word during the previous evening to indicate the possibility of a settlement, and picket lines were being formed.

It was estimated that a strike would halt about two-thirds of the overseas transmission handled by companies involved in the dispute, but it also was reported that other concerns not affected could take over most of the matter.

The companies are the cables division of the Western Union Telegraph company, Mackay Radio and Telegraph, inc., the Commercial Cable company and All America Cables and Radio, inc.

The unions are the CIO American Communications association and the independent All America Cable Employes association. About 3,500 workers are involved. The All America association, whose members are employed by All America cables, voted to act jointly with the CIO group in strike action.

FRISCO WORKERS QUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 (AP)—The CIO American Communications association struck the San Francisco offices of Mackay Radio and Telegraph company, tonight at 9 p. m. (PST).

Picket lines formed around the three downtown offices and the union said the company's transmission station at suburban Palo Alto and receiving station at Half Moon bay would be picketed.

New Year Of 'Peace'

Pakistan to the United Nations Security council. India accused Pakistan of sheltering raiders who continued depredations against Kashmir. Indian troops were trying to recapture some lost positions in Jammu, southern province of the state, and planes bombed raiders.

The new year brought the return of civil law to Siam for the first time since Field Marshal Pibul Songgram overthrew the government on Nov. 9. Government sources said the military phase of the coup was "definitely ended."

Promise of financial assistance from the United States under the Marshall plan heartened the governments of Western Europe and gave them hope that 1948 would mark the turning point in the battle for economic recovery.

From Eastern Europe, however, came bitter opposition to American efforts to hasten reconstruction.

Pravda and Izvestia, Moscow newspapers, hailed the new year with declarations that "all roads lead to Communism."

New Republic In Italy

In Germany, Don D. Humphrey, deputy of the American military government economic division, told Germans, in a radio address that 1948 "probably will prove the turning point in German recovery." He said improvement in industrial and economic conditions in 1948 should be "about twice" that of 1947.

A new republic of Italy came into being with the new year, and faced the threat of new Communist-led strikes and disorders, as did France.

Benelux, the new customs union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg was launched as one step toward economic cooperation in the battle for recovery.

One year after the government took over the nation's coal mines, Britain carried its socialization a step further when the government took over and unified the railroads, effective today.

The year held more hope for austerity-ridden Britain than did 1947, with both coal and steel production climbing.

For the first time in years bells of Saint Paul's rang in the new year in London, and gay crowds clustered about the statue of Eros in Piccadilly circus.

Paris, gayest spot on the continent, held its traditional celebration, with night clubs jammed.

Moscow's celebration was the most joyous since before the war, with feasting and drinking in nearly all restaurants, clubs and many homes.

14 Are Killed In Train Collision

fied, but personal effects had been found belonging to the following:

Ambassador Alexander Weddell; Viola Andrews, Richmond, Va., the Weddell's maid; Mrs. Adelaide Ryan, wife of Frank M. Ryan, Los Angeles; Harriet Thompson, no age, St. Louis, daughter of Dr. John P. Murphy, physician for Katy RR.; Miss Jane Raddatz, San Fernando, Calif.; Cpl. Everett P. Gilpin, (or Gerhart) RA 18034699, en route from Green Haven, N. Y., to Camp Cooke, Calif.

Passengers in the other cars on the train were not seriously injured. Only the rear wheels of the second pullman of the front train were knocked off the track.

Not until seven hours later when they were taken off the train to complete their journey to Kansas City by bus did about 100 passengers in the forward coaches learn of the grisly scene in the rear pullman.

There were exclamations of horror and surprise as the travelers trudged past the telescoped car and waiting ambulances. Many said they had felt only a slight bump when the wreck occurred.

Signals Apparently Failed

Col. Hugh Waggoner of the state highway patrol attributed the wreck to an apparent failure of block signals, disrupted by the sleet-snow storm, but Paul J. Neff, chief executive officer of the Missouri Pacific issued a statement saying the signals were in perfect order and that there was "probably flagrant negligence on the part of certain train employes."

Trainmen said both sections of "The Missourian" were traveling slowly in the snowstorm when the wreck occurred about 95 miles east of Kansas City. Five mail cars of the second train were derailed.

Tracks Not Cleared

Bitter, sub-zero weather hampered removal of the bodies from the car. A bulldozer was used to pull the locomotive and the pullman apart, and tonight workers still had not cleared the track for travel. Ambulances and doctors were delayed in reaching the scene by ice and snow on the highways.

Part of the wreckage was cut away by blow torches before the pullman could be separated from the locomotive by a bulldozer. State highway patrolmen said rescue work was slowed by the crushed condition of the car.

Many Passengers Asleep

The accident occurred while many of the passengers were still in bed or had just arisen. F. F. Quaintance, Kansas City, a mail clerk in the first section, said the train was moving about 10 miles an hour at the time.

They were within 95 miles of Kansas City when the second section, a mail and express train, rammed the first section passenger train.

Kelly Scruton, reporter for the Sedalia, Mo., Democrat, said "the engine of the second section of the train tore into the rear of the first train, shoving bedrooms, drawing rooms and roomettes into a mass of steel and people as if the car had been in a metal press.

"Bodies were crushed into a space of not more than 10 feet."

An undetermined number of passengers and train crew members of the second section were injured but none believed seriously.

The bodies were taken to Sedalia where identification efforts were underway by coroners.

Rescue crews were delayed in reaching the scene by icy roads, covered with snow. The storm had disrupted telephone and telegraph communications.

Motorist Is Shot

identified the photograph of Sherbondy as that of the man who shot and killed her husband this afternoon after they gave him a ride on the Denver-Colorado Springs highway.

Car Is Smashed

Sherbondy, 29, has been sought by possemen in the Canon City area, south of Denver, as the last of 12 escapees still at large after a break from the state prison Tuesday night.

The break resulted in the death of two convicts and the wounding of four others.

Detective Sgt. Art Shotwell said the killer drove the Hutchins car to Denver and after smashing it in a collision fled, hailed a taxi, bought clothing in a pawn shop and then boarded a westbound Denver and Rio Grande Western train.

Mrs. Hutchins was shot in the head and was reported in critical condition at a Denver hospital. The body of Hutchins was dumped from the car near Castle Rock, south of Denver.

Police found Mrs. Hutchins and her son, Larry, 4, in the wrecked car after the collision at a Denver street intersection. The boy was uninjured.

Tucker was asleep in a chair car and offered no resistance.

McQueary quoted Tucker as saying that he had accepted a ride from Los Angeles to Denver with the Hutchins family, and that Hutchins was shot in a scuffle after a disagreement over expenses of the trip.

Congratulations

American Democratic ideal."

As Stevenson read his 14-minute speech, he faced a studio audience that included his brother, Pierce, an Austin attorney; his close political advisor, Harry B. Crozier; his secretary and intimate friend, Ernest Boyett, now sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives.

Telegrams Pour In

Before he had finished speaking, long distance telephone calls and telegrams began to pour into the offices of radio station KTBC, where the statewide broadcast originated.

The former governor became the second announced candidate for the office which will become vacant when the term of the incumbent, W. Lee O'Daniel, expires. The other is George E. B. Peddy of Houston. Whether or not O'Daniel will seek re-election is still an unanswered question. A dozen others have been mentioned widely as likely candidates.

"I do not think one American dollar should ever be used to aid any European country whose policies are laid down in Russia," Stevenson said.

"I am not an isolationist . . . No nation can exist for long in today's world without having friends and customers outside its borders. Nations are dependent each upon the other. Yet we must not be so foolish as to put a weapon in the hands of our enemies.

"As for our friends in Europe—let us not be shortsighted in the help we give them. We can extend assistance to the deserving and still take care of our own. The greatest single service the United States can render the world today is to survive and prosper as a nation guided by the democratic ideal.

Demos Holding Slight Edge Over GOPs In Illinois On '48 Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 1—Illinois, key area of the Midwest, third largest state in number of electoral votes, is today almost evenly divided in its party preference for the crucial 1948 presidential election.

State-wide polling by the Institute finds the Prairie State, which went Democratic in the last four presidential elections, leaning Democratic again now but only by the slimmest of margins. The state has 28 electoral votes.

GALLUP

When Illinois voters were asked, "If a presidential election were held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or the Republican?" this is the way they voted:

Democratic	51%
Republican	49

This vote compares with the trend in recent years as follows:

ILLINOIS TREND
(Presidential Elections)

	Dem.	Rep.
1932	56.8%	43.2%
1936	59.2	40.8
1940	51.2	48.8
1944	51.7	48.3
TODAY	51.0	49.0

Today's poll does not constitute a forecast of the outcome in Illinois next November. Extensive further polling will be conducted at intervals to measure the trend of sentiment as the presidential campaign progresses.

Today's results indicate basic party strength irrespective of candidates. In the last ten years such polls have shown a high degree of accuracy in measuring political sentiment in presidential elections.

Illinois is the fifth large state whose political sentiment at present has been reported by the Institute. The results in the others follow:

	Dem.	Rep.
New York	53%	47%
Pennsylvania	51	49
Ohio	51	49
Michigan	47	53

Illinois has the distinction of ranking first in the country in voting participation. In both 1944 and 1940 the Illinois vote was the equivalent of 53 per cent of its total population, with New Hampshire and New York next with 51 per cent. In 1940 the proportion of citizens of voting age in Illinois who voted was 82 per cent.

Traditionally, as every resident of the state knows, the Chicago area goes Democratic, while the downstate area is Republican. This tug-of-war between the two parts of the state has meant that Illinois is not easily classifiable as regularly Democratic or regularly Republican, although the G.O.P. has enjoyed a slight advantage. In the last 12 presidential elections the state went Democratic five times, Republican seven.

Maintenance Cost For USS Texas More Than Fund To Save Ship

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—The U. S. government has spent more than $1,000,000 keeping the battleship Texas afloat while waiting for Texans to raise an estimated $225,000 needed to make her a shrine.

That is the calculation of a high-ranking naval officer here whose job it is to keep tab on the vessel. The gallant old ship would have been scrap already but for a request, made in September of 1945, that the Navy turn her over to the people of Texas, this officer said.

It is proposed that the ship be berthed permanently in the Houston ship channel, in the shadow of the San Jacinto monument, dedicated to the memory of Texans who died fighting for their country, and open to visitors.

Drive Underway

A drive now is being conducted by junior chambers of commerce, in cooperation with the Battleship Texas Commission headed by Lloyd Gregory of Houston, to collect the $225,000 from school children throughout the state. The drive is scheduled to end January 17.

Actually, the commandant of the 8th naval district with headquarters at New Orleans, has been directed to find out by Jan. 1 when Texas will be ready to accept the vessel. In view of several previous postponements, it is presumed that this deadline again will be extended until the current collection drive is ended.

Meanwhile, here is the way the current maintenance costs add up:

The Texas is tied up at a wharf near Baltimore. There are approximately 100 officers and enlisted men aboard as a care-taker crew. That size force is needed to keep the boilers going to run the lights, keep up the fire protection system and general maintenance. There is no other power available at the dock where she is berthed.

Over $50,000 Monthly

The cost to the government of such a crew is estimated at $20,000 monthly, figuring about $200 a month for subsistence and pay of the average man. The fuel bill, general maintenance supplies, and cost of wharfing space are estimated to total $30,000 or more monthly.

Total upkeep costs would run anywhere from $50,000 to $75,000 monthly, the officer estimated, which would make the bill run above a half million dollars yearly.

He acknowledged that the money isn't totally wasted because crews are rotated and new men are given experience. But, he added, they could be "used much better" elsewhere such as aboard oil tankers or other craft.

One other old warship is being held by the Navy under similar circumstances. It is the carrier Enterprise which the city of San Francisco wants. The Navy hopes for disposition of it early next year, and is keeping it tied up at Bayonne, N. J.

Princess Says She's Willing To Follow Mihai Anywhere

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 1 (AP) — Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma said in an interview today that she was completely in love with Mihai, the abdicated king of Romania, and "wherever he goes I will follow him."

The Danish princess is at the residence of her uncle, Prince Axel, in a Copenhagen suburb, anxiously awaiting word from Mihai. She said the abdication was a complete surprise to her.

"Mihai and I met for the first time in London at the wedding of Princess Elizabeth. It was love at first sight—I did not think it could happen to me," said the 24-year-old princess.

"When Mihai and I parted in Lausanne we had no definite plans for the future," she continued. "It seemed so uncertain, but I hoped to see him again in April.

"After leaving Lausanne I had plans to go to America. But, now I could not go after I have heard the news of Mihai's abdication.

"King Mihai's abdication was a complete surprise to me although we knew that the situation was serious. I heard the news over the radio when I was having dinner.

"I have had no word from Mihai and I do not know anything about plans for the future. It seems, however, after what I read in the papers, that he intends to go to Switzerland — but wherever he goes I will follow him. But I will not leave Copenhagen until I have heard from him."

One Lynching, Six Borderline Cases Reported During Year

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 1 (AP)—One lynching and "six borderline cases" during 1947 were listed by Tuskegee institute today in its annual report.

President F. D. Patterson of the institute said the lives of 39 persons were saved in "at least 31 instances in which lynchings were prevented." Of these, 27 were in southern states and the other four were outside the South.

Danger Period For Criminality Indicated By Chicago Survey

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (UP)—Statistics taken from the state's attorney's office reveal that Chicago's "crime committers" fall into definite age brackets.

The "danger" period comes within the ages of 21 to 24. If the average Chicagoan can stay out of trouble during those years he—or she—doesn't have to worry until the 35 to 40 bracket.

Romanian Jews Plan Emigration To Palestine, Spokesman Says

PRAGUE, Jan. 1 (UP)—More than half the 380,000 Jews in Romania hope to emigrate to Palestine, a senior delegate of the Jewish underground in Europe said today.

The delegate inspected the operation at Burgas, Bulgaria, before the Pan York and Pan Crescent sailed for Palestine with 12,000 Romanian Jews.

"Pressure from Romanian Jews to leave is very great," the delegate said. "Emigration in any case will go on. Its character and nature will depend as far as Romania is concerned on what happens to these two ships."

Seminole's Growth Said Shown By Hike In Use Of Electricity

SEMINOLE, Jan. 1 (Special)—Harry N. Stone, manager of the Seminole office of Southwestern Public Service company, has announced an average monthly net meter gain of about 14 for the calendar year of 1947, the two highest months being March and September with net meter gains of 22 and 23 respectively.

"It is especially gratifying to me personally to realize that this increased service depicts the growth of the city," Stone said in commenting on the meter gain. The total gain for 1947 was listed at 170.

California Town Challenges New York Mayor's Movie Bid

LONEPINE, Cal., Jan. 1—(UP)—This California mountain community of 1,830 population challenges New York City's campaign to become the world's second movie capital.

"Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City has promised the movie industry freedom from labor troubles and complete use of the city's facilities," commented Ralph Fear, president of the Lone Pine Chamber of Commerce.

"So what!" he said. "We've given the movie companies all that and a lot more during three decades of cooperating with the studios.

"We've got the highest and lowest points in the United States, both within easy reach, and we've got mountains, snow, forests, lakes, rivers and deserts. Top that, Mayor O'Dwyer."

Makers Of Weather Instruments Prefer Straight Blonde Hair

BALTIMORE, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—Weather men prefer blondes.

At least those who make weather recording instruments do, according to engineers at the instrument division of Bendix Aviation Corp. Here's why:

Hair is used in humidity recorders. Mounted in strands like the strings on a banjo, it functions as the moisture-sensitive element of the instruments. No other substance, the engineers say, is as consistently sensitive to moisture under all conditions, or as accurate.

But it must be blonde hair. Brunette and red tresses are too coarse. Even blonde hair must be of high quality—straight, at least 10 inches long, unbleached and unmarred by curling irons.

A diamond does not sparkle until it is cut and polished. This grinds away about half its weight, but greatly increases its value.

Rent Payment Is Held Same As Lease By Georgia High Court

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1 (U.P.)—The Georgia Supreme Court, in a far reaching decision, has ruled that where no time limit is specified, monthly rent payments by a tenant constitutes a lease until the end of the year.

The ruling conflicts with the prevailing practice of 60 days' notice to end a rental in which there is no contract or lease. The court held that payment and acceptance of the first month's rent in a new calendar year constitutes an implied contract for the remainder of the second year.

Taxpayers May Feel Cost Of World War Until Year 2100

By DEAN W. DITTMER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—Future American taxpayers probably will be footing the bill for World War II in the year 2100.

It is estimated that the last surviving veteran of the war will live until the year 2030. On that basis, some surviving dependents still will be living at the beginning of the 22nd century.

Veterans Administration records show that it wasn't until 1906 that the taxpayer finished paying off the last dependent of a Revolutionary War veteran. And although the treaty ending the Mexican War will have been signed 100 years ago next February, there are 45 dependents of disabled veterans of that war still collecting from the government.

Two Wars Off Books

Except for cemetery care and monuments, the only two wars completely written off the tax books are the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812.

The records show that the last Revolutionary War veteran, Daniel Frederick Bakeman, Freedonia, N. Y., died April 5, 1869, at the age of 109.

The last dependent to collect government compensation from that war was Mrs. Esther S. Damon, Plymouth Union, Vt., widow of a Revolutionary War veteran, who died Nov. 11, 1906, at the age of 92.

Hiram Cronk, Alva, N. Y., last veteran of the War of 1812, died May 13, 1905, and Mrs. Esther Ann Hill Morgan, daughter of a veteran, died March 12, 1946, 130 years after the end of the war.

83 Civil War Survivors

Last veteran of the Mexican War, Owen Thomas Edgar, Washington, D. C., died Sept. 3, 1929—81 years after the war ended.

Although the Civil war ended 82 years ago, there still are 83 veterans and 17,895 dependents collecting pensions from the government.

Actuarial estimates indicated that the last surviving Civil War veteran would be dead at the age of 99, but the Civil War veterans fooled them. The youngest survivor is now 99 and several are 105.

For the Indian Wars stretching from 1790 to 1898, there are 797 veterans and 2,278 dependents on government rolls.

The Spanish-American War has 112,355 veterans and 80,679 dependents.

History shows that as the ranks of disabled veterans getting government help thin, the group of dependents grows.

There are 438,121 veterans and 389,232 dependents of World War I getting government aid and 1,712,696 veterans and 416,370 dependents on the service-connected disability list of World War II.

Thus far the post-war cost for payments to veterans and dependents of the Civil War—now about $8,200,000,000—tops the list. But World War I is catching up rapidly with about $5,800,000,000.

The Spanish-American War is way down with about $2,200,000,000. World War II? It hasn't got a good start.

Boston Chamber Of Commerce Concedes Women Necessary

BOSTON, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—The Boston Chamber of Commerce finally has conceded that women are necessary.

After the chamber voted to break a barrier of long standing preventing women from sitting on the board, Michael T. Kelleher, president, addressed the members. He said:

"I know of no venture calling for complete community co-operation that achieves success without the support and help of women."

Ohio Man Makes Payment On Fine With Box Of Nickels

HILLSBORO, O., Jan. 1 (U.P.)—Police Chief Lawrence Davidson felt like an overloaded slot machine winner when Richard M. Morris, 20, Xenia, O., paid his $100 fine for driving while intoxicated.

Morris handed the chief $80 in nickels in a cigar box as part payment of his fine.

Davidson had to count the nickels—all 1,600 of them.

WTCC Planning New Program On Soil And Water Conservation

ABILENE, Jan. 1 (Special)—The most ambitious program ever offered by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce affecting the economy and social welfare of more than one hundred counties making up the area, has just been announced by President C. P. Dodson, in releasing the 1948 work program of the organization.

This program worked out by the officers committee following the adoption of the general outline at the November referendum meeting calls for increased activities in fields vitally affecting conservation and social relations.

Law Revision Is Project

Two of the projects, for which commissions have been set up in the organization, have to do with oil and water.

First is the conservation commission, which is charged with the immediate task of studying the proposed diversion of the state's general revenue ad valorem tax to soil conservation and farm to market road purposes, and to draft a proposed enabling act assuring the expenditure of soil conservation funds so as to supplement and augment the programs of other state and federal agencies.

Charles C. Thompson of Colorado City, is chairman of this committee, with Sterling Williams, Snyder, vice chairman; W. R. Cusenbary, Sonora; J. G. Nisbett, Dumas and Walter R. Humphrey, Fort Worth.

Water Study Proposed

Next is the water resource development commission which is charged with the responsibility of studying the conservation and maximum utilization of both surface and underground water, such studies to be conducted with the aid of professional engineers, and in cooperation with other agencies, with findings and recommendations to be reported to the Board of Directors.

Heading this committee is Winfield Holbrook of Plainview, with James N. Allison, Midland, vice chairman; W. O. Fortenberry, Lubbock; Charles L. South, Coleman and C. E. Coombes, Stamford.

Affecting the social life of West Texas is the West Texas Spanish-American relations commission, charged with fostering projects common to both West Texas and Mexico, developing good will and working for maximum trade relations with Mexico.

Heading this commission is C. W. Meadows, San Angelo; Tim B. Cobb, Del Rio, vice chairman; L. D. Aston, Cleburne; Ed Nunnally, Bronte and Charles Stuckey, Monahans.

In addition various other commissions, which already have done some work, will continue to function, according to General Manager D. A. Bandeen . . . Their program was worked out by the officers' committee, composed of Dodson as president with vice presidents John D. Mitchell, Odessa; J. M. Willson, Floydada and B. P. Bludworth, Brownwood and Malcolm M. Meek, treasurer, Abilene.

CHINESE COLLEGES AIDED

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The United Board for Christian Colleges in China disclosed that more than $500,000 worth of equipment was sent to 13 colleges in that country in 1947.

Hotel Detective Gets Workout Up, Down 26 Flights Of Stairs

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 1 (U.P.)—The life of a detective sometimes has its ups and downs.

A Netherland Plaza hotel detective, Herman Kahn, raced up and down 26 flights of stairs for an hour and a half before finally capturing his quarry with the aid of two city patrolmen.

The prisoner said, "I needed exercise and decided to do my road work on the hotel stairs." He did plenty—he and the officers were all in when he finally was caught in the lobby, after a 26th floor guest complained someone was pounding on his door at 3:30 a. m.

The chase ranged from the first floor up to the 26th—up, down, up, down. There were brief pauses while all caught their breath.

Ohio Forester Determines Rate Of Growth Of Trees

WOOSTER, O., Jan. 1. (U.P.)—If you are ever called upon to answer the question of how fast do trees grow, the answer is 101 board measure per acre in trees 10 inches in diameter or better, breast high, annually.

That, according to B. E. Leete, forester for the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, is the answer.

Leete said a set of 70 experimental plots established two years ago have been measured by the system devised by C. B. Stott of the U. S. Forest Service, Milwaukee.

DISINFECTANT DEODORIZED

WILMINGTON, Del. (U.P.) — The duPont Co. has developed a long-sought dry seed disinfectant which is almost odorless. It is "Ceresan" M, recommended for use against many seed-borne and soil-born crop diseases, including seed-borne anthracnose, angular leafspot, seed decay, and seedling damping-off of cotton.

Hunters Urged To Make War On Coyotes, Wolves In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—Joe Scott, State Board of Agriculture president, called for more hunting of coyotes and wolves in Oklahoma after receiving complaints from farmers that the animals were killing their stock.

Lowering of federal and state bounties for killing predatory animals has taken many professional trappers from the field. The job of keeping the animals under control now falls to sportsmen, Scott said.

The state pays $2.50 for each wolf killed.

'Border-Line' Marriage Solves Ministerial Problem In Dakota

BELLE FOURCHE, S.D., Jan. 1. (U.P.)—It was a "border-line" marriage, but circumstances dictated it.

Eva R. Wheeler and Ervin Richards had planned their wedding in Aladdin, Wyo., and had engaged the Rev. Harold Salem of Belle Fourche to perform the ceremony.

But the Rev. Mr. Salem couldn't do that, since his ministerial authority didn't extend into Wyoming.

So the parties compromised and the wedding was held on the Wyoming-South Dakota border.

Joking Pickpocket Robs Peter To Pay Paul, Police Conclude

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 1 (U.P.) — The story of the disappearing pocketbooks has police mystified.

Miss Margaret Watson, a visitor from Washington Court House, O., to the National Grange convention, lost a change purse with $8 from her pocketbook. But in her pocketbook was a man's billfold, with $8 in cash inside.

The billfold was identified as the property of Robert Foley, who said it had been stolen at a theater two weeks previously. But it had $23 in it then, he told officers.

Police are looking for a practical-joking pickpocket.

CHICAGO "L" TRYING RADAR

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Chicago's antiquated elevated railroad system is experimenting with radar to prevent accidents. Philip Harrington, chairman of the Chicago Traction Authority, said if tests this winter prove effective radar will be installed permanently on "L" trains.

Registration For Tech Students To Be Improved By New System

By BILL SAYERS
Avalanche Staff Writer

A long cherished dream of every Texas Technological college student since its founding is fast approaching a reality. For years they have looked forward with dread to the long winding lines that were as much a part of registering as was signing their name to the roll.

Beginning freshmen endured this process with mixed emotions of rage, frustration and resentment but as they progressed through their college career they gradually became resigned to it and began figuring out systems of beating the line. These systems ranged all the way from arrival at the administration building in the wee, cold hours of the morning to brazenly butting in at the head of the line, the latter maneuver being reserved for football players and ex-Marines.

New Setup Planned

The sudden increase in enrollment at the end of World War II increased the problem many fold and lines have been known to stretch for as much as two or three blocks, some of which often took the better part of a day to traverse.

Beginning with the registration for the spring semester in February, all this will be in the past, or at least the greater part of it. Due to an elaborate system of registration worked out by the registrar, the longest line that a student will have to face will be at the room where he schedules his classes, which cannot possibly contain more than 30 people and probably half that number.

Plan Is Explained

Pre-registration for the spring semester will begin about Jan. 19, at which time several booths will be placed at strategic locations throughout the campus for the purpose of those students already in school to sign up for the spring session. They will fill out a card at the booth, drop it in a box and it will be collected the same day by the Registrar's office. Within a few days after signing the card, the student will receive at his home, all of the cards and papers he has heretofore had to fill out before he could begin registration. This will enable him to fill them out at home at his leisure.

There will be no more necessity for lining up for housing approval from the Dean of Men's office or for visiting the business office on the part of the students going to school under the G. I. bill. All of this will be automatically approved by the dean and the coordinator of veteran's affairs for the students attending school this semester.

Several International Business machines have been secured for help in the registration process which will take over where the student used to have to fill out innumerable forms, and duplicate them automatically. All the student must do is to write the correct information on the few cards that he must fill out and the machines will do the rest. They cannot do the student's thinking for him but they can do everything else even to the extent of correcting their own mistakes, W. P. Clement, registrar at the college, stated, adding however, that the machines will not eliminate registration for the students, but will facilitate it to a considerable degree.

United Nations Making Progress Legal Adviser Reports To Group

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—The United Nations is making slow but sure progress toward a better world, in spite of the deep-rooted political differences among the large powers, a group here was told.

A. H. Feller, general counsel and head of the UN legal department, told the lawyers' division of the Federation of Jewish Philanthrophies of New York that while "it make take many years" for the full effect of the UN to be realized, it already has accomplished much.

He listed as achievements the development and codification of international law, the feeding of hungry children in devastated countries, the stabilization of European industry and transport, and the protection of trustee territories and their progress toward self-government.

Woman Watches Men Unload Coal, Then Tells Them Wrong Address

MANKATO, Minn., Jan. 1 (UP)—It was the worst snowstorm in several years, and Mrs. J. L. Kooser, a farm woman, watched two men try to guide their huge truck through mountainous snow drifts.

They banged the vehicle against a tree and a fence and finally had to back the truck up a hill.

Working furiously in the biting cold, they unloaded the load of coal in a corn crib and then presented the woman with the bill.

Mrs. Kooser looked at the well-stocked coal shed, the overflowing corn crib, and finally, the coal bill.

It was then she told the men they had the wrong address.

Texas A&M Station To Take Part In Study Of Gulf Coast Drainage

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—The U. S. Department of the Interior's Bureau of Reclamation will use research finding of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station in preparing a report on the possibilities of drainage improvements on the Texas Gulf coast, according to D. W. Williams, A. & M. college vice president for agriculture.

A pilot study of the physical and economic aspects of drainage and irrigation needs is being made by the bureau in Fort Bend county.

Harry P. Burleigh, planning engineer, and George Hendrix, agricultural economist of the bureau, requested the help of the state's agricultural research agency on the project in view of the complex nature of the economic and agronomic problems involved.

They were assured at a meeting at College Station recently that the bureau would receive the full cooperation of the Texas A. & M. college stystem in this work, Williams said. Representing A. & M. at the meeting were Williams, Director R. D. Lewis of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station, Dean Charles N. Shepardson of the School of Agriculture and Director Ide P. Trotter of the Texas Extension service.

Data on locations, types, capacities and costs of major drainage ditches will be developed by the bureau in the Fort Bend county investigations, Williams said. Then, using research findings of Texas A. & M., the bureau will prepare its report o nthe possibilities of developing improve drainage systems for the heavy and potentially productive soils of the Gulf coast area.

Studies made by the Texas Agricultural Experiment station show that adequate drainage is a prime essential to the development of improved crop and livestock programs on the coastal plains of Southeast Texas.

Military Leader Says Soviet Still Holds Italian Soldiers

ROME, Jan. 1 (UP)—Marshal Giovanni Messe, who commanded Mussolini's legions in Russia in 1942, told the Italian press that 70,000 Italians still are "missing" in the U.S.S.R.

Despite reiterated Russian official denials that any Italian war prisoners remained in the Soviet, Marshal Messe said he believes many of the men who fought under him are still being used by the Russians in reconstruction work and other tasks.

Messe, a constant target for the Italian leftist press, caused a twelve-hour strike of all transportation in Rome when he held a meeting of Italian veterans of the Russian campaign.

Arrest Causes Strike

During the meeting, a tram conductor shouted that Messe was a potential leader of resurgent Fascism. That led to the conductor's arrest and an immediate strike by all transportation workers to protest the police action.

In an article in the anti-Communist newspaper Il Tempo, Messe said Communist hostility toward him was caused by "their relustance to admit the truth about the very grave responsibility of the Russians regarding the fate of Italian soldiers in Russia."

Messe was made a marshal by Mussolini when he was beseiged in Tunisia in 1943, a few days before he surrendered his armies to the Allies. He was one of the first top Italian commanders to pass over to the Allied side while a war prisoner in England.

Nurses' Salaries Increase Each Month During Past Three Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 1 (U.P.)—Beginning salaries of nurses in general hospitals have increased an average $32 monthly in the past three years, according to the American Hospital Association.

A survey of 2,206 American hospitals showed the average salary for beginning general duty nurses was $185 in 1947.

Over the same period a $44 increase in mental hospital duty placed the starting salary at $194 per month.

In addition, more than 53 per cent of the hospitals reported extra pay for night and evening shifts.

"Complete or partial maintenance is offered general duty nurses by many hospitals," according to George Bugbee, executive director of the association.

"Because nurses' food and rent costs thus remained constant, salary increases are even more significant than in other industries whose employes had to purchase maintenance at inflated costs," Bugbee added.

Air Force Operates Dayton's Largest Business in Airfields

DAYTON, O., Jan. 1 (U.P.)—With 19,000 employes and a $64,000,000 payroll annually, the Army's two airfields here continued to be the biggest business in Dayton.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, U. S. Air Forces' materiel command chief, said Wright and Patterson fields plan to spend another $500,000 each year for maintenance materials.

Gen. McNarney stressed the importance of the AMC, saying, "security can be had only at a price, and at any price security is cheap if it prevents another Pearl Harbor."

COKE IN THE RACE

Senatorial Outlook

FORMAL announcement yesterday of former Gov. Coke R. Stevenson for the U. S. Senate almost certainly will narrow considerably the field of those who will seek the seat now held by W. Lee O'Daniel.

A few months ago almost anyone of prominence was likely to be "mentioned" as a possible candidate. Many of these unquestionably thought seriously and longingly of making the race. There were prospects of a contest with many contenders.

That prospect has been changed. The Stevenson entry probably will scare off most aspirants at once. Others may defer their decision a few months until they can see how the former governor appears to be running. The more realistic will not then plunge into a contest if they regard it as hopeless. Even O'Daniel must be considered in the doubtful category unless and until he makes some sort of definite announcement.

Indications now point to a race involving a very few major contenders and the usual contingent of also-rans. Not too surprising would be a two-man showdown between Stevenson and O'Daniel, which many Texans would like to see. It appears more likely that others may be drawn into the race by their conviction that O'Daniel, if a candidate, won't even get into the run-off. Such candidates as these would persuade themselves they would have a chance, regardless of their opponent, if they could get into the second primary.

While the Stevenson entry seems sure to reduce the quantity of candidates, it is likely to improve their quality. And it offers strong hope that, regardless of the identity of the next junior U. S. Senator from Texas, he will be one in whom Texans can take pride.

Give It A Chance!

MANY Americans doubtless share in varying degrees the criticisms of the Republican "anti-inflation" bill voiced by President Truman when he anby President Truman when he signed the measure earlier this week.

However, Mr. Truman may have taken a dimmer view of the possibilities of the legislation than was justified. Disappointment because the bill differed so widely from what he asked may have distorted the presidential judgment. His pessimism was inevitable.

But no one is likely to deny that the measure is exceedingly weak. Its effectiveness depends entirely upon voluntary cooperation by business, industry and agriculture, with no legal penalties prescribed for those who refuse their assistance. Legally, it is a law wholly without teeth.

Hope lies in the supposition that business, industry and agriculture recognize that, if this law fails to be effective, more drastic legislation almost certainly will be enacted. If something to combat rising prices is not done voluntarily, compulsion is the virtually certain alternative. There is hope the present bill may work because it is difficult to see how those most concerned can allow it to fail.

At worst, it is premature to attempt to pass final judgment on the bill now. Since it has been enacted, it is entitled to a chance. If and when it fails will be the time to consider more vigorous measures.

This Is Happy

WHEN they came out into the sunlight and approached the parked station wagon, Drusilla was waiting in her own car, a long, low, expensive-looking convertible. Two of her friends were crowded into the front seat beside her; the others were in the rumble. They looked, Happy told herself, like an automobile advertisement in some smart fashion magazine; carefree, sun-tanned, carelessly smart, possessors of the world's good things.

Drusilla said gaily, "We'll follow, Georgie-Porgie. You know the way—you should." And she gave Happy a slant-eyed, mocking glance.

George swore under his breath as he got into the station wagon and turned to drive back to the highway. Happy could not restrain a small chuckle at Drusilla's behavior.

"Isn't that what you call 'the direct approach?'" she said irrepressibly. "I think you said you didn't like coy young women; Drusilla should be exactly your dish!"

"She's made a career of being the rudest, most ill-bred brat on the island," said George savagely. "She feels quite sure that she has only to express a wish to have that wish granted. She can't abide the thought that there could possibly be any man in the world who wouldn't play dead at her command. She's not in love with me, but the fact that I am not in love with her annoys her to fury!"

"I rather think she is in love with you," said Happy quietly.

George scoffed, but Happy insisted. "One woman can usually tell about another woman."

George looked down at her, and for a moment his smile flashed white in his sun-tanned face.

"You look about nine years old," he told her, and his voice was warm and tender. "Yet you sound like a woman of 40—so deeply experienced, so worldly wise."

"I'm not experienced or worldly wise. It's just that no girl who wasn't really in love would behave as Drusilla does. She'd have too much pride—too much self-respect—"

• • •

"ALL of which proves that you don't know Dru in the least," he interrupted. "Dru has too much pride to let a man escape her. If I started pursuing her tomorrow, she'd laugh in my face and forget I existed."

"Why don't you try it?" There was a hint of amusement in Happy's eyes, though her voice was demure.

"Too dangerous," confessed George. "I don't trust her; she adores being unpredictable—and she's not the woman for Sundown."

Happy set her teeth on an angry retort. It was all she could do to keep from snapping at him that she was thoroughly sick of Sundown and all that it meant; that she wanted to go back home to New York—and her job. And the thought of her job seemed to bring Steve so close that for a startled moment she almost heard his voice, could almost see his face—and her hands clenched tightly in her lap.

They had crossed the causeway now and had passed the big white hotel and its "cottages" in their jewel-like setting of emerald lawns and blossoming shrubbery. A mile beyond the last "cottage," George turned the station wagon down a wide oyster-shell drive and brought it to a halt in front of an impressive white villa with a vast sweep of green lawn.

As the station wagon halted, the convertible sped through the gates and slid to a violent stop, with a spattering of gravel and a slithering of tires that made George wince in annoyance.

Drusilla and the others piled out of the convertible, and they all surged through the door, held open by a middleaged expressionless English butler.

"Drinks, Henderson—on the terrace," ordered Drusilla as she brushed past him.

THE house was big and wide and low. A hall ran clear through from the front to the back, which stood wide open, and Drusilla led the way to a wide flagstoned terrace. White-painted iron furniture with brilliantly colored cushions was scattered about.

"Light some place, chillens," said Drusilla gaily and dropped into a chair, her hands going automatically to the artful disarray of her shining blue-black hair.

George sat beside Happy on a white iron bench that was cushioned in brilliantly striped canvas.

"I believe there was some mention of tennis," he said mildly.

Drusilla gave him a lovely smile. "Don't be so energentic, darling," she purred sweetly. "None of us are dressed for tennis, and it's too much bother to change, and anyway, I thought we'd lounge a bit and then go over to the hotel for the tea-dancing; the dancing isn't bad, the floor's good, the music divine—"

George nodded. "Just as I thought," he said gently. "No tennis—it's a frame-up."

The butler came out with a tray of drinks, and the party became more animated. It was a typical lazy spring afternoon. But later, after an hour at the hotel, where she had danced with each of the other men and once or twice with George, Happy was heartily glad when they could escape.

"I could wring her pretty neck for spoiling our day together," said George angrily, as he sent the station wagon swiftly over the road toward Sundown.

His hand went out, covered hers, took it back and held it beneath his own on the wheel. And Happy told herself, with a feeling of complete surprise, that she didn't mind his holding her hand. She didn't mind a bit! And yet all afternoon she had been feeling that she didn't like him very well and that she'd manage an excuse to go back to New York in a day or two.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

1-24 DC LOOKING AT LIFE

IT always gripes me when I hear it said that people were so much better in the so-called "good old days," that the present generation is going to the dogs and that we are getting too superficial and pleasure-loving.

That isn't so at all. It is true that we haven't improved a whole lot. But we certainly are not getting any worse.

BRANDEIS

(Incidentally I am happy to report, if you haven't read it, that juvenile delinquency has decreased quite a bit in this country during the last year.)

To come back to this business about people having been better in the old days.

The Secretary of Internal Affairs of the State of Pennsylvania just unearthed some old library records dating back to the period following the Revolutionary War.

He discovered that among the best sellers of those days were Blackstone's Commentary; Homer's Iliad; Pope's Works; Washington's Letters; Payne's Geography and Animated Nature, a picture book.

I felt duly impressed with that list.

What erudite people there were in those days, I said to myself.

But then I looked at last week's best-seller list in the Book Section of my Sunday newspaper.

"Speaking Frankly" by former Secretary of State Byrnes topped the non-fiction list. Next came "Inside U.S.A." by John Gunther. Then "Peace of Mind" by Joshua L. Liebman. Butterfield's "American Past" was fourth and "I Remember Distinctly" by Rogers and Allen fifth. And so it went down the line. All worth-while books, none of them any less important or serious than those that were the best-sellers of another, some say better, century.

And even among the fiction "best-sellers," the best were the serious and significant books such as "House Divided," "East Side, West Side," "Came a Cavalier," "The Moneyman" and Feuchtwanger's "Proud Destiny."

VERY well, you may say. But how about those millions of trashy comic books and all those little paper-bound detective and love stories that are sold by the carload all over the country?

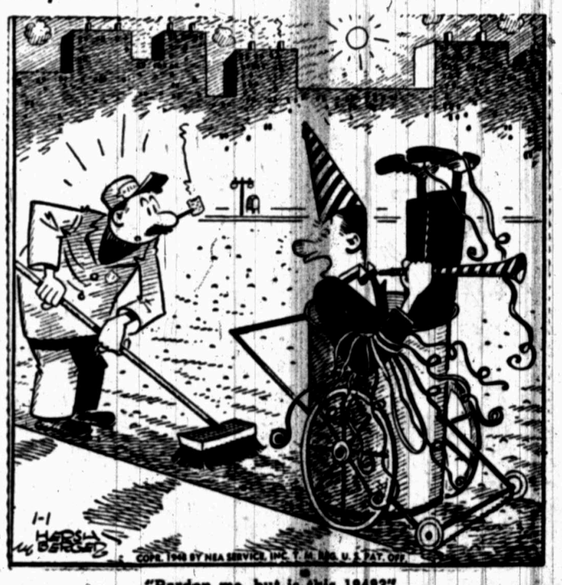

Let me bet you that if there had been comic books in those "good old days" they would have sold just as well as they are selling today—and the stuff I used to read when I was a boy and that my father and grandfather used to sneak behind the barn or in the attic certainly were no better than what the kids are reading today.

And as it is with reading so it is with everything else.

Whatever you do, don't despair of human nature.

If you do, it's a sure sign you are getting old.

Funny Business

"Pardon me, but is this 1948?"

ECONOMY SAID SHAKY

Blow At Aid Program

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Three government agencies—the Federal Reserve Board, the President's Council of Economic Advisers and the Maritime Commission—have furnished the Republican majority on Capitol Hill with ammunition against the Marshall Plan on the eve of its consideration by Congress. They have raised in sharp form the question of whether the United States can carry Western Europe for four years at a minimum outlay of $17,000,000,000.

TUCKER

Federal Reserve Governor Marriner S. Eccles, who is quite upset over Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder's failure to use his power to mop up inflationary cash, took matters into his own hands during the holidays. Without consulting President Truman or Mr. Snyder, he announced that the reserve system would stop supporting the price of federal bonds.

HIGH: It was a major financial move which did not command the attention it deserved. While not exactly "selling America short," Mr. Eccles served notice that Uncle Sam's securities have been priced too high.

The bankers have known that for years, in view of our heavy tax burden, the shaky budget, the $258,000,000,000 public debt and our commitments to Europe. But they never dreamed that the former Utah banker, Mr. Eccles, would admit it so baldly.

In the past, whenever government issues sagged, the Federal Reserve Board strengthened the market by buying them at the going rate. As a result, the banks bought or loaned on "governments," thereby contributing to the inflationary trend.

In effect, Mr. Eccles has needled both the White House and the Treasury, and partially substantiated Senator Robert A. Taft's contention that the Administration already has the authority to bring down prices, if it will only use it.

DOUBT: President Truman's chief economic adviser, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, cast even more serious doubt on our ability to support the Marshall Plan. In fact, his New Year diagnosis questions the solidity of our own economic structure.

Without delving too deeply or technically into the Nourse report, it suggests that our present "prosperity" may bubble out within a year or two. Other economists agree that there is not such a solid basis to our seemingly sound structure as most people think. There are many signs that we are skating on extremely thin ice.

INSIGNIFICANT: The 1947 output, for instance, has probably totalled $235,000,000,000 an all-time high. But, in view of the 50 or 60 per cent increase in the cost of production, that figure represents only an insignificant gain over prewar output.

Reports from Mr. Eccles' banks show that many people, especially those with fixed incomes, are borrowing or digging it to wartime savings merely to live. They are cashing government bonds which they bought under Henry Morgenthau's costly, high-pressure salesmanship.

They are running up charge accounts for everyday necessities. They are boycotting high-priced goods. Expensive inventories are piling up on manufacturers, middle men and retailers.

PESSIMISTIC: The Nourse report, which accords with other public and private analyses that predict a slowdown in 1948 or 1949, constitutes an extremely critical commentary, although not so intended, of our management of postwar problems. Our performance has been somewhat shoddy, in retrospect.

After V-J Day, in view of the pentup demand for goods and the purchasing power which had been accumulated during the war, there was every expectation that the United States would have five, seven or ten years of "high times." Such conflicting personalities as President Truman, Henry A. Wallace and Jesse H. Jones agreed on that point.

Now, according to Mr. Nourse and many other seers, it is doubtful if we shall live comfortably and prosperously through 1948 and 1949. Washington is definitely pessimistic on the long-range economic outlook.

SHIPS: The Maritime Commission has also Joe Walcotted the Marshall Plan in a quiet way. Without any public notice, it has stopped selling surplus ships to foreign nations.

The fact is that these supposedly poverty-stricken countries, especially England, France and Sweden, are building a greater and more balanced merchant marine than we will have a few years hence. Inasmuch as this country has only one so-called luxury liner, the America, they have already stolen the "carriage trade" from us.

But, despite their postwar lead in shipping, the sixteen nations embraced by the Marshall Plan asked for millions of tons of steel for the manufacture of vessels. President Truman, in his report to Congress, suggested somewhat caustically that they buy a few hundred of our laid-up, war-built ships.

They will probably reject his suggestion for the simple reason that these ships are a liability rather than an asset, although they cost approximately $30,000,000,000. They are too slow and too expensive to operate on a commercial scale.

FAVORITISM: The State Department encourages this anti-American shipping policy. The Administration's favoritism toward foreign fleets explains why Maritime Commission vessels chartered and operated by private lines dropped from an August peak of 1,400 to about 1,100 in October.

The State Department controls all exports to occupied or liberated countries like Germany, France, Italy, Austria, Japan and Korea. It insists that relief goods to those areas be shipped in "foreign bottoms" to provide them with domestic dollars.

"There are many ways in which one may cure oneself of the smoking habit," asserts a physician. Well, yes—at least as many ways as there are of committing suicide.

Indications are that man will soon learn how to control the weather. And if and when he accomplishes this, he will have learned how to control about everything in this neck of the universe except man.

No matter what he's for or against, we're against any person who obstructs himself into the limelight whenever possible and thrashes his arms wildly about and shouts at the top of his voice.

"New Auto with New-Born Baby in it Abandoned."—Headline. Gosh! Can you imagine anyone these days abandoning a new automobile?

A woman never fights a man on an open front. She assails him by stealish, ambush, front. She assails him by stealth, ambush, indirect assaults, and surprise attacks.

"The average life of a sea turtle is 300 years."—Nature note. We imagine a sea turtle must get rather tired of being a sea turtle after the first 100 years or so.

Conservatives Seeking Control

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Democratic party, as it prepares to go into the session of Congress preceding a national election, faces a decision of basic policy and approach.

That is whether to become a militant progressive party or whether to coast along as a party that tries to be all things to all men in the easy way of compromise. It is a major decision. It affects not only the future of the party, which is important to Democrats, but also the nation, which is important to all of us. For the existence of a real two-party system, among the most vital of our checks and balances, is involved.

STOKES

Party leaders in and out of government are divided on which course to take.

Conservatives Seek Power

To indicate the importance of this decision, it is well to sketch in the background against which it is being made. It is clear by now that the biggest development in politics is the current campaign by powerful conservative interests to regain the former control they exercised over the government of which they were deprived for a brief period by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

This is evident everywhere here.

Historically it is their strategy to control both parties, if possible. That leaves them nothing about which to worry.

They have done nicely thus far. Already they are influential in the present administration through key figures of the conservative sort in the cabinet and among the President's advisers. They have been worming their way in gradually.

It is the conservative elements within the administration which advised the compromises that resulted in abolition of price controls and the departure of Chester A. Bowles; in abandonment of the veterans' housing program and the ousting of Wilson Wyatt; in the compromises on the public housing program and the easing out of Dillon S. Myer. Dynamic and aggressive administrators have been replaced by more accommodating men in this infiltration from the right to appease the big business crowd.

Advisers who have been responsible for this shift of policy now are advocating for the President and his administration what they call a "middle-of-the-road" course. The theory is that this will attract conservative support in the coming election. It is all right with them for President Truman to give lip service to progressivism and progressive measures — just so long as nothing much gets done about them. The Republican Congress will take care of that nicely, if people will just keep their heads down and not make too much fuss.

Policy Said At Stake

Of course the idea that conservatives would support the Democratic party when they are sure of the real thing in the Republican party is what is known as "the great delusion" in politics. It just doesn't work that way. But conservatives are delighted to have the Democratic party make them offerings and, for that, they will speak sweetly of "good old Harry," though they won't reciprocate with votes. Only "thank you, sir."

Other Democratic party leaders, including New Dealers most of them now outside government, are advocating a militant progressivism. They would have the party in Congress fight every inch of the way against the campaign that will be renewed in the coming session to undermine social and economic reforms of the New Deal. They would have the party offer a complete program for extension of the New Deal idea, and make a fight for it. They don't like the sham-battle strategy of the other group.

It matters a lot to Democrats whether they win the next election, naturally. But it matters also to the country that, win or lose, the party remains a progressive party, so there will be an effective two-party system. The country may be headed for conservatism in the next election. That is the voter's choice, and there can be no quarrel with that. But there should be a choice next November and thereafter for the well-being of our Democratic system.

We shouldn't permit the big boys to take us over through the tweedledum-tweedledee process.

BARGAIN FOR EUROPE

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (U.P.) — Two for the cost of one is a bargain a Rock Island county group is giving hungry Europe. Young people of a church society bought two Holstein heifers to donate to the Aid-Europe project. The animals already are on their way to port. Both will bear calves before next summer.
