Lenz To Change Partner

OSSIE QUITS AFTER SIDNEY FLAYS HIM FOR PSYCHIC BID

BY TOM O'NEILL

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Oswald Jacoby resigned as partner of Sidney S. Lenz early today after much mutual criticism in a session during which they cut 250 points off the lead of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson in the prolonged test of rival systems of contract bridge.

Psychic bids by Jacoby toward the end of the session touched off the fireworks. Prior to that Jacoby accused Lenz of making misplays which enabled the Culbertsons to fulfill contracts.

Referring to "rotten" bids by his partner, Lenz at first said there was no possibility of Jacoby returning to the match and Jacoby said he could not go on being publicly criticised by Lenz, "especially when the criticisms are to cover up errors of his own."

Came a prolonged conference in secret, friends of each trying to make peace. The upshot was an announcement that Lenz would have a new partner tonight, presumably Commander Winfield Liggett, jr., and that Jacoby would be back in the match later.

The Culbertsons won five of eight rubbers of the session, their plus being reduced to 16,840 largely because Culbertson went down 1,400 points once in a jump. The rubber ending became 59 for Culbertson's side and 44 for Lenz's.

Prior to the session, Jacoby expressed the opinion privately that it was impossible for the Culbertson's lead to be overtaken. He figured that he and Lenz must win at least 36 of the remaining 47 rubbers.

The psychic bids of Jacoby which were the immediate cause of the fireworks were on a hand in which the only face cards were a king and

CHINESE FORCES ARE ROUTED IN SEVERE FIGHTING TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

YINGKOW, Manchuria, Dec. 29. — The town of Panshanhsien, on the Chinese branch line connecting Yingkow and Kowpangtze fell today to the Japanese force which yesterday captured Tawa.

The Cavalry moved in after an aerial bombardment, then a fleet of armored trucks, followed by the infantry. The column stopped there and camped for the night.

Chinchow Threatened

This drive is pushing in the direction of Kowpangtze, more than half way from Mukden to Chinchow and there were indications it might develop into a movement against Chinchow itself.

Another detachment left Mukden for Hainmintun this morning, presumably to join the first column at Kowpangtze.

General Jiro Tamon's column overcame stubborn resistance in severe conflicts with two large Chinese forces before noon, both resulting in Chinese retreats after Japanese artillery and aircraft were called into action to support the infantry.

Army Better Clad

The advance traversed snowy, frozen plains in a temperature of four degrees below zero Fahrenheit, but the Japanese, profiting from their experiences in the Tsitsihar campaign, were better clad and shod and suffered less than previously.

General Tamon was on horseback with the division headquarters following in the column's rear.

The heaviest fighting occurred in the highlands near Chengchiatu, ten miles south of Panshanhsien, where the Japanese column clashed with 1,500 Chinese irregulars and regulars, who were forced to retire northward. An hour later 3,000 Chinese were encountered near Tatienchiawan and routed

SUSPECT HELD IN SLAYING OF CHILD

MAN IDENTIFIED AS ONE WHO MOLESTED SMALL GIRLS

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Dec. 29—Identification of a suspect held in the kidnaping and slaying of six-year-old Marian McLean as a man who molested small girls last June spurred investigators today in their efforts to solve the crime.

Three sisters, the oldest of whom is 12, went before five men and unhesitatingly pointed out the suspect as the man who sought to lure the youngest, seven, away last summer.

The suspect next will be taken before Russell C. Chump, 28, who told police he saw a man, carrying a clothes basket, covered with oil cloth, standing in front of his home early Dec. 22—the same day Marian's body was found in a tenement basement. Chump said the man appeared nervous when observed but he gave the incident no further thought until the child's body was found.

Political Pot In Oklahoma Boiling

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29 (AP)—The political pot boiled in Oklahoma today as the opening skirmish for control of the state delegation to the national Democratic convention got under way at a meeting of the executive committee to arrange for the state party convention.

Governor Murray wants the convention held as soon as possible. His political foes are embattled against what they describe as his attempted coup to precipitate pledging of the state delegation to himself so he may extend a presidential boom outside the state.

Conflicting Tales Given In Slaying

ANAHUAC, Tex., Dec. 29 (AP)—A fisherman and a beach-comber claimed by officers to have told conflicting stories" in the investigation of the death of J. L. McElrath of Houston were held in separate jails today. No charges had been filed.

McElrath and a hunting companion, F. C. Bonham, also of Houston, disappeared Dec. 10. McElrath's body was discovered Sunday in Trinity bay. Search was continued for Bonham's body.

Three Men Charged In Kidnaping Plot

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 29. (AP)—Three men were under bail after being indicted yesterday for kidnaping Carl Groos Oct. 1. The men were alleged to have attempted to extort $5,000 from Groos.

The men finally became discouraged and released Groos after he had given them $5, all the money on his person.

Two of the alleged kidnapers were released under $1,500 bond while the other made bail of $1,000.

NAMED 'BRAINS' OF KIDNAPING GANG

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Depew, below, of Kansas City, Mo., have been named as the "brains" of the gang in the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly, wealthy Kansas City garment manufacturer, who was held for $75,000 ransom. Two men, held as accomplices in the kidnaping, have accused the Depews. Depew still was being sought by police as Mrs. Depew was arrested at Bloomsburg, Pa.

Town Is Looted By Bandit Gang

Abe Doubts Story Of His Own Death

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—One of the last persons to hear that Abe Cohen was dead was Abe himself.

The mourners had grouped themselves about the coffin and everything was ready for the obsequies.

"Doesn't he look lifelike," one of them said.

"No he doesn't," spoke a new voice from the rim of the crowd. "Who is he?"

"That's Abe," said a third cousin, without looking up.

"No it's not," said the newcomer. "I'm Abe."

And so it was and now the coroner will have to look elsewhere to solve the mystery of the body which was taken from Lake Michigan a few days ago.

RESIDENTS ARE HELD CAPTIVES AS YEGGS STAGE ROBBERIES

(By The Associated Press)

PINE RIVER, Minn., Dec. 29 — A band of six men, armed with machine guns and rifles, took charge of this community of 410 persons early today, slugged the constable, held a group of residents captive for two hours and looted stores.

Using the ruse they were on official business for Sheriff F. E. Little of Brainerd, the men went to the Frank Marsh home at 3 a. m. Marsh was forced to direct them to the home of Constable Ole Hougward. He resisted their efforts to hold him and was floored by a blow as a raider struck him with his gun.

When he revived, he was forced to accompany the group to the Horrigan Drug store, and to where Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Horrigan and Mrs. Horrigan's sister live.

The Horrigans were routed from their beds. Horrigan was forced to open the cash drawer of the drug store. The robbers took $200 in cash and then left a guard with Mrs. Horrigan and her sister while they marched Marsh, Hougward and Horrigan to the Harold Hill home.

Hill and his wife were ordered from their beds and lined up against a wall. The robbers took Mrs. Hill's $150 diamond ring and Hill's hunting rifle.

Adding Mr. and Mrs. Hill to their squad of prisoners, the raiders forced Hill to open his hardware store and safe and took $200 and some jewelry.

Then the bandits marched their prisoners back to the Horrigan home, leaped into their car and fled toward Brainerd.

Merchant Slain As Store Till Empty

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Because the till in his tiny shoe store was empty last night, Joseph Rose, 40, was killed.

Two young men walked in while Rose was trying a shoe on a woman customer.

"Your money or your life," said one of the two.

"I can't give you money," Rose replied. "I haven't any."

When police arrived Rose was dead. The officers looked in his till. It was empty. So were his pockets.

REPEAL EFFORTS HELD RIDICULOUS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Describing attempts to change the prohibition laws as "a ridiculous waste of effort," Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, today withdrew from a senate judiciary sub-committee named to hold hearings on the subject.

In a statement Senator Ashurst said:

"I voted for the Eighteenth amendment, for the Volstead law, for the anti-beer bill and for all the appropriations necessary to enforce the same.

"I do not believe I made any mistake in so voting.

"I have no time to waste in aiding those who are attempting to weaken or relax that amendment or those laws. It is a ridiculous waste of effort to attempt to relax or modify the prohibition laws. The people are looking for jobs, not jags."

Another friend of prohibition, Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, was appointed to fill Senator Ashurst's place by Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee.

LEADERS GIVE VIEWS ABOUT NEXT YEAR

IMPROVEMENTS LOOM AS A RESULT OF EXPERIENCES

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—Better business in general for 1932 was predicted today by eleven leaders in various lines.

Their views, published today in the January issue of Commerce, official publication of the Chicago Association of Commerce, were based on the belief better management will result from experiences of the past.

"Organizations and individuals who have grown soft during the easy years are now trained down to lean, hard business fighting trim," said C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motor company. "Mistakes that were made are providing them valuable lessons for the future.

"Experience has decisively proved that we cannot shape or mould or change the natural economic forces of supply and demand with artificial expedients.

Among other opinions were the following:

G. L. Curtis, president of the Curtis companies, Clinton, Iowa: "1932 should be a better year for everybody than 1931."

Milan V. Ayers, analysts of the National Association of Finance companies: "It is evident the general morale is not nearly at so low an ebb as it was in some former depression periods."

Harold C. Smith, president of the Illinois Tool works: "I do not look for any material improvement in business during the early months of 1932 but think operations will be more satisfactory than the current year."

F. A. Seiberling, president Seiberling Rubber company: "I have recently completed a tour of the country and have found more signs of business improvement than at any other time in the last two years. Sentiment in the west is good and in the east is improving."

Cooperation Of U. S. Sought In Parleys

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP)—A wider scope for the January international conference on war debts and reparations, in order to insure co-operation of the United States, was mentioned as a possibility in some quarters here last night.

Some newspapers expressed the opinion American participation in the conference would be particularly welcome to the British and there were reports in political circles that efforts to obtain it would be made jointly by Great Britain and France.

Independents Talk Third Party Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—Republican independents are seriously considering a third party movement in 1932 in the event the Republican and Democratic conventions fail to nominate a man to their liking.

HARMONY SEEN FOR MEET OF DEMOCRATS

BELIEVE RASKOB HAS ABANDONED PLAN OF LIQUOR CONTROL

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 —Confident Chairman Raskob has definitely abandoned his state liquor control plan as a Democratic platform plank. Democratic congressional leaders believe a harmony session is in sight at next month's national committee meeting.

If Raskob, however, does bring up either that proposition or insist on a vote on a referendum plank, the congressional chieftains are just as confident of voting to refer the whole prohibition question to the national convention.

Meanwhile, the party leaders are devoting more and more attention to possibilities of the various presidential potentialities. Discussion recently has centered on whether Alfred E. Smith intends to seek renomination.

On that there is much division of opinion. While many of the congressional leaders have declared for Governor Roosevelt of New York as nominee, none so far has proposed Smith as a candidate and the recent stories he might be an active contender again have caused considerable speculation.

Also, the names of Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, and Governor Ritchie of Maryland, recur regularly in the party conversations.

TECH TO OPEN TERM ON MONDAY

The winter term of Texas Technological college will open on Monday, January 4, according to an announcement made today by E. L. Dohoney, registrar.

Registration will be held on that day, Mr. Dohoney said, and not on Friday of this week as had been erroneously announced.

Search For Missing Flier Handicapped

MARLINTON, W. Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—A two-inch blanket of snow over the Blue Ridge mountains today handicapped the search for Lieut. E. H. Bobbitt, jr., 24, missing army pilot.

Little hope was held for the discovery alive of the young officer who last week started home to Hot Springs, Va., for Christmas. Last night his parents posted a reward of $500 for the finding of his body.

PLAN TO MEET DEFICIT IS ADVANCED

WOULD RAISE REVENUE WITHOUT ADDITIONAL LEVIES OF TAXES

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. —Speaker Garner said today the Democrats expect to raise $200,000,000 in revenue without additional levies of taxes, as one method of meeting the treasury deficit.

The increased revenue, as outlined by him, would be obtained by the enactment of amendments to existing laws to stop loopholes through which taxes are evaded.

This is one phase of the study the Texas representative conducted last summer into present revenue legislation, with a view to perfecting the revenue law.

At a conference with newspapermen, Garner said some of the holes in the law were left intentionally. He declined to divulge what they were but it was known he has made an exhaustive study of many court decisions on tax appeal cases.

Asked directly whether the Democrats had formulated their tax program, Garner replied:

"If you are talking about the organization, we have not. Some different individuals have compiled their own programs and have even gone so far as to put them down on paper, but there is no agreement."

"No one can tell what the 35 men on the ways and means committee will report to the house a month away, because no one knows," he said.

No Party Opinions

Reminded that Chairman Collier of the ways and means committee and Representative Rainey of Illinois, the party leader, had differed on several proposals to increase federal revenue, the Texan reiterated they were voicing their own opinions.

Garner predicted the Democratic house would pass a tariff bill this session, but added "I won't tell what kind of a measure it will be."

The policy committee, he explained, had not yet reached an agreement on the tariff question.

FINLAND WILL VOTE ON PRO

FATE OF PROHIBITION TO BE DETERMINED IN TWO-DAY VOTE

BY LOUIS LOCHNER

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 29 (AP)—Skiis, skates and sledges and reindeer and automobiles slithered and squeaked over Finland's snows today as the voting portion of the country's 3,500,000 people moved out to have its say on the 13-year-old prohibition law.

During a brief but intense campaign an unusually strong interest has been aroused on both sides of the question and observers here looked for a heavy poll during the two days—today and tomorrow—unless the weather is extremely severe.

A roaring blizzard and the falling barometer yesterday chilled the fervor at prohibition headquarters. Prohibitionists count on the farmers and workers to keep the country legally dry.

Storm Cheers Wets

At the same time, in the warm headquarters of the "wets," hopes rose with the tempo of the storm outside.

The issue is not a flat alternative. The voters are to decide whether the law is to be continued, repealed or modified to permit medium strength wines and beers.

The referendum is not self-effective. The decision will be merely advisory to the legislature but the legislature is expected to follow its dictates if the verdict is decisive. If it fails to be decisively in favor of maintaining the law, a modified reform is expected.

Attempt To Escape Costs Negro's Life

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—An attempt of Hughes Adams, 28-year-old negro convict, to escape from the prison resulted in his death and injuries to eight other persons yesterday.

Adams was shot and fatally wounded by guards as he ran down an alleyway between two buildings. Bullets struck seven other convicts, inflicting minor injuries, and L. E. Jones, a guard, was hit in one foot.

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 29. (AP)—Hasty Boy, Red Wing, and King, three of the highly prized ponies in the string of C. H. Featherston, were killed by a train near here last night after they had wandered from their pasture. Only four of the ponies left the field and all but one were killed while grazing along the right-of-way.

MAGICAL ELIXIR OF LIFE FOUND BY SCIENTISTS IN NEW HORMONE CORTIN

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29—Something akin to the magical elixir of life sought by the old alchemists has been discovered by modern scientists in the new hormone, cortin.

Discoveries of the remarkable powers of this rarest of substances were reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Frank A. Harman, Ph. D., of the University of Buffalo.

An overdose of cortin produces not only happiness but increased strength, better memory, more resistence to heat and cold and relief from fatigue and from jaded nerves.

Cortin is a hormone, or secretion, from the covering of the adrenal glands, organs common to men and animals alike. At present it is obtained in minute quantities from the glands of cattle. It is so rare that about $120,000 worth would make an annual supply for a very sick person.

Its use has been confined mostly to treatment of Addison's disease but in the last few months Dr. Hartman has gathered enough to discover other things cortin can do.

"In certain illnesses," he said, "due to overwork or the effect of an infection, this extract has been demonstrated to increase the resistance to fatigue, or to cause it to disappear."

JOHN D. CHUCKLES WHEN GUESTS SING "BETTER TIMES ARE COMING" AT FETE

(By The Associated Press)

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29.—John D. Rockefeller, laughed at the antics of a toy goose that lay golden eggs at his annual Christmas party here last night and chuckled while guests sang "good times are coming."

"That's the spirit we need," he commented at the conclusion of the song. "That's what will make us all smile."

The goose that laid the golden eggs was one of the presents distributed to Mr. Rockefeller and his 130 guests by a Santa Claus in the person of Sam Galloway of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The 93-year-old multi-millionaire was the center of the party activities. It was a noisy, confused and gay affair.

Children squealed with delight as they received all kinds of presents. The spacious west sun porch of the casements resembled a department store Christmas rush as they unwrapped their packages and tossed the paper around. But Mr. Rockfeller enjoyed it all.

The party continued well into the night and as it closed Mr. Rockefeller led the crowd in singing: "God be with you till we meet again."

That always has been the closing song of the Rockefeller Christmas parties.

DR. MYERS

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

DELIBERATE PLAGIARISM

YESTERDAC we discussed unconscious plagiarism in the child and adult. Now let us consider deliberate plagiarism. Any one who has written an article or book is interested since he knows that the practice of quoting freely from others in print without using quotation marks, and of using the works of others without acknowledging any obligation, or even referring to them, is not at all uncommon.

As parents we are concerned about the problem in regard to character building. We should like to have our children acquire a high respect for others' rights, including their creations. We should want our children to be no more ready to quote knowingly from an author without due acknowledgement than to use his pen or book or golf clubs without his permission.

As soon as the school child begins to prepare written composition he is likely to be tempted to plagiarize. Even his well-meaning father and mother may give him his first training in this ignoble art by writing or dictating a composition for him to take to school and hand in to the teacher as his own. Inordinate zeal for school marks sometimes prompts pupils to win them at any price; and all too often there prevails at school a race of wits between the teacher and the pupils—they striving to win the maximum grade with the minimum of work, and she to catch them at deception.

Some teachers with good memories, who have read widely, are quick to detect plagiarism in the pupil's written work; but most are not even though they think they are. Whereas it is well for the teacher always to keep her eyes open, she is a weakling if she turns herself into a sneak and a detective. Pupils who really want to cheat in examinations and other work prepared outside the classroom can easily do so if they desire. They least often cheat from the teacher whom they most esteem, and who spends least time at trying to "catch" them.

Many children never having learned to summarize a paragraph or to turn it into their own language, merely copy from a reference book, not aware that they are doing wrong. Most have never been told that quotation marks should be used until long past the time when they began to quote.

Of course some teachers, while doing their college and university work, had themselves been rabid plagiarists, and their professors probably had been, too. Among the most serious offenders at such theft are certain professors, however eminent, who seem to have no scruples about incorporating papers and researches of their students, sometime verbatim, often without any acknowledgement, in their books. Many a man or woman has been amazed at reading whole paragraphs and pages of his or her own work in a book or article alleged to have been written by a former professor, and looks in vain for a word of acknowledgement to the author of the stolen materials so boldly used.

I am sure we parents are greatly interested in this problem, and want to help our children, particularly for their own self-respect, to have an abhorrence of the practice of plagiarism. Provided we have earned the esteem and comradeship of our children, we can do them good by discussing this matter freely with them.

Young Sheep Herder Is Recovering Here

Jimmy Branch, 15, a sheep herder employed by Lawrence Rice, a sheep rancher living west of Abernathy, was recovering today in the Lubbock Sanitarium, following a fall by his horse in which the youth suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

The accident occurred late Monday and the youth, an orphan from Corpus Christi, was penned to the ground when the animal stumbled and fell. The horse was unable to rise and Jimmy waited until Lee Irish, a passerby, found him a quarter of an hour later.

Rice took the boy to County Line where emergency treatment was given and then brought him to Lubbock. The leg, it was discovered here, was broken twice, at the knee and below the knee.

ARTICLE BY "PRINTER'S DEVIL" AT LAMESA BRINGS PUBLICITY FOR CITY

The South Plains has received favorable publicity in Editor and Publisher, weekly magazine for newspaper workers and executives, in "Shop Talk at Thirty" the column of the editor of the paper, Marlen E. Pew. The article was in the December 26 issue, copies of which were delivered in West Texas newspaper offices Monday.

Lanham Evans, son of Walter W. Evans, county agent of Dawson county, who is learning the newspaper business on The Reporter, was given personal mention because of an article he had written for his paper some months ago. Lanham is the "devil" on the Reporter and as such is now an expert on "type lice," the "key to the press," "left handed monkey wrenches," and other items too numerous to mention. Mr. Pew calls Lamesa "LaMesa" in his article. He says:

"Lanham Evans, aged 15, is learning journalism on the Lamesa (Tex.) Reporter, and I predict for him a worthwhile career. At present he is only on the first rung of the long ladder, but the boy possesses a rare gift which often carries far. He knows how to write with sincerity and doesn't pull the punch. I base this judgment on the following article written by Lanham, recently appearing on page one of the Reporter:

"BY THE PRINTER'S DEVIL"

"The printer's devil is started with the hardest, hottest and dirtiest work at first. After that, it is not so hard. The presses are interesting to watch, but the heck to oil and keep clean. When I started in I was told to sweep the shop. It is one of the worst jobs of all, as the shop is swept once each week and cleaned from back to front once a year. When it is cleaned nearly everything that has been lost during the past year is found.

"The working hours of the day are stopped at ten, two and four to refuel with watermelon, cantaloupe, soda pop, etc.

"I would not like to be the reporter for this paper, because of the big yarns he is told.

"This office is very high toned. It has paper towels. Very few printing offices have them. I am told.

"Sam Smith lintoype operator and I sympathize with each other because we do most of the physical labor around the shop, but he ever gives me orders at times.

"I wouldn't want to be the manager for this paper, because he gets the blame for everything that happens.

"I wouldn't want to be the society editor because some people are sore if you don't put their article in the paper and some get sore if you do. And it's hard to please everybody.

"After all, the main part about this printing business that I like is the noon hour."

Mothers adopt Vick "Colds-Control" Plan

Means Reduction of the Number, Severity and High Costs of the Family's Colds

Doubly welcome to mothers is news that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have perfected a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to lessen the number and severity of colds and reduce their costs in money, lost time and health. The plan is introduced along with Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea for preventing colds — companion product to VapoRub, the modern, external method of treating colds.

HERE, BRIEFLY, IS THE VICK PLAN:

TRIAL OFFER BY LOCAL DRUGGISTS

You have Vicks VapoRub—now get Vicks Nose Drops and use together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to reduce their number and severity. Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

1. BEFORE a Cold Starts — When children come in sniffling and sneezing, apply a few Vicks Drops up each nostril. Use the Drops yourself at that first scratchy, sneezy irritation of the nose or upper throat—Nature's warning that you are "catching cold." If you or the children catch cold easily, use the Drops after exposure to any condition you know is apt to be followed by a cold—dry, over-heated rooms—indoor crowds—sudden changes, wet or cold—dust and smoke—etc., etc.—and there is the slightest stuffiness. Used in time, many colds can be avoided.

2. AFTER a Cold Starts — At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-cloths loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Drops as needed for ease and comfort. This gives you full 24-hour treatment—without the risks of constant internal "dosing" so often upsetting to digestion, especially the delicate digestions of children.

BLANKET DENIAL MADE TO FOOTBALL OVER-EMPHASIS CHARGES

CLEVELAND TEAM TO REMAIN INTACT

RESULTS TOLD AFTER STUDY OF SEASON

FIGURES COMPILED BY COMMITTEE FOR THE COACHES' GROUP

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—In answer to charges that football is over-emphasized, takes up too much time and lowers class-room efficiency, a special committee that has studied the question a full year presented a blanket denial to the football Coaches' association today. From figures compiled on the basis of the answers of 400 universities and 273 varsity captains to a questionnaire, Lou Little of Columbia university, head of the committee of five, drew this conclusion:

Charges Denied

"It is the opinion of the committee that the information obtained indicates that football is not over-emphasized. That it may be over-emphasized in some institutions we not deny but to condemn the game because too much attention is paid to it in a few institutions is entirely unfair and unjust."

The committee consisting of Lt. Charles Bachman of Florida, Slats (Bo) McMillan of Kansas State, Noble Kizer of Purdue, and Phil Schissler of Oregon State, was appointed at the 1930 meeting to examine the situation statistically. The analysis of the questionnaires, the committee reported, brought out these facts:

That football practice and lectures take up less than half the time a student must spend on college publications; about two-thirds the time football requires and much less than athletics or lacrosse.

That the time required for preparation for academic courses "much exceeds" that devoted to football or any other extra-curricular activity.

That on a basis of time devoted to each of the regular season, football ranks sixteenth.

That in length of daily practice football stands fifth behind golf, athletics, lacrosse and baseball.

That in the number of enforced absences from classes football stands fifth.

"One of the most interesting features of the report were the answers of 273 football captains to a group of 20 questions.

"Asked as to over-emphasis, 170 said there was none, 23 said there was and 54 said "in some places."

"Reasons for playing football disagreed that 44 played "because I love the game" for educational reasons, "football builds character" "football is a man-builder," "preparation for life."

...EHAN SAYS GAME ...EDS NO DEFENSE

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—College football coaches from all parts of the United States in session to the annual stock of the gridiron rules, were greeted today by the declaration of their retiring president, John F. (Chick) Meehan, that the game needs no defense.

Meehan's statement, voicing the views of a big proportion of his associates, was accepted as the open-and-shut in a move by the coaches to check unthinking attacks or over-zealous attempts to alter football rules because of the extraordinary number of deaths from gridiron accidents in 1931.

Frown On Changes

One of the coaches sought to minimize the gravity in a situation that has cost the lives of 48 youths. At the same time, they were not prepared to recommend any radical changes in the rules.

"Stricter enforcement of some of the existing regulations, especially with reference to use of hands, was favored by most coaches as the big factor.

"Possibly one way to lessen the injuries and reduce the number of fatalities," Meehan said, "is to be found with the boys themselves and to allow the coach more time to drill his squad more thoroughly in the fundamentals of the game. A player should be allowed to enjoy considerable spring practice. Present practice should be sufficient also to allow the coach ample time to get his team in condition for the first major contest. Let us concentrate the boys and not waste so much time talking about this over-emphasis. "The game needs no defense and the game's value to the American youth will assert itself more than ever in the years to come."

The new chief will furnish the coaches' association's next chief executive. Dr. Clarence A. Stevens, head coach of Rollins headed the slate as the nominee for president to succeed Meehan.

Agua Caliente To Open Race Tracks

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—Agua Caliente's race track in Old Mexico will be reopened New Year's day.

J. R. Crofton, president of the Agua Caliente Jockey club, said the reopening was due to the "liberality of the Mexican government by reason of a substantial reduction in taxes and through the cooperation of the horsemen."

The Agua Caliente handicap, before one of the richest purses in the country will be reduced from $100,000 to $50,000 Crofton said.

Four Teams Practice For New Year's Grid Clashes

Some of the exchanges bearing various all-state high school teams have come in and naturally some of them are quite witty. Prexy Anderson, for instance, names a team that is most individual. But Prexy can afford to be unorthodox—he's president of the West Texas Sports Writers association. He leaves his own Glynn Wyatt entirely off the first team, naming Wilson of Corsicana as quarterback, Merrill of Lubbock and Blackmon of Abilene as halfbacks and Tack Dennis of Big Spring as fullback. Crawford is given second place as a center on Prexy's team and no more Lubbock men are mentioned.

The only redeeming feature of Anderson's choice, outside the four men he picked right, is in the accompanying story in which he remarks that Cecil Merrill is the outstanding backfield man of the state.

Mr. Ratliff is somewhat intelligent. He picks six men correctly though he places Crawford at tackle instead of at center. Maybe that would be a good move. In his story Ratliff asserts that "there are no brilliant field generals in the Interscholastic league this year. We went to Fort Worth Friday to look over Wyatt of Abilene. We had heard much of Wyatt but were very much disappointed," and that is news. We were under the impression that there were some pretty bright quarterbacks in the race. There are three or four fairly smart fellows in District 1. On his second team, Ratliff names Reynold of Sherman, Groseclose of Abilene, Wilcox of Tyler, Mc Dannald of Electra, Brandon of Forest, Orr of Hillsboro and Pryor of Corsicana in the line and Wyatt of Abilene, Lawrence of Harlingen, Burt of Hillsboro and Merrill of Lubbock in the backfield.

Haven't seen Jerry Malin's choice yet, but we trust he will not go haywire and endanger the prestige enjoyed by District 1. Malin is going to name Stevens of Ranger for left end; we know that for a fact, and we think he's going to name Wyatt as quarterback.

Louis Cox, one of the writers for the Dallas Times-Herald, picks a fairly good crop of youngsters but gets the names juggled around a bit until it's almost funny. He has Bill Ed Crawford as his all-state center and Bob Watson at end. The family names are right, but Cox has the first names as haywire as Malin's assistant, Mike. Wyatt is Cox's quarterback and Wilson is a halfback, Viverette is the fullback and so far the backfield is perfect. But Louis puts Jay Arnold of Greenville as halfback and leaves Merrill entirely off, which is somewhat wrong. He names Merrill as an outstanding man of District 1, along with Pafford of Pampa and Estes of Amarillo. The Times-Herald line is composed of Steen, Dallas, and Watson, Lubbock, ends; Standifer, Beumont and Orr, Hillsboro, tackles; Young, Greenville and Wilcox, Tyler, guards and Will Ed Crawford, center. He picked four linemen right.

The Times-Herald publishes the pictures of its all-state team and Watson and Crawford shine out brilliantly enough. Too bad the names are wrong, but mistakes will happen, even in the sports departments of newspapers.

PROSPECTS FOR DRY GRID CHEER GREEN WAVE, TROJANS

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—Prospects for a dry gridiron New Year's day at the Rose Bowl lightened the hearts of Tulane and the University of Southern California football squads today.

Official weather reports called for showers today and clearing skies Wednesday and there was indication the storm had run its course.

The Rose tournament game-site, although below the level of surrounding ground, is well-drained and the sod is firm.

Coach Howard Jones of the U. S. C. Trojans admits a muddy gridiron would confine his team to its power driving offense, making a diversified attack almost impossible. He thinks perhaps it would handicap the Green Wave as well.

Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, Tulane athletic director, expressed the opinion the Greenies' chances should in no wise be altered by heavy going. Coach Bennie Bierman, given to a pessimistic outlook, was non-committal.

Local sentiment continues to prevail that rain or shine, the Trojans should win by a couple of touchdowns at least, regardless of the invaders' record of only one defeat in two seasons.

EAST, WEST TEAMS FACE HARD TASK

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29 (AP)—East and West football players practicing for the annual shrine charity game here New Year's had a hard assignment to accomplish today, as California's sunshine finally came out of hiding.

Faced by difficult weather conditions ever since arriving, the men were greeted by the sun yesterday and both squads went through long outdoor practices.

Coaches hinted that backfield combinations would be depended on for scoring threat. Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr of the East had the running attack centered about Reb Russell of Northwestern and Clark Hinkle of Bucknell.

Percy Locey and Dana X. Bible, West coaches, liked the work of Francis "Bud" Toscani of St. Mary's college so well they used him in both backfield combinations. One quartet included Hufford, Toscani, Mason and Davis, while the other had McCoy, Kleckner, Toscani and Johnson running together.

MENTOR QUITS HIS PLACE

THISTLETHWAITE NOT TO COACH IN 1932 AT WISCONSIN

The resignation of the coach was made public after an executive meeting of the Athletic council last night. The council accepted the resignations and voted to recommend their acceptance to President Glenn Frank and the board of regents.

Thistlethwaite's resignation, contained in a letter to Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, chairman of the council, read as follows:

"In order to permit complete freedom of action on the part of the athletic council in its reorganization plans, as affecting intercollegiate sports at the University of Wisconsin, I desire to place in your hands for presentation to the council at its next meeting, my request to be relieved of the duties of head football coach, effective June 30, 1932."

Although Coach Thistlethwaite had denied on several occasions an intention to resign, it was expected that the adverse criticism to which he has been subjected would result in the choosing of a new coach for next year.

The athletic council made no announcement as to the successors of Mr. Little and Coach Thistlethwaite.

BLACK PANTHERS DEFEAT AMARILLO

Slashing and charging and passing from some of the most complicated formations known to football, the Lubbock Black Panthers defeated the Amarillo Black Tigers, 13 to 12, yesterday at Texas Tech Field. The Panthers represented Dunbar school for colored here and the Tigers were from Douglas school for colored at Amarillo.

Earlier in the season the Panthers, much lighter and less experienced than their rivals, lost a 27 to 0 decision to the Tigers at Butler Field, Amarillo. The Tigers had won four other games and tied one against no defeats until they came to Lubbock yesterday. Even then it looked like another runaway for the heavier and more versitile Tigers, for they were off to a touchdown lead in the first quarter.

Lubbock came back in the second quarter to block a punt in midfield and recover near the Amarillo 28-yard line. A couple of long dashes and three short ones netted a touchdown. A few plays later, S. C. Sedberry lobbed a southpaw pass to Scott Sedberry, the latter leaping high to recover it and lope to a touchdown. Scott Sedberry, lanky left end, was Lubbock's outstanding player both on offense and defense. The other Sedberry boys, two others in the line and one in the backfield, were prominent and Chock Patterson, fullback, was an outstanding offensive man.

NEXT EDITION FAMILIAR AS OLD SHIRT

EVANS COMES THROUGH WINTER TRADES WITH LINEUP UNSCATHED

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 29 (AP)—As familiar as an old shirt—that about sizes up next season's edition of the Cleveland baseball club.

General Manager Billy Evans came through the winter dickers unscathed, and his principal stock in trade, Outfielders Eddie Morgan and Dick Porter, failed to bring an acceptable offer, although they have hit for .350 for the last three years.

Peckinpaugh plans next season to start Bruce Cannatser, New Orleans product, at first and send Eddie to the outfield to fight it out with Porter.

Earl Averill, who batted .333 and hit 32 home runs, and Joe Vosmik, sandlot find of 1931, should have no trouble keeping two of the outfield jobs.

With the exception of Wes Ferrell, Willis Hudlin and Mel Harder, the Cleveland pitching staff was a distinct disappointment last year. These three regulars were the only ones to break .500.

Two recruit right-handers will start next season and may give the mound crew needed stiffening. The most promising is Oral Hildrebrand who came up from Indianapolis and the other is Mont Pearson from Oakland of the Pacific Coast league.

CARDS WIN ON ROAD TRIPS

ABILITY TO WIN IN GAMES AWAY FROM HOME IS FACTOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Ability of the St. Louis Cardinals to maintain their winning ways on the road proved the deciding factor in their dash to the 1931 National league pennant, official figures released by league headquarters reveal.

The playing site meant little to the champion who set an even pace all the way with a winning percentage of .692 on their home lot and .618 on foreign soil.

The New York Giants, who finished second in the race proper, had a percentage of .649 at the Polo Grounds and .493 on the road.

Four other clubs, Chicago, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, played winning ball at home but fell down on tour.

Other assorted figures show the Chicago Cubs were the leading sluggers, drew the most bases on balls and suffered most strikeouts.

Among the individual stars, Chuck Klein of the Phillies was the most consistent in hitting for extra bases. At bat 594 times, he hit for a total of 347 bases and slugging percentage of .584.

Origin Of Life

Life on earth may have originated in nothing more complicated than puddles of warm rain-water millions of years ago, according to an article by Dr. Assar Hadding, Swedish geologist, in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

It probably happened, says Dr. Hadding, in the polar regions, where the earth first cooled enough to permit water to condense on the surface. These pools would have been slightly salty, and conditions for the development of an organic cell would have been favorable.

All of this, probably, is about as close to the truth of the matter as we can get with our present knowledge. But the funny things about it is that no matter how hard we try, we can't make the whole business seem at all real.

We can believe it, of course. Anyone who is moderately familiar with science will agree that that, or something like it, was probably the beginning of life on this planet. But somehow it doesn't seem to get us anywhere. Our belief, like the primeval puddles themselves, is luke-warm and slightly salty.

Long before we have traced our ancestry back that far we get more or less dizzy. Science, entreating us to accept the obvious truth, takes us far beyond our proper depth. We cannot form any mental picture of things. We cannot really convince ourselves that those splashy mud-puddles of the infinite past contained the seeds of all of the intellect and all of the kindness and all of the love and all of the beauty that are in the world today.

That, very likely, is the fault of our imperfect brains. But it does indicate that the eternal mystery which enshrouds all human life is not in the least lessened by the careful explanations of the scientists. They try to lift it, but when they get through it is as heavy, as impenetrable and as magical as ever.

And that, in turn, is very good for us. The statement that we cannot live by bread alone means, among other things, that our minds must have room to roam about unfettered. The frontiers before and behind us are still unexplored, in spite of the wise men. Their tales about what lies beyond do not convince us.

Collector's Stunt

The stamp collector is a man apart, and he occasionally is unable to spot the ridiculousness of a given situation. That, at least, seems to be the explanation of the plans recently announced whereby a special delivery of mail is to be made—via airplane and deep-sea diver—to the decks of the sunken liner Lusitania.

A special pouch of letters will be flown from Ireland to the decks of the salvage ship sometime next spring. The letters will be taken down to the Lusitania, brought to the surface again, and forwarded back to their senders. To transmit a letter on this unique circuit will cost each sender one dollar.

Probably it would be thrilling to own a stamp that had been to the bottom of the sea and back. But to anyone but a confirmed stamp collector, this stunt must look more than a little silly. A more supremely useless bit of human endeavor would be hard to imagine.

And France

ONE of the interesting points at issue these days is whether the continued world business depression is going to affect the French attitude toward German reparations—and, if so, how.

French business, long flourishing, is beginning to stagger. The current issue of the Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute points out that the adverse balance of trade is increasing, unemployment is mounting and business houses are watching their profits shrink.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says there is use for everything except old razor blades and unkind words.

A real optimist is a guy who despite the fact that rain is falling on his brand new hat, reflects that the sun is shining somewhere.

A DALLAS newspaperman was shaken out of a sound sleep the other night, his wife pulling at his arm.

"Get up, John! Get up!" she said. "There's a burglar in the house!"

"That's all right, honey", the newspaperman returned. "He won't get anything here but practice!"

Many a woman who can't take time off at home to wash her hair can spend a half hour awaiting her turn in a beauty parlor.

ROGER Babson's forecast of early 1932 business conditions, printed Sunday in The Avalanche-Journal, has aroused a lot of comment. No less than a score of people have interrogated The Plainsman concerning that article.

"Do you reckon he's right?" they ask.

"Do you suppose Babson knows what he's talking about?"

Frankly, The Plainsman doesn't know whether Mr. Babson is right, or not. He doesn't know whether the financial expert and economist knows what he's talking about, or not.

But if anybody knows anything about the future trend of business, Mr. Babson does.

He is to economics and business trends and forecasts what Al Capone used to be to gangdom, what Senator Sheppard is to the Anti-Saloon league and what Babe Ruth is to baseball.

In other words, Mr. Babson is the big shot of his racket.

THE Avalanche-Journal doesn't guarantee Mr. Babson's statements to the effect that the worst of the depression is over and that better times loom over the business horizon.

Lubbock's papers printed the Babson interview—paid a nice little chunk of dough to get it, incidentally—because Mr. Babson and what he says along those lines attracts the interest and respect of the biggest business interests in the world.

At the same time the story was released to The Avalanche-Journal it was released to the largest and most widely read newspapers in this country, all of which purchased the feature so their readers could get Mr. Babson's view of the situation.

In other words, an expert was speaking; a champion was at the bat. What he said and what the results will be is of his doings, not ours.

However, in all fairness to Mr. Babson, it must be said that his forecast of 1931, made a year ago, was largely correct.

All of it didn't pan out—largely because he miscalculated the fear of the people, rather than actual potentialities.

If he has as much success with his article of last Sunday as he had last year and as he has had throughout the years spent in building himself as the leading economic prognosticator of our times, you can believe the article as presented here.

WHILE Mr. Babson may or may not know when the depression is going to end, The Plainsman has some inside information on the problem, sent this column by W. L. Ellwood, who is probably interested in more kinds of business and is in closer touch with finance than anybody in Lubbock.

While Mr. Ellwood declines to take responsibility for the truth and veracity of the clipping he mailed this column, here it is and you can take it or leave it! Let's Go:

Absolute knowledge I have none
But my aunt's washwoman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer in the street
That he had a letter just last week
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese Coolie in Timbuctoo
Who said the Negroes in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Texas town
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a gang of South-American Jews
About somebody in Borneo,
Who heard a man who claimed to know,
Of a swell society female fake,
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove that her seventh husband's sister's niece
Had stated in a printed piece
That she had a son who has a friend
That knows when the Depression is going to end.

Chicago Won Respectability In Snagging G. O. P. National Convention And Now The Democrats May Meet There, Too

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Chicago got more out of the Republican National Committee here than the next Republican national convention. She seemed to get something resembling a certificate of respectability.

Dutcher

Awarding her the convention promptly and by an overwhelming vote, the men and women of the committee demonstrated plainly enough that they harbored no fears of pineapples or machine guns. Representatives of other contending cities made some mean comments on this phase of the fame of the metropolis which was once internationally known as the home of Al Capone.

Now, there seems some possibility that Chicago may get the Democratic convention as well. There is no rule against having both major parties meet in the same town and when the Democrats followed the Republicans to Chicago in 1884 they nominated Grover Cleveland and won their first election victory since before the Civil War.

Few men are held in higher, wider esteem by politicians and business men than Edward N. Hurley, the citizens' committee chairman who put Chicago over with the Republicans. Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who accompanied him, is head of the city's famous "Secret Six" and is widely credited with causing the arrest and trial of Capone. Mayor Tony Cermak, who was also here, is another Chicagoan who has done much toward restoring his city's former prestige. He is even said to have cleaned up the police force which he inherited from Big Bill Thompson.

Randolph said, in response to wisecracks from supporters of Atlantic City, that Chicago no longer had a bad reputation and that a visitor there was as safe as he would be anywhere in the country.

Besides its superior facilities and obvious geographical advantage, Chicago is as fine a place for a political convention as might be desired by any of those who believe that a convention helps a party carry the state where it is held. That factor of "political location," is never held so important that the matter of the money offer doesn't come first, of course. It probably isn't very significant that the Republicans have in the last four presidential elections carried the states in which their conventions were held. Or that the Democrats, who carried Maryland in 1912 and Missouri in 1916 after holding conventions in Baltimore and St. Louis, have not since carried the states where their conventions were held.

Nevertheless, the 1932 election is likely to be so close that no such factor, involving the electorial vote of a very large state, is being ignored. Following the landslide victory of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis in 1930 and the more recent election of Cermak in Chicago, the Republicans are in the position of trying desperately to hold Illinois for Hoover, whereas the Democrats are confident that they can capture this normally Republican state. That's one reason why no one will be greatly surprised if the Democrats also succumb to Hurley's effective salesmanship.

Some of the Democratic leaders want the party to have its convention before the Republicans meet, instead of after, as usual. But there is as yet no probability that it will. Heretofore it has been considered good strategy to wait for the Republicans on the theory that they and their platform then represented a better target. Now it is argued that the Hoover administration record presents an excellent target and that it would be a smart trick to "get the jump" on the G. O. P., start first into action and make the Republican convention seem anti-climatic. The Republicans will convene June 14th, however, and it is doubtful whether Congress will adjourn soon enough to give the Democrats the time they would need.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets and six articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1438 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Reducing and Gaining," "Feminine Hygiene," "Indigestion and Constipation," "The Care of the Hair and Skin," "Infant Feeding" and "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes." The articles are "Normal Diet," "List of Books for Mothers," "Bed Wetting," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Ear Troubles" and "Tuberculosis."

There is no question that the energy of our nation comes largely from carbohydrate foods. We spend more than any other nation on sugar. Over a million dollars a day for candy alone — $39,000,000 per annum. And $500,000,000 for soda water.

Dr. Clendening

As a matter of economy it is a very good way to obtain energy. If you had to live on sugar alone you could live for less than 12 cents a day. A pound of sugar furnishes 1,820 calories, and sugar costs about 7 cents a pound. Of course, no one could live very long on this—first, because the linked sweetness long drawn out would be nauseating and, second, because without protein, vitamins and minerals, weakness and disease would set in.

Carbohydrates should form a little more than half the entire diet. They should furnish about 1,600 of the 3,000 calories the average adult consumes in a day. This means about 400 grams of carbohydrate, as against 200 grams of fat and protein together.

In bulk the carbohydrate containing carrots, onions and parsnips, among the 20 per cent ones are peas, corn, potatoes and beans.

Fruits with high content of fruit sugar also are to be classed as carbohydrate foods. They can be classified in the same way as the vegetables; strawberries and grapefruit are 5 per cent; cantaloupe and pineapple are 10 per cent, and grapes and bananas are 20 per cent.

Sugar seems to be an acquired taste. When Dr. Stefannson introduced carbohydrate food to Eskimo tribes who had lived on nothing but protein and fat, they ate at first only the tasteless kind, flour, soups and such starchy dishes.

Commoner names for carbohydrates are sugars and starches. The purest form of carbohydrate in the average diet is ordinary granulated sugar. Bread, crackers, cereals, are all predominantly carbohydrate, their flours containing from 60 to 80 per cent of that food element.

Vegetables range from 5 per cent to 20 per cent carbohydrate: in reducing diets and diabetic diets the patient is usually given a list showing what vegetables are 5 per cent, what ones are 10 per cent, and what ones are 20 per cent. Among the 5 per cent ones are asparagus, lettuce, tomatoes, sauerkraut, cauliflower and spinach; among the 10 per cent ones are squash, beets, and carrots.

Sugar has been known to Europeans ever since the days of Alexander the Great, whose soldiers were said to have brought it from India.

IN NEW YORK with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Well, fellow citizens, it looks as though the joke might be on us; or, at any rate, on millions of us.

How many people know anything about driving horses? Maybe that question's a little rough. What I should have asked, perhaps, is: how many people know the rules and regulations of driving a stage coach or tallyho?

Before you answer the question get hold of one of the Chrisimas seals of the National Tuberculosis Association. You'll see it has a picture of an old-fashioned coach. Now then, what's wrong with this picture?

ALL right, I'll tell you the whole story and it's a rather amusing one.

Three years ago, John Evans, an artist, designed the seals and the posters. They were passed upon by committeemen, several of whom are prominent in sporting affairs and who are supposed to know something about horses and driving. They were issued and scattered throughout the nation. Posters appeared prominently in millions of windows.

But not a single "tumble." Not a comment.

Well, not so long ago the publicists of this worthy cause decided upon a certain stunt.

William Vanderbilt is a very rich man with several hobbies. He has, for instance, one of the few remaining tallyhos to be found in this section of the world. He drives it about his Southampton grounds and, oftimes, through Central Park. Would he drive it for the newsreel photographers and the newspaper cameramen? Of course he would.

THE millionaire was asked to rig up his outfit to resemble, in some degree, the picture on the stamps. Someone handed him a stamp and a poster. He studied them for a moment and then was noticed laughing.

"It might amuse you to learn," he went on, "the driver is driving on the wrong side."

And so he is. But only one man in all America had noticed this. There was, naturally, some confusion. Several talked of making a change. It was too late to do anything about the stamps. But a great many of the posters were called in and the change was made.

Next time, mayhap, the association will use an automobile, which every lad can recognize.

AND here's a little broader chuckle about something else. One of the national movements for the aid of the distressed arranged a series of ads and posters. The artist was instructed to use the figures of a husbands and a wife. The wife was to represent the last word in quiet, feminine appeal; to get over the idea of a real home-girl, a charming and demure housewife.

Very well, the "copy" appeared. And upon observing it, several New Yorkers tried to suppress chuckles. For the model had been the hat-check girl at one of the popular Bohemian speakeasies whose "home life" began in the wee hours of the morning after the crowds had scattered.

Milwaukee Officers To Return Suspect

Milwaukee, Wisconsin, officers were reported en route to Lubbock today to take charge of a man giving the name of Arnold Kirmsee, who is in custody of Sheriff Wade Hardy.

Kirmsee was identified through finger prints, after he had been taken into custody last week on a misdemeanor charge. He is said to be wanted in Milwaukee for child abandonment.

County Dads Will Meet On Thursday

Last meeting of the county commissioner's court for 1931 is to be held Thursday, December 31, Judge E. L. Pitts announced last night. The year's work is to be completed and final reports heard.

Yesterday a brief session of the court was held, in the scheduled meeting date. Aside from approving accounts and ordering payment, no other business was transacted.

Denton county has forty thousand head of cattle. This was revealed during recent tuberculin test work among cattle herds.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When all the Tinies had crawled in, wee Clowny said, with sickly grin, I wonder if this rocket's really safe and very sound. Now that we all have crawled inside, I hardly think I want this ride. Supposin', when we're in the air, that we fall to the ground."

Then Scouty cried, "Well, goodness me! You act as dumb as dumb can be. One minute everything's all right and then you change your mind. Because of all your silly stunts, I'm satisfied the name of Dunce is what we ought to call you. It's the best name I can find."

"Gee, I don't mind that name at all," said Clowny. "Only kindly call me Duncy, 'stead of Dunce. It has a far much better sound." The others answered, "Sure! We're game. So, after this, that is your name. But now let's ask the rocket man just where we all are bound."

The rocket man then stuck his head into the cabin. Then he said, "Well, goodby, boys. You'll soon be on your way up through the sky. I'll start the rocket through the air and trust it won't give you a scare." "Oh, please be careful," Duncy said. And then he waved goodby.

The cabin door was closed tight. The rocket man then cried, "All right, just hold your breath and up you go! You'll hear a whizzing sound. Don't let that worry you one bit, but in your seats just calmly sit." And then the Tinies saw that they were rising off the ground.

At first they didn't say a word and then far down below they heard the rocket man shout, "Hey! Don't fret, as in the air you climb." "He's right," said Scouty. "Lets all smile. We're bound to come down after while. We'll make the best of everything and have a real good time."

(The Tinies have a very strange experience in the next story.)

PARK ON OWN SIDE
MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Seven Milwaukee motorists received parking tickets recently when the suburb of Wauwatosa changed its traffic regulations over night. The motorists had been parking their cars on the Wauwatosa side of the street, following the boundary between the two cities, because Milwaukee prohibits parking off its side. Wauwatosa has now ruled parking off its side.

A half million tin cans were used in home canning of foods in Hamilton county this year.

UTILITY RATE HEARING SET

TEXAS UTILITIES ASKS PERMANENT ORDER AT FLOYDADA

Hearing is to be held in Fort Worth Friday by Judge James C. Wilson of the U. S. District court for northern Texas on the question of making permanent an injunction secured by the Texas Utilities company against the city of Floydada, to prevent that city from enforcing an ordinance calling for lower electric rates. Judge Wilson Saturday granted the utility company a temporary restraining order.

Papers in the case were received by Deputy U. S. Clerk Olive Fluke here Monday. Judge Wilson granted the temporary injunction at Fort Worth Saturday. Mrs. Fluke has approved $10,000 bond, made by the utilities company and ordered by Judge Wilson.

Effective Dec. 20

The new ordinance, passed December 8, sets up rates approximately 20 per cent lower than now are charged. The ordinance was to have been effective Dec. 20, replacing one passed by the Floydada city council May 4, 1916.

The petition of the utilities company said it served communities in Panhandle, South Plains and New Mexico. Total property values at Floydada is set at $272,859.61 in the petition, which sets out that the company earned 1.9 per cent on the investment in the nine-month period ending Nov. 30, 1931.

Rate At 17 Cents

Under the ordinance passed in 1916, the residental light rate was set at 17 cents per kilowat hour less two cents per KWH for prompt payment. Minimum was $1.50 for light customers. A minimum charge of $1 per horse power for power customers was allowed.

The utilities company at present charges a residential scale of 11 cents per KWH for the first 25 kilowat hours and three cents for consumption in excess of 50. The business scale ranges from 11 cents to three cents for all energy used in excess of 2,000 kilowat hours. Initial charge for power consumption is $1 per kilowat connected. The scale then ranges from five cents per KWH to one cent.

The rates proposed in the ordinance are:

Residence: From nine cents per KWH to three cents.

Business: From nine cents to three cents.

Power: Initial charge of 75 cents per kilowat connected, an energy ranging from four cents to one cent.

after a fight of forty minutes.

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 29 (AP)—Reports from Tientsin today said it was widely believed there that Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang had decided to evacuate Chinchow.

The Chinese general, these reports said, had decided to withdraw to a point south of the great wall. This would take the last considerable Chinese force out of Manchuria, and would be in compliance with the Japanese demand.

Charges Filed Two Years After Crime

CRANE CITY, Dec. 29 (AP)—Nearly two years after the finding of the bodies of a woman and a girl in the Pecos river, the first arrest has been made. Ed Nickloes, 52, oil field worker, was charged yesterday with murder.

The bodies were discovered near Imperial in February, 1930. They never had been identified.

Officers said Nickloes wept when shown clothing and a wrist watch found on the bodies. He was arrested Saturday in the oil fields near here after workers became suspicious of his actions when the killings were mentioned.

Matters of the annual reports and dividends will come before the annual meeting, it is expected.

Schools At Idalou Are Opened Monday

Idalou schools opened Monday after a recess for the holiday season that began last Wednesday, Mrs. Sam Chatham, wife of the superintendent, said while here Monday night.

The Idalou schools were closed for several weeks during the fall for cotton picking. We will be able to make up the work we lost, I think."

BRIDGE BATTLE

a queen. He bid one no trump over Mrs. Culbertson's one spade. Culbertson doubled and Jacoby then bid two clubs, having only four clubs, the highest of which was the eight spot. Culbertson read the bids as psychic and bid two no trump. Mrs. Culbertson raised him to three and they made five.

Here is hand 582 which gave the Culbertsons game and rubber and led to prolonged argument by Lenz and Jacoby.

Lenz
(North)
S—K 5
H—K J 4 2
D—J 5
C—Q J 9 5 4

Culbertson (West): S—A J 4 2; H—A 10 7 3; D—10 2; C—A K 2

Mrs. Culbertson (East): S—10 6; H—Q 8 6; D—K Q 9 7 4 3; C—10 3

Jacoby
(South) Dealer
S—Q 9 8 7 3
H—9 5
D—A 8 6
C—8 7 6

The bidding: South pass; West one spade; North pass; East two diamonds; South pass; West two no trumps; all pass.

On the first trick Jacoby false-carded with the seven of clubs, playing the eight on the second trick. The six was the lowest in his hand. The result was that Lenz failed to lead clubs when he got in and opportunity to set the Culbertsons was lost. Jacoby argued that Lenz should have understood the false-carding.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Bridgers Jacoby and Lenz last night came to a parting of the ways. It was Jacoby who announced the parting.

Ossie's announcement came at the end of the penultimate rubber of the evening. He had made a psychic bid and Lenz turned to him angrily.

"Why do you make those rotten bids? I can't read your hand. I don't know what you have. You are having a lot of fun in this game. Give me some. Give me a chance to bid!"

Jacoby started to answer, then pressed his lips. The time was 12:28.

"Shall we play another rubber?" asked Culbertson.

Jacoby jumped up. He was in full dress, ready to go to a night club.

"Not with me, you won't!" he said.

"Under the rules," reminded Culbertson's referee, "you must play another rubber."

Jacoby wavered a moment, undecided. Then he sat down. Play on the last rubber started.

"Sidney," Jacoby said quietly, "in a hand of the second rubber tonight you made an absolutely stupid defensive play and then you criticized me. I am resigning right now as your partner."

Lenz was taken by surprise.

"Well—", he gasped, "well sir, well sir, all right, sir."

"The play you made was absolutely stupid and there was no excuse—" Jacoby continued.

Lenz waved his hand to shut him off.

"Why talk about it?" he asked. "My written resignation in in the hands of Mr. Lenz to do with as he sees fit," Jacoby announced later.

"I will have a new partner tomorrow night," said Lenz. "Mr. Jacoby, however, will play again in the match."
