Ratliff Says: Jones Fired Because Of Texas Split

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Capitol Hill is all agog over the "firing" of Jesse Jones and its reverberations are sure to resound on the hill for many days to come.

Senator O'Daniel, who conducted a bitter campaign against the President in the recent election, and who in spite of this was among those present at the inauguration and as heavy an eater as anyone else of Mrs. Roosevelt's chicken salad sandwiches, will oppose former Vice President Henry A. Wallace's confirmation as Jones' successor "to the last ditch."

RATLIFF

Of course there are two factions —friends of Wallace and friends of Jones—but you don't hear much loud talking from either, except O'Daniel. But whispering in the corridors and on the floors of the Senate and House seemed a bit more prevalent today than usual, even though it is considered bad manners to whisper in the presence of company.

The facts of the case are that President Roosevelt apparently didn't think Mr. Jones was cooperative enough in the fourth term campaign and that he wanted to reward Mr. Wallace for his loyalty.

"The late unpleasantry" in Texas was casually mentioned by Senator Tom Connally today noon in a luncheon of the Texas legislation in Speaker Rayburn's dining room honoring Attorney Grover Sellers of Austin.

"We have many evidences that some of the wayward sheep are anxious to return to the home fold," Senator Connally said.

Sellers Given Tribute

Speaker Rayburn paid tribute to Sellers as a Texas public official "who was willing to stand up and fight when the fighting was tough."

Congressman Lyndon Johnson was official host at the luncheon and Texans here for the inauguration and other matters of the state delegation was present. Several of the House members were detained in committee meetings.

You can count another Texan high in government circles as a result of the shift. He is Harold H. Young of Dallas, who has been an assistant to Vice President Wallace. He's due for an important post.

FDR To Leave "Soon"

President Roosevelt is slated to "leave soon" on his journey to meet Churchill and Stalin. The "soon" designation as to his departure has been given out to the public on three different occasions in the past four days. Secretary of State Stettinius announced Friday that he would go along and Senator Connally made announcement in his speech at the electors' dinner Friday night.

The next edition of a Washington paper came out with the interpretation that Mr. Roosevelt would travel by boat, merely because Senator Connally had uttered a wish for a "successful voyage" and safe return for the chief executive.

Jones Indicts Wallace Ideas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Jesse Jones capped his long feud with Henry Wallace by declaring flatly today the former vice president just isn't qualified to take over his job as administration banker.

"Lack of experience," the big, gray-thatched Texan testified to the Senate committee before a Jam-packed crowd of 500 interested in President Roosevelt's proposed cabinet change.

Jones said he still regarded himself as secretary of commerce and loan administrator until Wallace is confirmed.

He sudiously avoided mentioning Wallace, nominated on Monday to succeed him, until he was questioned sharply by a Wallace adherent, Senator Pepper (D-Fla).

"You Talk Too Much"

They squared off in a duel of sharp exchanges climaxed when Pepper asked Jones if he thought Wallace could handle his job. The banker said he didn't think so and Pepper tried to get more "factual data" for that opinion. Jones finally barked at the Senator:

"You talk too much at one time. I didn't say he was incompetent. Stick to the text."

Chewing gum and cupping his ear from time to time, Jones was questioned at some length after he read a 350-work statement in which he warned that "untried ideas" and "visionary planning" in his job could wreck the country.

The session consumed more than three hours and the committee recessed until 10:30 a. m. Thursday when Wallace will have his say.

Testimony Is Sharp

Until he was irked by Pepper's questioning, Jones never mentioned Wallace's name but he left no doubt of whom he was speaking in his sharply-worded testimony before the Senate Commerce committee.

President Roosevelt's summary replacement of Jones as commerce

First, Third Armies Iron Out Bulge

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 24. — The British Second army made advances of up to 2,000 yards today and pulled within three miles of the Roer river at three points inside Germany while the U. S. First and Third armies methodically continued ironing out the Nazis' flattened Ardennes salient against stiffening resistance.

The French First army's attack at the southern end of the long front also progressed steadily, securing several crossings of the Ill river, but in northern Alsace the Germans sharply increased their pressure on the U. S. Seventh army and it was disclosed that the American withdrawal, announced yesterday, had amounted to an average of seven to eight miles.

The new positions of Lt. Gen Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army was indicated roughly as a line running southeastward from Reiperswiller through Niedermodern, Hauenau and Bischolz to Bischwiller.

Civilians Evacuated

The exact front established by the withdrawal, announced as for the purpose of obtaining more advantageous positions, was not disclosed, but during the day the enemy launched attacks against the areas of Niedermodern, Bischolz and Bischwiller, thus establishing that these points on the line still were in American hands. None of the enemy blows gained any ground.

Several thousand civilians were evacuated in the withdrawal, more than 8,000 by train alone. Priorities were given FFI and public officials believed in most danger of reprisals from the Germans.

The veil of secrecy was lifted slowly from the French assault, disclosing that it involved "Allied" troops under Maj. Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny and that the drive was headed generally eastward against the Rhinebank corridor north of Colmar rather than against the Nazi pocket in the Colmar area itself.

Fog Handicaps Forces

The most important British success in the Maas-Roer triangle at the northern end of the front was the capture of the major highway center of Heinsberg, which is nine miles northwest of Linnich, northern anchor of the U. S. Ninth army.

While some of Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's troops fought into this seven-way road junction after a mile advance from Aphoven, others gained 2,000 yards in the center of the assault front and captured the town of Haaren. Still others cleared the towns of Montfortand Weerd in Holland, driving within three miles of the German's Maas river bastion of Roermond.

Cold foggy weather handicapped the Allied ground forces and restricted air operations after two days of fine flying weather, but all three continent-based tactical air forces managed to get in some action during the day.

Pilots reported a great exodus of German rail and road transport streaming northeastward from the Ardennes sector, causing speculation that much of the equipment might be in process of transfer to the Russian front.

Airmen Pot Transports

Allied fighter bombers took a heavy toll of the transport columns, striking at crammed railyards in the Ruhr and at trains, trucks and tanks traveling away from the battlefront at many points.

The Germans made a vain effort to hold on to what is left of their Ardennes bulge, now a sliver roughly five miles wide and 40 miles long. They counterattacked against Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army in the St. Vith area and lashed back at Lt.

LAAF To Receive 250 War Prisoners, Avalanche Told

LUBBOCK Army Air Field will soon have added to its facilities a prisoner-of-war camp capable of housing and keeping 250 prisoners, George H. Mahon, member of Congress from the 19th Texas district including Lubbock, telegraphed The Morning Avalanche late yesterday.

The congressman had no information on possible use of South Plains Army Air Field after February 15, date upon which that station's use will be discontinued by the Army Air Forces. Unofficial information received here Tuesday said that the Army was considering using SPAAF for a large war prisoner camp after February 15.

Congressman Mahon's telegram was in answer to a query wired him by The Morning Avalanche the previous day.

The telegram read, in part:

"The War department advises that upon request of the War Food administration and the War Manpower commission, 250 war prisoner will be lodged at LAAF and at a few other West Texas points."

It has been rumored here for some time that 250 war prisoners would be lodged at LAAF and most, if not all, of them would be available for farm or other essential work in this area. Officers from Eighth Service command headquarters, Dallas, were here recently, checking LAAF's facilities in that regard.

Arch S. Underwood, owner and operator of numerous cotton compresses in this area, has been working to secure some war prisoner labor in this section and was in conference with the Eighth Service command officers when they were here. He recently has been in Washington.

Prior to his leaving Lubbock for the capital, Mr. Underwood told The Avalanche he would employ numbers of the war prisoners in heavy compress work if they were made available. He said other compresses in the Old South were using them to great extent and with good results. They also would be available to farmers for day work, under guard, in groups and at prevailing wages, it was understood.

Mr. Underwood said the labor shortage had so affected compress operators that war prisoner is necessary to keep compresses going. Mr. Mahon's telegram gave no indication when prisoners would start. The prisoners being at LAAF will in no way affect the operation of the air field.

Whether or not SPAAF, which is due to be "inactivated" by the Army Air Forces on February 15, will become, in its entirety, a prisoner of war camp has not yet been officially announced.

In his telegram, Mr. Mahon said in that regard:

"As to SPAAF, I have suggested facilities there be used by Air Forces for any further training program, explaining that conversion of SPAAF in its entirety to war prison camp would be definitely objectionable."

The Avalanche, however, has unofficial information to the effect that SPAAF may be converted to a large war prisoner camp.

United Nations Plan Supported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — Freshmen Senators, seeking to strengthen President Roosevelt's hand in his meeting with Stalin and Churchill, pledged their support today for U. S. participation in an international peace organization.

The 16 newcomers—10 Democrats and six Republicans—to the nation's treaty-ratifying body put down their sentiments in a letter dispatched to Mr. Roosevelt.

"We believe," they said, "this government should use all reasonable means to assure our Allies and the other nations of the world that we intend to share in the direction of and the responsibility for the settlement of this war and the maintenance of peace."

Dumbarton Oaks Approved

They declared, too, for the earliest possible formation of a United Nations organization along the general lines tentatively drafted at Dumbarton Oaks, and for affirmative American participation "in all decisions affecting the establishment of law and order in the liberated or enemy countries."

Thus Mr. Roosevelt received substantial, tangible backing for the argument he presumably intends to put to other members of the "Big Three": That there is no necessity for spheres of influence or unilateral agreements because America intends to do her part in maintaining the peace.

It is for such assurance that British members of Parliament have asked. And it is to lack of such assurance that Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), in his recent momentous Senate speech on foreign policy, attributed Russia's moves to keep the "buffer states" between her and Germany under her influence.

The new Senators' pronouncement was worked out on their own but they consulted with high-ranking members of the Foreign Relations committee — Chairman Connally (D-Tex), Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky), Minority Lead-

'Shut Up, You Cheap Jack,' Lady Astor Is Admonished

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 24. — Virginia-born Lady Astor challenged male protests in Commons today against the assignment of ATS—British WACs—overseas with the assertion that many of the girls would be safer in uniform abroad than in ordinary clothes at home.

The Laborite faction, led by men, protested vigorously against compulsory sending of girls overseas, citing the temptations they faced in addition to the danger from enemy action.

The 65-year-old Lady Astor, a member of the House for a quarter of a century, ridiculed the protests as an insult to women.

At the height of the row War Secretary Sir James Grigg pleaded that the girls were needed to release men for the front lines in Britain's campaign to get 250,000 more fighting men.

Asked flatly whether it was the government's intention to send the girls abroad, the war secretary replied "Yes."

Cries from the speaker for order came as Lady Astor and Aneurin Bevan, the Laborites' most vitriolic speaker, swapped oral punches.

"The Labor party has been saying for years 'equality among the sexes' and you don't mean it," she said, accusing Bevan of talking "humbug."

Turning sharply, Bevan, a former coal miner, shouted:

"Oh shut up, you cheap Jack."

Then ignoring cries of "order, order," Bevan shouted:

"The woman gabbles and gabbles all of the time. We really ought to have some protection against her. I see no reason why we should have a ragbag mind of that sort inflicted upon the House."

Lady Astor won in the showdown. The House approved the war credits bill — the technical issue on which the debate developed.

JAP NAVY DARED — Gen. Masaharu Homma, above, who commanded Jap Armies that conquered the Philippines in 1942, has practically "dared" the Jap Navy to come out and fight, after American invasion of Luzon. Little love is lost between the Nip Navy and Army, so Homma's bland assumption that " . . . the Japanese Grand Fleet will now abandon its passiveness. . . . is seen as a sarcastic invitation to the admirals to get in there and pitch.

Frances Perkins To Retain Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—President Roosevelt has declined to accept Frances Perkins' resignation as secretary of labor, it was learned today, quieting pre-inauguration reports she would be replaced in the fourth term cabinet.

Miss Perkins refused to make public a letter from the President asking her to continue and rejecting her request to be permitted to quit after 12 years.

The President's decision was reported to have been conveyed to her orally last Friday, the day before his latest inauguration. Later he put it in writing.

One of the last two members of Mr. Roosevelts' original cabine—Secretary of Interior Ickes is the other—she has been represented as wanting for a long time to step out of the labor post.

Another Offer Made

The President was known to have offered nearly a month ago to appoint any successor on whom the CIO and AFL could agree.

He discussed personalities with CIO President Philip Murray and AFL President William Green, but the talks apparently were fruitless, Murray would not say anything about his conversation with the President. Green said merely that he had asked for appointment of a man from the ranks of labor.

During Miss Perkins' tenure her critics (including some labor lead-

Committee Okays Work-Fight Bill

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Minus an "anti-closed shop" clause, a limited national service bill for men between 18 and 45 won final approval of the House Military committee today.

As a substitute for the closed shop ban which it had written into the measure tentatively Monday by a 14 to 10 count, the committee voted to give registrants a "reasonable choice of employers for whom to work" when directed to do so by their local draft boards.

The original amendment would have permitted a man assigned to an essential job to work in a closed shop without joining a union. It was deleted by a margin of one or two votes.

Approval 20 To 5

The bill itself was approved by a 20 to 5 count, and Chairman May (D-Ky) said he would ask the rules committee tomorrow to clear it for House debate starting either Friday or Monday. With several days of debate in sight, a final House decision is not expected before late next week.

May said the closed shop amendment was rejected because the committee "wanted to eliminate controversial things."

The committee also gave to local draft boards authority to determine whether a man should remain in his present job or move into one more essential, the determination of what is essential to be made by the director of war mobilization or some agency he designates.

Vets Get Consideration

Local draft boards also were empowered to defer discharged service men from orders to take essential jobs.

Ex-veterans taking jobs listed as essential would be considered

Hockley Farmer Is Victim Of Gunshot

LEVELLAND, Jan. 24. (Special)—Merril Strickland, 39, widely known Hockley county farmer, shot himself about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at his farm, Ed Hofacket, Hockley county sheriff, reported.

Hofacket said that Strickland drove in his car to a field on the farm, which is located seven miles southeast of Levelland, and apparently put the muzle of a shotgun in his mouth and then pulled the trigger with his foot. Death probably was instantaneous. The entire top of Strickland's head was blown off.

A. F. O'Dell, Hockley county justice of the peace, said he entered an inquest verdict of death of gunshot wounds, self inflicted.

Hofacket said that Strickland had been in ill health for some time and assumed that was the reason for Strickland's actions.

Only a partial list of survivors could be obtained Wednesday night. Known survivors are his wife, Mrs. Hollie Allene Strickland, and his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Strickland.

Strickland had been a resident of this county 17 years.

Funeral services will be read at 2 o'clock this afternoon at First Methodist church in Levelland by Rev. W. E. Paterson, pastor. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery with Plains Funeral home of Levelland directing.

Progress On Manila Road Is Steady

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

MOTORIZED American patrols, pressing down the central Luzon plains toward Manila, now are operating in the region of Clark field, the biggest air base in the Philippines about 40 miles northwest of the capital, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported late Wednesday.

The general estimated that in the two weeks since the invasion of Luzon the Japanese have suffered approximately 14,000 casualties — 6,449 dead, 423 captured, 7,200 wounded.

American casualties total 3,145 —657 killed, 187 missing and 2,301 wounded.

Reach Manila Gateway

The Yanks on the west flank of the central Plains continued their war of movement and swept through the town of Bamban and its airfield. The motorized patrols pushed on south of Mabalacat to near Clark field and Fort Stotsenburg. This represented the first penetration of Pampanga province, gateway to Manila. The Americans dispersed Japanese motor patrols and sniper nests.

In the Rosario sector near the Lingayen gulf beachhead on the north — toughest spot the Yanks have bumped into — heavy naval guns relentlessly reduced fixed hill defenses.

Corregidor Bombed

American airmen flew in close support of the ground forces. They also hit Corregidor island, at the entrance to Manila bay, with 45 tons of explosives, setting off major explosions and fires. Baguio, the summer capital in the Benguet mountains north of Rosario, was raided as were Subic and Dasol bays on Luzon's west coast.

Referring to American casualties General MacArthur said "every possible strategical and tactical ingenuity is being successfully employed to hold our losses in men to an absolute minimum."

Heavy bombers continued to hammer Formosa on the north and the Borneo oil fields far to the south.

Air Raids Continue

American Superfortress and carrier plane attacks against the Japanese homeland, strategic Iwo Jima 750 miles south of Tokyo, Korea, Formosa and the Ryukyu islands were reported Wednesday by Washington and Tokyo.

U. S. official reports placed the B-29s over Iwo while Radio Tokyo told of Superfortress hits against the Japanese homeland and Koera and of the third consecutive day of carrier plane raids against Formosa and the Ryukyus, bases from which Nippon could send air power against Luzon in the Philippines.

Official Washington said Superfortresses from Saipan, unhindered by Japanese interceptors, swept in Wednesday on Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands and set off big explosions. B-29 crewmen reported "good results."

Extravagant Claims Heard

The Japanese have used Iwo as a base for air raids against the Superfort center in the Marianas.

Meanwhile Radio Tokyo said a half dozen B-29s hit Japan's main Honshu island and Koera. It named much-raided Nagoya and Hamamatsu as the targets on Honshu.

The Japanese claimed 13 Superforts were shot down and 50 damaged in Tuesday's attack on Nagoya. American official reports said only one of the big planes was lost despite ferocious Japanese interception. Tokyo admitted loss of six planes "either self-blasted or failed to return."

Officials at Osaka, industrial center on Honshu calling attention to persistent B-29 attacks, said "ordinary inhabitants and especially imoprtant factories must be positively evacuated."

British Landing Surprising

The third successive day of carrier plane attacks on Formosa and the Ryukyus, along the Japanese air route to Luzon, was reported by Radio Tokyo. There was no American confirmation. The Japanese claimed their planes heavily damaged six American

Germans Say Oder Crossed

Evacuation Begun At Breslau, On Berlin Highway

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 25 — Ripping through German Silesia and East Prussia at blitzkrieg pace, the Russians yesterday captured Oppeln, upper Silesian capital, and reached within 4½ miles of Breslau amid reports that they already had crossed the Oder river line and had snapped shut the war's greatest trap on East Prussia.

In westernmost Poland, against apparently stiffening opposition, the Soviet forces nevertheless plunged ahead a dozen miles in the neighborhood of Poznan on the most direct path to Berlin, 137 miles west of Poznan.

Four orders of the day by Premier Stalin and a long midnight communique broadcast from Moscow disclosed the continued sweeping scope of the Russian mid-winter offensive and announced that a sixth Army had joined the great drive.

Across Oder, Nazis Say

The Germans themselves announced that the Russians had thrust tanks and patrols across the Oder river in Silesia but contended all had been wiped out. A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said the Russians had established "at least one bridgehead" across the river which guards the heart of Germany.

While Moscow did not confirm this breaching of the Nazis "last-ditch" line, the nightly communique said that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine Army group had extended its frontage on the east bank of the Oder and against more than 200 German towns captured was Margareth, four and one-half miles southeast of Breslau, chief city of the industrially important province.

Earlier Stalin had announced Konev's capture of Oppeln, 48 miles southeast of Breslau.

Evacuation At Breslau

The German radio said all women and children had been removed from Breslau and that every man in the city from 16 to 60 had been called into the People's army. The gauleiter of Silesia declared Breslau was a fortress to be defended to the utmost.

Shortly after disclosing the Russians' Oder crossing and the imminent peril of Breslau, the German DNB agency broadcast that the battle for East Prussia had "become somewhat acute," with tank columns of the Second White Russian army "reaching the district of the Vistula estuary southwest of the port of Elbing," last land escape route from East Prussia.

While the Germans added that this thrust was forestalled, the Russian communique left little doubt that the less than two-thirds of East Prussia still in German hands soon would be totally severad from the fatherland.

Many German Towns Fall

Marshal K. K. Rokossovcky's Second White Russian Army group, in a day of steady progress, thrust to within 16 miles south of Elbing and within 42 southeast of Danzig, the communique showed.

Among the 200 German towns taken in this northward drive through westernmost East Prussia

Nazi Exodus To East Significant

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

A desperate Nazi military hegira from west to east across northern Germany, reported by Allied air scouts, eclipsed in interest even an unconfirmed report that the Russians had broken across the Oder river defense line at one point above close-invested Breslau in their juggernaut advance on Berlin.

There could be no other explanation of any such enemy stripping of his West front reserves to brace his shattered eastern lines than that Berlin itself is in mortal danger of Russian capture in Nazi high command estimation.

Master Crisis At Hand

Only an ultimate emergency in the east could justify a thinning of Nazi defense ranks in the west in the face of every indication that a massive Allied offensive is in preparation between the Roer and the Dutch Rhine.

The size and circumstances of the enemy eastward trek over the Dusseldorf-Hannover road and rail network as reported by Allied airmen leaves little doubt that a master crisis is at hand for the enemy. Nor does the scene of his desperate effort to rush tired and tattered West front divisions into the eastern breach leave much question as to where the supreme danger lies there.

A tangle of main rail and road connections lead from Dussendorf via Hamm and Herford to Hannover and thence to Berlin. Among them is the great Nazi four-track military super highway.

That highway leaves Berlin well to the south to reach the Oder at Frankfurt, some 30 miles east and slightly south of the capital. The

Fifth Army Meets Powerful Defense

ROME, Jan. 24 (AP)—Fifth army patrols engaged strong German defenses on highway 65 within eight and a half miles of Bologna today as snow ceased falling on the Italian front.

Farther east the Germans were reported carrying out wholesale demolitions of houses for possible cover of 8th army troops in the entire area of their Senio river stronghold of Alfonsine.

The German Air force, which appeared again yesterday, struck at supply arteries to the Fifth army front lines before Bologna. No damage or casualties were reported.

Germans Feverishly Digging Trenches To Defend Berlin

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The Nazis dug new trenches to guard Berlin and Gestapo Chief Himmler's whipmen ordered every able-bodied German male thrown into the "Red inferno of the east" today.

While the Moscow radio broadcast frontline reports that the Nazis were evacuating all civilians from Silesia, Pomerania and Warthegau (Poznan province), the Nazi Transocean News service reported "new lines are under construction inside the Reich."

The Paris radio added that Berliners were digging trenches around the capital.

"Every German able to bear arms is being thrown against the advancing Russians," Transocean reported, saying all available forces are being mobilized and the remaining civilians are being recruited for the Solkssturm, or Home guard.

A Moscow broadcast tonight said Himmler had set up a new Eastern front defense council with "unlimited powers" and with himself personally presiding.

Moscow reports did not indicate how this affects the position of Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, believed in military command of the whole Eastern front, but said Himmler's council had "unqualified command over all garrisons and reserves in the Eastern theater of war and all troops transferred from other fronts as well as power to mobilize all civilians for service in the Volkssturm, Landwehr and on fortification works, to evacuate people and industrial plants and

Some Military Experts Believe Nazis May Elect Defense On Oder

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
United Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, Jan. 24.—The smallness of the number of German prisoners and casualties inflicted in the Soviet eastern offensive caused military experts to believe today that the Germans have not yet attempted a major stand.

The wehrmacht, it was believed, undoubtedly will elect to defend on an all-out basis the Oder river line which runs all the way from Breslau to the baltic through Eastern Germany.

The Germans might also attempt to cut in with a major flanking attack from the area of Gross Strehlitz, 35 miles southeast of Oppeln. Such an attack, if attempted, would be aimed northeast toward Warsaw in an effort to roll up the southern Soviet flank in the hinge of the line southeast of Breslau.

To Slow Down?

Gross Strehlitz, incidentally, is the first United States 15th airforce target in Germany proper which the Russians have captured.

Military experts also believed the Russian advances against Germany proper might slow down due, first of all, to the fact the Germans some where undoubtedly will dig in and throw a series of counter attacks.

Secondly, the Russians some time must regroup and also secure supplies and equipment, the need for which will accelerate when hard fighting breaks out and continues for any length of time.

Thirdly, the advancing Russians due east of Berlin are entering wooded, hilly country which slows down advances, especially tanks.

Fourthly, the Oder river line is being approached.

While the drive due west from Warsaw aimed directly on Berlin has carried the Reds forward at roughly 30 miles a day, it appears that the greatest immediate danger to Hitler's armies is in East Prussia. It is reported that there are some 25 to 30 German divisions in East Prussia, the majority of which will be bagged when the Russians reach Elbing, cutting any escape route.

The Germans lack the shipping to remove any sizeable forces from East Prussia through the Baltic just as they have from the besieged garrisons in the Baltics.

Grandma Switches Millions of Mothers To Her Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Newer Relief For Children's Colds' Coughs, Bronchial Irritation and Chest Muscle Tightness Being Hailed Everywhere.

Pioneer grandma liked to "rub" her children's colds with a "home rub" containing mutton suet. Such a rub was her "old reliable" for relieving chest muscle tightness, soothing bronchial irritation, loosening phlegm, checking coughing, easing sting of chapped lips and nostrils. Today science has modernized this principle with Penetro, the salve with a base containing this same old fashioned mutton suet, plus 5 active ingredients—so now Grandma's old idea is switching millions to this newer relief.

Your children will like Penetro the first time they feel it spread smoothly on chest, throat, back—its mutton suet makes it melt instantly, vanish quickly. It gets to work 3 ways at once to make your youngsters more comfortable—(1) Penetro relieves colds' pain as its mutton suet helps carry medication to nerve ends in the skin. (2) Relieves muscular tightness and congestion through counter-irritation (increased blood flow). (3) Loosens phlegm, eases coughing through pleasant inhalation of instantly released vapors.

Your child will feel relief so quickly—as painful misery eases, as coughing is lessened, phlegm loosened, chest rawness soothed. Naturally he'll rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality to his little body. That's why so many mothers are thanking Grandma for her idea—are praising science for perfecting it—are going to druggists everywhere to buy Penetro. Relieve your chest cold miseries as millions are doing—today get your jar of white, easy-to-use, economical Penetro.

Former Levelland Boy Saves Lives With Bulldozer

By S/SGT. BOB DAVIS
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent
(Distributed By The Associated Press)

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC (Delayed)—Bulldozers employed in combat construction work have been doing a phenomenal job in saving time. Now they're saving lives, too.

Marine Sgt. Joel C. Bolton of Vernon, Tex., used his dozer on just such a mission of mercy on Saipan.

"We heard there were some wounded men out in the brush," said Bolton. Stretcher bearers couldn't make their way through the undergrowth, so I drove the dozer in. We titled the big blade until it was horizontal, strapped the wounded man down on that, and I drove back until the bearers could take the man off and carry him.

On Saipan, Bolton drove the new armored type of dozer, in which the driver is completely enclosed by steel armor plate.

"They're hotter than the devil, though," said Bolton. "I used to drive on Saipan with the top and front escape hatches open, but after a Jap tried to drop two hand grenades in on me I decided it wasn't as hot as I had thought, and closed the hatches."

Bolton is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bolton of Vernon. He left Levelland High school in 1939 to join the Marines. He hopes to become a construction engineer after the war.

Senate Bill Would Speed Court Trials

AUSTIN, Jan. 24 (U.P.)—Changes in state criminal court procedure to clear out the things that delay trials before jurors are sworn, were proposed in a series of amendments offered in the Texas Legislature today by Sen. Howard Carney.

The five bills require many of the usual motions that delay trials to be filed a number of specified days before the trial date; do away with the necessity for a special jury venire if the prosecuting attorney announces the death penalty will not be sought; permit quick summoning of additional jurors; facilitate taking of depositions from ill witnesses and require sanity questions to be settled in advance.

Letters To The Editor From Readers

OPA HEAD WRITES

Editor, The Avalanche: A month ago when I wrote you about the new food rationing program, I said that we faced further problems in our difficult task of stopping inflation. I said at that time—and again repeat—that the decisions we have to make may sound unpleasant to some. They urgently require public understanding.

To meet one of the most serious of those problems, we are taking a series of important steps. The problem is that of apparel prices, and supply.

Our actions will be greeted with enthusiasm by millions of consumers. But they are bound to stir up some unfavorable comment—part of it unknowingly wrong as to facts; and perhaps a small part of it knowingly and irresponsibly departing from facts.

I am anxious to share with you my point of view in the actions we are taking. First let's look at the problem.

Briefly, it is this. We have managed to hold the cost of living within a one percent rise over the last 18 months. This is in spite of an increase in the cost of clothing of over 11 percent. Rents have been held stable. Food prices have actually gone down in this period. That is the only reason we have come near holding the line. We cannot rely on a continued downward trend of food prices.

The alarming rise in clothing prices shows no indication of abating. In fact, quite the reverse. The rate of rise is accelerating. Unless we take firm action now, the entire stabilization program will be in danger.

The principal reasons for the increase in Department of Labor index of clothing prices are:

1. Shifting by manufacturers to higher price lines, and consequent disappearance of low cost clothing from the stores, forcing consumers to buy more expensive goods. For example, whereas two years ago 70 percent of women's dresses sold below $7.95, 70 percent now sell above that price.
2. Actual price increases.
3. Deterioration in quality of many garments, causing a further price increase that cannot be measured.

While the average family income in the nation has increased considerably, there are millions of white collar workers and families with fixed incomes who have little or no increased buying power. There are the service men's families living on allotments. The increased cost of clothing is working a great hardship on these groups.

I'm sure you will agree that with the rise in clothing prices, with quality deteriorating rapidly, with low and medium priced apparel less and less available, and with insufficient textiles to meet cevilian demand, any program to remedy this situation cannot be mild. For two years now we have tried mild measures. I am sure that the time has come when we must act with courage—and with a full sense of our responsibilities to the public.

According, OPA and WPB in consultation with industry are taking action to tighten controls. Within the next few months, the results of this program should be:

1. Within the limits of supply, textiles will be channelled into more essential and lower priced types of apparel.
2. Manufacturers will produce in the same average price lines in which they were producing two years ago.
3. On the average, this clothing will be of better quality for the price.
4. Most clothing will carry tags giving the OPA legal ceiling price.
5. Firmer control of prices will be in effect at all levels including retail.

It is important to note that this program will not increase the total supply of civilian clothing, but it will shift the emphasis from high priced and nonessential garments to the essential and lower priced clothing.

Within a few months between 6 and 7 percent—perhaps more—will be cut out of currently inflated clothing prices. Without this program, clothing prices might easily rise another 15 percent during 1945.

While inevitably the effect of this program will be to reduce industry profits somewhat, they will still be considerably higher than in peace time. Consumers will be saved at least 60 million dollars a year. A brake will have been put on a dangerous inflationary trend.

I know that you have been aware of this serious situation for some time.

J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production board, and I are in complete accord. We join in hoping that we can count on your assistance in explaining and interpreting this program to the public. But I believe you will agree that none of us can afford to temporize with such a critical war time program.

Sincerely,
Chester Bowles,
Administrator,
War Price Administration.

March Of Dimes Program Starts

Annual March of Dimes for the local and national fight against infantile paralysis begins today in all Lubbock theatres where collections will be made at the end of each complete program.

For the first year, Lubbock is affiliated with the National Infantile Paralysis foundation, a connection that will mean much to this section of the state in case of an epidemic. Cities affiliated with the foundation are sent specialists, equipment and physiotherapists if the disease reaches proportions requiring such help.

Half of the money contributed in Lubbock will go to the National foundation and the other half will remain in Lubbock for use of the Lubbock Crippled Children's council. Plates will be passed at the end of each show in every Lubbock theater during the week ending Jan. 31.

Annual Balls Scheduled

Climaxing the March of Dimes campaign will be the annual President's birthday balls which will be held jointly at the Lubbock and Hilton hotels and the Cotton club. Orchestras arranged for are Ross Edwards to play at the Hilton and Bailey Iriand to play at the Cotton club.

Money from dance ticket sales will be divided equally between the National and Lubbock organizations, with tickets now being sold by all Lubbock service clubs. Tickets are priced at $1.20 a person and will admit the purchaser to any or all three of the dances.

This year's sponsor of the President's birthday balls is the Lions club, with Paul Hardwick chairman of the committee.

"We express to the Baylor board of trustees our enthusiastic and prayerful appreciation and commendation," the resolution said, "for their action in declining the gift of $25,000 for the Truett Memorial tower at Baylor hospital of the beer and liquor interests in Dallas. Where Is Van Wie, And Just How Many Women Did He Marry?

By HENNEN HACKETT
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. — Diminutive ex-lion tamer Francis Van Wie, 58, a street car Casanova who wooed 'em and won 'em to the clang, clang, clang of the trolley bell, was sought today by police who wanted to know if it was six or eight wives he married and how many times he bothered to get a divorce.

The bald, mild and fatherly looking Van Wie, who was married three times last year, according to the police, wasn't around to explain how he had managed to support his wives on his trolley conductor's salary of $43.20 weekly, a question which millions of men would like to have answered.

Police kept three bigamy warrants on hand just in case Van Wie showed up, but he wasn't to be found.

Mabel Was First

Van Wie, who, during his 14-year career with Ringling Brothers circus, was discovered one morning unharmed and asleep in the cage of a lion named "Old Mary," according to one story, came here during the depression with a wife named Mabel, reportedly an artist's model and sideshow performer, police said.

From 1932, when he was shoveling coal on the WPA and getting chased through the streets by Mabel, to 1939 when he was arrested for abandoning his wife, Van Wie "apparently" stayed away from the altar, according to police.

In 1941 Van Wie put the blue and brass-buttoned uniform of a municipal railway conductor over his five-foot frame and began his career as a romeo of the car line.

Others Get In Line

Shortly afterward—and in between ringing up fares on the trolley run to the beach—he wooed and won Mrs. Sadie Levin. Then without—as one wag put it—bothering to get his transfer punched, Van Wie married Mrs. Myrtle Martha Wheeler in 1943.

The following boom year when street car overcrowding reached an all-time high here, Van Wie married Mrs. Louise Weller in January; Mrs. Josephine Bergman in April and Mrs. Evelyn Brown in December.

The latter two wives appeared together yesterday before Attorney Clarence Stafford and asked him to request dual annulments.

Josephine — bringing up the possibility of an eighth wife—reported he told her during their springtime street car romance that he was lonely because of the death in an auto accident of "Mrs. La Crosse Van Wie," whom the conductor said he married in 1940 in Reno.

Where Is Mabel?

The mystery of the whereabouts of Mabel was turned over to the missing persons bureau.

Van Wie, listing her on his employment records as his (only) wife gave her address as "the Clyde Beatty-Russel Brothers sideshow," Portland, Ore.

Police said Van Wie kept his wives ignorant of his romances by telling them he was "an undercover man for the government." The FBI said they didn't think that was funny, even if other people did, so the G-men also were seeking him for questioning about possible violation of federal impersonation statutes.

War Writers Get Share Of Scares

By VERN HAUGHLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

B-29 HEADQUARTERS, Guam. —Press headquarters for the 21st Bomber command on Guam boasts of splendid isolation — and scary nights.

In the daytime the correspondents enjoy their lonely camp down a dead-end road in the silent jungle. They like its sunny privacy and quiet. They haven't yet complained about the quarter-mile hike to the messhall and showers.

But the nights—ah, there's the rub. The black moonless nights bring home to them the fact that there are plenty of Japanese still at large on Guam.

They recall that shortly before they moved here from Saipan two Japanese were killed in the area and a third escaped, only 300 feet from the living quarters of their nearest neighbor, Brig. Gen. Rogery Ramey, 21st's chief of staff. A guard was promptly posted there.

General Gets Score

"That night," says General Ramey, "I stepped out into the dark and the sentry yelled at me, 'Drop that carbine.' Like to scared me to death."

Since that time the fugitive Japanese have been a constant annoyance, particularly in prowling about messhalls, stealing food and water. Guards around one barbwire-inclosed but often-robbed quartermaster store set a trap one night, turning all the lights out, then flashing them on without warning an hour later. They caught nine Japanese redhanded.

The U. P. man suggested that, to discourage prowling around press headquarters, the correspondents erect a lighted sign in large Japanese characters, "No food, no liquor, no women." "As a further safeguard," he added, "we might add 'Torture chamber' in even bigger characters."

Undress In Dark

"What we need," said the I.N.S. man, "is a big, strong, heavily-armed soldier to walk around our tent and call out every five minutes, 'All is well.'"

Last night there was enough scattered rifle fire, either from the stray Japanese or from trigger-happy sentries, to cause the correspondents to edge away from their reading lights at first, and then decide spontaneously to go to bed early and get a good night's rest. So spontaneously, in fact, that some had to undress in the dark.

This morning they heard that 11 Japanese had surrendered to a patrol up where the dead-end road ends.

Navy Crew Rescues Flier Drifting To Japanese Shore

SOMEWHERE IN THE MARSHALLS (Delayed)—Second Lieutenant Arthur Wagner of China, Calif., a Corsair pilot with a squadron of the Fourth Marine Air wing, had dropped two 500-pound bombs at Ponape, island outpost of Truk, when his plane was hit by ack ack and he was forced to make a water landing.

The plane sank just after he climbed into his one-man life raft and paddled away, into 30-foot swells which rocked the tiny craft like it was a matchstick. Suddenly, a "dumbo," a naval patrol bomber, appeared.

"The flying boat dropped me a six-man raft," said Wagner, "and I transferred to it from my smaller raft but I kept drifting toward the Jap shore."

The "Dumbo" pilot, Navy Lt. C. M. Rees, didn't think there was much chance of making the landing.

He made his decision. He was willing to risk a landing if his crew would take the chance. Rees turned to the crewmen, and asked them how they felt about it, telling them the odds were about three to one. To a man, they motioned for him to go down after Wagner.

"The Dumbo made a beautiful water landing," Wagner said later. But for 14 hours, all through the night, he taxied the huge flying boat through a tropical storm.

The following morning, a destroyer escort steamed to the scene and effected a safe transfer of Wagner and his would be rescuers from the plane.

Among other Navy crewmen aboard the PBY in addition to Lt. Rees were: AM 1/C Durward W. Haak of route 4, Texarkana, Ark.; Arm 3/C Ted M. Small of Brownwood, Tex.

Litigation Review To Be Allowed In Case

AUSTIN, Jan. 24 (U.P.) — The Texas Supreme court today granted a writ of error and will review litigation over injuries to Victor Atkins, 14, who was hurt when his bicycle fell into a Rock Island railroad cut at Fort Worth.

A trial court had allowed $23,600 damages on suit by the lad's guardian, Mattie V. Lee, against the city and the railroad. The court of appeals reversed the case holding the Rock Island railroad was not subject to pay any of the damage and sent it back to trial court to determine if Fort Worth should pay. The Supreme court granted a review to determine if the railroad was protected by the cut having been constructed before city limits were extended that far, and on the question if the boy riding a bicycle at night without a headlamp was contributorily negligent.

Harmon Dressed Down, Praised

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN BELGUIM, Jan. 16. (Delayed) —The first reward that Maj. Gen. Ernest M. Harmon got for stopping the German breakthrough last month was a genteel "bawling out"—and it was from Field Marshall Sir Bernard Montgomery himself.

Simultaneous with the pews that "Old Gravel Voice" Harmon was first "chided through channels—then handsomely praised — for breaking up a Nazi forward tank column at Celles came the disclosure that British rather than American guns knocked out the farthest thrusting Nazi tanks.

They were three tanks in an advance enemy patrol on the main Namur-Dinant road along the Meuse river which Field Marshal von Rundstedt hoped to reach in force and cut the American armies in half. British tanks promptly knocked them out in one, two, three order.

Timely Arrival

But only a small British force was stationed in the Dinant area, and except for the timely arrival of Harmon and his "hell on wheels" Second Armored division, German armored columns would have attacked in power and reached the Meuse, slashing Yank supply lines.

The Celles battle wasn't planned or expected by either side. Harman and his tankmen were'nt looking for battle at all when they pulled into a bivouac area near Celles after a phenomenal 100-mile march from Germany.

Montgomery had sent Harmon down as part of Maj. Gen. L. Lawton (Lightning Joe) Collins' Seventh corps to wait until Rundstedt had extended himself to the limit, then to counterattack viciously and destroy as much German armored force as possible.

But the Germans moved faster than anyone thought possible. Harmon sent out the usual patrols and the first thing they did was bump into a Nazi armored column speeding for the Meuse.

Plans Changed Fast

Harmon immediately got in touch with his corps commander, explained the situation, and asked premission to counterattack. "Lightning Joe" told him to go ahead and he personally would take responsibility for changing the plans. It was a decision which had to be made instantly.

The Second armored division immediately rolled into battle. In four days of slambang fighting these veteran tankes destroyed most of the enemy armored vehicles opposing them and kicked Rundstedt back 40 miles.

Montgomery, knowing of Harmon's love for a good scrap, thought Ernie had picked a quarrel ahead of time, thus upsetting Monty's program for a well-timed, paralyzing counterblow by several divisions. So he gave Harmon a "chiding through channels."

Then the full truth came through — that Harmon had had to attack to keep the American armies from being split. And, like the superb warrior he is, little Monty promptly relayed his personal compliments to Collins and Harmon for breaking up the German drive at one of its chief danger points.

Three Lubbock Men Missing In Action

Coy Fowler Fielder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fowler Fielder of 2214 Thirtieth, is missing in action, the Eighth Naval district announced Wednesday.

Fielder is an aviation ordanceman second class.

Wayne Houston Cotton, ship's cook third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Houston Cotton of Hermleigh, also was reported missing.

Two Lubbock boys, Pfc. Morris Allen, 21, and Pfc. Charles A. Maynard, have been reported missing in action in the European theater of war, according to messages received from the War department by relatives.

Pfc. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Allen of 2408 Thirteenth.

Pfc. Allen had been overseas for a little more than three months and was in a tank corps with the 14th Armored division of the Seventh army. He had been in the Army since February, 1943.

A graduate of Lubbock High school and for two years a student at Texas Technological college, Pfc. Allen had enlisted in the ATSP before it was discarded. He was then put in the tank corps and sent to Camp Campbell, Ky., for training.

A brother, Lt. Robert J. Allen, jr., is with the Air corps in India.

Mrs. Maynard and three children, Charles Ancil, jr., 8, Loretta, 7, and Wayne, 5, live on route 6, Lubbock. Pfc. Maynard has three sisters, Mrs. Glen Barker, Mrs. J. Norris and Mrs. J. W. Cox, all of Lubbock.

Prior to his induction into the infantry last March, he was employed by Wilson and Co., Inc.

Acute Shortages Of Ordnance Revealed

DETROIT, Jan. 24. (AP) — Brig Gen. A. B. Quinton, jr., chief of the Detroit Ordnance district, said he was informed artillery, mortars, truck parts, ammunition and tires, all produced in this area, now are critically scarce on the Western front.

He quoted cables from Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell, chief of ordnance now on an overseas inspection tour, as saying "every round of ammunition supplied now is worth three rounds in the spring."

Gen. Quinton asserted the present shortages overseas are the first instances of actual production lag, although he said there have been apparent shortages in the past due to a slow-down in transportation.

PLANES HAVE BIG DAY

CHUNGKING, Jan. 24 (U.P.) — Mustang fighter planes of Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's 14th U. S. Air force rolled up their biggest single day bag of Japanese locomotives yesterday when they destroyed 41 in missions around Tsinan, Peiping, Tientsin and Tenhsen, it was officially announced today.

The best way to get iron is in foods. But few foods provide significant amounts of iron. Thus, your diet can be poor in iron without your knowing it—and your "iron level" may decline. Fortunately, however, there is one well-known breakfast cereal that is extra rich in iron. And that is KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, which provides even more available iron than spinach.

In addition to being rich in this vital element, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is an important, natural source of calcium, phosphorus, vitamins B1, B2 and niacin. This nut-brown crunchy breakfast cereal is made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat . . . chock-full of nutritive elements.

KELLOGG'S All-Bran is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

Into the vital outer layers of the wheat, as well, Nature has packed some of the richest gifts of sun and soil. ALL-BRAN is made of these vital outer layers and is more abundant in many needed food elements than even whole wheat itself.

America's Great Regulating Food

Besides being a storehouse of important food elements, delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is Nature's great regulating cereal. Millions eat it regularly. A one-ounce serving is usually adequate for satisfactory laxation. ALL-BRAN, triple-milled for golden softness, does not interfere with normal digestion.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

WATCHING the inflation of almost every article that is not under the OPA price ceiling we sometimes wonder if it's true that "what goes up must come down."

DEAR MISS TURNER:
In reply to "A Mother" in a recent Woman's Angle, I as a mother of four, two of school age, will quote the much used adage "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." If the school child will bathe twice a week and scrub hands and nails three times a day with plenty of soap and hot water then many of the common germs will be eradicated. One of my school teachers used to repeat this rhyme: "Twice a week, thrice a day will keep the germs away." I went through grade school and was graduated from high school, with the contraction of itch only once, when I spent the night with an "infested" school chum, sleeping with her.

The consolidated school my children attend furnishes books with new covers each year or when needed, the school system is as good as they come in war times; I have friends of all ages in this school, and as a teacher of a "teen-age" Sunday school class I am in close contact with a wide variety of girls as well as boys. And most of them, as well as their mothers, will tell you the rich diet of a peppy teen-ager is 80 per cent the cause of complexion troubles. If the mother would insist on more vegetables and fruits, less gravy and confections, then "presto chango!"

Our home is 46 miles from Lubbock, 17 from Brownfield. We live a normal, happy life and I enjoy keeping my family healthy.

My husband has fed and marketed over 500 fat steers this year for our city friends and Allies to enjoy. If our city friends would go about their health habits more systematically, then they would be more like this.

Happy Ranchwoman.

DEAR HAPPY RANCHWOMAN:
Thank you for writing us. And good luck to you and your family.

Speaking of germs being carried in books, we talked with R. W. Matthews, superintendent of Lubbock Public school system, who tells us that when they know a child has been quarantined because of a contagious disease, they destroy his textbooks.

We are sure you are correct about cleanliness being a cure for many troubles.

PFC. ELWOOD CARRUTH, who is stationed in Alaska, writes he gets quite a bang out of reading in the Lubbock Morning Avalanche that "a cold wave, with temperatures as low as 20 degrees, is expected to sweep over the South Plains tonight."

"Ah for the days of old," he writes," when Carruth was a civilian on the South Plains, no quonset huts, no Aleut Indians, no 6 foot icicles and no 30 below, no long-handled underwear and no hooded parkas, no nothing but cotton and sand and oil and pretty girls and Texas all round. That's the life for me!"

DEAR MISS TURNER:
I have noticed from time to time you have mentioned dogs and cats to be given away and I wonder if you would help us to give away a pretty young Shepherd dog about six months old. She is gentle and sweet natured and would make an ideal pet for a rural home.

While on the subject, I would like to say, we live in a neighborhood where there are lots of little children and it seems that people wishing to get rid of dogs and cats drop them out here. This seems cruel to us. If they could see the hunger, fear and cold these little creatures have to undergo I am sure they would never be guilty of such a thing again. It would be kinder to choloroform them don't you think?

Thank you,
Mrs. A. B. Green,
2806 Twenty-eighth.

Mr. and Mrs. Scionti have taught and been heard in concert by several Lubbock musicians, who have been high in praise of their art.

They will be honor guests at a reception to be given following the concert in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McLeod, 1901 Twenty-third street.

Appearing before an audience of more than 1,000 persons in Wichita Falls Wednesday night, the musicians received high praise and presented six encores. "The exhilarating flow of music from the Sciontis attracted and charmed a capacity audience," a press account stated. The artists have "woven their individual talents into an amazingly smooth ensemble," it was stated.

Numerous Bills Are Introduced

AUSTIN, Jan. 24 (U.P.) — Bills calling for proration of natural gas condensate and cancellation of dealers' liquor permits when federal price ceilings are violated were pending today before committees in the Texas House of Representatives.

The measure by Rep. Ennis Favors, Pampa, defines condensate as any liquid petroleum product obtained by condensation from natural gas after the gas leaves its natural reservoir.

It terms production of candensate in excess of transportation and market facilities or reasonable market demand as waste and declares that unlawful. The Texas Railroad commission is given authority to determine excess production and consider market demand of condensate in relation to demand for crude oil and to restrict condensate production to market demand.

Could Cancel Permits

A bill by Rep. Jack Love, Fort Worth, provides mandatory cancellation of liquor dealers' permits by the state liquor control board administrator when a dealer violates federal price ceilings.

Other pending bills provide:

Parking lots and other motor vehicle storage places must carry property damage insurance.

Exemption of penalty and interest on all ad valoren and poll taxes delinquent as of Feb. 1 if they are paid by Dec. 15, 1946.

Penalties up to $1,000 for private use of county-owned equipment and supplies.

Second-hand dealers must keep records of all articles bought and sold.

Bars Could Incorporate

Local bar associations may incorporate.

Old age pensions, aid to blind and aid to dependent children shall be paid from a single fund instead of three separate funds; appropriating $2,750,000 a month for the payments; giving county commissioners authority to approve and recommend dismissals of public welfare field workers and creating county appeal boards.

Physicially handicapped or persons unable to write may be assisted by as many as two persons in marking their election ballots.

County commissioners may employ interpreters for county and justice courts at salaries not to exceed $175 a month.

The Conscious Ones Brush Flies; Other Wounded Don't

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

AN ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC BASE—There is one infallible method of telling when a wounded man in a casualty station near the front lines of a jungle fight is conscious and when he isn't.

An unconscious one don't brush flies away.

Otherwise the badly wounded look the same, conscious or unconscious.

At a battalion hospital at Fua on the Driniumor river in British New Guinea, I watched a surgical team amputate the shattered legs of two boys. One had been caught in a machinegun burst and his leg shattered beyond saving. A Japanese mortar had almost severed the leg of the other.

Moved To Tents

After the amputations, which were done by a surgeon who was up to his shoe-tops in mud, the boys were moved to hospital tents —canvas stretched precariously over swaying upright posts. The cot legs were five inches deep in mud—there were no dry places—and they laid on a blanket covered with another. Their eyes were wide open and glazed. A corpsman administered whole blood, then plasma. To me, they both appeared dead. The flies swarmed about their exposed faces and hands. They were horribly yellow—the atabrine "tan" always increases when a man is sick or wounded or just dead tired.

Beyond their two cots was another man, who looked just as dead as they did. There was the same glaze over his eyes, the same shrunken face, the same yellow skin. He had a shrapnel hole in his belly but was conscious. The flies buzzed around him. Every half minute he raised one hand and weakly brushed them away.

The eyes of all three wandered about. When those of the two unconscious men rested on me I nodded and spoke. There was no response, no acknowledgement. They were unconscious with their eyes open as though they had been so long without sleep they had forgotten how. Even the sedatives that made them unconscious lacked the strength to put them to sleep. The eyes of the third boy showed a little gleam of acknowledgement to my "good luck" as I left the tent.

Most Americans Approve Harsh Measures To Keep War Workers On The Job

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 24. — Throughout all of the discussion about how to handle the problem of war industry manpower needs, there has been the constant question of how far the public itself is willing to go.

GALLUP

Replies to the following question, reflecting majority sentiment, leave little doubt about John Q. Public's attitude. The question:

"What do you think should be done to keep war workers in their jobs as long as they are needed?"

A few of the replies:

"If they try to quit, line them up in front of a firing squad." That's the verdict of an ex-Army man, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

An office clerk, of Somerville, Massachusetts, says, "Punish them as traitors if they won't stay on the job."

A metallurgist, Waterbury, Connecticut: "Give them a taste of what the doughboy has to get along on."

"Freeze them on jobs . . . Punish them if they quit . . . Let's have work or fight legislation . . . draft them for work . . . Conscript all civilian labor . . . Put them in the army if they don't want to work."

THESE verbatim comments reveal the same thing that a careful tabulation of all replies shows: When field reporters across the nation talk to farmers and laborers, to housewives and stenographers, to businessmen and lawyers, they find the majority of Americans ready to go even farther than the government has yet asked the people to go.

The table of suggestions below is based upon interviews in all parts of the country, so selected that the answers accurately reflect the replies which would be obtained if everyone in the nation were questioned.

The Suggestions

Freeze workers on jobs	24%
draft workers into the army if they won't work	19
Pass National Service Act	14
Appeal to their patriotism	5
Provide additional wage incentives	5
Convince workers they will have jobs in plant when war ends	4
Make it impossible for them to get another job	4
Make working conditions pleasanter	4
Impose penalties if workers leave	2
Miscellaneous	2
Nothing can be done about it	3
Nothing should be done about it	2
Dont' know	16
	104

The percentages add to more than 100 because some persons interviewed had more than one suggestion to make.

Public's Consistent

The attitude of the public as revealed by the suggestion in the present survey is entirely consistent with its attitude since this country entered the war.

In fact, the American public would three years ago have gone a lot farther than the government has yet gone.

As far back as March, 1942, the vast majority of the public in all parts of the country favored the proposal that "the government should have the power to tell each citizen what to do as his part in the war effort and require him or her to do it."

Moreover, at no time since our entry into the war has a majority of the public been opposed to the principle of national service, provided and assuming that the people were convinced of the need for it.

Universal Military Training For Youth—Do You Want It?

PEACETIME DRAFT—that hotly debated issue of the day—is tonight's question on America's Town Meeting. If it becomes law, your young son or brother at 18 or on graduation from high school must spend a year in military training. Those in favor call it the best way to help prevent future wars—the only way to be prepared if another one comes. Those against say it creates a huge military caste, won't prevent war, will lead to regimentation. A panel of eight high school students and two adults will discuss both sides of this controversial issue tonight. Tune in America's Town Meeting, sponsored by The Reader's Digest, KFYO, 7:30.

More Prisoners Of War Write

More relatives have received news from Lubbock servicemen who are Japanese prisoners of war.

Pfc. T. L. Biggs, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Biggs of 2215 Ninth is a prisoner on Hakodate island in the Kuriles. He is a member of the Lost Battalion.

The card, addressed to Mrs. Biggs, was of the same type as a penny postal and had a message of over a hundred words written in Pfc. Biggs' own handwriting. The card and the writing both looked fresh and the date, obscured by a censorship stamp, was thought to be April.

The message said that he was "safe and well" and that although he had never had any mail from home, for the family to "keep on writing." He said "tell my wife that I think of her all the time and that I am coming back."

The camp from which the card was sent is Hakodate prison camp, branch 3, Hakodate island, 400 miles north of Tokyo in the Kuriles.

Pfc. Biggs' wife is a yeoman second class in the WAVES and is stationed at Miami, Fla., where she works in the cable censorship office.

Three More Write

Sgt. Horace V. Kershner and Pvt. Jesse F. Bumpass, jr., of whom news was received this week, are prisoners of the Japanese at Thailand Camp 3.

Pvt. Bumpass, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bumpass of 2402 Ave. U, said on a card dated June 3, 1944 that he was ill in the hospital and another undated card from him wished the family a merry Christmas.

Sgt. Kershner is a son of L. Kershner of Clovis, N. M., and a brother of R. O. Kershner of the Slaton highway. His card was like the others that have been received in the past week from members of the 131st Field artillery, except that an indication was given that he was receiving some mail.

Pvt. Eldridge Leon Rayburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rayburn of 1916 Fifth, member of the Lost Battalion, became a prisoner of the Japanese government at the fall of Bataan. His parents received news from him this week for the first time since December of 1943. Two cards, mailed from Thailand Camp 3, said he was in good health but had received no news from the family.

Texas U. Probe By Schoolmen Is "Fair"

DALLAS, Jan. 24. (AP)—William H. Francis, state president of the University of Texas Ex-Students' association, said today the investigation into university affairs being made by representatives of the Southern Association of Colleges and schools appeared to be proceeding "very fairly and broadly."

Francis conferred with Dean M. C. Huntley, University of Alabama, and Dr. Rufus C. Harris, president of Tulane university, both members of the association, before they left for Austin.

"They seem to be investigating the whole situation very fairly and broadly," said Francis. "Their questions to me were principally concerned with a desire for additional light on whether the board (of regents) has acted within the bounds of reason in discharging Homer P. Rainey or if it had mistreaded him.

Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas and Dr. John H. Bickett, former chairman of the board who resigned when Dr. Rainey was dismissed, also were questioned by the investigating officials, but declined to comment on questions asked them.

Benjamin Franklin, among his other accomplishments, invented the harmonica.

The man who's driving 3 cars—You!

Not so STRANGE. Just look at it sort of this way: All together you're driving your pre-war car, your wartime car, and the car you must earnestly hope to keep postwar. You cannot count on a new car soon. More are wanted already than America has ever yet built in three full years! Then no precaution can be too thorough for that postwar car you drive right now—and there's no plainer safety measure than having its engine OIL-PLATED. This unprecedented extra surfacing, formed direct on precious inner parts, comes from Conoco N^th motor oil—patented.

All in addition to finest natural quality . . . all in addition to extreme modern refining . . . all in addition to tough liquid oil film, you get Conoco N^th oil's great man-made ingredient, too! And that brings the plus of OIL-PLATING—to defy corrosive engine acids—to help your engine resist formation of carbon and sludge. You'll get a cleaner engine that conserves your oil and gasoline; your battery, too.

Above all, you'll know that your engine's fine inner finish is being shielded by protective, durable OIL-PLATING—making its distinct added contribution toward letting your car live its limit. Yet Conoco N^th motor oil costs you little more. Change now. Continental Oil Company

Reduction Of Tariffs Suggested To Encourage Exchange Of Goods

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 24 (U.P.)—The National Cotton council today urged the reduction of tariffs and "all other international trade barriers" where possible without having "serious adverse effect" on the domestic economy of the United States.

This step was taken, an adopted resolution said, to "encourage a maximum exchange of goods throughout the world so that full employment and consumption may be attained."

The council pledged to use its influence to put the exportation of cotton and its products back into private hands and urged the cooperation of this country in an international organization for maintaining world peace, in line with the general principles of the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

The council also asked the government to make funds available for a technical specialist in cotton exclusively and petitioned Congress to launch a thorough investigation into the relative positions of cotton and its competing products, such as synthetics.

Reaffirms Previous Policy

A previous stand against Office of Price Administration ceiling policies on cotton textiles was reaffirmed, the council pointing out that it should be beneath an amount arrived at by taking into consideration cotton cost, manufacturing or conversion cost and profit.

The OPA's present profit formula, the council said, penalizes mills making the most rapid production strides, thereby "largely destroying the incentive for making further gains." The present relationship between price ceilings on cotton and rayon textiles was also criticized. The council said the policy now makes it more profitable for mills to spin rayon than cotton.

Col. Everett Cook, cotton adviser to the State department, in an unscheduled address warned that a government subsidy on exports leads to economic reprisals by competitive countries and, eventually, to war.

Cook, urging that the council not seek reforms that might involve the U. S. in future economic or military warfare, asserted:

"Trade discrimination must end if we are to have peace. The State department does not feel that the export subsidy for cotton is the solution to the problem. It cuts across the general foreign policy so sharply that it is entirely out of line."

Cook advocated a one-price setup on cotton with a parity to be paid to farmers.

warships of the carrier task force from Sunday through Tuesday, Tokyo time.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz has already reported the first two days of the Formosa-Ryukyu strikes. He said one major American ship was damaged off Formosa.

In the battle for the Arakan coast, western Burma, British amphibious forces again surprised the Japanese and made a new landing, their third this month. The British landed southwest of Kangaw and pushed inland where they beat off strong Japanese counterattacks.

The Kangaw area is northeast of Myebon peninsula, which was invaded earlier this month shortly after British occupation of Akyab. Last Sunday Ramree island was invaded. It is 50 miles south of the peninsula.

The Kangaw landing may be aimed at cutting off Japanese retreat from the Kaladan valley.

In central Burma, where Mandalay is the prize, the British advanced three miles to within 32 miles west of the objective. On the north, 45 miles from Mandalay is the prize, the British advanced three miles to within 32 miles west of the objective. On the north, 45 miles from Mandalay, the Japanese sustained severe losses as they heavily counterattacked.

Adm. Lord Louis Montbatten told his Allied commanders that the general shouthward surge of Chinese, British and American forces has "inflicted a crushing defeat on the enemy and driven him from North Burma."

Raid Gap Narrowed

More than 350 Japense retreating southward from the old Burma road sector some 80 miles north of Lashio ran into an American artillery roadblock and were killed in a series of bombardments. These Japanese had been fighting a delaying action to keep the Burma road closed but the Ledo-Burma artery, now cleared of Nipponese, is ready for the movement of heavy war supplies from India into China.

A Chinese high command communique said the Japanese were slowly closing the last Chinese-held gap in the Canton-Hankow railway north of Canton. It disclosed that the Japanese were on the offensive in western Kwangsi province driving against certain Allied air bases.

The Chinese claimed recapture of Juian, China coast town 240 miles south of Shanghai.

Woman Hurt In Wreck Showing Improvement

Mrs. O. F. Lawson of 2903 Thirty-fourth, who suffered a concussion about noon Wednesday when she was thrown from her car to the pavement in an automobile collision at Twenty-second and College, was reported in satisfactory condition late Wednesday night. She was at St. Mary's hospital.

Attendants reported Mrs. Lawson had regained consciousness, and that the concussion was probably the full extent of her injuries.

Mrs. Lawson's car and one driven by W. J. Duncan of 2608 Twenty-third were involved. Duncan was not hurt.

Mrs. Lawson was taken to the hospital in a Bryan McDonald and Son ambulance.

Lubbock Gunner Is In Exciting Fight

AT AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION In England, Jan. 24. (AP)—The teamwork by a Liberator bomber crew in 23 combat missions paid off when Nazi fighters pounced on the ship during a recent attack on the oil target of a misburg in Germany, killed the pilot with cannon fire and put a gaping hole in the nose of the bomber.

Lt. Vincent Mazza, co-pilot of Naperville, Ill., took over when the pilot was killed shortly after the bombs had been dropped on misburg. Two waves of Nazi fighters took after the bomber formation and Mazza had a grim struggle to keep the craft from swerving into other planes in the formation.

Sgt. Eddie Goodgion of Lubbock, Tex., waist gunner, came forward with blankets to protect the bombardier from the sub-zero gale whistling through the hole in the ship's nose.

When the plane finally crossed the English coast neither altimeter nor airspeed indicator were functioning and the radio was dead.

Jones Vs. Wallace

secretary and RFC head to pay a political debt to Wallace had the capital so steamed up that the huge caucus room was jammed and an overflow crowd hammered hysterically at the doors.

The hearing itself was on a bill by Senator George (D-Ga) to divorce the RFC and other big lending agencies from the Commerce department. It was offered because some Senators are loathe to confirm Wallace except for the routine duties of the cabinet post. His nomination has been sidetracked pending consideration of the George bill.

Conjecture Develops

Jones presented to the committee a 350-word statement that from top to bottom was an implied slap at Wallace.

There developed some conjecture that Jones might still be loan administrator if the George bill goes through. George said he thought so, if he had not resigned that title specifically in yielding the cabinet job.

Senator Overton disputed that view, however.

George offered a revision of his bill under which, he said, it was possible that Jones might continue as the federal banker.

The question then evolved around whether Jones has officially resigned. Asked by Senator Pepper if he had, the Texan said:

"I suppose you read my letter to the President. That's about all I can tell you."

In that letter Jones said he was compelled to acquiesce in the President's decision.

That letter, Jones continued, will be an "effective" resignation when his successor is confirmed.

"I don't expect to remain as secretary of commerce," he said sardonically. As for the loan post, he said that was up to Mr. Roosevelt but he is "not seeking the job."

In his prepared statement, Jones declared:

"The man who is given the vast responsibilities contained in the RFC act should be a man of proven and sound business experience," the strapping Texan declared.

"Untried Ideas" Charged

Jones said the government's lending agencies conduct the biggest business the world ever has known and postwar adjustment will have to be handled even more carefully "in order not to destroy our entire business and financial structure."

"Certainly the RFC should not be placed under the supervision of any man willing to jeopardize the country's future with untried ideas and idealistic schemes.

"The lending agencies of the government can be administered as they have been, on a non-partisan basis, for the benefit of all the people, or they can be used to destroy what we have built up in this nation in 170 years.

"That to my mind is the issue which this committee and the congress must decide.

"The country has a right to expect a man in this important place," he said, "whose philosophy is in line with the principles which made our country great."

Nazi Clothing, Food Situation Worsened

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 24 (AP) — Berlin's food and clothing situation — already bad — has become critical with the capital swamped by refugees fleeing the Eastern front, dispatches from Berlin reported tonight.

The German-controlled Scandinavian Telegram bureau said Berlin authorities were unable to care for the refugees; that many were compelled to pass on farther west, hungry and inadequately clothed. Red Cross and first aid personnel were reported working day and night, primarily treating frost bite and "transport accident" cases.

Clayton Insists On Water Treaty

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. (AP)—Unruffled by the cross-questioning of Senator Johnson (R-Calif), F. B. Clayton, American counsel for the International Boundary commission, continued today to urge ratification of the pending United States-Mexican water treaty.

Requesting Clayton to return upon resumption of the hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations committee this afternoon, the veteran California Senator facetiously asked the witness whether "you feel you are representing Mexico or the United States."

Johnson and his junior colleague, Senator Downey (D-Calif), reflecting official views of their state in opposition to the pact, critically surveyed statements by Clayton as to administrative and legal aspects of the treaty.

All irrigation and reclamation projects in the United States under the jurisdiction of the Interior department would continue to be under that agency, Clayton said, adding that state laws regarding the distribution of waters in its confines would not be affected by the treaty.

Jurisdiction Defined

He asserted that only those dams built on international streams, specifically the three proposed on the Rio Grande, and those projects built especially to carry out provisions of the treaty, would be under the jurisdiction of the International Boundary commission.

Clayton said the new treaty in many respects was similar to that of 1906 regarding division of waters of the upper Rio Grande. He declared it in on way conflicted with provisions of the water compact drawn up between states in the Colorado River basin.

Before Clayton took the stand, Senator Downey had proposed that the treaty be modified to provide that Mexico be given all the "return flow" of the Colorado river at the border—that amount which eventually returned to the river channel through seepage and otherwise from irrigation systems to which it had been diverted—plus 600,000 acre feet of upstream water.

He advanced his idea in the nature of a question to Lawrence M. Lawson, American member of the International Boundary commission, asking whether Lawson would approve such a change.

Lawson replied that provisions calling for an annual guarantee to Mexico of 1,500,000 acre feet had been agreed upon by negotiators of both countries after lengthy conferences and that he felt that was the most satisfactory plan.

Senatorial Support

er White (R-Maine) and Vandenberg.

White said the resolution was read over the telephone for his approval.

"Do you think it will strengthen the President's hand?" he was asked.

"I certainly do," he replied.

The idea was conceived a week ago and the form of the statement drafted in four meetings. Senator Fulbright (D-Ark), who was a House member in the last Congress took the lead in putting Congress on record for an international peace organization, was the leader of the group. Working closely with him and sharing the leadership was Senator Smith (R-NJ).

Here's Record Stand

Signing the pronouncement were these Democrats: Briggs of Missouri, Fulbright of Arkansas, Hoey of North Carolina, Johnston of South Carolina, McMahon of Connecticut, Mitchell of Washington, Meyers of Pennsylvania and Taylor of Idaho, and these Republicans: Capehart of Indiana, Donnell of Missouri, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Morse of Oregon, Smith of New Jersey and Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

Reached by telephone and giving their approval were Senators Magnuson (D-Wash) and Moses D-ND).

Western Front

Gen. George S. Patton's Third army.

But Hodges' troops gained 3,000 yards in one sector and Patton's men made as much as a mile and a half, closing within 3 1-2 miles of the German frontier in the vicinity of Binsfeldt.

The Third army repulsed a counterattack there and pounded northeast to the area of Holler, which is two miles east of Trois Vierges.

Heinsberg, with a normal population of 5,000, was the last important road center west of the Roer river in the Cologne plain. It is 31 miles from Dusseldorf and 16 from Munchen Gladbach, both of which lie to the northeast.

Daylight Exodus Mystifies

Despite wretched weather, which in general slowed the Allied aerial assaults on the retreating Nazis after two days of powerful attack, RAF Spitfires, Tempests and Typhoons bombed and shot up many scores of trains streaming northeastward from the bulge.

Presumably loaded with a large part of the Panzer forces which bore the brunt of the German pre-Christmas offensive in the Ardennes, the enemy continued to move in broad daylight despite wholesale carnage and wreckage inflicted by the Allied planes. Roaring up and down the three main rail lines which run from Dusseldorf to Hannover, the RAF beat off feeble German Air force attempts to protect the trains.

The obvious explanation was that the Germans were rushing reinforcements to meet the Russian offensive in the east. It was regarded as unlikely, front dispatches said, that the Germans werepulling back from the Western front merely to defit and rest, since they presumably would do this at a slower pace and under the safety of night, instead of feverishly by day.

The American First and Third armies were hammering less than five miles from the German frontier after beating off German rearguards who struck back weakly in the narrow remaining strip of the once-extensive Ardennes bulge. Snow helped protect the retreating enemy from air attack and increased the German resistance.

Counterattack Refused

The weather slowed the Third army to a walk today, although the Nineteenth Infantry division, repulsing the first counterattack in a week in the Houffalize area, gained a mile in the northern tip of Luxembourg near Holler, 3 1-2 miles west of the German border.

The Sixth Armored division also fought much snow and few Germans, Associated Press Correspondent Lews Hawkins reported from the front, gaining a mile near Wilwerdance, 10 miles east of Houffalize. The 80th division gained a mile and a half, reaching the Clerf River three miles northeast of Wiltz.

Overnight Third army infantry had advanced 2 1-2 miles across the headwaters of the Clerf river, capturing Binsfield.

Both the 90th division and the Sixth Cavalry group encountered the enemy dug in on the west side of the Clerf and Hawkins said the Germans apparently were planning to last brief stand along the river from a point four miles northeast of Wiltz to the headwaters east of Trois Vierges. This last-named town was captured.

Germans Beaten Off

On the First army's front just to the north the Germans in a desperate, unsuccessful effort to recapture St. Vith, struck back early today in a series of counterattacks against the Seventh Armored division, which had cleared the highway center Tuesday. The attacks, in strength ranging up to 200 infantry and seven tanks, were beaten off with capture of 250 prisoners.

Among the towns captured by the First army were Neuendorf, Crumbach, Weisten, Braunlauf, Maldingen and Ourthe.

In southern Alsace the First French army's new attack against the northern side of the Colmar pocket resulted in advaces of a few miles at some points and the French were across the Ill river at several places. The situation on the southern side of the Colmar pocket was reported unchanged

Activity on the American Seventh army front to the north of the French was confined to patrolling and artillery exchanges, headquarters said.

The U. S. Ninth Air force's widespread attacks against German vehicles dwindled as fog, haze and snow settled over the battlefront.

On the Third army front the Tactical Air force up to late afternoon had flown 100 sorties, with 102 motor transports destroyed.

Cheddar cheese was introduced into the United States by early British settlers.

Latham Unconfirmed By Texas Senate

AUSTIN, Jan. 24 (AP)—Confirmation of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson's appointees struck another snag today as the Senate returned to committee—with action—the name of Sidney Latham, reappointed secretary of state.

Although this action was not final, since the Senate neither confirmed nor rejected Latham, it was considered indicative of possible troubled sailing for some of the governor's nominees.

AREA MEN CONFIRMED

AUSTIN, Jan. 24 (AP) — Numerous confirmations were made by the Senate today, including the following appointees:

Dr. N. A. Cox of Lubbock, as member of the state Board of Veterinary Examiners; Lucian E. Morehead of Plainview, commissioner to the national conference on uniform state laws; and Dr. Marshall Harvey of Lubbock, as member of the state Board of Chiropody Examiners.

Abernathy Nominates Boll Pulling Champ

The Abernathy community this afternoon placed in nomination for the South Plains boll pulling championship the name of Frank Alamaguer, 24, who reportedly pulled 2,189 pounds of cotton in nine hours — and took time off to go to his house for lunch.

Alamaguer's feat was accomplished Jan. 6 on the farm of B. A. McDougal, two miles north and four miles east of Abernathy.

McDougal weighed and emptied the cotton.

On Jan. 4, Alamaguer, weighing and emptying his own cotton, gathered 1,912 pounds in eight hours and 40 minutes.

Alamaguer is of slight build, weighs 145 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Mrs. McDougal, who was in Lubbock Wednesday, said Alamaguer pulled the cotton from a field of a storm-proof variety which produced an average of a bale and a half to the acre.

Col. MacPhail To Go On Inactive Status

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (U.P.) — Col. Larry MacPhail, former president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said today that he would go on inactive status with the Army on Feb. 10, but that he was "subject to recall at any time."

MacPhail, who confirmed that he had taken a physical examination at New York last week, said that it had nothing to do with reports that he was to accept a new post in the War department, possibly as sports coordinator.

"The placing of a man on inactive status does not mean that he can not be recalled at any time," he said. "The job I have been doing with Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson is completed and I am ready for whatever else I may be needed for."

MacPhail said that he had not "given a though" to whether he might be named for the proposed post of sports coordinator in Washington, but that he would be available for any position in which the War department might want him to serve.

The Camp Livingston public relations office said Robert H. Gaffney, 21, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was in the Livingston hospital, taken there after he was hurt in an automobile accident.

From Camp Clairborne came a report that Louis E. Christakos, 20, of Chicago, Ill., and Jesse F. Ferrell, 20, of Crandall, Tex., who escaped with Gaffney Jan. 19 after the trio overpowered a Camp Bowie guard, were last seen in Shreveport, La., headed toward Dallas.

LAAF Graduates, Former Tech Man Back From Combat; Study Further

Eight LAAF graduates and a former Texas Tech student who have returned from combat are once again attending school here. They are members of class 45-3, the first to take the new course of instruction at the west base.

The LAAF grads are: Lt. Bernard Beckman, a former cadet with class 43-B; Lt. Gordon Bedell, 43-C; Lt. William Gannon, 43-D; Capt. Ben. H. Gildart, jr., 42-J; Lt. Robert McLaughlin, 42-K; Lt. Warren A. Roeske, 44-A; Lt. William T. Roberts, 4-K; and Lt. Patsy Verrocci of class 43-H.

Lt. Raymond McReynolds was a student at Tech. He returned to the U. S. early in October of last year and on Oct. 30 was married to Miss LaJune Kinard, 2109 22nd street. He was then assigned to Waco AAF and only recently received orders to report to LAAF for instrument instruction. Lieutenant McReynolds flew pursuit planes over there as escort for the cargo planes flying the dangerous "Hump." He made 250 trips to and from Indian and China. On one trip their flight of four pursuits were attacked by 20 Jap bombers and 30 Jap fighters of which 10 were knocked down and four others were probably destroyed. Lieutenant McReynolds, like most of the student officers in the AAF Instrument school here, wears a lot of "fruit salad" won overseas. His decorations include the DFC with oak leaf cluster, and the Air Medal.

Represent Cross Section

The eight LAAF graduates offer a cross section of the veterans who are learning the new instrument procedure here, Captain Gildart and Lieutenants Beckman, Roeske and Verrocchi fought in the European theater, all four received the DFC and each has the Air Medal with at least three clusters. However, Captain Gilbart, as pilot of a B-24, also flew in the Mediterranean area, including the Ploesti raid, the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. He has an Oak Leaf cluster on his DFC and five battle stars for major engagements. His comment on the value of adequate instrument training to combat pilots was typical of the comments of all returned pilots. He said. "Often we had to climb from 1,000 to 18,000 feet on actual instruments to assemble 'on top.' We usually sweated this out and letting down upon return was sometimes more dangerous than the flak over enemy territory." Captain Gildart is now assigned to Midland AAF as an instrument instructor.

Lt. Wm. T. Gannon flew B-25's and C-47's in the C-B-I theater and has been stationed since his return at Turner Field, Ga.

Have Flown Plenty

Lieutenant Beckman has flown 11 different types of aircraft including some British bombers. In addition to the decorations mentioned above he also wears the distinguished unit badge. He is here on detached service from Hendricks Field, Fla., while Lieutenant Verrocchi was a B-17 pilot overseas and will return to his home station at Stockton, Calif., upon completion of the instrument course here.

Lieutenants William T. Roberts and Robert M. McLaughlin both graduated here with class 42-K, both fought in the Mediterranean theater, and both hold the Air medal. Lieutenant Roberts took part in the invasion of Sicily and flew supplies in to Marshall Tito's forces in Yugoslavia. They have been reassigned to Childress and LaJunta, Colo., respectively.

Lt. Gordon Bedell, 43-C, was with the 5th Air force in the Pacific. His worst experience was being forced down in the wilds of New Guinea and he says that any instrument flying will quickly convince the pilot that he can't know too much about that kind of operation. He will return to Altus (Okla.) AAF to teach aviation cadets there what he has learned in the AAF Instrument school here.

Seven Arrested In Black Market Drive

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24. (AP) —The FBI announced today seven arrests were made during the night in a move to halt diversion of choice, government-owned meat, into black market channels.

Nat Pieper, FBI agent in charge, said "more than 25,000 pounds of government-owned choice meats, worth $16,000, including steaks and roasts, intended for use of the armed forces overseas, was recovered by FBI agents before it had been diverted into the black market."

Pieper said those arrested and charged with conspiracy to commit fraud against the government included a San Francisco restaurant owner, two meat market operators, two ship stewards, and two other persons.

Jan. 31 Deadline For Tax Receipts

Deadline for employers to furnish each employe a withholding receipt on form W-2 (Rev.) showing wages received and amount withheld from his wages during the calendar year 1944, is Jan. 31, L. B. Barkley of the Internal Revenue office said.

Of special importance this year because the new law authorizes most employes to use their receipts as simplified income tax returns, employers are urged to record employes home address, social security number and other required information when preparing each withholding receipt. The home address and social security number are pretinent information for identification purposes.

Each employer is required to make three copies of each withholding receipt, two of which goes to the employe who will file one with his return and keep the other. Also by Jan. 31, the employer must mail the third copy to the collector of internal revenue in his district, together with the regular withholding tax return (Form W-1) for the last quarter of 1944. A statement on form W-3 reconciling the wage and tax amounts as shown by the quarterly returns with the similar amounts as shown on the withholding receipts must accompany the withholding receipt and withholding tax return.

The new feature of the withholding receipt is explained in an official leaflet, entitled "How to Use Your Withholding Receipt as an Income Tax Return," which employers have been asked to distribute copies to their employees.

How many lives has an M-18 HELLCAT?

One way to answer that question is to take a look at battle-front reports from a Buick engineer, sent to get firsthand dope on how the Buick-built M-18 Hellcat is doing.

On one occasion, he writes, one of our Hellcats ran into nine enemy tanks of various sizes.

When the smoke cleared away, all of the German vehicles lay in blasted ruins. The Hellcat was knocked out, too — but only after taking a nine-to-one toll.

In another engagement, eight M-18's were attacked by 20 enemy tanks. When the battle was over, three German tanks were scurrying for cover, 17 were done for — and none of our vehicles or men had been hurt.

But that isn't the whole story.

To the men who handle them, ability to stay in the fight is just as important as the Hellcat's 55-mile top speed, its ability to master any terrain, and the accuracy of its high velocity 76-mm. cannon.

On that score, this can be quoted direct from the same sort of battle-front reports:

"The vehicles have gone mile after mile with little or no maintenance, and in most cases they keep right on going."

All of which, as we see it, makes a gratifying picture. The Hellcats are fast. They go anywhere. They hit hard. And, in the good Buick tradition, they can take it.

Which is exactly what Buick men and Ordnance experts were aiming for from the start.

District 6-A To Have Nine Teams

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 24 (Special)—District 6-A of the Texas Interscholastic league will kick-off next September with nine teams in the fold, intead of the six teams that comprised the district personnel during this season.

This action featured the annual district meeting held here tonight by members of the district, which voted in the schools from Andrews and Sundown and marked the return of Slaton to league play.

Jones Elected

J. W. Jones, superintendent at Denver City, was elected secretary of the district to succeed C. L. Cotton of Seagraves.

Slaton was formerly a member of the district, and withdrew shortly after the start of the war. The school returned to football last year, but played only an independent schedule.

Andrews played last season in District B-A, but transferred into District 6-A tonight because of better travel conditions with teams in this district, and to add new meaning to traditional rivalries already worked up with other schools in this area.

Sundown High school is venturing into the football field of eleven men teams for the first time. The school has been a powerful entry in the six-man football league for a number of years, and has been one of the top teams in the state.

Other members of the district in football will be Denver City, Seminole, Seagraves, O'Donnell, Post and Tahoka.

The return of Slaton, and the addition of Andrews and Sundown, will bring the district race to full strength for the first time since the start of the war.

Basketball Pairings

Other business of the night included the pairings for the first round of the district basketball tournament, scheduled for Feb. 9 and 10 at Denver City. It will be a double elimination tournament.

The opening round will pair Seagraves and Seminole in the first game, Slaton will play O'Donnell in the second. The host team, Denver City will play Post in the third game. Tahoka drew a bye.

The names of several officials were selected, but were not announced until they could be contacted and the two officials selected that will work the Denver City tournament.

Plans For Annual Cage Game Are Made

The invitation tourney starts March 17 with the final round listed for March 25, and the collegiate group stages its regionals March 22 and national final March 27.

Henderson Returns To Post At Baylor

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 24 (AP) — R. E. (Bill) Henderson left the Army today and will return to Baylor university as head coach of basketball and acting head coach of football.

Henderson, a first lieutenant in the Air Corps, was retired to inactive duty at Fort Sam Houston today after almost two years in the service.

Henderson was stationed recently at South Plains Army Air field, where he was an instructor in the ground school. He also officiated in a number of basketball games and tournaments in the Lubbock area.

Henderson officiated games for both Lubbock High school and Texas Tech during his stay in Lubbock, and was well known in the South Plains area.

He will take over the Baylor basketball team next week and next fall will be head coach of football unless Frank Kimbrough returns from the service at that time, in which event Henderson will take over his old duties of line coach. Kimbrough is in the Navy.

Hendersoon went to Baylor as assistant coach in 1934. He entered the service March 3, 1943, shortly after Baylor announced discontinuance of intercollegiate football. Baylor is returning to football next season after being out of Southwest Conference play for two years.

Byron Nelson Gains Open Favorite Role

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 24 (AP) — A field of 140, including 59 professionals, will tee off in the nineteenth Texas Open Friday with golf's tall tactician—ruddy-cheeked Byron Nelson—the favorite, as usual.

Nelson arrived Tuesday to find himself top man in championship forecasts, then proceeded to justify it with a tune-up round of 64—seven under par for Brackenridge course—and that's the best that has been shot as the crack contingent of the winter tournament trail test the tough lay-out preparatory to tomorrow's pro-amateur event, forerunner of the open.

Today Nelson, Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Craig Wood, Jimmy Demaret, Johnny Revolta, Bob Hamilton and Sam Byrd visited Brooke General hospital reconditioning unit and the convalescent training center of the San Antonio Aviation Cadet center in the first of a series of appearances before wounded veterans. This is to be done all along the route of the tour.

Nelson's round of 34-30—64 was just one stroke over the competitive record for the course. The record was made by McSpaden in 1940 and tied by Nelson last year. McSpaden also holds the course record for a practice round—a 59.

Sports Broadcasts Popular With Troops

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24 (U.P.) Sports broadcasts, baseball in particular, are so popular with our troops overseas that during world series time the boys would have paid $10 a seat just for the privilege of hearing the broadcasts, Maj. J. Carter Hermann, chief of the shortwave section of the armed forces radio service, said today.

Just back from the European area, Hermann said it was his belief that baseball broadcasts overseas should be continued if at all possible without hurting the war effort.

"Sports in general, and baseball in particular, are doing the greatest thing in their history in supplying troops with listening entertainment," the major said.

He explained that in the front line sectors, news broadcasts come first.

"After all," he said, "that's the thing that decides when the boys get to come home—but sports come second, over all other types of entertainment, including music."

Horned Frogs Romp Over Baylor, 64-25

FORT WORTH, Jan. 24. (AP) — Coach Hub McQuillan's TCU Cagers moved into temporary possession of second place in the Southwest conference basketball race here tonight as they whipped Baylor's Bears, 64-25.

Center Merle Gibson and forward Leroy Pasco paced the Frogs' most one-sided victory in recent years by meshing 14 and 13 points respectively for top scoring honors.

Meadow Tourney To Start Today

MEADOW, Jan. 24—Four basketball games will launch the annual Meadow High school invitation basketball tournament Thursday night with 20 high geared cage machines battling for titles in the boys and girls brackets. There will also be consolation play in both divisions.

Three boys games and one girls game are on the schedule for the opening night, with winners of all four games moving into the quarter-final play of the championship brackets. The boys losers will move into the quarter-finals of the consolation, while the loser of the girls game will move into the semi-finals of the consolation.

Two boys games will take over the spotlight in the starting battles with Ropesville and Union tipping off at 7 o'clock in the opener. The New Home and Wellman boys will follow at 8 o'clock.

The Wellman and Meadow girls will tangle at 9 o'clock in a battle that should produce a thriller. The Meadow girls in winning 16 out of 17 games this year won a one point decision over Wellman in one of the closest tests of the season.

Should Meadow win, the girls will then play Wilson, the only team to beat Meadow this year, that a one point victory last week.

The finale of the opening card Thursday will pair the Meadow and Plains boys in another battle that looms as a real battle, and between two high ranked teams in the meet.

Survey Shows Enough On Hand For Baseball

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Professional baseball probably has enough 17-year-olds and players over 38 to man the 16 major league rosters if conditions necessitates such action.

A nationwide survey by the Associated Press today uncovered almost 460 players whose 1944 experience ranged from the big leagues to Class D. Many of these still would be available if all now in the military draft age should be taken.

It wouldn't be big league ball but it might serve as an acceptable stop-gap if proposed national service legislation is passed and put into immediate large scale operation.

There has been no official indication from the sport or from the government that there will be any radical change in the attitude expressed by the President's "carry on if you can" message.

Big league executives have continued to make training camp plans, player deals and mail out contracts on the assumption that the season will open as usual in mid-April. For the most part they are depending on the holdovers from '44 who have not been called to service. No club has shown any inclination to load up with any large amount of overage and underage talent.

Bowling League Race Tightened By Cokes

Coca-Cola's red hot bowling five trimmed the league lead of the Hub Laundrymen to one game Wednesday night at the Plamor alleys in the torrid City-Commercial bowling loop by winning two games from DeKalb Oilers while Meads Bakery was winning two from the Laundrymen.

The Lions club turned in the only clean sweep of the night, with the Optimist club the victims, while S. & Q. Clothiers won two games from Armour's in the remaining games on the card.

Terrell Matthews of the Coca-Cola five set the scoring pace for the night with a high single game score of 229, and tied this to another big game of 222 and a 145 for the top series of the night with a 596 total.

Green, whose home was at Munice, Ind., was stationed at Camp Howze, near Gainesville.

Dallas County Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Decker said his body was found in a room which had all the windows down and a stove burning full blast.

Texas Tech Names Gridiron Lettermen For 1944 Season

A last of 23 lettermen for the Texas Tech Red Raiders football team of 1944 was named Wednesday afternoon by Coach Dell Morgan, with an additional 15 boys given numeral awards for the season.

Many of those listed on the award list have already gone on into the armed services, and just who will be left around the campus next fall when another season starts is a big question mark yet to be answered.

Letters were awarded to Otis Turner of Wink and Floyd Lawhorn of Temple at center; John Birdwell of Bossier City, La., Bobby Hayes of Burkburnett, Homer Lawson of Lubbock and Don Orr of Graham at guards; Clyde Black of Ben Franklin, Don Grove, Monument, N. M., and Joe Snodgrass of Brownfield at tackles; Jack Dillon of Chillicothe, Don Dudley of Wichita Falls, Jim Taylor of Sweetwater and Luke Thompson of Eldorado at ends; Costin Bufkin of Hobbs, N. M., T. M. Cox of Muleshoe, Ernest Hawkins of Lamesa, Glen Lewis of Quitaque, Tom Montgomery of Ozona, Cecil Norris of Beaumont, Walter Schlinkman of Dumas, Arthur Shahan of Graham, Billy Joe Whitehead of Masoon and Gene Hardey of Hugerton, Kans., at backfield posts.

Numeral awards were given to Ed Orr of Vernon at center; Buddy Boles of Lubbock, Glen Stinnett of Tell and Billy Webb of Mineral Wells at guards; Francis Brockman of Carlsbad, N. M., James Gimmell of Littlefield, John McDermott of Portales, N. M., at tackles; Chester Jackson of Monument, N. M., Seth Murphey of Levelland and Tex Wallis of Portales, N. M., at ends; Bobby Barron of Big Spring, Russell Cannon of Bowie, Jim Cooper of Monument, N. M., William Davis of Franklin and James Rudd of Mt. Pleasant as backs.

Most of the men given awards this year were freshman at the school, and all of them have remaining years of eligibility with the Red Raiders. The only true veteran of the ball club is Walter Schlinkman, the Dumas Demon, who received All-American mention this year, and was the spearhead of the Red Raider attack. Schlinkman has another year to play.

The Red Raiders played one of the toughest schedules of the past several years, and made a great showing during the season with a potent scoring punch that made them popular with the fans throughout the Southwest.

Sudan Plans All-Boys Tourney This Week

Two days of firing will name a champion in the Sudan High school basketball tournament, scheduled for Friday and Saturday at Sudan, it was announced here Wednesday. It will be an all-boys tournament.

No list of entries was announced, nor how many team would be entered. A. C. "Stumpy" Hamilton of Lubbock will officiate at the games.

LAAF Fliers Shade Dalhart Five, 37-36

DALHART, Jan. 24. (Special)—Coming from behind with flashy drive, Lubbock Army Air field's Fliers struck their early season form here tonight, and nosed out the Dalhart Army Air field five, 37-36, in a fast thriller that gave the fans plenty of action.

Gerald McCarty set the pace, closely followed by Bruce Prior, as the Lubbock lads launched a last half drive that brought them from far to the rear to gain the victory.

CAGE TILTS CANCELLED

BLACKLAND ARMY AIR FIELD, Waco, Tex., Jan. 24. (AP)—Extensive transfers of squad members from the Blackland Army Air field basketball team and difficulty in arranging adequate transportation, have forced the Eagles to cancel games against the Lubbock AAF and South Plains AAF basketball scheduled Friday and Saturday night at Lubbock.

McCarty swished six field goals through the hoop, and toed the foul line for there more points for a high total of the night of 15 points. Prior found the range on the basket for five loopers from the floor, and ten more points.

These 25 points told most of the story of the last half drive that found the LAAF club holding a five point lead with four minutes left to go, after moving into the second half of play while ten points behind the home club.

Oppenlander launched the Dalhart club to a running start, and was the second high scorer of the night, looping in 13 points for the Dalhart five. Captaert came next with eight points.

Dalhart moved into an early lead, and reached the quarter turn with a 9 to 6 advantage, and in a wild scoring second period had boosted the lead to 26-16 at the half.

Lubbock opened a drive in the third quarter that almost wore out the nets, and roared into a 34-32 lead at the three-quarter mark. The visitors built up a five point lead with four minutes to go, in a slow scoring final period, then began to freeze the ball, and beat the whistle with a one point lead.

Letters Awarded To 27 Aggie Gridders

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 24. (AP) — Varsity letters were awarded to 27 players and the student manager last night at the Texas Aggie lettermen's banquet.

Coach Homer Norton presented quarterback Jimmy Cashion of College Station as the most valuable player on the Texas A. and M. football team last season, and Cotton Howell of Nacogdoches, left end, as the best blocker.

Guard Damon Tassos of San Antonio and Tackle Monte Moncrief of Dallas were named by Norton as co-captains for last season.

A new breed of sheep has been developed which is lighter in weight and with smaller bones. It may thus be possible to order a leg of lamb for two in a few years.

Our Laws Need A Renovation

No one except a lawyer could understand—no one except a lawyer would even try to understand—the interpretation of the law which prompted a decision of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals the other day as it reversed a trial jury's convition of a Dallas man charged with drowning his wife.

Sentenced to death for the crime, the defendant now has to be re-indicted and retried, all because the indictment didn't set forth what the unfortunate woman was drowned in. The indictment set out that she was drowned by her husband, all right, but it didn't specify whether in water, coffee, tea, or any other liquid.

That's a sad state of affairs. Now the defendant will have to be re-indicted and retried at considerable expense to the taxpayers, and after at least some lapse of time. The defendant's rights and privileges are being looked after meticulously, but whether the rights of the dead woman are remembered is something else.

Not being a lawyer, we make no claim to being wise in the ways of the law—even in those ways which are not devious.

Never-the-less, we'd be willing to wager that the dead woman is just as dead as she could be, whether her lungs were filled with water, coffee, tea, sweet milk—or gasoline. Legal procedure to the contrary notwithstanding, the question of whether the woman was forcibly drowned by her husband, or not, still appears to be to us the real question involved—not what he drowned her in, if he drowned her.

WHILE the case is unusual because it lends itself so well to bringing to public notice the lack of common sense in jurisprudence, it is by no means an isolated case.

Scarcely a week or month passes when somewhere in the United States poorly written laws result in justice's being thrown for a loss.

Maybe the postwar Utopia the do-gooders are preparing for us will include a complete reworking of American laws and their interpretations, so ordinary intelligence may be substituted wherever needed for legal hokus-pokus. Unless that is done we won't have much of a Utopia.

Laymen, we are certain, are not alone in recognizing the need for simplification of laws, and for junking of outmoded and illogical rulings on and interpretations of them. Fairminded, practical judges, we are sure, recognize the need even more than most laymen do, and so most the better types of barristers. Our guess is the gentlemen of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals who handed down the reversal in the case in point aren't too happy over the necessity of their action. They simply interpreted the law, in keeping with their oaths of office, because that was all they could do.

But it is up to the legal profession, more than to any other segment of our population, to press for clearing away the underbrush which obscures the intent of so many of our laws. From the standpoint of most Americans, we think, the legal profession's action along this line might well get under way immediately.

Heartwarming Co-Operation

SINCE the "suggestion-with-teeth-in-it" by War Mobilizer Byrnes that large conventions scheduled for later in 1945 than February 1 be cancelled for the benefit of the war effort, dozens of organizations have announced cancellation of gatherings coming under the designation. Here in Texas, at least a dozen such meetings have been called off by leaders who have expressed not only willingness to co-operate but also gladness as being able to do so.

This is very heartening, since few, if any, large conventions may be called essential these days. Furthermore, the example thus set in the field of conventions may quite possibly stimulate complete co-operation with home front war aims from other fields.

We have always believed—and will continue to believe until the record proves otherwise—that Americans will gladly do their part in the home front's activities in this war if and when they are convinced that in doing so they are really helping to hasten victory.

Those who have called off unnecessary conventions offer impressive testimony to support that belief.

It is to be wondered if the Chinese haven't been punished for centuries, through operation of the laws of compensation, for having invented civilization in the first place.

A PURITAN VILLAGE IN 1680
II

On a bright, sunny morning in April of the year 1680 a young man waited patiently on a bench in the Walling garden for the constable to come out of the house and depart. The young man, whose name was Oliver Hillman, wanted to see Captain Walling on a very personal matter, and he much preferred to have no listeners to his conversation. Young Mr. Hillman was plainly nervous; he kept twisting about on the bench, and now and then he would rise and take a short walk around the garden.

But Constable Lawson remained with the Captain a long time. Besides his daily batch of news he had some problems.

"I fear, sir, that you may have to deal soon with Jeremiah Sheldon and his wife."

"That so? Why? Quarreling again?"

"They are, Captain. Quarreling like cat and dog. Everybody is talking about it. It's the same story all over. Mistress Sheldon says Jerry won't work, and she has to do everything. She declares that she works her hands to the bone, milking the cows, making butter and cheese, brewing the beer, cooking, washing and taking care of the children while he won't turn his hand to a thing."

"Is that true?"

"Pretty nearly, I think, cir. I've been watching 'em."

"Have you spoken to Jeremiah about his idleness?"

"Nay, sir, I have not. I thought that might better come from you."

"Why don't they hire a maid to help out?"

"She says he won't let her. Wants the money himself to buy rum and gamble away on shovel-board."

"They have a man for the farm, I believe," said the Captain. "Is that so?"

"It is, sir. A man named Brown. He seems to do all the work on the place. Jerry Sheldon, when he's in the tavern and in his cups, boasts that he's retired."

"He does, eh? Well, I'll retire him in a way he will not relish. Give him a summons to appear before me in court next Monday. I'll write it now" — his goose-quill pen scratched over a sheet of paper—"and if he cannot show that he works every day and all day I'll send him to a place where he'll be busy."

The constable had hardly left the house when Oliver Hillman, who had been absent-mindedly picking a flower to pieces, got up from his bench in the garden. As he entered the common room Captain Walling smiled and extended his hand.

"Oliver, you've become a stranger," he said with a laugh. "Harvard seems to have kept you busy."

"Aye, Captain, it did in fact," the young man said. "What with the studies and duties a man has little time for much else."

"You're a graduate student, I think. Is that so?"

"It is, sir. I graduated last year, and since then I've been helping out with the teaching. But that is over now, and I'm back home again."

Walling was well acquainted with young Hillman's father, who owned one of the few paper mills in the colonies. This mill was on a stream of clear, fresh water a few miles from Sudbury.

"Are you going to help your father in his mill?"

"That is our intention, sir. I know a deal about paper-making already, and I shall go more deeply into it." This was said stiffly as the young man sat uprightin his chair. There was then a pause for a moment.

When the silence had become rather thick Captain Walling said, "Is there something that you wish to speak to me about?"

"There is, sir," said young Hillman. "Your daughter Harriet. May I call on her and be her—I mean be friendly with her"? This was uttered with blushing and hesitation.

Captain Walling was pleased, but he kept a solemn countenance. Young Hillman would be an excellent suitor for his daughter, and a most desirable son-in-law. After some reflection he said, "Have you spoken to Harriet?"

"I have, sir," the young man replied. "Yesterday, at Mistress Faulkner's. She said she had no objections, and then she said I must ask you or her mother—as I expected to do."

"Very well, Oliver, I consent, and I speak, too, for her mother."

"Thank you, sir."

Oliver Hillman had known Harriet Walling all his life. As children they had played together. But she was now 17 and he was 19. Not only Puritan etiquette but also Puritan law required that he seek the consent of Harriet's parents before he became her beau.

Young women in the Puritan colonies did not accept the attentions of a number of beaux, girls were kept in a state of nun-like seclusion. They went to parties, to dinners and to other social occasions and met the young men of the neighborhood. For steady company, however, the gallant swain had to obtain the consent of the girl's parents. Otherwise he was likely to be brought up before a magistrate for "inviegling" the young woman's affections.

Walling rose and shook hands with Oliver. "Come in any evening, my lad, whenever you please," he said gravely. "We shall always be glad to see you."

World War 11 Vets To Meet In Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 24 (AP)—American veterens, World War II, will meet here Saturday and Sunday to formulate plans for establishing veterans posts throughout Texas, Gordon Mason said today.

Elmo W. Keel, national commander, and Lamaar Bailey, Amarillo, first vice-commander of the Amvets, will be principal speakers.

Kiwanis Anniversary Celebration Today

"Win the War — Build for Peace," theme of the 30th anniversary observance of Kiwanis International will be carried out at a luncheon at noon at Lubbock hotel when the Lubbock organization has its regular meeting.

Judge Clark M. Mullican will be principal speaker and Dr. Fred W. Sparks, professor of mathematics at Texas Tech, is chairmen of the program committee. Wm. C. Wood, recently elected president of the Lubbock club, said today plans for the anniversary meeting had been virtually completed.

In a proclamation declaring Jan. 21-27 as Kiwanis Anniversary Week in Lubbock, Mayor O. W. Ribble said local communities throughout the United States and Canada have not faltered in the face of supreme tests of World War II. Kiwanis have been credited with helping provide much of the moral stimulus of this war.

Membership Totals 139,000

According to the proclamation, Kiwanis International has a membership of 139,000 in some 2,250 clubs in this country and Canada who last year purchased and sold war bonds valued at more than $1,000,000,000. Keeping in direct touch with more than 2,000,000 servicemen and women, members of Kiwanis International have donated 55,000 pints of blood, bought millions of cigarets for soldiers overseas, served on draft, ration and other emergency boards, established canteen and entertainment centers as a part of voluntary war work.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

"I THOUGHT you ought to know —." Too many letters to soldiers from parents, neighbors, friends, and particularly from wives, contain that little phrase which, followed by what they "ought to know" can do so much to upset the morale of our fighting men.

At least that is the opinion of Margaret Hagan, a Red Cross worker, who has had much contact with men overseas, and she is corroborated not only by many of her co-workers but also by a number of Army and Navy chaplains.

BRANDEIS

One of the particularly pressing problems, according to those people, is the large number of wives who want divorces and, strange to see, these wives are not just war wives, but many who have been married 10 or 15 years.

It has been estimated that in the 7th Army alone an average of five soldiers a day receive word that their wives want divorces or that they are having extra-martial affairs.

In the 1st Armored division there is now a "Broken Hearts Club" composed of men who have been discarded by their wives.

Much can be said, of course, about that "I thought you ought to know" business.

Nine times out of 10 when a so-called friend came to me to tell me something I ought to know, I would have been much better off if I hadn't known it at all.

Nine times out of 10 it was just the tell-tale's desire for gossip or for seeming important that prompted him (Or often her) to tell me what I ought to know, or rather what he wanted me to know he knew.

The "I thought you ought to know" people are usually the kind who can't keep a secret after they have sworn by everything that's holy not to tell a single soul.

And nine times out of 10 they don't help the person who they think ought to know but hurt him.

BUT the thing that impressed me most about the dispatch concerning the soldiers' letters, was the large number of women who are deserting their husbands while they are away fighting.

In most cases I think those people probably stayed together simply because they had got into a rut and were either too lazy or too cowardly to get out of it.

A marriage that is properly begun usually lasts.

There would be much fewer divorces if people used the same care in selecting a husband or a wife that they do in buying a pair of shoes or a hat.

And the trouble with a lot of people is that they don't seem to know the difference between monogamy and monotony.

If you look upon marriage as a continuous vaudeville show you are bound to get tired of it. It's like sitting through the same show over and over again.

Marriage is team work. You have to be a team and you have to work at it.

May be it's better for those boys to find that out now than later.

Japs Face Luzon Defeat

Yamashita Begs Tokyo For Aid

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

GENERAL Douglas MacArthur's parade down the island of Luzon may soon wind up in a blazing battle with the Japanese defenders, who are not expected to give up this strategic stronghold without a fight. But our top-notch military men believe that the enemy's opposition in this area will degenerate into a rear-guard action.

The reasons for the Japs' caution in throwing their major forces into the Americans' path in the vicinity of Lingayen gulf are fairly obvious. Although Yamashita is supposed to have approximately two hundred thousand troops in the Philippines, they are deployed in numerous small pockets from one end of the archipelago to the other. Transportation and terrain difficulties prevent a speedy mobilization of his forces and heavy equipment at any particular spot.

TUCKER

Our radio has picked up many desperate messages he has sent to Tokyo, begging for reinforcements. But so far, thanks to our fleet's operation in the surrounding waters, only a comparatively few fresh soldiers have reached him.

FEAR: Filipino guerrillas are performing an excellent job of harrassment, with the cooperation of unorganized natives. They have smashed bridges, destroyed railroads and built road blocks along key highways. Their scouting has been superlative.

Whereas MacArthur operated more or less blindly in his progress from Australia northward, he is now well infromed of the foe's strength and movements. The United States is reaping rich dividends as a result of the generous treatment and promises of eventual independence it has given the population of the islands.

Last, the Japs hesitate to commit their main body to a major test for fear of other landings in their rear or in their flanks. Their reconnaissance on land and sea and in the air convinces them that we possess sufficient naval, military and aerial strength to throw another powerful unit into the fray as soon as MacArthur has engaged their present array in a frontal engagement.

STOCK PILES: Tokyo's war lords, in the opinion of our high command, have already reckoned on the possible loss of Luzon and have accordingly revised their strategy for the conduct of a long-range war. As Hitler refused to waste his finest soldiery by clinging to western France, so Hitler refused to waste his finest soldiery by clinging to western France, so Hirohito has apparently decided to conserve his forces and withdraw to an inner defense.

The circumscribed area in which the Nipponese may decide to fight to a finish is believed to comprise Formosa, the mainland, Korea, Manchuria, North China and the Yangtze valley.

Although this territory cannot provide many of the critical materials available in Malaya, the Dutch East Indies and Burma, the enemy built tremendous stock piles of oil, rubber, food, tin and bauxite during the period when we were content merely to hold the line from the Aleutians to Hawaii and Australia.

Moreover, the Japs have developed intensively the second-grade ores of Manchuria. They have also industrialized this region, and built plants for production of synthetic oil and rubber. Hitler supplied them with the formulas, and the scientists, which have enabled him to manufacture numerous substitutes for the real thing.

STALIN: The pospect of a hard, grim conflict will dominate the discussions at the forthcoming Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference. Whereas previous meetings of the Big Three have been concerned with the destruction of Germany, Allied gains on both European fronts will permit them to give greater emphasis to defeat of the other member of the Axis.

Then may come the final showdown between Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill on the one side and Josef Stalin on the other. With the Kremlin's historic land-enemy on the way to liquidation, the western statesmen may ask him if he does not think this the psychological moment to declare war on Japan. Thus, from our point of view, the next powwow of the war leaders may be the most historic and important of all.

DANGEROUS: The Fair Employment Practice committee is now staging its most ambitious and dangerous experiment in its history. Smart administration advisers warned against the move at this particular moment, but they were overruled by important figures in the presidential household.

The FEPC has formally demanded that the transit company in the District of Columbia employ colored operators on its busses and trolleys. At recent public hearings officials of the corporation voiced their willingness to obey the decree, but they predict that trouble might result. A canvass of a cross-section of their employes, witnesses said, showed that they would refuse to work alongside the newcomers. Government spokesmen refuted this testimony.

When FEPC-ers noted that other cities had accepted negro operators, it was pointed out that the Capital, with its large population of Southerners, might not react in the same way. It was also testified that fifty-two per cent of the firm's employes hail from Virginia, the Carolinas and the District, and might not behave like workers in other places.

An unspoken fear during the proceedings, but one which leaders on both sides of the question recognize, is that racial difficulties in the nation's Capital right now would play into the hands of both Hitler and Hirohito.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

FRANCE may be our ace in the hole.

Axis resistance in Europe and Asia is proving so costly and time-consuming that we must have her full support everywhere in the grim struggle with Germany and Japan.

Military experts stress that the re-equipment of her army and navy no longer should be looked on as a sentimental gesture to a proud race. It is an urgent necessity, unless we want our own men to stay overseas indefinitely.

New unpalatable facts uphold their contention. Publicists delighted in picturing our forces as outnumbering the Nazis in men and materiel. But statistics from Anglo-American headquarters tell a different story.

LEMAN

LOSSES: Just before the Germans struck in December, General Eisenhower had forty infantry, thirteen armored and five air-borne divisions—fifty-eight in all. Marshal von Rundstedt had seventy divisions, living in the comfort and security of the Siegfried line fortifications.

In the last war the Allies had ninety divisions as a mobile reserve, not counting troops in the trenches—a number of "extras" exceeding "Ike's" combat units. Although he has probably been reinforced by this time, his margin of superiority is nothing to boast about.

Before tabulation on the battle of the bulge, our entire Army-Navy casualties were close to seven hundred thousand. As fighting has been stepped up in Europe and in the Orient, we must expect losses at an increased rate.

PRISONERS: In the days when armchair strategists were in the mood to lick the Axis almost singlehanded, rance was regarded as a beaten nation that could only be rehabilitated by our benevolent handouts.

Now our foresighted military men and economic authorities consider her a fresh, almost untapped reservoir—and that whatever we spend on her will be a wise investment.

General de Gaulle plans to raise an army of one million two hundred thousand to double his present force of six hundred thousand. The first draftees are now being taken. They must be outfitted by our arsenals.

Here And There In Texas

Postwar Planning Is Lagging

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN — On this business of post-war planning, there is going to have to be more work from the local communities or the Texas program will end as the next thing to a flop.

Throughout the state postwar planning committees have been organized and meetings of the groups have been held. But from many of these little progress has been made toward reaching the goal called for by creating such committees, according to information here.

For the most part, there have been too many words—not enough actual effort put forth. There are, however, exceptions to the general condition and in these instances meritorious progress has been made.

There is, of course, the Texas Postwar Planning commission, but it cannot do all of the detailed work necessary to determine the over-all afterwar situation or to get an idea what can then be expected.

Local Work Inportant

So far as the state is concerned the fundamental surveys have to come from the "grass roots"—words which may be applied to planning as well as politics.

One of the outstanding surveys for postwar planning has been made in Beaumont with local officials and representatives of the Committee for Economic Development cooperating. It is truly a "grass roots" survey and it got the job done but not without much effort on the part of the workers.

Neither the state commission nor the CED can put the postwar surveys over. They can suggest and assist but it takes local talent to really bring about accomplishments.

POSSIBLY the state commission has not done all it could to encourage local planning. It has held several meetings, but services of its membership are voluntary and businessmen aren't anxious to give up their time now, though future business might be aided if they did.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenon has asked the legislature to give the commission assistance so as to lend weight to its endeavor. But not even the legislature can do the survey work.

Resources Undeveloped

Also on the program of planning, Texas has boasted long of its natural resources. New resources are uncovered nearly every year, but after the initial discovery little is done.

Professional planners believe it would be a good plan to make market surveys on the natural resources if new industry is to be developed.

For instance, when natural gas was found to be in such enormous quantities in the Panhandle it had no worth at that time. The value didn't come until enterprising businessmen created a market in the northern and eastern states.

Discovery of new resources is of little value unless the resources can be put to use. This, too, can germinate from local communities.

ONE OF Texas' most touchy problems in recent years is that of migratory Mexican labor from the Rio Grande Valley area moving upward through the state to the prolific Plains to harvest crops.

Texas has more than 60,000 migratory laborers and upon their services much of the harvest of the state's crops is dependent. As a result of this annual migration numerous complaints of discrimination against the Mexicans have resulted.

Some of these complaints have been of a serious nature and for a while it appeared the laborers might cease their annual junkets.

The program being carried on by the Farm Labor administration through the A. and M. College Extension service and with the Texas Good Neighbor commission cooperating is expected to straighten out some of the difficulties.

Facilities provided for the laborers previously have been next to nil. They were not afforded adequate bathing places and a large part of all eating and amusement places were closed to them.

The interested groups have held meetings throughout Texas with local businessmen, showing them that if the laborers are provided adequate and sanitary facilities, health and other conditions will be improved and the crops will be gathered.

Lubbock's Efforts Recognized

Along the same line, the groups are seeking to educate the laborers not to go directly from the Valley area to the Plains weeks before the crops are ready, leaving them with no work when they arrive.

If the laborers will follow an orderly route of travel, they can gather crops as they mature at different times in the different areas.

In most places where the meetings have been held — such as Lubbock—local groups have pledged their cooperation toward seeking that the camp facilities are made available.

The whole program is a voluntary proposition and one of cooperation. If the communities work with the FLA, Extension Service and Commission much good will come of the project. If not, more crops than ever before are going to be left unharvested in the fields, those connected with the work say.

RAIL LEADERS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Jan. 24. (AP)—Rail leaders advanced in the stock market today and a variety of other issues improved fractionally before the recovery move stalled.

The carriers, under a burden of profit cashing and liquidation since hitting 7-year peaks Jan. 10, have scored only two climbs since that date, today and last Wednesday.

The Associated Press index of 60 stocks was steady at 57.8 with the rail and industrial divisions each up .1 of a point.

Doing better in the curb were Claude Neon, Electric Bond & Share, Solar Aircraft, Cities Service and Fansteel. Curb sales at 353,815 yesterday.

Bond division trends were uneven.

BISHOP TO RETIRE

Work-Fight Bill

to have remained in service for the time they stay on the job. This provision, May said, was approved in order to protect a veteran's right to apply for reinstatement in his original job within 90 days after his discharge, a right given him by the original draft act.

Left in the bill was language emphasizing that nothing in the proposal shall set aside provisions of the Tydings amendment setting up a formula for the guidance of draft boards in considering the cases of farm workers.

As finally approved, the legislation, requested by President Roosevelt, provides that a man aged 18 through 45 who is not already in service or deferred by law shall not leave an essential job without draft board approval, or must move into such a job at draft board request. Failure to do so would subject him to immediate induction or a maximum punishment of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Appeal Proviso Inserted

A man under job orders from his board would have the same right of appeal that a man ordered up for induction now has.

The amendment giving a registrant a "reasonable choice" of employer would permit the worker to select a closed shop or an open shop plant or a job in which the working conditions were most suitable to him.

Should the job to which he is directed be in an area away from his home, the government would furnish him a travel and subsistence allowance while he is traveling and would return him home after the job ends.

Removal of the closed shop amendment, which organized labor had opposed strenuously, was expected to lead to a sharp fight on the House floor where it is known to have many supporters. It was taken for granted that it would be offered in the House, along with an amendment to prohibit anyone, such as a picket, from interfering with a man desiring to work.

The drive for prompt action on some form of national service act was spurred by a vivid word picture of the war situation given to members of Congress this morning by top Army and Navy men.

The military committee went into session shortly after Congress held a confidential session with Gen. George C. Marshall, Adm. Ernest J. King, Secretary of War Stimson and Navy Secretary Forrestal.

Russian Advance Is Strengthened

were Miswalde, Rosenberg and Reisenburg, the last-named being 14 miles west of the Vistula estuary.

In guarded language the German radio implied that possibly the cut-off already had been made, saying that the Russians aim was to cut the railway that runs down from Konigsberg, East Prussian capital, through Elbing to Tszew (Birschau) and thence across the Polish corridor to the Reich proper.

Rokossovsky's men, besides extending their hold in the Polish corridor, also launched a new invasion of East Prussia from the southeast, taking Lyck, Neuendorf and Bialla, all in the province's southeast corner, in a success that brought Stalin's fourth order of the day.

Forces Joined?

This apparently joined the Second White Russian forces solidly with those of Gen. Ivan D. Cherniahovsky's Third White Russian group, which had stabbed up to the border Tuesday in the same area.

Cherniakhovsky's men Wednesday dug deeper into East Prussia on the northeast and east, taking more than 250 German communities including the big towns of Angerburg and Widminnen, in a drive through the lake region below Konigsberg.

In East Prussia and Silesia together, the Russians took 650 German communities in a day.

Between Silesia and East Prussia the First White Russian army of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov fought its way west in the area just east of Poznan.

A German military spokesman said the Prussians were "at present" attacking Poznan from the east and south but that "the violent fighting thus far has not yet reached the suburbs." The Poznan radio went off the air with the terse explanation: "The Russians are coming."

Polish Cities Toppled

Moscow, however, placed Zhukov's forces still some 25 miles east of Poznan, with capture of Szubin, Znin, Janowice, Klecko and Wrzesnia in that area on the most direct pathway towards Berlin. Klecko is 160 miles east of Berlin. In all, Zhukov's men took 800 places in Poland in a day, the Moscow communique said. They included Kalisz, powerful hinge-position with which the Germans had sought to guard both Breslau and Poznan. This capture won an order of the day from Stalin.

Nearest Soviet-announced approach to Berlin, however, was by Konev's First Ukraine group, which seized the Polish border town of Rawicz, near Silesia and but 149 miles southeast of Berlin. This thrust also put the Russians 34 miles northwest of Breslau in an obvious outflanking maneuver.

Southwest of Lodz, which lies some 56 miles east of Kalicz, the Soviet communique announced that an encircled German grouping had been annihilated, with 6,000 of the enemy slain, 3,000 captured and 53 tanks seized.

Soviet announcements of German casualties have been few thus far in the offensive that began Jan. 12, but early in the breakthrough Moscow suggested that Many German formations were being ripped apart and left isolated in the rear for later disposition.

Miss Perkins, a New Englander who nearly always appears in severe black topped by an inevitable tri-cornered hat, has taken great pride in her contribution to the New Deal's legislative record, notably social service laws.

Proud Of Service

When she took the labor helm it's principal pre-occupation was with the immigration and naturalization service. Since then that branch has been transferred to the Justice department and the various statstical agencies have been expanded, notably the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Miss Perkins has built up the Children's bureau and the Women's bureau and has been responsible for administration of the Fair Labor Standards act and the Wage and hour law.

Meanwhile emergency war agencies touching on labor have developed outside her province. Among these are the War Labor board, War Manpower commission and the National Labor Relations board.

river at that point runs its nearest to Berlin and is the last natural barrier guarding the eastern approaches to the city.

Just south of Berlin a south-easterly prong of the great military road takes off to furnish direct and fast communication with the upper Oder valley.

Long as is the route from Dusseldorf to the great Silesian plains that lie between the Oder and the Sudeten mountains, it is there that the great danger to Berlin is taking shape and there that arrival of West front veterans in force in time could stem the Russian tidal wave.

Increase In Low-Price Clothing Promised; Children's Needs Met

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (U.P.) — Uncle Sam has promised civilians that this spring will see a healthy increase in the numbers and quality of low-cost clothing on store shelves as a result of the government's most drastic wartime move to regulate output of the clothing industry.

First big result of the new crackdown, which officials estimated would save consumers $500,000,000 annually in clothing prices, is expected to be a boost of 8,000,000 in the number of essential children's garments available for purchase during April, May and June.

Dr. William Y. Elliott, head of the War Production board's Office of Civilian Requirements, told mothers and fathers that they could delay all but absolutely necessary buying until then with "all confidence" that the kiddies' clothes would be there at the time promised.

The government's new program, which has not yet reached the formal order stage but which is expected to shortly, was announced by WPB Chief J. A. Krug and Price Administrator Chester Bowles at a press conference yesterday.

Would Approximate Priority

Essentially, it amounts to a vast priority system which will send about 75 per cent of all material produced for civilian use to manufacturer of essential low and medium-priced clothes. Mills which make the fabrics will be required to reserve a high proportion of their production for these manufacturers.

Its major purpose is to stop cold what government officials felt had become an alarming trend of manufacturers to turn out fancier, more decorative high priced clothing which made them more money but used up goods needed for essential low cost items.

Under the new program, which will impose far-reaching controls over the entire clothing industry, the government will flatly refuse material priorities for making what Elliott called "outrageously high-priced garments."

Strong consumer approval of the new system of control was indicated last night by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which praised the announcement and said it had long "deplored the diversion of necessary materials to luxury goods when the supply of children's clothing was shockingly inadequate."

Protest Expected

But the program also was expected to meet with strong protests from some segments of the clothing industry. Bowles himself admitted it would be "tough" on business but asserted that profits under the new orders would still be higher than the industry was making before the war.

The whole program will be worked jointly by the WPB and OPA. WPB will handle the production end, while OPA will see to prices.

Among other important essentials the plan involves a price rollback of some six to seven per cent, aimed according to Bowles at closing "the most serious breach in price control," and expected to cut civilian clothing costs $500,000,000 per year.

Six Million Ration Points Confiscated

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. (AP)—District Attorney J. Albert Woll said today agents had arrested an Italian, his wife, and two sons, both discharged war veterans, after they found 6,000,000 counterfeit red ration points and counterfeit coupons worth 6,000 gallons of gasoline in the family's home.

Arrested were Gaetano Polito, 55, who came to the United States from Italy in 1907, his wife, Nellie, 42, and their sons, Guy, 19, and James, 20. Mrs. Polito said Guy was medically discharged from the Navy and James from the Army Air corps. Both sons are employed in war plants.

Woll said the food coupons if circulated, "would have been sufficient to have disrupted the whole meat rationing system in the city of Chicago."

Eye Witness Tells Of Nazi Atrocities

LIGNEUVILLE, Belgium, Jan. 24 (AP)—A middle-aged Belgian spinster who said she saw a German non-commissioned officer murder eight captured American tankmen, one by one, led a U. S. burial squad today to the frozen bodies which lay in a roadside snowbank.

On the same day, Dec. 17, the same German reconnaissance battalion of an armored SS division moved up the road two miles and slaughtered some 100 other Americans in an open field.

This Nazi Elite guard outfit has been blamed for a number of other atrocities against Americans and civilians all across Belgium.

Extreme Tortures Of Japanese In Manila Recounted

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Jan. 23. (Delayed) (AP)—A 42-year-old American mother and her daughter and son who remained in Manila during two years of the Japanese occupation were flown to safety inside U. S. lines today after being in refuge with Filipino guerillas during the past six months.

She is Mrs. Isaline Dunning Acosta of Milwaukee, Wis., wife of Manila-born Darmo Acosta, a Mestizo motion picture actor before the war twisted his career, first to that of a detective in the Manila police force and now a guerrilla chief.

After the fall of Manila Jan. 2, 1942, Mrs. Acosta said she hid in the city hall for three months with her daughter Dolly, now 15, and her son Boots, 18.

She said she passed as a Spanish Mestiza who the Japanese did not molest.

She related that "they (the Japanese) have a law in Japan calling for a penalty greater than death. I saw cases of torture wrose than any of the Medieval era or the Spanish Inquisition.

"They would rip off finger nails of victims one by one and then break each finger. They stabbed victims with bamboo stakes and bayonets and beat their bodies until nothing was left but pulp but there was life still in the bodies.

"They torture not just men but women and children as well. They have taken women and hanged them upside down and burned them with gasoline. Most of the victims were Filipinos and Chinese.

"There were hundreds of these cases of torture.

"They are the most grusome, cruel and barbarous people on the face of the earth. They should be annihilated."

Mexican To Get 3 Years In Pen

Luis Romo, about 30, was found guilty by a 99th district court jury here Wednesday afternoon of assault with intent to murder Pilar Turrubiartez. A three-year prison sentence was recommended.

After deliberating an hour 25 minutes, the jury reported to Judge G. V. Pardue at 1:30 o'clock. The jury was composed of R. G. Dudley, Ray Harrington, C. W. Woodson, C. A. Lightfoot, W. C. Hobbs, Clarence E. Woods, H. L. Handley, W. H. Porter, J. H. McNeil, A. R. Ellis, W. R. Tanner and John Wright.

The state alleged that Romo shot Turrubiartez, about 40, on Jan. 7 in Slaton. Turrubiartez was slightly injured by a pistol slug which entered the fleshy portion of his back. Romo is charged in another indictment alleging the same offense against Juan Ariaz.

Testimony in the case of Charley Moore, negro, charged with theft from the person, opened Wednesday afternoon. The state completed its testimony about 4:15 o'clock and, upon a motion by the defense, Judge Pardue adjourned court until 10 o'clock this morning. A motion to quash the indictment against Moore had been made earlier in the afternoon by defense counsel, but was denied by Judge Pardue.

The case of Lonnie Trussell, charged with forgery, was called Wednesday, but Trussell did not answer. This case will be recalled this morning, said Judge Pardue.

Manpower Shortage Reflected In Less Marriages Here

Lubbock county's manpower shortage in 1944 was reflected in still another way—152 fewer marriage licenses were issued than in 1943.

Records in the office of County Clerk Louie Moore reveal that the office issued 1,107 licenses last year, as compared with 1,259 for the preceding year.

Thus far in January 85 licenses have been delivered.

January, not June, seems to be the marrying month here. The first month of last year was high for the 12 months with 104. January was tops also for 1943, 133 licenses were sold that month.

Ninety-six couples obtained licenses in June of 1943, while 116 twosomes bought permits in June, '43.

High Priority Plane Causes Job Problem

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24 (U.P.)—North American Aviation, Inc., of Kansas will release "several hundred" employes because of a revision of production schedules for B-25 bombers, the company announced today.

The revision, spokesmen said, was instituted in connection with scheduled production of a new high priority Lockheed fighter plane. It does not represent a reduction in the number of B-25s to be produced, but entails a lengthening of the time allotted for their production plus curtainment in the number of parts to be manufactured.

Employes to be dismissed have had less than 12 weeks of service with the company, spokesmen said. They added that hiring of workers with special skills would continue.
