Works Body Gives Tentative Approval on City Hall Loan

Attorney at Ft. Worth Advises Security Is Acceptable

$3,673 SOUGHT

Commission Planned Work Projects Sat. Night

Sonora's application for a city hall and fire station combination building loan has been given tentative approval and encouragement by the attorney of the Fort Worth tri-state regional office of the Public Works Administration of the U. S. government.

The city is seeking a 20-year loan of $3,673, together with a didect grant of $1262.76 to be used for construction of the building. The attorney for the PWA stated that the Sonora collateral for the loan—general tax warrants—would be acceptable. He suggested that the plan be changed to make the warrants in hundreds of dollars, rather than odd amounts on a monthly basis.

A financing plan has been worked out by G. A. Wynn, attorney for the city commission, whereby the loan would be repaid in twenty years, with no annual payment, including both interest and warrants payable in that year to exceed $320. The city now spends $240 a year for office rent and storage of fire trucks. Payment of the loan would require an average of less than $25 a year, and city offices and fire department facilities would be centralized. Living quarters would also be provided for a number of firemen, thus affording better protection.

The city commission met Saturday night of last week to discuss the status of the application and to confer with R. E. Taylor, Sutton county relief administrator, concerning local work projects.

Prize Beef

Here is the champion calf of the Southwestern Baby Beef show at El Paso, pictured with Joe Miles of Alpine, Texas, who fed the animal up to its 900 pounds. The calf was bred and is owned by Mrs. Kate Neville, also of Alpine. It brought 14 cents per pound from an El Paso hotel at auction, and, besides being grand champion, was awarded first honors in the junior division.

Eldorado and Christoval will also be served by the improved schedule.

Men in Livestock Business Asked to Meet in San Angelo

Government' Livestock and Land Credit Branch Sought; Growers Urged to Co-operate

Ranchmen of West Texas and all others interested in the stock producing business are being requested by a committee of interested men to meet in San Angelo Monday to plan further steps in a concerted effort to secure adequate government stock credit facilities for West Texas.

A committee appointed at a meeting last month attended a conference of government officials in Houston recently and was assured that San Angelo would be considered as the center of a large area of West Texas in further administration of government aid to stock producers.

They had wanted to secure for San Angelo and this section a barnch office of the Federal Land Loan Bank. Instead, they were informed that no branch offices would be formed, but that regional offices of the "Master Association of the Production Credit Corporation" would be set-up in strategic centers, of which San Angelo is one. Through these master associ-

Shurley Cattle Are Proved Good Feed'rs

Dress 57-58 Per Cent and Bring Feeders 5½ Cents Pound

Hereford cattle from the ranch of Mrs. J. T. Shurley southwest of Sonora are establishing a record for good feeding results. Recently Charley Kaase, feeder at Harriett in Tom Green county sold 86 head of heifers which he bought in the spring as yearlings, weight at that time 513, price 4 cents, for 5½ cents a pound, and their weights after feeding for several months were 865 pounds. They dressed out 58 to 58 per cent when butchered in San Angelo.

Last fall Mrs. Shurley sold her steer calves to the same man for 5 cents. He fed them until spring anl cleared enough on the deal to pay cash for the yearling heifers in the spring.

Kaase is a booster for Sutton county feeder calves, and particularly those from the Shurley ranch.

C. C. McDaniel New Chiropractor Here

Takes Over Practice of Dr. Grandy, Who Has Moved to Ozona

Dr. C. C. McDaniel, chiropractor, is now located in Sonora for full-time practice, having taken over the Sonora office of Dr. W. "A" Grandy, who is now devoting full-time to his Ozona practice.

Dr. McDaniel, a three-year graduate of the Palmer school in Davenport, Iowa, with 5½ years experience in chiropractic practice, had been associated for the last few months with Dr. George Grupe in San Angelo. He had charge of the latter's practice during a five-week vacation period last summer. Dr. McDaniel came to San Angelo from Porterville, Calif., where his home is situated.

Dr. Grandy had been dividing time between Sonora and Ozona for months.

Lucky Pass Gives Rocksprings Win Over Broncs Here

Locals Showed Great Improvement; Outplayed Visitors in Every Way Except Punting

A lucky pass in the third quarter from Quarterback Jack Brown to End Franks gave Rocksprings a touchdown and a 6-0 victory over a vastly improved Sonora team here Saturday afternoon.

The Bronchos outplayed the visitors throughout nearly the entire game, but their greater ground gaining ability was offset by an edge Rocksprings held on the kicking and punt returning.

The game was hard-fought throughout, with both sides punting frequently. The Rocksprings safety was taking most of the kicks on the run and getting away with it, returning for good gains in almost every case. Fields, for Sonora, was playing safe and letting the kicks roll, until, late in the final period he caught a high kick neatly

Short Wool Sells Here at 27 Cents

Siberman Gets 60,000 Pounds; Mohair Outlook Favorable

Sixty thousand pounds of short wool was sold Tuesday by the Sonora Wool & Mohair Company to Murphey Campbell, buyer for S. Silberman & Sons, Chicago. The wool brought 27 cents a pound. A small lot of 5,000 pounds was sold the same buyer at 26 cents.

None of the wool is extra choice. It is average grade ewe wool, with not a pound lamb wool incluled. The prices paid were as good as any received in the state for hair of this type. Two cars went out Wednesday.

Mohair continues unusually active on the Boston market, and it is regarded as only a matter of time until the supply will become so depleted that buyers will have to have the Sonora firm's accumulation. Imported hair in the last few days has cost the eastern dealers 45 and 46 cents a pound, and is not nearly as choice as the Texas product. The outlook for an unusually favorable sale continues bright.

Mother of Sutton Co. Ranchmen Dies at Age of 67

Mrs. Nettie Reiley, widow of the late John W. Reiley, pioneer Sutton county resident, died Saturday afternoon in San Angelo and was buried there the following day.

Mrs. Reiley, a resident of Sutton county for many years, had made her home in San Angelo for the last 20 years. It was there that Mr. Reiley died in 1917. Mrs. Reiley is survived by eight daughters and two sons, both of whom ranch in Sutton county, operating on land once owned by their father.

Mrs. Reiley had been in bad health for several years. A sudden attack Wednesday of last week suffered at her home necessitated removal to a hospital, where death came Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Reiley was a native of Ireland. He was a brother of James Whitcomb Reiley, who achieved fame as the "Hoosier" poet. Mr. Reiley came to Texas from Baltimore, settling in this section before Sutton county was organized. He returned to Baltimore temporarily to marry and brought his bride to a ranch home east of Sonora.

When Mr. and Mrs Reiley moved to San Angelo the ranches were taken over by their sons, John P. and Edward Dantez, who later acquired additional acreage.

The eight daughters surviving are as follows: Mesdames W. H.

Reported Price Paid for Miers' Lambs $3 or $3.25

EWE LAMBS AT 5c

Cattle Prices Same—Ed Glasscock Has Heavy Calves

Prices were firmer this week as the big rush in fall livestock trading continued throughout the Sonora country.

Numerous sales of ewe lambs at 5 cents have been reported, with a number of sales of mixed lambs at 4½ cents.

Reports about Sonora are that the mixed lambs sold from the Miers' Black Ranch to Menard ranchmen borught either $3 a head or $3.25. At any rate the sale was favorable to the grower, and is a step in the right direction in the big fight growers have been waging for fair prices. It is the belief here that the price was favorable, or Mr. Miers would not have sold. It was not announced, at the request of the buyer.

Cattle prices have shown no improvement over last week. One choice bunch of calves moved out Monday of this week, coming from W. E. Glasscock. He sold 171 head, three carloads, to Roy Barton for the Texas Livestock Marketing Association. They went to Galesburg, Ill. to feeders. The price was 3 cents for heifers and 4 for steers. Weights were good, the heifers averaging 396 and the steers 417.

Virgil Powell, Sonora, and W. R. Payne of San Saba have been buying the 5-cent ewe lambs. Payne bought 331 head from J. M. Puckett, shipping to San Saba Monday. They were light lambs, and not the best from Mr. Puckett's herds.

Last year Powell bought good ewe lambs in this section to stock the McKnight ranch. He paid good prices for them and made plenty of profit when wool went up this spring. He is buying this fall to stock the ranch recently acquired by the Powells from Harold Bevans just west of Ft. McKavett. A number of lambs have been bought west of the Pecos, while he has secured the following locally: 215 from Howard Espy and 166 from Hunting Season to Open Next Thurs.

Game Plentiful This Year, Reports from Area Say

The annual hunting season for deer and turkey opens Thursday of next week, November 16 for a month and a half.

The big influx of sportsmen from all parts of Texas and adjoining states is expected next week. Reports from the game country, south and east of Sonora, indicate an abundance of both deer and turkey this year. Favorable range conditions during the mating season and spring have resulted in large increases.

C. H. Jennings, local game warden, urges the purchase of hunting licenses by Sonora people, in order that the activities of the game commission may be financed. He hopes to improve last year's pudchase of licenses in the county, which amounted to one for every 33 citizens.

Uvalde Man Grows New Kind of Fruit

Savors of Pineapple and Banana, Has Size of Pecan

Uvalde, Nov. 1.—E. F. Fisher displayed here a sample of a new fruit—feijoa—which he had grown at his home place on West Garden street. The bush from which the fruit was gathered is an ornamental shrub of great beauty, and resembles the dwarf ligustrum, but has leaves of a silver color on the under side.

The fruit, with a flavor resembling that of a pineapple and banana, is about the size of a pecan, which has not shed its outer hull, and is very delicious.

The bush from which the fruit was gathered is about three years of age and is about five feet in height.

So far as is known, this is the only tree of its kind in Uvalde and is much more desirable for an ornamental shrub than one which does not bear fruit.

Mexican School English Club

Edited by Pupils of the Sonora Mexican School

The first cold snap of the season has come and now we know we must dress more warmly. We are going to try to stay well and healthy so that we shall not miss from school.

Miss Jones has two more new pupils, which makes the total enrollment 224. Miss Jones will have to have some more seats to seat all her pupils.

The P. T. A. met last Wednesday night at the school building. Miss Jones' room rendered an excellent program, dealing with Armistice. The songs were good and the pupils knew their parts, and it was enjoyed by all.

An inspirational talk was made by Mr. Chavis. The general theme of his speech was on character building and how essential it was to all, who wants to be a good citizen.

The next P. T. A. meeting will be had November 22. Mr. Jones' room will be in charge of the program.

WE DON'T SEND OUR WHEAT TO THE COTTON GINS

The United States census statistics show that when most young men and women finishing their schooling they go into business. It is right that it should be so. The greatest opportunities today are in business.

But here is another interesting fact. A great many of these boys and girls who do go into business positions, of one kind and another, mave taken courses at school and college that are not intended to train them for business careers at all. They go to this, that and the other kind of schools, they take all sorts and kinds of courses—and then they go out and look for business positions.

Not only are they untrained in modern business methods, but they are not even trained in common business discipline.

Our schools should train our young people for the work they are going to do in life. If they are going to be doctors or lawyers they shoull go to medical school or law school. But for heaven's sake let's train our business men and women in the same intelligent way.

Wt do not mean that every boy and girl should go to Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration, but we DO maintain that boys and girls who are going into business will be better prepared if they have business education offered by an outstanding Business School.

The fact that a course at Tyler takes less time and costs less money is not a drawback. It is an advantage. It simply means that a student's effort is turned into profit more quickly.

The courses that are taught at Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration are described in booklet, "Achieving Success in Business," which is mailed free upon request. They are real college courses. A term at Tyler is a real college training—with a lot of waste of time left out.

Overheated Houses Menace to Health

Colds and Bronchial Ills Are Often Due to Improper Ventilation

Austin.—"With the cold months almost here, it is again in order to advise regarding inside temperature. Undoubtedly thousands of homes are constantly overheated during the winter. In fact, there are many families who tolerate an indoor temperature in the cold months to which they would and do stenuously object in summer. Such persons not only are uneconomical with the coal pile, but are endangering their health as well," states Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer.

"People enjoying an overheated temperature become soft and with bodily pores behaving however, imperceptibly as they do in summer time, the system it at a decided disadvantage in defending itself against the sudden change from a tropical or sub-tropical heat to the penetrating cold.

"Consequently colds, bronchial troubles and pneumonia, taking advantage of the situation, step in and do much unnecessary, and not infrequently, fatal damage. You will agree that this is entirely too high a price to pay for a few extra degrees of unneeded heat.

"For example, a certain family typical of many hundreds, has again started on its annual program of colls and sore throats. However, this does not alter its affection for super-heat. Sixty-eight to 70 degrees is the health temperature. A thermometer kept within that range, plus proper humidity, is a great health safeguard. More than are doing so need to erect it. What does your thermometer read?"

Grand Juries in England Scrapped

Magistrates to Indict Accused Persons from Now on

London, Eng. — Britain's last grand jury has been discharged.

Guardians of the public against judicial tyranny for many scores of years and parent of the existing system in the United States, grand juries in Britain have become "superflous," and their abolition has been ordered.

John Drinkwater, famous playwright, was one of the 20 members of the last jury.

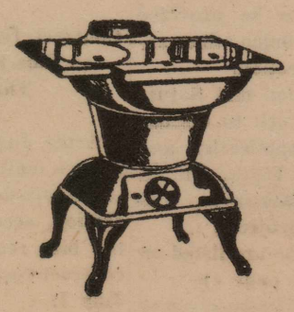

"Over many years Parliament has raised so many protections against improper convictions," said Sir Percival Clarke, chairman of London Sessions, in dismissing the jury, "that the necessity for the services of grand juries has gradually diminished."

"So plentiful are the barriers raised in defense of an accused person that it is surprising that prisoners are convicted at all."

Magistrates—as now often the case in America—will hold preliminary hearings and return indictments in cases requiring such procedure.

TULIA MAN USES STEP-LADDER TO HARVEST TOMATOES 11 FEET HIGH

Tulia.—R. C. Asbury, Tulia hotel owner and back-yard gardner, grows tomatoes so high he has to use a ladder in harvesting the fruit.

At the same time his plants did not "all go to vines," but bore fruit from the ground up. From a plot which measured a twenty-seventh part of an acre, Asbury had gathered 1,679 pounds of tomatoes early in October and there still was considerable fruit on the vines.

At this rate an acre would have produced more than 45,000 pounds, which on the present retail market would have been worth between $4,000 and $5,000.

Asbury grew his plants from seed. When they were realy to transplant he erected a high trellis despite the "kidding" of his neighbors. The plants, supported by the trellis work, now measure from six to nine feet and it is Asbury's turn to laugh. One of the plants, trained about a pole, grew to 11 feet; not withstanding that the spring growing season in the Panhandle was late. He gave the tomatoes all the water they needed.

"So far as I know the tomatoes are of a common variety. My success with them was due to proper soil preparation, pruning, training and abundant irrigation," Asbury said.

Organized First Post

A singular distinction for Texas, unknown to most residents, goes to Commerce, Texas, and Dr. Warren B. De Jernett of that city. Dillard Estes, Texas was the only state to celebrate Armistice Day officially in 1919.

Several Methodist Pastors Keep Posts

Meredith, Matthis, Nixon, Marshall Remain in Same Towns

A number of changes were made in the Methodist conference appointments two weeks ago, but many pastors known to Sonora people are returning to their old charges.

The Rev. J. H. Merelith, at Ozona, has the longest service record. He was sent back to Crockett county to begin his seventh year. Until recently no Methodist pastors stayed in one field more than four years. The Rev. Charles Nixon, past Lion district governor, who held a meeting here in March of this year, also has a long record, having entered his sixth year in Del Rio.

The Rev. L. C. Matthis, former Sonora pastor, was returned to Lometa. The Rev. W. H. Marshall, Eldorado pastor last year, continues in that field.

The Rev. C. M. Epps, Kerrville, was transferred to Uvalde after three years in Kerr county. Mrs. Epps is the daughter of Mrs. A. E. Cusenbary of Sonora.

LET NEITHER SIDE FORGET

Armistice—a truce, a cessation of hostilities. That is the meaning of a word which has come to stand for much in American history. It is not an indication of victory, it is not a word of triumph. It is a period of rest for those who have battled desperately, for whatever the cause or issue.

Fifteen years ago the Armistice was the most wonderful news of a decade. It was more gratifying than the tidings of momentous victories, for it marked the end of the carnage. It should be a happy day, the 11th of November. It should be a day in which we enjoy the peace which is ours now, and one in which we are mindful of those who made it possible.

The whole American nation went to war. The soldiers did the biggest part, but back at home practically all American citizens kept their shoulders to the big wheel that rolled to victory. The chief danger was assumed by those who fought, and they of course lost much. To them we owe all honor and care for the length of their lives.

For those who wore the khaki and were not injured, though, and many of whom were not even out of the United States, no special privileges are due.

35 YEARS AGO

The Devil's River News for Nov. 11, 1899 was full of brief news items such as the following:

The ranch house on G. W. Morris' Wall well ranch was restroyed by fire Saturday morning. The fire originated from a defective flue in the roof, and nothing could extinguish the fire when once started in the thatch grass. Most of the contents of the house were saved.

T. D. Newell is having a barn erected on Water Works Hill this week.

J. E. Belcher of Sonora is on his way to Fort Worth where he will take a complete course in the commercial department of the Southern Commercial College—San Angelo Enterprise.

Now is the accepted time for star gazers. Read the article headed "The Heavens in November" and arrange to keep watch for the great shower of stars. You will not have another chance in years.

The News is pleased to publish on the first page of this issue an account of the wedding of Otto I. Knock, formerly of Mason, to Miss Dona Barksdale, at Fort McKavett on Nov. 1st. The bride, who is a niece of J. C. Barksdale of Sonora, is well-known and popular with a large circle of friends in Sonora.

W. A. Anderson bought the R. D. Halbert residence last week for $300. Mr. Anderson took possession Tuesday.

Rev. J. W. Gibbens, the Methodist clergyman who has had charge of the Sonora-Ozona circuit for the past three years, has been sent to Kenedy, Karnes county, for the coming year. Rev. J. A. Phillips has been appointed to the Sonora-Ozona circuit.

R. F. Halbert was one of the victims of the pickpockets on leaving San Antonio. The nimble fingered gentleman tapped him for $40. Col. Wm. L. Black was relieved of his ticket and some cash while many others had similar experiences. They report the Fair a success and the fat stock very fine and satisfactory.

R. H. Andrews of San Angelo, a geophysical contractor, moved to Sonora this week to begin work on a contract with the Atlantic Oil Company for survey of a part of Sutton county. He will probably be here several months. He left the island just before outbreak of violence of the Machado government.

Public Works—

relief rolls will be given work soon, according to present plans, and Mr. Taylor is sending several proposed minor projects to Austin for approval of the state committee. Among them are: hand work on city streets, cemetery clean-up, city-wide clean-up, and courthouse yard improvement.

The formal application for the city building was filed about two weeks ago, and city officials are gratified with the speed with which it is being handled in Fort Worth.

The application of the city is styled to take advantage of the extra grant of 30 per cent allowed by the federal government in order to speed up public works projects and make them easier to liquidate. It is only this special grant which enables the city to finance the project at approximately the cost of present less satisfactory facilities.

The plan suggested calls for payment of one warrant, in addition to interest, for the first 5 years, two warrants each year from the sixth until the 18th year, and of three warrants on the last two years.

The building plans drawn by J. G. Becker of San Angelo call for a two-story structure of hollow tile and stucco, th lower floor to be devoted to storage space for two or three fire trucks and the city manager's office, with the upstairs divided into a meeting room for various bodies, a recreation room for the fire department members and sleeping and living quarters to accommodate four firemen.

Lions Hear Aldwell in Armistice Talk

Says Legionnaires May Have to Save Nation from Crime

Sonora Lions observed the approach of Armistice Day with a program especially planned on that idea at their Tuesday luncheon. Musical numbers by Miss Elizabeth Caldwell were of patriotic nature. A talk by Roy E. Aldwell featured the program.

Mr. Aldwell deplored the short memory of mankind and the tendency to forget so soon the valliant work by the American veterans in winning the World War. He praised the spirit of the Legionnaires, and in duscussing their future, stated that it might be necessary for them to take charge of national affairs in the United States to stamp out crime and racketeering in the same effective manner in which they met the emergency of war.

W. E. James, club secretary, presented a membership button to Wesley Sawyer, high school student who is an honorary member of the club for winning scholastic honors.

President H. V. Stokes announced that Melvin Jones of Chicago, secretary general of Lions International, was to be in San Antonio Wednesday for a Lion gathering and urged attendance of some Sonora Lion.

Mr. James read a letter from the Austin club asking aid in raising money for financing businesses for adult blind persons of the state.

and ran through a surprised Bulldog team for about 30 yards. The run would have gone for a touchdown had Fields' teammates blocked out a remaining Rocksprings tackler who brought him down on the 15-yard line.

The game ended as Sonora was within a few yards of the goal and touchdown that would have tide the score

Both teams were weak on passing, completing only a small part of those attempted One beauty, from Fields to V J Glasscock, brought the fans to their feet

Both the Smith boys and Fields carried the ball for good gains

The Sonora defense was excellent, too, and even though Rocksprings had a much heavier team, the locals outplayed them consistently. Rocksprings, however, was handicapped by the absence of two big backfield threats, Monte Earwood and Ellis

One bright spot of the Sonora defense was the play of J ohn Merck at right end It was his first game in conference football, and he showed up to advantage

Sonora has lost three conference games, with two remaining. Coach Griffin has had the boys working all week getting set for the big Ozona Lions, whom they meet Saturday in Ozona.

Jennings at Legion Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jennings were in San Angelo Sunday to attend the district convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary. Mr. Jennings reports an excellent meeting, with McCamey chosen as the next convention city. The body indorsed a resolution asking Texas governmental heads to appoint a Legionnaire to the Texas Relief Commission, in order that interests of former service men might be better cared for. Houston Harte, San Angelo publisher, and a World War veteran, was appointed to the vacancy in the commission by Coke Stevenson, speaker of the House.

Buckner Home Will Profit by New Plan

Baptists of This Section to Fill Santa Fe Car with Gifts

The Buckner Orhpans' Home of Dallas, Baptist institution, which has heretofore profited each year by boxes sent from various towns about this season, will spot a Santa Fe car in Sonora on Thursday, Nov. 23, to be filled with donations of livestock and bedclothing contributed by all persons in this section who desire to make gifts to the home.

The new plan has been made to assist towns in sending things which would otherwise be difficult to ship by individual groups. Other cars will be stopped at various central points and a special train will leave San Angelo Nov. 26 for Dallas with the contributions.

Women of the Baptist missionary union were informed at their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon that livestock of any kind, including poultry, and bedclothing were being asked for in particular, by the home.

The car will remain in Sonora until the 24th, when it is to leave at the usual time.

Week of Prayer Observed with an All-day Meeting

Program Given at Ranch Home of Mrs. J. T. Shurley on Wednesday Is Novel

Observing the annual week of prayer for missions, the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, joining with the Young Woman's Missionary Society which had charge of the program, met in all-day session Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. T. Shurley.

A novel program in the form of a radio broadcast supposedly from Nashville, Tenn., location of the Woman's Missionary council headquarters, was conducted at the morning session. Mrs. J. D. Westbrook, representing Mrs. Ina Davis Fulton, a missionary leader, acted as radio announcer, with the other members of the program each representing a well-known worker in the field of missions, in numbers as follows:

Talk by "Mrs. World Outlook," Mrs. J. T. Shurley; song; scripture, Mrs. W. S. Evans; folk song; "Object of our gifts and prayers," announcer; talk representing Bishop Candler, the Rev. E. P. Neal; talk, Mrs. Evans; song; "Paine College and Peace Relations," Mrs. Evans; reading from "World Outlook," Mrs. E. P. Neal; prayer, Mr. Neal; solo, Miss Marie Watkins, impersonating Miss Emma Gray.

The afternoon session consisted of songs and prayer, a vocal duet by Mesdames W. E. Caldwell and E. P. Neal, and a playlet by Mrs. E. E. Sawyer and Miss Elizabeth Francis, written by Miss Irene Dunn, formerly of Sonora. A mission offering was taken.

A delicious covered dish luncheon was enjoyed together at the noon hour by the following attendants: the Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Neal and baby son, Mesdames J. W. Trainer, W. E. Caldwell, O. G. Babcock, E. E. Sawyer, R. A. Halbert, L. E. Johnson, J. D. Westbrook, W. S. Evans, Joe Logan, Sol Kelley, W. R. Gilliam, Robert Rees, J. D. Lowrey, M. M. Stokes, C. E. Stites and J. T. Shurley; the Misses Elizabeth Francis, Marie Watkins and Gertrude Babcock; and the little Misses Joe Alice Evans and Cathryn Westbrook.

"So Big Texas" Is Interesting Prog.

Mrs. H. V. Stokes Conducts Study of State at Woman's Club

Second in a series of studies of Texas was the topic "So Big Texas" developed by Mrs. H. V. Stokes at the Sonora Woman's Club meeting Thursday afternoon last week.

Miss Marie Watkins, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Babcock, sang the state song, "Texas, Our Texas,' preceding the discussions, respectively, of "So Big Texas' and "Number, Distribution, Nationality, and Characteristics of Texas People," by Mrs. Stokes and Mrs. Hi Eastland.

Mrs. Stokes presented her material in a novel fashion by asking members to listen for answers to questions which she distributed beforehand, in her paper, which she illustrated with a map. Questions were then asked again and answers written from memory, thus placing important facts firmly in minds of the hearers.

Mrs. George Baker read "Shall We Divide the State?" by Hainlett.

Roll call, preceding the program, was answered by members with statements concerning why they were glad to be Texans.

Committee reports were heard and library business transacted.

Mrs. W. E. Caldwell will lead the program for Thursday, Nov. 16, with Mrs. Roy E. Aldwell assisting her.

Encyclopedia Is Added to School Through P. T. A.

Grammar School and Association Equally Share Purchase of Reference Books

The action of the Sonora-Parent Teacher Association in voting to share with the grammar school in purchase of an encyclopedia for the school library, came appropriately Tuesday afternoon at the end of a program entitled "What Are School Essentials?" led by Mrs. Tom Driskell and developed, in a paper, by Mrs. Merton Shurley.

Upon suggestion of Miss Vivian Ball, principal of the grammar school, the association discussed the purchase of the reference books and decided that one of the first of school essentials was proper literature. The set of books will cost $69, with the school and the association each paying 50 per cent.

Mother singers of the organization, recently organized under direction of the Misses Marie Watkins and Ruth Tipton, sang a Parent-Teacher song to the tune of "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Preceding the program Miss Ball delivered the message from the state president of Parent-Teacher associations.

Mrs. O. G. Babcock announced that a study course outlined by the Child Welfare Magazine is being given at 2:30 each first Tuesday afternoon of the month, an hour before the regular Parent-Teacher meeting. Mrs. Babcock is in charge of the course, which will give the association credit toward the standard of excellence. Mesdames M. C. Puckett and C. H. Jennings will be in charge of next month's meeting. All interested persons are invited. Child welfare is the basis of the study.

CHAPTER VI

ROBERTA shopped for two weeks, spent another two weeks on a houseboat party among the Thousand Islands, and departed for Los Algodones.

"Where shall I address you, Bobby?" Crooked Bill queried. "At the Mansion house, in Los Algodones?"

"No, dear. Address me in care of Don Jaime Miguel Higuenes."

"What?" Crooked Bill started as if bee stung. "You going to put up at the Higuenes hacienda? Why—why, the man's a bachelor."

"How do you know?"

"I've been making inquiries about him."

"Well, his housekeeper, a Mrs. Ganby, has written me, inviting me to be his guest. Don Jaime was ill at the time and couldn't write me personally, but he did write, at the bottom of Mrs. Ganby's letter, 'Official: J. M. H.' Mrs. Ganby says they have a lovely place and that I'll be much more comfortable at the Rancho Valle Verde than at any hotel in the country."

Crooked Bill was assailed by the feeling that, in some inexplicable way, his well-laid plans were doomed to go aft agley. "You'll write me frequently and tell me all about it, won't you, honey?"

Roberta promised and kissed him good-by.

Five days later she and Mignon, her maid, with three huge trunks and five pieces of hand baggage, were deposited on a lonely, sun-warped platform at the little flag station of Valle Verde.

A quarter of a mile out on the plain, in a compact mass, a huge herd of white-faced cattle were milling slowly and bellowing continuously

"Why, there must be thousands of them!" Roberta gasped, and was grateful that the station platform, which was at least five feet off the ground, appeared to offer reasonable sanctuary from attack.

From around the corner of the station a man appeared, hat in hand. "Miss Antrim?" he queried.

"Yes, indeed," said Roberta gratefully, and waited for him to name himself.

"I'm Bill Dingle, your Uncle Tom's general manager. I got your letter tellin' me you'd arrive today and instructin' me to meet you at the Higuenes rancho tomorrow."

"Yes," Roberta murmured, wondering if she ought to introduce Mignon to Mr. Dingle, who was eyeing the maid as a fresh cow in a pasture eyes a dog.

"So I thought I'd meet you here, miss, and explain to you how come it won't be possible for me to meet you there," Mr. Dingle went on, his embarrassment increasing at every word. "It's about twenty mile straight east from here to your Uncle Tom's ranch, which is your ranch now, I reckon, and I figgered maybe it'd be better for all hands if you put up there instead of at the Higuenes rancho. I reckon you and this other lady'd be as safe and comfortable there as anywhere."

"That is very kind of you, Mr. Dingle." Roberta hesitated, then, in her usual frank manner, plunged. "Why is it impossible for you to meet me at the Higuenes rancho, Mr. Dingle?"

Mr. Dingle scuffed a foot along the station platform and his embarrassment increased visibly. "Well, ma'am, in this country, when a feller's enemy warns him not to set foot on his ranch again until he's sent for, unless he wants to be made a colander out of, it's reasonable to figger the warnin's meant."

"Who warned you?"

"Don Jaime Higuenes."

"Indeed. Why, I had no idea Don Jaime Higuenes was such a bloodthirsty man! Is the trouble between you something that cannot be rectified? I should be happy to act as peacemaker, Mr. Dingle."

Bill Dingle, remembering his offenses, was honest enough to declare that the trouble could not be rectified and added something about the easiest way out of trouble being to go around it. Then he was silent for quite a while, meanwhile scuffing his toe and gazing a bit helplessly around the horizon. Finally he said: "I reckon you didn't think as much of your Uncle Tom as he used to let on you did. Don't you feel no resentment agin the man that murdered him?"

"Not the slightest. From all that we can learn, officially, Uncle Tom was not murdered. It seems he ambushed Jim Higgins and shot him three times. Then Higgins got under cover and stalked Uncle Tom and killed him. I am informed that he didn't know the identity of his assailant until he saw the body."

"That's the story, but it ain't true. This killer ordered your Uncle Tom to quit grazin' his sheep on the free range or he'd kill him. A warnin's a warnin' in this country, an' if a feller don't choose to obey it he's justified in arguin' the matter in the smoke the first time him an' the warnin' person meet up. Your uncle didn't see no valid reason why he should have his liberty restricted by a private citizen. He considered his life in danger, so when they met up on the range it was a case of who could get into action quickest. It was a case of an old man agin a young man, an' the young man won as usual. But your Uncle Tom never tried to kill nobody. He just naturally defended his own life an' failed to do a good job. An', of course, a sheepman ain't in good standin' in a cattle country. Personally, I'm a hired man, but I got my private opinions, an' I'm here to say it just naturally don't look right for you to be the guest of—"

Mr. Dingle raised his glance from the station platform and gazed across toward the approaching herd of cattle. He appeared alert, poised for flight; whatever had been in his mind to say remained unsaid, and he was profoundly interested in a horseman who was galloping around the flank of the herd, evidently with the intention of passing on in front of it.

"I reckon I'll be moseyin' along, ma'am," said Mr. Dingle. "We can discuss our business when you come to the Antrim ranch."

The horseman had cleared the herd and was coming on at an easy gallop; behind him a boy on a small pinto pony labored to keep up.

"There's the man that killed your Uncle Tom," Mr. Dingle almost hissed. "I reckon I don't care to meet that hombre until I can choose the time and place myself." And without standing upon the order of his going Mr. Dingle went—in a flying leap off the station platform. He lit running and continued on to a disreputable old automobile; in an incredibly short space of time he was on his way home.

The horseman, observing Mr. Dingle's departure, spurred his mount to a furious gallop.

"He's going to shoot," Mignon screamed. "Oh, the brute!"

Six pistol shots rang out and Roberta saw little puffs of dust leap up beside Dingle's right rear tire. A pause of about two seconds—then six more shots and six more puffs of dust beside the same tire. Then the horseman pulled up, turned and jogged quietly up to the station. He dismounted a little stiffly, dropped the reins over his horse's head, and advanced limping to the station platform, upon which he climbed laboriously and disappeared into the station.

"This is exactly like the movies," Mignon quavered. "It's wonderful. So thrilling! Oh, I'm so glad you brought me with you, Miss Roberta!"

"When that man emerges you'll experience some more thrills," Roberta warned her maid. "I'm going to tell him some things about himself he has not, in all probability, been told before."

"Do be careful, Miss Roberta. He's so desperate—"

"I'll reduce him to pulp. I'm not afraid of his guns. I intend to protect my foreman. That is the duty of an employer. We can testify to his effort to kill Mr. Dingle. I shall have him arrested and tried for attempt to commit murder. The bloodthirsty wretch!"

The station door swung open, and Don Jaime Higuenes limped out, stood as erect as his damaged underpinning would permit, bowed from the hips and all but swept the station platform with his sombrero. Then he straightened and said: "Mees—I mean Miss Antrim—I am devastated to think—"

"How dare you presume to address me?" Roberta cut in icily. "I am not aware that I have the dubious honor of your acquaintance, sir, although I believe you are my uncle's slayer, Jim Higgins."

"How Dare You Presume to Address Me?" Roberta Cut in Icily.

He stared at her without rancor, nor did the pleasant smile that had crinkled his undeniably good-looking countenance fade the slightest. Roberta made swift appraisal of him. He was about six feet tall, strongly built, lithe and graceful. His complexion was a reddish brown, a most agreeable color-scheme when taken in conjunction with crinkly jet-black hair and large, black, snappy eyes. "Black Irish," Roberta reflected, noting his thick, almost snubby nose, the broad upper lip and the square jowls. "The very worst kind of Irish!"

"Yes, I am Jim Higgins," Don Jaime admitted, without a particle of shame or embarrassment, and from the inflection of his voice, from a certain faint clipped manner of slurring his consonants, Roberta knew that Spanish was this man's tongue. "It was my misfortune to be the instrument of an inscrutable fate that wafted your delectable uncle to his mansion in the skies."

"Has anybody ever told you what a cool scoundrel you are, Mr. Higgins? Do you enjoy killing men?"

"Oh, no! Not even in self-defense."

Roberta had a feeling that she was not going to make much progress in the face of the man's debonair indifference.

"What do you mean by trying to shoot my foreman?"

"Why, it's the open season on sheepherders. We're allowed one a day, and old Dingle Bell is the first I've flushed in a week."

"He'll be the last you'll flush in many years if there is such a thing as law and justice in Texas."

"Oh, we're very law-abiding, indeed! Very few of us on this side of the Rio Grande kill for pleasure or profit. You're going to have me arrested, I presume."

"I certainly am."

"Well, when the warrant is issued the sheriff will telephone me about it and tell me to come in and talk it over. By the way, what are you doing around here, anyway? Is it your intention to camp all night on this platform or were you expecting somebody to call for you? Is it possible that in a moment of exuberance I frightened Dingle Bell away and thus deprived you of your transportation?"

"No. I'll excuse you of leaving us stranded. Mr Dingle would have departed in a little while, but not so precipitately. I do not mind telling you that we are waiting for Don Jaime Miguel Higuenes to send a car over for us. Do you know Don Jaime?"

"I've known him all my life."

"What sort of man is he?"

"We-ell, average, I'd call him. Just a fair sample of a greaser. Folks in this country don't seem to mind having him around. Are you certain Don Jaime knew you were due here today?"

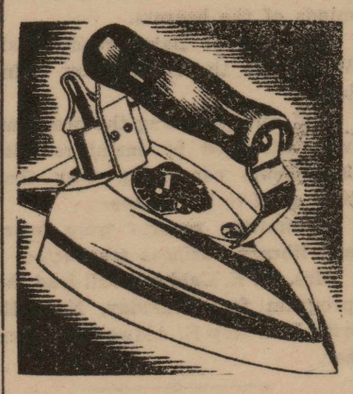

"Why, I wrote him a week ago."

"Well, the hair must have slipped somewhere or he'd have had a car here to meet you—yes, and a light motor truck for your baggage. One thing Higuenes prides himself on is his punctuality and hospitality. I'm very much afraid, Mees—I mean Miss—Antrim, that unless I get word to Don Jaime that you're here, the station master will have to take you in. And I know he isn't equipped for company."

Meat and Chicken Canning Occupy Recent Interest

Local Home Demonstration Groups Do Work at Joe Berger and O. G. Babcock Homes

A record of 176 cans of meat put up in a day was made by a group of Sonora people meeting Thursday last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Berger to can the meat from a yearling calf. The totals were given as follows: chili, 64 cans; steak, 42; soup, 21; roast, 32; stew, 17.

Under direction of Mr. Snell, Schleicher county agricultural agt., the calf was cut by men present, after which Mrs. Etta Ringgold, Sutton county home demonstration agent, supervised the canning, in which all present took an active part.

Spending the day at the demonstration, and eating a buffet lunch together, were Messrs. and Mesdames Merton Shurley, M. C. Puckett, and Joe Berger; Mesdames Ringgold, Tom Driskell, Charley Hull; and Messrs. Alvis Johnson, Edgar Shurley, Snell, and Fred Berger.

On Friday a chicken canning demonstration was given by Mrs. Ringgold at the home of Mrs. O. G. Babcock, when about 20 number-one cans, mostly for use in salad and sandwiches, and some soup, were canned by Mesdames Ringgold, Babcock, Hi Eastland, Joe Berger, M. C. Puckett, and Charley Hull. Several women stated their eagerness to can chicken for this winter.

TWO LITTLE WORDS—BUT A WHALE OF A DIFFERENCE

An omission of a couple of words in the announcement of the Baptist church last week caused the pastor to say "Come to our Sunday school and do not go elsewhere," when the copy should have read "Come to our Sunday school if you do not go elsewhere." We regret the error and are glad to make the correction.—Exchange.

Rivalry Between Schools

Rivalry means competition and keen contention. But sometimes there is friendly rivalry that borders on enmity between schools. This is the wrong kind of rivalry to build up. Friendly rivalry induces spirit, enthusiasm and sportsmanship; and urges one to do his best for the good old high school.

CHATTERING ANNIE

Hi folks—Brace yourselves for a short chat with a noisy reporter. Everything was pretty quiet last week—nothing but a few parties, a ball game, anl a few pep rallies.

The ball game was a treat. I never saw boys fight harder in my life. The old spirit was right there. More than usual was put into that game for the boys were thinking farther ahead. They lost the game but they showed enough grit to win the victory over the rest of the opposing towns and that's just exactly what we're looking forward to. That would make us a real ball club finally.

The pep squad netted about four dollars from their sales at the game. I don't suppose it will be long before Lunetta will be salesmanager of some large firm. She is certainly getting a start. Those poor juniors finally decided on a class pin. The pins are very attractive and something different. I hope I don't see too many of them on these seniors, for that is one of the juniors strictest rules—"have nothing to do whatsoever with a senior."

Since old man winter has just popped up, it makes it impossible for students to stay out-doors, but I'm sure arrangements are being made for the students to employ themselves during the noon hour.

The library is increasing all the time. A new shipment of books was received last week. Everyone must be very cautious of these books, and try to preserve their value.

Reports have been sent in that Pauline is to be home this week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer are going down and get Alice, and she is to accompany them to A&M where they will all spend the week-end with Edwin.

Well, folks, I'm sorry our chat was cut so short, but maybe next week we can have a longer talk.

Adios—

CHATTERING ANNIE

Guess Who in the Senior Class

This tall, slender brunette is an honorable addition to the senior class. Quiet and serious are the best adjectives to describe her. As a member of the pep squad, she does her part. If we had more girls as studious as this senior we would be only too glad to welcome them. Have you guessed?

Few Students Fail First Six Weeks

Last year 19 high school students were on the honor roll the first six weeks. This year there are 29—an increase of 10. Mr. Covey states that there are fewer failures this six weeks that there have been in three years. We are proud of that.

It is interesting, statistically, to compare the number of honor roll members from each class this year with the number from each class at the end of the first six weeks last year. The seniors who graduated last year had six on the honor roll, while the seniors of this year have only three. However, the junior class of 1933 had four on the roll, and the same names appear on the senior honor list this year, with the exception of J. T. Shurley, who is no longer in Sonora.

No sophomore achieved a place on the honor roll for the first six weeks last year, and no junior has done so this year.

The freshmen had only two on the list last year, but as sophomores they have increased their honor roll to eight.

The minnows of 1932-33, now freshmen, boast an increase of three, having a total of ten this year, as compared with a total of seven last year.

This year's minnows have begun with an excellent record—eight names from the present seventh grade appear on the honor roll.

Two classes, then, have improved their rating. Sonora should be justly proud of this achievement.

Jo Nell Miers made the highest average of any girl in high school this six weeks, an average of 96½. She is consequently a Lioness for the coming six weeks.

Wesley Sawyer is a Lion for the same period, having made an average of 93 2-5th, which is the highest of any boy in high school.

The names of those who made the honor roll are as follows:

Seniors: Ora Altizer, Sara Ory, Ches Thorp.

Juniors: None.

Sophomores: Kenneth Babcock, Clemencia Cardona, Nora B. Hill, Lillie Mae Lehman, Lunetta Marion, Wesley Sawyer, Lillie Marie Smith, Cora Belle Taylor.

Freshmen: Elizabeth Brantley, Louis Davis, Josephine Dennard, Nora Gilliam, Lillian Kring, Emmalou Logan, Joyce McGilvray, Jo Nell Miers, Bobbie Nesbit, Richard Vehle.

Seventh grade: Kathryn Brown, Alma Glasscock, Wynona Hutcherson, Jack Shurley, Rena Glen Shurley, Robert Allen Simmons, Jim Taylor, Cathryn Trainer.

SENIORS WORKING HARD ON BRONCHO REPORTING

Last Wednesday the senior class met and discussed several things. They have decided to postpone collecting money for their rings until the arrival of the rings. The rings are expected to arrive sometime this week.

Everyone seems to be working on The Broncho with the result that we had a much better issue last week than usual.

Miss Swafford suggested that the class have a program each Wednesday at their regular meeting. The president will appoint a committee for each week. Clovis Neal was appointed chairman for the next meeting and Stella Archer and Nina Roueche were appointed on the committee.

The senior play which will be given next spring was briefly discussed.

Refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, cake and cocoa were served to Jo Ann Marion, Lillian Kring, Nora Gilliam, Joyce McGilvray, Jo Nell Miers, Viba Holland, Beryl Dean Persons, Wesley Sawyer, Reginald Trainer, Kenneth Babcock, Herman Parker, Edith, Virginia, Lloyd and Jewel McGhee.

Bulldogs Win Margin Over Bronchos Here

For the second time this season the Rocksprings Bulldogs defeated the Sonora Bronchos here last Saturday. The final score was 6-0, although Sonora was headed for a touchdown within the last few seconds of the game.

The Sonora squad held their opponents to a scoreless tie until the third quarter in which Rocksprings scored 6 points, but failed to kick goal. With the exception of a few fumbles the locals played an excellent game. Sonora was within a yard of the goal line when the final whistle blew.

Next Saturday the Bronchos meet the Ozona Lions on the Ozona field.

ART CLASSES MAKING GOOD PROGRESS IN WORK

Mrs. Bode reports her art students are doing better work this year tha never before. The pupils are working with a variety of materials; some painting with oils, some with pastels, some with water colors, etc.

Pupils are Sue Glasscock, Margaret Sandherr, Elizabeth Elliott, R. W. Johnson, Carmen Neal, Jerry Puckett, Betty Lou Shoemake, Maida Ruth McKee, Mora Lee Meckel and Ches Thorp. Miss Daniel and Mrs. Warren also paint but not regularly.

The art class has completed a number of interesting pictures and is working hard to make the coming exhibit a success.

But EVE tired of wearing GREEN!

THE FIRST LADY of the Garden, of course, had a wide choice of fernery to convert into finery. But all of it was GREEN . . . and that grew monotonous. So next we hear of her wearing furs! For women, it seems, just must have CHANGE. Everybody knows that a red hat will cure the blues!

Most important of all, new clothes for Mother seem to have a cheering effect on the entire family. A successful little dress is worth a song before breakfast or a Grand Surprise Dessert at dinner time. So Wise Men (otherwise referred to as good providers and model husbands) are falling in with feminine plans to buy some new clothes this winter . . . AND HERE'S WHY WE SAY TO ACT NOW, AND SAVE!

The sweatshop, and the flashy little $2.88 silk dress, have passed out of the picture together. There was no standard of value for the sweatshop worker. She toiled like a coolie for any wake she could get . . . sometimes was tricked into working without pay!

Now, the NRA codes in the dress industry, as you know, have raised wages, shortened hours, eliminated child labor, and improved working conditions all around.

This is a good thing for everyone concerned. For the truth is that the price of women's clothing had fallen so low that no one could make a decent living out of it. Wages went down and down . . . . workmen were laid off . . . . human hands and heads, and their products, too, seemed to have lost almost all their real VALUE.

That is what the NRA codes are for . . . to restore VALUE to the COMMON THINGS of life . . . . to price of women's clothign had fallen so something again.

And it's working! Wages are up. Woolens have advanced 49 per cent. Silk and rayon dress goods 35 per cent. The price of women's garments is bound to go up.

So good buys, RIGHT NOW, are ripe for picking, and prices won't even be lower, they say, at January sales. In fact, they will probably never again be so low as they are today! NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

UPTURN ITEM NO. 3
Wool consumption, between June 1932 and June 1933 Showed a gain of 210 pct.

Suits . . coats . . hats . . furs. What can be had, for how very little, you will discover in the advertisements in this paper. List what you'd like to have. Then act quickly to take advantage of present favorable prices!

O. L. RICHARDSON CAR IS WRECKED; DRIVER UNHURT

O. L. Richardson was unhurt last week in a crash which almost completely demolished his automobile. Richardson dimmed his lights as he met an approaching vehicle on the Junction highway east of Sonora, and while partially blinded by the other car he crashed into a parked truck loaded with cedar.

The wreck was unavoidable by the time Mr. Richardson realized that the truck was in his path. He pulled his car to the side but could not miss the truck. He had collision insurance on the car, fortunately.

The damaged car was traded in on a new one Saturday.

He told of the opposition against the early leaders of the church, citing instances of the persecution they received, and pointed out that today, just as then, no really worthwhile progress is possible without opposition. He said that everyone must concentrate on what he is doing in order to overcome this inevitable opposition.

He pointed out that the world seems to need turning upside down at the present moment, and that the critics who cry out against the discomfort of the process should not be heeded.

Another pep rally was held Friday morning at assembly hour. Mr. Griffin promised to lead the pep squad after the team had won its first game. He led the entire student body in several yells. He also gave a talk concerning the game Saturday. He promised that he and the boys would fight their best and try to win the game. Mr. Covey also spoke briefly on sportsmanship and the game to be played on Saturday. After the yells and songs everyone was bubbling over with enthusiasm and pep. The program ended with the song, "Red and Black."

Speeds See Tragic Amarillo Accident

Were at Home Next to Church Beside Which Plane Crashed

When Mrs. Ardena Speed and her daughter Miss Edna Bell, returned Saturday from Amarillo, where Mrs. Speed had attended the Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of Eastern Star, and both had visited her brother-in-law, Lon Speed, they carried newspaper pictures of the airplane accident in Amarillo which occurred Sunday noon, Oct. 29, almost at the doorstep of the house where they were visiting.

Four pilots were killed when two planes in a group of four planes which were exhibiting over Amarillo preliminary to giving an afternoon circus, crashed into each other, one falling through the roof of a laundry, and the other dashing to pieces against a telephone pole beside a Salvation Army Church in which services were being held. The Speed home was nextdoor to the church, and Mrs. Speed described the ship which fell nearest them as a mass of jumbled ruin.

Aside from witnessing the tragedy, the Speeds enjoyed a pleasant visit in Amarillo and also in Pampa, Mrs. Speed's former home, which she had not visited before in 15 years. They made the trip from San Angelo and back with C. D. Davis of San Angelo.
