LOUIS SCHNEIDER
". . . Classic Winner"

Schneider Is Winner In Indianapolis Motor Race

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

SPEEDWAY, Indianapolis, May 30. (AP)—Fate catapulted Louis Schneider, one time Indianapolis motorcycle policeman, into a stunning upset victory of the 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis motor speedway today.

By the same stroke of fate Billy Arnold, 29-year-old Chicagoan, 1930 winner of the event, was robbed of almost certain victory when he met with a tragic accident which resulted in the burning of his car while he was speeding to apparent victory in the last 100 miles of the race.

Led From Start

Arnold seeking to repeat his triumph of a year ago had led from the start, except for six laps, when his car, racing around the treacherous north turn of the track, at terrific speed, threw a left front wheel and sent him crashing into the car driven by Luther Johnson of South Bend, Ind. The car immediately caught fire and burned, but Arnold miraculously escaped death along with his mechanic, Spider Matlock of Los Angeles. Johnson's car was wrecked, but did not burn. Johnson likewise escaped with only a few scratches.

Within a few seconds after Arnold cracked up, the machine driven by Tony Gulotta, Kansas City, who was running third, smashed into the retaining wall at the very same spot where Arnold met with his accident.

Wins By 2 1-2 Miles

These two accidents, coming a few seconds apart, in the closing miles of the race, threw Schneider, the lanky 30-year-old son of an Indianapolis tailor, into the lead which he maintained until the fin-

Songsters Are Meeting Today

At Least 2,000 Are Expected To Be On Hand For Regular Convention At Slaton; H. S. Auditorium Headquarters

Plans are laid to care for at least 2,000 songsters at Slaton today when the Lubbock County Singing convention gets under way, D. W. Fortenberry, of Lubbock, president of the organization, said yesterday.

Singing will begin at 10 o'clock this morning in the Slaton High school auditorium, he said, and will continue until 4:30 Sunday afternoon. Good weather will bring more than 2,000 persons to the scene of activity, the president averred.

Features Planned

Solos, duets and quartets will be featured, as well as mass singing, Mr. Fortenberry explained. Presidents of the singing conventions in five or six adjoining counties will be present to aid in leading the singing, which will be done with piano accompaniment. Each attendant will bring his own lunch to the affair.

President Fortenberry urged that all persons interested in singing attend the convention. The Lubbock county group meets on every fifth Sunday in the year, he said, in addition to sponsoring sing-songs in rural communities between convention dates.

Steamer Runs Aground But Excursionists Are Rescued

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 30. (AP)—On a sandy spit near Point Arguello, "the graveyard of the Pacific," the coastwise steamer Harvard went aground at 3:30 a. m. today but all of her passengers, 465 holiday excursionists, were rescued without so much as getting their feet wet.

The steamer, bound from San Francisco to Los Angeles, dug her hull into the treacherous off-shore sands of the point as she crawled through a choking fog, sirens blaring and engines turning at half speed.

"Red" Hill Rides Niagara River Again; Almost Lost

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 30. (AP)—William "Red" Hill for the third time rode Niagara river's white water safely today, only to mill around for almost three hours in the treacherous whirlpool, from which he was rescued by his 17-year-old son, William Hill, jr.

Four times his big red, white and blue oak barrel went around the huge circle of the whirlpool, and seven times it was carried around a minor eddy far out in the stream. On the last two swings around the whirlpool "Red" opened the manhole, stuck an arm out, and yelled: "Throw me a rope, the barrel is filling up with water."

Boy And Brother Were Swimming In Pool; Small Calibre Pistol Fell From Pocket And Shooting Followed

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 30. — A 13-year-old school boy admitted tonight, police said, he had slain Policeman Edward Smith, when he and two companions were surprised by the officer while swimming in the pool at the John Marshall high school.

"I thought the 'cop' was going to shoot me, so I shot him first," police said the boy, Varner Corry, told them.

Seized Soon After

Varner, his brother, Earl 11, and Schuyler Pearson, 13, were seized soon after the shooting upon information furnished police by Leonard Schich, 13, the son of a policeman, who lives near the school.

Smith was the father of four children.

"We were swimming in the pool when a woman and the policeman ordered us to come out," the Corry boy told them, police said. "He said he was to take us to the station. I got out and started to put on my clothes. My .22 caliber pistol dropped out of my pocket, and the policeman saw it. I thought he was going to reach for his gun and shoot, so I shot him first."

Officials said the policeman had been shot three times and his head and shoulders crushed. A blood stained baseball bat was found lying near the body.

RENO, Nev., May 30.—A weary county clerk and his hard worked staff checked back over their files today and found that 331 divorces had been granted and 517 suits filed here during the first month's trial of Nevada's new six weeks residence law.

Attorneys do not look for the pace set this month to keep up, although they do anticipate at least 200 new suits will be filed each month.

It was estimated that at least 1,000 more divorces will be granted annually in Reno under the new law than under the old. Last year there were 2,109 divorces and annulments in Washoe county; in 1929 there were 2,150 and in 1928 there were 2,141.

WITH a simplicity befitting the occasion, former soldiers and sailors of the World war Saturday afternoon paid tribute to their departed comrades in arms and also to others who have borne arms in defense of their country. It was the annual observance of Memorial Day, in which Lubbock joined the nation in revering those who gave their all for their country.

More than 200 persons attended the simple ceremonies at American Legion hall on North Texas avenue where George W. Dupree spoke briefly in tribute to his comrades. There was just a sprinkling of older persons, the audience being almost entirely composed of the families and friends of veterans of the World struggle.

Go To Cemetery

After this the party went to the cemetery where flowers were strewn on the graves of those hero dead, after a firing squad had given a salute to the dead and taps sounded. There were several hundred people who participated in the service at the graves.

Glenn Hess, local legion commander, opened the program at Allen Brothers hall and N. L. Peters, chaplain, led in prayer. An or-

Man Testifies In State Case

Charles Hassell Turns State's Evidence In Trial Of Men On Charges Of Assault In Disguise At Corsicana

(By Associated Press)

CORSICANA, May 30.—Charles Hassell, one of five men indicted for the kidnaping of Robert Cerf last December, today turned state's evidence in the trial of Currie Caldwell for assault in disguise and spent several hours on the stand describing the kidnaping. He was closely cross examined but stuck closely to his story, though it differed in a few details from that told by Cerf yesterday. He said his share of the $15000 ransom was $1,300, given him by Caldwell. It was intimated that he would be recalled to the stand when the trial is renewed Monday.

The defense rested after Caldwell's mother, Mrs. Lena Blanding, had testified concerning his early life, relatives in this county, and a serious illness in his childhood. She said he had never been convicted or accused of a felony.

Man Is Warned

Hassel was warned by Judge Hawkins Scarborough that he did not have to testify. Hassell said he was not claiming immunity but later admitted under cross examination that County Attorney Cleo G. Mil-

Two Bodies Are Buried In Pond

BELVEDERE, KENT, England, May 30. (AP)—Scotland Yard's "Big Five" tonight were pooling their efforts to find Charles Frederick Lewis, 60-year-old schoolmaster. They wanted to question him regarding the finding of the bodies of his wife and step-daughter beneath fresh concrete in a fish pond in the back yard of his home last night.

The mystery of the disappearance of Lewis and the finding of the bodies promised to be one of the most sensational with which Scotland Yard has grappled in many years.

Lewis is a prominent educator, tall and distinguished, one of the assistant directors of education for the county of Kent, choir master at the local church and an active participant in civic affairs.

Heavy Gasoline Load Prevents Take-Off From Runway

(By Associated Press)

SAMUSHIRO BEACH, Japan, May 31.—(Sunday)—The monoplane "Pacific" failed to lift its heavy load of gasoline fuel from the beach here today and Thomas Ash, Jr., postponed until tomorrow his 4400-mile solo flight to Seattle, Wash.

Weighted by 1020 gallons of gasoline, about 3,000 pounds, the plane would not rise from the one-mile runway along the beach, although given impetus on the 200 yard plankway erected by friendly Japanese for the American flier.

Throws Off Load

Reluctant to give up his attempt to start today, Ash ordered twenty gallons of precious fuel taken from the plane, decreasing the load by 130 pounds and prepared to make another attempt to take off.

The time, however, was 7:30 a. m. (5:30 p. m. E. S. T. Saturday), three hours later than he had planned to begin the longest flight ever made over water. He therefore, decided to wait until tomorrow for further efforts, planning meantime to make any improvements possible on plane and runway.

Physically trained to go without sleep during the 40 to 50 hours of ceaseless piloting of an awkward plane, Ash planned to be in Seattle before dawn of his third day out. He hoped to have two moonlight nights of flying.

One Near Death While Others Are Badly Hurt As Young Communist League Members Battle Police

(By Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 30.—At least 11 policemen, including traffic Commissioner Carl Olson, and 25 demonstrators were injured and more than 40 demonstrators were arrested here tonight as a result of a pitched battle between police and members of the young communist league.

The clash occurred when police broke up a communist demonstration in downtown Youngstown.

One Near Death

One of the demonstrators is near death in a Youngstown hospital with a bullet in his abdomen. Two policemen also are in a hospital with serious injuries and at least eight or 10 policemen suffered bruises.

Among those arrested were four women, and one eight-year-old boy. As the trouble started, a man, dressed in a khaki suit, jumped on top of an automobile, drew a gun from a holster and shot the wind shields and windows from several cars owned by the demonstrators.

Many of the women wore red bandanas and men and children wore red berets, and others who had participated in baseball games this afternoon, wore small red, green and black caps. Others wore red ties and red ribbons.

Police snatched the colored headgear from heads and threw it to the ground.

Car Accidents Exact Largest Accident Toll

Death List Said To Be One Of Heaviest In Years And Is Attributable In Large Part To Rainy Weather

Middlewest Hit

Five Fatally Injured As Train Strikes Car; Three Killed In Plane Crash; Separate Accidents Claim Others

(By Associated Press)

NEARLY 100 lives were lost as the nation observed Memorial day.

The death list, one of the heaviest in years, was attributable in large part to rainy weather with resultant automobile accidents.

But few heat deaths were reported and drownings played only a small part in the death roll.

Most In Middlewest

More than one-half the toll was taken in the middlewest.

Eleven persons were killed in Indiana, focal point for thousands of race-going motorists. Five were fatally injured when their machine was struck by a train at Berne, Ind. Three others, Chicago residents en route to the race, met death near Lebanon Ind. The others were killed in separate accidents.

Three race bound airplane passengers met death when their plane cracked up near Madison, Wis.

The death toll by sections was distributed thus:

Middlewest—automobile, 35; and drowning 7; airplane, 3; other causes, 2.

East—automobile, 19; drowning, 7; airplane, 3; heat, 1; other causes, four.

South—Automobile, 18.

West—Automobile, 3.

Pacific coast—Automobile, 1; drowning 2. Southwest—Automobile, two.

"Tex" Guinan And Her "Gang" Barred From Paris

"There Are Lots Of Strings In My Bow Yet," Tex Warns Further Declaring That "I Am Not Licked—I'll Draw A Couple More Cards First"; "Gang" Confident

BY ADELAIDE KERR

HAVRE, France, May 30. (AP)—Texas Guinan and her "gang" of girls and musicians will be sent back to America on the steamer Paris, sailing next Wednesday, a spokesman for the French immigration bureau said tonight.

Their return will be by order of the French government and they will not be permitted officially to enter France.

A member of the immigration bureau here said the decision not to permit the noted American night club hostess and her "gang" to enter was made on the ground that Tex has "no working permit or contract."

The bureau member said: "We have been criticised because others slipped through the ports without contracts and we refuse to let Miss Guinan do it. It is sometimes possible to let in one artist to compete with French amusement talent, but she is trying to bring in a whole troupe."

The immigration bureau had heard about parties conducted by Tex and her "gang" on board the steamer Paris.

"The second-class passengers told us about these parties," he said, "and I don't think her type of amusement is our type."

The bureau's decision was made later, and in spite of, the receipt of cables from American Legion officials asking that Tex and her troupe be permitted entrance because of her service as an entertainer of the soldiers in France during the World War.

Tex was forced to interrupt a luncheon at the Hotel Frascati to-

Rigid Tests Given Lubbock's Milk Supply; 1,700 Gallons Used Daily

Milk Most Popular Beverage In City; Ordiance Rules

THERE was a time when milk was milk regardless of the health of the animal from which the fluid was obtained, or how it was handled before it reached the breakfast table or the baby's milk bottle, but now in the average city no food is handled more carefully, or subjected to more rigid tests than the life sustaining liquid.

Undoubtedly, Lubbock's most popular beverage, and the popularity is not confined to the infant's crib is of the highest quality to be found in the state. Recent reports of the state health department show that Lubbock's milk supply is among the four best in Texas.

Enforcement Is Factor

Enforcement of the city's milk ordinance is given as the factor enabling Lubbock to maintain its high rating. Willingness of dairymen to comply with the ordinance and maintain sanitary conditions in plants has simplified the matter of guarding the milk supply, Dr. Y. J. Aiken, city dairy inspector says.

Lubbock consumes about 1,700 gallons of milk daily, or about 6,800 quarts. Forty-two dairies, each keeping from 10 to 125 cows, supply this demand. Records show the dairies to have a total of 1,050 cows, with an average of 850 producers at all times.

75 Per Cent Distributed

About 75 per cent of this milk is distributed to the consumers direct, while about 425 gallons finds its way to the users through retail stores and restaurants. All of the liquid is classed as raw grade A milk. Only about 150 gallons of pasteurized milk is consumed in the city daily. This quality of milk is furnished by two pasteurizing plants.

Prices of milk per quart distributed in Lubbock is as follows: Wholesale, 10 cents; retail, in lot of one-half gallon or more, 12 1-2 cents; single quarts, 13 cents.

An odd occurrance was noted in April when milk prices dropped as low as eight cents per quart, according to Dr. Aiken. Instead of the consumption increasing the quantity sold in Lubbock, a decrease of about 25 per cent was noted, he said.

Used Little Milk Then

"I believe many people used just as little milk as they could during the period of low prices," he said. "With the campaign waged for pure milk during the last few years impressed upon their minds, large numbers of persons evidently failed to see how milk could be produced and properly handled at the low figure. Rather than take chances of securing quality products, they decided to do without until the market became stable."

To sell milk in Lubbock, the producer must have a permit issued by the city health department. These permissions are granted only to establishments who satisfy the inspector that the ordinance is complied with and the herd is free from disease. Even if the producer sells milk to only one customer, under the law he must have a permit and comply with all regulations set forth for the standard dairies.

Must Undergo Tests

Herds supplying the city must undergo the tuberculin tests annually. The milk must be tested semi-annually for records. To insure pure milk, Dr. Aiken makes a practice of testing bottles of milk obtained from wagons and retail stores irregularly. In the event the liquid does not meet the requirements, a test is made directly at the dairy on the following day and the evil corrected.

Upchurch Files Suits For Violation Of Waste Laws

AUSTIN, May 30. (AP)—Fred Upchurch, assistant attorney general, stated today he had filed penalty suits against the Luling Oil and Gas company and the Horseshoe Lease syndicate, operators in the Kilgore area in Rusk county.

The suits were mailed to the district court in Rusk county. The defendants were charged with violation of the statute preventing waste. They could not be sued for violation of the railroad commission's proration order because they had applied for an injunction to restrain the commission from enforcing its order against them

Upchurch said he plans to prepare answers in the nine East Texas proration injunction suits against the commission by Tuesday. These were filed in district court here.

Depression Combined With Cool Weather Puts Damper On "Home Brew" In Lubbock, Sheriff Says

BY CHARLES P MILLER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE business depression combined with continued cool weather has sent the Lubbock county "homebrew" stocks way below normal.

As Sheriff Wade Hardy sees it, the light production of heavy beer is due to two reasons:

No money. No summer weather.

Bottles Decreasing

The sheriff's department and other local law enforcement officers have made the customary number of raids during the past two months, but the net number of bottles of the liquid, which often threatens to elect presidents, or not to elect them, has decidedly less than the quanity found during the same season last year.

Bathroom factories have announced the same price schedule—25 cents per brown bottle—but the stock just isn't moving fast enough to justify mass production, local officers tell you.

Found 100 Bottles

"In May, last year some of the raids of our department netted as high as three and four hundred bottles," Sheriff Hardy said, "but this year, 100 bottles have been about the limit found in about 20 raids. About the nearest to a real haul we have had this year, was when we found 100 bottles of 'brew', fully prepared for the detail market and 20 gallons aging in the factory. Four hundred empties were located in the place."

Most of the local retail beer merchants, whose assets were investigated by the department, were carrying stocks varying from 12 to 50 bottles, he said.

Although other commodities are showing decided decline in prices, commercial "homebrew" has failed to keep pace with the downward trend, investigations by local officers revealed. Some of the establishments offered 5-cent reductions where the bottles were returned in good shape.

Demand Not So Great

Then, too, the old law of supply and demand has entered into the beer market, it is said.

"It is my belief that there is not near the demand for intoxicating liquor this year as there was last season," the sheriff said. "Many persons find they can drink water just as well as beer when it comes to the point of digging up quarters at the present time.

Quotations on the "hard-likker" market show little change, also indicating sluggish trade Prices range from $5 to $7, depending upon the so-called quality, per gallon, officers say. Of course there are special prices in cases such as "I'll let you into a big bargain since you are a personal friend of mine" and when the wholesale jobbers discover they have large surpluses.

Little Change Noted

Little change in quality is noted in either of the two varieties of beverages. This year's stock is said to be just about as bad as last year's—and that is not much encouragement. Some of the beer merchants have unconsciously decreased their sales by mixing in too much rubbing 'alky' with the bath tub brew, selling only two bottles to the customer this year, where an average of four was sold last season. The more reliable brew masters, however, are said to be sticking to the uniform recipes

Trio Of Fires Here Saturday

Blaze Early Saturday Morning Virtually Destroys Home Of David S. Martin; Two Others Reported

Gaining headway before firemen were summoned, fire of undetermined origin early Saturday virtually destroyed the David S. Martin residence and its contents at 2418 Twenty-fourth street.

Residents were not in the house when the fire started. Martin owned the house. An alarm was sounded at 1:20 a. m. and firemen were not dismissed until 3 a. m. No estimate of the loss was obtained.

A blaze which probably would have caused heavy damage had not work of extinguishing it begun without delay occurred in Scott's garage at 619 Broadway. Fire-fighting apparatus was called at 6:15 a. m. Saturday.

Fire which started in the cab of a small truck destroyed the cab and otherwise damaged the machine, to the extent of an estimated $100, and caused a loss of about $50 on the building. Six other automobiles and trucks parked near the burning vehicle were protected. The loss was covered by insurance, firemen reported.

D. N Leaverton owns the building.

Are Firestone Tires Too Good?

THIS question has been asked of Harvey S. Firestone many times, particularly by stockholders and customers who have received unusually long mileage. His answer has always been the same: "No article can be made too good. The better you make it and the cheaper you sell it the more profit you make. This is what builds good will and success for a business." The good will and success of his own company surely bears out this statement of policy.

Mr. Firestone realizes, too, that there is another important reason why Firestone Tires can not be made too good. Thousands of men and women and little children—whole families in a single car—entrust their safety and even their lives to the tires on their cars. This becomes truer every day, especially with high powered, high speed cars and broader, better roads. It is vital that you do not have a blowout, or skid on slippery pavement. You must be able to stop in an emergency. Your wheels will stop if your brakes are working right. But unless you have the best Non-Skid tread your car may not stop.

This is the reason why Mr. Firestone developed the first rubber Non-Skid tire. That, too, is the reason why he pioneered and developed the balloon tire. Always he had in mind: to make motoring at high speeds safer and more comfortable.

To provide greater safety he developed the patented process of Gum-Dipping—coating every fiber in every cord in his tires, with pure liquid rubber. He knew that heat was the greatest enemy to tire life. So at the expense of millions of dollars he perfected the Gum-Dipping process which adds strength—reduces internal friction—increases flexing life of cords 58%—increases tire life by from 25 to 40%—and practically eliminates blowouts. Just figure the added security and safety from this one development alone.

But he did not rest satisfied with all this. When speeds were stepped up and more powerful motors took to the road, he set about developing the double cord breaker—two extra cord plies right under the tread—which results in a 56% stronger union between the tread and the body of the tire; and stops four out of five of all objects that cause punctures.

Mr. Firestone has always been a leader in keeping quality high and cost low. For example, when the British put a restriction on the export of rubber from their colonies which raised the price of rubber as high as $1.23 a pound, he fought this Restriction Act until it was removed.

He always had the firm belief that Americans should grow their own rubber; he began planting rubber trees on a million acre tract of land in Liberia. He was planning far ahead so that every American motorist might be forever free from exorbitant prices for rubber tires.

Firestone have their own men select and buy rubber direct from plantations and have their own rubber preparation plants and warehouses located on the waterfront in Singapore for direct shipment to Firestone factories all over the world. These direct methods save millions.

Take cotton, too. Firestone buys in the primary markets at the lowest prices, then ships direct to his own bonded cotton warehouse where he can store fifty million pounds. Firestone owns most efficient cord fabric mills, one of them the largest in the world, saving millions.

All of which means simply this: every economy in buying, manufacturing and distributing is used to give you more value for your dollar.

Mr. Firestone is not only a great pioneer in rubber and rubber tires but now he is the pioneer and has invested with his tire dealers over twenty-five million dollars in establishing a great distributing and standardized service system. Through this system of warehouses and service stores, twenty-five thousand Firestone service dealers get fresh stocks of tires, tubes, batteries, brake lining and accessories within a few minutes to a few hours' time.

Firestone tires are sold only by Firestone service dealers and service stores and under the Firestone emblem of quality, bearing the Firestone name. Mr. Firestone has never made tires just to "sell." He never has, and never will, make "Special Brand" tires for mail-order houses, dry goods stores, oil companies and others to sell at a profit without giving the service so necessary for the convenience and economy of the car owner.

Every Firestone tire bears the Firestone name and is doubly guaranteed, by Firestone and by us. Every one is sold by a reliable, service-giving dealer, who pays local taxes and is interested in you and your community. And yet our prices on Firestone Tires are as low as, and lower than, those of Special Brand tires of unknown manufacture.

We are proud to have Firestone Products to sell and service to our customers. Nowhere else can you find such values; this we know: This we can prove. We have cut cross sections from Firestone Tires and cross sections from competitive tires. Come in and let us show you that Firestone definitely has better quality and greater value. More rubber volume—more plies—more width—more thickness. All we ask is this: Come in and compare.

—Adv.

Louis Schneider

1931 winner of this race and $30,000.00 finished the 500 miles in 5 hours 10 minutes and 27 seconds on Firestone Tires. Many times during this race his car reached a speed of over 140 miles per hour.

Every highway is rapidly becoming a speed-way, and I am sure Mr. Schneider would advise you to use Firestone Tires for safety, mileage, speed and endurance.

For the twelveth consecutive year the first 10 cars finishing the famous 500 mile Indianapolis endurance race were on Firestone Tires. Every car finished the race without a tire failure. All Firestone Tires used in this race were bought and paid for by the user.

Billy Arnold

Won $52,000.00 when he finished first in the 1930 race, he was using Firestone Tires and again this year he won several thousand dollars for leading the race the first 400 miles.

His average for the first 75 miles of this race was 109.81 miles per hour, breaking all previous records for this distance. Mr. Arnold's car went over the wall putting his car out of the race, but due to no Tire failures, he was unhurt.

1. Gum-Dipping. Tires had to be stronger and able to stand the heat of a hot red-brick track at high speed. Firestone met this by developing and perfecting the dipping of cords through a rubber solution to insulate each fiber of every cord to overcome heat and give the cord greater strength—and 58% greater flexibility. This Is the Patented Gum-Dipping Process used in the making of every Firestone Tire.

2. The Balloon Tire was developed by Firestone to permit greater speed with comfort and safety by increasing road grip and absorbing shocks. It was made possible by the added strength and flexibility given by Gum-Dipping. In the 1925 race, some of the drivers tried the then new Firestone Balloons. The others stuck to high-pressure tires. Peter de Paolo on Firestone Balloons made a world's record. All the prize winners came in on Firestone Balloons—Now the balloon tire is everywhere the standard.

3. Double Cord Breaker. The higher-powered cars and the step-up in speed demanded still more tire toughness. At one hundred miles an hour, the circumference of a tire increases by more than 10%, and this, added to the centrifugal force, tends to throw off the tire treads. Firestone met this by developing the Patented Double Cord Breaker which gives a 56% stronger bond between the tread and the tire body and also gives a 26% greater protection against punctures and blowouts.

His Museum Filled With Interesting Relics Of Area

By Staff Correspondent

POST, May 30.—Down here in this little, enterprising city, there is a man who is far better known among the savants of the nation than he is at home, although he has lived here for a score of years and is known to almost every man, woman and child in town.

He is George Doughty, hardware man, who handles cold steel goods, pots, pans, stoves and ranges, farm machinery and the like for a living but who, in his leisure moments digs down into the earth in search of bones of animals millions of years old and evidences of early day civilization back five hundred or a thousand years ago, long before old Chris Columbus headed westward from the late Spanish Kingdom.

Has Private Museum

Out at George's home, just the other side of the court house, is a small building, his repository of interesting articles. The building is not very large, probably 15 by 18 feet.

But in the museum, for such it is, is to be found a collection of Indian arrowheads, knives, bones of mammoths buffalo, petrified trees and the like, that many a state university and nationally known university would pay large sums to possess.

There are so many things in this small room that even the owner has not had time to unpack all of them and place them properly. There are many boxes, as yet unpacked, containing almost priceless evidences of early day civilization.

Scientists Go With Him

In the more than a score of years that he has resided in Post, Mr. Doughty has roamed the canyons and hills of this section of West Texas in search of these items. He has not done it alone, but some of the big men of the nation along scientific research in archeological lines have been his companions. These men have asked to have the privilege of accompanying him on his trips.

Not only that, but when they want to know something about where to look on the Great Plains of Texas and Oklahoma, they come to Post or write here, to ask the best place.

Scouts His Aides

Boy scouts who have camped here at the South Plains area camp, are among his staunch supporters and aides. When these boys, in search of something else, stumble across a bone or relic of an early age, Mr. Doughty is at once notified.

Several years ago some scouts discovered the bones of an animal they did not know just what. Mr. Doughty was told of it. He was unable to go at that particular time and in fact for months was not able to get to the place where the bone was. The scouts who knew of it, kept it secret until their friend was in a position to make the trip and remove the bone from it resting places of ages up on ages.

Professors Visit Him

Such men as Dr. E. C. Case, of the University of Michigan, have made frequent trips here to get Mr. Doughty to show them the proper place for their research work. The men at Cornell university, at Yale, Harvard and other large schools, find time to drop around in Post and go out to the Doughty home or to the store, for a conference.

Over in New Mexico, in the Magallon mountains, some years ago, Mr Doughty found in a cave evidences of Indian manufacture of cotton, cloth. He has the cloth in his collection, together with some Indian made baskets and basket dishes that will still hold water. There had been a fire in the cave at one time and one of the baskets was burned more or less. "This cotton is at least 500 years old," said Mr. Doughty. "That shows that the Indians had cotton growing here years before we knew about it." The caves are about 75 to 100 miles west of Silver City, New Mexico.

Finds Corn Grinder

Up on the Yellowhouse ranch Mr. Doughty found an Indian corn grinder that is hundreds of years old. He has several corn grinders. Another item is a quartz glass that is from 1,000 to 2,000 years old.

There are bones of animals that lived in the Triassic period, millions of years ago; bones of an imperator elephant; dinosarus teeth, sections of back bones of huge amphibian animals that lived many millions of years ago. Some of the teeth of the dinosarus were found on Spring creek. Other bones came from the ranches around Post.

Mr. Doughty was born in England, came to Canada as a youth, went into business and then moved across the line into the United States. He was in business in Buffalo and then New York City before coming to Texas. He came to Post from Plainview shortly after Post started and has been here ever since.

Queen Helen Resigned To Her Fate

Choice Is Made Between Humiliation And Departure And Helen Will Lead Life Of Exile Away From Her Boy

LONDON, May 30. (AP)—Queen Helen of Rumania is represented as being reconciled to the fact she soon must leave her adopted country and her 9-year old son, Crown Prince Michael.

She is quoted by an Englishwoman friend here as having said recently in Bucharest that she probably would go into voluntary exile as soon as the new Rumanian parliament is convened. She said she would live either in France or Italy.

"No choice is left me," she said, "as between humiliation and departure. I have chosen the latter—that is to say, I have resigned myself to what had to come sooner or later, I could do nothing.

"My life has been a sad one for years and now I am going out into the dark. There is no key to my fortune. I have lived in enforced retirement for a full year now and I shall live the life of a recluse henceforward.

"My dear boy Michael was unconsolable when I told him what my life is to be. I never saw despair written more deeply on the face of a child. I don't know where or how I shall be seeing him. That is my most profound sorrow."

King Carol, the crown prince, deserted Helen in 1922 for other loves, among whom was the red-headed Mme. Magda Lupescu. After his renunication of his royal rights, she divorced him and led a life of seclusion. He returned to claim the throne in June, 1930, but Helen refused to be reconciled.

Fight On Texas Rule Abandoned

DALLAS, May 30. (AP)—Opposition to the so-called "gin-marriage law" in Texas was abandoned here in the 39th annual convention of the County and District Clerk's Association of Texas.

It was announced that Orville Beale, Tarrant county clerk and leader in the fight against the law, would not press the campaign since the legislature no longer is in session and nothing could be gained at this time.

Collection of fees was one of the principal subjects of discussion today in the separate sessions held by the county and district clerks.

Among speakers at the county clerks' session were: R. L. Jones, Eastland county; C. P. Mounce, Coryell county; Orville Kodle, Tarrant county, and T. S. Smith, Ellis county.

The convention was to close tomorrow with reports, election of officers and selection of the next meeting place.

SIXTY TWO IN CLASS

SHERMAN, May 30. (AP)—Sixty-two young women were graduated today from Kidd-Key college and conservatory of music at the 16th annual commencement. Dr. E. B. Tucker, president of Austin college, addressed the senior class on "Loyalty."

Football attedance in England last season was less than in 1901.

Abandonment Of Posts Scheduled

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—The war department will lay before congress at the next session legislation necessary to permit abandonment of certain army posts.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff has submitted to corps area commanders a plan to take care of troops removed from posts when they are closed. Fifty three stations will be affected by the army's program.

Secretary Hurley today ordered the removal "without delay" of temporary war time structure of no use in army posts in order to eliminate fire hazards and save the expense of further upkeep.

In Canada more than 58,000,000 acres of land are under cultivation.

Proration Is Being Talked

Wirt Franklin Is Victor In First Skirmish With Opponents And Will Present Other Reasons

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30. (AP) Victor in his first skirmish with the opposition, Wirt Franklin has set out to resent more reasons why in his opinion proration in the Oklahoma City oil field should be lifted somewhat and apportioned among four district producing horizons.

Opponents of his plan failed yesterday to gain a continuance of the hearing before the Oklahoma corporation commission. They contended Franklin's plan was revolutionary and discriminatory and asserted they should have more time to study it.

Skelly and Phillips interests and 32 other companies joined in the defeated proposal to delay.

The chief point of difference between Franklin and other companies joined with him and opponents of his plan apparently was in the portion of the oil field from which they drew their production.

Franklin's plan called for sharply curtailed production from the thickly drilled, highly productive north end of the field, where yesterday a 100,000 barrel producer was completed, and an increased percentage of flow from wells in the southern, older sector.

Present allowable is 160,287 barrels daily. Franklin seeks 181,192 barrels daily flow.

A Woman's Working Time

The eight-hour day and the 5½-day week is quite generally established in business. This makes a 44-hour week.

In the home however, recent surveys show that the farm woman works 61½ hours a week. The city dweller is not exactly an idler, either. Her working time is 49½ hours a week.

Almost endless hours of cooking, dishwashing, cleaning, mending, sewing, washing and ironing!

The rest of the time they have to themselves, unless one of the children is ill, or something else develops to upset the customary schedule. Electricity has contributed in no small measure to reducing the working hours of BUSINESS.

It can reduce the working hours in the home as well. Electrical appliances not only cut down the working hours, but make the work more pleasant by relieving you of the heaviest and least pleasant part of the work.

Cut down your working time! You can use it to much better advantage in other ways!

Progressive Texans, Inc., Has Fertile Field, Official Says

District Manager For United States Department Of Commerce Details Plans To Be Carried Out In State

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

AUSTIN, May 30.—In its planned program of developing industry on a statewide scale, Progressive Texans, Inc., has an exceptionally fertile field of work, Ernest L. Tutt, of Houston, district manager for the United States Department of Commerce, declared here today.

Comparing the organization, formed through the cooperative efforts of the state's three regional chambers of commerce, with the New England Council, Tutt said that Progressive Texans, Inc., could perform a task of equal or greater magnitude than that accomplished by the Eastern organization.

"That body," he said, "was responsible for the rebuilding of the textile industry in New England after it had almost completely collapsed several years ago. The work was accomplished through education, advertising and other steps identical with those that Progressive Texans, Inc., is taking.

"You have not the handicaps to work against that the Eastern organization had. With the cooperation and assistance of the business men of Texas which you already have, the efforts of Progressive Texans, Inc., in reducing new industry to come into Texas, and the development of home-established industry can meet with nothing but success.

"Texas is a fertile field for just such an effort as that which Progressive Texans, Inc., is furthering. Here are the natural resources, the materials, cheap fuel, transportation, all the inducements to industry; with them and a strong cooperative plan of development, the program can not help but go forward quickly to completion. When it does, Texas should, with the proper start and a sufficient amount of unified backing by its own people, become an important industrial area."

Tutt took occasion to compliment the organization upon the type and volume of support it is receiving from various industries throughout the state, pointing out that such cooperation is essential to the success of the move. Wholesalers, retailers, manufacturers—the entire range of business, he said, should and does appreciate and support the organization's aggressive move toward greater and sustained prosperity.

Texas Officials Are To Be Tried For Game Violations

The charges were filed several months ago following a dinner given the legislature by the commission.

Charged in the complaints were W. J. Tucker, executive secretary of the commission; Beall Jester, assistant secretary and Clyde Rudisill and Jim Ferguson, game wardens. A fifth complaint named a cold storage plant operator as accomplice.

Cooperation Being Asked With Indian Missionaries

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—The Indian service is asking its superintendents and field workers to cooperate more actively with missionaries on the reservations.

A circular letter will be sent all superintendents suggesting that each call conferences to be attended by missionaries, church workers and employes to "develop lines of cooperative effort which will promote active participation in a common program."

The move was inspired by the board of Indian commissioners, a federal agency independent of the Indian office, which at the same time suggested the mission authorities circularize their representatives in the same manner.

Hearing On Trinity River Project Set For July 23

FORT WORTH, May 30. (AP)—Interests affected by the proposal to make the Trinity river navigable from Fort Worth to the Gulf were invited today by Major Milo P. Cox, United States army engineer, to present oral and written arguments at a hearing here July 23.

The hearing was called in response to a request of the railroad lines in Texas, which are expected to present opposing arguments. Major Fox stated information particularly is desired on the type of river improvement, economics of transportation charges and costs involved, transportation facilities that will be made available at completion of the project, and aid from affected interests that would decrease the cost to the government.

Men Are "Tyrannical"

Cruelty Primary Reason Given In Pleas For Divorce Here; 125 Filed Annually

MAN'S inhumanity to man has a counterpart in man's inhumanity to woman if reasons for granting divorces in Lubbock mean anything. Men of this city are painted as a mighty cruel lot.

Approximately 125 petitions for divorce are filed annually in the district clerk's office here and about three-fourths of these are tried. The large majority of the appeals filed give cruelty as a reason for seeking separation and most divorces are granted on this condition.

"However," according to clerks in the office, "it is probable that cruelty is not the primary reason for many of these separations."

While the majority of the men and women who seek divorces have been married between six months and two years, there are striking exceptions to this rule. One couple, married in 1887, was granted a divorce in 1929 on grounds of cruelty and another couple that had been married for 35 years was given a divorce. Sometimes pairs seek a divorce when they have been married but a few days.

Another Peggy

One lawyer reports that he has sought and obtained five divorces for one woman in Lubbock. She has been married seven times, four times to the same man and each time she obtained a divorce. She is now living with her third husband.

There are at least two cases on record of women being granted divorces from the same man twice in six months.

Couples frequently patch up their troubles and marry again after having been divorced and occasionally a pair meets in the clerk's ofice to file petitions and change their minds after talking things over. All those seeking divorces do not appear in the clerk's office, however, so the clerks have no way o fknowing actual grounds and must judge reasons by those filed there.

Lawyers are of the opinion that incompatibility is a primary reason even though it is seldom mentioned. Most petitions are not contested.

Treatment Is "Tyranical"

The petitions allege cruelty in different forms as a basis for the divorce. Women are sometimes painted as the offenders, as well as the men, and the treatment is described as beating, striking, cursing, abusive language and tyranical treatment.

Sometimes one or the other party is accused of infidelity and sometimes the co-respondent is named. Occasionally the person filing a divorce says that his partner "loves another man" and the separation is sought on that basis. Abandonment and desertion are given sometimes as reasons for the petitions and these are granted when the desertion has extended over a period of three years even though no other reasons are listed.

Occasionally, those who receive divorces are unusually cheerful over the proceedings. One woman sought and obtained her separation after which she was rejoicing at the courthouse that "At last, I am free again!" Occasionally a man and a woman file petitions for divorce simultaneously and say that they want to be free of their present mates in order that they may marry each other. These reasons are not listed in the petitions, however.

Not infrequently those who are granted divorces state that they intend to marry again, even though they may not have any plans at the time.

Frequenters of the courts see few tears over divorce pleadings. Most of those who are granted them seem happy enough over the occasion or are, at least, reticent about expressions of any nature. Whatever tears there are are shed in private.

ST. LOUIS May 30—The St. Louis Cardinals took a lead of a game and a half in the National League race today by winning both ends of a double header from the Cincinnati Reds 12 to 4 and 5 to 4.

The sudden flight of the Redbirds was due partly to a double drubbing administered to the Giants by Brooklyn today. In the first game here the Cardinals pounded Ray Kolp and Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati pitchers for 15 hits.

ROBINS HALT GIANTS

NEW YORK, May 30.—Before 60,000 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a National League double header, the Brooklyn Robins won two games from the Giants today. The Robins took the first 5 to 2 in ten innings, then hammered out an 18 to 8 decision in the second.

In the opener, Carl Hubbell's pitching had the Robins almost stopped up to the ninth inning. Then Bressler's pinch single with two out tied it up and Bissonette clouted a homer with two on base to win. Bissonette also hit a homer in the second game.

Local Body Is Unable To Sell Stock In Club

Efforts To Raise Funds For Beginning Of Activities Face Failure After Three Days Of Selling

For the first time since negotiations were begun more than a week ago a committee of Lubbock business men were not enthusiastic last night over the prospects of bringing a professional baseball club here. The club would be a member of the Panhandle Professional baseball league and would play night baseball entirely according to plans announced by League President J. Alvin Gardner president of the Texas League.

Efforts to sell about half the stock in the club here to local men have met with failure during the past two days and members of the committee who had offered to buy more than one half of the shares themselves faced the problem of purchasing the remaining stock or seeing their hopes fade into oblivion.

Manager Comes Here

Harry Wanderling formerly a power in the Western Association, Western League and one of the organizers of the old West Texas League, was appointed by President Gardner to come to Lubbock and investigate the possibilities of making this city the seat of one of the Panhandle League teams. Wanderling introduced the plans to a body of Lubbock's prominent business and professional men and straightway there was shown an abundance of interest in the idea of playing night baseball here with a professional Class D team.

Several meetings of the men were held and it was decided to form a stock company and sell enough shares to provide finances that would get the club here started. After initial efforts to sell shares to a limited number of men had failed, it was decided to lower the price of shares and leave them upon an open market.

Other Efforts Fail

Again the efforts of the selling committee, which had dwindled in numbers, appeared to fail, and last night it seemed that there was little hope that the club would function here. There is a possibility that the committee will press their efforts again today, this being the deadline for a guarantee fund to be posted with the league officials.

Amarillo, Pampa and Clovis, N. M. are the other towns which propose to comprise the league. It is reported from supposedly authoritative sources that each of the other towns have already raised the funds necessary for the beginning of the league, whose schedule is slated to open June 10. It was reported yesterday that the other three cities were waiting on Lubbock to accept or reject the club before ordering lighting equipment for baseball parks.

Luck Plays Role In Motor Classic; Accident Defeats Billy Arnold

ish, crossing the line 2 1-2 miles ahead of Fred Frame, Los Angeles.

Ralph Hepburn, Los Angeles, was third and Louie Meyer, South Gate, Cal., 1928 winner of the classic, driving for Myron Stevens, Los Angeles, was fourth. Russell Snowberger, Philadelphia finished fifth, with Jimmy Gleason, Philadelphia, sixth, Ernie Triplett, Los Angeles, seventh, W. H. (Stubby) Stubblefield, Los Angeles, eighth; Cliff Berger, Los Angeles, ninth, and Chet Miller, Detroit, tenth.

Seventeen Finish

Seventeen of the original 40 drivers survived the punishing test of speed and driving skill.

Schneider who had been trying to win the Indianapolis classic since 1928 when he made his debut in the event, covered the 500 miles in 5:10:27.54, an average of 96.629 miles an hour. Frame's time was 5:11:11.12. He averager 96.406 miles an hour.

Hepburn finishing third made the perilous 500 mile trip in 5:18:23.35. The others were strung out far in the rear of the first two to finish.

Arnold Wins $8,450

Before the accident forced him out of the race, Arnold had won $8,450 in lap prizes.

The race was interrupted a half dozen times because of drizzling rain during which the drivers rolled around the track at a speed not in excess of 60 miles an hour.

One of the gratifying results of the race was the performance of the oil burning Diesel engine which operates without spark plugs. It was a creation of Clessie Cummins of Columbus, Ind., who built a marine motor and created it into automotive use. The machine finished twelfth in the field of 17 to survive, traveling along at 86.17 miles per hour and did not make a stop during the 500 miles. The cost of oil consumption was approximately $2.40, a staggeringly low cost. The oil burner survived the costly 16-cylinder creations and many of the eights.

No Serious Injuries

The race was marred by half a dozen accidents, but luckily all the drivers with their mechanics escaped serious injury. Harry Butcher, Wilmington, Ill., was the first to crack up, running into a wall early in the race. Fred Winnai, of Philadelphia, Deacon Litz of Dubois, Pa., and Phil Pardee, of Los Angeles, also were in minor smashups, along with Gulotta, Arnold and Johnson.

The wheel that broke loose from Arnold's speeding car flew out of the race enclosure and struck a 12-year-old youngster who was walking along a country highway.

Trojans Win By Nose Over Stanford In Track Classic; East Is Outclassed

Six New Records Are Set In Fast Meet In Philadelphia

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, May 30. (AP)—The Trojans of Southern California answered Stanford's track and field challenge today with a sensational counter-barrage of record performances and won the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships for the second straight year in a dazzlingly close battle for points.

Six record feats were achieved, five of them by Southern California stars, as the Trojans barely beat their Pacific Coast rivals in as brilliant a succession of performances as the classic 55-year old college meet ever has witnessed.

Two Points Difference

Southern California finished with the victorious total of 46 6-7 points. Stanford, giving battle every step and inch of the route, amassed 44 22-36 points. The scramble of fractions and places was so close the outcome was undecided until Bill Graber, Trojan pole vaulter, outdid himself to lead to a new meet record of 14 feet 1-2 inch in the fifteenth and final event of the day.

Graber's record vault was the crowning climax of probably the greatest exhibition ever given by any team that has won this blue ribbon event of inter-collegiate athletic competition.

Vic Williams, slim Trojan racer, struck the most sensational blow for his team's benefit when he turned the tables on the brilliant Stanford sophomore, Ben Eastman, to win the 440-yard run and equal Ted Meredith's 15-year old world record of 47.4 seconds.

Records Assaulted

From there on Southern California's stars conducted a wholesale assault on records. Frank Wykoff whipped Eddie Tolan by inches in the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds to equal his own meet record; Dick Barber leaped to a new I. C. A. A. A. A. broad jump mark of 25 feet, 3 1-2 inches; and Ernie Payne, in the 220-yard low hurdles, raced to victory in 23.6 seconds, equalling the meet record first set in 1898 by the late A. C. Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania.

All told the athletes coached by Dean Cromwell romped off with six first places and scored points in 10 of the 15 events. It was not only the Trojan's second straight victory in the team championship but their fourth in seven years. They won previously in 1925, 1926 and 1930.

Stanford Handicapped

Stanford, handicapped severely by the loss of two brilliant performers in Hec Dyer in the springs and Captain Podge Smith in the hurdles, nevertheless gave Southern California a sensational battle in a meet that again saw the east outclassed for the tenth time in 11 years.

Stanford tallied in 11 events, ran up a heavy total in the weights and had the satisfaction of seeing their youthful middle star, Eastman, come back gallantly to capture the 880-yard run after barely being beaten by Williams by a two-yard margin in the world's record-equalling 440.

West Leads Parade

All the record laurels, as well as most of the points, went to the far west. The only record stunt not accounted for by Southern California went to the credit of Kenneth Churchill, University of California, in the javelin. He made a "show" of his field by tossing the spear 220 feet, 11 1-4 inches, surpassing his own I. C. A. A. A. A. record by more than eight feet and registering the best javelin toss ever made in a college championship meet.

Pennsylvania, due mainly to the mighty efforts of Barney Berlinger, finished a distant third, with 21 points, as the Quakers showed the way to the rest of the eastern talent. Berlinger, in his farewell to intercollegiate competition, finished second in the pole vault with 13 feet, 8 inches, the best he has ever done outdoors; scored second place in the javelin with a final throw of 193 feet, 4 1-2 inches, and was fifth in the shot put with 47 feet, 9 3-8 inches.

Cornell Is Fourth

Cornell finished a close fourth with 19 2-5 points, and Harvard took fifth place with 15 3-7 points, due chiefly to "Red" Record's brilliant victory in the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.6 seconds and Pen Hallowell's triumph in the mile, where he staged a thrilling finish to beat Carl Coan of Pennsylvania, Arthur Martin of Cornell and George Bullwinkle of C. C. N. Y., the 1930 winner. Yale was sixth with 13 22-35 points, gaining its only individual winner when Frank Conner retained his title in the hammer throw.

Michigan's total of nine points, for seventh place, were contributed entirely by the negro sprint flash, Eddie Tolan. He came with a rush in the "100" that almost caught Wykoff, the defending champion, and then romped off with the 220-yard dash in 21.1 seconds, beating Al Hables of Stanford by five yards.

Gus Mancuso, Cardinal catcher, studied dancing last winter in an effort to improve his footwork behind the plate.

Arizona-Texas League May Fail; President Resigns

TUCSON, Ariz., May 30 (AP)—The Arizona-Texas baseball league a class D circuit today was less than $20 short of going on the rocks financially and its president, Wilfor Sullinger, has tendered his resignation.

A meeting was called here tomorrow in an effort to save the six club circuit.

"We have less than $20 on hand," Sullinger said, "and the salaries of the umpires have not been paid for some time. There isn't enough money on hand to pay traveling expenses when the umpires change assignments after Sunday's games.

"Under no circumstances will I consent to remain in office. I'm no collector. If money owed by Globe and Tucson was paid, the league could tide over until the next assessments are due."

Earlier, Frank X. Shields, New York, easily defeated the giant Ronaldo Boyd 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Texas Golf Luminaries Ready For Title Play

Stars Gather At Dallas To Hold Tourney

Big Shots Of Links Face Big Field And Tough Going; To Open Qualifying Rounds On Tuesday At Brook Hollow

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, May 30. (AP)—Golf, as stroked by a polished stylist like Willie Cutter Hunt of Houston, and as a chance-taking battle of the fairways as played by Bud McKinney, Del Rio, will be featured at the Brook Hollow Country club here from June 2 to 6 when Texas' finest shot makers gather for their twenty-fifth Texas Golf association state championship.

Last May at River Oaks Country club, Houston, where Willie C. Hunt's 73-75—148 gave him medalist and his one up victory over Gaston Peek, Galveston, gave him the 1930 state crown, only 96 entries left the starting tee. The field this year is expected to be near 140 and will carry some of the biggest golf names in the state.

Qualify On Tuesday

While a medal score of 167 was good enough to qualify last year, tournament directors predict that a card as low as 163 will be presented to make the title flight this week. Eighteen holes of the qualifying test will be played Tuesday, and then the remaining eighteen holes Wednesday. The thirty-two low shooters will form the championship flight and start match play Thursday of 18 holes each until the finals which will be 36-holes. Brook Hollow is a difficult par out 35, par in 35—70 course.

It is a course with long, winding fairways, water holes, several dog-legs and well trapped greens.

Playing to stage a comeback this year over his favorite course will be Dennis Lavender, who in 1929 won the state championship at Brook Hollow by defeating Lanham Connor, Dallas, 2 and 1. Lavender, formerly of Abilene, is now a student at Southern Methodist university.

Hunt To Be There

Willie Hunt, Houston veteran, who played in a steady rain to lead the field last year at Houston, will be here to defend his title.

Gaston Peek, who carried Willie Hunt to the thirty-sixth hole last year arrived here Friday and played two rounds at Brook Hollow.

Bud McKinney, the former caddy who eliminated Dennis Lavender in the first round last year 2 and 1, will represent Del Rio Country club.

Glen Crisman, 1925 Southern champion, will also be among the contenders.

O'Hara Looks Good

A new entry to this year's tournament will be O'Hara Watts, Southwest conference champion from Southern Methodist university. Watts, a long hitter off tee and deadly putter, is expected to go far.

Houston, Galveston and Dallas led in championship qualifiers last year, but Waco, Fort Worth and San Antonio are expected to place several in the title brackets this year along with any number of smaller Texas cities. Some of the outstanding players who have yet to win the state crown, but are in the field of favorites this year are Gus Morland, Dallas; W. F. McGonagil, Dallas; Leonard Atwell, Houston; Lanham Connor, Dallas; Jack Dold, Houston; Glen Crisman, Orange; Dick Gregg, Austin; A. K. Barbee, Waco; Gaston Peek, Galveston; Bud McKinney and Hill Cocke, Del Rio; Jimmy Phillips, Ranger, and C. V. Lyman, Breckenridge.

Former champions who will probably seek another title include Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls; George Rotan, Houston; C. L. Dexter, Dallas; Dennis Lavender, Dallas; O. S. Carlton, jr., Houston.

Willie McGuire, Houston Country club professional will be the official tournament starter.

ROVING THE SPORTS WORLD

WITH COLLIER PARRIS
AVALANCHE-JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

Henry Frnka is back in town for a few days before transporting himself, family and household goods permanently to Greenville, where he is head coach of all athletics at the high school there.

Frnka arrived Friday. He had been in Greenville about three weeks, getting things in shape for the 1931 football campaign in District 8. He had other things to do besides teaching a few fundamentals of his style of coaching and inviting all the boys to be back in school next fall. He found half a dozen or more of his potential stars lagging in school work, and on the verge of failure.

The former Lubbock Westerner mentor tells us he was about ready to turn around and bolt for parts unknown when he discovered the scholastic standings of some of the football players, but he got busy, talked with them and pleaded with them, threatened and challenged, and when he left Greenville not a football player was on the ineligible list. If they stay away from summer school and start in right next fall Frnka thinks they will have a nice chance to win the district title. But he didn't tell that to anybody at Greenville.

We haven't heard from Weldon Chapman, Lubbock High's new coach, who returned to Cisco to finish out the school year, but we expect to see him here within the next few days. He left here a month ago with the intention of returning early in June for chats with the Westerners of 1931.

Letters continue to pour into the office of Pete Cawthon in regard to the coaching school here next August. The Matador mentor and his staff are doing some fine work in advertising the school and at the same time in advertising Lubbock. Lubbock should take this thing seriously, for it means as much as almost any convention ever held. Cawthon does not hazard a guess at the number of coaches who will be here for the two weeks' school but it is highly probable that the enrollment will approach the thousand mark. The school here is the only one slated in the entire southwest for this summer and wide publicity is being given it. It will be no local affair, not by any means, for letters have been received from about as far away as you please from coaches who plan to be here to partake of the food for thought expounded by Jimmy Phelan and Wallace Wade.

Recent announcements that S. D. "Sad Sam" Burton of West Texas Teachers college and Jimmie Kitts of Athens High school would be here to conduct courses in basketball theory and practice have added to the attractiveness of the coaching school card, and many basketball coaches are expected to be here for that feature alone. No additional cost is attached to this feature, the tuition for everything being $25 per student.

Jerry Balin of the Amarillo papers rumors that Burton, popular cage coach of the pennant-winning Canyon Buffs, is being considered as a successor to Fred Walker as head basketball coach at the University of Texas. Jerry hears it from Austin and from Prexy Anderson's broadcast at Abilene. Neither Jerry nor Prexy believe Burton would consider the job, and we agree with the Abilene scribe that Sad Sam would be foolish to accept the job without having experienced ten years in politics.

The man who accepts a position on the coaching staff of the University without having dabbled in politics is either a fool or a newcomer, as they say about the man who predicts weather changes in West Texas. Conditions in the papa institution's athletic department are very unstable at present, and they will be that way until some of the higher ups change their ways of thinking and acting or their position and location. The outright "canning" of Fred Walker, one of the best basketball coaches in this section, bar none, was, in our humble opinion, a blot on the ledger that cannot be wiped out until some of the other names on the sheet are erased. The author of this poetry has lived in rather close proximity to the conditions at Austin and feels somewhat qualified to speak his piece.

But conditions at the University of Texas, which is a great and rising institution, have nothing to do with the interest centered on the coming of Sam Burton to Lubbock to direct a few courses in basketball instruction, which is what we started out to talk about, with all respects to the kind old college professor who taught us English.

There is another letter which should be recognized. It is one of a number which have come to members of the Lubbock Country club since the playing of the West Texas Golf association tournament here last week. This one is from Charles A. Quails of Post, who won the championship by defeating Bobby Burns of Wichita Falls, and is addressed to Ross McWhorter, one of the tournament directors.

Dear Ross

Please allow me to express my heartiest appreciations to you, your fellow members and the Lubbock Country club for the loyal support given me during the West Texas matches, for I shall never have any greater support from any town or club.

I want to express to your club that I have never attended a better, more uniform tournament in Texas, and we are proud of the fact that Lubbock has upheld its reprehensible name as the entertaining city of the West. It was fine to hear those visiting golfers referring to your club and its members as the best bunch they had ever had the pleasure of paying a visit. It is impossible for me to name any one member as the outstanding example of your club, for any visiting golfer had only to name his desire to receive his every want or need.

Sincerely yours,
CHAS. A. QUAILS.

France's Men Tennis Players Keep 'Scutcheon Clean With Little To Go; Illness Of Henri Cochet Hurts

AUTEUIL, France, May 30. (AP)—Once more, although this time against more moderate opposition, France has kept its men's singles tennis championship away from the foreign challengers.

In all the history of the French championships, no foreigner has been able to break through and win the singles crown. Tomorrow Jean Borotra, the only physically able member of France's "Three Musketeers," will play Christian Boussus, one of the rising youngsters, in the final round for the championship Henri Cochet could not defend because of illness.

Freshman Beaten

Boussus defeated G. P. Hughes, the Irishman who eliminated George Lott yesterday, in five sets of one semi-final, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, while Borotra had a bit more strenuous time beating Jiro Satoh 10-8, 2-6, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Betty Nuthall, England, will play Fraulein Cilli Aussem, of Germany, in the final for the French title. Fraulein Aussem defeated Senorita Elia de Alvarez, of Spain, 6-0, 7-5 today as Miss Nuthall easily disposed of Hilda Krawinkel, another German girl, 6-1, 6-2.

Clarance Bledsoe and Merle Hufford, two football halfbacks, are the fastest dash men on the University of Washington track team.

Ladies Get In Free As Rival Nines Open Play At Merrill Park At 3:30: May Be Last Tilt For Local Team

The Lubbock Hubbers will meet the Lamesa Loboes in a baseball game this afternoon at Merrill Park. The game, starting at 3:30, will be the fourth between the clubs this season and the sixth for the Hubbers.

Ladies will be admitted free to the park this afternoon to see what may be the final appearance at home of the Hubbers this season. In the event Lubbock becomes a member of the Panhandle Professional Baseball league, the Hubber management announces that the club will disband following return games at Amarillo and Amherst.

Has Winning Mark

The Hubbers, organized as an independent amateur ball club two weeks ago, have won three and lost two of five games played, dividing the opening series here with Lamesa, and winning over Amarillo and Amherst respectively in games here last week. A large crowd turned out last Sunday to see the Hubbers and Gib Jackson's Amarillo Aviators play twelve innings for a Lubbock 11 to 10 victory.

Old rivalry will prevail in the ranks and minds of the Hubbers and Loboes this afternoon, although the clubs are not identically the same which have faced each other in previous years. Lubbock-Lamesa games have always been strong drawing cards and today's should prove no exception.

Baze Will Pitch

Manager "Dirty" Waller said yesterday that Baze, a right hander who made his debut last Wednesday with the Hubbers to defeat Amherst, may hurl for the locals again today. Pressley, another north paw, will be held in reserve. Galey will probably catch and the rest of the lineup will be the same as used in previous games, with possible changes at second base and short stop.

Rose is expected to pitch for Lamesa with Peterson backing him up. The rest of the Hubber lineup, so far as could be learned last night, will consist of Morgan or Bettes at first, Hodges or Breedlove at second, Gaither at third, France or Hambright at short, and Marshall, Brothers and Hambright or Waller in the outfield.

Widener's Jamestown Wins Withers Mile At Belmont

NEW YORK, May 30. (AP)—A great juvenile champion stamped himself as real contender for the three-year-old title as George D. Widener's Jamestown easily outran a field of seven crack colts in the fifty-sixth running the Witchers mile at Belmont Park today.

Speeding over the Belmont track in the fast time of 1.36 3-5, the long striding son of St. James, winner of six of his seven starts as a two-year-old, send out a mighty challenge to Twenty Grand, Kentucky Derby victor. The pair will settle the three-year-old battle two weeks hence when they meet in the Belmont Stakes at one and one-half miles.

Wichita Falls Entry Passes Homer Peel With .390 Mark

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 30.—The pace-setters for the pace-setting Philadelphia Athletics—Al Simmons and Mickey Cochrone.

Although their average fell off 20 points during the sixth week of the American League championship campaign, Al Simmons, Connie Mack's siege-gun outfielder, continued as the batting leader of the junior circuit, with a mark of .416, and his teammate, Mickey Cochrane was right on his heels with .407, according to unofficial figures which include Wednesday's games.

Cochrane's mark represented a lusty gain of 51 points and his drive from ninth to second position also included a jump into the run-scoring leadership. He crossed hostile plates 12 times to boost his total to 33, one more than Simmons had. Other regulars in the first ten were: Ruth, New York, .396; Wothergill, Chicago, .371; Averill, Cleveland, .370; Cronin, Washington, .354; Morgan, Cleveland, .354; Vosmik, Cleveland, .352; Fonseca, Cleveland-Chicago, .345; Webb, Boston, .348; L. Sewell, Cleveland, .343.

Al Leads In Homers

In addition to heading the batting list, Simmons was the lead man in home runs and total bases. He had nine round-trip clouts, and his total base collection amounted to 102. Joe Cronin of Washington, had six triples, and had batted in the most runs—41—while Earl Webb of Boston led in doubles with 22. Roy Johnson of Detroit, was the best base-stealer, with 11 to his credit.

Six batsmen, in the select group helped Cleveland to retain the lead in team batting with a mark of .311, three points better than a week ago. Washington lost two points from its collective average, but remained in second place with .296. The Athletics continued to field for .986, and New York was second with a mark of .976. Detroit contrived 10 more double plays during the week and was far ahead of the field with 43.

Walberg Shines

Consistent with the performances in other departments, a Philadelphia hurler—Rube Walberg—topped the regulars. The comeback southpaw added another decision during the week and had a record of seven victories and one defeat. Right behind him was Robert Moses Grove, with six triumphs and one defeat, Grove continued as the leading strike-out artist having cut down 46 batsmen in 11 games.

Hornsby Is Runner-Up In National League Hitting

NEW YORK, May 30. (AP)—Buzz Artlett of Philadelphia, and Rogers Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs, have gained almost a monopoly on the National League's batting honors. Artlett's teammate, Chuck Klein, is the only other player who breaks into the limelight of the current records, which include Wednesday's games.

Artlett leads the regulars with a mark of .378 and Hornsby is second with .374. The Philadelphia recruit also is ahead in hits, with a total of 51, in homers with ten, and in runs batter in with 37. He also has scored 26 runs and hit ten doubles and three triples to place well up in those lists. Hornsby is first in doubles with 15 and second only to Klein in scoring with 31 runs. Klein has scored 38 runs, nine of them on homers.

Orsatti Does Well

Red Worthington of Boston leads the three-base hitters with seven while Ernie Orsatti of St. Louis is second with five. Babe Herman, Brooklyn, and Virgil Davis and Dick Bartell, Philadelphia, have hit 12 doubles apiece for second place. Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh has stolen the most bases—seven.

"Old Hoss" Riggs Stephenson of Chicago has climbed to third place in the batting averages at .351 followed by Worthington at .343 and Wally Roettger of Cincinnati, last week's leader, at .342. Then, among the regulars come Vergez, New York, .336; Critz, New York, .331; P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .329; Whitney, Philadelphia, .326 and Bottomley, St. Louis, .327.

Chicago's Cubs have compiled an even .300 batting average as a club to hold first lace and the New York Giants have displaced Boston from the fielding lead with a .975 mark.

Among the pitchers, Ed Brandt of Boston goes serenely on winning games while his various rivals suffer setbacks and now has the undisputed lead with seven victories to his credit and no defeats. Sugar Sweetland of Chicago and Paul Derringer of St. Louis also are unbeaten, each with three victories.

Optimism Voiced In Hoover Speech

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., May 30. (AP)—President Hoover told a vast Memorial Day crowd here today that the nation would find its way out of its economic difficulties through the same resourcefulness and steadfastness which carried Washington and his troops through the bitter winter of 1777.

With a blazing sun beating down on him, Mr. Hoover spoke with earnestness and feeling as he likened the country's present economic depression to another Valley Forge.

"If those few thousand men endured that long winter of privation and suffering, humiliated by the despair of their countrymen, and deprived of support save their indomitable will, yet held their countrymen to the faith, and of that holding held fast the freedom of America, what right have we to complain?" he questioned. "God grant that we may prove worthy of George Washington and his men of Valley Forge."

The great crowd, spread out before him on a natural hillside amphitheatre, cheered vigorously as he declared that the source of all wisdom was not in government but in the people and that the common sense of the common people would meet the challenge of these times of stress and trial.

Characterizing Washington's experiences at Valley Forge as the "most glorious moment" of the war for independence, Mr. Hoover declared that "we are still fighting this war of independence."

The fight now, he said, was against the deadening influences of government and for the preservation of the initiative and resourcefulness which has become a tradition of the American people.

Although sirens still sing the song of the easy way out, he added, the memory of Americans who fought at Valley Forge all "tell us the truth for which our ancesters fought and suffered, the truth which echoes upward from this soil of blood and tears, that the way to the nation's greatness is the path of self reliance and steadfastness in times of trial and stress."

An hour was spent after the conclusion of his speech here inspecting the rolling country around Valley Forge. It is now preserved as a sate park and the president officially was the guest of the park commission on his visit.

Dressed in formal morning wear the president suffered from heat during his address. Perspiration formed on his forehead and ran down his face.

A number of persons were overcome in the sweltering heat and received attention from the emergency medical corp on the camp ground.

At the conclusion of the speech the crowd called for Mrs. Hoover who came to the front of the highly decorated speakers' platform to receive an ovation to which she responded with a wave of her hand.

The crowd itself was a striking sight, with many of the men in their shirt sleeves and hundreds of women carrying sunshades reflecting all the colors in the rainbow. On the inspection trip hundreds of picknickers crowded to the roadside to cheer the party as it passed.

Planes Roar In Tribute To Dead

WASHINGTON, May 30. (AP)—The roar of a giant fleet of airplanes above and the boom and blare of drum corps and bands below today gave a martial touch to the capital's homage to its warrior dead.

All day, processions and pilgrimages centered on national shrines and cemeteries where the soldiers are buried. Arlington cemetery became a flower field of poppies and roses.

All Nations In Memorial Service

(By Associated Press)

A nation turned yesterday to honor in death the men who fought its wars.

So general was the observance that every patriotic element had a part in it. Yet it was more than a narrowly national occasion, for wherever a knot of Americans gathered abroad there was a recognition of Memorial day and its meaning.

President Hoover, speaking at Valley Forge, said: "The American people are going through another Valley Forge at this time." But, he added, no one "can doubt that this, like a score of similar experiences in our national history, is but a passing trial."

At Gettysburg, a shrine of the Civil war, Vice President Curtis called for a rededication to the principles of the constitution.

In Washington, the army's air fleet whirled over head during the ceremonies at Arlington cemetery. In New York 23,000 marched up Riverside Drive to the swing of martial airs.

Abroad there were formal ceremonies in France, Belgium, England, Greece, and Poland. Ambassador Edge, speaking at Suresnes cemetery near Paris, hailed the friendship "twice sealed in the blood of heroes" between France and the United States.

The touring American mayors and Gold Star mothers attended ceremonies at Belleau Wood, and at Cherbourg flags were placed on the graves of four American sailors killed during the battle between the Kearsage and the Confederate raider, Alabama, during the Civil war.

Flags of both nations were placed over the graves of 600 American soldiers buried in England, and in Belgium Americans paid a visit to the cemetery where nearly 400 Americans are buried.

Aboard the liner President Roosevelt bound for Europe, 218 Gold Star mothers participated in services. A floral piece was put overboard, colors lowered, taps sounded, and two hymns sung.

Tom A. White and J. H. Hankins, both of Lubbock, responded to invitations to speak. After congratulating postoffice employes on their work, the Lubbock men spoke on good roads, predicting that Texas will pass a state highway bond issue and counties which had voted good road projects would profit by the state move.

A question-box discussion was led by W. E. Suddarth of Tahoka in the afternoon. Doctor Horn spoke in the afternoon, Duggan having addressed the delegates in the morning.

Four delegates made short talks on their parts in eliminating irregularities at respective postoffices.

The program included music at both sessions. Mrs. Carl Scoggins of Lubbock sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Mamie Neal of Lubbock. G. A. Meiser of Lubbock sang, Ray Stephenson of Lubbock being accompanying pianist. Both numbers were on the morning program.

At the afternoon session, an accordian solo was played by Miss Glidwell Mullins of Lubbock. She was accompanied by Miss Louia Denham of Lubbock, at the piano.

The chamber of commerce was host to the delegates at a Dutch luncheon between sessions.

Sacred Spring Of Catholics Runs On

Famous Legend Surrounds Pool Located At Nacogdoches In Which Father Margil Years Ago Quenched His Thirst

NACOGDOCHES, May 31. (AP)—The famous legendary spring of Father Margil is located here on the bank of the La Nana creek. A long time ago sacred water used at the Catholic church was taken from the spring.

The legend is that in the sixteenth century, long before any mission post was established in what is now the state of Texas, Father Margil, a devout Franciscan missionary and several companion priests set out from Queretereo, Mexico, to visit the interior of the province of Texas and get data on the establishment of missions in the future. They traversed the entire province from east to west and when they reached the site on which Nacogdoches was established a century later they were about famished for they had neither provisions nor water. It was in mid-summer and all the streams were dry.

The legend says the companions of Father Margil fainted through sheer weakness on the bank of the LaNana creek when it was found that the stream was as dry as a bone.

Father Margil, alone, followed the dry bed of the creek for some distance and then knelt in the dry sand to offer prayer for deliverance. As he prayed there came to his ears unmistakable sounds of water falling over a precipice. Thinking it a hallucination he kept on praying, but the noise of the water kept reaching his ears.

On completing his prayer and looking towards the wall of rock or bank of the creek he saw a tiny stream of water flowing from the rock into the dry bed of the creek. He quaffed a good drink and then filling a cup which dangled from his belt, he hastened back and moistened the lips of his companions. Finally he roused them to where they could get to the spring, where they soon gained sufficient strength to eat and where they remained several days.

Recognizing the spring as a special act of providence, Father Margil blessed it and passed on his way. Through all the years until this hour, the Holy Spring of Father Margil has held an important place in local history at this place.

Preparations Are Underway For An Annual Mexican Affair Rarely Ever Witnessed By Any American Groups

BROWNSVILLE, May 29. (AP)—On the coast in Mexico about 100 miles south of here preparations are being made for an annual affair which furnished one of the most unusual attractions in that republic, with the principal actors yet to come upon the scene.

This is the annual "swarming" of turtles from the sea onto the beach there to lay their eggs.

The enemies of the turtles are assembling.

Mexicans who sell the eggs are camping on the beach. Coyotes which eat the eggs are moving toward the coast. Vultures are assembling to swoop down.

Wait For Tide and Moon

But the main actors, oblivious of these preparations, and always indifferent to them, are waiting for the proper tide and moon, when they will gather in such countless numbers as to resemble a solid beach, miles long, of moving turtles for two or three days.

Only a few Americans have ever witnessed the scene.

The turtles pick the spot because it has reefs of rock along the edge of the water, where the little turtles may rush to safety from the fish, if they are lucky enough to get to the water alive.

The scene was described by a local man who witnessed it two years ago. He said the turtles come out and lay their eggs the latter part of May, or in June.

Came In Droves

They come in such droves, as to cover the beach, with their shells clicking against each other. There is a continuous clicking noise as the vast army of turtles move about on the beach. The turtles are from one to two feet in diameter.

They are so thick when they come out that the Mexican egg hunters frequently walk along on their backs without touching the ground and the turtles pay no attention to them.

The turtles come out of the water, crawl along the beach until they find a suitable place, dig a hole in the sand, sit in this hole, and deposit from 60 to 75 eggs.

Then the turtles carefully cover this nest with sand, and conceal it by scratching up the surface of the sand surrounding it for a number of feet.

Succeed In Egg Hiding

There are so many thousands of turtles that no matter how many coyotes, egg-hunter humans, and vultures there are around the turtle succeeds in hiding enough of its eggs to increase its species.

As soon as the first turtle lays its eggs the fight is on. The Mexican egg-hunters start digging, carefully so as not to break the valuable eggs. They rush them to Mexico City, Monterrey, and other cities of Mexico where the eggs bring high prices as a delicacy on the menus of the leading restaurants and dining rooms.

The coyotes start digging, and get fat on eggs for weeks after the turtles are through laying them.

The vultures swoop down and grab a few eggs, frequently almost fighting with the coyotes over them.

Slip Back Into Sea

The turtles slip back into the sea quickly.

The animal and bird egg-hunters stay on the job during the 21 days that it takes for the sun and sand to hatch the eggs. The human egg hunters leave a day or two after the turtles begin popping out of the ground in countless thousands. They come in tens where the big turtles came in units. As soon as they are out of the ground, they scramble for the water as fast as their tiny legs can drag them across the sand.

After them come the vultures, and the coyotes and again they wax fat on the turtle fare.

Another fight for life comes when the young turtles reach the water.

There a fourth kind of enemy to the survival of the turtles—the fish—is waiting.

There is a scramble and rush for the reefs as soon as the little turtles strike the water. There they are safe. They can feed on passing small particles of food until their shell hardens, then they can swim out, free turtles, with few enemies in the sea which can hurt them except parasites and members of their own kind.

WHITES OF EGGS

Two Important Cases Are Set Before Courts

Sherman Riot Cases And Forgery Counts Against John Bowen, Of Dallas, To Open In Austin Monday

AUSTIN, May 30. (AP)—Two cases of statewide note are scheduled to be called for trial here Monday. They are the first of the Sherman riot cases and the forgery counts against John W. Bowen, Dallas investment man.

Indications were that the Sherman riot charges would be called first. If they should go to trial, that would force a postponement of the Bowen case until the last of June or later.

Jeff "Slim" Jones will be the first of the alleged Sherman rioters to be called to trial. J. B. McCasland is the other alleged member of the Sherman mob scheduled for trial this term.

The cases grew out of the rioting at Sherman May 9, 1930. Foiled in its effort to lynch the negro attacker of a white woman, the mob burned the courthouse. The negro died in the fire.

The mob dragged the negro's body through the streets and hanged it to a cottonwood tree. Several business houses in the negro district were burned. National guardsmen were attacked with pop bottles and other missiles. Sherman was under martial law for several days.

The 71 cases against 14 defendants were transferred to Dallas but Judge Charles A. Pippen was unable to get a jury. Too many veniremen said they would not assess a prison sentence even though convinced the man on trial was a member of the mob. Judge Pippen moved the cases to Austin.

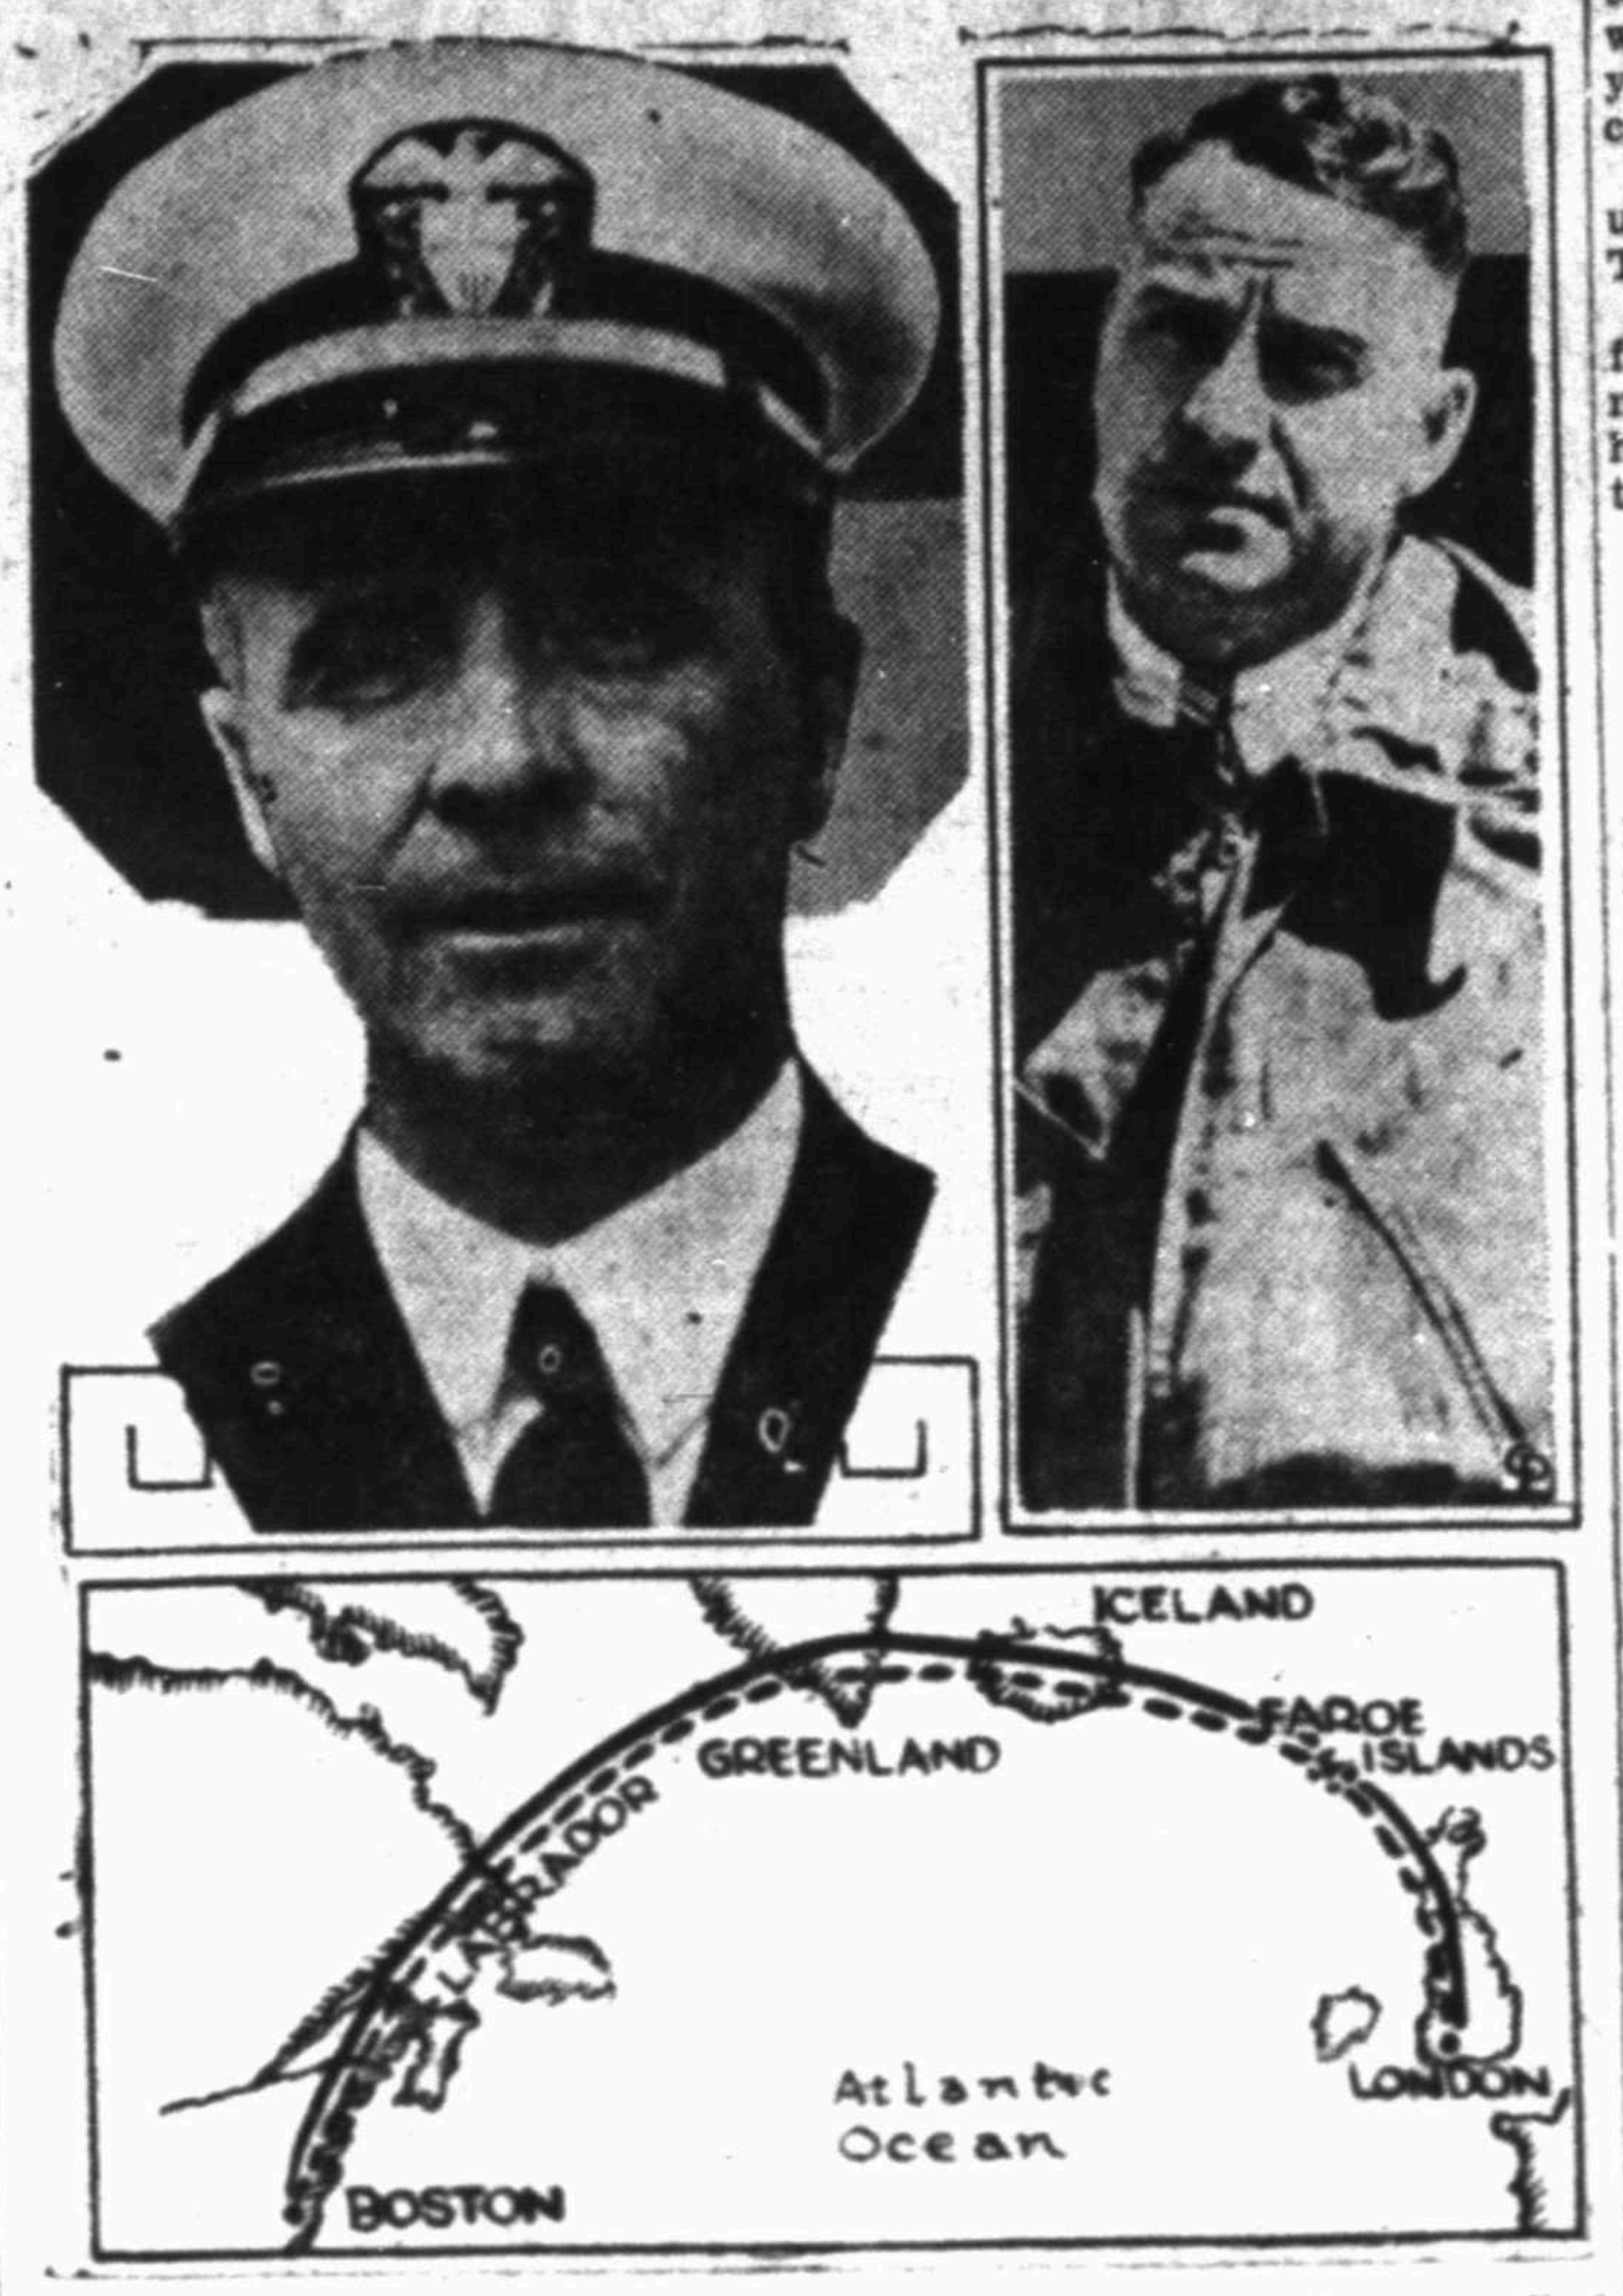
Only the regular venire of 100 men has been summoned for Monday. More than 200 witnesses have been subpoenaed.

The charges include arson, burglary by explosion to commit arson, riot with intent to commit murder, and rioting.

About 100 witnesses had been subpoenaed for the Bowen trial. Bowen was charged after the state had started its investigation of alleged witness fee script forgeries. He was arrested in connection with alleged forgeries in Dallas county. He was indicted on nine counts and released under $13,000 bail.

Both cases are in the court of J. D. Moore, district judge.

To Hunt Lost Flyers On Sea Hop



Commander Donald B. MacMillan, veteran Arctic explorer, hopes to find trace of the two Frenchmen, Capt. Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, who were lost trying to fly from Paris to New York, in 1927, when he hops off on his projected flight from Boston to London and return, this summer. He also will attempt to demonstrate the feasibility of airplane travel between the United States and Europe over a route across Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and the Faroe Islands. Commander MacMillan, left, will have Charles F. Rocheville of Los Angeles, right, as his pilot. Map indicates their prospective route.

L. D. Phagon of Lubbock yesterday was charged with wife desertion in a complaint filed in county court. His bond was set at $300 by County Judge E. L. Pitts.

Phagon was arrested by city police when one of the man's relatives charged him with abusing his small son.

The complaint yesterday was the first charging wife desertion to be filed in county court for almost two years. The state court of criminal appeals recently held that the statute making wife desertion a felony was not legal, because the new law failed to set aside the misdemeanor provisions.

day and to return hurriedly to the Hotel Transatlantique because the girl members of her "gang" began to break down under the strain.

Anne Boleyn, one of the "gang," became hysterical and ran out of the hotel when a newspaperman attempted to question her. A member of the troupe brought her back, but other members then began to shed tears, wailing:

"We'll never get to Paris! I want to go home!"

Tex herself said that she had not yet given up hope of reaching Paris.

"There are lots of strings to my bow yet," she said. "I am not licked. Channing Polick, the author, offered me the use of his house while I was in Paris. His secretary telephoned today asking when I would come. I told him 'I can't say yet. I will draw a couple of more cards first'."

The calmer members of the party unanimously declared: "We'll bet on Tex. She'll get us to Paris yet."

Tex said she was awaiting a call from her manager, John Stein, who now is in Paris, to learn whether he had gained permission for her to go there to plead her own case.

ler had told him he would be given immunity if he testified.

Hassell said he was 36 years old. He told of his early life and of being in business here and elsewhere. He said he discussed the plan for the kidnaping with Caldwell and procured the typewriter with which Caldwell wrote a note to Cerf's father.

Trip Detailed

He detailed the trip to Dallas with Cerf and the imprisonment of the kidnaped man in an apartment there. He told of later going to Ardmore, Oklahoma City, Dallas, Tyler, Corsicana, Athens, San Antonio, Mercedes, and Mexico. He denied emphatically that Cerf had any previous knowledge of the plot to kidnap him. He said that Jimmie Nash and Oliver Clapp were both masked on the night of the kidnaping.

Depense Attorney Norris Levett closely cross examined him. Hassell admitted that if the ransom money had not been paid Cerf would have been released unharmed.

Tatum Area Is Developing Its Irrigation

Shallow Water Territory Is Getting Much Attention As Land Owners Plan To Make It Into Garden Spot

(By Staff Correspondent)

TATUM, N. M., May 30.—Eight irrigation wells have been completed in Tatum's shallowater district in the northern section of Lea county and two more are to be started right away, says E. J. Fox, pioneer resident of the county, who has one of the wells on his farm north of town.

"We have been irrigating an acre or two for 20 years, but last year was the first year we did any work along commercial lines," said Mr. Fox, A. G. Green, T. A. Clay and myself are planning to raise Bermuda onions this year.

Set Out Onion Plants

"The three of us have about 15 acres of onion plants set out. It takes about 60,000 plants to an acre. We will have over a million plants this year."

A. C. Samford and J. P. Taylor have started drilling wells on their farms. T. A. Clay has completed recently a 400 gallon per minute well; J. R. Whitely one of the same size and Roy Crandell another one.

Most of the wells drilled in this area are from 95 to 105 feet deep, the latter being the preferred depth. This is the third water bearing sand and is found at that depth. The first sand is found at from 20 to 25 feet, and the second at from 60 to 65 feet. The first two sands are five feet thick.

Water Rises In Hole

"Water rises in the wells to from 15 to 20 feet from the top of the hole, or about the first sand," Mr. Fox explained. "When shallow wells are used, generally the first and second sands, the pumps can do about 400 gallons a minute.

"Only with wells that are in the third sand do we get the big production of 1,000 gallons a minute or more. Any well that has over 500 gallons a minute must be drilled down to the third sand."

There is a fourth sand, found at from 185 to 210 feet, but it is hard to ease off. Logs of oil wells in the northern part of the county show that the depths are fairly standard throughout the county, according to Mr. Fox.

Covers 800,000 Acres

Lea county's shallow water area covers approximately 800,000 acres according to the survey made by S. Spencer Nye for the U. S. Geological survey. Nearly 40 townships are involved in the area, but not all of these have water this is deposited less than 50 feet below the surface.

Water seems to flow from a point near Caprock, on the edge of the caprock, in a southeasterly direction, with the higher strata to be found in the north part of the county. The shallow area extends south of Hobbs and almost to the southern edge of the county.

Shallow water in Yoakum and Gaines counties, Texas, is a part of this area.

Tests were made in 100 wells to ascertain the depth of the sands and the flow of water.

Cone Johnson Talks Of Race

Expresses Confidence Democrats Can Elect President If Battle Is Waged On Economic Issues

DALLAS, May 30.—(AP)—Cone Johnson of Tyler, member of the state highway commission and veteran of many Texas political campaigns, expressed confidence here that the Democrats can elect a president next year if the battle is waged on the economic issue.

He said prohibition "is not, and never was, a political issue." Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, defeated in 1928 and against whom Mr. Johnson worked, would not have a "Chinaman's chance" in 1932, the leader said.

He gave it as his opinion that the Democratic party's platform should be silent on prohibition.

"This is no time, when we are starving for bread, to talk about liquor," Mr. Johnson stated.

"We need a man who can carry out as well as make promises. We need a crusader like Dan Moody (former governor), who can rouse the people and make them shout: 'that's the gospel truth,' when he speaks to them."

He said President Hoover was a good engineer, a good executive and "clean and honest," but that he "lacks the personality and the ability for leadership; that quality of leadership which we know in this country as statesmanship.

"He has not handled his party as he should have done; he has allowed his party to handle him," Mr. Johnson said of President Hoover, adding: "Every man knows that the Republican party is responsible for the deplorable economic conditions we are faced with today."

TWO ARE DEAD

CLARKSVILLE, W. Va., May 30. (AP) — The death of two men last night and today was attributed by physicians to a heat wave that sent the temperature yesterday within four degrees of 100 in northern West Virginia. A temperature of 96 degrees was reported at Fairmont yesterday.

Richard Senter, graduate of Texas Technological college is now employed at the United States experiment station at Lawton, Oklahoma, according to an announcement made this week. The station at Lawton is a dry land experiment farm.

ANNUALS OUT TODAY

The 1931 annual, La Ventana, of Texas Technological college, were delivered yesterday.

Edited by R. C. (Flop) Marshall and with Coker as business manager, the 1931 yearbook is unique in many respects, according to those who have looked over it. The theme of the old Chisholm trail is carried out throughout the book and on every page are thumbprints of scenes of cowboy life along the trail. The scenes on these pages correspond to other material on that page.

MEMBERS ADDED

Several new members have been added to the board of directors of the YMCA of Texas Technological college, Jack Boyd, secretary, said this week. The new membership includes Dr. C. J. Wagner., Professor Fred W. Sparks, Professor C. S. Mast, Dr. J. K. Thompson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Fort Worth, R. W. Mathews, and Warren Huff.

Huff is doing graduate work at Harvard and is a 1930 graduate of Tech. He was active with the Tech organization while here.

AWAITING SIGNATURE

Complete plans for the next school year can not be made until the governor signs the Tech appropriation bill, President Paul W. Horn said yesterday. The House and Senate both have made appropriations and the bill has gone before a free conference committee, but the governor has taken no action.

Plans for the summer school have been made, however, since the summer fund was approved several weeks ago.

DESIGN LIBRARY

Complete designs have been worked out by Tech architects for a library building. The students, Robert Maxey, E. C. Simmons, and L. H. Gantt are in a course in a working drawings class under Professor Edgar Shelton, of the Tech architecture department.

Maxey designed the building and the others made the working drawings.

GATHERING IS TODAY

A meeting of the Tech "Y" organization delegates who are to attend the conference next month at Hollister, Mo., was held yesterday.

Several Tech students will leave here early in June with the Tech "Y" secretaries for Hollister where they will attend a "Y" meeting. Students from colleges and universities in Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri and Arkansas will attend this meeting, according to Jack Boyd, Tech YMCA secretary.

RUSSELL TO TEACH

Professor C. E. Russell will remain here for the first six weeks of summer school, and teach several courses in horticulture, he announced this week. He also will teach a course in genetics and also one in landscape appreciation.

Professor C. H. Mahoney has resigned as head of the department and will teach at Michigan State college. No announcement has been made as to who will be the new departmental head, but President P. W. Horn indicated several weeks ago that it is highly probable that Prof. Russell will be appointed. He has been connected with the horticulture department for some time.

Kidnaping Charge Is Facing Three

DENVER, Colo., May 30. (AP) — Kidnaping charges have been filed against three men believed by authorities responsible for the disappearance of June Dowse, 14-year-old high school girl, who has been missing from her home since Monday.

The informations were filed by the district attorney in justice court against John P. Horne, 42; John Dunklee, 40, and Carl Downham, 24. Authorities in cities on main routes leading to the west coast have been requested to watch for the quartet.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dowse, informed authorities they believed the girl was abducted by Horne, who had sought to marry her and whom they had forbidden to see her.

Authorities learned the three men left Denver Monday in an automobile about the same time the girl disappeared.

Comprehensive System Bared

Officers Announce That Bookkeeping System Of Liquor Ring Names Hundreds Customers In Nation

KANSAS CITY, May 30. (AP) — The comprehensive bookkeeping system of an alleged Al Capone liquor syndicate which collapsed here Tuesday with the arrest of nearly 40 persons, was a source of concern today to men listed as its patrons.

Chet Keyes, assistant district attorney, announced that with reports that such a system had been seized, dozens of persons had appealed to him for immunity from publicity. He said they included men of high social, business and professional standing and one clergyman.

The prosecutor reports he had made no promises, indicating they would be called as government witnesses in the event the cases came to trial.

Government agents charged that the books of the alleged ring were kept by Rosemary Lyons, delinquent city tax collector, who was freed under a $5,000 bond after her arraignment yesterday. The books, agents disclosed, named nearly 800 retail customers in Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska and Texas.

"The resolution pointed out," said President A. F. Whitney, "that the public has a direct interest in the railroads since it has gauaranteed the ma five and three-fourths per cent return."

The brotherhood also reaffirmed its position on the six hour day.

Another resolution urged railroads to raise the age limit on entry into railroad service from 35 years to 46. Still another asked railroads to employ only trained and experienced yard men as long as these are available.

Old Chisholm Trail Theme Is Carried Out In 1931 Tech Annual; Book Has A Complete Record Of College's Life

Book Is Delivered To Students Here Saturday

"Come along boys and listen to my tales,
"I'll tell you of my troubles on the old Chisholm trail."

CARRYING out the theme of the old Chisholm trail throughout every page of the book, the 1931 Tech annual, La Ventana, which was delivered to students yesterday afternoon, revives memories of the old cattle days. With R. C. Marshall, Hillsboro, as editor and F. M. Coker of Athens, as business manager, the yearbook presents the campus life of Texas Technological college students in its true light.

Although the book as a whole is not dedicated to any certain one, each of the six sections is dedicated. The front endsheet is a pencil sketch of the Chisholm trail with a cowboy's vision of Tech. The first division, which is the college section, is dedicated to John W. Carpenter, a member of the Tech board of directors and one of the 'Fathers of the college'. In this section is a double spread page of the southern end of the trail at Rock Port, Texas. The various classes and officers of the college are featured in this division.

Dedicated to Council

The second section, dealing with activities, is dedicated to the student council of Texas Tech. There is a double spread page of a scene at night of the Chisholm trail. The third section, dedicated to Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, contains athletic features. The fourth division features the Tech beauties and is dedicated to a standard name for the beauties, Las Bonitas, and a standard number, eight. In this section is a double page scene of an old chuck wagon along the Chisholm trail.

Dedicated to Mrs. Mary Doak, dean of Tech women, the fifth section of the annual contains articles concerning Tech organizations. This section features a scene of cowboys loading cattle at Abilene, Kansas, the end of the trail. The last section, which the grind division is dedicated to a standard name for that part of the book, "Sand". It also is dedicated to the amusement, humor and thrills of the Chisholm trail and contains a double page scene of cowboys returning along the trail.

On every page of the books are thumbprints sketches of cowboy life which correspond to material on that page. On the back endsheet is a complete view of the Tech campus —the realization of the dream of the cowboy on the frontspiece.

The feature section contains 32 pages, picturing campus life in every light. In this division are the four queens of the college. Catherine Jamison junior class queen; Monna Gowan, freshman queen; Kathleen Harman, rodeo queen; and Gail Quinlan, Picador queen. This section also features the Tech 'man of the year', Floyd Wooldridge of Plainview.

Staff members listed besides Marshall and Coker are Olen Puckett, associate editor; Parker Taulman, associate editor; James Harley Dallas, athletic editor; Faye Foote and Creta Herndon, grind editors; Mildred Price and Mary Cosby, staff assistants; Mary Beth Sheely, club editor; and Clayton Reed and Jesse Cooper, assistant business managers.

Throughout the books are couplets of the song of the old Chisholm trail.

Finger-Printing Mexico's President

When the President of Mexico speaks of having made a record while in office, he may mean just his finger-print record. Anyhow, even the Chief Executive comes under the new ruling that all Mexican government officials must be finger-printed, and here you see President Rubio, left, conforming to the regulation in the Comptroller's Office in Mexico City.

BRECKENRIDGE, May 30. (AP)—Preliminary arrangements for the five-day Texas and New Mexico Assembly of God church conference here June 7-12 have been made by E. L. Newby, state superintendent of the church. More than 750 delegates from the two states are expected to attend.

Stormizing

The Accurate Method of Motor Re-Powering

Seeing the gas you are paying for leak onto the ground in front of you would stop you from buying gas at that station . . . . it isn't pleasant to pay for wasted gas. However, thousands of motorists are paying for needless waste of gas, caused from gas passing down between worn pistons, rings, and cyclinders.

WHENEVER THE MOTOR has lost its full compression has less power on hills has slow get away
has lost its snappy pickup consumes more gasoline uses more oil fouls spark plugs quickly exhausts heavy blue smoke develops piston slap develops motor knocks
then the cylinders, pistons, rings, and piston ring grooves are worn sufficiently to lose compression and power.

These motor conditions can all be completely cured by

School Year's Close Is Near At Texas Tech

Undergraduates Will Be Busy With Final Examinations This Week; Commencement Activities Begin

THE end of the school year 1930-31 for Texas Technological college draws near.

With final examinations for the spring term, and the last for seniors, beginning tomorrow morning and continuing through Friday, most undergraduates will have completed their year's work this week, and with the exception of the seniors and a few who will stay for the commencement next Monday, few college students may be found in the city by next Sunday. The senior dance is scheduled for Friday night; Saturday evening the 1931 class members will be entertained at the home of President and Mrs. Paul W. Horn; Sunday the baccalaureate address will be given and Monday the commencement speech will be delivered and diplomas awarded.

Dr. Holt To Preach

Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of the St. John's Methodist Episcopal church at St. Louis, Mo., will preach the baccalaureate sermon while Dr. Thomas O. Walton, president of the Texas A. and M. college of College Station will deliver the commencement address. The annual senior banquet was held by the 1931 class members last month. Floyd Woolridge Plainview, is president.

Work was started last week on a concrete double "T" bench, south of the administration building, which is being left as a senior gift. The bench is in the shape of a double "T" letter which is the Tech athletic symbol. It is planned to hold some kind of a dedication for the unveiling of the gift.

Summer Term Opens

On Tuesday, June 9, the day following the 1931 commencement exercises registration for the first six weeks of summer school will begin. Although many regular Tech students will attend the summer session, more than half the enrollment for the two summer terms is expected to be made up of public school teachers. The first term will end July 20 and the last term ends August 27. Several special instructors have been employed for this summer.

More than 250 students will be awarded degrees in both the June and August exercises, which will be the largest number in the history of the college. A few Tech students will be back for the coaching school which begins August 3, and on August 6 a special "Home sick" edition of the student newspaper, the Toreador, will appear. This paper will be mailed to all Tech students.

May Use Fence In Curbing Of Rum Running

Construction Of Series Of Entanglements On Cordova Island Considered By U. S., Mexican Authorities

EL PASO, May 30. —(AP)—Construction of a high wire fence, or series of fences with entanglements, is under consideration by United States and Mexican authorities here as a means of curbing smuggling at Cordova Island, one of the most troublesome spots for the border patrol between Texas and California.

The "island" is 200 acres of Mexican territory, placed by meandering of the Rio Grande north of that river and almost in the outskirts of El Paso. It has been the scene of many fights between smugglers and United States patrolmen, one of which took place only last week and resulted in the death of a smuggler.

After the most recent fight, Manuel B. Otero, collector of customs at El Paso, G. C. Wilmoth, district director of the United States immigration service, and Javier Larrea, representative of the Mexican treasury department, discussed methods of tightening enforcement of laws against contraband passage across the border and made an inspection trip around the "island."

While no conclusions were reached, they talked of a fence, which, if constructed, would be three miles long, consist of three lines and probably would contain barbed wire entanglements similar to those utilized in the great war to protect trenches against surprise. General Mieguel Gonzales, commander of the Mexican garrison at Juarez, was said to favor erection of such a fence.

The conference was one of a number which grew out of an announcement recently by the Mexican government that it would cooperate closely with the United States in preventing smuggling into the United States from Mexico.

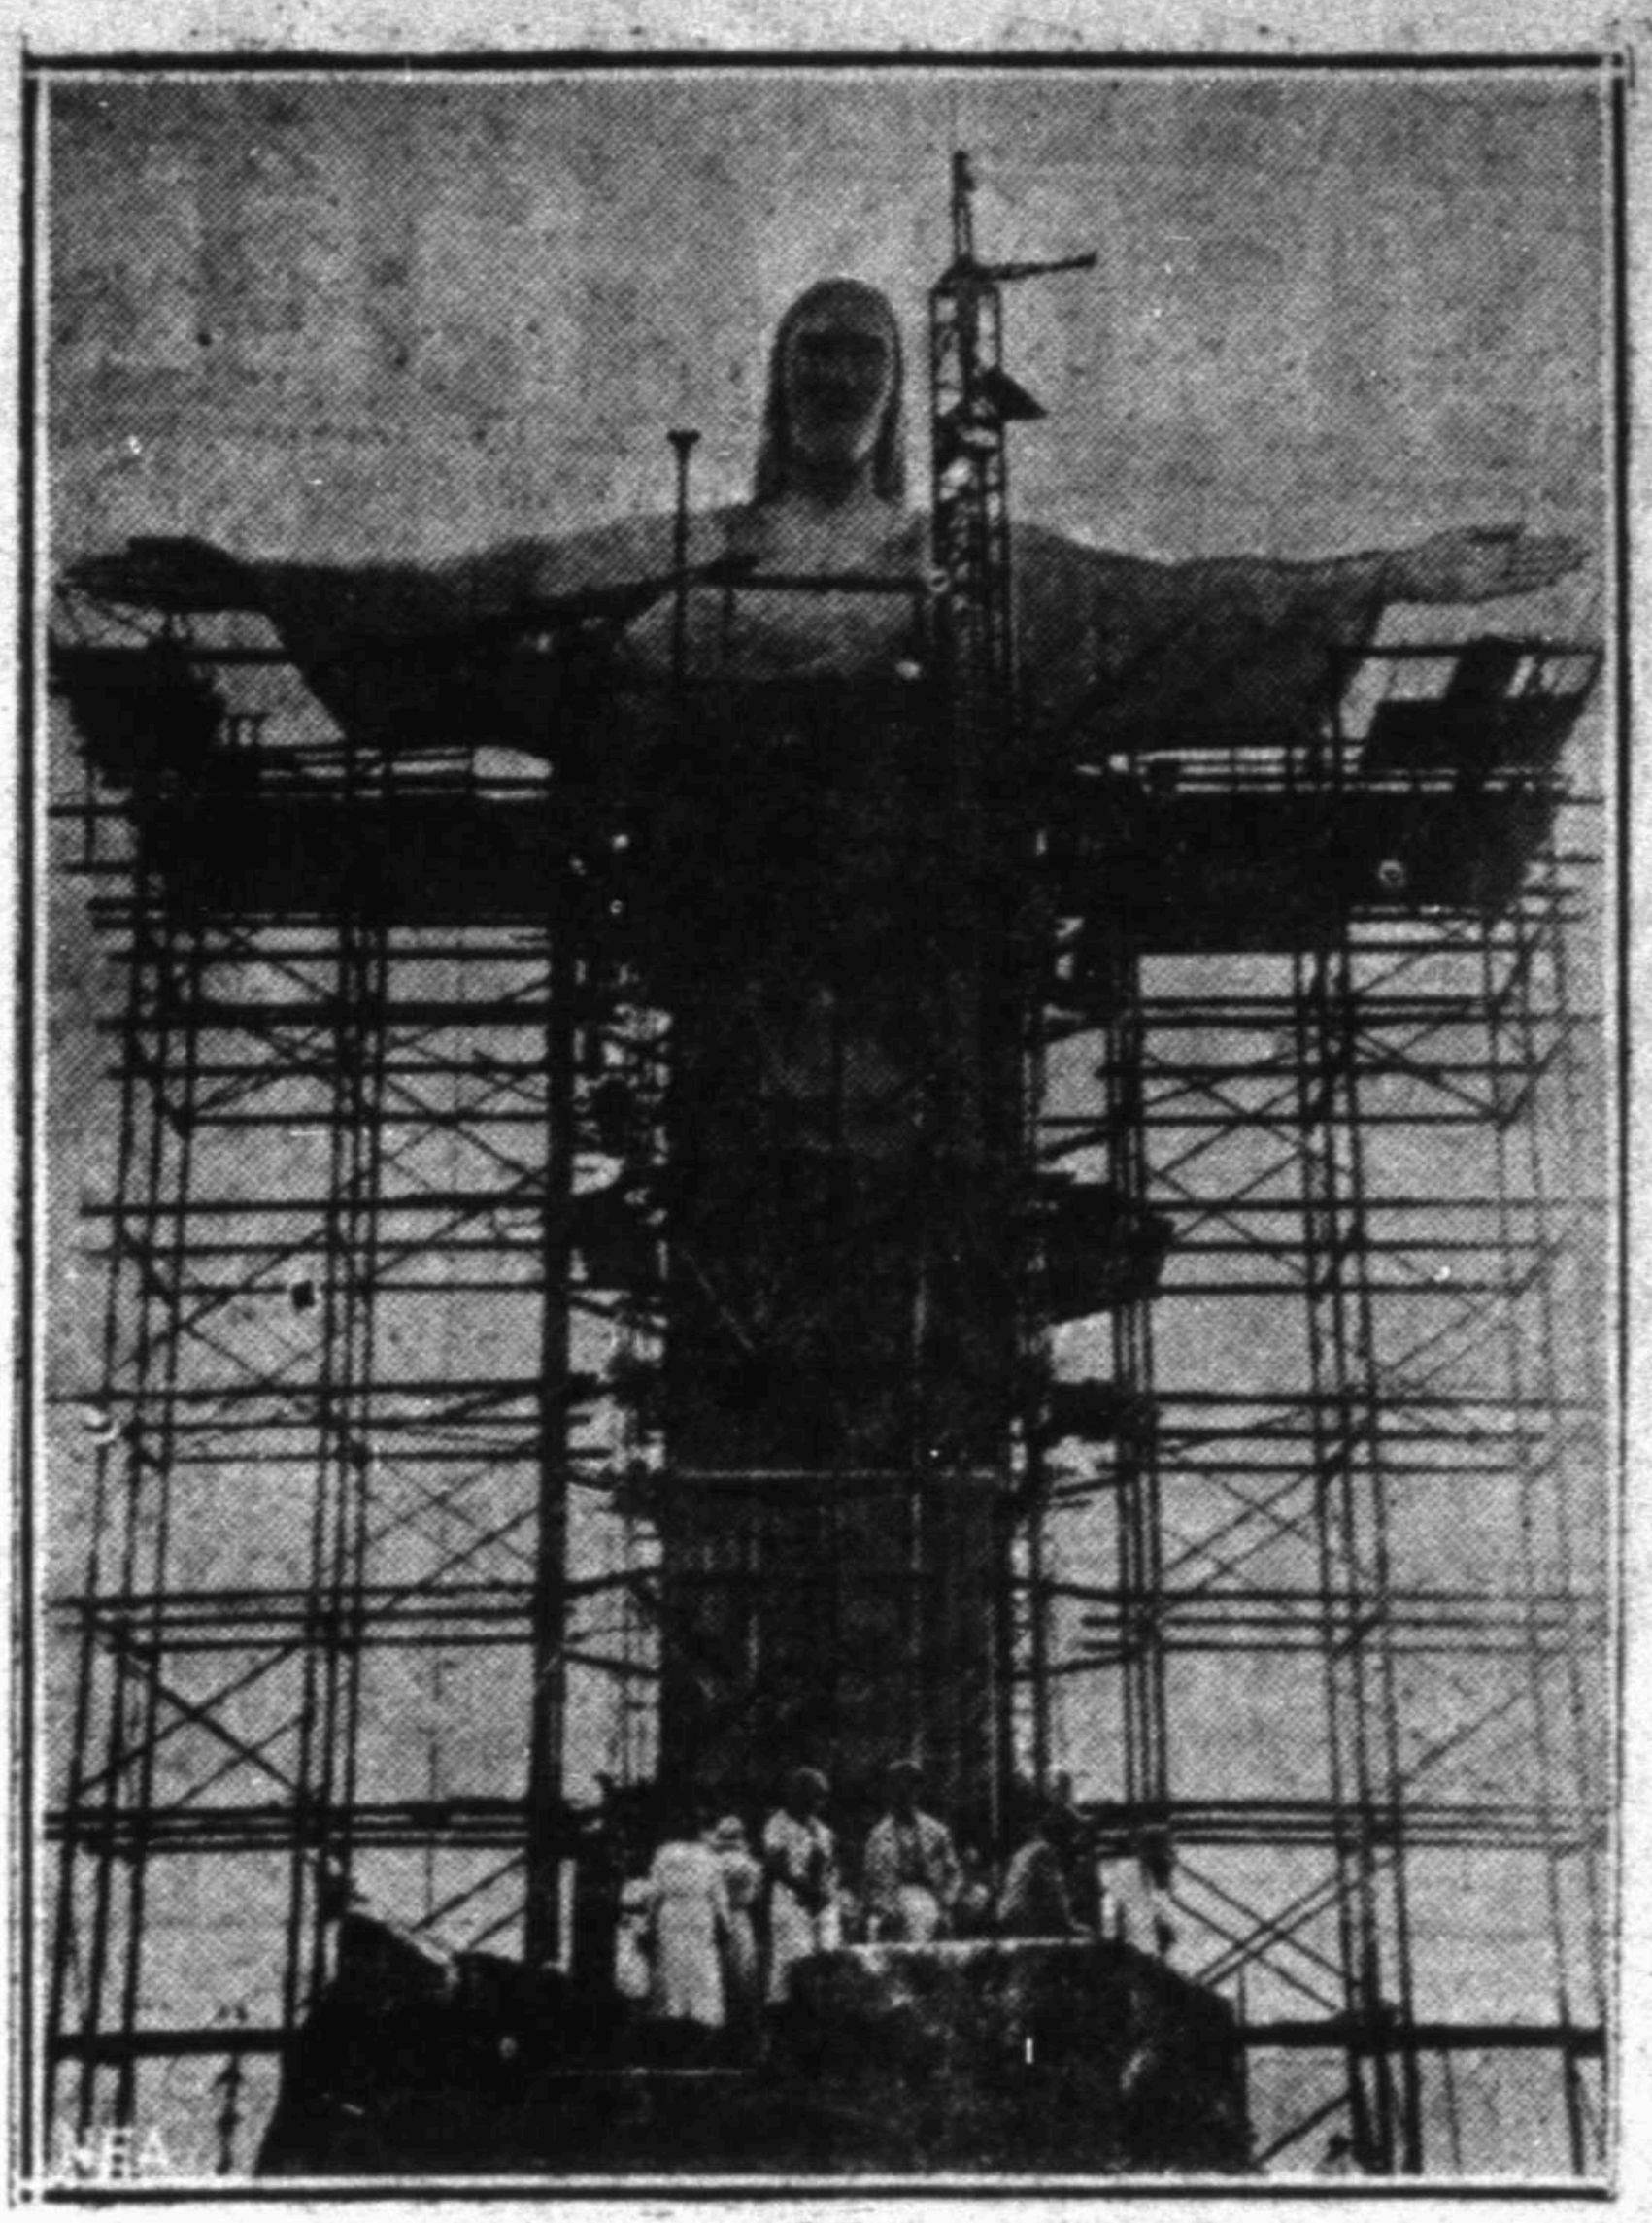
Largest Monument To Christus



The Christ of Corcovado Monument, pictured here as it nears completion 2200 feet above sea level at the peak of Corcovado Mountain in Brazil, will be formally dedicated next summer. It cost $720,000 and is built of reinforced concrete and surfaced with blue-green tile.

World Flights In Ninety Minutes By Rockets Loom As Possibility

BY WADE WERNER

BERLIN, May 30 (AP)—Around the world in 90 minutes is the modest goal Germany's rocket enthusiasts have set for themselves as a sort of preliminary to journeys to the moon and planets.

As yet no passenger-carrying rocket even for earthly distances, has been demonstrated here, but Reinhold Tiling, inventor of the sailplane rocket recently shown at Osnabrueck, is so confident of its safety and practability that he plans to build one big enough to carry himself aloft before the end of the year.

Tiling's rocket goes up like a bullet then spreads wings to descend like a sailplane.

Aim At Stratosphere Trial

Most of the rocket designers agree that no rocket will show what it really can do until it is given enough power to climb into the stratosphere, that outer layer of the atmosphere where air resistance practically doesn't exist. There speeds around 3,000 miles an hour are theoretically attainable.

The rarity of the atmosphere at altitudes of 50,000 to 200,000 feet would handicap or disable the ordinary airplane, powered as it is by an engine which must suck in oxygen, and driven by a propellor which must "take hold" of the air to be effective.

For the rocket-plane these would be no handicaps, as the rocket principle of propulsion by recoil functions even in a vacuum—better in fact, because of the absence of air resistance.

Across Ocean in Hour

Once operating in the stratosphere, rocket-planes could cross the Atlantic in a little more than an hour.

To take full advantage of the possibilities of recoil-power, however, contend the rocket enthusiasts of the Verein fuer Raumschiffarht (Society for Space-Ship Travel) an altitude of 600 miles should be utilized.

At such an altitude the pull of gravity would be balanced by centrifugal force, and a rocket running out of fuel at that height would, if left to itself, circle the earth indefinitely.

Lubbock County Tax Payers Ordered To Appear At Court

About 630 Lubbock county tax payers have been notified to appear before the county commissioners' court, sitting as a county tax equalization board, on June 8 and 10 and show cause why their property valuations shall not be raised, according to court attaches.

Notices were mailed out two weeks ago by the county clerk's office to property owners affected by the equalization board's action early in May.

Close Of Libel Trial In City Looms As Testimony Nears End

Total Of 35 Witnesses By Deposition And 13 Oral Have Been Recorded During First Two Weeks

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

WITH the close of the second week of testimony in the $200,000 libel suit brought by Fred Spikes against J. Evetts Haley and the trustees of the Capitol Reservation Lands for alleged libelous statements in Haley's book, "The XIT Ranch In Texas," a total of 35 witnesses by deposition and 13 oral ones were heard last week.

All of these witnesses were for the defendants and latest reports are that the defense will be able to close its side by presentation of direct testimony by Wednesday or Thursday. Friday is the latest date for the end of defense testimony, attorneys indicate.

End In Sight

"We will not need to take as long in presenting the evidence for the plaintiff," G. E. Lockhart, counsel for Mr. Spikes said. "I believe we can present it in a week. We ought to be able to get the case before the jury by June 15."

Some delay was occasioned Friday afternoon by arguments of counsel for both sides before Judge Clark Mullican, presiding, in chambers, on the admissibility of testimony of a man convicted of a felony. One defense witness by deposition, has been convicted of a felony it is said and it was planned to use his statement. Whether it will be used or not, was not announced.

Reputation Up

Most of the testimony introduced last week related to the alleged reputation of the "Spikes brothers" as witness after witness testified that they knew the reputation of the brothers in Eastern New Mexico at the time of the slaying of John and Dick Spikes and that it was "bad."

Oral witnesses included James Howell a ranch foreman, R. M. Bates, a former special deputy and Sim McFarland, a special officer at the time of the killing who was following the Hawkins gang on Mesa Rica. Other oral witnesses were: Olan Conley, Joseph de Graftenreid, Foy Womble, W. P. Coots, H. F. Maywald, O. R. Martine, John Whitmore, Herman Geurhart, R. P. Abbott and C. B. Beebe.

List Witnesses

Among the outstanding depositions were from the following: E. S. Gholson, son of Sam Gholson; John H. Howry, owner of the Howry ranch and former employer of Henry Hawkins; Mrs. Rose Greer Hawkins Madden, former wife of Henry Hawkins; Eugene Logan, ex state ranger of Texas and former New Mexico special officer; Frank Bond, an Italian by birth who lived on Mesa Redonda and who prepared the bodies of the dead boys for burial; George Cook, alleged second in command of the Hawkins gang; George R. Taylor, an early day rancher, and George Kilgore, member of one of the posses.

Other depositions were by: James M. Ivey, rancher; Sixexte Mertinez; Mrs. D. W. Dunn, Juan Gonzales, Francisco de Baca, C. J. Burjois, Jim Gurlie, J. P. Flores, Louis de Baca, John Madden, Will J. Lewis, E. Van Lee, son of Bud Lee; John de Oliveria, J. O. Curtis, rancher; J. J. "Jack" Campbell, rancher; Leandro Martinez; Daniel Piaz, John Nelson, Fred Walther, Henry Russell, James E. The oldest investment in the world is the real estate mortgage. In ancient Babylon, 2100 years before Christ, in reign of King Khammuragas, money was loaned on mortgage, while the great Bablyonian banking houses of the Egibi family, founded about 600 B. C., invested large sums in mortgages on both city and farm property.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

TEACHER'S JOB

Many letters come to me concerning behavior problems of the child at school. Many parents seem to think they must punish their children for all their alleged bad conduct at school as well as for all misdeeds at home. It is the teacher's job to manage the child in school. We get nowhere by punishing children at home for their bad conduct at school or elsewhere in our absence. Our task is to guide our child at home in such a way that he will act properly away from home. The moment we attempt to check upon his conduct away from us our efforts become ineffectual.

We might, of course, by means of fear, correct some anti-social conduct of our child at school; but in doing so, we are almost sure to cultivate more bad behavior both at home and at school. To be sure we want our children and their teacher to know that we expect our children to adjust themselves to the rules and regulations of the school, and that within reason, we approve the school's discipline. Furthermore, if your child or mine were to become such a nuisance at school as to be unmanageable under the usual treatment; if, for example, in the teacher's judgment it must be a choice between assigning the child to the juvenile court for discipline, or to give him a good flogging, then it might be wise for the teacher or principal to ask us to come to the school to administer it in the presence of the teacher or the principal. If I were a teacher or principal such are the only conditions under which I would use corporal punishment in school; in which event there would be almost none.

Now, if your child or mine became such a problem, then we had fallen down at home. If our children are reasonably well guided at home, they don't become social nuisances at school. We owe it to our children first to train them early in restraint, in respect for others' rights and for authority in whomsoever authority is vested. No virtue in my child's obeying me because I am his parent. Unless obedience carries beyond me it proves futile.

I wish more parents were to establish in their children very early habits of obedience to authority so that teachers would not have to waste their time on discipline.

If the child is unmanageable at school he almost surely had been so at home. Of course, there is an occasional bad teacher who causes children to be incorrigible at school. But they are few and their number is fast decreasing. A pretty good rule for parents whose teachers complain about their children's bad conduct at school is to work for more intelligent guidance of the child at home.

The surprising thing is that so very many children whose parents can't manage them at all at home are considered perfect citizens at school. Parents who discover such discrepancy know at once that the problem is their own and not the child's.

Then there are some parents who ask the teacher to punish the child at school for some bad behavior at home. How absurb! No wise teacher will assume such responsibility. Neither will she assume responsibility for the child's conduct to and from school. Her responsibility ends and begins with the school limits.

Our problem as parents is to guide the child so well while in our presence that his good behavior will carry on from habit in our absence. It can be done.

Queens Will Represent All College Clubs

Favorites On Campus Here Reign In One Section Of La Ventana, Yearbook For Texas Tech

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Woman's Editor

THE long-awaited announcement of beauties at Texas Technological college came this week-end with release of La Ventana, yearbook for 1930-31. Three Lubbock girls are in the group.

Although the eight favorites were selected months ago and their pictures were made for the annual, names of the young women were kept secret by the student staff. First announcement of the selection came this week-end from F. M. Coker, Paducah, business manager and acting editor-in-chief of the publication.

The beauties in the order of their selection are Miss Jean Shelley Jennings, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Jennings, 1016 17th street, this city; Miss Cornelia McCanne, Memphis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Major McCanne; Miss Josephine Caraway, daughter of J. K. Caraway, 1914 Duston street, Houston; Miss Virginia Bacon, daughter of J. P. Bacon, 1620 Broadway, this city; Miss Polly Barrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barrow, 2510 23rd street, this city; Miss Camille Stobaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Stobaugh, 1519 College, Coleman; Miss Christine Denney, daughter of Mrs. Ella Denney, Greenville; Miss Evelyn Heatly, daughter of Mrs. Gail Heatly, 709 Hammond Avenue, San Antonio.

Artist Chooses

Selection of the beauties was made by McClellan Barclay, New York magazine illustrator and artist, from 35 pictures that were sent him of young women in Texas Technological college. The original list was secured through entrants made by campus people, who were given an opportunity to choose their favorites. Any woman on the campus was declared eligible and anyone had the privilege of entering a name. The 35 were entered.

Pictures which are printed on this page were the winning ones and these appear in La Ventana with each young woman having a full page display. Settings are different, however, as the pictures were cut out and brush-work backgrounds—each one distinct—were used for the yearbook pictures.

These favorites fill one section of the annual.

Each social club among young women on the campus of the college is represented in this list of beauties, although no effort was made to include them, Mr. Coker said in making his announcements. Each class is represented and the beauties run a gamut of types — blonde, titian, brunette.

Winner a Blonde

Miss Jennings, who heads the roster of pulchritude, is an ash blonde with large grey eyes as a winning feature. She is a sophomore student in the institution, having done all her college work at Tech. She is a member of Las Chaparritas and of the Forum, campus societies, and recently represented Tech in a pageant before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

As president of Sans Souci club, Miss McCanne has been a leader in campus activities this year. She is a senior in the college, having attended Texas Woman's college for one year before enrolling here. She is a brunette.

A pronounced brunette is Miss Caraway, who has third place in this list. She is a freshman and a member of D. F. D. society.

Red brown hair and eyes of an almost duplicate shade distinguish Miss Bacon, who was also a representative at the Tech pageant court. She was Miss Lubbock on this occasion. Before entering Tech, where

Program Is Announced For Annual Methodist District Meet

The Woman's Angle

Avalanche Woman's Editor

LOOKING over a club year book this afternoon, I read again the collect for club women the thing we so often quote automatically without giving thought to the supplication that it contains. If we remembered the stanzas of this plea, I believe that the petty differences and troubles which arise from year to year in club work would disappear.

We often forget the ideal that we have set as club women and the aim toward which we are working, as detailed in this collect. Frankly, I do not know who wrote this prayer but it is a challenge for us to note.

Much of club work is pleasant, I know. Many firm friendships are welded within the associations of a society; many valuable programs are heard and many months pass without disturbances within societies, yet trouble is not an infrequent thing. And usually, when a situation is analysed, some petty jealousy is at the root of whatever has arisen.

Lubbock club women are not above these trivial differences, much as we may hate to admit it, but in all fairness I must say I believe there is far more harmony than trouble in the organizations. Yet, because of its very infrequency, this trouble receives more than its share of attention.

* * *

We have so much to lose through discord in club work so much to gain through harmony, that each woman should strive to work always toward the aim that has been set in this standard plea:

"Keep us, O God, from pettiness, let us be large in thought, in word, in deed.

"Let us be done with fault-finding and leave off self-seeking.

"May we put away all pretense and meet each other face to face—without self-pity and without prejudice.

"May we never be hasty in judgment, and always generous.

"Let us take time for all things, make us to grow calm serene, gentle.

"Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.

"Grant that we may realize it is the little things that create differences, that in the big things of life we are as one.

"And may we strive to touch and to keep the great common woman's heart of us all, and oh, Lord God, let us not forget to be kind."

What better time can there be for each of us to read again the supplication of this creed than at the end of a club year when we must stop for retrospection, when we look toward the new year that promises so much for each one?

GRECIAN MODEL

EVENING slippers have gone back to the Greeks for their designs. The new Grecian sandals are designed with a multitude of narrow overlapping straps over the toes, and a complicated strap design at the heel. Crepe de chine in black or vivid colors to match the gown is the favorite fabric.

THE INEVITABLE RETURN

THERE is a tradition among people of the newspaper world that once one's fingers have been stained with printer's ink, it is impossible for him to be divorced entirely from the field and remain happy.

There is no happy "has been" in the newspaper world, we are told, and as proof here is the tendency of newspaper people to hang around the office during off hours or vacations.

Dess Key, who was society editor of the Amarillo News and Globe for several years, was in this week for a short visit. She has been in Littlefield this winter with her parents and now is starting a rent library here as a new venture. And, enthusiastic as she is about her new work, she explained that of course, eventually, she will go back to the staff of some newspaper, because of her happiness there.

* * *

Why we stay with newspapers is a thing we frequently wonder and always we can think of more disadvantages than advantages about the life—the hours, the noise, the uncertainty of what any day may hold, the strain that we so often work under but, above all there is a fascination which is stronger than any of these drawbacks that brings us back to the turmoil of the fourth estate.

Woman Given French Award For DAR Work

Daughter Of Mrs. Weilenman Receives Diploma Given By French Government For Forwarding Cause

As the result of her work in the Daughters of the American Revolution, particularly for her part in the erection of a monument to La Salle in the city of Navasota, Mrs. J. M. Webb of Amarillo has been made an "Officer d' Academie" by the French government.

Mrs. Webb is the daughter of Mrs. Alf Weilenman, 2417 15th street, this city. Two sisters, Mrs. Ola Irene Hughes, who resides with her mother, Mrs. George S. Berry, 1621 Broadway; and a brother, Don Weilenman, also of 2417 15th street, reside in Lubbock. Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Berry and Mr. Weilenman are all students in Texas Technological college.

Mrs. Webb has a letter received from G. P. F. Jouine, French consular agent at Washington, which was sent with a diploma issued by the French secretary of education and of arts stating that she had been made an "Officer d' Academie."

"In France this honor is usually conferred on persons who have distinguished themselves in the arts or the teaching profession, while in foreign countries it is extended to persons, like yourself, who have furthered a cause dear to the French nation," he wrote.

Mrs. Webb is a charter member of the Llano Estacado chapter of D. A. R. at Amarillo and this honor came as a result of outstanding work in the organization, Mrs. Hughes said this week. She was on a D. A. R. committee which completed the erection of a monument to La Salle in Navasota and this is thought to be responsible for the honor, her sister said.

Lubbock Is To Play Host To Another Gathering In June When Legion Meets Two Days

War Veterans From Three Districts Of State Are To Be Invited To Attend; Committees Start Work

REMINISCENT veterans of world war battlefields and training camps will assemble here June 20 and 21 for the annual fifth division and quarterly eighteenth district convention of the American Legion.

Details of the program are being plotted by a steering committee composed of members of Allen Brothers post, No. 148, of Lubbock. Letters of invitation—figurative tocsins urging immediate preparations for attendance—will be sent to every post in the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth Texas Legions districts, Glen Hess, Lubbock post commander, said.

Three Districts Included

The three districts—most of West Texas—compose the fifth division. Officers of the Lubbock post estimate six hundred legionaires and their wives will attend the two-day meeting here. Attaches of posts elsewhere in the division believe the attendance will be even larger.

A picnic will be held at county park the first night of the convention, and a dinner at 1 p. m. the second day—Sunday—at the American Legion home.

Appropriate religious services will be conducted at the Uptown Dance palace from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., when a business session scheduled to last three hours will convene. Dinner will follow the business meeting immediately.

State Officials Coming

Hal Brennan, Texas Legion commander, Robert Whitaker, Texas adjutant, and others of the state department are expected here for the convention.

The divisional convention was obtained by Lubbock through the state department, officers of Allen Brothers post said.

Charles Whitacre is chairman of a committee to compose letters of invitation. Louis Murfee and George Brewer are other members.

Other committee chairmen are: W. O. Daniels, decorations; Durwood Bradley, registration; H. L. Allen, program and entertainment; Alex McDonald, chow; Homer D. Grant, transportation, and Hamp Spiller, reception.

Although no post has reported it will bring a band or drum and bugle corps to the joint-convention, several musical organizations are expected.

Principal speakers have not been selected.

Baptist Camp Is Scheduled

Annual Christoval Affair To Be Staged August 7 To 16; Prominent Speakers Carded On Programs

SAN ANGELO, May 30 (AP)—Dates of the Christoval Baptist encampment this year are August 7 to August 16, it has been announced by the Rev. E. D. Dunlap, chairman of the program committee.

Two Baptist leaders, Dr. I. [illegible] Gates of San Antonio and Dr. R. [illegible] Powell of San Angelo, are to be the featured speakers of the gathering which annually draws thousands of Baptists from all over Texas.

T. C. Gardner of Dallas, head of the Baptist training service in Texas, will be in charge of this work. J. N. Barnette of Nashville, Tenn., one of the leading Sunday school men in the south, will be in charge of the Sunday school, the Rev. Dunlap said.

Number Of People Take Instruction In Aviation Here

"Buster" Pool, Levelland, who has been taking instruction in flying at the Lubbock Municipal airport from Ben Branson, made his solo flight Friday after about seven hours of instruction, Mr. Branson said.

Buster has been coming to Lubbock about once a week to take instruction from the local instructor. He is one of several who have made their solo flights this spring.

Miss Louise Newton of Lubbock, the only woman now taking lessons in flying, is making progress in her work and will probably be able to take her solo flight soon. She spends some time at the field regularly each day, Branson said. Although a number of Lubbock women have started to learn to fly Miss Newton is the only one who has anywhere reached the place where she was just about ready to make her solo flight.

Bobbie Schellen Friday passed his test for a licensed pilot, Branson announced. R. W. Dulaney, of the department of commerce, government inspector of pilots of all classes, gave Bobbie the tests.

There are now four licensed pilots in Lubbock and one transport pilot.

Capture Balloon

Long Flight Of Toy Finally Ended

MARSHALL, Tex., May 30 (AP)—A toy balloon with a tag showing it had been released at Haskell, Texas 300 miles, via air, west of Marshall was captured by two high school youths Thursday.

The tag showed it had been turned loose by the chemistry class of the Haskell high school last April 21. Dale Wilson and Lewis Buford, local youths, found the balloon as they were seeking fish bate near here.

Wire glove racks in varied sizes can now be obtained—fortunately, since men's gloves as well as women's are being made in washable leathers. It's no use to give instructions that a man's glove be washed "on the hand," for it's safe to assume friend wife is doing the washing. And however could she keep those big things on in the soapsuds?

Key To Estate Held In Family Bible

Aged Relic, Stained By Years Of Hard Usage, Likely To Be Factor In Division Of $850,000,000 Estate

CUERO, May 30 (AP)—An old family Bible, stained by age and long years of hard usage, now in the possession of Mrs. T. J. Kennedy of Cuero, may prove the determining factor by which a number of DeWitt county citizens may share in the $850,000,000 estate of William Buchanan, a cousin of the former president James Buchanan.

The Buchanan property, scattered through towns of New York, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Pennsylvania, has been under lease for 99 years, according to relatives here, and has reverted within the past year to the estate.

Claimants to the estate now number more than one thousand. Among these are:

Mrs. Kennedy, wife of T. J. Kennedy, district clerk, of Cuero and her children, all six of whom are married and have children.

Mrs. Marie Clayton Jones, daughter of Mrs. Emma Clayton of Cuero and wife of Gordon Jones of Houston.

Ed Crawford, farmer of Hochheim, DeWitt county.

The heirs of Jim, Alex and Ike Crawford, also of this county.

The Crawford brothers were direct descendants of Margaret Buchanan, a sister of President Buchanan and a cousin of William Buchanan. Mrs. Kennedy's claim and that of Mrs. Marie Clayton Jones rest on proof of a claim that Elizabeth Norris, the second wife of John Crawford, was a sister of his first wife, Margaret Buchanan.

They Called Him "King Owen The 1st" In Berlin Once, He's "Own" To Old Timers; Young Is Interesting Man

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story on Owen D. Young is another in a series disclosing little known facts about prominent persons often in the news.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

(Copyright, 1931, By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP)—A Berlin newspaper once called him "King Owen the first."

Oldtimers in the upstate New York village whose fairy godfather lives, know him as "Own."

On the 20th floor of 120 Broadway—suites labeled "General Electric Company"—he is "the chairman."

They All Listen

Bankers, business men, college freshmen, college presidents, statesmen, farmers and nations listen when he speaks. Whether it be in the directors' room of the New York Federal reserve bank, on the campus of St. Lawrence university, at an international conference table or in the barn of his Van Hornesville dairy, there always is an audience for Owen D. Young.

Most of what he says never gets into the newspapers. He prefers to avoid publicity, although he has figured in some of the biggest news since the war.

Without Frills

His friends say he is without frills or affectation, equally comfortably with financiers, industrialists, prime ministers, congressmen or the Herkimer county folk.

"I can 'just set' better than anyone you ever saw," he once said.

Part of this "setting" is done in his Park Avenue apartment among his books. Mr. Young is something of a Bibliophile. First editions, manuscripts, rare items of British and American masters, are shelved around the walls of his library within reach of the easy chair in which he likes to stretch his long, rather spare body.

Other Hobbies

Other hobbies are the country house on Long Island sound near Riverside, Conn.; his alma mater, St. Lawrence university at Canton, N. Y.; and the old home at Van Hornesville where he has a dairy. To his university Mr. Young frequently returns—he is chairman of the board of trustees—and to its welfare he contributes.

Mr. Young does not care for strenuous physical exercise. The milking, wood-cutting and haying he did as a boy gave him enough training to last a lifetime, he jokingly remarks. Golf scores hold no terrors: he does not care to play.

Legislature To Aid Centennial

AUSTIN, May 30 (AP)—Texas plans to celebrate her centennial in 1936 in a manner to attract attention of the world. The state legislature has passed a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to the electorate to permit the lawmaking body to appropriate public funds towards defraying the cost of the big birthday party.

The amendment was proposed when lawyers interpreted the state's constitution to inhibit expenditure of the people's money for purposes of this kind.

It was pointed out that the National Congress probably would be requested to appropriate money to supplement Texans' contributions for the centennial.

Ten East African chiefs recently attended a football game in London.

Plans Worked For Operating New P. O. Law

Postmaster Vaughan Plans To Increase Service In City; Check Is Being Made On Delivery Here

Preliminary plans are being worked out by John L. Vaughan, postmaster, for the new 44-hour per week law for postal workers of certain classes, clerks, carriers and supervisory officers, which becomes effective July 1, under a law passed some months ago by congress and approved by President Hoover.

As far as present plans go there will not be any new men added to the Lubbock staff. Compensatory time will be allowed within the next seven days for all employes who have to work more than 44 hours in any one week.

To Give More Service

"On Saturday mornings we plan to hold the carriers for the residential sections in the office for 30 minutes after their present leaving time," Mr. Vaughan explained. "This will give us time to work up the mail that comes in on the morning Santa Fe from Dallas and Fort Worth via Sweetwater. Mail can then be delivered in the residential sections in the mornings.

"For the business section I believe we can work a plan for delivery of mail three times on Saturdays, as at present. There is very little mail that comes in on the noon trains."

Check is being made of this mail service to determine the normal amount of mail received on the train from Amarillo and also the one from Clovis.

Norma Talmadge Retiring In Spite Of Offers For Pictures, It Seems

NORMA TALMADGE

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood believes Norma Talmadge is retiring from pictures, despite her announcement that she has offers from producers here and in Europe, one of which she may accept.

Miss Talmadge asked for her release from her contract with United Artists because she could not have the privilege of choosing her own stories. Although her husband, Joseph Schenck, is head of United Artists, the policy of denying contract stars a voice in story selection was not altered.

"New York Nights" and "Du Barry," Miss Talmadge's last pictures, were not nearly as successful as many she made years ago. She felt it is said, that she could have picked vehicles that would have been better pictures. Neither was outstanding in any sense.

Miss Talmadge has appeared so infrequently in the last few years that she is all but forgotten between pictures. She could make a graceful retirement now; another film or two might force Miss Talmadge to quit.

Double For Barrymore

JOHN Ellis, stand-in for John Barrymore, virtually is his double, when made up like the star. Ellis also is a photographer, so he is always on the Barrymore sets.

JOHN ELLIS

A stand-in wears the same make-up the star wears and dresses as he does; hence to a visitor he might appear to be the star. The stand-in relieves the star during the monontonous pre-scene preparations, when cameras, lights and other equipment are adjusted.

On two occasions that I know of Barrymore, standing on the sideline, has pointed out Ellis as "THE great Barrymore."

"I've heard that guy Barrymore is terribly conceited," one tourist said to the supposed double.

"Oh, very, very," Barrymore is reported to have replied. "Why, he's the hardest man in the studio to get along with."

Spurred on, it is probable that Barrymore's audiences had a few things to say about the Barrymore eccentricities and temperament.

Boyd And Bride Return

DOROTHY SEBASTIAN

BILL Boyd and his bride, Dorothy Sebastian, away from the screen since their marriage several months ago, are making their return to grease paint and cameras together.

They will play opposite each other in "The Iron Chalice." They met when cast in a picture two years ago.

Chicken Feed

IF MAUREEN O'Sullivan wants to quit Hollywood and its movies and go back home to Dublin, she won't have to worry about paying for her rouge and gloves and things like that.

Some of the money she has earned here has been invested for her in a chicken farm, near her home in Ireland. It is already averaging a monthly profit of $750, nearly as much as Maureen is being paid by the movies.

Here's One Reason

HERE'S one of the reasonse Will Rogers is so popular with the boys who work on his pictures:

The gang worked pretty hard on his last film and they managed to finish five days ahead of schedule. So Rogers insisted that every member of the company be paid for that five days anyway—and what he says goes.

Business Halted

Four "Boys" Have It Out On Courts

MASON, May 30. (AP)—Business comes to a standstill in the small town of Katemcy, Mason county, and the population gathers on the sidelines when four "boys" whose combined ages average 72 1-4 years each get together for practical application of the fine points of croquet on the municipal courts. The players and their ages are J. C. Strapp, 63, the young man of the quartet; J. H. Dobbs, who has lived in the Katemcy community for 56 of his 72 years; J. H. Harkey, 74, and Tom Westbrook, 81. Although the oldest in years of the group, Westbrook is a comparitively new comer in Katemcy, having been there only about nine years.

Comedy Films Reign Supreme During Week

'Cracked Nuts' Heads List Of Laugh Shows

Wheeler And Woolsey, Jack Oakie, Stewart Erwin, Skeets Galagher, Mitzi Green, Others To Appear

COMEDY in all its forms is in store for Lubbock movie-goers this week. With the exception of one film, Richard Arlen in "Gun Smoke" at the Palace today and the Lyric's three pictures during the week, other shows deal entirely with light vein of drama.

Heading the list is "Cracked Nuts" with Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey which is showing at the Lindsey until Wednesday.

EUGENE PALLETTE

Wednesday brings Edmund Lowe and Jeanette MacDonald in "Don't Bet On Women" at the Lindsey for two days while at the Palace, Skeets Gallagher, Norman Foster, Carole Lombard and Eugene Pallette are to be seen in "It Pays To Advertise" for two days.

This fellow, Eugene Pallette, carries the heavy role during the week. He appears in three shows, "Gun Smoke", "Dude Ranch" with Jack Oakie which shows at the Lindsey, Friday and Saturday and the one just mentioned above.

Lyric Has 3 Features

The Lyric pictures bring Marilyn Miller in "Sunny" today, Monday and Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday finds Douglas Fairbanks in "The Way of All Men" with Dorothy Revier and Noah Berry. Friday and Saturday brings George Duryea in "Pardon My Gun" with Sally Starr. It's said to be a different kind of a western.

EDNA MAY OLIVER

A mythical kingdom background with ludicrously funny situation carries Wheeler and Woolsey through an amazing series of comic and thrilling situations in "Cracked Nuts" at the Lindsey today. Romance is injected into the scene with the appearance of Dorothy Lee and her soured aunt, Edna Mae Oliver, one of the finds of "Cimmaron" and with these four mixed up, you have the funniest comedy ever produced.

Imagine a man betting Edmund Lowe ten thousand dollars that he, Lowe, could not kiss the fist woman that steps on a certain porch, without disclosing that the aforesaid woman is the man's own wife and you have the plot for "Don't Bet On Women" which is on at the Lindsey, Wednesday and Thursday. Jeanette MacDonald plays the lead feminine role with Lowe in the picture.

Old Play Coming

The old stage play "It Pays To Advertise" and the same old axiom is brought to the Lindsey Friday and Saturday. It's as good in a talkie as it was in a silent film and better than the original stage play 'tis said. Norman Foster, Eugene Pallette, Carole Lombard, Skeets Gallagher, Louise Brooks, Junior Coghlan, and a host of others appear in this well known play.

MARY BRIAN

William Boyd and his gang of fellow criminals are forced to leave the big city because their activities there have made it too hot for them. They go to the village of Bunsen, Idaho, posing as capitalists. The town is friendly to them, all except Richard Arlen, who has a feeling of enmity toward them. Arlen is in love with Mary Brian and he sees in Boyd a rival for her hand and here you have the opening plot for "Gun Smoke" the only serious drama of the week which shows at the Palace today and tomorrow. Eugene Pallette, Louise Fazenda, Charles Winniger and others support Arlen in the film.

Put Jack Oakie and Stewart Erwin together and you are bound to have a comedy. Add Mitzi Green and Eugene Pallette and you have a riot and then slip in June Collyer and there's more interest. Such is the case in "Dude Ranch" which shows at the Lindsey for two days, Friday and Saturday. Stewart Erwin, owner of a dude ranch in the Rockies, finds that business is falling off. Into this scene comes a traveling one-horse show, consisting of Jack Oakie, Eugene Pallette, Mitzi Green and Cecil Weston. They agree to provide the ranch with real western characters in return for meals and there you have the story which carries the audience through a riot of laughter and finally ends up with romance sprinkled in on an apparent thrilling bandit chase in which Oakie triumphs in the end.

Automatic vending machines, electrically refrigerated, will deliver a 5-cent bottle of milk for 10 cents and repay 5 cents when the bottle is returned in factory districts of Philadelphia.

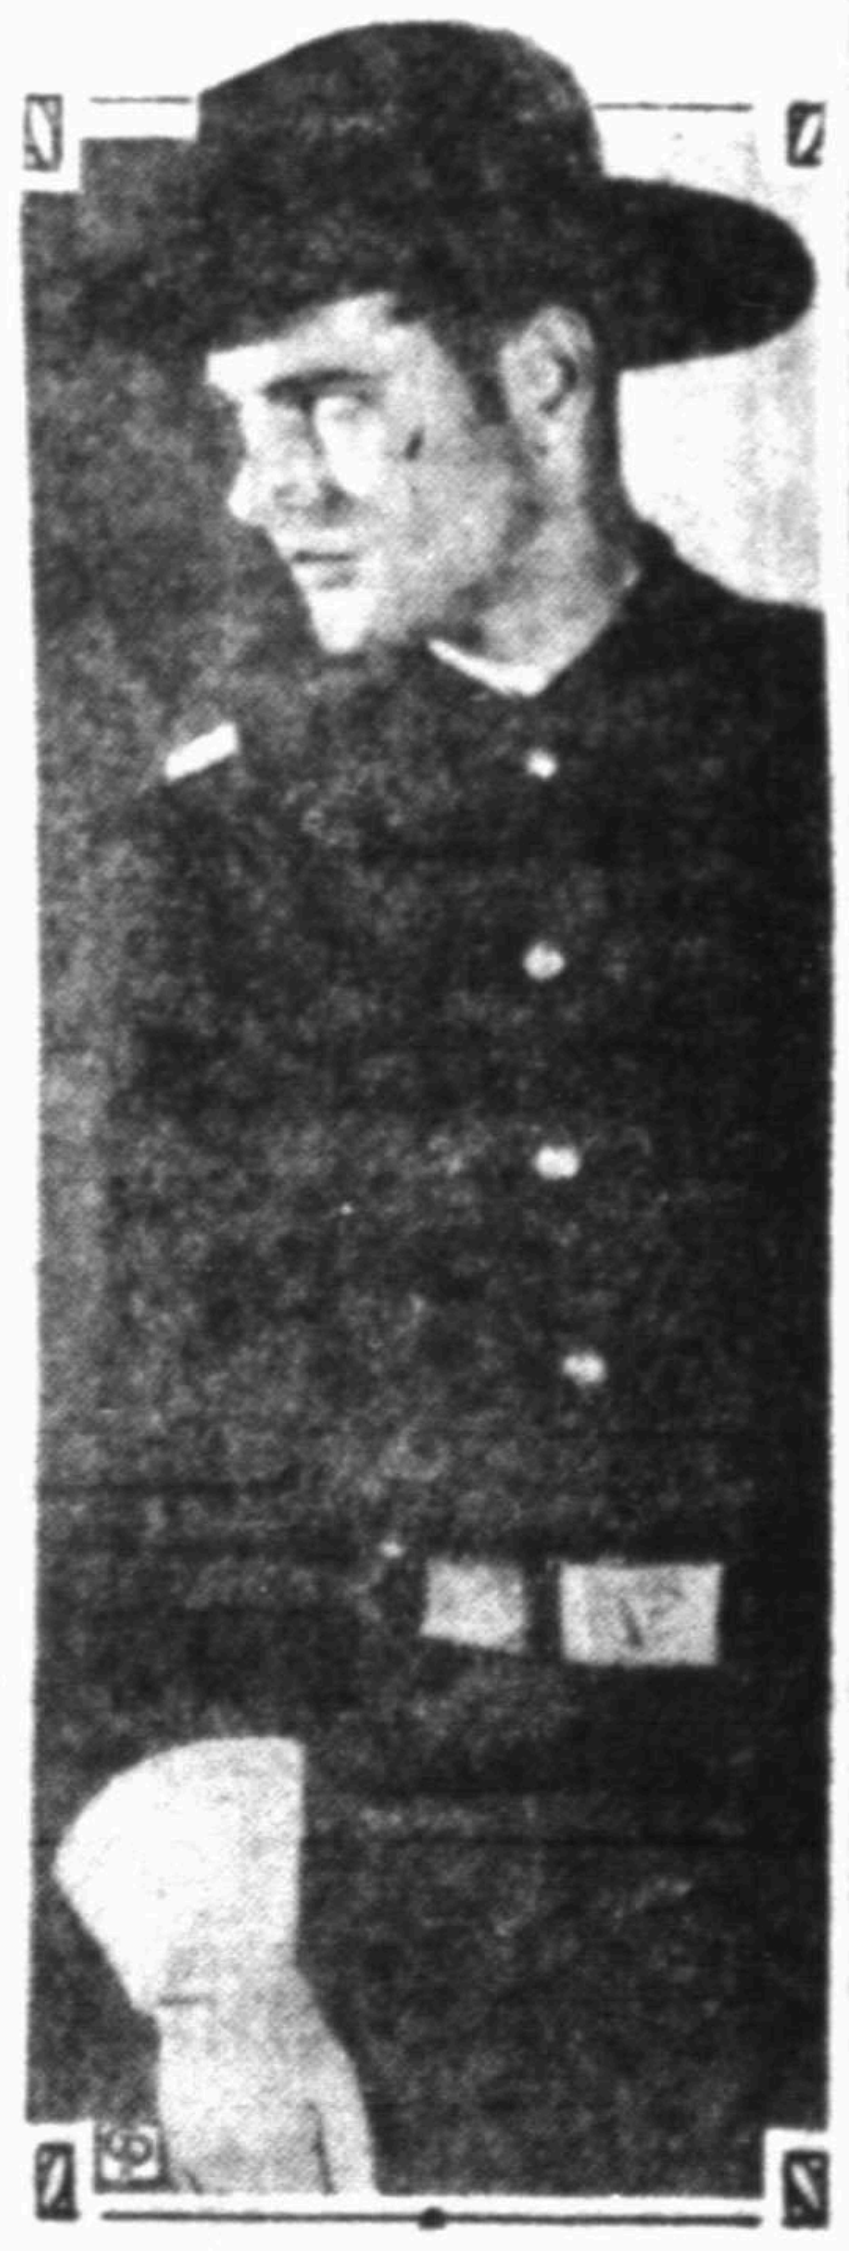
Plans for an airplane service connecting North China with Europe, by way of Siberia, have been made.

At the THEATERS

Furnishing a riot of laughs as they are chased hither and thither over a mythical kingdom, the two young gentlemen above offer Lubbock theater-goers another one of their ludicrous comedies at the Lindsey today. They are Robert Woolsey, left and Bert Wheeler, right, and they appear in "Cracked Nuts."

Jeanette MacDonald, above, said to be one of the talkies' most beautiful blondes, appears at the Lindsey on Wednesday.

Mitzi Green above, the screen's youngest and most accomplished feminine star, appears at the Lindsey Friday and Saturday with Jack Oakie in "Due Ranch."



Richard Arlen, above, brings the spirit of the west to us this week as he appears in "Gun Smoke" at the Palace today. He plays with Mary Brian.

Blood And Thunder Of Gangland Is Giving Away To Moonlight And Roses Of Romance And To Mystery Thrills

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 30 (AP)—The blood and thunder of gang warfare on the screen is giving way to the moonlight and roses of romance and to the thrills and chills of mystery.

The drama of cities terrified by machine gun rule is passing out—another cycle of film pilots gone on its way to oblivion, temporarily at least.

In no major studios are gangster themes of the extreme type such as "Little Caesar," "The Doorway to Hell," and, "The Public Enemy," on the production schedules.

Has Had Its Fill

Producers seem to believe the public has had its fill of films portraying with ultra-vivid scenes the "inner workings" of gangland, and that the few now on exhibition should satisfy completely any demand that is left. "The Public Enemy" is breaking records in New York, and "Quick Millions," a brilliantly satircal treatment of the rise and fall of a gang leader, is doing well wherever the censors have left it undeleted.

The loss of interest in gang plots is not due to any official ban by the producers' association, for that organization has remained silent on the subject. But Will Hays, its leader recently expressed the opinion that changing public tastes, a desire for more romance on the screen, would bring about the decline of the mob rule theme. This is what has happened.

Serves As Background

The passing of the gang theme is marked, however, by several pictures in which gangland serves as background or motivation. "The Star Witness" tells what happens when an innocent man, father of a family by chance sees a gang killing. In "Free Soul" Norma Shearer becomes infatuated with a gangster, and in "The Mad Marriage" Helen

Lubbock County Farm Club Work Embraces More Than 1,000 Persons

Entrance Of Dairy Herds Being Urged

Leaders Express Desire To See The County Represented With More Cows In Annual Show At Plainview

Now is the time to get ready to send a number of dairy herds to the annual Panhandle-Plains dairy show at Plainview next spring, according to Tom L. Shepard, of the Lubbock Drug company, who was the only individual herd owner to exhibit at the show in Plainview last spring.

"Lubbock county should have at least half a dozen herds at the show next year," Mr. Shepard said. "There is no reason why we cannot have a good representation from this county.

Should Enter Herds

"I would like to see the dairy herd owners of the county get ready for the show now and start to plan to show there. We have as good dairy cattle in Lubbock county as in any county on the South Plains and I believe we should take advantage of the show to exhibit our animals."

D. F. Eaton county agent and one of the honorary vice-presidents of the association, likewise expressed the belief that the dairy herds of the county should be represented at the show. Mr. Eaton helped organize the association and was one of the presidents.

W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department of Texas Technological college, similarly, expressed his opinion that the county should have a large number of animals. Mr. Stangel took the herd of Texas Tech to the show last April and won 13 prizes with 14 animals. He returned to Lubbock with 15 animals in the herd, one of the prize heifers having dropped a calf at the show.

Hickman Price Expecting Half Million Bushel Yield From His Farm Near Tulia

AMARILLO, May 30. (AP)—Hickman Price, who is reported here to be one of the world's largest individual wheat growers, has estimated the yield from his 30,000-acre crop near Tulia and Kress at half a million bushels.

Price, who will return to Texas within a short time to direct the harvesting of his wheat crop, has announced he would plant 5,000 acres of maize this year. He is conducting several experiments with irrigation on his large holdings in the Panhandle.

Farmer Near Pearsall Shows Beet Weighing 18½ Pounds

PEARSALL, May 30. (AP)—A stock beet weighing 18 1-4 pounds, recently was exhibited here by Ernest Weiser, farmer of the Schattell community, near Pearsall.

BUCHAREST,—There will probably be a rush on the marriage license bureaus in view of a recent measure considered by the Rumanian Parliament. A bill just introduced provides for an additional tax of 20 per cent on the incomes of all unmarried persons between the ages of 30 and 65. Both men and women are included in this tax.

Wins Show Prize

A. P. Stretton of Calgary, Alberta, won $500 with a slogan for the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held in Regina, Sask., next year. Stretton, a former resident of North Carolina, submitted the following: "Show What You Grow and Share What You Know." Below is a kernel of wheat on which Mrs. Cora Blystone of Ardara, Pa., wrote the Lord's Prayer and sent it in as an exhibit.

Truck Farming Said To Be Increasing On South Plains; Irrigation Is Used; Several Large Farms Being Developed

Truck farming in Lubbock county is increasing according to D. F. Eaton, county agent, who reports more truck farms of five to ten acres being started this year than in any previous year since he has been on the Plains.

"There are a good many irrigated truck farms in the county this year," said Mr. Eaton. "I have never seen or heard of so many.

All Have Gardens

"Besides the farms where garden truck is being raised for commercial purposes, there are a good many farmers who have started home gardens this year. Nearly every farmer has a small, irrigated plot, water being furnished by his windmill."

Around the outskirts of Lubbock there are half a dozen good sized truck farms, including the 30 acres or so on the Kruger farm south and west of town on the Slaton highway; the Crump farm and the Dr. Phillips farm.

Near Monroe is another commercial farm, nearly as large as the Kruger farm.

Frank Reviere has about 10 or 12 acres in truck gardens; Andy Wilson has a farm at Buffalo Springs and there are two on the Johnson ranch, one with eight or ten acres and the other ten or twelve acres. The Morris ranch also has a good sized garden.

Around Slaton there are three or four farmers with half a dozen acres or so in truck gardens.

More than 1,000,000 acres have been distributed to the World war refugees in Greece.

Amendment To Be Agreed On

Consolidation Of Offices Of County Tax Collector And Assessor Will Be Sought In General Election

AUSTIN, May 30. (AP)—Another proposed constitutional amendment is on its way to the people.

Texans will be called upon during the general election of 1932 to decide if they desire to consolidate the offices of county tax collector and assessor.

Both branches of the legislature voted for submission of the proposed amendment.

Mrs. N. R. Strong of Slocum, one of the women legislators, was the author of the proposal.

Supporters of the proposed amendment said they know of no other offices which could be so successfully consolidated. They explained tax collectors worked at one time of the year and assessors at another period.

COLLECTIONS SET RECORD

TEXAS CITY, May 30 (AP)—April customs collections at the port of Texas City set a record when a total of $354,884.47 was collected, the Texas City Terminal Railway company announced.

Cow Is Honored

Monument Erected To Herd Mother

SAN ANGELO, May 30. (AP)—On the Dibrell ranch in Coleman county stands a monument to a cow. It was one of the greatest cows the country ever knew. The monument reads: "Breeze 21st, 31,984; Hereford cow born 1887, died 1903. Mother of the Dibrell herd."

West Texas Not To Be Hit By Grasshoppers This Year

SAN ANGELO, May 30. (AP)—West Texas will not be infested with grasshoppers this year in accordance with the seven-year appearance belief, if early indications prevail, says W. I. Marschall, Tom Green county agent. Few young and a comparatively low number of eggs have been found by the agent in his work.

Wheat In Lubbock County Is Not Damaged By Dry Spell

Wheat in Lubbock county has not been damaged by dry weather or by insects, D. F. Eaton, county agent reports.

Mr. Eaton said that he had not heard of any serious trouble from insects as the weather has been too dry recently to have many insects.

Wheat is in good condition at this time. Harvesting will probably begin late in June.

Wheat planted in North Carolina last fall will reach the normal acreage of 491,000 acres.

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON

"NOUS REVIENDRONS" — THE FAMOUS ALGERIAN PROPHESY

Emperor Charles V made an abortive attempt to conquer the city of Algiers fully three centuries before France finally succeeded. Charles' troops were compelled to withdraw from before the walls of the old corsairs' nest due to a sudden and violent sea storm which shattered the Christian fleet. Among the troops bringing up the rear of the Christian armies was a Frenchman, Chevalier Ponce de Savignac, standard bearer of the Knights of Malta.

It was a highly dramatic moment when the Chevalier advanced for the last time to the Azuna gate of the city and stuck his dagger into the wood, exclaiming "Nous reviendrons." The words turned out to be prophetic, for the French general Count Bourmont, who took Algiers 300 years later at the head of a French expeditionary army, was a direct descendant of the Chevalier.

The story is contained on a marble plaque which is located on the site of the ancient Bab Azuna at Algiers.

MAURICE BRESLAU HAS HAD 22 BONE FRACTURES IN 5 YEARS

Little Maurice Breslau, who lives at 144 South Hubert street, St. Paul, Minnesota, suffered his twenty-second bone fracture early in February, 1931 when he fell down in a school room and fractured his thigh bone. Maurice is now nine years of age, and during the last five years he has had 14 fractured legs, 7 fractures in his left arm, and once he suffered a broken collarbone. Because of the extreme brittleness of his bone tissue a fall that ordinarily would not be noticed sends Maurice to bed in a cast.

Emphasis Is Placed On Farm Improvement; 36 Clubs Are Actively Engaged In Work

Boys And Girls As Well As Farm Women Interested In Work; Many Phases Of Farm Work Developed

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

APPROXIMATELY 1,000 men and women and boys and girls in Lubbock county are engaged in club work of various kinds working under the direction of the three county agents, D. F. Eaton, county agent and R. N. McClain, his assistant, and Miss Ruth Stockton, home demonstration agent.

Most of these engaged in the work are farm people, some are from the towns such as Idalou and Slaton, but the greater part are men and women and their families living on farms or small places in the country.

Several Branches Of Work

There are several branches of the work, club work for boys, club work for girls, club work for women, demonstration work for men and special work for women.

In addition a new line of work has been opened up, the federal seed and feed loans bringing a number of people into closer connection with the demonstration work than heretofore. Because of the work of Mr. Eaton, Miss Stockton and Mr. McClain is supported in part by federal government appropriations. Any rural person in the county, or any one in fact, is eligible to receive assistance from the agents. This work is given free of charge as far as advice and counsel is concerned.

Has Large Class

"I believe I have a larger class of students under my direction than any other one teacher in the county," Miss Stockton said in discussing her work. "I have 474 women and girls in my classes and I do not know of any teacher with that many pupils.

"The work that I do, I consider more along the line of instruction than any other line. Women and girls are the students and they are receiving instruction that will enable them to live more comfortably and more economically."

153 Girls Enrolled

In 12 4-H clubs of the work Miss Stockton has 153 girls enrolled; in 11 women's clubs there are 252 women while in three special clubs for women that have not so far been officially named there are 63 other women. These latter are doing special work along pantry and canning club work in the 4-H schedule.

Besides these women there are 50 women whose husbands received federal loans who are receiving special work, bringing the actual number of women and girls in the club work to over 525.

There are 15 clubs of boys in 4-H work with 323 boys taking care of 361 projects. These clubs are in as many communities, Mr. Eaton said.

Besides these there are 15 dairy demonstrators, 15 poultry demonstrators, 15 crop demonstrators and about 100 farmers each year take special instruction in terracing work.

Seed Is Selected

The work of the committee of the county farm bureau in the selection of pure seed, both grain sorghum and cotton, for farmers, has been a big factor in the work of the county agent's office. This brought in touch with Mr. Eaton several hundred farmers, as more than a car load of certified cotton seed was sold through the office around Lubbock alone.

"I consider this a very important work," Mr. Eaton said. "We have had as high an average through this and the feed and seed loans, of 23 or more callers a day at this office. This has given us new fields of work."

Just now Mr. Eaton is helping in the training of a team of poultry judges and one of dairy cattle judges for the annual state contest at Texas A. and M. in College Station.

Hope To Win Trip

"Besides these teams we have one training for dairy demonstration work that we hope will win a trip to the national show in St. Louis," he added.

Clubs of boys in the county and their memberships are: Acuff, 25; Bledsoe, 30; Center, 16; Canyon, 15; County Line, 26; Foster, 9; Grovesville, 20; Hardy, 22; Hurlwood, 9; Idalou, 28; Liberty, 26; McClung, 19; New Hope, 18; Posey, 9; Shallowater, 20, and Union, 21, total 232.

The 361 projects of these boys are divided in five classes: cotton, 100; grain sorghums, 135; small grains, 5; livestock, 83, and poultry, 38. The projects include: cotton, 100; milo maize, 92; kafir, 8; red top cane, 8; Hegari, 20; sudan, 7; oats, 2; wheat, 2, and barley, 1; hogs, 53; dairy calves, 23; beef calves, 2, and sheep, 5; poultry, 33, and turkeys, 5.

LIFE OF CRIME

LONDON—George William Dixon posing as a doctor, borrowed some money from Arthur Cooper to pay cab fare. Cooper watched him and saw that he didn't pay any cabby, but boarded a tram for London. He notified police, who took Dixon into custody. They found that he had been sentenced to serve a total of 27 years in jail since 1895 on many different charges. The judge added another, six months for defraud.

It is said that if one per cent of the eggs laid by oysters came to maturity the increase in oysters would be so rapid that within 50 years they would fill the seas and all the countries of the world would be flooded by an overflow of water.

Crack And She's Out

"This shell ain't what it's cracked up to be, so I guess I'll go out and see what the world's like," says little Miss Chick. A photographer at Akron, Ohio, caught her just as she made her worldly debut.

"Well, here I am. I'm not so good-looking now, but just you wait until I get all the way out of this shell.

"Whoops! Still a little weak on my pins, but I'll be up and around soon.

"Well, well! So this is the world! I'll be seein' youh next year—but I'll probably be stewed or fried then."

She's Not Dumb

Hen Decreases Size Of Her Eggs

SHAMROCK, May 30 (AP)—A hen owned by A. V. Purcell of this city laid 10 eggs in 10 days and all of them together weighed less than two ounces.

"The lower the price of eggs, the smaller the eggs that hen lays," Purcell said. "Until two weeks ago—that was before she acquired her new economic ideas—she was a good hen and as sensible as you could find any place. Then she went haywire, brooding over the low price of eggs, I suppose. Eggs dropped to 10 cents a dozen and she cut her product down to one-fourth of an ounce. The price dropped to eight cents, and now I can hardly find the eggs. They are actually no larger than doctors' pills."

The owner expressed the belief that the hen was trying to make her product conform to the price.

Right-Of-Way Is Sought For Road

CHILDRESS, May 30. (AP)—Committees from Childress, Wellington, Shamrock and Pampa are working to obtain right-of-way for the new line of the Denver north from this city to Shamrock and then to Pampa.

The Denver recently was granted permission to build between Childress and Shamrock with the understanding that the Rock Island would be permitted to buy half interest in the line. Denver officials now say they are ready to build when the right-of-way is available.

Committees have been organized in each of the towns along the route, and estimates are being obtained of the value of land to be condemned. Other committees are working to raise funds to pay for the right-of-way, hoping to have it available as soon as possible.

About 60,000,000,000 cigarets, a large part of which are manufactured of American tobacco or imported directly from the United States, are now consumed annually in China.

The BOOK SURVEY

'Law West Of The Pecos' Recalled In Biography

San Antonio Man Has New Book On Judge Roy Bean

AT LAST the colorful, picturesque and resourceful "Judge" Roy Bean is to come into his own. Twenty-eight years after the famous self-styled "Law West of the Pecos," Justice of the Peace, saloon keeper, wit, jester and grande alcalde of a far-flung though mythical jurisdiction, passed away at Langtry, he is the subject of a rather elaborate and entertaining biography by Everett Lloyd, San Antonio editor and writer.

The title of Lloyd's book is "Law West of the Pecos: The Story of Roy Bean," the first edition of which will be released to the book-trade and libraries in June by the University Press, Inc., San Antonio.

Has Authentic Photographs

The Bean biography contains nearly two hundred pages, twenty of which are devoted to rare illustrations made from authentic photographs hitherto unpublished. So striking are the illustrations that they may be said to constitute one of the most valuable features of the book. However, the book itself has everything in its favor. Some idea of its completeness is afforded by the chapter contents which include, in addition to a prologue—which is a highly creditable piece of descriptive background—chapters on "The Trail of Roy Bean"; "How Much of What is Written and Told of Roy Bean is True"; "Lillie Langtry and Roy Bean"; "Roy Bean and W. H. Dodd"; "The Life and Times of Roy Bean"; Justice of the Peace—Law West of the Pecos"; "The Death of Roy Bean"; and "The Saga of Roy Bean".

During recent months, the Saturday Evening Post and several other magazines have carried articles dealing with Roy Bean. Interest in the man and his unique system of dispensing law and liquor alternately is constantly increasing. For several years, Everett Lloyd has been collecting material and photographs for the Bean biography and he is the first to assemble in book form all the genuine, worthwhile Roy Bean stories, farcical and ludicrous decisions and rulings which have become a part of our humorous legal folklore, familiar to lawyers and laymen alike. The chapters dealing with the life and times of Bean accurately cover all the events of his career.

Although three different New York publishers agreed and wanted to bring out Everett Lloyd's book on Roy Bean, the author felt that as the book deals with a famous Texas character and was written by a Texan, it was fitting that it should be published by a Texas publishing corporation.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement of the release date of, "Law West of the Pecos," tentative offers were made by a well known Hollywood picture producer to make the book into a talkie at the option of the author. A second and third edition of "Law West of the Pecos" has already been scheduled by the publishers, and arrangements are pending looking to its future publication as a syndicated serial.

Everett Lloyd is widely known in newspaper and literary circles. He was educated at Tulane University and the University of Texas. As a newspaper reporter, he worked on various papers throughout the country, and for five years was staff writer of the National Magazine of Boston. His home is in San Antonio where he is the editor and publisher of Lloyd's Magazine.

Sailor's Heaven

"Fiddlers' Green" is the paradise of sailors and the title of a book of sea legends, tall tales told by Albert R. Wetjen.

Tommy Lawn, a second mate, goes down when his ship hits an iceberg. In the Valhalla of the deep, where good sailors enjoy eternal wine, women and song, he meets Davy Jones, Mother Carey and other characters of nautical mythology and hears of their origin. The story's salty appeal is to the sea narrative addicts.

Royal Adventure

RUMANIA'S royal adventures have been compiled by Konrad Bercovici.

The title, "That Royal Lover," apparently refers to the reigning King Carol. But it's difficult to isolate the royal lovers in the lusty record as recited by Bercovici.

In deploring tone the author, noted for his gypsy lore, pictures his native land in a sade state, on the verge of revolution.

Rumanian Scandals

Carol II gets the breaks in the book. Whatever else he does, Bercovici says, he shoulders responsibilities. But the author writes:

"If Carol sits much longer on the throne of Rumania, the time is not far off when he will again be seen behind a little table on the terrace of a Parisian cafe; just one more exiled king. . . . And lean fingers will point to him.

"'There is the man who could have averted the greatest European war and has failed to do so'."

As for the adventures, many already are familiar to readers of cable dispatches. Bercovici charges Queen Marie and her political allies set up a publicity campaign to expose the liaison between Prince Carol and Magda Lupescu, red-head daughter of a junk peddler, to antagonize her subjects and the world against him.

Bercovici begins his account with a brief history of his country and a revelation of its natural resources, mainly wheat and oil. He alleges that powerful princes have bled and impoverished the country.

He names alleged powers behind the throne.

He tells of revels and machinations, intrigues, orgies and anti-Semitic butchery.

When Carol flew from exile to claim his throne, Bercovici writes, he was preceded by a French actor, disguised to look like him. It was the actor who first acknowledged the cheers of the people from the royal balcony, Bercovici says; Carol slipped in by a back door under cover of darkness.

This Dog Has A Cork Leg

When friends call around to congratulate Dinny, a Boston spaniel, on his convalescence, he can "shake hands" with them by using his cork leg. Here Dinny is shown with Dr. W. A. Young of Boston who amputated the leg that was crushed by an automobile and substituted the artificial one.

Court "Bad News"

Defendants Well In Fearing

LOCKHART, May 30 (AP)—The Lockhart district court might be termed "bad news" for defendants.

There hasn't been an acquittal since Nov. 9, 1923, District Clerk Wiley A. Hartsfield's records revealed. There have been of course, a number of suspended sentences during that period of nearly eight years.

There has been one death penalty, as well as three life sentences, Clerk Hartsfield said.

In Texas there's an old saying, "Only strangers predict weather," and it was certainly proven during this period. It was cold one day and warm the next, and several times it was cold and warm in the same day. During the period, most cities had their official straw hat days. Then a couple of days later those courageous souls who had purchased new straws were digging out the old felt hat, because it was so chilly that straw hats looked silly. So remember that gas was used for heating during a large portion of this period.

They Deserve The Honor

W. K. McLEMORE, former sheriff of Wheeler county, will receive a medal today for his courage in preventing a lynching at Shamrock on the 12th of last July. With Sheriff W. W. Covington, of Jefferson county, Beaumont, Mr. McLemore is the second Texas peace officer to be thus honored.

Doubtless there were citizens of Wheeler and Jefferson counties who, in the heat of anger, criticized those two Texas officers for the brave parts they played in saving a 'nigger' from the hands of a mob. Yet it is probable that many of those same citizens, in the calm of today, glory in the spunk of the men—the spunk which has caused them to be honored for bravery in public office.

Over in Sherman they are battling, pro and con, on the erection of a new courthouse to take the place of the building demolished by a mob which lynched a negro attack suspect. Some Grayson county people want to build now—others prefer waiting until times are better. Had Grayson county's sheriff been successful in halting the frenzied mob—as Sheriffs McLemore and Covington were—Grayson county people wouldn't have been worried now over "to spend, or not to spend" for a badly needed public building.

The Avalanche-Journal believes Texans should be proud of the two men who are honored publically for their part in upholding law and order in times of stress. The 'niggers' they protected until the law could take its course might have been—and probably were—deserving of quick punishment. Yet in upholding the letter of the law Messrs. Covington and McLemore have set a precedent which cannot but be praised.

NO SYMPATHY HERE

For some reason or other, we fail to rustle up very much sympathy for the 'American' who was executed in Italy the other day for alleged plotting against Mussolini.

If Michele Schirru had been as much of an American' as his citizenship papers might indicate, he wouldn't have been in Italy—the land of his birth—getting himself mixed up in political troubles.

The best place for Americans is America.

If they insist upon living abroad, they must take the consequences, particularly when they take a hand in something that is distinctly none of their affair.

The Avalanche-Journal has no great love for Mussolini, or for his methods of doing things. But as long as he suits the Italians and leaves us alone, we should worry about his activities.

Practical Health Problems

OBESITY is a condition of the body in which the weight, because of excessive storage of fat is above normal. There are certain fixed standards of weight that are available at any public scale so an arbitrary figure of twenty five percent above the normal would be called obesity. Fat people are grounded thus those who inspire envy, those who occasion laughter, those who call forth sympathy.

The classification of obesity is as follows: (1) alimentary obesity, (2) constitutional obesity, (3) obesity due to disease.

By alimentary obesity we mean obesity due to either eating too much, exercising too little or both. Age has a great deal to do with obesity. At 30 one is ten pounds heavier than at 20 and 40 to 45 another ten pounds has been added. This is due to mental contentment and relaxation that comes of middle age or diminished exercise, or to lessened activity of thyroid or other endocrine glands.

By Constitutional obesity we mean the type of individual which shows a predisposition to be fat regardless of food intake or exercise taken. The mechanism of metabolism is abnormal in these individuals and naturally the condition is harder to treat. It is really a disease in itself.

Obesity due to disease is usually due to faulty endocrine gland function. The two glands most involved being the pituatory and thyroid. The "fat lady" of the side show belongs in this group. The fat does not have a healthy appearance and is not evenly distributed over the body.

Obesity should be prevented if possible. There are three groups of individuals who should especially strive to remain thin. Namely (1) those handicapped by a familial tendency to obesity, (2) those who have a diabetic tendency, (3) chronic sufferers from heart disease, nephritis, arthritis or gout.

Prevention of obesity demands the same rigid dietary regime as cure. One must avoid the "freak" diets, also it is a mistake to omit breakfast and eat twice as much for lunch. At first rigid self denial is necessary but later there come a time when temperance in diet leads to a change in habit.

Now that it is fashionable for women to be thin many of that sex have brought on weakness, anemia, serious breakdowns and even some diseases by literally starving themselves. The danger of a procedure such as this is very evident. In cases of advanced illness such as Brights disease and heart failure reduction must be slow and gradual so as not to shock the individual too much. There are numerous reasons why people should remain thin such as (1) thin people are less likely to have disease, (2) to much fat interfers with muscular activity, (3) obesity handicaps the heart, causes it to have to work too hard and even causes degeneration of the organ itself, (4) the deposition of fat in the abdominal cavity lessons the movement of the diaphram and other organs, (5) the function of the skin as a heat regulator is diminished because fat is a poor conductor of heat and impedes the circulation.

Very little will be said about the treatment of obesity as this is too detailed to appear here. By consulting your family physician a suitable diet regime can be obtained and the reduction in weight checked upon. However a few words may not be amiss.

The objects of the treatment of obesity are twofold. (1) To curtail the intake of food, (2) to insure its utilization. In restricting the intake great care should be taken to avoid the loss of protein, mineral or vitamin deficiency and the distress of great hunger. A patient should not lose over five pounds monthly and should not weigh oftener than once a week.

Simply prepared fods not rich in fats and requiring no butter, a very little cream should be eaten. Very little bread should be eaten. Any craving for carbohydrates can be satisfied with potatoes which satisfy ones hunger with less fattening qualities.

In conclusion, this paper is merely to start obese people to thinking and by going to their physician get a suitable diet including daily menus which will get them back to normal with the least disturbance in metabolism.

Tribunal More Liberal

Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The supreme court of the United States has just finished its first full session since President Hoover appointed Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts to the bench, and the plain truth is that some of the conservative "interests" seem rather upset by the general tenor of its altered personnel's decisions.

Charles Evans Hughes

It certainly cannot be called radical in its judgment even yet; nevertheless the consensus among lawyers of long experience is that it is more liberal than it was.

Press comment suggests that popular attention has been attracted predominantly by the tribunal's ruling in the Yetta Stromberg case, appealed from California, in which legislatures are denied the right to penalize legitimate opposition to organized government—as several states have been trying to do recently under anti-red statutes of various sorts.

Business men, however, legal authorities predict, will be more concerned in the long run in the court's latest findings upholding such legislation as Indiana's tax upon chain enterprises and Ohio's upon the interstate transmission of gas and electric power.

The constitutionality of the Hoosier effort in behalf of independent merchandising and the Buckeye method of attempting to restrict the power industry having been established, immediate moves in the same direction at other state capitals naturally are foreseen, with every prospect of far-reaching commercial and political consequences.

The scattering of the campaign thither and yon, far afield from Washington, where it is easy to watch and oppose with a minimum of exertion, is not the least of the anticipated effects of the supreme court's two decisions which conservatives mention in tones of anxiety and progressives delightedly.

Tory sentiment unquestionably is deeply disappointed in Chief Justice Hughes and progressive-ism correspondingly happy.

Justice Roberts was regarded from the first as inclined to liberality, but not sufficiently so, it was thought, to offset the new chief justice, provided the latter proved as safely conservative as was expected. It is true that, as an insurance investigator 25 years ago, and even as governor of New York, he caused entrenched privilege considerable worry, but it was believed he had outgrown these advanced tendencies. Perhaps it should have been recalled that he did not appear entirely to have done so while an associate justice in the earlier 1900's, but the bench was not so evenly balanced then and probably his personal opinions were less noticeable. Assuredly he was conservative enough as secretary of state.

The court's last session, at any rate, has demonstrated that the chief justice and Associate Roberts are about on a par—both mild liberals; very mild. However, what ultra-conservatism had hoped for in Chief Justice Hughes, at least, was ultra-conservatism.

The late Chief Justice Taft was as conservative as anyone could have desired. The late Justice Sanford was equally conservative. Justices Van Devanter and Sutherland still are. Justices Butler and McReynolds were and are more conservative yet—Justice McReynolds the most of any of them.

Justices Holmes and Brandeis have been, and remain, as everyone knows, pronounced liberals. Justice Stone is a somewhat more moderate one.

Thus before the death of Chief Justice Taft and Associate Sanford, the bench was conservative by a comfortable majority—Chief Justice Taft and and McReynolds (6) versus Associates Holmes, Brandeis and Stone (3).

Today the lineup:

Chief Justice Hughes and Associates Holmes, Brandeis, Stone and Roberts (5 liberals) versus Associates Van Devanter, Sutherland, Butler and McReynolds (4 conservatives).

Of course one requires almost a barrel of salt when referring to Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Roberts as out-and-out liberals, and a good-sized pinch of it in so referring to Associate Stone.

Still, for supreme court justices they are fairly liberal.

A lawyer who professes to have looked up the record told me that not in all of the nearly 30 years he has been on the supreme bench has Justice Holmes been on the majority side of so many divided-court decisions as during the last session.

THE ZOO TO HAVE A COW

The Detroit Zoological park is to add an ordinary milk cow to its collection of animals this season. The cow, which will be included in a general barnyard exhibit, will satisfy the curiosity of juvenile Detroiters, thousands of whom, it is said, have never seen a cow except in pictures or from a train window.

A cow is not a romantic nor even an inspiring animal, but it marks a transition point in American life when a cow is enough of a curiosity that it can be put on exhibition in a zoo. It is another evidence of the growing urban life of America. It will be equally logical some day to include a horse, or chickens and turkeys.

In his opportunities for book learning and for creature conveniences, the city child of today has it all over the children of a generation ago, but he pays a large price for such advantages in getting his nature study in an artificial way. So there seems no good reason on the whole why a cow should not be included in the zoo.

Today's Economic Ills Are Compared To Awful Winter At Valley Forge By Herbert Hoover In Memorial Speech

(By Associated Press)

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., May 30—Characterizing the history of Valley Forge as the birthplace of the nation's economic freedom and comparing the awful winter of the Revolution to the business depression of today, President Herbert Hoover made the annual Memorial Day address at this historic shrine.

PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER

The text of the President's address follows in full:

"We are upon the eve of the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. It is, therefore, appropriate that our observance of Memorial Day should this year be at this place, so intimately associated with the moral grandeur of the Father of our Country.

"This national shrine needs no description; the events enacted here require no recounting to the American people. The very name, Valley Forge, swells with us a pride of nationality. These peaceful fields hold a glory peculiarly their own. The sufferings of Washington's army in that dreadful winter of privation have made this place famous among all men.

Calls Field A Shrine

"It was not the glory of battle for which these fields are remembered. No great battle was fought here. It was not the pomp of victory, for no martial triumph was won here. It was not the scene where peace was signed by which independence of a great nation was won. It was not the tombs of courageous men who, facing the enemy gave the supreme sacrifice for their country to which we bow in reverence. A thousand other fields mark the courage, the glory, the valor, the skill, the martial triumph of our race. Yet the instinct and the judgment of our people, after the abrasion of the years, has appraised this place as a foremost shrine in the war of independence and in our nation. It is a shrine to the things of the spirit and of the soul.

"It was the transcendent fortitude and steadfastness of these men, who in adversity and in suffering through the darkest hour of our history held faithful to an ideal. Here men endured that a nation might live.

Praise For Patriots

"George Washington and his men at any moment could have accepted the counsels of an easy path to an easy end of their privations. They could have surrendered their ideals to the widespread spirit of despair and discouragement. They could have abandoned their claims to freedom. They could have deserted their hopes and forsaken their faith. Instead, they chose the harder way of steadfast fortitude and for many of death.

"Here Washington and his little band of hungry and almost naked patriots kept alive the spark of liberty in the lowest hours of the revolution. They met the crisis with steadfast fortitude; they conserved their strength; they husbanded their resources; they seized the opportunity, which, with the turn and tide of war, led on to victory. It was a triumph of character and idealism and high intelligence over the counsels of despair, of prudence, and material comfort. This was one of those moral victories that are the glory of the race. Without such victories the life of man would descend to a sheer materialism for 'where there is no vision the people perish.' Lacking these high inspirations mankind could claim no distinction higher than the beasts of the field, that sing no songs, dream no dreams, inspire no hope, and grasp no faith.

Commemorate Spirit

"It is this high spirit that we commemorate when we pay our yearly tribute of reverence to those who in all wars have stood steadfast and those who have died in the service of our country. They have responded willingly, because in every emergency they have had up before them an ideal of liberty and the freedom of their country. Some wars in history have been instigated by old and cynical men for cruel or selfish reasons. Some wars have been fought for power and possessions. The ends of some wars could have been more nobly won and more wisely won by patience and negotiation. But war for liberty has endowed the race not alone with the most precious possessions of freedom but has inspired every succeeding generation with that idealism which is the outpouring of man's spiritual nature.

An ideal is an unselfish aspiration. Its purpose is the general welfare not only of this but of future generations. It is a thing of the spirit. It is a generous and humane desire that all men may share equally in a common good. Our ideals are the cement which binds human society. They provide the mainspring of progress. Idealism was forged into the souls of the American people by the fires of the revolution. It is this quality of spirit which has made possible the success of our great democratic experiment. It has tempered our acquisitiveness, has strengthened our sense of civic responsibility, and has made service to fellow man a part of our national character.

Valley Forge Now

"This peculiar significance of Valley Forge in our American annals should strike us all with especial force in this particular moment of our national life. The American people are going through another Valley Forge at this time. To each and every one of us it is an hour of unusual stress and trial. You have each one of you special cause of anxiety. So, too, have I. The whole nation is beset with difficulties incidental to a world-wide depression. These temporary reverses in the march of progress have been in part the penalty of excesses of greed, of failure of crops, and the malign inheritances of the great war and a storm of other world forces beyond our control. Their far-reaching effects have fallen heavily upon many who were in no wise concerned with their causes. Many have lost the savings of a lifetime, many are unemployed, all know the misgivings of doubt and grave concern for the future.

Is Passing Trial

"No one who reviews the past and realizes the vast strength of our people can doubt that this, like a score of similar experiences in our history, is a passing trial. From it will come a greater knowledge of the weaknesses of our system, and from this knowledge must come the courage and wisdom to improve and strengthen us for the future. Numerous are the temptations under the distress of the day to turn aside from our true national purposes and from wise national policies and fundamental ideals of the men who builded our republic. Never was the lure of the rosy path to every panacea and of easy ways to imagined security more tempting.

For the energies of private initiative of independence, and a high degree of individual freedom of our American system we are offered an alluring substitute in the specious claim that everybody collectively owes each of us individually a living rather than an opportunity to earn a living and the equally specious claim that hired representatives of a hundred million people can do better than the people themselves in thinking and planning their daily life.

Brings U. S. Greatness

"The revolution of which Valley Forge was the darkest but perhaps the most glorious moment, was fought not alone for national independence but to retain our freedom to continue unhampered the most promising social experiment in all human history. Our American ideals had already been in process of development for a century when the War for Independence began. Our government was an experiment in securing to a people the maximum of individual freedom. Amazing success has proved it is no longer an experiment. Under it has grown a social and economic system new in the world and distinctly our own. Human initiative has been inspired, human energies released, local cooperation has solidly knit together communities into self-governing democracies, and the human spirit has blossomed in an atmosphere of a new independence and self-respect. It brought America to a greatness unparalleled in the history of the world.

"We must ever continue that fight. Amid the scene of vastly growing complexity of our economic life we must preserve the independence of the individual from the deadening restraints of government, yet by the strong arm of government equally protect his individual freedom, assure his fair chance, his equality of opportunity from the encroachments of special privileges and greed or denomination by any group or class.

"We are still fighting this War of Independence. We must not be misled by the claim that the source of all wisdom is in the government. We know that the source of wisdom is

Curtis Keen, Former Lubbock Editor And C-C Secretary, Comes Back For Visit After Five Year Absence And Writes Of His Impression Of The New City Here

BY CURTIS A. KEEN
Former Lubbock Editor And C. of C. Secretary

EDITOR'S NOTE

Curtis A. Keen, former secretary of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and former editor of The Plains Journal, from which the present Lubbock Daily Journal grew, visited Lubbock during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. It was his first visit here for a period of five years.

His observations and comments on what he found in Lubbock after being absent from the city during a period of great growth, are being presented here in the same vein he used in his articles published in The Plains Journal under the heading "Keen Comments." Mr Keen's front page column of local comments was widely read at the time he was editor of the local paper.

You ask me what changes I find in Lubbock—or rather what I think of Lubbock after these five years I have been away—nearly eight years since I moved away but five since I passed through the city?

Frankly, I think it still is one of the most remarkable cities in the world. It took me more than a year after I moved to Lubbock to get accustomed to the way the Lubbock people stepped right out and did whatever it was that had to be done, without regard to the difficulties to be encountered or consideration of established precedents. Witness the old railroad dump east of town—pure bluff—but such a magnificent bluff that even the bluffers began to almost believe in the project in the end. But it gave Lubbock her first railroad. Less spectacular, but equally effective, tactics have brought her many more since that time.

The same thing is true of our County Park and the Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds — (note that I inadvertently said "Our" County Park)—legal possibly only by the skin of your teeth—but necessary to Lubbock's fullest growth and possible future and created they were—out of thin air and in the face of more than a few difficulties.

The Texas Technological college, Hotel Lubbock and then later the Hilton, the municipal light and water plants, the Santa Fe underpasses, the paved streets, public school buildings, the City hall, taxation support of the Chamber of Commerce—all of these things have been BUILT in Lubbock with an average mixture of about one part finance, one part reason, four parts necessity and at least four parts nerve. It is this mixture, properly stirred with civic confidence and enthusiasm and frequently applied with wholehearted cooperation that has produced the City of Lubbock that we see here and that is responsible for that nationally famous civic intoxicant known as the Lubbock Spirit.

Nationally Famous

And the Spirit of Lubbock is nationally famous. You know it was only just a little over ten years ago when I first came to Lubbock as manager of your Chamber of Commerce and was faced with the almost super-human problem of finding enough people on our population recount to put the city over the 4,000 population mark. Where E. L. Klett, Jimmie Dow, Bud Jones, and some of the other old-timers got the odd 51 people that brought our count to 4,051 in the 1920 census is nobody's business now. Uncle Sam was satisfied then and that is all needs to be said. And you went over the 20,000 mark in 1930 without half trying.

Being in the hotel business it is natural that Lubbock's hotel facilities would impress me first. No city in America, of like size and need, is better served with first class, modern, efficiently operated hotels than is Lubbock. No city can advance faster or further than its hotel facilities, and its newspaper and chamber of commerce leadership. Lubbock has all of these to a superlative degree and its future is limited only by the capacity of its business men to continue, take chances, work together and justify the confidence the surrounding trade territory has always accorded the city as the recognized market, distributing and commercial center of the South Plains country.

Remembers Slogan

"Cities Do Not Happen—They Are Built"—is more than a slogan—it is a statement of fact whose truth is established in the material and cultural accomplishments of Lubbock, the city that has certainly been built.

The money brought into Lubbock is not the full, nor even greatest value of Texas Technological college to Lubbock. Population, publicity, improved cultural, as well as commercial conditions, are other dividends that are daily accruing from the investment in effort, fight and money that was expended in securing this great institution for Lubbock and the South Plains country. The education of the boys and girls of this great city and growing country will forever pay increasing dividends in an ever improving class of citizenship, a more desirable class of new citizens and a higher standard of living.

Likes High School

The present magnificent new High school in Lubbock would not have been possible without the broadening influence of Tech college and the better appreciation of the requirements for modern facilities for more effective education engendered by Tech college in the minds of the public. The new Lubbock High school is not only one of the first half dozen high schools in America in point of plan, design and modern efficiency—but an outstanding symbol of the position of leadership that Lubbock has assumed in educational, as well as commercial circles of the country. It may have cost you 10 to 20 percent more than the prosaic old square school building would have cost you—but it will be worth ten times the additional cost in the influence it will have in holding youngsters in school and the favorable comment the city will get over the nation by virtue of its unusual beauty and completeness as a high school plant.

Raps Lack of Plan

A thousand things I could cite that struck me most favorably as I drove about the streets of Lubbock—but there is one thing that amazed me by your backwardness, that without the other redeeming features would automatically class Lubbock as a hick-village, and that is going to cost you grief and cash and be a blotch on your civic pride for many years to come. That is your lack of an intelligent and effective city plan or building restriction ordinance. Of all the objectionable, displeasing, incongruous sights I have ever seen in my life the jumble of buildings that are being thrown together on some of your most exclusive and beautiful residential streets are the worst. Right next to a $20,000 home on a beautiful residential street, adjacent to your public parks or schools, are being erected shacks occupied by unsightly businesses.

I know of no city in America of half Lubbock's size and future possibilities, that is so sorely afflicted with these unsightly handicaps to your civic appearance. It is just like moving your potato bins, your coal box and washing machines into the center of the beautifully furnished living room of your home. They are necessary—and you can't blame the operators of the various stores and businesses for locating where they think they can do the most business at the least expense. But certainly it is time that action is taken to stop the despoiling of your residential districts with such value destroying nuisances and steps taken to develop the city along a preconceived, well thought-out civic plan looking to the protection of your property and improved appearance of your city, as well as improved service to the public.

But were your faults a million times more—still I would love Lubbock!

IN INSOLVENT STATE

KNOXVILLE—Someone in the office of L. D. Smith, state attorney-general, made a comical error. In a brief read in Federal Judge Taylor's court on an injunction plea, "The sovereign state of Tennessee," as dictated by Smith, became "The solvent state of Tennessee." Smith is still looking for the stenographer.

Special Services To Be Held In City Churches

Programs Of Interest Are On Schedule

Memorial Day Services Are To Be Observed; Baptist Minister To Preach Sermon On Modern Dance Evils

PROGRAMS of unusual interest will mark evening services at three Lubbock churches today. In observance of Christian Education day, a pageant, "The Lamp" is to be produced at the First Methodist church. Memorial day will be the theme of the service at the First Christian church and Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, has announced as his sermon subject for this evening "Christ Crucified in the Homes of His Friends, or the Modern Dance."

Fiske Miles is directing the First Methodist pageant, assisted by Mrs. J. O. Haymes, Mrs. E. R. Robinson, Mrs. J. T. Shaver, Mrs. Ernest Nelson, Mrs. R. L. Fletcher and Miss Mary Alice Walden.

Theme for Citizenship

The first part deals with "The Light of the Ancient Page". Miss Willie Mae Hawthorne, H. P. Hargis and Miss Ruth Glazier take part in the prologue. The Light on the New Page" and "The Triumph of Light" are two other parts of the pageant.

Mrs. Carl Scoggin will direct the music. Mrs. Mamie I. Neal is at the organ. Richard Cavett has charge of the lighting and stage.

Song Services Slated

An octet is to sing "Just Beyond" (Gabriel) at the evening service at the First Christian church. A mixed quartet will offer Wilson's "Tread Softly." The choir will sing as an anthem "Memoral Day Praise" by Creswell.

Following the offertory a male quartet is to sing "I Sleep But Love Still Waketh" (Wilson) and the Rev. Walter P. Jennings is to preach on "A Nation's Tribute to Its Heroic Dead."

The positions of the various churches, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Jewish, Catholic, Baptist, etc., will be cited by the Rev. Campbell in his sermon on the dance tonight. One of the questions raised will be "Should those in charge of the entertainment of our conventions stoop to the level of the dance to entertain the visitors?"

Blood-Thunder

Romance, sweet and unsophisticated, is returning with such pictures as "Daddy-Long-Legs" and "Merely Mary Ann," starring Janet Gaynor; adventurous romance like "The Son of India" with Ramon Novarro, and the eternal "Western" romance, the plain boy-and-girl story,—all ride serenely on, cycles or no cycles. The revived interest in "kid pictures," like "Tom Sawyer," "Skippy," and the rest, continues.

But it's the trend toward mystery stories that is most pronounced at present. Inspired by the success of "Dracula," Universal is making "Frankenstein," and Paramount offers Frederic March in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Ad Valorem Tax Levy Considered

AUSTIN, May 30. (AP)—The Texas legislature has voted to submit to the voters a proposal to amend the state constitution to exempt from ad valorem tax levy $3,000 taxable value in all homesteads. Advocates of the amendment claim the exemption would lift the ad valorem tax duty entirely from thousands of small home owners. The amendment will be voted on in November 1932.

Should the amendment be authorized, Texas would become the first state in the union to exempt small homesteads from state taxes. The homesteads would continue liable for local taxes, such as county, road district and school levies, the amendment removing the state assessment against real property to pay governmental expenses.

Under an existing law homesteads of whatever value are not liable to attachment for debt in Texas. One's homestead cannot be seized under any circumstances.

The hen died shortly after the egg was laid.

Hoover's Speech

in the people; that the people can win anew the victory. But that wisdom is not innate. Rather it is born out of experience, and most of all out of precisely such experience as is brought to us by the darkest moments—the Valley Forges—of our individual and national careers. It is in the meeting of such moments that are born new insights, new sympathies, new powers, new skills. That is precisely why the wisdom of the few instead of the many fails to build an enduring government or an enduring people. Such battles as we are in the midst of today can not be won by any single stroke, by any one strategy sprung from the mind of any single genius. The necessary multitude of individuals and group adjustments to new conditions is altogether too vast and too complex for that. Rather must we pin our faith upon the inventiveness, the resourcefulness, the initiative of everyone of us. That cannot fail us if only we keep the faith in our selves and our future, and in the constant growth of our intelligence and ability to cooperate with one another.

Praise Common Man

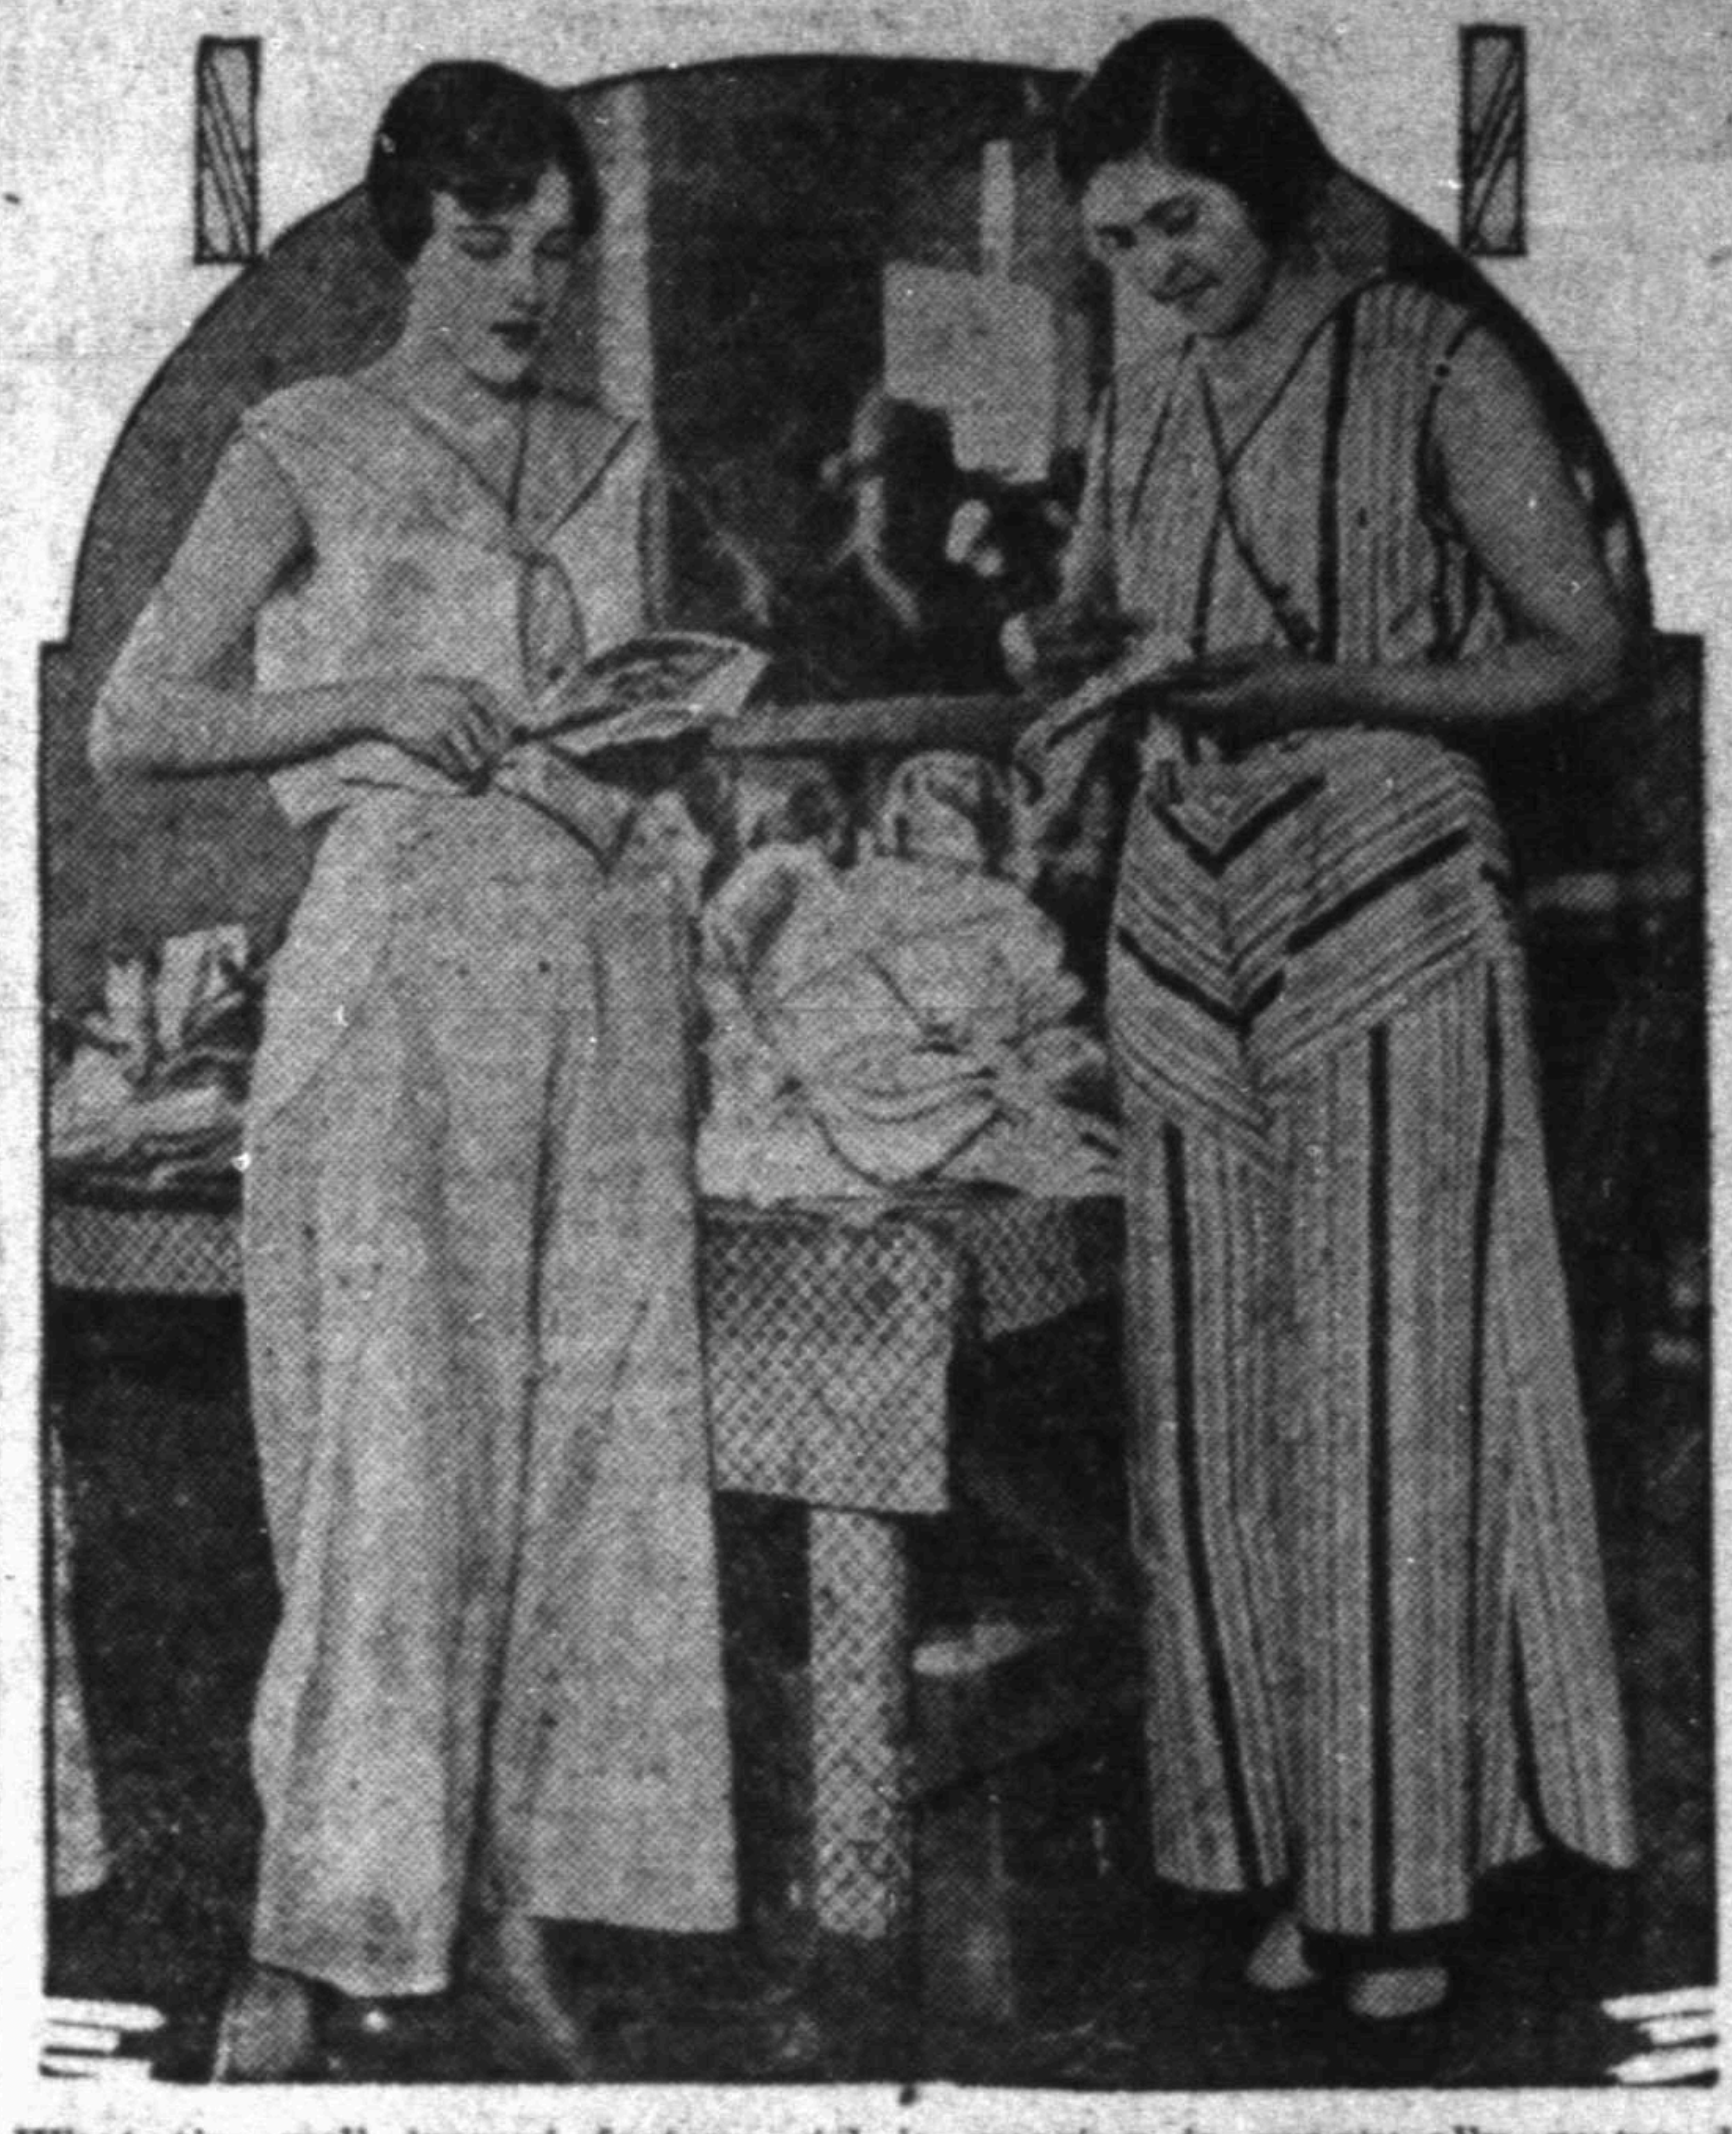
"Sirens still sing the song of the common man, the inherited tradition of an independent and self-reliant race, the historical memory of Americans who glory in Valley Forge even as they glory in Yorktown—all these tell us the truth for which our ancestors fought and suffered, the truth which echoes upward form this soil of blood and tears, that the way to the nation's greatness is the path of self-reliance, independence, and steadfastness in times of trial and stress.

"Valley Forge met such a challenge to steadfastness in times and terms of war. Our test is to meet this challenge in times and terms of peace. It is the same challenge. It is the same test of steadfastness of will, of clarity of thought, of resolution of character, of fixity of purpose, of loyalty to ideals and of unshaken conviction that they will prevail. We are enduring sufferings and we are assailed by temptations. We, too, are writing a new chapter in American history. If we weaken, as Washington did not, we shall be writing the intrdouction to the decline of American character and the fall of American institutions. If we are firm and farsighted, as were Washington and his men, we shall be writing the introduction to a yet more glorious epoch in our nation's progress. We have seen many precious fruits of the sturdy pioneering virtues that have made our country first free and then strong and now proudly in the forefront of the world. If, by grace of God, we stand steadfast in our great traditions through this time of stress, we shall insure that we and our sons and daughters shall see these fruits increased many fold.

"Symbol Of America"

"Valley Forge has come indeed to be a symbol in American life. It is more than the name for a place, more than the scene of a military episode, more than just a critical event in history. Freedom was won here by fortitude, not by the flash of the sword. Valley Forge is our American synonym for the trial of human character through privation and suffering, and it is the symbol of the triumph of the American soul. If those few thousand men endured that long winter of privation and suffering, humiliated by the despair of their countrymen, and deprived of support save their own indomitable will, yet hold their countrymen to the faith, and of that holding held fast the freedom of America, what right have we to be of little faith? God grant that we may prove worthy of George Washington and his men of Valley Forge."

Factory Girls Of '31



What the well-dressed factory girl is wearing is graphically pictured here as far as a shoe factory in Lynn, Mass, is concerned. About 50 girls employed in the shoe-making plant created a sensation when they appeared for work attired in dainty and gaily colored pajamas. Photos show Agnes O'Brien and Margaret Glasso inspecting shoe uppers decked out in their "factory finery."

$1,300 Average Cost In Texas

AUSTIN, May 30 (AP)—If the average law enacted by the 42nd legislature isn't worth $1,300 the people of Texas are losing money.

CHAPTER 1

"Now listen carefully and get this straight. When he comes through the gate, leap, all of you, and leap like you meant it—leap like it was a Leap for Life. Do you understand? And don't you dare make a sound."

"Yes'm. Sure. You bet. Anything you say," came in a chorus of dramatically lowered voices.

"Pigmy, will you stop that sniffling?"

"I can't help it, Miss Beryl," came plaintively to Beryl's ears from the dark of the rose trellis, "the doctor says I've got tinny trickoffen."

A medley of groans. "Another big word! Where does he get them?"

"His mother lectures before literary clubs."

"Aw, I know," spoke up a boy in disgust. "That's athletic foot. He got it out of a magazine. My Dad showed it to me."

"What, the foot?"

"Shut up, you kids," Beryl ordered. "Here he comes. Get ready."

All was quiet instantly, while several pairs of bright young eyes peered excitedly through the rose vines.

Across the porch, down two steps in a stride, and along the walk straight to the trellis at the gate came a young man who appeared to be in a hurry. He was carrying a gladstone bag and his hat was pulled down over his eyes—for no reason at all except that he thought it was proper for the occasion.

When he was quite close, Beryl whispered tensely: "Now men—ready. Go!"

Just what hit him certainly puzzled Tommy Wilson for the next 10 minutes. He thought of gangsters, of course, but who in the world would want to take him for a ride? And he wasn't sure even that his captors were human. There wasn't a sound, at first. Then the gaspy breathing of physical exertion told him that at least he wasn't at the mercy of disembodied spirits.

At one point in the tussle his mind turned to natural history. He thought of an octopus that he had seen in an aquarium. All those legs—or whatever they were called—this was just like getting mixed up with one of those fellows. Down in the tropics they had giant spiders—but spiders didn't use automobiles.

He was dumped in unceremoniously, and the thousands of creatures swarmed in upon him.

Say, didn't he know that motor? He tried to sit up but was pulled right down again and thoroughly sat on. There was nothing to do but try to remember all the things he'd heard that clever people did in like circumstances.

Keep cool—that was first—and count the turns—right—left—aw, thunder—he didn't even know which way they'd dragged him before they reached the car. That was no good, but he'd try a ruse.

He relaxed, hoping to betray his assailants into a lack of vigilance, and then surprise them with a daring break for liberty. But ere he could put his plan into effect a cool voice, coming from the driver's seat, said commandingly: "Easy does it, men."

Tommy started. "Beryl Borden!" he tried to say, but the words were effectually smothered by the zealous followers of an intrepid leader.

Beryl heard the sound he made. "Let him speak," she ordered.

"For Pete's sake what's got me?" he implored when his head was freed.

"Only the gang," Beryl told him with admirable nonchalance. "Sturdy little rascals, aren't they?"

"Sturdy, he— They've nearly killed me," Tommy complained.

"Well, never mind. It's nothing to what they've spared you. You owe them a vote of thanks, Tommy."

"I don't get you," he answered sulkily, but he had an idea what she meant.

"Irene told me," she said simply.

"Oh, she did? And this is the way you treat her confidence. A nice sisterly act. You must be proud of it. But what's the big idea anyway?"

"Nothing, except that you're not going to elope with Irene tonight."

"Says you!"

"Says me and these kids. And you're a nice one to talk about sisterly acts. How about a nephew's duty to an aunt? Mrs. Hoffman would certainly be pleased with your demonstration of it, wouldn't she?"

"That's different. I'm not betraying her confidence."

"No, but you're betraying her trust. She's investing in you, you know."

"If you mean college, I've got a right to an education."

"She doesn't owe it to you."

"She doesn't want me to dub away my life in Hoffman's Motion Picture Palace, either."

"Exactly, and that's why she doesn't want you to marry until you finish college and get a start in life."

"That's an old fogey idea. Irene's a modern girl. We'll make good."

Beryl laughed shortly. "Yes. Irene's modern, when it comes to enjoying this new freedom we women are supposed to have, but she's a throwback when it comes to tackling a modern girl's problems."

"That's a nice way to talk about your sister."

"She's only my half-sister, but I don't enjoy knocking her. I'm just trying to stop you, Tommy, from making a mess of our life. Irene wouldn't help you."

"A lot you know about it. She's going to get a job until I' through college; then she won't have to work."

Beryl felt like swearing, but she didn't, because, as she said, only mule drivers were original enough to make it interesting. She'd never heard any mule drivers cuss, but she'd heard about it.

"I suppose you believe that," she sighed instead; "but you're wrong Tommy, you're terribly wrong. Irene's had a lot of jobs, but something's been wrong with every one of them. . . ."

"She's only been out of high a couple of years," Tommy protested.

"I know," Beryl agreed; "but that was long enough for Irene to find out that she and work didn't spring from the same genealogical tree. They're not even remotely related."

"She's never had a chance," Tommy maintained. "She's too attractive. Men get fresh with her."

"Is that so?" Beryl said, as though she were deeply impressed with a new angle of the situation. "My goodness."

"Cut out the scoffing, and take me back home," Tommy demanded.

"Not just yet, little boy. If you can't be appealed to for your aunt's sake, you're going to be talked to for your own. And here it is. You marry Irene and you'll be back in the theater before the summer is over. Your uncle will pay you enough to induce Irene to coax you go back next fall."

"Well, say," Tommy drawled. "You're so sure of everything—hasn't it occurred to you that Aunt Em will be all right when the damage is done? She's no hard-hearted tyrant . . ."

"I should say not," Beryl broke in, "the way she treats you she's a Lady Bountiful. You don't deserve it—an allowance and a chance for a real education."

"She'll forgive us," Tommy said complacently. "I know she will."

Beryl shook her head. "I don't think you know her," she said soberly. "She got her heart set on a future for you, Tommy, and she knows as well as I do that Irene will never see it through on your allowance—not while your uncle dangles a good salary under your nose. Irene's never had any money, you know."

"She'll have plenty some day," Tommy declared. "With that voice of her . . ."

"Yeah, I've heard about that voice," Beryl cut in. Then she mimicked: "Irene will become famous if she ever gets a chance. If only we could do soemthing to put Irene before the public. It's such a pity that opportunity doesn't come to Irene with a voice like her' . . . It makes me sick."

"You're jealous because you can't sing."

"Who wants to sing?" There was disdain in the question, but deep in her heart . . .

"I guess your mother's right," Tommy remarked; "you must be like your father."

"Don't you say anything about my father!"

"Well, you're not like your mother, and he was a queer chap, wasn't he?"

"If you mean he was not like Daddy Everett, you're right. Poor Daddy Everett. But you can't blame him for Irene; she's like mother."

"You oughtn't to talk about your mother."

"I wouldn't, if you didn't make me. But I can't help it if I have brains enough to see what people are like, can I? It makes me wild that mother can't see what kind of wife Irene would make for you."

"And I can't see that it's any of your business," Tommy retorted.

"You look out," Beryl warned him, "or I'll let her have you."

"Please, kind lady," Tommy began in a beggar's whine, but Beryl stopped him.

"You're like a brother to me, Tommy," she declared and though she said it firmly somehow her voice did not ring quite true, not, at least, to her own ears. She hoped that Tommy did not notice. Anything but having him think she was acting through jealousy.

"We've grown up together," she went on hurriedly; "we played robber and Indian and you let me keep the tooth we pulled out with the barn door. Remember? Irene wouldn't touch it, and she cried when your mouth got full of blood."

"She was always more refined than you," Tommy said brutally.

"You see; you talk to me just like a brother," Beryl said good-naturedly, but inwardly she winced. "That gives me the right to talk to you like a sister. But all I want to say is just this. Won't you wait until you're through college before you get married?"

"Oh, sister, sister, you're breaking my heart," Tommy exclaimed with mock sorrow. Then he became serious, "but I'll break your neck if you don't let me out of this."

"No you won't, mister," came in unison from all of Beryl's gang, "not while we're here."

"You little devils," Tommy muttered.

"No swearing in a lady's presence," he was warned.

Beryl turned and looked at him. "Well," she said, "do you promise?"

"Don't be ridiculous!" Tommy replied.

"Then I can't take you back," Beryl told him. "And I hate to keep these kids up. Every one of them slipped out of bed to help me on this job. Really, Tommy, haven't you any sense?" Her voice was impatient now. "This means everything to you. Can't you see? Irene has her own way with every one. She's made mother think it's all right for you to deceive your aunt—it was easier than stealing out as you were doing. She could get the right things packed, you know. And I think she took some of mine, too." Beryl added with what to Tommy was uncalled for warmth.

"If she's so good at handling people maybe she can get the old runaway blessing from Aunt Em," he suggested.

"Do you really want to go back to managing the theater?" Beryl countered. "You know Mr. Hoffman doesn't car what becomes of you, eventually. All he wants is to have your best years, then, when his old building falls down, he'll retire and you can go job hunting—with no profession, and no training."

"I could always manage a theater if I'm so good at it."

"Yes, but you'd always be working for someone else. Irene would never help you save enough to buy a theater of your own."

"I guess my aunt will leave me some money some day."

"That's what you think, and Irene would think it, and she'd tell you it wasn't necessary to save any money. And then maybe your aunt wouldn't leave you any money. A maybe's a mayoe, you know. Besides, Tommy, haven't you any pride? Don't you want to go on at college, now that you've had two years? If you had to quit it would be different, but you planned it for years. You seemed to have your heart set on it. And now just because you've become infatuated with a pretty face, you're ready to give it up."

"It sounds dastardly, doesn't it?" Tommy mocked; "but don't take it so hard, fair lady. It's my funeral. However, you can wait a while to hold the wake. The pretty face may have more behind it than you think, and the old aunt may turn out to have a heart of gold."

"And you've turned out to be a bigger sap than I thought you," Beryl snapped back at him.

"Thanks", Tommy said tartly.

She bit her lip, thought a moment, then looked worriedly at the wrist watch her gang had presented to her the Christmas before. It was big and clumsy, but it was dear to her heart, and it kept fairly accurate time—if she "set it two days ahead," as she had once told Tommy.

"Well, kids," she said, "I guess we'd better take him back and let him keep his rendezvous."

"Gee no, Miss Beryl," the boy called Pigmy protested. "Let's take it away from him. I want one of those things for my dog Snooks."

"You guessed it," Beryl informed him. "It's a chain all right, only in this case there's a ball attached to it. And it's sure going to give you a pain in the leg, Tommy boy," she added to their captive.

"Well, it's my . . ."

"Yes, I know; it's your leg and it's your funeral. And we're going to take you to it. I'm thoroughly disgusted with you. . . ."

"Regusted, you mean, Miss Beryl."

"Thanks Mike, that's right—reguested. Hang on everybody. Over she goes!"

With a clatter and a bang Beryl turned the old car about much as she would the old boat she had traded for it.

"The night air is bad for our Watersprite," she remarked as the car wheezed and stuttered when she gave it gas for first speed.

"Whatdyu call it that for?" one of the youngsters wanted to know.

"Because it's not a boat, honey," Beryl answered sweetly. "Now do you understand?"

"Yep," he said. "That's why I call my dog Rover: he never stays home."

"That's right, Buddy," Tommy encouraged. "Don't you let her make a fool out of you."

"Aw, you shut up. You don't count—you're going to get married—and my Dad says that's the end of a man."

"Ah, a little group of sophisticates," Tommy murmured awefully.

"You father didn't mean that, Angie," Beryl said gently. "He loves to joke. Everyone knows it's fine to marry the right person. And your mother is awfully sweet."

"Yep, I guess she is," Angie admitted. "She likes you too, Miss Beryl. I heard her say that if it wasn't for you your family . . ."

"Perhaps you heard her say that in confidence," Beryl hastily interrupted. "I don't think I'd repeat it, Angie."

Beryl fell silent and so did Tommy. The children, too, were quieter than usual, depressed by a sense of failure. Their leader had not told them what this kidnaping was for, but her conversation with Tommy had enlightened them somewhat. It was plain that she had wanted to stop him from running away with her sister, and now she was going to let him do it.

Pigmy especially was downcast. He liked Tommy, but Irene was anathema to him. Every since she had intercepted and read with much public glee, one of his love notes to Agnes, of their neighborhood, he had "hated the ground she walked on."

Beryl's voice cheered them a bit, however, when they neared her home and she said briskly: "Well, here we are, men. Bring forth the captive and escort him to yon [illegible] damsel who waits with trembling heart and [illegible] packed some of my things, too."

The car came to a noisy stop. "I guess she wouldn't talk like that if all was lost," one of the band whispered to another as they hauled Tommy out and gave him a push that sent him stumbling across the sidewalk.

"Gently, gently," cautioned Beryl. "Wouldst damage the [illegible] and send him [illegible] to his doom?"

The boys desisted from further violence upon the person of the [illegible]lated bridegroom and turned to Beryl. "Is that all?" they chorused.

"That's all, my lads. Your reward will be forthcoming on the morrow. Picnic rations for all hands round and the end of the [illegible] old Wind in the Face can [illegible]. Bathing suits and iodine. And sound the tocsin at daybreak. Away with you now. Early to bed or you won't get back tomorrow night."

They scampered off, calling back good-night. Beryl watched them go with a look of pride. Noble little rascals—her gang. It was not their fault if she had failed. But had she?

She did not drive on at once to the ramshackle garage the boys had built for her in the back yard—a garage just big enough for the old car to hop into. She sat instead behind the wheel and watched her stepfather's house. A half smile of satisfaction curved her lips—beautifully modeled lips, but much larger than Irene's rosebud mouth. The smile did not extend to her eyes. In them was a look of doubt.

The shades of the house were down. They usually were down at night. Beryl liked it so and Mrs. Everett insisted upon it. The family life, she said, was not to be put on exhibition. Beryl had remarked that it couldn't afford to be one of her nail-on-the-head statements that always so irritated her mother and Irene. They preferred to call things by euphemisms.

What was transpiring behind the shades now Beryl thought she could guess. Irene's poise must have been shaken to its foundation, for she never could abide to be kept waiting—and on her wedding night of all times! Beryl could hear her saying it even if the walls of the house did shut out the sound. But what would Tommy say? That was the question that troubled her. Well, she'd better go in and find out, she decided, for apparently they were not going to come outside to settle it.

Maybe the elopement was off! Beryl's heart skipped a beat as her mind actually framed in words the hope she'd been desperately holding to all evening. She hardly expected Tommy would listen to her. Her reliance had been placed upon Irene's quick temper. She couldn't wait any longer to learn how her [illegible] the old car at the curb [illegible] up to the house and [illegible] the front door. In[illegible] came to her from the [illegible] in the rear of the hall. That living room had once been a [illegible] room. Beryl had trans[illegible] house be[illegible] planned that the old living room could [illegible] the new dining room—into a place with privacy and character. Mrs. Everett had aided and abetted her in making the change, but Irene and Mrs. Everett had [illegible] until all of the [illegible] that came to view it pronounced it a [illegible].

But Irene [illegible] held no terrors for [illegible] poor Tommy who was about to make a big mistake on the [illegible] of his life. Who [illegible] had to make an attempt to [illegible] him even if . . . even if . . . [illegible] didn't like to say even to herself that she loved Tommy Wilson. He was not at all the man for her, she told herself at times when she thought it would [illegible] in spite of the barrier of worldly-mindedness that she had built up to protect herself against her family.

[illegible] was weak, Tommy was, she'd [illegible] when she couldn't get him out of her thoughts. He was weak, or he couldn't have fallen for Irene—taoy-faced Irene. Any other one would agree with her. Yes, Tommy was weak—but he was Tommy just the same, you know, the other [illegible] added. Tommy whom she'd licked to a finish more than once fairly, half suspecting [illegible] exerting his strength to the fullest. Tommy, who had [illegible] his lunch pail over a boy's head for hitting her with a rock and bought Irene a penny stick of candy because the feat made her cry. Tommy who had—but it was endless. [illegible] could think of a thousand events and adventures that had drawn them together in their childhood.

[illegible]ed in her eyes bef she reached the living room, she took care to pause and w them away. The Everetts had ne er seen tears in her eyes. She w like her father, they said, "simp unmoved by anything."

How many times Beryl wished s had known that father—the fat who had died in her infancy—t father who was a scamp, always and ready for laughter (her mot did not put it that way—it was j the way Beryl thought of him).

She had a habit of talking to h in times of stress. This, she dee ed, was one of them. "Well, D old Indian, you wouldn't cri would you? Heads up, what? right, here we go, and to he . . . ah—no swearing, eh Dad? But do they just make you so mad?"

She was in the living room n standing just within the doorw making no attempt either to attr attention or to conceal her prese

For a while they did not no her. Irene was storming, as Be expected. Tommy stood before h helpless. Finally Beryl spoke him. "Won't she let you expla Tommy?"

Irene whirled upon her. "So you had a hand in this!" she exclaim making the accurate guess throu a full knowledge of her sister's c abilities.

Beryl nodded. "Why don't let Tommy tell you about it?" asked quietly. She had learned l before that the way to drive Ir frantic was to speak to her cal when she was excited. Irene se ed to want the sparks to fly in ery direction. Cool people disc certed her. Being disconcerted ways caused her rage to mount.

"He needn't bother," she c how. "I've been waiting here hours! I'd like to know what thinks I am."

Beryl turned to Tommy. "W don't you tell her?" she as sweetly. "I wish she'd give me opportunity."

Tommy's answer cut through like a knife. "I think you ought know, Irene, what I think of yo he said. "I'm crazy about you. M are you coming with me?"

Don't Let Sagging Wallpaper ruin the beauty of your rooms

A Message to the Public from the United States Gypsum Company

BY using Metalock Sheetrock, the modern wallboard construction, you can put an end to broken, falling wallpaper. You can secure decoration you'll be proud of—popular textured effects just like those you see in the new modern houses—by applying Textone, the Plastic Paint.

Metalock Sheetrock goes right over present walls—in living room, dining room or in any room in the house. Or it can be used in new homes.

Here are three important advantages which thousands of Texas homeowners are now enjoying because they have used Metalock Sheetrock in their homes:

1. Walls and ceilings do not warp, bulge or buckle. Cracks are prevented because all joints and corners are securely armored by a patented USG metal fabric. No other wallboard has anything like this to offer.

2. Permits the choice of any kind of decoration. Paint, wallpaper or calcimine. Or, better still, secure beautiful textured finishes in harmonious two-toned color effects by using Textone.

3. Wind and sand cannot penetrate its smooth sealed surface. Moreover, Metalock Sheetrock is fireproof and verminproof.

The moderate cost of installing Metalock Sheetrock and decorating it with Textone will surprise you. Often the entire cost for an average size living room, including all materials and labor, is less than $75.

Ask your dealer, carpenter or contractor about Metalock Sheetrock. Let him tell you how easily and quickly it can be installed. Ask, too, about Sheetrock Tile Board for bathrooms and kitchens. Or write to us. Please address the United States Gypsum Company, Santa Fe Building, Dallas. Mill: Sweetwater, Texas.

First Step Made To Solve Radio Problem

Compromise Expected On Air Schools

Educators Make 1st Attempt To Answer Charges Of Broadcasters; Hours For Work Discussed

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor NEA Service

NEW YORK, May 30.—Attacks and countercharges between educators and the radio broadcasters, going on for the last year or two, promise finally to bring about a compromise that may greatly benefit the public.

The promise shows its first stage of fulfillment in the announcement of a series on "Men of America" to be broadcast by both NBC and CBS networks under auspices of the National Advisory Council of Radio in Educator. It was started recently by President Hoover, who introduced Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted scientist of the California Institute of Technology, for the first educational talk in this series.

Here is the first attempt of educators to answer the charge of broadcasters that educational broad casting as such is too academic to make it popular enough for adoption by the larger stations. It represents also a concerted effort on the part of educators to check the ebbing tide of education in radio.

Two groups of educators have sought desperately to find means of reversing this tendency. The National Advisory Council on Radio in Education, backed by funds from the Rockefeller Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation, after studying the opportunities for education by inaugurating the "Men of America" series. In this council from 50 to 60 of America's greatest educators contribute toward the production of programs.

Fewer School Stations

The second group of educators is the National Committee on Education in Radio which, with headquarters in Washington, represents nine of the leading educational organizations in the country.

This committee's present interest centers around the recommendation just presented to the Federal Radio Commission of affording higher power facilities, up to 50 kilowatts, to 40 selected broadcasters in the country. Cries of monopoly have been heard in view of the fact that 29 of the 40 stations applying for this high power are owned, associated with or operated by the large networks.

According to this committee, the number of stations owned and operated by educational institutions, states and cities have decreased by one-half since 1926. In that year, its is pointed out, 105 of the 537 existing broadcasting stations were educational. Today there are only 58 educational stations out of a total of 613.

Demand Legal Help

The solution, as this group sees it, is a proposed law by which at least 15 per cent of the available broadcast channels will be released to educational institutions, thus assuring a secure place for education on the air.

As a statement of the committee to the radio commission recently expressed it:

"A commercial monopoly of broadcasting channels is almost an accomplished fact, and it threatens the freedom of speech, intellectual liberty and the right of the individual states to exercise their educational functions."

The broadcasters' answer to this complaint is that the decline of purely educational stations is due to a lack of interest in their programs. They further declare that the reason the larger stations have hesitated putting purely educational programs on the air was because they got very little encouragement from the listeners.

The broadcasters' answer to this complaint is that the business is the lack of response to programs of this type," Henry A. Bellows, former radio commissioner now CBS vice president, recently told the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education. And he asked them, "Do you think that one per cent of the people who value such programs take the trouble to say so?"

Offers Aid, But . . .

Then Bellows offered the cooperation and facilities of his system for the broadcasting of programs that would be both educational and interesting. His offer was worded so that it could be taken as coming also from the other great network system, the NBC.

"Most stations have more unsold time on their hands than they know what to do with," he said. "They offer to turn it over without charge to educational institutions, in the generally vain hope that they will make sensible use of it.

"I have no hesitation in saying that the state universities could have, without cost, five times as many hours on commercial broadcasting stations as they are now using, and win the undying gratitude of the broadcasters to boot, if only they were equipped to put on reasonably interesting programs."

But there's a catch to this offer, say the educators. It's this:

Only those hours are available to educators that the commercial advertisers don't want.

And those hours are the least effective hours, the skim milk of broadcasting, when the least number of fans is listening in.

Signius Wilhelm P. Knudsen Is Plain "Bill" In U. S.

BY JAMES F. DONAHUE
NEA Service Writer

FLINT, Mich., May 30—Signius Wilhelm Poul Knudsen—pronounce it "Nood-sen"—came over from Denmark 32 years ago and landed in New York, a tall, gangling immigrant youth of 20, with 30 dollars in his pocket, a reading knowledge of English and the firm ambition to get somewhere in the great United States.

That he has is undisputable. As president of Chevrolet Motors, the ambitious Dane heads one of the most successful automotive organizations in the world.

Signius Wilhelm worked in a bicycle shop in Copenhagen before he came to the United States. Once here, however, he went to work in the New York shipyards and the Erie Railroad boiler shops.

He could read English, but he couldn't speak it. Instead of going to school to learn the language, he figured he could learn faster by listening to children talk.

Every night after work he would sit on the front stoop of his landlady's house and listen to her children. Soon he learned enough English to carry on a conversation and then he picked up fast.

Today he finds his relaxation in reading and quoting Socrates, Rousseau, Voltaire and a host of other writers.

LEARNED ENGLISH LISTENING TO CHILDREN TALK
HE DOESN'T FORCE HIS MEN TO ASK FOR A RAISE IN SALARY

Signius Wilhelm Poul Knudsen . . . just plain "Bill."

Just Plain "Bill"

In 1902 Knudsen went to work for a bicycle shop in Buffalo. The timekeeper asked his name and, on recieving "Signius Wilhelm Poul Knudsen," conferred the name "Bill" on him.

As "Bill" he is known today to everyone, although his business cards read "William S Knudsen." The appelation adequately describes this man who, although possessing far more than average intelligence and wealth, desires not to cultivate an overestimated conception of his position but to remain just plain "Bill."

From the bicycle shop Knudsen progressed rapidly. He became superintendent of the pedal department and inherited a mine of trouble among the 750 women he had under him.

"I had never known a man to boss one woman successfully, and here I was with 750 on my hands," he says.

Knudsen made one of the girls his "strawboss" to whom all the other women took their troubles. In this way he did no actual "bossing," and as a result they had their quarrels settled successfully without his being implicated in them.

Gets Job With Ford

When the automobile came, Knudsen's firm started making parts for cars. Among its first customers was Henry Ford.

Knudsen journeyed to Detroit to sell Ford an order one day. He so sold the motor magnate on his ideas that Ford bought the entire plant and made Bill production manager.

During the war Ford gave him entire charge of building the submarine chasers the company had contracted to build for the government. In 1921 Knudsen retired from the Ford company and in 1922 joined Chevrolet. Two years later he was president of the company.

One reason why Knudsen has succeeded is that he appreciates the ideas of his men. He never holds mass meetings of his department heads. Each man meets him individually and presents his suggestions. This is done, Knudsen explains, because he doesn't want to have one man's opinion influenced by another's.

Another thing which elevates him in the eyes of his employees is his slogan:

"I don't like to be asked for a raise. I pride myself in raising my men first."

His Office Plain, Too

As Bill is plain, so is his office. It is small and simply furnished. There is a simple, inexpensive rug on the floor. There are pictures on the walls—framed photographs mostly—no expensive works of art nor ornate drapes to lend tone or color.

The man himself is plain. He has a mustache which fully covers his upper lip. His hair is turning gray around the edges. In his chin is a slightly noticeable cleft, and his jaws are firm and square.

His eyes have a kindly twinkle that make you right at home and as you advance to meet him, he unlimbers his six feet three inches of gargling, loosely-knit athletic frame to give you a firm handshake.

Books and golf are his hobbies, although he can read considerably better than he can golf.

He has a son and three daughters, all in their 'teens.

Six hundred salmon were caught in one day recently in the River Dee near Aberdeen, Scotland, making a record catch for the vicinity.

Hundreds Receiving Degrees From Texas Universities And Colleges

Exercises Being Held Over State; Tech Stands Fifth With Graduates; Texas U. Leads

Many Prominent Speakers To Take Part In Annual Programs; Dr. Horn Is To Be C. I. A. Speaker

(By The Associated Press)

TEXAS boys and girls have an increasing ambition to avail themselves of the state's facilities for higher education, if any significance is to be attached to the large rolls of candidates for degrees displayed by Lone Star universities, colleges and schools this year.

The University of Texas, largest of the state-maintained educational institutions, will confer degrees on more than 600 candidates at its 48th annual commencement June 8. This number does not include the 73 members of the senior class at the medical college branch in Galveston, where the 40th commencement took place yesterday, and 10 who will get degrees in Bachelor of Science in mining engineering at the College of Mines in El Paso.

A. & M. Graduates 371

Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College at College Station, ranking second in state-maintained major institutions, graduated 371, the largest class in history, at its 55th annual commencement Saturday.

Baylor University sent 483 young men and women to pursue even higher studies or to engage in the professions. Of this number, 148 will be graduated from the medical branch at Dallas on June 1, the commencement exercises at Waco, home of the parent institution, having been held May 27.

Southern Methodist University at Dallas will confer degrees on a class of 288 June 1, and the Texas Christian University of Fort Worth will graduate 167 on the same day. Texas Tech is graduating 237.

Rice Institute at Houston will graduate 227 at commencement on June 7 and 8.

C. I. A. Gives 181 Degrees

The College of Industrial Arts at Denton will give degrees to 181 seniors at the 28th annual commencement June 1.

In addition to the universities and colleges mentioned the nine state teachers colleges will turn out large classes not to mention hundreds of high schools which are finishing material for succeeding higher educational institutions' classes.

There will be no formal address at the University of Texas commencement, but President H. Y. Benedict will deliver a few words of advice and congratulation to the graduates, carrying out his custom since he was inaugurated.

The baccalaureate service will be held June 7.

Surgeon General To Be Heard

At Galveston Dr. F. B. Smith of Washington, assistant gymnasium surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, will deliver the address and Dr. Benedict will confer the degrees.

C. E. Calder, utility executive and banker of New York, formerly of Dallas, made the commencement address at A. & M. F. M. Law of Houston, president of the board of directors, conferred the degrees and Cadet Captain Marvin Hays of Mount Pleasant delivered the valedictory. The baccalaureate sermon was preached last Sunday by Dr. Wallace Bassett of the Cliff Temple Baptist Church of Dallas. Col. Charles C. Todd, United States Army, retired, presented Officers' Reserve Corps commissions to graduating cadets May 29.

Baylor University's commencement was a sad one, the popular institution being in mourning for its beloved president of 29 years, Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks, who died two weeks ago. Dean W. S. Allen, acting president, presented diplomas May 27 after the baccalaureate address had been delivered by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma.

Tom Connally To Talk

Degrees will be conferred at the Baylor medical branch in Dallas June 1 when Tom Connally of Marlin, United States Senator, will deliver the baccalaureate address. The commencement sermon will be delivered May 31 by Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Wichita Falls.

At Southern Methodist University, Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, former dean of the theology school, will deliver the convocational sermon May 31. Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson of Houston, circuit judge of the United States court will deliver the annual convocational address June 2.

Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School, member of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, will deliver the commencement address at Rice June 8, and the Rev. Dr. Harris Kirk, for 30 years pastor of the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church of Baltimore, Md., will give the baccalaureate sermon June 7. Degrees will be awarded by President Edgar Odell Lovett.

C. I. A. To Give Masters

For the first time the College of Industrial Arts will confer Master's degrees, there being six candidates for these. Dr. P. W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological College of Lubbock, will deliver the commence address June 1, and Dr. Frank L. Jewett, chairman of the Bible chair of the University of Texas, will preach the baccalaureate sermon May 31.

St. Edward's University at Austin, commemorating the golden jubilee of its founding, will graduate 19. Diplomas will be conferred May 31. The Most Rev. Arthur J. Drossaerts, D. D., LL. D., archbishop of San Antonio, will celebrate a Pontifical mass commencement Sunday. Bishops participating in the jubilee program will include the Right Rev. J. P. Lynch, D. D., bishop of Dallas; the Right Rev. C. E. Burne, D. D., LL. D., bishop of Galveston; the Right Rev. Rudolph A. Gerken, D. D., bishop of Amarillo and the Right Rev. Anthony J. Schuler, S. J., D. D.

Tarleton Graduates 149

John Tarleton College of Stephenville graduated 149 May 29. Dr. Colby D. Hall of Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, delivered the baccalaureate sermon and Judge Frank M. Ryburn of Dallas made the commencement address. Dr. T. O. Walton, president of Texas A. & M. presented the diplomas.

The commencement sermon at the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, where 49 were graduated, was delivered by the Rev. Roy Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian Church of Amarillo Sunday. Bishop E. C. Seaman of Amarillo spoke to the high school graduating class of the college. J. Evetts Haley of Austin spoke to the college senior class May 27.

Senator Margie E. Neal of Carthage, only woman member of the upper house of the Texas legislature, addressed the graduates of Baylor College at Belton, when diplomas were awarded to more than 100 seniors, Tuesday.

Sends Out Largest Class

The largest class in history, numbering 44, was graduated from the College of Marshall at the 14th annual commencement. Dr. Robert A. Ashworth of Chicago, delivered the address.

Dr. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, will address the class of 55 graduating from Incarnate Word College at San Antonio. St. Mary's University, San Antonio, will confer 29 degrees. Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio, graduated 41 and Westmoorland College 26. Westmoorland's baccalaureate sermon will be preached June 1 by Dr. K. P. Barton, presiding elder of the Methodist church.

Fifty-five will be graduated from the Sam Houston State Teachers' College at Huntsville and 10 degrees were awarded at Sul Ross State Teachers' College at Alpine, May 30. H. S. Hunter, editor of the El Paso Times, addresses the Sul Ross graduates.

Howard Payne College at Brownwood will graduate 41 and Daniel Baker College will give diplomas to 14.

Jacksonville College at Jacksonville graduated 40, Dr. T. . Ferguson, dean of Stephen F. Austin State Teachers' College, delivering the commencement address. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. W. T. Bratton of the Forney Baptist church.

Senora Francisca P. de Lopez of San Antonio, Texas, 105 years old, still supports herself by doing needlework.

Of the more than 20,000,000 residents of French Indo-China, only about 24,000 are Europeans.

Swearing Is Bad

Shamrock Man Has Aged Law Book

SHAMROCK, May 30 (AP)—A copy of Jacob's law dictionary, printed in England in 1732, is owned by Clayton Heare, Shamrock attorney, who obtained it through a London book dealer.

Swearing was described in the old book as "an offense against God and religion," and offenders were placed in the stocks.

Marriage, to be legal under terms of the dictionary, had to be performed in a church, between the hours of 8 and 12, and with the consent of the parents of both parties. Boys 14 and girls 12 were permitted to marry. A man could not marry his wife's sister or his brother's wife.

Forty-nine girls speaking 14 languages are kept busy in the international long distance telephone exchange in San Francisco.

Filing Of Claims Was Real Problem Some 44 Years Ago

FLOYDADA, May 30 (AP)—Forty-four years ago it was necessary for settlers in what is now Floyd county to go to Clarendon, a distance of more than 100 miles, to file on their claims.

Floyd county at that time was a part of the Donley county land district. But in 1887, residents of the district got a measure through the legislature which attached the land to Crosby county. The following year, residents of the county were permitted to vote for the time, and there were 28 votes
