Prosecutor to clear Ford of any charges

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

Watergate Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff will publicly clear President Ford and close his investigation of alleged campaign finance improprieties in Ford's old congressional district without any prosecutions, sources familiar with the probe said Friday night.

According to a Justice Department source, Ruff found no basis for criminal charges against Ford or anyone else and will say so in a public report early next week.

A source within the FBI added that the FBI has completed its investigation for Ruff and also found that there is no basis for prosecuting anyone.

The FBI source said the original allegation made by an FBI informant was found to be without substance. "I don't think anybody missed anything" in the investigation, this source said.

The FBI source said the informant's tip prompted a full investigation because "if you don't take a look at it in today's climate, that's a coverup."

Earlier the deputy attorney general said he has "absolutely no ... knowledge" that Ford was the target of the investigation into the financial affairs of Ford's home-county Republican party.

But he said allegations of improprieties in Kent County, Mich., came from an informer and "one has to assume when you mention Grand Rapids, you'd think of Gerald Ford."

The statements by Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold R. Tyler to reporters did little to clarify what the special Watergate prosecutor is looking for. The President told reporters Thursday he is sure the probe will turn up nothing amiss.

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, who had urged Ford to speak out on the subject, didn't mention the matter again after saying he was satisfied with the President's statement.

Carter celebrated his 52nd birthday in Maine, Connecticut, Tennessee and Pennsylvania, worrying about political apathy among blue-collar workers and predicting he'll be elected overwhelmingly despite "fumbles and mistakes and honest errors."

Carter pledged that as president he would veto a Senate bill revamping the nation's criminal code if it is sent to the White House with provisions intruding on personal privacy while protecting unwarranted government secrecy.

The bill bogged down in the Judiciary Committee during this session of Congress after civil libertarians criticized such provisions as new wiretapping authority and new penalties against government employes who reveal classified information.

In Portland, Maine, Carter told a gathering of union leaders that voting apathy among blue-collar workers could doom his campaign.

"The one potentially fatal aspect of this year's election is that many of our working people have simply given up because of the disgrace of the Nixon administration and the failures of the Ford administration," the Democrat said.

He urged the union leaders to inspire their members to get out the traditionally Democratic labor vote.

Wherever he went during an 18-hour campaign day, Carter was greeted with the "Happy Birthday" song. In Portland, the labor leaders gave him a cake. He blew out the candles and said: "I think if my wish comes true that all of the people who look to you for leadership will be much better off in the next eight years."

In Hartford, Conn., he got his fourth cake of the day. He told a fund-raising affair in Hartford's Civic Center Coliseum that his campaign for the presidency has not been free of mistakes.

"Although there might be temporary disadvantages and fumbles and some honest errors, we had the same kind of fumbles and mistakes and errors in the primaries and we came out of it," he said.

"In the long run, our intimacy with the people, our commitment to the principles of our party will stand us in good stead. We're going to win overwhelmingly on Nov. 2."

But Republican vice presidentia candidate Bob Dole came from White House meeting with Ford an voiced a different view.

He said the Republican ticket gaining momentum because th public has doubts about Carter "weird performance and his judg ment."

The doubt, he said, was created b Carter's interviews with Playbo magazine and writer Norman Mailer and by statements Carter's son, Jeff

State would suffer from utility bill cuts

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP) — There are ways to cut Texans' utility bills almost in half, but they would cost the state hundreds of millions of dollars a year, a Senate staff report said Friday.

Chairman Ron Clower described the report by the staff of his subcommittee on consumer affairs as the "definitive work" on utility costs.

The report was prepared originally to see whether it would be worth Gov. Dolph Briscoe's calling a special legislative session on utilities, but that prospect has vanished.

The regular session, however, begins in January, and Clower, D-Garland, said he will submit some of the proposals then. He was the only member present when the report was made public.

The staff proposed that the state consider giving Texans tax credits if they use "energy conservation techniques" in building new homes or remodeling. This would include caulking windows, polyethylene sheeting on walls and the use of twin-paned windows and patio doors.

The tax credits could be on local property taxes or through sales tax exemptions for the sale of all energ conservation materials. The stat could reimburse cities, counties an school districts for tax losses.

The staff also proposed establishin a fund to underwrite more expensiv heat pump systems and a loan pr gram for energy conservatio building improvements.

A comprehensive "energy efficie cy package" could lower the averag residential utility bill by $5 to $15 month, the staff said. It w estimated that the necessary i provements could be made for $6 for a $21,000 house and $1,000- $1,5 for a $46,000 house.

A "package" the staff said woul affect all Texans would eliminate th state sales tax on utility bills an establish a severance tax of 5 cen per 1,000 cubic feet of gas and a "fla rate" electric system.

This would save the averag residential customer $124 a year b would have cost the state $150 millio in lost revenue this year and as muc as $505 million by 1979.

Other proposals would reduce L

First shipment of flu vaccine due next week

By JUDY JOHNSTON

Midland will receive its first partial shipment of swine flu vaccine sometime next week, Dr. Stuart I. Draper, director of the Midland City-County Health Department, said today.

A "minimal amount" of 16,000 doses of the monovalent type will arrive from the regional health office in Lubbock, he said, to be followed the next week by an expected shipment of 18,000 doses of the bivalent type.

The health office will not start administering the vaccine until about Oct. 14, Dr. Draper said, because all the necessary paper work is not ready. All persons receiving the vaccine must sign a permission or release slip, he explained, and his office has not received the slips.

The Texas Department of Health Resources in Austin received its first shipment of the vaccine Monday, Dr. F. L. Duff, the department's director, said.

The 420,000 doses of the expected total of five or six million doses were divided and sent to regional offices on the basis of population, he said.

Partial shipments will be received every week, he said.

Dr. Duff also responded to a nationwide health insurance company release which stated that levels of immunization of such diseases as diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus and polio have declined to a point where possible outbreaks of these diseases once again pose a threat to America's health.

"I don't know what they are talking about, but that is not true in Texas," he said.

The School Immunization Act of late 1971 has brought the level of immunization for school-age children to 90 per cent or more.

"At that level of immunity, we won't have an epidemic," he said.

There has been a marked decrease in most childhood diseases in Texas since the enactment of the act. Dr. Duff cited only two cases of polio in the last four years and a decrease in the incidence of rubella from several thousand cases each year to 300 cases last year.

Dr. Duff said he believed some states were having trouble getting parents to immunize their children, but that there was no problem in Texas.

Chili cook-off today to benefit POW-MIAs

SAN ANGELO—OESTE tomorrow will be about young Chip Carter's whistlestop at Midland-Odessa Airport, but one aspect of his appearance is timely on the morn of the "Sons of the Penatekas" chili cook-off in San Angelo.

As the last question in a 20-minute press conference, I asked the personable young Carter if his father intends to appoint a special negotiator to pursue full accounting for some 1,300 Americans still missing in Southeast Asia.

Chip said his father certainly will appoint such a negotiator and added this bombshell: "You know about 90 per cent of those still missing were in energy-related fields, and we want to look into that...".

It was a welcome commitment in what many of us fear may be the latter days in efforts to get Hanoi to live up to its alleged commitments in the Paris Peace Accords which "ended" the madness in Southeast Asia for the U. S. It was important that we get such a commitment from Gov. Carter to match the promise made by President Ford July 24 at the seventh annual convention of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia: "Your loved ones have not been forgotten. You have not been abandoned. I promise you I will not rest until the fullest possible accounting of your loved ones has been made."

It has been through the superhuman efforts of such groups as San Angelo's POW-MIA group that official interest has been maintained all these years. (Too many grassroots Americans, tired of everything Southeast Asian, want most of all to forget the War, including the 112 Texans who remain unaccounted for.)

We started the 'Sons of the Penatekas" last year to help finance the tiny MIA group, and a much better turn-out and income are expected this year as the cook-off has been moved to the new "Chicken Farm" arts and crafts center on North Randolph near downtown San Angelo (and one block off Hwy. 87 near the O. C. Fisher Dam).

Roger Allen, resident artist, is heading up the special chili cookery for potters in which they have to make their own pot (for cooking) as well as chili. But there will be an open division, and the winner will be eligible to represent San Angelo at Terlingua.

The best two-man orchestra in the "cross-country" genre in Oestexas, Ramirez and Lindemann, will be on hand to warble "Up Against the Wall, Redneck Mother" and other Jerry Jeff lovelies, and, yes, I've buried the hatchet with the Penatekae and I told cook-off official Tim Leifeste the other day I'll be there to pretend some expertise as a chili judge.

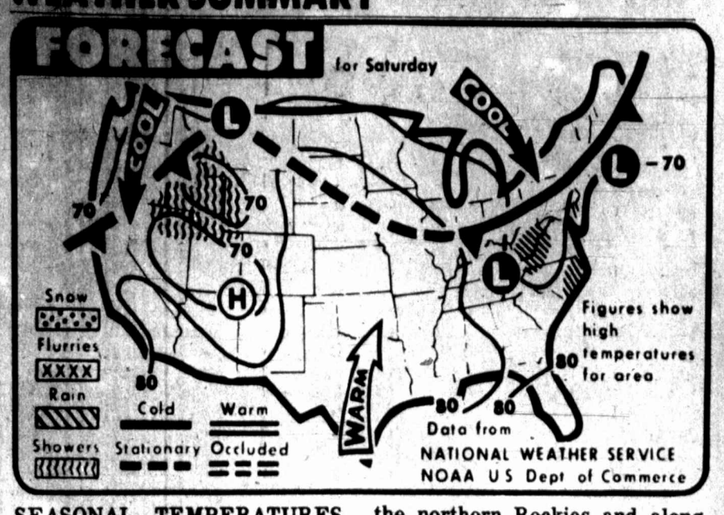

It will be the usual chilidiocy fun for an uncommonly important cause.

Two found guilty in conspiracy trial

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — A federal jury convicted two Dallas men Friday of conspiracy in connection with a commando-style raid on a Mexican jail last spring that freed 14 American prisoners.

A third defendant in the case was acquitted of all charges against him.

The jury deliberated more than six hours before finding William McCoy Hill, 32, guilty of conspiring to export an illegal sawed-off shotgun from the United States to Mexico. He was also found guilty of importing into the United States another shotgun, but was acquitted on two other charges.

The eight-man, four-woman jury also found Sterling Blake Davis, Sr., guilty of conspiracy to export the sawed-off shotgun. He was acquitted on two other charges.

The jury acquitted Billy Jack Blackwell, 19, of Dallas of all charges.

The raid was on the Piedras Negras jail, across the border from Eagle Pass, Tex.

U.S. District Court Judge John H. Woods Jr., who set no sentencing date, told the defendants that, "I would stay away from the Mexican border."

The three remain free on bail.

Mrs. Davis sobbed and grabbed her husband when the verdicts were announced. She told Hill, "I'm so sorry, Mike."

Hill could be assessed a maximum seven years in prison while Davis could get up to five years.

Hill was acquitted of possession of an unregistered firearm and exporting an illegal firearm.

Davis was acquitted of aiding and abetting the exportation of an illegal firearm and aiding and abetting the possession of an illegal firearm.

Blackwell was acquitted of conspiracy to export an illegal firearm and aiding and abetting the exportation of an illegal firearm.

The government's chief witness was Donald Fielden, 29, a burly ex-Marine who testified he masterminded the raid which was financed by Davis, who wanted to get his son, Sterling Jr., out of the jail.

Fielden said he carried out the raid with the help of Hill and Blackwell. The three held jail guards at gunpoint and released the prisoners who crossed the Rio Grande into Eagle Pass, Texas and turned themselves into U.S. authorities.

Fielden pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of exporting an illegal firearm.

Mexico has asked for the extradition of the men involved in the raid.

Fielden said he was paid $5,000 by Davis and also collected several thousand dollars from other prisoners that were released.

Some of the released prisoners testified for the defense that Fielden threatened to kill them unless they paid him.

Kari Jorgenson, 23, of Georgetown, Colo., testified Thursday that Fielden telephoned her following the raid and demanded that she pay $5,000 for her freedom and arrange for three friends to pay the same amount each.

"He said that he would come to Colorado and bag us up and take us back to Mexico," Miss Jorgenson testified. She added she did not pay.

Jeffrey Garafola of Alexandria, Va., another of the released prisoners, testified that Fielden also tried to get him to pay.

He said Fielden called him and told him, "he was about ready to go to Colorado, bag them up, (Miss Jorgenson and her friends) take them back to the border and dump them in the river."

"I am going to kill them," Garafola quoted Fielden as saying.

Hill testified that he participated in the raid because, "I wanted to be famous. I felt the people (prisoners) needed some help and I was the only one that could do it."

Blackwell testified he was talked into participating in the raid because he was told it had the approval of the U.S. government.

STANTON — The annual Martin County Chamber of Commerce Farm and Ranch Tour will get under way at 9 a.m. Monday from the parking lot of the First National Bank in Stanton.

Included in the tour will be a noon meal and looks at cotton, waterways, terraces and livestock, as well as brush control.

Martin County agent Preston Faris and district soil conservationist Alvin Riddle, co-chairmen of the tour, said a bus will transport those participating in the event.

Directors of the chamber are seeking contributions from local merchants to fund the tour, which is replacing the first-bale-of-cotton competition this year.

made in Oklahoma about evangelist Billy Graham.

In the Playboy interview, Carter said he does not criticize others for moral transgressions because he has often lusted for women and committed adultery in his heart. And he included Lyndon Johnson with Richard Nixon in a denunciation of politicians who lie and cheat.

Mailer wrote in the New York Times that Carter used a four-letter word "that the Times has not printed in the 125 years of its publishing life." The word was used, Mailer wrote, when Carter said: "I don't care if people say —."

The candidate's 24-year-old son, answering questions at the University of Tulsa on Monday, said: "I think that the thing that people should watch out for are people like Billy Graham who go around telling them how to live. That's my personal opinion. I'm not saying that about Dad."

Dole called the Republican campaign "on the upbeat," and said, without giving specifics, that polls showed the Ford-Dole ticket ahead in Indiana, Nebraska, Kansas and "even up" in Pennsylvania and California.

He wasn't the only Republican to declare advances. In Atlanta, former Tex. Gov. John B. Connally said a trip through the South convinced him Ford has an excellent chance of carrying Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia and Texas.

It was learned on Thursday that Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and other top Justice Department officials were responsible for starting the contributions investigation in Michigan.

Hurricane Liza leaves 630 dead in Mexico

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Liza cut a deadly swath across the Baja California peninsula Friday. Officials put the number off persons killed at 630 and said it could go as high as 1,000.

Many of the victims lived in a La Paz shantytown swept away by a wall of water from a behind a dam broken by the storm, which carried winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

A spokesman for the port captain's office in La Paz, a desert-area resort on the peninsula that juts down from California, said 630 dead was the latest official count. Rogelio Felix, a spokesman for the governor's office, said the toll could reach 1,000.

The storm continued onto the Mexican mainland and started losing strength Friday evening, a weather bureau spokesman reported.

The 30-foot-high dam on the Cajoncito River — just outside this desert-area resort city on western Mexico's Baja California peninsula — gave way early Friday morning. The wall of mud and water swept through an area of makeshift shelters housing 10,000 people, carrying some shacks as far as six miles, Felix said.

The hurricane left about 700 people injured and at least 40,000 homeless. officials reported.

Felix said the bodies of many people, including children, were found buried in the mud and sand after the floodwaters drained off.

"The situation is very grave," Feliz said. "There are many people still buried in the mud. It's frightening." He said the state government was making an urgent appeal for food, medicine and clothing.

La Paz, a resort port city of 60,000 on the Sea of Cortez about 700 miles south of San Diego, Calif., was left without electricity and drinking water. La Paz is almost at the tip of the peninsula, mostly desert, that juts down from California..

Liza struck La Paz early Friday morning from the Pacific Ocean, turned sharply northward and moved into the Sea of Cortez on the other side of the peninsula.

"Rescue brigades have found several children's bodies buried in the mud and sand," said a police spokesman, Cortez Rojo.

Utility savings would cost state money

Vaca Gathering Co.'s 100 per cent "pass-through," make the price of natural gas at the wellhead the same as the federal price and subsidize utility companies with high gas costs.

This would save each customer $250-$300 a year at a cost to the state in excess of $75 million.

To reduce the bills of customers of private utility companies and cooperatives, the staff said tax credits could be given that would save $75 a year on an electric bill and less on gas. The state, however, would have lost $250 million in taxes in 1976 had the proposals been in effect.

The proposals, Clower said, could "dramatically lower utility rates without harming the supply of natural gas used for electricity."

"We cannot return to the good ol' days of abundant energy at cheap prices," Clower said, "but we can slow down the cost escalation to allow people to adjust their life styles."

Indian summer to continue

More of the same fair Indian summer weather should continue through the weekend in the Midland area.

Skies should be partly cloudy today through Sunday, with continued warm afternoons, said a spokesman at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The high today should be in the low 80s, followed tonight with a low in the upper 50s. High Sunday should be in the mid-80s.

By The Associated Press

Consumers looking for bargains at the supermarket during September had to search carefully. An Associated Press marketbasket survey showed higher costs for meat, milk and some nonfood items.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The pattern of increases and decreases during September was erratic; items that were up in some cities were down in others. Local sales, specials and promotions seemed to have more effect on grocery bills than any long-term trends in the marketplace.

Among the findings of the latest survey:

—The price of a quart of whole milk went up during September at the checklist store in nine cities. Most of the increases were only a penny or two.

—Pork prices, which had been going down, increased again at the checklist store in seven cities. The supply of hogs is higher than it was last year — when farmers had cut production slightly — but is still smaller than it was two years ago.

—The price of a box of laundry detergent increased at the checklist store in six cities and fabric softener rose in five cities. Both items had stayed stable in price during most of the year.

—Sugar and egg prices declined. The cost of a dozen eggs decreased during September at the checklist store in nine cities and sugar dropped in eight cities.

—The marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in nine cities, with an average boost of 3.5 per cent. The bill decreased in four cities, down an average of 1.5 per cent. Over-all, the marketbasket bill rose 2 per cent last month.

—On the bright side, the marketbasket bill on an over-all basis was only a little more than 1½ per cent higher at the start of September than it was at the beginning of the year. The government has predicted that food prices alone will rise 3 to 4 per cent this year, less than half the rate of increase last year.

A look at the over-all number of items in the AP survey showed more increases during September than during August.

The AP did not attempt to weight its survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item on the list represents.

No verdict on question of CIA-Oswald link

By DAVID C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were unable to confirm reports from two CIA officers that the spy agency may have contacted Lee Harvey Oswald prior to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, it was learned Friday.

However,Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., who headed the Kennedy assassination investigation, said through a spokesman that "I don't think we know the whole story."

The CIA released a document Thursday showing that the agency once considered using Oswald as a source of intelligence information about the Soviet Union. The document appeared to conflict with sworn testimony before the Warren Commission by Richard Helms, then a branch chief and later the CIA's director, that the agency never had "or even contemplated" any contacts with Oswald.

Schweiker said he was unaware of the Oswald document but a well-informed source said it had been turned over to the Senate intelligence subcommittee that investigated the Kennedy assassination.

"We followed it up," the source said, but "we found no indication that Oswald was in fact contacted."

The same source said investigators also were unable to confirm the sworn testimony before the subcommittee by a former CIA officer who claimed to have seen a CIA report concerning a contact with a man closely resembling Oswald's description.

Schweiker confirmed that his subcommittee had been unable to corroborate "several reports" of CIA contacts with Oswald in connection with his travels in Russia.

Palestinians retreat

ALEY, Lebanon (AP) — Christian militiamen backed by Syrian artillery and rockets fought their way to the edge of this mountain resort Friday, bent on driving Palestinian guerrillas from their last bastion on the strategic Beirut-Damascus highway.

As Syrian rockets and shells rained down, panicked civilians in cars and trucks hastily piled with furniture and belongings streamed southward out of Aley and the neighboring Palestinian-held resort of Bhamdoun.

A reporter with the Christian forces, who advanced uphill from the north and west, said Christian fighters suffered dozens of casualties as the guerrillas and their leftist Moslem allies struck back with mortar and machine-gun fire. Christian radios broadcast appeals for blood donations.

West wind gets credit

HOUSTON (AP) — A veteran meteorologist credited persistent westerly winds Friday with giving Texas and the Gulf of Mexico one of the quietest hurricane seasons on record.

Davis Benton, head of the National Weather Service in Galveston and chief hurricane spotter for the upper Texas coast, made the observation while acknowledging the hurricane season extends officially through November.

"But October hurricanes are a rarity on the Texas coast," he said. "Over the last 100 years there have been only three to make landfall and none after Oct. 16."

Benton said 1976 has been unusual in that the Gulf of Mexico has not only been free of hurricanes and tropical storms but also has been without a tropical disturbance of any nature.

"There have been only two other years in this century, 1927 and 1962, that the Gulf has been completely free of tropical storms," Benton said.

"Normally, there are two or three each year that enter or form in the Gulf of Mexico and, on the average, one of these affects the Texas coast every other year or about every two years."

Benton said the basic reason for lack of Gulf storms this season has been the persistent westerly winds at higher altitudes over the Gulf and the Caribbean Sea.

It has been three years since the last tropical storm struck the upper Texas coast but that storm, Delia, was a record breaker.

"THINKING" with ODOM
PHILIPPIANS 4:8

The apostle Paul writing to the saints at Rome said, "...for the gospel is the power of God unto salvation unto all that believe ... (Ro. 1:16) It is our contention that there is no other power under heaven to save the souls of men. For this reason we learn that the church of Christ is the "pillar and ground of the truth." (1Ti. 3:15) Hence every activity of the Lord's church as a collective body should be turned to the saving of the lost and the edifying of the saved.

This places a tremendous responsibility upon the shoulders of every faithful gospel preacher. He has not been left to determine for himself what is right and what is wrong, for God has seen that every faithful evangelist has it made clear to him. "In the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who will judge the living and the dead, and in view of his appearing and his kingdom, I give you this charge: Preach the word; be prepared in season and out of season; correct, rebuke and encourage—with great patience and careful instruction." (2 Ti. 4:1-3)

My friends, the Cuthbert and Austin Street congregation endeavors to fulfill this grave responsibility. It is our purpose as a church to hold to the simple plan of salvation. We have no desire to be more than Christ has required of us, nor are we satisified to be less than he expects. You can never appreciate the scripturalness of this group if you are content to hear the testimony of those who seek to destroy her influence for good, rather than investigate for yourself.

We are beginning a "gospel meeting" this coming Monday night with our services each evening at 7:30. Evangelist Jack L. Holt of Memphis, Tennessee will be our speaker. Jack is an outstanding preacher of the gospel and you will hear sermons packed with Bible references and applications made to our lives. You will hear the kind of gospel singing that will thrill the soul. Why not come and be with us in these services? You will be blessed.

We would also invite you to hear our radio broadcast in Odessa (and each Sunday morning) at 8:30 over KCRS. BIBLE CLASSES with women teaching SOME of each Sunday morning at 9:45 and our worship 10:40. The Sunday night service is at 6:30 and invited to all of these services.

Medicaid official may face contempt charge

By JOHN STOWELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a Senate investigating panel said Friday he will recommend contempt of Congress proceedings against a federal official who twice refused to testify about his alleged involvement in a new multi-million-dollar Medicaid scandal.

Charles A. Cubbler, a $32,231 a-year specialist in Medicaid fraud detection at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, could not be found by federal marshals attempting to serve a subpoena for his appearance before the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations.

Acting Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said Cubbler also refused a direct order by the secretary of HEW to appear voluntarily Thursday, and ignored an Aug. 25 subpoena to turn over his books and records to investigators.

Witnesses testifying under oath during three days of hearings said Cubbler had taken at least $12,000 from private companies to help them win government data-processing contracts worth millions of dollars.

Cubbler's attorney had informed the subcommittee earlier that he objected to being called to testify in a public hearing, and that he would invoke the Fifth Amendment even in a closed hearing.

Cubbler, who was transferred out of his sensitive HEW job Monday after superiors learned of the gravity of evidence against him, called in sick Wednesday and Thursdy and went on vacation Friday.

Files gathered by congressional and HEW investigators are being turned over to the Justice Department, the Internal Revenue Service and the attorneys general of Pennsylvania and California.

Robert Fulton, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service which manages the Medicaid antifraud program, said that disciplinary action against Cubbler is under consideration.

Cubbler was "out of bounds" and violated the department's standards of conduct if, as alleged by sworn testimony, he accepted payments, entertainment and the free use of a leased Chrysler from contractors, Fulton said.

Fulton and HEW attorney Burton Berkley said, however, that federal criminal laws do not cover some of the alleged activities, since they involved the award of state contracts, although the federal government paid 90 per cent of the money.

In one case, subcommittee investigators testified, Cubbler received more than $2,500 as a consultant for a data processing firm that won a $59 million contract in Pennsylvania. They said Cubbler and an officer of the company wrote the request for bids, and that Cubbler headed the committee that selected the winner.

Nunn said the investigation had uncovered "a situation much more than the activities of another wayward public official."

Study says some cities better than their suburbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost 20 per cent of American cities provide better education, greater employment opportunities, higher-paying jobs and less-crowded housing than their suburbs, Congress was told Friday.

All but two of these healthy cities lay in the nation's Sun Belt, Brookings Institution researchers told the House Banking Committee.

They said the urban crisis is not so much a big-city predicament as a regional problem, primarily affecting the Northeast and Midwest.

At fault, they said, is the inevitable physical aging in the nation's oldest developed regions, as well as state laws that allow Sun Belt cities to annex suburbs and outlying areas. Many Midwestern and Northeastern cities, they noted, cannot expand their boundaries because of state laws.

Using 1970 census statisitics, Brookings fellow Robert Nathan and Paul Dommel of Holy Cross College compared education, unemployment, poverty levels, housing and personal income in 55 cities and their suburbs.

They said 43 cities compare unfavorably with their suburbs, while 10 are better off and two showed no disparity.

The cities that compared favorably were Dallas; Houston; Phoenix; Norfolk; Salt Lake City; San Diego; Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Greensboro, N.C. Two non-Sun Belt cities found to be stronger than their suburbs were Seattle and Omaha.

The researchers said "the seven cities which stand out as the most distressed are Newark; Cleveland; Hartford, Conn.; Baltimore; St. Louis; Gary, Ind.; and Detroit." They were among the weakest cities in the city-suburban disparity study, and also among the worst 14 cities in a comparison of central cities to one another.

The researchers said solving the urban dilemma is probably the most important domestic issue facing the nation. They suggested that the federal government may have to involve itself in "matters of local structure" prohibiting some cities from annexing adjacent communities.

"There are increasing signs" that annexation laws "will become the central question of domestic policy over the next decade," they said.

According to Nathan and Dommel: "Most of the nation's troubled cities are located in the Northeast and have remained, in geographic terms, substantially unchanged for 60 to 100 years.

Police leaders claim sex, race federal meddling top problems

By PHIL MCCOMBS
The Washington Post

QUANTICO, Va. — "Hi," said the smiling, attractive FBI trainee as she walked by in her drab green starched fatigues.

"Wow," said one of the police chiefs as she passed.

"I was born 40 years too early," said Indianapolis chief Gene Gallagher.

If there had always been policewomen, added Seattle Chief Bob Hanson, "I wouldn't have just celebrated my 32d anniversary."

This joking discussion pointed out what is seen as a serious problem by The Major City Chiefs, the group of powerful, colorful commanders of America's largest police and sheriff departments who met recently at the FBI training academy here for an executive education program.

"One of the most destructive things in police work is male-female partners, as far as breakups of families go," said FBI man Ed Tully as the chiefs talked on about this subject at lunch one day.

Seattle's Hanson said that after he "put 11 women on the street," three of the four married women among them subsequently filed for divorce, and four of the men who had been teamed with women also started divorce proceedings.

Hanson explained that under the tremendous stress of police work, "You learn to depend on your partner. You're there eight hours a night side-by-side. You have to get to know your partner."

"You translate that to male-female and you get sex," Tully added.

"If you put two women together (in a squad car), they fight, said Dallas Chief Dan Byrd. "If you put male and female together, they fornicate."

Hanson said he expects that wives of married officers will soon organize into a determined lobby group. "These women were married to police officers and they knew their husbands' roles were dangerous," he said. "But at no time did anyone explain that their husband would be working in a prowl car with a woman from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. Do we have a moral obligation to that family? You bet your bippy. My legal adviser says that we will be sued and we will lose — it's called 'alienation of affection.'"

"We broke up marriages," Hanson added, "by assigning officers to the vice squad, where the incidence of divorce is three times as high."

Tully summed it all up with an observation warmly approved by the others: "The basic law of Western civilization," he said, "is to preserve the family."

Police are better educated than ever before, according to the chiefs.

"We're getting a lot of college kids," said Honolulu's Keala. "I've got a kid from Stanford with an M.A. in psychology as a switchboard operator. He's a damn good kid."

"I've got a medical doctor on the beat," said San Diego Chief Bill Kolender.

L.A. County Sheriff Pete Pitchess said recruits now include some former anti-establishment

Second of a series

demonstrators who still tend to be "somewhat militant." Younger officers, L.A. Chief Ed Davis said, tend to "come right flat out and tell you how screwed up things are. We wouldn't have done it as young men."

"When we were hiring college grads they didn't work out," said Seattle's Hanson. "They were impatient and wanted to control the world. What we want is a high school graduate who then gets his college degree over 8 or 9 years" while working for the department."

Racial questions were troubling to many of the chiefs. There was a good deal of serious discussion on these questions, and in one late-night drinking session there was this conversation, accompanied by much laughter:

"The negroes have to wear badges to keep themselves from (killing) each other," said Dallas Chief Don Byrd. "in Dallas, most of our murders are committed by blacks."

"So what else is new?" asked another chief.

Another chief said blacks "commit about 60 per cent of all the robberies."

"Once in a while we find a white who robs a black," said Sheriff Dale Carson of Jacksonville and Duval counties in Florida.

Pitchess said chiefs are being "harassed" by the federal government "under the federal civil rights act. That's one of our biggest problems: interference by the federal government in local administration ...

"Intimidation!" broke in Chicago Chief Jim Rochford. "Let's get the words right."

Rochford said he has been involved in court proceedings ever since the Justice Department filed a civil suit in 1973 charging that Chicago police hiring practices discriminated against women, blacks Latin Americans. Rochford said the court has tried to force him to "jump black men" over more qualified whites and also to hire women and minorities at certain ratios.

When the time came for the chiefs to draft position papers on various issues, the workshop on "Affirmative Action and Minority Hiring" had the most trouble. Finally, in order to make any progress at all, it had to meet without a visiting newspaper reporter present — the only time all weekend the reporter was excluded.

Even then the chiefs were able to produce no clear result. One discussion with all the chiefs present broke down in a squabble over whether the percentage of blacks on a city's police force should be based on the percentage of all blacks in the city, the percentage of working blacks, or the percentage of blacks nationally.

It all became very complicated, naturally the matter was dropped.

Utility agrees to fine

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Utilities Co. has agreed to pay $200,000 in state pollustion fines for two lignite-fired generating plants in East Texas.

Texas Utilities Vice President Trent Root said company customers, some four million strong, would not see their rates increased becase of the fines. He said stockholders would absorb the cost.

A spokesman for Dallas Power & Light, a Texas Utilities subsidiary, said the $25 million in equipment being installed as part of the agreement will be a cost passed along to customers.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill filed the complaint Thursday at Fairfield and Mount Pleasant.

China marks 27th anniversary in somber mood

Agence France Presse

PEKING — On a chilly, rainy day, Peking Friday marked its first National Day since the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung in a mood as somber as the weather.

National Day celebrates Mao's proclamation of the founding of the People's Republic of China on Oct. 1, 1949. The anniversary usually is spent in three days of festivities, but Friday was sad and cold, with the parks, usually full on Oct. 1, shrouded in drizzle and chilling fog and generally deserted.

The unusually cold weather kept many people off the streets, although the capital's main commercial avenues remained busy.

Dozens of gold-starred red flags flew over buildings and from the private homes along the narrow streets of old Peking.

It was the first time since Chairman Mao's death on Sept. 9 that the flags were flown at full staff.

The chill evenings have been brightened for the last two days by thousands of lights on public buildings.

The usual celebrations, notably the official banquet on Sept. 30 and the attractions in the city's parks, were canceled this year in mourning for Mao.

Observers noted only two political events during the holiday period. One was an editorial Friday in the People's Daily, the official organ of the Communist party, and the other a commemorative meeting Thursday night in Peking attended by top Chinese leaders and "representatives of the masses."

The front-page editorial called on the Chinese people to transform their grief for Mao into "infinite hatred" for former Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping and his "revisionist line.

Friday's quiet mood contrasted sharply with the holiday spirit of preceding years, when lively crowds swarmed around the hundreds of festival-like attractions installed in the parks of the famous "heavenly temple," the summer palace, or beside the Forbidden City.

Yet the heavy cloud of mourning had lifted somewhat.

Following the example set by soldiers guarding Mao's former residence and the traffic police, many residents of Peking took off the black armbands that they had been wearing since Mao's death.

The stores, which had taken on the appearance of funeral chapels after the death of the "great helmsman," shed their black and yellow decorations.

Some of the shops hung big red paper lanterns or draped decorative cloth over their main entrances, along with banners proclaiming "Celebrate National Day" on a background of red, the color of happiness.

Theaters opened for the first time since the day Mao died. On view was a whole new series of revolutionary films.

On Tien An Men Gate itself, where Mao proclaimed the founding of the People's Republic 27 years ago, enormous traditional lanterns hung once again above Mao's color portrait.

China's leader will take his place in history alongside the five men whose giant portraits face his on Tien An Men Square: Marx, Engels, Lenin, Stalin, and especially Sun Yat Sen, "the father of the republic," whose image is displayed every Oct. 1 in front of the Monument to the Heroes of the People on the huge square.

Friday's People's Daily editorial, entitled "Study Mao Tse-tung's thought and carry out Mao's behests," dealt largely with the need to; study all Mao's works in depth to remain faithful to his "revolutionary line." This has been a persistent theme of the Peking press since Mao's death.

The "party committees at all levels" all over the country were asked to "strengthen leadership of the study movement". and "guide the masses in turning their boundless grief into a powerful motive force for the study of Mao Tse-tung thought, into infinite hatred for Teng Hsiao-ping's counter revolutionary revisionist line and into concrete actions in grasping revolution, promoting production and other work and preparedness against war."

Teng, who once was considered a possible heir-apparent to Mao, was stripped of his official duties last spring as part of the party leadership's campaign to purge individuals who differed with Mao's views on Communist society. Teng and his followers are accused of putting production and economic gain ahead of party ideology.

The editorial added that the most pressing "danger" in China now was "revisionism," which to the Communist leadership means thought that would lead to what Peking calls "Soviet-style capitalism."

Observers saw in these references a call for vigilance against a possible reappearance after Mao's death of the "erroneous" tendencies of policies advocated by Teng, who favored economic efficiency and downplayed "class struggle.'

Speeches made at Thursday night's meeting expressed the same resolve to perpetuate Mao's thought and to "never forget glass struggle."

Except for Marshal Liu Po-cheng, who is advanced in years and ailing, all the members of the Politburo of the Central Committee attended the commemorative meeting. The official order of presentation revealed no changes in the hierarchy.

Russia issues feeler to Peking

The Washington Post

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union Friday renewed its offer to normalize relations with China in the first authoritative Kremlin statement on Sino-Soviet ties since the death last month of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

A lengthy article in the Communist party newspaper Pravda marking the 27th anniversary of the Peking regime contained no mention of Mao — an extraordinary ommission that analysts regarded as proof of Soviet interest in setting aside the tensions that he personally came to represent.

The Soviets have held out the possibility of normalizing ties on a number of occasions in recent years but in contrast to those, Friday's commentary was completely free of polemics, stressing throughout only the Kremlin's eagerness to improve relations with Peking.

"There are no problems that cannot be resolved," said Pravda, "provided there is a mutual desire and in the spirit of good neighborliness, mutual benefit and consideration of each other's interests."

Similar sentiments were expressed in the formal message of greetings on the anniversary sent to the Chinese by the Soviet Council of Ministers, but this was considered less significant as such telegrams follow set patterns.

Some gesture of conciliation had been expected from Moscow following Mao's death aimed at those elements in the Chinese leadership who may be interested in ending the 15-year-old feud between the Communist superpowers. This article, signed by I. Alexandrov, a pseudonym used only for top-level Kremlin statements, seems to be that gesture.

Every hint from Peking, however, indicates that for the time being the Chinese are not interested in a change. The Chinese have not halted their invective against the Kremlin during the mourning period, while the Soviets dropped all mention of Mao the moment he died.

More importantly, a message of condolences sent by the Soviet Communist party was rejected by the Chinese on the grounds that there are no "party-to-party" relations.

Moscow is doubtless aware of the negative attitude in Peking but evidently decided not to let this present period of uncertainty pass without making some kind of a bid for support. "The fundamental interests of the Soviet and Chinese people do not clash but coincide," the article said.

The article does not appear to alter in detail any existing Soviet negotiation positions on outstanding questions such as border differences. Rather, specialists say, the statement is important for its tone, timing and the message it is meant to convey.

"The Soviet Union," asserts Pravda, "has never had and does not now have economic, nor territorial nor other grievances against China."

Coastal Gas subsidiary faces suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Coastal States Gas Corp. announced Friday a subsidiary, Colorado Interstate Gas Co., has been named a defendant in a $32.5 million suit.

The federal court suit filed in Amarillo, Tex., challenges the price being paid by the Colorado firm for natural gas from certain leases in six Texas Panhandle counties and sold on the interstate market.

The suit was filed by trustees for various trusts and individuals of the Bivins family.

All the gas involved is produced by CIG Exploration Inc., a Colorado Interstate subsidiary also named as a defendant. in that the gas is sold in interstate commerce, the production is subject to regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

The suit alleges royalties on the gas produced from the leases since September 1972 should have been based on a "market value" of the gas and greater than the price the company pays under FPC regulation.

Odessa squeaks by Midland Lee, 15-14

By BOB DILLON

Darrell Shepard is for real folks.

The all-state quarterback brought Odessa from behind in the final period Friday night as the Bronchos took a 15-14 victory over the Robert E. Lee Rebels before more than 10,000 homecoming fans in Memorial Stadium.

OHS trailed 14-0 going into the final period as the Lee defense had bottled up the dangerous Shepard, but the 170-pound senior did his thing to bring the Red Hosses from behind.

Lee held Shepard to eight yards rushing in the first half and no pass completions in three attempts.

The Rebels took the opening kickoff and thanks to a roughing-the-kicker penalty, drove 94 yards in a time-consuming drive that took up most of the clock in the first period.

Clyde Gary, who led District 5-4A in rushing last year and back in the harness for the first time in two games, broke on a 36-yard touchdown run and Jerry Moore booted the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 5:37 left in the period.

A 15-yard pass from quarterback David Hobbs to Robert Ochsner was the big gainer on the drive which took 15 plays. OHS held Lee at its 10, but Donald Salinas, the Rebel punter was roughed up on his punt attempt to give the Tall City team new life.

Odeasa was unable to move the ball in its first possession but got the ball back when Lee fumbled with Jeff Holder recovering at the Lee 35.

A 15-yard penalty held the Bronchos out and James Lundy made a big defensive play on a third and seven play for the Rebels.

One of the key plays of the game came in the second period when Lee drove from its own 48 to the OHS seven where the Broncos held when Hobbs only picked up one yard on a fourth and two situation.

Lee also got down to the Odessa 23 late in the second period, but OHS held.

Great defensive play by Lee's Eric

SPORTS

Stewart, Todd Clements and Jeff McCowan, turned the Bronchos away and on a fourth down play punter Johnny Sullenger saw the snap from center sail over his head. He raced back and alertly tossed a pass instead of having a 40-yard loss on the play.

McCowan put Lee into business in the third period by recoving a fumble by Odessa's Holder at the Odessa 22 and in seven plays, the Rebels were on the scoreboard. On a fourth and three at the OHS five, Moore came in to try a field goal, but the Bronchos jumped offsides and Lee had the ball at the three where Brian Crowell powered his way over for the score. Moore's PAT gave Lee an apparent comfortable 14-0 lead with 4:08 left in the third stanza.

OHS took the ensuing kickoff and promptly marched 60 yards to score to get back into the game. Holder picked up nine yards and Shepard hit John Morrison with a 20-yard pass. An 11-yard pass from Shepard to Holder down the middle, put the ball at the Lee 18.

Shepard his Tony Jones with a perfect eight-yard TD strike with 11:55 left in the final period. Bill Willis split the uprights to make it 14-7.

Lee moved all the way down to the Odessa 31, but on a fourth and three, Brad Wright's pass to Stewart was incomplete.

Odessa scored in four plays. Shepard hit Morrison with a quick pass and it went for 60 yards to the Lee nine. Shepard gained two yards and Mike Stahl dropped a TD pass from Shepard, but Shepard hit Morrison with a seven-yard TD pass to cut the lead 14-13 with 5:29 left in the game.

Then came the play that won the game for the Odessans. Shepard went back to pass against a terrific pass rush by the Rebs and spotted Russell King just over the goal line and hit him with the two-point conversion. On the next posession by Lee, the Rebs moved from their 18 to the 31 but had to punt and Odessa marched down to the Rebel five where on three consecutive downs, Shepard took the snap and fell to the ground. The victory gives Odessa a 4-0 season record and 1-0 5-4A reading while Lee is now 3-1 and 0-1. Lee entertains the San Angelo Bobcats next Friday in a 5-4A battle. San Angelo defeated Abilene Cooper, 28-19 in its loop opener. Odessa, meanwhile, takes on Cooper in Odessa.

Cranes thrash Fabens

CRANF —The Crane Golden Cranes rolled to their third straight victory of the season here Friday night with a 20-6 non-conference football win over the Fabens Wildcats.

Audwin Gallion and Chris Brightman led the way with both rushing over 100 yards. Gallion had 162 yards and two touchdowns while Brightman rushed for 189 yards and a touchdown.

Crane got on the scoreboard first when Gallion crashed over from seven yards out. A fumble gave Crane the ball at the 28-yard line.

Fabens got back in the game on a 42-yard drive with Rick Lettuwich scoring from four yards out in the first period, but the kick failed and Crane led 7-6 at the half.

Brightman opened the second half with a 53-yard TD run for a 13-6 lead, but Fabens drove to the Crane five before Wendell Balck, Jim Smitherman and Mark Scott stopped

Minnesota delays KC Royals' pennant, 4-3

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Steve Braun drove Mike Cubbage home with a one-out bloop single to center in the ninth inning Friday night and the Minnesota Twins delayed Kansas City's title drive with a 4-3 victory over the Royals.

The Royals, who have clinched a tie for the West Division crown in the American League, took a 3½-game lead into the game and needed just one more victory or a loss by the second-place Oakland A's to win the title outright.

Cubbage led off the ninth with a walk, went to second on a bunt by Bob Randall, then scored on Braun's first hit of the game.

Minnesota reliever Bill Campbell, 17-5, retired the first two Kansas City batters in the ninth. Then Cookie Rojas then singled to left, but pinchrunner Willie Wilson was gunned down trying to steal second, ending the game.

The AL batting race also tightened, as Kansas City's Hal McRae, the league leader, slipped to .33078, with an 0-4 showing9 The Royals' George Brett had his 28th three-hit game of the season, raising his average to .33073, while Minnesota's Rod Carew had two hits in four tries, lifting his mark to .327.

Kansas City took a 2-0 lead into the seventh, but the Twins jumped in front by erupting for three runs off Royals' starter Doug Bird.

Butch Wynegar and Larry Hisle delivered one-out singles, then Bird walked Dan Ford, loading the bases. Cubbage, who had grounded out twice, then doubled to the right-centerfield wall, clearing the bases before Bird got Randall to bounce to third. Reliever Steve Mingori then came in and retired Steve Braun on a fly to right.

The Royals bounced back and tied the game in the bottom of the seventh. Al Cowens led off with a single, went to second on a sacrifice by John Wathan, and moved to third on starter Dave Goltz' second wild pitch of the game. Cookie Rojas, pinch hitting for Frank White, then brought Cowens in with a base hit.

The Twins threatened to break the game open in the eighth when Carew singled, Steve Brye doubled and Wynegar walked with one out. But Mark Littell held them scoreless by getting Hisle to force Carew at the plate, and Ford struck out swinging.

OC to host X-country meet

Powerful Permian Panthers bury Bulldogs, 42-13

By PAUL DOMOWITCH
R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA-If you are to have any hope of beating an Odessa Permian football team, three very important rules must be strictly adhered to. You must A) pray a great deal prior to kickoff; B) kidnap the Panthers' starting backfield; and C) avoid turnovers.

Even if you accomplish these three, victory is still not a certainty, because Permian's second set of backs are capable of destroying you as well, and more importantly, there is a rumor going around that God is a Mojo. So praying may be a waste of time.

Friday night, before almost 14,000 fans in Odessa's W.T. Barrett Stadium, the Midland High gridders made a shambles of rule three, turning the ball over five times in their District 5-4A opener, and found themselves on the short end of a 42-13 defeat.

The Bulldogs saw three of those turnovers come back to haunt them, as Permian turned them into scores. Panther tailback Lyndon Kauk, a fleet-footed 165-pounder, scored three times in the lop-sided victory, while teammate Mike Hanson tallied twice.

Bulldog halfback Phillip Ward, who led his team in rushing on the night, with 70 yards, was in on both of Midland's scores. He ran for one, and hit split end John Northington for a 16-yard TD strike off of the halfback option for the other.

You would never have guessed what was in store for the Purple Pack by the first five minutes of action. On their fourth play from scrimmage, Panther wide receiver Rinny Johnson fumbled the ball away, and Midland's hefty 218-pound middle guard, Ricky Goode fell on it, to give the Pack a first down at the Permian 42.

Quarterback Kevin Widner, who has thrown sparingly in Midland's first three games, went right to the airways on first down, and connected with Ward for a 25-yard strike and a first down at the Permian 17.

A six-yard burst up the middle by fullback Rusty Maroney, and another six-yard gain by Ward put the Pack inside the ten, but Permian's defense stood its ground. Placekicker Kevin Pearce then came on to attempt a 22-yard field goal, but his boot was wide to the right, and the Panthers took over.

The Bulldogs got the ball right back, after their own defense held, and this time, there was no stopping them. With a third and 12 at their own 29, Maroney took off on a draw up the gut, and turned it in for a 39-yard gain, and a first down at the Permian 32.

Three plays later, Ward turned right end on his 24-yard jaunt, and put the Bulldogs ahead with 2:48 remaining in the quarter.

Permian didn't sit still. Led by junior fullback Mark Graves, who led all rushers with 75 yards in his first

Rankin ravages Jim Ned with 404 yards rushing

By GREG WATSON

RANKIN — Rankin performed to its nickname Friday night before a homecoming crowd, making beleaguered Jim Ned see plenty of maroon in a 42-6 give-'em-hell performance.

Coach Dwayne Turner's charges needed lots of enthusiasm in the early going, too, to overcome more than 100 yards in penalties and to repulse two Jim Ned drives that got as far as the Rankin 3- and one-yard lines.

However, despite a 31-yard touchdown pass from Chris Holson to Doug Mandley for the Indians' only points with 20 seconds left in the second quarter, the Red Devils still took a 15-point lead to the dressing room and quickly expanded that after intermission.

With running backs Clarke Turner (15-139), Russell Wimberley (5-126) and Hilton Luckie (15-104) pacing a ground attack that netted 404 yards, Rankin always got what it wanted.

Even reserve guard Frank Self, who didn't play that much, couldn't complain. The student council president made sure he got his action in the form of congratulation kisses to Queen Teresa Plagens and the three runnersup.

It was that kind of night.

First time Rankin had the ball following an opening kickoff fumble by Jim Ned, it marched 35 yards in nine plays with Luckie blasting the final four yards on fourth down.

Lynn Parker booted the first of six extra points, even if he accrued 20 yards in penalties from out-of-bounds kickoffs on the night.

A busted punt play gave Jim Ned opportunity to retaliate at the Rankin 26, and the Indians worked their way to 3, but on fourth down Scott Russom swarmed Orbin Lesley at the 14.

Whammo. Next play , Russell Wimberly scampered like a West Texas jackrabbit through the line on a counter play and outraced the secondary for a 86-yard TD.

Rankin didn't slack the next series, either. Quarterback Randy Doege lofted an aerial to the fleet-footed Wimberley for a 64-yard score.

Ironically, the Red Devils simply churned out the final three TDs after t brief rest. Taking the second-half kickoff, Rankin drove 46 yards in six plays with Turner twisting the final eight yards.

Linemen Roy Kendrick, Tom Wimberley, Gary Latham, Bill Lindsey and Greg Nelson consistently produced gaping holes on successful counters.

Just the same, Luckie made 14 yards the hard way, sweeping alone to the left side then tightroping down the line, for his second TD with 5:11 left in the third period.

Mike Vick produced the third straight score that Rankin had the ball offensively in the second half when he concluded a 10-play attack standing up from one yard.

From that juncture, Coach Turner allowed everyone to play. With a District 6-A team that is now 4-0 as compared to 0-4 for visiting Jim Ned, he could afford such with conference beginning this coming Friday in McCamey for the Uptown County championship.

Murtaugh makes it official

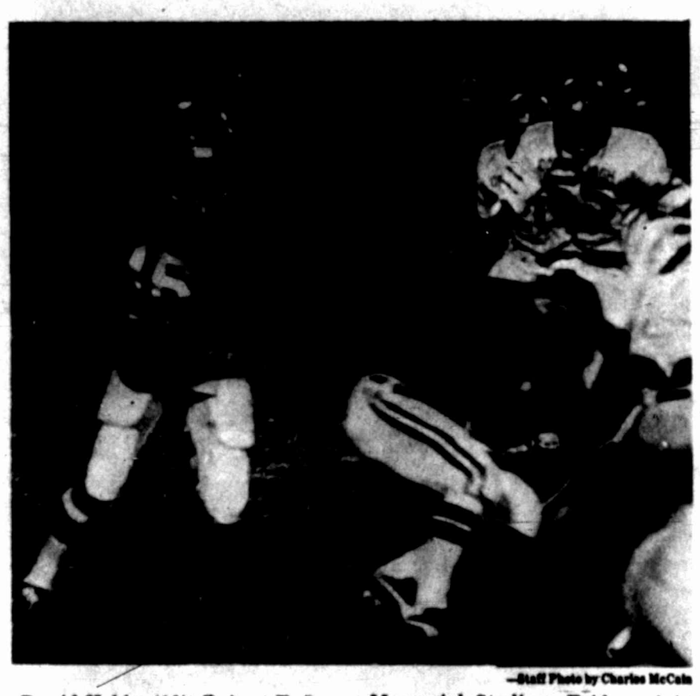

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Danny Murtaugh made it official Friday and resigned as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, ending a reign that included four separate stints as field general.

The gentle Irishman shed no tears at his swan song, going out with the same composure he used to lead the Pirates to two World Series titles and four division championships. His parting words displayed his usual dry wit and a final needle for reporters, with whom he always enjoyed friendly banter.

"I'm happy to announce that I'll be back for two more years. I just signed a new contract with Joe," quipped Murtaugh.

"That would be a surprise," someone said.

"Yeah, that would be a surprise," replied Murtaugh. "I'm stepping down this time—unequivocably."

Gottfried advances to net quarterfinals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., swept into the quarter-finals of the $125,000 Fireman's Fund International Open Tennis Championships Friday, beating Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia 6-3, 6-2.

It was the third straight-set victory by Gottfried, who has limited each opponent to a twoset total of five games. Next opponent for Gottfried, seeded No. 5, will be second-seeded Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md.

Gottfried also reached the quarter-finals in doubles, when he and Bob Hewitt of South Africa—the top-seeded pair—beat Pattison and Haroon Rahim of Pakistan 7-6, 6-3.

Vijay Amritraj of India, No. 11 seed, beat seventh-seeded Bob Lutz of San Clemente, Calif. 1-6, 7-6, 6-2, rallying to even the match by winning the second-set tiebreaker 7-1.

Hank Pfister, who upset fourth-seeded Stan Smith Thursday, lost to another unseeded player, Sherwood Stewart of Goose Creek, Tex. 6-1, 64. Stewart broke Pfister's service in a long opening game and had easy going from there, building a 5-2 lead in the second set.

Another Texan reaching the quarter-finals was sixth-seeded Dick Stockton of Dallas with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex. After losing, Richey, No. 13 seed, left for Hawaii, defaulting on a second-round doubles match.

Bobcats squeeze Cougars

ABILENE — The San Angelo Central Bobcats scored 10 points in the final period Friday night to down the Abilene Cooper Cougars, 28-19, in a wild District 5-4A opener in P.E. Shotwell Stadium.

Cooper opened the scoring in the first period when tailback Tim Orr broke on an 85-yard TD run. Richard Williams booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

San Angelo came back to score when Bill Woodard skipped 61 yards for a TD, but the kick failed, making it 7-6.

The Bobcats went ahead on a 15-yard keepr by quarterback Mickey abbott and the kick failed, but it was 12-7 in favor of Central.

Wes Evans raced 14 yards for another Bobcat TD in the second period and this time, a pass for the two-pointer was no good, making it 18-7.

Orr raced 26 yards for another Cooper TD and a pass for the two-pointer misfired making it 18-13 in favor of San Angelo at halftime.

Central picked up two points on a safety in the offset of the fourth period to make it 20-13 and Woodard scored from three yards out to make it 26-13. A pass to Evans from Abbott made it 28-13.

Cooper scored late in the game when quarterback Mark Beale hit Randy Jones with a 72-yard TD pass, but the run failed making it 28-19.

The Cougars rushed for 237 yards and passed for 198 more for a total offense of 435 yards compared to Central's 292 rushing and none passing.

Cooper plays OHS in Odessa next week while Central meets Midland Lee in Midland.

Skepticism, surprise greet Ali retirement

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali's decision Friday to retire from boxing was greeted with a mixture of skepticism, surprise and, in many cases, sadness.

While the announcement itself was not too unexpected, its suddenness and this bizarre setting for the decision created consternation among officials and observers of the sport.

"He has retired before," said James A. Farley Jr., chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission. "I don't take it too seriously yet. We will have to wait and see."

First of the boxing commissioners to comment, Farley said that if Ali sticks to his decision, a bout between former champion George Foreman and longtime challenger Ken Norton would be a logical match-up to determine a successor.

"I don't see any necessity for an elimination tournament," Farley said. "It seems that these two men are the logical contenders."

But boxing promoter Don King and Ali's manager, Herbert Muhammad, seemed to take the retirement announcement at face value.

"The guy really wants to quit," said King.

King pointed out that Ali, a 34-year-old Black Muslim, made his announcement in the company of Wallace D. Muhammad, leader of the Black Muslim movement in the United States. "He may play with the rest of us, but not with the chief minister," King said.

Ali announced his retirement from the governor's office in Istanbul, declaring:

"As of now, I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith."

He said the decision came after strong urging from Wallace D. Muhammad. "From now on, I will join in the struggle for the Islamic faith," the champion added.

A spokesman for Herbert Muhammad said from Chicago that Herbert believed Ali had retired, and that the champion would have a formal statement for the boxing commissions when he returns from Turkey.

In Caracas, Jose Sulaiman, president of the World Boxing Council, said Foreman ranked as the No. 1 contender and it would be necessary to await a formal announcement from Ali before determining the means of selecting a successor.

Foreman had the title taken from him by Ali in an eighth-round knockout in Zaire, Africa, last October. Norton lost a close 15-round decision to the titleholder Tuesday night in New York. Ali had talked of possible retirement after that struggle, a bout that left millions of viewers split on the outcome.

"I gotta retire with this title," Ali said as he lay prone on a table in his Yankee Stadium dressing room Tuesday night. "It's important that I get out as a black man for the Third World and all my people as their hero, as the system nobody can beat."

Foreman ranked as No. 1 contender for vacant title

By Associated Press

The World Boxing Council said Friday it would recognize George Foreman as the No. 1 contender for the world heavyweight boxing title vacated by Muhammad Ali's announced retirement. But Ken Norton says he is the people's champion.

Jose Sulaiman, president of the WBC, said once the council has received official confirmation of Ali's retirement, the WBC will vote immediately on the who Foreman will fight to decide the new champion.

A spokesman for Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, said Ali's retirement would be made official when the champion returned from Turkey, where the original announcement was made.

Spokesmen for the World Boxing Association were not immediately available, but the WBA was expected to take a stand similar to the WBC's.

Bob Biron, Ken Norton's manager, took advantage of the fuss to immediately lay claim to the title for Norton, who three days earlier lost a close decision to Ali which Biron had protested.

"NORTON IS the world champion," Biron said. "He defeated Ali. The decision was stolen. We feel he (Norton) is the true champion, and everybody else is a challenger. We are not interested in an elimination."

Norton, however, admitted Foreman's name could not be dismissed. "After the fight I had with Ali, there's nobody else around but me and Foreman," Norton said. "I am regarded as the people's champion now."

The situation is not unprecedented, by any means. In fact, this is the second time Ali has left the title vacant. On the first occasion, when Ali was forced into temporary retirement by his anti-Vietnam war stand, a series of six bouts was needed to name a WBA champion.

The situation was even further confused when the New York Athletic Commission refused to recognize the WBA champion.

The WBA originally designated eight men in a pool to fight for the title. The group includes Joe Frazier, Jimmy Ellis, Jerry Quarry, Ernie Terrell, Thad Spencer, Oscar Bonavena, Floyd Patterson and Karl Mildenberger. But Frazier, who had just beaten George Chuvalo, refused to participate, and the New York commission said it would not recognize the WBA box-off without Frazier.

After a number of bouts, Ellis and Quarry finally met for the WBA title in April of 1968. Ellis won a split decision over Quarry at the Oakland Coliseum and was crowned WBA champion.

Meanwhile, New York had set up a bout between Frazier and Buster Mathis to determine their version of the title. In March, 1968, one month before the WBA champion was crowned, Frazier stopped Mathis in the 11th round.

Bobick feels on verge of bid for heavy title

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Muhammad Ali's announced retirement has thrown some uncertainty into Duane Bobick's plans of winning the world heavyweight boxing championship.

"We've just got to wait and see if he's really retired this time. Monday took him out of retirement before," Bobick said Friday as he prepared for his nationally televised fight Saturday with Chuck Wepner.

"I'm no more than six months to a year away from being ready for a championship fight," Bobick said, "but it depends on what happens to Muhammad."

He mentioned the possibility of an elimination tournament to decide a successor to Ali in which case he might be forced to escalate his timetable.

The heavyweight champion announced Friday that he was retiring from the ring to devote his full energies to the Muslim religion.

Bobick, ranked third by the World Boxing Association, weighed 217 pounds Friday. The undefeated 26-year-old heavyweight from St. Paul., Minn., will put his 35-0 record on the line against the ninth-ranked Wepner who has a 31-11-2 record. Wepner weighed in at 224.

The scheduled 10-round fight will be televised live on ABC's Wide World of Sports at 5 p.m. EDT. The fight will be held at the Utica College gymnasium.

Wepner, who has scored two knockouts since he was knocked out in the 15th round last year by Ali, says Saturday's fight is more important to him than it is to Bobick.

"It's a big fight for me at this point in my career," the 35-year-old Bayonne, N.J., fighter said at Friday's weighin. "Duane is young and if he loses it won't hurt him that much."

Wepner said that no matter how Saturday's fight turns out he won't be retiring. I'll fight as long as they keep paying me," he said.

Wepner said he has taken a month off from his liquor store job to train for the fight. The only other time he has trained so long for a bout was for his fight with Ali, Wepner said.

Former world champion Joe Frazier is Bobick's manager and he says he believes the young fighter is "one step away" from being ready for a championship bout.

Frazier said he has no plans to come out of retirement since he was beaten by Ali in their last fight. "I like this life and I'll stay retired, unless there would be some bad mixup that I got to come back and straighten out," Frazier said.

Robinson says pay not issue

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cleveland Indians are en route to their best finish in years, but Manager Frank Robinson is winding down the season without a contract.

"I'd like to stay in Cleveland," he said Friday. "We're talking about it. But I don't have a contract. We haven't agreed."

Robinson, in his second year at the Indians' helm, reportedly was paid $120,000 this season as a player and $80,000 as a manager.

Robinson will not play at all next year and the Indians have reportedly offered him $80,000 just to manage. Reports have been circulating that he wants more money on the argument that the club will finish above .500 for the first time since 1968—the Indians are five games over .500 with four to play.

Robinson, however, insisted that money is not at issue in his negotiations with the Indians. "We're at a stage where my business representative, Ed Keating, is talking with the team. I'd rather not say what the problem is but it isn't money. And it isn't the coaches.

"They will all be back if I am, unless of course they choose to go somewhere else."

Robinson is happy with the showing his players have made this year, particularly their strong finish.

It's D-Day in Columbus as Buckeyes seek revenge

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saturday is D-Day in Columbus, Ohio.

In the world of college football, D-Day is that Saturday each fall when Ohio State plays its long-awaited revenge battle with the team that cost it the national championship the preceding season.

Last season, that culprit was UCLA. The Bruins upended previously unbeaten and toprated Ohio State 23-10 in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, making it an unhappy old year and a sadder new year for Woody Hayes.

That was UCLA's revenge for a 41-20 regular-season thrashing at the hands of the Buckeyes. This time, it's Ohio State's turn. But a funny thing happened when Ohio State got caught looking ahead to UCLA last week and blew a 22-21 decision to Missouri in the final 12 seconds.

THAT DROPPED the Buckeyes from second to eighth in The Associated Press ratings. UCLA is fourth.

In other big games, a pair of important Southeastern Conference clashes find 10th-ranked Alabama at No. 6 Georgia and No. 11 Louisiana State at No. 19 Florida. Meanwhile, No. 14 North Carolina visits No. 12 Missouri in a key intersectional battle.

Elsewhere, No. 1-ranked Michigan entertains Wake Forest, runner-up Pitt visits Duke, third-ranked Oklahoma opens Big Eight play at Iowa State, No. 5 Nebraska hosts Miami, Fla., seventh-ranked Maryland is at home to Villanova and No. 9 Kansas plays host to Wisconsin.

Other games involving members of the Second Ten have Iowa at No. 13 Southern California for a night contest, No. 15 Boston College at Navy, Auburn vs. No. 16 Mississippi at Jackson, No. 18 Notre Dame at Michigan State and No. 20 Penn State at Kentucky. Texas Tech, rated 17th, is idle.

The UCLA-Ohio State tussle will depend on whose defense can best contain the other's high-powered backfield. UCLA, averaging 35 points a game, features quarterback Jeff Dankworth and running backs Wendell Tyler and Theotis Brown. Ohio State counters with monster fullback Pete Johnson, tailback Jeff Logan and quarterback Rod Gerald.

"THE IMPORTANT thing now is how we play after a defeat," says Hayes. "Obviously, we must improve in several areas. We'll just have to work harder and correct our mistakes. We know we have the kind of athletes who will rebound from disappointment.

"UCLA is a real challenge. They can hurt you many ways. They have three fine runners and they make effective use of the pass. We will have to be at our best. It will take an all-out effort, but there isn't any reason why we won't get it."

Since Alabama dropped its opener to Ole Miss, a loss to Georgia would make it difficult—but not impossible—for the Crimson Tide to roll to another SEC crown. Bear Bryant has had success against Georgia to the tune of 11-4. He was 2-2 at Kentucky and 1-0 at Texas A&M and is 8-2 at 'Bama. In fact, Georgia was Texas A&M's only victim during a 1-9 catastrophe in 1954, the Bear's only losing campaign in 32 years as a head coach.

"Actually, I don't know much about Georgia since we haven't been playing them the last couple of years," Bryant says. "But Athens can be the hottest place in the world to play football and it will be a tremendous challenge for our team."

LOUISIANA STATE ranks seventh nationally in total defense but the Tigers will have their work cut out against speedy Florida, which is fifth in total offense.

"I don't know of any team that approaches having the type of speed that Florida possesses," says LSU Coach Charlie McClendon. "Our boys are going to have to be in the same mental frame that they were in when we played Nebraska."

That, of course, was a 6-6 standoff and thrust LSU into the national rankings.

What kind of effort will Florida need?

"The kick-return yardage was the winning edge in the Mississippi State game and we are going to have to have that same kind of effort against LSU," says Coach Doug Dickey. "LSU has a ball-control type offense and an extremely talented and aggressive defense. They are great at pursuit and solid in every area. Their reaction on defense makes it hard for you to make a big play on them."

The North Carolina-Missouri clash is a meeting giant-killers. Carolina started Miami of Ohio's downfall and then handed Florida its only setback. Missouri's victims include Southern Cal and Ohio State, both on the road.

"It is a tremendous accomplishment to win at either place," says North Carolina's Bill Dooley. "Missouri has won at both in a matter of three weeks."

NBA clubs fib on tab paid to Dantley, Lucas

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Lucas, the No. 1 draft choice in the National Basketball Association, signed for $1.5 million and Adrian Dantley, the No. 6 pick, signed for $1.1 million— both figures being nearly twice as much as their teams told the press, the Washington Star said Friday.

The leaking of false salary information, especially if the figures are low, doesn't fit with good faith bargaining, charged Donald Dell, the attorney who represented Lucas and Dantley in negotiations.

"This kind of thing is happening every day in this jungle," said Dell. "You should be able to assume that the other party is operating in good faith. I've always operated that way, but this year I've gotten burned."

One cause for his dismay occurred one day last June at Houston International Airport when Dell and Lucas boarded a 7 a.m. flight to Washington after negotiating the former Maryland All-American's contract with the Rockets.

Dell opened a local paper to the sports page to see an Associated Press story that Houston had signed Lucas to a multiyear contract for $850,000, "according to a club officials."

The day before, Dell said, he and Lucas had signed a seven-year contract for $1.5 million, and they had their copy of the contract proved it, the Star reported.

The Rockets, Dell said, had asked him not to publicize the terms. Then, he said, they went through the formality of selecting Lucas as the No. 1 college pick and gave out the $850,000 price.

If Dell got mad that morning in Houston, his temperature climbed further last week when the Buffalo Braves signed Dantley, an All-American at Notre Dame, and apparently tried the same tactic. The team announced his contract as $500,000 for five years. The Star quoted high sources as saying Dantley, a Washington schoolboy star, actually will receive more than $1.1 million for seven years.

Phils win over Mets on homer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Vukovich slammed a home run in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets Friday night.

For Vuckovich, who replaced Dick Allen in the fifth, it was his sixth major league home run and first since 1974. The loser was Jerry Koosman, 2110, who struck out 11 and allowed eight hits.

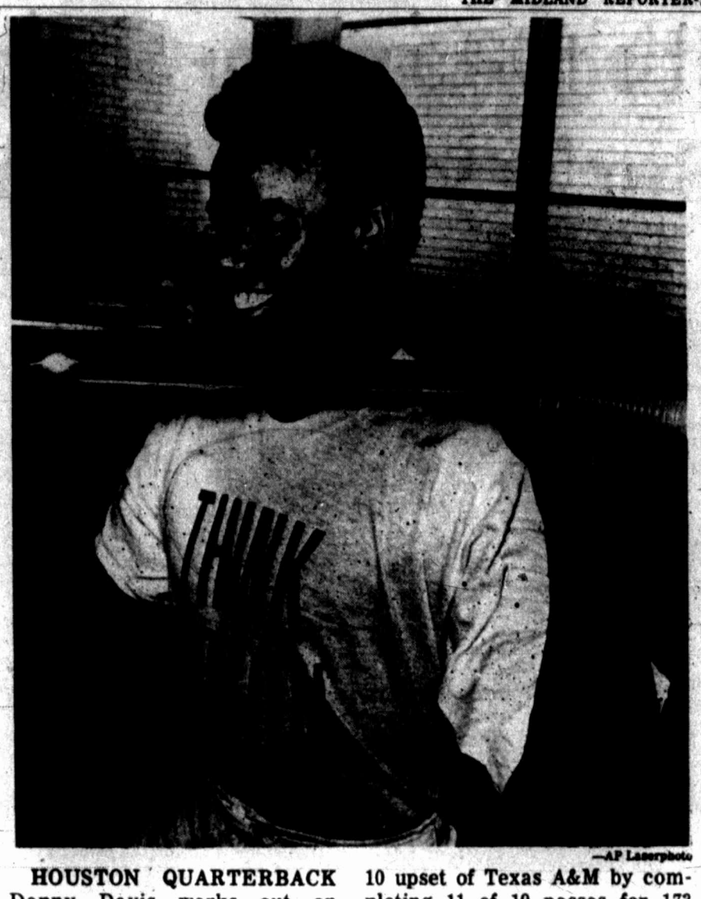

After Koosman started the ninth by fanning Ollie Brown, his 200th strikeout victim of the season, Vukovich, hitless in six at-bats since being brought up Sept. 1 from Reading of the Eastern League, smashed his game-winner.

Reliever Gene Garber, 9-3, was the winner.

Astros rap Giants, 5-4

HOUSTON (AP) — Cliff Johnson's two-run single capped a four-run Houston rally in the seventh inning Friday night, lifting the Astros to a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Gary Alexander hit a two-run homer in the second off winner Mark Lemongello, 3-1. The Giants' other two runs scored in the sixth on Gary Matthews' two-run homer.

HOUSTON QUARTERBACK Danny Davis works out on weights. The Cougar signal caller was named SWC offensive player of the week for leading UH to a 21-10 upset of Texas A&M by completing 11 of 19 passes for 173 yards. The Cougars, 2-1, are idle this week.

SWC teams on prowl for prestige victories

A couple of ho-hum intra-conference clashes are on today's Southwest Conference football menu, but most of the spice will be saved as league members go prestige hunting beyond in intersectional contests.

In league encounters, Arkansas and Texas are expected to have things their own way against TCU and Rice, respectively.

The Hogs bounce baek from a loss to Tulsa against the 0-3 Horned Frogs at Fayetteville this afternoon. Texas, 1-1, comes off an idle weekend to play Rice, 1-1, at Houston tonight.

In other action, Texas A&M, smarting from last week's 21-10 loss to Houston, travels to Champaign, Ill., to play an equally-chagrined Illinois team that took it on the chin from Baylor, 34-19.

Baylor, meanwhile, hosts South Carolina, coached by former Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen, at Waco and SMU travels for Memphis State.

THE BEARS, after an opening game defeat, have since beaten Auburn and Illinois to attract national attention.

SMU eyes Memphis State as a chance for self-redemption for the 56-3 drubbing at the hands of Alabama two weeks ago. Memphis beat Ole Miss, which in turn, beat Alabama. State is 2-1, beating Florida State and losing to Tulsa, 16-14.

SMU beat North Texas, 38-31, thanks to the dazzling offensive heroics of Arthur Whittington, 170 yards in 20 carries for three touchdowns, and quarterback Ricky Wesson, 11 of 13 passes for 147 yards and two TDs.

A&M beat Illinois 43-13 at College Station last year, but, of course, much of that Aggie cast is gone. Last week, Houston stopped fullback George Woodard for 15 yards on nine carries and A&M could be in trouble if Illinois does the same thing.

HOWEVER, the Illini couldn't stop Baylor's Cleveland Franklin, who scored four touchdowns with 85 yards in 22 carries.

South Carolina is bouncing back from a 20-12 loss to Georgia Tech, but had run up three wins over Appalachian, 21-10; Georgia Tech, 27-17, and Duke , 24-6. Last year the Gamecocks won over the Bears, 24-13, at Columbia, S.C.

For TCU, the 1976 revival hasn't materialized with the Frogs losing to SMU, 34-14; Tennessee, 31-0, and Nebraska, 64-10. Arkansas owns wins over Utah State, 33-16, and Oklahoma State, 16-10, and hasn't lost to TCU since 1958.

Coach Jim Shofner, who expected bigger things this year , declares, "We do too many good things not to win. We've improved our passing game and our running game and we've improved our defense against the run. Two factors are working against us. We make too many mistakes and don't keep our poise."

Both Houston, 2-1, and Texas Tech, 2-0, are off this week.

Hollier holds lead

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Ann Hollier of Opelousas blew a commanding early lead and had to fight to the final hole of a 36-hole match Friday to edge Valerie Cox of Lafayette 1-up for the championship in the Louisiana State Women's Golf Association tournament.

Miss Hollier, a physical education teacher at Opelousas Senior High School, won her seventh championship in nine years.

She had a five-hole advantage moving onto the back nine of the afternoon's 18 holes, but Mrs. Cox ran off victories from the 10th through the 13th holes to trim the margin to one.

BATTLE SCENE

Patterson, a memory from the past

BY TED BATTLES

Even the wire reports between rounds made the Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton waltz seem dull, so perhaps it was only natural that the guy doing the studio analysis of the reports should prove a more stimulating subject.

We can't say we've often wondered what ever became of Floyd Patterson or worried about what he was doing now. However, Tuesday he was making round-by-round judgement of the fight's progress for the delayed radio report and forecasting what would transpire in the rounds to come.

In predicting the strategy and even stamina of the combatants, Floyd was pretty good, using, as he was, only a few scant words on a torn sheet of paper to make his judgements.

PERHAPS IT is just as well Ali was out of earshot. As far as Patterson is concerned, Ali is still "Cassius Clay", which, as we recall, is something the two had a fight about once.

Although Floyd right now ranks as one of the more forgettable heavyweight champions in boxing's annals, the current appraisal may be unfair.

It always seemed that Floyd was too sensitive to be in the beak-bashing business, both in his attitude toward an outclassed opponent and toward his own defeat.

After a loss, Floyd would disappear as though he had been disgraced. Once, after a loss to Sonny Liston or Ingemar Johansson, he was "caught" at a turnpike toll booth wearing a fake beard and dark glasses.

IT MAY be, looking back over the years and the changes in the sports scene in the last 15 years, that Floyd was more a victim of his size than any lack of ring skills.

When he won the Olympic middleweight title in the early 1950's, he was quickly marked as the eventual successor to heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano. Floyd, indeed, did win the heavyweight title after Rocky retired and became the first champion to lose the title and win it back.

Patterson fit the mold of most heavyweights up until that time, between 180 and 195 pounds, with a few rare exceptions.

Jack Dempsey was a lean, tigerish 180 when he tore apart hulking, helpless Jess Willard. Max Baer was around 200 when he dismantled the giant Primo Carnera and Joe Louis was in the 195 range during his bum-of-the-month days. Once Louis started scaling in over 200, he was heading downhill.

FOR SOME reason, bigger men were always too slow, or too clumsy to be successful, not only in boxing, but other sports. Your best football linemen were in the 170 to 200 range. Bigger men seemed to lack the mobility and durability required in those days.

In basketball, except for a George Mikan or Bob Kurland, anybody over 6-4 was as much of a liability as an asset.

Perhaps, it was platoon football that prompted the change, although basketball would indicate there was more to it than that. Athletes, by the late 1950's, simply were becoming bigger, better and stronger, thanks to scientifically analyzed diets and more effective training methods.

Rookie Burns takes stroke lead in golf

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Big George Burns, gunning for his first American victory at the end of his rookie year, surged to a six-under-par 65 and established a one-stroke lead Friday halfway through the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

Burns won the Scandanavian Open shortly after turning pro last year but has yet to win in the United States. He put together a 36-hole total of 132, 10-under-par for two rounds on the 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course.

THE FORMER Maryland footballplayer, winner of $89,771 this season, is no stranger to the top spot. He held the No. 1 position at both the Houston Open and the American Golf Classic, but was unable to hold it, fading to third in each event.

"I've been in position but faltered the last couple of holes when the pressure was on me," he said. "I hope I have learned from the experience."

Tour sophomore Bruce Lietzke was one stroke back at 133 after a four-under-par 67 on a rare, rainy day in the desert. The morning half of the field played in a steady drizzle, which changed to occasional showers in the afternoon.

Don January, a 46-year-old veteran who once won the Tournament of Champions on this course and took the same title earlier this year in California, former Masters champion Charles Coody and Mike McCullough were tied at 134. January shot a 68 while McCullough and Coody had 66s.

Dave Hill, the defendingchampion, said he was disgusted with his putting after the first round.

Cardinals fined by commissioner

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has fined the St. Louis Cardinals an unspecified amount of money for tampering with Oakland A's players, it was announced Friday.

A statement from the Commissioner's office said the Cardinals had been found guilty of violating baseball's anti-tampering rule, Rule 3G, and a fine had been imposed. The amount of the fine was not disclosed.

The Commissioner, in reponse to a protest against St. Louis filed Sept. 16 by the American League on behalf of A's owner Charles O. Finley, held a hearing on the matter Sept. 28.

Mustangs roll up yardage, but Tors win game, 10-7

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

LAMESA—The Sweetwater Mustangs rolled out 346 yards total offense against Lamesa here Friday night in the District 3-AAA opener, so naturally, the Golden Tornadoes won, 10-7.

Lamesa managed only 149 yards against a stubborn Mustang defense, but one lone 67 yard drive in the third period pulled out the victory.

Despite the yardage given up by the Tor trenchmen, it was the Lamesa defense that turned the tide. They forced two Sweetwater fumbles and intercepted three passes. That was plenty to set the Tors in 3-AAA motion with a 1-0 record and 2-3 on the year. Sweetwater is 0-1 and 2-3.

WHEN SPEAKING of the Tor defense, the name of 195-pound end Ray Pearson can not go without notice. Pearson recovered two fumbles and made so many tackles that a computer would be needed to keep count. He also punted five times for a 41-yard average.

Guy Price, Bobby Amaro and Mark Hansard each came up with key interceptions while Brian Beck and Lyle Harmon, both defensive tackles, played with reckless abandon.

Sweetwater was the first to get on the scoreboard, and that came in the first quarter when the Mustangs marched 62 yards for a score. That lone punch almost was enough to ruin the Golden Tornadoes' homecoming festivities.

Fullback Roger Wolfe did the brunt of the damage with runs of 12 and 24 yards, but quarterback Matt Patterson punched it in from two yards out and Terry Henson added the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 1:19 left in the quarter.

LAMESA, FORTUNATELY, kept the game close when Clay Wright split the uprights with a 40-yard field goal with 7:37 left in the second period. The field goal was set up when Price stripped Sweetwater halfback Neal Goates from the ball and Pearson was there to save it at the Mustang 20.

Lamesa had only 50 yards rushing in the first half as their anemic offense continued to sputter, but maybe the crowning of homecoming queen Sandra Dela Garza inspired the Tors.

Lamesa simply dominated the second half, and after the Tors stopped Sweetwater's early third quarter threat at the 23 whem Amaro intercepted an errant pass, it was all Lamesa.

Lamesa went on from that point and marched down field in 10 plays to score. Price had a run of 15 and Anthony Manuel added 10 to the Sweetwater 28 before he finally cracked through four would be tacklers on a 15-yard drive ending touchdown.

MANUEL'S SCAMPER turned the tide and was the final margin of victory for the Tors. It was his 60-yard TD run against Hobbs, N. M., that gave the Tors their first win of the year. He was the leading rusher in the game with 67 yards, but he carried 19 times. Sweetwater's Wolfe had 66 yards rushing.

Lamesa, riding high after posting a two-game winning streak, will take their new found success to Snyder Friday in an effort to pull off a major upset in 3-AAA.

Neither Lamesa or Sweetwater were counted on to push for the 3-AAA title, but an opening game victory in district play can add confidence. A victory over Snyder could be just enough momentum to make the 3-AAA race an exciting run.

A PASS ATTEMPT by Robert E. Lee's David Hobbs, goes for naught in first period of football game between the Rebels and Bronchos in Memorial Stadium Friday night. A homecoming crowd of more than 10,000 saw the District 5-4A thriller.

Van Horn rips McCamey, 26-6

VAN HORN— Tailback Richard Serrano broke off the left side on the first play from scrimmage to ignite Van Horn to a 26-6 victory over McCamey's Badgers here Friday night.

Serrano then took a pass from quarterback Ricky Sanchez for the two pointer to give the hosts an 8-0 lead with 11:41 left in the first period.

Van Horn struck like lightning with 9:11 left when Charlie Lipsey took a nine-yard pass from Martin Santiago after Matias Arrate returned an interception 60 yards to the McCamey nine.

The Badgers pushed 78 yards in eight plays to send David Myrick over from the one with 7:16 left in the half. Bobbie Acosta's 34-yard run put the ball on the one.

AFTER A scoreless third period, Van Horn scored twice in the final period as Victor Barrera swept left end for 25 yards with 7:11 left in the game and then Serrano punched over from the one with 37 seconds left.

The defeat left McCamey with an 0-5 record and Friday's game marked the opening of District 6-A play. Van Horn raised its record to 4-1.

Andrews rumbles to fifth straight

ANDREWS — Andrews' unbeaten Mustangs rolled to their fifth straight victory with a 21-0 conquest of the Levelland Lobos here Friday night in a tune up for District 2-AAA play.

The Mustangs scored in each of the first three periods with Jesse Madrid chalking up two touchdowns and Ricky Chesshire kicking three comversions.

Andrews won more impressively in the statistics than they did in the final score. The Mustangs amassed 210 yards rushing to 75 and piled up 15 first downs to 5. It was about even in passing with Andrews gaining 30 yards on two completions while the hard-pressed Lobos just managed 19 yards on three completions.

THE MUSTANGS cashed in on a five play, 42-yard drive with 1:43 left in the first quarter when Madrid rammed over from the two-yard line and Ricky Chesshire kicked the extra point to give Andrews all of the margin it needed.

The Mustangs scored again on a one yard run by Madrid with 7:09 left in the half after a hike of 29 yards.

In the third period it was a 21-yard pass from Joe Dan Barnes to Eldon Jones For the score with Chesshire's toe again true.

Defensively, the Mustangs limited Mark Patterson to 57 yards, the first time he had been held under 100 yards this season.

Andrews quarterback Booger Brooks, who did not figure in the scoring, had a good night rushing with 104 yards.

Abilene shakes off Steer scare to romp

BIG SPRING—Big Spring's underdog Steers used three Bubba Stripling to Kenneth Coffey touchdown passes to throw a momentary scare into Abilene, but the Eagles roared to a 43-22 victory in the last half.

With Big Spring leading 22-21 after Stripling's 12-yard pass to Coffey for a third period score, the Eagles struck on a 35-yard pass from Glen Stirman to Herman Reece and Joe Jones ran the two pointer to make it 29-22 with 3:07 left in the period.

A 20-yard run by Jones with 9:48 left put the game out of reach and then Reggie Field scored on a five-yard run with 4:30 left.

ABILENE SCORED with 5:19 left in the first period on a 20-yard pass from Glen Stirman to K.D. Roberts and Kent Long kicked his first of four conversions. With two seconds left in the period, Reggie Fields made another Abilene TD on a seven yard run.

Big Spring retaliated early in the second period on a Stripling pitchout to Mike Abreo who passed 68 yards to Coffey.

After Herman Reece scored on an 18-yard run, Big Spring made it close with six seconds left in the half when Stripling passed 17 yards to Coffey and Eddie Paga converted the two pointer to leave the Steers behind 21-16 at intermission.

Jesse Doss stood out defensively for the Steers while Abilene guard Carl Payne was outstanding.

Perez belt paces Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Perez drove in two runs, one with his 19th homer of the year, helping Gary Nolan become Cincinnati's winningest pitcher with a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves Friday night.

Nolan, 15-9, scattered seven hits to equal his 1975 victory total. The loser was Dick Ruthven, 14-17.

Cincinnati outfielder Ken Griffey, who went into the game as the National League's batting leader with a .339 batting average, had one hit in two official trips to the plate in his bid to dethrone Chicago's Bill Madlock as the batting champion.

Permian beats Midland

start of the season, the Panthers drove from their own 37 in for a score, with 11:19 still remaining in the second period. It was Kauk who hit paydirt from 16-yards out. However, Kirk Edwards' PAT was no good, and Midland still led momentarily, 7-6.

And momentarily it was. With a second down and eight at their own 17, the Bulldogs committed what would be their first no-no, when Rinny Johnson made up for his earlier fumble, by landing on a Midland loose ball at the 15.

Graves bided time by slashing all the way to the one on first down, and then Kauk got the call again, and put the 1975 4A state runnerups in the lead for good.

The Pack tried to be helpful to the Permian cause on their next possession as well, with Widner fumbling deep in his own territory, but fullback Maroney came up with it.

The Bulldog defense held the Panthers on their next possession, but the Pack's own scoring machine remained stationary, and punted it away. Curtis Pittman, the OP quarterback, who doubles as a punt returner took the kick on his own 43, and ran it back for another score, but a clipping call brought it back.

No matter. They did it the hard way, driving 60 yards in eight plays, with Hanson scoring from 15 yards out on a wingback counter.

The second period onslaught still was not completed. This time it was Maroney who fumbled away the football on Midland's next possession, and Permian defensive back Dell Schneider recovered the pigskin on the Midland 44, with still 1:45 remaining in the half.

Pittman and company kept the ball on the ground, as they ate up the clock and moved steadily down field, but with :30 seconds left, the Panther signal caller hit end Bobby Riggs on a 15-yard pass, for a first down inside the Bulldog 20.

Two plays later, Pittman threw to the everpresent Kauk, who was all alone in the end zone, Edwards' point after made it 28-6, and the rest was simply formality.

Grieve's homers pace Texas, 11-8

ARLINGTON (AP) — Tom Grieve pounded a pair of tworun homers Friday night, helping the Texas Rangers beat the Chicago White Sox 11-8.

Jim Sundberg and Jeff Burroughs also joined the Rangers' homer parade against White Sox pitching, each collecting a solo shot in the 13-hit Texas attack.

The home runs for Grieve gave him 20 for the year and 81 RBI for the season.

Steve Hargan, 8-8, picked up the victory in relief.

The Rangers did most of their damage off White Sox reliever Francisco Barrios, 5-9.

The Rangers scored three runs in the fifth and sixth innings and iced the game with two more runs in the eighth on Grieve's second homer.

Old 98 celebrates birthday

By JOHN HALL
The Los Angeles Times

Tom Harmon, sportscaster and editor, celebrated another birthday this week and, as usual, got a card from Bud Brennan.

Bud Brennan? "We played golf together last month in a San Francisco 49er charity tournament," Harmon said. Brennan, a wealthy Bay Area realtor, met Harmon under extraordinary circumstances, and now they are pals.

It was the California opener in Strawberry Canyon, and the Golden Bears had a problem with an opposing halfback. He returned the opening kickoff 94 yards for a touchdown, and on his first rush from scrimmage went 72 yards for a TD.

This was 36 years ago. In the third quarter, the halfback, Tom Harmon, on his 21st birthday — Sept. 28, 1940 — took a punt on his 14, twisted loose for another 86-yard score, his third long breakaway in leading Michigan to a 41-0 win.

On his way to the goal, a funny thing happened. A fan ran out on the field, blocking his way to the end zone. "At first, I didn't even notice. Then I realized what he was up to," Harmon said. "He'd had a few beers and he was going to try to tackle me." Harmon gave him a hip and went on in as the fan went sprawling.

PHOTOS OF it went around the world. Life magazine made it a cover, helping cement a fame hat never seems to dim.

After the game, Harmon came out of his dressing room with a piece of birthday cake in his hand, noticed the police were hauling his would-be tackler off to jail.

Harmon put in a plea to let him go, said it was all over, no harm, no foul. So they turned the guy over to Harmon, and it was Bud Brennan. "He has sent me Christmas and birthday cards ever since," Harmon said.

Last summer, Harmon decided to get into the publishing business with a nationally circulated weekly — "Tom Harmon's Football Today."

Main office is in Las Vegas. When a staffer tried to get Box 98 as a postal address, he found it had been held for nearly 50 years by a 109-year-old prospector. They located the grizzled old guy and explained.

"Sure go ahead and take it," he said. "That's great. I remember Tom Harmon."

HARMON LAUGHED. "Imagine, 109 years old. That's about the age of anybody who can remember me." Not quite.

Big Red Machine; Oiled, tuned for World Series

By PHIL COLLIER
Copley News Service

CINCINNATI — By manager Sparky Anderson's count, the Cincinnati Reds have started their strongest lineup in only 41 games this season, winning 33 of them.

The defending world champions are usually too tough to handle even on days when Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench, Tony Perez or some other regular is given a rest.

Now the Reds are tuning up for the National League play-offs, most likely against Philadelphia, and Anderson is hard put to conceal his optimism. For the Phils, he'll start his first team.

"I DON'T look for any low-scoring games," says the man at the controls of baseball's most productive offense. The Reds lead the majors in hitting, runs scored, doubles, triples, homers and, naturally, attendance. They lead the National League in stolen bases and they have the circuit's premier relief pitcher, Rawly Eastwick.

The Phillies won the season series from the Reds, seven games to five, but the figures appear misleading. Morgan, who is about to be named the NL's "most valuable player" for the second season in a row, missed seven of the first eight Philadelphia games because of injuries.

"To me, the play-offs are more important than the World Series," Anderson said in the wake of the Reds' fifth Western Division championship in the last seven years. THE BIG RED MACHINE — 3

"IF YOU don't win the play-offs, you haven't done a thing.

"The World Series is fun. The tough part is getting there. If we don't win the series again this year, our season will not have been a success.

"We didn't win as many games this year as I thought we would, even though this is the best personnel we've ever had. Being defending (world) champions had something to do with it. But this team has a lot of pride and that's something I'm counting on the rest of the way.

"It has pride and a lot of actors who like to appear on the (TV) screen. Play-off and World Series exposure is more important to most of them than the money involved."

For two months now, the Reds have had their super scout, Ray Shore, watching the American League contenders.

UNLIKE Agreat majority of other big league teams, Cincinnati has no reason to be interested in signing Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich, Joe Rudi or any of the other everyday performers who will become free agents at the end of the season.

Why go for Jackson or Rudi when George Foster, Cesar Geronimo and Ken Griffey, the starting Cincinnati outfielders, are all hitting over .300?

Why bid for Grich when Morgan has 27 homers, 109 runs batted in, 111 runs scored, 57 stolen bases, 108 walks and a .327 average?

Battle scene

Bear Bryant could win with those small, quick, aggressive lines at Oklahoma and Alabama went the way of the trolley, bless 'em all.

Heavyweights became bigger, starting with the illfated Liston, and Patterson agdinst Sonny was like a 165pound Billy Conn against a 195-pound Louis.

So maybe Floyd was just caught as an unsuspecting victim in the transition period. In fact, it may be that it's time for amother division for those unfortunates caught between the 175-pound light-heavyweight class and the current trend toward the super-dreadnaught heavyweights who dominate the division, such as it is, today.

Cubs win on Monday home run

CHICAGO (AP)— Rick Monday slammed his 32nd homer of the year and Bill Bonham, with last-out relief from Bruce Sutter, threw a seven-hitter Friday to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Bonham, 9-13, retired 11 batters in a row in one stretch. Don Stanhouse, 8-13, took the loss.

The Cubs struck for two runs in the first inning on singles by Joe Wallis, Bill Madlock, Larry Biittner and Steve Swisher. Monday hit his homer with one out in the fourth.

Jose Morales of the Expos appeared in a pinch batting role and grounded out in the eighth inning but set a major league record for most appearances by a pinch batter in one season, 82.

The Expos just missed tying the game in the ninth. Montreal got a run on consecutive doubles by Jorgenson and Parrish. Sutter replaced Bonham and pinch-hitter Earl Williams lined out to Biittner, who was against the wall.

Chip Lang turned in a perfect job of relief for the Expos in the three innings he worked.

Biittner singled in the first run of the game in the first. After Manny Trillo walked, Swisher singled to score Morales but Biittner was cut down at the plate.

Yaz knocks in three as Sox win

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs with a pair of singles and a tiebreaking sacrifice fly Friday night, giving the Boston Red Sox a 7-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Yastrzemski improved his RBI total to 102, marking the fourth time in his 16-year career he has gone over the century mark.

Reggie Jackson put Baltimore in front 4-3 with his 27th homer in the seventh before the Red Sox rebounded against reliever Fred Holdsworth, 4-1, in their half of the inning.

A walk and bunt singles by Rick Burleson and Denny Doyle loaded the bases. Rick Miller walked, forcing in the tie run. Yastrzemski then hit a sacrifice fly to score Burleson. Singles by Jim Rice and Carlton Fisk accounted for two more runs.

Veteran Rick Wise, 14-11, picked up the victory with ninth-inning relief help form Jim Willoughby.

Hiller pitches 4-hit victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Phil Mankowski's two-run single sparked a five-run Detroit seventh inning and John Hiller pitched a four-hitter in his first start since 1972, leading the Tigers over the Milwaukee Brewers 5-0 Friday night.

Loser Bill Travers, 15-16, carried a two-hitter into the seventh, when a one-out single by Mickey Stanley and a walk started the Tigers rally. After a fielder's choice grounder by Chuck Scrivener, Pedro Garcia's single broke the scoreless tie.

Hunter safety course conducted

BY GREG AKINS

The Texas Voluntary Hunter Safety Course was held in Midland last week. The classes were held Thursday and Saturday with a total of nine hours of insstruction. There were 49 students certified as safe hunters.

This year's program was sponsored by the Permian Basin Rifle and Pistol Club. They made the Club House, as well as the ranges, available for the program.

The course is designed to encourage safe gun handling and to reduce hunting accidents. It presents information concerning the operation of guns, good shooting habits, and the hunter's responsibility-all essential to safe hunting. There is no attempt to teach expert marksmanship. The only purpose of the program is to give the young hunter the basic facts.

The Texas Voluntary Hunter Safety Training Program is a cooperative venture with the National Rifle Association. It was started in Texas on a voluntary basis 1971.

The program was first started by the state of New York in 1949. It required that all hunters be required to successfully complete a firearms safety course before buying their first hunting license. There are now 23 states that require the safety course. Texas is one of the 27 not requiring it.

After the programs were put into use, New York realized a 50 percent decrease in fatalities. California released statistics showing the trained hunter to be 19 times as safe as the untrained junior hunter. New Hampshire completed two consecutive hunting seasons without a shooting death.

The 49 hunters who successfully completed the course, nine hours, will be issued certificates as safe hunters from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the National Rifle Association.

Instructors for the program are volunteers certified by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the NRA.

This year's course was instructed by Gene Campbell with the help of Tom Sloan, Bill Dawkins, Randy Stough, Bob Gaines, August Macha, Wayne Robinson, and Arlen Vaughan, all members of the Permian Basin Rifle and Pistol Club.

Ideally, men should be brothers. But it doesn't always work that way. Race, language and sometimes even a difference in ideas can be a barrier.

Throughout the world, there is a force that unites man. Always the Church has proclaimed the dignity of each person, as well as the true meaning of togetherness.

We especially need that unity today. On Worldwide Communion Sunday, go to church and pray for tolerance, for understanding. Join with the millions who will be praying, even as you are.

These are the things that make for peace.

A CHRISTIAN ARTS FESTIVAL at First Baptist Church Sunday will showcase creativity of congregational members by displaying a variety of art and crafts, including paintings, sculpture, ceramics and painted china as well as original literary works. The festival, open to the public, will begin at 5 p.m. in the fellowship hall. At 6 p.m., a musical program will be presented, featuring vocal solos and choral numbers, and Dr. Daniel Vestal, FBC's pastor, will conclude the event with an inspirational message. Making final plans for this first annual church-wide event are Hazel Russell, foreground, and Jo Dell Kellett and Sue Greer, left to right behind.

'Dearly beloved' can end marriage

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Marriage might be sacred, but divorce sometimes is a necessity. The incompatibility of these situations has confounded churches for years. To many of them, marriage is holy and divorce, if not a grievous sin, is an embarrassment, a failure and something which could have been alleviated by more faithful Christian discipline.

Meanwhile, the divorce rate continues to skyrocket — one in three marriages ended that way last year — and many divorced people become alienated from their religion which could have been giving them the best solace, support and self-understanding they need during a normally traumatic marital breakup.

Now the United Methodist Church has shown that it has come a long way in its treatment of the divorced. One hundred years ago it prohibited remarriage after divorce to anyone except the partner of a spouse who committed adultery. October A new publication under church auspices suggests several rituals for "divorcing."

The rationale, explains the introduction to "ritual in a New Day," is this: "The church which stood beside such persons when the marriage covenant was formed is often noticeably silent and absent when the covenant is severed."

The Rev. Jeanne Audrey Powers of New York, who headed the task force which compiled the book and who wrote the divorce rites, belives her church is the first to lend legitimacy to divorce rituals which have been used occasionally in local churches in various Protestant denominations.

The rites, she notes, neither condone nor condemn divorce but simply recognize its reality.

"It's not a value judgment on divorce," added Hoyt Hickman, a staff member for the church's Board of Discipleship in Nashville, the national body which published with Abingdon Press the new book of alternative rituals.

"We're simply facing facts," Hickman said. "A divorce ritual is no more against marriage than a funeral is against life. We see the advantage of such a ceremony as helping the divorced person to deal with the problem of bereavement and make adjustment to a new stage of single life with help from the faith community."

The suggested divorce rites are neither avant-garde nor light-hearted. Nor are they legal rites, sacraments or even official Methodist ceremonies.

Their tone is sober and penitential, with an aim toward healing therapeutically the emotional turmoil of divorce.

Although any of these rites can vary in timing, style and content depending on the parties involved, their basic order is similar to a wedding ceremony.

RELIGION

"Dearly beloved ... " begins a minister in one service, a rite for the ex-husband and ex-wife together. In the service, each partner releases the other from the marriage vows with a series of "I dos" and transfers the old wedding rings from the other's left to right hand as a symbol of "freedom."

In a suggested prayer in a service for one spouse alone, the minister explains: "We come not to be flippant or to be in maudlin despair. We come with suspicion that divorce has as many theological ramifications as does marriage ... Historically, the church has celebrated the act of marriage, but has left divorce in the shadows."

In another rite, an acknowledgement of a former divorce is incorporated into a remarriage ceremony. In the fourth, a minister announces to a congregation the separation of two of its members. Such a congregational rite, according to a minister quoted in the book, helps "prevent the whispering and gossiping that can occur when the news gradually leaks out" in the church.

The 128-page "Ritual in a New Day" handbook contains rites for footwashing, naming, for the dying and for "endings and beginnings" such as moving from one town to another or into a new home. In the future, the task force may publish rituals for healing, anniversaries, other kinds of interpersonal "covenants" and exorcism.

The exorcism would not attack personal demons, explained Powers, "but principalities and powers in our lives over which we have no control."

Rituals are useful to gain deeper understanding, a new perspective, a release of emotion or a sense of a divine presence in an experience, the task force explains in the introduction to the handbook. These alternative rites are not for everyone but acknowledge the diversity in the church, they add.

As for divorce, said Powers, "there is nothing the church can do to prevent it. It's going to happen. The churches can no longer put divorced people on the side of being un-Christian or tell them they should have prayed a little more. In this ritual we are showing that we care about people."

"The decision to break a marriage covenant is fully as overwhelming and decisive as is the decision to enter into it, and all the resources of the church and the Christian community need to be offered both to the couple and to the community which must face its own grief over a marriage which has died," she wrote in the book.

Church sets Mission Month

St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., will observe Mission Month during October, with a variety of programs and special meetings planned to mark the emphasis.

"To Be Alive in Mission" is the theme for the month.

Leading off the observance this Sunday will be a World Communion Sunday service during the morning worship hour. World Communion Sunday is being marked in United Methodist churches everywhere, as well as by congregations of many other denominations. Monetary offerings received at St. Luke's will go to support crusade scholarships, minority scholarships and the work of chaplains and related ministries.

On Oct. 10, former Midlander Sharon Pudlo will speak at a special youth meeting at St. Luke's. Miss Pudlo, now of Andrews, served two years as a United Methodist missionary in Appalachia.

On Oct. 17, St. Luke's will stage a Southeast Asia Festival, which will include a family dinner and a program featuring special speakers from Thailand, Indonesia, Singapore and the Philippines.

Oct. 24 has been designated Children's Day, with a special program during the morning worship to emphasize mission effort and with children of the congregation bringing their special mission offerings to the alter.

The final Sunday of the month, Oct. 31, will feature a speaker from the Methodist Board of Global Ministries. Children and youth of the congregation will be collecting money for UNICEF.

Lutherans schedule 8th general convention

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sounding an appropriate Bicentennial note, the American Lutheran Church (ALC) will open its eighth general convention here Wednesday. Congregational units of the American Lutheran Church include the Midland Lutheran Church in Midland, Tex.

Approximately 1,000 delegates, plus several hundred advisory delegates, official observers and visitors, will be in attendance at the conclave, theme of which is "Bound to Be Free." The convention will continue through Oct. 12 in Washington's Shoreham Americana Hotel. The Wednesday night opening service will be in the National Cathedral here.

While most of the convention's decisions will concern internal or inter-Lutheran matters, two major outward thrusts will receive visibility. One relates to continuation of a world hunger appeal and education program, another concerns evangelical outreach as the 1977 churchwide emphasis, reflecting a desire for a strong outreach to all segments of society. "It is time that we get out of our German and Scandinavian ethnic ghettos and proclaim the Gospel to all persons, Dr. David W. Preus, ALC president, has declared.

Among inter-Lutheran matters, probably of greatest at the conclave will be the proposed new service book and hymnal. The new materials are being written and gathered by the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship, representing the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America, the Lutheran Church - Miss ouri Synod and the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada.

Couple to visit Midland church

Don Burgess, a member of the Wycliff Bible Translators organization, will present a program on the Tarahumara Indians, the famous "long distance runners" of Mexico, when he visits St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church Oct. 11 and 12.

Burgess will be accompanied by his wife who is scheduled to speak at a special program in the parish hall of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity on Oct. 12.

The Burgesses lived and worked 10 years among the Tarahumaras in the vicinity of Mexico's famed Copper Canyon, learning the Indians' language and translating books for the Indians' schools. Burgess also has translated the New Testament into Raramuri, the language of the Tarahumaras, and now is working on a translation of the Old Testament.

The Tarahumaras, famed for their endurance as runners, are a reclusive and hearty tribe who shy away from the outside world as it increasingly threatens encroachment on their way of life. The tribe was featured in an illustrated article in the National Geographic Magazine last spring.

Burgess will recount his Tarahumara adventures and experience s at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 11 in the sanctuary of St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton St. Tickets are $3 and may be reserved by telephoning 683-1070 or 682-5057. The program is sponsored by Churchwomen of St. Nicholas'.

The Oct. 12 program to be presented by Mrs. Burgess in the Holy Trinity parish hall will begin at 10 a.m. and will be open to the public.

More than 2,000 delegates are expected to attend.

The past, the present and the future will be interpreted by speakers and preachers during the four-day assembly in Houston's Shamrock-Hilton Hotel. On the conference agenda are daily Bible lectures, a hunger dinner with no food to be served, and two special educational programs with emphasis on mission outreach and on renewal and evangelism. Worship services and business sessions also are planned.

The opening session on Monday night will feature an address on "The Past (Heritage) We Remember" by Dr. William E. Tucker, president of Bethany College of Bethany, W.Va. He is a former dean of Brite Divinity School of Texas Christian University.

Other featured speakers at the conclave will be Dr. W. Oliver Harrison of Corpus Christi, Dr. James A. Monk of Kentucky, Dr. Thomas J. Youngblood of San Antonio (who is president of the Christian Church in the Southwest), Dr. John Killinger of Vanderbilt University in Tennessee and Dr. Bryan Feille of Wichita Falls. Dedication set during service

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan St., Sunday will dedicate the stained glass memorial windows recently installed in the sanctuary.

The dedication ceremony during the morning worship service will be part of Midland Lutheran Church's celebration of its 23rd anniversary this week and next.

The new windows, designed and executed by the Orco Glass Co., of San Antonio, have been purchased through contributions and memorial donations from members and friends of the congregation.

According to the Rev. David Hermann, pastor, one of the windows is named the "All Seasons Window," while the other is titled the "Four Seasons Window." Above the double doors to the sanctuary is a Luther emblem in stained glaas, symbolizing the five dimensions of faith taught, preached and used as a pattern of life.

Call off enzymes!

The scientist who believes he may have found a key which will turn on the real fountain of youth may be unlocking a sort of Pandora's box instead.

At least that is the way an editorial writer for the Daily Oklahoman expresses it.

Dr. John Bjorksten told the American Chemical Society the aging process could be reversed with the right enzyme. It would dissolve the bonds or "hooks" which link two molecules together in a gene and thus hamper their functioning. That causes aging.

And that is what brought on this discussion.

Dr. Bjorksten said he'd like to go for an average life expectancy of 800 years, based on a life insurance projection assuming everyone could stay as healthy as he is at 16, although he'd settle for adding 80 years to everyone's life span.

Eight hundred years? Has he thought through all the consequences? They are considerable.

Let's let the Oklahoman take it from there:

"The first to throw up their hands would be those insurance industry actuaries he quoted. Think what havoc such an increase in expectancy would wreak on their tables. Pension plans would have to be revised. Companies would have to take a new look at their mandatory retirement age.

"Otherwise, they might go broke buying gold watches for loyal employes who stepped down at age 65 — and kept living another 735 years.

"Social Security would go down the drain for sure. ZPG (zero population growth) would be a useless concept, and the world would creak under the weight of multiplied billions.

"Closer to home, manufacturers would have to rethink their planned obsolescence theories and maybe junk the 'lifetime guarantee.'

"Call off your enzymes, Dr. Bjorksten. We'll fight you even if it takes the rest (ugh!) of our lives."

Favorite patient?

We have no idea where Elyse M. Rogers, a registered nurse, works or lives, but we have an idea that she is a favorite of hospital patients.

She also knows how patients may become favorites of the hospital nursing staff ... and she tells just how this can be accomplished in an article appearing in Family Health magazine. It goes like this:

"Respect hospital routine. Don't ask to wear your own pajamas. Hospital gowns may not be very glamorous but they are clean and convenient.

"Don't protest early rising and early meals. They are arranged around treatments, medications, operating room schedules, and visiting hours.

"Be honest. Don't hold back that you ate a piece of chocolate pie smuggled in by a friend. It will help the doctor figure out why you are having terrible gas pains.

"Be realistic about pain. Some is inevitable. To eliminate all of it would destroy pain's value as a warning symptom.

"Remind nurses of treatments or medication. They can forget, particularly if an emergency situation draws them to an acutely ill person.

"Skip the hotel bit. Because you're paying $80 or $100 a day, don't expect to be waited on by a maid. A hospital is not a hotel.

"Keep your sense of humor. It can be potent medicine."

And that last one certainly could be the most important one of all — keep your sense of humor.

Nurse Rogers once asked an open-heart surgery patient if he needed anything.. "I'd sure like a beer," he whispered with a forced smile. When the nurse brought him permitted ice water in a washed-out beer can, the patient's wife said it was the turning point in his recovery.

INSIDE REPORT:

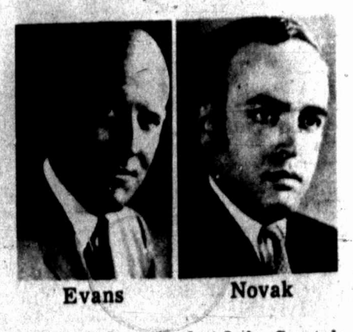

Sen. Robert Dole: A Gerald Ford asset

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — At least temporarily freed from hostile press questions about alleged 1973 Gulf Oil contributions, Sen. Robert Dole showed the cutting edge of the Ford presidential campaign here recently in a way that seemed to vindicate Gerald Ford's surprise decision at Kansas City to put him on the ticket.

No political novice, the witty and acerbic Kansan performed under incredibly hazardous conditions precisely as he is supposed to, drawing repeated trickles of blood from both Jimmy Carter and Sen. Walter Mondale — right in the middle of their own Midwest and Southern heartlands, where President Ford is beginning to show surprising strength.

The hazards were extreme. For example, Dole did not even learn until the day before that en route to Birmingham he was being sent on a little detour to Lake Crystal near Mankato, Minn., for a major farm speech. On such short notice he was given this assignment: to top Carter's speech on Democratic agriculture policy, delivered at the Lake Crystal Farmfest before an estimated 55,000 two days earlier.

Evans Novak

When Dole arrived at Lake Crystal at midday on his way from Washington to Birmingham the elemental rule of politics — that crowds don't happen but have to be made — was proved still true. By generous estimate, a mere 10,000 farmers and wives wandered away from Farmfest exhibits to hear the Senator.

Yet, despite this and many other disabilities resulting from total lack of normal advance preparations, Dole clearly impressed the farmers in Mondale's own backyard by accusing the Carter-Mondale ticket of being agents of George Meany and big labor, not champions of the farmers.

"Farmers know where the power in a Carter administration is going to be," Dole said, "and that is not with them but with Meany and labor." That explains, he went on, why Mondale switched in 1966 from the Senate Agriculture Committee to the Senate Labor Committee. But as for himself, Dole went on modestly, he has served on either the House or Senate Agriculture Committees ever since he was elected to Congress in 1960.

Such questionable shortcuts to political profiteering have given Dole the reputation of a mean, tough gutfighter, but his effort to link Carter-Mondale with big labor clearly hit home in the Minnesota farm belt with the voters we talked to after his speech.

"The man seems genuine," a Mankato fertilizer dealer told us. "He's not promising the world the way Carter did."

If labelling Mondale as big labor's dearest friend had the desired effect among the farmers in Lake Crystal, portraying him in this Deep South industrial center as "the most liberal Senator of them all" had a far more pronounced effect. The reason is that Dole's audience at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner was the largest group of Republican financial angels — 860 right-leaning contributors — ever gathered under one roof together in this city.

They listened to Dole as a party cheerleader with repeated interruptions of applause and laughter, even though Dole himself, drooping from fatigue, talked in unconnected one-liners and held the podium for almost 40 minutes — embarrassingly long. He was saved by his humor, remarking at one point: "We've got a good ticket — even if I'm on it."

As a missionary for Mr. Ford, Dole's visit helped fatten the party's money chest by close to $80,000. Far more important, it confirmed the judgment of all but one or two of the state's powerful Reagan factions (which had total control of Alabama's Kansas City delegation) to join forces with party regulars on grounds that Mr. Ford really intends to fight Carter in this state. Co-chairman of the statewide PFC committee, for example, is Richard Ball, who headed Reagan's organization in Montgomery.

Throughout his long campaign day, Dole's public posture gave no clue to his own state of relative helplessness: the fact that he (with all past vice presidential nominees) has no recourse from orders issued by headquarters; his total awareness of impotency inside the Ford camp; yet hope that he may add enough votes to the Ford totals (beyond his own state of Kansas) to matter. Judging from reaction in Mondale's Midwest and Carter's Deep South, he clearly has that chance.

WASHINGTON MERRY—GO—ROUND

Taxpayers' money put to flight

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The Lockheed military-industrial empire is now so heavily subsidized by the taxpayers that the company allegedly has siphoned government money into its commercial projects.

Federal investigators have accused Lockheed of channeling more than $45 million of the taxpayers' money into such commercial developments as the L-1011 jetliner.

This was accomplished through a complex bookkeeping maneuver. In its simplest form, the technique was to commingle costs from nongovernment work with costs from government contracts, explain the investigators.

It is alleged that Lockheed charged to defense contracts some costs that actually went into building the civilian jetliners. Thus the unwitting taxpayer wound up helping finance the company's commercial endeavors.

It is small wonder that Lockheed had trouble separating its government and commercial bookkeeping, for the industrial colossus did a whopping $2.2 billion in government business last year. At the pleading of President Ford, Congress also granted $200 million in federal loan guarantees to keep the company from going bankrupt.

Its books, therefore, are supposed to be open to government auditors. But as we reported in July, the Defense Contract Audit Agency was barred from inspecting Lockheed's books. The company preferred to deal with the more lenient Renegotiation Board.

The audit agency, nevertheless, has been investigating Lockheed's vast California aerospace facilities, Seattle shipyards and Marietta, Ga., complex. The Renegotiation Board, for its part, assigned a special three-man committee to procure other financial data.

The General Accounting Office, thereafter, asked to see Renegotiation Board's financial findings on Lockheed. This information was submitted, together with a highly confidential covering letter, by Chairman Richard Holmquist.

Although Holmquist's letter doesn't specify the precise amount that Lockheed took from Peter to pay Paul, it is estimated that well over $45 million was involved in the juggling operation in 1972 alone.

President Ford, meanwhile, has held down the Renegotiation Board's staff to less than 200. This has left too few watchdogs to keep an eye on the skulduggery of the industrial giants. While the President pinches pennies, his industrial pals apparently are stealing millions.

Footnote: Lockheed has denied knowledge of any diversion of funds from government to commercial purposes. The Defense Contract Audit Agency and the Renegotiation Board declined comment. Meanwhile, Rep. Josph Minish, D.-N.J., is seeking to give the audit agency a larger role in checking the books of government contractors. His legislation has been sidetracked, however, by friends of the industrialists.

HARTKE HOWLS — The normally amiable Sen. Vance Hartke, D.-Ind., howled with indignation over our report that his daughter Sandra had found employment with a union and an insurance company that benefited from the senator's votes.

Her employers, we also reported, were remarkably tolerant. They allowed her to work only when she felt like it, and sometimes mailed her paychecks to her home.

Hartke responded that his opponents, "by damn," had better "leave my children out of it." It wasn't easy for Sandra, he said, "being Sen. Vance Hartke's daughter."

It wasn't Sandra but the senator whose conduct we were questioning. He voted down the line for legislation endorsed by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks at the same time that his daughter was on the union payroll.

The union let her off, with pay, to campaign for her father six years ago. Confidential union records show that she missed work 110 days from January through November, 1970.

She claimed 52 days sick leave, and our sources confirm she had some legitimate medical problems. But she also took off an additional 58 days during the height of the campaign from June through November. Sandra has acknowledged that she spent some of this time in Indiana helping to re-elect her father. Under union rules, she was entitled to only 17 days sick time and 10 days vacation time. Yet the union paid her for the entire 110 days. Not until after the November election did the union threaten to dock her pay.

It is also clear from the confidential records that the union vigorously supported Hartke in the campaign. As one memo puts it, "Winning this election will depend largely on our ability to convince an informed electorate that Vance Hartke should be returned to the Senate."

In 1971, Sandra found a better job with the Travelers Insurance Company. But again, she was permitted to spend most of her time attending to personal interests. Hartke also happens to be a power on the Senate Commerce Committee which has jurisdiction over insurance matters.

Footnote: In his attack on us, the senator stated that our story "was first used in the 1970 ... campaign." The confidential memos in our possession hadn't been made public previously. In fact, Sandra didn't even go to work for Travelers until the year after the 1970 campaign.

ST. JOHN'S JOURNAL:

Nuclear energy on election ballot in twenty states

By JEFFREY ST. JOHN
Copley News Service

LYNCHBURG, Va. — "During the 20 years that commercial nuclear power has been a reality," states Nelson S. Embrey of Babcock & Wilson Co., "no nuclear power plant has ever caused injury to the public as a result of a nuclear accident, and no member of the public has ever been overexposed to radiation from a nuclear power plant."

This assertion is at sharp variance with those who are working to prevent full-scale development of nuclear power. In fact, in some 20 states propositions will appear on the November election ballots to ban further construction of nuclear power plants, despite the defeat of an anti-nuclear power proposition in California last June.

The major opposition to nuclear power is based on the unproved claim that it is hazardous to human health.

The above claim of Embrey may appear biased because Babcock & Wilcox builds and installs most of the nuclear power plants in this nation. So, we decided to find out the facts for ourselves and spent an entire half-day touring the part of B&W facilities that make the crucial component for nuclear power plants, the fuel core that is constructed here in this southwestern Virginia city.

B&W nuclear fuel plant manager E. J. Silk is a blunt, outspoken person who defies the stereotype of a big business bureaucrat. He is one of those highly skilled, self-made men who has intense pride in his competence. He sniffs in disdain at critics of nuclear power and the alleged safety problems.

"If the critics spent some time," he tells you, "seeing the step-by-step process we maintain here in building the nuclear fuel core for power plants, they might have to revise their not very well informed opinions about the safety of nuclear power plants. If anything is going to happen, it will happen in the nuclear fuel core. In fact, since 1970 we have added 11,000 man hours to safety; 40 per cent of the 10 working days that it takes to assemble one nuclear fuel core is devoted to safety.

"We like to think of our backup and check and recheck systems as making the entire system idiot-proof. Not even an idiot could make something go wrong."

The emphasis on safety extends, Silk tells you, to the personnel in his plant. If a worker in the B&W fuel plant begins to show fatigue toward the need for strict attention to detail, he is immediately transferred out.

Worker attitude is constantly monitored to minimize human error.

"No industry," Silk said, "has the safety record we do. We think we are safer than the airlines, which is pretty safe."

What evidence we saw at B&W is supported by a National Science Foundation study published recently which compared the safety records of other energy industries. In deep-mined coal, four deaths and 8,770 man-days are lost each year to supply fuel for a 1,000-megawatt generating station; strip mining of coal, 2.6 deaths and 3,000 lost man-days; domestic petroleum, 0.35 deaths and 3,610 man-days lost.

For nuclear power the average per year has been 0.15 deaths and 270 lost workdays.

Furthermore, Dr. Norman Rasmussen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology headed a team of 47 American scientists and engineers in a two-year, $3 million study of nuclear reactor safety and their findings are truly impressive.

Examining risks of fatality in auto accidents, falls, fires, drownings, firearms, air travel, falling objects, lightning, tornadoes, hurricanes and electrocutions, the Rasmussen safety study delivered an unequivocal finding:

"Nuclear accident probabilities are so low they are insignificant compared to the overall risks due to man-made and natural risks. All other accidents...we have examined in this study are much more likely to occur and can have consequences comparable to or greater than nuclear accidents."

In fact, the precise mathematical probability Rasmussen concludes is 300 million to 1.

All the above evidence and the lower costs for nuclear generation of electricity in comparison to fossil fuels are truly impressive. Yet, throughout the nation the anti-nuclear power lobby has successfully convinced millions of Americans that nuclear power is a danger and hazard to human health.

Which leads one to the same conclusion as the humorist Mark Twain: "It's not what people know that gets them in trouble, it's what they know that ain't so that is the source of the trouble."

Your 'silent' phone supposed to be that way

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

It's the biggest thing that's happened to telephones in Midland since dial phones were installed in 1951.

Electronic switching went into effect for the Mutual system, numbers starting with 68, at 1:30 this morning.

The immediate effect will be faster service on calls within the Mutual exchange and direct dial long distance calls, Royce Brookmole, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. district manager, said.

Brookmole said the dial tone will sound different for numbers within the exchange. Also, while connection to another number outside the Mutual exchange is being established, there will be dead silence instead of the sound of mechanical switching.

He said the time it takes to establish the connection will not be longer than before for numbers outside the Mutual exchange and it will be much faster for numbers within the exchange.

Direct dial for long distance will be faster for all Midland numbers.

Beginning Oct. 8, new customers and customers who move will be able to get touch tone telephones. The telephone company will start accepting orders for existing customers who desire touch tone Nov. 15.

Also on those dates, new custom calling services will be available, including call waiting, call forwarding, three-way conference calling and speed dialing.

Call waiting allows a single line to function in much the same way a multi-line rotation system now does. If a telephone is connected to the service, a beep indicates another call is on the line. The user can put the first caller "on hold" and talk to the second caller.

Call forwarding allows the customer to program his telephone to ring at another number until it is programmed to return to the original number.

Three-way conference calling allows the user to connect a third telephone into a conversation. Speed dialing lets the customer program frequently dialed numbers into his telephone. These numbers can then be dialed with one or two digits, depending on which of two systems is chosen.

Equipment chief Johnny Wise said the services will be available for rotary dial telephones but work much better with touch tone.

Electrical switching will affect almost 19,000 of Midland's almost 34,000 telephone customers. Officials expect the system to handle 40,000 calls an hour under normal conditions and up to 75,000 calls an hour during peak call periods.

The switching system is the largest ever installed in Southwestern Bell's five-state area.

When available, touch tone will cost an additional $1.75 per month above the regular monthly rate for a residence and $2.25 additional charge for business telephones.

Call waiting will cost $1.75 per month alone or $1.40 if two or more features are used for a residence and $2.50 alone or $1.85 if combined with another service for a business.

Three-way calling will cost $3 per month for a residence, or $2.40 if two services are ordered. Business telephone three-way calling will cost $4 per month or $3 if two services are used.

Call forwarding will involve an extra $1.25 per month charge for residences if used alone or $1 if used with another service. For business telephones, the service will be $1.75 per month with a $1.30 charge if two features are used.

Cost of speed dialing with an eight-code capacity for residences will be $1.50 a month by itself or $1.20 when used with another feature. Businesses will pay $1.75 per month with that service only and $1.30 a month if two are used.

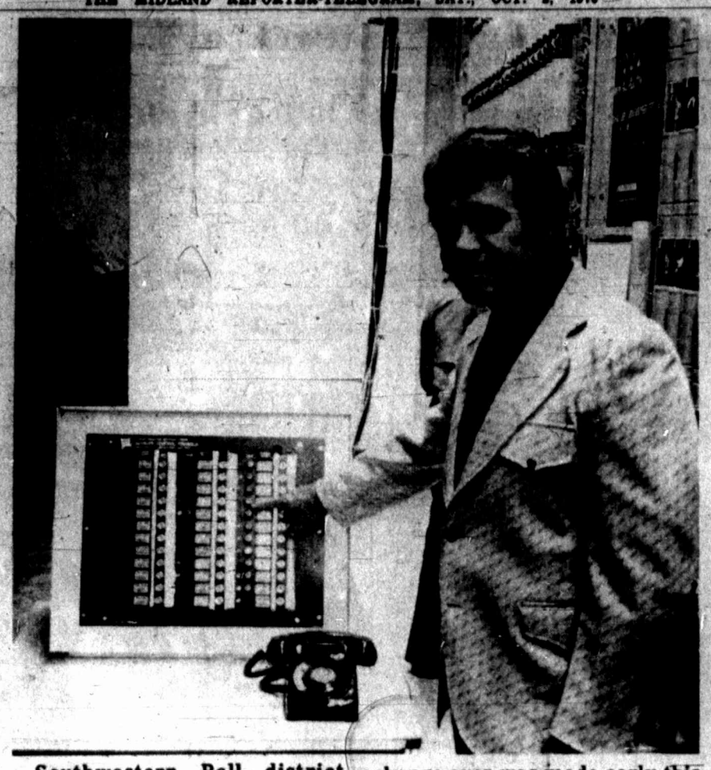

Thirty-code capacity speed dialing will cost $2.50 per month for residences, $2 if used with another service, and $3.40 per month for businesses, $2.55 per month if used with another feature.

Installation charge of custom calling services will be $2.50 per feature with a $5 maximum.

Brookmole said the electronic switching system is "sorely needed due to the growth in the Midland area."

One of its advantages, he said, is its self-monitoring feature which causes it to send a teletype message when something is wrong.

"Now we should know a customer has trouble before he does," Brookmole said.

Southwestern Bell district manager Royce Brookmole points out the console on which the change-over was made early this morning.

Clean-air bill killed by Senate filibuster

By SPENCER RICH and RICHARD L. LYONS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Congress raced toward final adjournment for the year Friday night after the Senate bowed to a filibuster and junked the clean-air bill.

Before going home Congress was expected to complete action on major bills that included expansion of the unemployment-insurance system, a new grain-inspection program and the civil rights attorney-fee bill.

The Senate killed the clean-air bill over the protests of sponsor Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine) after Jake Garn (R-Utah) and several others mounted a last-minute filibuster that would have held up adjournment. A Muskie attempt to postpone adjournment for a day and try to pass the bill was beaten 36 to 33.

The bill imposed strong new restrictions against pollution from power plants and stationary sources of pollution, while granting the auto industry a slight stretchout of the existing 1978 deadline for cleaning up pollutants emitted from cars.

The auto industry rejected the stretchout as not long enough, and the massed oppositioin of both the car makers and the electric utilities was arrayed against the bill at the end.

Killing of the bill left the auto industry facing extremely tough clean-car deadlines for the 1978 year. They will seek a more favorable stretchout bill at the start of the next Congress, which begins Jan. 4.

Persons who have not registered and who want to be eligible to vote on Nov. 2 are urged to go by the office. About 50 persons registered Friday at the headquarters.

Emerson parents to meet

The Emerson Elementary School parents association will meet Sunday at 4 p.m. on the eaat wide of the Emerson grounds.

NEW OFFICERS of the Westside Optimist Club of Midland were installed Thursday and include, from left, Chuck Johnson, secretary-treasurer. Dean Cope, president; and Danny Meador, vice president. Barry Zinz also is a vice president of the club.

District highway engineer to retire

AUSTIN — Paul H. Coleman, district highway engineer at Odessa, will retire Nov. 30, officials of the Department of Highways and Transportation announced Friday.

August H. Pearson, currently an assistant district engineer in El Paso, was named to succeed Coleman as chief of the 12-county Odessa region.

State Engineer-Director B. L. DeBerry said he announced Coleman's retirement with "sincere regret."

Coleman first worked for the highway department in the summer of 1937, as a rodman in the Paris District. He joined the department full-time in 1938, after graduation from Texas A & M University.

Transferred to Odessa in 1950, Coleman was named district engineer in January 1968 for all department activities in Andrews, Carne, Ector, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler counties.

Pearson, who will become district engineer on Dec. 1, is a native of Houston and a graduate of the University of Houston.

He joined the department in 1953, transferred to El Paso in 1968 and was appointed assistant district engineer two years ago.

Regents approve UTPB constitution, tenure

HOUSTON-University of Texas System's Board of Regents Friday,approved the consititution of the student senate at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin and decided to continue "term tenure" at UT PB at least through a full cycle of seven years.

Six weeks ago, UT PB students ratified by a landslide the proposed constitution. Sixty-four per cent of the eligible students voted and 93 per cent of them voted approval.

Regents chairman Allan Shivers announced that the regents had decided to support the position of UT PB President V.R. Cardozier and continue term tenure.

A pair of professors from the university had appeared during the morning session and made a presentation asking the regents to do away with the term tenure plan, in effect since the organization of the upper-level and graduate university. First classes met in 1973.

Dr. George Quentin and Dr. Benard Tucker detailed opposition to continuation of term tenure and favored institution of traditional tenure. After a lengthy presentation, Shivers thanked them and the regents later went into their scheduled executive session.

In the afternoon open session, Shivers said the Board desired to hear from Cardozier on the subject. Cardozier read into the minutes the text of his letter of Sept. 7, 1976, to Deputy Chancellor E. D. Walker. He made no other comments on the matter.

Shivers then announced that the regents had decided to support Cardozier's position.

Basically term tenure at UT Permian means that the tenure status granted a university faculty member is for a term of seven years, with the faculty member to be reviewed in the fifth year of service. Decision on whether to extend tenure for an additional term of seven years is made by the president after recommendation of the review committee. It is considered virtually a seven-year contract, renewable or not renewable at the end of each seven-year period.

Traditional tenure--called "lifetime tenure" by some--provides that a professor, once granted tenure, receives a guaranteed position with that university for his working lifetime--up to age 65.

Opening lead — ♡ J

West leads the jack of hearts, and East must show his heart weakness by playing the deuce. Very simple, so far.

South leads the king of diamonds, West plays low, and East begins a signal with the six. South leads the queen of diamonds, and West plays low again, East completes his signal by playing the deuce.

South leads a third diamond, and West takes the ace.

South leads a third diamond, and West takes the ace.

How can East show his spade strength? The simplest way is to discard a high spade, such as the ten. This is simple, but it allows South to make the contract. East can get only three spade tricks, sinceSouth's eight becomes established if East throws away one of his high spades.

CLUB DISCARD

Since East cannot afford to throw a high spade, he must discard the deuce of clubs. This shows East's weakness in clubs after he has already made it clear that he is weak also in hearts and diamonds.

Since only one suit is left, West must lead it and hope for the best. The switch to spades give East five tricks, defeating the contract with a trick to spare.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 poinra), and the next player passes. You hold: SAQ1092 H642 D62 CJ42. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. If partner has good spades and 17 or 18 points, he will raise to three spades. If he has less, he will pass and you will be in a safe part-score contract.

Chief denies story

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Police Chief Don Byrd said Friday he did not originate racistsexist statements attributed to him in the Washington Post and in that newspaper's news service this week.

The remarks, reported in a copyrighted story, quoted Byrd at a training session sponsored earlier this month by the FBI at Quantico, Va. for major city police chiefs.

Byrd was quoted in the article as saying "If you put female and female together (in a squad car) they fight. If you put male and female together, they fornicate."

The other quote attributed to the Dallas chief was "The niggers have to wear badges to keep themselves from (killing) each other."

The story said the racial remark was made at a "latenight drinking session."

In both cases, Byrd said, he was repeating remarks made by others, and he flatly denied ever using the word "nigger"

"In my opinion, this young reporter (Phil McCombs) was in over his head with the people who were there," Byrd said. "He sure did miss it on what I had to say."

Byrd said the remarks came during late-night sessions where alcoholic beverages were available, "But I never saw anyone close to being intoxicated."

He said he d' not feel the reporter was intoxicated.

"All day you've been up real tight...it's like you sit around the campfire at night and let off steam," Byrd said. "I kind of assumed that the reporter was in to refresh himself like us."

The discussions were held in a small hospitality room after the day's training was concluded around 10 p.m. each day, Byrd said.

First Lady to dedicate cancer center

HOUSTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford is to assist University of Texas officials Saturday in the dedication of $70 million in new cancer research and treatment facilities at the M. D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute.

The afternoon ceremonies at the university complex that now has more than 1.2 million square feet of floor space will come just two years after Mrs. Ford underwent radical surgery in Washington for breast cancer.

Mrs. Ford was to arrive Friday night and her welcoming committee included Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, widow of the late president and a member of the university's board of regents.

Also in the welcoming group were former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, a Democrat, and Mrs. John Connally, wife iof the former governor who now heads President Ford's presidential campaign in Texas.

The university cancer complex is part of the sprawling Texas Medical Center which also has more than a dozen other hospitals and also medical, dental, and nursing schools.

Facilities to be dedicated Saturday include a 330-bed hospital wing, an 11-story outpatient clinic designed to accommodate 1,200 cancer patients daily, an expanded radiation therapy center, two new floors of research space, and the 32-yearold hospital's first chapel.

Dr. R. Lee Clark, Anderson's president, said the most significant feature of the new facilities involves an opportunity to reduce the time the development and testing of ideas and their use in patient treatment.

"Right now, it can take 15 years or longer from the time a newly developed scientific idea can be used in treating patients," he said.
