The tranquility around the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office was all but deafening Monday morning as we dropped by for a brief visit en route back to our own office following the Billionth Barrel of Oil ceremony.

The Chamber offices on the west end of the city hall have presented a hectic setting for several weeks as plans were coordinated for this week's celebration.

There is an adage back somewhere to the effect that the best part of a project usually is the planning, the implication being that completion of any endeavor may very well produce an anti-climax.

"It's been great," said Judy Wall, Chamber secretary, who was left behind to "mind the store" while the remainder of those involved in the frenzied and often hectic planning were out at the oil well watching the billionth barrel come off. But she confided that it seemed almost too quiet around the office.

Anyway, the big week is upon us, and the activity now has switched to the various sites where major events are taking place.

The next street-road project here could be an extension of Avenue E southward to the Western Texas College Campus. This is a project that was envisioned back when the college was in its initial planning stages. It undoubtedly would be a time-saver for a number of people and would help the traffic situation of College Avenue during peak hours.

Howard Cosell, the acid-tongued sports commentator who is a member of ABC's Monday night football trio, says in his new autobiography that he suggested his own removal from that assignment after the first trial run back in 1970, but came roaring back when reaction of sports writers and other commentators resulted in huge doses of abrasive criticism.

"Frankly, I was disgusted. But then I got mad," Cosell declared....."I couldn't wait to start the regular season."

ISRAELIS RAID DAMASCUS, CAIRO

Mideast War Is Escalated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets launched bombing raids on Damascus and Cairo today in a major escalation of the Middle East war.

Ground battles raged along the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights.

Associated Press correspondent C.C. Minicier reported from Cairo that "we are in the middle of an air raid." He made the report in a telephone call to the AP bureau in Athens, but the line went dead immediately thereafter.

Israeli Phantom jets bombing in Damascus heavily damaged the Syrian Defense Ministry and the government radio station across the street.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said Israeli jets struck an army radar station 18 miles east of Beirut and there were reports of Israeli armor crossing into noncombatant Lebanon as the four-day-old conflict widened.

Polish diplomatic evacuees leaving Syria after their embassy was hit during the Israeli air raid on Damascus called the strike "a terrible tragedy that killed many civilians."

"I saw so many dead and wounded; it was terrible," said a sobbing Marta Servic, a Polish official's wife arriving at a border post in a group of 20 women and children from embassy families. "We saw many dead and wounded in the streets."

The Israeli strikes on Cairo and Damascus were taken as an indication Israeli air power was having its way in the Middle East skies despite Egyptian and Syrian claims of having downed nearly a third of Tel Aviv's some 490 planes.

But Cairo said that on the ground its tanks were pushing back Israeli armor in the Sinai and had stabbed nine miles into the desert captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

A Syrian communique said the Israeli jets hit civilian targets in the capital of Damascus and on the outskirts of Homs, 90 miles to the north.

"This aggression caused some civilian casualties," the communique said.

The United Nations headquarters in Jerusalem said a Norwegian air force captain working as a U.N. military observer was killed in his home along with his wife and young daughter during the Damascus strikes.

Israeli officials in Tel Aviv said their jets in Syria were hitting military headquarters and radar sites. The raids were in direct retaliation for Syrian missile attacks on civilian settlements in Israel, they claimed. An Israeli military spokesman said the Phantom pilots reported "very good hits."

Syria threatened retaliation for the raid on Damascus and Tel Aviv residents were warned by loudspeaker trucks to double-check blackout measures and stock up supplies in their air raid shelters.

THERE WAS ANOTHER BARBECUE 25 YEARS AGO—A barbecue in appreciation of the oil industry was given in 1948 near the site of Standard Oil of Texas No. 1 Brown, the discovery well of the Canyon Reef oilfield. The men who helped prepare and serve the food posed for this picture. From left, they were Mal Andress, Oscar Rosson, unidentified man, John Whatley, Jim Boothe, W.R. Bell Sr., George Parks, Giles Bowers, J.M. Boothe Jr., Gray Parks, Joe Parks, Shorty Whatley and another unidentified man.

Snoopy Enlisted In Energy Drive

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Middle East war casting new shadows over U.S. fuel imports, the Nixon administration enlisted the cartoon character Snoopy today as the symbol for a massive campaign to conserve energy supplies.

President Nixon received a citizen's advisory committee report on ways the public can help ease predicted fuel shortages this winter.

In addition, top administration officials gave Nixon reports on how the government and private industry are moving to conserve energy supplies.

The national energy conservation campaign will seek to cut energy consumption by five per cent this winter. Among the steps outlined were:

—Adoption of cartoonist Charles M. Schultz's character, "Snoopy," as a symbol for a "SavEnergy" campaign with distribution of advertisements to the media and energy conservation kits to the nation's schools.

—Widescale distribution of energy-saving hints to consumers, including a suggestion that home thermostats be lowered by four degrees this winter to save 400,000 barrels of oil a day — the estimated amount of the winter's heating oil shortage.

—An extensive program to promote energy conservation by the business community, and continued steps by federal, state and local governments to cut energy consuption.

Henry L. Diamond, a New York State environmental agency official and head of the citizen's advisory committee which met with Nixon, said citizen action is essential to the success of any program to reduce energy consumption.

In an introduction to a booklet titled "Citizen Action Guide to Energy Conservation," Diamond said "the time has come for Americans to reassess their use of energy."

Until recently, he added, "energy has been so relatively abundant and inexpensive that we have given little, if any, thought to its use or misuse on a prodigal scale.

"Now," he said, "energy conservation must become a permanent feature in the living pattern of Americans in the 1970s and beyond."

As he met with administration officials on the energy conservation effort, the White House announced Nixon's appointment of three new members to the citizen's advisory committee on environmental quality and the reappointment of three other members.

The new appointees are Dr. Joseph L. Haller, Hollidaysburg, Pa.; Dr. Joseph Francis Boyle, South Pasadena, Calif., and Wilhelmine Kirby Waller, Bedford Hills, N.Y. Reappointed were entertainer Arthur Godfrey, financier Laurence S. Rockefeller and San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson.

ANOTHER ONE SET THURSDAY

A Barbecue Celebrated Canyon Reef Discovery

Celebrating a festive occasion with a barbecue is a West Texas tradion. Scurry County's Billionth Barrel of Oil celebration will include a barbecue on Thursday evening, with Gov. Dolph Briscoe to be among the guests.

Some of those who will be attending Thursday's barbecue were in Scurry County when the Canyon Reef field was opened 25 years ago, and they remember another barbecue given to show appreciation for the people of the oil industry. That barbecue was served in real West Texas style at a site near the discovery well, the Standard Oil of Texas No. 1 Brown, and ranchers and farmers and the oil men involved met there with high hopes for the future of the oil field.

Hosts for that barbecue were Bob Brown, George Parks, and Shorty Whatley. Brown owned the land on which the well was drilled, and Parks and Whatley each had land nearby. Parks said there was no way to tell how many people came to the gathering, but there were people from all over the county.

Marion Reep, who had a reputation for turning out the best barbecue to be had, came to supervise the barbecuing. At his direction, the men dug a trench about two and a half feet wide and that deep and several yards long. They piled the trench full of large mesquite logs which would burn down to make hot coals. The meat was cooked on hog wire stretched above the coals.

The meat barbecued included a beef or two (nobody remembers how many), a hog, duck, quail, and chickens. W. R. Bell Sr. fixed a wash pot full of son-of-a-gun stew.

Next came a wash pot full of red beans, and these were almost the undoing of the cooks. They started with a five gallon can of dry beans and dumped them into a wash pot full of water. As the beans began to swell, they overflowed the pot and almost put out the fire. The men dipped beans back into the five gallon can they had started with until they got down to the proper level for cooking. Nobody ever ate better beans, it was agreed.

No time had been set for the barbecue to be served, so people bagan arriving soon after 10:00 in the morning, Parks remembers. They trimmed cooked meat off the outside of the barbecue and fed everybody who came by. Serving continued until after 2:30 in the afternoon.

Snyder was caught up in an oil boom after that time, and some of the traditions of the town faded away with the coming of new people. But the tradition of getting together to eat and celebrate is appealing to people everywhere, and Thursday the people of Scurry County and visitors from many localities will enjoy doing just that again.

Parade time will be 5 p.m. Wednesday. The procession which will feature hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of oil industry equipment, plus marching units and decorated floats, will move through the Snyder central business district on Twenty-fifth Street after forming at the west edge of the city.

The downtown business area and the adjacent blocks on Twenty-fifth Street will be the best vantage points to watch the parade, said Dave Harlin Jr., chairman of the parade committee. Marching units will join the mechanized units before the procession reaches the square, and some of the foot units will be turning off at Avenue M to the east of the square.

High school and junior high bands, along with Shriner delegations from Big Spring and Odessa will be in the parade.

Meanwhile, tours of oil field facilities were underway today

Ruling Stands In Dowdy Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a lower court ruling that the government claims could severely hamper its effort to "prosecute congressional corruption."

The high court declined to hear the government's appeal of a decision by the U. S. Circuit Court at Richmond in the bribery case of former Rep. John Dowdy, D—Tex.

At the same time, the justices also declined over the objection of Justice William Douglas to hear an appeal by Dowdy taken from the same circuit court ruling.

Dowdy, who served in the House from 1952 until declining to seek re-election in 1972, was convicted in 1971 on eight counts of an indictment arising from an alleged bribe of $25,000 accepted to block criminal prosecution of a now-defunct Maryland home improvement firm.

The circuit court reversed conviction on five of the counts, holding that conviction depended on evidence of legislative acts which are protected from judicial inquiry by the Constitution.

The circuit court action reduced Dowdy's sentence from a total of 18 months in jail and $25,000 fine to six months in jail and $1,000 in fines.

The government argued that Congress had specifically given responsibility in such cases to the federal judiciary.

"Given the inherent practical and political difficulties of actually trying a member of Congress before the House or Senate, we submit that it is entirely reasonable and proper for Congress under its legislative authority ... to delegate its authority to punish its members by enacting statutes specifically providing for the trial in the courts of congressmen who accept bribes or commit other unlawful acts in their capacities as legislators," read the government brief.

"In effect," the government brief continued, "the court's holding permits members of Congress to shield their misconduct from criminal prosecution merely by asserting that acts relating to the misconduct had a legislative purpose or were done in anticipation of possible congressional hearings or investigations."

Oilman Hurls Inaction Charges

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A top spokesman for the Texas petroleum industry said today there is reprehensible inaction in Washington on a variety of bills that could help the American people have more secure and inexpensive energy.

"This is little short of criminal negligence," said Robert A. Buschman of San Antonio.

"Everybody, it seems, is trying to exploit the current energy situation for political gain."

In a report ending two years as president of the Texas Mid—Continent Oil & Gas Association, Bushman was particularly critical of Senator Adlai E. Stevenson III, D—Ill., who is to preside Wednesday at the start of a hearing on natural gas price controls.

The association's executive committee approved Monday a resolution asking Congress to expedite the decontrol of wellhead prices of natural gas sold into interstate commerce. The resolution made no reference, however, to a Stevenson proposal that such controls not only be continued but extended to intrastate sales.

Buschman said the wellhead price controls imposed by the Federal Power Commision since the mid-1950s form the one governmental action which has had the most adverse effect on the development of all forms of the nation's energy.

He said a House decontrol bill was introduced, "merely as a courtesy" and that Senator Warren Magnuson, D—Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, provided "the clinker" for the Senate hearing by agreeing to allow Stevenson to preside.

"Stevenson is one of a number of avowed, outspoken critics of our industry in the Congress," Buschman said. "He is on record as favoring dismemberment and divestiture of those companies which combine the various elements of industry activity, production, refining, pipelining, and marketing."

Buschman said Stevenson's bill to place intrastate gas under FPC regulation is an act "which would amount to virtual confiscation of that gas, Texas gas in our case which is sold to the citizens of Texas for their own use."

"Like father, like son," Buschman continued. "A generation ago, Senator Stevenson's father, twice the democratic party's presidential candidate, was trying to rob Texas of its tidelands much as his son now wishes to rob us of our natural gas."

Roundup Is Successful

ABILENE — Officials of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center regarded the third phase of the 14th annual Cattlemen's Roundup for Crippled Children a success.

The sheep and goat sale at Coleman Livestock Co. raised $6,031.23 Monday, which is about $400 more than last year's sale. The first item to go on the block was a young Spanish goat which was sold and resold. When the final gavel went down, it had raised $2,585. A little five-year old pet lamb was given to be sold and sell it did to the tune of $547.50. Incidentally, the little girl who owned it took the lamb home.

The sheep and goat sale, combined with the previous cattle and horse sale, plus cash donations, brings the grand total to $117,031.23. The final sale of farm equipment is set for Nov. 18 at Lawn.

Tips for using electricity efficiently:

Get well acquainted with the control on your clothes dryer.

Clothes come out of the dryer harsh and stiff when you over-dry them. And you use electricity that isn't needed. If you don't have automatic controls, experiment with the manual control to find the right setting for each type of fabric, then use it. Man-made fabrics, in particular, require extended cool-down periods.

These other suggestions also can help you make more efficient use of your clothes dryer and electricity.

Group clothes together by weight and texture of the fabrics to avoid running an additional cycle for two or three slower-drying items.

When you want to fluff pillows, sweaters, knits or small throw rugs, tumble them without heat for not more than 15 minutes.

Place your clothes dryer in a heated part of your home, if possible, and have it vented to the outside. A dryer in an unheated area, such as an outside utility room or the garage, can take longer to dry your clothes in winter, because the air temperature in the drum will have to be increased.

And remember to clean the lint filter on the dryer after each load. This will help it operate more efficiently and reduce drying time.

It's our job at Texas Electric to help you get the most value from your electric service. Call us when you have questions about any use of electricity in your home. Or ask for our free booklet, "Tips to help you use electricity more efficiently throughout your home."

FOURTH GRADERS CELEBRATE OIL WEEK—The fourth graders in North East Elementary School are helping celebrate Snyder's Billionth Barrel of Oil Week by presenting a program about Texas. Included in the program will be songs not only about the oil industry but also about the cattle and cotton which have helped make Snyder what it is today. Parents and friends are invited to the program which will be given Thursday at 8:30 a.m. in the school auditorium under the direction of Mrs. Whitson, music teacher.

Snyder Garden Club Hears Program

The Snyder Garden Club met October 4 at the Martha Ann Womans Club with Mrs. R.L. Brice as hostess. Mrs. S.L. Terry, president, presided. Mrs. Von Kleibrink, program chairman, introduced Mrs. W.B. McSpadden who gave some very interesting facts about marigolds.

Mrs. McSpadden said, "In ancient times the marigolds as we know them today was called "Golds" and were thought of as flowers of jealousy. We probably know these "Golds" as the calendar of our day, which is not related to the marigold of our day. After Cortez conquered ancient Mexico he took marigold seeds to Europe. They were so easy to grow and so beautiful they became the favorite flowers for the devout to place at the altar of the Virgin Mary, and became known as "Mary's Gold," later Marigold. According to Keats in his "Ardent Marigolds" they were supposedly dedicated to the Virgin, but no strong thread of legend attaches them. The American marigold is grown in every civilized country, but is native to America only. American marigolds were proposed by Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen as the National Floral Emblem of the United States. Our marigolds of today come in a wide range of colors, size of bloom and height of placet. Colors range from the palest lemon yellow to deep gold, orange and mahogany. The size of blooms range from 1 inch in diameter to as much as 4 inches. The heights go from 6 inches to 30 inches or better. Some object to the flower because of their odor, while others think they have a clean, fresh odor. As we drive around over the city we see beautiful, colorful displays of the 5,000 plus marigolds planted by many civic clubs and the Two Garden Clubs in Snyder. These were planted in connection with the campaign put on by many civic clubs to clean up, dressup, our city for the celebration of the Billionth Barrel of Oil in the Scurry County Oil Field."

One new member, Mrs. Homer Bishop, was welcomed along with 3 guests, Mrs. John Boren, Mrs. Robert Patterson Jr., and Mrs. George D. Adams.

Plans were made for a Bazaar to be held November 3 at the home of Mrs. Dillard Teal, 3001 Austin. There will be many items for sale.

TheDecline Of A Giant

MARK TWAIN: GOD'S FOOL. By Hamlin Hill. Harper & Row. 308 Pages. $10.

The twilight of any mortal, particularly if he or she is a genius, can be both informative and distressing. The story of the last 10 years of Mark Twain's life, which Hamlin Hill describes in this latest study based on considerable private material hitherto little used, is more than typical.

Although he continued almost to the end as a very successful writer, Twain was past his creative peak. The mask of the chronicler of mid-19th-century frontier life in America's superb innocence — when he paraded a a buffoon it was as a grand buffoon — was slipping off. Revealed at last was the true countenance of one our most complex literary artists, Samuel L. Clemens himself: still brilliant but declining in health of body and mind, yet determined to the end to fulfill his reputation as a prodigious writer.

For years personal tragedy had stalked the man: his only son had died in infancy; his eldest daughter, Susan, also had died young. Mrs. Clemens, the beloved Livy, who despite her Victorian censorship of her husband's writing really had helped guide him, died before him. Their youngest daughter, Jean, drowned during an epileptic seizure.

A chief source of Hill's account is the journal of Clemens' secretary, Isabel Lyon, adoring and adored until she joined the company of associates he neurotically conceived as enemies.

Hill is hardly an inspired or exciting writer. But he has done a useful study of the decline of a giant.

ABOUT TO COME OUT FROM UNDER HIS ROCK?

Banker's Attitude Does Not Reflect Conditions

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

CHICAGO (AP) — In the preliminary hours of the 98th annual convention of the American Bankers Association, the atmosphere was deceptively relaxed. Most of the 12,000 attendees were at receptions, parties, dinners — or before their TV sets.

But whether they accomplished anything except meet friends and otherwise enjoy themselves in the festooned ballrooms — and some critics maintain that conventions aren't meant to accomplish much more — their attitude didn't reflect the condition of the industry.

The issues are urgent, and few Americans realize how involved they are. Banking is, in its own peculiar financial way, as important to ordinary citizens as the oil company upon which they depend for heating.

Mortgages? Don't talk about them to commercial bankers. A home mortgage is to them a somewhat worthless investment today. Why buy money at 10 per cent and then lend it out at only 8 per cent — and for 30 years — just because state usury laws say you can't go higher?

That's an immediate, and for thousands of families, a very frustrating experience. But, say the bankers here, "What can we do about it? Change the usury laws, raise the limits to 10 per cent, and we'll have money to lend to you."

The banks are up against what they consider unfair restrictions. Some of them would just as soon let interest rates find their true market price, instead of seeing them held under control by the Federal Reserve or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

But if restrictive regulations were to be entirely removed you may be sure that a battle would be joined. The savings and loan associations, which want to preserve their tiny interest rate advantage, would howl and attack. For years they have lived with what they consider even more severe limitations.

The S&Ls have this fractional percentage point advantage because they are a segment of the thrift business, which means that their existence is predicated on the assumption they will attract money and pass it on to homebuyers. Even bankers will agree the S&Ls have done their job well.

But the area between S&Ls and commercial banks is blurring. Some savings and loan associations and mutual savings banks want the right to make consumer loans and issue checks, which they are denied doing now. They must, they say, in order to survive.

The reason, they maintain, is that the banks have moved into their territory with "flying card" rates, or rates free of limitation on funds left for four years or more. The two institutions are fighting for turf.

Those aren't the only industries in which bankers are considered intruders. Stock brokers think the banks are intentionally eroding the terms of the Glass-Steagall Act, which since the mid-1930s has separated investment from commercial banking.

The brokers and investment bankers maintain that the commercial bankers are not only selling stock these days, but are promoting their activities. They are right, and the commercial bankers can't very well deny it. They are advertising their services.

Say the brokers: What will be left for us if these giants move in on our function, which is to educate and promote and sell shares in American industry? How can we compete with these monstrosities let loose by regulations that permit bank holding companies to diversify into other areas?

And that brings up still another situation that concerns everyone. The charters of those holding companies permit banks to do a lot more than banking. They are into leasing and insurance and data processing and factoring and management counselling.

And they are into mergers too. In recent years fewer and fewer banks have come to control more and more assets. There are 14,000 commercial banks. Some 1,600 holding companies control 2,700 of them. Moreover, they control two-thirds of the $600 billion on deposit in U.S. banks.

That same holding company regulation that permits commercial banks to enter investment banking can be exercised in other related fields. Some insurers, big as they are, howl about unfair competition.

"The ones making all the noise are the ones who do not want to compete," said Eugene Adams, American Bankers Association president. "It's as simple as that."

A study committee, for example, is studying the vigorous invasion of the American domestic market by foreign banks, and the domestic banks are worried about it. They have formed a study committee, and there's a feeling here they might seek restrictions on this "unfair competition."

Junior Editors' Quiz on MULLEN

QUESTION: What is the herb mullen used for?

* * *

ANSWER: The herb mullen or mullein is botanically known as Verbascum, a genus of biennial and perennial plants of the Figwort family, having wooly or down foliage and usually yellow flowers on spikes. There are over 100 kinds of mullen. Three kinds grow in the United States; the White Mullen, the Moth Mullen and the Common Mullen. They are usually viewed as wildflowers or weeds and are found in fields, road sides and dry waste places. They are often seen growing near railway tracks.

In some districts of the United States, the mullen has been used for medicinal purposes. The leaves were formerly used to make a tea for treating coughs, nervous disorders and inflammation. The stem and leaves of the mullen have an irritating effect on the skin when touched. The Common Mullen, with its densely wooly rosette of foliage and yellow flowers on stalks, 6 feet high, is often used in the background of wildflower gardens in the United States. In Europe, some species of mullen are cultivated as ornamental plants.

Time To Do Undone Things

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Now is the time to get done the undone things in your life.

Your last excuse is lost. If you can't accomplish what you wish to accomplish in this inspiring autumn weather, then you simply never will. For October is the winetime of the year.

Yes, there is a time and place for everything, and now is the time and this is the place.

But what shall a man set out to do first? Aye, that is the question. For a man has had so many high goals and tomfool vagrant desires that it is difficult for him to set a priority on the dreams and idle wishes he first would like to make come true.

Any man's list of undone things is frighteningly long. For example, after well over half a lifetime of living I have never—

Hit two pool balls in a row in the side pocket.

Found out how snug a bug in a rug really is.

Drunk a martini in Watergate.

Helped fight a four-alarm fire.

Changed any woman's opinion on anything permanently.

Cooked shish-kebab or veal piccati.

Put hair tonic on a bald eagle.

Been the voice of a shredded wheat biscuit in a television commercial.

Had a blind date with a lady werewolf.

Woven a basket or done a portrait of Mohammad Ali in needlepoint.

Asked Howard Cosell or Bobby Riggs for an autograph.

Heard any of the figures on the Mount Rushmore memorial sneeze during the hay fever season.

Attended a sex circus or been an innocent bystander at a Hollywood orgy.

Had my hand nibbled by a Venus Fly Trap.

Planted a century plant, or lived in two centuries.

Shaved with a two-blade razor.

Sent an orchid anonymously to Phyllis Diller on her birthday.

Felt comfortable underwater except while holding my nose.

Donated my brain to Harvard.

Climbed Mount Olympus or seen the gods at play.

So many undone things to do! But what difference does it make which is done first? Anything a human being does in October feels wonderful and worthwhile. And unforgettable.

Even if he but pick up a fallen leaf and kiss it before crumbling it in his hand.

American Playoff Postponed

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — Baseball's defending world champion Oakland Athletics feel they were double-crossed by rain in their own ballpark.

They claim it acted to Baltimore's advantage in their American League playoff series when the third game was postponed Monday.

"We had 'em on the run, the champs were coming back," outfielder Reggie Jackson declared. "Now they have Jim Palmer again."

The Orioles' ace righthander, 22-9 in the regular season, blanked Oakland 6-0 in the opening game Saturday before the A's came back to beat Baltimore and Dave McNally 6-3 on Sunday.

With rain causing the postponement, Manager Earl Weaver gets to use Palmer Wednesday in game No. 4 of this best-of-5 league championship series.

Both managers, Weaver and Oakland's Dick Williams, declared themselves disappointed over the rainout—the A's skipper downright angry the game was called 22 minutes before it was scheduled to start.

League President Joe Cronin's decision to call off the game brought him into a sharp exchange with the A's explosive owner, Charles O. Finley.

"It's not fair to these fans to call it off a half-hour before game time," Finley snorted.

A crowd of about 30,000—the Oakland Coliseum seats 50,000—had been expected with most school children having Monday as a Columbus Day holiday.

The third-game pitchers today remain the same—lefthanders Ken Holtzman for Oakland and Mike Cuellar for Baltimore.

Williams stuck with his original rotation—Vida Blue to pitch the fourth game and Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the winner Sunday, ready for the fifth game, if necessary.

The rain lasted long after Cronin announced the postponement, ending at least temporarily about 2½ hours later—but it had some beneficial effects for the A's also.

"I didn't get to sleep until 2 a.m. Monday morning after we flew home," said Holtzman. "Maybe now I'll get a better night's rest."

And Hunter, 21-5 on the season, will get his normal three day's rest between starts.

Buckeyes Retain Top Grid Rating

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State and its six closest pursuers held onto their positions today in The Associated Press college football ratings while Tulane, Kansas and Miami of Ohio joined the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

In their second week since replacing Southern California as the No. 1 ranked team in the country, the Ohio State Buckeyes trounced Washington State 27-3 and received 41 first-place votes and 1,150 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in this week's AP poll.

Nebraska crushed Minnesota 48-7 and got nine first-place votes and 1,032 points. The Cornhuskers thus narrowed last week's margin, which had Ohio State on top 1,118-897.

Alabama remained third with six first-place ballots and 876 points by defeating Georgia 28-14, while Southern Cal turned back Oregon State 21-7 and held onto fourth with one top vote and 782 points.

Michigan, No. 5, received one No. 1 vote and 697 points for a 24-0 win over Oregon. Oklahoma didn't receive any first-place votes but stayed in sixth place with 632 points after downing Miami of Florida 24-20.

The other three first-place votes went to Penn State, which beat Air Force 19-9 and earned 620 points.

Tennessee climbed from ninth to eighth by nipping Kansas 28-27 while Notre Dame dropped from eighth to ninth after fighting off Michigan State 14-10. Tennessee's lead, though, was a shaky 419-417.

Ironically, the narrow loss to Tennessee boosted previously unbeaten Kansas into 19th place.

Louisiana State continued to round out the Top Ten with 416 points. The Tigers defeated Florida 24-3.

Arizona State rose from 12th to 11th, followed by Missouri, Texas, Houston, UCLA, Miami of Florida, Colorado, Tulane, Kansas and Miami of Ohio.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Oklahoma State, Arizona State, Texas, Houston, Missouri, UCLA, Miami, Fla., Colorado, Southern Methodist and West Virginia.

Oklahoma State lost to Texas Tech 20-7, Missouri downed SMU 17-7 and Indiana beat West Virginia 28-14, knocking the three losers out of the Top Twenty.

Eagles Lose In Buffalo

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles lost more than a football game in Buffalo.

Flanker Ben Hawkins fractured his left leg in the Eagles 27-26 loss to the Bills Sunday and is expected to be sidelined the remainder of the National Football League season.

A club spokesman said the 29-year-old Hawkins, in his eighth NFL season, apparently hit a yard marker or bench when he went out of bounds in the final period.

Hawkins, who caught two passes for 30 yards against the Bills, was admitted to Graduate Hospital Sunday night when the club returned home.

Fight Erupts, But Mets Triumph, 9-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After some belts from Rusty Staub and a couple from Bud Harrelson, too, the Cincinnati Reds are on the brink of a knockout.

Staub hit two home runs and Harrelson hit Pete Rose in a brawl-filled game Monday in which the New York Mets beat the Reds 9-2 and took a 2-1 lead in this best-of-five playoff series to determine baseball's National League representative in the World Series.

Staub's homers drove in four runs, but it was Harrelson's battle with Rose that literally drove the Reds from the field in one of the most bizarre playoff affairs in history.

The final score, despite its importance, was almost anticlimatic after what happened in the fifth inning.

A crowd of 53,967 was buzzing with an apparent New York victory, loudly cheering their Shea Stadium heroes as the Mets forged a 9-2 lead after four innings.

Then came the fifth, when Rose barreled into Harrelson in an attempt to break up a double play at second base.

"He hit me with his elbow," Harrelson said after the explosive game. "I'm tired of being used as a punching bag."

The Mets' gutsy little shortstop said something to the burly Rose. The Cincinnati left fielder gave Harrelson a shove and the two exchanged blows, fell to the ground and tussled in the infield dust.

The battle triggered a floodtide of players from both benches and the bullpens as well. They raced on the field and began fighting among themselves while the crowd noise swelled.

It took five minutes for officials to restore order.

But there was more.

The heat of battle still smoldered in the stands, and some fans got into the act. When Rose walked out to his left field position in the bottom of the fifth inning, he was showered with debris—beer cans, soda bottles, flashlight batteries, a whiskey bottle and other assorted junk.

Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds didn't like the scene, so he waved in his players.

"I just wanted to calm things down," he said.

It didn't have a completely soothing effect on the vociferous crowd, but the next thing that happened did. In a dramatic grandstand play, the Mets sent some representatives out to left field to restore order.

Willie Mays, Tom Seaver, Staub and Cleon Jones all pleaded with the disruptive fans to quiet down.

It worked.

Everything was relatively tame after that, except for the noisy crowd—whose shouts of joy steadily increased with each Cincinnati out.

"If what happened out there doesn't wake us up now, nothing will," said a grim Anderson, whose defending National League champions face extinction today.

"We'll be aggressive," said Cincinnati pitcher Gary Nolan. "We still feel we're in it."

If Staub keeps hitting in this series like he has been, it'll be a tough job for the Reds.

Staub smashed a bases-empty homer in the first inning and then a three-run shot in the second, when the Mets put it away with five runs.

The shots gave the New York right fielder three homers for the series so far.

Staub unloaded against Cincinnati starter Ross Grimsley with a homer over the right field fence and gave New York southpaw Jerry Koosman a quick 1-0 cushion.

In the second, the Mets got rid of Grimsley. Jerry Grote walked, Don Hahn singled and Koosman beat out a bunt for a base hit to load the bases.

Then Wayne Garrett knocked in the first New York run of the inning with a sacrifice fly and Felix Millan followed with a run-scoring single.

Anderson brought In Tom Hall—and Staub promptly homered off the auxilliary scoreboard in right field.

The Reds came back with two runs in the third, Koosman's only shaky inning, on a home run by Denis Menke and an RBI-single by Morgan.

OU-Texas Clash Set

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — "Texas who?"

That was the quip Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer had for sports writers Monday when some one asked him about the Sooners' upcoming battle with the Longhorns.

Switzer was smiling at the time, but it appeared he was forcing it a little bit.

The first-year Sooner coach knows all about the Longhorns. This will be the 17th year Switzer has been directly involved in a contest with Texas.

Switzer played three years with Arkansas, was an assistant coach of the Razorbacks for six more and is in his eighth year in some capacity on the Oklahoma staff.

"They're the same old Texas," he said, advising sports writers wanting to preview the game to "get last year's papers and columns and just put that down."

However, Switzer became dead serious when he got down to discussing Saturday's clash.

"This game probably means more to them than the Oklahoma-Texas games of several years ago when they were doing their thing," he said, noting the Sooners had won the last two matchups.

Texas had won 12 out of 13 games with Oklahoma before 1971, when the Sooners prevailed 48-27. Oklahoma stopped the Longhorns 27-0 last year.

"They really got after us last year," Switzer said. "Looking at the film, they were very fast and really gave us some licks."

He talked as if the 1973 Texas squad did not have a weakness.

Redskins Nip Dallas, 14-7

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ken Houston says he figured the Dallas Cowboys would be trying to pass to their running back Walt Garrison on fourth down and only seconds left, so the Washington Redskins' safety knew it was his job to stop him.

"I was looking for that play because our rush had been so good," said Houston after the Redskins defeated the Cowboys 14-7 in a nationally televised National Football League game Monday night.

"They had been trying to hit the left flare. I saw him (Dallas quarterback Craig Morton) pump once and I stepped up and was going to hit him.

"As strong as he is, if he had got his feet on the ground, he would have gone on in. I just caught him before he was able to plant his feet and drove him back," said Houston.

Houston stopped Garrison at the one-yard line to preserve the Washington victory.

The Redskins, shut out until the last four minutes, scored two quick touchdowns on a one-yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen to Charley Taylor and a Brig Owens' 26-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Despite the pandemonium that broke out after the Owens' touchdown, which came with 2:33 left, the Cowboys recovered a fumbled punt on the Redskins 31 with less than two minutes remaining.

Morton moved the ball to the Redskins' four with 38 seconds left but was unsuccessful on his first three passes until he completed the fourth down aerial to Garrison on the one with 16 seconds remaining.

Redskins' Coach George Allen, who had been saying all week the contest would be the championship game, said he felt "just as happy as New Year's Eve."

Washington defeated Dallas last Dec. 31 for the National Conference championship and a berth in the Super Bowl.

The victory evened up the Dallas and Washington records at three victories and one loss apiece.

Roger Staubach put the Cowboys into a 7-0 lead in the first period with a 15-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Otto Stowe, and it looked as if the points would hold up the way both defenses were playing.

Staubach was sacked seven times and Washington quarterback Sonny Jurgensen five.

But Jurgensen came back with 2:39 remaining to hit Taylor for the touchdown to tie the score and Owens intercepted Morton's pass 1:06 later.

Secretariat Wins At Belmont Park

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat is Super Red again.

The Triple Crown winner, victim of two stunning upsets in four starts since he won the Belmont Stakes June 9, raced for the first time on the grass Monday and scored a smashing victory in the Man O'War at Belmont Park.

"He was just beautifully relaxed today," said Ron Turcotte after he rode Secretariat to a five-length victory over Tentam, who has the well-deserved reputation of being one of the nation's leading grass horses.

He was also swift, racing the 1½ miles in 2:24 4-5, which was three-fifths of a second under the old Belmont turf course record.

And he was tough. Tentam twice threatened to take the lead away, but Secretariat would have none of it.

"I let him go on his own in the front stretch after the break and he went to the lead," said Turcotte. "When Tentam came to him on the backstretch I just chirped to him and he pulled out. It was the same at the head of the stretch. When Tentam came up to Secretariat, he took off again."

Jockey Jorge Velasquez, who rode Tentam, agreed. "...Twice when I moved up on Secretariat," he said, "that big horse just let out enough to get away, and I could see he was going easy all the way."

Secretariat opened up a three-length lead in the upper stretch and it was obvious that it was all over by the one-eighth pole as the fans, who call him "Super Red," roared.

Big Spruce was third, 7½ lengths back of Tentam.

Riva Eidge, Secretariat's Meadow Stable race mate, was scratched.

Secretariat, who paid a winning mutuel of $3, came out of the race as the sixth biggest money earner in thoroughbred racing history. The first money of $68,180 from a purse of $113,600 boosted his earnings to $1,224,053 and moved him past Cougar II and Damascus on the money list.

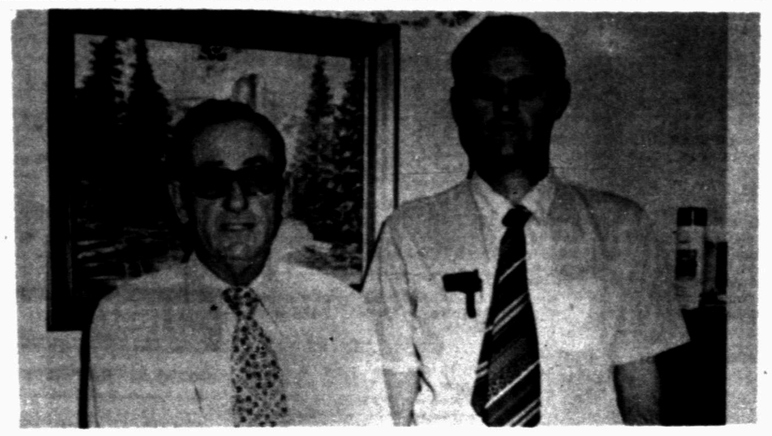

Secretariat's next challenge could be the two miles of the Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 27 at Aqueduct.

Clemson's football team lost 26 lettermen from its 1972 squad.

Fatherly love OK, but beware of intimacy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please write something in your column about overly affectionate fathers who encourage intimate body contact [all in the spirit of playfulness] with their teen-age daughters?

This horseplay between my son in law and his 13-year-old daughter involves a lot of wrestling and touching, but I was shocked when I saw them rolling around on the bed [in the parents' bedroom] while my daughter was busy putting on her make-up in the adjoining bathroom.

Abby, this grandchild is just coming into young womanhood, and it's possible for her to become sexually stimulated and aroused by this sort of thing. Soon enough she will be faced with sex play with her peers, which is normal and natural, but such teasing from her father worries me.

I don't want to hurt my daughter by even suggesting that her husband keep his hands off his daughter. She might even be offended.

Frankly, I am ashamed to be writing this letter. I don't think I'm evil-minded, and I'm no prude, but perhaps my son in law will see it and take the hint. If you think I am wrong, please say so. I'll be able to take that, too.

WORRIED GRANNY

DEAR WORRIED: Touching and hugging is a normal healthy expression of affection between fathers and daughters. But you make a good point. Teen-age girls should be taught that their bodies are "private," and not to be manhandled by anyone—fathers included. And fathers should refrain from intimate horseplay with their budding young daughters. As revolting as the idea may be to some, it's possible for parents and children to be turned on sexually by each other, so intelligent restraint should be exercised.

DEAR ABBY: To "Camille," who wrote to you of her involvement in remembering lonely patients in a nursing home, and to your fervent hope that the idea "will catch on":

I can add to the story by telling you that in Columbus, Ohio, there is a "Remembered Patient Program" of 15 years standing in one of our hospitals for mental patients. People in the community remember the more than 500 patients who have no families or friends by sending cards and or gifts thruout the year on birthdays and other occasions. Some send money that is deposited to the patients' accounts and that enables them to purchase their own items in the patient commissary.

It is a beautiful sight for the three of us who work on the committee and for the dedicated staff employed by the hospital, to see the birthday cakes and gifts that are delivered by these concerned "friends"; at Christmastime the delivery trucks from local department stores make daily deliveries, bringing gifts to patients who might otherwise be forgotten.

If you know of any who would be interested in this kind of program, we will be happy to provide material.

THE REMEMBERED PATIENT COMMITTEE,
Mel Basch, Helen Bennett & Verna Bowyer

CONFIDENTIAL TO A. IN PHOENIX: Don't look back. There's not a man alive who couldn't retire comfortably in his old age if he could sell his experience for what it cost him.

Credit Rate Cuts Urged

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Insurance Board staff, apparently at odds with Chairman Joe Christie, recommended credit rate life insurance reductions today smaller than those favored by Christie.

Marcom Shockley, head of the board's life insurance division, proposed a 23 per cent cut in single premium reducing term rates and a 10 per cent cut in rates for level term coverage.

Shockley's recommendation was based on the combined losses for three years, 1970, 1971 and 1972.

Christie favored the use of only last year's losses, a method that would produce a 25.3 per cent reduction for reducing term rates an 18.6 per cent for level term rates.

Christie appeared surprised when Shockley endorsed the three-year method, and asked him why.

"We're trying to be conservative. There is a possibility that fluctuations may occur," said Shockley, who consistently addressed Christie as "Your Honor."

"You never recommended that we just look at 1972 alone?" Christie asked.

"No...not for (rate) adjustment," Shockley replied.

"I don't mean publicly. I mean at any time," Christie said.

"I have pointed out that certain advantages would accrue to the use of 1972 alone," Shockley said.

Today's hearing was the board's first look at credit insurance rates in three years. Despite reduct ons in credit insurance losses, rates are the same as they were in 1968.

ENJOY REUNION—From left, Roy S. Hendricks, Mrs. John Florence Leftwich and Dick Webb enjoyed a reunion yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Leftwich. The three were classmates at school here in 1905 and 1906. Mrs. Leftwich and Webb will celebrate their birthday Wednesday. They were interviewed by Hugh Boren, Jr., president of the Scurry County Historical Survey Committee.

3 Snyder Classmates Of 1905-06 In Reunion

Three longtime residents of Scurry County who were classmates at school here in 1905 and 1906 held a reunion Monday afternoon, and they were interviewed by Hugh Boren, Jr., president of the Scurry County Historical Survey Committee.

The three are Mrs. John W. (Florence) Leftwich, 2411 Thirty-second Street; Dick Webb, 2808 Avenue T; and Roy S. Hendricks, 1503 Twenty-second Street. The reunion was held in the home of Mrs. Leftwich. Boren recorded remarks on tape to preserve them for the historical committee.

Hendricks was born March 16, 1888, in Johnson County and moved to Scurry County in 1892. He said there were 40 people and 39,600 prairie dogs here when he moved here.

Mrs. Leftwich was born Oct. 10, 1888, in Hunt County and moved here when she was six months old. She and her late husband built their own home on two lots they purchased here in 1918 for $100.

Webb said he was the third white child born in Scurry County. He was born Oct. 10, 1887. The other children born here prior to his birth were an older brother, John L. Webb and Ida Mae Nelson.

Mrs. Leftwich said she received her first schooling at Cottonwood Flats. Later, her family moved into town so she could attend school in Snyder. The first school she attended here was located at the present Central Elementary School site. Mrs. Ruby Clark was her teacher at Cottonwood Flats, and W.B. Hudgins was superintendent at Central.

Webb graduated from Snyder High School in 1906.

Hendricks recalled that back then only those students who wanted to go to college finished high school; the others quit school and went to work.

All three of the longtime residents recall that Snyder had a good baseball team in 1907. They chartered a train and went to San Angelo to play.

"Scott Stanfield went up north to play," said Hendricks. Webb recalled that two of the members of that early team made it to the big leagues.

Webb said he graduated from "Hellroy and Holler" before he graduated from Snyder High School. Mrs. Leftwich pointed out that Hellroy and Holler was also known as Pleasant Hill.

All three of them remember that a cattle thief was caught near the early school and hanged from a tree near there.

Mrs. Leftwich said, that for entertainment in the early days of the county, she and her girl friends would have parties and "play snap". There was no dancing. She recalls that Scott Stanfield, Cecil Skaggs, Belle York and Martha Gillum were in her graduating class.

"We had picnics in Wolfe Park," Mrs. Leftwich recalled.

She said that she taught school at the Bell School between Snyder and Hermleigh when she was 16 years of age. Several of her students were older than she was. Mrs. Leftwich also taught at Hobbs and in Snyder. Her husband was superintendent here.

"We met Sept. 3 and he wanted to get married at Christmas, but I put him off until the spring of 1915," she recalled.

She said they went on their honeymoon to Carlsbad, New Mexico.

A brother, Jim Middleton, taught school at Hellroy and Holler.

All three of the classmates spoke of bad sandstorms early in the century.

"It got so dark the chickens went back to roost," Mrs. Leftwich remembers.

Webb was elected county attorney here in 1912 and he also served two later terms. He said he remembers a "tin horn gambler who got in an argument with a cowboy.

"The gambler threw a blanket over the cowboy and stabbed him to death. He was later caught and hung."

All three of the oldtimers remember the first courthouse being of red brick. They said it was built by Lon Pierce.

Webb said he didn't get married until he was 32 years of age because he was busy getting an education and didn't have the money to get married before then.

"I knew all of the sheriffs of Scurry County–Billy Nelson was the first one," Webb recalled. He also said Houston Patterson was the first county clerk of Scurry County, and he later became a judge here.

Webb said that once when Nelson was the sheriff here that a big cowboy came into town and got drunk and was "cutting up." Another cowboy, a small 18-year-old, went up to him and punched him in the stomach and told him that he was the sheriff and that the bigger man had better get out of town in 15 minutes.

"He did too," Webb said.

Webb said he could tell "a lot of wild stories," but that "it wouldn't do to put them in the newspaper."

Webb's parents operated the Belmont Hotel here, located on the northeast corner of the downtown square. Webb said the cowboys would come into town on a Saturday night and get drunk.

Hendricks said an uncle, D. Grantham, operated a barber shop here and sold gramophones.

Hendricks said he remembers when he and his friends got 3 cents for each jackrabbit they killed. Webb said he talked the county commissioners into putting the 3-cent bounty on jackrabbits.

Hendricks said saloons were closed here in 1898 when the county voted "dry." Prior to then, Snyder was a pretty rough town. Hendricks said he remembers when one man killed another one "over a horse race bet."

Hendricks said that "Judge Nesbitt" was the first judge in Snyder. He also recalled that a carpenter who moved here from England was killed and buried here.

The three classmates remember the Johnson and Smith ranches and E.W. Clark and Pete Scoggins as being big ranchers in the early days of the county. They also remember when the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific Railway Co. brought the first train to Snyder. The community held a big celebration on the courthouse lawn when the train came here, and a later celebration was held when the Santa Fe came in.

"Bill Tatum used to haul freight from Colorado City to Snyder," Hendricks said.

Webb remembers an old 6-cylinder bus that was used briefly on a run from Colorado City to Snyder. He said the schoolboys would take their girl friends riding in it.

All three of them said they had seen many changes since the early days of the county.

"I even get lost when I'm out in the country–the roads have changed so much," Webb said.

Asked the most important thing they've learned in life, all three of them had interesting answers. Mrs. Leftwich said the most important thing she learned is "to be good and kind."

"Never worry about your own troubles and do damn little worrying about other people's problems," Webb said.

"I've learned not to be impatient," said Hendricks, "And, also I've learned that money is not everything. Also, you get along better with people if you are kind."

New X-Ray Is Computerized

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Georgetown University scientists today announced development of a new, computerized method of X-raying the human body and said it's expected to provide "unprecedented accuracy" for medical diagnosis.

The developers said the new technique provides X-ray pictures having four times more detail than conventional ones. They said it opens the way to "precisely defining and locating such disorders as tumors, hemorrhages, blood clots, trauma (injuries), cysts, strokes, and improperly healed bones" without risk to the patient.

The technique, employing a special "scanning" device, is designed to produce cross-sectional X-ray views of any part of the body and display them automatically on a television screen.

The method was described as offering special powers for diagnosing brain disorders.

The device utilizing the new method is called the "ACTA Scanner" — The "ACTA" meaning "automatic computerized transverse axial." only a prototype model has so far been built, at a cost of $200,000.

Its developers, headed by Dr. Robert S. Ledley, a professor of physiology and biophysics at Georgetown, explained its operation this way:

A pencil-thin X-ray beam passes through a "slice" or plane of the body and is detected, or "caught," sodium-iodide crystals on the other side.

"Profiles" of the tissue density are received by the detectors as the X-ray beam moves across the object from 180 different angles. Thus, literally thousands of "readings" are made by the detectors within minutes and are fed into a computer.

The latter synthesizes and reproduces a complete cross-section of the part of the body viewed in a computer picture shown on a TV screen.

A color-analyzer unit in the computer translates the grey tones of the picture into color, making it easier to determine specific features, although the color does not correspond to the tissue color itself.

An average "scan" takes 4½ minutes, the researchers said.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—How "used" is a used car?

If its vintage is stated accurately; the prospective buyer received an honest statement of its mileage; the working parts are in working condition, and the price represents the fair market value of the specific vehicle involved, then it's entirely up to the consumer to decide if a certain used car is a good buy.

But a misrepresentation as to year of model, or a purposeful misstatement of mileage accrued would constitute a deceptive trade practice under the 1973 Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

And alteration or resetting of an odometer—the instrument on the car which indicates its total mileage—also is prohibited under the new Federal Odometer Law, which requires that each transferor of a vehicle make a certificate attesting to the mileage.

The certificate must identify the vehicle transferred by its make, model, body type, serial number and last license plate number. It must include the transferor's name, address and signature, and the certificate signed has to refer to the fact that giving of incorrect information may result in civil liability.

The alternative to the person or dealer transferring ownership of a motor vehicle would be to state that the actual mileage is unknown—if he really cannot attest to it.

The enacting of state and federal prohibitions on odometer "rollbacks" were affirmations of the long-held enforcement philosophy that this practice does work a fraud on consumers.

For instance, in Texas, the Attorney General's office in 1972 obtained 39 court injunctions prohibiting used car dealers and auto lease services from setting back odometers under an umbrella prohibition against deceptive trade practices.

We thought that it ought to be spelled out, and the Texas Legislature agreed, so odometer rollbacks were added to the specific list of trade practices outlawed under the 1973 act.

It is easy to understand that there may be circumstances in which an individual trading in an old car or a used car dealer selling one may not be able to swear to the actual mileage—because the car has had so many owners, or because of mechanical difficulties.

So the state law (and the federal act) include the language, "with the intent to defraud."

Deceptions, frauds and misrepresentations are the blocks we want to remove from the consumers' path to an equal footing in the marketplace.

If you are shopping for a used car, and have reason to doubt the seller's statement on mileage, there are several clues you can follow to ascertaining the true figure: For one thing, examine the vehicle itself. Do the brake pads, emergency brakes or tires indicate more wear than the mileage would appear to warrant?

Almost any reputable seller also will encourage you—or at least, permit you — to drive the car to your own mechanic for an even closer check.

You are always free, of course, to talk to the previous owner. If he can't be identified easily, you can write the motor vehicle registration division of the Texas Highway Department—enclosing $1 and vehicle identification number, and get a history of the title.

If a consumer suspects that mileage has been misrepresented, he can file a complaint under federal law, which prescribes penalties for violation of three times actual damages, a maximum of $1,500.

Or, a private suit could be filed under the new Texas law, and if the court determined that there was a violation, the judge could award three times actual damages.

If you have a complaint, contact your county or district attorney, or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office.

CRMWD's Deliveries Increase

Despite a wet September, deliveries of the Colorado River Municipal Water District increased over a year ago and narrowed the gap between the record 1972 to 250 million gallons.

During the month, CRMWD pumped 1,693,100,178 gallons, which was 180 million more than for September a year ago. For the first nine months of the year the district has delivered 14,283,842,350 gallons, which is about 243 million gallons less than for the same period the previous year.

Most of the gain came in municipal deliveries of 1,192,411,000 gallons, or 181 million gallons more than the previous September deliveries to the cities. Mining and industrial deliveries stood at 500,689,178 gallons for September, down one million from September a year ago. Through the first nine months of this year mining deliveries stood at 4,363,137,350 gallons, of 114 million gallons less than for the same period in 1972. Of the mining and industrial deliveries in September, 140 million gallons were in brackish water.

During September, Odessa took 396,315,000 gallons, up 14.42 per cent over September a year ago; Big Spring 219,234,000, up 10.56 per cent; Snyder 59,819,000, up 6.73 per cent; Stanton 7,430,000, up 92.14 per cent; Midland 340,676,000 gallons, up 15.86 per cent; San Angelo 168,938,000, up 49.38 per cent. The district's overall deliveries for September were up 11.90 per cent.

Cause Of Fire Probed

HOUSTON (AP) — City Fire Department authorities tried today to determine the cause of a four-alarm fire that destroyed the Texxon Motor Exchange building Sunday.

Jack Enright, owner of the engine repair business, estimated damages at between $400,000 and $500,000.

A REVOLTIN' SITUATION—Nellie Lovelace, played by Amber Walker (left) finds her faithful Adam, played by Felton Stephens, ensnared in a trap set by music hall entertainer, Ida Rinegold, played by Emmalie Sleeper, in this scene from "The Boom Town Follies." The second and final performance of this Billionth Barrel of Oil Week feature is set for 8 o'clock tonight in the Snyder High School Auditorium.

Follies Bring Monday's Audience To Its Feet

A five-minute standing ovation concluded the opening night production of the Boomtown Follies which was presented last night beginning at 8 p.m. in the High School Auditorium. A "full-house" audience stood for the entire length of the final number, "There's No Business Like Oil Business," keeping time to the music and interrupting only to applaud the cast and crew. The outstanding production was under the direction of Bill Lyon and Jerry Worsham which was in celebration of the Billionth Barrel of Oil this week in Snyder.

An appearance was made by Miss Energy, Paula Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bell, who was crowned Saturday night. She will reign over the entire Billionth Barrel of Oil Celebration being held this week in Snyder.

There was something for everyone in this double bill of entertainment. The Great Romantic Melodrama, "Dirty Work At The Crossroads," delighted the audience of all ages and they especially enjoyed being able to take part by hissing and booing the villain, Munro Murgatroyd, who was superbly portrayed by Patrick Martin, and applauding the heroin, Nellie Lovelace, tenderly played by Miss Amber Walker.

The brave hero, Adam Oakhart, played by Felton Stephens, proves, as always, that good conquers bad in the end, to the delight of the audience. Musical accompaniments played by Molly Walker, of Snyder and London, at the rinky-tink piano added to the mood of the evening and the splendid performance of the cast.

For the entertainment of the audience, a Great Vaudeville Review provided between performances was of unexcelled merit. The Boomtown Swingers, sometimes, known as the Snyder High School Swingers opened and closed the evening with great enthusiasm which quickly spread throughout the entire crowd. The Bethel Ragtime Band, featuring Lynn Bethel, Dub Everett, David Vaughn and Mike Clifton, entertained with sounds of ragtime music. Also included in the musical attractions were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor singing both duets and solos of great classics from the turn of the century, Miss Bennie Everett singing a beautiful rendition of "A Bird in a Gilded Cage," and for those who enjoy boogie woogie, Stanley Burgess, assisted by Mrs. Lynn Bethel, played "Bumble Boogie" on the organ. Highlighting the evening of entertainment, Bill Lyon, assisted by the Swingers, gave a memorable performance of "Give My Regards to Snyder." The 10 piece pit orchestra should not go unmentioned for its very professional sound and accompaniments throughout the evening.

The success of the Canyon Opera House "Boomtown Follies" could not have been complete without the extra hard work and timing displayed by the special effects crew. The blinking runway lights and stage spotlighting and sound effects added greatly to the already excellent talent being on stage.

Once again Snyder talent has come through in fine style. Last night's audience likely would agree that an appropriate number somewhere along the line could have been titled "There's No Talent Like Snyder Talent"

A second and final performance will be presented tonight at 8 in the SHS auditorium for those who stayed home last night to see the Dallas Cowboys go down in defeat. You should not miss this great display of talent, and undoubtedly there will be many of Monday night's audience back again. Tickets priced at $1.50 for adults and $1 for children will be sold at the door.—DEBBY FARMER

Black Colleges Breaking Cycle

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Herman H. Long, head of the United Negro College Fund, says the nation's predominantly black colleges help break "the cycles of poverty" that many poor black families have been "bound to all their lives."

Long, president of Talladega College in Alabama, says of black colleges:

"Our students come from families that earn on the average less than $6,000 a year. Eight out of 10 of the students need financial aid to remain in college."

Some superstitious people once believed that witches could call down a vapor from the moon for use in their incantations.
