Hakim unprepared to return funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Albert Hakim, who managed the shadowy bank accounts in the Iran-Contra affair, said Friday he is not prepared to turn over $8 million in remaining profits to the U.S. treasury, even though it might be the "heroic thing" to do.

"It's not a question of doing the heroic thing and passing an acid test," Hakim said on his third and final day of testimony before the joint House and Senate panels investigating the matter. "It's a business situation and it should be treated as such," he said.

Hakim showed visible distress near the end of his 17 hours as a witness when Sen. Daniel K. Inouye said it would be an understatement to characterize some of Hakim's most devastating testimony as stranger than fiction.

"Did that concern you...that something was drastically wrong," asked Inouye, chairman of the Senate committee.

"When I look back, Mr. Chairman, I share your opinion," said Hakim, wiping his eyes. "At the time, it did not bother me."

Before he was dismissed, Hakim was ordered by the committees to return a top secret KL-43 encryption device, one of about a dozen White House aide Oliver L. North had distributed to his private network. This device is in an attorney's office in Geneva, Hakim's lawyer said.

Iran-Contra Affair

During a day of testimony dominated by questions about profits, Hakim also disclosed that in their efforts to win freedom for Americans held in Lebanon, he and his partner, retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord, told an Iranian delegation last October that the United States was prepared to help topple the president of Iraq.

Secord also told the Iranians that the United States would fight the Soviets in Iran in case of an invasion, Hakim said.

When the Iran-Contra story emerged in public last November, Hakim said, he expected the Reagan administration "to come out and say, 'hey, fellows, you are on your own; for these reasons we cannot help — or we will help you.'"

But, he said, "there was total silence, as if we didn't exist."

Asked if he thought President Reagan should have said something in his behalf, the Iranian-born Hakim said, "I believe that if he could not do that, he should have arranged for us to be heard."

He denied he had tried to influence North, who was deeply involved in the Iranian and Nicaraguan projects, despite continuing suggestions from committee members that that might have been his intent in trying to set aside hundreds of thousands of dollars for North's family.

Hakim said remaining profits from the Secord-Hakim enterprise's dealings are in two accounts. One, with Merrill Lynch in London, contains $6.7 million. The other, holding $1.4 million, is with a Swiss bank.

Hakim described the business that made huge profits on selling U.S. arms to the Nicaraguan Contras as "a monster sitting there with a few heads."

As he was questioned about some of the byzantine transactions, Hakim admitted that among the payments was $31,817 to buy a Porsche car for Secord, his business partner.

Local woman dies in mobile home fire

Kent Porter/Reporter-Telegram

Reuben Salazar, displays distress after learning about the death of his ex-wife, Audry Evelyn Potter. Ms. Potter died in a late Friday afternoon fire at a mobile home on County Road 121. Fire officials have not yet determined what caused the blaze.

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

Despite the efforts of a frantic neighbor who said he tried to bust open the locked door of a south Midland County mobile home, a Friday afternoon fire took the life of a 52-year-old woman.

Audry Evelyn Potter perished inside a County Road 121 mobile home that she shared with her ex-husband, Reuben Salazar, sheriff's officials said.

Neighbor Domingo Reynosa, 22, said he heard the trapped woman pounding on the floor of her mobile home as he tried to pry open a locked door.

Reynosa displayed a bleeding, cut hand that he said was the result of breaking open the mobile home's windows after he unsuccessfully tried to open the door.

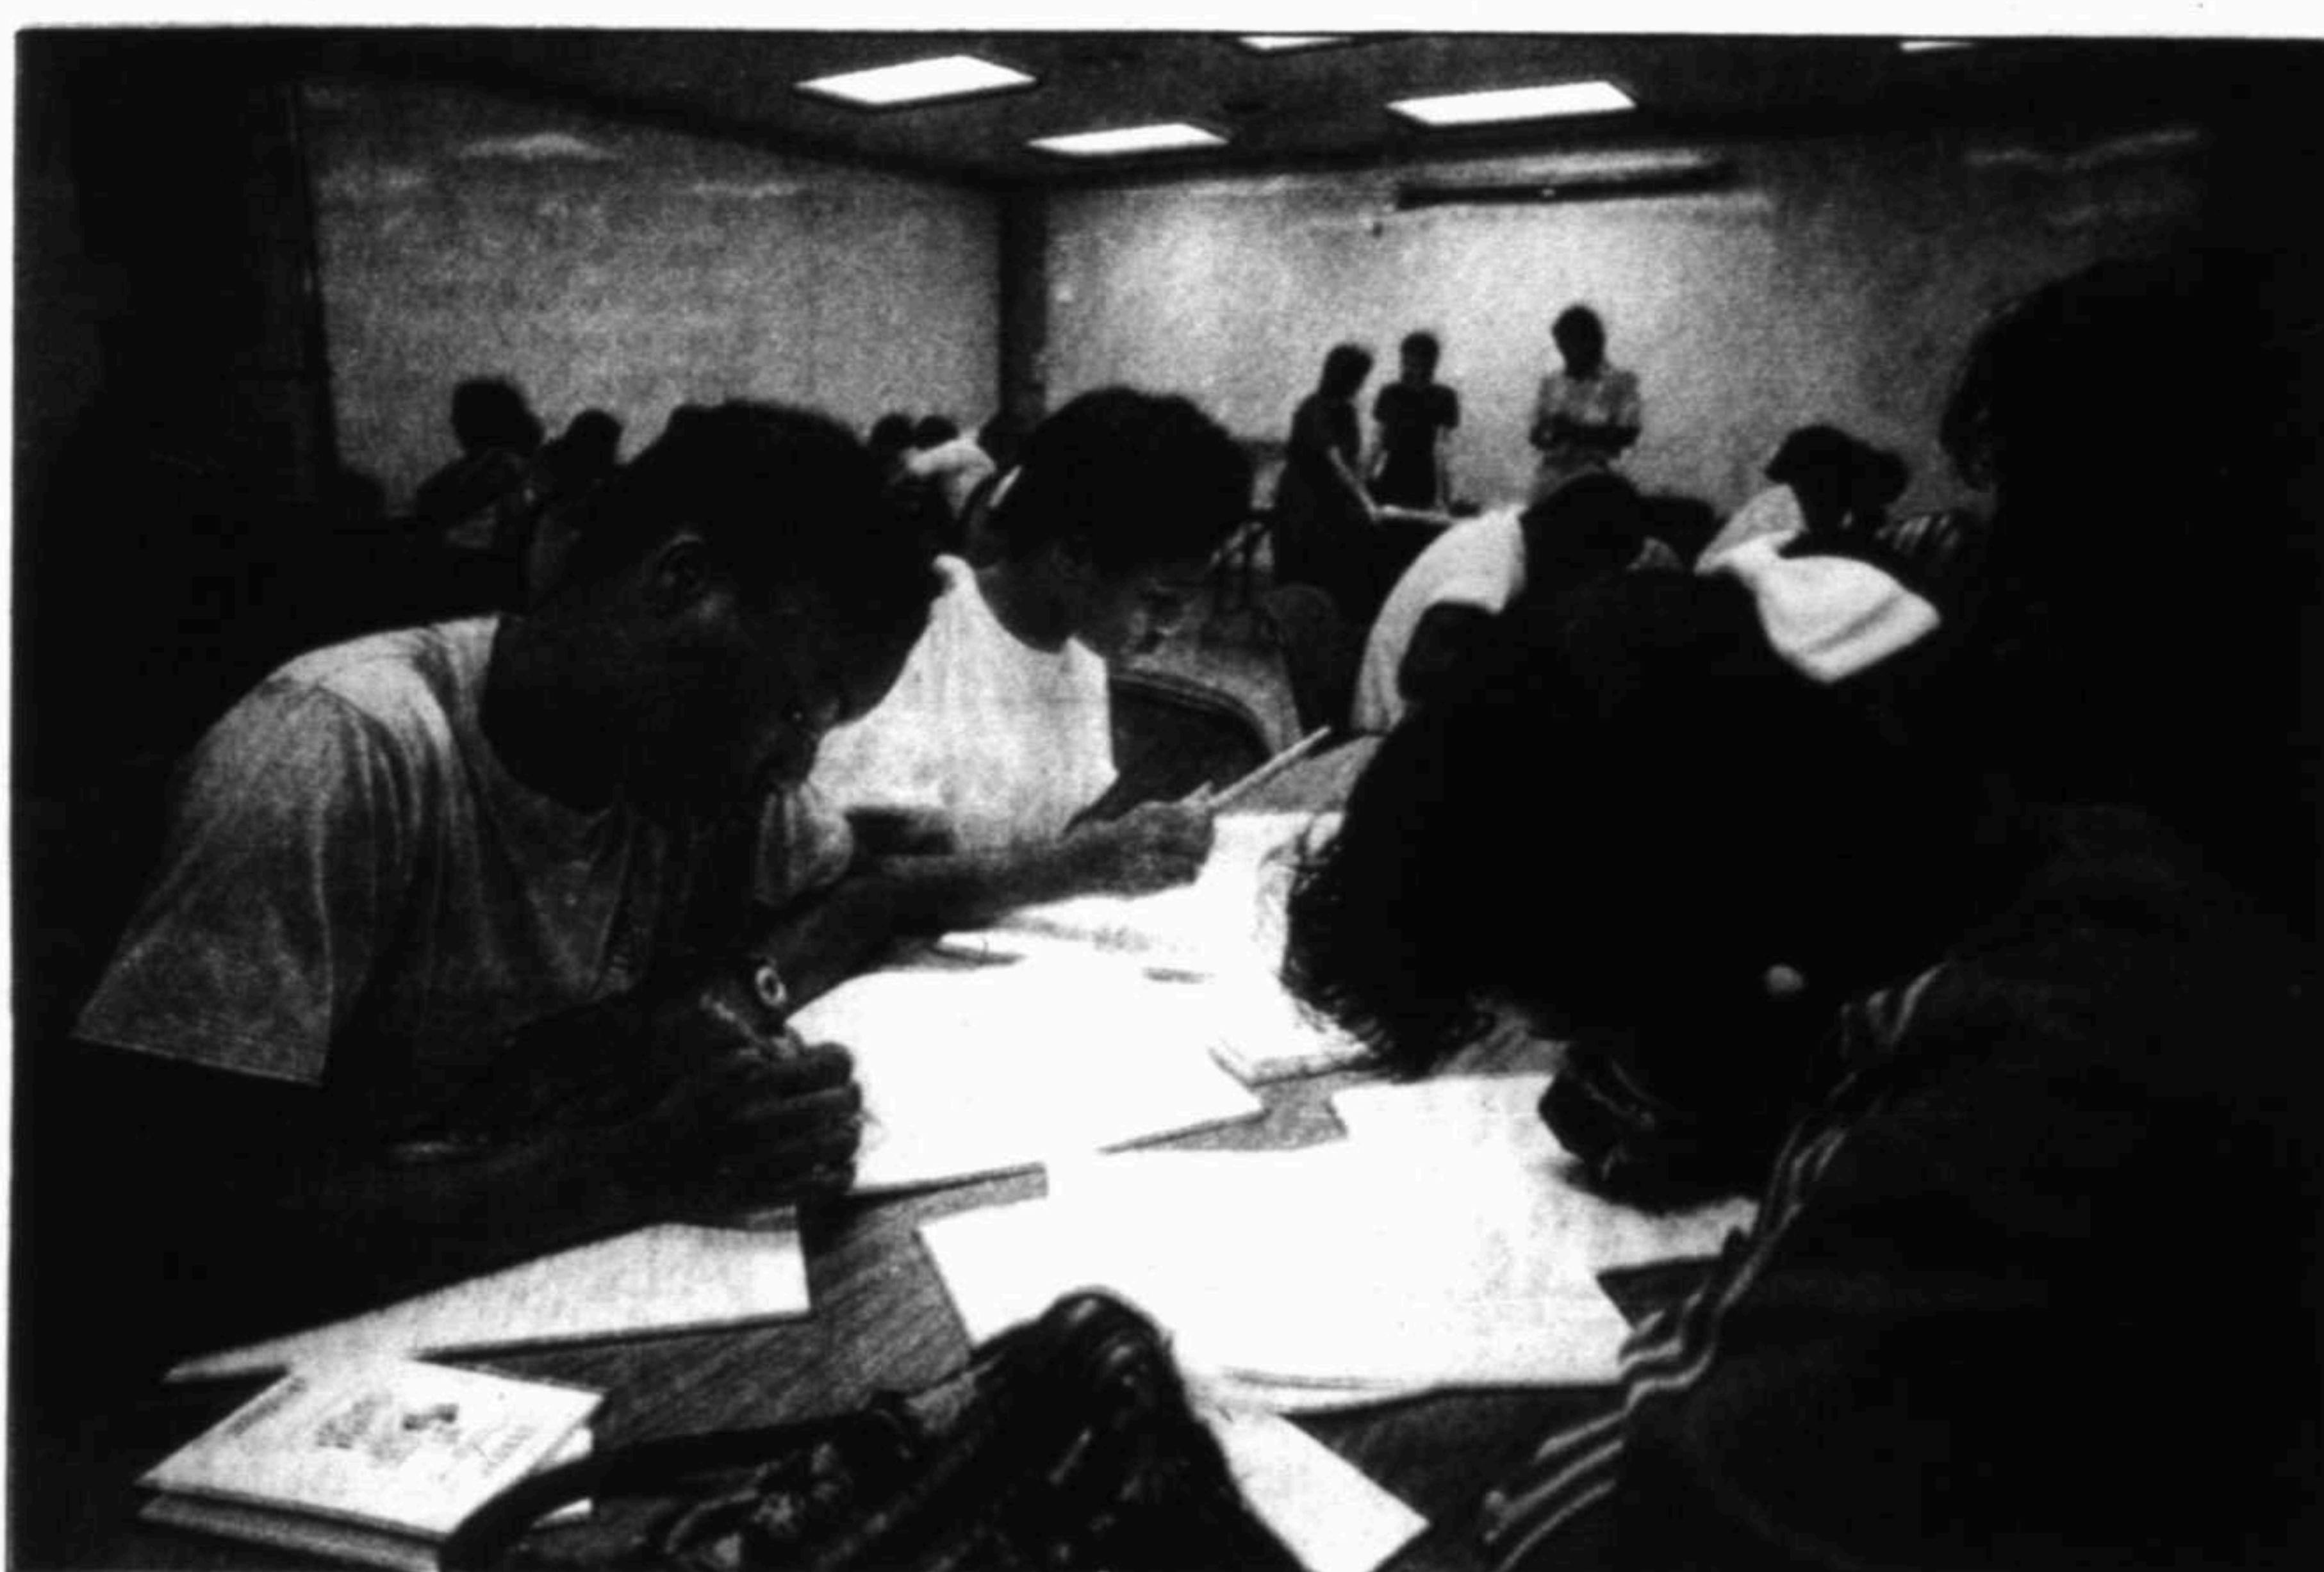

Reynosa's 9-year-old daughter, Adriana Navarrete, said she was the first to spot the trailer's flames escaping from the home's front living room while she was rummaging through her parent's pickup to find a vacuum cleaner belt for her mother.

An autopsy is being performed to determine how the woman died, a sheriff's spokesman said.

Four Midland Fire Department units hurried to the blaze-stricken trailer around 4:28 p.m. Friday and took just a few minutes to "knock down the fire," said Fire Department Captain Larry Capell.

Capell said the fire started in the trailer's living room, but investigators have not determined if an appliance sparked the deadly blaze.

These students are participating in the Job Training Partnership Act Summer Youth Program, which gives economically disadvantaged youth an opportunity to obtain work experience and income during the summer.

Groups help job-seeking teens

By JAMILAH OWENS
Staff Writer

Teen-agers who have not yet found summer employment may find their prospects of finding a job fairly grim. Most employers — like the Water Wonderland Water Park between Midland and Odessa — did their hiring months ago.

The water park's director of summer employment, Billy Haynie, said that most summer positions at the park — numbering about 100 — already are filled.

There is usually an overflow of applications, said Eric Olsen, the park's director of marketing, and therefore most job seekers file their applications months in advance.

Olsen added that usually the youth who have worked previous summers are the first to be hired because of their experience.

Many teens will be faced with these types of responses when seeking employment if they failed to look earlier. Most who have found jobs did it through networking and various summer programs.

"I got my job because my dad knew the guy who hires people," said Chad Haynie, a sophomore at Lee High School.

But a Midland High School junior, Christina Rodriguez commented that "I have been on four interviews and they call back saying that they found someone else with more experience — and that I don't have enough."

SIPES backs bills which would stem oil imports

By JOHN PAUL PITTS
Business/Oil Editor

The national board of directors of the Society of Independent Professional Earth Scientists (SIPES), meeting at the Midland Hilton Friday, pledged support for legislation to stem growing oil imports from the Mideast.

The 20 board members, including J. Murphy Horton, vice president, of Midland, agreed to a resolution supporting Senator Lloyd Bentsen's bill to require the president to present a plan to Congress to stem imports when they reach 50 percent.

Bentsen's bill would allow the president to select a number of options to curb imports, including: an oil import fee; incentives for the domestic industry; and conservation.

The board, which represents 1,350 professional independent geologists, geophysicists and mining and petroleum engineers nationwide, offered the following language in its resolution: "U.S. funds spent on protecting Mideast oil which goes primarily to other nations would be better spent on incentives for the domestic industry."

SIPES officially supports an oil import fee; repeal of the Windfall Profits Tax; restoration of the 27 percent depletion allowance; a 15 percent investment tax credit; repeal of the transfer rules and IDC tax preference as a means of restoring the domestic petroleum industry and curbing oil imports.

In other business, Phillip J. McKenna, SIPES president, said the association would continue to oppose the registration of professional geologists and geophysicists by states as a means to control and tax. McKenna said 17 states now have legislation requiring professionals to be tested and certified.

"This is only a means of taxing an already overtaxed industry," said McKenna, a Denver oilman, "and restricts the free movement of geologists from state to state." He said the movement to license professionals of all walks was growing in the East and moving westward; that Florida was the last state to pass such a law.

The board believes that now is the opportune time for the oil industry to get its message across in the Northeast part of the United States and is planning speaking engagements to elected officials in that part of the nation. It is also planning a documentary film on the oil industry to be produced by the SIPES Foundation, the educational and charitable arm of the association.

The Foundation assists members of SIPES with seminars and scholarships. This year, the Foundation awarded scholarships to six students in the U.S., including Jesse G. Spencer, a student at UTPB, seeking his MS in geology. Spencer graduated from UTPB with a 4.0 GPA.

Administration urges repeal of taxes that hurt oil industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, concerned about growing U.S. reliance on imported oil, urged Congress Friday to repeal tax provisions that penalize the petroleum industry, but rejected calls for boosting tax benefits for oil.

Several senators, in proposing increased incentives for domestic production, cited the attack on the USS Stark as evidence of the uncertainty of supplies from the Persian Gulf.

"U.S. oil production fell by 800,000 barrels per day in 1986 back to 1981 levels," William F. Martin, deputy secretary of energy, told the Senate Finance subcommittee on energy taxation. "As a result, U.S. imports of foreign oil have increased by 1 million barrels per day."

"If present trends in the United States and elsewhere continue, the world will become increasingly dependent upon insecure sources of oil," Martin said.

ALL-STARs teaching parents how to fight abuse

By JULIE HILLRICHs
Staff Writer

For parent Jeanne Worley, saving the lives of youth involved in such negative behavior as drug and alcohol abuse, is a matter of life and death.

Mrs. Worley, who along with 200 other parents and teachers is attending a weekend retreat sponsored by Midland schools, realizes she might not get a second chance.

"I think every parent visualizes getting a phone call in the middle of the night with news of the death of his or her son or daughter from a drug overdose," she said. "I don't want to be that parent."

That's precisely what the public school system is trying to avoid by opening its doors to the ALL-STAR program and its retreats.

ALL-STAR is the acronym for Activity Leadership Laboratories-Students Teaming Around Responsibility, which proposes to change the attitudes of parents and their children and thus, combat the problems of chemical abuse and bad behavior.

Championed by former Kansas City Chief Willie Mitchell, Philadelphia 76er Wali Jones, 1976 Olympic track coach Stan Schofield and others, parents and student leaders will learn strategies to help each other say "no" to negative peer pressure.

While parents already are locked away in seclusion, more than 1,000 children — leaders in a variety of school activities — will participate in a similar session in August at each of the city's high schools.

Within these walls, each will learn the secrets to making ALL-STAR a success locally — the program has received international attention for the results it has achieved in training over 90,000 youth.

The key to ALL-STAR is leadership, said Midland Independent School District drug abuse counselor Steve Russell.

Russell said the program fosters self esteem among the core leaders of each secondary school in hopes that they'll return to their respective campuses — positive attitudes intact — and influence the actions of their peers.

Please see ALL-STAR, Page 2A

TEENS

Raymond Painter, vocational counselor at both Midland high schools said, "Most businesses seeking to hire teens for the summer usually contact high school work programs, teachers who teach co-op classes and employment placement programs."

The Midland area teens are fortunate in that Midland offers several employment organizations that assistance.

The Summer Youth Program called Workarama, sponsored by the Texas Employment Commission, functions as an employment referral agency for youth between the ages of 16-23, according to Rick Etheridge, employment interviewer for the program.

Etheridge added that "The employers are the key to the program. What our program does is to match applicants who have certain skills with the employers who need them," said Etheridge.

"Placement varies with the economy," he said. "Last year, we placed 277 students. The economy this year might be the same as last year, but there is no way to predict how many participants will be placed."

"The program just began last week, and we have placed several colleges students and a few teens," said Etheridge.

The jobs that the applicants fill vary in complexity, and placement is based on experience, said Etheridge. "Some of our applicants are placed with fast food restaurants, lawn maintenance companies, and doctor's offices to name a few," he said.

Etheridge explained that Workarama, unlike other youth programs, has no restrictions or requirements based on income. All youth from all income brackets are welcome to participate.

The Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Program, also under TEC, comprises jobs which are supplied by employers that receive special tax credits for employing youth, according to

Hints given for teen-agers looking for jobs

By JAMILAH OWENS
Staff Writer

Following are helpful hints for teen job-seekers. Survey the job market. It is important that each job seeker become aware of what jobs are available, said Rick Etheridge, employment interviewer at the Workarama Summer Youth Program, a program sponsored by the Texas Employment Commission. Employment seekers should realize the economy as it is, for they might have to take a job outside of your field of interest until one in your field is available, he said.

Utilize all avenues offered to locate job openings. A way of doing this is through networking. Often there is at least one person — be it a friend, neighbor or relative — that can offer suggestions, leads or put the job seeker in contact with another person who can provide information about a job opening.

Use referral programs or job placement organizations and services. Midland has several job placement organizations, such as the Texas Employment Commission, which help place participants and provide job leads.

Attend seminars. There are various seminars that are offered in the Midland area that are geared toward assisting job seekers develop job seeking skills such as resume writing, interviewing, correspondence abilities, personal appearance, etc. These seminars may also offer job leads.

Remember that first impressions are lasting impressions. When you either go to pick up an application or attend an interview, it is essential that you present a neat appearance. Experts agree that few things can turn a potential employer off more than interviewing an applicant who neglects proper personal hygiene or appearance habits. "You never get a second chance to make a first impression," said Bernie Gardy, first assistant manager at the McDonald's fast food restaurant on Andrews Highway.

When all else fails, volunteer. For many who lack skills, volunteering is one way of improving and acquiring new ones. According to Sylvia Quinones, executive director of the Volunteer Center of Midland, volunteering can yield benefits such as providing references, skills development and personal development. Volunteering also may help the job seeker develop leads for paying jobs.

Be positive and persistent. Even though the employment seeker may not secure a job on the first, second or third interview, they should not be pessimistic. "Getting a job requires diligence," said Raymond Painter, vocational counselor at both Midland and Lee high schools.

O. Donaldson Chapoton, deputy assistant secretary of the treasury for tax policy, outlined three tax changes the administration has proposed to help increase U.S. production: repeal of the 1980 "windfall-profits" tax on the oil industry; repeal of a limitation that bars the depletion-allowance benefit on wells that are sold by a major oil company, and removing a net-income limitation that further restricts use of depletion.

"The domestic oil industry paid its dues through windfall-profits-tax payments of about $50 billion between 1981 and 1986," Martin said. "Now the industry needs relief from unjustified and discriminatory taxes."

The administration's proposals "are the most responsible and effective means of improving our energy security," Chapoton said.

ALL-STAR

ALL-STAR leader James Kazen, former director of the U.S. Department of Education's Southwest Regional Training Center in San Antonio, said he stumbled upon the idea for the program by accident.

Kazen recalled how his two sons, both athletes, refused to wear socks to school because their peers didn't. "It got to a point where they took the socks off in the (Chevrolet) Suburban somewhere between home and school. They weren't gonna wear socks and I wasn't going to change their minds," he said.

Kazen told parents that he almost resigned himself to the fact that his sons would go through life sockless when he asked Super Bowl Champion Mitchell to intervene.

Mitchell's subtle intimidation obviously worked because the next time Kazen said he saw the boys, they were walking out of the locker room after a football game — tootsies covered.

"I don't know what he (Mitchell) told them, but I knew we were on to something," said Kazen.

Kazen is so confident in the ALL-STAR A-Team's ability to change negative attitudes that he vowed he could persuade one leader of the student body to wear a green T-shirt and then expect the rest of the school population to follow suit.

"We're good," echoed Olympic Coach Schofield. "We better be good because we're working with your kids."

At intermission, several parents reflected on the first hour-and-a-half session with delight.

Kay Jones said, "I'm so excited. I think this is the key we've been looking for to connect community intervention with our school drug abuse program."

Darlene Hendricks said, "I was very impressed with their (the A-Team's) belief in this program."

"When you have a teen-ager you worry about everything," she said. "The problem of drug abuse is so serious you want to do everything you can to fight it."

FIRE

The fire caused heavy smoke damage throughout the house and destroyed the northern portion of the trailer, Capell said.

Neighbors said the victim may have been an invalid because she needed the aid of a walker.

Another neighbor, Josie Villafra, said the woman's ex-husband, Salazar, was not at home when the fire began.

Villafra said, after spotting the fire and calling emergency crews, several neighbors rushed to tell Salazar of the disaster at a nearby flea market where he has a stand.

Aladdin House Says...

The best way to judge a mattress is with a razor blade.

Let's face it. A mattress is a blind item.

All the important things that make a mattress good or bad are buried under the fancy cover, where you can't see them.

So what does the usual store salesman tell you to do to judge the quality of a mattress?

Sit on it. Which makes about as much sense as kicking an automobile tire to gauge the quality of a car.

What do you think will happen when you sit on the mattress? Will it explode? Will it cave in? Will it collapse, or pop a spring? Of course not. It's still new. The real test will come in a couple of years. And then it's too late, even when it comes with a "warranty".

Let us tell you something about mattress warranties.

You buy the mattress on sale for 50% off. (When was the last time you ever heard of anyone paying full retail price for a mattress?) Then six years pass, and the mattress poops out. You take the warranty into the store and they give you 50% credit on the FULL PRICE OF THE NEW MATTRESS. Which is the same as buying a new mattress on sale.

Some warranty!

Our EASTMAN HOUSE ROYAL CROWN Sleep Sets have a Non Prorated Warranty for 20 years—AMERICA'S BEST WARRANTY.

At our store we take a razor blade to the Sealy, Simmons, and Serta top-of-the-line mattresses... And to our own EASTMAN HOUSE ROYAL CROWN. So you can see what's going on inside. Our mattresses give you Coil-on-Coil support for balanced comfort.

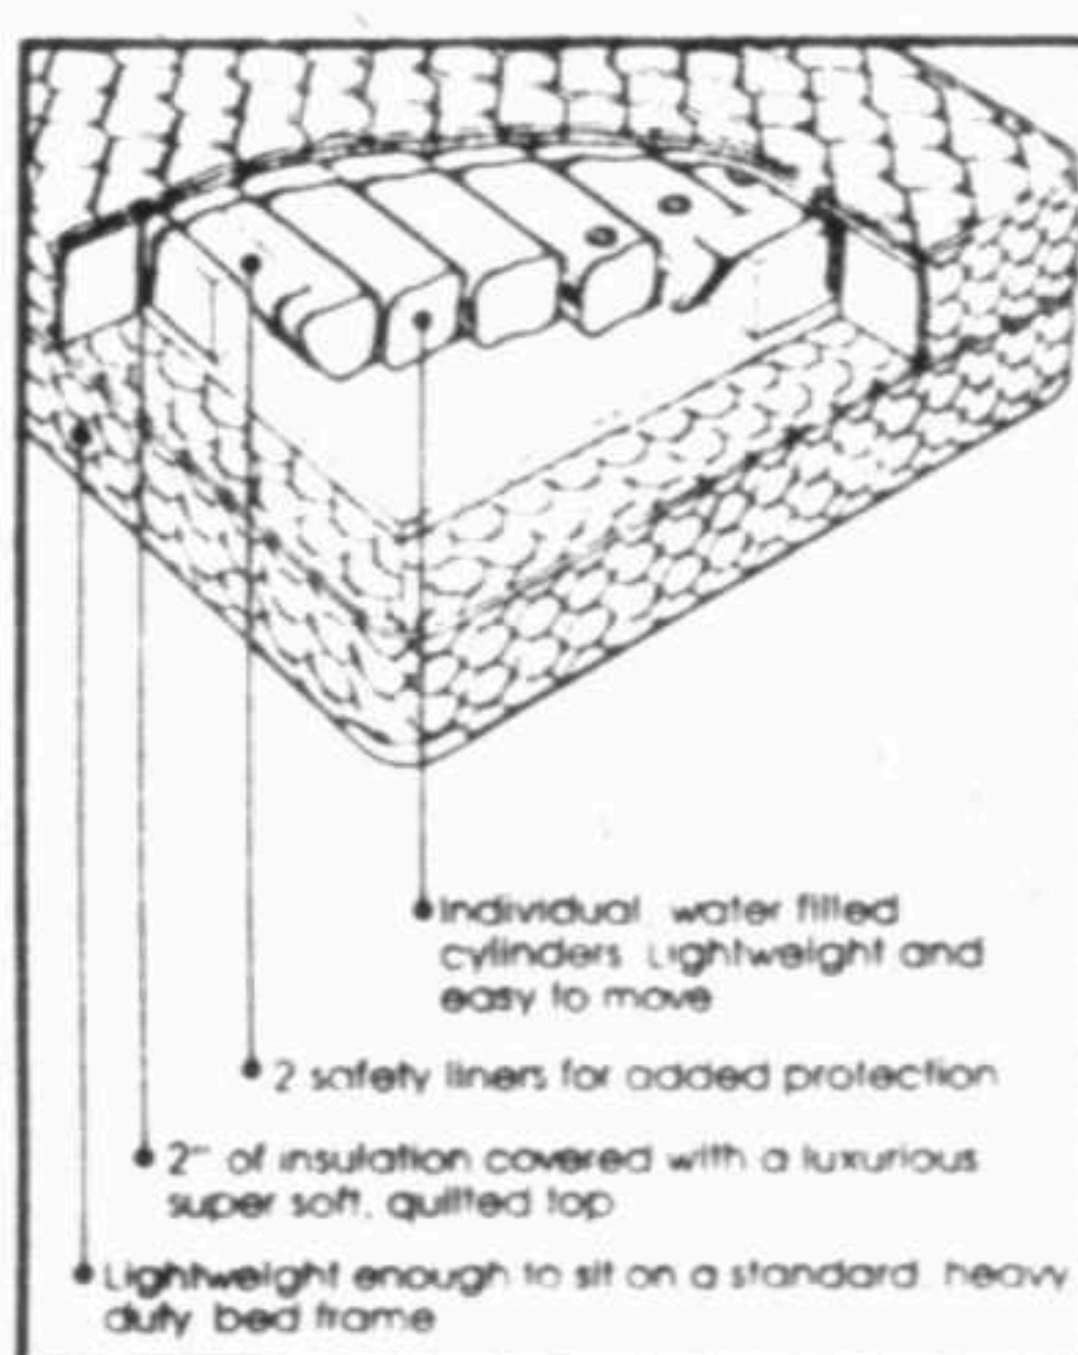

We give you more than 100 layers of rich, non-allergenic cotton cushioning. And the Royal Crown construction offers extra support through the center one third where your body needs it most.

Sealy doesn't give you this. Simmons doesn't. Serta doesn't.

Once you've seen the comparison, you'll see that there is no comparison.

We'll give you a better product, a better warranty, and a better value. So the next time you see a sale ad on mattresses, bring it in to us. WE'LL PROVE TO YOU THAT THE BEST WAY to judge a mattress set is with a razor blade!

The Mattress: A Somma Controlled Flotation System

Criminologist says Davis probable killer

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH (AP) - A Florida criminologist testified Friday that a murderous 1976 shooting spree at the home of millionaire defendant Cullen Davis was an act of expressive violence and that Davis was the probable assailant.

George Kirkham said he based his opinion in part on the killing of a kitten by Davis and a macabre indication that the intruder in the 1976 killings intended to torment one of his victims.

"The hallmark of expressive violence is irrationality, rage, explosiveness and chaos," said Kirkham, an associate professor of criminology at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

"It is my opinion that Thomas Cullen Davis was the probable assailant involved in this crime," he told the jury in the multimillion-dollar wrongful death suit brought by Davis ex-wife, Priscilla Davis.

Attorneys representing Mrs. Davis rested their case Friday after offering into evidence a color photograph of Davis, 53, dressed in a black sport jacket and black turtle neck sweater.

The intruder who killed two people and wounded two others Aug. 3, 1976, was a man dressed in black and wearing a woman's black wig.

A notation on the back of the Davis photograph indicated it was taken at Christmastime 1968.

Mrs. Davis, 45, and a former husband, Jack Wilborn, 66, are demanding more than $21 million in damages from Davis as the alleged killer of their daughter Andrea, 12.

Mrs. Davis was wounded and her boyfriend, Stan Farr, killed by the intruder, who also shot and critically wounded a Bubba Gavrel.

A criminal jury in Amarillo acquitted Davis of Andrea's death in 1977 and prosecutors subsequently dismissed related murder and attempted murder charges.

The Amarillo verdict has no legal significance on the civil cases. Kirkham, the 21st witness during seven days of testimony, compared Andrea's death to a 1970s incident in which Davis snatched a kitten from Priscilla's arms and hurled it to the ground, killing it.

"Cullen Davis was not angry at the cat," Kirkham told the jury. "The same applies to Andrea. She was killed because she was there."

He called that a case of misplaced aggression.

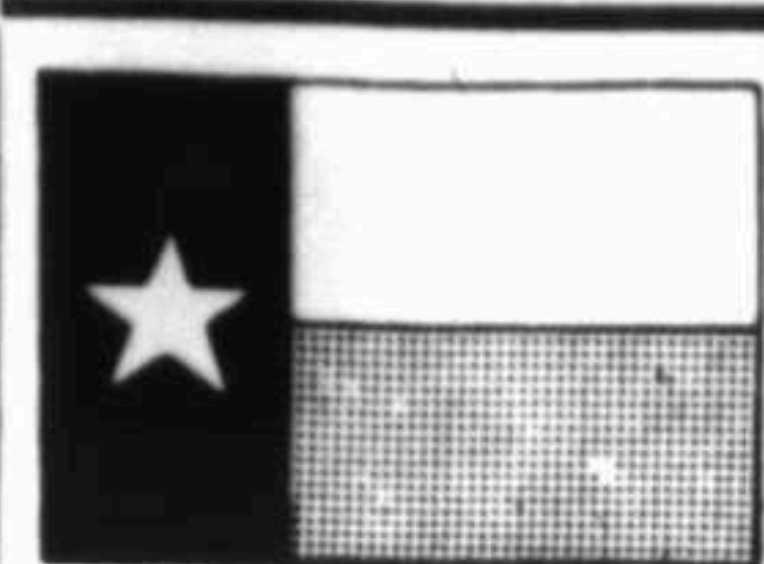

Kirkham agreed in essence with a former FBI agent who testified earlier that a psychological profile of the mansion gunman fit Davis "to a T" and that Mrs. Davis was the killer's primary target that night.

Kirkham said the gunman could have killed Mrs. Davis after wounding her and killing Farr but instead dragged her back toward the mansion where he perhaps intended to torture her or show her what had been done to her daughter.

At the time, the child lay dead on a basement floor, where she had bled to death from a bullet that severed the body's main artery.

Had the shootings been a "rational act," Kirkham said, the killer would not have stuck around to drag Farr's body into the kitchen or spend time struggling with Mrs. Davis. He would have eliminated the remaining witnesses and fled the scene.

Before resting their portion of the case, Mrs. Davis' attorneys set the stage for an expected appearance next week by Karen Master Davis, the defendant's former mistress and current wife.

Bridge construction costs lives of 88 workers

The Quebec Bridge on the St. Lawrence River near Quebec City collapsed in 1907 and carried 75 workmen to their deaths. The bridge was started in 1900 and was then the world's largest cantilever bridge. After the accident, construction work was continued and both cantilever sections had been completed when the center span fell into the river, taking the lives of another 13 workmen.

Police say neighbors didn't respond to woman's cries

HOUSTON (AP) — Residents of a Houston neighborhood are disputing police claims that neighbors failed to respond to the cries of a fatally stabbed woman.

Police say at least three neighbors acknowledged hearing the screams of Terri Lynn Parker Haywood, 27, who was found stabbed 18 times at her home early Tuesday.

Police Sgt. June Cain-Crocker expressed dismay at what she called inaction by Mrs. Haywood's neighbors.

bors the night of the slaying.

"I don't know why," Ms. Crocker said. "It's scary to even think about. Maybe it's the changing times and people thinking more about themselves than others."

Louis Francis, who lived near Mrs. Haywood, rejected police statements that neighbors did nothing.

"They (police) were trying to make us hear something," Francis said. "My wife and I sat up until 1 a.m. Tuesday and we didn't hear a thing after we went to bed.

"I'm concerned about my neighbor," said Jo Ann Crosby, who lives on the street where the slaying occurred. "But if you look out your window and don't see anything, you can't do anything. I would call the police if I had a phone."

Mrs. Haywood's husband, Calvin Haywood, 24, has been charged with the slaying, police spokesman J.C. Mosier said.

Haywood, music director of Houston's Mission Baptist Church, told police a demon possessed him at the time of the slaying, Mosier said.

Neighborhood resident David James said he often sat on the porch of his home and chatted with the Haywood's daughter, Elisha, and never heard her talk of marital discord between her parents.

TDC closes doors to new inmates for 12th time

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The Texas prison system closed its doors to new inmates for the 12th time this year after the inmate population exceeded a state-mandated 95 percent capacity, a prison spokesman said Friday.

The Texas Department of Corrections was forced to close when the inmate population at midnight Thursday reached 38,505 inmates, or 95.18 percent — 74 over the legal capacity, spokesman Charles Brown said.

The department normally does not admit or release inmates over the weekend, but convicts are expected to be released this weekend to help ease the crowding, said Mike Roach, a spokesman for the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles in Austin.

About 400 inmates within six months of release on mandatory supervision may be released, he said.

The inmate population for Friday and the weekend will not be available until Monday afternoon, Brown said. If the count exceeds the 95 percent capacity, the department will remain closed, he said.

Friday, about 100 inmates were released while 56 were admitted, he said.

As of midnight Wednesday, the inmate population for the 26-unit prison system was 37 inmates under the count at 38,400, or 94.91 percent, Brown said. More than 200 inmates were admitted Thursday, he said.

Robertson lays off 470 employees, blames Bakker for his problems

By ROBERT BARR
Associated Press

The Rev. Pat Robertson laid off nearly 500 employees Friday and pleaded for contributions with a sense of urgency which has become common among television ministers.

After the controversy of the Rev. Oral Roberts' do or die fund-raising appeal and Jim Bakker's fall from the PTL pulpit in a sexual and financial scandal, several of the biggest names in television religion have confessed problems in raising money.

The Rev. Jerry Falwell, the Rev. Jimmy Swaggart and the Rev. Robert Schuller have all felt the pinch, and Bakker complains from his Palm Springs home that money is his most pressing problem.

They haven't been shy about blaming each other.

Robertson, founder of the "700 Club" and a potential Republican candidate for president, announced Friday that he was laying off 470 of the more than 2,000 employees of his Christian Broadcasting Network.

Robertson said his network has lost $12 million through May and projected losses of $28 million for the year.

He blamed his problems on Bakker — "that scandal has hit the evangelical world like a bombshell" — and alluded to Bakker's much-publicized message that God would "call me home" if he didn't raise $8 million by the end of March.

"We had nothing to do with PTL. We had nothing to do with those other statements. We had absolutely nothing to do with any of it," Robertson said. "Yet it's costing us through this year $28 million."

Falwell, who announced Friday that his emergency appeal for $7 million for PTL in May came in $1.5 million over target, asked for contributors to give an additional $50 each.

Last week, he sent out a letter to supporters of his own "Old Time Gospel Hour," asking for help to cover a deficit of $4 million.

Falwell, an independent Baptist based in Lynchburg, Va., was asked by Bakker to take over the PTL ministry in March. Bakker since has feuded with Falwell and said he wants to return, but Falwell and the new PTL board have rebuffed those overtures.

Falwell has said contributions to his "Old Time Gospel Hour" started dropping just before the PTL scandal, when Roberts "climbed up into his prayer tower," referring to the tower in Tulsa, Okla., where Roberts prayed and fasted as his deadline approached.

Swaggart, the fire-and-brimstone evangelist from Baton Rouge, La., who had feuded publicly with Bakker, appealed to his supporters last week for more money.

"We must raise $5 million immediately or else most of the efforts of world evangelism will have to be seriously curtailed," he said in a letter obtained by the Lynchburg, Va., News & Advance.

"I firmly believe that Satan has engineered the PTL fiasco for one primary reason, and that is to destroy Jimmy Swaggart's ministries," the letter said.

In April, a month after Bakker's departure from PTL, Swaggart had said contributions to his ministry, which raised $142 million last year, had fallen by $2 million a month.

Fred Southard, vice president of finance for the Robert Schuller Ministries in Garden Grove, Calif., said PTL's problems had hurt all television ministries, but he said giving to Schuller's "Hour of Power" had declined slightly.

At the end of March, when the PTL and Roberts controversies hit the news, total giving was $9,451,875 versus $9,579,310 in 1986 — down 1.3 percent.

By the end of April, the total was $12,010,010 for 1987 compared to $12,401,040 in 1986, a decline of 3 percent. However, by May 19 the total had bounced back to about $13.5 million, compared to $13.9 million a year ago, or a 2.7 percent decline, Southard said.

"With God's help and the financial help of our donors, Dr. Schuller believes the 'Hour of Power' should be able to continue to bring the message of love, peace and grace of Jesus Christ into homes throughout the world," Southard said.

In Tulsa, Roberts was unavailable for comment on Friday. All queries were referred to spokeswoman Jan Dargatz, who was unavailable until Monday.

FAA wants carry-on baggage rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration imposed regulations Friday requiring airlines to limit carry-on baggage and make certain that items are properly stored before a jetliner leaves the boarding gate.

The agency said "too much baggage is being taken aboard some flights (and) being stowed improperly, creating unsafe conditions" because airlines have become "lax in their compliance" to existing baggage requirements.

Each airline within six months must establish a specific limit on how much carry-on baggage will be allowed and put into place a screening system before the passenger boards the aircraft, the agency said.

Flight attendants for years have complained that airlines allow too many bags and large items aboard aircraft, making it impossible to properly store them during flight and posing a safety hazard.

"We've seen truck tires, Christmas trees, even a drive shaft from a BMW and often passengers just bringing four or five bags on board which is not only unsafe but inconveniences the other passengers," said Matthew Finucane, safety director of the Association of Flight Attendants.

"Some passengers have evidently come to expect that they will be able to carry on almost anything," the FAA agreed.

While the new requirements do not establish specific limits on size and number of items that will be allowed on board, the FAA told the airlines they must:

— Establish their individual, government-approved limit on the size and number of items that may be brought aboard, depending on how much space is available in various aircraft. An FAA inspector must approve the limits for each type of plane.

— Scan each passenger's bags before boarding to assure that the limit

"We've seen truck tires, Christmas trees, even a drive shaft from a BMW..."

— Matthew Finucane, Association of Flight Attendants is not exceeded.

— Keep the aircraft at the gate and at least one cabin door open until flight attendants have confirmed that all baggage aboard the plane has been properly stored.

The FAA said it rejected recommendations from the Association of Flight Attendants that a single, federal limit on bags be imposed because different aircraft can accommodate a widely different amount of carry-on items.

But it said a specific standard, establishing the number of bags and size of each item, was needed so that flight attendants are not forced "to stow excess baggage in lavatories, galleys and other unauthorized areas."

The rulemaking for carry-on baggage, which began three years ago, prompted thousands of letters to the FAA from airlines, passengers, unions and other interested parties. Travelers in recent years have pressured airlines to allow them to carry more bags with them on the plane because of concerns that their belongings will be lost as their flights go through busy hub airports.

Airlines have sought to accommodate these travelers and in many cases have expanded cabin storage areas. The FAA said, however, that 90 percent of the letters it received favored tighter controls on carry-on bags.

There were critics, nevertheless. Jewelers and musicians complained that the limitations would hamper their business because they might not be able to carry sample cases or instruments with them.

The International Association of Duty-Free Shops, the City of Los Angeles and the State of Hawaii complained it would discourage people from buying duty-free items at airports. Airlines also argued that pre-boarding screening would add to delays.

But unions representing pilots and flight attendants countered that curbs on carry-on baggage were needed for safety and as an additional deterrent to hijacking.

"This rule will make it much less likely that passengers will be hit in the head by sewing machines or computer terminals during turbulence or crashes. It also makes it less likely that the aisles will be blocked by loose bags during an evacuation," said Finucane, the flight attendants union official.

Rev. Jesse Jackson

Jackson says he has never had affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, asked by reporters Friday whether he is involved in extramarital love affairs, said he is not romantically involved with women other than his wife.

The Democratic presidential hopeful, asked at a meeting with reporters whether he had any past involvements with other women while he was married, answered at one point:

"I'm saying that that question is a matter of my conscience and my family and my God, and that unless there is probable cause and all that goes with that, that issue should not be the centerpiece of my campaign or anybody's campaign," Jackson said.

The questions about Jackson's personal life were raised in the wake of the abrupt end of Gary Hart's campaign for the nomination amid questions about his relationship with a Miami model. Jackson was asked about "stories and rumors" about his personal life.

As reporters pressed Jackson about any past involvements, he was asked: "You said...that it is not a problem currently but you declined to answer whether it was a problem in the past."

"It has not been a problem in the past," Jackson replied.

He called questions about a candidate's private life a Catch-22 situation: "However you answer it, you almost condemn yourself by implication."

Jackson was asked whether he had a "Gary Hart problem" and whether any such problem could be a factor in his campaign?

"I don't think so," he answered. A reporter: "Defining a Gary Hart problem as someone who has been involved with other women outside his marriage..."

Jackson replied: "That is not a problem in my campaign, a problem in my family."

Asked if that meant there were no current affairs, Jackson said: "There is no such activity."

Asked again about rumors of past involvements, Jackson said, "I choose not to dignify the rumors." Moments later, he added: "I do not feel an obligation to answer that question."

The Democratic hopeful, who has not formally announced his candidacy, said that "there has to be a line drawn" about reporters' questions on candidates' personal lives.

"If national interest is involved, if national security is involved, it is a legitimate question. Beyond that, it appears to be an issue of sensational inquiry rather than one that has a legitimate foundation," he said. "Beyond national interest and national security, it is not your business."

Sunbathing weather in store

From Staff and Wire Reports

Midlanders may want to bask in temperate summer weekend weather with partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures predicted by the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Airport.

Today will be partly cloudy with a high in the mid-80s. Winds will be southeast at 10 to 15 mph.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a low in the lower 60s.

Sunday's forecast is identical to Saturday with the weather expected to be partly cloudy and a high in the mid-80s.

Friday's high of 79 degrees was 23 degrees cooler than the record high of 102 degrees set in 1974.

The overnight low of 62 degrees was 6 degrees warmer than the record low of 56 degrees in 1983.

STATE

A flash flood watch remained in effect through Friday for parts of South Texas as showers and thunderstorms continued to drench areas from the Coastal Bend and the Rio Grande Plains to the Big Bend region.

The rains, produced by a weak upper-level low and the remnants of a cold front, prompted the watch because the ground is already saturated from recent heavy rains, the National Weather Service said.

Skies remained cloudy over much of West Texas, the Rio Grande Plains, the deep South and much of the coast. Elsewhere, Texans enjoyed clear to partly cloudy skies.

The forecast calls for scattered showers continuing in the south Saturday, with partly cloudy and warm conditions elsewhere. Daytime highs should be in the 80s and lower 90s.

NATION

Several rivers across the nation were above flood stage Thursday, including the Nishabotna near Hamburg, Iowa; the Roanoke near Williamston, N.C.; the Washita at Anadarko and the Deep Fork at Beggs, in Oklahoma; and the Scioto in Marion County, Ohio.

Showers were scattered over northern Florida, and rain extended over the northern Pacific Coast.

Today's forecast called for rain and thunderstorms scattered over the northern Plateau and the Great Basin into the southern Plateau, thunderstorms, possibly severe, over the Great Lakes, the northern Rockies and the upper Missouri Valley, cloudy skies along the northern Pacific Coast and generally sunny skies elsewhere.

Texas Longhorns still alive

College World Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Kevin Garner singled home the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning and Lenny Bell drove in three runs with two game-tying homers Friday night as top-ranked Texas edged Oklahoma State 6-5 to remain alive in the College World Series.

Texas will play No. 2 Stanford on Saturday night, and the winner will face No. 3 Oklahoma State on Sunday night for the national championship. All three teams are 3-1 in the double-elimination tournament.

Stanford beat Louisiana State 6-5 in 10 innings in an elimination game earlier Friday.

Coby Kerlin started Texas' winning rally with a line drive triple off Marv Rockman, 12-1. The hit rolled to the fence after eluding left fielder Ray Ortiz, whose attempted shoestring catch failed.

Following two walks to load the bases, Garner pulled an 0-2 pitch from Mark Hudson into right field to score Kerlin.

The loss was the Rockman's first in 23 career decisions.

Mark Petkovsek, 15-2 and 2-0 in the tournament, pitched the final 1 1/2 innings for Texas, 61-10. He was the Longhorns' fifth pitcher.

Oklahoma State, 59-12, had runners in scoring position in each of the last three innings but failed to score.

Bell hit a solo home run in the fourth to tie the game 3-3 and added a two-run homer in the sixth after Oklahoma State had taken a 5-3 lead.

Bell's two homers, which gave him five for the season, tied a single-game College World Series record shared by 10 other players.

Oklahoma State's Adam Smith hit his 12th homer, a three-run shot, in the second.

The Cowboys knocked out Texas starting pitcher Garner in the sixth with RBI singles by Jimmy Barragan and Monty Fariss. After leaving the mound, Garner became the designated hitter.

Oklahoma State starter Tim Pugh walked the first two batters he faced. Scott Coolbaugh doubled home one run, and Mike Patrick's groundout scored another.

The Cowboys' Robin Ventura, playing for the first time since his NCAA-record 58-game hitting streak was snapped, went one for four.

The crowd of 15,411 was the second-largest in College World Series history.

Ventura, who had the longest hitting streak in college baseball history ended at 58 games on Thursday, now has a more important goal on his mind.

"It doesn't matter that my streak was broken because we're now playing for the national title," Ventura said after his 0-for-5 performance Thursday night when Oklahoma State defeated Stanford 6-2 on the eighth day of the College World Series and 1-for-4 against Texas.

Stanford 6, Louisiana St. 5 (10 innings)

Freshman Paul Carey hit a one-out grand slam in the bottom of the 10th inning, lifting Stanford to a victory that eliminated Louisiana State from the College World Series.

Craig Faulkner's three-run double with two out in the top of the 10th had given LSU a 5-2 lead. But two walks and a hit batsman loaded the bases and Carey, who was 2-for-13 in the tournament, hit an opposite-field homer to left on a 1-1 pitch from freshman Ben McDonald, 2-3.

Stanford's winning rally began with one out when Barry Manuel walked Ruben Armario and Toi Cook.

McDonald, LSU's fourth pitcher, entered the game and hit Ed Sprague with a pitch to bring up Carey, who hit his 12th home run.

Stanford's Steve Chitren, 8-3, pitched two-thirds of an inning and earned the victory despite allowing Faulkner's two-out double. It followed a single by Rob Hartwig and walks to Andy Galy and Dave Cunningham.

Stanford opened the scoring in the second inning against Stan Loefer on a single by Doug Robbins. Mark Macholtz's RBI triple and Frank Carey's run-scoring single.

LSU got one run back in the third when Hartwig singled with one out, stole second, went to third on a groundout and scored on Cunningham's single. The Tigers tied the game in the fourth against Stanford starter Brian Keyser when Jack Voigt singled, stole second, went to third on when the throw went into center field and scored on Faulkner's sacrifice fly.

El Paso Diablos halt Angels' winning streak at eight

Midland falls back into third place in TL West

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

Midland third baseman Joe Redfield made a routine play on Walt Pohle's grounder in the top of the fifth inning. He then threw away the out when his sidearm throw was wide of first baseman Stan Holmes. Or, so it seemed at the time.

Later, after examining a photograph of the play, it appears Holmes did make the tag on Pohle's right arm and that the error really belonged to first base umpire Henry Schwarz, who called Pohle safe on the play.

Normally, in a 9-2 ball game, one little error wouldn't mean that much. Not this time. Instead of one out and a runner on second, Midland starting pitcher Mike Romanovsky found himself in the middle of a Diablos rally that would break open a scoreless ball game.

After the error, Frank Mattox popped out to right field followed by Rob DeWolf's walk to load the bases. Todd Brown then hit a shallow pop fly to right field for what should have been the third out of the inning.

The Diablos took advantage of that ever deadly fourth out by plating seven runs, six of which were unearned for a 7-0 lead. The scoring started with Jesus Alfaro's single, a walk to Garrett Nago and RBI singles by Darryl Walters and Ernest Riles to chase Romanovsky.

Reliever Bryan Harvey, back from California after a brief stay in the Major Leagues, walked Mike Gobbo for the fifth run then gave up a two-RBI single to Pohle as the Diablos started back through the order. He was eventually gunned down trying to pick up an extra base on the throw from Damon Farmer in center field.

The Angels got back one run in Looking at the daily statistic sheet, it's surprising that Midland didn't add to its streak, considering the numbers on Diablos pitcher Mark Ambrose.

Going into the game, Ambrose was 0-3 on the road and 2-5 overall and owned a dismal 8.15 earned run average in 56-plus innings of duty. Friday, Ambrose went the distance to get the victory, allowing eight hits and two runs.

"He's a better pitcher than he's shown this year," said Oliveras. "Don't let his numbers fool you."

"I saw him throw last year and I liked him," said Angel pitching coach Chuck Hernandez. "He threw great against us last year at Palm Springs."

Romanovsky, who fell to 4-4 with the loss, hasn't had a great year either. About the only consolation he can take from his 4 1/2 innings Friday is the fact that his ERA fell to 5.58.

ANGEL NOTES — Tonight, El Paso will put Dan Murphy, 3-1, 6.10 ERA, on the mound against Midland's Barry Dacus, 3-3, 3.32. Dacus is ranked seventh in ERA on the TL stat sheet.

Midland first baseman Stan Holmes reaches back to tag El Paso's Walt Pohle in the fifth inning after taking a wide throw from Joe Redfield. Umpire Henry Schwarz said Pohle was safe.

Celtics in danger of being swept off feet

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics went into the NBA finals trying to become the first team to repeat as champions since 1969. Now, they find themselves in danger of becoming only the second defending champions to be swept in the finals.

The Los Angeles Lakers have been so dominating in the first two games of the best-of-seven series that the only thing looming positive for the Celtics is Boston Garden. Games 3 and 4 will be played there Sunday and Tuesday night.

"We know that Boston is strong," said Lakers guard Magic Johnson, who had just two turnovers in the first two games. "They don't have that outstanding home record for nothing. The fans can chant all they want."

Lendl, Wilander earn French finals

PARIS (AP) — Ivan Lendl and Mats Wilander scored straight-set victories Friday to reach the final of the French Open and guarantee that the men's title remains in familiar hands.

The top-seeded Lendl, the defending champion, relied on patience and power to defeat Miloslav Mecir, a fellow Czechoslovak and the tournament's fifth seed, 6-3, 6-3, 7-6.

It was a match that Lendl was never in danger of losing but one in which Mecir troubled him with long rallies and unorthodox shot selection.

"The match was very tough, even if it didn't look that way from the score," Lendl said. "I had to come out knowing I was going to do a lot of running. It was like sprinting for three hours."

The fourth-seeded Wilander, a two-time champion on the red shale courts at Roland Garros, showed off an all-around game on Center Court, rallying from early trouble to defeat second-seeded Boris Becker of West Germany 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

Becker had six break points to go up 5-2 in the first set before Wilander came alive, holding serve to pull to 3-4, then limiting Becker to five points in the next six games.

"He could have won the first set. I didn't play that well at the beginning," Wilander said. "I thought he would have started playing better after that game (the seventh), but he didn't."

Between them, Lendl and Wilander have won the title the past three years and four of the last five. They met for the championship two years ago, with Wilander winning 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Lendl leads their series 10-6.

Today, the women's championship will be decided in a battle of tennis generations.

Martina Navratilova, 30, goes for her 16th Grand Slam singles title and third at Paris against Steffi Graf of West Germany, at 17 in her first Grand Slam tournament final.

If she wins, Graf would be the youngest women's champion in French Open history.

Lendl and Mecir met for the title of the International Players Championships tournament in

Czech tennis star Ivan Lendl ...in the finals again

Key Biscayne, Fla., in February. Mecir won that match in straight sets, and Lendl decided that a knee that had been bothering him for some time was definitely in need of arthroscopic surgery.

The knee is in good shape now, and so is the top-ranked player's game. He showed that on a cloudy, blustery day to reach the tournament final for the fourth consecutive year.

Mecir, who lost to Lendl in a tournament in Hamburg, West Germany, in April, was even with Lendl in the opening set at 3-3 before the defending champion ran off six games in a row to close out the first set and move to 3-0 in the second. He held break point for 4-0 before Mecir held, then increased his lead to 5-1 on a service break marked by Lendl's zinging forehand volley and four errors by Mecir.

The fifth seed changed tactics in the next set and broke Lendl for 5-2. He also moved the crowd to boos.

Mecir started hitting long, soft groundstrokes and running Lendl from side to side.

"Hit it higher," one fan screamed in the midst of a long, tedious rally. Many in the crowd jeered.

But Mecir had a method. After exchanging moonballs in long rallies, Lendl would try to finish the point, and he usually hit it long or into the net.

Mecir held for 5-3 and staved off six set points before Lendl finally held his serve for the set on a backhand winner down the line.

Six of the first nine games of the third set were service breaks, with Mecir building a 5-3 lead on a long forehand when Lendl had him out of position.

Lendl then broke back, using a strong forehand but also taking speed off his shots to defuse Mecir's charge.

"He likes pace and I didn't give him any," Lendl said. "But he runs you around. You need to be in great shape."

Lendl was.

He broke and held twice to send the set to a tiebreaker, which he won 7-3, four of the points coming on Mecir errors, to wrap up the victory.

Wilander's run from near disaster to dominance against Becker was helped by errors by the West German but built upon play that contained elements of classic clay-court baselining and more rapid serve-and-volley tactics.

The Swede took the lead for good by holding serve at 15 for a 5-4 edge on groundstrokes.

A detailed black and white line drawing of a rose bush. It features several long, slender stems rising from the bottom. One stem has a large, open rose at the top, while another has a smaller, partially open bud. Several dark, serrated leaves are attached to the stems, showing detailed vein patterns. The drawing is positioned on the right side of the advertisement, partially overlapping the text area.

A detailed black and white line drawing of a rose bush. It features several long, slender stems rising from the bottom. One stem in the foreground has a large, fully bloomed rose with many petals, and another bud is just beginning to open. Several other buds are visible further up the stems. The leaves are large, oval-shaped, and have serrated edges. The entire illustration is rendered in a classic, detailed line-art style.

Morse staging surprise

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Cathy Morse, a marginal golfer on the women's tour for a decade, retained a one-shot lead in the $500,000 LPGA McDonald's Championship with a round of 70 in Friday's second round.

Morse, who captained the Miami, Fla., golf team in college, was at 6-under-par 136 for 36 holes, one shot ahead of upstart Sherri Steinhauer.

Steinhauer, who had to go back to qualifying school to make this year's tour, added a 2-under 69 to her opening 68 for a two-round total of 137.

Sherri Turner, another player seeking her first victory, was at 138, two strokes off the pace, after a 71.

Amy Alcott, who has won 26 tournaments in a 13-year career but none this year, was alone at 139 after a 71. She briefly got to four under on the front but gave the strokes back on the back.

Also in the hunt for the $75,000 first prize is Betsy King, the LPGA Tour's No. 2 money winner, who is at 140 after a 68 over the 6,366-yard DuPont Country Club course on Friday. She was joined at that figure by Shirley Furlong, Lauri Rinker, Lauri Garbacz, Barbara Mizrahi and Lauri Peterson. Furlong had the day's best round, a 67, while Rinker and Garbacz had 69s, Mizrahi a 71 and Peterson a 72.

Defending champion Juli Inkster shot a second-round par 71 to tie Rosie Jones, Alice Ritzman, Patti Rizzo and Marci Bozarth at 1-under 141. Jones had a 70, Ritzman a 72. Rizzo and Bozarth 73s.

Cindy Rarick, fifth on the money list this season, slumped to a 73 on Friday and was at 142 with Mitzi Edge, Jerilyn Britz, Allison Finney, Penny Pulz and Nancy Taylor. Edge had a 69, Britz and Taylor 71s, and Finney and Pulz 72s.

Morse described her round of 17 pars and one bird as "really boring."

"I had three putts that lipped out. I missed only one green."

On the 12th hole she experienced a 15-minute delay for a ruling on a ball lodged against a stake tree.

"I was allowed to drop the ball. The first time it landed on a cart path, so I dropped again. Then, it was still too close to the stake tree. So, I dropped it again."

Morse said she wasn't bothered by a lower back problem she has had since lifting a potted plant in her home some eight weeks ago.

"The back felt good. I had it treated last night (Thursday) for about 40 minutes with ultra sound. Oh, it gets sore but no painful feeling."

"Yes, I'll stop and see if she (a therapist) has time to work on me tonight."

Mets to sign 'Tom Terrific'

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets, whose pitching staff has been depleted by injuries, will sign former ace Tom Seaver today, the Associated Press has learned.

Seaver, currently a free agent and once known as "Tom Terrific" in the Big Apple, will return to the Mets for the third time in his career. The signing is expected to take place at 10:30 a.m. EDT, three hours before the Mets' game against Pittsburgh.

Seaver, 42, has a 311-205 lifetime record. He has not pitched since last August, when a knee injury finished his season with the Boston Red Sox.

The Mets began negotiating with Seaver last month after Bob Ojeda and David Cone were lost for the year with injuries and Rick Aguilera was sidelined for at least eight weeks.

Kemper Open

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Chris Perry, the son of former major-league pitcher Jim Perry, shot a 5-under-par 66 Friday to take the second-round lead in the $700,000 Kemper Open.

Play was suspended due to darkness with 48 players still on the course. Because play was stopped by rain Thursday, half the 156-man field had to complete the first round before the second 18 holes could get underway.

The second round was scheduled to be completed this morning.

Perry, whose previous best finish was a tie for 10th last October at the Walt Disney World-Oldsmobile Classic, was at 10-under-par 132 after 36 holes.

That was one stroke better than Howard Twitty, who shot a 67 to finish at 133. Kevin Clearwater shot a 66 and was at 134, while George Burns, who shot a 67, was at 136.

Doug Tewell, Scott Simpson, Jay Haas and Denny Hepler were next at 137.

"I was driving well and putting well, and that's what you have to do to win," said Perry, who has never led at the halfway point of a PGA tournament. "I'm sure I'll be a little nervous tomorrow, but I'm just going to try to go out and play the way I've been playing."

Perry, the 1984 Collegiate Player of the Year, had three birdies and an eagle and just missed a hole-in-one when his tee shot on the 136-yard 11th hole lipped the cup.

Eagle putt gives Crampton lead

DALLAS (AP) — Bruce Crampton parlayed an eagle putt and a magical sand wedge shot into a record 8-under par 64 Friday and a three-shot lead after the opening round of the $200,000 Senior Players ReUnion Pro-Am Tournament.

Crampton's score over the soggy 6,804-yard Par-72 Bent Tree Country Club bettered the tournament record of 65 held by Billy Casper and Peter Thomson.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, seeking his fourth consecutive victory, and John Brodie carded 5-under par 67s.

Rafe Batts and Harold Henning had 68s and Bob Charles, Bobby Nichols, Dave Hill and Orville Moody shot 69s.

"The conditions of both the weather and the course were ideal," Crampton said. "I wish I could bottle this day."

Crampton, a winner last week at Denver, sank a 20-foot putt for eagle and holed a 35-foot sand wedge for a birdie two on the eighth hole.

Quest for the Crown

Alysheba runs best when running with pack

By PHIL NORMAN
Copley News Service

ELMONT, N.Y. — Because he basically is a creature of the herd, Triple Crown candidate Alysheba prefers to run with the pack. Once he gets his head out in front, he is apt to put on the brakes, pull himself up.

This may be a problem confronting the Jack Van Berg stable Saturday when Alysheba shoots for racing immortality in the 119th Belmont Stakes.

Neither rider Chris McCarron nor trainer Van Berg expresses concern, but Alysheba's personal groom, John Cherry, Wednesday raised the issue as dead-end important to the outcome of the 1 1/4-mile race over sprawling Belmont's main track.

"Most people feel Alysheba likes to cut it close, make it interesting," said the soft-spoken Cherry. "But it's not nearly the case. The horse just likes to keep up."

Classic example of this equine peculiarity was demonstrated Wednesday just after daybreak when Alysheba came out on the Belmont track under exercise jockey Joe Petalino.

Sent into a gallop by the rider, Alysheba focused his eyes on a pair of morning glories (work horses) up ahead, or approximately 50 yards down track.

Suddenly an irrepressible urge consumed him, and Alysheba was off and running like a cannon shot. There was no holding him — not, anyway, until he had drawn even with the other horses and poked his nose out front.

"This is the nature of the horse," said Cherry, who eats and sleeps nearby, and stands in daily defense of his all-time favorite animal from midnight to 11:59 p.m.

"He is a very smart horse, and he has very good eyesight. He can pick up another horse two blocks distant."

STABLED IN Barn 33, on the outer edges of the Belmont Park backstretch, Alysheba seems oblivious to any problem. He seems more interested in playing around in his stall and nibbling on the ever-present shag of hay.

What will happen on today will happen. Alysheba seems capable of taking care of things when the inevitable intervenes.

Alysheba and practice rider Joe Petalino are on the Belmont track during a workout session for today's race for the Triple Crown.

But McCarron, who flew in Friday night for what may be a historic ride, will be given strict orders to keep his mount moving. Hustle him, no matter when he moves to the lead.

"I don't think he'll be in front any time before late stretch," said Cherry, who has mind-typed all of the colt's races since being appointed the horse's personal groom in February by Van Berg.

"He is never in front at the top of the stretch," said Cherry. "He never gets up until just before the wire. It is the way this horse runs. It is his style."

Hopefully for all of the Van Berg connections, including Midland, Texas owners Dorothy and Pamela Scharbauer, it will happen again the same as it did in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes. Hopefully, for Alysheba himself, it will occur just yards from the wire which is squarely in front of the huge Belmont grandstand and before a lot of people.

Hopefully, it will happen to the delight of millions of viewers who have not cheered a Triple Crown winner since Affirmed came pounding down nine years ago.

QUERIED AS to what may happen should Alysheba upset the works and assume command at the top of the stretch, Cherry replied:

"He never does that, never has I don't see him ever doing anything like that. This horse is very predictable."

Because of this peculiarity, and due to this herd-like instinct, Alysheba probably will not go down as a candidate for thoroughbred racing's sacrosanct hall of fame.

He will not win the 119th Belmont Stakes by 31 lengths, as Secretariat did in 1973.

Alysheba at no time will threaten the 2-24 world record for 1 1/4 miles Secretariat set on a hazy, 90-degree afternoon.

Superequine acts such as those seem beyond the scope of Alysheba's probabilities, as they were beyond the capabilities of all but one Triple Crown winner past.

Cancel the instincts, however, and who knows? Alysheba may be right up there with racing's elite.

Cherry, a mild-mannered little man from Lawrenceburg, Ind., remembers when Alysheba was a kind of rogue, a bad actor.

"He'd take hold of you, and let you know he didn't want to be bothered. But that is all gone now because of the operation."

SHORTLY AFTER running down track in a Santa Anita allowance last March, Alysheba was found to have a throat problem which hindered his breathing.

A veterinarian was called in, minor surgery performed and Alydar's son was down in front again as opposed to being up the track.

"He's got away from biting people," said Cherry. "He's mellowed at the age of three. He takes very good care of himself, and that is always the sign of intelligence."

Alysheba, standing tall at 16 hands, is a well-made animal, weighing in at approximately 1,100 pounds.

With a white star firmly implanted on his handsome forehead, Alysheba is a horse to remember.

THE ODDS — If he is successful today, the physical demands of the Triple Crown will have been no less for Alysheba than for the 11 who have won it already, as formidable and unforgiving as it was for Citation, Count Fleet and Assault.

The pressure of modern racing will have been greater than for most.

At birth, the natural odds against Alysheba were far greater. Alysheba was one of more than 50,000 thoroughbreds foaled in 1984, and that is twice the number born in Secretariat's year, 20 times the number in Whirlaway's.

Will Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Alysheba will try today to wear the Triple Crown. It didn't fit Pleasant Colony, who was the last to try it on in 1981.

It also was about two lengths too big for Alydar, Alysheba's sire. He finished second to Affirmed in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes by the respective margins of 1 1/4 lengths, a neck and a head.

But Alysheba is not the only story of Saturday's race.

There is the amazing string of trainer Woody Stephens, who has won the last five Belmonts and is going for a sixth with the entry of Gone West and Conquistador.

There is Jack Van Berg, Alysheba's trainer, and Chris McCarron, who came back from a crippling injury to ride him to victory in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

And, there is Bet Twice, the New Jersey-based colt who could become the Alydar of the '80s. He has already finished second to Alysheba in the Derby and Preakness.

If Alysheba overcomes his nine 3-year-old rivals and the 1 1/4 miles of the Belmont Stakes, he will become the 12th winner of the Triple Crown and first since Affirmed in 1978.

Alysheba also can become the 11th Derby and Preakness winner to win the Belmont.

A victory also will make him the second richest racehorse in history because of a $5 million guaranteed payment offered by Triple Crown Productions, Inc., to any horse who sweeps the three races.

"It's up to Chris McCarron and Alysheba now," said Van Berg, the Hall of Fame trainer who will turn 51 on Sunday.

"Jack definitely is the one to beat," said the 73-year-old Stephens, whose main hope is Gone West, who ran in neither the Derby nor Preakness.

Gone West won the Gotham Stakes at a mile, was second in the 1 1/4-mile Wood Memorial, then finished second to Leo Castelli in the 1 1/4-mile Peter Pan as Stephens ordered jockey Eddie Maple to hold him back, then let him come on in an effort to improve his ability to go a distance.

Van Berg has won almost 5,000 races, many of them at the smaller tracks and with less than top-level horses.

The son of a Hall of Fame trainer, the late Marion H. Van Berg, he cele-

Alysheba has chance at all-time money list

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

Whether Alysheba completes the hat trick of the Triple Crown today or not, Dorothy and Pam Scharbauer's colt has already taken the horse racing world by storm.

With a near lock on the inaugural $1 million bonus money to be awarded by Triple Crown Productions to the points winner of the three races, and chance at a total $5 million purse if he wins the Belmont, Alysheba would vault among the all-time money winning leaders.

Of course, the gelding John Henry, who won almost $6.6 million in a nine-year racing career is the leading equine money-winner of all-time. But Alysheba, at three-years-old and a $5.4 million winner with a Belmont victory, would stand a strong chance of surpassing John Henry.

But win or lose, the Scharbauers have no plans of retiring Alysheba. They enjoy watching him run — and win — too much.

"We hope to take him on into another year of racing, if he's still doing good and is sound," said Mrs. Scharbauer. "We don't intend to punish him. If there is the least little thing wrong with him, we won't race him."

But Alysheba has come through the first two legs of the Triple Crown in perfect health. Many race observers, such as veteran trainers Leroy Jolley and Walter Kelley, are impressed with the way Alysheba has remained sound through the grueling Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes, more sound than any in recent memory.

BARRING UNFORSEEN injury, Alysheba could be on the racing scene for quite a while.

Clarence Scharbauer Jr., the unofficial spokesman for the Scharbauer clan, ticks off the names of upcoming stakes races the colt is expected to run in. Alysheba's belt. The Travers Stakes in Saratoga, N.Y., the Super Derby at Louisiana Downs, the Jockey Club Gold Cup back at Belmont and then the Breeder's Cup at Santa Anita in November are all penciled in as possibilities on Alysheba's agenda.

Jerry Mennenga/Reporter-Telegram

A big part of Alysheba's total career earnings came from this race last month, the Kentucky Derby.

Each is at least a $1 million stakes race and an Alysheba win in any will further push him toward the top as the biggest money-winner in history.

"We're probably not going to race in all four, but maybe one or two of 'em if he's sound," Scharbauer said.

"We buy these horses to race and enjoy," he continued. "If he's still sound, we may race him as a four-year old next year. Too many of these Derby or Preakness winners retire right after winning. A lot of people have told me it is great for horse racing when people take a horse and keep running him as an older horse."

"BUT WITH a race horse, you have to take it one race at a time and do what's best for the horse after seeing how he gets through that race."

While Alysheba's future as a racer seems secure, eventually will settle into life as a stallion, scattering off-spring in stables around the country, and perhaps siring a Derby winner of his own.

And that's where the already astronomical figures become mind-boggling. Speculation has pushed the price of Alysheba's worth as a stallion as high as $20-30 million when he is eventually put to stud.

The Crown fit Alysheba

in 1978. He became the fifth winner to lose in the Kentucky Derby.

McCarroll will be trying to become the second jockey to win four straight Triple Crown races. He was in the irons last year when Danzig Connection gave Stephens his fifth consecutive Belmont.

The only other jockey to have won four straight Triple Crown races was Ron Turcotte, who won the 1972 Belmont with Riva Ridge, then rode Secretariat to the Triple Crown in 1973.

But Twice can join Alydar as only horse to finish second in all three Triple Crown races. He was beaten by three-quarters of a length in the 1 1/4-mile Derby and by one-half length in the Preakness.

Then there is Gulch, the "I Love New York" horse. The colt, who finished sixth in the Derby and fourth in the Preakness, has won eight of nine starts in New York and all four of his races at Belmont Park, including the Metropolitan Mile May 25 against older horses.

Gulch will run as part of a LeRoy Jolley-trained entry with Leo Castelli, who finished seventh the Derby, then won the Peter Pan May 24 at Belmont. Also back for another shot at Alysheba will be Cryptoclearance, who was fourth in the Derby and third in the Preakness, and Avies Copy, who finished third in the Derby and fifth in the Preakness, then won the Jersey Derby May 25 at Garden State Park.

Shawklit Won, who finished 11th in the Kentucky Derby, and longshot Manassa Jack, who made his debut in Triple Crown competition, complete the field.

Post time for the classic at Belmont Park will be 5:33 p.m. EDT. ABC will televise from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Partly sunny weather with temperatures from 75 to 80 was forecast.

With 10 starters, each carrying 126 pounds, the Belmont will be worth $553,600, with $332,160 to the winner.

The guaranteed $5 million payment, which includes winning purses of all three races (a total of $1,371,160), would give Alysheba career earnings of $5,423,026. John Henry, a gelding who retired at age 9, is all-time leader with earnings of $6,597,947.

Alysheba can lose and still earn a $1 million bonus from Triple Crown Productions based on most points earned by horses who run in all three races. The points are awarded on the basis of 5 for first, 3 for second and 1 for third.

But Twice, with 6 points, is the only contender for the bonus. He can win it if Alysheba finishes worse than third. If Bet Twice wins and Alysheba finished third, they would share the bonus with 11 points each.

Stephens feels Conquistador, a winner only once (Feb. 4 in allowance company) in eight starts this year, is a superior mudder and could be a factor if there is an off track Saturday.

Stephens said he is impressed by Alysheba.

"I'll bet the exacta (1-2 finishers) both ways with Van Berg's horse after what I saw him do in the Derby," he said. "He (almost) fell down, got up again and still won."

There also is the controversial Lasix factor surrounding the Belmont.

Alysheba ran on the anti-bleeding medication in his past four races, but the drug is not permitted in New York.

Van Berg said the medication was used as a precautionary move after the his colt underwent throat surgery March 24 to correct a breathing problem.

Alysheba ready for place in history

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

JAMAICA, N.Y. — Alysheba is ready to take his place in history. The three-year-old colt owned by Dorothy and Pam Scharbauer of Midland knows he is on the verge of greatness, according to his veteran trainer Jack Van Berg.

And with a victory in today's Belmont Stakes, the final leg of the coveted Triple Crown of horse racing, Alysheba will have earned the legendary status he deserves, says Clarence Scharbauer, Jr.

"If Alysheba wins this race he'll be recognized as one of the great three-year-olds of his time," Scharbauer said as he watched the final races of the day at Belmont Race Track. "Every year they talk about how it's a bad year for three-year olds. And around here everyone talks about his winning in slow times and he doesn't win by a big enough margin. But the racing public is pulling for a Triple Crown winner. I hope Alysheba is it."

So does Van Berg, who has been training horses for 35 years, and has his first winner in a Triple Crown race in Alysheba.

"This horse knows he has won two races — and he thinks he won the Bluegrass, too. He doesn't know they took his number down," Van Berg said of his disqualification in the Blue Grass Stakes in April.

Alysheba, a $500,000 purchase in 1985, has been the center of attention all week as he attempts to become history's 12 Triple Crown winner, and its richest. A $5 million total purse will be awarded to Mrs. Scharbauer and daughter if Alysheba becomes the first Triple Crown winner since Affirmed in 1978.

But despite the public's perceived wish for a new Triple Crown horse, Alysheba has drawn as much scorn as admiration in the local media.

He has not set the track afire in either of his latest wins, or won by impressive margins. He has not scared off the opposition as a 10-horse field is expected today. And, he will not be allowed to race on Lasix, an anti-bleeding medication used as a precautionary measure from an earlier throat operation.

And, most significantly in this particular race, he is not a Woody Stephens mount, or even a New York horse.

Stephens has trained the previous five Belmont winners, 11 straight years a New York based horse has won this race and 18 of the last 20.

"Five of anything should be enough for one man," Scharbauer says affectionately of his biggest Belmont rival.

But Alysheba seems immune to all the fuss, preening for the photographers and nipping those that might get too close.

"Nothing bothers him," Van Berg says. "His nervous system is the best there is."

Van Berg likens Alysheba's disposition before a race to that of a boxer as he enters the ring.

"Going into the stall for the Preakness, he looked like Muhammad Ali going into the ring," Van Berg said as he held his daily meeting with the media. "He looked like a bearcat walking around the barn. Or what they call in my part of the country, 'The cock of the walk.' He knows when he is going to run."

Alysheba put in a solid mile-and-a-half jog Friday morning and will "blow-out" for three-sixteenths of a mile before the race this morning.

Track conditions improved dramatically by the close of the racing day Friday with clear, sunny skies and a good breeze. Van Berg expected a lightning fast track for today's 4:33 CDT post time.

"It doesn't matter what the track is like, he can run on a hard or soft track or in the mud," Scharbauer said. "That's what's nice about the great ones, you don't have to carry around your own track."

Van Berg agreed and added the speed, or lack of it in the 10-horse field, is also of little consequence.

"Alysheba's a very versatile horse — he can do anything you want him to do," Van Berg said. "You're vulnerable if your horse has to have the lead, or has to have a slow pace or a fast pace."

"We've got an advantage because (Alysheba) will do whatever you ask of him."

Today, the Scharbauers, well-wishers from Midland and the racing public, will ask him to be a champion.

BELMONT NOTES: Track officials expect in excess of 60,000 people for Alysheba's runs at the Triple Crown. The last time the Belmont Stakes topped that mark was in 1981 when Pleasant Colony failed to notch the trifecta.

Alysheba jockey Chris McCarron is gunning for his fourth straight win in a Triple Crown race. McCarron rode Woody Stephens' fifth straight Belmont winner in 1986, Danzig Connection.

ERIC SCHURER

Alysheba loved by everyone, almost

NEW YORK — The betting windows opened for today's 119th running of the Belmont Stakes on Friday.

The early money showed the three-year-old colt of Dorothy and Pam Scharbauer an overwhelming public favorite to capture horse racing's first Triple Crown since 1978.

Of slightly more than $46,000 bet at Belmont Race Track and at other in-house windows in New York state,

Schurer

$40,000 was put on Alysheba. To win. In racer's parlance, that's 1-9 odds. Translated, that means the fleetest colt that has captured the imaginations of Midlanders would pay $2.10 for every $2.00 wagered. Not exactly the backbone of anyone's get-rich quick scheme.

Except, of course, for the Scharbauers who stand to pocket a quick $5 million in purse money from the three wins.

No one expects this one-sided tilt tilting to continue when more than 60,000 racing fans cram Belmont Park today, however. At least not in such dramatic fashion. Most observers set the final line at about 3-1, or $6 for every $2 risked.

But the early money shows what Dorothy and Clarence Scharbauer Jr. have hinted at all along, this horse is America's horse, about to accomplish an American dream for an ideally American family.

But there is a small pocket of dissenters amidst the horse-smart set of this metropolis. There is a distinct, if nagging voice, crying above the din of accolades and ceremony recently being bestowed upon this winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness Stakes.

The voice is calling Alysheba a media concoction, if not an outright farce. He has beaten ragged fields in unusual circumstances on medication that is disallowed in the state of New York.

Beyond that, they don't believe he has the spirit to succeed Affirmed as a Triple Crown caliber horse.

These voices seem to come primarily from local scribes, hardened presumably by outsiders profound inability to win this one-and-a-half mile marathon of a horse race, and giddy with local trainer Woody Stephens' remarkable achievement of five straight Belmont wins.

But the cries are heard, and strike home an opinion shared by many in this uprightly provincial city. I've heard of Yankee cynicism, but come on.

Seemingly objective out-of-town writers are calling for Alysheba's coronation. A win going away, as many as 10 lengths one respected West Coast nag man said. Another, from a different area and with different interests, agreed.

Another, perhaps uneducated, perhaps biased opinion is this: Alysheba, for all its heart, for all its ability, for all its aplomb under fire, should win. There are nine other entries and a handful of nay-saying New Yorkers that hope he doesn't.

"But that's what makes a horse race," says Clarence Scharbauer, Jr.

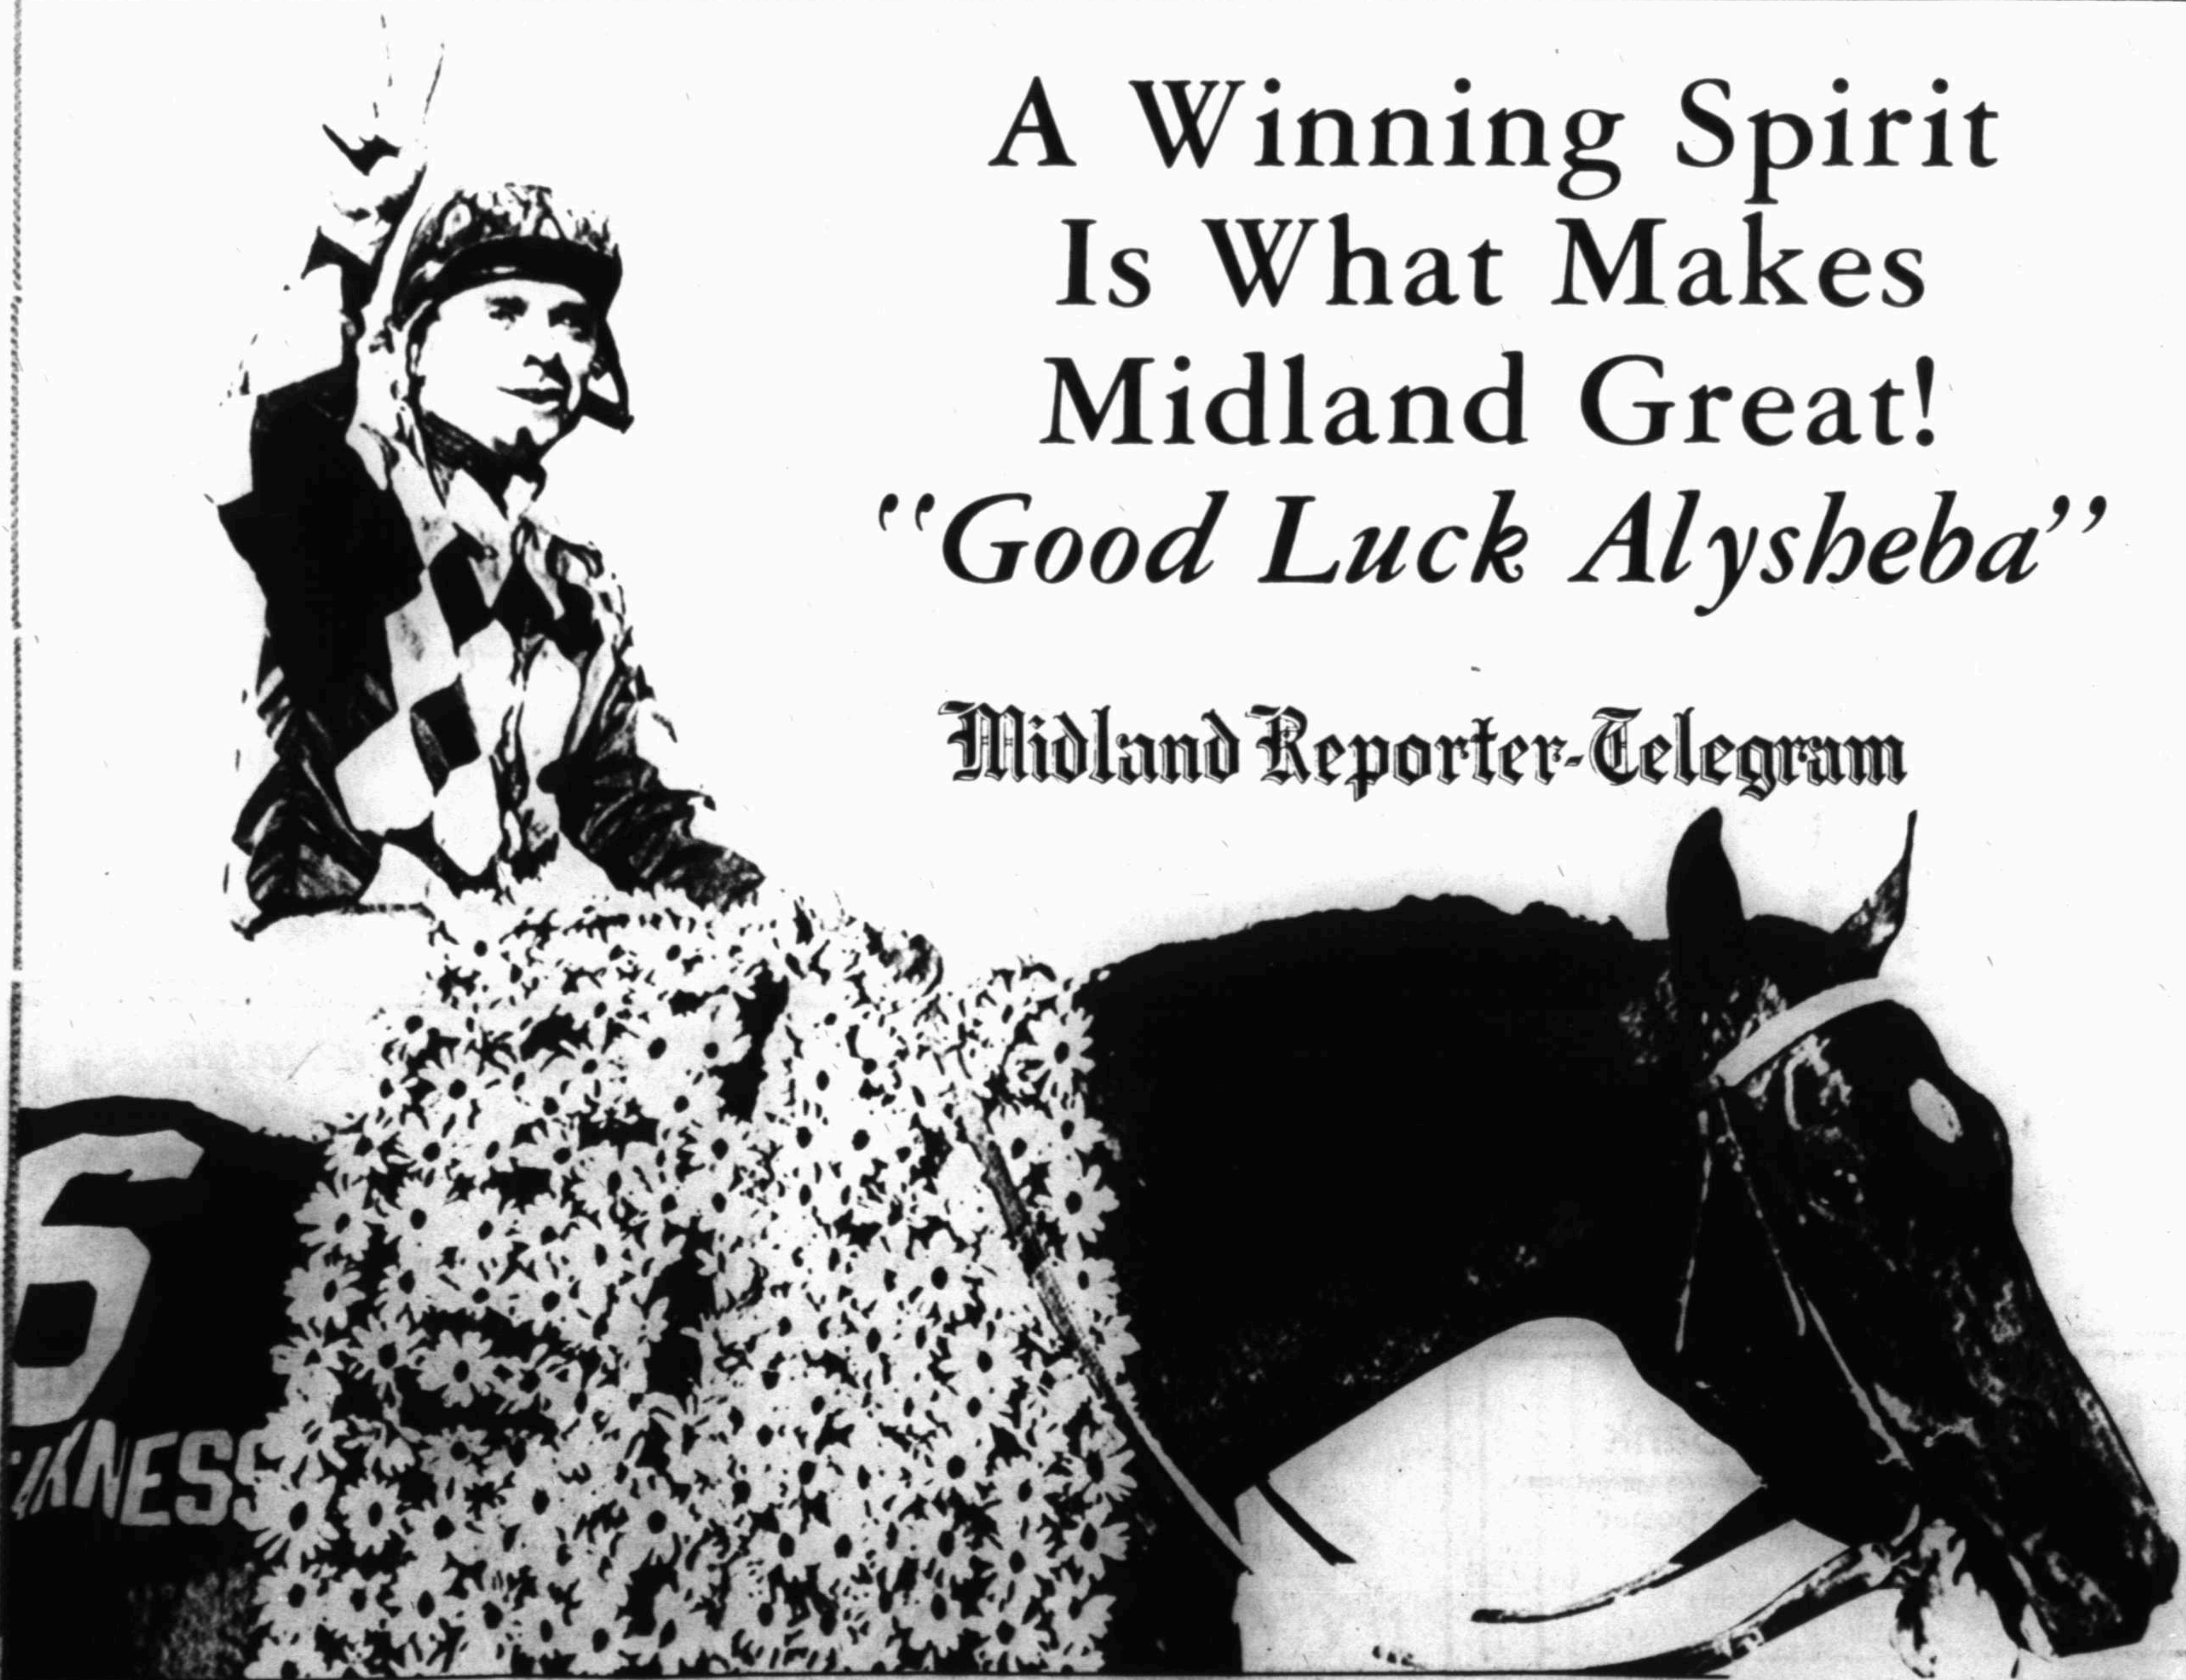

Eric Schurer is a sports writer for the Midland Reporter-Telegram.

A Winning Spirit Is What Makes Midland Great! "Good Luck Alysheba"

Midland Reporter-Telegram

Big races falling for McCarron

By JACK DISNEY
Hearst News Service

LOS ANGELES - The 32-year-old jockey's ever-brilliant career had been tempered for years by a failure to win very many prestigious races. Fate, however, has closed with a rush.

Not only did Chris McCarron flawlessly ride Alysheba to victory in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness last month, but half-day visits to the San Francisco Bay Area netted $300,000 and $150,000 stakes wins.

And McCarron was victorious in one of about every four races he found time to ride at Hollywood Park. "May had to be the greatest month of my career," he recently remarked. "I only wish the Belmont Stakes was in May, too."

On the first Saturday in June, Chris was nevertheless supremely confident he could win the Belmont with Alysheba. He thus would become the first rider since Steve Cauthen aboard Affirmed in 1978 to complete the Triple Crown.

It appeared inevitable that one day these major stakes would begin falling to McCarron, and now they're collapsing like dominoes. McCarron, in fact, is working on a string of three Triple Crown victories. He rode Danzig Connection to victory for Woody Stephens in last year's Belmont.

IN HIS 14th year as a professional, McCarron - who won a record 564 races plus an Eclipse Award when an 18-year-old apprentice - has the jewels to complement his regal standing.

They say it is his uncommon strength, more than anything, that keeps Laffit Pincay among the jockey elite. Bill Shoemaker's velvet touch is said to be his continuing link with greatness.

Chris McCarron? He often seems to beat the competition by a head - his own. No rider appears to be so consistent at positioning his horses in just the right place during the course of a race.

And that is hardly by chance. McCarron was seated in a corner of that private preserve called the jockeys' room the other day when a question sent his pale blue eyes darting around the room.

"Well," he replied, "that I really don't know because, you see, we don't discuss those things among ourselves."

He had been asked about the cerebral side of riding. Do other jockeys study each upcoming race in such fine detail as he?

"I'd have to think the others study the sport," McCarron said. "Just about all the riders you see consistently near the top probably are very good students of the game."

But there may be no more astute student among the jockey colony than the curly-haired redhead from Dorchester, Mass., although he can't remember ever taking an IQ test, and his marks in school, which didn't extend beyond the 12th grade, were not exceptional.

"I knew in high school that I wanted to give the racetrack a go because my older brother, Gregg, was riding at the time, and he got me a job at Rockingham Park between my junior and senior years in high school."

"When I went back to school for my senior year, I couldn't wait until it was over. What fair grades I'd had up until then went down the chute my last year. I wasn't hitting the books at all. I was thinking about horses."

McCARRON, HIS wife Judy and their daughters, Erin, Stephanie and Kristin, now live in the Los Angeles area.

"My lifestyle hasn't really changed," said the rider whose mounts over 14 years have earned in excess of $90 million.

"It's just that my career is so lucrative I am able to afford just about any luxury I want. But that doesn't necessarily mean I go out and buy everything I want. I do have a lot of things - material possessions - but I don't think they have changed me a great deal."

You would certainly have to search to find a jockey who is brighter and more articulate than McCarron.

McCarron said he might forget if Judy asked him to bring an added something home for dinner. But he wouldn't have forgotten that a fellow jockey's mount in the next race had taken to lugging out the last time he ran.

HIS PERSONAL copy of The Daily Racing Form is color-coded to denote the studied tendencies and the peculiarities of his and the opposing horses. He studies the replays of each race no less than three times.

The first time, McCarron tends to eavesdrop as well. "The first replay I watch is right here in the jockeys' room," he said, "and I keep my ears open for any conversation, say, about somebody having had some trouble. I'll try to pick out what caused the trouble, how much trouble it was and what I think it might have cost that particular horse."

That's Chris McCarron, The Thinking Man's Rider.

Critics - and the cynics are rife in a game in which losers far outnumber winners - feel McCarron can get too cutsey at times. They say he sometimes seems more concerned with another horse than his own.

Sometimes, he allowed, you can think too much on the racetrack. Indeed, McCarron said, he has "sort of cut back" on his pre-race analyses in recent years.

"There was a time when I got into this in even greater detail," he said. "But I sometimes found it to be more of a hindrance than anything else. I would clutter my mind with all those things."

"I'll give you an example. Say, I saw a horse I had ridden against the time before, and he had tried to get out real badly down the backstretch. Now I'm on a horse with a post position outside of him. Well, I'd be inclined to let that horse go and not get outside of him. But if you're going to get into that detailed of a study, you have to go one step further and know just what sort of equipment the horse runs in.

"For instance, if the horse tried to run out last time, his jock probably informed the trainer afterward. Therefore, the trainer will change the bit and maybe put an extension blinker on the horse. If I'm not aware of this and take my horse back in anticipation of what my study shows might happen, I'm in a bit of a bind if that horse doesn't run out with the corrective equipment."

"That's an example of what can happen to you when you try to get too fine."

A THINKING Man's Rider, in other words, has to think when not to think too much. But McCarron's smarts clearly have served him well over the years. "I'm sure the extra study has helped me to become a better rider," he said.

McCarron is in such demand these days that sometimes he occasionally feels the success he has bred is tugging for control of his life. And, to think, he didn't resume riding horses until mid-March after spending five idle months recuperating from a broken leg, wondering when or if his career might ever take off again.

"Essentially, I think the more in demand an individual becomes," he said, "the more say-so he has in what can happen to him. I think that's kind of automatic. I would have been foolish to say no to the opportunities that have kept coming up for me to go out of town to ride in big stakes on big horses. I'm still in control, but, by the same token, the opportunities are really dictating to me what I should do in order to improve myself and better my career."

In racing today, that sort of paradox can't be overcome, McCarron suggested.

"Nowadays, there are so many competitive riders here and throughout the country that I don't think you'll ever reach a point where you would have almost complete control," he said.

"I think there have been one or maybe two individuals who ever had even an opportunity to experience that. They would have been Shoe and Eddie Arcaro. At one point in time, everybody wanted them to ride their horses. I'm told that Don Pierce likes to say that whenever he was riding a horse that could really run, he would never let the horse win by too great a margin. Because if the horse did, Shoemaker would be on him next time."

"At one time, Shoe had a great deal of control over who he would ride, when and where. The same thing, I'm told, was true with Arcaro. But I don't think that could happen now because it's so competitive among so many riders who are coming from all over the world. It's more a melting pot now, and a very talented one."

During an interview in 1983, McCarron said the best horse he ever had ridden was Lemhi Gold. This was a good horse, but an unlikely candidate for thoroughbred immortality.

The most prestigious race he had won might have been the Jockey Club Gold Cup. Then again, it might have been the Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park. Or perhaps the Del Mar Invitational. But they didn't get any more steeped in racing lore than those races.

HIS RATIO of stakes wins did not at all jive with the fact that McCarron already had won two Eclipse Awards, two annual earnings titles plus a couple for total victories.

The big horses simply were slow in moving his way. But Chris, the position rider, was patient. "The way my business was going from year to year," he said, "it really wasn't hard to predict that I'd be in a position to be on a horse that would have a good chance to win the Kentucky Derby."

But only in the last few years did the big horses begin to point toward Alysheba. First, there was Glorious Song, then Precisionist and Turkoman. And, of course, there was John Henry.

"I find it difficult to compare Alysheba with any of the others yet," said McCarron. "He's still a young 3-year-old, but I think he is the best 3-year-old I've ever ridden."

"Precisionist got good when he was 4. He was a good 3-year-old, but got even better at 4. Same with Turkoman. I can only hope that this horse does the same thing. If he keeps getting better, he's got one heckuva career ahead of him because he has a lot of talent."

McCarron got the mount on Alysheba when Pat Day, the colt's previous rider, opted to sit on Demon's Begone in the Kentucky Derby.

Until McCarron climbed aboard Alysheba, the Triple Crown aspirant had won only a maiden race at a relatively small track outside of Cincinnati.

"Well, I kind of fell into it," recounted McCarron. "They had just fixed the horse's throat with surgery, and I think that made the biggest difference."

Gooden wins first outing

Associated Press

Dwight Gooden, making his first major-league start since cocaine rehabilitation, pitched four-hit ball for 6½ innings Friday night and led the charged-up New York Mets past the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-1.

Throwing freely and easily, Gooden gave the noisy sellout crowd of 51,402 what it came to see.

He powered strike three past Barry Bonds leading off the game and showed a good fastball and sharp-breaking curve.

Gooden struck out five, walked four and did not allow a hit until Andy Van Slyke's soft fly dropped in front of late-breaking right fielder Darryl Strawberry in the third for a single. Gooden threw 121 pitches, 75 for strikes.

He was showered with a standing ovation when he took the mound to start the game — there were no boos — and he pawed at the rubber while the cheers continued. He tipped his cap in tribute to the fans and to the dozens of banners welcoming him back to Shea Stadium, and then went to work.

Once he started, he did not appear nervous and seemed unaffected from his long layoff and 28-day stay in a drug treatment center that ended April 28.

There had been much debate among top management about when, where and against whom Gooden should make his first start. That planning paid off as he looked comfortable at home and improved his career record to 7-0 against Pittsburgh, the only major-league team that has never beaten him, and 35-7 at Shea.

The Mets, who have struggled minus their silent leader, seemed equally excited about his return. They scored two runs in the first inning, aided by a pair of Pittsburgh errors, and made two stellar defensive plays to keep Gooden ahead.

Gooden left the mound to another standing ovation, and acknowledged the cheers by waving his cap. The loud applause continued and did not subside until Gooden emerged from the dugout for a curtain call. Among the crowd, the largest for a regular-season game at Shea since Sept. 11, 1985, was his mother.

Overshadowed by Gooden's comeback was Pirates starter Mike Dunne, who did well in his major-league debut. Dunne, who was leading the Pacific Coast League with a 1.76 ERA when called up, allowed three runs, only one of them earned, on four hits in six innings.

Astros 6, Giants 1

Mike Scott, who had to leave his last start with back spasms, allowed two hits in seven innings, struck out 13 and retired the last 19 batters he faced.

Scott, who suffered back spasms and was removed after five innings on May 29 against St. Louis, gave up singles to Chris Speier and Will Clark, with Speier taking third, to start the game.

After Jeffrey Leonard struck out, Scott's wild pitch allowed Speier to score the Giants' only run. After Candy Maldonado popped out, Scott walked Chili Davis before Bob Melvin flied to left.

The Giants did not get another baserunner against Scott, who struck out the side in the fifth and seventh innings and had two strikeouts in the second, third and fourth innings.

Larry Anderson pitched the final two innings for the Astros and allowed a single by Leonard.

Scott's last victory over San Francisco came on Sept. 25 when his first career no-hitter gave the Astros the 1986 West Division title.

The Astros went ahead in the third when rookie Chuck Jackson, making his only second major-league start, singled, was sacrificed to second by Scott and scored on Billy Hatcher's single off Mike Krukow, 1-6.

Hatcher took second on the throw home, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Bill Doran's sacrifice fly.

Jackson's ground-rule double in the fourth inning scored Alan Ashby and the Astros added two more runs in the fifth on RBI singles by Denny Walling and Kevin Bass.

Doran's double and Walling's second run-scoring single in the seventh completed the Astros' scoring. Speier was ejected in the second inning after disputing a called third strike by umpire Joe West.

Cardinals 5, Cubs 1

Greg Mathews pitched a two-hitter over 7½ innings

National League

and John Morris singled in two runs to lead the Cardinals.

A crowd of 36,818 — many of the fans making the trip from St. Louis — saw the Cardinals increase their lead to three games over Chicago in the National League East with their second straight victory over the Cubs.

Mathews, 34, struck out six and walked four. He was recalled from Class AAA Louisville on May 30. Todd Worrell finished the game for the Cardinals.

Scott Sanderson, 32, fanned 10 batters — one shy of his career high against the Mets in 1982 — but he allowed 11 hits in 5½ innings. Eight consecutive St. Louis outs from the second to the fourth inning were strikeouts.

On a day when winds were blowing in toward the plate, sometimes at 20 mph, Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Jody Davis doubled home Bob Dernier, who led off the game with a walk and stole second.

St. Louis tied the score 1-1 in the fourth when Tony Pena tripled under the glove of a diving Dernier in center field and Morris singled.

In the sixth, singles by Terry Pendleton, Pena and Morris put St. Louis ahead.

With two outs in the eighth, Mathews and Vince Coleman walked off reliever Drew Hall. Third baseman Keith Moreland misplayed Ozzie Smith's grounder, allowing Mathews to score and Tom Herr and Jack Clark followed with run-scoring singles for a 5-1 lead.

Padres 10, Braves 3

Eric Show pitched a five-hitter for his seventh straight victory over Atlanta and Tony Gwynn and Bruce Bochy homered San Diego snapped a three-game losing streak.

Show improved his lifetime record against the Braves to 9-1, including a 4-0 mark at Atlanta Stadium. Show, 27, snapped a personal six-game losing streak with the victory. He walked five and struck out four.

Gwynn, who entered the game with 10 hits in his last 14 at-bats, hit his fourth homer of the season over the right-field fence in the first inning and singled twice.

Bochy hit his second homer of the season over the left-field fence in the fourth, scoring John Kruk, who had singled. Marvell Wynne doubled and scored on Kruk's single in the seventh.

The Padres scored six runs in the eighth against reliever Jim Acker on a bases-loaded walk to pinch-hitter James Steels, Gwynn's RBI single, a two-run single by Kruk and an error by shortstop Andres Thomas allowing two runs to score.

Kruk had four singles in five at-bats and drove in three runs.

Reds 8, Dodgers 6

Eric Davis, hitless in his last 17 at bats, hit a two-out three-run homer in the seventh inning as the Cincinnati Reds rallied from a 6-0 deficit.

With the Reds trailing 6-5, Davis hit an 0-1 pitch from Ken Howell, 2-2, over the right-field wall for his 20th homer of the season, tops in the major leagues.

Guy Hoffman, 4-1, the third Cincinnati pitcher, got the win. John Franco pitched the ninth for his 12th save.

The Dodgers took a 6-0 lead after four innings. Steve Sax singled off Bill Gullickson to open the game, stole second and scored on John Shelby's double. Shelby went to third on a passed ball and scored on Pedro Guerrero's sacrifice fly.

The Dodgers made it 5-0 in the third when pitcher Rick Honeycutt singled, Sax homered, Guerrero and Mike Marshall singled and Franklin Stubbs hit an RBI double, chasing Gullickson.

Phillies 7, Expos 6

Von Hayes hit his second home run of the game to snap a seventh-inning tie.

The Phillies took a 6-4 lead on a two-run homer by Rick Schu in the sixth but Tim Wallach's two-run homer in the seventh tied the score, 6-6.

Hayes led off the bottom of the inning with his fifth homer, a drive into the right-field seats off reliever Andy McGaffigan, 0-1.

O'Brien's slam sinks Twins

Associated Press

Pete O'Brien hit two home runs, including his first career grand slam, and tied a club record with seven RBI Friday, leading the Texas Rangers over Minnesota 15-9 and extending the Twins' losing streak to three.

Greg Harris, 24, making his first start since September 24, 1984, when he was San Diego, allowed seven hits over five innings for the victory. Bert Blyleven, 45, allowed five runs on six hits, including two homes over three innings.

Texas, who had 20-hits in a 14-3 victory over Chicago Wednesday, had 17 hits and 10 walks off four Minnesota pitchers.

O'Brien hit a 3-0 pitch to right center field off reliever Mark Portugal for his grand slam in the sixth inning, giving Texas an 11-1 lead. He added a two-run homer in the first and an RBI single in the third.

O'Brien, who hit his 12th and 13th homers of the year, tied Larry Parrish's single game RBI mark set on July 4, 1982.

Steve Buechele also hit a solo home run, two doubles and scored three runs for Texas. Ruben Sierra knocked in two runs with two hits and scored four runs, and Oddibe McDowell drove in two runs with a solo homer and a single. Pete Incaviglia's two-run double highlighted a four-run Texas seventh inning.

Texas took a 3-0 lead in the first on an RBI double by Sierra and O'Brien's first homer. McDowell's made it 4-0 in the second with his homer and O'Brien hit an RBI grounder in the third for a 5-0 lead.

The Rangers added single runs in the fourth and fifth before Tom Brunansky doubled in the Twins' fifth and two outs later Dan Gladden doubled for Minnesota's first run.

Minnesota scored five runs in the seventh inning on a two-run single by Al Newman and a three-run home run by Roy Smalley, his third, cutting the Texas lead to 15-8. With Smalley's homer, the Twins have hit homered in 12 consecutive games.

Yankees 13, Brewers 1

Tommy John pitched a six-hitter over seven innings and Rick Cerone and Dave Winfield both homered, ending Brewers' six-game winning streak.

Winfield drove in three runs with his 12th homer and two doubles and Cerone and Willie Randolph had two RBIs each in a 15-hit attack.

Cerone began a five-run fourth with his first homer and then had a single and run-scoring sacrifice fly in a six-run fifth.

John, 61, struck out two and did not walk a batter as the Yankees won without injured stars Don Mattingly, who was sent back to New York to have a sore back examined, and Ricky Henderson, who was placed on the 15-day disabled list with a sore hamstring. Pat Clements pitched the final two innings.

Milwaukee starter Juan Nieves, 4-3, left in the fourth when he was hit on the right knee by a line drive by Ron Kittle. X-rays were negative and the injury was diagnosed as a bruise to the inside of the knee.

Nieves gave up five runs on six hits in 3½ innings. The Yankees pounded reliever John Henry Johnson for seven runs on seven hits in ½-inning.

Winfield hit an RBI double in the first and Cerone added his homer to lead off the fourth to give New York a 2-0 lead.

Nieves retired the next two batters but Randolph walked. Gary Ward singled and Kittle's liner ricocheted off Nieves into foul territory and scored Randolph.

Winfield doubled in another run and he and Kittle scored as Dale Sveum threw Mike Pagliarulo's infield single past first base for a 6-0 lead.

Blue Jays 6, Orioles 2

Jimmy Key pitched a five-hitter and George Bell, Cecil Fielder and Jesse Barfield all homered as Toronto won its third straight victory.

Key, 7-3, struck out six and walked three for his third complete game. It was Key's first victory over Baltimore since Aug. 5, 1984.

Baltimore rookie Eric Bell, 5-3, allowed five runs on six hits in 2½ innings as the Orioles lost their sixth game in their last seven.

The Jays scored four in the third inning when they sent nine batters to the plate.

With the game tied 1-1, Barfield led off with an infield single and George Bell followed with his 18th homer to left, increasing his league-leading RBI total to 46.

Fielder followed with another homer, hitting a 3-2 pitch high off the foul pole in left for his fifth homer.

Tigers 4, Red Sox 2

Pat Sheridan hit a homer to lead off the seventh inning and four Detroit pitchers combined on a six-hitter, ending the Red Sox' three-game winning streak.

Sheridan, who had struck out in his two previous at bats, broke a 2-2 tie by hitting a 2-1 pitch just inside the right field foul pole off Al Nipper for his third homer. The home run gave Detroit just its second victory in six games.

Angels 6, White Sox 4

Jack Howell hit a three-run homer to highlight a six-run fifth inning, handing the White Sox their third straight loss.

John Candelaria, 5-2, allowed four runs — all in the first inning — five hits, struck out four and walked one over seven innings. DeWayne Buice pitched two hitless innings for his third save.

Howell's 11th homer capped the Angels' rally against right-hander Neil Allen, 0-2, who was given a 4-0 lead in the first inning.

'Horner Phenomenon' still strong

TOKYO (AP) — One month after Bob Horner made his dramatic debut in Japanese baseball, the 'Horner Phenomenon' is as strong as ever.

Attendance at Jingu Stadium, home park of Horner's Yakult Swallows, is up 48.5 percent over last year.

And, the Swallows profits are soaring, too. They made 100 million yen, or $714,000 U.S. dollars, in just one game from the sale of tickets, souvenirs and food, the sports daily Nihon Sports estimated.

At the stadium, nearly 300 sheets of colored paper autographed by Horner are being sold every day for $3.50, surpassing autograph sales of Daisuke Araki, one of the Swallows' most popular players.

The number of fans in the Swallows' booster group has increased by more than 1,000 since Horner joined the team, officials said.

Stock brokers say Horner's presence has even affected the share price of Yakult Honsha, the team's parent company which sells food products, cosmetics and pharmaceuticals. On May 6, a share was worth $24.86. Friday, the stock was worth $25.79.

The Swallows put up 3,000 posters of Horner for the promotion purpose at Tokyo subway stations and they quickly were grabbed up as souvenirs. The club put up additional 3,000.

When the former Atlanta Braves outfielder joined the Swallows on May 5, he drew a capacity crowd of 52,000 for a game with the Yomiuri Giants, the Central League's most popular team. The Swallows had averaged 47,600 in April.

According to figures released Friday by the Central League, league attendance reached 4.1 million after 123 total games, and the Swallows had the biggest increase.

Horner, who came to Japan when he failed to land a job with a major league team as a free agent, made an immediate impression by hitting a home run in his first game. On the next day, he hit three homers in three at-bats, and the 'Horner gensho' — the Horner phenomenon — was born.

The Swallows finished last in four of the last five seasons, making it up to next to last in 1984. They are now in fourth place in the six-team Central League.

Horner, who rejected offers of $4.5 million for three years, from the Braves, signed a one-year contract with the Swallows, reportedly worth $2 million.

Horner is batting .355 with eight home runs, and though his performance has dropped since his arrival, the fans continue to marvel at him. During a recent game, thousands left the stadium after Horner was taken out with several injuries still remaining.

Bird and Magic: Careers keep crossing strange path

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The animosity melted as they matured. Larry Bird and Magic Johnson even admit they like each other now. It's losing that they hate. And with them, it is no coincidence that Boston and Los Angeles have dominated the NBA in the 1980s.

Since Bird and Johnson arrived in 1979-80, either the Celtics or Lakers — or both — have been in the championship series every year. And within the next few days, one will become the first team to win four championships this decade.

"It's strange the way our careers have crossed," Bird said. "We'll probably end up building houses next to each other without realizing it."

"Bird and Magic are the co-kings in the NBA," the Lakers' Mychal Thompson said. "I guess you can call them salt and pepper because they sure do spice up this league."

Bird and Johnson have met only 16 times in the regular season since 1979. Each has won eight games. In 1984 and 1985, they faced off in the finals. Another split. But the basketball ledger sheet is not so perfectly balanced.

In 1979, Johnson's Michigan State team won the NCAA title, handing Bird and Indiana State their first loss that season in the championship game. In the NBA, Bird has won the Most Valuable Player award three times, Johnson one.

If one thing is certain, it's that Bird and Magic are still mentally keeping score.

"We both like to win so much that it's not hard to understand that we didn't always get along," Johnson said. "The media played a big part in creating our rivalry, but we kept it going because we both saw that we did the same things on the court. We both liked to make the great pass, rebound and score."

The dislike they felt for each other goes back to the NCAA title game. There was Johnson hugging his teammates and introducing the nation to his magic smile. There was Bird sitting on the bench and sobbing into a towel.

"I saw Magic for the first time when Michigan State played the Russians before the 1978-79 season," Bird said. "I said then that they had the best team in the country and it turned out that they beat us in the national championship game."

"We have a better relationship now," Johnson said. "We used to never even speak to each other. We both wanted to win so bad that we hated each other. I respected him, but I didn't like him."

"Then we made some commercials together in '85 and we realized we had a lot in common."

Said Bird: "Hate is a strong word, but I sure wanted to beat him. But we've developed a mutual friendship with some of the things we've done together."

"We found out about each other as persons," Johnson said. "We like a lot of the same things and we're just regular guys with Midwest backgrounds. And we both like to be alone."

Although team goals are paramount to both players, their private rivalry for MVP honors took a new turn when Johnson won the award for the first time this season.

"It wasn't easy giving up the MVP to Magic, but I said early in the season that he would win it," Bird said. "He knocked out all the competition early, like Mike Tyson. There's no question he was the best player this year."

Johnson said, "He had won three MVPs and I didn't have any. I knew he respected me, but I felt I was a little below him. Now that void is gone and we're more equal."

Bird said that Johnson's increased scoring load — he led the Lakers for the first time in his career — pushed him to another level as a player this season.

"He scored a lot more points while keeping his rebounds and assists about the same," Bird said. "Teams can't play him defensively like they used to. He will score on the fast break, instead of passing all the time."

Bird's comments were illustrated in the Lakers' 126-113 victory in the championship series opener when Johnson scored 29 points with a combination of long outside shots and swooping layups. He added eight rebounds and 13 assists.

Despite his increased scoring role, Johnson realizes he won't ever be the scoring machine Bird is.

John MacLeod
...new boss in Dallas

Mavs' coach wants team playoff tough

DALLAS (AP) — John MacLeod made his first official appearance as the Dallas Mavericks new coach Friday and said he wanted to field the kind of team that would peak when it got into the NBA playoffs.

"Everybody keeps asking me if I can win 55 games like this year's team did," said MacLeod, 49, who was hired Thursday night to replace Dick Motta. "If we win 50 games or 49 games, fine, but the most important thing is that we be ready to play in the playoffs."

After winning the Midwest Division title with a 55-27 record, the Mavericks were eliminated in the first round of the NBA playoffs this year by the Seattle SuperSonics.

MacLeod was hired in a handshake agreement with Mavericks owner Donald Carter, who flew to his home in Phoenix, Ariz., Thursday night.

MacLeod, who was fired in February, midway through his 14th season with the Phoenix Suns, is expected to make $300,000 per year on a contract that is renewed by mutual agreement each year.

Carter said at the press conference welcoming MacLeod to Dallas, "I asked him some real tough questions. In fact, I wasn't real nice in Phoenix. I said some things in his house that might get you flattened. I got his dander up and if I hadn't, I wouldn't have hired him."

"I challenged the heck out of him and I can tell everybody we won't have a ho-hum coach in John," said Carter.

MacLeod said that Carter had asked him "if I was tough enough. I told him flat out I was and I guarantee you I will respond to this challenge."

MacLeod said the toughest thing he has to do is improve the Mavs' mental concentration. "I want to build on the tradition here and this team looks like it could use a little more mental toughness," said MacLeod. "It's most important that we be ready to get to a higher level of the NBA playoffs. I want a team attitude where if you get knocked down, you bounce back up."

Motta resigned May 20 and has yet to give Carter a reason for leaving. "I was in shock the day he resigned," said Carter. "This team will always have a part of Dick Motta in it. John just wants to build on it."

"There will be no ghost of Dick Motta that John has to be concerned about. I won't be looking over his shoulder."

The Mavericks moved toward the unemployed MacLeod after Don Nelson resigned as coach in Milwaukee and decided to join the front office of the Golden State Warriors.

MacLeod said he would keep Assistant Coach Richie Adubato.

"Richie did a great job with the defense this year and I feel fortunate and pleased to have him back," said MacLeod.

Aces come in pairs at Hogan golf course

From Staff Reports

Friday was a unique day at the Hogan Park golf course as two golfers recorded hole-in-ones.

Gary Grubbs, playing with Kyle Hubbard, Clay Kennedy and Albert Byrbit, used a pitching wedge to ace the No. 10, 150-yard par three hole.

Phil Young aced the 180-yard No. 9 hole with a seven iron. He was playing with Byron Redden, Joe Golling and Craig Echberger.

Press often 'misleading' on science

By MAUREEN MCTAGUE DANA
Hearst News Service

The push for public recognition of scientific achievements, coupled with the imperfect understanding of science among journalists, is resulting in sometimes inaccurate, often misleading stories in the press. That's the opinion of Cornell University professor Dorothy Nelkin, author of "Selling Science: How the Press Covers Science."

Nelkin says that the problem has been created both by the growing emphasis on public relations at major research centers and the tendency of reporters covering science stories to express less of the healthy skepticism they applied to other stories.

"Journalism is a lot less critical in this area than in a lot of other reporting," says Nelkin. A professor with the Cornell program on science, technology and society, Nelkin also is the author of "The Creation Controversy: Science or Scripture in the Schools."

The growth of public relations departments at drug companies, major research universities and hospitals and government laboratories has resulted in more and more prepackaged materials on complex scientific subjects being offered to reporters, Nelkin says.

UT alumni will receive awards

AUSTIN (AP) — Four former students of the University of Texas at Austin, including U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright, have been named recipients of the school's 1987 Distinguished Alumnus Awards.

The other three honorees are businessmen William Harvin, J.R. Parten and Jack Taylor.

Wright, a Fort Worth native, attended the University of Texas until World War II interrupted his studies when he was 19.

Harvin is a senior partner in the Houston law firm of Baker & Botts. He received bachelor and law degrees from UT-Austin.

Parten, chairman of Parten Oil and president of Seven J Stock Farm in Houston, studied humanities and law at UT-Austin from 1913 to 1917, when he joined the Army in World War I.

Taylor, who has a bachelor's degree in business from UT-Austin, has been in private business since 1955, including the past 18 years in Austin.

The Distinguished Alumnus Awards will be presented Oct. 2.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Crestview program to conclude with two events

"Christian Home Emphasis," a six-week program currently under way at Crestview Baptist Church, will be concluding activities with events on June 14 and 21.

"Children's Day" will be celebrated June 14. Children's artwork on "home" and "family" will be on display at the church.

Father's Day, June 21, will be marked with a "Kiss or Kick the Kook Contest" following the 7 p.m. worship services.

According to the Rev. John Gerlach, minister of Family Ministries, the men of the church will submit samples of their culinary art to be tasted and judged by the women of the church.

Crestview Baptist Church is located at 3300 Thomas Ave. The public is invited to services, according to the Rev. Ken Hall, pastor.

Crestview will be holding Vacation Bible School Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to noon each day. The school is open for children ages kindergarten through sixth grade. According to the Rev. P.J. Tyler, director, children who were four years old by Sept. 1, 1986, are also invited to attend.

Youth Vacation Bible School, for junior and senior high school students, will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and will conclude with a 10 p.m. lock-in at the Midlander, 225 Corporate Dr. Students will swim each evening, but there will be a $5 fee for Friday night's activities. Interested persons may call the church at 694-7701 for the location of the Wednesday and Thursday meetings.

According to the Rev. Phil Spigner, director, sixth grade students who attend the morning VBS also are invited to attend the evening sessions.

Kelview offers film series

A six-part film series, entitled "Love is a Decision," will be shown at Kelview Heights Baptist Church, with the first installment to be presented Sunday. The films, featuring Gary Smalley, will be shown each consecutive Sunday through July 12. Smalley, author of "If Only He Knew" and "For Better or Best," presents what he calls "Biblical relationship principles" with a teaching technique he says he learned from Corrie Ten Boom, author of "The Hiding Place."

The six segments are entitled "The Incredible Worth of a Woman," "How to Energize Your Mate in 60 Seconds," "Five Keys to Loving and Lasting Relationships," "The Tremendous Value of a Man," "The Secret of a Close-knit Family," and "Finding Fulfillment: More Than Your Cup Can Hold."

The "Love is a Decision" was produced and directed by Earl Miller, producer and director of the "Focus on the Family" film series by James Dobson.

The films will be shown at 10 a.m. each Sunday and, according to the Rev. Frank Johnson, pastor, the public is invited to all services.

According to the Rev. W.W. Bailey, pastor, the public is invited to attend the services that begin at 8 p.m. each day.

Clergy delegate elected

LUBBOCK — The Rev. Charles Lutrick, pastor of First United Methodist Church in Midland, was recently elected as a clergy delegate to the church's General Conference which will be held in St. Louis in April, 1988.

Lutrick was one of four ministers elected to serve as representatives of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference which met at First United Methodist Church in Lubbock June 1-4.

Other ministers elected were the Rev. Charles Whittle of Abilene, the Rev. R.L. Kirk of Lubbock, and the Rev. Clifford Trotter of Amarillo. United Methodist Church law and policy are established at the quadrennial general conference.

Lutrick also received a plaque at the conference from Sprague Dunman, editor of the United Methodist Reporter. He was recognized for "an unusual degree of support" to the weekly publication of the United Methodist Church. Dunman said Lutrick has made "extraordinary contributions" to the growth of the publication.

Vacation Bible school on Vacation Bible School will be held Sunday through Friday at the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Midland.

The school is open to children ages 4-12. Classes begin at 6 p.m. and close each day at 8 p.m.

The church is located at 3114 Travis.

Free carwash scheduled

Missionaries for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will hold a free carwash noon until 3 p.m. Monday at Bushman's Exxon, on the corner of Big Spring and Cuthbert. Donations will not be solicited.

There are 12 full-time missionaries for the church in Midland. They are young men between the ages of 19 and 22.

"They leave their families to serve the Lord for two years without pay, supporting themselves entirely," said a church spokesman. "They teach the gospel of Jesus Christ six days a week, averaging 63 hours each week."

The spokesman added that Monday is the missionaries' "preparation day," a time to do errands and relax from their rigorous schedule.

"For Monday, they have organized the free carwash as a service to the community in return for the support and kindness which they have received from the city of Midland," said the spokesman. "Anyone in need of a carwash is welcome."

Fannin church sets VBS

Fannin Terrace Baptist Church will hold Vacation Bible School Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to noon. The theme of the week is "The Bible, God's Treasure Book."

The school is open to anyone who has completed kindergarten through the sixth grade. Events planned for the week, according to Mary Pickett, VBS director at the church, include puppet shows, snow cones, a picnic and "lots of little surprises."

The church is located at 2800 Mogford.

Pastor officially welcomed

Members of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 N. Main, will officially welcome their new pastor, the Rev. Earl E. Ball, and his wife, Wanda, in services Sunday.

Ball's ministerial career, prior to coming to Midland, was spent in the El Paso vicinity of the New Mexico conference. It included four appointments in that city.

He received a bachelor of arts degree in religion from Eastern New Mexico University and graduated from Perkins School of Theology, SMU, with a master degree in theology in 1963. He was licensed to preach in 1960.

Ball is a veteran of the U.S. Army, having served in the 82nd Airborne. All members of St. Mark's and their guest are invited to attend the 10:50 a.m. service. Immediately following the service, the church will host a lasagna luncheon.

FCC hosts guest minister

Gilbert D. Davis Jr. will be the guest minister during services June 14 at First Christian Church, 1301 W. Louisiana. He will speak at 8:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m.

Davis has been director of Church Relations at Texas Christian University since August, 1971. He was minister of the Kings Highway Christian Church, Shreveport, La., for nine years. Prior to his ministry in Shreveport, he served in churches in Hereford and Galena Park in this state, and in Ayden, NC, and Camden, Ark.

He received his bachelor of arts degree from Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N.C. He has a bachelor of divinity degree from Brite Divinity School, and he received his honorary degree, Doctor of Divinity, June 1, 1966, from TCU.

Ranchland marks 30 years

The Ranchland Heights Baptist Church, one block off Tower Road, will celebrate its 30th anniversary on June 14.

Following the morning service a dinner on the grounds will be served. Immediately afterwards, at 2 p.m., there will be a special service in the sanctuary.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Ross Payne, pastor of Cottonflat Baptist Church. Payne served at the first pastor of Ranchland Heights Baptist.

The church was founded in 1957 and was then called Tower Baptist Church.

The Rev. D.G. "Rocky" Denton, current pastor, says the public and former members are invited to attend both the meal and the service.

Pastors greet evangelist

Pastors Don and Paulette Caywood of Odessa Christian Faith Center have announced that Dick Mills will be ministering at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

"Mills' services are characterized by spontaneity and a spirit of refreshment," said a spokesman for the Odessa Christian Faith Center. "Join us for this exciting evening of ministry."

Mills, an evangelist and teacher, is currently affiliated with the Church on Rock, Rockwall.

Mills has been in the ministry for 44 years. He has ministered in thousands of churches of various denominations, has appeared on the CBN and TBN television networks and has authored several books.

The Odessa Christian Faith Center is located at 8860 N. Andrews Hwy., Odessa.

Choirs present concert

The Celebration Singers, a 35-voice youth choir, and the Wesley Ringers, an 11-member handbell choir, from First United Methodist Church, will present a concert Sunday at 5:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of the church, located at Main and Illinois Avenue. The program will be presented as part of the choir's summer tour.

The choir has presented concerts in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Tennessee, Arkansas, New Mexico, Arizona, and California. This year's tour will be presented in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware, and Connecticut.

The concert will feature music from all seasons of the church year and will include music from 20th century composers Jane Marshall, Natalie Sleeth, Allen Pote, Paul Sjolund, Douglas Wagner, and John Yarrington, according to Brad Kisner, director of music ministries. The handbell choir will also perform several songs, said Kisner.

Junior and senior high school students make up the choir. Kisner directs the choir and is assisted by his wife, Jane, who is assistant director of music ministries at FUMC. Mona Barbee serves as accompanist.

The public is invited to the concert, according to Kisner.

LIFESCOPE

Lack Self-Confidence? Lifescope Says, "Tap Into The Promises of God!"

He who is of God hears God's words; therefore if the Son makes you free, you shall be free indeed. Do not cast away your confidence, which has great reward. For you have need of endurance, so that after you have done the will of God, you may receive the promise. His coming will not be delayed much longer. And those whose faith has made them good in God's sight must live by faith, trusting Him in everything. Otherwise, if they shrink back, God will have no pleasure in them. What is faith? It is the confident assurance that something we want is going to happen. It is the certainty that what we hope for is waiting for us, even though we cannot see it up ahead.

You can do all things through Christ who strengthens you! Be confident that God who began a good work within you will keep right on helping you grow in His grace until His task within you is finally finished on that day when Jesus Christ returns. Overwhelming victory is yours through Christ who loved you enough to die for you. Nothing can ever separate you from His love. Death can't, and life can't. The angels won't, and all the powers of hell itself cannot keep God's love away. Your fears for today, your worries about tomorrow, or where you are, high above the sky, or in the deepest ocean - nothing will ever be able to separate you from the love of God demonstrated by our Lord Jesus Christ when He died for you.

Beloved, if your heart does not condemn you, you can have confidence toward God!

Taken from John 8, Heb. 10, 11, Phil. 4, 1, Rom. 8, 1 John 3.

Davis to address meeting

The Odessa chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will hold its monthly meeting June 13 at the Odessa Hilton Hotel. The meeting, free of charge, will begin at 7:30 p.m. It will be preceded by a meal at 6:30 p.m. The guest speaker will be Cullen Davis.

Davis, vice president of Kendavis Industries International Inc., gained notoriety in the late 1970s when he stood trial for the murder of his stepdaughter. He was acquitted of those charges in 1976 and two years later was acquitted of murder for hire charges.

A graduate of Texas A&M University with a degree in industrial engineering, he says he was raised in a home in which he was encouraged to attend church regularly. In his testimony of his Christian life, Davis says he did not fully commit his life to Christ until April, 1980.

He and his wife, Karen, are members of Bethel Temple in Fort Worth.

According to a spokesman of FGBMFI, Davis has spoken to churches and Christian groups and on television and radio. The spokesman says Davis speaks on the effects of teaching evolution, "particularly in public schools."

Stating that "evolution is the biggest hoax in the world," Davis says, "scientific evidences all point to special creation of the earth, and evolution played no part in it."

Old fashioned revival set

An "Old Fashion Summer Revival" will be held Monday through Friday at St. Paul, CME Church, 409 S. Lee. The Rev. Rayfield Medcalf of Charlotte, N.C., will preach each night on the theme "Let's Get Back to God."

SUNDAY, JUNE 7, 1987

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Tremendous success can be yours if you are willing to work hard for it. The year ahead is no time for "you-owe-me" disputes. Focus on the positive side of a relationship. Accept with good grace someone's offer to provide the cash you need for a special project. Once you untangle a financial mess, you will be able to make all the right business and career moves. Romance develops into something very special.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: poets Gwendolyn Brooks and Nikki Giovanni, singer Tom Jones, Yankee star Thurman Munson, composer Charles Strouse, Broadway's first lady Jessica Tandy, rock video star Prince, French artist Paul Gauguin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Little things are important today. Bolster the confidence of a young person who has to make difficult choices. Be sure what you do does not backfire. A relationship becomes stronger day by day.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Make the best of this somewhat slow-moving day. Curl up with a new adventure yarn or go for a long walk. Test the waters before bringing up a sensitive topic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): An in-depth discussion of things that affect you and mate will help your relationship. Get your finances on firmer ground. Keep plugging away at your writing. Creative work will bring fame and fortune!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You have the right stuff. Use it to get back on track again! Romance will only work if you have your life in order. Do not attempt to pressure your friend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A sale item is tempting, but you will probably not be getting a bargain. A summer picnic is just what the doctor ordered. There is a hint of intrigue to a romantic relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A good day for private artistic pursuits. Tread lightly around older family members; they are easily hurt by criticism now. Take care of personal bookkeeping, and answer your mail. Share any good news.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Use indirect methods if you want to squeeze the most success out of a promotional effort. Others are likely to pick up the ball and carry it for you. Return favors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A lack of cooperation from others could throw a monkey wrench into certain financial activities. Postpone negotiations for a few days. Be on the lookout for a lucky real estate development. Pursue romance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Today is not the time to pursue business interests. Set work aside and engage in sports if you like. Physical activity will restore your spirits. A telephone call is a source of delight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find new ways to make life easier for yourself and those closest to your heart. A noisy environment saps your energy and goodwill. Seek the company of friends who share your interests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A great day for dealing with domestic matters. Balance your checkbook before committing yourself to an expensive purchase. Tend to odd jobs other family members have overlooked. Youngsters learn from your example.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give a close friend a shoulder to cry on and then go out to dinner together. Romance is everywhere. Keep your eyes open. You get an interesting response to a personal question.

Constitutional issues misunderstood

Associated Press

Wednesday, June 6, 1787
CONFEDERATION TODAY
Congress again lacked a quorum, only four states and Nathan Dane being present.

Congressman Stephen M. Mitchell wrote from his home in Wethersfield, Conn., to Secretary of Congress Charles Thomson. He thanked Thomson for buying lottery tickets for him, informed him that the Connecticut delegates would go to New York if their presence would make a quorum, asked for Convention news, and reported that "the Clergymen begin to omit poor old Congress in their prayers and substitute instead thereof the Convention. You know many of our political ideas in New England have their birth in the pulpit."

CONVENTION TODAY
On motion of Charles Pinckney and John Rutledge of South Carolina, the Convention in committee of the whole considered having the people elect the lower house. Elbridge Gerry (Mass.), James Wilson (Pa.), George Mason (Va.), James Madison (Va.), John Dickinson (Del.), George Read (Del.) and William Pierce (Ga.) opposed; Roger Sherman (Conn.) and Charles Pinckney (S.C.) supported it. Gerry didn't like popular election. In Massachusetts, "the worst men get into the legislature" — but one house had to be so elected. He hoped the other would be so structured as to be filled with men of merit. Sherman wanted the states to retain most of their authority, and saw this motion as helping them do so. Dickinson felt one house had to be elected by the people, but that the other could be elected by the state legislature. Read went further. "Too much attachment is betrayed to the state governments... A national government must soon of necessity swallow all of them up... The Confederation was founded on temporary principles. It cannot last; it cannot be amended; if we do not establish a good Government on new principles, we must either go to ruin, or have the work to do over again."

DELEGATES TODAY
George Washington also dined at Franklin's, drank tea there, then went home and wrote letters to France. One of them was a rueful letter to Lafayette, which Gov. Rutledge's son would deliver.

"You will I dare say, be surprised, my dear Marquis, to receive a letter from me at this place (Philadelphia), you will probably be more so, when you hear I am again brought, contrary to my public declaration, and intention, on a public theatre. Such is the vicissitude of human affairs, and such the frailty of human nature that no man I conceive can well answer for resolutions he enters into."

LOOKING BACK

Eliminate the States?

The activities for this day clarify one sometimes misunderstood constitutional position and illustrate at least three factors which help us understand 18th-century America a little better.

The sometimes misunderstood constitutional issue is that the large state-small state conflict over representation should not be confused with the later nationalist-states rights conflict. Read illustrated that these issues were separate and distinct. No one was more adamant for an equal vote for the smaller states than Read; he had written this position into the law appointing the Delaware delegates, and he would probably have left the Convention had not each state been guaranteed an equal vote in the Senate. Yet in this day's debate, we find Read taking a nationalist position somewhat beyond that even of Alexander Hamilton — a position calling for the eventual extinction of the states. If the states were to continue, Delaware must have an equal vote with Virginia or Pennsylvania, but Read would agree to meld them all into one consolidated government.

Mitchell's letter illustrates the network which connected America's political leaders, the power that America's clergy still had in politics, and the jealousy political leaders felt toward the Convention.

PEOPLE

Matt Dillon, Miss Kitty will be reunited

NEW YORK (AP) — It worked for NBC and "Perry Mason," so CBS is reuniting James Arness and Amanda Blake for a "Gunsmoke" made-for-TV movie.

Arness will play Dodge City Marshal Matt Dillon, now a retiree trapping furs. Miss Blake reprises her role as Miss Kitty. Instead of running the Long Branch Saloon, she is living in New Orleans, but is "still ready to be on hand when she thinks Matt needs her," according to CBS.

Arness played Dillon for 20 years on CBS, and Miss Blake played Miss Kitty for 19.

Shooting for the film began this week in Alberta, Canada.

Raymond Burr has successfully reprised his long-ago, long-running role as "Perry Mason" in a series of made-for-TV movies on NBC.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Evan Mecham says he's canceling his subscription to Arizona's largest newspaper because its gossip columnist quoted a source as saying Mecham's wife wore cheap and garish clothes on a visit to the presidential palace in Guatemala.

Mecham, who's been feuding with both Phoenix newspapers since he took office in January, said the item Wednesday about Florence Mecham by Republic gossip columnist Gail Tabor was the last straw.

"The (Arizona) Republic will never be in my house again," Mecham said Thursday. "Nobody from The Republic or Gazette will ever interview my wife. There's a lady who's a real lady."

The item quoted an unidentified source who Ms. Tabor said had accompanied the Mechams on their tour of Central America last week.

In the presidential palace at Guatemala, they introduced her as Arizona's first lady. Ms. Tabor quoted the source as saying, "And there she was in a cheap little white shirt, garish green skirt, and a gaping hole in her hose."

Mecham said his wife was dressed "very nicely," was unaware of a run in her stocking and should be spared the scrutiny he receives.

Republic Publisher Pat Murphy disagreed, saying, "The governor's wife certainly is a public figure."

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles wanted to market a type of cheddar cheese but gave up the idea, apparently after several stores refused to stock it.

Buckingham Palace confirmed on Friday that samples of cheese made from milk produced on Charles's 347-acre Highgrove Estate and farm in Gloucestershire were sent to prospective retailers.

Press Association, the British domestic news agency, said the stores, including Marks and Spencer, a department-store chain, decided not to stock it.

A palace spokesman said only that the plan was dropped "because it was not financially viable."

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Gov. Gerald L. Baliles, who promotes Virginia as a good place to make movies, is playing a small role alongside Jack Lemmon in an NBC miniseries being filmed in and around the Capitol.

Baliles filmed his scene Thursday; his cameo appearance included one line with seven words.

The movie, "The Ballad of Mary Phagan," centers around the Leo Frank murder case of 1913. Frank, an Atlanta pencil factory manager, was accused of killing a 14-year-old girl, Mary Phagan. He was convicted and sentenced to die.

Two-time Academy Award winner Lemmon, the star of the four-hour production, plays Georgia Gov. John M. Slaton, who was asked to intervene to stop Frank's execution.

Barbie forced to confront ex-resistance fighter

LYON, France (AP) — Klaus Barbie was forced to attend court Friday in his trial for crimes against humanity, and a 78-year-old woman, a former French Resistance fighter, confronted him and cried out, "Yes, oh, it's him, it's him!"

"Eyes like that! You can't forget that look! Even when I was almost unconscious I saw his cruel eyes!" shouted Julie Franceschini.

Barbie stared back expressionless and responded, "I have nothing to say."

The former Lyon Gestapo chief refused again to answer questions about the charges against him.

Barbie has declined to attend the trial, contending that his 1983 expulsion from Bolivia was illegal.

Friday's session was the second time he was forced to attend — without a physical struggle — to be confronted with witnesses who had not identified him in person during the pretrial investigation.

No more such witnesses are expected, so Barbie may never again appear in public, unless he changes his mind before his trial ends in early July. If he is convicted of crimes against humanity, the sentence would be life in prison. France has abolished the death penalty.

Despite Barbie's refusal to answer, lawyers for his alleged victims kept posing questions and twice he slipped and responded — first when asked if he attended classes given by Nazi Adolph Eichmann dealing with the "Jewish question." "I never knew Eichmann. I never met him," Barbie responded, speaking German translated into French for the court by an interpreter.

Eichmann was hanged by Israel in 1962 as a war criminal.

Another lawyer asked about Barbie's connections with Bolivian strongman Hugo Banzer, who led a military government in the 1970s, reportedly with Barbie's support.

The defendant replied, "I had no particular connection."

Barbie was in court 70 minutes, mainly to be identified by Mrs. Franceschini and by 77-year-old Andre Courvoisier, another former Resistance fighter. Both said they were brutally interrogated by him and deported to concentration camps at his orders.

Barbie smiled and half-chuckled when Courvoisier took a step toward him at the front of the courtroom, pointed and said, "Mr. Barbie, you don't recognize me? I recognize you."

Barbie shook his head and laughed quietly.

"His mocking laugh is the same," Courvoisier said.

Palestinian youth killed in home by stray bullet

NABLUS, Occupied West Bank (AP) — A Palestinian youth was killed in his home Friday, the apparent victim of a stray bullet fired by Israeli soldiers to break up protests marking the 20th anniversary of Israel's occupation of the West Bank, his family said.

A 10-year-old boy was slightly injured after being hit by bullet fragments, hospital officials said.

Hours after the killing, Palestinian youths erected barricades in the old market area of Nablus, the West Bank's largest city, and threw stones at Israeli soldiers, who took no immediate action.

Azam Arandi, 15, was studying in the third-floor living room when the bullet came through the window, ricocheted off the wall and pierced his heart, said his sister, Hanan Arandi.

"I heard the sound of the bullet," Miss Arandi, 25, told The Associated Press. "I went in to check on my brother's study and I discovered he was dead."

The bullet mark was visible on the wall and the boy's math and English notebooks were open on the table. Dozens of crying women, many wearing traditional Islamic dress, gathered at the Arandi home.

"He was not even in the streets. He was at home, studying," Miss Arandi said of her brother, the youngest of 10 children. "Where shall we go if we are not even secure in our house?"

An Israeli army official said soldiers had fired in the air to disperse demonstrators throwing stones but at the time there were no signs of any injuries.

"There is an inquiry to see if there is a connection between the firing and the death of the youth," said the official who, in keeping with military practice, spoke on condition of anonymity.

Miss Arandi said there were no soldiers in the street below when her brother was killed. She said the shot apparently came from the direction of the old market area nearby.

The Palestine Press Service, an Arab-run news agency, reported earlier that a group of youths raised Palestinian flags and hurled stones at military vehicles in the old market area. The agency said soldiers and border police responded with gunfire.

Several hours after the slaying, dozens of Palestinian youths stood behind barricades of overturned metal trash cans and debris, throwing broken shards and stones at Israeli soldiers.

The youths wore checkered kaffiyeh headaddresses across their faces to conceal their identities.

Soldiers armed with tear gas canisters and automatic rifles took no immediate action.

Meanwhile, a doctor at Ittihad hospital in Nablus said 10-year-old Saher Saba Baara was in good condition after being hit by bullet fragments in the chest, face and right hand. The doctor, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the youth told him he was shopping in the market area when he was hit.

Friday marked the 20th anniversary of the start of the Six Day War, in which Israel captured the West Bank of the Jordan River, the Gaza Strip, the Golan Heights, east Jerusalem and the Sinai Peninsula. Israel still occupies the West Bank and Gaza Strip.
