Home Town Talk

SCOTCH POME

He would not ride the bus
Because it cost a dime.
To save the coin he chose to walk
He'd rather spend his time.
—The Pathfinder.

Most of our friends of Scotch descent ride in eight-cylinder automobiles and it's probably a Scotchman who owns the bus lines.

The end of another year approaches without Wichita Falls being any nearer the solution of its water problem, its drainage problem and others that retard the city and discommode and inconvenience and perhaps endanger its citizens.

We are not prepared to admit that these problems cannot be solved and the people to solve them are the people of Wichita Falls. We'd like to see a mass meeting of the citizens of Wichita Falls for a discussion of these matters.

Now that the stock market boom is a thing of the past what is more likely than that some of the money that has been in Wall street will now seek investment in stable municipal bonds? Already bonds that for a year or more could find no buyers are being sold and the bond market is steadily improving. We could sell our bonds, if we voted them.

Expenditures for labor would be the principal cost of whatever improvements are made. And some hundreds of thousands of dollars expended for labor in Wichita Falls would immediately go into the channels of trade, for a laboring man consumes as many groceries as a millionaire. That is, if he has the work that brings the money to buy them.

As announced several days ago this home town talker will welcome communications and suggestions from friends and readers for this colym. It may appear to some the chatter he writes ought to be the work of a few minutes and easy to do. It might be for some but for h. t. t. it is not so easy and he often suffers from a constriction of ideas. So bring on your letters and suggestions.

J. Alvin Gardner has been elected a member of the board of arbitration of the National Association of Baseball Leagues to take the place of the late J. Doak Roberts. The appointment is to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Roberts but there are indications that Mr. Gardner will be reappointed at the expiration of the term.

This is a highly important position in the baseball world and will plunge the Wichita Falls man into some of the most serious problems that beset the game. In his duties as a baseball official in Texas the Wichita Falls man has won a reputation for good judgment and tact. These qualities will certainly come into good use in his position on the board of arbitration.

We have gotten ourself into trouble by quoting that piece on the estimated value of a wife's services. First thing, we had to raise Wife's allowance, that is, we have asked her for our half of the community value, and while our stock may be up with feminine readers it is certainly down below the average low of the stock market with the husbands.

The only way we can square ourselves is to publish an estimate of the worth of a husband. Wives, send in your figures—er, ah, we mean, numerals.

Our mind wanders from husbands and wives to children and fragments of something that Henry Williamson had poor, dreaming William Madison write in "The Pathway" come into it—"we must free the child, let its mind grow like green corn and all will be well—the virtues must develop from within, from the spirit—the sun that grows the corn and the wild flowers, and the child's mind."

It's a little too much for us—it was too much for William Madison. Still the phrases linger in the mind.

The merchants of Wichita Falls are doing a good job in their Christmas decorations—the best they have ever done. Everything will be bright and cheerful for the welcome to Santa Claus when he arrives Saturday afternoon. We imagine that's the way Santa Claus likes to find it.

We would like to report that subscriptions to the oil project had passed the half million mark but our colym must get to the printers early. Wednesday afternoon the subscriptions aggregated $495,000. That's coming along in fine shape. Likely before this gets into print that half million mark will be reached.

Grady Bell comes in with an invitation to the annual meeting of the Archer City Chamber of Commerce on Dec. 17. There will be a turkey dinner and Walter Cline is to speak. Accepted.

Noonan was found semi-conscious and badly burned on the floor by neighbors. The furniture in the adjoining living room was ablaze and firemen expressed the opinion that Noonan had fallen asleep smoking and had set fire to the couch he was on. He lived only a few hours after being taken to a hospital.

Noonan was a member of the American committee at the world power conference in London and had served on the St. Lawrence waterway commission and the United States committee on seasonal employment in the building industry in 1924, of which President Hoover was a member.

Soviet Again Takes Slap At U.S. for 'Meddling' in Chinese Railway Dispute

MOSCOW, Dec. 4. (AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar of foreign affairs, tonight repeated to the central executive committee that the Soviet government considers recent notes by the United States and other countries unjustified interference in Russian affairs.

He questioned the right of the United States and other signatories to the Kellogg pact for renunciation of war to constitute themselves "protectors of the pact."

He advised that America, Great Britain and France had better turn their minds toward activities in South America, warships in Chinese waters and armies in colonial countries rather than "attempt to obstruct" Russo-Chinese negotiations.

STIMSON REPLIES TO FIRST CENSURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (US)—The United States today sharply replied to Maxim M. Litvinoff, acting commissar of foreign relations in the Soviet government, for his criticism of the American move to prevent war in Manchuria as an "unfriendly act."

Although the Russian note had not yet been received by the state department, Secretary Stimson vigorously reiterated the Pacific intentions of the United States in summoning China and Soviet Russia to a better fulfillment of their obligations under the Kellogg pact. The secretary strode into his conference room this afternoon promptly at 4 o'clock and in a voice that was in striking contrast to his usual announcements, read this statement to the press:

"I have seen the text of the Russian memorandum as reported in the press. Between co-signatories of the pact of Paris it can never be rightly thought unfriendly that one nation calls to the attention of another its obligations or the dangers to peace which from time to time arise.

Cites 1899 Convention

"As far back as The Hague convention of 1899 the nations of the world agreed that strangers to a dispute, on their own initiative, could make suggestions looking for peace between the states which were at variance and that the exercise of that right is not to be regarded by the parties in conflict as an unfriendly act. This was reaffirmed again in 1907 and has been the recognized rule ever since.

"The message of the American government was sent, not from unfriendly motives, but because this government regards the pact of Paris as a covenant which has profoundly modified the attitude of the world towards peace and be-

GOODSPEED TO GET NEW TRIAL

Nocona Slayer Wins Reversal in Appeal

Carl Goodspeed, sentenced to 20 years imprisonment last March for the alleged slaying of A. R. Gooch, Nocona city marshal, won a new trial Wednesday when the court of criminal appeals at Austin reversed the action of the trial court and remanded the case back to Clay county. Associated Press dispatches received here said that the ruling was based on the failure of Judge Vincent Stine, presiding in the 97th district court at Henrietta, to charge the jury on self-defense.

Goodspeed was accused of shooting the officer as he attempted to conduct a raid on the Goodspeed home in Nocona last Jan. 15. The defendant pleaded self-defense, claiming that Gooch entered his home with a drawn revolver and without a search warrant. Widespread political implications in the case resulted in a change of venue for the trial, held in Henrietta last March. The trial attracted statewide attention.

FRANK REYNOLDS GIVEN NEW TRIAL

George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, announced Wednesday afternoon that any action of the state in connection with the case of Frank Reynolds, granted a new trial by the court of criminal appeals Wednesday would depend on an opinion from the court already sought by the department here. Reynolds was convicted here several months ago and given a two-year sentence on charges of transporting whisky.

The state will ask for a re-hearing on the motion if the opinion of the appellate court, explaining the reason for the reversal, seems propitious, Mr. Anderson said. The state has 15 days in which to plead for a re-hearing, he explained.

NEW 'CAPITAL' OF MEXICO IS NEW YORK CITY

High Officials of Republic To Form Cabinet in Metropolis

MORROW EN ROUTE

Ortiz, Calles and Others to Join Party; Financial Parley Likely

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—New York promises to become the temporary capital of the Mexican republic, in the opinion of observers of Mexican affairs, who believe the new Mexican cabinet and Mexico's economic policy will be agreed upon here.

The arrival today of a group of high Mexican officials, headed by Postmaster General Arturo Elias, was interpreted by well-informed observers here as the forerunner of a series of conferences within the next few weeks that may decide not only the complexion of the new government which takes office next year, but may also have a most important bearing on the republic's fiscal policies.

Calles Expected

Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former president and one of Mexico's outstanding leaders, is expected in New York from France next week. President-elect Ortiz Rubio, who is en route to Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where it is reported he will take a rest treatment, in all probability also will come to New York later. United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow is expected in New York from Mexico City next week.

Postmaster General Elias, former consul general for Mexico, in New York, and half-brother of General Calles, was accompanied today by a number of Mexican governors, legislators and prominent public officials. The party has taken headquarters at the Pennsylvania hotel where a large section of one floor has become Spanish-speaking for the time being. Col. Samuel C. Rojas, Mexican military attache in Washington, has joined the party.

Financial Aspect

There are rumors of possible financial conferences in which Thomas W. Lamont and other financiers who have been helping Mexico to regularize its foreign obligations are mentioned as likely conferees.

Mexican cabinet making, it was pointed out by well-informed observers, will be much easier in New York, far from the pressure of Mexican political factions, than it would be in Mexico City.

Jury Completed to Hear Trial Of Man Inhabiting Historic Texas Isle

VICTORIA, Texas, Dec. 4. (AP)—A jury for the trial of R. F. Robidoux, muskrat farmer and fisherman who is charged with the murder of Willett Moore, was completed late today.

Selection of the jury was facilitated by a court ruling barring defense attorneys from questioning prospective jurors as to whether they would feel Robidoux's self-defense plea was weakened by the fact that after killing Moore and his brother he dragged their bodies to the edge of the Guadalupe river and rolled them in.

Robidoux admitted the slayings, saying he killed the men in his cabin home on an island in the river in defense of his own life. He rolled them into the river, he said, in a momentary fit of madness, which he afterwards regretted, and the morning after the killings, he notified officials and told them where the bodies might be found.

Court adjourned until tomorrow when taking of testimony will begin. This is not expected to take more than a day of the trial.

A description of the island where the slayings occurred last December was obtained tonight from Howard Kenyon of Houston, owner of the island, summoned here as a defense witness. It formerly was known, he said, as the Marmonken island, for the Indians who inhabited it more than three centuries ago.

A document was recently found in Mexican archives by a Peruvian professor, he said, relating how a Spanish galleon was wrecked on the island, and were hospitably received by the Indians, who were said to have reached a high state of civilization. The account was written by a priest on the galleon.

Robidoux maintained a muskrat farm there. Kenyon said the soil was one of the richest known in this country, and that tons of it had been shipped to nurseries for potting plants.

CHARGE FILED IN LOOTING OF FEDERAL SAFE

Thomas Williams Accused Of Embezzlement in Lubbock Court

MONEY RECOVERED

Prisoner Leads U. S. Officers to Cache in Country Near Matador

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, Dec. 4.—Thomas Williams, postmaster at Matador, Texas, tonight was charged with embezzlement of over $3,000 in a complaint filed here by postoffice department authorities before United States Commissioner Leonard Pierson.

The charge was filed in connection with the disappearance last Friday of $834 in Matador postoffice funds and $2,500 in currency which had come to the postoffice addressed to the First National Bank of Matador. The money had been taken from the postoffice safe, the knob of which had been knocked off, authorities said.

Williams waived preliminary hearing tonight and was released on $2,600 bond to appear before the federal grand jury at Amarillo. The case is expected to come up in the term of federal court which opens here Dec. 9.

Williams was placed under arrest at Matador Wednesday morning by Postoffice Inspectors M. B. Johnson and L. G. Bragdon, and was brought here by the officers to face charges.

The inspectors announced tonight that all of the funds had been recovered, Williams having unearthed a tin box containing the money on a farm near Matador.

The shipment of currency which was included in the loot of the supposed robbery had been sent to the Matador bank by the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas.

'The Jersey Kid,' Wanted for Many Crimes, Captured in Girl's Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—"The Jersey Kid," whose true name became lost long ago in an interminable maze of aliases, and who is wanted, police say, for two murders in New Jersey and one in Chicago, gave himself up today.

Barricaded in an uptown apartment, with a pretty, red-haired girl companion, "the Jersey Kid" started to shoot it out with the police. There was a price of $25,000 on his head.

But when they told him they were going to throw in tear bombs if he did not come out in five minutes, he poked his gun, stock first, out through a crack in the door, and meekly surrendered.

Tattooed on his arms he wore the legend "death before dishonor" and the names "Jack Murray," "Frank McBryand," and "Jersey Kid."

But after his arrest he sullenly denied he was either Murray, McBryand, or "The Jersey Kid." He said his name was Charles Davis—an alias which, the police said, he had used before.

As "Frank McBryand" the prisoner is wanted in Newark, for the murder of a motor bus terminal cashier, and in Bradley Beach, N. J., for the murder of a bank messenger. Both murders were committed during holdups.

He is wanted in Chicago, too, for murder, the police said, but they declined to give any details.

And as "Frank McBryand," he is wanted in Philadelphia for two holdups that totalled nearly $75,000.

BUDGET GIVEN TO CONGRESS

Hoover Reports Finances In Good Condition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (US)—Submitting a $3,830,000,000 budget to congress, President Hoover today announced a speeding up of public buildings construction which will contribute to his business stabilization plans, and projected a $44,000,000 program of aviation development.

He reported the national finances "in sound condition." Though enjoining congress to economy in expenditures, the president recommended that the $160,000,000 tax reduction on this year's incomes be made effective and promised every governmental effort to make it permanent.

The new budget is for the fiscal year 1932, starting next July 1. In his budget message, Mr. Hoover pointed out that its total is $145,696,000 less than the appropriations for the fiscal year 1930. All or part of this decrease will be wiped out, however, by an estimate he announced will be submitted later for the federal farm board.

Spinal Meningitis Cure Is Reported

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Dec. 4. (AP)—Announcement of what is claimed to be a cure of cerebro spinal meningitis was made today by the Wyoming Medical association in behalf of the discoverer, Dr. Edward S. Lauzer of Rock Springs.

"It is so simple that I hesitate to mention it," said Doctor Lauzer. "Is the plainest explanation. I merely discovered that by extracting fluid from a spinal canal by a syringe, the obsessing pressure was eliminated. Then when the pressure was removed or reduced to the point desired, the spinal fluid was injected back into the fluteal or pectoral muscles, or any considerable muscle, with no loss to the patient.

"Reaction is imminent, natural and immediate. Results were so gratifying that we no longer are baffled by a puzzling and malignant contagion."

Soviet Assails Stimson Again

cause this government intends to shape its own policy accordingly.

"In the language of the joint statement issued by the president of the United States and the prime minister of Great Britain on October 10th last 'both our governments resolve to accept the peace pact not only as a declaration of good intentions but as a positive obligation to direct national policy in accordance with its pledge.'

"The present declaration of the authorities of Russia that they are now proceeding with direct negotiations which will make possible the settlement of the conflict is not the least significant evidence to show that the public opinion of the world is a live factor which can be promptly mobilized and which has become a factor of prime importance in the solution of the problems and controversies which may arise between nations."

Basis of Criticism

The basis of criticism from the Soviet commissar seemed to be the "untimeliness" of Secretary Stimson's pacific appeal. At a moment when negotiations had already begun between Russian and Chinese representatives, the sudden move from Washington was resented as an attempt to influence the trend of the discussions in an unfavorable way to Soviet aspirations.

This was solemnly denied by Secretary Stimson, who furnished an exhaustive summary of the chronological events leading up to the American move. As recited by Secretary Stimson, no advices had been received from any source, previous to the American appeal, of direct negotiations between Russian and Chinese delegates. On the contrary, reports from the Siberian border painted the situation in an ever threatening light.

Twenty-four hours prior to the American note, Soviet planes in military formation had passed over Buketu, at the east entrance to the Hingan mountains and had bombed the city.

This performance was again repeated some hours later and the American consul at Harbin had given ample descriptions of both these attacks in his almost hourly reports.

Two Houston Women Die of Poison Effects

HOUSTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—Two young women died in hospitals within a quarter hour of each other today, both from effects of poison.

Mrs. Edna Bradford, 26, took 15 poison tablets last night rather than be separated from her husband.

Her husband, E. H. Bradford, told Justice Overstreet, who held an inquest, that he sent his wife to her parents' home in Clayton, N. M., about a month ago after they quarreled.

"She came back Saturday and wanted to make up," said Bradford. "I told her I would never have the same feeling for her again. I didn't get home last night until about 11 o'clock and was told she had taken poison."

The second victim was Miss Mary Imhoff, 30. Her body was sent to Port Arthur.

Five Auto Theft Ring Suspects Are Jailed

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Five men, believed by officers to be members of an automobile theft ring that operated throughout the Southwest, have been arrested, and others were expected to be taken into custody.

Twelve automobiles have been recovered, and officers blamed the alleged ring for the theft of between 75 and 100 others. Two of the men held were said to have confessed. Headquarters for the ring was supposed to be in Waco, where three of the men were arrested.

Better Than Whiskey For Bad Colds

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold remedy they have ever tried.

To get rid of that cold, step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal, the liquid cold remedy, and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite and expect you to try it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest, most effective, easiest to take and the most agreeable cold remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night. All druggists carry and guarantee Aspironal, the largest selling liquid cold remedy in the world. (adv.)

BORGER KILLER DIES OF DRINK

Dead Man Identified as George Kelly

SEMINOLE, Okla., Dec. 4. (UP)—The body of a man which had been held in a morgue here since Sunday was identified today as George Kelly, alleged to have been implicated in a number of Borger, Texas, and another shooting affray in that oil boom town.

He died from over indulgence in "canned heat," the coroner reported. It was said he drank the poison at a cot house in Oklahoma City.

Officers said Kelly was wanted in the shooting to death of D. C. Ray at Borger and another shooting at "Eight Mile" Blackie's place near Borger.

EASTEP SILENT ON DEATH PLOT

Alleged Slayer Waits for Trial to Talk

DURANT, Okla., Dec. 4. (UP)—The expected statement of A. J. Eastep at McAlester penitentiary, charged with murdering Will Hughes, will not be forthcoming until his trial, authorities announced today.

County Attorney J. A. Shirley and Sheriff Ruel Taylor visited Eastep in his cell after he had employed George Hawley as his attorney. Eastep was charged with beating Hughes to death as a part of a love plot with Hughes' wife, also charged with the murder.

He was also questioned in the death of his wife, Sarah, who died a month ago. Chemists found poison in her stomach.

Hawley said Eastep would not plead guilty to murdering his wife or Hughes but said he would "plead guilty to something else." He refused to say what that would be.

"I want to go before a judge and jury and tell what part Ila Hughes had in the plot," Eastep said.

Mrs. Hughes would make no further statement. She contented herself with reading and playing phonograph records in her cell. She said she would stand by what she said.

Olney to Hear Deep Oil Plan

Wichitans to Talk at Meeting Friday

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Dec. 4.—At a meeting of the local finance committee for the Deep Oil Development company, held in the chamber of commerce office here Tuesday afternoon, plans were perfected for a public meeting to be held here in the city hall Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. Harry Hines, finance chairman and several others of Wichita Falls will speak at the meeting to enlighten the local people on the plans now being considered for deep oil drilling in this district.

The public at large has been invited to attend the meeting. In addition, the chamber of commerce has sent out special invitations to land owners, operators and the local business men to attend the meeting. The local committee appointed for the deep oil program is composed of Charles S. Richardson, chairman; E. B. Madden, E. W. Hunt, M. D. Wolverton, N. D. Goldsmith, O. T. Anderson and R. A. Barton.

Duncan May Ban Mud Racks Used In Washing Cars

Special to The Record News

DUNCAN, Okla., Dec. 4.—Duncan auto owners soon may be washing their cars in their own back yards because the city threatens to close the 22 public car-washing racks here. Mud washed from autos is filling up the city sewer system and the city either must cut the wash racks off the sewer lines or spend thousands of dollars cleaning out the sanitary sewers, J. H. Bender, city manager, told city commissioners at their December meeting.

The commissioners are studying the problem and are expected to make a decision at their January meeting. The city has had trouble with the sewer system recently and the city manager blames the washracks.

Convicted Banker Facing New Charge

TISHOMINGO, Okla., Dec. 4. (UP)—Lige Deaton, Milburn merchant, was charged today with "jury fixing" in the trial of Dr. W. P. Cottrell convicted of embezzling $12,000 in school funds while vice president of the defunct First National bank of Milburn.

Cottrell was convicted three weeks ago and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and fined $24,000.

Kenneth Clark, county attorney, said the charges were filed on information given by one of the jurors, J. R. McGlockin, a farmer, who complained that Deaton approached him regarding the case.

Deaton was at liberty on bond.

High Court to Review 'Sugar Rate' Case

AUSTIN, Dec. 4. (AP)—The supreme court today decided to review the Houston-Galveston "sugar rate" case. The railroad commission granted application of Galveston for equal rates with Houston to points inland, and the Houston Chamber of Commerce brought suit in the Travis county district court challenging right of the commission to equalize the rates. The district court upheld the commission, but on appeal to the third court of civil appeals the judgment was reversed. The railroad commission sought a writ of error to the supreme court, which granted it because "of the importance" of the case.

Kansas Seeks Death For Three Gangsters

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 4. (UP)—The state will seek to hang three gangsters held in the fatal shooting here of C. H. Dingman Jr., patrolman. Dingman died today.

"We intend to try to hang you holdup men and we will not even consider a plea of guilty from you," T. A. J. Maston, assistant county prosecutor, told the trio.

The three—Joe Herson, John Watson and Charles M. Curtis—had said they "preferred anything but hanging."

Morris Grimm, named by Watson as one of the gang, although not implicated in the shooting, said he would have to "consult the wife" before deciding what he would plead to robbery charges.

WELLINGTON IN HOLIDAY GUISE

Christmas Lights Strung Over City

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, Dec. 4.—All but the final touches to Wellington's holiday decoration plan have been completed, and the festoon lights which have been strung in profusion across the streets in the main business section were illuminated for the first time Saturday night, giving the city a surprisingly attractive appearance.

The entire downtown section of Wellington is now a maze of green, red and blue lights, and other items are being added almost daily to the scheme to make Wellington the most beautifully decorated city in West Texas during the Christmas season.

The evergreen trees, shipped in by the chamber of commerce from the Arkansas Ozarks, have also been erected along the curbing throughout the business district, and the business men plan to have these trees decorated in colored lights within a short time. The majority of the business houses around the square and along the side streets have also placed colored lights along the awnings.

Thus Wellington is keeping well in step with the other cities of this section of the state in dressing up for the holiday season. Many of the merchants are decorating the interiors of their business houses with proper colors, and quite a number are now remaining open at night. Practically all firms will be open for business at night as Christmas draws closer.

A statement has been issued by the chamber of commerce to the effect that at least 100 homes in the residential section of the city will have decorated trees placed about their lawns before the holiday season is ended, and this will greatly complement the program already well underway in the downtown section.

There is a possibility that a municipal Christmas tree of some sort may be erected on the courthouse lawn, and presents given to poor children during one night of Christmas week.

Texas G.O.P. To Shun Censure

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (UP)—The Texas Republican organization will continue its practice of financing campaigns through the note system of contributions from office holders as well as non-office holders, Republican leaders said today.

The system will continue in spite of scathing criticism from Senator Brookhart and his committee. The Republican leaders refused to be quoted.

"There will be no change in the handling of political affairs in Texas," a prominent Republican leader declared today. "Senator Brookhart simply is mistaken in the conclusion he drew that office holders are forced to contribute to party funds."

A BETTER MAN THAN YOU

Daily Editorial

IF YOUR grandfather managed to make a living: why can't you?

He dealt with a thousand handicaps you'll never be called upon to face.

Life has been tremendously simplified since his day. The world in which you live is replete with advantages beyond the reach of his arms and his imagination.

This is an era of labor-saving machinery—of man-saving methods and time-saving systems.

Exertion has been minimized in every direction.

Pneumatic, electric, hydraulic and steam power have reduced the physical strain of mechanical tasks—cash registers, adding machines and countless devices are multiplying the efficiency of clerical specialties—telephones, elevators, radio and aeroplane are in universal use.

Your day is three times as long as Abraham Lincoln's and A. T. Stewart's and Alexander Graham Bell's, because you have three times the amount of reserve force to apply to your undertakings.

There are still 60 minutes to the hour, but you can do so much more within 60 minutes, with the new tools of progress, that merely to equal the achievements of a 19th century career is a confession of 20th century inferiority.

You're spoiled—existence has been made too soft for you—you obtain results too easily.

The spur of necessity may be digging hard, but its rowels are not so sharp as those which pricked your ancestors.

The community constantly grows more paternal. Your welfare is protected by more safeguards than a nobleman could command in the pre-republican cycles.

THE MODEST home of a wage earner contains more conveniences, is more sanitary and comfortable than those of a colonial aristocrat.

You are an ingrate, unappreciative of the multitudinous bounties of your period.

Newspapers, free libraries and public lectures daily extend an invitation to add to your store of knowledge, but since you won't aspire, and won't strive, you don't thrive.

A man without ambition won't succeed in the millennium. The hour will never dawn when a hangback and loiterer can get more than his deserts.

Rich acres are useless to a shiftless farmer.

Opportunity can't disclose herself to those who are not bent upon betterment.

There are chances enough, but you are not sufficiently alert to seize them.

Society has not been unfair to you—you've been untrue to yourself.

This is a day of thinkers—the daring win and the fearing fail.

In the year of 1929, all sane, sound and honest men are located where they belong.

If you disagree with this verdict there's only one way to disprove it—by earnest, dogged effort—by persistent endeavor and unflinching resolve—by doing your utmost each day to achieve more than you accomplished every yesterday.

We'll alter our estimate of you when you raise your estimate of yourself.

The bell is always on the target. The instant you begin to hit the mark, we'll hear the ring.

This is the time of year when the players the coach has been bawling out all season are now advanced by him as certain choices for the all-America team.

The farmers have new cotton-picking mashinery. Wall street has operated a lamb-picking apparatus for years.

Judging by recent stock market activities, the lambs had better stick to their gamboling and let gambling alone.

Our Social Snobbery

THE BEST LAUGH of the day is on the editor of that ultra-exclusive New York publication, the Social Register. The editor finds himself—or maybe it's herself—forced to include the name of an ex-chambermaid in this year's volume, which is supposed to list only those who are "exclusive" by reason of their blue blood and the length of their family pedigree.

Adelaide Ingebretsen, the former maid in the palatial home of William M. Willock Sr., who recently eloped with young William M. Willock Jr., is so included; but there's a catch in it, though, because the names of persons who marry social registerites are in many cases inserted the first year as a matter of record and omitted thereafter.

For this reason, apparently, the name of Gene Tunney fails to appear this year. Tunney was in the Register last year, following his marriage to Polly Lauder. And listed for the first time this year is the name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who married Anne Morrow.

But regardless of the reason or how long it remains there, the name of Adelaide Ingebretsen, the ex-chambermaid, now appears with those of the socially elite in this most haughty director of blue-bloodism. It is listed right alongside the bon ton debs and dowagers.

Apparently, neither the young Mrs. Willock nor her youthful husband gives a rap, as they are still enjoying their honeymoon just as other young couples do. Even the reported threats of disinheritance failed to mar their plans or their happiness, as they are going serenely on their way regardless of what others say—or do.

Really, we are strong for them. Not one objection has been raised against Miss Ingebretsen, except that she was a chambermaid in the Willock household. A girl has just as much right to advance her position in life by a fortunate marriage as a self-made man has to advance his position by battling obstacles and overcoming them. The world doesn't hesitate to hail and acclaim the young man who rises above his station; so why not the young woman?

After all, the marriage of young Willock and Miss Ingebretsen is their own business. If she makes him a dutiful wife and he is a dutiful husband, nothing else really matters. And as for Miss Ingebretsen having been a chambermaid, it might be well to recall that the original John Jacob Astor was at one time a fur trader who is said to have swapped whisky to the Indians for their pelts. There are also other examples.

After all, a listing in the Social Register means but little.

In it you will find many from high society families whose married life has been anything but happy and finally ended in the divorce courts.

If young Willock and his bride are a happy married couple, what difference does it make whether the former maid is in or out of the Social Register?

A Place to Start

SOME WEEKS AGO the real estate board recommended that the chamber of commerce make provision for large road signs advertising Wichita Falls throughout this section; last Monday night Harry H. Culver urged the local citizenship to resell itself on Wichita Falls as the first step toward selling the community to others; the chamber of commerce program of work drew tentative plans for the organization's work in 1930 and included recommendations of more publicity for the city.

A campaign for selling Wichita Falls more definitely to more people seems assured. Concrete work to that end must have a starting point, and we hereby nominate the high hill about three miles south of Burkburnett as an excellent spot for erecting a large sign introducing Wichita Falls to south bound motorists.

About half way between Burkburnett and Wichita Falls the traveling public faces a large pictorial representation of the Dallas skyline, with the words "Welcome to Texas," and a bit of advertising for the down-state metropolis. First impressions have a distinct advantage, and the hill just south of the concrete bridge offers an ideal site for a sign designed to center attention on a city just 10 miles ahead instead of one 165 miles away. The Burkburnett highway carries an enormous amount of motor traffic, and a welcome given at the doorway certainly should be as acceptable as one offered in the living room.

A carefully designed card of greeting erected on that elevation will have the effect of a right hand extended at the right place to say that "It's Right in Wichita Falls."

Miss Earhart Pleads for Fair Play

AMELIA EARHART, noted woman flier, here for an overnight stop Sunday, was much concerned with the attitude the press takes toward aviation. She pointed out the discrepancy in the editorial and news policies of certain large American dailies. She complained that one day they would run "Boost Aviation" talk in their editorial columns, and the next day print bold headlines over some story dealing with a minor plane crash.

Miss Earhart pleaded for "fair play."

The plea, this newspaper thinks, is justified, and Miss Earhart's call for fairness should be sounded in the ear of every editor. There is no better journalism than accurate journalism, journalism that prints the facts only, and gives the news a play justified by the facts.

Plane crashes, of course, must be printed. But in handling the news fairly aviation can be greatly helped. There is virtually no one so uninformed as to doubt that aviation, of all industries, should be given fair play and support. But without fair play, as Miss Earhart said, the newspapers will kill aviation. And, as Miss Earhart also said, in so doing they will kill themselves. No one likes to read an inaccurate and "padded" newspaper.

Marriage for Two-- By Arthur Somers Roche

Shortly after an interview in which Helen Wilson tells Larry Tracy that she wishes to break their engagement so that she can marry the wealthy, middle-aged Frank Burton, and Larry swears, in pique, to marry the first girl who will have him, he rescues from a park bench a starved but beautiful girl, Joyce Carroll.

Realizing that she is penniless and ill, and respecting her desire to hide her poverty from the world, he takes her to his own home, where he lives as a bachelor.

That same day a newspaper reporter arrives with Mrs. Wilson's announcement of the breaking of an engagement. Larry incensed by the notoriety Helen is causing him, and thinking only of his desire to hurt her, asks Joyce to marry him.

She consents, and they are married, agreeing that their marriage will in reality be only a friendship.

Dismayed by the sensation his marriage is causing, Larry decides to take Joyce abroad.

Knowing nothing of his wife except her name, Larry suspects the ease with which she convinces the reporters that she has known her husband for months. Shortly afterward a man named Rasty Rogan attempts blackmail by threatening to disclose Joyce's past. Larry knocks him down.

Biarritz!

"Ready—if you are?"

Tracy, clad in a bathing suit, over which he had thrown a gayly colored robe, heard the merry voice with that indefinable feeling of exaltation that its every tone aroused in him. He walked to the window of his bedroom and looked out upon the sparkling waters of the bay of Biscay. Fishermen were staggering under the strong breeze and raucous gulls were circling close inshore. The brilliant sunshine of the Cote d'Or almost made his eyes ache, accustomed as they were to the semigloom of his heavily shaded room. Tall trees were waving, birds were singing; in the street beyond his golden cabbies were indulging in the gutteral drolleries of the Basque. Berets, blue and red, bobbed along the sidewalk, and there was even the clatter of an occasional pair of wooden shoes. There was a tiny donkey, incredibly burdened, but he staggered merrily up the steep incline of the Avenue Edouard Sept.

Merrily! That was the word that described everything in Biarritz—sea, sun, trees, people, animals—even the servants who had been included in his lease of the house in which he stood were always merry. Whenever one came upon them, one had the feeling that they had just reached the mirth-provoking point in a tale of exceptional flavor. The gardener sang at his work; the chauffeur screamed jests at the maids as he polished fenders; passers-by hailed each other with enthusiasm; even stray curs seemed to wag their tails with an enthusiasm unknown in America.

And there, in the next room, her voice indicative of the impression that Basque gayety had made upon her, was his wife. Standing here, blinking at the sunshine, savoring the odors of a dozen different kinds of flowers, listening to the gay sound from below, his heart was heavy.

Why should he be the only person—apparently—in all of Southwestern France who was not gay? Why couldn't he adapt himself to a situation as well as Joyce? True, Europe was no novelty to him; he had traveled widely and new scenes new people, had little thrill to offer him. But he had never traveled in such charming companionship before, and every moment should have been blithe.

Doubt

He had warned himself that he might fall in love with his wife; then he had assured himself that he could never fall in love again. . . . Well, he wasn't in love with her company, that was all. The feeling of shame that he had done an unworthy thing in marrying out of pique had left him. Then why—why was he down-hearted, dispirited, miserable?

He reviewed their hasty departure from America. He had knocked down a gentleman named Rogan. Into the blow with which he had floored the unprepossessing caller he had put all his rage against life, against Helen Wilson. Rogan had staggered to his feet, a policeman had rushed to the scene, and for a moment Tracy had visualized courtrooms, more of that painful notoriety which irked him.

But Rogan had been thoroughly frightened, the policeman had been amenable to a $10 bill, and the incident had closed as abruptly as it had begun. Only—its memories had remained. What had this Rogan, this obvious product of an underworld which Tracy had read about but never glimpsed, to do with Joyce Carroll?

Tracy was a gentleman. Instinctively, when his furtive visitor had said that he could tell a few things about the woman Tracy had married, the newly made husband had struck out viciously. Innate chivalry forbade that he should listen to any tale, or innuendo, or hint, about any woman whom he knew, and resentment was infinitely greater when he was asked to heed a story about his wife.

But chivalry, unfortunately, is rarely a lasting quality. It may last long enough to prevent us from action, but it cannot prevent us from thought. Doubt is an insidious thing, and cannot be banished by an effort of the will; it requires evidence—proof—to lay the ghost of suspicion.

Tracy had not mentioned Rogan's visit to Joyce. That was something impossible to him. He had married this girl, this waif whom he had rescued from starvation, without asking any questions as to her past. He could not, now that she was his wife ever raise any questions as to what might have happened in the days before he knew her.

But he had assumed that she was what is known as a good woman. A glance at her seemed to prove that assumption. Further, girls with her beauty need never starve in a city like New York if they are willing to trade their beauty for a price. She had not traded, and therefore—but there was Rogan.

Joyce's Welcome

Always the specter of the man whom he had knocked down rose between them. And yet, he asked himself as he stood in the window, did that matter? Did anything matter save that he was unhappy and might find surcease from unhappiness in—well, if not in her arms, at least in her companionship?

Not that he had sulked, had been depressed all the time. There had been the flurry of embarkation, the excitement communicated to him by her excitement; the delicious feeling of intimacy the next morning when, knocking on her door to inquire as to her well-being, she had invited him in to breakfast in her cabin. The promenade that afternoon along the decks, when he had felt the envious eyes of men upon him. The actual furor she had created in the Ritz restaurant on the upper deck that evening. The casual acquaintanceship into quick intimacy. Had he the slightest doubt as to how Mrs. Laurence Tracy would be received by his friends, her shipboard reception would have dissipated those doubts.

Of course, he had sense enough to realise that a part of this interest was due to the fact that his broken engagement and subsequent marriage had been exploited by the press, but just the same Joyce's personality was such that it would banish unpleasant criticism. Not that he cared about that, he told himself, but it was pleasant to realise that she was the sort who would make people understand that a man might be swept off his feet at mere sight of her.

For, naturally decent and clean, he instantly regretted his first intention. He had wanted Helen to be hurt, had wanted her friends to hide smiles and sneers at her approach. Now he realised that if people jeered at Helen, they would perhaps suspect that he had married out of pique, and such suspicions would work an injury—slight but real—to Joyce.

Friendly Relations

And he didn't want Joyce hurt! A thousand Rogans couldn't make him think evil of her. So, in the intimacy of their breakfasts together, enthralled by the sight of her in negligee, he would tell himself. And then, when she would laughingly order him from her bedroom, doubts would come back. After all, though they had undergone a marriage ceremony, they were not man and wife. Yet she suffered no embarrassment at intimacies which he had never indulged in with any other woman in his life.

He would be in her cabin and it would be time to go on deck for a stroll.

"Turn your back," she would order. Obediently he would look the other way. There would be a swish of silk and she would tell him that he might look. The girl who, a moment ago, had been in a suit of pajamas, would now appear in a dinner dress. And she would announce the change, and make it, without any self-consciousness. Could a girl unaccustomed to masculine intimacy be as devoid of embarrassment under such conditions?

Had there been any obvious coquetry in her manner, in her voice, in her glance, he would have known how to answer the question. But he might have been her brother. . . . Perhaps, though he did not think of this, the impersonality with which she regarded him might have been one of the underlying causes of his depression. . . .

The motor trip from Cherbourg to Paris; the quaint inn at Caen where they had lunched, and his amusement at her delight over the fat and bustling waiter, the fresh-baked crescents, her struggle with the atrocious coffee. Then Paris; their apartment at the Crillon, overlooking the Place de la Concorde, her joy at the theater where she didn't understand a single word, the avidity with which she began to brush up schoolgirl French, the shopping, the luncheon at Fontainebleau, the trip to Versailles, the Latin Quarter. . . . The Paris-Madrid express to Biarritz, the sudden decision to rent a villa, the adoration—instant—of the servants for their new mistress. . . . And now two mornings after their arrival, their decision to go bathing.

Biarritz had entranced her. Why they had chosen this particular spot Tracy didn't know, except perhaps because he had never been there. But they had both loved it, been entranced by the scenery and climate, and well, here they were, ensconced in a charming villa, waited upon by servants of a deftness unknown in America, and he was dressed for the beach and, so he presumed, was she. And her gay voice was hurrying him. Through the half-open door that, when shut, constituted an impassable barrier, her voice floated, and enwrapped him in subtle promise, lifted him to heights from which he knew he would drop the moment her voice ceased or her presence was not with him.

"All ready," he called. "May I come in?"

"By all means," she answered.

He passed through the communicating door and stopped dead at sight of her.

How to Enjoy a Football Game Over the Radio

More and more people are beginning to realize that it is folly to go through all the annoyances of a long motor or railroad trip to get the thrill of a big football game or grid classic. You can, it has been demonstrated, experience all the hardships, inconveniences and emotions by radio if you go about it the right way.

PHILLIPS

First—Get a pretty girl to listen in with you and then jump into an automobile and drive around town through heavy traffic an hour or two before the broadcasting begins. Get behind as many slow-moving trucks as possible and make a serious effort to get lost.

Second—Park the auto about a mile from the house and trot across-country, dragging the girl friend by the hand and reaching the house a little too late to hear the announcer's account of the first period.

Third—Place a pine board or a slab of slate between two chairs near the radio and sit down, keeping your raccoon coat and draping the big green and yellow blanket about your girl friend. (If you want 100 per cent realism, sit on a cake of ice instead of the board or slab).

Fourth—Open a window in front of you and one in the other room so you will sit in a draft.

Fifth—Jump up and give a good long cheer for Old Rutgers or somebody as each first down is announced and join in the singing with gusto when the broadcaster says, "Now I'll let you hear the bands and the cheering sections for a few seconds."

Sixth—Throw your hat out of the window and yell whenever a touchdown is announced, no matter by which side. (Note: This is where taking in a game by a radio has it all over personal attendance. Sitting at the radio you can cheer both sides, rah-rahing for Notre Dame when it scores and whooping her up just as vociferously for Army when Army scores. In a stadium such conduct would be quite unpardonable).

Seventh—When either goal is threatened stand up and bellow, "Hold 'em, Whoozies!", "Block that Kick," or "Touchdown! Touchdown!" In fact you can bellow all three without having anybody except the girl friend suspect inconsistency.

Eighth—Tear up a newspaper now and then and throw the pieces over your head, at the same time screaming "Ee-yh-h-h-h-h!"

Ninth—Between the first and second halves stand up and wave at imaginary persons, calling "Hello, Winthrop," "Ah, there, Chester," "Some game, eh, Eddie?" etc. Take the girl friend by the arm and walk out into the back yard. Discuss the game excitedly, eat an all-hot or two and produce the usual hash.

Tenth—Rush back into the house but do not turn on the radio until four plays have taken place.

Eleventh—After the radio announces the final play, dash out and go looking for your parked automobile. Take about an hour for this. Then drive into heavy traffic and stay in it until about 9:30. Then draw up in front of a restaurant and get a pretty terrible chicken dinner. You will then have experienced every sensation and emotion possible had you attended the game.

Professional Women Have Party at Camp Noble

Camp Noble was the scene Tuesday night of an "Airplane" party given to members of the Business and Professional Women's club. Miss Lena Derzaph as social chairman, with Misses Agnes Blackmon and Juanita Perry assisting, arranged a novel program.

The invitations were in the form of an airplane and each guest was requested to wear aviation clothes—goggles, helmets, leather coats, knickers, etc. As they entered, Miss Derzaph presented each guest with a special pilot license. The members were divided into American and Friendship groups and everything in the evening contests was built round this idea.

One contest followed another, each being on some aviation term, the groups contesting while the hostesses kept score. In "zooming," only five girls landed the small airplane on the map which they had seen for a few moments, in a safe place. "Landing" was a more difficult and hazardous experiment and only one succeeded in this. In the "hurricane," they blew little airplanes across the room on copper wires and in "bombing," they dropped harmless rubber balls at a target.

When the score was counted, the Friendship side was winner and the highest individual score was given to Mrs. Doris Hall.

Miss Mildred Roe furnished piano music throughout the entire evening and dancing followed the games and the mock initiation terrors which took place in a darkened room.

Delicious refreshments were served to Misses Susie Downing, Zula McKay, Anna Seipelmeyer, Mildred Roe, Lena Derzaph, Winnie Mae Giddings, Marguerite Goolsby, Cleo Bowers, Glenna Miller, Mayme Kuhfuss, Agnes Blackmon, Lucille Campbell, Jewell Mays, Ethel Glasgow, Catherine Walker, Mesdames Mary Lyons, Doris Hall, Josephine Buchanan, Joella Terrill Butler, Lena Braswell and Edna Vogt.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We have just read that an Oklahoma man has undergone 102 surgical operations. And they laugh and tell a woman after one operation, that she has a subject for conversation for the rest of her life.

◆ ◆ ◆

Speaking of such conversation, it is remarkable that where two or three women are gathered together and one has just experienced a surgeon's pruning, her companions are not composed until they have told what they know of operations.

◆ ◆ ◆

But many women are just the same about the cold or the flu they've had and all of them (there may be exceptions, but we do not know them) recite the ailments—as well as the accomplishments—of their children.

◆ ◆ ◆

When it comes to every day talk —we do not mean conversation—we fear men, as a race, are superior to women. That is a hard thing for one whose motto is "stand up for your race," to say.

◆ ◆ ◆

But where, in the majority of cases, we have observed two or three women together will talk of personal things—operations, babies, clothes or some other woman, two or three men will discuss sport, state, business and national affairs.

◆ ◆ ◆

We are talking about men now; not the sprigs of youth who call themselves men before they've discovered more than two or three ideas, first among these being that decayed theory handed down from the mauve decade that men are "the superior sex."

◆ ◆ ◆

That idea, when advanced by one of these young males who has never done a thing to prove his worth, has always made us red headed.

◆ ◆ ◆

Since we women have had the vote, the most hectic time in this one woman's life was the year of a presidential election when two men in the house argued hotly and at length about who should be elected, when neither of them had registered and we were the only qualified voter.

◆ ◆ ◆

Concerning that sort of conversation, we believe no one has a right to argue politics. Reasoning is another thing, but who ever heard of two people reasoning over politics?

◆ ◆ ◆

It all comes back to the question of tolerance. Each man—or woman—(though Jefferson did not mention the more delicate sex) has the three inalienable rights—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

◆ ◆ ◆

We wonder which is the more tolerant sex.

Mrs. Heyman Praises Isadora Duncan Dancers

Two profound and lasting passions dominated the life of Isadora Duncan—her art and her children. In her philosophy was unique commingling of these two passions. For her, the dance was the natural heritage of every child, the supreme art, embodying within its field all others—music, drama, painting and even sculpture. The teaching of the dance was to her the foundation of the child's education.

The dancers appearing under Mr. Hurock's management were selected as the most talented of the school. They were trained since early childhood by Isadora Duncan and have absorbed the great technical knowledge of their teacher—the vital and passionate love of grace and beauty which has immortalized the name of Isadora Duncan.

It is interesting to note how enthusiastic local artists are over the coming dancers as is exemplified by the letter below:

"I consider Isadora Duncan the greatest genius the dancing world has ever produced. Her dancers that are coming are by far the most perfect exponents of classical dancing in the world. Every person studying dancing and every person interested in poetry of motion should not fail to avail themselves of this treat coming to the Woman's Forum Dec. 9. Alzada Knickerbocker Heyman."

Why Fat
WHEN SO MANY FIND IT EASY TO REDUCE

All can see everywhere that countless people have found the right way to fight fat. Slender figures now prevail. Excess fat has largely disappeared. Mark the people you know who in late years have gained new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, by combating fat.

One great reason lies in the discovery that most fat people have an under-active gland. Its failure to control nutrition permits too much food to form fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, combat that cause.

Their method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, also the reasons for the good results. People have used Marmola for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. And the results have come without abnormal exercise or diet.

Why retain your excess fat when so many have ended theirs? Go try their method—try it now. Get Marmola, read the book in the box. Take four tablets daily, as directed, and watch the changes that occur. Do this in justice to yourself, to please your family and friends. You will be delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

YOUNG COUNTY JURY REPORTS

Trial of Olney Slayer Is Slated for Thursday

Eleven true bills of indictment were returned Wednesday afternoon in the report of the 30th district grand jury for Young county to Judge Allan D. Montgomery at Graham. The 11 bills were in addition to the murder indictment returned in a special report Monday afternoon against John Reese, charged with the shooting of Ed Langford, Olney constable, on Nov. 18.

Of the bills presented to Judge Montgomery Wednesday afternoon two charged child desertion; two swindling, two robbery, three violations of the prohibition laws, one burglary, and one disposing of mortgaged property.

The robbery charges are brought against Mallisi Jones and Pearl Williams, two young women who are accused of hijacking Joe Marshall in Graham on Nov. 11. Marshall lost $62.

A. D. Cockrell, in the Young county jail on charges of disposing of mortgaged property is fighting the case both in the civil and criminal courts, having filed a $10,000 damage suit charging malicious arrest, against the complaining company in Graham.

The whisky charges are against Walter Thedford, Frank Pittman and Dudley Miller. John Crutchfield is indicted for burglary. Other defendants named in the bills are not yet under arrest.

Arraignment of Reese on the charge of shooting the former officer to death in the office of the Olney justice of the peace is scheduled for Thursday, Judge Montgomery has announced. A special venire for the trial, set for the week of Dec. 16, will also be drawn, the judge declared.

SHERIFF RAIDS BURK STORES

Eight Slot Machines Taken In Single-Handed Sweep

In a series of single-handed raids upon drug stores and cafes in Burkburnett, Sheriff W. G. Bralley Wednesday afternoon seized eight slot machines, confiscating the lot for destruction in Wichita Falls. The machines were the property of a fly-by-night who dropped in occasionally to pocket his profits, leaving a small percentage for the store owners, the sheriff explained. In the absence of the owner of the contraband goods, no arrests were made, but warning was served on slot machine owners and operators all over the county, Mr. Bralley said.

The sheriff will start proceedings to obtain an order for the destruction of the eight big machines Thursday. Meanwhile they are locked in the county jail, where they will be shortly joined by any others of their kind that may be discovered in operation, the officer declared.

WATER USERS MEET TONIGHT

Remington Calls Sessions For Two Districts

Mass meetings of irrigation users in two different districts have been called for Thursday and Friday nights for the purpose of discussing drainage matters with the view of correcting seepage which has damaged property along the ditches, it was announced Wednesday by G. A. Remington, manager of the Wichita County Water Improvement districts.

The meeting Thursday night will be called at 7:30 o'clock at the Allendale school building. Friday night's gathering will be at the City View school.

Speakers from the district will give talks and F. P. Brown, drainage engineer for the improvement districts, will present a plan of drainage construction with an estimate of its cost and the methods by which the work may be done, Mr. Remington said. Seepage conditions existing were described as "threatening the prosperity of the district."

The Allendale school meeting was called by Solon Downing, Tom Fields, A. V. Moller and N. G. Entrekin. The City View school gathering was called by F. H. Harris, Mrs. P. S. Johnson, J. S. Yancey, Fred Roop, M. H. Pearce, W. T. Johnson and W. R. Davis.

Airport Notes

Miss Amelia Earhart, America's foremost woman flier, expressed pleasure at the extension program of improvement now under way at the Municipal airport just before she took off Wednesday morning. She remarked on the departure from conventional design displayed in the new Spanish fort type administration building nearing completion at the port and complimented the system of runways recently laid out. The field, she said, is one of the best landing fields she has visited, though her flights have carried her to almost every important field in the United States. She predicted that the port would become a beehive of activity within the next few months.

As though urged on by the example of Miss Earhart, Mrs. James E. McKanna made her first solo flight at the Municipal airport Wednesday morning a few minutes after the speck that was the famous flier's Lockheed Vega had disappeared in the southwest. Mrs. McKanna has been taking instruction under Pilot Burton L. Walker for the past few months following her purchase of a Travelair open biplane. Her flight, which lasted about 30 minutes, rivaled the excellence of one by Miss Earhart, her instructor said. She made perfect takeoffs and landings.

At Staley field Wednesday, the Wichita Falls Air Transport company announced delivery of a new Hisso Eaglerock biplane to Charles R. Johnson and Guy Britton of Gainesville, Texas. The purchase was made recently and delivery quickly made through the transport company, local agents for the Alexander Aircraft company.

After a course in flying instruction which lasted only about eight and one-half hours, Ben Langford, son of P. P. Langford, made his first solo flight Wednesday afternoon at Staley field. Both takeoffs and landings were in perfect form, his instructor said.

Federal Court Term May Adjourn Today

Arguments in civil motions pending before Judge W. H. Atwell in the United States district court, in session here since Nov. 18, are expected Thursday morning to bring the fall term for the Wichita Falls district to a close.

One of the final actions of the court before the end of the term was the release Wednesday morning of Joe Liberman, former Olney merchant, who had been held in the Wichita county jail on contempt charges since the March term of the court.

During the morning session Wednesday Judge Atwell declined to dismiss Dave Paul, former Wichita Falls jeweler, from bankruptcy. The court acted upon the recommendation of Walter Nelson, referee in bankruptcy, who upheld the protests of the creditors against the dismissal. Attorneys for the creditors alleged failure to keep necessary records showing the financial condition of the bankrupt.

How the Bones Effect Health

The principal form of the body corresponds closely to the size, shape, and position of the bones. The person with long bones will be tall, one with short bones will be short. Often the principal difference in height is because of the length of the leg bones. Most people, when sitting, are approximately the same height, but in standing there is a great difference.

Deformities of the body, are usually due to the deformities of the bones. For example, when the bones of the spine have not formed properly, or have become diseased, then hunchbacks, round shoulders and swaybacks, one may be bowlegged, knock kneed, one leg shorter than the other, club-footed, etc.

Whenever two bones come together, especially in joints where there is a slight but not free movement, as in the spine, ribs, bones of the pelvis, wrist, and in the bones of the feet, there is a possibility of injury through a slight misplacement, which often results in severe symptoms. With these slight misplacements, the joints may become inflamed and sore. It is also possible for nerves to be affected either by pressure of the bones, themselves, or from the inflammation of the joints, and in this way convey the soreness and tenderness to parts of the body far removed from the joint. It is difficult to determine whether or not these misplacements have occurred unless one is very skilled in searching for them. If you will have someone press his fingers up and down your spine you will probably find one or more spots that are much more tender than the other spots, and the chances are that some such misplacements have taken place at these points. A doctor who is skilled in making this kind of a diagnosis can usually determine just where these sensitive spots are just from an examination without asking any questions of the patient. This is because the tissues in the immediate area of the misplacement become thickened or swollen and there is less movement because of muscular tension. Even X-ray pictures, unless they are very carefully taken at the right angles, sometimes fail to disclose these exceedingly fine dislocations which, even though they are but slight, may produce quite a serious discomfort.

Many cases of neuritis in the arm, for example, which were caused by slight misplacements in the vertebrae at the lower part of the neck, even without the patient being aware of any trouble in the area where the misplacement occurs. It is very easy, however, to trace the tender nerve up to the spot where the pressure occurs, and often the neuritis disappears completely after two or three treatments which restore the bones to their normal position. Many troubles of the legs and even of the feet can be traced to slight displacements of the lower vertebrae or to the pelvic bones and these troubles also often disappear in the same way.

Anatomists have argued among themselves as to whether the injurious effect upon the nerves is caused by the pressure of the bones or ligaments, or whether it is a simple spreading of the inflammation of the joint to the nerve, but the fact remains that these troubles will often clear up in a remarkably short time if the position of the joint is corrected. Upon this fact is based the phenomenal success of osteopathy, chiropractic, and Swedish manipulations in many troubles. One should not make the mistake, however, of assuming that every trouble can be traced to this cause. Success in the healing art must depend upon a good all round knowledge of the thousands of different factors which may enter into the production of disease.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Thyroid Gland)

Question—Mrs. R. H. J. asks: "Where is the thyroid gland located? Does massaging help glands in any way?"

Answer—The thyroid gland is located just at the base of the neck in front and can usually be felt by the finger when the finger is placed in the little hollow at the base of the neck and the patient swallows. The thyroid moves up and down during swallowing and can be felt passing under the finger. Most of the ductless glands cannot be reached by massage, but where the thyroid gland is very large it can sometimes be partially drained and made smaller by manipulatory treatments.

(Nerve and Bone Food)

Question—F. M. B. asks: "What foods are best calculated to promote the growth and maintenance of nerve tissue and filament? Also foods best calculated to make bone and marrow? I mean those best calculated to contribute to the growth and maintenance of these elements of the anatomy."

Answer—The cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables are the ones which contain the most nerve and bone-building elements. It is not necessary to use any particular one of these but simply a good combination of a variety of such food.

(Grafting Hair)

Question—H. G. asks: "Will you kindly tell me if there is a method of grafting hair from one part of the body to other parts, such as eyebrows and eyelashes, with the electric needle process?"

Answer—Although it is possible to graft hair from one part of the body to another, I do not know of any institution where it is being done.

J. ALVIN GARDNER ELECTED PRESIDENT OF TEXAS LEAGUE

TERM WILL BE FIVE YEARS

New Prexy Was Former Spudder Owner

By AL PARKER
Staff Correspondent

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 4.—J. Alvin Gardner, former owner of the Wichita Falls club, was elected president of the Texas league for a five-year term at a special meeting of the league here this afternoon. Gardner was unanimously elected to the long term by acclamation, with Waco the only one of the eight clubs not present. Gardner has served as active vice president of the league for the past several months.

Early Meeting

The Texas league meeting wes held immediately before the national association, the organization that comprises all minor leagues, went into session. One of its items of business is the election of a member of the board of arbitration to fill the place of the late J. Doak Roberts. Gardner is expected to be further honored by election to this important office.

Steer Player Sold

A veteran passed from the league when the Dallas club sold Shortstop Ray Flaskamper to the Memphis Chicks of the Southern association. The Steers' disposal of Flaskamper probably means that Wayne Windle, purchased from Waco, is being counted on for next season.

The Texas league season will open April 9. A schedule meeting will be held at Houston Jan. 11.

CHARLES H. KNAPP HEADS INTERNATIONAL LOOP

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 4. (AP)—Charles H. Knapp, Baltimore lawyer, was elected president of International league by unanimous vote of the eight clubs in the late afternoon, while the morning brought to George Toporcer, suspended Rochester, N. Y., infielder, the glad tidings that he would not have to remain out of baseball for a year, but could play second base for the Red Wings as soon as he pays a fine of $500.

The election of Knapp broke a deadlock of long standing in the International league. Since the death of John Conway Toole, the league has been unable to agree upon a successor and the affairs of the league have been in the hands of Knapp, assisted by an advisory committee of club presidents. Knapp had not been a candidate.

The International league decided also to continue playing 168 games a season.

Toporcer Sentence Modified

President M. H. Sexton of the National association, after a rehearing of the charges against Toporcer and William H. Southworth, manager of the Rochester club, growing out of an argument with an umpire during the little world series last October, modified the sentences he imposed after a previous hearing at which the players were not represented. Then Toporcer, who had been fined $200 last autumn, was supended for one year and Southworth fined $500. Under the reduction announced today, Toporcer will be reinstated upon the payment of an additional fine of $500, while Southworth's fine was reduced to $200.

Formal Opening

The opening of the convention today was formal, being restricted to reading of routine reports and appointments of committees. Another session will be held tomorrow.

Joe Tinker, famous Cub shortstop of other days, will return to baseball during the 1930 season and although he no longer can start the "Tinker to Evers to Chance," double plays of 20 years ago, he will be close to the game he loves. Tinker will become assistant to "Derby Day Bill," Clymer, manager of the Buffalo International league club.

The St. Louis Browns cut three players from its roster, George Stanton, first baseman, Paul Hopkins, pitcher, and Tom Jenkins, outfielder, were released to Milwaukee.

One of the trades developed during the day was between Toronto and Beaumont, when Toronto sent pitcher Abe Martin to Texas club in exchange for outfielder Petrie. Milwaukee sold Ivy Griffin, first baseman, to Atlanta.

The most important player deal of the meeting was made today when the Louisville club of the American association sold Malcolm Moss, a left-handed pitcher, to the Chicago Cubs, for a large sum of money and a pitcher to be named later. The amount of cash involved was not revealed, but it was said to be between $35,000 and $40,000, a record price for this meeting, which has not been featured by large outlay of money for players.

J. W. (Country) Davis, first baseman was sold by Dallas of the Texas league to Reading of the International league.

Dartmouth Awards Football Honors To Altus Youth

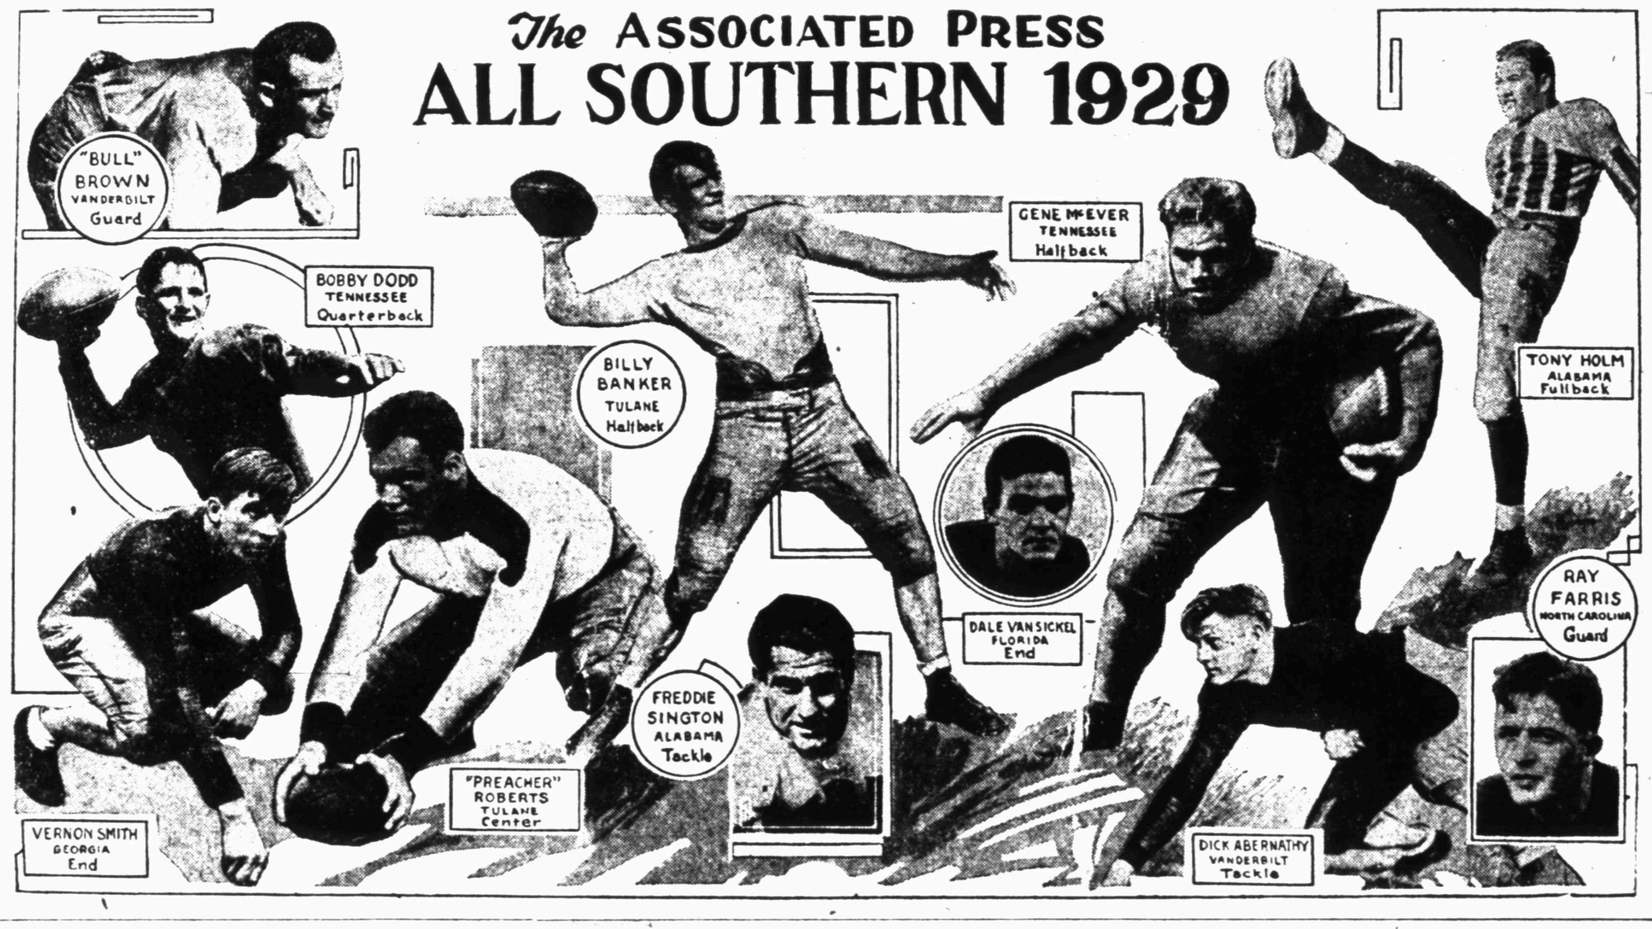

Special to The Record News

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 4.—Dartmouth today, following a meeting of the athletic council, awarded 22 letters, the highest athletic awards made by the old Indian school. The football awards, the lowest number in many years, were interesting for the reason that Tommy Longnecker and Bart McDonough, veteran quarterbacks who completed their third term of service on the gridiron, were given letters.

Most prominent among the awards was that to Adna Malone Cole, one of the most popular members of the senior class, and a resident of Altus, Okla., who is hailed as one of the greatest football players who ever wore the Green uniform. Cole has been paid splendid tribute for his work on the Dartmouth gridiron and will leave college with more gridiron honors and prestige than any other senior in many years.

The Dartmouth athletic council as well as the Green coaches today lauded Cole, who has always been known here as the cowboy football star.

"Cole is one of the most splendid youths and one of the finest football players I have come in contact with," the head coach declared.

Horton Smith Again

The big splash of the winter golf season should bring a pretty well known name back to the headlines, now that football is slipping away from most of the space it has occupied since early October.

The name happens to be Horton Smith, of Joplin and Springfield, Mo. Smith kept the headlines fairly busy last winter when he won more big money tournaments than any winter golfer had ever bagged before, taking as many as four in a row.

This season he opened his campaign by winning his first 72-hole start and finishing second in the next. That isn't slipping to any great extent. If it is about 3,000,000 golfers would like to start slipping without wasting any more time.

Smith is a golfer who should keep on traveling like the wind. His playing form is as near perfection as the game shows, barring nobody. He is tall, willowy, strongly built. He has a flexible body, flexible arms and flexible wrists. He is a golfer of courage and determination. No player takes better care of himself. He can hit the ball a long way with little effort. He has a fine, long game and a sound, consistent short game around the greens.

He was overgolfed when he arrived at Winged Foot last June from too much tournament and exhibition play, stretching from December into summer. He has had a better chance to rest up a trifle and if he doesn't over-play himself again, will be one of the major golf factors for 1930.

Bobby Jones can't keep winning forever with a working career to look after. Walter Hagan is nearing 40. There is no one in sight with a better chance to step into the gap sure to come and lead the parade as they have done for the greater part of the last 10 years.

Coaches and Material

Last fall Knute Rockne lost four games. Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech won every game.

This fall Rockne of Notre Dame has had a remarkable season, while Georgia Tech has lost five games.

Yet, as Fielding H. Yost remarked recently, "Rockne was as good a coach last year as he has been this—Alexander is as good a coach this year as he was last year." This is true, showing again the importance of material.

Too much blame for losing and too much praise for winning has been placed upon the coach. It all gets down, in the main, to man power on the field—to speed, stamina, natural football ability—and to reserves.

There is no question that certain teams have a big advantage in getting their material over other teams. Proselyting may be common among them all, but it is much more pronounced in some cases than in others.

There is no question but that scholastic regulations are far stricter in certain universities than they are in others. It is no trouble at all to name 20 to 50 fine coaches who can win with good material—and also lose with poor material. None of them can win with poor material. If they could Rockne would not have lost four games last fall and Alexander would not have lost five games this fall.

And don't forget that hard schedules make a vital difference—especially where there is a continuity of hard or battering games. There is no basis of comparison between a team with a fairly easy schedule and one with a fairly hard schedule. For the pressure of modern football is as heavy mentally as it is physically, and it is through loss of nerve reserve that the main depletion sets in.

Junior Colleges Decide Gridiron Title December 13

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., Dec. 4.—Junior college football championship for Oklahoma will be decided Dec. 13, probably at Lawton.

Northeastern college at Miami and Oklahoma Military academy, Claremore, will clash at Miami Friday to decide which team will then play Cameron college for the junior championship. Both these teams are undefeated in the conference, but both have been tied in the score. Cameron has defeated all competitors by a wide margin.

It has not been definitely decided that the game will be played at Lawton, but Lawton has offered inducements which it is not believed will be offered elsewhere in the way of a guarantee. Fans are very anxious that the game shall be played here. The event will be largely advertised.

Coach Penn Dickson is being assisted by Coach Griffin, of the high school, in training of the players for the big game.

Defending Champ and Former Title Holder Lead Golfers in California

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4. (AP)—Paced by two favorites—brilliant Leo Diegel, defending champion, and Walter Hagen, five times holder of the title—contenders for the 1929 Professional Golfers association championship stroked their way through a gruelling second round of 36-hole match play that saw the field narrowed down to eight.

Diegel swept through his match in easy fashion, with Herman Barron Port Chester, N. Y., 10-9. Hagen eliminated Charles Guest, Los Angeles, 5 and 4.

The Agua Caletente Mexico professional won the first hole from Barron and was never pressed from that time on. At the ninth he was three up and had increased the lead to eight at the 18th. The match ended on the 27th with Diegel posting figures of 37-33-70 for the morning round and a 34 on the third nine. Barron shot 40-38-78 and took 36 on the third nine.

Hagen had a 35-34-69, two under par, for the first 18 and went out in the afternoon in 37. He was three up at the 27th. Guest had 37-37-74 and 35 for his third nine.

Two former national open champions, Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell advanced to the third round. Sarazen defeated Fred Morrison of Los Angeles, tournament medalist, 3 and 2. While Farrell eliminated Henri Culci, Bridgeport, Conn., 2 and 1.

In the most bitter struggle of the day, Al Espinosa, Chicago, nosed out another veteran campaigner, William Mehlhorn, New York, on the 40th hole.

Al Watrous, Detroit, removed Larry Nabholtz, Houston, Texas, from the picture with an overwhelming 9-7 defeat, while Tony Manero, New York, raced through his match today with a 6-5 win over Eddie Schultz, Troy, N. Y.

Craig Wood, young Bloomfield, N. J. star, entered the third round with a 33-2 win from Neil Christian, Portland, Ore.

Tomorrow's matches will put Diegel against Sarazen in the outstanding test. Hagen will meet Manero in the other lower bracket play. Diegel and Hagen are the favorites and if they come through as expected, will face each other in the semi-final classic Friday.

In the upper bracket matches tomorrow, Watrous takes on Espinosa and Farrell meets Wood.

AMARILLO SANDIES ENTRAIN TONIGHT FOR BRECKENRIDGE

SMITH DRIVES ELEVEN HARD

10,000 Fans Will See Titular Game

AMARILLO, Texas, Dec. 4.—Coach Dutch Smith and his Golden Sandies put in another big day on the windswept gridiron of the local practice field in preparation for their coming bi-district bout with the bucking Buckaroos Saturday at Breckenridge. The Sandies are all in first rate physical condition and only the strategy and tactics to be employed in the Saturday game are now receiving the attention of the mentor.

Battle Plans

When the Sandies square off against the Buckaroos they will be pretty well acquainted with battle plans of the Oil Belt eleven. Coach Smith has had half his men running Buckaroo plays against the other half—the men who are most likely to see service Saturday. The Buckaroos have been well scouted by Amarillo lookouts and there is little of their mode of offense or defense that the Sandstorm is not on to.

The Lineup

Following his avowed policy, Coach Smith has given no intimation as to who will start the game for Amarillo. The coach has made so many last minute lineup changes just before the time for game that nobody is positive about the starters. However, it is presumed that Nicklaus will be there at center, with Lockhart, Bufkin, Hudgins and Gibson in the backfield.

The Sandstorm players will put in their last drill on the home field Thursday and then embark that night for the precincts of the enemy team. Some 26 squad members are expected to make the trip with Coach Smith.

BUCKAROOS WANT TO HOLD INTACT TRADITION

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Dec. 4.—In keeping with a tradition that is nine years old, Coach P. E. Shotwell's Oil Belt champion Buckaroos must defeat the Amarillo Sandies here, when these two clubs meet for the bi-district championship of districts 1 and 2. A district 1 team has failed to crash through to a win if the quarter-final round in the last nine years of playing against Oil Belt teams. But Amarillo coaches claim their charges are prepared to break through the traditional barrier this year. The Sandies are bringing a team to Breckenridge Saturday reputed to be approximately 15 pounds per man heavier than the smashing Buckaroo outfit. Coach Shotwell of Breckenridge will match this weight advantage with a fast running and passing attack, led by the invincible Boyce Magness and the smoothest bit of high school interference running ever witnessed in the state. Everything points to a "sell out" for the game. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 10,000 fans and if the weather is right, they will be here. Amarillo will arrive on a special train, 1,000 strong. Interest is extremely high in Breckenridge as this is the first year that the Buckaroos have ever won a district championship.

GAME MOVED UP

Austin College-St. Edwards Game in Austin Saturday

AUSTIN, Dec. 4. (AP)—A last minute switch in plans has caused Austin college-St. Edward's game from Friday at Temple to Saturday at Autsin. The game will be played in the University of Texas memorial stadium, according to an announcement made by Coach Al Sarafiny of St. Edward's today.

SPORT Loose Ends

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Walter Camp, the original "grand old man" of foot-ball ball, picked the first all-American football team. Camp is no more now but the practice which he began goes on. Selection of all-American all-star, all-this, all-that and all-the other teams has become a national pastime. Everybody picks his own "all-team" these days, so it seems.

Albeit we do not deplore the practice though it may be somewhat disconcerting to the mythical average fan. No doubt it is exasperating to come upon somebody's selection and find that one's favorite player is missing from the roster of honor. But it must be kept in mind that in this land of the mythical elevens and the home of the honorably mentioned there are literally hundred of thousands nay a million maybe of football fans. In such an array and conglomeration of minds there are bound to be all kinds of conflicting and diverging opinions. Probably one as good as the other. Also there are scores of candidates and potential players who might be picked for the coveted distinction. It is a mathematical impossibility to place more than 11 players on one mythical team. Thus it must follow that many of us will be disappointed with some of the all-eleven selections.

Though the fan does not agree with any selection in its entirety, it must be conceded that a selection by reliable news services such as the Associated Press, the United Press and great sports critics does carry with it a measure of authenticity. No man or agency can possibly see in action all the good players embraced within territory of his or its selection. Dependence must, therefore, be put upon different reliable officials and sport critics in the district in question. The final choice for position amounts to a consensus of expert opinion upon the subject and most probably nearer the true approximation of the ultimate aim than the lay fan could arrive at.

Houston plans to revise its building code in an effort to stamp out termites, or ants, which chew on homes and furniture.

MORRISON TO PICK PONIES

S. W. Representatives Play Big Ten

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—A list of senior players who will be invited to represent the Southwest conference against a picked team from the Big Ten conference was being prepared today by Ray Morrison, Southern Methodist mentor, who was chosen to select and coach this section's eleven for the anfiual New Year's classic.

As he will be allowed a squad of 22 men, Morrison is expected to invite at least 30 of the conference's leading graduates. Each year a number of them are unable to accept the invitation for one reason or another. Morrison has only 46 players to choose from, including many reserves.

Those who accept the invitation will be gathered here a week before the game to learn a set of plays and perfect their teamwork. Morrison is anxious to make a better showing than was made by last year's Southwest stars against a Big Six eleven.

Coach Jimmy Phelan of Purdue, Big Ten champion, is expected to raise a mighty squad from his conference. His team is certain to contain Pest Welch, Purdue's all-American halfback from Sherman, Texas, and other great stars. Phelan received permission to draw from Notre Dame, not a member of the Big Ten, if he chose.

REAGAN FOOTBALL

Beck's Youngsters in Intramural Grid Practice

Wichita Falls now has its intramural football. Some 50 young football players representing the seventh and eighth grades at the Reagan Junior high school are now practicing daily under the immediate supervision of the Reagan letter men and under the general supervision of Coach Beck. Class rivalry between the seventh and eighth grades is now almost as keen as rivalry between Reagan and Zundelowitz was two weeks ago before the two teams met.

On Friday these intramural teams of the Reagan Junior high school will play a match game. And they are now preparing for the coming game with all the zeal of regular football teams.

The Reaganites are veritably possessed of the demon of football, and by the way, know how to play the game. Their 6 to 6 tie game with the Zundelowitz Junior high eleven on Tuesday before Thanksgiving day still rankles in their makeup and they have declared themselves willing to play the game over in order to decide which is the better team. As yet the Zundy boys have made no move to take up the challenge. This, the Reagan boys feel, is a tacit admission that the Zundy players are jolly glad to let well enough alone and not take a chance on suffering a reverse. It will be remembered that the Reaganites practically doubled the count on the Zundy eleven in the matter of first downs scored.

Rice Builds Team Around Four Men

HOUSTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—Around four lettermen of last year Coach Pug Daugherity of Rice Institute is building a basket ball team which he hopes will be a menace to other teams in the Southwest conference.

The Owls' first game will be with a local Y. M. C. A. team here Thursday night. Holly Brock, who set a new Southwest conference scoring record while playing with Texas university, will play with the Y. M. C. A.

'After Graduation What?' Coaches Ask

Many Star Players Leave Their Elevens

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—That much-bandied question, "after graduation, what?" is causing about as much perturbation among Southwest conference grid coaches these days as it is among the students who go out into the world at the end of this college year.

With the 1929 season virtually closed, the seven coaches of the Southwest circuit find they have 46 considerable holes to plug up before another school year rolls around. Among the graduating footballers are such luminaries as Schoonover of Arkansas and Grubbs of T. C. U.

Christians Hard Hit

The Texas Christians, just crowned with their first championship, are as hard hit as any, losing eight men besides their brilliant quarterback, Howard Grubbs. Coach Schmidt's worries are matched by the football mentors at Texas and Rice institute, each having nine vacancies in their line-ups for 1930.

The predicament in these camps, however, is reason for rejoicing on the campus of Southern Methodist, where Capt. Henry Sanders is the only considerable loss, and at Baylor, which loses only its two wings via graduation.

Arkansas' Line Broken

Arkansas' "one ton line" will need considerable new poundage next year with six of its stalwarts gone, while the Texas Aggies mourn the loss of "Pinky" Alsabrook and six other men.

There follows a list of losses of each school. An interesting sidelight on this list is that it contains the names of the proposed Southwest all-star team to meet the all-stars of the Big Ten in a projected charity game. Players in each of the two teams will be seniors.

Rice (nine): Bush Jones, guard; Red Thomas, center; Frank Power and Frenchy Arnold, ends; Tiny Williams and Graham Boone, tackles; Paul Smith and Ham Davis, halfbacks; Aubrey Calvin, fullback.

Longhorn's Losses

University of Texas (nine): Capt. Gordon Brown and Charles Hawn, tackles; Jim Beard, and Eddie Beular, fullbacks; Curtis Beaty, guard; Mac Burnett, center; Frank Cheatham, and Alfred Rose, ends; Nona Rees, quarterback.

Texas Christian university (nine): Capt. Lester Brumbelow and Phil Handler, guards; Noble Atkins and Robert George, centers; Milford Barr and Robert Moore, tackles; Roy Eury and Ralph Walker, ends; Howard Grubbs, quarterback.

Texas A. & M. (seven): Capt. Tom Mills and Frank Ish, quarterbacks; Ralph Dorsey, halfback; Pinky Alsabrook and Roy Varnell, ends; Ross Mortellar, tackle, and Charlie Richter, guard.

University of Arkansas, (seven): Capt. Clarence Geis, quarterback; Clyde Van Sickele, guard; Wear Schnoonover and Orrin Hays, ends; Carnall Gardner, Joe Fay Moore and Quentine Crabaught, tackles.

Southern Methodist university (three): Capt. Henry Sanders and A. W. Lindley, guards; Victor Sauffley, center.

Baylor (two): Capt. Weldo Lucas and Joe Potter, ends.

Ray Johnson May Be Lost to S. M. U. Basket Ball Team

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Gloom pervaded the Southern Methodist basket ball squad today when it was announced that Raymond Johnson, brilliant forward from last year's freshman team, might be lost for the season. Coach Jimmy St. Clair had counted heavily upon the Fort Worth flash.

Johnson's ankle was injured in the season's first hard scrimmage last night. A blood vessel was broken and the ankle was badly swollen today. He is certain to be out for more than a month, Coach St. Cair said.

This year's Mustang quintet is due to be made up largely of sophomores. Last season the freshman team consistently outplayed the varsity. The stars of this group include Johnson, Bruce Kattman and Rav Williams, forwards; Jake Reynolds and Bill Dillon, centers; and George Koontz and Alfred Neely, guards.

Veterans returning include Marion Hammon and Dick Williams, guards; Chester Donnally, center; Brooks, center and forward; and Bill Skeeters, guard and center.

IF THE WAGE EARNER IN THE CITY could devise some way whereby he could save all his hard-earned wages and not have to pay it out in rent and grocery bills, he could then accumulate enough capital to eventually become independent. Why not bring your family into a beautiful garden home where the table could be furnished direct from the garden? Then by putting in a few hundred choice high-record hens the little farm should become self-supporting, furnishing employment for the entire family while the head of the household still continued his job in the city by commuting to his farm.

Visit the Model Farm in Weeks Community of Little Farms located near Westmoreland swimming pool and see what irrigating water and abundance of fertilizer will do when scientifically applied. It will be a revelation to you. If you cannot come write for free literature.

HOWARD-PAYNE SEEKS TITLE

Yellow Jackets to Play Simmons Friday

ABILENE, Texas, Dec. 4. (AP)—The Howard Payne college Yellowjackets will seek to sew up their second straight Texas conference football title when they meet Simmons college here in one of two final conference games scheduled Friday.

St. Edward's university and Austin college, tied for second place, each with three victories and one defeat, clash in the other bout at Temple.

Howard Payne, with four straight victories over conference teams, will enter Friday's game a heavy favorite, but Coach Bridges' Cowboys are hopeful of upsetting the dope and making amends for one of their most disastrous seasons. In the event of a Simmons victory, the Yellowjackets would finish in a tie with the winner of the game at Temple.

Sylvester Plumlee of Olney, Ill., has filed suit for what he expects will be his ninth divorce. Plumlee's first divorce was in 1900.

Rainfall Predicted For Dry Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4. (UP)—The long spell of dry weather that has gripped most of the Pacific coast since early July will probably be ended Friday or Saturday by a rainstorm approaching from mid-Pacific, the United States weather bureau reported today.

For months farmers and cattle ranchers, as well as others whose livelihood depends more or less upon the soil, have waited in vain for rain to fall on the parched ground.

GINNINGS TOP 20,000 BALES

Turkey Movement Begins Rather Slowly

Cotton ginnings still showed a very healthy activity during Wednesday throughout the county, a total of 230 bales being reported for the day, which brought the season's total to 20,206.

Ginners predicted Wednesday that at least 22,000 bales will be ginned in the county before harvesting of the 1929 crop has been completed. The yield ginned thus far exceeds that reported by the state for this county in 1928 by about 5,000 bales.

Movement of turkeys to local markets, where dressing for the Christmas trade began Wednesday morning, was very slow all during the day, it was reported. Only about 350 birds were delivered at the Armour creameries plant, and the Peoples Produce company's plant fared no better, it was said.

Much heavier deliveries were reported from Grandfield and Memphis. Two carloads of turkeys from Memphis will arrive here Friday morning, according to information given by the Armour creameries plant there. Turkeys are moving slowly at Nocona, and only fairly at Crowell. Approximately eight more days will comprise the buying season for Christmas turkeys, local dealers said.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton today was encouraged by the relatively steady Liverpool cables but buying was checked by somewhat higher private crop figures and prices later eased under liquidation which was probably combined with some southern selling. January contracts sold off from 17.56 to 17.34 and closed at 17.40. The general market closed steady at net declines of 6 to 15 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 8 points with the active months selling about 6 to 8 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

The demand was promoted by the firmer showing of Liverpool which had evidently been influenced by the local firmness yesterday, but it was not active. A private report placing the crop at 15,034,000 bales seemed to bring in some selling shortly after the call.

Later, another private report placed the crop at 14,796,000 bales, but the earlier figure seemed to have unsettled sentiment to some extent and the market reached the lowest prices of the day in the late trading under liquidation or reselling by recent buyers, while there also appeared to be some selling for southern account. December contracts sold off from 17.43 to 17.26 and March from 17.85 to 17.63, making net losses of about 11 to 14 points.

Closing quotations were several points up from the lowest on covering. Additional private crop reports are anticipated before the government report is published Monday. It may cause a more definite crystallization of sentiment as to the showing of the official figures. Today's reports seemed to create a little more uncertainty as to the size of the crop which probably increased the disposition to even-up commitments pending further developments in that connection.

Exports today, 44,744, making 3,426,507 so far this season. Port receipts, 40,602. U. S. port stocks, 2,578,783.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Limited trading characterized cotton today, traders seeming indisposed to enter upon new ventures until after the issuance of the official crop report due Monday. Such business as developed was mainly of an evening up character. The market advanced early on bullish private estimates but the improvement met moderately heavy selling and prices reached the lows of the day in final trading. January traded off from 17.51 to 17.29 and closed at 17.31, or 12 points net down. The general market closed steady at net declines of 10 to 18 points.

Liverpool cables were about as due to one point better than due. This was evidently construed as favorable as initial transactions here showed gains of 6 to 8 points with March at 17.77. Two private estimates with relatively small figures helped the early firmness.

The advance attracted liquidation and evening up in advance of Monday's official crop report and before the offerings were absorbed, January traded to 17.37, March 17.64 and May 17.88, or 13 to 14 points down from the early highs.

In final trading the market suffered another sinking spell which was attributed to weakness in stocks. Active positions made new lows for the day 20 to 21 points under the highs and final prices were only a little above the lowest.

The two private reports issued today made the indicated crop 14,798,000 and 15,034,000 bales, respectively, with one authority estimating ginnings to Dec. 1, at 12,885,949 bales, or 88.2 per cent of the total crop.

Receipts 40,221; for week 221,481; for year 5,876,153; last year 6,092,702. Exports 43,497; for week 226,267; for year 3,346,163; last year 3,745,910. Stocks 2,620,002; last year 2,322,536. Stocks Recover Further While Oils Refuse to Be Depressed

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (US)—Recovery in stocks proceeded further in more active trading, today, despite heavier short selling. Further optimistic advices from Washington and general improvement in sentiment of the speculative community were the main influences to the advance. Steel after climbing 2 points finished with net gain of ¾. It was the main target for professional raids. Other stocks showed better advances with Can gaining 2⅜, Johns Manville 3, Standard Brands 1½, United Aircraft 3½, Standard of New Jersey 3⅜, General Electric 7½, Central 2¼, Columbia Carbon 17 points. Anaconda dropped 3 and other Copper shares a lesser amount. Utilities were the outstanding feature of strength most of the day with water Works jumping 12, Foreign Power 4⅞ and Detroit Edison 18½. Turnover increased to the 4,500,000 share level. Call money rate remained at 4½ per cent throughout.

Publication of Secretary Mellon's report did more to enhance bullish sentiment than any other factor. It was realized the secretary would not have outlined the debt reduction program for two years ahead, in commenting on the coming tax reduction, unless he was sure that business will remain sufficiently good to permit it being carried out. Such concrete evidence of faith in the business outlook proved more inspiring than all the recent "ballyhoo" of business leaders and others. Further optimistic talk is expected from the meeting of the chamber of commerce at Washington, tomorrow. The most welcomed result of the meetings, however, would be formation of a permanent business council that could be trusted to keep the country advised as to exact conditions and reasons for semi-governmental manipulation of credit especially.

Electric Bond & Share and other Utilities, character of buying in which was told here a few days ago, were pushed ahead in fine style. Some thought the advance was too rapid. Its rapidity was due mostly to short covering. Those who have "held the bag" and given the Utilities their only support for the last several weeks cannot be blamed for making it as tough for the bears as they possibly can. There was further talk of coming mergers, etc., but no special activity along these lines is expected until after the turn of the year. Simmons benefitted by announcement that sales gained 60 per cent in November. Checker Cab responded to announcement of dividend declaration forecast here some time ago.

Attempt to depress the Oils because of report of increase in production proved unsuccessful. Stabilization work is well under way and the most important interests in the industry are determined to keep output at warranted level. Mexican Seaboard enjoyed better demand due to knowledge of report of a well known geologist that placed value on the property at three times the current market. His valuation was based on proven holdings of 1,100 acres whereas the company actually has proven 2,000 acres of its 2,300. Buying of Allis Chalmers reflected belief that earnings will show further increase next year. In addition to its growing tractor business the company is expected to benefit materially from private and municipal construction activity as it is one of the best known manufacturers of hydraulic and other heavy machinery.

Federal reserve report tomorrow is expected to show further reduction in brokers' loans. The majority of brokers reported further drop in their borrowings while reports from the banks were rather mixed. Unless the banking position interferes, therefore, the loan report should provide further bullish stimulus. With borrowings down near $3,000,000,000 or close to $5,000,000,000 from what they were a year ago there need be no further fear of manipulation of credit even though progressive gain in borrowing was recorded for the next month or so.

Grain

TEXAS CASH PRICES

FORT WORTH, Dec. 4. (AP)—Prices on the cash grain market today showed little better owing to the entrance of exporters whose bids for wheat looked close to a workable basis. With this promised outlet for surplus receipts, grain dealers declared prospects for better business were good.

Exporters bid around $1.35 for No. 1 ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports.

Other grains drew bids about as follows, basis carlots delivered, freight paid, at Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.35@1.36; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein, $1.37@1.38; 14 per cent protein $1.41@1.42; 15 per cent $1.45@1.46; 16 per cent $1.49@1.50.

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.06@1.07; No. 2 white $1.09@1.10; No. 2 yellow $1.08@1.09.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 58@59c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 57@57½c.

Barley—No. 3 nominal, 77@78c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.53@1.55; No. 2 kaffir $1.33@1.35.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (AP)—Something in the nature of a stampede to sell forced wheat values down today, sentiment becoming widespread that price advances of late were too rapid. The fact that although sterling exchange today was at the highest point in many months, North American wheat export business was failing to follow upturns in values did much to turn traders to the selling side of the market. Piling up of crop disaster reports from Argentina appeared to have lost effect for at least the immediate present.

Closing quotations on Chicago wheat were heavy at about the day's lowest level, 1⅛c to 2¼c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼@⅝c off, oats unchanged to ⅜c down, and provisions varying from 5@7c decline to a rise of 32c.

A large part of today's selling of Chicago wheat future deliveries came from previous buyers who were in a position to realize profits.

Corn and oats took their cue from the action of wheat. On the other hand, a new sustaining influence as to corn values was announcement that the Argentine corn crop is suffering from drought.

Good sized deliveries on December contracts tended to ease down the lard market, whereas better demand for meats was more or less an opposite factor.

BRISK TRADE IN LOCKNEY

Several New Business Buildings Erected

Special to The Record News.

LOCKNEY, Texas, Dec. 4.—New businesses established in this city during the past six months reflect the wholesome financial condition of the section that is causing a steady increase in population and an era of development unprecedented in the history of Floyd county.

Four firms have opened for business in Lockney during the past six-month period, three of which necessitated the erection of modern brick buildings. Those occupying new buildings are a dry goods establishment, a ladies ready-to-wear shop, and a filling station operated by one of the major oil companies and an additional produce house.

With the completion of Lockney's new postoffice, now assured by the United States postoffice department, building permits are expected to increase at a rapid rate. A site has been purchased for a large brick building and a modern brick filling station and prospects are good for the erection of several additional business houses during the coming year.

Business leaders say that with the advent of a good wheat crop, Floyd county's population should increase at a rate that will greatly stimulate the building activity of the territory.

Dairy Meeting At Floydada

Experts to Make Addresses Tuesday Night

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Dec. 4.—Economical milk production, proper care of dairy cows, and the proper feeding methods of dairy animals will be discussed before a representative group of farmers and business men in Floydada Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 17, by A. J. McDowell, dairy agent of the Frisco lines, and Paul C. Potter, assistant dairy agent of the same company. T. S. Stevenson, president of the Floyd County National bank; J. V. Daniel, vice president of the First National bank; O. L. Stansell, president of the Texas-Panhandle Plains Dairy show, and O. T. Williams, vocational agricultural instructor in the local school, form a chamber of commerce committee that was successful in securing the speakers.

Confident that Floyd county farmers are anxious to learn more about the proper feeding methods and the proper care of dairy cows, the committee asked Mr. McDowell to discuss at length this subject. It is likely that Mr. Potter will talk about the economical production of milk and its relation with feeding. This will be the first trip of this nature ever made in this section of Texas by the Frisco officials. In a recent trip to Floydada Mr. Potter expressed the belief that the Frisco company was taking a great interest in the South Plains of Texas.

Special invitations are being sent to the vocational agricultural classes of the Floydada and Lockney High schools to attend the meeting and hear these speakers.

Automobile Tester Killed in Collision

DALLAS, Dec. 4. (INS)—Fred Grundy, 35, tester for a local automobile dealer, was almost instantly killed today when the machine he was driving at a speed of 65 miles an hour collided with another automobile.

M. D. Milleken and Homer Grizzle, Grundy's companions in the speeding machine, were severely injured and it was said Milleken might die. The accident occurred on a highway just outside the city limits.

Lee H. Vaughn, a newspaper employe who was driving the other automobile, suffered cuts and bruises.

Browder Elected Head Of Duncan Kiwanians

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Dec. 4.—L. A. Browder was elected new president of the Duncan Kiwanis club, succeeding H. A. Furst, at the regular weekly luncheon Tuesday noon. Pat Chaffin was elected vice-president and R. H. Farnham, district trustee.

The following were elected directors: George Klein, Jack Curtis, J. P. Hulsey, Ira Blakely, Stacy Long, Carl Jones, and Harry Felt.

Bossy Gillis May Not Win Election

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 4. (UP)—Mayor Andrew J. Gillis, Newburyport's "bad boy" who spent two months of his term in jail, has another fight on his hands to make certain of continuing in office for two years more.

While his supporters celebrated his victory in yesterday's election by the announced margin of 46 votes, the ballot lay under heavy guard in city hall today awaiting a recount which former Mayor Michael Cashman, Gillis' opponent, indicated he would demand.

"Bossy" and Cashman are bitter enemies. Two years ago while Cashman was mayor, Gillis was sentenced to a short term in jail for punching him in the nose during an argument.

Lubbock Farmer Suffered With Kidneys 10 Years

Is Gaining Daily on Orgatone and His Daughter Is Very Much Delighted

"After my father, W. H. Foster, got such wonderful relief by taking Orgatone, all the neighbors marveled at it, and many of them are now taking it themselves," said Minnie Foster, who resides on rural route No. 3, Lubbock, Texas, while in Bowens Drug store a few days ago for more Orgatone.

"Mr. Foster had a very bad case of stomach and kidney disorder for 10 years," continued Miss Foster. "He could hardly sleep and was simply a nervous wreck from the pain he had to endure. He would often have attacks of acute indigestion and some times it looked as if he would never get over them. He was in a very much run down condition and lost in strength and health. Of course, many a time he felt unable to work, so you can understand just how bad off he was.

"A few weeks ago some of our friends recommended Orgatone to him, but at first we had very little faith in it as we had tried so many things in my father's case without results. But it's a positive fact that after he finished his first bottle of Orgatone he was feeling like a different person. He kept on with the treatments and said that all those old pains and disorders that formerly bothered him so much are a thing of the past and I know and everyone else in our neighborhood, Orgatone must be a wonderful medicine, to restore my father to health again after so many treatments and medicines had failed to give him any relief."

Mass Meetings at Henrietta And Olney to Discuss Deep Oil Plans

Community mass meetings designed to further the deep oil drilling project recently adopted by the Wichita Falls district will be held in Henrietta and Olney on Thursday afternoon and evening respectively, according to information given by the Deep Oil Development company's headquarters Wednesday.

Chambers of commerce in the two cities have been actively preparing for the meetings for several days, it was said, and efforts will be made to increase materially the subscriptions for stock already reported by those in charge of the enterprise. More than half of the $1,000,000 desired for the development of deep oil sands in this section had been subscribed up to Wednesday evening.

Dr. A. D. Edwards of Henrietta and Sam Householder of Byers are among the active leaders in the movement, and will assist in the program to be followed Thursday afternoon. The Henrietta meeting is to be held at 2:30 p. m. in the chamber of commerce there. The Olney meeting will be held in the city auditorium at 7:30 p. m.

The Olney members of the finance committee of the Deep Oil Development company are Charles Richardson, mayor of Olney; Wilbur Hunt of the First National bank; M. D. Wolverton of the City National bank; E. B. Madden, oil operator; O. T. Anderson of the Olney Oil and Refining company and the Olney Gin company; N. D. Goldsmith oil operator; and R. A. Barton, attorney.

Citizens of Wichita Falls who either are members of the proposed board of directors or of the finance committee of the Deep Oil Development company, who have been invited to the meeting are N. H. Martin, J. T. Harrell, John O'Donohoe, W. B. Hamilton, W. T. Knight, J. S. Bridwell, J. C. Mytinger, Leslie Humphrey and Harry Hines.

'Good Old Days' Just Around Corner—Hines

Prediction that a real optimism noticeable in Wichita Falls during the past 10 days will be instrumental in bringing the "good old days" back to this city featured an address by Harry Hines, finance committee head of the Deep Oil Development company, before the weekly meeting of the Optimist club Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Responsibility for the depression which citizens of Wichita Falls have felt here for some months was laid at their own feet by the speaker, who declared that the experience would prove a helpful lesson to the community.

Wednesday's program opened with a group of numbers by Frank Bird and his Bluebirds, local radio staff orchestra. Mr. Hines was introduced by Judge B. D. Sartin. The program was arranged by Joe Richker.

Members of the club were asked by E. L. Buelow to contribute second hand books for the Junior Optimists library. It was voted to divide the Optimist club Christmas fund between the Memorial auditorium community Christmas party on Christmas Eve and a Christmas tree for the Junior Optimists.

Two Small Boys Confess Looting Neighbor's Home

Two small boys, aged 8 and 9 years, who spent Thanksgiving afternoon ransacking a neighbor's home and taking their pick of the furnishings, faced the wrath of their parents Wednesday night after a very uncomfortable day in the hands of James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer.

The youngsters admitted to Mr. McDonald that they climbed to an upstairs porch at the home of Mrs. Maud Miller, 213 Lamar street, crawled through a window, and made a thorough search of the place. Annoyed at a locked door, they used a flat iron to crash a panel and gain entrance. The pickings were meager, according to a small boy's idea of value, for they came away only with matches, an ice pick, gloves, and a pair of scissors, leaving many other things, more valuable but less interesting, behind them. Under the shadow of the boys' training school and the juvenile jail, the pair tearfully accepted a grim reckoning with their parents and surrendered the spoils.

The University of Texas library claims to have more than twice as many books as any other college library in the South.
