Brother of Local Man Debater on Simmons Team

Calvin Whitley, son of the Rev. E. R. Whitley, who is conducting a revival at the First Baptist church here, is a member of the Simmons university debate team that will leave March 1 on a debate tour that will include New Mexico, Arizona, California, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Vancouver, and Winnipeg, Canada, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

HOO HOO CLUB TO RECEIVE TREE SHIPMENT NEXT WEEK —TO ENCOURAGE PLANTING

Lumber Dealers Will Help In Pampa Beautification And Will Sponsor Sale During Rest of Month.

That Pampa citizens may beautify their property by planting trees that are adaptable to the Panhandle, a shipment of Chinese and American elms will be received for distribution by the Pampa Hoo Hoo club Wednesday and sold to the members of the affiliated companies at their yards.

Pampa streets should be lined with trees, the club believes. Contrary to popular belief, trees will grow on the plains and the two varieties that have been selected are particularly adapted to this region.

The two kinds of trees are from 6 to 8 feet tall. The Chinese elm sells for 75 cents per tree, and the American elm for 40 cents. Part of the cost of the trees will be received Wednesday will be planted in the city park, city hall yard, and at the Pampa Country club. The trees are guaranteed to be growing trees when delivered.

February is a proper time to plant trees. By planting them citizens will improve the appearance of their property and of the city, and the work will furnish employment for many men who need jobs, it was pointed out.

The trees can be bought and full information received on planting from any one of the following companies, all of whom are affiliated with the Hoo-hoo club: Merrick and Boyd, 808 South Cuyler; Panhandle Lumber company, 420 West Thirtieth; Fox Rig and Lumber company, 500 South Brown; White House Lumber company, 116 East Foster; Acme Lumber company, 120 West Thirtieth; Fox Rig and Lumber company, 100 South Hobart; Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber company, 214 East Tying.

Pope's Voice Is Heard by World in Big Broadcast

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12. (AP)—For the first time in history the Pope today sent his voice to millions throughout the world in a radio message of peace to mankind.

Smiling and tranquil as though he were a veteran of radio broadcasting, he spoke over HVJ, the new Vatican City radio station built for him by Guglielmo Marconi and inaugurated in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of his coronation as Pope Pius XI.

Senator Marconi, introducing the pontiff, spoke briefly before the address for which men and women were listening in far distant cities of the world.

It was 10:52 o'clock (E.S.T.) when the Pope began speaking. No longer a prisoner of the Vatican, this most modern of all popes sent his living voice to his congregation of three hundred million Catholics and to the members of all other faiths.

His was a message of peace and union. The second broadcast by Pope Pius was not accompanied by the whistle which marked parts of the first, but there was a slight feeling of peace.

LIONS HEAR HAL BRENNAN IN ADDRESS

Laredo Man Recalls How Secretary Sold Faulty Raincoats to Boys in Trenches of France.

IS ASKING LITTLE

Proposed Payment of Compensation is Advocated as Good Business as Well as Aid to Veterans.

Andrew Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, was attacked as the "arch war profiteer" and "enemy of good government" by Hal Brennan, Texas department commander of the American Legion, in an address to Pampa Lions today.

The Legion and not Mr. Mellon, is the watchdog of the treasury, Mr. Brennan declared, and added that "not a single law on the statute books of the nation is favorable to the American Legion." The reference was in connection with proposed payment of adjusted compensation to veterans.

The speaker recalled the organization of the Legion in 1919 and told of its influence in providing leadership for the discharged, restless, and often abused veterans. He said that the Legion asked nothing for the well right after the war but demanded hospitalization and financial aid for the wounded and sick. The organization is chiefly responsible, he said, for the hospitals which have been erected.

Recalls High Wages. Five years ago adjusted compensation certificates were voted to veterans because their pay was nearly nothing—after deduction of insurance and other costs—while those who remained at home had their salaries raised and, in the case of Mr. Mellon, saw millions in profits go into his pocket. The certificates bear 4 per cent interest, compounded. Payment now would save a billion dollars in interest.

It was pointed out that many veterans have borrowed money on their certificates, and are paying 6 per cent with little opportunity to retire the principal. The Legion is urging that the certificates be paid or at least made negotiable.

In criticizing Mr. Mellon, the Legion had declared that the secretary of the treasury sponsored huge payments to the railroads and refunded hundreds of millions of income taxes to his own corporations, while consistently opposing the bills offered for relief of veterans.

He said that Mellon corporations profited to the extent of three billion dollars during the war. He recalled the railroad scandal during the war, asserting that Mellon sold the government Ducoed cheese-cloth garments.

Texas is Praised. The address was praised by Charles W. Ardery of Indianapolis, national secretary of the 40-8, and C. E. Perry of Kittery Point, Me., national president. These officials here to attend the city hall dedication tonight on solicitation of J. A. Pearson of Pampa made short talks of greeting.

Other visitors today were Tom Eisey, Murray Watts, and C. C. Gibson of Amarillo, and Earl Smith, J. A. Pearson, D. W. Thurman, C. C. Alexander, B. W. Rose, Louis Cox, and W. C. deCordova. Dr. B. A. Webb was chairman today.

RAID ON GOVERNMENT TRUCK IN WASHINGTON NETS BANDIT GANG ONLY BILL FRAGMENTS. WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (AP)—A daring holdup of a mail truck carrying registered pouches in the union station here early this morning was announced by postal authorities today as nothing the robbers nothing but mutilated currency.

The sacks, stolen after a mail clerk had been beaten with a lead pipe, contained only old bills out in half for shipment to the treasury department.

Police and government operatives were at work in many portions of the capital and watching its outskirts in an attempt to apprehend the holdup men.

The treasury department said the other halves of the mutilated bills had been received in a previous mail shipment.

The robbery occurred between 3 and 3 a. m. in the union station concourse.

Peter Johnson, in charge of 18 sacks of registered mail being shipped from the federal post office in New York to the treasury, was the mail clerk blackmailed by the robbers.

Treasury officials called the last a "cold trick"—saying it was made up of only parts of bills which once had a value of $200,000.

Woman Awarded Damage

Mrs. Lizzie Miller Wins in Action Against Amarillo Aviator as Result of Her Son's Death in 1928.

Damages in the amount of $3,125 were awarded Mrs. Lizzie Miller of McLean by a jury in 114th district court this morning in her suit against Harold English, owner of English field, Amarillo.

Mrs. Miller had asked for $15,000 in damages which she alleged she sustained when her 16-year-old son, William Miller, was killed in the smash-up of a plane piloted by English at McLean in January 1928.

The jury was charged by the court to answer "yes" or "no" to eight special issues. In returning a verdict for the plaintiff, they found that English operated the plane at a low altitude, from 200 to 400 feet above the ground and that he was guilty of negligence.

This negligence, according to the verdict, was the "sole proximate cause of the injury and death of Miller."

The jury also found that the youth did not put his feet under the control wires, making it impossible for English to pilot the ship. The defendant alleged that Miller was responsible for his own death.

Answering a separate, special issue, the jury found that Miller was not of sufficient age and intelligence and experience to know and appreciate the dangers incident to riding in an airplane after three hours of deliberation. It is understood the case will be appealed.

The firm of Cook, Smith, Teed, Wade and Sturgeon represented Mrs. Miller.

PLANS APPEAL

Jury Reports Today at 11 O'Clock After Deliberating Since 3 p. m. on Wednesday Afternoon.

WHEELER, Feb. 12. (AP)—Found guilty of murder, Tom C. Johnson, former Wheeler county deputy sheriff, was sentenced five years in the penitentiary today for the slaying of George Brooks of Shamrock last Oct. 12.

The jury reported shortly before 11 o'clock today, having deliberated over the evidence since 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Defense attorneys were preparing a motion for a new trial, and announced that the case would be appealed if the new trial is denied.

The shooting occurred in a Shamrock lunch room where Brooks and a friend were eating a noonday meal.

Johnson, according to state witnesses, walked through the cafe into a club room in the rear, then returned to the partition door, and, ordering Brooks to turn around, fired. Johnson said Brooks whirled on the stool and that he thought Brooks was reaching for a gun.

Bulk of the defense testimony referred to a fight between Johnson and Brooks that occurred almost two months before the slaying in which Johnson is said to have received a fractured skull. Relatives and friends testified that he had not been "right" since receiving the injury.

The Dole System Is Foreign to American Ideals and Necessity

What is needed most in this country is work, not charity. Americans have always coveted opportunity work out their own salvation. They are happiest at work. They have even been accused of worshipping the dollar, which is the symbol of labor.

When the opportunity to earn honest dollars wanes, the working man is in dire straits, indeed. There have long been cycles of unemployment, and probably always will be. How to care for idle men in the downward swing of economics is a problem involving every theory of government.

In normal times, most workmen who want jobs are busy. They ask little of their government and desire little. They have little sympathy for men who will not work. But when the cycle swings away from the peak of over-production, ideas begin to change inevitably. The influence of communists in the bigger cities has resulted in a demand for less of charity and more of regular unemployment doles from the government. Some have suggested unemployment insurance. Others demand "an equitable distribution of wealth." Organizers of this and that harangue groups on street corners.

The present situation, however temporary, it is hoped, is serious. Suffering must be prevented. It is foreign to American principles, however, to hand out doles. The American workman wants to earn his way and not to have his sustenance handed him on a platter. Note this item from England: London—The dole, it is officially estimated, cost the British taxpayers between $250,000,000 and $275,000,000 or even more during the financial year closing April 1, next. "The increase of expenditure in 1930 over that of 1928 was $125,000,000," says a treasury memorandum, "and the increase of 1931 over 1928 may amount to some $225,000,000. Even in the most favorable conditions, so great an increase so swiftly incurred would overtax the budget."

American taxpayers would not look favorably upon any system to increase the tax levies as Great Britain has done. Socialism is still far from realization and a majority of voters will look to the democratic party for relief in 1932.

The gospel of work and achievement still dominates the minds of the great working classes of America.

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (NEA).—In one form or another, Uncle Sam will spend $900,000,000 this year for veterans' relief of various kinds, according to the most recent estimates.

The constant tendency of Congress ever since the World War has been to liberalize veteran legislation, as shown by the disability pension bill and free hospitalization for all veterans who need it, regardless of whether their illness or disability arose from a war cause. From $12 to $40 a month is now paid to disabled men.

About 325,000 veterans have applied for this help. It is estimated that 150,000 will benefit this year and that by 1935 the number will have increased to 380,000 at annual cost of $80,000,000. There is now pending legislation to make the present payments larger, and measures for increased hospital facilities since the present hospitals have been overtaxed since congress extended to all veterans the privilege of hospital care.

Adjusted compensation certificates, which it is now proposed to cash for World War veterans on one basis or another, represent a form of endowment insurance policy which congress gave to the veterans in 1924 in lieu of a cash bonus.

Congress voted to adjust the compensation of veterans for their war service. It granted $1.25 a day for overseas service and $1 a day for service in the United States. The original $60 bonus was deducted from the total for each man and if the balance exceeded $50, the credit was used to buy a paid-up endowment policy to mature at the end of 30 years.

Either because this bonus had been delayed or because no cash settlement was made—the intent of congress now is a matter of argument—the veteran was granted with an additional 25 per cent. More than $1,000,000,000 annually was to be paid from the treasury into a special fund to pay the certificates when due. It was argued that the plan would prevent an immediate huge drain on the treasury and stand as a form of protection for veterans and their families.

The Veterans' Bureau has issued certificates to just about 3,500,000 veterans which have a face value of some $3,528,000,000. Some $400,000, face valued at $3,425,000,000, are outstanding. The average face value (amount payable on maturity, in most cases in 1945) is $1010, but the face values vary from $125 to $1590. About one-fourth are for more than $1500 and slightly more than that proportion run below $750. Of approximately 4,500,000 men enlisted in the war, 3,650,000 were eligible. The others, due to brief service, received small cash payments or were dead. Thus, all but about 150,000 eligible veterans applied for and received certificates.

After the first two years, the loan value of each certificate has increased about 4 per cent. The present loan value is 22 1-2 per cent or a little more than $225 on the average certificate. Interest has varied from 4 to 6 per cent, or 2 per cent above the rediscount rates in the respective Federal Reserve districts. Some proposals in Congress would automatically raise the loan value as high as 50 per cent, eliminating the cash settlement idea and making the amount the veteran could borrow on an average certificate more than $300.

About half the veterans—48 per cent—have borrowed money on their certificates. Less than 5 per cent of the loans have been repaid. On Jan. 1, the Veterans' Bureau estimated, about 1,600,000 veterans had borrowed some $300,000,000 of about $725,000,000 available for loans on certificates. The average amount of indebtedness on certificates pledged for loans was $481 on a loan value of $217.

The loan value increases each year until it reaches 90 per cent in the nineteenth year.

Theories Said to Be Much Behind Many Experiments

BY WALTER B. CLAUSEN
PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 12. (A) Astronomical observations and physical experiments are far ahead of theoretical physics, says Dr. Albert Einstein.

The great mystery of the structure of the universe rests in the movement of island universes, as the distant nebulae are known. This perplexes Einstein.

"I don't know the answer," he said in response to a request from the Wilson astronomers to give explanations from his unified field theory equations as to what he thinks of cosmology.

A discovery seven years ago by Edwin Hubble, who determined that nebulae were island universes separate from our own galaxy of milk way, created a new problem for Einstein. This problem revolves around what astronomers call the red shift of distant nebulae. In spectroscopic photographs the spectrum lines of distant nebulae shifts towards the red.

Einstein interprets this red shift as apparently showing the rapid recession of distant nebulae from our galaxy. That is, the nebulae at 100,000 light years distant, or 100,000,000,000,000 miles, are receding away from the neighborhood of the earth at a rate of 7,300 miles a second, or almost 26,000,000 miles an hour.

Astronomers generally interpret this red shift as an apparent velocity. This is known as the Doppler effect. Einstein suggested that some other conclusion for this effect might be looked for, but said he did not know how to account for it.

One suggestion previously had been made that this red shift might be interpreted by loss of energy as they go through long distances. Experimental laboratory tests have produced no positive evidence.

"We would all cry hallelujah! if our equations would account for it," Einstein said.

He said that a conception of an expanding universe was not satisfactory, because it would mean that expansion would have started 10,000,000,000 years ago from a little compact mass and that this time was too short. Astronomers believe the sun is known to be older than that.

Here's the Girl Who "Busted" Buster Keaton

If a cameraman had been present (which he wasn't) when Kathleen Key, pretty movie actress, called into Buster Keaton and wrecked his studio dressing room at Hollywood in the furious battle that followed, it is doubtful if he could have got a better action picture than this. The scene at the left shows Miss Key during one of her reducing exercises—which led up to the row—and the artist has applied a head of Buster to the dummy that she was whaling, while at the right is a closeup of the pretty feminine battler, looking very sedate and pensive.

Much Married Woman Is Having More Trouble

MONROE, La., Feb. 12. (A) — Differences of opinion over whether life with her constituted a "gray train" or something very different, today threatened the tenth matrimonial adventure of Mrs. John H. Willis, of Uralia.

Willis changed trains here yesterday en route to Birmingham and announced that his wife, who is credited with being "Louisiana's most married woman," had failed to fulfill a number of financial promises he said she made when they were married Sept. 10, 1927.

From her home Mrs. Willis stated that Willis had wanted her to will him half her money and property, amounting to about $5,000, and she was unwilling to do so although solicited "to see that he lived comfortably."

"He had a 'gray train' and didn't know it," she said.

Of her previous husbands three died and she was divorced from six.

Gas Conservation Bill Is Opposed

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (A) — The house committee on oil, gas, and mining last night heard criticism of the bill by Representative Long of Wichita Falls designed to give the railroad commission added powers to conserve natural gas.

Hearings on the bill were to be continued today with the probability the proposal would be sent to a sub-committee for rewriting.

Tom E. Cranfill of Dallas, president of the Texas Independent Petroleum association, J. H. Tricky of Fort Worth, representing independent operators, Harry Pennington, San Antonio independent and Clarence R. Wharton of Houston, attorney for the Texon Land and Oil company were among last night's speakers. They all opposed the bill.

Speakers expressed the opinion that under the bill operators would have to shut down their oil wells if they could not get a market for their gas. The bill was attacked as giving too much regulatory powers to the commission and causing too much additional expense for the operators.

R. D. Parker, supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, who sponsored the bill, said its purpose was to fix the oil-gas ratio so that gas would not be wasted. Wharton told Parker he believed the commission already had the power to prevent the using of more pressure gas than necessary to lift the oil to the surface.

"JUST TOO MUCH"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. (A) — Mrs. Edith Brenner can stand adversity with fortitude, but some things are just too much.

She lost a pocketbook containing $1,600 in jewels and cash. Compulsively she summoned a policeman, and calmly she proceeded to tell him about it. A young man walked up.

"Your pocketbook, miss." Diamonds and cash were inside. Mrs. Brenner fainted dead away in the arms of Detective Sergeant Barrett.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON" and "THE AVENGING ANGEL" and "MURDER BACKSTAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR DUNDEE believes JUANITA SELIM and her husband were murdered because they were part of a blackmail scheme, while the police theory is that they were killed to avenge "MURDER BACKSTAGE" SARELL, when they are supposed to have betrayed.

Of Dundee's six possible suspects, his case is strongest against FLORA HAMILTON. He thinks it possible she killed Nita, thinking Nita had told her husband of some scandal involving her, and that TRACEY MILLER killed Sprague to protect his wife from a charge of murder. He hears that Flora rushed Tracey into marriage, and that he, a "male womanizer" was very flattered.

In New York, Dundee finds that the dress in which Nita was cremated and which he thinks is a wedding dress, was bought in January, 1934. At the Forsythe school, where women involved attended and where Nita was director of the Easter play, he learns that Flora left school and became a chorus girl in 1935, and that the rumor was that she had been living with an actor.

Her parents' thought her back, and the story was hushed up. He knows that SERENA HART, Forsythe girl and successful stage star, recommended Nita for the job. She told him that she met Nita, who was very kind to her, in the season of 1937-38, and that Nita was married and deserted before the show was over.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII
"No, I never met Nita's husband," Serena Hart replied. "As a matter of fact, she told me extraordinarily little about him, and did not discuss her marriage with the other girls of the chorus at all. I got the impression that Mr. Selim was a callous, but I don't know why. This was early in 1934, as I've told you, though I have no way of fixing even the approximate date, and New York was full of soldiers. I remember I jumped to the conclusion that Nita had succumbed to a war romance, but I don't think she said anything to confirm my suspicion."

"When did she tell you of her marriage; that is, when, in relation to the date of the wedding itself," Dundee asked.

"The very day she was married," Serena Hart answered. "She was late for the matinee. Our dressing robes were side by side, and as she slipped out of her dress—"

"This dress?" Dundee asked, and handed her the photograph of dead Nita in the royal blue velvet dress she had kept for 12 years.

"Yes," and Serena Hart shuddered. "Her hair was dressed like that, too, although she had been wearing it in long curls, and had to take it down before she could go on for the opening number. She whispered to me that she had been married that day, that she was terribly happy, very much in love, and that her husband had asked her to dress her hair in the French roll, a favorite hair dress with him. Between numbers she whispered to me again, telling me that her husband was 'so different,' such a lamb—totally unlike any man she had met on Broadway, poor child. For she was a child still, only 20, but she had been in the show business since she was a motherless, fatherless little drifter of 16."

"No, she did not tell me how old he was, where he came from, his business, or what he looked like, and I did not inquire. As the days passed, weeks, probably, she became more and more silent and reserved, though once or twice she protested she was still terribly happy. Then came a day when she did not show up for the performance at all. The next night she told me that her husband had left her after a quarrel, and had not returned. It seems that she had innocently told him how she had vamped Benny Steinfield, the big revue producer, you know, into giving her a 'spot' in his summer show, and that her 'Mat' had flown into a rage, accusing her of having been untrue to him. She never mentioned his desertion to me again, but—"

"Yes?" Dundee prompted.

"Well," Serena Hart went on, uncomfortably, "I'm afraid I rather forgot poor little Nita after 'Teasing Tilly' closed, for my next work was in stock in Des Moines. After a year of stock I got my chance in a legitimate show on Broadway, and one day I met her on the street. Not having much to talk with her about, I asked her if she and her husband were reconciled. She said no, that she had never seen him again. Then, in a burst of confidence, she told me that she had hired a private detective out of her meager earnings to investigate him in his home town, or rather the city that he had told her he came from. The detective had reported that no such person as Mat or Matthew Selim had ever lived there, so far as he could find out. I asked her if she was going to get a divorce and she said this was not—that being married was a protection against getting married in haste again. After that, I rather lost sight of Nita, and practically forgot her, our paths being so very divergent."

"And you never saw her again?" Dundee asked, very much disappointed.

"Oh, yes, two or three times—at openings, or on the street, but we never held any significant conversation," Serena Hart replied, reaching for her hat. "Oh, yes! I was about to forget. I had quite a shock in connection with Nita. One afternoon I saw that when I opened in 'Hullabaloo' in which I made my first real success, you know—I bought the New York Evening Star, which devotes considerable space to theatrical doings, to see what sort of review the 'show and go' and, on the first page I saw a picture of Nita, beneath a headline which said, 'Famous Model Commits Suicide.'"

"What?" Dundee exclaimed, astounded.

"Oh, it wasn't Nita Leigh," Serena Hart reassured him. "There was a correction the next day. You see, an artist's model named Anita Lee had committed suicide, and, as the Star explained it the next day, the similarity of both the first name and the last had caused the error in the photograph. There was a picture of Nita Leigh, with Nita's statement that the report of my death had been exaggerated, and a picture of the real Anita Lee."

"When did the mistake occur?"

Dundee asked, in great excitement. "Let me think!" Serena Hart frowned. "Hullabaloo" opened in—yes, about the first of May, 1932. Just a little more than eight years ago."

Dundee reached for his own hat, in a fever to be gone, but to his surprise the actress stopped him, a faint color in her pale cheeks.

"Since you're from Hamilton, and are investigating the murder, you have undoubtedly met little Penelope Crain?"

"I know her very well. It happens that she is private secretary to the district attorney, under whom I work. Why?"

"I saw her as lead in the Easter play at Forsythe four or five years ago," Miss Hart explained, her face turned from the detective as she dusted it with powder, "and I was impressed with her talent. In fact, I advised her father, who had come from Hamilton to witness the performance, as proud parents are likely to do, to let her go on the stage."

"Do you met Roger Crain?" Dundee paused to ask.

"Ah, yes... a charming man, with even more personality than his daughter," the actress answered carefully, "or, at least, that Dundee had a sudden hunch."

"Have you seen Mr. Crain recently? He deserted his family and fled Hamilton in rather unsavory circumstances."

"What do you mean?" Miss Hart asked sharply.

"Oh, there was nothing actually criminal, I suppose, but he is believed to have withheld some securities which would have helped satisfy his creditors, when bankruptcy was imminent," Dundee explained. "Have you seen him since then—January, that was, I believe?"

"January?" Miss Hart appeared to need time for reflection. "Oh, yes! He came in his card on the first night of my show that opened in January. It was a flop—lasted only five weeks. We chatted of the Forsythe girls who are now in Hamilton, most of whom I went to school with or have met at the Easter plays."

"Do you know where Mr. Crain is now?" Dundee asked. "I have a message for him from Penny, which I should like to reach him."

"Why should I see him again?" Miss Hart shrugged. "And I haven't the least idea where he is living or what he is doing now. Of course, if he should come to see me backstage after 'Temptation'—"

"What!" Dundee exclaimed, astounded.

"Oh, it wasn't Nita Leigh," Serena Hart reassured him. "There was a correction the next day. You see, an artist's model named Anita Lee had committed suicide, and, as the Star explained it the next day, the similarity of both the first name and the last had caused the error in the photograph. There was a picture of Nita Leigh, with Nita's statement that the report of my death had been exaggerated, and a picture of the real Anita Lee."

"When did the mistake occur?"

game—What is the chance that Penny?"

"That her mother wants him to come home," Dundee answered. "And I am sure Penny wants him back, too. The mother is one of the sweetest, gentlest, most tragic women I have ever met—and you have seen Penny for yourself. The daughter has been very hard on them. It would be splendid if Roger Crain would come back and redeem himself."

Half an hour later Bonnie Dundee, in the life room of The New York Evening Star, was in possession of the bound volume of the newspaper for the month of May, 1932. Under the caption, on the front page of the issue of May 3 which Serena Hart had quoted so accurately, was a picture of a young, laughing Nita Leigh, her curls bobbed short, a rose between her gleaming teeth. And in the issue of May 4 appeared two pictures side by side—erotic, straight-haired, slant-eyed Anita Lee, who had found life so insupportable that she had ended it, and the same photograph of living, vital Nita Leigh.

When he returned the files he asked the girl in charge a question: "Does this copyright line beneath this picture," and he pointed to the photograph of Nita, which had appeared, erroneously—"mean that the picture was syndicated?"

The girl bent her head to see. "Copyright by Metropolitan Picture Service," she read aloud. "Yes, that's what it means. When The Evening Star was owned by Mr. Magnus, he formed a separate company which he called the Metropolitan Picture Service, which applied papers all over the country with a daily picture service, in mat form. But the picture syndicate was discontinued about five years ago when the paper was sold to its present owners."

"Are their files available?" Dundee asked.

"If they are, I don't know anything about it," the girl told him, and turned to another seeker after bound volumes of the paper.

"It doesn't matter," Dundee assured her, and asked for a sheet of blank paper, on which he quickly composed the following telegram, addressed to Penny Crain: PLEASE SEARCH FILES ALL THREE HAMILTON PAPERS WEEK OF MAY FOURTH TO ELEVENTH NINETEEN TWENTY TWO FOR STORY AND PICTURES ON SUICIDE ANITA LEE ARTISTS MODEL SAY NOTHING TO ANYONE NOT EVEN SANDERSON IF HE IS BACK STOP WIRE RESULT — HOTEL.

In his hotel, while impatiently waiting an answer from Penny, he passed the time by scanning all the New York papers of Thursday and Friday, on the chance of meeting with significant revelations concerning the private life of Dexter Sprague or Juanita Leigh Selim, united in death, by the press, at least. There was much space devoted to the theory involving two New Yorkers with the murder of the racketeer and gambler, "Swallow-tail" Sammy Savell, but only two pieces of information held Dundee's interest.

The first was a reminder to the public that certain theatrical columns on Sunday, Feb. 9, had carried the rumor of Dexter Sprague's engagement to Dolly Martin, popular "baby" star of Alhambra Pictures, and that the papers of Tuesday, Feb. 11, had carried Sprague's own denial of the engagement.

"So that is why Nita tried to commit suicide, with its tragic consequences for Lydia Carr, is probably the reason Dexter Sprague gave up his picture star," Dundee mused. "Did Nita let him persuade her to go into the blackmail business, in order to hold his wandering, mercenary affections?"

The second bit of information pit-

which the papers supplied him was gleaned by Dundee himself, from a new summary of Nita Leigh's last year of life as chorus girl, specialty dancer, "double" in pictures, and director of the Easter play at Forsythe-one-the-Hudson.

"If Nita got a divorce or even a legal separation from her husband after her talk a year ago with Gladys Earle, she got it in New York and so secretly that no New York paper has been able to dig it up," Dundee concluded. "And yet she had promised to marry Ralph Hammond!"

A bellboy with a telegram tin, reported the startling new train of thought which that conclusion had started. The wire was from Penny Crain.

Revival Crowds Grow Steadily at Baptist Church

The Rev. H. R. Whitley spoke to a hundred and fifty persons last night on the subject of "New Testament Sinners." The number of persons attending at the revival, he said, is steadily increasing.

Using as his theme, "New Testament Sinners," the revivalist said, "The world is divided into two classes of people. Sinners who have not been redeemed by Christ, and sinners who have not been redeemed yet. Tonight I am going to talk about the New Testament sinners who were saved. I am not going to talk about sinners who died unsaved, but those who were saved. I am going to talk about the encouragement of sinners who are unsaved."

"The first sinner I am going to talk about is the religious sinner. He was the teacher of morals and theology. He, like many of the church members of our churches of today, had never been born again. Christ began to talk to Nicodemus about new birth. 'Ye must be born again,' were Jesus' words to Nicodemus. 'Except a man be born of water, and of the spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. Dilettante sinners must be born again as well as any others.'

"The next sinner I am going to talk about is the helpless sinner. The man whom Mark tells us about, who was unable to come to Christ because he was helpless. But this man has some friends who could help him come to Jesus. The great help we can be to sinners is to tell them of the love of Christ. So the friends of this man let him down through the roof for Christ's sake."

"The third sinner I am going to talk about is the sinner who thought he was helpless, and must come to Jesus."

"The second chapter of Luke tells us about a woman who was a sinner. Her sins were emphasized more than that of any other in the New Testament. The first thing Christ said to her was, 'Thy sins are forgiven thee,' and the second thing He said, 'Thy faith hath saved thee.'

"The next sinner I am going to talk about we shall call a wicked sinner. She was the woman who was at the well of Samaria. Christ met her at the well and saved her, though she was the wicked sinner."

"In the fifth chapter of Luke we find the praying sinner. I like him because he was a praying sinner. He was told that if he would pray, the name of the Lord shall be saved. Any man who will pray, will be saved. So this man went down to the temple and called, and he was merciful to me, a sinner."

"The next sinner we will turn to is the dying sinner. Of all sinners, only one man was saved while dying. People die as they live."

"We will turn to the next sinner. A sinner reading a book. The story of Acts. This man was a sinner yet he was one who read the Bible sincerely will be saved. God sent a minister, Philip, to this man to explain to him the plan of salvation. This man was saved and the prophecy of Isaiah was fulfilled to him. He accepted Christ."

"In the ninth chapter of Acts we come to the proud sinner whose name was Paul. He was a sinner who believed himself right, and would not listen to anyone who was talking of thinking. But the power of Christ got hold on Paul and struck him down on the road to Damascus. God sent Ananias to Paul."

"The last sinner we are going to talk about is Cornelius. The story of Acts. This man was a sinner and was a praying man. But he needed saving as well as any other sinner. Many moral men may be as honest, or sincere, as good as any Christian, yet they must be saved through the blood of Christ, or go to hell."

"The only religion that saves is a Christian religion. Cerebral religion never saved anyone or ever will. The only way to be saved is through the blood of Christ."

CHARGED WITH MURDER
CANTAGE, Feb. 12. (P)—In jail today awaiting action of the grand jury, Willie Bynum, 16, was held without bond on murder charges in the killing and robbing of J. R. Bynum, 75, county storekeeper of the Bynum community.

Bynum was found dead in his store on Monday and Bynum was arrested later in Louisiana. In a statement made to County Attorney S. M. Baker Turner, Bynum said he had been taken to the store by a mob of about 100 men who were looking for Bynum. Bynum was taken to the store and was held there for about 10 hours before he was killed.

Cameraman Aids In Rescue of Fishermen

Here's the piteous appeal for food and rescue, traced in the snow, that a flying cameraman for NEA Service and the News-Post snapped when he flew with a Buffalo Times relief plane to the rescue of 20 fishermen marooned on floating ice in Lake Erie. With pole, the half-starved men traced "Eats" and "Help" when the relief plane appeared overhead. The pilot dropped a big can of steaming coffee by parachute and then directed U. S. Coast Guard boats to the scene where the rescue was effected. One of the group being a nine-year-old boy. Note the canvas windbreak about which the men huddled.

BEGGARS ON WHEELS

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 12. (P)—The modern beggar doesn't waste time plodding from house to house on foot. He uses his automobile.

Legislature Shuts Off Flood of Bills, Which Reaches Total of 950

AUSTIN, Feb. 12. (P)—The legislature opened the flood gates of legislation yesterday and when it shut them down, 241 bills had poured through for at least a modern high peak in a single day's work.

Of the number 189 were introduced in the house and 52 in the senate. To date both branches have introduced approximately 950 bills. Yesterday's flood was precipitated by legislators who feared the constitutionality of rules drawn to override those provided in the constitutional amendment.

The senate today was expected to take final action on the appointment by former Gov. Dan Moody of Frank Baldwin, Waco newspaperman, to the state board of education. A long list of Governor Sterling's appointees were confirmed yesterday and the state was cleared of all names but that of Baldwin.

The senate had an executive session set for 10:30 a. m. today for the expressed purpose of final consideration of Baldwin's appointment.

Consideration Next

Today marked the opening of the period for committee consideration of bills. Although committee meetings were not infrequent during the first 30 days, some of the most important ones have postponed deliberations until the scheduled time.

The house committee on education voted yesterday to continue its investigation of circumstances surrounding the placing of a series of character posters on the required list for rural state aid schools. Representative Holder, chairman of the committee, said the resolution was amended to give the committee specific authority to investigate the practice, alleged by Holder to be prevalent in the state, of county school officials being paid a commission by installment book companies for selling books to the school.

Louisiana Solon Dies at Eastland

EASTLAND, Feb. 12. (P)—T. B. Gilbert, 67, state senator from Winner, La., died early today at a hotel here. The attending physician said death was due to heart disease.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lewis of Winnetka, his traveling companion, said Gilbert had suffered a slight attack in Yosemite park, Calif., earlier in the week. The three were on their way from California to Winnetka.

Gilbert is survived by three sons and a daughter, now en route here to take charge of funeral arrangements.

Gilbert owned and operated in Franklin Parish one of the largest and most modern plantations in the south.

HOUSTON BOY INJURED

HOUSTON, Feb. 12. (P)—Ralph Janicki, 9, was near death today after being struck by an automobile in front of his home last night.

Warren Young, 19, was charged with assault by automobile in justice court. He told police it was impossible to avoid striking the lad.

DOCTOR'S BOND SET

DENTON, Feb. 12. (P)—Bond of $10,000 was set today for Dr. J. J. Smith of Dallas, charged with murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Audrey A. McMillan Cribbs, wife of W. J. Cribbs, C. I. A. faculty member. Mrs. Cribbs died Tuesday.

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently remove the cause. The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 800 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own drugist.
