Blood Stains Found After Run-In Near El Paso And Belief Is Several Booze Runners Were Injured

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, July 20.—Ambushed by a large force of Mexican rum runners, six American border patrolmen early today fought a pitched battle on the Rio Grande, near here, and drove off the attackers after one of their party, Ivan E. Scotten, 25, had been shot and killed.

The engagement occurred at San Elibario Island. Bullets were exchanged across the river, which forms the international boundary, striking on both American soil.

Inspector Scotten fell with two bullets in his body and died instantly. Several smugglers were believed wounded.

The battle was one of the most desperate of a long series of armed clashes in the last few years in guarding almost 3,000 miles of desolate country along the boundary against the forays of smugglers.

The border patrolmen have fallen into ambushes on several occasions.

Awaited Smugglers.

Scotten, who recently became a member of the patrol, and five other border guards, were lying in wait for rum smugglers following a tip that a big "load" was to be brought across just before dawn.

Russian-Chinese Situation Eases

Both Nations Declare They Will Remember Treaty of War Abolishment But Say Peace Is "Conditional"

(By Associated Press)

Russia and China through official spokesmen have pledged their loyalty to the Kellogg Anti-War pact and some of the International tension over the Manchurian situation was felt to be relaxed by their decision. However each made it clear that this position depended upon absence of over acts by the other.

Commissar Rudzutak, acting head of the Russian government and Foreign Minister C. T. Wang, of the Nationalist government, declared their nations had not forgotten the obligations of a signatory of the pact.

Peace Is Conditional

Both made their peace pledges conditional on abstention of their opponents from what Rudzutak described as "warlike acts."

Foreign Minister Wang said that "any move on the part of the Soviet to place troops within Manchuria will be viewed by the Chinese people and government as an act of war."

Texans, Sooners Talk On Border

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 20. (AP)—Committees from the legislatures of Texas and Oklahoma agreed here today on a price for which Texas might be willing to surrender its claim to 28,000 acres lopped off from Oklahoma by a Federal Boundary survey, but were not in accord as to other terms which would be involved in the transfer.

Ruth's Injuries Believed Slight

CLEVELAND, O., July 20. (AP)—Once again it seems that the ailments of Babe Ruth have been exaggerated and fears for his future prematurely aroused.

The big fellow himself was on the bench in uniform, growling about being perfectly able to do some pinch hitting even if he could not run very well or very fast.

Governor Is Left To Cut Expenses As Solons Leave

Legislators Go Home As Moody Prepares To Slash Appropriations Left On Executive Desk

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 20. (AP)—The Texas legislature has shaken the dust of Austin from its feet, leaving behind a sheaf of money bills for Governor Moody to consider.

Now the legislature is through, it is up to Governor Moody to whittle down the total appropriations if he hopes to have the automatic board set the ad valorem levy not to exceed 22 cents on the $100, the present rate.

Maximum Limit Is Placed

He had sent the legislature back in third extraordinary session to revamp the money bills because he said they exceeded the state revenue even with the ad valorem tax 35 cents, the constitutional limit. He said that total should not exceed $45,000,000. He placed the maximum limit at $48,000,000.

The total of the vetoed bills was $51,161,614. New bills passed, and now before the Governor, aggregated $47,792,935, a reduction of more than $3,000,000. The governor still believes appropriations are too high and has gone on record in favor of another session to further reduce them in the event he cannot do that work with his blue pencil.

Governor In Tight Position

If he calls another session, he will be criticized and if he deletes from the money measures there will be exclamations of horror from those who feel the sharp edges of the ax.

The facts are: The four major appropriations bills, for support of the judiciary, departments and educa-

Construction Soon

Construction is expected to start within the next 30 days. Plans will have been finished by S. B. Haynes, architect, in two weeks when bids will be received and contract let soon after. From the date of starting estimates say that the building will be ready for occupancy in four months.

The entire building will be thoroughly modern with every convenience and will be fireproof throughout.

With the completion of the new structure, twenty-five rooms on the first floor of the clinic building, now being used as quarters by nurses, will be released for enlarging of patients' quarters.

According to the announcement, shrubbery and grass will be planted for the beautification of the grounds while tennis courts and other playgrounds will be built for recreation of the nurses.

"The need for such a building has been evident for some time," said Dr. Overton, "decision for its construction came in line with the expansion program of the institution."

Powers, doing general practice and specializing in obstetrics, for the past year associated with the St. Louis maternity hospital, is a new member. Dr. B. J. Allen Brothers Legion Post Here Starts Campaign To Aid Tubercular Wife Of Penniless War Veteran

THE ARMISTICE brought no obvious happiness to Lee E. Denny.

Sheltered beneath an automobile shed, this ex-service man keeps constant watch over his wife, who, suffering in the final stages of tuberculosis, has little promise of life. They stopped at a Lubbock camp ground, three weeks ago, hopeful that the climate here would bring some improvement to her waning body.

There is the daughter, Lillie May, three and one-half years old, playing nearby, oblivious to the suffering of her mother. She plays in childish glee; happy because charitable citizens had donated sufficient eats for several days.

Mr. Denny is unable to work, because he must be with his wife every hour of the day.

The Allen Brothers post, local American Legion, is receiving donations for the family through Glen Hess, secretary of the post. All funds will be disbursed to the family as food and clothing are needed, said Mr. Hess.

Milk and ice are being delivered to the Dennys by the Avalanche-Journal and Federated Aid Societies Milk and Ice fund.

Local Men To Go To Highway Meet In Altus Monday

Carlsbad Cavern Group To Lay Plans To Give More Publicity To Route; To Be Invited Here

Believing that a large slice of transcontinental highway traffic is being lost to Lubbock because of the fact that the Carlsbad Cavern highway, from Oklahoma City to El Paso has not been well enough advertised a group of local citizens will tomorrow attend a meeting of the Carlsbad Cavern Highway association scheduled at Altus, Oklahoma.

This highway has been logged, mapped and marked, from Oklahoma City to El Paso, through Lawton and Altus, Okla., Quanah and Lubbock, Texas, Lovington and Carlsbad, N. M., but there has not been sufficient time for the routing to be known.

Boost For Lubbock

Before the highway was created there were only three routes known that lead from Oklahoma City to El Paso, by way of the Caverns. These were by Amarillo, Plainview and by the Bankhead highway, through Fort Worth.

With Carlsbad Caverns receiving bigger and bigger play, the state of New Mexico is destined to become the nation's greatest drawing card to tourist travel within the next few years is the belief of many who are acquainted with the facts.

Recently, it is claimed, the Lee highway, running from Oklahoma City, through Plainview, has more traffic over it than any other road

Downfall Covers Vast Section To Benefit Farmers

Everybody Happy

Business Men And Planters Alike Welcome Moisture Which Will Help Cotton And Feed Greatly

FOLLOWING reports of general rains over a wide expanse of Panhandle and South Plains territory, reaching into New Mexico and ranging as far north as Amarillo, south to the T & P at Big Spring and Abilene, crop conditions over the entire western portion of Texas will be greatly benefitted and prospects are bright for abundant yields.

While local precipitations at a late hour last night were said to be comparatively light with a fall of one-tenth of an inch, this moisture will aid materially in the production of fall crops. Cotton through this section, while just at this time not particularly in need of rain, will benefit. Early feed, in some parts reported to be in danger, are almost insured by the extra moisture.

Prospects for business in the fall are brightened with the insurance of a well seasoned territory and business houses look forward to prosperity following the harvest of bumper crops. Reports of local banks show that trade conditions at this time are very good and that deposits, while now larger than they have ever been, bid fair to increase to figures yet unrecorded.

Kress, Silverton, Quitaque And Turkey To Get Gas

West Texas Gas Company Announces Plans For Extension Of Service To Towns; Work To Start In Short Time

City Mains Needed To Make Brownfield Lines Complete; To Build New Building Here

FOLLOWING close on the heels of completion of the Tahoka to Brownfield pipeline, announcement has been made by the South Plains Pipe Line company that a new line now is under construction even longer than the one just finished. The new project will extend over a territory covering some 57 miles and includes the towns of Kress, Silverton, Quitaque and Turkey.

The Brownfield line has been run up to the city limits of that city and only awaits action by the West Texas Gas company in the construction of gas mains within the city proper. When this has been accomplished, together with the installation of meters, a new link will have been added to the ever widening scope of service being offered by the organization. Approximately 28 working days were required for the laying of the line.

Start is Uncertain

Officials of the company state that it is never known just at what time they will be ordered to start a new link in the long chain. Two days notice were given them for the start of the Silverton link. With this notice a raft of materials came in upon them and ditching machines arrived in short order. Work was started at once and the first three days 4 1-2 miles of ditch were dug. Estimates say that the new line will require about 30 working days for completion with a crew now ranging near to 800 men and a payroll averaging $25,000.

Already nearly 500 miles of line have been laid throughout the South Plains section and with the completion of the program planned a network of pipes will run in efery direction for approximate 800 miles.

Every order for the extension of service, every detail to be considered in the workings of the organization comes through and is issued from the general offices of the company which are located in Lubbock. The working force in this city has grown to such an extent that plans are now under way for the erection of a large two story building to be used exclusively by the company and which will house its executive offices.

Built on 10th and K

The new building, as announced by officers of the organization, will be two stories with foundations constructed to enable the addition of further space when necessary. The structure is to be built on the corner of Avenue K and Tenth street and will be 52 by 125 feet. Work is expected to start on the project within the very near future.

In addition to the location of the general offices in this city, the company has located its construction offices in southeast Lubbock, and a program of progressiveness has been instituted at this place destined to be one of education to farmers of the South Plains. Recently a water well was drilled on the property and from this well, though it primarily was put down for household use sufficient moisture has been gleaned irrigate a large alfalfa pasture from which one cutting already has been taken. Officials state that they hope to obtain at least two more before the season is over. Plans are now under way for the sinking of another well and when this is done further irrigation propeels will be initiated. The company, through work of this kind, is seeking to convince the South Plains farmer that irrigation in this territory is both feasible and profitable and that it can be done with a maximum amount of labor.

Several homes have been constructed on the property adjoining this scene of work and with the installation of a compressor more will necessarily have to be built for the greater influx of men required for operation of this unit. Officials feel that the installation of the compressor size to be later determined, will be seen at an early date.

Hubbers Clash With Wellington Monday In Amarillo Tournament

IN THE REALM OF SPORT WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Journal Sports Editor

THEY'RE OFF TODAY

Today in Amarillo the annual News-Globe baseball classic gets under way with 10 powerful ball clubs entered in quest of the prize money offered the winner. Tournament officials made a grave mistake in not putting the Lubbock Hubbers on the opening day's program. Silverton and Canyon fire the opening gun today while Amarillo and Lamesa meet in the nightcap.

For their first game, the Hubbers drew one of the strongest teams entered in the tournament. Wellington has been in the Texas-Oklahoma League all season and the entire team has played together throughout the year. This will be the second game Monday afternoon. Alex McColl carries the hopes of the Hubbers in his good right arm.

Since the local team does not play today, members of the Hubber club will not leave here until late today. Some few are going ahead in time to witness today's double header. Silverton and Lamesa are the favorites to win over Canyon and Amarillo. Incidentally, Gus White and his slugging crew are going to be mighty hard to eliminate. The Silverton aggregation may find it a little tough to down the collegians from W. T. S. T. C.

POOR OLD BABE

The injury of George Herman Ruth last Friday was a severe blow to the Champion Yankees who still entertained hopes of overtaking the rampaging Athletics of Connie Mack. The Babe sustained a pulled leg muscle while rounding a base and will be kept out of the remainder of the Cleveland series and possibly for the rest of the season. Following a recent lapse, the Mackmen have swung back into their winning ways again and are from all indications sailing down pennant lane with a downhill pull.

With the Bambino practically out of the running, the home run leadership for the 1929 season is likely to switch to the National League when the final tabulations are made in October. Charles (Chuck) Klein, slugging Philadelphia outfielder, is slamming the ball out of the orchards at a pace that may threaten the major league record held by Babe Ruth at 60 and the National League mark set by Rogers Hornsby at 42. Klein recently crashed out five homers in three games and rose to the front of all major league clouters. Melvin Ott, the boy wonder with the New York Giants, is likewise pounding the horsehide at a terrific clip.

Billy Southworth and his St. Louis Cardinals dropped back to a .500 average yesterday as the Boston Braves pounded Haines, Frankhouse and Johnson for a 5-1 victory. The fighting Tribe was playing its first game under the leadership of "Rabbit" Maranville, veteran shortstop. Emil Fuchs, president-manamer of the Boston club, has at last convinced himself that he is anything but a major league baseball manager. Despite the fact that he told the Associated Press last night that Maranville had not been appointed boss, it is certain that Fuchs will not remain on the bench. The Rabbit knows more baseball than the average club manager and should be able to bring the Braves out of the mire.

Three shutouts were registered in the Texas League Saturday. Waco, Wichita Falls and Shreveport administered the whitewash in convincing fashion. Harold Wiltse, Wichita recruit, turned in the best performance of them all in turning back the Houston Buffs with three hits. He was opposed by Jim Lindsey but the Houston ace failed to last. Hap Collard hurled the Shreveport Sports to a 11-0 triumph over San Antonio, holding the Indians to five singles. Earl Caldwell at Waco duplicated this performance at Waco against the Dallas Steers.

UMPS BEAR DOWN

Managers In Gotham Ball Games Get The Gate

NEW YORK, July 20. (AP)—The hot weather and the hot National league pennant battle sent managers on the war path against umpires in the metropolitan parks and in three days three of them were chased from the parks.

Even John McGraw, the little Napoleon of baseball who hadn't been invited to vacate his throne for more years than the baseball reporters could remember, was put out of the park.

McGraw was ousted one day and Jack Hendricks the next. On the third day Billy Southworth, showing in Brooklyn with his Cardinals, was banished.

CHAMP RETAINS TITLE

Wray Brown Again Champ Of Missouri Valley

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., July 20. (AP)—Wray Brown, St. Louis, retained the Missouri Valley tennis championship by defeating Gustave Boehmer, jr., St. Louis, at Riverside Park here late today. The score was 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Rosamond Lamb, Okmulgee, Oklahoma, won the girls championship defeating Mercelna Weiss, 13, St. Louis, 6-4, 6-3.

Team Will Leave Today For Scene Of Annual Event

Local Club Stacks Up As One Of Strongest Entries In Meet; Reinforcements Will Strengthen

Lubbock Hubbers are Amarillo bound today with their eyes set on first place in the News-Globe baseball tournament which gets under way today. An air of supreme confidence was apparent in the ranks of the local club as final preparations were made last night for the week's stay in the Potter county capital.

Assured of the keenest competition in the history of the Amarillo classic, the Hubbers gathered togetner their reserve strength late Saturday and are ready to battle the Wellington aggregation Monday, in their first game.

The tournament opens at Metro Park this afternoon with Silverton and Canyon firing the opening gun and the Amarillo-Lamesa clash set for the aftermath. Another douoie header follows on Monday with Lubbock-Wellington and Pampa-Quitaque matched.

Tuesday's games will find Borger and the Amarillo City League club in action and the losers of the Sunday games meeting each other.

Lubbock's opposition for its first appearance on Monday is one of the strongest clubs entered in the tournament. As a member of the Texas-Oklahoma league, Wellington boasts one of the strongest Class D outfits in the southwest. Withdrawal of two other teams in this circuit allows Wellington to enter the meet as an amateur club.

H. B. Wilson, field manager of the local nine, was uncertain last night as to the starting lineup for Lubbock. Negotiations to get in touch with several out-of-town baseballers have not yet been completed.

With Alex McColl their main hope on the mound, the Hubbers hope to take Jeffries, a former Baylor University star, and Calder, another Bruin favorite to aid McColl in the hurling department.

Volney Hill and D. Waller will carry the catching burden for the locals. Hill stands ready to take the hillock in case the chunkers turn up short.

The Lubbock infield looks like the proverbial million dollars on paper and barring unfortold mishaps is likely to be the class of the tournament on the field. Lefty Reed is slated to hold down the initial sack. Roy Taylor remains on second and Raymond Ater at shortstop. Robinson will be the hot corner guardian. Brothers Marshall, Wilson and Naylor will cover the outer gardens for the Hubbers.

Yanks Slug Hard To Divide Double With Cleveland

Athletics Defeat Detroit And Pull Half Game Away From Champs; Sens Take Two

CLEVELAND, O., July 20. (AP) — The Yankees regained their slugging form late today to gain an even break with the Indians, in a double-header. Two late rallies gave New York the second game, 11 to 6, after Cleveland had won the first, 8 to 4. Tony Lazzeri got a home run in each game.

Little Change From 1919 Vintage Is Apparent In Much-Discussed Lively Ball In Use This Season

What The "Rabbit" Ball Looks Like, Dissected

Cut through the middle, here are the baseballs used in the major leagues in 1919 and 1929, respectively. The turtle ball is the old variety of the days when runs were fewer and pitcher's battles more frequent. The rabbit ball is the 1929 article, which is being slammed as never before by American and National League batters. The National and American League balls are the same, made according to the patent held by Tom Shibe of Philadelphia.

Pilots Say Pitching Is Not What It Used To Be

BY WM. M. BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Writer

There is quite an ado about the prolific way the boys have been standing up at that old wicket and dusting the ball this year.

Nine home runs were made in one game the other day between the Pirates and the Phils, and 13 homers were made in four major league crashing contests a few days later. It is getting hard even to remember when a home run by Hans Wagner used to be something to chortle about.

Ten of the 14 major league managers say the thing the pitchers are tossing up there is not what it used to be; it's easier to see and to hit and it seems to travel farther, and it's hurting the game.

Weak sisters in the averages column, the lads who can't quite raise their smacking ability above a grade of .215 are going up there ever so often and socking it far away.

How About Hockey Outfits?

The infielders are thinking of asking for shinguards and masks. Donie Bush says somebody is going to get killed soon if that ball isn't tamed.

On the other hand, there are pitchers in there today doing the same thing with the rabbit ball that they used to do with the old turtle ball, namely, throwing it past them. Men like Quinn, Hoyt, Vance, Marberry, Grimes, Faber, Uhle and a few others don't seem to care whether it's India rubber or a bean bag. They pitch with the same boyish abandon as of the old days when the taw was supposed to be fairly docil.

The people who make the ball say it isn't any livelier than it ever was and everybody else just must be talking up the old sleeve. The American and National League balls are made on the same machines in the factories at Philadelphia, under a patent granted to Tom Shibe interests, half owners of the Macks. Shibe says the ball hasn't been changed since 1909.

Dissecting the Apple

Taking an American League and a National League ball and sawing them straight through the middle is like taking two apples from the same tree and cutting in halves. You don't find any peach seeds in either one.

The uproar and tumult about the rabbit ball started back in 1920 when the players started paralyzing the sphere quite regularly. Chemists and physicists took the old onion apart and looked into the constituents very thoroughly. They proved everything and nothing.

You get somewhat the same reaction from dissecting the ball today. There is a cork center just as there was in 1920. There is one little difference, however, outside the cork center used to be a layer of gray rubber, whereas now there is a layer of gray rubber which is itself enclosed in another layer of soft red rubber.

Billy Evans, former American League umpire, now general manager of the Cleveland Indians and a close student of baseball, says the present ball is wrapped 30 per cent tighter than it used to be. In addition, a uniform fine grade of Australian wool is being used now, whereas the manufacturers formerly used mixed wool of not as good quality.

Quite a few of the experts fasten the blame upon the pitching. There are no more freak deliveries, they say. This combined with the fact that new balls are thrown out for play now whenever a foul ball is struck makes it easier for the batters to cock it.

They were saying the same things in 1920 when it was first suspected that the ball had been hopped up.

We still have the fact, however, that the players are going in there and bashing it away. If it isn't a livelier ball, a new race of supermen is invading the ranks of organized ball. And new races of supermen haven't been happening along with any wearisonme regularity in the past.

TRAGEDY OF A LIVELY BALL

The scene of the tragedy is Eben's Gulch, Saskatchewan. In the pool room of Eight-ball Raferty are gathered the stars of other years. Scratch Single Delehanty, Hans Texas Leaguer Wagner, Bunter Hugh Duffy, Popsingle Anson and Foul Tip Frank Baker. They are playing Kelly pool.

POPSINGLE ANSON: They don't have the powerful hitters they had in my day. I remember one day in '84 when I got three home runs in succession. These modern Babe Ruths can't touch that record.

SCRATCH SINGLE DELEHANTY: Nope, when the old guys hit that apple it stayed hit.

BUNTER HUGH DUFFY: They had mighty tough pitchers in them days, too.

FOUL TIP FRANK BAKER: How about the old Athletics—was there ever a hittener team than that one.

TEXAS LEAGUER WAGNER: They had some mighty tough pitching in the National League in my days with the Pirates.

POPSINGLE ANSON: They don't make the men nowadays that can crown baseballs the way they used to in the '80s and '90s.

BUNTER DUFFY: You said it—the old hitters were great big fellows, with powerful shouldders and legs. Some of the ball players look like kids now.

(ENTER NEWSBOY)

Extra! Extra! Mel Ott, boy wonder of the Giants smacks his 90th home run of the season. All about it! Schoolboy gets five homers in last day of National League season to bust record of old Pop Anson!

(Players seize pool balls from tables and start flinging them at newsboy. He exits swiftly).

POPSINGLE ANSON: Now, as I was saying—back in '84.

Americans Take Deciding Match From Germans, Now Face Old Rivals For Tennis Supremacy

By J. E. ANGLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, July 20. (AP)—Once again France and America will fight it out in the final battle for possession of the Davis Cup emblem of world tennis supremacy.

By conquering Germany here today in the doubles their third and decisive match of the series, the players from the United States won the inter-zone round and the right to challenge France for the big silver bowl.

Johnny Van Ryn, New Jersey and Wilmer Allison, Texas, in four sparkling sets defeated Daniel Prenn and Hans Moldenhauer by scores of 9-11, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

The remaining two singles matches of the series tomorrow, with Tilden playing Prenn and Hunter opposing Moldenhauer, have no bearing on the situation other than to carry out the schedule and help the gate receipts.

Professor Favors Coach In Stands

URBANA, Ill., July 20 (AP)—The athletic coaches' place is in the grandstand — alongside the pay customers—thinks Prof. S. C. Staley, physical education instructor at the University of Illinois.

Shifting of managerial duties from paid coaches to students, a reversal of the evolution that took place from 1883 to the present time, is predicted by Staley.

He said the instances o fremoveing coaches from playing field to grandstand—in New York, Detroit and Connecticut—substantiates his prediction.

Hal Carlson, Cub pitcher, had a hard time getting started this year but when he did he turned in a five-hit and a four-hit game in quick sucession.

New York baseball reporters predict that Bob Meusel will be used only as a pinch hitter after this season.

Riconda Helping Blues Set Pace

KANSAS CITY, July 20 (AP)—Harry Riconda's powerful bat is one reason why the Kansas City Blues expect to capture the American Association pennant this year.

Association hurlers still remember the damage Riconda caused when he was Milwaukee's heavy hitter two years ago. His timely blows now are boosting the Blues' run column.

Riconda returned to Kansas City from Pittsburgh, and immediately began to demonstrate that he had not lost his former eye for association pitching. He plays either third base or shortstop.

No Sleep For Bill These Nights

SOUTHWORTH

Manager Southworth and two reasons why he is worried

BY WILLIAM RITT
Sport Editor of Central Press

NEW YORK, July 20.—That device of modern baseball business, the so-called chain-store farm system, is now receiving its first severe test. The St. Louis Cardinals, greatest exponents of the chain-store system, are in dire need of new material. They have lost ground on all fronts in the savage battle for the National league pennant and their personnel has been weakened by heavy casualties.

The golden days of July are rapidly slipping away and just beyond looms August and fateful September. With the Cards having slipped below the .500 mark and into the company of such nondescript outfits as the Brooklyns and the Braves, there is something like a 10-game gap between the St Louisians and the league leaders. A great deal of ground has to be recovered and it must be recovered quickly.

The chain-store system's purpose is to afford a constant source of new material and a reserve of good relief ivory to draw upon at a moment's notice and in dire emergency. Well, the Cards face such an emergency now. They need pitchers and need them badly.

Grover Cleveland Alexander in the past pulled the Cards out of jams when they faltered, but old Pete is now lost through injury and illness. Willie Sherdel, one of the dependables of last year, hasn't been pitching a dime's worth. And the same can be said for Mitchell.

Jess Haines started out well but has faded to a weak figure in recent games. Syl Johnson seems to have been overworked. Hald, Frankhouse, Holland and Hallahan, recruits of the last two years from Cardinal farms, haven't been doing so well, either.

Johnson and Haines have been the only pitchers to win a sizeable majority of their games.

That's what has happened to the fine pitching staff which breezed through to a pennant for the Cards last season.

There is no kick on the way the Cards have been hitting. The team is clouting within a few points of the .300 mark. The old gunfire is still there, with Chick Hafey, Frankie Frisch, Taylor Douthit, Jim Bottomley, Wilson and High hitting in big numbers.

However, as Manager Billy Southworth of the Cards now knows full well, hits don't count when the other fellows batter your own pitchers out of the lot.

The Cards haven't done so badly afield although there is some room for improvement in that department of play, too.

But Manager Southworth's crying need is pitchers and good ones, too. The other contenders have had their pitching troubles but have been lucky in reserve strength. The Card's reserves haven't turned the trick.

If the Cards are going to be saved, rescue must come from one of two sources. Either the current hurling staff must undergo a tremendous rally or the Cardinal farms must send up the necessary strength.

Whether this strength can be found on the farms, now that it is most needed, remains to be seen.

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn Plays Great Golf To Win Metropolitan Golfing Championship, Replacing Armour

Low Score Of 288 Enough To Cop Title Over 72 Hole Grind; Wilfred Cox Is Second

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 20. (AP)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn played a great round of golf today here to win the Metropolitan championship with a low score of 288 for the 72 holes.

Wilfred Cox, Dyker Beach, 78-75-67-71—291.

Henry Cuici, Mill River, 73-79-72-70—294.

Santa Fe Outfit To Play Roswell

Local City League Club Schedules Three Game Series With New Mexico Aggregation

Manager Bill Hargrove of the local Santa Fe baseball aggregation has completed negotiations for a three game series with the Roswell N. M. nine starting with a double header on Sunday, August 11.

Following the twin bill on the 11th, the two teams will meet again on the following day in a single contest.

The Rail team here boasts one of the strongest teams in the twilight loop and has made impressive showings on their trips out of the city. Manager Hargrove plans to enlist a number of seasoned veterans to reinforce his club for the series with Roswell.

Reports from Roswell indicates strong competition for the locals when they invade the Sunshine State early next month. The Cadets have won the majority of their games this season and are likely to give the Railroaders plenty to worry over.

Franz Deulberg, bike racer, was knocked insensible in a local accident. Four days later he went out and won a 30 mile motor paced contest.

Jimmy Braddock, training for his bout with Tommy Loughran, scored six knockdowns in six rounds of boxing, one day.

Blue Larkspur has won $220,000 in purses. Only six other horses in the history of the American turf have earned that sum.

England and the United States will meet at polo next year. It will be the second international series in three years for the U. S. which met and defeated the Argentine team in 1928.

A Texan, Berkeley Bell, holds the New York state singles tennis title.

Batting Leadership Held By St. Louis Star By One Point; Macks' Hitting Mark Drops

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—The job for setting the pace for the American league batsmen, handled during the last seven weeks by Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics, passed into praticed hands of Heinie Manush, St. Louis Brown outfielder during the thirteenth week of the campaign, unofficial averages including Wednesday's games reveal.

After leading the younger circuit for nearly two months, the sensational first baseman of Connie Mack's league leaders, slipped just enough to permit Manush to top by the scant margin of one point. Manush had compiled a mark of .391 to 390 for Foxx.

On the whole the week was not so good for the ten leaders, only two, Al Simmons of Philadelphia, and Earl Combs of the Yankees, improving their averages. Behind Manush and Foxx were Fothergill, Detroit, .385; Simmons, Philadelphia, .362; Lazzeri, New York, .361; Fonseca, Cleveland, .355; Combs, New York, .352; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .351; Heilman, Detroit, .350; Ruth, New York, .348.

Along with Foxx the Athletics as an organization, failed to maintain their hitting pace and dropped into second place behind the Detroit Tigers. The Mack's fell from .309 to .303, while Bucky Harris' team retained their average of .308. Detroit also led in runs scored with 554, and the Athletics continued to be the most difficult to score upon, having held opponents to 331 runs.

Bob Grove, the Athletic's star southpaw, was credited with one victory during the week and topped the list with a record of 15 victories and two defeats. He also continued to reign as strikeout ruler with 112 in 22 games. His team mate, George Earnshaw, was second among hurlers working in turn with a markof 12 triumphs and four defeats. Tom Zachary of the Yankees, was the only undefeated pitcher in the league, having been credited with four victories.

The Athletics' fielding held up better than their hitting and they led with a percentage of .975. St. Louis and Washington were tied for the runnerup position with .974.

Other leaders:

Hits—Manush, St. Louis, 137.

Home runs—Ruth and Gehrig, New York, 22.

Triples—Miller, Philadelphia, 12.

Doubles—Gehringer and R. Johnson, 32.

Stolen bases—Gehringer, Detroit, and Cissell, Chicago, 13.

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, July 20—There was no change in the local ice prices today from that announced Friday when the Texas Public Utilities Corporation, a subsidiary of the Texas Power and Light company, made a thirty cent per hundred pound price on ice at their dock, and forty cents delivered. Locall owned plant still remains forty cents at their dock.

The public utility company also operates ice plants at Lamesa, Colorado and Sweetwater, and get sixty-two cents a hundred at their dock, and seventy cents delivered.

The situation is being anxiously watched not only by Snyder citizens, but in the nearby towns. In face of utility company shrinking their prices, the locally owned company is working 24 hours a day, and selling their entire output. Price of thirty cents a hundred is lowest ever made here at retail, and present wholesale price for 300 pound block is 75 cents.

BAIL PLEA DENIED

Oklahoma Dry Agents Can Not Leave Jail, Ruling

TECUMSEH, Okla., July 19. (AP)—Hal Johnston, state district judge at a hearing today denied bail to W. W. Thomason, federal prohibition agent, and Jeff D. Harris, "undercover man," held for trial on murder charges growing out of the shooting of James Harris and Oscar Lowery, farmers, July 4.

Neither defendant took the stand. Two witnesses, Sam Nicholson and R. F. Holland, special deputy sheriffs, were presented today by Thomason and Harris, who applied for liberty on bond through applications for writs of habeas corpus.

THAT MADE IT FINAL

Jakey Atz has been one of the most successful managers in the minor leagues. For years, until recently he was the manager of the Fort Worth club of the Texas League. And he is without doubt baseball's most amusing story teller.

He quit his job in Fort Worth after a public argument with his boss. The boss, the owner of the club, was sitting in a box near the bench and he ordered Jakey to use a certain pitcher.

"Listen, fellow," Jakey said. "This may be your ball club at times, but it's my ball club every afternoon from 2 until 6 and if it ain't I'm through."

"You're through," the boss said. And Jakey left the park.

He should worry, though. They said he is going to manage the Chicago White Sox next. But perhaps he should worry. Managers of the White Sox have reasons to worry.

EVERYBODY DON'T BOSS HIM

There have been reports that Dan Howley, who has been a great success as the manager of the Saint Louis Browns, is prepared to hand in his ticket at the end ow the season. He is said to have complained to friends that the business office was trying to select his pitchers for him and he named the vice-president of the club in particular. He told one of his friends that there was a clause in his contract which stipulated that he was to take orders from no one but Phil Ball, the ownr of th club. And that he wouldn't take orders from anyone but Ball.

SUCH SHOCKING CONDUCT

The English people take their tennis very seriously and they consider Wimbledon almost as a shrine. There are certain customers that have to be observed as to manner of conduct and dress.

Last year there was a storm of shocked criticism when John Hennessey, one of the boys on the American Davis Cup team, appeared on the sacred center court wearing white trousers with black pin stripes. He finally had to purchase a pair that was plain white.

There was some apprehension felt in London when the word came from Paris that Helen Wills was playing without stockings. She is quite an idol and it was feared that her example would set a shocking vogue. But Helen put on her stockings when she went to Wimbledon.

HE DID A TERRIBLE THING

During the tournament Bill Tilden had to play one of his matches after a heavy rainstorm and he shocked the customers by removing his shoes and playing in his stockings.

"It was not only dangerous to him but it was in poor taste to do a thing like that in public," one of the London writers said.

We remember seeing Elizabeth Ryan in 1924 take off her shoes on the court when the king and queen were in the royal box and no excitement was caused.

Herman Remains At Top Of List In Senior Loop

Frank O'Doul On Heels Of Brooklyn Slugger With Mark Of .393; Terry Leads In Hits

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Babe Herman, the Brooklyn slugger, remained at the top of the National league batting list, but with an average swelled to .404 as the result of steady pounding against western pitching at Ebbets field in the last fortnight. Herman's margin, however, is none too wide. The averages, issued today, include games of last Wednesday.

Melvin Ott of New York, who yielded the home run crown to Charlie Klein of Philadelphia in the course of a week, leads the league in scoring with 85 runs and with runs batted in with 94. Bill Terry of New York sets the pace in total hits with 136, while Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn and Chick Hafey of St. Louis are tied for the top in doubles with 27 apiece.

Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh has hit 14 triples to lead, while Klein's 28 home runs top Ott's crop by three. Cuyler of Chicago still leads in steals with 20.

Following Herman and O'Doul in the batting averages are these regulars: Terry, New, .373; Klein, Philadelphia, .373; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, .361; Traynor, Pittsburgh, .360; Hornsby, Chicago, .358; Frisch, St. Louis, .355; Hafey, St. Louis, .353, and Stephenson, Chicago, .351.

The defeat of Burleigh Grimes at Boston on Wednesday cost him the pitching lead. Guy Bush the Chicago ace, slipped into first place with 12 victories and only one defeat for the percentage of .923, while Grimes fell back into second with 15 games won and two lost for .882. Henry Meinie of Pittsburgh is the nominal leader with four games won and none lost, but of course, cannot be classed as a regular.

The Phillies lead in team batting, with a margin of .309 to .307 over Pittsburgh. The Giants are third with .305 and the Cubs fourth with .303, rounding out the largest list of teams ever seen in the .300 class at this stage of the season. The Giants and the Cubs are tied for the top in fielding with .974. The Reds are third with .972.

TALK CAR STRIKE

But No Peace In Sight In New Orleans Trouble

NEW ORLEANS, July 19. (AP)—The city commission council took the center of the stage today in the street car strike negotiations but at nightfall hadn't succeeded in bringing the company and union together.

They conferred separately for hours with representatives of the opposing factions and hope later to bring them together in conference for a round-table discussion of their grievances before the council.

After winning nine straight games at the start of the season, George Uhle, Detroit pitcher, lost six of his next seven starts.

No major league ball games in New York are broadcast. And the metropolitan magnates hold that the radio is hurting the attendance in the cities broadcasting the games.

A New Wrinkle Yale-Georgia Ducats Fancy

ATHENS, Ga., July 20 (AP)—Something new in football tickets is planned by the University of Georgia for the game with Yale here October 12.

This will be a gala day for Georgia. Not only will it mark the dedication of Stanford Field stadium, Georgia's fine new athletic plant, but it also marks the first time a Yale football team has ever left the confines of the "Big Three" for a game.

The ticket is printed on gilt pasteboard of very heavy texture. A curled ribbon, extending between the heads of two bulldogs at the top of the ticket, is red, and the lettering on the ribbon, "Stanford Field Stadium", is in black. The words "Yale vs. Georgia," are in blue, Yale colors.

George Blackerby Forges Ahead Of Hitters In Texas

Waco Star Again Leads Langford For Texas League Hitting Honors; Has Average Of .382

DALLAS, July 20. (AP)—Taking advantage of a return to his beloved Katy Park to bat at a furious clip for a week, George Blackerby, Waco star, again forged ahead of his chief rival, Langford, Shreveport, in the race for Texas league hitting honors. Through Thursday's games the clouting Cub had compiled an average of .382, compared to Langford's .374.

Unless he slumps in the closing months, Blackerby stands a fine chance to gain the distinction of being the first player to lead the league two consecutive seasons. He also is second in homers, with 19, and third in total hits.

Other leading macemen were: Bennett (WF) .369; J. Moore (Da) .368; Rosenthal (Da) .363; Starr (St) .354; Benton (WF) .354; Sullivan (WF) .333; Kelly (Mm.) .331.

Moore Leads In Hits.

Randy Moore, Dallas gardener, clung to his lead in total hits, with 147. Eddie Moore, Fort Worth, had 141. Whelan, Shreveport, has proved a valuable man to the Sports by scoring 98 times. Eddie Moore and Rabbit Benton are tied for second in this respect, each with 92 payoffs.

The speedy Fort Worth Moore is in a class by himself in banging triples. He has reached the third station 18 times, almost twice that of his closest rival, Larry Cox, Moore's running mate, has smacked 33 doubles, compared to 31 each for Randy Moore and Fittzgerald of the Spuds.

The race for homer honors has evolved into a question of how many Bob Sanguinet of the Cubs will hit. He had poled 25 through Thursday's contests. Blackerby had 19, Mellano and Bennett 18 apiece. It is noted that three of the four leaders enjoy much of their target practice in the small Waco Park.

Young Mr. Sargent was licensed to preach at the group conference held in Tahoka recently, and is embracing this opportunity to get some experience and training for his life work. Stocks And Cotton End Week With Some Gains

Profit-Taking In Closing Hours Is Street's Feature

Early Surge Forward Gives Way To Profits As Close Of Wall Street Trading For Week Is Noted

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 20. (AP)—Stocks surged forward during the first hour of today's short market session, only to be swamped by a flood of week-end profit-taking before the close.

The price movement was complicated by a growing divergence of speculative sentiment.

The Associated Press index of 50 industrials was unchanged but the indices of 20 utilities and 20 rails were carried into record altitude.

U. S. Steel Soars

U. S. Steel was sent up a couple of points to a record price at 209 7/8.

The New York stock exchange statement issued today showing an increase of $6,342,702,722 in the market value of all listed stocks from June 1 to July 1, carrying the total to the record level $77,264,128,909.

The credit outlook was regarded a little more optimistically. Rail stocks were again strong, under the leadership of New York central, which rose 5 points to another peak at 245.

Among the utilities, North American rose more than 5 points to a new top.

Motors Are Soft

Motors were generally soft, under the influence of reports of accumulating stocks.

Wheat was depressed by profit-taking losses amounted to 2 or 3 cents a bushel. Corn sold off more than a cent. Cotton was strong, closing about $1 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, sterling cables rallying to $4.85 4-16.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, July 20. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was marked by uneveness with short fed natives and western grass cattle showing little degree of stability. Choice dry fed native steers and yearlings ruled higher with new tops for the season at most all markets.

Prices on hogs fluctuated. Closing values were 40c lower than a week ago with the lighter butchers on a 15c lower basis. St. Louis reporting a few light butchers up to $12.30.

Assorted native lambs in Chicago $15.50. Choice rangers on the high points made $15.25.

Border Warfare

island with instructions to halt the smugglers. The patrolmen noticed a horseman leave the Mexican shore and start for the United States.

As is usual in most cases when "big loads" are run across the border, a decoy or advance guard is sent out from Juarez to draw the attention of the "Gringo guards" as the Juarez smuggling ring has branded Uncle Sam's agents.

Believed In Hoax.

Positive that the horseman was a decoy the patrolmen kept themselves hidden until he had almost reached the United States side.

One patrolman jumped from his hiding place and called on the horseman to halt. The command was answered with bullets from the Mexican side of the river.

The Americans returned the fire, unaware that they were surrounded by smugglers stationed on the American side to receive the contraband. These desperadoes then began to pour a hail of bullets into the hiding place of the American agents. Scotten fell under the first fire, one rifle bullet striking his head and another his hip.

When their comrade fell, the American patrolmen rushed into the open and charged the Mexicans on this side of the border. The Mexican horseman joined the fight and charged at the patrolmen with an automatic in each hand.

Went To Meet Decoy.

One patrolman singled out the horseman and armed only with the regulation service pistol, went out to meet the decoy.

He got his man, shooting the horse out from under him, but only wounding the rider, who under the cover of fire from the Mexican side escaped across the border.

Trails of blood found after the battle indicated several of the rum runners had been wounded.

Appeals May Feel Veto

Appropriations were made for the Commissions of Appeals as well as the six additional justices of the supreme court to be added under provisions of the constitutional amendment authorized in the election of Tuesday. It was understood that if the amendment carried the governor would veto out the provisions for the Commissions of Appeals which will cease to function with inauguration of the enlarged court.

There is an item of $40,000 for an underground water survey that could be lifted out gracefully if exigencies should suggest it. There are some new buildings and improvements alloted to state colleges and school that could be deferred until the state's expenses are not so enormous. There are some items in the $476,049 claims and accounts bill that have been hanging fire for a number of years.

A good guess is that Governor Moody will see to it that the ad valorem tax levy does not reach the constiutional limit, whether he is able to veto enough out of the bills to insure this or disapprove the whole batch and recall the legislature to reduce the approupriations.

Slump In Wheat Overtakes Rise In Early Sales

CHICAGO, July 20. (AP)—Haste to seize a favorable moment to realize profits for big speculative holder precipitated an extreme break of 5 1-4c a bushel in wheat prices today. Until the last hour of trading, buyers held the advantage most of the time in a nip-and-tuck struggle. Then the advances went into sudden eclipse, and the finish was at practically the day's bottom level.

Wheat closed nervous, 5 1-8c off in some cases from the day's tip-top point, and 3 1-4c to 3 7-8c under [illegible]'s final figure.

New Orleans And New York See Up Trend In Staple

Further Advances In Both Major Markets Fall Off Before Reactions At End Of Saturday Trading

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—Cotton moved into new high ground in today's short session. Liverpool cables were a trifle worse than due and the market here opened 5 to 6 points down. New York, however, ignored Liverpool and opened higher. Active months showed gains of 29 to 30 points, or a dollar and a half a bale.

Trading was active but prices fluctuated narrowly easing off about 7 points at the close.

October Advances

October opened at 18.99, down 6 points but advanced to 19.29, and closed at 19.22, or 17 points higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 16 to 17 points.

Liverpool was 2 to 3 points lower than due. First trades showed losses of 5 to 6 points.

December rose to 19.48, or 29 to 30 points above the opening and 23 to 24 points above the previous close. December closed at 19.42, or 17 points net higher for the day.

Port receipts, 1,961; for year 9,378,222; last year 8,516,482. Exports 4,809; for year 7,853,531; last year 7,462,149. Port stocks 603,857; last year 684,945. Combined stock on shipboard 47,959; last year 70,530. Spot sales 7,795; last year 3,305.

General Market At New York Closes Firm

NEW YORK, July 20. (AP)—Further advances met considerable realizing in cotton today, but the selling was absorbed on moderate reactions. October contracts after selling up to 19.47 reacted to 19.36 and closed at 19.44, compared with 19.22 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed firm at net advances of 15 to 24 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 8 to 18 points. Traders paid little attention to cables and the advance soon extended to 19.77 for December and 19.85 for March contracts. May again sold at the 20-cent level. These prices represented net advances of 23 to 27 points.

Showers in West Texas

The official forecast, however, called for only showers in West Texas and the mid-morning offerings were absorbed on reactions of 10 or 15 points from the best.

Part of this loss was recovered on covering. Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best on all months except December, which showed a reaction of about 8 points. Later trading tapered off considerably.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 96,000 against 69,000 last year.

Life For Former White House Aide Is One Sweet Song; They're Needed For Lobbying, Correspondent Says

They 'Know The Ropes' And Demand Fat Fees After Stay In Capital; They're Ethical, Too

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 20 — The problem of what to do with our ex-presidents may remain baffling and presidents are poignant, but the never in any doubt concerning their futures after they leave the White House.

Comfortable law offices and fat fees await them in Washington, where hundreds of lawyers get along wonderfully well without ever practicing any law at all. Only a distinct minority of the thousands of occupants of "law offices" here ever bother with court cases. Many of the others are commonly regarded as lobbyists or "fixers," who exert their talents and personal influence on Congress and the government departments on behalf of prosperous clients.

The several presidential ex-secretaries now doing business here have all practiced law in their time and age not unwilling to go into the courts, but they have joined the large happy family of ex-cabinet members, ex-senators, ex-congressmen an dother ex-government officials whose prosperity here has been largely dependent on a widespread belief that they are specially qualified to wrangle things out of the government.

Not Really Unethical

Very rarely is it specifically charged that one of these gents has used his official contacts improperly. It is probably quite natural that they should go into business where they are best known and where their most favorable opportunities appear to liet—hat's not unethical. In doing so, doubtless no unworthy thought ever enters their heads.

But it is only natural that they are promptly sought out when outside interests go after legislative or administrative favors. Little or no knowledge of law is essential for such business. These boys know the ropes. They know the people to see. And in the cases of ex-members of Congress they have the precious privilege of the floor.

Of course there is no sense in going out and calling people lobbyists unless everyone is agreed as to just what a lobbyist is. The dictionary says a lobbyist is one who solicits legislators for votes. It is hard to draw a line between lobbyists and "fixers," who seek to influence official decisions, as in tax cases. Many do both.

If a lobbyist is one who seeeks tariff favors for special interests, then at least two presidential ex-secretaries qualify.

C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolige, has been representing firms interested in metal schedules. Slemp and his law partner have frequently been concerned in big money cases here in which the government had some sort of an interest, including alien property matters, the fight against the inheritance tax and Muscle Shoals. Very recently a Capt. Barlow after unsatisfactory experience with the Stae Department in his attempts to collect some hundreds of thousands of dollars of which the Cubans are supposed to have robbed him, employed Slemp and Everett Sanders, another Coolidge secretary.

Seeks Tariff Boosts

Sanders entered the Washington office of the law firm of Secretary of War Jim Good, which specializes in income tax cases and has represented the Alabama Power Co. Lately Sanders has represented the plate glass interests which want a tariff increase.

Ted Clark, Coolidge's erstwhile private secretary, has installed himself in one of the big new office buildings and is now said to represent the Ligget drug interests.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Woodrow Wilson's famous secretary, has had a law office here for eight years. He has practiced in contact with government departments and attended the hearings on the Walsh public utilites resolution. The name "Tumulty" was mentioned in one of the telegrams of the head of the power lobby here, but Tumulty has never been accused of lobbying.

George B. Cortelyon, former secretary to President Roosevelt, has been openly attacked as a lobbyist, though it was as president of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York that he came down here last year to join in the "power trust" fight against the Walsh resolution.

Jardine Is on the Job

Among recent spokesmen for corporations interested in the tariff bill was ex-Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine, who also represents some powerful radio interests here now. Jardine told the Senate Finance Committee how badly the beet sugar industry needed a sugar tariff boost. Others who have been engaged lately in the sugar fight are Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, former ambassador to Cuba, and Major Gen. Frank McIntyre, former Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs.

The woods are full of ex-senators and ex-congressmen who are being well paid for seeking favors for one corporation or another.

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts has proposed a Senate investigation of lavish corporation expenditures in the tariff fight and the large retainers alleged to have been paid important republicans for use of their influence. Several bills have been introduced in Congress requiring registration of all lobbyists and one of these probably will be pushed at the next regular session.

Finland now has more than 35,000 motor vehicles.

RATIFY AGREEMENT

French Chamber Agrees On War Debt Settlement

PARIS, July 21. (AP)—(Sunday.)—The President of France early today was authorized by the Chamber of Deputies to ratify the agreement for payment of war debts to the United States.

The ratification vote was carried by the slim margin of eight votes. The count was 300 in favor and 292 against.

The measure must now come before the Senate, but the majority of the government has generally been much stronger in that body. It thus appeared certain that the agreement concluded in Washington in July, 1926, would take effect.

Missing Yachtmen Found

NEW YORK, July 20. (AP)—After drifting all night in a disabled speedboat on Long Island sound, G. Connally Makes A Plea

He also asked that the commission disclose what schedule each wished changed.

Rebel's Family Lives With Brother In Arizona; Noto Worrying About Him

SUPERIOR, Ariz., July 20 (AP).—In this little mining camp the family of Jose Gonzales Escobar, insurrectionist military leader of Mexico recently, has found sanctuary with Mrs. Escobar's brother.

Senora Ernestina Escalante de Escobar and sons, Araradno, 20, and Jose, jr., 18, are living quietly in the Mexican quarter in the residence of Antonio Escalante. The senora fled from Mexico in March, carrying $100,000 across the border for her husband.

Apparently unworried as to the general's safety, the family believes he is at present in Vancouver, B. C.

Jose, jr., last talked to his father in Nogales, Sonora, where the rebel refused to cross the line into the United States and safety. The family has been advised that the general took a boat at Guaymas, Sonora, after the revolt's collapse and fled to Canada.

Araradno and Jose, jr., are students in an El Paso, Texas, school and are vacationing here with their mother.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Now, Clowny, do as you are told," one Willie said. "Or you'll catch cold. We'll run around and gather wood and start a roaring blaze. To catch a cold is very bad and makes a person feel so sad. Why, when you have a good hard cold, it lasts for days and days."

"All right," said Clowny. "I am game. It really would be quite a shame if I were taken sick, so I will gladly dry my clothes. I fear a bit of chilling breeze would make me sneeze and sneeze and sneeze. I always look so funny when I'm sniffly at the nose."

So, off the other Tinies ran. "We'll get all of the wood we can," said Scouty. "Then we'll build a fire and make it blaze up high. There's kindling here and kindling there, and nice dry branches everywere. We soon can gather plenty if we'll all join in and try."

It wasn't long until the bunch were glad the Willie had his hunch. Their fire was blazing brightly and wee Clowny stood nearby. "Oh, this feels good," he loudly cried. "Come on and stand here by my side. In just about a minute I am sure I will be dry."

Then, after he was fixed up fine, the Water Willies stood in line and shouted, "Now we'll do some tricks. Just watch the way we dive." All four then sailed out in the air. Soon water splashed up everywhere. The Tinymites were so surprised they all cried, "Sakes alive."

And then the Willies swam around and hardly made a single sound. All of a sudden everyone was jumping in the air. They turned queer flops and funny flips, and did some fancy dives and dips. The Tinymites agreed their stunts were really rather rare.

(Clowny does some more funny stunts in the next story).

Rain Halts Johnston Ranch Reunion

Rodeo Today And Curtain To Fall On Cowboy Party

Congressman Jones Here To Speak But Deluge Of Rain Halts Program; Is Success In Every Way

By SUTTON CHRISTIAN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

BUD JOHNSTON'S RANCH, Near Slaton, July 20.—A heavy rain here Saturday afternoon disrupted pre-gram plans for the third day of the ranchmen's reunion and prevented a scheduled speech by Congressman Marvin Jones, of Amarillo.

Rodeo events, and attendant attractions, will be continued Sunday.

Approximately 2,500 persons had entered the gate to the reunion grounds at noon Saturday, but disbursed when rain started.

Old Timers Visit

Gray-haired, bronzed face veterans of the open range continued their recounting of other days.

O. F. Kelly, of Post, first sheriff of Garza county, talked with Bud Johnston, recent sheriff of Lubbock county. Law enforcement experiences of two widely separated administrations were compared.

Many Register

In those frontier days, R. C. Burns, of Lubbock, who mingled with old timers each day of the reunion, was deputy sheriff of Scurry county, then attached to Garza county. Later Mr. Burns, one of the most colorful figures among West Texas pioneers became boss of the old 10A ranch, and he has been honored several times by election to office in Lubbock county.

Other pioneers registering Saturday, giving present places of residence, and dates when they arrived in Lubbock county, follow: John D. McDermitt, Crosbyton, 1890; D. O. Fondy, Scurry county, 1900; Nellie Vaughn, Edwards county, 1899; J. M. Mason, Post, 1881; J. E. Stevens, Post, 1885; S. K. Bynum, Lubbock, 1881; Andy Caldwell, Slaton, 1889; Sid J. Boykin, Clovis, N. M., 1882; Mrs. M. E. Merrill, Lubbock, 1901; Mrs. Mary Hinton, Lubbock, 1913; W. P. Florence, Slaton, 1900; James K. Millwee, Lubbock, 1885; J. N. McReynolds, Slaton, 1896; and Billy Sims, Snyder, 1884.

Business Men Of Floydada To Tour Dairying Section

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, July 20 (AP)—As an expression of encouragement and interest in the production of pure bred dairy cows in Floyd county a group of prominent business men of this city will make a tour next Wednesday of a large number of farms in this county where registered pure bred dairy stock is owned. Plans for the trip are being completed this week by the dairy committee of the Floyd County Fair and one or more representatives from each business establishment in Floydada are invited to make the trip.

A list of farms that have dairy stock has been made and while it will not be possible for the business men to visit each of these places it is hoped by the committee that a number of the best Jersey bulls and heifers can be seen before the trip is completed. C. H. Davis, O. T. Williams, O. L. Stansell and J. V. Daniel will have charge of the group and are this week extending the invitations to the business men.

The list prepared by the committee include the following names: J. D. Christian, Earl Rogers, R. B. Gary, J. B. Potts, E. W. Thomas, O. W. Fry, Ed Muncy, Chas. Bollman, E. C. King, Robert Smith, S. D. Bunch, O. M. Conway, J. A. Jameson, W. C. Sims, Clay Johnson, G. C. Collins, W. D. Rape, and V. W. Hennessee. It is likely that others will be added to the list and if possible each farm will be visited on the tour.

The committee will carry a special invitation to the breeders to bring their stock to the sixteenth annual Floyd County Fair to be held here September 18 to 21.

College Library Is Recipient Of Gift From Jones

The library of Texas Technological college just received a collection of old records of the Swenson ranch from Clifford B. Jones, of Spur, who is chairman of the board of regents of the college and manager of the Swenson ranch. This collection comprises fifteen letter and account books, and a diary, some of the letters dating back as far as 1878 when the ranch was first organized by the Espuela Cattle company.

"The Tech library is especially gratified at the prospect of having temporary custody of this original material for use by advanced students who are working under me on the history of the South Plains," said Dr. W. C. Holden, of the history department.

Fishermen Always Have The 'Yarns'

Local People Have Interesting Tales Of Days Spent With Hook and Line; Of Course They're True

"Lives here a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said," "Well, old scout this is 'Satidy'—and, how about goin' a fishin'? The signs are right, the weather is fine—so, get your bait, your hook and line,—and let's be off for a catch! for in the words of one James Whitcomb Riley, 'peers to me it's fishin' time.'"

If there is any one sport that men like more than another, and from which they get the biggest thrill—it is beyond a doubt the passtime of "fishing." That sage who said "all men are liars," perhaps forgot to add "that all men are likewise fishermen." And let it be said also, that the men are not by themselves in showing a weakness for the anglers' sport,—as, there are many women who are just as fond of fishing as are the men,—and, not a few of them are just as successful.

Local Men Lucky

Among the local fishermen who have had "luck" at the game played by lovers of the "finny tribe" are Glenn Hess, Wiley Puckett, Oather W. Moore, O. T. Vinson, J. H. Moore, Sid Caraway, Pete Murray and others.

In talking on the subject, Glenn Hess, of the Hess Building and Loan company, said, "We didn't have much luck, we only caught 60, the three of us. But we had a big thrill just the same. We were fishing in the Two-Draw lake near Post. That is the best place near Lubbock to fish, according to my way of thinking. That is all the fish story I know," declared Mr. Hess.

Had To Use Rope

Mrs. J. H. Moore, in telling the story of their latest fishing experience, in the absence of Mr. Moore, said, "We were holding a family reunion at Mr. Moore's brother's near Anson, and the men of the party were looking after the fishing. One of the men all out of breath came running into camp, calling 'bring a rope! bring a rope!' Naturally, we women thought that one of the men had been drowned. We were all wild with excitement, when finally he managed to drawl out, 'It's a fish! and we need a rope to lasso 'im.' We were relieved of course—but anxious to see a fish that would cause so much commotion and that would require two men with a rope to bring to shore—we women followed the man, all of us in a run, and managed to arrive in time to see him lasso the fish which my brother-in-law had caught with his hands, and was holding with his belt tied in its mouth. The two men finally pulled a 35 pound blue cat to shore from the waters of the Clear Fork of the Brazos. It's useless to try to describe the expression that played over our faces. For we all had been victorious!—we had 'killed a bear.'"

Said Judge Robert A. Sowder, "I have fished at Corpus Christi from a boat, but there's nothing like fishing with the reel and the 'fly.' I haven't been fishing lately, and all I can do is get out my fishing tackle and swap lines from one reel to another, and then put them all away again. That's lots of fun to a fisherman, y'know. Them days are done forever,' but well do I remember the fish we used to catch on the head of the Rio Grande, near Creed, Colorado. Then after we men had finished eating six or eight bass apiece, we simply could not call it a day until we had lighted our pipes with a coal of fire, never a match,—and then sit by the campfire and spin yarns,—about who had caught the most fish on one line or, who had caught the biggest fish!"

Mrs. J. E. George, who with Mr. George and a party of relatives have just returned from a month's vacation in California and the Catilina Islands, in answering questions pertaining to honest "fish stories" said, "while at Long Beach, members of our party went fishing three days. Each day they would take the fishing boat and with other vacationists go for a distance of two or three miles out in the ocean, and in the evening would return with some twelve or eighteen fish each. The rest of us enjoyed eating them, however. But, the biggest 'fish story' and the one from which we got the biggest thrill, deals not with catching or eating fish—but, with seeing fish! We were on our way going over by boat to Catilina Islands, and as we were nearing there we saw a hundred or more whale-like fish, of the 'porpoise' variety.—and they were a sight to behold. These fish which are commonly known as 'sea hogs,' were racing madly with our boat, and ever so often one to a dozen would leap up out of the water in their seemingly mad rush to win a speed marathon with the boat. Later they met another school of their whale-like bretnren, and they turned and joined them in their gallop across the great bosom of Pacific ocean. The flying fish and others were quite interesting, but did not compare to the porpoise, or 'sea-hogs' which at a distance looked like so many tubs frantically riding the waves," declared Mrs. George.

Tech Scientists Conduct Visitor Upon Inspection

Dr. R. L. Olson, New York, Investigates West Texas Deposits, Accompanied by Holden And Patton

Dr. R. L. Olson, of the American Museum of National History, at New York, who is making an extensive scouting trip over the United States is in Lubbock conferring with officials of the department of history of Texas Technological college about recent discoveries of deposits of natural historical interest in West Texas.

Drs. Olson, W. C. Holden and L. C. Patton of the college left Lubbock yesterday on a study of certain plastoscene deposits in the Tule and in the Palo Duro canyons, and while making his stay on the Plains, Dr. Olson will visit the Canadian river ruins.

"Other plastoscene deposits have been excavated near Colorado City, and Folson, N. M., that contain the carcases of an extinct type of bison. One of the deposits at Colorado City contained an arrow head of very fine workmanship by which the bison had been killed and showed that people existed on in West Texas back thousands of years ago before it has been thought that people existed here," said Dr. Holden.

Jones Law Faces Attacks In Courts

Federal Courts In Chicago And Omaha Scene Of Arguments Against Measure; Jury Trail in Danger

CHICAGO, July 20.—Constitutionality of the Jones prohibition enforcement law was attacked almost simultaneously today in federal courts in Omaha and Chicago. Decision in both cases was withheld.

George Meacham, president of the Omaha Bar association, argued before Federal Judge J. W. Woodrough that if the Jones law is upheld "it open the way for congress to pass additional laws which may bring about complete abolition of the jury trial system."

The attack in the Chicago court of Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward was in the form of a petition filed in behalf of Ira Goldman, Chicago druggist who has started serving a one-year sentence on liquor charges to which he pleaded guilty.

The petition charges the law under which Goldman was sentenced is unconstitutional and void because it permits the courts to pass upon facts which heretofore have always been in the province of the jury.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Edwards were hosts to members of the Ross Edwards store and their families with a fish fry at the country club last Friday evening.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Metcalf, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riddle, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Eoff and children, Miss Charlie Jackson, Miss Bernice O'Neall, and J. D. Jenkins, Kames Baker, Glenn Shook, and Mary Ross Edwards.

One Time They Didn't Fool Around With A Lot Of Oratorical Exercise

AUSTIN, July 19. (AP)—The Senate held the shortest session in its history today, assembling and adjourning within the space of one minute.

"The Senate will come to order, and I recognize the Senator from Galveston," Senator Gus Russek of Schulenburg, said, rapping his gavel.

"I move we stand at recess until 9 o'clock tomorrow," Senator T. J. Holbrook stated.

"All in favor say 'aye,'" Russek said.

Came two 'ayes.'

Again Senator Russek banged his gavel, and the session was over.

Lubbock Wage-Earners 'Getting By'

Survey Reveals Little Money Is Saved In City By The Average Workman; Conditions On Good Standard

A survey of the mercantile district of Lubbock indicates that the average wage earner of this city, who is married and father of two or three children, spends one-third of his salary for house rent (and accompanying bills such as lights, water, gas, etc.), one-third for groceries, and the remainder for clothing and incidentals.

The average salary of the family supporter is $135 per month. He spends $45 per month for house rent, $45 for groceries, $25 for clothing, and the remaining $20 for drugs, sundries, and incidentals. This refers only to the wage earner who is head of a family of four or five.

Little Is Saved

These figures reveal that little or no money is saved, except in the extremely rare and frugal cases.

Living conditions are on a comparatively high standard in this city for the average salaried man. His family lives in a five-room house modestly but comfortably furnished. In most cases he owns his own furniture.

Included in the number of wage earners considered in arriving at the average is the comparatively small group of laborers who work by the hour. These do not fare so well in living conditions. Working at an average salary of $15 to $20 per week, they live in small and crowded houses, many of which are unpainted, found mainly in outlying districts. The wage scale in this city for the day laborer is 40 cents per hour.

The unmarried person among the average who earn $135 per month in most cases owns an automobile, but few of that number save money.

Hortense Ragland Is To Make Debut In Oscar Hammerstein's Production Will Be Heard Often On Broadway

Former Lubbock Girl Will Sing In Hammerstein's New Show In New York City Soon

A former Lubbock girl, Hortense Ragland, is to make her debut in a new production of Oscar Hammerstein's before very long according to theatrical news in the "New York Sun," "New York Times," "New York Evening Journal," and other papers.

According to the Sun, Hammerstein has expressed the belief that he has discovered a great prima donna of the future. Th producer heard Miss Ragland sing at a concert in Augusta, Ga., last winter in the course of a motor trip to Palm Beach.

The singer is described as being "beautiful, with a wealth of titian-red hair crowning a lovely, oval face from which sparkle eyes of bluish-gray." Her voice is lyric soprano.

The New York American for June 23 says that Miss Ragland will be brought along slowly. At present she is studying voice as a pupil of Alfeedo Martino. She will be presented to the public when in the producer's opinion she is ready.

Makes Prophecy.

The clipping says in part, "Mr. Hammerstein believes the discovery of Miss Ragland is as important to light opera as were his previous 'finds' among whom were Trentini, Mary Ellis, Dennis King, Louise Hunter, Robert Chisholm, and Helen Kane."

Many pictures of Miss Ragland have appeared in New York papers recently. She is already receiving enthusiastic acclaim.

The singer is the daughter of Mrs. W. N. Woods, who has resided in Lubbock for a number of years. Mrs. Woods is in New York with her daughter at present.

Visited In Lubbock

Three years ago Miss Ragland sang at the local high school in a benefit program after spending the summer months with her mother. She studied in Dallas before going to New York and has toured the country in concert work several times. She spent part of last year in Europe.

Festive, Sleeveless Fashions Newport's Fancy

MRS. GEORGE BOLING LEE — MRS. BRADFORD NORMAN, JR. — MRS. TIFFANY SAPORTAS — MISS ELLEN T. FRENCH

By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEWPORT, R. I., July 20.—Staid Newport is going just a bit Deauville, with its vari-colored shelter tents Arabic huts and gaudy striped parasols and its fair maidens in sunback bathing suits.

There is many a daring backless suit along proper Bailey beach where for generations no one has swum without stockings! Pajamas, too, dot the landscape, with yellow and orange the most papular colors.

The proper summer attire for landwear really is built around the sleeveless white frock this year. And the deader the white the smarter the frock. For after all nothing sets off a gorgeous sunned complexion quite like dead white!

Chic in White Crepe Silk

Marion Snowden, strolling with young Thomas Haller, looked stunning in a cute white crepe silk frock with its jumper fitting down over the pleated skirt in a deep point both front and back. Her shoes and purse were woven white straw, with black bandings and her mushroom leghorn hat had only a black band.

It's the jackets that top the frocks that give them distinction, often. To wit, Virginia Thayer's quilted calico jacket in fie pastel colors. It has wide bands of stitching around the bottom and fur cuffs. She wears a rather wide-brimmed hat of yellow felt with it.

The smart woman never forgets to don her slip-on white gloves when she starts forth in her sleeveless frock. Princess Miguel de Braganza wears rather long slip-ons, perhaps eight buttons in length. She prefers white suede ties to sandals, too, and is apt to carry some unusual kind of handbag, one day a pretty embroidered pink and white one with ivory slasp.

Slip-on cardigans are one of the newest fancies. Florence Michell of Philadelphia wore a smart rose beige with full pleated skirt of silk and a little sleeveless blouse with shirred jabot that flared outside the open neck of the slip-on.

For morning wear, the little "dressmaker" shirtwaist dress is quite the thing. Mrs. Norman Ogden Whitehouse has stunning silk ones, in many colors, a soft pink one being extremely pretty, having the entire left of the skirt pleated, the right plain and the frock fastening in coat dress fashion on one side. It had a sweet organdie collar.

Old fashioned elbow sleeves were threat in early spring, then appearing on a very few extremely smart things became a promise of chic. A full measure of chic was realized in a frock Mrs. Tiffany Saportas wore one day, white crepe de chine with black velvet banding, believe it or not. Her fine white straw hat was banded with the black velvet too, and her white shoes black trimmed.

Seaplanes offer new reasons for sports suits in Newport this year. Phyllis Walsh wore a cute outfit, flying the other day. Before she slipped on her coat she had on a pale blue crepe outfit pleated skirt and pull-over blouse with flaring cuffs and a monk's collar.

Prints are to be of an afternoon. Chiffons, mostly, with some of the very light weight silks that are so fine they can be pulled through a ring. Evelyn Clark wore a polka dotted one of this type, in blue and white that had a very full deep flounce making an already full skirt flare tremendously. Her navy blue ballibunti hat had an unusually wide brim and was turned up in the front.

Mrs. George Bolling Lee, always a meticulously smart dresser, has some finely printed frocks. One afternoon she wore one that sponsored the new longer and fuller lines. Its waist portion had ample fullness, so did the sleeves, and the skirt was pleated onto a curving yoke. Her woven straw hat repeated the blues and white of the frock and her shoes did too.

Detachable capes abound. Mrs. Bradford Norman, jr., has several frocks featuring capes. One, a yellow flat crepe, has a novel pleated cape collar that ties to make a jabot. With this she wore very unusual shoes, one day, ties of white with tips, bandings, heels and saddles in brown.

Gingham is smart for the very young. The French sisters, Virginia and Ellen, have cute "sister frocks" of gingham and batiste, with the little jackets detachable.

"NOT SPEAKING"

"Not speaking" seems to be a rather occasional form of would-be marital punishment, one to the other. Now we hear tell of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Zimmerman of Fayette county, Pa., who, after 40 years of married life which included the having and rearing of 15 children, have engaged in a no-speaking contest for over four years.

It seems that Pa Zimmerman came home from a hard day's work one night in 1925, started an argument with his good woman; the argument waxed hotter and hotter, and hotter, and as a finale Pa Zimmerman opined that he would be just as happy and in a general state of well-being if the good wife would entirely discontinue speech with him.

"TELL YOUR PAW!"

A silence agreement was drawn up, with five children as the witnesses. Since that night not one word has wife spoken to husband, or husband to wife. If it is imperative that one word or so be transferred one to the other, it is written on paper, and one of the children gives it to the other parent. Even when the wife needed money, she managed to keep silent, and transferred the request in writing through a child, and eventually the same request got in the courts.

NOT SO FUNNY!

Though the story is funny, it is infinitely more tragic—tragic not only in this individual instance, but in it as a symbol of so many marriages, once fair and constructive, which can corrode into a travesty of marriage like this—all the more tragic because the married state is retained rather than broken.

It is unusual—in fact, impossible—for personal pride to be stronger than love. When two people can cling to a non-speaking contest it merely means self-love, a retaining of the marriage because of convenience, rather than love of the other.

PAPA'S LITTLE MAN

Speaking of the wonderful paternal instinct, as I occasionally do, here's papa David Bernstein of New York, sentenced to three years in the pen for renting out his 7-year-old son Solomon as a beggar.

It seems that every morning dear papa would strap little Solly into a wheel chair in such a way that he seemed paralyzed. He would rent out the boy and chair for $3 a day to such beggars as could use him.

TWO COMMENTS

To say that only a father could do this and a mother, never, is as obvious a comment as it is untrue, though, of course, the child-exploiting mother would always be rarer than a father.

But one wonders at that if little Solly endured any more than some of these child prodigies who are forced to practice the violin or piano ten hours a day so that papa can have a nice income, or are forced into being child stage stars.

WHY?

"Woman's place?" Women are replacing men as stewards on many of the ocean liners. Officials say they are not only cheaper to hire, but more courteous, efficient, reliable, and generally satisfactory.

But what a yowl the not-so-good deposed stewards will make about "women taking men's jobs at lower salaries," and all that. It will never occur to them that they themselves and not economic change had something to do with the innovation.

SAME WAY

Miss Anne Marie Proesal, 34, of Munich, Germany, and Gottfried Ruppe, 39, of Canton, O., were married a few hours after meeting for the first time. Their marriage followed a five-month correspondence. There were photographs, of course. Mail order romances are really unusual only when the participants send photographs not their own, or no photographs at all.

A mail courtship is as dependent on personal appearance for arousing emotions rather than on disposition and character as exhibited through actions or letters, as is any romance. Looks count most.

Miss Faye Masengale, of Tahoka, has returned to her home after spending the past week in Lubbock as the guest of Miss Ernestine Lockhart, 1611 Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones Adams and sons and Miss Annah Lula Adams, of Royce City, are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Melton, 2324 7th street.

Highway construction provides employment for 6,000 men in Illinois.

Bare Arm Mode Takes Summer Style Fort Handily

Intricate Cut For Sport Clothes Is Result

By HENRI BENDEL
For NEA Service

NEW YORK, July 20.—As the sleeveless frock reaches its pinnacle of success as a necessity in the smart summer wardrobe, increased formality in styling is apparent.

The sleeveless frock that can establish itself as original is greatly to be desired. Materials play a big part, with pique, linen, shantung, gingham and many fine washable silks all being used. But the cut of the frock and its "dress-maker" look are the telling points.

The best sleeveless frocks are not simple, in the least. Rather they are so utterly sophisticated in their cut that, while intricately esigned, they bar smblanc to simplicity.

Two New Style Points

Two new developments in mid-summer styles are the spiral panels of tucks that swirl diagonally to emphasize the new, more fitted silhouette and the horizontal bandings, often in color, on hip-yokes, to emphasize the fact that waistlines are in again.

Seaming is important, with slot seaming introducing both handwork and color. Fagotting, hemstitching, fine hand-embroidery and drawn work and even lace insertion all are used to achieve that greatly desired "feminine" look.

Hemlines widen in all directions, whether they get their width through circular cut, pleats, godets, gathers or shirring is immaterial. In fact, the shirred skirt is exceedingly smart right now.

Freedom For Sports

Circular fulness usually gives graceful lines and so is used, sometimes with big box pleats down the front and the back to give great freedom for such active sports as tennis or golf and, incidentally, to create the impression of full trousers instead of skirts.

Smartly tailored little frocks use pleats with a large degree of success. I am constantly reminded of long ago days when shirt waist dresses were the rage. Today's little tailored frock is much more supple, much more feminine and softer loking. But there is a distinct relationship between the two.

Unusual, new and very trim is a Chanel sports suit in three pieces developed in fine lightweight jersey. The coat and skirt are mustard colored and the sleeveless blouse is beige. The blouse is trimmed with hand-appliqued bands of self-fabric at neck and waist. It is very fine fabric, almost as sheer as georgette, altogether very feminine looking.

The skirt introduces a single panel of pleats on the right side only, topped by cross bands of appliqued fabric, to suit the waist. A Reboux beige felt hat, with a rolled brim, tops the suit, and little mustard colored socks, worn with beige sports shoes, make a very smart tie-up of color.

White silk crepe fashions a dainty little hand-made frock with spiral panels of hand-hemstitching which flare in the skirt to give desired fullness. The belt is a part of the frock, with no buckle or button, a new touch for waistlines.

An Appropriate Hat

With this type of litle frock a natural colored ballibuntl hat with medium brim is quite appropriate. One has a banding of white which laces through a slashed brim to make a little under-the-brim bow over one ear.

Illustrating the emphasized waistline by means of horizontal bandings around the hips a white crepe de chine frock uses give bands and tops them all with an orange, white and brown suede belt drawn snugly around the natural waistline. Below the tight hip-yoke, the skirt is pleated all around in inverted box pleats of two-inch depth.

A scarf of orange, brown and white is exceedingly smart with this and so is a Chanel hat of natural Chinese bangkok with mushroom brim and brown, orange and white banding.

Spur High School Has Much Growth

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SPUR, July 20 — The Spur High school has grown beyond the expectation of the most optimistic patron of the district, and with addition of the following courses it will merit the support that is justly due any institution that is serving so well the community and its citizenship.

This year vocational home economics, commercial courses, chemistry, general science, community civics, and advanced work in vocational agriculture, this being the second year for the last named course, will be offered for the first time in Spur schools.

Supt. R. N. Cluck is now completing transfers to this district, and including these there will be some thirteen hundred scholastics in this school this year. This number exceeds more than 100 per cent the scholastics two years ago, and with the new courses offered and the able instruction given by the faculty there should be a continued growth of every department of the school.

All-Texas Tour To Caverns Is To Be State-Wide Event

Invitations Sent Cut To All Officials, Bankers, School Men And Others Of The State

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, July 20—In the "All-Texas Tour to the Carlsbad Caverns and El Paso", prominent citizens from all parts of Texas have already signed up to make this trip according to Wm. A. Wilson, manager of the tour. Invitations have been sent to the members of the 41st Legislature and officers of this body, the governor, members of the state highway department, all bankers of the state, all school superintendents of the state, county judges, lawyers, and many outstanding citizens of the state representing all walks of life, according to Wilson.

Several Hundred to Go

Many responses have been had already, according to officials of the tour, and it is expected that several hundred cars will join the tour at the various points designated for stops along the routing of the tour.

The All-Texas Tour will start at Marshall August 1st and spend the first night in Fort Worth. August 2nd the stop will be made at Weatherford, Mineral Wells, Palo Pinto, Caddo, Breckenridge, Albany, Anson and Roby, where many cars will be added. The night of August 2nd will be spent in Sweetwater. The third day the tour will stop at Gail, Lamesa, Seminole, Seagraves, New Mexico and Cloverdale, New Mexico. Sunday will be spent in Carlsbad Caverns and Monday, August 5th the party will travel to El Paso where the chamber of commerce of that city will entertain the group, and where the tour will break up.

Purpose Is Given

The purpose of this tour is to give "all Texas an opportunity" according to Wilson, "to visit the Caverns, see the scenery of the Southwest, and to create life-time friendships of those who make this tour."

Towns along the routing of this tour are cooperating toward making the party in the tour feel welcome in each city that stops and made. Large groups of automobiles will meet the tour at the county lines and escort the party through county seat towns and to the next county line, according to information being received from these towns at the All-Texas Tour office here. Highway groups all over Texas have pledged cooperation toward making this tour what it should be and all citizens of the state making their vacations at this time are urged to join the tour, according to officials of the tour.

Gas Tax And Registration Bill Was Greatest Piece of Legislation In Last Session, Graham Senator Says

"One of the best pieces of legislation enacted during the forty-first legislature is the amendment to the registration and gas tax providing for a four-cent tax and 50 per cent registration reduction," said Senator W. D. McFarlane, of Graham, who visited in Lubbock Saturday on business.

"The unsuccessful efforts made to defeat this bill and the blocking of public utility legislation and amendment to our tax laws showed the power of the special interests lobby that is being maintained," he continued.

Favored Utility Regulation

"I favored the regulation of the public utility companies at Austin. I introduced an anti-lobby bill modelled after the laws in Wisconsin and New York that would require all lobyists to register with the secretary of state and give the names of their employers and the amount they receive for their services. I also introduced a bill that would prohibit any member of the legislature or other state officer from receiving any compensation directly or indirectly for employment by such persons that might in any way conflict with their duties while holding office. Both these measures were defeated in the state affairs committee of the senate. Such special employment ought to be prohibited by law.

"The crying need that is confronting taxpayers today is to elect men to public office who will fulfill their campaign promises to use the same economy in the operation and maintenance of the state's business that they use in the conduct of their own personal business affairs. Generally speaking, there are two classes of public officials—those known as the 'taxpayers' and those known as the 'tax spenders.'

"I have during my eight years as a member of the legislature favored rigid economy in spending the tax payers money. I have always favored liberal appropriations for the public schools and have favored helping the institutions of higher learning and of liberally taking care of our eleemosnary institutions."

Senator McFarlane was accompanied here by his father, R. W. McFarlane, of Graham.

Levelland Boasts Full Affiliated High School Now

Seven New Credits Allowed By State Department; New $50,000 Unit To Be Added Soon

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LEVELLAND, July 20.—Levelland now has a full affiliated high school, according to word received here this week from the State Department of Education which stated that seven additional credits had been recognized from the school. This gives Levelland a total of 17 affiliated credits, only one of those taught in the school being unaffiliated.

The additional affiliation is due largely to the work of L. T. Green, superintendent during the past year, who is to be at the head of the Slaton schools next year. A. R. Ellis, former principal under Mr. Green and superintendent for next year, is also responsible for the increase in credits.

English Granted

Two units of the affiliation granted were given without submission of material and one of them was fourth year English, an accomplishment achieved by few schools of this size.

Levelland's school system is due for a greater growth during the next year than ever before. Work is to be started within a short time on the $50,000 improvement program inaugurated during the past term. Bonds to cover the expense of the program were voted recently.

Organization Of Lions Club To Be Sought In City

Alva R. Willgus, Commissioner Of Fort Worth, Visiting Here: To Investigate Possibility

Alva R. Willgus, of Fort Worth, commissioner of Lions International, arrived in Lubbock Saturday and started immediate plans for organization of a local chapter of the luncheon club in this city.

Mr. Willgus recently organized a Lions club with 35 charter members in Lamesa. The first meeting of that club will be held next Thursday, and the charter banquet will be on the evening of August 22.

Twenty Members Necessary

"Twenty members are necessary for a charter and I feel confident that there will be 40 or 50 charter members of the club in this city," he said. "In chatting with business men of the city Saturday I did not solicit memberships, but discovered there are many who are enthusiastic over my plans."

Prior to organization of the club at Lamesa he formed a chapter at Fredericksburg.

T. B. Christopher is president of the Lamesa club, and R. E. Payne is secretary.

Protest Is Made On Executions

MEXICO CITY, July 20 (AP)—Alberto Orozco of Guadalajara has sent a protest to President Portes Gil asserting his brother, Alfonso, State Deputy Malaquias Cuervo and Angel Villalobos, a friend of the brother, were executed by a firing squad at the municipal cemetery in Guadalajara without trial and without cause.

According to Alberto's story his brother, a fencing master, was asked by two strangers to accompany them to a place outside the city to act as referee in a fencing match. Accompanied by his friend Villalobos, Alfonso went with the strangers in an automobile.

When a short distance outside the city two men in overalls fired on the machine from near the road, Alberto declared, whereupon the fencing master shot and killed one of them with his pistol. The other, whom Alberto says proved to be an army officer, overtook the machine a short while later, accompanied by a squad of soldiers.

The two strangers disappeared, Alberto says, but his brother and Villalobos were escorted backtoward the city by the soldiers, meeting Deputy Cuervo, also a friend of Alfonso, on the way. Cuervo offered to accompany the party back to the city but when they arrived at the cemetery the fencing teacher, Villalobos and the deputy were lined up against a wall and executed.

The Rome of pre-Mussolini days is pictured in "The Seven Vices" (Harcourt, Brace & Co.) a two vol- ume novel by Guglielmo Ferrero, which comes after seven years of silence from this Italian author. It is not nearly so exciting as the title indicates, but is a spirited, philo- sophical novel of political life in the capitalistic world of a genera- tion ago. There are reports that Ferrero, acknowledged to be one of the finest of modern Italian histor- ians and called the greatest living historian by the late Theodore Roosevelt, is not permitted to leave Italy. Politicians fear that if he left his native country he might become one of these distinguished exiles, who, once far enough away from Fascist authority, cast brickbats in that direction. To this interesting gossip, the only answer is complete silence.

If geneology interests you, there will be surprises for you in "Your Family Tree," by David Starr Jor- dan and Sarah Louise Kimball (D. Appleton & Co.) Here you will learn that Abraham Lincoln, the inspira- tion of all the humble and supposed to have come righ up from the com- mon people, was really descended from Henry I of France, General Grant from William the Conqueror, and Thomas Jefferson from David I of Scotland. Practically any family hits royalty, if it goes back far enough and stops. It not only makes the whole world kin, but kings.

In case you have not seen enough pictures of Lindbergh in the daily papers and magazines of the past year, Putnams have published a book of 372 pictures, called "Lind- berkh, His Story In Pictures," that run the gamut from the earliest baby picture to the present mo- ment, including a pictorial record of his flight and the honors show- ered upon him at home and abroad. Since it is by Francis Trev- elyan Miller, I assume he made the picture selection, collected the statements, and wrote the captions. Outside of that, it is by the com- bined photographers of the world.

It is estimated that more than 50,000 pictures have been taken of Lindbergh, and that he has received more columns of print than have ever before been accorded to a man of his age.

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

HONORE Wilse Morrow, who seems adept at novelizing lives, has written a biography of a mis- sionary in her newest book, called "Splendor of God."

A 20-year crusade was waged by Adoniram and Ann Judson, Baptist missionaries, to plant the cross in Burma, stronghold of Buddha. In the almost day-to-day detail of that fight Mrs. Morrow has crammed beauty and horror, persecution, tor- ture, death and romance.

This apparently is not fiction, for Mrs. Morrow has listed her authori- ties meticulously. From the records she has written of life in a jungle hut, of the missionary chained in a Burmese death prison, of his serving as "plenipotentiary from the Great King to the British army." She shows, too, brief moments of a near-normal life with Ann, the lat- ter's death and the entry of a sec- ond woman, also a missionary. And through it all is a graphic presen- tation of a godly man's endless struggle to "see God."

Stanley Vestal, biographer of "Kit Carson," has been wandering around Colorado on his vacation and visit- ing many historic sites such as Bent's Old Fort which figures large- ly in his forthcoming novel, "'Dobe Walls," (Houghton Mifflin com- pany).

HUMBLE HERO

As Thames Williamson pitched his earlier "Stride of Man" on the plane of the humble person, so in his new novel, "Hunky," he exposes the processes of a baker's assistant.

Hunky is a giant of a man, lift- ing what he is told, smashing what he must. In his heart is a girl, a frivolous creature who mistreats him and yet brings his final ecstasy. In short, monosyllabic prose, the boarding house-bakery environment is put down in its grime, its drud- gery and its pathetic merriment.

Do you know that a metratope is? George Sand was one; and probably Chopin and Musset also belonged in this category. Dr. Lawrence Hall- Quest discuses this type in his chapter, Erotology Tunes In On Love and Sex, in It's Not Our Fault, just published by Horace Liveright. "Among the metratopes," says Dr. Hall-Quest, "the sex roles are re- versed, woman becoming the ag- gressor and the man the submissive one. The man prefers mannish, au- thoritative, intellectual women. The woman selects effeminate men, physically inferior.

Oliver LaFarge, whose first novel, "Laughing Boy," will be issued this fall by Houghton Mifflin company, the painter. After graduating from Harvard in 1925 he did graduate work in anthropology and became a member of the faculty of Tulane University, making archaeological expeditions into Nicaragua, Mexico and Guatamala. As in his novel, he has treated the American Indian in short stories which have appeared in The Dial and Scribner's Maga- zine. Although born in New York City, he now lives in New Orleans, Rhode Island he regards as his na- tive state.

Sinclair, oil magnate, to- day ended his three months sen- tence for contempt of the senate, but the prison doors will not open for him until November 22, at the earliest, as since that term started a second of six months for jury- shadowing in the Fall-Sinclair con- spiracy trial has been imposed.

William Boyd Is Big Aviator In 'The Flying Fool'

Marie Prevost In Film With Star At Lindsey

GOD'S gift to the ladies and the Devil's present to his enemies! That's "The Flying Fool," who, in the person of William Boyd, will do his stuff at the Lindsey Theatre for 3 days beginning on Thursday.

From advance reports this all-talking air drama is a thrilling dramatic and humorous entertainment that is just about the best thing in which the Pathe star has appeared this season. It is said that the role fits Boyd perfectly and, with an excellent supporting cast including Marie Prevost, Tom O'Brien and Russell Gleason, he gives a performance that is full of dramatic highlights as well as hearty laughs.

Story of Stunter

The story of the "Flying Fool" is that of a stunt flyer who lives just for the thrill of life. He takes his fun where he finds it and women, to him, were created purely for entertainment purposes. The one love of his life is his kid brother and Boyd's devil-may-care existence is interrupted only when he decides to save this brother from what he believes to be a designing cabaret dancer and singer. Instead of saving his brother Bill falls in love himself and then things begin to happen. They happen fast and furious and the story reaches a tremendous climax in the air which, it is said, will thrill the most blase of fans.

According to preview reports "The Flying Fool" will unreel the most daring aviation performances that have been caught for the screen. The story is an original one by Elliott Clawson and Tay Garnett, who directed it.

Favorite Star On At Lyric Theater

John Gilbert To Play In "Masks Of The Devil"

The most romantic artist on the screen is back again with his most popular type of picture.

John Gilbert is again the dashing Romeo of "Flesh and the Devil" and "Love" in his new starring picture, "The Masks of the Devil" which shows at the Lyric theater Monday and Tuesday.

Upon the skeleton frame work of a novel by one of the world's greatest popular authors, Jakob Wassermann, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has built a photoplay as modern as the fashions of the year after next. No expense has been spared to produce this picture on a scale that equals any production of the season. The sets are all ultra-modern in design. The clothes are advance fashions on winter and next spring. The director, Victor Seastrom, has handled the megaphone on many of M-G-M's biggest and most successful productions.

"Sally," starring Marilyn Miller, is to cost in excess of $1,000,000?

"Hell's Angels" took 18 months to make and $3,000,000 to pay for it?

Adolph Menjou had great hopes of being an engineer?

Billy Dove's original cognomen was and is Lillian Bohny?

Vic McLaglen is 41 years old?

Jack Holt Will Star At Palace In "Sunset Pass"

Zane Grey's Tale Of Old Range Is Superb

SEVEN hundred cattle, milling wildly in a night stampede, and a raging range fire devouring everything in its path, provide two of the many spectacular scenes of Paramount's Zane Grey production "Sunset Pass," which features Jack Holt, and opens at the Palace Theater Friday and Saturday.

These scenes were filmed in the cattle country of Arizona, a few miles from the old trading post of Tuba City. The film company spent two weeks in that region making exteriors for the production with the aforementioned range fire being the high light.

Cattle Stampede.

The cattle stampede was a dangerous task asigned the cameramen. They were in the midst of the frenzied animals, and Roy Clark, chief photographer, was brushed to one side by one steer, but fortunately escaped serious injury. His camera, which fell upon him, also escaped injury, and the thrilling "shots" which had been recorded by Clark were saved.

Supporting Holt in this story of cattle rustling and romance are Nora Lane, hazel eyed leading woman who appeared here recently in "Marquis Preferred" with Adolphe Menjou; Chester Conklin, the fussy little comedian wit the walrus mustache; John Loder, popular leading man; and others. Otto Brower directed.

For the first time in five years Victor McLaglen is taking a vacation. He plans to spend most of it in the east.

Harry Langdon's next is to show him as a small town fireman?

Social Problems Furnish Plot For 'Object-Alimony'

Lois Wilson Is Star In Film At Palace

"OBJECT—Alimony," at the Palace on Monday and Tuesday, reveals how differences in social positions leads a selfish mother to condemn her son's wife. The insidious propaganda spread by the mother poisons the son's mind and results in a separation. The wife in dire straits is sheltered by a kindly, motherly boarding house keeper. In abject poverty the girl gives birth to her child, inspires a struggling author to write the story of her life in the form of a novel and through it climbs the ladder of fame and fortune until she wins back her husband.

Plot Is Packed.

The plot is full of love, pathos, tense drama and unusual adventure. The backgrounds are colorful, including several gay parties, the opening night of a Broadway success and exquisite park nooks where romantic love sequences are enacted.

Lois Wilson is starred with Hugh Allan in the masculine lead and Ethel Grey Terry, Douglas Gilmore, Roscoe Karns, Carmelita Geraghty, Dickey Moore, Jane Keckley and Thomas Curran prominent in the supporting cast. The picture was made under the direction of Scott R. Dunlap with Joseph Walker at the camera.

"Object—Alimony" is a production that will appeal to the average person.

W. H. Taylor, age 101, is the oldest extra now appearing in movies?

"Geraldine" To Be At Lindsey For Two Days

Eddie Quillan And Marion Nixon Star

LOVERS of Booth Tarkington's stories will be delighted with the fidelity of adherence to the author's vision of modern youth which marks Pathe's picturization of "Geraldine," which shows at the Lindsey Theatre today and Monday.

Eddie Quillan, as the wise-cracking, witty and wistful Eddie Abel of the film, is said to be the average effervescent American youth to the life. Marion Nixon, in the title role, catches faithfully the spirit of American girlhood, with its hardly blamable desire to be sophisticated and charming at any price.

Every American city has at least one Beau Brummel as handsome, spoiled and yet likable as the Bellsworthy Cameron portrayed in "Geraldine," by Gaston Glass, while Albert Gran is excellent in the role of the adoring father of Geraldine.

Originality of plot, meticulous attention to small but important details, and beautiful backgrounds contribute their part to making this picture a thoroughly delightful one.

"Geraldine" is a Paul Bern production for Pathe, directed by Melville Brown.

Film Is Portrayal Of Parisian Life

"THE APACHE," a sensational drama of the Parisian underworld, is the attraction at the Lindsey Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday. It is a vivid, colorful, adventure picture full of action, thrills and unusual situations. Among the highlights are a knife throwing act in which Margaret Livingston hurls daggers at Warner Richmond outlining his figure; a daring apache dance between Miss Livingston and Don Alvarado; a thrilling murder mystery and a love interest second to none. Philo McCullough has an interesting role as the detective and Erna Mae Cooper is pleasing as the other girl. The fight between Miss Livingston and Miss Cooper is a thrill and well worth seeing. The girls enter the battle in earnest and the way they kick, scratch and pull hair is sure to keep the audience on their toes.

Provides Thrills

"The Apache" provides a thrill seldom found in screen dramas. It is out of the ordinary and at times rises to new heights. The interest is caught in the first flash and held until the final fade-out. While most of the action is tense and highly dramatic, Director Phil Rosen has found opportunity to introduce a number of atmospheric touches in a lighter vein.

Belle Baker, Radio Singer, Makes Debut In Talkies Soon; Harold Lloyd and Charlie Chaplin Play Shortly

BELLE BAKER

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 20—When the Warner brothers and Al Jolson started this talking picture fad they certainly started something for the radio and phonograph record artists. These people, heretofore known only by voice to their fans, are now flocking to Hollywood by the score. And the public is simultaneously seeing and hearing them for the first time.

The most recent of this clan to step off the train her was. Belle Baker, who a short time ago took first place in the National Broadcasting company's popularity contest. Belle, However, is in a class with the minority of radio and record vocalists. Being also a vaudeville headliner of long standing, her voice isn't that of a "mysterious somebody."

Miss Baker was brought out here from New York by Edward Small, independent producer, to make a picture for Columbia. It will be an all-talking film, based largely on Miss Baker's own life and will introduce several new songs as well as some of those she already has made popular.

"I would love to stay here and work in pictures all the time, but I must return to the east for a vaudeville engagement this fall," declared the actress. "However, if my first picture is successful I will be back out here again next summer for another one."

I happened to read in a middle western paper the other day that our two leading comedians, Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd, are sitting around Hollywood quietly doing nothing. Just as a point of information in case anyone else has that same idea, Charlie is now working quite steadily on "City Lights," which will have sound effects but no dialogue. It will be ready for the public some time next winter. And Lloyd is now working hard on the dialogue sequences of his new picture, "Welcome Danger." It will be released early in the fall.

When the cameras stopped grinding on "Footlights and Fools" a few days ago First National lost its most popular star. The film completed Colleen Moore's contract. Colleen will vacation for a couple of months and will then move to another studio, although she doesn't know yet which one it will be. According to John McCormick, her husband and producer of her pictures, negotiations are now being carried on with several major studios. He expects to announce their new affiliation within a few weeks.

Talkie Recruit Is Old Trouper

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 20—The laugh doctor.

That's the way Hal Shelly, famous Broadway comedian, who recently deserted the stage for the more lucrative movies, would like o be known.

"There's nothing in the world that will make people feel better as much as a good laugh," declares Skelly. "By handing them these laughs I feel that I am doing humanity as much good as a physician. In a sense I am a physician—a laugh doctor. Making people laugh is my chief purpose in life—plus the making of a little money for myself at the same time."

A Trouper for Years

Hal has been in the show business ever since he was 14, trouping the country from one corner to another with medicine shows, carnivals, circusses, musical comedies, burlesque shows and straight dramatic plays. And now he's in the movies. That's covering the field pretty well.

Of his years of experience in the laugh-making business, the time he spent as the leading comedian in Dr. Rucker's traveling medicine show still stands out most vividly in his mind. The show often spent a month or more in one town and the program was changed every single night. During the mornings the entire troupe had to pitch in and help make the medicine—consisting of water, Rochelle salts and port wine—which was sold for a dollar a bottle at the show at night.

"During my travels in various kinds of shows I learned pretty well the best way of making people in different parts of the country laugh," Skelly told me.

"Iowa audiences demand that their humor be wide, deep and long, just like the Mississippi river. It is always a sure laugh to make smart cracks about the administration in Washington, for the only farm relief the Iowa farmer has had has been the feeling of relief when Congress adjourned.

"My prescription for drawing laughs in Chicago is to go into my combination tumbling and juggling act. Chicagoans are kept so busy dodging motor traffic and falling objects of various sorts that they have no time to enjoy each other's antics. So I do a few comedy falls and am a riot.

"And if you want to make the Canadians just naturally drink out of your hand, just crack a few jokes about prohibition in the United States.

GOING PLACES AND SEEING THINGS

HOLLYWOOD, July 20—All Hollywood, and most of Los Angeles, is a continuous and elaborate stage set.

The influence of the cinema, if not the stage, has a strangle hold on the country side. Oil stations seek to look like a second act set in a musical show and cafeterias seek to look like romantic old Spanish missions.

This is a gorgeous land of make-believe in which most of the residents play a part. The sense of the fantastic and the unreal becomes in actuality. Every corner is decorated with a revelation in the art of stucco. A vague artificiality hangs in the air. It is the never-never-land, out of Peter Pan; and is the ideal vacation land for that reason. The sinema has thrown its shadow over the realities of life, and the veriest school girl seeks to live up to the appearance of a cinema stor. Hence there is a certain buoyancy which defies analysis. Complexions browned by the sun, children who seem like young Indians, school girls with long-buried bobs, who dress like popular movie stars; sport skirts and white trousers . . . a gay, flirtatious intimacy in the crowds . . . in short, a cross between a Broadway chorus in action and a motion picture version of a summer resort prevades the entire atmosphere.

To a Broadwayite it is like a mirage—particularly when one can recall calling this his home. The homes themselves have a romantic unreality. This is the Nirvana for those who would run away from themselves and live in a land where unrealities almost become travesties or satires on unreality.

For instance—there is a place in Hollywood where, upon Wednesdays and Saturdays, the who's who of the motion picture industry take their lunch. It is called the Montmartre, although it resembles the colorful French district as much as coffee resembles malted milk.

On these days, "the stars" become the exhibitionists that most of them are. The girlies dress in their swankiest clothes and the boys put on their most sheikful raiment. Thus clothed they strut before the crowds of tourists and natives who try to find seats at the table. Generally, so I am told, about 900 "yokels" gather outside to watch. The stars preen their feathers and behave in a manner becoming a performer, while the spectators fight for seats. The price of a ham sandwich soars to New York night club status, and mere visitors from Iowa, Nebraska and way points pay the bill without question—quite content with this stellar propinquity.

Scores of male stars and near-stars arrive unaccompanied, quite certain that there will be any number of lone girlies willing to flirt. And they are not wrong. What is surprising is that, with their supposed fabulous salaries, the girlies pay their own checks and seem quite willing to do it. I wish I could get away with that in New York.

Speaking of which, I am amazed at the attitude of mind here, which causes any number of beautiful girls and women to take on the support of a similar number of families and men. Scores of pretty wives are supporting their husbands and scores of beautiful daughters are supporting mothers and fathers.

This, it would seem, is a place wherein the woman pays and pays and pays.

A few days after I arrived here, I met one of the loveliest blond youngsters that my old eyes have ever beheld. She had been brought here as a golden locked child and a typical "stage mother' had thrust her into the cinema spotlight, quite certain that she would become a future Mary Pickford. Years went by in which the child attempted everything from toe dancing to chorus work. She now does "bits" in the pictures.

"And," she told me, "I now support the whole family. There are thousands of girls like me here. Girls who have had good looks and a family. The family thrusts them into the pictures and then settle back to live on their income—if any."

Which, if I seem a bit bitter, is the fact. Hollywood and Los Angeles are full of lovely youngsters supporting someone or other, and crashing the rather difficult gates in hope of a problematic stardom.

ANENT THE FAIR

FAIR time is "just around the corner". Much work will have to be done, many plans must be carefully weighed and carried through to completion. The exposition's directorate is on the threshold of a very busy era.

Year after year the Panhandle-South Plains fair has grown. Expansion along many lines has reared, from a "pumpkin show," a full blown exposition which is unparalled in this section. Its livestock department, alone, brands the fair here as outstanding the country over. And, furthermore, the end is not in sight. There is nothing to indicate that it will not continue to know and branch out until it is even greater than at the present.

Taking all these things into consideration the fair grounds and equipment, including buildings, structures are needed, more care of buildings and present to Lubbock a serious problem. Many new equipment the year 'round is becoming essential and, from every angle, the exposition is rapidly becoming a serious undertaking.

The Avalanche-Journal hopes the 1929 fair directorate will have a successful administration and that the administration, when completed, will bear fruits for future improvement of the fair. It is to be hoped that a definiat expension program will be outline and a portion of it, at least, tarried to completion. The task is an imposing one but worth the time and thought of even the busiest among us.

BUYING AND FLYING

A writer in a current magazine, who seems to know a lot about the development of aviation in this country, says, "With the cost of buying and flying a plane what it is, one wonders where in this land of material blessedness our plane owners come from. Where, for example, are the men who are to buy the 10,000 planes promised by the industry for 1929?"

How exactly the airplane seems to be following the course marked out by the automobile! It comes faster because it got a running take-off with all the discoveries and inventions the automobile had to feel for and work out painstakingly. But about the same dobuts and objections and predictions go with aviation progress that stuck to motoring.

When the first automobiles appeared, the skeptics' chorus joined in the refrain: "Who is going to pay $2,000 or more for one of those things? It's a rich man's plaything. And where are there rich men enough to warrant the growth of such an industry?"

But there were enough rich men to encourage and bring the industry into existence and there were ways found to make the new device available for those who were not rich. The cost of "buying and flying" will not handicap the aircraft industry. It has progressed far enough already to prompt that prediction.

"RED MENACE" REPUDIATED

President Hoover deserves to be applauded for the sane stand he has taken with reference to the war against 'bolshevism," which certain light-headed patrioteers recently tried to launch under the auspices of republican officialdom. The president says his name was used without authorization and declares that he dislikes and repudiates the entire enterprise.

This is a great relief. The "red" bugaboo never was anything but an empty scarecrow designed to frighten timid souls and make money for certain professional propagandists. Not even the ardent drive of an A. Mitchell Palmer could make the majority of thoughtful Americans believe that this country was facing overthrow at the hands of scheming radicals.

Mr. Hoover's prompt and conclusive repudiation of all such insensate attempts to stir up fear and apprehension among American citizens will be generally regarded as a wholesome tonic. This nation is by no means heading toward a regime like that of Soviet Russia. And the best way to maintain our conservative poise and balance is to put the skids under every fool who shouts "Wolf!"

IMPROVED RELATIONS

When a giant German airship recently drifted almost helplessly over France, the French government and citizens spared no effort to direct its course and bring it safely to earth. At once there was a notable improvement in Franco-German relations.

A British aircraft carrier discovered and rescued a party of Spanish aviators adrift in the Atlantic. French, Portugese and Italian vessels also participated in the search. One Sunday an immense procession in Madrid visited the embassies of all these countries in a popular demonstration of gratitude. In Buenos Aires the Spanish-speaking descendants of Spainards feted the crew of a British warship, who could not imagine what it was all about.

Thus kindness bespeaks affection. Thus even the disasters of aviation are helping the realization of the brotherhood of man, and having their favorable repercussion on international relations.

British merchants are complaining that although more Americans than ever before are visiting the British Isles, the increase is due to lower rates on cabin steamers, and these travelers do not spend much money in the shops. They pay a lump sum, which includes all necessary items, for their trip, and some of them, according to the watchful complainants, bring no more than $10 extra for emergencies.

Maybe these things are true. Certainly the steamship companies and the travel agencies have been selling plenty of trips to students, teachers and people in other walks of life who have a large curiosity but not much money. Many such persons have saved for years to afford the trip. And these are the sort of people who are intelligent enough to make good use of their opportunities.

The constant complaint of Europe is that she is not understood by America. There economical travelers are trying to understand her. Most of them have read and studied about the countries they visit; they go to get first-hand impressions.

WHY SUGAR BARON ADVOCATES SLIDING PROTECTIVE TARIFF

BY CHARLES P. STEWART,
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Sugar being his speciality it is to the sugar industry that Rudolph Spreckels, of San Francisco, especially refers, in advocating his much-argued plan for a sliding protective tariff scale.

However, he favors it for industries in general.

"Protection's purpose," he says, "ought to be the safeguarding of American producers against the competition, in American markets, of producers in other countries where production costs are lower than here.

"When this inequality has been wiped out, all has been done for American production that it is entitled to. Anything more is a license to the American producer to wring exorbitant profits out of the American consumer, which i smost unfair."

"But fluctuations in the spread between American and foreign production costs," pointed out the scion of the great sugar dynasty of Spreckels, "must be provided for.

"Foreign costs may advance or American costs may decline and the margin shrinks—or vice versa, and it widens.

"Theoretically, legislative changes in our import duties should reflect these variations, but legislation is slow—often a matter of years. In the meantime the American producer suffers or the American consumer is victimized."

PARENTHETICALLY—

The tariff commission is empowered to recommend emergency changes in just such situations, and the president has the authority to make them—upward or downward—50 percent either way.

In actual practice, no expert is needed to tell us that this has not worked very well.

Early in his administration, the tariff commission did recommend a sugar reduction to President Coolidge, and it has not been made yet. Mr. Coolidge's failure to act on the board's suggestion got him rather harshly criticized, too.

This pained the high tariff-ites, and now they are trying to fix the law so as to make the president more absolute, thus protecting him even against fault finding; but it is doubtful whether they succeed. Many republicans, as well as democrats, dislike the whole idea, deeming the tariff a thing for congress alone—not the president—to tinker with.

"Much the better system," insists Spreckels, "would be an automatically sliding scale—sliding upward as foerign production costs decline, in comparison with ours; sliding downward as they rise."

Ardent protectionists maintain that it will be mighty hard to determine what foreign production costs are.

"We can always tell," rejoins the sugar magnate, brushing this objection aside as unimportant, "what prices are being charged for foreign commodities in their own markets. What better test can there be than that?"

The Cuban industry is a desperately fought issue in connection with the sugar tariff controversy.

Spreckels touched on that also.

"Selfishness," he observed, "is natural and necessary, but it ought to be enlightened.

"It would be poor economy for us to ruin other nations.

"Imagine a war!

"We could not fight without sugar.

"North America cannot furnish us with enough. Our domestic industry, as a going concern, deserves protection, but it never can meet our needs. Our Philippine supply almost surely would be cut off. Hawaii would be doubtful.

"Cuban sugar would be a military necessity. Suppose we had killed the industry."

As a witness before the senate tariff making committee, Spreckels did not wholly agree with Chairman Reed Smoot, of the beet sugar state of Utah, "sold" though the latter expresses himself on the sliding scale principle.

In his opinion, Senator Smoot wants to slide ridiculously high.

"To provide for a continued upward slide, even after our competitors were producing for nothing," he observes, "seems foolish to me."

"The ideal condition," concluded the sugar millionaire, "would be world-wide free trade—the entire family of nations exchanging, one with another, the commodities which each is best adapted to produce.

"But it is as impractical as world peace."

ERALLY JUST AS ARE ANY FOODS

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of 'Diet and Health' and 'Diet For Children'

Vacation.

My dear Followers: Aloha! When this appears—if my plans materialize—I shall be on the beach at Waikiki, with my sister Anna, my niece Alice, and her chum, Jean.

Last summer, when I was taking my vacation in California, I told my sister and niece that I would take them with me to Honolulu this summer. Later I decided that I shouldn't take such a long vacation—seems to me that I never get caught up on my work on account of my long summer vactions; so I wrote them we would postpone it. But Alice (a go-getter) went right ahead, got reams of the attractive literature on the Islands, the wonderful trips, the swimming, surf-board riding, the beautiful walks, the glorious sunshine and climate—and sent it along to me with the information that we were not going to live forever, and we'd better take our joys while we were young! Ray (she's my private secretary), also an enthusiastic girl, and level-headed—though a bit bossy—added the weight of her wisdom to Alice's. It would be such a healthful vacation for me—I could store up enough sunshine for the New York winter, and I ought to work better after I came back—so I decided that two young heads were better than one old one.

By working night and day—I sure need a vacation now—we have enough material ahead so I won't have any regular work to do. Ray is going to have her vacation before I go, so she'll be on the job during mine. Your requests for material which we have on hand will be taken care of, same as usual.

I understand that the fruits of the island are delicious—especially the guavas, pineapples, bananas, and papayas. We anticipate eating a lot of them, but we realize that if we do, we have to cut out some other foods. (Contrary to the usual idea, fruits are fattening, if they are more than you need—just as are any other foods.) I'll have to see if I can't get a few pounds on lovely Jean, so I'll see that she has her fruit extra. (Jean is a beanstalk type of girl, always trying to gain; but Anna, Alice and I have to count every darn calorie.)

I don't know what the native food, poi, tastes like. It is made of the ground root of a plant called the taro—whatever that is! I suppose it'll be "fattening." So I hope I don't like it. We'll see that Jean eats it.

Of course, we expect to be on the beach most of the time, and do a lot of swimming, and will learn to ride the surf boards. Maybe we'll learn to do the native dances—they're good trunk exercises.

The next personal letter I write you will be from Honolulu. One parting admonition, dear followers; Please do not depend upon me for diagnoses or treatments! You must see your personal physician if you have anything wrong with you. Too many of you, I'm sorry to say, forget that the column is a public health column written to prevent disease rather than to cure it, and it cannot take the place of your physician.

I hope you will have as interesting a vacation as I expect to have. Aloha!

Nations Invited To Enter Balloon Races In October

All Countries Visited By President Hoover Will Be Invited To Compete In Gordon Bennett Race

ST. LOUIS, July 20 (AP).—Every South American country visiter by President-Elect Hoover on his Latin-America good-will tour has been extended a special invitation to challenge the baloon supremacy of the United States in the James Gordon Bennett race to start this year from St. Louis.

Two other international balloon races have started in St. Louis. This year's event is scheduled for October 1.

The board's technical committee, headed by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert and Capt. H. E. Honeywell, veteran balloonists, has arranged to handle 20 bags. A supply of 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas is to be made available within eight hours.

The 1929 race will start from an old baseball pary on south Broadway, near Jefferson Barracks. It will accommodate 200,000 persons.

The race, in returning to St. Louis, comes back to the city where the first of these races in the United States was held. That was in 1907, and a German, Osker Erbersiob, who flew to Asbury Park, N. J., won.

At a race held here in 1910, A. R. Hawley, representing the United States, won. He landed in Canada, and with his aide, was lost in a forest seven days. When found they were nearly exhausted. Hawley set a record of 1,172 miles.

Ours is a big country with great diversity of custom, habit and opinion of right and wrong. On the Fence with The Seer Comparison is among the first and one of the most forceful senses of the world. As the world widens its span of years comparison takes deeper root in our everyday lives. Creating an effect that is quite noticeable. It often transforms the uncouth into striking examples of neatness and manliness. The illiterate into men and women of usefulness and higher education. Comparison is indeed a useful force in our lives—without it we would perhaps grow laggard in our ways and ambitions, the energetic light of the world, would be enveloped in the darkness of neglect.

As we grow wiser we grow wilder—our court records prove it. For centuries the combined world has worked feverishly together to bring luxuries and conveniences upon its peoples—the succes sof this giant undertaking has been nothing short of phenonemal. The world has more time for play—are we using this time sensibly? Discretion should be uppermost in our lives lest we tear down the great civilization we have bulded.

Today's Poem

OF THE LAST VERSES IN THE BOOK

When we for age could neither read nor write,
The subject made us able to indite;
The soul, with nobler resolutions
decked,
The body stooping does herself erect.
No mortal parts are requisite to raise
Her that, unbodied, can her Maker praise.

The seas are quiet when the winds give o'er;
So calm are we when passions are no more.
For then we know how vain it was to boast
Of fleeting things, so certain to be lost.
Clouds of affection from our younger eyes
Conceal that emptiness which age descries.

The soul's dark cottage, battered and decayed,
Lets in new light through chinks
that Time has made:
Stronger by weakness, wiser men become
As they draw near to their eternal home.
Leaving the old, both worlds at once they view
That stand upon the threshold of the new.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Would you feel more at ease if I went along, Honey?"

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY © 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, pretty and clever, has inherited $10,000, quarreled with her sweetheart, and found herself a job—all in a day or two.

The money was a legacy left by an old aunt, and Molly received word of her good fortune the day she was graduated from college. Almost immediately she and her sweetheart, JACK WELLS, begin to argue. Jack works in an architects office on meager salary. Molly suggests that they be married on her inheritance, and his pride is outraged.

With RITA MELNOTTE, her best friend, Molly goes in quest of a position. Finally, when she is quite discouraged, the city editor of the ninth newspaper office she has visited offers a try-out as Inquiring Reporter. Joyfully she accepts.

Jack hates to think of Molly working and they quarrel. But, in the end, they make up, and Jack gives Molly a little diamond he has bought for her. A tragedy happens when the tiny ring falls over the side of the boat in which they are rowing. Molly cries, and Jack comforts her. And later she goes with him to his room to help him pack.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

Molly helped Jack fold his things. His underclothes and pajamas. His other suit. And his dinner coat. She rolled his socks up in neat little balls. And wrapped his shoes in tissue paper, so they wouldn't soil his nice clean shirts. Then she pulled a ribbon out of her lingerie, and tied it around the leters she had sent him.

And he showed her his book of snapshots, and a family group in a silver frame. His mother had white hair, and was rather regal looking. Molly supposed she'd meet her before very long, although Jack confessed he had not told the family that he had a sweetheart.

"Mother'd only worry," he declared. "She thinks modern girls are something fierce. I want to wait until I can show you off properly."

"But Jack." She was a little hurt. "I should think you'd want to tell her yabout me, dear. I've told my family every blessed thing about you. They know your eyes are blue. And that you've a cowlick. And broad shoulders. And that you played football and hockey. My goodness, they know everything!"

"Well, I'd rather knock my folks dead when they get a look at you," he declared. "There's no use getting them steamed up. They'll fall for you, soon as they lay eyes on you. Why, they'll be crazy about you, Molly. Particularly my mother. You'll like her, too."

Then he showed her some letters from his mother. And one from his father. His sisters wrote him, too. Girlish letters, with plenty of words underlined, and every so many exclamation points.

Molly packed the family's letters neatly in a shoe box. She thought it was sweet of Jack to keep them. Like most women, she adored sentimentality in a lover.

"Sentimental men," she reflected, "are always tender."

Finally the packing was done. Molly felt pleasantly wifely. She sat down on the bed, and contemplated her sweetheart's bags. There were two of them, neatly packed, and ready to close.

Then she reflected that she was in a man's bedroom, and it was almost midnight. She sighed.

"Tired, Sweetheart?"

She leaned against him.

"A little," she admitted. "Its nice, leaning against your shoulder. There's a dear little hollow, where my head just fits."

They were lost for a while in their dreams.

"Well, Sweetheart." He shook her gently. "Time for little girls to go home."

He laid his head against her hair. And buried his nose in its fragrance.

"Other girls' hair doesn't smell like yours," he said.

She smiled. That little French atomizer had cost $7.50, but that was really the only way a girl could keep her hair scented. It wasn't any good putting drops of perfume on You had to spray it.

"What do you do?" he asked. "Spill bay rum or something like that in it?"

She laughed, and shook her head.

"I love the way you don't know very much about women," she told him. "It's awfully sweet."

"I thought girls liked a man that knows all about women. Don Juan stuff."

"Maybe some of them do. I don't. Jack, are you going to miss me?"

"Miss you!" he cried. "I'd like to die for you, honey."

"I'll miss you, too, she promised. "But we'll write each other every day?"

"You bet," he agreed. "And twice on Sundays. I mean you write twice on Sundays, honey. And tell me everything; about your job. And if any of those guys around there get fresh with you, send me a wire, will you, Molly?"

"They won't," she assured him. "They look harmless as anything. Kind of old, most of them." That wasn't true, but it would make Jack feel better. "They're bald, and fat. You know. Sort of shiny. Married looking." And she thought of the city editor, who had light curly hair, and loked as if he bought his clothes at a Bond street tailor's.

"I'll tell them I'm engaged, as soon as I get a chance," she promised.

"Molly, you must let me take you home now," he said. "Put on your hat, like a good girl."

She pulled it on, the little blue vagabond felt that made her look so adorably childish. Then she patted his pillow with both her small pink palms. She liked keeping his head rested there, and fondled it with her hands.

"Oh, I forgot to tell you," she exclaimed. "I phoned the Y. W. C. A. this morning, and I've taken a room there. Rita's going to send all my truck in for me. I'll write the family tonight, and tell them about it. And about my position."

"Call it a job," he advised her. "You don't call 'em positions when they only pay $18 a week."

They tip-toed quietly down the stairs. Past Miss Blakes room. The light was out now, and they could hear her snoring lightly. Molly giggled.

"I never knew before," she said, "that you could tell an old maid by the way she snores. Now wouldn't you just know she was a spinister?"

They took a taxi to the Y. W., because Jack declared it mightn't look right to be arriving after midnight her first night. And when they reached there a number of girls were on the steps, so that they had to say goodbye most circumspectly. Molly was rather glad. She knew she would have cried, if it was dark or the street was deserted.

Tomorrow Jack would be on his way to New York. And it might be weeks and weeks before she saw him again! She flung her arms about him.

"Dont say goodby, Sweetheart! Just good-night."

She kissed him swiftly, and ran up the stairs. He waited on the sidewalk until the door had closed behind her. She did not turn to wave. And he knew it was because she was crying.

That night she wrote Jack, and mailed it, next morning, with a special delivery stamp. It was in the office in New York, waiting for him when he reached there.

She also wrote her family, telling them at length of her "perfectly marvelous opportunity," her desire to be independent and self-supporting, and her determination to be happy through self-expression. She mentioned also her dreams of success and fame. It was a rather stiff letter, she was afraid, and she felt that she had not expressed herself very well. She sent it by air mail, and hoped for the best.

A few days later she received a reply from her mother.

Now, Molly's mother was a rather old-fashioned woman. She had no new fangled ideas about independence nor gainful occupations for women. Moreover, she was, at the time, a very lonely woman.

"Dear daughter," she wrote. "Dad brought your letter from the postoffice this noon when he came home for dinner. It was strange the way it arrived just as it did. I had spent the morning preparing a paper to read at the Wednesday Club. We are having a debate this week: Resolved, that the Modern Girl is Happier Than Her Grandmother. I had taken the negative. And it so happened that I had read recently an article in a magazine by some well-known woman writer. I forget her name at the moment.

"Well daughter, she said something like this—The point is," she said, 'that there are grades in happiness, and that the inferior kind based upon selfishness competition and publicity may make the modern woman happier; but it is not so becoming to her, nor so beneficial to others, as the frugal happiness enjoyed by her grandmother."

"My dear daughter, your father and I believed that you were engaged to a fine young man whom we had hoped to meet this summer. We had thought our little girl was coming home to us. And we had planned such lovely things to have together. I had put your name up, dear, for the Woman's Club, and your poor father has been planning to buy you a little car. However, I do not wish to emphasize our own disappointment. But what about your young man, Molly? Have you, for the sake of securing more liberty, and a wisp or two of indignant personal happiness, broken your promise to him, as well as sacrificed your loyalty to us?

"My dear child, your poor aunt Minnie would turn in her grave if she could know what her money has led you to. And a position on a newspaper of all things! You write of the joy of living, and of self-expression. Your aunt Minnie certainly derived considerable satisfaction from living all her days without reproach. She was never heard to worry about self-expression, which is a new disorder. She believed that she expressed herself very well.

"She imparted a dignity, a spiritual elegance which younger women do not feel, being obsessed with the fear of being enslaved and suppressed.' I have quoted that, Molly, as best I can from the article by the magazine writer, because it so exactly expresses what I would like to say to you . . ."

Molly dropped the letter impatiently.

Then a figure on the back page caught her attention. "$500." She snatched the paper up hurriedly.

Her mother had written, toward the end of the letter, "Your father and I have talked things over, and have decided not to stand in your way. After all, you have, I suppose, a right to pursue happiness in your own fashion. Aunt Minnie's estate will not be settled for some weeks. But your father is going to send you $500, to defray whatever expenses you may have, until such time as the executor sends you your entire inheritance . . ."

Molly's eyes filled with tears. "Dear old dad!"

"And now," she decided joyously, "I can take a little apartment! I can have a kitchenette all my own, and a nice big bath!"

Newspaper Lady Starts Race For Governor In '30

Miss Katie Daffan Enters Gubernatorial Contest In Texas; May Be Opposed By Ma Ferguson

AUSTIN, July 20 (AP).—A newspaper woman has announced her candidacy for the governorship of Texas—a year in advance of the 1930 primaries.

Miss Katie Daffan's campaign will mark her debut in the political arena. It may be the climax to an active literary career and many years of leadership in Texas women's organizations.

Sponsoring her candidacy is the Texas division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, of which she has been president four times.

This second woman to seek the rank of chief executive in the Lone Star state may be opposed by Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, who was governor before Dan Moody, the incumbent. Some political prophets say that Mrs. Ferguson again will be a candidate. She was defeated for re-election last year.

The state's men politicians, true to tradition, do not take Miss Daffan's candidacy seriously. Neither did they take Mrs. Ferguson's aspirations to mean anything a few years ago.

At present Miss Daffan is literary editor of the Houston Chronicle. She has been state president of the Texas Woman's Press association, state historian of the Daughters of the American Revolution, state secretary of the General Federation of Woman's clubs and superintendent of the Confederate Woman's home.

Miss Daffan probably will find herself in a large field of candidates. Politicians predict a multi-cornered race to determine who shall succeed Governor Moody.

Why A Safety Deposit Box

Every man and many women have some valuables that are too valuable to keep in their home. Insurance papers, either life or fire, are not safe there. It takes time, effort, and "red tape" to replace them if lost, stolen or destroyed.

The cost of a safety deposit box is negligible compared with the value in safety that you receive. Then too, the safety deposit box centralizes the location of all your bonds, stocks, insurance and valuables where they can be found and placed in the proper hands if anything should happen to the owner. A deposit box for your investments is an investment against loss of your investments.

Course In Agriculture Is Good Business Training

Young Men Urged To Consider The Scope Of Study

Texas Tech Professor Is Of Belief That Too Few Farm Boys Realize What There Is To Farming

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Recently Prof Ray C. Mowery, in speaking to a gathering of Terry county 4-H Club boys and girls, at Brownfield, stated that the young men who expect to enter business in an agricultural section, could receive no better background than a course in agriculture. Following our request, he has written the following article. It gives many outstanding characteristics of such a course that few of us realize is included in it.)

By R. C. MOWERY,
Professor of Animal Husbandry,
Texas Technological College,
Lubbock, Texas

At the present time there are a great number of farm boys who go to college each year to obtain a college education. They have the idea that they know all there is to know about farming and that there certainly is not any need for them to take an agricultural course. Some of them have very definite ideas relative to studying engineering, law, medicine, etc., while the vast majority just "go to college."

In order to get a college education, it is not necessary for one to take something with which he is not at all familiar. Many boys who enter college with this idea find that they have taken work about which they know nothing and many times they find that they have no interest in this work.

Subjects Taught Are Wide

One of the chief reasons for so many boys not taking a course in agriculture, when they go to college from this great agricultural area of our, is that they are not familiar with the subject matter taught in such a course. An agricultural course gives a so-called liberal education, prepares one for farming as a business enterprise, is admirably adapted to economic training for any business in which one might hope to engage, and at the same time prepares the student for any number of positions that are available solely to graduates in agriculture.

As has been suggested above, an agricultural curricula is filled with ample liberal subjects to meet the needs of any graduate. English, public speaking, botany, chemistry, zoology, agricultural mathematics—all subjects of the very highest type are required in an agricultural course. In addition, the curricula allows electives, such as Education and advanced courses in English, in Government or other subjects a student may prefer. This shows, at a glance, that an agricultural course includes sufficient subjects to broaden a student's knowledge.

Farmer Must Meet His Problems

The present agricultural situation is and has been critical from the standpoint of economic income. It will remain so just as long as the farmer will allow it to. Present proposed legislation will not correct the evils of this condition. The farmer's economic needs will likely never be corrected until he does it for himself. He should learn not only better methods of conducting a diversified system of farming, but also definite systems of cooperative measures and world-wide economic values. College training in agriculture supplies this information.

An agricultural course includes subjects that give the student sound information in varied fields, among which are those relating to animal husbandry, agronomy, dairy manufacturing, horticulture, agricultural economics, entomology, etc. The curricula is such that the student, after his sophomore year, is enabled to choose the line which he desires, and the courses offered will giv the student sound and practical information in his chosen field. For example, in addition to marketing being stressed in its different phases in other departments students in the Department of Agricultural Economics spend all of their time in the study of economic and business conditions. It is believed that when a group of men who have had training offered by a college course in agriculture get back to the farm they will have the ability to bring the farmer's economic standing to a level with that of any other business. It is earnestly hoped that more and more of the young men going to college will enter with this as their main objective. "Preparation for the business of farming."

Gives Good Business Background

There is another matter that cannot be overlooked in this business of going to college. Most of the boys who graduate from college do not go into a profession. They return to their home towns and go into business. This is an agricultural country and the people whom one deals with are agricultural-minded. What course in college could possibly give a better background for a banker or merchant in this section of the country, than agriculture? In order to make a pleasing contact with people, it is necessary to know something about their interests.

There are a number of courses in agriculture that deal with dollars and cents, and this gives the student some idea of taking care of his own finances. It is possible to take a college degree in a so-called Liberal Education, and not come in contact with information or training that will aid the young man to take care of his own personal finances, to any appreciable extent, when he has finished. There are a number of courses in agriculture, especially during the junior and senior years, that give very definite training of this sort.

Many Fields Are Open

It is not the purpose of this article to elaborate concerning the various fields that college graduates are able to enter at good salaries, although they are quite numerous and attractive. These will merely be mentioned: county agents, state and federal extension specialists, state and federal research workers, teachers of vocational agriculture, members of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, college instructors, journalists, employees of feed companies and many other lines of specialized work. Furthermore, graduates in agriculture may enter lines of work that are open to any young man, and by taking a few electives in education, can teach in public schools.

It is not the purpose of this article to discourage the young man from pursuing some other course. By all means, if the young man feels that he has a particular aptitude to go into the engineering field, and feels that he is equipped for this work, then that is the thing he should do. The same principal applies to law, medicine, etc.

If one went into the heart of the city of New York he would not expect a large percentage of the young men there to pursue a course in agriculture, because they do not knwo anything about it, never will, and would be dismal failures should they attempt such a thing.

Iowa State College Is Cited

Likewise, if one went into a great mining or engineering community he would not expect the largest percentage of the young men entering college from there to pursue an agricultural course, but he would look for a large percentage of engineers and have a reasonable assurance that a great number of them would make successes. Iowa State College, at Ames, Iowa, is located in the heart of the corn belt, and approximately one half of the enrollment of that great institution is in agriculture. Why is this? It is because the boys that attend the college are agricultural-minded, know what the college has to offer, and pursue the course of which they already have some knowledge, for the purpose of making themselves stronger in that particular field.

This is an agricultural country and it is believed that the same situation should exist at Texas Technological College as that which exists at Iowa State College.

It is hoped that many young men who are planning to go to college this fall, particularly those who are farm boys and have constant contact with farm people, will keep in mind the fact that, in all probability an agricultural course will give them all of the liberal training that they desire; will furnish them with very definite facts in regard to making themselves more successful farmers, and will give them training in leadership and citizenship that will make them worth more to their community and country, when they shall have finished their college career.

Wheat Growers of South Plains Can Make Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Next Year By Testing Earlier

South Plains wheat growers, who did not have their grain tested for protein content this year, and who did not, therefore, get an advantage of any premium on high content wheat, can at least remember next year that this section does grow a superior protein wheat. They should also prepare ahead of time, next season, in order to get their premium, if available, is the opinion of Prof. H. J. Bower, of Texas Technilogical college.

According to G. R. Gray, during the first 15 days of July, there were 415 samples of wheat tested at the Panhandle Laboratories, of Plainview, for protein content.

Protein Average Is High.

For these 415 samples, the average of protein was 13.60 per cent. This is higher than the average for the first 15 days of grading done by this laboratory, which was from June 15 to June 30.

Gray announces that the lowest sample tested during the first half of July was 11 per cent, and the highest 17.90 per cent. Seventy-five per cent of these samples graded from 12 to 15 per cent, 64 per cent graded above 13, 37 per cent graded above 14, 14 per cent graded above 15 and 2.6 per cent of the samples had protein content above 16 per cent.

June Test Also Mentioned.

There were 624 railway cars of wheat sampled by the Plainview laboratory during the last half of June, which averaged 13.40 per cent protein content. The lowest content 5 1-2 per cent of the tests showed above 15 per cent protein.

Many of the tests were of cars which were mixed, the higher protein wheat and the lower, sometimes from widely different fields, being loaded into cars together, thus the wheat grower, whose grain is ultra superior, where a premium is offered, is penalized by the poorer quality grain.

The Baker Demands Protein.

As explained by Prof. Bower, South Plains wheat, possessing a quality so much in demand, can only be separated throught a protein test, before it is sold by the grower. Once it leaves his hands, the ultimate user—the baker—whose business demands a wheat of high protein wheat, has no way of telling where the wheat he purchases comes from.

The problem facing the wheat growers of this area, is to be solved by them, and them only. Prof. Bower believes there are hundreds of thousands of dollars being lost every year by these growers, that could be placed in their pockets, through preparatory work of having their wheat tested, before it is offered on the market.

Lynn County To Send 35 People To Short Course

Delegation To Leave On Special Train From Post Saturday; Interest High In Work Over County

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TAHOKA, July 20 — Between 30 and 35 Lynn county men, women and boys and girls will attend the A. and M. short course, according to County Agent R. E. Shaver and Demonstration Agent Thelma Greenwade, probably the largest delegation ever to attend the annual event from this county.

The Lynn county delegation will leave Post next Saturday on the Panhandle-Plains special train. Fares for the tri phave been cut by the railroads to one cent per mile, thus making it possible for farmers from this section to attend the school on as little as $20 or $25.

The intensive work being done by the two agents in Lynn county is arousing an interest in better agricultural and farm life such as has never been seen in Lynn county. Women's and girls' clubs have more than doubled their membership during the past year. Shaver, who has only been on duty since March 15, has organized boys' pig, poultry, calf and feed clubs, and each has an excellent membership. Shaver is laying special emphasis on the development of the dairy industry in Lynn county as a side-line to farming.

Floyd County To Send Twenty-Five To Meet

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, July 20. — About twenty-five Floyd county club women are expected to make the trip to the A. & M. college short course which convenes Monday morning of next week and continues through Friday. Miss Marie Strange, county home demonstration agent this week said twenty-one women had definitely indicated their intention of making the trip, with indications that others would also join the party before the special train leaves this section Saturday evening, July 27.

The special train that will be run by the Santa Fe will reach A. & M. college Sunday afternoon and the opening session of the short course will be held Monday morning, following registration of the delegates.

A side trip is being made possible for the A. & M. visitors this year. Following the close of the sessions Friday, it will be possible for the delegates to spend Saturday in Houston and Galveston and leaving those points return home Sunday night.

More than 75 per cent of the towns in New Hampshire have organized 4-H clubs, according to the University of New Hampshire.

Bucharest, Rumania, is to have talking pictures.

Chess Tourney Is Played On Paper

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 20 (AP).—Fountain pens at 200 miles or more were the chosen dueling weapons of Florida and Georgia gentry who recently concluded a two years' jousting match.

With Uncle Sam's mails serving as an imaginary chess board, R. D. Flagin of Macon, Ga., carried on his warfare against all comers in the correspondence school tournament sponsored by the Southeastern Chess association, and finished victor. Arthur S. Harris of Savannah was second, and Don carlos Dubois, Atlanta, third.

Georgia and Florida players were paired when the tournament started in 1927, and each move in the separate tilts was mailed and recorded by Harris.

Better Marketing Need For Poultry Is Told Of Here

South Plains Association Of Poultry Raisers And A Higher Standard Is Mentioned

A need of better marketing facilities, for poultry and eggs, is felt in Lubbock and the South Plains area. More particularly is this need felt by the producers, who are compelled to peddle their products here and there, at the most convenient point and for the price offered them at the time presentd.

Whther the need is for a cooperative marketing organization, is something the producers themselves are to decide. However, the cooperativ marketing plan seems the only method known that offers any aid at all.

In the matter of eggs, there is a demand on the part of these who purchase them, for some sort of standardization. All eggs now offered do not have a mark of standardization. They are just eggs. There are exceptions, of course, where certain poultry raisers have established a reputation with a few buyers.

High Standard Is Needed

The need, as seen by a number of raisers and a few buying organizations, is a high standard, at which all raisers will aim.

This mark can be created by a cooperative organization. And, such an organization would be more powerful, if it were as wide as the Plains.

Before such an organization can be created, some have suggested that a South Plains Poultry Association be organized. With this perfected, the next step would be a regional Poultry Show, perhaps at Lubbock, to be held each year. This show should be held in December or January, and the smaller poultry exhibitions, held in other cities of the South Plains, would be spokes in the bigger hub.

Mrs. Tyre Is Astonished At The Results

"My Friends Recommended Orgatone To Me And I Feel Like A Different Person Since Taking Two Bottles," Says Lubbock Woman

"When I bought my first bottle of Orgatone, I felt like it was that much money thrown away, so my wonderful recovery has astonished me," said Mrs. Alice Tyre, of 1610 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas.

"For six years," she continued, "I have been physically broken down and have suffered tortures with indigestion and nervousness. Nothing I would eat agreed with me, and it soured on my stomach, and gas formed and affected my heart so sometimes I felt like every breath would be the last, and my nerves were simply shattered to pieces. I also suffered terribly from constipation, and headaches and never knew what it was to sleep more than two hours any night. The doctors told me I had an acute case of indigestion, and at times my stomach would ache and pain until I could hardly stand it.

"I spent many a dollar seeking relief, but never found the right medicine, until my friends recommended Orgatone to me, and now since taking two bottles I feel like a different person. I now eat anything and everything I want, without it bothering me in the least. My indigestion is a thing of the past, and gas does not form or bother me, and I haven't had a pain in my stomach since taking Orgatone. My constipation is all gone, and in fact, I am just in a better condition all around, and all of my troubles are gone. Orgatone has certainly saved me lots of money, for I would have spent many a dollar if I hadn't found it. Orgatone has proven a great benefit to me, and I am glad to give this statement."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents.—Adv.

Two Texas Tech Cows Each Produce In One Month Approximately As Much Milk As Average Texas Cow In A Year

Official Test Shows One Cow Gives Over 10 Gallons A Day; The Other's Record Is Close

Two Holstein-Friesian cows, of the Texas Technological college dairy herd, in an official production test, kept last year, show productions that, in one case, is over six times the average yearly production of Texas milch cows, and is about four times the average production of Lubbock county milch cows.

In the other case, the cow shows more than five times the Texas average in milk production.

These two cows, Flowerdale Echo Margolyn, No. 929253, and Flowerdale Fayne Alcartra, No. 848574, registered Holstein-Friesians, have been exhibited several times by Texas Tech, at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair, at Lubbock; the Tri-State Fair, at Amarillo, and the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show, at Plainview.

Texas Milch Cows Numbered

Incidentally, the United States census, published in 1925, covering figures for 1924, reveal that Texas then possessed 849,240 milch cows. These cows produced a total of 274,540,639 gallons of milk, showing an average production per cow, for that year, of 323 gallons.

Lubbock county milch cows numbered 4,593, in 1924. Total Lubbock county production was 1,860,165 gallons, or an average per cow of 405 gallons, which is 82 gallons above the state average.

The two Tech cows, tested when they were four and five years old, respectively, have official records as given following:

14,381 Pounds Produced In Year

Flowerdale Echo Margolyn produced 1,672.24 gallons of milk during the year, which was last year. This production toealled 14,381.3 pounds of milk, and had 477.64 pounds of butterfat.

Flowerdale Fayne Alcartra produced 1,939.84 gallons, which weighed 16,682.7 pounds and contained 573.88 pounds of butterfat.

Both of these cows have advanced registry records, which records were completed in the preceding lactation, last year. This year's lactation began on May 17 and May 12, respectively.

During the month of June, this year, according to an official production test, Margolyn produced 2,565.7 pounds of milk, or 298.33 gallons, while Alcartra's production was 2,183.5 pounds of milk, or 253.6 gallons.

Daily Record Is 10 Gallons

This record shows a daily average just a little under 10 gallons of milk per day, for the first cow, and only a little less than that for the second. Margolyn's daily average was 85.5 pounds. It takes 86.6 pounds to constitute 10 gallons.

The first 15 days of July, both cows showed a gain in production, the first one being credited with 1,286.9 pounds, or 161.6 gallons, which is a daily average of 10.77 gallons, while the other one produced 1,211.7 pounds, or 140.9 gallons, figuring a daily average of 9.4 gallons.

These splendid animals have to be milked four times each day.

Commenting on this record, Prof. W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department of Texas Tehcnological college, says:

"All dairy stock should be measured by four tests, if possible. These tests are, Individuality, Pedigree, Production and Progeny. You can apply the first two tests to any dairy animal.

"In many instances the pedigree is over-emphasized, in comparison to the individuality of the animal. Production and Progeny, of course, are available from those animals that have reached a certain age, and re dependent upon the other two tests.

The Most Vital Test Given

"Production is a test that everyone is vitally concerned with, because, regardless of pedigree, or individuality, if production is not had, which will show a profit on the investment, all the other tests are worthless."

Prof. Stangel states further that the owner who expects to grow and improve his herd must concern himself with the progeny of his animals. Good progeny should come from good individuals, of good blood lines—individuals that have made records as producers. Then, the herd owner should not be content to retain individual animals in his herd whose production is lower than that of the parents.

"Ordinarily," Stangel continues, "a cow produces more milk during her first month of lactation, than during any other month. In the case of these two cows, however, production has increased after the first month. This increase, of course, will not continue, because anyone can tell that, from the amount of milk the cows are now producing, the animal machine is being put to a sevee strain.

"Each of these cows produce almost as much milk, per month, as the average Texas cow does in one year. And, in a month and a half, 45 days, they have produced considerably more than the average Texas cow does in a year's time, and also more than the average Lubbock county cow does in the same period of time."

John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at North Carolina State college, estimates that less than one-half the acres on the average farm contribute to the income of the owner. The majority of this land can be used for dairy cow pastures, he says, and will pay from $5 to $8 an acre per month when the butterfat is sold to a creamery.

Love Has Code
Separate Language Used By Sexes

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP).—Courtship is highly involved among the trilingual Caribs in British Honduras, and love has a special tongue, reports J. Eric Thompson, archaeologist and ethnologist on the Field museum staff, recently returned from Honduras.

"Carib men have one language which they speak to one another," says Thompson. "Carib women have a second for conversation among themselves. And there is a third tongue used conversation between the sexes. The distinction is basic, not merely the difference between words white men sometimes use in the smoking room as compared to those used before ladies."

Thus the smitten Carib must know two languages if he means to woo, and a third if he would hear what his girl tells her mother about him.

Senator Copeland Flays Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP).—Characterizing the house tariff bill as the "most iniquitous" ever proposed, Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, declared tonight the bill, if enacted as written, will carry the average family to the verge of bankrupty.

He asserted the sugar schedule alone, unles smodified, "will add millions of dollars" to the cost of maintaining the American household; that unles the republicans admit "the large percentage of unemployment that now exists and can hitch the proposal to increase tariff duties to the depression in our industrial life, they are lost."

You buy a monument but once, perhaps, in a life time, so take the time and trouble to find out something of the man who offers to sell you one, and about the kind of a monument he is offering, so that when it comes you will not be disappointed.

A crew of salesmen are working our plains counry, claimiing to have the only perfect granite for monuments, claiming also that they have the only process for eliminating iron from granite—They first grind up the granite, then run a powerful magnet through it which takes out the iron, then they stick it back together by a secret process that makes it harder and better than ever, according to them hey have the finest material for monuments, and at a price less than the local monument dealer charges.

The same results of course can be had by using clean river sand, and portland cement, and a first class carpenter can make the forms in which these concrete monuments are molded. School Teaching In Mexico Wasn't So Bad During Revolution, Visitor Here Declares; Relates Amusing Incidents

By MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

It wasn't such a bad thing to be a school teacher in Old Mexico during the late revolution, according to Miss Attie Jowell. "Especially," she adds, "if you were an American school teacher."

Miss Jowell, who has been visiting friends in the city, for the past week, taught at the Colegio Palmore in Chihuahua City last year. The school includes everything from kindergarten work through commercial studies. Miss Jowell taught in one of the English departments.

Conducted In English

She explained that in these departments every lesson is conducted in English and Spanish is taught as one of the languages.

"We had been hearing rumors of firing to the north and east long before we were brought forcibly to realise that there was a revolution in progression," said the young teacher. She explained that Chihuahua was one of the last states to go into the revolution and went in a rebel state partly because of its peculiar situation. With most of the surrounding states on the federal side the people of Chihuahua knew that if they allied with federal forces their main city, Chihuahua, would be the battle ground for the two sides.

Never Alarming

The situation at Chihuahua was never alarming, according to Miss Jowell, because the armies never came nearer than within sixty miles of the city.

A time was told of when a famous bandit leader came through the city with some two or three hundred men, and when news of his approach was heard all of the money and girls of the city were hidden. The bandits passed through without harming anyone.

The impossibility to secure fresh fruit was one of the first inconveniences, Miss Jowell said, and for a period of six weeks no mail was delivered. The American consul would take letters with him when he made trips to El Paso and sometimes the rebel generals mailed out going epistles.

Radios Used

Cut off from the United States and with no papers coming from the interior of Mexico their source of news was from the radios. Mexico City sent reports from the Federal troops and news from the north was favorable to the rebels so the neutrals were left to guess at a happy medium.

A very amusing incident was told of concerning the automobiles of the citizens of Chihuahua. When the rebel generals made the city their headquarters most of the cars disappeared from sight and the people went around in ancient vehicles drawn by shabby horses. One American was sent word by a general through an orderly that his car was needed. He send back word that the general could call in person. When the general did call and informed the American that he needed his car the American said, "I'll take you where you want to go, but by George you're not going to get my car to drive."

Money Scarce.

When the revolution approached Chihuahua many of the banks closed their doors and money was scarce. Even this handicap did not seem to worry the Mexicans, the American declared, because they explained that "it is a sin to be sad and 'manana' we will have our money back once more." Miss Jowell had only thirteen cents in change when the banks closed and was forced to borrow money from friends until they reopened some six weeks later.

According to the teacher the Mexicans may be divided into four classes: the aristocrats, middle class, peons, and Indians. The last class are very poor, according to Miss Jowell, and many of them live in the mountains. Rebel troops would enlist their services for one peso a day and the Indians would come hurrying across the mesas as fast as their burros would bring them. They were clad in the most ridiculous garbe and knowing nothing of warfare were unmercifully slaughtered.

Although they were not frightened by the revolution at their backdoor, nevertheless, when the fighting was over and troops marched through town playing their military airs it was good to hear them, the young woman said, and the Mexicans were glad that peace was in order for a while at any rate.

Gossip Is Cure

Talk Aids Disabled Soliders Recover

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP).—Current chat ranks as a recognized curative where disabled veterans ply their tools in in the occupational therapy wards of Walter Reed Hospital.

Far from discouraging gossipy sessions on the banning of liquor in the British embassy or the social status of Mrs. Edward E. Gann, the white-capped nurses welcome such displays of normal human interest.

The new size currency and the last raided still link the wheel-chair clan with the world at large and add their bit to the healing process.

Such is the psychology underlying the present perceptible wave of brightness in Walter Reed wards, as interpreted by Miss Alberta Montgomery, in charge of ocupational therapy.

The veterans were so interested in the new currency they toled leather bill folds to size lon bgefore the money reached the circulation point.

By Their Magazines You Know Them

Magazine Dealers Learn To Judge Readers By Their Appearance; Summer Is Slack Reading Season

Undoubtedly, magazines express character and personality—just as do the authors who contribute to their columns—or, just as do the masses of humanity who make up their reading audiences, so thinks Lubbock magazine dealers.

The "printed word" which includes both the newspaper and the magazine world, has the largest field possible in which to serve the reading public, and according to local newsdealers, Lubbock is no exception in patronising these magazine emporiums.

According to this certain dealer, he can tell the type of magazine wanted by his customer, almost before he speaks, such has been his close study of the various magazines which he daily has handled for years—together, with the different types of human nature with which he has had to deal, continuously.

Magazines Tell

If, however, it be true that, "By Their Magazines Ye Shall Know Them," it behooves the most of us to look well to the class of magazine we buy and read—else, we stand in danger of being classed as "cheap skates."

"It's hard for me to judge the type of magazine wanted by a customer, as I'm hardly an adept yet in character reading," explained Earl E. Woodson, manager of the A. E. F. Newsstand and the Snappy Shine Newsstand. These stands now have on their racks approximately 360 different magazines and as many as 13 different daily newspapers. While as high as 380 different magazines have been carried by his firms, said Mr. Woodson, who further explained by way of parenthesis, that the A. E. F. stands for "American Expeditionary Forces."

Youth Wants Adventure

"As to the types of magazines bought mostly by the younger set, it's such magazines as Western Stories, Aviation Stories, Love Stories and the like. While we sell more True Stories to adults. And often sell them to the old 'gray heads.' Boys buy mainly aviation stories and those of adventure, battle or war."

During the spring and summer months, sales of papers and magazines fall off appreciably, declared Mr. Woodson, "as compared to the late fall and winter sales. The season being of course, that at this season of the year the weather is rather more disagreeable out and and the nights are much longer for reading. At this time of the year, however, the weather is warm and people want to get out in the evenings for a drive or other amusement—and, consequently summer reading goes a 'beggin'."

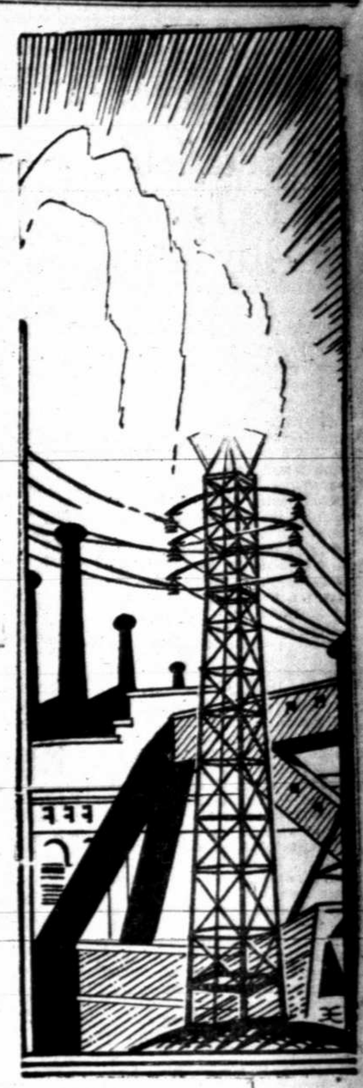

Five Cents Popular

Among the lines of magazines handled at the A. E. F. and the Snappy Shine Shop, and others are various women's magazines, including fashion and household publications, Physical Culture and Psychology, Health, Automobile Digest, Childrens' Maganizes and magazines on every branch of aviation; business magazines, scientific and trade magazines, dance magazines, beauty magazines, and many others including magazines on farming, sports, and all such. Among the best sellers in the weekly 5c sellers, are Collier's and Liberty, while in the higher priced magazines the American, Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping and True Stories — are the leading quartet!" said Mr. Woodson. "And since coming here ten months ago, I have only sold one Beauty Secrets magazine, one magazine on Bridge Illustrated, and one Better English magazine."

Declaring that his big sellers are mainly among the McFadden publications, H. H. Crabb, proprietor of the Hotel Lubbock Newsstand, said that for the monthly magazines the American and Cosmopolitan lead the list, while among the weeklies he sells more Liberties! "That, perhaps, is because we can't get enough Saturday Evening Posts," said Mr. Crabb.

Interscholastic League To Have Change In Rules

Age Limit Of Students To Be Raised; New Contests To Be Esablished For County Meets

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

AUSTIN, July 20—Several changes will be included in the new edition of the Constitution and Rules of the University of Texas Interscholastic League, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the League Bureau.

Some of these changes were recommended to the State Executive Committee by the last state meeting delegates. They include raising the age limit for juniors from fourteen to fifteen years. The new schedule of ages for the three divisions in League contests will therefore be: Sub-juniors, under 10; juniors, 10 to 15; seniors, more than 15 and less than 20. Another change recommended by the last state meeting requires bi-district eliminations in all four divisions in tennis before contestants may be qualified for the state meet. Definite provision to be included in the debating rules for disqualifying a team, either member of which exceeds the time limits set forth in the rules, and installation of a high school baseball contest on the same general lines now in force for determining reginoal championships in Class B football are other changes recommended to the State Executive Committee.

Two changes originating with the State Committee to meet urgent demands from school-members provide for installation of a new contest for county meets in art memory along the lines now in use in determining county contests in music memory and for installation of regional contests in still life in charcoal, still life in color and clay modeling for qualification to the state meet in these events.

Need For Criminal Court And Jail Building Seen Here

Approval Of Federal Building Site By Legislature Calls For Removal Of Present Building Within Near Future

Space In Old Jail Proving Inadequate To Care For Needs Of County; Modern Unit Is Needed

With the announcement that the Texas legislature has approved the bill authorizing the sale of site in Lubbock to the United States government for a federal building in this city, the question has arisen regarding the poignant need for a new criminal court and jail building for Lubbock county.

The problem has been one of puzzling magnitude for some time but now seemingly has come to a head where some action must be taken, according to county officials. County officers are at present so crowded that efficient work is cut to a decided minimum and the sorry condition of the Lubbock county jail casts reflections upon the city and the whole section.

Needs New Jail.

"Lubbock county is badly in need of a new jail and criminal court building," said County Judge Robert H. Bean. "It seems to me that this problem is one of the greatest that is facing this county today. The courthouse is so crowded that certain departments have been shoved into the city hall. Two entrances to the building are blocked and are being used for offices. There is no adequate gran jury room, sleeping quarters for juries are practically nil and there is a decided need for jail room. A modern jail building would greatly relieve the congestion which now exists and give county officers the room they need in which to carry on their work."

"The Lubbock county jail is an old model structure in a new model town," Jailer Will Earnest stated. "We have no modern conveniences with which to work and the place as it is now situated is hard indeed to keep clean and in a sanitary condition. At times it has been necessary for me to almost shove my way in among the prisoners. The cells in the jail are built for the accommodation of one person only with a single bed. There have been many times when we have had to place three in a single cell, two in the bunk and one on the floor. A new building should be constructed wherein bath accommodation would be convenient to everyone at all times. The old building is entirely inadequate and we are forced to shift the prisoners about in order for them to have access to the bathroom."

Room Is Inadequate.

Sheriff Wade Hardy, in speaking of the condition now existing, stated that the present room available is only about half what is required. "The capacity of the building is 28" he said. "There have been times when we have crowded from 50 to 60 in there at one time. During the present year about 500 prisoners have been lodged, an average of almost three new ones daily. At one time there were 48 being held. This condition in some way must be remedied and the erection of a new and modern building seems to be the only recourse."

A first-hand investigation of the present bastile fully convinces one that in the rush of progress Lubbock county has forgotten a main issue, that the place of habitation of some 1,000 transient or regular citizens yearly is entirely out of date and modern ways and means of caring for the criminal contingent of this city have been neglected.

The newest prisons, and it is a decided fact that this is the kind Lubbock needs, have an elevator opening in close proximity to the court room, the sheriff's office and the run around of the lock-up. Many instances have been recorded where prisoners have made successful breaks while being taken from the court room to the jail.

In the present structure prisoners of all classes and races thrown together regardless of the efforts of county officials to keep them separated. Separate wards should be constructed so that women and men can be segregated. Negroes, Mexicans, whites and others should be shut off from each other. Juvenile wards are needed as are wards for hospital purposes. None of these can be found. The "bull pen" will accommodate only a few and space for at least 28 or 30 is needed.

Officials are of the opinion that the new building should be of three floors with accommodations for prisoners on the two top floors. Feundations for the structure should be of sufficient strength and durability to allow the addition of extra stories when the demand is seen.

There are two ways in which Lubbock county may see this almost criminal condition remedied. The county may issue warrants for the construction of the building and the voters will not have to be consulted. This plan, however, would cost much more than would the voting of bonds for the purpose. Officials state that they are practically certain the present tax rate for court house and jail purposes would pay the indebtedness with any raise in taxes.

Gilda Gray Likes New Viking Eight

Gilda Gray, who has won fame and fortune with her many dance vibrations expresses keen admiration for the quiet smoothness of the new Viking, 90 degree, V-type eight cylinder automobile. Just another circumstance of opposite types proving attractive.

"It's a thrill to drive the new Viking," says Gilda. "After a strenuous performance it is a treat to take the wheel of a car that is so restful to drive. Not an effort is required—something which any car owner can appreciate."

Many Factors Figure

Many factors enter into making the Viking a smoth, quiet and easily handled car, according to the Oldsmobile-Viking engineers who designed this new General Motors product.

The new 90 degree-V-type eight sylinder engine contributes materially to smoothness and quietness. There is a power stroke at each quarter-turn of the crankshaft, making a constant overlapping flow of power and smoothness of operation. The short crankshaft used in the V-type engine reduces the possibility of vibration to a minimum, owing to its shortness and heavy construction as well as perfect balance.

"Woolaroc" To Be Museum Exhibit

Assurance that one of the most important airplanes figuring in American air history wil lbe preserved and kept in this country was given today Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum company, this morning announced that "Woolaroc" (woods-lakes-rocks), the airplane which Art Goebel flew from Oakland, California, to Honolulu on August 17, 1927 to win the Dole $25,000 prize, is to become a museum piece.

Mr Phillips is building a hangar on his 3,000 acre ranch at Bartlesville, Oklahoma, to house the airplane and keep it there permanently for future generations to study. The plane will join a collection of important historical pieces equalled in few places in this country.

Only Few Crossed

Two years ago the "Woolaroc" set off from Oakland, California and reached Wheeler Field, Honolulu, in 26 hours, 17 minutes and 33 seconds. Some of the group of planes that took off that morning were never heard from again. Only a few made the crossing successfully.

Goebel landel in Honolulu and was very surprised to hear that he was the winner. For three days thereafter he kept his plane tuned up, begging the United States Navy for orders to go out to seek missing planes. His instructions were, however, merely to stand by.

Graham Paige Sets Production Record

DETROIT, July 20.—Graham-Paige set a new quarterly production record in the three months ending June 30, and also completed the first six months of 1929 with a total exceeding any previous half year. In addition, the overseas and Canadian shipments for six months not only set new records, but even exceeded the totals for all twelve months of last year.

The second quarter's total production was 29,214 cars, surpassing the previous high record of 26,741, made in the third quarter of last year.

For the first half of 1929, the production total is 54,498 cars, a gain of 15,159 more than 40 per cent, over the first six months of last year. Monthly production thus was averaged over 9000 cars. The 50,000th 1929 model was built June 7.

Shipments to export points in six months total 7313, exceeding by 17 per cent the twelve months' record for 1928. The latest official summary of automobile exports, all makes included, shows that Graham-Paige has risen from twelfth place to seventh this year. To Canada, shipments for six months this year total 3611, as against the entire year's total of 3480 in 1928.

Nash Anniversary Reveals Triumphs

Famous "400" Series Ends First Year With Greatest Sales Record In History Of Nash Motor Company

KENOSHA, Wis., July 20.—Rounding out one of the most spectacular triumphs in the history of automobile making, the famous "400" series Nash cars, which were introduced on June 21, 1928, have completed their first anniversary of public service with a sales record greater by thousands of cars than the sales of any previous twelve months on the books of the Nash Motors company.

C. H. Bliss, general sales manager, in footing up factory sales totals from June 21, 1928, to June 20, 1929—The period in which the popular "400's" have completer their production and sales anniversary—found today that 168,269 of these new type cars were shipped from the Nash factories.

Record Established.

This record does not consider the usual fiscal year, but takes the new series through their first birthday with a total of 32,748 units over and above the totals shipped in the best previous twelve months of Nash manufacturing.

The biggest twelve months experienced by Nash previous to the advent of the "400's" came in 1926, when 135,521 Nash cars were shipped from the factories. In the year 1928, half of which was devoted to the manufacture of the new series, a total of 138,138 units weer shipped.

New Dictator Six To Be On Display In City This Week

The new Dictator Six, selling at the lowest price ever placed on a Studebaker closed car, will be on display for the first time in Lubbock tomorrow at the showrooms of the Gough Motor company, C. E. Gough, president of the concern announced yesterday.

Announcement of the Dictator Six by the Studebaker Corporation of America closely follows the introduction early in June of the new Dictator Eight.

"The new Dictator offers the brilliant performance characteristic of Studebaker engineering and the roomy comfort of liberally dimensioned bodies mounted on a 115-inch wheelbase. The six body models are offered at prices never before dreamed of in Studebaker history," said Mr. Gough.

With its smart appearance, yet thrifty performance, the new Dictator Six is a notable addition to Studebaker's family of championship cars.

Sidewalk Furnishes Interesting View

Reporter Finds Stream Of Characters Passing In Big Review On Street Corners Of Lubbock

A sidewalk review from a corner of Broadway and Avenue J:

A little girl of about 12 or 13 years made up like a chorus girl. Her hair was an unnatural blond, and her lips a vivid red. She wore sandals, ankle socks and her dress was of the suntan variety, cut extremely low in the back and well above her knees.

Next came two little boys in overalls with a sack of popcorn. They were probably brothers, for the smaller was trying to get the other to give him more popcorn. But the older boy, evidently feeling his superiority, was explaining to the little fellow that too much "junk" was not good for small boys.

Man From Magazine.

Across the street there was an unusual figure. He was slouched against a lamp post and looked like a page from a movie magazine with his large felt hat, bright purple shirt with large white buttons, and fancy boots. He was making eyes at a little flapper waiting for the light to change and looked like the famed "drug store cowboy."

And there was the usual stream of yo-yoers. About every third person was bouncing a bright colored top on a string.

Scales Tempt Lady.

There were some scales in front of a nearby store. A large lady in a bright green dress and an orchid hat hesitated and looked about for a possible acquaintance and seeing none stepped up on the scales. The indicator spun around once, twice and half way round again. Two hundred and fifty pounds! No wonder she looked for friends.

Then there were two men who were very good friends, at least from their greetings. They immediately launched upon a discussion of the people who have their names in the ring for governor. The argument was long and heated and they parted in not so good terms as when they met.

Despises Fate.

Across the street on another corner was a man sitting on the sidewalk with his crutches besides him, and a collection of pencils and chewing gum in front of him. There was a look of proud resignation upon his face and it seemed that he must despise the fate that forced him to depend upon charity and the generosity of his fellows for a livelihood.

There was a typical old-style rancher and his wife. He was rotund and red-cheeked and was smoking a corncob pipe. Years in the saddle had bowed his legs and a like number of years in the sun and wind had turned his face bronze. His wife was small and capable looking with twinkling dark eyes.

There were three barefoot boys with their bathing suits, lunch baskets and bait can. There was a tired bus driver, a Mexican and his wife with a black veil over her head, and a very self-conscious boy whose shoes squeaked startlingly with every step.

A car parked at the curb. Two well dressed ladies ordered drinks. Then they entered an exclusive dress shop because they "just had to have a new dress for that bridge party Friday."

Not a single familiar soul passes. And to think that the past 10 years have been spent in Lubbock and only strangers pass in the sidewalk review.

Prosperity In Car Business Expected

W. R. Trace, Vice-President In Charge Of Sales For Oakland Motor Company, Optomistic For Future

PONTIAC Mich., July 20.—Healthy prosperity for the automotive industry during the balance of the year is anticipated by W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car company, who stated today that from a mid-year perspective the outlook for the next six months of 1929 promised a substantial gain over the same period last year.

From information supplied him by several hundred field representatives quartered in all sections of the United States, Mr. Tracy declared that conditions are generally more stabilized than in 1928, when a new high output record was set in the automobile industry, and that people everywhere seem content with the present order of things and confident that America's unprecedented prosperity will be maintained for an indefinite period.

Buying Attitude Seen

"Coupled with the favorable psychological attitude, which means a 'buying' attitude, are basic business barometers pointing the way to another record year," Mr. Tracy declared. "Savings deposits are at a record high; construction is forging ahead unabated; extensive highway construction programs are opening up new outlets for cars and adding to their utility; cattle, hogs and corn are bringing excellent prices; cotton faces a satisfactory year and the farmer, particularly in view of recent favorable congressional action, will absorb cars in greater volume than a year ago.

Olds Assemble Is Ordered Increased

"Increase the speed of the assembly line 10 per cent starting Monday morning."

That and similar orders have been issued numerous times this year at the Oldsmobile-Viking factories to increase production as the demand for these automobiles continued to grow larger. How these orders are carried out, however, is one of the efficiency systems which has made the automotive industry the wonder of the industrial world.

Assembly Rushed

At least four major assembly lines and hundreds of feeder lines must be stepped up to increase the production of either Oldsmobiles or Vikings. These four major lines are those on which are assembled axles, engines, bodies and the complete automobile. The feeder lines consist of those short lines which manufacture the various parts that go into the making of an Oldsmobile Six or a Viking Eight. These parts vary from little valve guide split nuts to the large engine cylinder blocks or body fenders.

In the modern Oldsmobile-Viking factories all of these small lines are machined and manned to conform in manufacturing speed with that of the four major assembly lines. In this way every part is completed and given final inspection at its allotted place on the required assembly line at a rate that insures a steady supply of these parts as the assembly progresses.

New Bridge Opens Picturesque Pacific Coast Route To Tourists; Highway Costs Fifteen Million Dollars

Representative of the scenery along the Redwood Highway in California is this rocky coast scene on the Pacific.

By NEA Service

PORTLAND, Ore., July 20.—California has taken all the detours, hub-deep ruts, and unpleasant controlled sections out of the Redwood highway during the past year and with the recent dedication of the Smith River bridge eight miles northeast of Crescent City, presents to the tourist world one of the true scenic highways of the west, a highway costing $15,000,000.

For 430 miles, from Sausalito, across the bay from San Francisco, in the south, to Grants Pass, Oregon, in the north, the Redwood highway is now California's second great north-and-south primary motor route to the Pacific Northwest. The highway gains its name from groves of magnificent redwood trees in the Eel River valley and along the coastal streams of Humboldt and Del Norte counties. In many places, however, the road winds around precipitous headlands facing the Pacific.

At Crescent City, the Redwood highway veers to the east and crosses the Siskiyu mountains to the Rogue river valley of southern Oregon where it joins the Pacific Highway at Grants Pass. At the Crescent City however, another fine coast highway begins. The Roosevelt Coast highway, which is completed northward for 195 miles through Gold Beach and Marshfield to Reedsport, Oregon, where the Umpqua highway leads to the east up the Umpqua river canyon to Drain on the Pacific Highway. Grandeur of scenery is nowhere more startling than on the highlands south of Gold Beach.

Both the Redwood and Roosevelt highways are macadamized their full extent and have come under the motorist's clasification of "fast roads." In fact, travelers between San Francisco and Portland frequently find the Redwood Highway requires less time than the Pacific Highway over which the bulk of the north-and-south travel has gone in former years.

Marquette Power Proven In Tests

Results of performance tests on the Marquette announced by the factory when the car was presented to the public have been proven true in many parts of the country during the past few weeks—but it remained for two Texans to demonstrate that the Marquette is not only fast and powerful—but that it also has the qualities of an amphibian.

A South Texas flood recently covered the roads out of San Antonio to Victoria under water of varying depth. On some stretches where the drainage was better, the roads thrust their muddy deep surfaces a few inches above the surrounding water. Highway travel was paralyzed.

Roads Unused

In fact, the roads had been unused for a week, when T. M. Scott, Buick dealer at Victoria, Texas arrived by train in San Antonio with a member of his sales staff, to get delivery of two new Marquettes.

Mr. Scott was advised not to attempt the trip through the flood area, but the cars were needed in Victoria and, discounting the fears of other motorists, he piloted the cars out on the flood drenched roads.

At times the water was so deep that it washed through the floor boards, for miles the hub caps were nearly submerged, but the Marquettes pushed on through. Detours were numerous. At frequent intervals the party passed other cars along the one hundred and fifty mile drive stranded in the swirling muddy waters of the over-flowing Guadalupe river.

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hunting in Hungary is at low ebb as a direct result of the unprecedented cold and storms of last winter. Birds, deer and other game perished in the preserves or driven out by cold and hunger, fell easy prey to peasants in the villages. Yet Count Stephen Bethlen, prime minister, bagged 375 birds on one spring shooting excursion.

Studebakers Take Elks On Journey

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 20.—Four Studebaker President Eight Roadsters and their drivers, good wil clouriers of the Elks National lodge arived in Los Angeles Monday on the completion of a nation-wide tour which took them across the country from New York by four diferent routes. The drivers of the four purple and white cars were greeted in front of the Los Angeles Elks Temple by Mayor John C. Porter of Los Angeles, Honorable Murray Hulbert, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks Lodge, and hundreds of lodge members assembled for the Grand Lodge convention.

The transcontinental trips which started from the New York city hall May 11, were undertaken to supply information on the national convention to all Elk lodges, and to promote more intimate contact with the various lodges throughout the country.

Given Big Welcome

Amid the rousing welcome accorded the four cars on arival Robert E. Clift, pilot of Car Number 1, presented leters from Mayor Jimmie Walker of New York to Mayor Porter and Mr. Hulbert. Drivers of the other cars were George L. Algers, John H. Hamilton, and William Cunningham. All were enthusiastic about the performance of the four Studebakers throughout the trips.

Dependability Of Roosevelt Proven

The world's record automotive non-stop endurance run of 440 hours and 30 minutes established by a Roosevelt straight-eight on the Indianapolis Speedway is equivalent as far as time is concerned, to an average of slightly more than one hour and twelve minutes of driving each day during an entire year.

For a year 'round average, and hour and twelve minutes a day is slightly bettre than the driving of and everyday automobile owner.

Proof Given

The record-breaking Roosevelt test, therefore, offers conclusive proof not only of the advantages of the straight-eight type of engine, but of the stamina and dependability of the Roosevelt car itself, according to Thomas E. Jarrard, general sales director of the Marmon Motor Car company.

During the entire eighteen days, eight hours and 30 minutes of the run, neither the engine of the Roosevelt nor the car itself stopped for any reason, gasoline, oil and water being replenished while in motion from a "mother" car. It was impossible, of course, to make major repairs or adjustments since the car was constantly in motion under its own power.

LIVERPOOL, July 20.—Probably the most expensive airplane ever constructed was recently built in this country. It has a ceiling hand decorated, that cost $5,000. Accommodations are for eight passengers and include a lounge and bridge tables, electric kitchen and electric refrigerator. The total cost of the plane was $150,000.

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—North Keisho province, a large district in southeastern Korea, is facing the possibility of serious famine. There was a prolonged drought this year and crops which survived that trial were wiped out by violent hail storms. The Korean government is preparing relief for 200,000 persons.

Special Routes For Slow Motorists

Rhode Island Highways Becoming So Congested That State Foresees Likelihood Of Slow Detours

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 20 (AP).—Trunk roads in Rhode Island are becoming so congested that it is a matter of time before the state will have to detour to second or third grade roads the driver who insists on operating his car slowly, Harold R. Shippee, chief inspector of the state board of public roads, forecasts.

Motoring problems that are not yet acute elsewhere have reached a serious point in this most thickly settled state with its average of more than 544 persons to the square mile.

Re-Routing Seen

Comparing the slow driver to the accommodation train which always has had to take a siding for express trains, Mr. Shippee says the situation here is developing rapidly to the point where theer will have to be a right of way for express auto transportation. This will necessarily mean a re-routing of slow-driven machine, he says.

Using one highway as an example, Mr. Shippee points out that 35 miles an hour is perfectly satisfactory speed if the way is clear, whereas at other times five miles an hour might be reckless. A safe speed, he says, is one at which the driver is able to stop "within the know clear space ahead."

The official asserts that it is the inattentive fast driver operating across inter-sections who causes more than 70 per cent of Rhode Island's automobile accidents.

The original longhand draft of the Declaration of Independence, as written by Thomas Jefferson, is in the possession of the American Philosophical Society.

REVOLUTIONARY IN 1924—STILL MORE SO TODAY

"It was inevitable that Chrysler should attract a degree of scientific interest accorded no other car in the past fifteen years. + Engineers, naturally, were first to appreciate that Chrysler, while adhering strictly to soundest principles of design, is a distinct departure from previous motor car practice and performance. + They recognize in Chrysler an advance in automobile engineering as revolutionary as the development of the X-ray in medicine."

HOW HAS CHRYSLER DONE IT?

When an unknown motor car sets out—as Chrysler did—to grasp the leadership of a great industry, and with the speed of a meteor, sweeps to a foremost position in popularity and sales, it must possess extraordinary quality and ability.

When the first Chrysler car was placed on exhibition five years ago, the whole industry looked in amazement at what Walter P. Chrysler had accomplished. Within four years, Chrysler had leaped to third place in the industry.

How has Chrysler done it? What is the secret of this success? Simply that Chrysler gave in the beginning—each year since has given increasingly—and today gives in still greater measure—not only a finer grade of basic quality but a higher order of performance, beauty, style, power, acceleration, safety, comfort—all at most reasonable prices.

Such sweeping success must prove inevitably to the buyer of a Chrysler car today that he can count on the most advanced, the soundest, the safest and the most satisfying motor transportation his money can command. Let us prove these facts in a demonstration.

Here are the facts

that prove it America's finest medium-priced automobile

Below are typical examples of facts drawn from a comparison of the Oakland All-American Six with 20 leading cars in its field. Study these facts—then come to our showroom for additional information. We can give you dozens of other comparisons as further proof of Oakland's unrivaled value. And these are facts which prove the Oakland All-American to be America's finest medium-priced automobile.

What these features mean to you		How Oakland compares with the field
Large piston displacement is needed to develop high power at moderate engine speed. Moderate engine speed is an important factor in the life of a car.	PISTON DISPLACEMENT	Only one car as low-priced as Oakland surpasses Oakland's piston displacement of 228 cubic inches. Twelve cars in the field have less displacement, and five of the 12 are higher-priced than Oakland.
No name in automobile coach building means so much as Fisher. Fisher bodies are famous for style, luxury and roominess. In addition, they hold such advantages as sturdy composite hardwood and steel construction, VV windshield, side cowl ventilation and adjustable drivers' seats.	FISHER BODY	Only Oakland and two other cars in the field offer bodies by Fisher. And one of the two is nearly $100 higher in price than Oakland. Of the 18 cars which have less-known bodies, 11 are priced above the All-American Six.
Reasonably long wheelbase gives greater riding ease and road balance. Also permits use of longer, smarter, roomier bodies. At the same time, a small turning circle is essential to handling ease.	WHEELBASE	Only one car as low-priced as Oakland has a wheelbase as long as Oakland's, which is 117 inches. That car requires a turning circle to the left of 42 feet as compared with Oakland's 36 feet. Six higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.
For safety, efficiency, convenience, smoothness and silence nothing has been found to compare with internal-expanding mechanical 4-wheel service brakes with non-squeak bands. An entirely separate emergency braking system is needed as an extra safety factor.	BRAKES	Only Oakland and one other car, costing $200 more, use the fine type of brakes described opposite. And no car in the field equals Oakland's 290 square inches of brake band area. Oakland's separate emergency brake operates on the transmission. Seven cars in the field have no separate emergency brakes, although three of them exceed Oakland in price.

Oakland All-American Six, $1145 to $1375, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Spring covers and Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers and rear fender guards extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for handling and for financing when the G. M. A. C. Time Payment Plan is used.

Chevrolet Sales Reflect Demands

Ever-Widening Appeal Of Low Priced Six Cylinder Cars Shown By Production Record of Company

DETROIT, July 20.—Reflecting the ever-widening appeal of the low priced six cylinder automobile, the Chevrolet Motor company, on July first, had produced 845,469 six cylinder cars. June was a heavy contributor to the achievement. Output for the month was 151,297 cars and trucks—nearly 20,000 units greater than the best previous June on record.

Commenting on the succession of records that Chevrolet has been establishing since the introduction of the new six January frist, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, explained that from a manufacturing standpoint Chevolet was ot constantly aiming at new records—that production is governed at all times by demand. "Record public acceptance of the new six," he said, "has made necessary record performance on the part of our sixteen factories. The automobile buying public has been the dictator of our manufacturing pace.

Gratified At Demand

"Naturally, we are gratified to see the steadily increasing demand for the product. It is a tribute to the vision of our engineering staff that worked for four years to design and perfect the new six cylinder valve-in-head motor.

"Great credit is due the manufacturing division which has worked unceasingly to accomodate the demand and in so doing has been responsible for achievements that have made industrial history in the production of the new Chefrolet six.

"This is all the more remarkable when it is considered that volume production on Chevrolet's scale must be accompanied by exact precision manufacturing so that waste will be eliminated and so that production lines will not be held up as a result of having to replace a part because of defective materials or workmanship."

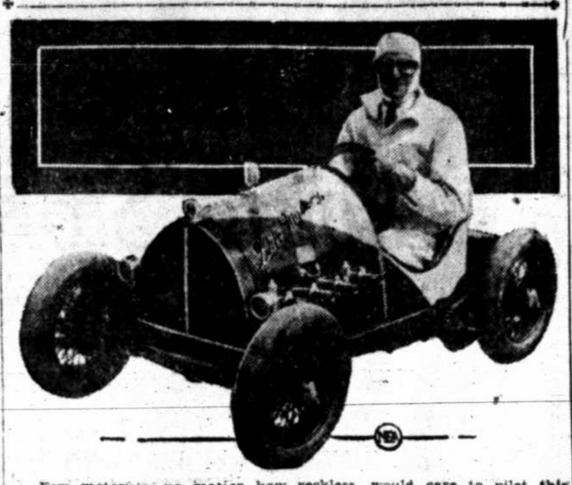

Spanish Trail To Be Made Beautiful

SAN ANTONIO, July 20 (AP).—The task of making the Old Spanish Trail one of the south's most beautiful highways wil be undertaken this year.

Already the western Texas division of this highway's national organization has planted 10,000 trees eastward from El Paso. It is planned to make the whole road a tree-lined boulevard, from St. Augustine Fla., to the Pacific coast.

A section of the highway out of San Antonio has led one phase of the beautification program by having all fences set back 100 feet from the road. Many structures along the road follow the old Spanish type of architecture.

Midget Car Breaks Record

Few motorists, no matter how reckless, would care to pilot this midget car at better than 917 miles an hour. Kenneth L. Morehouse, of Detroit, recently drove it that fast to gain the world's speed record for cars under 1000 pounds. He built it himself. It has dual ignition for a four-cylinder motor, is equipped with fourwheel brakes, four front and two reverse speeds and weighs only 625 pounds. It is 24 inches high, has a 52-inch wheel base and is air cooled.

Pertinent Facts About Automobiles By Israel Klein, Science Editor For NEA Service

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

The oil pressure gauge on the dash is one of the most important instruments in the automobile, yet it can be highly deceptive. In the summer especially when the temperature is high and long drives are made at high speeds, this gauge can hardly be accepted for what it shows.

Yet it is just at this time and under such high temperature, high speed conditions, that particular heed should be taken of the oil in the crankcase. The oil runs low more quickly than in winter and it needs replenishing more often.

Of course it is essential that the proper pressure be maintained by the oil pump. But what the gauge shows in summer doesn't necessarily point to the exact pressure maintained in the oiling system.

For instance, the oil might have been changed and a high quality oil used, yet the gauge may show a low pressure. The cause is that the high temperature reduces the viscosity of the oil so that it flows through the pump rather easily. Since the oil pressure on the dash merely shows the force being used to pump the oil through to the bearings, and since less force is needed when the oil has been thinned out by the high temperature of the engine, the motorist might be misled by the gauge. But the oil can be operating just as effectively as ever, nevertheless.

Even with less pressure shown on the gauge, the engine might have a more abundant supply of oil than under cooler conditions which show higher pressure. The reason is that the thinned oil flows so easily through the pump and oiling system that less of it escapes through the relief valve and a greater amount of it is left for actual lubrication.

Motorists appraised of this fact, however, should be particularly aware of the dangers that might arise from neglect of this knowledge. Sitting back contentedly in the belief that the low pressure shown on the gauge doesn't mean anything in this hot weather is no consolation to the motorist who neglects his engine for that reason. On the contrary, it should keep him ever on the alert against a further drop in the oil pressure and should remind him of the necessity of the necessity of checking his oil more often.

The oil gauge should be watched, even with the pressure showing below that of winter pressure, for any further drop may mean clogging of the crankshaft drillings, or worn pumps, or loose bearings, or weak relief valve springs, or one of a dozen other troubles in the oiling system, let alone a reduced supply of lubricant.

The motorist should have his oil tested every time he drives into a gasoline service station for fuel. It costs nothing and is a preventive measure against costly and time-consuming trouble.

The amount of oil recommended for the particular car in use should be maintained at all time. No more should be poured into the crankcase, for that will cause almost as much difficulty as the lack of sufficient oil. And if you find yourself using more oil than has been required in winter, do not blame this on the motor—blame it on the hot weather and your increased driving speed.

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The contest board of the American Automobile association, which governs racing in America, is a busy body. There are 38 tracks in 18 states to be supervised. This year's schedule calls for 177 races. There are 37 drivers of national repute who take part in championship events, and 346 other drivers licensed by he A. A. A. who participate in other contests over the country.

Endurance Flight Value Is Sought

First one airplane, then another, has captured the coveted honor of holding the world's endurance flight record, and all the while public interest is held by the glamour of the events and the courage of the pilots rather than by the constructive progress and scientific value of the flights themselves.

The human element in these non-stop tests of the air—the physical stamina of men who stay aloft a week or more—almost has overshadowed their importance and significance to the advancement of airplane engineering, in the opinion of G. W. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car company.

"Many persons have asked me to describe the real good accomplished as a result of an airplane remaining in the air seven days or more," Mr. Williams said. "These people are loud in their praise of the tenacity of the pilots; they sympathize with the men in the hardships they are forced to undergo. Yet, they ask, 'What is really accomplished?'"

Diamonds Used In Hupp Construction

DETROIT, Mich., July 20. — A half hundred stalwart and nearly nude native laborers stagger from the mouth of a great diamond mine in North Africa. They file past the inspection clerk for examination. He feels of their kinky hair to see that none of the precious stones have been hidden away. Fifteen minutes later, having convinced the inspectors that they have concealed none of the precious stones, they pass through the great gates for a few weeks freedom and contact with the outer world.

Quaintly dressed Hollanders, mingling with men of western dress, throng the great diamond marts of Holland. One efficient individual concludes his purchases and departs for America. Ten days later he appears at the manufacturing offices of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation with a special consignment of commercial diamonds.

Stones Aid Standards

Its been a long trip for these semi-precious stones—from Africa to Holland and thence to Detroit. But these stones will aid in building a motor car to unusually rigid standards.

Hupmobile makes extensive use of commercial diamonds to provide Hupmobile owners with a guarantee of long and economical service. These stones are the cutting edges that drill the connecting rod bearings of all six and eight cylinder engines.

HORSE QUERY

ASHVILLE, N. C. (AP).—Ashville police have brought in a riderless bay horse in whose saddle bags were several gallons of liquor. Some doubt exists as to whether the horse can be charged with violating the dry laws. And if so, shall the horse be brought into court, or the court move to the stable.

all roads are better roads with De Soto Six

When the Chrysler-built De Soto Six was designed, special emphasis was placed on its easy riding.

Balanced spring suspension, a minimum of unsprung weight, low-hung body, rubber engine mountings and Chrysler-selected hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear, make the De Soto Six the steadiest riding medium-weight motor car on the road today. De Soto Six takes the turns safely at high speeds; does not tend to swing when suddenly slowed down; rides remarkably easily over the roughest surfaces; and at all times gives the impression of being a far larger, heavier and more expensive car.

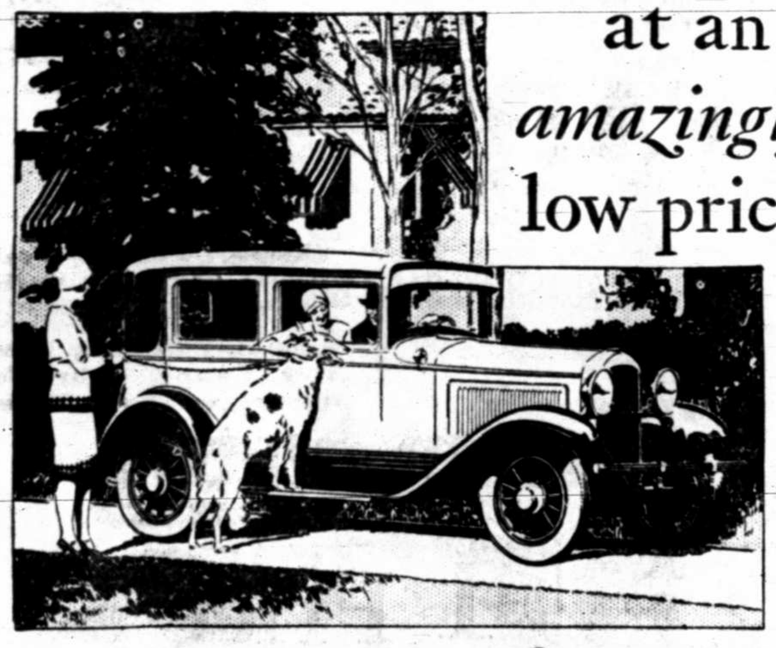

We invite you to make your own comparison. Pick the worst road and step on the gas. For easy-riding qualities alone, apart from other features of remarkable performance, you will find the De Soto Six considerably superior to any other make of car below $1,000.

Pilots Must Keep In Practice Under New Regulations

Stricter Rules To Be Put On Fliers Over Nation: Must Be Familiar With Types Of Planes

WASHINGTON July 20 (AP).—Stricter regulations for airplane pilots go into effect September 1, and after that date fliers must keep in practice if they are to fly more than one type of plane.

Under the new department of commerce regulations a pilot will be licensed to fly for hire one or more of 12 classes of planes upon which he satisfactorily passes flying tests, and the classes will be specified upon his license card. Present holders of transport and limited commercial pilots licenses will be required to take the tests when they apply for semi-annual renewal of the licenses.

Assures Safety

The new requirements will give assurance to air passengers that the flier is qualified to handle the type or class of plane he is flying and has kept in practice on it.

The rules provide that a pilot shal lnot carry pasengers in a class of plane which he has not flown for at least two hours in the previous 90 days, or have had 30 minutes of practice flying including several landings immediately prior to the flight.

Must Have 10 Hours

During the six months' duration of his license, the pilot, to retain the privilege of flying all of the clases of planes for which he is licensed, must have had 10 hours on each. If he has flown less than the required time on any class the privilege to fly that class will be withdrawn until he has passed another test.

There are three general classifications of planes by weight under the new regulations. Those are planes of less than 3,500 pounds gross weight, planes of from 3,500 to 7,000 pounds, and planes of more than 7,000 pounds. Each of these classifications is divided into types —planes with one engine and open cockpit; more than one engine and open cockpit; single motored cabin planes, and multi-motored cabin planes.

The classifications apply to seaplanes and amphibians as well as to land planes.

If a pilot wishes to fly for hire a plane for which he is not licensed he may apply to a department of commerce inspector and be licensed immediately upon passing a flying test to the satisfaction of the inspector.

Through the new regulations, the department of commerce seeks to prevent pilots from carrying passengers and cargo in planes with which they are not familiar and running the risk of accident because of a lack of knowledge of the characteristics of the plane.

Tech Museum Tackles Task Of Linking Together Complete History Of Plains

Dr. W. C. Holden Is Doing Much For Archives

By RAY CULP
Avalanche-Journal Staff

As the episode of the open range is rapidly drawing to a close and the most of the great open ranches are yielding to the plow we see the curtai ndrawn on one of the most romantic and interesting episodes of West Texas history. Historians of the Plains find West Texas history a virgin field for study. The facts of the history of the Plains when the cowboy reigned supreme upon the plains are very plentiful and this part of the history is comparatively easily assembled. Preceding the open range period when the Indians roamed the plains the facts of history are more or less obsecure and the job of linking together a complete history is somewhat more complicated.

Recently the Plains Museum Society was organized and students of advanced history are digging into the obscure past of the Plains and West Texas piecing together a history of the pre-Pueblo and Pueblo periods of the Indians, recording the passing of the Indian before the onrush of the cattleman and then gathering the many interesting stories of industry and adventure that surround the period when the vast domain of virgin grassland was only marked by ranches which each controlled thousands of acres of land and vast herds of cattle roamed the open range at will.

Establish Museum Here

The museum society is composed of West Texas students who are gathering this history, and who have established a museum at Texas Technological college where a vast collection of the relics of the olden days is being assembled. Contributions are being received from all over West Texas from cherished relics of the Indian ruins and of the old ranches, from private collections and from research expeditions which are searching every nook and corner for historical facts.

Among the recent additions to the museum is a very valuable collection of branding irons and other relics of the ranches, and Indian skeletons and implements of livlihood of the red man. Through the efforts of Dr. W. C. Holden, formerly of the department of history of McMurry college, but now a member of the faculty of the history department of Texas Technological college, the museum has ceme into possession of the famous collection of branding irons of Ed Downie who owns a ranch of some 200,000 acres near Sanderson, Texas. This collection consists of about twenty irons from some important ranches of West Texas and most of which belong to the open range period. It includes the "M I L" brand of Henry and Sallie Packenhan, of Terrell county, the "C" brand of N. H. Carder, of Terrell county, the "T E" brand of Ed Counts, of Pecos county, the anchor brand of the Big Canon Ranch company, of Pecos and Terrell counties, the "Y F Bar" of Charles Downie, Sanderson, Texas, the "D Heart" brand of D. Hart of Valverde county, the "P Bar" mrand of the Puritan ranch, Pecos county, the "Bar A" brand of the Anderson ranch, Pecos county, and other brands are the "C L", the "R P", the "G", the "P", the "L H L", the "T 5", the "5", and the "D Bar".

Added Several Irons

Dr. Holden has also added several other irons that do not belong to the Downie collection. Among these are the "Rocking Chair" brand, and the "Spur" brand of the ranch which has been known as the S. M. Swenson ranch since 1907. The S. M. S. brand of the wenson ranch which has bSeen used since 1907 was donated by Clifford B. Jones, of Spur, now manager of the ranch. The Swenson ranch is one of the most important ranches of the Plains country and has a very interesting history. It was first owned by the Espuela Cattle company, an American company, and was organized in about 1878. Then about the year 1835 the ranch was sold to the Espuela Land and Cattle company, Ltd., of London, which acquired over 500,000 acres of grassland in Dickens, Garza, Kent, and Crosby counties. The English concern operated the ranch until 1907, then sold to a company headed by S. M. Swenson and Sons. The Swenson company started putting the agricultural land of the ranch on the market in 1909, and the towns of Spur and Girard were established upon the ranch holdings the same year. The "Spur" brand which was used upon the ranch until the time when the Swenson concern bought control and then the "S. M. S." brand was instituted and has been used since that time, the "Spur" brand coming from the Spanish word "Espuela" meaning Spur.

Jones Is Manager

Charles A. Jones bought the ranch from the Swensons and his son, Clifford B. Jones, of Spur, and chairman of the board of regents of the Texas Technological college, has been manager of the ranch since 1918, when he took the place of his father. The famous "S. M. S." brand is still used on the ranch which has interests in six West Texas counties. The old "Spur" brand being used near Throckmorton in Haskell county. The Swenson ranch has in recent years established a reputation over the United States as the first mail order ranch. Beginning a few years ago the Swenson ranch began to breed purebred Herefords with the old Spanish longhorn cattle which are known for their great hardiness and big bone qualities, and have established a very hardy breed of cattle which is about 99 percent pure. These cattle they sell all over the country by mail order, and shipped them to their buyers.

Other articles added to the museum at Tech include several skeletons of Plains Indians, their implements, and relics of some of the old forts of the West. One of the skeletons was also a gift of Mr. Jones and two others were added by Dr. Holden. None of them are complete, however the skulls are practically complete and enough of the other bones were found to make a scientific study possible. The one given to the museum society by Mr. Jones was found in Kent county and is of a probable primitive Plains type. The skull is very small and the bone is thick which is different from those of the Indians of the Pueblo and the pre-Pueblo periods, and has a small hole drilled through the bone just at the top of the nose, these Indians having a peculiar practice of distorting their own skulls. Another of the skeletons was found in a slabstone ruin on Wolf Creek in the Panhandle, and the skull has been pierced by a tomahawk resulting in the death of the Indian. Dr. Holden found the third skeleton along with many relics while he was on an expedition to the slabstone ruins of the Canadian river last March. The skull of this Indian has been artificially flattened in the back when the Indian probably was very young.

Old Pot Found

A large pot was found with other articles in the Canadian river ruins which is probably of a pre-historic culture which may have existed some 2,000 years ago. The pot was found on the old floor level below sixteen inches of soil, and was crushed into several hundred pieces by the falling walls of a dwelling. The vessel has since been almost completely reconstructed by glueing the pieces together. "It is impossible to calculate the exact date that the vessel was in use," says Dr. Holden, "but it was probably used about the time that Caesar's armies were marching about in Gaul."

The recently added collection also contains a number of Indian artifacts such as scrapers, knives, arrow heads, spear heads, bone awls, flint awls, drills, bone spades, reamers, hammers, stone axes and some fetishes or small idols which the Indians worshiped. Other implements are a number of corn grinders which consist of a metate, a crude sandstone bowl, and a mano, a hard stone that is held in the hand to crush the corn. Some of these matates have been worn completely through by the Indians in grinding the corn for theri crudely baked bread, and were used by the pre-Pueblo Indians of the semi-agricultural Plains tirbes. One of the artifacts, or small stone implements, is a small half moon shaped instrument and very highly ploished, that is considered very valuable as it is the only one known to be in existence, according to Dr. Hough of the Smithsonian Institute.

In the collection from the old forts and the historical Indian campaigns of Texas there is part of a walnut beam from old Fort Phantom Hill in Jones county about which there are legends of General Robert E. Lee's having been there about the year 1851, a damper from the oven of the old bakery at Fort Griffin, and pieces from an old army water wagon. The water wagon was used by the soldiers who were stationed at Fort Griffin, a frontier post, and was used in campaigns against the Indians from 1867 to 1881. About the year 1881 the troops started to Fort Clark on the Rio Grande river near Bracketville and the water wagon broke down on the Lynch ranch about nine or ten miles east of Albany. The commanding officer asked permission of Col. J. C. Lynch, owner of the Lynch ranch to leave the wagon on his ranch and it was left standing under a mulberry tree. Col. Lynch allowed no one to bother the wagon and through the intervening years it has rotted to the ground with only relics being taken from it lately.
