Pictorial proof of the prosperity of the Wichita irrigated valley while the nation generally is parched under prolonged drouth. Views gathered in a brief tour of the valley this week are as follows: (1) Crew on the farm of J. S. Bridwell putting away the third crop of alfalfa for this season, hoisting a dozen bales into the mow at each load. (2) One of the hundreds of thoroughbred Jersey cows which are contributing to the rapid development of dairying as a leading industry in this district. (3) Darso growing on the "Killefered" fields of E. P. Birk, south of Iowa Park. (4) Where it all begins: Water from Diversion lake passing over the spillway just above the gates which deliver water for growing crops on 36,000 acres of land. (5) Swimming without benefit of cashier: This ditch separates the public highway from the front yard of this home. (6) Field corn on the E. P. Birk farm, also aided by deep tillage. (7) The Junior chamber of commerce demonstration farm has gone in for poultry raising. (8) One of the four registered Hampshire rams owned by E. P. Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Governor Moody is reported to have sent a telegram to President Hoover describing drouth conditions in portions of West Texas as "disastrous" and a Texas congressman is reported to have sent a telegram to the president urging him to call a special session of congress to provide drouth relief.

There can be no minimising of drouth conditions not only in West Texas but throughout many states of the Union. The effects of the drouth are greater and more widespread than any drouth in many decades. Communities which never before have called for outside aid are now appealing for help.

There have been stupendous losses from the drouth, but if there have been stupendous losses ours is a country of stupendous resources and we have every right to expect that our government will set machinery in motion for the use of these resources to relieve those who are suffering the most.

President Hoover has moved with commendable promptness and vigor. His first effort is to learn the scope and extent of the drouth and the needs of the people. This information is being collected in a prompt and systematic manner. Whether it will reveal that a special session of congress is desirable is a question that the president must determine. He can determine that question in the light of all the information available.

But whether a special session of congress is called or not we are confident that President Hoover will lead with vigor in the measures of relief.

Fields Loaded With Bumper Yields Of Alfalfa, Cotton, Grains, Fruits, Vegetables

Livestock, Poultry and Farm Crops Thrive in Wichita Area In Year of Record Heat; 36,000 Acres Irrigated in 1930 Compared to 4,000 in 1924

Farmers of nearby counties who will tour the Wichita irrigated valley Thursday and Friday, and local citizens who visit the area this month, will be impressed with an industrial miracle which has been wrought by irrigation of more than 35,000 acres of land.

Standing in sharp contrast with the extreme drouth conditions reported from all parts of the country which have been dependent upon rainfall, the irrigated valley extending westward from this city reflects under the blazing August sun a luxuriant and verdant garden spot.

Fruit trees have flourished; grain crops yielded heavy returns; row crops wave their forests of ripening stock feed over hundreds of acres; animals kept on valley farms have been supplied with ample water; and cotton, the biggest crop in this district, is in excellent condition to produce from three-quarters to one bale per acre in the harvest, which is just now beginning.

An area served by numerous ditches bringing an almost unlimited supply of water stands out against the background of a sunbaked nation as noticeably as the oasis breaks the monotony of the desert's far expanse of burning sand.

From all quarters of the United States have come, during the past six weeks, descriptions of the dire conditions resulting from prolonged drouth. Crops of every kind have withered. Livestock has died in great numbers in some localities, and in others has been moved considerable distances in order to have water. Farmers have gone into the cities to seek work, their normal vocations having been completely stopped by the ravages of torrid, dry weather. Residents of many sections have been put to it sorely to obtain sufficient drinking water to maintain life. Great agricultural districts which teemed with flourishing vegetation 60 days ago, promising a heavy fall harvest, have been turned into thirtay, brown ruin under two months of merciless sunshine unbroken by any rain whatever.

Such nationwide drouth occurs only rarely in this country; but a brief survey of the conditions which prevail when such a climatic disaster does take place is necessary to realize fully the transformation which has been accomplished in the Wichita valley through the marvels of irrigation. Many of the districts which have scorched hopelessly since the middle of June are blessed normally with far better weather conditions than those which prevailed in the Wichita river valley prior to 1924. The stoppage of agricultural production which such areas have experienced this summer is consequently less severe than that which would have fallen upon farmers in the Wichita valley without the aid of Lake Kemp waters. In the opinion of old settlers here, and of those in charge of modern development, the valley had gone just as far as it possibly could go toward supporting an agricultural community. It received only a minimum of rainfall, and that so unevenly distributed as to render production of satisfactory crops very uncertain.

What Water Has Done for Wichita Valley

Purely from a photographic standpoint, an astonishing reformation in the valley since 1920 might be registered. There were few of those unmistakable signs of steady development—good roads. Travel throughout the area was, for the most part, over winding trails through mesquite thickets. Crossings of watercourses were commonly fords. Improved and painted dwellings were the exception. Farm equipment consisted all too commonly of a span of mules, a wagon, a plow and a go-devil. When the water in the cistern played out, the situation was serious.

Since the irrigation system was completed, the valley has been interlaced with improved highways, many of them paved, running directly between centers of trade. Substantial bridges provide all-weather crossings over streams in the district. Scores of attractive, painted houses are visible in any portion of the irrigated section. In many of them may be found numerous luxuries common to the modern home—electric lights, refrigeration and radio. The farm yard now has a shed in which are gang-plows, discing machines, tractors, and other modern machinery for efficient pursuit of agriculture as a business.

Another of the noticeable, and highly significant, changes is in the type of school buildings provided between the Diversion dam site and Wichita Falls. A few scattered frame buildings, each accommodating a

LAWYERS HEAR WICKERSHAM ON CRIME ILLS

'Americans Inherently Lawless,' Says Head Of Commission

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (UP)—Americans are inherently lawless, George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement committee, told the American Bar association today. The art of suggestion, he said, often is more potent than legal mandates, bristling with penalties for disobedience.

The former attorney general addressed the 3,000 delegates this afternoon, shortly after they had in decisive fashion endorsed continuation of a prohibition poll among their 28,000 members, over objection of drys.

"Americans, inherently, do not seem to be law abiding," the former attorney general said, "and well-directed suggestion often is better than mandates, bristled with penalties.

"There seems to be a spirit abroad to 'beat the law' as long as it can be done and 'got away with' " Wickersham said. "Motor car drivers are especially eligible to this class."

Wickersham devoted a part of his address to the prohibition question and revealed that the law enforcement commission unanimously opposed the theory of the Jones "5 and 10" law.

"We thought it unsound to make felonies of petty violations of this or other criminal laws," he said, "it confuses the public mind regarding offenses by blurring the distinction between serious crimes and minor breaches of the statute law.

"Moreover, the federal courts are not equipped for administration of police laws. To a large extent those who are brought before the federal courts for violation of this law are mischevious boys, who ought to be well thrashed and sent home, instead of being branded as felons."

The commission, he said, felt that speedy prosecution of minor offense would be more likely to induce respect for law than creation of "disproportionate penalties as would induce resentment in reasonable minds."

Final Bitter Onslaughts Of Gubernatorial Rivals Lack Nothing Of Fervor

James E. Ferguson, Battling for 'Ma', and Ross Sterling Unleash Bombardments at Close Quarters in Contest For Majority of Central Texas Ballots

(By The Associated Press)

The chief figures in the smashing, clashing battle for the Democratic nomination in next Saturday's run-off primary Wednesday and Wednesday night again were busy carrying their pleas to Central Texas, each invading territory just left or about to be visited by the other.

James E. Ferguson, carrying aloft the emblem of his wife's candidacy, was at Terrell Wednesday afternoon moving at night to Ennis.

Ross S. Sterling, urging his own nomination, spoke at Marlin Wednesday afternoon and at night at Cameron.

Tuesday Sterling talked at Terrell and Friday Ferguson will carry his appeal to the Marlin voters, ending his campaign in favor of his wife there, a short distance from his Austin home.

Closes at Galveston

Friday night Sterling will carry his plea to a conclusion at Galveston near his Houston home where Saturday he will await the verdict of the electors after speeches Thursday at Georgetown and San Marcos en route to the gulf territory.

In his Marlin speech Wednesday the Houston man smote "Fergusonism," going through all he said the term meant.

As usual, the speeches continued to partake of bitter personal attacks, as did that of the next most interesting campaign, that of James V. Allred of Wichita Falls and Robert Lee Bobbitt of Laredo for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general.

The race for the nomination for lieutenant governor continued to be conducted with decorum and without resort to the exchange of personalities, Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, veteran dry leader, and State Senator Edgar E. Witt of Waco, waging none the less active campaigns.

In the battle for the nomination for state railroad commissioner, W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas, state treasurer, again assailed his opponent, Pat M. Neff of Waco, the incumbent, as a candidate under a double standard.

The interest in the various contests again was evidenced in the vast number of absentee ballots cast. For instance, in Dallas county, where such voting was ended at 5 p. m. Wednesday, D. C. Whiteley, county clerk, announced at noon the total had pased 1,300 and possibly would reach 1,500 by the end of the day. In the first primary the absentee ballots totalled only 900. While the personal casting of ballots by voters who will be away Saturday ended Wednesday night, all such received through the mail Friday will be counted.

The Dallas Times Herald announced that increased tabulations

ALLRED TEARS INTO BOBBITT

Wichitan Answers Charges Of Opponents

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Speaking over the radio here tonight, James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, candidate for attorney general, vigorously took issue with charges made against him by his opponent, R. L. Bobbitt, incumbent.

"My opponent censures me for an advertisement of my candidacy carried in the Ferguson Forum," he said. "He might have been fair and told you that a similar advertisement on my behalf was carried in the Houston Post Dispatch, a paper owned by R. S. Sterling.

"He does not tell you that some 15 other state candidates carried their advertisements in the Ferguson Forum. I wonder if he charges that they also are Ferguson candidates?"

Allred also answered Bobbitt with reference "to whom the machines are supporting in this race."

"The complete answer," he said, "is the vote cast July 26. The people of this section know better than anyone else that there are certain machine-controlled counties along the border and south of San Antonio. I appeal to them in a spirit of fairness to examine the returns from these machine counties. They will find that my opponent carried every one of them overwhelmingly. Despite this fact, he has the hardihood to charge that I am aligned with the machines. How could this be true when he gets all the votes in these counties?

"I repeat now the statement which I made in San Antonio on the occasion of my last visit here. 'I stand for the purity of the ballot-box everywhere and against machine domination.' My opponent has misquoted San Antonio papers in this connection all over North and West Texas."

Allred said his opponent was charging him with "political trick-

in its test vote indicated state preference for Sterling. The Times Heralds' method was to obtain from outstanding newspapers in each county an estimate of the trend of the voting in the Saturday primary and compile from such estimates the figures given. According to the estimates available today from 191 counties, the Times Heralds' figures were: Sterling, 257,125; Mrs. Ferguson, 210,070. The estimates indicated the closest contest in West Texas.

STERLING SMITES FERGUSON RECORD

MARLIN, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Working slowly homeward, Ross S. Sterling of Houston, gubernatorial candidate, this afternoon paused here in East Central Texas and addressed a courthouse square crowd, smiting "Fergusonism" with all the force the dying campaign has taught him.

He went through all that he said the term meant, promising James E. Ferguson, husband of his opponent, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, a beating when the votes were counted next Saturday.

The state highway commission chairman also reviewed the planks of his platform and answered numerous charges made against him by Ferguson.

Robert Higgins, one of the leaders for James Young of Kaufman, unsuccessful candidate in the first primary, introduced Sterling, saying he was thankful for leadership of his type, calling Ferguson's record one of wreck and ruin and praising Sterling for "baring his breast" to "seek to be of service."

Many spectators were on improvised benches, while about an equal number stood on the lawn or sat in windows about the Falls county courthouse.

Albert Sidney Johnson, secretary of the state Democratic executive committee, the second preliminary speaker, bitterly inveighed against the Ferguson pardon record, declaring Mrs. Ferguson acted as a "rubber stamp."

Johnson, striking at Ferguson's war record, read from what he declared was a speech by Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller severely criticizing Ferguson for "opposition to our country's war program."

"Miller endorsed Ferguson the other day," the speaker shouted, "and will have a hard time explaining why."

Another who made an introductory speech was Frank Altore, who declared he wanted a governor who needed no vindication.

Sterling himself then rose, while the crowd stood and gave him an ovation.

"Of course, you want to see your next governor," he said.

Sterling told the story of his early struggles as a poor farmer boy and how he had begun his business career in a humble country store. Smiling, he said he first made about a dollar a day. The crowd chuckled.

He swung into a discussion of his state highway bond issue plan, saying it was right for the traffic to pay for roads and for the "little farms and homes."

He warned against appointing "too many politicians" to office, and said he never had previously sought office.

"I started to say," he added, "that I never had asked anyone to vote for me, but I've been hinting for it all over Texas about as strong as the next one."

A freight train went by, halting the speaking, and Sterling said: "See that caboose? Wonder if that train has two cabooses for the price of one?" The take off was on Ferguson's plea that he and his wife offered "two governors for the price of one." Sterling's sally was greeted with laughter.

Warming up on "Fergusonism," Sterling declared that "old Jim was lobbyist in the recent legislature against the sulphur tax."

"And old Jim says I own the sulphur company," he laughed. "Why, I supported the tax and my newspaper supported it.

"But the real issue is Fergusonism and honesty in government. Are you going to return shame to Texas? No!" he shouted. "I know you're not."

Then he resumed his lambasting of Ferguson, accusing him of various business deals and saying, "At least, I know the difference between my money and the state's money."

He derided and forcefully denied the Ferguson claim that he (Sterling) used to be a saloon keeper and said, laughingly, "You know, old Jim may have made a mistake at that in some counties. Some of the boys may say, "Well, hurrah! If Ross is for saloons, I'll just vote for him."

Denying Ferguson's story of "22 bathtubs in the Sterling home," the candidate declared he doubted "if the strongest dip would clean old Jim's hide."

JIM VICIOUSLY ASSAILS FOE

TERRELL, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Thanks to a light rain today, Kaufman county Democrats were in a good humor tonight as they listened to James E. Ferguson unleash another vicious attack on his arch enemy, Gov. Dan Moody, and on Ross Sterling, opposing his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, in the governor's race.

This county, the home of former Congressman James Young, gave Young almost half of its votes in the first primary. Mrs. Ferguson was second with 1,534, within 1,000 of Young's total. Young had said he was a "non-partisan" in the sidelines in the run-off.

The sun having dispelled the clouds shortly after noon, Ferguson announced his speaking would be held in front of the city hall, in which Sterling spoke to a packed house yesterday afternoon.

The former governor came overland to Terrell from Nacogdoches, where his talk last night was cut short by rain. Two Terrell supporters of Ferguson drove him here, and he arrived in time to take his usual sleep before tonight's program started.

"Fergusonism is one of the greatest blessings that has ever come to this state," Henry Wade of Rockwall, who was one of the preliminary speakers, said.

"Dan Moody has said," Wade continued—A man near the speaker's stand interrupted with the cry, "down with Dan Moody and all of his kin," as the audience cheered.

"I want to apologize for ever mentioning his name," Wade went on. "Moody charges that Ferguson kept Moody's program from going through the legislature. If he did, it was the greatest service ever performed far the people of Texas."

Ferguson read a purported telegram from Jim Young Jr., saying newspapers had distorted his father's position in the run-off. "We are pouring it on in Southwest Texas and we went you to do the same," Ferguson quoted Jim Young Jr., as saying. "My father refused to introduce Sterling yesterday and refused to attend his meeting."

The telegram was read as saying Young was staying on the sidelines and would not be active in the current campaign.

"Jim Young is remaining true to his principles and to what he opposed in the first campaign," Ferguson said.

Removal of Realtor to Face Trial For Mary Baker Murder Granted

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 20. (AP)—Removal of Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia highlands real estate dealer, to the District of Columbia to face trial on a charge of murder of Mary E. Baker, navy department employe, was granted today by United States Commissioner J. Bartor. Phillips.

Defense counsel announced the commissioner's decision would be appealed to Federal Judge Groner at Norfolk, where efforts would be made to introduce evidence to establish an alibi for the defendant.

Judge Groner will not return to Norfolk until Sept. 1 and pending the appeal, Campbell will remain in the Alexandria jail.

WOMEN LEAD RALLY TONIGHT

Speakers to Urge Election Of Sterling

One of the largest Sterling rallies in this section of the state will be held here Thursday night when the Wichita Falls women's Sterling-for-Governor organization will stage a rally in the interests of the Houston man's candidacy in the open air on the west lawn of the Memorial auditorium grounds, according to an announcement issued by W. E. George, local attorney, and by Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, chairman of the Sterling club here.

The program will open at 8:15 o'clock with the assembly singing "The Eyes of Texas." R. E. Shepherd will lead the singsong. Mrs. Guest will preside at the meeting and will introduce one of the two principal speakers of the evening, Mrs. A. C. Zehner of Dallas. Mrs. Zehner is nationally known for her ability as a speaker and has been active in conducting a women's campaign in the interests of Sterling's candidacy.

Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college at Abilene, will be the other principal speaker at the rally. He will be introduced by Mrs. W. W. Silk. The entire program of the rally will be broadcast over station KGKO, between the hours of 8:45 and 10 o'clock.

ery." He himself is furnishing the best examples of political trickery I have ever known," he declared.

"My opponent says I criticize Claude Pollard for resigning. I have not done that, but I have criticized him for resigning after he told me he was not going to do so."

He declared it was untrue that he had been denounced by lawyers in Hillsboro but that "some of the lawyers there told me last Saturday they refused to sign some sort of statement to that effect which was presented to them by a supporter of my opponent."

"This is the weakest explanation he could offer as to why he did not carry his home county," Allred asserted. "He announced he was going to my home county. I challenge him to do that. I beat him there six to one and will do it again."

France will send air attaches to six foreign capitals, with the same status as military attaches.

Deep Well Drilled at Lawton To Save Game on U. S. Forest Preserve

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 20.—In face of surrounding counties receiving good rainfalls, Lawton has had but one shower in many weeks. Three-tenths of an inch of rain fell early Wednesday morning, insufficient to settle the dust, but the intense heat wave was broken after 32 days. Each of which registered above 100 degrees, several as high as 107. It was the longest continued intense heat wave in the county's history. Farmers are in deep distress for lack of water. On orders of the secretary of war pasturage on the Fort Sill reservation was thrown open for the use of stock and the commandant's office at Fort Sill was besieged with applications within 48 hours and it was announced that no more applications could be received. Application was made for over 4,000 head of cattle. Out on the forest preserve, untiring vigil is being maintained to guard against fire and only three camping places are now available for campers. A deep well is being sunk near the forest home as water is becoming exceedingly scarce for protected game. Many farmers are hauling water from Lawton at this time and herds of stock are being driven to whatever places can be secured where there is a supply of water. Hundreds of head of stock are suffering for lack of water and many pastures are totally bare. The water and pasturage condition is becoming exceedingly grave.

Plumbers Union Agent Slain by Racketeers

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (UP)—Charles M. Mulcany, business agent of the Chicago Plumbers' union was slain and Bernard Rubbery, an associate, was severely wounded today in a gun battle. Members of the detective bureau homicide squad said labor racketeers were responsible for the shooting.

Lawton Builds Water System To Supply Fort

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 20.—All Lawton is again rejoicing tonight over announcement made today by Senator Elmer Thomas that Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley had told him in a long distance telephone conversation that he would approve the recommendation of the army board that Fort Sill be designated as the permanent location of the field artillery school.

Secretary Hurley stated as far as the war department was concerned it is satisfied as to Lawton's good faith and assured that the city will carry out its promise to furnish Fort Sill an adequate water supply.

Water supply and pressure has been the one point of consideration. The city council Monday night authorized the consulting engineers to proceed at once with plans and specifications for the new filter plant which is to be located just south of the military reservation. The council also authorized a special committee to proceed with the purchase of a site for the filter plant. It is expected that plans and specifications will be prepared and submitted within 30 days, bids advertised for, and the $600,000 contract let within 60 days.

PLANS MADE TO HANG SLAYER

Kansas to See First Execution in 40 Years

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 20. (INS)—With the letting of the contract for a gallows and the hiring of a hangman, final arrangements have been completed for the first legal execution in Kansas in 40 years.

The execution will take place Sept. 5 in the United States penitentiary here when Carl Panzran, a federal prisoner, is hanged for the murder of R. C. Warnke, civilian employe at the prison.

Panzran, a self-declared "bad man," who boasts of 23 killings in his lifetime, has refused to take an appeal from the death sentence and has refused to ask for executive clemency.

Though the last two scheduled hangings at the penitentiary were prevented by a president commuting the sentences to life imprisonment because of the formal protests of Kansas officials and citizens, Panzran's pending execution has excited little concern except for an effort of the League Opposed to Capital Punishment to aid the condemned man. Panzran has refused such aid.

Panzran was senteneed to hang by Judge Richard J. Hopkins in federal court at Topeka, April 16.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (INS)—An unmistakable means of identifying prohibition agents who stop automobiles on the highways was adopted today by Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition director, at the suggestion of the Maryland Automobile association.

It will be enamel on a metal base, with the word "stop" in large letters at the top, "U. S. official, bureau of prohibition," below and the department of justice at the bottom.

Cottonseed Men Hear Of New Grading System

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 20. (AP)—Cottonseed produced in hilly sections, previously considered poor in quality, often proves to be of good quality under the analysis of a new system of grading originated by G. S. Meloy, U. S. department of agriculture expert, he told a gathering of Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri ginners here.

Also, said Meloy, some seed believed valuable heretofore in reality is poor in many instances. The basis of "premium seed" under his method has 19 per cent oil, 3.5 per cent ammonia, 1.80 per cent free fatty acids and not more than 1 per cent foreign matter.

Rector Dismissed For Barring Vets

IRON RIDGE, Wis., Aug. 20. (AP)—The board of directors of St. Mathew's Evangelical Lutheran church today voted the dismissal of its pastor, the Rev. John Henning, because he refused to admit several American legion members to communion service.

However, the board's action is not final; the pastor's case now will be laid before the congregation for approval. No date for the hearing was fixed.

The pastor said the legion was considered "anti-Christ" and consequently was a heretical group. The rejection of legionnaires, he said, was not absolute, but that he had excluded only legion members from communion who had asked his advice.

Munday's First Bale Brings $75 Premium

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, Aug. 20.—Munday's first bale of cotton was brought in on Friday, Aug. 15 by George Steinbach of the Rhineland community and was sold for 10.50 cents per pound to Broach & Aycock, local cotton buyers. A premium of more than $75 was contributed to Mr. Steinbach by the business concerns of Munday. The outlook for a fair crop over the Munday territory is very good but rain is needed and unless it comes within the next few days the crop will be materially reduced. There is an excess of labor here at this time and the public is warned against coming here in search of labor, as the picking season will not open for three weeks yet.

Mrs. J. W. Mason Honoree At Pretty Farewell Shower

Mrs. Lloyd E. Wells was hostess at her home on Avenue I Tuesday afternoon when members of the First Baptist church honored Mrs. J. W. Mason with a pretty farewell shower. Mrs. Mason leaves Monday with Mr. Mason, who has been educational director of the First Baptist church, to make her home in San Marcos.

A color scheme of pink and white was noted in decorations and in the refreshment appointments. The afternoon was spent in games and contests and Misses Myra Lee McNeill and Roline Gouldy entertained with clever readings.

A shower of lovely gifts was presented to the honoree by little Miss Florence Abbey Wells who was dressed in a pink organdy garden frock and presented the gifts in a pink umbrella.

Iced watermelon was served with favors of tiny pink umbrellas standing in each slice.

Guests during the afternoon with the honoree were Mesdames W. T. Gouldy, C. R. Woodall, J. Newton Huff, Charles Q. Arnold, Wm. E. Young, J. C. Mathis, E. M. Agee, J. W. Mason, V. M. Bucklew, B. T. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Fairy tales are still of interest. Noticing headlines on a paper about the proposed recall of Oklahoma officers, we heard a bus driver explain them to a friend riding with him. "I guess it's prohibition that's the trouble," he said. (All he had seen was the headline.) "Why they surely wouldn't recall officers for breaking prohibition laws," his friend said, with a broad grin. "Well, there's a whole county up there that's been bootlegging," the driver explained. "Officers and preachers and everybody else been joining in."

Mr. Phelps, in his department of Scribner's magazine not so long ago, stated that he thought the best way to settle the prohibition question was not to mention it for several years. He continued mentioning it for several columns, but urged that no one else do so.

It seems to us personally, that it is not so much talked of as it once was. But it is surprising how many people make and drink their own home brew. We have learned of families who think nothing of it now when they would have considered it an unforgivable offense at the beginning of the prohibition period.

We heard a man the other day telling of something that happened in the pre-prohibition days. He had an audience surrounding him and what he said had its effect in laughter. We did not hear the joke but what he said at the last came to us clearly: "But they've taken whisky away from men now," he repeated, "and given it to boys and girls."

But we have been watching this phase of the prohibition question and we believe another era has begun. Boys and girls change their style of action every ten years or so. There was a time when we looked with dread on the parties pulled by the girls and boys; when we felt that the worst of prohibition was that it had made the daring youth of our country drinkers because they were denied drink.

Another crowd of boys and girls is growing into maturity and we do not believe they are getting anything—as a general thing—from drinking. Every boy now doesn't feel that he must have a flask to be a social lion and our young girls have no hankering for dissipation.

There's something new under the sun each day. Perhaps they should have had more swimming pools and tennis courts and miniature golf courses some eight or ten years ago. One thing is certain—youth must be kept busy.

Even tree sitters have a cause to uphold. Though tree sitting has seemed to us about the most useless endurance contest of which we ever heard. We have seen a picture in a magazine where the man had a right to start the fad. It showed a husband of ancient Greece and he sat high in the tree while his wife waited beneath it with a huge club and a determined expression. We did not blame him for becoming a tree sitter.

Parents Blamed For Increase Of Divorce Cases

We had been discussing the tragic fact that mothers are really responsible for most of the unhappy marriages, and the great majority of women are bringing up their children to be the kind of husbands and wives that they pray God to save their own sons and daughters from getting.

"What can you expect except divorce," exclaimed a woman, "when a pampered, spoiled, selfish boy and girl, whose mothers have taught them that they are the center of the earth and that everything revolves around them, get married?

"From the time that they were babies they have lorded it over mother, and she has waited on them hand and foot. They have always got everything they have cried for. They have never learned to control their tempers. They have never considered anybody's rights but their own, and so, of course, they fight and quarrel when they get married and come in contact with other youngsters who are just as undisciplined, as self-centered, and full of egoism as they are.

"If you dig out the real stick of dynamite that blows nine homes out of ten into smithereens, you will find that it was labeled 'mother.' For under all of this talk of 'not being understood' and 'lack of appreciation,' and 'having made a mistake in the choice of a husband or wife,' of the disgruntled young couples who throw up their hands and quit without ever trying to make a success of marriage, is their disappointment in finding out that the men and women to whom they are married do not pamper them as their mothers did.

"Mary expects John to give her everything as mother did, and to give nothing in return, and when he demands that she act like an adult human being and pull her weight in the boat, she considers that he is a brute and pities herself as a martyr. John expects Mary to turn a blind eye on all his faults and think that he has a right to philander and stay out and play poker with the boys if he enjoys amusing himself that way, just as mother did. And when Mary calls time on him, he thinks she is a nagger, and a spoil-sport and a domestic tyrant. And so we have the gay little domestic scrimmages that end in smashing marriage vows.

"Oh, I tell you that we mothers are responsible for the divorce evil. It is the inevitable result of the way we bring up our children, and we could stop it in one generation if we would give as much thought to teaching our children how to be good husbands and wives as we do to teach them how to play a good game of bridge, or use the right spoon and fork when they eat."

"True. Gospel truth," I responded, "but how would you go about training a girl to be a good wife?"

"Well," replied the woman, "in the first place, I wouldn't bring up my daughter with false ideals of life. Unless I was rich enough to settle a fortune upon her when she married I would not cultivate expensive tastes and habits in her. I know plenty of mothers who go almost in rags to deck their daughters out in imported finery. I know one mother of this kind who hasn't had a new pair of shoes in a year while her Maribel has had 20.

"Now Maribel has just about as much chance of marrying a millionaire as she has of being struck by lightning, and when she marries a poor man, as she is sure to do, and he cannot give her snakeskin shoes and doll her up in chiffons, she is going to be a peevish, fretful, dissatisfied wife and she is going to make the life of the unfortunate man who gets her a torment, and like as not she is going to ruin him by her extravagance. So I would save all of that trouble by rearing her simply and fitting her to be a poor man's wife.

"Next I would prepare a girl for marriage by teaching her how to cook and sew and run a home. Lots of mothers try to 'save' their daughters, as they say, by doing all of the housework themselves while their Maribels keep their hands white and manicured. The mothers contend that when the time comes after marriage that a girl has to learn how to cook she will do it.

"So she does, but in the meantime she has disillusioned her husband and ruined his digestion and wasted his money, and they have fought over every inch of a dining table spread with food that would kill an ostrich. About nine-tenths of the quarrels that hasten the setting of the honeymoon are the result of the bride's not having prepared herself to practice her profession as well as her husband does his.

"Then I would teach my daughter to be a good sport in marriage. I would teach her to play the game, and not to be a cheater, or a welcher or a quitter. I would teach her to give her husband a square deal and not to expect more of him than she was willing to give herself. I would teach her not to boast, and not to whine, but to take good luck and bad luck with a grin. And I would teach her not to do the crybaby act and come sniveling home to mother if things weren't just as rosy as she had pictured them to be.

"'Sure,' I would say to her, 'marriage is a rough road to travel, and there are trials and tribulations in it that you never expected to find, and your husband has a million faults that you never suspected and he is a disappointment to you. But what of it? Probably he is thinking the same things about you and so you are quits. Anyway that is life, and that is marriage, so have sense and backbone enough to make the best of it. If you will put your intelligence into making your marriage a success, you can do it.'

"And I would teach my daughter a lot of other things. How to control her temper and tongue. How to manage her husband diplomatically, how to get the most out of a dollar, how to laugh instead of nag. And I would teach her the importance of keeping herself up, of keeping attractive to look at and interesting to talk to. And believe me, no girl whose mother instilled into her these principles of being a good wife would ever land in the divorce court."

Fires at Ardmore Under Inquiry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—E. G. Cooper, deputy state fire marshal, was in Ardmore today investigating a series of fires in which about 25 vacant homes and business structures have been destroyed. C. R. O'Neal, state fire marshal, said nearly all of the fires occurred at night. They extended over a period of 18 months.

Special investigations also are being made at Pauls Valley and Duncan, where several blazes of unknown origin have occurred.

At Pauls Valley, William Reel, 16, was being held in connection with the firing of the high school building, C. F. Hart of the fire marshals' office reported. Only about $25 damage was done, as the fire was discovered soon after it started.

Annette Walsh Piano Director In Conservatory

Another addition to the personnel of the Greathouse conservatory was announced Wednesday when Miss Dorothy Greathouse stated that Miss Annette Walsh will be head of the piano department. Miss Walsh's former asistants, Miss Maurice Mount and Miss Geneva Taylor, both of whom have completed courses in the Chicago Musical college, will work with Miss Walsh in the conservatory.

The outstanding artistry and teaching ability of Miss Walsh are too well known to need description. She has studied under the best masters in America and she is a member of the faculty of the Chicago Musical college, teaching in the summer school courses there each season.

Students are now being enrolled in the piano classes for the coming season which will open Tuesday, Sept. 2, and Miss Walsh announces she will offer a free scholarship in the Chicago Musical college for the summer season of 1931.

Iowa Park Firemen To Attend Convention

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Aug. 20.—Eight members of Iowa Park volunteer fire department left Tuesday to attend the North Panhandle Firemens convention which will be in session at Paducah Aug. 21 and 22. Iowa Park will be represented in a water-fight contest by a team of five to be selected from those attending. For some weeks past the main street of the town, near the fire station, has been the scene of water-fighting practice, preliminary to this contest. The Electra team and teams formed from local firemen staged these fights. The personnel of the delegation was Taylor Groves, Tom Hall, Albert May, Clarence Hall, M. L. Smith, R. A. Dahn, Earl and Lloyd Denny.

Farm Board Asked To Assure Holding of Crop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The farm board was asked today by Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, to announce formally that cotton now in the hands of cooperatives and farm board agencies would be withheld from the market until the present crop is disposed of.

Chairman Legge of the board, Rankin said, assured him the matter would be considered Friday with a view to reassuring the public that this cotton would not be marketed at least until prices recovered. Cotton held by cooperatives and the board was estimated by Rankin to approximate 1,500,000 bales.

Wichita Falls Firms Aid P.-T. A. Thrift Exchange

Not only the board of education, school superintendents, principals, teachers and P.-T. A. members are interested in the Thrift Exchange, but public spirited citizens in all walks of life feel the importance of the work to be handled during the coming year under the leadership of Mrs. R. P. Willis.

A visit to the headquarters, located in the Memorial auditorium, is enough to impress anyone with the importance of the movement. Manual training pupils of Junior college and high school made the racks that extend in many rows the length of the long room. The board of education had them moved to the auditorium. The Parent-Teacher association bought the lumber for the shelves that extend all round the room and the board of education had the shelves made and placed. Shamburger Lumber company, according to Mrs. Willis, gave a liberal discount when the lumber was purchased.

The Parent-Teacher groups, when they present articles to the Thrift Exchange, have clothes cleaned and mended. The American Cleaners and Dyers do all the other cleaning and pressing necessary without any charge.

Children with recommendations from their teachers were on hand Wednesday morning anxious to be supplied, but going away quietly when they were told the date of opening. Mothers waited to know how they must go about getting the necessary clothes for their children and one old man told of his son who wished to start school and who was "naked of clothes."

Seemingly, there are many neat little garments, as well as larger ones hanging on the long racks. On the shelves are stacks of new and older garments, all clean and mended and waiting the applicants. But there are not half enough. The Thrift Exchange will be empty in the first day of its opening.

Shoes particularly are needed. One person's shoes so rarely do for another person's feet that efforts have been made to purchase shoes. But with all the calls made on the exchange, that is not as yet a possibility.

Any garment is welcome that is clean and whole. From the time they enter the first grade until the hardwon graduation day, there are many who could not attend school if it were not for the help of the Thrift Exchange.

Bank at Hollis Buys County's First Bale

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Aug. 20.—With bids running rapidly from one to another, starting at 8 cents, 8½, 9, 9½ until it reached 10 cents, the National Bank of Commerce of Hollis bought the first bale of cotton ginned in Harmon county for the season, 1930. The bale was brought in by W. M. Speed, living about 11 miles west of Hollis, and was grown on the mixed sand and tight land, and weighed 404 pounds. No premium was included with this price. Recent rains have added largely to the belief that from 11,000 to 14,000 bales will be harvested in Harmon county during the 1930 season.

Textile Strikers Demand Banishment of Official

BESSEMER CITY, N. C., Aug. 20. (AP)—Striking operatives of the two textile plants here of the American Mills, Inc., today added to their demands for lower house rent and maintenance of their present wage scale a third item—that George R. Spencer, general superintendent, be removed from all connection with the mills.

The demand was presented to Frank Goldberg, of Gastonia, president of the mills. The strikers blame Spencer for the wage cut which precipitated the strike Monday.

Goldberg has not replied to the request.

FARM LEADERS TO SEE MAGIC OF IRRIGATION IN TOUR TODAY

small number of pupils with perhaps one or two teachers, represented the rural educational facilities in the earlier era. Coincident with the increase in population and agricultural progress of the past six years in the valley, large, well-equipped buildings, some of brick, have arisen for the use of hundreds of children who receive the equivalent of scholastic training afforded by modern city schools. An outstanding example of this development is the Valley View school, located south of Iowa Park, a modern brick structure accommodating more than 500 pupils, and using a staff of 15 teachers. The curriculum includes standard high school work.

Contrast of Dry and Ditch Farming

From the standpoint of crop production, one may close his eyes to the drouth existent in all parts of the nation without losing sight of the tremendous salvation wrought within the Wichita valley through the medium of irrigation water. Some small sections here and there in this area have, for various reasons, been exempted from membership in the water improvement district. Possessed of soil which is for all practical purposes constant, two adjoining sections of land present almost tragic contrast. The one is "under the ditch," the other "farming it dry." Such climatic conditions as have visited the country in 1930 served to point with striking clearness the full advantage of having access to the irrigation ditch. On one side of the fence is a parched, dusty field showing a poor stand of cotton plants which have attained an average height of about 14 inches, are shriveled, of poor color, and with only a few small bolls visible. On the other side, on the same kind of ground, a vigorous, richly colored growth of 30-inch plants, well-filled with healthy bolls, with almost a perfect stand. Equally marked contrast is written plainly in the growth of feed crops and in the general condition of the farm.

Lands surrounding Wichita Falls to a distance of only a few miles on the north, east and south, and to a distance of 27 miles to the west, are served by the irrigation waters from Lake Kemp. Areas located nearest this city are devoted largely to the growth of vegetable produce, and to the production of feed for dairy herds. Truck farming is most extensive on the Petrolia road, east of Wichita Falls, and along the Iowa Park highway, near which the north canal of the irrigation system flows. A large part of the garden produce consumed by residents of this city from local farms is grown along the Petrolia road. The sandy loam in which that areas abounds has retained a high degree of productivity throughout many years of constant cultivation. Aside from supplying thousands of dollars worth of varied produce, for local consumption annually, this area has provided vast amounts of garden vegetables for regular marketing in communities southwest and west from Wichita Falls to a distance of 200 miles.

27 Miles of Rich Fields

Areas close to the city on the south and southwest have been provided irrigation for many years from Lake Wichita, which now is a part of the larger system. The great branch of the 36,000 acres now under irrigation, however, extends westward from Wichita Falls along the river to the Diversion dam site. Supplied with a deep and rich soil, the legacy of centuries of recurring overflow deposits, the area lacked only adequate supplies of good water to become the highly productive, prosperous farming district which it now approximates.

Passing along the winding road which leads from the west end of Tenth street through vast fields of corn, cotton and alfalfa throughout the entire stretch of 27 miles to Diversion dam, one cannot but stop in his thought to admire the foresight, courage and effort requisite to the creation of such a device for converting dormant possibilities into vital realities. Contemplation of the work which preceded the opening of actual work on the project reveals the fact that irrigation of the Wichita valley really had been in the making for more than 20 years before any material steps were taken toward its consummation. As far back as 1897, J. A. Kemp endeavored to bring about the passage of legislation which would provide for the organization of water improvement districts by residents of communities concerned. Only on the third attempt, however, about seven years later, was such a law passed. Enactment of that legislation was the first assurance that sooner or later, the fertile lands of the Wichita valley would be watered from a great storage reservoir to be kept full by the drainage from a dozen counties during the season of heavy rains.

To some extent, the agricultural and oil industries in this section have exercised a commendable bit of reciprocity. Returns from the wealth which was brought from beneath the surface in Wichita county, beginning in 1911, contributed materially to making possible the formation of water improvement districts nine years later for establishment of irrigation. Such aid as the oil industry provided in its heyday to this project is being returned now in the growing development of agriculture and dairying as important industries supporting the continued growth of the community.

Construction of Lake Dam

Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 1 was formed on Sept. 7, 1920, bonds for $4,500,000 being voted for the purpose of constructing the storage dam, distributing systems, etc. This district was formed to embrace 15,543 acres, including the city of Wichita Falls. Under the direction of T. B. Noble, appointed by his fellow-directors as managing director, the construction of Lake Kemp dam was begun on Feb. 25, 1922.

In the meantime, district No. 2 had been organized on Dec. 18, 1920, with 43,000 acres included, and bonds of $1,525,000 voted to acquire approximately a one-third interest in the physical system tentatively provided by the first district.

The Lake Kemp storage dam, located 46 miles from Wichita Falls by the shortest automobile route, was completed in August, 1923. It provides a lake with 125 miles of shoreline, 20 miles lone, eight miles wide, with an area of 22,800 acres. At spillway level it is 1,150 feet above sea level. Its water capacity is approximately 560,000 acre feet. Approximately $5,000,000 was spent in its construction.

About 16 miles further down the river course, or 27 miles from Wichita Falls, Diversion lake was formed by the building of the diversion dam. This body has a shoreline of 28 miles, is seven miles long by three miles wide, and comprises 3,000 acres. It was built at a cost of about $1,000,000. At spillway level it is 1,051 feet above sea level.

From the spillway at Diversion lake, the main canal of the irrigation system leads eastward to a point 15 miles west of Wichita Falls, where headquarters of both districts is maintained by Paul Powell, superintendent. At that point, the flow is divided into two streams. One leads south and east toward Holliday, and terminates at Call field, near this city, connecting also with Lake Wichita near that point. The north canal turns northward from the headquarters camp, is carried through a 700-foot concrete siphon under the Wichita river, crosses Blackberry creek in a concrete flume, siphons underneath the Iowa Park highway, and turns south to supply the small-farming community on the Petrolia road east of Wichita Falls. All canals and laterals of the present system total about 220 miles, and in 1929 supplied water to 35,612 acres of land.

Fields Boast Big Crops

Pictures of thrifty fields of cotton, rolling fields of grain, prolific harvests of alfalfa and corn which the pioneer builders of this vast system visualized in their minds as the work went forward are now realities to one who spares four hours for a pleasant drive of about 75 miles up the north side of the river, and down the other. From the time he passes the home of J. M. Isbell, on the banks of the Wichita river just beyond the end of Tenth street, until he nears Diversion dam, profuse evidence of agricultural progress will greet his eyes on either side of the road. One of the places at which he will be sure to stop will be reached about six miles from this city, where the first tract belonging to J. S. Bridwell will be marked by a large, modern barn, 40x60 feet in size, and 40 feet high. Three features of the 1930 program of crop production on this farm comprise one of the most interesting chapters in a tour of the valley.

Alfalfa Pays Bridwell

Much experimentation has been devoted during the past few years with the growth of alfalfa on valley land as a hay crop. Mr. Bridwell has a 75-acre tract planted to alfalfa this year. The land is under irrigation, and also has a slight natural slope to aid its drainage. Under average conditions in this country, which has 229 days in its crop growing season annually, alfalfa will yield five harvests per year. Those in charge of farming operations on Mr. Bridwell's land stated that the alfalfa tract probably will make but four crops this year, because of a temporary infestation with worms which delayed one growth. Results given for the first three crops, however, reveal facts which speak eloquently for the value of alfalfa in this district. Including the third cutting, which has just recently been completed, the 75-acre tract has yielded 5,000 bales of alfalfa hay. At current prices named by local feed dealers this week as payable to growers for this product, the alfalfa harvested thus far represents a money yield of $3,250, or about $43 per acre. At least one more abundant crop will be harvested before fall, it was said.

A second feature noticeable to visitors is the 40-acre orchard of peach, apricot and pecan trees which thrives on a tract which is also planted to cotton. The latter crop seems to have sacrificed no more than 10 per cent of the ground to the trees which comprise one of the most impressive orchards in this section of the country.

Aside from its showing of alfalfa and fruit trees, the Bridwell farm has other tracts of cotton pronounced by agricultural experts in this section as among the finest prospective crops to be found in Texas. During the past week, inspection of the plants revealed practically a perfect stand, complete absence of pests, and an excellent distribution of bolls and blooms.

From the road just south of the Bridwell place, the entire territory presents one of the most refreshing and pleasing panoramas which the enthusiastic ruralist could desire. Fields on either side of the road have the slightly rolling surface which assures the natural drainage so desirable either with or without irrigation. In any direction, well improved farm homes are visible. Farmyards reflect the presence of modern equipment. Along the watercourses are numerous groves of large trees. The area has in all respects the aspect of a prosperous farming community.

On slightly higher ground further west the refreshing growth of cotton is matched by equally promising fields of darso, maize, feterita, and higera. Leading westward toward the Iowa Park community, the road leads between the farms of Judge John C. Kay, Martin Rowe and John Hirschi, all of Wichita Falls.

Deep Tillage Farms

One of the most interesting developments of the past two years in the valley, and one in which great future progress is seen by agricultural leaders, has been carried out on the E. P. Birk farm, south of Iowa Park. Under the management of W. G. Cathey, much of this land has been deep-tilled and has shown remarkable improvement following such cultivation. Using a machine which carries six, or less, narrow shovels fixed on shanks which reach a depth of 15 to 18 inches, the sub-soiling process breaks up the dirt to that depth in such a way that it retains moisture for deep root growth, provides surface drainage, and keeps the water level low enough to prevent damaging chemical ingredients from surrounding the plant roots.

Deep-tillage has been found particularly valuable where surface drainage has been inadequate, its exponents declare. Upturning of deeper strata of soil, if it were possible, by plowing would bring to the top ingredients which in themselves would nullify good plant growth for one or two years, it was said. By loosening the soil to a depth of about 15 inches, passage of water to lower levels is expepenetrable soil is provided for the dited, while an ample depth of deep reach of roots.

Operation of the deep-tillage machine requires the use of a heavy tractor. On sandy land, such a machine prepares from 20 to 25 acres daily, while on "tight" land, about 15 acres may be tilled in a day. Land is given such treatment once every three years, according to established practice.

Elimination of Johnson grass as a competitor with more standard crops has been accomplished on the Birk farm during the past two years by Mr. Cathey. A section on which the grass had been especially rank was planted last year to peas. When the yield was on the vines, Johnson grass also had attained a prolific growth. At that time, a large flock of lambs and a considerable number of hogs were turned into the field, which had been fenced. By the end of their grazing and rooting seasons, respectively, no vegetation of any kind remained above or below ground. In the spring of 1930, the place was planted in cotton. Only two small clumps of Johnson grass have appeared during the present growing season. The field is one of the cleanest patches of cotton in the valley.

Irrigation for Grain Crops

Not only cotton, but grain crops, have reflected plainly the value of irrigation water in making fertile land yield paying crops. Northeast of the K. M. A. field, in 1928, a portion of the Wood-Burnside farm was planted in oats, under irrigation. Across the road, on the same soil, a section was planted in oats without water. The irrigated oats produced about 45 bushels to the acre; the dry field yielded 15 bushels, it was stated.

Movement of the "center of agriculture" toward the irrigated district is evidenced in the upper portions of the valley by the transfer of a large gin during the past winter from a site near Dundee to a location west of K. M. A., near the Electra pavement. An increasingly heavy yield of cotton has been attained in that area during the past five years.

Up to the present time, development in the valley west of Wichita Falls which has been stimulated by irrigation has been largely agricultural. Some progress already has been made in dairying, although most dairies have been established near this city. One of the best known dairy herds in the upper valley district is that on the farm of J. M. McFall, who now has about 35 dairy cows.

Increase in Acreage

Students of irrigation, and of cultivation of land with the aid of irrigation, declare that the astonishing development of the past five years in the Wichita valley will be far exceeded by that of the coming five years. Rotation of crops to the end of maintaining a high degree of fertility in every field has been made possible by the provision of water, it was explained, and that process is only beginning now to be practiced extensively by the farmers in this district. According to G. A. Remington, general manager of the two water improvement districts, much of the land in the valley which has a natural slope should be devoted to alfalfa, which he declares will prove one of the most profitable and successful crops to be grown here. The best growth of alfalfa requires proper drainage of surface waters, and there are in every part of the valley many fields which he declared perfectly shaped by nature for advantageous growth of this crop.

Maximum productivity of the areas now served by the irrigation system will be attained only by the perfection of artificial drainage, agricultural leaders declare. Elimination of waters released on the surface is not adequate in all parts of the valley, and there are scattered spots in which too-high water tables are indicated by damaged plant growth on the surface. Discerning use of ditch water, however, will in some measure limit similar developments, it was indicated. A system of artificial drainage will be provided within the near future, according to the opinion of Mr. Remington, and will constitute the last required step for the conversion of the Wichita valley into one of the richest and most prosperous agricultural and dairying districts in the country.

Mr. Remington has been general manager of the local project since July 1, 1925, coming here from a similar work in Idaho. Much of the construction work on the system was done under the direction of Paul Powell, who is now superintendent. A. H. Britain of this city is attorney for the two districts. W. C. Martin assessor and collector of taxes and Dan Martin engineer.

From 4,000 acres under irrigation six years ago, the total land served will approximate 36,000 acres this summer. No part of the principal or interest on any of the bonds of the two districts has ever been allowed to become delinquent, it was stated, and the bonds of district No. 1 are now exchanged on the market at four dollars above par.

VALLEY TOUR OPENS TODAY

Farmers and Agents to See Valley's Wealth

o'clock Friday, the tourists will be entertained with luncheon at the state agricultural experiment station near Iowa Park.

Three Oklahoma counties adjacent to Wichita county, and eight counties closest to Wichita in Texas, are sending their county agents, chamber of commerce officials and "key" farmers to Wichita Falls for the trip, it was said.

After leaving the courthouse, the party will visit the Bullington-Dunaway-Odonohoe orchards near Lake Wichita, the Junior chamber of commerce demonstration farm, the Johnson poultry ranch, the Weeks small farms community, and the Bullington certified milk dairy at Call field. Members of the group will be invited to attend "milking" at the dairy Thursday night and Friday morning, it was said.

Stop at Diversion

The party will leave Call field Friday morning at 7 o'clock for the tour of the valley proper. They first will visit the farm of J. S. Bridwell, and will then be shown through a number of large cotton farms further west. Irrigation headquarters, where the north and south canals originate from the main canal, will be visited before the party goes to Diversion lake. Returning from the lake, they will visit the E. P. Birk farm, south of Iowa Park, where much experimentation with deep-tillage has been carried on. From the Birk farm, the group will go to the state experiment station for luncheon, and will spend the afternoon there in a demonstration and discussional session. During the afternoon, Dr. E. B. Reynolds, chief of the division of agronomy at Texas A. & M., will speak, and Dr. W. E. Paulson, of the division of farm and ranch economics of Texas A. & M., will discuss the marketing of fruits and truck crops.

Mr. Sherrill, Mr. McGown and G. A. Remington, general manager of the irrigation project, will accompany the visitors on the tour. Numerous citizens of this locality are expected to attend the luncheon and field day program at the experiment station Friday afternoon, it was said.

Representatives of Clay, Baylor, Wilbarger, Hardeman and Wichita counties in Texas, and of Tillman, Cotton and Stephens counties in Oklahoma will comprise the group which will assemble here Thursday for the tour.

Rites Thursday For Mrs. Frances Posey

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Posey, 76, a resident of Wichita county for the greater part of 22 years, will be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the chapel of the Albert's Funeral home with Elder F. Perry of Dallas, of the Seventh Day Adventist church, officiating. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery.

Mrs. Posey died late Tuesday night at the home of her son, Charles Posey, 1503 Seventeenth street. The son was out of the city at the time of her death but returned Wednesday after receiving word of his mother's death. She had been in ill health for more than a year. Besides the son Charles, she is survived by another son, Henry Posey of Hinton, Okla., and a daughter, Mrs. L. H. Funston of this city.

$3,000 Damages Asked For Injuries in Crash

Damages amounting to $3,000 are asked in a suit filed in district court here Wednesday against T. F. Hunter in behalf of Ed Mulligan, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Mulligan, on a claim growing out of injuries alleged to have been sustained by the boy in a collision here last May.

The petition states Mr. Hunter was allowing his minor son, under the age of 16, to drive his automobile and that this machine and another in which young Mulligan was riding collided at the corner of Taft and Speedway streets, resulting in permanent injuries to the right hand and arm of the boy. Damages of $2,000 are asked for the Mulligan boy and $1,000 for his parents. The Mulligans are represented by the law firm of Kay & Akin. E. E. Fischer, local attorney representing Mr. Hunter, filed an answer to the petition Wednesday, denying all allegations against the defendant, stating the petition is insufficient in law to require an answer and asking that the suit be dismissed.

The campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor goes toward its end with unabated bitterness. It is probably the bitterest that has ever been waged for a Democratic nomination in Texas. Some day we will look back over the speeches in this campaign and wonder that such feeling could be aroused in a political campaign.

Before the first primary this Talker declared that he would support Tom Love, if nominated. That ought to cover whatever may happen in the run-off.

A headline says: "Humorous Talk on Politics Features Meet." Talker is glad that politics can still be discussed with humor, whether good humor or caustic.

Here's a political story that comes from Henrietta: A long time citizen of Henrietta was standing on a street corner telling the bystanders just what he thought of a certain candidate. "Uncle John," one of them interrupted, "aren't you a little hard on this fellow and didn't we hear you defending him a few years ago?" "Yes, and I ate a prairie dog once," rejoined Uncle John while the crowd roared.

Uncle John is the first man of whom we have heard to admit he had eaten a prairie dog. We once read an article in which it was claimed that prairie dogs were really a fine food and that if they could only be called prairie squirrels they would be considered a dainty. Talker has no desire to experiment, but before now he has eaten political prairie dog, and perhaps will do so many times again.

Talker is a b. c. d., meaning brass collar Democrat. But right now he is glad he doesn't have to go across any creek until he comes to the bridge.

He remembers other mornings after the election when he has felt that free government had been destroyed and that everything is in ruin. He has lived to learn that election results are never so disastrous as they have seemed and that in spite of everything that is done to them that our government and our institutions go on.

Talker does not mean to give the impression that we ought to be indifferent over results. There is no danger of that anyway. He does believe in the strength and perpetuity of democratic government and as he has looked back over campaigns and elections he has often seen the victors of today the vanquished of tomorrow.

Three Missing In Elevator Blast

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20. (AP)—One man was believed killed and an undetermined number injured today as a series of explosions caused the collapse of several sections of the Western Maryland railroad grain elevator at the edge of the Baltimore harbor. Fire which followed the blasts was quickly controlled. Two other men were reported missing.

A dozen injured workers were taken to the South Baltimore General hospital, and others were treated at the scene.

Charles Hammill, white, and Sylvan Jordan, negro, were reported missing and police boats searched the harbor for their bodies after witnesses had reported seeing one man blown into the water.

Most of the three score of men working in the elevator were at the top of the tall structure.

Death Conspiracy Hearing Postponed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—Gov. W. J. Holloway today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Claude (Blackie) Hager for the murder of Walter Harp, Ulysses, Kan., harvest hand.

DEATHS

MRS. LOUISE REYNOLDS

The body of Mrs. Louise Reynolds, 71, who died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. H. Lawson, 1825 Huff avenue, was forwarded Wednesday night to Wolfe City, Texas, where funeral services and interment will be held Thursday afternoon. Funeral arrangements here were under the direction of the Merkle Undertaking company.

The rites were delayed until Thursday to allow time for the arrival of a son, J. Perry Reynolds, from his home in Oakland, Calif. Two other sons, W. R. Reynolds of Longmont, Colo., and Roscoe Reynolds of Petersburg, Texas, also survive.

Beware of Biliousness During Hot Weather

Don't take any chances with biliousness during this hot weather. For now is the time when it may lead to fever and chills. Folks who try to rely on candy, chewing gum, or syrup laxatives are just wasting time and running grave risks. These half-way laxatives are too weak to expel the poisons which cause headache, dysentery, indigestion, sour stomach. What you need is Calotabs, the remedy that you know will remove the cause and stop the trouble before serious complications arise.

Calotabs never fail to purify the stomach and intestines. They are your best insurance against chills. Don't give the poisons a chance to accumulate in your system, but always keep Calotabs on hand and take one as soon as your bowels show the first sign of clogging up. You will be surprised how much more easily you can endure hot weather when your system is freed from weakening poisons. Calotabs are sold at drug stores in 35c and 10c sizes.—Adv.

A Song on the Lips From Earth to Sky Mr. Carroll Escapes 1500 B. C. Apartments

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Striking with a song on their lips is the way they do it "over there." One thousand Paris midnettes turned their pay protest into a carnival celebration, singing through the streets. They sang of their grievances in major key, and obtained their increase.

A song is always better than a snarl. Defeat turns to victory for those who can sing about it. Apollo charmed stones with his lyre. Shakespeare, speaking of a seamaid, assured us that "the rude sea grew civil at her song."

An interesting broadcast, linking the bottom of the sea with the earth and sky, is about to be attempted by the National broadcasting company. A diver four miles off the coast of Venice, Cal., will endeavor to speak from the ocean bed to a dozen women fliers in radio-equipped planes. A two-way conversation will be essayed.

Experiments of this kind are not merely interesting for the curious. They represent the pioneer steps in the progress of new and untried means of communication. The airplane is the fatest conveyance of man today. It should be linked up in every imaginable way.

Freeing Earl Carroll and his company of the lewd play charges does not mean that Earl Carroll can now go the limit without fear of prosecution. If the producer of "Vanities" is wise, he will take every precaution henceforth to impugn neither the spirit nor the letter of the law. Another arrest will spell complete and final ruin for him. Carroll will never get away with it a third time. He is very lucky to get away with it this time.

The stage "Johnny" who used to hang around the back door with a bouquet in his hand is gone. He was generally laughed at, but at least he was picturesque and romatic, and sometimes his motives were not strictly dishonorable. Today his place is taken by the drab, heavy-jowled business man who sits blear-eyed at his desk and supports limelight sweeties while his firm faces financial worries.

Back in 1500 B. C. New Mexico had apartment houses. The ancient Indian inhabitants also carried on trade and pastoral activities very much in the manner of today. This is the discovery of the expedition of the Frank Logan Museum of Beliot college, just back from the Mimbres valley.

It is clear that progress is, after all, relative. When human thinking and activity date back to 10,000 years, it is not suprising that we have not moved very far in 2000 years. We are but a step from the Babylonians. And if we should sompare our advancement with the Greeks, it might be contended that we haven't moved at all.

Rubio Orders Juarez Gambling House Closed

EL PASO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Juarez keno gambling casino, which had been in operation since Saturday night in the Mexican city opposite here across the Rio Grande was ordered closed today in a telegram President Ortiz Rubio sent the Juarez Chamber of Commerce.

The presidential action followed protests from an organization here to deal with the situation which had threatened the early closing of the international bridge, now open until midnight.

HOSPITAL BURNS

CROCKETT, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Cedars hospital was destroyed by fire here early today, with a loss of between $40,000 and $45,000, with $30,000 insurance. It was owned and operated by Dr. C. W. Butler Jr., who was out of town.

It wouldn't surprise me if our nation wide drouth wuzn' arranged specially for tree sitters. There's also a news item lurkin' where one or two hundred people are gathered.

This is the time of year vacationists begin to think about squaring accounts after that round trip.

All that is necessary to cure the smoking habit, according to a Russian scientist, is to take three hypnotic treatments. It might work for a spell.

The fact gambling has been stopped at Saratoga shouldn't disturb women bettors. They never had much on anyway.

When W. S. Gifford, American telephone company head, was informed that his pet dog had killed 75 of a neighbor's chickens, perhaps it was natural to protest that he'd been given the wrong number.

A King's Code

LOTS of editors and other folks as well have viewed with mild and good-natured criticism the personal code of King George of England which has recently been made public and which is said to be framed on the wall of his bedroom. The gist of the criticism seems to be that it is too platitudinous for a sophisticated age.

As you may have forgotten the king's code or may have overlooked it in the daily news, we reprint it here:

"Teach me to be obedient to the rules of the game.

"Teach me to distinguish between sentiment and sentimentality, admiring the one and despising the other.

"Teach me neither to proffer nor to receive cheap praise.

"If I am called upon to suffer, let me be like a well-bred beast that goes away to suffer in silence.

"Teach me to win; if I may not, teach me to be a good loser.

"Teach me neither to cry for the moon nor to cry over spilled milk."

Perhaps the critics are right; perhaps this code does sound somewhat flat and school-boyish; perhaps it is not in keeping with a sophisticated age.

But you can't deny that if you attempted to follow the king's code closely it would be a difficult feat and, moreover, if you succeeded in following the code, it would make a better man of you.

Federal Aid for State Highways

SECRETARY ARTHUR M. HYDE has authorized the immediate apportionment of $121,875,000 in federal road aid funds to the various states. Allocation of the funds, which ordinarily would not have been made until Jan. 1, 1931, was in response to pleas of governors and state agencies that it would assist in relieving unemployment and the distress caused by the widespread drouth. This federal aid money will be matched by state funds. Texas received $7,620,239.

All this is a reminder that the state highway commission recently contracted for building 43 miles of hard surface roads through La Salle county to cost $605,000. It was the largest single transaction of the commission for the year 1930. This is the last gap in the highway from Austin to Laredo. There is an all-paved highway from Laredo to Monterey and before the close of the year 1931 it will be possible for a Texas tourist to make the trip from the banks of the Red river in Wichita county to the ancient Mexican city without a gap to impede his progress or a detour to cause him inconvenience.

This is a rapid moving age. It is a rapid moving civilization. It would be well for the sleepy ones to make preparations to fit into the age and civilization.

Making Highways Safer

WE rather approve of that new policy just adopted by the state officials in New Jersey. Providing the owner's consent can be obtained, all autos declared unsafe or unfit for operation on public highways are destroyed by fire. Abandoned motor cars unfit for operation will be disposed of in the same manner.

Such measures may seem a little drastic, but the purpose is good—and the effect probably will be the same.

Our annual traffic death toll is far too high, and one reason for this is the number of ancient wrecks cruising our highways under the guise of motor cars. Bad breaks form their chief danger to life and limb and it is safe to say that most of these old pieces of junk are so afflicted.

An unsafe car on the highway is not only a menace to its occupants, but a menace to all other traffic and pedestrians as well. An auto that cannot be controlled quickly and efficiently in congested traffic is just as apt, perhaps more so, to damage other cars as it is to damage itself.

Mexico on the Liquor Problem

MEXICO wants sober workmen, writes a capital city correspondent, and in line with that desire the ministry of industry, commerce and labor is studying a plan for the establishment of dry zones around factories, work shops and other centers of labor. It is proposed to prohibit the sale or consumption of alcoholic beverages in wide zones, and the plan is said to have the hearty support of President Rubio. Mexican laborers drink pulque. For five cents a worker can become dead drunk. Now the Mexican government is taking energetic measures to discourage the sale of the stuff by limiting the number of new licenses and refusing others of pulque saloons. A Mexican dry zone from Matamoras to Tia Juana on the Pacific coast will bob up some day.

Rain God Surprises Old Virginia

OFFICIALS of the Alexandria (Virginia) Chamber of Commerce ordered 200 pounds of rain powder from Santa Fe, N. M., to be used in an attempt to bring showers to local territory and "break the drouth." Perched aloft, the rain god caught the message and sent a small flood to Alexandria and vicinity. At last accounts, the rain powder had not reached its Virginia point of destination.

Novelette

Last night I sauntered out again.
The girl I had was a pretty thing
With a voice as soft as an April rain,
And I watched her and kept remembering
How we had dined at this little place,
And laughed at nothing and praised the wine,
All suddenly your haunting face
Came back and smiled across at mine.

So a little girl who took your place,
Drank the wine that was meant for you,
Suffered a casual embrace,
And said "good-night" as the clock struck two;
Then a lad came home to a lonesome street,
A street that once was a Paradise,
With a fresh young wound from an old defeat,
And unbidden tears in his lonely eyes.

—Kid Kazanova.

Gag

You've probably heard or read it. So all right. It still remains the best of the 1930 Scot sillies.

Sandy, who owned a picture theater in Aberdeen went to London to get some ideas for advertising. While in London he noticed a sign over a movie house which said: "All persons over 80 will be admitted free:"

"Just the thing!" he thought to himself.

After his return to Aberdeen he put this notice on his theater box office:

"All persons over 80 years of age will be admitted free—if accompanied by their parents."

Wisey

Pepigram observed over the bar in that same W. 52nd St. speakeasy: "The only time horseshoes are lucky—is when they are on the right horse!"

Hehehehe

La Guinan, it appears, has shelved 33 pounds in a short time. A woman who heard that she had, said to "Takes Us": "How did you do it, m'dear?"

"When I was in Chicago," replied Tex, "and they asked me to go for a ride—I walked both ways."

Boomerang

At one of the Merrick road houses the chief gag is to seat a newcomer in a specially made chair designed for the huge laugh that usually follows. The unsuspecting victim is electric-shocked and his panic and screams send you into spasms, too.

But what we started out to report was that only recently a mid-West cafe owner paid a victim $45,000 (because he had just come out of the sick room and was sent back to it), judges and juries being comical that way.

A. B.

The rags recently frontpaged her in a story concerning her sister's unusual marriage ceremony. Any day now she will crash the same front pages when she names a wealthy Jamaica man (married, of course), who tried to force her to go gay. When she refused, he beat her. Being no sap, instead of rushing to a physician, she raced to a photographer, who made pictures of the wounds while they still were bleeding.

She will ask for $30,000, but will take $25,000 if she can get 15.

Vaudeville Glossary

(By George Jean Nathan)

Knockout: The designation of a performance which has succeeded in completely captivating the advertising solicitor for a weekly vaudeville paper.

Wop: A term of derision directed at an Italian who earns a difficult livelihood digging 10 hours a day at subways by an American ham who earns an easy livelihood digging 15 minutes at Ford cars.

Sure-fire: A compound word employed to designate any allusion to Ex-Covernor Smith or the performer's mother.

Artiste: A vaudeville actress who carries her own plush curtain.

Headliner: A performer of whom legitimate theaters have wearied.

Team: A term applied to two vaudeville actors who get twice as much money as they deserve.

Mind-reader: A vaudeville performer who imagines the members of a vaudeville audience have minds to read.

Weep, and You Weep Alone

Hollywood, it seems, is no different from Broadway when you're in a jam. Take the plight of a girl whose famously known banker "heart" supplied her with what it takes to throw grand parties. The best people flocked to the affairs and things were rosy. They always are when your Money-Honey still adores you, you know.

Well, her charms faded and he faded also.

Too proud to seek aid from her friends, she got desperate, and the other day the Los Angeles police held her on a shoplifting charge.

Her alleged friends, the ones who flocked to her swelegant parties, are Broadwaying her—fearing the notoriety.

And He Got Paid, Yet!

On page 7 of the Aug. 9 Judge a piece titled "There Now, How Does He Like This?" packs several pointed remarks at the outstanding member of the Winchell familia. Subscribers and others have called this desk to say: "Well, how does it feel, eh? Did you see that good knock for you in Judge? Pretty good, what?"

"It ought to be," is the incessant reply, "I wrote it!"

But even your best friends titter at you and refuse to believe that you did, which is why, probably, Judge's check for the piece will never be cashed.

System

Not all the Big Idea men are on Broadway, of course. At least one of them is a roue with a mess of coin who belongs to a fashionable beach club. He has more phone numbers, one dares say, than you, you, you, yes, and even you! And furthermore his method in acquiring them is a honey.

He watches his clubs bulletin board and when he sees a fellow-member posted for dues—he pays them. Then he tells the indebted one to forget the deed. Later he makes a play for the fellow's girl, and, of course, he has the support of the fellow, who urges the girl "to be sweet to him."

Moral: Many a fourflusher wishes he didn't have to.

You've Met Her

She's the kind of a girl who never believes the things she hears—but she repeats them just the same.

Mrs. Edgar Selwyn: Too, too.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith, desperate to learn her true identity, is unable to locate a man and woman who apparently recognized her at a chance meeting. Kay and Dane Talbot are madly in love with each other, but Julie Drew refuses to break her engagement with Dane. Mrs. Talbot, Dane's aunt, offers to send Kay and her girl friend away so that Julie and Dane may be married. Kay promises to think it over.

CHAPTER XXX-I

Edith Nason, wise for her 26 years, listened in silence to Kay's story. She was seething beneath the calm expression she had assumed, but it would not do to let Kay suspect her feelings. The girl had enough to worry about as it was.

All Julie Drew's fault. First those letters that had sent her and Kay scampering crazily to San Francisco. Now this. Going to Mrs. Talbot, working from that angle. Instead of letting Kay alone, letting her nerves repair naturally . . .

"What about it, Edith?" Kay was asking, for as yet Edith had not said a word. "Shall we go? I'm going to leave it up to you. I'm tired of it all—"

"Mrs. Talbot suggested we go right away?"

"I suppose that's what she meant. Right away."

Edith reflected. The trip, of course, would be marvelous—glorious for her, but that didn't matter. Kay's future, Kay's life . . . was all that counted.

Aimless Chords

"What do you want to do?"

Kay went to the piano and struck a few aimless chords. "I don't know. I don't care. If I can't have Dane—I don't care."

"Mrs. Talbot said positively that she'd tell Dane what she was doing?"

"Yes. So he knows, by now, what she suggested," Kay explained. Her fingers touched the keys softly, and she played for awhile. When she finished and sat, her hands on her lap, her head bowed over the instrument, Edith spoke again.

"Julie Drew hasn't played fair, dear. She wrote those letters, those 'Ford' letters. I know you haven't told me, but I guessed. I knew that day when you came home. I suspected on the train coming back from San Francisco but said nothing. That wasn't fair and square. They might have hurt you horribly—more than they did. If you hadn't been so stable, so sure of yourself. You've no idea what they might have done to you. Dane doesn't know about them?"

"No," softly. "I didn't tell him, and Julie—won't, I know."

"I see no reason why you should consider Julie's feelings at all, then. She played her cards and played them very badly." Edith's voice rose a little.

"I can see her point, too, Edith. Think of her humiliation—the wedding date announced. I'm awfully sorry for her—"

Despair

"I'm not. Not a bit," Edith's lips closed firmly.

"She loves Dane, too. I don't think she loves him as much as I do, but she loves him. She has her pride, too, more than I have. Because after all—I'm nobody. I may never know who I am. That's why, it seems fairer to Dane—you see I'm considering him first—to go away where I'll never see him again. I can't forget him, I know that. I'll never be able to forget him as long as I live—"

"You're young, Kay—"

"But I don't feel young. I feel as old as the world. Older. You'd like the trip, wouldn't you?"

"Wouldn't you?" Edith parried.

"Anything would do—now. I don't care where I go. If I had the money, my own money, I'd go anyway—some place."

The despair in the girl's face saddened the nurse. She wished that at the hospital she had taken the steps she should have at the time. Told Dane Talbot that he couldn't come any more. Then this would never have happened. For she had seen it coming—this love. First with Kay, then with Dane. Known it would come.

"If we went away, it would mean you'd have to give up your search. You might never know who you are. Have you thought of that?"

"I've thought of everything," wearily, "but I want to do what's best for Dane. If he wants Julie, he can have her!"

"He doesn't want Julie, Kay, he wants you—"

"Mrs. Talbot says it is just infatuation. That when I'm gone, he'll find out he loves Julie. Has always loved her."

"You don't believe her, do you?"

Horrible!

"I don't know what to believe. Everything's so mixed up, and horrible. My head aches from thinking it over. But, Edith, if I should marry Dane, if I shouldn't go on this trip, I'd always have the same doubt. Who am I? Am I worthy of Dane? That wouldn't be fair to him. I might find out after we're married that I'm somebody perfectly obnoxious. I'd be ashamed—and he'd be ashamed—"

"Dane isn't that kind of a man," Edith insisted.

"I hate to take Mrs Talbot's money—you don't know how I hate to take it. But there's no other way, that is to go away. If I'm going I must take it."

"You shouldn't feel that way about taking her money, Kay. She owes you something. After all it was her car that ran into you, and she was in the car. You haven't sued, haven't asked her for a thing—"

"I wouldn't!"

"She's lucky, that's all."

"Here it is December, and I don't know who I am—yet. December. Do you realize that? Months since the accident. And I'm no closer to knowing myself than I was. Oh, I know a few things about myself, but that's all. Nothing that is a real live clew."

"You may find out any time—tomorrow," Edith comforted. She felt badly about Kay's ignorance of herself as the girl did. If she could only help her—do something.

"Then again, Edith, I may never know. I've made up my mind to that. That's what I'll have to face if I marry Dane. Never knowing who I am. All my life that way. You see, don't you?"

"I do, dear. These months have been so long. . ."

"They've been a life time Edith, and yet only a few minutes . . ."

"We haven't settled the trip." Edith wanted to change the subject. There was no reason why Kay should be unhappier than she already was.

"I think we should go," Kay stated firmly.

Wild Goose Chase.

"And I think we should stay," Edith said just as firmly.

Kay was surprised. "I expected you to say we should go! After what you said about Dane a month ago—that I should try to forget him!"

"I've changed my mind now, Kay. Changed it completely. I said that before our wild goose chase to San Francisco. Those letters—made a difference in my feelings. I see no reason why you shouldn't be happy with Dane. You love him and he loves you. Why should you let Julie Drew interfere?"

"I wish I could really feel that way—"

"You have as much right to Dane now as she has. You wouldn't have him marry her, when he doesn't love her? A word from you, and he'd come, Kay! Why don't you phone him?"

Kay looked longingly at the phone resting on the table. She ached to rise and dial his number. Hear his voice talking to her, bid him come. Would he? It seemed years since she had seen him. She was lonely for him, lonely for his kisses, his arms around her, the words he would whisper to her. Words of love. . .

"Call him Kay!" Edith urged.

"I can't—don't tempt me, please."

"It's the only way you're really going to be happy!"

"Edith!" Kay was trembling a little, and her eyes did not seem as bright as usual. "Can you leave right away?"

Immediately

"Leave what?"

"For the trip. You've a case. Do you have to stay until the end?"

"I can leave any time—but we aren't going, Kay. We aren't!"

"We are, Edith, as soon as we can. You and I. Six grand months—I'll write to Mrs. Talbot now."

"I don't want to go—"

"You told me you would!"

"You'll be sorry, dear, afterwards."

"I know. I'll be sorry all my life, but it's what I should do, and I'm going to do it!" She hastily found some paper on the desk, and scribbled a short note to Mrs. Talbot. Thanking her for the trip, saying she and Miss Nason would be delighted to leave as soon as they could. She would leave all the arrangements to Mrs. Talbot. Sincerely, Kay Smith.

There, it was done! And yet she felt not the least better, not a worry gone.

An envelope and the letter was sealed, a stamp in her purse.

"I'll go and mail this now—"

"Don't be silly, Kay. I'll take it first thing in the morning, and mail it. Give it to me." Edith reached out for the envelope, which the girl surrendered to her.

"You're glad, Edith?"

"No, I'm sorry, but you wouldn't listen to my advice—"

"I'm doing what I should."

"You're being a little fool, child—"

"But you'll mail the letter?"

"I'll think about it, and you'll think about it. If you still feel the same about it in the morning, I'll mail it. That a bargain?"

"A bargain."

The Record News Offers Its Readers a New Booket on Interior Decorating

Do you realize, in creating a color scheme for your decorating, that every object in a room has a color role to play? The background should be rather neutral. The rug should be of darker value and definitely keyed to the color of the walls. The furniture may be keyed to the woodwork or the walls. The room will look larger if it is keyed to the walls. The smaller the piece of furniture the more intense its color may be. For example, a bright orange lamp is attractive, whereas an orange davenport would be too garish. Draperies should be in lighter values than the furniture, for they are nearer to the top of the room, but they should not be of so intense a hue that the other furnishings are overlooked.

OLNEY CROWD HEARS TALKS

Tariff on Oil Urged By Williams and Wilde

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Aug. 20.—A crowd of approximately 700 Olney citizens, mostly oil people, heard addresses here Wednesday night by Guinn Williams, candidate for re-election as representative in congress from district 13, and Claude C. Wilde of the Texas Independent Petroleum Producers association.

Mr. Williams, who was introduced by Judge E. G. Thornton, devoted most of his talk to a plea for a tariff on imported petroleum and petroleum products. He cited the cost of laying down a barrel of Venezuelan oil in America as compared with the cost of producing a barrel of domestic crude as the chief reason for a duty on foreign oil.

C. S. Richardson of Olney, vice president of the Texas Royalty Owners association, introduced Mr. Wilde who explained the attitude of independent operators on the new Texas proration program and the proposed tariff on foreign oil.

"Independent producers are not fighting big companies because they are big. The large companies need the independent and the independents need the major companies," Mr. Wilde said.

He said the association had agreed to the 750,000 barrel proration order with reluctance only because it was believed that without proration another cut in the price of crude oil would have followed. This he said would have wiped out many small operators.

He quoted statistics to show that importations of finished petroleum products during the first five months of 1930 were twice as great as those in the corresponding period of 1929.

"If it is fair for home producers to cut down their production keeping their oil under the ground, it is also fair for importers of foreign oil to have to pay a tax to bring in a less costly product to be marketed in competition with American crude" Mr. Wilde concluded.

Hundreds of Kids Crowd Lakeside Park for Joys of Bargain Day

"More kids and more fun than any other day this year except the Fourth of July!" exclaimed E. E. Elder, manager of concessions at Lakeside park, at the conclusion of Kids' day which was staged Wednesday through arrangements made by The Record News with the park management.

They came early and late, little ones and big ones, lean ones and fat ones—all kinds of kids, bent on fun, and with their pockets bulging with the little square coupons clipped from The Record News during the preceding six days in anticipation of the bargain-sale of amusements.

Before 8 o'clock Wednesday morning—the announced hour of opening—a large crowd, of youngsters waited outside the gate. Attendants of various concessions, accustomed to remaining "in the hay" during the cool of the morning until bankers' hours, found themselves called forth from slumber shortly after 8 o'clock to supply wide awake young customers with entertainment.

Two dusky stalwarts who perch above deep vats of cold water awaiting the chunker whose heaves ring the bell received their morning plunge Wednesday long before the accustomed hour. In fact, they were quite washed out before the day was half over, for members of the junior baseball teams of the city were among the hundreds who made the concessions between suns.

At the dodge 'em pavilion, the large box which received the Record News coupons which empowered plain nickels to purchase 10-cent rides had twice been filled to overflowing, and was almost full again by sunset Wednesday. Other devices reported equally heavy patronage.

During the later hours of the day, from 3 to 10 o'clock, the hordes of children whose parents chose to accompany them on the fun-excursion swarmed to the park. The five cent price was good for everybody, regardless of age, and the wooden horses plunged along beneath many pairs of legs which fell far below the stirrups.

One of the most joyous delegations present during the evening hours were members of the Wichita Rotary Boys' club and newsboys of The Daily Times and Record News, numbering in all more than 100 boys under the supervision of Olin Harvey.

During the later hours of Wednesday, a shortage of coupons developed before the nickels ran out. Waiving the requirement that each five-cent piece be accompanied by The Record News coupon in order to pay for the higher-priced attractions, the various concessioners continued to serve all comers at the established price of a nickel. Hundreds of jitney-coins purchased their quota of bargain-day amusement before midnight without the required squares of print paper.

Loftin Gives Jury Plan

Senatorial Candidate Speaks At Auditorium

Ruben Loftin of Henrietta, candidate for the Democratic nomination to state senate, Wednesday night presented his platform and made a plea for the support of Wichita Falls voters in an address before a crowd of almost 300 persons on the west lawn of the Memorial auditorium, concluding his speech with a vigorous attack on what he termed "Ben Oneal's charge that I am a politician and he is not."

The candidate was introduced by Judge Vincent Stine of Henrietta, who outlined Loftin's advocacy of a new jury plan by which the vote of nine men on a jury of 12 would result in a decision in all cases except on a vote for the death penalty. Judge Stine pointed out the new plan would considerably facilitate court procedure, particularly in civil cases, although a constitutional amendment would be necessary to make the plan applicable in criminal cases. B. L. Fain and John Davenport, both of this city, occupied places on the speaker's platform at the rally.

The candidate opened his address with an attack on the appointive highway commisison pointing out that the governor, who names the commissioners, becomse responsible for the proper expenditure of the millions spent each year by the commission and that under the appointive plan tremendous political power is placed in the hands of one or a few men. He added that such a commission can control the 80,000 votes of the employes of the highway department, thus placing this control in the hands of the person who appoints the commissioners.

Mr. Loftin closed his address with an atttack on the statement of his opponent Ben G. Oneal, that Loftin is a politician and Oneal is not. The speaker quoted numerous instances in which he said Oneal had used political tactics in his campaign. Mr. Loftin will be introduced by Cecil Storey in an address at Vernon Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock.

ELY SPEAKS AT GRAHAM RALLY

Wichitans Speak at Last Sterling Gathering

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 20.—For the last time in the hectic gubernatorial campaign, voters of this region tonight heard the records of Ross Sterling and the Ferguson duo compared in the final rally of the Sterling forces in the city.

The principal speaker was Judge W. R. Ely, member of the state highway commission with Mr. Sterling. Other speakers included Barney Flynn of Wichita Falls and Judge Milburn Long of Abilene. The speakers were introduced by Graham Stewart, chairman of the Sterling headquarters here.

Judge Ely, last to speak, played on the humble background of Sterling's early life and detailed his service to the state during past few years, in after-breaths bringing up the impeachment record of James E. Ferguson, husband of Sterling's opponent, and describing what he termed the Ferguson mansion in Austin as the "palace of a thousand pardons."

A large crowd attended the rally. Mr. Flynn made a brief talk. J. S. Bridwell of Wichita Falls, scheduled to make an address, was unable to attend.

X-Ray Treatment of Goitre

Everybody dislikes the idea of a surgical operation, and so when other methods are sometimes successful it is only natural that the individual needing an operation wonders why he could not be treated by some non-surgical method.

And some of these non-surgical methods have been most successful, namely the use of injections for varicose veins and for hemorrhoids or piles, which are really just varicose veins, the use of the rest and alkaline treatment for stomach and intestinal ulcer, radium treatment for cancer, and so forth.

Also many cases of serious goitre have been cured by the use of iodine and rest, and so the patient who has been advised to undergo a surgical operation for this condition often wonders why.

By testing the metabolism, (that is, the building up and breaking down of his tissues) it has been found that the thyroid gland is still too active despite the rest and medical treatment, and so a portion of the gland must be removed.

I have spoken before of how the X-ray has been of help in these cases where surgery was advised, and now Dr. W. Brednow, Munich, reports his experience of 37 cases treated by the X-ray during the past year.

These cases were of the severe type.

Eight persons recovered completely, seven of whom were under 30 years of age.

In 19 cases improvement was noted.

In the remaining nine cases the treatment was not effective; however, the majority of cases were more than 50 years and some more than 60 years.

Now although this series consisted of only 36 cases, with about 25 per cent cured, 50 per cent improved, and about 25 per cent failures, it would seem that this method is certainly worth the trying in those cases where the patient dreads surgery, or where his general condition makes him a poor surgical risk.

Of course in simple goitre cases the usual rest treatment sometimes with iodine medication, is sufficient to correct the condition.

However, it must not be forgotten that there are some cases that cannot be cured except by surgery and your doctor by examination and metabolism tests is able to decide when this must be done.

There is no other way, and now that the patient is put into the best possible condition before operation, and our surgeons are so skillful that the operation has been made less dangerous than formerly, there should be no hesitancy about undergoing it.

COURT TO END BABY MIXUP

Judge Sabath to Render Decision Monday

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (INS)—Judge Joseph Sabath, veteran arbitrator of domestic squabbles, next Monday will be asked to hand down a decision in the Bamberger-Watkins baby mixup.

This announcement was made today by William Watkins, father of one of the infants, who consulted with his attorney after last night's milk-and-honey scene when the babies were exchanged during his absence.

"I feel certain that Dr. Kegel (city health commissioner) pulled that affair last night solely to protect the hospital," Watkins declared. "It was the most barehanded thing that could have occurred.

"If I had been home at the time it would never have happened. My wife protested against the change, saying she wanted to consult with me. The baby was virtually snatched out of her arms."

Watkins said he thought the action was a "publicity stunt" to make money for the newspapers and the moving picture companies.

Pro Agent Quits When Accused

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20. (INS)—James A. Barr, former inspector for the prohibition unit here resigned from government service recently following charges by three St. Louis druggists that they paid Barr to make favorable reports on their disposal of government liquor, it was learned here today by long distance telephone from George W. Crowder in Kansas City, legal adviser of the Missouri prohibition unit.

The liquor permits of two of the druggists were revoked on Crowder's recommendation after a hearing held before him, Crowder declared. A hearing on the third case is to be held in October, Crowder stated.

So far as he knows no action has been brought against Barr or the druggists by the United States district attorney's office here, Crowder declared.

SPORTS SCORE TWO IN NINTH TO SWEEP SPUDDER SERIES, 3 TO 2

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Milton Steengrafe, the tall right-hander, is having one of his best years since he joined the Wichita Falls Spudders in 1927. Not his best, but one of his best. He is already assured of beating his record of 1929, when he won 16 games and lost 14. He has already won that number this season, and has lost only eight.

The experts don't expect Steengrafe to cover himself with glory by winning 20 games this season. To do that he would have to bear down and win every remaining start, for the chances are he will get to start about four more games this season. Give him the breaks, and he might accomplish this feat anyway. Should he be run in as a relief pitcher and win a contest or so, and then win his regular starts, he would win his 20 games and more. But it's a hard chance.

Steengrafe's best season's record since he lined up with the Spudders was made in 1928, when he won 22 games and lost eight. In 1927 he won 15 and lost six.

Wiltse, with 18 victories and seven losses to his credit this season, is almost sure to get his score. Last season he won 19 and lost 11. He has to win only one more to tie his 1929 record of games won, and his defeats this season are not likely to number one short of a dozen.

Thus the records show our veteran pitchers to be on the up grade, and that is consolation indeed. But the support these older hurlers are receiving from the newcomers also is gratifying. Lester White, who won 11 and lost five games with Abilene of the West Texas league last year, is stepping along with 14 victories and seven defeats in faster company, and along with Fred Vincent is providing much needed strength in our mound staff. Vincent is progressing well indeed, with 10 victories and four defeats, a record that justifies his entrance into class A company. Last season with York, Pa., of the New York-Pennsylvania league Freddie won 18 and lost 13. Little Dick Florrid's relief pitching this year has been one of the great sensations down at the park. Ash Hillin hasn't been seen much during the second half, but his strong arm sooner or later will produce results.

Earl Caldwell is still in the middle of a big slump, to all appearances. When he snaps out of it and pitches baseball like he did against Beaumont these many weeks ago, then he'll be his normal self. Caldwell won 21 games for Waco last year, and there is no reason why he shouldn't deliver the goods with this outfit. So far he has won only 14 games. It is too late in the season now for him to hope to equal his last year's record. But he certainly can improve his record of the last few weeks.

This array of pitchers we have is by far the most consistent bunch of hurlers in the league when they are putting fire on the ball. The pitching, in fact, seems to be improving. Outside of Caldwell's slump, there is little else to bother about. Wiltse hasn't got off to his regular stride yet, but it is bound to come soon. The trouble isn't with the pitching. It's with the hitting. With Larry Bettencourt fanning three times in a row before the fast ones of Dizzy Dean in the Houston series, and whiffing three times in a row before Oscar Tuero at Shreveport Tuesday night, it's no wonder things look odd in the standing column. And Bettencourt isn't alone. Kloza took his three whiffs from Dizzy Dean, and several others watched three go by. And the whole bunch together couldn't get but six singles off Tuero in Tuesday night's slaughter.

And so if we drop a notch or two in the standings the next few days, don't blame our pitchers too much. Pitchers must have a run now and then in order to win ball games.

Larry Bettencourt is so far enmeshed in his batting slump that things are looking dour, indeed. The big Portuguese giant has cut up plenty atmosphere recently, but he hasn't hammered a baseball on the nose in the memory of the next to the oldest inhabitant. During the first half his home run hitting got so common that every story started off with "Aided by Larry Bettencourt's home run in the ninth with three on, the Spudders yesterday whipped so-and-so." Now the big news on the wires is that Oscar Tuero fanned the big brute three times in a row. In the dim and distant past the rail birds peering through knot-holes in the centerfield fence stirred up a legend. If a home run ball barely dropped over the fence, they said, it was hit by Steengrafe or some other pitcher. But if it whizzed o'er their heads with the ostensible purpose of continuing its journey until it reached the outskirts of Wichita county, then Larry Bettencourt hit it.

Nowadays we have even given up hopes of the big monster ever hitting a homer. We hope and pray he might connect for a single.

Bettencourt's great fault is in his style of batting. He takes a double cut at the ball that fails to work when he is faced by a good fastball pitcher like Dizzy Dean. Take a close peek at Larry some time when he cuts at one. Instead of having his bat on his shoulder ready to swing, he's letting it seesaw back and forth in his hands, and as the ball nears him, he has to bring the bat back and then cut forward to hit it. The time wasted in taking that double swing is in most cases enough time to allow the ball to zip past him and lodge in the catcher's mitt. A real, good smoke ball pitcher doesn't have the least bit of trouble fanning Bettencourt when Larry persists in taking that double cut.

Fort Worth Netters To Meet for Kansas Title

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Aug. 20. (AP)—The championship of the Southeast Kansas open juniors' tennis tournament will go to a Fort Worth player tomorrow, when Wilbur Hess, ranking No. 2 junior in Texas, and Jack Smith, both of Fort Worth, meet in the title match.

Hess eliminated Hal Surface, Kansas City, 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, in a hard fought semi-final match today while Smith defeated Kenneth Keil, Topeka, 7-5, 6-3.

Hess and Smith will meet Surface and Carl Duncan, Kansas City, for the doubles title.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Dizzy Dean added another victory to his growing collection this afternoon when he was credited with Houston's 7 to 4 win over Beaumont. Cochran Medalist In Golf Tourney

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (UP)—The cream of Texas golfers gathered here today for the first invitation tournament at Glen Garden country club. Qualifying play was on the program today with match play in several flights for Thursday.

High winds and rain during the forenoon caused many fine golfers to register high scores and some disappointments were felt in not entering the select company of the championship flight.

Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls, many times state champion and winner of every important title in the state at one time or another, scored a 74 to take medalist honors.

King's Team Wins Second Place In Clay Target Shoot

Special to The Record News.

VANDALIA FIELD, DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 20.—R. A. King, of Wichita Falls, competing for Texas in the state team race, broke 196 of 200 targets as the five Texans annexed second prize in that event on the third day's program in the 31st annual Grand American handicap.

They scored an aggregate of 973 targets, four less than the winning team, Ohio No. 2. E. F. Woodward of Houston, who also won the race of state champions in a shooting with H. F. Roberts of East Fultonham, Ohio, broke 197; Forest W. McNeir, Houston, 195; H. H. Newman, 187; and H. B. Woodward, Houston, 198.

A record entry list of nearly 600 competed in the day's program. Howard Benson of Pontiac, Mich., won the professional clay target championship, winning in a shoot-off after tieing with two others at 199.

Hagen Stages Comeback In Western Championship

INDIANWOOD GOLF CLUB, Orion, Mich., Aug. 20. (AP)—Reports of Walter Hagen's complete downfall from the ranks of golfdom's mighty appear to have been grossly exaggerated.

Hagen, minus an important golf crown for the first time in 17 years, spiked those reports today, when he swept over the Indianwood golf club course with a record-smashing 67, five strokes under par, to lead a field of 142 in the qualifying round of the Western open golf championship.

Sir Walter's great round gave him the lead by one stroke over another far-famed stylist, Johnny Farrell, of New York, and a three shot lead over Charles Guest, Detroit professional and present Southern California open champion who finished third.

Phillies Spray Lot With Home Runs To Turn League Leaders Back, 10-8

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Philadelphia sprayed Wrigley field with home runs today to defeat the Cubs, 10 to 8, in the playoff of their twice-tied game. The defeat, however, did not damage the National league champions' lead over New York, which lost to St. Louis, 5 to 4. Although the Cubs peppered Ray Benge for 17 hits to 13 obtained by the Phillies off Lynn Nelson and Bob Osborn, the Easterners mixed in five home runs. Davis got two, the second one with a pair of runners on, while Chuck Klein, Frank O'Doul and Don Hurst got one each. Score:

Brooklyn's loss was not as serious as it might have been, for both its rivals, Chicago and New York, were defeated and the Robins fell back only a half game in the pennant chase. Benny Frey got the best of old Adolfo Luque in the first game, holding the Robins to five hits while Cincinnati made a little better use of seven blows. SENATORS 14, BROWNS 4

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Washington got a measure of revenge on St. Louis today for the beatings administered on the last western trip when they defeated the Browns 14 to 4. The contest was a free hitting affair and the Browns' three errors helped. Washington scored ten runs in the fifth inning when Coffman was relieved by Kimsey, who in turn yielded to Stiles. Score:

George Fisher's pinch homer in the fifth gave the Cardinals three runs while an error and Fitzsimmons' wildness accounted for the winning tallies in the seventh. Scores:

RIVAL DEFEATS SARAH PALFREY

Upset Features Third Round In Singles Championship

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 20. (AP)—The dramatic downfall of 17-year-old Sarah Palfrey at the hands of a California youngster of her own age featured the third round of play for the national women's tennis championship at the west side stadium this afternoon.

Leading at 4-1 in the final set, the little Brookline, Mass., stylist suddenly weakened under a steady fire from the racquet of her western rival, Dorothy Weisel of Sacramento, and went down to unexpected defeat 6-2, 6-8, 6-4.

Miss Palfrey was the No. 4 seeded player in the tournament, while Miss Weisel, a slender girl with an eye shade and a ranking as the second best player in Northern California, was not included in the seeded list of 10.

Another young Californian, Helen Marlowe of Los Angeles, learned how fleeting tennis fame can be when she lost to Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., after having provided the principal sensation of yesterday's play by eliminating Eleanor Goss of New York. Miss Anderson's greater experience carried her to victory today, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Except for Miss Weisel and Miss Anderson all of the players who reached the quarter-finals were members of the seeded group.

Betty Nuthall, 19-year-old English challenger, continued her steam roller progress through the field by overwhelming Edith Cross of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-3. Miss Goss was ranked third in the country on her play last year but has not been going so well this season and she was able to offer little real opposition.

In one of the outstanding quarter-final matches tomorrow Miss Nuthall encounters Miss Weisel, and in the same half of the draw Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., will meet Ethel Burkhardt of San Francisco. Miss Morrill, for the second time in two days, won in straight sets, this time from Dorothy Workman of Los Angeles, while Miss Burkhardt defeated Virginia Rice, Boston, 6-2, 6-2.

In the lower half Mrs. Anna Harper of San Francisco will oppose Mary Greef of Kansas City and Miss Anderson will face Baroness Levi of Italy. Mrs. Harper won today from Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere, Boston, 6-0, 6-3; Miss Greef eliminated Ruth Oexman, Cincinnati, 6-3, 6-2, and the black haired baroness played a dazzling net game to overcome Josephine Cruickshank of Los Angeles, 7-5, 1-6, 6-1.

Electrics Win Merchants League Pennant by Defeating Southwesterns

Barnes Wrestling Match Postponed

Injured in a wrestling match at Dallas Monday night, George Barnes, middleweight champion of the world, will be unable to appear in his scheduled match at Athletic park here Friday night with Les Wolfe, Sherman, Texas, wrestler, Promoters Billings and Willoughby announced Wednesday.

The match was to have been a title bout, with Barnes putting his crown at stake.

The champ, however, should be up and around soon, and a match featuring him probably will be staged here in two weeks, the promoters said.

As a substitute for the Barnes title bout the promoters will stage a match between Silent Rattan, deaf mute from Kansas City, and Charlie Carr of New Orleans. Rattan is regarded as a sure shot for the next welterweight championship. He recently wrestled Jack Reynolds, titleholder, to a two-hour draw.

Two other matches will be on the card.

Big Bill Defeats College Champion

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20. (UP)—A real Tilden tennis exhibition today resulted in a victory for Big Bill over Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, 19-year-old intercollegiate champion, in a match of the annual Newport invitation tournament. Scores were 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, 2-6, 8-6.

Tilden put on one of his clever, cagey performances, and the match excited the typically fashionable gallery. The spectators were especially interested in the contest because they remembered how Tilden had stalked from the courts in the recent Rye competition while playing Sutter. Tilden was "booed" on that occasion, but there was only applause for him today.

Favoring his lame leg, Tilden let point after point go by rather than race a pace or two to meet Sutter's fast drives. Not until the ninth game of the fifth and final set was reached did the champion apply any serious pressure. At that point he was trailing Sutter by three games to five.

Tilden's service was working properly by now although he did lose the 12th game of the set on his serve. In the final game Tilden was at match point five times.

The victory placed Tilden in the quarter final round. Others to reach that round were Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Texas; George Lott of Chicago; Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J.; Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Frank Shields, New York; John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J.; Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York.

The Texas Electric Service company nine won the 1930 pennant in the Merchants league race Wednesday afternoon when they defeated the Southwestern Glass and Paint company team in the deciding game of the play-off series, 8 to 7. The game was played on Harrison field.

The Southwesterns outhit the Electrics, but costly errors gave their opponents a lead which a fifth inning rally failed to overcome. Shepherd, Electric third baseman, pulled a double play unassisted to retire the side in the fifth.

While Hicks led his team in hitting, Worley, Southwestern shortstop, played a fine defensive game. Shepherd and Coolidge were the batting mainstays for the Electrics.

The Electrics' victory unwound a three-way tie for the championship. The Security National bankers were eliminated Tuesday in a play-off with the Southwesterns. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Rather nervous and irregular fluctuations were reported in cotton here today, but declines seemed to bring in considerable buying, and the undertone was generally steady.

A forenoon advance of some 20 to 25 points on bullish features in the weekly report of the weather bureau were followed by declines under selling promoted by rains in Oklahoma, but the market stiffened up again later on renewed covering. December contracts after advancing from 11.13 to 11.37, and declining to 11.21, sold up to 11.30 and closed at 11.24, compared with 11.13 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 9 to 11 points.

Offerings seemed quite readily absorbed, and buying became more active after the publication of the weekly weather report which some traders considered more bullish than expected in its references to conditions in Texas. The new October sold up to 11.20 and March to 11.61 on this 20 points on the active months and re-demand, making net advances of 20 to coveries of nearly half a cent from the low level of yesterday.

The detailed weather reports showing considerable rain in Oklahoma were considered a factor on the early afternoon decline, but the comparatively light showers reported at nine or ten points in Texas were regarded as inadequate and the afternoon buying was accompanied by reports of a higher basis in the Southwest.

Liverpool cables reported that covering and continental buying had absorbed hedging and Bombay selling there. Exports today 9,475, making 161,120 so far this season. Port receipts 9,475. U. S. port stocks 1,664,921.

Futures closed steady, 9 to 11 points higher; spot steady; middling, 11.35.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The cotton market while less active than on previous days nevertheless developed fair trading today but prices were erratic and fluctuating. Following an early drop of 4 to 5 points on the execution of over-night selling other prices rallied two to 28 points on a bullish construction of the weekly weather and crop summary but later cost 18 to 21 points on hedge selling and realizing.

The market was steady after mid-session and fluctuated narrowly within the earlier range, it being supported by the good demand reported for spots. The close was called steady, showing net advances of the day of 14 to 17 points. The bullish weekly weather report mainly stressed the continuance of the drouth.

Liverpool came in 3 to 5 points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 1 to 4 points but soon eased off on rather liberal selling orders, October trading down to 10.90, December to 11.10 and January to 11.33, or 4 to 6 points down from the opening figures.

The market later rallied on a bullish view of the weekly weather report which said the crop had deteriorated owing to the drouth and heat. October advanced to 11.18, December to 11.38 and January to 11.50 up 27 to 28 points from the lows. The bulge attracted fresh hedge selling and profit taking and prices eased off 18 to 21 points from the highs.

Prices ruled steady during the afternoon and kept about 17 to 18 points above the lows. October closed at 11.08, December at 11.28 and January at 11.38 at net gains for the day of 14 to 17 points.

Port receipts 20,154, for week 98,463, for season 293,049, last season 180,810. Exports 9,475, for week 73,420, for season 156,378, last season 165,194. Port stocks 1,665,241, last year 524,822. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 18,101. Last year 26,714. Spot sales at Southern markets 21,745, last year 21,407.

Bears Find Only Few Openings And Stocks Make New Upward Moves

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (US)—The stock market achieved further progress on the upside today after wading through a mass of additional unfavorable developments. Favored by the day's news bear raids were successful only in a few instances. The general list displayed impressive resistance to the occasional outbreak of weakness in particular issues.

Thus, the main body of stocks virtually ignored reduction in the Hudson Motor dividend to $3 from the former $5 rate; even Hudson closing higher for the day. Dividend omission by the Warner-Quinlan Oil company likewise had no effect on the market. A stand-off steel trade review, disclosing an uneven tone in this basic industry, was accepted as more bullish than bearish. The afternoon trading, however, was affected by omission of its dividends by Shell-Union Oil, the American unit of the all-powerful Royal Dutch combine. Prices throughout the list sagged on the announcement, but average quotations at the close were higher than the previous day.

The market itself is winning many new friends daily by its performance. The continued wave of bear news is having adverse effect almost exclusively on those issues specifically concerned. The main body of the market seems inclined to ignore these developments, most of which have been anticipated. Another encouraging factor is the tendency of the new bull sponsors for the market to prevent any undue excitement. Bankers continue confident that business conditions will improve over the next two months, but warn against any attempts to capitalize this by "whoopee" in the stock market.

The Iron Age reported steel industry operations at 53 per cent of capacity, against 52 per cent a week ago. This was in direct contradiction of the earlier estimates which reported a decline in activities. The Iron Age also reported increased buying activities with every promise of increased business in the near future. The auto industry, however, the review asserted, is not expected to contribute to the larger business for some time. It also reported that the Ford plant may reduce operations to a three day weekly basis, and this chilled the market until official denial was issued by the Ford officials that this was not even being considered. Steel common gained over two points at the high and held most of its gain and the independent steels, which have been laggards of late, also responded.

The copper stocks were under pressure as Kennecott sank to a new low on heavy selling induced by additional nervousness over its dividend. The buying of Kennecott, however, was reported to be for the account of well-informed interests who believe this stock has practically discounted the worst that can be expected. Gillette was another outstanding weak spot, breaking sharply on selling attributed to interests who were successful in breaking this stock from its year's high in the original attack on this stock. A simultaneous decline in Auto-Strop, which dropped seven points, led to reports the long-rumored merger deal between these companies may have been called off.

Motion picture stocks as a group showed the greatest strength. Radio-Keith was up 2¼, Loews 2⅞, Paramount 2½, Fox 1¼. Warner was under pressure. Strength in these stocks reflected the exclusive disclosure here that motion picture attendance has revived remarkably during the last ten days. This statement received widespread notice and was confirmed in official reports of recent attendance at pivotal theaters. The Fox shorts who had succeeded in breaking the stock on Monday found themselves in additional difficulties as they attempted to cover. Insiders of this company declare that earnings may easily run 50 per cent above dividend requirements. The Paramount buying continued for interests close to its bankers, while R. K. O. responded to this column's announcement its third-quarter income may approximate the excellent first-quarter showing. A run in of shorts in the public utility section of the market, staged by powerful interests friendly toward these stocks, succeeded in advancing the entire list of utilities. American & Foreign Power, in which a large short interest had been created, was up almost three points net, and Public Service gained a point.

Among specialties, J. I. Case Threshing was a feature by running up 7½ points in response to reports agricultural machinery plants have been increasing operations. International Harvester gained almost four points at its high of the day on buying stimulated by the same information. Motor stocks generally paid no attention to the Hudson dividend reduction. Oil shares were inclined to softness as a result of the Shell-Union action. Both Shell and Royal Dutch reached new lows for the year. Royal Dutch has an enormous stock interest in the Shell-Union, and estimates were made omission of the latter's payment may reduce Royal Dutch's income as much as $1 a share. Railroad stocks were virtually unchanged. Investment issues of the caliber of American Tobacco continued in demand.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—Fair demand was reported for the limited offerings on cash grain market here today. There was still a wide variation between the bids of mills and exporters for wheat and the latter were not buying much, according to reports. Basis delivered Texas gulf ports, export bids were 93¾c to 94¼c. Mill bids were 95½c to 96c, basis delivered Texas common points.

Estimated receipts: Wheat 51 cars; corn seven; oats three; barley one and sorghums four.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.04 to $1.07; No. 2 white or yellow $1.05 to $1.07.

Oats—No. 2 red 51c to 52c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 49c to 50c to which add 1c for delivery group 3.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 74c to 76c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.80 to $1.85; No. 2 kaffir, $1.75 to $1.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Corn led an upward flight of grain values today.

Authoritative estimates that United States wheat, oats, rye and barley supplies that season lumped together with corn were 435,000,000 bushels short of the actual disappearance of these grains last season did much to bring about the soaring of prices.

It was also pointed out that in addition to the shortage of grain, there have been immense losses in potatoes and other root crops as well as sorghums and forage, and that wheat and rye were approximately 50 cents under prices of a year ago with corn and oats 10 cents under.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled 2c-2⅛c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed firm, 1⅛c-2c up, oats 1⅛-1½c advanced, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 27 cents.

Adding to the consequent buoyancy of the corn market was the fact that corn prices showed better than a ten to one feeding ratio, with hogs today quoted at the highest figures reached in a year and up since yesterday as much as 30 cents a hundredweight.

Wheat and oats paralleled the action of corn, but wheat gains were checked by word of better weather in Europe and of ideal harvest weather in Canada, with export demand slow today for wheat from North America.

Falling off in receipts of domestic winter wheat attracted notice in connection with increasing reports of enlarged use of wheat as feed for livestock.

Provisions reflected the jumps in hog values and also in grain.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Although receipts of cattle here today were of rather liberal volume, about 4,000 head, the general trade in all classes of cattle, with the exception of slaughter cows, held steady.

Common grass steers sold around $4.50, with plain steers around $5.50.

Several loads of fairly good steers moved in the $6.00 range and the best fed beeves offered brought $7.25 and $7.35. Slaughter yearlings package lots reported at $10.00, with sales scattered, mostly from around $9.75 down.

Butcher cows found an outlet mostly from $4.00@4.50 with carlots at the former price. Low cutters moved usually from $2.50@2.75 with meaty low cutters around $3.00. Bulls were very scarce, a few light and medium weight sausage bulls scattered from $3.50@4.50.

Cleansing Dentifrice Preferred, Says Expert

A warning that a dentifrice has the sole object of cleansing the teeth should be preferred to those which contain ingredients supposed to correct the acidity of the saliva has just been issued by Dr. H. H. Bunzell, former United States government bio-chemist and recent professor of bio-chemistry at the University of Cincinnati medical school after completing a series of exhaustive scientific analyses of a number of dentifrices.

"No relationship can be found between the condition of the teeth and the degree of acidity found in the saliva," Doctor Bunzell reported as an outstanding finding resulting from his scientific tests. A noted authority and specialist on dentifrices, Doctor Bunzell has published a series of scientific bulletins on what the real purpose of a dentifrice is in the care of the teeth.

"A dentifrice whose sole object is to clean the teeth," Doctor Bunzell stated, "and which is made primarily from the most effective clansing agents, is to be preferred to one which relies on ingredients put in for other purposes, such as the correction of the acidity of the saliva." As a result of his scientific tests of dentifrices Doctor Bunzell reported that of the dentifrices analyzed, one like Colgate's ribbon dental cream which is made of the most effective cleansing agents is to be preferred.

Burk C.-C. Aids In Hopper War

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Aug. 20.—Farmers whose crops are being threatened in this area by grasshoppers and other insects are receiving material aid from the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce in their efforts to exterminate the pests. To date more than 1,600 pounds of arsenic has been ordered and distributed by the local chamber to fight the hoppers.

The chamber of commerce is also distributing alfalfa seed to farmers in this area who will agree to plant a five-acre tract this fall, according to E. H. Lilly, secretary. Seed being distributed are of the highest quality, and leaders here are hopeful of seeing another "money crop" added for Burkburnett through the experiments with alfalfa.

COMMISSION ON LABOR NAMED

Personnel of New Group Announced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Secretary Davis today announced the personnel of President Hoover's unemployment statistical commission, which will convene here Oct. 6.

The members are John P. Frey of the American Federation of Labor; Arthur O. Wharton, of the railroad brotherhoods and affiliated organizations; Dr. Leo Wolman, national board of economic research; Harold F. Brown, national industrial conference board; P. W. Mitchfield, United States Chamber of Commerce; William M. Steyart, director of the census; Ethelbert Stewart, director of the bureau of labor statistics, department of labor; Dr. Joseph Willits, advisory committee of the census of unemployment, and Noel Eargent, National Association of Manufacturers.

Secretary Davis expressed confidence in the outcome of the conference, and said he believed a study of statistics would reveal a steadily decreasé in unemployment.

Much of the unemployment, which prevails throughout the winter and spring, has been prevalent to some extent by reason of the drouth, he said, with the revival of industry, including mining operations, which have been slowed down by reason of overproduction.

ABSENTEE VOTE SHOWS GAIN

Second Primary Balloting May Exceed First

At the closing hour for absentee balloting in Wichita county Wednesday afternoon, a total of 441 absentee votes had been cast and 55 ballots mailed out were yet to be received in the clerk's office, according to the announcement of Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk. The total, it was said, compares favorably with totals in past election years and equals, if it does not exceed, the absentee vote in the heated presidential election two years ago, on which official figures were not available Wednesday.

The total of 47 ballots cast in the clerk's office Wednesday brought the total number cast in the office for the seven days to 330, Miss Hall said. In addition, 111 ballots had been received marked by persons to whom they had been mailed out of the county. Miss Hall said 55 ballots mailed to persons already out of the county had not yet been received but that the majority of these would probably be received Thursday and Friday. Any such ballots which arrive after the hour of turning the absentee votes over to the election judges cannot be counted in the election, she said.

The number of ballots mailed out for the second primary is unusually large, the clerk pointed out, while the total cast in the office of the clerk alone far exceeds the grand total of all absentee votes cast in the first primary. In spite of predictions to the contrary, this absentee vote gives promise of a huge poll in the county at the regular voting Saturday, officials said, and if Wichita county may be taken as indicative of the other counties over the state, the total vote in the run-off primary will exceed that of the first primary. Miss Hall said Wednesday she attributed the large number of absentee votes to high-pitched interest in the governor's race, the race for attorney general and that for congressman from this district.

Boy Jones Ill From Ptomaine Poisoning

Roy Jones, candidate for county tax collector, was unable to leave his home Wednesday on account of a severe attack of ptomaine poisoning which struck him suddenly and forced him to remain in bed under the care of a physician. His condition Wednesday night was reported better, although the poisoning was still causing considerable pain. He will probably return to his duties as chief deputy tax collector Thursday.

"Tell me, pretty maiden—"

To those who were old enough to take note of their surroundings during the period from 1890 to about 1900 and to those who wandered back three or four decades through the courtesy of the Majestic theater, the chorus sung by the Florodora girls will start a string of associations—of leg-of-mutton sleeves and men who twirl their mustaches with evil intent and girls who haughtily discuss honorable intentions.

Marion Davies is at her best in "The Florodora Girl," now showing at the Majestic, which of course isn't such an awful lot at that. It isn't any particularly good acting which makes the picture a success, but the idea itself and some excellent directing, staging and costuming. Marion even forgets and says "Oh, yeah?" right in the middle of fastening up her corset and bustle and whatever else there was.

The clever, satirical slant at the gay nineties, the delightful revival of old tunes such as "In the Good Old Summertime," and the quaint and historically correct costumes are the elements which make "The Florodora Girl" a success. The difference between a costume picture which is a bore and one which is interesting is that the former is usually just a disguise of a lot of hokum, while the latter reveals the hokum. It is of the latter type that "The Florodora Girl" may be classified. There are far too many in-the-not-too-distant past of the former type.

Election returns will be flashed on a separate screen at the Majestic theater Saturday night just as was done four weeks ago, it was announced Wednesday by Manager Victor Lowrey.

Southwest Plane Travel Increases

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (US)—Two hundred and 77 more persons flew between Chicago, St. Louis and Tulsa and the Southwest touching Dallas, Brownsville and El Paso in June and July of this year than flew during the entire first years' operation of the universal division, American Airways, Inc., route.

This announcement was made tonight by Col. Halsey Dunwoody, executive vice president, on the second anniversary of Universal's service to the Southwest.

In the first year a total of 2,059 persons traveled the line and this year 4,966 persons flew. In June and July alone this year 2,336 persons were carried. The original service was one flight a day north and south but now six schedules are maintained. Operations efficiency was reported at 97 per cent for the year ending today with the average speed for the year-round operation 103 miles an hour.

Inquiry of Swift Suicide Closes

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (US)—The mystery surrounding the suicide of William E. Swift, son of Louis F. Swift, the Chicago meat packer, was officially closed this afternoon after Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, conducted an exhaustive inquiry into the circumstances leading to his death.

"We've got to believe it. There's nothing else to do," said Dr. Norris, after questioning Dr. Edward S. Cowles, in whose Park Avenue sanitarium the young man shot himself last Saturday night.

How young Mr. Swift succeeded in bringing the gun into the hospital and why there was an hour's delay before Dr. Cowles notified the medical examiner's office were points that remained unsolved.

ELECTION JUDGES
Same Officials Named To Preside in Second Primary Here

Presiding judges who officiated at the polling places in Wichita county during the general primary on July 26 will be expected to preside during the run-off primary election next Saturday, and will receive their boxes during Thursday and Friday, according to an announcement made Wednesday by Judge Edgar M. Scurry, chairman of the Wichita county Democratic executive committee.

Presiding judges should make arrangements immediately for the help which they will require Saturday, Judge Scurry said. Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Autopsy on Body Of Texan Ordered

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, Aug. 20. (AP)—Doubt, expressed by officers, over the cause of the death of Edgar A. Dix, 69, who died here Tuesday morning resulted today in the issuance of an order for an autopsy by Justice T. A. Butler.

The inquest will be held, the justice said, on request of several friends of the dead man who have presented affidavits stating that they believe the man came to his death through "mysterious circumstances."

Judge Butler investigated the death yesterday but has been withholding his decision until the autopsy could be held.

More Farmers Needed In Valley, Lions Told

Need of the Wichita irrigated valley for more home-owning farmers was detailed before members of the Lions club Wednesday by C. C. Hudson of Iowa Park. All other elements requisite to the future prosperity of the valley are present, he said.

Mr. Hudson also discussed the Wichita county fair to be staged in Iowa Park in September, and said it would be the largest thus far presented.

Frank Cripliver, president of the club, reported his recent visit to the Lions club at Houston. C. T. Main of Stillwater, Okla., and K. C. Spell, made short informal talks.

DAMAGE SUITS ASK $40,000

Ambulance Right-of-Way Cited in Petition

The Wichita Falls Traction company was named defendant Wednesday in two damage suits filed in district court here, both suits growing out of the ambulance-street car crash here several weeks ago which resulted in injury to about a dozen persons. Damages asked in the two suits aggregate $40,000, with R. L. Whitehead and Albert Liemkuehler, both occupants of the ambulance demolished in the accident, as plaintiffs.

The petitions filed in behalf of Whitehead and Liemkuehler are practically identical in their allegations, both setting forth city ordinances purporting to show the Albert's emergency ambulance had right of way and was not exceeding the speed limits allowed such vehicles at the time of the crash. The city ordinances, according to the petitions, set a speed maximum of 20 miles per hour within the city limits for all except vehicles of the fire and police departments, emergency ambulances and physicians responding to emergency calls. The petitions also quote the ordinances as giving emergency ambulances right of way in all cases except upon the approach of such emergency vehicles, in which case street cars are required to stop.

The street car motorman, it is alleged, was negligent in failing to heed these ordinances and in failing to exercise ordinary care in seeing and hearing the approaching ambulance, which was claimed to have been clearly visible and to have been running with its siren operating. Mr. Whitehead asks damages of $15,000 for injuries he is said to have sustained when thrown from the ambulance to the pavement. Mr. Liemkuehler claims $25,000 damages, both for the loss of the ambulance, which was practically demolished, and for injuries to himself. He was driving the emergency machine at the time. The local law firm of Bunnenberg & Nelson is representing the two plaintiffs.

Optimists Hear Talk On Auto Financing

Automobile financing was discussed by Solon R. Featherston before members of the Optimist club in its meeting at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon.

Belief in the value of installment buying to all parties to such business was expressed by Mr. Featherston. Installment buying was largely responsible for the development of the automobile manufacturing industry, he said.

"More than $2,000,000,000 worth of automobile finance paper was bought in this country in 1929 with 900 finance companies in business," he said.

Vocal solos by Drake Marshall were included in Wednesday's program, E. L. Buelow presided.

C. A. Lehman Entertains 44 Grandchildren at One Party; Served Under Lee in Civil War

By MRS. L. N. CASON
The Record News Staff

Clear sea blue eyes, a fresh pink complexion and a white goatee and white hair make the proverbial picture of a southern gentleman of a visitor to Wichita Falls who has entered his 94th year with the zest in life felt by men in their prime, C. A. Lehman of Oldenberg, Miss., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. Cygone at their home on Dayton, coming here from Christoval, Texas, where he attended an annual reunion of Confederate veterans.

Born in Oldenberg, Germany, he came to the United States in 1859, just in time to serve under Lee in the civil war. He had an uncle who was an officer under Grant. Seven years a sailor, four years a soldier and 24 years a postmaster, he says he has done a little of everything. He has made two trips in airplanes, one in San Angelo and on in Wichita Falls and says that he believes there are few men of his age who have gone up in the air.

Domino Expert

Mr. Lehman doesn't go up in the air in another way, however. He is a domino player to be reckoned with. He plays double dominoes and defeats the champions. His mind is as quick as when he was a young man and Wednesday afternoon he had an engagement at 3 o'clock for a very important game. On his last trip to Wichita Falls, he defeated the man known then as the champion player of the city.

He carries in his bill fold letters from pretty young girls. He showed one with a picture of the dainty miss who was his sponsor at the last reunion. She was playing tennis and wrote that she wished he could be there and she would teach him the game.

And no doubt he would have tried to learn it, for last winter, when Mississippi had an unprecedented six-inch snowfall, he was host on Jan. 18 to 44 grandchildren and it was only an attack of lumbago that prevented him going out and joining in the snow fight. His descendants, by the way, number 76. He had eight sons and two daughters.

His letters to his correspondents must be full of interest for Mr. Lehman's mind is alert and his penmanship is perfect. He showed a little notebook where he had entered the names, addresses and ages of his tent mates at the last reunion in Biloxi. There was no man there from his home county in Mississippi and none from the adjoining county and he says he was lost among some 10,000 strangers. His tent mates' ages ranged 88, 85, 80, etc., but it is safe to say that not many presented the appearance of this old southern gentleman. His chief worry now is that he has almost lost the sight in one eye and can hardly hear in the left ear and he fears blindness more than anything.

In 1865, after the close of the war, he went back to Germany to see his father who was a judge at Oldenberg. His father at that time was about 65, had lost his sight and Mr. Lehman dreads the same affliction.

Changed Town's Name

When a postoffice was given them in his home in Mississippi many years ago, he wrote to his senator stating that he was born in Oldenberg, and he would like to die in Oldenberg, but that it would be much easier for Oldenberg to come to him than for him to go to Oldenberg. So the postoffice, a small town near Natchez, was given the name of Oldenberg, Miss.

Mr. Lehman speaks French, German and English perfectly. He was educated by private tutors. He is an inveterate smoker, both of cigars and pipes and says he only smokes once—from the time he gets up until he is ready for bed. His health and appearance refute the idea that tobacco is injurious. He is a clean, healthy, courteous specimen of the American age of chivalry.

Slayer Burns Himself To Death in Jail Cell

WARREN, Pa., Aug. 20. (AP)—Building a fire in the county jail, Frank McKoon, 28, succeeded in a second attempt at suicide today by standing in the flames until he was burned fatally.

McKoon was waiting trial on a charge of first degree murder for the killing of Mrs. Mabel Lindquist at Sugar Grove last Memorial day. He first tried to kill himself at the time Mrs. Lindquist was slain. He recovered from a bullet wound in his left breast.

WATER BOARD ASKS REPORT

City Manager Requested To Give Views

George D. Fairtrace, city manager, will be asked to submit to the water committee of the chamber of commerce proposals for enlarging and improving the present city water system, according to steps taken at a meeting of the committee Wednesday.

Members of the water committee declined to endorse proposals said to have been made recently by Dallas and Fort Worth capitalists to supply this city with water to be pumped from shallow wells near Lockney, above the caprock. Such a supply would cost 36 cents per 1,000 gallons at the city gates, it was said, plus all costs of distribution, etc., to the consumer.

Tentative plans outlined by engineers several years ago for improving the local water system were considered inadequate now because of further growth of the city, members of the committee said.
