Work students should enroll now

Eleventh and twelfth graders can sign up now for the cooperative education program at Big Spring High School. The program allows students to go to school part of the day and work part of the day. Work training counts as three credits toward fulfilling graduation requirements, and students are encouraged to develop employable skills. Students from all schools in the area can sign up to work with the program in Big Spring. Students, parents or employers are encouraged to call the high school, 264-3641, for more information.

Bingo proceeds mailed to cities

State Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks totalling $2.3 million to counties and cities in Texas, including Big Spring and Colorado City, that have legalized bingo and that levy the two percent local tax on the games' gross receipts. The city of Big Spring received a check for $5,400.45 -- an increase from last year's $4,026.19. As of July 31, Big Spring has paid in $16,936.34 during the second quarter of 1990. The city paid in $10,908.55 for the same period in 1989.

Colorado City received a check for $717.35 for the same 1990 period, and made payments of $2,212.65. This is the first year it has instituted organized bingo.

Brownsville soldier rushes wedding

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Eddie Granado and Janie Valles were expecting to have a "majestic" wedding today. But the two 20-year-olds had to change their plans when Granado, a U.S. Army airborne soldier, got orders to head to Fort Bragg, N.C. on the double.

Granado was to be flown to Saudi Arabia as part of the U.S. forces dispatched there to guard against possible aggression from Iraq.

Granado's family says the Brownsville man was on leave Tuesday when military officials from Fort Bragg telephoned at 7:30 a.m.

"We knew he was at South Padre Island, but we didn't know where, so one of his sisters went looking for him," the soldier's mother, Carolina Granado, told the Valley Morning Star on Wednesday.

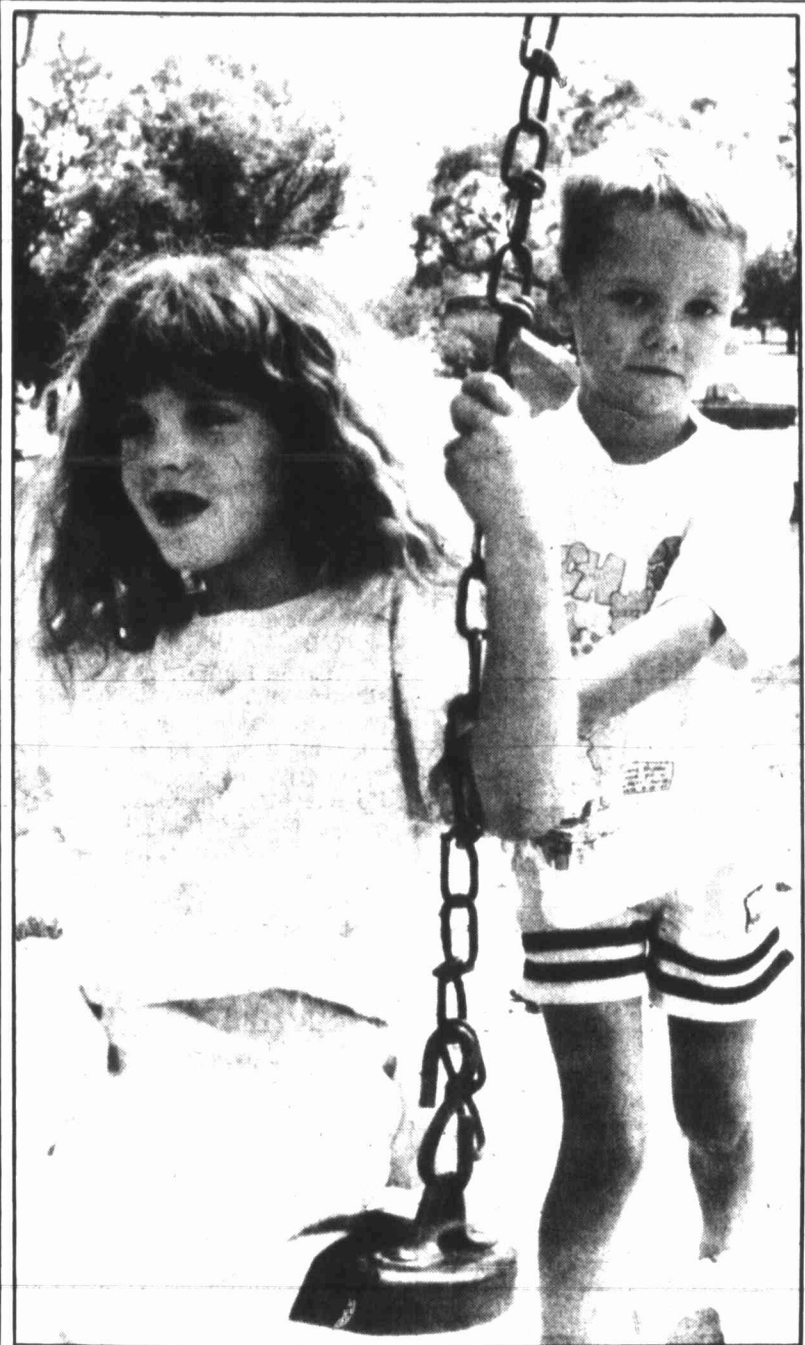

"She found him at 10:30 a.m., and he called Fort Bragg. They told him to be back at the base by midnight," she said.

Mrs. Granado said the family began moving quickly to try to get the couple married before her son left.

"The priest was so nice, he talked with the kids and said he would perform the wedding. They got married at 2 p.m.," she said.

Mrs. Granado said that after the wedding, the priest blessed her son.

Mrs. Granado said her son also had served a tour of duty last year in Panama.

Big Spring man dies in crash, one injured

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

A Big Spring man was killed and another man critically injured early today in a one-vehicle accident that occurred on the 11th Place Extension, according to Department of Public Safety officers.

Brenton Hartfield, 19, 1519 Stadium Road, who suffered massive head injuries, was pronounced dead at Scenic Mountain Medical Center at 8:15 a.m. by Howard County Justice of the Peace Willie Grant.

Scott Hardy, also 19, Route 2, Box 115, is listed in critical condition at Scenic Mountain's intensive care unit following emergency surgery, according to a nursing supervisor.

Big Spring police were informed an accident occurred shortly before 5:45 a.m. and after arriving a short time later at the 11th Place Extension, approximately one-half mile east of FM 700 discovered two men had been ejected from a 1990 Silverado pickup, according to a press release.

DPS troopers were summoned to the accident site when it was determined the accident occurred just outside the Howard County line.

DPS Trooper Jim Lasater — who along with Trooper Troy Hogue investigated the accident — said the pickup was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed in the westbound lane of the 11th Place Extension, and while attempting to maneuver onto the soft shoulder of the road, the driver lost control and the vehicle became airborne.

While traveling off the roadway an estimated 35 feet, the pickup flipped end-over-end three times before striking a small utility pole, Lasater said.

After being ejected through the back windshield, Hardy was discovered a short distance from the pickup. Hartfield was found lying about 25 feet from the vehicle, Lasater said.

The Silverado was registered to Hardy, although the DPS has not yet made a final determination about who was driving at the time the accident occurred, Lasater said.

"The pickup had less than 1,000 miles on the odometer and had a

U.S. troops positioned near Saudi-Iraqi border

By The Associated Press

High-level Iraqi envoys reportedly flew to Cairo today for an emergency Arab summit on the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, which Saudi Arabia's King Fahd called "the most horrible aggression" in the Arab world's modern history.

Thousands of U.S. troops and poured into Saudi Arabia today and reportedly took up positions within seven miles from the Iraqi border, despite Iraq's insistence it has no plans to invade the desert kingdom.

Iraq had also promised it would not invade Kuwait, which it overran a week ago and annexed on Wednesday.

King Fahd, in his first public comment on the invasion, said today the kingdom had sought foreign military help with great reluctance, and stressed that the U.S. and other troops would act only defensively.

In the past, the Saudis had repeatedly rejected U.S. requests to base American forces in the strategic country.

The U.N. Security Council was scheduled to meet in New York and approve a resolution refusing to recognize Iraq's annexation of Kuwait on Wednesday.

Iraq, meanwhile, took more steps today to solidify what it called its merger with Kuwait. It appointed the head of Kuwait's Iraq-installed government, a deputy prime minister of Iraq, and canceled Baghdad's multibillion-dollar debt to Kuwait.

Concern mounted for the estimated 3,000 Americans in Kuwait and 500 in Iraq who have not been allowed to leave. Iraq on Wednesday night turned over a 10-year-old California girl to U.S. diplomats in Baghdad but kept 38 other Americans who were taken off an airliner in Kuwait.

Iraq-Kuwait at a glance

Thousands of elite U.S. troops took up positions in Saudi Arabia today as President Bush vowed to protect the kingdom and its rich oil reserves. The president has ruled out an invasion of Iraq-occupied Kuwait and expressed optimism that an expanding military and economic blockade will force Iraq to abandon its conquest.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein responded to the arrival of the U.S. expeditionary force in Saudi Arabia by announcing an outright annexation of Kuwait, which his army overran last week.

Egypt and Morocco decided Wednesday not to join a U.S.-led multinational force in Saudi Arabia, at least for the moment. Arab leaders were gathering today in Cairo, Egypt, for an emergency summit in a final attempt to find a diplomatic solution. Iraq gave no indication it would attend.

Three days after ordering a worldwide economic boycott of Iraq, the United Nations Security Council was expected today to overwhelmingly approve a draft resolution that asks all nations to refuse to recognize the Iraqi annexation.

U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker assured Turkey today it would get full support from NATO if it becomes a target of Iraqi aggression for banning ships from loading Iraqi crude oil at offshore terminals. Baker also has been seeking Syrian and Iranian participation in undercutting Iraq's leader.

President Bush has called on oil companies to hold down price increases.

Oil prices dropped sharply and financial markets steadied after U.S. forces moved into Saudi Arabia and reports that the kingdom would increase its oil production. Other oil-producing countries, notably Mexico, have promised to step up oil production and delivery.

Iraq turned over a 10-year-old American girl to U.S. diplomats in Baghdad but kept 38 other Americans confined to a hotel under armed guard. Concern mounted for the estimated 3,000 Americans in Kuwait and 500 in Iraq who were not allowed to leave.

As Arab leaders gathered in the Egyptian capital for their summit, Egypt's state-run Middle East News Agency reported from Baghdad that two top Iraqi officials had left for Cairo to attend the gathering.

The news agency identified the two as Taha Yassin Ramadan, Iraq's first deputy premier and a member of the ruling military junta, and Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.

Larger budget needed to solve computer problems

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board of directors agreed at a meeting Wednesday to hold a public hearing Sept. 12 for the 1991 budget of $399,970, a $30,305 or 8 percent increase over last year.

Most of the increase is money set aside to correct a computer glitch in the tax appraisal system, which could mean contracting with another computer service company or even buying another computer system. The program is arbitrarily wiping out information being put in.

Although $28,000 was set aside in the budget to deal with the problem, it could cost up to $47,000 if new computer hardware is needed, Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire said in June. There is no recourse against the company servicing the computer since the warranty was exhausted a year after the district began using the program eight years ago, he said.

The company, Thompson Data Service of Brownwood, began interfacing their library with the district's computer system on Monday in an effort to correct the problem. However, it is too early to know if it will help.

"We really haven't had time to get into it," said Mae Mayhall, the district's computer operator.

"We will have a report on it next month," said Assistant Chief Appraiser Weldon Peoples.

One proposal for a new computer system could come from Capitol Appraisal Group Inc. of Austin, the company which has been doing the district's mineral appraisals.

"If you do get into a situation where you're entertaining a change, we'd like to get with you," company representative Michael W. Ohlendorf told board members last night.

Their proposal would probably consist of an on-line telephone system in which the district would access their computer in Austin, he said. In nearby areas, they provide computer services for Glasscock County and Coahoma Independent School District.

Meanwhile, another substantial budget increase is due to postage increases, Toomire said in June. The total cost for next year is expected to be $13,870, up from $9,930 this year.

In other business Wednesday, the board renewed Capitol's contract to assess mineral, utilities and oil-related personal property values. The two-year $73,600 contract is a 2.5 percent increase over their last contract with the district. This year is the sixth year the company has done mineral assessments for the district.

"That increase is well within line," said board member Gene Gresham, whose comment echoed board sentiments.

Board members also discussed possible problems due to the absence of Toomire, who is in Lubbock Methodist Hospital recovering from a mild stroke he suffered July 29. It is unknown when he will return.

A solution would be to have more board meetings if necessary, one board member said. "We may need to meet twice a month until we pass this crisis," he said.

Man kills hostage, then shoots himself

PARIS (AP) — A man who abducted his ex-wife and her 13-year-old daughter and bludgeoned the girl to death was listed in critical condition at hospital here with a self-inflicted gunshot head wound, police said.

Ed Sugg, age unknown, was taken to a Paris hospital, after police stormed his home Wednesday. His ex-wife, whose name was not released, also was beaten, and was in stable condition with head injuries.

Police Chief Karl Louis said Sugg apparently used a baseball bat to beat the woman and her daughter at the woman's Paris home, then took them to his home early Wednesday morning and bound them.

"At one point, the suspect then left to clean up the crime scene — there was blood all over the woman's home and porch — and in that time, the woman managed to free herself and escape," Louis said.

"She realized her daughter was dead and made her way to a nearby home where she called the sheriff's department," he said.

Louis said Sugg apparently returned to his home without going back to his ex-wife's home. State, Lamar County and city law-enforcement officers surrounded Sugg's home at mid-morning but got no response from him.

A tactical unit stormed the home late in the afternoon, and Sugg fired one shot into his head, Louis said.

Medicaid audit sought by Mattox

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox says the state's contract with National Heritage Insurance Co., which cut off Medicaid payments to doctors and hospitals because welfare department funds ran out, should be audited.

"I am wondering why (the Texas Department of Human Services) is paying millions of dollars in premiums to NHIC if NHIC can simply pass through all of the liability for actual claims to the department," Mattox said in a letter sent Wednesday to DHS Board Chairman Robert Mosbacher and Commissioner Ron Lindsey.

The insurance company says payments won't be made for services "on or after" July 25 and won't resume until the state sends more money. NHIC will continue to process claims.

Lindsey said the shortage can be covered if legislative leaders approve a $76 million fund transfer.

But Mattox said the Legislature is being asked to "bail out NHIC by transferring funds from other equally needy programs." He said NHIC receives a premium that presumably requires it to assume some risk for payment of claims.

"We all have the responsibility for insuring that in this time of budgetary crises, a private insurance company ... does not stand to derive undue benefits at the expense of the mentally retarded, elderly blind and disabled persons of this state," Mattox said.

Larry Shaw, a spokesman for DHS, said welfare officials would be glad to meet with Mattox and discuss the contract. "We'll be more than happy to brief the attorney general on that contract," he said.

Two children perish in Dallas home fire

DALLAS (AP) — Two young brothers were killed today in a house fire in Dallas.

Fire Captain W.A. Richardson says the victims were Albert Calloway, 3, and Demarcus Calloway, 4. One boy was found in a bedroom and the other in a closet.

The cause of the early morning fire had not been determined.

Cries heard to tap emergency oil reserves

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON — Oil industry analysts blame President Bush's reluctance to tap the nation's emergency oil stockpile after the Iraq-Kuwait crisis for much of the 15 cents more a gallon many Americans are now paying for gasoline.

"There's a real question why we should put the economy and consumers through all this pain when we have the oil available," said

Adam Sieminski, an oil economist for Washington Analysis Corp.

Since Iraq invaded Kuwait last week and other nations agreed not to buy the 4.2 million barrels they had been exporting daily, oil prices have been skyrocketing faster than any time since World War II, including the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

The United States built a 590-million-barrel Strategic Petroleum Reserve for just such a rainy day — at a cost of $20 billion to taxpayers over the past decade. Japan and most European countries also have built similar stockpiles totaling 425 million barrels.

Because there are countries that can still increase oil production — chiefly Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Venezuela — administration officials maintain there is no oil shortage and no need to tap the reserve to drive down prices.

"There's an overhead of oil in the marketplace, thank God," Bush told a news conference Wednesday. "I hope that this rapid spike in oil prices will not be permanent. ... If the world begins to see assurances that there will not be a dramatic cutdown on oil, then things will return much more to normal in the market."

At a conference in Washington on Wednesday, Mexican Foreign Secretary Fernando Solana, announced that his country would send an additional 100,000 barrels of oil a day to the United States to help fill the 700,000-barrel-a-day gap caused by the embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti oil. The Mexican commitment is scheduled to last two months.

One government official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said there is "evidence on the ground" that Saudi Arabia is moving to increase its oil production along with the United Arab Emirates and Venezuela.

Killeen argues for troops

DALLAS (AP) — The rapid development of a crisis such as the one in the Middle East is one reason why the Pentagon should take another look at the plans to shut down the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, Central Texas leaders say.

Killeen city leaders said Wednesday that with U.S. troops heading to the Middle East, perhaps the Pentagon moved too quickly in cutting back military bases around the country.

And they said they hoped that federal officials would reconsider the decision that is expected to cost the Central Texas town's economy an estimated $812 million a year and drive unemployment to near 25 percent.

"Here we are faced with a real crisis ... and we're busy deactivating the only people who could answer the challenge," said Rick Murphy, director of the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce. "I think it's high time someone in Washington stand up and say, 'Perhaps we've moved too fast and perhaps we've made a mistake.'"

"This is what these forces were intended to do and now that we need them, we don't have them," he said. "That's pretty scary."

Maj. Jim Boling, spokesman for the 2nd Armored Division, said two battalions already have been deactivated and a third is scheduled to cease operations Wednesday, paring 2,600 of the division's 12,200 soldiers.

The entire division will be phased out by October 1991.

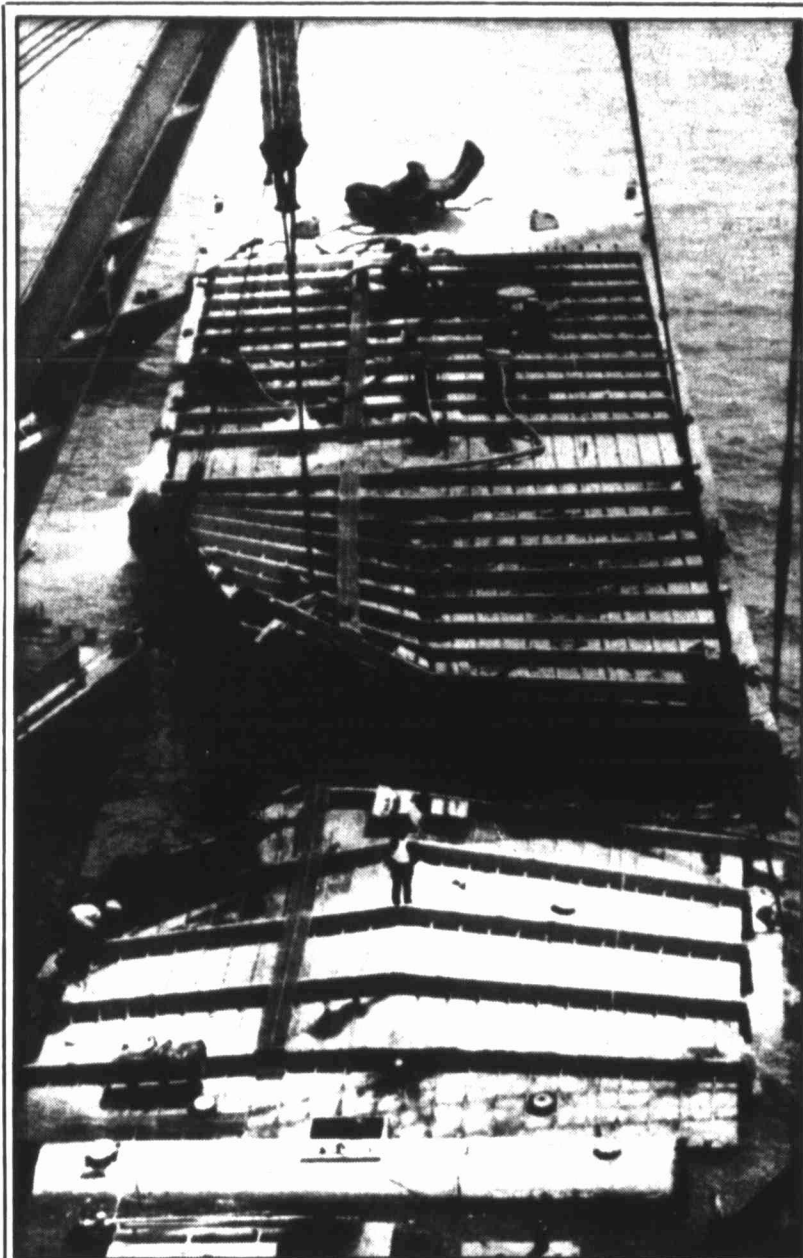

The shutdown of the Fort Hood division stems from defense spending cuts announced in January by Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney.

All of the soldiers in the defunct units have been reassigned to other battalions at Fort Hood. But, Boling said it is likely that some division soldiers ultimately will be transferred to other Army posts.

"I think they'd better sit back and take a different view of the cut-back process," Killeen Mayor M.E. Blair told The Dallas Morning News. "It's obvious we're going to continue to need forces. It's a bad move economically and strategically," he said.

"With world affairs changing rapidly, we contend that there's no point in cutting back forces to the point that we are not in a position to honor the security we owe the citizens of this country," Blair said.

"We're thinking that the decision Secretary Cheney made with regard to military forces ... was done without a lot of in-depth planning," he said.

HOUSTON — Salvage crews Wednesday cut the crippled oil barge for shipment to a scrap yard. The gash on the left is where the barge was hit by the ship in the Houston ship channel, causing a massive oil spill in Galveston Bay.

Galveston Bay delays have cost $20 million

HOUSTON (AP) — An accident in the Houston Ship Channel that dumped 700,000 gallons of oil into Galveston Bay nearly two weeks ago has cost shipowners as much as $20 million because of delays in reopening the waterway, an industry official says.

Ted Thorjussen, president of the West Gulf Maritime Association, an organization of shipping lines, estimates the channel closing has cost the lines between $15 million and $20 million.

The Greek tanker Shinoussa collided with two of three barges being towed by the tugboat, Chandry N, through the ship channel in the bay July 28. The tanker, although damaged, did not lose any of its cargo of jet fuel because of a double hull, but the two barges spilled 700,000 gallons of a heavy catfeed oil used in petroleum refining.

Because of the accident, all deep-water traffic through the Ship Channel was stopped between July 28 and Aug. 3, a move that cost the average shipowner up to $17,000 a day plus docking fees of up to $3,500 a day.

Two-way barge traffic has been permitted in the channel for nearly a week, with one-way traffic allowed for tow-escorted ship traffic since last Friday.

But efforts to clean up the oil spill and remove a submerged barge have delayed the full reopening of the waterway. Crews hope to move the crippled barge from the channel today, allowing two-way deep draft ship traffic for the first time since the accident.

"I think it's outrageous that the channel is still restricted," Thorjussen told the Houston Chronicle.

"The ships are not delayed as they used to be, but if you arrive at an inopportune time, you can lose a day both coming and going," he said.

Arco freezes wholesale fuel prices after Bush request

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlantic Richfield Co. announced a one-week freeze on wholesale fuel prices that could help calm angry drivers and improve public relations for an industry once again under attack during an oil crisis.

Other big oil companies said they already are practicing price restraint and denied allegations they have been using instability in the Persian Gulf as an excuse to gouge consumers at the gas pump.

Arco, the eighth-largest U.S. oil company, was the first to respond to a call by President Bush for restraint after unleaded gas prices rose more than 16 cents a gallon since Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

"This is primarily to help consumers and wholesalers take the edge off, maybe help head off some hoarding," said Kevin Lindemer, an energy analyst at Cambridge Research Associates in Cambridge, Mass. "It takes some of the panic and fear out of the market. It helps prices take a bit of a breather."

Arco said Wednesday its freeze affects prices of gasoline, diesel and jet fuel, Arco said it was encouraging its dealers, who by federal law set their own pump prices, to avoid increases.

The company said if crude oil prices continued to rise at the end of the week it would be forced to raise prices.

"Otherwise, if we remain below the market we risk a run on our stations which could drain our supply and create a panic buying situation in the marketplace," Arco said.

Several oil companies said they backed Bush's call for restraint, but defended price hikes on the grounds that crude oil prices had increased much faster than gasoline prices in the last month.

The industry has come under assault in recent days from politicians and consumer groups alleging price gouging.

Oft-convicted drunk driver given pair of life sentences

ABILENE (AP) — A man who says he can't even remember how many times he has been convicted of drunken driving has been sentenced to life in prison after pleading guilty on two counts of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of two people killed in an accident while he was driving drunk.

"He's lost count," said defense lawyer Bob Lindsey, who represented Raymond Paul Mayhall, 38, of Abilene.

Mayhall accepted a plea bargain that reduced him the maximum sentence on two counts in connection with the death of his nephew and a young Abilene woman.

Mayhall admitted recklessly causing an accident that resulted in the death of Donald Wayne Goff, 19, his nephew, and Donna Covington, 18. The victims were passengers in Mayhall's car when it crossed the center line and collided with another vehicle.

Witnesses to the crash said Mayhall was weaving through traffic at a high rate of speed when he lost control of his car and spun into oncoming traffic.

Comanche Peak woes continuing

GLEN ROSE (AP) — The woes at Comanche Peak just won't go away.

The nuclear power plant, which began generating power Tuesday following a forced two-week hiatus, shut itself down Wednesday after a steam valve malfunctioned.

"It's not going like we had hoped," said Mark Manroe, a spokesman for plant owner TU Electric.

Comanche Peak has had three other unplanned shutdowns since it began generating power in April. The others came on April 22, May 9 and May 27.

Operators began low-level testing at Comanche Peak in February, but plant operations were stopped July 26 after a steam valve unexpectedly opened twice in one week, causing cooling water to enter the plant's operational reactor.

TU and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission began independent investigations of the incidents.

Experts: Skull 220 million years old

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Scientists claim to have found a tiny skull of a shrew-like mammal that lived 10 million years before the oldest mammal on record.

A team of paleontologists from the New Mexico Museum of Natural History found the fossil near Lubbock, Texas.

"What we've done is pushed back the record of mammals worldwide by 10 million years," said Spencer Lucas, curator of paleontology at the Albuquerque museum and head of the team.

Scientists hope the fossil, which is smaller than a dime, will be an important link in the evolutionary chain between reptiles and mammals.

The skull apparently belonged to a shrew-like animal with some features common to reptiles and mammals and is 220 million years old, Lucas said.

That's 10 million years older than the Morganucodon, a British fossil believed to be that of the oldest mammal in the world, and 25 million years older than the previously oldest mammal fossil found in North America.

"Ten years from now, this mammal will be included in man's understanding of the origin of mammals . . . and the history of life," Lucas said.

Experts clone marijuana 'button'

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists today said they have cloned a "button" marijuana presses in the brain, a step that may lead to medications that mimic the drug's therapeutic effects without affecting mood or thinking.

New treatments for pain, high blood pressure, epileptic convulsions, nausea, asthma and the eye disease glaucoma may result, other scientists said.

The new work revealed the chemical makeup of a protein structure on the surface of brain cells. Marijuana's main ingredient, called a cannabinoid, binds to this structure to exert its effects.

The study is presented in today's issue of the British journal Nature by scientists from the National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md.

Their paper describes the brain-cell structure as it appears in rats, but further study showed the human structure is virtually identical, said study co-author Tom Bonner.

Marijuana is best known for producing a calm, mildly euphoric state. Time seems to slow down and users become more sensitive to sights, sounds and touch. Ideas may flow rapidly through the mind while short-term memory is suppressed.

The new work opens the door to developing derivatives that produce medicinal effects without marijuana's undesired ones, said Dr. Solomon Snyder, director of the neuroscience department at Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore.

There's something fishy in Maine

HARPSWELL, Maine (AP) — Residents keep their windows shut and an inn has closed as the stench from thousands of rotting fish fills the air.

In the waters of Quahog Bay, Maine's latest menhaden kill has suffocated thousands of lobsters, crabs, snails and other sea life.

Vast schools of menhaden, or pogies, first were chased into Quahog Bay by feeding bluefish about a month ago, Waddle said Wednesday. The schools severely depleted the oxygen in the water, killing lobsters and other aquatic life.

Dead pogies can be seen floating in clumps throughout the cove and are caked onto rocks along the shore.

"It's been like this for almost a month, but the past few days have been unbearable," said Marianne Lavine.

FISHERMAN

Liberian rebel leader Prince Johnson, center, waves to cheering crowds when he and his troops entered the Monrovia suburb of Logan Town last week to distribute rice to thousands of starving residents.

West African nations send troops to Liberia

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — West African peacekeeping troops have gathered on the border of this chaotic war-ravaged nation, preparing to move in and impose a cease-fire — by force if necessary.

Rival armies loyal to rebel leaders Charles Taylor and Prince Johnson waged bruising street battles in Monrovia on Wednesday with each other and with forces loyal to President Samuel K. Doe.

On Wednesday, Johnson freed the last of dozens of foreign hostages, including one American, he had seized earlier in the week to try to provoke a foreign intervention.

It was not immediately clear how the regional peacekeeping force would be received. Doe, who has been surrounded in his Monrovia residence, has said he would welcome them.

Taylor had threatened to attack any international force that might intervene, saying it would be trying to prop up Doe's government. But this week his envoys told an African summit in Gambia that he might accept the force.

Diplomats, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that 2,000 West African troops were being sent to Monrovia by sea from Freetown, the capital of Sierra Leone.

Military sources in Freetown said Wednesday that soldiers of the international force were on stand-by at the Sierra Leone coastal village of Sulina, 10 miles from the Liberian border.

Reports from the Nigerian capital, Lagos, said troops also might be airlifted into Monrovia, Liberia's capital.

The diplomats said most of the troops would come from Nigeria, the region's most powerful nation. Nigerian President Ibrahim Babangida said Wednesday the troops would try to impose a truce and would use force if need be.

He did not say when the force was being dispatched but said it would be "very soon."

In the past, Babangida has been a strong ally of Doe.

The five-nation force was to be led by Lt. Gen. Arnold Quainoo of Ghana, a Cabinet minister who used to command the army, according to Ghana's government. Other nations sending soldiers are Guinea, Sierra Leone and Togo.

The decision to form the force was announced Tuesday at the end of an emergency summit in Gambia of the West African Economic Community.

Babangida suggested the West African leaders also hoped for some form of U.S. intervention.

"I believe the United States shares our desire to bring peace to Liberia and halt the daily carnage there, especially around Monrovia, urgently and we are hoping that this operation will get the support of America," he said.

Soviet cosmonauts return to Earth

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts returned safely to Earth today, ending a six-month mission during which they grew million-dollar crystals for industry and survived a near-fatal space walk trying to repair damage on their capsule.

The Soyuz TM-9 capsule carrying cosmonauts Anatoly Solovyev and Alexander Balandin landed near the town on Arkalyk on the Central Asian steppes, the official Tass news agency reported.

The landing, one minute ahead of schedule, was not shown live on Soviet television, but at the midday news showed pictures of the cosmonauts waving goodbye to their replacement crew aboard the orbiting Mir space station.

Solovyev and Balandin were launched into space Feb. 11 in what was billed as the first manned mission in the 33-year history of the Soviet space program to turn a multimillion-dollar profit.

Their hundreds of experiments included photographing 8.4 million square miles of the Earth's surface and growing 23 pure crystals for use in semiconductors and computer chips.

Peru announces austerity plan

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The new government of President Alberto Fujimori has announced a harsh austerity plan aimed at ending hyperinflation and rebuilding a collapsed economy. Troops were deployed to head off any food riots.

Subsidy cuts and a lifting of price controls mean Peruvians will pay a lot more for food, gasoline and basic services. Economy and Prime Minister Juan Hurtado Miller said in a nationally televised speech Wednesday night.

Hurtado said a gallon of gasoline would cost 30 times more today. The price of milk and bread were to triple, while noodles were to cost five times what they did Wednesday, he said.

"This is the price we must pay," said Hurtado. "This is the period for cleaning up and detoxifying."

The tough policy is a switch from the campaign platform of gradual reform that helped catapult Fujimori from a virtual unknown at the beginning of the year to the victor in the June election. His opponent, acclaimed novelist Mario Vargas Llosa, had backed speedy market-oriented reform.

But Fujimori, who took office July 28, has been told by international creditors that he must control inflation before they'll lend him more money.

Soldiers and police took up positions throughout the capital before Hurtado's speech. On Tuesday, the government declared a state of emergency in Lima and 10 large cities.

Lebanese kidnappers free hostage

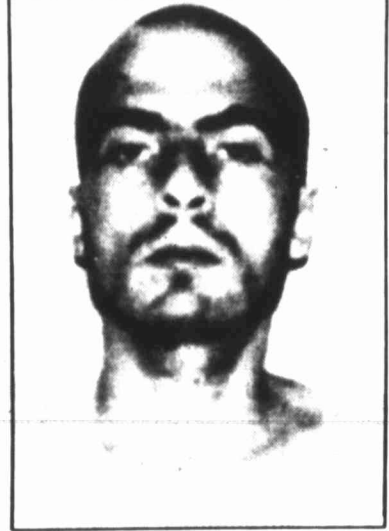

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Lebanese kidnappers early today released a Swiss Red Cross worker from 10 months of captivity, but one of his colleagues remained a hostage.

It was the first release of a Western hostage since two Americans were freed in April. Officials denied any deal was made for today's release.

Emanuel Christen, 33, was set free just after midnight Wednesday by a group calling itself The Palestinian Revolutionary Squads.

The group had said in a statement Tuesday that his colleague — 24-year-old Elio Erriquez — would also be released. There was no immediate explanation for why only Christen was freed.

A total of 15 Westerners, including Erriquez, remain hostage in Lebanon. They include six EMANUEL CHRISTEN, a Swiss Red Cross worker, was freed from captivity in Lebanon. He is one of six Westerners who remain hostages in Lebanon.

Person picked for jury duty is judged by boss

DEAR ABBY: I recently received a "summons" in the mail telling me I had been chosen for jury duty. More than 300 people were questioned by the judge, defense and prosecutor. I was picked for a trial that is expected to last 10 days.

I now find that my boss, who initially told me, "There are ways of getting out of this," is infuriated with me for missing work because I "allowed" myself to be picked. For the record, I've used one sick day in almost four years.

Abby, this is not a "vacation." Someone has been accused of a serious crime, and it is up to a jury to determine this person's innocence or guilt. Doesn't anyone remember the principles on which this country was founded? If everyone in America dodged jury duty, where would we be? I feel proud, honored and obligated to be a part of this process.

Abby, some of my fellow jurors are experiencing the same thing. Please print this and explain to every boss out there how important this process is. — PROUD TO PARTICIPATE IN NEW YORK

DEAR PROUD: Your sentiments are commendable. Our Constitution guarantees its citizens a trial by a jury of their peers. Therefore, it's unfair, unpatriotic and possibly illegal for an employer to suggest, encourage, pressure or demand that an employee evade jury duty. The labor board in your community will attest to that.

DEAR ABBY: I drive a bus for a living. On occasion, I am called on to take groups of people on charters to places like New York City. The people, for the most part, are great, but I don't think they know that it's OK to tip the driver and/or their tour guide.

Dear Abby

It always amazes me that these tourists cheer, applaud and praise my driving abilities, then get off the bus after 12 to 15 hours, shake my hand and say, "Thank you for a safe trip!" Then they walk away.

Just for the record, folks, I do these charters for $7 an hour. (Most people wouldn't drive a bus in New York or Boston for three times that!)

A tip is a "gratuity." If you are as grateful as you say you are, punctuate it with a dollar or two. — UPSTATE BUS DRIVER

DEAR BUS DRIVER: Thanks for the tip — I'll pass it along. Readers, unless you are advised to the contrary, you may safely assume that people who perform services such as waiting on tables, hotel bellmen, taxi drivers, limo drivers, doormen, hotel and motel maids, as well as tour drivers, are paid the "minimum" — and depend on "tips" to make ends meet.

How to Be Popular is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Twenty-nine descendants of Doris Hale and the late Charter Hale gathered recently for the first inaugural Hale reunion held recently in Coahoma.

Family members enjoyed a weekend of visiting and catching upon family news. A Sunday night dinner was held in the fellowship hall at the Coahoma Presbyterian Church.

Among those attending the two-day event were Doris Hale, Jo Dell and Jerry Callahan, Ned and Ona Jay Hale, Rae Nell and Bill Best, Randall and Dianne Hale, Ken and Shirlene Gregory, Karen Midge and Jim Quinn, Alvin and Linda Best, John and Holly Best, and Valera and Ralph Sides. Other guests included Megan and Blake Hale, Karen, Jo Jo, Ben and Jonathan Best, Josh, Aaron, and Jakey Boone Sides, and Leona Brigner.

Doris said she appreciates the love and fellowship of her big family and is looking forward to the next reunion, which will be held in August 1991.

Vacation time

Nelda Watts has returned from a vacation that included a trip with her son Lanny and her granddaughter, Karla Kay, Trinity, to attend the annual Moore reunion in Brownwood.

She spent several days visiting with Lanny, Darnell, and Karla Kay. She also went to Burnetta to visit with Mickie and Buck Heron. After an overnight visit with Pansy Sevey in Sterling City, she returned home to enjoy a week's visit with her daughter-in-law Martha King and her grandchildren, Jesse, Julie, and Mary of Leeton, Mo.

Martha Lamkin of Aurora, Colo., was in town recently visiting with her son, David White, and her grandsons, Justin and Blake White.

I will be taking a break from the column next week to enjoy a visit with my son, Paul and his family of Georgetown.

Avery named TAEHE 'Woman of the Year'

Local business woman, Johnnie Lou Avery was honored as "Woman of the Year" by the Texas Association of Extension Home Economists.

The award was presented at the TAEHE annual meeting in Houston last week, according to a news release.

Avery was recognized for her support of Extension Home Economics programs on the local, district and state levels. The West Texas Business Journal described Johnnie Lou Avery as "a trailblazer for women, an advocate for business and education, a fighter for quality of life for all people."

A long-time supporter of Extension Home Economics, Avery has served on the Extension Program council and frequently loans her resources and materials to support its programs.

Her network of contacts across the state and around the nation are invaluable, the release stated.

Avery conducted the professional improvement training for District 6 Extension Home Economists on "Entrepreneurship and Goal setting for Women" in November 1988. As a result she was asked to conduct Extension educational programs in several countries, the release stated.

She was a teacher at the Family Community Leadership Conference in Austin in February to train teams of women who will make FCL presentations to the Texas legislature in November. Avery also will be a presenter during the November meeting.

In March she lead the District 6 Home Economists in a "Look at the Future." In Howard County she has been the featured speaker at two 4-H Achievement Banquets and the Extension Program Council annual meeting in recent years.

In 1983-84 Avery organized the first BASIC program, a leadership development course for high school student. The program has since become Junior Leadership Big Spring and is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Howard County Extension Service, the release stated.

She was also a faculty member from the regional 4-H Leadership Conference held in June in Big Spring. The program is a West Texas version of Leadership Conference at Trinidad, jointly sponsored by Texas Utilities Electric and 4-H.

In introducing Avery at the award presentation Naomi Hunt summarized "Johnnie Lou is a very busy person and one of Extensions best friends. She has achieved a balance and is reaching goals in all areas of her life. She sees her roles wife and mother her primary responsibility. Her busy life necessitates a finely honed, organized approach to homemaking."

Replica of the Wall still tourist stop

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Nostalgic for Checkpoint Charlie? Miss those snarling East German border guards? Cold War junkies, despair not: The old days live on in Manchester.

The real Berlin Wall may be vanishing, but its English replica, complete with mock-nasty guards, stands firm for the tourists at Granada TV Studios in the northwest city.

When it went up two years ago to honor Granada's spy series "Game Set and Match," based on the Len Deighton trilogy, its architects never dreamed it soon would be old hat.

"We're keeping it as a piece of history," said Marina Efstathiou, public relations officer for the 90-minute tour of Granada's sets.

Hunter's partner

LOS ANGELES — Darlene Fluegel, shown during a recent interview, was about to accept another series offer from NBC when she heard they were looking for a new partner for TV cop Sgt. Rick Hunter, played by Fred Dryer. She got the job and will play Officer Joanne Molenski this fall.

Is 'weirdness' new key to success on TV?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The law enforcement officers of "Cop Rock" burst into song. In "Twin Peaks," they guzzle coffee, speak in hyperbole and covet cherry pie.

Is ABC being weird simply for the sake of being weird? Has TV gotten so predictable that the only way to stand out is to be completely off the wall?

Not if you ask "Cop Rock" creator Steven Bochco or "Twin Peaks" executive producer Mark Frost.

"I think there's a real trap in trying to create programming that is simply going to be scarier or more out there than the next guy's program," Bochco told TV columnists during a weekend session of ABC's summer press tour.

And no, Frost said, "Twin Peaks" was not trying to pull a fast one on its audience by being confusing.

"I think that's ascribing some pretty terrible character traits to us," Frost said. "I don't think we'd give up two years of our lives to play a joke on the American public."

But the questions asked of Bochco and Frost during separate sessions at the Century Plaza hotel centered on whether these two shows weren't just a little too out there for the American public.

"Cop Rock" is ABC's newest venture into the realm of weird TV and makes its debut in the fall. The pilot, with music by Randy Newman, has been screened for TV critics and affiliated stations of ABC.

The affiliates didn't quite know what to make of the first installment, which contained a jury belting out a guilty verdict in choir robes, a junkie selling her baby for a fix and a police officer who resolves a botched attempt to arrest a cop-killer by simply murdering him.

During last month's affiliate convention in Los Angeles, a large portion of the audience walked out during the "Cop Rock" screening.

Several complained to Bochco — the mastermind of hits such as "Hill Street Blues" and "L.A. Law" — that "Cop Rock" wouldn't play in Peoria.

"Twin Peaks," by Frost and film director David Lynch, premiered as a spring replacement series in April and almost immediately became one of the most talked-about and written-about shows in television history.

The goings-on of a fictional Northwest lumber town included the murder of homecoming queen Laura Palmer, a dwarf who spoke backwards in a dream sequence, lots of talk about coffee and junk food, and enough plot twists to induce motion sickness.

When the series ended this season without solving the murder of beauty queen Palmer, audiences were incensed.

"Twin Peaks" will repeat all eight original episodes beginning Aug. 5. Its fall season begins Sunday, Sept. 30, with a two-hour special, after which the series moves to a new time slot, 10 p.m. Saturday.

Frost, in keeping with the show's tone, was humorously vague about what will happen next season.

He hedged about when, or how, Palmer's murderer will be identified.

Coffee-loving FBI agent Dale Cooper, played by Kyle MacLachlan, will remain in Twin Peaks, investigating other crimes besides Palmer's killing, Frost said.

Obviously, Cooper survives the season-ending shooting by a mysterious gunperson, Frost said. "I thought we were poking a little fun at the 'Who Shot J.R.?' episode (of CBS' 'Dallas')." Frost said.

"Of course, he's wearing a bulletproof vest. He's an FBI agent who just came off an undercover assignment."

Bochco gave away a few plot tidbits for "Cop Rock": The murdering police officer will be indicted, and actress Barbara Bosson (also Bochco's wife) will undergo cosmetic surgery as the fictional and corrupt mayor of Los Angeles.

The idea for "Cop Rock" came from someone who suggested "Hill Street Blues" should be a Broadway musical, Bochco said.

Cheap Trick tells all: 70s clothes, Rod Stewart song

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cheap Trick enjoys coming across like zany amateurs who flail around in the world of rock music and have no more idea what constitutes a hit now than when their first record came out in 1977.

It may be true. "Whenever we tell the truth, nobody believes us," says guitarist Rick Nielsen. "We lie and people take it as etched-in-stone fact."

All 13 Cheap Trick albums are on Epic Records. Two years ago, "The Flame" became its first No. 1 single. The band must be doing something right.

The first single released from "Busted," the new album, is "Can't Stop Fallin' Into Love." It jumped onto the Cashbox magazine best-selling chart on July 21 at No. 52 and advanced to No. 46 the following week.

Cheap Trick wanted to give that one away.

In an interview with vocalist Robin Zander and Nielsen, Zander gleefully says he played it for Rod Stewart. "We weren't considering it for our record. I wanted it to be on a record. It seemed like it was good for Rod."

"He wanted it. His manager kept saying it was going to be on our record and it'd be the fourth or fifth single. We said, 'Forget it. Give it to him.' Eventually, they said, 'OK."

It's going to be the first single."

Nielsen says: "They said, 'You've got to be crazy if you give it to him.' Now we agree. But a couple of months ago?"

"That's the fun of doing music." "I haven't unpacked my suitcase from Budokan," Nielsen says. "About every 10 years, I open the case and say, 'I used to wear this stuff?'"

"Cheap Trick at Budokan," the band's first album to sell platinum, was recorded live in Japan in 1979.

Once in Cheap Trick's career, Nielsen says, "We tried to act trendy. We took one of our songs and tried to make a dance mix. They put it on the turntables, unannounced, in Los Angeles and New York the same weekend, where they had a big dance crowd going wild. It cleared the floor on both coasts."

"OK. We went back to the old tried and true awfulness."

Ninja turtles reveal their Irish heritage

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — "Shamrock," says the poster, "isn't the only thing that's green and comes from Ireland."

Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles do, too.

Their fans may not realize it, but some of the Turtle cartoons invading the world's TV screens are made by an often-tedious process in Ireland, a country that makes up with humor and motivation for its lack of any background.

The Irish may be unfamiliar with "cowabunga," but they know a job-creating export opportunity when they see one, which is why the Industrial Development Authority of Ireland is willing to help pay its way.

Working from rough comic-strip storyboards drawn at Murakami Wolf Swenson, the Burbank, Calif., owner of the animation rights, dozens of artists and technicians hunch over drawing boards and photography machines, producing 35mm films that will be sent back to Burbank to be made into videocassettes.

Housed in a functional office block in the center of the city, Murakami Wolf Dublin Ltd. turns out a 22-minute cartoon every month or so to feed the global appetite for "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles."

Each cartoon requires some 13,000 separate drawings, and the work that falls to the junior animators is tedious. But for Ireland, with its chronic double-digit unemployment, anything that creates jobs is worth a try, and the Industrial Development Authority sees the Turtles as Ireland's ticket to becoming "a key player in animation for television."

Portland, Ore. — Ruth Austin, who made an impact on Chicago immigrant life during her career in social work from 1914 through 1947, is one of the 100 subjects, all more than a century old, of "One Hundred Over 100" by author Jim Heynen and photographer Paul Boyer.

How to get to be 100

SEATTLE (AP) — Why do some people live to be 100?

"I have nothing to do with this getting old," protested Mary Wallace, 106, a child of slaves in Georgia who raised white children as well as her own family of nine.

Here's the secret from Palmina Canovi, 101: "We're so old because we haven't died yet."

Author Jim Heynen and photographer Paul Boyer spent 1987 through 1989 traveling the United States and Canada to talk with centenarians about their lives.

The result is "One Hundred Over 100," a book of interviews with 100 North Americans in their second century of life.

Heynen, 49, got the idea for the book while jogging and thinking about aging. Boyer, 45, joined later to take the black-and-white portraits that accompany each brief interview.

"I think most people do not respond well to old people. Most people equate growing old with growing sickly," Heynen said in a joint interview with Boyer recently.

"May this book diminish your fear of aging," he wrote in the introduction.

The 100 subjects are not a representative sample of the 54,000 Americans that the U.S. Census Bureau estimates will be at least 100 years old in 1990.

Heynen sent news releases to about 100 newspapers seeking nominees for the book. He also sought out minority centenarians.

The interviewees include 10 blacks, two Hispanics, three American Indians, and three Japanese-Americans. Some of the remaining whites were immigrants. Women outnumber men by 3-to-2.

Still, there is something of all of us in each of them, the authors found.

Some had survived cancer, bad hearts and life-threatening diseases. Many married several times and divorced. Some smoked and drank. Some broke all family records for longevity. Some were worrywarts. Some loved salt.

The authors also found that many of the men were Masons. Two bald men began growing their hair back after age 100.

The longest-lived group were single women without children, but common traits appeared to be no children or one child, a careful diet all their lives, and a lot of caring for others, both relatives and strangers, Heynen said.

"Many of these people have lived altruistic lives," Heynen said.

Many attributed their long lives to hard work, but that didn't always mean physical labor. Heynen and Boyer often took it as, "I was seldom bored."

David Kane, a 102-year-old painter whose portrait of Henry Clay Folger, founder of Standard Oil, hangs in the Folger Library in Washington, D.C., is the Greater Miami American Heart Association's leading door-to-door fundraiser. Kane has died since the book was published.

Rosa Mae Wolfe, who never married, was involved all her life in church work in Idaho and helped found Boise Bible College.

Kisa Iseri, 102, a Japanese immigrant in Ontario, Ore., is a busy gardener. She grew marijuana 20 years ago without knowing what it was, and her daughter used it to improve the flavor of sukiyaki.

About 40 of the interviewees were in nursing homes. Others lived with relatives, but some were still on their own.

Meeting the centenarians caused Heynen to stop smoking and drinking, and Boyer to give up coffee. They also learned to savor life more.

"Knowing you could die any moment gives the sense of living for the moment," Boyer said of the centenarians. "We didn't start imitating their lifestyles. Where we did change was in being at peace with the moment."

Nearly one-half of Arizona seniors single

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Nearly half of people age 60 and older in Arizona are single, according to a survey by the Center for Business Research at Arizona State University.

"About one-third of that (age) group is widowed," said Timothy Hogan, director of the center. The April survey of 502 households found that 10 percent of the people 60 or older are divorced or separated.

One might think a matchmaker would be in demand, but Connie Rainwater, who runs a Scottsdale dating service, said getting older men and women together is no easy task.

"My oldest client is 60," said

Ms. Rainwater. "The need is out there for older people, but they just don't use services like ours. Women would, but we can't get older men interested at all."

A dating service that catered exclusively to seniors went out of business last year, she said. Some senior citizen centers provide activities designed to get single seniors together.

"Our Happy Noon Program is pretty popular," said Virginia Skutnik of the Sun City Areas Community Council, which administers a range of programs for senior citizens. "We even had one marriage out of it. But that's not the focus of it. It just gives them a chance to get together."

dealer's tag," the trooper said. "We will attempt to interview Mr. Hardy about who was driving if he recovers."

Both men were transported to Scenic Mountain by ambulance.

Although there were no physical signs discovered at the scene of the accident, Lasater said that ambulance attendants reported they smelled alcohol on the victims.

"Blood samples were taken from Mr. Hardy at the hospital, which is pretty much standard procedure in a fatality accident," he said.

Lasater added that the pickup was stopped by a Howard County sheriff's deputy about 5:20 a.m. and a written report will be forwarded to DPS troopers about that incident.

Seatbelts were not in use at the time the accident occurred, the DPS said.

City actions improve water quality for residents

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Residents in the Kapehart addition of Big Spring have noticed a marked improvement in water quality lately after city officials discovered — and corrected — a minor flaw in the system.

In an effort designed to pinpoint the reason why dark, rusty water has been running through the pipes of homes primarily in the old Air Force housing addition, Public Works Director Tom Decell started testing water quality on a "street by street basis."

"There were three streets (Chanute, Ent and Gunter) that kept coming up with the same kind of problem," Decell said. "They had an inordinate amount of iron and it was puzzling because I couldn't explain why."

Acting on data received from a computer analysis on street pipes, Decell had previously instructed city work crews to tie the lines that loop the three affected streets together.

"We had done that several months ago," he said.

He said the results of that action "weren't acceptable."

Decell said he decided to review old Air Force maps in the city archives and discovered the tied valves on the streets were not in line.

"The following day we opened the valve on Gunter Street late in the afternoon and when we checked the water the next morning, we noticed it had improved 150 percent," he explained.

The public works director also said he flushed the fire hydrants in the area the same day, which helped create "significant improvement."

He also believes an increased flow to the area has helped lighten the rusty color of the water.

Although he said he was "very pleased" with the improvement, he also explained that he is still not satisfied with the quality of the water.

"I think it's fortunate, however, that we haven't had to spend mega bucks to correct the situation," he said.

Bill Williams, 2605 Chanute Drive, said he has recently noticed a significant improvement in the water quality.

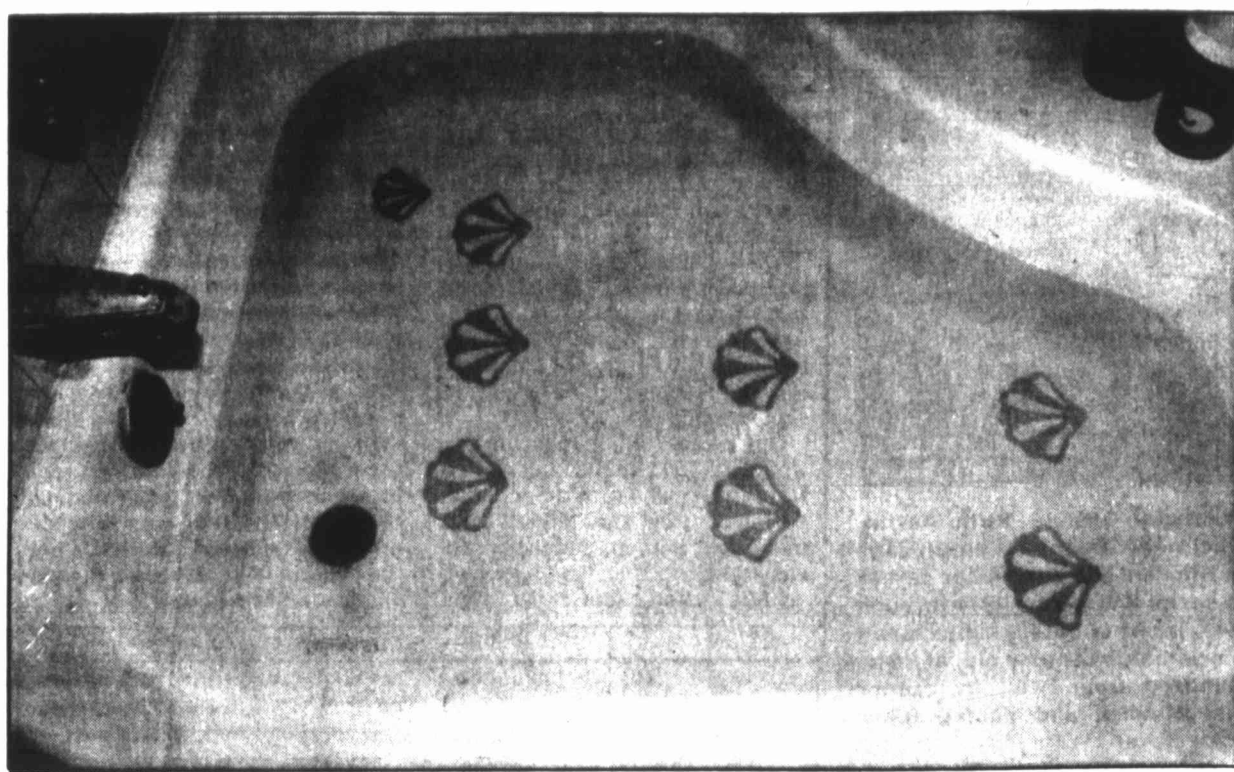

"Of course, after what we had, anything would be an improvement," he said.

Kapehart residents started experiencing water problems around July 12 and Williams, unsatisfied with the answers he was receiving from city officials, approached the media about the dilemma.

He then began contacting neighbors door-to-door who were being plagued by the same problem.

As a result of those discussions, he organized a meeting at his home July 23 that was attended by about 35 residents of the area.

Residents expressed health-related concerns about the safety of the water and also complained that washing clothes with it was causing stains that couldn't be removed.

Williams, supported by a group of Big Spring residents, asked council members the following night for help in correcting the problem.

The council responded by asking city officials to reduce the amount of water bills paid by residents who live in Kapehart addition.

An amended ordinance to implement that decision is supposed to be ready for council approval at the Aug. 14 meeting.

A resident of Big Spring for two years, Williams said he is still awaiting the results of water samples taken at his home by a Texas State Health Department worker.

Martin County Fair scheduled Aug. 17-18

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

With the 1990 Martin County Fair practically around the corner, the chairman of the event said that this year's edition has the appearance of being the best ever.

Lester Baker, chairman of the fair, which will be held at the county community center Aug. 17-18, said preparations for the event are proceeding on schedule.

"Everything is falling into place nicely," Baker said. "It looks great. From every indication, it looks like it'll be the best Martin County Fair ever."

The fair grounds open Thursday, Aug. 16, at which time exhibits for agriculture, culinary, textile, art, china and photography will be accepted. Also in conjunction with the fair, there will be skating at the Rink-A-Dink that evening, as well as Friday and Saturday.

The fair will have its grand opening ceremonies at 11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 17.

Aside from traditional fair attractions such as livestock, food, sewing and flower judging, three events will make their debut at this year's fair: a brisket cook-off; a cheerleading contest; and a 42-domino tournament.

Baker announced the rules for the cook-off, which begins at midnight that Friday.

Entry deadline for the event is 5 p.m. that Friday.

Entrants can begin cooking at midnight.

All briskets must be cooked at the fairgrounds.

Any cut of brisket — trim or otherwise — will be accepted.

Entry fee is $15.

Prizes will be $100 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third.

All cooked briskets will be donated to the fair for its Saturday night meal.

For more information on the cook-off, contact Baker at either 756-3381 or 756-2474.

Lou Smith is directing the cheerleading contest, which should feature several cheering squads from this area, while Jack Kuhlman is in charge of the 42-domino tournament.

Baker said that three inside booths are still available for the fair, while several outside spaces are still available.

Invasion

The report, which could not be immediately confirmed, could be a breakthrough for the Arab leaders seeking a peaceful solution to the crisis. Arab diplomatic sources had said the absence of Saddam or key aides from the summit would dim the chances of effective action by the Arab heads of state.

King Fahd said Iraq's actions had forced his kingdom to seek foreign military help.

"These forces from friendly powers are here temporarily," he told the Saudi people. "They are to help defend the kingdom... and will leave here as soon as the kingdom so demands."

Fahd called Iraq's move "the most horrible aggression the Arab nation has known in its modern history," and demanded an immediate withdrawal of Iraqi troops.

Arab nations have been slow to denounce the invasion, and have been reluctant to join in the multinational military effort. Egypt's president, Hosni Mubarak, said Wednesday that he would not honor Washington's request and join the U.S.-led multinational force. He suggested an all-Arab deterrent force instead.

Britain has pledged to send jet fighters and warships to bolster the U.S. forces, but it was the only nation to join Washington in backing a U.N.-ordered trade embargo with troops.

Iraq's trade minister, Mohammed Mahdi Salih, said today that his country is strong enough to withstand the "unjust economic boycott resolution against Iraq sponsored by the United States."

The Saudis and other oil producers including Venezuela, Mexico, Iran and Nigeria have indicated they will pump more crude to make up for the loss of Iraqi and Kuwaiti production, which experts say totaled 4 million barrels daily before the crisis.

President Bush is deploying thousands of troops and scores of warplanes in the Saudi desert and has sent three aircraft carrier groups to the region. Iraq has an estimated 100,000 troops just across the border in Kuwait — but the Americans have superior air and sea power.

Diplomatic sources in Riyadh, the Saudi capital, said U.S. Marines arrived early today near Khafji, a coastal city seven miles south of the Kuwaiti border that includes an oil terminal.

Congress to receive formal notice of troop deployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says it will give Congress a formal notification of the deployment of U.S. troops to Saudi Arabia under the War Powers Act, which limits American involvement in foreign conflicts.

A spokesman for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Frank Lautenberg, said Wednesday that the panel was notified by the White House that "we will be given information that we will regard as notification under the War Powers Act."

Administrations traditionally do not formally acknowledge the act, which they regard as an unconstitutional infringement by Congress on the president's powers as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. Rather than tackle the issue head-on, however, notification usually is given in a way that Congress regards as compliance with the law.

The act requires that the president consult with Congress formally when U.S. forces are introduced "into hostilities or into situations where imminent involvement in hostilities is clearly indicated by the circumstances." Notification also is required when combat-equipped troops are sent to the territory of any foreign nation.

The notification must include the president's explanation of why the move is necessary and the estimated scope and duration of the deployment.

The law requires that the president terminate the military deployment within 60 days unless Congress has specifically authorized its continuation. The 60-day period can be extended to 90 days if the president certifies that such a move is "an unavoidable military necessity."

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said while the deployment might not meet the "imminent hostilities" test of the law, at least "the spirit" of the act should be observed.

110 degrees Wednesday as U.S. troops landed and set up battle stations in the harsh Arabian desert. The kingdom is one-third the size of the continental United States.

Bush declined to discuss the size of the U.S. military force. But government sources said Wednesday at least 5,000 ground troops were en route or already taking up positions on Saudi soil, along with 140 sophisticated fighters and bombers.

Diplomatic sources said the U.S. force buildup would total at least 40,000 troops. Several other estimates ranged up to 50,000. In addition, a formidable U.S. naval fleet is gathering in and around the Gulf and the Mediterranean.

Travellers from the Khafji border point said Saudi troops in the area confronting the Iraqi-occupied Kuwait were buttressing their own positions continuously with missiles, tanks and armor.

Bush promised severe retaliation if Saddam used chemical weapons against American soldiers. Saddam used the arms against Iran during the country's 8-year war and also against Iraq's rebellious Kurdish minority.

Bush reached out to unlikely international partners in his bid to squeeze Iraq. Secretary of State James A. Baker III dispatched an aide to Syria and said the United States has spoken with Iran "through third party contacts."

Both nations are bitter foes of Iraq — but Syria is on the official State Department list of states supporting terrorism and Iran has long been accused of pulling the strings behind the holders of American hostages in Beirut.

Baker, who visited Turkey today for consultations, told reporters the Soviet Union had dispatched naval forces to the Persian Gulf for use in any international blockade to enforce a U.N. trade embargo.

Publicly, the Soviets have said that the warships they have in the region were dispatched only to ensure the safety of Soviet civilian vessels.

Baker also assured Turkey it would receive full support from NATO if it becomes a target of Iraqi intimidation for cutting off trade with its southern neighbor or for restricting the flow of oil through pipelines in Turkey.

Pentagon urged to re-evaluate cutbacks

DALLAS (AP) — Central Texas leaders say the crisis in the Middle East is one other reason that the Pentagon should take another look at military cutbacks, including planned cutbacks at Fort Hood.

Killeen city leaders say the Pentagon may have moved too quickly in cutting back military bases around the country.

The Pentagon's recommendation to shut down the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood is expected to cost the area's economy $812 million and drive unemployment to almost 25 percent.

Maj. Jim Boling, spokesman for the 2nd Armored Division, said two battalions already have been deactivated and a third is scheduled to cease operations Wednesday, paring 2,600 of the division's 12,200 soldiers.

The entire division will be phased out by October 1991.

The shutdown of the Fort Hood division stems from defense spending cuts announced in January by Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney.

U.S. hoopsters struggle by Greece

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The United States has had the same players on its national roster for the past month. It's just a case of which team will show up for a game.

Will it be the fast-breaking, defense-oriented team which looked so good in two victories in the recent Goodwill Games?

Or will it be the weak-shooting, lax-rebounding team which was on display for much of the United States' opening game in the World Championships on Wednesday?

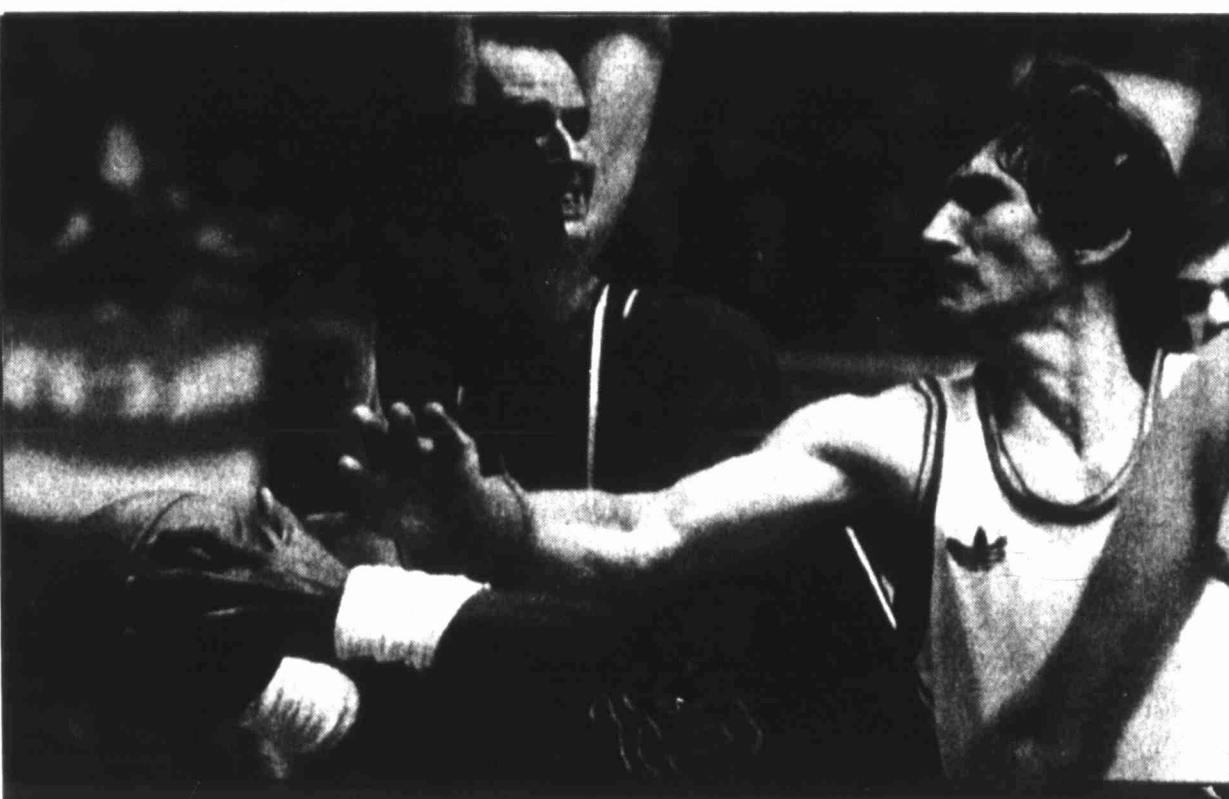

The U.S. team beat Greece 103-95 in overtime as it started defense of the world title. There were times when it was hard to tell which was the team considered one of the favorites to win the 11th World Championships.

"We've been inconsistent, either very good or not so good, and that's the sign of a young team that has not been together for as long as the teams we play," U.S. coach Mike Krzyzewski said.

The United States was both very good and not so good against Greece.

It opened the game with a 17-6 run, but was outscored 50-28 over the last 15 minutes of the first half to trail 56-45 at halftime.

Then came some impressive defense, including a very effective trap, to open the second half and the lead was down to three points within five minutes. Greece held tough and the United States didn't take its first lead until 89-87 with 1:57 to play on a three-point play by Todd Day.

Greece tied the game on two free throws by Theofanis Christodoulou 15 seconds later and neither team scored again in regulation. Greece, however, almost scored — twice.

Kenny Anderson had a chance to end it in regulation, but he missed a wide-open jumper with five seconds to play. The rebound came to Constantinos Patavoucas of Greece, who took two dribbles and fired from just outside halfcourt.

SWC, Big Eight meet

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — About a week after Arkansas announced it was leaving the Southwest Conference to join the Southeastern Conference, officials with the SWC met with representatives of the Big Eight for the first time ever.

Those officials, however, insist the talks Wednesday were exploratory only and not the result of Arkansas' defection.

Talks in recent weeks centered on forming a Big Eight-SWC alliance to enlarge each conference's television markets, a move that could mean more revenues. But those on hand said the meeting centered on broader issues and didn't address many specifics.

"Two things are the primary focuses on our minds," said Dan Gibbons of Oklahoma, chairman of the Big Eight faculty representatives. "One is the fact there have been some shifts in other conference alliances and it's recognized that might present some additional opportunities, possibilities and concerns.

"The other thing is the nature of the television — football television in particular — situation."

He added, however, that the two leagues are not moving toward an alliance or merger at this time.

"We're exploring common grounds," he said.

The 4½-hour meeting resulted in nothing concrete, which came as no surprise to those on hand.

"It was a great opportunity just to exchange ideas and I think it was beneficial to all of us," James said.

SWC officials attending included Jacoby, along with athletic directors Windeger, John David Crow of Texas A&M, Rudy Davalos of Houston and Forrest Gregg of SMU. Also on hand was Texas Tech faculty representative Bob Sweazy.

Homer hitting catcher

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)

Casey Fisk wasn't even born on Sept. 12, 1971, when his dad hit No. 1. But he was there to greet him at home plate Wednesday night when Carlton Fisk hit No. 349 and tied Johnny Bench for the all-time home run total by major league catchers.

It was almost enough to bring tears to Jeff Torborg's eyes.

"I had goosebumps when he hugged his boy at home plate," said the Chicago White Sox manager. "That was beautiful. That's a big emotional thing right there. It meant so much to those two and that family. That's terrific. What an accomplishment."

The Bench-tying homer was No. 327 as a catcher and came with one out in the seventh on a 1-2 pitch from Kansas City's Tom Gordon, who hadn't let anybody past first base to that point and finished with a four-hit, 5-1 victory.

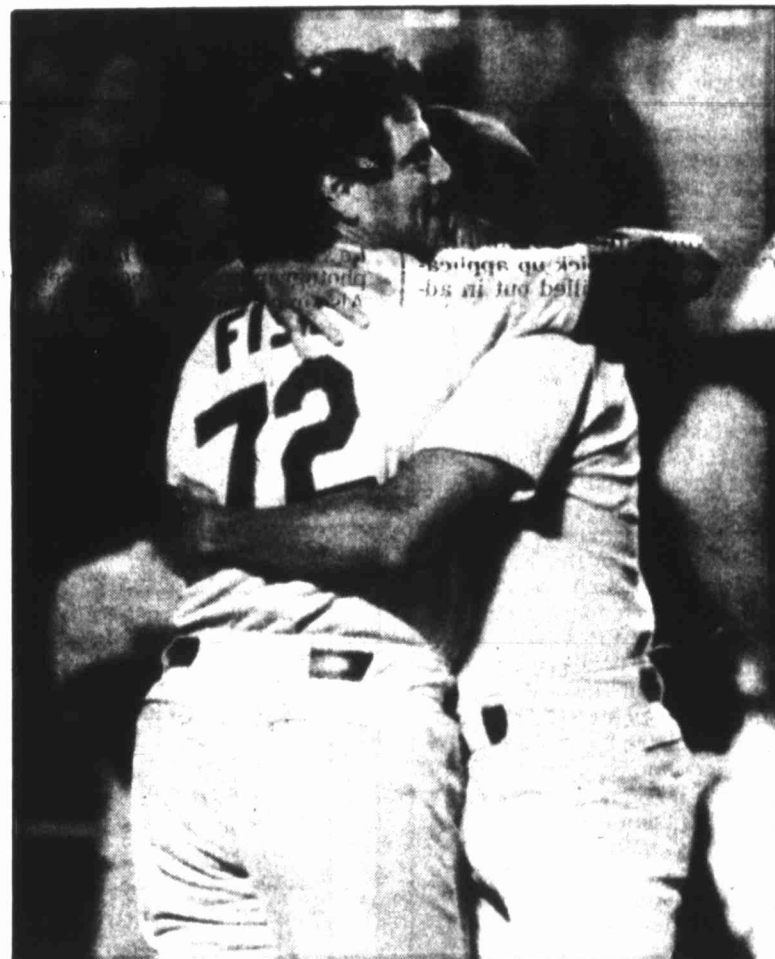

"It would have been nice if it had helped us win a game," said Fisk, 42.

The home run was his 12th of the year and tied him with George Foster for 43rd on the all-time list. He also tied Ted Williams for No. 4 on the list for home runs by players over 40 with 44.

Given a standing ovation by the crowd of 28,493, Fisk was persuaded by his teammates to emerge from the dugout and take a bow.

"I'm not your classic home run hitter," he said. "I'm just more of a line drive hitter. I'm not like Canseco and those other guys who just bomb balls out of the ballpark."

A physical fitness fanatic, Fisk has had to fight through a lengthy list of injuries and ailments, including knee, stomach, elbow and hand miseries.

"At times I've had to compromise my talent, or I might have done it four or five years ago," he said.

Gordon, pitching his finest game of the year, said Fisk hit a breaking pitch that did not break quite as sharply as planned.

"The location wasn't good on it at all, but it was out over the plate. I wanted it hard and down and away. But it wasn't away at all.

"That's a great milestone for him. I wish him the best. I guess if he hadn't done it tonight, he would have done it tomorrow night or the night after. There was no way he was going to be stopped from getting to that plateau."

As a former catcher, Kansas City manager John Wathan felt like tipping his hat.

Another McRae cometh

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)

Hal McRae stayed up past his bedtime to see televised highlights of Brian McRae's big night, but he missed the best part.

There was no film of the Kansas City crowd rising as one and welcoming Brian home with a long standing ovation.

"No kidding? They really did?" McRae asked Wednesday from his hotel room in Pittsburgh. "Why, that's terrific."

It was probably one part nostalgia and one part appreciation for the exhilaration of youth. But when Brian lifted a page from a Hollywood scriptwriter and tripled in his first major league at-bat Tuesday night, the son of one the most popular players in Royals' history brought the crowd of more than 27,000 to its feet.

Unexpectedly called up earlier in the day from the double-A Memphis Chicks, young McRae started in center field and topped off a night to remember with an RBI single in the sixth.

"When I talked to him this morning, he had pretty well calmed down," the elder McRae said with a chuckle. "But he was still pretty excited."

Brian McRae grew up in the Royals Stadium clubhouse. From 1973 to 1987, his father personified the aggressive, hard-nosed Kansas City teams that captured six division titles, two American

National AJRA will be in Snyder

The American Junior Rodeo Association Finals Rodeo will be Aug. 14-18 at 8 nightly at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Box seats are $6 and general admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children. For more information call 573-3558.

Best of Rest tourney coming

The Best of the Rest Part VI golf tournament will be Aug. 17-20 at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Entry fee in the two-man scramble is $130 per team, with a limit of 112 teams. Comanche Trail Golf Pro Al Patterson said that 40 teams are already entered. There will be six flights, with awards for the top five finishers in each flight. An added attraction is anyone making a hole-in-one on the fourth hole will receive a new Cadillac or a Lincoln Town Car.

Friday, Aug. 17, will be a practice round, cocktail party and dance. Each contestant will receive a Best of the Rest cap, cool can and bag tag.

The first round will be Saturday; and Saturday night there will be a steak dinner and team evaluation. The final round will be played Sunday.

For more information call 267-7271.

Rockers hosting tournament

Cotton Mize Field in Comanche Trail Park will be the site for the Eighth Annual Juncfest in August Softball Tournament this Friday and Saturday.

The tournament will be open to Class D teams only, with a $100 per-team registration fee required.

Trophies will be awarded in the following categories: most valuable player, best sportsmanship, 10 all-tournament selections, top five teams and top three team's individuals.

For more information, contact Rocky Viera at 267-7773.

Signups for little footballers

The Crossroads Little Football League will begin registration starting Aug. 3. The league, for all youth in the third through sixth grade, includes players from Big Spring, Ackerly, Garden City, Knott, Coahoma and Forsan.

There will also be registration for cheerleaders. Registration will be at the American Little League concession stand, located east of Howard College. Times to register are: Fridays, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday and Sundays from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m.

Registration fee is $15 for players without equipment; and $20 for players using league equipment. There is a $1 registration fee for cheerleaders.

Anyone wishing to donate equipment is welcomed to. For more information call after 6 p.m.: Earl Sherrill at 263-0613; Mark Choate at 263-3389; Robert Wash at 267-6932; Gary Roberts at 394-4417.

There is no charge for YMCA members, and $1 for non-members.

Softball tourney set in Snyder

Snyder will be the site of the Jaramillos Summer Classic, a slow-pitch men's softball tournament.

Entry fee is $100 per team. The first five teams receive team trophies, and the first three teams also receive individual trophies. There will also be awards for all-tourney, MVP and sportsmanship.

For more information call Darryl Robertson at 573-7694.

Sports card show in San Angelo

The Lone Star Sports Collectors will have a baseball card and sports collector show this Sunday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Sunset Inn on South Bryant and Jackson Streets in San Angelo.

It's run-and-shoot time for Oilers, Lions

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers and Detroit Lions may think they are looking in a mirror tonight when they open their NFL exhibition season in the Astrodome.

Both teams use the run-and-shoot offense exclusively, and they'll both be exploring ways to stop it.

"Playing against their run-and-shoot or the Silver Stretch, it's not that much different," Houston coach Jack Pardee said. "It's not that easy to prepare for. I don't think we're easy to prepare for either."

Pardee, Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware, the Lions' unsigned No. 1 pick, and Oilers' No. 1 pick Lamar Lathon, will be honored in a halftime ceremony. They all performed at the University of Houston last season.

The Oilers will contribute $2 from each single ticket sold to the University of Houston.

The Oilers beat the Lions 35-31 in the Astrodome last season, but working against the run-and-shoot hasn't been a training camp priority, Pardee said.

"We haven't spent training camp preparing for the run-and-shoot," Pardee said. "We don't have much time to get ready."

Lions coach Wayne Fontes, with his offensive coaches Mouse Davis and June Jones, became the first NFL club to use run-and-shoot fulltime last season.

The offense got off to a slow start but the Lions won their last five regular season games, finishing with a 7-9 record.

The Oilers used a four-wide receiver formation called the Red Gun last season, but also employed a two-back set.

Houston lost its final three games, including a wild-card playoff loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Pardee replaced Jerry Glanville as coach this season and brought the run-and-shoot with him.

Fontes will start Rodney Peete at quarterback instead of Bob Gagliano, who missed the first week of camp as a contract holdout.

Peete completed 103 of 195 passes last season for five touchdowns, but Gagliano was the quarterback when the Lions won their final five games. Gagliano completed 117 of 232 passes for 1,671 yards.

The game was supposed to be a crowd-pleasing matchup between Ware and the Oilers' starting quarterback Warren Moon.

But Ware remains a contract holdout and will watch the game from the stands. The Lions and Ware are between $2 million and $3 million apart on a five-year contract.

SAN MARCOS — The water cooler is a popular spot for Houston Oilers players during practice. Gerald McNeil (89), Mark Jackson (40), Reggie Slack (10) and Alonzo Highsmith (32) take a break from Wednesday's practice.

Frogs

something awfully special," Wacker pointed out. "Because they've gone through as tough a time as any group of young men in college football."

Playing in the shadow of the 1985 alumni slush fund scandal, the Frogs have endured scholarship cutbacks imposed by the NCAA, devastating injuries and criticism stemming from five straight losing seasons.

"It's not like we laid down and died," Wacker insists, pointing to stunning upsets last year over Air Force and Southern Mississippi.

If in fact the Frogs do turn the corner, Wacker concedes, they must reduce turnovers and injuries, throw the ball consistently well and improve steadily on defense.

Big ifs, all.

Even more so than usual, the pressure is on the quarterback this year. Ron Jiles is gone and his understudy, sophomore Leon Clay, is the top choice to direct TCU's wide open Triple Shoot offense. Junior transfer Matt Vogler is No. 2.

Talented but erratic, Clay, in a backup role, engineered last year's triumphs over Air Force and Baylor but was remarkably inept at other times.

"I've had my good days and my bad days. But I think the good days have come more frequently than the bad," Clay said.

Premier tight end Kelly Blackwell, perhaps the best of an impressive TCU receiving corps, was among those who felt Clay came out of spring training much improved and with more confidence.

"Leon doesn't focus on one receiver like he did last year," Blackwell said. "He's looking into the defense to read it."

With running backs Tony Dardard, Cedric Jackson and Curtis Modkins returning, and crack receivers on hand, the supporting cast is certainly in place.

LA Dodgers bop Reds, 4-2

By The Associated Press

Mike Scioscia needed a breather to find his swing. Dave Justice needed a change of position. Scioscia, who hadn't started since Sunday, went 4-for-4 and drove in two runs, as the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the stumbling Cincinnati Reds 4-2 on Wednesday night. Justice, shifted from first base to right field after Dale Murphy was dealt to Philadelphia, hit two homers for the second straight game as Atlanta downed San Diego 7-1.

Dodgers 4, Reds 2
 The victory was Valenzuela's first on artificial turf this season. He is 3-6 away from Dodger Stadium and was 0-4 with a 7.78 earned run average on artificial turf.

Scioscia had RBI singles in the second and fourth innings off Scott Scudder (3-5) and set up another run with a double in the seventh. His other double came in the ninth.

Braves 7, Padres 1

Justice, a first baseman until Murphy was sent to the Phillies, has hit five home runs in his last 10 at-bats over three games in two days. He feels the switch in positions helped his swing.

But Justice, who homered in his last at-bat in the first game of Tuesday night's doubleheader sweep by the Padres and added two solo homers in the second game, knows he's not Murphy, a long-time fan favorite in Atlanta.

Justice hit a two-run homer in the second off Dennis Rasmussen (8-10) and added a solo shot in the eighth. John Smoltz (8-8) allowed six hits in seven innings, including Joe Carter's 19th homer, as the Braves snapped a seven-game losing streak.

Giants 8, Astros 4
 The Giants, who've been in a batting slump for the last couple of weeks, broke out with 16 hits as they snapped Houston's six-game winning streak and moved within five games of the Reds.

Pinch-hitter Greg Litton's tie-breaking, two-run double sparked a three-run eighth inning, putting Manager Roger Craig in a good frame of mind as the Giants head for Cincinnati.

Litton's two-run double off Juan Agosto (5-7) broke a 4-4 tie and Kevin Mitchell singled in another run.

Trevor Wilson (8-3) gave up four runs and seven hits in seven innings and Mark Thurmond pitched two innings for his fourth save.

Robby Thompson had a solo homer for the Giants. Rafael Ramirez hit a two-run homer in Houston's three-run second inning.

Mets 8, Phillies 4
 The Mets snapped a four-game losing streak and moved within 1½ games of the first-place Pirates in the East as Gregg Jefferies and Darryl Strawberry each drove in three runs and David Cone won for the seventh time in eight decisions.

Jefferies had a two-run double in the second and an RBI single in the fourth. Strawberry had a sacrifice fly in the fourth and a two-run single in the fifth. Darren Daulton homered for the Phillies.

Expos 6, Pirates 2
 The Expos snapped a six-game losing streak as Tim Lincecum broke an 0-for-18 slump with two run-scoring doubles and Dennis Martinez continued his mastery of Pittsburgh with a six-hitter.

Raines doubled in a run in the sixth and added a two-run double in the seventh as Montreal ended Doug Drabek's six-game winning streak. Drabek is 14-5 overall but 1-3 against the Expos.

Martinez (8-8), rocked for 20 hits and 12 runs in 12 2-3 innings in his previous two starts, improved to 7-2 lifetime against Pittsburgh. He walked one and struck out five in pitching his fifth complete game of the season.

Royals handcuff Chisox, 5-1

By The Associated Press

While Kansas City's Tom Gordon may recall pitching an outstanding game, the 1 in his 5-1 victory over Chicago will be remembered as a piece of baseball history.

It was a home run by Carlton Fisk, a blow that left the 19-year veteran tied with Hall-of-Famer Johnny Bench for the most ever by a catcher. Both have hit 327 as receivers.

Kevin Seitzer tied a Kansas City team record shared by many players with three doubles.

Gordon (7-8) had eight strikeouts and one walk in his first victory since July 13. It was his second complete game. Seitzer doubled leading off the Kansas City first, took third on an infield out and scored on Danny Tartabull's grounder.

Brian McRae, son of former Royal Hal McRae, singled in the second off Greg Hibbard (9-6). Frank White singled ahead of McRae, and both scored on Seitzer's second double to put the struck out, George Brett doubled Seitzer home.

Royals on top 3-0. After Bill Pecota

Blue Jays 8, Tigers 3
 Pat Borders had a homer among three hits, drove in three runs and scored three to lead Toronto.

Borders, with his 13th, and Glenallen Hill, with his 11th, homered consecutively in the seventh inning. David Wells (8-3) went the first five innings for Toronto.

Orioles 4, Athletics 1
 A triple play short-circuited Oakland and rookie Ben McDonald became the first Baltimore pitcher to win his first four major league starts. McDonald (4-0) gave up four hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Indians 3, Rangers 3
 Chris James had his fifth straight two-hit game, including a single that started a string of five consecutive hits by Cleveland in the fourth inning.

Rookie Jeff Shaw (2-2) got his second major league victory, both over Texas. Doug Jones, the third

Cleveland pitcher, worked the ninth for his 29th save, allowing Harold Baines' 12th homer.

The Indians scored four runs on six hits in the fourth against Jamie Moyer (1-4). Mitch Webster doubled and scored on Candy Maldonado's sacrifice fly. James extended his hitting streak to eight games with the first of five straight two-out singles. Brook Jacoby's single moved James to second, and Cory Snyder, Jeff Manto and Tom Brookens added run-scoring hits.

Twins 4, Brewers 2
 Hot-hitting Randy Bush had his second homer in as many games and rookie Scott Erickson (3-2) allowed five hits in seven innings for Minnesota, which broke a four-game losing streak.

Yankees 6, Mariners 4
 Jesse Barfield, batting for Mel Hall, who had homered earlier, hit a two-run shot to lead New York to its fourth straight victory.

Trailing 4-3 in the seventh inning, the Yankees tied the score on a leadoff single by Alvaro Espinoza off Brian Holman and a two-out

RBI double by Oscar Azocar off reliever Keith Comstock (5-3).

The right-handed-hitting Barfield, swinging against left-hander Comstock, hit an 0-2 pitch into the left-field stands for his 15th homer.

Reliever Eric Plunk (5-2) got the victory. New York's ninth in 12 games, with 3 2-3 innings of hitless relief. Plunk gave way to Dave Righetti, who worked the ninth for his 24th save.

Angels 8, Red Sox 6
 California's Lance Parrish snapped an 0-for-20 slump with a two-out, two-run homer in the 11th inning, scoring Brian Downing.

Downing singled off Dennis Lamp (3-4) and Parrish followed by lining a 1-2 pitch into the left field seats for his 18th homer.

Willie Fraser (3-3), the last of five California pitchers, was the winner as the Angels reduced the Boston's lead in the American League East to one game over Toronto.

Names in the news

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pop singer Janet Jackson passed out backstage after performing three songs at the St. Louis Arena, a spokeswoman says.

Jackson, 24, was treated for exhaustion Sunday at Barnes Hospital and was released, said a hospital administrator who would not give her name.

"She opened with 'Control,' 'Nasty' and then 'What Have You Done For Me Lately,'" said Maureen O'Connor, her spokeswoman. "Then she excused herself and passed out backstage."

The singer, who canceled a performance last Thursday in Lexington, Ky., has suffered from exhaustion and flu-like symptoms, O'Connor said. Sunday night's show in St. Louis had been postponed from the night before, O'Connor said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roseanne Barr's husband, Tom Arnold, clashed with paparazzi at Los Angeles International Airport, and three photographers accused him of assault, police said.

No injuries were reported, and no arrests were made.

Arnold and Miss Barr, star of ABC's "Roseanne," had arrived on a flight Sunday from Minnesota when Arnold tangled with four or five photographers, said airport police Sgt. Allen Chu.

Three photographers, Gary Aloian, 38, Robert Scott, 39, and Ralph Dominguez, 43, filed police reports accusing Arnold of striking them several times and damaging their cameras, said city police Sgt. Michael Apodaca.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Lasting success depends on your reining in some of your natural exuberance. In October, be much more practical in your work. Romance could contain both excitement and danger in November. Be discreet. A concerted effort to make new contacts this coming winter will pay off handsomely by spring. Employment opportunities abound next April. Polish your high-tech skills before summer rolls around.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: sausage king Jimmy Dean, singer Eddie Fisher, actress Rosanna Arquette, President Herbert Hoover.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Look for ways to build financial security. Go over your bank statements. Any mistakes should be corrected immediately. Review insurance and pension plans. A better deal may be available.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Any disagreements are apt to center on the right way to disburse funds. A compromise is advised. Questions of personal prestige take precedence now. Do not be afraid to toot your own horn.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Requests for favors and loans will probably be granted. Pay careful attention to detail to prevent costly mistakes. Sharing your aspirations with loved one brings you close.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Joint efforts to please higher-ups could fall short of the mark today. Concentrate on solo projects. Your mate or partner can be a tower of strength. Refrain from issuing an ultimatum.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your financial situation is affected by a stroke of good luck! A co-worker's pessimism will not dampen your spirits. Romance moves in a new direction. Water sports are favored this weekend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Allow things to settle down before you take a stand on a work issue. Modify your plans if you feel you are being overconfident. A money situation will improve by evening. Curb spending.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Put a big job aside and tackle those little ones that have been piling up. Your colleagues can speed your career rise. Show them what you can do! Group activities are favored tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Financial backing for a pet project is available. Someone at a distance could play a major role. Embrace the great outdoors with open arms this coming weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid taking any financial risks that involve a cash outlay. Luxury purchases could put you in the red. Relax at home. Spend more "quality time" with your loved ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Indecision could call a halt to your progress. Calm your nerves before making a final choice. Romance will take a turn for the better if your show more initiative.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid making any sudden moves. Step back and maintain your equilibrium. Going out of your way to be considerate will pay big dividends. Gradually widen your social circle.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Launching new projects takes hard work and self-discipline. Fortunately, you will reap big financial benefits in the near future. Pay bills promptly. Romance responds to careful nurtur-

School finance is Lions' topic

The Noon Lions Club met Tuesday in the basement of First United Methodist Church, with Second Vice President Eugene Byrd presiding. Special guest for the meeting was Darcy Brown of Virginia.

Program Chairman Randy Moore presented Stanton ISD Business Manager Rob Roberson, who gave the club information pertaining to school finance issues. Among other things, he told the club that the law allows the school district to raise the existing tax rate 3 percent without being subject to a rollback election.

In other business, the Lions voted to renew the contract for the "Old Sorehead" signs on either side of the interstate highway approaching Stanton.

Plans call for the club to meet in its regular place, the county community center, next week.

Editor's note: If you would like your club news reported in the Stanton Herald, simply bring a brief written report to the Herald office.

Water district to adopt budget

The Martin County Underground Water Conservation District will hold a public hearing Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. at the water district office, 207 1/2 North St. Peter St.

The purpose of the hearing is to discuss and accept public comment on the proposed 1991 budget for the district.

GISD announces registration dates

Richard Gibson, principal of Grady schools, has announced the registration schedule for the 1990-91 school year.

Registration will begin Aug. 15. Students in grades 10-12 can register in the principal's office from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Students in grades 7-9 can register at the same time Aug. 16, also in the principal's office.

Students in grades K-6 will register Aug. 27 in their respective home rooms the first day of class.

Grady ISD classes will begin at 8 a.m. Aug. 27 and will dismiss each day at 3:15 p.m. For more information, contact the school at 459-2445 or 459-2449.

U.S. troops in position along border

By The Associated Press

High-level Iraqi envoys reportedly flew to Cairo today for an emergency Arab summit on the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, which Saudi Arabia's King Fahd called "the most horrible aggression" in the Arab world's modern history.

Thousands of U.S. troops and poured into Saudi Arabia today and reportedly took up positions within seven miles from the Iraqi border, despite Iraq's insistence it has no plans to invade the desert kingdom.

Iraq had also promised it would not invade Kuwait, which it overran a week ago and annexed on Wednesday.

King Fahd, in his first public comment on the invasion, said today the kingdom had sought foreign military help with great reluctance, and stressed that the U.S. and other troops would act only defensively.

In the past, the Saudis had repeatedly rejected U.S. requests to base American forces in the strategic country.

The U.N. Security Council was scheduled to meet in New York and approve a resolution refusing to recognize Iraq's annexation of Kuwait on Wednesday.

● INVASION page 8-A

Iraq-Kuwait at a glance

Thousands of elite U.S. troops took up positions in Saudi Arabia today as President Bush vowed to protect the kingdom and its rich oil reserves. The president has ruled out an invasion of Iraq-occupied Kuwait and expressed optimism that an expanding military and economic blockade will force Iraq to abandon its conquest.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein responded to the arrival of the U.S. expeditionary force in Saudi Arabia by announcing an outright annexation of Kuwait, which his army overran last week.

Egypt and Morocco decided Wednesday not to join a U.S.-led multinational force in Saudi Arabia, at least for the moment. Arab leaders were gathering today in Cairo, Egypt, for an emergency summit in a final attempt to find a diplomatic solution. Iraq gave no indication it would attend.

Three days after ordering a worldwide economic boycott of Iraq, the United Nations Security Council was expected today to overwhelmingly approve a draft resolution that asks all nations to refuse to recognize the Iraqi annexation.

U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker assured Turkey today it would get full support from NATO if it becomes a target of Iraqi aggression for banning ships from loading Iraqi crude oil at offshore terminals. Baker also has been seeking Syrian and Iranian participation in undercutting Iraq's leader.

President Bush has called on oil companies to hold down price increases.

Oil prices dropped sharply and financial markets steadied after U.S. forces moved into Saudi Arabia and reports that the kingdom would increase its oil production. Other oil-producing countries, notably Mexico, have promised to step up oil production and delivery.

Iraq turned over a 10-year-old American girl to U.S. diplomats in Baghdad but kept 38 other Americans confined to a hotel under armed guard. Concern mounted for the estimated 3,000 Americans in Kuwait and 500 in Iraq who were not allowed to leave.

Barry Sandefer, an employee of Harris Acoustics of Midland, prepares to put in acoustical ceiling tiles at the county commuty center Wednesday afternoon. The work is being done in preparation for the annual County Fair, which begins next week.

County Fair plans promise success, chairman predicts

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

With the 1990 Martin County Fair practically around the corner, the chairman of the event said that this year's edition has the appearance of being the best ever.

Lester Baker, chairman of the fair, which will be held at the county community center Aug. 17-18, said preparations for the event are proceeding on schedule.

"Everything is falling into place nicely," Baker said. "It looks great. From every indication, it looks like it'll be the best Martin County Fair ever."

The fair grounds open Thursday, Aug. 16, at which time exhibits for agriculture, culinary, textile, art, china and photography will be accepted. Also in conjunction with the fair, there will be skating at the Kink-A-Dink that evening, as well as Friday and Saturday.

The fair will have its grand opening ceremonies at 11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 17.

Aside from traditional fair attractions such as livestock, food, sewing and flower judging, three events will make their debut at this year's fair: a brisket cook-off; a cheerleading contest; and a 42-domino tournament.

Baker announced the rules for the cookoff, which begins at midnight that Friday.

Entry deadline for the event is 5 p.m. that Friday.

Entrants can begin cooking at midnight.

All briskets must be cooked at the fairgrounds.

Any cut of brisket — trim or otherwise — will be accepted.

Entry fee is $15.

Prizes will be $100 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third.

All cooked briskets will be donated to the fair for its Saturday night meal.

For more information on the cook-off, contact Baker at either 756-3381 or 756-2474.

Lou Smith is directing the cheerleading contest, which should feature several cheering squads from this area, while Jack Kuhlman is in charge of the 42-domino tournament.

Baker said that three inside booths are still available for the fair, while several outside spaces are still available. The booths will feature several different types of arts and crafts, as well as extension service, 4-H, utilities and other general information spaces, Baker said.

Mike Payne was supposed to provide the music at the Friday-night dance, but several of his band members will be out of town that night, so Ben Nix of Big Spring will provide the music that night, Baker said. Elton Williams will provide the Saturday night dance music.

Another new attraction at this year's fair will be the Fort Wood Gunfighters. The gunfighters, from Colorado City, will perform four shows for fair attendees beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, the 18th.

The Stanton Evening Lions will provide concessions, but fairgoers will also be able to satisfy their sweet tooth at events such as the watermelon-eating contest and ice cream freeze-off and auction Friday.

Rain, rain . . . Hoelscher anticipating improved water tables

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Among other things, the recent rains that have hit this area should have a beneficial effect on the county's water tables. However, how much an effect the precipitation will have is still uncertain.

Mark Hoelscher, director of the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District, said the rains would create some "little problems," such as a milky appearance and higher bacteria count in the water, but "in general, it's good. (Rain during) the month of July will definitely be helpful when we check our (water level) declines."

"It's got to be a lot larger in character than we've had . . . but it's going to have an effect — I just don't know how much," Hoelscher said.

More definite figures on water table levels will not be available until water district officials complete a survey of the area, he added, "but it will have a measurable effect. We'll be able to tell it rained."

Hoelscher will be watching the water levels in aquifers closely to see if they rise in the wake of the recent rains. Of the water in the aquifers, he said, "It has to come from somewhere, usually rain."

"When it rains, some water does get down in the aquifer," which is in contradiction to some theories on where aquifer water comes from.

"There are those that say the Ogallala (aquifer, the largest in this area) is a finite resource," Hoelscher said. "But I feel it does recharge in some way."

He compared the situation to having a 100-foot water table on your property with a river bed 80 feet above that. In a situation like that, "your going to get a recharge (in the table's water level)," he said.

He conceded that just how much impact recent precipitation has had is unknown, but nonetheless said the effect will be beneficial.

"If you compared 1990 to 10 years of data, you'd get a blip — but it would be an appreciable blip," he said.

On a related note, Hoelscher also said the water district will hold a public meeting at 8 p.m. Aug. 16 at the district's office at 207 1/2 North St. Peter St. to discuss the MCUCWD's budget for the upcoming fiscal year.

Iraq causes Brownsville pair to rush wedding

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Eddie Granado and Janie Valles were expecting to have a "majestic" wedding today.

But the two 20-year-olds had to change their plans when Granado, a U.S. Army airborne soldier, got orders to head to Fort Bragg, N.C. on the double.

Granado was to be flown to Saudi Arabia as part of the U.S. forces dispatched there to guard against possible aggression from Iraq.

Granado's family says the Brownsville man was on leave Tuesday when military officials from Fort Bragg telephoned at 7:30 a.m.

"We knew he was at South Padre Island, but we didn't know where, so one of his sisters went looking for him," the soldier's mother, Carolina Granado, told the Valley Morning Star on Wednesday.

"She found him at 10:30 a.m., and he called Fort Bragg. They told him to be back at the base by midnight," she said.

Mrs. Granado said the family began moving quickly to try to get the couple married before her son left.

"The priest was so nice, he talked with the kids and said he would perform the wedding. They got married at 2 p.m.," she said.

Mrs. Granado said the wedding was a spectacular, formal-dress event.

"It was a full Catholic wedding service. It was all like a dream, and there were 50 to 60 people there, even on such short notice," she said.

Mrs. Granado said that after the wedding, the priest blessed her son.

Then, the couple and part of the entourage headed for Harlingen, where Granado caught an evening flight out of Valley International Airport.

"There Janie was, still in her wedding dress. People came up to her and said, 'Are you going to get married?' and the ticket people thought she was going to go with Eddie and was going to sell her a ticket too," Mrs. Granado said.

Mrs. Granado said her son also had served a tour of duty last year in Panama.

Big Spring man dies in crash, one injured

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

A Big Spring man was killed and another man critically injured early today in a one-vehicle accident that occurred on the 11th Place Extension, according to Department of Public Safety officers.

Brenton Hartfield, 19, 1519 Stadium Road, who suffered massive head injuries, was pronounced dead at Scenic Mountain Medical Center at 8:15 a.m. by Howard County Justice of the Peace Willie Grant.

Scott Hardy, also 19, Route 2, Box 115, is listed in critical condition at Scenic Mountain's intensive care unit following emergency surgery, according to a nursing supervisor.

Big Spring police were informed an accident occurred shortly before 5:45 a.m. and after arriving a short time later at the 11th Place Extension, approximately one-half mile east of FM 700 discovered two men had been ejected from a 1990

Silverado pickup, according to a press release.

DPS troopers were summoned to the accident site when it was determined the accident occurred just outside the Howard County line.

DPS Trooper Jim Lasater — who along with Trooper Troy Hogue investigated the accident — said the pickup was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed in the west-bound lane of the 11th Place Extension, and while attempting to maneuver onto the soft-shoulder of the road, the driver lost control and the vehicle became airborne.

While traveling off the roadway an estimated 35 feet, the pickup flipped end-over-end three times before striking a small utility pole, Lasater said.

After being ejected through the back windshield, Hardy was discovered a short distance from the pickup. Hartfield was found lying about 25 feet from the vehicle, Lasater said.

Invasion

Iraq, meanwhile, took more steps today to solidify what it called its merger with Kuwait. It appointed the head of Kuwait's Iraq-installed government a deputy prime minister of Iraq, and canceled Baghdad's multibillion-dollar debt to Kuwait.

Concern mounted for the estimated 3,000 Americans in Kuwait and 500 in Iraq who have not been allowed to leave. Iraq on Wednesday night turned over a 10-year-old California girl to U.S. diplomats in Baghdad but kept 38 other Americans who were taken off an airliner in Kuwait.

As Arab leaders gathered in the Egyptian capital for their summit, Egypt's state-run Middle East News Agency reported from Baghdad that two top Iraqi officials had left for Cairo to attend the gathering.

The news agency identified the two as Taha Yassin Ramadan, Iraq's first deputy premier and a member of the ruling military junta, and Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.

The report, which could not be immediately confirmed, could be a

War Powers Act affects Saudi conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says it will give Congress a formal notification of the deployment of U.S. troops to Saudi Arabia under the War Powers Act, which limits American involvement in foreign conflicts.

A spokesman for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Frank Sieverts, said Wednesday that the panel was notified by the White House that "we will be given information that we will regard as notification under the War Powers Act."

Administrations traditionally do not formally acknowledge the act, which they regard as an unconstitutional infringement by Congress on the president's powers as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. Rather than tackle the issue head-on, however, notification usually is given in a way that Congress regards as compliance with the law.

The act requires that the president consult with Congress formally when U.S. forces are introduced "into hostilities or into situations where imminent involvement in hostilities is clearly indicated by the circumstances." Notification also is required when combat-equipped troops are sent to the territory of any foreign nation.

The notification must include the president's explanation of why the move is necessary and the estimated scope and duration of the deployment.

The law requires that the president terminate the military deployment within 60 days unless Congress has specifically authorized its continuation. The 60-day period can be extended to 90 days if the president certifies that such a move is "an unavoidable military necessity."

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said while the deployment might not meet the "imminent hostilities" test of the law, at least "the spirit" of the act should be observed.

had forced his kingdom to seek foreign military help.

"These forces from friendly powers are here temporarily," he told the Saudi people. "They are to help defend the kingdom... and will leave here as soon as the kingdom so demands."

Fahd called Iraq's move "the most horrible aggression the Arab nation has known in its modern history," and demanded an immediate withdrawal of Iraqi troops.

Arab nations have were slow to denounce the invasion, and have been reluctant to join in the multinational military effort. Egypt's president, Hosni Mubarak, said Wednesday that he would not honor Washington's request and join the U.S.-led multinational force. He suggested an all-Arab deterrent force instead.

Britain has pledged to send jet fighters and warships to bolster the U.S. forces, but it was the only nation to join Washington in backing a U.N.-ordered trade embargo with troops.

Iraq's trade minister, Mohammed Mahdi Salih, said today that his country is strong enough to withstand the "unjust economic boycott resolution against Iraq sponsored by the United States."

Temperatures soared to at least 110 degrees Wednesday as U.S. troops landed
