Democrats Sweep Into Power Through Elections

Charity Funds Are Sought In City Campaign

One Drive Already Underway While Another Is To Start Here Today; Citizens Meet Tuesday Evening

Kucera Is Leader

Fate Of Various Groups Will Be Determined By Result Of Financial Work; $6,500 Is Approximate Quota

WITH one drive for funds already under way and another to begin its work this morning, Lubbock's citizenry the next few days will be called upon to raise approximately $6,500 for charity and character building work.

Two meetings were held last night in the interests of these drives, one by the supporters of the Salvation Army work and the other by the supporters of the Boy Scout-Camp Fire girls work. Both were held in the courthouse, the first in the county court room and the second in the district court room. Neither was largely attended.

Kucera Presides

Ben Kucera, captain of the Salvation Army team presided over the meeting in the county court room. Captain and Mrs. W. T. Wilson, local Salvation Army officers and Ensign Amel Shultz, Wichita Falls, assigned to aid the campaign here, were present.

Ensign Shultz, who was here for the campaign three years ago, spoke on the work of his organization. "A member of President Hoover's committee was through Wichita Falls several weeks ago and looked over our work as well as the other work there," he said. "He investigated our system of work tests and commended very highly that plan to determine worthy families. We use it on all our applicants, except possibly those who are absolutely starving. Those, we help first and then get them to work."

Tells of System

The ensign told of the system of records of his organization and how a complete family history of all those it helped was obtained and kept. This is done to seek to weed out repeaters.

Mr. Kucera announced the city had been divided into eleven districts with a team captain in charge of each. Captains are: J. O. Smith, W. H. Waln, E. W. Patterson, Paul Hardwick, A. L. Brown, W. O. Daniels, Dan Blair, Victor Lindsey, E. H. McKinney, J. P. Newman and J. L. Murphy.

"In addition, there will be three special committees, one for the public schools, another for Texas Tech and a third for special subscriptions," he explained. "No doubt there are a good many people in Lubbock who do not have a downtown office. If these people will call myself or any member of our board or our team captains, we will be glad to call on them and get their subscriptions. This is the only charity work of its kind in Lubbock at this time."

Jennings Presided

D. T. Jennings, scout executive, presided over the dual meeting in the district court room. At the outset he announced the results of the preliminary work, saying, "out of

Cupid Lagging In Lubbock; Marriages Show A Decline

Cupid was lagging slightly behind in Lubbock county during October, according to records in the county clerk's and district clerk's offices here.

Nine notices of intention to marry were filed in the county clerk's office last month and twelve marriage licenses were issued. During the same period fifteen suits for divorce were filed in 99th and 72nd district courts here. Less stringent marriage license laws in New Mexico and Oklahoma, particularly the former, are drawing the matrimonial bound out of the state.

POSTAL RECEIPTS

Lubbock postal receipts for October totaled $10,404.54, bringing the total for 1931 up to November 1 to $93,528.74, Postmaster John L. Vaughan reported Tuesday.

Signs Statement

The youth stated they stopped at Alvarado and ate and that Jones pulled out his purse but returned it to his pocket without opening it.

Thereafter he conceived the idea of robbing Jones, he said.

He said he looked for a stretch clear of traffic and none was found until they were near Waco, a point six miles from where Jones' body was later found. Here officers as-

C. A. KLUNK

Plaintiff In $50,000 Libel Suit Against C. A. Klunk Is Questioned Regarding Book; Warning Is Issued

(By The Associated Press)

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 3. — Behind the locked doors of the federal courtroom here, Miss Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," today testified before the jury which is to decide her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion, O., hotel operator.

Miss Britton claimed in her book that the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her child. She is suing Klunk on the ground he circulated another volume, entitled, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which she claims damaged her reputation.

Testimony Secret

The testimony of Miss Britton was kept secret by order of Federal Judge John M. Killits, but the fact she was on the stand only about a half hour indicated her story was brief.

After Miss Britton had testified, her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Willits, Chicago, was called. She remained in the courtroom only a few minutes.

Doors Are Locked

Doors of the courtroom were locked to all spectators and newspaper reporters after Judge Killits announced many persons had been visiting the trial solely in hope of hearing testimony of lasciviousness. The judge also forbade attorneys and principals in the proceedings to discuss the case outside the courtroom.

The trial was near a conclusion tonight, and court attaches expressed belief it might go to the jury tomorrow.

Twenty-Nine Amarillo Hotels Enter Fight For Cuts In Telephone Rates

(By The Associated Press)

Early Tuesday, however, service had been disconnected for only 27 subscribers, according to G. N. Hailey, district manager here for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

The district manager said the 27 disconnected subscribers represented the first 40 written requests received up to Tuesday morning, explaining 13 withdrew orders after representatives of the company had called on them.

The written order solicitation started after the chamber of commerce had circulated petitions requesting a telephone cut by November 1. Signers pledged discontinuance of service if the cut was not made.

'Pan' Mail Rivals 'Fan' Mail Of Pro Law Leader

Andrew Volstead Is Staunch Defender Of Dry Act

(By The Associated Press)

ST. PAUL, Nov. 3.—For 11 years the morning mail has told Andrew J. Volstead a story of public opinion aroused by controversies over the national law that bears his name.

His volume of "fan" mail is rivaled only by his "pan" mail. But, just turning 72, this man long ago chosen as the personification of prohibition thinks dry laws are a big success.

He defends the Volstead act just as staunchly today as when he helped write it as chairman of the judiciary committee in the house of representatives.

Act Is Biggest

He still regards that act as the biggest thing that ever happened in the way of social reform.

His mail has dropped considerably since the nation first felt the effects of prohibition. But every time public interest in the dry question is aroused anew the mail-man brings Volstead a cross-section of the reaction.

Despite his years his tall, slender figure remains unstooped, his energy apparently undiminished and retirement seemingly is far from his thoughts.

Eyes Flash Fire

His blue-gray eyes still flash fire on occasion when he talks of his favorite subject, but his bushy eyebrows, abundant hair and luxuriant

Stronghold Of Michigan Post Falls Tuesday

Overthrow Regarded As Index To 1932 Presidential Drive With Balance Of Power Held By The Democrats

GOP's Confident

John N. Garner, Texas, Looms As Sure Winner Of Speaker Post; Republicans Divided In Their Choice

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

DEMOCRATIC organization of the next house is foreshadowed by their surprisingly decisive seizure of the Republican stronghold in the eighth Michigan district in yesterday's elections.

Although beaten in the first Ohio district where they campaigned relentlessly, the Democrats interpreted the Michigan overthrow as an index to the 1932 presidential campaign. The Republicans continued by rejoicing over retaining the first Ohio and pointing to it as a good sign for next year.

Holding their own seats in the seventh New York and the twentieth Ohio districts, the Democrats also expected by a good margin to win the New Jersey governorship.

The Republicans took the second Pennsylvania as forecast, along with the first Ohio, but the results left them trailing the Democrats in house standing by two.

The new house line up today gives the Democrats 217 seats; Republicans, 215; farm laborites one; vacancies two. Only one vacancy—in the fifth New Jersey, normally Republican—can be filled before the house organizes December 7.

Led Year Ago

The elections a year ago gave the Republicans 218 seats against 216 for the Democrats.

Should the Democrats suffer no losses by death, they will be more able to present a united front than the Republicans when the actual battle for house control gets under way.

Virtually the entire Democratic membership has pledged support for their leader, Representative John N. Garner of Texas, for speaker. Their only controversy is over selection of a floor leader.

On the other hand, the Republicans are torn into factions by a bitter contest over a speakership nominee. Independents in that party are making demands for more recognition.

Which party may organize the house also may be decided on how many members are sick when the

Long Launches Fight Against Ouster Action

Louisiana Executive Brushes Aside His Legal Talent To Argue His Own Claim To The Office Of Governor

(By The Associated Press)

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3. — Brushing aside his array of legal talent, Huey P. Long today argued his own claim to the governorship of Louisiana against the ouster suit of Dr. Paul N. Cyr, who, as lieutenant governor, set up the contention Long is a United States senator and is no longer governor.

Before a crowded courtroom, the governor argued an hour and a half to nullify the suit, Frank J. Looney, Cyr's chief counsel, spoke next.

Governor Long argued he will not be a member of the senate until he has taken the oath of office and therefore has a constitutional right to finish his governor term, ending next May.

Contentions Divided

Looney contended Long became a senator last March 4th despite the fact he had not taken the oath and that he ceased being governor when Cyr took the governor's oath last October 13.

Long contended only the United States senate had authority to pass upon the qualification of a senator and that the district court hearing the suit was without jurisdiction. He further claimed the state legislature, alone, had the right to remove a governor from office and that the courts had no such authority.

Two Marooned Fishermen, Near Death From Starvation, Rescued From Bay

(By The Associated Press)

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 3. — Two marooned fishermen, near death from starvation and exposure, were rescued from Starvation Point in Baffins Bay Sunday by a party of Falfurrias sportsmen.

The condition of N. H. Johnston of Houston, who was taken to a Kingsville hospital, was serious. His companion, J. E. McCoy of Port Aransas, was recovering rapidly from his ordeal.

McCoy said that he and Johnston left Port Aransas 51 days before their rescue in a small sailboat. They planned to go to Refish Bay, but adverse winds and currents kept them at sea for three weeks.

Finally they landed at Starvation Point with the food and water supply exhausted. Johnston became seriously ill. They waited 30 days before sighting the rescue party.

They said no other people were seen during the time they were stranded.

In the rescue party were Charles Atkins, Ollie Morris and Lewis Isaaks, all residents of Falfurrias.

Barney Barnes Can Now Eat Anything He Chooses

"I got so I couldn't eat anything without having trouble afterwards," says Mr. Barney Barnes, popular oil rig builder, of 2213½ West Grand Avenue, Oklahoma City, Okla. "I would have heartburn, and indigestion pains after meals.

"Nothing seemed to help me. I tried everything I could hear of but my indigestion hung on four years.

"Then a friend got me to take some Pape's Diapepsin. I had almost immediate relief with the first two tablets. Now that I have been taking them for some time, I find I can eat meats or most anything and have no trouble. I want to tell others about Diapepsin because it sure helped me."

Thousands like Mr. Barnes are finding quick, certain relief for sour stomach, or acidity, by using Pape's Diapepsin. Chew a tablet and that feeling of weight and discomfort after eating just disappears.

Judge Offers Explanations

Quotations Of Judge In Case Of Nan Britton Explained; Certain Interpretations Of Statement Denied

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 3. (AP)—Federal Judge John M. Killits today issued a statement concerning the $50,000 libel suit of Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," denying certain interpretations of the ruling he gave yesterday.

Miss Britton's suit is directed against C. A. Klunk, Marion, O., hotel keeper, on the grounds he circulated a book entitled "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which she claimed damaged her reputation. Her own book claims the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her 12-year-old daughter.

One of the interpretations Judge Killits denied quoted him yesterday as saying the "answer" book libeled Miss Britton. His denial today was in the form of an explanation that the question of whether the book was libelous was subject to qualification by evidence which Klunk may produce to support the book's statements.

Judge Killits' other denial was directed at a quotation: "There is nothing left for the plaintiff to show except the extent of the publication." Newspaper reporters here said this quotation was correct but that its meaning was revised by today's supplementary comment of the court.

Accident Case May End Today

Defendant Takes Stand In His Own Defense Tuesday Telling Of Efforts To Avoid Fatal Auto Collision

Taking the stand Tuesday afternoon in county court, C. A. Sheffield, charged with negligent homicide, testified he did his best to avoid hitting Palima Kelly, 16, and Floyd Ward, 22, in an accident at the underpass on Avenue H April 24 which claimed the life of the girl.

Sheffield is manager of a local hotel. The case is expected to reach the jury Wednesday afternoon, the defense having only character witnesses and the state several rebuttal witnesses to offer today. Sheffield was the last to take the stand Tuesday.

Several Witnesses

The state's case was built around testimony given Tuesday by Harry Bessent, Brady Isaacs, J. D. Johnson, C. E. Luce, Jack Reaves, W. L. Daniels, Henry Gordon and Mrs. M. L. Burkett. Luce, Johnson and Reaves are traffic officers. Defense witnesses were J. W. Bowman, Dr. J. H. Stiles, Sylvia Johnson, Vada Fogg, Clifton Lindsey, Bill Watson, Floyd Ward, A. F. Holt and the defendant.

Sheffield told of swerving his automobile to avoid striking a car and trailer near the north end of the underpass and that the couple stepped in front of his autimobile. "I did my best to miss these people," he said, relating that one fender of his car struck the trailer as he tried to avoid the crash with Ward and Miss Kelly.

The prosecution is conducted by County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson and his assistant, Wm. H. Evans. Sheffield is represented by Schenck & Triplett.

WOMEN: watch your

BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

Funeral services for Ben F. Smith, 52, pioneer Crosbyton resident and leader in civic and fraternal circles there for years, were held at the family home Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Elder Vance of the Church of Christ officiated.

Mr. Smith settled in Hutchinson county, Texas, and in about 1909 moved to Crosbyton. He had served as a member of the Crosbyton city commission and board of education, of the building committee for Crosbyton high school and was a member of the Knights of Pythias and the I. O. O. F. He died late Monday night at a Lubbock sanitarium of injuries received in an automobile accident last Friday.

Sanders Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

A Word to all Contestants

We sincerely thank you for your interest in the "Hidden Quart" Contest and for your entry. Almost all of you understood that the "hidden quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil stays up in the motor, where it clings to, penetrates and combines with metal surfaces—and never drains away. You appreciated the extra advantages of the "hidden quart" to the motorist. And, because so many answers were good, the judges—Dr. Bizzell, Mr. Martin and Dr. Hunter—had a difficult time deciding which were the best.

Meehan Glad Oregon Did Not Have Longer List Of Cripples In Violet Game

New York Violets Not The Champs They Thought

By GAYLE TALBOT,
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—John F. "Chick" Meehan, coach of the New York University Violets, is glad there were not a couple of halfbacks with broken legs playing on the University of Oregon thunderbolt that struck his team here Saturday.

Encountered today just after he had completed a three-hour practice session in preparation for this week's tilt with Georgia, the Violets' mentor still wore a subdued, puzzled expression. He is a man filled with emotion since he watched his violent Violets take a 14 to 6 trimming from an eleven they were figured to beat anywhere from two to five touchdowns.

"Feature this," he began dolefully, "they not only beat us to the punch and outplayed us all the way, but they did it with a makeshift line-up and a list of injuries that look like a hospital bulletin board.

"One of their tackles, who smeared our plays all afternoon before they reached the line of scrimmage, had a thumb in a plaster cast. One of their backs was suffering from gastric ulcers and another had a floating cartilage. They had a regular end playing quarterback for the first time in his life and a tackle playing end. There's no telling what they would have done if a couple of them had broken legs."

The Webfeets' victory over the Violets, considered one of the most powerful teams in the east, ranks as one of the major upsets of the current season. Trounced by Southern California and held to a scoreless tie by North Dakota, Coach Doc Spears' lads were considered no match for the Meehanites, who had bowled over five opponents and already were getting themselves fitted for an eastern championship.

Oregon Deserves Credit

"It was tough for me," said Meehan, "but that Oregon team deserves all the credit in the world. I've seen some inspired teams in my time, but that bunch take the cake.

"It's been said my team was overconfident, but that's wrong. However, it was over-eager. After Oregon pushed over its first touchdown in the opening minutes of play, my boys got excited. They were trying to score two touchdowns on every play. They never did get settled down after the first shock."

Meehan sees one ray of light. He figures his team, as a result of its rude awakening, will have a psychological advantage over Georgia's great undefeated eleven here this week-end.

"My boys are due to come back this week, now that they've discovered they're not champions," he said. "I don't say we'll beat Georgia, but I promise it will be a battle."

A Regular Now

ELI HARRIS

Eli "Stubby" Harris, the former Ralls High school Jackrabbit, is doing some nice work on Line Coach Dutchey Smith's Texas Tech forward wall as a sophomore this season. He has been designated as a "regular" against the A. C. C. Wildcats who come here for a game with the Matadors Friday night. Toby Greer, another sophomore, will play the other guard.

lines since the A. & M. game, is being groomed to fill Boswell's shoes at left tackle.

The extent of Boswell's injuries are not known at present but it is certain that he will be out of the Rice and Texas tilts. There is an outside chance that he will be available for duty in the Baylor clash Nov. 21.

Boswell's injury has necessitated another revamping of the forward wall. Evans was being groomed to fill Howell's right tackle, but with the possibility of Howell's being ready to go against the Owls, Evans has been moved to left tackle. Cy Perkins, 195-pound sophomore who played most of the Simmons and Arkansas games at left tackle, will be held in reserve. If Howell starts at right tackle, Shackelford, Kinzy and Harvey Thomas, who has been shifted from reserve center to tackle, will be held in reserve.

Bat Battalino Defends Title Again Tonight

Battered World's Featherweight Champion To Battle Earl Mastro Of Chicago In Title Bout At Chicago

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Bat Battalino, the battered boy from Hartford, Conn., will defend his world featherweight championship for the third time since he won it two years ago, by engaging the fiery Earl Mastro, 23-year old Chicagoan, in the Chicago stadium tomorrow night.

The match will be for 10 rounds or less at the featherweight limit of 126 pounds.

A pound of flesh stood between Battalino and the featherweight limit as the champion neared the finish of his weight making campaign today. It was reported he weighed 127 pounds after he completed his strenuous floor exercises, but his handlers smiled satisfactorily, apparently knowing he would have no trouble in scaling 125 3-4 or thereabouts when they weigh in at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mastro, always a light featherweight, has had no difficulty in making the required poundage, and the keyed up challenger expects to scale a pound under the limit at weighing in time.

Indications were tonight that a crowd in excess of 15,000 will witness the contest, with gate receipts between $50,000 and $60,000.

Battalino was a 6 to 5 choice in defending his title, because he has the reputation of taking his title engagements with extreme seriousness.

Master-Minding Mentors In Humpty-Dumpty Skit

Zuppke and Stagg once sat on the wall,
But with Wally Steffen they took a great fall;
And all the king's horses and all The king's men couldn't put Bill Alexander (not to mention Mr. Gwinn Henry, coach of Missouri) Together again.

—With apologies to Humpty Dumpty, Mother Goose and the gentlemen mentioned above.

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. — How are the mighty fallen! And will somebody please read Job's Lamentations while the orchestra plays the Misere?

Wherewith we come to the subject of today's dispute: Resolved, That a Good Halfback Makes a Good Coach, or, That a Coach Makes a Good Halfback.

It was in 1916 that Zuppke, with his brave cohorts facing certain annihilation at the hands of a mighty Gopher machine, entered the dressing room and announced to his merry men, "I am Louis the Sixteenth, and you are my court." His players, legend has it, laughed so hard they won the game, 14 to 7, and it was a great victory for psychology, etc. Halfback Bart Macomber and End Ren Kraft just helped along a little with a couple of touchdowns.

Now, will it turn out at this late date that Zup was only kidding the boys and that instead of being Louis XVI he really is Humpty Dumpty? Since Grange, the Sternamans, Chuck Carney, Frosty Peters, Jim McMillen and Milt Olander have gone away from Illinois, evil days have indeed set in, evil days to be sure when the Illini can hold down Michigan only to a score of 35 to 0.

Now we come to the sad case of Bill Alexander, coach of what used to be the world's champion football team of Georgia Tech. In the old days of Pete Pund, Mizell, Thomason, Lumpkin and other rollicking lads of their ilk, "the ramblin' wreck from Georgia Tech" rolled over opposition with no more difficulty than a locomotive scoots along the rails. But, gone are the stars of yesteryear, Aleck now finds that instead of coaching a football team he really is coaching a football.

Did Bill Alexander make Pund, Lumpkin and those other guys great, or what? After which we will take up the question of precedence between the poultry and the egg.

Well, there's Stagg, too. When Amos had fellows like Eckersall and Red McGuire and Milt Romney and "Five Yards" McCarty and John Thomas building their characters under his astute tutelage, it was noised about that this Stagg was a sort of Marion Magi. But let us not go into the Chicago matter any deeper. Too many scholastic requirements to be blocked out.

Two of Wally Steffen's teams at Carnegie Tech made Rockne blush. Steffen remains the only coach in this or any other sphere whose teams took two straight from the Rock-ribbed Ramblers. A couple of people such as Harpster and Eyth played an obscure part in the affairs. But Tech has no more Harpsters and no more Eyth and have bowed low before Washington and Jefferson and Purdue.

It used to be said by the townspeople and burghers along the banks of the Missouri that whenever a University of Missouri team coached by Gwinn Henry lost a gridiron struggle, the river surely would flow upstream and form a lake, somewhere in New Brunswick maybe. But look you now! Missouri, at this writing has not won a game, and has been beaten by Texas, Kansas State, Colorado and Iowa State.

Well, let's see now, which did come first, the egg or the tomato?

Boys In Shape After Resting From Tough Go

Plan To Entertain Bobcats On Tech Field Saturday Is Made On Practice Field; Looking To Amarillo Game Already

While they do not anticipate any serious opposition until Thanksgiving Day when they go to Amarillo to meet the vaunted Sandstorm of Amarillo High school, the Lubbock High school Westerners fell into the first of a series of hard workouts yesterday afternoon with "Beat Amarillo" resounding over the field even this far ahead.

Two more or less important games are to be played before the Lubbock-Amarillo game, and they are thought now to be little more than set ups for the locals. They meet Childress High here Saturday afternoon. Childress was in the same division as Lubbock last year and the teams played a conference game. This year Childress is in District 2, still a Class A contender, but still a weak sister.

On Wednesday of next week the Westerners entertain the Plainview Bulldogs, that scrapping bunch of gridsters coached by Froggie Lovvorn. The game is a district championship affair but Lubbock is given a decided edge over the Plainview team.

Monday's light workout followed by a heavier one yesterday practically dispelled all serious physical drawbacks suffered in the Pampa game last week. O. H. Britton, quarterback, and Melvin Griggs, guard, were hobbling around Monday with sore knees. Nothing serious is expected to result. Bob Crawford, captain and center who was injured in an automobile accident Monday afternoon, was on the field yesterday, though limping from a cut near the knee.

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 3. (AP) — Howard Payne college freshmen won their fourth game in a row today by defeating the Simmons University freshmen 32-0.

Notre Dame Shift As Developed By Rockne Was Intended For Deception, Not Momentum

There are at least 100 reasons why the average football fan should know something about the Notre Dame shift. That many Notre Dame graduates are teaching the system throughout the length and breadth of the land.

The primary aim of the Notre Dame shift is deception, not momentum. Some coaches copied the shift and developed it to a point where the shifting team could "jump the gun" on its opponents. This was curbed a few years ago when the rulemakers legislated that all 11 players of the team in possession of the ball must come to an absolute stop and remain stationary in their positions, without movement of the feet or swaying of the body, for at least one second before putting the ball into play. The penalty for violation of the rule is loss of 15 yards from the spot where the ball was put into play.

The Notre Dame shift involves the backs and occasionally the ends. Rockne did not believe a line shift added to the deception. His reasoning was that shifts tired out big, lumbering linesmen, but did not bother the nimble backs which he always seemed to have on hand.

The accompanying diagram gives a picture of Schwartz, Yarr, Kurth, Kosky and others of the 1931 Notre Dame eleven, using the set formation and the shift. In the lower section of the diagram, the ends have moved out, the backs have hipped over into what is known as the square formation. This particular shift is unusually strong for a flank attack.

Be master, not servant

of the weather in your home

In gas-heated homes, winter is more comfortable than summer—a season of balmy days neither hot nor cold—instead of being a struggle to keep step with the whims of winter. A blizzard or quick spring thaw are powerless to affect the even, thermostat-measured warmth that surges up from the gas furnace. The entire task of heating your home is done by two fingers in a weekly winding of a thermostat-clock. A "miracle" in heating? Not to the home owners who have learned to forget the furnace from September 'til April.

Don't you dread the coming of fall with the prospect of another winter's fire tending? Don't you weary of going downstairs o'nights to bank a fire . . . of hurrying downstairs on zero mornings to shake up grates? Wouldn't you prefer to consign the whole business to perdition? Let us give you a reliable estimate to prove it. There is no obligation in asking.

disease which strikes fear into the minds of very parent and indeed of most physicians is the atic fear of childhood. Associated with this are almost invariably infections of the lining e heart or the development of the condition acute endocarditis.

John Lovett Morse has recently analyzed 100 of rheumatic fever with inflammation of the occurring in his practice during some 25 years. e of the patients were seen before 1906, 20 after and before 1911, 40 after 1910 and before 1916 8 after 1915 and before 1921. He finds at this that 36 of the hundred are dead and three are anent invalids. The remaining 61 are alive, and of them the hearts are apparently normal; in e hearts show slight damage; in six it was imble to obtain re-examination of the heart.

Drive Will Be Deferred

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Library of Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The noise of next winter's congressional fighting over prohibition will be terrific, but the truth is that the wet leaders do not expect to launch their real modification offensive earlier than the session of 1932-3.

This does not mean that they will be inactive in the meantime.

Between December 7, when the lawmakers will convene, and the indeterminate date of their adjournment, probably toward the end of April, they intend to keep up a series of fierce attacks on the drys.

There is no doubt that the drys will be numerically somewhat weaker than they were, due to wet victories last November. The wets think they will prove to be further disorganized by such recent developments as the American Legion's vote, at its Detroit gathering in September, demanding submission of the wet-and-dry question to the states.

Nevertheless, it generally is agreed in wet circles that the dry's defense will be too strong to be seriously dented during the coming winter.

MANAGERS of the wet campaign believe, indeed, that they will be able to checkmate whatever attempts may be made to strengthen present dry regulations, as, for example, through Senator Morris Sheppard's plan to penalize liquor buyers, as well as bootleggers.

They likewise will seek to prevent any increase in enforcement appropriations and perhaps to curtail them slightly, in the name of economy, though they will not try to cut them off altogether, holding that that would be overdoing matters.

The introduction of measures to legalize 3 or 4 per cent beer will not be neglected and these bills will be genuinely pushed, but without much hope of accomplishing more than to advertise the merits claimed for them from the standpoint of unemployment relief, an increased demand for such farm products as breweries require and revenue raising.

BUT THE MAIN object of the wets' 1931-32 program will be less the attainment of direct results than to stir up public opinion in preparation for a tremendous effort to get a wet plank into at least one of the major party platforms some eight months hence.

It is no secret that wet strategists are not optimistic as to the G. O. P. platform.

They regard their Democratic prospects as fairly promising.

To comprehend their reasoning fully, it should be understood that the nomination of a wet presidential candidate, much as the wet high command desires it, will not alone serve wet purposes. A wet platform is needed, too, to commit candidates for the senate and house of representatives likewise to a policy of prohibition repeal or modification.

THIS IS exactly what dry Democratic politicians do not like about the idea.

Republican statesmen do not care so much. They anticipate a G. O. P. declaration of a sufficiently elastic nature to permit their adherence to it without unduly straining their principles, whether wet or dry.

Dry Jeffersonians, however, sense the danger of an unmistakably wet plank's adoption at their convention, and realize the mighty awkward fix they will be placed in if compelled to stand pat for unadulterated prohibition among their home folk while acquiescing nationally in a program of repeal or modification.

Anyway, the wet tacticians calculate that, if they succeed as to the desired wet plank and it is well received by the voters in November, 1932, they will be armed to go to work in earnest at the succeeding session of congress.

THE WETS admittedly bank heavily upon the American Legion's vote in Detroit, as showing dry majorities in only a dozen out of the 48 states—and of that dozen only half ordinarily Democratic.

The fact remains that cautious politicians are chary of recognizing the American Legion ballot as absolutely conclusive.

Neither wets nor drys, to be quite candid, are very sure what the Legion did signify.

With its contrasting totals of 1,008 wets to only 394 drys, it undeniably has a wet appearance. Anti-Saloon league statements point out, it is true, that a referendum is all that was called for—not necessarily actual repeal of the dry law. For all that, the strictures which the Legion adopted, relating to prohibition, certainly suggested an unfavorable majority sentiment toward the eighteenth amendment's efforts, not to mention the detail that it is hard to see why drys should care for a referendum to confirm what they have already.

THUS IT WOULD be a mistake to assume that dry politicians are otherwise than very uneasy.

In the senate only 20 of them find real comfort in the Detroit returns.

These are:

Robinson and Caraway, Arkansas; Capper and McGill, Kansas; Harrison and Stephens, Mississippi; Norris and Howell, Nebraska; Thomas of Oklahoma (Thomas P. Gore was elected to the senate from the Sooner State as a wet last November); Smith and Byrnes, South Carolina; Sheppard and Connally, Texas; Smoot of Utah (Smoot's fellow senator, William H. King, always has been opposed to national prohibition); Jones and Dill, Washington; Hatfield and Neely, West Virginia, and Kendrick and Carney, Wyoming.

Their states went out-and-out dry at the Legion gathering. They, too, are dry and have nothing to worry about.

Perhaps Brookhart and Dickinson of Iowa should be included in the list. The Hawkeye commonwealth did not go dry but it did not go wet, either; it broke even, 22-22.

Otherwise it is difficult for a dry to argue as he would prefer to argue from the Legion's lineup. And yet—and yet—was it a really representative vote? To politicians from hitherto almost solidly dry states it seems wellnigh incredible.

Besides, there is this to be taken into consideration:

On election day, even though the wets may be in a majority, they split their vote; the drys vote virtually as a unit.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

The Waterfall That "Falls" Upward:

One of the phenomena to be found in Norway is the Voringfoss (Crystal Falls) near the Possli Hotel, at the end of the Hardanger Fjord, Norway. It was reported to me by William Ehinelander Stewart of New York City, who saw and photographed the falls last summer.

A small side stream of the falls drops over the precipice a short distance from the main falls, where the clear drop is approximately 1000 feet. But the small stream never reaches the bottom! The reverse "fall" is caused by the terrific upward air current from the large stream, and it is blown back up over the precipice in the form of fine mist.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, marries MARK TRAVERS, millionaire's son, in spite of the opposition of Mark's father.

The story takes place in Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. After an extravagant honeymoon the couple face poverty. Mark secures a job, loses it, and then becomes floorwalker in a department store. The young couple are beginning to master their problems when Mark's father sends for him and offers him a place in his own business organization if the son will prove he can make good. Mark's first assignment involves a business trip to France. Norma must remain at home.

Mark goes and Norma, rudely treated at her father-in-law's home, slips away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts. CHRIS SAUNDERS, Norma's former roommate, helps her find a job.

Mark's father employs detectives to trail the girl. They unearth records showing that three years before Norma was convicted on a vice charge. In spite of evidence that the charge was framed, Travers sends his lawyer to Paris to engineer a divorce. Weeks later Norma learns the decree has been granted.

In August Norma's son is born. When the baby is six months old Norma returns to her former job. Mark's mother sees her with the baby and a few days later a public health nurse comes while Norma is away and takes the baby, explaining a complaint has been made that he is neglected.

BOB FARRELL, young lawyer, discovers that Mr. and Mrs. Travers are behind this move, seeking to get custody of the child. Farrell persuades Norma to go to LAFAYETTE FLYNN, district attorney, and tell the story of how the charges against her were framed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

The cries of the newsboys rose loud and shrill above noon-day traffic. 'Wuxtra! Wuxtra! Allabouta Vice Charges! Wuxtra- Pretty Victim Tells of Framing—!"

They barked the raucous, unintelligible words and waved newspapers with headlines in three-inch type. Screaming black banner lines that repeated the words the boys were shouting. "Pretty Victim Declares Charges Framed." "Beauty Tells Own Story." "Girl Asserts Conviction was Frameup!"

It was the second day after Norma's story had "broken" in the news. Lafayette Flynn, with the dramatic instinct which had played so large a part in his political success, had staged events carefully. He had arranged the interviews. He had seen to it that Norma said just enough and not too much that first day. Flynn had come out with a denunciation of the "system" that permitted such evils.

Two newspapers treated the story cautiously the first day. Two others spread it across the front pages. On the following day Norma Travers had become a headline heroine. It was learned that she was Mark Travers' former wife. Photographs filed away since the honeymoon trip to Blue Springs reappeared. Besides the running story of the interview there were "pen pictures" of Norma written by star feature writers. Lafayette Flynn issued a second and stronger attack on the "system". Members of the opposing political organization came back with vitriolic counter attacks.

Norma did not go to the office. She stayed in the apartment, believing herself secure there because none of the newspapers had been given her address. By 10 a. m. she learned her mistake. The telephone rang constantly. Reporters were at the front door and at the rear of the house. Two of them got inside and before she knew it Norma found herself facing a battery of questions. She answered some of them, felt panic-stricken a moment later and fled. At the window of her apartment she discovered a man across the street was making her photograph.

Norma pulled down the shades and locked the door.

She was overwhelmed with regret. What possible good could come of all this notoriety? There were evening newspapers on the floor before the davenport. Norma caught a glimpse of her own name in the headlines, turned away and buried her face in a pillow.

Weeping relieved the hysteria which had enveloped her. She tried to sew, thinking that if her hands were busy she would feel better. It was a blue gingham romper suit she had been making for Mark that she took from the sewing basket. Sight of the garment brought back all her misery.

"Oh, Mark!" Norma cried. "Where are you? Darling, I want you so! I want you!"

By evening when Chris Saunders arrived Norma was in such a state that the elder girl was worried.

"You can't stay here alone like this," she announced. "It's enough to give anyone the willies."

"But I have to! I won't go out and talk to those reporters! I won't go out and have them taking pictures of me. I wouldn't mind, Chris, if it was going to do any good but how can it? How can it get Mark back to me? I'm afraid it's going

Young Girl Is Attack Victim

Two Highwaymen Stop Car And Tie Young Man, Strike Girl But Her Screams Bring Aid; Search Instituted

KILGORE, Nov. 3. (AP) — Two masked men attempted to criminally attack a 14-year-old Kilgore girl on a lonely road near here last night.

The girl was riding along the main highway with a young Gladewater man when the men drove up in a car. The couple was forced at the point of a pistol to turn into the lonely road.

Reaching a deserted spot, the men forced the couple to halt. The girl's escort was tied with a belt. The men then struck the girl over the head with a pistol butt and began tearing off her clothing. She screamed and a tank worker, erecting an oil tank nearby, heard her. He called back. The men fled after taking a diamond ring from the girl and a small amount of money from the youth.

Ranger Sergeant M. T. Gonsaullas and Rusk county officers searched the vicinity for hours last night in an effort to apprehend the highwaymen but failed to locate them.

Conspiracy Case Now Facing Man

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Robert A. Stevenson was arrested here yesterday and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Lockhart on a charge of conspiracy to circulate counterfeit money in connection with operation of a Colorado bank.

City detectives working with Ed Tyrrell, federal secret service agent, arrested him.

Stevenson testified before Commissioner Lockhart that he was approached in Juarez, Mexico, by representatives of a bank who wanted counterfeit money for use at the bank. He said he took $1,000 in American money from the men but denied he ever purchased any counterfeit money.

Tyrrell said three other men are held in jail at El Paso and that Stevenson would be taken there for trial.

Master Clock Services Now Installed In City Plants

A telechron master clock has been installed by the city o flubbock in its power plant and all electric time service clocks connected with the city power lines will thus have a master clock to correct the time, it was announced.

The telechron master clock is designed to indicate to the power operator any accumulated time error, due to any error in the number of cycles of alternating current which have been sent out by the revolving generators. If the number of cycles is greater or less than the normal number, the master clock indicates this and a correction can be made.

The time-keeping element of the master clock is so carefully constructed that it is able to run with an error of less than one second per day. Corrections and checks are made daily with the U. S. Naval Observatory at Washington.

Oklahoma Farmer Critically Ill After Swallowing Poison

ALTUS, Okla., Nov. 3. (AP)—Sam Tinney, Jackson county farmer, who tried bank robbery as a solution to his financial difficulties, was critically ill today from poison which he swallowed just before he was captured.

Tinney was brought to the county jail here from Headrick where he robbed the Citizens' State bank of $50 late yesterday, before officers learned he had taken poison.

He told officers he had hoped the robbery would bring him funds to pay his debts and relieve his wife and children of the necessity of picking cotton for a living. He planned to kill himself if the attempt failed, he said.

"ABOUT four years ago, I suffered a great deal with pains in my back and sides," writes Mrs. D. A. Bush, of Roxton, Texas. "I did not feel like doing my housework, or anything else. I would get nervous, and my back would hurt worse. One of my neighbors asked me what I was doing for myself. I told her 'most everything. Then she asked me if I had ever taken Cardui. I told her 'no' but I would try it. Before I had finished one bottle I could tell the difference in my feelings, but I kept on taking Cardui until I felt strong and well again." adv-10 to make it harder!"

"Bob doesn't think so. There's an editorial in the Press tonight. Did you see it?"

"No."

Chris rummaged through the newspaper, folding the pages back. "Here it is. At the top of the column. The heading is 'Sensational Charges' and below it says, 'The sensational charge of Miss Norma Travers that she was convicted of a vice charge on evidence deliberately manufactured by police investigators is one of the most serious that has faced the city administration. Coupled with District Attorney Flynn's announcement that he can produce names of half a dozen other young women similarly convicted and the district attorney's dark hints at corruption in the municipal courts the matter calls for thorough and immediate investigation. If the district attorney has this information it is his duty to present it—' "

There was more and Chris read the entire column. "Bob says there's going to be an investigation," she said as she put the newspaper down. "He says Flynn's sure of it."

"But Chris, I don't care about all that. I—I want Mark!"

"Of course you do, darling. You're going to get him back."

"Has Bob heard any more—Where did you see him?"

He dropped in at the office a little before closing time. He's been at the welfare department office a couple of times and told them he's your lawyer. All he could get out of them was that the investigation has to be conducted carefully and that the final report hasn't been made yet."

"I can't stand it, Chris! I can't stand it much longer!"

The older girl was so worried that a little later she slipped downstairs and made a telephone call. Next morning she announced she was not going to the office.

"It's all right," she assured Norma. "They aren't expecting me. Besides if I stay away a few days they'll appreciate me more when I'm there. You and I are going out of town for the week-end."

"Chris—!"

"Now don't say anything! You might just as well spare yourself the breath. We're going to take a run down to Rosebriar over the week-end. Honestly I need the rest, Norma, and I won't go without you."

Norma said steadily, "You can't fool me. You're doing this because of me—"

"Well, what if I am? I'm doing it for myself too. Don't you want to get away for a couple of days of peace and quiet? Don't you want to get away from those reporters? You've given your story and there's nothing more for you to tell them. Anyhow I called Mr. Flynn last night and he said we should go."

"But it will be expensive."

"I've got the money. Now snap into it, Norma! Let's see if we can catch the 9:30 train—"

The week-end at Rosebriar proved a blessed interlude. It was a small place, popular as a resort because it was on a lake and because there were two excellent hotels. Out of season the rates were not high. There were few guests at the Rosebriar Inn where the two girls stopped. Norma and Chris slept late, took long walks and spent two lazy afternoons doing nothing but gazing out at the dazzling blue of the water. They did not even read the Sunday newspapers.

They took the last train back to Marlboro and arrived at the apartment a little after eight p. m. Fastened in the door were several memorandums to call Bob Farrell.

Norma telephoned and Bob's voice came back to her. "I'll be right over. Lots of things to tell you."

He was there within half an hour. Bob congratulated Norma on her rested and improved appearance and then launched the big news.

"There's been plenty of excitement the last few days," Farrell said. "Did you see the papers? No? Well, then, there's a lot for you to hear. Things have been happening! There's going to be an investigation—that's the main thing. Yes, the governor got busy and put on the pressure. Wellington's been named to take charge. Oh, he's square! Wonderful lawyer. There's been about a dozen more cases in the newspapers too. A lot of girls now at Mount Florence are demanding new hearings—lawyers on the job, of course. The big thing though happened today. Flynn got 'Whitey' Black, the stool pigeon, to spill everything! He's accused a dozen members of the vice squad of framing girls and told how he had part in it himself. Black is the fellow whose picture you saw in Flynn's office. Remember, Norma? Some of these fee-splitting lawyers are going to get it next. Say, but the way Flynn lined this thing up is marvelous! He's known about Black for months. Been collecting material, getting it together and just holding back until the psychological time to break it. Black hasn't told half of all he knows yet—!"

"But, Bob," Norma put in. "What's it all going to lead to? How is it going to help me to get Mark back?

"Why, don't you see? No court in the world would have the nerve to hold those old charges against you in the face of all this uproar! Landers—he's the juvenile court judge and he'll hold the hearing—wouldn't dare do it. Unless I'm mistaken the public welfare department is going to scramble to keep its own skirts clean. They'll never undertake to get Mark away from you permanently now. Never! Of course you'll have to testify when the investigation opens."

"Testify? You mean at a trial? You mean I'll have to tell everybody what happened? Oh, but I couldn't—!"

"You said you'd do it, Norma. Don't you remember that I warned you? I told you it wasn't going to be easy but you said you'd go through with it."

"But I didn't know it would be like that! I thought it was just talking to Mr. Flynn. I didn't know you meant everybody!"

"Mr. Flynn will be there all right. And it won't be any harder talking before Judge Wellington than it was to Flynn. Why, Norma, you can't back down now! You've got to go through with it!"

Chris put her arm around the other girl. "We're all going to stand by you, honey. But Bob's right. You couldn't refuse to go on now."

Norma turned away. When she faced about a moment later she said unsteadily, "I'll—I'll try to do it!"

Public indignation, manifested by protests from civic groups and women's clubs, denunciations from pulpits and platforms, swelled into a rising tide during the next seven days. The onrush broke about the heads of certain city officials. It crashed against the Marlboro police department.

The agitation was responsible for unprecedented promptness in launching the official investigation. Lafe Flynn was not alone among city politicians to see the possibility of such a scandal. Apparently Flynn's opposition—assured that the affair could not be hushed—wanted it cleared away and forgotten as soon as possible before the fall election.

Norma went back to her desk in Stuart's office on Monday. She evolved the formula of answering all questioners with "I have nothing to say." It was a hard and trying week but she managed to live through it.

"When this is over," Norma told herself repeatedly, "they'll have to let me have Mark!" That was the litany of all her prayers. "They'll have to let me have Mark!"

Thursday evening she and Chris arrived at the apartment at the same time. Chris was ahead and opened the door. She picked up an envelope from the table in the hall.

"A letter!" Chris said. "It's for you, Norma."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3. (AP) — The cotton market experienced a fair volume of trading today notwithstanding that the New York market was closed for election day. Price fluctuations were comparatively narrow.

Liverpool cables were higher than due on this further weakness in Sterling.

The close was easier at the lowest, the general market showing net declines for the day of 8-13 points. Liverpool is due tomorrow 4-5 penny points down on New Orleans.

New York Diamond Broker Is Robbed Of $200,000 In Gems

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Joseph C. Newman, New York diamond broker, reported to police today he had been kidnapped in the downtown district by two men, driven to the outskirts of the city, robbed of $200,000 worth of jewelry and released.

Newman reported the theft to the detective bureau. He said the two men apparently followed him as he left his hotel. They accosted him at Congress and South Wabash Avenue, just south of the loop, and forced him to drive to the south side. He had intended calling on customers.

Report On Roads

This report is furnished daily by the South Plains Automobile club, local branch of the American Automobile association.

Lloyd George

Welsh leader's once vast following—Miss Megan Lloyd George will be the sole "rank and file." For her father, her brother Gwilym and her brother-in-law, Maj. Goronwy Owen, all have distinctions entitling them to sit on the front bench of the opposition, which presumably they will do.

Future Doubtful

What the ultimate future holds for the once virtual dictator of Great Britain and whether he finally will become leader of the labor or any other opposition, none today could say.

He is expected to take a long holiday to recuperate from a recent illness, having planned a trip to the Mediterranean and a vacation in Wales, and he may not attend parliament sessions after taking the oath.

Senator Pollard Says East Texas Wants Dollar Oil

AUSTIN, Nov. 3. (AP) — Senator Tom Pollard of Tyler issued a statement today declaring East Texas desired "dollar oil" but wanted it only "without doing violence to our constitutional or statutory laws."

He said the proposal to fix the East Texas oil field allowable on an acreage basis, instead of the existing per well arrangement, should "advocate this plan for all sections of Texas, where they have production, and voluntarily cut their production in these other sections in the same percentage as advanced for East Texas, when compared to potential production, etc., after which they could ask the railroad commission to enter such an order for East Texas."

"We want $1 per barrel for oil, yes, $2 per barrel; yet want it without doing violence to our constitutional or statutory laws and without discrimination against any oil producting section of Texas, and without discrimination against the small operator who is directly responsible for the discovery of oil in East Texas," Senator Pollard said.

Senator Pollard has arranged for a group of East Texas producers to meet with Governor R. S. Sterling tomorrow to protest adoption of the proposed acreage basis method of proration for that section.

ISSUE INVITATION

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3. (AP) — Governor Harvey Parnell of Arkansas and Governor Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, issued a joint invitation late today for representatives of southerern states to meet here November 23 and seek unification of plans for relief of the cotton industry.

A Garza county woman made one hundred twenty-six dollars worth of cucumber products from a patch that it cost forty cents to seed.

the first 62 persons aproached, we got pledges from 45, while 17 turned us down. These pledges amounted to $1,065.50. Additional pledges have brought the total up to $1,180."

Dean James M. Gordon of Texas Tech was the first speaker called upon by Mr. Jennings. "I am tremendously interested in the character building organizations in Lubbock," he explained. "We are so apt to lose sight of this thing you have met here for tonight." He stressed the work of the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire girls, the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. at Tech and the necessity of their continuance at this time.

"It seems to me that Lubbock is being put on trial at this time," he said. "It is the business of the character building work to stop at the source the things that charity organizations are now being forced to do."

George W. Dupree, active in the scout council, also spoke, explaining the calling of the meeting of those interested in the two groups. "I think this money can be raised," he went on.

"It is the purpose of the leaders of the scout movement, to raise the rest of the budget of $2,375 which that organization set. If we cannot raise the rest of this budget we will close up shop, we are not going to run on credit, as far as I am concerned," he said. One gift of $250 was made by a large organization, he said.

In addition to the list of 212 persons from whom the budget of $2,375 was to be sought, as well as about $1,200 for the Camp Fire girls, an additional list of between 75 and 100 persons, with a tentative expectation of nearly $1,300 was also made out.

Dean A. H. Leidigh of Texas Tech and several others also were called upon for short talks.

State War On Inferior Gas Looms; Complaints Lodged

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3. (AP)—The first blow in a looming state wide war by the attorney general's office on the sale of what investigators term inferior or third grade gasoline was struck in Fort Worth late today with the filing of complaints against operators of nine filling stations.

Information, filed by Assistant District Attorney Cecil Rotsch in the court of County Judge Dave McGee, allege gasoline that does not conform to standards fixed by state law is being sold by the nine stations.

Other defendants in the case were Mrs. Atticus Webb, Mrs. J. E. Jameson, Mrs. Lula Tubb, Miss Lillian Hannah and Mrs. Della Beard.

Hard Luck Turns And Good Comes

MT. PLEASANT, Mich., Nov. 3. (AP)—"Hard Luck" McClanahan's luck has turned.

A 3,300-barrell gusher has just been brought in in the Midland field near here and the principal owner is Walter Lee McClanahan, whose string of misfortunes reached a climax July 18 when a fire at his "Stuble No. 1" cost ten lives, including that of his wife.

Since the fire, however, a well in which McClanahan had an interest was brought in with a flush production a few hundred barrels greater than his latest gusher.

So it looks like a new appellation will have to be found for the promoter whose activities in numerous fields have been dogged by misfortune.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP) — Wholesale profit taking for recent big buyers led to a sharp setback in wheat prices today, but not until the market had scaled new heights. The maximum fall from the day's peak, a fresh top record for the season, was 1 1-4 cents a bushel. Contributing to the downward swing of the market was a widespread belief that the almost unprecedented extent and unusual speed of price advances of late had made some reaction inevitable.

Wheat closed unsettled, 7-8 to 1 1-4 cents under yesterday's finish, corn varying from 3-8 decline to 1-4 gain, oats 1-2 to 7-8 down, and provisions unchanged to 1-4 gain.

TULSA, Nov. 3. (AP) — With the Continental Oil Co., again calling the figures the midcontinent area of the oil world tonight apparently was preparing to dance to the tune of higher prices for gasoline.

New Jersey Woman Has Suggestions For Belgian Opera Star On Clover

EMILY S. RYAN of New Jersey would tell Madame Clare Clairbert, Belgian opera singer, a few things about four-leaf clover.

Lubbock residents will recall that Madame Clairbert who sang here last week sought the lucky clover leaves on the courthouse lawn—despite the notice of a $5 fine for walking on the grass. The Belgian artist was accompanied to Justice W. S. Clark's office by Deputy Constable Cap Moore. After an explanation that the singer was seeking a four-leaf clover to keep her rabbit foot company, the case against Madame Clairbert was dismissed.

The New Jersey woman came into the picture Tuesday when Justice Clark received a letter from Emily S. Ryan. The letter contained a sealed envelope with a note to forward to Madame Clairbert. It was indicated the letter's contents dealt with the magical four-leaf clover. Just what Emily S. Ryan has to tell the artist will remain for Madame Clairbert to tell, said the justice. He is requesting representatives of the Texas Tech artist course to provide the forwarding address to Madame Clairbert.

Delaney, Democratic lawyer who served in the house of representatives during the Wilson administration, today won the seventh district congressional seat made vacant by the death of Matthew V. O'Malley, also a Democrat. With virtually complete returns, Delaney was leading William L. Padgett, Republican, by nearly 16,000 votes, 75 districts out of 78 giving him 23,303 to Padgett's 7,620.

Government Aids In Murder Trial

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 3. (AP) The government lent its aid to the state of Indiana today in the prosecution of George Adams, 35, convicted Fort Wayne bootlegger who last July 22 shot and killed two federal prohibition agents when they sought to arrest him.

The trial is on an indictment charging first degree murder in the slaying of John I. Wilson. Another indictment charges second degree murder for the shooting of Walter N. Gilbert. Prosecutor Walter E. Helmke announced the state would ask the death penalty.

Gilbert, a Cincinnati agent, and Wilson, working out of Indianapolis, were killed at a rendesvous a mile south of Fort Wayne where Adams had agreed to deliver a load of liquor to them. Oliver J. Gettle, another agent, and C. E. Green of Portland, Ind., a federal informer, also were present.

When Adams realized he was caught, Gettle said, he drew a gun and said, "I'm going to kill you." Gilbert then fired, according to Gettle, wounding Adams in the neck and the bootlegger proceeded to kill Gilbert and Wilson, firing several shots into the latter's body after he had fallen to the ground. The agent said Wilson was unarmed.

Waco Slaying

sert, he said he shot Jones, dragged his body to an interurban ditch and took his purse. He stated he turned the car around, drove north, turned again and stopped with the lights on so passersby would think he had motor trouble and pick him up.

Rides Into Waco

He said 15 minutes later an old man and a youth in a light machine gave him a ride to Waco where he registered first at the Y.M.C.A. as W. C. Ball and then to a hotel, registering as M. C. Byron.

Here, he said, he made the mistake of stuffing Jones' purse, from which he got two dollars, with a bank book and an identification card behind a dresser.

A reward of $300 was posted by Jones' father.

Beck's arrest came after discovery of the purse by a negro maid who filed it with other articles she found.

mustache, once so black, are graying fast.

Daily he works in his office in the old federal building here, busy giving legal advice in connection with the act he gave a name.

He is on the government pay-roll as legal adviser of northwest prohibition enforcement headquarters.

Has Not Weakened

He has never weakened in defense of prohibition, although its resultant controversies have been distasteful to him. He believes the dry law never will be repealed.

"Modification," he has frequently said, "is just another name for repeal and the old saloon."

He refuses to answer the question, "Have you had a drink since prohibition?"

Friends say he hasn't, and that he never did use liquor to any extent.

He wants peace, quiet and no publicity. He dislikes interviews, not so much because he fears reporters will garble his statements as that headline writers on anti-dry newspapers will misconstrue his ideas.

Says But Little

Although some of his "pan" letters have threatened bodily harm and called him unpleasant names, Volstead says little about them.

He has refused steadfastly to capitalize on his name, which some enthusiastic promoters have said could have been converted into a million-dollar asset.

He insists on his "amateur" stand and has spurned offers to lecture, write or make vaudeville appearances.

A widower, he lives alone in an apartment hotel.

He is cool and aloof, his associations limited to a few close friends. Usually he dines alone, goes to bed early and rises early.

He guards carefully against becoming ill again—for he likes work too well.

Possibility Of Gang Slaying Brings New Elements In Case

MAUSTON, Wis., Nov. 3. (AP)—The possibility of a gang slaying brought new elements of mystery today into the investigation of the death of Phillip A. Koehring, 55, Milwaukee industrial and civic leader, with Juneau county still lacking a thoroughly convincing motive to substantiate either a murder or suicide theory.

Statements of five children who said they heard an outcry and a gunshot Saturday afternoon about the time Koehring was believed to have died in his automobile near here had given District Attorney Edward Vinopal, jr., renewed confidence that the wealthy manufacturer was slain.

An Indian grain crusher in excellent state of preservation has been found near Lamesa.

Reports from Wolfforth home demonstration club members given Tuesday afternoon at the annual achievement day program at the Wolfforth school house were lauded Tuesday night by the home demonstration agent, Miss Ruth Stockton.

Breakfasts Of City Are Cold By Man's Pique

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 3. (AP) — Hagerstown had cold breakfast today as the result of pique on the part of a discharged employee of the City Gas company.

B. F. Gift, the cause of it all, was in the Hagerstown jail. Gift, employed by the gas company for 22 years, was discharged recently. Last night he walked into the company's main office and cut off the master valve to the gas supply to 7,000 homes.

Company officials were afraid to turn the gas on again because of the possibility that many jets throughout the city were open at the time the flow was interrupted, and might still be open.

All employees were mobilized for a house to house canvass to see that all jets were closed. The canvass was completed at noon and the city had warm lunches.

Young Mother Is Now Facing Trial

HASTINGS, Neb., Nov. 3. (AP)—Mrs. Velma Creighton, young mother charged with being an accessory in the $27,000 holdup of the Hastings National bank last February, today heard a dozen state witnesses describe a gun fight which occurred while she was present following the robbery.

Last month a jury failed to agree in her case and she went to trial yesterday for the second time. The gun fight took place at a house where the three holdup men gathered.

With James Thomas, one of the holdup men, Mrs. Creighton fled by automobile. Both of them were captured later. Thomas was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment for bank robbery. Mrs. Creighton had considerable cash in her possession but at her first trial she disclaimed knowledge of the robbery.

Her husband, Jimmy Creighton, fled with the third man in the other automobile and has since been sentenced in Missouri to death for murder. The third man has never been caught.

New Speaker Of England's House Is Named On Tuesday

LONDON, Nov. 3. (AP)—The Rt. Hon. Edward Algernon Fitzroy, pretending to conceal himself on a back bench in the house of commons today, was plucked from his hiding place and hustled forward over his own make-believe protests to the seat of the presiding officer.

That is the way they elect a speaker of the house in England. Mr. Fitzroy had the job last year and now he has it again.

The new house, with an overwhelming majority for Prime Minister Ramsay Mac Donald's national government, met for the first time this afternoon to go through that formality and a few other matters of routine business. The king will officiate at the state opening of parliament next Tuesday. Tomorrow the new members will be sworn in.

Says Weak Men Attract Women

By NEA Service

LONDON, Nov. 3.—It's not the big strong "he" man who sets female hearts to palpitating, if you take the word of Frau Vicki Baum, famous author. It's the little puny weaklings who attract the female and makes her want to mother them.

"It is the fallacious belief of many that the strong man, the masterful type, delights most women, Frau Baum says. "This is not so. Perhaps the weak type of woman will look to him, lean on him, take strength from his vitality.

"Strong women may admire strong, successful and self-assured men, but love them or yearn tenderly toward them? No, I do not think so. Most women are drawn toward the weak male. It is gratifying to a woman to feel that she is needed; that her ministrations are important to some human creature. A weak man is like a clinging child to women. They want to mother him. All their maternal instincts are marshalled in his behalf."
