Chamber manager killed...

Wreck claims two local men

A one-car rollover here Wednesday night has claimed the life of two Snyder men, including Chamber of Commerce Manager Mort Ewing.

Investigating officers say Ewing apparently lost control of his 1986 Buick as he attempted to negotiate a curve on Farm Road 1269 located just over 3 miles north of the Lamesa Highway.

Also killed in the accident was Harry Mitchell, a purchasing agent and construction foreman for T.E. Shelburne and Son.

A third occupant in the car, Kent Horsley, also a staffer with Shelbune, was injured but not seriously.

Both Ewing and Mitchell were thrown from the vehicle and, of the three, only Horsley was said wearing a seat belt.

Highway patrolmen say excessive speed was likely a contributing factor in the wreck.

The time of the accident is now placed between 10 and 10:50 p.m. Wednesday. The wreck site was some 20 miles northwest of Snyder.

According to officers, Ewing, 34, was found approximately 100 ft. from his vehicle. Reportedly, the steering wheel of the vehicle was still in his hands.

Mitchell, 43, apparently a passenger in the back seat, was thrown from the auto also. Horsley, 32, was riding in the right front seat and was not ejected from the car.

Horsley managed to free himself from the car's wreckage and to walk to a nearby residence to report the wreck around 10:50 p.m. He was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital Wednesday night for

Athletic violation alleged

Snyder school officials will be meeting with representatives of the District 2-4A executive committee Friday morning in reference to an alleged violation by the Snyder High School athletic department of the UIL rule prohibiting organized summer practice for school athletes.

The meeting has been prompted by actions from Superintendent Bob Hawes, who voluntarily notified the district committee of the possible violation after receiving a copy of a letter mailed last summer to high school football athletes.

Both Hawes and Athletic Director Dennis Tomlin will be meeting with the district executive committee Friday in Midland. The committee is comprised of the superintendents of each of the nine schools comprising District 2-4A.

The letter in question encouraged SHS athletes to meet for "park practices" on weekdays beginning at 6 p.m. during the summer holiday.

The letter, characterized as from the coaching staff of the "Ragin' Tigers," encouraged the athletes to "prepare for the 1986 season."

The UIL rule regarding summer practices reads that school districts may not single out a "specific group" of high school athletes for "conditioning...(and) preparation" during the summer months.

Hawes said when he returned from the Christmas holidays, a copy of the letter had been anonymously mailed to his office.

After this occurred, he said he notified the district committee chairman and sent a copy of the letter he had received. In turn, they set up the committee meeting in Midland.

Hawes paraphrased his remarks in a letter to the committee by saying, "If we're outside the UIL rules, we stand ready to accept whatever is meted out."

He noted this could range from a private reprimand--one which would not be published in a statewide UIL newsletter--to a published reprimand and, at the extreme end, some sort of forfeiture or suspension action for next season.

An announcement regarding the committee's decision in the matter is expected Friday afternoon.

'Concern, shock' felt after news of death

Expressions of concern and shock were being received at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office Thursday morning at the news of the death of Mort Ewing, chamber manager here since August of 1982.

Ribbons of mourning were placed on the door and the chamber offices closed Thursday. Some staff members remained inside to handle inquiries, however.

Chamber officials, to include both past president Jack Denman and current president Elizabeth Potts, were at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after learning of Ewing's accident.

Word of Ewing's death was received around 5 a.m. Thursday.

"Mort was loved by everyone who knew him. He was a true friend," said Potts.

"He worked hard for the whole community and had lots of plans for Snyder. The best memorial we can give him is to keep his ideas for Snyder alive."

Denman had similar comments. "Mort was actively involved in every aspect of the chamber," he said. "It's that kind of community involvement which will be so hard to replace."

Ewing's association with Snyder dated to August of 1982, when he was hired in the twin capacity as executive officer for both the board of county development and the chamber of commerce.

His guidance there saw an expansion of almost every special project associated with the chamber. Recent events include the March chamber banquet, which saw the triumphant return of five former residents now enjoying Hollywood careers; the Sesquicentennial July 4th celebration; and the expansion of the August AJRA National Finals which for the first time saw that event televised live.

His tenure also saw the growth of the Whirlagig production in

Interviews set for senior center post

Some six to seven finalist candidates for the position of senior citizen center director are to be interviewed for the job, with the first round to begin Friday.

Following these interviews, a committee representing the college, county and city is expected to make a recommendation to Western Texas College officials.

The naming of a new center director is expected as early as next week, according to WTC President Dr. Harry Krenek.

College administrators will do the actual hiring since WTC contracts to oversee the operation of the center.

The list of finalists to be interviewed was narrowed down from some 21 applications received here. Two individuals to be interviewed are out-of-town applicants, college officials say, and these are to be conducted Friday.

The post came vacant with the resignation of Gloria Shaw, who left the position effective Dec. 31. She has now entered private business in San Angelo.

'Terra Nova' due Friday

A special hometown performance is due Friday for "Terra Nova," the production which has brought acclaim to the Western Texas College drama department.

The show is slated at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Tickets for the Friday performance will be $5 for adults and $3 for students.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The best punishment for bigamy is making him live in the same house with both wives."

Al and Bonnie Young's eldest son, Dennis, lives in Massachusetts where he works as an architect. Following graduation from Texas Tech a few years ago, he moved to the Northeast.

Al was telling us last week that Massachusetts is one of the nation's hot-spots in terms of the economy. There is little industrialization, but the economy there is healthy because of the many universities.

In Massachusetts, education is a major industry. It caused us to think about what Lubbock would be without Texas Tech or what College Station would be without A&M.

Last fall, a study was done that underscored the important economic role that WTC plays in Scurry County. We were reminded of that by a recent article that asked the question:

"What do Charles Collingwood, Jane Curtin, Walt Disney, Fred Friendly, Cordell Hull, Jeane Kirkpatrick, Calvin Klein, John Cougar Mellencamp, H. Ross Perot, Jackie Robinson, Pete Rozelle, O. J. Simpson, Kathrine Ross, Dick Vermeil and Fuzzy Zoeller have in common?"

They are all listed as "Distinguished Americans" on an associate degree roster compiled by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges.

The article included a list of noted personalities who earned an associate degree at a two-year institution. The same article pointed out that the future may very well belong to those who receive such degrees.

The author contends the U.S. is headed into a massive skills shortage era with no apparent national strategy to address the problem. "The major hope on the horizon appears to be community, technical and junior colleges..."

The Labor Department predicts only six of the fastest growing occupations in the nation between now and 1995 will require a four-year degree.

It makes the existence of the junior college a real plus for the future of Snyder and Scurry County.

U.S. House and Senate candidates spent $400 million on recent races. They've proved they're qualified to squander money.

Ask Us

Q. — I heard the tailend of a news story about men who will be turning 26 should register with the draft. Can you tell me why?

A. — The selective service system cannot accept draft registrations after an individual has turned 26. And U.S. officials report there is still a large number of individuals who have failed to register after turning age 18. Failure to do this, in addition to being a felony, also makes the individual forfeit his right to certain benefits to include federal student aid, job training and federal employment.

In Brief

Oil prices up

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices moved higher today, bolstered by continuing indications that OPEC may find more support from outside the cartel for its plan to prop up the market.

Continued record low temperatures in Europe, and predictions of a cold snap soon in the Northeast and Midwest of the United States also are helping to strengthen prices, market participants said.

The current rally in oil prices "is not going to be relieved until the cold wave in Europe breaks," said John O'Dea, the manager of international energy futures for Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. in New York.

Arms talks

GENEVA (AP) — A new Soviet negotiator sat down with his American counterpart over lunch today to begin the seventh round of superpower nuclear arms talks.

Yuli Vorontsov, the new Soviet delegation head, greeted U.S. chief negotiator Max Kampelman in front of his residence at the Soviet mission compound at 1 p.m.

Test flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Trident II submarine missile lifted off a land launch pad today on the successful first test flight of the Navy's newest, most powerful rocket.

Scores of anti-nuclear protesters watched as the solid-fuel missile, which the Pentagon says will be potent and accurate enough to destroy nuclear-hardened missile silos and command centers, left its pad at 10:25 a.m. EST.

Investigation finds marijuana usage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators, after finding evidence of marijuana in both the engineer and brakeman of the Conrail locomotive that collided with an Amtrak train near Baltimore, are trying to determine whether drug use affected the crew's performance.

The Federal Railroad Administration revealed Wednesday that tests on blood and urine samples from both Conrail crewmembers showed marijuana, although officials said the tests could not determine whether the two were impaired at the time of the Jan. 4 accident in which 16 people were killed and 175 injured.

Sources close to the investigation, however, suggested the levels of marijuana revealed in the tests appeared to be of "a sufficient amount" to reflect possible chronic or recent use of the drug.

The tests showed no evidence of alcohol in either crewman at the time of the collision.

A National Transportation Safety Board spokeswoman, Rachel Halterman, said the agency would not comment on the test results, but The Washington Post quoted a drug expert as saying the marijuana levels were three to four times higher than standards used by transportation companies for the amount that impairs behavior.

Dr. Robert L. DuPont, the former head of the National Institute for Drug Abuse, was quoted as saying the levels indicate the men had used the drug either the day of the crash or the day before.

The railroad agency said the findings "do not constitute an allegation of fault or determination of probable cause" and will be used only as part of the overall investigation into the collision.

The urine and blood samples were taken within hours after the accident from Richard Gates, the Conrail engineer, and Edward Cromwell, the brakeman. The tests were performed by the Civil Civil Aeromedical Institute in Oklahoma City.

One is accused of sparking blast that leveled city block

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A restaurateur has been indicted on charges that he ignited a natural gas explosion in a competitor's eatery that destroyed his own restaurant and more than a quarter of a downtown block.

In an indictment issued Wednesday, federal grand jurors accused Benjamin C. McClelland, 25, co-owner of Casey's Restaurant, of setting off the Dec. 7 blast in the neighboring Santini's Sub Shop.

Authorities have said the explosion was triggered by a disconnected gas line in the sub shop. The blast did about $2.5 million in damage, destroying the two restaurants and four nearby businesses and damaging 37 other downtown businesses.

"They're barking up the wrong tree," McClelland said after learning of the indictment. "It is a complete surprise to me."

Shortly before 5 p.m. Wednesday, McClelland was arrested in his car in west Fort Worth, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Fred Schattman. McClelland faces up to 20 years in prison and a $250,000 fine if convicted.

Schattman and investigators declined to discuss the case or a motive. They also declined to say whether there would be more indictments in the case.

"We have said that he caused the explosion, (that) he damaged and destroyed by means of an explosive the building and that Nolan Estes was injured as a result," Schattman said.

Although the indictment makes no reference to natural gas, Schattman said "a deliberate natural gas leak would fall into the definition of an explosive."

Estes, a University of Texas at Austin professor and a former Dallas school superintendent who was a guest at the Worthington Hotel, received leg wounds from flying glass caused by the 3:30 a.m. blast. No one else was hurt.

James D. Woolsey, owner of Santini's, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Wednesday that he suspected the blast was caused by a vengeful competitor.

"It was revenge," Woolsey said. "They went through all kinds of trouble to put me out of business."

'Cap' Allee...

Famed Texas Ranger buried

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — Lawmen came from across Texas to pay their last respects to the legendary, cigar-chewing Alfred Y. "Cap" Allee, a Texas Ranger pioneer who began his career on horseback.

Officers who once served under the captain laid their former leader to rest under sunny skies Wednesday as some 30 active and retired Rangers gathered around his family and friends, their white hats in their hands.

After the service, stories were swapped about Allee, who began his Ranger career in 1931 when South Texas law enforcement was still in its frontier days.

"With him, there was never a doubt. He was a leader. You were always behind him when he said, 'Let's do it,'" said Bob Favor, a Ranger sergeant from Midland who served under Allee.

Allee's grandfather, father and son all were Rangers. He retired in 1970 after serving as Company D captain since 1947. He died of cancer Monday at 81.

Earlier Wednesday, Allee was eulogized at the First Baptist Church by family friends and San Antonio Trinity Baptist Church pastor Buckner Fanning before an overflow crowd of 500.

"Heaven will be a little safer and more secure because the captain is there," Fanning said.

Neutralizing their long suit

By James Jacoby

After an arduous bidding sequence, North-South arrived at four hearts on a 4-3 fit. It's true that five diamonds or five clubs would be easy contracts to make, but it is natural in bridge to try for a 10-trick game in a major suit. Even three no-trump would be makable played from the North seat, since it would be difficult for East to find a spade lead when North had bid that suit. However, the contract was four hearts and West did lead and continue spades.

It won't work for declarer to ruff the second spade and draw trumps. One way to handle a 4-3 fit is to minimize the danger of the defenders' long suit by ruffing as many cards of that suit as you can. After the second spade is led, declarer should ruff, play a diamond to the queen and ruff another spade. Now a club to the queen allows South to ruff dummy's last spade. Declarer can now cash the king of hearts, go to dummy with the club ace and take the A-Q of hearts, throwing diamonds. Even though the outstanding defenders' trumps do not all fall, West is not able to set the contract, since he has only one remaining spade to go with his master trump. In fact, when one of the defenders holds five spades, the other defender would normally hold four hearts, so this line of play would be likely to produce 11 tricks. Finally, if each defender had only three hearts, declarer would make 12 tricks.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Writer gives her romance heroines a feminist twist

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) — Colin was confused. Here he was in a romance novel, but the heroine wasn't at all like the young innocent virgin he was expecting.

"She seemed awfully headstrong, awfully feisty, not at all the demure, delicate sort of woman" who usually appealed to him, Colin thought.

Welcome to "Man and Wife," the latest book by Barbara Keiler, one of the rising young writers who helped change the face of romance fiction with what has been described as the feminist romance.

The 33-year-old Keiler, who writes under the names Judith Arnold and Ariel Berk for Harlequin Books, began her career as a playwright. Four years ago, she decided she wanted to get paid for her work. Now, she is the author of 20 romance novels and earns more than $40,000 a year.

"My first reaction was that they were very, very sexist," Keiler recalled of the first romance novels she read.

Publishers weren't buying her mainstream fiction, so she drove to a local department store to find out what was selling, and found the book section lined with science fiction, spy thrillers and romance novels.

Keiler took home some traditional romance novels to read and was offended by the "all women want to be raped" attitude she said she found. She disliked the portrayals of 18-year-olds who shouted "No, No, No," until the brutish stranger finally kissed her and she was overcome by sensations she didn't understand but found irresistible, Keiler said.

"I couldn't write that kind of book," she said. "So my husband suggested I try writing some feminist ones — one with a heroine with enough spunk and grit to be respectable."

Keiler's word processor competes with boxes of diapers for space in her study. She is the mother of two young children, but hardly fits the stereotype of the romance writer as bored housewife.

She has a master's degree in creative writing from Brown University and her plays have been produced at the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco and the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theater Center in Waterford.

Her books have been translated into German, Italian, Japanese and Greek. Her husband reads them on business trips, raising eyebrows among other business executives on the plane, Keiler said.

She describes her heroines as independent, professional women who enjoy men, but don't need them to find fulfillment.

"These women are not running around saying 'I've got to find a husband before I'm 30,'" Keiler said. "These are woman who are basically very content with their lives. If they are not content, it's not because they are single."

And her men tend to be unmacho, "teddy-bear types," Keiler said. In "Man and Wife," it's the man who needs taking care of, not the woman.

Carol Thurston, whose study "The Romance Revolution" is to be published next year by the University of Illinois Press, said Keiler and writers like her reflected changes that had begun around 1980.

The publishers brought out new book series that portrayed more mature heroines who had achieved financial independence, Thurston said. The move was an attempt to attract a larger readership among women whose consciousness had been raised by the women's movement.

Patchwork Squares installs officers, welcomes members

Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club met Tuesday in the home of Peggy Remington with 12 in attendance. Betty Wood, Nona Bunch and Jo Flynn were welcomed as new members. Sandi Gorman was a guest for the event.

New officers were installed by county extension agent Kathy Roberts as follows: Joyce McCoy, president; Gingah Williamson, vice-president; Freida Dever, secretary treasurer; Peggy Remington, council delegate; Pearl Wheeler, reporter. Roberts used visual aids to review the duties of each officer.

McCoy presided at the business session and presented Ruby Clark, retiring president, with a gift. Minutes were read and a treasurer's report was given.

Peggy Remington gave a council meeting report and announced that a bake sale would be held by all the county homemakers clubs a week before Easter.

New yearbooks were distributed and changes were explained. Members chose hostesses and programs for the first half of the year and voted to make the annual TEHA contribution from the club treasury.

Alternatives to supplements

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR GOTT — I get intestinal pains and cramps from calcium supplements, even Tums and Titralac. I don't like to drink milk, and cheese is out because of my husband's heart surgery. Is there an easily digestible way to make sure that I get enough calcium?

DEAR READER — If you cannot take calcium supplements, you will have to rely on natural sources of calcium. Although your husband may have to avoid dairy products, you — with your doctor's approval — should be able to get enough calcium by eating low-fat milk, cheese and yogurt. You also may want to consider post-menopausal hormone replacement to prevent excessive calcium loss from your bones. Ask your doctor to advise you.

I might add that calcium neutralizes stomach acid, so it can be constipating or cause excessive gas.

Remember that there are several types of calcium preparations, usually calcium carbonate or calcium gluconate. Although you may not tolerate one type, another form might work better.

DEAR DR GOTT — Five years ago, my doctor said I had ulcerative colitis. Six weeks ago a surgeon removed a mass from my small intestine (plus a one-foot length of the intestine) due to Crohn's disease. Are colitis and Crohn's disease the same thing? What can I do to prevent more surgery?

DEAR READER — Ulcerative colitis is a chronic inflammatory disease of the large bowel. It is characterized by periodic attacks of abdominal pain and diarrhea that may contain blood or mucus. The cause is unknown. Antibiotics and cortisone (to reduce inflammation) are often required for treatment. Ulcerative colitis is not the same thing as irritable or spastic colon.

Crohn's disease is a similar affliction, and its cause is also unknown. The disease involves the last part of the small intestine (ileum), where it empties into the large intestine. Again, the symptoms are abdominal pain, fever, weakness and diarrhea. Crohn's disease affects skip portions (diseased areas interspersed with normal tissue) and can be difficult to distinguish from certain forms of ulcerative colitis.

Although the two diseases are classed as different illnesses, some experts consider them to be related. At present, antibiotics, cortisone and when absolutely necessary — surgery (to remove irreparably damaged bowel) are the only available treatments.

DEAR DR GOTT — Four years ago I broke my tailbone. It still hurts and swells when bumped, and I move stiffly in the winter. Can this cause major problems like paralysis in the future?

DEAR READER — A broken tailbone (coccyx) is not medically harmful. Although it may cause discomfort from time to time, it does not progress into more serious conditions such as paralysis.

If you have questions about HIATAL HERNIA, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send $1 to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Hiatal Hernia.

AF gets half of secret funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force and its growing array of high-technology "stealth" weapons will receive at least half the $25 billion the Pentagon lists for classified programs, according to an analysis of the proposed spending plan.

The Air Force will receive an estimated $12.5 billion for a variety of programs known as "black" because little or no information about them is publicly released.

The rest of the proposed classified budget for fiscal 1988 will be spread among the Navy, Army, other defense agencies and intelligence agencies such as the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Security Agency.

The estimates are based on information provided by Pentagon and congressional officials, along with two separate reviews by the Center for Defense Information, a private group which has been critical of past Reagan administration defense proposals, and the Defense Budget Project, a private organization which seeks to inform the public about defense spending.

The studies show proposed spending for classified programs is increasing, but at a slower pace than in past years in the Reagan administration when annual increases were as much as 15 percent. Classified spending for the current fiscal year is estimated to be about $23 billion.

The classified spending is part of the administration's request for a $312 billion defense spending plan for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, which would be a 3 percent increase after inflation. That is the smallest increase yet sought by Reagan during his presidency.

The secret portions of the defense budget are considered by congressional committees behind closed doors. They are not publicly discussed by legislators before Congress votes, but House and Senate members can receive classified briefings if they choose.

The $25 billion request for next year includes some, but not all, of the money appropriated by Congress for intelligence acitivites such as the CIA and other agencies. The CIA also receives money through a separate bill providing for intelligence agencies, but that amount is not made public.

Gordon Adams of the Defense Budget Project said that in general, "The black budget as a share of the overall defense budget project seems to be leveling off."

White's farewell speech draws praise

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas lawmakers predict history will be kind to lame duck Gov. Mark White, although voters booted him from office.

White drew standing ovations from the Legislature before and after his Wednesday farewell speech to a joint session. Legislators said it was a good speech, but some said it was too late.

"If he had made that type of speech in the campaign he might well have been re-elected," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple.

Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, said it was easy for White to offer a detailed plan for economic recovery, including a major overhaul of the Texas tax system.

"It's always good to be able to throw the ball on Monday morning," Stiles said. "I'm not being derogatory about that, but the simple fact is there would have been a different speech if he had won re-election."

"I'm not sure you would have had the up-front talk about tax increases. You would have had more talk about efficiency measures," Stiles said.

White, a Democrat, was beaten in March by Republican Bill Clements, who takes office Tuesday.

Some lawmakers said White's decisiveness in the economic plan he offered Wednesday — which will be largely ignored by lawmakers — was overdue.

Rep. Edmund Kuempel, R-Seguin, said, "He did care for the people, but sometimes he did not make the cold, hard decision when it first popped up. I think this is what the people were upset about."

"He did not have a sense of purpose independent of what the polls showed," said Rep. Brad Wright, R-Houston, adding that he has heard from Democratic lawmakers who were "not enthusiastic" about White.

House Speaker Gib Lewis said White made "an excellent speech."

PCA holds annual meeting

One incumbent director was re-elected during the 52nd annual stockholders meeting of the Sweetwater Production Credit Association which met Dec. 19 at the Scurry County Coliseum. Buster Haggard of Stanton was elected for a three year term.

After 24 years on the Board of Directors, W. J. (Dub) Harvey, Jr. of Roby chose not to seek re-election.

A. K. McCarley, Jr., Chairman of the Board, called the meeting to order. He appointed Bill Yoakum as chairman of the meeting and Linda Fluitt as recording secretary. McCarley gave the report to the board and Yoakum gave the financial report.

Members elected to serve on the nominating committee were: Dale Froman and Teddy Stewart of the Stanton office; Ricky Bowman and Billy Hamner from the Sweetwater office and R. L. Drum and C. W. Henderson from the Snyder office.

Chairman of the Board for 1987 is McCarley of Colorado City and vice-chairman is Othell O'Kelly of Trent.

Jailed Marine takes lie detector test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Marine sergeant suspected of espionage while working as a guard at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow has undergone at least one lie-detector test and appears to be holding back some information, Pentagon sources say.

"There seem to be some gaps in his story that the investigators can't explain as yet," said one official, referring to Marine Sgt. Clayton J. Lonetree. "He's been given a polygraph test. We think he's holding back on some stuff."

The sources, who agreed to discuss the matter only if not identified, also disclosed that a female KGB agent with whom Lonetree became involved in Moscow had worked at the U.S. Embassy as a translator.

Said one official: "We know what her responsibilities were, and that's all part of the damage assessment."

Sources told The Associated Press last Saturday the 25-year-old Lonetree became involved in a sexual relationship with the woman while stationed in Moscow between September 1984 and March 1986. Lonetree later was transferred to the U.S. Embassy in Vienna, where he came forward voluntarily, disclosed the affair and acknowledged having passed secrets to the woman, the sources said.

He was arrested in mid-December in Vienna and then transported to the Marine base at Quantico, Va., on Dec. 31, where he remains in custody.

According to Lt. Col. John Shotwell, a Marine Corps spokesman, Lonetree will remain under detention pending the outcome of an investigation and hearing in early February to determine charges.

ABC-TV's "World News Tonight" on Wednesday, citing unnamed government sources, said Lonetree delivered names of Soviet citizens on the CIA payroll in Moscow to the KGB.

"Also," ABC said, "Lonetree has told military investigators that he gave away information about the embassy building itself, its espionage safeguards and its vulnerabilities."

Convicted robber turns himself in after being released

DALLAS (AP) — A convicted armed robber mistakenly released from prison on forged court documents last summer surrendered after calling authorities and agreeing to meet them at a suburban bus stop.

Ricky Ladon Woods, 33, turned himself in Wednesday and was held without bail today in Lew Sterrett Justice Center pending his return to prison within several days, authorities said.

Woods was released in July after serving only eight years of a life sentence for aggravated robbery. Woods, who was not eligible for release and had been denied parole four times, had been a janitor at a north Dallas bank since he left prison.

He was released under circumstances similar to those of his 48-year-old father, a convicted murderer who was free for seven months before authorities discovered in November that documents authorizing his release had been forged.

Dusters, Wranglers in shootout...

Western, OC clash tonight

ODESSA -- It's shootout time in the women's Western Texas College Athletic Conference and that only means one thing - Western Texas College's Dusters are playing the Lady Wranglers of Odessa.

The two teams have battled in the Region V championship game for the past two years after finishing 1-2 in the conference. Odessa has held a definite edge, winning the conference both seasons and finishing as the national tournament runnerup in 1985 and the champion in 1986.

Odessa goes into tonight's 6 o'clock game here with an impressive-as-usual 15-2 season record. The Wranglers are 1-1 in conference play after being knocked off in their WJCAC opener by Howard College.

Western Texas is 17-2, 3-0 in conference play and ranked fifth in the nation.

Also on tap tonight is a men's game between the two teams. Western's Westerners are 6-10 on the season while the Wranglers are 11-6. Both are 1-3 in conference competition.

In other men's games tonight, Frank Phillips is at Roswell, N.M. to play New Mexico Military Institute, Howard is at Midland and South Plains is at Clarendon. In the only other women's game tonight, Clarendon hosts South Plains.

Dusters vs. Lady Wranglers

The Dusters are led by returning all-conference, all-region standout Brenda Welch, a 5-11 sophomore who averages 24.8 points and 8.4 rebounds an outing. She is the conference's leading scorer and the fourth leading point-maker in the nation.

She is joined by two other players in double figures, 6-0 sophomore Lisa Thompson, 12.6 points, and 5-11 sophomore wing Wendy Milner, who averages 10.0. GiGi Robinson and Dee Ann Marr average 9.7 and 9.2 respectively.

Odessa boasts perhaps the tallest team in the conference. Linda Banks is a 6-4 sophomore who averages 17.8 points and 11.7 rebounds. A pair of 6-0 freshmen, Nelda Roy and Linda Broomfield, average 11.5 points each. Also landing in double digits is 5-8 freshman point guard Angie Jackson, who averages 14.2 points.

Westerners vs Wranglers

The men's teams are both fighting to stay in the hunt in the WJCAC. Western fell to eighth-ranked New Mexico Junior College 121-104 on Monday while Odessa also lost, 92-79 to South Plains.

Depth is a problem for the Westerners, who led NMJC 54-53 at halftime but ran out of gas in the second half. WTC is bouyed by the nation's leading juco scorer, 6-1 sophomore guard Alvin Lee. He averages 34.6 points an outing. John Lewis, a 6-2 guard, averages 17.1 while forward Amos Jones is averaging 12.4 points and 7.7 rebounds.

Also coming on strong for Western is 6-4 freshman Darrell Nelson, who has seored 24 and 18 points in his last two outings.

Odessa is under the direction of Dennis Helms, who is in his first season for the Wranglers after serving as an assistant at North Texas State University for several years.

The Wranglers recently activated Dave Swan, a 6-3 transfer from McNeese State. He scored 21 points in the loss to South Plains and is expected to become one of OC's top players. Others include 6-1 guard Gene Edwards, averaging 15.1 points; 6-7 forward Riley Smith, 11.9 points; 6-5 Troy Bell, 12.3 points; and 6-5 Eric Price, 10.1 points.

Western and Odessa met in the semifinals of the Odessa Tournament earlier this season, with Western taking a 99-96 victory.

UIL should maintain control of off-season, says committee

AUSTIN (AP) - The director of the University Interscholastic League says there are "good arguments" for eliminating restrictions on off-season and summer workouts for athletes but a special committee agrees the UIL should maintain control.

Director Bailey Marshall told the Off-Season Committee on Wednesday "some other states have just given up in this area."

"Is there anybody here who does not agree to controls?" Marshall asked the committee.

There were no responses.

The committee approved a statement to develop policies that would allow Texas high school athletes to compete in a sport without interference from an off-season conditioning program in another sport.

"In some areas I hope we can take the pressure off coaches to be involved with kids in the off season ... to the extent they don't have any free time," said UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney.

The basic priniciples approved by the committee also would "eliminate pressure and coercion" by coaches toward team members during the off-season and summer.

UIL staff and committee members commented about football weight programs during the summer forcing students to quit jobs to get ready for the fall season.

Farney said the UIL had had "complaint after complaint after complaint" from parents about off-season workouts preventing their children from playing certain other sports.

Farney recalled that Texas A&M tight end Rod Bernstine, a probable high draft choice in professional football, also had led his Bryan High School team to the Class 5A basketball championship.

"That kind of athlete needs an opportunity, if he wants, to play more than one sport," Farney said.

The committee decided to recommend specific rules for discussion at a Feb. 18 public hearing. The recommendations would go to the UIL Athletic Committee in June, then to the UIL Legislative Council in October.

"The objective of the committee is to see if there is a real need to have off-season regulation. And then, if so, the staff has recommendations that have come to us through various sources - mostly from school people who feel there have been abuses," Farney said.

He said the committee would have recommendations "for new restrictions, maybe new allowances in some cases.

"Even though everything may not change, there will be a total evaluation of the off-season and suummer restrictions."

Asked if the committee was formed because current rules are not working, Farney said, "They are not working to the extent that enforcement is a problem and also recognition of what is a rule and what is not a rule in this area."

As a coach, "What can I say? If I write the kids a letter in football, what can I say in the letter other than go to practice and be in shape," Farney said.

"I'm hoping that we can specify more and more in areas where we have the most problems so there will be little doubt about a coach coming in as to what are the requirements," he said.

Marshall stressed that, in controlling off-season workouts, the UIL did not want to become an enforcement agency such as the NCAA with outside investigators. Rather than do that, he said, he would prefer eliminating high school athletics.

Mobil tops McLeod's in local hoop league

Marcus McGlothlin scored 21 points in a losing effort this week as McLeod's fell to Mobil, 62-56. Keith Wallace added 14.

Mobil was led by Greg Hayes' 14 points. David Sisson punched in 11.

In the only other game played, Patterson Drilling defeated Haney's despite a 30-point performance from Clayton Riley. No score was available on the game.

Phil Spradlin scored 22 points and Larry Braziel 14 for Patterson while Russell Gafford notched 12 for Haney's.

Conwell down with injury

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' No.1-ranked Lady Longhorns basketball team lost 6-foot-3 center Doreatha Conwell with a leg injury Wednesday night.

Conwell's right knee buckled on a fast break in Texas' 94-60 victory over Texas A&M at College Station, and she collapsed near the free throw line.

"It looked like a knee and it looked serious," said Texas coach Jody Conradt.

Frogs sneak past Mustangs; Tech controls Baylor again

by The Associated Press

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs proved for the second time in five days that it's more blessed to play bad and win lucky than to play well and lose.

TCU, which dodged a three-point shot at the buzzer to defeat Texas A&M 55-54 on Saturday, edged Southern Methodist 57-53 Wednesday night to stay atop the SWC basketball chase.

"I just feel lucky to win," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth, who earned his 250th senior college victory.

In other SWC games, Arkansas junior Andrew Lang came off the bench to score nine points, block eight shots and grab 10 rebounds to ignite the Razorbacks (2-2) past Rice (0-4) 62-54 and Texas Tech (3-1) whipped the Baylor Bears (2-2) 56-50 in Waco behind Sean Gay's 19 points.

Carl Lott scored all 12 of his points in the second half to pace TCU's Frogs to their fourth SWC victory without a loss. TCU is 13-3 overall.

Killingsworth praised Lott for shaking off a scoreless first half to rally TCU in the second half.

"Lott is a good shooter and I knew he would come back and he did," said Killingsworth, who compiled his 250 victories at Idaho State, Oklahoma State and TCU. He also had 487 victories in high school, junior college and as a college freshman coach.

Lott wasn't happy with his performance.

"I had a terrible game," Lott said. "At halftime I was mainly thinking about penetrating and taking the short jumper. But the coaches told me to go ahead and take the outside shot."

There was a controversial moment late in the game on a shot by Scott Johnson that SMU thought was a three-pointer to tie the game at 54-all.

Official Jim Harvey said it was a three-pointer, but he was overruled by Mike Tanco and Paul Sternberger.

TCU, leading 54-53, then iced the game on two free throws by Jamie Dixon and one charity toss by Lott.

SMU Coach Dave Bliss, who endured his fourth consecutive close loss, said Johnson's three-point shot appeared to be good after looking at a television replay.

"That's unfortunate," Bliss said. "If it's a three-pointer, that changes the whole way we play at the end there. We just haven't been too lucky lately."

Johnson said "I couldn't tell if it was a three-point shot or not. It was definitely a close call. It just seems like we've gotten a lot of bad breaks at the end of games lately.

"Our luck is bound to change."

SMU has lost its last four games by close margins in the final minute. The Mustangs (0-3) are off to their worst start in SWC play in five years.

Texas Tech beat Baylor for the 10th straight time dating back to 1983. The Red Raiders led by as much as eight points in the first half, but Baylor gained a 24-24 halftime tie on Mark Buchanan's 3-point goal at the buzzer.

Hinckley given furlough

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mental hospital gave would-be presidential assassin John W. Hinckley Jr. a 12-hour pass for a holiday meeting with his parents last month, despite objections by the Secret Service.

The Secret Service, notified about a week before the Dec. 28 pass was issued, consulted U.S. Attorney Joseph E. diGenova but found it could not block the decision by the St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington, Secret Service spokesman Richard Adams said Wednesday.

"This was a decision made by the hospital. It was a medical decision they made over our objections," Adams said. "Our evaluation of Mr. Hinckley hasn't changed. We still feel him to be a threat to our protectees."

Hinckley, 31, has been confined in the federal institution since being found innocent by reason of insanity in the March 30, 1981, shooting of President Reagan.

Reagan was vacationing at his California ranch when Hinckley, accompanied by a hospital escort, met his parents, Jack and Jo Ann Hinckley, at a center in Reston, Va., run by Prison Fellowship Ministries.

DiGenova, in a statement Wednesday, said Hinckley was released under a federal statute that places the decision in the hands of the hospital administrator and does not require court permission.

Adams said the Secret Service monitored Hinckley during his release.

Nursing home fire reported

Units of the Snyder Fire Department were dispatched to a reported fire in the Snyder Nursing Center on the Big Spring Highway just before 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Fire Chief Terry McDowell said a heater unit on the roof of the nursing home apparently exploded but there was no fire in the building.

No injuries resulted from the incident and damage was said confined to the heater unit.

Two identified in vandalism

Police cleared a recent criminal mischief incident with the identification of two juvenile suspects Wednesday night.

Two males — one 17 and the other 16 — were picked up by police in connection with the Jan. 3 vandalism of Snyder Lanes at 35th St. and College Ave. in which a wall of the building was spray painted.

The juveniles were released to their parents with no charges filed at the request of bowling alley owner David Lyle.

treatment of minor injuries and released Thursday morning.

Mitchell was pronounced dead at the scene by County Judge Bobby Goodwin.

Ewing lived for several hours following the wreck but apparently never regained consciousness. He was taken initially to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where his condition was stabilized, then air-lifted by helicopter to St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock.

He died at 4 a.m. Thursday, reportedly while on the operating table at St. Mary's.

Horsley told investigating officers the trio had gone up to the Caprock at Fluvanna and were returning to Snyder via 1269 at the time of the accident.

The Ewing car failed to negotiate a curve about ½ mile south of the Delbert Hataway residence and overturned at least three times.

Services for Ewing were pending as of Thursday morning.

Memorial services for Mitchell will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. John's Episcopal Church.

conjunction with the White Buffalo Days Celebration. Ewing was a perennial performer in that show, later as a member of the local "Singing Cowboys" group.

He was actively involved also in the recruitment of new industry for Scurry County. He helped call and served as moderator for an historic meeting of civic leaders here last February which called for Scurry County to "get something going" in the way of new industry.

He relocated to Snyder after serving with chamber of commerce operations in Southwest Dallas, Mesquite and Denton.

He was the first of three sons born to Mort and Bonnie Ewing. He was born in Longview on Christmas Day, 1951.

He graduated from MacArthur High School in Irving in 1970 and enrolled in North Texas State University in September of that year.

He earned a BA degree in public address and communication and later a masters degree in communication from NTSU.

It was during graduate school that he first became involved with the Denton chamber. After graduation, he was hired as assistant general manager of the Oak Cliff Chamber of Commerce in Dallas.

In Snyder, he was a member of the advisory committee for Senior Citizens Inc., the group which oversees the operation of Golden Terrace Village; and an ex-officio member of the Senior Citizens Center advisory board.

He was also a director for United Way here and an active member of the Early Morning Bible Class at Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Services for him were pending Thursday at Donnelly's Colonial Funeral Home in Irving.

Dear Abby

Army to Lingerie-Loving Private: Can We Talk?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABIGAIL VAN BUREN: This is in reference to the letter from "Private Person," who described himself as a slim, trim, 26-year-old, happily married man who is now serving in the U.S. Army. His problem was that he enjoyed wearing women's underwear. You advised the private to keep the matter private.

To enlighten yourself regarding the military and what it can do for those who find themselves burdened with a desire to wear women's underwear, you should call the military's installation hospital and speak to the psychiatrist about the medical and psychiatric assistance that this man is entitled to gratis.

But now that you have already advised the soldier to keep his problem hidden, perhaps you should learn what might happen to such soldiers if they continue to hide such aberrations. Then your advice to others in similar circumstances might change, as it should, in order to be correct.

JAY M. HAMILTON,
LIEUTENANT COLONEL,
U.S. ARMY (RET.),
GRANT'S PASS, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: "Private Person" wrote to you about being in the Army — and wanting to wear women's undergarments. You advised him that the two just wouldn't fit together.

When I was with the Navy SEAL Team in Vietnam, we ALL wore panty hose. We were out in the muck of the swamps and jungle for days on end, and the nylon really cut down on the friction, which could otherwise rub us raw. An added plus was that removal of the panty hose also removed many of the leeches that invariably clung to us — sometimes more than 100 per man!

It was always an amazing sight before every mission to see Navy commandos all camouflaged and painted green and black, struggling to get their hairy muscular bodies into the panty hose. But it worked! Sign me ...

EX-PANTY HOSE-WEARER
AND DAMNED GLAD OF IT

P.S. Many of our wives and girlfriends reported embarrassing moments when shopping in San Diego stores for dozens of size XL and XXL panty hose. (We didn't have the nerve to go buy them ourselves.)

JERRY J. FLETCHER,
LA JOLLA, CALIF.

DEAR JERRY: The things I learn while writing this column! You Navy commandos wore panty hose openly, out of necessity, but the aforementioned Army private wore women's lingerie for kicks, which is quite another matter.

Cross-dressing is nothing new; it's been with us for centuries. It's a compulsion — not something that requires "curing," unless, of course, it creates marital or martial problems.

DEAR ABBY: When a person says to you, "If you have no place else to go for Thanksgiving, you are welcome to join us," would you call that an invitation or an insult?

WONDERING
IN ST. PETERSBURG

DEAR WONDERING: It was, no doubt, intended as an invitation, but it could have been more graciously extended.

AMA suit costs millions daily

DALLAS (AP) — After two days of hearings on new Medicare regulations governing the fees that doctors can charge, parties on both sides left the courtroom saying they have no clear idea how the judge will rule.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders is expected to clear up some of the uncertainty as early as Friday in the lawsuit filed by doctors against the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The doctors' suit contends that they should not be required to decide on participating in Medicare without information on fees they will be allowed to charge — information not expected to be available until March.

At first, doctors were required to decide by Jan. 1 on participation in Medicare, locking them into a government-set fee structure. But a temporary restraining order postponing the deadline until Jan. 20 was granted after the American Medical Association and other groups sued HHS Secretary Otis Bowen on Dec. 24.

Meanwhile, there technically are no "non-participating doctors" in the Medicare program, or physicians who choose not to accept Medicare assignments.

Those doctors normally receive only 96 percent of federal reimbursement when they treat Medicare patients, but until the restraining order expires they are eligible for 100 percent reimbursement.

That is costing the government $1.5 million a day, Charles Booth, reimbursement director for the Health Care Finance Administration, testified Wednesday.

An AMA lawyer disagreed, calling Booth's statement "nonsense."

Patients stand the possibility of increased medical fees until the section of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, signed Oct. 21, is allowed to take effect, Booth said. The law calls for establishing maximum allowable charges.

"There is no reason that a physician could not increase charges to Medicare beneficiaries," Booth said.

"I say, your honor, that is nonsense," said Jack R. Bierig, a Chicago lawyer representing the AMA. He said the government will be able to force doctors to adjust their fees after the issue is resolved, if they are found to have charged too much during the restraining order period.

The American Association of Retired Persons; the Gray Panthers and the Alliance of Social Security Disability Recipients on Monday were denied a request to intervene on behalf of the government, but sat in as friends of the court.

"During this interim period, we think a ceiling should apply," David O. Stewart, an attorney representing the AARP, told the judge.

Doctors who are found in the course of the year to have willfully charged more than the accepted amounts are subject to federal sanctions under the disputed Medicare law.

Doctors have resisted deciding on Medicare participation because they say they don't know if they are in compliance.

"It's very clear that no sanctions will be issued for some isolated charge," said Sheila Lieber.

Cheese guidelines needed for pizza

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter how you slice it, National Pizza Week could be better, as far as the National Milk Producers Federation is concerned.

Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng has proclaimed Jan. 18-24 as a time to reflect on pizza's contribution to the American farmer. A kickoff luncheon was scheduled today in the Agriculture Department.

Meanwhile, the federation, which represents thousands of dairy farmers and their co-ops, says Lyng has stalled too long on deciding whether to adopt tougher federal regulations aimed at curbing the use of imitation cheese and substitutes in frozen pizzas.

The first National Pizza Week was a year ago when the National Restaurant Association asked USDA to lend it official status by issuing a proclamation, signed by Lyng's predecessor John R. Block.

Ron Buckhalt, director of USDA's office of public liaison, said the association was so pleased by the attention paid to pizzas that it asked Lyng to "dust off the old proclamation" and reissue it this year.

Buckhalt said the luncheon ceremony was intended to pay tribute to the pizza trade, which serves an estimated $11 billion to $14 billion worth of U.S. farm commodities to consumers each year, not counting the frozen pizza industry.

The pizza festivities were greeted with mixed emotions by the National Milk Producers Federation, which has been trying for years to get a final decision from USDA on the use of imitation cheese and substitutes in the manufacture of frozen pizza.

Doni Dondero, a spokeswoman for the federation, said in an interview that National Pizza Week would be an appropriate time for Lyng to announce a decision on the regulatory plan, which was formally proposed Aug. 5, 1983, after 10 years of lobbying by dairy interests.

The federation wants the USDA to adopt the tougher rules included in the 1983 proposal. Pizzas sold in restaurants and pizzerias would not be affected, only the frozen kind.

Under the proposal, frozen meat pizzas would have to contain at least 12 percent cheese, at least half of which would have to be natural cheese.

WRECK SCENE — Snyder Chamber of Commerce Manager Mort Ewing Jr. and Harry Mitchell of 5306 Etgen Blvd. in Snyder died Wednesday night from injuries sustained when they were thrown from this 1986 Buick which left the roadway and overturned at least 3 times on Farm Road 1269 about 20 miles northwest of Snyder. Millions of mentally ill children said going untreated

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 7.5 million children in the United States may need treatment for mental health problems, yet the majority never get the proper help, a congressional research unit says.

And if untreated, mental health problems could lead the children to later, more serious troubles in school or with the law, the Office of Technology Assessment found.

"Mental health problems are a source of suffering for children, difficulties for their families and great loss for society," the office said in a report released Wednesday. "Though such problems are sometimes tragic, an even greater tragedy may be that we currently know more about how to prevent and treat children's mental health problems than is reflected in the care available."

The office, which provides Congress with scientific and technical information, prepared the report on mental health services for children at the request of Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., members of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Derrick graduates from AF course

Airman Richard K. Derrick, son of Curtis G. and Angela L. Derrick of Snyder, has graduated from the U. S. Air Force security police specialist course at Lackland Air Force Base.

Graduates of the course studied systems security operations, tactics, and weapons training and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Panel sifts through language report

AUSTIN (AP) — The Select Committee on Higher Education plans to make next Wednesday its final meeting and spent this week's meeting combing through the language to be presented to lawmakers.

Members encountered several snares as they looked over two drafts of recommendations for improving the state's higher education institutions.

Some were settled Wednesday but many were left to be taken up at the next meeting, which one member said may take all night.

An alternative report, drafted by member Peter O'Donnell Jr. of Dallas, was given to members Wednesday. It included an enlarged introduction and revised sections.

"I wanted to more clearly state our goals and indicate which are our priorities," O'Donnell said.

Members never formally voted to accept his draft, but spent the meeting poring over it and comparing it with the original.

The Select Committee on Higher Education, appointed by Gov. Mark White to study the state's colleges and universities, has met for the past 15 months.

The first item discussed Wednesday was a section listing the goals and priorities for higher education.

O'Donnell stressed the need to depict higher education as a generator of economic devlopment and creator of employment.

"I think this approach will win support for our efforts among the general public and Legislature," O'Donnell said.

Another member, Bob Inman, agreed. He said education leaders failed to convince lawmakers last legislative session that higher education is an economic generator.
