

NAB SKYJACKERS Explosion Ends Hijack Flight

BENGHAZI, Libya (AP) — The hijackers of a Japanese jumbo jetliner blew up the Boeing 747 today at the Benghazi airport a few minutes after they and their 137 hostages slid down an emergency chute. The hijackers were arrested.

Passengers and crew members who had been held hostage since Friday had run about a quarter of a mile from the plane when explosive charges set by the four hijackers went off in the cockpit.

Libyan troops armed with submachine guns arrested the four hijackers.

The hijackers who seized the plane shortly after it took off from Amsterdam last Friday kept it on the ground with 139 other persons aboard for nearly three days at Dubai, a Persian Gulf sheikdom. Monday they released an elderly Japanese couple, had the plane flown to Damascus and, after three hours there, ordered it on to Libya.

Everybody aboard slid down the emergency on the Mediterranean coast.

Members of the crew said no one was hurt during the evacuation, but blood was spurting from a cut above the eye of one old Japanese woman and her glasses were smashed.

HOSTAGES WORN OUT

All the hostages looked worn out by their 3 1/2-day ordeal, and some appeared on the verge of collapse.

Security men kept newsmen and photographers away from the wreckage of the plane while the passengers were loaded into small buses and taken to the terminal.

Benghazi airport was closed to civilian traffic after the blast.

While in Dubai, the hijackers identified themselves variously as Sons of the Occupied Territory, Mt. Carmel Martyr Sada and the Japanese Red Army but never made clear whether they were affiliated with any known Arab guerrilla group.

Nor were their demands ever made public. But there were unconfirmed reports that they demanded freedom for a Japanese terrorist serving a life term in Israel for the Tel Aviv airport massacre and that they also were seeking $5 million ransom.

A wounded Japanese crewman who was released after the plane landed in Dubai said the hijackers included a Japanese, a Latin American, a European, an Arab and a Latin American woman who blew herself up accidentally with a hand grenade in her dress soon after the takeoff from Amsterdam. But the pilot of the plane, Capt. Kenji Kouma, told newsmen at Benghazi that there were three Arab men, one Japanese and the woman.

Most of the passengers on the plane were Japanese.

Boy Killed By Police

DALLAS (AP) — Police Chief Frank Dyson today said he will press for a murder indictment against a policeman in connection with the shooting death of a handcuffed 12-year-old boy.

In a hastily called news conference, Dyson said there was no justification for the killing and he will refer the case to the district attorney's office.

Dyson identified the policeman as Darrell L. Cain, 30.

Police identified the dead boy as Santos Rodriguez.

Police said Cain and another officer were investigating a North Dallas gas station break-in around 2:45 a.m. today when the boy was slain with a .357 magnum pistol. A 13-year-old boy also was arrested.

A police spokesman confirmed the pair was handcuffed when the boy was killed.

Auto Insurance Slash Expected

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Insurance Board is expected to sign an order today giving Texas insurance rates, effective Aug. 27.

Board members said after the July 10 rate hearing they already had approved in principle the reductions recommended by staff actuaries.

Despite the average decrease, some motorists' rates will increase because of such factors as their ages, where they live, and their driving records.

Reductions will be in order for many drivers after Sept. 1 when a new state law takes effect that allows insurance companies to compete with each other by cutting their rates below the standard set by the board.

At a news conference July 10, board chairman Joe Christie said the reduction in the standard rate alone will save money for 90 per cent of Texas policy-holders and reduce premiums $25 million.

Robbery Claimed; 'Victim' Jailed

A man who reported that he had been strong-armed and robbed ended up in the city jail here Monday night.

At 11:27 p.m., city police had a call to the DeWees Exxon station, 4806 W. Highway 80.

Upon reaching the scene, they saw a man staggering down the driveway. He was identified as Johnnie Miller Baltzell of Nebraska.

He was bleeding from the mouth and blood covered his hands and was on the right leg of his pants, according to the report of the investigating police officer.

Baltzell told the officer that two men had beaten him up and taken his wallet, containing $75-$80.

He also told them they were young, driving an old blue car with a New Mexico license and one of the men was called "Roy." The officer reported that Baltzell was apparently intoxicated and also appeared to think he was in Hobbs, N.M. He was jailed, charged with "drunk in a public place."

Ozark Plane Crash Caused By Lightning?

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Federal investigators today examined the wreckage of an Ozark Air Lines passenger plane which crashed during a violent thunderstorm Monday night, killing 36 of 44 aboard.

The inspection was headed by a National Transportation Safety Board team which arrived within hours after the Fairchild 227 turboprop plummeted to the earth in blinding rain.

There was no official explanation today of what caused the plane, which was approaching Lambert Airport at low altitude, to plunge into a wooded ravine about four miles short of its target.

A Federal Aviation Administration official said the plane's pilot radioed shortly before the crash that he believed he was in a tornado and that the plane had been struck at least once by lightning.

The National Weather Service said, however, that although several reports of tornadoes were received, none of the sightings was confirmed.

Investigator teams removed the plane's flight recorder from the scene as rescue workers were taking the final bodies from the wreckage. The FAA said tape recordings between the pilot, Arvid L. Linke, and the control tower in the airport would be studied in a search for clues to the crash.

Both wings were ripped from the plane as it plunged through trees, knocking down power lines and showering the area with debris. No injuries to persons on the ground were reported.

At daybreak, huge limbs lay at the side of a busy thoroughfare and armed federal and local police cordoned off the area.

Ozark said the plane, Flight 809, originated in Nashville Monday afternoon and was carrying 41 passengers and a crew of three. The dead were taken first to three area hospitals then to the morgue at St. Louis County Hospital in Clayton.

A brief fire followed the impact at 6:45 p.m. EDT as the plane disintegrated, knocking down trees and strung power lines in its path.

An FAA spokesman said the control tower at the airport lost sight of the aircraft on radar about a mile from the airport at an altitude of about 600 feet.

NIXON BATTLES IN LEGAL NO-MAN'S LAND

Constitutional Confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon battled today in a legal no-man's-land to withhold Watergate evidence he frankly admits can't prove his innocence.

He refused Monday to produce the sought-after Watergate-related tape recordings and documents voluntarily, and promptly was served with subpoenas from the Senate Watergate committee and special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The next step in the unfolding constitutional confrontation was scheduled for today, when Cox has promised to make public the wording of his subpoena by filing it in court.

FIRM POSITION

Nixon has until Thursday to respond to the subpoenas, which he appeared determined not to honor. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President has taken "a very firm position" against release of the material, either publicly or to a grand jury.

Nixon might ignore the subpoenas, risking moves that could find him in contempt of Congress or the courts. Or he might fight them directly with legal motions asking a judge to quash them. Either way, the fight appears destined for ultimate resolution in the Supreme Court, which has never ruled clearly on whether a President may withhold evidence in a criminal case.

Asked what legal course Nixon might take, Warren responded, "The White House counsel will examine the subpoenas. Whatever is done will be in the context of the letters issued today."

SECRETS

In the letters the White House refused to give the material either to the committee or to Cox, who are seeking it for different purposes.

Nixon wrote a personal letter to committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. Consulting White House lawyer Charles Alan Wright wrote Cox.

Both letters said the constitutional separation of powers would be violated unless the tapes and documents were kept secret.

Nixon said he has listened to some of the tapes, and stated that they would not settle whether ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III was telling the truth when he accused Nixon of participating in the Watergate cover-up plot. Dean said Nixon discussed hush money and clemency offers in the Oval Office.

"The tapes are entirely consistent with what I know to be the truth and what I have stated to be the truth," Nixon said. "However, as in any verbatim recording of informal conversations, they contain comments that persons with different perspectives would inevitably interpret in different ways."

Ervin, in announcing that (See FIGHT, Pg. 2-A, Col. 1)

Dean Lied, Former Chief Adviser To Nixon Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman accused John W. Dean III today of lying to the Senate Watergate committee and said the White House relied on Dean to supply information about Watergate.

"I do not suggest that we were all just too busy to have noticed," President Nixon's former domestic adviser said. "We did notice and we kept informed through John Dean on the assumption that he was giving us complete and accurate information."

STAKES HIGH

In a 30-page statement that preceded the questioning of Ehrlichman, he described as "falsely" Dean's testimony that there was an overriding concern in the White House about the break-in at Democratic party headquarters and its political consequences.

Nor, he said, was there obsessive concern with demonstrations, as Dean claimed.

"In 1969 the President took this nation into a new international era in which the stakes were extremely high," Ehrlichman said.

"From close observation I can testify that he is not paranoid, weird, psychotic or the subject of demonstrators or hypersensitive to criticism."

'STAR WITNESS'

"He is an able, tough international politician, practical, complex, able to integrate many diverse elements," Ehrlichman referred to Dean last April 30, Ehrlichman said one of his jobs was to gather purely political information for the President.

He said he hired Anthony T. Ulasewicz to gather information because "out of real concern for the properties, I attempted to use only conventional, non-governmental sources of information."

NOT GUILTY

Ulasewicz was paid from existing Nixon political money, Ehrlichman said.

JOHN D. EHRLICHMAN

"Among other assignments, he scouted the potential opposition for vulnerability. So far as I am aware, during my tenure as counsel, Mr. Ulasewicz conducted his assignments legally and properly in all respects," he added.

Ulasewicz has testified he later distributed money to the Watergate defendants and relayed offers of executive clemency.

Vehicles Left On Public Property May Be Claimed

By ANN STEVENS
City commissioners passed on emergency reading today an ordinance making it illegal to leave a motor vehicle on public property for over 48 hours at a time.

City Manager Harry Nagel explained that the ordinance authorizes the city to pick up cars in violation with the city wrecker and impound them. If the vehicle owners do not claim the cars within a certain amount of time, the vehicles become city property.

"Conceivably, if I left my car parked outside my home for 48 hours without moving it, it could be picked up?" asked Commissioner Charles Tompkins. Nagel said that was correct, but Commissioner Harold Hall said the city will not abuse the authority.

City inspectors and patrolmen will be responsible for determining which vehicles are violating the new law.

75 in violation

Police Chief Vance Chisum noted that there are some 75 cars at the present time which could be picked up under the regulations but that a hired wrecker will pick up the cars at a rate of only two or three a week. By using the city's own converted wrecker, the job can be done quicker.

Commissioner Eddie Acri claimed the new ordinance will enable the city to do a better job of cleaning the streets. He said cars left parked on city streets are now making it difficult for the street cleaning machine and motor graders to get work done.

The commission also passed on emergency reading an ordinance making it illegal for persons owning or residing on corner lots with yards to have any shrubbery, trees, fence or other structures over two feet above curb level.

WILL CHECK

City traffic coordinator, Susan Thomas, will be responsible for identifying lots in violation. She said she has already found 20 such sites.

Nagel said the city will notify individuals found to be in violation and ask them to move the plants or structures. If they do not, the city will do it. He confessed, "this ordinance won't be too popular."

In moves regarding the Big Spring State Hospital, the commission agreed to annex the facility into the city and authorized the mayor to enter into a license agreement so that the city can use 80 acres of the state-owned land for a softball complex.

In other action in the 10 a.m. meeting, the Commission:

—Changed its regular meeting time to 9 a.m. the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

—Hired Russel Kraus of the sheriff's department as a city patrolman.

—Authorized the city staff to go before the Planning and Zoning Commission and request that FM 700 be rezoned light commercial.

—Awarded a contract for 28 sanitation containers to Dempster Bros. for $172.50 a piece.

—Granted specific use permits to Piggly Wiggly and Foodway to sell beer and wine.

Woman Killed By Pistol She Had Bought Earlier

Mrs. Gretchen Baker Ray, 36, was found dead with four .22 caliber bullet wounds near her heart at 12:50 p.m. Monday in a Silver Heels residence.

Peace Justice Walter Grice is postponing a ruling until he has a report on an autopsy conducted in Big Spring today. Dr. Jarrett Williams, an Abilene pathologist, was named to conduct the autopsy.

F. W. White found Mrs. Ray in his residence on Driver Road and called the sheriff's office, authorities said.

A .22 revolver discovered near the body was purchased at a local business at 11 a.m. Monday by Mrs. Ray, spokesmen said. Notes also were left.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Born April 22, 1937 in Erath County, she came to Big Spring as a small child. She was a member of the Baptist Temple Church.

Survivors are her husband, Charles Ray; a son, Stephen Ray; and a daughter, Janie Ann Ray, all of Big Spring; six sisters, Mrs. Vera Kiser, Mrs. Daisy Riggan and Mrs. Allene Snelson, all of Big Spring, Mrs. Jo Ann Henry, Bastrop, La., Mrs. Zola Busby, Amarillo, and Mrs. Artie Hatcher, Memphis, Tenn.; and four brothers, Bill Baker, Big Spring, Herman Baker, Garland, Troy Baker, Arlington, and Floy Baker, Amarillo.

Little Change
The weather forecast is little change in temperature, clear to partly cloudy through Wednesday. Winds expected from the south at 10-25 miles per hour. High today and Wednesday predicted in the low 90s and low in the high 80s. Humidity is high, recorded today at 56 per cent.

HERALD'S OLIVER COFER CONTESTS FOR THE BINGO BUCKS
Paper's Harold Canning must double prize this week

Bingo Prize Boosted This Week; Daily Check Urged

Exhaustive tests made by Marketing Research Associates on a nationwide basis prove the odds are astronomical that it will never happen but no winner came forward in the opening week of the Bingo game which started in the Herald last week.

For that reason, the prize for this week's game mounts to $100, redeemable in Bingo Bucks and good for merchandise at any of the 30 participating merchants.

A total of 52,500 bingo cards were distributed last week. Some players may not have realized that new numbers begin appearing in the newspaper each Sunday. Those are supplemented daily through the following Friday. A total of 55 numbers appear in the Herald through the week.

In order to win, a player must black out all 24 numbers appearing on a card.

The supply of cards at one merchant could be exhausted early in the week. In that event, players are being urged to check another of the participating dealers. The cards are made available to all merchants who have Bingo Bucks appearing in their ads.

Those who think they have winning combinations have until 5 p.m., Monday to present the cards at The Herald for validation. Except in cases where no winner is declared, the weekly prize is $50.

Colors of the bingo cards will vary each week.

committee would subpoena the tapes, said he found Nixon's letter "rather remarkable."

"If you'll notice, he said he's heard the tapes, and they sustain his position. But he says he's not going to let anyone have them for fear they might draw a different conclusion," Ervin said.

"In other words, the President says they are susceptible of two different interpretations."

Ervin scoffed at Nixon's claim that the separation of powers doctrine gives him power to withhold the material. "I am certain that the doctrine of separation of powers does not impose upon any president either the duty or the power to undertake to separate a congressional committee from access to the truth," he said.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the vice chairman of the committee, said he would withhold any personal criticism or judgments until the committee writes its report. But he said he personally regrets that Nixon has forced the issue.

TRIED HARD

"I have tried as hard as I know how to find a way around this," he said. "I am unhappy that it is necessary for us to come to the brink of a constitutional confrontation."

The papers served on Nixon by the prosecutor and the committee are different in what they seek, the authority on which they are based, and the ends to which the subpoenaed material is to be put.

As a result, the fights over them might well take divergent courses in the courts. The Senate committee seeks the tapes to settle publicly whether Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up. Cox wants the tapes to use as possible evidence in secret grand jury proceedings.

With events in such rapid motion, few would comment on likely future moves by today that Nixon has decided to ignore the subpoenas. But this could not be confirmed.

PROBE CLOSING OF VERNON BANK Bogus Cotton Deal Woes

VERNON, Tex. (AP) — State and federal examiners expanded a probe today of the closing of the Vernon State Bank, which may have been the initial casualty in a bogus cotton deal affecting 26 creditors and 11 banks in four states.

COTTON CAPER

Dist. Atty. Bill Neal said Monday the FBI, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and a special state investigative team are assessing the causes of the North Texas bank's sudden closing last week due to insufficient funds.

The closing may have been linked to the use of cotton receipts as security assets, without any actual cotton as a backup.

Frank McCowan, U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Texas, said the Vernon bank "is now insolvent," and added: "One of the problems involved cotton warehouse receipts placed as collateral on loans when the underlying cotton had been sold."

John Shaffer, regional administrator for the Northern District of Memphis, Tenn., said that his office has been working on the case.

CAN'T PAY

"The whole case has not been unraveled yet, but it involved cotton drafts that were sent to a bank in Oklahoma drawn on a cotton company there," said Shaffer. "For reasons that haven't come out, the cotton company was unable to pay the drafts, and of course, it bounced back from there."

A hearing is scheduled Wednesday before Dist. Court Judge Rex E. Sullivan Jr. for a permanent injunction against cotton companies owned by R. E. Huntley and G. F. Hemphill of Vernon in connection with checks cashed by the First National Bank of Altus, Okla.

Caper Is Checked Without Success

There's an old tale about a factory worker who pushed a covered wheelbarrow out of the factory every night and the guards looked under the cover to see if he was stealing any merchandise.

It turned out later that he was stealing wheelbarrows. Big Spring may have had a counterpart to the story here Monday.

A passing motorist reported seeing four teenage girls pushing an empty shopping cart up the street about four blocks from a local supermarket. Police went to the scene, but could locate neither the girls nor the cart.

Judge Sullivan previously granted a temporary restraining order against the two cotton brokers to prevent them from disposing of warehouse receipts, documents of title or cotton purchased with insufficient fund checks cashed by the Altus bank.

The checks totaling $960,000 allegedly were drawn on the Vernon bank. Halton McMahon, president of the Altus bank, said $285,000 was wrongfully returned to his bank by the Vernon bank.

PAYING OFF

McMahon said the companies owned by Huntley and Hemphill, the R. E. Huntley Cotton Co. and the Altus Cotton Co., have a list of 26 creditors in 11 banks in several states.

Last Friday, an application for reorganization of the companies was filed in Dallas, according to McMahon and Mrs. Nina Hatcher, U.S. Dist. Court clerk in Wichita Falls.

"We feel that the filing of our lawsuit contributed to the prompt filing of this reorganization proceeding which was a primary purpose in filing it," McMahon said.

No criminal charges have been filed in connection with the investigation. The Vernon bank closed July 16 and the FDIC began paying off local depositors Friday.

Neal said the bogus cotton warehouse receipts "were attached to drafts going back and forth between banks in Texas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Mississippi."

GRAND JURY

He said "an amount in excess of $4 million is involved." "We can't talk a lot about it now," the district attorney said, "but we are going into it in depth to see if state laws have been violated. Then we'll go to the grand jury with what has been gathered."

"Of course, the FBI and the FDIC are doing the same thing on a federal level," he added.

Five Killed, 150 Injured

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Officials say a short circuit caused a fire that roared through Colombia's tallest building, killing at least five persons and injuring 150.

But several persons said they heard an explosion Monday as the fire broke out. An investigation was under way.

Two of those killed jumped from 13th-story windows. Many of the survivors were pulled into helicopters that landed on the roof of the $7 million Avianca Building, the headquarters of the Colombian airline.

Panic broke out in the building and on the streets around it as flames trapped about 200 persons between the 12th and 23rd floors of the 41-story downtown tower.

Persons on the upper floors waved handkerchiefs to attract the attention of firefighters. Firemen sprayed water on one man who appeared in a 13th-story window shouting for help and with his hands and face apparently scorched. He jumped to his death.

Others in the building, some of them staggering from smoke inhalation and suffering from burns, heeded radio announcements and written signs telling them to go to the roof to await rescue helicopters.

COUNSEL CHUCKLE? — Fred Thompson, minority counsel, laughs during Monday's session of the Senate Watergate Committee on Capitol Hill. Gordon Strachan, former White House aide, had just told the committee that his advice to persons thinking of working for the government was to "stay away."

Jury's Session Is Postponed

Convening grand jury has been postponed until Aug. 27, District Attorney Bob Moore said today.

Because of vacations, only 11 of 20 prospective grand jurors appeared this morning, he explained. And three of those present claimed their exemption as being over 65 years of age.

Of those not present, two more are over 65, leaving 15 to choose 12 grand jurors, Moore said.

Another list of prospective grand jurors will be selected for Aug. 27, the first day of the August term of 118th District Court. Court officials and employees will be on vacations at different times before Aug. 27.

State legislation reducing some marijuana possession cases to misdemeanors becomes effective the same day. Because of this coincidence, involving less than four ounces of marijuana will not be presented to the grand jury, Moore said.

By handling these cases in county court, the case load of the grand jury will be reduced. There were 47 cases, which Moore planned to present to the grand jury today.

Water Sales Going Up

Return of fair, hot weather without the dotted thunderstorms of the past fortnight boosted deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District past the 70-million gallon mark Monday.

The cities took 55 1/2 million, although Odessa is still running well under its normal draw of this time of the year. Last week Odessa received a series of showers that dulled demand to at least five million under the usual pattern.

Monday, according to Paschal Odom, assistant general manager of CRMWD, deliveries stacked up like this for the cities: Odessa 17,000,000 gallons, Big Spring 10,672,000, Snyder, 4,188,000 Midland 15,900,000, Stanton 400,000 and San Angelo 7,280,000.

Led by SACROC with 11,124,000 gallons, the industrial and mining delivery total for Monday was 17,087,000 gallons, making a grand total of 72,597,000. Peak for the year approached 79 million gallons.

Opp Quick Used Hand To Jam Gun Aimed At Him

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A 26-year-old policeman used his hand to jam a pistol aimed at him.

The officer said he was chasing a man who stopped and pulled a pistol Saturday night. The patrolman said his first reaction was to jam the skin between his thumb and index finger down on the pistol.

He said the trigger was pulled but the hammer struck his skin instead of the firing pin. The policeman's name was Patrolman John T. Quick.

STAGGERING VOLUME Computers Help Banks To Process All Checks

By WALTER MALONE Some day there may be no need for cash, everything will be paid for by a kind of super credit card, many bankers say.

The first step toward the cashless society has already been taken with the development of the modern checking account, they say.

Charles Dunnam, vice president of First National Bank, said First National processes about 40,000 checks and deposit slips a day.

The bank relies on a computer system that processes 600,000 checks a minute and costs about $1500 a month to rent.

Before the computer was installed 15-20 persons were needed to process the checks. Today the work is done by three or four persons, he said.

"The volume is staggering," he said. "We went to computer service to lessen the cost and to speed things up. Computers don't get pregnant or have to go on sick leave."

WATERMELON CHECKS The MICR computer (Magnetic Ink Character Recognition) reads ink containing iron oxide that is printed on the bottom of the checks in a code number, he said.

The number states the federal reserve district, the town, the bank, the account number and the amount of the check.

The computer is connected to two other units called the central processing unit and a disk pack which stores information about each check, he said.

The computer is limited as to what size of check it can process and the check must be made of a certain paper; however, if the proper information is given, any material is negotiable.

Dunnam said that if the check states to whom payment is due, what bank it is to be drawn from, the specified amount, a date and a signature the check is negotiable.

He once heard of a check written on a watermelon.

MICROFILMED CHECKS To explain what is involved in the circuit a check travels, Dunnam used payday at the Big Spring Herald as an example.

He said the central office of the Harte Hanks newspaper chain sends the paychecks to The Herald for distribution to its employees.

An employee might cash the check at a bank. The bank photographs the check front and back and then either mails the check or sends the check by armored car to the federal reserve bank in Dallas, he said.

Local School System Is Seeking Dozen Teachers

Big Spring is hiring 11 less teachers this year than last year, is still in need of 12, and has three teachers hanging in limbo.

It is hard to say from day to day just how many teachers the Big Spring schools, or any other school are short, Noel Reed, assistant superintendent of special services, stated. This is because, the month of July is the big turnover month, where teachers often change jobs.

At last count here Monday, Big Spring was short one coach — because one had just quit, as have one small-engine teacher in the vocational department, one earth science teacher, one math teacher, seven special education teachers, one speech therapist and a French and English teacher.

The latter two may be the most difficult to find. Most schools have applications for elementary teachers "running out their ears" nowadays. But teachers such as speech therapists and French teachers are still few and far between.

The three teachers hanging in limbo are the three special reading teachers under Title I. The federal government hasn't made up its mind whether or not it is going to approve Title I for the next school year.

The three local teachers will probably be utilized in special education or other fields, if the announcement does not come soon about the federally-aided program.

During the past year, 60 of the 339 teachers quit for various reasons. This included 15 retirees. The problem of doing away with 11 teaching positions was solved by simply rehiring a new teacher in 11 spots. Nine of these are at an elementary level where there will be fewer classrooms next year.

There will be no changes in courses offered at the high school at this time, according to Supt. Sam Anderson.

Citizens Alert, Police Discover

The average citizen is more suspicious nowadays. Just ask the city police.

On Monday, they had two calls regarding suspicious citizens. One woman reported, "There is something peculiar going on behind the post office."

A policeman was dispatched to the scene to find a woman getting her newspapers to throw for delivery. Another call reported, "There is a man slumped over the steering wheel" and they gave an address.

A check at this address found a local citizen who was parked in front of his mother's house sound asleep. "Thought I was home safe," he muttered.

Kraus Returning To Former Post

Russell Kraus, civil deputy for the sheriff's office, resigned effective Monday to return to work for Big Spring Police.

Kraus was a police patrolman before resigning to become a deputy sheriff less than one year ago.

He will replace Ed Covington as patrolman at this time. Sheriff A. N. Standard said other deputies are performing duties of the civil deputy.

Although Standard is no longer interviewing applicants, he is not prepared to announce his choice for civil deputy.

Case Is Added To Jury Load

The case of a man charged with shooting Videl Garza Jr., has been added to the list of 45 cases being presented to the grand jury today, District Attorney Bob Moore said.

Garza was shot in the shoulder and foot in an incident last week. He left the hospital refusing more than preliminary treatment.

George Hillman Brown, 25, and Roger Dale Monk, 22, both of Geneva, Ala., Monday were charged with possession of marijuana. Evidence will be considered by the grand jury in this case also.

Museum Seeking More '74 Cash

County Commissioners Court has received a letter from the Heritage Museum requesting their allocations for 1974 be increased from $5,000 to $6,000.

Mrs. Zarah L. Bednar, tax collector, asked the court Monday for approval on hiring a deputy through the Vocational Office Education program.

County Judge A. G. Mitchell later said the court took no action on the request but told Mrs. Bednar to obtain help through the Neighborhood Youth Corps program instead.

NYC trainees will be provided at no cost to the county while pay for VOE students comes from local revenue.

Children Of God 'Kill' Lawsuit Against Parents

DALLAS (AP) — A $1.1 million libel and slander suit filed by Children of God religious sect members against some of their parents has been withdrawn, according to the Dallas colony of the group.

The suit, which had been set for hearing Aug. 13, arose from events in October, 1971, when an organization called the "Parents' Committee to Free Our Sons and Daughters from the Children of God" was formed. The parents held a demonstration in Dallas in which some of them charged that the Children of God was a subversive group that drugged, hypnotized and kidnaped young persons.

Russell Droge, spokesman for the Dallas Children of God, said they withdrew the suit because of "their firm belief that the defendants' allegations have proven to be only a re-approach upon themselves." The parents' efforts "to discredit the Children of God were futile as has been evidenced by the fact that the Children of God have continued to grow and prosper in their work," Droge said. Further, he added, the legal action might sidetrack the Children from their main objective—"to witness and win souls of the lost in the Dallas area."

The Distinguished Service Award is the highest given by the national association.

BS Students (15 Per Cent) Moved Around During Year

By MARJ CARPENTER

Over 15 per cent of the Big Spring school population moved around during the school year. This is a disease peculiar to most of West Texas and it affects both the children who never seem to complete a school year at one location, and the teachers, who have to adjust their teaching and record keeping to this phenomenon.

In Big Spring last school year, the office of Noel Reed, assistant superintendent of special services, reports that 969 students moved to another school district during the school year. Over 700 moved in from another district during the year. This is out of a total number of students, recorded on the final day of school, as 6,571.

Some students in West Texas literally never complete an entire school year at any one location. Part of this is due to the transient-type work in the oilfields and part of it is due to agriculture labor travel.

FENCE ME IN

One girl in a nearby West Texas town had attended 18 schools by the end of her junior year and begged to move in with a relative so that she could have her senior year "all in one place."

The drop-outs in Big Spring are about 3 per cent, compared to 7.5 per cent in Dallas as announced last week.

In Big Spring schools last year, 199 students dropped out. Four of these passed the compulsory school age of 16 and simply refused to return.

The biggest part of the students, 126, were listed as simply uninterested in furthering their education and victims of poor attendance.

TYPES OF QUITTERS

Of the other quitters, 22 married, eight were in poor health or had an illness that forced them to quit, eight were disciplinary problems, eight joined the armed forces and two were "unable to be categorized."

Big Spring High School also had 64 graduate at mid-term.

In the meantime, close to 1,000 students "float through" the Big Spring schools each school year. Most of them never are really attached to a class. Students seldom recall them in later years.

These students face the disadvantage of changing teachers, changing subjects, and when they cross state lines, changing textbooks. They have the advantage of being used to making new friends and have a broad-minded viewpoint on different territories.

But that 15 per cent of the school population are often rootless — just like the West Texas tumbleweed.

Unfair Conclusion

Jean Adams
TEEN FORUM

NO GIRLS: (Q) I seem to have this problem with this boy I like. I seem to like him but he doesn't like me. I suspect he is a homosexual because he doesn't like to be around girls.

Even his mother says he doesn't like to be around girls. I am worried. Could you help me? He is 16 and so am I. — Unkind in Indiana.

(A) Do not assume that because a boy does not like you he is a homosexual. Also, the fact that he does not associate with other girls does not make him a homosexual.

Many completely heterosexual boys do not start going with girls until they are 17 or 18 or even much older.

Do not tell your friends you suspect this boy is a homosexual. First and most important, it is unfair to him. Second, it could get you into trouble.

SPANKING: (Q) My 12-year-old daughter has become a discipline problem. Last spring she played hooky from school for a whole day. This summer she has been leaving home without permission.

Last week I told her that her behavior must improve or I was going to give her a good spanking. That is something I haven't done since she was 9.

Well, yesterday, I asked her to watch her 4-year-old brother while I went to the supermarket for a few minutes.

When I came home the boy was standing in the street and she was gone. I saw then that I had two spankings to administer.

Spanking him was easy. I gave him four swats and told him to stay out of the street, no matter what.

I guess I lost my nerve while I was waiting for her to come home. I gave her a good talking to but could not spank her.

Should I have, or shouldn't I? It is hard to spank a 12-year-old girl. — Worried Mother in Missouri.

(A) A girl of 12 usually benefits more from some other discipline besides spanking. So I urge you not to spank her. At the same time I urge you not to tell her you are going to spank her under certain conditions and then relent. That is inviting extra trouble.

A system of withholding of privileges might work best with her. When she breaks a rule assign her extra chores, or withhold part of her allowance, or curtail her privileges to go to movies, or swimming, or take part in other pastimes she likes.

Armed Robbery Charges Filed

MIDLAND — Armed robbery charges have been brought against David Allen Young, 21, of Waco and Robert Francis Shano, 23, of East Moline, Ill. in the July 1 robbery of the Midland Regal 8 Motel.

Young is already in jail in Brownwood under $25,000 bond for armed robbery of the Brownwood Holiday Inn. Shano, also charged in the Brownwood theft, is still at large.

About $1,200 was taken in the Midland motel robbery in which clerk Albert Rompert was forced at gunpoint to turn over the cash.

Investigation by Police Det. Fred Penix and Texas Ranger Al Mitchell led to the filing of charges.

Chemistry Teacher Faces Drugs Count

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A young chemistry teacher at Waynesburg Area High School faces arraignment today in the wake of his arrest in the school's laboratory, where an estimated $250,000 worth of drugs were found, authorities said.

Federal drug agents said Alvin D. Allison, 27, of Waynesburg, Pa., had about eight pounds of amphetamine sulfate, a substance used to make the stimulant speed, in his possession when arrested Sunday.

Authorities said the drug, allegedly manufactured in the laboratory, sells wholesale for $3,000 to $4,000 dollars a pound in Pittsburgh, twice that amount in Philadelphia, with the street value in both places about 10 times the retail cost.

Roberta Weissburg, 19, of Swissvale, a Pittsburgh suburb, was arrested later at her home, and a detainee was placed on Robert Monsour, 20, of the same address, who was in the Allegheny County jail on a previous drug sale conviction. Monsour, identified by authorities as the son of a prominent physician, reported to jail only on weekends under his sentence.

Miss Weissburg and Monsour were identified by authorities as primary distributors for drugs produced by Allison.

Authorities said all three were charged with conspiracy and with the manufacture and sale of drugs.

Postal Pay Will Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new two-year contract with the U.S. Postal Service has now been ratified by all four unions involved in negotiations.

The four unions represent 617,900 of the service's 700,000 workers.

Under the new contract postal wages will rise about $1,000 a year. They currently average $10,000.

Latest to initial the agreement were officials of the 195,000-member National Letter Carriers Association, who indicated membership approval Friday evening.

It had previously been ratified by the American Postal Workers Union, National Rural Letter Carriers Association and Mail Handlers Division of the Laborers International Union.

Out Of Order

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Diane Hemming, 31, lost her suit for damages resulting from a dog bite which she claimed had ruined her ability to dance properly.

Rejecting her claim, the judge said the dog had been generally "amiable" and the attack was "completely out of character."

When a survey of the situation shows that desperate measures are called for, a defender should not worry about the fact that possibly he might be presenting declarer with an overtrick.

Any straw should be grasped that might lead to a contract's defeat.

South painted an accurate picture of his hand by opening his longer suit and then bidding his second suit twice. He elected to remove three no trump to four hearts because both his suits were broken, and he felt that the defenders might be able to get one of their suits going before North could set up both of South's suits. In this analysis he was completely correct.

West led his fourth-best spade, and one look at dummy made it painfully obvious to East that, except for one or two tricks in spades, the defenders were not going to get any tricks in the side suits. South had shown at least eleven cards in his two suits. Thus, it was impossible that the defenders could get a diamond trick, and the king-queen of clubs in dummy made it virtually certain that declarer had no club losers.

By a process of elimination, if the contract was to be defeated the defenders had to score at least two trump tricks. To accomplish that, a trump promotion was probably necessary. Accordingly, East won the first trick with the king of spades and led the ace. Prospects improved slightly when South followed to the second spade.

In keeping with his original plan, East continued with a third spade into dummy's queen-ten tenace. Declarer could not afford more than one trump loser, so he took advantage of being in dummy to lead a trump, finessing the ten.

West took his king and, cooperating excellently with his partner, he returned his fourth spade. East ruffed dummy's trick with the queen of hearts to "uppercut" declarer. South was compelled to overruff with the ace, and West's nine of hearts was promoted to the setting trick.

Vets Should Act Fast On Claims

Lost papers can mean lost time for both a veteran and the Veterans Administration, but a veteran should not hesitate to apply for a benefit because a birth certificate or marriage license has been lost, Jack Coker, VA regional director, said today.

Coker reminded veterans today that less formal proof of marriage and birth to establish claims for higher veterans benefits are acceptable under a regulation in effect since October, 1971.

For example, a veteran's or widow's certified statement of marriage is sufficient on applications for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphan children, provided neither he nor his wife has been married before, and VA has no contradictory information on file.

Officials noted that a certified statement is acceptable regarding birth of a child of a veteran's marriage, and as proof of age and relationship in disability cases.

Local System In Pilot Group

AUSTIN — Plans for continuing seven major special education development projects under a $2 million federal grant allocated to Texas for the 1974 fiscal year have been presented to the State Board of Education.

The grants include $150,000 to continue developing ways of evaluating "Plan A" or the new state plan for Special Education. Big Spring schools are one of the test schools working under this plan whereby school district are gradually placing increased needs of the child rather than on his or her handicap.

Largest single amount of available funds, $1.2 million, will be divided among the 20 regional education service centers in Texas with each center receiving $60,000. One of these is at Terminal. This basic support enables each center to provide pupil appraisal, instructional materials, and consultative services to schools in its region.

Tips for using electricity efficiently:

Think twice before you open this door.

The habit of opening refrigerator and freezer doors only when it's really necessary is a saving habit. The cold air that rushes out each time has to be replaced, which causes the unit to run more and use more electricity. Make a mental list of the items you need before you open the door, then take out as many of them as you can at one time.

Here are other suggestions for using minimum amounts of electricity to get maximum benefits from your refrigeration equipment.

If your refrigerator has to be defrosted manually, do it before the ice deposit gets one-fourth of an inch thick. Ice (frost) acts as unwanted insulation and causes your refrigerator to work overtime.

Let hot foods cool to room temperature before you place them in your refrigerator or freezer.

Use a refrigerator thermometer to help you attain temperature settings of 35 to 40 degrees for your refrigerator and zero temperature for your freezer. Settings below these temperatures could be a waste of electricity and cause unnecessary wear on the appliances.

And turn the dial to a warmer setting in the refrigerator section (according to manufacturer's recommendation), when you're going to be away for a week or longer.

It's our job at Texas Electric to help you get the most value from your electric service. Call us when you have questions about any use of electricity in your home. Or ask for our free booklet, "Tips to help you use electricity more efficiently throughout your home."

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

How are the local kids in the pros doing? Well, I'm glad you asked that. I just happen to have in my possession the latest word on Big Spring baseballers R. J. Englert and Ricky Steen, and pro football hopeful Mike Irons. So listen up.

According to his father, Jack Irons, Mike is sailing along just fine with the Washington Redskins. After several cuts, 30 of the 50 original Redskin rookies are gone from the Carlisle, Pa. training camp, and Pop says Son seems to really be enjoying it, much to the surprise of both.

Other than a lot of singing at mealtime, Irons says the veterans treat the rookies pretty well, considering. But you can imagine what a fine target a 6-4, 240-pound center would make for such entertainment. Those guys must really get choked up when they hear heart-warming renditions of "Ten Little Indian Boys" or "I'm a Long, Tall Texan."

The "Skins had their first scrimmage Saturday against the New England Patriots in Carlisle, and Mike, who finished his college play at Angelo State, knows he's had better days. He's still got a shot at making it, though, even if it is a slim one. There are still five centers in camp, the two returning veterans, the taxi squad center, Irons and one other rook.

There won't be any more cuts until after the first preseason game Aug. 3 against Detroit in Washington, so until then, Mike never really knows what's up. And when Duane Thomas gets to camp, no one else will either.

Ricky Steen, starting at third base for the Redbirds of the Gulf Coast League, writes to the John Workmans that he, too, is faring well. Steen, who led Big Spring High School hitters the last two years, is batting at an impressive .363 clip for the Cardinal rookie squad in Sarasota, Fla.

But that's not all he's feeling good about. Through 18 games, he's just committed one error in action at third base and shortstop. He hasn't hit any home runs yet, but as long as his batting average stays as high as it is now, there's not much reason to panic.

R. J. Englert, playing for Fresno of the Class A California League, continues to rank among the top ten hitters in that loop. Englert, who played at Texas A&M after his years at Big Spring High, ranks eighth in the loop with an even .300 mark.

He's collected 85 hits in 283 at-bats, and has a home run and 30 RBIs to count in his favor. His Fresno team, a San Francisco Giants farm club, at last word was fourth in the eight-team league, 3½ games out of first place.

Jackson Accepts Post At Electra

Saying it was a "heckuva football at Andrews, where he decision to make," Big Spring Steer assistant coach Tommy Jackson has resigned his position to accept a job as head coach and athletic director at Electra High School.

Jackson, who coached the defensive secondary last year, took the job at the Dist. 2-AAA school late last week, and offered his resignation to Supt. Sam Anderson Monday. He begins work immediately at Electra.

"It was one heckuva decision to make," the 33-year-old former Andrews griddler said. "I was really looking forward to working with Coach (Bob) Burris. I learned a lot from him just in spring training. I've really enjoyed working with the high school faculty and the people in the town. I'm going to miss it."

Burris is on vacation this week and could not be reached for comment as to when a replacement would be named.

Electra, near Wichita Falls, competes in a district with the Childress, Quanah, Seymour and Shamrock. Last year the team finished with a 3-5-2 mark.

Jackson replaces Dick Mason at the North Texas school. He will be trying to fill two varsity coaching vacancies immediately.

Jackson played his high school football at Andrews, where he was all-district three seasons and all-state as a halfback his senior year. He then lettered three years at Oklahoma State as a defensive halfback, and was voted the Most Valuable Player his final season.

After graduating from OSU he spent two years as a lieutenant in the Army, and did his first coaching stint at Odessa High. He stayed three years at OHS, as head junior varsity coach and track coach.

After that he worked three years at Vernon as the defensive secondary coach and offensive backfield coach, before joining Clovis Hale's Big Spring staff in 1972.

Bankers Triumph, Prep For Stars

Jim Read scattered three hits and Tim Childers paced an explosive plate attack as the Bankers closed out Coahoma Baseball League play last week with an 18-8 victory over the VFD.

Childers and Read both doubled for the winners, while Wallace Overy stroked a pair of hits. Gary Paige was the losing pitcher.

Tonight, the Bankers, who finished the year at 14-1, will take on the Coahoma All-Stars.

Trevino Had Short Career As Horse Trainer, Vaquero

(Editor's Note: Bob Boyd, golf writer at the San Antonio Express-News, attempts to go behind the headlines in discovering what Lee Trevino, golfer's "Super-Mex," is really like. He interviews people who knew Trevino during the lean years, when Trevino was a struggling youngster in Dallas. Here is the fourth of an eight-part series on one of the game's great entertainers.)

By BOB BOYD

SAN ANTONIO — If you wanted to find one story, one single incident during the years Lee Trevino spent in Dallas which best illustrated the humor and pathos of the times, you couldn't do better than the episode hereby entitled "Lee and Big D."

Shortly after Trevino returned from the Marines at the age of 21 in 1961, the owner of the driving range where he was employed, Hardy Greenwood, came up with an unusual idea. Hardy was an avid horse racing fan and made yearly pilgrimages to Hot Springs and Denver to indulge his parimutuel addiction. Greenwood was by no means alone in his love of horse racing and the fast gambling atmosphere that surrounds it. Many of the Tenison crowd were also hooked on the ponies.

After a trip to Ruidoso Downs, Greenwood returned convinced that there was money to be made in racing horses. Although he had never before even been in a stables, Hardy and his friends were convinced that they could, by golly, train them a race horse right there in Dallas, which would win all their money back and a lot more to boot.

Details of the story vary at this point from teller to teller, but here is the basic version:

Hardy and a couple of his friends were at the driving range one day talking about their plan to obtain a race horse. "But who would take care of it?" one of them asked.

While the Tenison crowd and Greenwood had lost many a dollar betting on horses, none of them was even sure what kept a saddle on. What to do?

About that time Lee spoke up and offered to handle the horse for a cut. He was immediately offered one-fourth of everything the horse won and a bargain was struck.

The group bought a horse, named it "Big D" and arranged for space in a stables near the driving range. For the next six months, Lee divided his time between the driving range, pitch and putt course, Tenison and the stables. It was a full day.

Some of the old Tenison hands who saw Lee and Big D were amazed at how well he handled the horse. He rode it everyday, and even got himself an old, battered, 10-gallon hat to complete his new image — Lee Trevino, vaquero.

There's no telling how many hours Trevino worked with Big D, feeding him, riding him, whispering sweet words in his ear about how much money he was going to make "ol' Lee."

Lee improved as a rider until he was able to give Big D a thorough workout. Finally, Greenwood and his partners decided the time had come for Big D to start earning his oats.

He was entered in a race at a small racetrack in South Texas. Since Lee was much too heavy, a regular 100-pound jockey was hired and Hardy and his partners set out on their own yellow brick road — leaving Trevino behind to mind the store.

Seconds after the starting gate opened and Big D rode out in his first race, he was nudged from behind — or maybe he caught a depression in the track with a hoof. No one is sure exactly how it happened, but they are certain that Big D stumbled, then fell forward, twisting and breaking a leg. He was hauled off the track, examined and shot to end his misery.

The only thing Trevino had to show for six months of hard work was one well-worn, 10-gallon hat. He threw it away the next day when Hardy got back and told him the news.

Star Clash Takes On 'Meaning'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An undaunted Dick Williams and a determined Sparky Anderson reflect the intense mood of tonight's 44th All-Star baseball game at plush Royals Stadium.

Williams left a hospital bed after a recent appendectomy to lead the American League team while National League Manager Anderson vows: "I'm here for just one thing—to win."

The setting is particularly dramatic, considering that All-Star games in the past have been brushed off by some players as insignificant exhibitions.

But Anderson has expressed a fierce desire to beat the American League in the mid-summer classic.

"I'll try to figure out what moves Williams will be making, and everybody on my staff will be ready to help out," says the Cincinnati Reds' manager. A sellout crowd of more than 40,000 will be on hand at baseball's newest park while millions more watch the star-studded affair on national television (NBC). Game time is 7:30 p.m. CDT.

Anderson isn't taking this game lightly for a reason. He feels he has something to prove.

"I'd like to be on the winning side for a change," says Anderson, who has lost two World Series and was the losing manager in the 1971 All-Star Game at Detroit. "That's why I picked some of the ballplayers I picked. I wanted guys who could come off the bench and help me win."

Along with the managers, the players by have shown an uncommon competitive desire. Both third baseman Ron Santo and shortstop Chris Speier were injured last week, but will be in the National League's starting lineup.

The American League's starting pitcher, Catfish Hunter of the Oakland A's, a 15-game winner, will face Rick Wise of the St. Louis Cardinals in an attempt to cut into the National League's 24-18 lead in the series which started back in 1933. There has been one tie in All-Star competition.

"It's a great honor for me," said Wise, an 11-game winner who was chosen over more illustrious names because he had the most rest.

Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris will lead off for the American League, followed by left-handed hitter Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, the team's second baseman. First baseman John Mayberry of the Kansas City Royals and right-fielder Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's, the 3-4 hitters, are both left-handed.

After centerfielder Amos Otis of the Royals, the AL's No. 5 hitter, comes lefty Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees. He'll play left field.

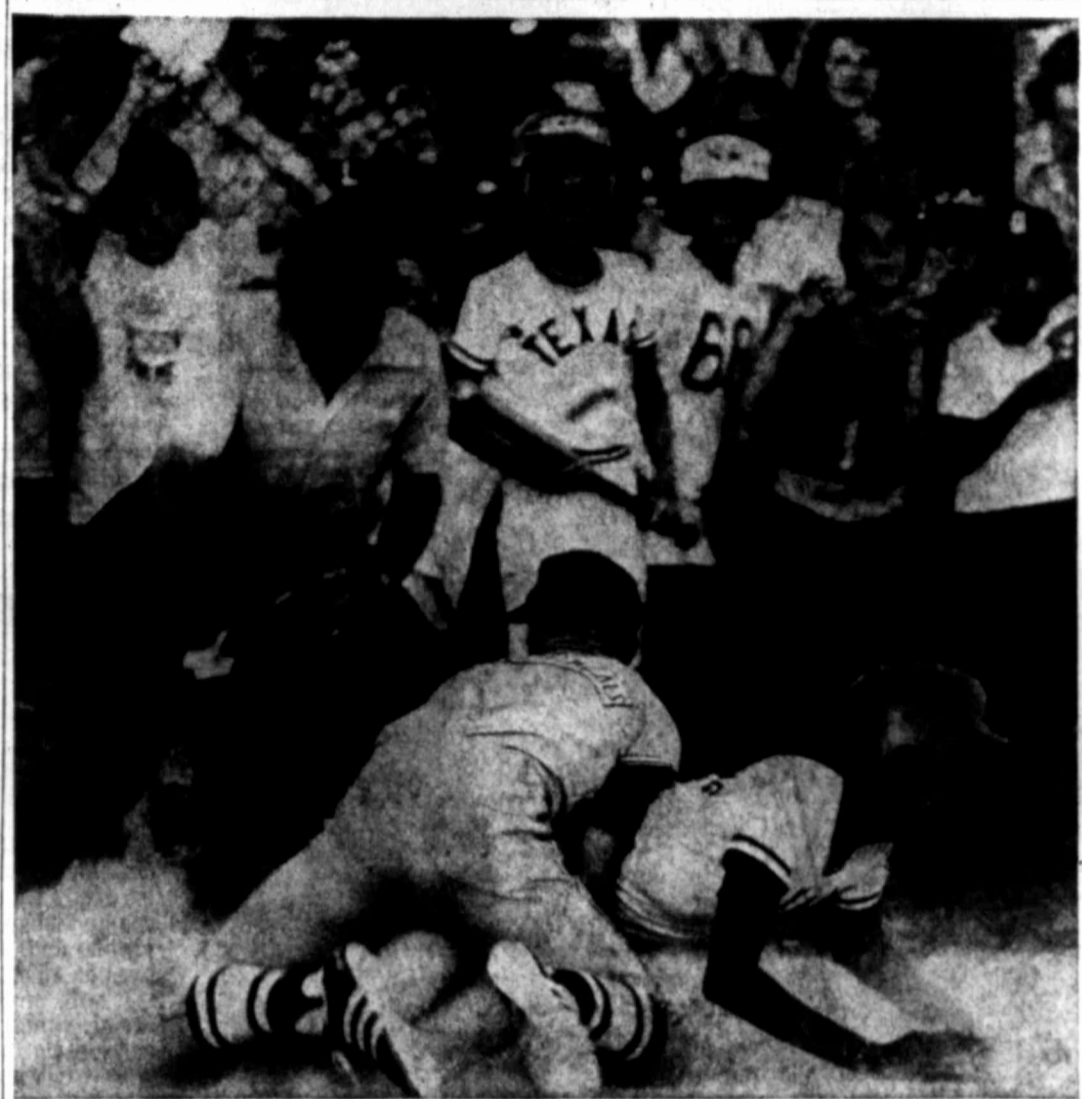

Catcher Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox will be No. 7 in the batting order, followed by third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Hunter.

Left fielder Pete Rose and second baseman Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds will bat 1-2 in the National League order. Centerfielder Cesar Cedeno of the Houston Astros, first baseman Henry Aaron and right fielder Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs will hit 3-4-5 for the Nationals.

The rest of the order includes Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, Santo, Speier and Wise.

BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, TUESDAY, JULY 24, 1973 SEC. B

WHEN IT WAS CLOSE — Texas League catcher Ysa Rubio grimaces at the plate as Midland North-Central pitcher John White makes the tag and umpire Jack Griffin prepares to give the "out" sign during championship action in the Dist. 3 Little League Tournament Monday. But White dropped the ball during the first inning tussle, and Rubio was home with the TL's second run. TL hitter watching the action is Allen Cramer. The Texans won 18-2 for a bi-district playoff spot.

Seniors Set For Playoff

Big Spring's Senior League baseball team opens a best-of-three series with Midland here Tuesday at 9 p.m. in Johnny Stone Park, with a berth in the state meet the winner's prize.

The second game is tentatively scheduled for 7 p.m. in Midland's Cub Stadium, with the third game, if necessary, to follow immediately.

Either Earl Reynolds or Chris Duron will be on the mound for the Big Springers Thursday. Rounding out the starting lineup will be infielders Bruce Felts, Willie Williams, John Smith and Gregg Crawford, and outfielders John Knoepfel, Jerry Knoepfel and Fernie Paredes.

Ray Perkins is the team's manager, and Larry Horton and Al Valdes are the coaches. Quality Volkswagen is the team's sponsor.

Sports... In Brief

TENNIS — BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Young Jimmy Connors, a non-conformist as a touring tennis player, was $12,000 richer today while reigning as the 46th U.S. Pro Tennis Champion.

Ignored in the seedings drawn up by World Championship Tennis in cooperation with the sponsoring New England Merchants National Bank, Connors made a shambles of the rankings en route to the title.

He started by eliminating top-seeded Stan Smith. Then he whipped Ray Moore, sixth-seeded Dick Stockton and fifth-seeded Cliff Richey.

That set the stage for a showdown with veteran Arthur Ashe Monday night in the rain-delayed windup of the $60,000 tournament which carried only $10,000 in total prize money. The bank brought the tourney to Longwood in 1964.

MOSCOW — Alexander Metreveli defeated Patrick Polay 6-3, 6-8, 7-5, 6-2 to give Russia a 1-1 tie with France in a European Group A Davis Cup tennis semifinal.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — Top-seeded Jeanne Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., defeated Debby Mascarin of Grosse Pointe, Mich., 6-0, 6-0 in the second day of the National Girls' 16 Tennis Championships.

TRACK AND FIELD — MINSK, U.S.S.R. — The Soviet Union took a 65-51 lead over the United States men in the first day of a dual track and field meet despite Steve Williams winning the 100-meter dash with a time of 10.1 seconds.

FOOTBALL — BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — John Henderson, veteran wide receiver of the Minnesota Vikings, announced his retirement today to concentrate on a position in business.

CHICAGO — Fullback Tom Nowatzke of the Houston Oilers announced his retirement from pro football "for personal and business reasons."

Texas League Earns Crown

The Texas League All-Stars left little doubt about their intentions — not to mention their talent — Monday night as they bombed Midland North-Central 18-2 for the Dist. 3 Little League championship.

Taking advantage of David Montanez' skillful pitching, a 15-hit attack and a bundle of Midland errors, the Texas Leaguers moved toward bi-district action with the hopes of earning a state meet berth.

The TL will meet the winner of tonight's Dist. 4 clash between Sonora and Fort Bliss of El Paso Friday at 8 p.m. on the Dist. 4 winners' home ground.

Winner of that game will advance to the state meet in Waco Aug. 6-11.

Montanez sprinkled four hits in gaining the impressive victory, and struck out 11 Midlanders despite blistering problems and an ailing hip. All the hits off him were singles.

The North-Central unit used four pitchers against the TL, with big John White, suffering the loss. White also led Midland at the plate with two hits.

After Montanez fanned the first three batters he faced, the Texas Leaguers jumped to a 4-0 advantage on a pair of hits by Allen Cramer and Johnny Hernandez, three errors and several wild pitches.

That was all they needed, but Freddie Martinez doubled home Tony Rubio to start the second frame and the Texans were off again. Hernandez batted in Freddie Martinez and another run scored on a wild pitch as the Big Springers spurred to a 7-1 lead.

There were two outs when James Magers singled to get the third inning ball rolling, and after Tony Rubio and Martinez singled to load the bases, a wild pitch allowed two runs to score and Montanez knocked in Martinez for a 10-2 edge after three frames.

Six teams have already entered the meet, set for Friday and Saturday, including the defending champion Morton Chippers of Big Spring. The Big Spring Merchants and Webb AFB Dusters have also entered, as well as three Lamesa entries.

Teams interested in entering the meet can contact Mize at 267-2236 by Wednesday.

The Border Guard

At one time we maintained a long line of forts to guard our side of the border with Mexico. Fort Brown, Fort Ringgold, Fort D. A. Russell, Fort Clark and others have passed into history.

In a new era of peaceful relationship between the United States and Mexico, those forts were closed. A tradition of maintaining the border without troops was established. In its place we set up the Border Patrol and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Their chief function was to control the movement of aliens into the United States.

In recent years the Border Patrol, whose members usually act also as U.S. Customs inspectors, has become involved increasingly in the interception of narcotics and other contraband. But the control of alien movement remains its main concern.

The border is a difficult one to patrol. For vast stretches it is uninhabited. The Rio Grande is easily forded in many sections during most of the year. The movement of aliens, most of them bent on seasonal labor, has continued despite the best efforts of the Border Patrol.

Now, borrowing from our experiences in Vietnam, an electronic "fence" is being erected along the border. It will include a series of pressure-sensitive devices (the same system that is being used to replace fences around some units in the Texas prison system), buried wires and infrared detection equipment. A two-year test in the Chula Vista Calif., sector of the border demonstrated the utility of the system. Last year, 29,000 of the 128,889 aliens apprehended in that sector were detected by the electronic system.

It was announced that a similar fence has been in part-time operation near Laredo.

Some members of Congress are concerned that the electronic fence would be a step backward from the tradition of maintaining the border without troops. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, for instance, said, "The concept of a barrier was repugnant to me because I felt there would be some inherent international psychological repercussions that should be evaluated before any commitment is made." He said he preferred more conventional procedures, which would include substantial reinforcement of the Border Patrol, which he noted is understaffed.

But this is not really a radical departure from the past nor from tradition. The tide of illegal migrants imposes social and political burdens on our citizens by replacing citizen workers. A Border Patrol of sufficient size to prevent the movement of aliens would be fantastically expensive. An electronic fence offers substantial control of the movement by supplementing and extending the arm of the Border Patrol.

Unpalatable Thought

The U.S. General Accounting Office has filed a report claiming that the U.S. Department of Agriculture grossly mismanaged a massive wheat sale to the Soviet Union last year. As a result, it adds, U.S. citizens subsidized Russian bread-makers by some $300 million.

Almost concurrently, the U.S. Department of Justice reported that no laws were broken in the transaction, and that it does not have plans to prosecute anyone.

The unfortunate truth is that both agencies are probably right. As a result U.S. citizens are supporting a nation that is, at the very least, an ideological enemy, one that refuses even to pay its World War II debts to the United States of America. Even if legal action were possible the only benefit would be a form of revenge rather than a retrieval of funds.

The most unpalatable thought, however, is that the $300 million in subsidies to the Soviet Union is only part of the price that Americans are paying. The remaining cost of the Department of Agriculture error is in the higher prices of food created by the diminished wheat supply in the United States.

Trailer Thieves

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

Recreational trailers are expensive and, according to the experts, ridiculously easy to steal.

POLICE ARE finding that trailer theft is increasing steadily, and insurance companies verify it. The FBI calls it "a field that is becoming more attractive to the roving eye of the larcenist."

Anyone who has traveled much in the past couple of years couldn't help but notice the abundance of trailers, campers and other types of recreational vehicles on the highways. Less apparent but present were the thieves.

The trailer owner, then, should take protective steps to protect his investment; the first step being to acquire adequate insurance.

FOR WHAT YOU get for your money, it doesn't cost much. A typical Midwest rate for $50-deductible collision and no-deductible comprehensive coverage on a trailer (coupled with an auto policy) is less than $30 a year on a $500 trailer or a little over $80 on a $5,000 rig.

Just imagine what it would be like to return to your campsite after a day's touring and find that your trailer — which you had unhitched for convenience that morning — had been stolen. Your trailer might not be recovered at all, and even the insurance might be small consolation for a ruined vacation and added expense of getting back home.

ANYONE WITH a trailer hitch can couple your rig and haul it away when you're not around to guard it. It can even be done with other people around, if they do not know you. How are they to know the trailer doesn't belong to the thief?

If you leave it for a day, have the trailer watched, if possible, by neighboring campers. Or tell the campsite operator that you will be away for a while, and ask him to keep an eye on it.

IF YOU are in an area where guarding isn't possible, here are several suggestions from the experts:

Take off a wheel, lock it inside the trailer or keep it in the trunk of your car and leave the trailer on a jack. A thief is not likely to have a spare wheel to fit your rig, and he would not be interested in any time-consuming fooling around.

CHAIN IT TO a tree. In an isolated situation, a sizable chain around the axle and a nearby tree trunk could be a simple, practical deterrent.

The "deadball", a lockable fitting that is inserted into the trailer hitch to make it impossible to hitch your rig to the thief's auto, is available from most recreational vehicle dealers for a few dollars.

Presidential Tapes

William F. Buckley Jr.

Concerning the presidential tapes, a few observations:

Should President Nixon have taped his conversations in the Oval Office? Some will say that is a point of purely academic interest at this juncture in the investigation of Watergate. Others will say it is more than that, that Nixon's having taped these conversations is one more ray of light into the dark neurons of the presidential mind, increasing the public understanding of the dragon who sits in the White House.

IT BEING so much the habit of his detractors to assume that modern sin is Nixon's invention, it became of course interesting to inquire whether other Presidents have taped some of their conversations, and the word came in at once from several quarters that the answer is yes, other Presidents have taped their conversations. FDR, for instance, LBJ as one would expect, and — JFK, JFK!

"Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr.," the historian and a Kennedy aide, reports the "New York Times," "described the idea of secret recordings during the Kennedy Administration as 'absolutely inconceivable.' It was not the sort of thing Kennedy would have done," Dr. Schlesinger told United Press International. "The kind of people in the White House then would not have thought of doing something like that."

THE FACT of the matter is that there are 68 tapes in the Kennedy Library of presidential conversations, and when they are made public, I am going to line up and listen to what Arthur said to Jack during the Bay of Pigs.

Now this does not of course mean that Presidents should tape conversations secretly. It says merely that non-Nixons have done it, including the two Presidents who have inspired Prof. Schlesinger since he was a child, for whom he continues his child-like reverence.

THE PRESSING point, pending a consolidation of the ethical position on presidential taping, is whether Nixon should release the tapes to the Senate Committee, or if not to the Committee, to a panel of distinguished citizens who would report to the Committee on whether these tapes corroborated John Dean's story of the implication of Nixon in the cover-up, or whether they corroborate Mr. Nixon's insistence on his innocence.

The New York Times' editorial on the subject is direct. "Why this evidence came to exist, the dubious legality or propriety of its collection, why its existence was not made known long ago — these are questions to be considered; but the essential point now is to have the evidence produced and made available to the public."

THIS POSITION is in refreshing contrast to the enthusiasm the "Times" editorial board has shown over the past decade for the decisions of the Warren Court, notoriously Mapp vs. Ohio (1961), which ruled that evidence improperly gathered against the accused cannot be used against him. In a masterstroke of irony, the question concerning the legality of Mr. Nixon's tapes bears most directly on the question of the guilt or innocence of someone else — but of Mr. Nixon himself.

Mr. Nixon, though he has denounced the Mapp ruling, would hardly plead Mapp in behalf of himself. He pleads instead Executive Privilege. And more and more the question, as it shapes up in the public mind, is: Is there an Executive Privilege to survive any Congressional investigation into Executive behavior?

Nixon's Decision

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — Partly because of the political ravages of Watergate, President Nixon overruled the pleas of top economic advisers for a tax increase and personally drafted the tough Phase IV anti-inflation controls program to court the immediate good will of voters at the possible long-range cost of losing the anti-inflation war.

JUST AS HE ordered the June 13 across-the-board freeze over the advice of those same advisers, Mr. Nixon has now constructed a Phase IV anti-inflation program streamlined for quick political approval and flying a bold "Made by Nixon" pennant.

Even when he was riding high earlier this year after his record landslide and before the Watergate scandal broke, his loose-control Phase III program grew politically intolerable. Geared for high profits and hence expanding production, Phase III did not prevent prices from going up. The result: his much-delayed order of June 13 which put the economy in the straightjacket of a freeze.

NOW FIGHTING for his political life, Mr. Nixon understandably dare not risk a repeat of that baleful Phase III. More than any decision he has recently made, the President has proved by his choice of Phase IV weapons that approval of the voting public, not the opinion of business or economists, is now his first concern. This alone explains the President's decision not to push for any tax increase. Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, strongly urged a tax increase; so did George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury, and Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of Economic Advisers. These advisers were urging a choice of 12 different tax options on the President, including across-the-board personal and corporate income tax hikes between 2 per cent and 6 per cent.

REJECTION of such advice may give Mr. Nixon more economic trouble tomorrow than political profit today. It puts the entire burden of the anti-inflation battle on Burns's Federal Reserve System and the extremely tough new Phase IV price controls.

This threatens the program's credibility in the world of business and industry, menacing the expanding production base essential for long-term control of inflation by creating more goods for sale.

IT HAS HELPED AT THE AIRPORTS!

Wow, What A Gasser

Hal Boyie

By JOY STILLEY
(Substituting for Hal Boyie)

NEW YORK (AP) — A gasoline shortage shouldn't bother my husband. He much prefers to drive without gas.

Possibly he nourishes the family car every now and then when I'm not around but I have never had the pleasure of motoring with him on a full tank.

Instead we travel for miles along uninhabited byways with the fuel gauge needle resting perilously near E and the red light that indicates the motor is thirsty flashing ominously off and on.

"I've got a quarter of a tank left," insists my husband. "It just looks empty from where you're sitting. We can drive for hours."

Maybe he can, but I can't—at least not without a tranquilizer. I get the owners manual out of the glove compartment and start calculating. If we should be getting 14 miles to the gallon—and I pessimistically assume that's a bit of an exaggeration—and the air conditioner is on, how far can we go on the teacup or so of gas we have left?

A few miles later, when I seem to detect wheezing, a shortness of breath and a desperate plea for a bit of no-knock from our game but going engine, I begin pointing out the sights along the road.

"See that nice filling station up ahead. Let's stop there," I urge.

"Wrong side of the road," grunts the chauffeur I hired for better or for worse.

"That one gives trading stamps," I persist as we continue to pass pump after pump bulging with an automobile's life blood.

"That one's too expensive," mutters my spouse. "I don't like that brand," he says of another. "They won't take my credit card," he shrugs off a third.

In all fairness, I must report that we've never run out of gas when I've been along. But I have it on good authority that it happened once.

Apparently my husband didn't pay our son enough hush money to keep the incident quiet.

Reason For Exploratory

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I was hospitalized because of severe pains in my stomach. After X-raying me, the doctor said he could find nothing wrong. Well, I'm home again and the pains are back, so he said I'd have to have surgery. It is something in the colon, he thinks.

So if the X-rays showed nothing, how can surgery help? What does the colon do exactly, and will you write something about it? Also, if I just take tranquilizers will that help? I hate to live on pills to keep the pains away. I'm also afraid that if he cuts me open it could be a cancer of some sort. Does cancer ever start in the colon? — H.V.

Well, if it's cancer (which it probably isn't) it will still be there if he DOESN'T "cut you open."

Cancer can start in the colon, just as it can start anywhere else you might mention, but it generally causes symptoms other than pain in its early stages — and when it does reach the painful stage, it isn't a pain that will quit when you take tranquilizers.

So there are some reasons why I wouldn't expect your trouble to be cancer.

Now as to surgery. This would be what is known as an exploratory operation, sometimes necessary when other methods of diagnosis do not reveal what you need to know.

X-ray is useful because it indicates density of the tissue through which the rays pass. Bones are dense, so they throw a strong shadow on the X-ray plate. But soft tissues permit the rays to pass through easily and throw little shadow.

The intestinal tract (including the colon) does not show up very sharply, being all soft tissue. Therefore the patient is given a barium enema. (a chalky-looking fluid which does not let the rays pass through so readily). The barium-filled intestine will throw a sharp shadow on the plate, and in that way the size and shape of the intestine can be seen clearly. (Other tests, including blood and enzyme levels, also may disclose trouble when X-rays don't.)

Evidently in your case no marked abnormality showed up. All the same, you hurt. Therefore surgery may disclose some other abnormality that the X-ray didn't show. I wouldn't try to guess what, without further information. However, your doctor apparently has some suspicions, since he mentioned the colon.

What does the colon do? It finishes absorbing nutrients from your food; then extracts excess water from the remainder, preparing it to be expelled.

The colon can develop various ailments (mucous colitis, spastic or "nervous" colon, and others) and some of them are much intensified by nervous tension — which could explain why tranquilizers help you. Why don't you read my booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Send 25 cents for printing and handling, and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy.

MY ANSWER

I have been told that the Bible predicts judgment for every "idle" word. Now that sounds a little severe to me. As a widow, living alone, I value every conversation — even those regarding the most trifling matters. You know, "idle" words are better than no words at all — for the lonely.

F.L. Presumably, you must be referring to Matthew 12:36 where Jesus said, "I tell you, that you must give account on Judgment Day for every idle word you speak."

Before discussing that, however, let me refer you to civil law. As I understand it, the principle that declares crime consists not alone in the external act, but rather in the evil motive or intent with which it is performed. Murder, for example, differs from homicide, not in any outward respect, but simply because of the motive behind it. Murder's motive is always, in the last analysis, an evil disposition or state of mind.

In the Bible reference you refer to, Jesus mentions the "idle word," not because it is important in itself, but because it is a floating straw that indicates the whole current of heart and life. In just two statements earlier (Matthew 12:34), the Scripture says, "For a man's heart determines his speech."

I'm sure that conversation is important to you, and the subjects of your discussion need not be profound in order to merit God's blessing. As a matter of fact, some of the most spiritually enlightening remarks I've heard have come from simple folk, who in plain language express the fact they live close to God.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"They asked, 'Do you want us to go and buy two hundred dollars' worth of bread?'" (Mark 6:37)

PRAYER: Father, we know people are hungry for the living bread. Motivate us to help satisfy their needs. In Christ's name. Amen.

Casually Yours

By JO BRIGHT

Good friends get together when Roy and Helen Worley come to town as they did the other day, en route to Lubbock to spoil their grandchild. With the Worleys for dinner at Furr's were the Jim Zacks, the Doug Ormes, the Tom Guins and the Fred Kasches. Worley, former high school principal here, is at Waco now, and friends hope they'll plan to retire here one of these days. Helen and Mrs. Clyde Angel get in a visit occasionally when the latter is in Waco to see son, Dr. Robert Angel.

The Weldon Bigonys and children, Mark, Bruce and Vicky, of Tokyo, Japan, are guests of old friends, Red and Edna Womack. Bigony, a pilot for Southern Comfort Airlines, is the son of a remarkable lady, Mrs. D. F. Bigony of Fairview. The Womacks were guests of the Bigonys when they toured the Far East a year or so ago.

Mrs. Pauline Petty's nephew, Lewis J. Sheen Jr. of Dallas, and Mrs. Sheen were in town Saturday and Mrs. Petty returned with them to their home in Dallas for the rest of her vacation from courthouse duties.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harland Birdwell are back from a relaxing and refreshing 10 days in Mexico. They headquartered in Mexico City while touring historical sites, museums, etc. Steve says the round trip fare from Laredo, via Mexican Airlines, is only $66, which makes it about the best travel buy around.

Made a quick trip to Midland and Odessa over the weekend and, in Midland, visited with former local residents, Vance and Bobbie Lebkowsky. Vance has purchased "Parker's", across from the suburban Dunlap Department Store. The Lebkowsky sons, who grew up here, are both married now. Robert is stationed with the Air Force at Travis AFB in California, and John and his wife are in Austin.

TDBITS: Chatted with Frank Brandon a few minutes. He's been pretty busy with June bride pictures, but he and Mrs. Brandon had been to visit his mother, Mrs. Etta Brandon of Burnett, now going on 95. Didn't see them, but understand the Bill Olivers of Temple were here for the Andra Madry-Jerry Webb wedding. He was formerly manager of the Settles Hotel. . . Sherry Mullins, Howard County extension agent, left last week to get in more college work. Plans to return Aug. 21. . . Wonder how Fred Davis is managing as a summer bachelor while Bea is in Lubbock to finish nursing school? Not very well, apparently, cause he's sick this week. Sons, Russ and Scott, are keeping him company but their brother, Frank, is helping the Edwards brothers run the Ballinger Ranch. Understand Connie and Sandy Edwards had as recent guests some of her relatives from England. . . Lewis Wolfson is having a ball squiring his young daughter, Sydne, around the area. She came over from Hawaii, and gets to stay until Aug. 22 before returning for school. She's a niece of Willard and Tot Sullivan. . . Twila Lomax, a very nice lady, was hospitalized not long ago but says she's back in the race. . . Bill Coleman and Charles Neeve went fishing on the coast and promised a fish fry for such Holiday Inn regulars as Everett Lomax, Shirley Fryar, Gerald Poe, Ken Scuddy, etc.

Cardin Comes Back With Paris Showing

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Cardin returned to the haute couture fold today with his first showing in two years. As usual, it was a long show. Cardin is known not only for the diversity of his ideas but also for their number. This year for fall and winter he likes horseblanket plaids, tweeds, suede and fur. Mink is for shoulder bags and huge coats and collars, not for coats. Long circular plaid capes sometimes come with colored fox collars. They go over printed pants and a long smock, for instance. Sleeveless jackets in all shades of suede are belted over tweed or checked dresses and suits with straight skirts at the knee. The couturier likes hats with upturned brims in velvet cut and stitched to resemble wide-waisted corduroy.

In contrast, enormous fox toques go with his group of skinny sweaters and full skirts in yellow or orange wool. The mufflers trail aqua fox pompons. There is also an interesting group of coats in solid wools, fuchsia tweed or gray flannel. They are stiffened in big tucks over the yoke and stick out from there down. One has an Elizabethan ruff. As everyone knows, Cardin is the place to buy a "drop-dead" evening dress. His new ones are spectacular and grow out of themselves in unexpected places. Draped panels — attach shoulders to hems. Collars turn into capes. And one dress had a huge pouch in front, so that what falls from the wearer's fork will not be lost. Andre Courreges, the man who turned women into little girls several years ago, is still following his bent. A good part of his collection is evening dresses — say baby blue, white, pink, pleats, stiff ruffles and mink pompons and say no more. There is one newcomer to the couture week, more of an intruder than a courtier. Lying in wait for the buyers leaving from Dior, Daniel Le Bret showed his clothes in a cafe on the Avenue Montaigne. His models wore circus makeup, removed their tops, and exposed normally hidden parts of the anatomy. The wiser of the viewers kept their eyes on their feet.

'Quotable Women'

"Yes, it's over. But I have no regrets. How can you regret anything that was so happy?" Actress Liza Minelli speaking about her four-week love affair with actor Peter Sellers.

"You know I can't get away. I have never done anything wrong in my life, ever. I wasn't even sent to the principal's office when I was in school. Go away and forget it." Martha Mitchell shouting at an Associated Press reporter.

"Life has changed since his death, but I'm not the kind of woman who can just sit around and do nothing. I'm not geared to being a bride player who just talks with the ladies." Lucille Armstrong, widow of Louis Armstrong.

"People really want to know what beauty queens are like, and they don't necessarily believe you when you say she is no different from the girl next door. In fact, when you have a title you suddenly become an authority on everything. Sometimes I would not want to assume . . . my opinion might be so personal." Tanya Wilson, Miss USA of 1972.

"I think we will come back to real painting in this art world soon, very soon. In Paris and London we have already begun." Parisian artist, Souchi.

"I want to be of service for as long as I'm needed and wanted. It's as simple as that." Helenka Pantaleoni, who recently began her 21st term, at 74, as president of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is driving me up a wall. I met a most charming lady about six months ago. We are both middle aged. I'm divorced and so is she. Three times. It was love at first sight for both of us and we were headed straight for matrimony when I discovered we had a few differences. I'll name some.

She wants to live way up North. I prefer the South. She's a real swinger and likes to be on the go all the time. If she had her way she'd eat breakfast, lunch, and dinner out, and make the rounds of the bars every night. I don't care to go that much.

She loves people and never met a stranger. It takes me a while to warm up to people. Her overly friendly ways, plus her D cup, which she flaunts a lot, has led her into a lot of trouble. She does have the gift of forgiving and forgetting, which I do not have.

When I pointed out our differences, she offered to fix me up with some of her girl friends, which I didn't go for. She says she loves me and wants to marry me, but I would have to change my stripes travel all directions.

ways. I don't think I could. There is such a strong physical attraction between us. I can't give her up. What do you think the chances of a successful marriage are between us?

Payroll Muster Will Be Given To Smithsonian

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, will formally present to the Smithsonian Institution on Wednesday an original payroll muster of the only known gunboat used in the American Revolutionary war that is preserved intact in this country.

Tower will make the presentation of the payroll muster of the Gondola Philadelphia on behalf of San Angelo's Fort Concho Museum and the city of San Angelo, which donated the historic document to the National Museum of History and Technology.

The original Gondola Philadelphia, which was recovered from 10 fathoms of water in New York's Lake Champlain where it was sunk by the British on Oct. 11, 1776, is now on permanent display in the National Museum of History and Technology.

An official of Smithsonian said the original document "opens up a whole new chapter in the yet unfolding career of the Philadelphia."

Before discovery of the simple handwritten list of the crewmen of the gondola, national historians had been unable to find any reference to the crew and listed the captain's surname as "Rice." The Fort Concho Museum document established that the captain's name was Benjamin Rue.

After the roster was discovered, other documents concerning Rue were found and Philip K. Lundeburg of the Division of Naval History informed San Angelo officials that the new find helped to "clearly establish the fact that the gondola in the Smithsonian is the Philadelphia."

The gondola was exhibited in the Great Lakes area after its recovery in 1935 until it was willed to the Smithsonian in 1961.

The payroll muster was donated to the San Angelo Fort Concho Museum in 1947 by the late Mrs. R. C. Ferguson, who was a descendant of Captain Benjamin Rue.

When Mrs. Ferguson gave the document to the museum, it was in the secret drawer of a small lap desk which was used by her family in Ohio as early as 1730, museums records show.

Is On Honor Roll

Leroy Eugene Spires is listed on the first summer session honor roll at Odessa College. He was included on the "A" honor roll.

Bentsen Digs 'Pals' Remarks

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen (D-Tex.) said here Monday he is not encouraging his Texas colleagues to promote his name for the Democratic nomination for President in 1976.

But he is not discouraging them, either.

Questioned at a news conference about recent remarks by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and other Texas elected officials suggesting Bentsen to head the Democratic ticket in 1976, he said: "I'm not promoting any efforts like that."

He credited the remarks to "generous friends," and, when asked if he has done anything to stop them, replied, "I can't help but enjoy the comments."

Bentsen was in Dallas to speak at a National Association of County Officials luncheon at Dallas Convention Center.

Ask Power To Keep Nixon From Impounding Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's impounding of funds, declared unconstitutional in connection with a housing program by a federal court, faced a new test today in Congress.

The House has scheduled debate on a bill that would give Congress the power to override any presidential impoundment by a simple resolution passed by either chamber.

U.S. District Court Judge Charles R. Richey on Monday ruled that Nixon acted illegally in January by freezing funds for federal subsidized housing.

The order said Nixon overstepped his executive powers in a matter ordained by Congress. It was the latest in a series of court rulings denying the constitutionality of Nixon's withholding of funds approved by Congress.

Depending on the source, estimates of the amount Nixon has impounded ranged from $8.7 billion to $18 billion.

The bill before the House would allow either house of Congress to void a presidential impoundment by passing a resolution within 60 days of the action.

It faces a probable veto if enacted, but the House Democratic Steering Committee is pushing for favorable votes.

The Senate already has passed its own version of an impoundment legislation, a bill authored by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. that would automatically terminate an impoundment unless both chambers agreed to it within 60 days.

Richey's order voids the Nixon administration's 18-month moratorium on federal subsidies for low-cost housing — a freeze that provoked cries from builders who claimed it would cost the economy more than $10 billion.

Funds for the housing programs halted by Nixon already had been approved by Congress, said the court, including some $431,040 that the Department of Housing and Urban Development had not used.

A HUD spokesman said officials would withhold comment until given a chance to study the decision. But the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, one of the plaintiffs in the suit, termed it a victory for "literally millions of minority and low income persons."

Try To Link Dealer With Gun Running Operation

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The defense in the murder trial of Charles V. Harrelson began Monday to attempt to link a central Texas grain dealer with an alleged gun running operation.

Harrelson, 34, a former dental supply salesman from Houston, is being tried for the second time on a charge of murder with malice in the July 6, 1968, shooting death near McAllen of Sam Degelia Jr. of Hearne.

Defense lawyer Percy Foreman of Houston told Dist. Court Judge Darrell Hester that the defense theory of the Degelia murder is that Degelia was killed because he was involved in a gun running operation and had collected $40,000 in Mexico.

Foreman said Degelia failed to turn the money over to some other men involved in the scheme.

Aaronian Named To VA Position

Dr. Albert J. Aaronian, a World War II Navy veteran who attended dental school under the G.I. Bill, has been appointed assistant chief medical director of dentistry at VA's central office in Washington, D.C. He succeeds Dr. Dayton D. Krajcick, who requested a position that would involve him in direct patient care. He has been assigned chief of dental service at Waco VA hospital.

Upon his departure, Mr. Johnson presented Dr. Krajcick with the Administrator's Exceptional Service Award for meeting "the challenge of an unprecedented demand for outpatient dental care by returning Vietnam veterans."

Ice Cream Store Is Opened Here

Baskin-Robbins, the ice cream store featuring the famous 31 flavors, opened this morning in the 2200 block of S. Gregg after what for operator E. L. Terry seemed like a long wait.

His son, Roger Terry, will manage the ice cream store.
