FORCE NEEDED FOR PEACE IN MEXICO NOW

Institute of Politics Told Harsh Methods Must Be Used

BANDITRY PROSPERS

Future of Nation Depends Entirely on Calles, Is Expert's Claim

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The use of dictatorial methods is now necessary in Mexico to bring about law and order, Dr. Guillerme A. Sherwill, secretary general of the inter-American high commission said at the institute of politics today at Dr. Leo S. Rowe's round-table conference on inter-American relations. He read a communication described as "very important" from J. N. Puig Cassurane, secretary to public instruction a Mexico City outlining a program of policy. The text of the letter was not made public.

Bandits Prosper

"The last revolution in Mexico, perverted to a considerable extent the moral sense of the country," he said. "Bandits have openly prospered and have been rewarded or bribed to stop their activities; mobs have held sway and agrarian and labor movements have taken a dangerous direction. To bring order out of chaos it is necessary to use dictatorial methods without forgetting that the purpose of any distatorship at present would be only to pave the way for democracy.

"It would have as its immediate object the task of directing the agrarian and labor movements into conservative channels and checking self-appointed generals and grafters who have infested the country. Calles must rise above the personal interests of some of his followers and guarantee the reign of law.

Up to Calles

"The solution of the agrarian and labor problems will be the salvation of Mexico. If Calles failes to solve them, Mexico will suffer for generations yet to come, and Calles will sink into oblivion. The present methods of the agrarians are misguided. If their mistakes are not corrected the agrarian policy will be a failure.

"The American government must be patient and must exercise great care in supporting complaints of American interests in Mexico."

CHILDRESS, Texas, Aug. 14.—Actual signing of contracts with citizens of Turkey, Quitaque, Lockney, Dimmitt and Silverton by officials of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway company which will construct the new Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railway began Friday morning.

The jinx defying sextette was selected from eight non-superstitious couples who applied after advertisements for brides and grooms appeared in newspapers.

One happy couple received $100 in 13 coins, and a diamond wedding ring with thirteen diamonds. Another received $50 in $2 bills and a hard luck opal ring and the third couple received a $50 money award and a plain gold wedding ring.

Chapman's Pal Shoots Pair Who "Squealed"

VENGEANCE IS WREAKED UPON MAN AND WIFE

Muncie, Ind., Man and Wife Shot Down by Former Federal Convict

MAKES ESCAPE

Condemned Murder's Friend Wreaks Vengeance For Their Capture

MUNICE, Ind., Aug. 14.—Charles "One Arm" Wolfe, one of the companions of George "Dutch" Anderson, who late today shot and killed Ben Hance and his wife because they informed police last January of the whereabouts of Gerald Chapman, notorious mail robber, was captured by local police at 10:25 tonight driving through this city.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Gerald Chapman's pal tonight wrecked vengeance on the informer who caused the arrest last January of the notorious mail robber.

Ben Hence, the informer, and his wife, were shot to death by George (Dutch) Anderson who was convicted with Chapman of a million dollar New York mail robbery, shared his prison sentence and subsequent escape from Atlanta. The shooting occurred five miles southwest of here.

Chapman Caught

While Chapman and Anderson were in hiding at Hances' home last winter from Atlanta penitentiary officials and New York detectives, Hance informed police authorities and Chapman was surrounded on the streets of Muncie last Jan. 18, and captured.

Anderson was not trapped when the detectives closed in on Chapman last January and had kept himself hidden safely until today.

The bodies of Hance and his wife, the former still alive, but dying were discovered a few minutes after the shooting by a passing motorist but no trace of Anderson was found. Hance told officers that Anderson did the shooting.

Met By Pal

The shooting occurred after Mr. and Mrs. Hance met Anderson, who local officials say was accompanied by at least two other men on the Middletown pike, a main highway a few miles west of Muncie, shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon—presumably by appointment. The shooting occurred at the conclusion of a parley, police believe.

Chapman, a notorious criminal, is now under a sentence of death in New Jersey for the slaying of a police officer during a holdup.

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
When They Will.

You may not like to hear them saw
And hammer Sunday morning,
A day you hold in holy awe—
Yet let me sound a warning:
O wives of men, if you would get
Them started, get them through it,
Some task around the household, let
Them do it when they'll do it.

At six a. m. is not a time
To start one's garden labors.
To mow a lawn is then a crime,
If one has any neighbors;
Yet, when the grass is green and tall,
And needs the mower badly,
If they will cut the grass at all,
Then let them do it gladly.

They clean the furnace when you're ill,
They pound when Baby's nappin',
But let them do it when they will,
No matter what may happen.
It makes a lot of bother, yet
If they at last get to it,
If they will help a little, let
Them do when they'll do it.

NEXT MOVE IN DEBT DEBATE IS UP TO CAL

Belgian-American Situation Rests Entirely in Hands Of President

EFFORT MAY FAIL

One Side or Other Must Make Big Concession To Bring Success

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The next move in the Belgian-American debt negotiations appears now to rest with President Coolidge.

The commissions representing the two governments suspended their negotiations today until Tuesday so that Chairman Mellon and Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, might lay all of the facts before the chief executive at Plymouth, Vt., Monday.

Proceed Smoothly.

While the negotiations are still officially described as proceeding in a satisfactory manner there is a very definite indication that unless one side or the other makes a material concession, the present effort to fund the $480,000,000 war debt will prove unsuccessful.

Belgium is insisting upon its terms and members of the American debt commission are certain that these will not be found acceptable to congress. President Coolidge may take a different view of the matter, and if he should, a new proposal to Belgium would be the result.

Chain Gang Made Up Of Chronic Drunks Put To Work Friday By Police

Threats of police department officials that manual labor was to be substituted for idle life in jail cells in cases of persistent drunks and vags were made good here yesterday when six men who drew substantial fines in police court in the morning were sent out as a chain gang to dig ditches for the city water department. The number will be increased to at least eight and possibly more Saturday as a result of arrests of drunks made throughout the day.

City officials have been seeking for some time to find a way to get some useful work from men who seem to have nothing else to do but get drunk, and in jail, get two meals a day at city expense and lay out heavy fines. There are a number of such men who have given considerable trouble in this respect.

The council at a recent meeting, acting on a suggestion of Police Commissioner Frank Queisser, authorized him to put these offenders to work. A plan has now been mapped out whereby the police furnish such help, provide a guard to see that the men do not run away, see to it that they do a day's work, and charge the department for which they are working the price of what ever it costs to feed them.

The half-dozen Friday went into a working squad of the water department and wielded picks and shovels in the excavation of water main ditches. They will be returned to the same task today. Others, if there are any, may be sent to the park, street or any other department in need of day laborers.

Officials said yesterday the experiment so far had proven a decided success and that it would be continued as long as needed.

BEACH CACHE NETS $50,000 JEWEL HAUL

Chicago Officers Find a Treasure Trove In Safety Box

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.— (AP)—Jewelry valued at $50,000 was seized today by government agents who opened a safety deposit box leased by Kitty Gilhooly whose arrest a few days ago led to the seizure of narcotics values at $150,000. Her arrest led to the investigation of Colonel Will Gray Beach, chief of narcotic agents here arrested for bartering narcotics for various kinds of merchandise, much of it stolen.

Another sensation was created by the opening of ten packing cases belonging to Beach, found yesterday. These contained the skull of a baby, 100 Chinese bowls and several packages of narcotics. The presence of hundreds of keys, lamp shades, cigarette cases and a sack full of cheap jack knives seemed to be the result of a hobby for collecting.

$2,000,000 Cash Already Is Paid, Say Reports From Tulsa

Acquisition of the Waite Phillips company by the Standard Oil company of Indiana through its Mid-Continent subsidiary, Dixie Oil company, for a reported consideration of $20,000,000 is the gist of dispatches received last night by The Record News from its Tulsa correspondent. The sale has been semi-officially announced in Tulsa, the dispatches say.

The sale is being made through Blair and company, that concern's auditors and J. R. Penn of the Texas and Pacifci Coal and Oil company who has been in Tulsa for some time checking up the Phillips corporation's books and assets. Mr. Phillips himself is in Cimarron, N. M., so his associates said, and could not be reached last night to confirm or deny the deal.

Pays $2,000,000

Good authority, however, stated in confirming the reports current in Tulsa yesterday that the Standard of Indiana had already handed Mr. Phillips $2,000,000 as an evidence of their good faith in the deal and that actual acquisition of the property was a matter of days.

Of the consideration of $20,000,000 it is reported that $15,000,000 is to be cash and the remainder in securities. One report, however, had the sum offered at $230,000,000.

LAKE WICHITA FILLED WITH SOFT WATER

Recent Rains Avert Hard Water Discomfort For Time at Least

Recent rains in this territory have given Wichita Falls another respite from the discomfort of hard water.

Lake Wichita, the soft-water supply source from which the city obtains its 5,000,000 or more gallons a day has been raised perceptibly in the last few days by the heavy downpours in this section of the state. Holliday creek, main feeder for the lake, has been running bank-full and the big reservoir has prospered accordingly.

Had the rains not come when they did, a full flow of hard water from Lake Kemp would have been turned into Lake Wichita by this time in order to insure an ample supply. The rains, however, have averted this for a time at least.

Mrs. Diogenes Might As Well Hang Up Her Light Too; Here's Honest Women

She stuck out her hand to the cashier of a popular cafe on Eighth street last night, and asked for his health. It was well, he told her, a curious glint in his eyes as to just what this woman might want, and started to tell her that there were no jobs open now.

"You don't remember me?" she asked him.

He looked long and hard and then made answer, "No"

"Well, I left town over a year ago and owed you a small bill, here—this is the first time I have been back in Wichita Falls since then and I want to pay it."

The cashier remembered then, and in a moment had extracted a clump of cafe checks neatly signed on the bottom of each with the woman's name. He handed them to her, and she gave him a dollar bill, a quarter, and a dime, $1.35 the total of the bill She bought a cup of coffee then, wished the man luck, and was gone again, square this time though with the one that credited her when she was broke.

The cashier turned to his wife, "Well, I thought she had gone for good."

New Deep Horizon Looms At South Vernon

BARKLEY AND MEADOWS GET WELL AT 2,400

Flows a Little Through Tubing From Lime At 2,379-2,400

HUMBLE FIRST

Is Offset to Old Price Well Abandoned at Shallower Depth

A new and deeper productive horizon for south Vernon is a reality now with a semi-completion in Barkley and Meadows No. 1-B, Stephens, in the northeast corner of the northwest forty acres of the northeast quarter of section 83, showing for a nice well from a sandy lime at 2,379-2,400 feet, the first completion to date there for a well that deep.

Roughly speaking the stratum is regarded as the same picked up by Humble on its Castlebury well of last week in the northeast to corner of the southeast quarter of the same section, which although found some higher, ostensibly, is about the same level when surface levels are taken into consideration. The Barkley and Meadows well is better than a half mile northwest of the Humble well.

The hole has a 5 3-16 inch lines set yesterday in the sand at 2,379-2,400 feet, with a string of two and one-half inches swedged in. The hole was full of fluid and made small heads between swabbing in the two-inch tubing. It looked like a good well, with estimates varying from 100 to 200 barrels. It is intended to pull the small tubing and run a full string of five-inch casing and complete.

A north offset to the well by Prince Brothers in section 84 was plugged and abandoned some time ago as a bad job at a slightly shallower depth, one of the first wells in the field at a time when this east side was strictly a wildcat proposition.

On the south line of the lease, one location west from the southeast corner Barkley and Meadows have a fishing job in their No. 3-A, Stephens, showing fro some sort of a well from sand at 2,305-15 feet. A bit twisted off in the sand.

Constantins Had Deep Sand Smackover Wells Four Years Before Boom

Although the discovery of a third deep sand in the Smackover oil field of southern Arkansas has created intense interest in a general prospecting campaign for the deeper pay sands in the old areas few are aware that a 2,900 foot sand there has been producing high grade oil for more than four years. It is three miles west of El Dorado.

The Constantin Refining company, now the Constant Refining company, bought a block of acreage in 1921, including the alloway-Trimble lease in 1-18-16. A well on this tract was drilled to 2,930 feet and completed July 2, 1921, for 400 barrels initial.

On the same lease a few months later the Constantin company drilled No. 3 Calloway-Trimble, completing it Jan. 4, 1923, at 2,894 feet. This well and No. 1, produced for some months at the rate of 400 barrels a day of oil testing 28 gravity. As the daily production of the wells decreased the gravity increased until today they are making 35 barrels each. Today they grade 33.

Several wells have been drilled for the deeper sand more than a mile from the Constant lease, but besides these two pumpers there are no other producers from the 2,900 foot sand in that part of the field. It is believed, however, that several tests will be made in the west and south fields during the next few months, since many oil men are of the opinion that the pool from which the Constant wells are producing, instead of being a freak pocket, will be picked up in other parts of the Smackover-El Dorado district.

News of the Fields

Jones, Rose

Edwin M. Jones has abandoned his No. 1, Rose, located in the center of the northeast forty acres of the northeast quarter of the B. B. B. & C. R. R. Co. survey, block 275, Throckmorton county, total depth given as 1,604 feet.

East Lawton

George Hanbury in No. 1, Munson, in the southeast corner of the southwest of the southeast of the northeast of 30-2n-0w, had sand at 2,005 feet, and is flowing 35 barrels an hour and also making better than five million feet of gas. It is in Comanche county.

North Montague

Texhoma Oil and Refining company is erecting a 55,000-barrel storage on its Howard lease in north Montague county, North Nocona. It will be the first field storage of that size to be erected in north Montague county. Texhoma has four wells, all from different sands on this lease.

Clark et al, Bishop

Clark-Harbin-Baldridge and Goldsmith and Cooper encountered a rich sand at 992 feet on their J. E. Bishop lease, Young county, three miles southeast of Olney. Well is located 475 feet east and 150 feet south of the northwest corner of TE&L survey, block No. 162. Casing is being set preparatory to drilling in.

Barkley-Meadows, B-H-W

Barkley and Meadows have a salt water well at a total depth of 1,325 feet in their No. 1, Bond-Hawkins-Williams, on their 10-acre tract west of Ray and Massie, south Vernon, section 100, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, block 14. The well was counted on to extend the 1,300-foot pay recently uncovered on that lease, and is regarded now as a definition of that area to the west.

Sun, Deitrich

Sun Oil company has a dry hole in its No. 1, Otto Dietrich, located in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 4, B. B. B. & C. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 1700, east of the Gambrell pool a mile and west of the Mercer pool. Total depth is given as 1,251 feet. The well bailed lots of oil and water, and might have made a small producer in sand at 1,151-55 feet, north Young county.

Barkley-Meadows Area

Freeman and Hampton have a dry hole in their well south of their No. 1 on the east line of their lease on the west side of the new Barkley and Meadows area, north of Archer City. They are skidding both derricks north 300 feet for Nos. 4 and 5, Wilson, one to be north of the well on the west line, and the other to be north of the lone well on the east line.

Muse and Robertson have erected a derrick for their No. 3 well, 300 feet north of their western extension well and will get going there in a day or so. No. 2, south of the No. 1 is spudding.

Neither the Barkley and Meadows or the Lomax leases show anything new, with operations on both leases seriously hampered for lack of water. Staley and Wynne were drilling deeper early yesterday south of the pool, exact depth not known.

The pool is the one active spot in Archer county at the present time.

NEW YORK'S MAYORALTY CONTEST

Announcement of the two opposing Democratic tickets for the primaries and of the Republican slate to fight the winner has served to make more involved New York's mayoralty contest. Each faction has been conscious of the strength of the other two and has sought to gain support for itself by pushing into the field the most prominent men it could draft as candidates. Many a picturesque figure will go down in the political slaughter. Where victory is won it will be won largely upon personality and the heat of presonal controversy. Clear out political issues are obscured; indeed, it seems that they have been purposely put out of the way in order that a campaign may be fought out in the bitterest and most turbulent manner possible.

The Republicans are hoping that Mayor Hylan will lose in the primaries to State Senator James W. Walker, who is backed by Governor Smith and his adherents. In the belief that the Brooklyn Democrats would then be disaffected and would be won to the support of a fusion ticket, they have selected James E. Finegan, prominent lawyer and Brooklyn Democrat of long standing, as their candidate for comptroller. This plan of profiting by a Democratic division may be frustrated, however, since it is taken for granted by his supporters that Mayor Hylan will run independent in case he is beaten by the Smith faction in the primaries. The Republicans have not formerly been able to accomplish the purpose they are now trying to carry out. So long as there have been two Democratic tickets in the field, the Republicans have been ignored by the voters of New York City, and when one ticket has emerged victorious from the primaries the people of the city have usually considered the fight over.

Both Hylan and Smith have sought to secure able lieutenants in the naming of their tickets. Smith, of course, is not a candidate as Hylan is, but he is actually the chief opponent of the latter. He has caused State Senator Walker to be chosen by the Tammany organization as its candidate for mayor. The Senator has led what little there has been of the Democratic party in the New York Senate. He has been popular, and with Smith to back him and do the major part of the campaigning, should make an able antagonist of Hylan. By endorsing the State transportation act, which preserves to the city a five-cent fare, he has destroyed Hylan's best issue.

But the campaign is not one of issues. As already stated, it is one of personalities. At bottom it is a fight between Smith and Hylan. Smith keeps in the background and this puts Hylan at a disadvantage. Hearst's support is also something of a liability. To offset this and strengthen himself with the conservative element, Hylan has chosen as his comptroller William E. Edwards "Big Bill," who served as collector of internal revenue for the second district under President Wilson.

A MARVEL OF MODERN TIMES

A Washington correspondent says the silk worm is falling behind in the race to keep modern women supplied with silk dresses, silk stockings and silk underwear. He says woman is wearing more silk than ever before in the world's history but she couldn't if it wern't for wood fibre manipulated and spun into artificial silk threads.

He says that artificial silk production is just one lap behind that of natural silk, the product of the silk worm. He gives the figures. Last year 110,000,000 pounds of real silk were produced and manufactured. At the same time the output of artificial silk was 108,800,000 pounds and of this total America produced 39,000,000 pounds and used 40,000,000.

According to the tariff commission survey, artificial silk has progressed from a shoddy stepsister in the silk industry, something no woman with the price of real silk would buy, to a position almost on an equality with the real variety. In fact, the survey says many a gorgeous evening gown came up in the world from a slab of wood.

By far the greatest porportion of this artificial silk is used in knit goods and almost half that proportion goes into stockings, either all artificial silk or part real silk and part artificial. The difference in cost between real and artificial silk, according to the survey, is really very small in actual manufacture, as real silk fiber goes much farther than the artificial kind.

For this reason there is little competition between the two types of material on a strict price basis. Think of wood fiber dresses, wood fiber underwear and wood fiber hosiery. Is this evolution? If it isn't then name it.

BRITISH MONEY CHANGERS HOBBLED

English money lenders in the future will be unable to exact exceeding fifteen per cent interest if a report by the joint parliamentary committee on the subject of interest is adopted by the house of commons and the house of lords. This report fixes the interest limit at fifteen per cent.

Of course the money changer is to be hobbled but he will find a way to smash his hobbles. Regardless of laws or reports the man who has the money to loan always has the best of it. He dictates the terms to the borrower.

Business is business. The borrower has to have the money. If a pound of flesh is demanded he must bow to the inevitable. Money loaning isn't a philanthropic pursuit. It is an organized industry and it flourishes under every flag.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Reconstruction.

A man of thirty, who achieved a brilliant record in one of the flying corps during the war, was talking about conditions.

"Some of my friends in the service," he said, "have been bitterly disillusioned since they got back from the war.

"They expected to be hailed as heroes, and to have their paths smoothed to easy prosperity on their return.

"They found that the jobs they left had been taken by others and were acceptably filled.

"So many men with good war records had come back, that they were too common to have fusses made over them.

"We all had to go back, almost to the beginning again and start over.

"I have had four different jobs since I came home. None of them have been good ones.

"But I do not let that worry me.

"I know that there had to be a tremendous readjustment during the war, and that we are not yet out of the reconstruction period.

"I know that business has not yet found itself, that men are still in a daze, and that the old solid nicely balanced organizations, in which men of ability progressed steadily, are all askew.

"This condition will last for some time longer, perhaps three or four years. In the meantime, there is no need of feeling a sense of injustice. There is always injustice in life.

"The whole world is being made over, and it will take some time to finish the job.

"When it has been done, I will get along as well as I deserve to. I haven't any fears about that."

It is quite true that many of the men who fought for their country have been embittered by what seems to be lack of appreciation on the part of those who stayed behind.

But it is not wholly lack of appreciation. The people of the earth are still suffering from shock. They have lost their perspective. Nations do not yet trade freely with nations, or trust each other as they did before the great catastrophe.

This is not pleasant to realize, but is the fact.

And all young men, whether they are returned soldiers or men who were too young to go to war feel the effect of a sort of paralysis of energy. It sometimes discourages them.

But it will not last forever, nor very much longer.

Gradually the world will get on an even keel again, and then it will resume its journey toward a brighter future at full speed, to the comfort of all on board.

In the meantime it is necessary to be philosophical and patient, and to remember that as Shakespeare observed, "time and the hour run through the roughest day."

Every gathering of statesmen, every effort to bring about a mutual understanding will speed a happier time. There may be talk of a new war, but the world doesn't want one, and it will be many years before it will have one—perhaps not in the lifetime of any one now living.

A MATTER YET UNDETERMINED

Senator A. J. Wirtz of Seguin is the latest to discuss the subject of State relief for the people of the drouth areas. He differs from other legislators who have given their opinions. Coming from the heart of the drouth section he may be regarded as expressing the sentiment of the people who are to be relieved. According to his view they distinctly do not wish for charity from the State, but merely desire an opportunity to recoup their losses after an unexpected disaster. A remission of taxes over a certain period of time would be gratefully received by them. A loan or direct gift by regular appropriation is something to be accepted only if absolute necessity requires it.

Road building seems to Senator Wirtz the most feasible means of tiding the farmers of the drouth stricken area over to another crop season. He would have the counties adopt big construction programs. Interest on bonds required to raise the necessary funds could be made up, he thinks, out of savings effected on present labor costs, the farmers being presently willing to work for enough to buy food for themselves and their teams.

Road building is the premier employment project and it is the most permanant work that could be undertaken to meet the needs of the present situation. Undoubtedly it can be carried forward now at lower cost than at any other time. But the counties affected by drouth are hardly in position to finance an extensive program of building unless they could secure the assistance of the State and the work could be mapped out in a comprehensive manner.

Senator Wirtz, while pressing for consideration of his favorite proposal, is not absolutely opposed to the suggestions of others. He does not think, however, that a special session of the legislature should be called to deal with the drouth situation, as has frequently been suggested, as this procedure would entail heavy costs and considerable delay. But even here he is open to conviction, asserting that if such "appears to be the only method of obtaining relief, I am satisfied the governor will not hesitate to call it." From this it is plain that the Senator is not far from the position of those who have expressed themselves in favor of a special session.

All who have given their views are in accord on the general subject of relief where, and if, it is actually needed. The question of necessity and that of the best method of meeting the necessity are yet undetermined. Perhaps, it will be found that the farmers themselves and their merchant and banker friends, with the assistance of local chambers of commerce, can take care of the situation. If they cannot, the State unquestionably should step into the breach. But in any case State aid can hardly be made effective during the remainder of this year. It will be useful chiefly in extending additional help to the farmers while they put in another crop and wait for harvest.

WHEN IS A HERO A HERO?

Field Marshal Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces in the World war, points out that last year British voluntary relief committees alleviated no fewer than three hundred thousand cases of distress among British war veterans. He appealed for the British public to give liberally this year. "To give all they can and perhaps more than they can spare, to show they are not unmindful nor ungrateful."

Public charity for three hundred thousand veterans of the greatest war of history, three hundred thousand gallant defenders of the British empire. When is a hero a hero? It must be when the war is on and fighting to be done to save the property and the institutions of those who remain at home.

The Minute That Seems A Year. By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Leo.

Today's planetary aspects are very promising, especially for all those acts that are based on the emotions: they denote a fair amount of success for any business deals, and exceptionally so where brightest prospect for individual relationships—as distinguished from those that have a flavor of commercialism. It is—if the girl wants you and you want the girl—a good opportunity for translating into an engagement your fondness for each other. It is also an auspicious occasion for marriage, and the indications, in both instances, presage only happiness and peace of mind.

Children, born today, will, while enjoying good health, be liable to accident in a rather marked degree. Forwarned is to be forearmed, and such an indication demands continual vigilance and assiduous care. In temperament and disposition, they will be rather vain and cocksure of themselves. This tendency must be corrected in early days, as these defects grow in magnitude, unless checked and repressed. They will never be dull companions but on the other hand, they will display gifts of wit and, at times, caustic humor. They will be amenable to affections ate influences, and forceful measures will only make them stubborn and recalcitrant, and defeat the very object for which they may be employed.

If today is your birthday, you are very fond of imposing your will on others, and have secured a reputation for arbitrariness, which is not in consonance with your other individual idiosyncracies. Your aggressiveness is very marked, and your versatility can never be doubted. You possess a great deal of persistent courage, and your "go-get-itiveness" is undoubtedly responsible for the success that you have already achieved. You never allow difficulties to deter you, nor trouble to hinder you. Even, too, if your original plan should, by unforeseen circumstances, prove impossible for realization, you always can, and do, think out another way of reaching the same end. Circumstances do not, apparently, control you. On the contrary, you control, as far as is humanly possible, circumstances, and believe that "we are our own fates. Our own acts are our doomsmen."

You have great love for children—which is fully reciprocated by them—and are extremely contented in your home life.

Mexican Executive to Stop In San Antonio On Way To Washington.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Luis N. Marones, Mexico's labor chieftain, will pay San Antonio a brief visit next week when he stops here en route to Washington, D. C., to attend the national convention of the American Federation of Labor.

The visit of Senor Marones, who is secretary of industries and labor, will have a two-fold purpose in Washington where he will discuss with government officials questions affecting immigration.

HOW IT STARTED

The "Union Jack"

"The Star-Spangled Banner" explains itself; likewise the "Tricolor" of France. But who put the Jack in Union Jack. This curious term, which is the name by which we know the British flag, has been the subject of much surmise, but so unique is its history that you would never guess it in a thousand years!

soldier in the field were the protecting "jacque" or surtout (over all), which was a garment of padded leather interspersed with pieces of plate armor, upon the breast the crimson cross of St. George. When the soldiers had occasion to board a ship their jacques were placed next to each other along the bulwarks of the ship in the same way that the Romans arranged their shields on board their galley. The jacques so afforded the men protection against the arrows of their adversaries on the water and by the device upon their outer side proclaimed the nationality of the ship. Excepting the king's own ship, which flew the royal arms on a silken sail, the jacques bore the only indication of the nationality of a vessel.

In the course of time, when the jacques were no longer needed along the bulwarks, a solitary jacque was displayed at the bowsprit, and so the name "Jack" came into use for the flag that superseded it.

In 1801 the three kingdoms of England, Ireland and Scotland were formally united and the British flag made a combination of the cross of St. George for England, of St. Andrew for Scotland and St. Patrick for Ireland. It was this union which made the British flag the "Union Jack."

SUGG FUNERAL HELD

Ranchman and Banker Buried Friday at Gainesville.

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 14.—Funeral services for J. D. Sugg, 70, Texas and Oklahoma banker and ranch man who died at Chickasha Okla., Monday, were held here today. The body arrived here from Chickasha yesterday.

IRRIGATION

THE FISH IN LAKE KEMP

Editor Wichita Falls Record News, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Dear Sir:

You will please give me through your paper the following information:

First, did the State of Texas pay any part of the cost of erecting the Lake Kemp dam? And did the United States pay any part of the cost of the dam? And did the United States put any fish in the lake, and if so what did they cost, and who paid for the fish?

And if the fish were put in the lake, how many were put in the lake? Or in other words did they put in as many as a car load of fish in the lake and what kind of fish?

Thanking you in advance for the information and as a reader of your paper and wishing you and all readers of the paper a great success,

Yours,

R. B. PEAVEY.

Tolbert, Texas, Route 2.

Neither the State of Texas or the United States bore any part of the cost or had anything to do with the construction of Lake Kemp dam. The entire cost was borne by the people of Wichita Falls. Not the people of Wichita county but Wichita Falls, the city.

In regard to the fish. In 1923, about 16,000 baby fish were secured from a state fish hatchery and placed in the lake. Since that time the Wichita Falls fish and game association have put in the lake about 14,000 small fry consisting of black bass, calico bass, croppie and other varieties.

The dam was built by Wichita Falls, and all the fish that have been put in were placed there by people living in Wichita Falls.

SEEKS CHURCH COURT.

Bishop Brown Would Create Board of Supreme Authority.

GALION, Ohio, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Bishop William Montgomery Brown today made public an application to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church requesting the creation of an ultimate court of appeal to reconsider the sentence pronounced against him by a court of review for alleged error of doctrine.

The application requested the house of bishops to withhold action in confirming the sentence of deposition until the two houses of the general convention had had an opportunity to act on the application which was accompanied by a brief "to inform your respective bodies of the facts and of the substantial and serious nature of the errors which occurred in my trial."

REGRET SAILOR TROUBLE.

New Zealand Apologizes for Disorders Caused by Rowdies.

CHRIST CHURCH, N. Z., Aug. 14.—(AP)—General regret is expressed here regarding the incidents of the last night when slight disorders occurred in Victoria Square between sailors of the American fleet and the Larrikin element which had annoyed the sailors by shouting "who won the war?"

The happening is deprecated by the great body of the public as an isolated example of irresponsibility of hoodlum spirit to which no weight need may be attached insofar as the right thinking part of the community is concerned.

RETURNS TO KENTUCKY

Youth Held For Forgery To Be Taken From Dallas

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—A Kentucky youth arrested here at the request of Louisville officers for forgery and passing worthless checks will be returned to that city tomorrow by an officer who arrived here today with warrants for his arrest. The prisoner waived extradition.

THE STORY SO FAR

The English-bred son of a desert Sheik, Caryll, is in Touggourt, accompanied by an Uncle Hubert, making his first visit to his father and mother who are in camp in the desert. It is a distasteful trip, he loathes his parents and hates the country.

He has just been left by his uncle to spend an afternoon and evening by himself and is hard-put to find some way to use the time. He recalls his rescue and several subsequent meetings with a desert girl, whom he found being beaten by a huge Arab, and with the vision of this in his mind starts out on a rambling tour.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

The hubbub of voices was deafening, the smell of ungroomed animals and hot, unwashed humanity, acrid and offensive to Caryll's fastidious nostrils. Almost tripping over a whining beggar who, droning his eternall chant, was swaying backwards and forwards in the dust and sand at his feet, he fell literally into the arms of a gaunt, ferocious-looking blind man whose truculent "For the love of Allah!" was a menace rather than a supplication. Recoiling with a grunt of disgust he thrust a coin into the outstretched, clawlike hand that was seized on, waving aside the sellers of knives and trumpery who crowded round him.

Dodging the blundering progress of a hobbled camel that, plunging unsteadily on three legs, impeded his progress, he came face to face with a grinning infant who was staggering along with a dark, hairy mass clasped close to his tattered gandoura. A nearer glance at the triumphantly borne trophy showed it to be a newly severed donkey's head, and the blood-spattered imp thrust it gleefully forward for inspection before making off with a shrill laugh as a rush of older lads threatened the loss of his treasure.

Choked with dust, hustled and mobbed, Caryll elbowed his way to the further side of the square where a white, openwork parapet, backed by a dense palm grove, marked the boundary of the market place.

Here, in this comparatively empty corner, he found a welcome breathing space, and for a few moments he stood still, looking back on the turmoil through which he had passed, mopping his hot forehead, and in two minds whether or not to return to the hotel.

He was still undecided when a hoarse cry that was like nothing human made him start and, wheeling in the direction from which it came, give place hastily to the weird figure that was bearing down upon him.

Wild eyed and foaming at the mouth, stark naked save for the ragged fragments of a faded crimson bournous that, once the discarded property of some Spahi, clung scantily about his tall, emaciated body, the madman or fanatic—and for Caryll the terms were synonymous—strode swiftly past with brandished, tossing arms, and harsh, discordant ravings.

Caryll had seen him before, several times. But was not accustomed to him to the wretched creature's repulsive appearance, or made him any more sympathetic towards a system that permitted a public display of similar unhappy ones.

For the Arabs, of course, his very madness made him sacred, but the French government might do something, he grumbled to himself, as he turned away with his sensitive upper lip curling disdainfully.

And as he turned his attention was attracted by a dense crowd clustered closely in a circle round some happening that was hidden from him.

Idly curious he joined the throng, and, he never quite knew how, found himself admitted within the ring of tightly packed natives. And no sooner in than he heartily wished himself out again, cursing the curiosity that had brought him there.

Fanatics again, good Lord! and a pucka holy man this time, displaying for gain the horrible performance that at other seasons of the year was part of his religious observances.

He was surely in for a dose of it today, it seemed. He had heard of the dervishes of the Aissaouia fraternity, and he knew what he had to expect as he stood with his brows knit closely together and his hands plunged deep in his pockets, watching with loathing, the contortions and writhings of the semi-nude figure who, with a couple of thin steel skewers thrust through his cheeks, was standing in a state of frenzy in the middle of the enclosure, his head thrown back, the muscles of his face and throat hideously convulsed, holding a flaming torch to a bare breast that was seamed and scarred with the marks of old burnings and lacerations.

It was the crowning act of the devotees's display, and the performance was almost over.

For a moment or two longer the dervish stood as if in a trance, his half-closed eyes glazing, shivering in ecstasy panting and whining like an animal in torture.

Then he collapsed suddenly, falling prostrate, and an attendant rushed forward to fling a cloak over his twitching, shuddering body. Caryll had seen enough, and more than enough, but to withdraw from the charmed circle was more difficult than to get in.

He forced his way out at last, his whole sensitive being quivering, and turned away, furious with himself.

What on earth had induced him to look at the horrible thing? He might have guessed that there was something foul going on that kept those dirty beggars so quiet and absorbed.

He walked on quickly, but he had only gone a few steps when a hand plucking at his coat sleeve brought him to an abrupt halt. "A guide, m'sieur, you want a guide? I show you all Touggourt, m'sieur. I take you to the cafe maure tonight, M'sieur see the Ouled Nail—the dancing Girls ——" The soft, ingratiating voice with its lisping, broken French grated on his ears, and he turned sharply to face the disreputable, little half caste tout, who was leering at him with an evil smile on his vicious face.

Caryll's nerves, already fretted, were not equal to this further annoyance. "No, confound you, get out!" he snarled, jerking his arm away. But the man was not so easily put off.

Half impudent, half cringing, he followed persistently, talking volubly till the trend of his thinly veiled suggestions brought Caryll round with a swing, his eyes blazing, his face flushing crimson. "Shut up, you filthy little trend of his thinly veiled suggestions blazes!" he shouted wrathfully, unpleasantly aware of the collection of interested and amused spectators who, gathered almost instantaneously, were already pressing forward and hemming them in.

Shouts of encouragement and hoots of derision greeted him as the crowd, following the ways of crowds all the world over, proceeded to take sides in light-hearted ignorance of the cause of the dispute, yelling, gesticulating, swaying this way and that as excitement increased and the personal interest of the two parties rose higher and higher. For a time it was pandemonium. Hustled and flung from side to side, with a dozen hands tearing at him, a score of voices shouting unintelligibly in his ears, Caryll faced the mob in a white heat of fury, loathing the indignity of his position and regretting for the first time his inability to make himself understood.

It was not fear he felt, only anger and a keen sense of humiliation. Had he posssessed only an elementary knowledge of the language, he could have put the matter straight in two minutes. As it was, he was condemned to endure a predicament that was hurting his pride badly. And he wasn't going to stick it much longer, he reflected, his temper rising. He wasn't going to stand here all day like a fool to be shouted at. If there wasn't any other way out of the difficulty, he had a pair of hands, and he could use them, thank the Lord! If something didn't happen in about a minute he'd take his chance and fight his way out, dignity or no dignity, and be damned.

Running his eyes cooly over the sea of excited faces he stood for a moment, bracing himself. But in that moment the hubbub died down suddenly and the crowd around him seemed to drift away, leaving an open space before him.

And the open space was lined with horses forming a lane down which a solitary Arab was striding liesurely. Verging on middle age, tall and distinguished-looking, his grave, bearded face shaded by a snowy haic, his gold embroidered burnous glittering with medals, the stranger, by all outward appearance, was a chief of high standing and the finest specimen of his race that the critical young Englishman had yet seen.

And still somewhat breathless and bewildered, Caryll watched his approach with mingled feelings of resentment and gratitude. But even his resentment was not proof against the courteous apologies that were tendered him. With a quick salaam that was in no way an act of deference but merely the polite greeting of one equal to another, the chief held out his hand.

'Monsiur le Vicomte will accept my excuses, and forgive the rudeness of my countrymen," he said, in a slow, well modulated voice. "These unfortunate contretemps occur sometimes when one is traveling. I have myself been mobbed in Paris," he added, with a faint smile that gave a glimpse of perfect white teeth under the well kept mustache.

There was something more than the assured manner and educated, cultured voice, a something indefinable but indisputably convincing, that made Caryll conscious that, despite the difference of race and color, he was confronting one of his own order, a highly bred as himself and with infinitely more tact and savoir faire.

The serious, kindly eyes that were looking into his made him feel suddenly very young and gauche. And stammering awkwardly, he found himself rather lamely explaining the cause of the disturbance to this friend in need, who had come so promptly to his assistance, and who seemed so perfectly acquainted with his identity.

Did all Touggourt, then, know who he was?

Saint Hubert's words of a few hours ago recurred to him, and the remark appeared more forceful now than then. He was known here, more widely than he had ever suspected. Uninterested himself, he had never imagined for one moment that he could be an object of interest to others. But on object of interest apparently he was; and it was with a feeling of humiliation that he realized that, to these people, his only claim to distinction lay in the fact that he was the son of the famous Ahmed ben Hassan. The thought was a galling one, and kept him very silent while he walked back towards the hotel with his new-found acquaintance, listening to the chief's easy flow of conversation with more deference than he had hitherto shown to any Arab, and wondering what his next move ought to be towards one who, on his own showing, was an intimate friend, not only of the sheik, but of Sanit Hubert, also.

But more aware, probably, of his embarrassment than Caryll was himself, the chief solved the difficulty with the ready tact that had previously distinguished him and, with reiterated expressions of good will and a few courteous words of farewell, cantered off, followed by his train of attendants.

It was with a variety of feelings that Caryll went upstairs to his own room.

The incident of the afternoon had been a shock to him in more ways than one.

Conscious that he had played but a poor part in the wild scuffle in the market place, his pride was still smarting at the recollection of the sorry object he must have appeared in the eyes of the dignified Arab who had come to his rescue.

He was grateful, of course, for an intervention that had saved him from an awkward situation. But deep-rooted resentment was mingled with his gratitude. Despite all his prejudice, despite all his hatred of the race, he was under obligation to an Arab. And that same Arab had forced him to realize what he had determined never to realize, had upset all his preconceived notions and given him food for thought that set his mind in a turmoil.

He did not wish to readjust his ideas. He did not wish to be under an obligation to any Arab.

He was still arguing angrily with himself when he went down some time later to the dining room to eat his solitary dinner.

OLYMPIC

SATURDAY

By Monday morning all Wichita Falls will be talking about that great picture at the Olympic.

DRUSILLA WITH A MILLION

MARY CARR and KENNETH HARLAN

"Drusilla With A Million" At Olympic Today

Elizhbeths Cooper's popular novel, "Drusilla with a Million" is having its first motion picture presentation in this vicinity at the Olympic theatre today, when it begins a four-day run; and it is seldom indeed that such a thoroughly fresh, wholesome and amusing story is projected on the screen. Mingling pathos and comedy with a facile skill that keeps the entertainment mixture always of the right consistency and has the production hitting on all eight the adaptation of Lois Zeller has lost nothing of the charm of the original, and F. Harmon Weighs has again proved himself a director of great ability in catching the subtle shades of human character and interpreting "humanness" to the spectator. Mary Carr, Priscilla Bonner, Kenneth Harlan, Claire Du Bray, and William Humphrey lead the cast, supported by excellent artists of lesser importance and by one of the finest collections of babies ever assembled before the camera. When Druissla, the little old lady who has for years been a slavey and charity patient at a Home, inherits her million she tries to befriend all the orphan babies and children in the world: and right there the fun and trouble begins. "Drusilla with a Million" is an exceptional picture in every sense of the word.

While money will but a lot of things it can't purchase spare parts for your body that are as good as the original equipment.

German Count May Wed American Girl

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Amazement was shown by the family of Count Ernest Gottfried Von Schmettow when they learned an announcement had gained circulation that he was to have been married yesterday to Miss Louisa Fletcher of Indianapolis. It was pointed out that the count is in Sweden while Miss Fletcher left Berlin for London, en route to the United States, yesterday.

It is generally known that the people, introduced at a Berlin house party last spring, have become interested in each other. Several weeks ago word came from Indianapolis that Miss Fletcher's father, Sloughton A. Fletcher, prominently connected with Indianapolis banking and financial circles, had given his consent to the marriage.

THEFT BAND IS BROKEN UP BY DALLAS POLICE

Hardware House Loses Big Amount of Merchandise In Five Years

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—Operations of a band of thieves under the guise of faithful employes is believed by Dallas county officers to have been broken up with the arrest here today of five men employed by a large Dallas hardware house. It was estimated that $30,000 worth of merchandise has been taken from the concern by the men who are declared to nave worked Sundays in the warehouse, delivering truck loads of merchandise to their rendezvous.

No charges have been filed against the men, as the management of the concern hopes to recover as much of the loot as possible. Officers expressed the belief, however, that the bulk of it—stolen over a period of five years or more would probably never be recovered.

Deputy sheriffs who have been working on the case for several weeks, recovered nine shotguns this week valued at $85.

Gets New Thrill From Aviation

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Staff Sergeant V. T. Metz, 40, school squadron, Kelly Field, is the veteran of many airplane flights, but he received a new adventure Thursday night in aerial navigation.

He was returning from the city to the field and had reached the south Laredo street bridge over the Alazan creek when his coupe was struck by a loaded wood truck.

The impact broke the radius rod which controls the steering of an automobile. Unable to stop on the wet street, the coupe veered to the side of the road and hurdled a 10-foot embankment.

Striking a tree, the car somersaulted and landed upside down.

The sergeant crawled from the wreckage unscatched in time to see the truck disappear without stopping.

He Pays Off—But It's All Mistake

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—"Halt!" shouted Motorcycle Officer Cristop Friday morning as he overtook a man after residents had telephoned the police station that a prowler was hanging about the vicinity.

The accosted man paid not the slightest heed to the officer and continued to walk blithely along the street.

The officer leaped from his machine and grasped the man who suddenly wheeled and reached for his hip pocket. Cristop stuck his gun in the man's ribs but the latter completed his "draw" bringing forth a wallet in which were credentials showing that he was deaf and dumb but a well known citizen.

Woman's Body Is Found Under Rocks

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 14. (AP)—Stripped of clothing and wrapped in rugs the body of an unidentified woman, believed to have been murdered, was found buried in a rocky crevice in the hills about two miles north of Blue Water, 75 miles west of Albuquerque Tuesday.

Liberty bonds and rings found near the body furnished the only clue as to possible identity. The bonds of $375 valuation bear the name Mrs. Stella Oliver, San Fernando, Calif. Four rings were in the clothing and on the hands. One ring bears the Masonic monogram with the inscription "Wills Davis No. 2 Lodge, Wichita, Kan."

Turks Curious At Pasha Divorce

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Curiosity concerning the reason for the divorce of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish republic, and his wife, Latife Hanoum, announced yesterday, is not satisfied by the latest reports from Constantinople, but among the rumors is one that it was mutually arranged.

It seems that although divorce is quite as common in Moslem as in Christian countries, the recent modernization of Turkey has not yet altered the custom of treating such matters as the private concern of those immediately affected and no publicity attends a separation.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Lowering themselves head first into the blazing hole through which their companion T. S. Under the leadership of Fire Chief J. G. Sarran, Truss and his companions were on the roof battling the flames when a portion of it gave way.

Fall Broken.

Truss plunged into the inferno, his fall being broken by the ceiling of the building.

Instantly two of his companions were lowered into the aperture while their feet were held by others. Grasping the falling Truss they dragged him back to safety.

With a brief word of gratitude, Truss returned to his post despite his burns and bruises.

Negro Physician Tarred, Feathered

HOUSTON, Aug. 14.—No trace of three men who tarred and feathered Doctor R. Ward, negro dentist, Monday night, had been found by police or officials of the district attorney's office today. Ward is recovering from acid burns which he received on his hands at the time.

Ward said he was called to a number on Ruthven street at 9 p. m. Monday but that when he arrived he was told it was a mistake, that he had not been called. As he returned to his car three white men, with their faces blacked, approached and compelled him to get in anthoer automobile, he said.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Excellent grazing grounds afforded by good rains recently all the way from Kerrville to Phoenix, with few cattle of the land will be one of the best things to boost the price of cattle that has happened to the industry for several years, according to an opinion expressed by Walton D. WATER-SUPPLY QUESTION UP IN FREDERICK

Bond Issue to Prove For New Water Supply Is Likely

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 14.—Need of immediate steps to provide a larger water supply for Frederick, together with a much greater storage capacity than the water system has at present was presented to the city members at their meeting this week by J. D. Moore, councilman of the water and light committee.

It was emphasized by Moore that the city had the last month used such a volume of water as to almost exhaust its reserves and to show that with the constant increase in population, additional supply and reserve would be absolutely imperative by next summer.

It is suggested that the sinking of additional wells and the building of a reservoir of 750,000 gallon capacity. The capacity of the storage reservoir the city now has is 300,000 gallons.

Construction of such a system would involve a bend issue and a committee is now seeking definite costs to report to the city council for immediate action of the matter.

Legion Post Has A Real Veteran

SALEM, Ore.—Capitol post No. 9 of the American Legion has an active member, Maurice Packer, a French orphan, who joined the American army in France in December, 1917, when he was 10 years old.

The 162nd infantry adopted Packer and to avoid technicalities his name was placed formally on the muster roll. When the outfit was in action he was left with French families back of the lines.

Wearing three service stripes, indicative of 18 months' service overseas, the boy was discharged at Camp Lewis, Wash., April 16, 1919. Thus he was entitled to full membership in the legion. An experienced bugler, he has joined the drum and bugle corps of the post.

Texans Are Beaten

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Kinsey brothers, Howard and Hobert, today reached the final round of both singles and doubles in the Southampton invitation tennis tournament. The former tomorrow meets George Lott of Chicago in an effort to gain his second leg on the challenge trophy and both will play for the doubles championship against Lott and Brian I. C. Norton of St. Louis.

The semi-final round of the singles today, Howard Kinsey eliminated Norton in straight sets, 10-8, 6-1, while Lott disposed of Cedric Major of New York, rather easily, 6-0, 6-3.

In the doubles semi-final, the Kinsey brothers, playing magnificent tennis overwhelmed Louis Thalheimer and Lewis White of Texas in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. For the first time this season, Bob Kinsey flashed the tennis that has stamped him one of the greatest doubles players in America. His superb volleying and court generalship was mainly responsible for the defeat of the speedy Texans.

new record will be established in railroad construction when the permit is issued. They expect to lay the entire distance of 200 miles within 12 months. The new road has no real engineering difficulties to encounter and will open the shortest and most direct one-line haul into Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Dallas.

MORE CONSTRUCTION IN PANHANDLE TO START

CHILDRESS, Aug. 14—More railroad construction in the Panhandle is to start soon provided permission is granted by the interstate commerce commission. The newest line is the childress Panhandle and Oklahoma railway, which will be built from Childress, through Wellington, Shamrock, Wheeler, Mobeetie, Canadian to a point in Beaver county, Okla.

Crew Sunday

The surveying crew will be in Childress Sunday and actual work of starting the survey will begin Monday morning. The length of this road will be slightly less than 200 miles and will traverse one of the richest undeveloped sections in America. At present the entire territory is without a direct one line haul into Dallas and Fort Worth.

The road will run through a rich wheat growing section also cattle, swine and the great oil and gas field of Wheeler county.

Procide for Camp

The surveying crew will number more than 20 men and full camping facilities have been provided.

The movement for construction of this road began three years ago by prominent citizens of Childress, Wheeler, Mobeetie, Wellington and Canadian. Ample funds have been provided to completel the survey, which will be finished within six months.

Union Clothiers Open New Wichita Falls Store Today

The Union Clothing company opens its door today for its grand opening at 614 Eighth street and in so doing gives Wichita Falls another high-class reputable credit clothing store. In deference to the opening many sale values in women's and men's clothing will be presented today at prices considerably below the usual offerings.

The store will be run on the credit basis entirely—buy your clothes now and pay as you will, by the week, every two weeks, or by the month. The store is also trying to eliminate the usual red tape connected with such transactions and assures buyers that they will make the credit plan much the easiest way for them to do their buying.

The proprietors of the store have had several years experience in the clothing business and believe that their new place at 614 Eighth street fills a long felt need in this city.

JAPAN WINS.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Japan took the lead in the second day's play of the preliminary Davis cup matches at the Baltimore country club today when Takeichi Harada, brilliant young Nipponeze, and his captain, Zenzo Shimizu, pulled out of a gruelling five set victory over Manuel and Jose Alonzo of Spain. The scores were 6-2, 6-3, 2-6, 8-10, 6-3.

Japan now needs but one victory in the two singles contest tomorrow to insure a meeting with the Australians in the third round of the competition.

C-C HEAD ELECTED

EAGLE PASS, Aug. 14.—George C. Hollis of Eagle Pass, was elected president of the Winter Garden chamber of commerce in annual session here today. F. B. Harris, secretary of the Eagle Pass chamber of commerce, was elected secretary. Five counties are included in the district.

BODY IS FOUND

BEAUMONT, Aug. 14.—The body of an unidentified man about 35 years of age was found on the Kansas City Southern tracks near Vidor, about six miles east of here today. The only thing found on the body which may lead to identification was a purchase slip made out to "Mr. Sampley."

Wyoming Is First Ice-Shod State

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo.—In the opinion of C. J. Harris, of Denver, a noted oil geologist, Wyoming was the first section of the country to be covered by the great ice sheet which ages ago surged down from the north.

He considers that the glaciation of Wyoming occurred in the mid-tertiary period, whereas the ice sheets filled the west of the country in Pleistocene age. The glaciation of Wyoming was millions of years before the present great rivers of the Rocky mountain region began to flow.

"Two centuries of tertiary glaciation in Wyoming are known," Mr. Hares reported to western scientific bodies. "The ice must have been approximately 3,000 feet thick and it probably moved forward at the rate of three feet a year, taking more than 200,000 years to spread over the central and southern part of the state, where it left its most apparent traces.

"The teritary glaciation undoubtedly occupied a very long time in geologic history. It marks a profound change in the climatic conditions of that period."

British Mint Has Master Craftsmen

LONDON—(AP)—The claim is made that the British mint on Tower Hill where all the British and many of the foreign countries' coins are made, contains the finest craftsmen in the world. The mint has just completed an order for Poland comprising about 20,000,000 coins. Last year it coined a large order for Russia and minted a number of gold coins for Egypt. It now has an order on hand for Lithuania to the value of $58,000.

Copper coins can be turned out at a great rate, and in the case of silver coins, where much greater care is needed, as many as seven millions have been produced in one week. The designs on coins made at the mint are said to stand out more clearly than on those produced in other countries, and the dies are made from designs submitted.

Rats Prove to Be Blessing in Deep Pennsylvania Mine

WILKESBARRE, Pa.— (AP) — Rats in the anthracite coal mines on many occasions have demonstrated that they are friends of the miners in giving them warning of approaching danger. A recent instance occurred in the Empire colliery.

Anthony Kopnski and his son while eating lunch were attracted by the peculiar actions of two rats which continually annoyed them. Five times they drove the rats away by throwing pieces of coal at them, but each time the rodents returned. This aroused the suspicions of the elder Kopnski, who, directing his son to follow him, went out of the pit.

They had proceeded only about 20 feet when the roof crashed in, bringing down such a mass of coal and rock that would require three weeks to remove it.

The ability of the rats to warn the miners of approaching danger has resulted in many of the men making pets of them. The average miner hesitates to kill a rat, especially if he is working in a chamber where caves are likely to occur or where there is bad air or gas.

FLIGHT CONTINUES

MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Commander De Pinedo, the Italian aviator, has completed another leg of his flight from Italy to Japan. He arrived here today from Thursday Island, some 200 miles to the south, off the northern coast of Queensland.

KNOB KNOCKERS BUSY

Robber Aggravated When Life Is Saved

BERLIN.—Otto Leest, murderer and robber, was highly indignant recently when German officials refused to "chop his head off," and instead commuted his death sentence to life imprisonment. He also berated the lawyer who saved his neck He has no choice now, however, but to keep his head on for a commutation represents a soverign act and may not be annulled.

Leest had previously waived the right of appeal and insisted on being executed. In the meantime, and unknown to him, his counsel had petitioned for commutation, which was granted. The moment Leest heard of the change in sentence he became very much incensed and immediately wrote the following petition to the minister of justice:

"I won't accept this pardon and insist on having my head chopped off under all circumstances. It is I who have the right to decide about myself and not my lawyer. He is altogether to officious."

Sailors Entertained Despite Cold Wave

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The wintry weather prevailing today did not prevent the sailors from the American fleet visiting here from enjoying the round of festivities held in their honor.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander in chief of the United States fleet, and his officers attended a luncheon today at the New Zealand. Later they attended a reception at the English speaking union, at which Admiral Coontz, Rear Admiral Cole and Sir Francis Bell, attorney general of New Zealand, exchanged felicitations on the unity and friendships which bind together the English speaking peoples.

Mrs. Coontz was presented with a rug which was an exact duplicate of one given to the Prince of Wales when he visited here in 1920.

Contains only Government inspected meats seasoned with spices and Eagle Chili Powder. Prepared in a spotless, sun-lit kitchen. Most good grocers sell and recommend it. One trial will convince.

Smith Lines Up To Fight Hylan

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Promising to stump every borough of New York, Governor Smith has thrown his weight with the Tammany orces in their efort to prevent a third term nomination for Mayor Hylan.

Addressing two closed meetings at the "wigwam" yesterday the governor said he would "take off his coat" to elect State Senator James J. Walker and the whole Tammany slate.

"I came to New York as a member of the organization and as a private citizen," he said, "to display my interest in what is going on in the city in which I live."

At the night meeting of Tammany leaders and candidates a speakers' bureau was organized for the first time since the primary law became effective.

Wool Business Is Holding Up Well

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

There is more business being done on Summer Street, although it is not generally distributed. Several of the larger worsted mills have been buying wool rather keenly, however, especially of Australian merinos. Some sales of domestic territory and fleece wools also have been made, mostly at prices which show perhaps a cent a pound reduction over last week. The trade is feeling more optimistic over the increased business which evidently reflects much better business in the goods market and especially in worsted lines.

There is little change in the foreign markets for the week.

Mohair is dull and prices no more than nominal. Quotations:

Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months selected, $1.30; fine 8 months $1.15@1.20.

CHAPLAIN OVERWORKED.

Complete Rest Only Thing Needed for Film Comedian.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Charles Chaplain is suffering from heart trouble superinduced by overwork and his terious trip from the Pacific coast to supervise the presentation of his latest film.

This is the diagnosis by his personal friend and physician, Dr. James B. McKenzie, of the illness which is keeping the famous comedian to his suite at the Ritz Carlton. Dr. McKenzie believes Chaplain's condition is improving and that he will be up in a day or two.

Governor Dismisses Conservation Commissioner for Insubordination

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Charging that he had violated a legal opinion in granting trapping privileges on two wild life refuges donated to the state by the Russell Sage and the Rockefeller foundations, Governor Henry L. Fuqua today summarily dismissed from office W. J. Everett, state conservation commissioner, whose requested resignation was to have taken effect tomorrow. Dr. V. K. Irion, Everett's successor, immediately took charge of the department.

10 YEARS TO LIFE FOR TWO KIDNAPERS

Men Alleged to Have Planned Pickford Escapade Convicted

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Ten years to life imprisonment for plotting to kidnap Mary Pickford faced Claude Holcombe and Charles Z. Stephens today as a result of their conviction in superior court last night.

A third defendant, Adrian Wood, was acquitted, but did not escape a warning from several jurors who, as they left the court room, after returning the verdict, told him he 'did not realize how close he came" and to be "more careful about his associates in future."

Mary Not Here.

Neither Miss Pickford nor her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, was present when the defendants heard their fate. Both had testified during the trial that they knew nothing of the kidnaping plot save what detectives told them.

Sentence was to be pronounced on Holcombe and Stephens today, but defense counsel indicated a new trial would be asked.

The three defendants were arrested May 30, after six weeks of police investigation. Detectives declared they had listened in on conferences at which the trio talked of kidnaping Jackie Coogan, Baby Peggy, the grand children of E. L. Doheny, Pola Negri and finally Mary Pickford. Purported confessions obtained from the three prisoners corroborated these charges.

11 Killed In Train Wreck at Amiens

AMIENS, France, Aug. 14.—(AP) Eleven persons were killed and 160 injured in last night's railway disaster when a crowded Paris-Calais express of 20 coaches of merrymakers bound for the seashore piled up and burst into flames just as it swept into the Amiens station.

The train is said to have been going 60 miles an hour instead of having slowed up outside the station as the rules require. The passengers were mostly in the third class sections and so far as is known no Americans were among the dead or injured. The engineer, for unknown reasons, jammed on the brakes while the train was going at high speed. The baggage car was derailed, seven of the forward third class cars were telescoped and the remaining cars topled on their sides.

MEXICO CITY DOES HONOR TO SANTONE MEN

Mayor and Pary Banqueted In Lavis Fashion In Capitol

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14.—The entire city administration acted as hosts last night at a banquet in honor of Mayor John Tobin, of San Antonio, W. M. McIntosh, business manager of the San Antonio Light, Alexandro P. Carillo, Mexican consul general there and their wives.

The affair was conducted in picturesque Xochimilco, known as the "Venice of the Americas," where Mexico City secures its supply of flowers.

Amid scenes of primitive Indian life, Mayor Tobin's party was entertained on one of the huge rafts, upon which the natives have their famous flowers and vegetables.

Members of Mexico City's adminis trative body made speeches in which they stressed the awakening of a new understanding between the United States and Mexico and some of the far-reaching results which would react from Mayor Tobin's visit.

More Truth Than Poetry

A SECOND CAREER

When a fighter gets licked, over here,
As fighters quite frequently do,
He closes his fistic career
And fades from the popular view.
The public applauds, with tumultuous acclaim,
A fellow more husky and clever,
And the chap who once walloped in glory and fame
Departs from the limelight forever.

But in France, when a pugilist's swing
Has lost the old punch that it had,
And he gives up his place in the ring
To a younger and likelier lad,
He doesn't sink into the depths of despair—
Or resign all his hope and ambition,
But continues to bask in publicity's glare—
In the role of a great politician.

He still has enough of a punch
To cow, with a jab or a jolt,
A stubborn refractory bunch
Of voters who threaten to bolt.
With the record he's made he can still keep a grip
On a remnant of public affection,
Which helps him a lot in a campaigning trip
On the eve of a local election.

And when he is honored with place,
And sits in the halls of the state—
His battered belligerent face
Will be worth many hours of debate.
And if, with the tricks that he learned in the ring,
He makes real return for his salary—
His method of serving his country will bring
All Paris to sit in the gallery.

Spudders Make It Two Straight From Beaumont With 8 To 5 Win

MARTIN HOLDS FOE IN CHECK IN FIRST TRY

He Relieves Winters in The Seventh and Gets Credit For Victory

By MACK TURNER.

Patty Martin went to the relief of Jess Winters in the seventh in time to win his first start in a Spudder uniform Friday afternoon at Spudder Park when the locals took their second straight from Beaumont, 8 to 5. Bubber Jonnard was a great factor in the game. He got n less than two doubles, a single and a walk for a perfect daily average. Five double killings were the fielding features of the day; three were by Beaumont and the final pair by the Spudders.

Winters was freely tapped all along the way but when hits meant runs Beaumont was unable to meet his slants for base knocks. But in the fifth and sixth the tall lad's offerings were touched for five runs. Martin then went to the hillock and faced nine men. Skipper Woehrs, Beaumont manager, collected the only hit, a single to left. Martin also whiffed four out of the nine Beaumonters.

Cal Is Sick.

Marty Callaghan, the young gent that produced the scoring punch in the long game Thursday was out of the lineup and in the sheets with a sore throat. He will be out for some time. During his absence from the game, Skipper Tanner isin left field.

The Shippers scored three runs in the fifth canto. Graham sent a hot single to right. Pirtle walked. Ormand sacrificed them, Winters to Bodie. Durning lined one to right and was safe at first when Metzler tried to get the ball away too fast. Graham scored. Taylor singled through the box and took an extra base on Williams' error in center. Pirtle scoring and Durning halting at third. Metzler went far back in deep right to take Harry Schwab's long drive, Durning scoring after the catch.

The Spudders came back in their half of the fifth with four scored and took a one-run lead. Dorman stopped at second when Johnston dropped his fly ball in right center. Jonnard smashed a double down the third base line, but the coacher held Dorman at third. Winters walked, filling the bags. Metzler crashed a hot double down the left field foul line, scoring Dorman, Jonnard and Winters. Metzler took third on a wild pitch. Williams shot a single through Devivero and Metzler spiked the rubber.

In Lead Again.

The Beaumonters took the lead again in the sixth. Johnston walked. Metz singled through the box. Graham attempted to sacrifice and sent up an easy fly to Bodie. Pirtle crossed up the Spuds with a hot single down the left field line and took second when Tanner fumbled the ball. Johnston scored and Metz took third. Tanner made a nice catch of Ormand's long fly to left but Metz scored after the catch.

The Spudders knotted the count again in the sixth. Tanner went out, exact to first. Dorman walked and took third on Bubber Jonnard's second double against the left field wall. Martin sacrificed, third to first. Metzler walked, filling the bags. Distel singled passed short scoring Dorman and Jonnard and sending Metzler to third. Williams fified to center. Metzler scored after the catch.

One More Month

FORT WORTH, Aug. 14.—One month from Thursday and the 1925 Texas league season will be over. On September 13 the season closes. The Southern association will end its season on September 20, one week later, and then the annual Dixie series will be held.

Fort Worth has some 35 games to go, 18 at home and 17 on the road. The Panthers have five more games with the Buffs, three in Fort Worth and two at Houston. Houston is the only club in the league Fort Worth has been unable to defeat regularly this year and is pressing the Panthers for first honors.

Cats Maul Cub Hurlers; Champs Win By 11 to 4

FORT WORTH, Aug. 14.—"Bad News" Jim Galloway cracked out a home run with two men on base in the third inning Friday afternoon, to put the Cubs in the lead in the second game of the series, but he certainly caused Lyle and Gould, Waco's heavers to suffer for it the rest of the afternoon. The cut unleashed a steady dribble of base drives and all during the rest of the afternoon had little difficulty in chasing over runs, the result being a 11 to 4 victory for the champions and evening up the series at 1-all.

The PASSING HOUR

~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

A THOUGHT

Little's worth while we do not win
By bitter struggle, day by day —
Life's narrow fairways are hemmed in
And keeping straight's the way to play;
But once you gain the goal you sought—
Once you have risen from the ruck—
You'll hear the crowd say that you wrought
All that you did by sheer good luck.

What matters what the world may say
So long as in your heart you know
You kept ahead and plugged away
And by that plugging made it so?
There is no luck—let envious heart
Say that it helped you day and night:
You know who struggled from the strat
That nothing's won without a fight.

WITH the 1925 season well on its last lap, John H. Heydler, president of the National league, was moved to comment on some of the outstanding phases of the pennant race, runs World interview with the loop boss. Mr. Heydler was moved to comment on the outstanding phases of the races because he believed he could get it printed and anything in print is publicity.

YOU can get Mr. Heydler to comment in news print on outstanding features of the race in April, May, June, July, August, September and October, and on last year's and next year's races in November, December, January, February and March.

ALSO Ban B. Johnson, Keneshaw M. Ladis, J. Doak Roberts, et al.

ALSO if you will print it you can get them to talk on golf, tennis and the peach crop in Baluchistan.

The Barefooted Girl.

A WHILE back these passant moments commented upon the fact that Elizabeth Ryan beat the purely metaphorical socks off Little Miss Poker Face. In turning the trick, the quondam Californian—now referred to as the "Angelized American"—appears to have taken her boots off to do the work.

Miss Ryan appeared on the court with two sweaters and two pairs of shoes, the crtical reviewers tell us. In warming up to her two-set victory over Helen Wills she shed both sweaters and after experimenting with both pairs of shoes, she kicked them both aside and finished the match in her stocking feet.

The bare-footed Berserker may have shocked the staid tennis stands but the more one reflects on the action, the more approval it deserves. Nature made man, male and female she made him, to cover ground with the bare pedals. Elizabeth appears to have reverted back to nature and found the going comfortable and her game better.

All the world asks though is an example. Next year's tennis styles will call in all probability for a perfect display of the corns in action. Especially if Elizabeth Ryan romps through the women's championship this year as she just has the Seabright invitation.

SPECTATOR sues the Cards for being hit by one of Jim Bottomley's home runs. Colonel Rupert would like to be sued this year by 59 gents hit by Babe Ruth's homers.

SYNDICATES are having a tough year. Bill Tilden can play and can't write. Babe Ruth can write and can't play.

WHAT the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina now is ancient history, but it would take an imaginative reporter to frame a conversation on what Ma said to Knute and Knute to Ma.

THERE are few fellows in the sport world that have not a jinx opponent. Nearly every batter has on his list some lad that nearly anybody else can beat but who has an edge on him—and he sidesteps them. It runs true through all the gamut of sport and football teams are certainly no exception to the rule.

The Texas Longhorns of late years have found their bete noir in Baylor. The Bears with an inferior team and a poorer season record tied and almost defeated the best grid combination the Orange has had in years and last season with a better team gave Stewart's men the worst licking they had ever had.

Baylor, on the other hand, found S. M. U. a stumbling block. The Mustangs defeated a team Bridges still thinks could beat them any day in the week in 1923 and last year Morrison's veterans clouded the Bears conference tilt with a tie. S. M. U. has also been a jinx for the Aggies and Bible's men have in three years lost to them twice and tied them once. Baylor two years in succession has wrecked the most brilliant prospects Arkansas has uncovered.

Texas is usually a jinx for Rice and a big feather in John Heisman's cap last year was his win over the off-year of the Longhorns. Rice is another Aggie upset and twice has supplied the section its biggest surprises when the Owls beat the Farmers.

It is a peculiar working out of the psychlogy of athletics but the jinx opposition is always present.

CHICAGO mayor is peered at report of one murder per day. Isn't the average fast enough?

Not Necessarily.

EDITORIALLY expression in Fort Worth assumes that because six clubs voted to permit Beaumont to sell Stewart Jacobs to the Buffs, six clubs are against the Ats in the pennant race. You must bear in mind that the league sets a time limit on deals between clubs and after it is over, the consent of a majority must be gained to permit an exchange.

Considering that it was Dallas and Fort Worth that voted against the move, the more logical belief is that the three clubs outside of Houston and Beaumont involved figured they had little chance in the pennant race and were willing to pass anything to help along two clubs that needed assistance—Houston with a riddled pitching staff and Beaumont in need of money. A safe guess is that if Pate or Johns went to the hospital tomorrow, they would vote to help Fort Worth, too.

But part of the gate earning power of the queer complication that is called organized baseball is the belief of a pennant winning public that the hand of every man is against their alleged representative ball club.

Little Innovation.

SERIOUSLY, it comes to mind that interest might be lent the career of the world's greatest tennis trophy if a provision were inserted denying to its defense the personnel of the team that succeeded in winning it.

urely the competing nations can find outside of their best pair two players—and two who are all that are really necessary—to defend the cup.

Surely the competing nations can cup defense as has been contributed by the successful regimes, first of the Dohertys of England, then of Brooke and Wilding and more recently of Tilden and Johnston, would then be lost but there would be a lot more of interest in the annual Davis cup assault for the invading nations.

As it is nowadays, the challenge round might as well be allowed to go by default until the defending team gets superannuated. The next time we lose the Davis cup will be when Bill Tilden has begun to slip—or has been legislated off the playing field.

The lively ball may cause the scores
The batters run up every day,
But the sturdy batsman still deplores
The time the Vances blaze away—
Good pitching still the striker floors—
Bad pitching finds the deuce to pay.

Young Couple In New York Starve In Roaring 40s

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Starving in the midst of plenty and while others feasted in the gay night clubs nearby Joseph Martin and his pretty 23-year-old wife, Ethel, of Philadelphia, appealed to police early today after they had been without food for nearly three days.

Mrs. Martin collapsed on the steps of the Hippodrome in the "roaring forties." Both were drenched by rain and said they had slept in parks at night after vainly seeking work during the day.

Mrs. Martin was seized with violent cramps induced by starvation after officers had fed her a small quantity of milk. She was taken to a hospital. Martin, after being given stimulants, devoured ham and eggs, his first real meal in a week. Cab drivers took up a collection for the couple. Martin said he recently lost a well-paying job as a mechanic.

Kerns Makes A Doubtful Peace With Commission

Has Until Tuesday to Post $25,000 for Match With Wills

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today demanded a certified check for $25,000 from Jack Kearns as an evidence of his good faith before it would recognize any contract signed by him binding Jack Dempsey to a title match with Harry Wills. This ruling was made by the commission when Kearns applied for reinstatement for an eligibility ban placed against him when he ignored a recent request from the board that he accept, on behalf of Dempsey, a challenge hurled at the champion by the negro heavyweight.

Given Until Tuesday.

Kearns did not have his check book with him today when he went to the commission offices and the boxing solons agreed to allow him until next Tuesday to sign the contract and post the forfeit. Until that time his status with the commission remains the same ineligible. And until that ban is lifted the commission will not recognize him as Mickey Walker's manager.

Again, the commission postponed action against Mickey Walker when Kearns told the board he would have Walker sign a contract to meet Dave Shade of California before midnight tomorrow. Chairman James A. Farley said that the time limit for Walker to sign for the match expires at midnight tomorrow and unless that contract is received before that time, Walker will find himself suspended at next Tuesday's meeting.

Kearns made his peace with the commission but he didn't win his elimination from the black list. He was prepared to sign for Dempsey to meet Wills and Walker to meet Shade, as he previously announced, but the lack of the $25,000 prevented him from doing the former and his own ineligibility halted any action in Walker's behalf.

BANKER'S WIFE DIES FRIDAY AT N. Y. HOME

Sleeping Sickness Attack Is Fatal at Noon for Mrs. J. P. Morgan

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Aug. 14. (AP)—Mrs. J. P. Morgan, wife of the international banker died at noon today in her Long Island home from a "cardiac collapse" after being ill of sleeping sickness for two months.

No relatives were at the bedside. Mr. Morgan, informed at his Wall street office that his wife was very ill, left before noon by train for Glen Cove. He was met at the station and rushed by automobile to the Morgan country home at Matinecock Point on East Island which lies a short distance off the mainland of Long Island. He reached his home three hours after his wife's death.

Home To Be Guarded

Guards were at once stationed at the causeway connecting East Island with Long Island and none but relatives and close friends of the family were allowed to approach the home. A doctor and two attendants were at the bedside today when Mrs. Morgan suffered the cardiac collapse.

Mrs. Morgan was stricken with sleeping sickness July 14 while attending church services. Several days later it was announced she had passed the crisis and was steadily improving, but she never entirely emerged from a state of coma.

Specialists Attend.

A corps of specialists attended her following her attack and Dr. J. J. Tierney, chief physician in charge, several times used blood transfusions in an attempt to renew the patients' strength. He also resorted to forcible feeding. Mrs. Morgan, who for years has been a virtual invalid suffering from heart trouble, lost ground after the first rally from her attack.

After Mr. Morgan's arrival at his home, a statement by the attending physicians was issued from the Wall street offices of Morgan and company.

Important Picture Treasure Found

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Father J. J. Hartman, chaplain of St. Anthony's orphanage, has found what he believes to be one of the most important art discoveries of America or Europe in recent years, a life-size painting of Christ in a Catholic mission church at the Indian pueblo of Isleta, near here.

Father Hartman has seen the most noted paintings of Christ all over the world, and he considers the work in the mission church the most perfect he has studied. The picture is partly in relief, and the color harmony is remarkable.

He believes the painting to be the Byzantine era, preceding any of the European schools. The name of the artist is not known. Father Hartman is of the opinion that the painting was brough to the Isleta mission by early padres who accompanied Spanish conquistadores on their thips of conquest through New Mexico. The mission church is about 300 years old.

The picture has been temporarily removed from the church because of its great value until permanent arrangements for its keeping can be made.
