Fulton seeks HUD grant

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

FULTON — Representatives of Triad Engineering of Austin appeared before the town council Tuesday evening, Sept. 13, to explain the council's alternatives in applying for a grant for a wastewater treatment facility.

Ray Dunlap and Garabed Harutunian of Triad Engineering, a civil, mechanical and electrical engineering firm, told council members there are basically two routes to choose from when making application for a grant of this type.

One alternative is to apply to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), Texas Community Development Program. Triad would draw up a comprehensive planning study, which would not only include study of a wastewater treatment plant, but also street improvements, drainage, collection systems and water lines. All of this material could then be used in future grant applications.

The HUD grant will pay up to 100 percent of the cost of the study (up to a maximum of $25,000), which will be used to pay Triad for the cost of the study. Fulton will pay travel expenses for representatives of the firm to be present during the two required public hearings concerning grant application.

Once the study has been done and paid for with a HUD grant, the Town of Fulton can then submit plans for a wastewater treatment facility. HUD may then approve Fulton's grant application for up to 100 percent of the cost of constructing that facility. Triad representatives said that it is likely the town will receive grant funds in portions, rather that one lump sum to cover the whole project.

The second alternative, one which Triad representatives said is much more difficult, is to apply to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for the grant. However, they said, the EPA application is much more complex and the town's chances of receiving grant funds are considerably less than with HUD. In addition, EPA pays a maximum of 75 percent of the construction cost.

The engineers said that the next deadline for a HUD grant application is Dec. 1, and that they could have a comprehensive plan ready by that time.

A motion by Alderman Elgin Dietz and seconded by Alderwoman Pat Loflin to allow Triad to begin work on the study was unanimously approved by the council.

Royce Harrell, fire chief of the Fulton Volunteer Fire Department, asked the Fulton council for financial support for construction and remodeling of the Fulton Fire Station.

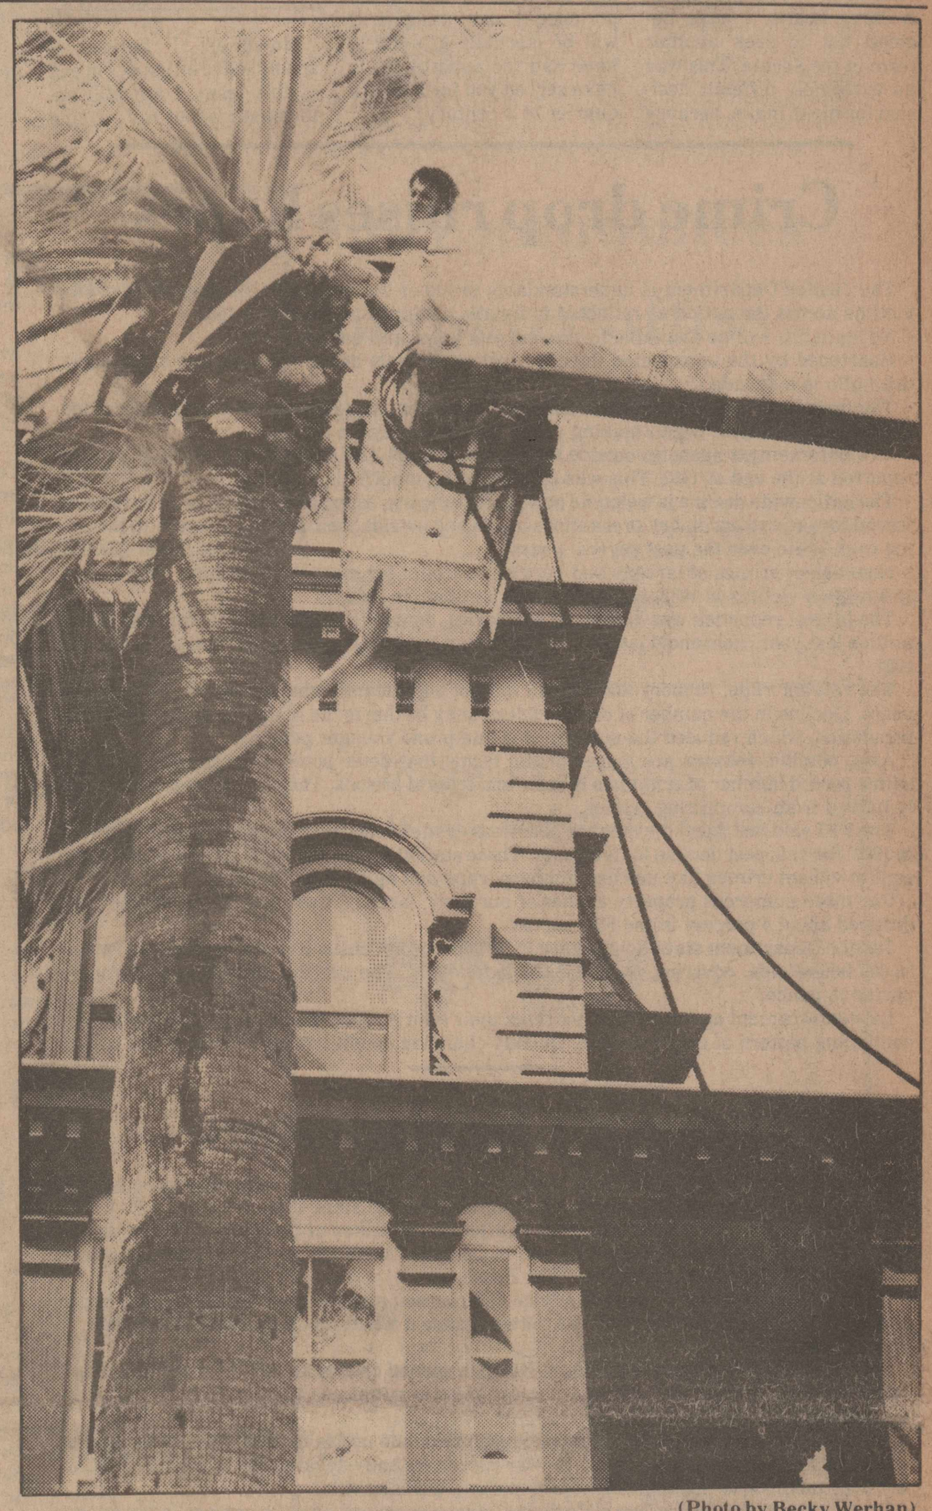

Harrell said that the work will be done by Reuel Yarbrough and will cost $25,000. He said that the fire department plans to send out letters asking for donations but that the financial help of the council is needed.

The Town of Fulton owns the building which houses the fire station and leases it to the fire department.

Council members approved a motion to table the request until attorney Gene Garcia has a chance to examine the council's responsibility with respect to the lease. He said he will have an answer for council members at the next meeting.

The council has $2,000 budgeted in the proposed 1983-84 budget for subsidy of the fire department.

Zoning ordinance hearing

Mobile homes on single lots questioned

By PAT BLAIR
Managing editor

A question of whether double-wide or larger mobile homes should be allowed on single lots inside Rockport's city limits sparked a debate that took up most of an hour-long public hearing on the city's proposed new zoning ordinance Tuesday night.

As finally accepted by the city council for consideration for adoption in a later meeting, the zoning ordinance now provides for location on individual lots in the city of a "manufactured or modular home" 24 feet or more in width, provided the structure has a "house-type exterior," is on a permanent foundation and has "approved skirting." Once the structure meets these requirements, a special use permit must be obtained from the planning and zoning commission.

Debate on the subject began during a joint public hearing of the council and P&Z commission that started at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall. Barbara Armstrong, acting in the absence of P&Z Chairman Jack Guillett who was late arriving at the meeting, told the council the provision in the existing zoning ordinance allowing double-wide mobile homes 24 feet wide to be located on individual lots in the city had been changed in the proposed new ordinance.

Armstrong said under the new ordinance, mobile homes would be allowed on individual lots provided they met 1976 federal construction standards and the square footage requirement of the zone in which they were to be located. Under any circumstances, Armstrong said, the mobile home could not be located on a lot unless a special use permit was issued by the P&Z board.

She pointed out mobile homes now come in 22, 26, 28 and even triple-wide widths and said such triple-wide units would be prohibited under the existing zoning ordinance. She emphasized the P&Z commission did not make the requirements for locating a mobile home on an individual lot "any easier" but that the proposed change was to meet changes in the mobile home industry which have been "appreciable, even in the last five years."

City council members questioned whether mobile homes should be allowed on individual lots in the city.

At one point, Alderwoman Betty Jean Ward said, "I'm not discriminating against mobile homes,but are we (the city council) down the line going to have to contend with a bunch of unhappy people because we allowed a mobile home in their neighborhood?"

Upon a request by Rockport Mayor Burt Mills for comments from the audience, former Rockport mayor and city realtor Delmar Hiller said, "I think the city is better off restricting mobile homes to mobile home parks and subdivisions."

Hiller later, in response to a question from Alderman Richard Beck, made a distinction between mobile homes and manufactured housing: "As long as it (manufactured housing) meets city building codes, it should be allowed," he said.

Rockport resident J. C. Harlan, expressing his views on the matter, said, "I'd much rather see mobile homes scattered all over Rockport than see something like Nautical Towers."

Another member of the audience, a representative from the Coastal Bend Council of Governments who worked with the P&Z board during preparation of the proposed new zoning ordinance, at one point told the council

Requests for city services, dredge funds receive council approval

Requests for city services to a proposed new mobile home park just outside Rockport and for the city's participation in dredging and bulkheading of Blevins Channel were approved during the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday night, Sept. 13.

The meeting followed a public hearing opened briefly at 7:45 p.m. on Allied Live Oak Bank's petition for annexation into the city. No comments for or against the measure were voiced during the short second hearing. The council will consider annexing the property in a later meeting.

The request for services to the proposed mobile home park came from Cecil Phelps who told the council he is preparing for development of a 45-acre tract north of Enterprise Blvd. Phelps said the first phase of the development will be a park but that he plans an eventual mobile home subdivision on a portion of the acreage, with the lots to be offered for sale.

At Tuesday's meeting, he submitted a letter expressing an intent to request annexation at a later date and asked the city to provide water, sanitary sewer and garbage service to the development.

In separate motions, the council accepted the letter of intent and agreed to provide the city services.

The city took no action on a related request by Phelps to purchase a 2.066-acre tract owned by the city in that area. In order to sell the tract, the city would have to quitclaim the land and advertise for bids on it. Phelps said he had retracted his original offer; in its place, he announced his interest in bidding on the land if the city decided to quitclaim the tract.

Aransas County Navigation District Commissioner Hal McKnight presented the ACND's request for the city's financial participation in dredging and bulkheading Blevins Channel which connects Aransas and Little Bay at the Key Allegro bridge.

McKnight said the project was expected to cost approximately $25,000 with the city being asked to pay $5,000. He said the ACND will pay $5,000 and the remaining monies will come from Key Allegro Development, Allegro North and the Key Allegro Property Owners Association, $5,000 each, plus $2,500 from Harbor Oaks.

In answer to a question from Rockport Mayor Burt Mills, McKnight said the county had not been asked to help fund the project.

Mills observed, "The city of Rockport is more than willing to help in this project up to the $5,000, but I think the county should be approached." He pointed out to McKnight that the project is entirely in the county.

Alderman W. B. Allen moved that the city participate in the project up to the $5,000 requested. The motion was seconded by Alderman Richard Beck and adopted 4-0.

The council approved subject to receipt of a letter of assurance a request from Rockport Country Club Inc. relating to the corporation's payment of off-site drainage fees to the city.

Under a drainage plan adopted by the city last April 25, RCC Inc. owes the city $320,650 to fund drainage facilities for development of its Rockport Country Club Estates project.

In a letter presented to the council Tuesday, RCC Inc. proposes to make an immediate cash payment to the city of $35,000 with the remaining $285,650 in a subordinate lien with payment to be made as lots in the RCC Estates Unit 2 are sold.

Mills said the council would be willing to accept the agreement if the city receives a confirming letter from RCC's financial agent. Upon being assured by Delmar Hiller, general manager of the development, that such a letter is forthcoming, the council approved the agreement contingent on the letter's receipt.

The council approved a request by Linard F. Day Jr., tabled at last month's council session, for a special use permit to allow construction of a private fishing pier adjacent to 1401 S. Water Street.

The matter was tabled last month for lack of sufficient information after other property owners in the area objected on the grounds of insufficient parking. Day, who was present at Tuesday's meeting, told the council he has made provision for 15 additional parking spaces.

The council approved on second reading an ordinance closing Live Oak between 2nd and 3rd streets and selling the property to Juanita Wagley for the appraised price of $9,600 plus $625 in appraisal fees.

An ordinance granting a special use permit to Ward M. Wilcox, allowing construction of three 40-foot piers in Little Bay for commercial use was given first reading. One more reading will be required before the ordinance can be adopted.

A request for a street light at the corner of Bay and Shores Lane in Little Bay Shores was approved. The city's cost will be $580.47.

The city named Mike Johnson as the auditor for the city's books for the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30.

Officials approved a list of bills paid from Aug. 9-Sept. 8 and reviewed the monthly police, water safety and animal control reports for August.

Mayes Painting & Decorating received the contract for repair of the ceiling at the Rockport Fire Station for a low bid of $1,275.

A request by Dr. Ronald W. Ramey to extend his driveway at 1505 Percival by an additional 28 feet was granted.

Also granted was the request by Rockport SeaFair Inc. for permission to hold the 1983 SeaFair on ACND property Oct. 8 and 9 and for the closing of streets in the downtown area on Saturday morning, Oct. 8.

United Fund campaign kickoff is set

The Aransas County United Fund organization will kick off its 1983 fund drive in ceremonies at 10 a.m. Monday, Sept. 19, at the Allied Live Oak Center in Rockport.

Civic and community leaders including Rockport Mayor Burt Mills, city aldermen, County Judge John Wendell and the county commissioners have been invited to the event.

Correction

A story in the Sept. 14 edition of The Pilot reported that the Aransas County justices of the peace would each receive salaries of $16,016 in 1984. The figure stated is a total figure, which is to be divided four ways between the justices. The Pilot regrets the error.

Parks & Wildlife assumes Matagorda management

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TP&WD) has assumed official control of 43,893 acres of public lands on Matagorda Island, but officials said facilities and services on the state park and wildlife management area will be extremely limited for at least a year.

The U.S. Department of the Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) transferred management authority to the TP&WD as of Sept. 1. The entire tract remains part of the national wildlife refuge system and will be operated by the TP&WD under federal refuge guidelines.

TP&WD officials said under the interim management plan in effect until Sept. 30, 1984, public access will be basically the same as during the years the island was operated by the USFWS.

Prospective visitors to the island must provide their own transportation by boat, and no water, electricity, telephones or concession will be available.

Wildlife Division officials said no public hunting will be allowed on the wildlife management area portion prior to December, although the wetlands adjacent to the island will be open for waterfowl hunting during the upcoming waterfowl seasons. No hunting will be allowed in the area designated as the state park. The 7,325-acre park portion is open for picnicking, fishing, hiking, beachcombing, nature study, swimming and primitive camping. A two-mile section of beach on the Gulf side of the island is open to the public.

Officials said wildlife biologists already have begun evaluations of protected species, including waterbird colonies and annual aerial surveys will be continued to monitor the status of endangered whooping cranes. Waterfowl surveys also will be conducted during the winter months.

The department's law enforcement division has assigned a sergeant and two game wardens to patrol the island. This complement of officers will be augmented by additional officers during the hunting seasons, officials said.

Persons planning to visit the island are advised to contact the Matagorda Island State Parks Office, P.O. Box 117, Port O'Connor, Texas 77982, or call 983-2215. The park headquarters in Port O'Connor will be open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Tower chooses to step down

By JOHN TOWER
U.S. Senator for Texas

As most of you undoubtedly have heard, I have decided not to seek another term in the Senate. This was an extremely difficult decision for me to make, because representing Texas in the Senate is the highest honor and the most satisfying experience I can imagine. I will be eternally grateful to have had the opportunity to have served you for nearly a quarter of a century.

Capitol update

However, I believe I should leave office at the end of this term. I am still enthusiastic about my job and at the height of my productivity. In my view, it is fitting for me to step aside while this is the case.

I look forward to the opportunity to come home to Texas — the best place on this earth.

Let me also emphasize that I have much work to do before I leave office in January 1985. Texas faces many problems and I intend to work as vigorously as ever to help find solutions for them.

The South Texas area still needs federal assistance to help it recover from the sevre economic problems caused by Mexico's financial crisis. Farmers in West Texas need more help for the problems caused by severe drought. Our cities face mass transportation problems which will require federal help in solving. These are only a few of the problems with which I will be actively concerned in the coming months.

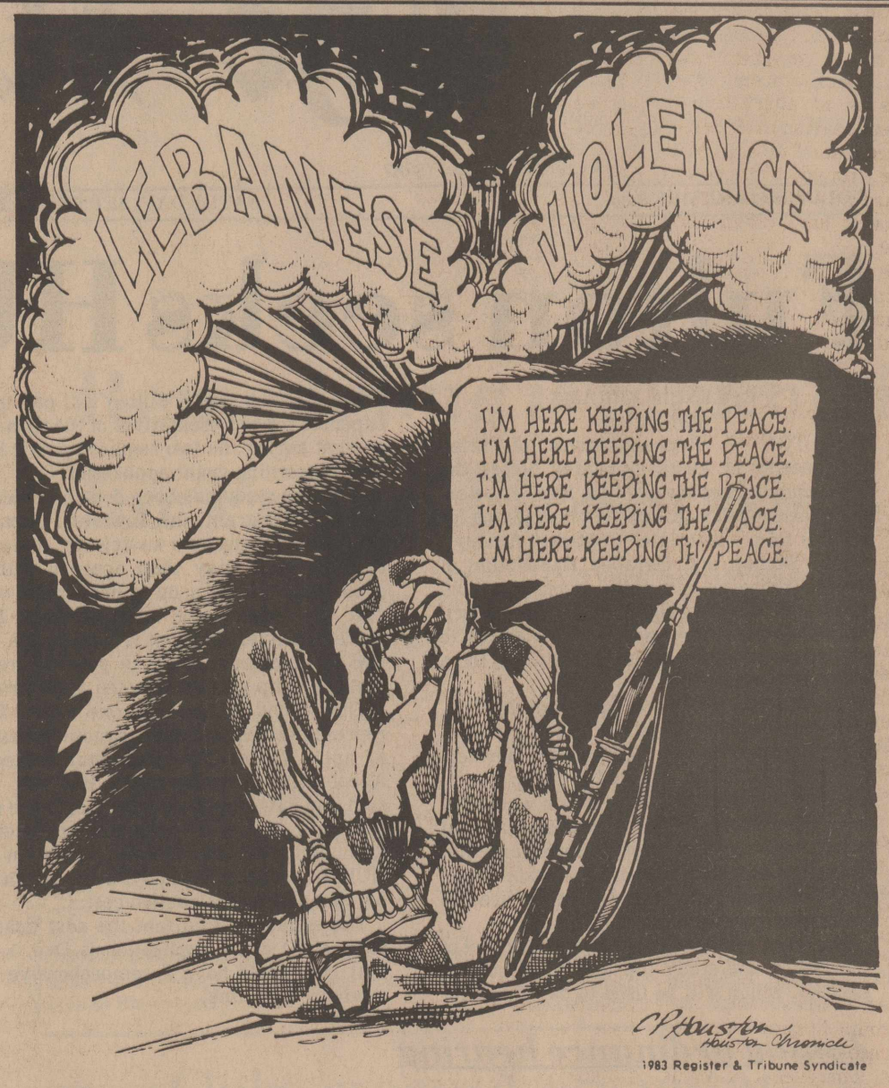

Many important legislative issues will come before the Senate during the next year and a half. We must bring federal spending under control. We must search for creative approaches to national problems, offering longterm solutions which involve efficient and appropriate use of federal resources.

As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, I will continue to be actively involved in the effort to ensure that we rebuild our national defense capability.

Additionally, all four of my state offices — in Austin, Houston, Dallas and Lubbock — will continue to function as they always have until the day I leave office.

Thus, it is still extremely important to me that you let me know what you think about the issues facing Congress. I still need the benefit of your views in making decisions. And I hope that you will continue to get in touch with me any time I can be of help to you on a federal problem.

Remember, I only announced that I do not plan to seek an additional term. I certainly plan to do my utmost to serve the needs and aspirations of my fellow Texans every single day I am privileged to serve as your Senator.

Crime drop raises hopes

The Justice Department is understandably proud of the decline in the number of crime victims across the nation as reflected in figures compiled at the end of 1982.

No statistics will be available for the current year until early in 1984.

Heartened by the unexpected decline, Justice officials described it as one of the most dramatic in a decade.

The downturn was indeed one of the most sweeping, single-direction changes recorded since the department began making crime victim surveys in 1973.

Law enforcement agencies outside the federal system also experienced a drop in crimes reported at the end of 1982. This was announced by the FBI last spring.

The nationwide decline is welcome news to Americans, especially victims, who have been forced to take extraordinary precautions inside and outside their homes to cope with the rising crime rate over the past several years.

Non-violent crimes of larceny and burglary account for most of the decline. There were 39.8 million victims in 1982, compared to 41.5 million in 1981.

The largest reduction was household burglaries, down 10 percent from 7.39 million to 6.63 million last year. Household larceny fell 5 percent, from 10.17 million in 1981 to 9.7 million in 1982.

The rate for rape, robbery and assault did not significantly change during the past two years. Decline in the number of crime victims may be due to the maturing of the American population, which reduced the number of crime-prone younger people.

Also, possible reasons are longer prison terms that deter potential criminals, together with a record number of criminals in state and federal prisons. They are at least temporarily barred from committing crimes.

The FBI said last April the number of serious crimes reported to police dropped 4 percent in 1982, the sharpest decline in five years. Those statistics also showed a drop of about 3 percent in violent crimes like murder, robbery, rape and aggravated assault.

Far more numerous property crimes of burglary, larceny, theft and motor vehicle theft dropped about 4 percent in the FBI survey.

Justice Department statisticians base their reports on Census Bureau interviews in about 58,000 households, covering about 132,000 individuals. The surveys include crimes not reported to police.

Law enforcement agencies dare not relax their efforts, even though there appears to be a continuing pattern of crime decline. Quickly changing conditions could reverse the trend.

It won't be the same

The U.S. Senate won't be the same without Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson, who had a hand in much of the most important legislation Congress enacted since 1941.

Sen. Jackson died of a heart attack at 71 after being striken at his Everett, Wash., home. He had been in the Senate since 1953 and in Congress since 1941 — the longest continuous service of any current member of either House.

Colleagues sought Sen. Jackson's advice and counsel, especially on legislation they hoped to pass. They knew a bill would have a better chance if it had Scoop Jackson's name on it, or if he supported it.

Sen. Jackson was a great American. He championed causes he felt were in the nation's best interests, whether defending a nuclear missile system or battling to protect the environment.

He was indeed a formidable adversary once he made up his mind a piece of legislation was bad for the country. During his 42-year career, he hotly debated Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy over methods of dealing with communists in government.

On the other hand, he was one of Congress' strongest voices warning against Soviet expansion.

Sen. Jackson predicted in 1954, when he saw from an airplane the Soviet Union was building a road from the Soviet border to Kabul, that the Soviets would one day invade Afghanistan. It came in 1979.

It was perhaps as a staunch enemy of Communism and a backer of strong defense that Jackson was best known in Congress.

The fact he was twice denied his party's presidential nomination did not diminish his dedication nor deter his patriotic goals.

Bill would intensify health research

By BILL PATMAN
Congressman

How much is your health worth to you?

Of all the blessing we enjoy, I'm sure most of us agree that good health is one of the most cherished. Sadly, for many people, good health isn't one of their blessings.

While we have made great strides in medical research, one of the most serious problems in American society is the denial of good health for many persons. That is true for both the elderly and the young. And the cost of preserving good health is very large.

Attacks on human health occur in a multitude of forms — some very well known by name but still defying solution. The one that springs foremost in the minds of many is cancer. Most of us have seen the pain and cost of cancer — either in our own families or in the homes of some of our closest friends.

The American Cancer Society estimates that 855,000 Americans are diagnosed with cancer each year. Sadly, about 440,000 of those die each year. But cancer is not the only disease that blights the lives of millions.

An estimated more than 37 million Americans are afflicted with some form of arthritis or musculoskeletal disease. Arthritis costs the nation more than $30 billion per year. It accounts for 20 percent of all Medicare hospital bills and 50 percent of all Workers' Compensation claims.

We frequently think of arthritis in terms of older people, whose bodies or hands we see bent and twisted so badly they may be unable to walk or to hold something. But arthritis also strikes the young.

There are 250,000 children who have juvenile arthritis or congenital malformation of their musculoskeletal system. This widespread prevalence of arthritis in people of all ages — from the newborn to our very old — brings me to the main point I wish to make.

The answer to the problems of disease is to intensify our research on prevention of disease and to emphasize the maintaining of health. That was the view of the House Committee on Energy and Commerce, which has recommended passage of the Health Research Extension Act of 1983.

This is a very significant bill. I believe its passage would help to save the people billions of dollars in doctor and hospital bills.

The most significant change proposed for the funding of health research is to create a separate National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal Diseases. This would separate research on arthritis from research now done as part of the National Institute of Arthritis, Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases.

Arthritis research receives less than 2 percent of the research funds for the National Institutes of Health. Increased funding also is recommended for research in a number of other diseases. I will mention only one — one which the committee considered among the most important.

It is Alzheimer's disease, one that many have not heard of but which is a tragic disease. It often strikes in middle age — and it is irreversible. It starts with forgetfulness. It can end with patients totally unable to control their bodily functions, unable to recognize and communicate with their family and friends and unable to understand their condition.

An estimated 750,000 to 1 million Americans are afflicted with this disease. It costs $20 billion each year for nursing home care and other medical costs.

There is an old saying that "Sometimes you have to spend money to make money." I think that clearly applies to health research. By intensifying research, we can save billions of dollars and improve life for millions of men, women and children.

We must do better. We must conquer cancer and arthritis and diabetes — three of our most common, most costly diseases.

Middle East situation should offer no surprises

Austin at Wharf

A SOUTH TEXAS afternoon, overcast skies, gentle rain falling, distant thunder, occasional flashes of lighting turn my thoughts to England, but not in the way you may think. There, in England, such days are commonplace, even the rule, accompanied with damp, penetrating chill.

The British claim their blue skies are the bluest in the world, and I have seldom never heard an argument against it. Even here, in winter we have sometimes, but only sometimes, long days of wet and overcast. When they pass aren't the skies a more welcome blue? And so we enjoy a warm rainy summer day, so rare, even as the British cherish an infrequent day of clear skies.

FOR THE MOMENT I appreciate a rainy day, as a relief from the manmade mess of the world, that for the moment being mostly events in the Middle East and the tragedy in the air over Russian waters.

Earlier on, when it was first announced that U.S. troops would be sent to Lebanon as part of the peacekeeping force I expressed opposition, for reasons I'll not trouble to repeat. Suffice that I still feel I was right and am only surprised that there has not long since been loss of American lives. Surprised! What a foolish word to use. Anyone surprised by any turn of events in the Middle East must be a fool indeed.

Now that our troops are there I do not join with the poobahs in Washington and elsewhere who cry for withdrawal. Very much to the contrary. True enough, as usual with our countrymen in dealing with events abroad, we have painted ourselves into a corner.

U.S. retreat, welcomed by some and regretted by others would only result in dislike and contempt for us from all quarters. More, it would widen the fighting and spell "open sesame" for Syria and Russia. Our creditability as a world power would alternately be discredited and laughed at, not only in the Middle East but throughout the world.

Instead then, having painted ourselves into a corner — repeat, we are left to strengthen our forces and let everyone know that we will brook no interference with our good and honest intentions, no matter how foolishly, naively they have been advanced.

WILL EVER THE DAY come when the United States, before entangling itself abroad, learn first to understand the mores — the history, religion, customs, even the dreams of the people they go to support or suppress? Thus far, never.

AS A CONSERVATIVE I am forever embarrassed by the outbursts of people of the Patrick Buchanan and Jesse Helms bent. The other day, responding critically to President Reagan's speech in response to Russia's murderous attack on a Korean airline, Buchanan in typical fashion implied indicisiveness, namby-pambyism from the White House.

"Mr. Reagan should have led the West in worldwide ostracism of the Soviet Union," quoth he in his syndicated column. That there are enough people in the nation to warrant a syndicate sustaining the Buchanan column is a distinct reflection upon the national mentality. The call for "worldwide ostracism" of Russia is in blunt and simple terms nothing less than "dumb" thinking, akin if you like to our refusal for so many years to recognize mainland China because its government is "communist." No good, no progress, no improvement has ever come from individuals who refuse to speak to each other and the same holds for nations, although with potentially more disasterous consequences.

ALTOGETHER, OUR PRESIDENT, faced with what one may call a cliffhanger is acting wisely and well in the face of the latest and one of the most serious confrontations with the Soviets. The Buchanan proposal is by contract the last step short of war.

Tiresome as the word may be, Russia and the Russians are paranoid, from leadership to the most humble peasant. Yet the people themselves have as many redeeming virtues as any of us. One need only turn to the music and literature of the country, which reminds me that my own first introduction to Russia beyond the realm of propaganda was in following the mob, joining that vast mass of Americans who turned to Tolstoy's "War and Peace" when Russia became our ally in World War II. Remember? Wow! One of the most difficult-to-read books I have ever encountered. I am tempted to read it again and most certainly recommend it now to everyone from 20 to 50.

NONE OF THIS offers a solution to the current dilemma. I offer none, unless to suggest that our president's course thus far is sound. To come are changes in variation, deviation, wind, tide and course.

In trade

'Free' must be 'fair'

By LLOYD BENTSEN
Senator

The recession of the 1980s has taught us that we must be more aggressive in defending America's jobs and our national interests.

We need a tougher U.S. trade policy that will create more jobs here at home and help sell more goods abroad.

Since World War II we have used trade concessions as a form of foreign aid.

We threw open the doors of our markets, invited other nations to compete and asked little in return.

Now that has all changed. Last year we had a $43 billion trade deficit and this year it will be higher.

Instead of exporting goods, we're exporting jobs. That makes no sense.

Our trading partners are targeting vital sectors of our economy for extinction. They take advantage of our liberal trade policies while denying us the ability to sell in their markets.

The American worker knows that free trade has got to be fair trade. It's got to more in both directions or it will not move at all.

The time has come for us to stand up for our rights and insist that those countries wanting to sell their products in the U.S. offer us an equal opportunity to sell to them.

Live Oak Peninsula philosopher

Just what is Russia's goal?

Dear Editor:

The way it looks from out here, if the Russian leaders' goal is to become an outlaw nation, shooting down passenger planes is one sure way to do it.

And judging from the way they handled their account of the slaughter, they must have another goal: becoming the world's most asinine government.

As you know, at first they said it didn't happen; then if it did they didn't have anything to do with it; then that it was just a lot of hoopla over nothing; then that its intercepter fighter plane warned the airliner and it flew off and disappeared.

Finally, after six days and clear proof they'd deliberately shot it down, the Russians said "yeah, we did it and furthermore we'll do it again it a passenger plane strays into our air space."

They added that the plane carrying 269 men, women, children and babies from 16 different countries was a spy plane sent out by President Reagan. This would be the first time in history spies have been disguised as 1-year-old babies.

The more you think about it the more insane it becomes. I don't suppose there's a country on earth whose air space hasn't been flown over by airplanes off course. Russian planes have flown over U.S. air space frequently un-shot-at.

To bring this down to earth, if my neighbors shot every one of my cows that strayed into their pasture and I shot every one of theirs getting into mine, and if the practice was followed all over the country, we'd have the biggest shortage of beef in history.

Moreover, I should add that any neighbor sending a spy plane over my place to photograph my cattle operation would be wasting his film.

I do have one thing though I'd like to keep secret, but not for military reasons. It's my system of fence maintenance, where the wires hold up the posts instead of the posts holding up the wires.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

How should I invest my money?

Scott Burns

Q: In a recent column you suggested that people look into money market funds with check-writing privileges as an alternative to interest-bearing bank checking accounts. I'm inclined to agree with you if it's as you say and only $250 is tied up in a money fund rather than $2,500.

The problem is that I have no experience in this. How do I find such a fund? How could I know a good fund from a bad one? Is your money protected as it would be with a bank? Can you point me in the right direction? — R.H., Lemont, Ill.

A: Since their introduction in January, the money market deposit accounts offered by banks have provided higher interest rates than the investment company-sponsored money market mutual funds. As a consequence, people were moving money from the money market funds to the MMDA accounts at the banks.

Recently, the interest rate gap has virtually disappeared. So it is possible to find money market mutual funds that provide superior yields. As a result, money is flowing back to those funds.

The real issue for most people, however, is not interest rates but the minimum balance and convenience offered by their account, wherever it is. While the bank MMDAs require a $2,500 minimum balance, the minimums for the original money market mutual funds range from zero to $20,000, with $1,000 being the most common.

At the local library you'll probably find a copy of Donoghue's Mutual Fund Almanac, which lists all mutual funds, the minimum opening investment and minimum addition, as well as their mailing addresses, toll-free phone numbers and other vital information.

How do you tell the difference between a "good" and "bad" fund? By making discriminations most people don't understand. As a practical matter, you should look for relatively large individual funds that are, in turn, part of a complex of many funds sponsored by a well-capitalized company.

You can increase your security much further by taking additional care with exactly where your money fund is invested. The safest funds are those which specialize the U.S. government securities only. The lowest-safety funds have some of their portfolio committed to Eurodollar certificates of deposit and some commercial paper.

The bottom line? If your account is used for transactions and you're not inclined to learn about the money market, stick with the bank accounts. If you keep cash for investment and manage it as part of an overall investment program, stay with the mutual fund money market accounts.

Q: We are retired. I'm 65, my wife is 62. Our current income (including Social Security) from pension and interest is $40,000 a year. We have $123,000 in money market deposit accounts, $40,000 in certificates of deposit, $30,000 in an IRA account and own a $55,000 first mortgage. Our home is worth $85,000 on which we owe $22,000 at 7 percent and we have no other debts. I estimate our net worth at $325,000.

My question: Is our investment program a good one? The money market deposit accounts currently yield 8.5 percent and the certificates are yielding 11 and 15.8 percent, but the 15.8 percent will mature early next year. Do you have any suggestions? — K.J.S., Carrollton, Texas.

A: You've got assets but I don't think a collection of money deposits can be called an "investment program."

Excluding your house, you've got about $250,000 — 100 percent vulnerable to the declining purchasing power of the dollar. You can expect to live another 14 years and your wife can expect to live another 20 years. I suggest that you commit some of the assets you control — say $100,000 — to a program of investment in no-load mutual funds and a number of major companies that pay good dividends.

This will do the following: stabilize your income against the ups and downs of interest rates; give you some protection against inflation; and give you a shot at a steadily rising future income.

Yes, I know there is risk. But I would take the risk of investing in some stocks over the absolute certainty of losing purchasing power to inflation in deposit accounts.

Q: Real estate agents tell me that my $23,000 condo (with a $14,000 mortgage) could be sold for $35,000. This would allow me to buy a better one for $50,000 if I took on a new mortgage of $30,000. My pension and Social Security income is about $900 a month and a $50,000 CD brings the income to $1,400.

Could I handle the $350 monthly payment with the assets I have? I don't want to live beyond my means. — K.D., Tucson, Ariz.

A: Unless you want to be "house poor," stay where you are. First, your $350 a month payment estimate is low since it cannot include insurance, maintenance, taxes and utilities. Second, the $500 a month income from your $50,000 CD implies an interest rate of 12 percent, which you aren't likely to duplicate when it comes time to renew it.

All of us are committed to one piece of ground soon enough. In my book, money should be used to expand experience, not ownership of things.

Questions about personal finance and investments may be sent to Scott Burns, The Register and Tribune Syndicate, P.O. Box 4994, Des Moines, Iowa 50306. Those of general interest will be answered.

Brown & Root lays off 200 at Harbor Island

PORT ARANSAS — Approximately 200 workers have been laid off from Brown & Root's Harbor Island facility, spokesperson Janis Taylor announced Wednesday. The layoffs are due, she said, to a lack of work for the company, which is involved in the manufacture of offshore petroleum drilling equipment.

No figures were available on how many of the laid-off workers are residents of Aransas County.

According to Taylor, the layoffs occurred Wednesday, Sept. 7, and Saturday. Sept. 10, and affected two shifts. Calling the layoff "a reduction in forces," she could not estimate how long it would last.

Among those laid off were riggers, scaffold builders, welders, fitters and other craftsmen involved in the fabrication of decks, platforms and jackets used on offshore drilling.

Brown & Root, one of the area's largest employers, had a work force of approximately 400 employees just prior to the layoff last week. The Harbor Island facility has been in operation since the mid 1970s.

The worldwide oil glut has been blamed for the decrease in offshore oil and gas drilling activities, which has deeply affected the industry in South Texas.

9th annual Houstex expo set

The 9th annual Houstex Tool & Manufacturing Engineering Conference and Exposition will be held at the Albert Thomas Convention and Exposition Center in Houston on Feb. 14-16, 1984.

Sponsored by the Society of Manufacturing Engineers (SME) of Dearborn, Mich., and the Houston chapter of the National Tooling and Machining Association (NTMA), the three-day event is expected to attract some 10,000 manufacturing engineers and executives from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and other nearby states. The last two Houstex shows — held in January 1982 and February 1983 — each attracted over 8,000 attendees.

Although several months remain before the event, more than 150 manufacturers and distributors of machine tools and related metalworking equipment have already reserved space at the Albert Thomas facility.

The show will feature demonstrations by more than 200 companies in some 75 equipment categories. The equipment will include machine tools, NC/CNC equipment, precision machining, forming and fabricating equipment, quality and testing/inspection technologies, transfer and assembly equipment and engineering services. More than $4 million worth of manufacturing equipment will be shown, including some new product introductions, SME said.

New this year will be the participation of the American Machine Tool Distributor's Association (AMTDA), which will have its member machine tool distributors and builders grouped in a special section for machine tools.

Among Houston and Texas-based exhibitors holding the largest blocks of exhibit space in Houstex '84 are Southern Machine Tool Co., Tri-Tex Machine & Tool Co., Transcoastal Machinery Inc., Yamazaki — a division of Mazak Corp. — and Big Joe Industrial Corp.

Exposition hours will be from noon until 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 14 and 15, and from noon until 5 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16.

For complete attendance information on Houstex '84, contact the Public Relations Department, Society of Manufacturing Engineers, One SME Drive, P.O. Box 930, Dearborn, Mich. 48121, telephone (313) 271-0777, or the NTMA/Chapter office.

Requests for pipeline permits nearly quadruple in August

Railroad Commission (RRC) Chairman Mack Wallace has announced 20 permits to operate new pipelines in Texas were granted by the RRC in August. In July, the commission approved 45 permits, compared to 12 granted in August 1982.

Eleven of the new permits were for gathering pipelines, four were for trunk transmission lines, one was for a gas plant line and four were for multi-purpose lines. Gathering lines bring oil and gas from production leases, while a trunk transmission line is a larger diameter line into which smaller lines connect. At gas plants, gas is stripped of the liquid hydrocarbons usually present in wellhead gas.

Seventeen of the newly-permitted lines will transport gas, two will carry crude oil and one will carry products.

In August, five permits were granted to operate pipelines in Southeast Texas (District 3), three in East Central Texas (District 5), two each in deep South Texas (District 4), East Texas (District 6) and the Refugio (District 2) and Midland (District 8) areas and one each in West Central Texas (District 7B), the Panhandle (District 10) and the San Antonio (District 1) and San Angelo (District 7C) areas.

Gathering lines approved:

GSI Inc., Bryan, gas, Brazos County; Venus Oil Co., San Antonio, gas, Wharton County; Cenergy Exploration Co., Dallas, gas, Anderson County; Lantern Petroleum Corp., Denver, Colo., crude, Sterling County; Seagull Energy Corp., Houston, gas, (two lines — one each in Matagorda and Freestone counties); Wesco Pipe Line Co., Denver, Colo., crude, Anderson, Freestone and Navarro counties; East Texas Refining Co., San Antonio, gas, Wharton County; Paisano Transmission Co., George West, gas, Aransas County; Tom McGee Corp., Booker, gas, Lipscomb County; Adobe Gas Co., Midland, gas, DeWitt County.

Trunk transmission lines approved:

Wildcat Gas Transmission, San Angelo, gas, Coke County; Coronado Transmission Co., Corpus Christi, gas, Reeves and Pecos counties; Tejas Gas Corp., Corpus Christi, gas, Freestone, Leon, Anderson and Houston counties; Southwest Pipe Line Co., Tulsa, Okla., products, Bell and Falls counties.

Gas plant lines approved:

Dorchester Gas Producing Co., Dallas, gas, Nueces County.

Multi-purpose and other lines approved:

Oreca Gas Corp., Gonzales, gas, two lines — one in Lee and Burleson counties and the other in Bee County; San Antonio Resources Co., San Antonio, gas, Medina County; Rampart Natural Gas of Texas, Abilene, gas, Shackelford County.

Pritchett and the village of Rockport go way back

By PAT BLAIR

Even though it happened 21 years ago, Louise Pritchett still remembers how "terribly sad" she felt when she was asked to retire from teaching in the Aransas County school district.

"Retirement at 70 was much against the grain," she said during an interview this past week at her residence on Fulton Beach Road. She is proud of the eight years she spent teaching in the school district here, pleased when she runs into one of her former pupils.

At 91, she considers it her biggest tragedy that her eyesight is failing. "I can no longer see too well, so I can't read or write," she said. What makes her most unhappy is that she can't see well enough to compile the stories and poems she has written over the years.

"I decided at 90," she said, "I had about 10 more years, because I feel rather well." She was going to spend those years putting her writing together — and then her eyesight began fading.

"I really thought I'm worth publication, and I thought with the 10 years, I could prove it," she said later. "Now I can't even read what I write.

"The state of Texas is wonderful," she observed, commenting on the availability of large-print books so she can, at least, read the writings of others if not her own.

Anna Louise Burnett Pritchett (she has a daughter, Katherine Louise, living in Copano Ridge) was born in Kerrville. "We had a home on the Guadalupe River," she said. Her father, a lawyer who came to Texas from Alabama, was a county judge in Kerrville.

Louise remembers she didn't attend school during her "early years" but was taught "part of the time by one of my mother's sisters. She had taught school and I learned some from her."

Later, her mother's failing eyesight required a move to San Antonio and there Louise "entered seventh grade at the proper age. That was my first formal schooling. I had a man for a teacher, and Mother paid him to teach me after school.

"The next year," she recalled, "my teacher was a priest who ran away with a nun — a very delightful person."

Louise attended the old high school in San Antonio and was "very happy there — but I never learned to behave. Mother was nearly blind and I had to behave at home, so I took it out on the school."

From high school, Louise went to the University of Texas. "When I entered the University, I knew I wanted to be a landscape gardener, an interior decorator or a minor poet," she said. But at that time, UT had a more limited curriculum than these days: "There was no school of journalism and certainly no school of landscape gardening."

Louise took literature. "I had wonderful professors, very stimulating. The University was in its bluebonnet days in the old tower — I was in love with the profs and didn't care a hang about the boys, so I got a good education."

She graduated in 1916 with a degree in teaching, which was her mother's requirement, and started teaching in Sinton. After about a year there, she went to Pecos then to San Angelo — "that was the year of Armistice," she recalls. People were ringing bells to celebrate the end of World War I and in San Angelo, she remembers, "they had so many cowbells to ring . . .

Around 1918-19 ("I'm hopeless about dates," she said) she married John Pritchett and between the two World Wars, the couple had their four children. Three of those children are still living and Louise has eight grandchildren. Her oldest son, while serving with the Marines in the Pacific, was killed during World War II. "In the last week before they almost had the whole thing," Louise said, "he was fatally wounded."

Louise began writing during the years when her children were growing up — and "didn't write much of anything for a long time" after her son's death. She received awards for her short stories and poems in U.S. and Canadian contests but doesn't talk much because "I've never been published." That, however, isn't quite accurate; in 1982, a friend saw to it that a small booklet of her "Selected Poems" was published.

Louise and her family started coming to Rockport "when the children were small" and in the early 1950s, about two or three years before her husband's death in 1954, they bought the site of her present home. After her husband's death, Louise "came to live in our summer home, because it was here."

At that time, the school superintendent was Pat Green — who had, Louise said, "gone to school under my husband's father." Louise went to Green to ask for a job teaching and was given an elementary class.

She taught for eight years before, at age 70, she was asked to retire.

Since retirement, Louise lives quietly — "I keep a low profile," she said — occupying herself with her home and its nearly two acres of yard. "I do my own yard work, pull grass and drag leaves — I'm a nest-builder."

She loves Rockport, remembering the old Rockport back when Key Allegro was still Frandolig Island. "I could've bought the Island for $25,000," she said. "I could've bought Fulton Mansion for $4,000 — that was the price quoted once to my husband."

For Louise, "Rockport is my village — not a city; it isn't a city to me.

"I remember Rockport," she said, "when it was young and charming . . ."

Rockport police are twice as busy, reports Chief Hinojosa

August was "kind of a busy month," with 80 tickets issued, 20 arrests and more than twice as many traffic accidents as in August 1982, according to a report by Police Chief Joe Hinojosa to Rockport's city council Tuesday night.

Traffic accidents totaled 21, compared to 10 in August a year ago.

Speeding was the leading reason for traffic citations issued during the month: 16 tickets were written for that offense.

Alcohol-related offenses were the leading cause for arrests, with nine for public intoxication and four for driving while intoxicated.

Other reasons for arrests during the month included simple assault, burglary, disorderly conduct, statutory rape, theft and indecency with a child. One arrest was made on each of those offenses, and one arrest was made on warrant during the month.

Other reasons for traffic tickets during August included failure to show proof of liability, nine; no driver's license, seven; failure to yield right-of-way, seven; expired license plates, four; disobeying stop sign, three; disobeying traffic signal, two; expired motor vehicle inspection sticker, two.

Also issued were tickets for failure to control vehicle (accident), two; expired driver's license, two; cutting across a private parking lot, two; violation of driver's license restrictions, two; and improper start, improper left turn, defective tail lights, passing in no passing zone, failure to dim headlights, passing within 100 feet of intersection and unsafe backing, one each.

Police made 1,673 property checks during the month, responded to 62 alarms, were called to assist the ambulance 17 times, the county six times and the fire department seven times.

They delivered four emergency messages, received four animal calls, responded to 13 family disturbance calls and eight prowler calls, served as funeral escort once.

A total 1,739 miscellaneous calls were received during the month.

Out-of-towners injured in wrecks here earlier this week

An Austwell man was charged with following too closely by Rockport police after the vehicle he was driving collided with the rear of another vehicle attempting to make a left turn off of Hwy. 35 onto Traylor Street Tuesday, Sept. 13.

Albert Jackson Covey of Austwell was ticketed after his car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Margaret Maxine Beck of Dallas, as Beck attempted to turn left on Traylor Street.

Each sustained minor injuries in the incident.

Henry Bailey Whelchel Jr. of Beeville was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way after the vehicle he was driving collided with a second vehicle traveling southbound on Broadway Street Sept. 12. Whelchel was exiting from the driveway of a service station when the accident occurred.

The driver of the second vehicle, Mary Schnedler of Rockport, was ticketed for no liability insurance.

Neither driver was injured in the accident.

A vehicle driven by Atanacio Silva Zaragos of Charman Ranch was in collision with a vehicle driven by John Woodman Fraser of San Antonio on Sept. 14.

The vehicle driven by Zaragos was apparently backing out of the parking lot of a Hwy. 35 business when it collided with the vehicle driven by Fraser.

No injuries were reported and no tickets were issued.

175 players sign up for this fall's Soccer Association league play

With 175 youngsters signed up, registration for the Rockport-Fulton Soccer Association's fall season is complete. A late registration session and parents' meeting Wednesday night was attended by nearly 100 parents. While not enough players were signed to necessitate extra teams in the Pee Wee and Intermediate divisions, as anticipated, a big turnout of Junior High-age athletes resulted in three teams for that division. RFSA officials had been hoping for at least that many Junior High teams and were pleased, said vice-president of the association Maxine Romero. "The kids are very excited about it and we are, too," she said Thursday. said Thursday.

In all, 84 Pee Wees will play this fall. Some 56 Intermediates are signed up and the Junior High athletes total 34.

Junior high games will be played at the same time as Intermediates every Saturday once the season starts, says Romero. They will be played on the men's field. The three teams will play doubleheaders, with winners in the first game playing twice. The three new Junior High teams in the league are the Hornets, the Bucks and the Mustangs.

In addition to registration and answering parents' questions — "they were really enthusiastic and real interested," said Romero — the RFSA elected several new officers to the board Wednesday night. Modesto Lizcano is new head referee, Rhonda Nixon is treasurer and Jimmy Hattenbach will be in charge of field preparation this year. These new officers join returning board members George Hernandez, president; Romero, vice-president and Pam Roe, secretary.

All parents, coaches and players will meet at Memorial Park Wednesday, Sept. 28 to clean up the fields and get them ready for play, said Romero.

Area fishing report

Beach Road Bait House — 729-8614 — "Fishing has been pretty good at night under the lights." Best around 2-3 a.m. Mostly good "keeper-sized" trout, caught on live shrimp. Do have live bait and will have for the weekend. Also have the usual supply of dead bait.

Key Allegro Marina — 729-2761 — Not as many kings or other offshore fish being brought in due to weather lately. Fishing good in the bays. Will have usual supply of offshore and bay dead and frozen bait.

Copano Causeway — 729-8633 — Real good at night, beginning around 8 p.m. under the lights. Nice tide and the water looks pretty good. Mostly trout, caught on live, dead and artificial. Live bait is scarce but will have some for the weekend.

Sea Gun — 729-2341 — Fishing has been real good here. The charter boats "have been doing really well." Lots of trout and red and a few flounder caught on live bait.

Palm Harbor — 729-8540 — "Pretty good." Dick Walker had a "whole box fulla" reds, including one 29¼-inch, 10½-pound whopper, caught on bronze and gold spoons in the flats. Will have live bait for the weekend.

Fulton Harbor Bait — 729-8532 — Fishing has been "incredible" this past week. Trout and reds on live bait. Will have live and dead for the weekend.

Sandollar — 729-8562 — "Pretty good. Excellent bait supply — more live bait than we need." Been catching lots of redfish and some trout, most brought in from the Long Reef area. Catching on live perch and mullet. Employees have been catching plenty of trout and reds out back of marina.

Sandbar Cafe — 729-4046 — "It's starting to pick up." Looking fair for the weekend. Both trout and reds. Anticipate having live bait for weekend.

Sports echoes

President Teddy Roosevelt — one of the early saviors of football

Shortly after taking his second presidential oath to defend the Constitution, Teddy Roosevelt, the 26th president of the United States, was besieged by various pressure groups to abolish the game of football. At the turn of the century, the sport had sunk into an abyss of discredit and shame brought on by the violent and brutal character of the game.

Walter Camp of Yale who was forever crusading for the refinement of the game commented, "Unless steps are taken to reform the sport, we shall discover that our precious football is being relegated to the ash heap of history. Brutality has no place in this sport."

With the introduction of the "flying wedge" formation in 1884 and its cancerous spread across the nation's gridirons, football had deteriorated into a savage display of brutality. In two decades, more than 50 players had died from injuries suffered while playing the mayhem-blanketed game.

In spite of its brutal nature, the sport continued to gain popularity aided by the scheduling of intersectional games that attracted massive crowds for that era numbering 12,000 and more.

Plagued by a variety of physical ailments and deficiencies in his youth, Roosevelt was unable to try out for the football team during his undergraduate days at Harvard. The future president, however, cultivated and maintained a passionate love for the game and always wore a crimson tie whenever his alma mater played.

Early in 1905, Roosevelt convened what became popularly known as the White House Football Conferences inviting representatives from Princeton, Harvard and of course, Camp from Yale. In a stern admonishment, he insisted football mend its ways and become a sport for gentlemen. The representative acceded to a Roosevelt-authored reform agreement.

There was a noticeable reduction in the death toll as the next season ran its course. When Yale and Harvard met at season's end with Roosevelt himself in attendance, violence broke out on the playing field again sparking a renewed hue and cry to abolish the game.

Roosevelt reconvened the White House football committee and mandated a code of reform. The following spring, 28 schools were represented at the first meeting of the Football Conference Committee.

With Camp as the catalyst, sweeping changes in the rules were enacted, designed to change football's image of landlocked combat into one that would incorporate the forward pass as an offensive weapon. The changes came about slowly but with a steady decrease in fatalities.

In 1913, the reform movement received a major boost from a least expected source. Little known Notre Dame came east to play mighty Army in what had been scheduled as a breather for the Cadets. The visitors' passing combination of Gus Dorais and Knute Rockne was instrumental in their major upset win over the Black Knights of the Hudson. The game was to take on a new dimension but most important, a new image.

Teddy Roosevelt, a frustrated would-be football player, had persevered against the strongest of opposition to save the game from "being relegated to the ash heap of history." Today's football fan can look back on his single-handed effort in saving the game and say, "Bully, Teddy, bully."

Third sandhill crane hunting zone established by state this year

AUSTIN — Sandhill crane hunters will be able to pursue their sport in a wider area of the state this winter because of action taken Aug. 31 by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

The commission authorized establishment of a third zone covering most of South Texas, the prairie region west of Houston, southern portions of the Edwards Plateau and as far west as Sonora and Del Rio.

The new zone, named "Zone C," will have open season dates of Jan. 14-Feb. 12, 1984. Shooting hours and bag limits will be the same in all three sandhill crane hunting zones: 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset; three sandhill cranes per day, six in possession.

Boundaries for Zones A and B are unchanged from last year. The Zone A season will be Nov. 12, 1983 through Feb. 12, 1984; the Zone B season will be Dec. 3, 1983 through Feb. 12, 1984.

The new Zone C boundaries include a buffer zone along the coast to assure protection for endangered whooping cranes which spend the winter in and near the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge at Austwell.

Establishment of the third zone in effect opens roughly the western half of the state to sandhill crane hunting during the open season.

As in the past, hunters in all zones are required to obtain free sandhill crane hunting permits from the department. To obtain the permits, write Bernie Rittenhouse, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744, and provide name, address and county of residence of all persons who intend to hunt.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a custom-designed gown of candlelight satin. The bodice was adorned with over 7,000 pearls shaped as flowers on old-fashioned lace. At the waist, a satin cumberbund of pearls and satin had been fashioned and the train was designed as part of the dress.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and miniature white carnations.

Sonya Bennett of Corpus Christi served as maid of honor. She wore a royal blue satin dress and carried an arrangement of white carnations with white and pale blue shasta daisies.

Best man was Steve Theodore of Rockport and Mark Pruitt and Craig McGary, both of Rockport, served as ushers. Candle lighters were James Fisher of Rockport, brother of the bride, and John Lee Green of Rockport, brother of the groom.

The church was decorated with a large basket of yellow daisies in the entry hall, with candelabrum and urns of white gladiolus, white and yellow carnations, blue shasta daisies and ferns.

The choir of the Corpus Christi Church of Christ provided wedding music.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents at the fellowship hall of the church. Approximately 200 guests attended.

The bride was attired in a royal blue chiffon dress with a white Peter Pan collar for the wedding trip to Houston. Upon their return, they will make their home in Rockport.

The bride has attended Corpus Christi Christian School, Rockport-Fulton High School and Del Mar College in Corpus Christi. She is employed by the Sea Shell Shoppe in Rockport.

The groom is a graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School and is employed by Wagley-Clark Construction Company.

Coastal residents are lucky to have easy access to fresh fish

Fresh fish is a very special food in our area. With the easy access to fresh seafood, we have good reason to utilize seafoods often in our daily meal plans.

Annette Reddell Hegen, a seafood specialist with Texas A&M University in Port Aransas suggests trying this treat with its savory citrus-almond topping. Flounder, snapper, drum or trout are all delicious in this recipe as would be tilefish, whiting or any lean fish you may have. Catch them yourself or go fishing in the seafood market or grocery store.

Fillets with Citrus-Almond Butter

2 pounds fresh fish fillets
½ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
½ cup margarine or butter
Paprika
1/3 cup sliced blanched almonds
2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon or lime rind
1 small ripe sliced avocado

Sprinkle fish with salt and cayenne pepper. Heat ¼ cup margarine in large frying pan. Arrange fish in single layer in frying pan and brown lightly on both sides, turning once. Total cooking time is 5 to 7 minutes or until fish flakes and is opaque.

Transfer cooked fish to heated serving platter. Sprinkle with paprika.

Add remaining ¼ cup margarine to frying pan and heat. Add almonds and toast lightly.

Remove from heat and stir in juice and rind. Spoon over fish. Top with thin slices of avocado. Makes 6 servings.

Here is another recipe from the Marine Advisory Service with Texas A&M University in Port Aransas. Designed for flounder, any fish fillet of similar texture will be suitable. For more seafood ideas write Seafood Recipes, P.O. Box 158, Port Aransas, Texas 78373.

Flounder Florentine

1½ pounds flounder fillets or other fish fillets fresh or frozen
3 packages (10 ounces each) frozen chopped spinach, defrosted and drained
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup melted margarine or butter
Mornay Sauce
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
Paprika

Divide fish into serving size portions. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place spinach in bottom of well-greased baking dish. Place fillets on top of spinach. Brush with melted margarine. Bake at 350° F. for 15 to 20 minutes or until fish flakes and is opaque.

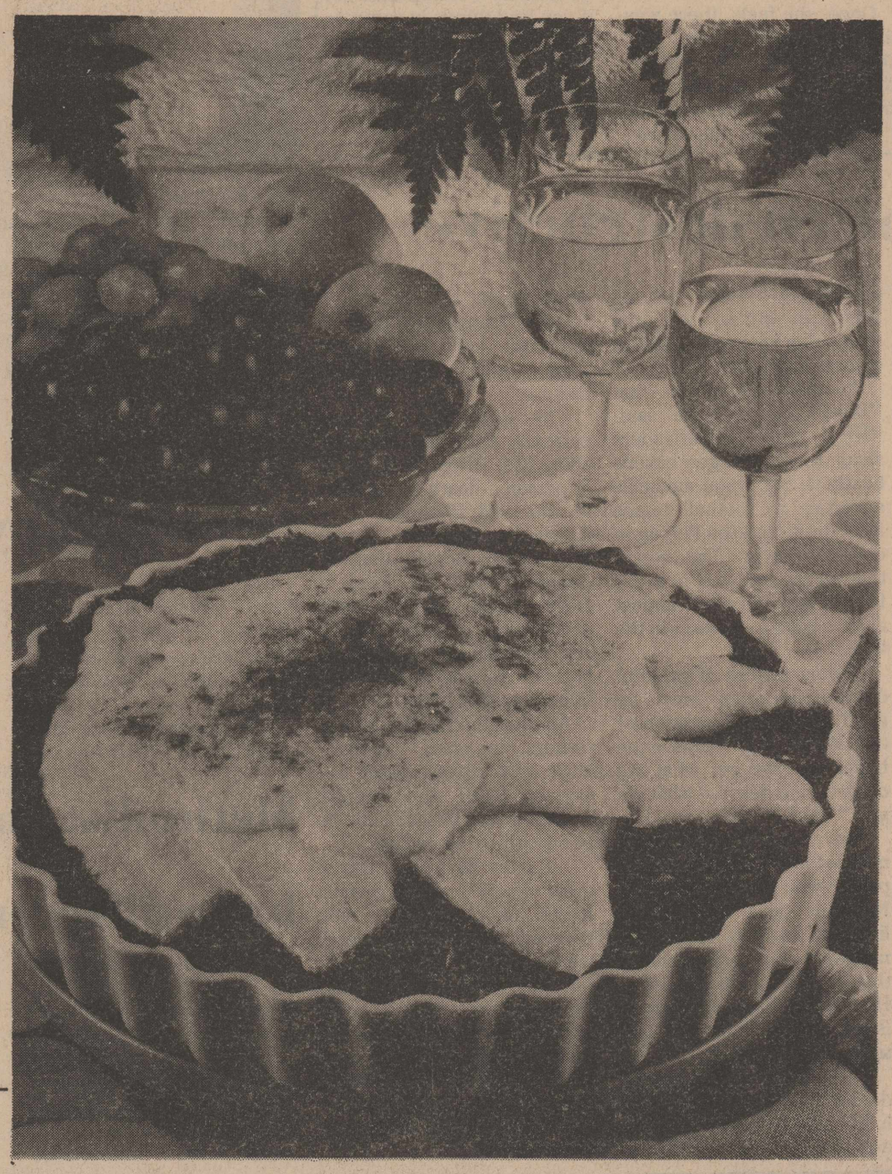

Pour Mornay Sauce over fish. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and paprika. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Mornay Sauce

¼ cup margarine or butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
2 cups milk
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 beaten egg yolks

In a saucepan melt margarine. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk gradually and cook over low heat until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Stir in Parmesan cheese. Stir a little of the hot sauce into the egg yolks. Add to remaining sauce, stirring constantly. Makes approximately 2 cups sauce.

Food

Back-to-school means quick meals and snacks

For the cook in the family, back-to-school means more regularly scheduled meals, provisions for after-school snacks and makings for student lunch boxes. To help you get organized, the home economists at Lawry's Foods suggest these easy-to-prepare dishes.

For a change-of-pace sandwich try taco crescents, little turnovers with a delectable filling. Brown ¾ pound ground beef with a small minced onion; drain. Add 1 package taco seasoning mix and a small can of drained, minced ripe olives. Mix well. When cool add 2 well-beaten eggs. Use 2 packages (8 ounce each) refrigerated crescent dinner rolls and separate into triangles. Place a small amount of grated cheddar cheese and about 1½ tablespoons of meat mixture on each triangle. Roll up and shape into crescents. Bake in 375° F. oven 15 minutes. Store in freezer for lunch box or after-school treats.

Spicy avocado quesadillas double as main dishes or snacks. Mash 2 ripe avocados, add 1¾ cups grated Monterey Jack cheese, ¼ cup chunky taco sauce and 2 tablespoons diced green chiles. Divide mixture and spread on 4 (8-inch) flour tortillas, fold in half and brush with butter. Lightly fry in buttered skillet until browned and cheese melts. Yummy!

Bon appetit!

Here it is nearly fall and the time of year when organizations begin to "rush" new members and ordinary mothers become den or room mothers. In other words, it's time to break out the cookie recipes. Here are a few which I hope you will find helpful. I have attempted to gather those which will be easy and inexpensive to prepare since you will probably be producing them in bulk!

Delights of herbs proclaimed by Texas gardening author

Originally published as "Herb Gardening in the South," this book's geographical focus is now aimed specifically at Texas. Though there are many books on the subject, only "Herb Gardening in Texas" tells gardeners and cooks how to use the generous Texas climate and deal with Texas' various soil, temperature and moisture conditions to grow herbs successfully.

Herbs are perhaps the most alluring of plants. They have a mystique and a lure all their own. The Sumerians documented their culinary and medicinal uses over 5,000 years ago. Today the enchanting scents, flavors and appearance of these lovely plants make them just as marvelous an addition to a garden as they were to the gardens of ancient Egypt, Rome and medieval Europe.

In this new printing, readers will find information on how to grow and use over 80 different herbs, ways to amend soil for each herb, how to arrange and situate herbs attractively in gardens and landscapes and how and where to obtain seeds. It also describes how to extract herb oils, make herb teas, sauces, vinegars, butters, body lotions, dyes, potpourri and even pesticides!

All the information needed to successfully grow herbs can be found in "Herb Gardening in Texas." The author explains how to get started, propagate herbs and grow them indoors and out. He then explains how to harvest, dry and store and use herbs in a variety of ways.

Author Sol Meltzer grows and sells herbs from his garden. Meltzer grows almost every herb he has written about and supplies health food stores, nurseries, plant shops and other retail outlets with potted and dried herbs. He also supplies chefs with the fresh culinary herbs for use in their creations. He and his wife, Thelma, live in Houston.

"Herb Gardening in Texas:" 1983, photos, charts, illustrations, recipes, 78 pages, $5.95. Available in bookstores or directly from the publisher: Gulf Publishing Company, Book Division, Dept. B8, P.O. Box 2608, Houston, Texas 77001. Include $5.95 plus $2 for transportation cost. Texas residents add 5 percent sales tax. Price is $7 outside the U.S.

Cut out processed foods to reduce sugar intake

Reducing the amount of sugar in your diet takes more than putting away the sugar bowl, since many sweeteners are hidden in processed convenience foods, drinks, baked items, confections and frozen foods.

About one-fourth of the average American's calorie intake is from sugar, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist. Natural forms of sugar found in fruits, vegetables and dairy products contribute 6 percent of these calories and the remaining 19 percent come from sugars added to foods.

About two-thirds of the sugar added to foods comes from eating processed foods and the rest from sugar used for cooking or taken from the sugar bowl at home, she adds.

"Most people want to cut down on sugar because of health concerns," says Sweeten, who is with Texas A&M's Agricultural Extension Service.

While sugar intake has not been directly linked to diabetes or heart disease, it may be a contributing factor. Any dietary practice that results in obesity may contribute to the onset of these metabolic disorders, she explains.

"But we should not forget that sugar also plays an important role in the diet," says the specialist. "Although they offer little food value, sugars are absorbed quickly by the body and provide a quick form of energy."

Sugar also adds color, texture and flavor to baked goods. It prolongs the life of foods by inhibiting microbial growth in food preservation and helps firm, thicken and preserve fruits to be canned, frozen or dried.

To reduce sugar consumption, consumers should carefully read the labels on processed foods, says Sweeten.

Since sugar comes in many different forms other than table sugar, it may be listed under a variety of names. Terms ending with "ose" — such as sucrose, glucose, dextrose, fructose, levulose, lactose or maltose are all sugars. Other nutritive sweeteners include invert sugar, molasses, corn syrup, honey, maple sugar and syrup and sugar alcohols such as sorbitol, mannitol and xylitol.

Consumers should remember that ingredients are listed in order of amount on food labels and that several types of sugar may be used in one product. Processed foods where sugar is among the main ingredients can then be avoided, Sweeten says.

Searching for the light

The Shepherd's staff

By the Rev.
John R. Bradshaw,
Pastor
First Presbyterian Church

Some folks become hardened to lost relationships. That's usually because they have been hurt so many times that they have become numb to the pain of loss.

Maybe when they were children they lost a parent. Then, as life continued, they lost even others until now they don't expect anyone to stay for long. For them, maybe others, there is always that awful, desperate feeling of fear that someone close will be lost through death, divorce, alienation, indifference. Or even more heartbreaking, maybe they just grew away from one another.

Well, Bonnie Tyler sings about that in a recent, pop song, "Total Eclipse of the Heart." "Every now and then," she sings . . . "I get lonely . . . tired of hearing the sound of my tears . . . nervous my best years are gone . . . terrified . . . restless . . . helpless . . . angry."

She has fallen in love, but now she is falling apart. If only her guy would come to her and hold her, everything would be all right. She feels that together they could make it to the end of the line. But he is not there and she doesn't know what to do. She feels she is always in the dark.

Once, she feels, there was a light in her life, but now there is only love in the dark: a total eclipse of the heart. In the background the "choir" repeats the phrase, "turn around." Will she come through her loss, will it all end in darkness or, just as the moon re-appears on the other side of an eclipse, will light again shine in her life?

There seems to be a message here: begin to look elsewhere to find a new light in life.

Who would have "thunk" it? Therapeutic counsel in a pop song? Or think about the deep spiritual themes in traditional worship and see if you find things in common with this song. Bonnie sings about being lost in the dark and she yearns for the light she once knew.

How 'bout that!

Societal themes are often destructive

A myth has arisen out of the Protestant ethic which says that God helps those who help themselves, said a theology professor in Texas Christian University's Brite Divinity School.

"That's one of the most destructive themes in American culture — that you deserve what you get," said Dr. Richard Hoehn during a lecture series at Brite. "If you give it a theological layer, it means that God blesses the rich."

That is just one of the destructive themes in the American ethos, said the theologian who specializes in church in society.

Another theme is that "We're No. 1," he said. "High school cheerleaders shout it, hamburger havens hustle it, car rental agencies advertise it, football teams fight for it, and the Pentagon depends on it. The notion that we are not No. 1 in every form of armaments is almost always good for a boost in the budget.

"Some degree of prideful competitiveness may be good. But the devastation of the 'We're No.1' ethos is the belief that we get what we deserve and deserve what we get," said Hoehn.

The worst result of this mindset is what happens to a person who is not successful. Not only does that person live with the fact that he is not No. 1, but it also follows that he is not a good person. He reasons that "obviously it is his moral fault for not trying hard enough.

"The reality is that people do not have an equal chance in life. There is no beginning equality," Dr. Hoehn emphasized.

Other destructive themes are "we only go around once" and "the image makers."

"By and large we experience a certain urgency about life. After all, the fear of personal death, memories of war and images of the depression whisper secrets that our consciousness doesn't want to hear," Hoehn noted. "So we eat and drink more, we drive fast, and we make love as often as possible, for who knows what tomorrow will bring."

Another theme, the image makers, is when "appearance and reality blend together until the image emerges as victor and is perceived to be reality.

"If Luke Skywalker has a great victory over the cosmic forces of chaos, we feel relieved. By golly, the good wins again! Evil is banished, but only on the screen. And we go home feeling good about chaos being banished and often then do not take responsibility for banishing chaos in the society ourselves," said the TCU professor.

Reverend Wright continues seminar

A series of informal stress seminars led by the Rev. Joseph C. Wright continues this Sunday, Sept. 17, at Rockport's First Presbyterian Church, Live Oak at Laurel Street.

The six-session course, designed to help adults understand and cope with the cause of stress, will be held each Sunday through Oct. 23. Cost is $7.50 per person for the entire six sessions.

Rev. Wright is a Christian pastoral psychotherapist and author and has been actively involved in the field of pastoral care and psychotherapy since 1975.

He participated in the first pastoral training class offered at Memorial Hospital in Corpus Christi in 1973 and is presently in private practice in Corpus Christi.

Prayer is the biggest solution to stress of life

There are times in our lives that we need to confide in someone. The pressures of life build up and build up, til we feel almost crushed, but who can we confide in without fear the confidence will be betrayed? I am learning that I can go to the Lord with all my problems. I can discuss any and all my things with Him. I realize that He already knows about it, so I can talk openly and frankly with Him, being completely honest. He is never shocked by my confessions, nor is He dismayed by my shortcomings.

I say I am learning, because I am still at times a little embarrassed to talk so openly, even with Him. You see, we, everyone, must learn this firsthand. Others may tell me about their experiences of taking their problems to Him, and how He blessed them, but I must learn the lesson properly, to have my own experiences.

I am reminded so often of what the song writer has said:

"Oh what Peace we often forfeit, Oh what needless pain we bear, All because we do not carry EVERYTHING to God in Prayer."

The Apostle Paul wrote these words to the Philippians:

"Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God."

If you'll try it, you will find it works.

ACMUD receives favorable audit

LAMAR — A favorable audit report, the 1983-84 tax rate and plans to begin water service to Lamar highlighted a meeting of the Aransas County Municipal Utility District (ACMUD) No. 1 Tuesday night at the district's office in Lamar.

The meeting began at 6:30 p.m. with a report from the district's auditors, Gowland, Kincaid & Davis of Corpus Christi, on the district's books for the year that ended July 31.

According to the auditors, the district had made many improvements in its bookkeeping system and they praised the work of the district's bookkeeper, Alma Johnson.

A tax rate for the new fiscal year was discussed at Tuesday's session but no action was taken except to authorize Herman Little, attorney for the district, to publicize the effective tax rate, which is computed according to a formula provided by the State of Texas.

The district's effective tax rate is $3.82 per $100 valuation, but ACMUD directors were hopeful they would be able to set the actual tax rate at a figure closer to last year's tax of $3.19 per $100.

The district tabled adoption of a tax rate until the Oct. 11 meeting.

Also tabled until Oct. 11 was consideration of a budget for the 1983-84 fiscal year. Board members felt they had inadequate information at this week's session.

In a report on water service now that the district's plant is operational, directors were told the district is "just about ready" to begin water service to Goose Island State Park and the Lamar Water Supply Corp.

Service is expected to begin within the next week contingent on repair of a water supply line coming out of the plant on 8th Street and bringing the plant's fluctuating water pressure under control.

Bud Marsh of Membrane Systems Inc., the Corpus Christi company that recently completed repairs on the plant, indicated he believed the pressure problem was minor. He was asked to check the system and make necessary corrections.

In other action relating to the plant, the ACMUD directors approved a request from Marsh to buy a manual adjustor that regulates the addition of acid during the water purification process to replace the automatic adjustor now in use. Estimated cost of the equipment is $200.

After receiving a written list from Marsh of spare supplies the district needs to keep on hand at the water plant, the directors authorized purchase of an additional $1,400 in this additional equipment. At the August meeting, the board approved purchase of $500 in spare parts for the plant.

In action relating to the beginning of water service to Lamar Water Supply, Little was authorized to write a letter to LWS customers advising them of the change.

Fulton

As of Tuesday evening's meeting, the bait-concession stand at L.E. Casterline Fishing Pier was still unleased. Secretary Lucille Hinson reported that a man interested in leasing the stand was supposed to appear at the meeting but failed to show up.

A Dietz-Loflin motion to proceed with discussion and readings of a subdivision ordinance for the Town of Fulton, which could be amended as necessary, was unanimously approved by the council.

W.E. Petrofsky, a resident of Fulton, reported that work had been completed on redigging drainage ditches on San Antonio Street.

Hinson read a letter from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department thanking Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline for appearing at an Aug. 31 public hearing in Austin. Fulton, in conjunction with the Aransas County Navigation District and Aransas County just received a $200,000 recreational grant from TP&WD for construction of a jogging-bike path along Fulton Beach Road and improvement of facilities in the park near Fulton Harbor.

The council also approved a letter sent to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush thanking them for a $200 donation to the bike path.

Public hearings on the proposed 1983-84 budget of $84,000 will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 20 and 27 at the town hall. At the same time, discussion of ways to spend Fulton's revenue sharing funds will also take place.

Zoning

and members of the audience, "In the new ordinance, they are differentiating between mobile homes and manufactured housing. Your concern is valid if you're thinking about the 1940s style mobile home, but in California and Florida, there are whole cities of manufactured homes."

P&Z member Edwina Stranahan emphasized that double-wide and larger mobile homes are not "mobile" because of their size.

Following a separate meeting, the P&Z commission recommended that the zoning ordinance be accepted by the council for consideration with the wording changed, referring to "manufactured or modular" rather than "mobile" homes.

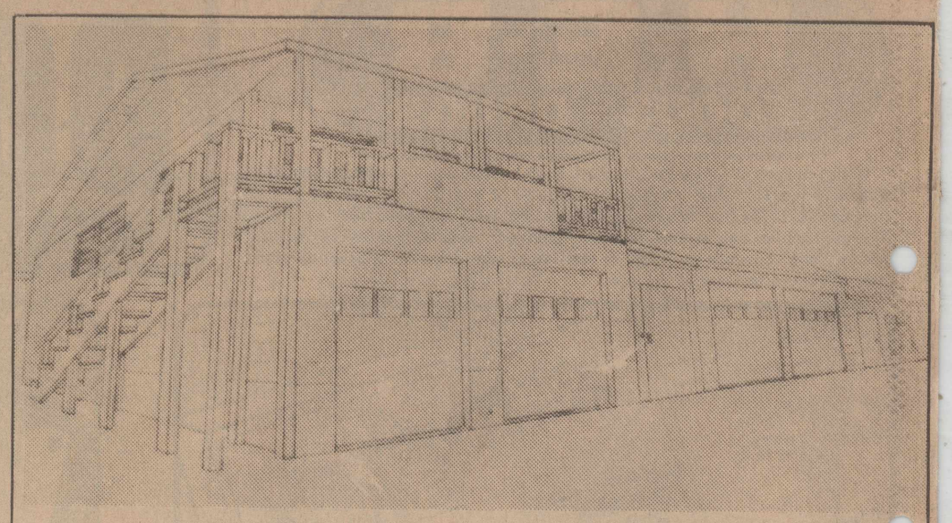

Another major change to the zoning ordinance, that brought no comments from the council or the ordinance, is a provision that allows property to be annexed into the city with a zoning that provides for its actual or proposed use rather than as an automatic R-1, single family residential, zoning.

Armstrong said this would give the city freedom to annex subdivisions under development, for example, with zoning that reflects the approved subdivision plat. In the past, subdivisions have been annexed with R-1 zoning which must go before the council and P&Z in formal hearings before the zoning can be changed, even though the subdivision plat has been approved for multi-family or other uses.

Armstrong added this will also give the city the right to annex existing business or other properties with a zoning that conforms to actual use. She added this provision would not prevent the annexation of property as R-1 if city officials felt that zoning would be best.

In a portion of the hearing dealing with amendments to the city's subdivision ordinance, Beck observed, in response to a comment from City Manager Herman Johnson, that the ordinance provides that no building permits can be issued by the city for a subdivision that has not received final acceptance from the council.

Provisions relating to mobile home subdivisions were removed from the city's zoning ordinance and placed in the subdivision ordinance, and a new provision in the ordinance requires that streets in a subdivision must have a base that is a minimum four-inch waterproof mix.

Remodeling is planned for Fulton Fire Station

FULTON — The Fulton Volunteer Fire Department station will be remodeled and a second floor added to the existing structure, Fire Chief Royce Harrell has announced.

In an interview Wednesday, Sept. 14, Harrell revealed plans for the remodeled station, which include six stalls on the ground floor and construction of restrooms, a meeting room and kitchen facilities on the upper level.

Reuel Yarbrough will perform the work at a cost of $25,000, including labor and materials.

The Fulton Volunteer Fire Department has approached the Fulton town council with a request for financial support but as yet has received no commitment from council members. Harrell said construction will begin as soon as the department finds out how much, if any, support the Fulton council can give to the project.

Four of the six stalls will be used to house firefighting trucks and equipment. The other two stalls will house the new and old town floats.

The ground floor will contain a total of 568 square feet and the upper level, 667 square feet, for a total of 1,235 square feet. Cedar siding will form the trim on the building, which will be insulated for future air conditioning.

The fire department will begin asking for donations via letters scheduled to be mailed next week. In addition, all proceeds from the Oct. 8 dance at the Paws and Taws Building will be put toward construction costs.

Harrell reported that Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline has donated $1,000 and Ed Pullman of Key Allegro has donated $50 to the project.

Hanging baskets are of two types

By TED BRICE
"The Garden Editor"

The garden editor

There are two types of hanging baskets, the wire type and the plastic type, and they may vary in size. But the average is 10 to 12 inches.

For the wire type you will need unmilled sphagnum moss that is not needed for the plastic basket. For the wire basket attach the three hanging wires so that they cover a wire coming from the bottom of the basket, not just the circular wire at the top.

For the plastic basket attach the three hanging wires in the hole provided and wrap over the top and around the same wire.

For the wire basket place the unmilled sphagnum moss loosely in a three-gallon bucket and cover with water and push the moss down to get it thoroughly soaked.

Wring out a handful of the moss at a time and pat the moss down in the bottom and then on the sides of the wire basket. Let the unmilled sphagnum moss extend over the top of the basket. Hold up the basket and inspect it to be sure that the sides are completely covered. Then place a clay-pot saucer or aluminum in the bottom of the basket which will partially overcome the drying out of the basket after it is hung.

The following applies to both the plastic and wire types of baskets: Fill in one-third of the basket with potting soil. Select the plants and set them out in a space representing the basket.

Don't overcrowd the plants as you set them out. Remember they need room to grow in the basket. If the plants are in pots, set them in the basket to see how they will look. At this point you can tell if the soil level is enough.

Never plant the plants any deeper than they were growing at the nursery. Add any potting soil that is needed to bring the soil level to within 1 inch of the top of the basket. Let the soil slope to the center of the basket in order to retain some water.

Plant the center plant first then work out to the sides planting the other plants. After planting, water slowly until water runs from the basket. Hanging baskets need to be watered daily and fertilized every two weeks with a light solution of water soluble fertilizer.

Some plants for hanging baskets that require 80 percent shade and no more than two hours of morning sun would be fibrous begonias (try Fiesta White, Galaxy Pink, Jewelite Red), trailing strawberry, wandering Jew, chlorophytum, geranium (ivy-leafed or trailing), ferns and ivy.

The following plants may be used with some afternoon sun: Boston fern, dwarf Ageratum, lantana, geraniums, coleus, marigold, petunias, chrysanthemums and the shrimp plant.

Hanging baskets can be used to brighten up the smallest place to the largest. Most hanging baskets die from either too much or too little water. Hang above the baskets, on the same hook, "a little dripper." This will gradually dispense water and/or liquid fertilizer on the hanging basket.

All you have to do is fill the "little dripper" once or twice a week and it does the work of watering and or fertilizing. The "little dripper" sure saves your garden editor a lot of time in taking care of his hanging baskets.

If you would like more information on the "little dripper" write your garden editor care of this newspaper.

Good gardening until next week from your Garden Editor, Ted Brice.

Rockport man is injured in accident

A Rockport man was listed in poor condition Wednesday at Memorial Medical Center after Corpus Christi emergency medical personnel revived him following an accident on the Crosstown Expressway-Interstate 37 interchange Wednesday.

Mark Franklin, 21, of Rockport was thrown from his pickup truck after it jumped an expressway guardrail about 2:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Medical personnel and police investigators on the scene had assumed Franklin was dead, since they found no signs of life. However, Franklin suddenly gasped for air and he was revived and transported to Memorial Medical Center's Intensive Care Unit.

No fractures were reported, although Franklin sustained a large cut on his neck. The loss of blood caused him to go into shock.

See Kim Bonnet for vacuum problems

If your vacuum cleaner just doesn't seem to have the power it used to, Kim Bonnet is the person you need to see.

As local distributor and sales representative for Electrolux Vacuum Cleaners, Kim has several models and features to offer, including both upright and cannister types. Some have unique features, such as an automatic cord winder or a machine which pops open when full.

Electrolux vacuums also come with attachments for polishing linoleum and other floor surfaces. Other attachments can be used to shampoo rugs and still others to polish and buff wood floors.

An outstanding feature of the Electrolux line of vacuums is the suction, says Kim. "The specially designed power nozzle will even take sand out of carpets." An added plus is that the suction does not become weaker as the vacuum becomes full, as it often does with other brands.

Kim and her husband, Ted, the chief pilot at Rockport Aviation, are newcomers to Rockport. His mother and his grandmother have both been selling the Electrolux line for more than 35 years.

Electrolux vacuum cleaners can be serviced in Corpus Christi, says Kim, and the company allows customers to make monthly payments with a down payment.

To set up an appointment for an in-home demonstration, call Kim Bonnet from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. seven days a week. The phone number is 729-8243.

NEWS OF SAFETY

Avoid Too Much Sun

You can save your skin—especially if you live in the sunbelt—by avoiding too much exposure to the sun.

Skin experts point out that excessive exposure to the sun may prematurely age your skin, wrinkle it and give it a leathery look.

Too much exposure to the sun may prematurely age your skin.

Sun damage may be more than merely cosmetic. Exposure over many years, especially by light-complexioned people, may lead to a condition known as solar keratosis, which in some cases may become malignant if untreated. Symptoms of this skin condition include irregular, red, scaly patches which appear on exposed areas of the body . . . particularly the face and the back of the hands.

Only a doctor can properly diagnose and treat solar keratosis. A prescription medication available in cream or solution, manufactured by Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., is often applied to the skin with good results for people who have solar keratosis.

You can have fun in the sun without getting burned if you avoid overexposure.

YOU AND YOUR HEALTH

by Peter J. Esse, M.D.

Dear Dr. Esse: My doctor won't let up trying to make the perfect patient out of me. I know he's doing it for my own good. But there's a limit, isn't there? I'm 43 and after smoking cigarettes since I was 15, I had the will power to quit. He convinced me that they'd be the death of me before I was 65. I've been lazy most of my life. But he kept after me to exercise every day to strengthen my heart. I run at least three miles every day. Will you admit I've been a good patient so far? Guess what? Now he's after me to lose weight. I admit I overeat. I'm at least 25 pounds overweight. But isn't there a limit? Restrictions never seem to stop. When do I start having some fun in life? I seem fit otherwise. Why are a few extra pounds so bad for a "wonderful" patient like myself? Mr. C.

Dear Mr. C.: you'll be truly "wonderful" if you go along with your doctor's suggestion one more time. As it happens, obesity may be even a greater threat to your health than smoking and being physically lazy. That's why he's still after you "for your own good." Here are some medical reasons why you should take off that extra weight. Diabetes develops three times more often among obese individuals. Hypertension? It develops ten times more often in those who are 20 percent or more overweight. About 40-50 percent of all obese individuals are hypertensive. Control your weight and it will lessen the chance of heart attack or stroke. According to some researchers, a 20 percent reduction in weight will result in a 40 percent reduction of coronary disease. You'll lessen chances of inviting gall bladder disease and arthritis. Now, I hope yu understand, Mr. C., why your doctor is still after you to prove you are a "wonderful" patient.

Parson Jones

Our youngest grandson, Josh, is visiting with us. While watching a toothpaste commercial on TV, I asked him, "Josh, did any of these toothpaste companies ever check the kids' teeth in your school?" "Yep," he replied, "They found our group had 20 percent less teeth!" At first thought that sounded pretty bad, but with further consideration I decided that 20 percent of the members missing on Sunday morning would be an improvement. (Come to think of it, the congregation has that snaggle-tooth look ... one here, two there, and ten on the back row.)

I dreamed about this employment problem, after walking home from the church through mosquito spray. I saw a boat moving slowly down the river, and in it were fourteen people. Everybody was doing something as this seaworthy craft came into full view, and I saw the name, "CHURCH." "Aha," I said, as I noticed the group was divided into pairs of two, "these people are organized!" Sure enough, there were 2 rowing, 2 blowing, 2 going, 2 no-ing, 2 stowing, 2 towing, and 2 woe-ing.

The rowers were manning the paddles, causing forward motion of the boat! The blowers were talking about how the rowers should be doing it. The goers were along for the ride ... to make the rowers feel better about the attendance. Giving reasons why the boat should not have left dock in the first place, and why it would sink in the second place, were the noers. The stowers just came along for the ride ... free, of course, and the towers helped out only in case of an emergency. Last, but not least, were the woe-ers. They not only predicted rough times ahead for the good ship "Church," but prayed fervently that their predictions would come to pass.

I woke up and exclaimed, "How did that boat move?" Then I remembered, the wind was blowing.

THE REAL ESTATE CONSUMER

HOME IMPROVEMENT LOANS

With the recent plunge in interest rates, many homeowners are planning to make home improvements.

Even though Texas homestead laws permit the creation of an enforceable lien against one's residence, the homeowner may be surprised at the amount of paperwork required to approve such a loan.

The reason for the paperwork is Texas law requires that the following items be met to perfect the home improvement loan. The written contract must contain an adequate legal description of the property, set forth the price and time for payments and provide a general description of the improvement. The contract must be executed by the husband and the wife and acknowledged prior to the furnishing of any labor or material.

If these procedures are not complied with exactly, the homestead laws will prevent the lender from foreclosing on the residence in the event of a default.

REAL ESTATE CENTER OFFERS CONSUMER INFORMATION

If you have questions about Texas real estate, the Texas Real Estate Research Center can help you find the answers.

The Center was established by the state legislature in 1971, and part of its job is to provide information to real estate consumers. To meet this obligation, we have published pamphlets and booklets on such topics as buying and selling a home, what to look for when you invest in real estate and what kinds of mortgage loans are available when you purchase a house or other property.

For landowners who are affected by the oil and gas boom, we offer a publication called "Hints on Negotiating an Oil and Gas Lease." Most of this material is offered at little or no cost. If you want a free list of our publications, write us at Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2115.

CONDOMINIUM OWNERSHIP IS COMPLEX

Condominium ownership — in Texas — is the consolidation of separately owned single units in a multiple structure or structures with common elements.

The common elements, coowned by all condo unit owners, include all portions of the condominium except the separate units. Common elements are the foundation, bearing walls, roofs, stairways, yards, and central services such as power, water and central air conditioning and heating.

The common elements may be further divided into limited common elements. Limited common elements are those agreed on by the co-owners to be reserved for the use of certain units or apartments. These include such things as special stairways and elevators, common to the units of a particular floor. Obviously, condominium ownership is more complex than it might at first seem.

HOMEOWNER INSURANCE NEEDED TO COVER INVESTMENT

When a homeowner purchases a house, he or she purchases a title insurance policy.

The purpose of this policy obligates the title insurance company to pay the insured party for any losses incurred because of defects in the title. The maximum amount of the payments is specified in the policy.

Many homeowners do not realize that the title insurance purchased at the closing will cover only the mortgage lender's losses unless the homebuyer purchases an additional policy to cover his or her investment in the home.

If you have recently purchased a home, avoid potentially unpleasant surprises by finding what kind of policy you have purchased. If the policy does not cover your investment, you may be able to acquire an owner's policy at little cost.

Your real estate broker may be of assistance in determining an appropriate course of action.

BROCHURE HELPS PREVENT RENTAL DISPUTES

If you rent and have had an argument with your landlord recently, the chances are the argument occurred because of a misunderstanding about who was to do what under the terms of your lease.

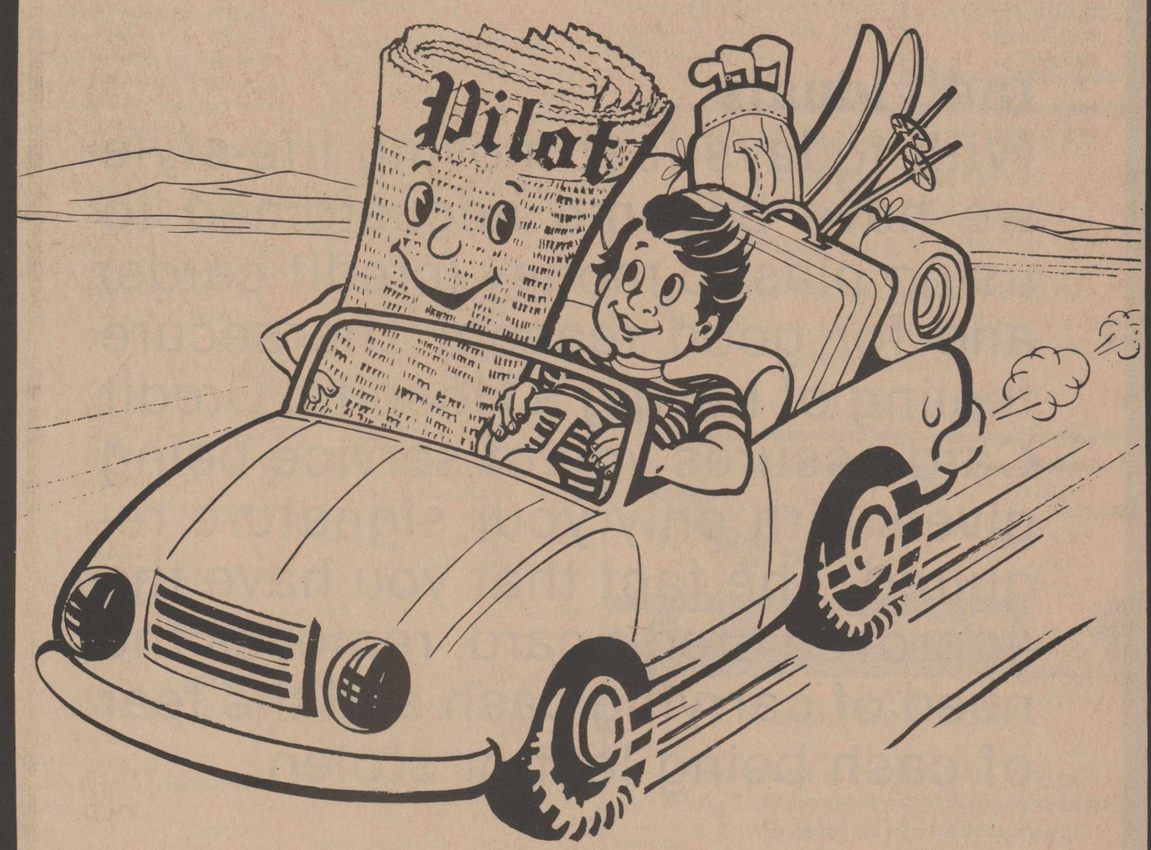

Now there is a brochure available which may help prevent such arguments. It is called "Apartment Living and the Law," and it is published by the Texas Apartment Association.

The brochure describes the Texas laws that govern the relationship between a landlord and tenant. In it you will find information about security deposits, ownership disclosure, repairs, nonpayment of rent, evictions, smoke detectors and security devices.

If your landlord cannot provide you with a copy of this brochure, request one from the Texas Apartment Association in Austin. It might make life more pleasant for you and your landlord.

The Real Estate Consumer is brought to you as a public service by this newspaper and the Texas Real Estate Research Center. Address inquires to: The Real Estate Consumer, Texas Real Estate Research Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2115.

Coastal Bend Hospital offers you the C.A.P. card.

C. Credit
A. Approved
P. Patient

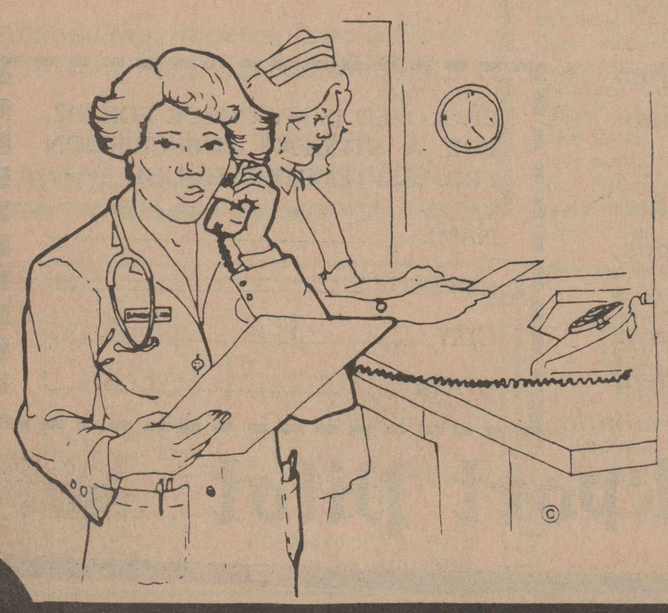

Now you can avoid the sometimes lengthy waiting period involved in Hospital admissions, Outpatient Services or Emergency Room visits.

To whom does the C.A.P. card benefit:

Families
As our children grow older and become more active a C.A.P. card would be an added convenience on their behalf if the situation ever came up. The C.A.P. card provides immediate identification and insures proper attention. The C.A.P. card program should include all your family members.

Businesses
Your employees are the most important asset in your business and their health is just as important. The C.A.P. card provides that employee with the fastest possible method of receiving all available services at Coastal Bend Hospital.

Individuals
With todays fast moving life-style we have become accustomed to using plastic money (credit cards) and for good reason. The secure feeling of having a Hospital Credit Card assures you of service being given with only your signature required. The fact that you have the approved credit card, removes the need of carrying cash and the fear of cash being lost or stolen.

C.A.P. plans to be operational by Oct. 1, 1983.

If you are interested in the C.A.P. card, please clip the attached coupon and drop it in the mail today!

Why should you receive a "CAP" card?

Saves Time
When you present your C.A.P. card for services or upon admission to Coastal Bend Hospital you can be assured that you will receive the service required in the least amount of time possible. Only your signature on the necessary forms are needed before you are personally admitted to a room or treated for Outpatient or emergency services.

Eliminates Bothersome Paperwork
Often there are bothersome, confusing problems that a patient is confronted with at time of admission or when services are performed. Your C.A.P. card eliminates this problem. As a card holder, your admissions, insurance and other necessary information is already in the Hospital System. You are a credit approved patient.

Insures Payment
Although you may carry valid insurance that covers emergencies and hospitalization it is nice to know that those verifications have been taken care of at the time you received your C.A.P. card. For those applicants that don't have a Health Insurance Plan, but are financially sound, the C.A.P. card is easily accepted upon presentation.

Please send me a C.A.P. Card Application

WILLIAM HOLDEN
A TALENTED HERO

Such was William Holden's talent that his contemporaries regarded his acting as the finest there was.

Holden's close friend and favorite director, Billy Wilder, said that 'Holden died every time he had to act. . .he's beyond acting. He is there. It is as simple as that. You never doubt or question what he is."

Holden's acting spanned five decades of Hollywood. . .five totally different decades, each one of which put a different demand on his talent.

Holden was born as William Franklin Beedle in O'Fallon, Illinois, on April 17, 1918. In 1937 he was acting in a play at South Pasadena Junior College when he was 'discovered' by Paramount, who put him under contract.

Two years later, Holden was starring in his first feature role as the boxer who wants to be a violinist in Mamoulian's "Golden Boy." Actor Lee J. Cobb, who was only seven years older than Holden, played the boy's father in the film.

With a promising film career ahead of him, Holden spent awhile in the army then spent the rest of the forties playing various 'hero' parts.

Although possessing considerable talent, there were no roles that distinguished Holden from the multitude of other pleasant young actors in Hollywood and it seemed that Holden's full potential may not be realized.

Then Wilder cast William Holden as the gigolo and a writer in the movie "Sunset Boulevard". After a drab decade of half heros, Wilder's astute casting set Holden's star soaring again. Gloria Swanson gave a bittersweet performance as the aging movie queen in the classic comeback and Holden went on to play a series of excellent roles.

His second success in 1950 was in "Born Yesterday," with the original "dumb blonde", Judy Holliday. Judy's performance earned her an Oscar - and Holden's sent him on to even better performances.

Billy Wilder had the ability to draw the last drop of talent from Holden. Director of four Holden films, Wilder has called Holden "the ideal motion-picture actor" and cast him superbly as the cynical con-man sergeant in the 1953 "Stalag 17."

Holden was then teamed with another of Wilder's favorites, Audrey Hepburn (who provided the love interest as the chauffeur's daughter) to make "Sabrina." A co-starring role with John Wayne in "The Horse Soldiers" kept Holden's career on a roll and a support role in "The Country Girl" with Grace Kelly undoubtedly edged her towards her Oscar win.

Holden's Oscar-winning role in "Stalag 17" was achieved at perhaps the height of his popularity, although he continued to give superb performances right up to his death. It seemed that he never really achieved 'super star' status - maybe because he was a 'natural' actor, rather than a studio-manufactured performer.

During the fifties Holden was a major star but it seemed that there were less and less roles for him to play in the sixties - until Sam Peckinpah's "The Wild Bunch," where his portrayal as the aging gang leader gave a whole new generation of movie-goers a hero.

Two appearances with Faye Dunaway, in "The Towering Inferno" and "Network" took Holden into the seventies, where his performances were as strong as ever.

Despite his popularity and talent, Holden seemed insecure about his work and in his later years, drank heavily. Alcohol was the indirect cause of his death, when on November 16, 1981, he slipped on a bedside rug and hit his head on a small table.

At Six Flags Stars Hall of Fame in Orlando, Florida, Holden is remembered as the young man in "Sunset Boulevard," paying tribute to the talents of the aging movie queen.

Bono's Astro-Vue

© By Lillian Bono

Week of Sept. 18-Sept. 24

ARIES
(March 21-April 20) Disregard rumors about changes that will affect your lifestyle. Business enterprises should be investigated thoroughly before you invest hard earned money.

TAURUS
(April 21-May 21) Offer advice to someone close to you who has a problem. Your feelings towards a colleague may change drastically when hidden facts are unearthed.

GEMINI
(May 22-June 21) Blaming yourself for an incident that was caused by circumstances beyond your control is a waste of energy. Offer comfort and help to stray pets and lost children.

CANCER
(June 22-July 23) Family gatherings keep you busy and force you to confront hidden feelings towards relatives. Short trips add a lift to your life.

LEO
(July 24-Aug. 23) Entertaining close friends gives you the chance to catch up on gossip. Business dealings requiring up front money should be postponed until you can do more research.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24-Sept. 23) Attempting to talk a loved one into changing careers could backfire and discourage this individual. Endeavors involving higher education stimulate your interest.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24-Oct. 23) An amorous colleague could help you professionally. A change in residence might make you calmer and help you to relax when you're at home.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Setting your sights on a goal far beyond your sights could lead to a major disappointment. Reach for the attainable. You'll be happier.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Love prospers unexpectedly between you and someone you haven't known for long. A new project might bring you to the attention of a powerful associate who can help you advance professionally.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Assignments at work could demand more of your time and efforts than usual. Acquaintances invite you to evening affairs where just about anything might go.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21-Feb. 19) A blossoming friendship could hit a snag if either of you listens to a jealous third party. Trust your instincts.

PISCES
(Feb. 20-March 20) A love relationship that went sour could be revived providing you are willing to work on it. Family problems should be addressed quickly before feelings are hurt and loved ones become reluctant to talk.

WINE LOVERS' TIPS FACTS AND NOTES

* Interest in and knowledge of wines has grown tremendously in the U.S. in the last decade, but while this country produces large quantities of fine wine, per capita consumption is quite low compared to that of other countries. According to the Wine Institute of San Francisco, CA, the U.S. ranked sixth in 1981 among all wine-producing nations, with France, Italy, the Soviet Union, Argentina and Spain to top five producers. And, yet, the individual American drinks an average of 38 gallons of soft drinks in a year, and only 2.21 gallons of wine. In France, per capita consumption is 23.8 per year.

* Mirassou Winery of San Jose, CA, received nine medals at the 1983 Orange County Fair Wine Competition last June. The Mirassou medal-winners to look for: Mirassou 1979 Cabernet Sauvingon, 1979 Harvest Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon, 1982 Late Harvest Johannisberg Riesling, 1980 Zinfandel, 1981 Harvest Reserve Chardonnay, 1982 Chenin Blanc, 1982 White Burgundy, 1979 Brut Champagne and the 1979 Blanc de Noir Champagne.

* Also, at the Orange County Fair, Geyser Peak Winery of Sonoma County won five medals, three of them gold — Geyser Peak 1982 Chenin Blanc and 1982 Soft Chenin Blanc, plus Geyser Peak's Brut Champagne, described as having "a fragrant bouquet with a fresh dry flavor."

* Speaking of champagne, the Hanns Kornell Champagne Cellars will introduce a new sparkling wine in September: their Blanc de Blancs Champagne, made entirely of Chenin Blanc. Using the traditional methode champenoise of the French Champagne district, the resulting wine is described as "crisp, smooth, and surprisingly dry."

SOAP BUBBLES

By Seli Groves

Slightly belated but, nonetheless, sincerely offered Happy Birthday wishes to "Search for Tomorrow." The oldest soap on TV debuted September 3, 1951.

MARY STUART

Mary Stuart (Joanne) is the only member of the original cast still with the series. She's also one of the few long-time veterans of any soap opera to rate major storylines through the years. Her current story, which has Joanne Tourneur fighting to survive the ordeal inflicted upon her by her sadistic kidnapper, Bill Walton (played chillingly by John Glover) proves once more why the lady is considered one of the top actors in the soap medium.

By the way, the use of a psychic in the current "Search" stories is an interesting adaptation of several real-life instances where people with supposedly extra sensory "gifts" were brought in to help solve kidnapping cases. The producer of "Search," Joanna Lee, handles this theme quite well, leaving it up to her audience to determine whether the psychic has those special powers or whether valid non-supernatural forces are at work.

SOAP SCRAPS: It's all Greek to them — and they can now speak a bit of it. We're talking about Susan and Bill Hayes (Julie and Doug Williams, "Days of Our Lives"). Castmate Thaao Penghlis (Tony), though Australian-born, is of Greek descent and a lifelong student of his ancestral culture ... Dinners at "The Rocking Horse" restaurant in San Francisco may see Macdonald Carey (Tom, "Days") dining there from time to time. The place is owned by Mac's son, Edward Macdonald Carey, Jr. and sometimes Pop loves to pop in to sample his "pup's" popovers ... Steven Ford (Andy, "Young & the Restless") is also the son of a famous father, former President Gerald R. Ford. Steve recently won the "Y&R" pot made up of lines from those who couldn't resist saying eyebrow raising four-letter words during a three month time period. Steve was the only one who didn't lapse into more colorful verbiage a la his castmates. A horse breeder, it's said the only discouraging words he ever uses are: "barn baubles." (No, I don't believe that either.)

CAST AWEIGHS: Robin Greer plays Sidney Price on "Ryan's Hope" ... Bradley Lockerman is the new hunk hunkering down on "Capitol." He plays Zed Diamond, a mysterious figure whose facets haven't all been shown — yet!

INFO-BITS: Booth Coleman (ex Dr. Jerrold, "General Hospital") made lots of fans while on the soap. You may want to know that he appears annually at Detroit's Meadowbrook Theatre, so you may not have to say Sayonara to the Japanese speaking Coleman after all.

MEDIA MONITOR

Gary Collins

For Collins, now is the 'Hour'

By Joan Crosby

Gary Collins, the handsome, likable host of "Hour Magazine," has the ability to put things in perspective, something he attributes to his Iowa farm background.

"I always heard that there were good seasons and there were bad seasons when I was growing up," he says.

Collins is having a good season, or seasons, to be closer to fact.

Yes, he admits that he occasionally misses acting, but he doesn't brood about it.

"As an actor I was one of maybe 300 in my category. As a TV host, I'm one of maybe six who are on nationally. People have a new perception of me. The audience is sometimes amazed that an actor can sit and listen and also carry on a conversation and make sense of it all.

"Sure, I miss acting a bit. But it really doesn't compare to what I'm doing now and the things I get a chance to do. For instance Mary Ann (his wife, Mary Ann Mobley) and I traveled on the Orient Express for a segment of the show. It was a wonderful thrill. Now we want to travel on the Blue Train, which I'm told is the greatest of them all. That will probably have to be during a vacation, however. It's not necessarily anything for the show.

Collins loves going to work every day. Two shows are completed each day, and he has every third week off. He also feels he is helping people in a small way.

"When we finish a show that is on a topic that can inform and help viewers and make a difference in the lives of the viewers, there is a wonderful feeling you can't buy or sell."

Collins has just spent his second year as host of the Miss America Pageant. This year his wife, a former Miss America, appeared with him.

MEDICINE CHEST

Your Professional:
Troy True, Reg. Pharmacist

What would happen if I just decided to swallow my nitroglycerine tablets instead of dissolving them under my tongue? — A.P.

If you swallowed them, probably very little would happen. Your tablets would fall victim to the "first pass" effect. The entire oral dose of a drug must first pass through the liver prior to reaching your general circulation. This "first pass" through the liver can significantly alter drugs like nitroglycerine, methyltestosterone and isoproterenol and make them inactive.

The new medicine I take for glaucoma is not a drug. It's called a prodrug. Why is it called a prodrug? — I.L.

Any drug that does not have a medicinal effect until it is transformed by the body is called a prodrug. Propine is the first anti-glaucoma prodrug for chronic open-angle glaucoma. When Propine is dropped in the eye, it is converted to the drug epinephrine.

Is there any drug available for dissolving kidney stones? — T.F.

Unfortunately there is nothing available tha you can swallow and result in dissolving kidney stones. A chemcial referred to as EDTA has been used to irrigate the tubes leading to the kidneys. and has been effective in dissolving stones located in the tubes. This irrigation procedure (using a catheter) can be painful, may cause infection, and take a long time to do while hospitalized. Hopefully, out of the laboratories of some university or drug company will come an effective medicine for this condition.

Viewers will get a chance to see Australian football at its best when ESPN airs the Australian Rules Football grand final from Melbourne on Sept. 24. Australian rules football is something like rugby — similarly shaped ball, no protective equipment — with some American-type moves and rules grafted on.

*

MTV will present a performance by Duran Duran on Sept. 24, taped at the Hammersmith Odeon in London. Duran Duran, one of the most popular techno-pop bands, will perform their singles "Hungry Like a Wolf" and "Girls on Film," among others.

*

On the Sept. 24 edition of Nickelodeon's "Reggie Jackson's World of Sports," Reggie will go to a national track competition at Memphis University. Teen-agers from across the country will compete in the 100-meter high hurdles, shot put, pole vault and other decathlon events.

*

Some films on Spotlight this week:

"Arthur" (Sept. 18) — Dudley Moore gives his greatest performance as a drunken billionaire heir who has to grow up — sort of. "Don't you wish you were me," he shouts from his limo as it careens through Central Park. "I sure do." Sir John Gielgud is excellent as the butler who also doubles as Arhur's father figure. Liza Minnelli is so-so as Arthur's klepto girlfriend from Queens.

"Pride of the Yankees" (Sept. 18) — Gary Cooper stars in this story of Lou Gehrig, the one Bronx Bomber who actually came from the Bronx. Maybe you have to be a Yankee fan to appreciate this tear-jerker, but it's still great.

"The Boat" (Sept. 20) — One of last year's outstanding foreign films. This film unsentimentally describes the life of a German U-Boat crew during World War II. Both the camaraderie and misery of a group of men who knew they were going to die — since virtually every U-Boat was sunk during the course of the war — is vividly portrayed.

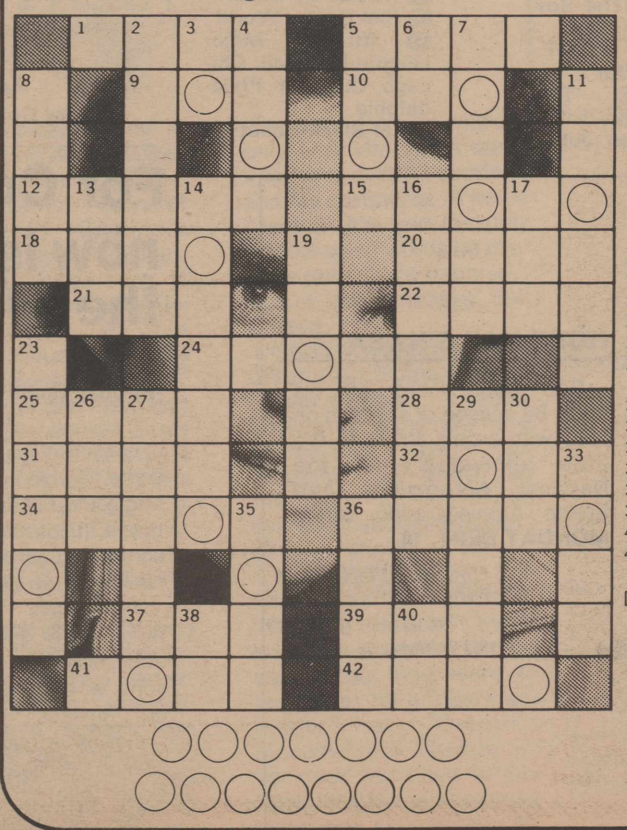

"Sounder" (Sept. 24) — Cicely Tyson gives a powerful performance in this drama of a black family down South during the early part of this century. The family endures racial discrimination, poverty and prison while keeping themselves and their values together. The musician, Taj Mahal, does an excellent cameo as an itinerant bluesman. The dog for whom the film is named also has more personality than movie dogs are apt to have.

DANIEL, from Paramount Pictures. Directed by Sidney Lumet, screenplay by E.L. Doctorow. Starring Timothy Hutton, Lindsay Crouse, Ed Asner. Rated 'R' ★ ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

When future film historians are looking back at the career of Sidney Lumet they could easily term this film and its two predecessors as Lumet's "justice trilogy."

"Prince of the City" told of a New York City policeman's struggle to stay honest. "The Verdict" illustrated how the law and justice are occasionally at odds with each other, and now "Daniel" deals with those who actively protest what they believe about laws and governments.

"Daniel" is based on E.L. Doctorow's novel "The Book of Daniel." The events and characters are inspired by the tale of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, a couple who were executed in the 1950s, supposedly for selling atomic secrets to the Russians.

The story, however, also focuses on the children of those who have protested in the past. We examine the effects of such events through the eyes of the children, and how they will react to contemporary felllow activists. The heroes are never perfect in any cause, and the villains are often more bumbling than diabolical. Those who protest are part-visionary, part-martyr, but above all, human.

"Daniel" is powerful, moving filmmaking at its best. Here is a deeply moving story, a tale of a family torn apart because of the gap between their idealistic dreams and the reality of the power of the authorities.

The performances in Lumet's films are outstanding. Timothy Hutton stars as Daniel, who 10 years later, is now struggling as an adult to deal with the execution of his parents. Amanda Plummer, his younger sister, doesn't quite have her brother's strength, ending up in drugs and mental collapse. As the Rosenberg-like couple, Lindsay Crouse and Mandy Patinkin, are superb.

A late-summer release is unusual for this type of film, but Lumet's direction, Doctorow's absorbing script, and those performances make "Daniel" one of the best films of the year.

TV Nostalgia

By Marie Iandiorio

Critics of the early "Ed Sullivan Show," originally titled "Toast of the Town," were not kind. Most comments centered on his deadpan delivery, his lack of any noticeable talent as a performer and the strange collection of acts he put together for a single show.

Sullivan, a former newspaper columnist, trademarked his brand of variety show by juxtaposing grand opera, rock 'n' roll, classical ballet, slapstick and dramatic renditions. Virtually every "name" act in American music, comedy, theater and film appeared over the years. Some Sullivan "firsts" included Bob Hope, Dinah Shore and the Beatles.

Sullivan's mannerisms became legendary, the butt of a thousand comics. The parodies peaked in the early 1960s when his program was brilliantly satirized in the Broadway musical "Bye Bye Birdie," in which an all-American family reaches spiritual ecstasy when they learn "We're going to be on Ed Sullivan."

Question: Can you name the young comedy team who starred on the first Ed Sullivan Show on June 20, 1948?

Answer: Martin and Lewis

GLORIA

Sally Struthers stars in the title role in "Gloria," airing WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 21 on CBS. In tonight's rebroadcast episode, Gloria has the difficult task of breaking the news to Joey of her divorce.

INSIDE TV

BY CHRIS COLBY

CLOSEUPS: Edward Mulhare, Devon Shire of "Knight Rider" is single, lives in Connecticut when not filming in Hollywood, was born in Cork, Ireland, has blue eyes and blonde hair, weighs in at 180 pounds, and is single. He succeeded Rex Harrison as Henry Higgins in "My Fair Lady" and his first series starrer was in "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir"... Emmy nominated for her role as Nurse Rosenthal in "St. Elsewhere," Christina Pickles still has a strong feeling for her native England but is glad her kids are Yanks. "American children," she says, "seem more open and happier. They are also far more independent than British youngsters." Christina is the niece of the late great English comic, Wilfred Pickles ..."Diff'rent Strokes" Conrad Bain was born and raised in Canada, but now lives in Brentwood, Calif. (a suburb of L.A.) with his wife Monica and their three kids, Jennifer, Mark and Kent. The ever-suave, ever-polished Bain was a sergeant in the Canadian Army during World War II.

CHER

FOCUS: Cher was almost out before she was in. Word is Jamie Lee Curtis replaced her in CBS' "Grandview USA" due to a disagreement between Cher and the producers over leading men ... Heather Locklear ("Dynasty" and "T.J. Hooker") makes her feature film debut in "Firestarter" with David Keith and Drew Barrymore ... Wanting to keep trim for his Mike Hammer role, Stacy Keach works out daily with the barbells ... Reid Sheldon, who created the role of Daddy Warbucks in "Annie", plays a banker in the new "Bay Street Blues" series ... Bonnie Franklin should stick with her "One Day At A Time" role on the tube. Her attempt at Noel Coward on the stage left a lot to be desired and the Los Angeles critics said so ... Dyan Cannon will be wonderful as Kate Blackwell in Sidney Sheldon's "Master of The Game" set as a nine hour mini-series for CBS ... Debra Sue Maffett, Miss America 1983, hopes when her reign ends in September she will be able to land a job as a TV Talk Show hostess. Good luck! The line forms to the right with Dinah in first place ... Milton Berle and Imogene Coca had cast and crew in hysterics while filming a segment of "Fantasy Island." Another guest star that day was Victoria Spelling who just happens to be the young daughter of Aaron Spelling who just happens to be the show's producer. Nepotism anyone? ...

COMING EVENTS: Making her first stage appearance as First Lady, Nancy Reagan honors the late Princess Grace of Monaco when she narrates the whimsical verses written by Ogden Nash for Saint-Saens' "The Carnival of Animals." The concert in memory of Princess Grace was taped at Kennedy last March and airs over PBS Monday evening September 26th. (Check your area for time) ... "Facts of Life" changes locales this season from the Eastland School to "Edna's Edibles" a restaurant/food service run by Mrs. Garrett. Jo (Nancy McKeon) moves into a room over the shop and works for Mrs. G., Tootie (Kim Fields) and Natalie (Mindy Cohn) still at Eastland get permission to move off campus and live with Mrs. Garrett, and Blair (Lisa Whelchel) now in college will eventually move in too. Later in the season Kelly, (Pam Segall) a street kid caught shoplifting, will be added.

FAITH • HOPE • SINCERITY
FIND THEM IN CHURCH

Dear Debbie

DEAR DEBBIE:

I am a 25-year-old woman who has never been married. I am presently involved with a 40-year-old man I have known since I was 20. I have asked him over and over again if he will ever get remarried and he says yes. However, I get the feeling he's just saying that to make me happy since he knows how badly I want to get married. I'm also unsure as to whether or not he is capable of having children. We tried for three years to have a baby because I wanted so much to give him a child, but nothing happened. I want a child desperately. Please tell me what I should do. All I want to do is get married and I don't know if it's an impossible dream or not.

MISS INSECURE

DEAR INSECURE

I always find it sad to receive such a letter as yours. It is obvious to me that you are suffering under great misconceptions about marriage. Do yourself a favor. Talk to people who have been married, whether for a short time or long — preferably both. They will be able to give you a more realistic view of marriage. It's hard work. Sometimes you hate each other. It's not all roses and kisses. You have to be aware of all these things. The person you choose to marry should have a lot more than just love going for him. Can you tolerate his habits? Do you have similar interests or vastly different ones? Is he able to compromise or must everything always be his way? Who is the "giver" in the relationship? You must think long and hard about all these things before saddling yourself with someone for the rest of your life.

You mentioned trying to have a child for three years. In my opinion, I think that's very irresponsible. You were willing to bring an innocent child into the world when you're involved with a man who obviously has no real commitment to you. As a result, you are in a confused, highly emotional state. The one who would suffer for this is the child. It's a good thing you didn't conceive. That would have been a highly selfish thing.

Instead of concentrating on marriage and this man, why not spend some time on just you? Think about your career goals. Where do you want to be in five or ten years from now? Don't cop out by saying you want to be married. While I believe it should, marriage doesn't always endure. Therefore, you have to be able to take care of yourself. Set some goals for yourself that don't involve this man. Then set about trying to achieve them.

* * *

DEAR DEBBIE:

My five-year-old daughter is extremely shy and sensitive. When I have to discipline her, she immediately takes it to heart. Her reaction is almost frightening. She retreats from everyone, crying silently and won't talk. I have tried to go back to remember whether or not someone severely reprimanded her and scared her, but I can't come up with anything. Should I seek professional help?

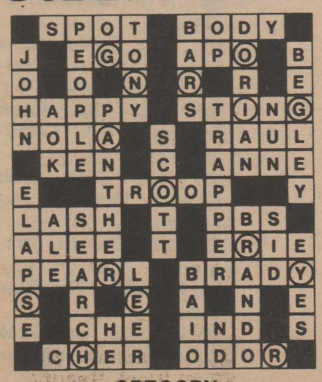

DISTRAUGHT MOM

DEAR MOM

Some children are extremely sensitive. They feel any parental disapproval means they're not loved. This can be a devastating feeling for a child. Therefore, I suggest when you have to discipline your daughter, make sure you preface anything with, "Mommy loves you very much, but she doesn't like what you did." Although I realize everyone has to lose control sometimes, try not to raise your voice. Reinforce your love for her the same time you are telling her about her wrong-doing.

JILL JACKSON'S HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD: There was a lot of fun and kidding around when Elizabeth Taylor and Carol Burnett filmed HBO's "Best Friends."

CAROL BURNETT

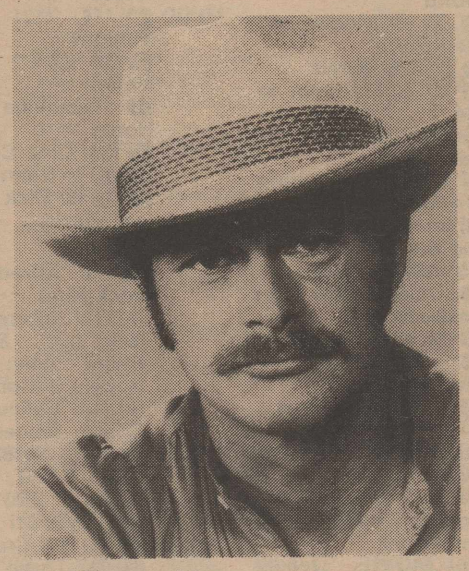

For an outdoor scene in four feet of snow, both actresses wore layers of long johns. On cue, Carol bent over, lifted her dress and exhibited the words "blue moon" penciled on the seat of her pants. Elizabeth shrieked with laughter. And that laugh is something to hear. Noel Coward once told her it was like a drunken sailor's on leave. Too bad Taylor's performance as Deborah Shapiro will be seen only by Cable viewers. It's one of her best, and even though a bit plump, she's gorgeous.

Young Amanda Plummer, who looks like her father Christopher and sounds like her mother, Tammy Grimes, was a big hit as Juliet in the San Diego, Calif. production of the Bard's romantic tragedy. Now she's readying for her role opposite Jessica Tandy in Tennessee Williams' "Glass Menagerie" to open in December in New York.

AWARDS! AWARDS! They go on and on. June Allyson, Glenn Ford, Cyd Charisse, Ray Bolger, Joan Collins and veteran director Reuben Mamoulian received Hollywood International Awards for their contributions to the Industry at a Cocoanut Grove Gala. Tippi Hedren and John Philip Law hosted the evening ... Robert Preston emceed the Gay Alliance Media Awards at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. Vivian Blaine, Eileen Brennan, Rita Moreno, Lynn Redgrave and Loretta Swit were presenters ... Lon Chaney II, grandson of the legendary film great, received an Award for "Artistic Achievement in Motion Picture Make-up and Hairstyling" as part of a ten week film tribute honoring Chaney, Sr. ... "Dallas' " Steve Kanaly was honored with a plaque by the Dallas Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program for serving in the Infantry's First Cavalry Division during the Vietnam War ... And the Award for the Worst Picture of the Year goes unanimously to "The Man Who Wasn't There."

BIT'N'PIECES: Shirlee Fonda, Henry's widow, and Neil Simon, Marsha Mason's ex, have been seeing each other ... Ethel Merman's friends are delighted to see her out and about even if it is in a wheelchair ... Once again a bachelor girl, Eva Gabor has been seen about Hollywood with several available millionaires, mostly from Texas ... If you want to, stars stand outside Vidal Sasoon's in Beverly Hills. In one afternoon, Bette Midler, Jackie Smith, Carol Burnett, George Hamilton, Leslie Uggams, Pam Dawber and Steve Martin had their tresses tended ... Mia Farrow's mama, Geraldine Fitzgerald, busy, busy, busy in the Hollywoods recording albums, presenting her one woman show of street songs and directing "Mass Appeal" at the Huntington Hartford Theater .

More newies launched

By Andy Noble

This week, viewers will get to see six more new series making their debuts.

ABC's "Hotel," which makes its debut on Wednesday, Sept. 21, has been the most talked-about of the new offerings. Based on Arthur Hailey's novel, the drama stars James Brolin, Connie Sellecca and Bette Davis. It has been described as a ' "Love Boat" on dry land" because of its cast of new characters each week who become involved in adventures inside the plush hostelry.

ABC also launches "Hardcastle & McCormick" on Sunday, Sept. 18 as a special two-hour presentation on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie." The regular season premiere will be the following Sunday.

It's a Stephen J. Cannell Production, the same folks who brought you "The A-Team." There are some similarities between the two. We have an unconventional team of crime-fighters (Brian Keith plays eccentric retired Judge Hardcastle and Daniel Hugh-Kelly plays "Skid" McCormick, an ex-con race-car driver, who team to bring criminals to justice) , car crashes galore, cartoon-like dialogue.

Also premiering on ABC this week are "Just Our Luck," a hipper version of "I Dream of Jeannie" (Tuesday, Sept. 20) and "Trauma Center," a swift-moving medical drama (Thursday, Sept. 22) .

Meanwhile, NBC will give the two-hour treatment to its new series, "For Love and Honor," airing Friday, Sept. 23. This is a contemporary drama about the lives and loves of the members of a batallion in the U.S. Army's 88th Airborne Division, which has some overtones of the film "An Officer and a Gentleman." The ensemble cast features Cliff Potts, Shelley Smith, Yaphet Kotto, Gary Grubbs and Rachel Ticotin.

Also on Friday, NBC gives a special one-hour premiere to "Mr. Smith," its new comedy about a talking orangutan who works for the U.S. government. This latter-day "Mr. Ed" is another new show that one major advertising agency has said could be successful.

In this premiere episode, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," we see how a bizarre laboratory experiment at a Washington research institute turns a former circus orangutan into a genius with the power of speech. C.J., the simian who appeared in the Clint Eastwood film "Any Which Way You Can," stars as Mr. Smith. Leonard Frey plays Mr. Smith's government-assigned personal secretary.

MR. SMITH

Lovable talking genius Mr. Smith (l.) and his slower brother, Bobo, give Mr. Smith's personal secretary, Raymond Holoyoke (Leonard Frye), plenty to worry about between national crises and playful antics, in NBC's "Mr. Smith," making its debut FRIDAY, SEPT. 23.

HOLLYWOOD — Here's a day-to-day look at what I foresee you viewers will like and dislike as the new television season gets under way this month.

MONDAY — CBS' The Scarecrow and Mrs. King starring Kate Jackson and Bruce Boxleitner

should be a hit at 8 p.m. with Boone on NBC a sure failure. As predicted earlier, CBS' After M*A*S*H on at 9 p.m. does not look like a sure-bet at this time, but might survive. At 10 p.m., CBS has Emerald Point N.A.S. starring Dennis Weaver, as a widower with three willful daughters and it looks dismal even though it is created by Richard and Esther Shapiro, creators of "Dynasty."

TUESDAY — At 8 p.m., ABC has the debut of Just Our Luck about a black genie. This show, however, will be blown away since its competition is The A Team. At 9:30 p.m. Oh, Madeline on ABC should survive, but only because it follows strong Three's Company. At 10 p.m., it's disaster city with Bay City Blues on NBC.

WEDNESDAY — At 8 p.m. on CBS, it's Whiz Kids about four high school kids who use crack knowledge of computers to solve local mysteries. Consensus: disaster. As predicted earlier Hotel at 10 p.m. will be a smashing hit on ABC.

THURSDAY — Trauma Center (CBS) starring James Naughton and Lou Ferrigno might be an interesting show but it will never survive the competition of Magnum PI and Gimme A Break starring the charming Nell Carter. At 9 p.m. We Got It Made certainly will not be a fitting title as an early cancellation is seen here for this NBC show, but at 9:30, ABC might have a sleeper with It's Not Easy starring Ken Howard and Bert Convy about meddling family members.

FRIDAY — This day spells instant disaster for all new debuting shows, but CBS has the strong hold here with The Dukes, Dallas and Falcon Crest. Among your losers here are Mr. Smith (NBC), Webster (ABC), Jennifer Slept Here (NBC), Lottery (ABC), Manimal (NBC) and For Love And Honor(ABC). Boy, tough times are imminent for NBC in 1983.

SATURDAY — Cutter To Houston (CBS) at 8 p.m. and The Rousters (NBC) 9 p.m. are sure losers. However, The Yellow Rose — similar to a "poor man's Dallas" on NBC could be a hit at 10 p.m. due to weak competition.

SUNDAY — Hardcastle and McCormick debuts at 8 p.m. and probably will survive for about 13 weeks on ABC.

* * *

All in all, not such a good selection, so here's a look at the top 20 shows for 1983:

1. Dynasty (ABC), 2. Dallas (CBS), 3. Falcon Crest (CBS), 4. Hotel (ABC), 5. 60 Minutes (CBS), 6. Love Boat (ABC), 7. Jeffersons (CBS), 8. The A Team (NBC), 9. The Dukes (CBS), 10. Three's Company (ABC), 11. Hill Street Blues (NBC), 12. Cheers, (NBC)13. 20/20 (ABC), 14. The Yellow Rose (NBC), 15. Mama's Family (NBC), 16. Magnum PI (CBS), 17. Hart To Hart (CBS), 18. Monday Night Football (ABC), 19. T.J. Hooker (ABC), 20. The Fall Guy (ABC).

Ask Kate

How old is Pernell?

By Kate Woods

Can you tell me Pernell Roberts' age? — A.C.

Sure. TV's Trapper John is 55.

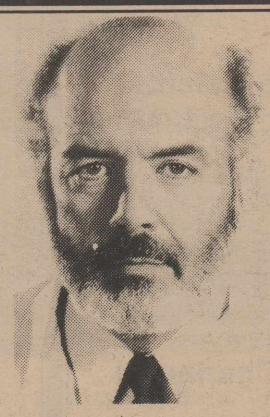

OSCAR MATERIAL — My sister and I were watching George Chakiris in a rerun of "Matt Houston" and got into an argument about whether he won an Academy Award for "West Side Story." I say yes; she says no. — L.B.

Chakiris, as Bernardo, the leader of the Sharks, and Rita Moreno, as his girlfriend Elena, danced off with Best Supporting Actor and Actress Awards in 1961. It was Chakiris' first film; he'd played the leader of the Jets on Broadway, while Michael Callan was the stage Bernardo.

NOT DEAN — Please tell me who beat out James Dean for the Oscar the two times he was nominated ("East of Eden" and "Giant"). Who else was in the running? — M.B.

This is an odd time of the year for Academy Award questions, but since you asked: In 1955 Ernest Borgnine's "Marty" won Best Actor against Dean in "East of Eden," Spencer Tracy in "Bad Day at Black Rock," James Cagney in "Love Me or Leave Me" and Frank Sinatra in "The Man with the Golden Arm." The next year, Dean posthumously lost to Yul Brynner for "The King and I." Other also-rans that year were Laurence Olivier's "Richard III," Kirk Douglas' "Lust for Life" and Dean's "Giant" co-star Rock Hudson.

MISS DIANE — My father, who is desperately in love with Diane Sawyer, insists she was once a Miss America. Please tell him he's wrong. — B.W.

Pernell Roberts

Your father's not the first man to have his judgment clouded by watching Miss Sawyer deliver the news, but he's actually only slightly muddled on this one. The "CBS Morning News" anchor was America's Junior Miss exactly 20 years ago.
