Washington Blasts Israeli Settlements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, in a clash with Israel, has sharply criticized new settlements in occupied Arab territory. Settlements Egypt says must be dismantled if there is to be peace.

While Egyptian President Anwar Sadat lobbied on Capitol Hill for American weapons, the State Department issued a chronology of the January messages from President Carter to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, calling the settlements illegal and an obstacle to negotiations.

Underscoring the urgency, one was sent directly by Carter from Air Force One on Jan. 6 as he wound up a 7-nation overseas trip. He also wrote a letter to Begin on Jan. 10 and sent a brief message to him on Jan. 27 after militant Orthodox Jews announced plans to expand an archaeological site at Shiloh, a Biblical era city.

Sadat had demanded the dismantling of the score of settlements in Sinai and accused Israel of violating Arab sovereignty. "The government is leading the unholy march of the lawbreakers," he said in a speech Monday.

As relations with Washington grow strained, Israeli officials have persistently denied ever promising Carter there would be no new settlements on the land captured from the Arabs in the Six Day War of 1967.

The chronology was issued Tuesday after newspaper columnist Joseph Kraft claimed the administration had "raised no great protest" about new settlements. It said Carter had sent "a strong reply" to Begin the day after U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis was informed of the plans.

"It's incorrect to say the United States did not react strongly and immediately," White House spokesman Jody Powell told reporters.

Sadat planned a busy day as he wound up his visit here. He scheduled meetings with Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Treasury Secretary W.

Deadline for Returning HISD Surveys Today

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Deadline on returning the language survey forms sent home with Hereford students Monday and Tuesday is today, according to Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder, who added he hopes parents realize the importance of the survey.

"We'll start on visits if they're not brought in," Holder said. "Hopefully, parents have cooperated. With limited personnel, and the more cooperation we get from parents in returning these, the easier it will make our job."

Mal Manchec, director of program development for the Hereford Independent School District, said that home visits by Parental Involvement Office workers will begin Monday.

"The deadline for returning these is today. But, parents need to get them in sometime this week so we can turn our figures over to Parental Involvement by Monday," Manchec said.

He added that he has no exact percentages on the number of students who have returned the surveys.

"I don't have anything to support this, but discussing it with the principals, I'd say conservatively that 75 percent of the elementary students have complied and probably around 50 percent in the secondary schools. But it's hard to say."

"The junior high forms went out Tuesday."

Elementary students took home their forms on Monday.

The survey is part of a testing plan instituted by the school district in response to a letter from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare regarding deficiencies in the bilingual education program.

The Office of Civil Rights of HEW, in its letter, stated that Hereford students in grades 4-12 are not placed on a scale showing language dominance and there are no programs for students with limited English-speaking ability.

The survey includes three questions: the first language this child learned was... (English, Spanish or other), the language most often spoken by this child is... and the language most often spoken in your home is...

If "English" is answered to all three questions, no further language services will be necessary for the student. If "Spanish" is indicated in any of the three blanks, the students will take a language assessment scale test to determine if he is underachieving.

Should the test show that the student is achieving at grade level or better, no

Textbooks Remain On Display

School textbooks being considered for adoption in the fall still are on display at the Hereford Independent School District administrative offices, and public comment on the books is being accepted in writing through Friday.

The school textbook committee will meet next month prior to the March 14 board meeting to comprise a list of the books to be presented for adoption. The school board will make final approval on the books in its March meeting.

"We haven't had any public protest on the books yet," said Mal Manchec, HISD textbook custodian. "We've had eight or 10 people altogether come up and look at the books."

"We, from the administrative viewpoint, do appreciate public comment."

Protest or acclamation must be submitted in writing to Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder by 5 p.m. Friday to be considered by the school board.

Subject areas covered by the books, all which have been adopted by the State Board of Education, include Texas History, Literature grades 7-8, English Composition, Drivers Education, Elementary Spanish, Biology II, Free Enterprise, Spanish III-IV, German I-II, Drama and Chemistry II. Business areas also are included on the list of textbooks.

There are five books in most of the categories. After the textbook committee makes its choices, it will decide which of the books should be requisitioned for use in Hereford public schools.

Representatives from 16 publishing companies were in Hereford last week to present their books to the textbook committee for consideration.

As the Snow Began To Fall...

Snow began to fall this morning in Hereford, with one to three inch accumulations expected before it ends. The snow, coupled with Tuesday's freezing drizzle, has made driving hazardous, according to police, and windshields white, according to Susan

Hicks, above. She found that her gloved hands made a suitable scraper. Cold temperatures are forecast through Thursday. (Brand photo by Paul Sims)

Lions Club Donation Launches 'Dummy' Drive

A $500 donation by the Hereford Lions Club today launched a campaign by the Deaf Smith County Heart Association to purchase three CPR "dummies" to be used in special training courses here.

A large number of requests have been made by citizens the past two weeks to enroll in the Cardio Pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training, according to John Gilliland, one of the local instructors. He appeared at the Lions Club board meeting Tuesday and explained the need for the life-size dummies, valued at $365 each.

Gilliland emphasized that the training mannequins would be the property of the local heart association and could remain here for the instruction courses. "I believe most citizens would feel better knowing that their spouse or next door neighbor had the CPR training," he added. Classes set for February and March are already full.

Citizens can learn the CPR techniques by attending two 4-hour courses. CPR is used for keeping heart-attack victims alive until qualified medical help arrives or until the patient is taken to the hospital. Gilliland said the recent death of a prominent citizen apparently created high interest in the training.

Organizations or individuals who wish to contribute to the CPR fund for purchase of the mannequin, or dummies, can write checks to the Deaf Smith County Heart Association and mark them specifically for the CPR fund.

Contributions can be mailed to the DSC Heart Association, Rosie Wall, 519 Ave. J, Hereford, or may be left at The Hereford Brand office.

Baby Wouldn't Wait To Be Born at Hospital

DALLAS (AP) — Some day when baby Dedre Shawn Denham is old enough, she'll realize it's not WHERE you were born that counts.

In Dedre's case, that would be just short of the McCormick Street exit on the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike sometime shortly after 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Thanks to a couple of guys named Mike Chambers and Frank Valerio, Deborah Sue Denham and daughter Dedre — all six pounds of her — are resting comfortably at Parkland Hospital.

In a job where routine is synonymous with emergency, it came

Farmers Promise Disaster Unless Legislation Enacted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The message Texas farmers are presenting to the House Agriculture Committee promises nothing short of agrarian disaster unless emergency legislation is enacted to beef up crop prices.

"I want to know what happened," Fuvanna farmer Glenn Toombs said Tuesday.

"My family wants to know what happened. My loan people want to know what has happened and my creditors want to know. The farmers in my area can't help but feel we are being misled, mistreated and misinformed by our policy makers, all the while we are slowly, but surely, going broke."

Toombs was joined by 32 others Tuesday, including congressmen, bankers and farm implement dealers, in asking the committee to rewrite or amend the 1977 Farm Bill they say will bankrupt the agriculture community and "take the rest of America down with it."

More than 100 persons are expected to testify through Valentine's Day. The hearings were prompted by the nationwide farm strike.

"To preserve the family farm, we feel we must have a fair price with a reasonable amount of profit on our investment," said Floydada farmer Adrian Helms.

"To achieve this, we must have stable prices over an extended period of time and production control," he added.

"The soil is our way of life. I ask that you help us preserve it, not only for me, but for my sons, daughters and America."

Lorenzo cotton farmer Max Joiner submitted a letter from Alton Strickland, president of the Lubbock Production Credit Association, which said, "This association has been making farm loans since 1934... never before have we, along with the farmer, been faced with as critical a situation as we are now facing."

Tahoka farmer Cleve Littlepage was one of several who presented the committee with documents he said showed the rapid increase in farmers' production costs.

"Last fall it was necessarily to replace two year tractor tires at a cost of $1,583.84. As related to my purchasing power, I traded approximately nine bales of cotton for two tires."

"Just two days ago, we broke the front axle on one of my older tractors. This cost $181.83... the approximate sale value of

They Want Mom Well, Carbon Back

The John Byrd family, of San Diego, Calif., received another blow after the car in which Mrs. Byrd was driving overturned Tuesday.

Their dog Carbon, a four-month-old solid black Labrador retriever, ran away following the accident approximately five miles west of Hereford on Highway 60.

In the commotion surrounding the accident, which put Mrs. Byrd in Deaf Smith General Hospital with a broken vertebra in her back, Carbon went unnoticed. And the family, staying with Mr. and Mrs. Kip Sanders, of 105 Mimosa, wants the puppy back.

The dog is wearing a choke chain. "We've notified most of the people around Summerfield to be on the lookout for it," Mrs. Sanders said today. "Hopefully, we can get some Hereford people looking for the dog, too."

The Byrds were travelling to Missouri when the accident occurred around 11 a.m. Tuesday. Byrd was in a small truck ahead of the pickup being driven by Mrs. Byrd, The

Snow Cripples Northeast Sports Events

By DAVE KAYE
AP Sports Writer

Traditionally, when the heavy snows hit the Northeast, children hit the slopes with sleds, skis and toboggans.

But the mammoth winter storm that struck the Atlantic Coast Monday and Tuesday made even that kind of activity an ordeal.

Training for the World Four-Men Bobsledding Championship at Lake Placid, N.Y., was called off because of too much snow.

"We couldn't even find the track this morning," said Joe McKillip, technical director for the bobsled championships, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

For the second day in a row, snow and accompanying travel problems cut into Tuesday's sports schedule in the northeastern portion of the country.

The storm also wiped out three pro games because teams were unable to get to their destinations. The Portland Trail Blazers were unable to get into New York and the New Jersey Nets were unable to leave for San Antonio for their National Basketball Association games.

Those members of the Trail Blazers who played in Sunday's National Basketball Association All-Star game Sunday were stranded in Atlanta. The rest of the team was laid over in Denver where they stopped when all New York area airports were shut down.

Several NBA teams that did play had to do without key players.

The Cleveland Cavaliers played host to the New Orleans Jazz but they went without a star guard Walt Frazier, who was marooned in New York where he spent the All-Star break.

Boston was buried under more than two feet of snow but, somehow, the Celtics managed to get out of town and to Indianapolis to play the Pacers. But Indiana had only seven players available because Bob Carrington was stranded in New Jersey and Earl Tatum was stuck in Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia 76ers were forced to take a bus to Washington where they boarded a plane to Chicago... and lost to the Bulls.

The Minnesota at New York Islanders National Hockey League game also was postponed when the North Stars could not make airplane connections into New York.

The college basketball schedule also was affected. Early postponements included Fairfield at Army, Yale at Brown, Rutgers at Massachusetts and St. Peter's, N.Y., at Iona.

St. John's game at Rhode Island was cancelled.

Also, Wednesday night's game between Holy Cross and Notre Dame was postponed when the Crusaders couldn't get out of Worcester, Mass.

Other Wednesday postponements were Niagara at Long Island University, CCNY at Detroit, Manhattan at St. Francis and Siena at Fairleigh Dickinson.

Wednesday's St. Bonaventure vs. Villanova game at the Palestra in Philadelphia was postponed when six Villanova players came down with the flu.

Jail Death Ruled Homicide by Autopsy

DALLAS (AP) — A Mexican-American's death in the Ector County jail Jan. 22 was a homicide, and not a suicide as alleged by jail officials, according to an autopsy report.

The report was made by Dr. Frederick Bornstein, the El Paso County medical examiner in El Paso who performed an autopsy at the request of Larry Lozano's family.

Bornstein said today he has not yet released his report but did make it available to Ruben Sandoval, lawyer for the Lozano family investigating the death.

"It is my opinion that the man died from extensive blunt trauma, such as beating, hitting, kicking, as well as possible small wounds with sharp instruments," the autopsy report said.

Dr. Bornstein's report concludes "Therefore, I consider the mode of death homicide. The pattern is incompatible with suicide."

Dr. Bornstein said he did not know the report was going to be made public at this time.

Ector County Medical Examiner Dr. Krishnakumar Challaipalli also performed an autopsy but has not released her findings.

Court Gives Go-Ahead For Amputation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The decision to cut off the gangrenous feet of a 72-year-old woman was made by the state Court of Appeals because the woman refused to choose between amputation and death, says a judge.

"This is not a 'right to die' case," Judge Henry Todd wrote in a ruling issued Tuesday by the three-judge appeals panel. "If the patient would assume and exercise her rightful control over her own destiny by stating that she prefers death to the loss of her feet, her wish would be respected."

Mary Northern, 72, was reported in fair condition at General Hospital three weeks after she was taken by police from the partly burned home where she lived alone. Her feet were frostbitten and gangrene set in. Without amputation, doctors say, she has only a 10 percent chance to live.

Todd visited Miss Northern at her hospital bedside on Jan. 28 and noted then, "The patient wants to live and keep her dead feet, too, and refuses to consider the impossibility of such a desire."

The 22-page Court of Appeals opinion allows the state to authorize amputation when doctors believe it necessary to save her life, even though they agree she has only a 50 percent chance of surviving the surgery.

Supreme Court Rules Homes To Be Regulated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today ruled that homes for troubled youth operated by radio evangelist Lester Roloff are subject to state regulation.

Without writing a new opinion, the supreme court agreed with the Austin Court of Civil Appeals that state regulation does not violate Roloff's constitutional right of free exercise of religion.

Roloff had been denied a jury trial by an Austin district judge who found that there was no fact issue regarding the constitutional question that warranted submission to a jury.

In its Oct. 5, 1977, opinion, the appeals court stated:

"Even though appellant Roloff and other witnesses for the appellant earnestly and vehemently assert that such a conflict exists and further, that the facts of such conflict should be put to a jury, we hold that the testimony is nothing more than a bald conclusion entirely unsupported by any factual evidence from which a jury could draw a differing conclusion."

Roloff had steadfastly refused to obtain licenses as required by the state Child Care Licensing Act.

Oklahoma School Boards May Fire Homosexuals

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma House, with only two dissenting votes, passed a bill Tuesday to allow school boards to fire teachers who advocate homosexual activity or engage in "public homosexual activity."

The vote was 88-2 on the bill, by Rep. John Monks, D-Muskogee.

Monks said the bill is enabling legislation to allow school boards to "fire those who are afflicted with this degenerate problem... people who are mentally deranged this way."

Asked if the term homosexual included men and women, Monks said: "It covers both queers and lesbians."

Rep. Clea Deatherage, D-Norman, asked if persons publicly engaging in heterosexual activity should be treated the same way.

"Of course I was born and raised on a farm," Monks said, adding he had "never seen two bulls chasing each other."

Police Report

John Craig Construction, Lubbock, reported that the door to a new construction in Hereford had been removed between Friday and Tuesday. Value was $60.

Police investigated two minor traffic accidents this morning then issued a public caution to motorists to drive carefully on snow-slick streets.

Mahon Launches Forum

At a press conference in the Senate recently, Rep. George Mahon [at the right microphone] introduced the Forum on Regulation (FOR) project designed to involve the American people in determining what should be done to cut down on government regulations and improve the regulatory process. The program was conceived and is being sponsored by the Agriculture Council of America. Shown with Mahon at the microphone is Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas who is also on the

FOR national committee. Also on the committee [left to right]: Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, Sen. Malcolm Wallop, Rep. John Anderson, Sen. Carl Curtis, Rep. John Hightower of Texas, and Rep. Charles Rose. It is a two-year program, with the first phase to be a six-month survey of a cross section of the American public to determine areas of government regulation most in need of improvement.

Houston Toad Vacates Premises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Houston toad has skipped town.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced last week that it had designated two areas as critical habitats for the "shy and secretive" Houston toad, an endangered species.

Both areas were outside the Houston city limits, even outside Harris County. The toads have hopped to Bastrop and Burleson counties, more than a hundred miles from Houston. The Fish and Wildlife Service defined the areas as "close to two state parks in Bastrop County and near Caldwell in Burleson County."

The critical habitat determination refrains federal agencies from authorizing or funding projects that would adversely affect the toad's habitat. The Fish and Wildlife Service estimates that only 1,500 Houston toads still inhabit the earth although the amphibian is "rarely seen or heard."

However, five suburban Houston areas that may still contain remnant Houston toad populations are to be the subject of further study, according to the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Within the five areas, those sites that have already been developed will not be studied "because there is little or no chance that the toad could exist in these altered habitats."

Thus, the Sharpstown shopping center, which lies in one of the five areas, is safe. Last May, the shopping center became involved in the Houston toad controversy.

Dr. Kenneth Dodd, the service's staff herpetologist, said the additional studies would determine if the five areas have "a good solid population of Houston toads or just wandering individuals."

The Houston toad, said Dodd, can be distinguished by a "long, high-pitched trill that differs from the mating call of any other toad species. It also tends to favor sandy areas with small pools of water."

But not in Houston.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The following editorial seems especially appropriate now that the Pro-Family, Pro-Life Coalition is in Washington seeking support from this nation's legislators. The editorial first appeared in "The West Texas Christian" Bible Chair Bulletin.

THERE IS NO PLACE LIKE HOME

By Thomas J. Seay Jr.

Home is almost a magical word to most of us. All the elements of a really rich life are here: love, security, belonging, understanding, interest, concern. The home was ordained of God. (Gen. 2:21 - 24). The strength of our nation, the church and civilization depends on the strength of the home. Home life is the greatest influential factor in the life of the child. Often the action of parents speaks louder than words. A child learns how to live through observation. If he lives with criticism he learns to condemn. If he lives with hostility, he learns to fight. If he lives with fear, he learns to be apprehensive. If he lives with pity, he learns to feel sorry for himself. If he lives with tolerance, he learns to be patient. If he lives with praise, he learns to be appreciative. If he lives with encouragement, he learns the meaning of confidence. If he lives with acceptance, he experiences love. If he lives with recognition, he learns to set goals. If he lives with fairness, he appreciates justice. If he lives with honesty, he learns what truth is. If he lives with security, he develops a faith in himself and his fellowman. If he lives with happiness, he discovers that the world is a wonderful place to live.

The home today is still the most important and most influential factor in the total process of personality development. The child's first loyalty is to the home. The home has the child during the period of life when it is most teachable. The home is life-centered. Christian parents make their religion an integral part of "home life." They consider worship a meaningful activity which will gird their children for whatever battles and struggles life presents. As a result, their homes are blessed with happiness and contentment.

If the home is to be the blessing which God intended it to be, it must be built upon respect for the instructions which God gave concerning its organization. Every family member has a God given responsibility. The happiest homes are those in which its members do what they can to make each other happy, instead of using each other to make themselves happy.

Sincerely,
Cora Johnson

JESSE WALLING

Services for Jesse Walling, 62, of Bovina will be read today at 2 o'clock in Bovina Church of Christ with Cecil Bunch, minister, and Don Stone of Clarendon officiating. He was the father of Ted Walling of Hereford.

Burial will be in Bovina Cemetery under direction of Parsons-Ellis Funeral Home in Friona.

Walling died at approximately 5:30 p.m. Monday in Parmer County Community Hospital at Friona after a sudden illness.

The farmer and rancher had lived in Bovina 38 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ, Farwell Masonic Lodge No. 977, El Paso Consistory, Khiva Shrine Temple, Oasis Shrine Club and Littlefield Chapter No. 438 R.A.M.

He is survived by the widow, Lucille; two sons, Tiny of Grand Junction, Colo. and Ted of Hereford; and six grand-children.

Meat Imports Illegally Bought In State

AUSTIN, TEXAS (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said Tuesday complaints of illegal state purchases of imported meat are on the rise.

He said purchasing agents for public schools, hospitals and other tax-supported institutions would "inadvertently be breaking the law" if they buy foreign meat.

The Legislature prohibited such purchases in a law passed in 1975.

Brown said in a statement that the legislature never budgeted any funds for enforcement of the law, which is done by the State Health Department.

"Complete enforcement of these regulations would also require help on the national level," he said. "We need immediate passage of proposed federal legislation that would require the labeling of all imported meat, both at wholesale and retail level."

Voluntary compliance, with purchasing agents stipulating domestic meat only, would "give our cattle producers quite a boost," Brown said.

Only Limbs Broken Were His

TEXARKANA, TEXAS (AP) — There have been a million cartoons about the guy who chops down a tree and ends up under it, but Everett Decker Ellison sees little humor in such a situation.

Ellison and his wife have a place in the country, not far from Atlanta, in East Texas. Last week he decided to level a large red oak tree and use it for fire wood.

Ellison felled the tree okay, but not before the tree felled him, breaking both legs.

After using his hands and a pocket knife to dig his way out from under the tree, he dragged himself to his pickup and managed to make it to a neighbor's home for help. He used a ruler to keep the truck accelerator pressed.

Now, he's got plenty of time to study the correct way to cut a tree.

He's got casts on both his broken legs and doctors say he may be able to get around some in a couple of months.

In an unabashed arms appeal to members of Congress, Sadat said, "I shall raise hell" if they are not approved. "I threatened them," Sadat said after closed door talks with key senators.

His comment about raising hell came with a launch after an earlier meeting with some House members.

Sadat has told American editors that he asked Carter "for an urgent decision" on a range of U.S. weapons from F-15 jet fighters to more sophisticated F-15s and F-16s. Until now, Egypt has been limited to "nonlethal" transport and reconnaissance planes.

A White House statement is expected at the end of Sadat's visit and it may deal with the weapons request as well as prospects for negotiations with Israel.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said after calling on Vance at the State Department Tuesday night that "it's too early to tell" if Sadat will get the weapons he requested.

Carter To Announce Grants For Middle-Income Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will announce a major program of grants and loans for college students from middle-income families on Wednesday, his chief spokesman said Tuesday.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the aid would come from "contingency funds" in his budget for the coming fiscal year, the president proposed setting aside $700 million in such funds for a promised alternative to demands in Congress for tuition tax credit. Powell indicated more money might be involved and added that he didn't know for certain if Carter's program would exclude all tax benefits.

He said the program will be "a combination of grants and loans" available to individuals. But the press secretary declined to reveal any other details.

Between 1967 and 1975, Powell said, college costs have increased by about 71 percent, putting the average cost of tuition, room and board for each student attending private school at more than $4,000 a year.

For each student attending a public college or university, he said, the cost has climbed to about $2,000 a year.

"For lower- and middle-income families," Powell said, "the ability to send their children to college is in jeopardy."

The first word about Carter's upcoming announcement came from Democratic congressional leaders who had breakfast with the president at the White

Fashion Contest, Show Slated March 30-April 1

LUBBOCK — Homemakers, students, and anyone who likes to sew can take part in a new feature of the South Plains Farm Show to be held March 30-April 1 at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The Natural Fibers Fashion Revue is one of the major events on opening day of the show, March 30. Adults and youths from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma will compete for hundreds of dollars in prizes and model apparel they have created from fabrics which are predominantly cotton, wool or mohair.

The revue is designed to emphasize elements of good clothing construction, home sewing and fashion, as well as the use of natural fibers, said Becky Culp, chairman of the planning committee. Mrs. Culp is area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Amarillo.

The competition will have three divisions: junior high, senior high, and adult.

Each complete ensemble must be made from fabrics which are at least 50 percent cotton, or 50 percent wool, or wool and mohair comprising 50 percent or more of the fabric. Accessories such as blouses, trims and inner construction fabrics are excluded from this requirement.

Each ensemble must be made and modeled by the contestant. Mrs. Culp noted. Contestants may enter only one ensemble, and it must be worn to be entered.

Ensembles entered in the competition must have been made during the last six months preceding the contest.

The entries will be judged on construction as it affects the overall appearance, compatibility of fabric and design, quality of work, creativity, overall appearance, accessories, becomingness, fit, poise, and representation of current fashion trend.

Mrs. Northcutt Is Hostess For Messenger Club

State-Line (Special) Mrs. Elmer Northcutt was hostess in her home Thursday afternoon to members of the Messenger Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. S.N. Thweatt, president, conducted the business meeting with eight members answering roll call.

Members were given year-books which the members filled in with programs and hostesses for the new year of extension work.

Club members were invited to join the Bippus Home Demonstration Club on Feb. 15 for an all-day meeting to be held in the Bippus Community Center.

Mrs. Northcutt was in charge of the afternoon program on "Handmade Crafts."

Refreshments of cheese-rolls, party crackers, strawberry cake with whipped cream topping and strawberry punch was served to Mrs. S.N. Thweatt, Mrs. Joe Burnett and daughter Julie, Mrs. Jerry Northcutt, Mrs. Bob Moelius and daughter Janey, Mrs. Sammy Watson, Mrs. Bobby Hammock and daughter Jennifer and the hostess.

Square Dance Club To Meet Friday Night

Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will meet at 7 p.m. Friday at the Community Center for a business meeting, to be followed by dancing.

The installation of new officers will commence at 8 o'clock. Sid Perkins will call during the dance.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the recreational vehicle craze did not really begin until the manufacture of the Ford Model T and didn't boom until after World War II, campers were taking to the roads in motorized get-away vehicles as early as 1905, according to the National Geographic Society.

At the turn of the century, people began strapping large steamer trunks to the backs of their cars and taking off to the woods, the society says. By 1920, one million people were enjoying the sport of motor camping.

In the 1920s, the Model T allowed do-it-yourselfers to create "homes on wheels" limited in scope only by the creator's imagination. The Recreational Vehicle Industry Association has estimated there are currently 6 million units in the United States and another one million in Canada.

lity of fabric and design, quality of work, creativity, overall appearance, accessories, becomingness, fit, poise, and representation of current fashion trend.

A panel of judges will determine first, second and third place winners in each of the three divisions, Mrs. Culp said.

Ann Landers Guidance Needed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have never read any problem like mine in your column and I do hope you will give me an answer although it may seem bizarre.

I married a very nice man three years ago. His wife had been dead for over a year. My husband passed on three years earlier.

When this very pleasant widower moved into my home he brought a box with him which I thought it was a memento of some kind and never asked until last week. When he told me it contained the ashes of his first wife (he had her cremated) I was stunned.

Now I feel very uncomfortable about the whole thing and don't know what to do. Please give me some guidance. - Haunted By The Past.

DEAR HAUNTED: Discuss this problem with the clergyman who performed the wedding ceremony. Ask his counsel. Hopefully he will explain to your husband that the presence of his former wife's ashes is disturbing to you and that he should find a more suitable place for them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Not Sleeping Very Well" in San Diego sounds as if she needs to hear from the Voice of Experience. That's me.

I, too, am a nurse who was in love with a charming man. Over a period of time he borrowed

Annie Coranado To Lead Bellringer Collection

Annie Coranado of Hereford will lead Bellringer workers in a house-to-house drive during May, Mental Health Month.

"Proceeds will benefit the Mental Health Association in Texas," said Shirley K. Camfield, state President of the voluntary citizens' association.

As a non-governmental agency the association can and does speak for the consumer -- the person who needs professional help for an emotional disturbance.

"The association is a moving force to get services established where there are none. It also serves as a monitoring agency to see that treatment services are doing what they were set up to," said Camfield.

The Mental Health Association strongly promotes more community-based care as well as more research into the causes and prevention of mental illness.

News From The Lodge

Wakan Ki Lo Horizon Club, sponsored by Marsh Cattle Company, met for their regular session at the Community Center this week.

Mrs. Lee Drake and Mrs. Gerald Hamby, both members of the WoHeLo Medallion committee, presented a program entitled "What is the WoHeLo Medallion?" They reviewed the requirements for receiving the medallion and gave examples for interpreting those requirements.

In order to put the eligibility rules into perspective, they showed past WoHeLo Medallion books to the girls. Mrs. Drake and Mrs. Hamby stressed the importance of the WoHeLo Medallion as an individual achievement and the necessity of beginning work on it early, rather than "waiting until the last minute."

Members present were Barbie Koelzer, Deanna Pool, Ramona Rhodes, Cindy Gamez, Rhonda Halliwell, Susan Brown, Paula Graves, Cristi Crawford, Kelly Killough, Jill Paschel, Willa Lawson, Jill Davis and Karen Compton.

Whew! Bring On Monterey

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

The Plainview Bulldogs came, oh so close. Tuesday night to handing the Hereford Whitefaces their first District 4-4A second-half basketball loss, but a technical foul on Herd star Kelly Kitchens lit a fire beneath the 'Faces, and the defending district champs went on to register a 67-55 win to set the stage for a showdown with the Monterey Plainsmen this Friday night at the La Plata gym.

Hereford, now 17-12 on the year and 2-0 in the second half, opened the game with a flair, scoring the first seven points of the contest. The Bulldogs fought back, however, and trailed by only two, 12-10, as the first period ended.

The 'Dogs went on to outscore the visiting Herd 20-13 in the second period to go ahead 30-25 at the half, and were rolling along with a six-point bulge in the third stanza when Kitchens was whistled for his technical.

quarter as he connected on the free throw, but the Whitefaces, led by David Schumacher and Brent Allen, fought back to knot the game at 44 as the period ended.

"I was really concerned for three quarters," Herd coach Bobby Decker said after his team has posted a 23-11 advantage in the final stanza to win. "I don't like to see my players ever get a technical, but I would say in this case that it really helped."

Kitchens, who finished the night with 16 points for the Herd, said in the locker room following the game that he said something to a teammate when the technical foul had been called, but that he had also said something to the official earlier in the game.

Whatever the case, Kitchens retired to the bench for a "cooling off" period, and Allen replaced him. The 5-10 junior led a Herd charge which knotted the game at the quarter's end. Schumacher hit both ends of a one-and-one situation with one second left to make it a 44-44 ballgame.

Kitchens reentered the contest in the final stanza and the 'Faces suddenly got hot. All five Herd players on the court hit a basket as the 'Faces took a 54-47 lead.

The bulldogs pulled to within five points at 56-51 with 3:06 remaining, but two lane violations wiped out free throws by the hosts which could have made the game much closer.

Allen closed out his night with four points in the final two minutes to give Hereford a 64-51 advantage. Larry McNutt added two free throws with :23 left and Ricky Matchett ended the scoring by making the second of a two-shot try at the line with no time remaining.

The victory was extremely important to Hereford, which has a score to settle with the Monterey Plainsmen, 50-33 winners over Lubbock High Tuesday.

Kitchens' 16 led the Herd in the scoring column, while Jackie Mercer added 13 points, and Schumacher finished with 11. Allen and Robert Lee Graves closed out with eight points each, while McNutt tallied six. Rounding out the scoring were David Arney and Buzzy Abalos, two each, and Matchett with one.

Plainview failed to have a player in double figures with Julius Meals' nine points tops. Ervin Davis, Larry Williams, and Greg Jacobs all added seven points to the total, while Jamie McAlister and Kenneth Storey both scored six.

The loss drops Plainview to 0-3 in the second half and 4-24 overall.

The Bulldogs outshot the Herd from the field with 51 percent (22-43) of their shots on the mark. Hereford shot 21-49 (43 percent). The Whitefaces also grabbed an edge in rebounds with 36 to the 'Dogs 34. Graves led the Herd with 10 caroms in the game, while Schumacher got eight, Mercer hauled in six and Kitchens collected five.

The Herd JV also picked up a win Tuesday, ending a 12-game losing skein with 49-47 win. Steve Cerda and Reid Herring each hit one free throw as the 'Faces grabbed the win in overtime. The Herd sophs weren't as fortunate against the Bulldogs, dropping a 56-51 decision.

L.A. TIX GO HIGH

LOS ANGELES (AP) —

There were audible gasps among sports fans in the City of the Angels when Los Angeles officials announced that the average cost for tickets to the 1984 Summer Olympics might go as high as $25 apiece. Los Angeles is favored to get the role of host city.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles Olympic Committee explained the high cost of an Olympic ticket: "$25 for a once-in-a-lifetime ticket is not exorbitant by any means."

Frazier Tempted To Fight Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier has been offered $250,000 to come out of retirement and fight Scott LeDoux sometime in April, a Madison Square Garden official said Tuesday night.

The bout, if it comes off, reportedly will be held in the Minneapolis Auditorium although it would be promoted by Madison Square Garden.

The New York Daily News said the fight would be nationally televised by NBC, probably during prime time.

However, Frazier has demanded $300,000 and a clause in the contract guaranteeing him another fight after the proposed LeDoux bout, said John Condon, a Garden official.

A Frazier comeback has been rumored many times and sources said Frazier earlier turned down a proposed fight with Earnie Shavers. Frazier reportedly was offered $750,000 for the Shavers bout but wanted $1 million.

Little Signs With UT; Aggies Corral Collins

The Texas Longhorns started their harvest of a bumper Texas schoolboy football crop today with Coach Fred Akers signing All-State Donnie Little of Dickinson, the No. 1 blue-chipper.

Little is a 6-foot-1, 190-pound quarterback who completed 91 of 172 passes for 1,478 yards and 19 touchdowns and rushed 128 times for 1,174 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Texas refused to make public its signings but Dickinson Coach Teddy Gray said, "Coach Akers was present with pen in hand for the 8 a.m. signing. He got Donnie's signature then took off."

The Southwest Conference champion Longhorns were expected to bag the cream of the prospects in what is touted as an exceptionally talented group of high school athletes.

The Texas Aggies weren't far behind on SWC signing day as they got Milton Collins, a blue-chip 230-pound running back from Blooming Grove.

The Aggies were expected to fight to the wire with North Texas State next Wednesday on national signing day for Collins' services.

A&M also signed bluechip lineman Kevin Kennedy of Conroe, rated in the top 10 selections in the state.

Maceo Fifer, a 6-6, 283-pound tackle from Kerrville Tivy, signed a Missouri Valley Conference letter of intent with West Texas State. Fifer is the top-rated lineman in the state.

Texas, Houston and Southern Methodist were holding out until national signing day next Wednesday before announcing their signings.

However, SMU signed bluechip defensive lineman Richard Neely of Highland Park.

Akers told Lou Mayes of the Austin American-Statesman he felt other schools had used Texas' signing list to get prospects to change their minds before the national letter.

"Of course, it isn't always successful but there's no use giving others ammunition to use against us," said Akers.

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman told The Associated Press, "There is no sinister reason behind our decision. We just thought we would wait until the national letter."

Yeoman added it was something he had decided and quipped, "That's why some people marry redheads and some people marry blondes."

Clown Act Not Funny to UT

HOUSTON (AP) — It was "Clown Night" when the Rice Owls entertained the 12th ranked Texas Longhorns in a Southwest Conference basketball game Tuesday night and there was a circus atmosphere at times in the stands and on the court.

Rice Coach Mike Schuler picked up a pair of technicals for fussing with the referees and Texas pulled off a 10-point play.

The fans came into Audry Court wearing floppy shoes, noses that looked like ripe tomatoes, fright wigs and plastic hats.

But it didn't really change the predicted outcome of the game. The conference-leading Longhorns, fueled by Jim Krivacs' 36 points and four other Texas players in double figures, took the Owls, 102-86.

The victory boosted Texas' season mark to 11-1 and its season record to 19-3. Rice fell to 2-9 in conference play and 4-17 for the year.

The idea for "Clown Night" began when Texas Coach Abe Lemons suggested after the first Rice-UT game when Schuler ran in 99 substitutions that all Rice needed was clowns to make it a circus.

Lemons remained unperturbed, even when one clown juggled three lemons behind the Texas coach.

"I was in the war with the Japs and Germans," he said. "After all, a few clowns aren't going to bother me."

The Owls bothered him a bit, though, after trailing by 17 at half, 50-33.

Rice outscored the Longhorns 23-6 the first nine minutes of the second half and tied the game at 56-56 on a jumper by Alan Reynolds with 11:15 to play.

"I saw us going down the drain," Lemons said. "Somebody pulled the cork. We stood around like we were in line for a movie."

The Longhorns quickly went ahead on a pair of free throws by John Moore and Rice never caught up again.

Shortly afterwards Texas made 10 points without Rice having the ball.

Longhorn Tyrone Branan drove for a layup and was bumped to the ground by Alan Miller. Referee Joe Shoshid said the foul was deliberate and worth two free throws. Schuler approached Shoshid for a ruling. Shoshid called successive technicals on Schuler, each a bench technical worth two more free throws. The Longhorns throw the ball in and scored again to complete the 10-point effort.

Schuler said he only wanted a ruling from Shoshid. The Rice coach said he did not curse.

"I'm still waiting for one," he said afterwards.

"I said 'Why?' and got a technical. If I had cursed the man, he could have thrown me out. I'll go to my grave with those two technicals knowing I was right."

Lemons said later he didn't know what Schuler said to Shoshid, "but it was the wrong thing."

Schuler said he hoped there was something he could say about Shoshid and his partner, John Kloza without getting into trouble.

"I would like to think that in America, you could," he said. "There's a gag rule, though, and you are not to comment on the officials."

Krivacs, who went into the game averaging 18.8 points in the conference, didn't think much of the clown bit.

"Where I'm from Indianapolis that stuff doesn't go," he said. "I take this game pretty seriously. I don't like the disrespect the clowns showed toward the game."

Oilers Say Hadl Retiring

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips has confirmed that reserve quarterback John Hadl, one of the National Football League all-time leading passers, is retiring after 16 seasons.

Phillips Tuesday said Hadl, 37, will accept a job as an assistant coach at the University of Kansas, his alma mater.

Hadl called the Oiler coach several days ago to tell him of his decision, which, Phillips said, had nothing to do with the new contract the club offered him.

"It's a good thing for John," Phillips said. "He'll make a heckuva coach. I knew he was thinking about it during the season because he talked to me about it several times. I'm a great believer in coaching so I advise him to give it a try."

Hadl played in only four games last season, completing 11 of 24 passes for 76 yards and suffering three interceptions.

Case of 'BLT' Secures A Marquette Victory

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Creighton Bluejays got a bad case of indigestion when a "BLT" was shoved down their throats at the Milwaukee Arena. "BLT," in this case, was not a bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich but a giant-sized helping of "Butch Lee Time"—an expression former Marquette Coach Al McGuire coined for the Warriors guard who feasted on the Bluejay Plate Special Tuesday night.

Lee collected 30 points in the third-ranked Warriors' 82-57 joyride over Creighton, helping Marquette improve its record to 18-2.

"We tried any number of players and defense on Lee and we couldn't even slow him down," marvelled Bluejays Coach Tom Apke after Lee had pulled within a point of his career-high performance.

"I'm not sure that the only player who could stop Butch Lee one-on-one isn't Butch Lee himself, by getting in foul trouble or losing his concentration or something like that," said Apke.

"We had it down to eight with a chance to cut it to six, and then to quote an old friend McGuire—it was 'BLT.'"

But it had been BLT virtually from the start. Lee and Jerome Whitehead scored two baskets each to give the Warriors an 8-2 lead before Creighton pulled even. Lee added eight points in a 12-point run that gave Marquette a 20-8 lead that was challenged only slightly.

If it was any consolation to Coach Apke, Rick Apke led 12-7 Creighton with 17 points. Eight of those points pulled the Bluejays within 48-40 early in the second half.

Elsewhere, No. 9 Louisville hammered Tulane 115-86; 11th-ranked DePaul downed Duquesne 83-58; No. 12 Texas toppled Rice 102-86 and No. 18 Syracuse lost 97-83 in an exhibition game against Athletics in Action.

Ricky Gallon and Darrell Griffith each scored 22 points to carry the Cardinals past outmanned Tulane in a Metro-7 conference clash.

"Let's face it, Louisville is a better ball club," admitted Green Wave Coach Roy Danforth. "Once we get way behind a club like that, we can't catch up."

Tulane was way behind by halftime, when the Cardinals led 47-33 and cruised to their 15th victory in 18 games to improve the Phegler conference slate to 6-1. The Green Wave, topped by Mark Fletcher's 22 points, staggered to 3-18 and 0-9 in conference play.

William Dize came off the bench to score 22 points and lift 19-2 DePaul over Duquesne. Gary Garland managed 14 points for Duquesne, which committed 27 turnovers and sagged to 8-11 as a result.

A 36-point performance by Jim Krivacs paced the 19-3 Longhorns past the Rice Owls, who got 29 points from Alan Reynolds but dropped to 4-17 and 2-9 in the Southwest Conference. Texas is 11-1 in sectional play.

Forward Tim Hall scored 24 points, center Ralph Drollinger added 21 and Brad Hoffman collected 13 assists as Athletics in Action surprised Syracuse. Marty Byrnes scored 34 points for the Orangemen.

Meanwhile, Bradley beat Butler 98-82 behind 27 points by Roger Phegley and John Lowenhaupt scored 21 points to carry William & Mary past Navy 70-62.

Tech Slips by SMU; Bears Upset Houston

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Kent Williams, who delivered the killing blow, asked the question of the hour: "Why is it we always beat SMU by two points?"

Williams drilled a 20-foot jump shot with 21 seconds to play Tuesday night to carry Texas Tech to a 64-62 Southwest Conference basketball victory over the snakebit Mustangs, who lost to the Red Raiders by two points earlier this year.

Also, Tech defeated SMU by one and two points respectively last year.

The victory coupled with Baylor's 70-69 upset of Houston at Waco sent shock waves through the middle off the SWC standings.

Tech cemented its third position with a 9-3 record while fourth place Houston faded to 7-5.

SMU is now 5-6 in the vital fifth position with Baylor closing fast at 4-7. Spots below fifth place in the final regular season SWC standings must go on the road in the first round of the post-season tournament.

"We have a rabbit's foot when it comes to SMU, no doubt about that," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "There's no difference between the two teams except we get the breaks."

Myers added, "I'm happy we are playing well. I'm not saying our victory was all luck. But SMU did an excellent job of keeping the ball away from Mike Russell."

Russell, the third leading scorer in the SWC averaging 18.9 points per game, only got six points against SMU's tight zone. He never took a shot in the first half.

In the only other game, No. 12 ranked Texas ripped Rice 102-86 in Houston to stay atop the SWC standings by a half game.

SMU Coach Sonny Allen was philosophical about the loss.

"They beat us two points at their place and two points at our place," said Allen. "I guess they're two points better than we are."

Hope Classic Turned Soggy

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Defending champion Rik Massengale and the other PGA golfers scheduled to begin the $250,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic today may have a lot of use for their slickers and umbrellas before play wraps up.

Rain has fallen almost without letup at this desert resort area since last Sunday and it—plus gusty winds—is expected to continue through the coming weekend. The Desert Classic, the only 90-hole tournament on the PGA trail, is scheduled to finish Sunday.

Massengale is considered the man to beat in the tournament, but six other Desert Classic winners, including Arnold Palmer, are entered in the event.

The pros are teamed with a trio of amateurs for the first four rounds, playing a different one of the tournament's four courses each day. The 18-hole finale is at Bermuda Dunes, with only the pros vying for the $45,000 winner's purse.

Palmer is a five-time winner of the Desert Classic, with other champions on hand including Billy Casper, who won in 1965 and 1969; Hubert Green, winner Sunday of the Hawaiian Open and champion here in 1974; Bob Rosburg, 1972; Tom Nieporte, 1967; and Doug Sanders, 1966.

The final two rounds of the tournament on Saturday and Sunday will be nationally televised by NBC.

Play will be at Eldorado, Indian Wells and La Quinta country clubs in addition to Bermuda Dunes.

Tom Watson, winner of two of the five PGA events already held this year, ranks as one of the favorites in the Desert Classic. He's currently atop the 1978 PGA money list with earnings of $93,956. Green's victory in Hawaii boosted him into second on the earnings ladder with $62,800.

Jay Haas, who captured his first PGA tournament victory at the Andy Williams-San Diego Open, and Bill Kratzert could provide surprises in the Desert Classic. The 25-year-old Kratzert, 10th on the money list last year, played very well in Hawaii before losing to Green on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Massengale, who finished second to Johnny Miller here in 1976, was extremely sharp in the Desert Classic last year, finishing with a 23-under-par total of 337 for five days of the tournament.

Since its inauguration, the Hope tournament has earned more than $6 million in net proceeds.

Playoff Bound

These four local junior high basketball teams have earned places in post season playoffs. The Stanton and La Plata freshmen [top and 2nd from top respectively] face off against each other today at 4:15 p.m. in the high school gym for the zone championship. The La Plata 8th grade team [2nd from bottom] won the zone title outright, and will play the north zone winner sometime next week, while the Maverick 7th graders [bottom] will play Plainview for the zone title Thursday at 2 p.m. in the La Plata gym. [Brand photos by Bob Nigh].

STILL MOVES FAST

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Art Still, a defensive end for the Kentucky football team, is a senior majoring in law enforcement and plays that way. In the game against Louisiana State, Art scooped up a blocked field goal and returned it 52 yards for a touchdown. He has a vivid description of how it felt.

"The ball took one bounce and then another," Still said. "I was praying it would come down in my hands. Then, my hands felt like magnets. There the ball was, I wasn't worried about anybody catching me. I didn't look back. When I went over the goal line, I was floating. It was like being in heaven."

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Defensive back Ralph Stringer, who overcame two major injuries to lead North Carolina State to an 8-4 season, has been awarded the 1977 Brian Piccolo Award as the Atlantic Coast Conference's most courageous player.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Negotiations were to resume today between agents representing pitcher Don Hood and the Cleveland Indians.

Indians General Manager Phil Seghi met for several hours Tuesday with agents Alan and Randy Hendricks of Houston, who represent several Cleveland players, including Hood.

Martha Angle and Robert Walters

Second-term syndrome?

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—White House operatives may have committed a major political blunder in their overzealous effort to fashion new Democratic party rules designed to frustrate opposition to President Carter in the 1980 primaries.

When the commission established to draft revised party rules concluded its work here recently, Carter's agents had gained virtually every change they had sought—but the political price may well be higher than they can afford to pay.

Under intense pressure from members of the White House staff to accommodate Carter's needs, the commission produced a final report that is, with only one notable exception, a thoroughly regressive document.

Although many of the structural changes that produced reform within the party during the past decade remain intact, almost every revision promoted by the president's staff represents a step backward from the Democrats' commitment to an open process for selecting presidential nominees.

The White House's no-compromise approach produced grumbling and some defections among even stalwart Carter supporters on the commission, headed by Morley A. Winograd, chairman of Michigan's Democratic party.

The likely result: A bitter, highly publicized fight that probably will tarnish Carter's image when the proposed rules changes are considered by the Democratic National Committee in April.

The commission's sole positive accomplishment was a rules revision that will confine 1980 presidential primaries to a three-month period stretching from early March through early June.

That move was designed to halt a trend that saw numerous states advance their primaries to the earliest possible date in 1976, in an apparent effort to be among the first to attract attention and thus artificially influence the candidate selection process.

But Carter's agents successfully pressed the commission to exempt from the new rule New Hampshire—the state whose "first-in-the-nation" primary has been regularly criticized as an excessive and unhealthy influence on later primaries.

Another White House-supported rule change will require candidates to submit qualifying petitions 55 days prior to any primary. Had such a provision been in effect in 1976, two of Carter's most troublesome opponents—Sen. Frank Church of Idaho and California Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown Jr.—would have been shut out of almost every primary they entered.

Undoubtedly the most controversial scheme promoted by the president's aides is an unnecessarily complex and restrictive formula that allots convention delegates to 1980 primary contestants only if they attain a minimum percentage of the vote in each primary.

The applicable figure varies from 15 to 25 percent, with a set of exemptions and special conditions certain to confound the state Democratic officials who must administer the rules.

Prior to the commission's final meeting, Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., a member of the commission and one of the most respected members of Congress, personally warned Carter about the retrograde proposals being advanced in the name of the president.

According to the congressman, Carter asked Fraser to submit a written summary of his views. After that letter was received, Fraser met with Hamilton Jordan, widely regarded as one of Carter's most influential advisors.

Jordan's message to Fraser: The disputed proposals were being fully supported at the highest levels of the White House and there would be no Carter compromise on the most controversial of the issues.

In other words, the man who ran for president as a reformer is acting very much like an old-line politician while preparing to seek a second term in office.

Critics Wary of Translating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now the critics of the Panama Canal treaty say they're worried that it may gain — or lose — something in the translation.

What they're really looking for is an argument that can find against the pact in the Senate. Still, they may have a point, since translating is a tricky business.

President Carter discovered that in Warsaw, when his remarks became somewhat more colorful than intended because of a faulty translation from English to Polish.

When he spoke of Polish desires for the future, it came out as "your lusts for the future."

It would hardly do to have a treaty recording U.S. lust for the canal, although the point could be argued, given the ardor of the opposition.

Translations between English and Spanish are not quite so difficult, but it turns out that there is room for argument over interpretation of the words in the treaty.

"We must contend not only with conflicting interpretations of the English text, but also the Spanish meaning of every word in the documents," said Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, who opposes ratification. He has proposed an amendment to declare the English language text binding in case of any dispute.

State Department translators and negotiators have spent about 400 hours studying the English and Spanish language of the treaties, and they say there are no substantive differences.

But translation is an imprecise science, and there is a treaty provision for consultation or mediation in case of disputes over the meaning of the words.

That is a problem in the negotiation of any treaty involving different languages. As one of the final phases of treaty negotiations, the diplomats call in their language experts to check the words in translation and try to make sure there are no significant differences in what they mean.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., claims there are not only ambiguities but errors in the canal treaty translations.

He argues that "errors in translation were very likely — at least in many instances — deliberate" so that Panama could claim the best of the bargain while U.S. negotiators could get their handwork approved by the Senate.

His complaint, and Hatch's amendment, are based on a study of the English-Spanish texts by Sylvia Costellanos, research director for a conservative group that calls itself the Senate Steering Committee.

According to her analysis, the treaty translations could lead to questions about the U.S. role as manager of the canal, about the control of traffic and about future payments of Panama.

She contends that the treaty language does not give the United States clear authority to control canal traffic, even though it grants a U.S. right "to provide for the orderly transit of ships."

"In the Spanish text, this function is expressed as the right to provide for the 'fluid transit' of vessels," she writes.

"Interpreted literally, the Spanish version of the sentence merely gives the United States the right to ensure that the ships going through the canal will have water or some liquid to sail on."

Presumably, the water will stay there, no matter what the treaty and the translators say.

The treaty pronounces the Spanish and English texts to be equally authentic. That's the language Hatch wants to amend, to make the English version binding. If he were to succeed, which is not likely, the amendment would have to be rendered into Spanish so that the Panamanians could consider it.

An amendment to the treaty would automatically require further negotiations, and more translating.

Mardi Gras Folks Shiver

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Crowds of Mardi Gras maskers huddled along parade routes and in the French Quarter early Tuesday braving 30-degree temperatures with beer and wine for antifreeze and layers of heavy clothes under their costumes.

"I got on two pair of socks, long underwear, heavy jeans, two T-shirts, and insulated T-shirt and this..." said Hank Glory, pulling up his purple cape to reveal a blue down vest. "I'm ready."

Glory was with the Jefferson Buzzards, an uptown marching club which starts drinking and strutting to a Dixieland band at dawn — always one of the first to head out on the long ramble to the French Quarter.

Nearby, the Lyons were also marching from tavern to tavern, doing their best to stay warm. Two guitarists were wearing big gloves as they played.

Along the main thoroughfares, where the big parades creep along with floats full of maskers throwing trinkets, families huddled beneath blankets and in bedrolls. Coolers of beer and wine were everywhere — although some folks had brought hot libations in jugs.

As the day began, they even seemed to be tolerant of the new city ordinance against drinking from glass containers anywhere in the city. As people sat along the St. Charles Ave. trolley tracks, waiting for a parade and sipping from bottles they brought in their cooler, no one swooped down for an arrest.

The bottles seemed to be tolerated, so long as the empties were stashed back in the cooler and not thrown in the gutter. Drinking is the order of the day.

almost to the point of being mandatory.

Leading up to today's climax was a series of more than 50 parades — through the suburbs, along the main streets, even up and down the Mississippi River in tugboats, whistles tooting, decks scrubbed clean and superstructures decked in streamers and tinsel.

Zulu — the all-black parade that started as a spoof of the ritzy white organizations — is the first to roll today, followed by Rex then Comus winding up festivities with a night parade.

The big parades roll along the fringes of the Quarter. Mom and Dad may tow the kids down Bourbon Street for one peek at all the shenanigans, but the suburban parades — getting more elaborate every year — draw folks who want to avoid the crush of the million or so people downtown.

The parades started just as Super Bowl fever died down. The balls started even before that, about the time the rest of the world was preparing for Christmas.

The balls are fancy-dress affairs. Evening gowns for the ladies, tuxes for the men — white tie and tails if the man is anyone other than a spectator.

The final official event of Mardi Gras is the meeting of the courts of Comus and Rex at midnight. Their balls are held on opposite sides of the city auditorium.

Because the Krewe of Comus is the oldest and ritziest of all — 122 years old and exclusive in its membership — it is Rex, Lord of Misrule and King of Carnival, who walks to the Comus revelers for a toast moments before the start of Lent.

Sadat Hopes U.S. Grants Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an administration decision apparently imminent, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is putting his case for American weapons before Congress, which has the power to veto the deal.

A separate sessions with key members of the House and Senate Tuesday, the Egyptian leader is also outlining his argument that it is up to Israel to keep peace talks alive by making concessions.

"They are resorting again to the old tactics and worn-out ideas," he complained in a speech Monday to the National Press Club.

Sadat said there could be peace "in less than a week" if Israel agreed to return to its old borders and made Jerusalem an open city. He also insisted on creation of a Palestinian state.

But he offered no concessions of his own and called on the United States to be "more than a go-between" by persuading Israel to yield.

President Carter has given no hint of leaning harder on Israel. A statement by the White House Sunday night said the U.S. role is to be "a friend of both sides."

However, reports are circulating that Carter will ask Congress to approve the sale of squadron of F-15 light combat jets to Egypt.

"It's my belief that he is close to a decision," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., "and I would like to see him delay it."

Once Congress is formally notified about a weapons deal, it has 30 days in which to exercise a veto. Javits said Congress should have a chance to consider the proposal without a deadline.

Sale of the short-range jets would be the first major weapons deal with Egypt and would raise the level of concern among Israel's supporters. But Sadat said he has chosen the path of peace and would never use them against Israel.

Two weeks ago, a majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee registered its informal disapproval when the administration sounded out Congress about selling some F-15s, the most sophisticated U.S. jet fighter, to Saudi Arabia.

The administration has taken no action since then, although there are indications it may be developing a strategy of presenting a package of arms requests to Congress for Israel as well as Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — U.S. Senate hopeful Joe Christie attacked his Democratic primary opponent Tuesday, charging Rep. Bob Krueger was trying to buy the election.

"I've got news for him," Christie told a news conference. "No seat in the United States Senate is for sale. The one he Krueger is seeking belongs to the people of Texas. And in Texas, dollars don't vote people do."

Christie said Krueger had claimed that money made him the only viable candidate to challenge incumbent Republic Sen. John Tower.

Christie, former chairman of the state Insurance Board, also criticized Krueger's attendance record for votes in the U.S. House of Representatives.

And, Christie charged Krueger has been campaigning in Texas for the Democratic nomination to the Senate at the expense of taxpayers who are paying his $57,000-a-year congressional salary.

Christie chided Krueger for labeling himself an "independent Democrat." Christie said he's just a Democrat.

"And I'm the only candidate in this race who offers the voters a choice," he said.

Bill Would Cut SS Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — An election-year bill aimed at helping middle-income Americans would wipe out a big hunk of the Social Security tax increase that became law less than two months ago.

Despite such political appeal, the bill has little chance of becoming law this year, however, coming on the heels of the major Social Security tax revision enacted late last year.

The bill, introduced this week, would remove disability insurance and Medicare from the system and finance them with income tax revenues, leaving only retirees and their dependents or survivors under Social Security.

The chief reason for the bill, as spelled out by Rep. William Brodhead, D-Mich.: "The public will not stand for the rate of Social Security taxes that has been imposed."

Brodhead said thousands of taxpayer are protesting the higher Social Security taxes that went into effect on Jan. 1. And those taxes were enacted six years ago; the new taxes approved in December won't go into effect until next January.

The new financing plan would cost about $30 billion in income taxes if it became effective in 1979. President Carter has proposed an income tax cut of about that same size, but Reps. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., who are among the sponsors, say it makes more sense to pour that money into Social Security.

They say the income tax system is preferable because the rate of taxation rises as income goes up. The payroll tax applies a flat rate on wages — whether they are earned by a millionaire or a person on welfare.

If you can recall when $5 bought a night on the town for two, you're memory is remarkable for anyone so advanced in age.
